New moves may be announced against Iranians

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's chief spokesman is hinting that new U.S. retaliatory moves against Iran, expected soon, may foreshadow steps Carter will ask U.S. allies to take to help win freedom for American hostages.

White House press secretary Jody Powell did so after indicating Wednesday that a presidential announcement of further economic and political sanctions against Iran could come any time during the next 10 days, and possibly later today.

Carter called a news conference for 1 p.m. EST today, and it was thought this would be the likely forum for the announcement.

After Powell declined to specify the sanction options open to Carter, the White House spokesman was asked whether they might not prove meaningless. The questioner cited as an example a possible embargo on all food shipments, noting that long shoredmen already have effectively halted such traffic.

"You might consider the point," Powell said, "that quite often unilateral steps on our part do indeed point you toward steps which we will be asking others to take also."

Powell added that he did not necessarily have a food embargo in mind. But he said the United States hardly could ask allies to adopt sanctions if had not itself embraced

A Carter aide, who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday that the United States has told its allies Iran should have ample time by mid May to respond to the sanctions. Carter ordered last week, which included breaking diplomatic relations with Tehran.

If the Iranian response is not positive, the aide said, the allies will be asked to carry out additional non-military steps aimed at increasing pressure on Iran to free the 50 Americans who have been held hostage since the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was seized Nov. 4.

Asked at his daily press briefing about reports of a mid-May deadline, Powell said, "I don't want from this podium to be setting dates."

But he quickly called attention to the reports attributed to the anonymous Carter aide and suggested that reporters be guided by them — although officially Powell declined to confirm them.

Powell also emphasized that each ally will not necessarily be expected to adopt identical sanctions or to impose all the sanctions put in place by the United States.

"We do not expect every country to mimic us in exact detail," he said.

Because of what amounted to Carter's mid-May deadline for an Iranian response to pressure being exerted by Washington, the anonymous White House aide said consideration of any military moves against Iran would wait until after then.

The strain shows clearly on the face of a Cuban refugee woman as she moves through security checkpoints near the Peruvian embassy in Havana. People have been allowed to come and go at the embassy with safe conduct passes, but they must run the gauntlet of insults from the crowds that have gathered outside the security condon. (AP Laserphoto)

Cubans continue exodus

Some claim they were mobbed, robbed

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — A third planeload of 157 Cuban refugees from the Peruvian Embassy in Havana arrived today, and some of them claimed they were heckled, mobbed and robbed by supporters of President Fidel Castro before they left.

A fourth planeload with about as many is expected later in the day, leaving about 9,700 still waiting to leave Castro's communist country, according to the Peruvian government's count.

The refugees said about 150 Castro supporters insulted and mobbed them when they arrived at Havana's Jose Marti airport at 3 a.m. for the flight to San Jose, robbing most of them of their personal belongings.

"They took away all our suitcases, from everyone. They even took away our wristwatches," said Gilberto Puig, 30. Referring to conditions in Cuba, he added: "This is not just 10,000 people in the Peruvian Embassy, but all the Cuban people angry at Castro."

The newest arrivals were quickly passed through Costa Rican immigration and taken to the former presidential house in San Jose for rest and processing. It is still not certain what country they will be sent to.

The airlift was begun Wednesday by two Costa Rican airliners that brought 236 of the horde of Cubans who crowded into the Peruvian Embassy's 20-acre compound on April 4 wanting to leave Cuba.

Carlos Aguilar, a Costa Rican foreign ministry official who accompanied the refugee flights, said despite today's mob scene at Havana airport, there were less problems than with earlier flights.

Aguilar said Costa Rica still needs to coordinate better flight itineraries with Cuban authorities, and work out details about getting safe conduct and other necessary papers for the remainder of the refugees.

Border trouble flares up between Iran and Iraq troops

By The Associated Press

Iran reported a bombing with six killed in its oil capital on the Iraq border, an Iraqi attack on a border police post and 13 troops killed in fighting with Kurdish rebels in the northwest.

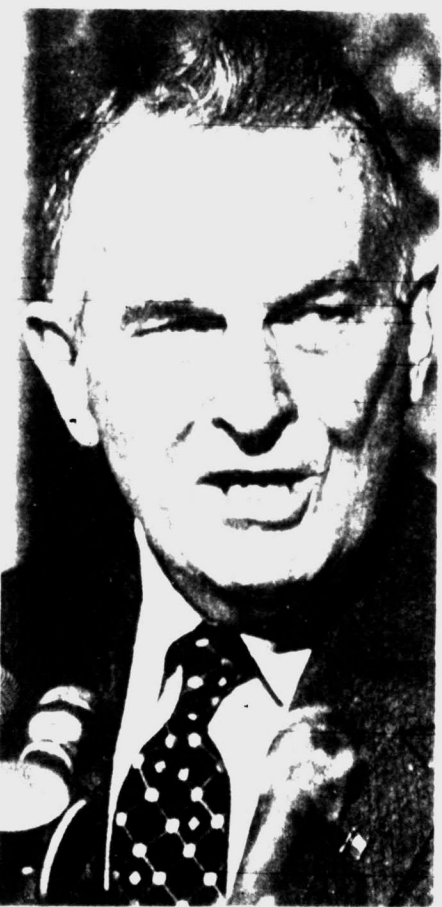

Tehran Radio said 31 persons were injured in the bombing Wednesday in Abadan, site of the world's largest oil refinery, and several shops were destroyed. Some of the injured were reported in serious condition.

The government radio did not say whether the bombing was believed to be the work of supporters of Iraq in the current hostilities between the two oil rich neighbors contending for dominance of the Persian Gulf. But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime has repeatedly accused Iraq of fomenting unrest among the Arabs who comprise the majority population group in Khuzestan Province, where Abadan and the oil fields are located.

The small scale border warfare and the war of words between Iraq and Iran continued, with Radio Tehran reporting an Iranian border police post attacked and sporadic clashes continuing along the frontier. No casualties were reported.

But heavy fighting was reported between government forces and the rebellious Kurds of northwest Iran

State should help feds on census, Clements says

MCALEEN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says state government will have to do something if the federal Census Bureau fails to step up the slow response of Texans to the national headcount.

"If we don't find that this changing in the next few days, by next week or in 10 days, I'll get into it," he said Wednesday. "I'm not sure what I can do."

Clements said he had talked earlier in the day with Houston city officials who confirmed reports he has received that only 55 percent of Lone Star state residents have returned census forms.

"The federal Census Bureau doesn't seem to be too excited about this problem. I think it's serious. Surely the response should be more than 55 percent," he told a news conference.

The governor was in the Rio Grande Valley for a two-day visit. His schedule included a speech before an international seminar today on business with Mexico.

The federal census taken each decade determines a state's share of federal program funds and representation in Congress. Texas is expected to gain house seats because of population growth since 1970.

Clements has asked census officials to furnish Texas with population figures adjusted to delete illegal aliens. He said legislative redistricting should not be affected by the number of people here illegally.

The bureau told him that would be impossible. "Considering the lack of response I've received from the Census Bureau, I'm not optimistic about them finally communicating with me," he said of the possible undercount of Texans.

The governor said either he or the state prison board will announce within 10 days the site for a new state penitentiary. A Starr County farm reportedly is high on the list of places.

"Certainly the Valley is being given consideration," Clements said.

The May 3 state primary will see many Democrats and independents voting Republican, he predicted.

"If I were to guess, I would say we'd have a million people voting in the Republican primary," he said, adding Ronald Reagan would attract many voters to the GOP column.

Clements has remained neutral in the Republican presidential nomination race. He said he would have an announcement, presumably an endorsement, the day after the Texas primary.

The governor said he was sure if Reagan wins the GOP nomination, he could win in November.

Meanwhile, new Census Bureau figures released in Washington reveal Hispanics in some parts of the country seem to be responding to the census in larger numbers than anticipated.

Distrust of government plus large numbers of illegal aliens in the Hispanic community had led officials to anticipate problems in counting Latinos.

But statistics show a heavy response rate from heavily Hispanic areas of California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

The heavier than anticipated response in Hispanic areas may be a reaction to intense bureau efforts to inform the public of the guarantees of confidentiality plus a nationwide effort by Latino groups to encourage cooperation.

"The federal Census Bureau doesn't seem to be too excited about this problem. I think it's serious. Surely the response should be more than 55 percent." — Gov. Bill Clements

Odessa police seek suspect in killings

ODESSA — Ector County Sheriff's Department officers this morning were looking for a 69-year-old Odessa man in connection with the shooting deaths of a father and son found Wednesday night in a field approximately five miles west of Odessa.

According to a spokesman with the sheriff's office, two men driving through the field found the first body around 8:38 p.m. Wednesday and notified sheriff's deputies. During a routine search of the field, deputies then found the second body.

The two were approximately 75 to 80 feet apart, and apparently had been shot in the head with a small caliber weapon. The sheriff's office spokesman would not comment on the number of times the two bodies had been shot.

The two have been identified as Lonnie Ward Wheeler and Larry Dwight Wheeler. Officers are not disclosing ages or addresses of the two, but they did identify Lonnie Wheeler as the father.

The sheriff's office spokesman said they had several possible motives for the killing, but were unable to prove them as yet.

An alert has been issued for the suspect with the note that he may be armed and has said he would not be taken alive.

He is described as being 6-foot tall, 170 pounds with gray hair and brown eyes. He is supposedly driving either a silver van or maroon El Camino. When last seen he was wearing grayish-green khaki pants. There is no description of his shirt.

Reagan is survivor amid GOP graveyard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan is beginning to look mighty lonely out there, but that doesn't necessarily mean he's unhappy.

Reagan, who at one point faced 10 opponents for the Republican nomination, today was up against but two challengers who could at all be considered serious.

One, Rep. John Anderson, has dropped off the campaign trail for the week and is considering dropping out of the GOP race to run as an independent. The other, George Bush, admitted Wednesday that he is "far behind" Reagan in the crucial primary next week in Pennsylvania.

And the withdrawal of Rep. Philip Crane from the race today adds another marker to the political graveyard Reagan is leaving behind as he battles his way toward the GOP nomination.

Crane, like Reagan a conservative, was the first Republican to announce his candidacy, way back on Aug. 2, 1978. Crane made his withdrawal official in a House floor speech, and said he would campaign actively for Reagan's nomination and election.

On the Democratic front, President Carter faces a much more substantial fight in Pennsylvania next Tuesday, though challenger Sen. Edward M. Kennedy remains far behind in delegates selected to the Democratic National Convention.

But Kennedy is steadfastly maintaining he will not drop out before the convention in August. "I'm in the race right up until the roll call," he told reporters Wednesday before he set out on a busy day of campaigning for Pennsylvania's 185 national convention delegates.

Some polls show Kennedy now ahead in Pennsylvania.

City is selected to value property

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

The Midland city tax office will appraise all property in the county on an interim basis until 1982, a four-to-two vote today by the Midland County Tax Appraisal Board determined.

The decision to let the city office set property values for all six taxing districts in the county was made over the pleas of County Commissioner Charlie Welch and Greenwood school representative Bud Lea to contract with the county tax office.

An earlier motion by Welch to contract with the county office failed two-to-four.

The six-member board agreed to negotiate a contract with city tax assessor-collector Virgil Jones to become chief appraiser for the district by 1982 with the hope that a single tax office would be able to appraise property and assess and collect taxes for all the districts.

Each of the districts — the city and county of Midland, Midland and Greenwood schools, and hospital and junior college districts — has one representative on the board.

Under a law passed by the last Texas Legislature, the district must provide the property appraisals for the 1982 tax rolls.

While Welch argued the county office was the only entity that could be the only tax office in town, the issue finally came down to a difference of philosophy on whether the chief appraiser should be elected or appointed.

"I don't see how the Tax Appraisal District board can have much control over their work unless the chief appraiser is appointed," City Attorney Joe Neussle noted.

Welch contended the taxpayers "ought have the privilege" of casting ballots for the person who will ultimately set the values on their property.

Moreover, the county representative noted, if another office handled the business of the appraisal district, "you'll still have two tax offices because there are other functions the county office must perform."

Board chairman Gil Thompson, who represents the Midland schools, told Welch he could consider using the county office on an interim basis on the condition the chief appraiser agree to become a district employee by 1982.

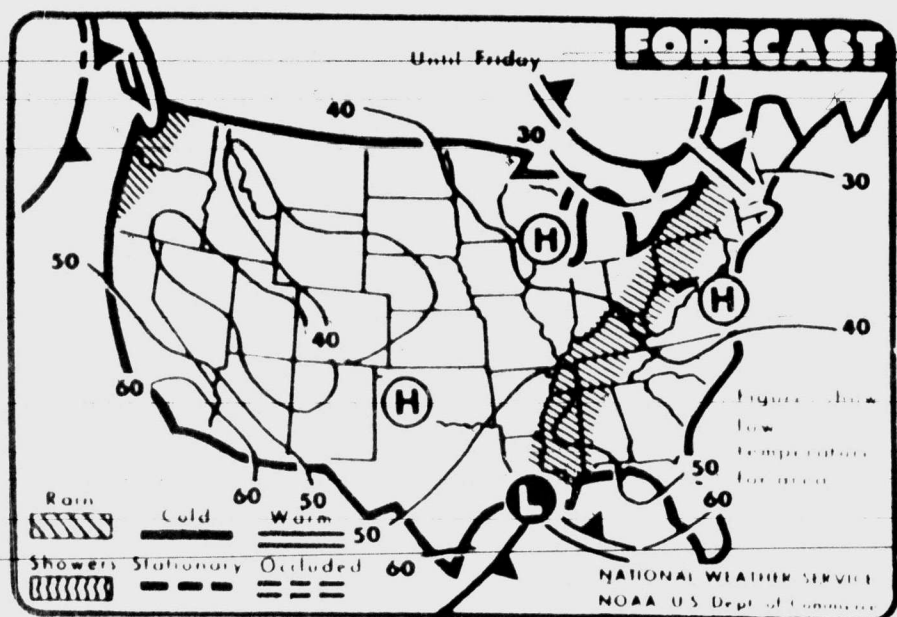

"We have to arrange for an independent chief appraiser, somebody responsible only to this board," Thompson said.

Since any of the districts can contest the values set by the chief appraiser, he added, the county tax assessor could be placed in the position of "being employed by the county

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel Prime Minister Menachem Begin says his talks with President Carter produced, in addition to agreement for marathon negotiations on self-government for 1.2 million Palestinian Arabs, "some progress" toward easing Israel's security concerns.

Does the city have any ordinances pertaining to keeping of private property in a residential neighborhood junk free?

Our frontage faces the side of a neighbor's lot which is an unusually large lot. The back half of the lot (unfenced) is filled with old junk cars, trucks, mail boxes, piles of wood, etc.

It is a real eye-sore in our neighborhood.

Is there anything we can do to convince this neighbor to clean up his lot?

It has been there quite a while and they show no signs of trying to remedy the situation, as they keep adding to the collection. Thank you. — Mrs. D.H.

ANSWER: Mike Butler with the Operations Department of the city of Midland suggests you contact the city's Inspections Department, 683-428. Give the department the address. Reo Regan is the fellow to contact.

There is a city ordinance prohibiting the accumulation of "junk" on residential property. However, if an abandoned automobile has a current state inspection sticker, it can "sit" anywhere legally.

Is there a place for turning in aluminum cans for cash in Midland, other than Coor's Building? If so, how much do they pay?

Also, at 3 to 3:15 p.m. each school day, several cars and pickups with teen-agers from Lee High School speed down Midland Drive from Andrews Highway to Thomason Drive.

They weave in and out of traffic and even use the left turn, middle lane, to pass cars in the other two lanes. They wind up eventually on Leisure Drive to drop off some kids.

Could a policeman be put on surveillance for a few days at this time of day? — W.R.E.

ANSWER: Lt. Herman Wicker of the Traffic Division of the Midland Police Department says the area you mention is "covered" by radar, but a notation has been made and the police department will "follow through."

Regarding the cans, a check was made and it was suggested you contact one of the junk dealers listed on Page 166 in the Yellow Pages of your Midland telephone directory.

If a father pays his court-ordered child support payments on time, but is constantly denied his visitation rights, what actions may he take to ensure that his rights are protected and what, if anything, will happen to his ex-wife? — Mr. H.B.

ANSWER: The State Bar of Texas says a father's payment of court-ordered child support on time is not a pre-condition to visitation rights.

If the specific terms and conditions for visitation are not complied with, the father can file a Motion for Contempt and request the court to fine or imprison the ex-wife for her failure to comply with a previous order.

At the hearing on a First Motion for Contempt, it is common for any such punishment to be suspended on the condition the person complies with the court's visitation order.

FAIRMONT, Minn. (AP) — Robbin Celander is a fine high-school athlete, which is what you might expect him to be at age 15.

But he's also something you wouldn't expect him to be at his young age — a full-time farmer.

Richard Celander lost a 13-year battle with Hodgkins disease when Robbin was 13, leaving his son responsible for the farm's hog operation.

Robbin was prepared well for the transition by his father, and two years later finds himself in charge of a very successful pig operation.

He puts in long hours and seven-day weeks sometimes, but complains very little about all the work, says his mother, Marabelle Celander.

"I've wanted to be a farmer since I was young. I was born on this farm and was always helping Dad. I can remember going out and helping Dad clip teeth and give the little pigs iron when I was a pretty little kid," Robbin said.

"He gets up before 6:30 a.m. and does the chores before going to school," said Mrs. Celander. "He's busy from morning until night. He tries to stay away from doing anything on Sunday, but things come up from time to time that keep him busy on that day, too."

Between morning and nighttime chores, Robbin sandwiches in a full load of classes as a sophomore at East Chain High School near Blue Earth, starts as a guard on his school's undefeated basketball team, plays football in the fall and runs track in the spring. He holds the school record in the 100-yard dash.

He's even busier in the spring and fall when corn and soybeans are planted and harvested on the 240-acre farm seven miles southeast of Fairmont in Martin County.

"We're trying to keep this (the farm) together as a family," said his mother. "We wouldn't have done this if Robbin hadn't wanted to farm. He's got a pretty good head on his shoulders and doesn't complain about getting up in below zero weather to do chores."

His father installed an automatic feeder system in 1973 and stopped farrowing pigs in 1976.

Hard work has paid off for Robbin. He marketed 700 pigs in 1979 and now cares for a thriving 250.

Mrs. Celander is in charge of the farm's bookkeeping and household maintenance. She says she has deliberately stayed away from the hogs in an attempt to make pork production Robbin's sole responsibility.

"I know if I were in the barn when trouble struck it would have been that much easier for Robbin and his two sisters (Kim and Cynthia) to hand the problem to me, and that would have made it that much more difficult for him in the long run."

Kim's help has made it possible for Robbin to participate in school sports. "She does my evening chores," he said.

"I really enjoy the work. I like the fall field work the best," said Kim, who is thinking of going to vocational school after she graduates from high school.

World outcry needed

Now that the U.S. Olympic Committee has decided against sending a team of American athletes to Moscow this summer, the ball truly is in the court of the United States' allies, figuratively speaking.

It wasn't an easy decision and the effects of it could be far reaching. Some have speculated that the USOC's decision may mark the end of the Olympic Games.

That would be a regrettable result. Unfortunately, international politics must take precedent over the sports arena in this instance. It must be clearly shown the Soviets that they cannot continue the invasion and subjugation of a neighboring independent nation without paying at least a token price.

In recent days reports have indicated that the Soviets are increasing the size of their military force in Afghanistan. Most recent estimates place at 100,000 to 110,000 the number of Soviet troops now involved in the fighting in that nation.

Obviously, the message has not yet been received in Moscow. What more will it take? Perhaps an outcry from the world community could accomplish what has eluded the United States to this point.

Apparently, support for a boycott of the Moscow Games is growing throughout the world. Already Albania, Honduras, China, Chile, Egypt, Haiti, Kenya, Malawi, Malaysia, Papua New Guinea, Sudan, Yugoslavia, and Zaire have announced they will not attend the Games.

That isn't to say that all those countries embrace a deep and abiding respect for President Jimmy Carter. Some just do not care much for the bloodthirsty antics of the Soviet Union; some oppose the Soviets for reasons all their own.

Whether the boycott will spread throughout the freedom-loving nations of the world remains to be seen. Some of the other nations — the major ones — apparently are strongly considering the boycott request urged upon them by President Carter.

Certainly an Olympic boycott would bear more impact if the major nations — Great Britain, France, West Germany, Australia, New Zealand and Canada — participated.

In times of trouble, it's encouraging to know that the nations of the world are willing to stand up and be counted for what is good and right.

The United States truly needs that encouragement now. We can get by without it, but it would be all the more impressive if the Soviet Union suffered through the Summer Games watching only its own athletes.

The 'Washington novel': it's the same old story

WASHINGTON — The newspaper editors were in town last week, and one of the more interesting panels dealt with the "Washington Novel." The members of the panel were William Safire, who wrote "Full Disclosure," Marilyn Sharp, who authored a mystery entitled "Sunflower," Les Whitten of "Conflict of Interest," and Barbara Howar, who wrote "Making Ends Meet."

Their conclusion was that the Washington novel is alive and well, mainly because all the ingredients for the novel are here — power, suspense and sex.

I've been trying to write a Washington novel for some time, but have not been successful, mainly because every time I think I've got a good fiction plot, someone else has already done it.

Here are some of the false starts I've had, which never got off the ground.

President Coeburn sat in the Oval Office. Stretched out on the couch was the beautiful, raven-haired, buxom Olga. She said to him bitterly, "Why do we have to keep sneaking around like this all the time? Are you ashamed to take me to the Gridiron Club?"

"Darling, you know I have to take my wife to the Gridiron Club."

"You always say that. But I know the real reason."

The President in an exasperated voice said, "What's the real reason?"

"I'm the Russian ambassador."

Congressman Blevens Bombast got into his new Toyota, which was parked in front of his modest Georgetown home. He looked forward to the drive up to Capitol Hill, as it gave him time to think about how he was going to balance the budget. Just as he was going to put his key into the ignition, Blevens noticed a large, unmarked manila envelope on the front seat. He opened it, and found 600 fresh $100 bills. He looked around fearfully, and then got out of his car and placed the envelope in the trunk.

Wiping the perspiration from his face, he got back into the car and started the most fateful journey of his life. He could go straight down Pennsylvania Avenue to FBI headquarters, or turn left for the Beltway and keep driving until he hit Las Vegas.

He thought of the trust the people in his district had in him. Then he thought of his wife and five children. There was no question about what he would do. He made the left turn and was surprised at that hour to find so few cars on the Beltway.

Secretary of State Clem Hapsted picked up the phone, and a man with a heavy foreign accent said, "This is Fotopick calling. We have the pictures you ordered."

"Oh, my God," said Hapsted. "How did you get them?"

"With a telephoto lens opening of f8 at 200th of a second."

"What will it cost me to get the negatives?"

"Jerusalem."

The man in the slouch hat and dirty raincoat pretended to be studying a portrait of Mary Washington in the National Gallery when the uniformed guard took out his .45 pistol and fired three shots at him. The man fell to the floor with a thud. People rushed from all over as the guard hurried away to a phone booth. He dialed a number and then hung up. Ten seconds later, his phone rang. All the guard said was, "The deed is done." The voice on the other end of the line said, "Good. Now for your next clue, go to the Air and Space Museum and follow the instructions hidden in John Glenn's space capsule."

"You sure I'm going to win a prize?"

"Of course. Everyone wins a prize in the Reader's Digest Sweepstakes."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Virginia survives by her misfortunes

WASHINGTON — Virginia Ison is nobody you would expect to read about in the newspaper. She is usually reported as just another statistic, one of 16 million Americans over 65 with a yearly income under $6,999.

Rampaging inflation and other economic monsters are slowly circling in on Americans like Virginia. I think it is important to look behind the statistics, to put faces on the numbers, to tell the living stories of the American economic crush.

Not long ago, thieves broke into Virginia Ison's trailer, which sits alongside highway 50 in Orlando, Fla. The thieves stole everything they could carry — from her family trinkets to cooking pots. It was the best thing that could have happened to Virginia.

She had moved with her husband to Florida from Worcester, Mass., because of his heart condition. They dreamed of a golden life in the Florida sun. That was 24 years ago. He died in 1975, leaving her the trailer they'd scrimped to buy for their last years.

Now that trailer is all she has, and ironically, the burglary may have saved it. Property taxes had crept up until she could barely afford her simple home. The government slapped a tax lien on the trailer. The lien "took away all my feelings of independence," she said, almost choking on the emotion.

But one day while she was out, burglars struck. Luckily, Virginia had been able to keep up her insurance payments. The company paid her $600 for what the thieves stole. She used the money to pay the taxes and fines.

This left her with nothing but small change and a shortage of cooking pots. But at least the trailer is now unencumbered. Until next time.

There probably will be a "next time." Virginia's income is a pitiful $4,179.12 a year, her total payment under Social Security disability laws. She started drawing disability payments seven years ago because she has arthritis of the spine. Like the burglary, ironically, the painful arthritis has been her good fortune.

Virginia's tin roof leaks. In rainy Florida, that can be a major problem. She is poor enough to qualify for home-repair help from the county. She was told last August the county would fix her roof. That was eight months ago. The leaks are still unrepaired.

Rain water drips into the gas heater in her living room, the same heater which heats her bedroom. She doesn't dare use the heater when it's raining. She also doesn't use it much when the weather is dry. Because of the terrible cost of fuel, she kept her house as cold as she could stand it all winter.

Cold weather bites arthritis victims with a meaner pain than the rest of us feel. Even in Florida, winter can be bitter. On cold nights, Virginia slept with a hat on to keep her arthritic body as warm as possible.

The mercilessly high cost of fuel in America is cloaked in an illusion of

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Thursday, April 17, the 108th day of 1980. There are 258 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On April 17, 1521, Martin Luther was excommunicated from the Catholic Church by the Diet in Worms, Germany, for refusing to admit to a charge of heresy.

On this date: In 1861, Virginia seceded from the union.

In 1945, the United States announced that Japan had lost more than 200 planes in a single day of kamikaze suicide attacks in the battle of Okinawa.

In 1969, Sirhan Sirhan was convicted of first-degree murder in the Los Angeles slaying of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Ten years ago, after four tense days, the Apollo 13 astronauts arrived safely back on Earth, following an explosion on board the spacecraft that aborted their planned landing on the moon.

Five years ago, the five-year old

Cambodia War ended when the Phnom Penh government surrendered the capital to Cambodian communists.

Last year, blacks and whites in Rhodesia went to the polls together for the first time, to elect a black majority government.

Today's birthday: Newsman Harry Reasoner is 57.

Thought for today: There is no more lovely, friendly and charming relationship, communion or company than a good marriage. — Martin Luther (1483-1546)

A CHANGING WORLD:

The make-believe world of U.S.-ROC relations

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

TAIPEI — Veteran U.S. foreign service officer Charles Cross is the newest American "ambassador" to the Republic of China on Taiwan — but, wait a minute.

You cannot call Cross "Mr. Ambassador" because President Carter on Dec. 16, 1978, broke diplomatic relations with the ROC. The title Cross masquerades under is director of the American Institute in Taiwan. And, the Chinese agency he deals with is not the Foreign Ministry but something claimed to be unofficial and called the Coordination Council for North American Affairs.

Despite all this, Cross said in an interview, "This is no charade in any way. It is a unique, practical and unofficial way of handling relations between our two countries."

Perhaps so, but it is also a little bit weird. While Cross' agency does not operate out of the closed U.S. Embassy, it does work in the former very official headquarters of the American military aid agency here.

Also, while Cross and his aides are not, in their words, employees of the U.S. government, they take orders from the government and all were in the U.S. foreign service before this new way of doing business was devised. Cross was last consul-general in Hong Kong. He "retired" from his job, then signed a contract for his current post. The six "villain" experts now here to handle U.S. military equipment sales to the ROC merely shed their Army, Navy and Air Force uniforms in early retirement and proceeded to, in effect, "double-dip" as AIT officers in the military advisory jobs here.

Even meeting Chinese counterparts here is the charade that Cross says it isn't. Formal meetings in government offices are impossible under terms devised to placate Chinese Communists in Peking who now have Washington's formal recognition. To get around this Red prohibition on formality, what amounts to official government-to-government business is transacted here at meetings in public restaurants, hotels, even automobiles.

Cross and his helpers, 50 in all vs. a staff of 75 when full diplomatic ties existed, process visas (via the Hong Kong consulate) just as the embassy did. They handle student exchanges just as the embassy did.

When reminded that even though business seems to go on as usual, the Chinese government here deeply feels the insult of the break in relations in favor of communism, the response is along the lines of "what's the difference."

J.B. Lee, Cross' senior economic expert, even seemed amused that diplomatic formality could be so important by responding to a persistent questioner that, "Good God, this place is booming!" — and that formality dear to Chinese hearts was of little consequence.

Cross defends the present arrangement with all the skill that 30 years as a foreign service officer has brought him. "There is an explicit U.S. interest in the security of Taiwan," he said, "and we will provide for it. We have a list totaling $280 million for 1980."

He noted that Chinese requests for F-4, F-16 and F-18 aircraft have been turned down but some missiles and other equipment have been approved. "These sales," he said, "are important symbols of our concern for the defense of Taiwan."

Whatever nature of a farce this AIT-CCNAA arrangement may be and in consideration of Cross' sharp response that this is no charade in any way, it seems to be working from a practical standpoint.

As Cross says, "The Japanese were the pioneers of this kind of unofficial arrangement, but ours is a step better because agreements in force before we came here are continued. It's a tough job and we're still feeling our way but it is gratifying to see how impeccably correct the Chinese are in making the arrangement work."

During the 30 years of U.S. military and diplomatic representation here, there was a U.S. English-language armed forces radio station operating. There still is, in effect. The station merely has changed its call letters to ICR (International Community Radio on Taiwan) and has changed its financing from the U.S. military to American and Chinese business interests. It even employs some of the same announcers, former military people now civilians.

Such is the make-believe world of U.S.-ROC "no charade" relations — embarrassing to the Chinese but practical and within limits that do not offend President Carter's newly found Red friends in Peking.

Building boom a bust in Peoria, Illinois

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The home-building business is about played out in Peoria.

Tight money and soaring interest rates have sent the ailing industry skidding into its deepest recession in memory, say homebuilders who are scrambling for odd jobs, remodeling projects and an occasional new house.

"I figure that I have another two months and I'm going to have to close the door," said Wesley Wenger, who has built houses for 28 years in the Peoria area.

"Right now, we're taking jobs that normally we wouldn't even consider taking, fitting a storm door or some little thing just to give a guy a couple of days work."

A year ago, Wenger was at work on 15 new houses; today he is at work on none. And there is nothing planned for the immediate future.

Normally, he employs about 50 carpenters and other craftsmen, but right now it's just himself, two women in the office and two men in the shop.

"I tell you it's grim," said Paul Geiseman, a large supplier of fireplaces and lighting fixtures. His business is off 80 percent.

"I've never seen it so scary and I've been associated with the housing market for 30 years," he said.

The Carter administration's effort to fight inflation by curbing the money supply has forced up interest rates to 17 percent. Nationally, new homes construction is off 42 percent — to recessionary levels.

People are not buying or building, and nowhere is that more evident than in Peoria — the classic middle American city where the dream of building a new house has become a dream deferred.

For builders, it's a nightmare: —During the first three months of 1980, only 10 building permits were issued in Peoria, compared with 202 in that quarter a year ago.

—Last year, 845 new housing units were built here. At the present rate, only a fraction of that number — perhaps 20-30 percent — will be constructed in 1980.

What this means is unemployed workers now, bankrupt builders later and, in the long run, a housing shortage, according to Paul Kroeger, vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, the area's largest mortgage lender.

"The problem is that it's all over the country," he added. "It's not isolated to certain geographic regions, so craftsmen can't go to other areas where it is booming as they could in the past."

John Gay is 36. And, as long as he can remember, he has viewed the world in terms of business, of risk and capital and enterprise.

As a boy, Gay had two newspaper routes, which he subcontracted out to his younger sister Sharon. She delivered the papers. He collected from the customers, paid his sister and took a brokers fee, which he routinely exchanged at the bank for uncirculated coins.

After a year or so, he could sell a $5 roll of dimes that had appreciated to $6.35. Five years ago, Gay started a construction company, which has grown and prospered. But now, he is in trouble.

"If something is not done soon, the industry will collapse," he said.

Gay's new-home business is virtually nonexistent. His company normally would employ between 80 and 135 persons at this time of year. Now they are somewhere else, many collecting unemployment.

Long-predicted U.S. recession finally at hand, indicators say

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of fits and starts, the nation's economy apparently is finally moving into a long-predicted recession — its seventh since World War II. A range of economic indicators, from housing to jobs, say the downturn has begun.

"While there was a brief period of doubt earlier this year about which direction the economy was going, the preponderance of evidence in the last several weeks all seems to point toward the fact that a recession is now setting in," said William Cox, deputy chief economist at the Commerce Department.

Most analysts, including those for the Carter administration, predict the downturn will be mild. But they admit that before it's over, as many as 1 million or 2 million persons could lose their jobs.

A recession traditionally has been defined as two consecutive quarters of declining national output. Government statistics due for release Friday are expected to show that the economy continued to grow in the first quarter, leaving the "official" start of the downturn for the second-quarter — April through June.

But Nancy Teeters, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, told a gathering of bankers Wednesday that she thinks the recession has already started, probably in March or early April.

"I personally think the peak of the last cycle is behind us," she said, referring to the recession of economic growth since the last recession in 1974-75.

There are many reasons for the current recession, which is expected to last six to nine months. They range from the rapid increase in world oil prices — which is diverting money from non-fuel uses — to high interest rates engineered by the Federal Reserve in an effort to get a tighter rein on money and credit.

The auto and housing industries began slumping last year. Drop-offs in those industries have increased, and signs now point to problems in other sectors.

While unemployment will be the cost of this slowdown, the benefit could be some relief from inflation, which has been soaring at an 18 percent annual rate in recent months.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told a Senate Finance subcommittee Wednesday that he expects the rate of increase in consumer prices to drop to an annual rate of 10 percent or less by early next year.

Among the signs that recession is finally at hand:

HOUSING: The Commerce Department reported Wednesday that construction of new homes fell 22 percent from February to March — to an annual rate of 1,041,000 units. That was 42 percent below the annual rate of 1,800,000 housing starts reported in March 1979 and the lowest construction level since the 1974-75 recession.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY: The nation's factories operated at only 83 percent of capacity last month, the Federal Reserve reported Wednesday. That is down nearly a full percentage point from February and is the lowest level since March 1978. Earlier this week, the Fed said production at the nation's factories fell a sharp 0.8 percent in March following a 0.2 percent drop in February. "Reductions in output (were) widespread," the report said.

RETAIL SALES: Sales at retail stores — a key measure of consumer spending — slumped for the second consecutive month in March; the Commerce Department reported late last week. March sales of $77.2 billion were 1.3 percent below February sales, which, in turn, had been down 1.6 percent from January sales.

AUTOS: Industry figures released Tuesday showed domestic car sales got off to the worst start for an April since the recession year of 1975 and were down 25 percent from a year ago. Ford Motor Co.

announced Tuesday that it was closing three plants and reducing work at four other locations, eliminating about 15,000 jobs. More than 200,000 auto workers already are on layoff because of poor sales. Then on Wednesday, General Motors announced 12,000 layoffs.

Poerner failing Texans: Temple

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Buddy Temple, campaigning for a 6-year term on the Texas Railroad Commission, today charged that RRC Chairman John Poerner has failed to lobby for the benefit of the oil-and-gas industry and for the people of Texas and lacks the "necessary leadership" and aggression to fight for Texans and the state's causes.

Temple, a 38-year-old East Texas investor and state representative, said in a stop at Midland Regional Airport that he holds the qualities that Poerner lacks.

"I intend to hold the office of Railroad Commissioner in the same way I seek it: aggressively," he said.

"The penalty that the windfall profits tax places on this Permian Basin area is enormous, and where was John Poerner when the fight was on?" Temple asked in a press conference.

The oil-and-gas money that is being funneled to Washington as tax revenue needs to be "spent on exploring for oil and gas," he said.

"I want to be on the Railroad Commission," Temple said, "because I think it's high time someone gave the Federal government one strong message about the oil industry in Texas: 'Get out of our way.'"

Temple claimed that Poerner says "it is not his job to lobby. He will not go to Washington for the best interests of Texas."

But, Temple charged, Poerner did not hesitate to lobby in Washington for a $20-billion Japanese bullet train for inter-city travel in Texas.

"He obviously believes that he should at least go to Washington, but unfortunately it is on behalf of the Japanese railroad industry and not Texas."

He also said that "my decisions (as Railroad commissioner) will be based on merit and on what is right for the people of the state" of Texas.

He pledged to enforce Railroad Commission rules and regulations requiring oil companies not to pollute if, indeed, their open slush pits and brine injection are leading to contamination of underground water supplies.

"If that is the case, obviously something has to be done," Temple said. "But we cannot impose so many restrictions and rules that industry cannot do its job; we badly need oil and gas."

"If something is being done to pollute our underground fresh water supply, obviously that can't be tolerated."

The Democratic Party candidate also lashed out at Poerner for not lobbying against the increased costs Texas is paying for out-of-state coal shipped by railroad into the state.

"Not one time has he (Poerner) gone to Washington to protest those increases," he said.

But Temple said he was in agreement with the commissioner on one thing:

"I agree with Poerner that he can do nothing about the increases. There's nothing he can do about the increases, because there's nothing he can do about anything else."

Ma Bell ruined their careers, lawyer claims

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — T.O. Gravitt and James Ashley would have become presidents of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. had they kept their mouths shut about subsidiary Southwestern Bell, a lawyer claims.

Pat Maloney told the Texas Supreme Court on Wednesday Bell ruined the careers of two "brave individuals who had given their whole lives" to the company because they criticized corporate practices such as wiretapping, rate fixing and political slush funds.

Maloney said Bell investigators questioned so many employees about "terrible, terrible, flimsy rumors" of Gravitt and Ashley's sexual promiscuity and theft that "truth no longer mattered — they were already destroyed."

Bell lawyer Hubert Green of San Antonio responded that the company had a legitimate business interest in conducting the investigation.

"Are we to say that there is no business interest in the sexual promiscuity of superiors with female employees?" asked Green.

Ashley, Bell's former commercial manager in San Antonio, and Oleta Gravitt Dixon, Gravitt's widow, each won a $1.5 million judgment against Bell in a San Antonio trial court. Gravitt, Bell's vice president for Texas, committed suicide Oct. 17, 1974.

The jury found in 1977 Bell had slandered Gravitt and Ashley during the company's internal investigation and drove Gravitt to his death.

The San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals reversed the verdict, saying there was no evidence to support it.

The appeals court held that anything derogatory that Bell investigators said about Gravitt and Ashley was "conditionally privileged" and could not result in damages for slander.

"Gravitt was over 70,000 employees," said Maloney. "Can you ask all of them if he is a thief? No, you lose the privilege."

Maloney, also of San Antonio, said 11 Bell investigators interviewed 250 company employees in the "most intensive and exhaustive" investigation ever conducted by Bell, yet the two executives "were totally exonerated."

He said Bell claimed the interviews were "discreet."

"That's garbage," he said. Green said Bell agreed "there are limits" to such investigations, but "management had a right and a duty to make inquiries to consider the truth of the matter."

He said records show Bell only interviewed 30-40 employees, and the decision to suspend Ashley was made after an investigation of reports that Ashley had been involved in a "sex-and-booze" party at a motel.

Asked if a "legitimate business interest can only be lost through a showing of malice," Green replied, "That's correct."

"There is no evidence," he said, "that corporate officers set up in St. Louis and plotted to do these men in."

Midland College to host Tae Kwon Do tourney

It's kick, grunt and yell time at Midland College as the Department of Community Services hosts the annual Tae Kwon Do tournament.

The second annual tournament will be held April 26 in the MC gymnasium. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Demonstrations in the martial arts and yoga begin at 7 p.m. with Tae Kwon Do finals beginning at 8 p.m.

Midland College has offered short courses in this form of Korean Karate for more than four years with Lee Yoo Sun acting as course instructor. Lee holds a 7th degree black belt and is ranked number two in the international standings. He will act as Master of Saturday's event.

As a representative of the South Korean government, Lee established Korean Karate schools in Hong Kong, Malaysia, Singapore, Holland, Germany, France, Sweden and Italy. Since that time he has opened numerous schools in the U.S., four of those in Texas.

Students from Lee's studios in Texas, Colorado and Louisiana, which are located within the Tae Kwon Do Federation area, will participate in Saturday's tournament.

Three divisions will be featured this year: black belt free sparring, red belt free sparring and pattern sparring consisting of yellow, red and black strip holder participants.

More information on the tournament may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Iran-Iraq fighting heavy in third day

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Heavy fighting with mortars, rockets and machine guns broke out again in Beirut today, carrying savage clashes between rival Lebanese Moslem Shiite supporters of Iraq and Iran into a third straight day.

Police said 20 persons have been killed and more than 40 wounded in the proxy war that Iraq and Iran, striving for dominance in the Persian gulf, are fighting out in Beirut and southern Lebanon rather than on their common border.

A police spokesman said five of the dead were recovered from embattled areas in southern Beirut during a short-lived cease-fire that was arranged by Syrian peacekeeping troops and Palestinian guerrillas.

No casualty figure was available for the new hostilities in the Palestinian-controlled suburban neighborhood of Bourj el Barajneh and the mid-city Barbir district, the spokesman said.

The total death toll was earlier placed at 15 for the previous two days of fighting in which the Iraqi and Iranian embassies, about 200 yards apart, were rocketed.

Syrian troops, who police Lebanon's three-year-old civil war armistice, ringed both embassies today to guard against renewed attacks.

Units from the military police of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization patrolled the tense low-income residential quarter of Chiyah on Beirut's southern edge in an attempt to salvage the crumbling cease-fire.

They blared appeals for restraint through loudspeaker vans as rival militiamen sniped from rooftop positions and rocketed each other's sandbagged positions in Chiyah and Bourj el Barajneh.

Schools and shops in both neighborhoods remained closed for a third day because of the fighting that pitted the pro-Iranian Amal militia against the Iraqi-backed Arab Liberation Front, a member of the PLO.

Ambassador, bodyguard shot enroute to work

ROME (AP) — Anti-Turkish Armenians shot and wounded Turkey's ambassador to the Vatican, Vecdi Tuerel, as he was driving to his office from home today. Tuerel's bodyguard was also hit and his condition was serious.

Hospital officials said Tuerel was hit in the right arm and chest by four men firing revolvers. Tuerel's bodyguard was hit in the face.

An anonymous caller told a news agency the attack was carried out by the Avengers of the Armenian Genocide.

Tuerel, appointed to the Vatican in 1978, accompanied Pope John Paul II during the pontiff's visit to Turkey last November.

A group called the Armenian Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia has claimed responsibility for three bombings against airline offices in Rome in the last four months.

In the last bombing, March 10, against Turkish Airlines and the Turkish Tourism Bureau in central Rome, two passersby were killed and 13 other persons, including three policemen, wounded.

Armenian terrorists have claimed responsibility for the assassination of seven Turkish diplomats and their relatives in European cities since 1974.

The attacks were in retaliation for the mass extermination of Armenians in Turkey from the 1890s until 1920.

Britain bans Russian vodka

LONDON (AP) — Britain, in a show of displeasure over massive Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, has banned Russian vodka from official gatherings. Since July 1974 the government Hospitality Fund has spent 1,986 pounds ($4,368) on vodka, 620 pounds ($1,364) of that for the Soviet product, a spokesman told the House of Commons.

Number of boat people increasing

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The number of boat people from Vietnam arriving in other Southeast Asian countries increased from 2,910 in February to 4,762 in March, the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees announced.

A spokesman said 1,057 more fled overland from Laos and Vietnam to Thailand in March.

A total of 24,045 Indochinese refugees were resettled in countries outside Southeast Asia last month, he reported.

Three more hostages to be freed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Guerrillas holding U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio and 19 others for nearly two months said they will free three more hostages Saturday, but negotiations for the release of the rest are at an apparent standstill.

The Movement 19 guerrillas, in statements reported by Bogota newspapers and magazines this week, volunteered to release three hostages from the Dominican Republic Embassy on April 19, the 10th anniversary of presidential voting they claim was rigged.

The guerrillas did not say which hostages will be freed, but the El Siglo newspaper named as likely candidates Haitian Ambassador Luis Leonardo Pierre, reportedly troubled by an ailing stomach, and Papa Nuncio Monsignor Angelo Acerbi. The paper said the guerrillas might release Acerbi to back repeated statements of admiration for the Roman Catholic Church.

The M-19 guerrillas stormed the embassy Feb. 27 during a Dominican Republic national day reception, taking 57 hostages. They have since released 36, and the Uruguayan ambassador escaped. In addition to the U.S., Haitian and Vatican ambassadors, the hostages include two Colombians and diplomats from Venezuela, Brazil, Switzerland, Guatemala, the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Egypt, Israel, Bolivia, Paraguay, Peru, and Costa Rica.

Both the government and guerrillas appeared tense as April 19 approached, and neither announced a resumption of negotiations which broke off Monday. The 17th round of talks, scheduled Tuesday, was postponed when M-19 rejected a government proposal.

The key M-19 demand is for the release of seven guerrillas held in government jails.

Guerrilla leaders, believed to include most of the seven whose freedom is demanded, rejected a proposal which reportedly called for acceleration and international supervision of their trials on charges of rebellion and a range of criminal offenses. The government has consistently said it is constitutionally unable to order their release without trial.

A woman who telephoned The Associated Press and identified herself as an M-19 guerrilla, vowed the group would not "surrender."

"Our position is unyielding," El Siglo quoted another of the guerrillas as saying. "In no way will we travel without our colleagues of the top command."

In London, Amnesty International issued a report citing "widespread arbitrary arrests and systematic torture of political prisoners" in Colombia. One diplomat here said the report appeared to support M-19 charges that "there are human rights problems here."

The Colombian military released its own report, saying that 189 officers and men had been killed over the past two years by the half dozen guerrilla organizations opposing the elected government.

Liberian counter-coup defeated

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP) — A group of Liberian soldiers attempted to overthrow the new regime of Master Sgt. Samuel K. Doe but most were rounded up, diplomatic sources reported from Monrovia, capital of the West African nation.

Doe, 28, proclaimed himself Liberian chief of state last Saturday following the pre-dawn assassination of President William Tolbert.

Officials of the new regime on Wednesday told Western diplomats in Monrovia that 36 soldiers were arrested for trying to kill the newly appointed commander of Camp Jackson, a Liberian army base.

The diplomats, contacted from the neighboring nation of Sierra Leone, were told the mutineers would be "brought to trial and punished."

Diplomatic sources said most of the Liberian security forces appeared loyal to Doe and the new regime seemed firmly in control of the whole country.

A six-member military tribunal opened preliminary hearings Wednesday in the case of two senior Tolbert aides charged with treason, corruption and violation of human rights.

The two men, former Justice Minister Joseph Chesson and Reginald Townsend, chairman of Tolbert's long dominant True Whig party, denied all the charges, the sources said. The hearings were closed to the public but members of the Liberian press were admitted.

Several other ministers and high officials of the Tolbert regime and a number of his relatives are expected to face trial later on similar charges.

Tolbert himself was shot in the head when Doe led 20 enlisted men in an attack on the presidential palace. The former president and 30 others killed in the coup were buried without ceremony in a common grave Tuesday while a hostile crowd hurled stones at Tolbert's body.

The sources said Liberia's airports were expected to reopen today for the first time since the coup, but that commercial flights might not resume until Friday.

Government departments, shops, banks, schools and public transport were operating normally, the sources said, although a dusk to dawn curfew remained in force. Liberia's oil refinery has reopened, ending a gasoline shortage that curtailed traffic after the coup.

The government announced a ban on exports of more than $1,000 dollars by individuals and more than $20,000 dollars by companies. Diplomats said they were the first such restrictions in Liberia's 133 years as an independent republic. Liberia, founded by freed American slaves early in 1847, uses the U.S. dollar as its national currency.

Government leaflets distributed in Monrovia since the coup accused Tolbert of amassing a personal fortune of nearly $3 billion and said he planned to spend $7 million in public funds for his scheduled two-day attendance at independence celebrations which begin today in Salisbury, Rhodesia.

The leaflets gave alleged details of other large sums accumulated through corruption by members of the old regime, including $91 million said to have been found in the possession of former House Speaker Richard Henries, one of those to be tried.

Return of refugees halted by Viet force killings

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The return of Cambodian refugees to their homeland has been halted because Vietnamese forces have killed some of those who returned, Thai military officials said today.

The Thai Supreme Command did not say how many Cambodians had been repatriated, but it reported last month that nearly 1,500 refugees voluntarily left the U.N. Kho-I-Dang camp 12 miles inside Thailand to enter "safe parts" of Cambodia.

A spokesman said 159,000 Cambodian refugees are in camps inside Thailand, and 809,000 others are camped along the border.

Mugabe pledges to stay out of industry, religion

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Marxist Prime Minister Robert Mugabe pledged to keep his hands off private industry and religion as Rhodesia prepared to become independent Zimbabwe at midnight tonight.

"Our realistic approach is that we leave things as they are," Mugabe told a TV interviewer Wednesday. "We have recognized that this country is a capitalistic country and you cannot nationalize the structure and hope to achieve the goals of socialism."

Mugabe, raised as a Roman Catholic, said he believed Catholicism and Marxism could co-exist. Mugabe was co-leader of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance which fought for seven years to establish black majority rule in this southern African nation. Civil war ended early this year under a cease-fire and constitution Britain helped negotiate.

Despite a declared policy of non-alignment, Mugabe appears cool toward the Soviet bloc. Aides say Mugabe is disillusioned with Soviet-backed regimes in Angola, Mozambique and Ethiopia, and four communist nations that did not back him in the civil war — Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary and Poland, were not invited to independence celebrations.

Mugabe, 56, was designated prime minister in February after his Zimbabwe African National Union won a majority in parliamentary elections. Since then he has taken a conciliatory stance toward the whites who form the core of the nation's skilled work force.

Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, will preside over Independence ceremonies, which are to be held in a football stadium and highlighted by the lowering of Britain's flag on its last African colony.

In place of the Union Jack, Zimbabwe will fly a five-color banner: green representing the earth, yellow for mineral riches, red for the 20,000 people who died in the civil war, black for the nation's 7 million blacks and white for the 250,000 whites.

Prince Charles interrupted a hectic day of meetings with Rhodesian leaders Wednesday to pay a surprise visit to the home of poor black family in Salisbury's sprawling Glen Norah African township, frightening a mother and her eight children who thought it was a police raid.

"I didn't know he was the prince," said Stella Makwara, whose husband was at work.

"There were so many uniforms with him."

An aide said the 31-year-old prince "just pointed to a typical house and said he wanted to pop in. He often does things like that."

Most of the 96 nations invited sent high-power delegations to mark the independence of a nation that has held a world spotlight since white Prime Minister Ian Smith declared unilateral independence from Britain in 1965 to avoid majority rule.

In Space

Buck Rogers (Gl Gerard, left) masquerades as a deadly assassin to learn how Kettogg (guest star Frank Gorshin) plans to obliterate New Chicago in part one of "The Plot to Kill a City," on NBC's "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century." Thursday, April 17.

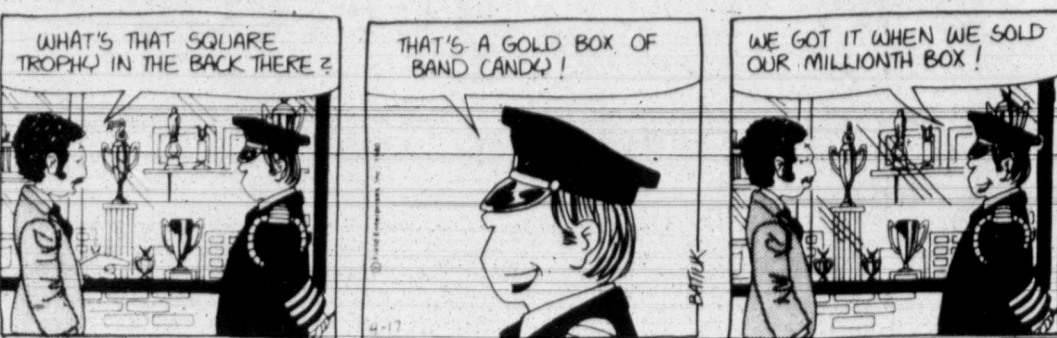

Imagine taking a space flight in the year 1987 and returning to Earth after a deep space probe — and discovering 500 years have passed. That's the strange fate of Buck Rogers, 20th century astronaut, who, through a freak accident, is frozen in suspended animation while exploring space.

Your horoscope

By JEANÉ DIXON

Friday, April 18, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Actress Hayley Mills, who shares your birthday, comes from a very talented family. Like you, they are people who dare! You are sometimes impulsive, but almost never irrational. Making proper use of your energies is essential to achieving new success in year ahead. Greater tact and diplomacy aid forward motion. You recognize possibility to advance in situations where others see only difficulties. Steady romantic interest gives you safe haven when in need of sympathy and encouragement. In love, make sure you give as much as you get!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This will be a busier-than-usual Friday. Get head start if you can. You may be asked to assume greater duties, responsibilities. Have confidence in own ability. You can handle it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Money matters are accentuated. Get expert advice before taking any bold action. Productivity is better than in recent past. Be precise in giving instructions to co-workers or subordinates. Mistakes can be avoided.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Record thoughts on paper before presenting them to one in authority. Double check facts and figures before making your move. Chance for advancement appears on horizon. Bide your time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Change appointment to accommodate another. Follow own brand of practical wisdom. You profit from investigating property for business. Spiritual growth is accentuated. You have new interest in religion, philosophy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Personal affairs should be put in better order. Financial situation shows improvement. Your ambitions take new turn. Today is good time to think about what steps should be followed to obtain goals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Big changes are at hand. You may receive hint of what is to come from someone younger. Count your strengths instead of dwelling on your weaknesses.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Exercise caution when in transit today. In speaking with co-workers, business associates, do not reveal too much about personal life. Keep your secrets to yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good day for buying clothes. Limit spending to bargain items. Question asked by member of opposite sex may vex you. Your answer should be very impersonal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Exercise great care if working around machinery or electrical apparatus. Personal affairs continue to dominate your thoughts. Don't let preoccupation with private matters interfere with job performance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are tempted to fly off the handle when someone appears to be deliberately fomenting trouble at work. Do not get involved. Go about your own business and avoid taking sides.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Younger person may be trying to get up the courage to ask your help, advice. Make offer of assistance. You could learn while teaching. Suggest alternatives if pet project is rejected.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do not risk gains by arguing over minor details. Your day will come. Check all arrangements before approving transfer of funds from jointly held account.

The bidding: South West North East 1NT Pass 3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

If someone asks you the right way to play a certain card combination, be wary of giving an answer. A line of play that would be correct to take all the tricks in the suit could be wrong if you need fewer tricks from the suit, or if you have to keep a certain opponent off lead. This hand provides a vivid illustration.

South's opening bid of one no trump is in keeping with the modern theory that a weak doubleton in one suit should not be a deterrent to making a bid that describes your strength and shape accurately. North's raise to game was eminently correct—there was no point to mentioning the diamonds, since North was not interested in slam and there was no reason to suppose that an 11-trick contract in diamonds would be superior to nine tricks at no trump.

West led the top of his interior spade sequence. East inserted the queen and declarer won the ace. Unless the club suit could be developed for extra tricks, the contract would almost certainly fail, so declarer finessed the jack of clubs at trick two. East won and reverted to spades, and the defenders had five tricks in the bank before declarer had gotten started.

Note that declarer was correct in not holding up spades for two rounds. The defenders could shift to diamonds, and that could be equally embarrassing. Where declarer erred was in not attempting to keep the danger hand off lead.

Declarer's method of tackling clubs would have been correct if he needed five tricks from the suit. Since he needed only four, he should have strived for safety. He could afford to lose a club trick to West, for then the jack of spades would be safe from attack.

At trick two declarer should have crossed to the king of clubs, then led the jack, intending to pass it if East played low. This would ensure four club tricks as long as the suit split 3-2 and West had one of the honors. As the cards lie, declarer's technique would have earned him a bonus—by smothering West's ten the whole suit would have rolled home in an overtrick.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Inability to digest milk sugar common ailment among children

Dear Dr. Solomon: I took my 9-year-old son to our pediatrician because he was complaining of stomach pains. I was surprised to learn that the pain was due to my son's inability to digest milk. I have two questions: What is the significance of this finding in terms of my son's health? And how do you account for the fact that he was able to drink milk without developing any symptoms until only a few months ago? — Mrs. J.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: An inability to digest milk sugar, or lactose, is not uncommon. In fact, persons with this genetic trait comprise the majority of the nonwhite population of North America.

Children who possess this trait gradually lose the ability to digest lactose as a normal developmental process. At about the time they reach school age, the consumption of milk or milk-based products may cause pain or diarrhea in a youngster who only a few months earlier was able to drink milk with no ill effects. However, these children do not have a disease and are not abnormal.

A recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association reported on a study of 80 children, 4 to 15 years of age, who had presented with complaints of recurrent abdominal pain. Thirty-two, including 12 of the 16 black children and four of five Hispanic children, were found to be unable to digest and absorb lactose.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our state legislature recently changed the law governing the wearing of safety helmets by motorcyclists. Whereas the wearing of such helmets used to be mandatory, it has now been made voluntary. I have tried to convince my son that he should continue wearing a helmet when he uses his motorcycle, but he tells me it is not necessary and that it is an annoyance because it interferes with his hearing. Is there any validity to what he says? — Mrs. C.N.

Dear Mrs. N.: Your son may suffer more than an annoyance if he continues to ride his motorcycle without wearing a helmet. The American Medical Association (AMA) points out that deaths from motorcycle crashes have risen sharply since a number of states repealed laws that mandated the use of helmets.

The AMA recommends that all motorcyclists wear helmets, and says that claims that helmets obscure vision or impair hearing are not valid. It notes that the peripheral vision afforded by full-facial coverage helmets is well above the standard required for a person to obtain an automobile license; as for hearing, the loud noise of the motorcycle blocks out most other sounds.

If your son believes that wearing a helmet is an annoyance, let him consider this: About 80 percent of motorcycle crash injuries involve the head, and the possibility of death from these accidents is two-thirds greater for motorcyclists who do not wear helmets than for those who do.

Odessa firm wins contract

ODESSA — The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has awarded a contract to Jones Bros. Rental Equipment Co., Inc., of Odessa for the rehabilitation and installation of additional safety features on a section of Interstate Highway 20 in Midland County.

The project begins at the Ector County Line and extends easterly to a point 0.4 mile east of the S.H. 349 overpass, a distance of 14.7 miles. Cost of the project is $3,923,000 and 220 working days will be allowed to complete the work.

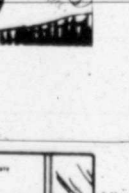

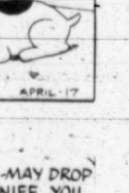

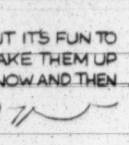

A fabric underseal and asphaltic concrete pavement will be placed on the main lanes to extend the life of the existing pavement structure which has begun to deteriorate.

Modifications, extensions and replacements of certain sections of guard fence and guard rail are included in the work to bring them up to current design standards. Also, drainage culvert inlets in the median areas are to be modified to fit flush with the adjacent terrain.

A relatively new design concept of installing pipe grates to protect traffic from the obstruction presented by concrete headwalls will be evident on this project. The basic design of the pipe grates consists of constructing 3-inch steel pipe on a 5:1 slope beginning at the top of the headwall and extending horizontally for distances up to 18 feet. The pipe spacing will vary from 20 to 30 inches.

Modification of the drainage culvert inlets and grating the concrete headwalls should substantially prevent runoff-the-road type accidents.

John Aldridge, resident engineer in Midland, will be in charge of the work which will retain the investment in the existing pavement structure and enhance traffic safety. District Engineer A. Henry Pearson of Odessa will provide overall supervision.

Cattlemen thought DES ban would be rescinded

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Feedlot manager Dave Duff readily concedes he ignored a DES ban and kept using the cancer-causing hormone to help fatten his cattle. But he says he figured the federal government would rescind the ban — as it did once before.

"Everybody complied with the ban in '73," the Scott City cattleman said Wednesday. "Then they took the ban off and now they've put it back on. Everybody figured it was all kind of a hoax."

Other cattlemen voiced similar feelings this week after the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department said at least 344,000 cattle from 115 feedlots in 16 states had been treated with DES since all use of the synthetic hormone was banned Nov. 1.

Kansas topped the list with 43 violators. Duff's Beef Belt Feedlot removed DES implants from 400 cattle this month and he plans to withhold them from market for the required 41 days to allow the animals to eliminate DES residue from their bodies.

DES has been shown to cause cancer and birth defects in animals and has been linked to cancer and other disorders in humans.

The FDA has said some meat from DES-treated steers may be reaching consumers. But officials say there is "no appreciable health risk" from eating the beef and "the hazard ... is not from a few exposures, but from continuing exposures over a number of years."

The Kansas Livestock Association says "DES residue has never been found in the muscle tissue of cattle that were implanted with DES."

Violation of the ban carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Clifford Shane, regional FDA administrator in Kansas City, said Wednesday any prosecution "would depend on the circumstances, and at this time, we've made no recommendations for prosecution."

Midland man held for shotgun theft

Police have arrested a 29-year-old Midland man in connection with the theft of a shotgun from an automobile parked in a Midland restaurant parking lot early this morning.

At approximately 2 a.m., according to reports, Officer John Irby stopped a vehicle at Florida Avenue and Pratt Street for driving erratically. When he approached the vehicle, the officer noticed a shotgun inside the automobile.

Irby checked via radio to see whether a shotgun matching the one in the vehicle had been reported stolen. But, at that time, it had not, police said.

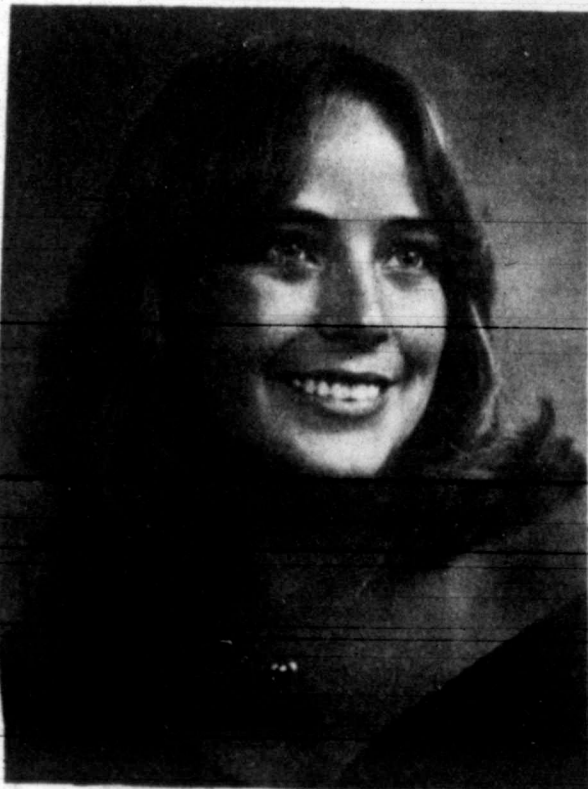

At the same time, Patrolman Terry Garner was on his way to a reported auto burglary in the parking lot of Carrow's Restaurant at Garfield and Wall streets.

When Garner arrived, James Daniel Hayes told him a shotgun had been stolen from his pickup while the truck was parked at the restaurant.

Garner checked the description with the one given earlier by Officer Irby, and the two matched.

Irby was again contacted and managed to stop the vehicle again at the intersection of Florida Avenue and Lamesa Road. The shotgun was positively identified and the man was arrested. Charges were expected to be filed this morning, a police spokesman said.

Mashburn named Junior Rotarian

Elizabeth Mashburn

Elizabeth Mashburn was recently named Junior Rotarian of the Week by the Midland Downtown Rotary Club.

The Midland High School senior is currently serving on the President's Cabinet of the Midland High School student council. She has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students and to America's Outstanding Names and Faces.

Miss Mashburn attended the Presidential Classroom in Washington, D.C., for honors government students. Other school activities include National French Honor Society, French Club, JETS, the 100 Club and Junior Council of the Midland Youth Center.

Her community activities have included membership in Young Life, Explorer Scouts, Goddard Junior High School, PTA volunteer, Youth Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church, Permian Civic Ballet and dancing roles in the Midland Community Theatre.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mashburn. She is also the granddaughter of the late Jack and Lucy Mashburn. Her grandfather was a longtime member of the Downtown Rotary Club and was instrumental in establishing the program honoring outstanding high school students.

Versatile basics: Rattan trunks

The textures of fine rattan take Pier 1 chests far beyond their steamer trunk origins. The cubes not only act as tables, bed-ends, and storage units, but also stand alone.

Little wonder, for Chinese craftsmen developed their weaving techniques centuries ago. Using strands of nature's strongest fiber, the makers form sides in a tight warp and woof of core rattan. Then, they carefully wrap the frame creating fine, even edging.

Hospital forms too confusing

BOSTON (AP) — Standard hospital forms that patients sign giving consent to surgery are so confusing that many people have little idea what they are agreeing to, studies show.

"Literally tens of thousands of people may be undergoing surgery on the basis of an ethically inadequate consent," concludes T.M. Grundner of Marymount Palos Verdes College in Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif.

The forms are intended to make sure that patients understand the nature of the surgery they are about to have, as well as the risks involved and the possible alternatives. Doctors also outline the operations orally.

Separate studies on consent forms were conducted by Grundner and researchers from the University of Pennsylvania Cancer Center in Philadelphia. Both were published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Grundner used readability tests to analyze five hospital consent forms. He found all were written as though they were intended for advanced undergraduates or graduate students in college.

"Four of the five forms were written at the level of a scientific journal and the fifth at the level of a specialized academic magazine," he wrote. The forms were peppered with big words and sentences up to 82 words long.

The Pennsylvania researchers questioned 200 patients within a day of signing their consent forms.

"Only 60 percent of all patients correctly described what their treatment would involve, 59 percent could describe the essential purpose of the treatment, only 55 percent were able to list even a single major risk or complication and only 27 percent could name one alternative treatment," they found.

These researchers concluded that the forms "are too complex and difficult for many patients to grasp."

In an accompanying editorial, Dr. Drummond Rennie, deputy editor of the journal, wrote, "It seems astonishing that anyone should draw up and presumably defend unintelligible, legalistic documents that must inevitably obfuscate, intimidate and alienate."

Grundner speculated that the forms are so badly written that patients could successfully argue in court that had not understood what they signed.

But fixing the problem is simple, he said. "In most cases, readability is easily improved by reduction of the number of multisyllabic words and shortening of sentences."

Effective parenting is possible

EDITOR'S NOTE: In conjunction with Family Life Week, Family Services of Midland and Midland College are co-sponsoring a "Family Day" April 28 at Midland College. This is the fourth in a five-part series which will examine all facets of the family relationship. Authors are members of the Family Services staff and other professionals. The following is by John Young, staff counselor, who will present a workshop on Effective Parenting.

By JOHN YOUNG

Primary focus of this workshop will be on the parenting skills necessary for rearing responsible, self-motivated, self-disciplined children.

Children misbehave because they falsely believe that they belong and are important only if they can get attention, power, revenge, or pity. Unfortunately, the parents' natural responses to such misbehavior usually just reinforce it until more and more of the parent-child relationship centers around attention, power, revenge, and pity rather than around mutual respect, enjoyment and autonomy.

Once the parent recognizes the extent to which his natural responses to his child's misbehavior are predictable, fruitless and even self-defeating he can begin to create new possibilities for himself and for his child. He can refuse to be sidetracked by his child's bid for attention, etc. and speak directly to his child's need for a sense of belonging and of self-worth.

At the same time—again refusing to be sidetracked by his child's bids for attention, etc.—he can take more effective action to see to it that his own needs for cooperating and consideration are met: acting instead of reacting. For example: "You may play quietly in here with us or go outside—you decide" rather than "Be quiet!" or "Go outside!"

Workshop participants will have an opportunity to explore the causes of child misbehavior, the pitfalls of being the "good" parent, the elements of effective parent-child relationship building, the important concept of problem ownership, effective ways for setting limits within the context of improved parent-child relationships, and the development of greater family cooperation. The workshop is aimed at both single and married parents of children of all ages and addresses the problem of the overly quiet, retiring child, as well as the child who is always pushing the limits.

Valley has appropriate name

Copley News Service
Did you know how Death Valley, in the West, got its name?

Death Valley lies between the Panamint Mountains on the west, and the Funeral range on the east in southeastern California, and southern Nevada.

During the gold rush days, a wagon train took a shortcut through a valley and camped at the foot of the Panamint Mountains at Tule Springs. Badwater, the lowest point in North America, is 276 feet below sea level and its temperatures are among the highest in the world.

The lost and desperate prospectors sent two men for help, but before they returned with food and water, many of the gold prospectors had died. Miners have since found some gold there, but the most valuable mineral in Death Valley is borax.

The 20-mule team and Death Valley are the symbols of the U.S. Borax Co. The Panamint Indians who live there aren't troubled at all by the climate. But the valuable mineral, borax, and the beautiful desert scenes which are familiar to us were of little comfort to the suffering group of prospectors, who as they left the area, turned and say, "Goodbye, Death Valley."

DEAR ABBY

Grown children should be heard before seen

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is the second marriage for both of us. All our children are grown and live away from home. Now for my problem: His children never call and ask if we have plans for the weekend, holidays or whatever, they just call and say, "We will be there on a certain day." Occasionally they don't even call, they just come.

Sometimes we've made plans to visit friends, or we've invited my children to visit us, and we can accommodate just so many houseguests.

When his children are here, they call up their friends and invite them over for dinner without asking us first. If they're moving from one place to another, are out of work or had a fight with a spouse, they bring their furniture, clothes, etc., to store at our house without asking permission.

My husband says this is their house, too, and they can come and go as they please.

Abby, I agree we should want our children to feel at home, but just how far should they go?

My children and I have an understanding that we never visit each other's homes without first being invited. How do you draw the line between making your children feel at home and letting them use you?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: The line is (or should be) clearly drawn when a child is grown and leaves home. Should he return for a day, a week or a month, he returns as a guest. This means he should not come without an invitation. If he's between jobs, or marriages, and needs a roof over his head, the chances are he will not be refused, but he should always ask first. And inviting others to one's parents' home, and storing furniture, clothes, etc., without permission is also out of line.

DEAR ABBY: I'm new here and have a problem with a co-worker. I'm right out of college and she is an older woman. She never misses an opportunity to put her hands on me. Body contact doesn't normally bother me—most of my friends greet me with hugs and kisses—but this woman's touch is not that kind. It's a lingering, caressing feeling that makes me uncomfortable. Whenever she passes my desk she'll stroke my hair or playfully massage my neck and shoulder. I think you get my point.

I don't want to make an enemy of her, but I don't want to hold still for this either.

Got any ideas?—UNCOMFORTABLE

DEAR UNCOMFORTABLE: Why not lay it off the line in a friendly, inoffensive way. Try this: "Please don't touch me—I'm ticklish."

DEAR ABBY: This is for women who loudly insist that housewives are also working women. Turn it around and you have the true picture—working women are also housewives.

I have worked for 20 years; I work because we need my income. I do not have a maid, nor do most working women. We have JOBS, not CAREERS. The luxury of indulging in a hobby like needlework, painting or tennis is a dream to most of us. What housewives have all week to do, we do before 8 a.m. or after 5 p.m. I clean the house, do the shopping, cook meals and try to do all the other things necessary to keep a home going after I put in eight hours on my office job. Oh, yes, I do windows on weekends.

Tell it like it is, ladies. How come you are all up on the afternoon soaps, when you're so busy being working women?—SIMMERING IN ST.

Kids' books serving spicy slice of life

CHICAGO (AP) — Children's books are serving up a spicy slice of life these days. In response to societal changes and to a more sophisticated audience, children's authors are reflecting real life in their stories for the junior reader, the American Library Association reports.

Common topics in today's children's literature include divorce, child abuse, death, adoption, alcoholism, teen suicide and the problems of the handicapped and the elderly.

According to the ALA, the majority of children's librarians applauded much-needed changes in children's books. Some, however, are finding parents are concerned with the subject matter and language in the new selections.

Mary Jane Anderson, executive secretary of the ALA's Association for Library Service to Children, attributes the increasing openness and honesty in children's books to changes in lifestyle for adults and children.

"Children's authors are more accurately reflecting actual family life in their stories. As adults become more open with each other and their children about sex and love, divorce, child abuse and other similar issues, authors are translating these concerns into subjects, settings and situations in their books," says Mrs. Anderson.

"While some books deal with normal child-parent relationships and "traditional" family units," she adds, "other titles help children deal with family life as they personally experience it or see it in the homes of their friends."

You can win over $1,000 in prizes FREE! during the... Spring Shopping Spree

Visit the wide variety of shops and boutiques in San Miguel Square and fill your shopping list with an exciting array of jewelry, sporting goods, clothing, ...anything you'd like. You could win all the merchandise on your list absolutely free! Here's how to play:

1. Pick up an official "Spring Shopping Spree" list from any of the friendly merchants in San Miguel Square. No purchase is required to participate. You must be 18 years of age or older to be eligible.
2. Browse through the Square and choose ten articles of merchandise (one from each of ten different stores) that you would like to win. Enter the merchandise, name of store, and retail cost for each item in the blanks provided on the official shopping list. Then ask a salesperson in each shop to initial your list next to the item chosen in their store. IMPORTANT: Any list missing the salesperson's initials beside any item of merchandise will automatically be disqualified.
3. After you've selected ten items from ten different San Miguel Square shops, have a merchant total your shopping list and deposit it in the official entry box located by the cash register in every shop in the Square. REMEMBER: You may enter as many shopping lists as you like during the month long "Spring Spree." All shopping lists must be deposited in an entry box before 1:00 p.m., Saturday, April 26, 1980.
4. On Friday, March 28, 1980, the President of the San Miguel Square Merchant Association selected at random a dollar amount between $1,000 and $1,500, and sealed it in an envelope. At 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, April 26, 1980, that envelope will be opened, revealing the sealed amount in dollars and cents. The shopping list whose total amount is closest to the selected amount enters that participant to win all items listed, absolutely FREE! In case of a tie, the shopping list with the earliest date will be declared the winner.

TMA president guest at local meeting

Mrs. Graham B. Milburn, president of the Texas Medical Auxiliary, was a guest at the recent meeting of the Midland Medical Auxiliary held in the home of Mrs. Oliver Gooch, with a brunch held in honor of the president.

Mrs. Milburn is the wife of a San Antonio ophthalmologist and has been a member of the auxiliary since 1949.

The head of the physicians' spouses auxiliary asked the Midland organization to join the rest of the 6,800 member organization in the service of health related areas, giving top priority to projects involving health maintenance and preventive medicine.

Mrs. Milburn also presented Midland members with the 1980 objectives — nutrition, exercise, weight control and changing health habits as an approach to positive health habits. She said other objectives could include medical legislation and fund raising for medical education and research.

Did you know that wearing contact lenses may be hazardous to your eyesight?

According to a recent research study, wearing hard contact lenses will eventually diminish the sensitivity in the cornea, the eye's outer layer.

If you had trouble getting used to wearing your contact lenses, but as time went by, it became easier and easier, it may be because your corneas became insensitive to the pain and adjusted to the troublesome lenses simply by becoming insensitive to the discomfort.

The problem with reduced sensitivity is that pain serves as one of the eye's natural defenses. If you can't feel pain, you may develop serious eye problems and not know it.

Full sensitivity will return to the usual hard contact lens wearer if you give your eyes a rest from the lenses.

THE BUTCHER

Don't let butcher ruin a pork roast by 'cracking-the-chine'

By MERLE ELLIS

Perhaps they don't know any better; perhaps they have never cooked. Perhaps they are short-handed and in a hurry; perhaps they think they are doing us a favor. For some reason, I know not why, butchers do some strange things to the meat we buy.

One of those things has to do with "cracking-the-chine." What most butchers do to the chine bone of a pork loin roast or a rack of lamb ought to be outlawed.

The chine bone is that part of the spine that remains on each side of the loin and rib section of any animal when the carcass is split in half. It has always presented a problem for anyone carving a roast from the rib or loin after cooking. So, traditionally, the butcher cracks the chine for you.

The standard practice today is to take a lovely loin or rib of pork or lamb to the electric meat saw, flip on the switch and slide the meat into the whirling blade (zip-zip-zip), cutting through the chine bone in a series of random zips, from one end to the other, leaving what was a lovely loin or rib roast looking like a lot of mismatched, miscut chops held together with a bit of flesh and dark fat. One chop is two inches thick, the next is one. One zip made it clear through to the outside fat and leaves the chop hanging as if on a loose hinge; the next zip didn't make it through the bone and you'll still need a cleaver to carve it.

Not only is any butcher who cracks a chine this way not doing you any real service, he is doing you a terrible disservice. Any roast with its chine so cracked cannot possibly be cooked to its best advantage. The meat is more than apt to be dry, and the slices you carve—not as thick or as thin as you want, but as thick or as thin as the butcher has zipped—are certain to be an unappetizing gray.

There is a better way. The way it was done before the advent of the electric saw, when a handsaw hung on every meat block; the way that my dad demanded it be done, and would fire anybody, including me, who did it any other way, is still the best way today.

If butchers would loosen the chine bone by cutting carefully across the rib bones parallel to the chine, then cut along the feather bones to loosen them and tie the bones back in place with a couple of strings, we would take home a roast that could be cooked without drying out. It could be carved as thick or as thin as we liked. On all counts, it would be better by far than the one the butcher has zipped through the saw. It may take him a bit more time, but he would benefit in a much more satisfied customer.

No butcher in the world would think of cracking the chine bone on a prime rib of beef the way most of them crack the chine of a rib of lamb or pork. For some reason, they treat beef with more respect. Perhaps they would treat lamb and pork (and, incidentally, you and me) with more respect if we were a bit more demanding. Don't buy a pork loin roast that has been destroyed by some unknowing or uncaring meat cutter with an electric saw. Ring the bell and ask the butcher to do it right when he cracks the chine. Draw him a picture if you have to, but don't settle for what he has in the meat case if it is hacked into "pre-carved" hunks.

Most butchers really are nice guys and are happy to do things the way you want them done, if you insist. But they seem reluctant to do some things—like crack the chine—the right way on their own. Perhaps they don't know any better; perhaps they have never cooked. Perhaps they are in a hurry; perhaps they think they are doing us a favor.

Don't do us any favors like this, please!

FOOD

Cherries sauce these birds

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Some years ago my husband and I had a delicious dinner in a restaurant. The main dish consisted of Cornish game hens in a red wine sauce with dark cherries. We planned to return to the restaurant and ask the chef for the sauce recipe, but the building burned down and apparently the restaurant did not relocate. I've looked for a cherry wine sauce recipe in every cookbook I could get my hands on, but I haven't found one. Can you help me? — DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE: The following recipe for Cherry Port Sauce may please you. — C. B.

CHERRY PORT SAUCE

- 16½-ounce can whole pitted dark sweet cherries in heavy syrup
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- ½ cup ruby port
- Coarsely grated rind of 1 medium orange (about 1½ tablespoons)
- ¼ cup orange juice
- ¼ cup red currant jelly
- 2 tablespoons ruby port stirred into 2 teaspoons arrowroot until smooth

Drain cherries; refrigerate cherry syrup — there should be ¾ cup — for some other use. In a 1- or 1½-quart saucepan, into the mustard, gradually stir the ½ cup port, keeping smooth. Stir in the cherries, orange rind, orange juice and currant jelly. Over high heat, stirring until the jelly melts, bring to a near-boil. Add arrowroot mixture and stir constantly until thickened and glossy. Makes 2 cups. Pour over 4 to 6 roasted Cornish game hens or pass separately.

Note: if you want to make the sauce ahead, bring to a near-boil as directed and put aside. Just before serving, heat cherry mixture, add arrowroot mixture and stir constantly until thickened and glossy. Arrowroot is a starch put out in small jars by some spice companies; you will find it among the spices in some supermarkets.

Knowing food intolerances

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY,
Copley News Service

There are many different types of food intolerances, and it is important to understand the differences and distinctions, to help the individual avoid them. If there are certain foods that have caused you pain or problems during your life, you probably have learned to stay away from them.

Not all are physical in nature, however. In fact many aversions to specific foods were learned from parents in early childhood. Some are ethnic in nature, and cultural backgrounds account for many attitudes directed against certain foods.

There is no doubt that the way we are brought up has a lot to do with how foods are tolerated. The psychological aversions can be stronger than some actual physical reactions, so it is important for you to try and evaluate your own food intolerances.

Some handy food tips

Planning Baked Stuffed Potatoes for dinner? Why not make a meal of them? For four large potatoes, as you're mashing and seasoning them with 2/3 cup milk and 2 tablespoons butter, add to them one can salmon (7 3/4-oz. can), drained and flaked, 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese, 1/3 cup chopped green pepper and 1/4 cup chopped onion. Refill shells and return to a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, until hot and lightly browned.

are delightful with soups or salads. Spread thin slices of rye bread with butter and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Toast under the broiler a few minutes until crisp.

Selecting a sofa is often the single most important decision you'll make in decorating your home. Cost is one reason, since the sofa is one of the largest pieces you will buy.

Even more significant, the sofa sets the style of your living room. If you favor the popular trend toward elegance, you'll want a sofa whose grace of line and richness of fabric will set the elegant tone of the room. While it is possible and often very effective to mix different styles of periods in the same room, it is a good rule to choose the sofa in the room's dominant style, whether it be traditional, contemporary or other styles.

Because of its size, the sofa is also a vital key to your color scheme. For instance, you can choose a fabric with several colors, and pick up the various colors in other pieces of furniture and in the walls and carpeting. Or you can select a fabric for your sofa similar to the background of color, leaving you free to accessorize with contrasting colors.

Give a lot of thought to the sofa before you choose, buy good inside construction and good exterior covering, you won't replace it very often. And before you buy be sure to see our selection of fine sofas and chairs, available in a wide range of styles and fabrics.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

This man was blind?

AS He was walking along, He saw a man blind from birth. "Master," His disciples asked Him, "why was this man born blind? Was it a result of his own sins or those of his parents?"

"Neither," Jesus answered. "But to demonstrate the power of God."

All of us must quickly carry out the tasks assigned us by the one who sent Me, for there is little time left before the night falls and all work comes to an end.

But while I am still here in the world, I give if My light."

Then He spat on the ground and made mud from the spittle and smoothed the mud over the blind man's eyes.

And told him, "Go and wash in the Pool of Siloam" (the word "Siloam" means "Sent"). So the man went where he was sent and washed and came back seeing!

His neighbors and others who knew him as a blind beggar asked each other, "Is this the same fellow—that beggar?"

Some said yes, and some said no. "It can't be the same man," they thought, "but he surely looks like him!"

And the beggar said, "I am the same man!"

Then they asked him how in the world he could see. What had happened?

And he told them, "A man they call Jesus made mud and smoothed it over my eyes and told me to go to the Pool of Siloam and wash off the mud. I did, and I can see!"

"Where is he now?" they asked.

"I don't know," he replied. John 9:1-12

Convict leads law to gold coins

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A former Erlanger Hospital finance director, convicted of stealing $525,000 from the hospital in 1974, has led authorities to $330,000 worth of gold coins he said he bought with the loot.

Last February, Ray Melvin Winchester, 44, told a chaplain at the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville that he wanted to make restitution. The chaplain called James Lamb, president of the Chattanooga-Hamilton County Hospital Authority which operates the hospital, to relay the message.

After weeks of talks with authorities, Winchester on Tuesday led District Attorney Gary Gerbitz to where he said he had buried 589 gold coins valued at $330,000. Gerbitz declined to say where the coins were buried. They were turned over to hospital officials.

Winchester was paroled from a federal prison last fall after serving just over 5 years of a 10 year sentence and was transferred to the state prison to begin serving a 10-year sentence in the case.

Winchester has asked Criminal Court Judge Campbell Carden to grant a post-conviction hearing. The judge has not ruled on the request.

Lamb said, "As far as Winchester's post-conviction hearing is concerned, I feel he has served enough time and has made all the restitution he can."

Satirist leaving Red Union

By SERGE SCHMANN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's best-known satirist has finally decided to bow to official pressures to leave his homeland. The reason is as unusual as many of Vladimir Voinovich's works—he believes things are getting better in the Soviet Union.

"I believe there's gradual progress here, and I think it'll continue without me," the 48-year-old writer told The Associated Press on Wednesday. "My books, on the other hand, won't be written without me."

Voinovich said he received an "offer" earlier this week to leave without losing his citizenship or passport.

After years of harassment and insecurity, he said, he concluded that the books he wanted to write could only be written abroad. He said he will go to Munich in September, and then probably to an English-speaking country.

"I think I have 10 good years left to write, and I have books ready to be written," he said.

Voinovich is best known as the author of "The Life and Extraordinary Adventures of Private Ivan Chonkin," a devastating satire starring a Red Army misfit detailed to guard a downed plane during World War II.

His other works include "The Ivankiad," a satire of Soviet housing problems, and several novellas, short stories and songs.

Like many other Soviet writers who fell afoul of authorities, Voinovich began his career as a star in the official writers' establishment.

His song "Fourteen Minutes to Go" became the hymn of Soviet cosmonauts, and the late Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev sang another Voinovich hit, "I Believe, Friends" in the Red Square.

But in 1966 Voinovich joined other leading members of the Union of Writers in protesting the trial of Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel. He soon found it harder to get works published, and in 1974 he was ousted from the Union.

Although Voinovich has insisted he is apolitical and has denied being a "dissident," — "I'm a cat who walks alone," he said—his sharp satire scored telling blows against Soviet officialdom. His protest letters to various officials, written in the style of formal government decrees, are almost as popular among Russian readers as his novels.

'Big Business Day' scheduled in 150 cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big Business is being thrust into an unwanted spotlight across the nation today as a coalition of critics inaugurate a campaign to shackle America's corporate giants.

Sponsors of "Big Business Day" scheduled activities in 150 cities to publicize cases of corporate abuse and to mobilize public support for legislation that would limit the powers of the country's 800 largest corporations.

Business groups are fighting back with a day of counter-events that will highlight the social and economic contributions large corporations have made to American society. They're calling it "Growth Day."

Both sides are vying for the public's heart as they gear up for a battle expected to last through the 1980s over the role big business should play in American life.

Critics, arguing that large corporations have grown too unresponsive to public needs, say greater control over business decisions should be given to employees, communities, consumers and small shareholders.

A bill that would accomplish that aim was introduced in the House earlier this month by 14 congressmen. Supporters of the so-called Corporate Democracy Act readily admit, however, that they don't have enough support to win passage in the near future.

Business executives, contending that the American way has produced the wealthiest society in history, say the economic status quo must be protected from assault by groups they have labeled as socialists, radicals, vindictive labor leaders and political opportunists.

"Our country has been built on the belief that more could share in the economic pie if we could just keep making the pie bigger," Mobil Corp. said today in a quarter-page "Growth Day" advertisement in the New York Times.

Other corporations also bought newspaper ads to defend their practices as socially responsible and to discredit the organizers of Big Business Day.

The Heritage Foundation, a conservative think tank, is sponsoring Growth Day to honor corporations for creating what it calls "the best wealth production system the world has ever known."

Sponsors of Big Business Day include consumer advocate Ralph Nader, labor leaders, members of Congress and representatives of the clergy, women's groups, the civil rights movement and the college community.

There will be noon-time rallies and demonstrations in many cities. Several college towns will hold film festivals and teach-ins. "Corporate Halls of Shame," anti-business fairs, variety shows and mock trials will take place elsewhere. And in Duluth, Minn., there will be a "Corporate Ugly" contest.

A major goal of the sponsors of these activities is to turn the spotlight on corporate abuses, such as overseas payoffs, production of unsafe products, bribery of political officials, unfair labor practices and unfair trade policies. "Crime in the suites," is what the critics call it.

Eleven of the largest American businesses, chosen allegedly because they are representative of corporate abuses, will be followed over the year by "shadow" boards of directors composed of citizen watchdog groups that will issue their own annual reports.

The eleven companies are Citibank, Grumman, Occidental Petroleum, Exxon, Du Pont, United States Steel, American Electric Power, Eli Lilly, Winn-Dixie retail food chain, Fluor construction and Castle & Cooke, a food conglomerate.

Shell to increase gasoline prices

HOUSTON (AP) — Shell Oil Co. says it has increased motor and aviation gasoline prices by two cents a gallon in its marketing areas along the East Coast and by one cent in some southern states.

Eastern states affected by the increase are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Southern states involved are Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico.

A Shell spokesman said the increases were in compliance with federal regulations and reflected escalating crude oil costs and partial recovery of previously incurred costs.

"It is a pass-through cost, so it is up to the individual dealer to determine if he will pass it through to his customers or absorb it himself," the spokesman said.

Judge will move court to Willie's picnic site

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A justice of the peace, whose court was flooded with cases stemming from Willie Nelson's Fourth of July bash, says she's moving her court to the picnic grounds this year.

"I think I can hold court anywhere in my precinct. Court is where the judge is," said Justice of the Peace Leslie Taylor. "Holding court at the picnic will simplify the chaos we had last year."

About 450 traffic tickets were issued by law enforcement officers on roads leading to the former country club Nelson purchased last year outside this Central Texas city. The country-western singer plans to hold the annual all-day music festival there again on Independence Day.

In addition to traffic citations, Travis County Sheriff Raymond Frank said, several picnickers were charged with everything from "smoking joints to a couple having sex in somebody's front yard." All the cases were heard in Ms. Taylor's court.

"We were totally unprepared. We're still suffering from backlog," said Ms. Taylor, who intends to avoid a similar crush this summer.

She said she will direct constables to pick juries from the crowd and also may decide a few cases herself.

Ms. Taylor said she legally could accept complaints and pleas on charges and set bail amounts at the picnic, but the state must be represented during the proceedings.

County Attorney Jim McMurtry said he is undecided about sending prosecutors to the picnic.

"It's not a question of being lazy and not wanting to work on holidays. I just haven't had a chance to think about it," McMurtry said.

Congressman cleared of most serious charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., has been cleared of the most serious allegations of House rules that he was charged with, but he still faces possible disciplinary actions.

The House ethics committee ruled Wednesday that Wilson violated House rules by converting campaign contributions to his personal use in the early 1970s and by accepting cash gifts from a man who had a direct interest in legislation before Congress.

But the 12-member panel cleared the veteran California Democrat of the two major allegations against him — that the gifts could be construed as influencing the performance of his congressional duties; and that he violated House rules by placing the person who gave him the gifts on his congressional payroll at a salary unjustified by the duties performed.

The committee also dropped as unjustified by the evidence an allegation that Wilson lied under oath when asked by the committee to explain the sources of his income.

Wilson, who did not take the stand in his own defense, made no statement on the committee's decision. He had denied the allegations in public statements.

The panel now must decide whether the rules violations were severe enough for it to recommend that the House punish Wilson. It plans to meet within the next week to take up that question.

The panel can recommend punishment such as a reprimand, which is a verbal slap on the wrist, or censure, a stronger condemnation. It also can recommend that a member be expelled from the House.

The decision met mixed reactions from Wilson's attorneys. "All the charges of corruption are gone," said Walter Bonner, a Wilson lawyer. "Not one count deals with a criminal violation of the law."

But he also said the committee should have exonerated Wilson of all allegations and he promised to continue the fight on the House floor.

The committee ruled on a 10-1 vote that Wilson, head of a postal subcommittee, violated House rules by accepting $10,500 from Lee Rogers, a California millionaire who operates a mail order firm. It rejected on a 10-1 vote an allegation that he accepted an additional $5,000 from Rogers.

Rogers had testified that he gave Wilson two $5,000 loans and did not remember the purpose of a $500 check to Wilson. He testified the last $5,000 which ended up in Wilson's bank account was intended as an option to buy a trailer park owned by a Wilson aide.

The committee also ruled that Wilson violated rules by converting nearly $25,000 in campaign contributions to his personal use, but it exonerated him of charges dealing with another $4,000 in contributions.

Both of the counts alleging that Wilson put Rogers on his congressional payroll at a salary that was not commensurate with the duties performed were rejected 11-0.

The allegations resulted from a committee investigation into Wilson's finances that began when he was accused of failing to report a $1,000 wedding gift from South Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park.

Court grants millionaire new trial

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — John Ruppel, a Tennessee millionaire convicted of racketeering in a scheme to smuggle 86 tons of marijuana into Texas, has been granted a new trial.

U.S. District Judge Robert Parker ruled Wednesday that Ruppel, a 61-year-old recluse, was entitled to a new trial because prosecutors failed to tell jurors about the terms of a plea bargain agreement with two key government witnesses.

Federal jurors in Beaumont convicted Ruppel last February of racketeering, being a manager of a continuing criminal enterprise and of four counts of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

In March, Parker sentenced Ruppel, formerly of Gatlinburg, Tenn., to 15 years in prison. The judge, however, said then he was taking the defense motion for a new trial under advisement.

"The government's failure to disclose the true terms of the agreement with the alleged co-conspirators (and government witnesses) Willis Judge Butler and Larry Dale Washington mandates that a new trial be afforded the defendant John Ruppel," Parker said in his order that erased all the convictions.

Ruppel has been free on a $500,000 bond pending the outcome of the motion for a new trial and his appeal.

Parker said testimony "elicited and emphasized" from Washington and Butler by assistant U.S. Attorney David Baugh indicated the plea bargain agreement was only a recommendation regarding punishment.

But Parker said Baugh executed a stipulation of evidence in U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher's court which stated the plea bargain agreement "included the additional element of prior approval by Fisher ... which prior approval amounted to a guarantee of six months or withdrawal of the guilty plea."

"The difference between a recommendation and court approved guarantee are readily apparent, are not insignificant and were certainly relevant to the jury's consideration of the credibility of the testimony of the alleged co-conspirators," Parker said in his order.

Fisher, who in March sentenced Washington and Butler to two years in prison in connection with the smuggling scheme, denied that the court ever approved six month sentences in return for the guilty pleas.

However, Parker said in ordering the new trial he did not have to determine if the plea bargain was only a recommendation or a court-approved guarantee.

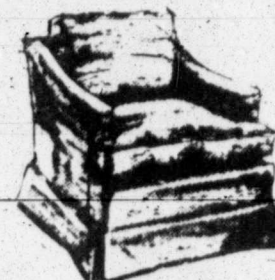

"What the court must decide is whether the jury that decided the fate of John Ruppel was entitled to hear the contents of the stipulation of evidence filed in the case of Larry Dale Washington," Parker said.

Texan Hughes headed for FERC position

By SOLL SUSSMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas assistant attorney general appears headed for a slot on the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission that oversees the natural gas industry.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Wednesday that the White House advised him David Hughes will be nominated for the four-year term that started last October.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, said White House officials told him the announcement would be made next week, pending completion of routine security checks.

Once formally made, the nomination must be confirmed by the Senate.

Hughes, a Lubbock native, was named last year as head of the energy division in the state attorney general's office. He became a Texas assistant attorney general in 1974.

His appointment would fill the vacancy caused last June by the resignation of Don S. Smith of Little Rock, Ark. Hughes would become the first Texan on the new 5-member commission.

The seat at the Federal Power Commission that preceded FERC traditionally went to a southwestern, energy producing state.

FERC is an independent agency charged with regulating the natural gas industry by setting prices in the interstate market. It has jurisdiction over all rate and marketing statutes, including the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

Bentsen and most other Democrats in the Texas congressional delegation first supported former Rep. Bob Gammage, D-Texas, to fill the vacancy.

Gammage, of Houston, now is running in the Democratic primary May 3 for a chance to win back the 22nd District congressional seat he lost to Rep. Ron Paul, R-Texas, in 1978.

"As assistant attorney general, David Hughes represented Texas on energy issues before federal agencies in Washington. He also has done legal work relating to orders handed down by the Texas Public Utilities Commission and the Texas Railroad Commission," Bentsen said in a statement.

Eckhardt, who backed the assistant attorney general originally, said, "Hughes is a very deep thinking and probing lawyer — a lawyer who comes from a producing state and who has considerable expertise in the energy field."

Hughes graduated from the University of Texas and received his law degree from American University in Washington. He worked in a Lubbock law firm for nine years before joining the Texas attorney general's office.

Operators report wildcat operations, field work in West Texas counties

Hunt Energy Corp. and Marathon Oil Co. announced locations for wildcats in West Texas areas.

Hunt will drill No. 2 Cerf Ranch Unit as a 7,000-foot wildcat in Pecos County, 26 miles southeast of Fort Stockton.

The prospector is 2,190 feet from southland 1,001 feet from west lines of section 10, block 130, T&SL survey.

The project is 1.5 miles southeast of the Grey Ranch, West (Ellenburger gas) field and 3/4 mile east of Hunt No. 1-9 Cerf now drilling below 18,122 feet.

CROCKETT TEST

Marathon Oil Co. announced location for a 6,200-foot wildcat 12 miles southeast of Iraan in west Crockett County.

Scheduled as No. 2 Noelke, it is 2,119 feet from north and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 10, block GG, T&NO survey.

The drillsite is one location southwest of the depleted Olson (Canyon and Wolfcamp) field and 7/8 mile southeast of the Noelke (lower Wolfcamp oil) pool.

MARTIN WORK

John L. Cox of Midland staked location for a 10,000-foot project in the Lacaff (Dean) area of Martin County and announced potential test on a well in the same field.

The new project is No. 1-B Mabee Ranch, 933 feet from north and west lines of tract 13, block 318, Parnum County School Land survey. The project is 24 miles north of Midland and 1/2 mile east and slightly south of 9,490-foot production.

The new well is No. 4 Mabee Ranch, 933 feet from north and 1,707 feet from east lines of tract 18, Paemer County School Land survey and 23 miles north of Midland.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 225 barrels of 40-gravity oil, no water, through a 24/64-inch choke and perforations from 9,552 to 9,836 feet. The pay was topped at 9,550 feet on ground elevation of 2,498 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 668-1, and the pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Wellsite is 1/2 mile east of other Dean production.

Total depth is 9,900 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 25 barrels of 41-gravity oil and 157 barrels of water through perforations from 12,039 to 12,044 feet. The pay was acidized with 500 gallons.

Total depth is 12,044 feet and seven-inch casing is cemented at 12,034 feet. Plugged back depth is 12,010 feet.

The pay was topped at 12,034 feet on ground elevation of 2,880 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of league 251, Ward County School Land survey.

REAGAN TEST

Great Southwest Petroleum Corp. of Big Lake will dig No. 2 Boothe as a southwest stepout to the reopener of the Barnart, Northeast (Grayburg) field of Reagan County, 3.2 miles south of Barnhart.

The project, 2,600 feet from the pool's only well, is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 237, block 1, T&P survey. Contract depth is 2,000 feet and ground elevation is 2,661 feet.

The pool was reopened by the firm's No. 1 Richard E. Gray in November 1979.

CROCKETT AREA

The Adams-Baggett Ranch (Canyon sand) field of Crockett County gained another new well with completion of Blue Ridge Oil & Gas Exploration of Detroit, Mich., No. 23 A. Phillips (Originally filed as A. Phillips "C"). The well, 24 miles south of Ozona, finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 3,200,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 5,283 to 5,588 feet. The pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 60,000 gallons.

Location is 154 feet from north and 2,865 feet from east lines of section 26, block XX, W. B. McRae survey and 1/2 mile north of other Canyon sand production.

Allied Chemical, Union Texas officials honored

JOE SALMAN Oil Editor

E. L. Hennessy Jr., chairman of the board of Allied Chemical Corp., was explicit Wednesday in making his feelings known about the regulations imposed on the oil and chemical industries.

"Twenty percent of our capital has gone to environmental programs, and we have 480 people who work for Allied and its various subsidiaries who are tied up in environmental programs," Hennessy said at a reception hosted by the Midland Wildcat Committee at the Petroleum Club of Midland.

Hennessy and other officials of Allied Chemical and Union Texas Petroleum were guests of the committee at the reception.

United Petroleum, a company that keeps an average of five rigs at work daily in the Permian Basin, has 108 people employed in the Permian Basin, with 55 of them assigned to the firm's Midland office. Hennessy said that all the work done by his employees on environmental programs and all the money spent by his companies in that area "contribute absolutely nothing to the recovery of oil or gas." "The environmental laws are not even enforced on an equitable basis throughout industry," Hennessy said. "Congress passes the laws and a bunch of young tigers in Washington try to interpret them, and no one does it the same way."

W. D. Geitz, president of Union Texas, said the companies 1980 budget for oil and gas exploration has been increased by 30 percent. "We will spend more money on domestic oil and gas exploration in the next five years than we spent during the last 10."

He pointed out that the Permian Basin area is one of Union Texas' most important areas. "We drilled 30 projects in the Basin last year, and we expect the number will be greater this year."

Geitz said Union Texas' domestic production is 19,000 barrels of oil and approximately 14 million cubic feet of gas daily.

Officials honored by the wildcat committee included H. W. Buirkle, senior vice president — Finance; C. D. Gaines, vice president — Exploration and Production; Al C. Bermann — vice president Hydrocarbon Marketing; R. W. Stoneburner, vice president — International Programs; A. E. Van Dyke, vice president — Joint Ventures.

And, G. J. Wilson Jr., vice president — U. S. Exploration; J. S. Empe, manager of Western U. S. Exploration; Tom H. Moore of Midland, exploration manager, and John A. Freeman of Midland, production manager.

Others included Dr. L. J. Colby, senior vice president — Research & Development; B. D. Forrow, senior vice president and general counsel; E. M. Halkyard, senior vice president — Human Resources.

D. G. Powell, senior vice president Public Affairs; H. D. Stewart Jr., senior vice president — Operations; P. J. Schiller, vice president — Planning and Development; S. D. Moore, vice president — Finance & Accounting.

D. J. Redlinger, vice president — Employee Relations; J. C. Grubb, vice president — Administration; J. R. Gorman, director of planning; T. West, senior counsel, and Stanley P. Porter, director.

THE AGE OF MICRONICS IS HERE WITH AN EASY-TO-USE COMPACT COPIER

BEYOND X.Y.A.N.D.Z.

In the beginning, Canon invented the first real alternative to Xerox. The NP Plain Paper Copier.

With copies so crisp and clean, soon other major companies adopted the patent. Then Canon went beyond. Into a whole new world called micronics—a combination of space-age engineering, electronics, and optical innovations that take full advantage of the micro-computer.

In the field of small desktop copiers, the Canon NP-60 can compete with any machine in its class. Especially against the Xerox 2600.

Even while the Xerox is still warming up, the Canon is already making copies, because the NP-60 works the instant you turn it on.

Most important, the Canon NP-60 is reliable. With solid-state micronics and Canon engineering, you can depend on copy after copy. Year after year.

Yes, there is another world. Beyond X.Y.A.N.D.Z. But not beyond your means. The Canon NP-60.

WE SPECIALIZE IN SOLVING REGULATORY MATTERS. LET US TAKE SOME OF THE MYSTERY OUT OF IT FOR YOU.

ZINDER-WITTE, INC.

HOW WE TAKE THE MYSTERY OUT OF DEALING SUCCESSFULLY WITH GOVERNMENT REGULATORY AGENCIES!

True stories from the files of Zinder-Witte, Inc.

AT ZINDER-WITTE, INC., we handle it all—from problem to solution—with professional on-the-spot coordination for clients with Regulatory Compliance Problems.

OUR PROFESSIONAL staff has the experience, knowledge and judgment to serve the unique needs of the independent oil and gas producer who must cope with the complexities of government regulation. Today, regulatory compliance remains a primary, if not the major, concern of oil and gas producers.

ZINDER-WITTE, INC., is a specialized group based in Midland, Texas—with the parent firm, Zinder Companies, Inc., headquartered in Washington, D.C.—that devotes its full attention to governmental affairs, with special emphasis on matters of energy policy before Congress and the Executive Branch, particularly the Department of Energy.

WE HAVE DEVELOPED a well-honed capability for assessing the impact of government policy and directives on independent oil and gas producers.

WE HAVE BECOME most capable at resolving unique compliance problems and at providing our clients with correct advice and direction.

OUR POLICY OF focusing the talents of principals and senior consultants on every assignment has contributed much to our success and our long-continuing relationship with most of our clients.

IN OUR CASE you do not have to pay for on-the-job training when dealing with DOE. We already know our way around—after all, we have been solving regulatory problems for clients since 1946.

IF NEED BE, we will go to Washington for you, or arrange for you to go, and for you to see the right people. We will do it all for you, or just help with some of the details.

WHATEVER YOUR choice, there is really little mystery to it when you have trained, competent and knowledgeable staff in the right places who have, as their one goal, the successful resolution of your regulatory compliance problems.

Scurry, Crockett lead Permian Basin areas in new tests

A rash of locations in Scurry and Crockett counties were staked last week as operators reported a total of 185 new projects in the West Texas and southeast New Mexico Permian Basin.

Crockett County gained 32 field projects and 30 were staked in Scurry County.

The Scurry total helped make District 8-A, headquartered in Lubbock, the leader in number of new locations with 56, 53 of them in proven field areas.

Among the performing soloists at the Air Force Academy Concert Band performance Wednesday night at Chaparral Center were the trumpet section leader Sgt. Bob Lane, above, and Moods in Blue singer Lisa Hudnall. The show was well received with the old favorites getting the most applause. This free concert was sponsored by The Midland Reporter-Telegram and Midland College. (Staff Photos by Brian Hendershot)

Old favorites please crowd.

The Air Force Academy Concert Band featuring the Moods in Blue Singers performed Wednesday at Chaparral Center before an audience of approximately 2,000 people. The free concert was sponsored by The Midland Reporter-Telegram and Midland College.

Although the overall performance was well-received, the audience saved its best response for the familiar patriotic songs that one would expect of a military band.

"When the Saints Come Marching In" (performed by the Concert Band and the Moods in Blue Singers) received the only standing ovation, making it apparent that this crowd had come to hear those clap-your-hands-in-time and sing-along old favorites.

Since this music was what those listening wanted, whether they were business-suited, cowboy-hatted, long-haired, 16 or 65, once these songs started, the clapping along continued for most of the last selections which included "Yankee Doodle" and "This Land is Your Land."

The Moods in Blue Singers, composed of six men and four women, received warm applause. They performed from the stage and also from the floor which lent their performance a degree of intimacy with the audience which was refreshing. A hushed quiet before the applause for their rendition of "You'll Never Walk Alone," made it obvious that this was the most moving piece of the evening.

The Air Force Concert Band is a part of the Air Force Academy Band which is the youngest of the major military bands of today. The Moods in Blue Singers are a component of the Concert Band.

Maj. John D. McCord has been commander and conductor of this band since July of 1975. In addition to his abilities as a conductor, he is an accomplished composer and arranger with his compositions for band, orchestra and chorus being included in the repertoire of most air force bands.

Among those performing was Sgt. John Lawson of Big Spring. Lawson, who is an arranger and trombonist for the band, had previously performed trombone with the Midland-Odessa Symphony for three years.

Although tickets requested totaled 3,500, there were approximately 2,000 in attendance. Larry Campbell, Chaparral Center manager, said that the Air Force had told him a turnout of approximately two-thirds is considered a good response.

Midland Memorial had deficit in March

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Midland Memorial Hospital took it on the chin financially in March.

Hospital trustees heard a report Wednesday that the hospital had a $28,771 deficit for March. Yet the deficit was not bad enough for the hospital to request funds from the Midland County Hospital District for May.

Robert Abernathy, assistant administrator for finances, told trustees the deficit resulted from a combination of increasing supply costs and underbudgeting for those costs last month.

In the same report, charge-off accounts for March totaled $89,086, with $69,870 reported for bad debts and indigent care accounting for $19,215, Abernathy noted.

Also, trustees approved raising the base salary for hospital clerical positions, the purchase of a blood counting machine, hospital privileges for medical personnel, insurance and parking at the hospital.

Clerical workers in various hospital departments will receive an additional $100 per month, thus making $700 the base salary for starting clerks. Trustee Roy Campbell said the raise was a "stopgap" measure to keep and recruit clerical help in the hospital.

"We are losing people to downtown businesses and doctors' offices," Abernathy explained, noting the pay they offer is a little higher.

Also, two data processing positions, one part-time and one full-time, met trustee approval. The two positions should provide the hospital with someone working at the computer 24 hours.

Trustees accepted the resignation of Trustee Rosalind Glenn, who is going to Southern Methodist University to study law. A nomination committee is presently searching for a replacement to complete the remainder of Ms. Glenn's term.

The building committee reported that a parking consultant was hired to study and make recommendations regarding the hospital's parking problems. Last month, the City Council approved blocking off the south side of Ohio Street between Garfield and N streets to be used for hospital parking.

The executive committee suggested that the parking space made available by the Council's action should be used for doctors' parking. However, trustees agreed more study should be done on what options are available in developing more parking spaces for the hospital and the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center.

Campbell reported the hospital's liability insurance will expire July 1. He suggested the hospital should consider contracting with Wyatt and Co. from Dallas to fulfill insurance needs. The company was recommended, according to Campbell, because it specializes in hospital insurance.

A two-man team from Wyatt and Co. will meet with Wayne Ulrich, hospital administrator, and Trustee Richard Gibson to study the hospital's liability and other insurance needs.

Courtesy staff privileges for Dr. Guy Gregory Garrett, Dr. Melvin Bernard Goodman, Dr. Patrick Y. Leung, Dr. Alvin Lee Schlichtemeier, Dr. Lawrence M. Cohen and Dr. Donald Hamilton also met trustee approval.

In addition, purchase of a new blood-counting machine costing $57,000 was approved by trustees.

Tech facing probe over discrimination

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Federal civil rights officials say they will investigate allegations of sex and race discrimination brought by a group of Chicano law students at Texas Tech University.

A spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, however, said Wednesday a date for the investigation has not been set because of a technicality.

The law students submitted the list of grievances co-signed by several Lubbock groups Monday, citing statistics they say show the university illegally discriminates against women and minorities in employment and admissions policies.

Taking a shotgun approach to filing procedures, the students sent their allegations to 12 federal, state and local civil rights offices.

"It's a method of raising questions about some of the statistics we found" in a year-long investigation of the university's hiring, promotion, pay scale, recruitment and admissions policies, said Sandy Torres, a third-year law student.

The complaint states in part that there are no blacks among the 574 students registered in Tech's school of law, and of the full-time tenured faculty employed at the university, 445 are white males and 87 are women or minorities.

W.V. Rush of the Dallas HEW office said the investigation will begin after the students properly sign their complaint.

"If federal investigators say there's no violation, then it'll end right there," Torres said. University officials said they were puzzled by the complaints.

"We feel our policies have been fair and equitable, which is not to say we've been absolutely spotless. But nobody is," said spokesman Jane Brandenberger.

She said university officials had not yet seen a copy of the complaint, and that they were surprised.

"We were not anticipating it at all. To be sure, in the past we've had individual cases brought, but none have been successful in court during the five years I've been here," she said.

The complaint was initiated by the Chicano Law Students Organization and co-signed by the local chapters of the National Organization for Women, the League of United Latin-American Citizens, the Religious Society of Friends, the National Lawyers Guild, Llano Estacado, and Centro Aztlan.

Utah drifter convicted of killing minister, wife

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) — A 26-year-old Utah drifter, who said he went to the rural Oklahoma City home bent on robbery, faced the death penalty today for the murders of a Baptist minister and the minister's wife. Steven Keith Hatch, was found guilty Wednesday of first-degree murder in the 1979 slayings of the Rev. Richard B. Douglass and his wife, Marilyn, and the wounding of their children, Brooks, 16, and Leslie, 13.

Canadian County District Judge Floyd Martin said after the non-jury trial the penalty would be determined during a hearing today. Hatch faced life imprisonment or death by lethal drug injection.

Hatch testified Wednesday that he had nothing to do with the October shootings but acknowledged he went to the Okarche home to rob the family.

He said he did not even know the shootings had occurred until about a half-hour after he and Glen Burton Ake, 24, had left the minister's home. Hatch said it was then that Ake, who has been confined to a mental institution after being ruled incompetent to stand trial, told him the family members were shot.

Hatch denied testimony by the Douglass children that he threatened to kill them. Defense attorney Mark Lea Cantrell tried to introduce into evidence a written statement he said would back his contention that Hatch was only an armed robber, not a killer.

The statement was part of an alleged confession given by Ake — minus pages 23 through 42. Martin ruled it inadmissible, but said it might be entered in the penalty phase.

During their testimony Monday, neither of the Douglass children identified Hatch as the man who shot them, but both said he carried a shotgun and warned "he'd blow our heads off" if an attempt was made to foil the robbery.

Hatch and Ake also face capital murder charges in Hardin County, Texas, in the slayings of Dale Randall Kokones, 35, and Yerby Land III, 27. The two men were robbed, then bound and gagged and shot in the back with a 12-gauge shotgun, said B.C. Vardeman, Hardin County criminal investigator.

Ake, Hatch and a girlfriend, Virginia Keefe, 19, were arrested Nov. 21 at a ranch house outside Craig, Colo., where they allegedly had abducted a rancher.

Vardeman said Land's car and the Douglass' wedding rings were recovered in the arrests. Murder charges against Miss Keefe were dismissed in exchange for her testimony in Texas against Ake and Hatch, Vardeman said.

Critic of Tito killed in ambush

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — Two gunmen shot and killed a prominent Serbian exile and leading critic of Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito in a street ambush in this industrial city, authorities reported today.

District Attorney Jochen Ruhland told reporters there was "no doubt" that the slaying of 71-year-old Dusan Sedlar was politically motivated. Sedlar had led several Serbian exile groups, including one based in Chicago.

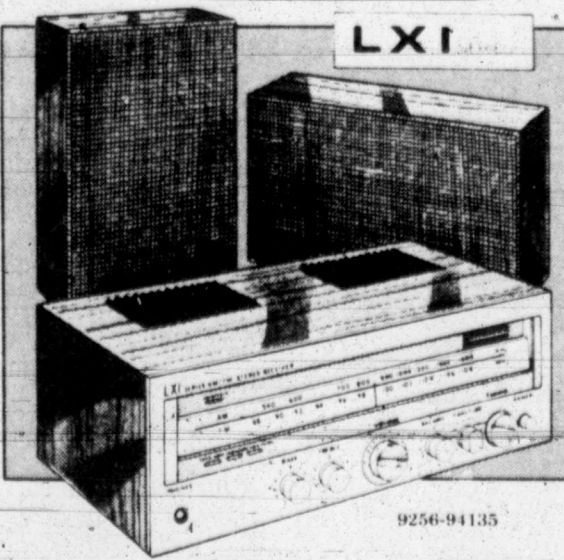

Officials said Sedlar may have been planning a Yugoslav government-in-exile with himself as its leader.

Police said they suspect the killers were Yugoslavs, and Ruhland offered a reward of $2,700 for their arrest.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE The Permian Basin Health Systems Agency announces the availability of Criteria, Standards and Data Needs to be used in the Agency's Review of the existing Radiation Therapy and End Stage Renal Disease Services in the 17 county Permian Basin Region. A Public Comment period will be observed from April 14, 1980 to May 14, 1980. The Permian Basin Health Systems Agency is mandated under the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act as amended, P.L. 96-79, to review the existing health services being delivered in the institutional setting to determine their availability, accessibility, acceptability, continuity, quality and cost-effectiveness of such services. The Criteria and Standards proposed will be used to evaluate the first two services which are Radiation Therapy and End Stage Renal Disease. This review will begin on June 11, 1980. The results of this review will be forwarded to the Texas Health Facilities Commission for their evaluation and publication of a final Stage-wise Appropriations Report. Copies of the Criteria, Standards and Data Needs are available upon request from the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency, P.O. Box 639, Midland, Texas 79701, 915-683-1061. $2000 PER MONTH PLUS

Manager Trainees need to fill $70,500 per year position. It normally takes only 2 to 3 years to become a manager. $24,000 is your guaranteed annual salary while you learn, however for those who survive the first year average compensation is $29,250 due to additional sales commissions: 90 to 95 percent of your time will be in sales during the 2 to 3 year training period.

QUALIFICATIONS ARE TOUGH:
Please don't apply unless you meet each and every qualification:
1. Impeccable integrity and references.
2. 4 year degree from accredited college or high school diploma coupled with 2 years of heavy retail manager experience.
3. Willing to work over 60 hours per week (No Sunday or out of town work).
4. Willing to take Polygraph test.
5. Willing and capable of taking dictation.
6. Not have any prior heavy sales experience such as real estate, automobile, mobile homes, vacuum cleaners, etc.
We have an extraordinary benefit including a retirement profit sharing plan. We don't list with employment agencies - request they don't refer candidates to us.

Hertz gives the lowest prices ever on our quality late model used cars! Pick the price you like. Pick the car you like. Whatever you select, you'll get the same special Hertz advantages that make us the world's largest seller of quality late model used cars. Only the finer cars from our rental fleet are specially selected for sale. Each car comes with its own Service Maintenance Record you check before you buy. Each car comes with the famous Hertz Limited Power Train Warranty covering both parts and labor against defect in engine, transmission, drive shaft, and differential for 12 months-12,000 miles. (Whichever comes first.) Ask for full details. Plus, most cars have air conditioning, power brakes and steering, automatic transmission, A.M. radio and radials. Discounts not applicable to these specially priced cars.

Oakland topples Seattle Mariners, 6-1

By The Associated Press

What do Sept. 22, 1979, and April 16, 1980, have in common? On those days, Oakland's Matt Keough became a two-game winner. The big difference, other than five months, is that when the luckless Keough posted his second triumph of 1979, he had lost 16 times en route to a 2-17 record after an 0-14 start. Today, Keough ranks with Baltimore veteran Jim Palmer and Minnesota rookie Doug Corbett as the only two-game winners in the American League. The 24-year-old right-hander, who blanked Minnesota on four hits last Friday, hurled a six-hit Wednesday as the A's whipped the Seattle Mariners 6-1. "Last season speaks for itself," said Keough, who obviously prefers to dwell on this year. "We're going to be tough this season. I believe that. I really do," he added after pitching the A's to their fourth triumph in seven games. They were never above .500 all last season when they finished last in the AL West with a 54-108 record. In other AL action, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Kansas City Royals 2-1, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Detroit Tigers 10-9, the Toronto Blue Jays clubbed the Milwaukee Brewers 11-2, the New York Yankees blanked the Chicago White Sox 6-0, the California Angels edged the Minnesota Twins 2-1 in 10 innings and the Texas Rangers downed the Cleveland Indians 8-7. The A's scored all their runs in the fifth inning, highlighted by Dave Revere's two-run triple. The A's sent 11 batters to the plate and scored all their runs off Jim Beattie, with Rob Picciolo, Dwayne Murphy, Jim Essian and Tony Armas adding RBI singles. Although the season is still in its infancy, Keough said Manager Billy Martin has made "an indescribable difference" in the A's, who have virtually the same players as last year's motley crew. "His intense concentration creates the same for everybody," Keough said. "He's not going to tolerate the same mistake being made twice and we all know that and are bearing down. We all know that if we stay close, we're going to steal a game now and then." "Matt has his confidence back. That's the big thing," said Martin. Seattle had only four hits, all singles, before scoring in the eighth on Julio Cruz' double and Bruce Bochte's single, breaking Keough's string of 16 shutout innings. Orioles 2, Royals 1 Rich Dauer, a notoriously poor early-season hitter, singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as Mike Planagan pitched Baltimore over Kansas City with a seven-hitter. Dauer's single off Larry Gura followed infield hits by Rick Dempsey and Al Bumbry and was only his second safety in 16 at-bats this season. Dauer went 0-for-22 during April as a rookie in 1977, was 3-for-28 during April 1978 and started last season with two hits in his first 27 at-bats. The Orioles' first run was a solo homer in the third inning by Ken Singleton, who has hit 37 of his 98 Baltimore homers in support of Planagan, including two of three this season.

Red Sox 10, Tigers 9 Tony Perez had four hits, including a two-run homer — his first in the AL — and a two-run double, and Boston withstood a three-run Detroit ninth inning. Perez, signed as a free agent last November after 15 years in the National League, also walked to complete a perfect 4-for-4 day. With two out in the bottom of the eighth, Perez singled and scored what proved to be the deciding run on Carl Yastrzemski's double, giving the Red Sox a 10-6 lead. Lance Parrish drove in four runs for Detroit, two with his second homer of the season.

Pickoff attempt doesn't pay off here as Odessa's Junior Cobos, slides back to first ahead of throw from pitcher Wade Cartwright to first baseman Clay Bateman of Midland Lee. The Rebels won, 8-6. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot).

Rebels down Odessa

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Lee still remains on top in the District 5-4A baseball race. Coach Ernie Johnson's Rebels came from a 4-0 deficit to post an 8-6 victory over the Odessa High Bronchos Wednesday at the Lee diamond in a makeup game. The victory gives Lee a 2-0 mark in the second half of the race while the loss drops the Bronchos to 1-1. OHS had upset first half champion Abilene Cooper, 6-3 in Odessa Tuesday.

HECTOR SANCHEZ started things for OHS with a walk. Leroy Alvarado, who had four hits in four trips to the plate, singled and Mark Vasquez legged out a bunt single to load the sacks. Billy Rumbaugh then singled past Ricky Wright at third for a 2-0 lead. Junior Cobos, the losing pitcher, was safe on a fielder's choice and Ismael Tavarez doubled in two more runs before Cartwright settled down to get the side out. Lee countered with a pair of runs in the bottom of the first inning when Perez ramed Cobos' first pitch up the middle. Two passed balls by catcher Kevin Decker and a walk to Cartwright got Lee back into the ball game. Decker had a rough afternoon behind the plate with five passed balls. Barry Corley knocked in Perez when he grounded out to third and Cartwright scored on Randy Velarde's grounder to deep short. The Red Hosse increased their lead to 5-2 in the top of the third inning. After one was out, Cobos singled, went to second when Cartwright uncorked a high throw at first trying to pick him off. Johnny Subia, who smacked a two-run homer against Cooper on Tuesday, singled in Cobos for the 5-2 advantage.

5-4A standings

LEE GOT two more runs in the bottom of the third on only one hit, that being a single by Perez, but two more passed balls by Decker along with a sacrifice by Cartwright and a sacrifice fly off the bat of Velarde, cut the OHS lead to 5-4.

M-Cubs' Segelke tames Gold Sox

AMARILLO—Midland's Cubs used a four-run eighth inning and a glittered pitching performance by Herman Segelke to beat the Amarillo Gold Sox, 9-5, before 2,566 fans in a Texas League game here Wednesday night. Henry Mack, 0-1, will go against the Sox as the Cubs seek to even their season's record at 4-4 while Gary Pickert, 0-1, will make his first start of the season for the Sox. Segelke, 1-1, survived an unsettling first inning in which the Sox scored three unearned runs and held the Sox to two hits from the second through the seventh before showing signs of weariness in the eighth. Bob Blyth pitched the final inning to nail it down. Trailing 3-2 going into the seventh, Midland struck for three runs in the frame as Mel Hall doubled with one out and Mike O'Berry grounded to short, Hall scoring on the overthrow. Dave Owen then singled, Dave Fletcher grounded out and Tom Grant was walked intentionally to load the bases. Randy LaVigne then singled to left for two runs.

ONCE AGAIN, Odessa added another run off Cartwright in the top of the fourth for a 6-4 lead. Sanchez went down swinging, but Alvarado came up with his third hit of the game, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Rumbaugh then hit a liner to center where Corley tried to make a diving catch of the ball, but it skipped past him for a double with Alvarado scoring. Cobos grounded to third to end the uprising. Lee's bats came alive in the bottom of the fourth inning. Held to just two hits with both of them by Perez, the Rebs came up with six hits to take a 7-6 lead and it could have been more productive, but for some poor base running. Scott Collins legged out an infield hit to start the rally. Clay Bateman moved him to second with a sacrifice. Wright singled up the middle to score Collins to make it 6-5. Tom Morrisom followed with a single and pinch-runner Ron Smedley promptly stole second and scored later on a suicide squeeze bunt by Perez that went for a base hit to tie the score, 6-6. Cartwright singled, but Perez was tagged out at home and Corley was caught in a rundown between first and second to end the inning. Lee added an insurance run in the sixth when Velarde tripled into right-center and scored on Jeff Hicks' grounder to first for an 8-6 lead.

Midland added four more in the eighth to take a 9-2 lead as Joe Hicks was plunked by a Randy Miller pitch and moved to second on J.W. Mitchell's single. A wild pitch moved the runners to second and third. Dave Stockstill bounced back to the box and Mel Hall was walked intentionally to load the bases. That set the stage for O'Berry's three-run triple and then Owen squeezed home O'Berry from third with the final run. In the first, Amarillo's version of Joe Hicks reached on third baseman Todd Winterfeldt's error and after a couple of hits, John Alvarez lined to left. LaVigne misplayed it into a two run double, the big hit of the three-run frame. After that Segelke was superb. BRUIN BREWIN'S—The Cubs and Sox will play a doubleheader Saturday night, leaving Sunday open for the Amarillo baseball banquet, featuring Ernie Banks and former Texas League president Bobby Bragan. O'Berry had two hits to break an 0-for-13 slump...

CARTWRIGHT HAD pitched himself out of a jam in the top of the inning. Sanchez doubled and Alvarado legged out a base hit with a perfect bunt, but OHS failed to score when Valdez popped out to Bateman at first, Rumbaugh grounded to third and Wright at third to turn the Bronchos away empty-handed. Cartwright retired the final six batters he faced after that third in the top of the sixth inning.

Red-hot Cincinnati undefeated in NL

By The Associated Press Statistics can be misleading, but they tell the whole story of why the Cincinnati Reds are 7-0 in the first week of the baseball season.

The Reds have committed three errors and given up 15 runs in seven games while scoring 44 runs, aided by 11 opposition errors. "It's a very nice feeling," said Cincinnati Manager John McNamara after the latest victory, a 5-3 triumph over the San Francisco Giants, who are 1-6. Regardless of the bare statistics, the Reds have done whatever is necessary to win; sometimes scoring early to win going away and sometimes coming from behind in the bottom of the ninth.

the first inning on a bases-loaded single by Dan Driessen. The Reds' third run came in the third inning on a homer by Dave Concepcion, his second of the season. San Francisco evened the score in the fourth on an RBI single by Rennie Stennett and a two-run double by Milt May before Driessen broke the 3-3 tie in the fifth with a two-run homer. Phillies 3, Cards 3 Garry Maddox and Manny Trillo both hit two-run singles that highlighted a six-run ninth inning that proved to be decisive. Steve Carlton, 2-0, had a shutout going into the bottom of the ninth, but he needed relief help when St. Louis scored all its runs.

Yankees 6, White Sox 0 Tommy John hurled a two-hitter and Oscar Gamble drove in two runs with a pinch hit and scored on a pinch single by Jim Spencer as the Yankees ended Chicago's four-game winning streak. John gave up a first-inning single to Alan Bannister and an infield hit to Wayne Nordhagen with two out in the fifth. The Yankees jumped on Ken Kravec for three runs in the fourth inning on Rick Cerone's sacrifice fly and RBI singles by Willie Randolph and Ruppert Jones.

LEE NOW rests until Saturday when the Rebels travel to Abilene to take on Cooper in a mighty big contest. Although outhit 13-10, the Rebels, led by outfielder Robert Perez' three hits, came back to post the win over the fired-up Broncs. Odessa took a 4-0 lead off Wade Cartwright in the first inning and it looked like it might be a long afternoon for Johnson's charges who were winning their 11th game of the season.

Mets 3, Expos 2 Jerry Morales' two-run single capped a three-run third inning and New York held on to beat Montreal as Neil Allen recorded his third save in the Mets' third victory. The smallest home crowd in the team's 17-year history — 2,052 — braved 48-degree weather at Shea Stadium. Dodgers 10, Padres 4 Steve Garvey's first homer of the season, a three-run shot that highlighted a four-run third inning, lifted Los Angeles to only its second victory in seven games. Dave Lopes also homered and Ron Cey had three hits and two RBI for the Dodgers.

Angels 2, Twins 1 Don Baylor, who singled and scored the tying run in the ninth inning, hit a sacrifice fly with one out in the 10th to give California the victory behind Dave Frost's four-hit pitching. Baylor's decisive fly followed singles by Al Cowens and Dan Ford around a sacrifice bunt. The Angels, blanked on four hits over the first eight innings by Pete Redfern, tied the score in the ninth when Baylor and Rod Carew singled, Brian Downing sacrificed and, after Joe Rudi was intentionally walked, Bobby Grich hit a sacrifice fly.

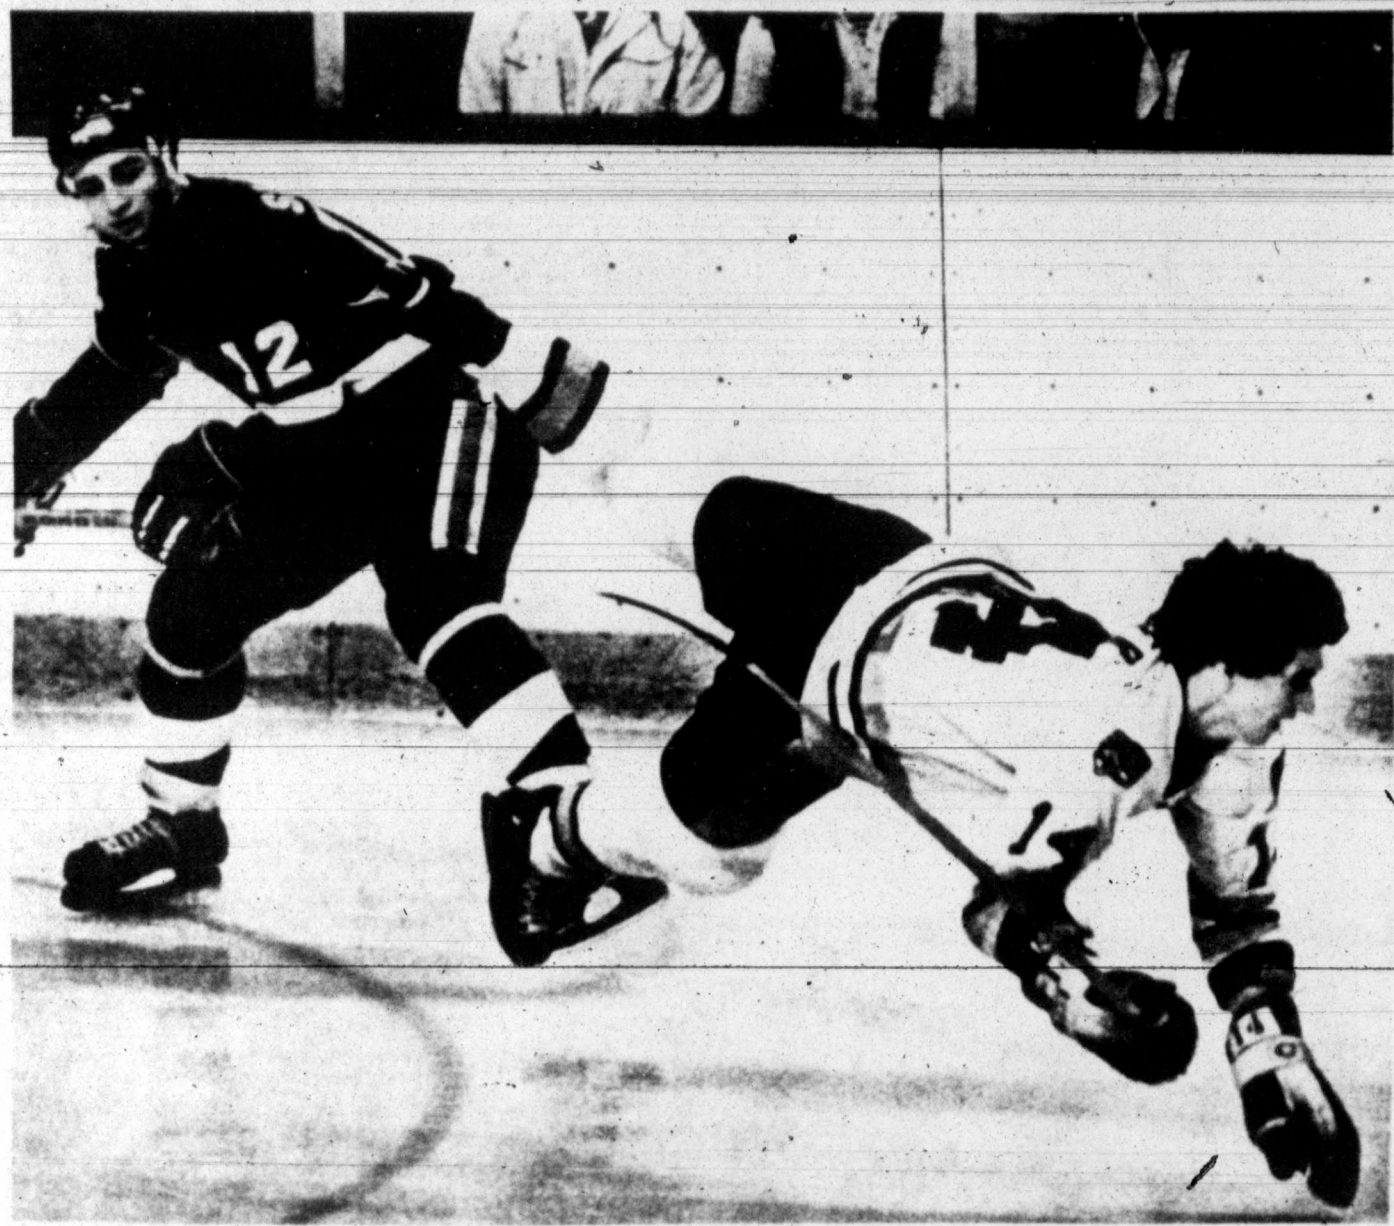

Attendance increase HOUSTON (AP) — Attendance at the opening home stand of the season for the Houston Astros was 45.5 percent above last year. The six-game Astrodome stand that ended Tuesday night had a paid attendance of 163,170, compared with 112,066 the first six games in 1979.

Ali to fight Holmes instead of Weaver

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, overweight, out of shape and 38 years old, has shown he is as adept as ever at springing a surprise.

At a Wednesday news conference that had been billed as a contract-signing for a fight between Ali and World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Mike Weaver, Ali announced that he will fight, instead, Larry Holmes, the World Boxing Council heavyweight champion.

All said negotiations for the Weaver fight fell apart overnight when promoter Bob Arum made last-minute financial demands.

"The next opponent will be Larry Holmes," Ali said. "He's the best in the world next to myself. I'm kind of glad the Weaver fight broke down. People have been telling me that Holmes can whup me. I've never ducked anybody."

All, who retired as champion in September 1978, said pride was behind his comeback.

"The main reason is pride, to be the only four-time world champion after I'm already the only three-time world champion," he explained.

The agreement for the Ali-Holmes fight calls for the $10 million bout to be held July 11 in Brazil at Rio de Janeiro's 165,000-capacity Maracana Stadium. Although nothing has been signed and there are details to be worked-out, the bout appears to be relatively certain.

"The money's good, but it's not just for the money. I know I can win," said Ali, who's expected to receive around $6 million. "I can whup Larry Holmes. Holmes is old. He's 31."

Murad Muhammad, a 29-year-old former Ali bodyguard who is president of Prime Sports, will co-promote the fight with Don King, promoter of all Holmes' championship fights. Murad has promoted closed circuit showings of several Ali fights along with some New Jersey bouts at Rahway State Prison featuring inmate James Scott, a light-heavyweight.

King said by telephone from Miami that he is pleased.

"There is a lot of work to be done, but I think it (the fight) is solid," King said. "I hope so, because Larry Holmes deserves a chance to prove he's the best heavyweight in the world."

Holmes, reached in Easton, Pa., said: "Everything is supposed to be set. I asked for $4 million and they mentioned $3.5 million. I'm sure a figure can be agreed on."

Charles Spaziani, Holmes' attorney, said a letter of credit for his client's share of the purse must be on deposit by May 15.

A former Ali sparring partner, Holmes said that if he beats the former three-time champ, he wants to fight Weaver in the fall to consolidate the title.

All, whose pro record is 55-3 including 22 title fights, said that Holmes, who has scored 25 knockouts en route to a 34-0 record, wouldn't provide him much of a challenge. "I'm not fighting Joe Frazier in his prime. I'm not fighting George Foreman in his prime. I'm not fighting fast Leon Spinks who was hungry. I'm fighting a mummy who stands up straight and imitates me," Ali said.

Just last month, Holmes said that he didn't need Muhammad Ali, he needs me. All responded then, "When Holmes admits he needs me and gets down on his knees before the press and says he publicly needs me, then he might get a shot."

Locker, Welch take

Hoot and Shoot title

Fran Locker and Jean Welch teamed up to win the sixth Annual Women's Hoot and Shoot partnership golf tournament at Midland Country Club Wednesday.

Mary Lou Fry and Joan Sharpe of Abilene took second place while Jo Dickson and Jean Elkins were the third place finishers in the one day event in which teams were pre-flighted by handicaps.

In the second flight, Billie Mae Hartman and Ginny Elmore took first with Helen Brant and Janice Higgins teaming for second while Clara Boyd and Edie Stahl were third.

Patti Pittman and Kitty Ashby combined for a first in the third flight while Rusty Euston and Lillian Logan took second. Muriel Inman and Margaret Mills took third.

North Stars win, 3-0

By The Associated Press
A time-tested strategy worked wonders for the Minnesota North Stars.

In their first-round National Hockey League play-off series against the Toronto Maple Leafs, the North Stars put all the pressure they could on Toronto defenseman Borje Salming, who generates a great deal of the Maple Leafs' offense.

That helped Minnesota to a three-game sweep of the best-of-five first-round series. So Wednesday night, in their quarterfinal opener against the Montreal Canadiens, the North Stars tried it again — on Montreal standout Larry Robinson.

"Throw a blanket over Salming and you eliminate the offensive thrust to a certain degree," said Minnesota Coach Glen Sonmor. "That's exactly what we wanted to do with Robinson. We wanted to make him give up the puck whenever he got it so he didn't make any of those great end-to-end rushes."

It worked — Wednesday night, anyway. With injuries knocking four regulars out of the Montreal lineup, North Stars checkers nullifying Robinson and goalie Gilles Meloche recording the shutout, Minnesota gained a 3-0 triumph for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

"I wouldn't go so far as to say we outplayed Montreal for the entire game, but we certainly deserved to win," said North Stars defenseman Paul Shmyr after Minnesota handed Montreal its first playoff shutout loss since May 18, 1978.

The shutout, which snapped Montreal's 24-game unbeaten streak, was the Canadiens' first such loss at the Forum since April 22, 1967.

In the other series openers, the Buffalo Sabres blanked the Chicago Black Hawks 5-0, the New York Islanders beat the Boston Bruins 2-1 in overtime and the Philadelphia Flyers beat the New York Rangers 2-1.

The second game of each series is scheduled tonight.

The North Stars carried the action from the outset of their contest against the defending Stanley Cup champions. They took 14 shots on Canadiens goalie Denis Herron before Montreal managed one on Meloche at 9:36 of the first period.

Part of that may have been due to the Canadiens' injury problem. Star right wing Guy Lafleur (knee), centers Pierre Mondou (groin) and Doug Risebrough (shoulder) plus defensemen Serge Savard (ankle) and Guy Lapointe (ankle) all were scratched from the Montreal lineup.

"I was really amazed with the way we played in the first period," said Sonmor. "When I looked up and saw we were outshooting them 14-1, it really startled me. But it was a very good feeling."

He felt even better when Kent-Erik Andersson snapped the scoreless tie at 2:51 of the third period to give Meloche all the offensive support he needed. Steve Payne and Al MacAdam added insurance in a 1:39 span starting at 15:13.

Meloche, a Montreal native completing his ninth NHL season but in his first full playoff game, held the Canadiens the rest of the way. Still, cautioned Montreal defenseman Rod Langway, "You've got to win four to take the series — not one."

Sabres 5, Black Hawks 0
Buffalo, which scored on one-third of its 18 power plays in the preliminary-round triumph over Vancouver, scored on four of its six manpower advantages in the opener with Chicago.

By raising their power play's efficiency to 42 percent, the Sabres made Scotty Bowman only the second coach in Stanley Cup history to record 100 career triumphs. The other was Dick Irvin of Montreal.

Buffalo's first three goals, by John Van Boxmeer, Gil Perreault and Danny Gare, all came on power plays. The Sabres had been 0-for-15 with a man advantage against Chicago in the regular season.

Bob Mongrain had the only even-sided tally, then Rick Dudley added a power-play goal in the third period as the Sabres ran their home unbeaten streak to 21 games.

In addition to the game, Chicago lost Captain Terry Ruskowski, whose head struck the ice when he was decked by a punch in a fight with Larry Playfair 7:08 into the contest. Black Hawks Coach Ed Johnston hoped Ruskowski would be able to play in Game Two.

Islanders 2, Bruins 1
Clark Gillies lifted a 20-foot shot over goalie Gerry Cheevers just 1:02 into overtime to give the Islanders a hard-fought victory over the battle-weary Bruins.

Boston, playing its fourth game in five nights, took the lead on Pete McNab's goal 51 seconds into the third period. New York pulled even when Garry Howatt's pass from behind the Bruins' cage glanced off McNab's skate and past Cheevers.

Then came the overtime — the second in three games for the Islanders, who beat Los Angeles in the third game of their preliminary round last Friday night.

"We might have been tired, but that's an easy excuse," said Cheevers. "The importance of the situation itself should compensate for the tiredness."

"If they're not tired, they're superhuman," said the Islanders' Butch Goring. "It's not our fault, but we have to take advantage of the situation."

Flyers 2, Rangers 1
Though Philadelphia spent most of the night taking long shots on Rangers goalie John Davidson, it took a five-footer — by Flyers defenseman Behn Wilson at 5:44 of the third period — to win the game.

"He (Davidson) has good anticipation, but we felt long shots would beat him," said Philadelphia Coach Pat Quinn. And a long shot, a screened 35-footer by Rick MacLeish, did beat him 4:49 into the game.

But Davidson — who excelled all night and finished with 40 saves — insisted long shots were fine with him.

"If the Flyers want to take long shots at me, it will just mean they are giving us the puck," he said.

Wilson's winner came just 1:57 after the Rangers' Ray Markham had tied the game by deflecting a shot by Don Maloney past Philadelphia goalie Pete Peeters.

The Rangers also lost a player to injury. Dean Talafof suffered a cracked rib early in the contest and may be lost for the rest of the series.

Zisk homer lifts Rangers to win

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Richie Zisk was hitting .168 when he went to the plate in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday night and looked like it on the first two swings against reliever Victor Cruz.

Fighting an extended slump that actually started last year, Zisk was fooled on two straight pitches from Cruz. Then he worked the count to 3-2 and lashed a two-out, three-run homer over the left-center field fence into the 20 mph wind.

It gave the Texas Rangers an 8-7 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the first place in the American League Western Division.

The Rangers had to overcome a 7-0 lead fashioned when the Indians chased starter Ferguson Jenkins, who was seeking to become the fourth major league pitcher to win 100 games or more in both leagues.

It was the third time this season Texas had come from behind to win a game.

"I said before the game that Zisk was swinging the bat good," said Ranger Manager Pat Corrales. "His timing had been just a hair off. That sounded like a .45 going off when he hit the ball."

Zisk was mobbed at home plate like the Rangers had just won the World Series.

"That was the greatest reception I've ever received," he said. "It was nice to see. Everybody was out there. This team is getting real close."

Zisk collected only five game-winning RBI last year as he battled a low-blood sugar count, a wrist injury and strep throat.

"I had a good spring," said Zisk. "Sure I was feeling the pressure a little bit ... I wanted to hit, but I know what I have to do."

Jim Kern picked up the victory in relief for the Rangers, who won five games and lost two on their first homestand of the year.

Bucks have Sonics on the ropes

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The playing status of guard Junior Bridgeman and forward Dave Meyers was uncertain today as the Milwaukee Bucks studied the prospect of eliminating the defending champion Seattle SuperSonics from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bucks have a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven game Western Conference semifinal series after winning 108-97 Tuesday night in Seattle, a game that left Meyers and Bridgeman sidelined with injuries.

The Bucks could clinch the series and advance to the conference finals against Los Angeles if they defeat the Sonics Friday night in the Milwaukee Arena.

However, they may have to play without Meyers, their power forward, and Bridgeman, highest scoring reserve in the NBA.

Bridgeman was hurt when he fell while trying to drive past Seattle center Jack Sikma with 6:49 to play. He was prone on the floor for several minutes before being strapped to a stretcher.

PHYSICIANS SAID X-rays disclosed no broken bones or nerve damage, and Bridgeman was able to walk after spending the night in a hospital. But his lower back remained sore, and further tests were scheduled.

Meyers, sidelined all last season with a back injury, strained a ligament in his left knee during a third-quarter collision.

Also uncertain was the status of backup center Harvey Catchings, who did not play because of a bone spur on his left heel.

The injuries were expected to mean more playing time, both at forward and center, for 6-foot-11 Richard Washington, who responded with 21 points, seven rebounds and a blocked shot Tuesday.

The four-year veteran had averaged 5.9 points, with a single-game high of 20, during the regular season.

COACH DON NELSON often uses rookie Pat Cummings as a backup center, but chose Washington instead and let Cummings play forward.

"It is an easy transition to make," Washington insisted. "I knew that Harvey was going to be out, and I knew pretty much what I was going to be called on to do."

Seattle backup center Tom LaGarde was absent with a bum knee, so the Sonics similarly had an alternative: rookie forward James Bailey.

Ballesteros seeks win in Carlsbad

CARLSBAD, CALIF. (AP)—Seve Ballesteros has put his Masters victory behind him.

"It is still in my mind," the brilliant young Spaniard said of the triumph in Augusta, Ga. Sunday that made him the youngest Masters champion in history.

"But when you win, that is past," Ballesteros said after his last practice round for the elite, $300,000 Tournament of Champions that started today.

"You have to look in front, to what is next," he said. "I want to play good in this tournament."

And the 23-year-old Ballesteros, the current British Open titleholder, and the most exciting young player in golf today, has a certain added incentive in this tournament that brings together only the winners of pro golf tour events from the past 12 months.

In his first appearance at the La Costa Country Club two years ago, as the Greensboro Open champ, he led through three rounds. But he played the last 18 holes in a fat 79 and let the title slip away.

"I played very good for three rounds, but bad the last round. I want to try again," he said, and shrugged off any possibility of a letdown in the wake of his Masters victory.

"When you win, you have more confidence. You are more convinced you can win again," Ballesteros said.

He faces major opposition in the person of Tom Watson, the defending champion and outstanding player in the game for the past three years.

"I didn't have much confidence last week, because I wasn't hitting the ball that solid," Watson said. "But I've been working on something on the practice tee, and I think I may have worked it out."

The two ranked as co-favorites for the $54,000 first prize.

Other major contenders in the field of 30 included Lee Trevino, U.S. Open titleholder Hale Irwin, PGA champ David Graham of Australia, who had a very good performance last week in the Masters, Hubert Green and Ray Floyd.

Craig Stadler and John Fought, each a two-time winner in the last year, top a list of a dozen men making their first appearance here. Others are Wayne Levi, Calvin Peete, D.A. Weir, Howard Twitty, Ed Fiori, Curtis Strange, Jeff Mitchell, George Burns, Jack Renner and Doug Tewell.

Also in the field are Chi Chi Rodriguez, Al Geiberger, Jerry McGee, Gil Morgan, Andy Bean, Larry Nelson, Lou Graham, Lon Hinkle, Jim Colbert, Dave Eichelberger and Johnny Miller.

NBC will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

WASHINGTON CONVERTED 10 of 14 from the field, and Milwaukee pulled ahead while he and Bailey were paired.

"It was one of my finest games as a pro," said Marques Johnson, a former UCLA teammate of Washington. "He is the type of player who, once he gets his confidence, his potential is unlimited."

Washington seemed less enthusiastic himself about his performance than about the size of the attendance figure at Seattle's Kingdome—40,172, the largest ever for a professional basketball game.

"I'll be able to tell my grandkids that I played in a game that the most people saw," he said.

Pilot errors cause death of Munson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball star Thurman Munson was showing off his new twin-engine jet plane to two friends when he made a series of mistakes that caused his death in a fiery crash, a federal safety board has concluded.

KENNY REDIN'S Fin & Feather

Requests come in all the time for fishing reports, so we stayed on the phone for more than two hours talking with various marinas and fishing camps around the state to find out what the fishing is like.

We don't do this very often since the fishing picture changes so rapidly on each lake, but since it's still early spring and anglers by the thousands are catching symptoms of "fishing fever," we'll take a look at current fishing conditions.

AMISTAD — Black bass are right on the verge of spawning. Water temperatures throughout most of the lakes are averaging near 60 degrees.

Fishing for the somewhat fidgety spring bass at Amistad seems to be somewhat erratic. There is no certain pattern as to the best areas to catch a limit of blacks.

It seems like the best regions to fish on this Mexico-Texas border reservoir are the areas of Cow Creek, Burro Creek and Zorro Creek.

Crappie fishing in brushy areas has been good on live minnows and samll yellow and white jugs.

POSSUM KINGDOM — This North Texas favorite is now giving up some fine black and white bass catches.

Rocky points and gravel bars are good areas to concentrate your fishing.

The region just east of Costello Island and the area just south of Bailey's Camp have been producing a huge amount of sand-bass in recent days.

They haven't been schooling on top as yet, but locating a school on the graph recorder or depth sounder while bumping a slab off the bottom can easily take up two or three hours of your fishing time.

Water temperature is 61 degrees at a five-foot depth.

E.V. SPENCE — Surprisingly enough, some nice stringers of black bass have been showing in recent days.

Stripers are showing almost every day on the surface and on the bottom, but they are running small.

The largest reported last week was a 14 1/2-pounder taken while trolling a hellbender near the dam.

Crappie in slap-size proportions has also been excellent. Fishing small crappie jigs in the white and yellow colors can fill a 48-quart Igloo ice chest in a matter of hours.

Water temperatures are ranging from 60 degrees near the dam to 64 degrees in the river and creeks.

Hubbard Creek — This lake near Breckenridge is now producing crappie like you wouldn't believe.

However, those catching larger crappie are reportedly fishing brushy areas near deep water with small crappie jigs.

Two-pound, four-ounce barndoor crappie was taken by a Midland man last week.

Crappie fishing is just beginning to improve. Most bass fishing is still being concentrated on in deeper waters by using plastic worms and jigs.

After a period of two to three days of warm weather, some nice catches have been made in the shallow-murky water regions.

Any day now bass fishing on Hubbard should explode.

Twin Buttes — This San Angelo reservoir is giving up its share of white bass and crappie.

Bass fishing has been slow, but the sandies and crappie are taking up the slack.

Both the Concho river systems are best bets to either find crappie or white bass.

Any small artificial bait has been good for white bass and live minnows are the preferred baits for crappie.

Water temperatures are nearing the 60-degree mark and should prompt the blacks into hitting.

Negotiations resume on May 6

NEW YORK (AP) — The two sides negotiating a new labor contract for major league baseball took parting shots Wednesday before beginning a two-week recess.

Instead, it said, he began operating the throttle "as if he were reverting to earlier days when he flew propeller-driven aircraft."

"This is a case of deviation from good, prudent airmanship," said investigator Jim Danhefer.

Board member Francis McAdams commented: "The pilot goofed. He made basic errors and quite a few of them. And when he got into trouble, he didn't know how to handle it."

But McAdams voted against accepting the board's final report, which he said was wrong in "blaming the accident 100 percent on pilot error."

But he was out-voted by the other three members, who agreed with staff investigators that training and experience were not major factors in the crash.

"This was just a case when the pilot disregarded basic procedures," board Chairman James B. King said.

Investigators said that while Munson had only 33 hours flying time in the Cessna Citation, he had logged nearly 500 hours in other planes.

"We thought that the players were ready to make a significant movement but anything they did was insignificant," said Ray Grebey, negotiator for the 26 owners.

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett reported that Wednesday's negotiations had taken a turn for the worse.

"The end of the meeting was less than cordial between the negotiators," Moffett said.

The contract talks, under the cloud of the players' threat to resume their strike of the final week of the exhibition season on May 23 if an agreement has not been reached by the previous night, have been stalled over the matter of free-agency compensation.

"The owners' proposal on compensation was on the table, not the players' proposal," Miller said.

Under the present system, if a team signs a free agent, it must give the players' former club an amateur draft choice.

The owners want to raise that payment to a name player in some circumstances. The players say compensation of that type would restrict player movement.

Miller said that the owners, having been given an additional seven weeks by the players, are "kicking five or six weeks away."

Grebey, on the other hand, said he shares the opinion expressed by Moffett that there is "plenty of time for negotiation" and that the recess would have no negative effect on the bargaining process.

Moffett, however, interjected one bit of optimism into the proceedings: "These same guys are going to meet in Atlanta next Wednesday on the pension plan and who knows?"

MHS, Lee girls seek spot in state golf

LUBBOCK — The District 5-4A champion Midland High girls' golf team today began its quest at the regional tournament for a spot at the state meet.

Among the teams coach Mary Baird's squad must contend with is Midland Lee, runner-up to the Bulldogs for the 5-4A crown.

Both Midland and Lee participated at region last year, but were unable to qualify for state.

Durbin holding lead in PBA tournament

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mike Durbin held a 42-pin lead over Bill Spigner after averaging 230 for the first 16 games of the Professional Bowlers Association's $150,000 Tournament of Champions on Wednesday.

Durbin, a tour veteran from Chagrin Falls, had 3,669 total pins to 3,627 for Spigner of Hamden, Conn.

Wayne Webb of Rehoboth, Mass., was third with 3,558, followed by Gary Dickinson of Fort Worth, Texas, at 3,505 and George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., the defending champion, at 3,501.

Jim Godman of Lorain, two-time winner here, rolled the first perfect game of the tournament, tossing a 300 in his 14th game.

That kept him in the running in 17th place. Mark Roth, the reigning Bowler of the Year, withdrew after the first eight-game block because of a viral infection.

Another eight games of qualifying was to be rolled this afternoon before the field is cut to the 24 high scorers who will go on to three rounds of match play to determine the five bowlers who will compete in Saturday's nationally televised (ABC-TV) finals.

The tournament is sponsored by Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

'Die Fledermaus' to premiere at Theatre

By GEORGIA TEMPLE
Staff Writer

Midland's first locally-produced opera, "Die Fledermaus," will hold its black-tie, $50 per-couple premiere performance April 24 at 7:30 p.m. at Theatre Midland.

Staging and producing an opera is not an easy task and months of hard work have been spent on the production by the cast and conductor, Robert LaFontaine of Midland College.

"Our program (Midland College's fine arts department) had gotten large enough, the talent was available in the community and the interest seemed to be evident," LaFontaine said.

"We recruited as hard as the Midland College coaches for the opera. There is so much musical talent available in the Midland-Odessa area right now — people who are professionals, some who have been professionals and some very talented amateurs."

Lyric soprano Janice Archer and tenor David Baulch are among the featured performers. Mrs. Archer has the role of Rosalinda, the flirtatious wife who discovers her husband's indiscretions, while Baulch has the role of Alfred, Rosalinda's romantic suitor who ends up in jail as a result of his chivalry.

Mrs. Archer, who has a bachelor of arts from Hastings University and a master's degree from the University of Missouri, has been a member and soloist with the Midland-Odessa Symphony Choral for 11 years and a member of the joint board of the Symphony and Choral for two years. She was guest artist at the first Midland College faculty concert and has given three concerts at Odessa College.

She studied at the American Institute of Musical Studies in Graz, Austria, and in Paris, France, with Andre Huc-Santana of the Paris Opera Company. In Dallas, she has sung in master classes under Horst Gunter of Germany and Pierre Bernac of France.

Baulch, a Midland public school teacher, played the role of Joseph in the Permian Playhouse's 1979 production of "Mary of Nazareth" and the role of Kaspar in a university production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

This is not LaFontaine's first venture into the operatic field. His extensive musical background includes serving as music director and composer for the University of Kentucky Educational Television Network.

Prior to coming to Midland College, he served as music director and composer for the University of Kentucky Educational Television Network.

The opera will be sung in English. Tickets, priced at $6 for adults and $4 for full-time students, may be picked up at a special box office at Theatre Midland. Those interested in attending the premiere may call 682-7939 for more information on all of the performances.

Odessa firm gets highway contract

ODESSA — The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has awarded a contract to Jones Bros. Rental Equipment Co., Inc. of Odessa to construct a portion of Loop 250 in Midland.

The project begins at Highway 80 on the west side of Midland and extends northerly along Holiday Hill Road to S.H. 158, a distance of 2.4 miles.

This is the first significant project for the proposed Midland Loop (Loop 250). The existing two-lane roadway (F.M. 1369) is to remain in place and serve as the northbound lanes of the proposed four-lane highway facility.

Janice Archer (Rosalinda) and David Baulch (Alfred) are busy rehearsing for Midland College's production of the comic opera, "Die Fledermaus," which is slated for a black-tie $50 per-couple opening performance April 24 at Theatre Midland at 7:30 p.m. The opera will also be performed April 25-26 at 8 p.m. (Staff Photo)

Busy working here for the "Up With People" stage production set for May 1 at 7:30 p.m. at Chaparral Center, are, from left, Randy Stough of Midland High, Up With People representatives Mikael Peterson of Colorado, Donna Doherty of Massachusetts and Lynn Amos of Alabama, and Suzanne Latch of Lee High. The group is being sponsored by the Midland-Lee Youth Centers as their fund raising event this year. Tickets may be purchased at both Music Haul locations, both youth centers, the Record Center, Chaparral Center and at Flip Side Records in Odessa. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Youth centers to host 'Up With People'

As time draws near for the May 1 "Up With People" stage presentation, three of the company's advance group are in town visiting with community members.

Donna Doherty, Lynn Amos and Mikael Peterson have been busy selling tickets that range in price from $6 for general admission to $50 for a sponsorship. Any group or individual that chooses to buy a sponsor's ticket will have its name included in the production's program plus the knowledge and satisfaction of helping out the Midland-Lee Youth Centers.

The all new two-hour 1979-80 show includes 85 voices backed by a 14-piece band which features a parade of international folk songs and dances, a medley of hit tunes from the past 50 years and a glimpse at the future through the original compositions of this organization's professional staff of writers and arrangers.

This organization is composed of five touring companies which represent 23 countries and have a total of 550 young men and women from the ages of 18 to 26. Members travel an average of 35,000 miles in 11 months.

Since students always stay with host families, they have an opportunity to experience different cultures and to learn a diversity of customs.

For Lynn it was "great to come into a city and find the sponsor so organized. One-half of the families were already found. (Approximately 40 were needed.) It's not always that we find sponsors familiar enough with our program to know what needs to be done."

"Often people confuse us with some type of religious cult," explained Donna. She added that one of their objectives is to dispel this false assumption.

The organization's purpose is to offer young people the opportunity to broaden their knowledge and to be involved with a group geared to offering family entertainment.

'Billy Budd' to highlight final opera

Benjamin Britten's highly-successful opera, "Billy Budd," last broadcast in March of 1979, will highlight the final Texaco-Metropolitan Opera broadcast Saturday at 1 p.m. on KWMJ-Radio.

In the all-male cast will be baritone Richard Stilwell, tenor Richard Cassilly, bass James Morris, baritone Peter Glossop and bass David Zward. Raymond Lepard will conduct.

The intermission, "Opera News on the Air," will feature a preview of next season's opera broadcasts with Alberta Masiello and Richard Waitach at the piano.

The 1980-81 season will start next Dec. 6 with a performance of Verdi's "La Traviata." It will be the 800th Texaco-sponsored Metropolitan Opera broadcast.

Shortage of rice seeds compounds tragedy in Cambodia

By DENIS D. GRAY

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodians, struggling daily to survive after 15 months of war and famine, now face a critical shortage of rice seeds that threatens to prolong their hunger.

International aid officials say it is a "loss-up" whether enough rice seeds can reach Cambodia in the next two months to avert another disastrous harvest and a huge food deficit.

"Even allowing for all the hazards, we are bringing enough food so people won't die in the streets and fields," says one international aid official. "But it will be a very difficult year — many people will be sick and some will die."

Each ton of seed that is not available now will result in the loss of roughly 10 tons of rice at harvest time, an amount that can feed about 20,000 people for a day.

Only if farmers can sow 90,000 tons of seeds before the heavy rains begin in late June and only if Cambodia receives 300,000 tons of food from international agencies during the next seven months will there be enough food to ward off famine until harvest.

Agriculture vice minister Kong Som Ol says there are "a thousand problems" and most of the foreign agencies agree it is almost impossible for all these targets to be met.

Major port congestion, poor road and rail networks, lack of security and technically qualified personnel "at practically every level compound the problem of managing efficiently the food supplies," said Garson Vogel, executive-director of the World Food Program in Rome. WFP is a U.N. agency coordinating the Cambodian relief effort.

Vogel said there has been a drop in the amount of food being given by donor countries. "We foresee that within the next couple of weeks, the supply line continuity will be broken if additional resources were not made available," he said.

The delivery of the seeds is behind schedule. No seeds have arrived yet by sea. A daily airlift into Phnom Penh is to bring only 2,500 tons by the end of April.

It is doubtful that the usual 40,000 tons of residual seed from earlier harvests are available in Cambodia. Some provinces stored seed reserves; other did not. Some farmers have been forced to use part or all of their seed reserves.

The seed and food situation was further worsened by floods, droughts and rat infestations during the dry season harvest earlier this year. Only an estimated 20,000 to 30,000 tons of rice out of an expected 50,000 tons were harvested, and 14 out of 18 provinces got virtually nothing from their fields.

What was to have been a buffer for one or two months instead forced the United Nations to revise its food deficit estimate from an initial 220,000 tons to between 270,000 and 300,000 tons for 1980.

To cover the deficit would mean bringing in 42,800 tons each month, an impossible task under present conditions.

The two major agencies in Cambodia — the International Red Cross and the U.N. Children's Fund — have been consistently optimistic and consistently wrong in both their estimates of Cambodia's needs and the ability of the relief effort to meet them.

Two other key variables in whether Cambodians eat or starve is internal distribution and the capabilities of the farmers.

The distribution system, already riddled with problems, will be hampered by the rainy season when many roads become impassable. Farmers need fertilizers, pesticides and tools — all in short supply.

"I don't think you will see skeletons unless the distribution system breaks down," said a food expert. "All the same you will have a lot of scavenging."

The government that the Vietnamese installed 15 months ago after ousting Pol Pot and his Khmer Rouge regime still depends upon Vietnam's army to remain in power. Its efforts to set up a reliable network of officials in the provinces have been unsuccessful.

MHS CHATTER

Saturday night is 'Prom time'

By TRACE BEEBE, AMY DAVENPORT, BECKY WILSON and ANGELA TOMPKINS

Hey, Hey, Hey! Hear what we have to say. Only six more weeks of school left (five for the super seniors), and there's still a lot happening. Sophs and Juniors, Friday is the last day for registration for next year. Be sure to check with your counselor.

CONGRATULATIONS to the fantastic tennis team which qualified four players for the regional tournament in Lubbock. Lance Armstrong and Richey Hordell placed first and second in district singles. Caroline Kirwan and Karen Farquhar placed second in district doubles. Good luck in the regionals.

Congratulations are in order for David Simmons, James Lary, Jerry Zachary and Jeff Robnett for their outstanding performances at the District Track and Field Meet Friday in Abilene. They are going to "run 'em over" at regionals in Lubbock April 25. Good luck, men.

Also advancing to regionals are the entire speech and drama teams. "Private Lives of the Master Race" soundly defeated competitors in Snyder last week, and the steam engine will not stop until it reaches state in Austin. For the speech team, Anthony Folger and Ralph Kenney took first place in debate; Phillip Coffield won third in prose, and Brandi Byrnes took third in poetry at Abilene. Best of luck to both departments in Lubbock this weekend.

"UP WITH PEOPLE" will be struttin' their stuff May 1 — and that's not too far off. The advance promotion team for UWP arrived last week to start preparations for the rest of the cast. Michael Peterson and Lynn Amos flew in from Colorado and met with Donna Doherty, who has been scheduling a tour for September. The team has been meeting with board members of both Youth Centers and planning strategy for a successful project.

The rest of the cast, approximately 80 members from 11 countries, will arrive April 28. There are five traveling casts, and Cast C will be performing in Midland. Assemblies will be held at both high schools — Midland High April 29 and Lee High April 30. The cast will also perform for some of the nursing homes and will do charity work around Midland before their May 1 performance. Tickets are still available, so everyone hurry and buy them so you won't miss out on the most entertaining evening of your life with "Up with People."

THE YOUTH AGAINST CANCER Organization, a new auxiliary of the American Cancer Society, will have a joint meeting with Lee Monday at 7:30 at Michelle Wheatons' home, 3622 Andrews Highway. Randy Stough is vice president and Page Perry is educational chairman. They are planning a "Walk Day" April 28. If interested meet at McDonalds for breakfast at 9 a.m. They are also planning a car wash on May 3. If you are interested or have any questions, contact Vickie Leaverton (697-2936) or Page or Randy.

Everyone is getting together Saturday for the annual "Christmas in April" project. This includes cleaning, painting and shaping up a house for a family in Midland. To get that good feeling of accomplishment, contact Candy Partlow for more information.

Also be thinking of the heaviest objects you can bring for the "Young Life Weigh-in Contest." The class loaded with the heaviest LBS. wins. This is one week everyone should throw calories to the wind and eat tons of munchies. Come loaded with LBS. to Young Life!

DON'T FORGET the Junior-Senior Prom Saturday. Shadtree is the band; the YC is the place; from 9 to 1 is the time, and best of all, it's FREE. Time is running out, so be sure and get a date. Some of you guys need to pay back certain girls who asked you to a certain party last week.

That's about it for this week. Don't forget: Only six more weeks of school, so everyone hang in there! Tracy, Amy, Becky and Angela

Volcano sends cat climbing to death

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Dinky, the tomcat who scooted 65 feet up a tree near Mount St. Helens began rumbling, is dead. Doctors say he may have been a victim of his volcano terrors.

The 3-year-old black cat attracted national attention after climbing a fir tree near his home in Yale, Wash., on March 27, shortly before the first eruption of the volcano. It took nine days to rescue him from his perch, but he seemed no worse for his ordeal.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Rumor mill forecasts imminent 'nonpolitical' junket to Pennsylvania

By FRANK CORMIER
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Will the coming weekend find President Carter visiting Pennsylvania, just a couple of days before Democrats there hold their key primary?
 The Washington rumor mill has been generating speculation that the president will find some "nonpolitical" reason to go to the Keystone State in advance of the balloting.
 One rumor has it that Carter, who is expected to spend the weekend at Camp David, Md., will go to Pennsylvania to do some fishing.
 Such an outing would not be out of character. An ardent angler, Carter left Camp David unannounced on a number of occasions last year to fish in Pennsylvania waters, just a few miles removed from his Maryland hideaway.
 White House press secretary Jody Powell was asked about a possible pre-primary fishing expedition.

 "I think I could probably guarantee you," Powell said, "that if the president went fishing he would probably fail to inform the press this time as he did last time — which would avoid any implication that this was a politically motivated fishing trip."
 Powell went on to volunteer that his boss "might even go to meet in somebody's house without telling the press."
 Reporters recall that the president last year left Camp David for unannounced trips to private homes in both Pennsylvania and West Virginia. His ostensible purpose was to test public sentiment as he wrestled with a Cabinet shakeup and efforts to set his administration on a new course.
 WHEN CARTER ordered the abrupt break in diplomatic relations with Iran, U.S. law enforcement officers immediately sealed off the Iranian Embassy here and made a thorough search of the premises. There was speculation that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's envoys had cached an arsenal of weapons on the premises.

 One of Carter's top aides was asked what the police really found. Referring to the ban on alcohol observed by Islamic fundamentalists — and harking back to the much-publicized destruction of the booze and wine stocks maintained by the former shah's ambassador here — the White House official said:
 "There were some backsliders there. They hadn't thrown out all the Chivas Regal."
 SEEN AT THE DESK of Ray Jenkins, one of Carter's deputy press secretaries: a campaign button reading, "Nixon Now."
 Asked to explain the presence of this seeming anomaly, Jenkins said the button was "just a memento — a joke."

 Jenkins, a Southern Democrat who until last year was editor of the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser and the Alabama Journal, also has on his office wall a portrait of the patron saint of the Republican Party, Abraham Lincoln.
 POWELL STRODE through his outer office the other day with CIA Director Stansfield Turner in tow. Pointing to two reporters, Powell told the nation's No. 1 spy, without missing a beat, "it's his phone and her phone."
 The CIA chief told newspaper editors last week the agency would, if he and Carter thought it necessary, use reporters as informants.
 The reporters standing outside Powell's office told Turner they would not sign up.
 That's OK, he quipped, "everyone who won't sign up, I leak that you're on our payroll."
