Militants want hostages under council's control

By The Associated Press

The Moslem militants who have held some 50 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for 124 days today asked the ruling Revolutionary Council to take over responsibility for the captives.

The dramatic development seemed to signal a major breakthrough toward ending the crisis. But Iranian authorities, who have said a final decision on the hostages will not be made until April or May, had no immediate comment to indicate whether they now might be freed sooner.

Just when and how the Americans will be handed over to the authorities "will be decided tonight or tomorrow," said an embassy militant reached by telephone by The Associated Press from Bonn, West Germany.

A Revolutionary Council meeting was scheduled for tonight to discuss the situation. The militants' decision to surrender the hostages, first reported by Tehran Radio, appeared to clear the way for a U.N. investigating commission to meet with them as planned.

The commission had been preparing to leave Tehran, but with the news from the embassy they decided to stay on at least until Friday.

Tehran Radio quoted the militants' spokesman as saying: "We ask the Revolutionary Council to take over the hostages, that is, American spies, from us and deal with them in any way it seems appropriate... Our responsibility is over for the hostages and we are sure that the Iranian nation will rectify whatever deviation that might arise in the pursuance of (the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's) line."

Khomeini's role in the decision of the militants was not immediately clear. But the 79-year-old revolutionary leader met this morning with President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, who has been trying to assert control over the militants.

The militants' turnabout was confirmed in another telephone interview with The AP in Bonn, in which a spokesman for the captors said they had agreed to give up responsibility for the Americans because the Iranian government was "pushing" them to do so.

Tehran Radio also quoted the spokesman for the militants as saying the decision was made because of the dispute with government authorities over whether the U.N. investigating commission should be allowed to meet with all of the hostages, seized Nov. 4.

The militants said they disagreed with the government stand approving the visit but that they did not want to be accused of weakening the revolutionary regime.

"As we have announced in our earlier statements, we believe that our dealing with America should be from a position of strength. And since the proposal for a meeting between the U.N. commission and the hostages had come from America, the grand satan, and not from the Iranian people, we rejected it," the militants said.

"But since the officials and those overseeing the matters regard our position as an infringement on the authority of the government, we therefore invite the Revolutionary Council to take over the hostages from us, because we do not want to be embroiled in a cause which is in the interest of our enemy and which will lead to no benefit for our people."

Khomeini said two weeks ago the fate of the captives would be decided by the new Iranian Parliament, to be elected next month. And Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti, the Revolutionary Council's secretary, said the Parliament would be unable to reach a decision until May.

Moreover, Bani-Sadr has set down his own three conditions for ending the crisis — the United States must admit guilt in past interference in Iranian affairs, it must pledge not to interfere in the future, and it must not block Iranian efforts to have the deposed shah and his "stolen wealth" extradited back to Iran.

Whether the revolutionary government will still adhere to this timetable and these conditions is unclear.

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghoztzadeh said earlier today that the meeting between the U.N. commission and the hostages had to take place, and that he hoped to announce today when it would take place.

"This meeting one way or the other has to be effectuated, it has got to take place, and this is a decision of the Revolutionary Council, and it's not going to be reversed," Ghoztzadeh said after meeting with the five U.N.

representatives at their Tehran hotel.

The visit was refused Tuesday and Wednesday by the militants because they had not gotten direct orders from Khomeini, the only man they say they will obey unquestionably.

Bani-Sadr said Tuesday night the Revolutionary Council, acting with Khomeini's authorization, had decided that the meeting should take place.

The militants had offered to allow the commissioners to meet with only five of the hostages to question them as alleged spies. The panel could see all the hostages only after it issued its report and convinced the United Nations the U.S. government and Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi behaved as criminals in Iran.

Both the U.N. investigators and the Revolutionary Council rejected these conditions.

The U.N. commission arrived in Tehran Feb. 23 with a mandate to investigate the regime's charges against the shah and the United States and to do what it could to resolve the U.S.-Iranian crisis.

The Carter Administration said it was given to understand that the commission's work would lead to the speedy release of the hostages, but the Iranians said the commission's only purpose was to hear their evidence against the shah and the United States.

Documents show shah gave money to Kissinger, Ford

By The Associated Press

The U.N. investigating commission in Tehran has been given documents from Iran's central bank alleging Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi gave bribes to Henry Kissinger, money to former President Gerald Ford, and gifts to Pierre S. du Pont IV and other prominent Americans. The Kissinger dossier was 14 pages long.

Ford said the allegation the shah sent him money was a "categorical lie." Du Pont's spokesman, responding to the charge the Delaware governor and former congressman got a gift from the monarch, said he "never received anything of value" from the shah. None of the others could be reached for comment.

Reporters in Tehran were not allowed to see the documents released to the commission by central bank Governor Ali Reza Nobari, but they were given photocopies of an index of the papers and written confirmation of receipt by the panel, which is investigating the regime's charges against the shah.

"Document No. 9" was labeled "bribes to Henry Kissinger," the former secretary of state who, with Chase Manhattan Bank Chairman David Rockefeller, helped get the shah's medical records to the State Department last fall but denied influence-wielding to get the monarch admitted for medical treatment.

Other documents listed were: "Deals with (former Vice President) Spiro T. Agnew; gifts to congressmen such as du Pont; a fishy carpet deal with David Rockefeller; sending money to Gerald Ford; a gift to Rockefeller; CIA activities in Iran; John Lindsay (former) mayor of New York, begs the deposed shah for favors to a private company; hiring American club-wielders" (presumably to beat up anti-shah demonstrators in the United States).

Still other documents are alleged to support the revolutionary regime's claims that the shah took government money for his own use and moved an unspecified amount out of the country.

Nobari said in a letter to the U.N. commission that the documents revealed only a fraction of the monarch's alleged crimes, "yet, if viewed and considered favorably, they appear sufficient for the extradition of the ex-shah and the return of the wealth he took out of the country and which belongs to this nation." The shah has been living in Panama since Dec. 15.

GOP candidates fade

Who else will follow Baker?

By The Associated Press

Howard H. Baker Jr., an also ran in every Republican primary and at least $500,000 in debt, has settled for his job as Senate minority leader while former president Gerald R. Ford feels an ever greater itch to try the perils of the White House course once again.

After finishing fourth in both the Vermont and Massachusetts primaries, Baker, of Tennessee, pulled out of the GOP race Wednesday, saying in Washington, "It's pretty clear the campaign isn't going anywhere."

Another Republican, Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, all but folded up his tent the same day, canceling television advertising in three key states and trimming his paid staff. "We're more or less winding things down," said Crane's campaign manager, Jerry Harkins.

In New York, Democratic challenger Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., accused President Carter of turning the U.S. foreign policy into "the laughing stock of nations throughout the world" as a consequence of the wrong way vote on a United Nations resolution opposing Israeli settlements.

Kennedy, who has hammered time and again upon Carter's economic policy, said the president's handling of foreign affairs is "prone to constant fits and starts... We must demand more than a president who is surprised not only by the Soviets, but even by his own State Department."

Kennedy also privately courted Jewish leaders in Manhattan before returning to Washington.

Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, meanwhile, said he was "nothing short of astonished," at his strong second-place showings in New England Tuesday and talked of stepping up his own efforts.

Several contested races in April 5 local elections

The annual run for positions on the City Council, school board, hospital board and Midland College board had turned into more a race than a walk-a-thon in two places by Wednesday's filing deadline.

Last-minute filings and switching for positions for the Midland City Council, mayor's office and Midland Independent School District Board of Trustees have thrust the candidates into contested races in the April 5 election.

The mayor's race has become a three-man run with the Tuesday filing by Carl Hollums Sr. for the position. Attorney Martin Allday first announced in late November he would seek that spot, and City Councilman G. Thane Akins made his move in January.

Ernest Angelo Jr., who has held the position as mayor for the past eight years, announced last November he would step down.

With Akins in the mayor's race and his Place 4 up for election, this position has drawn more applicants than any other.

Until Tuesday there were four seeking that spot on the City Council, but Raul Salazar switched to the less-crowded Place 5.

On the ballot for Place 4 are Woodrow Bailey Jr., Steve Davidson and Ronnie D. Lynch.

Incumbent Tom Sloan, who is completing his first two-year term, announced he would seek re-election to Place 5. He faces Salazar for that position.

A last minute filing for the school board puts two candidates in the race for both positions in that election.

Worthy G. Gilbert Jr. filed shortly before 5 p.m. Wednesday for Place 2 on the school board. He will oppose Bill Jackson, a Midland Realtor and former school principal. The incumbent, Joe Dominey, decided not to seek re-election.

Place 1 will pit incumbent James Ramsoure against Ron Britton. Britton, president of Britton Management Corporation, filed Wednesday a few hours before the 5 p.m. deadline.

Candidates for Midland County Hospital District board of directors apparently will be able to take a slow walk into their positions on the board.

Two positions are open for the at-large election, and only two persons have filed. Incumbent Pat Estes is looking to take her seat back while Martin Neill, president of a Midland mechanical contracting firm, is eyeing the chair held by Frank Cowden Jr. Cowden did not file for re-election.

Three positions are open on the Midland Junior College District board of trustees, but they will be filled by the ones who now sit there. Incumbents Reagan Legg, John W. Cooper and Frank Wright Jr. have filed for re-election. They have no opponents.

Absentee balloting for the elections will be March 17 through April 1 in one location — the business office of the school district's Administration Building, 702 N. N St.

Mortgage funds totally committed

The $29 million in bond money for the Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program has been reserved since Feb. 1, according to Harry Clark who serves as chairman of the Housing Authority of the City of Midland and the Midland Housing Finance Corporation.

Reservations from applicants were taken beginning Dec. 13. Requests for the 9% percent loan money totaled $29 million by Feb. 1. And the six participating financial institutions have a backlog of names of persons who want to apply if someone's loan fails to be approved, Clark said.

Average cost of a house purchased with this money is $45,000, described by Clark as being lower than the normal average cost of a house in Midland. This means about 500 applicants will be getting the loans, he said.

Of the commitments, 65 percent of the money went to applicants making $20,000 a year or less on their 1978 tax return. Clark explained many of these are young people who were in college last year, but have graduated and are working now.

Because of the response by the public, Clark said he was in Washington, D.C. the previous two days to see if there is a possible legal means of having another bond sale to obtain money for a second loan program. His findings will be presented at 2 p.m. March 12 in City Hall Council Chambers before the finance corporation.

"The (home) builders have indicated a strong desire in the program and the backlog of names also indicates it," he said.

Funds for a home rehabilitation program remain at $492.50. The money is being used for minor repairs on homes that underwent major rehabilitation with this fund, reported Mrs. August Wenck.

In looking at the Housing Authority's financial condition, Secretary Fred Kester noted more revenues had come in than what had been budgeted. The authority operates Hillcrest Manor, an apartment complex for low income elderly and handicapped persons.

The Housing Authority is allowed to keep a certain amount of those revenues. Kester said he was advised by officials with the Department of Housing and Urban Development the money could be used to purchase items approved by HUD. Maintenance equipment or a sprinkler system were suggested by the board.

Resolutions concerning the Housing Authority board were passed, including one in which the executive director is allowed to purchase items less than $1,000 without obtaining three bids.

Midland County to discuss its own low-interest mortgage bond plan

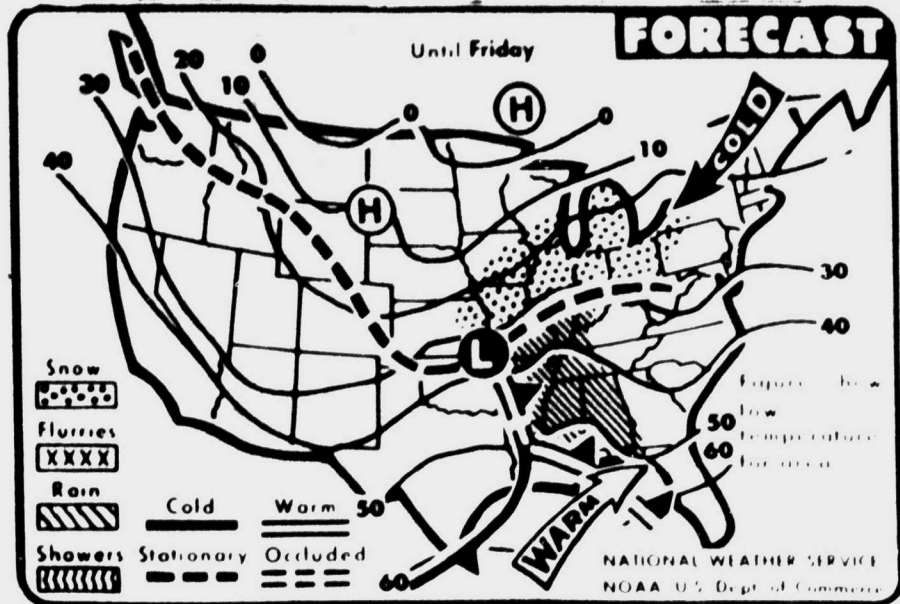

Midland County Commissioners are scheduled to discuss county participation in a low-interest mortgage bond program in a special meeting called for 10 a.m. Friday.

The commissioners are scheduled to hear a proposal from a Lubbock-based financing consulting firm at the meeting.

The court recently asked the Midland Housing Association to explore the possibility of county participation in a bond program similar to the apparently successful one sponsored by the city of Midland.

Members of the Midland Housing Finance Corp., administrators of the city's program, and the Midland Housing Association will attend the meeting Friday.

Carl Hollums files for mayor's post

Carl Hollums Sr., 26, of Midland filed Tuesday for the position as mayor of Midland. This makes him the third candidate in the race along with Martin Allday and G. Thane Akins.

Carl Hollums Sr.

Although he is concerned about street improvements in general, Hollums focused the issue on problems with several intersections and at railroad crossings.

"There are several intersections in this town that are bumpy and cause a lot of wear and tear on the car," he explained. "A lot of crossings around railroad tracks you can't get across because the railroad ties have been worn down so much."

"If it's not the city's responsibility for these crossings at railroad tracks, then why doesn't the city push the railroad company to do something?" he added.

Establishing lines of communication with the public by talking with people at shopping areas once every month or two is another idea Hollums would try.

"We need to talk to the people and find out how they feel about the city and their needs," he said.

Hollums was reared in Midland and attended Midland schools. An employee of Wallace Grocery, he is a member of Moose Lodge 1777 and the First Assembly of God Church. He served with the U.S. Army and the National Guard.

He is married and has three children. Campaign treasurer is Fred C. Jones, 2603 Mariana Ave.

Boy hurt in hit-run accident

After being struck by a car in a hit-and-run incident Wednesday morning, 9-year-old Kelly Moraz was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital by a passerby who stopped to see what was wrong.

Moraz was treated and released.

Moraz, of 1602 W. Louisiana Ave., was walking across the crosswalk in the 2000 block of West Michigan Avenue at about 9:15 a.m., police said. A car, southbound on North N Street turned onto Michigan, striking the boy, according to reports. Moraz was reportedly thrown across the street into a yard. He later told officers that he got up and walked to the alley of Kent and Ohio streets, where Mark Miller of 1305 Delmar Drive stopped, asked Moraz what was wrong and took him to the hospital.

Lt. H.M. Wicker with the Midland Police Department said there was probably no damage to the car and that the chances of finding the person driving were slim unless someone witnessed the accident.

"We are requesting assistance from anyone who might have seen anything," he said.

Pakistan rejects American aid offer

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan rejected an offer of $100 million in U.S. aid to strengthen its defenses against the Russians in neighboring Afghanistan. It said it would depend on its own "unity and strength" and the "time tested friendship" of China.

Zia ul-Haq, President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq's foreign affairs adviser, told a meeting of municipal leaders Wednesday "Pakistan has specifically dissociated itself from any U.S. initiative to introduce the relevant (aid) legislation in the American Congress."

He said President Carter's offer of $200 million in military aid and $200 million in economic aid over a two-year period was too small to improve Pakistan's defense capability. Zia called the offer "peanuts" when Carter first made it in January.

"It is our considered view that for its security, Pakistan must depend primarily on its national unity and strength," as well as the time-tested friendship of China," said Shahi. "It will not be prudent on our part to be dependent for our security on any single power."

He also said Pakistan "could not ignore the fact that U.S. sensitivity to the Indian reaction appeared to determine the size and nature of the aid package, denuding it of relevance to our defensive capability."

Pakistan reportedly sought about $1 billion worth of U.S. weapons for its armed forces, ravaged by three lost wars with India over the past three decades. India had protested any major U.S. rearmament of its traditional enemy, fearing the weapons might be used against it.

In Washington, the State Department declined to comment on Shahi's statement, saying it had received "no formal notification" of the Pakistani position.

In a related development, Zia reportedly told the Soviet Union he would agree to the stationing of international troops "both inside and along the borders of Afghanistan to guarantee against any interference from the Pakistani side."

The Soviet government has repeatedly charged that the anti-communist Moslem rebels fighting the Afghan communist regime are being armed and trained in Pakistan by the United States, China, Pakistan and Egypt.

Mental patient escapee returns

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — A man who escaped from the Terrell State Hospital and triggered a concentrated manhunt today returned to the mental hospital and voluntarily surrendered.

"He came in of his own free will. There was no one with him other than his wife," said Noel Woodley, assistant superintendent at Terrell.

Woodley said the man, identified as James Edward Jones, 36, had escaped last December shortly after he was committed by a court order in an action brought by Jones' wife.

Woodley said Jones was unarmed when he returned to Terrell about 9 a.m. today. He said Jones was committed for 90 days, and despite the escape, he would be released later this month when the 90 days expire unless he is re-committed by another court order.

The news of Jones' return ended an intense manhunt for him in southeastern Collin County, near Nevada, where Jones' wife lives in a farmhouse.

The search was launched after Collin County Sheriff Jerry Burton said Jones told him on the phone Wednesday he was not going back to Terrell. Burton said Jones told him to bring all the "firepower" he could if he expected to force Jones to return to the mental hospital.

Police then surrounded the Jones farmhouse, and after a 5 1/2-hour standoff officers stormed the residence only to find it vacant. Deputies said they were told Jones was armed with a machine gun and a hand grenade, but no weapons were found.

Six more killed as fire strike continues

CHICAGO (AP) — As six more people died in fires, Chicago's firefighters voted to continue their 21-day strike, rejecting a letter of agreement which Mayor Jane Byrne said called for a return to work in exchange for limited amnesty.

Some 3,000 members of the Chicago Fire Fighters Union turned down the agreement Wednesday at the urging of their jailed president, Frank Muscare.

Muscare, sentenced Feb. 21 to five months in jail for defying a back-to-work order, spoke to the membership by telephone from the Cook County Jail.

"I don't care if I sit in here for five months," he told them.

Also urging the membership to reject the agreement were the local union's executive board and Frank Palumbo, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Fire Fighters.

Palumbo met with Mrs. Byrne earlier Wednesday to get clarification of the city's position on amnesty. Palumbo then briefed the union's executive board, which in turn took the question to the membership.

Mrs. Byrne said the discussions with Palumbo centered around questions the union raised over a letter of agreement drafted Feb. 22. William Lee, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, had said the Feb. 22 letter included total amnesty for firefighters who left their jobs Feb. 14.

Since the strike began, 17 persons have died, including six Wednesday.

I frequently wake up at night with a painful cramp in my leg. Is there anything I can do about it? — Mrs. G.S.

ANSWER: The Health Insurance Institute says you may be able to get permanent relief through a simple exercise that costs nothing and takes only seconds a day.

Here's what Dr. Harry W. Daniell of Redding, Calif., suggests. Stand with shoes off, facing a wall two to three feet away and then lean forward, using hands and arms to regulate forward tilt and keeping the heels in contact with the floor, until you feel a moderately intense, but not painful, pulling sensation. Hold the stretching position for 10 seconds, then repeat after a five-second period of relaxation.

Dr. Daniell says, "This simple stretch exercise has worked effectively for nearly 50 adults suffering from recurrent leg cramps."

Grand jury fails to indict officers

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A Wichita County grand jury refused Wednesday to indict two police officers involved in the shooting death of a Mexican national stopped for a curfew violation after last year's disastrous tornado.

It was the second time that a county grand jury returned a no-bill in the shooting death.

Rosendo Sosa Ortiz, a Mexican national, was shot to death last April 16.

Police officer Jay Wright said he shot Sosa Ortiz after the man allegedly reached toward his pocket after Wright and officer John Bailey had stopped an automobile occupied by Sosa Ortiz and another man.

Wichita Falls city officials had imposed a curfew following the tornado in an attempt to curb looting.

Before deciding to return a no-bill in the case, grand jurors listened to testimony from investigators sent here by Texas Attorney General Mark White, Filberto Delgado, the other occupant of the car, and Dr. Nello Brown, a pathologist.

White sent investigators to Wichita Falls to assist local authorities in the investigation of the shooting death.

The first grand jury to refuse to return an indictment in the case did so about 11 months ago, said Don Tompkin, an assistant district attorney.

Midland YMCAs plan first Caravan Camp

The Midland YMCAs have announced that the first of their three Caravan Camps will be to Florida June 16-26.

Boys and girls ages 10 to 16 are eligible to attend the Florida Caravan Camp. A minimum of 14 boys and girls and a maximum of 28 will participate.

"Caravan camping is a unique approach to the traditional camping," David Graunke, YMCA camping director, said. "It is a mobile camp that travels to events and locations giving kids a chance to see some places never visited."

Activities will include two days at Disney World, River Country and Sea World in Orlando, an African safari to Busch Gardens in Tampa, the Everglades, swimming in Atlantic Ocean, Key West and Six Flags over Texas in Arlington.

All activities, room and board, transportation, insurance, entertainment fees and staff are covered in the cost per camper of $300. Fifty dollars should be paid upon registration, with the balance of $250 paid by June 1.

For additional information, contact Graunke at the YMCA camping office at 682-2551.

An emotional error

During 1975 Jimmy Carter rode an unusual wave of concern in the American electorate into the White House. The American voters had been shocked and disheartened by the revelations of Watergate and shattered by watching an American president resign his office in disgrace. What some wanted at that time was a president far removed from the taint of Washington corruption, someone above reproach. From that standpoint, Jimmy Carter appealed to the voters. He convinced many that he was just the type of candidate they were seeking. Now, four years later, many of those supporters have realized their mistake. President Carter may have been what they were looking for from the standpoint of being removed from the corruption in Washington, D.C. But by the very fact that he was new to both Washington and its international dealings, he was inherently naive to international politics. This year the voters have another major decision to make regarding the future leadership of this country. That decision must be made carefully.

We've all seen the Democratic and Republican candidates this time around on television, in the newspapers, and heard them on radio. We have some indication of their backgrounds, their stands on the issues of the day and their political leanings. But before we make our decision this time around, we should be certain to weigh all the pros and cons, the negative possibilities along with the positive. It's an unfortunate fact of human life, perhaps, that we have to learn from our mistakes. But we should feel fortunate that we do have the capability of learning via our errors. Hindsight has always been much better, in some ways, than foresight. It was a mistake, in retrospect, to ask someone unfamiliar with Washington politics to be our nation's highest elected politician. Was it worth the concern felt in 1975? We don't believe it was. Voters overreacted. Any endorsement this newspaper makes will come later, after the Democratic and Republican nominees are chosen.

This is merely a comment that we believe American voters were incorrect in assuming that it would be better to have as our president someone totally "removed from Washington" than to have someone more familiar with international politics even if more susceptible, possibly, to the corrupting forces in our nation's capitol. Hopefully this time around we won't make the same mistake. We should evaluate the candidates carefully, in the primaries and in the November general election, and carefully choose the candidate who appears best suited for the job. The next president, whomever he may be, must be a strong leader both on the international scene and domestically. He will have more than enough problems on both fronts. And, from now on, we should maintain considerable control over the emotional forces at play in our country and not let those forces solely guide our political choices.

Carter advisers hedging on Jewish aid

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's chary approach to the problem of how to gain the release of the American hostages held by fanatic Iranian militants is understandable: He wants to bring our diplomats back alive. Inexcusable, however, is the decision at the top levels of his administration to refuse refugee to Iranian Jews who are seeking escape from persecution by Ayatollah Khomeini's rabidly religious followers. An estimated 100 Iranian Jews, fearful of their lives at the hands of the new Islamic rulers, recently fled Tehran and arrived in Europe. By edict of President Carter's special Iranian crisis team, they have been consigned to limbo in Paris and London, waiting desperately for permission to come to the United States as political exiles.

In contrast, Carter opened the doors to the shah despite explicit warnings that his admission would trigger violence against Americans in Iran. One secret cable, dated Aug. 2, 1979, predicted that the U.S. Embassy would be attacked and American hostages would be seized. State Department officials, meanwhile, admit that the Jewish refugees are being barred lest Khomeini's government be offended. "The Jews have been put on a back burner," one insider explained. "Human rights interest — to let them in — is not part of our national interest."

Competent sources have confided that the decision to lower an Iron Curtain on the refugee Iranian Jews was contained in a directive from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, after consultation with Carter. A congressional group met recently with State Department and White House representatives in hope of easing the U.S. restrictions. They were rebuffed. "They don't want to antagonize Khomeini," a State Department official told my reporter Lucette Lagnado. "If we were to have an official position that Iran is persecuting a number of their people, that would be a major slight."

There are uglier overtones in the attitude of U.S. consular officials abroad who have been petitioned by Iranian Jews for visas that would enable them to find haven in our country. "There is sheer antagonism on the part of American workers abroad toward those Iranians," a State Department source said.

A congressional observer added: "It's like Germany in the 1930s, when immigration red tape prevented many Jews from escaping Adolf Hitler's holocaust."

Jews in Iran, as well as other Islamic sects and a small minority of Christians, are living in constant dread that revolutionary tribunals might order their executions on the flimsiest of grounds. Many on the regime's "enemies list" are under suspicion for having "Zionist ties," which often means nothing more than having a relative or two in Israel. We've learned that airport guards are in possession of the list, and any Jew attempting to leave the country could be arrested.

Many members of Iran's Jewish community were successful businessmen when the shah ruled, and now they are automatically suspect. Some who have escaped have recounted horror stories of being kept under surveillance, of having their phones

ART BUCHWALD

All that really matters is buying a pair of shoes

WASHINGTON — The bottom line in the presidential race is money — or the lack of it. Everyone, including John Connally, the greatest campaign fund-raiser of them all, is running out of cash and the primaries have just begun.

The Reagan people are making deep cuts in their budgets, and the ones on salary at Kennedy Headquarters are never certain if they will get paid or not.

While many campaign workers are very committed to the candidates they are working for, they still have to deal with such small problems as eating and paying their rent.

How do you keep your help during a campaign when there is no money in the till?

I would guess this scene is being played out in the headquarters of every presidential candidate right now.

George, I want you to know that you're doing a terrific job in the mailroom.

Thank you very much. I didn't get my check this week.

That's what I wanted to speak to you about. Did you ever hear the nursery rhyme about Old Mother Hubbard?

I think so. I didn't get my check from last week either. And don't tell me it's in the mail because I work in the mailroom.

We would never lie to you, George. That's why our man wants to be President. He feels the American people have been lied to long enough.

Art Buchwald

The truth of the matter is that we have the choice of either paying you or printing up 500 bumper stickers.

Bumper stickers don't need shoes.

I know how you feel, George, but the very life of this country is at stake. If our man doesn't get elected, no one in this country will be able to afford shoes. You have to think of the future. If we win, we can turn the economy around, and also regain the respect of nations throughout the world. Our man will lick inflation and bring new dignity and stature to the highest office in the land.

What you're saying is I'm not going to get my check.

George, if our man becomes President how would you like to be the Ambassador to France?

You promised that job to the guy who installed the telephones.

Well, how about Secretary of Defense then?

What's it pay?

Seventy thousand plus a chauffeur. What else have you got?

There might always be an opening on the Supreme Court.

They're always fighting amongst themselves up there. I don't think I'd like that.

Well, with your background, George, I'm sure there would be no problem making you Postmaster General.

Rumor has it you already promised that to a gal who's been stuffing envelopes. Look man, couldn't I just have $50 to see me through the week?

I could give it to you George — but it would be wrong.

WATCH ON WASTE: Congress began its annual spending binge this year with a traditional boondoggle. The lawmakers mailed out 1.1 million calendars to the taxpayers, who wind up paying the freight. Each congressman gets 2,500 of the special calendars annually and gets some free publicity with the voters by having his name stamped on them. The cost of preparing the calendars was about $600,000, but that doesn't include the money spent for envelopes and postage fees. Last year, the venture cost the Treasury $2 million.

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

Argentine military more capable of running country

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

In Argentina, "there is no possible combination of civilian forces" that could now govern the country better than the Argentine military.

That, in essence, is the opinion of the Buenos Aires Herald, the oldest English-language daily newspaper in Latin America.

Much the same might be said about some other American republics where the armed forces are running things.

But the Herald made the claim only with reference to Argentina, a nation whose history has been followed closely enough over the years to permit study by those interested in the problems of democracy.

Argentina is the third-largest nation in Latin America. Only Brazil is bigger in both population and area, and Mexico, in population alone.

Still, Argentina surpasses them both in many other respects. The Argentine people are better fed, better educated, and generally enjoy a much higher standard of living.

However, Argentine political history indicates that one thing Argentines do not seem to have learned is to govern themselves.

To say that it all started with the rise of then-Col. Juan Domingo Peron to the presidency is an oversimplification. Yet Peron, who had a distinguished military career that stretched over 32 years before he first got involved in politics, won the presidency in 1946 in what were then termed the cleanest Argentine elections since 1916. The labor vote and the ballots of those Argentines who were dissatisfied with the major political parties were what carried him to power. By 1955, though, Peron, who had been re-elected in 1952, had lost considerable popularity and began having difficulty communicating with the Argentine people. The military was able to topple him.

The armed forces held elections in 1958 and 1963 but neither of the civilian presidents elected was able to serve out his term. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía took over the presidency in 1966, but was deposed, as was Gen. Roberto Levingston in 1971. Gen. Alejandro Lanusse held elections in 1973 in which for the first time since Peron's ouster, the Peronists were allowed to run candidates. Dr. Hector Campora, a trusted Peron aide, won and, after a few weeks, resigned so that Peron and his young wife, Maria Estela, could be elected president and vice president. Mrs. Peron assumed the presidency when Peron died July 1, 1974, but was unable to control even the radical wing of the Peronist movement. To the relief of most Argentines, the military again took over the government in 1976 and Gen. Jorge Rafael Videla has been president since then. His term is scheduled to end in March 1981.

To complicate the political confusion, during most of the 1970s Argentina also had to fight against terrorists and guerrillas who, originally, at least, were presumed to be fighting for the return of Peron.

During the period of that conflict, in the heat of battle, as President Videla himself has said, atrocities were committed, by government forces, as well as by the subversives.

From abroad, principally the United States, a propaganda offensive was waged against the Argentine military government. The impression was created that what Argentina needed most was a return to civilian government and the retreat of the armed forces to their barracks.

The Buenos Aires Herald, which is justly famed for its outspoken comments on Argentine affairs, including its defense of human rights, does not take such a simplistic view of the situation.

"It is quite clear that now, and for several years to come, there is no possible combination of civilian forces that could not merely provide the country with good government but would also be strong enough to resist the challenges from extremists of right and left, neither of which have any compunction at all about using violence to attain their objectives.

"The movement away from military authoritarianism to civilian democracy will have to be gradual if the end result is to be an elected government that can rely on the armed forces to help it ward off threats from its undemocratic foes," the Herald said.

'Tonto' Silverheels dies, aged 62

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Jay Silverheels, the full-blooded Mohawk known to millions of television viewers as the Lone Ranger's faithful Indian companion Tonto, has died at the age of 62.

A Canadian-born athlete and actor, Silverheels died Wednesday at the Motion Picture and Television Country House of complications from a bout with pneumonia. He had been hospitalized there since Jan. 25, suffering from the effects of a stroke he suffered 5 1/2 years ago.

"I am deeply saddened," said Clayton Moore, who starred as the masked Lone Ranger in the long-running television series.

"He was a great man. He was a perfect gentleman and a true fighter for the Indian cause. I'm going to miss him very much. Jay had a great sense of humor and, believe me, I know all the world will miss Jay Silverheels as Tonto," Moore said.

Born Harold J. Smith on the Six Nations Indian Reservation in Ontario, Canada, he was given the name Silverheels by a Mohawk tribal elder. He used it as his stage name, legally changing his name to Silverheels nine years ago.

Arriving in Hollywood in 1933 as a professional lacrosse player and semi-professional hockey player, Silverheels by 1938 had turned to films as an extra at the urging of sports-minded actor Joe E. Brown.

A tireless supporter of Indian causes, Silverheels first big screen role was as an Indian prince in "The Captain from Castille." He starred as the Indian chief Geronimo in three movies: "Broken Arrow," "Battle at Apache Pass" and "Walk the Proud Land."

He played Tonto in all 221 televised episodes of the "Lone Ranger" and two Lone Ranger movies, riding through hundreds of death-defying adventures with his "kemo sabe" — Iroquois for faithful friend.

The ABC-TV series, a spin-off from Fran Striker's 1930s radio program, ran from 1949 to 1957. Rerun on CBS and NBC through 1961, it is still widely syndicated.

Last August, Silverheels became the first American Indian to have his star set in Hollywood's Walk of Fame.

Klondike youths Jim Bob Beam, 14, and Angie Airhart, 15, got into the money when their Limousin steers won the grand championships in 1979 and 1980 in the Houston Livestock Show. Angie's calf, Geoffery Beene and nicknamed "Brother," won her $110,000 last weekend. Jim Bob's calf, Yackley, grossed him $70,000 in last year's show. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Klondike kids make top showing

KLONDIKE — Geoffery Beene made a good showing in Houston, just like his fellow Limousin, Yackley, did the year before, and paid off 52-to-1. He was a good investment and bet. "We knew we had a good chance," said 15-year-old Angie Airhart, "but we didn't know it would be that good."

What was good was the $110,000 Angie won for showing the star 1,292-pound steer, Geoffery Beene, at the Houston Livestock Show last weekend.

The top bid, which came to $85.13 a pound, for the show's grand champion hunk of beef was the largest worldwide sum paid for a head of cattle at an auction. It bested last year's top bid by $40,000.

Angie, a sophomore at Klondike High School southeast of Lamesa in Dawson County, hasn't received the money yet. But when she does, she — and her parents, Donald and Barbara Airhart — will see that it gets routed to her likin' and benefit over the long haul.

"I guess I will pay the feed bills," said the fair-haired lass. "Hopefully, maybe get me a car. Buy mom something."

"That's sweet," sighed her mother, who said Angie also would be buying more show steers.

"I guess the rest of it will go to college," Angie said of what's left over after taxes, bills, the car and mom's gift.

Geoffery Beene, whom she affectionately nicknamed "Brother" because he became part of the family, came into the Airhart household from Canada via Goldthwaite in Central Texas. The Airharts, who are cotton farmers, paid $2,000 for the calf, which Angie raised, fed and groomed with one thing in mind: the grand prize. "Brother" was one of 1,700 steers who went down to compete for the money; 500 got sifted out, and 1,200 bellowing calf-steers were in the running. Brother's buyers were Houston real estate-development executives Tommy Steele, Earl Gilbert, Doug Potts and Homer Scott who will get the steer's hide after the slaughter.

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

Prior to the Houston show, "Brother" already had won grand championships in fairs and livestock shows at Lamesa, Lubbock and Stanton but fell short of grand awards in shows in Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

The fact that a Dawson County youth showed the grand champion steer came as no real surprise to many livestock producers.

Last year's champ, Yackley, a 1,305-pound Limousin from South Dakota, was shown by 14-year-old Jim Bob Beam, who's a freshman at Klondike and is son of Jim and Linda Beam, who also farm in the Klondike area.

Jim Bob, thanks to Yackley's good showing, picked up $70,000 in the Houston show last year. The four Houston executives who bought Angie's Brother purchased Jim Bob's Yackley.

The steer performed well. "That's what we bought him for — to take him to Houston," said Jim Bob, who already has spent part of his windfall and socked away the rest of what Uncle Sam didn't lay claim to.

"I got me 18 registered Limousin heifers," said Jim Bob. "Paid some bills and put some back for college."

In recent years, Dawson and Martin County youth have been turning out top beef — livestock which have won grand champion or reserve grand champion ribbons and thousands of dollar bills in big-time shows. Family names such as Holcomb, Yates, Newman, Senter, Deatherage, Harris, Beam and Airhart seem to be sound bets at any livestock show.

A Newman lad, Kevin, 15, of Stanton, showed the reserve grand champion steer, a Maine-Anjou named "Bashful," at the Houston show and wound up with $52,000.

Kevin will have another shot at winning the grand champion steer in Houston. But Angie and Jim Bob won't have a prayer for a second win. Rules forbid it, though they can enter swine or sheep.

And Jim Bob says that's all right. "I can't show a steer any more in Houston," he said. "We can show anything else."

But, Jim Bob said with a certain confidence, being eliminated by winning is "the way to go."

'Chattanooga Choo Choo' makes 100th anniversary run

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — On the 100th anniversary of its first run — and a decade after it ended — the "Chattanooga Choo Choo" from Cincinnati pulled into this Tennessee city.

For the first time since 1970, passengers took the eight-hour trip, dancing to the 1941 song made popular by Glenn Miller.

Sponsoring the special run was the Chattanooga Choo-Choo Co., formed when Chattanooga businessmen in 1972 created a hotel-restaurant complex by renovating the old Terminal Station.

Board Chairman B. Allen Casey said Wednesday was the 100th anniversary of the start of passenger service between Cincinnati and Chattanooga.

He said a Cincinnati reporter coined the name "Chattanooga Choo Choo" in 1880. But the song made popular by Miller referred to a train that left New York City's Pennsylvania Station — at a quarter to four.

"All the nostalgia of America was wrapped up in this song," James Bistline, assistant to the chairman of Southern Railway Co., said before departing Cincinnati. "It symbolized people going home. People just sort of took it to their hearts."

Harry Warren, now 86, composer of the song, was invited to attend the festivities but was ill and unable to make the trip from his California home. Lyricist Mack Gordon died in 1972.

Warren has never visited Chattanooga. He said in an interview two years ago that band leader Miller wanted a song about a train, not the city. Warren said Gordon came up with the words which seemed to fit Warren's melody.

Clayton would abandon race for speakership if indicted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bill Clayton says he would abandon his race for an unprecedented fourth term as House speaker if he has been indicted but not tried on FBI Brilab allegations when the Legislature convenes in January 1981.

Clayton said Wednesday he will appear before a federal grand jury in Houston on March 17, and his "tentative plan" is to testify and not invoke his Fifth Amendment right to remain silent.

"I'll be there," he told reporters.

An FBI informant in the Brilab (bribery and labor) investigation visited Clayton on Nov. 8 with Houston labor leader L.G. Moore. Clayton said the informant, Joseph Hauser, pretended to be seeking a state group insurance contract for Prudential Insurance Co. and requested his help.

The speaker said Moore left a "political contribution" of $5,000 in cash, which Clayton said he intended to return but never did. Clayton said there was no wrongdoing or criminal intent on his part.

Clayton said there was only one condition under which he would drop out of the race for speaker of the 1981 Legislature.

"There is no question in my mind that if (I) were indicted and couldn't get a trial to vindicate and clear myself before the beginning of the next session (of the Legislature), I certainly would not be a candidate for re-election to the speakership," he said.

"I have confidence I might be able to get by without having to go to that," he said.

But he added, "I certainly would not want to be sitting in the chair with an indictment hanging over my head and the thing not cleared up."

If indicted, Clayton said, he would request an expedited trial in an effort to have a verdict before House members elect a speaker in January.

Clayton said if the grand jury does not indict him, "I would consider that a clean bill of health from the grand jury."

He said Gov. Bill Clements' decision not to call a special legislative session this summer made "time a more flexible element in the picture."

A number of House members are soliciting pledges to votes for them to be speaker should Clayton drop out of the race.

Audit report lists spending

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland spent $60,403 during fiscal year 1979, according to a state auditor's report.

The audit report showed several categories of expenditures including salaries and constitutional per diem, $51,411; supplies and materials, $1,345; communications expense, $553; operating expense, $3,263; travel expense, $1,264; services and fees, $468; and postage expense, $1,897.

Sen. Walter H Mengden Jr. of Houston had the largest expenditure — $140,558, while former Sen. A.M. Alkin Jr. of Paris had the smallest expenses — $462.

Senate members' salaries, per diem and constitutional mileage expenses were charged to a different account and were not included in the total expenditures.

Early diagnosis of cancer will usually give patient better chance of recovery

Dear Dr. Solomon: In my community, a number of agencies are sponsoring a "Pap test" week in order to encourage women to have the test done either in their doctor's office or in free clinics. Is this test necessary for a woman who has no symptoms of any disorder? — Mrs. P.R.

Dear Mrs. R.: The Pap test is one of our most valuable screening procedures. Through its use, cervical cancer cells can be detected at an early stage, making possible treatment for the condition before it spreads. At that stage, there generally are no symptoms.

Researchers at the University of Toronto in Canada compared the histories of more than 300 women with invasive cervical cancer (that is, cancer that has spread) with those of over a thousand controls. They found that five years prior to the year of diagnosis, 32 percent of the cancer patients had been screened by the Pap smear, as compared with the controls, indicating that women who were not screened demonstrated a 2.9 times greater risk of developing invasive cervical cancer than those who had been screened.

Dear Dr. Solomon: The proctoscopic examination is a rather unpleasant experience. My doctor performs it routinely every time I go for a check-up. Is this really necessary? — Mr. S.H.W.

Dear Mr. W.: A proctoscopy is an examination of the rectum and lower colon with a lighted tube. It is possible for a physician to detect cancer of the colon and rectum in an early stage through such an examination — a stage at which these cancers respond well to treatment.

An annual proctoscopic examination is advisable for everyone 40 years of age and older. According to the American Cancer Society, two of every three patients might be saved if the disease were diagnosed and treated early. Since cancer of the colon and rectum is the second leading cause of death from cancer, you can see how important it is to use every means possible for early detection.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I quit smoking six months ago, and it was no easy task. Now, my wife is urging me to stop drinking coffee, as I have about six cups a day. It would be very hard for me to give up this pleasure, too — especially if I don't have cigarettes to fall back on for solace. Is the coffee drinking as harmful as the smoking? — Jim.

Dear Jim: If you had to choose between smoking and coffee, giving up cigarettes was certainly the wise choice — especially since you also are a coffee drinker.

According to a study conducted at the Duke University Medical Center, the combination of smoking and coffee drinking tends to increase total cholesterol and has an adverse effect on lipoprotein levels. Coffee drinking alone appears to have no such effect.

Both savers, Fed would benefit by compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small savers could get some relief from inflation and the Federal Reserve Board would obtain more powers to battle the nation's economic disease under a compromise forged by House and Senate conferees.

The panel took action Wednesday that would remove, over a period of six years, the current 5.5 percent ceiling on passbook interest rates. In the meantime, bank regulators would be encouraged to increase passbook rates "as rapidly as possible" — at least 2.25 percentage points during the six-year period.

However, the conferees fell short of requiring the increases, leaving it up to a board of five federal regulators to vote on any boost in the passbook ceiling during the next six years. After that, there would be no ceiling at all.

This compromise would appear to disappoint many small saver groups seeking faster and stronger relief. People able to invest a minimum of $10,000 can earn interest rates approaching 15 percent in these inflationary times.

However, the conferees also were trying to meet the concerns of thrift institutions, who say their earnings will severely erode if forced to pay such high interest rates to passbook savers without first expanding their profit-making ventures.

To this end, the conferees agreed to allow savings and loan association to increase their volume of consumer loans, which command higher interest rates than mortgage loans.

Will Carter ask price authority?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials are debating whether to ask Congress for the authority to order companies to roll back price increases that exceed the voluntary anti-inflation guidelines, government sources say.

Another proposal would require U.S. companies to give advance notice of price increases, thus putting the government in a position to block, at least temporarily, those that are excessive.

It could not immediately be learned if similar options were being considered to strengthen enforcement of wage guidelines.

Adoption of either price proposal would strengthen the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which oversees the program. The council now learns of price increases after they have occurred and relies on adverse publicity to penalize "violators."

Although government contracts can be denied to offenders, the Carter administration has never used this penalty.

One congressional official warned that the changes "might be unpopular up here.... Pre-notification (of price increases) wouldn't be so bad. But rollbacks sound like price controls."

President Carter has opposed mandatory wage and price controls. However, a number of economists, including Barry Bosworth, who formerly headed the wage-price council, have urged controls as part of a comprehensive strategy to break the inflation cycle. So has Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Carter's chief challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Administration officials, all of whom asked not to be identified, cautioned that the study of the proposals was in the very early stages. "This is still very, very tentative," one official said. "But it is being talked about."

The review of the wage and price guidelines is part of the administration's crash effort to draft a new anti-inflation game plan in the wake of the recent announcement that consumer prices rose in January at an annual rate in excess of 18 percent.

Prices last year went up 13.3 percent, the largest jump in more than three decades.

The January inflation surge has been blamed, in part, on corporate price increases in anticipation of mandatory wage-price controls.

Alfred E. Kahn, the council's chairman, and Treasury Secretary G. William Miller sent telegrams to the nation's 500 largest corporations last weekend urging compliance with the voluntary anti-inflation standards and stating that "the president is determined that he will not impose... controls."

Other options being considered by the administration in the all-out inflation battle are spending cuts of $20 billion this year and next to decrease the federal budget deficit; some form of credit controls, though not on home and auto loans; and limits on Social Security increases.

President Carter is expected to announce his anti-inflation proposals in a speech sometime next week, according to published reports.

The price guideline adopted last fall calls for companies to hold price increases in the two years ending Sept. 30, to the same percentage change that occurred during the 1976-77 base period. Price increases of 9.5 percent or more automatically will be investigated.

This is somewhat looser than the first-year standard, which called for price increases last year a half a percentage point below the 1976-77 increase.

Other changes under consideration, administration officials confirmed, would expand the list of companies required to report prices each quarter or increase the size of the council's 60-person price-monitoring staff.

The pay standard for the second year of the anti-inflation program has not yet been adopted.

Long grain embargo could be disastrous for economy

DENVER (AP) — The United States could be rushing headlong into a disastrous economic trap if it continues an embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union that was prompted by the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, say two international farmers' leaders.

But the embargo is an extremely effective stop-gap measure for expressing American anger over the occupation, said Michael Cracknell of Paris, secretary-general of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

"The action of your government has to be a response of today," Cracknell said Wednesday at a news conference during the annual convention of the 300,000-member National Farmers Union.

"I cannot imagine that if there is a market for you in the USSR in two years' time that your country would refuse to sell," Cracknell said. "You simply cannot afford that ... They need the grain and you need the markets."

If the grain embargo continued more than one year, other countries likely would move in to fill the Soviet Union's needs and leave the United States in the cold, said Dobson Lea, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Canada has agreed not to enter into new contracts for grain sales with the Soviets and not to supply them with grain to replace what has been cut off by America. Unlike the United States, however, Canada is continuing to ship grain promised to the USSR under existing contracts.

tions among the United States, Canada and Mexico. Tony Dechant, outgoing president of the National Farmers Union, has strongly backed the idea.

But Lea and Cracknell said care must be taken to avoid conflicts between national treasuries, as they said have occurred since the creation of the well known Common Market, known formally as the European Economic Community.

That position is supported by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, Lea said. "Farmers have a responsibility to use whatever tools they have available to help out," he said.

Cracknell said his organization, which claims members from 45 countries, has made significant progress bringing the plight of farmers to the attention of world leaders.

On other issues, both Lea and Cracknell lent tentative support to the concept of a "farmer's common market" in North America that could end trade restric-

"We've seen that after 20 years of effort, the World Bank and other groups are paying attention to farmers," he said. "We're raising food as a political issue."

Hightower, Rep. Temple endorsed by AFL-CIO

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas AFL-CIO delegates have endorsed former Texas Observer editor Jim Hightower and state Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, in their races to unseat two incumbent railroad commissioners.

Some 1,200 delegates to the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) convention also endorsed candidates for state Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals — all Democrats.

Hightower seeks to unseat Commissioner Jim Nugent, who told the delegates Tuesday gas utility companies have won fewer and smaller rate increases since he joined the commission.

The COPE endorsement said Hightower has made it clear his service on the commission would be "dictated by what is best for consumers, rather than the industries regulated by the commission."

The Republican candidate is former Sen. H.J. "Doc" Blanchard of Lubbock.

For the three open places on the Supreme Court, the convention endorsed State District Judge Jim Wallace of Houston, Justice Sears McGee and Associate Justice C.L. Ray of the Texas Court of Civil Appeals.

The delegates endorsed incumbent Judges Leon Douglas, W.T. Phillips and Tom Davis for re-election to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

One delegate asked why Austin lawyer Edith Roberts was not endorsed for Davis' seat. AFL-CIO president Harry Hubbard replied that labor had "built up a rapport with the incumbents over the years."

COPE does not contribute money to statewide candidates, but its endorsement — particularly if followed up by active political efforts in union locals — could mean added votes for those receiving it.

Local COPEs will endorse legislative and congressional candidates.

A delegate from an Austin carpenters' local questioned the Temple endorsement, wondering why a "gentleman worth $1.2 million" wanted a job paying $48,000.

Billy Cowan, chairman of the committee that recommended the endorsements, replied that Temple's record in the Legislature was solidly pro-labor.

Temple is running against Commissioner John Poerner. Republican candidates are Henry Grover of Houston and John Thomas Henderson of Aus-

Youth slain by officer

DALLAS (AP) — A 15-year-old youth was shot to death by a off-duty police officer who surprised two would-be burglars at his neighbor's home, police said.

Officer James E. Smith told investigators he saw the two youths kick down the back door to his neighbor's home and go inside, said police spokesman Bob Shaw. While Smith's wife called police, Shaw said, the officer took his pistol and went next door.

One of the youths, holding a loaded pistol, fled down a hallway, while the other slammed a door on Smith's head, Shaw said. Smith fired twice, striking that suspect both times, Shaw said.

Two Midland students at Texas Tech University at Lubbock are serving this year as members of the staff of the university's newspaper, The University Daily.

They are Carmon McCain, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. McCain, 400 Holmsley, and W. Reagan White Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Reagan White, 2108 Western.

McCain is a junior majoring in journalism-public relations and reporter for the newspaper. He is a 1976 graduate of Midland High School. White, a junior majoring in pre-veterinary studies, also is a reporter for the publication. He is a 1978 graduate of MHS...

REMINDER TO MIDLAND MOTORISTS: Please be extra careful to watch for children on bicycles because the public schools are closed for spring break and more of them are out riding on the streets during the day. It is true they should watch out for traffic, but they don't always remember to do so. A good idea is to be careful all through the school year, not only for bikes, but for students walking out from behind parked cars.

'Ghettoization' causes fear

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "Horror stories" about the young injuring the old result from America's "ghettoization" of elderly persons, says the founder of the Gray Panthers.

"What we have done is build up this mountain of fear, and it makes our whole society sick," Maggie Kuhn, 74, said recently.

She was here for appearances at the University of Texas and Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

While newspapers are full of stories about violence against the old by the young, Miss Kuhn said the Gray Panthers are a "coalition of all ages."

"We discovered in the past few years the old and the young have an enormous stake in societal change. Together we can heal our sick society. ... Parts of it are dead but not buried," she said.

She acknowledged the growing awareness that young persons sometimes physically abuse the elderly.

"The horror stories ... are part of the disastrous social consequences of rigid age segregation, where children grow up never knowing old persons. When old people are ghettoized in retirement homes and senior high rises, they are shut away from children," Miss Kuhn said.

Alternatives include new housing arrangements and designs that enable people of different generations to live together, she said.

Miss Kuhn also said zoning laws and housing codes need to be changed to allow "extended families not based on kinship" to reside under one roof.

She said she lives with a young minister and his family but might be in violation of zoning laws.

Gray Panthers do not endorse political candidates, but Miss Kuhn left no doubt how she feels about two presidential hopefuls. She said President Carter's attempt to reinstitute registration for the military draft was an attempt to win "re-election at the cost of the lives of the young." Miss Kuhn said Ronald Reagan's age should not "be held against him. It's his ideas I'm against."

She called herself a radical — favoring socialized medicine, opposing nuclear power and mandatory retirement and seeking general tax financing of social security.

But retirement and old age can free a person to fight for deep-rooted change in society, she added.

"You can't be fired. If you kept your nose clean while earning a living, after you are forced out, you are free. If you care about your children and grandchildren and great-grandchildren, you are going to become a radical," Miss Kuhn said.

Museum has new plans for Lancaster House

When the executive committee of Lancaster Garden Center met recently at the center, the topic of discussion was a request by the Museum of the Southwest that the Garden Center vacate the property so Lancaster House can be used for the museum's exhibits.

The committee announced it will recommend to the board of Lancaster Garden Center that the rent continue to be paid the museum until May 1, at which time the Garden Center will leave the premises, and that the center's properties be stored if a suitable location cannot be found by the deadline.

A choice of names to be considered will be recommended also, since the Lancaster Center no longer can be used. Among the names suggested were Council of Garden Clubs, Midland Garden Forum and Tall City Gardeners.

Eleven garden clubs and plant societies, as well as the Doll Club of the Permian Basin are member clubs of the Garden Center and the committee believes they should continue together in this new turn of events, according to a spokesman.

Executive committee members attending were Mrs. A.P. Shirey, coordinator; Mrs. H.L. Bond, treasurer; Mrs. Don Warren, recording secretary; Mrs. H.H. Lanford and Mrs. H.H. Lanford, corresponding secretary. Not present was Mrs. William L. Drake, assistant coordinator.

AT WIT'S END

By ERMA BOMBECK

I saw an ad for new cars in the paper a couple of weeks ago that said, "The boss left town and am I having fun! I'm giving new cars away. But hurry! I'm dealing like there's no tomorrow." Signed, "Howard."

Well, for the next couple of days I watched the papers for a follow-up ad: "Wanted: Replacement for fun-loving, fast-dealing Howard who has no tomorrow." Signed, "You-know-who."

I even scanned the news stories on homicides and aggravated assault, but none of them were car salesmen who met violence at the hands of their bosses, so I gave up. It's really hard to say at what age you become suspicious of a sales pitch. Some people want to believe in promises and claims longer than others.

They want to know that somewhere there's a pair of gym shoes that will make them jump higher than a basketball hoop... or yogurt that will make them start speaking French, or even an aftershave lotion that will make them a legend in their own time.

Where were you and what were you doing when you stopped believing in sales pitches?

My daughter succumbed to reality the day she bought a shampoo guaranteed to give her fat, bouncy, sensuous hair and have every boy in the school salivating. Not only did no one notice, her best friend asked her if she was going to stay home and wash her hair that night.

My son lost faith when he sent off three boxtops and $3 for an infantry battalion of Confederate soldiers, two divisions of Union forges, four cannons, five forts, a pastoral plantation,

Residents protest speeding

LEAGUE CITY, Texas (AP) — Angry residents in this Galveston county community have figured out a novel — albeit dangerous — method to slow down cars speeding through their neighborhood.

They step out in front of them. "When we see them speeding, we step off the curb in front of them," Mrs. Ava Wiard, 63, explained Wednesday. She said so far there have been no injuries and drivers seem to be slowing down.

The idea seems to be catching on, for five or six neighbors have joined in the Wiard's unusual form of traffic control.

and a detailed replica of Atlanta ... and it arrived in an envelope.

Me? I'm still a believer. Oh, I may waver now and again when I see the babysitter who is into "cavity fighting" and whips out a piece of chalk, dips it in a pot of paint and snaps it in half to show how it protects the enamel. But just because I don't know of anyone personally who walks around with a piece of chalk and a pot of paint in her purse doesn't mean she doesn't exist.

No, I'll go on believing that by a few simple exercises I can bring my T-shirts to a point of stress they've never known before. That by wrapping my body in a silver aluminum jump suit, I can lose 30 pounds in the afternoon as I vacuum the house. And if I play my cards right Howard will find another boss who will be dumb enough to leave him in charge of the car lot while he goes out of town.

Historian's book focuses on males today

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In response to the current flood of literature by, for and about women, a Carnegie-Mellon University professor thought it was time for a masculine look at men.

Masculinity in Western cultures is sorely troubled in both practice and theory, contends the historian, Peter N. Stearns, who has traced what he calls the "male crisis" to the industrial revolution.

Stearns, 42, has never been thrilled about cars, admits to having physical cowardice and has spent long periods of time without close male friends. In short, he lacks some of society's "manly" attributes.

"I enjoy being male," said Stearns, who is married and has three children. "Quite apart from having no alternative."

In his recently published book "Be a Man! Males in Modern Society," Stearns tries to explain the historical forces behind the "male crisis" — uncertainty about what it takes to be a man. He contends the crisis began with changing work roles during industrialization and was fueled in recent years by the feminist movement.

Men are being urged to change by the women's movement, but many don't know who they really are in the first place, Stearns said.

Home Furnishing News

SPECIAL EFFECTS in interior decorating can often be achieved subtly by the use of just a few pieces, or by the judicious use of color and accessories.

Suppose, for instance, you like the Oriental effect which is quite popular today. You don't have to go all the way to an all-oriental home. Gain the flavor you want by choosing an Oriental vase or an antique screen, or an authentic lacquered chest. Add a few brass accents, and pick up your far Eastern theme with colors such as jade, soft antique gold or peacock blue.

This way you create a pleasing Oriental atmosphere, though most of your furnishings remain American contemporary. The same principle can enable you to decorate with a Spanish theme or any other you particularly like. The result will be rooms that are not overdone, that you will not grow tired of readily.

If you're one who likes to change things...and lean toward unusual effects...create them with accent pieces as we've suggested. Choose your basic furnishings, the major pieces, from our fine lines of elegant furnishings, with simplicity of line that readily adapts to many decorating moods. Come in and let us help you create the special effects of comfort and beauty you want in your home!

DEAR ABBY

Learn to take tension-break

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is a lovely Negro spiritual by the name of "Slow Me Down, Lord." I heard that you once published a prayer by that title several years ago. Could that prayer have been stolen from the spiritual of the same name? Will you please print the prayer and tell us who the author was and when it was published? — JESSE IN W. VA. DEAR JESSE: The essay "Slow Me Down, Lord," was written by Wilfred A. Peterson in 1952. Peterson said that the inspiration for his essay had come from an old Negro spiritual, but not a word of the spiritual was used. According to the author, the essay was written especially for modern business executives working under tension as a suggestion to slow down and relax.

I think it's one of the loveliest things I have ever read; its message is as relevant today as it was 28 years ago. I shall print it again with pleasure: "Slow me down, Lord! Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tensions of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magic restoring power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking Minute Vacations ... of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book. Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise that I may know that the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than increasing its speed. Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well. Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny. Amen." CONFIDENTIAL TO DOUBTING DONNA: It's true. The Wall Street Journal reported (as a business item) that available for sale is a tiny tape-playing device that fits inside a refrigerator, and every time the door is opened, a voice says, "Are you eating again? No wonder you look the way you do. Do yourself a favor and shut the door!" Are you the lonely face in the crowd? Friends make you a winner, and Abby tells you how to win them in her booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby in care of this newspaper.

Manufacturers of defective infant formulas face possible prosecution, according to report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is being asked to determine whether there are grounds to prosecute the manufacturer of defective infant formulas. The request is made in a report released today by the House oversight and investigations subcommittee, which inquired into the sales last year of two soy-based formulas. The case involves the Syntex Laboratories brands Neo-Mull-Soy and Cho-Free, both of which lacked chlorine, a nutrient necessary for proper infant development. The subcommittee report said it wants to know whether the Justice Department can file suit against the Palo Alto, Calif., firm for violations of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. The report said the law apparently was broken because Syntex "mis-labeled" the formulas when it indicated the right amount of chloride and salt were added in the manufacturing process. Rep. Norman F. Lent, R-N.Y., and five other Republicans on the panel disagreed with the Democratic majority's request for a Justice Department opinion on whether Syntex should be brought to court.

Lent stated in the report that "a recommendation of criminal prosecution in this situation represents a quantum leap beyond the facts ... and beyond what is necessary to achieve the goal of safe and effective formulas." Such action is "counter-productive to the goal of assuring parents, whose allergy-suffering infants must depend on these particular products, that the products are indeed safe and effective," he said. Syntex recalled Neo-Mull-Soy and Cho-Free Aug. 2, 1979, after reports that some babies had suffered severe constipation, weight loss and lethargy. There were no reports of deaths. Hearings conducted by Reps. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., the subcommittee chairman, brought out evidence that dozens of packages of the faulty formulas still remained on grocery shelves four months after the recall. The two brands have since been reformulated to include chloride and have been given FDA approval for retail distribution. The subcommittee also recommended congressional legislation to require that all infant formulas be tested for their nutritional value before they can be marketed, and after any change in the manufacturing process.

Sterilization battle continues

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Parenthood would be disastrous for a 22-year-old mentally retarded woman whose parents are seeking court permission to have her sterilized, a psychiatrist has testified.

one other case like it in Texas. In 1969, the courts refused to order the sterilization of a 32-year-old retarded Houston woman who had already borne two children — even though the woman's parents requested it. In the current case, the woman's parents contend she should be allowed the sterilization because she has no knowledge of sexual reproduction and could not care for a child. But Donald Bayne, the attorney appointed to protect the retarded woman's legal interests, opposes the sterilization. Bayne said there is some question whether there is a possibility the woman could get married, bear children and live a normal life. Attorney Sandra Adams of Advocacy Inc., a federally funded organization for the protection of the disabled that has joined the case to oppose sterilization, contends that moderately retarded persons like this particular woman can successfully rear children.

"Judging from her ability to take care of herself, her ability to deal with the stresses of parenthood would be disastrous," Dr. William B. Donovan testified Tuesday. Donovan said the woman is affectionate and would want to care for a child, but is unable even to care for herself. The testimony came during the first day of the unusual case, believed to be only the second of its kind in Texas. County Court-at-law Judge T. Armour Ball would set a Texas legal precedent if he authorizes the tubal ligation sterilization of the unidentified parents are seeking for their adopted daughter. Records show there has been only Playgirl is looking for a few good nude men SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Playgirl magazine is looking for a few good men, attractive, muscular types — preferably out of uniform. And the fracas over military women posing in the magazine specializing in male centerfolds. Officials at the Santa Monica-based Playgirl, Inc. say they're recruiting raw talent now for a summer photo layout saluting men in power, including military men. "We've never covered — right, uncovered — men in uniform before," vice president Rand Richardson said Tuesday. "Men in Power," a four-page spread for the July issue, would feature not only military, but also policemen, pilots and other uniformed males. "We're looking for hunky guys, but not macho city," said art editor Alison Morley, who is coordinating the talent search. "They have to be good looking, relatively articulate and have good personalities," she said. Playgirl, with circulation of 4 million, will stand behind any men who find themselves in compromising positions with their commanding officers, Richardson vows. Military women posing nude or seminude for Playboy magazine have been running into trouble with the brass. One woman Marine who posed for the upcoming issue has been discharged, and in San Diego the Navy has reprimanded a 22-year-old sailor for being out of uniform and disobeying orders against outside employment that would "tend to discredit the Navy." Seven other military women posed in the April issue, but a Pentagon spokesman said there has been no decision on whether to take disciplinary action against them. Playboy's search for models also has touched off a controversy at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, where the college president has threatened to expel any coeds who pose for a "Girls of the Southwest Conference" layout. The Baptist university's student newspaper criticized the administration's stance, its editors were fired, publication was suspended this week and the news staff resigned in protest. Spokesmen for both the Navy and the Marine Corps said servicemen who pose for Playgirl would face the same penalties as the women. "They'd better make damn sure they don't have on parts of the uniform," said Bill Neal, senior chief publicist for the 11th Naval District in San Diego. "There is no specific regulation against posing for such a publication," Neal said, "but they could be in trouble if they bring disgrace to the uniform or discredit to the service." But he added, "I overheard someone saying the other day that the Playboy hulabaloo was the best thing that ever happened to Navy recruiting."

Many battered and abused women get help and hope from this shelter

BOSTON (AP) — For Angelica Curran, Anna DeLeon and Lorraine Jones (not their real names), their first ray of hope for a long time came from Casa Myrna Vasquez, a shelter for battered and abused women in Boston's south end. Mrs. Curran, 22, could take it no longer. So with her 4-year-old son, Juan, she fled from her home and a husband who beat her repeatedly during their five years of marriage to the safety of the shelter. The repeated ordeal of domestic violence was much the same as Mrs. Curran's for Mrs. DeLeon, 29, and 4-year-old daughter, Maria. "I was living in New London, Conn., when I finally decided to get some help. A local agency there referred me to Casa Myrna," she said. "I am so thankful for that. Now my husband can't find me nor can he take Maria from me." Mrs. Jones, 28, has been at the shelter for three months and is especially grateful for the help she has received. Because she had been constantly battered and abused, she divorced her husband. Then she found herself having to support herself and her child, Michael, 4, on a $250 monthly welfare check. "The rent on my apartment was $193 a month. There was no way I could make it on that," said Mrs. Jones, who now has a city, low-income rent subsidy and will soon move into an apartment she can afford, thanks to the counseling and support of the Casa Myrna staff. Casa Myrna opened in February 1977 on weekends only. It began full-time operations in July of the same year, with a 24-hour-a-day support program. "We offer protective and supportive help to women who have been physically or mentally abused, burned out or evicted, and to their children," said Curdina Hill, shelter director. Casa Myrna provides a variety of services such as food, clothing, private space and shelter, 24-hour hotline referrals and individual counseling. It also offers information, referral and advocacy assistance for housing, social services, jobs and job training, and assistance in health and legal matters. "Last year we served more than 750 women and children at the shelter," said Ms. Hill, who receives a large number of referrals from hospital emergency rooms, police stations and community agencies. "Basically, we try to help the women who come here re-establish their lives for themselves," said Ms.

Hill. "They come here with little sense of self or self worth. We try to point the way for them, to serve as models, to say 'You are someone important and you have a right to live without being battered.'" Lorraine Jones has a different perspective on life now. "I think a woman should finish her education, get a job, work for a while, and become independent. I could have avoided my situation if I had been more independent and established something for myself, rather than relying on a man to take care of me and thinking that was the way it was always going to be," said Mrs. Jones. Casa Myrna Vasquez receives funding from a variety of sources, including the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare, Community Development Block Grant funds from the City of Boston, and contributions

THE FOUR FOOD GROUPS

March is National Nutrition Month

EDITOR'S NOTE: March is National Nutrition Month, and Midlanders are encouraged to focus on eating right, not just this month but year round. This is the first of four weekly articles from the West Texas Dietetic Association, Dairy Council Inc., and Midland Meals on Wheels by Elizabeth C. Glenn, registered dietitian, and Meals on Wheels director.

Fitness myths abound, even among today's health-conscious:
 —Middle-aged and older people don't really need exercise other than walking.
 —The key to staying fit is not exercise but to control the amount you eat.
 —People who exercise work up big appetites and then eat too much, making exercise useless.
 —Too much exercising can enlarge the heart and this is bad when you stop exercising.
 —Physical fitness is a passing fad and I'm not impressed by the current emphasis on it.
 —I get enough exercise in the things I have to do every day. I don't need sports.
 —I'm too tired after all my regular activities to do any exercising.

Have you heard any of these from your friends? Do you hear yourself saying any of them?
 It's easy to be misled by health fads and fallacies. Inactive adults often take the easy out of the information maze by deciding to change their diet rather than their lifestyle. After all, exercise is work.

Others struggle with food choices due to ignorance about nutrition, laziness when it comes to self-denial or dietary self-control, or time pressures that don't allow for meal planning. Real fitness, however, involves both exercise and good nutrition. TV and magazine advertisers try to motivate viewers by showing highly-active runners, tennis players or dancers as role models in attractive settings. However, their aim is often to sell more beer or soft drinks, not good health.

Many viewers or readers may identify with the role models—59 percent of the adult public engage in some physical activity, according to a study by the Community Nutrition

FOOD

Institute—but only 15 percent of this country's adults are highly active.

The best advice for those who really care about fitness, according to registered dietitians, is to make the extra effort to exercise several times a week in a sport you enjoy and be conscious of the balance of foods you eat.

To be "food-fit," look each day to see if your diet contains foods from the four main food groups (according to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's new Dietary Food Guide): vegetable/fruit group; bread/cereal or grain group; milk/cheese group; and meat or high protein group. Avoid too many servings from the high fat, high calorie group.

March is National Nutrition Month, highlighting the twin themes of fitness and nutrition: "Hit your stride...eat smart!"

Following are some inflation hints for menu planning:

—If you have children, plan menus weekly in harmony with school menus to avoid repetition. Be flexible by using "best buys" and disguising

"leftovers."

—Study newspaper for specials offered by supermarkets and clip coupons offered by manufacturers. Do not be misled by "Manager's Special" signs, as these are not necessarily good buys, but merely a product the manager declared as his "special."

—Make out your market order with your menus, buying seasonal foods which are plentiful and economical. Generic brands are cheaper than national brands.

—Low-cost nutritious foods, such as dried beans, peas and other legumes should be included.

—Purchase economical cuts (ends and pieces) and lower grades of meats. Food value is essentially the same. Example: beef liver is cheaper than calf's liver.

—Bread is less expensive than rolls.
 —Poultry and fish are less expensive sources of protein than beef and pork.
 —Use seasonal foods, locally produced. These are plentiful and less costly.
 —Less expensive protein foods are eggs, cheese, skim milk and powdered milk.
 —Complete proteins (meat, fish, poultry) are more expensive than combining incomplete proteins such as wheat, seeds, soybeans and rice.
 —Use leftovers in appealing combinations.
 —When fresh foods are out of season or too expensive buy canned or frozen foods.

NEXT: Inflation hints for shopping.

Stuffed vegetables

By MERLE ELLIS

A U.S. Department of Agriculture news release that crossed my desk last week announced, "So far this year, generally warm weather and favorable growing conditions have helped produce large supplies of fresh winter vegetables and resulting lower prices." That is, indeed, good news, particularly in view of another news release that came the same day, predicting an increase in beef prices in the months ahead.

NOW, I'M NOT suggesting that anyone turn vegetarian — I would be the last to advocate that. But I do suggest taking advantage of the abundance of low cost winter vegetables to make our meat go further. We have often talked in this column about stuffing meat with something to make it stretch a little further — feed a few more — in order to save money. But we have never talked about using a little meat to stuff vegetables to accomplish the same end. 'Tis time!

With just a little bit of ground beef or pork or veal and some of those inexpensive fresh vegetables that are so abundant this year, it is possible to feed a small army at a very reasonable price, and still keep meat in the meal.

Here are a few of my family's favorite recipes for stuffed stuff.

STUFFED CABBAGE FILLING

1 head cabbage, 1 lb. ground beef, 1 diced onion, 2 cloves minced garlic, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 1 cup cooked rice, 2-1/2 cups water Tomato Sauce: 1 28-oz. can tomatoes with juice, 1 6-oz. can tomato paste, 1 T. brown sugar, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 1/4 tsp. allspice, 1/4 cup dry red wine

Sauce: Combine all sauce ingredients and heat to boiling. Lower heat and simmer 15-20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

FILLING: Remove all outer leaves from cabbage that are bruised or torn. Then, remove two perfect large leaves and save. Remove the stem and center of the cabbage with a small, sharp knife, leaving about an inch-thick shell. Discard stem and chop the remaining center and set aside.

Brown the ground beef, onion, garlic, salt, pepper, and 1-1/2 cups chopped cabbage in a large skillet. Stir in cooked rice and 1 cup sauce. Fill cabbage shell with meat mixture. Cover the opening with the two saved leaves. Tie the cabbage securely with cotton kitchen string. Add water to the skillet in which the beef was browned and stir to pick up any browned food on the bottom. Add remaining chopped cabbage and sauce. Place stuffed cabbage (stem down) into the sauce. Heat to boiling, then reduce heat, cover and simmer about two hours, or until cabbage is tender.

STUFFED PEPPERS

8 large green peppers, 3/4 lb. ground beef, 1/4 lb. bulk sausage, 1/4 cup chopped onions, 1-1/2 cup whole kernel corn, 1 8-oz. can tomato sauce, 3/4 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups sharp cheddar cheese, 1 cup fresh bread crumbs

Cut off tops of peppers and clean out seeds and membrane. Brown meat and onion. Add corn, tomato sauce, Worcestershire, salt and pepper and warm through. Add cheese and cook until it melts. Stuff peppers and place upright in baking dish. Sprinkle with crumbs which have been tossed in melted butter. Fill dish with 1/2-inch water. Bake uncovered in a 350-degree oven for 40 minutes. Serves 8.

STUFFED ONIONS

6 large onions, 1 lb. bulk pork sausage, 1 T. Worcestershire sauce, 1 cup tomato sauce, 1/2 tsp. tarragon, 1/2 tsp. basil, 1/2 tsp. garlic powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper

Peel onions and cook in boiling, salted water for 20-30 minutes. Cool and cut a slice off the top. Scoop out insides, chop and set aside. Mix sausage and Worcestershire. Brown meat mixture until it is no longer pink. Drain and cool.

Stuff onions with meat mixture. Combine chopped onions and tomato sauce, pour over onions. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

VEAL STUFFED APPLES

6 large apples, 2 small onions, sliced; 1 lb. veal, ground; 1/4 lb. mortadella, ground; 3 slices of bread soaked in milk; Salt, pepper, 1/4 tsp. nutmeg, 3 T. butter, 3 T. bread crumbs

Peel and core apples. Hollow out the apples and save the pulp (with-out the seeds). Squeeze lemon juice over apples and pulp to keep them from turning brown while preparing the rest of the recipe. Mince apple pulp and onion and mix together with veal, mortadella, bread (squeezed almost dry) and seasonings. Fill apple cavities with mixture and top with bread crumbs mixed with melted butter. Place in a greased baking dish and bake in a 350-degree oven for 35-40 minutes. Serves 6.

STUFFED SQUASH

2 acorn squash, 1 lb. bulk pork sausage, 2 cups applesauce, 1 tsp. cinnamon Salt, pepper

Cut the squash lengthwise and remove seeds. Bake in a 350-degree oven for about 40 minutes. Season with salt and pepper. Form sausage into small balls; brown and drain. Fill partially-cooked squash with sausage and applesauce, which has been seasoned with cinnamon. Continue baking until the squash is tender, about 20 minutes. Serves 4.

What cooks want to know

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

Dear Cecily — Several months ago, I believe you printed a recipe for making bratwurst from scratch. I mislaid it and wish I had it now. — Mrs. H.Z.

Dear Mrs. Z. — The bratwurst recipe was not mine. I've never prepared that fresh sausage, but I shall try to do so. In the meantime, you may want to look up two specialty cookbooks; each gives a recipe for making and cooking bratwurst. The recipe in "Super-Easy Step-by-Step Sausagemaking" by Yvonne Young Tarr (Vintage-Random, $2.95) calls for veal, pork, seasonings and water and yields 3 1/2 pounds. The recipe in "The Complete Sausage Cookbook" by Pamela Riddle and Mary Jane Danley (San Francisco Book Co., $5.95) also calls for veal, pork and seasonings but adds bread crumbs soaked in milk and yields 5 pounds. Perhaps your public library will have these books. — C.B.

Dear Cecily — My wife keeps a couple of bulbs of garlic on hand only for occasional use, so they last a long time. When she stores the garlic at room temperature it dries; in the refrigerator it molds. Do you know a way to keep it in good condition? — P.T.

Dear Mr. T. — I keep bulbs of garlic for months by storing them in a screwtop jar, with holes punched in its lid, in the refrigerator. However, before I store the bulbs, I make sure their skins are intact. When I remove a clove from a bulb, I also make sure that the skins around the remaining cloves are intact. This way there's no garlic odor to affect the other food in the refrigerator. Thus far my garlic bulbs have kept in excellent condition. — C.B.

Dear Cecily — This question may seem stupid, but I'm a new cook. Every once in a while I come on a recipe that calls for one or more fresh tomatoes to be "seeded." Just how do you "seed" a tomato? — Ms. R.

Dear Ms. R. — Cut each tomato in half horizontally. Cup a half in your palm and gently squeeze out and discard the seeds. Treat the other half of the tomato the same way. That's all there is to it. — C.B.

Dear Cecily — Will you please advise me where to get the Chinese five-spice seasoning you called for some time ago in a chicken recipe? — R.R.

Dear R.R. — If you are ever in a city that has a Chinatown, you'll find Chinese five-spice powder sold in many of its Chinese supermarkets and other food shops. It's a combination of five

Segregated unions to merge after 45 years in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — After 45 years of racial segregation, four New Orleans waterfront unions are preparing to merge under a plan hammered out in court.

The merger had been directed by International Longshoremen's Association President Thomas W. Gleason and a federal agency. Court records made public Wednesday outlined a plan for total merger by late 1981.

Involved are the all-white Local 1418 and the all-black Local 1419 for longshoremen and the segregated Locals 1802 and 1683 of Sacksewers, Sweepers, Waterboys and Coopers.

Under the plan for the larger locals, current officers would continue to serve until a new constitution is drafted and a new slate of officers elected.

Alcee P. Honore, president of the 2,100-member Local 1419 will serve as president, and Norris Plaisance, president of the 650-member Local 1418 will serve as executive vice president, a new post created by the plan for merger.

The rest of the offices will alternate — a black officer, then a white officer.

The plan calls for an election of officers in late 1981, with the new slate to assume office in 1982 and serve for three years.

During the transition period, the merged union must adopt a new constitution, combine assets and liabilities and handle contract problems on a merged basis, the court records show.

Gleason eliminated one obstacle to the merger, the insistence by Local 1419 that retired longshoremen be allowed to vote.

"I do not think it appropriate or consonant with trade union principles to force the members of one local into a merged local in which large numbers of retirees and inactive have voting rights," Gleason said in a directive to the locals.

"To do so would, among other things, distort electoral strength and thus frustrate the voting rights of the active members."

He said new members would be admitted to the unitary local without regard to race.

The plans for the smaller waterboys locals are similar to the longshoremen's locals.

The case went to the federal courts after the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission filed suit to merge the unions.

Supermarkets, clerks reach agreement

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Grocery clerks, working on day-to-day extensions since their contract expired last week, have reached a tentative accord with supermarket representatives, union officials say.

The agreement announced Wednesday followed two days of intensive talks. United Food and Commercial Workers Union vice president Jack Lovell said members would meet Saturday and Sunday to vote on the accord.

Some 15,000 supermarket workers in eight central California locals from Fresno to the Oregon border are affected by the proposed agreement, Lovell said.

The grocery clerks, whose contract expired Feb. 29, were seeking wage increases and improvements in job-related benefits.

An earlier offer from the Food Employers Council which the union said "would have destroyed prior contract gains and eroded fulltime jobs" was rejected by all eight locals.

Lovell declined to give details of the settlement pending membership acceptance. But he said "significant improvements were achieved in many areas of the contract, including wage, health and welfare and pension improvements."

The locals covered are in Eureka, Santa Rosa, Redding, Chico, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno and Salinas.

Union President Wynn Plank said the agreement reached here was "very similar, but not identical," to the San Francisco accord. Under that settlement, top workers who made $8.79 will get a $1.81-an-hour raise over the term of the 38-month contract. Cost-of-living increases will add another $1 to $1.10 an hour.

Caroline garners 26 write-ins

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Caroline Kennedy unknowingly picked up 26 votes — all write-ins — in the Massachusetts primary and is in the running for a spot on the Somerville Democratic Ward 2 Committee, a ward official says.

"I have no reaction," the daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy said Wednesday. "I didn't even know about it."

Ward officials said there were only four names on the ballot for the 35-seat committee, so nearly 200 names were submitted as write-in possibilities.

"We asked people to write in her name, but she doesn't know about it herself," said Claire McMahon, Ward 2 committee secretary. "It'll be nice to have her on the committee. After all, she lives in Ward 2, and she's a Kennedy."

Not all the votes have been counted, but Miss Kennedy is running strong in two of the three polling places tallied.

Ward committees are responsible for party business in their respective wards and elect a citywide party committee.

Miss Kennedy, a Harvard senior, can refuse to serve if elected. The 22-year-old recently moved out of her Harvard dormitory and is sharing an apartment in this city west of Boston.

Meanwhile, her uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., came out the winner in the state's Democratic presidential primary election Tuesday.

Leave it, or lose it

EAST SPARTA, Ohio (AP) — Lee Soehnen hates neckties. From sexy silks to natty knits, it doesn't matter. Walk in his steakhouse wearing one and before you know it — SNIP!

Since his days back in a parochial high school, Soehnen has hated ties. Too formal, he would grumble 20 years ago while wrapping them around his neck. Still too formal, he says now to customers at his north-eastern Ohio steakhouse.

"You can't relax and feel casual with a tie," said Soehnen. "So we don't allow them here."

Customers know they'd better heed his words. Before entering the dining room, they are urged to remove their ties, Soehnen said. If the ties don't come off and the customers are determined to stay, the waitresses cut them off.

The new trophies are then added to the collection of about 2,000 ties adorning the ceiling of the Bear Creek Steak House.

Most customers know about the unusual rule, which Soehnen began enforcing shortly after the restaurant opened 10 years ago. As a result, many wear homemade oversized varieties or none at all.

But some unsuspecting souls always show up while others are brought in by their friends who know about the requirement.

That's when the fun begins.

"There's been guys who have refused to take off their tie," Soehnen said. "So we refuse to serve them and ask them to leave. When they get up to go, the crowd boos and hollers."

Some customers who have challenged Soehnen's scissors and lost threaten legal action unless their ties are replaced, he said. But so far, no suits have been filed. And only one tie has been replaced.

That was only because the man — unaware of the rule — had just received his tie as a birthday present from his wife and son.

Sometimes, Soehnen admits, the customers strike back. Like the man who wore a steel tie. Or another whose tie, like a magician's handkerchief, just kept coming off, tie after tie.

But Soehnen, like most of his customers, just laughs it off.

"There's few people who can't take a joke," he said. "That's all this is — a practical joke."

What about those who leave?

"Just poor sports," he said.

TMI cleanup pace worries officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — With cleanup at Three Mile Island moving ahead at a turtle's pace, government officials say they are increasingly worried about dangers posed by the heavily damaged reactor, which has been sealed off for nearly a year.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission was told by its staff Wednesday that the pace of the cleanup — not expected to be completed for four or five years — must be quickened so workers can gain entry and check vital equipment and pipes.

But to do so will require a number of critical decisions by the NRC in the coming weeks, some of which most likely will require the planned release of some radioactive material into the air.

The initial decision along that path came Wednesday when the NRC gave permission for a tiny trace of radioactive gas to be vented from an airlock leading to the contaminated reactor containment building.

That action will enable workers to enter the airlock as a preliminary step to having crews enter the containment building itself later.

John Collins, NRC chief of operations at the plant site in Pennsylvania, said the authorized venting of 50 millicuries of Krypton 85 from the airlock would begin Monday at the earliest and take about three days.

Collins said a nuclear plant in normal operation routinely releases each month 20,000 times the amount of radioactivity authorized for release from the Three Mile Island airlock.

An NRC staff report on the cleanup operation presented later Wednesday said the NRC should make clear to state officials and persons living near the plant that some amounts of radioactive material — within federal safety standards — will have to be released to proceed with the cleanup.

The problem, one NRC official says privately, is that even the slightest mention of releasing radioactive gas from the plant into the air causes an outcry among area residents.

Several weeks ago, minute releases of radioactive gases from the reactor resulted in widespread publicity although much larger releases are commonplace at normally operating reactors.

The NRC staff study, aimed at examining how the cleanup process might be quickened, concluded that many residents near the plant continue to distrust the utility as well as the NRC and that there remains a conviction on the part of a substantial fraction of the population that releases of any quantity are dangerous."

What worries some NRC commissioners and staff members, however, is the increased potential for the crippled reactor to develop serious problems — perhaps even a resumption of the fission process inside the core — the longer the reactor is left isolated.

Although the commissioners indicated agreement Wednesday that the pace of the cleanup process should be re-examined, several of them differed on the urgency of the situation.

"I don't get the sense of a clear and present danger" at Three Mile Island, NRC Chairman John Ahearne said.

But an angry Joseph Hendrie, who has long advocated a faster cleanup process, said the commissioners have been "sitting on our duffs and fiddling" about environmental impact while the chance of having a serious malfunction inside the reactor increases daily.

"We can't sit around here and calculate environmental impact while we get ready to have a disaster in central Pennsylvania," Hendrie declared.

The Unit 2 reactor near Harrisburg, Pa., has been shut off from the outside since the March 28 accident and engineers say some equipment, including key instruments which control pressure and monitor the state of the reactor core, have been working — without maintenance — well beyond their design limits.

The NRC staff report said Wednesday that equipment will continue to deteriorate and pipes, more than 300 feet of which are under water, will become increasingly susceptible to breaks. Among the isolated instruments are monitors showing whether the reactor might be moving away from its stable position, Hendrie said.

"I think everybody agrees that there's a gut feeling that we're sitting here waiting for something to happen," Edward Hanrahan, director of the office of policy and evaluation, told the commissioners.

Last November, the NRC required that an environmental impact statement be completed to determine what effects the cleanup will have on the surrounding area. But that statement is not expected to be completed until the end of the year and may be delayed further.

Duncan says no agreement reached on Saudi oil slash

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meetings between the United States and Saudi Arabia have produced no agreement on whether the Saudis will relent on a threatened cutback in oil production, Energy Secretary Charles Duncan said Wednesday.

Duncan, just back from three days of meetings with Saudi officials who are upset with the United States' proposed strategic petroleum reserve, termed his talks "important and successful" but said he came away with no commitments from the Saudis on how much oil they would continue producing.

"It was not our intention to seek commitments to specific actions from Saudi Arabia, nor did they seek specific actions from us," Duncan told a news conference.

Duncan said he and the Saudi leaders held fruitful discussions on "our mutual efforts to stabilize price, supply and dependence in the oil market."

Last July Saudi Arabia increased its production 1 million barrels a day to a level of 9.5 million barrels daily in response to American requests to "compensate for a large drop in Iranian oil exports."

However, Saudi officials have said they want production to return this year to the 8.5 million barrel level.

Energy Department officials said the Saudis will reassess the situation in April to determine whether they will keep production at the higher level.

Duncan said he repeated an administration position that it will not resume filling the petroleum reserve until there is greater oil market stability.

He said the administration did not want purchases to the reserve to "add to world demand for oil at time when we are trying to add more oil ... to reach stability in the marketplace."

He didn't specify what would constitute such stability, but said he would like to see a narrowing in the range of selling prices for oil.

Duncan's statement means a further delay in the Carter administration's goal of creating a 1 billion barrel reserve stored in underground caverns in Louisiana and Texas. When the first oil was pumped into the reserve in July 1977, the administration hoped to have 500 million barrels in storage by the end of 1978.

However, the total amount stored so far is 91.7 million barrels — enough oil to replace all imports from the Arab members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries for about one month.

Saudi Arabia and other OPEC members have warned that American attempts to fill the reserve could lead to oil cutbacks and further increases in oil prices.

Duncan said he discussed the strategic reserve with Saudi officials "within the context of overall energy policy" in an effort to "develop a full understanding of the appropriate circumstances under which we will begin to add oil to our strategic reserve."

Duncan maintained that the administration remained committed to the reserve but he gave no estimate on when purchases could resume. Congressional critics have called the program a fiasco which because of delays in purchases will boost the price tag from an original $6 billion to $7 billion to more than $30 billion.

Clements makes suggestion

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements says the Interstate Oil Compact Commission has something to offer all states, not just those with significant oil and natural gas production.

Clements suggested to the commission's executive committee Wednesday the IOCC could be a "forum, a platform" for establishing national policy for all energy sources — not just oil and gas.

As an example, Clements said, "Arizona has little production, as such, but is certainly interested in our energy problems."

Clements, commission chairman, said states "should recognize" the commission "is a springboard from which can emerge policy and direction on energy as a national issue." Thirty states are commission members.

Clements said two "polling sources" show 80 percent of the American public "does perceive there is an energy crisis." Previously, he said, only 40-44 percent felt there was a crisis.

The public, Clements added, ranks the energy crisis as the No. 2 priority issue behind inflation, "and we realize that the energy problem and inflation are linked."

Clements noted Secretary of the Energy Charles Duncan would attend the commission's June 15 meeting in Vail, Colo.

Oilcade on second leg to Washington

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — About 20 men and a half-dozen big oil rigs were heading today for Washington, D.C., and a battle to stop the proposed $227.3 billion "windfall" tax on American oil companies.

The caravan, suggested last week by Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., was leaving Little Rock, Ark., today on the second leg of a trip that began here Wednesday.

"We feel our story hasn't been told properly," said Oklahoma state Sen. Charlie Morgan, an independent oil producer and state coordinator of the caravan.

The protesters hope to block the tax or send it back to conference committee.

The proposal technically would not tax profits but the extra revenue American oil companies could get under President Carter's decision to decontrol domestic oil prices. It has been passed by a conference committee but has yet to be voted on by either chamber of Congress.

Protesters hoped to be joined by other rigs along the route through Tennessee and Virginia. In Washington, Morgan said, "groups of four or five" would fan out over Capitol Hill, talking to lawmakers and energy officials in a series of appointments arranged by Bellmon and Sen. David Boren, D-Okla.

"We'll try to do this in an orderly fashion," Morgan said.

IPAA official believes caravan useless

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An official of the Independent Petroleum Association of America in Washington, D.C., said an oil field equipment caravan that was to leave Oklahoma today for the nation's capital to protest the windfall oil profits tax will do little or no good.

"I don't see how an equipment parade is going to turn this thing (the tax) around," said Lloyd Unsell, executive vice president of IPAA.

"They're not going to do it with a brass band and drilling rigs."

His remarks were reported here by the Washington Bureau of The Daily Oklahoman.

Unsell said he saw possible similarities between the oilcade and last year's American Agriculture Movement tractorcade "that alienated more people in a shorter time than anything I've ever seen done by someone trying to influence government."

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., who helped organize the oilmen's protest during a trip to eight cities in the Southwest last week, took issue with the pessimism of Unsell and others in the industry.

He said revision of the legislation is possible and that farmers last year made a good impression at first, but stayed too long.

As to Unsell's suggestion that a protest won't change legislation, Bellmon said, "Their way didn't work too well."

Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., said revision of the tax in favor of the oil industry is a long shot.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which helped write the legislation, said the oil demonstrators "may have a positive impact," but added there is only an "outside chance" of any revision of the bill.

The legislation will collect an estimated $227 billion from the oil industry over the next 10 years. It is the product of months of negotiations between House and Senate tax writers.

It will go to both houses in a week or two.

As a conference report, it cannot be amended on either floor. It can either be passed or sent back to the House-Senate conferees with instruction on what changes to make.

Bellmon thinks recommitment is possible because of what he sees as opposition from members of the Appropriations and Budgets committees, which he is a member.

Wildcat project spotted in Runnels; field work reported in other counties

District 8 counties get 44 field tests, 14 wildcat projects

Fifty-eight new oil and gas projects were scheduled last week in Railroad Commission District 8 counties as operators announced locations for 165 new projects in the West Texas-New Mexico Permian Basin.

The District 8 headquarters office in Midland processed applications for 14 wildcats and 44 field projects. Mitchell County gained three of the prospectors and Pecos County gained two. Andrews, Brewster, Culberson, Ector, Glasscock, Howard, Loving, Martin and Reeves each gained one.

Forty-three wildcats were announced in the West Texas-New Mexico area, with six of them scheduled in District 7-C's Runtels County.

Twenty-five field projects and four wildcats were staked in New Mexico counties, with Lea getting 11 field projects and two wildcats. Eddy gained eight field tests and two wildcats, and Chaves County is the site for six new field operations.

Begin criticizes Carter

JERUSALEM (AP)—Prime Minister Menachem Begin today said President Carter had not gone far enough in publicly disavowing the U.S. vote in the U.N. Security Council condemning Israeli settlements on occupied Arab lands.

In a statement to Parliament, Begin said the entire resolution was "repugnant" and "unjustified."

"We unequivocally reject this resolution. We will not agree to it under any condition, not to any part of it or any sentence or clause," he said.

Carter said the United States had made an error in voting for Saturday's resolution, passed unanimously, called on Israel to dismantle its settlements in occupied Arab territory, "including Jerusalem."

Carter said he approved the vote under the impression that all references to Jerusalem had been deleted, but many such references remained in the final text.

Begin said Israel received Carter's statement "with all respect, but I must say frankly: 'Does the mistake in regard to one line and one clause in the hostile resolution that contradicts the Camp David accords, are they the only expressions of total hostility to the state of Israel?'"

"If it were not for the Jerusalem references, would the United States have felt justified in supporting the resolution?"

He reaffirmed that Israel has an inalienable right to settle Jews on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, an area he called a vital national interest.

He said the U.N. resolution's demand that Israel dismantle the 10 Jewish neighborhoods built in East Jerusalem since 1967 was "fantasy" and "barbaric." Israel annexed the predominantly Arab eastern half of Jerusalem after capturing it and the West Bank in the 1967

Arab-Israeli War. Israel has vowed it will never give up any part of Jerusalem and has built hundreds of housing units in the eastern part since the war.

The prime minister also criticized French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing for his public support this week of self-determination for the Palestinians for the first time.

Self-determination can only mean independence, Begin said, and Palestinian statehood would lead to a "blood bath."

The U.N. resolution, because it touched on the status of Jerusalem, produced an unusual amount of unity among Israeli political factions. Members of Parliament were trying to find wording for a declaration that would unite the government and the opposition by the end of the day's debate.

Wife's illness causes guerrillas to free envoy

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The leftist guerrillas holding the Dominican Embassy freed one of their two dozen hostages today, Austrian Ambassador Edgar Selzer.

The 47-year-old Selzer, one of about 15 ambassadors held by the M-19 guerrillas, was freed because his wife is in very poor health and her husband's captivity was causing her excessive stress. U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio remained among the captives.

The Austrian ambassador was freed at 7:30 a.m. and taken by the Red Cross to an undisclosed location. Sources here said Selzer will leave Colombia today for Europe with his wife.

The Colombian government has offered safe passage to Algeria, Syria or Libya to the guerrillas, sources close to the government said.

They said offers of other Latin American nations to accept the guerrillas were turned down by the regime because it would leave the guerrillas too close to Colombia.

It was not known how the guerrillas responded to the offer of safe passage to the Mideast, which was made Wednesday during the second round of direct negotiations between the guerrillas and the government.

The talks lasted just over two hours, and the government said more talks would be held but did not say when.

Wednesday's talks were similar in format to the first round, a 90-minute session held Sunday in a beige van parked near the front of the embassy.

A masked female guerrilla represented the militants in talks with deputy foreign ministers Ramiro Zambrano and Camilo Jimenez. Mexican Ambassador Ricardo Galan, who is a hostage, witnessed the talks.

The guerrillas took over the embassy Feb. 27 and demanded freedom for 311 political prisoners, $50 million, publication of a manifesto in major newspapers a round the world and safe passage out of the country.

The sticking point in the talks thus far seems to be the demand for the release of the prisoners. The government claims the 311 are common criminals and that it is empowered to pardon only persons jailed for political crimes.

The guerrillas are members of Movement 19, or M-19, Colombia's most active guerrilla group. The band takes its name from the April 19, 1970, presidential elections it claims were fraudulent.

Selzer is the second ambassador to be freed by the guerrillas. The Costa Rican envoy, Maria Elena Chassou, was freed last Friday when five hostages, the last of the women held in the embassy, were permitted to leave.

Fourteen ambassadors or acting ambassadors remain among the undetermined number of hostages.

In addition to the ambassadors in the embassy, there are lower-ranking diplomatic personnel, some other unidentified Colombians and the Nicaraguan ambassador to Colombia under the regime of former President Anastasio Somoza, William Barquero Montiel, who stayed in Colombia after Somoza was toppled by a revolution last July.

U.N. vote misunderstandings not uncommon, says Young MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Misunderstandings among administration officials during negotiations before United Nations votes are not at all uncommon, says former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

Young, in Alabama on Wednesday to campaign for President Carter's re-election, was asked about the recent controversial U.S. vote in the United Nations against Israeli settlements. Carter has said the vote was the result of a misunderstanding of his instructions.

Young said there is "nothing really unusual" about mixups in communications on such votes. Past administrations, he said, have been hit by such foul-ups, and often there are "difficulties of understanding" in negotiations prior to U.N. votes.

Young did not provide any specific examples, but he said there were similar "misunderstandings" during the Eisenhower years and during Henry Kissinger's tenure as secretary of state for President Nixon.

The former ambassador also added jokingly, "Some might say I messed up the U.N. so much nobody could make it right."

Young resigned as U.N. ambassador after it was disclosed that he had met without authorization with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Doctors report condition of President Tito 'stabilized'

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslav officials said today there had been a "status of stabilization" in the health of 87-year-old President Josip Broz Tito.

Tito's doctors reported for the third day that the condition of the gravely ill president was unchanged. It made no mention of the improvement in his pneumonia that they reported two days earlier.

"As you can see from the reports of the past few days, there has been a stabilization, more or less," said Tone Vahen, spokesman for the Slovenian Information Committee.

"We have no exact details, but they have determined that there is a status of stabilization in his health," Vahen told reporters at a special press conference here.

Tito was hospitalized Jan. 12 with a blood circulation problem and eight days later doctors amputated his left leg. Complications—heart, kidney and an undescribed bleeding problem—developed in early February, and he was reported on Feb. 23 to have pneumonia.

The general state Tito's health "is unchanged today as well," the terse medical report said. "Indispensable measures of intensive treatment are being continued."

Doctors not involved in Tito's treatment said earlier that periods of stabilization were possible, but that Tito was not likely to survive even if he were able to overcome the pneumonia.

Vietnamese fisherman repatriated after 16 months on refugee list

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—A Vietnamese fisherman officially listed as a refugee for some 16 months has been repatriated to Vietnam in the first such case since the refugee influx began in 1975, a U.N. spokesman said here today.

The spokesman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees said fisherman Nguyen Mang, who returned to Hanoi Wednesday, arrived on the east coast of Malaysia in November 1978 with a boatload of Vietnamese refugees. He was given refugee status and placed in a camp with thousands of Vietnamese who have fled their country.

Later, he told U.N. officials he was fishing in Vietnamese waters when his boat developed engine trouble and a refugee boat picked him up and brought him to Malaysia.

Chaparrals gain Region finals against No. 1

By TED BATTLES Sports Editor

Midland College and Western Texas College, who have already met three times this season, made the finals of the Region V Junior College basketball tournament...

Cooke's attempt to outdistance the Westerners failed as WTC boosted its record to 32-0 for the season with an 83-68 triumph, not quite the whirlwind record-setting 121 point performance of Tuesday against Amarillo...

Midland College, meanwhile, came up with one of its most impressive efforts in recent weeks to usher Northern Conference champion McLennan out of the tournament, 115-98, in the first game of the doubleheader to set up tonight's all Western Junior College Conference final.

Midland, as a result of the victory, owns its best ever record, 27-5, but three of those losses were to Westerners. However, the margin was so close in each defeat that the Chaparrals always carry the hope that this time might be the charm. The first game was 87-82 at Big Spring in the ABC Classic while the Westerners won 83-74 at Snyder and 80-76 10 days ago at the Center.

As WTC filed into the locker room after pregame warmups Wednesday, they spotted some Chaps down the hall and shook their fists as if to say "one more time."

STILL, going into Wednesday's game, there was some question as to whether the Chaps could stay with a team of McLennan's imposing physical size. The Highlanders, who finish 27-5, were 6-10, 6-9 and 6-7 across the front line while tallest Chap was Charles Johnson at a modest 6-6.

But the Chaps' speed, quickness and all-out hustle were too much for the Waco team, which despite its size, lacked the mobility and leaping ability of the Chaps.

Midland forged ahead six minutes into the first half and opened a 10-point, 28-18, spread at the 10 minute clocking and was never seriously challenged. The Chaps led 48-35 at half and held a 21-point, 107-84, lead heading into the final four minutes.

"We just strung 'em out and hustled all the way," said MC assistant Archie Myers later. "They just couldn't get back fast enough."

"We played as well against Clarendon in our last regular season game, but that wasn't against a team like this one," he added.

Robert Tate turned in a blistering 33-point performance to lead MC, hitting on 13 of 22 field attempts and would have been over 40 if he had been as hot at the line where he converted only seven of 13. Tate was also hitting the open man with six assists.

Charles Johnson had 21 points with 13 of 16 from the line while Kevin Willingham also cracked double figures with 10. As a team, MC hit 41 of 91 shots from the field.

Ozell Hall's 21 points, on 10 of 17 floor shots, led McLennan.

COACH NOLAN Richardson claims the key to his team's success is its ability to play any type game it takes to win and after Tuesday's racehorse tactics against Amarillo, the Westerners followed the Cooke's attempt to spread it out and wait for the good shot. By applying pressure, patient WTC inevitably tipped the pass that led to the breakaway that eventually broke the game open.

With the score tied at 14, it was a steal and basket by David Brown that put the Westerners ahead for good and set off a streak that saw the Snyder team, shooting for its third straight trip to the nationals at Hutchinson, Kan., open up a 32-20 gap in a six-minute stretch. By halftime it was 42-29 and after that it was just a question of completing the job.

Greg Stewart hit eight of 10 field goal attempts to lead the Westerners with 19 points while Phil Spradling and Arnold Portee had 11 each. Spradling hit his first shot, to give him 13 baskets in his last 14 shots and then missed six in a row before sinking his last four shots.

Frank Clark led Cooke, 25-8, with 15 while Tony Moore and Dennis Mays had 10 each.

FREE THROWS - Play was delayed in both games. The start of the MC-McLennan game was held up when an over exuberant Highlander bent a rim while the second half of the WTC-Cooke game was held up for an adjustment of the sensitive backboard, a problem throughout the tournament. Midland's 115 points would have beaten the old single game team point high by three points, if WTC had scored 121 the night before. This marks the second MC-WTC meeting in the Region V finals. The last time was in 1977 when Western, coached by Mike Mitchell, defeated Midland, coached by Delnor Poss, now MC athletic director, 87-79, at Abilene.

Large NCAA field begins shootout

By The Associated Press

The largest field in NCAA playoff history, including a record five teams from the Atlantic Coast Conference and four from the Big Ten, begins shooting tonight for the coveted and lucrative - basketball title.

At the end of the rainbow in Indianapolis on March 22 and 24 will be a pot of gold worth $320,000 to each of the Final Four teams.

That's roughly $50,000 more than last year's figure and a far cry from the first tournament played in 1939, when $2,531 was lost by the National Association of Basketball Coaches, which ran the first event.

There will be no repeat champion this year, with Michigan State sitting on the sidelines after last year's title. Last season's runnerup, Indiana State, is out of the picture as well.

Ten-time champion UCLA is among the field of 48 teams, but hardly the most conspicuous this time.

The perennial evergreens of the Pacific-10 Conference didn't blossom as well as they have in past seasons, failing to win the league title for the first time in 14 years. The Bruins will play as an at-large entry in Friday night's West Regionals at Tempe, Ariz., against Old Dominion, winner of the East Coast Athletic Conference's South Division. UCLA's Pac-10 colleague Arizona State will play Loyola (Calif.) of the West Coast Athletic Conference in the second game of a doubleheader.

Clemson, one of the five ACC teams in the field and the only one not to draw a first-round bye, will be among tonight's first-rounders. The Tigers will play in a West Regional doubleheader at Ogden, Utah, against Utah State, regular-season champion in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

In the other half of that doubleheader, Weber State of the Big Sky Conference meets Lamar, champion of the Southland Conference.

In other action tonight, Tennessee of the Southeastern Conference meets Southern Conference champion Furman and Iowa of the Big Ten plays Virginia Commonwealth of the Sunbelt Conference in an East Regional doubleheader at Greensboro, N.C.

In a Midwest Regional twinbill at West Lafayette, Ind., it'll be Washington State of the Pac-10 vs. Ivy League champion Penn and Purdue of the Big Ten will play LaSalle of the East Coast Conference.

In the Midwest Regional at Lincoln, Neb., Big Eight champion Kansas State plays Arkansas of the Southwest Conference and Missouri, another Big Eight team, will meet San Jose State of the PCAA.

Providence, R.I., will be the site of an East Regional doubleheader on Friday night. There, Holy Cross will play Iona in a battle of ECAC champions, as well as Villanova of the Eastern Eight against midwestern independent Marquette.

Florida State of the Metro Conference plays Toledo of the Mid-American Conference and Metro colleague Virginia Tech takes on Western Kentucky of the Ohio Valley Conference in Friday night's Mideast Regionals at Bowling Green, Ky.

In the Midwest Regionals at Denton, Tex., it's Alcorn State of the Southwestern Athletic Conference vs. South Alabama of the Sunbelt and Southwest Conference champion Texas A&M against Bradley of the Missouri Valley Conference.

The seeded teams will get into action Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday, North Carolina State and Maryland, two ACC teams, will play in Greensboro against the winners of Thursday night's first-round games. Duke, another ACC team, and St. John's of the Big East, will play in second-round Mideast games at West Lafayette. Louisville of the Metro Conference and independent Notre Dame will join the Midwest action on Lincoln, and Pac-10 champion Oregon State and Brigham Young of the Western Athletic Conference will play in second-round games at Ogden.

On Sunday, Georgetown and Syracuse of the Big East joins the East field at Providence. Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference and Indiana of the Big Ten will play in the Mideast at Bowling Green. Louisiana State of the SEC and the ACC's North Carolina will get into action in Sunday's Midwest Regionals at Denton, and DePaul, an independent, will join the West Regional field at Tempe along with the Big Ten's Ohio State.

The regional championships will be decided at various locations from March 13 through March 16, before the championship finals in Indianapolis.

Sabres ink two Olympians

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - The Buffalo Sabres have agreed on terms with two members of the gold-medal U.S. Olympic hockey team.

According to Sabres coach and general manager Scotty Bowman, defenseman Mike Ramsey and winger Rob McClanahan have said they will play for the National Hockey League club - although neither has yet signed a contract.

And Eric Strobel, another Olympic team member, is on the Sabres' wanted list, said Bowman, who was in New York Wednesday for meetings with the players.

McClanahan and Ramsey, the first native American ever picked in the first round of an NHL draft, are scheduled to practice Friday with the Sabres, the coach added.

"They will be with us on a five-game amateur tryout," he said. "Then we will decide whether they will sign with us to finish the season and play in the playoffs or hold off until next season. I think they can help us right now, but the five-game tryout will give us a better idea."

With league approval, the tryout can be extended to eight games, he added.

Trying the halt Willingham is McLennan's Ozell Hall (20). The Chaparrals won, 115-98, to gain the tourney finals today at 7:30 p.m. against No. 1-ranked Western Texas. Big Ten teams dominate NIT openers

By The Associated Press

The National Invitation Tournament?

How about the "Big Ten Invitational" instead?

Last year, Big Ten teams clearly dominated the NIT when three of its teams advanced to the Final Four and Indiana won the title in New York's Madison Square Garden by beating Purdue.

Wednesday night, Big Ten teams again made their presence known with victories in first-round NIT games, as Minnesota stopped Bowling Green 64-50 and Illinois routed Loyola of Chicago 105-87.

"They did what they had to do," said Bowling Green Coach John Weinert of Minnesota. "So did we, but they did it from a little higher up."

Weinert's Mid-American team was dwarfed by a pro-size Minnesota front line with players such as 6-foot-11 Kevin McHale, 6-10 Gary Holmes, 7-2 Randy Breuer and 6-6 Andy Thompson.

Darryl Mitchell scored 19 points for the Gophers, a team that finished in a fourth-place tie in the rugged Big Ten this season.

Illinois, which finished tied for fifth in the league, won even more overwhelmingly over Loyola, the regular-season champions of the Midwestern City Conference, as Mark Smith scored 24 points and Derek Holcomb dominated the boards.

"The crowd got us excited," said Holcomb after the game at Champaign. "We played really well but they're an explosive team. We'd be up by eight and then I'd look up and we'd be up by two. We had a lot of good inside play, though. We were really working the ball good inside."

In other NIT action Wednesday night, Texas defeated St. Joseph's (Pa.) 70-61; Alabama trimmed Penn State 53-49; St. Peter's (N.J.) whipped Connecticut 71-56; Murray State turned back Jacksonville 53-49; Virginia beat Lafayette 67-56 and Illinois State stopped West Texas State 80-63.

In tonight's games, it'll be Boston University at Boston College; Texas-El Paso at Wichita State; Alabama-Birmingham at Southwestern Louisiana; Nebraska at Michigan; Grambling at Mississippi and Duquesne vs. Pittsburgh at the Pittsburgh Civic Center.

Eddie Phillips scored 17 points and Alabama outscored Penn State from the free throw line 21-3 as the Southeastern Conference team beat the Nittany Lions, an independent.

Five teams enter Champions tourney

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

A classy five-team field opens play Friday in the sixth annual Tournament of Champions at Cubs Stadium with Lubbock Monterey and Duncanville getting the nod to meet in the finals Saturday night.

Cold weather has put a crimp on all of the pre-tourney schedules with Midland Lee, Midland and R.L. Turner of Carrollton, all having doubleheaders postponed last weekend.

MONTEREY BRINGS a 4-0 record into the tournament while Duncanville is 2-0. Turner sports a 1-1 record while Midland High is 0-1 and Midland Lee 0-2.

Coach Bobby Moegle's Plainsmen are loaded with six starters back this year off last season's Class AAAA regional finalists. The Lubbock power will be short of its pitching ace. Kent Potts suffered an injury to his arm in last Saturday's doubleheader sweep of Odessa Permian in Odessa.

Potts had an 8-2 mound record last year, but the Plainsmen also have Steve Coleman and Ricky Pinkerton to call upon along with Travis Walden, who beat Big Spring Monday, 5-3. Monterey swept Permian, 9-1 and 3-2, and then beat Big Spring, 5-3 and 12-5, with a nine-run rally in the sixth inning Tuesday, which featured a two-run homer by Scott Reed.

Pinkerton, who also plays in the infield when he isn't on the mound, hit .411 last season while Coleman had a .404 average and Randy Lettbetter hit the ball at a .398 clip. Potts wasn't bad at the dish either with a .376 average as the Plainsmen were racking up a 27-8 record, losing to El Paso Austin in the regional round of the playoffs.

DUNCANVILLE IS always strong under Coach Jay Miller. The Panthers were the Class AAAA state championship in 1975 and 1976 and were state finalists in 1977. In 1978, Miller guided them to the state semifinals and last year to the quarterfinals. Miller also won a state championship at Class AAA Dumas seven years ago. Miller's five-year record at Duncanville is 138-29.

The Panthers hold victories over Newman-Smith and Dallas Thomas Jefferson by the scores of 5-4 and 13-3.

Catcher Domingo Ramos is the only returning starter this year for Miller, but he can call upon Ronny Worsham at third base, shortstop David Roberson and pitchers Mart McKenney, Brett Westbrook and Ronnie Wensel.

TURNER'S LIONS went to the state tournament last year while compiling a 24-10 record and have four starters back off that fine team. Coach David Hall is high on pitcher John Machin along with outfielders Mike Wood and David Evans. Lawrence Ott returns at second base. Hall feels like this year's outfit will have good balance. "We are looking forward to coming to Midland. We didn't play well last year in the tournament, but it was good for us to play solid clubs that early."

The Lions have beaten Dallas W.T. White, 13-7 and then lost to Waxahachie, 14-7, for their 1-1 reading. Midland Lee has been trouble giving up the big inning in losing to Hobbs, N.M., 9-6, and to Lubbock Coronado, 7-2, while Midland, under new coach Tim Whalen, lost to Class AAA Snyder Monday, 4-0.

Lee coach Ernie Johnson is still high on junior righthander Alan Koonce and feels like his team will reach its potential once the warmer weather arrives.

WHALEN, MEANWHILE, feels like Paul Cox and Mark Hewitt will do a good job on the mound for his Bulldogs, who are chomping at the bit to play since they have been idle since Monday.

They get their chance at 12:30 p.m. Friday when they face Duncanville while Lee and R.L. Turner open the tournament in the 10 a.m. contest. Monterey plays the winner of the Lee-R.L. Turner contest at 3 p.m. while in the 5:30 p.m. game, the loser of the Lee-Turner conflict tackles the loser of the Midland-Duncanville tilt. The first day winds up play with an 8 p.m. game in the winner's bracket.

On Saturday, play starts at 10 a.m. followed by a 12:30 p.m. contest and the third place game is set for 3 p.m. with the championship at 8 p.m.

Umpires working this year's tournament include Bobby Dunn, Vance Porforio, Rusty Black and Howard Shackelford. Team trophies will be given for first, second and third places along with individual awards to each player chosen to the all-tourney team. The Jim Hankinson Award will be given to the Most Valuable Player of the tourney.

THERE WILL be a 10-run rule in the tourney that will apply after five innings of play to help keep long games down to a minimum. Moore, Okla., won the first tourney crown in 1975 while in 1976, Monterey won the title with a 3-1 record since it was a round robin tourney that year. In 1977, Duncanville won the meet with a perfect 4-0 record while in 1978, Duncanville again went 4-0 to take home the first place trophy. Last year, Monterey won it with a 3-0 reading.

A portly Muhammed Ali prepares for a sparring session Wednesday at his Deer Lake training camp. Ali, who says he plans to make a boxing comeback, reported to camp weighing 251 pounds, but was down to 243 pounds after one workout. (AP Laserphoto)

Ali wants to take on Tate, Holmes

CHICAGO (AP) — "I want (John) Tate first, then (Larry) Holmes, because I want to be a quintuple champion," says the champ. Who else but The Champ? Muhammad Ali, 38 years old, three-time former heavyweight champion, at a real heavy weight now, is unretiring again. His manager, Jabir (formerly Herbert) Muhammad, and Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, said so anyway, signing an agreement Wednesday calling for Ali to fight Tate, the World Boxing Association champion, for what they called a record purse. The date and location of the fight haven't been decided yet. But the matter could be made academic if Tate loses in a previous commitment. Holmes holds the heavyweight title recognized by the World Boxing Council, and he and Tate have a television commitment to fight to unify the title in August or September if each wins his title fight March 31. Tate is scheduled to defend his title against Mike Weaver while Holmes fights Leroy Jones.

Should Weaver beat Tate on March 31, it is assumed Weaver would fight Ali in late June, the winner facing the Holmes-Jones victor.

Arum and Muhammad said the pact was signed Wednesday in Muhammad's offices. A formal contract will be signed later, said Muhammad. Ali, who began training on Tuesday in Deer Park, Pa., approved of the signing in a telephone conversation, said Muhammad.

Ali said he was pleased after a 15-round workout on Tuesday with Eddie Gregory, a light-heavyweight, his first full-scale drill in a year and a half. "We had a pretty good go together," he said.

Ali, tilting the scales at about 248 pounds, said that aside from being a little sore, he was pleased with how well he felt.

He added that "Now I got two more titles I can take. I would rather go out being five-time champion than three-time champion."

Termining Tate "big and slow," he said, "I wouldn't take the risk if I didn't have a chance."

Neither Arum nor Muhammad would confirm reports that the fighters would split $14 million, but Arum said, "All I will say is that the compensation to both fighters is a world record for any boxing match in history. Muhammad would only remark, "I did it again."

His attorney, Charles Lomax, who was contacted just before the signing, said the $14 million was "approximately correct."

Arum and Muhammad said the location and date of the bout should be chosen in approximately a week.

Muhammad said locations discussed have included Taiwan, New Orleans and Houston. The contest likely will be on one of the last days in June, he added.

A spokesman for the New Orleans Superdome said earlier that he had been contacted about the possibility of a bout there.

Texas slaps St. Joseph's, 70-61

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Freshmen Fred Carson and LaSalle Thompson played like veterans until two Texas seniors broke loose for a 70-61 victory over St. Joseph's University in the National Invitation Tournament on Wednesday night.

Texas' first-round victory over the Philadelphia school, which won the East Coast Conference, matches Texas against the winner of Thursday night's Southwestern Louisiana-Alabama-Birmingham game.

Texas, third-place finishers in the Southwest Conference, also will have the home court advantage in its second NIT game Monday night.

The Longhorns won the NIT in 1978. St. Joseph's held a 20-18 lead when Carson, a 6-foot-1 guard, and Thompson, 6-10, combined for the final 13 points of the first half for Texas and a 31-25 lead.

The lead soared as high as 17 points as lefthanders John Danks and Ron Baxter, the only seniors in Texas' starting lineup, poured in a total of 27 second half points.

Danks had a single field goal, and Baxter, an all-SWC player who started for the NIT champions two years ago, had three fouls and only six points at halftime.

Danks, popping short jump shots from the center of the St. Joseph defense, scored 17 points in the final period for a game high of 19. Baxter, the leading career scorer in Texas' history, tallied 16 points, including 10 in the second half. He hit seven of eight field goals.

Carson, the third southpaw in the starting lineup, finished with 13 points and had a team-high seven assists, and Thompson scored 10 as the Longhorns shot 56.9 percent against one of the better defensive teams in college basketball.

Mike Morrow was high for St. Joseph's with 14 points but scored only two in the second half. Bo Williams, the 6-8 all-East Coast Conference player, was held to eight points.

Williams hauled down 18 rebounds, however, and Morrow, 6-5, added 10. Their total of 28 rebounds was one more than the entire Texas team could get.

John Smith and Bryan Warrick each had 13 points for St. Joseph's although Smith, a 62 percent free throw shooter, made only one of seven charity tosses.

"It's been a terrible week (in practice), and it started that way tonight. We were just listless, standing around out there. ... but Carson pulled us through. He did a heck of a job," said Texas Coach Abe Lemons.

Thompson's contribution was recognized by an ovation when he went to the bench late in the game.

Playoff hopefuls absorb losses

By The Associated Press

It seems as though everyone makes the National Basketball Association playoffs but no one really wants to.

Three of the five teams battling for the final three Eastern Conference playoff berths were in action Wednesday night — the Houston Rockets, New York Knicks and Indiana Pacers — and all of them lost.

Houston fell to the Boston Celtics 103-99 in overtime, New York stumbled to the lowly Detroit Pistons 120-113 and Indiana bowed to the Philadelphia 76ers by the same 120-113 count.

Nate Archibald and Gerald Henderson scored in the last 35 seconds of overtime to give Boston its winning margin and its eighth victory in a row. Archibald broke a 99-99 deadlock with 35 seconds left with a 10-foot jumper and Henderson added a layup with 19 seconds left. Boston's Larry Bird hit a jump shot with seven seconds remaining to send the game into overtime.

"It was a defensive lapse," Houston Coach Del Harris said of Henderson's basket. "We didn't know Henderson could move that quickly up the gut."

Pistons 120, Knicks 113

John Long scored 34 points, Terry Tyler and Eric Money 23 each and Greg Kelsier 21 for the injury-riddled Pistons. Detroit, playing without regulars Kent Benson and Bob McAdoo and reserve Phil Hubbard, also lost center Leon Douglas, who fouled out midway in the final period, leaving them with no player taller than 6-foot-7 on the floor.

Nonetheless, they pulled away after the Knicks chopped a 21-point deficit down to 101-99, with Long contributing five baskets and a free throw down the stretch. It was only the Pistons' third victory in their last 20 games.

76ers 120, Pacers 113

Julius Erving led the way with 36 points as Philadelphia posted its sixth straight victory while handing Indiana its sixth loss in a row. The Pacers led 105-104 with 3:52 remaining but the 76ers scored 10 straight points — two each by Steve Mix, Bobby Jones, Darryl Dawkins, Doug Collins and Erving.

Tony Ayala passes first test

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Defending national Golden Gloves middleweight champion Tony Ayala successfully passed his first test in the 44th Texas Golden Gloves championships Wednesday night.

The 17-year-old Ayala decided Larry Goodman of El Paso and advanced to the semifinals of this five-night event that ends Saturday.

Ayala was one of three defending state champs to earn victories before an announced crowd of 8,790 in Will Rogers Coliseum.

Another highly ranked Flyweight Sammy welterweight, three-time

Fuentes of Houston won a decision over Beaumont's Arthur Shields and light middleweight Cheto Ramos of Odessa eliminated Lupe Ozuna of Wichita Falls to move into the semifinals.

Ayala, who plans to turn professional later this year, is the only defending national champ in the field, but two-time national AAU champion Donald Curry of Fort Worth won his defending state champs against Tony Green of an announced crowd of 8,790 in Will Rogers Coliseum.

They never trailed after the first quarter.

Dan Issel led a balanced Denver attack with 28 points but the Nuggets took a 105-101 lead on key baskets by Kim Hughes and George Johnson. Alex English added 22 points, Johnson 19 and John Roche 18 for the winners. Milwaukee's Bob Lanier had 32.

Bulls 106, Warriors 105

Ricky Sobers' three-point basket at the buzzer capped a last-minute Chicago rally. The Bulls trailed 105-98 with 54 seconds remaining but cut the deficit to 105-103 on a basket by Artis Gilmore and Ollie Johnson's three-point goal with 14 seconds remaining. Chicago got the ball back when Reggie Theus stole it from Wayne Cooper and Sobers bombed in his winning 28-footer as time ran out.

Nelson Norman hopes hits come

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — At times last season, when Texas Ranger shortstop Nelson Norman singled to the outfield, cries would ring in the pressbox.

"That extends his consecutive month hitting streak!" Norman was hitting under .200 at the time. A basket full of breadsticks at a restaurant were jokingly mistaken for his Louisville sluggers.

It was about that time that Norman gave in to a suggestion by first base coach Fred Koenig that he try switch hitting.

As last season wore on, his average climbed steadily. His strength improved with the help of 40 pushups each morning and another 40 each night before he went to sleep.

He ended the season hitting .295 overall, but that broke down to .198 from his natural right side and .264 from the left side, and Norman says the move should pay off this season.

Both in his hitting statistics and in his paycheck. "If I can hit, I know I'll make a lot of money and I'll make it real fast. If I'm only a good fielder, I know I'm not going to make any money," said the youthful Norman, who despite playing in his third major league season won't be 22 until May.

This past winter, he played for Aguilas in the Dominican Republic and batted .301, and of more than 200 at bats, only six were from the right side.

"No lefthanded pitchers in the Dominican this winter," Norman said. Ranger manager Pat Corrales is happy about the development.

"The big thing is that his problem was on balls breaking away from him. If he turned around, the same pitches would be coming in to him. Hey, this is something he worked at for two months."

The Rangers were so pleased with the way the fleet Norman handled his glove at shortstop that they traded away Bert Campaneris to California early last season.

Norman made six errors in the first two road series of last season in games played in icy weather in Detroit and Cleveland, and criticism from the press, fans and, sometimes other Rangers, rankled him.

Larvell Blanks replaced him for a while when Blanks was inserted into the lineup and began to hit. Later, Corrales moved Buddy Bell to short from third and put Eric Soderholm at third to get more beef into the Ranger batting order.

"Everywhere we went, people asked me why we had a third baseman at shortstop. I tried not to let it bother me. I knew we weren't getting enough hits, four or five one night, two the next, six the night after. The team was in a slump and needed hitting," Norman said.

Snook shoots for third title

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Snook, seeking his third consecutive basketball championship, opens the state tournament with a semifinal game against Goree today.

Snook, 42-1, won the Class A title in 1978 and the B title last year, edging Krum, 57-56. The loss broke a 50-game winning streak for Krum, which was the defending B champion.

Only Killen Ellison has beaten Snook this season. Fort Worth Dunbar, a AAAA semifinalist this year, barely lost the title in 1979, falling 75-74 to Lufkin on a field goal with two seconds remaining in the game.

Dunbar and Snook, led by Mike Junek, a 6-foot-1 all-tournament player, are the only two returning finalists.

This year, Dunbar plays Plano in the semifinals Friday afternoon. Plano gained the tournament for the first time in 25 years by defeating Dallas Roosevelt, 60-55, in the regional finals.

The Friday night AAAA game matches Houston Kashmere, a champion in the mid-1970s, against San Antonio Sam Houston.

Kashmere won four of its last eight games by two points, including a 47-45 victory over Houston Yates, which was ranked No. 1 in the state most of the season. Kashmere defeated Houston Madison, a 1979 semifinalist, 65-63, in the regional finals.

OUR PETROLEUM BANKERS CAN GIVE YOU THE JUMP ON YOUR COMPETITION.

Petroleum financing can be a waiting game. Your banker plays for time until he gets your property evaluation, and his staff's analysis. That's expensive. Also, time-consuming. At The Midland National Bank, we'll show you how to get the jump on your competition. We know that financial timing is critical. So our petroleum bankers are also professional petroleum engineers who personally analyze your collateral.

We'll use our in-house computer and the latest petroleum evaluation techniques to determine your recoverable hydrocarbons, projected cash flow and the loan value of your properties. Even with only limited data on complex new areas, we can still make a quick, confidential determination of the maximum value of your collateral.

Now you can move on your best prospects at your convenience, not ours. The first move: Call our Oil and Gas Division: (915) 683-2751. It takes more than just another big bank to let you call the shots. WE'RE MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BIG BANK.

Baseball players, owners poles apart

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Major league baseball and its players still were poles apart today in their negotiations for a new labor contract as the owners went to bat under the leadership of Ray Grebey, their chief negotiator.

Grebey met with the owners' Player Relations Committee and American League President Lee McPhail Wednesday to answer Tuesday's strike threat by the Executive Board of the Players Association.

Before a 2½-hour negotiating session in Clearwater, Fla., Wednesday, Grebey said he would comment today on the players' strike threat.

"We're evaluating that," Grebey said. "We'll have some comment after my meeting with the owners."

Grebey said he first would meet with club general managers, and then with the owners. He said his statement probably would be late this afternoon.

Earlier Wednesday, Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Players Association, made his first stop on a tour to obtain players' ratification of the executive board's strike threat. He obtained a 40-0 approval from the Philadelphia Phillies.

The executive board has threatened to strike on or after April 1 if a collective bargaining agreement with the owners has not been concluded.

Shortstop Larry Bowa, Phillies' player representative, acknowledged that there was a definite possibility of a strike that would delay the April 9 opening of the baseball season.

Bowa, however, said he couldn't believe the owners would be "foolish enough to let us go through spring training and then strike. It would be like biting off their nose to spite their face."

"We would have to have spring training all over again while playing league games. We have to support the board or everything we've gained goes out the window. We might as well forget the union."

Pete Rose, one of baseball's highest paid superstars, described the meeting with Miller as good and bad. Rose said it was good in the respect that the player found out what negotiations were all about, and bad because the situation was more serious than people think.

"We have to put our faith in what Marvin Miller has done in the last 14 years," Rose said. "There is no question that what the owners are negotiating for will help the younger players and hurt guys making a lot of money. But we have to stick together."

Rose noted that the players banded together in the baseball player disputes of 1972 and 1976, one producing an eight-game strike and the other a spring camp lockout. He said the players stuck together and won.

"This is the reason I have the contract I do," said Rose, who earns a reported $800,000 a year playing first base in Philadelphia.

In the negotiating session Wednesday afternoon, Grebey said progress was being made, but Miller indicated it was meaningless.

Grebey said the owners' benefit program was excellent, but refused to elaborate, saying he would not bargain through the media.

Midland High, Lee host rugged Invitational field

Midland High and Midland Lee will host a rugged field when the Midland Invitational tennis tournament begins a two-day run Friday at 8:30 a.m.

According to Lee coach Bobby Connell, the event will likely be played at three locations — the Lee courts, Midland High courts and Midland College courts.

Saturday's action also is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m.

Among the Class AAAA schools set to participate in the event are Amarillo Caprock, Lubbock High, Lubbock Coronado, Lubbock Monterey, Lubbock Estacado, Odessa Permian, Odessa High, Abilene High, El Paso Burges and El Paso Ysleta.

To date, Midland High has enjoyed a fine season, getting super singles play from Lance Armstrong and Ritchey Houdek and outstanding doubles play from Karin Farquhar and Caroline Kirwan.

Lee, on the other hand, has had its problems and will try to iron them out this weekend.

Rebs won't surprise anyone this week

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

The Midland Lee Rebels used a surprise attack or two last weekend to upset Odessa Permian in the West of the Pecos track meet in Pecos last Friday and Saturday, but this weekend the Rebels will not surprise anyone.

That's because Lee is travelling to Amarillo for a meet, and none of the Amarillo squads know what they are in for in the first place. Lee has not raced against any of the teams that will be in the one-day Saturday affair.

WHILE LEE travels to Amarillo, the Midland High girls will invade Iraan for their second meet of the season. The Midland High boys and the Lee girls will take the week off.

Last week in Pecos, Lee won their first title of the year by amassing 117 points to edge out Permian, who won at Fort Stockton to open the season. Now the Rebs must do it against a bunch of strangers.

Lee's David Piccolo is becoming a big winner for the Rebels after winning three of his first four outings in the hurdles. Piccolo finished second in the one race he didn't win. The senior now has won more events this year than any other Rebel. Jerry Spaulding is also gaining points in the hurdles.

Lee is also getting potent in the relays: after winning efforts in both the sprint relay and the mile relay last week. Arthur Williams, Darrin Williams, Steve Waldron and Phil Carleton have made the sprint relay a team to reckon with while Carleton, Waldron, Kevin Harper and Gary Butler have been improving in the mile relay.

Mark Landers, Carleton and Waldron should also help out in the sprints while Harper will be a threat in the 800 meters as will Arthur Williams in the 400.

THE MHS girls got victories from DeNette Parker and Susan Shoemaker at Pecos last week. Parker won the high jump while Shoemaker took the 100 meter hurdles. Those two will lead the way Saturday at Iraan.

The Bulldogs will also get help from Jana Trölander in the hurdles and 400 meters while Donna Repman and Lisa Harrison will be in the mile run to aid Helen Barton's team.

Meanwhile, coach Johnny Williams' Bulldogs will be taking the week off in a regrouping effort. Just when things seemed to be falling into place, the Bulldogs have lost the services of sprint king Jeff Robnett. Robnett tore up a foot during the 100 meter race at Pecos last week and is now on crutches and in a cast. He will be out for at least three weeks, but stated that he will be back in top form by district.

Robnett's loss hurts the Bulldogs severely. He was a top point getter in both the 200 and 100 meters and also ran a leg on the sprint relay team, which improved greatly last week. That unit placed second at Pecos with Robnett in the lineup.

ASKED IF coaching could sometimes be a frustrating experience, Williams said, "It just wants to make you jump up and down every night with joy."

Midland High even had a chance at winning the Pecos meet with Robnett in the lineup, but he failed to earn a point in his two races and sprinter Billy Taylor, who will have to take up the slack, was disqualified in the 200 meters for running out of his lane. Taylor, a junior, has been impressive this year, however.

The week off will also give David Simmons a chance to prepare for the West Texas Relays in Odessa next week. Simmons has won six titles this year already, winning three times in the discus and three times in the shot put. He has an 186-6 in the discus and a 60-4 in the shot put as bests this year.

Rebs, 'Dogs face golf tests

After a one-week lay-off, the Midland High and Midland Lee boys' golf teams renew action with tournament assignments.

Tim Peden's extremely young Midland Lee crew will travel to Abilene for the three-day Abilene Invitational. The event began today and continues through Friday.

In their only competition so far this season, the Rebels placed eighth at the Odessa Invitational.

Ed Nixon's up-and-down Midland High Bulldogs will be seeking consistency when they play in the Austin Invitational Friday and Saturday. The 'Dogs placed fourth at Odessa and seventh at Del Rio.

Meanwhile, the Midland High girls' team, making progress each week, will take part in the Del Rio Invitational Friday and Saturday. Mary Baird's team began the campaign with a thirteenth-place showing at San Antonio, but improved with a fourth two weeks ago at the Big Spring Invitational.

The Midland Lee girls, winners at San Antonio and second at Big Spring, are not scheduled to compete this week.

Gym teams to compete

The Midland Lee and Midland High gymnastics teams will be in action Friday and Saturday.

Friday, Lee will travel to Abilene High for boys' and girls' action.

Saturday, at the MC gymnastics center, the Midland High boys' and girls' teams will host Abilene Cooper.

Next week, Lee and Midland will meet in their annual showdown. That will be followed by the regional tournament at Odessa Permian.

The Lee and Midland boys are coached by John Hicks while Mark Townsend coaches the girls from each school.

City bowl entry set

The Midland Bowling Association's 40th annual City championship tournament will be getting under way on the weekends March 22-23 and 29-30. Entry deadline is March 7 at midnight.

Tournament director Howard Shelton, MBA city secretary, anticipates a record entry and hopes that this will be realized with the utilization of the 85 percent handicap rate scheduled for the tournament.

Doubles and singles will be March 23 and 30 at Super and the team event will be at Air Park Lanes March 22 and 29. Entries may be picked up at both bowling centers. All entries should be mailed with full fees to Howard Shelton, 2408 Neely, Midland.

The annual white bass guessing game is underway.

When winter's chill abates and spring draws near, Texas fishermen start debating the arrival time of white bass. They usually begin to feel the spawning urge in late February or early March and swim upstream, concentrating below dams and in lake tributaries.

Timing is all-important for white bass fishermen, since peak concentrations may appear suddenly and be completed in a week or two.

Texas Parks and Wildlife fisheries biologists point out that there are actually two white bass runs. The first is when the small males make their early spring appearance at the spawning grounds.

Rainfall and warm weather are key elements, as increased water flows can send females upstream to form large concentrations. Luckily for the angler, white bass continue to feed voraciously during the spawning run.

Anglers who want to get in on the available action have a large number of traditional white bass hotspots from which to choose.

On the Highland Lakes chain of reservoirs in Central Texas, there are a couple of spots. One of them is the Colorado River above Lake Buchanan near Bend. Farther down the Colorado, the headwaters of Lake LBJ just below Inks Lake Dam is a good area, as is the Llano River from its confluence with Lake LBJ upstream to just above Kingsland.

Lake Travis offers several potential white bass areas. Just below the Lake Marble Falls dam is fairly consistent for bank fishing although boat launching facilities are lacking.

Farther north, the Brazos River system offers a number of spots. Two of these are the tailrace below Lake Granbury and above Lake Whitney.

The Trinity River system also has numerous areas for the white bass buff. In fact, the Trinity above Lake Livingston may be the hottest area in the state for spring whites, especially those in the two to three-pound class.

In West and South Texas some of the better spots are the South Concho River and Spring Creek just above Twin Buttes Reservoir near San Angelo; San Ygnacio Falls on the Rio Grande above Falcon Reservoir; the Bandera Falls area of Medina River above Lake Medina near San Antonio; and the Nueces River above Lake Corpus Christi to George West.

During a spring run, white bass usually are not difficult to catch. Most anglers either use minnows or small yellow or white jigs. Whites also hit small spoons, spinners and shad-colored crankbaits.

White bass are a natural for the ultralight tackle enthusiast, as the fish seem to prefer small lures and usually are not too large to handle with four or six-pound test line.

Little, Brown publish Dore Schary's 'Heyday'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Samuel Johnson defined "heyday" as "an expression of frolic and exultation, and sometimes of wonder." Hence it was fitting that Dore Schary would give his memoirs the title "Heyday."

The book has just been published by Little, Brown, and Schary was here for the launching. His own heyday in Hollywood extended from 1929, when he arrived from New York to help write talkies, to 1955, when he was fired as production chief of MGM.

The span included an Oscar for co-writing "Boy's Town," skir-ishes with the Red hunters of the 1950s, and encounters with such bosses as David O. Selznick, Howard Hughes and Louis B. Mayer.

Schary, 74, is less vigorous than in his heyday; a heart attack last year prompted him to drop some pounds. But he still exhibits his zest for causes, notably the Democratic Party and the Anti-Defamation League. And his memories of the studio years remain evergreen.

"The movies were fun then," he observed. "We had time to savor the excitement, to play practical jokes. We made big money then — $1,500 — but we weren't scared for our jobs. The studios were making 400 to 500 pictures a year, and we could always find work somewhere.

"The Hollywood scene seems tenser, less fun today. The stakes are so high, and the movies so few, that everyone works under tension.

"I don't understand star salaries. Like Robert Redford, whom I discovered and cast in my play, 'The Highest Tree.' To think that he got $3 million from Joe Levine for 'A Bridge Too Far!' Incredible. The highest-paid star we had at MGM was Clark Gable, who got $7,500 a week. And he could be used in three or four picture a year.

Currently showing at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave., is a collection of 30 black and white photographs by Frank Armstrong, former University of Texas photojournalism instructor. This particular photograph is entitled, "Hot Springs, Big Bend National Park, 11/79." This is the first showing of Armstrong's work in West Texas and the collection will be on display through April 1.

Jimmy Stewart confesses he has stage fright during tribute taping

"Why do the actors want so much money? Does it give them pleasure to drive a $75,000 car and to wear a $1,100 tuxedo? I don't understand it."

Schary has been out of the big-studio picture for 25 years, but he declined to publish until now. Why so long? Because publishers wanted him to dish the dirt, he said, and "that's not my style."

"Heyday" displays malice toward few, but Schary is not kind to Joseph Vogel, who fired him from MGM.

"I had a year to go on my contract, and they wanted me to resign — for appearance's sake," he said. "I said, 'Wait a minute' and I consulted with my lawyer. I found out that if I resigned I wouldn't receive severance money. 'Go ahead and fire me,' I said."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I have stage fright, always have had it," confessed James Stewart as he steered himself for an evening of tribute to James Stewart.

The tribute is the American Film Institute's annual Lifetime Achievement Award.

The dinner ceremony was being taped by CBS for showing March 16.

Stewart is the eighth person to be so honored, following John Ford, James Cagney, Orson Welles, William Wyler, Bette Davis, Henry Fonda and Alfred Hitchcock.

"I think it's very nice, because the AFI is a wonderful outfit," Stewart remarked in the den of his Roxbury Drive home.

"The thing that makes you nervous is the speech. I want it to come from the heart without too much icing on the cake. I asked Hank (Fonda) how he managed it. 'Did you use cue cards?' "No." "Did you have a sheet of paper to refer to?" "No." "Well, how did you do the speech?" "I memorized it."

"GOOD GOD! He memorized it!" Stewart seemed shaken by the prospect.

"But then, Hank always was a fast study. Stage fright? I doubt very much if he has it. One of the symptoms is loss of appetite before a performance. That has been proven medically. Hank — why, he eats a steak before he goes on. That to me is evidence that he doesn't have stage fright."

"I used to have the same kind of stage fright when I played golf a lot. If I had a couple of bucks riding on a short three-par hole, my hand would start shaking so I could hardly hold the club. It's different in golf: stage fright can destroy your whole game. I will say this about acting, whether on stage or in a movie: the minute you start, the fright goes away."

After 45 years in Hollywood — minus four years in the Air Force — Jimmy Stewart remains little changed. Perhaps the hair is thinner and his sentences take longer for completion. Some just drift off unended. Otherwise it's the same Stewart of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," "Philadelphia Story" (his Oscar) and "It's a Wonderful Life" (his favorite).

Jim and Gloria Stewart have lived in the same Beverly Hills house for most of their 30 years of marriage. Several years ago they bought the house next door, tore it down and turned the property into a spacious garden. In the middle of the lot is Gloria's vegetable garden of beets, lettuce, cabbage and carrots.

"YA FORGET how good lettuce can taste right out of the garden," Jimmy said as he showed the garden to a visitor.

Now 71, Stewart intends to keep pursuing his career.

"There are things around that if you keep your wits about you, you can snag."

A few months ago he snagged "A Tale of Africa," made by Japan's Samrio company in Kenya.

"It seems that animal pictures are tremendously popular in Japan," he said. "This one is sort of a pitch for saving the environment of the animals. You see, the forests are disappearing in Africa, because people burn the wood to make charcoal. Also they burn off the grass, and that eats into the forest."

Oklahoma City CBS affiliate won't air 'Plutonium Incident'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The local CBS affiliate will not air a movie which is the subject of a $2.4 million libel suit brought by the parents of deceased nuclear plant worker Karen Silkwood, a spokesman for station says.

The movie entitled "The Plutonium Incident," was produced by Time-Life Films based on a book by Thomas B. Allen called "A Short Life."

It is scheduled to air nationally during prime time Tuesday.

"We elected not to show the movie 'The Plutonium Incident' on advise of our attorneys," Jack Sallaska, KWTV program manager, said Tuesday.

Although the movie is "fictional, some viewers in Oklahoma may have a tendency to relate it to actual events," which are the subject of lawsuits, Sallaska said.

Ms. Silkwood's parents, Bill M. and Merle Silkwood, claim "A Short Life" is "slavishly copied from the life of Karen Silkwood, and contains statements which 'wantonly libel' the plaintiffs.

Attorneys Jim Ikard and Arthur Angel filed the suit against Allen; publishers G.P. Putnam's Sons; Berkley Books; David Susskind; Talent Associates Limited; Time-Life Films and CBS Inc.

Originally filed in Oklahoma County District Court, the suit has since come under the U.S. District Court, Ikard said.

Silkwood was a Kerr-McGee Corp. nuclear plant worker when she died in a Nov. 13, 1974, car crash.

Coming soon: 'The Great Carsoni and His Four-Hour Work Week!'

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Great Carsoni (a.k.a. Johnny Carson) is near perfecting the greatest act of prestidigitation television has ever witnessed: While the world's attention is focused on the illusion that he wants off of "The Tonight Show," the Great Carsoni will reach behind Fred Silverman's ear and, Presto! He'll pull out a shortened, 60-minute live version of "Tonight."

that I'd like to see is a "Best of Carson" (repeats) on Monday nights, then the four hours live (Tuesday through Friday). Then, if they want to try somebody else, give Dave Letterman or Richard Dawson (proposed Carson replacements) Tuesday and Wednesday at 12:30.

"I mean, do a summer camp for hosts. Let them take a half-hour to show the world what they can do. That way, every night there'd be Carson, including the repeats on Monday. Once Carson's got 'em, that could lead into Dawson or Letterman at 12:30. It would work."

Perhaps, but that would be a trick requiring four more volunteers — would-be "Tonight" hosts such as Letterman and Dawson, who might not hunger for Carson's 12:30 a.m. leftovers.

In the end, McMahon figures, Carson will be able to pull the 60-minute "Tonight Show" trick. "My gut feeling is that we'll go on (in a shortened version) for another two years, although nobody has told me that ... but a shortened version would be perfect."

Perfect for McMahon as well as for Carson, because McMahon has begun work on "Ed McMahon & Co.," a monthly, 75-minute Las Vegas variety show being made for pay-TV. McMahon's show — the first regular variety show on nationwide pay-TV, will be distributed by Showtime, the country's second-largest cable program supplier.

"My work load on 'The Tonight Show' is very minimal," McMahon says. "I have the easiest job in the world. All I have to do is read the paper and show up. If I have a sketch with Carson, we'll put it on its feet in the afternoon, do one very loose run-through, and it's fine."

KMND will treat blind to free ice show tickets

When Holiday on Ice presents its first matinee performance March 15 at 2 p.m., 100 of the seats will be occupied by those who are legally blind. That is, if 100 blind children and adults can be found in this area.

Steve Drummond, operations manager at radio station KMND, said, "We've got a block of 100 seats available and, after contacting the Mid-

"A full music sound track, including the swishing sound of skates, will be playing through the headphones along with the disc jockey's description," said Neal Spielberg, regional marketing director for Holiday on Ice.

"It's absolutely phenomenal. You have to see it to understand what it's all about," Spielberg said.

Anyone who is interested in participating in this program or who knows of someone who would qualify is asked to contact Drummond at 682-4300.

Turner, RCA agreement gets Cable News Network begun

ATLANTA (AP) — Cable News Network, the 24-hour television news service proposed by financier Ted Turner, has reached an agreement with RCA Corp. that will allow it to begin operating as scheduled June 1.

The consent agreement was announced by Turner here Tuesday and confirmed by RCA spokesman John Williamson in New York. Williamson said RCA would make room for the network on one of its satellites.

The service is being offered to cable television systems nationwide at 20 cents per month per subscriber. CCN says it has commitments from 226 systems reaching 2.6 million homes and expects to hit 3.5 million homes when the system goes on line in June.

Turner had reserved a channel on a new satellite that disappeared into space a few days after its launching last December.

In a federal court suit filed last week, Turner asked RCA to provide a channel on another satellite or to reimburse him for his investment in the cable news system, which he said has reached $34.5 million.

The consent agreement did not settle the suit, but specified that Turner could use the RCA satellite until the case is decided. RCA previously said customers could use an American Telephone & Telegraph Co. satellite until a new RCA satellite is launched, but Turner claimed that under a 1976 agreement with RCA he should be able to use RCA's first satellite.

Which satellite is used may be important, since local cable systems need a separate ground station for each satellite. Turner now will be able to use the original satellite, which most cable systems already are set up to receive.

If Turner wins the suit, CNN will be able to use the first satellite indefinitely. If not, he will be relegated to the second satellite after 180 days.

"We're breathing a lot easier than we were," Turner said. "They're allowing us to get off in time and I am confident once we're up there, I think we'll stay up there."

Turner said he also expects to appeal to the Federal Communications Commission to order RCA to allow him to continue use of the channel.

Older boy 'messed up' kidnap attempts

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy who spent half his life with an alleged abductor says he intentionally "messed up" other child-snatching attempts by the man, who "kind of spoiled me," court records show.

Kenneth Parnell, who has pleaded innocent to charges of kidnapping a 5-year-old boy in Ukiah, will be brought 200 miles south to face similar charges here in the 1972 abduction of Steven Stayner.

Stayner hitchhiked 40 miles over the weekend to take Timothy White to Ukiah police, revealing at the same time his own identity. Both boys have since been reunited with their families.

MEANWHILE, police announced the arrest of Yosemite National Park janitor Ervin Edward Murphy, 38.

Parnell and Murphy will be arraigned on charges of kidnapping and child stealing in the Stayner case, according to Merced County District Attorney Pat Hallford.

Murphy was to be arraigned today in Merced Municipal Court.

PARNELL, a 48-year-old drifter, was to be arraigned possibly by Friday, according to Merced Police Chief Harold Kulbeth. Parnell is being held in Ukiah on $20,000 bail in connection with the Feb. 14 abduction of the White child.

Authorities said that they had no evidence linking Murphy to the abduction of White. However, the child reportedly told authorities a second man was involved in his abduction, and police in Ukiah said they were continuing to investigate whether "a mysterious third man" may be linked to the case.

According to Hallford, Parnell and Murphy had tried to kidnap one or two other boys the day Stayner disappeared.

Murphy was identified by Stayner as the man who coaxed him into Parnell's car as he walked home from school.

"We understand they were looking for a child," Hallford said.

IN A POLICE interview filed as part of the case against Parnell, Stayner told Merced detectives that Parnell later made several attempts to enlist his help in abducting other children.

Stayner said that on two occasions Parnell asked him to help in the search for little boys in Santa Rosa, 50 miles south of Ukiah and 50 miles north of San Francisco.

On both occasions, Stayner, he intentionally "messed up" the missions.

"A couple of times he (Parnell) went back to Santa Rosa to try and pick up another kid, and he tried to get me to help him," Stayner told police.

"But I just sort of messed... tried to mess things up for him instead of helping him. And so then he sort of gave up going to Santa Rosa, because it was costing too much."

ASKED IF Parnell "ever suggested snatching kids," Stayner replied, "yes, he has," adding, "he's only thought about it twice that I know of, that he's mentioned to me."

During the interview, Stayner told how he lived as Parnell's son for seven years, going to six towns before reaching the one-room ranch cabin west of Ukiah where the pair were living at the time of Parnell's arrest. He said Parnell "kind of spoiled me."

Stayner, who was enrolled in schools as Dennis Parnell, said he made one escape attempt, "But I started heading the wrong way and I didn't know where to go. So I just went back and I didn't know what to do."

HE SAID THAT four days after Parnell "picked up Timmy on Valentine's Day," he decided to try to "get him home."

Several attempts to hitchhike into Ukiah with the youngster were frustrated, either by bad weather, inability to get a ride or because White was cold or too tired to travel after Parnell left for his job.

Once at the police station, said Stayner, he sent White inside with instructions to give police his name.

"I was going to go into town for a little bit and just think about stuff," he said. But White became frightened and ran after Stayner, attracting the attention of an officer.

Kauzov says he married Miss Onassis as 'duty,' hopes for large settlement

LONDON (AP) — Sergei Kauzov married shipping heiress Christina Onassis to do his patriotic duty as an agent of the Soviet secret police, but hoped to get more than $100 million out of a divorce settlement, a British newspaper reported today.

But the Daily Express said Kauzov has no chance of getting a high-priced settlement.

In a front-page report, the London tabloid quoted an unidentified U.S. businessman "with close contacts with the Kremlin" and Western intelligence sources as saying the Kremlin planned the marriage between Kauzov and the heiress to the Onassis oil tanker for ture so the Russian could get details of oil movements, reserves and supplies in the West.

Kauzov, 40, and the already twice married Christina, 29, were wed in Moscow in August 1978, amid persistent speculation that Kauzov was a KGB agent. The handsome Kauzov was ordered to go after Christina and marry her, the paper said. To avoid suspicion, an outside source was used to fix up a business meeting from which an affair and the marriage resulted.
