that all 50 American bostages in Iran are still alive, the Carter administration is now looking toward Iran's parliamentary elections as the key to their eventual release.

Administration analysts streetlist ly decline to predict flatly that the election process starting today in Iran will end the long months of bitter frustration and dashed hopes

But they say the election appears to be the best bet for ending the crisis despite the administration's repeated assertions that the UN investigating commission may yet have a useful role to play

The parliament, or Mailis, will be elected in balloting today and on April 4. But it is not expected to be able to take up the hostage issue until May

The election features a broad range of political parties covering the entire ideological spectrum. The first returns are not expected until next week. and U.S. officials, all of whom discussed the situation on the condition they not be named, said there is no consen-

In that event, one analyst conceded, the parliament may decide to insist that the deposed shah, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, be returned as the price for the release of the hostages What the United States would do then

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has said the fate of the hostages should be decided by the parliament. But officials point out that Khomeini has changed his mind before and could do so again

The administration disclosed Thursday that it has received information that all 50 hostages are still alive and that none has been moved from the embassy compound

Although officials declined to say where the information came from, it presumably was provided by the U.N. investigating commission, which returned to New York this week after a 17 day stay in Tehran

The commission did not visit the hostages but it apparently received assurances from Iranian authorities that all the hostages are still alive.

One State Department official said. however, that some of the hostages have "health problems that can be aggravated by a prolonged stay" in captivity.

24 U.S. boxers among the dead Polish crash

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A Polish airliner carrying members of the U.S. amateur boxing team on a flight from New York crashed into a military fort near Warsaw's International Airport today, killing all 87 passengers and crew, authorities said.

It was one of history's worst crashes involving sports personali-

The Polish Federation of Boxing said the U.S. team, numbering about 24, was aboard the LOT airlines flight, en route to international matches in Warsaw. LOT's office in New York said a total of 32 Americans were among the 77 passengers on board, as well as 38 Poles, four Russians and three Germans.

The Ilyushin 62 aircraft, with a crew of 10, crashed into the old Czarist era fort about three miles from the runway at 5 15 a.m. EST, on its second approach in clear, sunny weather, witnesses said

Among the team members reportedly aboard were two identified as the country's top young amateur fighters. Lemuel Steeples of St. Louis and Andre McCov of New Bedford, Mass. and Tom "Sarge" Johnson of Indianapolis, coach of the AAU's national team and former trainer of the 1976 American Olympic team, which won five gold medals.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said there were unconfirmed reports that as many as 25 Americans were on the flight. The official Polish news agency, however, said a list of 24 U.S. citizens aboard would be announced this afternoon

A spokesman at LOT offices in New York said the plane carried 22 of the U.S. boxing contingentent plus 10 other Americans, but a spokesman had said earlier that 23 members were aboard, as well as "one or two other Americans " At least 13 of those on the U.S. team were boxers, he said, and the others were team managers, doctors and other personnel. At that time he said a completely verified passenger manifest was not available but that "the very initial report showed there were one or two other

Oilmen say windfall tax will hike gasoline prices

By the Associated Press

Texas oilmen say they are not surprised the windfall profits tax passed by the U.S. House Thursday, but they predict the tax would hike gasoline prices that might have decreased without it.

Midland independent oilman Jack Elam said he fully expects the tax to pass the Senate. Where else would they (Congress) get that kind of money without anyone having to pay it?" he said. "Oil companies don't count. Without the tax, prices would have gone down," Elam said. "There is a temporary oversupply of oil, and many companies have lowered the price of crude oil from $39.50 per barrel to $38.

They (Congress) think they'll be getting it out of the hide of the oil companies. Within a year, it will be coming out of consumers' pockets." If an oilman needs $40 a barrel to produce, he will charge that $40 plus the oil tax to make a $40 profit, he added.

'The real tragedy is people have not been told the truth," he said. "The windfall profits tax is an excise tax and people are going to have to pay

William F. Judd, president of Texas American Oil Corp., agreed gasoline prices will go up because of the tax. Obviously, the consumer is going to have to pay the tax," he said.

Of the $227.7 billion windfall profits tax, 25 percent would help low-income Americans pay rising fuel costs. Sixty percent is earmarked for income tax reductions. The final 15 percent would be used for federal energy pro-

the customer will pay in the long run, he said. "I don't think we've got anybody up there with sense enough to come in out of the rain," he said. "Congress keeps raising taxes. Inflation continues to rise, and within four years there will be no free enterprise left in this country if someone doesn't turn it around.' Some of the oilmen predicted the price of gasoline could rise to $1.50 or $2 a gallon by the end of the year. "People can only tolerate so much increase before they can't afford to go

Planned Parenthood's affiliation with United Way came under fire in Odessa and Big Spring during the United Way fund drives last year.

Despite the protest, Odessa's Unit-

Mrs. Chappell noted. Funding designated for 1980 still will be forwarded to United Way, according to Sarah Smith, executive

An inflation message

So far all attempts to control the inflationary spiral occurring in the United States have proven fu-

Now, nearly four years after President Carter was sworn into office, inflation is running at an annual rate of 18 percent - the figure widely acknowledged by news organizations and prominent organizations such as the Republican National Committee.

What can be done to curb the inflationary spiral and put this nation's economy back on track?

To this point, what we have been told is what will not be done. President Carter says he will not respond to inflation with a freeze on wages and prices.

That is a wise move. Wage and price controls have been the old economic standby despite the fact that such a step has proven useless time and again.

There will be no tax reduction either under Carter's inflation fighting plan.

There will be deeper spending cuts and a budget balanced via tax increases.

The prospect of paying more taxes and getting less for it isn't an appealing one. But something must be done

Carter has proven ineffective thus far in stopping the growth of inflation. When he took office, inflation was running about 6 percent and in 1976 the president lashed out at Republicans, saying, "The Republicans have become six percenters on inflation. They ask us to accept that rate, to think of 6 percent as normal, to be glad it isn't worse.

Oh, what we'd give now for 6 percent inflation!

The president is even acknowledging that he has been unable to

Politicians responsible for the inflation rate

The old man stopped me in a shopping mall, and gripped my arm. I guess he recognized my mug from the newspaper. He was a proud, erect gentleman, dressed as neatly as a Cadillac salesman. His eyes were clouded with worry.
"It's really getting bad, isn't it?

What are we going to do? I don't know. They're all a bunch of crooks up there. The economy's going and there's that trouble in the east.'

We engaged in the usual ritual of two working guys exchanging mutual sympathy, but the more I think about t, the more I know what it is we all have to do. We have to remember who. is responsible

Now that the inflation rate and the interest rates are racing each other to the twenty mark, it is especially important to remember who is responsible for inflation.

You are not responsible. Don't let the politicians con you. It isn't yourspending which is driving prices up and it isn't your pay raise. You couldn't cause inflation with a pay raise and a spending spree if your life depended on it.

Inflation isn't caused by unions, business or Arabs. None of those has the power to inflate the U.S. economy. Japan and West Germany both import twice as much Arab oil as we do and neither of them has double-digit inflation. Unions represent less than 30 percent of the labor force. They are not responsible for the inflation no matter how much propaganda you hear. In fact, business and unions are in the same boat - raising prices and getting pay raises in an effort to keep' up with inflation.

There are only two institutions in the United States which have the power to inflate the economy. One is the U.S. Government and the other is the Federal Reserve System. And they are responsible.

Congress has done its share by voting to spend more money than it had the guts to levy taxes to collect. It has done this now for 14 consecutive years. Every time they vote to spend more than they have, the difference is made up by either borrowing from private capital or asking the Federal Reserve to print more money.

The Federal Reserve, remember, is not part of the government. It is a private corporation, chartered by the federal government, but its books are closed to Congressional inquiry. Furthermore, it is independent of the government. It has the power to increase or decrease the supply of money and credit without regard for the wishes of the Congress or the President.

The classic definition of inflation is when you have more money and credit in the market than there are goods and services. Only Congress, indirectly by its deficit spending, and the Federal Reserve have control over the supply of money and credit.

There is a guy in my town who is passing out bumper stickers which read, "Turn Our Country Around — Defeat All Incumbents." That is not a bad idea

The only power we have is our vote. If we don't use it, then we become passive victims. You name a problem and the incumbent politicians are responsible. They either created it or were too ineffective to prevent it.

The 18 percent inflation rate is the responsibility of Jimmy Carter and the Congress. I don't like people who steal 18 percent of my income and that's what inflation is, deliberate theft Do you realize we January to April just to pay taxes? Do you realize the federal budget constitutes one-fifth of the gross national product? Do you realize taxes from federal, state and local government consume 40 percent of our income? Do you realize Congress taxes us $70 billion just to pay the interest on the national debt? I don't care who the incumbent is. If we replaced him with the town drunk, we couldn't be worse off. When politicians take the greatest industrial nation in the world to the edge of bankruptcy in 35 years, it's time to rebel. When they turn the greatest military power on earth into second fiddle to the Soviet Union, it's time to

The politicians are responsible. We have just one weapon: our vote. In November, when we can see the whites of their eyes, let's make it count and turn this country around.

Mark Russell says

The avalanche of paper work imposed upon businesses and consumers by the federal government is enough to toilet train the world puppy population many times over.

It is estimated that we all spend 786 million hours each year filling out government forms. I don't know about you - but I'm pooped.

The only ones who benefit from all that paper work are the lumberjacks required to cut down enough trees to make the stuff.

Today, Jack couldn't cut down the beanstalk without first filling out OSHA forms for the demolition crew, Environmental Protection Agency forms and Agriculture forms for the bean price supports.

Republicans may attempt to 'out-Hoover' Carter

Novak

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - House Republican leaders on March 4 nearly muffed the golden opportunity handed them by Jimmy Carter's imitation of Herbert Hoover's economics, and they may yet be tempted to out-Hoover the President Carter's response to the horrors of 18 percent inflation: no price-wage freeze, no tax reduction, deeper spending cuts, a budget balanced by tax increases. That is not only the New Deal repudiated but resembles President Hoover's economics that condemned the Republican Party to a half-century in the wilderness, from which it has not yet To counter Carter's Draconian economics, the Republicans have the Kemp-Roth bill's steady income tax reduction intended to fight inflation by restoring prosperity. But what Carter is doing looks so much like old-fashioned Republicanism that old-fashioned Republicans can scarcely resist it. Minority leader John Rhodes put out word that this newfangled tax reduction would have to be dropped while Republicans outdo Carter with even deeper spending cuts.

However, younger Republican congressmen committed to Kemp-Roth including Rep. Jack Kemp himself vigorously dissented at the secret March 4 session. "I really believe we saved the tax cut," one Kemp supporter told us. Nevertheless, the Republicans may be too timid to vividly contrast with Carter's massive politi-

It is a gamble, because it marks this unprecedented Democratic response to economic adversity: Americans, tighten your belts! Presidential aides, noting public demands for less government spending, consider this good politics. But how can it compete with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's price controls and Ronald Reagan's tax cuts? The answer by one of Carter's most trusted advisers: "The federal government has been profligate over the years, and now we are tightening our belts. The American people also have to tighten their belts, until we can lick this." That can be summed up in one word: austerity.

The current Carter budget's most painful austerity is predicating budget-balancing on $75 billion of additional federal revenue, including $49 billion in new taxes (the oil "wind-fall" profits tax, Social Security tax hikes and inflationary jumps into higher individual tax brackets). This stunning Carter tax increase is mostly ignored on the presidential campaign trail, mentioned only once in a while by Reagan and never by his

It was mentioned often at the March 4 meeting, however, by congressmen opposed to out-Hoovering Carter. The lead argument against abandoning tax reduction was delivered by the highly-respected Rep. William Frenzel of Minnesota, followed by California's Clair Burgener and Michigan's David Stockman. Kemp and Georgia's Newt Gingrich, representing the freshman class, chimed in.

The resulting consensus: House Republicans will press for a balanced budget and a tax reduction. Kemp regards that as inglorious retreat, but his supporters believe at least declaring the goal of a balanced budget is needed to make tax reduction credi-

More damaging to Kemp's economic strategy than such lip service to old-fashioned Republicanism is the shrinking of his tax reduction. Congressmen left the March 4 meeting talking about a $25 billion one-year tax cut - a far cry from Kemp-Roth's 10 percent annual drop in individual rates. Indeed, the Republicans seem uneasy about advancing Professor Arthur Laffer's revolutionary thesis that tax rate reductions increase tax

Still, differences between Republicans and Democrats are clear. The president so abhors tax reduction, fearing revenue loss would delay his balanced budget, that he rejected pleas from all advisers to include accelerated depreciation in the current budget. Even such Democratic tax-cutters as Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas are pulling back; Bentsen, the Joint Economic Committee chairman, now gives a balanced budget first priority with tax reduction delayed until 1981.

The prospect voters will have a real choice are enhanced by Reagan's revival as Republican front-runner; he is a late-blooming but increasingly committed tax-cutter. So is Reagan's national chairman, Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada. Asked to choose between a balanced budget and tax reduction, the stolidly conservative Laxalt replied: "If the decision of going one way or the other were left to me, I would go with the tax cuts.'

The White House, operating on the dubious surmise that the public rejected Kemp-Roth in 1978, feels certain voters will choose budget balancing. But traveling through his Michigan district two days after the Republican strategy meeting, Dave Stockman heard lots more complaints about higher taxes than anything else. This election may prove an epic test of who is right, unless Republicans decide to compete with President Carter in imitation of Herbert

At least two persons were reported dead as the storm spread from the Ohio Valley to New England.

More snow was forecast today from Montana to Oregon and from the Great Lakes to New York, while rain was expected from western Washington across central California

Three to 8 inches of snow were reported in parts of New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Maryland as a late winter storm spread over the area Thursday and headed toward the Atlantic.

While schools in parts of western Maryland closed early, police re-ported a truck driver was killed when his rig plunged down a 50-foot embankment near Hagerstown.

Tornadoes were reported in the area around Ocean City, Md., and one motel owner said winds ripped the roof off his facility, damaging 12 to 20 rooms at a cost of some $200,000.

Coast Guard officials reported a fishing vessel with nine persons aboard was grounded on Assateague Island, about three miles south of Ocean City inlet. Officials said those on board were in no immediate danger but rescue efforts were hampered by rough

Resolved: We should know radiation risks—but how do we learn?

By WARREN E. LEARY

WASHINGTON (AP) - Almost everyone agrees that people should be told about the risks of radiation but very little is known about the right way to do it, says a psychologist.

"There is a general trend toward informing the public about risks and benefits, but research is needed on how best to do this," said Dr. Paul Slovic, a research associate with Decision Research in Eugene, Ore.

His remarks came Tuesday near the end of a two-day gathering of scientists, lawyers and laypersons concerned with radiation. The meeting at the National Institutes of Health was convened by a committee charged by the White House with recommending research priorities into the biological effects of radia-

Slovic said information about risks and benefits is highly technical and inherently difficult to convey to the

Research is needed on what people know, what they want to know, the most relevant way to express comprehensible information and the legal, ethical and political issues raised by information programs, he

Slovic said people often have inac-curate perceptions of risks and tend to overestimate the frequency of dramatic or sensational causes of death such as murders, cancers, plane crashes and tornadoes. But they greatly underestimate undramatic causes - such as diabetes and car wrecks - that take one life at a time and are common in non-fatal form, he said.

People also tend to consider themselves personally immune to many hazards they admit threaten others, Slovic said. For example, studies show most people rate themselves as the best and most skillful car drivers in the population. Balancing risks and benefits gambling - is more difficult and research shows people don't like doing this, Slovic said. They resist statements of probability, prefering to know exactly what will happen.

"As a result, whenever possible, people attempt to reduce the anxiety generated in the face of uncertainty by denying that uncertainty," Slovic said. "Thus making the risk seem so small it can safely be ignored or so large that it clearly should be avoid-

Therefore, he said, people would rather not have to confront the gambles inherent in living with radia-

NEIL SOLOMON, M.D. Estrogen-cancer relation discussed

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've read conflicting stories about the estrogen-cancer link. Is it safe for a woman to take estrogens in order to relieve the discomforts of menopause? — Mrs. S.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: While there appears to be a relationship between the use of estrogen and uterine cancer in postmenopausal women, the extent of the risk is in dispute. Dr. Barbara S. Hulka, professor of epidemiology at the University of North Carolina School of Public Health, points out that eight studies linking estrogen prescribed for postmenopausal women and uterine cancer have been published since 1975. While the studies disagreed with one another regarding the extent of the risk, they all agreed that long-term estrogen use appears to increase the risk of uterine cancer. The reported risks of women taking estrogen ranged from minimal to 12 times higher when compared to women who were not using the hormone.

Dr. Hulka's own study of postmenopausal women confirmed a danger in long-term use of estrogen, with the risk of cancer increasing significantly after four years. However, two years after these women stopped using estrogen, their risk of cancer was reduced to that of non-users. Some reports suggest that estrogen therapy, in addition to relieving discomforts such as hot flashes, has a significant beneficial effect — an inhibiting effect on osteoporosis, which is a bone-shrinking condition that affects about four million older Americans and causes 700,000 bone fractures each year. An unanswered question is: Does the beneficial effect of the long-term use of estrogen in reducing morbidity from osteoporosis and mortality from fractures outweigh the risk of uterine cancer?

Clearly, additional research is needed concerning the use of estrogens by older women.

Dear Carl: There is no presently known answer for the question of why some alcoholics develop cirrhosis of the liver while others do not. In fact, only about 10 percent of the 10 million alcoholics in the United States will contract the disease. For those who do, hovever, the outlook is very bleak. Once cirrhosis is diagnosed, at least 30 percent of the patients die within a year, about one-half live for two years and 35 percent live for for five years or more.

Your question implies that if a person who drinks to excess avoids cirrhosis, he or she has been unaffected by the alcohol. Statistics, in fact, prove

According to a report from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, half of all traffic fatalities, half of all homicides and a third of all suicides are in some way related to the use of alcohol. Moreover, the excessive use of alcohol has been linked to cancer of the mouth, pharynx, larynx, esophagus, liver and lung.

Two police officers oppose use of radar in detecting speeders

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Two Madison police officers, Richard Daley and Anthony Jarona Jr., aren't so sure anymore that radar is a good way to catch speeders. They came to that conclusion after a recent test, in which a radar unit clocked a junkyard at 29 mph and a parked car at from 12 to 56 mph.

The pair appeared before the city's police advisory committee Wednesday night to protest the use of radar to catch speeders.

The officers, also said they feared the machines put out harmful radiation, added that they're not sure radar is such a good idea for other reasons.

border crossing permits. About 55 businessmen and city officials from El Paso and Juarez, Mexico, voiced their dissatisfaction with the new rules Thursday during a meeting with INS and Customs officials and staffers from the offices of Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, and Gov. Bill Clements.

"I'think the measures are going to effect social. economic and cultural interchanges," said Juarez Mayor Manuel Quevedo Reyes.

Acting El Paso INS Director Alfred H. Giugni said his office received orders from Washington on Feb. 27 to implement the new procedures by March 1.

"WHY DO THEY hit this border region where we are trying to make a rapport, build up friendship and good understanding?" asked Juarez businessman Rene Mascarenas. "Somebody is going to be very sorry for what they have done in Washington.'

Businessmen on both sides of the Rio Grande complain they will be hurt financially by the new rules that hinder border crossings.

Two weeks ago, Mexican residents could apply for a crossing permit and enter the United States the same day on a 72-hour temporary pass.

But under the new rules, there are no temporary passes. Instead Mexican visitors must wait for their applications to be approved in Washington and sent to Arlington, Texas, where 'counterfeit-proof' cards are printed for forwarding to the ports

"It (the whole process) will take about 60 to 90 days," said assistant El Paso INS Director Pedro Reyes.

For undercover man Russ, whose true name will with engine and propeller problems. not be given here, it was an occupational hazard in the world of multimillion-dollar drug smuggling.

"I have caused these people to lose $15 million and do somebody like that, they don't really appreciate

Notified of the attack, Assistant U.S. Attorney William McSherry of New Orleans applied pressure to speed approval of an application that Russ, his wife and his two children be placed under the federal witness protection program.

The family is now in a temporary hiding place. They hope eventually to have a new life in a new town under new and untraceable identities - an arrangement designed for people who might be slain for helping in the prosecution of crime.

Spokesmen for the Drug Enforcement Administration office in New Orleans confirmed that Russ is a key figure in an attempt to wipe out a big drug smuggling operation.

"This is the biggest operation we have ever seen," a DEA special agent said, asking that he not be named. "And we wouldn't even have known it existed had it not been for Russ.

"The case is so widespread we elected to go to several different trials instead of trying to wrap it all into one," he added. The first trial, however, stunned Russ, who blew his cover to become a witness. He flushes with anger

"I found it unbelievable," he said. Five men were arrested Feb. 1 when agents raided one of two waterfront warehouses they had been watching for weeks. Four were nabbed at the warehouse. The fifth was arrested a few blocks away in a rented U-Haul truck loaded with marijuana. In all, 8.3 tons of marijuana was confiscated. All five were charged with conspiring to distribute marijuana and possession with intent to distribute. On Feb. 29, after four days of testimony, U.S. District Judge George Arceneaux surprised the court with a directed verdict of acquittal.

The ruling cleared the men. A directed verdict is not subject to appeal. "He gave no specific reason for the ruling," said McSherry. "It was his first criminal trial. I have to attribute it to inexperience. .. Listen, when even the defense attorneys come up to you afterward and say, 'Wow!' Well,...

College officials begin wearing bulletproof vests

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Two top San Antonio Community College District officials began wearing bulletproof vests and taking other security precautions Thursday after receiving a death threat, authorities said.

Police and college officials feel the threats were prompted by a recent labor dispute at what is one of the state's largest community college districts. The district fired virtually its entire maintenance staff

A spokeswoman for the maintenance workers union said Thursday that no one associated with the union had anything to do with the threats.

SACCD President Jerome Weynand said he got a threatening letter in Wednesday's mail at his office. It has been turned over to the FBI.

The letter, released to reporters Thursday, threatened Weynand's life and that of W.W. McAllister Jr., the chairman of the college district board.

Henry Munoz Jr., a labor consultant hired by district officials, said he also received a threatening phone call Wednesday at his home. Weynand and McAllister told reporters they are the wake of the threats, authorities said.

The district's entire 33-man maintenance staff, members of the American Federation of State. County and Municipal Employees, staged a one-day work stoppage Feb. 29. The workers were protesting the firing of their supervisor and what they said were poor working conditions and harassment. District officials then fired 32 of the workers March 7. Another had resigned a few days earlier. Munoz once headed AFSCME, but said he had recently been hired by the district to consult with them in handling labor problems with the union. But Barbara Aguirie, an official in the union, said, "No one associated with AFSCME, no staff member or member of this union had anything to do with the

The threatening letter referred to both Weynand and McAllister as "racists" and claimed the two were "doing wrong to the poor."

The letter writers claimed involvement in the 1979 assassination of a federal judge and the 1978 attempted assassination of a federal prosecutor. Weynand got a similar letter a year ago.

Several SACCD maintenance employees had alleged two years ago that there was financial wrongdoing in the district. Some district officials were later indicted in the case.

The workers claimed they later were harassed for

M-19 guerrillas vow: 'We will win or die'

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) - Negotiations for the release of the hostages in the Dominican Republic's Embassy were at an apparent standoff today, with the Colombian government reporting neither it nor the M-19 guerrillas had changed their fundamental

"We will win or die," the guerrillas' angry negotiator shouted to reporters as she walked away from the fifth bargaining session in a panel truck parked outside the embassy Thursday.

Today was the 17th day of captivity for U.S. sion. Ambassador Diego Asencio, 18 other diplomats and an undetermined number of other persons taken prisoner when some 30 leftist guerrillas invaded a reception at the embassy on FEb. 27.

The guerrillas' chief demand now is for the release of jailed leftists including 215 members of their organization held on such charges as rebellion, bank robbery, raiding an army arsenal, kidnapping officials and killing police and business leaders.

The government has offered to fly the guerrillas in the embassy out of the country but contends that the constitution prohibits it from releasing anyone who is serving a sentence or is under indictment awaiting

Official sources said the government offered to speed up the trials of all those held for anti-government activity and the sentencing of those already convicted, and one newspaper predicted this would result in acquittals for some and reduced sentences for others. But the offer was rejected. "We want the liberation of our comrades who have been tortured and are on trial," the guerrillas' masked negotiator told reporters. "Our watchword is 'we will win or die,' and that is our final deci-"There have been no fundamental changes in the positions of the participants, said a government communique issued after the 90-minute meeting. The government also indicated it planned no more negotiations until the guerrillas asked for them or showed some sign of retreating. "The next dialogue will be held when the subversive group shows its desire of continuing the conversations," the communique said. Meanwhile, the government named a commission of nine civilian jurists to formulate procedures for speeding up the trial and sentencing of M-19 members and other leftists.

Iranians face lecture disruption charge

MONROE, La. (AP) - Four dozen Iranians, in- to identify themselves. cluding 44 angry at being released from jail on bail provided by an anonymous benefactor, were going to dents out on Thursday, adding everyone in the group court today to face charges in the disruption of a lecture by a former diplomat under the deposed

But a spokesman for the group said Thursday acquittal alone would not satisfy them.

We want an answer to why we were illegally arrested," said one of the Iranians, who identified himself only as Ahmed. "We were illegally arrested, and we were illegally bailed out.

The 44 students who were still in jail Thursday were released on bail when an anonymous donor sent $2,200 to city officials. Four Iranians had posted bail

The students then staged an eight-hour sit-in on the courthouse lawn, promising to continue the hunger strike they started after being taken into custody eight days ago. They were arrested during a speech by Fereydoun Hoveyda, former Iranian ambassador to the United Nations, at Northeast Louisiana Uni-

Students tried to hoot down Hoveyda, accusing him of murder and shouting that he should be executed. Police said they began making arrests outside the auditorium when the demonstrators refused to disperse. Charges of trespass were filed against those not enrolled at Northeast, and additional charges of resisting arrest were lodged when students refused

Ahmed said nobody knew who bailed the 44 stuwas angered by the gesture. One of the lawyers for the group, Marion Overton White, said he might ask the court to force disclosure of the benefactor.

Monroe city officials said they didn't know who put up the bail for the Iranians, but there seemed to be a general feeling of relief that somebody had done

"If their trial had been delayed and we would have had to keep them in jail for two or three months, we could have had national complications," said City

Attorney Pat Wright. Police Chief Willie Earl Buffington and Mayor Robert E. Powell said they planned no unusual security measures for the trial, which prosecutors said could last a day and defense attorneys said might take a month.

The group got little sympathy from passersby during the 8-hour protest on the courthouse lawn. At the coffee shop across the street, a tall truck driver pointed to the group.

"They should have never let them out," he said. They should just keep them in jail until Iran releases those American hostages.

Powell, meanwhile, discounted the students' allegations that they had been mistreated.

"They are being treated just like anyone else who comes down here and violates the law," he said.

Old medical equipment displayed

The March display at the Midland County Library is a collection of an-tique medical equipment belonging to Dr. Thomas G. McIntosh, a family practice specialist in Midland.

All of the equipment comes from members of Dr. McIntosh's family, his maternal grandfather, greatgrandfather and his great-great-

His great-grandfather, Dr. Willard Orville Smith, was born in 1878 and died in 1964. He practiced from about 1900 until the late 1950s. In his later years, because of his demand as a doctor, even after he stopped driving, patient's families would come and transport him for home deliveries in the area surrounding Hoagland, Ind., where he, his father and uncle all practiced. This area was predominantly agriculturally based and fre-quently in lieu of fees the doctors were awarded crops, land or livestock. Dr. Joseph Lycergus Smith attended, as did his son, Cincinnati Eclectic Medical College and practiced in Hoagland from about 1875 to 1920s before his death in 1934.

Many of the most interesting instruments in the display date back to Dr. J.L. Smith's practice - a pharmacy bag with drugs and chemicals which could be made into prescriptions on the spot, an alcohol burner used to sterilize and a portable ether bag used for anesthesizing patients.

Throughout his practice many house calls were made by horseback or horse and buggy. Some of Dr. Smith's appointment books are on display with prices of 25 and 75 cents being noted for many of his appoint-

While looking through this doctor's records, Dr. McIntosh was able to ascertain that his paternal greatgrandfather, Thomas McIntosh, an immigrant from Ireland and a Civil War veteran, was treated for a broken leg by his maternal great-grand-father, Dr. J.L. Smith.

Several instruments can be traced to the dental practice of Dr. Morris, a great-great-uncle, a physician and

Many of the medical journals of the three doctors, a large collection of obstetrical instruments, a very primitive tonsil remover and old medicine bottles and doctors' bags are also on

Thirty-two Philly cops re-instated

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Thirtytwo women police officers, laid off as part of a massive budget-cutting move earlier this month, will be reinstated, Mayor William Green said

The action followed an evaluation by the city solicitor's office of pending federal litigation involving the rights of women officers, Green said.

The evaluation showed the 32 women would have had sufficient seniority and would not have been laid off if the administration of former Mayor Frank Rizzo had complied with a federal court order to hire specific numbers of women officers, the mayor said.

When the specific details of this matter were brought to my attention, I met with the city solicitor and we both agreed that it should be promptly remedied rather than have the city engage in protracted, baseless litigation," he said.

More than 600 policemen and about 200 firefighters were among 1,219 city employees dismissed to forestall a budget deficit. The administration has said the police and firemen will be recalled from the layoff list as attrition allows.

Apples are fruit for all reasons

By MARJORIE RICE Copley News Service

People often want to know what's the best cooking apple and eating apple. I keep it simple. Delicious apples are best eaten out of hand, or cut up into salads.

Just about every other kind work well in pies, or baked or in sauce.

Think of apples as accommodating items that willgo from appetizers (cut up and sprinkled wih a little lemon juice and served with picks) through main dishes (bake with roasts or served spiced, hot apple sauce as a side dish), to salads and deserts. Plain fruit with good cheese is a marvelous way to end a meal, without piling on too many calories.

If you find yourself with an abundance of apples make sauce and

Here's the answer

Q .- I have read several times about what to do when the water in the toilet tank rises too much and goes down the overflow pipe, causing water to drip into the bowl. But what about correcting a leak into the toilet bowl even when the water in the tank is below the top of the overflow pipe? That is what is happening now in our bathroom. It never happened in the many years we have been in the house. What is causing it now and what can I do about it?

A: - The water is dripping into the bowl because the rubber ball or rubber-like gadget at the bottom of the tank is not dropping exactly on the valve seat. It may appear that way to the eye, but if you hold down the ball with your hand thus making it fit tightly - the leak will stop. There are several reasons why the ball is not properly seated. No Fords leading Ford

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — For the first time in 68 years, the nation's No. 2 automaker is being run by someone whose name is not Ford.

Henry Ford II, 62, on Thursday gave up the chairmanship of Ford Motor Co., founded by his grandfather and namesake in 1903. Five months ago, he relinquished the title of chief executive officer.

He will remain a director and chairman of the board's finance committee until he retires at 65, and said he intends to continue touring the company's major facili-ties at home and abroad.

President Philip Caldwell keeps the title of chief executive officer and becomes chairman. Donald Petersen, executive vice president in charge of international automotive operations, becomes president and chief operating officer.

Ford told reporters he had thought for some weeks "that the many complex decisions facing worldwide companies at this time demand that the chairman should be much more closely involved than I now am in day-to-day decision makmarketplace — that buyers also bear responsibility - those involved in the reckless homicide trial agree.

"There must be a responsibility on the part of the people who use products as well as people who design them," said new Ford Chairman Philip Caldwell after jurors Thursday acquitted the automaker in the first criminal trial of a manufacturer in a product liability case.

indicted in the August 1978 deaths of three teenage girls who perished when their 1973 Pinto burst into flames on a northern Indiana highway when struck from behind by a van.

Ford, which had faced a total maximum fine of $30,000 if convicted. spent a reported $1 million to defend its Pinto. which Caldwell described as "the best-selling small car" of the '70s. More than 2.1 million have been sold since the model was introduced in 1970.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated for four days after the 10 week trial and reached its verdict at 25 ballots. Some jurors expressed concern about the car's safety, even after the verdict.

"We just felt the state never presented enough evidence to convince us that Ford was guilty,' said jury foreman Arthur Selmer.

SELMER SAID he wouldn't buy a Pinto himself, but would drive one if it was given to him. "I wouldn't feel safe," he said, "but I'd drive it."

The state argued Ford knew of dangerous defects in the Pinto's fuel system, making it likely to explode in rear-end accidents, but put profit ahead of human life and sold the cars anyway.

"I felt the Ford (Pinto) was a reckless automobile," said juror James Yurgilas, "but we couldn't actually prove they didn't do everything in their power to recall

Three months before the fatal accident, Ford recalled 1.5 million 1971-76 Pintos and Mercury Bobcats when government tests indicated the cars could leak fuel in rear-end collisions, posing a risk of fire. But the mother of two victims testified her family did not receive a recall notice until six months after the crash.

Defense attorney James F. Neal said the acquittal showed even a giant corporation can win the day if it has "a fair and reasonable story." He called the 10week trial the most difficult he had ever faced.

"We felt the crash hit was at a higher rate than the state proved," said Selmer. "No Pinto, even with the recall package, could have withstood the impact.'

Meanwhile, Cosentino said he might seek further legal clarification of some of Judge Harold Staffeldt's rulings in the case, but it was not clear what affect an appellate decision could have on the case.

Ford's defense points WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — Here are the main points in Ford Motor Co.'s successful defense against reckless homicide charges stemming from a Pinto crash that killed three teen-agers in 1978:

-CRASH IMPACT - Ford said it was the force of the crash, not alleged defects, that caused the 1973 Pinto to explode when struck from behind. Two hospital workers who spoke with the Pinto's driver before she died said the teen-ager told them her car was stopped when struck by a van reported traveling about 50 mph. Accident reconstruction expert John Habberstad said damage to the vehicles indicated the Pinto was struck at more than 50 mph.

-CRASH STANDARDS - Ford argued there were no federal standards for fuel system integrity in rear-end crashes in 1973. It said the Pinto met Ford's in-house rear-end crash standard of 20 mph, a standard no other automaker in the world chose to meet.

-VOLUNTARY RECALL - Defense witnesses, mostly Ford executives, testified the automaker authorized emergency procedures and unlimited funds to implement a voluntary recall of 1.6 million 1971-1976 Pintos and Mercury Bobcats after preliminary government tests indicated the cars could leak fuel in low- to moderate-speed rear-end crashes, posing the risk of fires. They said the recall was designed to offset negative publicity, not because of any safety defects.

—SAFETY AND DESIGN — Ford engineers testified they believed the 1973 Pinto was comparable to other subcompacts of its day in design and safety. They described themselves as "proud" of the Pinto, a car they bought for their wives and children to drive.

-STATISTICS - Defense witnesses cited statistics that showed the Pinto was a little better than average when compared with all other cars in the number of fire-related accidents in which it was involved. The figures were admitted as evidence not because they were accurate but to show what helped Ford conclude that the car was safe.

Main points against Ford

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) - Here are the main points in the state's unsuccessful prosecution of Ford Motor Co. on reckless homicide charges stemming from a Pinto crash that killed three teen-agers in 1978:

- CRASH IMPACT - Prosecution attorneys said defects in the Pinto's fuel system caused the car to explode when struck from behind in low-to moderate-speed rear-end crashes. Eyewitnesses estimated the impact of the crash at 15-35 mph.

CRASH STANDARDS - Pulaski Circuit Court Judge Harold R. Staffeldt agreed with the state that the jury should be allowed to determine what rear-end impact standard Ford should have met in the 1973 Pinto. Former Ford engineer Harley Copp and auto safety consultant Byron Bloch said Ford's in-house rear-end crash standard of 20 mph

- VOLUNTARY RECALL - The state said Ford recalled the Pinto to avoid a July 1978 public hearing on the car by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Prosecutors said Ford feared it would be forced to make known prior knowledge of the subcompact's defects. The mother of two of the Indiana crash victims said the family didn't receive a recall notice until February 1979 - six months after the fatal

- SAFETY AND DESIGN — Copp said if the Pinto had been designed like other subcompacts of its day, it would have been able to withstand a rear-impact crash at 40-50 mph without fire risk. Bloch said the 1969 Ford Capri, a precursor of the Pinto marketed in Europe, was able to withstand that kind of impact because of a far-superior fuel system design. Copp said Ford engineers informed management of the problems with the Pinto's fuel system before the car was produced, but Ford executives rejected a plan to fix it because it would cut profits.

- STATISTICS - Prosecution attorneys introduced a NHTSA document of the agency's investigation of the Pinto's fuel system. The results showed that in nine staged collision tests of 1971-1976 Pintos at closing speeds of 30-35 mph, two tests resulted in fires and the gas tanks in the other seven leaked fuel at an average rate of two gallons per minute.

It's a difficult decision for an amateur to sign with any ice show because it means becoming a professional. Once the action's taken, there's no returning to an amateur status.

"This year I might have had the opportunity to compete in the Olympics, but Canada could only send one. I had to decide between competing or making money. I wanted to see what show business was like, but the decision was a long one.

He will not be in Toronto again until June because the show ends in May with June and July off, then practice in August with the next season starting in September.

Taylor's passion for skating, which put him where he is today, dates back to age eight.

John Wayne's house sold

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) - The Newport Harbor estate of the late movie actor John Wayne has been sold to a Beverly Hills oil heiress for nearly $3.5 million. Mrs. Burton G. Bettingen, who described herself in court documents only as "a married woman," bought the seven-bedroom, 7½-bath harbor-front house March 3, according to documents filed Wednesday in Orange County Su-

The heiress put down a $100,000 cashier's check as deposit and agreed to pay $3.48 million for the property, which has 229 feet of bay frontage and includes a one-bedroom guest house. Wayne's executors his son Michael Wayne, Louis Johnson and John S. Warren — have agreed to the sale, according to court docu-

Recent developments suggest more strongly than ever that "we had better start, as responsibly as possible, to make people aware that these things (earthquake disasters) are liable to happen, they can happen and we have got to be prepared," Assemblyman Frank Vicencia, D-Bellflower, said Wednes-

He quoted from a letter received Tuesday from the Federal Emergency Management Agency. It said scientists have made "a number of observations in Southern California which suggest that a substantial earthquake may be more probable now than we would normally expect."

It said scientists don't know whether unusual geologic changes signal an approaching quake but "it is clear...that these anomalies must be taken very seriously.

That alleged shortcoming, plus the federal concerns, mean government at all levels must "begin to move ahead" quickly with disaster planning and public education, he said.

To accomplish that, the Emergency Planning and Disaster Relief Subcommittee will begin hearings probably April 17 - on the extent of the earthquake danger and the most effective response to it, said chairman Euger Chappie, R-Roseville.

He said the panel will ask scientists, public officials and others to discuss all aspects of the problem, with special emphasis on programs to "teach people how to survive an earthquake.'

Chappie is sponsoring legislation to begin developing an earthquake education program for public schools, especially for elementary pupils "because this threat is going to be with them all their lives."

The federal agency based its "substantial concern" on geologic changes reported by California scientists in the past year or so. These included the release of geologic pressures that had tended to keep the San Andreas Fault from slipping, increased emissions from the earth of a natural radioactive gas called radon, and clusters of small quakes.

The letter said it's not clear whether the changes signal a coming earthquake. But, the agency continued, "it is possible that specific predictions could evolve from them within the next 12 months.

Despite objections of six neighbors, the Metro Nashville Planning Commission voted 7-1 Wednesday to rezone 14.6 acres, owned by Cash and his wife,

June Carter Cash, and 17 adjacent parcels. Cash told the commission, "I am speaking today mainly on behalf of June. June asked me to tell you this is a heartfelt thing on her part. We are talking about emotions again and not pictures, lines and drawings.' Cash's mother-in-law, matriarch of country music's Carter-Cash clan, died Oct. 23, 1978.

Bill Clements complains of federal fund cut has complained to President Carter Carter. about "unconscionable" cutbacks in federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grants proposed by the U.S. Justice Department.

The governor voiced his objections in a letter sent to Carter Thursday. Criminals, he said, will be comforted by the proposal to reduce grants from $486.4 million to $115 million, nationwide, as part of the president's budget-balancing program.

States receive the grants on the basis of population and allocate them to local law enforcement agencies, courts, juvenile justice programs and

Texas receives $17 million a year. "Everyone agrees that the nation's national budget should be balanced. But balancing the budget should not be done at the expense of law enforceClements said the proposed cuts come at a time when the narcotics traffic into the United States is in-"It is unconscionable that you should request, consider or support a reduction of appropriations for law enforcement at all levels of government. ... Reducing appropriations for law enforcement at the federal, state and local levels gives great comfort to the criminals since they know that their chances of being detected, apprehended and prosecuted grow even slimmer," he said.

David Dean, who heads the governor's Criminal Justice Division, said the Carter administration's timing was bad because "inflation is rampant, and when that happens, the crime rate goes up, too.

Looking over a copy of the Midland College student newspaper are Troyanne Hudleston, left, recipient of a Midland Kappa Delta Alumnae Association scholarship, and Susan Hall, who presented the grant. Proceeds from the annual Kappa Delta Alumnae Needlepoint and Gift Show were used for the scholarship. Mrs. Huddleston is majoring in elementary education at MC.

Getty Estate to sell stock

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The J. Paul Getty estate plans to sell five million shares of stock in Los Angeles-based Getty Oil Co. worth about $400 million with the proceeds to go to the Getty museum in Malibu. 'We just feel it's prudent to sell a portion of the stock ... That's a large block (of stock in) one company to have," said William Bell, vice president of Title Insurance & Trust Co.,

co-executors of the estate.

Officials of the J. Paul Getty Museum said Thursday they do not know when they will receive the money, which amounts to more than 100 times the facility's current operating budget, or how it will be spent.

Even if we had the check given to us tomorrow, we have no specific plans for the money," said museum spokeswoman Cathy LaScola.

TODAY'S ANSWER

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market remained on the defensive today as the soaring bank prime lending rate reached a new high of 181/2 percent

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which closed Thursday at its lowest level since last November, dropped another .34 to 809.22 by noontime today

Losers outnumbered gainers by close to a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts expected a nervous day in the markets as traders awaited President Carter's message on inflation after the close. As trading opened, New York's Citibank raised its prime lending rate from 17% to 18½ percent, topping an increase to 181/4 posted Thursday by Chase Manhattan of New York.

Several large banks immediately followed Citibank's lead, raising their basic rates on blue-chip loans to the record 181/2 level.

Gold prices continued their recent slide, falling as low as $502.75 in London before rebounding a bit. Among precious-metals stocks, ASA was down 1/8 at 421/8; Dome Mines lost 1% to 59%; Hecla Mining 11/8 to 3234, and Benguet Consolidated 1/4 to 81/4.

The NYSE's composite index lost 33 to 59.87. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 3.96 at 262.15.

Production up in factories by .2 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rebound in automobile assembles helped push the overall production of the nation's factories up a modest 0.2 percent last month, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Industrial production had increased 0.3 percent in January and 0.1 percent in December.

"Aside from the large increase in motor vehicles, production in most industries showed little change or declined somewhat," the report said. In fact, factory production in February was a mere 0.7 percent ahead of February 1979.

The report said autos were assembled at an annual rate of 7.2 million units in February, about 19 percent higher than the January rate but 19 percent below February 1979.

That makes February the mirror image of January," said a government analyst who asked not to be identified. "It's all in autos." The index in February stood at 153.

Workers urged to help Kennedy pull off upset

CHICAGO (AP) - His voice rising, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy exorted Democratic Party workers in Chicago to go out and pull off an upset in Tuesday's presidential primary. "I personally come here tonight to ask your help and assistance," Kennedy told about 3,000 cheering Cook County organization Democrats at a rally Thursday.

The Massachusetts Democrat is counting on the endorsement of Chicago Mayor Jane Bryne to get out the vote in the city and offset big losing margins expected in downstate Illinois where there is strong support for President Carter.

Polls also show Kennedy losing in Chicago, although Mrs. Bryne repeated her pledge Thursday that her organization would give Kennedy a victory there. The senator is pulling out all the stops in Illinois, including campaign visits by several members of his family. Rose Kennedy, his mother, is scheduled to campaign with him today and Saturday.

Kennedy criss-crossed Chicago Thursday, stopping at a Polish restaurant, touring a rundown inner city building under renovation by federally paid workers and meeting with Latino community organizers.

In a speech before the National Association of Neighborhoods, Kennedy bitterly attacked Carter's current efforts to balance the federal

WASHINGTON (AP) - This is what Americans can expect from the new anti-inflation program President

Carter is unveiling today: -The first balanced budget in 12

-A 10-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline prices.

-An increased wage standard. -Pared spending plans, and,

-Higher interest rates, credit controls, and no more Saturday mail

Those are the anticipated highlights of the president's newest strategy to contain inflation. He is announcing the program today in a White House speech at 4:30 p.m. EST. He will hold a nationally broadcast news conference at 9 p.m. to answer questions about the program and other topics.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said final decisions still were being made after the last round of consultations with congressional leaders Thursday evening, culminating a two-week process in which Carter's aides met with hundreds of

Asked whether the president had made up his mind, Powell said: "If he has, he didn't give any indication of it" in the Thursday meeting with

up at 9 p.m., Powell said. According to Republican congressional leaders, who met with Carter several hours before the Democrats, and according to other sources, the president wants to reduce planned spending in fiscal 1981 by $12 billion to $15 billion. To bring income and expenses into balance in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, he will impose fees on imported oil that will raise approximately $10 billion, and increase the cost of a gallon of gasoline by 10 cents, the sources said. But Powell refused to state whether the fees were in Carter's plans.

Keeping one clearly inflationary factor away from the president's announcement, the administration formally increased on Thursday its 1980 voluntary wage guideline to a rate of 7.5 percent to 9.5 percent.

Carter's original $616 billion 1981 budget, submitted six weeks ago, showed a deficit of $15.8 billion. With the proposed spending cuts and the increase in revenues, there would be a slight budget surplus. The last balanced budget was in 1969.

Although increased interest rates and gasoline prices could worsen inflation in the short-run, the administration believes they will help in the long run by cutting demand.

While a balanced budget is not expected to have a large impact on inflation, it is seen as offering a psychological boost, showing an inflation-worried nation that the government is trying to put its own economic house in order

The announcement of the new program was timed to take place after the financial markets close for the WASHINGTON (AP) - When President Carter took the wraps off his first modest anti-inflation program three years ago, balancing the federal budget in 1981 took precedence over everything else.

Carter subsequently abandoned that objective, even as the embers of inflation burned more brightly. Today he is ready to return to his initial goal of a balanced federal budget for the 1981 bookkeeping year that begins Oct. 1.

The turnabout reflects recognition that the inflation outlook is worse than Carter imagined two months ago when he submitted a deficit budget for the coming year.

But such delayed reactions to the force and persistence of inflationary pressures are not new. They have been a recurrent feature of the administration's economic steward-

Josef Strauss, who hopes to be West Germany's next chancellor, predicts the Soviet Union will send more troops into Afghanistan and establish a reactionary government there that will discredit the Soviets in the poor countries of the world. Strauss said the Afghan problem was uppermost in his 40-minute talk Thursday with President Carter. He also met with Defense Secretary Harold Brown and members of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"I noted that people here are not satisfied with the behavior of the allies, with the support the allies are giving," he said afterward. "Those in the administration were more diplomatic and reserved about it than members of Congress.

"People here are not so much saying that they are dissatisfied, but that they expect more. It's the tone that makes the music, but the meaning is the same."

Strauss had said earlier that a government under his leadership would have announced a West German boycott of the Summer Olympics no later than the United States did to underline opposition to the Soviet move into Afghanistan. Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's government is delaying a decision until later in the spring.

Strauss said at a news conference that as much as he liked the idea on a personal level, he would oppose shifting the Olympics from Moscow to his native Munich. "The Olympics just should not take place," he said.

Strauss predicted the Western allies soon will agree on a new list of products that should not be shipped to the Soviet Union. He said he is against breaking off trade entirely, but that sanctions also could be applied to the generous credit terms most western Trade could go on, he said, on a cash-and-carry basis. But he warned that all Western countries would have to join in the limitations on credit — West Germany could not be expected to do it alone.

Strauss attacked Schmidt's government as wanting to use borrowed money to strengthen defense. He recalled that he and his supporters have offered to forego tax reductions instead. Defense spending, he added, should not be made to seem pain-

"I am not for more blood and tears," he said, "but if necessary I am for more sweat."

This was an allusion to the promise of the late Sir Winston Churchill during World War II when he said the people of Britain could expect more blood, sweat and tears.

Pat Culpepper upset over letter

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

Pat Culpepper, Midland High football coach, is not so disturbed by the fact that his program is under investigation for possible off-season rules violations of the University Interscholastic League as he is with the anonymous letter that prompted the investigation.

"Anonymous letters are as low life as anything I can think of," Culpepper said Thursday. "If someone has something to say, they should come out in the open and say it."

It was an anonymous letter to the UIL office of Del Farney in Austin that prompted the investigation and the March 24 Big Spring hearing of the allegations. Investigations have already been conducted by the District 5-4A Executive Committee, headed by Odessa's Bill Holm, and by Gil Bartosh, athletic director of the Midland schools. The committee will meet in closed session March 24 to discern if there was any wrong doing on the part of Midland High.

The anonymous letter accused Midland High of working out and showing films on Saturday, doing teamwork in excess of five man mechanics, using contact equipment and showing a film past regular

'We've talked with the investigative groups, and I think it would be out of place to make comments on specific allegations until our side has been aired out at the hearing," Culpepper stated. "I'm confident that when the matter goes before the committee, they will understand what is going on

The March 24 meeting will be held at 10 a.m. at Big Spring High School. A decision will be made then on the innocence or guilt of Midland High as far as the allegations are concerned. If found guilty, Midland High could suffer some far reaching actions. The committee could place Midland High on probation or keep the school from competing for district

"Everything we have done here has been in the open for everyone to see. We've had such a positive reception since coming to Midland from the athletes, boosters and administration that I hope none of this will cause embarrassment to any of them," Culpepper said.

"I've always been very skeptical of anonymous letters and I would have to have some very hard facts to condemn anyone with that kind of information. I think those that investigated this thing will see the whole

"I have submitted my own report, Gil (Bartosh) has submitted his report and the committee has submitted its report. I think the facts will get

Aggies on tube tonight

HOUSTON (AP) - Third ranked Louisiana State may have as much of a home court advantage as the regionally favored Texas Aggies tonight n the opening games of the NCAA Midwest Regional Basketball Tournament in The Summit.

The Aggies, whose home base is only 100 miles away, will have the capacity crowd of 15,400 on their side but the Tigers, unbothered by foreign territory, have won 28 of their last 37 road games. The A&M-Lousiville game will be on Cable TV Channel 4 at

Home court helping teams during NIT play

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

There's no more home sweet home court advantage for the four National Invitation Tournament survivors ... but how sweet it was while it lasted.

Illinois, Minnesota, Nevada-Las Vegas and Virginia won their way to the semifinals in New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night and each posted its third consecutive home court triumph.

After out-of-town tryouts from coast to coast, the NIT now moves to Broadway for its final two performances. In the first 28 games, played on or near the campuses, the home team won 22 times.

In third-round action, Illinois edged Murray State 65-63, Minnesota thrashed Southwestern Louisiana 94-73. Nevada-Las Vegas held off St. Peter's 67-62 and Virginia whipped Michigan 79-68.

Monday night, Illinois meets Minnesota while Nevada-Las Vegas faces

Minnesota was the most decisive winner Thursday night and the Gophers even impressed Coach Jim

'We're playing good enough to win it all," he said excitedly if somewhat ungrammatically after sophomore Trent Tucker and freshman Randy Breuer each scored 18 points against Southwestern Louisiana. The Gophers took a 43-36 halftime lead and then scored the first 10 points of the second

Tucker hit mostly from long range while the 7-foot-2 Breuer came off the bench and hit 7 of 8 shots in just under 20 minutes of action.

'We got control early in the second half and from then on it was easy," Dutcher said. "It was one of our better offensive games.'

If Minnesota had it fairly easy, Illinois had it very, very tough. The Illini got 16 points apiece from Perry Range and Reno Gray and led by as many as 10 points but couldn't breathe easily until Murray State's Jerry Smith missed two shots in the final seconds.

"We were scared, but we wanted to go to New York real bad," said forward Eddie Johnson.

Illinois used an explosive fast break to take an early 10-l lead but made only 35 percent of its free throws and got into foul trouble in the second

"If we had gotten ahead by a basket or two, we could have won the game," said Murray State Coach Ron Greene. "We got down too far too early. They took the game from us in the first two minutes.

"We couldn't stop the big guy," Michigan Coach Johnny Orr said of Sampson, who also blocked five shots and grabbed 12 reounds. He had a great game. Virginia played extremely well. Kentucky eliminated UCLA polishes off Buckeyes

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Kentucky's season has come to an abrupt end the same way it began, with a loss to Duke, but the final chapter remains to be written by UCLA's remarkable young Bruins.

Gene Banks' free throw with 22 seconds to play was the difference as 14th-ranked Duke knocked No. 4 Kentucky out of the NCAA basketh-" championships 55-54 Thursday ni in the Mideast Regional at Lexington, Ky. In the other game of the doubleheader, No. 20 Purdue surprised No. 7 Indiana 76-67.

"It wasn't picture-perfect, but I'll take it," said Duke Coach Bill Foster, whose club blew a 14-point lead before pulling it out. "We have played a lot better, but I'm sure they've played a lot better, too."

IN THE WEST Regional at Tucson, Ariz., unranked UCLA continued its stunning success story by beating No. 10 Ohio State 72-68 behind 19 points apiece by freshman Rod Foster and sophomore Mike Sanders. In the first game, Clemson defeated Lamar 74-

"These kids keep surprising me this has been a year to remember," said Larry Brown, who stepped into the prestigious, but pressure-laden, UCLA coaching job last summer and rebuilt the squad in midseason around talented youngsters like Foster and Sanders.

"We played as well tonight as we have anytime this year," added

DUKE WILL play Purdue and UCLA will meet Clemson on Saturday for berths in the Final Four at Indianapolis March 22 and 24.

The East and Midwest Regionals resume tonight in Philadelphia and

In the East, unranked Iowa, 21-8, takes on No. 6 Syracuse, 26-3, and No. 8 Maryland, 24-6, faces No. 11 Georgetown 25-5. In the Midwest, No. 2 Louisville goes against unranked Texas A&M, 26-7, and No. 16 Missouri, 25-5, opposes No. 3 Louisiana State, Mike Gminski scored 17 points for Duke, which reeled off the first seven points on Kentucky's home floor and led by as many as 14 before the Wildcats came back behind Fred Cowan, who scored Kentucky's last 15 points and had 26 overall. Cowan's hook shot over Duke's Mike Gminski knotted the game 54-54 with 37 seconds to go, but Banks hit one of two free throws 17 seconds later.

KENTUCKY THEN had two chances to go in front but failed to convert. All-American guard Kyle Macy, who was hampered by the flu and scored just six points, missed a 17-foot jumper under heavy pressure with five seconds to play. The rebound was batted out deep by Duke's Mike Gminski and Kentucky guard Dirk Minnifield heaved a long shot that fell short at the buzzer.

"Thank the Lord," said Duke Coach Bill Foster, heaving a huge sigh of relief. "We were just hanging on. We were playing for a Cowan shot inside or a Macy shot outside, and our guys did a good job of disturbing people."

Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, whose team's 29-6 season began with a loss to Duke, 20-8, in the Hall of Fame Game in Springfield, Mass., said the Wildcats "got off to a very bad start. Their press bothered us badly. We had a chance with a last-second shot, but we just waited too long."

The same was true for Indiana, 21-8, which fell behind by 19 points and came back too late against its intra-state Big Ten rival Purdue, 21-9. The Boilermakers' All-American center, Joe Barry Carroll, got in early foul trouble and scored just 11 points. Freshman Isiah Tomas had 30 for the

Midland girls nab 5-4A win

Sports Writer To some District 5-4A girls golf observers, especially at Midland Lee, 1980 was to be the Year of the Rebel. Big things were predicted before the season, and after the Rebels earned a superb victory in the San Antonio Invitational, the talk seemed to be more than just idle chit-chat.

But Thursday afternoon at Hogan Park Golf Course, Ann Coombes and her Midland High teammates quietly went about the task of winning this year's first district meet by a slender two shots over the Rebels. Coombes, a junior, toured Hogan in a slick one-over-par 78, including a nifty 38 (best nine-hole round of the day) on the backside, to win medalist honors and spark the Bulldogs to their 354 total. Patty O'Neill added a solid 87 and sophomore Janice Littlefield chipped in with an 88 as the youthful but ever-improving Bulldogs won their-first event of the season. Other Midland High scores were Teresa King 101 and Nica Foreman 107. Mary Baird, Midland High's soft-spoken coach, was "real pleased" with her team's showing, but wasn't about to predict a district title.— at least not yet. "We just try to play it one shot at a time. Two strokes is not really a big lead the way these (Lee) people play."

But on Thursday, the Rebels weren't their usual sharp-shooting selves, as coach Paula Ferguson openly admitted. "I think we played bad," she said. "We're capable of playing a lot better."

Penny Sutcliffe led the Rebels to their 356 total with a 79 while talented senior Michelle Marburger was hampered with a 42 on the front nine but finished with a respectable 80.

Ellie Mee carded a 97 while Martha Wilson had 100 and Christi Orwig 102 to round out the Lee scores. Lee's second team, paced by Roxi Barrett's 94, finished third with 409.

Big Spring was fourth with 413 while Midland High #2 had 435 and San Angelo 437. Odessa High had one player entered, Jimmie Wylie, and she

"Maybe that's what I needed. Maybe that's what it's gonna take to turn everything around," Dave Hill said after a scrambing 69 left him one shot off the 4-under-par pace set by Fergus and Valentine in Thursday's first round.

Hill, 42, winner of 13 tournaments in 22 years on the pro tour, wasn't talking about his score so much as the unlikely fashion that score was put together. He didn't make a bogey in his effort on the wind-swept; 7,065 yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, but he had every good opportunity to do so. He had to one-putt for par on his first seven holes, made a couple of 35-footers for two of his birdies and chipped in for the other. In all he one-putted 11 times and had one no-putt.

UCLA's James Wilkes helps save boys' life in hotel

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - James Wilkes, a 6-foot-7 forward for the UCLA basketball team, helped save a young boy from drowning at the team's hotel in Tucson Thursday

Wilkes said a 4-or 5-year-old boy was in the shallow end of the hotel pool and was choking. Wilkes and several other people were nearby and Wilkes managed to pull the boy out before he suffered any injury.

A University of Arizona assistant sports information officer said Wilkes jumped, fullyclothed, into the swimming pool to save the boy. Gary Johnson said Wilkes was wearing his game shoes when he jumped into the water and had to dry them out before the Thursday night game.

Johnson said the boy had been jumping repeatedly into the water from the side of the pool. He said that at one point the boy jumped too far and couldn't swim back to the side. Nobody noticed the youngster but Wilkes.

The Bruins are in Tucson participating in the NCAA West Regional basketball tournament. UCLA reached Saturday's finals of the tournament by defeating Ohio State 72-68 Thursday night. Wilkes had eight points and nine rebounds in the contest.

The boy was not identified by Wilkes at a press conference following Thursday's game.

AIA no longer soft touch

Athletes in Action have been around for years. Colleges usually booked them quite gleefully as a preseason or during the season basketball opponent. The games were listed as exhibitions and provided a not too strenuous workout, at least for the big name teams.

No one really took them seriously as competition. Trouble with the Athletes in Action was they practiced what they preached. They were excollege athletes in the athletic ministry of the Campus Crusade for Christ. For AIA the basketball court is their platform for religion.

But things have changed in the last few years, as Jim Poteet discovered when he found himself among 30 candidates for the AIA coaching vacancy last year.

NAME SOUND familiar? It should, Jim was the skinny kid with glasses who looked like he should be studying in the library rather than directing the Midland High offense for the Bob Todd coached team that went 19-3 back in 1959.

Poteet went out to Pasadena to go to college and was first recruited by AIA, which was just getting started, after graduation when he was playing for a church sponsored AAU team. Jimmy wasn't interested at that time, but when the coaching job came open last year, that was a different story.

Some felt Jim had to be crazy to take the job if he cared anything about winning. AIA plays about as many home games as the Harlem Globetrotters, but they don't get to play the Washington Colonial or Jersey Generals every night.

When Poteet took over as coach this season after eight years as Bethany Nazarene College coach, he found the guy running the team on the other bench was no longer from Cameron, Oklahoma Christian, Midwestern or Southwestern Oklahoma. No, he was matching basketball wits with the Dean Smiths and Larry Browns of the college world.

AND IN recent years, AIA has been competing quite successfully on this level. These guys take their basketball as seriously as their Crusade. Just ask Jerry Tarkanian of Las Vegas-Nevada.

"They beat you up in the first half, pray for you at halftime and beat you up in the second half," he wails.

'It's the best coaching job in America," proclaims Poteet, "not as far as pay, but as far as the quality of the athletes.'

This year's team has such former college standouts as UCLA's Ralph Drollinger and Arkansas' Marvin Delph, who passed up lucrative NBA contracts to take part in the Campus Crusade. The season began for the AIA in October and has taken the team to Madrid, Paris, and Arkadelphia. It has played U.S. collegiate rules and International rules. "They say this may be the toughest schedule we've ever played," says Poteet, "and I have no reason

Aside from playing the Soviet Union's National Team abroad twice (and splitting the pair), AIA has a stately 37-8 record against college opposition this season, scoring over such as Clemson, Marquette, Oregon and Arizona. AIA lost to Ohio State by tion, AIA is 39-12.

heim, Calif.

The 250-pounder is the starting center on the team. Tim Hall (Colorado State) and Dan Frost (Iowa) team up with him on the front line. Derrick Jackson, Georgetown's spectacular shooter of a few years back and former North Carolina guard Brad Hoffman comprise the backcourt. Marvin Delph, former Arkansas star, is Poteet's usual sixth man.

It's quite an act and one that could be coming to Midland's Chaparral Center next year. Strings are being pulled to line AIA up against Texas Tech in an exhibition game.

During the Billy Oates regime, AIA compiled a stunning 54-7 record one season, in 1976-77, and success has piled on success.

"It may be easier to sell religion when we win," says Poteet, "because people will sooner listen to a winner than a loser. But our kids are mature enough to handle losing, too. And when we do lose, our players will still stick around and talk to the crowd about religion."

In a way, the AIA can't lose.

Missouri high jumper wins court battle

DETROIT (AP) - High jumper Nat Page, winner of three court battles to get into the NCAA Indoor Track and Field championships, will face his biggest hurdle in the meet in little Franklin Jacobs.

Page, a 23-year-old senior from the University of Missouri, won his latest court fight a week ago, after challenging his scholastic probation. NCAA rules require male athletes to maintain a 2.0 grade average for intercollegiate competition. In the fall semester, Page's average slipped to 1.98 and he was placed on probation.

But he took legal action, claiming the probation was a form of sex discrimination because his two sisters were permitted to participate in women's track at the school even though they also were on scholastic probation. There is no rule in women's sports barring probationary students from competing.

So, Page first forced the school, then the Big Eight Conference and finally the NCAA to allow him to

In the meet, which began today with seven finals and ends Saturday with 13 finals. Page, the fourth-place finisher last year and the runnerup in 1977, will be facing a standout field, including the diminutive Jacobs.

The 5-foot-8 1-4 Jacobs, from Fairleigh Dickinson University, holds the American indoor record of 7-71/4 and was the NCAA champion in 1978 with a meet record 7-5. He missed last year's meet because of injury, but is in top form this season, and has nine consecutive victories, including two jumps of 7-6.

Some 20 high jumpers are entered who have cleared between 7-1 and 7-41/2, including defemding champion Jim Pringle of Florida, Mike Lattany of Michigan, Mike Winsor of Central Michigan, Gail Olson of Illinois and Jim Howard of Texas A&M.

Hobbs, Clovis capture wins

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - Basketball is a game of highs and lows. Just ask Bruce Farmer The 6-foot-2 senior forward must have felt like he had been on a roller coaster after he and his Matador teammates eked out an 84-81 overtime victory over Los Alamos Thursday night in the first round of the Class AAAA state high school basketball tourney

The victory earned No. 4 rated Sandia (23-3) a spot in tonight's semifinal against second ranked Clovis (26-3), which claimed a 65-63 victory over No. 7 Albuquerque Eldorado (17-10) Thursday night. No. 3 Santa Fe (24-3) faced No. 1 Hobbs (25-2) today in the other semifinal. Santa Fe captured a 76-58 triumph over No. 8 Alamogordo (17-10) and Hobbs rolled 70-49 over ninth rated Albuquerque Manzano (17-12) in first round games Thurs-

Farmer had been Sandia's most consistent performer throughout the game against Los Alamos. He was scoring well, hitting the boards and playing aggressive defense.

But with six seconds to go in regulation play he made a mistake and it looked like it might kill Sandia.

Following a bucket by Sandia's Mike Piscotty that pulled Sandia to within one point of Los Alamos at 74-73, Farmer called time out. The only problem was Sandia didn't have a timeout remaining and the Matadors were called for a technical. When I called that timeout, I was looking for a place to hide," said Farmer after the game.

The Hilltoppers received a free throw, which Bill Sanders hit to give Los Alamos a 75-73 lead. And they retained possession of the ball.

But when the Toppers tried to throw the ball in, Sandia's J.J. Martinez tipped it. Farmer grabbed the ball and drove in for a layup at the buzzer to tie the game. He was fouled on the play, and with no time showing on the clock stood at the free throw line with a chance to win it.

"I wasn't shooting free throws very well and I thought about not missing," he said. "That was on my

He missed anyway.

Farmer missed having the goat's tag pinned on him when Sandia outscored Los Alamos 9-6 in the overtime with guard Mike Meyer slipping inside for a crucial layup and then sealing the victory with 12 seconds to play with two clutch free throws.

"I'm just thankful we won," sighed Farmer, who topped Sandia with 19 points and pulled down 11 boards to help the Matadors to a decisive 63-37 advantage in rebounding.

Los Alamos, which saw its brillant comeback from a 12-point third quarter deficit ruined by Sandia, was led by Ron Pequette's 25 points. "I'm proud of these kids," said Los

Thursday in another first round game. Frank Castro and Bill Jordan paced the Border City team to the victory. Castro hit a solo home run in the bottom of the sixth inning and Jordan had a triple as the Mustangs combed

Jeff Hicks for 12 base hits. Coach Ernie Johnson was not pleased with the performance of his Rebels. "We went back to the way we played last weekend and I thought that after we beat Pecos and Lubbock Monterey earlier this week that we were on the beam, but I guess I was wrong, "said a disappointed Johnson Thursday evening.

Burges took a 2-0 lead off Hicks in the first inning with two errors opening the gates for two unearned runs for Burges.

The Mustangs added five more runs in the second for a commanding 7-0 lead before Lee managed to score. The Rebs picked uop a run in the bottom of the third inning. Robert Perez singled, Wade Cartwright was safe on an error and Perez scored on a passed ball to make it 7-1.

Lee, which had 10 hits, scored a pair

Oilman going after Titanic

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — An expedition led by a Texas oilman will set off this summer to uncover the secrets of the "unsinkable" ocean liner Titanic, which has rested 12,000 feet beneath the North Atlantic for 68 years.

The Titanic sank nearly 380 miles off the coast of Newfoundland in 1912, taking 1,513 people and numerous riches to the Independent Abilene oilman Jack Grimm and his associates announced Thursday they expect to find the ship's exact location and salvage some items in July.

Grimm, who first announced plans to probe the Titanic in December, is the major investor in the salvage effort. Mike Harris, 44, president of International Expeditions, will film the ship. Art Markel, 54, will guide the Aluminaut, the world's "largest deep-diving submersible" that will probe the Titanic.

Oceanographers from Columbia University and Scripps Institute also will aid the search.

Grimm said he expected the search to take 10 days. Then, items around the Titanic may be recovered with a "drag-buck-

The oilman said he ultimately hopes to recover the ship's bells, mailbags and possibly the log. The ship also contains an estimated $200 million in diamonds, gold, and a jewel-encrusted copy of the "Rubaiyat" by Omar Khyyam, he said.

After determining the ship's structural condition, the crew will quit until the summer of 1981, when the Aluminaut and two "free-swimming robots" will probe the interior, Grimm said.

He said the project will take two summers because of the icy, windy conditions in the North Atlantic. However, Grimm said he is not afraid someone else would try to find the ship between

The unfavorable weather coupled with the advanced equipment necessary would discourage treasure-hunters, he said. Grimm dismissed claims by Douglas Woolley, of Liverpool, England, that he holds the claim and title to the Titanic and intends to raise it himself.

"I don't see how he can claim ownership to it, when he doesn't even know where it is," Grimm said.

He would not reveal the substantial cost of the project, but he said a great deal of the venture would be marketable and "may finance itself."

Grimm said few submersibles are as durable as the Aluminaut, which was used in 1968 to raise a hydrogen bomb accidentally dropped off the coast of Spain.

Markel said the Aluminaut, which can accomodate six to eight men for up to 12 hours, is capable of diving to 15,000 feet. "I've no doubts that we'll be able to reach it," Markel said.

'We wouldn't be involved in it if we didn't think it was real feasible.' He said the chief problem in filming the wreckage will be getting enough light to the ship. Harris, who has filmed other documentaries, said he expects the ship to be in good condition

Navy detainees riot on Treasure Island

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Some 23 Navy personnel under disciplinary detention at the Treasure Island facility smashed windows and set fire to mattresses before guards broke up the disturbance, a Navy spokesman says.

Health authorities are concerned about the microscopic soot particles released into the atmosphere when diesel fuel is burned. Thousands of chemical compounds stick to the surface of these particles, which are deposited deep within the lungs when

Compounds extracted from the surface of these particles cause mutations and other biological activity in bacterial tests, indi-

"This could mean that the active compounds, as they normally occur on the particles, are not readily freed to cause trouble, and, therefore, But Risby cautioned that this finding hardly closed the door on the issue, adding that additional research must be done to resolve

The question of diesel emissions is taking on increasing importance as more and more cars and trucks turn to diesel propulsion. Diesel fuel offers 25 percent better economy than gasoline and can be obtained from more abundant, lower grades

Although relatively few passenger cars are diesel powered today, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency estimates that 20 percent of all new autos will be diesel by 1990.

On Feb. 21, the EPA imposed limits on how much soot diesel cars and light trucks could emit starting with the 1982 model year. The EPA said the standards would reduce diesel car soot in 1990 by 74 percent from what it would have been otherwise. EPA Administrator Douglas Costle said his agency acted not

Commercialism aims television at nonanalytical side of brain

By PETER J. BOYER AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I just read an excerpt from an old magazine article endeavoring to explain a perceived intellectual void in television. Its thesis:

Intellectuals are left-brained people - the brain's left hemisphere being the side that controls analytical thinking. Television, though, appeals to the right side of the brain, which controls non-analytical thought.

Which is to say: Belly-buttons sell, Shakespeare doesn't.

The networks have known that all along. Not that there is no effort at meaningful programming on prime time commercial television. There is lots of it; more, in fact, than really should be expected in light of the commercial imperatives of network TV.

But networks seem to have a sense of going against their better judgment when airing "quality" programs, almost as if they air the deep stuff just to provide an excuse to go back to the easy fluff; it's the "See? We aired 'King John' but nobody watched" syndrome.

A recent example. ABC, the network most sensitive to criticism about superficiality because of a well-earned reputation in that line, went full-bore in its promotion of the TV movie,

It was a splendid film, expertly acted and produced. Yet for some reason, the thing didn't go. It finished way down in the Nielsens - 32, or so — and the next day, the cry erupted from "See? We aired 'Attica' but nobody watched.

Better to go with something safer. Better to go with some good, dependable right-hemisphere stuff. Better get some belly-buttons, quick.

And so we have such as "Where The Ladies Go," an ABC Friday night offering that is less an individual TV movie than a symbolic offering to the god Right Hemisphere. This movie incorporates every symptom - cheap thrills, shallow characterization and paper-thin plot, and, oh yes, belly buttons - that has come to prompt the diagnosis, "Junk TV."

Earl Holliman plays a macho man who has undergone prime time television's Liberated Male seminar, and he shows off his expanded consciousness at the very beginning:

"Let me tell you something about women," he begins. "They're as simple as you and me. They just want a little romance, is all ... a little approval.

Then, after a knowing nod, "And I don't mean for making a perfect apple pie. And so it goes. Holliman manifests his liberation by operating a ladies' bar, where a woman can go "to meet men, to dance and to dream and to live out her fantasies." Of course, Holliman, just recently converted to feminism, gets a little action along the way.

The fantasies that women have, according to this movie, consist almost exclusively of extramarital adventures, a notion which, correct me if I'm wrong, has been touched upon before.

By the end, you've got a housewife-turnedprostitute, a jealous-husband-with-a-gun, a cowboy letting his bulls loose in the bar and several belly buttons. And an overloaded right hemi-

It will be watched, likely, the lowest common denominator rationale reinforced, and the cycle will renew itself.

A reworked sitcom called "Facts of Life," with Charlotte Rae as a prep-school housemother of a girls' dorm, returns to NBC on Friday. It's pretty much standard stuff, relying primarily on precocious sexual allusions from the kiddies for laughs.

A sample: One of the little darlings is a pre-teen feminist, who comments that she doesn't want to watch the Dallas Cowboys because, "They exploit women by using them as sex objects.

To which one of her playmates (a chubby girl who gets to be the butt of several fatty jokes) responds, "You won't feel that way when you have your own set of pompons.'

For this they sent "Facts of Life" back to the

'Boomer" makes its debut Friday night in NBC's honorary "Family Time Slot" leading off the evening. This is where "Shirley" tried and failed earlier in the season.

"Boomer" is a Disney-like comedy drama, a shaggy-dog yarn about a smart mutt who goes around helping people. Its storylines may be a little far-fetched, but the thing has some nice messages in it and a dog that's pure ham.

The best last. Redd Foxx is back on NBC as "Sanford," the indomitable junkman; which is to say that Redd Foxx is once again the funniest man on television.

This new go-round has Fred reluctantly marrying a rich Beverly Hills widow (Marguerite Ray) and pulling out of Watts, peppered with many of the running gags from the original "Sanford." But forget that. What "Sanford" is really about is a new weekly chance to catch Foxx in action - those Foxx double takes and facial asides ought to make things comfy for NBC on Saturday nights.

Bert Parks: Hero?

By PETER J. BOYER AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Somewhere in this land, at this very moment, a child might be asking his father, "Daddy, what makes a

And the father could respond, "Well, a hero becomes a hero by getting fired by a beauty pageant."

The unlikely emergence of Bert Parks as a lion of our times may well be this decade's answer to the Tiny Tim phenomenon of the 1970s - one of those little quirks that ought to keep future social historians on their toes when trying to reconstruct our national psyche.

That's not to detract from Mr. Parks' real accomplishments (he does sing a mean, "There She Is ... "), it's just that before he was axed by the Miss America Pageant, well ... let's just say he was one of our minor

But the Parks firing happened to catch America in a foul mood. Apparently there was nothing to be done about the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini or the Russians in Afghanistan, but this, America reckoned, this was an outrage we could do something about. Even our national jester, Johnny Carson, turned serious for a moment, urging us to "Save Bert Parks!

The exclamation cried out from bumper stickers and lapel buttons; letters of protest - 35,000 of them - piled up in at Miss America headquarters in Atlantic City.

Alas, the national effort fell short. The pageant stood fast by its decision not to rehire Parks for this year's contest, and yet another outrage stood unvanquished (although Parks himself, suddenly faced with more guest spots on TV sitcoms and specials than he can handle, called the whole thing "Just Great!").

The question of the hour then became, Who will (dare) replace Bert? It was not the most sought-after job in show business.

Enter Ron Ely, former TV Tarzan, an actor who could afford the risk. After "Tarzan," Ely found something of a lull in his career. He went to Europe, made a few movies in Germany, and failed in a comeback try here with something called, "Doc Savage."

'I began looking at some things, some opportunities, that were there all along, but I was just not taking advantage of them.

Namely, a syndicated musical game show called "Face the Music," which began airing in January, and Bert Parks' old Miss America emcee

"I love it - I think this (the game show gig and the Miss America job) is a great opportunity to rejuvenate the entertainment experience. There's no question that I'm an actor, period. But these are sort of appendages to the career.'

The controversy over Parks' firing, Ely says, is the result of misdirect-

'The fact is, I've been assured, that Bert wasn't fired - he just wasn't rehired.

"But I recognize that the job will be tougher because of the furor. I'm sure I'll be subject to excessive criticism. But that's fine, they're entitled: and there's absolutely nothing I can do about it.
