Director picked for cancer center

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Midland Memorial Hospital trustees and directors approved Tuesday the selection of a director for the Allison Permain Basin Cancer Therapy Center.

Dr. Alvin Lee Schlichtemeier, a radiation oncologist from Dallas, was the unanimous choice by the two medical governing boards as director of the Midland cancer treatment facili-

Mickey Cappadonna, chairman of the trustees search committee, noted about 15 applicants were interviewed before the final selection was made.

Schlichtemeier, a 36-year-old physician, his wife and two children will not locate in Midland for several months. But he will be closely involved with the center's progress through periodic visits to the center, said Edwin H. Magruder Jr., president of the hospital directors.

Money which is profited from (the) inmate commissary is used to purchase cigarettes for the trustees I feel this is a gross inequity. If in fact it is so hazardous to smoke on the fifth floor of the Midland County Courthouse — several questions must come to light.

"Why is anyone confined in such a hazardous place? Why is any smoking permitted at all? Does Sheriff (Dallas) Smith feel that anyone in jail is so infantile that they are totally incapable of proper behavior?

In replying to the charges Monday, the sheriff said, "The smoking thing is always the big deal. If they just say we're not being allowed to smoke,' they know somehow that just won't quite fly. So they usually find something else to start with and the smoking deal is usually mixed in on down a bit.

The no-smoking rule is related to the Texas Commission on Jail Standards regulations, he explained

SMITH ALSO explained about the women being kept in single cells.

Currently, the women, now numbering about seven, have been moved into a tank. They had been in the single cells because the County Jail only averages one or two women prisoners per month.

"The single cells are not solitary confinement," he stressed. "In fact, we have no cells designed as solitary confinement. The single cells are used a great deal simply so that prisoners are not bothered by other prisoners.

"They have their own toilets, show ers, beds, drinking fountains and table." he said.

to help the city in its efforts to rebuild black neighborhoods scarred by three nights of bloody violence, White House press secretary Jody Powell said today.

Powell said Carter's trip would focus on the "the necessity for rebuilding that area." He did not give a date for the visit but said it would be in the "near future."

In other developments, a federal grand jury was being convened to investigate the death of a black insurance executive and the subsequent acquittal of four white policemen in the case that triggered the rioting, the worst in the United States in more than a decade.

The riot area, meanwhile, was reported calm. "It's very quiet — as a matter of fact, extremely quiet,"

"There just wasn't that much going on." But three teen-agers were arrested overnight in Tampa, where police reported a second night of sporadic rockthrowing incidents.

Tampa police sealed off an eight-block black neighborhood late Tuesday after a Salvation Army bus carrying children - mostly whites - was pelted by rocks and bottles thrown by roaming youths. Three children suffered scrapes and bruises.

'We've got some juveniles throwing some rocks, that's all," said Tampa Police Capt. H.W. Martinez. "There's no connection with Miami. It's just a bunch of juveniles raising hell because they think they can get away with

It was in Tampa that four white former police officers from Miami were acquitted on charges stemming from the beating death of a black insurance executive, Arthur McDuffie. When that verdict was returned Saturday, blacks in Miami started a riot that claimed 15 lives, With a federal grand jury being assembled to probe that incident, Gov. Bob Graham, citing three days of "violence, vandalism, arson, mayhem and wholesale property destruction," asked President Carter to declare Dade County a disaster area.

The Miami News, meanwhile, reported today that the FBI received an anonymous tip that an out-of-state assassination team had been hired to kill the four acquitted officers and two others for whom charges were dropped prior to the verdict. The newspaper, quoting unidentified police sources, said steps had been taken to protect the six officers.

A 50-square-mile area of this tourist mecca remained under a 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew as the violence subsided. Dade County schools remained closed today, but officials said classes would resume Thursday.

In an incident police said was unrelated to the racial turmoil, three Dade County officers were treated and released from a hospital early today for injuries suffered when a police cruiser parked at a Liberty City roadblock was struck by another vehicle.

Meanwhile, Miami's attention turned towards relief efforts. Fire houses were designated as food and clothing collection points for riot victims.

'There's real hunger in the neighborhood," said Ruth Shack, a member of the county governing board. She urged local residents to chip in as they have for the thousands of Cuban refugees who have flooded South Florida in recent weeks.

"You poured your hearts out once and we need you again," she said.

The U.S. attorney's office ordered the grand jury investigation to determine whether police violated McDuffie's civil rights when he was fatally beaten Dec. 17. Officers said they used only necessary force to subdue the struggling 33-year-old ex-Marine.

U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti promised that "all serious allegations involving violations of civil rights and brutality" in South Florida would be investigated.

dam of mud and debris that stood between the waters of Spirit Lake and the residents of cities below the mountain.

Geologists said the eruption already has spewed almost as much ash and rock as Vesuvius dumped on the ancient Italian city of Pompeii in 79 A.D., killing more than 2,000 people.

If put in one pile, it would cover a square mile as tall as three Empire State buildings. Bob Christiansen of the U.S. Geological Survey estimated the volume at six-tenths of a cubic mile. Vesuvius spewed less than three-quarters of a cubic mile of ma-

The mountain also has emitted huge, unmeasured volumes of steam and water vapor, Christiansen said.

'I feel as though I have just come back from a trip to the moon," Miss Ray said after a helicopter tour over dozens of miles of flattened trees and mud-devastated homes.

About 1,000 people had been evacuated from homes near the volcano, while untold numbers of others found temporary lodging without assistance and never checked with authorities, said Ben Dew of the state Department of Emergency Services.

The number of known victims of the blast and mudslides rose late Tuesday to 10 and Cowlitz County Sheriff Les Nelson said the toll from the Sunday eruption would climb much higher. He said he expected a party of eight campers to be declared dead. since their campsite was obliterated.

As eruptions subsided to a column of steam rising to an altitude of about 11,000 feet, U.S. Geological Survey volcano hazards expert Dwight R. Crandell said the waters of Spirit Lake were likely to remain impounded behind mud and debris piled as high as 200 feet along the first 17 miles of the North Fork of the Toutle

Officials had feared that the blockage might give way, causing floods in Longview, Kelso and Castle Rock, 40 miles to the west. About 50,000 people live in the area below the lake, which shrank to about a third of its six-mile area under torrents of mud and de-

"I do not believe a sudden flow down the valley is a credible event. I foresee mudflows of smaller magnitude," Crandell said.

For photographers Vern Hodgson and Bernadette Chaussee, "fame" began about 8:30 a.m. Sunday on a bluff near Pole Patch, Washington. They stopped to take a picture of Mount St. Helens, complete with a small steam vent, upper left, and saw instead a full-blown eruption. They saw the mountain burst open (upper right), a bulge break loose and begin sliding down (center) and clouds of smoke and ash about 20 miles wide billow skyward (bottom). # 'Stroke of luck' nets couple pictures of volcano eruption

SEATTLE (AP) - Vern Hodgson and Bernadette Chaussee were in the right place at the right time, and their luck got them one of nature's most spectacular and dramatic moments

It was a photographic "stroke of luck," Hodgson said Tuesday.

On Sunday, with clear, beautiful weather, they decided to take a picture of Mount St. Helens, using his 35mm camera.

The two Lynnwood, Wash., residents stopped on a bluff near Pole Patch, about 15 miles northeast of the mountain.

Hodgson, 36, an amateur photographer, said he was setting up his tripod and camera and checking his light meter and Ms. Chaussee was looking at the top of the mountain with binoculars.

"Look, there's a little steam coming out now," Hodgson said she told him. It was 8:30 a.m.

As Hodgson began to shoot, the bulge on the side of the mountain started to slide. Smoke boiled across

As the eruption grew, he changed from his 75-150mm telephoto zoom lens to a normal 50mm lens for more photos, but the display outgrew that one. He put on a wide-angle 25mm lens to shoot the rest of his roll of 400 ASA color print film.

His series of 16 pictures took "four minutes, at most," he said.

The huge black cloud in his last photos of the volcano was approximately 20 miles across, he said.

There was a "dull, low, ominous

roar," Hodgson said. "It was awe-

If he had been "younger and more foolish," he said, "I probably would have stayed up there."

Hodgson and Ms. Chaussee jumped in their van and were only three minutes down a winding mountain road when dense black ash and gobs of mud three-quarters of an inch across closed in on them.

They covered their mouths and noses with towels but the ash fell so heavily they couldn't see. Hodgson said he drove at 5 mph but couldn't see the side of the road.

Every five minutes, Hodgson had to stop to scrape another inch of mud off the windshield. He said he "kept thinking about Pompeii," the Italian city buried in ash in 79 A.D. Finally, two hours and 15 minutes later, they reached Randle, 20 miles from Pole Patch.

Since this building was paid for by taxpayers' money, I was wondering if there is a serious defect in the construction of the building, and why the building was allowed to be constructed this way? — H.C.T.

ANSWER: Frank Welch, architect for Midland Center, says there is no structural defect in the building. His explanation for the presence of cracks in the floor is that when the building was being constructed, floors were "poured" on new foundations over old foundations. Future plans call for carpeting of the floors.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A $250,-000 lawsuit has been filed in Oklahoma County district court by the parents of a man killed by two state prison escapees during a multi-state shooting spree which also claimed the lives of three Oklahoma Highway Patrol troopers.

Hubert and Alice Gene Bobo are suing the state Corrections Department, Gov. George Nigh and former Oklahoma State Penetentiary Warden Norman Hess.

The suit contends the department knew inmates Michael Lancaster, 25, and Claude Eugene Dennis, 35, were prone to violent crimes, but was negligent in allowing their escape.

Lancaster and Dennis escaped on April 23, 1978, through a tunnel used for a 1976 escape by Rex Brinlee and

Gov. David Boren had ordered installation of electronic sensing devices prior to the 1978 escape, but the levices were never installed. .

Smith also admitted that, to a certain extent, the women's last complaint was justified - that some trustees have cigarettes bought for them. "I don't like to call them trustees Anyone (who qualifies) can work if they want to," said the sheriff.

According to a spokesman at the Midland County Jail who works with the commissary, smoking is a priviege given to those who do work. And for those trustees who don't have money, there is a fund in the budget that is used to purchase cigarettes for them, the spokesman said. Smith added the commissary funds went for such things as buying toothbrushes and providing stamps for those who didn't have them.

Exiles angry with Carter

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - Cuban-American exiles, outraged over the overloading of "Freedom Flotilla" boats by Cuban authorities and at President Carter's efforts to end the boatlift, are threatening demonstrations unless the federal government lifts its ban against boats going to Cuba.

Two representatives of Miami-based "United Cubans" plan to fly to Washington today to meet with congressmen and State Department offi-

Miami businessman Wilfredo Navarro, and Frank Sturgis, a former Cuban security chief later arrested in the Watergate burglary, have chartered 20 shrimp boats capable of carrying 150 passengers each and want permission to send them to Mariel

Since Carter called for an end to the "Freedom Flotilla" a week ago, Coast Guard cutters have intercepted and turned back vessels attempting to leave Florida for Cuba. Cuban-Americans are worried that the boatlift will end before all refugees who want to leave have been picked up, Navarro said. He noted if some are left behind, they might face retaliation from the Cuban people, who have been told by Fidel Castro that those wanting to leave are 'worms, unworthy of the revolu-

"It's not us (Cuban-Americans) who told the people to go to Mariel. Carter said three weeks ago: 'I open my arms to you.' Now he says: 'Go to hell," Navarro said.

A steady stream of refugee-packed boats continue to arrive here, pushing the 32-day total past 65,000. Many small boats have been overloaded with passengers that include women, children and the elderly.

'An adult can swim for a while, but what can these little kids do if their boat capsizes?" asked Coast Guard spokesman Dan Dewell.

Emotional funeral services were held Tuesday for ten refugees who died in the Saturday sinking of the "Olo Yumi." Four more bodies were never recovered after the 36-foot vessel capsized. The ship's captain said he was forced to take 52 passengers and then was misled about rough seas

Half-dozen states cleaning up ash

By The Associated Press

A cloud of volcanic ash from Washington's Mount St. Helens moved over the eastern third of the nation early today as thousands of stranded motorists sought shelter in the West and residents of a half-dozen states used plows and hoses to clear away inches of the fine powder.

Water rationing was imposed in Spokane, Wash., as residents tried to wash off cars, streets and buildings. School districts in Idaho postponed trustee elections after the governor declared a state of emergency. Businesses and schools remained closed in six Montana counties under emergency orders.

The ash began pouring into the atmosphere Sunday with the eruption of the volcano and by Tuesday cities across the West were trying to cope with grit up to 7 inches deep.

For parts of the Midwest, the ash meant a light dusting and some disruption of travel. The cloud of ash rose higher in the atmosphere as it moved east and weather officials in New York City predicted the cloud would be above rain clouds that were forecast for the area today.

The ash was expected to cover every state east of the Rockies except Texas, Louisiana and Florida.

Scientists say that as the ash spreads it takes the form of a powdery but gritty dust containing microscopic dagger-like particles of silicon that will turn sunsets into brilliant displays of scarlet and are abrasive enough to take the paint off airplanes flying through the cloud.

The ash is not poisonous and poses no immediate health threat to most people, but scientists say those with severe respiratory problems might be more comfortable staying indoors while the cloud is overhead. But as to longer term effects on atmosphere and environment, scientists say they have no idea yet what the ash might and Grand Forks, N.D.

"People exposed to this type of thing over a period of many years develop lung problems," said Robert Clark, a Lewiston, Idaho, pathologist. "I don't think anybody knows what the effects of a broad exposure to a single dose will be."

Meanwhile, dozens of commercial flights were canceled Tuesday as the Federal Aviation Administration warned that the ash could pock plane windows and clog engines. The Strategic Air Command canceled routine flying operations at its bases in Minot in some areas of the Northwest, and postal officials in Pasco, Wash., said that if residents want to mail the ash to friends and relatives, they should do so in plastic bags. Envelopes stuffed with the stuff had burst open and damaged machinery.

Black Miami policewoman 'torn

By ANNE S. CROWLEY

MIAMI (AP) — Nicki Young, a lack woman in the brown uniform of ne Dade County police, eyed the sweating teen-ager.

"I'll be out in the streets tonight," the boy snarled. "I'm gonna chop off plenty of cracker heads. And I'll put a rose in their mouth, too.

Ms. Young extended a hand to the angry black youth. There's another way to do it," she said. "That isn't going to help." The nine-year veteran of the county police force was working Tuesday to restore order in the riot-scarred neighborhoods of northwest Miami. But she was torn - as a black, she said, she was hurt and puzzled when an all-white jury in Tampa acquitted four white former policemen charged in the beating death of black Miami businessman Arthur McDuffie.

"I'm stuck in the middle," she said as she kept a wary eye on bystanders

She asked the name of the teen-ager who confronted her on a steamy sidewalk. He said he was Roy Lee Bullard, age 16.

'What did the rioting accomplish?" the officer asked.

"We got to get us some justice for the cops that killed McDuffie," Bullard responded.

The policewoman shook her head. "Who do you think it's been hurting so far, Roy? It's right here in our com-munity...and now it's all gone. Who's MIAMI (AP) - Warren Welters looked out of the squeaky-clean pharmacy that he's kept open during two race riots. He saw the rubble outside and grimaced.

Across the street from Welters' Brownsville Drug Store, a fish market was in ruins. Other buildings smoldered.

The drug store was unharmed. Welters said he refused to be frightened off by Miami's worst race riot ever. He opened for business as usual Monday. And he did the same thing when a riot broke out a dozen years ago during the Republican National Convention.

"I opened up in '68," the bespecta-cled black pharmacist said. "I didn't see why I shouldn't do it now. This rioting is the worst that I have seen, but I have no apprehension at all about opening."

Welters was one of the few merchants in northwest Miami's black neighborhoods who ignored sniper fire, arson and bottle-throwing to open their doors to the public.

"I'll abide by all the rules set down by the city," the pharmacist said. "But I plan to open up every day I can. I plan to keep on serving the community as I have for the last 30

Further racial tension feared in central Georgia community

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Blacks and whites say they fear escalating racial tensions in this east-central Georgia town of 2,100 residents will lead to killings here.

"Somebody's going to get killed," a young black said Tuesday afternoon. He would not identify himself, saying his brother was among the 38 people jailed after gunfire broke out Monday night in the latest incident.

"I tell you how it's going to end," said a middle-aged white man, also declining to give his name. "One day, 15 of these blacks are going to get

"If you folks aren't turned on to register to vote to turn Attaway out of office after what happened last night, I wonder how many people he has to kill," Taylor said.

The electric company

American ingenuity brought this nation from horse and buggy days to space-age technology. It's reasonable, therefore, that ingenuity will pull us beyond the current energy crisis.

The U.S. automobile industry has been undergoing rugged times recently, hard hit by the recession the country is entering, shaken by the onslaught of triple digit gasoline prices and perturbed over the increasing popularity of small, energy efficient imports.

There are signs, however, that Detroit is beginning to turn once again to the drawing board to pull itself out of the economic tailspin it has been in.

There is a major push for the development of electric cars. General Motors hopes to have an electric car available to the public by 1984 for a selling price of $4,000. Ford Motor Co., too, is working on an electric model.

Much engineering is being devoted to the development of batteries for electric cars. One is the zinc-chlorine battery which is expected to boost the range of electric cars to 100 miles or more. Additionally, the zinc-chlorine battery is expected to have a lifespan of 150,000 miles.

Change of technique could boost car sales

WASHINGTON - It is no longer a secret that the American automobile companies are in a lot of trouble. They blame their woes on foreign imports, government emission stan-dards, high interest rates and gasoline prices. Very few will admit the real problem, and that is that people aren't buying American cars.

The auto companies, for all their expertise, do not understand the consumer. They are making an appeal to his patriotism, offering rebates, and

Baker would be best choice for Reagan running mate

WASHINGTON - The Republican convention is only eight weeks away, so Ronald Reagan is taking soundings about who his vice presidential choice should be. If he asks me, I'd say that he requires a moderate conservative, experienced in politics, who knows Washington well and can give good stump speeches on what goes on in this town that's wrong. The Senate Minority Leader.

Howard H. Baker, Jr., best fits my description of the person Reagan is looking for. What Reagan needs is a running mate who can help him get a good hold on the middle shank of the electorate.

Over the years, the biggest objection to Reagan was that he was too far on the right for mainstream America, and that ultimately the voters would nix him as they nixed Goldwater in 1964. But Reagan's deportment and the changing times have created a climate of acceptance for the old California hand among mainstream voters. They aren't panting for him, however, so he needs to sustain this welcome acceptance.

Sure, Baker doesn't pass the rightwinger's catechism test, but that's not what this election is all about. Baker can help persuade those middle-ground voters, which every Republican candidate needs, that the Carter Administration must fall. While Baker states firmly that he doesn't want the Vice Presidency, he can cut loose like he's in the thick of the fall campaign.

"Carter's line that everything is getting better in an imperfect world is like Herbert Hoover trying to make people think that the Depression never occurred," Baker told me in his office. "Carter's statement got him only a little snicker.

"There's a sea change in public opinion that's irresistible. It happened in the Thirties with Hoover and Roosevelt. It's going to happen in 1980 with Carter. It's going to be a big Republican year. Carter will be the nominee, and he'll be trounced.

"It's unique that Carter is vulnerable on both foreign and domestic policy - either one of which can sink a President. The Ayatollah temporarily rescued him last winter, but it's all Baker cites Carter's early cutbacks on military budgets, vacillation over Africa with consequent Soviet brazenness there, the wrong-guessing on Cuba, as the picture of "a President who is uncertain and uncourageous." He concludes that, "In every category of foreign policy we are less well-off than when Carter came into of-

On the economy, Baker claims that Carter ("he let that inflation animal out of the cage") "is going to reap the whirlwind. People are dissatisfied, and are going to want a change just like in the Thirties."

It sounds odd, a Republican citing the Roosevelt Democratic landslide over Herbert Hoover as the sort of coming "sea change" (a term from Baker's Navy years). Baker is more history-minded than orthodox Republican in making that comparison. But he likes to look at history — some-thing more leaders should do — and can dip into the G.O.P. past, from its Midwest origins, through his father's time as a congressman in the late Fifties, through the reign of his father-in-law, Sen. Everett Dirksen, as Senate Minority Leader in the Sixties, and over his own 14 years in the Senate since then.

"Reagan's would not be a rightwing Presidency," Baker says. "1980 is not 1964. Reagan's principal advisers are not basic right-wingers, they are capable, professional types. Reagan's very sharp, he listens to advisors, and to their critique of his performance, without resentment. He absorbs what they say, and he's better at the next stop. He's a skillful

"The biggest things we on the Hill can do for Reagan are to give him advice on who his advisers and staff should be, and to continue making the record. We've pushed an alternative budget, and a whole range of economic issues. The Democrats are singing our song now, but we aren't going to let them lead the choir.

"I will try to convince the country that these serious problems are a result of the Democratic majority in Congress, rather than just a Democratic President. To make a fundamental change, we must get a Republican majority in the Senate. It would make almost as much difference as getting a Republican President."

Baker cautions against any move by the G.O.P. right wing, heady already with the notion of Reagan victory, to "throw people out of the boat." He notes, perhaps thinking of himself, "They've got some pretty good moderates in that boat with Right-wingers dislike Baker to the point of petulance. His leadership on the Panama Canal Treaty, votes for spending on education and housing, and anti-abortion record not passing the litmus test, and sponsorship of an expensive welfare-reform bill, are cited by the purists.

In an election year, where Reagan is grateful for the approval of Sen. Jacob Javitz and John Connally as well, there is good prospect for the G.O.P. to form a majority which will defeat Carter-Mondale. Baker seems to fit the ticket, but he says:

"I don't want to be a candidate for the Vice Presidency. I'm not trying to make it happen. I don't think I would be suited temperamentally to be Vice President. I like what I'm doing and think I can have more impact on policy here. When newsmen ask me about it, I must say: 'I'm sorry you asked, because I have an obligation to say yes, if it were offered. # Texas shrimpers need federal aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas shrimpers are telling Congress they may not be afloat much longer unless the federal government quickly develops an effective aid program.

R.E. Clegg, owner of shrimp fishing and processing companies in Port Lavaca, told a House fisheries and wildlife subcommittee that he may have to dismiss his on-shore employees and cease operations by August unless the situation improves.

He said that his shrimp fleet already is idle, tied to the docks since the end of February. The crews have found other jobs or turned to unemployment com-pensation and food stamps, Clegg said.

The major culprits, according to industry repre-sentatives and Texas coastal congressmen, are the soaring costs of fuel and competition from foreign fleets paying much less for their diesel.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, testified Tuesday that U.S. shrimpers pay 90 cents per gallon for their diesel fuel compared to the 20 cents per gallon that Mexican shrimpers pay and the nine cents per gallon for Venezuelans. "These foreign fishermen can bring their catch into American ports at a much lower price than our domestic fishermen can, thus making it unprofitable for our shrimpers to ever take their vessels from the

The subcommittee held a two-day hearing on a comprehensive bill by Rep. John Breaux, D-La., designed to aid fishermen and seafood processors.

Among other provisions, the bill would provide low interest loans to fishermen about to default on their vessel mortgages.

Rep. E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, said the bill should go farther to aid shrimpers with their operating costs through a difficult period.

"Along with helping those who are about to default on their loans, we should be helping others so that they don't default," the congressman from Mission said. "We provide assistance to farmers in obtaining operating funds. Why can't we do the same for the

De la Garza, whose district includes the southernmost stretch of the Texas coast, said the bill would not prevent shrimpers from going out of business before the programs could take effect.

He pointed to bad weather, the Ixtoc I oil spill and the expulsion of U.S. shrimpers from Mexican waters as reasons for the industry's hard times. Eckhardt said the increased fuel costs may be hitting shrimpers particularly hard because fuel makes up the major portion of the budget for

"The shrimp boat's engines run incessantly, from the time it leaves port until it returns," he said. "The shrimper's income depends in large part upon how much he spends for fuel."

Eckhardt's district borders Galveston Bay.

Clegg, who testified Monday, suggested that Congress should make low interest "survival" loans available to all shrimpers and start a national advertising campaign, financed by a duty on imported seafood, to promote consumption.

He said the program also should include a fuel rebate plan and require that Mexico open its waters to U.S. fishing vessels in exchange for access to U.S.

"In other words, tell Mexico and these other countries, if you sell here, we fish there," Clegg

Bush, Reagan trade primary victories Tuesday

GOP presidential nominee seems assured—but what about vice president?

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

Slowed but virtually unstoppable, Ronald Reagan is preparing for a victory rally on June 3, the day he expects to lock up the Republican presidential nomination — while George Bush is demonstrating he could help the GOP ticket as its vice residential candidate.

Bush and Reagan traded primary victories Tuesday, the challenger in a Michigan landslide, the frontrunner winning easily in Oregon.

THE FORMER United Nations ambassador has said repeatedly that he would not accept the vice presidential nomination, but that is an obligatory disclaimer for a presidential candidate. To say anything else would be to concede the nomination to Reagan.

Bush wasn't about to do that, certainly not with a runaway to his credit in a major industrial state like Michigan. He gained it with the help of Gov. William G. Milliken, a moderate Republican who said Bush is the party's best hope for victory in the fall. He wooed and won Democratic voters who cast Republican ballots because their own primary was a meaningless

"It was a major win," Bush said.
"It means I shouldn't be written off. I've been trying to make that point over and over again."

But he faces tough going in the next set of contests, in Kentucky, Idaho and Nevada. And the odds get tougher June 3 in California, the state that twice elected Reagan governor and now will award all its 158 GOP delegates to the candidate who can win the popular vote.

REAGAN AIDES SAID they are planning a giant victory party in Los Angeles that night. After Tuesday's split, Reagan said "today's results make us more certain than ever that we will achieve the nomination of the ABC and CBS both said their projections of delegate commitments showed Reagan had already captured a nominating majority with the delegates he gained in losing Michigan and winning Oregon.

Rivals have become running mates before, but Reagan avoided a response Tuesday night when asked whether Bush had enhanced his credentials as a possible running mate. Instead, he credited Milliken with boosting Bush's showing in Michigan. He added that Bush has tar geted selected states for heavy investments of campaign time and money, while he has spread his resources among all the contests.

Reagan said it is time for him to start thinking about vice presidential nominees. "I have consistently said that I haven't ruled any one out or anyone in," he said.

Campaign aides said rival candidates, past and present, are on the prospect list. That would include Bush, whose insistence that he would not take the No. 2 nomination might not be so firm if the presidential competition was finally and totally foreclosed.

THE NAMES THAT have floated out of the Reagan camp as prospects include Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennesse, who has said he would run if asked to do so, Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and former Secretary of the Treasury William Simoant in a Reagan campaign, since the former California governor is 69 years old now and, if nominated and elected, might Bush's staff immediately began mapping plans to raise money in hopes of duplicating the Michigan victory in California, Ohio and New Jersey, three key states in the final June 3 primaries.

James A. Baker Jr., Bush's campaign manager, said the former United Nations ambassador's appeal for Democrats and independents to cross party lines and vote for Reagan's challenger obviously paid off He predicted the victory would bring a flood of new contributions, volunteers and momentum in the final days of the primary campaign. "There is a popular song called 'The Gambler' that says 'you've got to know when to hold them and know when to fold them' and I think that the voters of Michigan today have told everybody that regardless of what we've been hearing and reading to the effect that its all over, they don't think the game is over," said Baker.

"They don't think the game should be over and what George Bush got in Michigan today is to keep holding them for awhile and that's what he intends to do," Baker added.

He was asked whether Michigan was an abbera-

Kennedy anticipating 'superbowl' of primaries

CINCINNATI (AP) — To hear Sen. Edward M. Kennedy say it, all of the numerous election defeats of the past four months pale in importance beside the anticipated thrill of victory in the "superbowl of the Democratic primaries" on June 3.

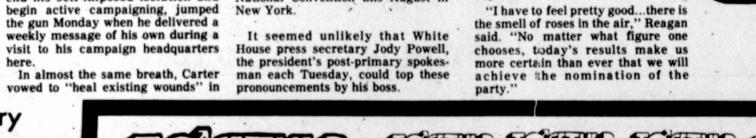

The Massachusetts senator absorbed a landslide defeat Tuesday at the hands of President Carter in the Oregon primary. But he shrugged it off, like he has similar lopsided losses before, declaring, "We continue the course of this campaign" until June

"We've heard early results from Oregon," Kennedy told reporters shortly before midnight Tuesday at the end of an exhaustive day of campaigning in New Jersey and Ohio. "We didn't expect to win

Kennedy added, "The real superbowl of the Democratic primaries are here in Ohio and New Jersey and in California, also South Dakota, Montana and West Virginia. And that will be the day I think that we're looking forward to and we're very hopeful

The six states Kennedy mentioned, plus New Mexico and Rhode Island, elect 696 national convention delegates on the final day of the 1980 primary season. The senator arranged to campaign today in Ohio before leaving for California for a four-day

Kennedy is far behind Carter in delegates, and the resident is within hailing distance of the 1,666 elegates he needs for nomination. But the Massasetts challenger insists that a string of victories June 3, on top of early triumphs in traditionally Democratic states such as New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Michigan, will tle him to the nomination, delegate counts of the got 34 WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy grew at a snail's pace — only half as much as predicted - in the first quarter of the year, but that looks downright robust compared to what may lie ahead.

The first-quarter growth of the gross national product, at an 0.6 percent annual rate, was less than the 1.1 percent estimated earlier by the Commerce Department and substantially less than the 3.6 percent growth in the final three months of last

However, most economists both in and out of government believe the GNP will decline in the second quarter and remain at negative levels for the rest of the year as the nation sinks into a recession.

The GNP is the value of the output of goods and services and is considered the best barometer of the nation's overall economic health. Two consecutive quarters of decline usually mean a recession.

If the recession is mild and short, as President Carter has predicted, the decline in the GNP may not be substantial. However, many private economists and some administration officials now expect a serious economic downturn, with sharply rising

A new economic analysis by Georgia State University, which has been close to the mark on several recent forecasts, predicts an annual rate of decline in the GNP of 7.7 percent in the second quarter, 2 percent in the third and 0.8 percent in the fourth.

Data Resources Inc., a forecasting firm, predicts a second quarter slide of 8 percent at an annual rate. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Tuesday that although the economy is definitely slowing, it is too early to say whether the recession will be worse than the administration forecast.

However, he indicated that if it is worse, the administration might drop its insistence on a balanced budget before it will support a tax cut. He said the admiistration still would insist on spending restraint by Congress, but he acknowledged that Congress has little control over government tax receipts, which would drop off in a recession.

The Commerce Department provided additional evidence of a slowing economy in its GNP report Tuesday. The report showed that corporate profits grew sluggishly in the first quarter.

It said after-tax profits of corporations rose 5.9 percent in the first quarter, to an annual rate of $155.5 billion. Before-tax profits were up 5.8 percent, to an annual rate of $257.1 billion.

However, after-tax profits actually fell 12.7 percent in the first quarter to an annual rate of $70.1 billion when adjusted for the impact of doubledigit inflation on replacing inventories or worn-out equipment.
"This shows that the profit picture is nowhere near as good as the numbers may suggest," said Doug Rice of Data Resources. "We anticipate a very dramatic decline in profits for the rest of the Meanwhile, Jay Janis, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, predicted that home construction will not return to last year's level until mortgage rates fall to 12 percent or less. He said the rates, which averaged 13.5 percent last month, could fall to a range of 11.5 percent to 12 percent in the final quarter of this year.

Many analysts expect housing starts in the range of 1.1 million to 1.2 million units this year, down sharply from the 1.75 million units constructed in 1979 and more than 1 million short of the number needed to satisfy demand.

In a speech to Women in Housing and Finance, Janis said another housing crunch could hit in a year or two unless the government finds ways to cushion the housing industry from sharp swings in interest

Gas price may level at $1.25: Poerner

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The ever-changing - and higher — gasoline prices Texans see almost every-time they fill up should level off at under $1.25 a gallon this year, says Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission.

"I don't see any significant increase at the gas pump this year," Poerner said Tuesday. "There were projections we would see $1.60 per gallon by the end of 1980 - those predictions no longer have validity because of the surplus." Poerner said $1.25 a gallon is "still one-half the world price. Americans are still getting a bargain compared to the world price of energy."

"Prices have stabilized," he said. "I don't believe prices have gone up in the last 60 days. In fact, in some places they've come down two or three pennies

... refineries are full." Poerner attributed the gas surplus to consumer resistance to higher prices. The chairman of Texas' oil and gas regulatory agency also said he thinks Saudi Arabia increased the price of its crude oil by $2 a barrel because of the showing of "The Death of a Princess" on American television "In my judgment, that is just a way to get back at us for showing" the TV film, Poerner said. "There was no need in the market place for a price increase. Poerner's remarks to a radio reporter followed the commission's setting of the June statewide oil allowable at 100 percent for the 40th consecutive month. Except for three months, the allowable has been at 100 percent since April 1972. He noted crude and petroleum products imports into the United States averaged 6,659,000 barrels per day for the four weeks ending May 2, down 1,201,000 barrels per day from the same period last year.

However, he said, "we need to get it down to three million barrels a day. Then the Saudis and Kuwait ... and anyone else is going to reduce their price because they need the revenue to run their countries - it's their only source of revenue. And when we reach that point, we're going to have crude oil price wars that will be very healthy for this country."

"Further, I think as imports decline we are going to see a greater thrust here in the United States for domestic production and that is healthy for us, very healthy. People are using less gasoline and they're conserving it, and price is the No. 1 incentive," said

Asked how high gas would have to go to cut imports to three million barrels of crude a day, Poerner said, "Somewhere between $2 and $2.50" a

"Quite frankly," he added, "I think we're out of the woods for the time being because of the sur-

Wind shift may have led to fatal bridge disaster

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - A sudden wind shift may have caused the freighter Summit Venture to smash into the Sunshine Skyway Bridge, sending the center span of the structure crashing into Tampa Bay, a meteorologist has testified.

Thirty-five persons died May 9 when the 608-foot inbound phosphate ship hit the skyway, causing 1,400 feet of bridge to drop into the bay with a Greyhound bus and several other ve-

Meteorologist Bill Kowal told a Coast Guard Marine Board of Inquiry Tuesday there could have been a sudden south-to-northwest shift of wind at the bridge at about 7:30 a.m. when the collision occurred.

The forecaster for the privately owned Gulf Coast Weather Service in Tampa and for WTVT-TV also said a wind gauge at the Bayfront Center, about 10 miles from the bridge, recorded gusts up to 50 mph.

Meanwhile, ships steamed through a newly opened channel beneath the bridge Tuesday for the first day since the accident. Fifteen loaded vessels had been stranded in port by the accident, which left tangled wreckage blocking the channel. Attorneys for the pilot who was navigating the phosphate ship at the time of the collision are trying to prove a sudden squall was responsible for the failure of the pilot to guide the vessel safely through the bridge's center span. The wind shift described by the forecaster is consistent with the attorneys' contention that the vessel was blown south of the shipping chan-In other testimony Tuesday, Florida State Pilots Association President James Gallagher said there are no specific weather standards for determining whether to halt traffic beneath the huge span. The decision on whether to proceed out of the bay is a "matter of professional judgment" on the part of the pilot, said Gallagher, a member of the Tampa Bay Pilots Association. Gallagher also said Tampa Bay pilots undergo a 15-month training period, during which they are allowed to handle increasingly large vessels. John Lerro, who was guiding the Summit Venture at the time of the accident, has been a deputy pilot for about 31/2 years, Gallagher said. He said a lack of vacancies among the 18 pilots allocated to the harbor by the state has prevented Lerro from becoming a full-fledged pilot.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Federal Aviation just was in the wrong place at the wrong time." Administration official says "extreme evasive action" by a Braniff pilot averted a mid-air collision a Terminal Control Area designiation, which re-Monday between a Braniff jet carrying 82 passengers and a small private plane.

John Gorman, the FAA's deputy chief in San Antonio International Airport's control tower, said Tuesday that Braniff Flight 396 from Los Angeles came within a quarter of a mile of the small plane officials didn't know was there. There were no injuries.

The near miss is expected to again fuel local efforts to obtain a Terminal Control Area designation, which is used at the nation's busiest airports to prevent such occurrences.

Gorman said Monday afternoon's near miss occurred as the Braniff 727 jet was on its final landing approach at 3,000 feet. 'As it came out of the clouds, the crew spotted the blue-and-white, single-engine Cessna directly in front of them, less than a quarter of a mile away," said Gorman. "As soon as the plane was spotted, the Braniff pilot made an immediate 30-degree bank to the left "It was an extreme evasive action. It was a

Jammed door halts entry to contaminated building

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) — A jammed and possibly rusty door has halted entry into the damp, contaminated building that houses Three Mile Island's crippled nuclear reac-

The aborted entry by two engineers Tuesday night heightened concerns about other conditions inside the building, which has gone without maintenance since the nation's worst commercial nuclear accident nearly 14 months ago.

"The door itself is not the problem. The problem is what it means about the condition of other equipment,' said a disappointed Robert Arnold, chief of recovery operations for Metropolitan Edison Co. 'We are concerned that the corrosion of steel surfaces ... will increase the difficulty of decontaminating the building," Arnold added at a briefing after the entry was called off.

Human entry is considered vital to cleaning up the radiation-drenched reactor, but it has hit snags twice. A first attempt on April 24 was postponed because federal tests of breathing gear were incomplete. We were looking forward to achieving this milestone. But I don't really think at this point this is a serious setback for the cleanup," Arnold said Tuesday.

He said the cleanup would remain on schedule if an entry is made within the next two to three months. But he said it will be several days before Met Ed can forecast when it expects to try

The brief visit by two volunteer engineers had been expected to provide the first direct radiation measurements and samples since the March 28, 1979 accident.

The project was halted at about 9: 25 p.m., almost 2½ hours after William Behrle and Michael Benson were scheduled to venture inside the pitch-black containment building. Delayed by elaborate suiting up procedures and equipment checks, they finally entered a 9- by 12-foot airlock shortly after 9. They unlatched the heavy metal door leading into the massive building, but it would

The pair, wearing protective clothing and wearing air packs, tried several times to open the inner door. But after using up half their air supply, they were ordered to come out.

Arnold said the door probably did not open because its surfaces or hinges were sealed by rust. He said a hydraulic jack may be used to help open the door in a future entry attempt. But before that occurs, he said engineeers would have to figure out how to reclose and reseal the door after the visit.

Woman's clothes should aid her, says designer

Bill Rondina, designer for the ex-clusive Doncaster collection, feels that a woman should dress according to the way she lives, and the mores of her community, rather than be bound to the way Parisians or New Yorkers

"A woman's clothing should enhance her, make her look pretty, not cause people to notice only what she is wearing," said the young designer. Rondina is in Midland this week to present his fall collection at a gathering of Doncaster fashion consultants.

Bill Rondina's background is impressive. He received an art degree from the University of Washington in his home state, then began to seriously concentrate in the field of fashion design. He studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, as well as the renowned Parsons School of Design in New York.

"My first job in the fashion field was with the coat and suit firm of Ben Zuckerman. I didn't exactly set the fashion world on fire. I was really a

"gofer" (go for this, go for that)."

Bill got his big break in fashion when he was appointed assistant designer at Christian Dior, New York. Eventually, this led to the forming of his own business, designing and sam-ple-making for names like Davidow, Monte-Sano, Pruzan, and then Don-

"I was intrigued by the Doncaster way of doing business," he says. Don-caster offers classic fashions that cannot be purchased in a store. Instead, the exclusive fashions are made available through fashion con-sultants, who offer four collections yearly to their friends and acquaintances in the community.

"Customers view the collections in the privacy of the fashion consultant's home," he explained. "There, with the advice of the fashion consultant. the customer selects the styles, fabrics and colors she wants.

DEAR ABBY

Dad may not be legal, but he has rights

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your letter to MESSED UP at 16 failed to take into account the rights guaranteed to the father of an illegitimate child as decided by the U.S. Supreme Court in the Douglas case. It is generally held by those dealing in adoption matters that the father of an illegitimate child be given notice and the right to be heard as to his position concerning the placement of the child.

The courts have generally held that if the natural mother does not want to keep the baby, the rights of the father are superior to those of any adoptive agency or relative of the natural

It would therefore appear that if the father of the illegitimate child wishes to take custody of said child and the natural mother wants to give up said child, the father would be granted custody of the child.

Uusually you consult knowledgeable people concerning medical and legal matters, but evidently you slipped up this time.-ROBERT L. SPEETER, MINNEAPOLIS ATTOR-

DEAR MR. SPEETER: You're right. I plead guilty as charged. But who besides a lawyer would question the right of an unmarried woman who had been "done wrong" by a married man to deny said man custody of her illegitimate child?

However, I since have learned that frequently when an unmarried mother learns that the father's rights to custody of her child are superior to those of any adoptive agency or relative of the natural mother, she exercises her right and "keeps" the child--but HER mother or some other relative raises it. Too bad, because in many cases the father could have provided a far better home. DEAR ABBY: I have never hit a woman in my life, but I have come mighty close to it a couple of times in the last few months.

My wife uses my razor to shave her legs, and she leaves the used blade in the razor. This gets me hopping mad and she knows it, but she does it

Don't tell me to buy her a razor exactly like mine because I've done that, but she uses mine anyway. I have also given her an electric razor designed especially for women, but it's still in the original box. Any suggestions before I belt her one?-

FIGHTING MAD DEAR MAD: Either take your razor to work with you, or lock it up when you leave. DEAR ABBY: The item from WANTS TO HELP regarding her young friend with crossed eyes prompts this letter. If it's a matter of finances, perhaps we can help.

Most Lions Clubs have sight conservation as their top priority project. We have no young people in our city who need glasses, eye surgery or transplants, or any blind who need a Seing Eye dog. We have taken care of all whose needs have been called to our attention.

So if lack of money is keeping that 15-year-old from doing something about her crossed eyes, please let her know that her local Lions Club may be able to help her .- R. E. MILLER,

Portable drill is usually first power tool gotten

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

A portable electric drill usually is the first power tool purchased. It isn't just that so many persons have to make holes in wood or metal; it's that the drill performs such a wide variety of tasks with such reasonable ease that it is the most useful tool in the

The drill's versatility is tied in with the large number of accessories and attachments it can handle. Thus, the drill is used for sanding, polishing, grinding, buffing, stirring paint, driving screws, sawing and many others chores not associated with

A drill is identified principally by the capacity of its chuck, which is the opening into which the shank of a bit, accessory or attachment is placed and tightened. If the chuck accepts a shank with a maximum diameter of a quarter-inch, it is called a quarter-inch drill. Quarter-inch and three-eighths drills are the most popular for the do-it-yourselfer. A half-inch drill is for big projects and frequent use in concrete. The larger the size, the slower the speed and the more torque or twisting power. While a single-speed drill is adequate for most jobs, a twospeed or variable-speed model is more suitable if you intend to drill material that requires a slower speed or if you plan to use many accessories. When there will be much driving of screws, a drill with both variable speed and reverse is excellent, since it fulfills the double purpose of driving and removing

When choosing a drill, pick it up and handle it as much as possible. Sometimes a tool that feels perfectly comfortable to one person seems a bit awkward to another. Most users prefer the pistol-grip type. There are also variations of switches. General ly, when a drill has added features, it costs more. Also, generally, you should not buy something for a

MEETING YOU

Becoming acquainted with YOU here today in this column is a unique and exciting opportunity for me. Although I have written other columns in the past, I am honored to have the privilege of writing "Living Today" here with you and The Midland Reporter-Telegram. A special note of appreciation and thanks to Jim Servatius, Leland Barnes and all the other Reporter-Telegram staff members for their assistance, enthusiasm and cooperation in this new venture.

In honor of the late Mr. Lou Lindsey, this "first edition" is dedicated to his memory. Although I had only a brief opportunity to enjoy the privi-lege of working with Mr. Lindsey, I am both honored and grateful. He, too, had looked forward to this moment, filled with enthusiasm and creativity to help make "Living Today" meaningful to your life. My underlying enthusiasm will be constantly regenerated by his creative thoughts and enthusiasm he so generously shared with me as I attempt to address the home economics related issues relevant to your life in today's

INSIGHTS

By way of introduction, I am a home economist employed through the cooperative efforts of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Midland County Commissioners' Court, and known as a County Extension Agent — Home Economics.

Over 78 years ago, a need was identified for bringing research based information being conducted through land-grant universities to the grass roots level — the people at home in the counties located hundreds of miles away from the campuses across the nation. Some years later, our governing representatives realized the need for a delivery system that would enable all people to avail themselves of continuing education extended to them through this system to enable them to solve everyday living problems with proven research and reliable information related to agriculture and home economics.

With the passage of the Smith-Lever Act in 1914, extension was formally established throughout the nation, and in Texas, became known as the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, operated under the termas of a formal memorandum of understanding between the Texas A&M University System (land-grant university established by the Morrill Act of 1862), and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Texas Agriculture Extension Service is designed to take knowledge directly to the people via county extension agents and is the connecting link between research and is practical application in the lives and concerns of Texans.

The land-grant university system, of which the Extension Service is an integral part, has had much to do with making this nation's agriculture the most productive and efficient in the world. In Midland County, most of you can identify productive agriculture and its related areas with Charlie Green, my co-worker counterpart.

Education efforts of the Extension Service are expanded across the nation by thousands of local citizens who volunteer to serve as leaders in adult and youth programs. They work with individuals or with youth and/or adult groups. Many of you who have served in the past and/or are currently acting in this capacity here in Midland County can identify with the term "volunteer leader" and with another of my agricultural and youth co-workers, Travis Harney. Extension homemaker groups, and youth and adult leaders identify with "volunteer leader roles" through me in both adult and youth work.

THE TEXAS AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE— HELPING PEOPLE TO HELP THEMSELVES

Throughout the 1980's, you will note a special logo of an extending "E" moving across a silhouette of Texas with a slogan: "The Extension Way -People Helping People" that will easily identify extension related educational efforts.

TEXANS' ISSUES

An extensive survey conducted in 1979 revealed six major isues of the people in Texas: (1) energy; (2) economic conditions (3) social conditions (4) land and water resource management (5) marketing and policy, and (6) leadership development.

Programs in more than 70 subject matter areas through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be "thrusting" toward the six identified issues to meet the concerns and needs of Texas people. Specifically, I will be adapting these issues to our individualized Midland County concerns as you relate them to me through numerous communication routes.

CREATIVE LIVING

Challenge and opportunity! That is "creative living in today's world." I have never found a Texas history book that told me Texans failed to rise to a challenge or an opportunity!

Although Texas producers, processors, distributors, suppliers and consumers are faced with erratic price movements in inputs, and consumer goods which are influenced by public policies, regulations, inefficiencies and uncertainty of general economic conditions, I believe we can, and will. continue to rise to this challenge with even greater enthusiasm and determination in the 1980's than was evidenced in the 1970's. You have often heard it said that the learning, or lack of, takes place during the process of an education is 10 percent the teacher and 90 per cent the student's effort. Meeting this creative living opportuniy in the 1980's is 10 per cent the conditions and 90 per cent the parts of our attitude called enthusiasm, cooperation and effort. From where I sit, 100 per cent participation from each of us in positive actions of the attitude department-irregardless of the economic role we fill in our economyyields 100 per cent positive results.

Most of us have been acquainted with a "computer error" at some point in our lives in recent years and understand that the real interpretation means "a human error", because the computer can only compute the information received-not determine it. The same is true of a computer we carry arund in that mass called our brain-it only computes what it receives Positive, creative thoughts and actions continuously fed into our computers can only produce positive results. Activating a continuous and repetitive positive pattern, your life can only create a positive individual in all thought and action! And, on the other side of the coin, of course, is the negative theory that can only produce a negative individual. Research has proven that it requires more than twice as much human energy to be a self-made negative individual as it takes to be a self-developed positive creative being. In this great era of energy conservation in 'the sagacious '80's," as I choose to call them, where will YOU place your energy efforts in terms of you, the individual? Conservation with positive living results or "fuel yourself away in waste" with negativism that, also, produces major health problems? A point to ponder and worth taking a second look into when you consider the possible results of You.

If you are into conservation living ideas or thinking about it, a good place to begin checking is the part of the attitude of the individual behind the eyes reading these ideas. Where does your enthusiasm, cooperation and effort attitude-parts rate on a scale of 1 to 10? For an objective there does your family friends and co-workers rate you, and you, them? A "check up" and "tune up" in this conservation department allows us to move into other areas, prepared for...living today...creatively! Welcome aboard! Next week...join us and see.

Gynecologist campaigning women to have babies in squatting position

dian mothers have comparatively

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) -A Brazilian gynecologist and obstetrics professor is gaining attention through a campaign to persuade women to have babies while squatting on the floor - like native South American Indians - rather than lying on a delivery table.

Dr. Moyses Paciornik, who has written and lectured extensively on the subject both in Brazil and in other countries, contends this method of giving birth results in less danger to the baby plus reduced delivery stress and better overall gynecological health for the mother

"When a woman is lying down, the birth canal becomes a violent uphill curve pointed straight at the ceiling, along which she must force out a 7-to 10-pound baby," the 66-year-old doctor explained to the Associated Press. "But when a woman assumes the squatting position, she transforms the birth canal into a relaxed downhill passage, taking advantage of gravity instead of fighting against it."

Although Paciornik discovered Indian-style childbearing in remote tribal villages in Brazil, the place where he's trying to put his theories into practice is his modern obstetrical clinic in Curitiba, a prosperous, skyscraper-filled city of 600,000 in the southern part of the country. And the women he's talking to are not illiterate Indians, but rather sophtisticated mothers-to-be from the urban middle and upper classes.

The campaign is succeeding. "As recently as 1978, 90 percent of the pregnant women at our clinic said they'd rather give birth the 'usual' way - lying down," the doctor said. "They considered squatting ridiculous and degrading. But now, the immense majority of our patients favor the Indian method."

Paciornik's clinic currently delivers some 200 babies a month.

Paciornik blames hospitals and doctors themselves for many of the birth complications that now occur in "standard" baby deliveries. He says attempts to "modernize" childbearing in fact wound up defying the laws of physics and biology and creating unnecessary risks for mothers and

Brazilian Indian women who have babies while squatting report far fewer birth complications and almost rarely need the aid of forceps or last-minute Cesarians, the doctor says, in sharp contrast to delivery difficulties frequently observed in

PHILADEPHIA (AP) A comprehensive exhibition of more than 100 oils, watercolors and drawings by Jamie Wyeth is planned for public showing at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts Sept. 19 through Dec. 14.

Many of the works, as well as a special suite of five etchings, will be exhibited for the first time. Etching is a new medium for Wyeth, described by the academy as "one of America's foremost contemporary artists."

INDIAN MINIATURES LOS ANGELES (AP)

 Eighty-three Indian miniature paintings continue on display at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art through June 15.

Called "The Classical Tradition in Rajput Painting," the exhibition was organized by the Pierpont Morgan Library and the Gallery Association of New York State. It focuses on the art of a period from the 16th to the 18th century, when Northern India came under the influence of Islamic culture, after falling to the Mughal emperor Akbar.

Woman benefits from new state program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - After nearly 20 years as a clerk at the State Department of Taxation and Finance here, Shirley F. Cohen is moving into management.

She is one of the first to benefit from a new state program that opens up middle-management posts to civil servants who were once trapped in "dead-end" clerical jobs. It lets rank-and-file workers bypass rules which normally limit management jobs to those with college degrees or other advanced training.

"I've worked very hard for this," says Mrs. Cohen, 56, newly appointed as a personnel administration trainee in the taxation department. She says she had reached the point where "the pyramid narrows" for advancement opportunity, but now will have a chance for better pay, more responsibility and more promotions. There are about 38,000 state employees — about 85 percent of them women - in clerical positions governed by civil service regulations. For them in what a union spokesman calls a clerical ghetto.

The new program will directly affect only a tiny portion of those workers perhaps 150 each year. But those 150 workers would account for half of the expected 300 or so middle-management openings each year. And those involved say per year could earn about $16,420 per year at the end of a two-year public administration traineeship. Under a six-point

Clerical and Secretarial Employees Advancement program, Mrs. Cohen and others can translate experience and scores on specialized aptitude tests into "bridges" to managerial jobs. The first 62 appointments to a training program were made in recent months. The clerical workers,

It was set up last year under the state's latest contract with the Civil Service Employees Association. But state officials, from Gov. Hugh Carey on down, say they are confident the estimated $150,000 annual cost will be a good investment in morale and efficiency. "In every operation there are outstanding secretarial and clerical people who haven't been able to advance," said James Gutowski, who is administering the new program as head of the employee advancement section of the Civil Service Department.

"The reason this was embraced by the state is it makes sense," Gutowski said. "Most of these programs really provide for improved efficiency, productivity and employee morale." The program is not specifically labeled as a program to advance women within state government, although its concentration on the predominately-female clerical unit has that effect.

Love Canal emergency declared

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today declared a federal emergency to permit the government to temporarily relocate more than 700 families in the Love Canal area of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Government officials said the decision had been made because of various health studies that suggest "significant health risks" to families living around an abandoned chemical dump site.

"Ordinarily we would not subject the public and affected families to the disruption of temporary relocation unless conclusion on adverse health effects had been fully documented and confirmed," Barbara Blum, deputy administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, told report-

"But this is not an ordinary situation," she said. "This case presents special circumstances warranting this extraordinary action. The studies completed today are so suggestive of a threat to public health that prudence dictates the residents be relocated while definitive studies are being completed."

The federal and New York state governments will share the cost.

The federal government was spurred into action following the weekend release of a study done for the EPA that found chromosome abnormalities in 11 of 36 area residents

Earlier today, New York Gov. Hugh Carey asked Carter for the emergency declaration and sought federal funds to buy the more than 700 homes involved and pay for permanent relocation of the families.

However, Carter's actions will only provide rent-free housing for up to a year. Officials said that was the maximum assistance available under existing federal law.

On Capitol Hill, however, Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., introduced legislation broadening federal authority to provide emergency relief in such situations.

Her bill would allow the Federal Emergency Management Agency to relocate victims, buy contaminated homes, reimburse victims for lost income and provide medical treat-

"Love Canal is not an isolated inci-dent," she said. "There are 50,000 other toxic waste dumps, time bombs waiting to go off. When they do, we must be ready to act as quickly as possible.'

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — For two years, none of his classmates would talk to James J. Pelosi.

He ate alone, studied alone and spent his free time off-campus, since he was barred from dances and parades.

Today, Capt. Pelosi says he bears no grudges about the silent treatment he received from fellow cadets at West Point. In fact, Pelosi, now 27, heads the

Pelosi's treatment resulted from an officer's accusation in September 1971 that he continued writing on an

Dial 682-6222

The convictions of two men imprisoned for the June 2, 1976 killing have been overturned and separate retrials are scheduled beginning Wednesday. The prosecution's key witness in the case — who was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser crime in exchange for his testimony — has become a defendant again, this time on a first-degree murder charge.

Max Dunlap, a Phoenix contractor. and James Robison, a Chandler, Ariz., plumber, were convicted of murder in 1977. But the Arizona Su-preme Court overturned the convictions in February, saving the men's attorneys were denied the right to cross-examine the state's key witness—John Harvey Adarmon.

Dunlap has been released on $28,000 bail; his re-trial befins this week. Robison, whose re-trial will follow, remains in the state prison at Florence for other cames.

Adamson, a former tow truck operator and part-time greyhound breeder, originally pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in exchange for his testimony against Dunlap and Robison. He received a 20-year prison sentence. The first-degree murder charge against him was filed earlier this month after he refused to cooperate with prosecutors in the re-trials.

Adamson testified in the first trial that he planted the bomb beneath Bolles' car in a Phoenix hotel parking lot; and that Robison detonated it. He the killing on orders from Arizona liquor distributor Kemper Marley, who never was charged in the case.
Under cross-examination, however,

Adamson repeatedly refused to answer questions, citing the constitu-tional Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination. The state supreme court said his refusal to answer questions unfairly handi-capped defense attorneys.

The reason for the Bolles killing remains a mystery.

Adamson testified that Marley wanted to get even with Bolles. According to the Scottsdale (Ariz.)

Progress, which has published more than 100 articles on the case, articles by Bolles were a factor in Marley's April 1976 resignation from the state racing commission.

Other theories in the case have linked the killing to dog-racing interests in the state — which Bolles also had investigated — and to a plot to gain political control of the Navajo reservation in northeastern Arizona.

Adamson's lawyer, William Feldhacker, said that his client will not testify at the re-trials unless his 20year sentence is reduced.

Attorney General Robert Corbin claims that by announcing he will refuse to testify, Adamson broke his agreement with the state. Corbin said he would not to renegotiate the original plea-bargaining arrangement, and he filed the new charge against Adamson. July 3 has been set as the trial date, but Feldhacker has appealed the filing of the charge.

Asked whether the filing of the new charge could be considered double jeopardy, Corbin said: "I'm sure the defense will raise that issue, but I don't think they will be successful. Only a judge will be able to determine that."

The murder of Bolles, who worked for the Arizona Republic, prompted a group called Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., to send a team of journalists from around the country to investigate Arizona. politics and business and the influence of organized crime in the state.

Hostage's wife cut in half

HOUSTON (AP) - On Jan. 23, the 81st day of his captivity, Army War-rant Officer Joseph Michael Hall wrote to his wife, Cheri, from his small room inside the American Embassy in Tehran:

"They took me outside for some fresh air yesterday for about 15 mi-nutes....Cloudy and cold...The air and the pines smelled wonderful.

"I saw a large crow flying. It was free. I had to keep swallowing fast to choke back the tears. I pray this will be over soon...." Soon never came. Wednesday is the 200th day of captivity for Hall and 52 other Americans.

Cheri Hall, 29, holds her husband's letter in her hand, sitting in a town-house in Houston where she is staying a few extra days following a government briefing for the families of 14 hostages.

She knows the ill-fated rescue effort that came three months and a day after her husband wrote the letter may have severed their tenuous link. 'Now I feel like it's gonna go on for a while," she says.

Cheri picks up an issue of Time magazine. Inside are two pictures of her husband at the embassy. "He's so pale," she says, tracing Joe's cheek with her finger. "So pale."

"... I fear I will pass the entire winter indoors. You know better than anyone how I love the outdoors."

"That has to be the hardest thing for him," she says, "being inside like that. He's a great sports freak and he likes the outdoors.

Cheri describes how she and Joe had been stationed Athens, Greece, how he accepted the Tehran job because it meant a promotion to warrant officer.

"...I wish I had been man enough to refuse this assignment for both of our sakes. I think we almost expected something like this. ... My desire to excel, mixed with my requirement to serve my country, has left me in a pickle."

"We have never been apart," Cheri says, glancing down at the neat stack of Joe's letters. "We worked together. read the same books - people said we were totally incredible. It wasn't to us."

Her brown eyes soften. "We liked it that way. As far as we're concerned, there is no other way."

"...The only thing more precious in this world to me than my free-dom is you. I think of you constantly, accompanied by dry tears."

Cheri's head snaps around as a television newscast mentions Iran. A colored map shows the cities where the hostages have been taken after the aborted rescue raid. As she watches, her jaw muscles tighten; a frown pulls on the corners of her

"They're scattered to the seven winds now," she says softly. She picks up the magazine again and points to Joe. His hair is short in front, but falls over his collar in

"I sure would like to know who his barber is," she says, a small grin brightening her face. "He's so neat, so tidy. He's perfect for the army." Joe, who will mark his 13th year in the Army in July, wanted to be a soldier "ever since he was a kid," Cheri says. "He volunteered for Vietnam...but when his orders came down, he got sent to a Armed Forces Entrance Examination Station in Jacksonville, Fla.

'That's where I met him. I had gone there to stay with relatives and go to college and I was working in a pharmacy. He used to come in the store and buy something so he could come through the cashier's fine and talk to me.

"One day at lunch, he told me to call my boss and tell him I had to take the afternoon off. When I asked him why, he said, 'So we can get married.' It sounded like a crazy thing to do, so I did it. We celebrated our first anniversary in Jakarta, Indonesia."

In a way, Cheri was luckier than many other hostage relatives, on that November 4 when the bad news arrived. "That afternoon, I saw my husband being led down the steps on televison, blindfolded and hands tied. I saw him the first day. The next four months are a blur. I lived in front of a television. I watched two sets. I had to know.'

She set her alarm each day for 6:55 a.m., so she could watch the "Today" show, then catch every newscast through the day.
"It's my life. They're holding me hostage, too - right in front of a television set.

Miss Tierce, a senior at Lee High School, has a 3.01 grade point average. Among her school activities are honors Rebelettes, president's cabinet. student council and geology club. A county delegate for the Republican party convention, she plans to attend Texas Tech upon graduation.

Prostitutes doubling price for Demo meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Four years ago, Manhatta rolled out the red carpet for delegates to the Democratic National Covention. This year, even the city's prostitutes say they'll work overtime + but at new, higher

"Business does increase," said Margaret Presced Roberts, head of the New York Postitutes Collective. She said the number of prostitutes working Manhattin during the Madison Square Garden convention in August may increase by almost one-half.

Margo St. James head of the pros-titute group COYOTE, or Call Off Your Old Tired Ettics, said hookers will be charging up to twice the usual rate. "If it's $50, it'll be $100. If it's usually $100, it'll be $150," she said.

There was no impediate comment from the Democrata National Committee. A spokesman for Mayor Edward I. Koch said, "The laws against prostitution will be enforced as they always are enforced. Fines against prostitutes are part of the reason for the higher prices, said Iris Dela Cruz, head of Prostitutes of New York. "Somebody's got to pay for them," she said.

The police will be trying to enforce tough anti-loitering law, but the leaders of prostitutes organizations said they plan to recruit non-prostitutes to mingle with them to try to bait police into making false arrests. The leaders said that as many as 150 "straight" recruits per night will be enlisted to serve as decoys. Miss Roberts said if police were not careful in making arrests, "there may be a flood of lawsuits."

Told of the decoy plans, a police spokesman said simply, "If a person solicits, he gets locked up. If a person loiters, he gets locked up. If a person loiters, he gets locked up."

The state's anti-loitering law, passed just before the 1976 convention, was nicknamed the "Democratic Convention Hookers' Bill." It has been upheld by the courts, but there have been two cases where damages were awarded to non-prostitutes caught in sweeps.

Miss Roberts said she hoped prostitutes' higher prices would force Democrats to address the issue of decriminalizing prostitution.

"As women we have paid the price too long," she said. "So by raising the price, we're saying we're going to make you pay the price this time."

Miss St. James said the Republican convention in July might bring even more prostitutes to Detroit. She said a great number of the delegates to the Democratic gathering are women and contended that Republican delegates have more money to burn on "the pleasures of

UIL panel studies rule on transfers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)

A 21-member University Interscholastic League committee scheduled its first hearing today on the league's controversial rule that requires transfer students who play varsity football or basketball to sit out a year.

The rule does not apply to seniors.

"The transfer rule has been the subject of several lawsuits as well as a few bills introduced in the Texas Legislature." said League Director Bailey Marshall. "We feel it is necessary to study all aspects of the rule and feasible alterna-

"It would be naive to believe we could operate an athletic program without some type of transfer rule but we want to make ours as work-able as possible," Mar-shall said.

He said each state high school association, as well as the NCAA, has some type of transfer

The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals in Austin upheld the transfer rule in March. The rule was challenged by John Sullivan of Austin, whose family moved here from Vermont in 1977.

Sullivan was not allowed to play his junior year on the Anderson High School varsity bas-ketball team because of the rule, and his family filed suit. The UIL committee also is scheduled to meet in September or October to draft recommendations for the the UIL'S rulemaking body, the Legislative Council, which meets Nov. 1-2 in through May 29.

Registration is June 2 and classes are June 3 -

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Doing without breakfast poor reducing method

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am not very overweight, but would like to lose a few pounds before the summer. Would there be any objection from a medical standpoint if I simply skipped breakfast for a couple of weeks? This would provide an added bonus of permitting me to sleep a few minutes later each morn-

Dear Jean: The few minutes extra sleep you would realize by skipping breakfast would not compensate for the resulting fatigue you would experience. People who fal to eat a good breakfast are less alert, less productive, and more likely to tire during the da than those who have breakfast.

before, you will be going approximately 14 hours without food if you do not eat until lunch the following day. That is too long a time for the body to go without the proteins, minerals, and vitamins it needs to function efficiently.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A neighbor of mine tells me he has had his arthritis cured by a diet of organic foods and vitamin C. I would like to try it. Do you have any knowledge of this treatment? - Dave

Dear Dave: Arthritis is the kind of disease that lends itself to al sorts of fanciful claims. However, the facts are simple: Except for gout, which is a special kind of arthritis, no specific food causes the disease, and no specific diet wil cure it.

Of ourse a overweight person may be placing a severe burden on the affected joints, resulting in increased inflammation and pain, and might very well profit from a program of weight control. Conversely, an underweight person with arthritis may require a diet that provides a greater caoric intake. But investing in special foods in the expectation of curing arthritis is not only a waste of money, but often means a delay in obtaining appropriate medical care.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Since my father died, my mother has been living on Social Security and is having trouble making ends meet. Do you have any suggestions about how she can provideherself with nutritious meals while continuing to live within a tight budget? - Bill

Dear Bill: Without denying the real problems faced by people living on fixed budgets, some foods cost high in nutritients and low in cost are available. For example, your mother might try using canned evaporated milk or nonfat dry milk instead

UTPB offers bilingual education scholarships

ODESSA - Tuition scholarships currently are available to area students interested in bilingual education at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin during the summer and fall semesters.

Joyce Thompson, coordinator of finanacial aid and placement at the university, said the scholarships, from the Bilingual Resource Center, are for four different types of students: college students concentrating in bilingual education, classroom teachers needing bilingual endorsement, teachers wanting to pursue a master's degree with a concentration in bilingual education and teacher's aides wanting to earn a bachelor's degree with concentration in bilingual education.

She noted the Bilingual Resource Center, which is providing scholarships in Texas and Oklahoma, has made $5,000 available to students pursuing degrees

The program is a tuition reimbursement plan, Thompson said. Reimbursement is made from the Bilingual Resource Center through the university. Interested persons may contact the UTPB Office of Financial Aid or the coordinator of bilingual education at the school where they teach.

Summer registration at UTPB is slated 9 a.m.-noon and 2-7 p.m. June 2 in the student lounge.

New drive aimed at brown lung disease

By JACK STILLMAN

ATLANTA (AP) — The federal drive to check a brown lung disease, w reporteely has stricken 150,000 textile workers, is under way.

New standards to almost totally eliminate cotton dust in the air that workers breathe in textile mills by 1984 became effective April 22 after an unsuccessful challenge by the industry in Washington federal court.

Although the exact cause of the disease, properly known as byssinosis, is not known, health officials believe cotton fibers are

Some industry spokesmen question whether it is technically feasible to reduce the amount of cotton dust to 200 micrograms of dust per cubic meter of air as required.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, which enforces the program, estimates that 25 percent of the 600,000 textile workers in the United States suffer from byssinosis and that 35,000 of them are so disabled that they will never work

Mortality rates are unavailable because only in recent years has byssinosis been distinguished from chronic bronchitis, %mphysema or heart trouble.

"Other diseases may be just as startling in numbers but this is certainly among the top job health hazards in this country," said Jim Foster, public relations director for OSHA in Washington.

"It is generally accepted that cotton dust does have something to do with it," Foster said last week in a telephone interview.

Although larger particles of cotton fiber may be coughed up by textile workers, smaller particles become lodged in the alveoli the smallest air bag in the lung. There, they cause the lung to fill with fluid, choking off breath.

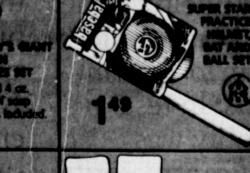

Morris M. Bryan Jr., the immediate past president of the American Textile Manufacturers Association, said he believes the efforts to solve the problem should be cooperative between government and all segments of the industry.

The standards provide for the reduction of dust to the level of .2 milligrams per cubic meter. If cotton dust is a hazard, then any cotton dust would still be a hazard," he said.

"If the cotton dust is causing this disease, then we should get together and get the dust out of cotton. Cooperative research is the answer to the problem. The dust is in there before the cotton gets to the mills."

M-Cubs find solution to six-game losing slump — hitting

By TED BATTLES Sports Editor

Midland's Cubs found their bats and pounded out 15 hits to beat Arkansas' Travelers, 10-6, to snap a six-game losing streak at Cubs Stadium Tuesday night in the opener of a five-game series with the Texas League East Division leaders, who are casting worried glances over their shoulders at the pressing Drillers.

The Cubs put on their best hitting display in two weeks and the pitching wasn't bad either. Young Steve Viskas needed ninth-inning relief help from Kent Hunziker, but notched his fourth win in six decisions. Actually, Viskas pitched better than the 11 hits indicate. Midland jumped to a 9-0 lead after four innings and then it just became a question of getting the ball over the plate ... and beating the threatening weather blowing in from the north and east. The storm looked like it might strike before Steve could retire the side in the fifth to make it official, but dallied until Hunziker struck out Jim Riggleman for the final out before hitting in its full

IN TONIGHT'S 7:30 p.m. game, it will be Randy Clark, 1-2, for Midland against the Travelers' Jack Murphy, 1-2, who had a shutout going through six innings against El Paso in his last start before being literally knocked out of the game by a line drive.

Midland's 10-run production was the most for the Cubs since a 20-10 win over El Paso May 11. The Cubs got another boost when outfielder Jared Martin, a .310 hitter for Midland last year with a shotgun arm, reported. Martin gives Manager Randy Hundley the added dimension of some much-needed speed on the

Despite the 15 hits, Midland didn't hit any home runs. The nearest thing came when catcher Mike O'Berry tried to stretch a triple into an insidethe-park homer in the second. However, the Cubs did hit three triples.

Scott Fletcher's lead off triple off loser Andy Rincon, 2-2, led to Midland's first run when he scored on a J.W. Mitchell's grounder to second. The Cubs added two more in the second on a walk to Javier Fierro, a stolen base, Melvin Hall's run-scoring single and the triple by O'Berry.

THE CUBS broke loose for five runs in the third as Mitchell and Randy La Vigne knocked Rincon out of the box with leadoff singles and reliever Don Little walked Dave Stockstill and Tom Grant to force in a run. Fierro doubled home two more runs and then Hall's triple plated two more. After that it was a case of "Let's get this thing over before it rains."

Viskas had a three-hit shutout going into the sixth when Arkansas struck for three runs with Fred Tisdale knocking in one run and Gene Dotson two more. When Viskas gave up a lead off double to Frank Hunsaker and single to Kelly Paris to open the ninth, Hunziker came on and had to survive two errors before getting the

'New spirit' pervades MHS banquet

Sports Writer

Pat Culpepper, Midland High's new athletic director, opened Tuesday night's annual MHS Spring Sports Banquet marathon by saying, "There is a new spirit on the Midland High campus." Then the MHS coaches in seven sports spent three hours and 45 minutes trying to prove the point.

And when all was said and done, David Simmons and Jana Trolinder stood as the supreme examples of what they were trying to say. Simmons was named the Outstanding Male Athlete of the Year and Trolinder received the Most Outstanding Female Athlete of the Year.

For Simmons, the banquet concluded a phenominal year that saw the burly senior win the AAAA state discus championship and fifth in the state shot put. It was this type of effort that coaches promised much more of in the years to

Simmons was the top ranked discus thrower in the state all season and he never lost a meet this year, winning ten discus titles and nine shot put crowns along the way. It all came in a senior season which followed a junior year that saw the athlete fail to get out of the district meet in either event. It is one of the most stirring stories in the history of the school.

Trolinder, on the other hand, is the pure example of the true athlete. She played three years on the basketball team, which never had a losing season, and was named to the All-District team this year. She was also a top flight 400 meter and hurdle ace for four years in track. She was dependable year in and year out and won the award in a year when there were many outstanding girls to choose from.

Trolinder and basketball teammate Margaret Christian also started MHS girls on a new era as they become the first girls in the history to earn sports scholarships. Trolinder, although not signed, will attend Texas Women's University on a basketball scholarship while Christian has signed with Western Texas College on a cage scholarship. These two have made the important first steps and more will follow.

But the night was dedicated to more than just two individuals. Every player from seven sports was introduced and each team was given a season

COACH JACK STEPHENSON seemed to be caught up in the atmosphere, and well he should be since his cagers responded with a 30-7 record in his first year and a District 5-4A Co-Championship with Odessa Permian.

Several key basketball awards were given. The Dr. Roy Johnson Valuable Player Award went to All-District junior center Herbert Johnson while the Jack Mashburn Fighting Bulldog Award went to senior guard Pat Hickey. The Bob Todd Most Improved Player Award was given to junior postman Horace Brown. All of the awards were voted on by the players. Hickey and Booker Mackey were named as the best defensive players by Stephenson. Seniors Perry Bolger and Darrin Matlock, both All-District, were pointed out for team leadership as team captains. Stephenson was most proud of the 30 victories the feam achieved, which is rare among high school teams, and winning the Optimist Classic tournament in San Antonio, which featured 34 of the state's top teams.

Pete Barizon, another newcomer to the MHS coaching ranks, was also proud of his tennis team. The team won the 5-4A title and placed sixth in the state team meet. Also Lance Armstrong won district and regional singles titles before losing to the state champion in the state meet. Richey Houdek was runnerup to Armstrong in both district and regional meets and lost to the state runnerup in Austin. Both return next year, and Barizon said one of them will be "next year's state champion."

Karen Farquhar and Caroline Kirwan also had a good year, placing second in district doubles and fourth in the regionals. Kirwan was given the Doc Dodson Most Improved Player Award for tennis.

Coach Johnny Williams, still another new head coach, had a banner year with the Bulldog track team. In addition to Simmons' heroic efforts, James Lary won a region berth for the second year in a row in the discus while Jeff Robnett won his second trip to the region meet in the 100 meters. All three were seniors. Junior Jerry Zachery also won a region berth in the 110 hurdles while setting school records. Robnett announced at the banquet that an Abilene coach thought that MHS junior Billy Taylor had won the district 100 meters despite the third place he was given. That race was one of the most controversial of the season and may start a major movement to move the district meet to a day meet. Robnett placed second in that race by the officials to earn his second regional berth. Robnett has been that type of athlete for MHS. He was also the 5-4A rushing leader in football his senior year from a fullback position.

COACH TIM WHALEN, another new head coach and a transfer from Midland Lee, was also proud of his baseball team. The team was 11-11 on the year, but they defeated Lee twice this season, ending a long 14-game losing streak to their cross town rivals. Shortstop Eddie Portillo, outfielder Tracy Gann and designated hitter Zachery all were named to the All-District team and the Doc Dodson Most Valuable Player Award went to pitcher-first baseman Paul Cox, an award voted on by the players.

Coach Jane Young's girls basketball squad, which was plagued with major injuries, finished with a 19-15 record, recording their third straight winning season since the school started basketball. Trolinder and Christian were noted for the first girls scholarships and making All-District. Sandra Rock was honorable mention.

Helen Barton's track team also made some inroads and she noted the dedication of seniors Susan Shoemaker, Trolinder and Donna Repman. Repman made history by becoming the first girl in 5-4A history to win both the 800 and 1600 meter district titles in the same year.

finished third in the regional competition. The MHS girls are becoming a big force in district golf as is Midland Lee, which went to state this year. Ann Coombs won the district medalist title and was third at the region meet after a playoff while the only senior, Patty O'Neal, was fourth in the district titlest chase and Janice Littlefield fifth.

The swimmers of Jesse Marsh had another bang-up season, qualifying six swimmers to the state meet. Carrie Mayes, who recently was named as the winner of the Gathercole Award by the City of Midland Swim Team, was given the Doug Russell Award while the Gary Schatz Award went to diver Charlie Corbin. Other state qualifiers were Tony Gunn, Julie Spaugh, Janie Dowdle and Sandy Snelson. The Most Improved Player Award went to Bobby Stevens. The gymnastics teams, although new, had a good year under coaches Mark Townzen and John Hicks. The boys qualified three for the state meet with Tom Hurt, Kyle Raybourn and Max Lonidier under Townzen. Amy Rainey was the nucelus of the girls team of Hicks. She was the points leader with 148 points on the year and Jamie Inman placed third in the complusory balance seam competition in the region meet.

Rookie Richmond hard to catch

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Tim Richmond is young, handsome, articulate and fast — but if the fastest rookie qualifier for this year's Indianapolis 500 knows it, he's not letting on.

"I haven't changed," the 24year-old driver said Tuesday after receiving a $1,500 prize for being the swiftest rookie in the field for the May 25 race. "I'm still Tim Richmond. I still put my pants on like anybody else. I ain't no better or worse.

Richmond and the 32 other starters for Sunday's race will have a final opportunity to practice during a two-hour period Thursday. Except for that, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be closed until race day.

Many drivers who come to Indianapolis started out as mechanics, so it's a natural step from working on race cars to driving them. For Richmond, however, the lure was compe-

"I've always been competition-oriented. I can remember when I was a kid. My dad used to tell me to go down and get the newspaper. I told him I wouldn't get it unless he timed me on his watch. If I can do it better and faster than anyone else, then that's what I want to do.'

Richmond's qualification speed of 188.334 mph was the fifth best, but only landed him in the seventh row of the 11-row starting field, because it came on the second weekend of time

Although he ran a lap at 193.508 in pre-trials practice, the fastest time of the month, a crash during the practice session on first-day qualifications sidelined his car until the second weekend. Because of his youth and friendliness — he gladly signs autographs for all who stop by his garage in Gasoline Alley Richmond has won himself a following among the fans here.

"I can't believe all the atten-tion I'm getting," he said. "I've enjoyed it all. The toughest thing for me is keeping every-body else happy," said Rich-mond noting several reporters waiting impatiently to interview

Putters prepared for Memorial event

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) - Putting, responsible for Tom Watson's success and Jack Nicklaus' slump, may be more important than ever in the $360,-000 Memorial golf tournament starting Thursday.

The golfer in this select international field of 92 that handles the slick, undulating greens at Muirfield Village likely will win the $54,000 first

"These greens are the fastest yet this year," said Gordy Glenz, a PGA tour supervisor. Watson knows that. He handled them last year in winning the Memorial championship. So does Nicklaus. He won in 1977 on the course he designed and built.

"Once you get on the greens - as fast as they are — you had better have a good touch," warned Watson, bidding for his fourth victory in his last five tournaments

The year's leading money winner with more than $313,000, added: "You had better be close to the hole and not on the wrong side or you'd never really have a good chance at a bird-

Putting and chipping - he's averaged 28.6 putts per round — has carried the 30-year old Watson to five triumphs in 1980, more than double any other golfer.

It's been just the opposite for Nick-laus, now 40 and winless since August 1978. He ranks 112th in current putting statistics with a 30.14 stroke aver-

"My putting so far this year has been atrocious," said Nicklaus, the winner of an unprecedented $3.5 million in his 20 professional years.

"I've always been a good putter. I never made a lot of long putts, but I never missed many short ones. But now, if I get a short one in, it's amazing. If I start putting, I'm going to start doing some good."

Even though the field is small, it is a select one. Only sixth place Andy Bean is missing from the top ten money winners. Sixteen of the 20 tournament winners this year are ready to test the par 72, 7,106-yard monster.

The four former Memorial cham-pions, Roger Maltbie, Jim Simons, Nicklaus and Watson, are competing. So is Bruce Lietzke, last Sunday's winner in Fort Worth, Texas, who anticipates no letdown this week.

"If my game was in real good shape, there might be a letdown. But I didn't hit the ball well last week. I have a lot of work to do here," said

Katzner and Levin debated with Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, and player representatives Reggie Jackson, Rusty Staub and Mark Belanger during a break in negotiations last week and said he was told that fans have no place in the contract dispute.

When Katzner attempted to present an antistrike petition he said was signed by 20,000 fans to Ray Grebey, the chief negotiator for the owners, Grebey suggested he present

Chance of strike grows as deadline approaches

NEW YORK (AP) - With the strike countdown reduced to hours instead of weeks or days, federal mediator Kenneth Moffett hoped negotiators in the continuing baseball contract dispute would return to the bargaining table today prepared to hammer out an agreement. "What is needed is a change in philosophies, by one side or the other," Moffett said Sunday when he ordered a two-day recess in the talks. He said the climate of the negotia-tions had become highly charged and it was his feeling that the two sides needed some time away from each

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, and Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for management, spent Monday and Tuesday in almost constant communication with their constituencies. Miller discussed strike logistics with the players while Grebey conferred with owners, updating them on the situation.

most of those subjects last week, but the talks broke down with two sides remaining far apart on the major issue of compensation for free agents. The compensation question involves the demand of owners that replacement players be made available from the rosters of teams signing "premium" free agents. The players feel that such a system would restrict their movement and eventually eliminate the free agent system entirely.

While the collective bargaining agreement does not include player salaries, which are negotiated by the players individually, Miller and his union feel that the compensation clause sought by management is basically a money issue.

"The compensation question has been blown up in the wrong direction," Miller said. "What the owners are trying to do is drive down salaries. It's like three-card monte, your eye follows the wrong card."
Miller offered this example.

"They don't have to worry about players coming along, saying, 'I'm as good as Rod Carew, I want as much as he makes.' What they worry about is the large group of players who are not the top-paid superstars. These players are more numerous.

Hebner and Gale earn their money

By The Associated Press

Richie Hebner and Rich Gale finally did what they get paid for Tuesday

Hebner, who hit 166 home runs in 13 National League seasons, cracked his first two American League homers - a grand slam in the fifth inning and a two-run shot in the sixth - rallying the Detroit Tigers to a 12-8 victory over the New York Yankees and previously unbeaten Tommy John. Gale, who was expected to regain his 1978 rookie form when he posted a 14-8 record for Kansas City, recorded his first triumph after five setbacks - he allowed five hits in seven innings - as the Royals edged the Oakland A's and hard-luck Mike Norris 1-0.

White Sox 4, Twins 2 Chet Lemon hit his fourth home run of the season and scored three times and Wayne Nordhagen had a pair of run-scoring singles to lead the White Sox to their fourth consecutive victory. The Twins broke a 17-inning scoreless string with two runs in the top of the sixth to tie the game, but Chicago regained the lead in the bottom of the inning on a walk to Lemon and singles by Lamar Johnson and Nordhagen. Lemon homered in the eighth as the White Sox remained one game ahead of Kansas City in the AL

Angels 5, Rangers 4

Bobby Grich's two-run homer and catcher Tom Donohue's run-scoring single in the sixth inning gave California rookie Freddie Martinez his first major league victory in his initial start after four relief appearances. Martinez departed in the seventh inning with a 5-1 lead and Richie Zisk, the first batter to face Dave LaRoche, hit a three-run homer. After the third out, the rains came and the game was called after a wait of 91 minutes.

Brewers 14, Mariners 5

Ben Oglivie cracked two homers and drove in six runs and Robin Yount also homered in Milwaukee's 15-hit attack. Oglivie socked a two-run homer in the first inning, a sacrifice fly in the second and a three-run blast in the third as the Brewers exploded for all their runs in the first three innings. Seattle starter Floyd Bannister failed to survive the first inning, giving up four

Red Sox 4, Blue Jays 3

Jim Dwyer drove in two runs with a solo homer and a double while unbeaten Chuck Rainey pitched five innings for his fourth victory. Dwyer stroked a Tom Buskey changeup off the right field foul pole in the seventh inning for his second homer in two games to give the Red Sox a 4-2 lead. Dwyer walked and scored in Boston's two-run first inning and doubled a run across in the fifth.

Indians 4-0, Orioles 0-8

Jim Palmer and Tippy Martinez combined on a five-hitter and were backed by a 14-hit Baltimore attack in the nightcap after Cleveland's John Denny hurled a four-hitter in the opener for his first American League shutout. Palmer, making his first start since May 3 after being sidelined with a sore back, yielded four hits in seven innings while Doug DeCinces homered. Denny struck out five and walked two in the first game while Joe Charboneau had a pair of run-scoring singles.

"I try to control my aggressiveness, but there are times when I get stimulated and it's been like that the last few days," says Garvey, who has been taking out his hostilities on National League pitchers of late.

Voicing the opinion that opposing pitchers are "head-hunting" for him and players trying to spike him, Garvey con-tinued his long-ball rampage Tuesday night with a three-homer that helped the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3.

It was his fourth homer in the last three games and his ninth of the young season. The blast boosted his major league-leading RBI total

JIM MURRAY

Could Codex have captured racing's Triple Crown?

By JIM MURRAY Los Angeles Times

All right, Miss Browneyes, take a memo to D. Wayne Lukas. Tell them to try the track kitchen at Pimlico. But he may be in hiding.

"Dear Wayne, "I hope this finds you well, and on your way back to California with our horse, Codex.

'Wayne, I certainly hope you have no plans to run that horse in the Belmont. Now, I take no position on whether your rider did or did not foul the filly in the Preakness but, Wayne, I have to tell you the saddest sight I ever did see was the easy way Codex won that race. I could have cried.

"You see, Wayne, that move of his pretty clearly establishes what a lot of us feared - he is the best young horse in the country.

"Now, Wayne, I find this very

the best young horse in the country, what do you do? You enter him in the Kentucky Derby to win. Everything else is camptown meeting, fairgrounds racing. The Preakness is just the eighth race at Pimlico. The Belmont is just an Exacta. Missing the Derby is like passing up a mysterious beauty on shipboard in a cruise who asks you for a light - and you excuse yourself to go down to your stateroom distressing. Because, when you have and catch up on some bookwork. The rest of your life you'll curse the chance that was wasted.

"I have said that, if the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont were sisters, the Preakness would be the one with buck teeth and the Belmont would be the one wearing glasses. Only Man O' War was able to win those two races after skipping the Derby and remain famous. Every other horse had to win the Derby too or become Old What's-His-Name? "The worst thing is, Wayne, maybe you were still too busy coaching basketball or teaching school to pick up on it, but we here in California have always had a devil of a time jumping up horses that can win at Kentucky.

It's been humiliating. "You take back in 1950. William Goetz, the movie mogul, had a nice horse called Your Host. He went back to the Derby and you could almost feel the hostility. You see, the hardboots from the Blue Grass and all those polo-playing types from Long Island were not about to let some Hollywood wise guy steal their racket. When the horse failed, they let their contempt be known. 'Nice little the second to take the 'Hollywood' route to Kentucky. Two years ago, Affirmed won the Santa Anita and Hollywood and then the Kentucky. 'Nice little California sprinters' had been choking on their mint juleps back at Louisville.

"I don't know the reasons you didn't nominate Codex to the Kentucky Derby. But, when you didn't, we had only one hope: the horse wouldn't have won anyway.

"Oh, yes, he would. He was five lengths the best of that bunch, as he proved at the Preakness.

"Only one Santa Anita-Hollywood derby winner has become a Triple Crown Winner. We can't afford oversights. It's a good thing for you the

It's a good thing for you the horse can't talk. Remember that scene in 'On The Waterfront' where Brando says heartbrokenly to his brother, 'I could have been a contender?' Well, Codex could say to you, 'But Wayne, I could have won the Triple Crown!

Hollywood sprinter,' they sniffed.

'When Swaps became only the second California-bred in history to win a Derby in 1955, the Eastern Establishment didn't rest till they lured him back on the track (Swaps, you see, had it right — he ducked the Preak-ness and the Belmont) for a match race and they beat him with Nashua. They wouldn't otherwise have been able to face the gang at the Hamptons or out on Hobe Sound. The cocktail flags on all the yachts would have been at half-mast.

"We went back there with some no-count jokers, in our time, Wayne. Half-brothers to Swaps who couldn't hang on to he quarter pole. A horse called Like Magic, who should have been called Like Hell. And then there was Silky Sullivan. Silky put the reddest faces around the barns at Hollywood and Santa Anita you ever did see. He ran like a burro after winning the Santa Anita Derby from 40 lengths back out here.

"Well, you see what I mean, Wayne. Your horse had a chance to be only

Wild and crazy NHL playoffs swing into pivotal fifth game

landers and Philadelphia Flyers have turned the National Hockey League championship series into a dream matchup for people who believe lightning can strike twice and history, this once at least, can repeat itself.

Consider the coincidences surrounding the seies the Islanders lead 3-1 with Game Five set for Thursday night:

-Last year the Islanders won the regular-season championship, only to be eliminated from the playoffs by the New York Rangers — the fifth-best team in the overall standings. This year the Flyers, the regular-season champions, stand one loss away from elimination ... by the fifth-best team in the overall standings.

-Last year the Islanders collected 116 points in the regular season and the Rangers - who eliminated them - had 91. This year the Flyers collected 116 points and the Islanders - who are one triumph away from eliminating them - had

-Last year the Flyers scored 281 goals and gave up 248. This year the Islanders scored 281 goals and gave up 247.

-And how about this? Last year the Islanders had the league's longest unbeaten streak, 15 games, but couldn't win four times in a best-ofseven series. This year the Flyers had the league's longest unbeaten streak (a record 35 games) but now must win three in a row to take this best-of-seven final.

Codex, center, streaks to victory

That's one place where history has not repeated itself, for only once in 54 years has a team rebounded from a 1-3 deficit to win the final series. That was in 1942 when the Toronto Maple ship round and battled back to take the next four games - and th title - from the Detroit Red

"We always tend to make things difficult, so we'll just have to put our backs to the wall and win the next three games," said Philadelphia center Mel Bridgman.

"The last time I looked," said Flyers Coach Pat Quinn, "it still took four games (victories) to win it.'

The Islanders know that, which explains why they refuse to consider the Stanley Cup theirs until that last triumph is achieved.

"We're closer than we've ever been to the Cup," added New York defenseman Denis Potvin. "The first thing all of us have to realize is that we still have to win one more.

'You win the series with four victories; we've got three now, and all the marbles are going to be on the next game," said Potvin.

All those coincidences will be riding on it,

Colorado Rockies fire head coach Cherry

DENVER (AP) - The Colorado Rockies have fired Don Cherry, the colorful and controversial coach who team owners described as the best in his profession when they hired him

The ax fell Tuesday when Armand Pohan, president of the National Hockey League club, ended six weeks of uncertainty by saying, "You cannot run an effective organization when one man is at war with the rest of it."

Pohan confirmed that the Rockies have been talking with U.S. Olympic hockey Coach Herb Brooks about the Colorado job. Brooks was in Mexico Tuesday and could not be reached for comment, but he reportedly has said he would abandon plans to coach in Switzerland next season if an NHL coaching post was available.

Cherry summed up Pohan's criticism of him as "a bunch of by Pohan's six-page statement detailing the owners' dissatisfaction with the coach.

"I'm happy I wasn't around for the crucifixion because I would have been blamed for that," Cherry said.

Cherry was hired by the Rockies on May 30, 1979, soon after he left the Boston Bruins amid a dispute with management. The Rockies had just finished the 1978-79 season with the worst record in the NHL and Cherry's hiring was hailed as the first step toward salvaging the franchise.

Cherry quickly became a well-known and popular figure in Denver and he helped the Rockies nearly double their average home attendance to almost 10,000 a game. However, the team ended with a 19-49-13 record, again the worst in the league, and Pohan blamed Cherry for the lack of improvement.

"Public relations has become a major focus of Don Cherry's time and energy," said Pohan. "Here we need a coach that wil devote full time to coaching and teaching."

"Being bunged up and tired up hurt us," said claimed the only four-bagger of the day. Arkansas coach Norm DeBriyn after Texas' Longhorns drubbed his team 9-4 Tuesday for the host role in the NCAA South Central regional tournament, which begins Friday in Austin.

"The difference had to be the extra ball game and Arkansas' injuries," Texas coach Cliff Gustafson

'We're two different ball clubs. They're a power hitting club, and they have two outstanding pitchers in Steve Krueger and Scott Tabor. We're more oriented to speed, defensive ability and a little more overall depth. Their bats looked a little dead today.'

Arkansas also gets a berth in the NCAA playoffs, but with the loss must travel to Tulsa, Okla., for a first-round game Thursday against Oral Roberts University in the Midwest regionals. A win would have allowed the Razorbacks to host the South Central regionals and sent Texas to Tulsa.

Texas will play Louisiana Tech in its first-round game Friday at Austin.

Texas and Arkansas both won their first-round games Saturday over Texas Tech and Texas A&M respectively, but the Longhorns dropped Arkansas into the losers' bracket of the double-elimination tourney with a 6-4 victory.

Arkansas beat Texas Tech Monday to earn another shot at Texas and beat the Longhorns 8-7 Monday night, forcing another game Tuesday to decide the championship. Kevin McReynolds, the Arkansas center fielder who was named the SWC tourney's Most Valuable Player, limped out of the championship game

His four homers in the tournament, two of them in Monday's victory over Tech, set a SWC record. But it was the Texas bats that were steaming Tuesday. The Longhorns outhit Arkansas 12-7 and

Randy Richards' two-run homer triggered a fourrun fourth inning that gave the Longhorns a 6-0 lead, and Arkansas could never overcome the margin. Mike Withrow sawed off the Razorback power with no hits until the fifth, when an error and his fifth walk allowed Arkansas to rally for three runs. Keith Creel, now 15-1 for the season, came on in relief for the victory as Texas raised its record to 51-11 for the season. Arkansas fell to 43-20.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Sir Laurence Olivier-"the actor's actor" who plays an eloquent MacArthur in the film INCHON-shares both your birthday and your ability to communicate well with others. Versatility and a special quickness of mind enable you to overcome barriers during tough financial periods. Sometimes loved ones do not understand your methods, but they are very proud of your success. Love relationship plays key role in months ahead. Those who think you cold and calculating are in for a big surprise! Make sure infatuation does not interfere with work responsibilities, deadlines.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You meet all challenges, surmount all obstacles where personal affairs are concerned. Excellent day for taking stock, making inventories, and dealing with problems related to supplies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Temper impulsiveness with diplomacy to gain new business and secure important support. Social setting can bring you in contact with attractive stranger you would like to know better.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pursue travel and hobby ideas in tandem with mate, partner. Promotion or pay raise can result from display of ingenuity. Take care of what you own and owe during afternoon.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Refuse to finalize business negotiations until all your questions are answered. Longrange project concerning property has real possibilities! Program physical energy carefully so all personal obligations can be fulfilled.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Turn attention to creative venture suggested by friend. Influential person may show new interest in pet project. Financial backing could come from unusual source.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stick to priorities. Excellent day for concluding business deals. Terms now available cannot be bettered! Show more patience towards parent. older relative who ask questions about your social life. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22):

Tend to routine responsibilities before indulging whim, fantasy. Budget could need overhauling. Social outing tonight may lead to exciting romantic interlude

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.

21): Be discreet about personal problem. Advice from experts is essential now. If entertaining at home, try to keep costs down. Talk money only with those you love and trust.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Thoroughly investigate an unusual employment opportunity. Be wary of jumping into situations about which you know very little. Evening hours are best spent with family members, neighbors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

Some players seem reluctant to give up tricks which must, inevitably, be lost. Postponing the evil moment of payment never makes a bill shrink. Witness South's shortsightedness on this hand.

The bidding was sound in all respects. Having opened a minimum, South did no more than simply rebid spades over his partner's minor-suit responses. By the time he had rebid spades for the third time it was not difficult for North, who was looking at a full opening bid, to realize that his side's best shot for game lay in spades, so he raised with what was,

by then, adequate support. West led the king of hearts and, when he saw the doubleton in dummy, shifted to the queen of spades. In a play highlighted by its futility. declarer grabbed the king and led a second heart. won and returned er trump, and now had to rely on findher the diamonds 3-3, trump also being long vin #### diamonds.

But it was not to be. West ruffed the third diamond and cashed a heart trick for a onetrick set. Another ironclad contract had bitten the dust.

By simply allowing West's queen of spades to win the second trick, declarer could have rendered the contract virtually foolproof. The trump trick had to be lost, and there was good reason why it should be conceded sooner rather than later.

Declarer must assure the uninterrupted run of the diamond suit. If declarer allowed West to win the first trump trick, the best West can do is to cash another heart trick and then lead a second spade. But now declarer can win, draw the last trump and run the diamonds to make his contract.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" The casual observer might not understand the fine art of glossing over weak-nesses at network affiliates convention.

Last week, ABC convened its station owners and station managers here to discuss the state of the network; as could be expected, the picture painted was of a rosy hue, even though ABC blew its position as undisputed prime-time programming leader to CBS last season.

to the affliates (as the ABC Olympics theme played in the backgorund). On Wednesday, Fred Pierce, president of ABC Entertainment, told the affliates:

."As you saw yester-day, competition brought out the best in the 1980 Olympics hockey team. It acted as a spur to pull team members together strength. Competition has that same impact on us at ABC." Picky affliates could have pointed out that the U.S. hockey team won a gold medal and that, under competitive pressure from CBS, ABC weakened. But such is not the purpose of affliates' meetings. The role of the network at such gatherings is to promise that everything's going to be okay; the role of the affliates is to hope and believe. Metaphorical extravagance is accepted. Forgiven, usually.

Mr. Pierce could have told the affliates, "Look, we sort of screwed up last season. We thought we were, we made some moves that looked clever turned out to be boobreathing down our

"Of course, this primetime season was incredibly competitive," he said, "and we are not glossing over our disappointments. But this season did not alter our pat-

> Understandably, Pierce and others proudly accentuated that very real gains ABC has made recently in daytime competition and news. There may have been a wince or two, though, when James Duffy, president of the network, said:

Teen addict's tale a best seller

By DAVID MINTHORN Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) - A young girl's nightmarish account of her life as a heroin addict and prostitute, her suicide attempt and her efforts to kick the habit, has become a runaway best seller in

"We Children of the Zoo Station," 15-year-old Christiane F.'s revelations about the drug scene around a West Berlin railway depot, has sold 700,000 copies in 70 weeks on the best-seller list, according to Stern Books of Hamburg.

"It is one of the biggest publishing successes of postwar Germany," said the book's editor, Hans-Joachim Maass. "I think it is a hit because young people realize it is entirely genuine. No one could have invented such dialogue.

"Parents bought it at first. Now entire school classes are reading it as part of their lessons. We've brought out teaching aids for the text," he said in a recent interview with The Associated

The book has been translated and published in Spain and the Scandinavian countries and a U.S. edition is being prepared by Arlington Press of New York, Maass said.

The 333-page book is based on tape-recorded interviews with Christiane after her mother sent her to live with relatives in northern West German village in 1977.

Authors Kai Hermann and Horst Rieck do not reveal Christiane's family name, but underscore the authenticity of the first-person account with photos of the girl and others in the drug scene, including a 14-year-old girlfriend who became Berlin's youngest overdose victim.

Six hundred West Germans, most of them teen-agers and young adults, died of heroin overdoses last year. Of the country's 40,000 known addicts about 20 percent are 12 to 16 years

Christiane F. tells in Berlin street-slang how she began taking pills and smoking hashish at the age of 12 in her church youth club.

She was introduced to LSD at a West Berlin disco and took her first snort of heroin a month before her 14th birthday in April 1976. Within a few weeks she was injecting the narcotic, following the lead of her teen-age boyfriend Detlef.

At first, they shoplifted to earn cash for heroin. Soon they needed $100 a day to support the habit, and Detlef became a male prostitute. By the winter of 1976 Christiane was also soliciting customers after school.

When her mother caught her shooting heroin 1977, Christiane agreed to withdraw "cold turkey." She and Detlef underwent a torturous six-day home cure. But they went back to heroin at the first opportunity.

Of soliciting customers on a Berlin street she

"We always worked at least in pairs. When one of us drove off with a customer, the other always took down the license number so he knew the score. That also provided us protection from pimps. We weren't afraid of the cops. Squad cars drove by and they waved at us.'

She was arrested in police drug busts; hospitalized for hepatitis; and went through several withdrawals, relapses, and a failed therapy with a Scientology group. She attempted suicide by overdosing in a subway toilet.

"I looked for the cleanest toilet," she said. "I was really totally calm, not a bit afraid. I never thought suicide would be so undramatic. I didn't think about my life, or my mother or Detlef. I only thought about shooting up... I jammed the half-gram into my arm. I felt it tear into my heart and then the top of my skull exploded. When I woke up again it was light outside."

Three injured in Berlin explosion

BERLIN (AP) - Two explosions ripped through a 1,200-seat hall in West Berlin where a convention of West German businessmen was underway today, seriously injuring at least three persons and causing extensive damage, police said.

The cause of the explosions, which occurred shortly before 11 a.m., was still unknown, police said. Officials said so far they had no evidence that terrorists were involved.

The building, called Congress Hall, is one of the best known buildings in West Berlin and has become a symbol for the modern Western city that emerged from the devastation of World War II.

Known popularly as the "pregnant oyster" because of its sweeping, oval form, the hall was built by the Benjamin Franklin Institute in 1957 as the American contribution to the Interna-

But Tuesday's vote in which 60 percent of those balloting rejected independence for Quebec does not mean that the spirit of separatism is dead in the largely French-speaking Canadian province. It means that the federal government has one more chance to meet the French Canadians' expectations for greater self-rule.

Undaunted provincial Premier Rene Levesque, the leader of the separatists, told a tearful but thunderous crowd of supporters, late Tuesday to remain hopeful, that one day Quebec will have its "rendezvous with history" and win equality with English-speaking Canada as a nation to itself.

"Till next time," he said as he left the "independentists" waving blue fleur-de-lis Quebec flags.

Hundreds of his young supporters marched through the English-speaking Montreal suburb of Westmount, throwing stones, breaking some windows, tearing down a flagpole and roughing up a TV technician. Riot police swinging their clubs scattered the marchers.

Levesque and his Parti Quebecois had asked the voters to give him a mandate to negotiate "sovereignty-association" with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's federal government, an arrange-ment whereby Quebec would have political independence but would retain close economic ties with

With more than 98 percent of the votes counted, there were 2,171,913 "no" ballots and 1,478,200 voting "yes." The turnout, after a highly emotional campaign, was 87 percent.

The vote showed that "we are proud to be Quebecers ... and at the same time proud of being Canadians," Claude Ryan, leader of the provincial Liberal Party and head of the federalist campaign, told a victory rally.

But with the 20-percent English-speaking minority voting overwhelmingly against secession, the result meant that the French majority was split roughly 50-50 on the issue. This formidable French support for Levesque's ideas underlined the challenge facing Trudeau as he seeks to placate Quebecers and Canadians in other provinces who demand more power for their provincial governments.

Trudeau has promised to convene a constitutional conference as early as July to negotiate reforms. "Now that we have reaffirmed our will to live together, we must apply ourselves without delay to the task of rebuilding our home to conform to the present needs of the Canadian family," he said

Many in Quebec and elsewhere in Canada saw the PQ defeat in the referendum as a victory for this middle road of "renewed federalism."

"The federal government has got to recognize that it is an agency of the provinces and not the other way ' said Premier Brian Peckford of Newfound-

But with the independence minded PQ still in power in Quebec, any constitutional conference is likely to end in stalemate.

Ryan, whose Liberals are the chief opposition resources, social policy and broadcasting and other cultural programs, and a new upper house of the federal Parliament appointed by the provincial governments that could block attempts to increase federal authority over the provinces

His plan also provides for some special protection for French Canadians.

Analysts attributed the "no" victory to Ryan's success in con vincing many voters that they did not have to support the "radical" option of soverei gnty-association to get a more favored status within Canada. But to put his proposals across, he will first have to oust Levesque's party from control of the Quebec National Assembly. Levesque, in power 31/4 years, must call elections next year at the latest. Ryan, eager to capitalize on the referendum triumph, will demand that he call them earlier.

The provincial federal tensions are a legacy of Canada's past. The establishment of the confederation 113 years was a cobbling together of disparate British colonies in order to guard against a U.S. takeover and to expand to the West.

The provinces since then have resisted U.S.-style centralization of government. Meanwhile, Quebec's French Canadians have felt themselves discriminated against and left behind as English Canadians and Americans dominated the postwar industrial boom. And the surge of Quebec nationalism in the past 20 years stirred up other provinces' complaints against the federal government in Ottawa.

U.S. debates Korean turmoil

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is weighing competing interests in deciding a response to the emergence of authoritarian military rule in South Korea, U.S. officials

The consensus in the administration is that political stability in South Korea would best be served by restoration of broad-based democratic

But officials, who asked not to be identified, said the immediate question was whether the United States should demonstrate its displeasure by resorting to punitive measures against the country's military leader-

Panda couple gets a little help

WASHINGTON (AP) - After three years of unsuccessful fooling around, America's famous panda couple was given a little help in starting a family. But zoo officials won't know until October whether the lovable Ling-Ling is pregnant.

Dr. Theodore H. Reed, director of the National Zoo, said Ling-Ling was artifically inseminated on two separate occasions last weekend, the first time such a procedure was attempted on a panda outside of China.

"Our pandas had not been able to get it together, so we decided to assist them with artifical insemination," Reed said Tuesday at a news conference. "We had a successful insemination. But a breeding does not necessarily mean a conception. We won't know if we have a pregnancy

The gestation period in a panda is five months.

Reed showed reporters a vivid videotape, not only of the insemination procedure, but also of the pandas' unsuccessful courtship in which an impish Ling-Ling would pose on a pedestal for her suiter, Hsing-Hsing. But she met his loud crooning and clumsy advances with swats and

During insemination procedures, in which each animal was anesthesized, Hsing-Hsing was given shocks from an electrode to induce sperm. However, Reed said frozen sperm taken from Hsing-Hsing last year was used instead because the new samples were not strong enough. The sperm was injected into Ling-Ling as she slept on an aluminum

Reed said artificial insemination was tried in China five times and resulted in two pregnancies. Twins were born each time, but only one offspring survived infancy. There are about 30 Giant Pandas in captivity around the world and about 1,000 in the wild, zoo experts say. The captive pandas, of whom only 14 are considered successful breeders, are in zoos in China, London, Paris, Madrid, Tokyo and Korea. America's pandas were a gift from the Chinese to the United States during former President Richard M. Nixon's visit in 1972.

Reed said that although it will be some time before officials know whether conception occurred, they will go ahead with plans for a nursery in Ling-Ling's palatial, air-conditioned quarters. Also, a closed circuit television will be installed in the den so the hoped-for birth can be monitored without disturbing the mother.

"The first sign that Ling-Ling is pregnant will be the swelling of her nipples" Reed said. The baby, due about two weeks later, would weigh about four ounces at birth — the size of a stick of butter.

Demonstrators capture Kwangju

KWANGJU, South Korea (AP) -Paratroopers shot and killed four demonstrators and wounded 50 in Kwangju today as some 200,000 protesters against martial law took control of almost the entire provincial capital 150 miles south of Seoul.

Meanwhile, Park Choong-hoon, a retired major general who held several government posts and is now head of the Korea Traders Association, was named prime minister to replace Shin Hyon-hwack, who accepted responsibility for last week's bloody riots and resigned with the rest of the Cabinet Tuesday.

Witnesses said the paratroopers were on guard outside Kwangju's provincial government building and opened fire with M-16 automatic rifles when some of the demonstrators tried to drive into them with city buses they commandeered and an armored personnel carrier they stole from a facto-

Some of the demonstrators were armed with M-16s and M-1 carbines but apparently had no ammunition. In addition to the armored personnel carrier and buses, they hijacked army jeeps and trucks and maneuvered them into key positions around

Although security forces were deployed around the provincial government building, they were in little evidence elsewhere as army helicopters scattered leaflets over the city appealing for calm. They said once order was restored, troops reinforcements rushed to the city would be

Some 100,000 protesters stormed through Kwangju Tuesday, went home early Wednesday then began reassembling in greater numbers several hours later. Riot fired tear gas and warning shots over their heads, several times but were unable to rout them.

Some of the protesters were armed with kitchen knives, sections of iron pipe and broken bottles, in addition to rifles. During their rampage Tuesday, they wrecked 13 government buildings and set fire to 50 vehicles.

The martial-law command said one civilian and five soldiers and policemen were killed Tuesday. Police sources said four policemen were killed when they were hit by a commandeered bus.

Other reliable sources said two soldiers and five civilians also were killed, and that the bodies of some of the slain civilians were placed on carts by the protesters and paraded through the streets of Kwangju

In Seoul, meanwhile, President Choi Kyu-hah named Park his new prime minister. Park is a 61-year-old retired air force major general who has served as deputy prime minister, minister of commerce and industry and economic planning minister, and is credited with leading South Korea's economic takeoff in the 1960s. He is also chairman of the board of the pro-government Korea Herald.

The entire 19-member Cabinet resigned Tuesday to accept responsibility for the violent anti-government demonstrations in Seoul and five other cities last week that led to the military's taking full control of the country Sunday.

South Korea has been under martial law since the assassination of President Park Chung-hee Oct. 26. Choi, Park's prime minister who became president Dec. 21, has been under increasing pressure from stu-dents and others to accelerate a promised revision of Park's authoritarian constitution and democratic elec-

Two killed in Australian court

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) -A screaming gunman charged through the Supreme Court here today, killing two men with pointblank shots in the head and wounding two men and one woman. The gunman was later captured in a flying tackle outside the court complex by a senior police constable as the dead and injured laid in pools of blood in a court corridor.

It was the third serious breach of court security in Melbourne in the past 18 months and immediately renewed calls for tighter precautions against the smuggling of weapons into court buildings.

The shootings occcured shortly after noon. Witnesses said the gunman ran screaming along the corridor, grabbed two people around the neck, pushed them up against the wall and fired at their heads from point blank range.

"Screaming all the time, he fired at two other people," said a court offi-cial. "I just froze, I simply couldn't " move. It was horrifying."

Police did not immediately identify by name any of the victims. They said the two dead men were in their 40s. Another man in his 40s was in a critical condition while a fourth was suffering from minor injuries. The fifth person, a woman about 26, was in a serious condition.

Chief inspector Paul Delianis, chief of the homicide squad, said the shoot-ing was connected with the handing down of a judgment in one of the courts concerning a disputed bank account. He did not elaborate.

The gunman was said to be in his

'Star Wars' fans wait 36 hours to see sequel

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - "The Force" is with us

Starting today in 126 theaters in North America, Darth Vader breathes down the neck of the rebel alliance; Chewbacca growls at danger; and Luke Skywalker lets "The Force" — a strange, mystical power - guide him.

"The Empire Strikes Back" - the sequel to the most successful film in history, "Star Wars" blends old and new elements in its story. To begin with, producer-creator George Lucas has subtitled the movie "Episode V" and says there will be seven other "Star Wars" films. In addition, a Muppet plays a central role and the soldier-of-fortune Han Solo gains a larger part, one that includes some romance with the Princess Leia. What is the same is the avalanche of special effects and national attention.

hours to see the initial showing of the sequel. One of those standing in the drizzle outside the Egyptian Theater, Terri Hardin, said the 36-hour encampment was not nearly as difficult as the three-year hiatus between films. "We're waiting for our high. It's in that door. You know, we don't want anything else. We don't need anything else," said Miss Hardin.

"The Force is with us and it's going to carry us right on into that theater," she said.

Miss Hardin had been firmly entrenched on Hollywood Boulevard with 12 or 13 other fans since early Monday, even though tickets — priced at a record $5.50 each — didn't go on sale until 11 p.m. Tuesday. The screenings began at 12:01 a.m. today and continue for an unprecedented 72 hours, said Egyptian Theater executive Roy Evans.

It's that kind of fanatical devotion that enabled "Star Wars" to earn $300 million in box office receipts since it was released in May 1977. And 20th Century-Fox officials feel that kind of force portends success for the sequel. "The contracts we have with theaters in the domestic (U.S.) market cannot return to us less than $30 million," said Peter Myers, senior vice president domestic distribution for 20th Century-Fox. He said the film cost about $25 million to make, excluding That, in Myers' view, makes "The Empire Strikes Back" about as close to a sure thing as anyone could ever get in the unpredictable film business.

"I think we're going into the marketplace with at least a break-even," Myers said.

Initial critical reaction is that the special effects of "The Empire Strikes Back" is superior to "Star Wars," but that the plot is less satisfying because it obviously sets the stage for another movie.

But one of the elements likely to make its mark on popular culture like "The Force" already has is a two-foot Muppet called "Yoda."

Now do you believe?

That evening the disciples were meeting behind locked doors, in fear of the Jewish leaders, when suddenly Jesus was standing there among them! After greeting them,

He showed them His hands and side. And how wonderful was their joy as they saw their Lord!

He spoke to them again and said, "As the Father has sent Me, even so I am sending you."

Then He breathed on them and told them, "Receive the Holy Spirit.

If you forgive anyone's sins, they are forgiven. If you refuse to forgive them, they are unforgiven." One of the disciples, Thomas, "The Twin," was not there at the time with the others.

When they kept telling him, "We have seen the Lord," he replied, "I won't believe it unless I see the nail wounds in His hands-and put my fingers into them-and place my hand

Eight days later the disciples were together again, and this time Thomas was with them. The doors were locked; but suddenly, as before, Jesus was standing among them and greeting

Then He said to Thomas, "Put your finger into My hands. Put your hand into My side. Don't be faithless any longer. Believe!"

"My Lord and my God!" Thomas said.

Then Jesus told him, "You believe because you have seen Me. But blessed are those who haven't seen Me and believe

Jesus' disciples saw Him do many other miracles besides the ones told about in this book, but these are recorded so that you will believe that He is the Messiah, the Son of God, and that believing in Him you will have Life.

Rains solve many problems bothering CRMWD directors

River Municipal Water District convene in Big Spring May 27, they will have a great deal more cause for optimism than had they met a week ago.

The reason is approximately 34,000 acre feet (over 11 billion gallons) of new water which flowed into the district's two reservoirs over the week-end. Instead of considering hard alternatives at the meeting, board memebers will get reports of considerably improved quality as well as ample supply.

Other matters due to be on the agenda include reports on operations, finances, a progress report on the Stacy reservoir application and the start of the HIPLEX weather modification project. Directors also will consider an application for a water sales

When directors of the Colorado Thomas, the district's quality control reservoir, reached an elevation of 2,220.84 feet, the highest point since July 18, 1977. This represented a vertical gain of 8.78 feet and in volume 16,950 acre feet. The total content of the lake gained by 240 percent to 28,580 acre feet. Most of the water came from intense showers on the watershed in the near proximity to Lake Thomas.

> At the same time, Lake E.V. Spence, 80 river miles downstream from Lake Thomas, had reached an elevation of 1,856 feet, the highest point since the first of 1979. This inflow, resulting from flood conditions around Snyder, caused a 3.50vertical foot increase and a volume gain of 16,250 acre feet, with a small amount still expected. The 15 percent gain put the content at 109,000 acre

Improved quality of water will be noticeable as soon as the pipeline content is displaced by new water, said O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD. The new supply at Lake Thomas will mean that production from that source may be pushed up to 12 million gallons a day.

Quality of Lake Spence water has escalated tenfold at the pump station as an immediate result of the inflow, but Ivie cautioned that this dramatic change will be temporary. However, even after the new water homoge-nizes with the existing content at Spence, there will be a 15 to 20 percent improvement there. The new lower choloride Spence water, cut with a greater mixture of low-chloride Thomas water, will give a substantially improved quality water to the municipalities through the summer,

Peru cracking down on cocaine producers

By JON ANDERSON

TINGO MARIA, Peru (AP) - More than 1,000 soldiers and police invaded the jungle for an unprecedented 20day campaign. Their target: coca. the high-altitude bush with leaves worth their weight in gold.

Arriving in helicopters and by land, they arrested 150 growers, destroyed 19,760 acres of coca crops, burned 145 leaf-drying barns and blew up 427 pits where cocaine paste is prepared.

The operation, code-named "Green Sea," was the first of its kind in Peru. The armed forces said it would not be

The government began its crackdown on March 13 - the day after a retired air force general was arrested in Lima, the capital, on cocainesmuggling charges. A state of emergency was declared in the high jungle departments (states) where Peru's coca is grown. Two weeks later. troops were airlifted from Lima to Tingo Maria for the operation.

The world coca capital didn't exactly welcome the soldiers. A general strike was called the day they arrived, paralyzing the town for 24

"We are not trying to protect drug traffickers, but we ask that instead of throwing us into prison, the government grant us technical help and credits to be able to afford to switch crops," the protestors said in a state-

Drug enforcement officials say more than 90 percent of Tingo Maria's 35,000 inhabitants are directly or indirectly earning their living from the laurel-shaped, brownish-green leaf.

The Interior Ministry declared Operation Green Sea a success. But military sources admitted privately that they lacked the manpower and techniques to enforce the law adequate-

The tough reaction to coca growing goes back to 1978, when Peru signed an agreement with the United States to provide U.S. money and training for Peruvian agents. The United States has invested $1.31 million in the program since it began.

Simultaneously, Peru increased the number of its police narcotics agents and decreed stiff anti-trafficking laws and a "coca substitution and eradication law," intended to eliminate illegal coca planting gradually.

Peruvian authorities claim they increased the number of drug trafficking arrests from 696 in 1975 to 1,856 in 1978 and seized about four tons of coca paste and base in 1978, according to the Andean Report, an authoritative business-oriented magazine published in English in Lima.

The coca substitution law banned all new coca plantings and ordered the gradual reduction of the size of coca holdings and their substitution by other crops. The law also allowed the government to seize all illegal coca farms and distribute them to landless peasants, a process which began with Operation Green Sea.

In theory, most of the coca should have disappeared by Feb. 29, except for the smallest holdings and plantings authorized by the government for legal sales. In practice, almost no one complied with the law, and coca farmers even increased their to holdings to a record 148,200 illegally planted acres, the Andean Report

Peru and Bolivia are the world's major coca producers. Most of the crop is grown along an 80-mile stretch of jungle from Tingo Maria to Tocache, in the departments of Huanuco and San Martin.

The state-owned National Coca Co., known as Enaco by its Spanish acronym, controls the sale of coca. The coca plant has several legal uses, including the chewing of the pain- and hunger-killing leaves, an ancient habit still practiced by some 850,000 Peruvian Indians.

The region's best hotels serve hot coca tea to help tourists adjust to the high altitude.

The Andean Report said Enaco buys more than 20 million pounds a year, selling a third to the Indian leaf chewers and the rest to the Coca Cola Co., which extracts the flavoring for its patented soft drink, and sells the active ingredients, the alkaloids, to pharmaceutical laboratories.

It is estimated an additional 22,000 tons of coca leaves were grown in Peru last year and processed into coca paste in the Tingo Maria region. Most of the paste is smuggled to Colombia for processing into co-

Drug enforcement officials believe the paste sold for at least $500 mil-

"Though it does not appear in any official statistics, cocaine and cocabased products have become among Peru's top exports, running close to oil and copper," Andean Report said.

Senators critical of Chrysler plan

By W. DALE NELSON

WASHINGTON (AP) - A government-approved plan for a $1.5 billion federal loan guarantee to the Chrysler Corp. fails to comply with requirements spelled out by Congress, some senators charged Tuesday.

"The plan is put together with mirrors and magnifying glasses and the whole adds up to much less than the sum of its parts," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, declared.

Proxmire, presiding over a hearing on the plan, was supported by Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, who said, "It is obvious the requirements for federal asistance have not been fully met."

In authorizing the loan guaranteee last December, Congress required Chrysler to come up with $1.43 billion on its own from sources such as its banks, suppliers, dealers and unions.

The loan guarantee was approved by the Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board May 10.

Three more hike crude price $2

By The Associated Press

Three more Middle East oil producers, following the lead set last week by the United States' largest foreign oil supplier, have raised the prices of their crude oil by $2 a barrel — and higher gasoline prices could

The United Arab Emirates, Iraq and Kuwait raised their prices Tuesday, according to reports in the Middle East and London.

The price increase by U.A.E. raised the price of that nation's crude to $31.65 a barrel, the country's official news agency reported. The agency quoted U.A.E. Oil Minister Mana Saeed Otaiba as saying the increase, retroactive to May 1, was in line with increases an-nounced recently by Saudi Arabia, three other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and Mexico.

Shortly afterward, Sheik Ali Khalifah al-Sabah, Kuwait's oil minister, announced a boost in crude oil prices to $29.50 a barrel. Both countries generally folpow the price moves of Saudi Arabia, which set off the latest round of increases when it raised its prices last week. Saudi Arabia is the non-Communist world's largest producer.

The increase, also retroactive, was the second by

Kuwait since February, when the price was raised from $25.50 to $27.50 a barrel.

Iraq's price increase pushed the cost of its light crude to $29.96 a barrel, according to London's Financial Times. Indonesia announced a $2-a-barrel increase in crude oil prices Monday and industry sources reported that Algeria and Libya also raised prices.

A $2-per-barrel increase by all OPEC producers could raise U.S. retail gasoline and heating oil prices about 3 cents per gallon, and the increases already imposed are likely to add about 2 cents to the price of a gallon of gas, industry analysts said.

Indonesia's best North Sumatran crude — Arun

condensate - now costs $34.75 per barrel. Japanese and French oil industry sources said Monday they had been notified by Algeria that its benchmark Sahara blend now cost an extra $1 a barrel. Including a $3 "exploration fee," the Algerian oil now costs $38.21 per

Oil industry officials also said Libya had notified customers of a $2-a-barrel increase, bringing the price of its benchmark export crude to $36.12 a barrel.

Mexico last week raised the price of about half of its crude-oil output by $1.50, to $33.50 a barrel. Mexico is not a member of OPEC, but usually follows the cartel's price changes.

Texaco believes in Atlantic region

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) -Texaco Inc. says there's "significant accumulations" of natural gas off the mid-Atlantic coast even though an important exploratory hole is dry.

A Texaco-led group of oil companies announced Tuesday its leased semi-submersible rig Odeco Ocean Victory had tested a 16,104-foot well about 106 miles east of Atlantic City "without encountering oil or gas in producible quantities."

Oil industry and government officials had said that the Texaco well, if successful, could have proven the existence of the first commerical gas field off the East Coast.

The well was drilled in a small, but very promising area of the Baltimore Canyon Trough where Texaco and Tenneco had reported seven natural gas strikes and one oil strike at different levels of three exploratory wells.

The dry hole was the second for Texaco and the 18th off the mid-Atlantic coast in 27 months of exploratory drilling. All of the successful wells are located within about four miles of each other and in about 450 feet of

"There is little doubt that a significant accumulation of natural gas lies under parts of this block," Texaco said through spokeswoman Janis Golon. "However, the amount of gas that would be ultimately recoverable from the reservoir sands is not yet

Stock market oses

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices dropped in moderate trading today, reversing a six-day string of gains in the blue chip index. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 6.23 to 826.28 as of midday, after posting gains in each of the six previous Losing issues outnum-bered gainers by a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume came to 14.28 million shares, up from 13.89 mil-lion at midday Tuesday. While analysts cited a number of factors weighing on the market, today's decline was also seen as a natural fading of buying interest after its recent gains.

"The market's action has been increasingly labored over the past six days' rise," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp.

He also noted that declining interest rates, which have been a major power behind the market's rally, also may have reached a level where investors feel uncertain about future

In addition some disappointing corporate earnings reports and oil prices increases among more mem-bers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries were seen as negative developments.
Venezuela, one of the United States major sources of foreign oil, today became the eighth of the 13 OPEC members to increase prices in the past week.

The NYSE composite index fell .23 to 61.12.

Woman prisoner released on parole

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Diana Perez, convicted of theft over $200 in Midland County March 31, 1978, has been paroled by Gov. Bill Clements on a recommendation of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Perez was paroled to Midland County after serving and earning three years and eight months of a five-year sentence.

Gary W. Alley, convicted of burglary in Ector County in 1977, also had his parole revoked because of a new conviction.

Alley had been on parole since Dec. 20, 1978.

Let Midland 66 convert your vehicle to propane

That pickup you see racing along the road raising a dust cloud, and that tractor plowing the field to its right just MAY be running on propane! So says Ken Peeler of Midland 66 Oil Company Inc., 1612 Garden City Highway in Midland.

It is true that many farmers and ranchers have converted their farm equipment from gasoline to propane. It is a relatively simple procedure that involves the gas tank and the carburetor. It usually costs between $800 and $900, but you can save from 55 cents to 65 cents a gallon on fuel (at current prices) and may move the system from car to car as it is re-

Many farmers and ranchers will replace their present tank with a 90gallon tank and thus eliminate thetime necessary to make frequent re-

Propane is a cleaner-burning fuel that won't clog spark plugs and adds no polution to the atmosphere.

Midland 66 furnishes the LPG (propane) commercially and to farms and ranches and even on occasion refills recreational vehicles and propane camp stoves.

Propane is still the number one fuel formotor homes, travel trailers, camping trailers and truck campers, say the manufacturers.

When people choose propane nine-to-one over any other kind of fuel, the meaning is clear — they like the cleanliness, convenience, efficienty, availability and economy of pro-

If you're thinking of converting to or using propane, contact the folks at Midland 66 and let them help you. You can phone 682-9404.

Propane conversion at Midland 66 may be one of the best decisions you will ever make. Audie Porter is shown at the workbenchmaking a conversion, which costs less than you may think. Talk to Midland 66, 1612 Garden City Highway. Call

Braniff to scale back it's operations

DALLAS (AP) - Braniff International Airways will scale back its operations further than planned this year because of spiraling fuel prices and a deeper than expected recession, the airline's chief executive officer

Harding L. Lawrence, chairman and chief executive officer, said Wednesday that Braniff would omit its common stock dividend because a poor first quarter performance. He said the airline's first quarter net loss

Try Broken Spoke for night out or noon buffet

Midlanders should know that, while Midland has never been known as the night-spot capitol of the world, there is a place to go where there is a full bar, music, fine dining, and lovely atmosphere. There are two banquet rooms, and they cater to private parties, receptions, business meetings and the like as well as their friends who are simply wanting a pleasant

The Broken Spoke Restaurant can seat 225 downstairs in comfort.

The very popular noon buffet is served from 11 to 2, each weekday, Monday through Friday. One may have homemade soup, salad, or the full buffet meal.

Dinner service is from 5 to 11, Monday through Saturday. Entertain-ment, featuring Jim Whitted, guitarist and vocalist, is provided from 6 until closing.

Chef Abel Duran is known as one of the fine chefs of the Southwest. He prepares many luscious dishes for the buffet, and his way with steaks, lobster, shrimp, red snapper, and other delicacies for dinner should be experienced to be fully realized.

D.M. Williams, manager of the Bro-ken Spoke, has been a Midland restaurateur since 1953. He is assisted by Lillian Wallis, floor manager, who is well-known to many.

There is more than an acre of welllighted parking in the rear of the Broken Spoke Restaurant.

Call 697-7141 for a reservation if you want to be assured a table, and prove to yourself that Midland does, indeed, have a nice place to spend a relaxing and pleasant evening!

MC reports increase in proposed budget

A 14.6 percent increase in the pro-posed 1980-81 budget for Midland Colege was reported at Tuesday's meeting of the college's board of trustees.

In a preliminary hearing following a short-item agenda, MC Fiscal Affairs Vice President Robert Phillips reported to trustees that projected incomes and expenses for the upcoming fiscal year represented a $726,439 increase over the 1979-80 budget.

Proposed totals for next year's budget show incomes and expenses to be $5,673,674 compared to this year's $4,-

The House vote blocking the Energy Regulatory Commission pricing order came by a 369-34 margin. The proposed order would have applied to smaller plants and factories the same price increase imosed on the nation's largest gas-using industries last September.

natural gas hike

This surcharge has averaged about 25 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas.

Since either chamber can block natural gas pricing regulations, Tuesday's House vote killed the plan. The energy commission must wait at least six months before proposing another one.

The House vote came as another federal energy pricing plan — the president's dime-a-gallon gasoline fee - appeared in serious trouble in Con-

Congressional leaders said they told the president at a White House breakfast Tuesday that, while they supported the fee, they weren't certain they could deliver enough votes to keep it from being over-

"It's an election year. There is a lot of panic. There is a temptation to do what is temporarily popular," House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas told

Wright said Carter vowed "emphatically, without equivocation" to veto the bill blocking the fee should it reach his desk.

Senator, three others indicted on payroll fraud

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - State Sen. Vincent Fumo, his former political mentor and two other prominent Democrats have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of defrauding the state by placing 33 "ghost" employees on the payroll.

The 44-count indictment alleges that Peter J. Camiel, a former chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic organization, and Fumo, Camiel's patronage chief, engineered the placement of many of m workers on the payrolls of the other two defendants.

The other two defendants are Vincent J. Scarcelli, former chief clerk of the state House, and Thomas M. Nolan, former majority leader of the state Senate. Most of the employees allegedly worked for Philadelphia's Democratic organization.

According to the indictment announced Tuesday, the cost to taxpayers exceeded $225,000.

"I am absolutely innocent," said Fumo, 37, a Philadelphia lawyer who succeeded his uncle, Henry J."Buddy" Cianfrani, to the Senate after Cianfrani pleaded guilty to mail fraud and racketeering in connection with putting "ghost" workers on his Senate payroll.

U.S. Attorney Peter F. Vaira called Cianfrani, who was paroled Friday from Allenwood Federal Prison after serving 27 months of a five-year sentence, an unindicted co-conspirator. "There is a very strong

DRILLING

We are a rapidly expanding independent energy company involved in petroleum exploration and production, crude oil refining and natural gas processing. We have an immediate need for four Drilling Supervisors possessing 2 to 3 years experience as a drilling or production foreman. A complete knowledge of drilling completion and workover operations, coupled with good exposure to casing operations is essential. Responsibilities will include evaluating down hole problems as well as bringing wells on stream, and supervising a number of rigs at the same time.

The above position provides excellent salary and benefits coupled with the decided advantage of living and raising a family in the heart of Ark-La-Tex country with its quiet lifestyle, minimal traffic and outstanding recreational facilities. Qualified and interested candidates are invited to call or send resume to Steve Hinds:
