Collapsing walls and a sagging roof are all that's left of a house at 1604 S. Loraine St. following an early morning explosion today. Matt and Janet Wells and their 18 month old son Jacob moved in Sunday and were in the house when it exploded around 7:15 a.m. today. A gas leak under the floor apparently caused the explosion, which caused the house to "just blow up and set back down," according to neighbors. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Iranian says militants are Soviet dupes

By The Associated Press

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr was quoted today as accusing militants holding approximately 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy of being under the influence of pro-Soviet groups. He also predicted the hostages would not be freed before mid-May, a French newspaper said.

"Unfortunately, they (the militants) sometimes let themselves be influenced by certain political groups favorable to the U.S.S.R., such as the Communist Tudeh Party, which wants to isolate Iran on the international scene," the Iranian president was quoted by the French newspaper Le Monde in a Monday interview.

Bani-Sadr also accused Iran's Revolutionary Council of "weakness and indecision" in its recent confrontation with the militants over letting members of the U.N. commission see the hostages, the paper said.

"If the council had shown itself firm, if it hadn't changed its mind every day under pressure from this or that group, we wouldn't be where we are," he was quoted.

The commission left Tehran today with a veiled threat to withhold its report on the alleged crimes of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi until it is allowed to see all the American hostages, who began their 129th day in captivity today.

"The commission is not in a position to prepare its report and has informed the Iranian authorities accordingly," the five-man panel said in a statement. The commission members flew to Switzerland and New York after their 17-day visit ended without a visit to the captives.

Bani-Sadr's comments to Le Monde seemed to confirm what Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the all-powerful Iranian religious leader, said more than two weeks ago: that the fate of the hostages would be left to the newly elected parliament.

The Iranian president was quoted as saying the release could not come before mid-May because the parliament will not have sufficient time to examine the case before then. U.S. and U.N. officials had hoped the commission's work would expedite the hostages' release.

During a stopover in Zurich, commission Co-Chairman Mohamed Bedjaoui of Algeria, told reporters the panel's mission "was not a failure, but of course we are disappointed. It was a step on the road. But it was not a failure," an apparent reference to some of the evidence collected in Tehran.

The commission left without seeing the hostages after Khomeini backed the demands of their captors, and the Revolutionary Council rescinded its decision to take custody of the Americans.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who saw the commission off at the airport, said he hoped the panel would return to Iran to finish its work. But he reiterated the regime's position that freedom for the hostages will be decided by Iran's new Parliament, which won't convene for another month.

"The commission's task in investigating the crimes of the ousted shah has not faced a failure. Its departure is just a temporary halt," Ghotbzadeh told the official Iranian news agency Pars. "The commission could carry out its mandate completely and without halt with a bit of patience."

He also said an unidentified member of the Revolutionary Council met with the hostages at the embassy late Monday night and "it was proved again that the hostages are healthy." He did not elaborate.

A spokesman for the Iranian foreign ministry told Pars that the commission members were headed to New York to consult with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and would return to Iran to resume their work. Asked about that, commission member Louis-Edmond Pettit of France shrugged and answered "perhaps." Bedjaoui said: "We haven't reached the end of the road."

Bedjaoui flew to New York today from Zurich. Three other commission members went to Geneva and the Frenchman to Paris. All were supposed to arrive in New York on Wednesday.

In a separate development today, Tehran Radio announced that three members "of the former regime and the dissolved Savak" were executed by firing squad at Evin prison in Tehran after being found guilty of "corruption on earth and waging war against God." The broadcast was monitored in London.

Before the commission members left Tehran, Ghotbzadeh got into a heated discussion on the runway with one of the militants who arrived unexpectedly to turn over a package of documents from the embassy files. What the argument was about was not immediately known, but the militants have accused Ghotbzadeh of being a liar.

The embassy captors, after setting conditions last week for a meeting between the hostages and the U.N. group which the latter rejected, announced Thursday they were ready to give the Revolutionary Council custody of the captives.

Family escapes serious injury

But explosion destroys new residents' home

By KAY HORD-CRITES
Staff Writer

An Illinois couple moved into their new residence at 1604 S. Loraine St. on Sunday. This morning, around 7:15 a.m., the house exploded, leaving only two partial walls, a collapsing roof and confusion.

Janet Wells, 18, and her 18-month-old son Jacob suffered no apparent injuries from the explosion, said a spokesman at Midland Memorial Hospital.

"She's just very, very confused is all," the spokesman said. Matt Wells, 23, was being treated for burns to his foot.

"They came (moved) in Sunday. They were just getting it remodeled and cleaned up to live in. They must have been so proud," said Mrs. Jessie Munoz, a neighbor whose husband was one of the first into the house to rescue the family.

According to neighbors, the house just "blew up. There was a lot of smoke but no blaze."

"I've never seen a house just blow up and set down. The roof just went up and back down," said another neighbor.

Fire Chief Raymond Lewis blamed the explosion on a gas leak under the house. The only fire was contained beneath the floorboards.

"I've felt earthquakes before," said Mrs. Munoz, "but it was nothing compared to this. My bed shook and everything. I thought it was funny when he (her husband, Jessie Munoz) said a tornado just hit that house."

Glass from the shattered windows was hurled at the surrounding houses.

Neighbors said once they heard the explosion, people all over the neighborhood rushed to call the fire department and police. According to reports, James McLeroy and Jessie Munoz were the first two inside the house. Munoz had run out in such a hurry he was still in his underwear.

Bobby Yarbrough, who lives behind the house at 1406 S. Loraine St., said he ran over and met one of the men coming out of the house with the baby.

"I was sitting in my chair and that (the crumbling house) was the first thing I saw. I nearly knocked Jess (his uncle, Jess Laneer) out of his chair trying to get to the door," he said.

Matt Wells apparently had been taking a shower when the explosion occurred. His wife, Janet, was still in bed.

"I told the firemen something was wrong with the baby," said Mrs. Munoz. "Tears were rolling down (its cheeks) but he wouldn't cry or anything."

Hospital spokesmen later said the baby did cry and was aware of being spoken to.

A neighbor who asked that her name not be used said Mrs. Wells was in shock. "She just kept asking about the baby."

Although the Wells had met only a few of their neighbors, shortly after the explosion, clothing was being collected for the family, since they had none when taken to the hospital.

"They sure are lucky," was the sentiment echoed over and over again by the neighbors.

America's first test tube baby may be on the way

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — America's first test tube baby may be on its way — but doctors warn that even in natural conceptions, it often takes more than one try to start a pregnancy.

Vern Jones, a spokesman for the in vitro fertilization clinic at Norfolk General Hospital, said Monday that some human embryos had been conceived in shallow glass laboratory dishes and reimplanted in their mothers' wombs within the last two weeks.

Now officials are waiting to find out if any of the six women in the country's first test-tube baby program became pregnant. However, the clinic's co-directors, Drs. Howard and Georgette Jones, said pregnancy is usually achieved only after several attempts.

During the in vitro fertilization procedure, an egg is taken from the ovary of a woman with dysfunctioning Fallopian tubes, where fertilization would normally take place.

Doctors place the egg in a laboratory dish with a quantity of the husband's sperm. Any resulting embryo is reimplanted in the mother's womb within two days, they said.

The procedure was used successfully in England and resulted in the first test-tube birth, that of Louise Brown in 1978.

Windfall tax protesters look to Senate for relief

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organizer of a last minute lobbying campaign by independent oil producers against the proposed "windfall" profits tax says he is looking to the Senate as his best bet for success.

"We feel that we have 53 friends in the Senate who, if given the opportunity, will work the same way," Bud Stewart of Muskogee, Okla., said Monday.

He referred to the 53 senators who voted to exempt from the tax the first 1,000 barrels a day produced by an independent operator.

The exemption introduced by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, was changed when a conference committee compromised between House and Senate proposals.

Stewart said 400-500 independents from seven states traveled to Washington, despite the reluctance of their major trade association, to persuade congressmen to send the bill back to the conference committee for another try.

"I kind of look at it as though fresh troops came into the battle," he said at a news conference. The group hoisted an oil rig on the Capitol Mall as a symbol for their protest.

Stewart said he did not think there would be enough support to recommit the bill when it comes up, probably Thursday, for consideration in the House.

The Senate is scheduled to take up the conference committee report next week.

Tenants' groups are efforts to curb landlord abuses

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a four-part series on landlord-tenant relations in Midland.

By KAY HORD-CRITES
Staff Writer

Tenants' associations are coming to Midland, says Mike Williams of West Texas Legal Services, in an effort to halt abuse by landlords.

"There are some (landlords)," said Ralph Noyes, also of West Texas Legal Services, "who violate the law with deliberate flagrancy which shows the landlord doesn't think of the tenant as a human being. We are talking about legal rights and human rights."

Williams added, "The only resource they (tenants) have is themselves," and predicted tenant activity would increase in a year.

The low-income community largely situated in south and east Midland "is hot. If someone doesn't resolve some major problems — including their housing problems — in the near future you are going to see this city blow up," Williams predicted.

"The time has come when you can't turn your back on these problems because they are not going away."

"It's a situation where you don't have an active tenants' association, you don't have sensitive city ordinances and, on this particular issue, you don't particularly have sensitive state legislation to protect tenants from abuse by landlords."

WILLIAMS OUTLINED the major problems faced by tenants as repairs, deposits and eviction.

"This is still the wild, wild west," he said. "The tenant doesn't pay their rent, and the landlord puts a lock on the door and takes everything in the house as reimbursement for the rent. In the old days when we wore guns on our hips, that could be done. Unfortunately, that is not the law in the state of Texas any more."

Noyes commented that he had seen landlords illegally cut off utilities and lock people out, as well as steal their property. According to Texas law, landlords cannot evict tenants by cutting off utilities. If a landlord changes the lock on a door, he must leave a message telling the tenant where he can get the key 24 hours a day, according to West Texas Legal Services attorneys.

"Another problem is the tenant's ability or lack of ability to get landlords to make repairs, just to maintain the habitability of the property," commented Williams.

Norma Johnson with Casa de Amigos related the story of one Midland woman whose ceiling is threetening to cave in due to a water leak, preventing her from using her bathroom.

"There are a lot of instances like that where the property is just in gross disrepair and they (landlords) won't do anything about it. A lot of landlords know they are dealing with people who don't know their rights so they lie to them and take advantage of them," Ms. Johnson said.

"IF YOU FILE a lawsuit, you'd better plan on moving out. And if you go after the city to enforce their minimum standard code, what have you got?" she asked.

"It just closes the place down and they (the tenants) have nowhere to go. People say get the city to enforce the code, and it will force the guy to fix it up. But rather than that, he just evicts the present tenant and waits until it blows over and reopens it (the housing)," she explained.

"In most of the cases I have had contact with, it is the landlord's imperviousness to the person's needs," Ms. Johnson added. "I guess they have been burned too many times to trust anyone. And in some cases, it's because they are downright mean." "Unfortunately," said Williams, "many tenants are not aware of what the law says and they let landlords get away with it (illegal proceedings). Landlords cannot take clothes, furniture, an automobile or a motorcycle on a lien."

"The sad thing about it is here's a person who's behind on his rent," Williams added. "He already owes someone $200. The landlord rips off his (the tenant's) property. He doesn't have the money to pay the landlord. And if they move somewhere else they don't even have the bed or whatever the landlord took. It's a rip off."

According to Williams, low-income people have another problem with the middle-income segment of the com-

Southern state primaries today

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

Ronald Reagan and President Carter bid for solid southern sendoffs today as Georgia, Florida and Alabama held presidential primary elections...

While conservative Republican Reagan and Georgia Democrat Carter ranked as the favorites in the contests, they will be tested again...

There were precinct caucuses to judge the candidates of both parties in Washington, tonight Alaska, Hawaii and Oklahoma held Democratic precinct caucuses.

The first of an expected 2 million Floridians voted this morning, some of them in the rain. The early turnout was very heavy in Broward County...

The voter turnout was described as light in Georgia and Alabama but elections officials in Georgia predicted a good turnout because of mild, sunny weather...

Sen. Edward Kennedy has given Carter something close to a bye in the southern primaries. The Democratic challenger already has turned his attention to Illinois...

But Kennedy did mount an election eve radio campaign in Tampa and Miami, Fla., trying to capitalize on Carter's admission that his administration blundered in voting for a United Nations resolution...

But Kennedy, who defeated Carter for the first time in Massachusetts, kept his southern investment to the bare minimum.

Carter is virtually uncontested in his home primary in Georgia, and his associates are asking for a shutout. At a minimum, they want to do better in Georgia than Kennedy did at home in Massachusetts, where he gained 65 percent of the vote to Carter's 29 percent.

In a dwindling Republican field, Reagan's only major southern rival was George Bush, who said he would be satisfied "to be reasonably close" to the former California governor.

He took some comfort in weekend public opinion polls showing Bush narrowing the gap in Florida — but those were conducted before Reagan won the South Carolina primary by landslide Saturday.

That runaway led John Connally to withdraw from the race. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee quit last Wednesday.

Rep. John Anderson of Illinois bypassed the contests to compete in his home state. Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois scaled back his campaign, saying only a miracle would give him the nomination. Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas has said his campaign is "on hold."

That left Bush in the two-way race against Reagan that he always said he wanted — but in states that made his task forbidding.

"I'll take all I can get," Reagan said Monday. "I'll take a victory in all three states."

Former President Gerald R. Ford, on the brink of a second campaign for the White House, was due in Washington on a political tour featuring a GOP fund raising speech tonight.

But Ford wasn't ready to make a move. An aide, Robert Barrett, said the former president wants to assess the results of today's primaries and the Illinois contest before deciding whether to run.

Today's voting began as early as 6 a.m. EST in Alabama, and at 7 in Florida and Georgia. Most of the polls will be closed by 7 p.m.

Florida was the biggest prize, and the most closely contested.

The Democratic ballot there matched Carter, Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. who is skipping everything until the April 1 Wisconsin primary. The Florida primary awarded 100 Democratic nominating votes, apportioned on the basis of candidate showings in the state's congressional districts.

The Florida GOP ballot listed Reagan, Bush, Anderson, Baker, Connally, Crane, Dole, Harold Stassen and Benjamin Fernandez.

Tenants' associations try to curb landlord abuses

"THE MIDDLE-INCOME community in Midland has not come to grips with the fact that this is their problem, too," Williams contended.

When a house and piece of property depreciate, that affects the tax base because it means less income for the city of Midland, the lawyer explained.

"When we allow a section of our city to depreciate in value we are allowing ourselves to lose money," Williams said.

"It's easy to say, 'I don't live over there, it's not my problem. It is their problem.' Their (other residents') costs increase because we can't use the land over here."

"And if you want to get into the moral issue, it interests me how people can reconcile that this is one of the richest cities," he added. "Yet the poorest neighborhoods are just as poor as the poorest neighborhoods in any of the larger cities."

He believes the only solution is construction of low-cost housing. "Seniors (citizens) have the roughest time," added Ms. Johnson. "Most of them are on fixed incomes, and with Social Security that means $228 a month. And they're spending $160 on rent."

Those who are classified as low-income may be able to find some help with West Texas Legal Services, an agency which represents low-income people in civil matters.

"UNTIL WE CAME along, as far as I know there were no lawyers in town who were in a position to hold the landlords to the law," said Noyes.

"The problem is to get a lawyer who will represent you. If you are poor enough and you know to come to us, we might be able to help you," he said.

"But I suspect there are some people who don't qualify because their salaries are too high and who have nowhere to turn."

Chris McCormick of West Texas Legal Services added that "as a practical matter, it is very easy for a landlord to break the law because most tenants are not aware of what their rights are."

"I have a fair amount of sympathy for the landlord who has not been paid," said Noyes. "I am not trying to protect deadbeats. I don't think anyone in this office is advocating any more than everyone obeying the law and everyone being aware of the law."

"I'd like to see fair enforcement of the law we have now with private attorneys taking an interest in suing landlords that break the law," he added.

A spokesman for the Midland Bar Association said Midland attorneys have no set policy against accepting tenant's suits against landlords. Almost every attorney in Midland has at one time or another accepted a case on the promise of payment. "Sometimes," the spokesman said, "I have never represented a tenant since I've been in Midland," he said, "but that's because I've never been asked, not because I wouldn't."

WEDNESDAY: Landlord woes.

Possible kerosene contamination closes water treatment plant

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) — The water treatment plant in this city of 17,700 was shut down again today after water possibly contaminated by 63,000 gallons of kerosene leaked into a holding pond, officials said.

The plant was shut down at 3:20 a.m. after an operator noticed water had leaked from a feeder canal. Laboratory tests were being run on canal water to determine if it was contaminated.

On Monday, City Council passed a resolution asking Gov. John Dalton to declare a state of emergency in Fredericksburg to help coordinate clean-up efforts by various pollution agencies following Thursday's spill in the Rappahannock River.

A spokesman for the governor said a decision would be made later today on the city's request.

The Environmental Protection Agency says it will take about 10 days for the Rappahannock to cleanse itself of the fuel, which spilled from a ruptured pipeline.

Meanwhile, State Health Commissioner James B. Kenley said laboratory tests showed the kerosene had not contaminated the water supply.

The test results were relayed to city officials two hours after public works employees and citizen volunteers began cutting off some 3,500 water valves to individual customers as a precaution. The workers, after getting the word, restored the water flow.

Neighboring Spotsylvania County has been pumping about one million gallons daily — a third of Fredericksburg's normal water use — to the city. Stafford County also agreed to provide 800,000 gallons a day.

Dalton said the state will send tankers full of water to Fredericksburg until the city is again able to draw water from the Rappahannock.

City Manager John Nolan declared a local emergency Sunday and ordered city schools closed. About 17 businesses were told to stop using city water, including large water users such as self-service laundries. Nolan said the schools and businesses would be closed again today.

The spill occurred when a Colonial Pipeline Co. line broke. In a simultaneous but separate break in the same

Ten arrested as JDL stages New York protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten persons were injured and the founder of the militant Jewish Defense League was arrested during a demonstration while President Carter's campaign manager was trying to soothe Jewish leaders upset by the recent U.S. condemnation of Israel in the United Nations.

A demonstration against the U.S. vote for a resolution criticizing Israeli settlements on occupied Arab land also occurred Monday in Miami where Jewish militants scuffled with campaign staffers at Carter-Mondale headquarters one day before the Florida primary.

Rabbi Meir Kahane, founder of the JDL, was among six demonstrators arrested in New York on Monday outside a club where Robert Strauss was meeting with Jewish leaders. Kahane was charged with assault, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

Most of the injured were police officers. The injuries were described as minor.

JDL National Chairman Irv Rubin said the group protested because, "Carter and his Jewish collaborators are selling out the state of Israel."

Meanwhile, Strauss emerged from the meeting and said Carter would carry "very well" a straw poll of the 125 Jewish leaders at the meeting. He had attempted to assure them that the U.N. vote was a mistake and that the Carter administration was not changing its policy toward Israel.

"There is no lessening of any commitment in the Mideast," Strauss said. "This administration is moving forward in the peace process."

Backing Strauss, B'nai B'rith President Jack Spitzer said he "sincerely" believed the vote was a "mistake in communications. I believe the president has now placed himself clearly on the record of reaffirming a consistent policy."

In response to Strauss' comment that Carter could win the Jewish leaders' support in a straw poll, Anti-Defamation League Executive Vice President Dan Epstein said, "I wouldn't refer to it as 'very well,' but I think he would have carried it."

Strauss said the talks gave the Jewish leaders a chance to praise and criticize Carter, but he added that the majority left feeling Carter's commitment to the state of Israel was as strong as ever.

Spitzer said, "There's no question that President Carter is doing everything to secure the state of Israel. I believe we'll go forward from this time on."

In Miami, there were no arrests or serious injuries when the demonstrators swarmed into the campaign office and swapped punches with staffers. The group went outside before police came.

After the incident the six men and one woman said they didn't want any more trouble and would focus their anti-Carter efforts at polling stations during today's presidential preference primary.

Firefighters union leader awaits his release from jail

CHICAGO (AP) — After serving nearly three weeks of a five-month contempt-of-court sentence for refusing to order his men back to work, Chicago Fire Fighters Union President Frank Muscare awaited freedom today as part of the settlement in the 23-day strike.

Meanwhile, a brief scuffle at one stationhouse was the only reported disruption Monday as veteran firefighters relieved weary non-strikers who provided protection for the city's 3.5 million residents during the bitter dispute.

During a hearing Monday, Circuit Court Judge John Hechinger, who jailed Muscare, said an appeal of the sentence to the state Supreme Court must be withdrawn before the union leader could be freed.

Union attorney Anthony Intini met with city attorneys later Monday to work out a procedure for dismissing the appeal.

"I only hope everyone's cooled off so I can go home," said Muscare, 54, from his cell at the Cook County Jail.

The union is also hoping that Hechinger will suspend nearly $1 million in fines levied against the union and its officers for defying the back-to-work order.

In an attempt to settle legal disputes stemming from the strike, the pipeline, about 200,000 to 250,000 gallons of kerosene went into Bull Run Creek near Manassas. A fish kill estimated at up to 25,000 was discovered in the creek Sunday.

The creek flows toward Occoquan Reservoir, which supplies water to some 660,000 customers in northern Virginia.

EPA spokesman Peter Ackly said much of the oil was being stopped before flowing into the reservoir. He said if some of the fuel gets into the reservoir, a variety of treatment techniques are available to remove it from drinking water.

Dalton said Colonial Pipeline "has admitted liability" for the spills and said "in practically all instances where a company admitted responsibility for a spill, they have paid for the cleanup costs without us having to go to court."

Colonial Pipeline spokesman Jim Sorrow had said the cause of the rupture was the unscheduled shutdown of the Conowingo Pump Station in northern Maryland.

The shutdown caused a sequential shutdown of another pump station, which resulted in a pressure buildup on the line, he said.

city has said it would ask the court to dismiss suits against the union and also promised to ask for leniency for Muscare.

The strike settlement late Friday night brought some firefighters back to their jobs over the weekend, but most non-strikers continued working until Monday morning.

For the most part, the firefighters' return was greeted with silence, but at one stationhouse a brief scuffle broke out between a former striker and a non-union man. Police said there were no injuries and no arrests.

Robber must serve time, as a man

By NIKKI FINKE

LONDON (AP)—Geoffrey Kramer turned to crime to keep his male lover happy and then to realize a lifelong dream of becoming a woman. Now he's going to jail, still a man.

The 24-year-old bookkeeper pleaded guilty at the Old Bailey on Monday to stealing the equivalent of more than $83,000 from his employer, the English National Opera, and trying to hold up a Liverpool savings bank.

His attorney said Kramer was trying to get the money for an expensive sex change operation in Switzerland. He also thought robbing the bank might draw attention to the "inequality" of the National Health Service's refusal to finance his man-to-woman surgery, the lawyer said.

"It was his genuine belief that he has been ill-treated in a variety of ways and that the matter ought to be brought forcibly to the attention of the authorities," the lawyer explained.

Justice Neil McKinnon said he was sympathetic to Kramer's problem but "even with the best will in the world," he would have to sentence him to three years in prison.

"It is difficult for the average person to understand the kind of problems you have had to contend with," said the judge.

"But whether you want to be a woman or whether you want to be what you are does not alter the fact that you have behaved thoroughly dishonestly and you knew you were doing wrong."

"Since primary school, he has always wanted to be a girl," Kramer's attorney, Laurence Giovene, told the court.

"His friends were girls and he only associated with girls. As time progressed, this matter became an obsession with him."

As an adult homosexual and transvestite, the lawyer continued, Kramer tried to "buy" a stable relationship with another man, 29-year-old Ian Firth. He embezzled money from the opera by getting two different directors to sign two checks for the same bill. One check was sent off to pay the bill, the other went into a secret account in Kramer's name.

Kramer used nearly $45,000 of the embezzled money to buy his lover gifts so he wouldn't leave him, the court was told. Finally, he set his hopes on an operation to change his sex.

He and Firth plotted to rob the Liverpool Building Society last July 31. The police got wind of their plan and were waiting, disguised as window cleaners, when the two young men pulled a starting pistol on the manager.

"I know you have got problems," the judge told Kramer. "I know you would like to be a woman. I wish I could do more for you, but I can't."

In August 1972, a homosexual named John Wojtowicz held up a Chase Manhattan bank branch in Brooklyn, N.Y., in an attempt to get money for a sex-change operation for his gay lover. The incident was later made into a movie, "Dog Day Afternoon," starring Al Pacino as the homosexual robber.

Opening lead: King of ♠.
We have frequently pointed out in the past, and will, no doubt, do so again in the future, that there is more to slam bidding than simply counting up your aces and kings. More often than not, a slam will depend on partner holding a specific king or singleton. Witness today's hand.

It is a principle based upon cool logic that a leap beyond game, to five of a major suit, when nothing has been said about a suit which the opponents have bid, carries with it the message: "Partner, everything seems to be under control except for the fact that we might have two fast losers in the enemy suit. If you can promise that they will not take more than one trick on the go, I would like you to bid a slam. Obviously, I do not expect to lose any other trick, for with two losers in their suit and another ace missing, I would not have proceeded beyond game."

With such a powerful trick-taking hand, North opened his six-card diamond suit in preference to his five-card heart suit since he was quite prepared to reverse the bidding. He was delighted to hear his partner's one heart response, and West's one spade intervention actually made the auction simpler.

North immediately saw slam possibilities, but there were those two losing spades staring him in the face. There was the possibility that his side had a diamond loser as well, but he was prepared to gamble on finding partner with either a singleton or the king; or, at worst, declarer would have to fall back on a finesse. To determine whether his partner has spades under control, North jumped all the way to five hearts.

South certainly had no rock-crusher, but he realized that he had the right cards. Partner obviously was worried about losing two spades, and South's king, with the opening lead coming up to his hand, prevented that. So South accepted the invitation.

The hand was not laydown.

Declarer ruffed the opening lead in dummy, cashed the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond high. After drawing trumps in two rounds, he led the queen of diamonds from dummy, and when the king appeared, all was well.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Eliminating 'killers' would slightly lengthen lifespan

Dear Dr. Solomon: If we eliminate the big killers — cancer and heart disease — can you estimate what that would mean in terms of increased longevity? — Sy

Dear Sy: The increase in life expectancy would not be as much as you might expect. Statisticians estimate that a cure for cancer would add just two years to the lifespan of a newborn; if both cancer and heart disease were eliminated, life expectancy for a newborn would be increased by 10 years. However, at age 65 the average increase in longevity would be only two or three years, because people are increasingly subject to other fatal disease at that age.

It is always a good idea to check with your child's doctor, if you have any questions; if in doubt, don't worry about being judged overprotective; after a time you will learn to differentiate between those symptoms requiring medical attention and those meriting only home remedies.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Dear Dr. Solomon: Some communities require that people who are convicted of drunken driving must attend a series of lectures on alcohol abuse. How effective are these programs? — Tony

Dear Tony: There is little evidence that compulsory educational programs for convicted drunken drivers are effective in preventing accidents. Studies in New York and Arizona have shown that such drivers have just as many accidents after attending these classes as those who do not attend. Apparently, jail sentences and fines are equally ineffective in curtailing a person's tendency to drink and drive.

The problem is not an insignificant one. It is estimated that alcohol is involved in one-half of all fatal traffic accidents.

Woman leads long, fast chase

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP) — A woman who said her accelerator was stuck led officers on a 2½-hour, 150-mile chase from San Diego that ended when she ran out of gas, the California Highway Patrol says.

Dear Dr. Solomon: If my child has a fever, should I call a doctor and can you give some general temperature guidelines to aid in the decision? — Mrs. F.

Dear Mrs. F.: The seriousness of an illness is not directly related to the patient's temperature. Since the heat-regulating mechanisms of young children are not completely developed, they often run high temperatures even when suffering from minor infections. On the other hand, both premature infants and older people seldom have high fevers.

You may find the following suggestions helpful in determining when medical care for a child should be sought: A doctor should be called if (1) a child has a temperature above 101 degrees Fahrenheit (F) orally or 102 degrees rectally, for more than a day; (2) if a fever of 104 degrees or higher remains at that level for four hours despite the use of drugs; (3) if any fever lasts for at least four days; (4) if the child has a fever and is younger than four months of age; or (5) if there are other symptoms such as rash, sore throat, cough, earache, vomiting, diarrhea, breathing difficulties or extreme lethargy.

Man surrenders to FBI at newspaper office

DALLAS (AP) — A 25-year-old Houston man visited the Dallas Times Herald with a strange request that had nothing to do with a subscription, a classified ad or a letter to the editor.

He wanted to surrender to the FBI.

James Martin said he had robbed a bank and wanted to turn himself in, with reporters as witnesses.

"What's the point of hiding? I know I did it. They know I did it," Martin said Monday, claiming he took $2,000 from the Union National Bank in Little Rock, Ark., March 4.

Two reporters sat with Martin as he waited for FBI agents to arrive.

"I decided to give up this morning when I talked to my wife," he said. "She wanted me to give up."

Martin, a sometime auto mechanic, said he sent most of the $2,000 to his estranged wife, who lives near Little Rock. But she told him the FBI froze her bank account when she deposited the money.

He described the robbery as a "typical stereotyped deal. I didn't even have a gun when I robbed the bank. I guess when you tell somebody that you have a gun, that's all the threat that's needed."

For your children's brighter tomorrow.

Federal balancing act

An inflation rate quoted at 18 percent may finally have scared Congress and the administration into using the powerful anti-inflation weapon which has been within their reach all along — a balanced budget. It's about time.

Economists have been preaching for years that federal deficits are the main source of fuel for the inflationary fires eating through our economy. Most politicians have even agreed, but have treated a balanced budget as one of those desirable but unattainable goals, like a cure for the common cold.

The economic news is now so alarming that President Carter is awakening to the fact that his 1981 budget — with its deficit of $16 billion, if not more — is a booby trap on his path to re-election. Everyone wants to know why his anti-inflation program isn't working. An answer keeps coming back: Because he reneged on his 1976 pledge to balance the budget by 1980.

So Mr. Carter is looking for ways to trim $4 billion from current federal spending and $15 billion from the budget for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1. And there are signs that he may get help rather than hindrance from Capitol Hill. Rep. Robert Giaimo, the Connecticut Democrat who heads the House Budget Committee, says a sort of budget-balancing panic is developing among representatives and senators who, in other years, have spent billions of deficit dollars without batting an eye.

A little panic on the budget and appropriations committee can do no harm. It is regrettable that only now are they willing to admit that an economic Pearl Harbor has occurred. Balancing the 1981 budget would be less of a shock — and easier to accomplish — if the 1980 budget were not running a deficit in the range of $30 billion to $40 billion.

And the budget-cutting imperative has come to the fore at a time when the Pentagon cannot be called on, as in the past, to be the sacrificial lamb. The Persian Gulf crisis has created an imperative of its own — the necessity of a new commitment to defense spending to close the alarming gap between the United States and the Soviet Union in both strategic and conventional forces.

This may account for the degree of panic Mr. Carter detects in Washington. The "drastic" cutbacks being envisioned are going to have to come from domestic programs, and in an election year. To say that this is a challenge of uncommon magnitude befalling the 96th Congress is putting it mildly.

There is no shortage of suggestions about where to look for potential economies. By one calculation the government could shave $7 billion off the budget simply by basing the "cost of living" adjustment in federal outlays on a more accurate price index. Justification for the $6.9 billion revenue sharing program is on shaky ground in the light of budget surpluses enjoyed by many states and local governments. Federal job programs are known to be a less efficient way of treating chronic unemployment than tax incentives which encourage hiring of trainees by private firms.

Republicans in the House and Senate who have been making a pitch for budget-balancing for many years — with little support from the other side of the aisle — have plenty of ideas in their files. We're sure they would be happy to offer them to Mr. Carter and the panicky Democrats, free of charge.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, March 11, the 71st day of 1980. There are 295 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1938, Nazi German forces invaded Austria.

On this date: In 1810, Napoleon Bonaparte of France married Archduchess Marie Louise of Austria by proxy.

In 1942, General Douglas MacArthur left Corregidor Island in the Philippines, en route to Australia.

In 1966, mobs swept through Calcutta and surrounding towns in the second day of food rioting. Police killed five rioters.

In 1976, President Nixon acknowledged that he ordered the CIA to try to keep Marxist Salvador Allende from becoming president of Chile in 1970.

One year ago: Israeli Prime Minister Begin and his cabinet went into the early morning hours debating points of a peace treaty with Egypt.

Five years ago: Two Portuguese air force planes attacked a military barracks in Lisbon in an apparent attempt to overthrow the government.

Today's birthday: Rupert Murdoch, publisher of The New York Post, is 49.

INSIDE REPORT:

A Bush failure in Florida could bring Ford into race

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The tone is calm and reasoned, but the message attacking Ronald Reagan is harsher than anything ever said under the imprimatur of George Bush and his presidential campaign.

"Can we afford the same mistakes twice?" asks the mellifluous radio voice in Bush's new commercial. Trying to recapture the initiative in his topsy-turvy battle with front-runner Reagan, Bush's latest commercial charges that Reagan, like Jimmy Carter before him, cannot be entrusted with the dangerous problems of U.S. foreign policy. "He has no real understanding of the dangers we face in the decade of the '80s... He didn't even know who the president of France was," says the nameless voice on the radio.

Written to catch the tail end of a mild presidential primary campaign here, the twinning of Reagan with Carter was blessed with fortuitous timing. Carter's slapstick comedy in the affair of the U.N. Security Council vote was in the headlines just as the Bush ad was being beamed to Florida voters for the first time.

That Bush has to take off the gloves of gentlemanly conduct is beyond dispute if he is to have a chance to hold down Reagan, much less overtake him, in Florida, along with Alabama and Georgia, on March 11.

Here in Florida, Reagan appears headed for a modest win in a major-state primary that got away from him in his 1976 contest with President Gerald Ford.

Evans

Now, most of the signs point the other way. Reagan should do even better in his 1978 stronghold of north Florida and the ever-growing Cuban-American community in Dade County (Miami) which turns out nearly 30 percent of the county's Republican vote. And Bush, lacking the political clout of the White House, is weaker across the central Florida Republican heartland, from ever-growing Republican populations in the west coast's Tampa Bay area to Palm Beach on the Gold Coast.

When Reagan spent one day last week mining Republican votes in Sarasota, Sun City and the suburbs of Tampa Bay, he drew large and enthusiastic crowds, surprising some politicians. To avoid a damaging defeat, Bush must do well in the central Florida regions captured by Ford.

Bush's hot new radio commercial, his managers hope, will turn up the juice on the quiet debate that has dominated the Florida race so far

("It's boiling down to a publicity contest without issues," a Republican committeeman in Flagler County told us after hearing Bush address a Daytona Beach Lincoln Day Republican luncheon February 5.)

Underneath, however, it is not so quiet. Reagan surrogates, with or without his consent, have choked the mails with fat droppings, castigating Bush for his sins in once belonging to the Trilateral Commission. The commission is a group founded by David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, that is devoted to improving trade and economic welfare of the U.S., Japan and Western Europe.

Although the attacks are carbon copies of the job so neatly done on Bush in New Hampshire, he told reporters in Daytona Beach that they were "not giving me any major political problems." Perhaps. But one Bush backer, state Senator Van B. Poole, bitterly complained in a private letter last month to Reagan campaign chairman Tommy Thomas that Thomas was far out of line when he publicly called Bush a candidate "controlled by David Rockefeller and other one worlders." Thomas sent no reply.

Ironically, Reagan has been helped here by Ford's abrupt attack on him as one Republican who just could not get elected president. Even committed Bush supporters were shocked. Bush himself, clearly aware of this unexpected time bomb for Reagan, sought to disarm it by professing confidence not only that Reagan could get elected but could actually serve a full eight years in office until the age of 77.

Ford is fast becoming the third man in the Republican race, eclipsing John B. Connally, Rep. Philip Crane and even Rep. John Anderson. Connally and Crane are no more than potential vote stealers from Reagan and Anderson will not find liberals or independents here out of which to make a Massachusetts-style bundle.

Indeed, if Bush's new attack on Reagan fails to raise the level of combat, the Florida primary, so crucial in some past presidential campaigns, may not signify much of anything. It may signify far less than the prospect that Ford may make a spring trout soon after the single most important classic thus far — the Illinois primary March 18.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Justice has ignored real 'Abscam'

WASHINGTON — Of all the prosecutions against officeholders now in various stages of progress, the most fascinating is the FBI's Abscam investigation. This has employed FBI agents in bedsheets posing as Arab oil moguls trying to buy influence from susceptible congressmen.

But the Justice Department has shown less interest in the REAL Abscam, which involves genuine Arabs passing out petrodollars to curry favor with the White House. The authentic Arab scams apparently have struck too close to home, implicating members of President Carter's personal and political family.

Given the special difficulties of detecting the gossamerlike crimes of politicians and the advantages they have over ordinary felons in avoiding prosecution, the FBI filmed the bribery scenes. The cameras caught congressmen collecting bribe money from the phony sheiks and stuffing the cash into their jeans.

"Does it show?" asked Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., as he straightened out a $25,000 bulge in his pockets. Rep. Raymond Lederer, D-Pa., allowed that he was "no Boy Scout" as he allegedly pocketed a $50,000 bribe, and Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., was heard on videotape remarking: "Money rides. Bulls... walks."

The distinguished Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., was reportedly seen engaged in an unseemly tug of war with an intermediary for possession of a briefcase bulging with $50,000 in bribe money.

The embarrassed politicians have denied the implications of these memorable scenes. Their discomfort, meanwhile, has provoked outright glee inside the White House. The fact that most of the compromised congressmen are fellow Democrats has not diminished the hilarity. For the Georgians who occupy the White House have developed an intense loathing for the Congress people who so often have thwarted them.

The phony Arab influence-buying scheme has also deflected the attention of the press and public from actual Arab influence-buying schemes that could embarrass the Carter administration. Here are some of the genuine Abscam operations that the Justice Department is contemplating with noticeable reluctance:

BILLY CARTER'S LIBYAN CONNECTION — The president's flamboyant kid brother has come under investigation as a possible agent of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi's terrorist-coddling government. Billy junketed to Libya and was treated like royalty by the Libyans who picked up the first-class airline, hotel and limousine bills for his entire party of eight Georgians. The Libyans also handed out expensive gifts, including a silver-embossed saddle for the president's brother.

Qaddafi hoped Billy would put in a good word with the president for release of $60 million worth of U.S. transport planes to Libya. The sale had been embargoed because of the Libyans' support of international terrorist groups. It's unlikely Qaddafi would have unrolled the red carpet for a gas station proprietor named Billy Smith.

ROBERT VESCO CAPER — Qaddafi enlisted the aid of international swindler Robert Vesco in another at-

CHARLEY REESE

Kilpatrick's comments caused a disservice

It is seldom that I disagree with the gentle squire of Scrabble, Va., James J. Kilpatrick, but he has done a disservice to two groups of Americans.

Apparently irritated by George Bush's miserable showing in the New Hampshire primary, Mr. Kilpatrick unloaded his eloquent invective on gun owners and those people concerned about the influence of the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission on our foreign policy.

In the one instance, he accused gun owners of being oblivious to the problem of crime. The National Rifle Association, however, has been urging governments to pass legislation which would add a mandatory prison term to anyone convicted of a crime in which a firearm was used for at least the last 20 years.

Mr. Kilpatrick should ponder why the people who are so eager to register or ban private ownership of handguns have resisted this logical approach for so long. The section of the Kennedy anti-gun bill which would do this is the only sensible part of his bill.

He also implies that the second amendment does not guarantee the private citizen the right to own handguns. If you look at the first federal attempt to regulate firearms, the 1930s act which "outlawed" submachine guns, you will find that it does not ban private ownership of submachine guns. It merely requires that the private citizen obtain a license from the Treasury Department to purchase one.

Now a submachine gun clearly has more criminal potential than a Saturday night special. The law was passed in the heyday of gang warfare. Why then did the Congress not ban the ownership of submachine guns, a ban few gun owners would have protested? They did not attempt an outright ban because the best constitutional lawyers of that day believed that the second amendment guarantees the right of a private citizen to own any type of firearm, as indeed it does. The definition of "militia" at the time of the Bill of Rights was every able-bodied male citizen.

Perhaps the gun owners Mr. Kilpatrick watched in New Hampshire were rude to the candidates, but since when is an American citizen required to be polite to someone who is attacking their basic freedoms?

As for the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission, Mr. Kilpatrick said the obvious — neither one is either a secret organization or part of a conspiracy — but then made a truly incredible statement that is so wrong it's hard to believe that he himself believes it.

"The two organizations are no more insidious and probably are less influential than the American Security Council and the American Enterprise Institute," he wrote.

Come on, Jack. You've been around Washington too long to believe that David Rockefeller, who is chairman of both organizations, is less influential than a few retired admirals and generals on the American Security Council.

Let me cite a non-conspiratorial source:

Thomas R. Dye, professor of political science, Florida State University, wrote in his book, "Who Runs America?" that the Council on Foreign Relations is "...the most influential policy planning group in foreign affairs.... The history of the CFR accomplishments is dazzling: it developed the Kellogg Peace pact in the 1920s, stiffened U.S. opposition to Japanese Pacific expansion in the 1930s, designed major portions of the United Nations' charter and devised the 'containment' policy to halt Soviet expansion in Europe... it also laid the groundwork for the NATO agreement and devised the Marshall Plan for European recovery."

Dye also points out that it was the Council on Foreign Relations which guided the U.S. decision to enter the Vietnam War and later to pull out.

"The CFR's list of former members include every person of influence in foreign affairs from Elihu Root, Henry Stimson, John Foster Dulles, Dean Acheson, Robert Lovett, George F. Keenan, Averell Harriman, and Dean Rusk to Henry Kissinger and Cyrus Vance." Dye writes.

"Evidence of CFR interaction with the corporate and financial world, as well as with universities, foundations, the mass media, and government is found in extensive interlocking between the leadership of CFR and the leadership of these other elements of the policy-making process."

Dye calls the Trilateral Commission the "multinational arm" of the CFR.

So Mr. Kilpatrick is just flat wrong. Furthermore, any American citizen who is dissatisfied with American foreign policy, past and present, has a legitimate right to challenge those candidates who are associated with the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission.

I'm disappointed in Mr. Kilpatrick. He is obviously trying to dismiss the CFR as unimportant and a concern only of kooks. This means one of two things: either he is surprisingly ignorant of the government he has been covering for decades or he cares more about protecting the Establishment than he does about truth. Either one is a sad situation.

DEATHS

R.B. Saxe Sr.

R.B. Saxe Sr.

Services for R.B. Saxe Sr., 87, 3000 Sentinel Ave., will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church chapel with Dr. Daniel Vestal, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park, directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Saxe died Sunday in a Midland hospital. He was born Feb. 9, 1893, in Hermansville, Mich., and spent his early life there.

He was graduated from Eastern Michigan University in 1916. He served in the U.S. Army during World War I. After his discharge, he moved to Fort Worth in 1919, where he started work for Gulf Oil Co. In 1927, he transferred to the Panhandle area, and through the 1930s he was at Borger and Pampa serving in several capacities, including production superintendent. In 1945, he was transferred to the West Texas area.

He lived in Houston for two years, then returned to West Texas as assistant zone superintendent. He lived in Odessa from 1945 to 1958. During his 40 years with Gulf he also served as labor negotiator with the unions. He retired in 1958 and moved to Midland.

Saxe served as secretary of the Midland Rotary Club for many years. While living in Odessa, he was active in many civic affairs. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, the Shrine and was a 32nd degree Mason. He was an organizer of both the Panhandle and the Permian Basin Chapters of the American Petroleum Institute, and was past chairman of both organizations.

Son only 'curious' about father's will

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — Rembert A. Lechner said he always felt like a "stepchild," but still was perplexed when his father, the late oilman Walter Lechner, left $5 million to Texas A&M University and not a penny to his only son.

Lechner said he felt no bitterness toward his father, just curiosity.

"We're all in the dark about it," the son said. "Nobody seems to know just why he did it, but he did go to school there for a year in 1912."

He said the marriage between his father and mother ended in divorce shortly after he was born. And, he said, he never spent much time with his father then anyway, because the elder Lechner was in the service during World War I.

The father later remarried, his son said, and that union lasted 59 years. And even though there were no other children, Lechner said, he was always a bit of a "stepchild" to his father.

"I just don't have many childhood memories of him because my parents were divorced," Lechner said.

"When I got older, I remember he promised to send me to college, but we couldn't agree on a school, so he didn't," he said. "He thought Texas A&M was the only college, but I managed a few years at SMU and didn't graduate."

There were unconfirmed reports

Amin still among missing; Successors don't really care

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Idi Amin's brutal rule still casts shadows over the Ugandan land and people he ravaged during eight years of military dictatorship.

Crime is rampant. The economy is in shambles. Remnants of Amin's army raid northern border villages. Bullet holes pockmark walls and ceilings throughout the country.

But where is Idi Amin himself? And what is he up to?

He fled last April to Libya, deserted by supporters and shunned by former friends as the invading army of Tanzanian troops and Ugandan exiles marched across Uganda. He is believed hiding in North Africa or the Middle East. But occasional reports that he has been seen cannot be confirmed, and the governments of Libya and Saudi Arabia — named as his sanctuaries — have denied that they have him.

Col. Moammar Khadafy, Libya's ruler and a longtime supporter of Amin, "supports the new regime in Uganda," said his ambassador to the Philippines. "Therefore I doubt if Idi Amin is still in my country."

Filipino businessman Demetrio Ca-gapan reported last year that he met Amin in a villa outside Tripoli, the Libyan capital, surrounded by bodyguards. He said the one-time sergeant in Britain's African army told him he escaped from Uganda disguised as a Tanzanian army sergeant.

A London newspaper claimed that Khadafy became increasingly unhappy at having Amin on his hands and hustled him out of Libya after his successors in Uganda made overtures for his extradition.

The report said he went to Saudi Arabia and that King Khaled allowed him to live in the Jidda area after warning him to "abandon all hopes of making a comeback" and not to try to rejoin remnants of his army in refugee camps in southern Sudan.

Ugandan President Godfrey Binaisa gave a different reason for Amin's reported departure from Libya. He told a rally last month Amin fled after his bodyguards had a gun battle with Libyan security forces in which seven of Amin's men and two Libyans were killed.

The Ugandan government has shed no light on Amin's whereabouts. Plagued with dissension and the ruined economy, it appears less than eager to expend time, money and effort on tracking him down, extraditing him and bringing him to book.

Some of Amin's aides are in jail in Kampala; Sudan has barred him from its territory, and his successors apparently consider him no threat.

"We have too much else to worry about," said a businessman in Kampala, the Ugandan capital. "Amin is no longer a threat to us."

The new government has eliminated a number of Amin's laws from the legal code and is proposing to create a special court to try Amin and his fugitive associates in absentia.

Hatred for Amin is still strong in Uganda, where as many as 300,000 people are estimated to have died in tribal, religious and political purges he fostered. But his name is now used jokingly.

"Aminism" has come to describe business malpractices and crime. The star of a recent show at a village near Kampala was an actor impersonating the ex-dictator.

The Tanzanian government also appears uninterested in chasing down Amin. Instead it is concentrating on rebuilding its war-strained economy.

Colombia government claims talks advancing in 'climate of serenity'

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian government said talks with the guerrillas holding the embassy of the Dominican Republic "advanced in a climate of serenity," but no progress was reported toward freeing the more than 21 hostages, including U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, seized 14 days ago.

"The conversations advanced in a climate of serenity and the participants showed their willingness to continue them," the press office of President Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala said after a negotiating session Monday in a cream-colored van outside the embassy, occupied during a reception Feb. 27.

No details were given on the latest round of talks but the statement said talks would continue at a later, unspecified date.

The government says it has ruled out an armed assault unless it appears the guerrillas are going to kill their hostages.

But the government's stated desire to avoid bloodshed has been accompanied by a series of increased security measures near the embassy which indicate the army is laying the groundwork for an attack if necessary.

There were unconfirmed reports that anti-terrorist squads or advisers had arrived in Bogota from the United States, Israel, West Germany and the Netherlands.

In addition to the U.S. ambassador, the hostages include Israeli Ambassador Elishu Barak and 12 other ambassadors or charges d'affaires, five lower-ranking foreign diplomats, two Colombian Foreign Ministry officials and an undetermined number of others.

No Dutch or German personnel have been listed among the captives but both countries have developed crack assault teams to deal with terrorists.

There has been a significant increase in troop movements and security measures around the embassy. Security forces sealed off more nearby streets and ordered news agencies out of nearby apartments rented to cover the occupation.

The guerrillas, who belong to an anti-government movement called M-19, have demanded freedom for 311 jailed leftists, $50 million, worldwide publication of a political manifesto and safe passage out of the country.

Woman finds 'lost' shell

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Louise Green had been curious about her husband's locked wooden box since his death in November of 1976.

Finally, her curiosity got the best of her and while doing some spring cleaning Monday, she pried it open.

Inside, she found some personal papers and a live .30-millimeter cannon shell.

"I kept shaking and shaking (the box) until this live bullet fell out," she said. "I thought 'God almighty, it could have blown up,'" she said.

The shell was about 55 years old, she said. Her husband had been in the National Guard and saved it without her knowledge since 1926.

The 18-by-6 inch wooden box had been locked since his death, Mrs. Green said, and she never bothered to open it because she didn't have the key.

After finding the shell, a little more than one inch in diameter, Mrs. Green said she put it back in the box and drove about 20 mph to the police station, carefully avoiding potholes and bumps.

There, she said, officers detonated the antique shell on the firing range.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, March 12, 1980
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: 1980 should prove to be an exceptionally happy year for you—full of successes, wisdom and love! Personal goals are easier to reach as you work harder than ever to make your dreams come true. A new love relationship makes you feel as if you could conquer the world and you wonder if you should take steps to make this romantic partnership a permanent one. Home and health have strong appeal.

Friends and family support your choices and express new admiration for the way you conduct yourself in both business and personal situations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may be mystified by another's behavior. Do not judge until you know all the facts. You may be faced with difficult decision to make regarding a family member. Do not hesitate to seek expert advice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A new project or hobby could keep you away from home for extended periods. Mate, partner will not be too happy about this development but will support your decision. Keep credit rating in top condition.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A family member could experience difficulty in settling into new surroundings. Be patient and do all you can to help. Plan ahead and include others in planning process. Make sure you pay attention to details when it comes to banking matter.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Rise early to get head start on a busy day. Tend to home affairs before leaving for work or going shopping. Be on lookout for mistakes in bills, paperwork.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tend to routine matters at work. Read and study subjects related to your career to keep ahead of your competitors. Long hours will pay off in monetary rewards, but take care not to overdo it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stress a practical approach in money-making ventures. Remember to return the favor at first opportunity. Home is happier than ever. Participation in civic project can be source of pride, prestige for whole family.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Streamlined methods and the elimination of obsolete steps can increase productivity, improve profits. On-the-job training may be the answer now if you wish to boost your earning power.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Get organized and stick to top priority projects to accomplish much today. No one can stand in the way of your progress. Short sociable lunch gives you renewed energy and enthusiasm.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An excellent day to focus your attention on financial matters. You are now able to be realistic about spending limits. Examine books and ledgers carefully before deciding on best course of action with regard to building your savings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You tend to take on too heavy a workload. Try to delegate some responsibilities so you will have more leisure time. All work and no play will work against your best interests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There is no pressure on you to make hasty decisions, so don't rush into anything. You will soon be in a better position to decide on what direction you should take. Consultation with lawyer or accountant is good idea before signing agreement.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may need to exercise greater self-control when it comes to making household purchases. Do not allow minor money worries to distract you from work or you will have an additional source of concern.

Investigation continues in stabbing death

MIDKIFF — Investigation into a stabbing incident Sunday night which left a Midkiff man dead is continuing, according to Reagan County Sheriff James Proffitt.

Dead from stab wounds to the left side of the chest is Delores Ramirez Lincon, 34, who was in the process of getting papers to be working legally in the United States, said Proffitt.

Lincon, a dishwasher, was pronounced dead on arrival about 11 p.m. Sunday at Midland Memorial Hospital by Justice of the Peace John Biggs. The Midkiff resident had been stabbed about 30 minutes earlier outside Clark Cafe in that community.

Proffitt said two men are being sought in connection with the incident.

side and was stabbed in the chest, according to the sheriff.

No one in the cafe knew who the two men were, said Proffitt, and that makes identification more difficult.

According to reports, the two men walked into the cafe, drank a couple of beers and then bought a case of beer to take with them. An argument started at the cash register with another man, and Lincon apparently attempted to intervene in the argument. He followed the two men outside and was stabbed in the chest, according to the sheriff.

No one in the cafe knew who the two men were, said Proffitt, and that makes identification more difficult.

"My feelings are they have crossed the border into Mexico," he said.

The two men were thought to be in a white pickup and reportedly were seen in a nightclub in Rankin about an hour after the stabbing. Later they were seen in Fort Stockton, the sheriff reported.

Chung may get 15 years

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A military prosecutor today demanded 15 years imprisonment for the former martial law commander, Gen. Chung Seung-hwa, in connection with the assassination of President Park Chung-hee.

Kim and five others have been sentenced to death for killing Park and five of his bodyguards during a dinner at an annex of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

to the army headquarters in Kim's car, and later to the Defense Ministry where the cabinet held an emergency session.

Court sources said a verdict is expected Thursday.

Chung is charged with collaborating with the former intelligence chief, Kim Jae-kyu, who killed Park Oct. 26.

The prosecution charged that Chung tried to help Kim grab power by mobilizing troops at Kim's request, assuming that Kim would become South Korea's new strongman after Park's death.

Chung has denied the charge, saying he did not know that Kim was the killer until Park's chief secretary told him hours after the assassination.

Chung was invited to the KCIA dinner by Kim and was in a separate building with an aide of Kim when Park was assassinated.

But Chung told the court that after he was told by the presidential secretary that Kim was the killer, he immediately ordered military police to arrest him.

Rebels back after break

Well Rebs, here we are back for our last quarter of school until SUMMER!! We hope everybody really enjoyed their spring break, we sure did!

Last week our super bat boys played in the Tournament of Champs. Even though we didn't win, the guys made a great showing. Congratulations to Alan Koonce for being named pitcher on the all-tournament team. Yea Rebs!

A big round of applause goes to the red-eyed Rebel male swimmers for winning regionals! That's the way to splash to a victory, Rebs.

Also, our Rebel trackers trucked to a third-place at the Amarillo track meet this past week. Kevin Harper, Steve Waldron, Phil Carleton and Gary Butler set ANOTHER record in the 440 Relay. Congratulations guys!

The tennis team made a fine showing at their tournament this week too. Keep swinging those rackets to win ya'll.

The Sr. girls in Jr. Council really defined the word "party" this past week in Padre Island! Shelly Smith went fishing and really brought back a catch, we mean David! Cindy Hunt FINALLY let herself go and Debra Steele is on her way to stardom as she sang "Feelings" with that great band Shotgun one very special night. Polly Lankford sure knows how to win friends, bring the Master Charge, and hey Cris Darling, Coma Cozie me. Carol Lookabaugh, LOOKOUT or Barron will push you in the pool again. Gina Bard and Leigh Anne Jones really liked the band, is that why we didn't see them until so late some nights? We'll never forget the girl Sharla Southerland REALLY is. Karen Kalil, do male visitors always catch you by surprise in your room? To the mother on the trip, Letitia Berry, she kept everybody in line, and Kristi Barron, you D.F., but you were great on the Mopeds!! We hope we weren't too wild for Greg Collins and Doug Fox, and finally, Mr. Collins, what do they say in New York? We would really like to say thanks to Fernando, Freddy, Carlos and Robert for making our week so much fun, you're great SHOT-GUN!!!

Don't forget to support our Rebel baseballers, golfers, trackers and tennis team this week. Try to get back into the swing of things after the spring break vacation.

Until next week,

Gina
Leigh Anne

Oil: Its story is that of many area communities

CRANE — The ubiquitous pump jack has displaced the old wooden derrick as the symbol of the petroleum industry, just as today's high-speed diesel rotary rigs have usurped the old, pounding cable-tool rigs.

The pump jack, such as the Lufkin, perhaps will remain the oil industry's symbol until oil has become an endangered product. But this will come only after technology has devised ways and means of pulling that hard-to-get oil from the caverns and reservoirs of planet earth.

Oil.
This magic substance was called "Black Gold" long before wildcatter C.M. "Dad" Joiner brought in the big East Texas Oil Field in 1930. It was when oil brought 10 cents a barrel during the hot-oil days, which Gov. Ross Sterling tried to tame.
Oil and gas gave birth to many towns, such as McCamey, Crane and Goldsmith, and even today the economy of these towns — as does that of Midland and Odessa — hinges on petroleum and related industries.

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

The throes of bringing-in the oil also gave birth to Crossett, Best and Texon. Like old played-out gold-mining towns, these are little more than place names in history books.

Oil. How would mankind get along without it? Indeed, how did civilized man manage long before Edwin L. Drake drilled his well in Pennsylvania and signaled the advent of the Oil Age?

Man managed, just as he managed to "make do" with pen and ink long before the mechanical typewriter was developed in the 1800s and refined in the electric age.

Ancient man, though, was using petroleum, which had seeped to the earth's surface from underground springs, long before Drake drilled. Man had used pitch to coat and preserve mummies, asphalt to build walls, oil for fuel and medicine, and natural gas for heating.

Petroleum's boom was born out of technological necessity. The internal combustion engine perhaps was the greatest incentive to the oil boom. And even today, road-motors, field tractors, mass transportation systems and ships of the sea and air use more of the fuel — mainly gasoline, diesel and kerosene — than any other means.

The necessity and luxury of moving from one place to another at a reasonably fast clip helped spawn the oil boom.

As the demand for petroleum seems to be out-stripping the supply, the price per barrel — or gallon as far as that goes — has multiplied astronomically, as did gold when the rush of 1979 began and continued into 1980.

It's a far different kind of rush than the one of 1849, when many a prospector was sadly disillusioned and relatively few found El Dorado — "the gilded."

Some prospectors and wildcatters reveled in the wealth. There was, and is, a wealth which dreamers had dreamed...dreams of turning base metal into gold via alchemy.

The oil-field pump jack, such as this one at Crane, today symbolizes the petroleum industry, which is the boom of West Texas. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Charges again filed in 13-year-old murder

By BOB KUESTERMAN

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Thirteen years after the sadistic stabbing death of a gas station attendant, first-degree murder charges have been refiled against two convicted killers by a prosecutor determined to see that they die for their crime.

Myron Lance, 38, and Walter Kelbach, 41, who soon will be eligible for parole, were spared from a firing squad in 1972 when the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the death penalty.

On Monday, the Utah Attorney General's office refiled first-degree murder charges against them in the December 1966 slaying of Michael Holtz, 18.

A county prosecutor last year declined to file the charges, saying conviction was unlikely, but another agreed to proceed after the state said it would pay for prosecution.

The Salt Lake station attendant, nude body, stabbed five times, was found in Summit County just east of the city. Police described the killing as the work of sadists.

Lance and Kelbach were tried and convicted in two of six deaths that occurred shortly after they had been paroled from prison on burglary and bad check charges. After the two murder convictions, charges in the other killings were dropped.

They were sentenced to die, and later during a television interview admitted responsibility for all six slayings.

However, their sentences were changed to life imprisonment after the Supreme Court held that the death penalty, as applied at that time, was unconstitutional.

Utah Attorney General Robert Hansen, who thwarted efforts to save convicted killer Gary Gilmore from a firing squad in 1977 and is a strong advocate of capital punishment, has tried for years to have Lance and Kelbach tried under a 1973 death penalty statute.

Michael Deamer, chief deputy attorney general, said the charges were filed in an effort to impose the death penalty.

"We're prohibited by bar ethics from explaining the reasoning, but Bob Hansen felt it was his duty under the constitution," he said.

Under Utah law, persons sentenced to life in prison are eligible for parole after 15 years. Some Board of Corrections "members believe they could parole them anytime they want to," Deamer said.

The men will be arraigned March 19 in Coalville in Circuit Court.

Salt Lake County Attorney Ted Cannon said last year the chance of getting a conviction and death sentence was slim.

"Rather than rely on the speculation of learned attorneys and law professors, we want to present it to a court of law for final determination," Deamer said.

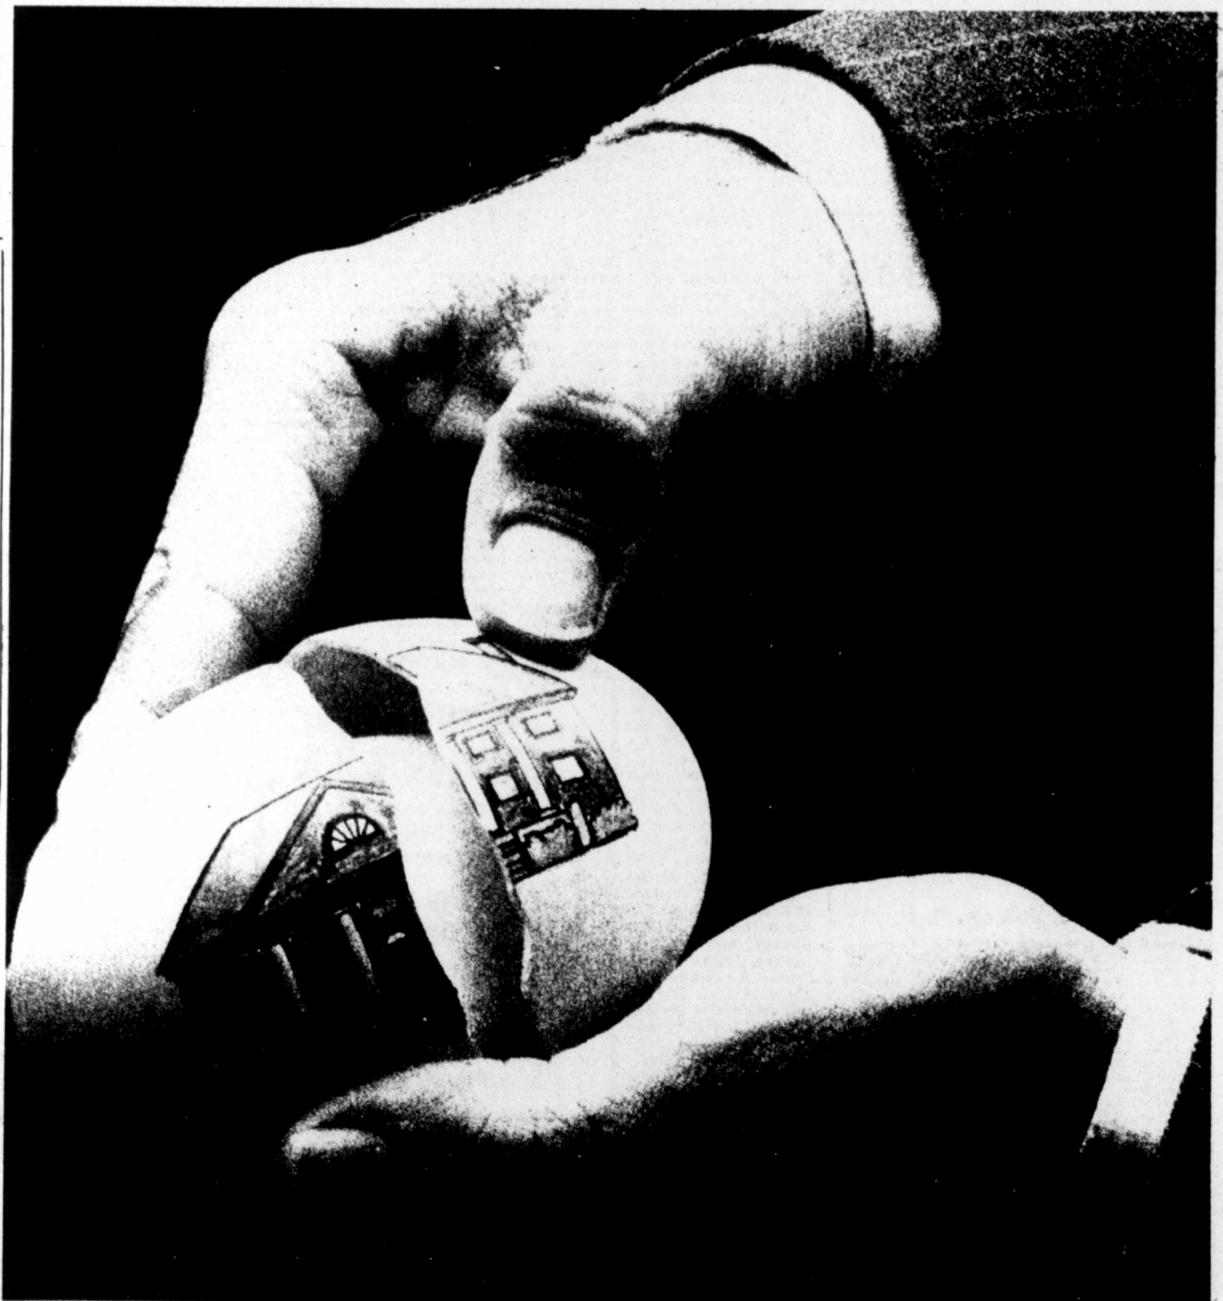

Summit County authorities originally rejected Hansen's request for prosecution, but agreed after the state offered to pay the costs.

The consensus in the attorney general's office was that the action would be seen as a "cheap political gimmick" to win re-election, Deamer said, but Hansen "feels very strongly about this matter and he wants to go ahead and do it even if it costs him the election."

Hansen is up for re-election this year.

Deamer would not say whether the television tapes would be used in the prosecution.

A prison spokesman said Lance and Kelbach had been notified of the charges, but their reaction was not known and they did not announce who would defend them.

WITHOUT OUR TRUST EXPERTISE, YOUR NEST EGG MAY BE A LOT LESS THAN IT'S CRACKED UP TO BE.

Life has a way of hatching some nasty surprises every once in a while. Like plucking the nest you worked so hard to feather to its bare bones.

If you haven't gotten around to planning your estate yet, your family could be left out in the cold, without the things you worked so hard for.

They may not be able to bank on bonds or other fixed income securities. Taxes could rob you of your wealth.

And, with inflation, the money you put aside for your children's education may not make the grade.

In fact, your nest egg may be a lot less than it's cracked up to be.

At Midland National Bank, our trust officers will work with your lawyer, accountant or insurance planner to help you protect and preserve what's yours, with professional estate planning.

We can also show you how to set up corporate profit sharing and pension plans and management trusts; how to reinvest income from asset holdings; and how to utilize tax shelters. To let us show you how, call: 683-2751.

It takes more than just another big bank to keep your nest egg intact.

WE'RE MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BIG BANK.

Enrollment event held by chapter

The Tall City Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association held a spring enrollment event Monday at the home of Faye King, 4623 Graceland.

The theme, "Our Half of the Apple," focused on meeting personal and professional goals through ABWA membership. The event was a highlight of ABWA new member enrollments this spring.

ABWA enrollment events are held annually to introduce ABWA and the local chapter to business women in this area. Throughout this period, similar events will be held across the country by more than 1,800 other ABWA chapters.

"The goal of ABWA is to help women in business advance through education, increased competence and through upgrading of professional skills and business attitudes," Mrs. Laverne Pilcher, chapter president, said.

The association, founded in Kansas City, Mo., in 1949, now has more than 100,000 members. Last year, ABWA chapters throughout the United States and Puerto Rico awarded more than $1 million in scholarships to women students. In addition, the ABWA National Scholarship Fund, SBMEF, awarded another $175,000 in scholarships during the same period. The Tall City Charter Chapter has awarded local scholarships to 14 worthy recipients.

Membership is by invitation only. For more information, interested business women may contact Faye King at 694-4633, Gloria Lott at 694-0421 or Laverne Pilcher at 684-5643.

The Orgena Club Inc., a civic club, installed new officers in a meeting at the home of Mrs. Preston Shearod. They are, sitting from left, Marie Holloway, historian; Pat Traylor, treasurer; and Opal Andres, financial treasurer.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a girl could become pregnant without going all the way. Thanks for printing it. That is what happened to me.

Before we were married, my fiancé and I had gone together for 2½ years. We were very much in love, and just like the kids do today, we did a lot of hugging, kissing and cuddling, but I swear we did not go "all the way."

Nevertheless I found myself very much pregnant.

I couldn't believe it, but the doctor explained it to me exactly the way you explained it: "All that is necessary is for the sperm of the male to meet the ovum of the female, and this can be accomplished without actual penetration."

Even though WE knew how it happened, it was hard to explain to others. We are now in our 60s, and we still kid about it, and call each other... — "DUMBBELLS"

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those "unusual cases" of a woman being a pregnant virgin. I conceived with my hymen intact.

When I went to the doctor, suspecting that I might be pregnant, he examined me and said I most certainly was. When it came time for me to have the baby, the doctor had to deflower me surgically. I never would have believed it, but I am living proof that a girl can become pregnant without going all the way. — MRS. W., TORRINGTON, CONN.

DEAR ABBY: I was very happy to see the item in your column about the girl who got pregnant and had a baby though she was still a virgin. The same thing happened to me when I was 17. He married me, and we have five children. The oldest is now 48.

People never believed me when I told them that that is what really happened. My doctor confirmed it. B.P.

AT WIT'S END

Lifetime of worry?

By ERMA BOMBECK

When do parents stop worrying about their children?

No question has been asked more or answered less.

Is there a magic cut-off period when offspring become accountable for their own actions? Is there a wonderful moment when parents can become detached spectators in the lives of their children and shrug, "It's their life," and feel nothing?

When I was in my 20s, I stood in a hospital corridor waiting for doctors to put a few stitches in my son's head and I asked, "When do you stop worrying?" and a nurse with authority said, "When they get out of the accident-prone stage."

My mother just smiled faintly and said nothing.

When I was in my 30s, I sat on a little chair in a classroom and heard how one of my children talked incessantly, disrupted the class, and was headed for a career making license plates. As if to read my mind, a teacher said, "Don't worry. They all go through this stage and then you can sit back and enjoy them."

My mother listened and said nothing.

When I was in my 40s, I spent a lifetime waiting for the phone to ring, the cars to come home, the front door to open. A friend said, "They're trying to find themselves. In a few years, you can stop worrying. They'll be adults."

By the time I was 50, I was sick and tired of being vulnerable. I was still worrying over my children, but there was a new wrinkle. There was nothing I could do about it. Yet I continued to anguish in their failures, be tormented by their frustrations and absorbed in their disappointments. My friends said when my kids got married I could stop worrying and lead my own life.

I wanted to believe that, but I was haunted by my mother's wan smile and her occasional, "You look pale. Are you all right?" "Call me the minute you get home." "Are you depressed about something?"

Can it be that parents are sentenced to a lifetime of worry? Is concern for one another handed down like a torch to blaze the trail of human frailties and the fears of the unknown? Is concern a curse? Or is it a virtue that elevates us to the highest form of life?

One of my children became quite irritable recently when he said, "Where were you? I've been calling for three days and no one answered. I was worried."

I smiled a wan smile. The torch has been passed.

I sent for your booklet, WHAT TEENAGERS OUGHT TO KNOW, for my two sons, 12 and 14, and they thought it was terrific. So did I. And my husband agreed with me. I never could have told them about drugs and sex the way you did. Thank you for having the courage to write something so straight and easy to understand. All parents want their kids to know how to keep from getting VD, and how to avoid getting pregnant, but nobody wants to tell them. The chapter on drugs and what they can do to you was great. I'm sorry I didn't have something like that to read when I was a teenager. — MRS. Quintuplets born to Japanese woman TOKYO (AP) — A 27-year-old Japanese housewife gave birth to quintuplets Monday at a hospital in Kagoshima, in southwest Japan, and a doctor there said he was "more than 90 percent certain they will survive." The weights of the two boys and three girls ranged from 3 pounds 5 ounces to 4 pounds 6 ounces, the doctor said.

League event is Thursday

Program by Judge Barbara Culver and sponsored by the League of Women Voters will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m. An earlier date was incorrectly printed in another edition of the newspaper.

The event is a 60th birthday observance of the league, whose purpose is a commitment to citizen participation and political responsibility.

Judge Culver will speak on "Women and the Law" in the Roadrunner Room of the Administration Building at Midland College. The public is invited. Coffee, punch and cake will be served.

CLUBS NEWS

New Mexican demonstrates for painters

When the Midland Porcelain Art Club met recently at the Midland Women's Club, Mrs. Cecil Jones of Lovington, N.M., was guest artist-demonstrator. She is a well-known porcelain artist in New Mexico and Texas.

At the local luncheon meeting, Mrs. Jones demonstrated the painting of chickens, including appropriate backgrounds and settings. Mrs. Jones said that she has found a renewed interest in painting of chickens, guineas, turkeys, etc., as "country" decorating themes have become popular during the last few years. In addition to demonstrating, Mrs. Jones displayed a number of pieces of her work, including snow scenes, flowers and vegetables.

Mrs. James Johnson presided during a business session which included plans for the club's forthcoming exhibit that will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. March 30 in the Women's Club. The public is invited to the exhibit, which will be a display of china painting done by club members and a sale of china pieces painted by them.

In other business, the club voted to invite the 1982 State Porcelain Art Convention to Midland.

Midland club members were invited by Mrs. Jones to attend the New Mexico Porcelain Art Convention slated June 5-7 in Roswell.

Twenty-six members and a guest, Mrs. Clyde Hill of Odessa, attended the luncheon. Favors and decorations with an Easter theme were created and displayed by Mrs. Johnson, club president.

In 1967, swinger-actress Jane Fonda made the movie "Barbarella". In 1970, political activist Jane Fonda led a rally to free the Soledad Brothers. She says her consciousness-raising began during the Vietnam War, when she was denounced as a traitor for her support of Hanoi, and life is now a fight "to make the world human again." And her "tremendous salary" helps support the anti-big business political campaign of her husband Tom Hayden. (AP Laserphoto)

Jane Fonda: Six lives of Ol' Henry's daughter

By LAURINDA KEYS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friends called the rich society girl Lady Jane. Then she became a swinger — in New York, Paris and Hollywood — giving gossip columnists fodder by dating homosexuals and making pronouncements against marriage and her father.

Next, Jane Fonda became a "sex kitten," in then-husband Roger Vadim's "Barbarella" and other movies.

The scantily clad, blonde-maned star of the space fantasy film was a far cry from the wife and mother who came back to Hollywood in 1969 to appear in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

And she was further still from the blue-jeaned, clenched-fisted activist who threw Black Panther fundraisers, got thrown off Army bases and was called a traitor in the House of Representatives for her trip to Hanoi in the midst of the Vietnam War.

The word "traitor" came up again last year when the Academy Award-winning actress was nominated by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to the California Arts Council. There were men in the state senate who had not forgotten her broadcast to U.S. servicemen over Hanoi radio: "How does it feel to be used as pawns?"

The woman who once said, "Property is theft," now owns a $500,000 ranch in Santa Barbara. She runs a Beverly Hills exercise studio, is president and sole shareholder of two production companies and owns 500 shares of stock in Columbia Pictures.

Miss Fonda, who refused repeated interview requests, lives in a modest Santa Monica house with her husband, Tom Hayden, 40, their son, Troy, 6, and her daughter Vanessa Vadim, 11.

The ranch has been turned into an ecology camp for poor children and offspring of those who support the Haydens' Campaign for Economic Democracy. The CED was established to elect anti-big business activists to political office and to corporate boards of directors.

Miss Fonda, 42, tries to make each aspect of her life support her cause: "I'm fighting to make the world human again." She will no longer appear in a movie that doesn't "say something." She teaches exercise classes and donates the money to her husband's cause.

"I don't apologize about putting my tremendous salary at the service of candidates who are poor, and he's one of them," Miss Fonda said. "They never bank on people like Tom Hayden marrying someone like me, thus being able to get at least a foot in the door of a campaign."

Her other interests include Indian rights, anti-nuclear activism, solar energy, farm workers' pay and women's rights. "I'm not particularly good or generous," she once said. "The only real qualities I have are energy and patience."

Miss Fonda has received accolades for her acting skill — she was nominated for best actress in this year's Academy Award race for her role in the anti-nuclear "China Syndrome." Her off-screen life has produced death threats.

Frances Seymour Brokaw, the second of Henry Fonda's five wives, slashed her throat when her children, Jane and Peter, were 12 and 10. Jane thought her mother had died of a heart attack. She was enlightened by a schoolmate who got the facts from a fan magazine.

She attended Vassar for two years where, "I went wild and got into lots of trouble." She went to Paris to study art. But when Fonda found she was spending most of her time in Left Bank dives, he took her to New York, where she spent time in Greenwich Village dives.

"She worked as a photographers' model, appeared with her father in two plays and eventually tried the movies. For a long time, she resisted the beckon of Roger Vadim, who had a reputation for collecting beautiful actresses. She said she detested him, but appeared in "La Ronde" in 1964. The romance and her sex star movies began.

Her consciousness-raising began when her daughter was born and friends in France began asking her to justify the Vietnam War. Vadim said, "When she talks about politics all the time, there is not time to establish feelings."

"I have more important things on my mind besides marriage and family," she said.

She was defensive about her movie roles when she began her political tours, trying to distribute anti-war literature on Army bases, putting on anti-administration plays in GI coffeehouses. "I'm up to my eyeballs in guilt that I made 'Barbarella,'" she said.

She divorced Vadim in 1973 and married Hayden later that year. When the war ended, her husband ran a losing campaign for the Democratic nomination as U.S. Senator from California. But he was appointed by Brown to three state panels.

The couple influenced Brown to appoint a censured former POW to the Board of Supervisors of conservative Orange County.

When the "boat people" were forced by the Vietnamese government into leaky ships without enough food or water, Miss Fonda once again took her unique line. "I don't know if we can expect the Vietnamese people to turn free those millions of people overnight," she said, "people who were involved in a war much more hideous than any repression only five years ago." Yet, she donated money to friends who flew medical supplies to refugees.

"New facts keep coming into one's life, new feelings," she has said. "As long as I'm changing, there's hope for me."

2. A Cashier's Check, Certified Check or acceptable Bidder's Bond payable to the Greenwood Independent School District in the amount of not less than 5% of the largest possible total for the bid submitted must accompany each bid.

3. Attention is called to the fact that the contractor must comply with all Federal, State and Local Labor Laws.

4. The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract with the Greenwood Independent School District, Midland County, Texas, and furnish a Performance and Payment Bond in the amount of not less than 100% of the contract price, conditioned upon the performance of the contract.

5. Attention is called to the fact that the Owner is exempt from the payment of the State Sales Tax normally levied against material costs. In order to take advantage of this exemption, material and labor costs must be identified by the successful bidder. In developing this division of labor and material costs, the bidder is cautioned to include all costs and allowances not representing direct material costs with labor. The contract sum, as identified by the Base Bid, shall not include any allowance for the payment of State Sales Tax on materials required to complete the work. The successful bidder, upon award of the contract, will be furnished with a permit number which will enable him to purchase the required materials without payment of such taxes.

6. Specifications and plans may be obtained from the Architect in accordance with the regulations set forth under Deposits and Refunds.

7. The bidder acknowledges the right of the Owner to reject any or all bids and to waive any informality or irregularity in any bid received. In addition, the bidder recognizes the right of the Owner to reject a bid if the bidder failed to furnish any required bid security, or to submit the data required by the bidding documents, or if the bid is in any way incomplete or irregular.

ENGINEERS

GULF SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY, one of the operating companies of the GULF OIL CORPORATION, has a job opening for an engineer desiring to join a reservoir and formation characterization group. This group provides special well and reservoir evaluation services to GULF's worldwide production operations.

The position requires a degree in Petroleum, Mechanical, Electrical or Chemical Engineering. Responsibilities for the job include maintaining and operating custom designed logging units, and performing unique transient pressure tests. The successful candidate would be in charge of designing, conducting, analyzing and reporting the test projects. Onsite work at worldwide locations may consume up to one-half of the engineers time.

The group is based at our Southwest Houston location, away from the Downtown congestion. Qualified applicants are invited to submit their resumes to the address below. The interviews will be conducted in Odessa, Texas.

SPORTS IN BRIEF
Bamberger is hospitalized

By The Associated Press

BASEBALL — Manager George Bamberger, hospitalized after complaining of chest pains last week, suffered a mild heart attack and is expected to remain off the job about two months to recuperate, the Milwaukee Brewers announced.

Bamberger will be hospitalized another week, and he is expected to spend about two months recuperating after his release.

Third base coach Bob "Buck" Rodgers is expected to serve as acting manager in the absence of Bamberger.

TENNIS — Top-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland scored a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Hartmut Kirchhuel of West Germany in the first round of the German Open tennis championships.

In other first-round action, Kim Warwick of Australia defeated Ronum Bieren of Britain 6-3, 7-6 and Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia defeated Jean Jaubert of South Africa 6-4, 6-3.

Austria's Johan Kriek upset fifth seeded Tim Gullikson 6-4, 6-4 and Romania's Ilie Nastase defeated Bill Scanlon 7-6, 6-1 in the first round of a $175,000 World Tennis tour event.

In other matches, Colin Dibley of Australia beat countryman Teddy Rocavert 6-4, 4-1 by default after Rocavert withdrew out with a leg injury; Chris Delaney ousted Mark Albert of the Netherlands 4-6, 6-4, 7-5; Dutch champion Louk Sanders eliminated Carlos Kurmayer of Brazil 7-5, 7-5; and Buster Mottram of Britain disposed of Dirk Wilborts of the Netherlands 6-3, 6-0.

Yugoslavian Mima Jausovek upset eighth-seeded Greer Stevens of South Africa 6-2, 6-1 in the opening round of a $125,000 women's professional tennis tournament.

In other matches, Joanne Russell ousted Beth Norton 6-1, 2-6, 6-1; seventh-seed Virginia Ruzici of Romania downed Caroline Stoll 6-4, 6-3; Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa ousted Peanut Louis 6-2, 6-2 and Mary Lou Piatek eliminated Anne Smith 6-4, 6-3.

SUMMER OLYMPICS — The International Amateur Athletic Federation announced it would withhold approval from any athletic meets organized to coincide with the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow as part of a boycott over Afghanistan.

The 18-member council of the IAAF said that when the Olympic Games take place, international track and field meets in a country not taking part in the Olympic Games will not be sanctioned by the IAAF.

This was a clear reference to suggestions that the United States organize a sort of counter-Olympics to punish Moscow for its military intervention in Afghanistan.

BASKETBALL — Cliff Robinson of the New Jersey Nets was named player of the week by the National Basketball Association.

The Nets' rookie had 23 points in the fourth quarter Thursday in a 122-96 victory at Washington and 21 points in the fourth quarter Sunday in a 140-100 triumph over Detroit. In four games during the past week, the former University of Southern California star averaged 24.5 points while playing 26 minutes a game.

Texas teams take dive in tough NIT

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The second round of the National Invitation Tournament produced some surprises in Southwestern Louisiana and Murray State.

The three Big Ten teams also won. That was no surprise at all.

While Southwestern Louisiana was pulling off a 77-76 upset over Texas at Austin and Murray State was stunning Alabama 70-62 at Tuscaloosa, the Big Ten representatives continued to make their presence vitally felt Monday night in the nation's oldest postseason basketball tournament.

Michigan defeated Texas-El Paso 74-65, Illinois stopped Illinois State 75-65 and Minnesota turned back stubborn Mississippi 58-56 to move into Thursday night's third round.

Michigan will play then at Virginia, a 57-55 conquerer of Boston College Monday night; Illinois will play host to Murray State and Minnesota will entertain Southwestern Louisiana.

St. Peter's will visit Nevada-Las Vegas in the other third-round game. The Peacocks edged Duquesne 34-33 and the Runnin' Rebels trimmed Long Beach State 90-81 in Monday night's other NIT action.

Carl Jordan's jump shot from the free throw line under tight defensive pressure with four seconds remaining led Southwestern Louisiana over Texas. That was the second time in the NIT that the Ragin' Cajuns had won as time ran out.

"That was a heck of a shot," said Texas Coach Abe Lemons of Jordan's jumper. "He hadn't done much all night. It was the kind of shot you'd want them to take ... but he made it."

After Jordan put the Ragin' Cajuns on top, Texas called time out with four seconds left. Texas freshman Fred Carson got the ball to the 6-foot-10 LaSalle Thompson but his 6-foot shot hit the rim as the buzzer sounded.

"If he'd just got it up above the rim it would at least had a chance to go in," said Lemons.

Mont Sleet scored 25 points, including seven crucial free throws in the second period, to lead Murray State past Alabama. Sleet's late free throws helped Murray State hold off a late comeback by the Crimson Tide.

Mike McGee scored 25 points to pace Michigan over Texas-El Paso. The Wolverines held a 35-28 advantage at the half and never relinquished their lead.

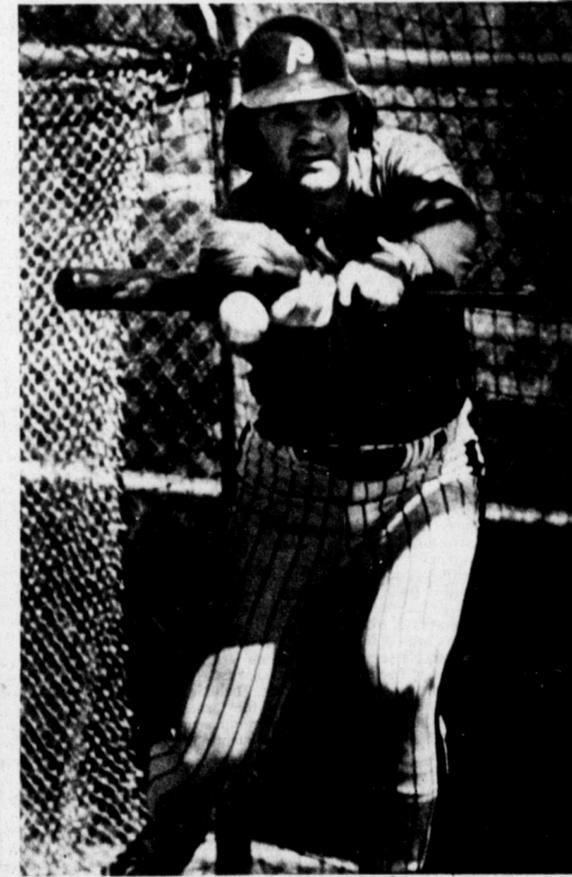

"McGee's a great player," said UTEP Coach Don Haskins. "We knew McGee was going to hurt us because 6-5 forwards have hurt us all year."

Haskins conceded, however, that his players were tired.

"We were in the Chicago airport for six hours and we didn't practice," he said. "We came over today and practiced for an hour. That hurt us. Then we got behind and we kind of lost our poise. We were trying to score eight points at a time."

Eddie Johnson scored 25 points to lead Illinois past Illinois State. The Illini led 29-19 at intermission and held leads up to 14 points in the second half.

"They made the plays to win," said Illinois State Coach Bob Donewald. "We had kids taking shots they usually make, but they weren't going in."

Phillies' first baseman Pete Rose takes his turn at batting practice during spring training camp in Clearwater, Fla. Last year, Rose became the first player in history to collect 200 or more hits in 10 seasons. See baseball story Page 2D. (AP Laserphoto)

You can call them anything

But never count Syracuse out of it

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Syracuse basketball team has been called the "Beast of the East" on many occasions, but Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino thinks the Orangemen can be even more frightening than that.

"Syracuse is a good enough team to win the whole thing," says Massimino, talking of course about the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Massimino has the marks to prove it, after a 97-83 whipping by the Orangemen Sunday in a second-round game of the East Regionals.

The nation's sixth-ranked team displayed the kind of firepower and depth usually associated with a national champion. The Orangemen played for the most part without fabled Roosevelt Boeheim and got a sub-par game from high scorer Louis

Orr, yet had enough in reserve to win handily.

Among the players with whom Iowa will have to contend in the East Regional semifinals in Philadelphia Friday night will be Erich Santifer, who scored 29 points against Villanova.

"When I came to Syracuse I was hoping to play a lot of forward," says Santifer. "I thought with Boeheim and I up front, it would be a good lineup."

It has been good enough to win 26 of 29 games and keep the rich Orangenemen in the Top Ten all season.

"We just keep playing better and better," says Coach Jim Boeheim, "and getting the easy shots inside."

Sunday's victory in Providence, R.I., incidentally, was Boeheim's 100th in just four years of coaching at Syracuse.

Along with Syracuse, another of the East's formidable teams will be on display in the Philadelphia doubleheader when Big East champion

Georgetown plays Maryland of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Iowa, by the way, is one of four Big Ten teams still left in the field, which was reduced to 16 over the weekend.

The other Big Ten representatives — Purdue, Indiana and Ohio State — all will see action Thursday night.

In the Midwest Regionals at Lexington, Ky., it will be Purdue against Indiana and Duke (Atlantic Coast Conference) vs. Kentucky (Southeastern Conference). In the West Regionals at Tucson, Ariz., Clemson (ACC) will play Lamar (Southland) and UCLA (Pac-10) will meet Ohio State.

In another regional semifinal doubleheader Friday night, Louisville of the Metro Conference will play Texas A&M (Southwest Conference) and Missouri (Big Eight) will take on Louisiana State in the Midwest Regionals at Houston.

Who tops TV cage ratings?

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Both sides are claiming victory in the basketball ratings battle between CBS and NBC, the pros vs. the colleges.

NBC says it posted higher cumulative ratings for the eight Sundays during the regular season when both networks aired basketball games. CBS, however, notes that its ratings are up from a year ago while NBC's are down, and contends that this change is the vital factor.

Because there are so many variables, it's really hard to pick a winner in this race. On several weeks the games were not shown at the same time, so the effect of lead-in programs must be considered. The NBA All-Star Game did very well, as expected, but is it fair to compare it to a regular season college game? And then there were the two weeks when ABC showed the Winter Olympics, obviously taking away a large chunk of the sports viewing audience.

Naturally, each network looks at the Nielsen numbers in the light that is most favorable to its own show.

Mike Cohen, a spokesman for NBC sports, says the network's cumulative statistics showed a 6.0 rating and 16 audience share for the college games against a 5.8 rating and a 15 share for the pros. NBC trailed from the start but pulled in front on the final Sunday, March 2, when the Ohio State-Indiana matchup for the Big Ten title beat the NBA game between Los Angeles and Phoenix by nearly a 2-1 margin.

The rating indicates the percentage of total television sets that are tuned in to a given program, while the audience share is the percentage of sets in use tuned to that program.

"We still came out ahead even though we didn't do anything extra this year to promote college basketball vs. the NBA," said Cohen, alluding to the heavy promotion campaign mounted by CBS for its pro telecasts.

"I think next year you may see the network (NBC) do more as far as promoting or juggling schedules."

Jay Rosenstein, a spokesman for CBS sports, points out that the ratings for NBA games are up 14 percent over last year, while the ratings for the college games are down 13 percent.

"Even if you take away our All-Star Game, which did very well, there was still about a 25 percent swing in our favor from last year," said Rosenstein. "We hope we can hold our own during the NCAA playoffs, then pick up again in our playoffs."

Rosenstein said CBS plans to televise doubleheaders on Sundays through the early rounds of the playoffs, except for April 13 when one game will be shown prior to the final round of the Masters golf tournament. The network will also show late-night games, starting at 11:30 p.m., every Friday, as well as some Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Gann's offense lifts Pack to victory

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Centerfielder Tracy Gann doubled and tripled Monday to spark the Midland High Bulldogs to a 10-6 victory over the Class AAA Snyder Tigers in a non-district baseball game at the Memorial Stadium diamond.

While Gann was applying the muscle, lefthander Paul Cox and relief pitcher Joel Castaneda, were holding off the Tigers while giving up eight hits.

GANN DOUBLED in the third inning and smacked a triple in the fourth inning as the Pack took advantage of five Snyder errors to record their second win in five outings going into today's game in Lubbock with undefeated Coronado.

Snyder took a 2-0 lead off Cox in the first inning, mainly on two Bulldog errors. Bryan Vincent was safe on an error by first baseman Shawn Mowles and pitcher Mike Roemisch also reached base safely on a miscue by second baseman Russell Wickman to open the gates for the Tigers.

Vincent was forced at second after he was safe, but catcher Toby Neves tripled in Roemisch and scored himself on a sacrifice fly to center by first baseman Sammy Willis for the 2-0 lead.

NOT TO BE outdone, MHS came right back with a pair of runs off Roemisch. Eddie Portillo walked and went to second when Jerry Zachery grounded out to first. Cox walked and scored on an error on Gann's groundout to second. Gann scored later in the inning on a groundout to second to tie the game, 2-2.

Paul Gafford led off the Snyder second with a single, stole second and scored after teammates Bobby Degrate walked and Tussell Thane was safe on an error at second to load the sacks. A sacrifice fly off the bat of Vincent scored Gafford for a 3-2 Snyder lead.

With two out in the bottom of the third, Gann doubled and scored on a run-scoring single by Castaneda to tie the game once again, 3-3.

A big four-run outburst in the fourth inning gave Coach Tim Whalen's crew the lead for good. Wickman singled and Mowles was safe on an error by Thane at third. A walk to Portillo loaded the bases and Zachery doubled in Wickman and Mowles. Portillo scored on a groundout to first by Cox and Gann tripled in Zachery with the ball just missing being a homer by about two feet to left-center.

Steve Gressett came in to get Castaneda to pop out to first, but Midland now led, 7-3.

Another three-run burst in the fifth by the Purple Pack iced the game when Perry Bolger walked, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Wickman's second hit of the afternoon. When the ball got away from Degrate in left, Wickman wound up at third. Mowles walked and Zachery knocked in him with a single.

SNYDER CAME back to score twice in the sixth and once in the seventh, but it was too late. Degrate's two-run double keyed the rally in the sixth and Degrate also singled in brother Tony in the seventh.

Cox picked up the win on the mound and Whalen will call upon Mark Hewitt to try and silence the Coronado bats today in Lubbock. Coronado is 4-0 and defeated Odessa Permian, 6-1, last Friday.

Midland was without the services of outfielder Bobby Stovall, catcher Frank Garramone and infielder David Zarate who are all out with injuries. Stovall, an all-tourney selection in last week's Tournament of Champions, was on the sidelines with a wrist injury he suffered while making a diving catch of a foul ball in deep left field against R.L. Turner Saturday. Zarate was hurt in the first game of the tourney against Duncanville and Garramone has a sore arm.

Lee Rebels bomb Pecos in non-district affair

PECOS — Righthander Wade Cartwright set the Pecos Eagles down on four hits Monday to pitch the Midland Lee Rebels to a 4-0 non-district baseball victory.

Cartwright struck out eight Eagles and walked one to give Coach Ernie Johnson's Rebs a 2-5 season record going into today's 4 p.m. clash with powerful Lubbock Monterey at the Lee diamond.

Lee scored all the runs it needed in the first inning off loser Arreguy with a three-run outburst.

Robert Perez and Cartwright walked and Barry Corley flew out to center. Randy Velarde also skied out to center, but Cliff Collyer worked Arreguy for a walk to load the bases. Scott Collins then stepped up to the plate and unloaded a double.

The Rebels added an insurance run in the top of the fifth inning. Perez was safe on an error by Arreguy, stole second and scored on an error by Bobby Mosby in center for the final 4-0 reading.

Lee committed three errors, but they didn't come at critical times.

Following today's game with Monterey, Lee enters the Hobbs, N.M. Invitational on Thursday and will face El Paso Burges in its first game.

Junior Alan Koonce will pitch today against Monterey's Steve Coleman who threw a no-hitter last Friday in the Tournament of Champions.

Louisville's 'Dr. Dunkenstein' receives honor

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Darrell Griffith, a 6-foot-4 senior who sparked Louisville to a 26-3 record during the regular season, was chosen Monday the player of the year in college basketball by Sporting News, a weekly publication.

The selection of Griffith, who averaged 22.7 points with his 56 percent shooting, was by a vote of National Basketball Association general managers and scouts. The Cardinals' standout edged DePaul's Mark Aguirre for the honor by a single vote.

Griffith and Aguirre occupy two positions on an All-American team chosen for the Sporting News. Other selections are Mike O'Koren, North Carolina; Kyle Macy, Kentucky; and Joe Barry Carroll, Purdue.

NFL czars block move by Raiders

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Managing general partner Al Davis of the Raiders finds himself in a almost untenable position today because he wants to move to Los Angeles and the National Football League demands he stay in Oakland.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said 22 of the league members voted against permitting Davis to move his team into the vacant Los Angeles Coliseum with five abstentions and Oakland not voting.

Rozelle said the "morality of hop-scotching franchises" was one of the main factors in Monday's vote.

Davis said he still plans to play in Los Angeles but Rozelle retorted, "The Oakland Raiders will play their games in the Oakland Coliseum in 1980."

Houston Kashmere tops AAAA all-tourney team

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Champion Houston Kashmere and runnerup Plano grabbed all five places on the Class 4A all-state tournament basketball team.

Kirk Lundblade of Plano and Wayne Johnson of Kashmere, which won the title over Plano 70-69, were unanimous choices.

Others selected to the 4A team were Alfred Godine and Luster Goodwin of Kashmere and Jack Crain of Plano.

Godine's layup with eight seconds remaining was the winning basket in the championship game. Goodwin intercepted a Plano pass to seal the victory.

In 3A Randy Samuels of Beaumont Hebert was a unanimous selection. Joining him on the all-star team were teammate George Welford, Todd Chambers of Bay City, Ken Cox of Waxahachie and Mark Preston of Snyder.

Vancouver cools Minnesota owner Cal Griffith: hot flames, 5-2 Is he last of a vanishing breed?

ATLANTA (AP) — Harry Neale wouldn't call it revenge, but it was sweet.

"We weren't worried about revenge. We wanted the two points. But I have to confess I did remind my fellows what they did to us in the third period last Friday," the Vancouver coach said after his Canucks defeated Atlanta 5-2 Monday night.

Last Friday, the Flames came up with five third-period goals to trouble the Canucks 9-3 in Vancouver.

"We wanted this one bad," said Brent Ashton, whose four assists tied a club record. "We play well on the road. Last Friday night we got burned on several two-on-ones and tonight we made sure we had the third man down."

Ashton set up three second-period goals, two by Gary Lupul.

In the only other National Hockey League game, Mario Tremblay scored in each of the first two periods and Pierre Larouche added a pair of unassisted goals 21 seconds apart in the final stanza as the Montreal Canadiens defeated the Los Angeles Kings 6-3 and clinched first place in the Norris Division.

Vancouver and Atlanta were tied 1-1 when Ashton fed Lupul for a power-play goal. Less than a minute later, ex-Flame Ivan Boldirev took an Ashton pass and drilled a short shot past goalie Pat Riggin.

Ashton fed Lupul again at 15:45, then set up Dave Williams for the Canucks' final goal at 11:17 of the third period.

"They came in steaming," said Flames Coach Al MacNeil. "They got us messed up in some penalties and took our drive away from us. They were sharp in all departments. They ran away with it. Vancouver is going to play physical from now on."

"I hate the game after a road trip. They're deadly. We came in dull. We had a lot of guys who were not psyched up. We had a long, rough trip. But we got in at 2 this morning and they got in at 4, so we can't hang our hat on that."

Vancouver cools Minnesota owner Cal Griffith: hot flames, 5-2 Is he last of a vanishing breed?

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — He is the last of a vanishing baseball breed — an owner in the game for love and survival — and he sees nothing but black clouds ahead.

"The players all say they want security," said Calvin Griffith, president and board chairman of the Minnesota Twins. "What security do the owners have?"

"Salaries are soaring out of sight. Agents have been cockeyed. Where are we going to go? What is the future? It worries me."

Griffith is one of the club owners caught in the current squeeze of the renegotiation of a new players' agreement, effective with the 1980 season.

Many insiders predict a strike. Even the most optimistic foresee a bitter, blood-letting battle in the council rooms and a delay in the campaign opening.

"We have to taper off some way," said Griffith, propping his feet on the desk of his executive office at Tinker Field, the Twins' training headquarters.

"We must get away from the arbitration. We must devise some means of proper compensation for players lost in the free agent draft. Some rein must be put on payrolls. We can't survive the way we are going."

Griffith is unique in the modern bigtime baseball structure. He doesn't own shipyards. He doesn't sell billions of hamburgers a year. He is not a Wall Street conglomerate. He is merely the head of a ball club that has been in the family for generations.

He and his sister, Mrs. Thelma Griffith Hayes, inherited it from their uncle, Clark Griffith, long boss of the Washington Senators. The elder Griffith died in 1955. Five years later the franchise was moved to Minnesota where it has compiled a winning record (.523) for 19 years and frequently finished in the black.

Richardson accepts Tulsa position

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A West Texas coach who has won three consecutive national junior college tournament titles next week has been picked to succeed Jim King at the University of Tulsa.

Nolan Richardson, 38, is leaving Western Texas Junior College to replace King, who resigned Feb. 1 after five consecutive losing seasons.

King's assistant, Bill Franey, has been interim coach.

Richardson's teams in his three seasons at Western Texas have compiled a 93-13 record, including this year's 33-0 mark going into the junior college tournament next week at Hutchinson, Kan. He will continue to coach the team through the tournament.

The team has averaged 101.5 points per game this year while holding opponents to an average of 80.

A university committee screened more than 100 applicants in the past month to pick a successor.

Terms of Richardson's contract were not announced.

Richardson is a 1965 graduate of Texas Western, now the University of Texas at El Paso. After a brief period with the San Diego Chargers of the National Football League, Richardson played a year for the Dallas Chaparrals professional basketball team.

Texas democrats set May 3 poll

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Democratic voters get a chance May 3 to say who they think the Democratic presidential nominee should be.

The 35-27 decision was made Monday by the State Democratic Executive Committee after nine months of indecision.

The non-binding voter opinion poll will have no direct effect on selection of national convention delegates who will choose the nominee.

In some ways the "beauty contest" balances a similar poll by Texas Republicans, although the GOP straw vote directly affects selection of national convention delegates.

Backers of the Democratic referendum, including supporters of Sen. Edward Kennedy, claimed the poll was necessary to gain voters' views.

Opponents, including many supporters of President Jimmy Carter, contended it had no practical value and would just divide the party.

As a result, the May 3 Democratic primary ballot will ask: "From the following, who is your preference for the Democratic Party's 1980 nominee for President?"

1. Jimmy Carter. 2. Edward Kennedy. 3. Edmund G. Brown. 4. Uncommitted.

The order on the ballot was decided by a drawing at the committee meeting.

The "uncommitted" choice was added by a 34-28 vote.

State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg, an avowed backer of Carter, said he had spent the last 10 days checking "grassroots" sentiment...

Goldberg said he thought the question should be decided on the basis of "what is best for the party...we are not depriving anyone of a right to vote."

"This is an opportunity for the people of Texas to take part in the Democratic process," said Richard Solo, Dallas, a Kennedy supporter.

"This will lead to bitterness in the end, it will confuse the voters, it is very dangerous and detrimental to the party," said Bob Hauge, Houston.

"A presidential primary may be cosmetic but it will get the people out to the polls and that is what politics is all about," said Frank Thompson, Houston.

"A convention is very easy to railroad contrary to the will and wish of ordinary Democrats," said Frank Aldrete, El Paso.

The state Democratic committee decided last July against picking national convention delegates on the basis of a presidential straw vote...

Earlier, Goldberg welcomed any of the supporters of John Connally, and the former governor himself, if they wanted to return to the Democratic Party. Connally, a former Democrat, quit Sunday as an aspirant for the GOP presidential nomination.

"We are not out to exclude anyone," Goldberg said. "Many of these people I predict will be disenchanted because their favorite son spent $10 million in the GOP ranks and won only one delegate..."

Goldberg quoted from political polls taken in early 1979 and in February.

Republicans will also vote on two Clements proposals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Voters in the May 3 Republican primary will have an opportunity to say whether they favor Gov. Bill Clements' legislative proposals of wiretapping and initiative and referendum.

The State Republican Executive Committee decided Monday to put a non-binding referendum on the two issues on the primary ballot.

Party leaders acknowledged the primary will be less attractive to independents and conservative Democrats because of John Connally's withdrawal as a presidential candidate.

The presidential portion of the ballot will list only two names, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Texan George Bush.

Connally's withdrawal not only will reduce turnout by 100,000 to 200,000 voters, but also threatens to sap the enthusiasm of some county chairmen who were Connally supporters, said SREC Chairman Chester Upham Jr. of Mineral Wells.

Ann Prestidge, special events and primary coordinator, went so far as to suggest the committee members should do some "hand holding" to prop up disappointed county chairmen.

She later said if a county chairman does not do his job, a county might not have a GOP primary.

"Many of our new county chairmen were enthusiastic supporters of John Connally... It is most important for you committee people to call these people and reassure them...that the goals and purposes he had are still viable goals of the Republican Party," Upham said.

The committee placed on the ballot, at Clements' request, non-binding straw poll questions asking Republican voters to say whether they are for or against these propositions:

— "Under the supervision of a judge, state police should be able to use electronic surveillance methods such as wiretapping in cases where suspected drug dealers are involved."

— "Texas should have initiative and referendum, a way for the public to vote directly on issues and make law in elections rather than depending only on the state Legislature."

GOP leaders still aren't saying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford will have to look beyond the ranks of state Republican Party leaders for the groundswell of support he says would lure him into another run for the White House, a survey shows.

An Associated Press check of state GOP chairmen found the vast majority declaring themselves neutral in the party's presidential sweepstakes.

The survey showed that some 40 party heads are determined to remain officially uncommitted, even if Ford enters the fray. And many said they felt Ford probably should stay out of the race.

So miffed are New Hampshire Republicans over his hints of making another run, that they're threatening to withdraw Ford's invitation to address their May 29 fund-raising dinner.

"He has been saying there is no Republican as good as he is, that he is the only Republican worth electing," New Hampshire GOP Chairman Nancy Sununu complained. "That is an attack on the Republican Party."

Mrs. Sununu said she's sticking with Ronald Reagan, the runaway winner of the New Hampshire primary.

"It's too late for Ford and he shouldn't get into the race," said another state chairman, who refused to be quoted by name. "...I believe this is merely a 'Stop-Reagan' move on Ford's part."

Four state chairmen said they were for Reagan, who Ford has said is too conservative to be elected, even if nominated.

From three other states and the District of Columbia came indications of possible Ford support, as the former president grapples with the question of whether to become a candidate.

District of Columbia GOP Chairman Paul Hays said a Ford candidacy "probably would throw the nomination to Reagan." But Hays also said he might back Ford.

Richard Adams, executive director of the Michigan GOP, said Ford might find support from leaders in that state because "he's a hometown boy and hometown boys are always wished well."

But the reservations expressed by Ed Witenburger of Wyoming seemed to typify those of most state GOP leaders.

"Four years ago in Wyoming, we had a tough fight, a real split, because of the Ford-Reagan ticket," he said. "It's just now beginning to get healed. I feel Ford's entry into the race would displease an awful lot of Republicans in Wyoming."

Yvonne Alford, head of the Alaska GOP, said, "I think he would only lessen the Republican Party's chances in November by getting in."

Tom Pappas, Arizona party chairman, said that "Ford, like (Edward M.) Kennedy, will find there's a big difference between being a possible candidate and actually being one."

Florida GOP Chairman Bill Taylor said a Ford presidential candidacy would be "very divisive" in his state.

"In Florida there are a lot of very strong residual feelings left over from 1976," when Ford narrowly defeated Reagan, he said.

Ohio Republican Chairman Earl T. Barnes said he was remaining neutral because he feels "any of the front-runners can get the nomination."

Arkansas GOP leader Lynn Lowe said that he, too, is uncommitted. But he also said Ford would receive "equal consideration as will any other candidate."

Iowa's Steve Roberts said, "Four years ago, it was Reagan who played the role of the spoiler against an incumbent president. Today, the roles are apparently being reversed and that will have an effect on some people."

Kansas GOP leader Morris Kay said of Ford: "If he's doing it to block somebody else, like Reagan, then it won't sell well."

Minnesota's Vern Neppi said he would remain uncommitted, but believes a Ford bid would help Reagan.

Mississippi GOP leader Mike Retzer said, "I honestly don't believe he has a chance of winning the nomination."

"He's too late," chimed in Frank Fahrenkopf, the Nevada chairman. "But he could really confuse the campaign."

Robert Voy, Oregon GOP chairman, agreed that a Ford race "would confuse the picture."

Some state GOP officials who would not go so far as to endorse a Ford candidacy expressed positive feelings about him.

"If he enters, he will be a strong contender," said Alabama's Bill Hattie.

Hattie Bickmore of Maine said "a lot of people would be delighted" to see Ford run.

But both said they are neutral.

"If President Ford doesn't get in the race," said West Virginia's Paul McCuskey, "the thought will always persist, 'What would have happened if he entered.'"

Primaries may sway Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — What happens in today's three southern primaries will weigh heavily on former President Gerald R. Ford's decision on whether to leap into the Republican presidential race.

If GOP front-runner Ronald Reagan wins big as he did in South Carolina on Saturday, many GOP moderates will increase the pressure on Ford to move to try to halt his old nemesis.

Ford, described as sitting on the fence as he assesses his chances, has set a March 20 deadline for a decision. And he is flying East to seek political advice.

Ford is to fly into Washington tonight for three days of meetings with Republican leaders and former White House and congressional colleagues and to address a GOP fund-raiser.

The former president moves on to New York Thursday to confer with politicians and potential money backers and to speak to a Financial World dinner.

He then returns to his home in Rancho Mirage, Calif., to assess his prospects and to make his decision.

An aide, Robert Barrett, said he did not expect Ford to make an announcement before next Tuesday's Illinois primary.

"We're going to be watching the results of the primaries this week in Alabama, Georgia and Florida, and next week in Illinois," Barrett said in a telephone interview from Rancho Mirage.

Thomas G. Reed, a GOP moderate and former secretary of the Air Force who is heading a Draft Ford committee, told a news conference Monday that, while Reagan is an electable Republican, Ford would be a stronger candidate and a better president.

Reed said he expected a favorable Ford announcement by next week.

Ford said in Florida last week that he thought Reagan, who battled him all the way to the convention floor in 1976, was too conservative to win the presidency. He also said he would enter the race only if he gained broad support from the Republican Party.

However, an Associated Press survey of state GOP leaders showed the vast majority unwilling to commit themselves to Ford or anyone else at this point in the presidential sweepstakes.

Roughly four-fifths of the state party leaders described themselves as officially neutral, and several questioned whether Ford should make the run.

Barrett said Monday the former president is receiving an avalanche of letters and phone calls, 70 percent of them urging him to run. "But it has not quantitatively or qualitatively led us to a decision point; it is not encouraging or discouraging to an extreme," he added.

Associates report Ford has said he will make a decision by March 20, geared to primary filing deadlines in Ohio and Michigan, two large states where he feels he would do very well against Reagan. Michigan is his home state.

Although he has missed several state filing dates, a declaration by March 20 would still give Ford a crack at 1,195 delegates in remaining primaries — although many are in the West, where Reagan is strong. It takes 998 of the convention's 1,994 delegate votes to win nomination.

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, a member of Reed's Draft Ford committee, reported he has been sounding out his colleagues on Capitol Hill and predicted: "I think a great number will step forward within 10 days to support Ford."

Not all Republicans welcome Ford's overtures, especially Reagan and his two main challengers, George Bush and John B. Anderson, who have been slugging it out in the primaries.

Bush, worried that a Ford candidacy would split the moderate wing of the party, said Monday the former president should stay out, that his time has passed and that the party was not looking for a rerun of the 1976 election between Ford and Jimmy Carter.

Contributions flood Anderson office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contributions to Rep. John Anderson's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination have turned from a trickle into a flood following his unexpectedly strong showings in Massachusetts and Vermont, his top aide says.

Last week's receipts of more than $300,000 were better than double the $150,000 received during the entire month of January, campaign manager Mike MacLeod said Monday. He said it came close to two-thirds of the $453,000 total raised during all of 1979.

MacLeod said the surge in money has been matched by an increase in numbers of volunteers for the campaign and in audiences at campaign appearances.

"We're obviously nothing short of delighted," he said.

MacLeod called reporters to Anderson's headquarters in a rundown section of southeast Washington. Anderson was campaigning in Wisconsin, seeking votes in that state's April 1 primary.

Anderson's positions on the issues differ substantially from those held by the other GOP presidential hopefuls.

MacLeod said the campaign's momentum has undergone a "phenomenal rate of growth" since the Iowa caucuses in January, "but particularly since Massachusetts."

The volume of mail at Anderson's Washington headquarters has doubled in the past week and the amount of mail at the campaign's main office in Rockford, Ill., has increased six times, MacLeod said.

On Feb. 17, the campaign spent $19,000 on a full-page advertisement in the New York Times, he said, and hoped to simply pick up its original investment and then get the same amount of federal matching funds.

But because of the ad, "we have taken in just over $85,000 and the receipts are still coming in..."

As of last Friday, said campaign aide Dick Stout, the campaign has received $1.8 million in contributions and $446,000 in federal matching funds. But expenditures have almost matched that amount, leaving a cash balance of only $30,000, he said.

Advertising and Publicity Paid For by Firms in These Columns

John Fritz, above, proudly displays two examples of the excellent storage buildings available at Dura'Bilt, located 2.3 miles west of Terminal, between Catfish Hill and Modern Furniture.

A spring trim-down is in order for those who are needing it, for hot-weather comfort and springtime prettiness. Just the ones who can help you the most are shown above: Letty Craft, left, counselor at Diet Center West, 1200 Whitney, phone 694-3421, and Afton Wilson, counselor at Diet Center 1, 1207 Louisiana, phone 684-5081. Either woman can give the encouragement and advice needed for success, for they too are winners at the losing game.

Big flowing strike finals in Borden

Midland operators have announced a pair of new field openers in West Texas.

Pioneer Production Corp. completed a big flowing strike at its No. 1-14 Davenport 12 miles northeast of Gall in Borden County.

The discovery, completed from the Strawn, potential for a daily flow of 1,368 barrels of oil and 700,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 3/4-inch choke.

Completion was through perforations from 7,889 to 7,900 feet. The flowing tubing pressure was 190 pounds.

Total depth is 8,460 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The Strawn was topped at 7,802 feet on ground elevation of 2,543 feet.

Pioneer and its co-owners have 3,000 acres under lease near the discovery. Pioneer has a 50 percent interest in the well prior to payout. Following payout the interest will be 43.5 percent.

The location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 414, block 97, H&TC survey.

It is 1.25 miles west of the Myrtle, West (Strawn) field which produces at 8,072 feet. It also is 5/8 mile northeast of an 8,485-foot dry hole.

The operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 147 barrels of oil, with gravity and gas-oil ratio not reported.

Completion was through a 26/64-inch choke and perforations from 6,726 to 6,740 feet.

The strike is two and one-eighth miles northeast of the depleted Eidelbach (Ellenburger oil) pool.

The project recovered 930 feet of oil-cut mud and 540 feet of 42-gravity oil on a one-hour drillstem test in the Canyon from 5,832 to 5,852 feet. It also recovered 1,020 feet of oil-cut mud, 400 feet of free oil and 830 feet of salt water on a drillstem test in the upper Strawn from 6,400 to 6,420 feet. The Strawn will be tested at a later date.

Total depth 6,830 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

Location is 2,748 feet from north and 2,382 feet from west lines of San Saba County School Land survey No., 963.

TOM GREEN STEPOUT

Hendriks Holding, U.S.A. Ltd., Houston, announced location for No. 4-14 Moss-Powell 5/8 mile northeast of the Dove Creek, East (Clear Fork 1075 oil) pool of Tom Green County.

It is nine miles west of Christoval and 2,970 feet from south and west lines of section 14, block 20, H&TC survey.

Contract depth is 1,500 feet. Ground elevation is 2,354 feet.

Increasing gasoline prices expected to slow this month

By YARDENA ARAR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The upward spiral of gasoline prices will be slowing this month — and prices might even drop a bit — because supply has overtaken demand for the first time since gasoline shortages began last spring, says oil analyst Dan Lundberg.

"Unless people now start buying more gasoline than they have been at current prices, there could be a surplus of publicly available gasoline in March in the nation as a whole," Lundberg said Sunday. "It's a 180-degree turnaround that few oil company executives foresaw."

But while the gas supply picture is better than any time in the past year, Lundberg said increased supplies may not necessarily end scattered lines at service stations. The blame for the lines, he said, goes primarily to "malfuncting federal price and allocation regulations."

Until now the public has bought up all available gasoline supplies, and prices have risen an average of 1.6 cents per gallon weekly the past 10 weeks.

If a genuine surplus can be kept in effect, Lundberg said, the motoring public will get its first chance in a year to show whether the messages stressing conservation are getting through, and whether there is resistance to gasoline purchases on the basis of price alone.

The publisher of the weekly Lundberg Letter, which is a survey of trends in the petroleum industry, said gasoline stocks are at near record levels and refiners are releasing more gas to the public during March than they have since last November.

At the same time, public consumption continues to decline. American motorists bought 11 percent less gas in the last three months than they did during the same period of the winter of 1978-79, Lundberg said.

World crude oil supplies are rising as well, he said. If the flow of crude is not disrupted, the gas surplus could continue indefinitely.

"If any gasoline goes begging in March, prices could soften," he added. "It's doubtful that they would actually fall at this time, but the past accelerating rate of price increases may be slowed or even stopped."

"It's entirely now up to the public," Lundberg emphasized. Up to now, he said, consumers have gotten credit for conserving gas even though it had no choice because there was no more gas available.

"Now, with deliveries increased, the public's option to buy less than is available would mean actual conservation by people. If the public takes one gallon less than the 283,836,000 gallons a day scheduled for delivery this month, the shortage will be over, at least for now."

March gasoline demand has traditionally been higher than February's, "but nobody can predict whether more will be consumed this year because of the increases in price."

At an average price expected to be about $1.23 per gallon for all grades during March, Lundberg said, gas now costs 68 percent more than it did a year ago when the gas squeeze began.

The location is 3/8 mile southeast of Texas Pacific No. 1 Ellen A. Word, oil opener and later gas opener of the one-well Word (Wolfcamp) field.

COKE EXPLORER

Mark IV Energy of San Antonio spotted No. 1 Wendland Trust and others as a 5,500-foot wildcat in Coke County, four miles southeast of Robert Lee.

The location is 3/8 mile southeast of Texas Pacific No. 1 Ellen A. Word, oil opener and later gas opener of the one-well Word (Wolfcamp) field.

The drillsite is 3,300 feet from south and west lines of Jose Antonio Gutierrez survey No. 22. Ground elevation is 1,865 feet.

It is 1/2 mile southwest of the depleted Wendland (Ellenburger and Cross Cut oil) field.

CROCKETT WILDCATS

A pair of wildcats were staked in Crockett County.

J. Cleo Thompson of Dallas No. 1 Parker is a 9,000-foot gas wildcat 13 miles northeast of Ozona.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 85, block GH, GC&SF survey.

It is one and three-eighths miles southwest of the one-well Parker-Harrell (Ellenburger) field and 3/8 mile northwest of an 8,207-foot failure.

Michaelson Producing Co. of Midland announced location for a 2,700-foot oil wildcat 12 miles south of Big Lake in North Crockett County.

It is No. 2 Strauss-Pfuger, 330 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 8, block 10, GC&SF survey and one mile southwest of the four-well Weger, Southwest (Grayburg-San Andres oil) pool.

West Texas field wells, sites reported

New wells and new locations have been reported in proven West Texas field areas.

Blanks Energy Corp. of Midland staked a 9,700-foot project in the Big Spring (Fusselman) field of Central Howard County, four miles northeast of Big Spring.

It is No. 1-26 Buchanan, 990 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 26, block 32, T-1-N, T&P survey.

PECOS WELL

Lewis B. Burselen, Inc., of Midland No. 1-A University has been completed as the eighth well in the Leon Valley (O'Brien oil) pool of Pecos County, three miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

It finished for a 24-hour pumping potential of 30 barrels of 28-gravity oil and 21 barrels of water, through perforations from 2,590 to 2,670 feet. The pay was acidized with 3,250 gallons and fractured with 15,000 gallons of water and 15,000 gallons of CO2.

The gas-oil ratio is 3,667-1.

Location is 467 feet from north and 2,640 feet from east lines of section 17, block 28, University Lands survey.

WARD EXTENDER

Mobil Producing Texas & New Mexico, Inc., headquartered in Houston, announced potential test on a 1/2-mile west extender to the Caprito (Delaware middle) oil pool of Ward County.

The well, five miles northwest of Pyote, completed for a daily flowing potential of 128 barrels of 37.9-gravity oil and 41 barrels of water, through a 13/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,968 to 6,020 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 14,570-1.

Total depth is 6,600 feet, 5.5-inch casing is set at 6,586 feet and the plugged back depth is 6,550 feet. The pay was topped at 5,968 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,690 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 2, block 18, University Lands survey.

SCHLEICHER WELL

Caraway Operating Co., of San Angelo No. 1 Mrs. A. B. Thomason has been completed as the 10th well in the Toe Nail (Strawn) field of Schleicher County, 12 miles southeast of Christoval.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 146 barrels of 40.6-gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 860-1.

Completion was natural through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,291 to 5,293 feet and from 5,300 to 5,310 feet.

The Harkey was topped at 4,702 feet and the Strawn was hit at 5,274 feet on ground elevation of 2,451 feet.

Wellsite is 2,182 feet from south and east lines of section 65, block H, GH&SA survey.

Location is 2,173 feet from south and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 1043, block 1, H&OB survey.

Capping deadline passes

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — An unofficial deadline for capping a runaway Mexican oil well has passed and U.S. Coast Guard officials say they still have not received an expected invitation to help recover oil at the Bay of Campeche site.

"They anticipated something all day and nothing came in," a spokesman for the Coast Guard's national pollution control team in Washington said late Monday.

Officials of Pemex, the Mexican national oil company that owns the well, and Coast Guardsmen agreed in February to set March 10 as a target date for shutting off the pesky well's 9 1/2-month-old flow.

U.S. and Mexican leaders had agreed that if oil still leaked by that date, Pemex could invite the Coast Guard to bring oil skimming equipment to the well.

Jose Luis Garcia Luna, head of Pemex's offshore exploration, said crews have lowered the well's output to 400 barrels a day. When Ixtoc 1 blew out June 3, it was spilling an estimated 30,000 barrels a day into the Gulf of Mexico.

Some oil traveled 500 miles north-west and blackened miles of South Texas beaches in August and September.

If Pemex asks for Coast Guard clean-up assistance, a seven-member team with two skimming barriers would be sent, said Lt. Harry Vaughan of Corpus Christi.

The crew would be part of a specialized Pacific strike force, directed by Lt. Cmdr. Jim O'Brien. He helped draw up the agreement with Mexican officials last month about cooperative efforts at the well.

U.S. officials say capping efforts are not as crucial now as two months ago, when oil was polluting Gulf waters at 10,000 barrels a day or more.

"But there still is oil in the water, and if we can collect it at the source, that is for the best," Cmdr. Joe Valenti, director of the national pollution control team, has said.

The Coast Guard would not be involved in actually capping the well. Crews have been pouring salt water and drilling mud through two directional wells in preparation for final cementing.

Strong southerly currents off the Texas coast have kept most oil far away from U.S. waters this winter. The current gradually will break down this spring.

Council sites company

WASHINGTON (AP) — A third U.S. oil company was cited today by the Council on Wage and Price Stability for violating the government's anti-inflation guidelines.

The council, which oversees the voluntary pay and price program, said Crown Central Petroleum of Baltimore was out of compliance with the price standard.

Nelson Cooper, assistant secretary of the refining and distribution company, said Crown officials would withhold comment until they received a copy of the council's finding.

The council last month said Mobil Oil, the nation's seventh largest refiner, was in violation of the price standard. The company at the time termed the ruling "obviously political."

Last year, the council ruled that the Charter Co. of Jacksonville, Fla., was out of compliance with the price standard.

Companies found to be violating the anti-inflation guidelines can be denied government contracts of $5 million or more. This and adverse publicity are the only weapons available to the government for enforcement of the voluntary program.

The Crown Central ruling evolved from a three-month council study that determined that 11 U.S. oil refiners apparently were violating the guidelines. The others have not been named.

The council said Crown Central's refinery operations exceeded the standard for allowable gross margin — the difference between the cost of petroleum and net sales — during each quarter of the year that ended last Sept. 30.

The standard prohibits an oil company's margin from exceeding its base quarter margin by more than 6.5 percent.

The council said Crown Central did not dispute the allegation but complained that the standards "did not provide for an adequate return on investments or promote cost savings."

The council said in a statement that this was "simply not germane" to the question of compliance with the price standard.
