Fireworks sales here are 'hot'

But police promise to enforce city limits ban

By SUSAN BAKER

"1976 was an excellent year," said veteran fireworks salesman Leroy Jones. "We sold piles of fireworks that year."

However, 1979 was not a good year for the fireworks industry. "Business was really pitiful last year," according to Jones, "but this season promises to be much better. We've already done pretty good at this stand, and some people I know who run other stands say they haven't done bad

Jones attributed last year's drop in business to inflation and the threat of recession. "Maybe people were just beginning to realize that they needed to cut back on their spending," he said.

Things are different this year, though. "I don't know; it just seems like no matter how bad things are, people always seem to have an extra $10 to buy fireworks with," said Jones.

JONES, WHO HAS worked for the past five years selling fireworks in a stand west of town, can testify to the fact that Americans' obsession with fireworks and pageantry on the Fourth of July is no stranger to the Customers at Jones' stand can choose from a wide variety of shells, poppers, buzzers and missiles, with a price range to suit any taste.

For extravagant fireworks enthusiasts, Jones' most expensive item is a $10 shell which features "three really high-flying displays in three different colors." He explained that these types big public displays.

Those with more limited budgets can spend as little as 25 cents for small smoke bombs, or 50 cents for a package of 50 firecrackers.

Jones' most popular item is the bottle rocket, which is available in bundles of 100 or so for $3.50. "We also sell an awful lot of sparklers," he

FIRECRACKERS ARE another "hot" item, and are available in assorted amounts ranging from the 50-cent package to a $20 package of 1600. "We sell an awful lot of the $20 packages to people from out of state, where fireworks are illegal," said Jones, who added that Texas is one of only a few states where fireworks can be sold.

"One of these $20 packages can sell for as much as $100 in another state," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, beginning a two-week trip mixing politics, relaxation and diplomacy, headed into Ronald Reagan's California backyard today to meet the staunchest pro-Carter labor group in the nation.

The president was to speak before the National Education Association, whose recent political activism has resulted in a powerful role for itself and Carter - at the upcoming Democratic National Convention.

Though Carter's journey was conceived as an "Energy Independence Day" celebration, it was recast after last week's congressional defeat of a key energy bill. The trip now is being billed as an official presidential visit with some time out for campaign

The political nature of the fastpaced tour of former Gov. Reagan's home state is inescapable. California is the first leg of a trip that will keep Carter away from the White House for two weeks. Other stops on the trip include Florida, Georgia; Tokyo; Alaska and Georgia again.

Carter's relationship with the teachers' union goes back to 1976 when he became the first candidate ever to win the NEA's endorsement. That endorsement came about largely because Carter promised to create a separate, Cabinet-level Department of Education. The department was

He already has received considerable NEA help in his re-election campaign and is counting on more should he win the Democratic nomination, as expected.

The 8,000 NEA members meeting in Los Angeles are certain to endorse the President once more on Friday. "He promised us five things, and in the last four years he has delivered on all five," including the new education department and increased federal aid to schools said William McGuire, president of the union.

"My information is they will not ask for any long distance increase, but we probably will because it hasn't been increased since 1976," King said.

Southwestern Bell serves about 4 million customers in Texas.

The request would be Bell's fourth to the commission. The phone company's last rate increase, totaling $138.7 million, went into effect last Nov. 21. Bell needed $243 million at that

Johnson added that Texas is growing, so the phone company must spend money to expand service.

Bank deposits set another record here

Midland bank deposits reached an all-time high during the last quarter from April 1 to June 30, with a total of $1,139,965,027. The figure represents a 9.5 percent increase over last quarter's figure of $1,031,158,301 and a 30 percent increase from last year's figure from the same time.

Loans and discount figures for the same period were up 8 percent from last quarter, totaling $772,838,322. That figure represents an overall increase of 25 percent since the 1979

Nearly all of the six Midland banks showed an increase in both deposits and loans, whereas last quarter only one, Midland National Bank, showed an increase. Commercial Bank and Trust, however, decreased its total deposits and loans this past quarter, with a drop in deposits by 3 percent and in loans by 5 percent. The only other decrease from this period came in Western State Bank's loan figure, which dropped 5 percent.

ALL OTHER BANKS showed increases in both deposits and loans. The First National Bank, Midland's largest bank, again had the largest amount of deposits and loans. With a figure of $744,513,569 in deposits, First National showed a 12 percent increase over last quarter's figure of $652,127,-149. The increased deposits represented a 34 percent increase since the second quarter of 1979.

Loans and discounts at First National increased 11 percent since last quarter with a figure of $549,788,453. The first quarter figure on loans at First National was $488,875,493. Loans and discounts increased 32 percent there since 1979's second quarter fig-

Midland National Bank, which recorded almost 7 percent increase in deposits during the first quarter of this year, had one of the lowest increases this quarter, with 3.8 percent and a figure of $269,678,782. Last quarter, the bank recorded a figure of $259,444,001 in deposits. This quarter's figure represents an increase since the second quarter of 1979 of 23

THE LOANS AND discounts figure at Midland National climbed 4.5 percent since last quarter, totaling $154,-301,161. Last quarter, loan figures totaled $147,284,211 at Midland National. This quarter's figure was 9 percent higher than the same time last year. Tony Martin, president at Midland National Bank, said the bank's figures for this quarter represented "the continued growth of the bank." Fur-ther, he said, "the economic times in Midland are good."

Martin said the increase was "what I expected. I expected this growth to continue through 1980," he said

Wednesday. Because of the oil and gas industries here, Martin said, "Midland is a unique island out here" in that it is growing while other cities are in an economic slump.

Martin said he expected loan interest rates to decline during the coming months and construction and loans to increase. Currently, he said most loans have been going to the gas and oil industries for construction and drilling. Later, he predicted, more loans will be going to other commercial industries as well as individuals.

FIGURES FROM Commercial Bank and Trust decreased last quarter. Deposits decreased 3 percent, totaling $75,863,578, while last quarter's figures totaled $78,294,339. How-

TMI plant's owners blame government

HARRISBURG, Pa (AP) — A new federal report says the Three Mile Island nuclear plant is getting more dangerous by the hour, but the plant's owners say that's partly because of too much federal interference.

"The longer it takes to remove the radioactivity from inside the plant, the more likely it is that further accidental releases of radioactivity will occur," said the report, released Wednesday by the Senate's Environment and Public Works subcommit-

The study concluded that the chance of radiation releases - or even a reheating of the reactor core is increasing because of cleanup complications.

not fully known...further deterioration can be assumed. Damaged and unmaintained equipment may fail and there is the potential for human error," it added.

Ken McKee of General Public Utilities, parent company of plant operator Metropolitan Edison, said some of the delay in the cleanup is inevitable because the operation is "unprecedented in scope and application of state-of-the-art cleanup technology."

But he said vague guidelines and step-by-step Nuclear Regulatory Commission approval procedures also contributed to the problem.

"We need some firm guidelines under which we can operate," he said, as well as advance NRC approval of

tion's unemployment rate slipped slightly in June to 7.7 percent, the government reported today, but

Labor Department analysts said the 0.1 percent decline was too small to be statistically significant.

Meanwhile today, the Federal Reserve Board announced plans to complete its phaseout of the credit-control measures it took in March now that inflatio has eased and the recession has deepened. The board had cut the credit restraints in half in late May, as the anti-inflationary measures began to accomplish their objective.

Despite the stability in in overall joblessness last month, the number of persons on temporary layoff as well as those whose jobs had been terminated continued to rise in June, the Labor Department said.

This trend was countered by a decline in the number of unemployed people who re-entered the labor force. The department's report showed that the number of unemployed persons fell by about 148,000 to 8 million in June The jobless rate for most worker groups showed little change from the previous month, with the only rise occurring among adult men from 6.6 percent to 6.7 percent. The rate for adult women dipped to 6.5 percent from 6.6 percent; teen-agers, 18.5 percent from 19.2 percent; whites 6.8

ties 13.6 percent from 13.9 percent. Among minority teen-agers, the group traditionally highest in unemployment, the jobless rate dropped to

percent from 6.9 percent; and minori-

34.4 percent from 35.2 percent. Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, told reporters that the new development in June was the 'spread of job loss to the service-producing sector, which had continued to grow earlier in the year.' "Sizable job losses were registered (in June) in wholesale and retail trade and in services," she said. "On the other hand, employment held steady in transportation equipment, where jobs have dropped sharply in the past several months as large cutbacks occurred in the automobile in-

Ms. Norwood also noted that the average number of hours worked per week have declined by nearly a half-

Economists say this figure traditionally indicates a future rise in unemployment because as a first step to ward off a recession, employers cut overtime and work hours. If orders continue to fall and inventories pile up, as they are doing, the next step often must be layoffs.

spraying water Tuesday while she and neighbor Angela Beasley,

Kansas area again Wednesday. (AP Laserphoto)

The Labor Department also reported that total employment in the country fell by 450,000 in June, the fourth consecutive monthly decline. Since February, when the employment level peaked, the number of persons with jobs has fallen by 1.4 million, with most of this loss affecting adult males

The downturn in employment since February had about matched the job gains of mid-to-late 1979, so that the overall level of employment for the month - 96.5 million people - was about the same as in June 1979, the department said

However, during that time, the level of women working rose by a million while the number of employed adult men and teen-agers dropped 700,000 and 470,000, respectively.

The total number of people employed and unemployed makes up the labor force, which dropped by 600,000 in June to 104.5 million people, the department said.

Government and private economists are discounting June's slight dip. Because of sharp fluctuations in the labor force, it is important to look at changes over more than a single month, they say.

A huge number of high school and college-age youth began searching for jobs in May, somewhat earlier than they usually do, and this contributed to that month's severe rise in unemployment, government officials explained.

A seasonal adjustment process normally adjusts for this increase of young people in June, they said. June's report, then, confirms that a sharp deterioration in the economy accelerated during the second quarter of 1980. Over the last three months, unemployment has risen sharply, especially for adult males, while employment since March has declined by more than a million.

Private economists interviewed Wednesday stressed that the overall trend in unemployment is clearly upward through 1981.

'There are still many more layoffs in the works for July and August," said Lawrence Chimerine, head of Chase Econometrics in Bala Cynwyd.

Last month, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said an 8.5 percent jobless rate is possible by next year. That is somewhat less than forecasts by such economists as Chimerine, who expects at least an 8.7 percent level by the end of 1980.

During the last recession, in 1974-75. unemployment reached 9 percent.

Midland unemployment at 4.1 percent of labor force

Midland's civilian labor force advanced to 47,730 in May, as many energy related increases were felt. Unemployment climbed to 1,980, or 4.1 percent of the civilian labor force. Most of the boost in unemployment was due to the influx of summer workers. Total employement posted an increase of 0.7 percent over the previous month.

Non-agricultural wage and salary employment in Midland County rose to 41,210 for May. The manufacturing sector gained 110 jobs due to increases in nonelectrical machinery, apparel and finished products, printing and publishing and rubber products. This advance was over and above the minor losses incurred by food and kindred products and other durable goods. The majority of the manufacturing growth resulted from new energey related orders.

Non-manufacturing showed a net gain of 220 over the previous month due to expansion in most sectors. Notable upward movements were posted by retail trade, wholesale trade, transportation, finance and medical services as new orders were received. Local government reflected a hike with the start of the summer work program. Construction showed a minor loss as some workers were between jobs.

The number of non-farm wage and salary jobs this May was 6.7 percent higher than last May (2,870 jobs). Manufacturing was up by 7.8 percent (280) jobs over a year ago. No major non-agricultural wage and salary segment reported a loss of employment in an over-the-year comparison.

The estimate of non-manufacturing jobs in May 1980 was 2,330 above a year ago. This 6.7 percent advance is a result of the economic and general population growth in Midland. The largest gains were in mining and trades. Significant additions were also recorded in all other segments of non-manufcturing. Agricultural employment during May was in the planting stage.

Unemployment in the Midland SMSA climbed from 3.3 percent in April to 4.1 percent in May. Midland placed fourth among Texas SMSA's. Areas with a lower unemployment rate than Midland were San Angelo, 3.2 percent; Odessa, Abilene and Austin placed second with 3.5 percent; Amarillo and Houston tied for third place with 4.0 percent; Lubbock tied with Midland for fourth place. For the same period, the unemployment rate for the State of Texas was 5.0 percent. The National jobless level rose to 7.0 percent

The Midland office of the Texas Employment Commission assisted employers in filling 923 of the 1,061 job openings received in May. During this period, 862 persons left new or renewal applications for work in the local area. The Midland office is placing applicants in several hard-to-fill jobs, such as auto mechanic, fire fighter, machinist, brick layer, combination welder and secretary. Current job openings include piping drafter, mechanical engineer, chemical engineer, geologist, bookkeeper, construction worker, machine set-up operator and auto body repairer.

Air conditioners reported stolen

With recent hot temperatures, someone will be a little cooler.

Jerry's Heating and Plumbing, 700 N. Fort Worth St., Wednesday reported two window air conditioning units had been stolen from its warehouse.

According to reports, sometime between 5:15 p.m. Tuesday and 7:45 a.m. Wednesday, someone cut a 2-foot by 3-foot hole in the chain link fence surrounding the yard on North Fort Worth. After gaining entry into the yard, they broke the hasp locks off the warehouse door on the south side of the warehouse and removed the two

The air conditioners are valued at about $1,000.

A costly mistake

Embargoes traditionally do not work as weapons of diplomacy.

Like a lot of laudable projects, embargoes work on paper. Unfortunately life is reality, not theory. President Carter should have recognized that fact by now.

The partial grain embargo against the Soviet Union, called because of that nation's invasion of Afghanistan, is failing miserably. The embargo prevents the Soviets from buying grain above a contracted amount that is grown by American farmers.

That doesn't keep them from buying grain from other nations. They also can buy foreign-grown grain from United States compan-

They just cannot buy more than the contracted amount of grain from United States farmers.

It's unfortunate that the people hurt by this side effect are our own farmers, hard-working, trueblue sorts already caught in a squeeze by rapidly escalating fuel

U.S. Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas recognized this fact when he said the embargo has put American farmers in a straightjacket while other nations can export their grain to fill the Soviet Union's needs

The sad part of all of this is we didn't have to put the farmers into this situation. We knew from past history that embargoes don't Presidents Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter have all attempted - without success - to use embargoes as a weapon of diplomacy.

Probably to a large extent it is greed that undermines the effectiveness of an embargo. When one nation announces it is placing an embargo on another nation to force that nation's hand on an issue, instead of joining together to help reach that goal the other nations free to trade with the embargoed nation rush in to profit from the situation.

That's why an embargo can backfire and why some groups of individuals, such as the American farmers, get caught in the middle of a well-intended situation.

This is not the time to pull back, however. We made a bad choice and now we've got to live with the consequences.

But before rushing into the embargo situation again, we should remember the lesson we've relearned for the third time. This was one mistake too costly to make again.

Carter's problems appear to overshadow those of Reagan Although Ronald Reagan seems to have won more from the primary election contests and votes than did President Carter, this does not mean that Reagan automatically could defeat Mr. Carter next November in the contest for the White House.

Mr. Carter is faced with more serious problems and challenges than Reagan. First, he has a strong and popular opponent still in the race from his own party, Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Unless a way can be found to induce these two strong, spirited and ambitious politicians to heal the rift within the party the Democrats' for-tunes will sink lower and lower.

Reagan has no real Republican conent since George Bush and Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee withdrew. Rep. John B. Anderson, nominally a Republican but running as an independent, probably will take more votes away from the president than from the former California gover-

Generally speaking, Reagan ran stronger in the big metropolitan cities and heavily populated areas than did Jimmy Carter, and it is from these that the electoral votes are derived. Although polls are not necessarily always accurate or foolproof, his an interesting sidelight that The New York Times-CBS poll of Democratic voters showed that more than twothirds of those who voted for Kennedy said they would vote for Reagan or Anderson of Illinois in the fall.

Another 10 to 20 percent of Mr. Carter's own supporters said they would defect in the general election and the slumping economy was the main reason given for this tide of alienation from the administration.

Several outspoken leaders of several women's groups disputed Mr. Carter's contention that he has the nomination locked up, saying they would use their delegate clout at the convention to push their own issues. The women have been upset and even angry at White House handling of the Equal Rights Amendment and other proposals. For the first time a majority of delegates to the Democratic convention will be women.

As matters now stand, Reagan and the Republicans have to be remarkably lacking in astuteness to lose to the Democrats. Usually, however, they find a way.

Anderson continues to insist that he will campaign and run, but he is still little known throughout the country as a whole and he lacks any large war chest with which to campaign. The president was asked whether he would invite Vice President Mondale to be his running mate again next fall. He said Mondale told him in a telephone call, "If you'll let me debate, I'll accept the position." Mondale, too, is weak and does not have an impressive record. If he should run again with Mr. Carter, assuming the president wins the nomination by preventing any Kennedy shenanigans at the convention in New York, it would give the Democrats an unusually frail A serious danger confronting Rea-

Demirel wins election to Turkey's Parliament

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) - After two weeks of pressure from the left, Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel's conservative government has emerged in its strongest position since it took affice seven months

Demirel, heading his sixth government since 1966, won a vote of confidence in the lower house of Parliament Wednesday by a vote of 227-214. By defeating former Prime Minister Sulent Ecevit's attempt to put together a ruling coalition, he diminished the likelihood of similar challenges before the general election next year nless there is a major economic or political erisis.

Demirel also blunted the influence the National Salvation Party, a mentalist Moslem group with 22 mbers in the house that had been supporting the government but threa-tened to jump ship. The prime minis-ter refused to modify his policies to was the MSP but got its votes without

The result pleased NATO allies. The IN KITHAKAN, AS vocates Turkey's withdrawal from he North Atlantic Alliance and other Western institutions. And Ecevit says

Turkey should move toward a neutralist policy, work more closely with the Soviet Union and take less advice from such Western economic institutions as the International Monetary Fund and the Organization for Ecsnomic Cooperation and Develop-

Western diplomats give Demirel high marks for trying, even if the Turks are struggling under 100 percent inflation and 20 percent unemployment that has driven 600,000 of them into Europe's migrant labor

Demirel has gotten $1.6 billion from the IMF, $1.16 billion dollars from the OECD and several hundred million in military assistance from the United States and West Germany. The wholesale price index has leveled off, partly because such scarce goods as heating oil, steel and cement have become available again. And the government signed an agreement with the European Common Market nations this week that will increase aid from them and make it easier for Turkey to export some of its farm products to Western Europe

The Census Bureau needs a few good men — or women

Individuals in Midland and Odessa needing temporary work are being urged to submit to Census Bureau testing at locations in both cities, according to Jerry Butler with the Lubbock regional office of the Census

Although she noted that the most recent appeal for census workers in the Midland-Odessa area had resulted in approximately 20 workers in the area, Ms. Butler noted the bureau could use at least 100 more workers in

The bureau is now attempting to complete the first follow-up phase in which census workers make contact with non-response cases.

"There is probably a good four to six weeks of work left to be done," she added.

Throughout this census period, the Census Bureau has faced seemingly insurmountable odds in finding temporary workers here. Most officials have blamed the problem on the area's extremely low unemployment

Meanwhile, testing for census jobs is being conducted at Midland College's faculty lounge in the Student Center Mondays and Wednesdays at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and at the Odessa Chamber of Commerce Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Those individuals who might be interested should contact James Beatty at 684-6709, Pat Phillips at 697-3368 or the Lubbock regional office

Last week, they used a pair of news conferences to announce Reagan's support for a 10 percent tax cut in 1981 and the Republicans' determination to add the tax cut plan to every suitable piece of legislation reaching the Senate floor. The ploy forced the hands of the majority Democrats, who quickly announced they would unveil their own tax cut position by Sept. 3. President Carter reversed his previous stand against a tax cut and said he would accept one in 1981.

Other Republican task forces are at work in other areas and coordinated positions by Reagan and his supporters in Congress on other subjects would not be surprising.

One of the key figures in the maneuvering on taxes and the grain embargo is Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who is a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee and chairman of the Reculture subcommittee.

On Wednesday, Dole gave the effort to end the embargo a new twist as he announced that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., President Carter's sole remaining challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination, had become the 21st senator to cosponsor the bill to end the embargo.

"I think his support gives some indication of just how widespread is the dissatisfaction with the president's policy," Dole said.

"The American farmer is the true victim of the embargo," he said. "Perhaps Senator Kennedy, having traveled around America as he has over the past few months, is more in touch with the people on this issue than is the administration."

Roller coaster interest confusing

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

The roller coaster-like inflation rate has kept the heads of financial institutions spinning in recent months as corresponding interest rates have jumped upward and whirled downward.

Ray Moudy, president of Citizens Savings and Loan Association, told the Downtown Lions Club on Tuesday that the numerous changes in interest rates to be paid savings accounts and various certificates have "kept us in a state of confusion the past couple of years.'

The savings and loan business is highly regulated by federal, state and monetary agencies and audi-

When the interest rates started their skyscraping climb, savings and loan institutions in Texas had their hands tied. The interest rate on loans was tied to 10 percent, and later to 12 percent after a change by the State Legislature, Moudy Baid.

For several months there was "very little lending going on in Midland" for housebuilding until the low interest home mortgage program was started.

Meanwhile, money that could have been used for investments in Texas was being taken to other states that charged higher interest rates.

Finally, the state usury law was pre-empted, allowing interest ceilings to go higher, said Moudy. To show the increase in interest paid to saving accounts, Moudy cited statistics in which passbook savings earned 5 percent interest, certificates

In June 1978, savings and from institutions were authorized to issue Money Market Certificates, based upon an average yield of Treasury Bills. The savings and loan interest rate would be 25 basis points above the Treasury Bills rates. The highest amount reached was over 15 percent.

Investors started watching the sale of Treasury Bills closely, said Moudy. The results would be available on Tuesday of each week, and the savings and loan places would put their new rates into effect on Thursday.

This meant, Moudy continued, that if the rate on the auction of the Treasury Bills showed a lower price, investors could buy certificates on Wednesday at the previous week's higher rate.

If the price went higher, investors would wait until Thursday and get a higher yield on their MMC. He then cited changes in the types of certificates and interest rates that have been effected in the past year. The biggest change came with Congress' approval of NOW accounts, or interest-bearing accounts. NOW stands for Negotiable Order of Withdrawal, and by Dec. 31 all savings and loan places should be able to offer the service.

Enticements to draw people back into a savings plan are numerous. But Moudy pointed out that 3 percent of the disposable income in this country is one of the lowest amounts in the world. Japanese save considerably more than that, he added.

Things have gotten to the point they are so confusing and it's hard to keep up" with the constant changes in rates, he said. "And it's hard for the depositor to know what's best for him."

NEW YORK (AP) - The computer system that provides flight data for planes over the New York metropolitan area broke down twice during peak traffic hours, but the Federal Aviation Administration said the system returned to normal without major problems or danger to travelers.

Air traffic controllers, however, described the breakdowns Wednesday night as "very hairy," and said several planes came uncomfortably close.

The breakdowns affected Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark International airports and several smaller regional airports. The FAA said the failures occurred from 7:23 p.m. to 9:03 p.m. and again from 10:37 to 11:20 p.m., when air traffic was especially heavy because of delays caused by earlier bad

But Paul Amato, president of the local Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, described the situation as "very hairy." The failures, while some 100 planes were in the area, created confusion, several possible close encounters, and increased danger of a major air disaster, he said.

Disputing the FAA's claim that the system was back to normal before midnight, he said the nine air traffic controllers in the New York Common Instrument Flight Rules Room at Kennedy International Airport were guiding planes through the area "by

"We're still continuing a safe operation," he said, "but traffic has to be slowed down." Amato said the flight schedule had returned to normal about 1 a.m. today.

When the breakdown occurred, the targets were still on the controllers' screens, but other information such as altitude was not, Flood said.

The problem was discovered when the computer system started giving "erroneous information," Amato said. A target representing a small plane on the controllers' scope drifted "off the mark," he

By the time the 15-mile discrepancy was discovered, he said, the plane had "passed through the tracks of seven large airliners departing Kennedy

The air traffic control facility handles an average of 3,600 flights a day. It is due to move to a Long Island center with completely new equipment.

Chicago's O'Hare International Airport recently had experienced similar difficulties. Flight guidance systems there resumed normal operations Wednesday after a 13-day malfunction that officials said had been caused by a programming error.

While the system was shut down, flight controllers there guided air traffic by radar, radio communication and manual identification. Officials in Chicago said the outage caused only minor delays.

Divers put blanket over dam leak

AHSAHKA, Idaho (AP) — Divers have blanketed 116 feet of a gaping crack in the concrete Dworshak Dam with a huge vinyl curtain in an attempt to plug a 7,200-gallon-per-

Another 120 feet of the crack still must be covered, and divers were to resume work this morning, said Doug Dougger, spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers in nearby Walla Walla, Wash.

Four divers on Wednesday spread and "stapled" a 15-foot-wide by 160-foot-long strip of vinyl along 116 feet of

The massive 717-foot-tall dam, completed in 1973, holds back the north fork of the Clearwater River a few miles above this northern Idaho hamlet.

Some 10.32 million gallons of water gush daily through the crack, but the Corps said it poses no threat to the dam or the communities downstream, including Lewiston, Idaho. and Divers, who will alternate stints underwater with periods in a decompression chamber, hoped to finish attaching the curtain today. They were attaching it with a specially designed "impact gun" and steel plates every 61/2 feet.

Dougger said it was not certain if the leak would stop immediately after the blanket of vinyl-covered nylon co-

The crack begins at elevation of 1,536 feet and extends down the dam to 1,300 feet above sea level. The water line is at 1,600 feet, Dougger said.

He said he was unsure if the vinyl curtain would be a permanent fixture on the dam once the leak is stopped. Officials have said they hoped calcification in the concrete would close the crack once pressure was reduced. "I think if we get low pool, which happens in the winter, they may go in and take it off. No one really knows what its longevity will be," Dougger said.

SATURDAY-JULY 5th

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) - Pope John Paul II again defended priestly celibacy and rebuffed Roman Catholic leaders who contend that such restrictions must be relaxed because of the decline in the numbers joining the priesthood.

ORDAINING A GROUP OF DEACONS before a throng of nearly 200,000 in the world's largest soccer stadium, the pontiff warned them that their church has not changed its requirement that priests remain celibate and its opposition to marriage for priests.

'Do not delude yourselves," the pope said, "that a priesthood less austere in its demands for sacrifice and renunciation - as, for example, in the discipline of celibacy - will attract more people to follow Christ. Quite the contrary...daily sacrifice keeps alive the evangelical ideal.'

It was John Paul's second address Wednesday restating a conservative guideline for the church. He reiterated his opposition to political action by the clergy in a speech to the Latin American Episcopal Committee, telling the international council of bishops that their church is above "economic and political systems...and ideologies." He said political parties and public office are reserved for the laity while priests should stick to their THE POVERTY-STRICKEN CATHOLICS of one of Rio de Janeiro's teeming

A Vatican spokesman said the simple gold band decorated with a square Greek cross was given to John Paul by his predecessor, the late Pope Paul VI, in 1967 when he made him a cardinal in 1967.

THE GESTURE WAS REMINISCENT of Pope Paul's presentation of his jeweled papal tiara to the United Nations when he visited its headquarters in New York in 1965. The tiara was exhibited on tour to raise money to aid the hungry. The ring was valued at about $1,000 but could bring a great deal more if sold at auction.

"In the whole world, the church wants to be the church of the poor," the pontiff said as he walked the mean streets of Vidigal. "Remember that the value of man is not measured by what he has, but what he is.'

"We've been working for 13 years, and now we have a pope in our favela and a pope in our house," said Mrs. Lima's son Armando, the leader of the Vidigal Slum Dwellers Association.

Today, the fourth day of the pope's 12-day tour of Brazil, he was flying south to Sao Paulo, South America's biggest city and Brazil's industrial center. It is also a center of the progressive wing of the Brazilian Catholic church, and religious leaders there have often opposed the rightwing military government on issues of human rights.

Wallet containing $1,400 is found

Sometimes it pays to keep your head down when walking.

Two Midland Reporter-Telegram employees out for a relaxing lunch at the Granada Club, 3312 W. Wall St., on Wednesday happened to look down at the parking lot and spied a wallet next to their vehicle.

Bennita Mitchell and Linda Rodriguez opened the wallet and found it stuffed with $301 in cash and numerous credit cards. What they didn't know is that another $1,100 was hidden in another pocket.

They called the man listed on the driver's license - Jimmy Sims of Odessa — and returned the wallet to a relieved owner.

"He said he had lost it about 2 a.m. and just thought someone had found it and taken it," recalled Ms. Mitchell. But she figured that cars had parked over the wallet and people couldn't see it until she and Ms. Rodriguez walked by it.

"He was proud to get it back," Ms. Mitchell said. "Said he's never believed in banks before, but he did now. He was going to go put the money in the bank."

For their honest efforts, the two women each received $50 from Sims.

"It pays to be honest," said Ms. Mitchell who added with a laugh, "I'm going to walk with my head down all the time

Jordan's chief prime minister dead at age 41

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Prime Minister Abdul Hamid Sharaf died of a heart attack in Amman before dawn today, King Hussein announced in a communique. He was 41, a former ambassador to the United States and the king's chief pipeline to the Palestinian guerrillas.

Sharaf became prime minister last Dec. 19. During his six months in office, there was a steady mending of relations between Hussein's government and Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization. He maintained a warm relationship with the PLO despite Hussein's bloody crackdown in 1970 that drove the Palestinian guerrillas out of Jordan.

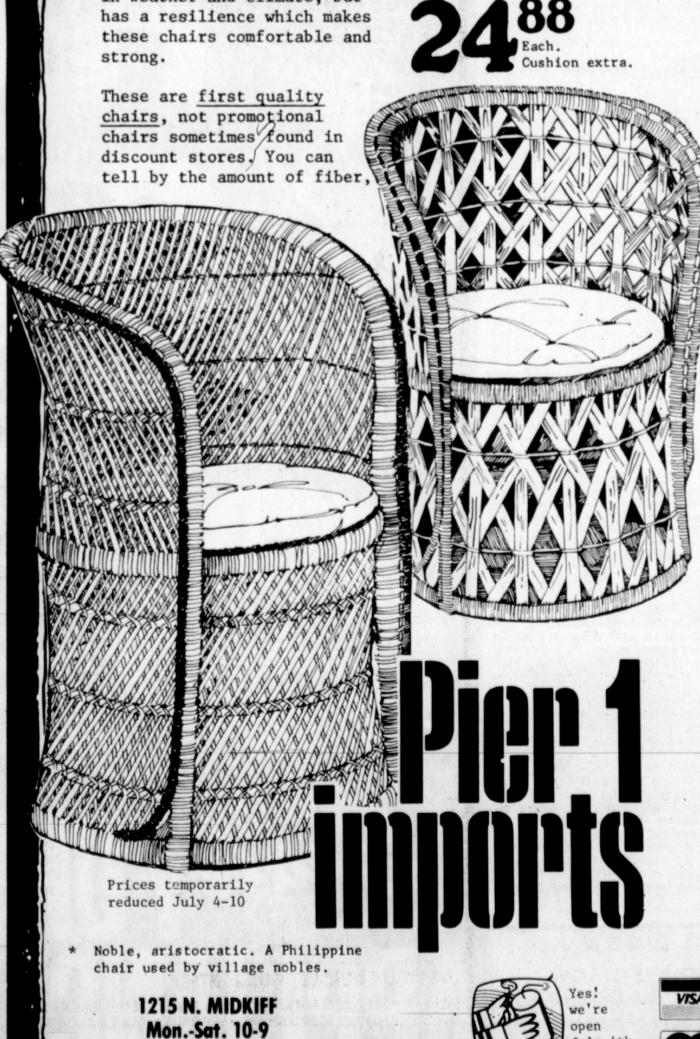

During his college days in the late 1950s at the American University of Beirut, Sharaf joined Dr. George Habash's Arab Nationalist Movement, which sired several radical factions including the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. Sharaf quit the ANM after it lost a power struggle in Syria to Baath Socialist Party in 1963 but remained on friendly terms with Habash and later developed friendships with other Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

Born in Baghdad, Iraq, in 1939, Sharaf was educated in Amman until he went to college in Beirut. He entered government service in Jordan in 1962, becoming director-general of the state radio.

Sharaf was recalled from Washington in 1976 to head Hussein's royal

Up to now, the family's only income has been Kevin's salary from his summer job at a tree farm. Jeff, 15, starts work there soon and Cory is looking for work. The family also has been told that at least one insurance company will waive its requirement for a death certificate so they can settle Bowers'

The three brothers, and 17-year-old Kim, are living at the family home between Winlock and Vader in southwest Washington.

'Dad would always take us to the beach or take all of us boys out hunting," said Cory. "He was happy to do simple things all the time. We planned on going bear hunting this summer. Dad was really looking forward to that."

Judge can't order hair, blood samples to be turned over

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) - A state district judge says he lacks the jurisdiction to order Candice Montgomery to give samples of her hair and blood to authorities investigating the brutal ax murder of a Wylie schoolteacher. 'Until the defendent is indicted — if she is — this court has no jurisdiction in the case," Judge Tom Ryan ruled Wednesday.

Prosecutors had asked Ryan to order Mrs. Montgomery to give them the samples, but the judge said the jurisdiction rested with Justice of the Peace Glen Swaner issued the arrest warrant for Mrs. Montgomery on June 26 and set her bond at $100,000. Judge Ryan also lifted the gag order he had imposed last week, adding that until a new ban is imposed "everyone has the right to run off at the mouth.

Don Crowder, one of Mrs. Montgomery's attorneys, said he would seek a new gag order covering 'everyone involved in the case - attorneys, law enforcement officers and investigators. Everyone." Crowder said publicity in the case had made him "sick to death," and that he would ask Swaner to impose the order. District attorney Tom O'Connell said the Collin County grand jury would "continue its investigation" into the case, but he did not expect an indictment to be returned before the end of next week.

He said that Swaner had scheduled an examining trial for Mrs. Montgomery on July 10, and that before then the district attorney's office may file applications for search warrants.

Betty Gore, 30, an acquaintance of Mrs. Montgomery, was hacked to death in her home June 13 by a killer wielding a three-foot pole ax. Small bloody footprints were found near the body and a thumbprint was lifted from the blood-smeared refrigera-

Mrs. Montgomery furnished investigators with her fingerprints and two pairs of shoes, but on the advice of her attorneys refused to take a polygraph examination or give hair and blood samples.

Sheriff's deputies impounded her car last Friday to search for evidence.

Salvadoran rightist agrees to leave U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Salvadoran rightist leader has decided to leave the United States quietly after a two-day stay here that left Carter administration officials perplexed and embarrassed.

Roberto D'Abuisson, 37, showed up at the offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service Wednesday afternoon and said he was not interested in defying American authorities any longer.

D'Abuisson is the leader of a rightist group in El Salvador which State Department spokesman John Trattner said is "suspected of violent activities." He said D'Abuisson's presence here was prejudicial to American interests.

D'Abuisson slipped past immigration authorities in Miami earlier this week even though his name appeared on an INS list of foreigners barred from entering the United States.

After two days in Washington in which he held a news conference and had meetings on Capitol Hill, D'Abuisson went to the immigration agency on his own Wednesday, accompanied by his lawyer.

INS spokesman Verne Jervis said D'Abuisson agreed to leave Washington Wednesday night on a flight to Miami and was expected to board a flight from Miami to Guatemala today. Jervis described D'Abuisson's attitude as cooperative.

D'Abuisson has been a symbol of rightist resis-tence to the U.S.-backed reformist government in El Salvador. Trattner said D'Abuisson is believed to have played a leading role in two attempted coups against the government. He added that the group D'Abuisson represents also has made threatening statements against U.S. officials in El Salvador.

The main purpose of his visit here, D'Abuissant said Tuesday, was to warn the American public of a plot to install a new government with heavy communist influence in El Salvador. He also met with Rep. Lawrence McDonald, D-Ga., and with aides to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

In a Senate speech Wednesday, Helms said D'Abuisson entered the United States legally with a multiple entry visa and that the State Department's moves against him represent an effort "to prevent responsible political opinion from being heard in the United States."

'The State Department knows their policies in El Salvador cannot survive in the glare of a free press," Helms said.

Innocent plea entered in ERA bribery case

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - A Chicago businesswoman has pleaded innocent to charges alleging she attempted to buy an Illinois legislator's vote for the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Wanda E. Brandstetter, 55, a pro-ERA volunteer, briefly appeared with her attorneys Wednesday before Circuit Court Judge Jeanne Scott. The judge released her on personal recognizance and set a pre-trial hearing for

The trial on charges of bribery and soliciting a lawmaker to commit official misconduct was set for Aug. 18.

If convicted, Mrs. Brandstetter could face a maximum sentence of seven years in prison and a $5,000 fine, said Sangamon County State's Attorney William Roberts

The judge also ordered Mrs. Brandstetter to provide a sample of her handwriting. The charges stemmed from a heated, bitter battle over ERA in the Illinois General Assembly's spring

Rep. Nord L. Swanstrom said the $1,000 offer was hand-written on the back of a business card and handed to him May 14 as pro-ERA forces lobbied in preparation for a planned vote in the Illinois House.

That planned vote was postponed until June 19, when the ERA fell five votes short of the 107 needed for approval in the House. Swanstrom voted against the amendment.

Talk of other alleged wrongdoings filled the State Capitol at the time. But Roberts and State Law Enforcement Director Dan K. Webb said they felt the Swanstrom allegation was the only one warranting prosecution.

The ERA has failed repeatedly in the Illinois General Assembly since 1972. Illinois has becom a crucial battleground for the ERA because it is the only major Northern industrial state that has not passed the amend-

The proposed amendment banning sex discrimination has been ratified by 35 of the 38 states needed for it to become part of the U.S. Constitution. Five states have rescinded their approval, but the legality of that action is still in question.

Four ERA supporters dressed in the traditional pro-ERA colors of green and white were in the courtroom for Wednesday's arraignment.

Mrs. Brandstetter refused comment after the hearing.

Police are looking for two men, one of whom wore a law enforcement uniform - complete with badge, handcuffs and pistol - in connection with a reported aggravated assault Wednesday night

Billy Friday of 4709 Storey Ave. told officers he was assaulted about 10:40 p.m. at the abandoned Premium Station in the 4100 block of West Illinois Ave. Friday said he left the Moose Lodge about 10:30 p.m. and was followed by a vehicle. In the 4100 block of West Ininois, red lights in the grill of the car behind Friday came on, and Friday said he pulled over at the abandoned station.

Two men reportedly got out of the car. One was wearing the law enforce-

Friday told officers the man in the uniform identified himself as Mike Dutton. Dutton reportedly told Friday he "knew too much" and something would have to be done about it. Friday also told officers that he recognized Dutton and that his brotherin-law and Dutton had been having problems over something between Dutton's younger brother and the

Feds to monitor onion harvest

HEREFORD, Texas (AP) - Federal officials have been asked to monitor the Panhandle onion harvest to "alleviate any tensions and try to prevent any conflict or confrontation" between striking farmworkers and police.

Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said Wednesday he asked Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to have the Justice Department oversee the harvest.

The request came on the same day that growers played blaring music over loud speakers in onion fields to drown out about 80 strikers and union organizers who used bullhorns to coax remaining workers out of Griffin & Brand fields west of Here-

A caravan of strikers and union organizers later circled the Deaf Smith County Courthouse in Hereford, using loud speakers to protest a court order limiting the activities of pickets an union organizers in High Plains vegetable fields.

Bonilla said he called Civilletti after Texas Farm Workers Union director Antonio Orendain complained to him about increased activity by Department of Public Safety officers in the Hereford Orendain "shares our fear" that increased use of DPS troopers "can be used as an intimidating factor and lead to violence," Bonilla said. "It appears likely one or more federal mediators will be sent." State District Judge David Wesley Gulley issued a temporary restraining order Monday that prohibited secondary boycotts and forbade Texas Rural Legal Aid lawyers from participating in or encouraging demonstrations, boycotts or strikes.

Bonilla called the injunction harsh but said the farm workers would abide by the terms "to show they are orderly, peaceful and law-abiding."

The injunction also specifies that no more than two pickets can be within 50 feet of an onion field, that pickets must be at least 50 feet apart and that they must allow workers to freely enter or leave fields. About 200 onion clippers and sackers walked out of Howard Gault Co. onion fields last week demanding a pay increase from 45 cents to $1 per 53-pound sack. The strike later spread to fields owned by Griffin &

Growers, who hired replacements for striking workers, expressed fears earlier that the critical timing of the strike could have left the onions to rot in the fields

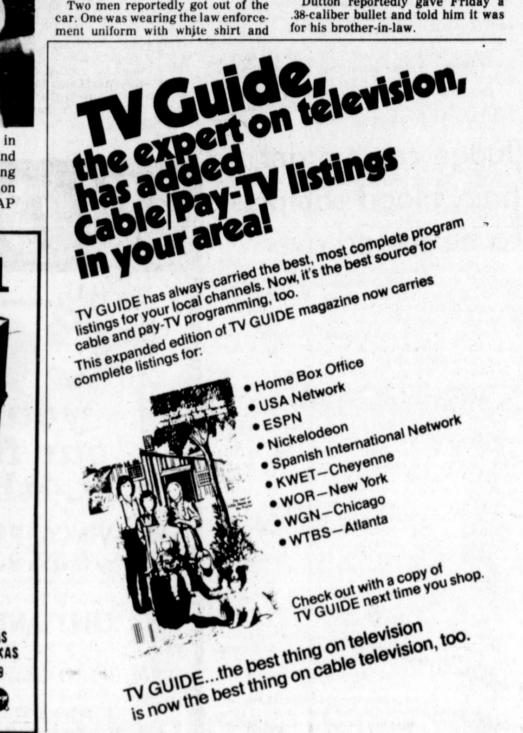

Union leaders claimed a "great victory" when they said last week that the Gault Co. had settled with workers on a 60 cent a sack rate. But Orendain claimed later that the workers were only getting 50

Company owner Howard Gault said the company does not pay a set amount for any field.

Every field has to stand on its own merits, as to what you'd pay," said Gault. "If the field is one with big, heavy onions, you pay less per bag because it doesn't take as many onions to fill the bag.

TRLA attorney Bill Beardall said most of the onion workers are getting only $1 to $1.50 an hour. But growers contend average or good workers earn more than the minimum wage of $3.10 an hour.

Black judge takes oath of office in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The first black man ever to become a federal judge in Alabama was to take the oath of office today, ending a nomination battle that touched political and racial nerves from the South to the White House.

Birmingham attorney U.W. Clemon will take his seat as a district judge in the Fifth U.S. Judicial Circuit following an afternoon ceremony at the federal courthouse here.

Clemon, 37, was confirmed in a unanimous Senate vote last week despite the opinion of "not qualified" submitted by a committee of the American Bar Association. After several days of hearings, the Senate Judiciary Committee concluded that charges of tax irregularities against Clemon were not serious enough to deprive him of a seat on the President Carter nominated Clemon and black attorney Fred Gray of Tuskegee, a noted defender of civil rights. The nominations drew support from black legal groups and sharp criticism from the ABA. The Senate panel ended more than five days of hearings on Gray Wednesday and gave no indication of when it would finish its deliberations. The ABA also considered Gray "not qualified.' Clemon, one of 17 children from a poor, rural Alabama family, said the committee hearings gave him an opportunity to respond to the charges against him. "The opportunity to respond to charges in a forum that was openminded indicates the beauty of the American system," he said upon

Uniforms change with time

NEW YORK (AP) - For many years the uniform industry provided uniforms almost exclusively for men. But it had to do a major about-face a few years ago when it became clear that more and more women were beginning to wear work clothing, says an industry official.

LVN's meet here

Licensed Vocational Nurses Association of Texas, Division 22, of Midland met for a regular meeting in Trinity Towers.

Main order of business was the revision of local bylaws by Jessye Johnson, chairman. Stella Hendrick, a new member who attended the state workshop of LVNA in Amarillo June 19-21 gave a report on the Board of Vocational Nurses Examination and the Sunset Commission.

Pat Meyers, R.N., instructor of vocational nursing at Midland College, showed a film on "Techniques of Therapeutic Communication.

"It was a difficult adjustment at first," says Howard A. Wolfe, executive director of the National Association of Uniform Manufacturers. "But now most uniform manufacturers offer a wide variety of outfits made specifically for women."

The major challenge, he points out, was to design uniforms that fit the female shape but did not alter the traditional designs that make uniforms distinctive. Women's garments had to blend in and coordinate with the existing men's garments. The transition is now so complete that there should no longer be any need for women to wear cut-down men's garments.

Many uniform accessories specifically designed for women are also available, such as cross-over ties, uniform caps and special handbags that allow freedom of hand and body movement.

Whereas it was generally felt at first that women in uniform should look exactly like men in uniform," he says, "now there is a trend in many occupations toward letting women look like women while still wearing outfits that are coordinated with the male design and image."

Nevertheless, that's the makings of some marvelous meals at a pretty good price. Boning a duck is not as complicated a procedure as it may sound, and the results are well worth the effort. Not only does a boneless, stuffed duck make a beautiful presentation, it goes a long way as well. ### Papaya Relish good with poultry

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a way to relieve the monotony of serving guests those thrifty main-dish offerings, chicken and turkey. Go all out and have an exotic and piquant relish with the poultry.

If this idea appeals to you, you might like to try the following recipe. The relish is pretty served in a glass bowl: the pale coral of the fruit looks lovely with the green of the pepper and scallion in the condiment.

When you buy papayas they will probably be green and will need to be ripened at room temperature until they turn yellow. Then, refrigerated, the fully ripe papayas may be kept for about a

Flavorful sauces add to favorite dessert

There's no end to the variations in serving ice cream, one of America's favorite desserts. Not only are there countless flavors, there are toppings and sauces that let you carry the diversity even further. One of the fun ways of serving ice cream is to provide two or three different kinds with the same number of sauces for an interesting mix and/or match. It's a 'make your own sundae" that can be used as a special snack or a finale to a meal.

Pineapple juice, strawberries and blueberries make a tasty, colorful combo for those who like "the berries." Eggs give the sauce its custard-like consistency.

When you soak raisins in rum overnight, they'll be plump and flavorful. Drain the raisins and use the rum in an uncooked, custard-like sauce to which you add whipped cream and the raisins, of course. It's quite sensational on chocolate ice

The judge's rulings, both Tuesday, stemmed from suits against the National Park Service, which wants to slaughter the burros. The park service says the animals, descended from burros used by prospectors, are destroying the ecology of the areas.

In Albuquerque, U.S. District Judge Juan Burciaga issued a temporary restraining order, barring the removal of any burros from Bandelier until a hearing Aug. 18. In Phoenix, U.S. District Judge William Copple barred the park service from destroying any animals until a lawsuit filed against the agency is settled. He set a Nov. 12 hearing on his order.

At issue in both cases is whether the burros will be left to roam the parks, whether they will be captured alive, or whether the park service has the authority to shoot

The American Horse Protection Association and the Humane Society of the United States filed suit in Phoenix challenging removal of the burros from the Grand Canyon - dead or alive.

The park service said a 21/2-year study determined that the burros were damaging the canyon's ecology and should be removed. The agency plans to let the public capture the estimated 350 animals during a 60day period.

The park service said any burros not captured would be killed, but Copple's order delays that part of the plan.

There may not be any animals left to shoot if the Fund for Animals is successful in its plans to trap all of the burros.

The group plans to start its roundup next week, using remote-controlled electronic traps and drug-injecting darts. The animals will be lifted out by helicopter. The burros then will be adopted.

Richard Negus, Phoenix representative for the group, said 500 to 600 applications for adoption have been received. The American Horse Protection Association and the Humane Society of the United States argue that the capture may harm or kill the burros, especially if they are chased on hot days. However, Copple denied a request by the plain-

Berkeley Barb out of business

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - The Berkeley Barb, which set out 15 years ago "to stick a barb" in the establishment but became best known for its racy classified ads, is calling it quits after this week's

"The owners are saying it's economic reasons. I feel the same way," editor Shannon Bryony said in a telephone interview Wednesday. I feel extremely sad about it. It's an institution."

The newspaper in its heyday claimed a circulation of 90,000, was a political bible for leftist students and

But when it folds after the publication Thursday of its 735th issue, it is with a circulation of 2,000. That was the circulation for its first issue, published Aug.

13, 1965, after being laid out on a kitchen table. Ms. Bryony said the paper was up for sale and held out hope that it could resume publication.

Observers blamed the demise on the mellowing of the Berkeley radical movement and the Barb's inability to make an image shift back to political seriousness in 1978 when it stopped carrying ads in which "models" and "masseurs" offered their services for a fee.

The original owner and editor, Max Scherr, hawked the paper himself at first around the campus of the University of California at Berkeley. "It was so ugly that nobody would help," he recalled in

"I would talk to thousands of people on the streets. Everyone would tell me their problems. That's the way I got news," he said. Scherr also got ads that way, running the first sex ad in early 1966 after being approached by an acquaintance while selling the Scherr, said to be in a hospital and unavailable for comment Wednesday, gave away the paper in 1973. But some saw it as a less-than-altruistic gesture notably Scherr's common-law wife, Jane Peters Scherr, who asked for half of the profits. Her claim was denied.

The paper wound up in the hands of International News Keyus Inc., or INK, of Los Gatos. Tom Meehan, an attorney associated with the venture, could not be reached for comment. The company said in a statement that it would continue to publish the Spectator, a 1978 spinoff which carries sex ads.

"It was bizarre editing a newspaper that had become synonymous with smut," said Mark Powelson, a former editor who took charge of the revised Barb in 1978. "We were trying for some respectability, for some serious journalism. I can't say we

The Barb covered the anti-war movement extensively but also covered the flourishing Bay Area counterculture. In 1969, the paper backed the People's Park, an effort by some students and others to cultivate a vacant lot owned by the University of California at Berkeley.

Report says TMI radiation release danger increasing

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 15 months after the nuclear accident at Three Mile Island, the danger of accidental radiation releases to the surrounding Pennsylvania countryside is increasing rather than decreasing because of the slow cleanup operation, a congressional study concluded today.

The final report of the Senate Environment and

Public Works nuclear regulation subcommittee said the crippled plant near Harrisburg remains ex-tremely dangerous and the nation's most serious commercial nuclear accident is far from over.

The March 28, 1979, accident severely damaged the reactor core and left the plant highly contaminat-

STIFF LEGAL, environmental and regulatory safeguards are slowing the $200 million cleanup operation and preventing adequate protection to area residents, concluded the study by the panel chaired by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo.

"Both the surrounding community and, most immediately, the workers involved in the cleanup are at risk," said the 423-page report. "The longer it takes to remove the radioactivity from inside the plant, the more likely it is that further accidental releases of radioactivity will occur before workers can repair or remove deteriorating equipment."

Large quantities of radioactive krypton-85 gas and hundreds of gallons of radioactive water were re-leased into the containment building during the

OFFICIALS EXPECT to take up to four more weeks to complete the process of releasing the radioactive gas before workers are able to enter the building for further repairs.

The Senate report said it may never be known precisely how much radiation was released in the early hours of the accident because "off-site radiation monitoring was both disorganized and insuffi-

But neither is there any "persuasive evidence" that enough radiation was released to pose any shortor long-term health problems, it concluded, adding that more recent accidental releases of radiation have not been large enough to pose a health haz-

Meanwhile, a congressional study released Wednesday said the the danger of accidental radia-tion releases to the surrounding Pennsylvania countryside was increasing rather than decreasing because of the slow cleanup operation.

The final report of the Senate Environment and Public Works nuclear regulation subcommittee said the crippled TMI remains extremely dangerous. Krypton gas must be removed from the containment building of the plant before technicians can go inside to do repair and cleanup work. "Both the surrounding countryside and, most immediately, the workers involved in the cleanup are at risk," said the 423-page report.

The report claimed that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the state of Pennsylvania and Metropolitan Edison - the utilty that operated the reactor were ill-equipped to cope with the emergency. Especially harsh criticism was leveled at Pennsylvania officials, who the report said relied too much on "incomplete and often inaccurate information supplied by the utility." 'As a result, the state, which has primary responsibility for ordering protective action, did not appreciate the serious need to consider such action," it

The report also criticized the NRC for doing little to help harness the accident while giving "incorrect and misleading" information to the White House and other federal agencies.

The new report follows by eight months the release of a study by President Carter's 12-member Three Mile Island commission chaired by John G. Kemeny, the president of Dartmouth College.

That report was sharply critical of the NRC and the nuclear-power industry, recommending fundamental changes in the way that reactors are constructed, operated and regulated.

As a result of the Kemeny report, Carter replaced then-NRC chairman Joseph Hendrie with John Ahearne and restructured the NRC to place commissioners in more of a policy-making role. Responsibility for day-to-day operation was given to the NRC

The new congressional study, wrapping up the last of more than a dozen government inquiries into the mishap, reached many of the same conclusions as the Kemeny report.

For instance, both concluded that the accident was combination of malfunctions in plant equipment and human error.

The congressional study found that the immediate cause of the accident — the unintential uncovering of he reactor core - was the overriding by plant perators of automatic safety eqipment.

But it went on: "It is inappropriate and unfair simply to blame these personnel for the Three Mile Island accident.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Help a brother; Don't knock him

You have no right to criticize your brother or look down on him. Remember, each of us will stand personally before the Judgment Scat of God.

For it is written, "As I live," says the Lord, "every knee shall bow to me and every tongue confess to God."

Yes, each of us will give an account of himself to God. So don't criticize each other any more. Try instead to live in such a way that you will never make your brother stumble by letting him see you doing something he thinks is

As for myself, I am perfectly sure on the authority of the Lord Jesus that there is nothing really wrong with eating meat that has been offered to idois. But if someone believes it is wrong, then he shouldn't do it because for him it is wrong.

And if your brother is bothered by what you cat, you are not acting in love if you go ahead and eat it. Don't let your eating ruin someone for whom Christ died.

Don't do anything that will cause criticism against yourself even though you know that what you do is right.

For, after all, the important thing for us as Christians is not what we cat or drink but stirring up goodness and peace and joy from the Holy Spirit.

If you let Christ be Lord in these affairs, God will be glad; and so will others.

In this way aim for harmony in the church and try to build each other up.

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Watermelons are the latest popular commodity involved in a series of shortages that threaten to undermine President Anwar Sadat's efforts to bring prosperity to Egypt.

Watermelons, an important summer food for most Egyptians, follow cigarettes, soap, flour and vegetable oil on the list of shortages that have resulted in the last six months as merchants resist government price policies.

Sadat's government has pledged to cool off the 30 percent annual inflation rate so that all Egyptians may enjoy the benefits of peace and prosperity in a country where the annual per-capita income is only about $350.

The selection of consumer luxuries from designer dresses to lacquer and gold fountain pens has burgeoned in the freer peacetime atmosphere.

But Egypt's rapidly growing population is increasing demand for basic commodities, creating pressure to raise prices and undercut the average Egyptian's purchasing power. Egypt's population, now 42 million, is increasing at the rate of a million every 10 months.

Gone are the stacks of watermelons that usually are a fixture at every vegetable and fruit stand in Cairo as the temperatures rise with the onset of

The cluster boxes are used only in new housing developments. Existing homes will continue to have letter carriers come to each door.

Obviously, it saves us a lot of energy and money to deliver the mail for 14 families in one place, instead of making 14 stops," Eugene C. Hagburn, an assistant postmaster general, said Tuesday.

At one point there was a moratorium on new cluster boxes after complaints from some home buyers about having to go to a central location to pick up mail. However, this was quietly ended several years ago.

Their use should expand further under the new regulation. It allows developments where less than 50 percent of the houses have been occupied to get mail by accepting cluster boxes. Otherwise, residents have to go to a post office to pick up their mail until at least half of the

Exercise, diet may delay girls' puberty

BOSTON (AP) - Young ballet dancers and other skinny teen-age girls who exercise strenuously may go through puberty a year or more later than normal, a study shows.

The survey, conducted at three ballet schools in New York, found that some of these hard-driven dancers had not had their first menstrual cycle by the time they reached their late teens.

"Ballet dancers worship thinness," said Dr. Rose E. Frisch, and this, combined with their hard exercise, apparently disrupts normal sexual matura-

The study, directed at the Harvard Center for Population Studies, was published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"There already is quite a bit of evidence that athletes display the same kind of late menstruation as ballet dancers," Ms. Frisch, a biologist, said in an interview. "What we don't know yet is why this is happening. And we also don't know if it is harmful in any way.

The study surveyed 89 ballet dancers whose average age was 16, and it found that 20 of them had not . yet had their first menstrual period. One of these young women was nearly 21 years old.

And of those who had menstruated, their first cycle occurred when they were 13.7 years old, about a year later than usual. Only one-third of the youngsters had regular periods, while the rest reported either irregularity or prolonged stretches without menstruation.

Most of the girls, whose average height was 5-foot-4 and weight was 100 pounds, had been training since they were 6 or 7 years old.

Ms. Frisch theorized that late or disrupted menstruation is a biological way of preventing women from becoming pregnant during times of famine.

"There's no question that pregnancy takes about 50,000 calories over and above normal demands, and lactation takes about 1,000 calories a day," she said. "Normally the woman stores fat, because in prehistoric times, if she didn't store the energy in advance, when there were fluctuations in the food supply, she

Ms. Frisch said pediatricians may not think weight and exercise as a factor in delayed menarche, the start of the first menstrual period.

Antarctica Mom: She loves to write

By JACK JONES The Los Angeles Times

SAN DIEGO - "A lot of people don't understand me and the way I like to write letters," Shirley Anderson confided with an accent as Australian as the pair of boomerangs on her living room wall. "Some say I'm rather a strange individual.

She has written a few letters. Thousands, in fact, during the more than 20 years she has been corredsponding with men assigned to the Navy's Operation Deep Freezed in Antarctica.

Carefully filed away in the nearby Pacific Beach house where she lives with her husband, James, a retired Navy chief warrant officer, are the thousands of replies she has received over the years most of them addressed simply to "Antarctica

"I just write about any mortal thing that comes into my head," she said. "I write about things I've seen in the paper. Or I might have just put my soup stock on. I tell them that. Or that I've just seen the sunrise. Just any mortal thing...

For 25 years, the Navy has been working with the National Science Foundation in Little America, during the region's summer - October to February there might be 1,000 men at McMurdo Station, 2,400 miles south of Christchurch, New Zealand.

At the moment, the "wintering over" crew - those left behind to maintain the base until nextr October - totals 72.

All the winter crew and many of the others receive letters from Antarctica Mom, who gets their names from the Navy. The resulting correspondence sometimes goes on for years, long after the men are back in the States or out of the Navy. "I love them all," she said. "You get a feeling for that first letter. You can tell their personalities by the slant of their handwriting."

"She's been 'Antarctica Mom' for hundreds and hundreds of guys," said Bill Neal, 11th Naval District headquarters chief journalists who got to know her during his own Antarctic duty. 'We're talking about hundreds and hundreds that she's sent cards and letters to ... cookies and maga-Operation Deep Freeze than anybody in San

Every year, Neal said, the Deep Freeze headquarters staff at Port Hueneme near Oxnard, Calif., sends a truck down to Anderson's home to cart away the thousands of paperback books and magazines

she has collected (She tends to sort out the X-rated ones as "not suitable for my boys.")

This year, the truck took away 32 cartons of reading material.

She also sent down a Bible stand for the Antarctic statio's new Chapel of the Snows, which will replace a chapel that burned down last year.

Mrs. Anderson, 58, who was in the Australian Women's Army Service during World War II, began writing to the Deep Freeze sailors out of boredom when her daughter, Lynette, finally grew out of the Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Anderson was active with the troop and suddenly found herself with little to do. "Daughter said, 'Why don't you write to someone at the North or South Pole?'' Anderson recalled. "I said, 'You don't think I will, do you?"

She contacted the 11th Naval District and was advised to write to the chaplain at McMurdo Sound. She did, and soon wa sshipping off hundreds of were there. 'Any of us who have been in the military can, remember how mail callw as," she said. "And how it was when you didn't get any. That letter from home that really means something.'

Over the years, some of Mrs. Anderson's "Boys" have written to her about personal problems, but few zines. She probably knows more Navy guys through of them burden her with anything tool deep. 'They're very good to me," she said. "They treat me

In one case, a young sailor who had written to her about the difficulty of living up to his military father's standards broke contact and went off on leave to New Zealand and Australia. The father then wrote to Anderson to find out where his son was.

"I finally heard from the boy again," she said. "He was all right. He just needed to get away ... to be turned loose.'

Bus halt adds woes in Detroit

By Associated Press

Detroit freeways were snarled by tens of thousands of commuters left without bus service Wednesday and garbage went uncollected for a second day as more than a third of the city's 23,000 workers stayed off the

In New York City, no progress was reported in efforts to head off a threatened strike Thursday by 44,000 police officers, firefighters and other city workers. And a strike that has brought the nation's coppery industry to a stand-still spread to an estimated 39,000 workers at seven companies with no talks scheduled until after the Fourth of July weekend.

The municipal strike in Detroit, where the Republican National Convention opens July 14, escalated when 300 bus mechanics rejected a contract offer Tuesday night and joined the strike by 9,000 city work-

Conrad Mallet, director of the Department of Transportation, halted bus service Wednesday, leaving an estimated 220, 000 people to find other means of transportation.

Taxi companies re-ported brisk business and freeways and downtown parking lots were jammed by commuters. "I appreciate it," Sarke Solomon of A&S

Parking said of the strike. "I have cars that I never saw here before. I can't put another car on Dispatcher Wanda Hampton of City Cab Co. estimated the company's business was up 50 per-cent because of the bus shutdown. State police Lt. Mi chael Swope said heavy freeway traffic caused more accidents than usual and afternoon patrols were ordered to be especially watchful. The strike began at 11:59 p.m. Monday when Council 25 of the American Federation of State. County and Municipal Employees, representing 9,000 workers in almost every city department, voted to walk off Contract talks with two key unions in the strike were to resume Wednesday night.

In New York, the city's uniformed workers threatened to go on strike between 5 a.m. and 8 a.m. Thursday.

The city was attempting to obtain an injunction from State Supreme Jourt in Manhattan, but the unions said they would ignore any nostrike order.

Gov. Hugh Carey was reported to be ready to send in National Guardsmen and state police to perform vital services in he nation's largest city. "The contingency plan in place and will be xecuted, but I am hopeful that we will never be out to the test," Mayor dward I. Koch said ednesday.

Copper industry work-ers, meanwhile, picketed ozens of mines, smelts and refineries in nine states. * Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back

Iceman Borg feels heat at Wimbledon

By WINSOR DOBBIN

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Bjorn Borg let his iceman mask drop for just an instant. "The pressure?" He asked. "sure I'm under pressure. It is always the other guys who have nothing to lose.

"It worries me sometimes. Maybe the other guy doesn't care and plays out of his mind. If I have a bad day that is it."

The Swede, usually devoid of all emotion, gave a rare insight into his hopes and fears after defeating sixth-seeded American Gene Mayer 7-5, 6-3, 7-5 Wednesday to move into the Wimbledon semifinals. Borg, the top seed who is bidding for his fifth successive Wimbledon title, never looked in the slightest danger against Mayer, yet felt the match was tougher than it looked

"It wasn't easy," he admitted. "This was my best match of the tournament but it was a much more difficult match than the score suggest-

Borg is delighted with his current form. "I am serving well and returning much better than I was," he said. "I'm very consistent every year - in fact that is probably the strongest part of my game. I always feel confident, and most of the time I play well, but I know I must keep being consistent. I can't afford an off day.

Borg was to meet unseeded American Brian Gottfried in the semifinals Thursday. Gottfried, who has yet to drop a set in the championship, beat No. 13 seed Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-4, 7-6, 6-2 Wednesday.

"Brian has started to play very well," said Borg. "he is playing with a lot of confidence and that is the most important thing.

Gottfried's career went through a major slump last year, but he has returned to peak form over the past weeks.

The other semifinal will be between secondseeded John McEnroe and the winner of the outstanding quarterfinal between American lefthanders Jimmy Connors and Roscoe Tanner, last year's defeated finalist and the No. 5 seed

No. 3 Connors moved into the last eight by ousting big-serving Hank Pfister 6-4, 6-7, 6-1, 7-6 in a match that was halted Tuesday night when

Connors is less than happy that his match schedule is trailing behind.

"I now have to play Thursday and Friday if I'm to get to the final," moaned Connors, who has been in a good mood throughout the tournament. "I'll either be in great shape or dead."

"I'm just caught up in the backlog and it's not

Connors was more happy with his own form. "I hit the ball very well out there," he said. 'My serve wasn't all that good but I sometimes frightened him by coming to the net on my

McEnroe, the belligerent New Yorker who has become the new idol of the Wimbledon crowds, scored a straightforward 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 victory over his friend and doubles partner Peter Fleming to earn his semifinal spot.

"Peter has never done much on grass, but he has the potential," said McEnroe. "If he's on, he's tough. It's lucky for me he was off.'

Evonne Goolagong of Australia, the 29-year-old 1971 champion, had the Center Court crowd on its feet when she defeated No.2 seed Tracy Austin 6-3, 0-6, 6-4 to advance to the women's singles final.

The fourth-seeded Australian, always a popular figure here, was cheered through every point against 17-year-old Austin, who had been tabbed as the player most likely to stop Martina Navratilova from taking her third straight women's Goolagong will be playing her 18th major championship final Friday when she meets either Navratilova or Chris Evert Lloyd.

Navratilova made it to the semis by scoring a dramatic 7-6, 1-6 10-8 victory over 36-year-old Billie Jean King.

The fifth-seeded King served for the match in the final set and then staved off eight match points before finally going under. In the second set - the match was carried over from Tuesday, when Navratilova won the first set - King won 20 of the first 23 points and was in total

The third set was tight all the way, with each having chances to put the other away. Navratilova, the 23-year-old Czech-born left-handed power player, said:

"I couldn't believe it. Every time I needed just one point she kept getting her first serve in. My serve was atrocious and she served well and kept hitting winners off my passing shots.'

Oglivie heads AL All-Star cast

NEW YORK (AP) - Ben Oglivie of the Milwaukee Brewers heads a list of 14 American League players chosen to participate in their first All-Star game next Tuesday in Los Angeles, AL President Lee MacPhail said

Oglivie, the fourth-leading vote-getter among outfielders, probably will start for the American League since Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox is disabled with a broken wrist, the league said. Oglivie took a bump on the knee from a batted ball himself Wednesday night, but X-rays were

Oglivie, hitting .332 with 21 homers and 56 runs batted in, joined Al Bumbry of the Baltimore Orioles, Rickey Henderson of the Oakland A's, Ken Landreaux of the Minnesota Twins, Al Oliver of the Texas Rangers and Jorge Orta of the Cleveland Indians on the AL's list of outfielders chosen to support those elected by the

Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees, Boston's Fred Lynn and teammate Rice were the elected outfielders. Rice, however, is one of three leading vote-getters who will miss the game because of injury.

Also injured are second baseman Paul Molitor of the Brewers (rib cage) and third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals (ankle). They are expected to attend the game along with Rice, but they will not play.

Starting in place of Molitor will be either Bobby Grich of the California Angels or Willie Randolph of the Yankees or Buddy Bell of the Cleveland Indians will start in place of Brett.

Backing up Yankees shortstop Bucky Dent will be Robin Yount of the Brewers and Alan Trammell of the Detroit Tigers. Cecil Cooper of the Brewers was chosen as the substitute first baseman, supporting 12-time All-Star Rod Carew of California.

Carlton Fisk of the Red Sox was the leading vote-getter at catcher, and he will get help from Lance Parrish of Detroit and Darrell Porter of Kansas City.

The AL pitchers were selected Wednesday by Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles. They were relievers Tom Burgmeier of Boston, Ed Farmer of the Chicago White Sox and Rich Gossage of the Yankees, and starters Larry Gura of Kansas City, Rick Honeycutt of the Seattle Mariners, Tommy John of the Yankees, Dave Stieb of the Toronto Blue Jays and Steve Stone of the Orioles.

On Wednesday, National League President Chub Feeney and Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner named the National League pitchers that will face the AL All Stars. They were Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies, Jim Bibby of the Pirates, Vida Blue of San Francisco. Jerry Reuss and Bob Welch of Los Angeles, J.R. Richard of Houston, Kent Tekulve of Pittsburgh and Bruce

Sutter of Chicago. Blue was placed on the disabled list Wednesday with a nagging back problem, and the league is expected to name a replacement. Tanner said he could not comment on a substitute until the league announcement was

Ovett, Coe duel excites Great Britain

By Will Grimsley WIMBLEDON, England (AP) -It's been a weepy, miserable Wimbledon, with tennis' biggest showcase dampened by cold and rain, but there's no way to keep British spirits

The country, still heady with Alan Minter's smashing victory over Vito Antuofermo for the world middleweight boxing crown, has just received another shot of adrenlin from two of its potential Olympic gold med-

Within 55 minutes Tuesday night in the rarified atmosphere of Oslo, Norway, first the fabulous Sebastian Coe broke a six-year old world record for the 1,000 meters and then his English rival, Steve Ovett, wiped out Coe's record in the mile.

Thus, for almost an hour, Coe, a pleasant, intense collegian from Yorkshire, had possession of four world marks - the 800 meters (1: 42.4), the 1,500 meters (3: 32.1), the mile (3:49.0) and the newly-gained and less publicized 1,000 meters

Then Ovett, an enigmatic, brooding man from Brighton in Sussex, ran the mile in 3:48.8, snatching the mark right from under his countryman's

Witnesses on the scene reported that Coe and Ovett exchanged cool handshakes and polite congratulations and then each went his separate way, perhaps mumbling to himself: Wait until the Moscow Olympics

- I'll get you there."

THEY ARE not the best of friends. these two disciples of speed and stamina, but they both wear the colors of Britain and that's enough to satisfy a hungry British sporting public.

The dual record performance at Oslo pushed Wimbledon right off the front pages here and, listening to commuters on the underground and fans milling around the tennis courts. you got the impression that the gold medals were already in the vault:

Angels' main problem, says Baylor, is Ryan

In addition to the usual run of injuries, Don Baylor, last year's American League MVP, contends the California Angels' main problem is that Nolan Ryan is pitching for Houston. "He was our stopper. You knew he'd give you nine innings every outing. He was tough in the late innings and we've lost a lot of games in the late

AFTER WINNING his first Texas League game last year, Baylor grad Jon Perlman was asked if he wanted to be another Ted Lyons. Puzzled, Jon asked, "Who is Ted Lyons?" C.V. Davis, Chicago Cubs farm director. adds a post script to the tale. "When I told Ted Lyons we had drafted Perlman last year from Baylor in the first round, he said, 'He may be as good a pitcher as I was, but he'll never be the hitter I was." Lyons, who graduated from Baylor and enjoyed a long and illustrious career with the White Sox has been a long time resident of the Hall of Fame ...

One theory behind Billy Martin's managerial success, it is pointed out, "when other teams play sloppy, the manager barks. Billy bites".

ONE TIME Texas Leaguer Steve Ontiveros (Amarillo 1972) was traded by the Chicago Cubs to Seilbu of the Japanese League where he will make double what the Cubs paid him... Buddy Bradford, who like Randy Hundlev still might be playing if it weren't for an injury that short-circuited his career, played in Japan and said he didn't enjoy the high prices, but like playing there. "I could play my game over there without the pressure I played under here. Over here with the White Sox and Indians, they always wrote about me as the guy the team was depending on to make things happen."

Recalling his days in the American League, Buddy, who is scheduled to fill in for Randy Hundley as Midland Cubs manager tonight, describes Co-miskey Park as one of the toughest outfields in the major leagues. Completely enclosed by doubledecked stands, Buddy remembers, "The wind could be blowing the flags in one direction atop the stadium, but once it whirled inside the park, it could swirl around and come from any direct-

You figure this one out. Last year, Charles O. When the Amarillo Gold Sox GM John Dittrich complained that Cooper County had hiked his rent from $1 a year to $2,500, the hike received national publicity. The pain was eased by 1,100 fans around the nation who mailed in checks...

Former Midland Cubs outfielder Karl Pagel, voted minor league player of the year last season, wound up back in Wichita this year because the Chicago Cubs couldn't find a defensive position for him. However, he may have gotten the break of his career when the Cubs traded him to Cleveland for Cliff Johnson. Karl was assigned to Tacoma of the PCL, but he could move up to the Indians if he catches fire at the plate as a DH.

It is absolutely not true that Ross Baumgarten has to pitch a no-hitter to win a ballgame. He has to pitch a one-hitter. And that's what Chicago's hard-luck left-hander did Wednesday night, limiting California to Rod Carew's leadoff single in the seventh inning plus one walk as the White Sox nipped the Angels 1-0.

Still, Baumgarten almost earned no better than a standoff, but the White Sox squeezed out an unearned run off Frank Tanana in the seventh inning. Only once since Baumgarten's only previous victory way back on April 13 have they scored more than one run in

"I figured we'd score sometime, somehow," said Baumgarten, who has been supported with just nine runs in his last 76 2-3 innings.

The White Sox remained eight games behind first-place Kansas City in the American League West when the Royals edged the Minnesota Twins 4-3 in 10 innings. In the AL East, the New York Yankees increased their lead over runnerup Milwaukee to 61/2 games by blanking the Boston Red Sox 6-0 while the Brewers bowed to the Oakland A's 5-3 in 10

Baumgarten retired the first 17 California batters and allowed only one walk before Carew spoiled his no-hit. bid with a bouncing single up the middle. He then set down the last nine batters. Tanana allowed only four hits and Chicago scored without a hit in the seventh. Chet Lemon was hit by a pitch, was sacrificed to second and took third when shortstop Bert Campaneris booted Junior Moore's grounder. Greg Pryor then grounded to second, driving in Lemon.

Royals 4, Twins 3 John Wathan's one-out single in the 10th inning scored pinch-runner Rusty Torres from third base. Kansas City, snapping a three-game losing streak which equaled its longest skid of the season, opened the 10th with singles by Dave Chalk and Willie Wilson. Torres ran for Chalk and U.L. Washington sacrificed before reliever Mike Bacsik took over for starter Jerry Koosman. Wathan, who drove in two earlier runs with a triple, then delivered a line single up the middle for his fourth hit. Yankees 6, Red Sox 0

Veteran left-hander Rudy May, making his first start in Boston since 1973, pitched five hitless innings before settling for a six-hitter as the Yankees completed a sweep of a three-game series. May, given his second consecutive start after 19 relief appearances, faced the minimum 15 batters before Jim Dwyer beat out a slow grounder over second for Boston's first hit to start the sixth.

The Yankees jumped on Steve Renko for a run in the first inning on doubles by Willie Randolph and Reggie Jackson. Graig Nettles homered in the fourth and New York added three runs, all unearned, in the seventh as a result of errors by third baseman Butch Hobson and catcher Gary Allenson on the same play. A's 5, Brewers 3

Pinch-hitter Jeff Newman and Wayne Gross rapped RBI singles in the 10th inning as Oakland ended a four-game skid as well as the Brewers' four-game winning streak. Dwayne Murphy, who homered for Oakland's first two runs, and Mike Davis reached on bunt singles with one out in the 10th before Newman and Gross singled, giving Mike Norris, who hurled a five-hitter, his Orioles 6, Blue Jays 2 Lee May drove in four runs and Mike Flanagan scattered eight hits as Baltimore downed Toronto for its 22nd triumph in the last 24 meetings with the Blue Jays. May singled his first three times at bat, twice with the bases loaded.

'The trouble I've had in some games this year is getting behind batters," said Flanagan, who threw 92 pitches, 69 of them strikes. "It's a lot easier to pitch 0-2 than 2-0. I had all four of my pitches working well, which helped. I was getting my breaking stuff over the plate."

Tigers 7, Indians 6 Alan Trammell amd Lance Parrish homered, Tom Brookens drove in three runs and John Morris posted his fifth consecutive triumph with relief help from Dan Schatzeder. Cleveland went ahead 3-2 in the fifth on singles by Jorge Orta, Mike Hargrove and Joe Charboneau. But the Tigers regained the lead in their half when Brookens hit a two-out, bases-loaded blooper that fell in short right field for a two-run double. Trammell homered in the sixth, then Al Cowens singled ahead of Parrish's homer. It was the 16th victory in 20 games for the Rangers 6, Mariners 3 Gaylord Perry scattered seven hits to pick up his 284th career victory, striking out a season-high 10 batters. Texas scored three runs in the third, two of them on Richie Zisk's single after Seattle right fielder Joe Simpson dropped a two-out fly ball. The Rangers had scored earlier in the inning on Al Oliver's RBI single. Mickey Rivers opened the game for Texas with a triple and scored on Buddy Bell's single. Rivers later drove in two runs with a grounder and

Perlman offers proof, baseball's funny game

BY TED BATTLES

If you need proof that baseball is a funny game, Jon Perlman is offered as exhibit A.

Here's a guy who wasn't even of-fered a baseball scholarship at Baylor and when he went out for the team they handed him a scorebook and said, "Here, kid keep track of what's

Still, four years later, he set a Baylor record for pitching victories and was the Chicago Cubs' No. 1 draft choice in June 1979. A year later, he's the Midland Cubs' most reliable pitcher...and still setting records. When he threw back-to-back shutouts against El Paso recently, he became the first Midland pitcher to whitewash the opposition in successive Still, not convinced? Jon was still the team scorekeeper as late as 1978 when the Bears made the SWC tournament in 1978 and Jon got his chance when the Bruins' pitching ace broke his elbow in a collision. "I pitched relief in the final game of the tournament and got the save and then I started and pitched nine innings in the regional against Mississippi State, a game we won 3-1 in the 10th," Perlman said.

But if it hadn't been for that broken elbow, the 6-3, 185-pound Perlman probably would be devoting all of his time to law school instead of squeezing in a couple of semesters during the off season.

Actually, Perlman received a couple of scholarship offers after winning seven letters at Carthage, Texas, High in baseball and basketball. But "I went to Baylor for an education and walked on. They had eight pitchers on scholarship, but wanted to keep me around, so they gave me a uniform and let me make the road trips as official scorer. Jon got into some games in relief, but sometimes it was embarrassing, like the time over at Texas when he was keeping score and the Bears called him in to pitch. His mound opponent was Richard Wortham. 'You've heard about the Wild Bunch at Texas. They are a group of fans who make like miserable for opponents, so you can image what it was like when the 'scorekeeper' came into the game in relief." Jon figures the thing that helped him most at Baylor was that he grew three inches and added 40 pounds between his freshman and junior years. As a junior, he helped pitch Baylor to the College World Series with his late season rescue act. And while the Bears didn't make it back to the Series last year, it still was the kind of a season that gave Jon a future in pro baseball. He posted a 12-3 record and climbed to the top of

Billy Capps scouting list. Perlman, relying on a fastball and sinker, was 4-8 after joining Midland

All-time baseball name? Who else but Van Lingle Mungo

There have been lots of great names in baseball history. Napoleon Lajoie (pronounced "Lash-oh-way"), Grover Cleveland Alexander, the only guy in the game with either three first names or three last names, "Germany" Schaefer, "Dummy" Hoy, "Ping" Bodie, Sibby Sisti. And Cletus Elwood Poffenberger and William Adolph Wambsganss weren't bad.

But, for sheer unadulterated alliteration, the all-time baseball name belongs to Van Lingle Mungo. You can't even say it, you've got to sing it. It sounds like something a guy would be singing from the rigging of a banana boat coming into port, or like the rumblings of a steel band. It's part calypso, part hog-call. The consonants just tinkle along like a runaway calliope.

A tunesmith was so taken with the sound of it, he wrote a whole song around it, making Van Mungo the only big league player I know of other than Joe DiMaggio to get a song written about him.

There will be a lot of big stars at the annual Oldtimers' Game at Dodger Stadium this Sunday. DiMag will be there. Willie Mays, Sandy Koufax, Duke Snider and Henry Aaron will, too. But the really big excitement will be presence of the man whose name is a song. Van Lingle come across the name, Van Lingle Mungo, immediately I'm 40 years younger. In fact, it's a hot day in the '30s record was a so-so 120-won, 115-lost. You say "so-so"

and I'm seated in the bleachers in a ballpark in Hartford, until you understand Van Lingle took his fastball and Conn. The mighty Hartford Senators are playing a July 4 double-header against the dreaded, despised treacherous New Haven Profs for the Eastern League first-half championship. Justice is triumphing because, on the mound for the home nine is the invincible Van Lingle Mungo, the best pitcher ever to throw in that league, the possessor of an unhittable fastball and a curve that swoops over the plate like a diving pelican. He strikes out 12 of the villainous New Havens that day, including their vaunted superstar from Yale, the footballer-turned-baseball player, Bruce Caldwell, three times. Hartford wins the pennant by 11 12 games. There is joy in Mudville and the sun is shining bright in Bulkeley Stadium.

WHY IS it the heroes of our youth are always more mythic, larger than life, than those we acquire later in life? Aren't you sure that senators and Presidents and ministers were better when you were a boy? Don't you secretly think Dempsey and Louis were really the last heavyweight champs? Weren't Gable and Cagney stars? And players in films today just actors? Weren't the winters colder, summers hotter, days longer, nights darker, then? Hasn't the world shrunk since you grew up?

So it was with Van Mungo and me. He and Jimmie Foxx. the slugger, were genuine, 14-carat legit bubble gum THE REASONS are quite personal. You see, whenever I card-carriers' heroes. No one has quite made it since. Van Mungo didn't make the Hall of Fame. His lifetime smoking curve onto one of the most pathetic of major league rosters. The Brooklyn Dodgers of the '30s were known journalistically as "The Daffiness Boys," "The Flatbush Follies," and other riotous epithets. Mungo lost a no-hit game once with two outs in the ninth when the second baseman dropped a pop fly. "The scorer ruled it a hit because the sun got in his eyes," Mungo re-

MUNGO twice won 18 games with this collection of comedians and twice won 16 games. The club was mired in the second division throughout that decade, but Mungo was a workhorse, usually pitching well over 300 innings. He usually led the league in games started—38 one season and 37 another and finished 22 of them each year. He led the league in strikeouts one year (1936) when the club finished next to last. The Dodgers of the era had a lot of players nicknamed "Rabbit," to give you an idea of their power and, even in their bandbox ballpark, the team leader in homers in 1936 had exactly four. Mel Ott, by himself, hit more home runs than Van Mungo's

No less an authority than Billy Herman, a Hall of Fame second baseman who batted against the likes of Dizzy Dean, Bob Feller, Lefty Gomez, Lefty Grove and Lon Warneke, says, "I think Van Lingle Mungo was possibly the fastest pitcher I ever saw."

I talked to the fastest pitcher Billy Herman ever saw by phone down at his farm in Pageland, S.C., where he said he was sitting on his porch watching the bulldozers turn his old farm into condominiums. He remembered the old Hartford Senators well, he said, if not the kid in the bleachers. "We had a better team down there than the one I went to in Brooklyn," he recalls. "I always thought they called them 'Dodgers' in Brooklyn because of the way they dodged flyballs. Only, sometimes, they didn't. Sometimes the balls hit them in the head."

Van Mungo says he never expected to have songs written about him like "Sweet Sue" or "Sweet Adeline." 'But I got out of baseball because of ulcers. I go five of them. I got 'em in service during the war, but the Army didn't buy that. They just said I ought to of chewed my

Did he wish he had been traded to a contending club? 'Well, I would have liked that. In my prime, that is. I went to the Giants late, after the war. You see, I always got to pitch against the big boys. I always got Dean, Hubbell, Vander Meer, Warneke and Schumacher. Those fellows. I pitched the game that knocked the Giants out of the pennant in 1934 after their manager, Bill Terry, had asked, 'Is Brooklyn still in the league?' Beat 'em, 5-1. They clocked my fastball at 109 miles an hour in those days. I tell you, it sang on the way to the plate."

Naturally, Van Lingle Mungo is the only pitcher in the history of the game whose name and fastball were both

War-whooping Braves massacre Astros again, 14-0

By FRANK BROWN AP Sports Writer

The Houston Astros left the red-hot weather in Texas - only to run into a red-hot team in Atlanta.

As if playing "can you top this" with themselves, the Braves followed their 13-4 triumph Tuesday night with a 14-0 rout Wednesday. In winning the first three games of the four-game series that concludes tonight, the Braves have amassed 45 hits and 32 runs against the National League's West Division leaders.

The results left Braves Manager Bobby Cox low-key and Houston Manager Bill Virdon shaking his head.

"A play here or there and they would have been out of several innings," said Cox, noting all of Atlanta's runs Wednesday night - including the seven in the third inning - had come with two out. It was more of the same for the Braves, who waited until two were out to score their 13 runs

The Braves collected 18 hits after getting 15 Tuesday

While the Braves were mounting their hit parade on a succession of four Houston pitchers, the Astros managed just five off Phil Niekro, who also had a two-run single in Atlanta's big third.

"I can't recall having ever pitched with a 14-run lead in the ninth inning before," said Niekro, who recorded his second shutout and eighth complete game of the season. The knuckleballer also struck out seven to raise his career total 2,488, and pass Don Drysdale for 16th place on the all-time strikeout list.

Bob Horner had four runs batted in, including a three-run homer in the fifth inning, and Chris Chambliss had three RBI as the Braves beat the Astros for the fifth time in their last six home games against Houston this season.

Bill Russell keyed a four-run fifth inning with a two-run single, carrying Los Angeles to its comeback victory and helping the Dodgers survive a five-for-five performance by San Diego's Dave Winfield. Reds 6, Giants 2

Cincinnati right-hander Frank Pastore smothered San Francisco on six hits, dropped his earned run average to 3.04 and named himself a natural replacement for the Giants' Vida Blue on the all-star team.

"If they're going to pick a replacement for Vida, I can't see it being anyone else," said Pastore, 10-4.

Blue was named to the team but was placed on the disabled list Wednesday because of a herniated cervical disc in his left shoulder.

Ken Griffey and Dan Driessen backed Pastore with three hits apiece and Driessen reached base five consecutive times.

With one out and Pirates runners at first and second, Templeton ran down an apparent game-winning bloop hit by Omar Moreno. He made a lunging, waist-high catch and turned it into a double play.

"That was one of the greatest plays have ever seen," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, who will handle the NL all stars next Tuesday but already has been told - by Templeton — that Templeton is not willing to play as a reserve.

Perlman is 8-6 with six complete games. Jon feels playing at night and every day are the biggest adjustments from college to pro ball, but you'd never notice.

In some respects, Perlman is a lot like Randy Martz, a No. 1 draft pick of the Cubs a few Junes back, in that both made their reputations as pitchers in one season of college ball. In Martz' case, he was a quarterback at South Carolina and was involved with spring football during the baseball season. In his last year, he pitched the Gamecocks to the College World Series and made All-America. He pitched parts of two seasons for Midland and was off to such a good start at Wichita this year that he seemed headed for the majors until he broke his ankle sliding.

Of course, he wasn't going to law school in the off season. "Baseball is my first primity." Perlman advise ... have no timetable for making it to the majors, but since I waited until graduation before signing, at 23 I'm older than most of the pitchers on the team, so I'd like to make it as soon as possible."

Charter boat captain E.W. Frank said that kingfish and other gamefish had been slow in previous days. Weather changes, off-colored waters and lack of migratory ocean fish in Gulf of Mexico waters off Port Aransas were responsible. But he did say we should have a ball catching sand, blacktip sharks and jackfish as we jackfish pulled out of Fisherman's Wharf in Port Aransas. Threatening clouds made our charter boat fishing morning look as though it would be better to stay ashore. Gulf storms are no fun to witness. The boat left anyway, captain Frank commenting, "We'll cruise out several miles to see what happens. If it still looks bad, we'll be close enough to shore to get back quickly." Two miles out, the wind hit. Frank turned the wheel and headed back to the wharf. Swells, topped with nine to 10 foot whitecaps, frothed the Gulf into bits and pieces, tossing our 40foot vessel like a plastic jug. But our captain knew his ocean and boat and had us back to dock shortly. What a relief.

He told us most Gulf storms pass rapidly and we would probably be fishing in an hour or so. He was right. This time, six miles out we began

Belle had latched onto a Jack Cervelle (jackfish) while my wife was battling a three-foot sand shark. The shark came in quickly, weighing about six pounds. Belle after horsing the fish to the boat in a fruitless effort before the fish headed for China battled his strong competitor for 20 minutes. Captain Frank told the crew the jackfish, pound-for-pound, is probably the strongest fish in the ocean because it is shaped like a deflated football and will turn sideways in the water. "He's like pulling a 25-pound steel frying skillet. All the pressure is on the angler."

To give you an idea of how strong the jackfish can be, Larry Bozka, Gulf Tides magazine editor, and I hooked jacks at the same time. We battled for 10 minutes. Then we no-

We boated 16 sand and blacktip sharks, six jackfish, one stingray and one small kingfish. The trip took place in early June when Gulf conditions had been poor. But latest reports are that the fishing is good for king, dolphinfish, red snapper, sharks, mackerel, bonita and amberjacks.

Ribbonfish are the key to Gulf fishing...or, if unavailable, live shrimp.

Always watch for storms. They can brew up in a matter of minutes. Proper safety and electronic radio equipment are musts. Fish the trashlines. Charter boat captains and experienced anglers fish

the grass or trash lines, a long string of weeds floating on top of the water.

Most gamefish follow the trash because baitfish hang close to cover. Drift a ribbonfish along the outer edge of the trash line about 20-30 feet

A charter trip out of Fisherman's Wharf range from $140 to $300 per eight hour day. Even if you have your own boat, but are unfamiliar with the Gulf, it's wise to charter a boat one day, learn, then use your own rig the following days. However, the most fun while in fishing the Gulf is that you never know what's going to hit your ribbonfish...a 25-pound jackfish or 200-pound marlin.

TODAY'S ANSWER

Texas farmers said threatened by catastrophe

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown says farmers will face "a real castastrophe" if drought conditions do not change in the next few

Reagan, speaking at Texas A&M University, said some counties already are in distress situations. "I'm absolutely positive that there will be requests for disaster relief in many of the counties," he

"If we don't get a break in the weather the next three our four days, then we will see a real catastrophe in our state as far as agriculture is con-

"One of the real problems is the fact that we are losing our hay crop," the commissioner said. "This means higher feed costs and higher costs to the

"If we don't have any more rain, and the heat continues for awhile, there will be extremely high prices in Texas.

The hot and dry weather, with many stations reporting record temperatures since mid-June, has dramatically reduced the yield - if not destroyed some crops, farmers and agricultural specialists

But on the South Plains, the cotton crop just needs a good rain this weekend to have a better than average harvest, farmers said. But if it doesn't come, it could be in trouble.

Many South Texas farmers and ranchers are hurting, with the sun and 100-plus temperatures scorching their crops and rangeland. "We are just burning up," said 65-year-old V.H. Neumann, who farms 1,660 acres 50 miles west of San Antonio. "Everything is gone. We will try and salvage what we have for hay, but as far as the grain is concerned, it is gone."

Neumann, who grows grain and raises cattle, said he normally harvests 500,000 pounds of milo grain and 12,500 bushels of oats but this year the heat has all but burned up his crop.

Also, he pointed out, the water table has dropped 25 feet since last winter and the prospect of more hot and dry weather has prevented him from planting a Doug Spellman of the federal-state Crop and Live-stock Reporting Service in Austin said the crop situation in Texas is a "mixed bag" with some farmers in more serious trouble than others.

The heat is beginning to take its toll, with the lack of moisture being a secondary factor, Spellman

Farmers have been coasting pretty well on available moisture supply, which is not being replen-

Crops are maturing in the southern part of the state, and the clear weather is allowing them to harvest.

Dr. Ernest Davis, a livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station, said cattlemen are having to decide now whether to expand their herds.

The weather, with no favorable forecasts, will cause them to thin their herds instead of expanding them for the fall, he said. With burned ranges, it costs more to provide supplement feed such as hay and range cubes. The hotter weather causes weight loss, which means less money at market, he pointed Texas' poultry is also suffering from the heat.

Bill Powers, executive vice president of the Texas Poultry Federation, said the heat has killed 300,000 to 400,000 broiler and 20,000 breeder chickens valued at $680,000 to $880,000. Most of the broiler chickens that have died are heavier birds that were ready to go to "Economically, this is the worst time (for them to

UIL defends rule on summer camps

HOUSTON (AP) - their kids whether it is to entire team to one camp University Interscholastic League attorney Bob Gauss has denied a UIL rule banning participation in summer camps is unconstitutional.

"It only says that if they go, they can't play (varsity athletics) for one year.'

"The rule only says if they go, they are ineligible to participate in varsity athletics in basketball and football for one year," Gauss said. 'What we are saying is that the UIL has the right to regulate the competition of its members and as a part of that right, they have passed this regulation.

Speaking for plaintiffs Alex and Larry Harris, attorney T. Gerald Treece said the UIL rule violates the constitutional right of "family choice," of parents in educating their children. U.S. District Judge

'Whatever happened to Lori' film on search for runaways

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The heartbreaking search of two women for their daughter and sister on the gritty streets of Hollywood is told in "Whatever Happened to Lori Jean Lloyd?"

spotted a girl she thought was Lori in the television documentary "Angel Death.

The girl appeared only briefly in the background of a scene filmed at the Clare Foundation, a rehabilitation center in Santa Monica, Calif. "Angel Death," about the perils of "angel dust," or PCP, was produced by David Begelman, now president of MGM Studios, and Dave Bell Associates.

The one-hour documentary on the search for Lori Jean Lloyd will be broadcast on about 80 stations across the country in July. Actress Marsha Mason is the on-camera narrator.

"Shortly after 'Angel Death' aired, we decided to do a film about runaways," said Dan Gingold, producer of "Whatever Happened to Lori Jean Lloyd." Gingold is a long-time documentary producer and director and a four-time Emmy winner.

"While we were beginning our research we got a call from Mrs. Smith, who had seen 'Angel Death' and spotted what she thought was her daughter. We told her to come out with her other daughter and we would help them in their search. She agreed to let us photograph them in return for our help." Gingold uses the story of Lori as the foundation for a larger view of the problem of runaways. He also took his camera into the care of these kids, I'm proud of it." Dr. James Gordon of the National Institute for Mental Health said, "We are confused in our attitudes toward runaways. We see them as either crazies or criminals.'

Gingold said, "There have been some TV movies about runaways, but they've exploited the scary side. What we tried to do was get to the heart of what the kids are looking for.

"Obviously, it's easy for them to get into trouble. But a thread running through all of this is that they're all basically looking for the same thing. They want some attention and affection; which they somehow felt they were not getting."

Mrs. Smith and Joni questioned street people on Hollywood Boulevard and showed them Lori's picture. They also talked to people at the Clare Foundation who were there when the 'Angel Death" scene was filmed, but were never able to learn if the girl actually was Lori.

At the end of the film, Mrs. Smith and Joni return home empty-handed, frustration and heartbreak visibly written on their faces. They had learned no more about Lori than they knew when

Sarah Vaughn

NEW YORK (AP) - Sarah Vaughan dominates any stage she's on. And she once again did Tuesday night at Carnegie Hall.

Never mind the trifling banter, or the sometimes mechanical way she delivers a song, or the continual references to the buckets of sweat that seem to cascade down her ample frame.

None of that matters when a song stylist can take any tune - whether a Duke Ellington standard or a little ditty from "Sesame Street" - and pound, pummel and caress it into an electric moment.

Ole Sassy is a tradition by now at the Newport Jazz Festival and she attracts an audience as diverse as New York in summertime - young, old, American, foreign. They gave her a standing ovation even before she began singing her first song, "Fascinatin'

By the time she finished teasing them with a brief encounter of all those upper and lower registers she travels to with ease, the audience let out a collective breath. And more applause.

She slid into "East of the Sun," a song she recorded in the 40s with Dizzy Gillespie and Billy Eckstine, sustaining notes during her soft singing and often moving the microphone away from her to facilitate natural projection.

Ellington's "Sophisticated Lady" was moody but strong. Miss Vaughan confessed that she did not

"I've never done it until now," she said, having fun with her audience. "This could be my first and last time - it's not an easy song to sing. If you hear me falter - HELP." She didn't.

But she does enjoy herself on stage and she plays for an easy time. So she had no problem interrupting herself when a large fly ungraciously set itself upon Miss Vaughan's sheet music. She confessed to a fear aficionado can appreciate the points of technique involved. First, declarer made a good play at trick one when he held up the ace of hearts, thereby forcing West to shift or else lose a trick in hearts. With the jack, East would not have discouraged hearts by playing his lowest card in the suit, and West correctly shifted to a low diamond.

Even her trio - Butch Lacy on piano, Andy Simpkins on bass and Harold Jones on drums found that one amusing.

GOREN BRIDGE

Declarer was still faced with the prospect of losing, in all, two heart tricks and one in each black suit. If either black king was onside, the contract was assured. But what if both black kings were offside?

If declarer takes the spade finesse when he is in his hand with the ace of diamonds at trick two. East will win and return a heart, forcing out the ace. Now when East gets back in with the king of clubs, he can play another heart to defeat the contract.

Declarer foresaw this possibility and correctly took the club finesse first. Though it lost, he was able to get rid of his second heart loser on a good club, and then he could fall back on the trump finesse for an overtrick

Limited smoking safer than two packs daily

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've really changed my lifestyle in an effort to eliminate obvious risks to my health, but I can't get away from the habit of a couple of cigarettes after meals. How many cigarettes is it safe to smoke before they pose a danger of

Dear Lou: It is of course better to have a cigarette or two after meals than a pack or two throughout the day. However, don't deceive yourself that the threat of cancer is thereby completely eliminated.

Most cancer experts agree that there is no safe threshold for any carcinogen. If large doses of a substance have the potential for causing cancer, smaller doses also have that potential, although the disease will not occur as often. Cancer has developed in people who had only very slight exposure to a carcinogen - for example, the families of asbestos workers who brought the matrial home on their

Dear Dr. Solomon: My father is 82 years of age and is to undergo surgery for a hernia; otherwise, he is in good health. His doctor tells him there is no reason why he shouldn't have the operation. It seems to me that being 82 years old is reason enough. Am I overly concerned? - Kim.

Dear Kim: A recent study at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston indicates that healthy people over 80 years of age can tolerate surgery that requires anesthesia as well as younger patients. Dr. Jovan D. Djokovic,

Atlanta woman's voice being heard all around world

By DIANA SMITH

ATLANTA (AP) - You may not know Jane Barbe but you'd recognize her voice. Every day she gives the time and temperature to 12 million people, including one woman in Texas who thinks the telephone company keeps her locked in a little room all

But the only room in which Mrs. Barbe is ever stuck is a recording studio, where that clear and silky voice purrs such information as, "I'm sorry, but the number you have dialed is no longer in

People in such countries as Saudi Arabia, Zambia, Canada, the Bahamas - as well as the United States hear her voice each day when they call for the time or run into a problem with a telephone num-

"I get a tremendous kick out of telling people what I do," she said in a recent interview. "They say things like, 'Oh my God, you're the time lady.' And I get letters from people.

Mrs. Barbe says her telephone work is only part of her career. She is also an actress in television and radio commercials, which is how she got her parttime job 17 years ago at the Audichron Co., which manufactures public announcement equipment for Southern Bell.

Audichron Operations Manager Sam Medlin estimated that Mrs. Barbe's voice is used in 90 percent of "intercept messages," the recordings you reach when something is wrong with a telephone number, and her voice is used in about 60 percent of automated time and temperature services.

It would be extremely difficult, Medlin said, to find a female voice that records as well. "She has a frequency and timbre that records very well. Not husky, brass or shrill," he said.

Mrs. Barbe said a woman in Texas actually wrote a letter to a newspaper saying how sorry she felt for the poor woman who was stuck in a room all day answering time and temperature calls.

There are a few people who really think I'm chained to a desk, a clock and a telephone," she said. "But it's gratifying to know I don't sound like a

Mrs. Barbe, whose voice normally has a slight Southern lilt, said she tries hard to sound natural in the recordings. "I conjure up a mental image of someone and concentrate very hard to sound pleasant and not like a machine," Mrs. Barbe said. To tell you the time, or that the number you have dialed has been disconnected, Mrs. Barbe does not actually record all the possible combinations of numbers. Instead, her voice is taped saying "one," 'two," "three" and so on.

The fragments she records are then put together by the Audichron machines to give the right message. If you dial the time and it's 7:32, the machine would pick out a "seven," a "thirty" and a "two" from her pre-recorded voice fragments.

"Everything is recorded out of context, so split-second timing is vital," she said. "We deal in tenths of seconds. A mistake could cut off a syllable or consonant."

But the mechanics don't make it all impersonal. Mrs. Barbe said she received two letters from elderly women who were handicapped and had no families. They told her they called time and temperature every hour just for the human contact of an assistant anesthetist, and Dr. John Hedley-Whyte, anesthetist-in-chief at the hospital, say that even with patients up to 95 years old, age is not a factor affecting the outcome of surgery; and that if a patient has a condition that requires an operation, his age should not rule it out.

Five hundred patients over 80 years of age who underwent surgery were studied; of these, 489 (94 percent) survived. This figure contrasts with a mortality rate among elderly surgical patients of about 20 percent prior to the 1960s, and about 10 percent in the early 1970s.

Unlike the situation early in this century, when some forms of surgery were not offered patients in their 80s unless the condition was life-threatening, most of the procedures performed on these 500 patients were designed to improve the quality of life. The operations included hernia, gall bladder, hip, bladder and even open-heart surgery.

Seven of the 11 patients who did not survive died because thay had an irreversible underlying disease, not as a result of surgical complications.

Any operation always carries some risk, and you may want your father to get a second opinion. But his age, alone, is not a contraindication to surgery.

If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208.

Japan may save troubled MG sports car

By DOLORES BAR. to do it comfortably and

NEW YORK (AP) - A Japanese auto firm may come to the rescue of the doomed MG, one of the world's most-loved sports cars.

Peter Sprague, a New York-based entrepreneur and financier who is trying to bring back the classic car from the brink of bankruptcy, said Wednesday that he's been negotiating with a "major Japanese automotive manufacturer" and the problem may be resolved "in a few

But he would not name the company.

"All other approaches we took one way or another turned out negative," said Sprague, who along with Alan Curtis of Britain helped rescue the Aston Martin Car Co. from bankruptcy in

Masseur traveling in style

By JOHN HURST The Los Angeles Times

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. - When it comes to unlikely places to look for creature comforts, William Turner's bus probably ranks right up there with Snoopy's doghouse.

While the furnishings of the cartoon strip pooch's doghouse, which include a pool table, are certainly elaborate, Turner's appointments to his old two-tone brown bus approach the ba-

Starting at the front of the bus, which rolled into Santa Barbara from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., not long ago, Turner has installed:

A driver's seat that swivels and reclines, an overhead glass bubble for navigating through low overhangs, a twoperson hot tub, a shower, a massage table, a color television set, a stereo sound system, a potbellied woodburning stove, a propane cookstove with an oven, a refrigerator, a sink, a toilet, a punching bag, a Yamaha dirt bike and a back porch.

That's the first floor. Upstairs is a sundeck with a big yellow um-brella, a 17-foot aluminum canoe and a bedroom with a skylight and a hatch cover that swings open in good weather.

"I enjoy traveling and I enjoy my comforts," says the 38-year-old masseur, who rubs backs for traveling money along the way. "It's like hav-ing the whole U.S.A. at your front door."

Turner, who is accompanied by two young women, Suzie Warner and Lisa Cambel, and a red Doberman named Copper Roscoe, left Florida about eight months ago after spending about six months working on the old Wayne school bus that he bought for $800.

He put about $2,500 into rebuilding it, doing the work himself and scrounging materials.

The potbellied stove. for example, is made from old water heaters picked up at a dump. The sink was once a ship's ballast tank. The sky-light was the discarded front door of a doctor's office. The banister of the back porch was a hospital bed-footrail. "I mainly made it for smokers," Turner says of the back porch, which added five feet to the 30foot body of the bus. "I don't have to stop the bus for people who smoke. They can sit back here and ride."

The vehicle gets only about nine miles per gallon of gas, but that doesn't bother Turner.

"If I get a little low on gas money," he says, "I just put a sign up in the window." Even people who don't want their backs rubbed seem to get something out of seeing the strangelooking two-story bus lumber by, says Turner:

"Amazingly enough, this vehicle seems to appease everyone. Police, longhairs ... They all get a smile on their face when they see it."

Panel says steel mills need loans

WASHINGTON (AP) The steel industry will need $6 billion in government-guaranteed loans or other federal assistance in this decade to help revitalize itself and withstand foreign competition, a congressional study concludes. The report by the Office of Technology As-sessment also said that unless the industry invests $30 billion in research, modernization and expansion, "scarce and high-priced imports could account for 40 percent of the domestic steel market by 1990." The study, released Tuesday, said the U.S. industry has suffered because its plants "tend to be older, smaller and less efficient than the steel-making facilities of some foreign industries." Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said his trade subcommittee will hold hearings on the report later this month.

study in September 1981.

1. A moratorium on offshore oil and gas concessions off the North Slope of Alaska until the U.S. government agrees that the Eskimos have title to the offshore area. The North Slope Eskimos already control billions of dollars of oil money in royalties or taxes from produc-

2. A ban on oil, gas and mineral production in Canada's Northwest Territories until they and the Canadian government agree on a settlement of their land claims. The Canadian Eskimos are scheduled to reopen negotiations with the Canadian government in August. They are seeking their own Eskimo-run province embracing about 75 percent of the vast, largely unsettled Northwest Territories, which covers nearly a third of Canada.

3. A moratorium on new concessions and renegotiation of old ones, including uranium, in Greenland until the huge North Atlantic island's 41,000 Eskimos and the Danish government agree on control of Greenland's natural resources.

The pressure the Alaskan and Canadian Eskimos will be able to exert is questionable since they are tiny minorities. But Greenland's Eskimos are self-governing under the Danish crown and like the Danish government have a veto over the use of the resources of the 840,000-square-mile island.

A Danish government outfit is scheduled to complete uranimum propsecting near Narsaq, in southern Greenland, this summer. The Narsaq deposit is estimated to be the largest in the nine nations of the European Economic Community outside France, and Finn Lynge, Greenland's EEC representative, said his government would oppose any exploitation of the Narsaq deposit because of the pollution that would result.

The meeting established the first permanent international Eskimo organization, the Inuit Circumpolar Conference, with a $1.2-million budget for its first two years of operation. An urbane, Danish-educated Greenlander, Hans-Pavia Rosing, 32, was elected to the $45,000-a-year job of president, heading an executive dominated by young, well-educated Eskimos, or Inuits, the name which they call themselves.

Rosing conceded that Eskimo power is limited but said he believes the Godthaab conference has given the scattered Arctic peoples a new political voice.

"Until now the majority (national) governments have set the guidelines," he said. "From now we will be putting the guidelines to them."

Gas supply plentiful for 4th weekend

NEW YORK (AP) - The United States is entering the long Independence Day weekend with more than ample gasoline supplies, an industry report indicated Wednesday.

The American Petroleum Institute said U.S. gasoline inventories totaled 265.5 million 42-gallon barrels in the week ended June 27, 500,000 barrels behind the previous week's level but well ahead of the 231.7 million barrels on hand a year ago.

Last week's supply was nearly 20 million barrels - or 840 million gallons - above the upper limit of the federal government's "normal" inventory level for the end of June. U.S. gasoline demand in the first

The targets for the rest of the year range from no reductions in Nevada, Utah and Wyoming to 7.9 percent in Pennsylvania.

The percentages for each state are not actually related to the amount of gasoline used in the states last year, but represent an estimate of what last year's figure would have been when adjusted for the effects of such things as weather and fuel shortages.

Here is a list of each state's gasoline target for the last six months of

Iran cuts consular ties with Soviets

By The Associated Press

Iran is cutting back its consular relations with the Soviet Union by closing the Iranian Consulate in Leningrad and ordering the Soviets to shut one of their two consulates in the Iranian cities of Rasht and Esfahan.

The move, announced Wednesday by Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, would leave the two nations with one consulate apiece.

er exposure to cancer-causing benzene without first proving that current standards are unsafe

About 600,000 workers come into contact daily with benzene, a highly volatile chemical used in the manufacturing of such products as detergents, plastics, solvents, resins, disinfectants and pesticides. But beyond benzene, Wednesday's ruling casts doubt on OSHA's ability to issue more stringent standards for a variety of cancer-causing substances such as cotton dust, chlorine and fumes from coke ovens.

Charles DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said the court decision "recognizes that health regulation in this country must be made on the basis of scientific facts rather than pure speculation."

But Sheldon Samuels, health director for the AFL-CIO's industrial union department which appealed the case to the Supreme Court, said the ruling requires OSHA to meet an impossible

United Auto Workers President Douglas A. Fraser called the decision an extraordinary blow to workers (that) hampers the national effort to reduce the increasing incidence of cancer and other diseases which are related to occupation."

OSHA has been issuing regulations for cancer-causing substances on the assumption that there is no safe level of exposure and that the substances must be regulated to the lowest level industries can feasibly attain.

One day after upholding the constitutionality of Congress' decision to cut off Medicaid funds for most abortions wanted by women on welfare, the court again refused to strike down an act of Congress in the minority set-asides case.

"Any preference based on racial or ethnic criteria must necessarily receive a most searching examination to make sure that it does not conflict with constitutional guarantees," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for three members of the court. "This case is one which requires, and which

New hearings ordered for 5,000 Haitians to be deported

MIAMI (AP) - The federal immigration service trampled on the rights of Haitian refugees in deciding they were fleeing economic conditions, not political ones, says a federal judge who ordered new hearings for 5,000 Haitians ordered deported.

Federal officials had no comment Wednesday on U.S. District Judge James Lawrence King's decision and did not say if an appeal was planned.

King, who called the Haitian government "the most repressive regime in the Americas," said he expected the 179-page decision to be cited in other claims for political asylum by some of the 30,000 Haitians estimated to be living in South Florida. "It'll go to the Supreme Court," he King's decision charged that the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service summarily concluded the Haitians were not political refugees. He said INS officials went into hearings with the conclusion that the refugees were lured from their homeland by the prospect of good jobs.

The World Bank estimates that 75 percent of Haiti's 5 million residents live at or below an "absolute poverty" level of $140 a year per person. "This case involves thousands of black Haitian nationals, the brutality of their government and the prejudice of ours," he said. "Those Haitians who came to the United States seeking freedom and justice did not find it. Instead, they were confronted with an Immigration and Naturalization Service determined to deport them."

"Judge King is a man of the Constitution," said the Rev. Gerard Jeanwho praised the decision. But the director of the Haitian Refugee Center, which filed the class action suit, cautioned that refugees "had won a battle, but not the war."

King's decision cited a 1978 directive about the Haitians issued by Mario Noto, then deputy INS commisbeing - socially and economically." INS officials testified in hearings earlier this year that Haitians smugled into South Florida aboard small boats were subjected to virtually unprecedented imprisonment, denial of work permits and accelerated deportation proceedings.

"At one point, we were incarcerating all Haitian males ... To my knowledge, that has never been done (before) with Haitians or any other immigrant group," said Richard Gullage, deputy district director of King said many of refugees would "be subject to the birutal treatment of the bloody prisons" if they returned to their impoverished country. His decision was sprinkled with excerpts from testimony by refugees who said they were beaten and to rtured in the prisons of Haitan President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier.

King said that while it would be inappropriate to conclude that all Haitian refugees are entitled to political asylum, "it is beyond dispute that some Haitians will be subjected to brutal treatment if deported ... Until INS can definitely state which Haitians will be so treated and which will not, the brutality and bloodletting is its responsibility."

The judge gave the INS 90 days to prepare a plan for rehearings. Lastmonth, the Carter administration granted six-month "temporary status" to Cubans and Haitians who arrived in the United States before June 19. The order makes the refugees eligible for limited aid while the courts and Congress determine their

City council rather not see Dan Rather

PORTAGE, Ind. (AP) - The city council of this northwest Indiana community has decided it would rather not see Dan Rather anchoring the CBS Evening News.

The seven council members, encouraged by local efforts to stem drug trade in the town of 25,000, voted unanimously Tuesday that Rather should not assume Walter Cronkite's job because he acknowledged experimenting with drugs. It dashed the resolution off to CBS, which has announced that Rather will take over the job sometime next year. "We don't want to crucify the guy, but we had to make him aware he's got to be responsible for what he's saying," Leon West, sponsor of the resolution, said Wednesday.

The flap began last month when the veteran newsman was quoted in Ladies' Home Journal as saying that "as a reporter — and I don't want to say that's the only context - I've tried everything."

"I've never been a social user of any of these things, but my curiosity has carried me into a lot of interesting areas," he said, adding he tried heroin in 1955 or 1956 so he could do a story

He also said he told his children that if "you're hell-bent to try pot...then try it at home around people who care about you.'

"When (my) children were fairly young, and there was so much emphasis everywhere on drugs, it was not possible for them to tell me I didn't know what I was talking

CBS News President William Leonard said then that he couldn't "get excited about a reportorial experiment of Dan Rather or any other young newsman that took place a quarter of a century ago."

A network spokeswoman who refused to identify herself said there was no immediate comment on the Portage resolution. West said the anchor position was "one of the key things about this You're talking about a position that influences quite a few people." Another factor, said West, may have been timing.

"We had the biggest drug bust in the state of Indiana on June 18, and me and two other council members were sitting in the police station at 3: 30 a.m. while they're bringing these offenders in," he said. "Well, we got to looking through the newspaper and here's Dan Rather saying its okay to

"The timing could have been behind it, but we felt we had to oppose a statement like that just on princi-

Portage, a community of steel workers nestled along the Lake Michigan shore just 10 miles from downtown Gary, is a polite, basically conservative town, said council member Albert Seng.

Stepped-up pressure by state and local law enforcement officials in the past year has resulted in several arrests and curtailed drug activity in Porter County and nearby Lake County, Seng said. And more communitybased programs "are reaching into the schools to get at the problem before it grows into a big one," he

"I usually watch NBC, but I sure know who Rather is," said Seng. And it totally surprised me to hear a man like that say a good thing about drugs. As knowledgeable as he is, he was degrading what we're trying to

Farmers to make record wheat crop, despite heat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the heat wave and areas of severe drought in parts of the Great Plains, a senior government economist says he thinks farmers still will harvest a record wheat crop this year.

Moreover, says Howard W. Hjort, it's too early to be greatly alarmed over the corn crop, easily the most abundant and important of the U.S.

But Hjort, who is the chief economist and policy analyst for the Agriculture Department, said the heat and dry weather have taken a terrible toll in the nation's midsection, including the northern plains, where springplanted crops and pastures have been

Not much hard information will be known for another week when, on July 11, the USDA issues a monthly report on 1980 crop production, including the first estimate of total U.S. wheat production and its first 1980 corn figures.

Last month the department estimated 1980 winter wheat output at a record level. Planted in the fall for harvest the following summer, winter wheat makes up about 75 percent of the total U.S. wheat production.

In the southern plains, particularly in Texas - which has more than half of the nation's cotton acreage - Hjort said some of the cotton crop will be affected. Grain sorghum, called milo, also has been hit hard, but probably not as severely so far as barley or oats, Hjort said

Although corn is grown in parts of the heat-ridden Great Plains - classified as all or part of 10 states running from Texas to Montana - and is being hurt, most is grown in the more humid areas of the Midwest and South where, according to Hjort, moisture now for the crop to hang on. Most soybeans, a prime source of high-protein meal for feed and vegetable oil, are grown in corn areas and also are planted in the spring.

supplies appear to be adequate right

As it stands, Hjort said, the department is sticking to its earlier predictions that retail food prices will go up by 7 percent to 11 percent this year, on the average, from 1979. Most probably, the prediction has been, the rise will be 8 percent or 9 percent.

Hjort said food prices in June rose more sharply than some had been forecasting, primarily because of rising prices of live hogs and broiler chickens, a situation he expects will continue for awhile.

Although reports of "millions of birds" dying from heat are having what Hjort called a psychological effect on the market, broiler prices traditional go up sharply just before July 4, he said.

The main thing to remember, Hjort said, is that hog and broiler producers began cutting back production significantly before the heat wave.

Marines ordered to search pigpen

CAMP GEIGER, N.C. (AP) - Marines are trained to obey orders without question, but Pfcs. Scott Duncan and Dana Gidney say they shouldn't have to fish through pig slop for discarded knives and forks.

The two privates are scheduled to be court-martialed at nearby Camp Lejeune for refusing a non-commissioned officer's order to retrieve mess-hall sil verware from a farmer's pigpen. The Marines, who were on mess duty at the time, claimed the pigpen was harmful to their health, a Marine spokesman Maj. John Schmidt said Wednesday the charges were made despite an order by the commanding general of the 2nd Marine Division that the practice of sending men to pick through the garbage was no longer in effect. The incident occurred June 10, six days before the practice was discontinued, Schmidt said.

Schmidt said the Corps plans to push the court-martial "because disobeying an order is not the way to deal with grievances." But he added that the trial, originally scheduled for today, could be delayed by "operational commitments." The slow-moving desertion trial of Pfc. Robert Garwood is also under way at Camp Lejeune.

If Duncan and Gidney are convicted, they could be sentenced to 30 days in jail, a loss of 20 days pay and a stretch of hard labor.

Schmidt said the Marines have a three-year contract with a pig farmer who buys garbage and food scraps left over from the mess halls. Men assigned to duty at the mess halls traditionally have been sent to the farm to pick through what the pigs leave, checking for discarded cutlery.

Base officials have confirmed that the farmer's contract specifies that he is responsible for returning any government property, particularly knives, forks and spoons that end up in the garbage.

Despite that provision, Marines have been ordered to retrieve lost silverware from the farm for several years. Marine Corps officials have defended the practice as "retrieval of lost government property." The Jacksonville Daily News, which began an inquiry into the practice, has reported that Maj. Gen. David Toomey, commanding general of the 2nd Marine Division, ordered a halt to the practice after similar inquires from congressmen representing Duncan and Gidney.
