House panel stands against tax cut now

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Ways and Means Committee appears to agree with President Carter that no tax-cut bill should be passed this year. Now the president must convince the Senate Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee, under instructions from the Senate Democratic Caucus to produce a tax-reduction plan by Sept. 3, was opening hearings today with testimony from Treasury Secretary G. William Miller.

Miller testified Tuesday before the Ways and Means Committee. To a man, Democratic members agreed with the Carter administration position that action on a tax cut should be delayed until early next year, after the fall elections

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the committee chairman, said Americans are far more concerned about halting inflation than cutting taxes.

But some House Democrats reminded Miller that it isn't easy to oppose tax cuts in an election year, especially when unemployment is rising. "We are out on a limb for the president," said Rep. Tom Downey, D-N.Y. "He has to be strong, firm and unequivocal" against any tax cut this year. "If he's not," added Downey, "you're going to have a lot of angry Democrats." "And an angry secretary of the treasury as well," offered Miller.

The pressure is on congressional Democrats because Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan and many GOP members of the House and Senate are demanding an immediate vote on a $36 billion tax cut that would take effect next Jan. 1.

The administration contends any such action now would worsen inflation and bring even more uncertainty to a troubled economy. Carter's advisers agree a tax cut probably will be necessary early next year, but they insist it would be smart to wait until then before passing it.

Nevertheless, Senate Democrats were so alarmed last month when Reagan and congressional Republicans seized the tax-cut issue that they immediately promised to come up a plan of their own.

The Finance Committee has arranged two weeks of public hearings on tax cuts. A recess for the Democratic National Convention will leave little time for the committee then to write a tax bill before the Sept. 3 deadline.

Administration officials say that passing a tax cut now might signal the financial markets that the government is weakening in its fight against inflation. Any tax cut - at least in the short run - would worsen the federal budget deficit and require the government to borrow more.

But beyond that concern, the president's advisers say that considering a tax cut in the heat of presidential and congressional elections would tempt lawmakers to fatten the tax reduction and vote relief for all sorts of special interests.

In his tesimony before the Ways and Means Committee, Miller repeatedly criticized the Republican plan as a "free lunch," a counterproductive gimmick.

Then why not "put Congress to the test and propose what you consider a good tax cut?" asked Rep. Willis Gradison, R-Ohio.

St. Helens goes again

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - A new crater, glowing red, was spotted today on Mount St. Helens following a spectacular series of eruptions that hurled ash 11 miles into the air and sent it wafting into Canada.

Spotters in a plane circling the vol-cano early today described the new crater as a "large, glowing pit," ac-cording to Charlotte Martin, a U.S. Forest Service spokeswoman.

The new crater replaces a lava dome which was blown apart by the latest series of eruptions Tuesday. Observers were unable to estimate the size or depth of the new crater.

Seismic activity ended at about 1:45 a.m. today when the mountain stopped shaking for the first time since it began about two hours before Tuesday's eruptions. Just a slight plume of steam was reported over the mountain this morning.

After lulling observers with six weeks of relative serenity, Tuesday's eruptions unleashed an ash cloud that today reached into Canada. But only light ash fall was reported in most areas.

The U.S. Geological Survey said a pyroclastic flow - a superheated avalanche of ash, gas and rock poured down the north slope of the mountain almost to Spirit Lake. The mountain resort area six miles away became a volcanic wasteland after the mountain's first eruption May 18, which had a force as great as an atomic bomb.

There were no reports of injury late Tuesday and the only evacuation was

Volcano erupts in East Russia

MOSCOW (AP) - A' volcano dormant for 30 years has erupted on the Kamchatka Peninsula in the Soviet Far East, Tass reported today. The Soviet news agency said Mt. Gorely erupted with "a gigantic cloud of volcanic ash and gases rising up to an altitude of three kilometers (two miles)."

carried out in the town of Cougar as a precaution. Many of the town's residents had not returned after the volcano's previous eruptions May 18, May 25 and June 12, and some of the 20 to 25 people who did were not fleeing the town again, authorities said.

The eruption came as a surprise to scientists and federal disaster officials who were winding down activities.

Scientists had said that a recent lull in volcanic activity indicated that pressure was being released rather than building within the volcano. That theory was blown as the first blast ripped a hole in the lava dome building in the volcano's gaping crater. "Yesterday, we did not expect anything like this to happen," said USGS geologist Tim Hait. "Today, probably this morning, we did not expect any-thing like this."

The eruptions began at 5:14 p.m. PDT, shortly after a flurry of earthquakes. Six quakes were picked up between 6 a.m. and 11 a.m. and by 3 p.m., they had increased in frequency to about one every five minutes, scientists said.

A series of four or five small earthquakes ended at 5: 13 p.m. One minute later came a mushroom-shaped eruption of steam. Subsequent blasts contained ash that darkened the sky and could be seen as far north as Seattle and south as Corvallis, Ore.

The National Weather Service charted ash plumes that moved north-northeast, following the same path as the ash-laden cloud that caked eastern Washington and northern Idaho with the grit May 18.

A second eruption at about 6:26 p.m. towered to 60,000 feet, said Carl Burgeson of the U.S. Forest Service. A third shot of ash rose to about 50,000 feet shortly after 7 p.m. and pulsations followed at 7:20, and at 8:30 p.m. The pulsations were first thought to be separate eruptions, but scientists later said that examination of earthquake recordings on seismographs indicated they were continuations of the third eruption. The eruptions could be seen by hundreds of thousands of people. 'There's a distinct reddish-gray line looking southerly, and it got dark earlier than usual, while the rest of the sky was blue," said Lanelle Schultz of radio station KCVL in Col-

"If we came up with a bill that we thought was right, it would be like putting red meat before a hungry dog and saying, 'Sit.'" Miller replied.

Miller said that when a tax cut does become desirable, it should be designed to help taxpayers offset some effects of inflation, continue the "progressive" nature of the tax system — meaning that poorer persons should continue paying a smaller portion of their earnings in taxes than the wealthy — and help revitalize American business to increase productivity and jobs.

Miller expressed interest in a plan that would provide an income-tax credit to help offset next year's scheduled increase in Social Security taxes. And he said the administration is intent on developing an alternative to the GOP plan allowing faster tax write-offs for business purchase of buildings, machinery and cars.

Billy Carter was go-between on Iran crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's national security adviser capitalized on Billy Carter's controversial relations with the Libyan government by using him as a go-between in seeking Libya's assistance in an effort to gain release of the American hostages in Iran, White House officials say.

The revelation marks the first acknowledgment by White House offi-cials that the president's gregarious, plain-spoken younger brother, who reluctantly registered with the Justice Department last week as an agent of the Libyan government, played any role in U.S. foreign poli-

Presidential press secretary Jody Powell, in a lengthy briefing Tuesday on the controversy swirling about Billy Carter, said national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski asked him to set up a meeting on Nov. 27, 1979, with Ali el Houderi, Libya's chief Washington representative.

A written statement released by Powell's office noted that the meeting between Brzezinski, Houderi and Billy Carter took place "three weeks after the seizure of the hostages (in Iran), and the United States was exploring every possible avenue of contact with the Iranian leaders.'

Midlanders to start using fourth postal ZIP code soon

Midland is becoming a four ZIPcode city, according to an announcement from Postmaster D.E. Holster. The post office boxes at Village Station, 2315 W. Louisiana Ave., will be changed to the 79704 ZIP code. "We realize that it will take many months for customers renting post office boxes at the Village Station to become as accustomed to the new 79704 as they were the 79701," said Holster. "We just want to alert those customers involved to change the ZIP code number on the next printing order they place, and request that post office box customers at the Village Station inform all their correspondents and publishers of their new ZIP code number as soon as possible.'

Holster explained the change had become necessary because of the increased use of mechanized equipment within the Postal Service and the ever-increasing population and vol-ume of mail coming into Midland.

"There are just more separations and scheme items than we can ask our employees to memorize," he added.

By having 79704 in the address of mail going to the Village Station Post Office boxes, that mail will be dispatched directly to the Village Station and quicker mail delivery should result, said Holster.

Powell said he didn't know whether the president was aware of the meeting. But he also insisted, "There can hardly be any serious thought that the president's brother is in a position to advise the president on foreign policy matters." While the meeting was unsuccessful in winning the hostages' freedom, Powell said Brzezinski was informed a few weeks later that Col. Moammar Khadafy, leader of Libya's leftist Arab government, had sent a message to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in Iran calling for their release. President Carter, in a two-paragraph statement on the confroversy, said it was not "appropriate for a close relative of the president to undertake any assignment on behalf of a foreign government," and he called for a full public disclosure of "the existence of any such relationship."

The president did not mention his brother's receipt of $220,000 from the Libyans, which Billy Carter and the Libyans have characterized as part of a $500,000 loan.

Billy Carter was surrounded by reporters as he left a restaurant at a New York hotel, where he was staying Tuesday night. When a reporter held up a newspaper with the headline. White House Says: Asked Billy Aid on Hostages," the president's brother said: "Paper's right." He refused

The Senate Judiciary Committee was deciding today whether to investigate the Billy Carter-Libyan ties. Disclosure of the three-way meeting on the hostage issue was the latest bizarre twist in the story of an 18month Justice Department investigation into Billy Carter's relationship with the Libyans. Powell said the White House has scrupulously avoided contact with the investigators.

The probe's progress only occasion-ally bubbled to the surface before July 14, when papers were filed in federal court revealing that the department had reached a settlement with Billy Carter in which he agreed under protest to register as a Libyan agent to avoid a grand jury investigation.

Here, from public statements, official documents and published re-ports, is the sequence of events which brought the White House to issue Tuesday's statement, described as an attempt to fully disclose Billy Carter's relations with Libya:

In January, 1979, after Billy Carter hosted a Libyan delegation in Atlanta and Plains, Ga., officials of the Justice Department's foreign agents registration section wrote the president's brother asking him to register as an agent of the radical Arab government.

At this point, Billy Carter already had accepted from the Libyans four gold bracelets, a saddle, a serving platter and a ceremonial sword. He also had accepted $3,900 in expenses for a 10-day trip to Libya for himself and an associate in late 1978.

The Justice Department's January letter and a follow-up letter went unanswered.

By March, Billy Carter had denied he was a Libyan agent, and the FBI had been called in to help investigate the case.

At about the same time, Billy Carter entered a Navy hospital in California for treatment of alcoholism. Sources have said that development put the inquiry on the back burner.

Census figures for area may be revealed soon

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

Come Monday or Tuesday of next week, Midland city and county officials should learn what the Census Bureau believes to be the population of Midland and the county.

Mitzi Jordan, office manager of Lubbock's regional census office, said this morning that it's likely the bureau will be able to release Midland's head count results to officials early next week, a little later than the earlier predicted release date of late this week.

The figure for Midland will be released to Mayor G. Thane Akins, while the county count will go to County Judge Bill Ahders, she said.

Local officials will have 10 days to review the figures and to ask for a recount in the event they believe they've discovered a discrepancy. But they must be able, Ms. Jordan said, to show "just cause" that a discrepancy may exist before census officials will respond with action.

"If we feel like there is a place we have missed or a place they've (city officials) annexed we don't have, then we'll recanvass," noted Ms. Jordan. Census workers in the Lubbock office are now in the process of transmitting census data on Midland and Odessa to the Dallas regional census office, Ms. Jordan pointed out. Once there, the data will be computed and then the information will be ready for release to local officials for review. Ms. Jordan said she did not believe that information would be ready for release prior to Monday.

Release of the information for the two Permian Basin communities was delayed approximately three weeks because of a shortage of census workers in this area. Prior to the start of the canvass, during the canvass and throughout the first phase follow-up Census Bureau officials pleaded for workers in both communities, stressing the importance of an accurate count.

The two cities were the final areas in the Lubbock region in which the first follow-up to the census was completed, Ms. Jordan said.

Now officials are preparing to begin the second follow-up, scheduled to begin in Midland this week. For now, Ms. Jordan says, enough workers are available. But that doesn't mean things won't go awry before the second follow-up is completed.

Sometimes, she pointed out, workers quit unexpectedly and enough backup workers are not available. "We never know," she said. On another point, Ms. Jordan noted that the Lubbock census office likely will remain open through Sept. 15 because of the delay created by the Midland-Odessa worker shortage. Residents should not become concerned, she said, if they see census workers in the area for some time yet.

Other topics include the expected census data, operations at Midland Regional Airport, extra-territorial jurisdiction and planning areas, and status of the North Route between the two cities and other highway projects.

Regional transportation projects also is on the agenda for discussion. The councils will set a date for a second meeting in the future.

City Councils of Odessa, Midland to hold meeting together Thursday

ODESSA - Midland and Odessa city councils will hold a joint meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Emergency Operations Room in Odessa's City Hall basement.

This is the first joint meeting in years and the purpose is to discuss topics of interest to both cities.

The agenda includes a discussion of matters relating to the regional police training program.

City's blacks seem 'dissatisfied' with acquittal of two Klansmen

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) - Ablack leader predicted dissatisfaction among the city's blacks over the acquittal of two of three Klansmen charged with shooting four black women, and hours after the verdict police reported a rash of suspected firebombings and brick-throwing.

The incidents in a predominantly black area were "totally out of the norm," police spokesman Doug Fisher said early today. But police did not link them to reaction to the verdict Tuesday of an all-white jury. A third Klansman was found guilty of reduced assault charges.

Harry Hill of the Youth Coalition, a black community organization, praised the state's prosecution of the men for the April 19 shootings. But "as far as the verdict, it's a joke," he said Tuesday. Hill said he did not think the blacks in this city of 170,000 would be satisfied with the jury's findings. "There'll be a backlash," he said. "I hope it'll be on the positive side."

At least three suspected firebombings had occurred by early today, and more than a half dozen brick-throwing incidents were reported late Tuesday in the city's predominantly black Alton Park area, Fisher said.

A firefighter was injured and the windshield of his truck was broken as engines raced to a house whose roof had been set afire.

Two other cases of suspected arson were reported at an industrial warewith murder house and at a restaurant. Each sustained minor damage, he said. Police also reported "a couple of situations where persons gathered," but no arrests were made, Fisher said.

Defense lawyers, who had urged jurors to decide the defendants' guilt or innocence without considering the verdict's effect on racial relations, said they were pleased with the outcome.

The six-man, six-woman jury had deliberated for nearly six hours over two days before reaching a decision Tuesday.

The verdict "should not be seen as a slam at blacks, because it's not," said defense lawyer Leroy Phillips. "That jury was composed of some very intelligent people. There was a college professor on there."

But Viola Ellison, 64, one of the four black women who was wounded, said, "I don't feel good about it (the verdict).'

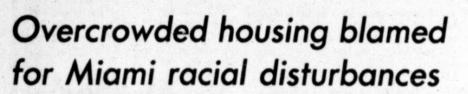

"If a black person had shot one of your whites, he would have been in jail. But blacks, we ain't got no damn justice in this town. We got to get some defense," she said.

The women were struck by shotgun blasts fired from a car as they walked from a tavern in a predominantly black neighborhood.

In closing arguments Monday, assistant state prosecutor Stan Lanzo encouraged jurors not to weigh possible community reaction when deciding on a verdict.

MIAMI (AP) - Overcrowded public housing that creates "attitudes of disrespect and hopelessness" was one of the major causes of racial disturbances in Miami, says a Dade County official.

County Housing and Urban Development Director Melvin Adams, reporting to a citizens' panel appointed by Gov. Bob Graham after bloody racial rioting in May, said county officials hope to help some families in overcrowded housing projects find apartments elsewhere.

Police say the worst violence of Miami's May riots, which resulted in 18 deaths and more than $100,000 in property damage, occurred in the James E. Scott Homes, a low-income housing project.

The projects erupted again last week as three days of racial disturbances rocked predominately black Liberty City. During last week's disturbances, many older residents blamed the problem on youths who had no jobs and no respect for the law.

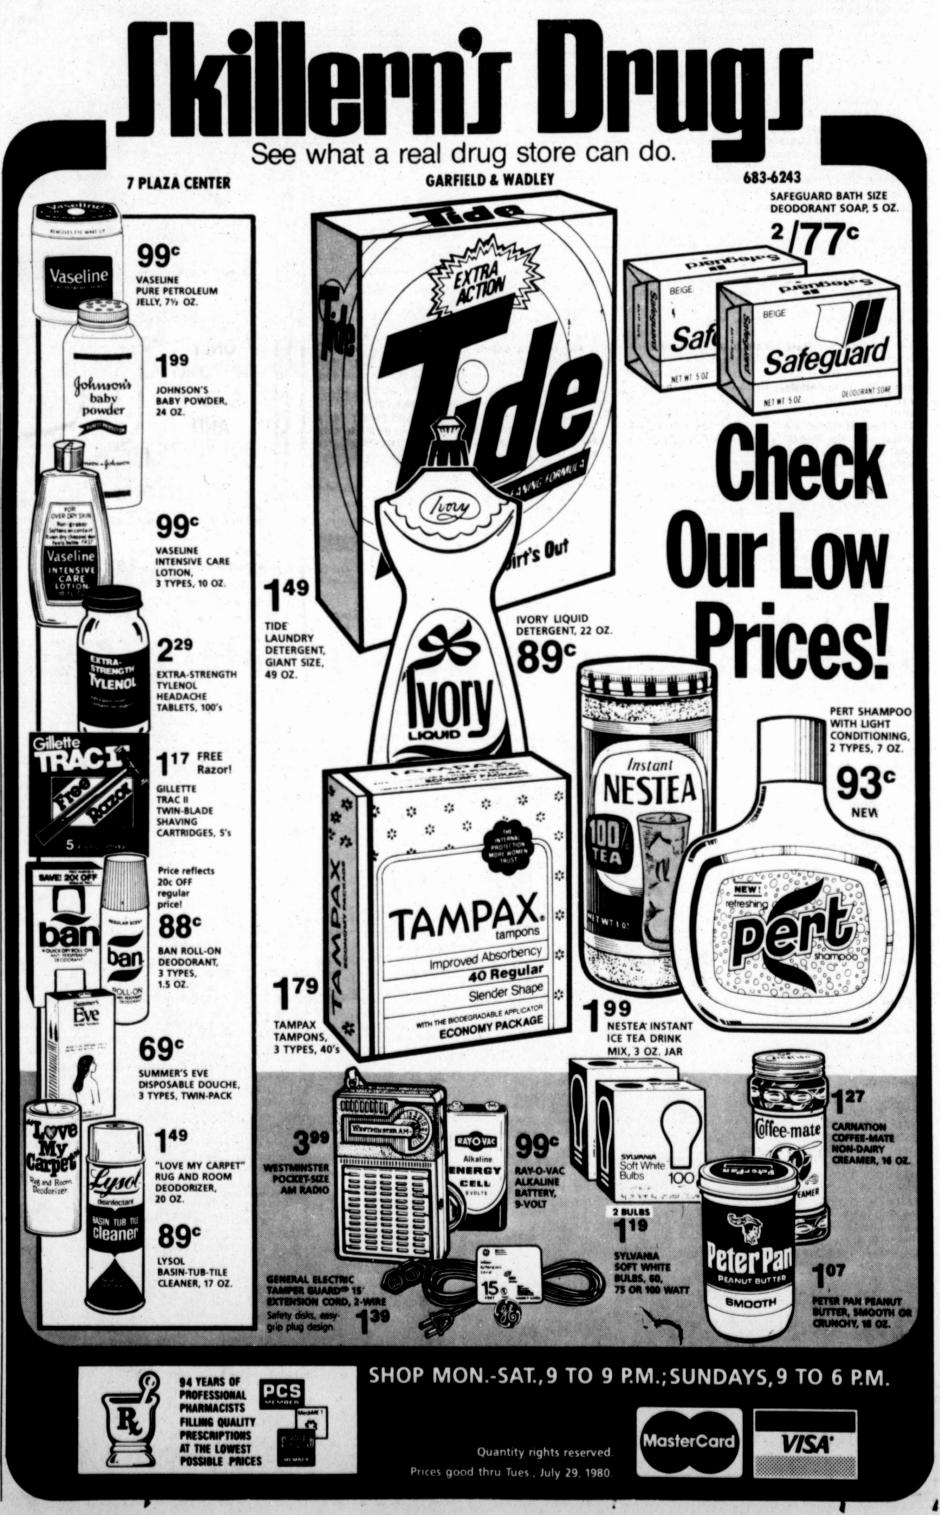

projects are breeding grounds for unrest, want to change the makeup of the Scott Homes.

"Scott will always be a black project," Adams said. "But it doesn't have to be a welfare project."

Adams said that with more than 3,000 residents living in 956 units, the Scott Homes is Dade's most densely populated area. Adams said potential problems of unrest apparently weren't given much thought when the project was built in 1954.

"Part of the project was built on the site of a dump, which shows you what people back in that time thought about where poor people ought to live," Adams said.

The seven-member panel plans to tour the Scott project next week to hear citizens' grievances. It also is investigating charges of racial injustice in Dade's legal system

County officials, saying that over-packed low-income public housing

Damages

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A federal court jury has awarded nearly $1 million in damages to patrons of some Lubbock County liquor stores that jurors said conspired to fix prices.

Jurors ruled Tuesday that the eight defendants in the four-year-old lawsuit must pay $927;000 in overcharges to customers who patronized the stores between 1970 and 1974.

Those individual patrons, however, will be paid if and when they prove the overcharges in a separate court hearing.

Defendants listed in the suit included Pinkie's Inc., Cecil's Inc., The All Star Co., Cross Keys Package Store Inc., the Lubbock County Beverage Association, Bob Grimes, Hubert Odom and Kenneth Odom.

The lawsuit, filed by then Texas Tech University law student David Greenhaw, contended that several liquor store owners and operators had conspired to set and maintain county wide li-quor prices and alleviate competitive marketing.

The decision marks the third time a federal jury has found the eight defendants guilty of con-spiring to set prices along "the strip," a por-tion of county road lined with liquor stores outside of Lubbock.

Greenhaw, now a Stanton attorney, alleged in his suit that the four liquor store corporations and three individuals connected with two of the businesses, along with the now-defunct Lubbock County Beverage Asso-ciation conspired to set and maintain countywide liquor prices.

The eight defendants previously pleaded guilty to criminal price fixing charges and were sed fines and proted jall sentences.

The May rioting broke out after four white former policemen were cleared of charges stemming from the beating death of a black businessman.

TESCO's nuclear plant opening delayed a year

FORT WORTH - Start-up of operations at Comanche Peak nuclear power plant has been pushed back another year while estimated costs of the plant have increased, according to Bill Marquardt, president of Texas Electric Service Co.

Unit 1 will go into operation in 1982 while Unit 2 will begin in 1984. Estimated cost of the plant has gone up to $2.235 billion, or $972 per kilowatt hour, from the $1.7 billion estimate given in 1977. The revisions resulted from studies which were done as part of the regular review of the construction program.

'Even at this higher cost, Comanche Peak will still mean substantial savings to our customers compared to what they would pay for electricity produced by natural gas and oil," Marquardt said.

By 1985, electricity produced by Comanche Peak should cost about 25 percent less than electricity producted by oil and gas.

But Marquardt interjected that the new operation dates and cost figures are still estimates and are subject to further revisions.

'We still face a number of unknowns," he said. "Completion dates and costs for any major construction project - not just nuclear plants are constantly being influenced by factors that can't be controlled or predicted, such as future inflation rates and regulatory changes.'

Some changes have come as a result of the Three Mile Island incident in Pennsylvania. Some are being considered by gthe Nuclear Regulatory Commission. And others are still being developed, according to Marquardt.

Changes in the Comanche Peak plant include:

-Implementation of any improvements which a review indicates are necessary to make control room instruments provide additional information.

-Addition of a separate display console which will indicate key information relating to safety of the plant.

-Establishment of a technical support center which will support activities in the plant's control room in case of an emergency.

-Establishment of a near-site emergency operations center from at Comanche Peak, Marquardt said, adding that these changes have been costly.

It took them more than an hour to get dressed. After stripping down to their shorts, they donned paper jump suits, cotton overalls, three pairs of gloves, two pairs of plastic booties and a pair of black firemen's boots.

They also wore firemen's raincoats and pants over their cotton overalls. The garments were peeled off layer by layer when the men emerged into the airlock.

No one had been inside the chamber since March 28, 1979, when the nation's worst commercial nuclear accident severely contaminated the 203foot high containment building.

The team first tried to enter the building on May 20, but the mission was aborted when the heavy steel door into the building refused to budge.

Technicians later diagnosed the problem as a rusted latch mechanism. The door was repaired and tested last week to make sure it would open during a second entry attempt.

There were no hitches this time. 'We've planned for all the contingencies. The guys have been trained. They are ready. They want to get in there," plant spokesman Sandy Polon on Tuesday.

For today's mission, the men were given miners' lamps, flashlights, twoway radios, cameras and air packs containing a 30-minute supply of air.

In Spokane, about 250 miles northeast of the volcano, Mayor Ron Bair told residents in an emergency radio statement to expect ash fallout. In Ellensburg, about 100 miles northeast of the peak, ash fell in a fine dust and law enforcement officials were prepared to shut down roads if the fallout got heavier.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed," said Mayor Don Mackin of Moscow, an Idaho town that last week held a funeral for the last of its May 18 ash.

No refunds asked, attorney says

By ED TODD Staff Writer

A Montana oil field well servicing contractor indicted in an alleged "kickback" scheme has not been asked to "refund one thin dime" by the oil field developers, including Tom Brown Inc. of Midland, who suspect he "inflated" prices he charged for hauling water to oil well sites in the Northwest, suggested Odessa defense attorney Warren Burnett.

"He was never called upon to refund one red cent, one thin dime," Burnett said of his client, Billy J. Lawrence of Billings, Mont.

Lawrence and his co-defendant, William R. Banks, 54, of Englewood, Colo., have been indicted by a federal grand jury here on nine counts of mail fraud in carrying out an alleged scheme involving 44 invoices totaling more than half a million dollars in water-hauling fees. Their trial began in the Midland-Odessa Division of federal court here Tuesday

The government claims that Banks, an engineer who was operations man-

mer Banks' co-worker testified that water-hauling tickets kept by Banks could not be located following Banks' firing

In alluding to Lawrence's credibility, Burnett noted that Lawrence is still doing oil field contract work for Tom Brown Inc.

Prior to the first of a dozen government witnesses' taking the stand, Burnett told the jury that the witnesses' testimony "perhaps" might be tainted by grudges and emotions. Witnesses include BWA&B workers and Lawrence water-hauling truck drivers.

Burnett also noted-that-"desperate efforts" oftentimes are required in the "business of exploration" and producing "mineral wealth."

Roy Bell, an Odessa attorney who is representing Banks in the criminal trial, said that his client was frugal in business transactions. Banks was overseeing several drilling operations, he said.

"This gentleman (Banks) was extremely frugal...and might be described by Mr. Lawrence as kind of tight," Bell said.

Government prosecutor Jim Bock said the government's intent was to prove the scheme was carried out by Banks and Lawrence in causing price gouging on hours worked by water haulers and on equipment used.

Bock said the mail fraud aspect of the case came about through fraudulent invoices and the checks for payment being carried through the U.S. mails. Both Tom Brown Inc. and BWA&B paid Lawrence for the hauling water to well sites, but BWA&B, through Banks, made out the invoices. Bander said he approved payments to Lawrence and signed checks.

Prior to the beginning of testimony, U.S. District Judge Lucius D. Bunton told the jurors in the Midland-Odessa Division of the U.S. court system that the government's task was to prove the case against Lawrence and Banks and that the co-defendants are presumed innocent until when and if they are found guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Moisture has finally arrived in West Texas, with Rankin reporting as much as an inch of rain Tuesday while other area towns got only a trace. But at least it was something.

Although the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport reported only a trace of rain in Midland that was not even measurable, it was the first moisture recorded here since June 20, and the cloudiness was enough to cool things down quite a bit.

Brown and BWA&B were developing oil fields in Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota when the alleged scheme took place from December 1976 to September 1978, when Banks was fired by BWA&B.

Independent oil producer Joe Bander of BWA&B testified that Banks, who was paid $36,000 a year to look after BWA&B's production, was suspended from his job on Sept. 12, 1978 - the very day when Al Mitchell, Tom Brown's chief investigator and a former Texas Ranger, made inquiries into suspected price gouging. "We suspended Mr. Banks...that same day," Bander testified under cross-examination by Burnett.

However, Bander testfied that a subsequent audit of Banks' records and those of Lawrence's failed to turn up any irregularities.

Container ship, ore carrier collide in Louisiana canal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A container ship and a bulk ore carrier collided Tuesday night in a busy canal to the Gulf of Mexico, forcing the evacuation of five tiny St. Bernard Parish communities because of possible acid pollution, authorities said.

But only a small amount of hydrobromic acid apparently spilled into the Mississippi River Gulf Outlet, the Coast Guard said later.

The vessels were identified as the 485-foot German container vessel Tesbank and the Sea Daniel, a 580foot Panamanian ore carrier.

As a precaution, the St. Bernard Parish Sheriff's Department evacuated the tiny communities of Yscloskey, Hopedale and Shell Beach after the 8: 45 p.m. collision. 'I'he evacuation later was extended the nearby towns of Floriscant and Reggio.

At least three containers of hydrobromic acid initially were thought to have fallen overboard from the Tesbank, but Petty Officer Alan Burd said later that none of the containers in the water held the acid. Small amounts of the acid did spill from the vessel, however.

"Small amounts are making their way into the water. It is noticeable." Burd said.

Petty Officer Kenneth Wink described the acid as "a hazardous substance whose dust can cause irritation to the eyes and skin and which gives off a flammable gas."

"It causes toxic fumes when it mixes with water and the containers. fell in the water," said Deputy John Miller of the St. Bernard Parish Sheriff's Department.

Soviets say boy was kidnapped

CHICAGO (AP) - The Soviet Embassy has accused the United States of authorizing the "kidnapping" of a 12-year-old Ukrainian boy in granting him political asylum despite his parents' wishes that he return with them to the Soviet Union.

"These actions may lead to farreaching consequences, not only with respect to Soviet-American relations, but also with respect to the international rule of law as a whole," said a statement released Tuesday by George Mamedov, a Soviet Embassy spokesman in Washington.

schools. A state appeal, he said, "would reflect an attitude of indifference."

However, state Attorney General Mark White said Texas would appeal the ruling. He said he is researching being made to keep evacuees overnight at St. Bernard High School in Poydras, about 10 miles inland, if necessary.

Wink said there were no reports of injuries, but the ship canal running due east from New Orleans was closed for an 8-mile stretch four miles on either side of Shell Beach. The canal runs perpendicular to the Mississippi River and is an alternate route to the Gulf from heavily industrial eastern New Orleans.

He said neither ship was in apparent danger of sinking.

Burd said the cause of the collision was not immediately known. But reports from the scene indicated damage to the port side of both ships, possibly indicating a side-to-side collision as the ships passed each other. A Coast Guard board of inquiry will be convened later to investigate the accident.

a position supporting illegal alien children when they (the government) are the cause of the problem in the first place," White said.

He said the appeal would attack the extension of certain constututional rights to illegal alien children. Seals said Texas schools must begin admitting the students Sept. 1. Texas officials estimate that about 110,000 illegal alien children are in the state, but the plaintiffs during the trial said the figure is closer to 20,-000.

The plaintiffs - a group of parents of illegal alien children - filed suit in 1978 contending their children were entitled to an equal educational opportunity under the 14th Amendment. That suit was consolidated with others last year.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements said Tuesday he disapproved of the ruling and that "the main issue we must solve is the problem of undocumented aliens, not education.".

"There is a contradiction of terms," Clements said, "in that illegal alien children can get our free education.' He said he believed the problem of illegal aliens could be handled by temporary work visas.

School officials across the state, particularly those from cities along the U.S.-Mexican border, have said the ruling could trigger a flood of undocumented children and cause the schools severe economic problems.

Midland County drivers could pay 17.9 percent more for car insurance Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - A hypothetical driver in Midland County would pay 17.9 per-cent more for automobile insurance under recommendations of the State Board of Insurance staff, while facing an increase of approximately 26.4 percent under insurance industry recmmendations.

The SBI recommendations are based on a 1980 model "low-priced Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth, not used in business, but is driven to or from work, no male operator under 25 years of age, no female operator under 21 years of age."

The Automoble Insurance Service Office recommendations use a 1979 Ford Granada.

Both use coverages of $10,000 per person, $20,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage for liability; $5,000 personal injury protection coverage; 50 deductible comprehensive, and

$200 deductible collision coverage. Auto insurance rates vary among the 40 rating territories, and by the type of vehicle, use of vehicle, driver age and sex, and other factors.

Using the examples of the SBI and industry, the changes (all increases unless noted otherwise) for Midland County are (with industry figures in parentheses):

Bodily injury - current, $31; proposed, $29.

Property damage - current, $59; proposed, $74.

The Service Office shows a combined bodily injury and property damage proposed rate of $109.

Personal injury protection — cur-rent, $23; proposed, $25 ($27).

Collision - current, $139; proposed, $168 ($181).

Comprehensive - current, $78; proposed, $93 ($100).

Total dollar change, $59 ($87); total percentage change, 17.9 percent (26.4 percent).

elderly poor, said U.S. authorities had $1.35 billion to spend by June 30 to aid committee, and Claude Pepper, D-Fla., committee chairman.

> John Trollinger, a spokesman for the Social Security Administration which runs the energy assistance pro-gram, commented in a separate interview that the funds have been used in the past only to meet heating costs of the elderly in the winter months.

But he said officials are now looking into the possibility that money can be used for air conditioning costs. He said states are making audits to determine how much of the $1.35 billion is left. In the next fiscal year, he said $1.8 billion has been earmarked for energy assistance to the elderly poor.

Biaggi said he wanted to question Patricia Harris, the secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, on another "vexing problem" when she appears before the hearing.

He said the administration recently spent $6.7 million in emergency areas for electric fans and cooling equip-ment to provide relief from hot temperatures.

But Biaggi related: "Many people are not using the fans because they can't pay their electric bills."

The New York congressman said the elderly must have the means to cope with sweltering heat as well as intense winter cold. "Perhaps it's time Congress started thinking in terms of long-term energy assistance to the elderly," he said.

The five communities lie about 25 people. Miller said preparations were

By ED TODD Staff Writer

A 17-year-old rape victim testified today that she was beaten before and after she was raped May 3 in a north Midland apartment by a 20-year-old acquaintance of two weeks.

She said the accused, Alvin Joseph Burgess, walked into her unlocked apartment after he enticed her roommate, David Moore, and another man to a keg party about 30 minutes earlier. The 17-year-old said she was cooking potatoes when Burgess entered. The conversation was casual, at first, she told the court. "He asked if David and I were living together. 'I suppose y'all sleep together,' " she said Burgess asked. "I said, 'no,' I wouldn't do anything like that until after I was married," the woman said.

She added that she was walking Burgess to the door when "he turned around and hit me in the face." She said he subsequently hit and choked her and she screamed. "Shut up, you little ...," Burgess supposedly told her.

"He kept hitting me," said the 17year-old. She testified that she apparently blacked out and the next thing she remembered was being on the bed with her jeans off.

"I think I blacked out for a few minutes. I was over on the side of the bed and he raped me," she said. "Are you going to kill me?" she said she asked. Her assailant allegedly replied, "no, not if you do a good job." "I thought it would be best to cooperate with him," the woman told the Canada was waiting with welcome arms for all the people who said they couldn't live in the U.S. any more. Nobody came.

All the hopes and dreams of the Canadians to double their population overnight vanished, but it left a taste of bitterness that lingers on.

The greatest cause of anti-American feeling in Canada can be attributed to our presidential election-year promises which people in this country have failed to keep. How long can the Canadians keep building up their country for people who promise to go there, and then refuse to leave the U.S.?

At the moment Canada is in a terrible quandary. The ambassador in Washington has reported that 45 million Democrats have vowed to go to Canada if Ronald Reagan is elected President of the United States. He has also reported that surveys indicate that 40 million Republicans will go if Jimmy Carter stays in the White

Canada must decide in the next few weeks whether to go through the motions of preparing for them or to ignore those vows as idle threats. Suppose this time all the people who say they're going to Canada really do? Yet suppose the Canadians spent all the money and nobody shows up? It seems to me it is incumbent on every American voter not to say he's going to Canada unless he really means it. If he is sincere about it, he should notify the Canadian immigra-

Apparently neigher is President Jimmy Carter during an election year.

When the president announced his four-point plan of relief for the nation's ailing automobile industry not long ago, more than just a few people - including some of this nation's most notable Republicans - smelled a rat and didn't waste time in saying so.

Not that the package announced by the White House won't help the industry. Undoubtedly it will. And, from all indications of late, the industry certainly can use the help. But the timing?

The president's plan would:

 Relax environmental restrictions on emission controls which will have the effect of freeing about $500 million in cash the industry otherwise would have to spend in order to comply with regulations.

- Make available to car dealers $200 million to $400 million in Small Business Administration loan guarantees to help them finance new-car inventories.

- Provide at least $50 million in targeted grants to communities

Bulls in china shops aren't especially hard-hit by auto plant closings.

> - Accelerate formulation of new tax depreciation rules which would allow automakers to depreciate their production equipment at a faster rate.

> The GOP was notably and understandably incensed by President Carter's unveiling. After all, he walked into Detroit on the eve of the Republican National Convention there and tried to steal the show

> U.S. Sen. John Tower of Texas charged that Carter is "playing squalid politics with the office of the presidency." Republican National Committee Chairman Bill Brock called the president's relief plan a "platter of goodies." And that's just what the Republicans are saying in public.

> Well, no one has ever termed Jimmy Carter a genius of diplomacy. After all, look at the state of this nation's foreign policy.

> But in a political sense, he does have a tough political survival instinct. That's exactly what his actions in Detroit verify.

> It's just too bad that we haven't seen any of the toughness previously that's now surfacing in the president.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON -- Some of the good ol' boys around Jimmy Carter have demonstrated an overpowering attraction for Libya's Muammar Qaddafi, the darling of world terrorists. This is developing into a major scandal which has already produced some incriminating conversations, secretly recorded and erased a la Watergate. The real lure, of course, is Qadda-fi's abundant petrodollars, which he has handed out to terrorist gangs and President Carter's brother Billy alike. The fiery Qaddafi has been characterized best by the Central Innce Agency, which has called him "the world's most unabashed proponent of revolutionary violence.' Billy Carter made his first excursion to Libya in September 1978. He brought along an entourage of Georgians who were eager, I was told, to relieve Qaddafi of some of his petrobucks. So I flew to Libya to find out what the president's brother had been up to It didn't take long to discover what Qaddafi wanted out of the Carter administration. He was furious over Washington's refusal to deliver some airliners and transport planes which he had purchased from the United States. Qaddafi positively fumed when he spoke to me about it. "The United States is behaving as a thief," he bristled. "They didn't give us planes. They didn't give us even our money back .... I saw classified diplomatic dispatches and spoke to confidential sources. Afterward, I reported that "the Libyans hoped to use the President's brother to get their planes released" and that Billy Carter "talked to the Libyans about lifting the freeze ' Billy Carter has now admitted accepting a $220,000 advance on a

$500,000 "loan," which the Libyans granted him for no more than a handshake. He also accepted expensive release of the planes as evidence of good faith.

gifts and two all-expenses-paid trips to Libya, and he could collect enormous commissions for representing Libya on commercial deals.

Two months after Billy Carter returned from Libya, his brother in the White House released two Boeing 727 airliners to the Libyans. This was opposed, according to State Department sources, by then-Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Vance feared Qaddafi might use the planes for military purposes, which apparently is exactly what happened. A few months later, two 727s were spotted at the Nairobi airport in Kenya. U.S. intelligence experts believe the planes were being used to ferry military supplies from Libya to Uganda to support the bloody dictatorship of Idi Amin who later fled to Libya.

About the same time that Billy Carter was wheeling and dealing in Libya, fugitive financier Robert Vesco was also trying to secure the release of the controversial planes. He was in a unique bargaining position. Emissaries, claiming to speak for the White House, had urged him to keep his mouth shut about his efforts to buy influence inside the Carter administration. If Ronald Reagan can't control Gerry Ford, how can he stand up to the Ayatollah and Tip O'Neill?

The idea of Gerry Ford being Ronald Reagan's running mate would have driven us crazy. Suppose he won the election. He would have been Vice President-elect President Ford.

He also would have been an elected congressman, unelected vice president and unelected president running for election - as vice president.

This wouldn't have been a ticket it would have been a page in the Guinness Book of World Records.

BIBLE VERSE

Hear us, my lord: thou art a mighty prince among us: in the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead; none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, but that thou mayest bury thy dead. Gen. 23:6.

It's best for GOP the 'irresistible ticket' didn't gel

DETROIT — After any happening as tumultuous as an American political convention, there is a summing up, so I offer the following:

Republicans should be grateful that President Ford isn't the vice presidential nominee. A Reagan-Ford team was relished by GOP congressional candidates, eager for the upward pull of a seemingly irresistible ticket. What's more, deceptive surveys showed this strange combination had the greatest voter appeal.

But enthusiasm on a convention floor is often mindless and surveys are only snapshots of opinion which can change considerably in a matter of weeks. The Cadillac and Volkswagen are fine cars, but put a Cadillac's wheels on a Volkswagen and vice versa, and you would get no transportation at all.

After the hoopla and shallow overconfidence generated by the sight of Reagan and Ford lifting and joining their strong arms over the convention as the GOP standard-bearers, it wouldn't be long before the press and public would be re-examining this odd

For openers, in order to make the ticket legal, Gerald R. and Betty Ford would have to re-establish their Michigan residence. Next, there would be a probing of the relationship between Reagan and Ford, and plenty of spec-ulation on how each man once held bad feelings for the other. How could such a team function?

Then there would be a protracted discussion of how these two symbols of steadiness were going to tinker with the structure of the executive department so that Ford could, as reported, have a major say-so over national security matters, be excused from ceremonial duties which fall to every vice president, and even be allowed the privilege of living where he pleased.

The negotiations for this "package" deal — conducted as though Reagan were a corporation president or the owner of a football team trying to sign on sure-fire talent - sounded absurd and cheap. Ford was dumb to enter them and smart to get out. By what right could he insist on the hiring, say, of Henry A. Kissinger or Alan Greenspan as Cabinet officers, in order for Reagan to get that "dynamite clout" - as one Republican senator enthused about to me on the floor Wednesday night?

Finally, wouldn't any citizen with common sense ask how come this guy Reagan, who seems so strong and straight, is showing that he isn't sure of himself by bringing on a former president to shore him up? And how come "decent" old Gerry Ford can swallow his pride and take what is regarded as the worst job in govern-ment just to ensure a Republican victory? At a time when Carter and the Democrats seem so unreliable and weak, how come these Republicans are also acting skittery?

And now for a look at other foolishness and arrogance. The champs were those tabloids on the air, the TV networks, who spent $30 million to awe and try to overwhelm the print media (CBS paid $7,000 to quarter Dan Rather in a mansion equipped with heated pool, maid, cook and gardener). What TV gave us, mostly, was gossip, rumor, and a huge swatch of misinformation about the Ford "vice presidency." Shame on the TV fat-cats. Some ridicule Reagan as "show business" when they themselves are overpaid show business figures playing at journalism.

Runner-up for arrogance are those critics who wail because a conservative coalition used this Republican convention to work its will in the platform. Many of these same critics glowed when coalitions worked their will at other political conventions for anti-war planks, promises of paradise on earth and assorted tomfoolery.

There is honest concern in the Republic that abortion should not be elevated to an act of mercy from the reality that it is - in every instance, a grisly tragedy. And there is the notion that while women should be treated as equals, we don't need a new rash of excess, such as perpetrated by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, to implement this goal. I say all this knowing that some of these moral crusaders are as fierce as the moral liberals who once afflicted us all like gnats and mosquitoes.

are lucky that Chairman Bill Brock chose Detroit, a hard-working, goodhearted city these days, epitomizing the American will to revive strength and look upward again. True, Republican optimism could transform into perilous over-confidence. But the exhortations of Gerald Ford and Jack Kemp to lift our sights, quit stewing over problems, and set to work solving them are welcome and healthy.

When Ford cried "baloney" to doomsayer talk, thus borrowing from and willing Republic.

AMA adopts new code of ethics for physicians

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association has adopted a new doctors' code of ethics — the first in more than 20 years — that could help halt the spread of a costly series of lawsuits. The AMA House of Delegates on Tuesday approved a code which, among other things, permits physicians to advertise for patients and to accept patients referred to them by chiropractors. The House is holding its annual meeting here through Thursday. Dr. Lowell H. Steen of Hammond, Ind., AMA chairman of the board, said the action should help the group in its legal battles with both the Federal Trade Commission and with chiropractors in Illinois, Iowa, New Jersey and New York. Jersey and New York.

The 214,000-member AMA is spending $50,000 a month in legal fees, Steen said, and could go bankrupt if the chiropractors won all of their suits.

Chiropractors, who practice a method of healing based on spinal manipulation, have charged that the AMA tried to prevent doctors from working with them. They particularly wanted to be able to send patients to radiologists for X-rays. Meanwhile, the AMA is appealing a ruling by the FTC last year that said the AMA restrained trade by forbidding doctors to advertise.

An AMA attorney said the new code of ethics probably will not help settle the lawsuits. But, the attorney said, it should "stop the prolifera-tion" of new suits over the chiropractic issue, which has led to five suits since 1976. The AMA settled one chiropractic suit out-of-court in Pennsylvania last year.

In addition, the attorney said, the change makes it less likely that, should the FTC case be lost, the FTC would try to limit what ethical principles the AMA could adopt.

The new code of ethics, the first since 1957, removed a stipulation that physicians should not associate with those who do not use a scientific method of healing, which chiropractors said was aimed at them. It also deleted a provision that doctors "should not solicit patients."

Tower to make appearances in West Texas this weekend

LUBBOCK — Sen. John Tower will be in Lubbock this weekend for a series of appearances, including the official opening ceremonies of his West Texas office in downtown Lubbock.

Tower has scheduled a press con-ference at 10:45 a.m. Saturday at his office, 730 Court Place, 1001 Main St.

The senator served as chairman of the Republican National Convention's platform committee where his leadership of the proceedings was credited by many observors with helping to foster the unified mood exhibited throughout the party's meetings, according to a spokesman for his office.

The public is invited to the office's open house which begins about 11:15 a.m. Saturday.

Following the open house, Tower will address the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce International Trade Seminar luncheon at noon in the Hilton Inn. He also will appear at a Lubbock County Republican Party fund-raiser that will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Friday in the home of former Lubbock mayor and Texas Republican gubernatorial candidate Dr. Jim Granberry.

College education higher than average family income

NEW YORK (AP) — The cost of a pur-year college education at a priate school is now higher than the hedian income of all U.S. families, nd the worst is yet to come. A student who attends a four-year, rivate college or university and lives n campus will face a bill of over 6,000 for the coming academic year, p from about $5,500 last fall, accordng to a new study.

Joe Paul Case, director of program dministration for the College Scholrship Service, says the $20,000-aear college education is approachng.

The College Board on Tuesday reeased its annual estimate of college costs for the 1980-81 academic year, based on a survey of 3,200 schools. Case said the increase from last year's figures was lower than the boost in the preceding year and lower than expected "considering the way inflation has escalated." But he painted a gloomy picture for students and parents struggling to pay the bills.

The state of the second s

He said Congress is unlikely to increase federal aid for college students this year. "Without increased appropriations," he said, "more students will have to share the same financialaid pie."

Case said college costs have gone up about 90 percent since 1970. If the rate of increase continues, he said, "we'll see college expenses approach $20,000 a year at high-cost colleges by the end of the decade." Students and their parents now pay

56 percent of the college bill, according to the College Board. The rest comes from scholarships, Social Security and Veterans' Administration benefits, etc.

Case said, however, that the proportion may change in coming years. "If parents' incomes don't keep pace with inflation, the gap between the amount they are able to pay ... and the rising cost of college will widen," he said.

The board survey indicated that total annual costs — tuition, room and board, transportation, books and personal expenses — during the 1980-81 academic year will average $6,082 at private, four-year colleges and universities. At that rate, a four-year educatio would cost $24,328. The Conference Board, a non-profit, business research organization in New York City, calculates that the median family income for 1980 is $21,350. (The median is the exact midpoint; half of all families have a higher income; half have a lower income.)

According to the survey, the 1980-81 cost of a year at a private, four-year college for a resident student will be 10.3 percent higher than it was last year. From 1978 to 1979, the cost rose 10.6 percent.

Costs for resident students at public, four-year colleges will be an average of 8.1 percent higher this fall — $3,409 for the year — than they were last fall. During the preceding year, costs at the four-year, public institutions went up 8.5 percent.

Tuition and fees will be the biggest expense for on-campus students at private, four-year colleges, adding up to $3,279 in 1980-81. Room and board will cost $1,746; transportation, $291; personal expenses, $524; and books and supplies, $242. At public, four-year colleges, in contrast, the biggest bite for resident students is room and board, which will cost $1,620 next year. Tuition and fees will cost $706; transportation, $262; personal expenses, $586; and books and supplies, $235. Students who commute will face

Students who commute will face steeper increases, apparently because of the soaring price of gasoline. Expenses for commuting students at private, four-year colleges will be 14.3 percent higher this year than they were last year. Commuting students at public, four-year colleges will face a 12.7 percent boost in costs.

Also hard hit will be students at public, two-year colleges, where expenses for residents will be 20.1 percent higher this year than last. Case said many of the colleges "are dependent on local, county or district tax revenue for most of their support and this tax base has not been expanding to the degree the state tax base has which supports four-year colleges."

Government to finance building of 'tent city'

MIAMI (AP) — Bulldozers started clearing an old baseball field along the Miami River after the federal government agreed to finance construction of a "tent city" on the site for more than 700 Cuban refugees living in the Orange Bowl.

The stadium has to be vacated by Friday to prepare for the start of the Miami Dolphins' exhibition season Aug. 10. The U.S. government gave speedy approval for the city to spend between $800,000 and $900,000 to house and feed the Cubans who have lived in the Orange Bowl for the past month, since they arrived in the "Freedom Flotilla" boatlift.

The city had asked for $200,000 to pave the site of a planned Latin Riverfront Park with asphalt and erect a tent city that homeless and jobless refugees could use for up to a year.

"It is not a good solution to the problem, but I understand they could find no other suitable alternatives," said Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre. "And we need the Orange Bowl."

Some neighbors of the park worried about the arrival of refugees in an area already troubled by alcohol, drugs and juvenile delinquency.

"What if there are bad people jobs and housing and would relocate them out of Miami if the refugees among them?" asked Felicia Rivero, 80. But her daughter, Laura Milian, would agree. said, "They don't have anywhere else

Mobile police remove pickets, return to work

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Striking police and firefighters have reportedly accepted a city wage offer, but only police officers have removed picket lines to end a nine-day strike that also has left garbage piling up on the streets of this port city. City police ended their walkout just before midnight Tuesday and were expected to return to work today, the Mobile Press-Register reported.

The major stumbling block to resolving the labor dispute had been whether strikers would be penalized additional pay for the walkout. The City Commission said Tuesday that strikers would be "suspended one day for every day on strike," meaning that police and firefighters who manned picket lines for 10 days would be docked 20 days' pay.

But, according to the newspaper, the Mobile County Personnel Board had promised that no penalties would be imposed on striking policemen.

Marvin Richardson, a police union spokesman, said: "That's close to it, but we won't know definitely" until both sides meet this morning.

A spokesmen for the firefighters union said it had received no word from the personnel board and firefighters would not return to work until the question of amnesty is settled.

Sanitation workers had honored picket lines since the strike began July 14, leaving garbage to pile up on the streets and in parks. Authorities said there were no major increase in crime, but there have been at least five suspicious house fires since the start of the worst municipal strike in this Gulf Coast city's history.

and a service a service and the service and the service of the ser

An unidentified police source was quoted by the Press-Register as saying a vote to return to work was passed overwhelmingly at a meeting Tuesday night.

James Mayo, president of the Mobile County law enforcement association, which spearheaded the police strike, would make no comment Tuesday night.

The striking firemen and policemen sought a 20 percent pay increase. They currently make between $12,800 and $14,000 per year. The Press-Register said they accepted a city offer Sunday of an immediate 5 percent increase, a 5 percent merit raise for most city workers and another 5 percent increase next April during a weekend vote.

The City Commission had rejected amnesty pleas on grounds that the strike was illegal and it would be improper to pay the strikers for time on the picket lines.

Mayor Robert Doyle said non-strikers who made the "hard decision" to cross picket lines and work would receive double pay.

Temporary garbage dumping sites have been opened in nine city parks, but trash cans on city streets were overflowing. And some residents have been hauling their trash to neighboring towns or dumping it into big containers at apartment complexes.

Police take one of the striking hotel workers into custody Tuesday following a pot-banging, whistle-blowing demonstration outside San Francisco's posh Hyatt Regency Hotel. # First negotiations scheduled in San Francisco hotel strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The first talks in a week-old strike against 36 city hotels, a walkout that has pinched the inns at the height of tourist season, have been scheduled by a federal mediator who says he has no new basis for accord but wants direct meetings between union and management.

"The basis for the discussions is that they don't have an agreement and there are a lot of people in the streets," said Richard D. Williams, regional director of the Federal Mediation Service, who called the talks for Thursday.

Local 2 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union went on strike July 17 against the Hotel Employers Association. The union represents 6,000 maids, bellhops and restaurant workers.

On Tuesday, 46 hotel workers were arrested after a demonstration by several hundred pickets in front of the Hyatt Regency. Among those arrested was Charles Lamb, head of Local

The protesters were released after being cited for making too much noise or for failure to disperse. The misdemeanors carry maximum penalties of a $500 fine and six months in jail. One man was also charged with resisting arrest, police said.

Lamb said the Hyatt, "more than anyone else in the hotel association, wants a confrontation." He said pickets from other hotels were rallied at the Hyatt in a show of strength.

There was no comment from the hotel association, whose 36 member hotels initiated a lockout shortly after the union began its strike.

In another incident Tuesday, union member Wilson Ching, 26, was booked for investigation of suspicion of arson and resisting arrest outside the Sir Francis Drake.

Police said a tourist identified Ching as the person who set fire to an awning on the hotel. The blaze damaged the hotel's marquee and name sign with damage estimated at $2,000. The union posted $5,250 bail for Ching's release.

Not only have the hotels been forced to reduce their business, but cabbies, bootblacks and others here have complained of plummeting business.

The hotels made what they termed their final offer four days before the strike began. Guests at the affected hotels have been carrying their luggage and making their beds, while the Hilton and Stanford Court were forced to close for the duration.

The hotels offered a 31 percent wage increase package over three years, but union officials seeking improvements in working conditions say "dignity for hotel workers" is the issue, not wages.

Wildcat walkout disrupts delivery of New York Times

NEW YORK (AP) — A wildcat walkout by members of the newspaper deliverers union again disrupted delivery of The New York Times today, Times officials said. It was the fourth time since Friday that the union biocked deliveries of city papers.

Leonard Harris, a Times spokesman, said 75,000 to 80,000 copies would not reach readers.

The job action came on the day a state Supreme Court justice planned to decide whether to issue an injunction against the union.

The Metropolitan News Co. requested the injunction after drivers of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union blocked some deliveries of The New York Times and the Wall Street Journal on Tuesday morning, defying a court order directing them to work.

Justice Andrew R. Tyler said Tuesday he would continue a temporary restraining order against work stoppages and consider an injunction today.

The court order had been issued after a similar job action last Friday stopped delivery of 120,000 copies of the Times, 13 percent of its run.

Tuesday's job action resulted in blocked delivery of the same number of copies of the Times and 6,000 copies of the Wall Street Journal. But the Journal said it made other arrangements to deliver another 26,000 copies usually delivered through the Metropolitan News Co.

On Monday, a wildcat strike by the drivers kept the first morning edition of the New York Post off the streets.

Representing the Metropolitan News Co. in court Tuesday were Leo d'Angelo, a company foreman, and Carl Levy, formerly president of the deliverers union and now vice president of Metropolitan News.

Ford, to run the daily campaign. He also previously had enlisted former Ford aide Stuart Spencer as a consultant.

> In addition, Anne Armstrong, former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, came aboard Tuesday as campaign co-chairman, to work alongside Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev. Up until now, women have been conspicuously absent in the upper echelons of Rea-gan's campaign and some GOP women have complained.

The three days of staff meetings at the campaign headquarters near the Los Angeles Airport will focus on items such as scheduling Reagan and Bush appearances in the weeks ahead and the spending plan for the $29.4 million in federal campaign funds.

"Obviously, it's plotting the campaign for the next three months right up to the election," said press secretary Ed Gray.

Reagan will move his home from California to Washington in late August and probably will start his campaign before the traditional opening date of Labor Day, Sept. 1. Four or five campaign appearances are being planned for August, but the only event that has been announced is an Aug. 5 speech to the National Urban League in New York City.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Independent presiden- an allies and "our friends in the Persian Gulf tial candidate John B. Anderson, reporting on a just-completed trip to the Middle East and Europe, today called for an expanded U.S. military prescence in the region."

Anderson said he believes that while "we need to expand our military capabilities in the Persian Gulf region, this must be balanced against our military commitment to Europe.

"We cannot afford to weaken our defense of Europe to secure a marginal advantage in the Persian Gulf region.

During his trip, timed to coincide with last week's Republican National Convention, Anderson met with government leaders in Israel, Egypt, France, West Germany and Great Britain.

In his meetings with European officials, Anderson said, it has become clear to him that the Atlantic Alliance "has reached a critical juncture."

Because of divisions on a number of issues, including a diminishing world supply of oil, Andeson said, "There is serious concern among the leaders of Europe that unless steps are taken to renew the spirit of the Alliance, the Atlantic partnership may indeed flounder and drift slowly apart.'

The congressman said that under Carter's presidency, "a steady coherence of American foreign policy has given way to a babble of discordant voices

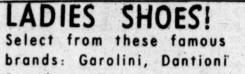

Under an Anderson administration, he said, there would be close consultation with European allies and events would no longer "dictate the nature of our Atlantic partnership." He said Western European leaders are agreed that if the United States took the lead, they would cooperate in helping to "redress the military imbalance that exists in the Persian Gulf," where the Soviet Union has frequently maintained a strong naval force.

Finally, Anderson said, the United States must recognize that the European alliance "must be a union of equal partners. Each member must act as a leader in its own right."

By August, Anderson must obtain more than 101,-000 signatures on petitions to qualify him for the November general election ballot. California campaign officials say they expect to have at least double that number.

Following San Francisco appearances, Anderson is scheduled to push on for stops in Modesto, Marin County, Burbank, and San Diego.

YOUR NEW LITTLE BLACK BOOK

Everyone needs a little black book. A special place to keep the names and numbers of the people you call most often. An easy-to-use reference that saves you time during your busy work day.

Now let us show you our new little black book. The Touch-a-matic® telephone from Southwestern Bell. It's designed especially for you.

The Touch-a-matic telephone works just like a little black book - only better. It memorizes 31 of the local or Long Distance numbers you call most often - and dials them for you at the touch of a button. It also takes the hassle out of busy signals by remembering the last number you dialed manually.

Add a Speakerphone to your new little black book and you have the convenience of hands-free calling. Listen and talk while you write, use your calculator, search files or move around your office. The Speakerphone can also make any call an on-the-spot conference call for everyone in your office.

To order your new little black book - the Touch-a-matic telephone - simply call us toll free at 1-800-442-7148, EXT. 624.

'Hints from Heloise' to begin

EDITOR'S NOTE: Beginning Thursday, a new face will join the family of Lifestyle syndicated columnists.

Heloise will join the ranks of Abigail Van Buren and Erma Bombeck as a regular columnist. Her "Hints from Heloise," a column of household hints, is to appear daily.

We are sure that her helpful tips for consumers will provide valuable money-saving information in these inflationary times.

Heloise grew up tugging at the apron strings of a Texas tornado. Mama Heloise, the household hints columnist and household word, whirled relentlessly through the world leaving a path of cheering housekeepers and sparkling homes.

When she ws just knee-high to a legend, daughter was pulled into the whirl and grew up learning the business of "Hints from Heloise." She watched Mama divising better ways to stamp out mold and mildew and researching new techniques to zap rings around collars and bathtubs

During the summers Heloise worked full time on the column. And after college-although she had set out to teach math-decided, "writing 'Hints frm He-loise' is really what I loved doing.'

The younger Heloise made her first formal appearance in the column in 1975 and readers fell in love.

Mama died Dec. 28, 1977, and the column was taken over by daughter. It has remained the premier household hints column of all time. King Features has distributed it for almost two decades to some 600 newspapers in 20 countries.

"The Honolulu Advertiser," the paper where the column first appeared, credits the feature as one of the main reasons circulation jumped from 46,000 to 71,000 in less than three years. After King Features began distributing "Hints from Heloise" readers were offered a small, free leaflet on how to wash clothes whiter. Result: Over 100,000 letters in five days. According to Honolulu Postmaster George Hara, it was "the largest single delivery of mail in Hawaii's history." Eventually more than 250,000 requests for the leaflet arrived.

the column has always been diversified.

the New Yorker wrote that a hint from the column was often like a window in an Easter egg, "...you look through and find a whole luminous scene, a view of the world complete and utopian.'

In more Heloise-ian style, an Alabama mother of three gushed, "God Blss Heloise! Have you ever thought of running for President?'

Heloise's "office" is an adjunct to her home in San Antonio. She relies on a permanent staff of three housewives-expendable to as many as 15 when the mail runs especially heavy-to sort and file the thou-sands of letters per week, to type correspondence and help with the testing.

Heloise was born in Waco and graduated from Southwest Texas State University. Intrepidness obviously runs in the dynasty. She loves to race across the Texas deserts on her dirt bike, takes fencing lsssons and scuba dives. She also loves taking care of her indoor and outdoor gardens.

Her special pride is her cooking abililty. She claims she can cook one of the world's best dinners with a personal recipe that calls for inexpensive cuts of chuck and brisket. The use of tea and coffee for flavor is part of the secret.

"I'm not a fanatical housekeeper like most people may think," Heloise said. "My philosophy is always to pick up the big chunks and keep things neat. No one is going to look inside your oven, heaven forbid!"

Smaller houses require furniture with myriad uses

Smaller may have to be better for many house-hunting Americans. Bedrooms, baths and garages, of necessity, will continue to be an integral ingredient in new homes of the 80s but ballooning housing costs dictate that something has to give.

Now many builders, faced with constructing homes with less squarefootage, are opting to eliminate rooms rather than shrink their size.

Consequently, many U.S. consumers are finding that single-purpose rooms - such as formal dining rooms and separate family rooms - are an unaffordable luxury in today's housing market.

With this new focus on one major room, furniture now must be designed for myriad uses. One answer to this need is three versatile new family-living room collections that blend practicality with up-to-date styling. Each group can handle almost every conceivble living situation, from children's rough-housing to grownup conviviality. All pieces perform at least two, or more, functions: bunching and stacking units form storage/entertainment centers that can also divide rooms, and sofa tables become desks or "serving" spots for latenight buffets.

Versatility is also the key word for the furniture: dual purpose sleep sofas and a casual contemporary upholstery collection with two styles of pit groups, sectionals, sofas and loveseats. Both were designed to play a variety of roles in today's multi-faceted rooms - whether it's last-minute overnight guest accommmodations or seating for a crowd.

The new utilitarian principle of flexible furniture doesn't ignore the ever-present table and chair. The desk chairs swivel with ease into any environment as do the more-than-occasional tables.

Even though a "back-to-basics" philosophy has permeated today's housing market, the American dream of owning a home is still alive and well - only the 1980s version has been condensed.

Son forms group after learning father has crippling disease

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) --Young Mike Edwards tried to kill himself four years ago when his father began showing signs of a brutal disease. Now the boy wants to help other youngsters who, like himself, could inherit the slow killer.

Troy Edwards, the boy's father, has Huntington's disease, an illness that cripples the central nervous system. Two months ago, his son formed Kids Involved to Combat Huntington's. The group already has nine young members.

"I really didn't understand the disease, but then I started getting scared again when I found out what it was," stopped.'

Tears streaming down his cheeks, Mike continued: "One day I came home from school and was getting a hair cut. I tried to commit suicide that day. I tried to hang myself."

THREE YEARS AFTER that episode, doctors finally diagnosed the illness.

"I know now what was wrong with dad and I felt better. Me and my dad are a lot closer now," Mike said. "We still don't do a lot of things. But I understand."

Wesley Brown, 11, helped plan the children's group and now is its president. Wesley's father, Paul, 33, also said. Early symptoms include involuntary jerks, twists and spasms of the neck, face, tongue, trunk, arms and legs. Speaking and swallowing become more difficult as the disease takes hold.

One of the first projects undertaken by the Jacksonville children was to ask the New York committee to translate its pamphlets and brochures into language that youngsters

The group also has placed posters in schools and sought public service announcements on local television stations in its drive for members, Mike said.

"We just want to let kids whose parents have Huntington's disease know what they're getting into," he said. "The important thing is to get to the kids for educational purposes."

the freckle-faced 15-year-old said. 'Now, instead of being scared, I'm trying to do something about it."

The boy said he hopes the group will help other youngsters in his position understand the deadly disease, including its effects on adults and the grim reality that children of Huntington's victims have a 50-50 chance of contracting the illness.

"IT REALLY HAS a big effect on kids, and that's why we started the group," he said.

The disease attacks brain cells, robbing its victims of the ability to control many muscles. Results include spasms, slurred speech and difficulty in swallowing. There is no cure for the illness, which claimed the life of folk singer Woody Guthrie in 1967.

"With me, it all started four years ago," Mike said. "We didn't know what was wrong with my dad.

"We used to spend a lot of time together," he said, his voice choked with emotion. "He used to take me out to the ball games and the movies and stuff like that. Then all of a sudden, he has Huntington's. Wesley's grandfather and uncle died from the illness. Relatives of Brown and Edwards, and the men themselves, work in a group called People Involved to Com-bat Huntington's, modeled after the national organization, the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, founded 13 years ago by Marjorie Guthrie, the singer's widow. Adults in the Jacksonville group said the children work harder than adults in promoting awareness of the disease. For young Wesley, it's easy to explain why.

"We should work harder," he said. "We still have a 50-50 chance."

SPOKESMEN FOR THE New York-based committee said they don't know how many Americans are afflicted with the disease because it often is misdiagnosed. Also, some families refuse to admit the illness exists in their history.

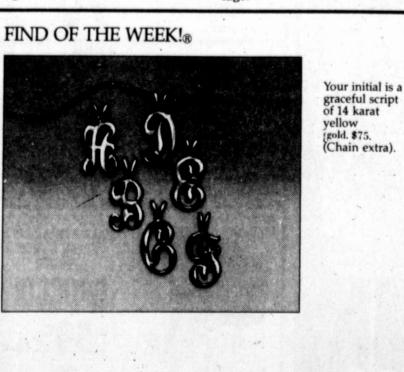

The disease is easily mistaken for multiple sclerorsis, alcoholism, Parkinsons's disease or epilepsy, experts

Solar energy old hat to Indian culture

Copley News Service

A lot of people still think of solar energy as some futuristic technology with few practical applications. Others think of it in terms of heating a swimming pool or small collectors on a few neighborhood roofs. But to the Papago Indian tribe of Arizona, solar energy will represent the most signifi-cant source of energy for their entire village.

It is particularly appropriate that a pilot project of this magnitude should be undertaken by native Americans. After all, Southwestern Indian cultures were relying on passive solar energy in their architectural designs nearly 500 years before Columbus sailed for the New World. In conjunction with the Department of Energy, The Public Health Service, and NASA, the Papago tribe are building the world's first solar-powered village.

Chic and exciting hats open mood for fall styles

NEW YORK - A true sense of fashion individuality is in store for fall as a range of unbeatable chic and exciting hat stylings provide the dash and flair that will give a personal signature to every woman's wardrobe

Designed with taste and subtlety, hats for fall offer the mood of unstudied assurance that makes them the integral accent to an outfit.

Ideal as piquantly small companions to structured, neatly tailored day suits, or for the rakish freedom of "disco nights," the new hats are tops for a fall look.

There are new, smaller hats to balance the lean lines outfits, mostly worn with a jaunty forward thrust on the forehead. Favorites in this group are sailors, caps, cloches, helmets, fedoras and berets.

The bigger hats for fall are BIG. They have the look of sculptured refinement that makes them ideal companions for a fuller skirt outfit. Big or small, hats are worn with a forward tilt on the forehead that gives a flirtatious, sexy meaning to eyeline flattery.

"After dark" lifestyles are coming into their own again as dining, dancing and theater attract ever increasing devotees.

With this comes freer, more innovative fashion statements from rampaging disco outfits to the subdued elegance of the sleek theater-dinner dress.

At the head of this trend is the new found favor of the jewelled evening hat. There is a classic use of velvets for cloches and berets for dinner suits and colored feather helmets, or trimmed caps for a dressier look.

With the new, gentler look in fashion, the beguiling tiny veil on hats is being seen again. They do wonders for a woman's femme fatale sense.

For nighttime "galas" the favored fashion accent is a tiny cap deftly fashioned of gossamer netting and overlaid with a trim of glitter and wispy feathers.

Fashion given new lease at fall-winter showings

Italian fashion industry, is being given a new lease on life for the fall-winter showin: s

Resigned to the fact that the outure dress is no longer a profit maker, Italian designers are using the shows which opened Tuesday to display not only high-quality design but to promote an entire industry

In the economic boom days of the 196Os, Italian designers were selling their hand-stiched miracles to certain level can mean a lot of sales in many the rich and the potent as fast as their studio elvescould sew them together. Today the high fashion clothes hang idle on the studio racks, partly because the jet-setters of today prefer anonymity, partly because the high cost of labor and materials create absurd price tags.

Last year the only Italian designer to claim satisfying sales in the high fashion department was Valentino who said he sold over a thousand models in the two seasons. One of his price tags can easily run as high as $10,000.

However, following in the footsteps of their Parisian cousins, for the past decade Italian designers

ENERGY ETHICS PART II THE MARKET PLACE

Constant research and testing is being conducted by numerous companies to provide effective energy conservation products in the market place that will meet consumers needs and accomplishes the goal of designing living and energy consumption patterns that are compatible with our environment, both now and in the future.

Armed with a few facts and figures, consumers can investigate the market place and select products intelligently. Keeping in mind the fact that heating/air conditioning energy costs consume a whopping 40 percent of our personal energy use, our attention is drawn to ways and means of lowering this percentage in our own homes.

Last week we explored the testing results from studies carried out with window shades, draperies and shutters and found that these types of window treatments could improve insulative values up to, and over, 50 percent, depending on materials and methods used. The simple window shade proved itself a savings of eight cents and up to 21 cents on every dollar spent for heating and cooling, respectively. What are other possibi-

When Edmond Kaspar was spying behind German lines during World War II, he not only spotted enemy troop movements, but he also learned something about how the French cook seafood. Today, as executive chef at New York's Sheraton Centre, he is putting this knowledge to good use.

While living in Berkley, Calif., a few years ago, this writer was introduced to the concept of cooperative shopping -"co-op markets" that sold food items for much less than the prices found in supermarkets. The co-op movement today is more than an isolated phenomenon found only in liberal or youth-oriented communities. Co-ops have caught on throughout the country and are now diversifying into goods and ser-vices other than food, including dental care, auto repairs, fuel and even funerals.

The attractions of coop shopping are clear ing products are not as and well-documented. Savings on monthly food budgets range from 15 to 50 percent, with an average grocery bill reduc-tion of 25 percent depending on what organiminister than some od the larger models, and zational format for the co-op is used, And co-op members claim that the quality of food they buy, particularly produce, is superior to anything sold in conventional markets. How does a co-op work? Basically, the coop is a group of consumers who pool their resources to allow for wholesale buying, instead of paying the retail middleman. In food, the savings stem from higher-margin items like produce, that may be marked up 20 to 30 percent in a regular store. Savings on items like frozen goods, flour, coffee and other fast-movnot in such large numbers as their adherents would have had us believe a few years ago. In the case in point, the house was built nearly 20 years ago, which accounts for the seemingly low price of $100,000 for a house that had all kinds of luxurious features. Why it was sold for less than $50,000 I have no way of knowing, but any time you build a house that is off the beaten track, it sells only to somebody who especially wants that kind of structure. Don't place very much weight on what happened in a single instance. Underground housing could very well be a part of the architectural future because of its energy-efficient character.

Q. — Can asphalt shingles be applied over an old roof that also has asphalt shingles? How about a roof with tile?

- Regarding the first question, generally, yes. No one can give a definite reply until a thorough inspection of the roof has been made. As I have told numerous readers on various occasions, there are many factors to be considered, including the condition of the old roof and the strength of the roof deck or supports. To question two, no. Asphalt shingles cannot be applied over hard or brittle materials, such as tile, since they do not permit the driving of nails.

Some years ago we had a pupil who bacame a bridge enthusiast. Despite our strenuous exhortations, she refused to take any finesses because, she said, "they make me nervous." She would have done very well on today's hand.

Once hearts had been raised. South's hand became very good. He made a try for game by bidding a suit in which he needed help. North, with full values for his simple raise, was quite willing to accept the invitation, but he was not sure where South wanted to play the hand. So North contented himself with a bid of three spades, and South corrected to the heart game.

West led the jack of diamonds. Declarer won in hand, cashed the ace-king of hearts, felling the queen, then tried the club finesse. That failed, and declarer now had to hold his spade losers to two. He tried to achieve that goal in the recommended fashion by leading a spade from his hand and finessing the nine. # Foreign friendships still suspect in China

By VICTORIA GRAHAM

CHENGDU, China (AP) - Comrade Wu, a bespectacled university professor, stopped a foreigner walking down a street one evening. "Now it's all right for us to contact foreign friends," he said. "Now we Chinese are free to speak what's in our hearts."

He then added hastily: "Of course, I had to have permission to talk to foreigners or I' couldn't possibly dream of doing it. My party leader said it was all right for me to practice English."

Comrade Wu - a pseudonym for the mild-looking, middle-age man and many other Chinese haunt the streets near a Chengdu hotel, waiting for foreigners. Wu is eager for fresh ideas and asks what foreigners think about China. He listens thoughtfully then speaks a caveat.

"Please," he said urgently, "don't try to contact me at my school. And if you write to me, don't write in English."

HE CAREFULLY wrote his address in Chinese on an envelope: "Here. You can mail this. That's what my other foreign friends do."

Torn between the desire to talk and the fear of criticism, Wu is not unusual in China today. Although relations with the West have improved and official and professional contacts with foreigners are increasing, personal contacts are still suspect.

The Chinese press warns Chinese young people against adopting mate-rialistic ideas from the West and cautions against decadent music, clothing and morals

LAST FALL, China cracked down on its tiny human rights movement, which had regular contact with foreigners. A lesson not lost on anyone was the case of China's best-known dissident, Wei Jingsheng.

Last October he was sentenced to 15 years in prison for allegedly trying to subvert the socialist system and for giving military information to a foreigner.

Since then, reporters have found some Chinese less willing to talk. Last month a French journalist reported that just as he was meeting a Chinese family to take them to his home for dinner, the man was arrested by plainclothes police. He was pushed roughly into a jeep and driven away.

The reporter photographed the jeep but an angry crowd made him give up his film. No public explanation was given.

Chinese young people and foreign students used to mingle in the often rowdy Peace Cafe in Peking. Last winter it was closed down.

CHINESE SELDOM show up at the Wednesday disco at Peking's Minzu Hotel these days. To go they must have permission from their work units and show identification.

Nor are foreigners permitted to attend most Chinese dances. At Peking's International Club, foreigners were not even permitted to stand in the doorway and watch for a few minutes. In Hohhot, Inner Mongolia, doors were chained after foreigners asked to watch.

It also is required that all Chinese visitors identify themselves or show identification before entering hotels where foreigners stay. One youth commented, "If you go to a hotel to see foreigners and just chat too many times, and if you don't have official business, someone is likely to ask what you're doing. They'll want to know what you're talking to them about.

In Chengdu, Wu insisted he doesn't mind that he can't walk into a hotel and talk with foreigners. "It's for their own protection," he said obliquely.

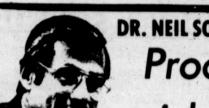

"The best way to contact Chinese," he said, "is in a public place with lots of people, a park or an airport, and to keep walking." Wu often leads foreigners to a crowded tea house and asks how socialism compares with capitalism.

ONE FOREIGNER suggested that many Chinese are wary of telling other Chinese what they really think because they fear they might be reported, as they were in the past.

"That shows a profound understanding," said Wu. "It is a very complicated situation."

Some young people, however, don't seem to mind disapproval. They throng hotel gates, waiting for foreigners to go for an

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've been trying to cut down on my family's sugar intake, and have drastically curtailed its use at the table. However, it seems to be present in most of the processed foods I use. Am I shopping for the wrong products, or is sugar actually used as widely as it seems to be? -Mrs. A.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: Sugar is in fact added to many processed foods. The Department of Agriculture reports that about 75 percent of all sugar consumed in the United States is added to foods and beverages before they reach the table. By comparison, in 1920, only 40 percent of the sugar eaten by the average person in this country was added to foods before they were served at home.

One way to avoid the intake of excesive amounts of sugar is to read food labels carefully and purchase accordingly. For example, fresh fruits or fruits packed in their own. juices can be substituted for those packed in heavy syrup; and fresh or frozen vegetables can be used in place of canned vegetables to which sugar has been added.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am very cholesterol conscious since there is a history of heart disease in my family. However, I cannot become accustomed to skim milk; it tastes like chalk to me. Does drinking whole milk negate my efforts to reduce my cholesterol intake? - Gus.

Dear Gus: Because of its lower fat content, skim milk is preferable to whole milk for persons interested in reducing their cholesterol intake; however, amy kind of milk can do the job. Yogurt is an even more effective food for reducing the amount of cholestersol in your blood, and it would be

Western Airlines to pay off

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Western Airlines will pay $25,000 in civil penalties and court costs and discontinue an alleged misleading advertising campaign under terms of a court settlement.

Without admitting any wrongdoing, the Los Angeles-based airline agreed

Monday to the settlement of a civil suit brought jointly by the San Diego city attorney and state attorney general's office.

The suit filed here alleged that Western's advertisements claiming 50 percent discounts on some fares were misleading.

Capt. Douglas W. Graham, currently secretary of the Midland Reserve Officer's Association, recently returned from Fort McCoy, Wis., where he performed reserve duty as course director of the Supply Specialist course. He also served as senior instructor of the school.

Graham, an Army Finance Corps officer, served on active duty from December 1972 to October 1974 and has been active in reserve service since 1974.

He is vice president and personnel director of The First National Bank of Midland. He was a participant in the 1979-80 Leadership Midland program and is charter president of the Permian Basin Personnel Association.

Staff Sgt. Larry H. Holder, whose wife, Linda, is the daughter of Evelin Smith and C.L. Teal, both of Odessa, has been named outstanding noncommissioned officer of the month at Ramstein Air Base at Landstuhl, Germany.

An air transportation supervisor, the sergeant was selected for professional skill, duty performance and exemplary behavior.

Pvt. James M. Simmons, son of Virginia Starnes of Big Spring, is attending basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Cadet Robert C. Glenn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Glenn of Midland, is attending summer training at Camp Buckner on the reservation of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y. The cadet is a third classman at the Military Academy.

During the eight-week course, cadets will gain experience in infantry patrolling, artillery firing, rifle marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat, mine warfare, demolitions, field communications and wilderness survival. One week will be spent at Fort Knox, Ky., where they will be trained in taak, cavalry and air defense operations.

Glenn is a 1979 graduate of Midland High School.

Master Sgt. Almus G. Casey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Casey of Lamesa, has graduated from the Air Force Systems Command Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque, N.M.

The sergeant received advanced military leadership and management training and is assigned at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M.

He is a 1963 graduate of Lamesa High School.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Radio signals are replacing lighthouses as guides for sailors on America's coastal waterways, but Coast Guard officials say the lighthouse still has a place as a navigation aid.

Most of the old lighthouses along the Louisiana coast have either been downgraded with smaller lights, taken out of service, or automated, said Coast Guard Lt. G.P. Shriver.

But the 8th Coast Guard District, based in New Orleans, still has one lighthouse with men on board among their three operating beacons.

"Southwest Pass is a manned light station," said Shriver. "It's pretty solitary — the crew of five splits up into two groups of two weeks. There's usually two people on the station." Shriver said the lighthouse, which Shriver said the lighthouse, which marks an entrance to the Mississippi River of 150 yards in width, is still kept as a beacon to guide ships into the channel. Its light shines into the Gulf of Mexico for 24 miles.

Duty on the Southwest Pass lighthouse is lonely, but there is worse duty in the Coast Guard, Shriver said.

"It's no worse duty than some of the ships that are away pretty much of the year, at three months a shot," Shriver said.

"It's mainly lonesome from boredom. You can only walk around the lighthouse so many times for two weeks, before you get bored real quick," said Shriver.

"We've got Loran stations, like French Frigate Shoals, where you spend a year there. That's nothing but a 300-foot strip of land, and that by far would be worse."

Loran is a radio locating system that depends on accurate signals from two separate stations to fix a ship's position.

The lighthouse has slightly softer chairs than you'll find in much of the Coast Guard, and amenities like television, radio, and a fishing boat, said Shriver. But crews still sleep on standard-issue thin mattresses, and fill out lots of paperwork.

"They get a couple of little extras there to try and make it a little bearable," said Shriver. "But still, it's not like living in downtown New Orleans. It's comfortable, and that's where we stop."

The lighthouse is the fifth to mark the entrance of the pass. Previous light stations have either collapsed or tilted in the Mississippi mud so badly they could not bear the weight of the heavy lens and thousand-watt lightbulb, said Shriver.

Shriver said manned lighthouses, like all lighthouses operated by the Guard, are becoming outmoded and are being replaced by modern navigational aids.

Loran-C radio systems and other position locating systems using satellites provide accurate benchmarks to guide skippers, and good Loran equipment can be bought for about $2,000, Shriver said. But there's still a place for the lighthouse.

"The big ships are still using them, but they use them more or less as landmarks than anything else," Shriver said. "I'd say it's really for the smaller vessel, for the actual light shining them back."

Classified Gunfire rattles La Paz, miners organize to fight junta Advertising Dial

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Sporadic and sometimes heavy gunfire rattled through the streets of La Paz for a sixth straight night as tin miners in the mountains to the south said they were forming an army to fight Bolivia's new military junta.

Sources said most of the shooting came from soldiers trying to frighten violators of the 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew in La Paz. But the military command said Tuesday night that "groups of armed agitators" were operating in the industrial district. It gave no details, but said, "The armed forces are prepared to guarantee tranquility."

The government also said terrorists assaulted the water purification plant at Pampajasi in the mountains above La Paz but that "the precautions td no (by the government) caused the effort to fail." It did not elaborate. The plant is the capital's main water source

The rightist military officers who seized control of the government last Thursday have set up machine gun nests at some public utilities and deployed tanks, armored cars and troops at strategic points around the city.

In the tin mining regime south of the capital, miners claimed to be resisting troops sent to subdue them. In short-wave broadcasts monitored in La Paz, the unionized miners reported sporadic clashes between armed miners and troops, and claimed the army had ambushed a Red Cross vehicle about 180 miles southwest of the capital.

The broadcasts also said 5,000 peasants were gathering near the Siglo Veinte mine, 150 miles south of the capital, "and are organizing with miners into an effective army."

The reports could not be confirmed.

The military regime, headed by army commander Gen. Luis Garcia Meza, has refused to say how many persons have been killed, wounded or arrested since the coup. Opponents of the regime have accused the junta of murdering some of its foes and arresting hundreds of others. Some reports say numerous political and union leaders are in hiding.

The widow of slain presidential candidate Marcelo Quiroga accused the regime of murdering her husband, the secretary-general of Bolivia's Socialist Party

"Many witnesses have said clearly Quiroga did not die in combat as the government said but was the victim of premeditated murder," Cristina Quiroga said in a letter passed to reporters.

"He was wounded as he left the Bolivia Workers Central Union with his hands on his neck, and he was taken alive to the chiefs of staff headquarters where he was killed," she said, adding that the government refused to give her his body.

She appealed to the military "to release the hundreds of persons who have been arrested. ... and to return power to the people.'

The government claimed Quiroga, a former minister of peasant affairs who finished fourth in a field of 13 candidates in the June 29 presidential election, 'died in combat" during the coup.

The military ousted interim President Lydia Gueiler in order to head off the expected election of a leftist president, Hernan Siles Zuazo, by Congress. Siles Zuazo won a plurality in the presidential vote, but the winner was to have been chosen by the Congress because no candidate gained a majority. Siles Zuazo reportedly went into hiding after the appeals for a return to civilian democracy and accused the Carter administration of "unacceptable and threats to destroy the country." The newspaper Ultima Hora; which published Tuesday for the first time since the coup, said Mrs. Gueiler and about 30 other people had taken refuge at the home of the papal nuncio, the Vatican envoy in Bolivia. It said she was awaiting a safe conduct pass from the government and planned to fly to Miami.

The Interior Ministry, meanwhile, extended the registration of foreigners for another day today and said more than 5,000 people had complied with the registration order. The government has said any foreigners whose documents were not in order would be deported.

Police investigating assault of Midlander hours

Terrance Lee Evans, 19, of Route 1 Box 76RR was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital emergency room early this morning after reportedly being assaulted in the 400 block of North Baird Street.

Evans told police he had taken his girlfriend home about 1:15 a.m. and was in the 400 block of Baird when a light brown Grand Prix approached him and honked. Evans said he thought he knew the driver, so he stopped his car. He was then assaulted by two unknown men, according to reports.

The Grand Prix was last seen going south on Baird Street.

Evans was released from the hospital after treatment.

Police are also investigating a case of criminal mischief in which someone kicked in a wooden door, damaged a chest of drawers and put a hole in a wall.

Tom Alldred, 2208 Northrup Drive, reported the offense to police about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday. Alldred said he heard a loud noise at 2210 A Northrup. After going to his front door, he heard another loud noise, stepped outside and saw that the front door on the house next door had been kicked in. He then called police Damage was estimated at $150.

Jo Traweek, 510 George St., was injured in an accident at 12:54 p.m. Tuesday. According to reports, Ms. Traweek was southbound on Pecos Street and Roberta Heatly Wilson of Box 4344 was eastbound on Kansas Avenue. The two vehicles collided at the intersection, with the impact forcing the first vehicle over the curb. Ms. Traweek was taken to a private doctor by a private vehicle.

At 2:06 p.m. Tuesday, Dorothy Elliott Oswald of 1108 W. Indiana Ave. was eastbound on Missouri Avenue. Ethel Bullock Fernandez of Brownsville was southbound on South G Street. The two vehicles collided at the intersection, injuring Ms. Oswald. She refused medical care, according to police reports.

An early morning accident Tuesday injured two eople when the vehicles collided at the intersection of Andrews Highway and Holiday Hill Road.

Police said Jasper Smith of Odessa was facing west on Andrews, making a left-hand turn onto Holiday Hill Road, John Thomas Blackwell Jr. of 2502 Shell Ave. was eastbound on Andrews. Pope announces visit to W. Germany in fall VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II will visit West Germany Nov. 14-17, Vatican sources said today.

The sources said the announcement would be made public only after the parliamentary elections in Germany in October.

Officially, the Vatican said no decision had been made on the trip.

In Germany, the independent daily newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung said the Vatican had been expected to announce the trip within a few days

The newspaper said the pope would visit Cologne, Munich, Altoetting and Fulda

The chairman of the German Bishops' Conference, Cardinal Joseph Hoeffner of Cologne, first invited the former Cracow cardinal to visit Germany in 1978.

The newspaper said Hoeffner renewed the invitation to help celebrate the 700th anniversary of the death of St. Albertus Magnus in Cologne.

The globe-trotting pope, who returned earlier this month from an exhausting 12-day trip to Brazil, has visited 13 countries since he was elected in 1978.

Altoetting, near the Austrian border, is the site of a monastery and chapel which thousands of pilgrims visit each year to see the 13th century statue of Our Lady of Grace.

Fulda, in central Germany, is the home of the University of Fulda, a combined Jesuit and Benedictine school. The abbey of Fulda is a former Benedictine monastery founded in 744.

Munich, one of the most important dioceses in Germany, is predominately Roman Catholic.

The pope will visit the central Italian city of Aquila on Aug. 30 to celebrate the 600th anniversary of the death of Saint Bernardine of Siena, the archibishop of Aquila said today.

Call to trailer house answered by firemen

Midland firefighters were called out to a trailer house fire in the county late Tuesday night, only to find the fire out when they arrived.

According to reports, the fire began between 11 and 11: 30 p.m. on County Road 1309 West. The trailer was owned and occupied by G.F. Galindo, Route 1 Box 294.

Firemen said an air conditioner cord had apparently shorted out, causing slight damage to one wall and a ceiling. No one was injured. Firemen returned to the station about 12:10 a.m. Since 1 p.m. Tuesday, firemen also have been called out to wash down fuel at two accidents and to transport a possible assault victim. Ten people were transported by CFD ambulance.

physical torture, was found in a pine tree forest near Beirut a few days later.

Taha's assassination came 23 hours after gunmen kidnapped the general manager of Lebanon's state television station, Charles Rizk, in mostly Christian East Beirut.

He was released after five hours. Rizk resigned his post after his re-lease and his staff declared an indefinite strike that blacked out all TV screens in Lebanon, demanding that he return. Rizk's abduction and Taha's assassination complicated efforts by Christian President Elias Sarkis and Moslem Premier-designate Takieddin Solh to form a new Lebanese government capable of reconciling the nation's warring factions.

Although the Syrian army smothered the 19-month sectarian conflict 44 months ago, Lebanon's Moslem and Christian militia leaders have not begun a peace dialogue.

Informed sources said plans to form a "government of combatants," comprising leading civil war antagonists, were hampered by Syria's objection.

The sources said Syria, whose 22,-000 troops police Lebanon's civil war armistice, has told a delegation of Lebanese leftist leaders that conditions still are not ripe for a national reconciliation.

The sources said Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam cited a growing conflict between the Christian Phalange Party and former Christian President Suleiman Franjieh as an example of why the major antagonists cannot get together. Solh, designated Sunday to replace outgoing Premier Salim el Hoss, was reported trying to put together a government of non-partisan parliamentarians that would try to improve security conditions and "manage the Lebanese crisis."

'Hector Cruz hit his first home run of the season off us in Cincinnati and now Leonard gets his third homer of the season off us," Torre lamented Tuesday night after Leonard's tworun home run ignited the Houston to a 6-5 victory

"Strange things are just happening to us lately. I'm not taking anything away from Leonard or Cruz. But why does it have to be against us all the time? The Astros have the greatest built-in advantage playing indoors in this ball park.'

New York fashioned a 5-3 lead against the Astros after four innings only to watch Leonard's towering two-run homer over the center field fence tie the game in the sixth after Craig Reynolds had walked.

Later in the same inning Terry Puhl singled and Jose Cruz drove him home with the winning run and the Mets had another case of bad luck playing in the Astrodome where they've won only two games in the past two seasons.

"Everybody has somebody who is a thorn in their side," Torre said. "Last year we had it against Pittsburgh. This year the Astros have it against us. I can't explain it."

It was Houston's 19th one-run victory of the season and another in a long series of comebacks. And Leonard's blow provided the spark.

"I don't know what he hit but you don't see many balls hit over the center field fence in the Astrodome," Cruz said of Leonard's homer. "That was clutch hitting at its best."

Leonard, reluctant to speak to the media since expressing displeasure with a recent newspaper article, said only "I'm just happy it happened. I don't have no other comment."

New York got one run in the second inning off Houston starter Joe Niekro, whose wild pitch allowed John Stearns to scored from third base and Steve Henderson's third inning triple provided another run.

The Mets added three more runs in the fourth on singles by starting pitcher John Pacella and Lee Mazzilli and a wild pitch by Niekro.

The Astros, who took a 21/2 game lead over Los Angeles in the National League Western Division race, got one run in the second on Rafael Landestoy's single and two more runs scored in the third on a triple by Cesar Cedeno and single by Enos Cabell.

Dave Parker wants a trade

SAN DIEGO (AP) - All-Star outfielder Dave Parker, upset that he's become a target of homepark fans, says he's "reached the point of no return" in Pittsburgh and wants the Pirates to trade him.

His trade demand came two days after the latest fan abuse incident involving the National League's 1978 Most Valuable Player and two-time batting champion.

Parker, who took a .284 batting average with 12 home runs and 52 runs batted in into Tuesday night's game, walked off the field in the eighth inning of a doubleheader opener last Sunday in Pittsburgh after a spectator nearly hit him with a transistor radio battery. The 29-year-old outfielder sat out the second game, won by Pittsburgh 8-7 over Los Angeles.

"It is in the best interests of both parties - the city of Pittsburgh and myself - to complete my career without bodily harm," said Parker. "Whoever feels that strongly about Dave Parker, we can eliminate that problem.'

Pirates' Manager Chuck Tanner said Parker has become the target of "a sick person."

Parker said he's informed the Pirates' front office that they "have to get me out of town, period.'

If traded, terms of his contract confine the list of potential team to nine, including Cincinnati, his hometown. Other teams he identified Tuesday are the Los Angeles Dodgers, California Angels and Atlanta Braves.

"I was hit in the back of the head with a gas valve from a pellet gun last year. Sunday it was a battery. Earlier this year somebody tossed a sock full of nuts and bolts that weighed five pounds. A couple of years ago it was a bat," Parker told The Associated Press.

"Maybe it's the money. But everybody else in baseball respects me. It hasn't happened all year except in Pittsburgh and I find that hard to digest because that's where I live. Parker entered Tuesday's game against San Diego batting .285 with 52 runs batted-in and 12 homers.

"Hey, I love the city and I'd love to stay there. Fact is I've got to go out everyday and put my career on the line. I'll do everything I can to help the Pirates win, but I've reached the point of no return."

"He's right in everything he says about the abuse," said Tanner. "But, for every one that tries to do something to him, there's 100 that love him.

Long Gray Line is unending WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) - The Long Gray Line refers to the unending ranks of officers produced by the United States military academy

But it could just as easily stand for the football coaches who have tried to direct Army's teams over the past three decades.

"Long" because the list of head coaches here since 1958 numbers six. "Gray" because it has grown dim over the years trying to make Army a winner in an age of tight money and the loosening mystique of military life for America's young men, and for America's young football players.

The last two head coaches here have seemingly grown tired of football, or at least the way it was played at West Point. Homer Smoth, coach from 1974-78, said he needed a break from the game after being fired at the academy. He ended up in divinity school in Boston.

Lou Saban, Army's coach last season, left to go back to Florida and look for another job.

"This is the first time I've left with nothing else lined up," Saban said. Only 10 months earlier, he had expressed his desire to finish out his career at West Point. Now Ed Cavanaugh takes over the head coaching job with a new threeyear contract. He inherits a 2-8-1 team that has not had a winning record since 1977 and, more important to some, has beaten arch-rival Navy only once in the last six years.

Cavanaugh predicted respectability for his teams in his first news conference as head coach here Tuesday. He also said things are improving for Army when it tries to recruit players.

"The response I've received recruiting this year was very good. The young men were very receptive to the possibility of attending a military academy," he said.

"We are now almost 10 years removed from Vietnam and I think there is a sway in the thinking of our young people. You might say they are becoming more patriotic."

Cavanaugh's boss, Superintendent Lt. Gen. Andrew Goodpaster, says the academy is ready to make a commitment to football in an attempt to reclaim the school's fabled "12th man".- the cadets cheering the game.

"We are going to restore and rebuild that commitment," Goodpaster said. "Cadets want to be enthusiastic and we're going to give them something to be enthusiastic about."

TONIGHT, PAUL Semall, 6-1, will try to make it two straight for the Cubs against Mike Glinatsis, 2-7, at 7:30 p.m. in the third of the five-game series.

Jeff Stadler, 0-3, took the loss and the Cubs' two first-inning runs were enough to win it. Shortstop Dave Owen, recalled from Quad Cities to replace the Wichita-bound Chico Alfaro, reached first on an error and scored as Scott Fletcher and Tom Grant delivered singles while Gary Krug's fly to center plated the second run.

Hicks' double and La Vigne's triple and the Cubs made it 4-0 in the fifth when Owen walked and moved around on Fletcher's single and Hicks' infield hit to third.

BY THEN the suspense had settled on Perlman's pursuit of a shutout. Owen's bobble and throwing error put David Cardwell on second to lead off the sixth and he moved to third on an infield out. It was then that Perlman experienced his only unsettling moments of the night, uncorking a wild pitch that let Cardwell score from third.

Jon finished issuing his only walk of the night to David Wiggins and then gave up a single to Charles Davis. Perlman appeared upset by the wild pitch that cost the shutout, but protested, "It wasn't so much that as the walk. I was right around the plate on all of the pitches and it bothered me to lose Wiggins. I didn't walk anyone at Shreveport in that extra inning game and only one tonight. That's the key to much success, control and the ground ball. When I try to overpower the batter my ball flattens out." The win marked a series of frustrations for Perlman, two no decisions and a rainout at Jackson when he led 1-0 after 3½ innings, "a night when I had my best stuff of the season."

A three-run seventh ended any suspense that may have hung over from the previous night when the Caps scored five times in the ninth to

Katt's baseball childhood Hicks' double and La Vigne's triple produced another run and chased Stadler for Scott Budner in the fourth finally coming to end

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — At age 41, Jim Kaat is a little boy growing up. His childhood finally is coming to an

Oh, it may persist past this October, when the St. Louis Cardinals play their final game of a lamentable 1980 season. Somehow, Kaat may be able to persuade his tireless left arm to throw major league pitches for another year or two. But only if he is guaranteed his salary will Kaat consider continuing his career with St. Louis. Otherwise, he says, he's off to his 15-acre Pennsylvania sheep farm and hoping for a job as a sports announcer.

It matters a great deal to Kaat that he avoids the situation he faced this spring in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he battled for a spot on the New York Yankees' pitching staff. Kaat won a job then - and a reported $150,000 salary - and he made four relief appearances for the Yankees before pitcher Rudy May came off the disabled list, leaving Kaat without a team. The Cardinals, just beginning their early-season dive, needed help in the bullpen and purchased Kaat's contract from the Yankees on April

Next year, though, Kaat says he will not abide by such indignities as watching ballyhooed young phenoms trying to win his place on the roster. "I did that this year only because I had my heart set on playing 20 full seasons as an active major league player. I've put enough time in this game that if I have to go spring training and prove that I can pitch in the big leagues, I don't want to do that. I'm not afraid of it, but I don't feel I have to do it."

No matter when the inevitable occurs, once Kaat decides to leave the job he has had since 1957 he will do so reluctantly. Growing up is painful.

"Playing this game gives you a license to be a kid," he said the other night, swigging on his second Michelob and bantering with teammates who weren't even in grade school when Kaat was striking out hitters by the hundreds in Superior, Neb., Missoula, Mont., and Chattanooga, Tenn.

This is the part of the game that is closest to this Michigan farmboy's heart - the lifestyle around the sport, the indelicate jokes, the camaraderies, the cavalier attitude of young men well paid to play. "You look at a guy who's 30-35 years old with a three-piece suit," Kaat says. "If he comes in our clubhouse, he wouldn't know how to act."

Miller reports to Atlanta training camp with contract

ATLANTA (AP) - Tight end Junior Miller, the newest Atlanta Falcon, was ready for today's start of two-a-day drills at the National Football League team's Suwanee training camp.

"I'm looking forward to it, I'm happy, I'm excited," Miller said in an interview after arriving at the Atlanta airport Tuesday night. "Two-adays are an every-year thing. I'm used to it."

Miller, a tight end from Nebraska and a former football and basketball standout at Midland Lee, had been holding out since July 16 in a contract dispute with the Falcons. He said he signed his NFL contract on the plane while en route from Chicago. ...'It's a relief," Miller said. "I think the hardest part is behind me. The hardest part is negotiating a contract. Now I'm looking forward to getting into the program.'

"I feel like I'm in good condition, but I don't know what the coach wants," he said. He said he weighed 243, "I feel that's what I usually would play at." He's listed on the roster at 235.

Miller said he has been running in the morning and lifting weights daily.

"He looks to be in great shape," said Falcons General Manager Eddie LeBaron, who met Miller and Tom Braatz, Falcon director of player personnel, at the airport.

"We feel he has the talent to add a dimension to our attack. With a speed tight end who also can block and clear out the middle it will be a change in our game plan," said LeBaron, a former All-Pro quarterback.

Braatz said he and Miller's agent, Larry Muno, had been meeting since Monday and shook hands on the agreement about 5 p.m. Tuesday. Miller then flew to Chicago to join them for the flight to Atlanta. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Miller was then whisked by LeBaron to the Falcons' training camp in Suwanee, where all the Falcons veterans are to report today.

"He'll undergo an early morning physical and be there at the 9:45 practice and the 2:45 practice," LeBaron said.

Miller said he was "not too familiar with the Falcons' game plan." "I've not had the opportunity to go over all the plays, but I think I can go ahead and learn to contribute in this system," he said

LeBaron said the Falcons "are very, very happy to have him in camp. You need work when you come in to this game. It's time to get ready for the season."

Miller's signing left only veteran wide receiver Alfred Jenkins without a contract.

"I expect Alfred will be in camp," LeBaron said Tuesday night. "You never know, but I don't think we're that far apart."

The Falcons waived eight rookies Tuesday including five defensive backs: Keith Edwards of Minnesota, Mark Braman of Michigan, Warren Gaffney of Florida, Alfonzo McMillan of Southwest Oklahoma State and Stephen Barnes of TCU.

Also released were linebacker David Crossen of Wisconsin, place-kicker Carl Langley of Mississippi and running back Roscoe Mitchell of Fort Valley State.

Two Bells ring loud in AL games

By The Associated Press

Two Bells - Buddy and Kevin and all's well with the Texas Rangers and Chicago White Sox.

The Rangers continued their smooth sailing of recent days and ran their winning streak to four games when Buddy Bell again tormented the Boston Red Sox, collecting three singles and scoring twice — including the winner in the ninth inning — in Texas' 4-3 victory Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, Kevin (no relation) Bell rapped a two-run double and even-tually scored as the White Sox defeated the Kansas City Royals 6-1, ruining another comeback attempt by oft-injured Steve Busby.

Texas third baseman Bell is making a career of hitting against the Red Sox, especially in Boston. Bell, who singled ahead of Rusty Staub's fourth-inning homer, led off the ninth with his third consecutive hit, was sacrificed to second and scored the winner on a single by Pat Putnam. The triumph lifted the Rangers to the .500 level and left them 9½ games behind Kansas City in the AL West

"This is an excellent hitters' ballpark and you get up for a game here," said Bell, who has a .277 average in his nine-year career but is batting .333 against Boston with 168 hits in 505 at-bats, with 17 homers and 67 RBIs.

"The fans are great and it's a nice place to play. It's a baseball town. I don't think I've ever heard anyone say they didn't want to play here, except maybe a few pitchers." White Sox 6, Royals 1 Kevin Bell's double continued his hot hitting since White Sox owner Bill Veeck sent him to a hypnotist. Bell was hitting "about .080" when Veeck convinced him to start working with Chicago furniture magnate and amateur hypnotist Mort Cohen.

"I've been talking to him every day, even on the road," said Bell. "You count to five, then you close your eyes. Your eyes get tired. Each session lasts about seven or eight minutes. He mostly works on self-confidence and thinking positively. "The first night I was 2-for-4. I've been hitting the ball pretty well. He just tells me to go up there and be comfortable, that I'm going to make solid contact and have good knowledge of the strike zone. He doesn't charge me anything for it; he's a multimillionaire and doesn't need the money

He went the rest of the way, scattering five hits, striking out six and retiring the last 13 batters. The Brewers scored on Ed Romero's tworun single in the second inning and Money's homer in the third.

In the opener, Johnny Oates, Buckey Dent and Bobby Murcer rapped RBI hits off Lary Sorensen in the fifth inning. The split left the Brewers 7½ games behind New York in the AL East.

Angels 6, Tigers 4

Larry Harlow singled home the tiebreaking run in the seventh inning and Mark Clear recorded his eighth save to help Andy Hassler snap a personal 17-game losing streak in a California uniform. Hassler last won as an Angel on April 29, 1975. He pitched for Boston, the New York Mets and Pittsburgh before the Angels reacquired him last month.

Jason Thompson, who opened the seventh with a double and scored on Harlow's hit, provided an insurance run in the eighth with an RBI single. Lance Parrish hit two home runs to rally the Tigers from an early 4-0 deficit.

Orioles 8, Twins 4

Dan Graham drove in four runs with a homer and a double to help Mike Flanagan win his 10th game with a seven-hitter. Graham, a former Twins player who drove in six runs against his old club Monday night, clubbed a three-run homer in the first inning off Roger Erickson and doubled home another run in the fifth.

Graham wasn't gloating. He wasn't doing much of anything.

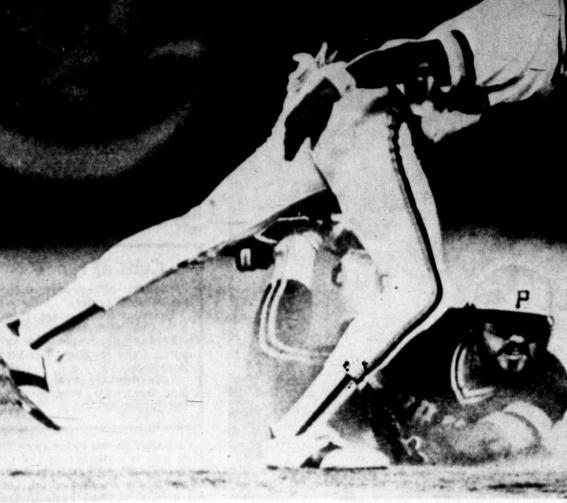

"I really don't have anything to 'he said. "It's not anything out of bitterness or toward reporters. It's just the way I am.

Barber, Dorris remain unsigned

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - The Houston Oilers starting tight end Mike Barber and defensive end Andy Dorris remained unsigned today and Oiler manager now also is facing a challenge from agent Jerry Argovitz, who wants to renegotiate linebacker Robert Brazile's contract.

Brazile, a perennial all-pro selection and Pro Bowl member, has three years remaining on his current contract, which reportedly pays him be-tween $70,000 and $80,000 annually. "Robert is the most underpaid player in the NFL based on what he has accomplished," said Argovitz, who negotiated Billy Sims' multi-million dollar contract with the Detroit Lions. "He has outperformed his contract."

"Some linebackers in the NFL are making twice as much as Robert," Argovitz said. "What lineackers? You name them, (Jack) Lambert, (Jack) Ham, (Randy) Gradishar, (Gregg) Bingham."

Steve Macko gets call

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago Cubs on Tuesday recalled former Midland Cub infielder Steve Macko from Wichita of the American Association where he had a .251 batting average in 87 games with nine home runs and 42 runs batted in.

To make room for Macko, catcher Mike O'Berry was optioned to Wichi-ta then back to Midland. O'Berry, who started the season with Midland, had one hit in five plate appearances for the Cubs this season for a .200 average.

The Cubs had recently called up former Midland player Jim Tracy from Wichita.

Atlanta's Horner makes up lost time

By The Associated Press

It's a long, long way from April to July. But Bob Horner admits it's a long way from July to October. too.

When Horner, Atlanta's shaggy-blond, slightly pudgy third baseman, started the season, it looked as though it would be a long one, indeed - batting .059. making one error after another and getting into a lengthy row with Ted Turner after the Braves' owner tried to ship him to the minors.

But he's hitting like a major leaguer now. On Tuesday night he slugged two home runs, driving in four runs to help the Braves beat Montreal 7-5.

More important, perhaps, the homers were Horner's 15th in his last 23 games, the 19th and 20th of the season and gave him 13 in July, two short of the major league record shared by Joe Adcock and Hall of Famers Hank Greenberg and Joe DiMaggio.

"I don't know why," Horner said. "I just hope nobody wakes me up until the end of October ... Honest to God, I can't say I'm doing anything different than I was on opening day. It just fell into place.

nedy's sacrifice fly to break a seventh-inning tie and give the Cardinals their triumph.

St. Louis' other runs against Don Sutton came on homers by Ted Simmons and Leon Durham. Ron Cey homered for Los Angeles.

Pirates 4, Padres 3

Steve Nicosia drove in two runs and Jim Bibby notched his 12th win, but it wasn't easy.

After Bibby silenced the Padres on five hits for seven innings, Enrique Romo started the eighth in relief. Dave Winfield greeted him with a homer, then Dave Cash tripled and Jerry Turner singled in the ninth. On came Grant Jackson - and out he went after singles by Gene Richards and Ozzie Smith cut the lead to a run. Kent Tekulve finally put down the uprising and earned his 13th save.

ness after 12 innings Monday, then Chicago came back to win the regularly scheduled game as Mike Vail drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double.

"It's been a tough year," said Vail, a spot starter and pinch-hitter despite being the owner of a .300 average all season. "I've been struggling and swinging at some bad pitches lately, but it's very difficult to play under these circumstances and very hard to prepare mentally. Even when I was third and fourth in the league in hitting, I was never sure of being in the lineup. It's all very hard to understand.

Lions treat QBs gentle

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — The three quarterbacks in the Detroit Lions' camp all wear the teams' regular blue jerseys in practice, but they really are red shirts as far as Coach Monte Clark is concerned.

Clark doesn't want anyone to tackle one of his signal callers - risking a potential injury - until it's absolutely necessary.

Last year, you may recall, the Lions lost regular quarterback Gary Dan-ielson to a knee injury in the third National Football League exhibition game. They then stumbled home with a 2-14 record - worst in the NFL with rookie Jeff Komlo and a series of washed-up veterans taking turns under center.

Danielson is back and appears sound, but nobody will know for sure until Clark takes down the caution flag. "I know we're going to have to test Gary sometime, but I'm in no hurry to rush it," Clark said between practice sessions earlier this week.

Despite missing all of last season, Danielson has regained his No.1 status and so the race in camp is for the backup job between Komlo and rookie Eric Hipple, an impressive 6-foot-2, 200-pounder from Utah State the Lions drafted in the fourth round.

"I know a lot of people thought that Jeff should be given the No.1 quarterbacking job, at least until Gary won it back," Clark said. "But I just don't see it that way. Gary Danielson is the quarterback of this team as long as he's healthy - and right now he is."

Eastern, North Central face shootout

BIG SPRING — Midland Eastern and Midland North Central will stage a battle of the unbeatens tonight in the winner's bracket of the district Little League tournament.

Eastern advanced with 37-1 and 6-5 victories while North Central gained the berth with a 10-3 decision over Lamesa.

Eastern's victim in the 37-1 massacre was the Stanton All-Stars. Eastern banged-out 16 hits with Jake Madrid leading the way with a grand slam homer and a triple. Also,

Tommy Yorkman had a triple and single, Terry Young had three base hits, Anthony Dickens, George Motta and Andy Brito had two hits each and Raul Pena and Rodney Sims each collected a double.

Motta, who started on the mound, and reliever Anthony Dickens, combined for a two-hitter.

Brito picked up the win in the 6-5 triumph over Big Spring American with help from Madrid.

Pena and Young had doubles for the winners.

"I've never seen a hitter that hot," said Braves Manager Bobby Cox. "The hottest home-run hitter

I've ever seen. Horner ripped a three-run homer in the fourth inning and a solo shot in the sixth. Both came off Bill Lee. Montreal's starter and resident flake.

Had he ever seen anyone hit the ball the way Horner's hitting it now? Lee's brow furrowed in concentration. "Yeah," he said after perhaps 10 seconds. "Wagner. Honus Wagner. Used to play for Pittsburgh. Third baseman, too, I believe. That's the guy. Saw him in my dreams.

"Horner's seeing the ball well," Lee added, "He's got one heck of an optometrist. He's got a lot of patience for a young kid. I kept throwing him good pitches and he kept fouling them back 'til he got what he wanted."

His homers helped the Braves to a 5-3 lead, but when Horner kicked away a grounder in the eighth inning, it helped Montreal tie it. In the bottom of the inning, though, Glenn Hubbard got the winning hit off loser Stan Bahnsen, a two-run single up the middle.

Reds 3, Phillies 2

Ray Knight doubled and tripled and Dan Driessen drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly as the Reds handed Philadelphia its fifth successive loss and eighth in the last 11 games.

It also ruined Steve Carlton's bid for a major-league high 16th victory. He's tied at 15 with American Leaguers Steve Stone of Baltimore and Tommy John of New York.

And Carlton also is sixth on the all-time strikeout list. His five strikeouts in six innings gave him 173 this year, tops in the NL, and 2,856 for his career. Cardinals 3, Dodgers 2

Dane lorg, who hit a three-run homer to beat the Dodgers Monday night, doubled and came around on a Ken Reitz sacrifice and pinch-hitter Terry Ken-

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston all-star pitcher J.R. Richard, currently on the Astros 21-day disabled list, entered Methodist Hospital today for what a team spokesman called "a complete and detailed diagnostic study."

Richard, who was placed on the disabled list last Wednesday with arm fatigue, had spent the last few days at his home in Ruston, La., the team spokesman said.

Astros team physician Dr. Harold Brelsford said Richard's scheduled hospital visit was not a new development in the pitcher's condition. Brelsford said the examination was scheduled when Richard went on the disabled list last week.

HOUSTON (AP) — The last time Houston Stratford's Oscar Cripps and Plano's Tom Kimbrough faced each other on a football field was in the Astrodome two years ago in the state Class AAAA championship football game.

The two coaches will be opponents again Saturday night in the Astro-dome when Cripps will direct the South All-Stars against Kimbrough's North squad in the Texas High School Coaches Assocaition All-Star football game.

"If there's a rivalry between us it's a friendly one," said Kimbrough, whose Plano team lost to Stratford in the 1978 title game. "The last time we played here was not too memorable. We played against one of the best 4A teams of the decade. Now we've got another chance." Cripps noted the irony of the second meeting against Kimbrough.

Abilene's Terry Orr is hurt

"It's even more ironic because it's a once in a life time chance to be the head coach in coaching school," Cripps said. "You don't get to the state championship game too often either so that makes it even more unusual to coach against the same head coach."

All-State running back Terry Orr of Abilene Cooper, suffered a possible dislocated shoulder in Tuesday's North workouts and may miss Saturday's game. "He was playing linebacker and in pursuit of a ball carrier and he came in contact with a blocker," North Coach Tom Kimbrough of Plano said. "We're not sure how serious it is yet but we think he might be able to play."

If Orr is unable to play Kimbrough can choose from among several other outstanding all-stars including Au-drey McMillian of Carthage, Alfred Anderson from Waco Richfield, Ricky Green of Seminole or James Ricks of Odessa Ector.

"We hope Terry can come back and play but just missing workouts is going to hurt," Kimbrough said. "He came in in excellent shape but we have only one week to learn the of-fense and get ready to play."

Cripps has installed the wishbone offense for the South All-Stars and Kimbrough will go with the Houston veer.

Feller thinks baseball has been weakened

MIAMI (AP) - Hall of Fame pitcher Bob Feller, whose 18-year baseball career began in 1936, says expansion and inflated players' salaries have weakened the game.

"The game is too commercial today. Players aren't as good overall as they were in my era," said the 60-year-old.

"The leagues' expansion to 26 teams has hurt baseball," said Feller, who played for the Cleveland Indians in a 10-team league. "Too many inexperienced and poor players are getting into the majors because of the extra teams. Minor league players need to be taught more. Today they are all position players while before a player could be good at many positions."

Feller, who won 266 games while losing 162 and striking out 2,581 batters, came here to help promote the nationwide Pitch, Hit and Run baseball skills contest for children.

"The free-agent system has to be adjusted," he said. "The good players are signing multi-year contracts and aren't producing what they could. It is free business and each player is entitled to what he can get, but players should be paid by their performance, not their potential. When I was playing, I got paid by the way I pitched and the crowd I drew to the games, not the possibility that I might win 20 games the next year.

Feller, who never made more than $100,000 in one year, admitted he's a little jealous of current players when he thinks of the salary his talents might command in the market today.

Baylor AD to resign post in September

WACO (AP) - Baylor Athletic Director Jack Patterson said Tuesday he will retire from the post he has held since 1971 on September 1.

"I leave with no regrets and with many fond memories ...," said Patterson. "I started my career as an elementary teacher in September of 1940 and I've always planned to retire in September of 1980. I think 40 years is enough.'

Baylor University President Abner McCall said he will ask the school's. athletic council to move quickly in recommending a successor.

Patterson, 65, has been credited as the man behind Baylor's athletic resurgence in the seventies.

Patterson was a Southwest Conference and AAU champion in the hurdles at Rice before beginning a coaching career that took him from his hometown of Merkel, to San Angelo, then to the University of Houston, Baylor and Texas as a track coach.

His teams won three conference track championships at both Baylor and Texas before he returned to Baylor as athletic director.

CBS gets ratings boost from non-convention program

NEW YORK (AP) - The Republican National Convention consumed all but a few hours of prime-time in the week ending July 20, and CBS won the three-way ratings race with plenty of help from a half-dozen programs broadcast after the networks' political coverage had concluded.

Viewers generally ignored the campaign coverage, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed. Of 52 programs broadcast in or just before primetime during the week, the highest rated of the convention reports was CBS' Thursday night wrapup, No. 24 in the ratings. The week's five lowest-rated programs were convention reports broadcast by CBS and ABC Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights in the hour or half-hour before the start of prime-time at 8 p.m. EDT.

The three highest-rated programs for the week were from CBS' Sunday night lineup, "The Jeffersons," with a rating of 20.7, followed by "60 Minutes" and "Alice."

Nielsen says the rating for "The Jeffersons" means that of all the homes in the country with television, 20.7 percent saw at least part of the situation comedy.

CBS had the week's six mostwatched programs, and eight of the first dozen, and that contributed to a rating for the week of 11.3. NBC and ABC tied for second place with ratings of 8.7.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 11.3 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to CBS.

The extraordinarily low ratings for the week were due almost entirely to poor, though not necessarily unexpected, marks for the convention coverage.

In 13 hours of simultaneous coverage during the four days of the convention, Monday through Thursday, CBS registered a rating of 7.7 to 7.6 for NBC and 6.5 for ABC.

That means that in an average minute during the convention, 7.7 percent of the country's homes with television were watching CBS.

Just over half the television audience watched the convention on the three networks, with other viewers chosing alternate programming on independent and public stations. NBC's research department estimated about 85 million viewers saw at least some of the convention coverage broadcast by the three networks.

Though the convention itself did not attract viewers, a special Monday night edition of CBS' "60 Minutes," featuring an interview with the eventual Republican presidential nominee, Ronald Reagan, did well in the ratings - 17th place.

A convention-oriented edition of ABC's "20-20" broadcast Tuesday night was No. 23 for the week, while a Monday night "20-20" broadcast was 25th.

There were three non-political shows bunched among the poorly rated convention programs - CBS' 'Bad News Bears'' in 44th place, and "Buckshot" and "When the Whistle Blows," both from ABC, 45th and 46th.

Here are the week's highest-rated

Consumer prices rise sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Propelled by rising food and housing costs, consumer prices in June rose at an annual rate of 12.4 percent, slightly higher than the month before, the government said today.

The Labor Department reported that consumer prices in June increased 1 percent, compared with 0.9 percent rises in both May and April. The annual rate during those two months was about 11 percent. For the first six months of this year, inflation — as measured by the consumer price index - accelerated at a 14.8 percent seasonally adjusted annual pace, the Labor Department said.

the Labor Department said. The Labor Department also reported that average take-home pay in June fell 0.4 percent. Over the year, inflation adjusted spendable earnings — which subtract Social Security payments and federal in-come taxes — were down 7.7 percent. Despite June's slight increase, the inflation rate is proving more moderate than earlier this year when proving more moderate than earlier this year when it stood at more than an 18 percent annual level.

The Labor Department reported that four-fifths of June's 1 percent increase was due to housing prices and mortgage costs. That entire component jumped 1.8 percent, but officials said it should show sharp declines soon.

"Mortgage interest rates have declined, but did not show up in June's figures," said Labor Depart-ment economist Patrick Jackman. "We know they will turn around drastically next month, but we aren't quite sure about home prices," he said.

Food prices, meanwhile, rose 0.5 percent in June compared with 0.3 percent in May. Gasoline prices, however, dropped 1 percent last month, the department said.

Gasoline rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 105.7 per cent during the first three months of this year but has declined at a 6.2 percent pace in the second quarter. Jackman predicted "relatively stable" gasoline prices in the current quarter and probably throughout the year.

On the other hand, food prices are a big question mark. "They are the key to where consumer prices go this year," Jackman said. Food prices, due largely to the heat wave that has struck the Midwest and South, are expected to rise strongly beginning in late summer.

Once this begins, particularly for beef, consumers could expect a period of six months to a year of generally upward prices, Jackman suggested.

Besides housing and food, most other consumer goods continued to show moderate rates of increase - a trend that began in April.

The Labor Department reported this general breakdown for June:

-Home financing costs rose 4.6 percent. -Rents jumped 1.2 percent

-Auto finance charges, which rose at a monthly rate of 4 percent during the first five months of 1980, declined 0.8 percent.

-Prices for sugar, soft drinks and other prepared foods rose substantially, but meat, poultry, fish and egg prices declined, although not as much as in the previous 2 months.

-Restaurant meals rose 0.9 percent. -Public transportation was up 1.1 percent, reflecting large increase in airline and inter-city train fares -Apparel and their upkeep was unchanged in price. -Medical care increased 0.5 percent, the same as in May. -Entertainment costs rose 0.6 percent, the same

New York

NEW YORK (AP) - Selected noo

Exchange

as in May.

The Consumer Price Index, based on a figure of 100 in 1967, rose in June to 247.6. This is not seasonally adjusted, and it means that the same goods and services that sold for $100 13 years ago would cost $247.60 today. The index is 14.3 percent higher than the June 1979 level.

The administration also estimates that consumer prices will rise 12 percent between 1979's fourth quarter and 1980's fourth quarter.

New York soon may start registering bikes

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City officials, spurred in part by the recent deaths of three pedestrians in bike accidents, may start registering bicycles in the nation's largest city, according to a spokesman for Mayor Edward I. Koch.

Details of the plan, which could be announced early this week, were incomplete, press secretary Tom Goldstein said. However, he said, the program likely would include plans to register bikes either through licenses or permits to the city's estimated 10,000 daily cyclists.

Goldstein said it was not determined what city department would control registration or what fees may be charged. He said the plan would also include construction or expansion of bike lanes on Sixth Avenue and part of Seventh Avenue.

The number of bicycle commuters surged during April's transit strike, and as many as 10,000 continue pedaling to work daily, according to Transportation Department spokesman Abel Silver.

However, the increase of riders has brought with it an increase in complaints by both cyclists and pedestrians, and a rise in the number of accidents. Cyclists complain that pedestrians ignore them, even when they obey traffic rules. Pedestrians say bicyclists speed through red lights, ride against traffic, and often leave the scene of an accident. Three women have died since June 9 after being hit by bicycles.

A City Hall team worked through the weekend on the plan, although Koch had ordered aides to look at the problem some time ago, Goldstein said. He said the recent fatalities "certainly" sped up work on the plan.

Livestock auction report

The Southwestern Livestock Auction Co. ran 1,456 head of cattle through Tuesday in a market that proved to be steady to strong on most classes of cattle.

Packer cows were $1.50 to $3 higher. Breed cows were $3 to $4 higher. Cow and calf pairs were $25 higher. Packer bulls were $2 lower. Feeder steers were steady. Feeder heifers were steady. Here's a rundown on the market:

Steers weighing 600 to 700 pounds were auctioned for $66 to $68.50 per hundredweight; 500 to 600 pounds, $68.50 to $69; 400 to 500, $70 to $74.50; 300 to 400 pounds, $78 to $82.50; under 300 pounds, $84 to $95

Heifers weighing 600 to 700 punds were sold for $59 to $62.50 per hundredweight; 500 to 600 pounds, $61 to $63.50; 400 to 500, $62.50 to $64; 300 to 400 pounds, $66 to $69; under 300 pounds, $68 to $80.

Cows utility were sold for $40 to $43.50 per hundredweight. Canners and cutters were sold for $37 to $39 per hundredweight.

EDDY PROSPECTOR

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., No. 1 Oakason-Federal "NV" is to be drilled as a 9,220-foot wildcat in Eddy County, 12 miles west of Lakewood.

Operator staked location 660 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 27-19s-24e . Ground elevation is 3,748 feet.

The drillsite is one mile south of 8,900-foot Morrow gas production in the Hoag Tank field.

TERRELL EXPLORER

William Perlman of Houston announced location for an 8,000-foot wildcat in Terrell County, 20 miles south of Sheffield.

Scheduled as No. 1-7 Marjorie Canon Brown, it is 2,000 feet from south and 1,000 feet from east lines of section 7, block 1, TCRR survey and 5,500 feet west of Perlman No. 1-6 Marjorie Canon Brown, an active wildcat. That project was bottomed at 6,500 feet fishing on last report.

The site also is 1 5/8 miles north of Ellenburger gas production in the Brown-Bassett field and 2 1/4 miles northeast of the pool's Devonian gas production.

TOM GREEN WILDCAT

Sumik Drilling Inc. of Denton spotted a 5,000-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, six miles south of Miles.

It is No. 1 C. E. Byrd, 1,908.5 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of A. Holz survey No. 2202. Ground elevation is 1.755.

The location is 1.5 miles west of a 3,500-foot dry hole and five miles southeast of the discovery well of the two-well R.L.G. (lower Canyon oil) pool.

Exxon Corp., operating from Midland, reported potential test on its No. 3 Eugenia E. Brown "E" in the Emperor, East (Clear Fork lower) field of Winkler County, five miles southeast of Kermit.

The well, 1/2 mile west of other lower Clear Fork production and the sixth well in the field, completed for a daily flow of 64 barrels of oil, gravity no reported, through a 1/4-inch choke.

The flow was from perforations at 6,576-6,710 feet after a 3,000-gallon acid job.

Total depth is 6,797 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 6.793 feet.

Wellsite is 500 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east The drillsite is one location northeast of Anadarko lines of section 24, block B-5, psl survey.

Pace of Exxon Earnings slows down; Standard Oil's earnings doubled

NEW YORK (AP) - The pace of Exxon Corp.'s earnings slowed in the second quarter of this year, but rising Alaskan oil output and higher petroleum prices more than doubled profits at Standard Oil Co. (Ohio).

Exxon, the world's largest oil company, earned $1.03 billion in the second quarter, up 24.1 percent from $830 million a year earlier. Per-share earnings rose to $2. 36 from $1.66 sales rose to $26.2 billion from $18.6 billion. In the first half, Exxon earned $2.96 billion, or $6.76 a share, against $1.79 billion or $4.04 a share, a year before. Sales rose to $53.9 billion from $37.4 billion Sohio, the nation's 14th-largest oil company, said in Cleveland secondquarter earnings were $451.3 million, up 124.1 percent from $201.4 million a year earlier. Per-share earnings rose to $1.83 from 84 cents, and sales rose to $2.84 billion from $1.82 billion. In the first half, Sohio earned $902 million, or $3.67 a share, against $368.9 million, or $1.54. Sales rose to $5.5 billion from $3.47 billion. Exxon's return on equity - the ratio of net income to the book value of shareholders' stock - for the 12 months ending June 30 was 24.1 percent. Sohio's return on equity was not disclosed. # Urschel kidnapping now 47 years ago

By RON WORD

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Machine Gun Kelly, "G-Men," a wealthy oilman, — all characters in a made-for-television movie.

They could be, but in this case, they were the central actors in one of the country's most sensational kidnappings - which occurred 47 years ago.

Oilman Charles Urschel and an associate, Walter Jarrett, and their wives were playing bridge at Urs-chel's palatial northwest Oklahoma City home about 11: 15 p.m. July 22, 1933, when two men burst through a screen door into the home.

One was carrying a machine gun and the other a pistol.

"Keep quiet or we'll blow your heads off. Which is Urschei?"

No one answered.

"We'll take both of you, come along," one of the intruders said as he pointed the way with his machine gun.

URSCHEL AND JARRETT did as they were told.

The kidnappers were George "Machine Gun" Kelly and Albert Bates.

After the kidnappers roared off in a car, Mrs. Urschel and Mrs. Jarrett ran upstairs, locked the door and called police.

Within an hour, the men had taken $60 from Jarrett and released him.

Jarrett later said the kidnappers behaved "like gentlemen.'

Urschel, a tight-lipped, handsome six-footer, was worth a pretty penny to the kidnappers and 18 other people convicted in connection with the case.

The oilman had united his fortune with that of the vast Tom B. Slick estate when he married Mrs. Slick in St. Louis Oct. 17, 1932.

Slick was called the "King of the Wildcatters," and Urschel was his protege and eventual heir to his vast fortune and widow after Slick's death in 1930.

Urschel's first wife, Slick's sister, died of heart disease about a year after Slick.

AFTER SNATCHING HIM, the kidnappers drove Urschel to a farm near Paradise, Texas, and held him there blindfolded for nine days.

The kidnappers instructed E.E. Kirkpatrick of Tulsa, a friend of Urschel, to place a blind classified ad in The Daily Oklahoman of Oklahoma City, advertising a farm for sale.

Kirkpatrick did as instructed and, using the post office box number listed in the add, the kidnappers worked out a ransom for their prize.

Kirkpatrick was ordered to catch a train and take the ransom to Kansas City.

Kelly collected a $200,000 ransom on a dark Kansas City street.

Urschel, whose wealth was estimated at $75 million, was released July 31 at the north edge of Norman and took a cab into Oklahoma City.

Despite threats from the kidnappers to keep quiet, Urschel told the entire story to the FBI.

"Well, they threatened me. Several times they had made the statement that I was not to see or hear anything. They said if I did, I'd never come back, they would kill me," Urschel later testified at Bates' trial.

THE FBI WAS ABLE to identify the location of the farm where the oilman was held because he kept track of the time an airliner flew over each day. against his life By checking airline schedules, the federal agents "As a result pinpointed the site. Urschel also put his fingerprints on every likely surface to prove he had been there. On Aug. 12, FBI agents raided the R.G. "Boss" Shannon farm. They found Harold Bailey, leader of a notorious Memorial Day break of 11 convicts from the Kansas prison. Bailey was asleep in the backyard with a Tommy gun by his side. His pockets contained some of the ransom money.

The remaining members of the gang were rounded up in several weeks.

Kelly was arrested in Memphis, Tenn., on Sept. 26. after sending threats of "slaughter" to Urschel and Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph B. Keenan during Bates' trial in Oklahoma City.

Federal agents and Memphis police burst in on Kelly, who was armed and waiting. With an officer pointing a shotgun at his heart, the notorious badman dropped his gun without firing a shot.

"Don't shoot G-men, don't shoot," Kelly cried. The FBI says that was the first time that anyone had ever heard the term "G-men" applied to its agents. Kelly later told reporters he meant "government men.

KELLY AND HIS WIFE, Kathryn, were transported under heavy guard to Oklahoma City in an armored car. Both were handcuffed and Kelly was heavily manacled.

Bates' trial was the first important test of the federal "Lindbergh Law" providing for life imprisonment for convicted kidnappers. Bates got life, as did and Kelly and his wife about two weeks

Three years after the kidnapping, the 20th person implicated was sentenced.

Of the $200,000 ransom, an estimated $124,000 was recovered by federal agents.

The top "G-man," J. Edgar Hoover, praised Urschel's bravery in testifying despite the threats

"As a result, the citizen no longer fears gang retaliation if he talks, and the public is ready, willing and able to aid us," Hoover said. "His cooperation alone was responsible for their arrest and conviction. He did a great public service."

U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE Edgar S. Vaught, who sentenced Bates, said of Urschel, "He walked up and pointed out the kidnappers, though they had threatened him with the worst of deaths if he told. He ended kidnapping in the Southwest before it got started." BIRTHS

In addition to Kelly, Mrs. Kelly and Bates, three other persons received life terms. They were Robert Green "Boss" Shannon, Ora Lillian Shannon and Harvey J. Bailey, described as hide-out operators.

"Boss" Shannon was Mrs. Kelly's stepfather. Ben B. Laska, a lawyer representing Bates, was sentenced to 10 years for accepting some of the ransom money for his legal services.

Others received suspended sentences to terms of five years for their part in the kidnapping.

BATES DIED AT ALCATRAZ on July 4, 1948, from a heart ailment.

Six years later, at Leavenworth, Kelly died of a heart attack. It was his 59th birthday. Kelly got his nickname after boasting he could write his name on a signboard with a machine gun as easily as he could write with a pencil. The outlaw was buried in Paradise just two days short of the 21st anniversary of the kidnapping. Shannon reportedly had the coffin opened and remarked, 'Well, George, you sure do look good."

Shannon died a few years later and was buried in an unmarked grave next to Kelly.

Urschel, a shy, retiring man, refused to talk about himself or the abduction after it was over. "If the public is as sick of hearing about it as I am,

I can see no reason to keep bringing it up," he said.

The black church; its role in politics

With BOB TIEUEL

More than 20,000 persons, including 1,500 delegates and 18 bishops, from the United States, Canada, the Caribbean and West and South Africa, recently attended the 41st Quadrennial Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in New Or-leans. The Council of Bishops in a statement said:

"We are unhappy that the two primary parties in America see fit to ignore the most continuing and pressing problem on the American scene - institutionalized racism. We are deeply disappointed with the candidates amd their stand, or non-stand, on the issues, but we do not intend to have our vote taken for granted ever again. We shall seek alternatives. Our vote will go to those who go for us. .

"Using means best known to the American public, we will continue our massive voter registration and education crusade in our church districts throughout the country. We will prepare a Black Agenda for discussions with all presidential candidates. Ameri-ca needs an urgent reminder that the volatile conditions which led to the explosion in Miami are present in every major city in America.

"Therefore our church is setting before the nation the demand for 1,000,000 (one million) jobs for minority youth this summer, knowing that America has the capacity to fulfill this requirement, if it has the will. We further petition aid in the form of educational assistance to our beleaguered black colleges, the breeding grounds for the genius that has historically inspired black survival in America. We shall convene a national meeting of major black religious denominations to forge a new linkage of black leadership that will solidify our political power base.'

THE 1980 CONFERENCE of the National Urban League will be held in New York City Aug. 3-6 in observance of the its 90th anniversary. Major spokesmen for the Republican and .Democratic parties will appear at a forum, "The Black Voter and the Party System," to be held Aug. 6. Information may be obtained by contacting National Urban League, 600 East 62nd St., New York, N.Y. 10021. Co-headquarters will be in the Hilton Hotel and the Sheraton Centre Hotel.

FORMER U.S. SEN. Edward Brooke, until recently the only black Republican in Congress, is reported weighing overtures to become Independent White House hopeful John Anderson's vice-presidential running mate. Sources report that one of An-derson's leading New York fundraisers is J. Richardson Dilworth, manager of the Rockefeller family's assets. Anderson seems to be recognizing that an exodus of Lodges, Rockefellers and Eisenhowers may be the framework for something more than the election.

Our sources report that the NAACP has announced the presentation of a $381,682 grant to conduct an intensive grassroots project to reduce police shootings of minority citizens. A principal element of the project will be the publication and distribution of a citizens guide to the overall issue of police use of deadly force.

The National Association of Colored Women's Clubs will hold its 1980 annual convention in Washington, D.C. July 27-Aug. 1, acording to an an-nouncement in the Community Center in Boley, Okla. Airlines are making special offers, it is report-

Sources report that the Republican party has the best opportunity in years to gain new black voters if proper strategy is used. More later.
