Death toll now at 15 as Miami rioting continues

MIAMI (AP) — Snipers roamed, fires burned and looters went unchallenged in Miami early today, as two nights of racial rioting left at least 15 dead. Authorities said the violence was abating as the morning wore on but could rekindle at any time.

The rioting sparked by the acquittal of four ex-policemen in the fatal beating of a black man was the worst in terms of fatalities in a U.S. city since July 1967 when Newark and Detroit exploded during what became known as the "long hot summer" of racial turmoil.

The dead included eight blacks and six whites killed in the often grisly violence, and a policeman stricken by a heart attack. More than 371 people were injured, 12 critically, in the chaos that began Saturday night. Over 450 arrests were made, many for violating the 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew.

Sheriff Bobby Jones, Dade County's top law enforcement officer, said Sunday night's curfew apparently had an effect. "I feel slightly optimistic that the worst of the violence is over," he said, adding quickly, "We're not out of the woods yet."

"Personal violence is down. The looting and fires are up," Miami Police Chief Kenneth Harris said late Sunday. Police spokesman Angelo Bitsis said later, however, "It could start up again. We'll see what happens."

All schools were closed today, bus service canceled and workers advised not to report to their jobs unless it was mandatory.

At midmorning, windows were broken and about 150 prisoners at the Dade Correctional Institution refused to work, officials said. No injuries were reported, and Dennis Ross, the top aide to the governor, said the situation was under control.

Asked if the protest, which apparently included whites and blacks in equal numbers, was linked to the rioting, the prison superintendent's secretary, Dot Crippen, said: "There's no doubt about it."

Gov. Bob Graham begged residents to stay in their homes overnight. There was a report that officials warned incoming air travelers not to go into the center city.

The areas of violence are not parts of the city that normally attract tourists. They include a substantial part of the city's northwest side, about a square mile of the Coconut Grove area and part of suburban Opa-locka.

Four policemen were shot, none seriously. One lieutenant suffered a fatal heart attack while patrolling the streets.

Reports of the number of dead varied, with some counts as high as 19. Police disputed that number, saying the county was officially reporting 10 deaths and the city five. The count included the dead officer. Four violent deaths during the weekend were not counted because they were not related to the disturbances, police said.

The rioting began less than three hours after an all-white jury returned its verdict in Tampa in the fatal beating of Arthur McDuffie, an insurance executive. Nine people died the first night, including three whites who were dragged from cars and beaten to death, police said.

The arson and looting continued in parts of Miami the second night despite a curfew and pleas from leaders of blacks and whites. One of the four Sunday-night fatalities occurred when a policeman shot a black man trying to hit the officer with a car, authorities said.

Several of the weekend killings were grisly. One body had an ear and tongue cut off. One victim was burned beyond recognition. A motorist deliberately ran over a dead man three times.

Firefighters said snipers kept them from extinguishing several dozen blazes,

Hostage plan reported

Iran's parliament to decide

By The Associated Press

A plan to free the U.S. hostages in three stages is reported being drafted for submission to Iran's new Parliament on June 3, seven months and a day after the Americans were seized.

But a U.N. envoy being sent to Tehran for talks with government officials will not be dealing with the hostage issue, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said today.

In other developments, America's European allies voted limited sanctions against Iran, reducing their trade only 8 percent.

Iran today began what Tehran Radio described as the biggest joint military exercises since the overthrow of the Shah. President Abolhasan Bani Sadr flew to the Persian Gulf to supervise the exercises, involving planes and warships.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko sent a message to the Iranian government to mark the 60th anniversary of formal diplomatic relations between the two countries. The message praised Iran's "just struggle" against "imperialism and colonialism" and promised future Soviet-Iranian relations would be based on "equality, respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity, and non-interference in each other's internal affairs."

The hostage freedom plan was reported Sunday by the French news agency, Agence France Presse, which quoted sources in Paris as saying this would be the procedure.

The three senior diplomats held at the Iranian Foreign Ministry would be freed first. Forty of the 53 seized in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4 would be let go when the United States opens talks with Iran on the $8 billion in Iranian assets. President Carter froze the last 10, suspected by their captors of being spies, would be freed when Iran and the United States sign a peace and neutrality treaty.

The sources said the plan was worked out by Archbishop Hilarion Capudji, the Eastern rite Roman Catholic who was chosen by Iran to transfer the remains of the eight U.S. servicemen killed in the attempted rescue of the hostages, French lawyer Christian Bourguet and Argentine businessman Hector Villalon.

The sources said the plan was worked out with Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh during his recent trips to France, Switzerland, Italy and the Persian Gulf.

Japan intends to impose sanctions against Iran

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira reaffirmed today Japan's intention to cooperate with the United States and its European allies in sanctions against Iran despite the surprise defeat of his government in parliament.

Ohira told a news conference the no confidence vote last Friday in the Diet's lower house would have "some effect" on Japan's foreign policy "but we will try to keep it to a minimum."

He said Japan will maintain "suitable" cooperation with the Western nations seeking to pressure Iran to release the 53 Americans held hostage by militants since Nov. 4 and also, against the Soviet Union for its intervention in Afghanistan.

"Underlining the show of continuity in foreign affairs despite the upheaval at home, Foreign Minister Saburo Okita was to leave as planned tonight for meetings with European leaders.

Ohira also indicated that the June 22 elections would not be affected by the seven-nation economic summit to be held at the same time in Venice, Italy, which he plans to attend.

Ohira, 70, spoke with reporters hours after his Cabinet formally dissolved the 511-member lower house to pave the way for the elections.

Five killed, thousands flee mile-wide wall of mud near volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Abrasive volcanic ash coughed up by Mount St. Helens drifted over three states today following a volcanic eruption that killed at least five people, left 21 missing, and forced thousands to flee a mile-wide wall of steaming mud.

The ash — which prompted health warnings — fell half an inch deep on the ground up to 500 miles away following Sunday's convulsion that turned day into night in much of eastern Washington, Idaho and western Montana.

A plume of steam and ash was still billowing 14,000 feet high from a crater a half mile wide today, but there were no sightings of the rivers of mud, rock and gas which roared down the flanks of the peak earlier. There were no sightings of lava flows during the eruption.

Both the Cowlitz and Toutle rivers were dropping after being swollen Sunday by the mudflows.

It's still perking, but it is not as violent," said Sam Frear, a spokesman for the Forest Service. "We hope we've seen the worst."

Rescue helicopters planned to take to the air to search for the 21 people still missing. The Red Cross estimates between 2,500 and 3,000 persons have been evacuated.

The explosion early Sunday

knocked 1,300 feet off the top of the once pristine and snow-covered 9,677-foot peak, which until March had been quiet since 1857.

"It looks like the aftermath of an atomic explosion," said Dwight E. Reber, a pilot for Columbia Helicopters Inc. of Aurora, Ore.

Ash and flows of gas and newly formed rock poured from the mountain throughout Sunday.

The mudflow — the consistency of wet cement, moving at 50 mph — pushed floodwaters before it, swept up cars and houses and snapped concrete and steel bridges like toothpicks.

Besides the five people killed, at least 21 persons were missing on the sides of the mountain — including crusty, 84-year-old resort operator Harry Truman, who had long refused to leave.

Officials late Sunday reported eight killed, but said today that three people had been counted twice.

The victims apparently were caught in the flooding or by the heated mudslides as glaciers on the mountain melted, authorities said.

A helicopter crew saw two of the bodies trapped in a car about 15 miles from the volcano, said Air Force Reserve Capt. Robert J. Wead.

"These people were fried with the heat," Wead said. "Trees and all the vegetation were laid out flat — singed, burned, steaming, sizzling — a terrible looking thing."

Bob Christiansen of the U.S. Geological Survey said a shock wave from the eruption devastated a mile-wide swath for 15 miles on the mountain's north side. He said not a tree stump was left.

Spirit Lake, a popular recreation area at the base of the volcano's north side, "doesn't exist," Reber said. It was obliterated by the flows of debris and hot mud flowing down the mountain's sides.

Forest fires, started by lightning from the ash cloud above the peak, burned thousands of acres. Fire officials said conditions were too dangerous for firefighters.

The ash and hot gases spewed from the volcano in a towering plume nearly nine miles high, with westerly winds spreading it across Washington and Idaho and into Montana.

At Missoula, Mont., about 500 miles downwind from Mount St. Helens, falling ash reduced visibility to almost zero and the State Highway Patrol said that by nightfall all roads west and south of Missoula were closed. There was a half-inch of ash on the ground at Missoula.

The main highway, crossing several bridges covered by water and flowing mud, but abandoned their car when they spotted a Coast Guard helicopter.

The aerial view was astounding, they said.

"I used to fish the north fork (of the Toutle River) and I could not believe the mudslides," Ms. Siddens said. The river was full of "hot, steaming mud carrying trees, logging equipment and parts of houses," she added.

The pair guided the helicopter back to the mountain to warn others, finally convincing hold-out residents to jump in the helicopter.

Stunned witnesses race to escape

CASTLE ROCK, Wash. (AP) — "I could not believe the mudslides — hot, steaming mud carrying trees, logging equipment and parts of houses," said Pam Siddens, a camper who was whisked to safety by helicopter after Mount St. Helens erupted with a blast felt 200 miles away.

Logger Joe Sullivan said the mountain "just moved sideways and the whole thing went up" when it erupted Sunday at 8:39 a.m. PDT. "It scared the hell out of me."

Many people, campers and the curious, had narrow, harrowing escapes down the mountainside. And thousands of others, near the volcano and miles away, suddenly were shrouded in eerie darkness and thick ash.

"I was knocked out of bed by the explosion. It's just boiling — going way up in the air," said Ann Katter, owner of a general store in Toutle, Wash., about 35 miles northwest of Mount St. Helens. Toutle's residents were evacuated.

The eruption sent hot gas and black ash towering nine miles above the volcano, blotting out the sun for more than 100 miles. At least five persons were killed, 21 were missing and Spirit Lake at the base of the mountain disappeared under rock and mud flows.

Bolts of lightning sparked forest fires over thousand of acres. Mudflows and floods poured down the mountain, destroying bridges and forcing the evacuation of some 2,000 people.

"The devastation on the mountain side is incredible," said Air Force Lt. D.E. Schroeder. "Trees are knocked down, animals are standing around in shock, covered with ash."

Twenty miles northeast of the mountain in Randle, ham radio operator James Lanterman said, "The air is so full of smoke and pumice stone that a person would not live outside. I was thinking of evacuating but I didn't think I could make it, so I'm staying inside."

"What we saw, we probably will never see again," said Ms. Siddens, 29, her black hair flecked with gray ash after she reached Castle Rock, 35 miles west of Mount St. Helens.

She and Terry Clayton, 41, both of Seattle, had camped Saturday on the shore of Riff Lake, 20 miles north of the volcano. They were awakened Sunday by lightning striking the ground and a towering column of black smoke and ash.

They began trying to drive back to

Officials doubt mountain man of St. Helens survived eruption

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Harry Truman, the 84-year-old patriarch of Mount St. Helens, may have refused to leave his Spirit Lake lodge once too often.

While it may be premature to write Truman's obituary, officials say the chances of his surviving the volcano's mammoth eruption and thundering mudslides are slim.

"We can only fear the worst," said Jim Hall with the state Department of Emergency Services.

More than 30 feet of mud and debris was believed to have covered the area where Truman operated a 40-acre resort. And the once-serene Spirit Lake was a "boiling mass emitting gas," the pilot of a U.S. Forest Service spotter plane told the state Department of Emergency Services.

Truman, who lived in the lodge with his 16 cats, had steadfastly refused to leave, saying if worst came to worst he would hole up in a secret mine shaft with two kegs of whiskey.

Congress trying to finish budget work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing growing time pressure and having already missed one deadline, House and Senate budget negotiators hope to complete work by mid-week on a compromise plan for balancing the 1981 budget.

Clear skies in forecast

The welcomed rains which last week perked up the greenery and hastened blooms apparently won't be re-appearing any time soon.

Orientation set at three schools

An orientation session for new students and their parents at Jane Long, Sam Houston and De Zavala elementary schools is scheduled tonight in the schools' cafeterias.

Dog show scheduled

HOBBS, N.M. — A toy fox terrier dog show will be held at noon Saturday and Sunday in the Student Center at New Mexico Junior College here.

A National Guardsman patrols the perimeter of a predominantly black area of Miami Sunday morning after rioting broke out Saturday night and sporadic incidents of violence continued in the wake of the McDuffie trial verdict.

15 killed in Miami's racial rioting

Jones imposed the curfew Sunday in three sections of Miami patrolled by National Guardsmen, city police and Florida Highway Patrol troopers. He said today it would likely remain in effect tonight.

Harms said the curfew seemed to be reducing physical violence, but the fires have increased considerably as have the property crimes.

Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre called prominent blacks to the city to help restore calm, including former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Operation PUSH, Urban League Executive Director Vernon Jones and Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Giscard, Brezhnev meet in Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Soviet Premier Leonid I. Brezhnev met today, and the French leader was expected to press for new proposals for the withdrawal of Russian troops from Afghanistan.

The summit, arranged in unusual secrecy, was Brezhnev's first meeting with a Western government head since the Kremlin last December began sending an occupation force now said to number about 85,000 troops into Afghanistan, its Central Asian neighbor.

French sources said Giscard d'Estaing also hoped the meeting would produce a clearer picture of Brezhnev's views on the U.S.-Iran crisis and East-West relations.

The Soviet president was expected to stress his government's opposition to the decision by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last December to station in Western Europe new medium-range American missiles that could hit Soviet targets.

Pakistan's Zia wants America to be 'more assertive' in Persian Gulf area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistan president Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq says the United States should be "more assertive" in protecting U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean areas.

Turkey to Viet Nam, the name of the United States of America will be hard to hear.

Pakistan to restrict itself to aiding Afghan refugees "on humanitarian grounds."

Garage sale signs clutter

Spring means warm days, the end of school, spring cleaning and, of course, garage sales.

When discovered by an officer, a sign can be removed and the person whose address is listed on the sign can be fined. The violator will have to appear before the municipal judge who can fine a violator $200 or more, said Hennessy.

Some riot deaths deliberate, sadistic

MIAMI (AP) — Fourteen-year-old Andre Dawson, gunned down as he walked to a neighborhood store, lay dead in the street for an hour before ambulance crews could reach him.

A white man jumped from a pickup truck and sprayed gunfire into a crowd in front of the Lakeview Lounge, killing Thomas Reese. The gunman fled.

An angry black mob pulled three young white men — a 21-year-old father of three and two teen-age companions — out of their car and beat them to death.

They were among 14 deaths — some deliberate and sadistic, others cruelly random — confirmed today as Miami's racial violence boiled into a second day. Several of the dead were suspected looters, police said.

Officials at the county morgue said eight of the dead were black and six were white. More than 200 persons were injured.

Related to the rioting — but not included in the official death toll — was the fatal heart attack of Miami police Lt. Mike McDermott, 48, as he escorted National Guardsmen to a troubled area Sunday.

According to county police and medical authorities, here is how some of the victims were killed:

Dawson, a black teen-ager, was shot down late Sunday afternoon in the looted, burned-out central riot zone. An ambulance crew waited more than an hour for a police escort before going to his aid.

"Somebody just ran down the street and shot him in the head — blew my baby's brains out," wailed the boy's father, Augustus Dawson. "Oh, no! Why my baby?"

Reese, 34, was standing in a crowd of blacks when a white gunman opened fire. The killer sped away in a red and white pickup, police said.

When the death was confirmed, Reese's mother screamed and three friends stormed from the emergency room at North Shore Hospital, wailing revenge.

A mob pulled three white men — Benny Higdon, 21, Robert Owens, 14, and Charles Barreca, 15 — from their car Saturday night, pummeling them with rocks, boards, bottles and a newspaper rack.

Higdon's wife, Tina, pregnant with a fourth child, was described as hysterical at the loss of her husband and her brother, Owens. The trio had gone fishing Saturday, friends said.

Word of their deaths came at 3 a.m. Sunday. By that time, Emilio Munoz was driving home from his job as a butcher. A crowd of blacks began tossing rocks at the white man's car. He swerved into a wall, where about 20 people surrounded the car, overturned it, jabbed him with sticks and set the car on fire, burning Munoz to death.

Minutes later, a Dade County police officer shot Elijah Aaron, 47, saying the black man was looting a tire store.

Shortly after 4 a.m., a Miami police officer shot and killed Abraham H. Phillips. Sgt. Gerald Rudolf, a spokesman for Dade County police, said the 21-year-old black man was armed and chasing a vehicle.

At about the same time, 17-year-old Michael Scott was shot by another police officer. Rudolf said the black teen-ager was looting a store.

Kenneth Lee China was dumped from a car at the Jackson Memorial Hospital emergency room about 10 minutes later, police said. China had been shot in the heart.

His girl friend told police she saw two strangers throw the bleeding 22-year-old black man into their car and speed off as she walked out of his apartment.

One of the first victims was still unidentified, more than 24 hours after the riots began. A spokesman at the county morgue said the white man had numerous stab wounds and a car apparently ran over him.

New charges may be filed in case

MIAMI (AP) — Four white ex-policemen whose acquittal in the beating death of a black insurance executive touched off racial violence in Miami may now face federal charges.

U.S. attorneys will begin presenting evidence to a federal grand jury Wednesday that the four men violated the victim's civil rights, said Chief U.S. Attorney Atlee W. Wampler and Arthur F. Nehrbrass, agent in charge of local FBI operations.

The evidence would be virtually the same material the state used in its case against the four men, but "there is no double jeopardy here," Nehrbrass said. "It's a different crime we would be charging."

The acquittal of Alex Marrero, Ira Diggs, Michael Watts and Herbert Evans Saturday sparked violence throughout Miami, though mostly in black neighborhoods. The trial had been moved from Miami to Tampa because of racial tensions the presiding judge, Lenore Nesbitt, called a "time bomb."

The four officers were tried on state charges ranging from second-degree murder and manslaughter to aggravated battery and evidence tampering in connection with Arthur McDuffie's death in December.

The federal investigation "in effect, guarantees a second look at the killing of McDuffie to assure that justice is done," said Nehrbrass.

The maximum penalty in a case where death results is life imprisonment, said Wampler.

Soviets call rioting 'unprecedented'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass said today that "unprecedented" race rioting had broken out in Miami following "provocative actions by racists."

It said that "Miami, one of the biggest American health resorts, is now the scene of racial unrest unprecedented in scale with barricades, fires and the sound of shooting in its streets."

Some jurors' homes put under police protection in Tampa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Half of the jury that acquitted four ex-policemen in the beating death of a black insurance executive say their homes have been under police protection since their verdict sparked violence in Miami. One juror said his life has been threatened.

"The police are out patrolling my area," snapped juror Joseph Tetreault. "Isn't that just great? Great, isn't it? We're getting out of the house, just getting the hell out of here."

Another member of the six-man, all-white jury said that Arthur McDuffie's death was "a tragedy" but that investigators and prosecutors "blew" the case.

"I think we did what we had to do considering what the state gave us," the juror said. "I think the Dade County Public Safety Department and the state attorney's office were in such a hurry to appease everybody they blew it."

"All six of us agreed," the juror said. "We weren't saying that nothing happened. We all — all of us — would be the first to admit tragedy did happen... It was not an easy decision."

The juror spoke to The Associated Press Sunday on condition that his name not be used. He said he feared for his safety.

He and two other members of the jury said their homes were being patrolled by police units in the wake of racial violence that claimed at least 14 lives in Miami.

Tetreault, too, suggested the state's case didn't hold up in the eyes of the jury. "If the state had proved their damn case," he said, then he cut off the discussion.

The Tampa jury deliberated two hours and 40 minutes after a seven-week trial, finding the ex-policemen innocent on all 13 counts in the death of Arthur McDuffie and the alleged attempt to cover it up as an accident.

Losing 76 pounds changed the way I cook — and look!

Darla Overstreet can laugh about it now. "My problem area was everywhere," she says. "I'm five feet five, and do you believe I once weighed 204 pounds? I love to cook and to eat, but I knew I needed to do something about my weight. When I saw the Pat Walker's ads with the before and after stories, I thought... well, maybe I could do that, too."

No-sweat exercise gets results

Darla discovered that the Pat Walker's program is a unique combination of passive exercise and counseling about good eating habits. The Symmetricon passive exercise unit tones and firms your figure while you lie back and relax. It's so gentle that you can wear your street clothes. But it really works. Now Darla weighs just 128 pounds, and her dress size has gone from 20 to 10.

Pat Walker's: your private place

If you think losing weight means putting on a revealing leotard and doing difficult exercises with other women — welcome to Pat Walker's! Here, your passive exercise treatments and counseling sessions are completely private. No one knows your secrets except you and the Pat Walker's professionals.

Free figure analysis

Darla Overstreet has learned a lot about cooking and eating sensibly. And she's learned what it's like to get compliments, too — both for her and her new looks. Now it's your turn to be a success. Make an appointment for a free, no-obligation consultation at Pat Walker's. We'll tell you how

No fun in the Games

Last week's decision by the West German Olympic Committee to not send a team to the Moscow Games this summer was a commendable one.

West Germany was by no means the first nation to decide against sending a team to the Olympics. Neither was it the first allied nation of the United States to support President Carter's call for a boycott of the Games.

But it was an extremely important vote of support for the United States' position and a clear show of disapproval to the Soviet Union for the invasion of Afghanistan.

The West German decision followed by two days the decision of the French Olympic Committee to send a team. And the West German decision came at a time when it appeared support for President Carter's call for a boycott might be deteriorating.

It's important that the nations of the free world show a united front to the Soviet Union at this particular point in history because of increasing aggression being exhibited by the nation.

President Carter issued the call for a boycott of the Moscow Games on Jan. 20. He said in a letter to U.S. Olympic Committee president Robert Kane, "We must make clear to the Soviet Union that it cannot trample upon an independent nation and at the same time do business as usual with the rest of the world."

Carter's call for a boycott of the Games followed by less than a month the massive military invasion of Afghanistan by Soviet troops.

Since that time, the U.S. Olympic Committee decided against fielding an American team in Moscow this summer and support for the boycott has been growing among the nations of the world with Soviet satellite nations being the notable exception.

Now with the decision of the West German Olympic Committee, other nations hopefully will come forward with decisions to not send teams to Moscow. Japan has been a notable holdout as have the Netherlands and Portugal.

It is time for a full-fledged show of support of the boycott — a rebuke to the Soviet Union — and hopefully the West German decision will serve as the catalyst for that decision.

It's time to get serious with the Soviets and quit playing games.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, May 19, the 140th day of 1980. There are 226 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On May 19, 1588, the Spanish Armada sailed from Portugal to attack England, a voyage that ended in defeat at the hands of the British navy.

On this date: In 1536, the second queen of King Henry VIII of England, Anne Boleyn, was beheaded.

In 1876, an exposition celebrating America's 100th birthday opened in Philadelphia.

In 1945, more than 400 American B-29 bombers attacked Tokyo.

In 1968, France was all but paralyzed by the worst strikes and political upheavals in a decade.

Ten years ago, communist troops shelled more than 60 allied positions in South Vietnam to mark the 80th birthday of Ho Chi Minh.

Five years ago, the United States sent a conciliatory note to Thailand regarding the use of a Thai base in the "Mayaguez" rescue, averting a possible crisis.

Last year, Thai authorities said more than 30,000 Cambodian civilians and soldiers loyal to deposed Premier Pol Pot had crossed into Thailand, fleeing an intensified push by Vietnamese-backed Cambodian troops.

CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

1. John Wesley, who came to the U.S. from England 262 years ago is said to be "the dominant religious of the 18th century." He felt that his own church was too coldly formal; it is said that Luther's preface to the Epistle to the Romans made the decision. This Epistle, supposedly written from Corinth about 68 A.D. by Paul, emphasized faith. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through..." Romans 5:1.
  2. Give the definition of faith. Hebrews 11:1-40.
  3. According to Ephesians 1, is Christianity involved with predestination?
  4. What was Paul's earnest desire for Israel? Romans 10:1.
  5. "Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not..." Psalm 51:11.
- Four correct... excellent, three... good.

Pizza industry infiltrated by the 'Mob'

WASHINGTON — Not content with its illicit dealings in gambling and narcotics, the Mob is also inflicting heartburn on millions of Americans through widespread infiltration of the pizza industry.

It's no laughing matter to the organized-crime experts of the FBI and state investigative agencies. The Pennsylvania Crime Commission alone has issued a voluminous intelligence report on the situation.

Unlike hundreds of legitimate businesses identified by the FBI as Mafia-infiltrated, the pizza industry is uniquely susceptible to underworld control at every step, my sources point out — from the original cheese production to the final distribution to the pizza parlor on the corner.

Mob ties to the cheese industry started in the 1940s through retired Jersey, Ohio, Delaware and Maryland. Pennsylvania Crime Commission records list Salvatore Profaci, a member of the Joseph Colombo crime family of New York, as "an enforcer of territorial rights and as a full-time consultant" for Roma Foods.

Roma's president, Louis Piancone, has never been identified as a member of organized crime, and he repudiates any suggestion that his company has Mob ties. "We have nothing to hide," he said.

Pennsylvania Crime Commission investigators allege that another pizza empire with ties to organized crime is that of John Scotto and his brother Vincent in the East, the Midwest, Florida and Puerto Rico. The Scottos have borrowed heavily from Roma Foods.

"Those persons who want to buy or lease Scotto shops," the Pennsylvania Crime Commission charges, "must make substantial under-the-table cash payments to the Scottos."

John Scotto complained he's being hounded by state and federal authorities "because I'm Italian and because I'm making a good living."

First Amendment grants press no special rights

The recent flap over the question of the CIA using newsmen is indicative in my opinion of a dangerous trend in some quarters of the press to view itself as a special class of citizens.

We are not. The first amendment says only that Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press. I take that, as I do the rest of the Constitution, to mean exactly what it says.

A while back there was much agitation for a so-called shield law. This would exempt a reporter from being forced to testify in court or before a grand jury if doing so would force him to reveal his sources. I'm dead against such a law.

The business of protecting your sources is a trade custom which arose for strictly selfish reasons. We sometimes promise to protect a person's anonymity in exchange for information. If you give that promise and then break it, you will soon for obvious reasons find that no one is willing to trust you.

For that reason, if I promise you anonymity, I will keep it even if it means going to jail. What some of my colleagues want to do is have their cake and eat it, too. They want to protect their sources at no personal sacrifice and they want to do that by exempting the press, as a class, from the normal duties of citizenship.

As a citizen, I have a duty to report any knowledge of a crime to the police. As a citizen, I have a duty to come forward with information that has a direct bearing on the guilt or innocence of an individual on trial. As a citizen, I have a duty to cooperate with the lawful agencies of government in the carrying out of their lawful duties and responsibilities.

While I may now be in a minority, I have always and do now believe that the duties of citizenship are a higher obligation than my duties as member of the press. I'm not going to commit a crime just to get a story. I'm not going to protect a criminal to get a story. In my book, it's more important for an individual to get a fair trial than it is for a newspaper to get a story about the trial, though in this area, defense lawyers have made a mockery of common sense.

As for cooperating with the CIA or the FBI, I will in a minute so long as it doesn't involve writing false or misleading stories. I will help my government, but I won't lie for it.

It seems to me there is no small element of hypocrisy in this reluctance to be associated with the CIA. Most newsmen have no reluctance at all to ask government to cooperate with them. As for placing reporters in danger, that's so much hot air. In countries which are hostile to the United States, they're going to think you are a spy anyway because outside of a handful of nations, the press is just the lackey of the governments. To these characters, a free press is as incomprehensible as a talking elephant.

But here again in some quarters there is an element of hypocrisy. I don't know why the Washington Post, for example, is so keen on claiming absolute neutrality from our government when it uses a stringer in Havana who was for years on Castro's payroll or a stringer in Jordan who is a member of the PLO.

As a matter of fact there is a lot of hypocrisy. The Post which saw nothing wrong with publishing the stolen classified documents known as the Pentagon Papers declined to publish documents found in the briefcase of Orlando Letelier, the Marxist Chilean diplomat who was killed in Washington. Those papers showed that Letelier was on the payroll of the Cuban secret police.

The New York Times which also published the Pentagon Papers once wrote a stinging editorial after Jack Anderson had published the contents of a secret memorandum which showed that the late Adlai Stevenson had come unglued in the Cuban Missile Crisis. The Times said then that it was imperative that government officials feel free to debate policy without the fear of subsequent public exposure.

Not only does the press have the same duties and rights as the ordinary citizen, and no more, it also has the same vices and virtues.

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

I predict that future historians will write of the 1980 campaign as follows: "By the summer of that turbulent year, Americans were convinced that, as far as the Democrats were concerned, inflation, recession and the threat of war, were a much better option than that nagging uncertainty."

"In primary after primary, the Democrats worked to realize their age-old dream — having a Herbert Hoover of their very own."

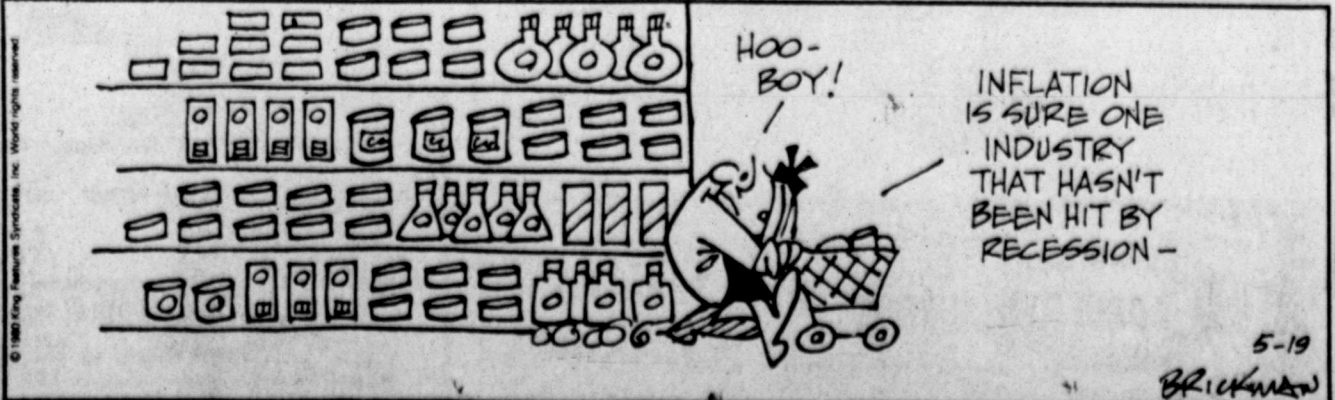

"Meanwhile, Teddy Kennedy kept hammering away at his campaign message — 'Morality and chaos or me?' Take your pick."

"At the Democratic convention in New York, the Carter faithful paraded around the hall chanting — 'Don't dump him now — he's beginning to get the hang of it.'" (To be continued)

INSIDE REPORT:

Soviets gaining ground in the United States' backyard

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

WASHINGTON — A secret agreement between the Soviet Communist Party and the Sandinista Marxist Party of Nicaragua, signed in Moscow in late March, points to major new Soviet intervention and a possible Nicaragua-Cuban military accord in the increasingly-hostile Caribbean backyard of the United States.

"The Soviet government would be unlikely to sign a party-to-party agreement with a foreign country unless Moscow regarded that country as a reliable, long-term partner," a leading Latin American authority told us.

The secret agreement between the two ruling parties is regarded by non-communist Latin nations as a dangerous Soviet intrusion into the Central American heartland. It appears aimed at planting Soviet influence and arms smack on the bridge between the Americas, flanked by what used to be the peaceful lake of the Caribbean but what is now becoming an alien sea dominated by the Soviet dependency of Cuba.

What is actually contained in the secret party-to-party agreement is not known here or by the governments of principal Latin American countries. There is reason to suspect, however, that Moscow is encouraging a military link between communist Cuba and the Sandinistas, who toppled Anastasio Somoza's right-wing dictatorship last year. That link would guarantee money, arms and supplies for Nicaragua.

If so, Moscow would gain automatic entry to the struggling Sandinista regime through a kindly intermediary — Cuba's Fidel Castro. Without Castro, the Marxist revolution in strategically-placed Nicaragua could not have succeeded last summer.

The Soviet plan is to communicate Central America and, using that land bridge as a dagger pointing north and south, extend its influence onto the two continents. What is surprising to top policy-makers in the Carter administration is the speed with which this Soviet campaign is progressing, and the increasing boldness of the men in Moscow and their agents in Havana.

U.S. intelligence sources are now certain, for example, that Castro is upgrading his estimated 144 SAM-2 anti-aircraft missile sites on Cuba. Now single-stage rockets, the Soviet-made SAM-2 is acquiring three new boosters. Some U.S. officials believe the purpose is to provide better air defenses for possible U.S. retaliation against a Soviet-Cuban decision to redeploy nuclear weapons in Cuba some time in the future.

After the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, the Russians promised never again to move offensive nuclear weapons into Cuba. But the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan broke the back of detente and U.S.-Cuban relations are at a new low — poisoned in part by Castro's deadly military work in Central America. Castro is clearly preparing for new confrontation with Washington.

He now has at least 2,000 Cuban agents in Nicaragua, including military advisers who control a small training camp at Esteli and a fortified air facility at Montelemar. Some U.S. officials claim that although the Sandinista regime is controlled today by pro-Castro Marxists, a political power struggle continues within the revolutionary group.

If so, there was no sign of it during the four-day, late-March Moscow summit between the Sandinistas and two of the highest Soviet leaders, including Politburo member A.P. Kirilenko and Boris Ponomarev, Moscow's chief liaison with foreign Communist Parties.

The communique describing that session outlined several routine agreements — widely published here and in Latin America — on consular, trade, air traffic and other relations. The Soviet version of the communique then stated in the next to last paragraph: "A plan of ties" between the Soviet Communist Party and the Sandinistas "for 1980-1981 was signed."

It is that bareboned agreement that U.S. and Latin authorities believe points toward a military arrangement of some kind between Nicaragua and Cuba, with the Soviets as middle-man broker. It was signed by a leading member of the Sandinista junta and by ministers of internal affairs (Nicaragua's top cop), defense and economic planning — the revolutionary regime's high command.

The commitment to Soviet world policy by these four Sandinistas is breathtaking: denunciation of the U.S.-NATO decision to upgrade NATO's nuclear arms; defense of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan (later gently repudiated by a member of the junta) and "renunciation of the use of force" — notwithstanding Afghanistan.

Such rhetoric pales alongside the possibility of a made-in-Moscow military alliance between Cuba and Nicaragua. While President Carter fumes over American hostages in Tehran and laments Afghanistan, aggression of a more ominous character is being practiced in our own backyard.

DEATHS

Allie Batten

BROWNFIELD — Services for Allie Batten, 79, of Lubbock, sister of Claude Wilson of Midland, were to be at 2 p.m. today in the Brownfield Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Hugh Harris officiating.

Burial was to be in Brownfield Cemetery.

Mrs. Batten died Sunday at her home following an illness.

She was born in Oklahoma, and was married to Gilman Batten in Denver, Colo., on Oct. 11, 1937. She moved to Brownfield in 1941, to Los Angeles, Calif., in 1946, returned to Brownfield in 1958, and moved to Lubbock seven weeks ago.

Other survivors include three daughters, two brothers, three sisters, five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Sarah Griffith

BIG SPRING — Services for Sarah Mae Griffith, 75, are pending at Shepard Funeral Home here.

She died Sunday in a Lubbock hospital following a brief illness.

Willie Nelson

Services for Willie Mae Nelson, 50, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Thomas Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Rase Gowans officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery. She died Friday following an illness.

Underwood died early Saturday at his home after a lengthy illness.

Pallbearers were to be Brent Bane and Jim Bane, both of Pasadena; Bill Windrum of Austin; Wayne Holland of Carlsbad, N.M.; Steven Underwood of Midland; and Larry Underwood of Tulsa, Okla.

Party official ambushed by Red Brigades

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Red Brigades terrorists killed a local official of the ruling Christian Democratic Party today, spraying his car with pistol fire in an ambush in downtown Naples, police reported.

Four members of the gang including a young woman were arrested after a high-speed chase through the crowded streets of Naples that ended in a five-minute shootout with officers. They said they belonged to the Red Brigades, Italy's most feared terrorist gang which kidnapped and killed five-time Premier Aldo Moro two years ago.

Frightened passersby ran for cover or dived onto the pavement when the gang struck in the morning rush hour near the Piazza of the Martyrs.

Former president leads in Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Former President Fernando Belaunde Terry, overthrown by the armed forces almost 12 years ago, was virtually assured of returning to the presidential palace in projected nationwide returns today from Peru's presidential election.

Although there were no official results of Sunday's election, national television networks broadcast a computer projection predicting Belaunde would get 1,762,573 votes, 42.4 percent of those cast. The official tabulation was to get under way later today with final results expected in 10 days.

If the final, official count bears out the projected results, Belaunde will win election by direct popular vote. The constitution requires the winner to get 36 percent or the election must be decided between the two top candidates by the national congress.

"I feel like a general who has remained in the rearward watching his troops in combat," the 67-year-old, silver-haired candidate of the centrist Popular Action Party told well-wishers at his high-rise apartment. "You are the soldiers to whom I owe the victory."

Belaunde spent many years in exile in the United States after his overthrow on Oct. 3, 1968, but returned in 1978 to lay the groundwork for this year's election.

The computer projection estimated some 3.95 million of the country's 6.4 million registered voters cast valid ballots. The others either did not vote or placed blank or invalid ballots in the canisters.

The computer results were based on unofficial returns from key voting tables. Public Opinion of Peru, a private firm specializing in election surveys, claimed 95 percent accuracy.

The leading candidates behind Belaunde were Armando Villanueva, 64, of the center-left American Popular Revolutionary Alliance, 1,037,945 votes, 27.5 percent, and Luis Bedoya Reyes, 61, of the conservative Popular Christian Party, 419,065 votes, 11 percent, and Horacio Zevallos, 46, of Revolutionary Left Union, 151,751 votes, 3.9 percent.

The remainder of the votes went to 11 other candidates.

Villanueva and his party complained of voting irregularities in Lima and several other cities were Belaunde Terry appeared to have made a strong showing. The national election board promised a full investigation.

Told of the computer projection, Belaunde Terry pledged that the first priority of his government would be "to elevate the quality of life for the Peruvian people."

More than 800,000 illiterates were registered to vote for the first time under a new constitution that also lowered the age limit from 21 to 18.

The voters chose a president, two vice presidents, 60 senators and 180 congressmen, all for five-year terms of office.

President Carter sent a message to the voters saying their election was of "profound significance for all of the nations of the Americas" and "a welcome reaffirmation of this positive hemispheric trend... (of) steady progress toward the achievement of democracy throughout the Americas during the last few years."

The message was read on television by U.S. Ambassador Harry Shlaudeman.

President Francisco Morales Bermudez, chief of the ruling military junta, pledged the armed forces would abide by the will of the electorate.

"It is an election to transfer political power to the civilians, after the armed forces have carried out revolutionary transformations which have changed the political, social and economic panoramas of the country," he said.

Two military regimes have governed the country since 1968, one headed by leftist Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, who died in 1977, and the other by Morales, who seized power from Velasco in 1975.

Civilian governments have been traditionally short-lived in politically turbulent Peru. But the leading presidential candidates have promised to work with their political rivals after the election to head off any shift back to military rule.

The election came at a time of social and economic unrest. The government estimates 60 percent of the work force is unemployed or underemployed, inflation is averaging 70 percent a year and the average worker's purchasing power has been cut in half since 1974.

Ringo flips Mercedes

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr escaped with slight injuries today when his Mercedes skidded, hit two lampposts and ended up on its roof on the opposite side of the road in south London, police said.

With the former Beatle drummer was actress Barbara Bach, 33, who played a Russian agent in the recent James Bond movie "The Spy Who Loved Me."

Both were taken to a hospital, treated for minor leg and back injuries and released, a hospital spokesman said.

Ringo and Miss Bach managed to get out of the overturned car and were taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Ringo, who joined The Beatles in 1962 and launched a solo singing and acting career around 1970 after the group broke up, has appeared in 14 movies. His first marriage to Maureen Cox ended in divorce in 1975.

Connally's mother to be buried Sunday

BANDERA, Texas (AP) — Lela Wright Connally, the mother of former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, died at a Bandera nursing home Friday night after a lengthy illness. She was 90.

A funeral is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the First United Methodist Church of Floresville. The Rev. Jess Mothersbaugh will officiate.

Mrs. Connally was the widow of John Bowden Connally, a Texas farmer and butcher who later used the proceeds of a bus company he operated in San Antonio to buy the family ranch in Floresville. He died in 1950.

Mrs. Hicks said her mother, born Dec. 22, 1889, was teaching school in Wilson County before she married in 1908.

She was the mother of eight children, but her first son died when he was 2 years old.

She had been a resident of the Purple Hills Nursing Home in Bandera for 10 years. Prior to that she lived quietly on the Connally ranch in Floresville.

She is survived by four other sons, Standford W. and Golfrey M., both of San Antonio, former state Sen. Wayne W. Connally of Del Rio and Judge Merrill L. Connally of Floresville; two daughters, Mrs. Hicks of Bandera and Mrs. Blanche Kline of Dallas; a brother, Tom Wright of Floresville; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Lou Moore and Mrs. Annie Cox of Floresville and Mrs. Maggie Swift of San Antonio; 17 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Three gunmen take over floor of Carlton Hotel

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Three men claiming to have explosives took over the 15th floor of South Africa's best known hotel today, police said.

The 27-story Carlton Hotel, in the heart of downtown Johannesburg, was surrounded by police.

Col. Leon Mellet, a police spokesman, said officers had sealed off the floor, evacuated guests and were trying to determine what the men wanted.

He said the three held an assistant hotel manager hostage for one hour but then released him.

Cub Day Camp

Chaparral Cub Day Camp will be held June 2-6 and June 16-20 in Hogan Park.

The camp will be directed by an experienced day-camp director, W.A. Gillum, who will be working with a trained staff. Activities will include leather crafts, art plaster, Popsicle-stick crafts, swimming, paddle-boat races, Indian crafts, balloons, team games and leadership skills.

The camp is being sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America's Buffalo Trail Council. Cost per Cub per week is $18.

The camp begins at 8:45 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m. each day. Any youth who is registered in a Cub Pack is eligible to join in the fun and games.

Registration deadline is Tuesday for Cubs wishing to participate in the camp's first session. Deadline for signing up for the second session is May 27. Cubs or their parents, brothers and sisters wishing additional information may call Gillum at 682-1473.

Double* your savings growth with your own Survival Kit™

State and federal income taxes can take as much as 70% of the interest a person's savings earn. A single person who earns $25,000 taxable income pays as much as 40% of his savings interest in federal taxes alone. This makes planning your financial future, or retirement, almost impossible.

The Survival Kit defers state and federal income tax on the interest your savings earn. Your savings grow dramatically faster, because the interest is left to compound and earn interest on itself.

In effect, the Survival Kit lets you use what otherwise would be tax dollars, to build your financial future, or provide for your retirement.

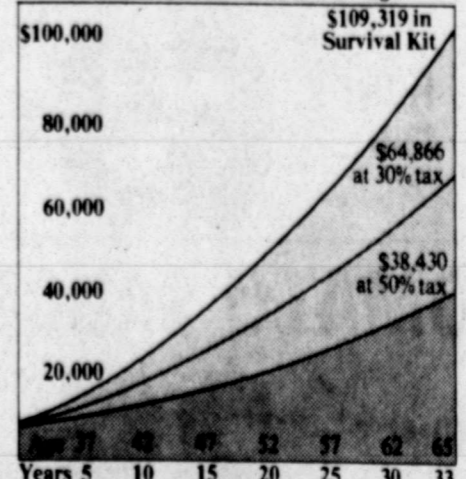

The Survival Kit can offer you this lifesaving advantage in growth because it is a group annuity plan underwritten by American Life and Casualty Insurance Company. But it is nothing like the traditional annuity plan which holds funds at a low, fixed rate of return.

Instead, the Survival Kit combines the advantages of a modern, high-return certificate savings account with the advantages made possible by this group annuity plan. In addition to the all-important deferral of taxes, you gain surprising withdrawal privileges, a variety of estate-planning benefits, and the option of choosing between lifetime retirement income payments or any other form of withdrawal that meets your needs. You are the one who decides how to withdraw your funds, and when.

Call us today for full information on all the ways the Survival Kit can improve your financial future.

*Depending on your tax bracket and length of time savings are held in your Survival Kit.

Compare the growth of $10,000 in a Survival Kit™ versus conventional 8% certificate savings.

50% TAXPAYER
$70,889 greater increase in savings over an ordinary savings plan for a person in a 50% tax bracket.

30% TAXPAYER
$44,453 greater increase even at a 30% tax bracket. That's what would happen for a saver, age 32, who deposits $10,000 at 8% and saves to age 65 in the example above. Come in today for the Survival Kit that can dramatically increase your savings.

Our Tax Dollars Finance Communism!

"For years, through the disastrous policy of detente, our tax dollars have been used to help strengthen Soviet tyranny. But now that the Soviets have invaded Afghanistan, the propaganda mills are telling us that we should strengthen the equally tyrannical Red Chinese. This ploy to continue the financing of Communism with our own tax dollars must be stopped!"

The Ploy To Strengthen Red China

Patrick Mahoney has a long and fascinating career in the world of intrigue at the international level. His twenty-plus years in the Air Force were spent in counterintelligence in Europe, Laos, and North and South Vietnam. While in Vietnam, he was attached to the famous Green Berets. Mr. Mahoney currently serves as a research analyst on the staff of The John Birch Society in Belmont, Massachusetts. He has come face to face with Communist tyranny and knows what must be done to destroy it.

The Cost Of Communism

- During World War II the United States provided the Soviet Union with over $11 billion in lend lease. Almost all of this amount was "written-off" by our own government. Even worse, some of our cargo ships that the Soviets never returned were used to transport materials to North Vietnam during the Vietnam War.
- Since 1972 alone, the Soviet Union and the Eastern European Communist Bloc have received nearly $60 billion dollars in credit from the West. Of course, this massive aid program has helped the Soviet Union to become a modern military threat.
- The largest truck manufacturing plant in the world today is on the Kama River in the Soviet Union. This complex, covering nearly 40 square miles, is just one example of a Soviet "achievement" made possible by American credit and technology. Trucks from the Kama River plant are being used by the Soviet military in Afghanistan.
- The invasion of Afghanistan has made the truth about Soviet tyranny more widely known. Yet, incredibly, we are now being asked to "counter" Soviet aggression by strengthening the Communist Chinese. These are the same Communist Chinese who (according to a 1971 Senate Subcommittee Report) murdered from 34 million to 64 million of their own people!

Muskie urges arms control; Praises HHH

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie turned a tribute to the late Hubert H. Humphrey into a strong pitch for arms control agreements with the Soviet Union, giving new prominence to an issue set back by the slide in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Speaking before a crowd of 1,500 at a Worcester fund-raiser Sunday night, Muskie said "we must understand that our military forces and our alliances, the bedrock of our foreign policies, are strengthened by arms control."

He said the United States "must never fear to seek agreements that limit a threat to our security."

Same song, new verse: Carter, Reagan favored

By The Associated Press

Ronald Reagan is continuing to inch his way toward nomination for president, and both he and President Carter seem likely to jump a few feet in that direction in primary elections Tuesday.

Reagan picked up 19 more Republican National Convention delegates over the weekend, bringing him to within 158 of the number needed for nomination, and Carter held steady with a wide lead in delegate strength.

But that doesn't stop their underdog rivals from claiming the race is not over, and Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy got a surprise backer Sunday in that opinion: none other than former President Gerald R. Ford.

"My intuition tells me if people give me adequate odds, Sen. Kennedy has a good shot at getting the Democratic nomination," especially with the economy worsening, the former Republican president said in an interview in Chicago.

Over the weekend, Kennedy forced an 11-11 split in what had been a Carter majority delegation of Maine Democrats, but that gained him just one delegate.

And Republican George Bush came out on top of the Delaware GOP state convention, winning six delegates to the national convention, to four for Reagan and two uncommitted. But Reagan picked up 15 delegates to none for Bush in Virginia congressional district conventions.

That meant the weekend left Reagan with 840 of the 998 national convention delegates needed for nomination, to 192 for Bush. Carter had 1,364 of the 1,666 required for the Democratic nomination and Kennedy had 771.

Alaska Democrats were completing their delegate selection process over the weekend, but results were not known early today. Alaska will send 18 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

On Tuesday, Reagan and Carter are favored to win in primary elections in Oregon, and Reagan is also expected to emerge victorious in Michigan, where neither Kennedy or Carter are not on the Democratic ballot because the party has already chosen its delegates by caucus.

Carter also was expected to gain the upper hand today in Utah, where 20 delegates to the national convention will be chosen by straw ballot at 1,700 party meetings across the state. State Democratic officials say the president is favored 2-to-1 in the latest party polls.

There are 29 GOP delegates and 39 Democratic ones at state in the Oregon primaries, and Michigan Republicans will choose 82 delegates to the Republican National Convention. Utah Republicans will choose their delegates in a state convention.

A poll printed by the Portland Oregonian on Sunday showed Reagan with 54 percent of the vote to 24 percent for Bush. It showed Carter getting 54 percent and Kennedy 22 percent.

Reagan's own polls show him winning by 10 percent in Michigan. That's down from 20 percent in his polls earlier, with Bush having gained the backing of Michigan Gov. William Milliken.

But it's thought that a court decision last week leaving independent candidate John Anderson's name on the Republican ballot will work against Bush since Anderson's moderate stance is closer to Bush's than Reagan's.

Also over the weekend, Hawaii Republicans voted to send an uncommitted, 14-member delegation to the GOP convention in Detroit next July.

Youth can't raise bail, hangs self

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — A 17-year-old youth was found hanged in the Port Aransas jail Tuesday after he unsuccessfully tried to raise money for a $310.50 bond.

Ramiro Ramos of San Antonio had been arrested Saturday night and charged with public intoxication, possession of marijuana and driving without a valid license.

Oh yes, Oh no is the winner

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — A Salinas frog named "Oh No" had the top hop at the annual Calaveras County Jumping Frog Contest, sailing 19 feet 9 1/2 inches to lead a field of 1,900 entries.

The two-day event, run in the spirit of the 1865 Mark Twain story, "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," drew more than 40,000 visitors to this dusty Sierra foothills town about 120 miles east of San Francisco. The competition ended Sunday.

In the separate contest among governors, Hawaii Gov. George Ariyoshi's frog, "Ke'U-e," came in ahead of 18 other entries with a leap of 15 feet, 2 inches. California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s entry, "Rana Rupta," finished last with a laggard 2 feet 2 1/2 inches.

Clements expecting big legislative results in 1981

AUSTIN (AP) — With the Texas primaries past there is a brief lull in presidential politics and some thoughts are beginning to turn to prospects for the 1981 Legislature.

Presidential politics will pick up again with the state and national party conventions June through August, and reach a climax in the November general election. After that, full attention of Texas' legislators and interested lobbyists and voters will be on the 140-day regular legislative session beginning Jan. 13.

Gov. Bill Clements, who did not fare so well in his first legislative session, which began a few days before he was inaugurated in 1979, has served notice he expects big results from the 1981 session.

Clements success, or lack of it, likely will be the main issue of the 1982 governor's race, if he tries for a second term, and if Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, former Attorney General John Hill or other Democrats decide to challenge him.

Hobby has already indicated he will challenge Clements on some of the Republican governor's legislative programs.

There apparently will be a small turnover in Texas House and Senate members from the 1979 Legislature, so Clements can expect his legislative reception to be about the same in 1981 as in 1979.

Clements has revealed three priority issues he will submit to lawmakers in January.

One will be a proposed constitution change to let 10 percent of qualified voters petition the legislature for state law changes. If the legislature did not follow through, the question would go to the voters as a referendum.

Hobby has opposed the initiative and referendum issue, saying it takes away the power of elected representatives of the people.

Speaker Bill Clayton, who may or may not be speaker in 1981, because of his involvement in a federal grand jury bribery investigation, favors indirect initiation of legislation by voters but not in the form Clements proposed.

Clements proposes new laws to allow the Department of Public Safety to use wiretapping in their efforts to control drugs. He has not decided whether this will include marijuana or not.

Hobby opposes the proposal, saying Clements' plan does not provide enough protection for private citizens against the invasion of their privacy.

Clayton is for limited wiretaps, strongly hemmed in by protections for personal rights.

Clements also wants legislative action that would return maybe $1 billion to Texas taxpayers over the next two years.

Hobby says this does not appear possible in view of rising state agency operating costs and the comptroller's forecast that state revenue increases will be less than Clements predicts.

Clayton says a tax bill might be necessary because of the pressure of inflation on state revenue.

Clements says he wants to increase the state gasoline tax in line with highway repair and construction costs. The proposed legislation has not been written, but aides say a decision would be made each September whether gasoline taxes need to be increased for the next year to cover highway costs instead of taking the difference from the general revenue fund.

Hobby thinks there should be a gasoline tax increase but has no particular recommendation.

Clayton prefers a percentage increase for the state gasoline tax, so that the state's share would increase as gasoline prices go up.

Clements said once that he would support legislation to let counties levy a sales tax, on a local option basis, but will not propose it personally.

Later, Clements said he meant the endorsement to apply only to hospital districts or counties that operate hospitals in connection with medical schools. He said he was opposed to allowing school districts to levy a local sales tax or permitting cities to increase their penny-on-the-dollar tax.

Both Clements and Hobby support an immediate pay raise for state employees as soon as the 1981 Legislature meets.

Clayton has not made a recommendation on employees' raises but is working on a detailed plan to increase teacher pay as part of a system to upgrade the entire educational system.

Other Clements plans for the Legislature include a bill to prevent union dues check-offs from state employees salaries and additional prohibition against teacher strikes, a bill to license and regulate nuclear waste disposal, and a bill to amend the shock probation law.

Three striking phone workers jailed in Texas

PORTLAND, Texas (AP) — Three General Telephone Co. of the Southwest employees were jailed for investigation of malicious mischief this weekend and leaders of a strike against the company said several unrelated picket line incidents left at least one striker injured. San Patricio County Deputy Van Elliot said the three men were arrested after witnesses told authorities they saw the men trying to cut company telephone cables Saturday night. The men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charlott Griffin, who set preliminary bond at $10,000, Elliot said. Almost two dozen separate incidents of vandalism against company property since the Communication Workers of America went on strike just after midnight Friday, company official Clovis McCallister said at company headquarters in San Angelo. About 8,000 workers in four states — 5,000 of them in Texas — are involved in the walkout, union leaders said. T.O. Moses, of CWA Local 12171 and chairman of the union bargaining committee said Sunday two strikers were involved in picket line incidents over the weekend. Shortly before 11 p.m. Saturday night, picketer Don Mills was struck by a car leaving the General Telephone company parking lot at Coppell.

Mountain's beauty erased by eruption, pilot said

CASTLE ROCK, Wash. (AP) — The once lushly forested flanks of Mount St. Helens resemble the desolate wastes of the moon now that the volcano's violent eruption has altered the landscape, say aerial observers.

"There's one hell of a big hole up there — a big chunk of the mountain is gone," said Tom Robinson, a state Department of Natural Resources manager who flew over the mountain by helicopter Sunday, only hours after it erupted with a bang felt 200 miles away.

"It looked like someone had literally taken a butter knife and sliced off the top of the mountain," he said.

U.S. Geological Survey scientists agreed with Robinson's observations, saying the volcano had dwindled in height from 9,677 feet to 9,100 feet that spewed towering clouds of ash.

Before the eruptions, the mountain with its nearly perfect conical shape and pristine snow covering had been compared to Japan's scenic Mount Fujiyama. Now, "it kind of looks like the moon — everything is gray," Robinson said.

The mountain began erupting March 27 for the first time in 123 years.

Sunday morning's eruption appeared to have created a tremendous gale which toppled miles of timber on the northwest flank of the mountain, Robinson said.

"It looks as if someone had detonated a concussion bomb above it," he said. "There are thousands and thousands of acres with nothing standing more than 20 feet high. It's incredible."

Up to 6,000 acres of land were cleared by the blast, said Wimpy Clark, a DNR operations forester also in the helicopter. "It's a hell of a mess. It's just plain damn mind-boggling."

In addition to the forests, the eruption and the cascading mud and debris it produced erased other features. "Spirit Lake doesn't exist," said Dwight E. Reber, a Columbia Helicopters Inc. pilot from Aurora, Ore., who flew over the popular recreational lake at the foot of St. Helens.

"If it does, it's a lake of lava and mud. Steam and smoke are rising from the edge of the lake," he said. "There are places where the north fork of the Toutle (River) appears to be boiling."

Numerous forest fires were burning among the tree rubble, but flames were being snuffed out by a foot-thick layer of volcanic ash, Robinson said. "The ash is so deep it has retarded the action of the fire — just like the chemicals used to combat forest fires," he said.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND PARTIES:

You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the Construction Permit Application No. C-6719 by PPG Industries to construct a continuous-strand fiber glass manufacturing facility in Midland, Midland County, Texas. The proposed location is between U.S. Highway 80 and Interstate 20, six miles southwest of downtown Midland. This facility proposes to emit the following air contaminants: nitrogen oxides, sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, particulate, and fluorine.

A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Region 6 office at 835 Tower Street, Odessa, Texas 79760, and at the Texas Air Control Board, 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723. All interested persons shall have until June 19, 1980 to inspect these materials, submit written comments to the Executive Director, and/or request notification of the proposed agency action. All comments received in writing by the above date shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the application. All comments will be made available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board office in Austin.

Don't panic, officials tell residents

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — As volcanic ash from Mount St. Helens fell Sunday night over eastern Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana, law enforcement officers had one word of advice — don't panic.

"Don't drive, don't leave home, don't use the telephone, don't leave animals outside, and — above all — don't panic."

Travel on roads, highways and city streets in parts of the three states came to a virtual standstill Sunday when visibility dropped to zero as the thick dust hid the sun. Even when visibility improved, cars stirred up small clouds of dust shrouding everything behind in darkness.

Authorities also warned that any car driven in the ash would probably get a clogged air filter. Medical officials said the ash particles are not hazardous except to those with respiratory or lung problems, but can still cause irritation.

"The ash is actually little fragments of glass — tiny, sharp little slivers. It is an irritant to the nose and lungs if you inhale a large amount," said Eugene Kiver of Eastern Washington University.

Most eastern Washington police and sheriff's deputies were issued surgical masks Sunday to protect them while working. But even gas masks were of little use, since filters soon clogged with ash, a police spokesman said.

A rag or mask of some kind was better than nothing at all, another official said. A number of area schools announced a Monday holiday. Airports remained closed through the night and bus travel halted.

Pacific Northwest Bell put out urgent requests Sunday, asking customers to refrain from using telephones except in emergencies. Telephone lines throughout the region were jammed much of the day.

If the ash comes in contact with skin, authorities said it should be rinsed off with large amounts of water, not just wiped off.

A heavy dose of water will also flush the ash off cars, homes, buildings, plants and shrubs, but officials said trying to wipe ash off buildings or autos with a rag would scratch and remove paint.

Brown baggers to hear 'voices of tomorrow'

Brown baggers attending Tuesday's Lunch Bunch will have the opportunity to hear the 'voices of tomorrow.'

Paul Raymond and Ernie Angelo, members of the Lee High School debate team, will debate the question, "Should We Trade Energy and the Bomb?"

Raymond, recently chosen salutatorian at Lee High School, has received two academic letters, and will attend Rice University, majoring in chemical engineering. He has two debate letters and a letter in speech, as well as a distinction award in the National Forensic League.

Ernie has been similarly honored with academic letters, and is a member of the National Honor Society, with plans to attend Texas A&M University. He has participated in debate tournaments, sponsored by the University Interscholastic League.

Last Tuesday's Lunch Bunch took home a "Stress Scenario" presented by John Winham, associate director, West Texas Pastoral Counseling Center, Inc. The purpose was to enable people to reach decisions which will cause them least stress, yet satisfy our goals. He suggested people anticipate an experience with enjoyment rather than fear, if they can.

"We must learn to know our belief system; that is, our expectations of self and our world. Not, 'I must be perfect, or people must love me,' rather, 'not everyone likes me and that's okay, or I am a person of worth with God, and so with me,'" said Winham. "Experience the situation through the belief system filter and take the emotion from the event," he added.

Winham advised the audience to reinforce or expand their belief system to fit the new experience with positive reality.

The Lunch Bunch, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, will continue through May 27. Bibliographies compiled by the library staff augment the programs and are available in the library. Coffee is served through a community service of Luby's Cafeteria.

All girls can enjoy outdoor living at Girl Scout camp

Summer is rapidly approaching, and many girls are deciding which session of Girl Scout camp they will attend. There are six full weeks of outdoor living from which to choose for all age levels.

Mitre Peak in the Davis Mountains offers a wide variety of outdoor programs. Depending upon the camper's age and experience, housing facilities include cabins and platform tents. Showers and latrines are available in all quarters, and the girls also receive well prepared meals each day.

Scheduled activities will include crafts, hiking, horseback riding, swimming, archery, folk dancing, nature projects and camp fires. Two exciting programs for the older girls are pioneer travel and high adventure. Girls in 8 through 12th grades who have completed a primitive camping unit are eligible to register for pioneer travel. A horse drawn Conestoga wagon complete with camping equipment and several days food supply will travel across, unspoiled countryside, reliving the days long since past of open skies, fresh air and scenic beauty.

For girls even more adventurous, the float trip down the Rio Grande is always popular. The requirements for this activity are that girls be entering the 9-12th grades, complete a session of primitive camping and have their swimming card. The float trip will be in the Big Bend National Park.

Many Girl Scout troops enjoy camping at Hat-A-Ranch in the summer. In these four-day sessions, the leader and girls work closely together learning the basic camping skills. Meals are prepared for the campers, and everyone sleeps in platform or roundup tents.

The Permian Basin Girl Scout Council is still registering girls for both camps. The camp programs are open to non-Scouts, as well as Scouts. The camps can guarantee the most memorable summer a girl will ever have in her youth. Now is the time for her to learn about nature, people and herself.

For more specific information concerning Girl Scout summer camp, call the Permian Basin Girl Scout Council at 563-0634.

DEAR ABBY

Fortune hunter may not need to rent

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: An attractive, blonde, 53-year-old divorcee is renting our small guest house. We heard that she was involved in a scandal back east, so she left her home and family and came west to live on a limited income.

The last six months she has been chasing our 92-year-old neighbor — a very wealthy widower who is alert, lively and in remarkably good health.

It all began when she started taking him special foods and phoning him several times a day. Now the affair has progressed to where she has been spending most of her nights at his place!

This lonely man has given up most of his old friends, and his faithful, Old World housekeeper of many years is so shocked, she is quitting.

Half of my family says there's no fool like an old fool and if she takes him to the cleaners, he asked for it. The other half is so disgusted by this blatant fortune hunter that they want us to throw her out of the rental. They say by not doing so we are a party to it.

Please give us your opinion. — TURNED-OFF LANDLORDS

DEAR TURNED OFF: Your tenant's private life is none of your business. Furthermore, if you should throw her out of her rental, the lovely, lively 92-year-old widower will probably take the poor, homeless lady in!

DEAR ABBY: I'm another one of those "Never thought I'd write to Dear Abby" persons.

I have a daughter-in-law who never calls me to extend a dinner invitation. She always has our son do the calling, which irritates me, as there is no reason why she can't call me personally.

This seems to be a common problem among mothers-in-law. I truly want a good relationship with my son's wife and will abide by your decision. If you print this as a help to other mothers-in-law in the same boat, sign me... — IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: If you truly want a good relationship with your son's wife, you will not make an issue of who does the calling. Just be grateful for the invitation. Most mothers-in-law seldom see their sons unless MOM does the inviting.

DEAR ABBY: I must comment on the controversy concerning bullfighting. What surprises us Spanish people is that Americans condemn bullfighting but see nothing wrong with the outrageous savagery of their so-called sport, "boxing."

How can you condemn bullfighting and approve the brutality of two human beings beating each other with the ultimate purpose of knocking the opponent unconscious, which at times has caused fatal results?

It is unconceivable to us that a civilized country permits such inhumane contests causing swollen eyes, bloody noses and faces beaten to a bloody pulp!

Abby, please be less concerned about our bulls, and show more compassion for your fellow man by trying to outlaw boxing. — DAVID FRONSECA, EAST RIDGE, TENN.

DEAR DAVID: At the risk of opening another bull session, I'll repeat my comment: "All sports in which blood (animal or human) is spilled should be outlawed." However, in boxing, the boxer comes into the ring voluntarily, of his own free will. In bullfighting, the poor bull has no choice.

CONFIDENTIAL to those who have sent for Abby's booklets: Please, please be patient. I am literally deluged with orders and am getting them out as quickly as possible.

Entire family can use sun power to cook

By JESSE SLOME
Copley News Service

Want to have some fun in the sun? Try using sun power to cook your next meal. Cooking with solar energy is a delightful outdoor adventure into the future for the whole family.

A natural evolution from the ancient technique of preserving foods by drying them in the sun, solar cooking, now several decades old, was primarily restricted to nations which were rich in sunlight but lacking conventional fuels.

In the 1950s several manufacturers began to produce solar cookers for use in countries such as India and Japan. Though early models were not highly cost-competitive for use in the United States, soaring energy bills now make cooking with sun power a viable alternative throughout the world.

From Seattle to Miami the quantity of solar insolation — the amount of sunlight which reaches the Earth — is indeed sufficient to generate temperatures hot enough for cooking.

Given a clear sunny day, of which Seattle can average more than most Florida cities (National Climatic Center statistics for an average July), cooking the solar way is a practical, enjoyable enterprise — and it's free.

Solar chefs praise the cleanliness and energy conservation, not to overlook the tasty results of sizzling and baking with the sun's rays.

Utilizing two scientific principles — reflection and absorption — solar cookers, called stoves, are designed to focus the maximum amount of sunlight onto the minimum possible surface area. Such solar stoves constructed from shiny aluminum panels, or foil-covered surfaces, range in size and shape from small trough-shaped hot dog cookers to 4-foot bowl-shaped reflectors which will boil a quart of water in 15 minutes.

The solar absorption cooker, or oven, uses the "greenhouse effect" well known to those of us who have opened the door of a sealed car on a hot, sunny day. Sunlight passing through the windows strikes a dark interior surface, is changed into heat energy and trapped inside. Similarly, a solar oven is a sealed, well-insulated box with a glass window through which sunlight passes.

In this manner temperatures of 400 degrees Fahrenheit and more can be generated, a sufficient quantity for cooking and baking.

Though most solar cooking is accomplished around midday, when the maximum amount of sunlight is available, well-insulated ovens will maintain warming temperatures for several hours, until dinnertime.

Unlike conventional outdoor barbecues, solar cooking adds no flavor to food and therefore it is important to spice up certain recipes. In addition, solar chefs need to be careful with surfaces which will indeed get very hot and to avoid looking into the bright reflected light.

The simplicity and fun of preparing solar-cooked meals with manufactured and homemade equipment is gaining wide interest. A creative troop of boy scouts has designed and tested a variety of solar cookers during the past five years. They offer plans for simple backyard cookers as well as information on where to purchase manufactured solar ovens and stoves.

For a copy of this kit, mail $1 to Boy Scouts Solar Plans, Augustana Church, 69-05 Dittmars Blvd., Jackson Heights, N.Y. 11370. And when your neighbor is grumbling about the high cost of fuel, or trying in vain to light the charcoal, set up your solar cooker — aim — focus — and relax. The sun will do the rest.

CLUB NEWS

CHAPARRAL EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS CLUB

Mrs. James Bozell was hostess in her home when the Chaparral Extension Homemakers Club met for a meeting. Twelve members answered roll call. Reports were given by Mrs. Herman King, Annual Day chairman. She said that it will be Oct. 10 at the Midland County Exhibit Building on East Highway 80.

The event is set for 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., and is open to the public.

Program by Mrs. Bob Bell was on microwave cooking.

Next meeting is May 28 in the home of Mrs. George Horst. The program and demonstration will be by Mrs. Roy Murphy on crochet purses.

UPTOWN CHAPTER, B&PW CLUB

The Uptown Chapter, Business & Professional Women's Club held the annual inflation-fighter flea market and sale Saturday and Sunday in Midland.

Proceeds from this project will be used for various community programs such as scholarships, funding for special interest groups and other non-profit causes.

Diane Newland and Marion Kimberly were co-chairpersons. Sponsors assisting in the project include the First National Bank of Midland, Laguna Oil Corporation, GMW Oil Corporation, Tall City Sanitation, and Jerry and Sandra Fussell for building use donation.

Books give health warnings on suntanning

By PATRICIA DIBSIE
Copley News Service

The warnings go unheeded as thousands of people seek their place in the sun — at beaches, poolside and even in the privacy of the back yard.

Health warnings are met with a shrug of the shoulders and a multitude of "yeah, but" comments and excuses.

But talk about the aging effects the sun has and watch ears perk up. Women, no matter their ages, are willing to listen.

And men, too, are starting to worry about premature wrinkles.

SUNTANNING RITES ARE celebrated with the fervor of any holiday season — and the book industry knows it.

Books offering advice on how to get a good tan, how to get a great tan without trying, successful tanning the safe way, and how to save your skin when the sun goes down, flood the market with the same tradition that brings Christmas displays on the shelves days after Halloween.

Helena Rubinstein's "Book of the Sun" promises the reader the entire inside and outside story — tanning, makeup, hair care, fashion, body care, the good and bad medical news, diet and exercise — "on the one heavenly body that makes us both feel and look good."

Most books offer helpful hints on how to determine your own skin type and how to proceed from there in search of a deep, golden tan and this one is no different. It also devotes some space on sunlamp tanning and instant tanning products.

Where this book differs from others is in the amount of space that is devoted to beauty — "once you get out in the sun a whole new set of problems faces you, but you'll find the solutions here," Rubinstein promises.

Sunburned and peeling?

"IF YOU HAVE somehow managed to get a sunburn despite all this good advice," Rubinstein said, "vow to make it your last one."

But meanwhile, try short cool baths, wet compresses (she recommends formulas you can make at home), soothing lotions and creams, and stay out of the sun — "burned skin generally takes two or three weeks to return to normal."

Another book on the subject is offered by the editors of Consumer Guide, "Safer and More Successful Suntanning."

The book offers a comprehensive section on sunscreens — listing them by brand names and giving their active ingredients.

This book offers one of the most complete charts on skin types — giving a history of response to sunlight which the reader can check against his or her own experiences. Next, the same charts offer the reader tips on the safest times to sun, maximum exposure time without sunscreen and recommended sun protective factor.

A THIRD BOOK on the subject of tanning is written by Roger C. Sharpe in consultation with two physicians, Drs. Stephen Kurtin and H.L. Newbold. "How to Get a Great Tan Without Frying," addresses the problem of overdoing it in the first days when trying to get a tan.

"This year, add some sanity to your tanning plan of attack," says the author. An outline is given for the weekend warrior out to conquer a deep, dark tan.

Try getting out for a half hour in the morning and a half hour in the late afternoon (15 minutes on each side) the first day, Sharpe says. He also talks about setting up a suntanning schedule for that week of vacation you've been planning at the beach.

It's up to the individual to use common sense, all books agree. Tan easy, or you'll burn and pay for it.

Hobo only police dispatcher in Meagher County

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Mont. (AP) — George Karnes, an old-time hobo and sheepherder, is 75 and hobbled by heart trouble and emphysema.

But the portly roamer and lifelong bachelor climbs out of bed every night in public service — as the lone police dispatcher for Meagher County, a stretch of western Montana where U.S. 12 moseys across the prairie and cuts through a canyon.

"It's something to get out of bed for. I'm horsed up with emphysema and heart disease so bad, but to sit and stare at a wall is not my idea. You like to think you can do a little good," says Karnes.

Deer and antelope play in this tumbledown country. Carcasses of jack rabbits and rattlesnakes blotch the highway, where their previous occupants lost showdowns with cars.

"Something always drew me back to Montana," says Karnes. "It was the mountains. I've got to have hills around."

Seven nights a week, Karnes dispatches sheriff's deputies, highway patrol cars and ambulances when they're needed.

His deep, gravelly voice is known round the state. It sounds like a 78 rpm record of a growl played at 33 rpm.

"About everybody in law enforcement knows that voice when it comes over," says Sheriff's Deputy Mark Rogelstad in neighboring Broadwater County.

Karnes works where he lives, in a small cabin about 50 feet off the highway here. Two 100-watt bulbs glow in the night and books and magazines lie, dog-eared and well-thumbed, around his room.

Officially, Karnes is "472-Relay." But officers call him, affectionately, "Old George."

His dispatches sometimes begin, "This is George." Come replies in the night, "10-4, George." "Hello, George."

Once, it's said, he described a 10-round prizefight to quizzical patrolmen on the radio. It was a quiet night otherwise and no one interrupted.

Occasionally, a cuss word slips in when he's exasperated.

And twice a night, Karnes announces, "Taking a 10-minute break for oxygen" and pads across the room in his bedroom slippers to inhale from a tube on an oxygen tank.

Where he's from, Karnes won't say. He's not hiding out, he says. "Our family had a saying that you can't go home without crawling and, well, I've never been one to crawl."

Helicopter squadron gets hero's welcome

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The men of the helicopter squadron that apparently participated in the aborted rescue mission to Iran came home early today to a family and a hero's welcome.

Two Air Force C-141 transport planes picked up the servicemen over the weekend at the Ascension Islands in the south Atlantic. They included 120 members of squadron HM16 and 50 men from the nuclear carrier USS Nimitz and nuclear cruisers USS Texas and USS California, now headed home from the Indian Ocean.

They landed early this morning at Norfolk Naval Air Station where the families waited anxiously in the squadron's hangar.

"The HM16 has now arrived. The Texas and the California have now arrived, too," a sailor finally announced.

A Navy band struck up "Anchors Aweigh" and the crowd tensed, straining for the first sight in nine months of husbands, fathers and sons. Quickly, there was hugging and kissing and tears.

Petty Officer 3rd Class John Capazzi of the Texas came home to a baby he had never seen — 3-month-old James.

"Smile at Daddy," Capazzi said as he held his son for the first time. Capazzi's wife Judy said she last saw him when the Texas, along with the California and the Nimitz, left for what was to be routine Mediterranean cruise.

But the ships were diverted to the Indian Ocean in January because of the Iranian crisis. HM16 joined the Nimitz from deployment aboard the USS Kitty Hawk.

"Anything could have happened at that point," she said. "It was frightening," especially when word came April 25 of the aborted rescue mission. "I'm sure they were more than frustrated. I know from the letters."

The helicopter squadron personnel were under orders not to discuss their part in the mission.

Cable TV battles over movie rights

DALLAS (AP) — The theme of the cable TV industry's convention this year is "Visions of the 80's," a reference to cable's potential to provide something for everyone.

But when the 29th annual convention got under way here Sunday, the first "vision" to present itself was an unseemly battle over who will provide the lucrative movies and other pay programs that help so many cable operators turn a profit.

The battle lines were drawn by Home Box Office, perhaps the best known pay cable service, and Premiere, a new partnership between the Getty Oil Co. and four major Hollywood motion picture studios.

Even before the record 7,000 convention delegates attended their welcoming ceremony, Premiere was trying to sign up customers and HBO was confidently predicting Premiere would never get off the ground.

The issue of pay programming is crucial to most of the cable operators who have gathered here. The success of their companies often depends on the willingness of subscribers to pay an extra monthly fee for the right to watch feature-length movies free of commercials.

Premiere was born last month amid controversy, and a Justice Department investigation, after Getty announced the film companies would refuse for nine months after release to sell their movies to any other national cable programmer.

The four movie producers — Universal Pictures, Columbia Pictures, Paramount Pictures and Twentieth Century Fox — produce many of the films that are seen on pay cable channels.

Premiere officials opened the convention by promising they would begin operation next January, ready and willing to supply films like "All That Jazz," "American Gigolo," "Chapter Two" and "The Blues Brothers."

"I don't believe Premiere will start up on Jan. 1 because it's illegal the way they're set up," said Nick J. Nicholas Jr. of HBO. "Hopefully, the Justice Department will take some action. And we're doing everything we can to make sure our legal system is appropriately used."

Nicholas' comments came as HBO announced its own latest initiative, a new pay TV channel to be known as Cinemax. The new service will offer an extra range of movies and other special programs to complement the basic HBO service, including features for women during the day, children in the afternoon and "R" rated films for adults late at night.

Douglas Dittick, the chairman of the National Cable Television Association, underscored the industry's need for programming in his welcoming remarks by noting the 1980s will be an "age of abundance" instead of scarcity.

With cable operators planning systems with 54 and even more channels, they must find the programs to fill them, he said.

Even the association's board of directors, however, said Sunday it had "serious questions as to whether the announced structure and practices of Premiere as presently configured are competitive or anti-competitive."

Earlier, the convention delegates heard a message from President Carter read by a White House aide, praising their efforts to offer Americans a "medium of diversity."

Tenor flies home to daughter

MODENA, Italy (AP) — Italian tenor Luciano Pavarotti suspended a U.S. tour with the Metropolitan Opera and flew home after his 13-year-old daughter was injured in a road accident Sunday, his family said.

The daughter, Giuliana, was reported in good condition. She was sitting beside the tenor's wife, Adua, when their car and another car crashed in Modena where the Pavarottis live. The wife was unhurt.

"Luciano was told Giuliana's condition is not serious, but he insisted on flying home and seeing her," a family friend reported.

Pavarotti was scheduled to perform in Minneapolis, Minn., tonight.

Shrimpers fear terrible season

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The freshwater runoff of spring rains has killed off billions of shrimp in Louisiana's coastal waters, and the men who catch and sell them are running scared.

"Scared isn't the word for it. We're terrified," said Tee John Mialjevich, president of the Louisiana Fisheries Federation.

Storms that flooded much of southeast Louisiana in April had a disastrous effect on shrimp nursery grounds in the coastal waters, state biologists said.

Shrimp season in Region II — from the Mississippi River west to Vermillion Bay — opens next Saturday, but Mialjevich is gloomy about the catch.

As the scientists explain it, most of the first run of post-larval shrimp that moved into the nursery grounds were killed when the fresh water invaded their brackish habitat.

Many shrimpers are comparing the spring season to 1964, when hurricane-spawned winds blew fresh water into the nursery grounds and killed virtually the entire shrimp crop.

Dr. Lyle St. Amant, a chief biologist for the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, was optimistic last week about the shrimp harvest.

"The principal difference between 1964 and this year is that we still have shrimp coming into the nursery ground," St. Amant said. "At this time, we still have post-larval shrimp moving into the nursery grounds."

But the weekend flooding has dashed hopes for a good harvest.

"It's just not there," said shrimp distributor Joe Carinhas of Patterson. "We lost the first crop due to the weather, and the crop that's here now is so small that it won't be marketable before the last week in May."

"The original prediction was that 34 percent of the crop would reach market size by May 19th, and 58 percent by May 26th, when the season was scheduled to open," Carinhas said.

"Since then, however, more small shrimp have entered the bays, and reduced the percentage to around 28 percent."

Seven Marines die in helicopter crash

HONOLULU (AP) — The bodies of seven U.S. Marines killed in a fiery helicopter crash on the island of Molokai have been transported to a Honolulu military mortuary for positive identification, authorities said.

Two other Marines who survived the CH-53 Sea Stallion helicopter crash were flown to Tripler Army Medical Center, Honolulu, where they were listed in critical condition Sunday.

Marine officials wouldn't discuss the possible cause of the Sunday morning crash near Puu Mahine, a small crater about four miles east of Molokai Airport.

Capt. Bill Wood, information officer, said the helicopter, stationed at Kaneohe Bay, apparently burst into flame upon impact. He said the two survivors were found near-of-the wreckage, but did not know if they were thrown clear or crawled to safety.

Killed in the crash were the pilot, two crewmen and four passengers. The 27-year-old copilot suffered burns over 20 percent of his body, while the surviving passenger, 21, was being treated for burns over 60 percent of his body.

The Sikorsky-built, $6 million helicopter — similar to those that crashed during the aborted hostage rescue mission in Iran — was being used to deliver supplies in the area known as Red Hill at the time of the accident.

Wood said he did not know why the non-crew passengers were aboard the helicopter.

Two Voices

Dionne Warwick and Barry Manilow are framed by the very nicest kind of wallpaper — some of his song hits — as they prepare to merge their talents in "Barry Manilow — One Voice," a new musical special on Monday, May 19, on ABC.

This is the first time both stars are performing together. "One Voice" is the title of Manilow's newest album. In addition, this is the first time Manilow will tap dance with sailors in a skit that shows their parting after World War II. The theme of the show is emotion.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, May 20, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Actor Jimmy Stewart shares both your birthday and your hopes for deeper, more satisfying relationships.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Domestic issues demand attention in morning. Be sure not to give loved one impression that you are indifferent to outcome of special interview.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do not be persuaded to go along with the crowd. Strike out on own in new direction! Influential person recognizes worth of specialized knowledge. Strongest ally could be member of opposite sex.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): An especially fine day for friendships. Afternoon favors conversations regarding travel, hobbies and children. You handle confidential matter exceptionally well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Although some barriers remain, you now see how to force open door to long-lasting happiness. Communicate true feelings to person who matters most. Look before you leap at an unusual offer!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Diversify and impress others with your versatility. Keep in touch with former associate who has access to interesting information. Be sure to get all facts, figures before completing employment negotiations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Use methods that have proved sound in past. Take analytical look at spending patterns before revamping budget. You can broaden your interests considerably just by widening your circle of friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Not a good day for gambling, speculation. Attend to routine tasks. Artistic project can be source of great personal satisfaction. Family matters may occupy most of your time lately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Bolder approach gets best results today. Writing talent, speaking ability come in handy. Give more and expect less from your nearest and dearest. Personal life improves greatly if you will try to be less obstinate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Legal matter can be settled in your favor. Family member proves interested in helping with special project. Excellent investment opportunity may present itself soon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Prominent individual would like to be of assistance. Someone who shares your interests may develop romantic ideas. Be gentle with person who wears heart on sleeve.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Although you do not like to compete with others, you are clearly a winner! Personal finances should be looking better than in recent past.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Move quickly today! Possibility exists to turn quick profit from real estate deal. Casual efforts produce only indifferent results. Tackle chores with enthusiasm.

1 ♦ 2 ♦ ?

What action do you take?
A.—You are strong enough to drive to game regardless of the vulnerability, but you cannot be sure of the right contract. Partner rates to have four hearts for his takeout double, but he might have only three. Rather than stab in the dark, force partner to select the strain and advise him of your strength by cue-bidding three spades.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦Q10652 ♦74 ♦84 ♦A965

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 2 ♦ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Since you have not yet bid, partner's double is for takeout, not penalty. Two spades would be a grievous underbid—you would be forced to take that action

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦J72 ♦Q854 ♦963 ♦742

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—The simplest way to arrive at the answer is to eliminate those possibilities which are unsound. First, don't even contemplate passing—at 100 each, overtricks add up. Next, dismiss all thought of bidding one no trump—you are more than an ace short of the values for that forward-going bid. The only option left open is to bid your longest suit as cheaply as possible. In this case, it's your cheapest three-card suit—bid one spade!

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AQ65 ♦K105 ♦A98 ♦A72

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?
A.—Don't make a takeout double. You have a balanced hand with stoppers in the enemy suit, and the values for an opening bid of one no trump. The only way to show this type of hand is to overcall one no trump.

Korean National Assembly closed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Martial law authorities today ordered the closing of the National Assembly and the headquarters of both major political parties, as riot police and troops broke up student demonstrations in Seoul and Kwangju.

Mln Kwan-shik, acting speaker of the assembly, sent a letter to all members saying the military informed him they would not be permitted to open the assembly session scheduled for Tuesday.

The headquarters of both the pro-government Democratic Republican Party and the opposition New Democratic Party were also ordered closed.

Earlier, DRP officials said they were calling off the assembly session because there was no point to it under the circumstances, but did not say they were ordered to.

Meanwhile, several hundred students defied the new military ban on all political activity and clashed with troops and riot police in Seoul and Kwangju, 150 miles to the south.

The troops and police used tear gas to break up the demonstrations in Seoul and Kwangju. About 10 of the 200 persons demonstrating in front of the Seoul railway station were arrested. In Kwangju, paratroopers brought in by helicopter conducted house-to-house searches making arrests after breaking up protests outside local radio and TV stations.

Other cities were reported quiet, with shops and offices open, following the assumption of full control by the nation's military leaders early Sunday.

Martial law, proclaimed Oct. 26 after the assassination of President Park Chung-hee, was expanded and extended throughout the country following street battles last week between thousands of university students and police. All political activities including meetings and comment were banned, schools and universities were closed, censorship was imposed on the news media and 26 political figures were arrested.

In Washington, the State Department said it was "deeply disturbed" by the developments in South Korea, and "the actions which the government has now taken will exacerbate problems in the Republic of Korea."

The military has been the chief power center in South Korea since 1961, after the overthrow of the late President Syngman Rhee. Political sources said the current military leaders headed by Lt. Gen. Chung Doo-hwan took over openly because the growing agitation for a return to democracy was threatening their power.

The pro-government Democratic Republican Party, the largest in the National Assembly, announced it was calling off the opening session of the assembly Tuesday because "under the circumstances, there is no point to it."

The assembly had been expected to adopt a resolution by the opposition New Democratic Party lifting martial law, an action requiring only a majority assembly vote. The assembly secretariat said legally the legislature could meet despite the ban on political activity, and the New Democrats were in favor of holding the session. But the party does not have enough seats to convene the assembly.

President Choi Kyu-hah in a statement Sunday said the military takeover would not alter the timetable his government has set for democratic reforms, including the revision this year of President Park's 1972 constitution, which vested total power in the presidency, and a presidential election next year. However, Choi is a bureaucrat with no political following or power base, and Gen. Chun and his associates are opposed to revision of the constitution.

The demonstrating students last week demanded immediate lifting of martial law and elections this year. The political leaders arrested included two prospective presidential candidates, Kim Jong-pil of the Democratic Republicans and anti-government leader Kim Dae-jung, several members of the National Assembly, a number of close associates of President Park and other former officials of his government, four Protestant ministers and two professors.

The martial law command said they would be charged with "accumulating wealth through abuse of power, creating social unrest and agitating campus and labor unrest."

About 100 students were also believed arrested.

Mileage ratings too high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government's gas mileage ratings used in auto advertisements are about 21 percent too high on the average, partly because manufacturers exploit loopholes in federal testing, a House study says.

According to the study, the gap ranges from about 2 miles too high for a car rated at 15 miles per gallon to 27.5 miles too high for a car rated at 27.5 miles per gallon.

The report, issued Sunday by the House Government Operations Committee Sunday, says many of the prototype cars in the tests get better mileage than production models. And some automakers have supplied inaccurate test information, it says.

The Environmental Protection Agency "has contributed to the increased mileage gap" by not being tough enough on automakers, the report claims.

For example, it says, EPA tests found a 1979 Chevrolet Chevette prototype model got 25.8 miles per gallon but a production model got 22.5 miles per gallon.

The report says EPA tests found these shortfalls in mileage between prototypes and production models of other cars: 1978 Chrysler New Yorker Newport, 6.5 percent; 1978 Mercedes 300D-300CD, 13.2 percent; 1978 Renault LeCar, 13.7 percent; 1978 Volkswagen Dasher, 12.9 percent; 1979 Chevrolet Camaro, 6 percent; 1979 Fiat X19, 7.1 percent; 1979 Honda Civic, 9.5 percent; 1979 Fuji A26L-A66L, 10.9 percent; 1977 AMC Cj-5 Jeep, 18.3 percent, and 1979 Chevrolet Suburban Pickup, 8.4 percent.

Soviets settling in for long stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet troops in Afghanistan are bringing in their wives and computers and seem to be settling down permanently, U.S. government analysts say.

They estimate the number of Soviet troops in the country at 85,000, with more to come if continuing efforts to put down the divided, but effective rebels are not more successful.

The capital of Kabul is strongly held for the time being and the Americans, who asked not to be identified by name, said they foresee the weakened government of communist President Babrak Karmal being able to hold power unless the Soviets decide to back someone else.

But the three main provincial towns are contested, many country areas are in rebel hands, the Afghan army is growing weaker, and some Soviet equipment is turning out to be inadequate, the analysts say.

One new weapon detected by western intelligence is a new computer system designed for battle management.

Other observed signs of long-term Soviet occupation include:

- Soviet officers are reported to be assigned to Afghanistan for a two-year tour of duty.
- Officers' dependents have been brought in, through some were evacuated when there was trouble in Kabul last winter.

- Soviet troops have been digging wells and building water storage for the dry season.
- Facilities for ground and air forces are being built and improved, and large stocks of Soviet supplies have been seen throughout the country.
- The American analysts say Karmal is so completely under Soviet domination that, except for a dozen sentries at the main gate, the Soviets control the security of his palace.
- His bodyguard, chief, driver, doctor and six chief advisers all are Soviets and Soviet advisers hold the senior jobs in all Afghan government departments except the ministry of foreign affairs, they said.

Soviet control of the country appears to be important because of the internal weakness of the new Afghan Communist government the Soviets brought with them.

When Soviet troops entered Hungary and put down the Hungarian uprising of 1956, they brought in a new Hungarian Communist government headed by Janos Kadar. He is still there, and so are the Soviet troops who installed him.

In Afghanistan, the People's Democratic Party, as the Afghan Communists are called, has two main factions, Karmal heads the Parcham faction, which favors temporary alliances with non-Communists.

The Khalq group is more numerous and, according to the U.S. analysts, takes a harder line that emphasizes "class struggle." It was led by Hafizullah Amin, who was ousted from the leadership and later killed after the Soviets arrived Dec. 27. Karmal replaced him.

Karmal has tried to appeal to Moslem and tribal leaders for support, but one of the analysts call his attempt "a rather total failure."

The Afghan army, 100,000 strong when the Soviets came in, is now said to be down to 30,000 or 35,000 because of desertions and because some units are believed to have been disarmed and disbanded after they clashed with the Soviets. The analysts say virtually all senior Afghan officers are either dead, jailed or in exile.

As a result, the Soviets find the Afghan army untrustworthy for the job of holding down the rebels, which U.S. officials say the Soviets originally intended it to do.

But the rebels themselves are seen as having little if any coordination. They analysts portray them as unhappy with the exile groups who say they represent them in Pakistan. A big assembly from inside Afghanistan met in Peshawar, Pakistan last week and chose a leadership structure. But it is too soon to see how effective that may be.

Begin studies proposal

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin met with his advisers today to draft a reply to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's secret proposals to revive the stalled negotiations on Palestinian autonomy.

Sadat suspended the moribund talks on May 8, but on Sunday he sent a letter to Begin containing a series of proposals for renewing them.

The terms were not made public, but Israeli newspapers said today that Sadat did not suggest any date for renewing the talks and gave no new Egyptian conditions. The papers, citing informed sources in Jerusalem, said an initiative for renewing the talks would come from Washington rather than from Jerusalem or Cairo.

The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram said the Sadat letter included "detailed suggestions Egypt wants for a resumption of the talks."

"These include suggestions on the status of Jerusalem, the question of Jewish settlements in occupied territory, and Israeli security," the paper said, adding that Sadat sent the same message to President Carter last week.

A source close to Begin was quoted in the Israeli press as describing Sadat's letter as "respectful and polite... and friendly, as in the past." He gave no details.

The newspaper Yediot Aharonot said Sadat's letter reiterated Egypt's opposition to Israeli settlements in the occupied territories and called on Israel to be more flexible in its demand that it retain control of external and internal West Bank security under a proposed autonomy plan.

The two countries have failed in nearly a year of talks to work out a formula for self-rule for the 1.2 million Palestinians on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip. Most observers believe it is unlikely they will reach agreement before the May 26 target date set in the Camp David agreement.

Meanwhile, Egypt's ambassador to Israel, Saad Murtada, met Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir in Jerusalem, an Egyptian Embassy spokesman said. He refused to comment on the reason for the meeting, but press reports said Murtada had requested an urgent conference with Shamir.

Following the meeting, both men issued a statement saying they "hoped the (autonomy) talks would be resumed." A Foreign Ministry spokesman would not say if Sadat's letter to Begin was discussed in the closed-door conference.

Trial begins in teen-ager's death

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Roman Welzant, the elderly man who reportedly was the target of harassment by neighborhood youths for 12 years, goes on trial Tuesday for the killing of a teen-ager who bombarded his house with snowballs.

The 68-year-old defendant is charged with second-degree murder, assault with intent to murder, assault and two counts of misuse of a handgun. He will plead self-defense, according to his attorney.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Connors, McEnroe post tennis tour victories

TENNIS—Top-seeded Jimmy Connors beat second-seeded Eddie Dibbs 6-2, 6-3 to capture the $104,000 Louisville International classic, earning a $36,000 first prize. John McEnroe beat defending champion Victor Amaya 6-2, 6-3 and Martina Navratilova crushed Pam Shriver 7-5, 6-3 to win the men's and women's singles titles, respectively, at Kobe, Japan. Sixth-seeded Adriano Panatta of Italy defeated second-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico 6-2, 2-6, 6-4 in the finals of the $50,000 Florence International Tournament. Second-seeded Harold Solomon battled four hours to upset top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 6-7, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 in the Hamburg International Tournament.

GOLF—Severiano Ballesteros of Spain fired a final-round 2-under-par 70 and scored a one-stroke victory over Brian Barnes of Britain at Wentworth, England.

Donna Horton White captured the $125,000 LPGA Classic when Debbie Massey bogeyed the first hole of a sudden death playoff at Clifton, N.J. White, who was posting her second triumph of the year, earned an $18,750 first prize. She and Massey, who took second-place money of $12,250, finished with 54-hole totals of 2-under-par 217. White had a final-round 72 while Massey shot an even-par 72.

BASEBALL—Just four days before a strike deadline, talks were suspended in the baseball contract dispute with no new negotiations scheduled.

The two sides met jointly for no more than two or three minutes, although the two negotiating teams held morning and afternoon sessions.

HOCKEY—Pat Quinn, who guided the Philadelphia Flyers to a record 35-game unbeaten streak, was named the Coach of the Year by the National Hockey League's Broadcasters Association. Quinn received 110 points in the balloting. Scotty Bowman of the Buffalo Sabres, the 1977 winner, was second with 42 points.

TRACK AND FIELD—Daley Thompson of Britain broke the world decathlon record, set by American Bruce Jenner at the 1976 Olympic Games, during at Goetzis, Austria. According to unofficial results, Thompson collected 8,621 points, bettering Jenner's mark of 8,618. In the last event of the 10-event competition, the 1,500-meter race, he needed a time of 4 minutes, 26 seconds to break Jenner's record. He was clocked in 4:25.5. Yuri Syedikh of the Soviet Union set a world hammer throw record of 364 feet, 6 1/2 inches during a pre-Olympic competition at Moscow. The old record of 363-6 was set by West Germany's Karl-Hans Riehm in 1978.

HARNESS RACING—Officials at Yonkers Raceway said they were closing the 81-year-old track permanently after parliament clerks rejected the track's "final offer" of a $23-a-day wage increase. Gerry Lawrence, manager of the track, said Local 32 E of the Building Service Employees Union had rejected the track's offer, which would amount to a 42 percent increase over three years of a four-year contract.

HORSE RACING—Sunday's Races—Spectacular Bid, $2.40, came from well off the pace to win the $210,400 Mervyn LeRoy Handicap at Hollywood Park by seven lengths over Peregrinator. Sten, $7.00, scored a 1 1/4-length victory over Native Courier in the $59,100 Fort Marcy Handicap at Aqueduct Race Track.

Cubs' bats no match for Gleaton

BY TED BATTLES

With the Midland Cubs in the throes of a dreadful two-week batting slump, it was no time to be running into Tulsa's Jerry Don Gleaton on a gloomy Sunday night in Cubs Stadium. Gleaton raised his record to 6-0, but it wasn't as easy as the 7-4 score might make it look.

For six innings, Midland's Henry Mack, a hot weather pitcher who threw in 60-degrees like he thought it was 90, matched the former University of Texas All-America pitcher-pitch until the bottom fell out in the seventh.

That's when the Drillers broke out of a 3-3 tie with a four-run spree that sent the Cubs reeling to their fifth straight Texas League loss, fourth in this series.

Waltz kept Mack in hot water, he issued eight, three coming in the second after an inning-opening single by Mel Barrow, but miraculously he escaped by allowing only one run after loading the bases with none out by fanning the final two batters.

Bobby Johnson's solo homer in the fourth over the scoreboard in left, made it 2-0, but Midland's Javier Fierro gave Midland and Mack a 3-2 lead with his fifth homer in the home fourth.

Randy La Vigne and Joe Hicks opened the frame with singles and then Fierro pulled his second homer in two nights down the left field line.

But the game was decided in the seventh. Mack, despite the walks, was working on a two-hitter into the sixth when survived two singles and a walk, but Cha Cho Gonzalez and Paul Kilmas opened the seventh with singles and Barrow walked. That brought Manager Randy Hundley out of the dugout for a talk. Mack stayed in but immediately uncorked a run-scoring wild pitch and catcher Mike O'Berry saved another before Johnson was intentionally walked.

Herman Segelke relieved and was touched for a two-run single through the right side by Wayne Tolleson while the final run came home on Amos Lewis' grounder to short.

Manager Wayne Terwilliger apparently was reading Midland's mail, calling for pinchouts by Gleaton in the third and fourth as Dave Stockstill and O'Berry were caught red-handed with inning-ending outs trying to steal home. Stockstill was trying for a rare hat trick after having stolen second and third.

Richmond leads flashy kids

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The rookie class of 1980 in the Indianapolis 500 may be the best in 15 years.

It already is the biggest since that 1965 race, in which future Indy champs Al Unser, Mario Andretti and Gordon Johncock were among 11 rookies who began their championship racing careers.

"I just hope that people will be telling the same kind of stories about me 15 years from now," said Tim Richmond, the leader of a group of flashy newcomers to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Richmond was the fastest of 10 rookies to make the 33-car lineup for next Sunday's race.

The 24-year-old driver from Ashland, Ohio, also was the fastest among the 14 qualifiers who filled out the race day grid Sunday—the last day of time trials for the 64th running of the $1 million race, the world's richest.

Richmond piloted his rebuilt Penske-Cosworth racer through a four-lap, 10-mile qualifying run at an average of 188.334 mph.

That made the slim, handsome youngster the fifth fastest qualifier in the field, trailing only pole-sitter Johnny Rutherford, Andretti, Bobby Unser and Spike Gehlhausen, who all qualified on the first weekend of time trials.

In fact, seven of the top nine qualifiers Sunday were rookies. Only George Snider, who also was in the rookie class of 1965, and Mike Mosley managed to break into Sunday's elite.

However, things have not come easy for Richmond, who owns the fastest practice lap of the month at the Speedway, 193.507 mph.

He crashed during practice on May 10, an hour before the first weekend of qualifying began. The collision with the wall broke the tub (driver's compartment) of the car, and Richmond's team had to buy new parts and rebuild the racer.

There were no problems Sunday, though, as he recorded laps of 188.482, 188.917, 187.813 and 188.127. That earned him the 20th starting position in the race.

"My crew told me to take it easy out there, but the thing just felt so good, I just stood on it anyway," Richmond explained.

"Last week was just the breaks of the game, but it was probably the worst week of my life and the best week of my life. I didn't know what was going to happen after I hit the wall, but I'm just happy it's over with and I'm in it."

Flames' sale in works

VANCOUVER (AP)—Real estate developer Nelson Skalbania is close to completing a deal to buy Atlanta Flames of the National Hockey League, but reports that the purchase has been finalized are "absolutely incorrect," according to a family spokesman.

"This is a dream we have had for a long time and we feel that now it is very close to happening," said Skalbania's daughter, Rozanda. We think we may be close, but there are things that have to be worked out yet. My father will not have a statement until the deal is finalized. That statement will come from Atlanta."

Ms. Skalbania is a partner in her father's business and co-owner of the Western Hockey League.

Flames President Bob Kent denied on Saturday that the hockey team had been sold to Skalbania for $16 million. However, he said a deal with either Skalbania or the Seaman brothers of Calgary probably would be completed in the next week.

Lakers vote 13-share split

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Lakers have voted a 13-share split of the $345,000 they received for the playoffs and for winning the National Basketball Association title, the club announced Sunday.

Ten players, Assistant Coach Pat Riley and trainer Jack Curran will receive full shares of $26,538.

A one-quarter share was voted to Spencer Haywood, the reserve forward who played the entire regular season for the Lakers but was suspended for "actions disruptive to the team" after the second game of the championship series.

Don Ford, traded to Cleveland for Butch Lee in February, was voted a one-eighth share. Oliver Mack, a rookie who was traded to Chicago in February for Mark Landsberger, was omitted.

The remaining five-eighths share will be divided among the 10 players — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Marty Byrnes, Jim Chones, Michael Cooper, Brad Holland, Earvin Johnson, Landsberger, Lee, Norm Nixon and Jamaal Wilkes.

Virginia, Johns Hopkins head Lacrosse field

MISSION, Kan. (AP)—Top-seeded Virginia and two-time defending champion Johns Hopkins head the eight-team field for the NCAA Division I Lacrosse Championship.

Virginia, 10-1, will host Cornell, 8-4, during the first round of play Wednesday, while Johns Hopkins, 11-1, will entertain Harvard, 11-2.

Sparky's slider breaks Yankees' 3-game win streak

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

AL Boxes

When Sparky Lyle was traded from New York to Texas after the 1978 season, he said he wanted to come back some day and break Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's heart.

At last report, Steinbrenner's heart was still in one piece, but Lyle was back in New York Sunday and broke the Yankees' three-game winning streak instead with a brilliant long relief job. His crackling slider is still the same but his tune has changed.

"Beating the Yankees is no extra thing to me," Lyle insisted after allowing just two hits in blanking New York over the final 5 1-3 innings and picking up the victory when the Rangers rallied from a 4-1 deficit for a 5-4, 10-inning triumph. "It's not vengeance and never has been. You have to work hard against any team."

Lyle relieved Ferguson Jenkins in the fifth inning after the Yankees scored three runs to break a 1-1 tie and he shut them off the rest of the way. It was his second victory in three decisions this season, both against the Yankees, with whom he spent seven years. "I was a bit surprised I stayed in that long," Lyle said. "I mainly used my slider, as usual." Mickey Rivers, another ex-Yankee, delivered a two-run single in the Rangers' three-run seventh-inning rally and Jim Norris singled home the winning run with two out in the 10th, sending the Yankees to their fifth setback in as many extra-inning contests.

Blue Jays 12, A's 1—Al Woods drove in five runs and Otto Velez and Roy Howell had three apiece as Toronto pounded out 16 hits. Meanwhile, Paul Mirabella went the route, scattering 10 hits. Woods drove in his five runs with a first-inning grounder, a two-run single in the sixth and a two-run homer in the eighth. It was the fourth loss in five games for the A's and dropped them out of first place in the AL West, one-half game behind Chicago.

White Sox 6, Mariners 5—Lamar Johnson cracked a pair of doubles and Jim Morrison and Junior Moore drove in two runs apiece to lead the White Sox past the A's into first place in the AL West. Francisco Barrios, who spent the second half of last season on the disabled list and underwent surgery on his right shoulder, made his second start of the season and gained his first victory while Ed Farmer recorded his 10th save. A two-run single by Moore highlighted Chicago's four-run fourth inning.

Royals 5, Angels 3—John Wathan and U.L. Washington both tripled to key a five-run Kansas City burst in the first inning against Frank Tanana, who failed to retire a batter. Renie Martin, 4-1, got the victory, his fourth in a row and third in three starts since leaving the bullpen. Willie Wilson doubled and scored on Washington's triple. After a single by George Brett, Darrell Porter doubled home a run and Wathan tripled for the fourth run and scored on Frank White's sacrifice fly.

Tigers 6, Orioles 4—Baltimore reliever Tippy Martinez uncorked a wild pitch that allowed Detroit's Richie Hebner to score the go-ahead run in the eighth inning. The Orioles had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the eighth on Al Bumbry's two-run double but Lance Parrish opened the bottom of the inning with a triple and scored on Jason Thompson's sacrifice fly. Hebner drew a two-out walk and went to third on Dave Stegman's single, bringing on Martinez. His first pitch to Kirk Gibson bounced past catcher Dan Graham and Hebner trotted home. Stegman took second and scored on a single by Gibson.

Twins 10, Brewers 4—Rick Sofield drove in four runs, including a three-run homer in the third inning, and Pete Redfern went seven innings to win his sixth consecutive start. The Twins ripped four Milwaukee pitchers for 16 hits, starting with three runs in the second inning, two on Ron Jackson's homer. They chased Travers in the third when they scored five times, the last three on Sofield's 425-foot homer.

Indians 3, Red Sox 1—Dan Spillner fired a four-hitter with last-out help from Sid Monge, and Miguel Dilone scored twice. The speedy Dilone legged out an infield hit in the third inning, raced to third when one of loser Bob Stanley's several pickoff attempts went awry and scored on Duane Kuiper's double. Dilone doubled in the fifth, moved to third on a bunt single by Kuiper and scored on Mike Hargrave's single. The Cleveland center fielder also robbed Boston's Butch Hobson of what would have been a game-tying home run in the eighth inning.

Houston's Ryan looks like a million

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Nolan Ryan is finally starting to look like a million. Ineffective for the most part this season, Houston's fireballing right-hander finally pitched a game Sunday worthy of his million-dollar-a-year contract: A four-hit, 3-0 beauty over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ryan's intimidating fastball was working at full blast — 96 mph on some pitches. And so was his sweeping curve, which he used liberally to tame the slugging Phillies.

"Sometimes your reputation precedes you," said Ryan. "If somebody's expecting my fastball and my breaking stuff is working, it might cause them trouble."

Ryan was in command all the way, striking out one high 100 batter and allowing only one runner to reach third base, on a fifth-inning triple by Manny Trillo. He walked pinch-hitter Greg Gross and yielded a single to Pete Rose to start the eighth inning but then ignited the crowd in the Houston Astrodome by striking out the next three batters.

"I've always been better in the latter parts of the game," Ryan said. "I get in a groove and for some reason I don't get tired."

Ryan got all the support he needed with three runs in the first two innings to post his second victory in five decisions. Jeff Leonard's run-scoring single gave the Astros a 1-0 lead in the first and then Rafael Landestoy and Terry Puhl hit run-scoring singles in the second.

Dodgers 2, Pirates 0—Steve Garvey hit a sixth-inning home run and Bob Welch hurled a three-hitter for 82-3 innings as Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh. Garvey drove a 2-2 pitch from loser Jim Bibby over the left-center field fence at Dodger Stadium for his sixth homer of the season as the surging Dodgers scored their 18th victory in the last 24 games. The Dodgers got an insurance run in the eighth on consecutive singles by Ron Cey, Gary Thomasson and Bill Russell.

Welch, 3-1, allowed only a first-inning single by Tim Foli, a seventh-inning single by Mike Easler and a two-out base hit in the ninth by Dave Parker before needing Steve Howe's last-out relief. "That was probably as well as I've ever thrown as far as control was concerned," said Welch. "I had a pretty good curve ball and used a lot of off-speed pitches. And I stayed ahead of the hitters. I was getting a little tired at the end. But things worked out well."

Padres 4, Cubs 3—Kurt Bevacqua drove in four runs, including two with a one-out, ninth-inning single, to lead San Diego to a come-from-behind victory over Chicago. Trailing 3-2 going into the ninth, the Padres put runners on second and third on a single by Bill Fahey and a double by Dave Winfield off Cub relief ace Bruce Sutter, 2-3.

Bevacqua then drilled his second two-run single of the game to give San Diego the victory. Bevacqua had entered the game in the seventh inning as a pinch-hitter with the bases loaded and singled to cut the Cubs' lead to 3-2.

Giants 6, Cardinals 5—Relief pitcher Al Holland thwarted a ninth-inning St. Louis rally as San Francisco held on to beat the Cardinals. Holland, the fourth Giants pitcher, got Keith Hernandez to pop out and Ted Simmons on a called third strike after coming in with men on first and second in the top of the ninth.

The Cardinals, trailing 6-1 after seven innings, scored twice in the eighth and twice more in the ninth before Holland saved the victory for Giants starter Bob Knepper, 3-5.

Braves 2-1, Mets 1-2—Dale Murphy's two-run homer backed the six-hit pitching of Rick Matula and Rick Camp as Atlanta edged New York in the opener of their doubleheader. Murphy's sixth home run of the year came in the second inning following an infield hit by Brian Asselstine. Second baseman Jerry Royster's two ninth-inning errors allowed the Mets to score a pair of unearned runs in the second game and wipe out a 1-0 Atlanta lead.

SA Dodgers knocked out of 1st in TL West

By The Associated Press

Brian Giles cracked a single to right field to score the game-winning run and keep his 10-game hitting streak alive Sunday as Jackson swept a doubleheader from San Antonio in a Texas League baseball game, 1-0 and 3-2.

In other league games, Tulsa defeated Midland, 7-4, El Paso beat Arkansas, 7-3, and Shreveport and Amarillo split a doubleheader.

The two losses dropped San Antonio out of first place in the Texas League West standings. Giles' single in the second game scored Keno Perry, who had reached first base when he was hit by a pitch and advanced to second on a fly out. In the first game, Mike Howard, who got to base on a walk, scored the run to win the game for Jackson in the 10th inning on Ron Gardener's double.

The hero of the El Paso-Arkansas game was El Paso's Mike Bishop, who went three for four at the plate with a home run, a double and a single. Shreveport snapped an eight-game losing streak, beating Amarillo 3-1 in their first game, but Amarillo moved a half game ahead in the league's West pack by taking the second game, 2-1.

Canada closed to Sims

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Sims, the Detroit Lions' No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft this year, found another option closed to him when the Canadian Football League team which holds rights to his services announced they would not bid for them.

Jim Spavital, general manager of the CFL's Saskatchewan Roughriders, announced that his club could not afford to pay the former Oklahoma State star the money his agent is seeking.

"We thought at first we could do some things," Spavital said. "Just in the last couple of days we decided that we won't be able to make the offer they'd like to have."

Sims' agent, Jerry Argovitz, was offering Sims to a CFL club for a $75,000 one-year salary and a $75,000 signing bonus.

Frustration pays off for New York Islanders

By FRANK BROWN
UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The regular season bore the agonies of frustration for two New York Islanders.

Center Lorne Henning watched 41 of the 80 games, not because of injury but because... well, because Coach Al Arbour and General Manager Bill Torrey said so. For defenseman Denis Potvin, there were 49 games on the sidelines because of an injury to his shoulder and surgery on his right thumb.

Now, though, the Islanders are two victories away from the first National Hockey League title of their eight-year history. And a major factor in that performance has been the play of two men whose regular-season action totaled 80 games played.

Never was their contribution more significant than Saturday night, when New York nailed the Philadelphia Flyers 6-2 and took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup championship series. Henning scored a record-setting short-handed goal and Potvin paced a five-goal power-play blitz with two goals and two assists as the Islanders roared back from an 8-3 defeat in Game Two.

Henning has made the most of his still-limited ice time. He has scored only three goals, but each has come with a teammate in the penalty box — tying the center with Bill Barber of the Flyers and Derek Sanderson of the 1980 Boston Bruins for most short-handed goals in a playoff campaign.

And his tally at 2:38 of play Saturday night was his team's seventh short-handed score this season — snapping the record the New York Rangers set last spring and starting the Islanders to a 6-0 lead.

"It's unbelievable that in the finals you'd be up 6-0 after two periods," said Potvin. "That's what makes this series so unusual."

Unusual indeed. After a 4-3 overtime triumph on Potvin's goal in the opener, the Islanders were blasted in the second game before routing the Flyers in Game Three. Philadelphia went 3-for-6 on its power play in the second game, 0-for-6 in the third. New York went just 2-for-8 on its power play in the second game but 5-for-5 in the third.

"Prior to the series, if you had told me the scores would be of the nature they have been, I would have questioned your knowledge of the business," said Philadelphia Coach Pat Quinn. "However, the Stanley Cup apparently has a way of affecting individuals and teams to bring out different things than you're accustomed to seeing in the regular season."

BOWLING BEAT

Charley Lacy back in form with 744

By RANDY ISENBERG

Charley Lacy was back in top form this past week when on May 11, in the Major League, the talented right-hander turned out games of 138, 269 and 217 for a 744 series.

Bud Johnson rolled a 730 series in the Keglers League on games of 259-259 and 212.

John Randolph paced the women as she recorded a 619 series in the Keglers Mixed League on May 8. Mary Webster, rolling in the Newcomer's League, came up with 214 game and 584 series.

THE MIDLAND bowling scene lost another contributor to the game with the passing of Lew Williams on Sunday morning, May 11. Lew was a long-time secretary-treasurer of the Civic Commercial League. A deaf mute, Williams frequented the bowling centers even after illness had prevented him from participating.

THE MIDLAND Women's Bowling Association held their annual meeting in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building, May 13.

Current standings of the Texas State Bowling Association Tournament being held in San Antonio show that Lacy continues to lead the men's tournament in all-events Class A West Texas with a 1970 total. The D.V.Texas Reproduction team is in second place.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP)

Junior college transfer Kyle Fahrenthold tossed 6 2-3 shutout innings of long relief as Texas Tech shocked Texas A&M 8-5 in the loser's bracket of the Southwest Conference baseball tournament Sunday afternoon.

The Red Raiders, now 28-22, meet the loser of Sunday night's Arkansas in a Monday afternoon playoff.

The loss eliminated the hosting Aggies, who finished 37-13 on the season.

Aggie pitcher David Slavins was tagged for the loss, his first in 12 appearances. The last of three A&M pitchers, Slavins gave up a three-run double in the bottom of the eighth to pinch hitter Pat Moore of Midland.

The Aggies jumped to a 5-0 lead, but Tech chipped away at A&M southpaw David Flores for runs in the third and fifth and tied it up in the sixth.

Fahrenthold, who transferred from Blinn College, gave up four hits and did not let an Aggie past second base.

Second baseman Jeff Harp had a single and two doubles for Tech, while Harry Francis had three hits for the Aggies.

Longhorn Robert Culley scored the winning run when Arkansas outfielder Reggie Thomas slipped on the wet turf chasing a fly ball, and Texas beat the Razorbacks 6-4 Sunday in the rain-delayed second round of the Southwest Conference baseball tournament.

Culley's run broke a 4-4 deadlock in the top of the eighth and Mike Zatepek drove in an insurance run — then the rains came in earnest and stalled the game for 45 minutes.

When play resumed, Texas reliever Jimmy Tompkins, 2-0, retired the Razorbacks in order to end the eighth.

Arkansas worked up a threat with back-to-back singles in the ninth, but Luis Zambrana grounded back to the mound for the final out. Arkansas outh Texas 14-11, but committed three errors and gave the Longhorns three unearned runs.

John Hennell was the Hog hitting hero, with a pair of RBIs.
