Mayor Akins hints at tax increase

Budget, projected rate may be finalized by Friday

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Five days of concentrated work on the city budget should culminate in a finalized version and projected tax rate by Friday, according to Mayor G. Thane Akins.

Akins, who has been mayor since May, talked about city projects and his time in the city's top office to the Downtown Lions Club meeting

Wednesday in Midland Center. Because the city is growing in size and needs, said Akins, more money will be needed to provide services to residents. He hinted that the tax rate might be higher next year than the 39 cents per $100 assessed value that had been suggested earlier this year. "City taxes haven't been raised for about the past 10 years," he added.

passed in the September Money 1979 bond issue is being used to improve streets "that are needing attention." The mayor explained that several streets built several years ago were not designed for "the kind of traffic we have now.'

He added that the city staff is looking at making Michigan and Louisiana avenues one-way for east-west traffic, and at Loraine and Colorado streets for north-west traffic. Marienfeld is being considered as a one-way street to channel traffic into the downtown area and take some of the load off Big Spring Street. Something will have to be done in the future about the city government's buildings, Akins said. In the 1979 bond issue, voters rejected items to enlarge City Hall, build a municipal court building and move the operations building.

Municipal court has become so overcrowded that the city is considering adding a night session to handle the number of cases.

When questioned about the city's removal of parking meters downtown which are replaced with tow-away signs, Akins replied that downtown employees have been abusing the parking meters.

The meters were installed for short-term parking for customers coming downtown. "These are not intended for secretaries to plug every hour," he said.

The downtown parking problem possibly could be alleviated if an unstructed, according to Akins. The council considered, and rejected last year, a plan for such a garage under the park next to Midland Center.

And that park next to Midland Center should be coming to life by the end of summer. Akins said the contract has been awarded and work should begin soon. He explained the land was given to the city by the federal government to be turned into a park. "The feds are disturbed it hasn't become a park yet and that people are parking all over it," he said.

Midland hasn't received any census data yet, Akins informed the group. Once the information does come in, the city only has 10 days to reply in a comprehensive manner if the city feels the figures are wrong.

Senate moves to ease impact of windfall tax ate, turning a deficit-trimming tax bill into a relief package for segments of the oil industry, wants to soften the impact of the "windfall profits" tax on royalty owners and marginal "stripper" wells.

The Senate voted Wednesday to refund recipients of oil royalties up to $1,000 in "windfall" tax payments. It also moved to exempt the first two barrels of oil a day pumped from "stripper" wells - those that produce less than 10 barrels daily.

The Senate approved those changes - which mostly would be paid for by higher taxes on large oil producers as it acted on a package of tax increases designed to raise an additional $4.2 billion in fiscal 1981, which

The $4.2 billion package - along with $6.4 billion in spending cuts was mandated by the Congress last month as part of the now-forsaken drive to balance the 1981 budget.

In another budget development Wednesday, House Republicans charged that President Carter's projected $29.8 billion 1981 budget deficit understates the likely red-ink figure because it assumes enactment of a dime-a-gallon gasoline tax.

Congress overwhelming killed a similar Carter proposal only last

Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, said the administration was "just trying to make the (budget) figures look better" by including $3.5 billion from a tax on gasoline and diesel fuels in its new revenue projections.

The gas tax idea resurfaced this week when Carter released his midyear economic review that officially acknowledged that the recession had made his goal of balancing the 1981 ate Budget Committee.

Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, told the congressional Joint Economic Committee on Wednesday that the administration planned to reintroduce the gasoline tax in January and anticipated enactment in the spring. However, Latta said flatly,

'they're not going to get that." The Senate approved the "wind fall" tax changes after rejecting, 73-24, an amendment by Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., that would have phased out the royalty refund for persons earning more than $40,000.

That change would have about halved the proposal's $190 million

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and himself a recipient of oil and natural gas royalties, said it was "a bad oversight that royalty owners were taxed" under the "windfall" law.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., added that the $1,000 refund, to be achieved through a tax credit, was not intended to benefit "some fat-cat oil well owners" and that many royalty recipients were retired persons living on small incomes.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., said relief for stripper wells was needed to save some from being closed down as uneconomical. The partial exemption would save owners of stripper wells $1.4 billion, a Bellmon staff aide said.

However, members of the Senate Budget Committee criticized attachment of "windfall" tax changes to the revenue-raising package.

'You've fallen into the trap of all finance bills ... turning them into Christmas trees," said Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Sen-

Senate inquiry set into Billy's role ment among Senate Republican leaders today apparently cleared the way for a congressional investigation of Billy Carter's ties with Libya and the way his case has been handled by the Carter administration. A spokesman for Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said Baker and senior GOP members of key Senate committees in the case decided to accept a Democratic proposal for a seven-member panel drawn from the Judiciary Commit-

In lengthy sessions on Wednesday, Republicans had pressed for a larger special committee similar to that which investigated the Watergate scandals during the administration of Republican President Richard M. Nixon. Democrats insisted on the Judiciary panel.

The Baker spokesman, Tom Gri-scom, said Baker planned to meet later today with Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., to put the finishing touches on the agreement.

Griscom said Republicans would be prepared to ask the Senate to approve a larger Watergate-style committee "if during the course of the Judiciary hearings there is a feeling that the committee is not really going after the facts.'

White House spokesman Jody Powell objected Wednesday to any comparison of the matter with Watergate, but said, "In general, we are dedicated to the proposition that we ought to be as forthcoming and straightforward in this matter as we possibly can be,

Powell added, however, that he could not say whether President Carter's aides would be available to testify before Congress concerning the activities of the president's younger brother.

Billy Carter registered under protest last week as a foreign agent for Libya and said he had received $220,-000 in payments from the Libyan government which he said were the first installments of a $500,000 loan.

On Tuesday, the White House an-nounced that the president's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, used Billy Carter as an intermediary last fall in seeking Libyan assistance to free the American hostages in Iran.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that President Carter met with the same Libyan diplomat as Brzezinski about three weeks later, on Dec. 6, to discuss a stiff U.S. rebuke over the burning of the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli four days ear-

However, the Post said there was no suggestion that Billy Carter helped arrange the president's meeting.

In a companion story, the Post reported that records on file in the Marion County, Ga., courthouse show that the Internal Revenue Service last April placed a lien for back federal taxes on 38.6 acres of land in Buena Vista, Ga., owned by Billy Carter and his wife Sybil.

The lien bars the couple from selling the land — part of a $196,080, 58-acre site that includes their home - and permits the IRS to confiscate it if the Carters fail to meet a repayment schedule, the newspaper said.

The records did not indicate how much in back taxes were claimed, and IRS officials said they were barred by law from discussing disputes involving individual taxpayers.

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Representatives of the State Property Tax Board gave area school board officials some detailed explanations on applying for reimbursement funds from the state under the new "truth in taxation" statute Wednesday when it met with local board members at the Region 18 Education Service Center.

At least 75 school board members from Midland, Odessa and surrounding cities showed up for the 31/2-hour briefing session on the statute with three Austin representatives. Because the new statute allows for homestead, agricultural use and senior citizen tax exemptions, the state provides funds to cover loss of revenues to school taxing entities for the next school year, as it did last year. However, in 1982 school boards will have to find revenues from their local taxes, SPTB representative Breck

Bostwick told the group. The homestead exemptions in the statute allow property owners to delete $5,000 from their assessed home valuations when figuring their local property tax payments. Additionally, citizens 65 or older can subtract $10,000 from their valuations. Further, school taxes for property owners over 65 are "frozen" at 1978 figures. As the representatives explained it, these property owners would never have to pay more for school taxes than they did in 1978; however, other local taxes could in-

Also, schools will lose tax revenue from land used for agriculture which can be assessed under the new statute by production value rather than market value, which is frequently a lower assessment.

An additional tax exemption for disabled persons and qualifying survivors also limits revenues for school

"The school district would be reimbursed because of the loss with a 45 percent minimum of revenue loss returned," Bostwick said. Because all allotted state funds for this reimbursement were not used last year, Bostwick said leftover funds would be added to this year's allotment, bringing the percentages of revenue return closer to a 55 percent minimum.

Bostwick showed school district representatives how to fill out appli-(See TAX OFFICIALS, Page 2A)

Mount St. Helens subsides as residents begin to relax

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - After spectacular eruptions that puffed steam and ash 10 miles high, Mount St. Helens went back to napping, and worried residents relaxed as a volcanic cloud floated away without leaving much of a dusting.

Only a glowing red crater remained as a hint of what may happen at the volcano in the future. Earthquake recording devices traced a flat line Wednesday as wisps of steam and a slight blue haze drifted from the crater where a lava dome once bulged, the U.S. Geological Survey reported.

The dome formed after the volcano's third eruption on June 12. It measured about 600 feet in diameter and 200 feet high when it was blasted into a clear blue sky in three pulsating eruptions Tuesday evening.

Impact of alien decision not great in Midland

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Children of undocumented aliens attending Midland schools will not create the same problems as those facing schools along the Texas border and in Ector County, according to Midland school officials.

Monday's ruling by a federal court in Houston allowing children of undocumented aliens to attend public schools without paying tuition fees has prompted fears of overcrowding and strains on school budgets by some school district officials.

However, Midland school officials do not forsee such problems here. They have not received any directive from the board of trustees to develop contingency plans for such future action and they believe it is not that necessary.

"In the first place, most illegal aliens would not come to the United States for education," said Payton Cook, director of pupil and community services. "The majority of them come for jobs." Last year, the district estimated

they registered less than 20 students whose parents are illegal aliens, Cook

About 140 children of undocumented aliens were registered in Ector County last year, according to Ector school officials. Perhaps the reason for a larger number of illegal aliens in Odessa is that Odessa is considered a blue collar town, while Midland is a white collar community, he said.

"Also, Midland is 20 miles further away from the border," Cook added. Children of undocumented aliens did not really present a problem to Texas schools until 1975 when the legislature enacted an amendment which did not pay school districts for having children of illegal aliens in their classrooms, said Cook

However, the state pays school districts for legally documented children attending school for a full day under the Average Daily Attendance program which in some cases accounts for about 40 percent of revenues a school district acquires, Cook noted.

When the law went into effect, school districts could not collect state monies to pay for having children of undocumented aliens in their class-(See ALIEN SCHOOLING, Page 2A)

DALLAS (AP) - Disgruntled sponsors of the Miss Texas Pageant first runnerup contend in a lawsuit that the contest was unfair and the winner should be ordered to surrender her

Dallas Scholarship Pageant's recent quest during a trial next Monday, Miss Eoff's title and her spot in the upcoming Miss America competition will go to first runnerup Bobbie Lynn Candler, the current Miss Dallas.

Miss Dallas sponsors claim Miss Eoff violated the time limit during the talent competition that counted towards half the contestant's final

The sponsors contend Miss Eoff's dramatic reading at the July 12 pageant in Fort Worth ran four minutes and 45 seconds, well past the two minute and 50 second limit spelled out in the Miss America Pageant entries committee manual.

"It was to her benefit to be allowed to continue well beyond the time limit," said Rose Railey, a director of the Miss Dallas pageant. "I don't know of anybody that's ever violated the time limit that excessively after signing a contract that says she will abide by the rules.

Big Spring man injured in mishap

STANTON - Randol Joe Davis of Big Spring was transferred to Malone-Hogan Hospital here and admitted for observation following a traffic accident near Stanton Wednesday evening.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said the accident occurred at 6:25 p.m. two miles west of Stanton on Interstate Highway 20. Davis apparently was westbound on I-20 when the wreck occurred. DPS reports said Davis passed a vehicle, left the roadway and went into the median. He corrected and went into a broadside skid, slid back across the westbound lane onto the north side of the roadway and then overturned four times end over end.

Davis was not thrown from the vehicle. He was taken to Martin County Hospital and then transferred to Malone-Hogan in Big Spring. The accident was investigated by Trooper Wayne Turner of Stanton.

PSA has 'unscheduled arrival' — a baby boy

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) - Pacific Southwest Airlines had an unscheduled arrival here - a 5-pound, 14-ounce boy born on a plane that had just landed on a flight from Los Angeles. It was the first time a baby had been born on a plane owned by PSA,

Burns says Congress should delay debate on tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns, opposing fellow Republicans, said today that Congress should delay action on a tax cut until after the Nov. 4 election. "An election year is generally a poor time for tax legislation," Burns told the House Ways and Means Committee. "Not only that, but this session of Congress is well along and will soon come to an end. There is hardly enough time for the careful deliberation that construction tax legislation requires," he added. Burns thus sided with the Carter administration and against Republicans and some key Senate Democrats, who want an immediate vote on a tax cut that would go into effect next Also supporting President Carter's call for delaying a tax-cut vote was Henry H. Fowler, who was treasury secretary during the Johnson admin-"By following a timetable that calls for tax-reduction decisions after the election or early in 1981, to be effective for the calendar year 1981, Congress can provide the steadiness and consistency in fiscal policy that breeds confidence," Fowler said. "It can repel either pessimism about the longer-term future or expectations of a renewed inflationary surge." Burns is chairman and Fowler vice chairman of a new bipartisan "Committee to Fight Inflation" that advocates, among other steps, steady business tax reductions to revitalize the economy and control the price spi-

Burns told the House panel that while it would be unwise to pass a tax bill this year, "it is nevertheless essential that tax planning get under way promptly so that constructive legislation can be acted on after the election." On Wednesday, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told a Senate panel that the administration is not about to reverse itself and pretend that today's persistent inflation has become acceptable.

That is what would be required for the administration to endorse the Republican plan calling for Congress to vote immediately on a tax cut to take effect Jan. 1, Miller testified to the Senate Finance Committee.

He pleaded for the committee to delay action on any tax cut until early next year, saying a premature vote might undo all the government's recent efforts to slow inflation by restricting credit and federal spend-

The committee, which seems inclined to reject Miller's recommendation, sought advice today from several private economists. Burns' successor as Federal Reserve chairman, Paul A. Volcker, also was called to testify today before the House Ways and Means Committee. The Democratic-controlled committees scheduled the hearings after congressional Republicans and their presidential candidate, Ronald Reagan, began pressing for an immediate vote on a $36-billion tax cut that would take effect next year.

Republicans say the reduction - 90 percent of which would go to individuals - is necessary to offset part of the tax increase caused by inflation and to revitalize American business.

Nobody recognizes junta, criticism mounts in Bolivia

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) - Bolivia's new military junta completes its first week in power today without the recognition of a single government. Criticism from its Andean neighbors and the United States Diplomats in Latin America viewed the coup as a setback for Washington's attempts to help spread democracy across a continent prone to military dictatorship. Some commentators said the uncertainty of President Carter's re-election prospects may have encouraged it.

The Carter administration on Wednesday accused the new regime headed by Gen. Luis Garcia Meza of 'generalized and even savage violations of human rights."

Bolivia's four partners in the Andean Common Market - Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Venezuela called an emergency session of the Organization of American States today in Washington to urge an investigation of reports of large-scale arrests, murder, torture and beatings by supporters of the junta.

Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua joined the Andean nations in condemning the overthrow of interim President Lydia Gueiler to block the election of leftist ex-President Hernan Siles Zuazo to succeed her.

In nations where military rule is firmly entrenched — Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay and Uruguay there was little official comment on the coup. None of their military rulers recognized the Bolivian generals who emulated them.

Jaime Paz, Siles Zuazo's vice-presidential running mate, accused the Argentine government of organizing and financing the coup "with millions of dollars." This view was shared by foreign intelligence sources in La Paz, usually well-informed observers in Buenos Aires and at least one political cartoonist in Peru.

'The charges of outside interference are so strong, and resistance to the coup in Bolivia is so great, that neither Argentina nor anyone else wants to be first to recognize the new regime," said a veteran American diplomat in Buenos Aires.

Argentina's foreign office denied involvement in the coup and said Bolivia's new rulers had asked it for recongition, but the response was not made known. The official news agency, Telam, commented cautiously that the coup was "an event forseen for some time.'

Analysts in Buenos Aires believed Bolivia under a leftist civilian government would become a base for extremist agitation actross Argentina's northern border.

Sources in Brazil said Bolivia's military rulers would not get formal recognition until they demonstrated control over rebellious armed mine workers in southern Bolivia, where only sketchy details of fighting were available.

The Bolivian regime's difficulty in consolidating power extended to its embassies in Peru, Venezuela, Uruguay, Mexico, the United States, France, West Germany and Spain, where ambassadors and charge d'affaires resigned in protest. In some places, exiled Bolivians peacefully occupied embassy offices.

Resigned Bolivian Ambassador Javier Torres Goitia met in Mexico City this week with U.S. Undersecretary of State William Bowdler, in charge of Latin American affairs, to urge continued U.S. pressure on the La Paz regime. The Carter adminstration condemned the military takeover; recalled its ambassador from La Paz and cut off military and economic Critics of American policy in Latin America claim the Carter administration is trying to impose sophisticated forms of representative government on a people untrained in democractic rule. They hope and believe Ronald Reagan will abandon such efforts if elected president.

"The U.S. presidential election is a factor that Gen. Garcia Meza could not have been unaware of," commented the Buenos Aires newspaper

"It is too soon to predict a Reagan victory, but as a victory by Carter is no more certain, the viability of his policies is put in doubt today more than ever."

Afghans to strengthen army; Rebels claim 1,000 in fighting

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) - The Soviet-in- 15 tanks, it said. stalled Afghan government announced plans today to strengthen its army "to face the increasing danger" to the country. Anti-communist Moslem rebels, meanwhile, claimed to kill nearly 1,000 Soviet and Afghan troops in recent fighting.

The rebels' claim was released in a statement by the Islamic Alliance for the Liberation of Afghanistan issued at Peshawar, 100 miles west of here. It could not be independently confirmed and observers said it appeared exaggerated. The state-owned Radio Kabul, monitored here, announced plans by the government of Afghan President Babrak Karmal to bolster both the armed forces and police. 'The objective to strengthen these forces is to face the increasing danger to the security of the country," the radio said. It gave no details on the government's plans nor did it identify the "danger." Since the Soviets poured some 80,000 troops into Gfghanistan in December, there have been increasing numbers of defections by Afghan government troops who have fled to fight alongside the Moslem

Military analysts here estimate the Afghan army's strength has decreased from 80,000 troops two years ago, when the communists took over Afghanistany, to 35,000 at present

The Moslem rebels' statement said at Guldara, in Kunar province close to the Pakistani border, a large number of Soviet tanks and aircraft launched a massive attack on rebel positions but the attacks were repulsed.

The rebels claimed to kill about 700 Soviet and Afghan troops, including one high ranking Russian, 'probably a general." Their statement said 105 Afghan citizens, 20 of them rebels "and the rest women and children, were martyred in the Guldara

The rebels shot down six helicopters and destroyed Soviet intervention.

At Ganjgal, also in Kunar province, Soviet tanks and helicopters together with the Afghan militia attacked another rebel position, the statement said. It claimed rebels killed 185 Soviet and 30 Afghan troops. Sixteen Afghans were killed and 15 others were wounded, it said.

The statement said the Soviets burned down the mosque at Ganjgal as well as five houses. The rebels shot down one Soviet helicopter, it said. The alliance said the Soviets had launched a fresh attack on the southeastern provinces of Ghazni and

Paktia with nearly 300 tanks, eight helicopters and It did not mention specific areas attacked but said the rebels killed "many" Soviet paratroopers, captured 70 others, shot down four helicopters and destroyed three tanks. Meanwhile, Afghan state radio said the special revolutionary court in Kabul had sentenced 12 "criminals and terrorists" to various terms of punishment, two of them to death, for "treacherous

It did not further identify those sentenced nor did it describe the incidents, massive popular demonstrations by residents of the Afghan capital demanding the ouster of the Soviet troops. Nearly 300 demonstrators were reported killed in shooting by the Soviet and Afghan troops.

One prisoner died a few hours later, and Halawe died early today. The third prisoner is reported to be in good condition.

Police and troops in Jerusalem and the occupied West Bank of the Jordan braced for possible violence, following a mass demonstration of relatives of the hunger-striking prisoners Wednesday. Weak or strong army?

Militarily the United States is in sad shape in more ways than

Inflation, unfortunately, has been more cruel to the fine men and women in the military than those in the private sector. While in recent years inflation has pushed prices steadily higher in this nation, cost-of-living adjustments to military pay and allowances for military housing have

Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan alluded to that fact in his acceptance speech last week when he said he did not favor a peacetime draft or registration, "but I do favor pay and benefit levels that will attract and keep highly motivated men and women in our volunteer forces and an active reserve trained and ready for an instant call in case of an emergency."

The simple fact of the matter is that this government and the people of this nation have allowed our military to deteriorate to a dangerously unprepared level. We all are to blame.

According to information released by the Association of the United States Army (AUSA), the buying power of military pay has fallen somewhere between 10 and 15 percent behind comparable civilian compensation. President Carter, while aware of the situation, has proposed a military cost-

In recent months men and women, most of them trained for their jobs at vast expense to the government, have begun to leave the armed forces and acquire better paying jobs in private industry. That trend must be reversed if this nation is to have well-qualified, highly trained military per-

Businesses in the private sector which do not provide adequate pay and benefits for their employees may suffer only a large turnover rate and slow deterioration of the quality of personnnel they can retain.

To maintain an all volunteer army, however, the government too must be willing to compete with private industry for qualified personnel by offering better pay and better benefits. If not, that government's army will steadily decline until it is so weak it cannot defend the nation, its personnel unqualified to operate the sophisticated weaponry provided.

That is the point the United States is approaching, unhappily. Now it's time for Americans to decide what direction they want our armed forces to take in the future.

WASHINGTON - There's an unpublicized but important athletic event that's not on the official schedule of the Moscow Olympics - the free-style entrapment of Western visitors by Russian prostitutes working for the Soviet secret police. And the Russians are after as many gold medals as they can hook.

Indeed, U.S. intelligence experts glumly predict that some West Europeans, or even Americans, with access to sensitive intelligence information, have already been caught up in the lush toils of comely KGB agents they have met in the festive Olympic atmosphere. The danger comes when the unwary victim, blackmailed by the threat of embarrassing publicity or a one-way ticket to the Gulag Archipelago, agrees to spy for the Kremlin when he returns home

As one source explained: "The girl can't take the John back to her apartment because of the relatives living with her. And the hotels are constantly watched. So any girl who does this successfully must have the protection of the police - or the KGB." If she has her own apartment - a rarity in Russia - she is certainly working for

Critics complain that Hufstedler's Supreme Court ambitions have led her to follow middle-of-the-road policies, hoping to avoid controversy that might block her appointment to the high court. But Hufstedler's actions as educa-

"Hufstedler and Carter are stabbing the Hispanic community in the back," Colorado State Rep. Federico Pena bluntly charges.

The key to implementation of the Bilingual Bicultural Education Act are regulations that must be published in the Federal Register before the Office of Civil Rights can move in. After lengthy stalling, Hufstedler has agreed to publish regulations next

But Hispanic leaders tell me the regulations "are so watered-down and weak that we're worse off than when we started this struggle."

ENVIOUS DIPLOMAT: Testifying behind closed congressional doors, Myles Frechette, the State Department's Cuba desk director, commented a bit wistfully: "The Cubans are tremendously flexible in their foreign aid program. There are no strictures. There are no legislative amendments. There is no Congress. The Cubans can do whatever they want." Then, realizing who his audience was, he added quickly: "I did not imply any criticism.'

It is incumbent on every columnist to see "Last Tango in Paris" and comment on it. Some critics have called it the greatest movie of our time. Others have written that it is one of the great ripoffs of the film

But having seen the movie, I would like to advance the opinion that most critics have missed the point of the "Last Tango in Paris" is not, as it has been described, the story of an aging American (Marlon Brando)

The next day they are back at the apartment again. Brando has brought a table, chairs and a bed to assert his claim to it. But Miss Schneider is not impressed and walks about the place as if it were hers.

This infuriates Brando and he throws her down on the bed and keeps muttering, "It's mine, it's mine. Miss Schneider just laughs at him.

All the time they are making love, she is looking at the window, trying to figure what size curtains she'll need for the room

Brando, exhausted and fearful that he'll lose the flat, visits his mother-inlaw and dead wife. We see the tiny hótel he lives in and realize why Brando is so intent on getting the apartment. Miss Schneider goes off with her fiance and we discern why she wants a new place to live.

Back to the apartment. Rather than being frightened by Brando's brutality, Miss Schneider becomes more determined than ever to wrest the key away from him.

The next time they meet, she's in her wedding dress and Brando is so mad he throws her in the tub. Miracle of miracles, the plumbing works, and Brando gives Miss Schneider a bath while she figures out what color scheme would go best with the white medicine cabinet.

By this time, Brando is worn out and figures the apartment isn't really worth it. He leaves without telling Miss Schneider his name.

A little battered from the sexual encounters, Miss Schneider returns triumphantly with her fiance to show him the flat. But after all Miss Schneider's been through, the fiance takes one look at the place and declares, "It's too big."

This is when I started to cry. I don't know if "Last Tango in Paris" is a great movie or not, but I believe that director Bertolucci has made an important social statement about one of the real outrages of our time, which happens to be the housing shortage in France.

HEMISPHERE REPORT

Thousands of political prisoners jam Nicaraguan jails

A year after the ouster of the Somoza dictatorship, Nicaragua has a higher percentage of political prisoners than Communist Cuba.

Figures recently released by the U.S. State Department indicate that at least 7,500 persons were jailed by the Marxist-led Sandinistas either for association with the government of former President Anastasio Somoza or for their ties with the Somoza National Guard. Although the Sandinistas have been giving the alleged "Somocistas" trials, the process has been slow, slower than the pace of subsequent arrests of other "anti-social elements" and suspected counterrevoluionaries. Press reports from Managua re-ently, for example, told of the mass etentions of some 900 persons in raids on three lower-class "barrios" n the Nicaraguan capital. About half of those rounded up were said to have been released after questioning, but more than 400 were kept under ar-

The protest against the house-byouse searches and the arrests by the opposition Social Democratic Party rought only a cryptic explanation by an official spokesman.

"The detentions in the San Judas, Loma Linda and Sierra Maestra barrios by the Sandinista police were a necessary measure," Commander Daniel Ortega, a member of the Saninista government junta, said.

A few days earlier, the Nicarguan emocratic Revolutionary Alliance ARDEN), a recently formed opposion group about which little is known outside that Central American coun-try, charged that the number of political prisoners there now is greater than 10,000.

Yet, even accepting as accurate the Sandinistas' own estimate that there are still some 7,000 persons being held for suspected sympathies with the Somoza regime, the number of political prisoners in Nicaragua is proportionately greater than that of any other hemisphere nation. Cuba, whose population is 9.7 million, more than four times that of Nicaragua, would have 40,000 political prisoners, rather than the 10,000 that the State Department estimates, were Castro jailing the percentage of Cuba's population that the Sandinistas are of theirs.

Or, to make the point more clearly, the United States would have some 700,000 prisoners of conscience, were it to proceed as has the revolutionary government of Nicaragua.

But none of that seems to bother Washington, despite President Jimmy Carter's oft-proclaimed deep commitment to human rights. It is not that the State Department ignores the situation in that Central American country.

Patt Derian, then the State Department's most outspoken human rights advocate, said in a speech in April that the Sandinista revolution did not "bring an end to human rights concerns. A number of summary executions have occurred. Allegations of torture continue, particularly with respect to political prisoners. ... Other disturbing developments include efforts to intimidate the free press ... the slow pace of the special tribunals conducting the trials of the political prisoners, and concern that proper

The State Higher Education Assistance Fund would be established only if the 1981 Legislature approves an earlier committee recommendation to increase tuition at least 100 per-

Ten percent of the increase would finance scholarships based on need. The rest would go into a special fund to be spent by colleges outside the University of Texas and A&M systems for land, construction, capital equipment - including library material — and major building repairs.

The Special Committee on Higher Education Financing in Texas, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton, Wednesday also urged the Legislature to approve a constitution change that would allow UT and A&M to issue bonds and notes equaling 30 percent of all Permanent University Fund investments and assets, instead of the current 20 percent.

Kenneth Ashworth, state commissioner of higher education, warned it was a "high risk gamble" to disturb present state college financing which includes the Permanent University Fund for the UT and A&M systems.

"Texas has more funds available to make a great university than any other state," he said.

The Texas College Coordinating Board had recommended that a tuition increase go mainly for faculty pay raises, with building repairs and rehabilitation as second, he said.

President Max Sherman of West Texas State University said he had "a concern that we should preseerve what we have and not commit ourselves to new construction."

Frank Erwin, former UT regent, said the constitution change was needed because UT regents planned to share Permanent University Fund financing with eight or 10 of its system schools, relieving the Legislature of the need to finance their building programs with state taxes.

"It is premature to conclude that Texas schools will be bankrupt by the influx of children of undocumented workers, but we know for sure that our state is bankrupt morally if we continue to refuse to educate those children," Suggs said. In 1979 and 1980, conference assemblies adopted resolutions calling for education of all Texas children, regardless of citizenship.

Suggs said in a statement that he feared statements by some Texas officials "could fan prejudice against immigrants, especially Hispanics."

"It is deceitful to suggest that Texans can save money by denying free public education to one group of children. What about the tremendous cost - not only in dollars but also in wasted potential - of generations of immigrant children growing up without education," Suggs said. Taxes paid directly and indirectly by undocumented workers help support public education.

Hotel workers face court order

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Striking bellhops, maids and restaurant workers faced a court order to restrain from picketing some of the city's most elegant hostelries today as negotiations resumed in a week-old walkout. Superior Court Judge Donald Constine granted a temporary restraining order Wednesday night for 11 of the 36 hotels struck by the 6,000-member Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union Local Constine scheduled a hearing Aug. 5 to determine whether the order requested by such Nob Hill landmarks as the Fairmont and the Mark Hopkins should be made permanent.

Attorneys for Local 2 could not be reached for

The order, which was to be served today, restricts the number of pickets at doorways, prevents use of noisemakers and directs the strikers not to harrass guests and non-union employees.

The order followed the arrest Tuesday of 46 strikers at a rally of several hundred union members in front of the Hyatt Regency, one of the hotels which sought the order.

A federal mediator scheduled a meeting today, the first talks since the strike began July 17, with representatives of the union and the Hotel Employers Association. Although neither side appeared to be budging, mediator Richard D. Williams said he wanted negotiators to meet face-to-face in hopes of producing a basis for further talks.

Vincent Sirabella, an international union representative, said the local's negotiating team is "prepared to bargain in a realistic fashion.

Hotel association directors met Wednesday but made no statement.

Union officials, who are seeking improvements in working conditions, have declined to say what wage increases they are seeking. Union members now average about $5 an hour, the officials said.

Hotels involved in the dispute account for about half of the city's 3,000 rooms. They report they are at near seasonal capacity, despite having to offer re-

A check of strike-effected establishments showed hotel group bookings were way down, non-hotel restaurant business was up and taxi and limousine business was slow.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Independent president three-day campaign swing across California.

Anderson said he was not accusing President Carter of personal involvement in any wrongdoing, adding, "It is certainly not his (the president's) fault that he is saddled with a brother like Billy."

Earlier Wednesday, Anderson said he finds it

"unbelievably distressing" that White House offi-cials asked the president's brother to intercede with Libya in seeking the release of American hostages in

"The impropriety of any member of the president's family dealing with a foreign power is so egregious it goes beyond description," said the Republican congressman from Illinois.

Anderson made his comments in response to questions after he addressed the World Affairs Council of San Francisco.

The White House disclosed Tuesday that Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser, asked Billy Carter to set up a meeting with Libyan officials to enlist their help in gaining release of the hostages. The meeting was held Nov. 27, three weeks after the hostages were seized in Tehran.

Anderson said while it is clear that government officials must "sift" through evidence to determine the real nature of Billy Carter's involvement, no president should draw his relatives into any foreign policy decision.

'This goes beyond sibling rivalry," Anderson said, drawing laughter from the 150 trustees of the foreign

In his speech, Anderson said that on his recent 12-day trip to Europe and the Middle East, he found strong fears that the Atlantic alliance might be disintegrating. "There is concern among the leaders of Europe that unless steps are taken to renew the spirit of the alliance, the Atlantic partnership may slowly drift apart," he said. Criticizing what he said was the president's failure to share foreign policy decisions adequately with European leaders, Anderson said traditional American ties to those nations have reached "a critical junc-

Europe no longer looks to the United States to take the lead on many international issues, including a declining world supply of oil and the Soviet military buildup, he said. As a result, "the steady coherence of American foreign policy has given way to a babble of incoherent and discordant voices."

Anderson, beginning a three-day campaign swing through California, a state considered crucial to the success of his independent candidacy, said his administration would "recognize that the alliance must be a union of equal partners."

Anderson must obtain 101,300 signatures on petitions by August to get on the state's general election ballot in November. State campaign officials say he: probably will get at least 250,000 signatures.

Member drops resolution to remove board president

During a special Wednesday night meeting of the board of directors of the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Chilren. board member Ralph Noyes effectively removed a resolution he had proposed last week to remove board president Sue Stephens

The meeting was held to vote on the resolution which was tabled during a regular board meeting July 16. The resolution listed various accusations against Mrs. Stephens.

Noyes, an attorney with West Texas Legal Services, read his written statement which stated he felt the resolution was unneccessary and divisive. Noyes added he regretted the manner in which the resolution to remove Mrs. Stephens was presented and said he felt further discussions of the qualifications and conduct of board members and staff should be held in executive session.

The attorney further said he felt four resolutions passed by the board at last week's meeting prior to the one in question would remedy the problems that concerned him.

Those resolutions passed presented specific duties of the shelter director, gave time limits on notification of board meetings, clarified the purpose of the agenda and defined the purpose and notification of grievance committee meetings

Mrs. Stephens also presented a statement to the board saying she intended to abide by those resolutions passed and encouraged the board to be concerned only with the business properly before the board and not with any personality conflict.

more executed

By The Associated Press

Twenty more officers and men of the Iranian army and air force were executed in Tehran at dawn today for taking part in the military plot to bomb Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's home and overthrow his revolutionary regime, Tehran Radio reported.

Another man was put to death for killing four persons because they "were not prepared to renounce their Islamic beliefs and embrace Marxism," the Iranian government radio said.

The executions brought the total in Iran this week to 51, including 25 convicted of involvement in the conspiracy. At least 500 persons were reported arrested for being part of the plot, and death sentences are expected for most of them.

Tehran Radio said the plotters executed today included four captains and a first lieutenant, all of them air force pilots; an air force technician and army noncommissioned officers.

An Islamic revolutionary court found them guilty of plotting a coup against the Islamic republic, planning to bomb Khomeini's home in northern Tehran and "mutinying against the Islamic regime," the broadcast said.

The plotters put to death on Sunday included a retired brigadier general and five air force officers, and the announcement of their execution said they were preparing a fleet of 35 to 50 air force jets to bomb Khomeini's residence and other key points.

The others executed this week were convicted of other counter-revolutionary activities and drug offenses.

On the political front, Iran's official Pars news agency reported that President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr appeared to have chosen Mostafa Mir-Salim, the chief of the state police and deputy interior minister for political affairs, to be the Iranian republic's first

The news agency said Bani-Sadr held an unusually long meeting with Mir-Salim on Wednesday, and when reporters asked the police chief whether he would be the president's choice, he replied, "Anything could

Pars reported Mir-Salim has the support of the Islamic Republican Party, the clergy-led, hard-line faction that dominates the new Parliament, or Majlis.

Bani-Sadr was expected to nominate his prime minister by Friday. The nominee will put together a cabinet, then with it face a vote of confidence in the Majlis.

Leaders of the revolutionary regime have said that once a prime minister and cabinet are confirmed, the Majlis can turn to the country's major problems and decide what to do with the 52 American hostages.

The Americans were spending their 264th day in captivity today. The Majlis is expected to delay the start of its debate on their fate for some weeks or perhaps months. But an Arab newspaper published in London, Al Sharq Al Awsat, reported on Wednesday that the revolutionary regime is considering freeing them in about three weeks, at the end of the Moslem holy month of Ramadan.

Quoting "well-informed Arab sources," the paper said the regime now considers the hostages a "heavy burden." It said the Majlis might decide to classify the prisoners as spies and order their expulsion from the country.

In the United States, meanwhile, police arrested two American Black Muslims and were hunting for a third one for the assassination on Tuesday of Ali Akbar Tabatabai, the former press attache of the Iranian Embassy in Washington and a foe of the Khomeini regime. Tabatabai was shot and killed Tuesday afternoon at his home in a suburb of Washington by a man posing as a mailman. Officials said the missing man was the one who fired

Khomeini supporter charged in slaying of Iranian exile

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) - An American Black Muslim supporter of the regime of Iranian revolutionary leader Aytollah Ruhollah Khomeini is being sought on a murder charge in the slaying of a prominent Iranian exile who opposed the Khomeini government.

Charges were filed in federal court against three men Wednesday, including David Belfield, 29, of nearby Washington. Belfield, also known as Dayoud Salahuddin, is wanted for first-degree murder and conspiracy.

Also charged was Tyrone Anthony Frazier, a U.S. Postal Service worker who had originally told police he abducted at gunpoint by three men who then took his postal jeep for use in the

Ali Tabatabai, the former Iranian press attache in Washington during the rein of the now-deposed shah of Iran, was shot and killed Tuesday afternoon at his home in this Washington suburb. Police say Tabatabai was killed by

Belleville residents know a lot about next senator

The dilemma: Will he be the Democrat or the Republican

By GREG THOMPSON

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — All Illinois knows its next U.S. senator will be the fellow who eats fried catfish at Jack English's tavern and orders up cold draft beers from Vinnie Mueller at The Jug.

He'll be the candidate who tees up regularly with banker Jim Jolley, probably after picking up a tip or two from golf pro Clarence Voigt. He'll be the local guy who graduated from Belleville Township High School.

A rash election-year prediction? Not really.

You see, both candidates - Republican Lt. Gov. David O'Neal, 43, and Democratic Secretary of State Alan Dixon, 53 — are hometown boys, born and reared right here in Belleville, population 45,000.

O'Neal and Dixon live within a mile of each other in Belleville's posh Signal Hill-St. Clair Country Club section. O'Neal is from the Fightin' Maroons Class of 1955, Dixon is Class of 1945.

Both do a little golfing and banking with Jim Jolley over at First National. Both hoist cold ones at The Jug. And both live only blocks from what Jack English claims is the best fried catfish to be found in southwestern

The freak situation has created quite a dilemma for folks in this city east of St. Louis. Who will they vote for? "We've got quite a problem here in Belleville. They're both good people. I'm going to find it very difficult to make up my mind," said 77-year-old Ollie Cross, a teacher at Belleville High when both Dixon and O'Neal were teen-agers.

Like many others in Belleville, Cross voted in 1978 for O'Neal for lieutenant governor and for Dixon for secretary of state. Neither man has ever lost an election.

"I'm going to vote this time. Both of those men would expect me to vote. But I'm not even going to say if I'm usually a Democrat or Republican,' Cross said.

"I'm pretty damn proud to know that we're going to have a United States senator I know on a first-name basis. I'm damn proud of both of them," said English, who keeps autographed photos of both candidates on his tavern wall.

English will admit to being a Democrat, but he won't say if he's voting Dixon or voting O'Neal in November.

Assistant Principal Dan Wolford has seen two O'Neal kids and three Dixon kids come through what is now Belleville West High. People needle Wolford that he'd vote for a chimpanzee if it were a Democrat, but he admits he could feel good about voting for a Republican if it were Communist Workers Party members hit Chicago police with sticks and placards and barricaded themselves in a federal office in New York for six hours during demonstrations aimed at state and federal officials in a dozen cities, officials said.

The sit-ins and picketing were staged Wednesday to protest what the CWP said was the government's role in the slaying of five comrades at an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally in Greensboro, N.C., last November.

Five demonstrators were arrested in Chicago, and seven in New York. Protests also occurred in Charlotte and Greensboro, N.C., Detroit, Phila-

Second night of racial unrest follows acquittal of Klansmen

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) -Black demonstrators marched through the streets of Chattanooga in a second night of racial unrest, hours after a group of black organizations asked the government to investigate jurors who acquitted two Ku Klux Klansmen of charges of shooting four black women.

The coalition's announcement Wednesday came after Assistant U.S. Attorney John Cook said the FBI is investigating whether the three Klansmen — one of them convicted on reduced assault charges - committed civil rights violations in the April 19 shooting incident.

Police Wednesday night turned back about 150 blacks marching along a street from a predominantly black city housing project, Spencer McCallie Homes. About 90 minutes later, authorities dispersed an additional 40 marchers who were chanting, "We want rednecks."

There was scattered violence but no reports of injuries. Police arrested eight people on burglary charges for separate lootings of the same store and said a half dozen fires damaged businesses, including a restaurant, a store and two warehouses.

Late Tuesday night, seven hours of firebombings, brick-throwing and looting in Alton Park damaged half a dozen businesses and automobiles. Eight people were arrested on burglary charges stemming from lootings.

The violence came after an allwhite jury acquitted William Church, 23, who calls himself the imperial wizard of the Justice Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and member Larry Payne, 26, of four counts each of assault with intent to commit murder that resulted in bodily injury.

Marshall Thrash, 30, a Klansman who testified he fired from a car to attract attention to flaming crosses, was fined $225 and given two workhouse sentences of nine months each and an additional two-month term. Judge Joe DiRisio is to decide whether the sentences run concurrently or consecutively.

Four black women, who have recovered, were wounded by the gunshots as they walked down a street here.

The coalition called on the Justice Department to investigate the jurors' backgrounds and trial records to see whether the civil rights of the shooting victims had been violated.

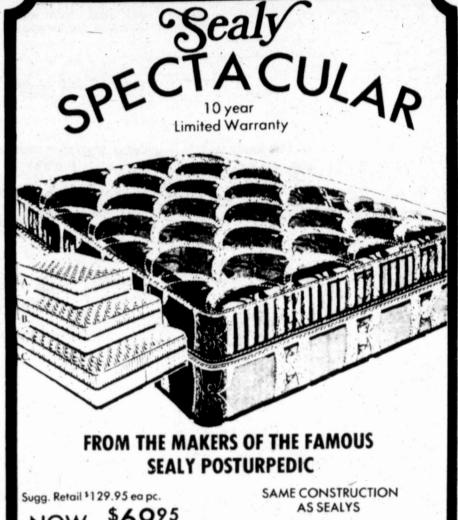

George Key, city chapter president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, sent a letter Wednesday to U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, asking him to conduct a quick investigation.

Key also said the NAACP plans to sue Thrash, Church and Payne in U.S. District Court, charging them with violating the women's civil rights, and to file a civil lawsuit against the men in state court for damages.

Reuben Turner, manager of McCallie Romes, had said before the Wednesday-night violence he expected disturbances to continue because unemployed blacks angered by the jury's decision were led to believe the system isn't working for them. "You can't stop it. It's just got to run its course," Turner said. "You're dealing with a young black man...all he knows is, he doesn't have a job."

Black leaders estimate that about 35 percent of the city's 170,000 residents are black.

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A special prison tactical team using tear gas this morning freed a guard who had been held hostage by rioting inmates for nearly 18 hours in smoldering Idaho State Penitentiary, authorities said.

Corrections Director C. W. "Bill" Crowl said no shots were fired and no one was injured in the five-minute assault by about a dozen heavily armed Crowl said that once guard Lynart Orr was freed shortly after 5: 30 a.m., the plan called for action to regain control of the institution. About 200 law enforcement officers ringed the facility. The decision to send in the tactical team came after inmates had burned nearly everything in the prison compound and fears for the hostage's life grew, Crowl said. Only the kitchen was spared the Crowl said the inmates were brewing a big batch of homemade whiskey and he feared that when it was ready, the inmates would go on "a wild drunk." The only other hostage taken in the riot, guard Calvin May, was released unharmed just before nightfall Wednesday. Efforts to free Orr through negotiations failed when inmates refused to talk further after dark.

Nine prisoners have sought aid for injuries suffered in the rioting, and one was hospitalized after being badly beaten on the face and arms by other inmates, Crowl said. The others suffered smoke inhalation, minor cuts and bruises.

Negotiations broke down at dusk, and the Idaho National Guard was placed on standby. The inmates said talks would resume at 1:30 p.m. MDT. The rioting began shortly before noon Wednesday after guards conducted a shake-down of a medium security cellhouse. All 400 inmates in the main prison complex were at

Parents can return to native land now without 12-year-old son

CHICAGO (AP) — The parents of Ukrainian-born Walter Polovchak can return to their native land without their 12-year-old son, who has been granted political asylum here, a Soviet official says.

Evgeny Antipov, chief of the Soviet Embassy's consular division in Washington, said Wednesday that no requirement has been made that the Polovchak couple return accompanied by their son.

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service also said there are no U.S. restrictions mandating all members of the Polovchak family to leave together. The parents are free to leave whenever they choose, without the boy, regardless of whether they are on the same visa, said Janet Graham, an INS spokesman.

Those reports conflict with earlier statements made by Walter's attorney, Julian Kulas. Kulas had said Walter's father and mother, Michael and Anna Polovchak, could return only if Walter and another son, Michael, 6, accompanied them.

Antipov said reports that the family could return only if the sons went as well were "distortions."

The immigration service granted political asylum to the boy Monday, in response to a request by Kulas. The granting of asylum came two days after a Cook County Circuit judge placed the boy in temporary custody of the state Department of Children and Family Services.

The boy had run away from home last week because he did not want to return to the Ukraine, where his family had lived until last year.

The boy currently is staying with relatives awaiting a custody hearing next Wednesday.

After the boy was granted asylum, the Soviet Embassy accused the United States of authorizing the "kidnapping" of the boy.

sy has not filed an official protest with the U.S. State Department, spokesman Joseph Reap said.

Despite the accusation, the embas-

And, Reap added, "We do reject as out of hand any characterization of this as kidnapping.

Kulas also said Wednesday it was "ridiculous" for the Soviet Embassy to regard the boy's separation from his parents as a kidnapping.

The attorney said the Soviet Embassy has been offered access to both Walter and his sister, Natalie, 17, who also doesn't want to return home. "The children have left the home alone," he said. "They're not restrained in any form."

Despite the fact that the boy has been granted asylum, Kulas said the case should not be regarded in a political sense. The boy, he said, is a runaway and that is how the court should regard the case.

Hijack suspect may have used plastic gun

MIAMI (AP) — The man who hijacked a Delta Air Lines L-1011 to Cuba apparently boarded the flight in Miami and may have carried a plastic gun, federal officials say.

How the hijacker got on the plane with an undetected gun "is a question that we're working on getting answered," Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Jack Barker said Wednesday in Atlanta.

Barker said one possibility was that the gun was plastic and therefore would not have set off metal detectors at airport checkpoints. "There are a lot of plastic guns that are almost exact duplicates of real Authorities said the hijacker, described as Puerto Rican, held a gun to a flight attendant Tuesday as the jet headed for San Juan, Puerto Rico, and demanded to go to Cuba. He was left at an airport in Camaguey, Cuba after bad weather prevented a landing in Havana.

The 142 passengers and 14 crew members were unharmed. The flight originated in Chicago but "it looks like he (the hijacker) boarded in Miami because the people who were on the Chicago-to-Miami portion of the flight don't remember him getting on with them," FBI agent William Nettles said.

Meanwhile, FBI agents were checking a plastic soft-drink cup for fingerprints and squinting at smudged passenger lists in an effort to identify the hijacker.

"We may not be able to identify this one for a while," said FBI agent Welton Merry. "Some of the Xerox passenger sheets are badly smudged, and the plane had several empty seats."

Merry said agents "are trying to develop (fingerprints) from things that he touched," including the cup. The man is described as about 5 feet, 6 inches tall and 30 years old.

The plane arrived in San Juan at 11:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday, six hours behind schedule. It returned to Miami for refueling after leaving Cuba. The FBI said the hijacker forced the flight attendant to the cockpit door and told the pilot he had a lot of personal problems.

Brown wants changes made in weapons bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Harold Brown wants Congress to spend less money on some conventional armaments and more on new weapons such as the CX rapid combat cargo plane and a vertical liftoff plane.

Brown wrote Congress Wednesday to suggest reductions of up to $6.7 billion in a pending weapons bill while restoring $1.4 billion the Pentagon wants. The letter was sent to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

The House has approved a $53.1 billion weapons bill, $6.2 billion above President Carter's $46.9 billion request, and the Senate passed a $51.9 billion version. A conference committee is now trying to work out a compromise.

Brown urged restoration of $81.5 seed money for the CX rapid combat transport plane, a $10 billion project that is part of President Carter's proposed rapid deployment force to protect American interests in the Persian Gulf.

Brown also urged restoration of $20.7 million for development of a vertical liftoff plane for the Navy. Brown also proposed elimination of money added by both the House and Senate for more submarines and F-14 and F-15 planes.

In addition, Brown said, Congress

 Eliminate Senate restrictions on the Army's recruitment of people without high school diplomas and in the lowest mental categories. Brown said the restrictions "would prevent us from recruiting people who offer real prospects of successful performance in service.'

- Erase a Senate provision to direct the Pentagon to put only half the new MX nuclear missile system in Nevada and Utah and study locations for the other sites.

MOSCOW (AP) — A Vietnamese fighter pilot credited with downing a U.S. B-52 bomber in the Vietnam war and a Russian cosmonaut prepared today to link up with two Soviet spacemen who have been orbiting Earth for more than three months in the Salyut 6 laboratory. The Soyuz spaceship carrying Lt. Col Pham Tuan, recently trained as a cosmonaut-researcher, and Col. Viktor Gorbatko, the commander, was launched Wednesday. Tuan is the first Asian space traveler and the sixth citizen of a Soviet-allied nation launched into orbit as part of the Intercosmos program.

The official Vietnam News Agency said Tuan was trained as a pilot in the Soviet Union, then returned home and that on the night of June 27, 1972 shot down a B-52 bomber taking part in a raid on North Vietnam's urban cen-

For that accomplishment in his Russian MiG-21 jet he was awarded the Gold Star as a Hero of Vietnam. Soviet newspapers said Tuan was the first to shoot down a B-52 from the air, and that he offered the downed B-52 as a "fantastic present" to his sister who had just been married.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Tuan, who received cosmonaut training in Russia last year, and Gorbatko will dock within 24 hours with Salyut 6 and join Soviet Cosmoanuts Valery Ryumin and Leonid Popov who have been in orbit since April 9.

You may have the option of trying to set up a side suit in either the closed hand or in dummy, and selecting the better line of play involves sound judgment rather than the application of fixed principles.

One thing is certain. Before deciding to play a hand on crossruff lines, you should be able to count in high cards and ruffs the number of tricks needed to fulfill your contract. Bear in mind that, if you ever relinquish the lead, the opponents will shift to trumps in an effort to spoil your party. In today's hand South became declarer at six diamonds. He failed to land his slam because he ignored a fundamental principle of crossruff technique-the prompt cashing of high cards in the side suit not involved

The bidding was rather weird. No one seemed to have had a clear idea of what was going on, and all appeared to have been swept along by the rhythm of the auction. South's refusal to pass five spades round to his partner, who might have been aching to apply the axe. was a model of impropriety. but that is not the point at issue.

The king of spades was led and ruffed, and declarer set about ruffing clubs in dummy and spades in his hand. Everything went merrily on its way until, on the fourth spade, East discarded a heart. Now declarer awoke to the necessity of cashing his heart tricks, but it was too late. Declarer took the king of hearts and led a heart off dummy, but East ruffed and returned a trump, and declarer could not avoid losing another trick.

Declarer had been blessed with great fortune-his trumps were all high, so he could not be overruffed. He could count two heart tricks in high cards and ten trump tricks via a black-suit crossruff. All he had to do was cash his high hearts before setting out on the crossruff and he would have avoided suffering the indignity that occurred.

Ground broken Wednesday for Tumbleweed Playground

Groundbreaking festivities for Tumbleweed Playground, a new "creative playground," were cele-brated Wednesday on the eight-acre city-owned tract.

The new playground, to be located in the southwest corner of Windlands Park between Wadley Street and Ventura Street, is a joint venture with the Junior League of Midland, the City Council and the Parks and Recreation Department.

Junior League members, in celebration of their 30th anniversary in Midland, began the playground idea with the city in November 1978. League members wanted a playground "to enhance the motor skills and further educate the children of Midland," by including new and innovative playground equipment.

The Junior League donated $30,000 to the project and solicited matching funds from local foundations.

Landscape architects Al David of Page of Midland and playground designer Nan Simpson of Dallas were retained to plan the playground. David landscapes residential and commercial property in addition to public parks; while Mrs. Simpson is a creative play area designer who has completed playgrounds throughout Texas. Their work on Tumbleweed Playground specifically designed it to break falls and to enhance development of motor skills. The Parks and Recreation Depart-

Jeans still 'in' for fall fashion

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

"The single, most versatile item of apparel in fashion today is still the jean," says the manager of a local dress shop here.

"Jeans offer the greatest sense of freedom, comfort and wardrobe versatility that becomes important in times of econmic turmoil. Clothes need to serve a multitude of uses,"

"Jeans represent a sound clothing investment," she continued. "They can go super casual...just throw on a new sweatshirt, one of the hottest fashion accessories for fall.

"Jeans can go preppy...all that's required is a button-down oxford shirt and a Shetland or Fair Isle crewneck sweater. "Jeans can go dressy...just top them off with a fancy sport shirt, knit tie, tweed sport coat or classic navy Jean fabrics for fall are varied, from brushed twills, chino, and plaids, to fancy stripes, prints and even gray flannel! However, the two most popular fabrications that form the framework of jeans for this fall are still the all-time favorites: denim and corduroy.

"Corduroy, always a fall favorite, will be much in demand this fall,' said the fashion predictor. "This is a natural for the new-traditionalist trend. There are many wales to choose from in classic colors and ribless corduroy is back after being absent for several seasons. Plushy, wide wale corduroy is also right on target looking very fashionable in mustard, purple, even cornflower

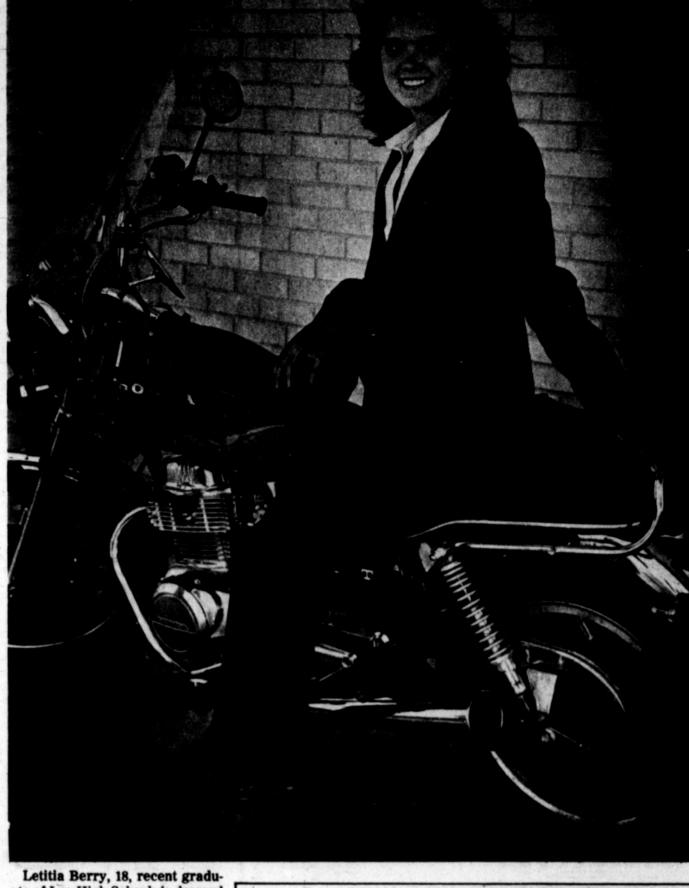

She said that probably the single most improtant fabric concept for fall is stretch which has been with us for a while but suddenly has mushroomed based on one significant word: com-

"Peoples lives have become more active," she said. "They are taking better care of their bodies and the fit of their clothing is important. Stretch jeans, in denim and corduroy, offer a long, lean look, better fit plus com-

She explained that denim's universal popularity makes it a fabric that transcends seasons. "The majority of jeans are still in proven 14 oz. denim, but there has been a trend to lighter weights (10 to 12 oz.)...as light as 5 oz. in Europe...making denim a totally viable sportswear fabric," she said.

"The newest looks are brushed denim, iredescent denim; even quilted denim for a fresh, new junior look. A few seasons back, the rage was washed-cut denim which faded here, but has surfaced in Europe.

"It will be interesting to see what, if any, effect it will have here in Ameri-

Women's suit against parents dismissed

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed a $33 million lawsuit filed by a Michigan woman who claimed her parents abandoned her in a home for the mentally retarded because of a birth defect. Karen Multack Boldt of New Haven, Mich., last year sued her parents, Hyman and Lorayne Multack of East Chicago, Ind.; the Chicago doctor who delivered her, Dr. Allen Schultz; and two Illinois medical institutions

The suit charged that her parents succeeded in having her diagnosed as mentally retarded and committed her to a state institution, telling relatives

Because the 27-year-old woman is of normal intelligence, the suit contended, her commitment to the home amounted to illegal imprisonment.

But U.S. District Judge Thomas McMillen ruled that a two-year statute of limitations on the claims of false imprisonment and medical malpractice had run out.

He said in the decision earlier this month that since Mrs. Boldt discovered her identity when she was 14, she should have filed suit within two years after that time.

In the suit, Mrs. Boldt contended her parents decided to abandon her when they learned she was born with spina bifida, a defect that leaves the spinal cord exposed. She must walk with crutches as a result of the condi-

What's cooking?

Because she doesn't like to cook, Jackie Forsyth says she looks for easy, convenient recipes to fix for her family. Her recipe for Mexican Salad is easy and the salad can be a meal in itself.

Jackie is married to Don Forsyth and they have two children. Although she works parttime for Johnson, Miller and Co., Jackie is also assistant leader for Brownie Troop 430, member of the Henderson PTA Executive Board, Council Chairman for Midland County Extension Homemakers Council and is a member of Calico Extension Homemakers Club.

This salad recipe is one of many tested salad recipes which will be sold at the Midland County Extension Homemakers Annual Day Oct. 10 at Midland County Exhibit Building.

MEXICAN SALAD

- 1 head lettuce
- 2 large tomatoes
- 2 onions, chopped
- 1 pkg. Longhorn cheese 1 can pitted ripe olives 1/2 pkg. corn chips
- 2 lbs. ground beef
- 1 can pinto beans

1 can enchilada sauce

Brown beef and 1 onion. Add beans and enchilada sauce. Simmer for 30 minutes. Season to taste.

While the beef sauce is cooking, chop lettuce, onion and tomatoes and grate cheese. Add olives and crushed chips. (If making ahead of time, do not add chips until ready to serve.) Mix well. Pour beef mixture over individual servings of the salad.

DEAR ABBY

'Cross-dressing' may cross the law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it against the law for a hus-band and wife to appear in public-restaurants. shopping, etc.—the husband dressed as a woman, and the wife dressed as a man?

Paul and I are both normal in every sense of the word. It all started this way: I am 5 foot 11, and Paul is 5 foot 5. We are as compatible as two people can be, but we have always felt somewhat conspicuous in public. For that reason, I stopped wearing heels. One day I bought some women's wedgie shoes in Paul's size and gave them to him. He tried them on, found them to be very comfortable and was delighted with the extra height they provided. After wearing these wedgies a few times, he wanted another pair. Now he refuses to wear anything else. Just for fun, I put some makeup on him and got him a woman's wig, and we went to dinner that way. We loved it! Then I started to dress like a man, and now we do it all the time. I assure you we are sexually normal. My husband dresses as a man for work. We switch roles for fun only when we go out.

Someone told me that this is against the law. Is

DEAR J. J.: What is legal in one community may be illegal in another. In some places, cross-dressing is considered "masquerading"or deliberately attempting to conceal one's identity, which could conceivably be against the law. Play it safe and consult a local lawyer.

DEAR ABBY; I read with interest the letters concerning having gold removed from a person's mouth after death.

I specialize in reconstructive dentistry, and it is not uncommon to use between 2 and 3 ounces of gold in an individual's mouth. Many patients have taken to the grave enough gold to pay for the funeral. However, I've been torn over a decision to mention this to my patients for fear they might find it objectionable, or look upon it as a desecration of the

I know that not all dentists feel as I do, but I would be perfectly willing to accommodate a bereaved spouse or the kin of a loved one by performing this kind of dentistry.-FLORIDA

DEAR D.D.S.: You claim the distinction of being the only dentist among my readers to make such an offer. Congratulations. I was informed by others in your profession that getting a dentist to perform this type of surgery would be 'like pulling teeth.'

DEAR ABBY: I'm happy for that woman with multiple sclerosis who was carried up five flights of stairs in a Japanese temple and on and off airplanes by a husband who not once hinted that being married to a disabled woman was at times inconvenient.

I wasn't that lucky. After I got M.S. and became less able to function, my husband di-vorced me and left me with two teen-agers to raise alone.

Unusual? Not really. Statistics show that approximately 80 percent of the women with M.S. end up divorced, as compared to 15 percent when the husband develops it. That doesn't say much for the American male, does it?

It's good to know that the words "in sickness and in health" actually mean something to some people, but as for me, so do the words ... -"I'LL WALK ALONE"

Battering decision reversed

CLEVELAND (AP) -The 8th District Ohio Court of Appeals, reversing the murder conviction of a woman who said she had acted in self-defense after being beaten, ruled that expert testimony on the subject of battered women should have been allowed at her

In a 2-1 decision Wednesday, the court ordered a new trial for Kathy Thomas, 26, of Euclid. She had been convicted two years ago by a Cuyahoga County jury of killing Reuben Daniels, 27, with whom she had been living.

Ms. Thomas' lawyers had wanted the jury to hear testimony from a psychiatric social worker who had worked with abused women. Common Pleas Court Judge James P. Kilbane denied the request, saying the subject did not require expert testimony.

In reversing the conviction, Judge Alvin I. Krenzler wrote that 'where a woman charged with the murder of her spouse presents evidence of an ongoing battering situation and asserts self-defense as justification ... in the absence of expert testimony on the unique psychological state of the battered woman, a jury would be unable to properly consider the selfdefense claim as it would not have a sufficient comprehension of the defendant's state of mind.'

Kenzler said the decision set precendent in County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan said he would appeal the ruling to the state Supreme Court.

The Thomas case had been a rallying point for a coalition of women's groups supporting the right of women to defend themselves against violent attacks.

DEAR HELOISE:

I wondered if writing to you would be the right way to get a message across to the general public. But, then I thought about how many new (and "old") mothers read your column. Maybe you could warn them to be a little more careful when buying cans of food, especially baby formula.

In my area, I notice more and more dented cans of formula, and even cans with rust on the tops and bottoms, stocked on grocery shelves. I mentioned to the store manager that in opening these cans, the sterile formula would be contaminated.

Afterwards, this led me to call our local Food and Drug Administration and I learned something else about buying damaged cans. A dent on the seam of a can could mean that the can has a small hidden pin hole, which could lead to Cans should be checked before buying. We can't assume that just because a certain can is on the shelf it must be all right to use. - D.S.

You have a valid point and I'll be happy to spread

Cans positively should be checked before buying. In addition to the above, check each end of a can. Never buy or use a can with a puffed top or bottom. The contents are spoiled, folks. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

To get dirty, grimy hands clean, try this simple solution:

Work up a lather with soap and warm water, then add a spoonful of sugar. Rub hands together vigorously, then rinse.

Presto! All the grime and dirt is gone. Hands get clean very quickly. - E. Strout

French bikini is back in style The Los Angeles Times

The original French bikini is back. Just wellplaced little triangles. But after summers of thongs and strings and other minuscule things for sunbathing, the French original looks surprisingly tame.

The bikini isn't the only thing basic about the shape of swimsuits for summer 1980. Last year's bandeau maillots and surplice maillots are back, with little added to update them.

What makes them look and print. Swimsuits could have been dyed to match the season's tropical fruits. Papaya, watermelon and plum seem to be making the biggest splash.

Prints might have been drawn with protractors or compasses. Black and white stripes border a banana-yellow bikini. Black spirals spin across a stark white maillot. For cover-ups, the newest looks are minisheaths and miniskirts. They raise a burning question: If the mini makes waves on the beach this summer, can it turn the tide in city dressing as well?

Summer delight created by new version of Bavarian Cream

By CECILY BROWNSTONE sociated Press Food Editor

Cooks who enjoy servlag a summer dessert made with fresh fruit for both its flavor and nutrients - may be interested in this updated version of Bavarian Cream. Old-time Bavarian is made with an eggyolk custard, gelatin, egg whites, cream and flavoring. The following recipe omits the egg-yolk custard but uses the gelatin, egg whites and cream plus fresh sweet red cherries for the flavoring. It unmolds and stands up well on a warm day because it calls for 2 envelopes of gelatin. If you like a gelatin dessert that is less stiff, use 11/2 envelopes of the gelatin and ladle the dessert into sherbet cups, parfait glasses or small glass bowls to chill, set and serve without unmold-

Britain's jobless rate high as '36

By MICHAEL WEST

LONDON (AP) — The ghost of the Great Depression of the 1930s is haunting Britain. There are now as many unemployed Britons as in 1936. And a secret government document reportedly says there could be a third more by 1983.

In the northwest port city of Liverpool the government-run careers office has just five jobs to offer 6,097 job seekers, most of them young school dropouts, one of the worst hit groups in the country.

Nationally, school dropouts have less than a 10 percent chance of getting a job. A third of the country's unemployed are under 24.

In Northern Ireland, worst hit of the British regions, 14.4 percent of all working-age men are without jobs.

The Conservative government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher refuses to spend public money to create more jobs, contending this will create more

But the opposition Labor Party wants to use public money to create more jobs and says the Conservatives are deliberately creating unemployment to keep wages down.

THE GOVERNMENT spelled out the unemployment figures Tuesday as Laborites roared "Resign! Resign!" at Mrs. Thatcher in the House of Com-

The Department of Employment said the number of jobless in Britain now stands at 1,896,634. That represents 7.8 percent of the British work force of 24.3 million and an increase of 236,960 from the previous month - the biggest monthly hike on

"The total level is back to the 1936 level," said 68-year-old Labor Party leader James Callaghan. "I never thought that I would see this again.'

Unemployment in the United States now stands at 8 million, or 7.7 percent of the work force. The British figures would have been even higher were it not for government job training programs and other measures which provide work for 324,000 people who otherwise would be unemployed.

The number of unemployed adults has jumped in one month by 128,000 to the present figure of 1.606 million. The rest of the unemployed are school dropouts. Their number has jumped in one month by 109,000 as the annual summer flood of youngsters finished school and hit the labor market. UNEMPLOYMENT likely will go on rising, say the experts. It is expected to go to 2 million by the end of this year and 2.5 million by 1982. The Daily Mirror reported that a secret government document forecasts it could go to well over 3 million by 1983 if the Conservatives stick to present policies. This would be over the Great Depression peak of 3 million - 20 percent of the then smaller workforce reached in 1933.

The worst hit areas of the economy are the metal manufacturing industry, mechanical engineering, the auto industry, construction and textiles. Together, they account for 47 percent of all unemploy-

The nationalized British Steel Corp. is planning to close down its steelworks at Consett in northeast England with a loss of 3,700 jobs. The state-run National Coal Board is planning to close the Ty-mawr-Lewis Merthyr pit in Wales, with a loss of 350

BSR, the West German audio equipment firm, closed its plants last month in Scotland and the Midlands and 2,300 jobs went. It also closed down in Belfast with a loss of 1,000 jobs. "What hope is there of me getting a job with all those people ahead of me in the dole queue," said 46-year-old father of four Tom Gibbs. Gibbs is a toolmaker. His firm, Thomas Haddon and Stokes in the Midlands city of Birmingham, makes screws and fasteners for cars and washing machines and is a subsidary of the giant GKN engineering group. He has worked for them for 20 years. The firm closes at the end of this year with the loss of 350 jobs.

MANY OTHER AREAS are being hit. Many trades which supply retailers have been affected by the slump in consumer spending while many workers who normally find jobs each summer in hotels and the catering industry are going on the dole instead this year. The reason is the recession hitting tourism and more Britons taking vacations at home.

The Conservatives put a lot of the blame on the current world recession and wage hikes currently running at around 17 percent, which they say have priced British products out of markets abroad and at

The Laborites have introduced a no-confidence motion against the Conservatives in the House of Commons. It will be debated later this week. If the Conservatives lose, the parliamentary rules say they must resign. But with a 43-seat majority in the 635-seat house they look safe and if they can keep their majority, by law the next general election does not have to be held until 1984.

Seabrook couple raises deer as 'foster children'

SEABROOK, Texas (AP) — The "foster children" of Dr. R.M. Davis like to eat cigarette butts, chew on house plants and lick the family cat — but they rarely get in trouble for it.

The "children" are white-tailed deer — 20 of them — that Davis and his wife Ollie have been raising for the past four years on their 15-acre homesite in

Davis, 44, a general practitioner, said his manyantlered orphanage started when his brother found a motherless fawn near Baytown and brought it to the

By the end of the year five deer had been given to Davis and he applied for a state game breeder's permit. "That first year, we had five on bottles at one time," he said. "Most of them came from people who had found them and didn't know how to care for them. Just about all of them were named 'Bambi' when we got them. We changed most of their names."

Although his license allows him to raise as many as 60 deer, Davis says he thinks he'll hold the herd size to about 30. "They ate about $3,000 worth of feed last winter," he said. Keeping 20 deer - not to mention two horses, a mule, two longhorns, a herd of goats, peacocks, dogs and cats — does have its drawbacks, accord-

"They're not quite as destructive as goats," Davis says. "They don't climb on cars or anything like that. But they'll eat anything." For example, herd sire Bruno loves watermelon — as long as the seeds have been removed. Bucky likes to lick Smokey, the family cat, and Priscilla will eat cigarette butts—after she spits out the filter. ng to Davis.

In addition to these gourmet delights, the deer also eat weeds. "That's one good thing about them," Dayis says. "We never have any weeds in the yard."

The only black sheep — er, deer — in the group is Flag, who Mrs. Davis says likes to watch television and eat house plants.

Small telephone companies still thrive in Texas

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - For those of you who think Ma Bell is mean and monopolistic, you should have dealt with Ma Bindock.

The Bindock family owned Frio Canyon Telephone Co., one of Texas' approximately 80 small, locally owned telephone companies, until the Public Utility Commission told the family to sell.
Obscure, small town telephone companies are a strange departure from Texas' pattern of dominance by two major telephone companies. They provide local service to approximately half the state's territory yet have relatively few customers.

One company, Big Bend Telephone Co., makes Southwestern Bell's rates, even with a proposed increase, look downright cheap by charging some isolated customers $117 a month.

In virtually all communities, one telephone company has a monopoly, but customers have a choice in at least one city. In the tiny North Texas community of Lucas, the PUC has certified both Bell and General

Customers have a choice. Some take two phones, one from each company. Calling your neighbor in some parts of Lucas is a long distance call.

Bell has about 80 percent of the phones but covers only a third of the area of the state. General Telephone is the next biggest.

Many large areas are served by family-owned companies or cooperatives with only a few hundred Charles Land, PUC's assistant director of engineering and enforcement, said many small companies offer excellent service but others cut corners. Land has seen telephone lines strung on trees, instead of poles. "It seems these small companies have good rela-tions with their clientele. Even if the service is bad we rarely hear about it. It's not that they're clannish, but there is a reluctance to bring in someone from the outside," he said. There was no such reluctance in the Southwest

Texas city of Leakey, where some of the Frio Canyon Telephone Co.'s 838 customers were unhappy with Like many small companies, Frio Canyon was family-owned. The Bindocks were the owners, and a PUC hearing examiner's report in 1979 said they caused many of the problems. The report said some of the problems "seem to go back more than a generation" and spoke of a "climate of deep-seated mistrust" toward the com-The Bindock family, the report said, "while not the sole cause of the present environment, has been and continues to be a principal, active agent and prime mover of most of the animosity directed toward

PUC gave the Bindocks 60 days to find a buyer for Frio Canyon Telephone Company and ordered them to refund $16,595 in overcharges. They sold to Hill County Telephone Cooperative.

The examiner's report talked about telephone

"It is indeed by virtue of that protected status ... afforded initially by the monopolistic nature of a public utility in the area it serves .. that has permitted Frio Canyon Telephone Co. to survive," the report said. "In a competitive environment, it but then there's Lucas, where some customers have two telephones in their homes, one from Bell and one from General.

"Our people say we were there first," said Carroll Rowbotham, public affairs manager for General in Lewisville. "It's just kind of a creeping situation. It goes one at a time until you've got a real problem. Neither phone company wants it."

A GTE customer must call long distance to talk with his next-door neighbor who has a Bell phone.

Bell service costs $6.40 a month for residential customers. GTE charges $11.15. However, many customers prefer GTE service because it includes free calls to Dallas.

A check of tariffs on file with PUC shows the size of the phone company has little to do with rates. The prices vary, but generally are within a few dollars of

The glaring difference is the Big Bend Telephone Co., of Alpine. If you live in Calamity Creek or another of the remote areas there, you've really got to want a one-party phone to pay the $117 monthly

Jeff Haynes took over this year as president of the family-owned company. He said a few rich ranchers are willing to pay the $117. Most, however, opt for the cheaper four-party service.

Big Bend has about 1,500 customers in a 100,000 square-mile area around Alpine.

The high rates for some areas are justified, said

"We have to spend as much as $10,000 to get to some customers," he said.

Big Bend has only 40 employees to cover the vast service area. Sometimes it takes a couple of days to make a trouble call.

"Right now we are having violent thunderstorms. We have to rebuild the whole system almost every other year," he said.

Police may be smaller

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl Gates wants to lower the minimum height requirement for officers by 6 inches to 5 feet to make it easier to recruit women into the police

The city's police department has been under a 9th Circuit Court of Appeals order since January that 25 percent of all the officers it hires be women. But Gates said in a letter to City Personnel Mannager John J. Driscoll that the current height requirement limits the applicant pool to "approximately 13 percent of the female work force."

The department is one of the last among major cities with a 5-foot-6 minimum and many departments have no minimum.

Woman escapes shark

DEWEY BEACH, Del. (AP) — A 22-year-old Wilmington, Del., woman escaped injury after being attacked by a shark while swimming at a beach in this Delaware resort community, state police said.
Authorities said Phyllis Riley told them she was standing in four feet of water off Chicago Street Beach when the incident took place, early Tuesday afternoon.

Ms. Riley said the shark grabbed her and dragged her by her one-piece bathing suit about 10 feet before letting go, state police said.

Eyewitnesses to the attack said the shark was between 4 and 8 feet long.

Neon glass blowing, a dying art, just hard work to Mathan Purson

By PENELOPE McMILLAN The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES - Nathan Prusan, a neon glass blower, works alone, a blaring radio for company, in a dismal gray shop on one of downtown's most colorless streets.

Only when he occasionally triggers his gas pumps will his neon tubes momentarily spring to life, the glass brighten up with blues, greens or reds, then revert back to lifeless piles on long wooden

For 42 of his 59 years, Prusan, a craftsman with a dying skill, has been making neon lights. He has been making them the same way they were made when they were invented in the early 1900s. Although neon lights have long been disparaged as an ugly symbol of modern times, they have defied mechanization and have never been mass-produced. A craftsman must fabricate each individual piece.

He learned during the 1930s when the blinking electric jewelry was the only type of sign anyone wanted, and managed to stay in business when it went out of vogue and becamed as Prusan says, "the generic term for anything distasteful."

That was, perhaps, an unfair judgment. Ever since the first U.S. neon sign went up, over a Los Angeles Packard dealership in 1923, neon light has expressed American vitality and individuality. It could be practical, conveying information, or it was crazy, funny, delicate or fanciful.

In the 1970s neon enjoyed a resurgence among artists, photographers and nostalgia buffs; in the 1980s neon may become part of the nation's quest for energy-efficient light sources. Neon uses relatively little electricity and can last up to 20 years, far longer than any conventional light bulb.

Shackled for years to the sign industry, neon has become more prevalent than people realize. Walk-

Study focuses on those who use solar energy

- Use of solar energy in some form does more for people than reduce their utility bills, says a psychology graduate stu-dent. She says it seems to have positive psychological effects on them.

Jane Zimmerman, who is studying psychology at the University of Arizona, says that over the last year she made observations of nine families that use solar water heaters or househeating systems.

"Solar energy seems to represent an approach to life," Ms. Zimmerman says. "It involves the values of independence and self-sufficiency. For many of these people, it is a symbolic means of taking personal responsibility for the energy situation.

She asked members of each family to keep journals on the operations of their solar-energy equipment and on other things, such as how they used their time and how they spent their money.

As the year-long study progressed, she asked for more and more information, eventually asking them to keep track of nearly every waking mi-

Ms. Zimmerman says she found that many members of those solarenergy families were joggers, bikers or hikers. Many also practiced some form of meditation, pers and other products. What she found with the solar-energy systems themselves was that people had problems, but were not as upset as would be expected.

Ms. Zimmerman explains that by saying the solar-energy pioneers probably never expected perfection, and at the same time realized they were doing something, though small and imperfect, for the energy situa-

Beyond that, members of the solar-energy families view themselves as being among the leaders in a great cultural transition, she says.

"It involves a realization that we are not separate from the environment, that what we do affects the environment, and the environment in turn affects us," Ms. Zimmerman says.

She says the feeling got into a willingness to share and exchange ideas and resources with other people, instead of the more common ethic of hoarding and competi-

But men arrive in search of "the Golden Door glow." Businessmen - we're talking oil company executives, real estate tycoons, plastic surgeons, cattle ranchers, bankers, Beverly Hills hairdressers, aerospace pioneers - checking in at a desert health spa in order to go home with what they unabashedly call "the Golden Door glow."

Strange as it sounds, participants start talking that way after a few days at one of the Golden Door's eighth annual "men's week," which one regular visitor has described as the greatest post-fraternity parties available to American businessmen. What's more, to commemorate the "glow" and youthful vigor regained at the Golden Door, guests often have T-shirts made. ("Golden Door Boys' Club" is a current favorite.) And the first time a participant falls asleep during his facial, he will awaken to discover that his toenails have been painted golden vellow. (Although some men remove the polish at the end of the week, a fair number reportedly wear it

Staff at the world's smallest health spa (maximum 33 guests) report that remarkable transformations occur in the course of one week. About halfway through, many of the businessmen have stopped accepting those "urgent" phone calls they instructed their offices to put through. Many have stopped watching the evening news to check how the stock market closed. They've stopped huffing their way through the dawn mountain hike. And started noticing a certain radiant feeling, hence the term "Golden Door glow," a phenomenon that is attributed to the total change most of them say they experience in

Good, new fillers wanted: Please contact Mulligan's Stew

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Time and technology have had their fill of the filler and the filler writer.

In the newsrooms of your large American dailies like the Washington Post and the Los Angeles Times you no longer find, off in a monastic cell behind the clipping morgue, reclusive scholars grinding out terse graceful facts on the order of: -Lake Nicaragua is the largest lake in Central America. -Niniveh, the ancient capital of Assyria, attained its greatest glory in the 8th and 7th centuries B.C. under Sennacherib and Assurbanipal. -Babe Ruth struck out 1,330 times.

-The Macaronies, whom Yankee Doodle emulated with that feather in his hat, were a Maryland regiment famous for their flashy uniforms in the American War of Independence.

-MARGARET ROPER was buried with the head of her father, Sir Thomas More, in her arms. -Torquemada, a Dominican friar of excessive zeal, was the Inquisitor General of Spain in the late 15th century.

—The three wonders of Babylon were the Hanging Gardens, the royal palace which was eight miles in circumference, and the Tower of Babel. said by some Jewish writers to be 12 -The Great Wall of China is the only man-made object visible from

Facts like that were hand hewn and precision-pared not to fill minds but to fill space. The writer's shtick was not to dazzle, like the Guinness Book of World Records, but to fill a stick or two of type to even off a newspaper column at the bottom of the page or between stories.

THE RANDOM HOUSE Dictionary of the English language defines the craft of the filler writer indirectly by providing this explanation of the filler: "n. journalism. material considered of a secondary importance used to fill out a column or page." The Oxford English Dictionary is even more concise and precise: "To put in what will fill a vacancy or blank space.

In the days of hot type, which are numbered but not completely vanished from newspaper backshops, it was not always easy to gauge the length of a story as it was coughed out of the linotype machine. One, two, three or three and one-half line facts were used to fill in the empty spaces at the bottom of the page, based on the cold calculation that three and one-half lines of hot type measured an inch. Now, with cold type technology brought about by the marriage of the computer with the printing process, the laying out of a newspaper page can be predicted right down to the final pica or one-sixth of an inch. The computer tells the layout man exactly how much space a story sent down by the city desk or coming over The Associated Press wires will occupy. He no longer has to reach for one of those filler facts about the Nile being the longest river in the world if you count the tributaries.

THE PASSING of the filler writer, like the passing of the passenger pigeon, leaves a void on the American scene that cold type can never fill. In my journalistic youth down in New Orleans it was a rewarding experience to meet one of the filler writers on the Times Picayune en route to your first cup of coffee and have your day brightened with the knowledge that St. Crispin is the patron saint of shoemakers and that Monday is known as St. Crispin's holiday in Rome because cobblers are closed on that day of every week.

Even in those endless books of lists they don't have facts like that any-

By the time I got to New York with The AP, Mark Barron, a former war correspondent and drama critic, had renounced invasions and first nights to churn out fillers by the dozens each day for newspapers around the

I DON'T KNOW, maybe he turned them out by the hundreds every day, because once when he was out sick Joe Wing, the features editor, ordered all us feature writers to turn in 50 fillers each to fill the vast empty spaces left by Barron's absence.

I didn't have 50 odd facts at my fingertips in those days, but I improved little gems like: -New Jersey produces more cranberries than Alaska.

-Irish golf balls are smaller than American golf balls, but the holes are bigger. (Not a single duffer anywhere challenged this assertion). Saul Pett took a more personalized approach to the assignment. He devised 50 fillers all using the word wing, such as: -A wing is found on a bird. -Princeton's Charlie Caldwell is considered the master of the single

-The wing chair was designed for use in front of the fireplace.

—A wing is a tactical unit of the Air Force consisting of two or more

SAUL WINGED IT all afternoon, ending up with the delightful:

-Wing is a common Chinese name.

So is Wong. For weeks afterwards I searched three or four newspapers a day trying find the Wing-Wong filler, but I never did. As a newspaper filler, in print, it would have been a classic in a class with the TV talk show host, who intoned, "Please welcome the author of the new best seller 'I Saw the Fill of the Philippines."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Shingles serious neurologic ailment

Dear Dr. Solomon: Can an injury cause bone cancer? - Ken.

Dear Ken: There is no evidence that bone cancer can result from an injury. Most experts suggest that the injury may simply call attention to an existing tumor.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I spent a good part of the weekend with my father in the emergency room of a local hospital because we thought he was having a gall bladder attack. Eventually, the doctor diagnosed his difficulty as an attack of shingles. Although I have heard the term, the condition is a mystery to me. I would appreciate any information you might provide on the cause and treatment of the disease and any complications that may ensue. - Mr.

Dear Mr. J.: Shingles (herpes zoster) is a neurologic ailment that usually affects adults, although it can develop in children as well. It affects both sexes and all races. The disease is an acute inflammation of nerve cells, which causes pain and, later, produces a rash. The onset of pain has no apparent explana-tion, and often is mistaken for appendicitis or a gall bladder attack, or even heart disease. The patient may also feel ill and suffer from fever and headache. Some physicians believe the disease is more apt to attack a person in a rundown condition.

The diagnosis is clarified when a rash of small watery blisters appears on reddened skin. In general, the blisters are limited to one side of the body, following along the course of the nerve attacked by the virus.

However, shingles also may occur without evidence of a rash. Herpes zoster is not the same as herpes simplex, the name for the common cold sore or fever blis-

Most patients recover

from an attack of shingles without treatment, although prompt care can provide relief and minimize complications. be so severe that the patient must be hospalized. A physician may prescribe medication to relieve the pain, or dress-ings for use directly on the rash. Antibiotics have not proven to be very effective in the treatment of this condi-

One of the more common complications of shingles is postherpetic neuralgia, in which the pain may last for weeks or even months in the area where the rash was. The pain then disappears spontaneously. Medical or surgical treatment to relieve the pain is not always successful.

A potentially very serious complication may result when shingles affects the eye (ophthalmic zoster), which may occur if the rash appears on the forehead, nose or eyelid during the acute stage. The condition calls for immediate treatment by an ophthalmologist to prevetn scarring of the cornea and thus to preserve vision.

Similar precautions should be taken if the ear is affected. In severe cases, an ear specialist may help a patient avoid loss of hearing.

Paul Semall's five hitter gave the Midland Cubs a 5-1 victory over the Shreveport Captains in Texas League action at Cubs Stadium Wednesday night and with a little luck, it could have been the 6-4 righthander's third

After blanking the Captains 1-0 in Shreveport, a back twinge prompted him to leave after eight innings of a game in which he gave Jackson one earned run and then Wednesday he was within one out of a shutout before it got

The win gives Midland a 2-1 edge going into tonight's 7: 30 p.m. in which lefthander Tom Spino will be making his first start since June 10 after being plagued by first finger blisters and then a sore arm. He moves into Randy Clark's spot in the starting rotation.

Although Clark is 7-5, Manager Randy Hundley notes, He has been struggling lately. Pitchers go through slumps just as hitters do and it is effecting his confidence so I'm putting him in the bullpen until he works it out. Then,

After watching Semall work his magic on the Captains Wednesday, it seems hard to believe he was 0-7 at Wichita before being sent to Midland. For the 25-year-old Ohio State graduate, this was his fourth complete game and boosted his record to 7-1 since he reported in mid-June.

"He had good command of every pitch and threw only 90," catcher Mike Shepston said. "He throws harder than people think and one of the reasons for his success tonight was that he was coming inside well."

Acquired in the trade last year that sent outfielder Bobby Murcer to the Yankees, Semall started the season in Wichita, "I lost a couple of games early that I should have won, like the night in Omaha when I had a 2-0 lead going into the ninth, put a couple of runners on then gave up a dinger and lost. I got down on myself, I guess.'

You'd think Paul would be eager to get back to Wichita and "show 'em" now that he's got it together, but Semall says, "I like Midland, the field, the weather and the fans. I want to stay right here the rest of the season. This team likes to win and that makes it fun. In Wichita, they aren't winning and everybody is struggling."

Semall credits the fans with an assist for his five-hitter, "I got a couple of strikeouts and they cheered and that got me pumped up. The crowd tonight wasn't as big as last night's, but these were the true baseball fans.'

With a three-hitter going into the ninth, Jim Wojcik beat out an infield hit and then David Wiggins lined a single off the glove of a lunging J.W. Mitchell at third. Wojcik moved to third on a grounder to first and scored on a grounder to short as the shutout faded into the night.

Shortstop Dave Owen, now 4-for-8 since returning from Quad Cities, was the catalyst in the Midland attack. He spoiled a no-hitter by Shreveport's Mike Glanatsis, whose route-going eight-hitter belied his 2-8 record, in the fourth, stole second and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

Then, in the fifth, the Cleburne native again singled and raced home as Scott Fletcher tripled to right center. Fletcher then trotted in on Joe Hicks' fly to center.

Midland added single runs in the seventh and eighth with Randy La Vigne singling. Shepston's two-out Baltimore chop down the third base line hung up in the air so long that Randy scored all the way from second. In the eighth, Tom Grant doubled off the fence in left and scored on Gary Krug's sacrifice fly to put the finishing touches on Mid land's second straight win.

Semall's two hour and 13 minute job gave the Cubs' staff its second straight complete game and in the last 18 innings the Captains managed just one earned run.

For Shreveport, it was a case of going 0-for-the-season against Semall until they pushed over the ninth in-ning run to spoil his string of 17 shutout innings against the East Division club.

Chicken finds Golden Egg

Baseball is a game known for it's solemn dignity and reverent adherence to protocol. It's a sport, in short, in which one does not trifle lightly with traditions.

So how does he get away with it, the outrageous behavior whereby, in the guise of a Chicken, he kicks umpires in the seat of the pants, heckles opposing players by taking bows with mock modesty after his "whammy" produces a out? Does Bowie Kuhn know what's going on, and, if so, why doesn't he do something about it?

"Simple," says the imp who masquer ades as the San Diego Chicken to the delight of the nation's baseball fans "The players and umpires seem to get as much fun out of Ted Giannoulas, 25 and five feet, four inches and 125 pounds of hyperventilation, remem-bers he had just finished polishing the shoes of plate umpire Billy Williams at Wrigley Field last year just a little while after the ump had ejected Cubs manager Herman Franks. "I flapped my wing for a tip. The ump refused and I went into my raving and ranting Leo Durocher act. Williams took it for a while and then said, under his breath, 'Kick dirt on my shoes like Herman did.' I didn't expect that, but he was getting as big a kick out of it as the fans were. I kicked dirt on his shoes and he loved it so much he threw me out. I got-on my knees and begged him to let me stay...and he relented." The Chicken's capers seem to relax the players, too. In Montreal, I put on an Expos cap and jacket and did my version of Dick Williams, with a can of light beer and all the hand signals. Some of the fans didn't realize I was mimicking Dick's TV commercial, but I looked over in the dugout and the players were rolling on the floor with laughter. The Expos were behind at the time and I like to think they were so relaxed from laughing that I helped them come from behind to pull the game out. Of course, not all players appreciate the Chicken's antics. Well, one, anyway. Giannoulas relates that the Yankee outfielder took exception to his "whammy" on pitcher Ron Guidry during a game at Seattle and made a scene, but he was told to cool it and go back to his position by the umpire. "Maybe if Lou had been 2-for-4 instead of 0-for-4, it would have

"The odd part about it," says Nik Papanikolas, Giannoulas' manager and agent, "Guidry is one of the Chicken's biggest fans.'

THE CHICKEN packed 4,680 fans into Cubs Stadium, a stadium record, with his appearance here Tuesday night and the response was typical to the fans' reaction all over the

His contract calls for 50 games with the Padres, "The rest of the time I'm a free lance Chicken." His fee for a recent Atlanta Braves game was $5,000. For the minor league appearances, shopping centers etc., it varies, but at 250 shows a year, Ted Giannoulas is doing well enough to purchase a $170,000 residence. But life wasn't always that rewarding.

Just six years ago, Giannoulas was a struggling communications major at San Diego State, aspiring to be a sports writer, but desperate, along with a dozen other students, to get the job with radio station KGB. All they wanted was someone to dress up in a Chicken costume and give away Easter eggs at the zoo.

"The way we looked at it, it was the foot in the door of a radio station," Ted recalls. "I got the job and just to show them I was willing to work hard, I started going to the San Diego baseball games and mingling with the fans. I really didn't do much, but the Padres encouraged me and the encouragement gradually chipped away my inhibitions and I began to realize the potential of the Chicken."

FOR THE Padres and KGB, Giannoulas' Chicken act, which by now had moved out of the strict confines of the stands on to the playing field, it was not only great publicity, but the biggest bargian since 30-cent a gallon gas. Ted's fee was $2 or $3 an hour.

When Giannoulas decided to branch out, the trouble began. KGB wanted exclusive control over the Chicken and obtained a court order banning Giannoulas from appearances within 100 miles of San Diego. That was overruled and Giannoulas revealed that KGB's appeal to the California Supreme Court was turned down last

"The firing was the best thing that ever happened to me," he confesses without regret. I was free to make the Chicken a career, not the commercial vehicle for $2-an-hour the radio saw it as.' His act has been such a smash that it has spawned the emergence of feathery and fury

Loss of hot Templeton cools Cardinals

Mets beat Astros to end three-game slump

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

For much of the season, the St. Louis Cardinals have been waiting for the breaks to come their way. On Wednesday night they got the worst kind of break - but it could be a big break for Mike Phillips.

Garry Templeton, who tripled in the first and second innings to raise his batting average to .326 with 133 hits - both tops in the National League - broke his left thumb in the third inning and will be sidelined for perhaps four weeks.

"This is the worst time it could have happened," said teammate Ken Reitz, "just when we were trying to make a bid third inning, though, he hit a roller down the first base line. Welch fielded it, then it became a race down the line. Templeton, trying to avoid the Dodger pitcher. swerved to his right, stumbled, then stuck out his left hand to tag the bag and jammed his thumb in the process.

"I just tried to hit the ball hard," Matthews said. "I was confident when I went up there. It doesn't matter who drives in the winning run, but this is what's it's all about - winning.

It appeared Jeff Burroughs had driven in the Braves' winning run with a three-run double in the eighth inning. But Montreal tied it in the top of the ninth on Jerry White's sacrifice fly.

Giants 14, Cubs 6 Jack Clark's four RBIs and Mike Ivie's three led a 21-hit San Francisco assault aggainst the Cubs.

We were due. It was one of those days when we were ready," said Clark, whose three-run homer highlighted a sixrun third inning against Doug Capilla. His replacement in the fourth, Willie Hernandez, didn't do much better, giving up three runs, two on Ivie's double

Reds 7, Phillies 3 "We know we're certainly not as bad as we've played the last 10 days," Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green said after the Phils lost their sixth consecutive game and ninth in the last 12. Joe Nolan, with four RBIs, and Ken Griffey, with three, were Cincinnati's big guns. Mike Schmidt hit his NL-leading 24th homer, tying him at 259 with Del Ennis as the Phils' all-time home-run hitter. Padres 3, Pirates 2 Jerry Mumphrey's second RBI of the game, a tie-breaking single in the eighth inning, enabled San Diego to break a three-game losing streak and keep Pittsburgh from widening it's one-game lead over Montreal in the East.

Gene Richards, who singled and scored one of the Padres' two first-inning runs on Mumphrey's grounder, singled to open the ninth and was bunted to second before Mumphrey drilled his game-winner up the Mets 4, Astros 3 The Mets, who had won only one of eight games against Houston this year, finally got a win in the Astrodome when Elliott Maddox tripled in the ninth inning and scored on pinch-hitter Jerry Morales' sacrifice fly.

It also ended New York's three-game losing streak, handed reliever Frank Lacorte his first loss after six wins and left the Astros 21/2 games ahead of second-place Los Angeles in the West. The Houston highlight of the game was Cesar Cedeno's triple in the eighth inning, his 1,500th career hit, a club record.

Bum shivers at thought

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oiler Coach Bum Phillips says he can't imagine fielding a football team without linebacker Robert Brazile and Jerry Argovitz, Brazile's agent, hopes Phillips' worst dreams don't come true.

Phillips got the impression from a recent session with Argovitz that Brazile will not report to training camp with other Oiler veterans Friday if the Oilers refuse to renegotiate Brazile's contract. 'We're not trying to hold a gun to anybody's head," Argovitz said Wednesday. "I personally feel this thing is going to be worked out with no pressure exerted on anybody "They (Oilers) have no obligation to renegotiate

Robert's contract. We all know that. We're trying to get them to do what is fair for Brazile. He is being punished for being a poor businessman and one of the best linebackers in the National Football League." Asked if Brazile had told Phillips he would be a no show, Phillips said "No, but I think that's the gist of Brazile, the Oilers' first round draft choice in 1975, renegotiated his contract in 1977 and is believed to be earning near $100,000 annually.

Argovitz, however, who negotiated Billy Sims' multi-million dollar deal with the Detroit Lions, says Brazile is the most underpaid linebacker in the National Football League. "I understand management's (Oilers) problem,"

"I guess they are huddling," Rubenstein said. 'But as of this moment there is no movement." Oiler veterans are scheduled to report to the Angelo State University campus Friday to begin preparations for their Aug. 11 preseason opener against Tampa Bay in the Astrodome. The Oilers have scheduled press day for Saturday and the Oiler veterans will have their first workout

Cowboys eye Rams

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Cowboy rookies finished two-a-day workouts Wednesday and will taper off to just one afternoon practice Thursday in preparation for a scrimmage against the Los Angeles Rams rookies.

The majority of Cowboy veterans are due to report to camp at California Lutheran College training site on Thursday. Veteran quarterbacks, receivers, running backs and centers reported Sunday and have been working out lightly this week.

Veterans will undergo physicals Friday morning prior to their initial practice Friday afternoon. Rookies will travel to Fullerton, Calif., Friday morning to scrimmage the Rams newcomers.

Veterans and rookies will begin two-a-day workouts together on Saturday.

Three players suffered minor injuries and were unable to practice Wednesday. Second-year cornerback Steve Wilson had an injured hamstring; thirdround draft choice, James Jones, a running back from Mississippi State, had a knee injury; and guard Kurt Petersen, a fourth-round pick from Missouri, had an injured thigh. All three are expected to resume workouts Thursday.

MOSCOW (AP) - Teofilio Stevenson starts the rocky trail toward his third gold medal in the Olympic Games Friday — a quest he says will prove he is the best heavyweight fist fighter in the world. Pro or amateur.

Stevenson, the distant, silent man of the Moscow Olympics, reclined on a sofa in the foyer of the Olympic Village training quarters, watching swimming competition on TV, but he finally consented to discuss his illustrious career and future plans.

A pretty Russian guide sat next to him. People kept pushing forward to request autographs. Teofilio responded coldly, never showing recognition. A few newsmen pushed into the circle.

The 28-year-old Cuban fighter appeared to notice no one as he kept his eyes glued on the TV set. Stevenson is a handsome 6-feet-4 inches tall and

He closely resembles Muhammad Ali and has many of Ali's characteristics - whether by accident or design - without the latter's bombast, occasional puckishness and flair for the limelight.

Teofilio appears to seek anonymity while obviously deriving pleasure from all the attention thrust

There is unquestionably a majestic quality about him but with it an arrogance that clearly shows through. As Ali is inclined to do on some occasions, he can cut a person down with a stare.

Still, he has lazy eyes, and he wears a constant smirk on his face. He toys with you as if you are a yo-yo on a string and obviously inwardly delights in weapon. Yet he understands and speaks English

When a Swedish reporter with a sprinkling of Spanish interceded, the Cuban heavyweight was stripped of his defenses and acceeded to an informal interview. It suited his fancy. Otherwise, he would have got up and walked away.

"Ali is coming back again and fighting Larry Holmes in October," someone said. "Who do you think will win?"

Without looking away from the TV screen, he replied: "Holmes. Ali - he is too fat and out of shape. He should quit."

'Do you ever wish you had fought Ali or Holmes?" he was asked.

Stevenson shrugged his shoulders. 'I asked Ali to fight me once - three, four rounds," he replied. "I say 'Yes.' Ali - he say

Would he be willing to fight Holmes the same way?. "Yes," he replied in Spanish, "I ask him, too. He say 'No."

"Only three, four rounds, no more," Stevenson repeated. As an amateur, Stevenson has had 205 fights, with 180 knockouts, mostly in the first round. Amateurs fight three three-minute rounds, the pros up to 15. He insisted he would always remain an amateur. There is no professionalism, as such, in Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba.

"For me, three rounds is enough. I take them out in that time," he boasted. "Yes, I think I can beat Ali

In winning consecutive Olympic heavyweight titles, a feat never accomplished before, Teofilio crushed America's Duane Bobick at Munich in 1972 and knocked out Big John Tate, later a WBA heavyweight champion, in the first round in 1976.

There has been a long list of fighters who have gone from the Olympics into pro fighting and ultimately won the heavyweight crown - Ingemar Johansson, Floyd Patterson, Ali, Smokin' Joe Frazier and George Foreman.

Guidry is back and more aggressive than ever

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

After giving some serious thought to his recent pitching problems, Ron Guidry went out and gave the rest of the American League something to Shelled in the second inning of his last outing — his earliest kayo ever — and saddled with a personal twogame losing streak, Guidry resur-faced with only two days' rest Wednesday night and hurled a fourhit shutout as the New York Yankees blanked the Milwaukee Brewers 4-0. "I thought about it all day. I thought about it all week," Guidry said. "I felt I lacked going after the hitters. I'm going to throw the fast ball and slider as hard as I can. It's good to see that they haven't left.'

In recording his third shutout of the season, Guidry, 11-6, struck out six, walked one and was in trouble only in the fifth inning when he retired Buck Martinez for the final out with runners at second and third.

"I was determined to get ahead of the hitters tonight," he said. "I knew if I could make my slider work that I had a good breaking pitch and I could get a lot of their hitters to pop the ball

"If I throw my fast ball or slider right, they can't hit. They couldn't hit it then (1978, when he was 25-3 and won the Cy Young Award) and they can't hit it now.'

The Yankees scored off Moose Haas in the fourth inning on Graig Nettles' double, a wild pitch and Jim Spencer's sacrifice fly. In the fifth, Bucky Dent doubled and scored on a single by Bobby Murcer, who stole second and scored on Oscar Gamble's Royals 9, White Sox 2 Larry Gura, who leads the league with a 2.22 earned run average, worked seven innings for his seventh consecutive victory and 13th in 17 decisions. The Royals rapped out 15 hits, with every starter collecting at least one hit and all but two driving in a run, including homers by U.L. Washington, Willie Aikens and George Brett.

A year ago, Gura struggled to a 13-12 record with a 4.47 ERA. "I'm really not pitching that differently, he said. "It's just the little things."

Red Sox 12, Rangers 5 Tony Perez triggered a five-run seventh inning with a homer and rookie Dave Stapleton capped the rally with a three-run double. The Red Sox bounced back from a 4-2 deficit behind the relief pitching of Dick Drago, who allowed one run and three hits over the final five innings. The Red Sox wrapped it up with four runs in the eighth, two on a double by Dwight

Orioles 8, Twins 7

Dan Graham continued to haunt his old club, driving in three runs for a total of 13 in his last three games, all against Minnesota. Ken Singleton drove in two runs and had four singles to pace a 12-hit attack. Graham, who was hitless in four at-bats with Minnesota last season and was acquired by the Orioles in December, hit sacrifice flies in the first and seventh innings and delivered an RBI single in the third.

"I have nothing to say," Graham said when asked about his torrid production against the Twins. "It's not bitterness or anything toward the media. It's just the way I am." Tigers 7, Angels 6 California third baseman Carney Lansford's throwing error with two out in the ninth inning allowed the winning run to score. Lansford fielded pinch-hitter Champ Summers' hopper and threw the ball into right field trying for an inning-ending force at .

"Hunting is a right," declare some segements of the hunting fraternity, and, in a certain sense, they have it striaght. "No," say others, "hunting is a privilege," and, in a certain sense, they have it straight too.

Now, how can that be? How can hunting in the United States be both a right and a privilege? It isn't contradictory if you look at it this way: Yes, Americans have the right to hunt, but to do so on someone's land is a privilege extended by the landowner.

In a recent study for the National Shooting Sports Foundation, it was disclosed that 69 percent of landowners surveyed were aware of problems with hunters. The result, sad to relate, is that more than 50 percent of those surveyed have closed their land to hunting.

But here is where the privilege part comes in. More than one-third of those posting their land said they would allow hunting if only the hunter would ask permission.

A hunting license isn't a key to every farm gate. Take time to show your good manners by asking permission to hunt. Be polite and ask, even if the land is posted. The results may surprise you and make hunting a good deal more accessible for all of us.

"COURTESY", a study a few years ago by the National Shooting Sports Foundation, was aimed at disclosing what problems the general public has with hunters and hunting. Interestingly enough, the main problems turned out to be with hunters, rather than with the question of hunting.

Some hunters feel they have a right to hunt on private property and do as they please once they are there. There is a good deal wrong with that attitude. The game belongs to the general public, but that doesn't abrogate the laws of trespass. We may all own the game, but the land still belongs to the guy whose name is on the deed.

An examination in New York shows that posted land increased from 26 percent to 42 percent in five years, and hunter misconduct was the reason in 52 percent of the cases. Colorado is reporting problems with withdrawal of land as are other states. There is no available figures on Texas lands, but within the past few years, many more acres are being posted by Texas landowners. More than half the private land in Montana

SO, THE answer has to be COUR-TESY. Start with asking permission to hunt. You will be amazed how often even posted land becomes available if you present yourself at the farmhouse door and explain that you know the difference between a black angus cow and a cock pheasant. Volunteer to close all gates, avoid shooting near house, barn or livestock and treat the owner's land as if it were your own.

Check back when you leave and give the owner a report. If you've been fortunate, share your bag and clean it before turning it over.

Now is the time to drop in to say hello. Don't wait until hunting season starts. If you are bored and restless, there might even be something you could do around the farm to help. A simple thing like a Christmas card can work wonders.

It's a privilege to hunt on another man's land. So be courteous, be decent and be asked back.

Troy Dixon, 8-10, was the losing

Amarillo pitcher.

Nadia falls off bar as Soviets win title

By The Associated Press

OLYMPICS-Nadia Comaneci fell off the uneven parallel bars, costing the Romanian women's gymnasts the team title to the Soviets during the third day of competition at the Summer Olympics. Par Arvidsson of Sweden, a current University of California swimmer, won the gold medal in the 100-meter butterfly in 54.92 seconds.

Aleksander Portnov of the USSR won the springboard event, but the awards ceremony was postponed until Friday because the second, third and fourth place finishers protested the Soviet victory. Rica Reinisch of East Germany won her second gold, breaking her world record in the 100-meter backstroke with a time of 1:00.86. Lina Kachushite of the Soviet Union also won her second gold, winning the 200-meter breast-stroke in 2: 29.54, an Olympic record. The Soviet men's swimming team won the 800-meter freestyle relay in 7:23.50.

Bulgaria captured the gold in weightlifting and Greco-Roman wrestling. Yanko Roussev set a world record with a combined lift of 743 pounds in the 149-pound class.

In wrestling, Bulgaria's Gheorghi Raikov won the 220-pound division by defeating Roman Bierla of Poland. Vakhtang Blagidze of the Soviet Union won the gold in the 114-pound class, scoring a 19-1 victory over Hungarian Lajos Racz. Ferenc Kocsis of Hungary won the gold in the 163-pound class when Soviet defending champion Anatoly Bykov was disqualified for passivity.

Vladimir Smirnov won the gold in the men's individual foil fencing event, adding to the Soviets' lead in medals after three days of competition with 17 golds and 32 total. East Germany had 26 medals and six golds.

TENNIS- Top-seeded Jimmy Connors defeated Tim Wilkison 6-0, 7-6, winning the tiebreaker 7-3, then, playing his second match of the day, beat unranked James Hardie 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 in the Washington Star tournament. league runs and Tony Armas cracked his 22nd homer. Cox, hitting only .209 coming into the game, drove in the first run with a third-inning double and added an RBI single in the fourth after Armas opened the inning with his homer.

Indians 12, Mariners 6 Miguel Dilone and Jorge Orta cracked run-scoring doubles and Joe Charboneau belted a grand slam homer as Cleveland erupted for seven runs in the top of the 11th inning. Victor Cruz, who struck out Willie Horton and Tom Paciorek with the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth, got the victory. Charboneau also hit a two-run homer in the second inning, giving him six RBIs. Ted Cox and Bruce Bochte connected for the Mariners.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Southern California notched second place in football and third place in tennis to edge crosstown rival UCLA for the 1979-80 national collegiate all-sports crown, a survey by The Knoxville Journal said Wednesday.

The two Los Angeles schools continued their record of sharing first and second places since the newspaper started the survey a decade ago by combining the records of all the nation's major colleges in 10 sports.

Southern Cal, with a fourth-place finish in track and a fifth in swimming in the national standings, had 82 points to UCLA's 81.

Clemson collected 621/2 points, 19 of them off their second-place national finish in soccer, to move from fourth place last year to third in the 1979-80

Texas, with the top-ranked baseball team and the second-ranked swimming team in the country, was fourth. Eastern gains

District finals

BIG SPRING - Midland Eastern moved into the finals of the District Little League tournament by dropping Midland North Central into the losers' bracket with a 5-4 victory here Wednesday.

North Central plays Big Spring American at 8 p.m. today to determine Eastern's opponent in the finals.

David Haven and Raul Pena hit homers to back up Rodney Sims' five hit pitching while Greg Johnson pitched five hit ball in taking the loss.

Big Spring American eliminated Midland's Mid City All-Stars, 2-1, on Mike Leschney's seven-hitter. Brian Wilcox and Matt Sears had two hits each for Mid City while Sam Ross' double and David Shortes' single were key hits for the winners.

with 60½ points. California - with first, second and third places finishes in swimming, tennis and baseball, respectively - was fifth with 57

Rounding out the top 10 were golf champion Okalahoma State with 54 points; Florida State and Indiana, each with 531/2; Oregon at 431/2, and Brigham Young with 43. Football winner Alabama was 12th with 42 points.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League have asked Erie County to replace the Astroturf at the countyowned Bills Stadium in 1981. The county completed the stadium in 1973 at a cost of $22 million and issued a long-term exclusive lease to the Under terms of the lease, the county is obligated to replace the artificial turf one time or pay the equivalent price toward installation of a natural turf. After that, the Bills would have to bear the replacement cost.

problem isn't the adoring youngsters. "It's the women. They squeeze me and pinch my tail. But the greatest satisfaction I get is when an adult man comes, shakes my hand and tells me he enjoyed my act. They are hardest to please.

DON'T SUGGEST to Giannoulas that he's just another Chicken. "I like to feel I'm a fuzzy Harpo Marx. I consider myself a comedian and I feel being invited by Tom Snyder, Johnn Carson and Bill Cosby to appear on their shows is a measure of recognition in that direction."

While some may wonder how long it can last, there's no end in sight. The horizons remain limitless. Giannoulas does hockey, baseball, basketball and soccer now, but is considering a fall invitation for baseball in Japan and is intrigued by the idea of doing soccer in France and track in Germany. "Language is no barrier to my kind of comedy. It's done through body language and that's universally undertstood.

Next winter he will be the Grand Marshall of the Mardi Gras Parade in New Orleans and he has been approached on doing his life story on TV or a serial of a Chicken's life stery. "But I'm not sure it's the time for that market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices edged down today as some major banks cut their prime lending rates to 10.75 percent and Mobil joined the list of major oil companies reporting large profit increases.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 3.92 to 924.66 in the first two hours of trading and declines out-numbered advances by a narrow margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Signs of further declines in interest rates came from Chase Manhattan Bank, which cut its prime rate to 10.75 percent and was joined at the level by a few other banks, and from a federal regulator who predicted mortgage rates will fall further, perhaps to 11 percent by the end of the year.

The prime rate has not been below 11 percent since November 1978. It has fallen from 20 percent as the recession has depressed loan demand.

Jay Janis, the chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, made his mortgage prediction despite the action by some California institutions raising their rates this week.

Mobil, which announced its profits rose 64.6 percent in the second quarter to $688 million or $3.24 a share, still fell % to 78. Marathon Oil, which reported a smaller increase, dropped % to 59¼, but Union Oil, which reported a gain earlier in the week, rose 1¼ to 59¼. Big Board volume totaled 16.05 million shares in the first two hours of trading, compared to 19.64 million at the same point Wednesday. The NYSE's composite index fell .13 to 69.63.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .35 to

BUSINESS MIRROR Joblessness: Its election impact

JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Incumbent political figures might never again underestimate the election year impact of unemployment if they listen to Rosanne Hersh's arguments.

Her unemployment numbers add up in a way that we aren't use to seeing. They are double digit; in fact, so high are her "unemployment experience" levels they might be mistaken for inflation rates.

To be sure, politicians in the past rarely failed to recognize the importance of jobs, preferring overhwelmingly to inflate the economy rather than permit unemployment to rise.

But this year they have no choice. So bad has inflation been that the administration has felt compelled to let joblessness rise. And the jobless are a huge constituency, larger than is generally recog-By Ms. Hersh's estimates, about 22 million workers will experience joblessness this year, most by election time. impact is small.

They reason that if 'full' employment is around 5.5 percent of the unemployment rate, a recessionary rise to 9 percent would create only 3.5 million more unemployed out of a total population of 222 million. But 3.5 million, Ms. Hersh maintains, is not the significant figure because it numbers only those who are jobless at a specific time — to be exact, the number without a job at the time the survey was

Farm equipment dealers profit by buying imports

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) -While auto dealers struggle, their farm equipment counterparts are surviving — in part by buying, rather than battling, imports.

"Most of us handle imports as part of our line," said Jim Beckman, sales representative for Ford Motor Co. tractors in Michigan, Indiana and part of Illinois.

Yanmar's U.S. sales are "down this year, but so is everyone else," Bauer said. Comparing months year-toyear, sales began to improve in June and the spring fall-off should be erased by year's end, he said. Business is down about 15 percent compared to a year ago, but not bad "in comparison to the auto industry," Beckman said.

Sales of U.S.-built cars were down 24 percent during the first sixlmonths

"It's not as if they (farmers) can lay the land and not farm it," Beckman added, explaining the more durable market for farm machinery compared with autos. "And some will replace a tractor every three to five years, whenever the tax credit is

Comments sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - The public is being asked to submit written comments on a proposal that would boost federal price supports to dairy farmers on Oct. 1, an action the Agriculture Department says would mean higher prices for milk in grocery

The USDA said Wednesday the formula, if applied as the law now requires, would raise supports to around $12.73 per 100 pounds of milk, an increase of 66 cents.

"It could result in a 5- to 6-cent per gallon increase in milk prices at the retail level," the announcement

The service had said it would let the public capture the animals during a 60-day period. Any not captured were to be killed.

But the American Horse Protection Association and the Humane Society of the United States filed suit to block the plan. So, as an alternative, the Fund for Animals agreed to remove the burros and put them up for adoption. The roundup begins Monday.

Over the next few days, the crew will transport supplies to the canyon floor by helicopter, set up portable corrals to hold the burros and do "a great deal of observation and research," according to Cia Hobbs, a spokeswoman for the Fund.

The crew leader is Dave Ericsson, a Texan and former world champion bronco-buster who has captured more than 1,700 wild burros in other parts of the Southwest during the past two

Grain embargo survives major House tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's Soviet grain embargo has survived its first major test in the House since public support for the policy began eroding this spring.

In a series of lopsided votes Wednesday, the House rejected attempts aimed at forcing Carter to end the sales suspension that critics claim has depressed prices for farmers who already face a 20 percent decline in

Invoked by Carter Jan. 7 in retaliation for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the embargo blocked the sale of 17 million metric tons of grain to Russia this year. It allowed the sale, however, of another 8 million tons under a long-term trade agreement and the administration says it will sell 8 million more tons under the same agreement beginning

During the first 30 days of the embargo, Congress did not use its authority to end it. At the time the nation's major farm organizations were behind the move.

Since then, however, that support has eroded despite persistent claims by the administration that it has effectively disrupted Soviet food

The series of proposals, all defeated by more than 100 votes, were amendments to the $8.6 billion appropriations bill funding the Commerce Department and other federal agencies beginning in October. Specifically, they would have prohibited the Commerce budget to be used to

"The administration has not followed through on its commitment to protect the American farmers," Rep. Tom Hagedorn, R-Minn., said Wednesday, "and consequently today we've got the American farmers

Although legislators opposing the attempt to end the presidential action also have been critical of the embargo, they claimed the proposals before them would have done nothing to resume full grain trade with the Soviets. They also said going on record against the embargo could undermine the nation's foreign policy and complicate relations with U.S. allies. "The worst fraud we could allow ourselves to perpetrate on the American farmer is that this will stop any effort to embargo grain exports," said Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., an embargo opponent. Nothing in the proposals could force the issuance of export licenses needed to send grain to Russia.

"Whatever the effect is, and some will differ on the legal effect," countered Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Mo, "one thing is for sure — it will give a signal to the American people of the House feeling on the issue." Foley and Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., said they will hold joint hearings in the coming weeks on the

"We have a president who's been prone to errors," said Illinois Republican Edward Derwinski. "Yet in this case he's been strong. He's been tough. He's stuck to his guns and it's worked. This is no time to deny this president or any president a key tool.' "We must stand behind the president until the Russians make some good faith effort," said Rep. William Goodling, R-Pa. The official Soviet news agency Tass, in a report Wednesday, called the embargo an attempt at economic blackmail that is "doomed to fail-

Limes are plentiful, USDA reports

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says plenty of limes are on hand to help quench thirsts this summer.

In fact, there are so many limes the department is advising consumers in a special "food marketing alert" that prices paid to growers are low and that everyone could help by using more of the fruit.

Most of the U.S. limes are grown in Florida, and this year's harvest is a record of about 1.2 million 10-pound boxes, up from last year's crop of 1.1 million, officials said Tuesday.

Amoco spots deep Lea wildcat; strikes complete in Eddy, Chaves

Amoco Production Co., operating from Hobbs, N.M., announced location for a 13,000-foot wildcat in Lea County, Perry R. Bass completed a Strawn discovery in Eddy County, and C. E. Larue and B. N. Muncy reported potential test on a San Andres discovery in Chaves County.

LEA WILDCAT

The Amoco wildcat in Lea County is No. 1 Robinson Communitized eight miles northwest of Monument. Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 14-19s-35e.

Perry R. Bass No. 64 Big Eddy Unit, drilled as a Morrow wildcat, has been completed as a gas discovery in the Strawn through perforations from 10,904 to 10,910

The Eddy discovery, three miles southwest of the Indian Flat (Morrow) field and nine miles west of Carlsbad, completed for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,628,000 cubic feet of gas per day. Stimulation, if any, was not reported.

Total depth is 12,485 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The well is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 33-21s-28e.

CHAVES STRIKE Larue and Muncy completed their No. 1 Martin as a San Andres discovery in Chaves County, four miles southwest of Boaz.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped five barrels of 29-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure, through perforations from 2,645 to 2,654 feet. Total depth is 2,880 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The San Andres was topped at 1,996 feet on ground elevation of 4,031 feet. Location is 2,310 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 20-7s-29e. It is six miles northeast of the Twin Lakes (San Andres) field.

LEA FIELD WORK

David Fasken of Midland announced location for a 12,000-foot project in the Midway (Devonian) field of Lea County, seven miles southeast of Lovington. The project, No. 2 Warren, is 2,200 feet from north and 880 feet from west lines of section 8-17s-37e.

Rex Alcorn of Roswell, N.M., spotted his No. 3 Bobbie as a 5,650-foot project in the Arkansas Junction field of Lea County, nine miles northwest of Monument. It is 330 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 20-18s-36e.
