NEWS IN BRIEF

They weren't just clowning

HOUSTON (AP) - Employees at the Houston Postal Credit Union found an impromptu skit by three clowns amusing Friday until the performers pulled guns, hit an assistant manager over the head and fled with a small amount of cash.

"They ran in here like a bunch of circus clowns, dancing and jumping," said William T. Murray, president of the credit union. "I thought it was all a big joke at first.

The joke ended when the suspects, dressed in baggy clothes and wearing masks, pulled a rifle and a sawed-off shotgun and ordered bystanders down on

A rifle discharged when one of the robbers struck assistant manager Otis Graf, 62, in the side of the head with the butt of the gun. The bullet lodged in a nearby wall.

Exports refused

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite the State Department's favorable recommendation, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission refused permission Friday for exports of nuclear fuel and replacement parts to India's Tarapur reactor, and sent the case to President Carter for a final decision.

Carter could overrule the NRC and allow the exports.

The five-member NRC, in a unanimous decision, said "the commission's inability to issue these licenses should not be read as a recommendation one way or the other on the proposed exports.

"Rather, we have found that the particular statutory findings with which the NRC is charged cannot be made. Before permitting a peaceful nuclear export, the NRC is required by the Atomic Energy Act to make sure it will be safeguarded under international rules against diversion into the manufacture of nuclear weapons, and will not be transferred to some other country without U.S. permission.

ARCO charged

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Energy Department on Friday charged the Atlantic Richfield Co. with $107.1 million in petroleum pricing violations in its lengthy investigation of pricing practices by the nation's largest oil companies

The department alleged the violations by ARCO, of Los Angeles, occurred from October 1973 through December 1977.

The allegations are part of the department's nearly 3-year-old investigation of oil company price violations. The agency has alleged that the nation's 15 largest oil firms committed $10 billion in pricing violations between 1973 and 1976

Basques suspected

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Police said gunmen believed to be Basque separatists shot two paramilitary civil guardsmen to death Friday in northern Spain, and in other separate attacks, killed a metalworker and gravely wounded an industrialist.

Two masked men entered a bar in Goizueta, Navarre province, and fired submachine guns at two guardsmen having dinner, police said.

Earlier Friday, gunmen shot and killed the owner of a metal workshop in Zumaya, Guipuzcoa province, and gravely wounded a Michelin tire company executive in the Basque capital of Vitoria.

Man killed

EL CAMPO, Texas (AP) — A 33-year-old crop duster was decapitated Friday when his small plane flew into power lines south of El Campo.

Leonard Edwin Rassmussen of El Campo was pronounced dead at the scene.

The single-engine Cessna apparently flew too close under power lines and became entangled, said Department of Public Safety dispatcher Bob Hart.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A ship believed carrying 300 Cuban refugees sent out a distress signal late Friday night that it was sinking 25 miles northwest of the Cuban port of Mariel, the Coast Guard said.

Coast Guard spokesman Bob Britt said the distress call was relayed shortly before 10 p.m. EST from a ship tied up in Mariel. It was confirmed by other vessels in the area,

Muskie's talks with Gromyko 'inconclusive'

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Edmund S. Muskie lectured Andrei Gromyko publicly on the Afghan occupation Friday, then held a three-hour inconclusive meeting with the Soviet foreign minister.

After their private meeting, with only translators present, the American secretary of state said he hoped for further talks and a "resolution of the differences that exist." He termed the session "serious" and said he and Gromyko discussed a "number of practical problems." Muskie said he would report to President Carter before commenting further.

Earlier Friday, three key Western foreign ministers told Muskie the European Common Market will not impose full economic sanctions against Iran this weekend, it was learned.

Jean Francois-Poncet of France, Hans Dietrich Genscher of West Germany and Britain's Lord Carrington did not specify how the nine-member group will dilute the sanctions it decided last month to impose in a joint effort with the United States toward freeing American hostages held in

The ministers told Muskie they are not convinced putting off trade will help gain release of the hostages.

At the Vienna airport, as he prepared to depart for home, Muskie, 66, said "We were very frank and candid with each other in a relaxed way. No tension. We both made some pretty frank statements and I hope it is useful. I think my expectations were not too high. I can say the talks served the purpose I thought they would."

Muskie's plane left Vienna at 9:50 p.m. (3:50 p.m. EDT) for Maine where he planned to give speak this weekend at his daughter's graduation at the University of Maine. Gromyko told reporters he and Muskie "discussed international questions, including some important ones. Obviously, on all issues we dif-

The session was the first high-level Washington-Moscow contact since Russian troops entered Afghanistan last December. The troops helped overthrow one pro-Moscow regime and install another, and have been aiding Afghan troops since in fighting Moslem rebels.

Hours before they met at Vienna's Hofburg Palace, Muskie gave a speech at Austria's independence celebration, sharply attacking the Russian military action in Afghanistan. While Gromyko sat only feet away, Muskie accused the Soviet Union of threatening world security.

On the 25th anniversary of Austria's postwar independence, Muskie told the Soviets the Red Army's intervention is "a lesson from the past" and a re-enactment of World War II aggres-

Israeli gunboats again hit Lebanon

By The Associated Press

Israeli forces attacked Palestinian targets in southern Lebanon with helicopter and gunboats for the second time in a week and Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Isreal and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt staged a verbal duel Friday over the breakdown of talks on Palestinian auton-

The Israeli attacks late Thursday night killed 11 persons and wounded 17, officials said. An official spokesman in Sidon, the southern provincial capital, said seven guerrillas from the pro-Syrian Saiqa party were killed by a "booby-trapped" radio left by an Israeli raiding party. Four guerrillas were reported wounded.

A 35-year-old Lebanese man died when the cement truck he was driving was hit by rockets near the village of Kfarwa, 10 miles north of Israel's northern Galilee panhandle, the spokesman said.

Israeli naval guns bombarded the port city of Tyre, 30 miles west of Kfarwa and 12 miles north of the Israeli border, and the nearby Palestinian refugee camps of Rashidiyeh, el Bass and Bourj el Shimali, a spokesman for the governor of Tyre said. One Palestinian man and two women were killed, and 10 persons were wounded, the spokesman said.

Israeli military officials said the raids were a "preventive action" to disrupt guerrilla preparations for attacks on Israel.

Lebanese Prime Minister Salim el-Hoss condemned the attacks as "new evidence of Israel's arrogance and defiance of U.N. resolutions and international principle.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Thomas Reston said cross-border operations in either direction do nothing to solve the problems of the area and "merely increases bloodshed and suffering in an already tense region.

Also Friday, Palestinian guerrillas and Lebanese Christian militia forces exchanged heavy fire, and Israeli border troops lobbed artillery shells at guerrilla targets to help their Christian allies, an army spokesman in Tel Aviv said

The spokesman said the Christian enclaves of Klieyia and Marjayoun were hit hard by Palestinian gunners, and Israeli troops on the Israel-Lebanon frontier fired on Palestinian targets about nine miles northwest of the border. It was not known if there were casualties.

The Thursday night raids came a day after three Palestinian guerrillas infiltrated into northern Israel in an attempt to attack the upper Galilee kibbutz of Hanita. Israeli troops killed all three.

They also came within hours of a sudden reversal by Sadat, who said he would suspend Egypt's participation in the talks on Palestinian self-rule in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

Begin said Sadat's reversal was "incomprehensible," and that the 'surprise postponement' of the talks would not budge Israel from its position that Jerusalem is its "capital city, an indivisible city.

Sadat said Wednesday that Egypt was willing to rejoin the negotiations even though he felt the gap on basic issues was "formidable." But after a top level strategy meeting Thursday, Sadat changed his mind and the verbal duel with Begin began.

On Friday, Sadat told reporters he reversed his position because of a proposal in the Isreali Parliament that would make the Arab sector of Jerusalem a part of the capital of the Jewish state. He said that development "undermined" the atmosphere for reaching a "just" settlement.

Sadat added that he had dispatched urgent messages to Begin and to

New elections called after surprising Japanese vote

TOKYO (AP) — A stunning no-confidence vote Friday against the ruling Liberal Democratic Party threw Japan's usually-steady political scene into disarray and prompted the prime minister to call new elections for the second time in eight months.

The vote in the lower house of the Diet, or parliament, was the biggest victory in 27 years by the political opposition, in this case a coalition spearheaded by the Socialist Party against the faction-torn Liberal Democratic Party that has ruled Japan almost continously since World War

Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, 70, who was foreign minister, finance minister and international trade minister before taking over as prime minister two years ago, was faced with a choice of resigning or calling new elections

Ohira chose to call elections apparently hoping they would allow him to hold on to the party leadership and the prime minister's chair. By law, elections must be held within 40 days of the dissolving of the parliament. That must be accomplished within 10

The no-confidence vote is not likely to cause any major or immediate changes in Japan's foreign policy or its relations with the United States. Japan recently endorsed the European Common Market's position on applying further sanctions against Iran unless there is "decisive progress" by May 17 toward release of the 53 Americans held hostage in Iran since Nov. 4. Japan also supports the United States' call for a boycott of the 1980 Olympics in Moscow to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan

But the main bilateral issue between the United States and Japan the U.S. demand that Japan increase its defense spending to more than .09 percent of its gross national product - could prove sticky if the Tokyo government should change hands in Ohira's government has expressed concern over an increasing Soviet military presence in the Western Pacific and Asia but so far has not decided whether to increase military spending to bolster its own defenses.

The defense spending issue was one of the complaints aired against Ohira's government in the pre-voting debate. Other charges were that his party had failed to deal with inflation and welfare needs and had ignored corruption at high levels of the government.

Of Japan's political parties, only the minority communists are openly opposed to alliances with the United

The no-confidence vote began as a move by the Socialist Party to mobilize support for an election of the Diet's upper house already set for

Some members of his own party had demanded internal party reforms since the Oct. 7 election in which Ohira gambled for greater power and

Ohira angered Fukuda and others

by refusing to resign as party leader and prime minister to accept responsibility for the debacle that left the party depending on independent conservatives for control of the lower Embarrassed by October election fiasco, Ohira suffered heavily from within its ranks Friday. Kyodo news service said 73 LDP members failed to vote and they caused Ohira to lose by a margin of 56 votes. The party has a one-vote margin in the 511-seat lower house.

As a glum Ohira conceded defeat, the principal rival within his party, former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda, said many of his followers favored forming a new political party to replace the LDP.

Flooding continues in Louisiana

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) -More than 20 inches of rain Friday produced the worst flooding in 40 years in sections of southern Louisiana, leaving at least three people dead, more than 1,500 in evacuation centers and water standing eight feet deep in some homes.

About 1,000 people crowded into the Lake Charles Civic Center and two other Calcasieu Parish centers, some after wading through waist-deep water from their homes.

Scattered showers continued to soak the area Friday night and the National Weather Service warned of more flash floods throughout the area through the night.

"It's the worst we've had since 1940," said Carencro Fire Chief Carroll Gilbeau. "We had anywhere from two to eight feet of water in the Hardest hit were two pockets surrounding Lake Charles and Lafayette, communities about 75 miles apart.

No serious injuries were reported in Lake Charles, a city of 78,000 in the state's southwestern corner, where the storms knocked out telephone service to half the city and electrical service to a quarter of the homes, and brought most traffic to a standstill.

The first storm-related death occurred Thursday night, Vermilion Parish authorities said, when Lionel Guidry, 58, of Gueydan, drowned while fishing when his boat capsized in choppy Mallard Bay.

Mrs. Robert Moniott Jr., 24, was fatally injured when a tornado spun through New Roads in Pointe Coupee Parish in south-central Louisiana and wrecked her house trailer.

At Crowley, where a foot of rain fell in 12 hours, a 13-year-old boy — whose identity was not released - drowned when his makeshift raft was swamped in a flooded drainage ditch. A playmate escaped.

More than 300 evacuations also were reported in Crowley and two other Acadia Parish communities, Estherwood and Morse. Police said evacuations began at 4 a.m. in the Crowley area and were continuing Friday night.

Officially, the Lake Charles area measured more than 16 inches of rain during a 24-hour period ending at 7 p.m. Friday. But Gov. David Treen said at a news conferencehe had reports of 20 or more inches of rain in Louisiana's southwest corner and that was by midday.

Fair weekend weather forecast

The rain's gone, at least for a

So far, Midland has had 1.68 inches of rain this month and 3.32 inches this year, but according to the National Weather Service, it should be fair skies through Sunday with the high back up into the mid-80s

The forecast calls for a low tonight in the mid-50s and southwesterly winds at 10 to 20 mph today.

Friday's high was 78 degrees and the overnight low for Friday was 46. The record high for Friday is 100 degrees set in 1946. The record low for today is 47 set in 1932.

Among the treasures at Bawcom's Roundup Antique Show is the goose that laid the golden egg. Shayne Canterbury, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Dealers gather for antique show with treasures of varied price

By ED TODD Staff Writer

"You name it; we have it," antique show promoter Ethel Bawcom boasted with the drummer's perennial cli-

'We've got a bunch (25) of firstclass dealers.

And the merchandise, ranging from $1.75 Duke's cigarette buttons to $3,-200 for a Royal Flemish gold-inlay vase and $6,800 for a French bronze sculpture, seemed highfalutin' in price and, the dealers suggest, almost unrivaled in quality.

The weekend show in the downtown Midland Center is several cuts above your run-of-the mill flea market and garage sale.

Dallas antique dealer Len Tunnell likened the show to a museum. "They (antique-browsers) come to look and study," he said. "It's like going to a museum. You don't have to go to Dallas or New Orleans, where they have museums" to view antiques.

"(Here) you get an education for a lousy two bucks." Tunnell said of the admission price. "You don't have to buy anything.

"But we appreciate it if you do." tacked on Mrs. Bawcom. She and her husband, Elvin, who hail from Muldrow, Okla., put together the show they call "Bawcom's Round-Up THOUGH THE HUNDREDS of rare and expensive items on display are tagged with asking prices, the price doesn't necessarily reflect the value. "There's really no price on an antique," Tunnell, 63, contended. "It's worth what you can sell it for.' Silver dealer Sam Pate of Dallas wouldn't argue with that. "I don't try to rob anybody," said

Pate, who was offering sterling silver trays for sale well below what he termed the "retail price." An English tray, affixed with a $5,500 tag, should retail for $18,000, he said, and another, an American tray bearing a $6,500 price, should retail for $16,000, he said. He counts on a high turnover of merchandise to stay in business. The prices are ridiculously low."

Dealers, who may start their antique business as pure collectors, occasionally are reluctant to sell some of their finds. Odessa furniture refinisher Bill Payne hinted that he sometimes find it painful to part with a treasure. You can tell that by some of the prices," he said. He and his wife, Wanda, were willing to part with a Windsor chair for $125. The couple also put up for sale an old wooden Edwards & Walker Co. rotary churn, which still bore its original gimmick "No. 1 Improved" marking on one side "I guess they were improving things back then, too," Mrs. Payne said, alluding to advertising pitches. DOROTHEA HARDIN, a Royse

City antique dealer who specializes in Wedgwood china, porcelain and jasper ware, said she had rather sell than collect.

"No, we (she and her husband, Prim) hate not to part with them (antiques)." She was offering an English Wedgwood & Bentley basalt urn for $3,500 and a Notre Dame University calling-card glass holder for $37.50. 'It's just a little inexpensive item."

And, unlike some traveling dealers. she doesn't hesitate to take personal checks in exchange for her Wedgwood and Wedgwood & Bentley wares and her Oriental bronze sculptures. "We have to stay in business, and you can't stay in business if you don't take checks," she said matter-of-fact-

ANOTHER DEALER, Jack Gregory of Tulsa, Okla., is a collector who doesn't try to market all of his an-

"There are some (things) you don't part with, and they end up at home.' Retired Fort Worth physician

George Pease was willing to part nograph with the Morning Glory "They're very saleable," he said.

Don Wagner, an Amarillo dealer, set up his wares of iron play toys and Oriental cherry amber (resin) figurines, including a $2,400 God of Longevity and a chipped Buddha, near displays of washboards and soft-drink and beer signs, and spinning wheels. "I haven't got any toys (to speak of)," he said. "They just about cleaned me out of toys" up in the Panhandle city.

UP FRONT, at the entrance to the exhibit, Midlander Larry Hatfield. who specializes in nostaglic items pumps, was most willing to sell a 1937 electric Wayne gasoline pump with the Texaco logo for $850, a 1957 Seeburg juke box for the same price, and a 1948 Rock-Ola juke box, which "won't play unless you put some buf-falo nickels in it," for $2,200.

The old nickelodeons, in particular, strike his fancy.

"Those old juke boxes were made to play real high and rattle the wood floor and shake up the rats," Hatfield Houston antique dealer Ben Ward had a gimmick all figured out to bring to the show but forgot it.

"I forgot to bring some old stuff to drop," he said. "Nothing draws a crowd at an antique show like the sound of something breaking."

Across the exhibit from Ward were sisters Edith Zimmerman of Hot. Springs, Ark., and Erma Titsworth of Snyder. They were readying their expensive glassware for sale at the right prices.

"Midland's a pretty good town," said the sister from Snyder. "When it boomed, it stayed boomed.'

And the antique dealers obviously plan on cashing in on the prosperity

Fire raged Friday in Iran's major oil producing region after a pipeline was blown up and set aflame, Tehran Radio said, in an area where Arab rebels have been fighting for auton-

The radio, quoting an official Pars news agency report, said the pipe between Naft-e-Shah and Kermanshah was blown overnight and workers immediately shut it down and waited for the flames to subside before beginning repairs. Despite firefighting efforts the blaze continued Friday, it said. Iran's rich oil fields are in the re-minority lives. They and members of other minorities in mostly Persian Iran had expected the new regime to give them more regional independence after the 1979 revolution. When that failed to happen they began a struggle against the central government that has continued sporadically

That has led to sabotage in the oil fields in Khuzestan Province. Earlier this month the rebellion was carried to London, where Iranian Arabs seized the Iranian Embassy, took hostages, and held out for six days before British commandos crushed foreign ministers told U.S. Secretary of State Edmund S. James Edward Jonas, 19, indicted Wednesday for the aggravated robbery that day of Jonas' brother-in-law and business partner, Gary Epting, 23, voluntarily turned themselves over to sheriff's deputies Friday

The two, at large since Wednesday morning, were being held in Midland County Jan late Friday in lieu of posting $70,000 in bonds on charges orized use of a motor vehicle.

Bonds on each were set at $25,000 on the robbery charge and $10,000 on the unauthorized use of Epting's pickup truck. The abandoned pickup was found by Andrews County deputies later Wednesday morning east of Andrews. Epting told sheriff's deputies that the two robbed him at gunpoint of approximately $500 in $20 bills, as he was driving them to a constructionwork site in north Midland. Later, after the two had driven Epting farther north to a caliche pit on the George Glass Ranch in Martin County, one of the two fired off four of aggravated robbery and unauth- pistol rounds as Epting ran to the highway and flagged down a ride into town. He was not injured in the incident.

Ms. Driver was a hired worker for Epting and his partner.

Schoolgirl killer gains freedom

LONDON (AP) — Pretty, pixie-like Mary Bell was a 10-year-old schoolgirl when she was charged with strangling two toddlers in her hometown of Newcastle-on-Tyne in northeastern England.

Tried as an adult at age 11 and convicted of manslaughter, she spent part of her childhood, all of her adolescence and her first years of womanhood behind bars, in a prison system ill-prepared to deal with a child inmate.

But on Wednesday, the now 22year-old Mary Bell was released on probation. At question is how much she has changed in 11 years.

"She has in fact become a test case for the system," said Gitta Sereny, a Sunday Times reporter and author of "The Case of Mary Bell."

"Will the treatment she received enable her to lead a normal life? This is, indeed, what Mary Bell will have to teach us: whether it is possible and right to nurture a human being into adulthood under such conditions.'

A normal life may be hard to come by for Mary Bell. She became notorious when she went on trial on 1968, and relatives of her young victims don't want her back in their town.

The body of 4-year-old Martin Brown was found May 25, 1968. That of 3-year-old Brian Howe was found two months later. Both had been strangled. Mary and another girl were charged with murder.

At her trial, during which she admitted killing one boy by accident but denied murdering the other, she was asked if she knew what would happen if a child's throat were squeezed.

'Yes, he would die," Mary replied calmly. "I know because I watched. 'The Saint' (a popular television

The trial lasted nine days. On Dec. 17, 1968, Mary was cleared of murder charges but convicted of manslaughter. The other girl was acquitted.

Detaining her "indefinitely" — up to life in prison — Justice Sir Ralph Cusack said Mary had killed the boys "solely for the pleasure and excitement of murder. This girl is dangerous, and therefore steps must be taken to protect other people."

Psychiatrists at the trial described Mary as "a psychopath" with an "unsocialized, manipulative personality." But British officials made the controversial decision to place her in a penal institution rather than a mental hospital. Authorities quickly realized, how-ever, they had no suitable place to confine a young girl. She went first to Red Bank Boys' Institution, where from February 1969 to November 1973 she lived in a specially created "girls' unit" including a flower-filled private room. She was schooled in the company of 22 teen-age boys.

At the age of 16½, Mary was remanded to Styal Women's Prison with inmates twice her age.

"I can't understand why they moved me to a place like this," Mary wrote to her mother in 1973. "They say they are adjusting me to living with women but THESE type of women surely can't be a good influence upon anyone.

"They have to realize one day that I'm human, that I'm sorry and that jump at Fort Bragg. living with my own damned conscience is enough punishment for

In the early 1970s, Mary underwent puberty, but her budding maturity only made her more depressed at how much she was missing. She wrote a poem, part of which reads, "No one will ever know the pain, the lonely days ... Just dying every second, wasting my life away."

Despite making "considerable progress" and getting transferred in June 1977 to Moor Court, an "open prison" where she could sunbathe. watch TV and earn money from light cut the static line."

"She enjoyed herself, and I'm glad," Mrs. Bell was quoted as saying in an interview. "She hadn't had much to enjoy for the past nine vears.'

Mary asked the Home Office, which manages prisoners and probation, to parole her despite the escape. "I am shut away and I have never experienced any life. ... I have never been anywhere or done anything. I decided I wanted to make a break for it even if it was only for a few hours. ... I just

That may be some of the most useful preparation she has received.

Innocent plea entered in parachute murder

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) - An Army private entered a plea of innocent Friday to a murder charge stemming from the death of an officer whose parachute failed to open.

Pfc. Alvin Williams, a 20-year-old parachute rigger, is accused of sabotaging a parachute worn by Capt. Lawrence D. Hill, who fell to his death March 26 when his parachute failed to open during a routine

Famous names seen on hotel's guest list

By STEVE K. HINDY ALEPPO, Syria (AP) — Mystery

writer Agatha Christie could not have dreamed of a more provocative cast of characters than haunts Aleppo's Baron's Hotel, one of the more notable watering holes on the tracks of the Orient Express.

When the author of "Murder on the Orient Express" signed the leatherbound guest register at the blue-shuttered, stone Baron's a few years ago, BUY QUALITY - BY WHIRLPOOL . BUY QUALITY - BY WHIRLPO she doubtless took note of previous guests — T.E. Lawrence (of Arabia), Iraqi King Faisal, aviator Charles Lindbergh, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Cardinal Spellman and

There have been no murders here. But the narrow, arched entrance to the Baron's, barely wide enough to admit proprietor Krikor Mazloumian's battered '58 Chevy station wagon, has seen royalty, generals. millionaires, writers, diplomats, peace makers and astronauts in its 69 years.

Even today's visitors to this 4,000year-old city spurn more modern accommodations for the Baron's ma-hogany-paneled dining room, its brass chandeliers and doorknobs, Oriental carpets and arched doorways flanked by stone columns — all of which recall a day, barely 30 years ago, when guests used to shoot ducks in the gardens outside.

Born the year before the hotel was opened in 1911, Mazloumian remembers seeing Lawrence and many other great Baron's guests.

"I think a lot of these people came through Aleppo because the Orient Express used to split into two parts here: the better half went to Baghdad and the other to Beirut," said Mazloumian, a natty dresser with a British wife and a British accent.

Gene Tunney passed through Aleppo in the late '20s, on the trail of an automobile expedition to Peking.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - It could very well be a grandmas' convention — there is a door prize for the most grandkids. But the grandmothers meeting here once made up the first Women's Army Corps company to go on active duty in World War II.

It was almost 38 years ago when the 150 young enlisted women and three officers marched off (a troop train here to go on active duty at Fort Sam

They quickly took over jobs as truck drivers, clerical workers, librarians and warehouse employees — anything to free men soldiers for combat.

Tens of thousands of women later followed them into the Army, but in late 1942, these new women soldiers were a novelty. Their arrival received wide press coverage. McCall's Magazine even sent a writer to San Antonio to feature the new women

'We were guinea pigs from the start," said former Capt. Arlene See, 71, of Little Rock, Ark., the company's last living officer. "Whenever a celebrity or a dignitary came to town, we had to fall out and march for them because we were such a novelty. We blazed the trail.'

'We were a curiosity. Our first parade was around the Alamo, and a lot of people came out just to see what our uniforms looked like. We created a lot of excitement," said former Staff Sgt. Afton Leishman May, 60, of Bremerton, Wash.

The whims of war quickly began scattering the 30th Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Post Headquar-

Some, like Staff Sgt. Rosemary Blakely Zule and Staff Sgt. Maizelle Coleman Ford went overseas. Others were also transferred. Some departed in the 1943 transition, when the WAAC became the WAC and an official part of the armed services.

Most of the members of that first company hadn't seen each other in more than 35 years - until Staff Sgt. Blakely went to work over a year ago on a possible reunion.

'We had never really kept in touch all these years. A few exhanged Christmas cards, but when I started, I only had the addresses of six members of the company," said Staff Sgt. Blakely, now 64-year-old Rosemary Zule of Temple, Texas.

"I didn't see how it could be done, but I just jumped in head first. We had put out a yearbook in 1947, listing their addresses then. So I just wrote all of them at those addresses. Of course, I got a lot of letters back," she added. She then wrote the women's neighbors, high school alumni societies, hometown libraries and finally to Almost 80 made it to the reunion, coming from all over the nation.

El Paso gas prices lowest

HOUSTON (AP) - El Paso made a clean sweep of the latest American Automobile Association survey of Texas gasoline prices and availability.

El Paso had the lowest price averages for all six grades of motor gasoline, ranging from a low of $1.101 for self-service regular to a high of $1.194 for full-service premium.

McAllen had the highest averages for four grades.

Austin was high for self-service premium, but Houston had the highest average of all, $1.252 for full-ser-

Almost all of the women are now over 60. Frances Atwood Holderman of San Antonio was nearing 50 in 1942 and barely qualified for World War II service. Even though she's now 83, she was at the reunion Thursday swapping war stories.

The women spent much of Friday at Fort Sam Houston, eating Army chow at the mess hall and touring the women's barracks with modern Army They'll take part Saturday in Armed Forces Week activities at the post. At least one plans to wear her old WAC uniform, but Mrs. Ford noted, "Most of us couldn't get into our uniforms after 35 years.'

These World War II-era women soldiers never ventured closer than a dozen miles to combat.

Mrs. Ford was on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff in Manila, but always stayed 17 miles behind the lines. Mrs. Zule once was in a plane over New Guinea and could see the flashes of artillery below.

But these one-time WACs have some very definite opinions about whether today's young women should be drafted and put into combat.

"I think women are too unstable to-go into combat. I'm against the Equal Rights Amendment. We're the weaker sex," said Mrs. Ford. "Under pressure, a woman isn't stable enough for combat.'

"I'm dead set against it," said Mrs. May. "The men would have to spend more time protecting the women," said Miss See. "If there is a war, women will volunteer as before. They should not be

But the flery Mrs. Zule argued, "I'm ready to go into combat tomorrow if they'd take me. They won't, of course. I'm 64 years old. But I believe women should be in combat, absolutely."

Summit Venture pilot testifies as disaster inquiry continues

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A slight mist filled the air about an hour before the freighter Summit Venture slammed into the Sunshine Skyway Bridge, sending at least 35 people plunging to their deaths, the vessel's pilot testified Friday.

Two other veteran harbor pilots guiding ships in the area the morning of May 9 said a vicious squall with hurricaneforce winds and whipping rain came up suddenly, blanking out

A bus and seven vehi-cles plunged 150 feet into Tampa Bay when the freighter hit the skyway, collapsing 1,400 feet of the bridge. Only one man who went into the water

Pilot John Lerro, 37, appeared before a Marine Board of Inquiry, testifying for 15 minutes and describing what happened up to the time he began guiding the Summit Venture.

He was to return to the stand Saturday to continue testifying.

Also Friday, the St. Petersburg Evening Independent quoted two rea blinding thunderstorm before striking the bridge. Lerro testified he arrived on the ship at 6:30 a.m. and had checked the weather and made a visual survey of shipping traffic before boarding pilot boat at 5:45 a.m. for the ride to the freighter. The Summit Venture was headed into Tampa for a load of phosphate.

Asked about the weather, he said, "There was a slight mist in the air. I could see Mullet Key right across from Egmont Key.' John J. Schiffmacher, 54, pilot of the tanker Pure Oil, told the board the weather was so bad 'the radar blanked out completely. 'We couldn't see the bridge. We couldn't see the buoys. We couldn't see anything. It was one big blur," he said.

Schiffmacher said he ordered his 550-foot ship to drop anchor east of the bridge because of the hurricane-like conditions at 7:30 a.m. - about the time the freighter hit the bridge.

Mortgage holders: Renegotiate with care

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Homebuyers who took out mortgages at record interest rates earlier this month — only to watch the rates take a nosedive — don't have to suffer through years of high monthly payments.

.They can renegotiate their loans — taking out new mortgages at the lower rates now in effect and repaying their original debts ahead of

The process is complicated, however, and penalties and other costs can make the switch expensive.

Among the factors to consider are:

-How big a prepayment penalty will you have to pay? The amount varies from state to state; some states prohibit penalties completely; others allow substantial ones. Housing experts also say that because the recent drop in interest rates has been so sharp, some lenders are waiving the penalties. -What sort of new charges will you face? Settlement costs - including loan origination fee, possible transfer taxes, etc. — can add up to thousands of dollars. Even if you are negotiating with the lender who holds your original mortgage, the transaction may be considered as a brand new deal; the same costs that applied the first time are added on to -How long do you plan to stay in the house? If you plan to move after a year or two, the difference in interest rates may not be big enough to offset the penalties and new settlement costs. If you plan to stay put for 20 or 30 years, you probably will want a new loan. But you have to weigh the possibility that the rates may keep going down — in which case you would save more by waiting a while longer.

"Add those numbers up and see whether it's worth it," advised Betsy Qutb of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

The rise — and fall — in mortgage rates has been steep and swift. According to figures from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the average rate being quoted on mortgages during April was 161/4 percent. By the early days of May, lenders in many areas were quoting interest rates of 17 percent and 18 percent and they often were reluctant to grant mortgages at any price.

Now, however, rates have fallen by about 4 percentage points. Lenders in some places are quoting interest rates below 13 percent.

The drop in the interest rate makes a big difference in the monthly payment. According to the U.S. League of Savings Association, the monthly payment for interest and principal on a 17 percent, 30-year mortgage for $60,000 is $855.41. The same mortgage at 13½ percent would carry a monthly payment of $687.25 — a difference of $168.16 a month or more than $10,000 over only five years.

"With this big a difference (in interest rates), it would be worthwhile for some people to refinance," said Dick Peach of the National Associa-

Thomas Parliament, an economist with the savings association group, agreed. He also said that there are indications lenders are waiving penalties. In cases, where final agreements have not been signed, Parliament said, lenders often are not holding borrowers to previously agreed-on high rates.

Worst yet to come, experts say

WASHINGTON (AP) - Downhill plunges in factory production and housing construction reported Friday suggest that economic conditions around the nation — including unemployment - will get much worse before they get better, economic experts

Industrial production last month slumped 1.9 percent as recessionary weakness continued to spread from the already hard-hit automobile and construction industries to other man-

The drop was the largest since a 2.2 percent decline in February 1975, during the last recession, and followed dips of 0.7 percent in March and

0.2 percent in February. Meanwhile, Commerce Department reported that housing starts fell 2.1 percent in April to an annual rate

It was the seventh consecutive month of decline, though considerably more moderate than March's 22 percent drop, and left home construetion 42 percent below its April 1979

Building permits issued — an indicator of future housing activity - fell a precipitous 14 percent to an annual 800,000 units after dropping 18 percent

Both construction and permit figures were the lowest since the spring of 1975, during the last recession.

An annual-rate figure shows how many homes would be built in a year if the construction pattern of a single month were continued for 11 more months.

The construction drop was not as bad as home builders had predicted. Merrill Butler, president of the National Association of Home Builders, speculated earlier in the day that home construction starts in April might have dropped to a record low of Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the home builders, said he did not think the government's April figure was on target.

'It doesn't make sense from what we know from the field, which is that construction activity all but stopped,"

He predicted two more months of decline before construction levels

The declines in manufacturing and housing industries came after recent reports that retail sales slumped for the third consecutive month in April. All signal rough sledding ahead for the economy.

Robert Gough, director of national forecasting for Data Resources Inc., said the toll would be taken on em-

"First over-time hours are cut, then part-time workers are laid off," Gough said in a telephone interview from his office in Lexington, Mass. "The next step is layoffs for primary employees.

He predicted that unemployment would rise from 7 percent in April to more than 8.5 percent by next year. That would translate to an increase of more than 1.5 million jobless persons over April's 7.3 million unemployed. Unemployment already is at ex-tremely high levels in the auto and housing industries.

U.S. auto companies reported Friday that they expect more than 217,-000 workers to be on indefinite layoff next week after the poorest sales performance in early May in more than two decades. An additional 72,-300 workers will be on temporary layoffs, the automakers said.

And Butler said unemployment in the home-building industry is "approaching 25 percent.

Leon Taub, an officer at Chase Econometrics in Bala Cynwyd, Pa., predicted that "we won't see industrial production begin rising for at least four to five months, and then only if there is a tax cut."

Both Gough and Taub are predicting that this year's recession will be the worst in the post-World War II era except for the 1974-75 downturn.

President Carter and Congress so far have rejected cutting taxes to stimulate the faltering economy, saying that such a move would hurt efforts to fight inflation by balancing next year's federal budget.

The administration, in fact, is sticking with its March forecast that the recession will be short and mild with unemployment rising to only 7.2 percent by year/s end.

Most of the problems showing up in the economy today had their genesis in October, when the Federal Reserve board began moving to fight inflation by tightening up on the nation's money supply and credit.

Business and home loan rates hit record-high levels before beginning to ease in recent weeks as demand fell. On Friday, banks nationwide cut their prime lending rates by one percentage point to match the 161/2 percent rate set earlier in the week by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. The prime — the minimum rate banks charge on loans to their most creditworthy corporate customers — does not apply to consumer loans, but is considered an indicator of interest rate trends

The lower business and home loan rates are expected to begin encouraging some companies and individuals to step up their borrowing - and thus their spending — to help stimulate the

But this will have to occur within the restraints of the credit control program enacted by the Federal Reserve in March.

Although many analysts predict that inflation will slow dramatically toward year's end, it still is likely to remain in double digits.

New construction rate still falling

WASHINGTON (AP) - New home construction fell up. For the entire year, starts will come to slightly for the seventh consecutive month in April to an annual rate of 1,019,000 units, 42 percent below last year's level, the government said Friday.

The 2.1 percent decline in April was not nearly as severe as the month before, when private housing starts plunged 22 percent, the Commerce Department said.

Construction of single-family homes fell only 1.6 percent in April, the department added.

However, there were strong indications the housing slump will get even worse in the next few months, and economists for the hation's home builders were highly skeptical of the Commerce Department fig-

"It doesn't make sense from what we know from the field, which is that construction activity has all but stopped," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders.

Merrill Butler, president of the home builders, had predicted that starts would fall to an annual rate for the month as low as 800,000, which would be the worst mark since World War II.

The government figures showed that housing permits declined much more drastically than starts. Permits in April were issued at an 800,000 annual

"That's a very sharp, exceedingly sharp" decline for the second month in a row," Sumichrast said. "It means that future construction activity will be lower, no question about that."

The home builders predict there will be two more months of declining construction before starts pick over 1 million units.

That compares with 1.75 million starts last year and more than 2 million units in 1978. Builders estimate they must construct 2.3 million units to keep up with demand.

Lawrence Simons, assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, said, "We knew that the decline in housing starts had not yet bottomed

"However, we expect that to happen shortly. By mid-summer, I expect to see an upturn and I anticipate we will finish the year with a housing starts figure of between 1.2 and 1.3 million," he said. Simons said he was encouraged by the fact that interest rates have dropped dramatically, opening the housing market to many more families.

The interest rate on Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgages dropped 1.5 percentage points Thursday to 11.5

April's annual construction and permit rates were the lowest since 1975, when the nation was in its last

Starts in February of that year actually fell to an annual rate of 904,000. For the year, only 1.160 million units were built, a low mark that could be broken ing industry, Butler said. About 25 percent of the industry's workforce has been laid off, and many contractors are very close to bankruptcy, he

The slump is being felt throughout the nation. Comparing April 1980 with April 1979, starts were off 25 percent in the Northeast, 55 percent in the North Central U.S., 30 percent in the South and 54 percent in the West, the government said. During the first four months of this year, 330,000 housing units were started, compared with 486,700 units for the same period in 1979, aa 32 percent decline, figures show.

The current housing slump is the direct result of tight monetary and credit policies adopted by the Carter administration and Federal Reserve Board to fight inflation.

Since these policies were adopted last October, mortgage rates have risen to as high as 18 percent in some parts of the country.

In recent weeks, as the economy was enveloped by recession, these rates have fallen sharply to as low as 12.5 percent.

rate, 14 percent less than in March. this year, builders say. The Commerce Department also reported that starts during the last recession never fell for more than two consecutive months, compared with the 7-month slide this time around. The current trend spells catastrophe for the hous-

Clements favors hearings in choosing prison site

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements said Friday that state facilities — such as prisons — should not be built in communities that do not want them.

He said he wants the State Board of Corrections to hold public hearings in Starr County to gauge local sentiment about the proposed purchase of La Casita Farm for a new prison site.

Starr County officials are fighting the Board of Corrections' decision to buy La Casita. Clements is chairman of the Prison Approval Board that voted April 22 for a 30-day delay in the proposed $7.8 million purchase.

The Approval Board meets here next Thursday to again consider the purchase of the 5,293-acre farm.

"I am of a mind that state agencies really should not be put in areas, counties, municipalities and so forth where they are not wanted. I think the state has a responsibility to sell their ideas and their plans to the local communities," he said.

"I think this makes for good relationships and strong ties within the community," he added.

"I just am opposed in principle to the state enforcing its position or its views on local communities. I think that's bad business," he said.

However, Clements would not say what effect continued local opposition to the prison would have on his vote. T've told you my principle. I'm not going to give you my decision," he Clements said he gave prison officials a list of tasks to complete before the Thursday meeting.

"It would certainly be my under-standing that before they could report back to me on what the public thinks about this in Starr County they would have to have public hearings," he Later Friday, a Texas Department of Corrections spokesman said no decision had been made on whether to convene public hearings.

"We've been discussing the possibility of public hearings down there. A decision has not been made as to when and where and how," Rick Hartley said from Huntsville in a telephone interview

Hartley said it "would be very possible" to hold such hearings by Thursday, if officials decide they are

The Board of Corrections held its regular meeting in McAllen, 45 miles east of Rio Grande City, last Monday. Several area residents were allowed to voice their opposition to the pris-

Clements said, however, that did not meet his requirement for a public hearing.

"That doesn't fit any description I've ever known of public hearings,"

The governor also had a terse answer when told that prisoners' lobbyist Charles Sullivan said no decision on La Casita should be made until U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler rules on a comprehensive civil rights suit against the state prison system.

"I'm not really interested in what Mr. Sullivan has to say. You can quote me on that," he said.

Sullivan's wife, Pauline, who is also active in Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants, was at the Friday news conference.

Starr County Judge Blas Chapa said Friday he knows of no hearings scheduled, although there have been rallies against the proposal and others are planned.

Prison board members said the owner of La Casita requested secrecy about the land deal. Starr County officials were never contacted.

A group of eight county residents toured state prison headquarters in Huntsville Wednesday and Thursday. Several who initially were opposed to a prison came back in favor of it.

'I wasn't for it in the beginning but it seems I am now. It's not what you see in the movies," said Minerva

However, Chapa said he still opposes having a prison in his poor, rural county.

CWA going after members among Texas state employees

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The chairman of the Communications Workers of America's new union for state employees said Friday the CWA won't steal members from another AFL-CIO union that also is signing up government workers.

But John McCray, head of the CWA's Texas State Employees Union, made it clear the CWA is going all out the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The CWA began organizing Friday morning with $25,000 worth of advertising in 10 major newspapers and distribution of leaflets at 85 state offices in more than 30 cities and

The CWA also paid for a toll-free telephone line, and McCray said "our telephone bank has lit up like a Christmas tree.'

We do not plan to compete with any other union...we plan to cooperate with other unions. We are not going after employees contacted by the AFSCME," McCray told a news conference.

He said there are 170,000 state em-

Military readiness ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) - Defense Secretary Harold Brown has given the armed services "quite strong orders" to stress spending to improve combat readiness of their present equipment, a Pentagon official said

"He is not satisfied with readiness," said the official, who asked to remain anonymous.

Brown was said to have given the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps guidance to emphasize money for spare parts, ship overhauls, air-eraft repairs and other maintenance in their proposals now being prepared for President Carter's next defense budget, to be submitted to Congress in January.

There has long been a kind of tug-of-war within the Defense Department, budget offices of various administrations and Congress over how much to spend for undramatic, but vital, maintenance of equipment as compared with money allocated for glamorous, new gear. In his January report to Congress,

Brown acknowledged that there has been a tendency to neglect readiness spending. He urged a $2.4 billion increase in fiscal 1981 for operations and maintenance purposes, raising the figure to $49.2 billion.

The Pentagon official who discussed readiness questions with newsmen declined to say how much the individual armed services could be expected to raise the maintenance ante in their recommendations for the fiscal 1982 budget.

Acknowledging that insufficient spending for operations and maintenance has been a chronic condition, the official said "the service chiefs traditionally always wanted to get ships and planes first and buy spares

At the same time, he said "Congress is at least as much to blame" for neglecting readiness, although congressmen sometimes express surprise that significant numbers of ships and planes are not in combat > your kid-brother hasn't encountered and your parents must The loneliness is worst if your folks gave you nothing to believe in - or if they turned you off when they tried to share their convictions with you.

And the early twenties don't flatten out that smoothly.

There's a desperate loneliness about having problems

No one has to stay away from God. Many a young searcher has found his faith, found himself, and found his family in his quest for spiritual certainties.

Sunday morning there's more to do than lean on a tree.

Kelview's congregation to honor Rev. Johnson

The Rev. Frank Johnson is to be honored on his 19th anniversary as pastor of Kelview Heights Baptist Church, 407 Alta St., Sunday by the congrega-

At the same time, the congregation will be looking back over 19 years of growth from the time the church was organized in 1961 and occupied a one room cinder block building, to its present status as one of the largest churches in the city.

The church has undertaken and completed several major expansion projects during the years and the congregation has grown to more than 4,000 mem-

The church was the first to organize a bus ministry and now operates a fleet of 10 buses each Sunday. The church also has several other special ministries, including a radio ministry, an outreach to Midland nursing homes and a class for special children. The church has a fulltime staff of eight.

Sunday's anniversary observance, slated for 10:30 a.m., is designated "Friend Day" at Kelview and the public is invited to attend. A major festival is planned to highlight the service, featuring the special singers

Casey Jones memorial is museum in Mississippi

VAUGHAN, Miss. (AP) — In an era and area where train wrecks were not uncommon, the death of an engineer 80 years ago in the rural heartland of Mississippi would usually have long been forgotten by all but the most serious railroad buffs.

But not this accident nor the engineer, for he was Missouri-born Casey Jones and, according to the ballad and the history books, he chose to remain at the controls of his racing steam engine as it plowed into the rear of another train.

Legend has it that Jones fought the engine to the end to save the lives of his passengers. He was the only fatal-

Massena Jones, a retired Vaughan postmaster and no relation to Casey, has spent much of his life researching the accident and for the past 11 years has worked to make sure the legend

Jones' first effort at memorializing the wreck was a small museum tucked away in a corner of his post

But, with the state's help, the 72year-old Jones has finally realized his dream - the dedication of a real museum filled with artifacts of the fateful wreck and railroading's past.

"My temporary museum stimulated some interest in the Casey Jones story and consequently the state of Mississippi appropriated money for the building and for establishing the museum," Jones said.

"The museum itself is an old railroad depot from Pickens, about 7 miles north of Vaughan," he said. "It was moved down the road to Vaughan and restored."

"The state Bureau of Recreation and Parks did a marvelous job in restoring the old building in the old

He said artifacts from the wreck included pieces of glass from the cab of Casey Jones' engine, No. 382, a scrap of wood from a torn car involved in the wreck and the engine's

Jones said finding artifacts from the wreck was difficult because the coal-fired engine was repaired following the accident and returned to ser-

"That engine went on to kill more people and it was wrecked several times before being scrapped in 1935," he said. "There just wasn't much left

It took several years to secure the necessary funding for t project and to locate, secure and restore the artifacts.

"I think the time was worth it," Jones said. "I could see the need for preserving the historical significance of the Casey Jones wreck - it is such a nationally known thing I thought it should be memorialized.

Jones, who will serve as curator and manager of the new museum under contract with the state, said he had another reason for devoting so much time to the project: "This will show future generations that the Casey Jones legend was not myth but an actual happening.

"Casey was a hero because he stayed by his post and no doubt saved the lives of some of his passengers,' he said. "Casey Jones was buried in Jackson, Tenn., where he lived at the time.'

Jones believes the story of the wreck and the artifacts will attract tourists to the museum, off Interstate 55 at Vaughan.

Undaunted by rising prices, more than 2.2 million tourists from around the globe poured nearly $1.2 billion into the Hong Kong economy during 1979 - more than $765 million just on shopping.

"SHOPPING IS STILL THE THING," said Henry B.C. Cheng, a spokesman for the Hong Kong Tourist Association. "And our policy now and for the next few years is to attract high-yield visitors who stay longer and spend

Since the early 1970s when the tourist association began conducting shopping surveys, the Japanese have been the biggest spenders. In 1979, the average Japanese tourist spent $475, primarily on handbags, wallets, jewelry with precious stones, liquor, perfume, lighters, cigarettes, handicrafts and Chinese medicine.

In a three-way tie for second place on the extravagant shoppers' list are the Spaniards, Taiwanese and Australians, who spent an average of about $400 each. They were followed by tourists from the Middle East, Central and South America, South Korea, West Germany, Belgium, Austria, the Philippines and

THE AMERICANS TIED FOR 10th place with the Thais, spending an average of about $300.

American tourists led' the world in purchases of antiques and carved stones, tied the Japanese in buying sourvenirs and handicrafts. But they were only average buyers of jewelry, watches and clothing, which were the top items for U.S. shoppers in the early 1970s.

The low-spending bargain hunters include the Swiss, Indians, Pakistanis, Sri Lankans, South Africans, Scandinavians, French, Dutch, Indonesians, British, New Zealanders, Malaysians, Canadians and Singaporeans.

Like Hong Kong, the city-state of Singapore is a free port, so officials as ay it's understandable that Singaporeans were at the bottom of the list, spending an average of $165 each.

Cheng says, however, that Hong Kong has something that Singapore lacks - variety.

"VIRTUALLY EVERY MAJOR international designer of clothing and leather goods has an outlet here and there are probably more shops that sell o Chinese products than in China itself — and the variety is greater than in China and the prices are cheaper," he said.

Cheng said this British colony of 5 million was also unique in that "there isn't a shop or restaurant that just caters to tourists," which keeps prices competitive. "In Hong Kong, you just can't do it because of overhead. At least 40 to 60 percent of business is for locals," he said.

The variety of products a vailable has made it possible to please a world market with very different ta stes, he added.

For instance, he said, the Southeast Asians who make up 28 percent of Hong Kong's visitors are the biggest purchasers of ready-made clothes, cosmetics, toys and food.

IN COMPARISON, THE Jamanese who make up 23 percent of Hong Kong's tourists, are the largest purch asers of brand-name designer items.

Western Europeans, who constitute the third largest group of visitors with 16 percent, lead the world in purchases of textiles and photographic equipment, and are big buy ers of calculators, antiques, and tailor-made

The Americans, who represent 14 percent of the tourist market, are into arts and crafts and antiques. The Australians and New Zealanders, with 7 percent, are the largest purch asers of consumer durables, ready-made and tailor-made shirts, luggage, schoes, binoculars, radios, televisions, tapes, jewelry, watches and paintings.

FOR SOME TOURISTS, Cheng said, Hong Kong does not live up to its billing as a shopper's paradise? "The vast majority of complaints we receive are about late delivery of furniture, clothes, glasses. Some tourists also complain that shopkeepers are not polite enough and ask them to pay commissions when they pay with credits cards. There are also solicitors and some fake goods that we warn tourists to avoid," he said.

Panel won't do new study on test-tube baby clinics

tial biomedical ethics commission decided Friday against doing a new, separate study of scientific and moral questions about test-tube baby clin-

The commission, in rejecting a request from two U.S. senators, said most of the questions had been addressed last year by another panel. Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-

Mass., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, asked for a new study in a Feb. 21 letter after the first commercial testtube baby clinic opened in Norfolk,

The President's Commission for the Study of Ethical Problems in Medicine and Biomedical and Behavioral Research approved a motion saying the policy questions raised by the senators would be discussed when it considered other issues.

For instance, some commissioners noted that when the group discusses the medical definition of death, it will consider when life begins - a crucial issue in the test-tube baby controver-

Morris B. Abram, the commission chairman, said his group was not foreclosing the possibility of future hearings on the test-tube baby issue. At the meeting, it was noted that the government money.

The Norfolk clinic is a private venture that does not receive federal or state money. It is set up in Norfolk General Hospital and run by doctors at the Eastern Virginia Medical Several women have been treated at the clinic, but there have been no confirmed reports that any have become pregnant.

Patients pay between $3,500 and $4,000 for laboratory work and two fertilization attempts. There were 2,-500 couples on the initial waiting list when the clinic opened in February, operators said.

Test-tube, or "in vitro," fertilization is a technique used to treat infertile women when other methods fail. An egg is surgically removed from a woman's ovary, fertilized with her husband's sperm in a laboratory dish, and transferred to the woman's uter-

If successful, the fertilized egg implants itself on the uterine wall and grows into a fetus. Babies have been born using this method in England and Australia.

Thornburgh announced his decision at a news conference after the National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements said that the amount of radiation exposure to residents would be minimal.

"The NCRP concludes that the exposures likely to be received as a result of venting are not a valid basis for concern with respect to health effects," said the report of the 75-member council, which was char-tered by Congress in 1964.

The Union of Concerned Scientists, a group critical of the nuclear industry, concluded earlier this week that there would be no biological health effects from venting.

The scientists' group, however, op-posed the plan on the basis of psychological stress. But Thornburgh said stress should be substantially reduced by the fact that scientists agree the plan is safe.

"This consensus should be a considthat a speedy resolution of the issue itself, and then the speedy carrying out of a safe program, would be in the best interests of dissipating stress."

John Collins, director of NRC operations at the plant, said the commission could reach a final decision on the venting by the end of the month.

spent nearly an hour trying to fix it, re-entering the volunteer's room three times to check the electrodes attached to her head, the report said. She did not try to arouse Miss Gillcrist until 7 a.m.

Investigators do not know where it came from.

The review panel noted the young woman had earned more than $1,300 since December, taking part in three drug experiments over 40 days.

Lipsett said in an interview it is impossible to get enough volunteers without paying them.

Kennedy gets indirect answer

'Disservice to party, defeat in November' predicted

By MERRILL HARTSON Associated Press Writer

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy insisted Friday that President Carter "has to earn" renomination by the Democratic Party by engaging in debate before the primary season ends. But the best the Massachusetts challenger could do was a long-distance, indirect exchange with Carter's wife, Rosalynn.

Miffed by the Carter camp's refusal to accept his offer to withdraw from the presidential campaign under certain circumstances, Kennedy told the Portland (Ore.) City Club:, "I believe the Democratic Party will defeat itself and disserve the nation if it decides that winning is all there is."

"A president who is afraid to debate does not deserve to be renominated," the senator said. "And he is more likely to be defeated in the fall."

Kennedy had said Thursday that if Carter met him in debate before the season-ending June 3 primaries and then went on to beat the senator in the total popular vote cast in the eight elections that day, he would get out of the race. First lady Rosalynn Carter, stumping for her husband in Ohio, scoffed at the idea of a Carter-Kennedy debate, as Vice President Walter F. Mondale had the night before.

'The president's positions are well known and consistent," Mrs. Carter told an audience in Cincinnati. "There is no precedent for a president to debate in a primary, but he looks way out." forward to debating in the campaign.'

Meanwhile, Republican presidential front-runner Ronald the senator's position was backed by Maine Gov. Joseph Reagan illustrated again that he's relishing his one-way debate with Carter.

Reagan came to Carter's Washington, consulted with top advisers and then accused the president of a "lack of humanitarianism" for slowing the flight of Cuban refugees to the United States.

Even George Bush, still mounting an uphill drive to stop the Reagan campaign express, got into the act. Campaigning in Cleveland, the former United Nations ambassador likened the

On the eve of the Maine Democratic convention, Brennan asserted: "This is not President Carter's presidency, it's our presidency. It's not his country, it's our country. The issues ught to be debated and discussed head to head.

Brennan said Carter would feel better going into the fall general election campaign if he had given Kennedy an opportunity to meet him in debate.

In other developments: -Rep. John B. Anderson, campaigning for president as an independent, repeated his contention that voters given only a choice between Carter and Reagan in November would be facing a dilemma.

"I do believe that if Mr. Reagan becomes the nominee of the Republican Party, that the so-called moderate wing of the Republican Party could be put on the list of endangered

Carter had observed during that broadcast that certain of Kennedy's campaign statements on Iran and Afghanistan were "not helpful" to the nation.

Field trip — and system — work

By MASHA HAMILTON

The 12 students in Mike Stanley's government class happened to be visiting Judge William T. Sharp's courtroom on Tuesday at the same time that the judge found himself short of potential jurors to try a battery and intimidation case.

With the consent of attorneys for both sides, Sharp decided to use five of the students, who were regis tered voters, as jurors. "It's kind of a lark for a senior to get out of school for the day," the judge said in an interview Friday. 'Suddenly, they were thrust into the largest responsibility any 18-year-old has ever undertaken - to decide if someone should go to prison.' Stanley said he was "like everybody else in the courtroom - taken by surprise." "But by putting the students on the spot, it turned into more of an educational field trip than I had planned," he added.

"I learned how lawyers can get you around to where you almost believe one side before you even Danny Terrell may have found a career when Owen valley High School seniors took a field trip to to be a lawyer, and I never gave and the lawyer was a lawyer and I never gave and the lawyer was a lawyer and I never gave and the lawyer was a to be a lawyer, and I never gave any thought to it before I went to court."

Renaud wins national net crown

Mary Renaud arrived at Corsicana's Navarro College ranked as the No. 2 player in Argentina and still hasn't found anyone good enough to question that rating.

The lass from Buenes Aires swept through the National Junior College Athletic Association Women's Tennis Tournament without losing a set to beat Wendy Fine 6-4, 6-2 in the finals Friday morning at Midland College.

FRESHMAN RENAUD dominated the American junior college ranks in 67-0 style, losing only two sets all season.

So how did a wicked tennis player like Mary wind up at Navarro? "I recruited her," advised Coach Hershel Stevens, but later admitted he wound up with Renaud because a friend was attending Navarro. The friend, it so happens, is Nora Moreno, who is her doubles partner and also is from Argentina.

Renaud, however, found Broward's Wendy Fine a stubborn opponent. In the first set, Renaud won the first two games, but her Fort Lauderdale, Fla., rebounded to take the next three games. It was 4-4 when Mary broke Wendy's service and won the set.

IT WAS 1-1 in the second set when Renaud broke Wendy's service with a strong two-fisted backhand shot that passed Miss Fine as she tried to move to the net to apply pressure. However, the key game of the second set was the fourth when Fine took a 40-15 lead against Miss Navarro's serve, enjoyed advantage, but couldn't hold on. Once again it was a passing shot that closed out the game.

Renaud is so good she doesn't rely on strategy. She just roams the base line, running an opponent ragged with a strong forehand and that devastating backhand. "Yes, it's my strongest stroke," she admits.

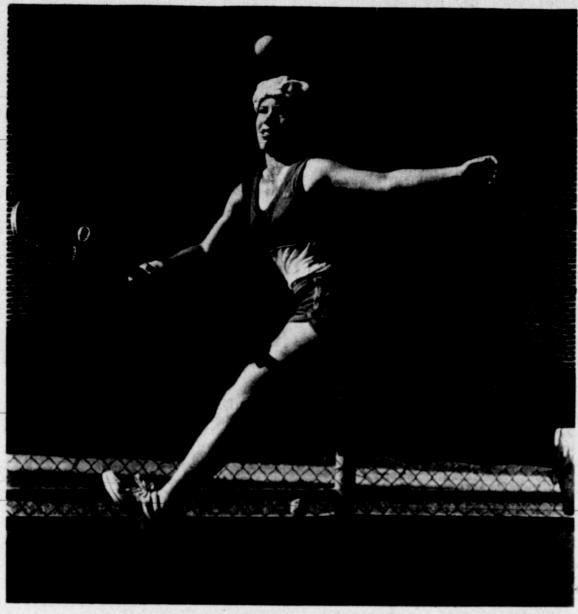

Renaud and Moreno reached the doubles finals, but were dispatched by Tyler's topranked team of Janet Kniffen and Robin Fall,

AS FOR the future, Renaud and partner Moreno left for home, Argentina, immediately after the tournament. It has been a long time. She hopes to play pro tennis after college, but will have to work her way up through the Satellite ranks, "Although she can always qualify," notes Coach Stevens.

THE FACT that Navarro brought only two players probably cost it the team title. One more player would have done the trick. As a result, Palm Beach, which didn't win any individual championships, but went a long way in both doubles and singles, took the title with 19 points, a laurel it clinched Thursday.

Tyler Junior College was second while Broward finished third with 16. Tied for fourth were Midland and New Mexico Military Institute, a couple of Western JC Conference rivals while McLennan, was the third Texas college in the top six with 14 points.

In consolation play, Midland College's Debbi Smith lost to Alexi Beggs, Palm Beach, 6-3, 6-2, but still she managed to do a thorough job of scrambling the pre-tournament seedings by finishing fourth after being tabbed No. 11 in the field. In doubles, Beggs and Christy Turdo defeated Lori Zacharias and Joni Sterling, Tyler,

Lietzke steals thunder

Captures two-shot lead in Colonial Golf

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - With the finesse of a cat burglar, Bruce Lietzke has stolen the thunder of Lee Trevino and Tom Watson in the first round of the $300,000 Colonial National Invitational golf tournament.

The onetime University of Houston sharpshooter took a 2-shot lead today ringed Colonial Country Club course - and it might easily have been

"It could have been lower," the 28-year-old Kansan said Friday after firing a record-tying, 7-under-par 63 in the rain-delayed bottom half of the "Texas Bonanza."

"I'm pretty excited about the way I'm hitting the ball. I wasn't too happy with some of the putts. I made a couple that I probably shouldn't have, and I missed some very makable ones

Lietzke punctuated the sparkling assault on the normally treacherous Trinity River course with a hole-inone at the 194-yard 16th.

"I saw the white of the ball, then saw it disappear," he said with a

The 63 shoved him two strokes in front of Texan Jeff Mitchell, the Phoenix winner, who had it six under until he overshot and bogeyed the same hole Lietzke aced.

Mitchell's 65 was a shot ahead of Watson and Trevino, whose rounds had little in common except the final Trevino, seeking his third Colonial title, reeled off a string of four birdies beginning at the par 4 10th, but he bogeyed both the 17th and 18th to wreck a spectacular round.

But my chances are always good when I play here," he said. "I like this golf course and I've always played good here."

No matter whaat Watson does or doesn't do, it's news. By capturing the Byron Nelson last week at Dallas, he is the only player in the field who can claim a $200,000 bonus by winning

Back-to-back Nelson and Colonial victories would earn Watson, already a five-time winner this year, a total of $308,000 for two weeks' work

"I'm not thinking about it all the time," he said. "But it is in the back

Watson's recent history of chip-ins and holed-out iron shots has been hardly less than phenomenal and he kept that string intact with a wedge shot to save par at the 9th.

"That turned the whole thing around," he said. "I birdied four of the next five holes. Until Friday, he had led or shared the lead through 12 straight rounds. Former University of Texas teammates Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite headed a group at 67 that included 1967 Colonial king Dave Stockton, sore-backed Fuzzy Zoeller and onetime tennis star Frank Conner.

Lietzke and his colleagues agreed the rains that washed out Thursday's first round left the greens soft, true and vulnerable.

"Colonial has never played easier,"

Scott upsets SMU's Carter in shot put

WACO, Texas (AP) - Texas A&M's Tim Scott upset Southern Methodist's Michael Carter in the shot put Friday, but it was a strong one-two-three showing by the Texas Longhorns in the Javelin that propelled the Longhorns into the early lead of the 65th annual Southwest Conference Track and Field Champion-

Scott flipped the 16-pound shot 64 feet 4 inches to nip Texas' Oskar Jakobsson by an inch and a half.

The heralded Carter, a frèshman who had a career best of 67-9, could manage only an effort of 63-9 for third place. Carter had been bothered by a bout with food poisoning and had a sore tendon in his right hand. Carter refused to blame his ailments for the loss, saying," It was just one of those days. I wasn't using my upper body. I don't think the food poisoning the the injury knocked me off schedule. This is a big disappointment to me."

Scott, whose career best was 65-11%, was surprised by the victory.

"I thought if someone put the shot in the 64 range they would come in third. It was real humid out there and it was hard to hold the ball against your chin. I was disappointed in the distance.

"I guess the pressure and the heat got to everybody," Scott

The Midland Cubs clawed and scratched for a victory at Cubs Stadium Friday night, but ended up running out of fingernails as the Tulsa Drillers hung on for a 7-5 Texas League win to open a five-game series and the first of a 10-game homes-

It was one of those games in which 1,028 two-bit beer night fans kept dreaming for one of those patented comeback victories, but it just never came to be. It was just a case of giving up too much, too early.

Now the Cubs face the prospects of facing the Drillers in a doubleheader today at 6:30 p.m. while hoping they can dominate the scoreboard. Friday's game marked the first meeting of the year between the two teams.

The Drillers basically took the game with two three-run innings in the third and fourth frames. That produced a 6-1 lead at the time and enough for the eventual victory.

It was a breakdown of both pitching and fielding that did the Cubs harm in those two fatal frames as the Drillers touched starter and loser Herman Segelke (3-4) with eight hits and four earned runs. Two other runs were unearned as the Cubs had some falty fielding with three errors in the two

George Wright opened the Tulsa third with a walk, stole second and then scored on a hit to right by Cha-Cho Gonzalez, who went all the way to third when Midland catcher Mike O'Berry couldn't come up with a throw from right fielder Tom Grant. Bill Klimas then touched Segelke with a double to score Gonzalez, Mel Barrow was safe on an error by second baseman Scott Fletcher and Klimas came home on a single by Bobby

Flyers, Islanders set to renew feud tonight

UNIONDALE, N. Y. (AP) - Pat Quinn, coach of the Philadelphia Flyers, may have set a National Hockey League playoff record for the lengthiest "no comment" in Stanley Cup history.

Thursday night, after the Flyers had bombed the New York Islanders 8-3 and tied the best-of-seven championship series at one victory, Islanders Coach Al Arbour delivered an uncharacteristic tirade.

SWC baseball washed away

"If they want to be spearcarriers and won't drop 'em (their sticks), they're going to get it back the same way," bellowed Arbour, usually softspoken and bland in his post-game remarks. "If the referees are not going to call this chippy stuff, we'll come right back at them. We'll fight fire with fire."

The game may have been chippy, but the Islanders converted only two of their eight power play opportunities. They were done in by forechecking that cut off their skating room and forced rushed plays. Paul Holmgren scored three goals and Bobby Clarke had a goal and three assists for the Flyers, forging the series tie that will be broken in Game Three tonight At first, Quinn did not want to rebut Arbour's charges.

"I'm not going to get involved with that," he said after practice in Philawith him any time, with the officials and with the (video) tape. Let's go over it and see who's cheap-shotting

Players rejected by management

NEW YORK (AP) - The atmosphere turned gloomy in the baseball contract talks again Friday when management rejected a player association offer that might have ended the stalemate.

ie union proposal to place compensation and other free agent-reserve clause topics on a two-year hold "an effort to avoid bargaining on the remaining issue," the owners turned the bid

"It is another way of not dealing with the issue." said Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for the owners. "The clubs feel that now is the time to deal with this issue, not two years from now,"

The players had said that with agreement close on other contract issues such as minimum salaries, pensions and health and safety questions, they would withdraw all of their free agent proposals and turn the entire matter over to a joint study committee. The committee would then examine the re-entry system through 1981. At that time, if the owners still are unhappy with the system's operation, they would have the right to demand the contract be reopened and the question be negotiated.

'Magic' Johnson paces Lakers to NBA crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson took over the center role because of the loss of ui-Jappar Friday night and scored 42 points to give the Los Angeles Lakers the National Basketball Association championship with a 123-107 victory over the Philadelphia

With the 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar sitting home with a severely damaged ankle, the 6-foot-8 Johnson combined with Jamaal Wilkes for 79 points as the Lakers closed out the series four games to two for their first championship since 1972, when they beat the New York Knicks.

The key to the Lakers' unexpected triumph on the 76ers' court was a 14-0 surge at the outset of the third period that turned a 60-60 deadlock into a 74-60 Los Angeles lead.

In that third period, the Lakers scored 33 points, with Wilkes accounting for 16 and Johnson nine as the Lakers took a 93-83 lead at the end of the quarter.

The Eastern Conference champion 76ers, however, refused to quit and three times in the final period rallied within a basket of the fired-up Lakers.

The first time was with 6:40 remaining when a basket by Caldwell Jones reduced the deficit to 99-97. Steve Mix scored at 5:51 to make it 101-99 and Bobby Jones connected at 5:11, leaving the Lakers ahead 103-

But Johnson and Wilkes, a forward, took over and scored five consecutive points to give Los Angeles a sevenpoint advantage at 108-101 and the Western Conference champions never were threatened after that. Julius "Dr. J" Erving led the 76ers with 27 points but the Lakers' dogged double-teaming, especially in the final period, kept Erving from dominating the game in his usual style after the 76ers pulled within two in the waning moments.

The Lakers were a decided underdog when they came to to men, leaving behind Abdul-Jabbar to rest a play if a seventh game w as necessary in Los Angeles Sunday.

But rookie Coach Pa ul Westhead turned loose a bunch of r. abbits, who beat the Sixers at their own game the fast break.

Westhead became hear! coach of the Lakers early in the 197 9-80 season after Jack-McKinney suffered a head injury in a fall from a b'ic ycle. Lakers owner Dr. Jerry Buss armounced this week that McKinney w ould not be back and that Westhea d would receive serious considera tion to keep the job.

The Sixers were una tile to take advantage of the missing; Abdul-Jabbar fly and Dick Ruthven by establishing an insi de game with 6-11½ Darryl Dawk itns and 7-foot Caldwell Jones. The Lakers used tory over the Hous quickness and fast hands to make Astros Friday night. numerous steals and successfully blocked out Philade Iphia's driving backcourt men fron 1 taking advantage of the lane.

Little averaged 13.4 points per game and started all 29 games for Texas Tech last season, his high being 27 points against SMU. He played in 30 games his freshman year. An older brother, Richard Little, was an all-Southwest Conference guard at Texas Tech several years ago.

Little, accustomed to a run-andshoot game in high school, was reportedly unhappy about the deliberate style of play at Texas Tech. Gerald Myers, head basketball coach at Tech, was out of town on a fishing trip and unavailable for comment. Little said he and Myers had discussed his decision and that Myers was aware of it.

"I don't want to say anything negative about Coach Myers or my former teammates. I don't think it would accomplish anything," Little said.
Little was one of the more accurate hooters in the Southwest Conference last season, hitting 51 percent of his field goal attempts and 76 percent of his free throws.

Judge says boycotit legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee had the legal right to boycott the Moscow as a National Olympic Committee, such limitation or invasion of Afghanistan, a federal judge ruled Fri-U.S. District Judge John Pratt's decision dismissed a lawsuit attempting to invalidate the committee's April 12 boycott vote.

Nineteen Olympic hopefuls — later joined by six other athletes — filed the suit in U.S. District-Court contending the Amateur Sports Act of 1978 withheld from the Olympic committee the right to boycott the Pratt, noting the Olympic committee had power to accept or deny Olympic invitations before the act's passage, wrote in a 23-page opinion:

"We would expect that if Congress intended to Summer Olympics as a protest against the Soviet denial would be clear and explicit. No such language appears in the statute.

"Indeed, far from precluding this authority, the language of the statute appears to embrace it."

The act made the USOC the coordinating body for amateur sports in the United States and also made it the nation's official Olympic representative.

The athletes contended that the USOC's House of Delegates violated not only the 1978 law but also the Olympic body's own charter by caving in to political pressure from the Carter administration. Before the April vote, the president and administration officials strongly urged the Olympic committee to vote agai inst sending a team to Moscow to protest the Afgh anistan invasion.

Pr. att also rejected the athletes' argument that if the USOC does have the authority to boycott the Mosco w Olympics, the decision must be based on sports -related considerations.

The judge agreed that the 1978 law does contain such & provision. Pratt said that language was aimed at endiring a long-standing feud between the nation's two less ding amateur sports bodies; the National Collegis ite Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

Pratt noted that the feuding sports organizations have p revented athletes from competing for reasons that have more to do with their feud than with sports- r elated considerations.

Expos top Reds, 2-1 on fly ball

MONTREAL (AP) -Tommy Hutton lofted a sacrifice fly and Warren Cromartie smashed a run-scoring double in a two-run eighth inning to pace the Montreal Expos to a 2-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds Friday.

The Expos, held to one hit by Tom Seaver, 2-2, over the first seven innings, began their rally when Gary Carter stroked a leadoff single. Cromartie followed with a booming double that eluded the grasp of center fielder Dave Collins.

After Cromartie took third on Collins' throw to the plate, Hutton, pinch hitting for starter Steve Rogers, 3-4, hit a fly ball to shallow center field to score Cromartie.

Rogers allowed eight hits while walking one batter and striking out eight over eight innings. He received relief help from Elias Sosa and Woodie Fryman, who recorded his sixth save, in the ninth inning.

Seaver carried a no-hit bid into the seventh inning before Ellis Valentine legged out an infield hit with two out. Valentine barely beat the throw by third baseman Ray Knight, who had made a diving stop of his sharp grounder had retired the first 12 batters in order until Valentine walked to lead off the fifth.

The Reds, who managed only three hits over the first five innnings, nicked Rogers for a run in the sixth when Collins beat out an infield hit and stole his eighth base of the season in as many attempts.

Dave Concepcion lined a single to center, scoring Collins, whose single stretched his hitting streak to 12 games.
