Liberians hurl insults, stones at Tolbert's body

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH Associated Press Writer

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP) — A crowd of Liberians screamed insults and hurled rocks at the body of assassinated President William Toibert as he was buried in a mass grave on the outskirts of Monrovia, diplomatic sources reported from the Liberian capital today.

But the sources said life has virtually returned to normal in Liberia four days after the army coup led by 28-year-old Master Sgt. Samuel K. Doe, who has proclaimed himself chief of state.

Diplomatic sources who witnessed Tuesday's mass burial said Tolbert's body and those of some 30 other persons killed during the coup were taken through the streets of Monrovia by truck, followed by a large crowd.

A common grave had been bulldozed out of the ground on the outskirts of the West African capital. The bodies were dumped in and the booing crowd hurled rocks at them as they were covered with earth.

The 66 year-old Tolbert, who was a Baptist minister, was shot dead early Saturday when a band of soldiers led by Doe stormed into the presidential mansion. Monrovia sources have reported. Several of the dead buried with the murdered president were senior members of his regime or his personal staff, the sour es said. Their identities could not be immediately learned, but some reports said they included the chief of the palace guards and the warden of Monrovia prison. At least some were soldiers killed in a brief gunfight at the mansion, and others were said to be looters killed by security forces while ransacking hops in downtown Monrovia immediately after the coup-The sources said the new regime has released all women and children arrested following the takeover - with the exception of Tolbert's wife Victoria. The new regime has postponed the military trial of leading members of the Tolbert regime that was to have begun Monday. The unspecified number of officials face charges of treason, corruption and violation of human rights. In an apparent effort to speed the return to normal conditions, the new government asked all officials below the rank of minister to return to their

One Western diplomat in Monrovia reported "a great change for the better" by Tuesday evening, with almost all shops and schools reopened and bands of unruly soldiers gone from the streets

He said street traffic was lighter than usual, however, apparently because of a sudden shortage of gasoline

Well-disciplined members of the security forces were seen on patrol, the informant said, and the footing had stopped. Soldiers were no longer commandeering civilian cars in the streets, and the homes of leading officials - some of Diplomatic sources said reports from non-Liberian planters and missionaries in the interior indicated complete calm throughout the country. The sources said no foreigners were reported harmed during the coup-

A night curfew remained in force, but there were indications that Liberia's airports and land borders, closed since the coup, would be reopened soon

Teacher pay hike delayed

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

School trustees delayed a request from Midland teachers Tuesday for a 'salary adjustment' from 25 percent above the state minimum wage aver age to 35 percent to be included in the 1980-81 budget.

Also during the meeting, trustees approved guidelines for a student transfer policy, elected officers for the year and swore in two new trust-

Kerry Davis, spokesman for the teachers' group, told trustees that although there was a 9 percent increase in teachers' salaries last year, all of that was consumed by 13 percent inflation. Most young teachers who begin in the profession cannot live on the present salary the school district is paying them, he noted.

'Given a low estimate of 28 percent inflation, based on 13 percent for 1979 and 15 percent for 1980, then a rate of 45 percent above the state (minimum average) would be necessary to keep us (teachers) even with two years ago," he contended

PRESENTING SEVERAL com parison statistics, Davis noted that Midland salaries are below those of Crane, Andrews, Seminole, Grady. Kermit, Wink, Denver City and other school districts.

However, Dr. James Mailey, school superintendent, countered the argument with other statistics that show

Trustees said they would study the issue after both groups presented statistics on the effects of a wage increase on the school tax rate

In the end, there will have to be some compromising by both sides, trustees said Trustee Johnny Warren noted the board might do one of two things if the teachers' salary requests are granted - drop some programs and use the money to pay the salaries, or raise taxes

GUIDELINES TO allow the school administration to grant student transfer requests met unanimous board approval. According to Tuesday's action, the administration will grant a transfer request:

After a child has been granted a transfer from one grade school to another, the child may remain there until third grade

After a student has been granted a transfer for the seventh grade from one junior high school to another, the transfer for the eighth grade will be

Iranians given until mid-May to make move

By The Associated Press

The Carter administration today gave Iran until mid-May to move toward the release of the U.S. Embassy hostages or face possible military pressure. But in Tehran the Iranian government was considering postponing still further the election of the new Parliament that must decide the hos-

A leading ayatollah said the debate on the 50 American hostages may be as much as three months away

The Boston Globe reported that the U.S. government has informed its allies and the Iranian government that it is prepared to impose a naval blockade on Iran if the hostage stalemate is not broken by the week of

White House press secretary Jody Powell called the report "inaccurate" and said no decision on a possible blockade or similar move "has been taken or communicated " A West German spokesman denied his government had been informed of such a

An aide to President Carter, who declined to be identified, told reporters Carter might impose new economic and diplomatic sanctions against Iran as early as Thursday but would not consider any military moves until mid-May. That should give the Iranians ample time to "respond positively" to the U.S. sanctions already in force, the aide said.

In Tehran, a decision by mid-May looked less likely than ever today. The official-Pars news agency said the already-postponed second round of the partiamentary elections is likely to be put off again — from May 2 to the following week. The ruling Revolutionary Council will decide whether to order the new postponement, it

Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini says the Parliament must decide whether and when to release the hostages, held by Moslem militants occupying the U.S. Embassy since last Nov. 4

Avatollah Mohammad Beheshti, influential secretary of the Revolutionary Council, told a news conference today the debate on the hostages would take place "perhaps in June or.

Families of the hostages have rereived messages that the captives gave to the two Swiss representatives of the International Red Cross who interviewed them in the occupied embassy Monday. The families said the messages indicated the Americans were in good condition despite their long captivity.

The messages were brought to the Red Cross headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, by Dr. Bernard Liebeskind, one of the two officials who interviewed the Americans. From there, they were telexed to the American Red Cross in New York and then telephoned to the families

A Red Cross spokeswoman said the original handwritten messages were being mailed to the families from Liebeskind and Harald Schmid de Gruneck, the Red Cross representative in Tehran, said they spoke with 'all the hostages." Although they said they agreed not to say how many Americans were being held, the State Department said it was now confident Doubts had been raised about that figure because one of the 50, Michael Metrinko of Olyphant, Pa., had not communicated with his family since militant Islamic students took over the embassy last Nov. 4. A message from him was one of those relayed by the Red Cross.

The Media General News Service reported that a top official of the National Iranian Oil Company told its correspondent in Tehran that even without a naval blockade, the U.S. embargo on trade with Iran could shut down the country's oil exports within two weeks

Recession's early wind blows out of Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP) - Once again, the early winds of recession are blowing from Detroit.

The auto industry traditionally leads the way when the nation's economy goes into a recession, and the car makers provided dramatic evidence Tuesday that another economic downturn is at hand:

-Domestic car sales got off to the worst start for an April since the recession year of 1975, and were down 25 percent from a year ago, the industry reported.

-Ford Motor Co. announced it is closing three plants and reducing work at four other locations, eliminating about 15,000 jobs. More than 200,000 auto workers already are on layoff because of poor sales.

-Moody's Investors Services, a major bond-rating service, cut its ratings on Chrysler Corp. bonds, saying the company's rising estimate of 1980 losses is making it "extremely difficult" for Chrysler to raise the funds it, needs to stay in business.

The signals from Detroit that the economy is falling into a recession were bolstered by a Federal Reserve Board report that industrial output fell at a 10 percent annual rate in March, with the decline most pronounced in the auto and construction

On top of that, the Commerce Department reported that corporate profits declined 0.9 percent from the third quarter of last year to the fourth quarter, a worse performance than earlier estimated.

"We're seeing a picture of an economy that is shifting gears into a decline," said William A. Cox, a Commerce Department economist.

Absentee voting begins as absent ballots arrive

Absentee voting for the May 3 Democratic and Republican party primaries finally got under way in Midland County this morning after being delayed two days because ballots were late from the printer.

The absent absentee ballots for the Republican primary arrived on a bus just before 6 a.m. today, County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry said, "and we're ready to go now.

The Democratic primary paper ballots were printed locally and were available Monday when absentee voting was scheduled to begin, she said.

Neither party's ballot strips for voting machines has arrived yet, Mrs. Cherry said Midlanders who vote absentee before the machine strips arrive will fill out the paper ballots usually reserved for those who request maii-in voting. The make-shift arrangement has been approved by state officials. Only four voters were turned away

Monday and Tuesday because of the ballot mixup, she said. "To my knowledge, no one was inconvenieced," Mrs. Cherry added, and all four agreed to return after the ballots arrived. The machine ballot strips for Midland County "are in line to be printed." Republican Party chairman Bill Shaner said Tuesday. "We're going to make some changes not to ever let this happen again. None of the local printers has the 'massive machine' needed to print the long ballot strip necessary for voting machines, Shaner said, adding he feared the same delay could result in case of a pringary runoff.

White Oak State Bank reduced its prime rate from 20 percent to 19 percent Monday, lowered it to 181/2 percent on Tuesday and board chair man Jim Heath says it may go even lower before the end of the week.

river surged to 34 feet. In Jackson, hundreds of victims of the 1979 Easter flood built levees around their homes or fled to higher. ground as the Pearl River threatened many neighborhoods but flooded only -a handful of homes.

Meanwhile in Louisiana, floodwaters continued to recede in the New Orleans area, leaving millions of dollars in damage.

But many streets remained flooded today in two of the hardest-hit-subdivisions in Jefferson Parish, La., where drainage canals overflowed and broke through levees.

Officials estimated that Jefferson Parish damage alone would total $150 million. Jefferson Civil Defense official Robert Lyons said torrential rains Saturday and Sunday put water, ranging in depth from a few inches to a few feet, into 13,500 homes and 55 public buildings. In water-plagued areas southeast of New Orleans, people whose houses were flooded just two weeks ago braced for new water as 10 inches of rain pushed the West Pearl River in St. Tammany Parish higher and While Mississippi Red Cross workers cared for 350 persons who took shelter in Hattiesburg, rescue workers were faced with another type of problem - fire ants and snakes.

Mike Lucy, operations officer for Hattiesburg-Forrest-Lamar Civil Defense, said the insects, driven from their dens by the flood, were attaching themselves to logs and boats and pose a painful threat to persons working in floodwaters.

Judicial candidate visits Midland

Staff Writer

People don't realize the effect the court has on their everyday lives, according to James P. "Jim" Wallace, a candidate for the Texas Supreme Court, Place 1.

The biggest problem in running for a statewide judicial office," Wallace said during an airport press conference Tuesday afternoon, "is getting people actually aware they can vote for a supreme court position." Two major complaints against the civil court system - for which the supreme court is the top administrative court - are the time and cost involved in getting a case tried. "A certain percentage of people are effectively being priced out of the (court) system," he said. One possible solution to both problems, he noted, could be a program like the neighborhood justice council being attempted in the Houston area. The volunteer council tries arbitration in small suits and has so far the spot before they become costly to the citizens;" he said. "And it leaves the court free to handle more important lawsuits and gives the citizens the feeling the system is working for them," Wallace said.

"About a quarter of those controversies and complaints are taken care of on reached a settlement in 75 to 85 percent of the cases, he said

"The trend now is to get about half a million dollars from Washington and hire a staff to do studies and try out a program. And if it doesn't work, we can't ever seem to get rid of it."

The Houston experiment is run with volunteer attorneys, he said. "If this doesn't work, they'll quit."

Encouraging local bar associations to try innovative programs such as this one is one of the important functions of the supreme fourt, he said.

While he said he is "frustrated" by the lack of interes the voters show in the supreme court race despite his "20-hour days and hard work," Wallace said he felt appointed judges "are not going to be as responsive to people as elected judges."

"The work of the supreme court is of such importance, it is important for people to take the time to examine the quality of the candidates," Wallace

His qualifications, he said, include serving as associate justice of the First Court of Civil Appeals from December 1978 to present, judge of a Houston civil district court for four years, state senator for four years and a practicing attorney for more than 17 years.

Wallace is running for the position being vacated by Judge Zollie Steakly. He is being opposed in the Democratic primary May 3 by John C. Phillips and Wayne Scott...

Concorde loses route

WASHINGTON (AP) - The supersonic Concorde Jetliner, an economically crippled bird, is losing its only domestic route in the United States from Washington's Dulles Airport to Dallas-Fort Worth

The rising cost of jet fuel finally tripped up the Concorde, and Braniff Airways announced Tuesday it will halt the Washington-Texas service June 1.

The move comes as interest is stirring in some U.S. quarters for a second-generation American SST to compete for future world aviation

"It has been a very popular flight, but not very profitable with the high cost of fuel," said Braniff spokesman Jere Cox of the Washington-Texas cancellation. "When we started the service in January 1979, the price was 40 cents a gallon. Today it's up 121 percent to an average 89 cents.

Some signs of progress seen in Carter's talks with Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter and Prime Minister Menachem Begin resumed their summit talks today with their differences showing. But there are some superficial signs of progress toward ending the deadlock between Egypt and Israel over the political future of 1.2 million Palestinian Arabs.

The differences were highlighted Tuesday night when Carter and Begin toasted each other before a kosher dinner for 180 guests at the White

Carter, who a week ago recalled the Israeli prime minister's commitment to "full autonomy" for the Palestinians living in Israeli-occupied territory, talked Tuesday of the difficulty in defining terms. And Begin, while invoking the long friendship between the United States and Israel, warned that Israel can't be pressured to give up too much.

The hint of progress came when diplomatic sources said Begin proposed during Tuesday's opening session of the two-day summit that six weeks of non-stop negotiations be held in the Middle East to try to reach an agreement on Palestinian autonomy.

The leaders and their advisers wound up the two-day summit this morning with a final meeting at the White House. Begin scheduled a news conference at the conclusion of the

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said Begin suggested negotiating sessions between Israel and Egypt be held every day from now until the May 26 target date for a settlement. Half the meetings would be held in Egypt and half in Israel.

The Egyptians are believed to favor shifting the deadlocked negotiations here toward the end of the month. There also have been indications U.S. officials would like to see further talks held in Washington, which some observers have suggested could lead to a new Camp David-style summit such as the one that produced the historic accord in September 1978. Carter invoked the Camp David accord a week ago at a similar dinner for President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. He spoke of Begin's repeated promise of "full autonomy" for the Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza strip both of which were won and occupied by Israel during the Six-Day War of

But Tuesday, after Begin insisted publicly that his proposal for a Palestinian administrative council fulfilled his "full autonomy" pledge, Carter referred only to the difficulty of "how to define the self-governing authority, how to set up the procedure for the elections" in the occupied terri-

Begin offered sympathy and understanding for the United States in its efforts to resolve the Iran and Afghanistan crises and pledged his continuing support. But he added that the United States must honor its alliance with Israel.

In his toast at the White House dinner, Begin said: "There are two categories of American allies. The first are allies; the second are reluctant allies. Israel is among the first.... In good and in bad days, we stand by you and stand with you, and we shall always be together and defend liberty so that tyranny never wins its

But the United States must never adopt a policy that would threaten Israel's security, Begin said in a clear reference to Israel's fear that giving the occupied territories too much power over their own affairs would lead to formation of a Palestinian state on Israel's border.

"We want to keep our promise...of full autonomy" for the West Bank and Gaza, Begin said. "We don't want to oppress anybody But even a corridor leading to a Palestinian state would be a mortal danger to us Therefore, we must be very careful, After Tuesday's talks, Begin told reporters the discussions were "going very well - no so-called confrontations. To the contrary, the atmosphere is wonderful '

Another suggestion of progress was a tete-a-tete after dinner between Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Israeli Ambassador Ephraim Evron. The two talked earnestly in armchairs a few steps away from the the guests and Vance took notes.

Credit cards accompanied by new words of caution

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Some of the same people who used to tell you to charge your way to happiness are now warning you to be careful of what you spend.

"Use your MasterCard only for necessities and emergencies," urges one advertisement. "Sears agrees with the government that credit must be used with care, that it is a tool for the prudent, not a license for spendthrifts," says another promotion.

The words of caution come in the wake of the March 14 announcement of President Carter's latest anti-inflation program — a program designed to control spending by putting curbs on credit use.

Interbank Card Association, which operates MasterCard, had been running a national advertising campaign designed to let people know that the card - formerly called Master Charge - had a new name. The campaign, part of an $11 million advertising and promotion effort this year. also advertised MasterCard as "the only card needed to help achieve a fuller, richer life," according to In-

"We have substituted a new program on a crash basis," said Timothy Connor, public relations manager of Interbank. "We pulled 'The Good Life' campaign immediately after March 14," he added.

A new promotion, which began last Saturday, has Russell E. Hogg, Interbank president, telling consumers to use their cards wisely. "We're all feeling the money squeeze these days and Washington has asked us to help fight inflation," says Hogg. "Buy only what you need. Don't over-extend."

Cynthia Chaddick of Visa said the San Francisco-based card operation had "attempted to cancel our spring campaign" that featured a family traveling around the United States on bicycles, visiting famous landmarks. The television campaign started March 10. About three weeks later, according to Ms. Chaddick, Visa "notified the networks and requsted relief from our media schedule."

Ms. Chaddick said it is "a little too early to tell" what type of campaign will be substituted. She said it depends on whether the networks could sell the advertising time previously purchased by Visa and how much of its expenditure the card company could recover. She also said that advertisements for Yisa travelers checks that are issued separately would continue as scheduled.

Note: The local banks that actually issue Visa and MasterCard may continue running their own promotions, although Connor said many of them had been cutting back as well.

Some creditors, meanwhile, are trying to reassure customers and urge care at the same time. Sears, Roebuck and Co. ran full-page advertisements with a quote from the company chairman, Edward R. Telling. 'Sears will continue to finance the needs of its customers," the headline

LONDON (AP) — Saying that he has "nothing but respect" for the way the film "The Jazz Singer" is being handled, veteran British actor Laurence Olivier denied that he described the movie in which he stars as 'trash'

London show business gossip maintained that Lord Olivier, 72, who appears in the remake of the Al Jolson classic with pop star Nell Diamond, was distressed that the movie had to be reshot after Diamond insisted on a new director.

Olivier said he was "distraught" that it had been reported that he made "any defamatory remarks concerning any work that I was doing."

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A divorce that singer Art Garfunkel obtained in Haiti five years ago from Linda Grossman Garfunkel of Clayton, Mo., has been voided by a circuit court judge.

Judge Milton A. Saitz ruled the Garfunkels' 1972 marriage in Nashville, Tenn., was still valid, clearing the way for Mrs. Garfunkel to proceed with a divorce she filed last June seeking alimony and a share of their joint property.

Garfunkel, 39, and his 34-year-old wife were separated in November 1974. The voided divorce was obtained five months later in Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, but Mrs. Garfunkel's attorney argued it was invalid because neither she nor her husband was a resident of Haiti at the time.

Board approves S&L purchase

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has approved its previously announced plans to acquire 88 percent of the common stock of First Savings & Loan Association of Midland for about $50 per share, according to officials of Southern Union Financial Corporation, a subsidiary of Southern Union Co.

Representatives of the two firms now will proceed to complete details of the acquisition, according to J.O. Carnes, president and chief executive officer of Southern Con Financial, and Tom Brown, chairman of the board of First Savings & Loan.

The transact on will be complete within the next 20 days, said Carnes. He said Southern Union Financial will then make a tender offer for the remainder of First Savings & Loan's common stock outstanding, also at $50 per share. The aggregate purchase price would approximate $8.8 million if all 176,000 shares outstanding are purchased.

No changes in the present members of the board of directors, management and other personnel or policies of First Savings & Loan are expected as a result of the transaction, Brown said. He said the association, located at 500 W. Wall Ave. and at Midkiff Road and Wadley Avenue, will continue to offer the same wide ranges of financial services as it has in

Ornamental Metal Museum not ordinary museum

By LES SEAGO Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The nurses' quarters of the old Marine Hospital is an unlikely site for a museum, but then the National Ornamental Metal Museum inn't an ordinary museum.

"I guess you could say this is a museum for people who don't ordinarily go to museums," Jim Wallace said. A college-educated blacksmith. he runs the place when he's not lecturing or serving as a consultant forarchitectural restoration projects.

"Most of the people who come here are blue-collar types - the people with work with metal themselves and appreciate what we have here," he

What Wallace has in the year-old museum is a collection of handwrought iron mongery ranging from modern security doors to antique potbeillied storres.

It's all the product of American craftsmanship dating back to the name and date on his work.

Operated by the National Ornamental Metal Museum Foundation, the museum is supported chiefly by small monthly donations from metal-working and blacksmith shops.

The industry is made up of small shops," he said. "Unlike a lot of other industries, if you've got a shed, an arc welder and a grinder, you're in busi-

Metalworking shops today produce security doors, ornamental staircases, wrought-iron railings and the wood- or coal-burning stoves that have come into fashion with the energy crisis.

The museum site overlooks the Mississippi River from the grounds of what was a bospital that served the crews of river boats and government employees who worked on the river system. It closed in 1965.

toast - a nice touch."

A handmade brass lock is on display with its cover lifted. Now the works of this lock were not intended to be seen except by a beasanth. Wallace said pointing to the intricate designs carved into the lock's innards. "It's almost like the locksmith was daring the next man to rock on the piece to do something better."

The museum's permanent exhibition includes a large collection of Conestoga wagon parts such as handwrought chain holders fashioned in the form of snakes, chains, tool-box straps, axle bands and wagon jacks. One of the jacks, bearing the date 1846, belongs to Wallace.

"It still works," he said. "I took it out and jacked up my pickup just to

And for residents along the Trinity River, it from Dallas alone — and filth in the Trinity becomes a Texas. And for residents along the Trinity River, it means the beginning of a recurring environmental nightmare they call the Black Rise. The problem seems to originate in the sprawling Dallas-Fort Worth area, where the tiny river trickles through before stretching another 300 miles to the Trinity Bay, east of Baytown. During the rainy season, the river swells and turns black south of Dallas. Dead fish float to the surface.

The river was the site of 23 fish kills, with more than 3 million fish dying, between 1963 and 1976, government studies show problem that even a $200 million cleanup program might not solve.

The federal cleanup effort ordered new and more-efficient sewage treatment plants. That was supposed to make the river habitable for fish and bearable for swimming by early this decade.

But scientists admit they may have underestimated the effects of rainfall runoff. The North Central Texas Council of Government, monitoring the cleanup effort, recently found that water quality is actually worse during rainy weather than during dry spells.

Some experts can see slight improvement. "I can tell you personally that it's a hell of a lot better," said Dave Gill with the Texas Department of Water Resources. His office found fish in the river as far north as outer Dallas, farther upstream than he can

Scientists will test volcano's gas, ash

(AP) — Scientists hope fresh tests of gas and ash spewed by Mount St. Helens and more close looks at the volcano will give them a better idea of what the mountain is

Meanwhile, the U.S. Forest Service announced that two television news helicopter: that landed at the crest of the mountain over the weekend would not be prosecuted.

People cheating more in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans cheat more on their taxes and feel less guilty about it than before, concludes a public opinion survey done for the Internal Revenue Service.

The survey, conducted last year under contract by a private research firm, said it appears at least 26 percent of its sample cheated on their taxes at one system. time or another in the past. Twenty seven percent computing their 1978 taxes.

Those surveyed also showed more tolerance for cheating compared to a similar survey in 1966. Of those surveyed last year, 55 percent said they believed almost everyone would cheat if they thought they could get away with it, an increase from 51.4 percent in 1966. And while 71.3 percent said they believed stealing $500 from an employer was a "very serious" crime, only 58 percent said cheating the government out of $500 in taxes was "very serious.

The 93-page study was done by the Washington research firm of CSR Inc. It involved personal interviews with 4,888 persons in 50 communities nationwide. CSR said its sample was generally representative of the U.S. population

The study was released Tuesday, the day federal tax returns were due. It was made public by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., who chairs the House Government Operations subcomittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs. He said it reveals a problem that could threaten the U.S. tax

Rosenthal said the study "strongly suggests that said they were "less than absolutely honest" in Americans are exhibiting a growing willingness to engage in tax evasion schemes because they are increasingly cynical about the even-handedness of our tax laws.

> "The Internal Revenue Service, the administration and the Congress must recognize and deal with the threat to our voluntary, self-assessment tax system caused by this growing public perception that the tax burden is inequitably distributed," he

The figures on cheating aren't too firm, the study noted, because of a natural reluctance to admit it. Because of that, several different methods were used to gauge cheating, and the 26 percent figure was extrapolated from those results.

Asked outright if they had cheated, but assured anonymity, 13 percent of the respondents said they

The study suggested several reasons for the cheat-

"First, taxpayers are not aware of the penalties for cheating," it said. "Second, they don't think cheating the government is a particularly serious crime. Third, they have anger which is incorrectly directed at the IRS for making the tax rules."

The question of how seriously tax evasion is considered also is reflected in responses about penalties tax evaders might face.

The study found 17.3 percent believed no penalty could be imposed for claiming unjustified deductions, 10.7 percent said there was no penalty for concealing income and 5.6 percent believed there was no penalty for willfully failing to file a tax

The number of cattle and feedlots involved do not represent a large proportion of the industry. But the figures do suggest the frequency with which the

Boosting productivity

Balancing the federal budget is a necessity. That is the essential first step toward the reduction of the inflation rate in this nation and the overall recovery of the United States economy.

But balancing the budget is not in itself a cure-all for inflation and economic stability.

Other elements essential to economic stability in the United States include a reduction in federal spending, increased spending in the private sector and an increase in the nation's productivity.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen touched on those points last week during a visit to the Tall City. Bentsen, the Democratic senator from Texas and chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, particularly stressed the need for an increase in the nation's productivity.

He's absolutely correct in pointing up that need.

For too long now, this nation's government has failed to stress through tax incentives the purchase and installation of new machinery and equipment which would boost productivity.

Through tax cuts the government could encourage businesses and industries in this country to invest in new equipment to boost productivity. The installation of that equipment not only could mean companies could produce more products faster, but perhaps

Other nations throughout the world suffer from inflation, too. It certainly isn't a problem unique to the United States.

But in Japan, for example, steps have been taken to increase productivity and, thus, to stay ahead of inflation.

The Japanese, as Sen. Bentsen noted, modernize mechanical hardware in their factories once every 10 years. In the United States, that action is taken only once every 30 years.

Consequently, Japan's productivity has been increasing while productivity in the United States has suffered a decline.

On March 25 this year, the Senate took the important first step in changing the way this nation views productivity by adopting a resolution which, among other things, directed that at least half of any upcoming tax cut be dedicated to efforts to boost productiv-

Rather fit the robe so he took the trip

WASHINGTON - I have withheld writing this column until I was certain that Dan Rather was safely out of Afghanistan. Thank heavens he is back in New York, shaved and well.

For those of you who missed "60 Minutes" a week or so ago, Dan joined up with Afghan rebels, disguised as a mountain freedom fighter, and was filmed under fire from Russian artillery.

Millions of us sat in the comfort of our living rooms watching this modern day "Lawrence of Arabia" risk his life to bring us the true story of what the rebels were facing in this remote part of the world. "Gunga Dan," as the Washington Post TV critic Tom Shales dubbed him, in the true foreign correspondent tradition, knew this could have been his last story. But he still went because he believed he owed it to the American public to tell us what it was like for the Afghan tribesmen doing battle with the Soviet Goliath.

Now that he is safely back home, I think some tough questions have to be asked of CBS management. What the devil were they thinking of when they permitted Walter Cronkite's successor to risk his neck in the Khyber Pass, only a few months before he will take over as anchorman of the eve

When CBS declared that Dan would be the heir to the Cronkite throne we thought they would immediately throw a ring of Secret Servicemen around him, and make certain that no harm would come to him until the

Mr. Carter's options would be limited. Having used up his Moscow Olympic boycott once already, he might be forced by public opinion to threaten military action against the Soviets. Under international law, the holding of a CBS anchorman is the moral equivalent of war.

Without being too harsh on the "60 Minutes" producers, they didn't have to send Dan Rather to Afghanistan.

They could have sent Harry Reasoner, Morley Safer, Mike Wallace, Andy Rooney or even Roger Mudd. If anything happened to any of them, there would have been an uproar, but nothing that couldn't have been handled by Cy Vance sending a stiff note to the Soviet Embassy.

By dispatching Dan Rather into a war zone, CBS violated the first rule of television news which is, "an anchorman's place is in the studio," just as, "the President's place is in the Rose Garden."

I called the "60 Minutes" people for an explanation concerning their gaffe, and all they could come up with was, "We knew what we were risking, but the only one who could fit into the Afghan rebel robe and hat we rented was Rather."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Recalling aid auditors a dangerous move

WASHINGTON - In one of those "symbolic" moves so beloved by Jimmy Carter, an administration study group has recommended bringing home 427 of the 11,000 U.S. officials stationed overseas to make the American presence abroad less con-

Primarily, the idea is to reduce the chances of inflaming anti-American elements in the host countries and thus forestalling future crises on the Iranian model: Unfortunately, some of the officials-targeted for recall in the secret White House-State Department recommendations are the very ones who are most effectively enhancing Uncle Sam's image and protecting the taxpayers' dollars around the world.

The most astonishing suggestion is that the entire overseas auditing staff of the Agency for International Development be sent packing. This would leave the $2 billion-a-year aid program much more at the mercy of corrupt foreign officials and profiteering U.S. businessmen.

"I don't think there is any program more vulnerable to fraud than the foreign assistance program" one senior AID official told my associate Peter Grant. Internal reports of AID's auditor general bear this out. Some examples:

- A surprise inspection of the child health program in Egypt's Beheira province disclosed that almost 90 percent of the $1 million worth of foodintended for chronically undernourished preschoolers was being illegally diverted - with the connivance of provincial officials. The food was being stolen by criminals who learned

Military service is a small price to pay for freedom

BERLIN - For several years, Europeans have fretted over U.S. vacillation in foreign and military policy.Currently, our election year shenanigans make them wonder if we are a serious people. They claim that signs of U.S. reliability are scarce. Their concern about the U.S. could be justified, but their apprehension, over the Soviet military buildup is well-founded. European dependence on U.S. resolve and power is real. Free Europe's leaders remember that 50 million people died in World War II, and recognize that the new leaderhip generation is less mindful. of a repeat in this carnage than they

So while the U.S. Senate debates defense budget increases, mostly for pay raises so servicemen will remain in the volunteer forces, it occurred to me again that if we Americans want to revive a sense of national purpose - and possibly convince the rest of the world that we are made of good stuff - we should resume the draft, and build a citizens' military. Conscription would remind every American, particularly the young, that a nation is no better than its citizens' belief in it. If we believe in the U.S., we should be willing to serve it and not just during emergencies. If we are drifting as a people, it is partly because we have lost our sense of duty to

The instant rebuttal is that conscription robs young people of their liberty, that voluntary forces are sufficient, and that if war breaks out, the U.S. can quickly muster a

Nick Thimmesch

My disagreement with such arguments was strengthened by an article I read recently in the Atlantic Monthly by James Webb, a retired Marine officer who commanded infantry in Vietnam, and now works for the House Veterns Affairs Committee. After considerable study, Webb concludes that "the volunteer Army is an unmitigated disaster," lacking discipline, competence and readiness. Army Secretary Clifford Alexander can fume and sputter, but Webb points out that 113,650 service people went AWOL last year. Some 11 percent of Navy people and 12 percent of Marines were on desertion status in 1979. Indeed, the Navy's absentee and desertion rate is now the highest in its

Under permissive arrangements, a military person can, in effect, walk out with an honorable discharge without serving his or her full enlistment. Since this program began in 1976, Webb reports, 190,000 service people "simply walk away." The result is that 40 percent of enlistees in today's military fail to complete their period

In this anything-goes environment, officers despair on discipline, and job performance is poor. A 1978 study showed that only 45 percent of certain auto repairmen in the Army could perform even one of the eight "common maintenance tasks" to keep equipment functioning. The record was the same for track vehicle mechanics. Some motorized Army!

Webb recites the familiar statistics on how short our reserve forces are and how 1978 exercises of U.S. military demonstrated that U.S. forces would be woefully inadequate in assisting NATO allies in a conventional war against Communist armies.

As Webb points out, there is something unfair in maintaining a U.S. military recruited largely from poor and minority youth, mostly blacks. He argues that the volunteer services are "a collection of men and women who have been economically conscripted to do society's dirty work, as surely as if there had been the most inequitable draft imaginable.'

The Army is expected to be 42 percent black by the early '80s. Moreover, 60 percent of its recruits black and white - are from the bottom two categories of IQ testing, and the IQ levels of recruits and re-enlistees in 1979 were the lowest since this accursed volunteer Army began.

grams to put women in men's roles in the Army. He says sex is a distraction, strong enough in 1978 that 15 percent of Army women became pregnant. He argues that training regimens

Jean-Paul Sartre dead at 74

PARIS (AP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing today eulogized Jean-Paul Sartre, dead at 74, as one of the great intellectual lights of modern times and a true Frenchman.

"Perceiving the tragic outcome of the human being, he replied in a generous way, dogmatic but authentic, militant, and despite his rejection of all classification, singularly French," the president said in a state-

Are your food costs average?

Copley News Service

Nobody needs to tell you you're paying more for food today than you were just a few short months ago.

Your cash register receipt tells you that each time you make a trip to the market.

And your budget tells you that each time you attempt to make the income match the outflow.

But the government likes to confirm bad news, so each month the Department of Agriculture sends out a presumably low-cost (they use both sides of the paper) table describinghow much American households are spending for food.

The figure for your household (which may bear no resemblance to that of your cash register receipt) depends on the number of people sitting down to your table, their ages, and the plushness of your budget.

For instance, if you feed a family of four which includes two elementary school-age children your efforts are considered "thrifty" if you spend $49.60 a week, "low-cost" if you spend $64.10, "moderate" if you spend $80.50 and "liberal" if you spend $96.40.

And if you do indeed fit into this fortunate family of four, you have the questionble distinction of being first prize winner in the runaway inflation derby.

What that means in terms of dollars and cents is that according to our D of A tables between April 1979 and January 1980 (a period of 10 months) your shopping bill went up $2.20 for each and every week if you subsist on the "thrifty" plan and $3.50 if you make do with the "liberal" plan.

You may (or may not) be interested to note that whether you are young or old, multiple or singular the difference between the "thrifty" plan and the "liberal" is roughly double.

(How is the government able to achieve such conformity?)

And you may find it ironic to note that before adulthood the older you get the more it costs you to eat, but once you cross that irreversible boundary, the older you get the lower your food costs.

(Is this what they mean by every cloud having a silver lining?)

In reviewing the last 10 months only August showed a decline in food prices (September prices stayed the same) and all others marched steadily upward.

If this fact has a depressing effect on your outlook on life, be heartened.

The government doesn't want you to feel bad. They have issued yet another release offering a booklet, "Money-Saving Main Dishes," and some advice.

For the former, send 60 inflationridden cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 126H, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

And for the latter, read on. Here are a few food tips that can help you stretch your food dollar:

- After you've checked the weekly specials in the paper, plan your meals around what's cheapest that your family likes. Then make a grocery list and stick to it.

If your primary goal is saving money rather than time, avoid prepackaged, convenience and snacktype foods. You'll come out ahead nutritionally and can season to suit your taste and health needs.

-- Try to shop when the store isn't crowded so you'll have time to make your selections with care.

-- Buy food in large containers if you're sure the food won't be wasted and eventually thrown out.

 Chicken sold whole generally costs less per pound than chicken cut up or in pieces, such as breasts or legs.

Fish is high in protein, low in calories and some varieties cost less per pound than many cuts of meat. Frozen fish and shellfish may be even less expensive than fresh if the fresh varieties are low in supply.

League sets unit meets

The League of Women Voters will have the third and final set of unit meetings on the subject of Texas Initiative and Referendum at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The morning meeting will be at the home of Charleen Rosebery, 14 Saddle Club Drive, and the night unit will meet at the home of Mickie Waters, 3002-A North Pecos St.

Leagues throughout the state are participating in the study and are to reach consensus on the issue. At present, the Texas League has no position regarding initiative and referendum, said a spokesman. The local League study has been chaired by Marge Hellinghausen. Committee members are Betty Sheeler, Anne Swendig, Jane Blanchard and Pat Stanley.

A mother who has been a single parent for several years may have some difficulties in sharing her parenting with another person. Likewise, a child may or may not adapt smoothly to

This is the third in a five-part series which will examine all facets of the family relationship. Authors are members of the Family Services staff and other professionals. The following is by Sara Ellingson, counselor, who will present a workshop on the challenges facing remarried families.

By SARA ELLINGSON

Four out of five divorced individuals remarry. With remarriage comes a new set of problems and experiences.

The myth of two families joining and becoming immediately compatible has been presented in movies and television. The "happy ever after" theme is misleading. Two families joining together do not necessarily become a single unit. Loyalties and emotional ties are not easily broken.

Dear Abby Don't pursue 'dropout' dad

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl. My parents were divorced when I was 2, and my mother agreed that my father should have no obligation to her or me. I never saw him again. My mother died six years ago and I have been living with my aunt and uncle. (She's my mother's sister.)

I've always wanted to see my father but I had no idea where he was. I remember my mother saying once that Dad had a brother living in St. Louis, so I got up the nerve to call him on the phone. I told him who I was, and said I didn't want to cause any trouble, but I wanted to get in touch with my father. He said my father was married and had a family-that he'd never told anyone that he had been married before or had a daughter. He refused to give me my father's number or even tell me where he was, but he said if I gave him MY number he would give it to my father in case he wanted to call me.

I gave it to him, and didn't hear anything from anybody for five months, so I called my uncle again, and he told me I should quit looking for my father because he didn't want to see me. The aunt and uncle I live with don't know I called my uncle in St. Louis. They would have a fit if they knew because they hate my father. (Everybody on my mother's side

What do you advise me to do? I really want to know my dad.—LOOK-ING FOR DAD

DEAR LOOKING: Your father has been told where he can reach you, so if he chooses not to get in touch with you, forget him. Perhaps when you are older, you may want to pursue this search, but for the time being, dear, cool it.

family budget. The new family may have increased their income but the wife in this relationship may have to work to help make ends meet. Often times the combined income also means combined bills.

These and other issues will be discussed at the April 26 workshop. No magic solutions are to be found, but persons involved in remarriage are encouraged to attend.

More men wearing perfumed fragrances

Copley News Service

NEW YORK — More men are wearing perfumed fragrances this

According to a survey conducted by Cosmetic World, a trade magazine, three new scents, introduced to the American public in December, are making a splash in the fragrance world in the following order: the Oleg Casini, Denim by Unilever of New York and Europe and Chaps by designer Ralph Lauren.

Basically, none is sissy, jasmine sweet or medicinally clean smelling. Nor are the odors as strong as the perfumes of the last decade.

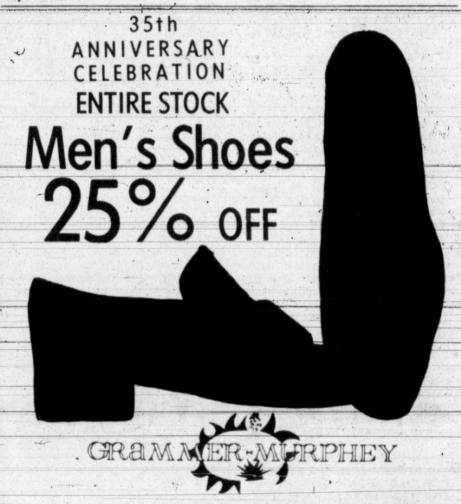

"Denim, formulated and planned for a new denim clothing era, has a woody, leather complex with a mossy musk base and spicy citrus top note," explains Kirk Miller, product manager for Denim, the new men's perfume packaged to accent the name.

"The formula for the Denim scent was developed in the United Kingdom in 1975 and introduced to the United States at Christmastime last year," says Miller. "Like clothing and any other style product we must plan far in advance to anticipate the needs and desires of a new period. And we couldn't have been closer to the current facts. Denim jeans are back bigger than ever and denim fabrics are going to be seen in the males' fashion ward-robe from morning 'til night, from play and leisure time to office and dinner-dancing.

"And that's right where Denim perfume and cologne belongs — an all-day fragrance."

The history of men's perfumes, which started with witch hazel and bay rum, the only acceptable fragrances 50 years ago, has come a long way. Colognes reached their peak in the '60s, mostly as an after-5, dress-up addition to good grooming. The '70s called for perfume wardrobes. And the '80s are back to a trend of simplicity — an individual odor that marks

Today Denim has made its mark in an industry which lists 400 million sales for 1979 and more than half of its buyers women.

Grandmother will sail across Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Connors has spent more than two years preparing for a trip from England to this country in early June. But then, it's no ordinary trip the 46-year-old grandmother is planning. She'll sail the Atlantic singlehandedly, from Plymouth Harbour to Newport, R.I., across 3,000 miles of ocean in about 30 days.

She'll be one of 110 sailors from 15 countries taking part in a race known as OSTAR — Observer Singlehanded Trans-Atlantic Race, sponsored by the London newspaper, The Observer It is held every four years to encourage the development of boats, equipment and techniques for singlehanded ocean crossings under sail.

"It's been two solid years of pre-paring," said Mrs. Connors, the first American woman ever to apply for entry in the competition, which was first held in 1960 when Sir Francis Chichester won in his yacht, "Gypsy.

Since Mrs. Connor's acceptance another American woman, Judy Lawson, has joined in the competition and two other women — Florence Arthaud of France and Naom/James of Britain - will also take part.

It has been a busy period for Mrs. Connors. Not only did she have to find a suitable boat and get it in shape, but she has been brushing up her skills by taking celestial navigation, weather and piloting courses and has gotten a ham-radio license.

"I wanted to accomplish something as an individual in an area I'm most familiar with," she explained of her decision to enter the race. "I'm not in it to win, though I do intend to sail as well as possible. I'm in it mainly for myself, as a way to find out about myseif."

Mrs. Connors lives in Mystic, Conn. where her husband, Fred, who taught her to sail, builds boats and restores old ones. "I help him and have quite a bit of knowledge of boat construction, so if anything goes wrong I'll know what to do," she says.

She got her first taste of sailing 12 years ago, when she and her husband picked up an old wooden sailboat at Cape Cod and found themselves in a heavy gale on the way to New London,

"It's the kind of thing that makes or breaks you as far as sailing is concerned," she recalled. "It was quite an introduction but the adventure seemed to attract me even more.

'Sailing is not the most comfortable hobby. You're soaking wet and miserable most of the time, but it's exhilarating and you keep coming back for more.'

Men learn art of sewing

David Maier has developed his own version of Murphy'a Law:

"No seam shall be put in that will not be removed thrice," the amateur philosopher stated recently, offering proof in the form of the casually cut, partially lined blazer on which he had been working for two months.

Maier, along with six other Portand men, started making blazer jackets early this year as their project for an unusual evening class at Patricia Green Textiles in downtown Portland: "Blazers for Men Only."

Those involved agreed that the remarkable aspect of the recently concluded six-week course was not its subject matter, but its student body.

In the opinion of class instructor Cathy de Lorge, the cluster of male students reflects popular sentiment that one's endeavors shouldn't be limited on the basis of one's sex - plus the same practical motivations which have revitalized interest in sewing among women.

"Men are certainly in the same financial bind as women are, what with the rising cost of clothing," Ms. de Lorge said

'There's also the do-it-yourself aspect. I get a great deal of satisfaction out of making things myself, and there's no reason men can't experience the same sense of accomplish-

Class member Tom Jones, a caterer, added another reason to explain why he enrolled in her class.

"I like good clothes but I didn't really know what I was looking at," he observed. So even if he never sews another seam, Jones says he will profit from the class. He now feels he can recognize solid construction and qual ity workmanship when he buys off the

The sewing class for men evolved after fabric-store owner Patricia Green noticed the increasing number of male customers in her shop. Most were buying thread and fabric for such things as wall hangings and seemed timid about tackling apparel. So Ms. de Lorge, a veteran seamstress who works as manuscript librarian at the Oregon Historical Society, was recruited to increase their confidence — and perhaps their need for material and notions, The range of experience among her students was broad, starting with two who had never touched a sewing machine. But Ms. de Lorge contends that the blazer jacket is not difficult to

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Lawyer make and "besides, there's nothing like cutting into $65 worth of wool to encourage you to finish the project."

The basic pattern she used teatured the unconstructed look in vogue in recent years, but Ms. de Lorge said she had incorporated tailoring techniques into class instruction to show students how to make the blazer more substantial.

Other projects for men which Ms. de Lorge puts in the beginner class are short-sleeved shirts (she suggests Hawaiian prints for summer) and drawstring pants cut from duck or ganze.

Ms. de Lorge said the task of teaching men to sew had taught her a lesson too: that men are well-suited for an art women have long cornered as their own.

Night of terror described in graphic detail

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) - Defense lawyers said they might put Steven Keith Hatch on the witness stand today to testify in his own defense in his first-degree murder trial in the deaths of a minister and his wife. Hatch's trial began Tuesday on two first-degree murder counts and two assault with intent to kill charges in the Oct. 15 robbery-shooting deaths of the Rev. Richard Douglass and his wife at their rural Okarche home.

The couple's two children, Brooks Douglass and his sister Leslie, were wounded in the same attack that killed their parents. The teen-agers took the stand Tuesday and described the bloody night in graphic detail. Glen Burton Ake, 24, has been charged in the deaths and assaults along with Hatch, 26, but he was recently found incompetent to stand

When she took the witness stand in Canadian County District Court here Tuesday, Leslie Douglas, 13, testified Hatch and Ake unsuccessfully attempted to rape her while the rest of her family laid bound and gagged in a

Although neither teen-ager identified Hatch as the man who shot them, they both testified he was carrying a shotgun and warned the family "he'd blow our heads off" if an attempt was made to foil the robbery.

A 19-year-old Wyoming woman, who said she met Hatch and Ake in a New Orleans suburb a few days after the Douglas slayings, testified the pair discussed the crime.

Virginia Keefe said the defendants learned the Douglass children had survived when Ake made a phone call to a relative in late October.

"Steve Hatch said they should go to the hospital and kill them, get rid of

Mrs. Keefe said Hatch made the proposal again, later, while the group was en route to the West Coast. She said the men reversed direction and drove about 100 miles toward Oklahoma before deciding against the

No confirmation of the report was immediately available, and Iran's government-controlled media have made no mention of recent fighting in Kurdistan. However, there have been frequent outbreaks of fighting between Kurds demanding autonomy and Iranian army troops or revolutionary guards since the Iranian revolution last year.

In a dispatch from Hoy, a northwest Iranian town with a sizeable Kurdish population, Hurrivet said in one clash the Pesh Mergha, the Kurdish guerrilla army, repulsed armored vehicles, ambushed a convoy and captured 200 Iranian soldiers. It said Kurdish leader's reported the captives were being kept in a railway tunnel and would be executed unless the Iranian air offensive halted.

During another clash, the dispatch said, Kurdish soldiers armed with Soviet-made anti-aircraft guns shot down two helicopters near a creek killing two officers and 10 other crew members.

Sunspots may be related to currents of hot gases

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sunspots, the giant blotches on the face of the sun that may affect Earth's weather, appear related to wide currents of hot gases flowing from the poles to the equator, astronomers have discovered.

The currents moving east to west on the sun's surface appear directly related to sunspot intensity and cycles, scientists from Mount Wilson Observatory in California announced Monday.

Dr. Robert Howard said these zones of current move at slightly different speeds, and the heaviest sunspot activity occurs at the boundary lines of the Howard told a briefing at the Carnegie Institution of Washington, which jointly operates the observatory with the California Institute of Technology, that the work is a major step toward understanding cycles of the sun.

Sunspots are large, slightly cooler areas that appear darker than the rest of the sun's surface. These areas of high magnetic activity appear suddenly and can last from a few hours to a few weeks.

Periods of sunspot activity come in two 11-year cycles, varying in intensity throughout each cycle. The cycles are virtually identical except that the spots occurring during one period have opposite positive-negative charge than those

Scientists are concerned about sunspots partly because there is some evidence, although controversial, that they might affect the Earth's weather and

Howard and Dr. Barry J. LaBonte used special instruments to scan the entire surface of the sun 2,471 times in more than 12 years. Each scan measured small changes in velocity at 24,000 points covering the

The astronomers found that the sun, a giant ball of hot gas, has four broad currents of gas moving east-west in each hemisphere above and below the

Howard said these zones of gas, each about 60,000 miles wide, move around the sun from the poles to the equator at about 6,600 feet per second. However, two bands move about 10 feet per second faster than average and the other two about 10 feet per second slower.

It takes about 22 years for each of these currents to migrate to the equator. And every 11 years, a new fast current appears at each pole to begin the same

The boundary areas between these velocity zones seems to be related to sun-

Howard said that during the 12 years of study, the regions of heaviest sunspot activity coincided almost exactly with a boundary zone between fast and slow currents. In effect, the sunspot zones migrated toward the equator with the currents, but astronomers don't know why sunspots pop up along these shear

Nor is it known why sunspots appear along the boundaries only near the equator and not at the poles, Howard added.

A yellow-headed Amazon parrot sells for about $35 in Mexico, said one bird breeder. An American retailer could get $600 or more for one. The top auction price was $350.

Until Jan. 1, confiscated parrots were killed. But officials of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service pressured the U.S. Agriculture Department and Customs to change the policy, said Herb Best, Customs director at the Hidalgo-Reynosa international bridge south of McAllen. Parrots caught in smuggling attempts are sent to the USDA's bird

Situation gets juicy

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Leaders of Florida's $2 billion citrus industry are squaring off over a plan to take a little of the orange out of that familiar drink on breakfast tables - Florida orange juice.

The conflict within the vast, multi-faceted industry is over brix - the scale used to measure the amount of natural orange solids, sugar and citric acid contained in concentrated juice. Processors want to lower the Florida standard for the minimum amount of solids required. The principal growers' organizations and a number of leading individual growers want it to remain as has since

The proposed change would mean "there would be one less orange and its nutritional equivalents in each six-ounce can (of concentrate)," said Wilson McGee, executive vice president of the United Growers and Shippers Association and an outspoken opponent of the change.

McGee says Florida's orange juice - made at home by mixing one part concentrate« and three parts water — is 'unique" and the proposal would be a "retrogressive move. ... It's a major issue."

The standard for Florida - which produces more than 90 percent of the nation's orange juice - is 44.8 brix, or 44.8 percent fruit solids. The requirement set down by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is 41.8

The Florida Citrus Processors Association sought the new standard on grounds they cannot compete fairly with non-Florida processors and packers using the FDA standard. They contend some competitors buy Florida juice and reconstitute it into the lower quality product.

The 12-member commission, a state agency funded by the industry, voted 8-4 March 19 to lower the state standard to the FDA level.

Kennedy busy lining up support of Brown's backers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — With California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. only two weeks out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is moving successfully to line up support from his former rival's backers.

While Kennedy says merely, "We welcome the support," his aides say the campaign is moving quickly to enlist as many of Brown's best-known supporters as possible

There is a certain compatibility between the two groups, " said one Kennedy aide, speaking anonymously. "I think they can be brouught

The "compatibility" has already brought farm workers leader Cesar Chavez into Kennedy's camp and could bring him such celebrities as actress Jane Fonda and her husband, Tom Hayden.

Brown, who abandoned his quest for the White House after a poor showing in the April 1 Wisconsin primary, has himself not yet endorsed either President Carter or Kennedy. "I just finished one campaign,"

Brown said on the question of endorsements. "I'm not anxious to get into another With many political observers believing that Brown already harbors thoughts of running for the presidency in 1984, it is not certain that he will endorse either of his two former

Brown and Kennedy have talked by telephone twice since the governor dropped out of the race. The first discussion took place on April 2. The second was last weekend when Kennedy made a "courtesy call" during a weekend of campaigning in Califor-

"I didn't ask him for an endorsement," Kennedy said. Asked whether Brown offered one, he replied, "No." But if Brown hasn't enlisted in the Kennedy campaign, some of his prominent former backers have, in varying degrees.

-Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers Union, endorsed Kennedy only a few days after

'Our support for Senator Kennedy is a basic question of social justice, he said, attacking Carter for "broken promises" over the last 31/2 years.

-The 600,000-member Service Employees International Union endorsed Kennedy at a news conference in Washington on Tuesday. While technically the union maintains it did not endorse Brown formally, its board approved SEIU President George Hardy's decision to lend his personal support and a key Hardy aide traveled frequently on Brown's campaign

Sources within the Kennedy campaign said the SEIU endorsement was available to Kennedy a year ago but he declined it, saying he was not a candidate.

-Willie Brown, a member of the California Assembly who is a close ally of the California governor, attended a fund-raiser for Kennedy last weekend in San Francisco.

-Tom Quinn, Brown's former campaign manager, briefly attended a Kennedy fund-raiser in Los Angeles. Quinn said he expects most of Brown's former supporters to end up with Kennedy, but he said he himself didn't expect to endorse another can-

"I have a personal preference which I will express in the privacy of the voting booth," he said, "but I'm not supporting anyone publicly or about to join anyone's campaign. -Activist Tom Hayden, another prominent Brown supporter, hasn't yet endorsed another candidate. But he said he and his wife, actress Jane Fonda, "probably will wind up supporting Kennedy. Kennedy has said he is pleased that Brown is out of the race. While Kennedy said that Brown was raising campaign issues "that were important," he also said they diverted attention from the key economic issues of his own campaign. But Kennedy rarely, if ever, attacked Brown directly while the two were rivals. And in a speech last week, Kennedy tossed the governor a bouquet of sorts.

Kennedy 'ready' for mayor's endorsement

By DAVID ESPO

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Philadephia Mayor William J. Green stepped up to a forest of microphones and asked the assembled reporters: "Is everybody

"I am," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy broke in, laughing, and a few moments later, the endorsement he has been wanting for weeks was his.

'Clearly, a new direction is urgently needed in the posture of the federal government toward America's cities and their economic condition," Green

"And Ted Kennedy, through a long and dedicated campaign, has emerged as the man who will do something about it," the mayor said.

With Kennedy launching his stretch drive for next Tuesday's Democratic presidential primary in Pennsylvnia, Green's endorsement provided a big psychological boost. But at the same time, Kennedy and Green, in identical words, said the senator faces an "uphill battle" in his bid for a win in the state where 185 national convention delegates are at stake

Kennedy, on a three-day campaign tour of the state, arranged to stump for votes today in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Philadelphia.

Campaigning Tuesday, Kennedy picked up another endorsement, this one in Washington from the 600,000 member Service Employees International Union. He also went on a walking tour of a poor, black neighborhood in west Philadelphia with his wife, Joan, and the mayor, attended a cocktail party with Democratic leaders in Philadelphia, and traveled briefly across the Delaware River to a fund-raiser in Merchantsville, N.J. He then spoke to a crowd of several hundred people at a Democratic Party dinner back in Philadelphia.

But for all his effort during a 13hour campaign day that ended with a long plane flight across the state, the most important event was Green's endorsement, at a noon-time airport news conference that lasted less than Green, a long-time personal friend of Kennedy, is one of only two big-city mayors to endorse Carter's challenger. Chicago mayor Jane Byrne is the other.

Green warned Kennedy not to expect too much from his endorsement. "It is not my intention to attempt to 'deliver' the city in the old machine phasized." He said it was

"laughable" to suggest to labor officials that

Kennedy wavered on style of politics. That era is gone," he

He told reporters that Kennedy would carry Philadelphia next Tuesday, but he was more cautious about predicting a victory statewide.

"I believe it is possible for him to win in Pennsylvania. I think if the trend continues, and I think the trend is quickly coming, that he will win Pennsylvania," he said.

Green had wavered for months trying to decide whether to endorse his old friend on the one hand, or Carter, the holder of the federal purse strings, on the other just a week away, Re- the Great Depression." publican George Bush has called on front-runner Ronald Reagan to put his "free lunch" economic proposals clearly on the table.

Bush told a jammed audience of Pennsylvania State University students that he doesn't think the former California governor's budget plan is workable.

"I don't believe you can cut taxes $70 billion and still get this budget businesses need relief in balance relatively soon," the former U.N. ambassador said in remarks to more than 1,000 students at a campus ant applause during his meeting here. He called Reagan's idea for cutting taxes 30 percent over three years 'a blueprint for paradise" that would push inflation to 30 percent a

"I say to Governor Reagan he ought to lay out the details of his economic plan," Bush said. "When would the budget be in balance? ...I think we need specifics of this free-lunch approach."

Bush said the budget should be balanced first and then taxes cut selectively to spur savings, business investments and jobs. In addition, Bush said

Couple held on murder charge

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) - A San Antonio couple, accused in a crime spree of kidnapping, robbery, rape and murder, has been indicted on capital murder charges by a Kerr County grand jury,

The indictments were returned Tuesday after authorities arrested Deliah Gonzalez, 18, and Ronald W. Johnson, 22, in Sealy, about 210 miles away, said Kerr County Sheriff Paul Fields.

"It's just like something out of True Detective magazine," Fields said of the complicated case. "It park and summon authorities, who arrested the man took us four hours just to figure out what the hell we were doing.

The pair was taken to the Austin County jail before being returned to Kerr County, said Austin County Sheriff Truman Maddox.

Miss Gonzalez was charged Tuesday with aggravated robbery before Austin County Peace Justice H.C. Frizzell. She and Johnson were indicted Tuesday afternoon on four counts of capital murder, including robbery, kidnap and rape, by a Kerr County grand jury, said District Attorney Ronald

The two men took her money and jewelry, he said, then forced her to accompany them in her car while Ms. Gonzalez drove to Kerrville in their auto.

"They took a different route and on the way they decided to stop and rape her," said Fields, "then they drove about three miles further, got into an altercation, and the one we've got in custody shot the other one with a .44 Magnum and killed him instantaneously.'

Houston wallops Atlanta

By ALEX SACHARE

The Atlanta Braves have played six games this season and lost all six, and the streak is taking it's toll on Manager Bobby Cox.

"It's driving me crazy," Cox said following his team's 6-1 loss at Houston Monday night. "I can't sleep at night — and when I do, I hate to wake up in the morning and read the news-

Seaver, who missed the season opener because of the flu, pitched six innings, giving up three runs on six hits. It was the 236th victory of his career, tying him with former New York Yankees pitcher Whitey Ford for 40th place on the all-time list.

Odessa Supt. Bill Holm, chairman of the District 5-4A Executive Committee, said Wednesday that a recent "warning" given to the Midland High football program may have to be upgraded to a probation in order to stay in the guidelines of the University Interscholastic League.

a warning to Midland High for going beyond the school hour in their offseason program for a eight day period. "I thought then and I think now that the ruling was a just one," Holm stated. "But Bailey Marshall, who is the UIL director, said that we might take another look at the wording and the terminology used. Evidently, there is no warning for the UIL, but probation is the term that should be

"I know that Bailey didn't think that additional punishment needed to be handed out to Midland High, but he is trying to protect the district. He felt that the District 5-4A football champion might be disqualified if we stayed with the term warning. He just didn't want someone saying after the season that we hadn't followed the right guidelines.'

Holm said that he would probably call a meeting next week of the committee to review the wording that should be given to Midland High.

"We want to protect Midland High as well as the district and we may have to change the warning to a probation, but it will not effect the status of Midland High in any way. We had already warned Midland High that any other violations would result in a severe penalty and their status will remain the same under a probation,"

Matlack stymies Cleveland, 3-0

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

While Jon Matlack and Frank Tanana continued their comebacks from serious arm injuries that sidelined them much of one season, Steve McCatty returned from an ego injury of one day.

Matlack handcuffed the Cleveland Indians on five hits and ran his consecutive scoreless innings streak to 18 Tuesday night to lead the Texas Rangers to a 3-0 victory. It was his first triumph since last June 26 after elbow miseries forced offseason sur-

Tanana, making his first start after tendinitis in his shoulder forced him to miss three months last season, pitched a complete game and scattered eight hits as the California Angels defeated the Minnesota Twins

McCATTY, meanwhile, recovered from a less serious and durable blow. The 6-foot-3 Oakland right-hander was bombed for five runs in 12-3 innings Monday night, but Manager Billy Martin started him again Tues-day night and he responded with eight innings of shutout pitching as the A's bombed the Seattle Mariners 12-3.

In the other two American League games, the Chicago White Sox defeated the New York Yankees 4-3 in 14 innings and the Baltimore Orioles routed the Kansas City Royals 12-2.

Neither Matlack nor Tanana had expected to go nine innings. "I feel as though I have fully recovered, but I should be just going seven innings," said Matlack, who also went nine innings in Texas' opener with the Yankees before being relieved in a 0-0 game. "But I've just felt so good..." Texas catcher Jim Sundberg, who knocked in a run and scored another against the Indians, said of his batterymate, "If he was a seven before on a scale of 10, he is a nine now." "I would have been happy with seven innings and taking a hike," said Tanana. "They wanted me to go one more, so I did.

"The eighth turned out to be pretty easy, so I said, 'What the hell, let's go

Rick Dempsey and Ken Singleton both hit two-run homers to pace a 12-hit attack as Baltimore won easily in its first home game in front of a record opening-day crowd of 50,119. Jim Palmer allowed only six hits through eight innings to earn his se ond victory of the season.

White Sox 4, Yankees 3 Chet Lemon's bases-loaded single with two out in the bottom of the 14th inning ended a three-hour, 41-minute marathon in chilly Chicago, giving the White Sox their fourth straight victory after an opening-day loss.

Jim Kaat, 0-1, seemed on the verge of escaping a bases-loaded, none-out jam when he forced Jim Morrison into a home-to-first double play, but Lemon drilled a line-drive single to right after Kaat reloaded the bases with a walk to Lamar Johnson.

Midland Cubs salvage twin-bill split with SA

Sports Editor

After Steve Viskas, with last inning help from Bob Blyth, tossed a six-hitter at San Antonio for a 5-2 victory Tuesday at Cubs Stadium, the Midland Cubs were thinking in terms of a series-squaring doubleheader sweep in the second game with a 1-0 lead going into the fifth and Jon Perlman and the Cubs' defense making it look like money in the bank.

Only trouble was, Perlman lost his temper on the way to the bank and found himself taking an early shower as the Dodgers sent 12 batters to the plate on the way to a game-breaking nine-run inning.

The win gave the Dodgers the Texas League series, 4-2, and the Cubs appeared headed for more trouble tonight in Amarillo where they open a six-game series with the Amarillo Gold Sox, who gave the El Paso Diablos the devil in their opening series.

IN THE first game Viskas, giving

Midland easily its best pitching performance to date, hooked up with Paul Bain in a mound duel that the Cubs nailed down in the sixth inning when Dave Stockstill singled, Melvin Hall beat out a rap to third and third baseman J.W. Mitchell drove Bain to cover with a run-scoring double. Catcher Mike Shepston then laid a bunt down the third base line to squeeze Hall in from third for a 5-2

A walk and a single by Larry Fobbs to open the seventh prompted Manager Randy Hundley to summon Blyth from the bullpen to get the final three outs, which he did in rapid order.

It started out like a long night for Viskas when Mark Bradley and Alex Traveras opened the game with backto-back triples, but after that Viskas was superb. Midland tied it in the home first when Dave Owen walked, stole second, moved to third on Scott Fletcher's single and scored on an infield out.

In the fourth, Dave Stockstill, who had 27 homers in the Midwest League last year, poled an awesome homer second run, trouble really broke out.

over the angle in left-center to give Midland a 2-1 lead and the Cubs added another in the fifth when Fletcher beat out an infield hit and Grant doubled into the right field corner.

IN THE nightcap, Randy LaVigne singled home a run to give Midland a 1-0 lead and Perlman and the Cubs acted liked they intended to make it stand up. In the first four innings, Perlman gave up one single and two walks and all had been erased by double plays. So going into the fifth, Perlman had faced the minimum number of batters.

A walk and Baltimore chop single by Leo Hernandez down the third base line followed by Bill Swope's sacrifice put runners on second and third, so Dale Holman was purposely passed, but Perlman then walked Fobbs to force in a run. In the process, the Baylor grad took exception to plate umpire Frank Willman's appraisals on a couple of pitches and after Jesse Baez' fly to left plated a

PERLMAN stormed the plate and had loud, angry words with Willman, who gave him the thumb, so when Jon left, two were out and he trailed 2-1. Kent Hunziker faced five batters and didn't retire any as Tom Beyers, a thorn in the side of the Cubs throughout the series, applied the coup de grace with a grand slam

That was the prelude to the second act of the stormy inning. After Beyers' homer, a high-inside fourth ball dropped Mike Marshall in the dirt. Words were exchanged as Mike walked to first and both teams seemed poised for something more

The Dodgers added insult to injury with five more runs in the seventh, so the rivalry which flared violently in last year's playoff between the clubs is off to a good start.

Midland handles Big Spring Steers

BIG SPRING - Midland pushed across a run in the top of the seventh inning here Tuesday to down the Big Spring Steers, 6-5 to open the second half of the District 5-4A baseball

The victory puts Coach Tim Whalen's Purple Pack in first place with Midland Lee, Odessa Permian and

Joel Castaneda singled in Russell Wickman with the winning run as Midland pounded out 15 hits for the victory which evens its season record

Big Spring took a 3-0 lead off-starter Paul Cox in the bottom of the second inning, but the Pack battled back with single runs in the second and third innings to stay within strking distance of the Steers who were losing their second 5-4A game in two days. Abilene had beaten Big Spring, 2-0 on Monday

Four Bulldog errors in the second handed the Steers three unearned

In the top of the second, Castaneda singled and scored on Bobby Stovall's booming triple to cut the lead to 3-1 and in the third inning, Shawn Mowles singled, Wickman walked and Castaneda flew out to center to score

Midland took a 4-3 lead in the fifth when Stovall singled, Tracy Gann doubled and Frank Garramone followed with a base hit.

The Steers tied the game at 4-4 in the bottom of that same inning on a single by Mark Warren, a sacrifice by Tommy Rodriguez and a base hit by Tommy Olague.

Castaneda led off the sixth inning with a single and scored after walks to Eddie Portillo and Stovall along with a sacrifice fly off the bat of Gann for a 5-4 advantage.

Not to be outdone, the Steers scored a single run in the bottom of the inning to tie the game when Armednariz doubled and Dickie Wrightsil singled.

Then came the heroics of Castaneda in the seventh for the victory. Midland has a makeup game in

Bowman wary of Black Hawks

By FRANK BROWN AP Sports Writer

The Chicago Black Hawks, and their three-game playoff winning streak, stand in the way of a Stanley Cup milestone for Buffalo Sabres Coach Scotty Bowman.

In 12 seasons as a National Hockey League coach (four with the St. Louis Blues and seven with the Montreal Canadiens) Bowman has compiled a record of 99 victories and 55 defeats. A Buffalo victory in tonight's opening game of their quarterfinal series with the Black Hawks would make Bowman only the second coach in playoff history to record 100 victories; the other was Dick Irvin of the Canadiens, who won 100 of 190 postseason games.

Bowman, who coached the Canadiens to four consecutive Stanley Cups before taking over at Buffalo last summer, says Chicago's strengths should not be underestimated.

They're like us. They think they have a bona fide chance to win the Cup," Bowman said Tuesday as the Sabres prepared for the opener against a Black Hawks squad that swept St. Louis in the first

He pinpointed the performances of center Terry Ruskowski, defenseman Keith Brown and other young Black Hawks in noting his concern. "This kid Ruskowski, they put him in there and he scored 70 points," said Bowman. "Keith Brown and others have been very steady rookies. Their defense can break open a game.'

So, however, can Bowman's top line of team captain Danny Gare (56 goals in the regular season), star center Gil Perreault and left wing Rick Martin, who scored four goals in the Sabres' four-game triumph over the Vancouver Canucks in the best-of-five first round

"They (the Black Hawks) are a much better team than Vancouver," said the coach. "They had a shot at fifth (overall) until the last week of the season."

Eventually, fifth place overall was taken by the New York Islanders, who visit the Boston Bruins in the opener of another best-of-seven quarterfinal. Other openers place the New York Rangers in Philadelphia against the Flyers and the Minnesota North Stars in Montreal against the red-hot but injury-plagued Canadiens.

The Bruins, who won three of their four regular season meetings with the Islanders, continue to rest their goaltending hopes on veteran Gerry Cheevers. The 39-year-old goalie, a veteran of 83 playoff games, has started 20 of the Bruins last 21 games; the games tonight and Thursday would have him in goal five times in six

"He says he's not weary," says Coach Harry Sinden.
"I just feel the Islanders are going to attack more than the Penguins," offered Cheevers, whose Bruins needed the maximum five games to dispose of Pittsburgh. "There were stretches with the Penguins where I didn't get a shot for five minutes. That's tough on a goaltender. I think I'd rather have the work right off the bat."

Rookie Bruins defenseman Ray Bourque is tied with Montreal's Yvon Lambert for the playoff scoring lead. Each has eight points, but Bourque has one goal, Lambert has six.

The Canadiens, who swept the Hartford Whalers in the prelims, carry a 24-game unbeaten streak and plenty of injuries into their opener with

The key loss to Montreal was that of star right wing Guy Lafleur, who suffered a badly bruised left knee in the finale at Hartford Friday night. An injury to the same knee on Feb. 19 knocked Lafleur out of six regular-season games. That game, against Washington, also was the last time the Canadiens lost.

Others operating at less than full strength are defensemen Serge Savard and Guy Lapointe and centers Pierre Mondou and Doug Risebrough. Savard and Risebrough may return tonight; Lapointe is lost for "You can't panic," said Montreal defenseman Larry Robinson: "We've always missed players in the playoffs.

Hurtubise refuses to bow to biggies

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - In the high-priced world of championship auto racing, where it takes a bundle to make a bundle and not very many succeed, Jim Hurtubise refuses to bow to to the big boys: "It's a helluva deal," says Hurtubise. "I'm probably the only guy out there who has fun.' Hurtubise hasn't qualified a car for the Indianapolis 500 since 1974, but he'll be back again next month I go out there and have fun.' with his same old front-engine Mallard roadster, a virtually extinct breed that he designed and built.

"I could go out there in a rear-engine car and be like everybody else," Hurtubise said in a telephone interview Tuesday night. "But it's gotten to where individuals can't do that any more because of the politics of racing. If you're not on a big-name team, you might as well stay home. He has driven in only two Indy races since 1968, finishing 23rd in 1972 and 25th in 1974. His best finish here was in 1962, when he completed all 200 laps and wound up 13th.

NOW A SENTIMENTAL crowd favorite, Hurtubise returns each year with the out-of-date racer even though he has almost no change against the modern, highly sophisticated rear-engine racers for a spot in the 33-car starting field.

Why does he do it, knowing it will take a minor miracle to get into the race?

"I enjoy it. I've worked hard to get to Indianapolis, and I'm not going to let anybody take it away from

Pappas favored

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., one of the most consistent players on the Professional Bowlers Association tour, was favored to win the $150,000 Tournament of Champions as qualifying play began today. Even Pappas conceded he may have an advantage by having won this event, the biggest of all PBA tournament, last year. "My chances are as good as anybody's - maybe better because being the defending champion automatically pumps you up," he said. Added to that was the questionable status of bowling's big three: Mark Roth of North Arlington, N.J.; Earl Anthony of Dublin, Calif., and Marshall

Holman of Medford, Ore.

Outlook bleak for defending champion Seattle

Philadelphia and Los Angeles have joined Boston in the conference finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs, which means the teams with the three best records during the regular season have qualified for the round of four.

But for the club with the fourth-best mark, the defending champion Seattle SuperSonics, the outlook is bleak.

The Sonics, playing before a crowd of 40,172 at Seattle's Kingdome, the largest crowd ever to attend a pro basketball game, were beaten by the Milwaukee Bucks 108-97 Tuesday night and now trail in their best-ofseven second-round series 3-2. The Bucks can wrap it up at home Friday

"We feel we've played tremendous basketball in four of the five games of this series," said Richard Washington, who came off the bench to score a season-high 21 points while filling in both at center and forward. "We're as confident as we can be going back to Milwaukee.'

And the Sonics, who fell behind in the series 2-1 only to tie it at Milwaukee and thought they were in the driver's seat with two of the last three games at home, know they are in

"We had the golden opportunity, but we gave it away," said Sonics center Jack Sikma. "We've got to do it the hard way. You can't turn the clock back. We've just got to go out and do it on Friday.

PHILADELPHIA and Los Angeles

did it on Tuesday. The 76ers, getting 30 points apiece from Julius Erving and Darryl Dawkins, beat the Atlanta Hawks 105-100 to win their series 4-1. Philadelphia will meet the Celtics in the Eastern Conference finals starting in Boston Friday night.

The Lakers, with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scoring 35 points and grabbing 16 rebounds, whipped the Phoenix Suns 126-101 to win their series. also by a 4-1 margin. The Lakers will face the winner of Milwaukee-Seattle in the Western Conference final.

Boston had advanced to the round of four by completing a sweep of the Houston Rockets Monday night.

Milwaukee's win may have been costly, because forward Dave Meyers suffered a bruised knee and sixth man Junior Bridgeman bruised his lower back during the game. With reserve center Harvey Catchings out because of bone spurs in his foot, there was ample playing time for the 6-foot-10 Washington, who responded by hitting 10 of 14 shots.

"He gave us a whale of a game," said Bucks Coach Don Nelson. "He shot well, he rebounded and he played some excellent defense. This was the best game I've seen him play, and it came at such an opportune time."

Milwaukee led 85-72 after three quarters, but Seattle railied to cut the gap to three at 92-89 on a follow-up shot by rookie James Bailey with 4: 19 left. But the Bucks turned back that charge by scoring six straight points on a free throw by Lanier, a stuff shot by Marques Johnson and a threepoint play by Washington.

BOB LANIER of Milwaukee and Gus Williams of Seattle scored 22 points apiece

The crowd broke the NBA attendance record of 39,457 set at the Kingdome on May 30, 1978, for the fourth game of the Washington-Seattle championship series.

76ers 105, Hawks 100

The Sixers trailed 53-43 at halftime but outscored the Hawks 35-20 in the third period to take command. Erving and Dawkins combined for 21 points in the decisive quarter.

The 22-year-old Dawkins, playing his best game of the series, hit on 14 of 20 shots from the field against Atlanta centers Wayne "Tree" Rollins and Steve Hawes, who were both in foul trouble for most of the second half.

"Darryl Dawkins played a great game tonight," said Erving. "He wasn't to be denied once he got the

"Dawkins just put on an awesome display, offensively and defensively, in the second half," added Sixers

Coach Billy Cunningham. Lakers 126, Suns 101

The Lakers made six of their first seven shots, broke to a 16-8 lead and never trailed in posting their 23rd victory in the last 25 starts on their home court. They broke the game wide open by scoring 13 of the last 18 points in the first half and 11 of the first 14 points in the second half to go ahead 71-45.

"Needless to say, we are a happy bunch of guys," said Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead. "I thought we gave a high intensity effort. We showed dominance and pursuit on the boards, which was the significant reason we won.

Phoenix Coach John MacLeod offered no excuses.

"The Lakers played very well," he said. "When it was time to make our move, we couldn't get it together."

As for Abdul-Jabbar, MacL-eod said: "I've been coaching in this league for seven years. I've seen him play for seven years. This is the best I've seen him play. The big fellow can make players play better. I can't say

Jack Tuthill-Forgotten man of the PGA tour

By BOB GREEN

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) - As is so often the case, the caddies on the PGA Tour have the definitive word. It may not be entirely according to Webster, but their phrasing is descriptive, colorful and deadly accurate.

To them, Jack Tuthill is "The

It is an accolade of respect. And it is richly deserved.

"Very quietly, and without recognition, he, more than any other person, has held the Tour together," said Joe Dey, the long-time executive director of the U.S. Golf Association and the Tour's first commissioner

The enormous contributions to the game made by the quiet, soft-spoken Tuthill were recognized formally last week by the presentation of the William Richardson Award by the Golf Writers' Association of America.

"It came as a complete surprise to me," said Tuthill, the Tournament Director for the Tour. "I'm only now beginning to fully appreciate what it means, what a great honor it is. "Look at the list of former winners."

His inclusion does nothing to detract from the stature of that list.

Tuthill, who retreats to his farm outside Pensacola, Fla., when he isn't following the Tour on its 44-week trek around the United States - with occasional foreign trips — is a graduate of Cortland State and has a masters degree from Ithaca, both in his native New York.

After brief careers as a minor league baseball player and as an FBI agent, he joined the Tour staff in 1960. He was named Tournament Director in 1964, a position in which he directs, supervises and administers co-sponsored events on the Tour.

Recognized as one of the world's leading authorities on the rules of the game, he also serves on a regular basis on the rules committees for such major events as the Masters, U.S. Open and PGA national championship and is chairman of the rules committee for the international World Cup competition.

McCutcheon traded to Bronchos

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Lawrence McCut-cheon had hoped to finish out his National Football League career with the Los Angeles Rams, but the running back said he won't mind returning "home" to end his playing days.

The 29-year-old McCutcheon, the leading ground-gainer in Rams' hitory, was traded by the National Football League team to the Denver Broncos Tuesday for an undisclosed future draft choice. The former Colorado State star will be back in the state where he played his college

"I think I still have some football left in me," said McCutcheon. "I think I have three more years."

In seven years with the Rams, including four consecutive 1,000-yard seasons, McCutcheon earned the nickname "Clutch" as he gained 6,186 yards on 1,435 carries. His final contribution to the Rams was throwing a 24-yard touchdown pass in the Super Bowl loss to Pittsburgh three Injuries the past two seasons relegated McCutcheon to a reserve role behind Wendell Tyler in the Rams' backfield. He suffered thigh and hamstring injuries in 1978 and gained just 440 yards that year. His playing time was limited again last season when he carried the ball just 73 times for 343 yards.

New credit restrictions call for care by consumers

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Recent government and industry moves to restrict the use of credit have made it more important than ever for consumers to learn the rights and responsibilities of buying now and paying later. Specific credit terms vary from lender to lender and state to state. The basic principles of credit use and misuse - are fairly standard, however, and the American Bar Association has prepared a 36-page booklet to help clear up confusion.

The booklet, called "Your Guide to pare costs for different types of cred-Consumer Credit and Bankruptcy," it. It includes chapters on applying for

The finance charge is the total amount - in dollars and cents -The ABA booklet explains what you pay to use the lender's money. It includes interest and special charges like service fees or credit-related insurance premiums. The annual percentage rate - expressed as a percent - is the rate of interest on a yearly basis. Lenders must tell you both the finance charge and the annual percentage rate.

Decide what you are looking for when you borrow money. Are you willing to pay more in the long run in exchange for lower monthly payments? A three-year, $4,000 loan at 11 percent annual interest would mean monthly payments of $131. Your total interest over the 36 months would be

Studies indicate sugar substitutes mild carcinogens

Dear Dr. Solomon: Has any conclusion been reached about the relationship between artificial sweeteners and cancer? I stopped using saccharin several months ago when a number of stories appeared warning that it was a carcinogen. I'm still under the impression the government was supposed to study the subject and make a report to the public. Have there been any new developments? - Tom.

Dear Tom: A report on the relationship between artificial sweeteners and bladder cancer has been issued by the National Cancer Institute and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Their study involved interviews with more than 3,000 patients with bladder cancer and almost 6,000 subjects from the general population who did not have cancer. The prelim- sweeteners.

inary findings suggest that while saccharin and cyclamates are not strong carcinogens, they do pose a potential risk for bladder cancer to some individuals.

For example, heavy users of artificial sweeteners — that is, persons who have six or more servings a day of a sugar substitute, or at least two eight-ounce diet drinks a day - have a 60 percent increased risk of developing bladder cancer. A second group at risk consists of heavy cigarette smokers who make heavy use of the sweeteners.

A third group at risk for bladder cancer includes women who consume sugar substitutes or diet beverages twice or more a day. They had a 60 percent greater risk than similar women who never used artificial

Dr Jere E. Goyan, FDA commissioner, has pointed out that the majority of people in the study were at least 67 years of age, and, consequently, consumed much less saccharin and cyclamates than younger people do today. The effects of consuming large amounts of these products may not become aparent for 20 or 30

Dear Dr. Solomon: In response to a question in one of your columns, you wrote that your nicotine neutralization technique to get people to stop smoking worked in 85 percent of your patients. However, the length of follow-up at the time was only one month. Do you have any later figures on the effectiveness of this procepatients and have gathered information based on a six-month followup. At the end of this period, 50 per-cent of those treated had stopped smoking and had not resumed.

While the remainder have not been able to stop smoking completely, many have reduced the number of cigarettes consumed. If we include all patients who stopped smoking completely, as well as those who reduced their smoking by at least 50 percent (but in no case now smoke more than 10 cigarettes a day), the figure on successes rises to 65 percent of the total treated.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore,

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: 1980 is fated to be a lúcky year for you, and your fortunes are aided by events beyond your control. Expect extra money and chance to travel. Your normal good humor may be tested by a work situation, but change of employment is not necessarily the answer. Keep low profile during a difficult time and you emerge both stronger and for future success and security. Romance exercises even You can find yourself falling for someone you never thought your type, Glamor and prestige of new acquaintance arouses your competitive spirit. You sparkle! RIES (March 21-Apri 19): Mental endeavors go better than projects requiring manual dexterity or physical strength. Valuable knowledge could be gleaned from casual conversation with competitor. Listen carefully and put the information to work.

TAURUS . (April 20-May 20): Mate, spouse may oppose your plans for financial project. Be on lookout for unusual business opportunities. Short period of intense concentration is required to complete some pending tasks.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone's carelessness could lead to confusion. Idleness might prove costly mistake. Check your bills to know exactly where you stand. Consult spouse, romantic partner before making decision regarding legal matter. CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good idea to keep out of limelight at work today. Use business contacts wisely. Avoid asking special favors from higher-ups. If you will shop around, bargains for the home are now available

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Business trip can provide fas-Good day to deal with bankers, accountants. Do not carry a lot of money on your person. People behind the scenes can give needed boost to career.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):cinch big business deal. Romance is apt to take back seat to career goals now. Spouse or romantic partner may not understand. Be sure to give patient explanation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Others may offer some answers to old problems, but there are strings attached. You may have already completed project without knowing it. Review data. Be careful who you take into your confidence' or your home

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Gains come more slowly than you would like. Play waiting game. Telephone call brightens your outlook. Domestic tranquility means much to you now. Guard against giving impression that you take mate, romantic partner for granted! SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22forever in darkness now receive benefit of illumination. You may not be thrilled by career, business developments, but home scene is happier than

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Do not expect employment conditions to always re main the same. Change should be welcomed, not opposed. You may feel uneasy about an important relationship. Your fears will be proven unfound-

QUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb 18): Speculation or gambling today could be your undoing. Bankers provide best advice now. Be considerate to partner in marital, romantic relationship without surrendering your individuality.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can reach beyond what appeared to be a limitation. Advance those ideas in which you are strongly interested. Handling of joint financial funds could draw-criticism. Have the courage of your convictions. Results will proveyou right.

Dble. 4 + Pass 1 + Pass Pass Opening lead: King of O.

A judicious preempt can silence even the most skilled opposition. When you suspect that the enemy may have the balance of power, that's the time to jam their communications. Consider this hand.

South's opening bid of one spade placed West on the horns of a dilemma. Ideally, he would have preferred to overcall two hearts and then show his diamonds at his next turn. But since his hand had tolerance for clubs as well. West elected, after some consideration, to double-a decision which surely cannot be criticized. North's raise to four spades was an excellent tactical maneuver. With such superb support for partner's suit and little in way of defense, it seemed possible that the opponents might have a makable contract at the five-level. However, his preempt would put maximum presure on the oppei tion to find the right landing spot. East could not take action, and West was up against it. He felt that North-South might be stealing from him, but what could he do? Any bid would be a stab in the dark and, at this vulnerability, could prove expensive.

Observe that, as the cards lie, East-West can make five diamonds, but it would take delicate bidding of the first order to get there in the face of the opposition barrage. Now you see why so many players dislike making takeout doubles with twosuited hands. Had West chosen to overcall two hearts at his first turn, at least now he would have the option of bidding five diamonds to offer his partner a choice of suits. Against four spades West led the king of diamonds, then shifted to the queen of hearts. Declarer won in hand, cashed the ace of spades, then crossed to dummy with a diamond ruff. After extracting trumps with a finesse, the ace of hearts was cashed and West was put on lead with a heart. He could exit safely with a heart, but declarer left him on play by sluffing a club instead of ruffing. A red card return would allow declarer to ruff in dummy while getting rid of the club queen, and a club would be into declarer's ace-queen tenace.

rallies NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market posted a broad gain today, responding to the first reduction of the prime lending rate by a major bank this year.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.50 at 786.86.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 3-1 margin in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Early today New York's Chase Manhattan Bank lowered its prime rate to 19% percent from the record level of 20 percent that has prevailed for the past two weeks. A few smaller banks followed suit shortly thereaf-

Chase's action reinforced hopes that the long climb of interest rates might be over. with the economy slowing down.

Bond prices, which move inversely with interest rates, responded to the news with sharp gains.

Among stocks sensitive to interest rate expectations, Federal National Mortgage rose 1% to 14, and American Telephone & Telegraph gained 1 to 51. A half dozen electric utilities made the active list with fractional gains.

The NYSE's composite index rose .44 to 58.74. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .74 at 244.30.

BUSINESS MIRROR Angry protesters share spotlight

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Yesterday was "a national day of shame." Tomorrow is "anti-big business day" to some, "economic growth day" to others. This week is "private property week." Next week we honor secretaries.

Economic declaration, protest and counter-protest are elbowing each other for time in the sun, competing with each other and with the usual seasonal rites: annual meetings, reunions, weddings and gradua-

Angry about federal waste, overspending and taxation, Richard Lesher, National Chamber of Commerce president, recently christened April 15, tax deadline day, as a national day of shame, "even

One group, however, disagrees, said Lesher, and that group, made up of Ralph Nader followers, is sponsoring "Big Business Day," during which they hope to emphasize corporate crime, pollution and price-fixing.

Some big-business executives have decided to ignore the event, but others are ready to fight. Calling it "anti-big business day," they hope to counter it by proclaiming the benefits corporations The Business Roundtable, for example, has distributed position papers that talk of business as a source of jobs, as a taxpayer, as an agent of social justice, as a source of physical and financial securi-

The table, made up solely of men who head the nation's biggest companies, seeks to convince people that business is the source of the nation's wealth and that it should be preserved not destroyed.

Economic growth day, a day closely related in pirit as well as date, is being observed by the National Coalition for Growth, an offshoot of the Heritage Foundation, a pro-business think tank.

Growth day seeks to undermine the popularity of the notion that no growth, the antithesis of business philosophy, is the only possible response to conservation and environmental preservation.

Private property week is sponsored by the National Association of Realtors, which is quite upset about what it sees as threats to private property rights guaranteed by the 5th and 14th ammendments.

These ammendments, the Realtors say, protect Americans in owning, using and disposing of private property without undue government intereference But, it leaders maintain, interference is growing.

Rent control is seen as interference. So are some local restrictions imposed by building codes, and limitations set by arbitrary zoning. Most dangerous to some Realtors are local proposals, none enacted, to prevent owners from selling without first obtain-

.The Realtors also see government spending, taxation and inflation as ominous threats, and seek public support from what they call the 2 percent solution.

"The 2 percent solution recommends that federal spending be slowed by at least 2 percent, or $6 billion, by September 30, and another 2 percent or $18 billion in 1981," said Ralph Pritchard, president.

TV movies give

CBS late-season ratings edge

NEW YORK (AP) - Clint Eastwood scored twice, once for ABC and once for CBS, and "Patton" destroyed "Coming Home" in head-to-head competition as the TV networks battled for late-season ratings

CBS won a surprisingly easy race in the week ending April 13, thanks in large measure to a couple of madefor-television motion pictures, and pulled ahead of defending champ ABC by one-tenth of a point with a week to go in the 1979-80 season.

'Kenny Rogers as The Gambler,' broadcast by CBS, was the week's highest rated show, with another CBS movie, "Nurse," with Michael Learned from "The Waltons," in sixth

CBS, in fact, had eight of the week's 10 most-watched programs, and compiled a rating of 20.9 to 17.9 for ABC and a season-low 14.7 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.9 percent of the homes in the country with television were watching CBS.

CBS' rather decisive triumph in the latest survey sent the challenger into the final week of the season a enth of a point ahead of ABC - 19.6 to 19.5. CBS now has won the weeky competition 16 times to 12 for ABC and two for NBC.

Ratings help determine advertising rates, and all three networks scheduled blockbuster programming for the last week of the season.

Eastwood showed up twice in the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s Top 20 for the week, in "High Plains Drifter" on ABC and 'Magnum Force' 15th.

'Patton," another ABC movie, finished 25th in the ratings, thwarting NBC's effort to score twice this season with Jane Fonda and Jon Voight in "Coming Home." "Coming Home" finished 48th NBC stumbled, too, with Henry Fonda in "The Oldest Living Graduate," a live theatrical production from Southern Methodist University. It was No. 59 for the week.

The rating for "The Gambler" on CBS was 31.2. Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, 31.2 percent saw at least part of the movie.

NBC suffered further from the week's five lowest-rated shows, beginning with a carryover into primetime of the extra-inning baseball game Saturday between Los Angeles and Houston, No. 65 in the ratings. That was followed by "The Dobermans," "Sneak Preview - The Oscar Race," a 10 p.m. episode of "United States" and a 10:30 p.m. segment from the same series.

Here are the week's 10 highestrated shows: Movie-"Kenny Rogers as The Gambler," with a rating of 31.2 or 23.8 million homes, and "60 Minutes," 29 or 22.1 million, both CBS; "The Best of That's Incredible," 26.1 or 19.9 million, ABC; "Real People," 25.3 or 19.3 million, NBC; "The Jeffersons," 24.7 or 18.8 million, and "Nurse," 24.3 or 18.5 million, both CBS; "Alice" and "M-A-S-H" both CBS, both 23.6 or 18 million, and "Flo," 23 or 17.5 million, and "Dukes of Hazzard," 22.4 or 17.1 million, both TIRED OF THE SAME OLD BLAH?

Poverty, tales of good life Boat people still driving refugees to U.S. crowding Florida

PORT-Au-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) -The waves of Haitian boat people washing up on Florida's southern beaches are driven by poverty and tales of the good life in America, Haitian and U.S. officials say.

But they can't explain the sudden big increase in the number of those who leave their island homeland in flimsy boats and head for Florida.

Immigration officers in Miami say nearly 900 Haitians, most of them illiterate and speaking only their native dialect, have swarmed ashore in southern Florida in the past four days. U.S. authorities are hard pressed to feed and shelter them.

The food and camp cots provided by relief agencies for those caught by immigration authorities and the hardships endured by those who aren't caught probably are no disappointment after life in northwestern Haiti, where most of the boat people come from.

Haiti is the poorest nation in the Western Hemisphere, the only one in the Americas on the U.N. list of least developed countries. And northwestern Haiti is the coorest part of the country. International aid officials say the average annual income for the country is about $150 a year per household, but it is much lower in the northwest, where most people are subsistence farmers, fishermen or charcoal producers.

The intense production of charcoal has almost denuded the land of trees. The resultant erosion has produced a dry, desert-like region where agriculture is a losing struggle, authorities on in Haiti to accelerate the outflow, said Ints Silins, political officer at the embassy. The U.S. government takes the position that the boat people are economic rather than political refugees, Silins said. And two investigative U.S

missions, one by the State Depart-ment and the other by Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla., failed to find any thing that would change that view, he The Haitian government concurs. "These people are economic refugees," said one high-ranking official who asked that his name not be used "We admit their life is hard, but they certainly are not political refugees. "Possibly the increase is due to returnees telling others that the U.S.

stay and is looking on the problem more sympathetically.' Embassy officials speculated that the increase might also be due to the smooth seas between Haiti and Florida at this time of year.

government is going to allow them to

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) - They sleep on cots, eat sandwiches at every meal and lounge on hard wooden bleachers, but to the 300 Haitian refugees camping out at a National Guard armory, it's the Ritz.

"We have never been treated so well," said Alfred Jean, one of nearly 900 Haitians who crowded into a dozen rickety boats to reach South Florida in the past four days.

One of the refugees, Tata Francois, was pronounced dead of a ruptured liver at the armory Monday night. Officials said the 35-year-old man had chronic health problems aggravated by drinking sea water. Francois and 134 others aboard a homemade 45-foot sailboat reportedly ran out of food and water midway through their 12-day journey.

The huge and sudden influx of Haitian "boat people" into South Florida pushed the official count over 3,000 for the year and sent immigration officials scrambling to accommodate

The Homestead armory, one of a half dozen emergency shelters, housed the largest group of those waiting to be fingerprinted, X-rayed and checked for disease. Officials said the group, all men, would be released in a few days to friends or relatives among the estimated 15,000 to 30,000 Haitians already living in South Florida. Other refugees spent Tuesday night in hotels, jail cells and another armory while Gov. Bob Graham urged federal resettlement aid. "Clearly, the problem of the refugees is a federal responsibility," said Dade County Manager Merrett Stierheim, arguing Miami should not bear the cost just because Haiti is 700 miles to the southeast.

asked not to be identified. The guard worked at the Ford plant for three years until he was laid off three months ago. He had been back on the job for just two weeks when the news of the shutdown came. "I'm going to pray a lot," he said, adding he had used up his severance pay the last time the company put him out of work. What Ford is closing is a 2.4-million square foot assembly plant that sits on 177 acres. The complex includes a 3,000-car parking lot and a two-story administration building with three cafeterias, a complete hospital unit and medical staff.

Those working the first shift at the plant were told of the shutdown by plant officials at about 2:30 p.m. Groups of workers were taken into the cafeteria to learn the details of the closing.

But employees on the second shift, who started drifting in at about 3:45 p.m., said they heard the news on the radio.

"I'm not surprised. I've been hearing this for years," said Ernest Schmidt, a 56-year-old fork lift operator.

"I felt it (coming) when they shut down the truck section six months," said Richard De Lorenzo, a paint sprayer. "One-third of the plant is idle." Ford officials said one reason for the shutdown was the poor quality of the Zephyrs and Fairmonts

Mexican authorities will turn over results of the crash investigation to the National Transportation Safety Board, Federal Aviation Administration officials said Tuesday. Killed in the crash were John W. Miller, 54, pilot and founder of an El Paso oil exploration equipment corporation, his wife Patricia; Mr. and Mrs. William H. O'Connor, of Houston; and Otice E. Brown, vice president for engineering in Miller's firm. The five were returning from a five-day fishing vacation at La Paz, a beach resort city near the tip of the Baja Peninsula.

The Miller family lived at Washington Ranch, near Carlsbad, N.M. O'Connor was connected with Geosource Inc., a worldwide electronics and oil servicing company headquartered at Houston.

In North America, the company has 191,000 production workers - about 148,000 of them at work and 80,000 salaried employees. The total on salary has been reduced about 8,000 in the last six months. Ford closed a large-car assembly plant near Los Angeles in January, giving it 25 assembly lines in 20 plants.

Asked why Mahwah, which makes the Ford Fairmont and Mercury Zephyr, was chosen, Poling replied, "There were a lot of considerations but the two important ones were quality and costs, and I hope you note the order in which I said that."

He lived long before He was ever born

Anyone whose Father is God listens gladly to the words of God. Since you don't, it proves you aren't His children."

"You Samaritan! Foreigner! Devil!" the Jewish leaders snarled. "Didn't we say all along you were possessed by a demon?"

"No," Jesus said, "I have no demon in Me. For I honor My Father—and you dishonor Me.

And though I have no wish to make Myself great, God wants this for Me and judges [those who reject Me].

With all the earnestness I have I tell you this—no one who obeys Me shall ever die!"

The leaders of the Jews said, "Now we know you are possessed by a demon. Even Abraham and the mightiest prophets died, and yet you say that obeying you will keep a man from dying!

So you are greater than our father Abraham, who died? And greater than the prophets, who died? Who do you think you are?"

Then Jesus told them this: "If I am merely boasting about Myself, it doesn't count. But it is My Father—and you claim Him as your God—who is saying these glorious things about Me.

But you do not even know Him. I do. If I said otherwise, I would be as great a liar as you! But it is true—I know Him and fully obey Him.

Your father Abraham rejoiced to see My day. He knew I was coming and was glad."

The Jewish leaders: "You aren't even 50 years old—sure, you've seen Abraham!"

Jesus: "The absolute truth is that I was in existence

Award-winning poet looks back on satisfying career

By DEBORAH MESCE

STONINGTON, Conn. (AP) — James Merrill, who has been writing poetry for about 40 years, says he never considered doing anything else.

"It was the only thing I could do rather well," said the 54-year-old Merrill, whose father co-founded the brokerage house Merrill Lynch. "I banked on it."

His skill has won him numerous awards, including a Pulitzer Prize in 1977 for "Divine Comedies," the first of a trilogy inspired by evening conversations over a Ouija board.

"I'm awfully glad I got that prize fairly late in life," Merrill said. "I know of one poet who got it when he was barely 30 years old. It sent him into analysis because it created a massive writing block."

The trilogy, which also includes "Mirabell, Books of Number," has consumed most of Merrill's efforts over the last six years. The final volume, "Scripts for the Pageant," is to be released this spring.

to be released this spring.

"I've come to the end of something intensely interesting and demanding," he said, adding that he will now concentrate on short poems.

Merrill was born in New York City and attended schools in the metropolitan area until he enrolled at Amherst College in Massachusetts. After graduation in 1947, Merrill returned to New York and taught for a short time at Bard College.

His poetry was first published in a magazine in 1946. A book of his poetry was published five years later.

In 1954 he moved to Stonington, a coastal town in eastern Connecticut, where conversations with a friend-over a Ouija board inspired his Pulitzer Prize-winning work.

"The first couple of years we didn't know anyone" and turned to the Ouija board as something to pass the evenings, he said.

Merrill has published a novel, "The Seraglio," and two plays, including "The Immortal Husband," which was produced off-Broadway.

But Merrill says he has never been very comfortable with prose.

Merrill, who is single, divides his time between Stonington and Athens, Greece, where he owns a home.

"I thought at first they (Stonington and Greece) were very different, but it turned out they were similar," he said.

"Athens turned out to be an even smaller town than Stonington," he said.
