Uncle Sam wants — but may not get — registrants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Starting today, Uncle Sam wants 19- and 20-year-old men to sign up for the draft, even though the law under which registration is resuming could be ruled unconstitutional before their next birthday because it excludes women.

After a flurry of late legal maneuvering, in which a federal court blocked registration only to be overruled by Supreme Court Justice William Brennan, the first of an estimated 4 million young men began filling out Selective Service information cards at post offices around the country.

The first phase of the registration will continue over the next two weeks.

Within 90 days, registrants will receive formal notice through the mail that they are registered for possible induction in the event of a national emergency.

Early response to the government's call was light today with postal officials reporting no lines or crowds. But some young men said they came early to get it over with.

"They're going to get me anyway so it ain't no use trying to hide," said Marvin Wallace, 19, of Baltimore. He as well as other young men among the first group of registrants around the country said they signed up reluctantly.

There has been no draft since 1973, and President Carter has said he has no intention of asking Congress to reimpose one.

But registration, which was stopped five years ago, is expected to shorten by almost a month the time it would take for a callup, officials said.

"With this, within hours of a military emergency we could start the induction process," Selective Service Director Bernard Rostker said in an interview Sunday.

This week's registration covers young men born in 1960. Those born in 1961 will begin registering next Monday and those born in 1962 are to register in January. After that, all young men must register upon reaching their 18th birthday.

During the registration the men are required to fill out a card giving their name, sex, date of birth, current address, permanent address and Social Security number. There also is a box they may check if they want to be contacted by a military recruiter.

Rostker predicted 98 percent of those required to sign up will do so. Others, including some draft critics, predict hundreds of thousands of youths will ignore the order or be unaware that registration is required.

Leaders of draft protest movements planned demonstrations across the country. Several peaceful protests, including one near the White House, were held over the weekend. Draft critics vowed to set up shop at many post offices to urge registrants to place a gummed label declaring "I am registering under protest" on their cards.

The return to registration, approved by Congress earlier this year, was thrown into confusion Friday when a three-judge federal panel in Philadelphia declared the Selective Service Act unconstitutional because it does not include women.

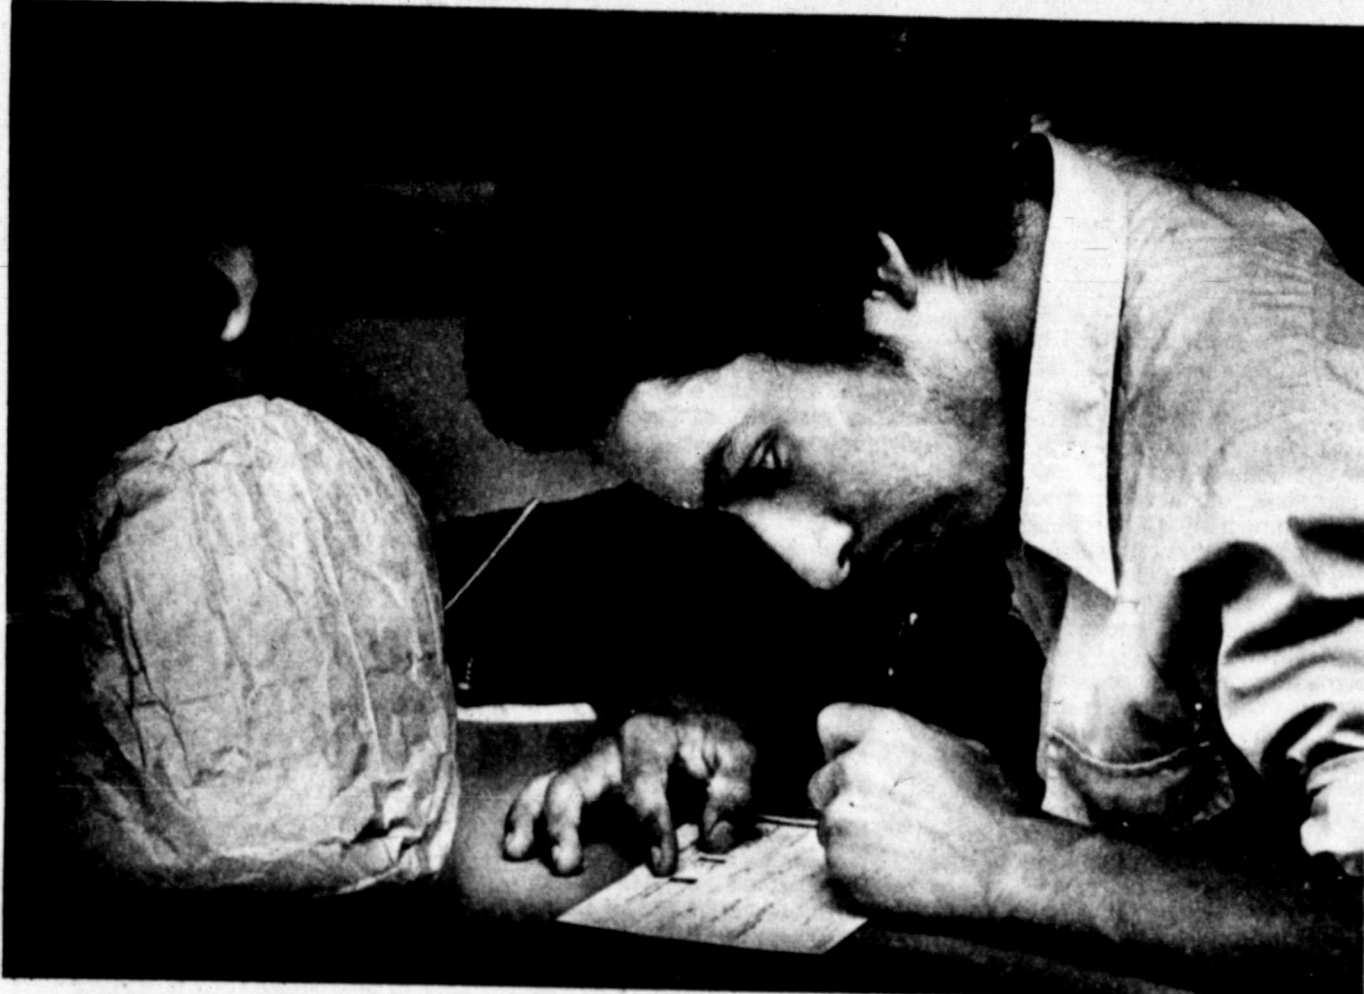

Although Brennan on Saturday reversed the lower court's injunction against registration, questions about the law's constitutionality still must be resolved.

Daniel Weinberg, the attorney for the plaintiffs in the nine-year-old Philadelphia suit, said he expects his case to reach the full Supreme Court by fall with a decision late this year.

In explaining his order, Brennan indicated the Supreme Court could go either way in the case. But he said a failure to proceed with registration in the meantime could cause foreign policy and military problems, while the government could always just destroy the computerized information it has collected if the law eventually is found to be unconstitutional.

Draft critics said Sunday the confusion arising from the legal maneuvers, and to some extent problems the Selective Service has been having in promoting the plan, will cause as many as a half million young men not to take part.

Few Midlanders sign up as registration resumes

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Only a few were straggling in to sign up on the first day of the U.S. Selective Service System's revived draft registration.

There was no hurrah. Darryl Saenger sauntered in before his work-day as a pumper began. He's 20, ripe for the draft, willing to serve his country in time of war, but figures others — not just the 19- and 20-year-old men — should register with the SSS and be ready to pack duffel bags.

"I think they should make all the guys register for the draft," said Saenger. "I've got a bunch of friends who are 21 and didn't register."

"Actually, I'm for the draft," he said. "I think they should draft everybody — not just a few."

In Midland County, that few could be interpreted as about 2,000 young men ages 19 and 20, noted Stan Sartain, who is overseeing the registration at the downtown U.S. Postal Service office here.

Men age 20 are being registered this week at post offices throughout the nation. Next week, 19-year-old men will come to the fore to fill out the white and green 5-by-7-inch cards. Beginning this January and in the Januarys to follow, men age 18 will be required to register.

The SSS was enacted in 1940, but draft was suspended three wars later — after World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War — in 1973. That year, the Armed Forces turned to an All-Volunteer Force to supply the needed military manpower. And the SSS says the all-volunteer concept will continue until a beefed-up military force is needed.

Registration is being conducted in the post office for convenience of the government and for a cost-savings to the taxpayers, said Sartain, director of consumer services for the 168 post offices in the USPS's Midland Sectional Center.

Far more regular postal customers were in line to pick up stamps, mail or packages than there were young men waiting around to register.

Jeanette Pulse of Greenwood was waiting for a postal position spot to open up.

"My 8-year-old (daughter Kim) is really worried that I'll have to be drafted," said the mother.

"She's worried that I'll have to go and that she might be drafted when she turns 19. I say, 'By then, I hope not.'"

A silver-haired woman who vividly recalled the draft from decades ago also was standing in the postal line.

"Of course, I don't object (to the draft)," said Lucille Arick, who worked in the SSS office in Midland in the 1940s and 1950s. "But it sure makes hard feelings around the city, I'll tell you."

The few young men who had drifted in to register for the draft were no where about. No demonstrators or protesters were outside the George Mahon Federal Building carrying anti-draft or anti-war placards. The day was uneventful.

Midland accountant Skip Allen, 32, who was heading up toward the postal window, indicated that the renewed draft was good sign.

"I think it's about time," he said. "The Russians think they can push us around, and we've got to show them something."

Afghan athletes hope to defect

MOSCOW (AP) — As Soviet athletes dominated the Olympics in the absence of boycotting Americans, several members of the Afghan team announced they want to defect to the United States.

Americans are boycotting, at President Carter's direction, over the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

CBS News reported Sunday that a member of the Afghan team approached CBS to say several Afghan athletes wanted to defect to the United States. There are 17 athletes on the team.

"Five members of our team want to go to the American or British embassy. We do not like it here," a team member, who said he had a brother in the United States, told another reporter.

An Australian basketball player said he had been with Afghan athletes who talked to reporters about defecting. He said the athletes were led away by two men in gray suits.

An U.S. Embassy spokesman said the embassy here was aware of the contacts but could do nothing to help, while a spokesman for the British Embassy said he was unaware of any contacts. In Washington, a State Department spokesman said, "I don't know anything about it."

A man who identified himself as secretary of the Afghan delegation, but who refused to give his name, denied that athletes were seeking to defect.

CBS said it had withheld the story until "a British TV news organization went ahead with it, alerting Soviet authorities." The British organization was not identified.

"The Afghan athletes who want to defect realize that security may be beefed up around them now, but feel that getting their story out is their last chance to escape," CBS said. The athletes were not named.

In the first day of competition, Soviet athletes won four of the five gold medals awarded.

Among the winners was Soviet swimmer Sergei Fesenko, who won the gold medal in the men's 200-meter butterfly event. It was the first gold medal for a Soviet man in a sport ordinarily dominated by the United States. Fesenko said he would not retire as planned because he wants to swim again against the Americans.

The other Soviet golds were in free pistol, 100-kilometer cycling and 52-kilo class weightlifting. East Germany took one gold, in the women's 4x100-meter medley swim relay.

A total of 36 nations are boycotting, and the number of athletes and officials here as competition began Sunday — about 8,300 — was down by about 2,000 from the number that would otherwise have been present.

The boycott appeared to have no immediate effect on the level of competition — four world records were set as Soviet and East German teams dominated the medal harvest.

Bush, Reagan take vacations

Candidates resting in Maine, California

HOUSTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan headed west and George Bush east after appealing to the voters in this city of conservatism and Republicanism to join the crusade to beat Jimmy Carter in November.

Reagan was going to take a rest at his California ranch and Bush went to relax at his resort home in Maine before beginning the long campaign into November.

It was a homecoming for Bush, and the 3,000 to 4,000 spectators jammed into stairways and aisles of the fashionable Galleria shopping mall gave him an ovation that rattled the glass fronts of the exclusive shops nearby.

Both Reagan and Bush spoke for about five minutes and renewed their appeal for Democrats and independents to join the GOP in ousting Carter from the White House.

The Republican presidential nominee said, "This country cannot go for another four years under Jimmy Carter. Now, I'm sure Jimmy Carter is doing his best and that's our problem. There is a world out there, that no matter how many times they have said 'Yankee go home', there's a world that has always known they are safer if there is a great United States as an anchor to windward. That is what we are going to be again in the world."

Bush, former Central Intelligence Agency director, former congressman and former United Nations ambassador, said the Republicans can expect a tough battle in November.

"So we ask you who are Democrats and you who are independents to not only vote for us, but work for us," he said.

Texas, with 26 electoral votes, has supported a Republican presidential nominee only four times since admitted to the union in 1845. But, in three of the last five elections, Democrats won by less than 2 percent of the vote.

Bill Clements, who appeared at the rally, broke the Democratic hold on the governor's mansion when he became the first Republican governor since Reconstruction.

In recent elections, the big cities, such as Houston and Dallas, have gone Republican, but the Democrats still hold the balance of power in those thousands of small towns in the woods of East Texas and plains of the West.

The only disruption in an otherwise solidly-GOP affair was when a group of about a dozen women began chanting their support of the Equal Rights Amendment. They were booed down by the crowd, then gave up when the band struck up "Dixie."

Clements and Anne Armstrong, former ambassador to Great Britain, were out early to warm-up the crowd that had to wait through an hour-long delay in the appearance of Reagan and Bush.

Clements did a partial strip and Mrs. Armstrong a slip.

The governor, because of the almost 100-degree temperature and a air conditioning system in the mall that went on the blink, stripped off his

One injured, two persons killed in one-vehicle accident

A 19-year-old Midland man who was injured Sunday in a one-vehicle accident that claimed the lives of the two passengers riding with him remained in satisfactory condition early this morning in Midland Memorial Hospital.

George Hestor is being treated for a back injury and bruises he received between 4 and 6 a.m. Sunday 2.3 miles south of Interstate 20 on FM 1788 when the pickup he was driving failed to negotiate an "S" curve. Killed in that mishap were 25-year-old Donald Richard Russell of Midland and 24-year-old Dennis Gordon Franz of Commerce City, Colo.

A spokesman for the Department of Public Safety said all three men were thrown from the pickup after it left the roadway, apparently at a high rate of speed, struck an embankment, rolled once and came to rest on its wheels.

An official of the DPS said the accident apparently occurred as the southbound vehicle ran off the road on the west side, the driver overcorrectcoat and then loosened his tie and then undid a couple of buttons on his shirt.

Mrs. Armstrong brought a groan from the crowd when she spoke of the "Reagan-Ford ticket."

After the rally, Clements accompanied Reagan back to the airport. There he promised Texas would go Republican in November and shouted above the roar of the jet, "Hook 'em governor, hook 'em."

Bush, meanwhile, returned to his home near the Houston Country Club, with a group of newsmen, Secret Service agents and staff members at his heels.

A neighbor, Bill Hoffman, said, "Welcome home, George."

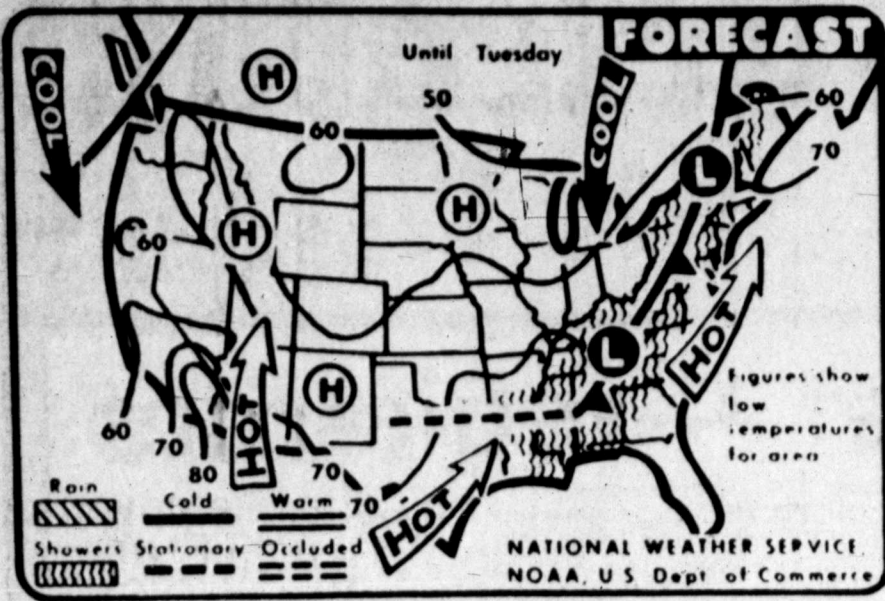

Bush replied, "Sorry I'm cluttering up the neighborhood."

Hoffman said, "It's a nice change from the quiet around here. I'm glad it happened. We wouldn't have missed it for the world."

Peter Teeley, Bush's press secretary, said the family home is now up for sale because "the children are grown, and they want to move to a smaller house, possible a townhouse, here in Houston."

A Bush aide confirmed the house is listed at a price "in excess of $800,000."

Miami 'cool and calm' after lifting of curfew

MIAMI (AP) — Liberty City, still heavily patrolled, was "cool and calm" after authorities lifted a curfew imposed during outbreaks of sniping and rock-and-bottle throwing last week, officials said.

A unit of 400 National Guardsmen and 50 Highway Patrol troopers which had been placed on alert was sent home Sunday, Cuccaro said. He said an unspecified number of extra police officers would remain on duty in Liberty City, but would cut back from 12-hour shifts to regular eight-hour days.

Stamina, money required

Texas delegates 'overspent'

By GARTH JONES

DETROIT (AP) — It takes stamina and money to be a political convention delegate.

One hundred and sixty delegates and alternates, with husbands and wives, are willing to testify to that after five days at the National Republican Convention.

Seldom did any Texas delegate get back to the hotel, the old Book Cadillac, before 1:30 or 2 a.m. after maybe seven or eight hours sitting in a folding chair in Joe Louis Arena. For some, there had to be a nightcap in the bar followed by fellowship in another delegate's room.

"I haven't slept three hours any night since I have been here," a woman delegate moaned one morning.

As for the financial effect, quick estimate shows the Texans spent at least $160,000 for the trip, not to mention that spent by Texas newspaper and broadcast staffs.

The Texas GOP delegates were told to expect to spend $1,000 to $1,500 for the Detroit trip. Some spent less, but many spent more.

"If you worry about the cost you shouldn't come," said delegate Lee Nutter of Dallas.

"I have to worry about costs and I figure I am spending about $1,500," said Dave Lowry, delegate from Bedias.

Basically the airline cost to Detroit was $300 to $350 round trip, the hotel rooms $50 to $65 and personal expenses including meals about $50 a day. A number of Texans had suites that cost $175 to $225 a day.

One wealthy Houston delegate got a suite, brought his secretary along to continue his regular business routine and hired a Detroit driver and car to stand by at all times.

"I just ate at McDonald's," said delegate Michael Ellis of Daingerfield. "I'm hoping to get by for $770 to $800. I couldn't afford to bring my wife along."

Delegate Steve Lilly of Nacogdoches, who brought his wife along, figures the trip cost them $2,500. It is their vacation for this year.

Jean Bensmiller of George West said "we just don't eat breakfast to save money. We drove up here but it is still going to cost us at least $1,000 each."

"In addition it cost us about $100 to attend a special meeting of delegates and we probably spent $400 at the Houston state convention when we were elected...but someone has to pay the price for good government. I've been a volunteer worker for the party for more than 20 years," she said.

A number of the Texas delegates ate at the drug store lunch counter instead of paying $5.95 for a buffet breakfast in the hotel dining room.

A bourbon and water in the bar went from $1.90 the day before the convention to $2.25 a day later. Several Texas delegates were seen carrying brown bags out of a nearby liquor store.

And there were other necessities, some thought.

The blue denim hats, seen so often on TV, cost $20 each.

The Texas lapel button with the motto "Viva Ole" cost $3. Naturally, you also had to have a Reagan-Bush, Reagan-Kemp, Reagan-Ford, etc. button. There was a big run on the Reagan-Bush buttons after Bush was chosen.

And a lot of delegates wore still other buttons. One of the favorites was: "A Democrat shot J.R."

Anderson doesn't like limelight

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Anderson says sometimes he's so embarrassed by the sirens and the flashing lights accompanying his motorcades that he crouches down in his limousine seat and hopes nobody recognizes him.

He says he'll be relieved when "this period of public adulation or semi-adulation" is over and the last thing he'll miss is the hoopla that goes with campaigning.

In short, Anderson — who is just back from a grueling 11-day European and Middle Eastern tour — finds that running for president is not much fun.

The Illinois congressman knows that the trappings of campaigning, of just being seen, are absolutely vital if his independent effort is to succeed against the better financed, better advertised and better supported candidacies of Democrat Jimmy Carter and Republican Ronald Reagan.

But he doesn't have to like it. In fact, he says he is resigned to it.

Anderson isn't impressed, for instance, with being treated like a combination of monarch and movie star, at the center of a traveling circus of television cameras, bands, gladhanders and autograph seekers.

"That kind of fame is so fleeting and so ephemeral that I don't kid myself one bit," he says. "The very same people that come to me and want my autograph, a year from now will have forgotten all about me."

Just before leaving on his foreign tour, Anderson paused, in an interview, to reflect on what impels a man to decide that he, among 225 million Americans, has what it takes to lead the country.

"You don't just wake up one morning and a great white light shines down from above and tells you you're qualified to be president," he says.

"When you have two candidates come along like Carter and Reagan, you do tell yourself, 'I certainly could do a better job of addressing the country's problems than they could and therefore why should I shy away from the challenge?'"

Having said this, Anderson worries that he might be misunderstood and adds quickly: "It isn't the kind of challenge that a man sees when he looks at a mountain and says this is a mountain that I simply must climb because if I don't I will go to my grave unfulfilled."

"That isn't the kind of challenge that the presidency offers to me. It is rather just a very pragmatic judgment that I spent my life really preparing for this — not consciously during all of that period — and that it honestly has given me the kind of depth of understanding and knowledge and perspective about problems that a president needs."

He is inclined to sound a trifle pompous in public when asked whether his quest is not just an ego trip.

"There is something involved in this campaign that is more important than John Anderson, more important than my political career — it's the future of this country," he told campaign workers in Chicago.

Anderson says he first talked about running for president one night after making a speech to the Michigan state Republican convention. It was, he says, in September 1977, "when I was still in better standing in the Republican Party."

He was sitting late with Paul Henry, an old friend, now assistant minority floor leader in the Michigan House of Representatives.

"We talked about the fact that 1980 would be upon us and the Republicans would be looking for candidates, and with Ford gone and Nixon gone maybe they would be willing to turn to a new generation of political leaders and that I cold aspire to running for the White House."

It was not, Anderson says, "an apocalyptic vision."

He had misgivings, and his wife, Keke, he says, "entertained the same doubts that I have about how feasible it was" for him to run.

"We certainly didn't just clap our hands and say, 'Oh Joy! This is a great thing, let's go.' We talked about how exhausting the process is and what it involves as far as your family life is concerned and the enormous expense and the fact that the Republican Party is the kind of party that maybe wouldn't take too kindly to my kind of candidacy."

Anderson believes he would make an interesting president — "interesting in the sense that I could be inspirational, because I do believe that is an important function of the office; interesting in the sense that I could give people a sense of pride and conviction and inspiration about the country."

But religion, says Anderson, a born-again Christian, would not play any part in his effort to inspire the nation.

"I would not be a president who would be restoring church services to the East Room of the White House as Richard Nixon did," he says. "People do not like pietizing politicians and they don't like politicized preachers. They tend to regard both categories with suspicion."

He says the influence of his evangelistic church would be zero in his administration.

Carter plans Dallas stop three days after Reagan visit

DALLAS (AP) — President Carter planned a stop in Texas today for a pair of Democratic party functions, just three days after Ronald Reagan opened the national Republican presidential campaign with a Texas rally.

Reagan and his running mate, George Bush, spoke to a large crowd in Bush's adopted hometown of Houston on Friday.

Trip primarily to raise money

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is returning to the campaign trail to help replenish Democratic Party coffers in preparation for his expected race this fall against Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan.

The primary purpose of today's trip to Henderson, Ky., and Dallas is to raise money, but an aide said Carter also would stop at a drought-stricken farm outside Denton, Texas, to show his concern for millions of Americans caught in a month-long heat wave gripping the Midwest, South and Southwest.

The president was flying first to Evansville, Ind. He was scheduled to go by motorcade to Henderson, just across the Ohio River, for a brief parade through town on his way to the home of Dale Sights, a long-time Carter supporter.

said Carter would fly to Dallas aboard Air Force One following a similar visit in Indiana.

The president's two appearances will be completely different in style and purpose. The first will be at the renovated downtown railroad depot, Union Station, for a $5 per person fundraiser billed as a voter registration drive.

The second will be a private, $5,000-per-couple reception at the North Dallas home of former Democratic Party official Jess Hay. Party leaders said they expect about 300 people for the reception.

The president planned to spend about an hour at the Hay home, then fly back to Washington.

Hay is chairman of Lomas, Nettleton Financial Corp., one of the largest mortgage banking companies in the United States. He was national finance chairman for the Democratic Party during the first year of Carter's current term.

He also was Carter's campaign finance chairman in 1976, and has been active in several Texas political campaigns, including those of former Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

The cost of cleanliness

Inflation has no single cause, but one contributing factor is the governmental regulations that boost the cost of every product we buy, every service we receive.

According to Dow Chemical Co., anti-pollution laws have added an average of $565 to the cost of manufacturing each new American car over the last decade. Additionally, another $400 will be added to that figure for 1981.

Pollution controls have boosted the cost of generating electricity, too. In Ohio, Dow says, one utility expects its customers to find bills almost 24 percent higher because of clean-air rules imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The EPA itself says that during the period from 1977 to 1986 its rules will cost some $360 billion or an average of $36 billion a year.

Industry pays 51 percent of the costs for anti-pollution equipment, the agency says. Government pays 13 percent and consumers pay 36 percent. Analyze that breakdown carefully.

In most all cases industry passes its costs along to its customers. Government is funded via tax dollars collected from American citizens. That means that all the costs of anti-pollution equipment are paid by the consuming public and American taxpayers.

Of course environmental costs are accompanied by benefits. We live on this planet and, practically speaking, have nowhere else to go. We should not destroy or damage our environment.

We have cleaner air and cleaner water mainly because of the fact that the government enforces strict environmental regulations. But we must realize the fact that those regulations are being paid for by us — average taxpaying citizens.

Too often, it seems, government controls have been instituted at the insistence of environmentalists who do not see the damage they are helping to create.

It's time for us all to begin to look a little closer at government regulations and to weigh the true benefits against the real costs.

Recognizing that a truly clean environment is not free, we must then ask ourselves if it is really worth it or to what extent we will want to keep our environment clean.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Vesco reveals startling news to Senate

WASHINGTON — Senate Investigators have just heard some startling new revelations from financial freebooter Robert Vesco. He told them that, in return for keeping silent about a White House scandal, he was promised in 1978 that the ban would be lifted on some airlines sought by his friend, Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi.

Not long afterward, the White House overruled the objections of then-Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, and delivered two Boeing 727 airliners to the Libyan government, which paid Vesco "a substantial sum of money" for their release.

Vesco was questioned by the Senate Judiciary Committee in Nassau, where he is on the lam from the law. His startling testimony was buttressed by an all-day lie detector test. The polygraph operator, Fred Cain, of International Investigations, Inc., certified to the committee that Vesco had answered all the relevant questions truthfully.

The fugitive financier admitted that he had transferred a bloc of stock, worth $10 million to $12 million, to a group of Georgians in 1977. In return, they had offered to fix his legal problems through Spencer Lee IV, an Albany, Ga., attorney who is a bosom buddy of White House aides Hamilton Jordan and Richard Harden.

Lee later swore to a federal grand jury that Harden had persuaded him to pull out of the conspiracy in February 1977. This was affirmed under oath by Harden who also testified that he had reported the plot to President Carter. The president, thereafter, wrote a note of introduction for Lee and appointed him to a judicial nominating committee to help select federal judges.

Yet Vesco insisted to the Senate investigators that he had remained in contact with Lee long after February 1977 — a statement that registered true on the polygraph machine. This contrasts with a lie detector test that the Justice Department persuaded Lee to take. He not only failed the test but tried again and failed the second time, too.

The lie detector test suggests that both Lee and Harden may have committed perjury before the grand jury. Then where does this leave President Carter? He not only had been informed of a criminal conspiracy, which he failed to report to the Justice Department, but he rewarded one of the conspirators by allowing him to help screen federal judicial appointments.

Meanwhile, the Securities and Exchange Commission learned that Vesco had transferred some of his stolen stock to the Georgians. This led to an SEC inquiry which sent one of the Georgians winging to Nassau, according to the Senate Judiciary Committee account, to urge Vesco "to maintain silence."

As related in the Senate report, Vesco demanded, "Why should I be quiet?" then added, "If you guys can't stop the extradition attempts, at least you can help my friends in Libya." This would help "make him whole," Vesco suggested.

Explained the Senate report: "Apparently, Vesco was referring to the fact that he had transferred 10 million to 12 million dollars worth of stock in a transaction of transactions which had been uncovered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Then Vesco asked for a release of the planes as a

CHARLEY REESE

Korean master proves American dream still lives

Everytime I hear the usual complaints about immigrants taking jobs away from Americans or mooching off the government, I think of my friend, Y. K. Kim.

Master Kim is a taekwondo (Korean karate) instructor. My son and I met him two years ago when he inherited 10 students, one worn heavy bag and a small rented room from another Korean who had, for family reasons, decided to return to New York.

Master Kim is a small man who weighs about 130 pounds. At that first meeting, he was wearing neat but rather worn clothes and not much more than a grunt and a faint smile came from his stern, battered face.

He was facing a large problem. In our city, there were several karate schools already, including one chain which operated three gyms and advertised heavily.

Master Kim had no car, no capital, and could barely speak English.

I don't think he ate very much and I know he slept on the floor of the gym. He did nothing but teach his students, practice himself, and study English.

After some months, he saved enough money to have handbills printed. Starting at 10 p.m., after the last student had gone home, Master Kim would trudge for miles, putting his handbills under the wipers of parked cars.

To make the story shorter, today Master Kim has one of the largest and most successful karate schools in the state and just recently handed over the entire proceeds from a benefit exhibition, about $6,000, to a home for dependent children. Within two years, he has become not only a successful small businessman who pays a hefty chunk of taxes, but a respected and loved member of his community.

There is a lesson here for all of us. For one thing, he has shown that the American dream is still a reality. For another, he has demonstrated that a person can succeed without government assistance. He never asked for a government job, food stamps, welfare or a loan. Instead, he followed the classic path of success: he worked hard, he lived within his means, he saved and re-invested what he saved instead of consuming it. When he couldn't afford a bed, he slept on the floor; when he couldn't afford a car, he walked; when he couldn't afford food, he didn't eat.

Not once did Master Kim show any sign of self-pity. Not once did he complain of discrimination even though prejudice against Orientals is a reality. Not once did he gripe about the system or rail against his competitors. But more importantly, not once did he show any hint of greed or envy nor any doubt that he would eventually be successful.

In fact, Master Kim never showed any interest in money at all. He focused entirely on providing the best instruction for his students. If only one student showed up, as was often the case, Master Kim worked with him with complete concentration. And when a student couldn't afford even the modest fee he was charging, Master Kim would insist that he come anyway.

Thus, he proved again the old principle that those who give, receive.

Admittedly, Master Kim is an extraordinary person, a man who has spent his life mastering an art which requires extreme self-discipline if you want to reach his level of proficiency.

But I tell you this: He put to shame a lot of lazy bellyachers in this country who don't have time to succeed because they're so busy looking for government handouts and blaming everybody but themselves for their failure.

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

Ronald Reagan's running mate should have been Sen. Strom Thurmond. Then, Reagan being the younger, would be just a heart beat away from a second term.

The Republican National Convention provided the toughest anti-Carter rhetoric ever uttered by Teddy Kennedy.

One of the least publicized items in the GOP platform was abolishing the national speed limit. Under the Kemp-Roth plan, they proposed to cut the speed limit by 30 percent over the next three years.

I believe that Ronald Reagan's call for returning to the basic simple ways can be compatible with these modern times. How? With the computerized butter churn.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan refused to accept the ultimate in 'Fordization'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

DETROIT — Leading up to the moment of cold truth just before midnight Wednesday when Ronald Reagan finally decided something was very wrong, agents of Gerald R. Ford were engaged in an exercise they called "segmenting" the presidency that looked much like a backdoor road to power.

What Reagan refused to accept was the ultimate in a "Fordization" of the presidency that had been well underway for several weeks with senior officials in the Ford administration joining the Reagan team. In the frantic talks Wednesday night, they were trying to institutionalize that power in a future Reagan administration.

Unanswerable questions of constitutional propriety pulled Reagan back from the brink. But the exercise demeaned the prestige of the Republican Party's two dominating figures. Reagan emerged looking disorganized and careless of the prerogatives of the office he seeks. Ford came over as relentlessly insensitive and perhaps vindictive about the man whose 1976 challenge he blames for losing him the presidency.

Two key figures in Ford's apparatus — Henry A. Kissinger and economist Alan Greenspan — asked for what was constitutionally impossible to give: operational control by Ford of "the national security portfolio," the domestic budget and the White House chief of staff. Although some Ford advisers felt Reagan had accepted this package, he never quite did.

"They offered Ford the right to name the secretary of defense," one Ford insider told us, "but that wasn't enough." That it wasn't enough was perhaps less the judgment of Ford himself than of his close aide from White House days, Jack Marsh. It was Marsh, the lawyer inexorably pounding out an agreement, who talked about "segmenting" the presidency.

But even if Ford was not aware of the letter of his negotiators' demands, they would not have squeezed the Reagan agents so remorselessly without encouragement and approval from the former president.

Ford, who could hardly utter a favorable word about Reagan in his well-received speech to the convention Monday night, has harbored four years of resentment about him, spiced with general low regard. That could not be wiped out in four hours of pressure-cooker talk.

The operation culminated a process that has concerned Reagan's conservative supporters, who fear Ford Republicans want to undercut Reagan's tax-cutting and national defense policies. Bereft of experienced political talent since the sacking of John Sears as campaign manager on Feb. 26, Reagan has been taking aboard experienced and respected old Ford hands such as William Timmons and Stuart Spencer as key political operatives. There is no sign that Timmons was intimately involved in the Wednesday negotiations, and Spencer purposely kept himself out of these talks. But the role of Dr. Greenspan, representing Ford's interests after being named as Reagan's budget policy adviser, was ambiguous.

The prominent inclusion of Dr. Kissinger inflamed these conservative fears. Although there is no substantiation to reports that Ford wanted him back at the State Department in a Reagan-Ford administration. But for the man regarded by the right as a symbol of what was wrong with the Ford administration to be negotiating a delegation of Reagan's presidential powers was of questionable political wisdom.

Even if none of this represented a Ford putsch, the idea of restructuring the presidency in a few hours of superheated convention climate was dubious. One Ford insider with business ties commented: "If General Steel thought of any such reorganization, they would do a two-year study by Booz Allen and Hamilton (management consultant firm) before deciding anything."

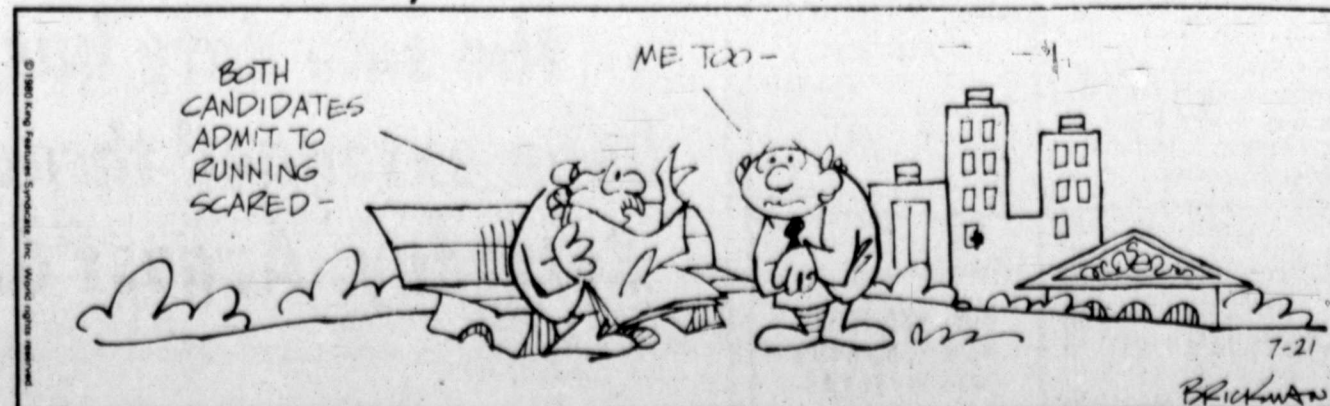

Talk of Reagan as board chairman and Ford as chief operating officer reflected a desire by Ford to win the fruits of victory he dared not seek on the bloody battlefields of primary elections. But it also shows carelessness by Reagan about the august office. Indeed, amidst the euphoria sweeping the convention floor when the aborted deal was first reported, some instinctively knew it was wrong.

"If this is so good," asked Mississippi's National Committeeman Clarke Reed, who defied his state's Republican opinion by backing Ford over Reagan in 1976, "why don't I feel better about it?" John Buckley, the veteran Massachusetts liberal Republican, told us: "This is terrible, very damaging for Reagan."

Ultimately Ronald Reagan thought so, too. His supporters Thursday were rejoicing that he had the good sense not to enter so hasty a marriage which he might regret at leisure, and they admired his courage in coming to Joe Louis Arena to inform the delegates. About the rest of the affair, not much good could be said.

the small society

Work begun in New Mexico on new Islamic community

ABIQUITU, N.M. (AP) — Work has started across the Rio Chama on an Islamic community that could rival the size of this old Spanish village within a decade.

Moslem organizers in March signed a $1.3 million contract with rancher Alva Simpson for 1,000 acres, much of it irrigated land. Simpson already has been paid $300,000.

Construction of a 2,000-square-foot mosque, which will include seven small domes, was started about a month ago on one of the colorful sandstone plateaus overlooking Abiquitu.

Plans call for continuous expansion that could lead to placement of 100 students and more than 100 families in the community within 10 years. Along with the mosque, school and homes, plans call for boarding rooms for students and workshops for craftsmen. The organizers also hope to farm the 400 acres purchased along the river valley.

The entire 1,000-acre rectangular tract is bordered on the south by U.S. 84, just east of Abiquitu.

Total projected costs of the community are $5 million.

A leader of the project said this month that a primary goal of the community is to blend in with native residents. He said the Moslems hope to be regarded as friendly neighbors who will not impose religious beliefs, or anything else, on Abiquitu residents.

A group working on restoring the 16th century Santa Rosa de Abiquitu Church ruins is apprehensive about the plans.

"I don't like it at all," said Elfidio Lopez, 67. Lopez supervised a crew this month working on the church ruins, near the southeastern boundary of the Moslems' land.

He said he was concerned that the Moslems wouldn't get along with the people in the area.

"We don't want nothing like that in Abiquitu. I think all the people of Abiquitu are against it," he said.

Walter Polovchak...seeks political asylum in U.S.

12-year-old seeks political asylum

CHICAGO (AP) — Ukrainian-born Walter Polovchak, who is 12 years old, says he does not want to return to the Soviet Union, even if it means never seeing his mother and father again.

Rather than go back, he is seeking political asylum in the United States. A judge is to decide later this month whether to place Walter in the custody of one of two aunts who live in this country or return him to his father.

"I would rather never again see my parents than leave Chicago," Walter says. "I want to stay here. I have new friends, a nice school, a bicycle I fixed myself, and I don't want to be sent back. Here is better than my country."

"This is a free country. It is a good country. But I want to go home," Michael Polovchak, Walter's father, said Saturday through an interpreter. "Children should stay with their parents."

His comments echoed those of the Soviet embassy in Washington, where spokesman Valentin Kamenev said: "Our position is that a 12-year-old boy should not be able to tell his parents what he wants to do. He does what they say."

Walter emigrated from the Ukraine to Chicago six months ago with his father, 42; his mother, Anna, 38; his sister, Natalie, 17; and 6-year-old brother, Michael Jr.

Last week, Walter learned that his father planned to return soon to the Soviet Union, so he and his sister moved out of the family's house and into an apartment with their cousin, Walter Polowczak, 24, a computer engineer.

Police found the boy Friday and took him to a district police station. But when his father tried to take Walter home, the police called the State Department, which issued a temporary order keeping the boy in the United States until a court hearing could be held.

An emergency hearing was held Saturday by Circuit Judge Joseph Mooney, who ordered Walter placed under the supervision of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services pending a final custody hearing July 30.

The elder Polovchak appeared at the hearing without a lawyer or an interpreter and did not say anything until after the proceeding was over. Then he shouted, "They're kidnaping my boy!"

Julian E. Kulas, Walter's lawyer, said Soviet authorities have told Polovchak that because the two boys were on the couple's visa, both must accompany the parents or the family will not be allowed to return to the Ukraine.

Michael Jr. is too young to understand the situation and will be returning with his parents. Natalie, who entered the country with her own visa, has decided to stay in the United States.

"I am so scared for my brother," she said. "If he is forced to go back with my parents he will be punished there. He can have no good education or job and will be followed for the rest of his life for speaking out against the Soviet Union this way."

Ms. Nude crowned
SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — After the Buff Divers put on a nude skindiving demonstration, the party-clothed audience was all anticipation as the new Ms. Nude International, USA was crowned by her male counterpart.

Remembering her past, flight attendant helps young people

HOUSTON (AP) — It's a long way from a Houston ghetto to the cabin of a jet airliner, and Carolyn Shelton, who hasn't forgotten what it was like getting there, wants to help other young people over the obstacles she faced.

So she spends a lot of time telling kids in big-city ghettos that they can get out if they try, and she shows them a good example — herself. Today she is a veteran of 12 years as flight attendant for Continental Airlines and flies one of the carrier's prime routes, between Los Angeles and Australia.

She lectures at schools and runs self-improvement classes all over

Houston, and she works with employers in many cities around the country counseling their young minority employees on self-improvement.

Ms. Shelton, 32, was born in the poor black section of Houston, the oldest of nine children. Her mother was a maid, and when Carolyn wasn't in school she was responsible for the troop.

"MY INVOLVEMENT IN helping kids began six years ago," she says, "when I went home to Houston to visit my mother. I saw young girls in the supermarkets and drive-ins swearing, snapping gum and sassing the clerks. They had their hair in pink curlers and they were wearing dirty clothes, and they were headed nowhere. It got me thinking I could be doing something about that."

Several months later, Ms. Shelton transferred to the airline's Houston base to be nearer her mother. Soon after arriving, she persuaded a local bank to let her use their conference room for evening classes.

She then put up cards on bulletin boards around the neighborhood advertising free self-improvement lessons. The first night there were only a few girls present. The next time there were nearly 20, and in a month, it was standing room only.

Ms. Shelton is still conducting the classes when her schedule permits. She teaches the girls how to walk, eat, dress and groom themselves in ways that will help them get ahead. After a certain number of classes, she has a graduation dinner for them where they take turns serving food and practicing their newly acquired table manners.

Her work with elementary and high schools in Houston's poorer areas consists mainly of lecturing groups of students on self-improvement. Does it help? She is convinced it does. How many? Ms. Shelton thinks that's beside the point.

"IF I CAN reach just one kid in an audience of 200, then I've done something worthwhile," she says, "and I know I reach a lot more than that."

One of the Houston newspapers ran an article on Ms. Shelton which caught the eye of McDonald's Corp. officials, who asked her to counsel minority employees of their franchises in ghetto areas. She has been doing that for several years.

Later, she and some of her students were filmed for a national television news show, which resulted in Ms. Shelton's developing a self-improvement curriculum for the Portland, Ore., school system, a program which is still being used.

What's next for the volunteer teacher? "I might do some more consulting work and I'm going to keep flying because I love the job. But one thing for sure, I'm going to continue working with the kids because that's the most important thing I can do."

"You have to remember that the things most people take for granted — like basic grooming and knowing how to use a butter knife — are new for many ghetto kids. They have to learn that the way they're used to acting and looking often isn't acceptable in the outside world. I made sure my brothers and sisters knew how to act and they tell me I was kind of a bossy big sister sometimes...I guess I still am."

Soon telephones will get the check and pay the bills

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — When it's time to pay their bills, I. J. and Charlotte Kraft pick up their push-button telephone, call a computer, and let it do the job.

The day is fast approaching when most Americans will be able to get their wages, buy their groceries and pay all their bills without ever handling cash or writing and receiving checks, computer industry leaders agree. Instead, they'll use their pushbutton telephones as computer terminals.

The Krafts, retirees who live in Omaha but often go to a warmer climate in the winter, are pioneers among the more than 750,000 persons in this country now using the phone to let their fingers do the paying. Altogether, some 300 financial institutions are now offering some type of telephone bill-paying service.

Telephone bill-paying is nearly seven years old — but much of the time in the early years was spent getting the system to function smoothly.

THE AMERICAN BANKER, a newspaper that serves the U.S. financial industry, says the first attempt to sell telephone bill-paying to the public took place in Seattle and was an outright failure, perhaps because it required use of a push-button telephone and only a limited number were in use in 1973. The market was simply too small.

A year later, a new version that could be used with either rotary or push-button telephones triggered an expansion of the concept into other cities.

Telephone bill-paying is based on a simple notion: replace checks and cash with the transfer of information. It not only does away with the billions of dollars of cash and mounting piles of checks exchanged daily, it also saves a lot of human energy, industry officials point out.

It's still difficult to make a change in one's usual way of doing things, admits Mrs. Kraft, who says at first she balked at the idea of paying bills by remote control.

"TURNED OUT, IT was not as complicated as I thought," she adds. "For one thing, I found out I could start with just a few creditors, then add the rest of them gradually. It was never a really difficult adjustment."

Survival a battle here

TLACOLULA, Mexico (AP) — On a good day, Aureliano Rodriguez makes and sells eight colorful serapes for 90 cents each. Inflation-hiked wool costs leave him with about a dime profit on each, and from the total, less than a dollar, he struggles to feed himself and six others.

Rodriguez, 27, lives in this rugged mountainous area about 30 miles south of Oaxaca, which is about 300 miles south of Mexico City. Here the battle is not to keep up with the Joneses, it is to survive.

The short weaver is slim, as are his three children, wife, his grandmother and mother-in-law. They eat only corn and beans, and drink black coffee.

Both he and his wife work on the serapes. They begin by candlelight at 3 a.m. because it is too hot to work after midday in their tiny, crowded adobe home. There are no windows, and the children sleep on the floor with the dogs.

In one corner of the 10- by 13-foot main room is a kitchen with a wood stove, in another is the loom, in a third is a stack of unshocked corn and in the fourth corner is the marital bed. In the dwelling's smaller room sleep the grandmother and mother-in-law. They sleep with the turkeys. The pigs are outside alone.

He said the pigs signify the wealth of the family.

"I sold one pig cheaply, for 1,000 pesos ($45), but I needed the money to pay my bill at the store. If I don't pay, there will be no credit, and without credit, no food. I sell the turkey eggs to buy pencils and notebooks for my children's classes. I want my children to learn and advance and not have to suffer as we all are now," Rodriguez said.

About 2,000 people live around here, and if they have money to shop, they spend it in the one general store, but they are faced with sugar prices that have gone from nine cents to 70 cents per kilo. During the same period, beans have tripled in price.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just received a very puzzling invitation from the daughter of friends we have known for many years, and we don't know what to make of it.

It reads: "Join us in celebrating a festival of love and witness the commitment of oneness between Junie and Lenny, to take place under the stars in the presence of those they love and those who love them. Fruit, cheese and wine will be served."

Abby, we haven't seen Junie since her first communion, and we have never met Lenny.

The location of this event is a public park, and a response is requested.

What do you make of this? No mention of "marriage" or a clergyman is made. Exactly what is a "festival of love and the commitment of oneness"?

It sounds to us as though they are formalizing a living-together arrangement. We think we should go as a gesture of friendship to Junie's parents. But is a wedding gift in order? — NOT WITH IT IN YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR NOT WITH IT: It is obviously not your average traditional wedding. It sounds more like a do-it-yourself exchange of vows without benefit of clergy. And yes, a gift is in order.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother recently remarried after having been a widow for 11 years. She is a dear, sweet woman, and I couldn't love my own mother more.

She and her new husband visited us last Easter, and during the evening he made me a little uncomfortable just by the way he kept looking at me. He followed me into the kitchen once and said he wanted to give me a little kiss. I gave him my cheek but he grabbed me and said, "No, not THAT kind..." Then he tried to kiss me on the mouth. I got away from him and kept my distance all evening.

Now he calls me on the phone when my husband is at work, saying he wants to drive over to see me. I am afraid of him. I am 27 and he is 74.

Please tell me how to handle this. They live about 40 miles from us and we see them quite often. — AFRAID

DEAR AFRAID: Tell him that if he doesn't leave you alone, you will tell your husband about his aggressiveness. And if that doesn't cool him off, make good your threat.

DEAR ABBY: Many people have negative feelings about nursing homes, so we, the members of the Dear Abby Fan Club at the Marion County Convalescent Center in Marion, S.C., wish to express our views.

Our home is state-licensed, with a professional staff to care for our needs. There are nurses for our aches and pains, a doctor when necessary, a dietician for balanced meals, activities for entertainment and a social worker to solve our worldly problems. These professionals maintain our health, but more important, our independence and dignity. And thank God for the volunteers!

We no longer worry about the accidents that befall the elderly who live alone — or the other dangers, or the loneliness. We are not a burden to our families. Oh, yes, we were welcomed into our loved ones' homes, but we have lived a long time, Abby, and can see the extra work load, the expense. How would YOU like a babysitter when the family has plans?

Without 'chop,' Taiwan men lost

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — In Taiwan a man cannot get married, divorced, buy a house, borrow money — in fact, do just about anything — without his "chop," or personal seal.

Chop carving — the engraving of intricate Chinese characters on fine stone, ivory or jade — is an art in itself.

Take Wang-wang Sun. In his 53 years as a master chop carver, Wang estimates he has engraved 170,000 animated Chinese characters and cut more than 30,000 chops for government officials and dignitaries.

The balding, sharp-eyed Wang, 77, however, says he carves "only for the best." Past clients, include President Chiang Kai-shek and Vice President Shieh Tung-ming, among others.

Prices can be high, as much as 100,000 Taiwan dollars (almost $2,300 U.S.) for a single seal. But Wang, in an interview, said it's not really the money that counts.

Wang, proud of being a fussy worker, says he has done some chops for free, but once turned down an offer of $13,000 to do a chop because he didn't like the sound of the man's name.

"I have three conditions for doing a chop," he said. "I must like the person I'm doing it for. The name must be a good one, and the quality of the stone must be high."

Everyone, from the president down to the humblest noodle vendor, owns at least one seal. Many own more than one, and each has a specific purpose.

Size, shape and material cover a wide range. Popular designs are chops designed as chickens, tree roots or bamboo, but always flattened on the bottom so that the owner can apply the device to vermilion ink that leaves an imprint of the person's name.

Since chops have the same legal validity as signatures, they are closely guarded and highly prized possessions. The custom originated in China thousands of years ago and is now practiced in many Asian countries.

Ho Hao-tien, director of the National Palace Museum where the Nationalist Chinese government exhibits ancient Chinese art, calls Wang "clearly the best of his time."

Wang has taken on a few students to carry on the traditional craft. "I could only work with a few, only with the best," he said.

BORDEN, N. MIDLAND, TX

Losing 76 pounds changed the way I cook — and look!

Darla Overstreet can laugh about it now. "My problem area was everywhere," she says. "I'm five feet five, and do you believe I once weighed 204 pounds? I love to cook and to eat, but I knew I needed to do something about my weight. When I saw the Pat Walker's ads with the before and after stories, I thought...well, maybe I could do that, too."

No-sweat exercise gets results

Darla discovered that the Pat Walker's program is a unique combination of passive exercise and counseling about good eating habits. The Symmetricon passive exercise unit tones and firms your figure while you lie back and relax. It's so gentle that you can wear your street clothes. But it really works. Now Darla weighs just 128 pounds, and her dress size has gone from 20 to 10.

Pat Walker's: your private place

If you think losing weight means putting on a revealing leotard and doing difficult exercises with other women — welcome to Pat Walker's! Here, your passive exercise treatments and counseling sessions are completely private. No one knows your secrets except you and the Pat Walker's professionals.

Darla Overstreet has learned a lot about cooking and eating sensibly. And she's learned what it's like to get compliments, too — both for her and her new looks. Now it's your turn to be a success. Make an appointment for a free, no-obligation consultation at Pat Walker's. DEATHS

John B. Lallande

John B. Lallande, 64, of 2901 Aurora Lane, died Sunday in a Tulsa, Okla., hospital following a heart attack. He was in Tulsa on business when he became ill.

Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. today in the Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home Chapel. Mass will be said at 3 p.m. Tuesday in St. Ann's Catholic Church with the Rev. Clifford Blackburn, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Lallande was born Feb. 7, 1916, in New Iberia, La., and grew up there. He was graduated from Louisiana State University with a degree in forestry. He went to work for The Texas Co. — Texaco — in 1943 and worked for the major oil company for 23 years. In 1966, he joined Williams Brothers Engineering Co.

He was married to Rubye Wilkes on March 2, 1940, in Jackson, Miss., and moved to Midland in 1959 from Fort Worth.

He was a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church and was a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Survivors include his wife; a son, John B. Lallande of Topeka, Kan.; two daughters, Denise Brown and Annette Lallande, both of Midland; three brothers, Louis Lallande and George Lallande, both of New Iberia, La.; and Joseph Lallande of Atlanta, Ga.; four sisters, Aline Bonin of Lafayette, La., Lorraine de Gravelle of Jeanerette, La., and Gladys Sealy and Mary Alice Lellande, both of New Iberia, La.; and six grandchildren.

Bessie Mansell

Mrs. T.W. (Bessie M.) Mansell, 74, 1501 S. Lorraine St., died Sunday in a Midland hospital after a brief illness.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel with B.J. Armstrong of Odessa officiating. Burial will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Cedar Hill Cemetery at Abilene.

Mrs. Mansell was born Aug. 12, 1905, in Grand Prairie. As an infant she moved to Westbrook in Mitchell County. She was married to Thomas W. Mansell in Abilene. They lived in Abilene from 1928 to 1947 when they moved to Midland.

Survivors include her husband; five sisters, Ethel Lightfoot, Adeline Widner and Zeldia Armstrong, all of Abilene, Myrtle Cline of Odessa and Mildred Gibson of Joshua.

Pallbearers will be A. Brooks, M.E. George, S. Thornhill, J.G. McLeroy, V. Casbeer and C. Richardson.

Honorary pallbearer will be S. Cox, L. Adams and W. Blankenship.

Pallbearers were to be Jerry Glover, Jim Underwood, J.O. Bryan, Jerry Criner, Alvin Worthy and Short Pipkin.

Ancient town exhumed from grave beneath receding Lake Falcon

OLD GUERRERO, Texas (AP) — This 230-year-old town, regarded as the birthplace of modern civilization along the current Texas-Mexico border, has been resurrected from its watery grave by the drought.

For ranchers, farmers and just plain folks, the present drought offers precious few bright spots, with cattle dropping dead, crops burnt to a crisp and persons young and old seeking shelter from the relentless sun.

But as the Rio Grande slows to a trickle and the waters of Lake Falcon recede to a fraction of their usual depth, the Roman-like ruins and rubble of the once bustling border town again have emerged and provide photographers and history buffs a glimpse of a bygone era.

The old town was established in 1750, five years before Laredo became a town upstream. It is situated on the banks of the Salado River, a mile or two from the course of the Rio Grande.

For a century, Guerrero was the pre-eminent center of commerce on the border for an area that extended from the Gulf of Mexico to El Paso.

In its heyday, the town boasted a population of perhaps 10,000 permanent residents and formed the wellspring from which descended many families who now populate nearby Laredo — now regarded as the busiest commercial port of entry along the 1,950-mile border separating the United States and Mexico.

Guerrero led Laredo in every category until the early 1880s when two rail lines converged at Laredo and it eclipsed the older city as a center of trade.

Oldtimers say this is not the first time Guerrero has been left high and dry by the lower lake levels. At least four times since Falcon Lake was built and swallowed the town in 1954, the plaza and church of Guerrero have re-emerged and the piles of stone rubble that surround the landmarks have been left to dry in the sun.

Sadly for those who are enjoying the town's most recent resurrection, the periodic re-emergence of the ruins may prove the downfall of the once-proud old city, because the receding waters give vandals and treasure hunters a chance to do their worst.

Throughout the six to seven acres of ruins, the handiwork of scavengers is evident. Not satisfied with a mere souvenir of the city, the vandals usually take the best and most fragile of the artifacts.

Old lintel posts, cut from oak or mesquite dating from the Spanish conquest, have been snatched from their sockets above the doors and windows of the church facade. The keystones of the gracefully arched windows and passageways, hand carved from native stone and hand fitted to the arch, have been pulled from their niches, leaving a snaggle-toothed reminder of the scavengers' visit.

Two or three families still occupy a few of the buildings on the outskirts of the city, the part that stays above the water-line of Falcon Lake the year round. They cling to the old ways and are as much a part of the old settlement as the stones.

One family lives in a house that has been in continuous habitation since it was built on the first day of April in 1871. The date is proudly written across a hand-hewn rafter of the house and is a source of pride for the present residents.

In time, the rains will come again and the lake again will embrace the ruins of Old Guerrero, and some folks in the area say perhaps that is best.

Congressional Democrats begin hearings this week on 1981 income tax reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats, trying to take the tax cut issue away from Ronald Reagan and the Republicans, begin hearings this week to shape their own plan for reducing taxes in 1981.

Congress is back for a brief session between political conventions. Besides taxes, action also is scheduled this week on the Alaska lands bill, President Carter's jobs program for youths and a host of appropriation bills.

Democratic leaders quickly scheduled the tax cut hearings last month after Republicans began demanding immediate action on GOP presidential nominee Reagan's plan to cut taxes 10 percent across the board. Reagan called for a $36 billion cut effective Jan. 1.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd ordered Democrats who control the House and Senate tax-writing committees to prepare a tax cut plan by Sept. 3. Byrd said later he was afraid the Senate might have approved the Republican tax cut had he not promised a Democratic one.

Byrd said the Democrats' cut will be tailored on the basis of mid-year U.S. economy figures coming out this week.

The House Ways and Means Committee begins the tax-cut hearings Tuesday. Witnesses are to be Treasury Secretary G. William Miller and Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Senate Finance Committee begins its hearings Wednesday.

The Senate itself is likely to spend the week battling over an Alaska lands bill to set aside more than 100 million acres of that state for parks, wildlife refuges and other preserves.

The bill before the Senate would allow more development than a House bill supported by President Carter, such as oil and natural gas in the North and timber harvesting in the Southeast.

Some opponents, led by Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., say they will try to get a Senate bill closer to the House version.

The House will spend much of the week on the appropriation bills that keep the federal government running, a chore

Congress must complete before it can adjourn this year.

As usual for this time of year, Congress has not completed action on any of the 13 appropriation bills to finance the federal government during the 1981 fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1.

But the House hopes to approve six of them this week and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has said he wants the rest approved by the House before it recesses in two weeks for the Democratic National Convention.

The House also is scheduled to vote on President Carter's $2 billion proposal to coordinate federal youth job programs.

Carter's plan also calls for a new program to teach young people basic educational skills needed for jobs, such as reading and arithmetic.

Heat invades Northeast as other areas cool some

By DAVID GREEN
Associated Press Writer

Some New Yorkers were wishing they were in Dixie as the Deep South, which had been the heart of heat-wave country, cooled off and temperatures in the Northeast climbed past 100.

The death toll from the month-long hot weather continued to rise over the weekend, with at least 1,167 heat-related deaths reported by today, according to an unofficial tally compiled by The Associated Press.

Temperatures in North Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana were mostly in the high 80s and low 90s Sunday, welcome relief from the high 90s and 100s that predominated for weeks.

"I would say that for the most part, our heat wave is over with," said National Weather Service forecaster Bob Dietlein on conditions in Alabama. However, the National Weather Service in Georgia predicted a return to 100-plus readings, possibly by week's end.

The weather service forecast for the Southeast for today and Tuesday called for temperatures in the 80s and 90s with a chance of scattered showers. In the Northeast, it was a different story.

Sunday was the hottest July 20 in New York City on record, as the temperature hit 101. In Baltimore, the mercury climbed to 102 and in Newark, N.J., it hit 100.

In Philadelphia, where temperatures Sunday reached 95, a state of water emergency was declared as children and other residents turned on fire hydrants for relief from heat. Police said they received thousands of calls complaining of open fire hydrants and little or no water pressure in homes.

"The problem is citywide," said deputy Fire Chief Roger Ulshafer. "We have the fire department out on the street turning off hydrants, and police, too. But if we have a major fire in one of those areas (where water pressure is low), we're in trouble."

Temperatures were also scorching parts of the Midwest which have been sizzling since the heat-wave began June 22.

Twenty-three heat-related deaths were reported Sunday in Kansas City, Mo. That brought the total for the city to 111, making it the hardest-hit city in the country. The statewide total was 235, which led the total for states.

National Guard troops drove around Kansas City passing out fans to residents without air conditioners.

In St. Louis, National Guardsmen went door-to-door looking for elderly people suffering from the heat.

In Oklahoma, state residents prayed for rain at the urging of Gov. George Nigh. Dr. Bailey Smith, pastor of the First Southern Baptist Church in Del City, said 3,000 people ended a three-week religious crusade by joining fans and praying for rain.

In Houston, it was too hot even to swim. More than 100 children who entered a neighborhood swim meet Saturday had to be treated for heat-related illnesses and the meet was halted.

In southern Texas, however, the heat was proving a boon for history buffs.

The heat has caused the waters of Lake Falcon — part of the Rio Grande River — to recede and expose the ruins of Old Guerrero. The old town was established in 1750, five years before Laredo, which is upstream. In its heyday, the town boasted a population of 10,000.

The town was swallowed when Lake Falcon was created in 1954.

Heat gets to swimmers

100 treated at Houston meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Relentless Texas heat turned a weekend frolic into a near-disaster when more than 100 children at a private, neighborhood swim meet had to be treated for heat-related illnesses.

"We had a mini-disaster out there," said Joe Mason of the Harris County Emergency Corps. He said 20 emergency medical personnel set up an aid station Saturday to treat the stricken swimmers.

"We treated between 95 and 100 people for heat exhaustion, heat cramps and shock before the meet directors decided to cancel the meet,"

he said. Nearly all of those treated were swimmers, Mason said.

Four of the children were taken to Houston Northwest Medical Center where they were treated and released, a hospital spokesperson said.

Mason said the meet began at 8 a.m. and was cancelled about 4 p.m. at a pool in a private subdivision just outside Houston.

The meet was sponsored by the Northwest Park Region 6 Aquatic Association. About 500 children between the ages of 9 and 17 were entered.

"We had a few people we treated before noon," Mason said, "then they really started coming in as the temperature climbed."

The official high temperature Saturday was 96, but the thermometer climbed to 104 in some sections of town.

Mason said off-duty ambulance personnel were summoned and the pool's clubhouse was converted into a makeshift emergency room for the victims.

"We had one-to-one care in one area for the more serious cases," he said, "and then a place for the less severe cases and an area for people who were recovering."

Several members of the crowd watching the meet brought ice, blankets and fans to help treat the victims and a registered nurse volunteered her services, Mason said.

"Some of these people were severely prostrated," he said. "We were going constantly. One of our EMT workers was also treated for heat cramps."

Britain calls for end of commercial whaling

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Britain today called for an end to commercial whaling in a bid to save whales from extinction.

But while urging the ban, the British government stated that it recognized the need of Alaskan Eskimos to continue hunting the bowhead whale for their subsistence although this species is considered among the most endangered in the world.

The appeal came at the inaugural session of the 24-nation International Whaling Commission which is meeting in this English south coast resort for its 32nd annual session to set whaling quotas for the coming year. Britain, where the IWC's Cambridge headquarters is located, is the host country.

"Last year the United Kingdom Government decided to support a ban on all commercial whaling. We stand firm on this policy," Jerry Wiggin, junior minister at the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, said in his speech of welcome.

"This would allow a thorough reassessment of whale numbers and their biology, where considerable uncertainty remains, and to enable humane killing methods to be developed."

He said a ban for proper conservation of the whale stock was necessary and Britain would support it.

"It is wrong that man should inflict unnecessary pain and cruelty to animals with which he shares the earth... We consider the 'cold grenade harpoon' to be a particularly inhumane method and we will, therefore, support a ban on its use in all commercial applications."

Wiggin said of the Alaskan Eskimos: "You will also be considering subsistence whaling operations. The most difficult and controversial is the Alaskan bowhead hunt. The United Kingdom Government recognizes that special considerations apply to subsistence whaling by Eskimos and similar peoples to meet their nutritional and cultural requirements."

"While we believe that such activities should be allowed to continue under very strict control, it must be recognized that some of the species subject to exploitation in this way are amongst the most endangered of all whales."

"We therefore believe that every effort should be made to find alternative means of satisfying the subsistence requirements of such peoples, so as to reduce their reliance upon endangered whales."

"If this is not done as a matter of urgency, there is the serious risk that the Commission will be held responsible for the first extinction of a whale species in modern times..."

He told the conference that, on Britain's initiative, the European Economic Community had agreed in principle that a ban on the import of whale products, and not only of sperm whales, should be introduced by Jan. 1, 1982.

"And clearly such a ban introduced by a group of nations working together is more effective than a ban by one nation alone," the minister concluded.

But Japan and the Soviet Union, the world's largest whale catching nations, are determined to resist conservationist pressures for a total ban on commercial whaling.

The All-Japan Seamen's Union said in a statement: "Japanese people and whalers have the right to maintain their culture and traditions. Dietary habits are aspects of specific cultures and traditions and these naturally differ by country."

"Trying to enforce value judgments on others unilaterally is tantamount to imperialism or, at worst, fascism."

The Japanese, like some Alaskan Eskimos, argue that they have eaten whale meat for thousands of years. They also argue that poor Japanese living in coastal areas cannot afford beef, and their only cheap source of meat protein is whalemeat.

Plant explosion kills six

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Six people were killed during experiments with highly volatile explosives at a military manufacturing plant in central Israel, the Defense Ministry said today.

A ministry spokesman said the explosion was accidental, and that an investigation has begun.

No other details were given.

An explosion rocked an army factory in Ramat Hasharon, north of Tel Aviv, two years ago, but it caused no injuries.

White Sands fires apparently put out

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE (AP) — Two fires that had burned an estimated 3,000 acres of grass and brush on the White Sands Missile Range were extinguished by firefighters.

During clean-up operations Sunday, "firefighters had to go clear up to the top of San Andres Mountain to get to some of the hot spots," range spokesman Ed White said.

One of the fires in the mountains on the southwest edge of the range was started by a missile impact and the other by lightning, White said.

Both fires started Friday and were controlled Saturday.

No injuries were reported, officials said.

Winter weather prevails in Italy

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — Snow fell in the Dolomites overnight and temperatures plunged to 12 degrees in what the weather bureau called the worst atmospheric conditions recorded in July in 84 years.

Local residents donned winter clothing and turned on their heaters as the mercury fell to 39 degrees Fahrenheit.

Up to 8 inches of snow was reported above 6,000 feet in some mountain ranges while in others it rained.

Herdsmen were having difficulty finding grazing land for their cattle because of the poor conditions.

Winds help firefighters slow 1,000-acre Idaho bushfire

By The Associated Press

A 1,000-acre range fire that began on Idaho National Engineering Laboratory land was contained after a decline in winds that had blown the blaze away from the nuclear reactor test site, officials said early today.

Meanwhile, in California, fire officials speculated that arson may have been the cause of a brush fire that charred more than 3,720 acres of dry timberland in the northern San Ysidro Mountains.

The fire at the U.S. Department of Energy testing facility in Idaho was believed started by lightning Friday night. Bill Casey, Bureau of Land Management district fire management officer, said that 75 BLM and Department of Energy firefighters contained the fire Sunday after winds dropped from 18 mph to less than 10 mph. The decline allowed firefighters to complete a fire line.

Fire officials had said that aerial observation showed a fire of 2,000 acres, but the high estimate was due to a lot of smoke and cut in half Sunday, officials said.

Fire officials said the blaze was being blown away from the INEL and was also burning on BLM property. The closest INEL facility was 15 miles to the north.

Don't Blame Your Age For Poor Hearing

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 42299, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Effort to recover 'windfall' cash from Texaco to be announced

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — An effort to recover a purported $373 million "windfall" from Texaco Inc. for consumers of natural gas will be announced today by Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and a coalition of unions and consumer and energy organizations.

They will ask the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to modify a settlement that has let the oil company retain the windfall, which resulted from Texaco's unlawful diversion of 206 billion cubic feet of gas from public lands to its own use.

The diversion, a violation of the Natural Gas Act, occurred over an 11-year period and deprived interstate customers of the equivalent of a year's supply of gas for 1.7 million homes.

"Wrongdoers should not be allowed to profit from their own wrongdoing," Metzenbaum said. "But that is exactly what happened" under the settlement, which was initially approved in 1977 by the Federal Power Commission and made final in 1978 by FERC, its successor.

While Texaco was taking the gas from leased federal lands in offshore Louisiana for its refinery in Port Arthur, Texas, some consumers in many areas of the nation "were literally freezing because this gas was unavailable in the interstate market," Metzenbaum said.

The agencies ordered Texaco to "pay back" the diverted gas with replacement fuel from non-federal lands, charging the affected interstate pipelines the going national rates.

The settlement became effective after Congress enacted a 1978 law sharply raising gas prices. As a result, Texaco was enabled to sell the "pay back" gas at prices several times higher than had prevailed in the diversion period.

This produced the so-called windfall, which has been put by experts consulted by The Washington Post at $373 million, but has been estimated by others at between $300 million and $400 million.

"FERC has not exhibited any inclination to do anything about it, so our only recourse is to petition to modify this settlement and seek some justice for consumers who have had to foot this bill," Metzenbaum said.

Under the coalition proposal, FERC would modify the settlement to lower gas bills for millions of consumers by providing the replacement 206 billion cubic feet "at prices low enough to deprive Texaco of the profits resulting from its unlawful diversion . . ."

The coalition includes the United Auto Workers, the United Steelworkers, the International Association of Machinists, the Service Employees International Union, the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition, the Consumers Energy Council of America, Energy Action, Consumers Union, the Ohio Public Interest Campaign, the New York State Consumer Protection Board and the Office of Consumers' Counsel.

Dorland takes potential test at Howard County discovery

D. L. Dorland No. 1 M. M. Edwards "G," a wildcat 12 miles southeast of Coahoma in Howard County, has been completed as a flowing discovery through perforations from 8,821 to 8,832 feet.

The operator reported a daily potential of 150 barrels of 48-gravity oil and 15 barrels of water, through a 1/4-inch choke. The gas-oil ratio is too small to measure.

The total depth is 8,950 feet, and 4.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

The pay was topped at 8,820 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,372 feet.

The pay was acidized with 250 gallons.

Location is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 30, block 30, T-1-S, T&P survey.

No formation tops were reported on the completion form filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas' Dis-

HE&WT survey.

IRION RE-ENTRY
 Texas Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland will re-enter and deepen as a wildcat the former R. L. Burns Corp. of Dallas No. 1-24 Jones, a 6,550-foot failure in Irion County, 14 miles south of Mertzon.

Texas Oil & Gas will deepen the project to 6,600 feet as the No. 4 Jones "K."

It was abandoned by Burns in May 1976.

Location is 1,348 feet from south and 1,316 feet from west lines of section 24, block 20, H&TC survey.

TOM GREEN PROJECT
 Houston Oil & Minerals Corp., operating from Midland, announced location for a 6,400-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, 3.5 miles southwest of Christoval.

It is No. 6 Hoblit Jacobs and others, 2,570 feet from south and 998 feet from east lines of section 10, block 22, H&TC survey.

It is 1,200 feet southeast of Houston Oil & Minerals No. 1 Hoblit Jacobs et al, an active wildcat which is being held "tight."

Ground elevation at the new drillsite is 2,190 feet.

STERLING PRODUCER
 Wagner & Brown of Midland No. 3-4 Glass "K" has been completed in the Conger (Pennsylvanian) field of Sterling County.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 250 barrels of 46.2-gravity oil and 60 barrels of water, through perforations from 7,623 to 8,082 feet. The pay was fractured with 135,000 gallons.

Total depth is 8,300 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is cemented at 8,276 feet and hole is plugged back to 8,253 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 4, block 31, T&P survey and 14 miles southwest of Sterling City.

LEA GAS WELL
 The Superior Oil Co., operating from Midland, No. 2 Government Lease has been completed in the Bell Lake, South (Morrow gas) field of Lea County, 20 miles northwest of Jal.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 5,252,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, natural, through perforations from 14,401 to 14,446 feet.

Total depth is 14,696 feet and plugged back depth is 15,756 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,800 feet from west lines of section 18-24s-34e.

Gulf Oil completes well to reopen Wolfcamp production in Crane field

Gulf Oil Corp. completed its No. 9-G McElroy Ranch Co. to reopen Wolfcamp production in the Dune, East (Canyon) field of Crane County, eight miles north of Crane.

The reopener completed for a daily flowing potential of 239 barrels of 41.8-gravity oil and 16 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 1,121-1.

The flow was gauged through a 3/4-inch choke and was from pay behind casing perforations from 7,696 to 7,725 feet which had been acidized with 4,100 gallons.

A re-entry of a former Devonian and Ellenburger producer in the McElroy, North multipay field, the well is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 18, block 42, T-5-N, T&P survey. It is at plugged back depth of 7,792 feet. The total depth is 12,256 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 18, block 42, T-5-N, T&P survey.

Wolfcamp oil production was reopened in the Sugg-Irion (Wolfcamp and Wichita-Albany oil) pool of Irion County five miles northwest of Mertzon with completion of John S. Goodrich of Midland No. 1 Van Keuren.

The well finished for a daily pumping potential of 11 barrels of 38-gravity oil and 3 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,060 to 6,158 feet after 5,000 gallons of acid.

A re-entry project, the well originally was the Clear Fork opener in the Mertzon multipay field.

Total depth is 8,171 feet and plugged back depth is 6,230 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 24, block 1, H&TC survey.

TOM GREEN OPENER
 Lower Canyon gas production was opened in the R.L.G. field of Tom Green County with completion of Pro Oil of Dallas No. 1 Glass, 5/8 mile northwest of the pool's Canyon oil discovery.

It is three miles west of Miles.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,055,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with a gas-liquid ratio of 132,176-1. Gravity of the condensate is 62 degrees.

Completion was through perforations from 4,082 to 4,104 feet after a 1,500-gallon mud-acid wash.

The following tops were called on ground elevation of 1,757 feet: Palo Pinto, 3,912; Canyon, 4,082, and Strawn, 4,280 feet.

The total depth is 4,371 feet, and 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

Location is 554 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of L. Halfin survey No. 66 (shows T&NO No. 66 on some maps.)

The wellsite is one location south of the depleted Mary Lib (Strawn gas) field.

The R.L.G. field has one Canyon oil producer. It is Energy Resources Inc. of San Angelo No. 1 Theima Perry. It was completed in October 1979.

REEVES RE-ENTRY
 Fred M. Newman Inc. of Midland announced plans to re-enter a Bell Canyon producer in Reeves County and deepen it to 6,000 feet for tests as a wildcat.

The project is No. 3 Rape, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 24, block C-1, psi survey and 20 miles southeast of Pecos.

It is one location southwest of the Delaware discovery in the Cable (Wolfcamp and Delaware field). It was completed in the Bell Canyon at 5,200 feet.

ANDREWS WILDCAT
 Discovery Operating Co. of Midland spotted location for a 9,000-foot wildcat in Andrews County in the Three-Bar, Martin and Martin, West field areas.

The prospector, No. 1-11-B University, is one location northwest of Discovery No. 2-11-B University.

Drillsite for the new project is 3,730 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 3, block 11, University Lands survey.

No. 2-11-B University originally was staked as No. 1-11-B University in the same section.

COKE EXPLORER
 Blanks Energy Corp. of Midland announced plans to re-enter a project in Coke County, 15 miles southwest of Robert Lee, and test it as a wildcat.

It is the former Jones & Stasney and others No. 1 M. A. Stewart, a 7,562-foot wildcat failure.

The project will be operated by Blanks Energy as No. 1 Amerada-Stewart.

Test site is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 22, block W, T&P survey.

It will be drilled out to 7,100 feet.

The location is 32 5/8 miles southeast of the Ray (Strawn oil) pool which has one well and 12 miles northwest of the Higgins Ranch field.

New Mexico discoveries announced; field wells potentialed, locations set

Operators have announced discoveries in Chaves and Lea counties in southeast New Mexico, field completions in Chaves, Eddy and Lea, and field locations in Eddy and Lea.

CHAVES OPENER
 Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., No. 1 Iwanowski-Federal "MM" was completed as an Abo gas discovery 30 miles west of Boaz in Chaves County.

The strike potentialed for a daily flow of 360,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 3,404 to 3,456 feet.

Total depth is 5,523 feet, and 5.5-inch casing is set at 5,040 feet.

The wellsite is eight miles southwest of an undesignated Abo gas opener and 1,780 feet from north and 560 feet from east lines of section 34-6s-24e.

LEA STRIKE
 Conoco Inc., operating from Midland completed its No. 5 Wells "B-1" in Lea County to reopen Ellenburger production in the Custer field. The well also was completed as the second Devonian well in the field.

The dual producer completed from the Ellenburger for a daily flow of 3,151,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 20/64-inch choke and perforations from 12,456 to 12,826 feet.

It is 1.5 miles southeast of the original Ellenburger opener.

From the Devonian, it finished for a daily flow of 5,646,000 cubic feet of gas and 84 barrels of condensate, through a 20/64-inch choke and perforations from 9,756 to 9,776 feet. It is 1 3/4 mile southeast of the field's other Devonian gas-condensate well.

Wellsite is 1,650 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 1-25s-36e and three miles southwest of Jal.

CHAVES FIELD WELLS
 Fred Pool Drilling Co. of Roswell, N.M., No. 1 Sam has been completed 1/2 mile north of the Chisum, East (San Andres) field of Chaves County, 19 miles northeast of Dexter.

On 24-hour potential test, through San Andres perforations from 2,234 to 2,270 feet, the well finished on the pump for 3 barrels of oil, no water. Gravity and gas-oil ratio were not reported.

The pay was acidized with 6,000 gallons.

Total depth is 2,342 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 2,340 feet.

Wellsite is 330 feet from south and east lines of section 4-11s-28e.

The Sand Ranch (Morrow gas) field of Chaves County gained a new well with completion of MGF Oil Corp.'s

Midland No. 1 Rutter-Federal.

Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow of 333,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through Morrow perforations from 9,180 to 9,193 feet. The pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Total depth is 9,760 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is set one foot off bottom and hole is plugged back to 9,230 feet.

The Morrow was topped at 9,180 feet on ground elevation of 3,974 feet.

Other tops include the Wolfcamp, 7,110; Canyon, 8,100, and Strawn, 8,360 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 14-10s-29e.

EDDY PRODUCERS
 Holly Energy Inc. of Artesia, N.M., No. 1-30 State Communized has been completed as a long extension to the Empire (Morrow) field of Eddy County, 14 miles west of Loco Hills.

Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,116,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 9,761 to 9,783 feet. The gas-liquid ratio is 305-1.

The pay was fractured with 24,000 gallons.

Total depth is 10,020 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is cemented at 10,014 feet and hole is plugged back to 9,974 feet.

The operator reported the following tops on ground elevation of 3,565 feet: Yats, 253; Queen, 1,086; San Andres, 1,800; Glorieta, 3,192; Paddock, 3,360; Drinkard, 4,790; Abo, 5,300; Pennsylvanian, 7,900; Strawn, 8,935, and Atoka, 9,415 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from north and 840 feet from east lines of section 30-17s-28e.

J. M. Huber Corp. of Midland No. 1-A Featherstone-McCoy has been completed in the Yarrow (Delaware) field of Eddy County, seven miles southwest of Otis.

Scheduled as a re-entry wildcat, the project finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 911,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through Delaware perforations from 2,585 to 2,594 feet. The pay was fractured with 2,436 gallons.

Total depth is 2,682 feet and plugged back depth is 2,638 feet.

The Delaware sand was topped at 1,904 feet on ground elevation of 3,299 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from north and 835 feet from east lines of section 22-23s-26e.

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia completed its No. 2-EF Federal as a 2 1/8-mile southwest extension to the Permo-Pennsylvanian pay in the Richard Knob multipay field of Eddy County, eight miles southwest of Artesia.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 324,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with gravity and gas-liquid ratio unreported. The flow was through a 1/2-inch choke.

Completion was through perforations from 6,306 to 6,495 feet after a 3,000-gallon acid treatment and a 60,000-gallon fracture job.

The well also completed through Atoka-Morrow perforations from 7,790 to 8,873 feet for a daily flow of 288,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 1/2-inch choke. That zone was acidized with 2,250 gallons. Production will be commingled.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 31-17s-25e.

Yate Petroleum completed its No. 9 Jackson Estate "BY" as a 1 5/8-mile northwest extension to the Eagle Creek, East (Atoka-Morrow) field of Eddy County, four miles southwest of Artesia.

The operator reported a daily flow of 260,000 cubic feet of gas, based on a six-hour flow, through perforations from 7,824 to 7,852 feet. The zone was fractured with 30,000 gallons.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 990 feet from west lines of section 22-17s-25e.

EDDY FIELD TEST
 William N. Beach of Midland No. 1 Amoco-State has been spotted as a 1,750-foot project in the Red Lake, East (Queen) field of Eddy County, 10 miles northwest of Loco Hills.

Location is 2,310 feet from south and 2,287 feet from west lines of section 25-16s-28e. Ground elevation is 3,580 feet.

LEA LOCATIONS
 Elk Oil Co. of Roswell No. 5 N. E. Kennitz is to be drilled as a 13,600-foot project in the Kennitz multipay area of Lea County, eight miles southwest of Lovington.

The project is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 23-16s-34e.

Houston DADS post smashing Allison WT victory

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Sitting on a mile-high pile of points after Saturday's second day of the Allison West Texas Invitational Swim Meet, the powerful DADS Club of Houston probably could've laid back Sunday and still coasted to victory in the thirty-third version of the prestigious event.

That wasn't the case, however, as the 47-member squad stepped on the gas Sunday at Alamo Park pool and cruised to a 1202½-975 victory over the Hurricanes of Miami, Fla.

And leading the way for DADS was durable Susan Nolen, who claimed three victories — 1,500 freestyle, 100 backstroke and 200 individual medley — and was top point gainer with 71 in girls' 13-14.

Five other swimmers, including four from the Hurricanes — bagged a pair of events each and one pool record and two new West Texas standards were established. Also, there were seven reportable top times produced.

For the City of Midland Swim Team, third in the team race with 238 points, Andrea Freeman notched the team's second title of the meet with an 18:24.16 victory in the rugged girls' senior 1,500 freestyle.

But the day really belonged to DADS. And Bill Lavine, one of the team's coaches, liked what he saw. "I think I was pleased with the team as a whole," he said. "We pulled together a lot better today than we did Friday. I think the kids are happy and we look forward to doing this meet every year because there's more to swimming than winning a meet. I always bill this meet as a place to get good times and have a good time."

Certainly, the crew must've enjoyed the victory. But Lavine, in his third year with the team which won the 1978 Allison championship, said he wasn't exactly sleeping soundly — even before the meet began. "I had some apprehension," he said, "when I heard El Monte (California, the defending meet kingpins who didn't come) and the Hurricanes were going to be here. I heard the Hurricanes were going to bring a lot of people, but they didn't. Which was lucky for us, and I guess, unfortunate for them."

"After the first day or so," he continued, "I felt confident."

It was the other way around for COM coach John Jordan. "My kids swam well in the finals," he said. "I thought we swam real well the first two days and swam tired the last day. On the whole, we did a pretty good job."

There was one point on which Jordan and Lavine agreed — the brand of competition at the meet.

"The first couple of places in each event were real solid," said Jordan, whose team goes to Odessa next weekend for an important pre-state meet tuneup. "But there was not quite the depth overall because of the numbers."

"I think," said Lavine, whose outfit is prepping for the Texas Age Group Championships at The Woodlands in Houston. "The competition we saw was pretty good. Overall, the depth of the competition, as far as numbers, wasn't up to last year's."

Still, there's no denying some of the individual performances were outstanding.

Nancy Douglas, representing Pine Crest Swim Club of Ft. Lauderdale, captured her specialty — girls' 10-under 50 butterfly — Sunday in a pool record and national reportable time of :33.89 that would've also eclipsed the state and West Texas marks. It was her seventh victory of the meet and she finished with the most points — 75 — of any competitor, despite running out of the money in her other two events.

Then, there was tiny Tony Weiss of the Hurricanes, who grabbed two victories Sunday to go with the three he won Saturday. Weiss took boys' 10-under 100 breaststroke and 50 fly and led the division with 71 points.

Also, Heather Hardy, of the Amarillo Aquatic Club, nabbed girls' 11-12 50 back in a West Texas record time of :33.47, and the 50 fly; Jayme Taylor of the Hurricanes earned boys' 13-14 victories in 100 back and 200 IM; Mike Bakowski of the Hurricanes notched boys' 13-14 wins in 1,500 free and 100 fly and paced the division with 72 points; and Mark Taylor of the Hurricanes, fashioning wins in boys' senior 100 fly and 100 back that helped him lead the division with 59 points.

Behind Freeman's win in the 1,500, COM received some sterling efforts. One came from Andrew Jordan, who got a West Texas record with a 2:47.96 second-place in boys' 13-14 200 breaststroke to go with fifth in the 100 back and sixth in the 200 IM. Another was the runner-up finish of the girls' 10-under 200 medley relay team and a second by Suzi Simpson in girls' 13-14 100 fly.

In girls' 10-under, Laura Morse was sixth in 100 breaststroke and eighth in 50 back while Michaela Hasek was third in the back and eighth in the breaststroke.

Sam Perry was seventh in boys' 11-12 50 back and eighth in the 50 fly.

Simpson paced COM swimmers in girls' 13-14, adding fifth in 100 back and eighth in 200 IM. Also, Beth Murrah was fifth in the 200 breaststroke.

Mike Seay collected a sixth in boys' 13-14 1,500 free and the COM medley relay was third.

Freeman added a sixth in the 200 breaststroke to her win while Lori Thompson pocketed fourth in the 200 IM, fifth in the 100 back and seventh in the 100 fly.

Mike Alvarado was fourth in boys' senior 1,500 free, to round out COM finishers.

Sid Glenn, a former COM swimmer, had another fine day, winning boys' senior 200 IM and placing in the 200 breaststroke and 100 fly.

Tammie Graef of DADS had 60 points to lead girls' senior while Gai Gathercole of Killarney Swim Club of Australia led girls' 11-12 with 74 and Taco Brink of DADS paced boys' 11-12 with 62.

Ted Giannoulas, better known as San Diego's Chicken, jumps for joy as weatherman promises no rain for his Cubs Stadium appearance Tuesday night. The Chicken will perform during the Shreveport-Midland game.

Cubs return home

Open 12-game stand

Winners of 10 of their last 14 games, the Midland Cubs return to Cubs Stadium at 7:30 p.m. tonight to open a 12-game homestand against the Shreveport Captains while hoping to widen their one-game edge over Amarillo's Gold Sox in the Texas League West Division race.

Highlight of the series with Shreveport will be Tuesday's belated appearance of the most famous fowl in baseball, the San Diego Chicken. Gates will open at 6:30 p.m. Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., promises this is one chicken who won't lay an egg.

The Chicken was to have appeared in Midland last month, but was the victim of a rainout, however, the weatherman predicts no rain is likely before Sept. 1.

Following Friday's Two-Bit Beer Night finale with Shreveport, the Cubs brace for a seven-game stand against the pitching potent Jackson Mets, starting Saturday night. The Cubs and Mets must make up two games rained out in Jackson last week since this is the final meeting between the clubs.

Manager Randy Hundley would like nothing better than a duplication of the last home stand when the Cubs swept five games from the San Antonio Dodgers, the first half West Division winners, while stringing together a six-game winning streak, their longest of the year.

It was during that stretch that Midland pitchers put together five straight route-going performances. Rain played havoc with the Cubs' pitching rotation. It has now been four days since they last played, but righthander Jon Periman, 9-6, probably will get the nod in tonight's series opener. Periman leads the team with two shutouts and seven complete games.

Tonight—Shreveport, 7:30 p.m., Cubs Stadium.

while Chico Alfaro is at .361. Randy La Vigne's 71 runs-batted-in tops the club while Tom Grant leads the team with 25 doubles. La Vigne also leads in stolen bases with seven.

BRUIN BREWIN—El Paso's Daryl Sconiers continues to lead the TL in batting with a .373, but Alfaro is in a challenging position as soon as he collects enough plate appearances to qualify for the title. Also in the running is Amarillo's Gary Ashby at .355...Mike Bishop, El Paso, leads in homes with 19 and La Vigne clings to his rbi lead, 69, according to most recent official averages....

Other shoe never drops as Rutherford wins Twin 200

By MIKE HARRIS
BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP)—Johnny Rutherford kept waiting for the other shoe to drop as he wheeled his yellow Jim Hall-prepared Chaparral to victory in a 200-mile championship car race at Michigan International Speedway.

He won going away, turning laps at between 181 and 189 mph and leaving his closest and fiercest competitor, Bobby Unser, 13.25 seconds behind at the behind.

Despite leading 71 of the 100 laps on the high-banked two-mile oval, the 42-year-old Texan had more to sweat about than the 90-degree temperatures and saturating humidity Sunday.

"The oil temperature gauge went berserk about halfway through the race, and I just wasn't sure what was going to happen," Rutherford said. "Since the oil pressure didn't drop, I thought it was probably a bad gauge."

"But I had to give some thought to what would happen if that thing opened up and dumped oil on the rear tires. It was a little scary."

The car's owner-designer, Midland's Jim Hall, and his crew remained unaware of the situation. Rutherford didn't want to worry them.

"I didn't tell them about it. I figured there wasn't anything they could do about it anyway, so why not just let them concentrate on the things they had to do to keep me near the front," Rutherford said.

Rutherford, who won for the second straight time and the fourth time in six Indy car races this season, proved over and over throughout the 200 miles that his ground-hugging "Yellow Submarine" was the fastest car on the track.

The lead changed hands several times on pit stops, with Unser — the winner of the other two champ car races this season — going on top when Rutherford made his final fuel stop on the 83rd lap.

Unser's teammate, Rick Mears, also moved ahead of Rutherford at that point, but both Roger Penske cars still had to pit for fuel.

They waited as long as they could. Unser finally came in on the 92nd lap and Mears, who led briefly, followed him in one lap later.

That left Rutherford ahead of Unser by 9.5 seconds, but he quickly built that to an insurmountable margin.

There was a spectacular violent accident early in the race. Tim Richmond, the Indy rookie of the year, veered up the first-turn banking and struck the wall.

The car split into three parts, with the engine flying across the track and into the infield. The 25-year-old Richmond casually stepped from the wreckage and walked away unharmed.

Rutherford averaged 148.515 mph as he won $21,850. Unser took home $16,150 for second place. Pancho Carter was third, followed by Mears and Gordon Johncock, one lap behind the leaders.

White, Dorsett check in as rookies rest

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Rookies rested and some veterans, led by quarterback Danny White and tailback Tony Dorsett, checked into their dorm rooms Sunday at a quiet Dallas Cowboys pre-season training camp.

"It was really an off day," said Greg Aiello, assistant publicity director. "The rookies had the day off and the veteran quarterbacks, receivers, running backs and centers reported in."

The veterans attended a meeting Sunday night and prepared to take physicals Monday, before their training camp grind begins in earnest. Veteran running back Preston Pearson, locked in a contract dispute with the Cowboys front office, was the only no-show Sunday, Aiello said.

The remaining veterans are to report to camp Thursday, he said.

Head coach Tom Landry gave the rookies a day off after their first full week of contact work ended Saturday with a controlled scrimmage.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Four records fall as Olympic Games begin

By The Associated Press

OLYMPICS—Four world records were set and one was tied as competition began in the XXII Summer Olympics, with the Soviet and East German teams dominating. The Soviet Union took the first medal of the Games when Aleksandr Melentev set a world record of 581 of a possible 600 targets in the free pistol event.

The East German women's medley relay swim team of Andrea Pollack, Rica Reinisch, Ute Geweniger and Caren Metschuck won the 4 x 100 meter gold medal in world record time of 4:06.67, bettering their previous world mark of 4:07.95.

Barbara Krause of East Germany set a world record in the 100-meter freestyle swimming semifinals with a time of 54.98 seconds, breaking her own mark of 55.41 set two years ago.

Soviet swimmer Sergei Pesenko won the gold medal in the men's 200-meter butterfly event. He was timed in 1:59.76. North Korean weightlifter Han Gyoung Si set a world record in the snatch division of the 52-kilo class by lifting 113 kilos. The old mark was 112.5 kilos set by Alexander Voronin of the Soviet Union. Si had to settle for a bronze medal because of total points, while Kanibek Osmonaliev of the Soviet Union took the gold.

The Soviet Union won the 100-kilometer cycling event, timed in 2 hours, 2 minutes, 21.70 seconds.

GOLF—Tom Watson fired a front-running

2-under-par 69 and won his third British Open Golf Championship by a comfortable four-stroke margin. Watson acquired the championship of the 1, 13 renewal of the world's oldest tournament with a 271 total, 13 strokes under par on the Muirfield links. He collected $59,250 for his victory while runner-up Lee Trevino earned $41,475. Ben Crenshaw was two strokes behind Trevino, with Jack Nicklaus and Carl Mason tied for fourth with 280 totals....

Jodie Mudd of Louisville became the second member of his family to win the U.S. Public Links golf championship, defeating Rick Gordon of Santa Clara, Calif., 8 and 7 at Staterline, Nev....

Rookie Scott Hoch led all the way and won the $200,000 Quad Cities Open by three strokes with a final round of 69 for a 14-under-par total of 266. Curtis Strange finished second, with a no-bogey round of 66 for 269, while three golfers were tied for third at 270....

Pat Bradley sank a 9-foot birdie putt on the final hole to capture first place in the LPGA $100,000 Greater Baltimore Classic at the Pine Ridge Golf Club. Bradley shot a 6-under par 67 final round for 206, the lowest 54-hole score in the 14-year history of the event.

TENNIS—Vitas Gerulaitis won the $75,000 Weissenhof Grand Prix tournament by defeating Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-2, 7-5, 6-2 in a match delayed five hours by rain... Fourth-seeded Eddie Dibbs beat third-seeded Gene Mayer 6-2, 6-1 and captured the $175,000 U.S. Pro Championships. Gene Mayer and Sandy Mayer defeated Hans Gildemeister and Andres Gomez 1-6, 6-4, 6-4 in the doubles final... Martina Navratilova beat second-seeded Greer Stevens 6-2, 6-1 to win the singles final, and Pam Shriver and Anne Smith won the doubles final by default over Stevens and Ann Kiyomura, who could not continue to play because of shin splints in both legs, in the women's professional tennis tournament at Jarry Park.

AUTO RACING—Don Prudhomme beat Gary Gabelich and Gary Fedewa in the $22,000 Pro Challenge at Michigan International Speedway. Prudhomme stayed near the front through the entire 20-mile race, finally taking the lead on the backstretch of the last lap.

HORSE RACING Sunday's Races—First Albert, $23.80, beat Amber Pass by a head to win the $274,700 Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park... Plugged Nickle, $7.20, beat Dr. Patches by three lengths to win the $50,000 Tom Fool Stakes at Belmont Park... All The More, $15.80, beat Commodore C. by 2½ lengths in the $58,000 William du Pont Jr. Handicap at Delaware Park... Mi Muchacha, $11, beat Light Fandango by a half length in the $27,100 Honeymoon Stakes at Louisiana Downs.

HARNESS RACING—Burgomeister, $10, and Netted, $2.80, each won a division of the $110,000 Founders Gold Cup Trot at Vernon Downs.

Tom Watson collects the spoils of victory in British Open from wife Linda.

Jays' Bonnell spoils reunion for Angels' Mark Clear

By The Associated Press

It has been five years and hundreds of games since Mark Clear and Barry Bonnell broke into the Philadelphia Phillies' organization. Their most recent reunion came this weekend, with Clear pitching for the California Angels and Bonnell batting for the Toronto Blue Jays.

Bonnell won both battles, slashing a ninth-inning single to clinch Saturday night's 5-4 Toronto triumph and adding a bases-loaded, 10th-inning single Sunday to spark the Blue Jays' 6-3 victory.

"They were opportune times for the Blue Jays and bad ones for Clear, who had not allowed a run in his last 15 innings over nine appearances before Sunday's 10th inning."

Al Woods and John Mayberry singled and Otto Velez walked to load the bases for Bonnell. The batter had hit a curve ball for the winner in Saturday night's contest, so he knew what to expect on Sunday.

"His curve ball hasn't been working for him like it usually does," said Bonnell, who watched for the 3-2 fast ball and ripped it past shortstop Bert Campaneris. "I was looking for hard stuff. You have to attract someone who can throw as hard as he does."

The Blue Jays tied it 3-3 in the ninth when Roy Howell singled, reached third Rick Miller let the ball roll to the wall, and scored on Damaso Garcia's single.

The Angels took a 3-2 lead in the fifth on Dickie Thon's RBI single. A run-scoring single by Velez and a homer by Woods produced the other Toronto runs. Joe Rudi's homer and Don Baylor's RBI double provided the first two California runs.

Rangers 7, Orioles 1

Jim Sundberg continued his torrid hitting against Baltimore pitching with a three-run homer, and the Rangers continued their mastery of the Orioles' Jim Palmer as Texas romped to victory.

Sundberg's homer was his seventh of the season and five of them have come against Baltimore. He has nine RBI in the nine games between the teams and a .443 average against them this year.

Lifetime, Sundberg — with a .254 career average — is hitting .306 against the Orioles. While Sundberg has feasted on Baltimore, Palmer has endured a three-year victory famine

Langford carried a one-hitter and a 5-0 lead into the ninth because of Oakland home runs by Rickey Henderson, Jim Essian and Jeff Newman. But he gave up an RBI single to Mike Hargrave and a grand slam to Toby Harrah to force the extra innings.

The complete game was Langford's 15th this season, tying him with teammate Matt Keough for the AL lead.

Twins 5, Red Sox 4

John Castino had a single, a double, and the game-winning homer in the seventh inning, lifting Minnesota over Boston. Castino had five hits in 10 at-bats in the three-game series and is 11-for-21, a .521 average against Boston this year. Mike Cabbage and Rick Sofield also homered for Minnesota, which battled from a 4-0 deficit in the 100-degree heat at Fenway Park.

Royals 14, Yankees 3

Frank White's three-run triple highlighted a six-run Kansas City and carried the Royals to their second lopsided triumph in the three-game series with New York. "Winning two of three from the Yankees doesn't make any difference," said Manager Jim Frey of the Royals, who won the opener of the series 13-1 before losing the second game 13-7. "These games with the Yankees don't mean anything later."

The Royals mounted their six-run second against Ron Guidry, 10-6, and added a five-run ninth against Ed

Figueroa.

Brewers 7, White Sox 6

Robin Yount drove in four runs, two of them with an eighth-inning double that delivered the winning run, as Milwaukee beat Chicago. Yount's double snapped a 5-5 tie before the White Sox pulled within 7-6 in the ninth on an RBI groundout by Wayne Nordhagen.

Tigres 5, Mariners 2

Al Cowens capped a four-run Detroit first inning with a two-run single, then added a sacrifice fly in the third to send Detroit past Seattle. Dan Schatzeder, starting his first game since June 19, helped hand Seattle starter Mike Parrott his 11th consecutive losing decision. Parrott is 1-11.

Cosmos defeat Sounders, 3-1

By The Associated Press

Giorgio Chinaglia scored one goal and added another to help the Cosmos to a 3-1 North American Soccer League victory over the Seattle Sounders Sunday night.

Chinaglia's goal was his 24th of the season and lifted him into first place in the NASL scoring race with 57 points. The Cosmos striker had come into the game trailing Seattle's Roger Davies by a point, but Davies was held scoreless in the match before being ejected along with Cosmos defender Jeff Durgan at 78:45 for unsportsmanlike conduct.

The Cosmos victory snapped a two-game losing streak and improved their record to 17-7.

Mighty Deck Three stretches unbeaten streak

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Unbeaten Mighty Deck Three, a good breaking quarterhorse with the stretch running power to match, captured the $587,500 Rainbow Futurity for 2-year-olds Sunday at Ruidoso Downs.

Mighty Deck Three won by 1 3/4 lengths over Clever Bug with Jet View third.

The victory was the seventh for Mighty Deck Three, purchased two months ago by Dan and Jolene Urschel of Canadian, Texas, but was the first major stakes victory for and established him as the favorite for the All American Futurity, the $1.2 million quarterhorse race which will be run Sept. 1 at the same southern New Mexico track.

The Rainbow victory was worth $203,875 for the Urschels and boosted Mighty Deck Three's winnings in his first season on the track to $244,435.

Bowling Beat

Charlie Lacy continued his fine bowling following the city record-scoring total on Monday, July 7, when he turned in his 812 in the Classic Trio League. The following evening, in the Peterson Classic, Lacy started his first three to the tune of 714.

There was a lot of great bowling during the week. Clint Benefield rolled a 279 game and a 902 series for four games while John Deahl rolled a 702 series in the Ruy Men's League on games of 237-219-246-702.

Ken Culp rolled his first 700 series in the first three games in the Classic Trio when he knocked down the pins to the tune of 236-247 and 235 for a 718 set and a 911 four-game set.

More from the ABC Press Guide: Lacy's 1023 is also the highest four games series total bowled in Midland that I can recall and is only 63 pins off the Top 10 as recorded in the American Bowling Congress record book.

Nelson Burton, Jr. of St. Louis, Mo., a top notch pro bowler and commentator for ABC, is tied with Gene McMahon of Bakersfield, Calif., with a 1086 total.

Oiler vets arriving early, eager

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Veterans continue to report early to the Houston Oilers training camp on the Angelo State University campus, but they won't be expected to do much until this weekend.

Linebacker Art Stringer joined several veterans already in camp but he won't get any heavy work until the rest of the veterans check in Friday.

"We already know what Art can do, we owe an obligation to these rookies and free agents to see what they can do," Oiler Coach Bum Phillips said.

Former Oklahoma State and Houston Yates quarterback Harold Bailey is among the rookies getting a close look from Oiler coaches. Although a quarterback in college, Bailey has been working out at wide receiver and running back.

Coaches said Bailey has done well at both positions, especially at running back, a position he's never played.

With Ken Stabler and Gifford Nielsen entrenched as the top two quarterbacks, Houston's No. 3 signal caller would also be expected to perform special team duties.

Guido Merkens has been the Oilers' No. 3 quarterback the past two seasons, also doubling as a receiver and on specialty teams. Seventh-round draft choice Craig Bradshaw of Utah State also is seeking a spot on the team.

Woman Hater

When Flo (Polly Holliday) becomes the owner of a Texas roadside café, Earl (Geoffrey Lewis), the woman-hating bartender, stakes out her territory, on "Flo," Monday, July 21, on CBS.

The tart-tongued, warm-hearted Flo of "Kiss my grits" fame is lured away from Mel's Diner by the offer of a promising job of hostess in a Houston restaurant. But a flat tire on the outskirts of her hometown of Cowtown, Texas, lands her at a roadside café she recalls from better days. On a dare, she buys it and names it "Flo's Yellow Rose."

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, July 22, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Pet project gets a big boost this summer, and you make slow but steady financial progress. Guard against unconventional behavior if hoping to achieve greater happiness in love, marriage. Those sudden, daring moves which get good results in business or career will not be beneficial to romance. Travel is part of the picture for the fall, and good luck accompanies you wherever you go. Try to be more patient with loved ones who fail to live up to their promises. Few share your dedication or powers of concentration.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The financial schemes of another deserve careful scrutiny. An old grievance may be settled in your favor. An exciting new love interest may enter the picture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Let others set the pace at work today. Take a long-range view of what you hope to accomplish. Do not press influential people to accept ideas that they have already rejected.

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1980 by Chicago Tribune

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Read contracts carefully and seek legal advice if necessary. Refuse to be the sort of person who does not realize something is being lost until it is gone!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Work schedule is subject to change, interruption. Financial affairs require careful handling. Rearrange family priorities, taking everyone's ideas into account.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Real estate deals can be highly profitable. Timing is the key to success. Use discretion when dealing with strangers. Travel and romance are featured.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take the initiative at work, and feel flattered, but uncomplainingly behind your back. Troubled associate may be feeling down in the dumps. Issue lunch invitation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emotions can dominate over reason. Try to be moderate in speech, action. A simple declaration of intent can net a positive response from romantic partner. Fulfill any promises you make to youngsters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Go to the top if searching for straight answers. There is more to a public disagreement than meets the eye. Two individuals who appear to be in opposition may actually be allies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Authority figure who appears indifferent is actually quite impressed. Realize it and maintain positive outlook. Act on what you know to be true.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): News that has been delayed arrives at long-last. Stroke of good luck makes you feel and look just great! Celebrate at home with loved ones tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Day requires considerable restraint where money is concerned. Deposit extra funds in "rainy day" fund. Romantic encounter is exhilarating. Be more discreet about your personal affairs, finances.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do not rely too much on others today. A "lone wolf" role has many advantages. Loved ones are willing to take a temporary backseat to career, business concerns, but do not allow them to do so for too long!

Actors' unions strike; Talks continue

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Members of two actors' unions went on strike today as negotiators for the unions and for producers continued talks in hopes of settling a dispute that could shut down a major part of the nation's multimillion-dollar filmmaking industry.

"We have no intention now of ending the talks, but things are going so slowly and so tediously that we decided to strike," said Kim Fellner, spokeswoman for the Screen Actors Guild. The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists went on strike with SAG.

Ed Prelock, a spokesman for the Association of Motion Picture and TV Producers, said representatives of major film companies, the three major television networks and independent producers also intended to keep negotiating despite the strike announcement.

On Sunday, Ms. Fellner said, "We are down to hard issues," but refused to enumerate them or if any progress was being made toward a new three-year agreement.

A strike would close down production of all prime time TV shows — just now under way for the fall season — and would stop the major film companies from making movies anywhere in the world.

Ms. Fellner said a strike would not affect daytime TV programming such as soap operas and game shows or TV commercial production. News commentators, who are AFTRA members, would be allowed to cross picket lines to reach their jobs, she said.

Strike preparations began July 9, when 91 percent of SAG's members voted in favor of a strike. Some 60,000 actors, 30,000 of whom are members of both SAG and AFTRA, would join the walkout, she said.

Money was the major stumbling block during the talks, which began May 19, Ms. Fellner said Sunday. The two unions had asked a 40 percent increase in minimum scales and an increase in pension, health and welfare payments to establish dental and optical plans.

The unions for the first time also sought profit participation in films and television and a percentage of the producers' gross receipts from supplemental markets such as pay TV and videocassette and videodisc shows.

Under the old agreement, actors earned up to $785 a week, plus residuals for reruns and motion pictures broadcast on television.

The producers countered with an 8.4 percent scale increase in the first year and a percentage-of-the-gross formula for supplemental markets that the unions said would return far less than the 12 percent amount the actors sought.

Producers also wanted actors to be paid 80 percent of TV scale for original employment on supplemental market shows.

Negotiations broke off June 30, the day the old three-year pact expired, with the contract extended indefinitely. Talks did not resume until July 17 and, during the hiatus, the unions voted the strike deadline.

SAG said the cost of living had risen by more than 35 percent in the past three years. In 1979, it said, 88.7 percent of union actors earned less than $10,000 — 59 percent earning less than $1,000.

The last actors' strike occurred Dec. 19, 1978, through Feb. 7, 1979, when SAG struck TV commercial producers. SAG previously struck film companies in 1960 for six weeks and TV companies for one week in 1955. The union also struck commercial producers for 10 weeks in 1952.

Paddling his canoe to and from his job as head operator of the Houston Lighting and Power Co.'s Cedar Bayou plant is Richard Gillet of Baytown. Gillet, who used to motorcycle to work, took to the waterway "when I noticed that my house was just about a half mile away by water, but it was five miles by car." (AP Laserphoto)

Would you believe canoe pooling?

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — Richard Gillet has stopped putt-putting and started paddling.

"It's invigorating," said Gillet, who commutes via canoe to and from his job as head operator at Houston Lighting & Power Co.'s Cedar Bayou plant.

"The exercise makes you feel refreshed and you save money — all at the same time."

Gillet, 36, started his daily glide about three weeks ago, "when I was looking out over the bayou from the plant and I noticed that my house was just about half a mile away by water, but it was five miles by car."

"It seemed like such a waste," he said.

Gillet says the trip — which requires about 10 minutes of actual paddling time and a 5-minute walk to and from the canoe — takes no longer than it did on his motorcycle.

He docks his canoe at a boat slip near his home on a small stream that feeds into the bayou. When he arrives at work, he nestles the canoe next to a wooden walkway on HL&P property.

The only traffic he sees during his trip is an occasional tugboat chugging up the bayou.

His daily routine is interrupted only when bad weather is predicted and he plans to continue canoeing as long as the weather will allow.

"I won't use the canoe when a bad thunderstorm is forecast or if it gets too cold. But I've known it to be 85 degrees here at Christmas time," Gillet said.

Although the canoe trips started out as daylight journeys, Gillet now paddles through the dark of night because he is working the "graveyard" shift.

"I just bring some lights so the tugboats can see me," he says.

His only problems have come from a couple of arguments with snakes over right-of-way and "Sunday water skiers who get a few beers under their belt and think they're King Kong."

"And," he adds with a smile crossing his face, "I don't want to sound like Jimmy Carter, but I did see a rabbit swimming across the bayou once...though it didn't attack me."

Drivers' strike shuts down Post

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post was shut down today in a wildcat strike by drivers who refused to deliver what was to be the first morning edition in the newspaper's 179-year history.

A spokesman for the newspaper, who asked to remain anonymous, said "some" drivers showed up outside the building at the beginning of their scheduled shifts, "but decided they weren't going to work."

A few thousand copies of the new edition were printed and ready to go, according to a spokesman, who said the newspaper had received no official comment from the union.

Union officials could not be reached for comment.

The drivers, part of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union, walked off the job in a dispute over new work schedules despite a decision Friday by arbitrator Hubert Hager and a temporary restraining order issued by U.S. District Judge William C. Conner.

The Post had filed suit "in excess of $1 million" in damages against the union, saying the union had refused to handle the new editions. Hager ordered the drivers to abide by their contract and report to work so the new morning editions could be delivered. Conner issued a temporary restraining order supporting Hager's decision.

Eight other unions, representing Post employees, had agreed to the new work schedules required to publish the morning edition.

In a statement issued shortly after midnight, Publisher Rupert Murdoch said further editions of the newspaper would be printed "if and when the drivers end their illegal strike and obey the orders of arbitrator Hager and Judge Conner."

According to the statement, when the drivers refused to work they were told "the Post considered them to be on strike." Picket lines were set up around the Post building on South Street in lower Manhattan.

Little progress reported in Mobile strike talks

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — While two houses burned, little progress in informal talks was reported in a strike of police and firefighters that has halted Mobile's garbage collection and curtailed its bus service.

The City Commission has refused to talk formally with the strikers, who began walking off their jobs last Monday, saying it would be illegal to do so.

The Post decided to add two morning editions — at midnight and 2 a.m. — after the New York Daily News, a morning newspaper, announced it would soon begin publishing afternoon editions.

The newspaper said under the new schedule it would have six editions, including another late afternoon edition, stretching from midnight to 5 p.m.

The newspaper, founded in 1802 by Alexander Hamilton, boasts an average daily circulation of 654,000.

Surgeons trying to block withdrawal from AMA

CHICAGO (AP) — Surgeons in the American Medical Association are trying to block the organization from accepting the resignation of the American College of Surgeons, one of the largest medical specialty societies, from the AMA's House of Delegates.

The surgeons planned to argue against accepting the resignation at a committee hearing today.

The House of Delegates, the AMA's policy-making body, opened its five-day annual meeting here Sunday. More than 100 surgeons held an informal meeting Sunday afternoon to criticize the resignation of their professional society and to map strategy to fight it.

The move threatens the 214,000-member AMA's attempt to unify and speak for organized medicine.

Dr. John H. Dawson of Seattle, one of the leaders of the surgeons, said if the AMA could be prevented from formally accepting the resignation, the College of Surgeons would not have to go through a lengthy reaccreditation process if its leaders decide to rejoin.

Officials of the 42,000-member college pulled the organization out of the AMA's House of Delegates earlier this year in a policy dispute.

Although the surgeons had only one vote in the House of Delegates, their influence went farther than that. Some 158 of the 558 delegates and alternates to the convention this year are fellows of the College of Surgeons, the surgeons said. Another nine sit on the Board of Trustees or are former AMA officers.

The House of Delegates, once composed mainly of doctors from the 50 state medical societies, in recent years has admitted nearly six dozen medical specialties — surgeons, radiologists, neurologists and so forth — as part of a program to broaden its base.

But leaders of the College of Surgeons reportedly were angered by what they saw as a progressive softening of the AMA's stand against chiropractors.

He's climbing out of debtor's world

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) — Five years ago, R.W. had a good job, a happy family life and a pocketful of credit cards.

Then came the effects of recession. A business loss. Some bad investments.

In the space of only a few months, R.W.'s world of credit collapsed. His debts added up to more than many people earn in a year. His creditors wanted their money. His wife talked about leaving.

"I was out of control," he recalled recently, sitting in his office at a Manhattan employment agency. To get out from under, he said, "I would have sold my soul to the devil."

R.W., who didn't want his name used, has paid off his debts. "We even have a savings account now," he bragged.

He cleared his financial slate with the help of the local Consumer Credit Counseling service, one of some 200 such non-profit groups operating under the umbrella of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, 1819 H St. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20006.

R.W., 38, is a native New Yorker. After graduation from college in 1963, he served in the military and worked for a manufacturer before forming an employment agency with a partner.

His parents, he said, "were not poor, but we certainly did not have a lot of money." Financial success was important and it seemed easy. "I was making $32,000 a year when I was 28," R.W. said. Credit also seemed easy. "I was getting credit cards mailed to me unsolicited."

By 1975, however, the recession had hurt the employment business. R.W.'s partner used company money to pay gambling debts. And R.W. lost money in the stock market. "All my savings," he said.

"I really started to have to scramble to pay my bills...I was so far behind, my debt was a solid, five-figure debt..."

When business had been good, R.W. lived well. "I was never really budget conscious. I was kind of living from month to month." During slow periods, he borrowed. If you think there's a good month coming, he said, "you don't reduce your spending. You use credit cards."

After his business failed, R.W. said, "there was a period when I was making zero." He finally found another job with a base salary of $12,000, but it wasn't enough. "When the checks came in they were all spoken for."

R.W. didn't tell his wife about his financial problems. "Macho, I guess," he said. "I thought if I ignored them they would go away." Finally, on a Sunday morning in 1976, the company from which R.W. leased his car came to repossess it.

"We were getting dunning calls. People knocking on doors. I had lost my car. My wife said if we could afford it, she would leave."

Whom did he owe? "Everybody. I had credit cards. I had a personal loan. There were 16 creditors in all."

R.W. considered bankruptcy. Then someone told him about the counseling service which makes arrangements with creditors to help debtors pay their bills a little at a time.

The family gathered up the bills and visited a counselor who worked out a budget. "Within two weeks, all of the calls stopped." R.W. gave the counseling service a fixed amount every month to be relayed to creditors. "It was like a bucket of cold water," he said, remembering the regular payments, the regular reminders of failure. "It was a tremendous blow, consistent blows to my ego."

R.W.'s wife went to work. "My wife is quite extraordinary," he said. "She was a young girl. I swept her off her feet, stole her from another guy, promised her the world...then, all of a sudden: Whammo! We're living like paupers. Chicken backs and spaghetti."

K&C Industrial District greets Imperial Produce

K & C Industrial is located near *20 and Industrial, and is only 1 1/2 miles from the Courthouse square. The subdivision offers flexible, functional space for a wide range of requirements for service and/or office facilities. Metal or tilt-wall, insulated, industrial buildings suitable for warehouses, shops for either light or heavy industry and other similar needs are available. Modular space units, fitted to your needs, can be had. There will be ample parking space. K & C will sell lots and build an office building or warehouse to your specifications.

Call Tom King, 682-6000, or Bill Chancellor, 682-2040, for full particulars. They will give you any details you need, and are confident they have the answer to your business requirements.

One of K & C Industrial District's new tenants, soon to move into one of the attractive warehouses on West Francis Street, is one of the growing Midland businesses, Imperial Produce. Imperial will use the warehouse for storage and preparation of their wholesale vegetables and fruits. Imperial has its own outlet, and services restaurants and grocery stores in the area. Imperial has shipments from California almost daily, and also obtains seasonal produce from the Rio Grande Valley.

Airline proposes new routes between Florida and Mexico

MIAMI (AP) — Pan American World Airways has proposed new routes between Florida and Mexico City, with flights to originate in Miami, Tampa and Sarasota.

William H. Waltrip, executive vice president of marketing and service for the New York-based airline, told a Civil Aeronautics Board law judge in Washington on Thursday that by linking the proposed Florida-Mexico City service with National Airlines' Florida-Europe routes, Pan Am will be able to use Florida as a stopover for service between Mexico and Europe.

Last year, Administrative Judge Marvin Morse approved similar routes for National Airlines. Since that recommendation, Pan Am and National, which is based in Miami, have merged.

Chrysler now buys engines from Peugeot

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says it is buying engines from its French partner Peugeot, and the purchases mean the automaker will be able to bring out another small front-wheel drive car a year earlier than planned.

Beginning next June, Peugeot's Talbot division will provide up to 100,000 four-cylinder engines each year, up to 150,000 a year for the following two years and an option to renew the contract after that, Chrysler said Thursday.

Chrysler also said that beginning in 1983, it plans to buy four-cylinder diesel engines from Peugeot.

The Peugeot 1.6-liter (97 cubic inches) gasoline engine will go into Plymouth Horizon and Dodge Omni subcompacts. Those cars now use 1.7-liter (104 cubic inches) engines supplied by Volkswagen.

VW now provides 300,000 engines a year, but that will fall to zero over the next two years.

To replace the drop in VW engines in 1981 models, Chrysler plans to use some of its own new 2.2-liter engines being built for the "K-car" compacts this fall.

Using Peugeot engines in 1982 models will free Chrysler engines for a larger version of the "K-car."

Indefinite layoffs among auto workers fall slightly

DETROIT (AP) — Indefinite layoffs among autoworkers are down slightly, according to this week's reports from the five major automakers.

The automakers said Thursday they had 246,950 employees at home without a recall date, down from 249,250 last week. Comparisons are difficult, however, because statistics on layoffs at General Motors Corp. refer to the upcoming week while those of the others refer to the current week.

No count of temporary layoffs was possible because of changeovers to 1981 models. GM, with nine U.S. assembly lines being rearranged next week, and Ford Motor Co., with four, both said they did not consider those employees laid off.

GM said it had 138,000 indefinite layoffs and Ford said it had 65,500. Both figures were unchanged from last week.

Chrysler Corp. said its indefinite layoffs fell from 43,000 last week to 40,700. Chrysler will have 18,600 workers temporarily idle, most of those in five assembly plants closed for the model change.

An unspecified number of workers will be recalled this week at the Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit to prepare for the start of 1981 production on July 28, Chrysler said.

American Motors Corp., ranked No. 5 in production, also reported no change in its 2,750 indefinite layoffs. AMC said about 4,000 workers would return to the Kenosha, Wis., assembly plant next week to begin production of some 1981 models, but another 4,000 will not return until Aug. 4.

Some of the 3,500 temporarily idle at AMC's Toledo, Ohio, Jeep plant will be recalled for component manufacturing next week.

No. 4 Volkswagen of America has no layoffs.

Esquire buys book firm from New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Esquire Inc. has agreed in principle to purchase Cambridge Book Co. from the New York Times Co.

The agreement, subject to approval by the boards of both companies, was initiated Thursday by Bernard Kraus, Esquire's president and chief executive officer, and Sydney Gruson, a New York Times vice chairman.

No purchase price was disclosed. Cambridge publishes textbooks, adult educational materials and video instructional tapes.

Kraus, who described Cambridge as one of the foremost marketers of broadly based educational materials, said Esquire expected the acquisition to "contribute substantially" to a new division formed in May. Present members of the division are Globe Book Co., Modern Curriculum Press and Coronet Instructional Media.

The education group of Esquire, which is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, contributed 51 percent of the company's profit in 1979.

$2000 PER MONTH PLUS

Manager Trainees need to fill $70,500 per year position. It normally takes only 2 to 3 years to become a manager. $24,000 is your guaranteed annual salary while you learn, however for those who survive the first year average compensation is $29,250 due to additional sales commissions: 90 to 95 percent of your time will be in sales during the 2 to 3 year training period.

QUALIFICATIONS ARE TOUGH:
Please don't apply unless you meet each and every qualification:

1. Impeccable integrity and references.
2. 4 year degree from accredited college or high school diploma coupled with 2 years of heavy retail manager experience.
3. Willing to work over 60 hours per week (No Sunday or our of town work.)
4. Willing to take Polygraph test.
5. Willing and capable of taking instructions.
6. Not have any prior heavy sales experience such as real estate, automobile, mobile homes, vacuum cleaners, etc.

We have an extra ordinary benefit plan including a retirement profit sharing plan. We don't list with employment agencies and request they don't refer candidates to us.
