Billy denies he has official U.S. cables

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Carter, contradicting an account by a Justice Department official, today denied that he had copies of any State Department cables or that his brother, the president, has ever given him any documents relating to Libya.

"I have State Department copies of nothing," he said in an Associated Press interview in Americus, Ga. "Jimmy has not shown me anything."

President Carter acknowledged through a spokesman Wednesday that he and Billy discussed the State Department cables, but that he did not recall showing the documents to Billy.

Joel Lisker, head of the Justice Department's foreign agents registration section, told the AP Wednesday that Billy told him in an interview last Jan. 16 that the president had given him cables concerning the trips.

Lisker also said Billy lied to him about receiving money from the Libyan government.

Asked about Lisker's allegations today, the president's brother responded: "Lisker is full of s---."

Lisker said that during the interview at Billy Carter's Buena Vista, Ga., home, the president's brother saw cables in Lisker's briefcase and said, "Oh, I've got those."

Lisker said he asked Billy Carter who gave them to him and that the president's brother responded: "Jimmy."

Beyond any legal questions, the cables development raises new doubts about the president's self-described arm's-length role in his brother's Libyan connection.

Lisker said the government has no plans to prosecute Billy Carter for lying about when he first got money from Libya.

President Carter's acknowledgment late Wednesday that he discussed the cables with his brother had not been included in a statement issued last week by the White House purporting to describe all its involvement in the affair.

Lisker said that during the interview he had in his briefcase non-classified State Department cables about the trip.

According to Lisker: "Billy looked over at my cables and said, 'Oh, I've got those.'" in Iran

"I said, 'Who gave them to you?'"

"He said, 'Jimmy.'"

Lisker said he was certain Billy Carter meant the president "and not his friend Jimmy who runs the hotel down there." But Lisker added, "It's hard to tell what Billy means. Billy is not a precise person."

Lisker said the president's brother could not have known exactly what cables were in the briefcase. "I didn't see his cables and I'm not sure who actually gave them to him," Lisker said.

He said there would be no violation of law if someone in government gave Billy Carter unclassified cables, but that he is investigating to see what cables the president's brother has and who gave them to him.

White House spokesman Ray Jenkins said later Wednesday that President Carter's "best recollection is that the only State Department cables he has ever discussed with Billy Carter are low-classification cables from our embassy in Libya reporting on Billy Carter's first trip to Libya in September 1978, and indicating that the trip had gone well from the embassy's point of view."

"The president ... does not now recall showing the texts to Billy Carter or giving him copies," Jenkins said.

Jenkins said the cables were classified no higher than "confidential" or "limited use only." However, a special clearance normally is required to see confidential documents.

On the payments issue, Lisker said that on Jan. 16 Billy Carter denied to him having received any money from the radical Arab government.

But Lisker said that he had obtained on Tuesday a deposit slip showing that Billy Carter deposited his first Libyan payment in the People's Bank of LaGrange, Ga., Dec. 31.

"There's no doubt he knew at the time that he had received the money," Lisker said of the January interview.

Billy Carter could not immediately be reached for comment on Lisker's statements.

Chamber to help challenge census

Midland Chamber of Commerce officials are preparing to work with the city in challenging the unofficial census counts, according to Fred Tyler, executive vice president of the chamber.

During the chamber's board of directors meeting Wednesday, the unofficial counts of 66,798 for the city, 10,702 for the county and 77,700 combined were announced.

However, the Post Office has estimated the countywide population between 82,292 and 88,291, according to Tyler. The Post Office based its figures on the number of deliverable boxes for homes, apartments, star routes and rural routes. It multiplied the total by 2.9, which is the number of persons per household, to get the higher number. Then it dropped the number of persons to 2.7 — since families are not as large as they once were — and reached the lower figure.

Tyler explained two other methods of figuring still give the city a population between 73,000 and 75,000. The basis for this reasoning comes from figures compiled to show the gain of housing.

Since 1973, when the count first was recorded, Midland has had a net gain of 5,563 family units. Multiplied by the low basis of 2.7 people per family unit, this gives 15,020 more people living in Midland. Added to the 1970 census figure of 59,463, Midland now should have a population of 74,483.

Permits for single family residences and multi-family units have totaled 5,927 since 1973. This number multiplied by 2.7 gives an additional 16,000 persons. Added to the 1970 figure puts the population at 75,465.

These figures, according to Tyler, are evidence that Midland's census figures are incorrect.

A report by Joan Ramey, director of Midland Board of Realtors, pointed out that housing sales through July are up over the same time last year. Housing sales have reached $56,673,465 this year, about $5 million above last year's figure of $53,826,305 for the same period.

However, fewer housing units have been sold this year, said Ms. Ramey. So far, the number is 1,002 while last

Gunshot kills Midland youth

A 17-year-old Midland youth died Wednesday while undergoing surgery for an accidental gunshot wound.

Christopher Marion Flynt of 2806 Frontier Drive was showing a semi-automatic .22-caliber pistol to a 16-year-old friend when the firearm discharged, striking Flynt in the lower left side of his chest. Flynt was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital where he later died.

Renewed violence in Orlando

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Streets were quiet again today in a troubled neighborhood after the second straight night in which flames shot from firebombed buildings, looters raced through stores and rocks and bottles kept police at bay.

Police late Wednesday cordoned off a 16- to 20-square-block section of this tourist-oriented city, the third Florida city since May to suffer racial disturbances.

Two businesses were burned to the ground and firemen extinguished blazes at three other buildings. Several stores were looted, police said.

Officers in riot gear swept through the area and arrested about 30 people in an effort to clear the streets. Calm was restored about 1 a.m., officials said.

"The situation is quiet and being reasonably controlled," said Howard McClain, city public safety director.

"There are no fires at the present time, no rescue situations. No shots were fired, to our knowledge."

Officials discussed imposing a curfew and other restrictions in the troubled area, but decided against the idea.

But police officials said they would be alert to further trouble.

"We will be prepared for whatever might happen," Police Chief James Nurse said today. "We have to be, because we've had two nights of disturbances now."

The city, 17 miles east of Disney World, became the third in Florida to experience race-related violence this year. Rioting in Tampa and Miami in May killed 18 people in Miami, and rioting hit Miami again two weeks ago.

Wednesday night, blocks away from the black neighborhood. Four hundred officers were called in to help quell the disturbance.

Firebombs set blazes in at least five buildings, including a hotel and a fish market. A grocery and television store were "total losses," said fire department spokeswoman Leslie Fagundo. Sporadic looting was reported.

At least four people, including two television reporters, received minor injuries when attacked by roving gangs of blacks, Wylie said.

Officials discussed imposing a curfew and other restrictions in the troubled area, but decided against them.

"We have reason to believe that the situation will not become any worse than it was tonight," said Mayor Carl Langford. "We will not show a strong display of police force in the area. We will have normal patrols."

On Thursday, earlier in the day, city and Orange County officials spent three hours listening to 100 angry blacks in a hastily organized meeting.

City Commissioner Shelton T. Adams promised an investigation into the conduct of the officers who made the arrest of a 19-year-old black woman accused of stealing $600 from a white male. Blacks contended the force used was excessive and charged that local governments have ignored minority concerns.

"We are demanding more consideration from the city and county," said the Rev. W.D. Judge, a Baptist minister. "We have been misused and abused."

About one-fifth of Orlando's 130,000 residents are black, and the estimated black unemployment rate of 15 percent is twice that for whites.

A few Midland households will receive help with electric bills

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Martha is a 45-year-old mother trying to keep a family of 12 going on a limited income. She's had no gas for a year because she couldn't pay the bill.

She can't cook on the gas stove; instead, the woman heats food out of cans for the family meal.

No gas also means no hot water for the family.

The summer heat has been especially harsh for Martha and her family. They have an air conditioner, but it's broken and they can't waste electricity for it to blow hot air. They are in a situation typical of many elderly and low-income households in Midland.

But for 80 or so low-income households, there is some relief coming in the form of money to repair air conditioners, buy fans and pay utility bills.

The state recently allotted $59,000 in "heat relief" funds to a 10-county West Texas area. By the time the money is divided among the counties, however, Midland's share will only be enough aid a limited number of households, which should be about 20 to 25.

Kim Modisett, director of the Human Relations Council, said the funds will be administered through West Texas Opportunities, Inc., which is based in Lamesa. A representative of that office will be in Midland Friday to take applications starting at 9 a.m. Applications will be taken by appointment only at the HRC office, 218 W. Illinois Ave., room

104. According to a West Texas Opportunities news release, they are looking for the "elderly poor whose health and survival are endangered due to the heat-related conditions."

Ms. Modisett added that HRC already has a waiting list of needy persons.

The lingering heat wave, which started in June and may continue through August, has caused utility bills to take a kangaroo-sized jump upward. While hurting almost everyone's pocketbook, it has a double whammy effect on elderly who can't tolerate the heat as well as younger persons.

"I've had numerous complaints" about the utility bills, said Ms. Modisett. "I receive complaints every day that electric bills or gas bills are way too high."

Some social service agencies can give a small amount of monetary aid in paying those bills, but Ms. Modisett emphasized that aid is limited.

"These agencies have only so much money for the year. And when they run out, they're out. They have to screen people very carefully and make sure these applicants really are in dire need," she said.

Agencies which can give the small amount of assistance are Salvation Army, St. Andrews Presbyterian Mission, Casa de Amigos and Human Relations Council.

Complaints about high utility bills have been registered at the gas and electric companies here.

ANNUAL TRIP DOWN THE RATHOLE

Challenging the count

Frankly, it doesn't come as much of a shock that the Bureau of the Census' population figures for Midland and Midland County appear to be low. The figures, released to Mayor G. Thane Akins and County Judge Bill Ahders Monday, were preliminary ones which traditionally are not noted for accuracy.
 Still, it stretches the imagination a bit to tell anyone who's lived in Midland any length of time that the city's population increased by only 7,535 souls during the past decade. Or that the county head count grew by only 12,267.
 Those figures are difficult to swallow primarily because Midlanders live here day in and day out. We watch the skyscrapers grow, the businesses bloom and the residential sections spring up.
 Mayor Akins and Judge Ahders indicated initially that they will be studying the figures in an attempt to determine if cause exists for a challenge. That's good. Everything possible should be done in an effort to ascertain if the counts truly are low.
 If officials can make that determination within the time allotted for local review, they should seek a recount of areas in which residents have been overlooked or failed to respond. The apartment complexes would be a good place to start.

 There's more at stake here than the population figure that'll adorn Midland's city limits signs. Federal allocations for revenue-sharing are based on census counts. Furthermore, congressional reapportionment is based on the census tallies, along with redistricting for the state legislature.
 That's not all, of course. There are countless other ways census counts benefit communities. To be of any good, however, those counts must be as accurate as possible.
 So it's really little wonder why Midland and countless other cities throughout the nation have been complaining about census results lately. The results really matter.
 Of course, these are preliminary figures, like we said, and doubtless they will be adjusted upward at a later date when more accurate figures are in hand.
 It's just wise to not take a chance on these figures. After all, we don't want to have to live 10 years with a vastly incorrect population figure on our city limits signs or endure the other consequences, either.

ART BUCHWALD

George set a precedent when he allowed a lie

During an election year, it is only fair to speculate how George Washington would do if his presidential campaign was being managed by some of the people involved with today's campaigns.

Art Buchwald

"George, you're a very popular figure, but the fact you won the war for us doesn't necessarily mean you'll be elected as the first president of the United States. We're going to have to work on your image."
 "What do you suggest?"
 "Well, for a starter, you're going to have to get rid of those wooden teeth. We're going to have to get you some ivory ones that shine, so when you smile everyone can see them."
 "I have no intention of smiling. I hate to smile. Have you ever seen one painting of me smiling?"
 "All right, forget the teeth. We need a slogan that will catch the imagination of the 13 states."
 "How about 'Vote for a man who has never been to Washington?'"
 "You are Washington, George."
 "I meant Washington, D.C."
 "There is no Washington, D.C. It won't be named that until after you die. If you're elected, you're going to have to live in New York and Philadelphia."
 "Well, I'm not sure I want to be president if I can't live in Washington, D.C."
 "It doesn't make any difference where you live. The important thing is to get you elected as the first president of the United States."

 "I'm not certain I want to be the first president of the United States."
 "But don't you see that if you are, you will go down in history as the 'Father of our Country'? If you don't go for it, John Adams will. We have to launch a 'Stop Adams Campaign' and you're the only one who can do it."
 "He's not a bad fellow."
 "George, would you want the capital of the United States to be called Adams, D.C.?"
 "No, I guess not. What do you want me to do?"
 "First, we have to show that you're completely honest. The question is how do we do it?"
 "What if I say that if I am elected I will never lie to the American people?"
 "That's good, but how do we dramatize it?"
 "Well, I never told anyone this story. But when I was a kid, we had this cherry tree on our plantation, and I went out with an ax and chopped it down. It was my father's favorite tree, and he was really mad so he said, 'George, do you know who chopped down my cherry tree?' I still had the ax in my hand so I figured I'd better tell the truth and said, 'I did it, father,' and he whacked the living daylight out of me just for one lousy cherry tree."
 "That's beautiful. We'll put out a press release on that story right away. The papers will eat it up. Anything else you can tell us that will help the campaign?"
 "I once threw a silver dollar across the Rappahannock River."
 "You'd better not talk about that. It might give the taxpayers the impression you're willing to throw away their money."
 "Wait a minute. Let's not reject that out of hand. Suppose we say George threw a silver dollar across the Rappahannock and then swam over to retrieve it. It would show he really cared for a buck."
 "But, gentlemen, that would be a lie."
 "Look, George, every president of the United States is going to have to lie to the people sooner or later. If you set a precedent of absolutely no lying, no one will ever be able to govern the country."
 "I hadn't thought of that. Okay, you can say I swam over and got it back."
 "Great, we'll leak it to the papers. Now what about detente with the Indians?"
 "What about it?"
 "We'll say you're for better relationships with the Indians but detente is a two-way street. If they want to buy grain from us, they're going to have to give us Ohio."
 "Why do we need Ohio?"
 "We need Ohio just in case John Adams wins the primary in Pennsylvania."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Report's findings termed a 'whitewash'

WASHINGTON — The "What else is new?" headline of the year may well be the one in The New York Times the other day: "U.S. Oil Companies Are Held Blameless in '79 Gas Shortage."

Jack Anderson

This astonishing verdict, exonerating Big Oil of responsibility for the gas lines and huge price increases, was rendered by bureaucrats in Jimmy Carter's Justice and Energy Departments. And if it sounds familiar, it's because a preliminary "investigation" by DOE reached an identical conclusion last year.
 The earlier Energy Department report was labeled a "whitewash" by knowledgeable critics of the oil industry, and it's clear the whiteness of the government's bureaucratic calcimine has grown no less blinding in the months since then.
 To hear the Carter administration tell it, Big Oil's skyrocketing profits in the past 18 months might as well have been manna from heaven, so unconnected were they to any misconduct by the oil companies.
 In what has become an endlessly repeated theme of the administration, the two latest reports blame last year's oil shortage on a drop in imports caused by the cutoff of Iranian supplies.
 As I have reported more than once, with unrefuted documentation, the government's own figures show that the United States actually imported more oil after Iran cut us off than we had the year before, because other oil-producing nations rushed in with emergency shipments that more than made up the shortfall.
 The Iranian cutoff excuse, to put it bluntly, was a lie, and Jimmy Carter knew it. In the best Big Lie technique, however, he apparently hopes that constant repetition will persuade the ripped-off American public that Iranian revolutionaries were to blame for the gasoline crisis last year and, therefore, can be blamed for the next inevitable gas crunch.

The administration's persistent refusal to lay any blame on the oil barons is understandable: If the truth ever comes out, the government, particularly the Department of Energy, will have to share the blame with Big Oil. My own investigation, and those of experts in the field, show that both had much to gain from an artificially created shortage last year.
 Highly reliable industry sources have suggested to my associate Dale Van Atta that the temporary shortage was concocted by the Carter administration and the oil industry. Carter wanted a dramatic crisis to convince the public of the need for long-term conservation; the oil companies were happy to connive in a situation that would — and did — bring them unprecedented price increases.
 One who was not bedazzled by the latest administration whitewash was Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. He promptly drafted private letters to Justice and DOE, pointing out "wide discrepancies" in the two agencies' reports and challenging the seriousness of their investigations.
 Kennedy wants to know, among other things, why there was no analysis of the 1978 international oil market; why different time periods were compared to different base periods; why oil industry projections were apparently used unquestioningly, and why, most incredibly of all, no internal oil industry documents were subpoenaed.
 In his letter to Energy Secretary

Charles W. Duncan, Kennedy concluded that "the American people still lack reliable information in order to evaluate the causes of the gasoline shortages." That's putting it mildly.
GETTING IT IN THE NECK: While the Carter administration is professing the customary election-year sympathy for the elderly, its stubborn bureaucrats are denying hundreds of older Americans Medicare payments for a neck operation that can relieve the agony of asthmatic choking.
 Even though the Health and Human Services Department's appeals council has repeatedly ruled the operation "reasonable and necessary," and an internal HHS memo admits that refusal to give Medicare reimbursement "works a hardship" on elderly patients, the department persists in its hardhearted attitude.
 The surgery in question, pioneered by Dr. Benjamin Winter, involves the removal of two gland-like carotid bodies in the neck for victims of certain severe lung diseases. While it doesn't cure the disease, it often ends the gagging that is a debilitating symptom.
 HHS policymakers, citing statistics that show post-operative mortality is high, refuse to sanction the operation. In fact, however, the mortality rate for those with these diseases in the same age group is as high or higher if no surgery is done.
 So HHS forces each applicant for Medicare reimbursement to take his or her case to the appeals council. Every appeal — about 170 so far — has ended in an order for HHS to pay up.
FBI AS SCROOGE: Thumbing its nose at a federal judge's decision, the FBI has effectively denied access to its files on the John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King assassinations to a respected critic of the Warren Commission.
 The critic, Harold Weisberg, 67 and ailing, has written seven books on the assassinations. In 1978, Judge Gerhard Gesell ruled that Weisberg, whose only regular income is Social Security benefits, qualified for a waiver of duplicating fees for the FBI files.
 But now the bureau has told Weisberg he must pay for document copies — knowing he can't afford it. Cynically, the FBI said Weisberg can look at records in the agency's reading room — though it knows also that a progressively disabling circulatory ailment makes the 50-mile trip from his Maryland home both painful and dangerous.
WATCH ON WASTE: On one hand, the surgeon general warns that smoking is dangerous. On the other hand, the General Services Administration bought 998,366 ashtrays for government offices last year. Federal agencies paid $725,065 for them — almost double the ashtray budget in 1976.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Thursday, July 31, the 213th day of 1980. There are 153 days left in the year.
 Today's highlight in history:
 On this date in 1790, the U.S. government issued its first patent — to Samuel Hopkins of Vermont for a process in making potash.
 On this date:
 In 1498, Christopher Columbus discovered the island of Trinidad.
 In 1964, the U.S. Ranger 7 spacecraft transmitted to earth the first close-up pictures of the moon. Scientists hailed the achievement as greatest advance in lunar astronomy since Galileo's time.
 In 1972, U.S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri withdrew as the Democratic nominee for vice president because of his medical history.

Ten years ago: Israel joined Egypt in accepting a U.S. proposal for a 90-day cease-fire to provide time for peace talks.
 Five years ago: Turkey rejected President Gerald Ford's plea to reopen U.S. military bases, which had been closed in a dispute over American military aid.
 One year ago: A federal judge in Florida sentenced former law student Theodore Bundy to death in the electric chair for the brutal murders of two college sorority sisters.
 Today's birthdays: Former big league baseball manager Hank Bauer is 58. Actor Don Murray is 51.
 Thought for today: There's one consolation in inflation: the money you haven't got isn't worth as much as it used to be. — anonymous.

THE BIBLE

CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA
 1. In Michelangelo's great portrayal of the Creation of Man, which took over four years to paint, Adam is pictured as being earthbound until he received that ethereal spark of Divinity. Describe it. Gen. 2:7.
 2. To what man did God say, "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou unclean." ? Acts 11:7-9.

3. If we say we have no sin, "whom do we deceive?" 1 John 1:8.
 4. What young man journeyed from his homeland into Padanaram (Paddan-Aram) for a wife he had never seen? Genesis 28.
 5. In Psalm 22:18 there is a prophesy, which influenced the soldiers, who disposed of Jesus' clothes following the crucifixion. What?

A CHANGING WORLD:

Improvement needed in industrial mobilization capability

President Carter's re-election campaign rhetoric claims he has done wonders in maintaining and increasing the nation's military defense capabilities.
 Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan points out that America's state of preparedness is far below the minimums needed for success in either a mini-war or major war.
 Neither politician, however, has addressed an aspect of defense preparedness that shows an urgent need for improvement and immediate planning. This is the nation's industrial mobilization capability.
 The Association of the U.S. Army has called attention to this failing as it recalls previous experiences and present assumptions that if we are threatened by foreign aggression, industry will once again become the "arsenal of democracy" to supply, in abundance, the weapons of war.
 "Unfortunately," an AUSA position paper states, "this assumption may not be correct."
 "It is doubtful that industry could do what it did in World War II and what we expect of it now."
 World War II was an entirely different ball game. Our European allies were in the war more than two years ahead of us and we had this advance opportunity to "toc" and set up efficient assembly lines that provided, particularly to Britain and France, thousands of warplanes, tanks, artillery, small arms, ships and ammunition of all types.

John Pinkerton

 At that time we were fighting our way back from a deep depression, there was a large amount of unused or underused industrial capacity and a willing work force anxious to be gainfully employed.
 Equally important, there was no shortage of raw materials, there was sufficient petroleum and the need for imported metals was not overwhelming. Vital, too, the period of producing military supplies before our own involvement in the war permitted a buildup of capabilities that eventually supported the fantastic production figures accomplished from 1941 to 1945.
 "If we went to war tomorrow," the AUSA says, "things would not be the same as in 1941. Even though we are in a recession there is little idle production capacity. The weapons that seemed so complex and modern in the 1940s are rather primitive today.

 "Our modern aircraft, ships and tanks employ state-of-the-art technology unheard of in World War II days."
 "Where we had a bountiful supply of petroleum as we entered World War II, we now are badly pinched and largely dependent on foreign sources. We need foreign suppliers for necessary rare metals like palladium, iridium and rhodium — and one of our suppliers for these three metals is the Soviet Union."
 The Pentagon has staged several mobilization exercises over the years but there has been a dangerous lack of attention given to mobilizing the civilian sector of the nation.
 The World War II experience in advance preparations and the sad state of today's preparedness in industry point up the need for serious and immediate attention to detailed planning if U.S. industry is to be ready for an emergency.
 This planning must go far beyond the paper stage. There must be an investment in plant capacity and in production equipment.
 Implying that there is a need for big business and industry tax incentives backed by Reagan and called "reward for the rich at the expense of the poor" by Mr. Carter, the AUSA says, "We must make it worthwhile for our defense industries to build-in expansion capability."

 We also must constantly search for substitute materials and techniques that will lessen our dependence on foreign suppliers of raw materials and we must create (perhaps this is impossible) an urge in workers to work — in preference to the increasing attractions of welfare and unemployment pay.
 Unless we get into this advance war industry preparedness — NOW — the traditional belief that we can mobilize rapidly with World War II effectiveness will have no validity.

Abilene man charged in stabbing death

An Abilene man has been charged with murder in connection with the stabbing death of Odessa James D. McPeters, who was found Tuesday morning slumped over the steering wheel of his car.

Bond for Rex Bradley Shanks, 26, was set this morning at $50,000 by Peace Justice Robert Pine.

McPeters was found Tuesday morning slumped over the steering wheel of his car, which was parked and still idling on the north service road of Interstate 20. His body was discovered by Department of Public Safety troopers, who had been notified of an injured person by a passing motorist.

Midland County Sheriff's deputies said McPeters had at least six stab wounds to the chest, groin, upper shoulder and back. Blood was discovered on the outside left rear of the car. And one of the victim's shoes, his cigarettes and lighter were lying on the ground, leading deputies to believe that at least a scuffle occurred there.

Peace Justice John Biggs issued a warrant for Shanks' arrest Wednesday night. Shanks was transferred to Midland County Jail from Abilene, where he had been arrested Tuesday on charges of aggravated assault, relating to an assault this past weekend on McPeters' 16-year-old daughter.

Little lasting damage seen from Jerusalem law

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli officials say they expect the storm of protest over the new law proclaiming united Jerusalem the capital of the Jewish state to subside with minimum damage.

They recalled that Israel weathered similar storms when it declared Jerusalem its capital in 1948, and when it moved its Foreign Ministry there in 1950.

"We are sovereign in Jerusalem, and we can do as we please," one official asserted. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat

McPeters' estranged wife, who is currently in custody in Abilene on separate charges, telephoned McPeters and asked him to meet her Monday night at or near the place where McPeters' body was found. Shanks was with her and had reportedly threatened McPeters' life before. Shanks apparently told officers that McPeters' attacked him with a knife, which he took away and then used against the Odessaan.

Shanks was treated for stab wounds at the Sweetwater emergency room about 2 a.m. Tuesday. He was arrested in Abilene early Wednesday morning. Abilene law enforcement officials notified Midland deputies that Shanks was in custody.

Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan

Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly said Egypt would consider recalling its ambassador from Israel as well as suspending the negotiations. Egypt broke off the talks in May for two months after the united-Jerusalem bill was introduced in the Israeli Parliament by a rightist foe of the peace treaty with Egypt.

Judge to decide whether 'Caligula' is art or smut

BOSTON (AP) — A Boston judge was studying today whether "Caligula," a $17 million motion picture about sex and violence in ancient Rome, is art or smut.

Municipal Judge Harry Elam promised a ruling Friday in the obscenity trial of Penthouse International, which produced the movie, and the Sack theater chain, where it was shown.

During the eight-day trial, Elam heard testimony from 14 experts on sex, history, politics and philosophy.

In final arguments Wednesday, Penthouse lawyer Roy Grutman argued that the prosecution was "an attempt to stifle and stamp out ideas."

Assistant District Attorney Timothy O'Neill disagreed.

"I wish you to recall the manner in which the camera focused on sexual acts," he argued. "Can there be any question that this film depicts sex in a patently offensive manner and appeals to a prurient interest?"

If convicted, Penthouse, its Massachusetts subsidiary and the theater chain each face maximum fines of $5,000. One defense lawyer said Penthouse is spending more than $100,000 to try to win acquittal.

"Caligula, for whatever its shortcomings, is not a stag film," said Grutman. "It is not a blue movie. If it had been the intent of Penthouse to make a porno film, that could have been done for $100,000. They felt a useful social and artistic purpose could be served."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON CAT scanners worth the cost

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our local newspapers have been carrying stories about the efforts of some community hospitals to obtain CAT scanners despite objections that they are too expensive. It seems to me that when you consider purchasing a piece of equipment that calls for a million bucks, you're not talking about petty cash. Don't you feel there is some point at which a line must be drawn before medical costs are completely out of sight? — Mr. D.G.G.

Dear Mr. G.: Your letter really raises two questions: First, should a limit be set on the price of medical care? And secondly, to what extent, if any, does the use of the computed axial tomography (CAT) scanner add to these costs?

The first question is very subjective in nature. What price do we place upon our health or, for that matter, our lives? For example, although very few of us could afford a world-renowned surgeon should we require an operation, I believe we would all tend to minimize the cost if our lives hung in the balance. This is a question each of us must answer for ourselves.

The extent to which CAT scanners add to the cost of medical care can be evaluated more objectively. Despite its initial cost, there is evidence that the scanner, by precluding the need for other diagnostic procedures, many of which put the patient at greater risk, actually can reduce costs.

For example, the December 1979 issue of Healthcare reports on a study by Dr. Jack Wittenberg of the Harvard University Medical School. He notes that of 290 patients at the Massachusetts General Hospital who planned to have surgery, 56 (19 percent) avoided unnecessary procedures as a result of CAT diagnoses. In the same issue, Dr. Ronald G. Evens of the Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, maintains that CAT scanning could have saved $13 million in 1978 if it had been used for all potential applications.

These figures indicate that failure of an agency to approve a CAT scanner for a hospital or similar facility may be a case of being penny-wise and pound-foolish.

Dear Dr. Solomon: To what extent is diabetes inherited? — Harvey.

Dear Harvey: Most authorities believe that the predisposition to diabetes is inherited. Thus, although a child may have diabetes despite the fact that neither parent does, a careful review of the family history will probably disclose a relative who had the disease.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I would like to know how your stop-smoking treatment works. Have you determined what the active component is? Mr. H.L.

Dear Mr. L.: Research being conducted at the University of Miami School of Medicine suggests that the active ingredient is a quaternary sulfonium group that liberates endorphins. It's postulated that the endorphins, in turn, go to the brain and neutralize the nicotine receptors, decreasing the desire to smoke.

Behavior modification is of equal importance to break the psychological habit of smoking.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Resisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

New specialist joins staff at hospital

Dr. John McKenna, a specialist in pulmonary medicine, has been appointed medical director of the Department of Respiratory Therapy at Midland Memorial Hospital, Interim Administrator Robert Bash recently announced.

Dr. McKenna replaces Dr. Phyllis Huffman, who has served part-time as medical director since July 1968.

Dr. McKenna, who comes to Midland with his wife and son from Long Beach, Calif., is a board certified internist. He has completed a residency in pulmonary disease and has taken his sub-specialty board exams.

Dr. McKenna served his internship and medical residency in internal medicine at LSU Medical Center. In Midland, he will share an office with Dr. Brian Mohr, a specialist in cardiovascular diseases.

Bash said Dr. Huffman's efforts with the respiratory department have established a strong base for Dr. McKenna and the staff to expand the departmental services into a "regional referral center for respiratory medicine."

While under Dr. Huffman's direction, the respiratory therapy department grew from a small service with minimal equipment and facilities to a fully developed, well-equipped one operated around the clock by a growing staff of trained technicians, hospital spokespersons said.

When Dr. Huffman started contributing her time some 12 years ago, the number of procedures averaged about 1,000 a month with a monthly revenue of $2,600. Now the department averages 10,000 procedures a month and has a monthly revenue of $50,000.

Building the department has been "a lot of hard work but very enjoyable," Dr. Huffman said.

Bash said Dr. Huffman has been an advocate of attracting a pulmonary specialist to Midland and the hospital for several years.

"We now have total respiratory care," Dr. Huffman said, "and for this reason we were able to attract a pulmonary specialist when the board saw the need for a full-time director. It is a viable department and a showplace not only at this hospital, but in West Texas," she said. "I am very pleased with it."

Dr. Huffman has also been instrumental in creating a supply of trained respiratory technicians. To acquire the necessary people who were in short supply Dr. Huffman asked the Board of Trustees of Midland College to organize a respiratory therapy program.

Now training its second class, the program assures MMH and West Texas a continued supply of competent respiratory technicians. Dr. Huffman has been director of the Midland College program since its inception.

Further, Dr. Huffman and hospital respiratory technicians, in conjunction with city health nurses, have volunteered their time for monthly operation of the Midland Lung Clinic — a regional pilot program to prevent, diagnose and treat lung disease.

B.K. Khandelwal, M.D. Assoc.

Announces the Relocation of his office as of July 28, to 2301 W. Michigan for the practice of Rheumatology (Arthritis & Rheumatism) and Internal Medicine.

Phone (915) 684-0941

The clinic is open free-of-charge to anyone who feels he or she has a lung problem. In operation for the past three years, the clinic primarily serves people who are not already under the care of a physician. The Midland Lung Clinic is the only one of its kind in the state.

Union rejects Ma Bell's offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bell Telephone System's offer to its 700,000 unionized employees of a 25 percent wage increase over three years has been rejected as "inadequate" and "unrealistic" by union negotiators.

The offer came Wednesday as bargainers worked to reach a new agreement before a strike deadline of midnight, Aug. 9.

The proposed increase, averaging between 7 and 8 percent a year, was the first economic offer made by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. It is well short of the maximum 9 1/2 percent annual increase in wages and benefits allowed under President Carter's voluntary anti-inflation wage guideline.

It also is well below the inflation rate. The annual rate was almost 12 percent during the spring and 14 percent during the past 12 months.

The Communications Workers of America, which represents 525,000 of the workers, called Bell's offer "totally inadequate." The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which represents another 114,000 workers, said the offer was "unrealistic at a time of high inflation."

The third union involved in the talks is the Telecommunications International Union, which represents about 60,000 workers.

Rex R. Reed, chief bargainer for AT&T, said the offer was made "with the knowledge that our wages are more than competitive with other industries right now." Company spokesman Charles Dynes added that any eventual settlement "certainly would be within" Carter's wage guideline.

Bell's offer would provide a first-year wage increase averaging just under 7 percent. Workers would receive second- and third-year increases of just under 2 percent a year plus up to 6 percent a year in cost-of-living increases.

Under the proposal, the maximum weekly wage for operators would rise from the current $287 to $359.50 in three years, while the maximum weekly wage for craft workers would rise from $431.50 to $541.

The unions currently receive unlimited cost-of-living raises that track the inflation rate, and union bargainers vowed to oppose any effort to place a ceiling on that pay formula.

Tibbetts sentenced to five years in prison

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Dr. Austin B. Tibbetts, 59, an ex-tax protester and founder-leader of the now disbanded United Tax Action Patriots, was sentenced by Federal Judge Lucius D. Bunton to five years in prison and was fined $2,000 here Wednesday. The sentencing came in the wake of his June 19 conviction for tax evasion and failure to file tax forms with the Internal Revenue Service.

THE SENTENCE, which is subject to appeal, is to be carried out at 10 a.m. Aug. 18, when Tibbetts is to report to the U.S. Marshal's office in Midland.

"This is my first time to run afoul of the law in my whole life," Tibbetts told the judge in pleading for a light sentence. "I don't ever recall harboring any criminal act. I would consider myself a patriot."

Later, the judge said he felt "nothing but compassion" for Tibbetts and his ailing wife, Peggy. He reminded the former protester, who professes Christianity, of the Biblical teaching "to render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's."

DR. TIBBETTS was a physician-eye doctor in Midland from 1965 to 1976, when he set up practice in Amarillo.

Since he was convicted in the 2 1/2-day trial in Midland last June, Tibbetts called for the disbanding of the UTAP, which he had organized in Midland in 1972, for UTAP's literature to be destroyed, and for UTAP followers to obey the law of the land, to file IRS returns and to pay their due taxes.

Tibbetts' admonishment to his fellow tax protesters was virtually diametric to his earlier stance, in which he advocated avoiding — not evading — paying taxes on constitutional grounds and repealing the 16th Amendment. That law, which became effective in 1913, instituted the income tax.

Tibbetts indicated that he was an advocate of the U.S. Constitution, excluding the 16th Amendment.

But after the 30-minute sentencing before Bunton, Tibbetts suggested that he still is interested in the constitutionally-legal repeal of the 16th Amendment via the states ratifying a repeal.

"There has been an effort to get repeal of the 16th Amendment... We've been working on that for a long time," he said. Tibbetts said his new perspective on the income tax came about when "the jury spoke (on his case), the people spoke."

"This is what we teach in our (UTAP) meetings.

"THERE'S NO NEED of getting everybody in jail," he said of encouraging his former followers to pay their taxes. "That doesn't accomplish anything."

Earlier in the sentencing phase, Bunton, in deference to a plea by Tibbetts' defense council Mark McClellan, said he had "never wanted to 'chill' the First Amendment right."

"People ought to have a right to express themselves," the judge said. McClellan, who is leaving law to study for the ministry, had noted Tibbetts' "personal change of attitude" and asked that the judge not figure in his punishment Tibbetts' exercising of the First Amendment right to free speech.

Apparently, he was referring to the public UTAP meetings, which Tibbetts had held as educational and as an exercise of a constitutional right.

"I would ask the court not mete out any punishment what would 'chill' the First Amendment — freedom of expression," McClellan had said.

Bunton could have sentenced Tibbetts up to 18 years in prison and could have fined him up to $60,000. Instead, the judge sentenced him to five years, placed him on a five-year probation to follow his serving time, and fined him $2,000.

THE JUDGE indicated that he was perplexed about Tibbetts' former defiance of U.S. tax laws, particularly in light of his professed religious beliefs — which call for obeying the law of the land — and over his professed patriotism.

"I frankly don't understand, Dr. Tibbetts, why a person of your intellect, a person of your educational background, a person who obviously believes in our country... would think the way you do," Bunton said.

"You profess to be a staunch believer in our United States Constitution. The judge reminded Tibbetts that "there's a way that we have in this country of doing away with an amendment." "I think now that you know it's not right, proper or just to encourage people not to follow the law," Bunton said.

The judge alluded to Tibbetts' age, 59, to his relatively poor financial state, to his wife's ailing health and to his impending prison term.

"I feel nothing but compassion for you and your wife," he said. "I know it's hard for her."

PRIOR TO THE sentencing, Don Reed of Pampa, a friend of Tibbetts and an ex-UTAP member, indicated his dissatisfaction with the tax- and judicial systems. "In tax cases, right or wrong doesn't make any difference. There's no justice in a tax case," Reed said.

"When the constitutional rights are denied to a citizen of this country, that's the most blatant disregard of American citizen rights."

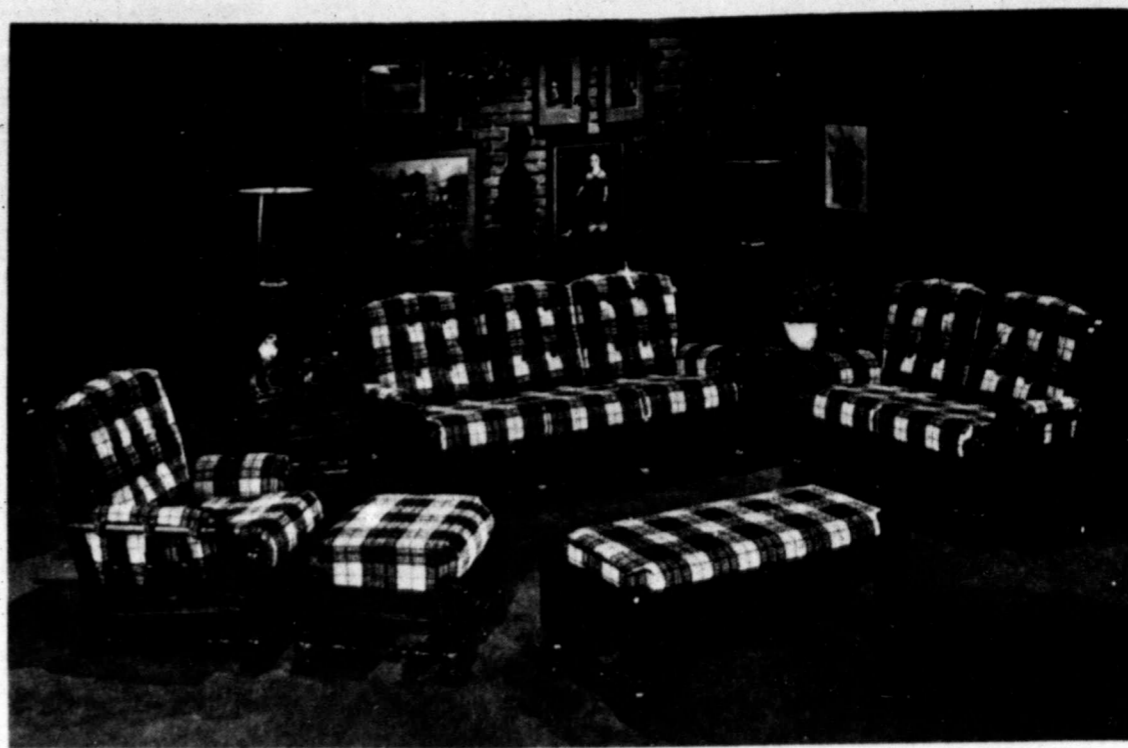

He also was critical of the court. "And when the judge takes an oath to uphold the constitution and then to deny it to an American citizen indicates his position above the law and total disregard for justice."

Reed said he beholds himself as "just another citizen — a very scared citizen."

Graveside services for William B. "Buck" Franklin, 81, 700 W. Scharbauer Drive, will be at 10 a.m. Friday in Fairview Cemetery with the Rev. G.A. Magee of Bellview Baptist Church officiating. Services will be directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Franklin died Wednesday in a Midland hospital.

He was born Feb. 17, 1899, in Howard County, where he was also reared. He was married to Etta Lee Locklar April 26, 1924, in Big Spring. They moved to Midland County in 1933 and farmed southeast of Midland. In 1953, he retired and they moved into the city of Midland. He was a member of the Baptist church.

Survivors include his wife; a son, W.B. Franklin Jr. of Midland; a daughter, Billie Vest of Ontario, Calif.; two brothers, Clifford Franklin and Joe Franklin, both of Exeter, Calif.; two sisters, Faye Box of Dallas and Bonnie McDonald of Riverside, Calif.; five grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Rosa Lee Martin

Services for Rosa Lee Martin, 86, 1404 Keith St., will be at 1 p.m. Friday in the Hawkins Funeral Home chapel in Jacksboro with the pastor of the First Christian Church there officiating. Burial will be in Jacksboro Cemetery. Local arrangements were handled by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Martin died Tuesday in a Midland nursing home.

She was born Oct. 26, 1893, in Bowie. She was reared in Jacksboro and taught school there for a number of years. She was married to James Clark Martin in 1913 in Jacksboro. He died in 1960. She moved to Midland in 1968. She was a member of the Palmetto Club, Energetic Club and Order of the Eastern Star. She was also a member of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Ann Breeding of Midland; two brothers, George Nichols and Joe B. Nichols, both of Jacksboro; and two grandchildren.

Mary A. Hemme

ANDREWS — Services for Mary Ann Hemme, 46, of Houston are pending with Singleton Funeral Home here.

Mrs. Hemme died Wednesday in a Houston hospital after a brief illness. She lived in New York prior to moving to Houston 12 years ago where she was employed by an insurance company.

Survivors include her husband; John Hemme; a son, Dennis Wade of Houston; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Ellison of Andrews; and two brothers, Scotty Ellison of Las Vegas, Nev., and David Ellison of Andrews.

Chris Flynt

Services for Chris M. Flynt, 17, 2806 Frontier Drive, will be at 10 a.m. Friday in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Daniel Vestal, minister, officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Flynt died Wednesday in a Midland hospital of wounds received in an accidental shooting.

He was born Dec. 3, 1962, in Bryan. He moved to Midland from Richardson in 1974. He would have been a senior at Midland High School. He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Flynt of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Phillip (Deborah) Maxwell of Midland and Mrs. Steve (Cynthia) Caldwell of College Station; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Darby of Ballinger and Evelyne Flynt of Bangs.

Men get probated sentence

ODESSA — Two Akron, Ohio, men who had fled into Mexico after they had been arrested by federal officers near Big Bend for possession of marijuana were placed on strict probation for five years and were fined $2,000 by Federal Judge Lucius D. Bunton in Odessa on Wednesday.

The two had pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, but the indictment charging them with jumping bail was dismissed in a plea-bargaining agreement.

Bunton admonished the two, James Thomas Farley, 23, and Robert Allen Krukow, 24, for going astray and said that their heading into Mexico to avert a court appearance "was not only wrong but exceedingly stupid."

"You'd think one mistake (hauling marijuana) would be enough," the judge told the duo.

Bunton told Farley, a former college student, and Krukow, a one-time professional race car driver, that they must be a "heartbreak" to their parents and families for twice breaking the law.

"Hauling marijuana is not a very good way to raise money," Bunton told the men.

They were arrested between Presidio and Lajitas last December for importing 338 pounds of marijuana from Mexico. But once on bail and under indictment, the two fled into Mexico and were subsequently indicted for failure to appear in court.

Later, each voluntarily returned to the United States and turned themselves over to federal officials. Both had been living in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. Farley returned to the United States in early June and gave himself up at Los Angeles, Calif. Krukow gave himself up a month later in El Paso.

Instead of sentencing them to the penitentiary, Bunton ordered the two to Permian Place Community Program Center, a halfway house which helps prepare federal prisoners for release into a free society.

The two are to work regular jobs, such as oil field work, until they have completed their 120-day stay at the halfway house, which is for "people on their way to society from the penal institution," Bunton had noted.

But Bunton cautioned the men that if they "so much as thumb your nose" at their boss or supervisor, that the judge would revoke their probation under the Youth Corrections Act and would sentence them to prison.

"If you can't live up to it (conditions of probation), it will not bother me one bit to sentence you," Bunton said.

Earlier, Farley had pleaded for probation as opposed to a prison sentence.

"If you gave me the opportunity, I promise you I wouldn't mess up," he said.

Larry Barber, an Odessa attorney representing the two men, told the judge that the defendants "have never been arrested before, except for this incident..."

"They have been pretty good people up to this point."

Terrorist gets life for triple murder

STUTT GART, West Germany (AP) — A West German court today found Baader-Meinhof terrorist Knut Folkerts guilty of three murders, an attempted murder and membership in a terrorist gang and sentenced him to life in prison.

Folkerts, 28, already is under a 20-year sentence in the Netherlands for the slaying of one policeman there and the attempted murder of another. He was convicted here of fatally shooting West German chief prosecutor Siegfried Buback and two of his aides on April 7, 1977.

There is no death penalty in West Germany. The conviction for attempted murder stemmed from an attack on a Frankfurt weapons dealer on July 1, 1977.

Folkerts' trial at the maximum security Stammheim prison opened on May 20. Chief Judge Eberhard Foth frequently ordered the accused barred from the courtroom because he interrupted the proceedings by calling the judges "Fascist rat" and "state swine."

In a defiant opening statement, Folkerts charged the trial was a "propaganda function" and the court already had decided his guilt. He later made an abortive attempt to be excluded entirely from his trial.

According to the charges, Folkerts was one of the two motorcycle-riding gunmen who sprayed Buback's limousine with automatic weapons' fire as it stopped at a traffic light.

Town doesn't like what's in store

By JANE BEDNAR
 LUYERNE, N.D. (AP) — This little town of 85 people has a bar, a gas station, a cafe, a grain elevator and a grocery store. But because Luyerne is an out-of-the-way spot, a regional food wholesaler is cutting off deliveries and Delores Leadbetter and her customers are fighting mad.
 The People's Store

won't get deliveries from Fairway Foods, Inc., of Fargo, after Saturday. If Mrs. Leadbetter's store goes out of business, Luyerne's residents would have to travel at least 17 miles for supplies.
 "It'll make it awfully hard for us to get groceries," said Claudia Jacobson, whose family lives just outside town. "We'll have to go 20 to 30 miles instead of five," which could mean trouble, for example, in a North Dakota blizzard. And the town would lose a "kind of a community meeting place." If the store folded, she said. "You go down to the store and start visiting...it's our central supply."

 Mrs. Leadbetter, already on the lookout for new suppliers, says a shutdown is unlikely. But she's angry because she sees Fairway's decision to stop deliveries as a big company squeezing the little guy.

Fairway's Norm Feske says that serving the People's Store weekly means a 24-mile detour, including a stretch of gravel road, off a main delivery route. "With the economy the way it is and the high cost of fuel and with drivers earning $12 an hour or more with fringes," it was just too costly, he said.

The wholesaler has been cutting off four or five stores, a year, most of them in small towns.

"We're not driving anyone out of business. We've talked with them (the Leadbetters) about the fact that they have to change their approach to business a little bit," Feske said.

"These companies want such a big amount of business, they just won't cater to the smaller business any more," says Mrs. Leadbetter, who runs the $65,000-a-year store with her daughter and with maintenance help from her husband, Ray, who is postmaster.

Luyerne has always had "a bar, a gas station, a cafe and a store," she said. "It's been like that for years."
 And Mrs. Jacobson, who has stopped by almost daily for 12 1/2 years, said Wednesday, "We don't have much left now.... If the store goes, I'm afraid that's going to be it."

The store's customers are sending a petition to state officials to try to halt the cutoff, and Mrs. Leadbetter has asked the National Federation of Independent Business for help.

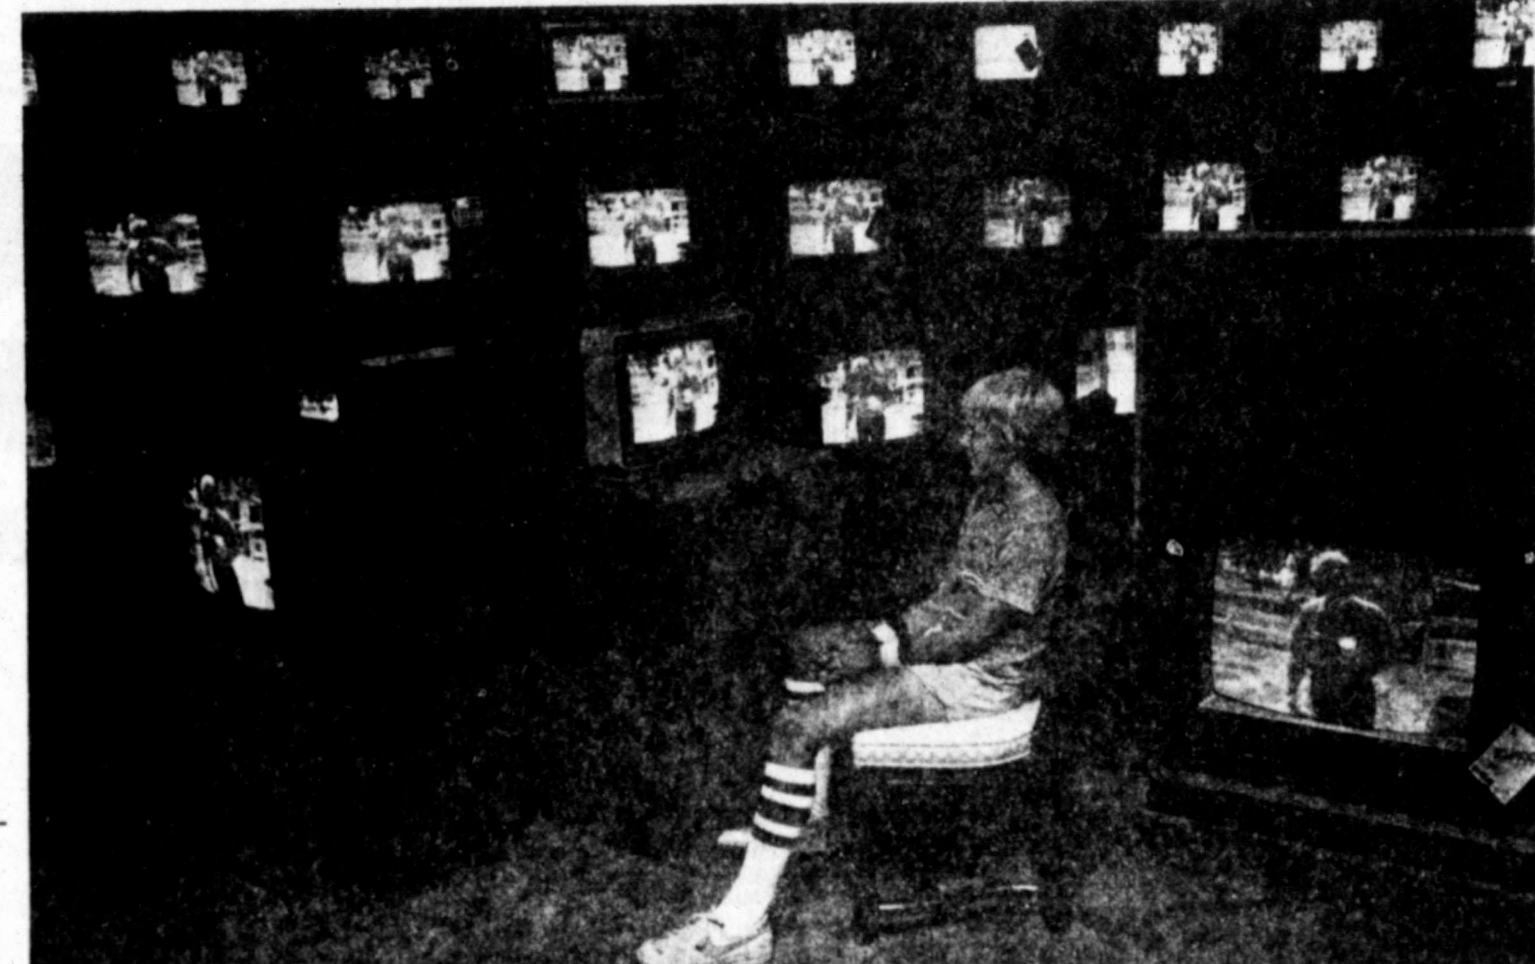

Kathleen Buschow, a caseworker for the trade association, said there's "no law that says wholesalers have to supply the small businessman." But the NFIIB has contacted the U.S. Commerce Department for help.

Mrs. Leadbetter is stocking up the store and waiting to see how things go. "We've contacted several other distributors. Hopefully someone will come in."

Otherwise, the store may go independent, pick up its own supplies and probably pass a price increase along to customers, she said.

Charming Perceptions

Bamboo matchstick blinds connote "fresh", "cool" and "casual". Their charm comes in part from the patterns of light and shadow they create.

But they embody more, a yin-yang of inside, outside—a sense of mystery from objects partially unseen—a sense of space beyond the field of vision. Perceptions not lost on the ancient Chinese.

Clues to the origins of bamboo blinds exists in 2,000-year old Chinese "books", writings on bamboo slats strung remarkably like our blinds. Perhaps a calligrapher discovered the modern use unfurling a scroll before the morning sun. It's a perception as charming today as during the Chou Dynasty.

The journey: From the vast bamboo thickets of Taipei, craftsmen harvest, split and string the natural blinds. Laded on steamers out of Keelung, they make passage west to Long Beach.

Wood jury questions Marcello

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The brother of reputed rackets boss Carlos Marcello of New Orleans has appeared again before the special federal grand jury investigating the May 29, 1979, assassination of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr.

Joseph Marcello, 50, who also appeared before a 23-member panel last month after being granted immunity from prosecution, was among several persons, some of them not identified, who appeared at the secret session Wednesday.

Marcello, became involved in the investigation when the FBI secretly recorded a conversation between him and his brother. The pair allegedly mentioned a request for bond money for a person who claimed to have information concerning Wood's death.

The conversation allegedly was recorded during the FBI's Brillab investigation of political and labor officials. Carlos Marcello, 70, was indicted in the Brillab scandal along with a number of politicians, including Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton.

The special grand jury, impaneled under an organized crime statute for 36 months, also is looking into the attempted assassination of former Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr on Nov. 21, 1978. Wednesday marked its fourth meeting in the past two months.

Kerr escaped with minor glass cuts when 19 bullets were fired into the front of his automobile. The attack took place about a mile from where Wood was shot in the back and killed six months later.

Dillard's plans month of opening activities

As part of Dillard's opening month in Midland Park Mall, the department store is planning a series of special events for every interest.

During the Grand Opening Celebration, July 30 through Aug. 2, customers are invited to register for more than $11,000 in prizes. Gifts range from a ladies Blassport Ultrasuede jacket to a set of dinnerware and stemware to a complete Pioneer stereo system.

Fashion events including showings of the fall and holiday collection of updated sportswear: Pant-Her representative Fred Levine was on hand Wednesday for opening day; J.H. Collectibles were to be featured today, Villager on Friday, and the showings of all three collections will continue Saturday with modeling. The fashions will be informally modeled each day from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Children 4 to 10 are invited to try-out for modeling spots in Dillard's back-to-school fashion show, to be held Saturday, Aug. 9. Thirty boys and girls will be selected to model, and applications are available in the children's departments. Children should come to the Child Model Tryouts on Tuesday, Aug. 5, between 5 and 7 p.m., bringing their completed application with a photo attached.

On Monday, Aug. 4, Miss USA Jineane Ford will make a special visit to Dillard's in Midland Park Mall. She will appear from noon to 2 p.m. in the Signature Sportswear area, where she will autograph photos and speak on beauty and physical fitness.

Jineane represented Arizona in the Miss USA Pageant, and was chosen as first runner-up to Shawn Weatherly. When Shawn was chosen as Miss Universe in the pageant in Seoul, Korea, Jineane was in the audience, and immediately assumed the title of Miss USA.

Her appearance in Midland will be part of a national tour on behalf of Gloria Vanderbilt for Murjani Sportswear, and the Gloria Vanderbilt collection of jeans, skirts and tops will be informally modeled during Jineane's visit. Monday evening, she will appear in Dillard's store in Odessa from 5 to 7 p.m.

Contests, shows and events for kids are planned for Saturday, Aug. 9. In addition to the back-to-school fashion show, there will be free helium-filled balloons, registration for prizes, and free caricatures for kids done on Wamsutta pillowcases.

Also that day, the current Miss Texas, Barbara Buckley, will appear in the Texas costume she wore in the Miss USA Pageant. The Midland native will sign autographs in the Children's area from 2 to 3 p.m. Saturday is the final day for boys 6-12 to enter the Billy the Kid coloring contest, with the winner receiving a bike.

On Saturday, Aug. 16, Dillard's new Midland Teen Board, comprised of 14 high school juniors and seniors representing Midland and Lee High schools, will join with Seventeen Magazine to present a musical back-to-school fashion show, "Prep Rally." The show will be presented at 2 p.m. at Dillard's Mall entrance.

Wednesday, Aug. 20, cooking enthusiasts are invited to attend the "Lenny Angel Cooking School." This dynamic gourmet cook and author has presented her informative classes throughout the United States, and is the author of four cookbooks. She'll be presenting a free two-hour class in the Housewares area from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

As a grand finale to the opening month, two members of the famed Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders squad will be appearing in the menswear area from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Labor Day. They will be posing for photographs and signing autographs.

During the month, a series of demonstrations are planned on Housewares items, fashion accessories and cosmetics. A complete schedule listing the dates, times and locations on all events is available at Dillard's.

Much treasure may remain on sunken 18th-century ship

BERWICK, La. (AP) — Vast treasures may still be lodged aboard a sunken 18th-century cargo ship that has already been tapped by a salvage team for 40 pounds of gold and priceless Aztec artifacts, state officials say.

"Man, they haven't even touched it yet," said Steve Perry, assistant secretary of the Louisiana Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism.

The ship was found buried in mud and silt in a murky section of the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast. Water there is 15 to 18 feet deep, but the visibility is only eight inches.

Salvagers led by Stephen Smith of Cameron have been exploring the sunken ship and on Wednesday, Smith, Perry and Gov. Dave Treen held a news conference to announce the find.

Besides the gold, which is worth about $350,000 on today's market, divers recovered 30 pounds of silver and five tons of copper.

Treen called it "the most exciting archeological find in Louisiana and maybe one of the most significant in the Gulf region."

Among artifacts pulled up so far have been cured turtle shells for European hair combs, rouge used for 18th-century make-up, parts of figures and other ceramic Aztec wares, leather hides, olive jars, several nine-foot cannons, a 10-foot anchor and copper artifacts.

A state archeologist said the ship appeared to be Spanish, but authorities have no idea of its name, its route, why it sank or even when it went down.

Curtis Blume, a shrimper from Port Bolivar, Texas, found the wreck about 1 1/2 miles off Cameron Parish in western Louisiana when his nets pulled up copper ingots. He contacted Smith.

Smith said the wreckage is scattered over an area 200 feet by 120 feet and is broken up into several large pieces buried beneath mud and silt.

"It's not a hull just sitting there where you can go inside it," Smith said.

He said he didn't know he had found gold until he got back on deck of his shrimp boat with what he had picked up in the dark water.

Under an agreement with Blume and the salvagers, the state will get 25 percent of the find. The company formed by Blume and Smith, Free Enterprise Salvage, will get the rest but will have to pay for recovering the treasure.

Judge to rule on Miss Texas

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — State District Judge Hal Lattimore says he will rule within 48 hours on a suit seeking to have the current Miss Texas relinquish her crown.

Testimony came to a close Wednesday in a lawsuit filed by Miss Dallas sponsors, who contend the current Miss Texas, Terri Eoff, violated a pageant time limit rule for the talent competition during the final night of the pageant and should be disqualified.

If Judge Lattimore rules that Miss Eoff should step down, the crown would automatically go to Bobbie Candler, the current Miss Dallas and three-time runner up in the Miss Texas contest.

Miss Texas Pageant Board Chairman Don Magness testified contestants are not timed the last night of competition, and no procedure for disqualification of rule violators exists.

He also said he did not realize Miss Eoff would exceed the time limit by two minutes during the final night of the pageant.

Miss Candler's sponsors claim the current winner won because extra time aided her performance.

Magness said he would not make a final talent competition time limit mandatory unless required to do so by the Miss America organization.

Rose Raley, president of the Dallas sponsorship group, called the three-day hearing "embarrassing and unpleasant." But contended the legal battle would benefit the Miss Texas pageant.

Magness testified Wednesday that the wording in materials for the Miss Texas Pageant suggests the two minute 50 second talent competition time limit is a rule and not a guideline.

Miss Texas Industries attorney Jay Lyndell Kirkley said three of the last five Miss Americas had also gone beyond the established time limit in the national competition.

Some say open convention movement failing, others say it is succeeding

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "boomlet" that failed is what Robert Strauss, President Carter's campaign chairman, is calling the move to open the Democratic convention.

U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, a backer of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, says that the convention will be opened before the gavel bangs down in New York City on Aug. 11.

Which man is right, no one knows. All that is certain is that the battle — with its phone calls beseeching Democratic delegates, its claims of success by both sides, its overblown rhetoric — will continue.

Probably up to and beyond the echo of that gavel's fall in Madison Square Garden there'll still be arguments over whether the delegates should be freed to vote for Carter or Kennedy or some other candidate. Or whether the rule should be adopted tying the delegates on the first ballot to the results of primaries and state party meetings, guaranteeing Carter renomination.

Probably, too, there'll still be arguments over the president's brother Billy and the $220,000 he received from the government of Libya. For lurking behind the open-convention fight is the issue of whether the White House acted properly in the Billy affair or whether the president's election chances are hurt by it.

Wednesday the battleground was a 30-minute press conference at which a perspiring Strauss tried to portray the open-convention effort as a desperate move by "losers" — the forces backing Kennedy.

Later in the day, Kennedy put it more in terms of political wheeling by the Carter forces, picturing Strauss as ordering the president's backers to run around the convention floor tapping delegates on the shoulder to remind them of their loyalties.

"I can tell you there will be no member of the Kennedy staff that will go down the aisle and tap any delegate that is wearing any Kennedy credential ... because they vote their conscience on any matter," he said in Philadelphia. "I wonder if Mr. Carter can say that?"

Today, the Committee to Continue the Open Convention will take the next step by formally announcing that Edward Bennett Williams, an influential lawyer and former party treasurer, has agreed to lead the group.

Never mind Bennett's willingness to take the job became public Wednesday. Today's rite will be cause for more rhetoric. And it's not just happening in Washington.

In Lincoln, Neb., Sen. J. James Exon, a conservative Democrat, joined the open-convention movement Wednesday. He said he thought a majority of Senate Democrats support the idea but "no one wants to take the lead, so it has fallen on a few of us who are not afraid to stick our necks out."

Sen. Williams, on a campaign stop with Kennedy in New Jersey, said, "We're going to have an open convention by the time it starts."

Gov. Bob Graham of Florida, who will nominate Carter at the convention, said in Tallahassee that he will fight the open-convention efforts.

"An open convention is a misnomer for a smoke-filled room convention," he said.

Gov. Hugh Carey of New York, already a backer of an open convention, said Wednesday he has an "educated hunch" that Carter would steal the thunder of the open-convention side by releasing his delegates at the last minute. That is, Carey said, if the president is assured he can still gain renomination.

Strauss, who says Carter has the nomination sewed up anyway, was asked why not let the delegates vote for their preferred candidate rather than the one they were elected in primaries or caucuses to support.

"It would be bad politics," he said. "You don't go to a convention and create a shambles where you can have order."

Kennedy's forces claim the open-convention effort now has the backing of between 275 and 300 Carter delegates and that the number is growing. Strauss said simply: "That little boomlet failed."

Strauss also said that as soon as the squabble over the party rules is out of the way, Carter will rebound from poll results that show him running far behind Republican Ronald Reagan.

The latest poll by Louis Harris shows just 22 percent of those asked approved Carter's performance as president. Even during Watergate, 25 percent approved the job Richard Nixon was doing, and Carter's latest rating is the lowest ever in the Harris survey.

Strauss admits that the disclosures over the president's brother Billy have hurt Carter's popularity. But he predicts that by mid-October Carter will pull ahead of Reagan in the polls and then will go on to win re-election.

...Mr. and Mrs. Alton Bobbitt were honored with a farewell party in the Masonic Hall. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Johnson and other representatives of various Masonic groups.

Approximately 70 persons were present to say goodbye to the Bobbitts as they prepare to move to their retirement home at Lodi in East Texas.

A program was given by Jean Sauze, with piano accompaniment by Earnestine Winterrowd. Miss Sauze cited the couple's service to the Order of the Eastern Star, Beauceants, Rainbows, Lodge No. 623 AF and AM and other affiliated Masonic fraternities.

The paraphrased old familiar songs and reminded the honorees of their many years living in Midland.

The Bobbitts were presented a plaque engraved with a list of their past offices. After speeches from the honorees and brief tributes from several persons in the audience, well-wishers serenaded the couple with "Smiles" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

The event also included a covered dish supper...

...MIDLAND CHRISTIAN WOMEN'S CLUB will host a casual coffee Wednesday at the Girl Scout Center, 901 W. Denigar Ave.

"Come and bring a friend," invited a group spokesman.

Special feature will be a demonstration of gymnastic skills with young people by Gilmore Williams of the West Texas School of Gymnastics.

Music will be presented by Mrs. Robert Thames, vocalist.

Speaker will be Candy Partlow, a wife and mother active in youth work in Midland.

Oakes is being recognized for his 25 years of service to the vocational agriculture program in Texas. He graduated from Waldron High School in Arkansas, served three years of military duty, received his B.S. degree in agriculture education from University of Arkansas, an M.Ed. degree from East Texas State University in Commerce and did graduate work at Texas A&M University in College Station.

The program is held during the state in-service education workshop for vocational agriculture teachers and the 1980 workshop will emphasize staying up with the changes in today's modern agriculture.

Oakes has led and directed the Future Farmers of America members and students of agriculture in earning and receiving many awards and honors at the leadership contests, judging contests and livestock shows.

Approximately 1,700 people are expected to attend the meeting...

DEAR ABBY

Bad-neighbor policy needs cancelling

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are a couple in our mid-50s who have lived in this home for 25 years. Last fall the house next door was sold to a couple in their mid-20s. This spring, my husband, who is quiet and shy, tried to be friendly with the young man, with very little luck.

Last Sunday, the young couple went away for about three hours, leaving their dog tied up in their backyard. The dog barked constantly, which was very annoying.

When they returned, my husband asked them (nicely) if they would mind not leaving their dog outside again while they were gone because it barked constantly. The young man became very angry and said he'd appreciate it if we didn't cut our grass on Sunday morning, because it annoyed him! My husband just shook his head and walked away.

A few minutes later, the neighbor opened his car doors and turned the car radio up to full volume. We had an ear-splitting rock concert for 40 minutes. Then the neighbors on the other side asked them to turn down the volume. Some loud dialogue was exchanged and the young couple stormed into their house.

We are all afraid that they will start playing kids' tricks with loud radios or noisy, late parties around the pool. We don't want to be forced to keep our windows closed the rest of the summer. We have always been friendly with our neighbors until now. What shall we do?—TOO OLD FOR KIDS' GAMES

DEAR TOO OLD: It seems you are off to a bad start with your new neighbors, but it doesn't have to go

UN to sponsor crime seminar

NEW YORK (AP)—A recent United Nations' survey of world crime showed that during a five-year period beginning in 1970, intentional homicide rose by 20 percent, robbery by 197 percent, drug abuse by 114 percent, while crime overall increased by 15 percent.

During the same period, however, several nations were able to report decreases in their crime rate.

Against this background, the U.N. is scheduled to hold its Sixth Congress on the Prevention of Crime and Treatment of Offenders. The meeting will open in Caracas, Venezuela, at the end of August.

from bad to worse. Abort this mutual bad-neighbor policy by clearing the air with them. ("If my lawn mower bothered you on Sunday mornings, you should have said so instead of burying your anger and letting it fester.")

We all need the good will of our neighbors—particularly in these scary times, so make the first move to bury the hatchet.

DEAR ABBY: The government keeps crying about the high cost of Social Security. The solution is so obvious I am surprised nobody has picked up on it:

Simply do not pay Social Security to people who are rich and do not need the money. Billions of dollars could be saved and nobody would be hurt.—SCOTTY IN CLAREMONT, N.H.

DEAR SCOTT: Social Security is an EARNED RIGHT, not a gift based on need. Those who have worked long enough under Social Security are entitled to monthly benefits when they are eligible regardless of whether they are rich or poor. The government is paying back the money that workers have put into the system over the years. If the rich folks want to give it away, that's their business, but they should not be denied what is rightfully theirs.

What's cooking?

"It's a Southern recipe from Mississippi and is very good," claims Tensie Johnson of her Squash Casserole. The squash is even better because it's a product of the Johnson's summer garden.

It's also a big family favorite and is excellent as an accompaniment at a meal or for serving to a large group, which Mrs. Johnson often does as worthy matron of Norman Read Chapter 1010, Order of the Eastern Star. Her husband Norman is worthy patron of the organization.

Mrs. Johnson is a longtime Midlander. She and her husband have two sons and five grandchildren. Jamie, 16, Toby, 9, and Jody, 6, are the children of their son Ron of Midland. Their son Richard, who lives in Donaldsonville, La., has two children, Shawn, 8, and Stacey, 2 1/2.

SQUASH CASSEROLE

- 2 cups cooked squash (drained)
- 3/4 stick oleo
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 2 cups cracker crumbs
- 1 cup shredded cheese

Mash the cooked squash and add oleo, salt and pepper. Beat eggs and add to mixture; then add onion, milk, one cup of cracker crumbs and cheese. Spread the remaining crumbs over the top.

Pour into one quart size casserole dish and bake at 375 degrees F for 40 minutes. Yield 6 servings.

Mother's Day column broke emotional dam

By ERMA BOMBECK

This column has always dealt with survival in one form or another... with some input from readers. Never, in the 16 years of its existence, has there been such a reader response as there was to the column on mothers of handicapped children. An emotional dam broke, bringing in its torrent pain, anger, insight, humor, frustration, relief, criticism, and gratitude. The Mother's Day column only skimmed the surface.

It would behoove all of us to read and to understand what happens when a handicapped child enters the life of a mother, father, brothers, sisters, grandparents and friends.

The anger of the letters from the tasteless comment of a woman who didn't even want to talk about "gross" retarded children and resented the attention being given to them ("It's almost fashionable these days to have one," she said)... to a couple of letters that took exception to the fact that these children ever came from God, as HE only made "perfect children." (Authors' note: If anyone finds one, please report them immediately.)

The legitimate criticism of the column ironically came not from the mothers, but from the social workers and organizations who work with the families.

"Don't patronize them. They have a tough enough time dealing with the very real and sometimes agonizing situations without having to wear halos. Sure, some gain the strength you talked about. But tell about the ones who drown."

"Parents of handicapped children are no more, no less likely to be patient than parents of non-handicapped children. They're madder than hell that their children aren't like everyone else's. Don't add a guilt trip to this."

And finally a plaintive letter from a mother of a severely retarded hyperactive child who spent her days replacing broken TV sets, buying locks and fences to protect her "God-given gift," and feeling like a prisoner in her own home.

"With the guilt of being less than God intended, we placed our retarded daughter in an institution and got on with our lives. Please don't make our decision reached through pain any harder than needs be. Help us teach the world there is no single answer and that we need not try to be saints."

A good 95 percent of the letters were from mothers of handicapped children who knew they weren't saints — or even close — but needed so-badly the appreciation and the encouragement.

"I look in a mirror and see a 30-year-old face with 100-year-old eyes. I have two handicapped children. If I live to be old I will treasure every one of my age wrinkles because I have earned them. My children are special and I love them not because they're special, but because they're my children."

"My daughter has Downs syndrome. She was two years old before she could pat-a-cake. The applause was deafening!"

"Parents of normal children can never experience moments like my son who spent five years playing with a faded plastic bucket and actually asked for a toy for Christmas. I cried for three hours and bought the toy store out!"

"B.J. was my mid-life crisis. I scream a lot. On Mother's Day he handed me a gift and said,

'Happy Father's Day.' I don't see a saint when I look in a mirror, but I'm a better person because of him."

"My daughter was born with asthma, extreme hyperkinesia, moderate retardation, grand mal, petit mal and psych motor seizures. Seven years I have watched this poor soul die millimeter by millimeter. I have railed and ranted and shook my fist at God a thousand times, told Him what scum He was, screamed at Him wondering where this so-called love and mercy He speaks so high of was. I've raged at His giving His son only three hours of suffering before death while mine is going through literally years of it before hers. It's taken me five years for the light to dawn. I know that I am here because there is a need for me to be here."

Mothers of handicapped children have been dealt a bad hand of cards. Each one plays her hand in her own way. Some have a tough time buying the "God never gives you more than you can handle" number. One mother begged for understanding that handicapped children had to be disciplined like everyone else and that a little humor could save a life — her own.

I received snapshots of their children, handmade greeting cards, personal stories from all over the world and a list of diseases and medical terminology that I could not begin to understand... let alone deal with. I received requests to say something about the fathers who were the support systems and several letters paid tribute to other children in the family who also live with the problem. But most of them said simply, "Your column made me feel good and I need to be made to feel good."

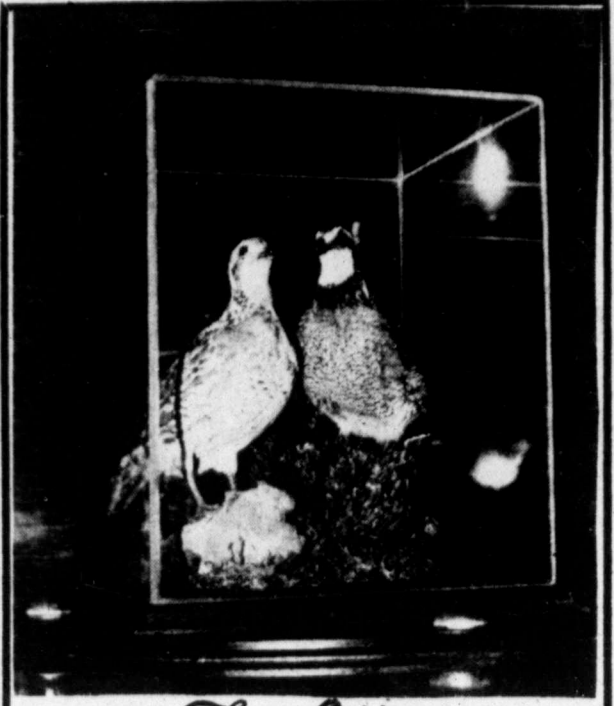

I hope in some way this emotional torrent will carry away in its path some of the ignorance, cruelty and prejudice that surrounds the parents and their children.

In closing I will share with you an anonymous conversation for all of you who still ask, "Why me, God?"

"One night I dreamed I was walking along the beach with the Lord. Scenes from my life flashed across the sky. In each, I noticed footprints in the sand. Sometimes there were two sets of footprints; other times there was only one."

"During the low periods of my life I could see only one set of footprints so I said, 'You promised me, Lord, that you would walk with me always. Why, when I have needed you the most, have you not been there for me?'"

"The Lord replied, 'The times when you have seen only one set of footprints, my child, is when I carried you.'"

HINTS FROM HELOISE

When shoes look worse for wear

HELLO!
Seems like the going thing now is to have some type of running or jogging shoe (suede and cloth combination), and it seems like the more you pay for them, the less you're encouraged to clean them.

When I'd ask dealers if this type of shoe could be machine-washed, they always gave an emphatic No! There's no guarantee that they won't come apart in the wash, as some of the parts are glued.

So, with toothbrush in hand, I made a thin paste of dishwasher detergent and warm water, stuffed the shoe with an old terry towel, and proceeded to scrub down those pathetic clothoppers. Of course, I removed the shoestrings and washed them separately.

The towel absorbed excess water and kept it off the soles of the shoe — my main concern for coming apart, since the soles are glued.

After scrubbing both cloth and suede, I placed another dry towel inside each shoe, then rinsed them with clean water, again using the toothbrush and trying not to literally soak them.

They didn't look too great at first but, once they dried, they were actually white again and ready for another trudge across the pavement.

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:
When I get my new fishing license, I laminate it, then slip it into a plastic medicine bottle.

Properly labeled, the bottle goes into my tackle box.

As you know, a fishing license left in the car is absolutely useless, and a wet license means having to purchase a new one. — Arkansas

DEAR HELOISE:

I've really discovered a nerve-saver!

Men's and boys' socks look pretty much the same inside and out — right? And husbands and kids never seem to take their socks off right side out. Right?

Every washday I dreaded turning a basket full of socks right side out — and who really cared anyway? Then I got smart! I just matched the pairs, wrong side out!

If they happened to notice their socks were inside out, and cared, they turned them, one pair at a time as they put them on.

Besides, it kinda tickles me to see them wearing their socks inside out and not even knowing it. — Ruth

DEAR HELOISE:

I buy eggs fresh from the farm, then boil the older eggs I still have on hand.

So handy for salads, sandwiches or deviled. And much easier to peel, since they aren't as fresh.

I add a little food coloring to the boiling water so they are easily distinguished from the fresh eggs. — Evelyn

Lucky lady! Those farm-fresh eggs are a rare treat to us city folks. But your system would work equally well for those who bring fresh eggs home from the store. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I carry a wooden cane. It was always slipping off the edge of the table or back of a chair where I hung it.

I slid one of those foam rubber toe protectors, available at drugstores, over the handle end of the cane. No more skidding off the restaurant table and clattering to the floor! And no more groans and red face trying to pick it up — unobtrusively, of course! — Grandma Connie

TEXAS GAMMA SIGMA SORORITY

Members of Texas Gamma Sigma presented Essie Mae Hendricks with a going away gift at a fish fry at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Alderman. Ms. Hendricks is moving to Waco.

The organization has had several meetings to outline the upcoming year's activities. Regular meetings for this year will be on the first Monday of each month with four socials planned.

This year's programs will follow the International Phi Sigma Alpha theme, "America the Beautiful."

Special section to be published

As a service to Midland club women, The Reporter-Telegram is planning a special supplement noting the achievements of the Tall City's women's clubs.

Although there are more women's groups in the city than the ones which will be featured in the section, we will include the local clubs which fit the traditional scope of women's clubs—service, social, study, garden and auxiliary groups.

The section, to be called "Women With a Purpose," will not include teen clubs or ad hoc fund-raising groups.

Club presidents are encouraged to submit commercial studio photographs for consideration, with acceptance at the discretion of The Reporter-Telegram. Any president whose photo is on file at the newspaper should notify the Lifestyle Department who will use that picture in the special section.

The Reporter-Telegram staff has set aside specific periods when the presidents of participating clubs may have their photographs made at the newspaper office, 201 E. Illinois Ave.

Those times are from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, through Friday, Aug. 8.

Each club president should make an appointment to have her picture made during one of those times by phoning the Lifestyle Department at 682-5311.

Appointments will be necessary to avoid long waiting time. Special arrangements have been made to make these particular photographs during the days listed above. It will not be possible for the photo staff to handle photos at a later date.

In addition, the president of each club will need to complete a form outlining her club's history, special projects and current officers.

The forms should be picked up and returned no later than time of photographic appointment. Forms are available in Lifestyle Department anytime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"Women With a Purpose" will be published as a tabloid supplement to The Reporter-Telegram's Sunday edition Sept. 21.

Book tells many ways to cook versatile pig

By TOM HOGE
 AP Wine and Food Writer

HAM IN CHABLIS

A definitive book, "Pork," on what is probably the world's most versatile meat, has just been published. In 176 pages it gives a comprehensive run-down on pork in its many roles, and some of the facts were news to me.

As Richard Olney, food and wine specialist who is the book's chief consultant, points out, pork has for centuries been one of the main dietary props of civilization in both the Western world and the Orient.

The pig for a long time provided virtually the only meat for the dinner tables of Europe. And the Chinese have been eating the meat for more than 2,000 years.

One Chinese recipe, believed to be the world's oldest for cooking pork, came out about 500 B.C. It tells how to roast a suckling pig stuffed with dates, enclosed in a jacket of straw and clay and placed in a heated pit. Olney says the Polynesian islanders still roast pork in much the same fashion.

In ancient Greece, there was a lack of sufficient fodder to raise cattle, so pork became the mainstay of the daily diet. Demeter, the Greek goddess of agriculture, was often depicted with a pig as a companion.

The Romans devised ingenious methods of preserving pork by salting and smoking. They were so thorough that a traveler could carry pork from one end of the empire to the other without its spoiling.

Today it is estimated that about 400 million swine are grunting and foraging in barnyards around the world, or roughly one pig for every 10 people.

The book gives instruction on modern methods of curing that not only bring out the flavor but preserve the meat for incredible lengths of time. The Smithfield ham, for instance, is salted, aged and smoked so thoroughly that it keeps without refrigeration for up to two years.

There are 231 recipes, ranging from suckling pig to an English sausage pudding called Toad-in-the-Hole. My favorite is Ham in Chablis.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 8 large slices of cooked, smoked ham, 1/4 inch thick
- 1 1/4 cups chablis wine
- 3 cups thinly sliced fresh mushrooms
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped shallots
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon white port wine

Salt and pepper to taste
 Butter large baking dish and arrange ham slices in it. Cover slices with 1/2 cup chablis. Cover dish with inverted oven-proof plate and put in 300-degree oven long enough to heat ham through. In separate pan combine mushrooms with shallots, garlic and remaining chablis. Bring to boil and add cream. Simmer few minutes till mixture thickens. Add wine from ham dish and reduce sauce again to desired consistency. Season with salt and pepper. Add port. Cover ham with sauce and serve hot. Serves 8 persons. Good with a chilled rose wine or chilled chablis.

Asiatic art added to Boston museum

BOSTON (AP) — The Museum of Fine Arts says it has added to its permanent collection of Asiatic art "a group of rare and important Chinese paintings and calligraphic works spanning the years 1850 to 1950."

Nearly 90 works, acquired by Madame Fan Tchun-pi, a friend and member of the museum, will become a part of the collection.

An exhibition titled "Paintings in China Since the Opium War" includes nearly 60 of the works and is on view through Aug. 17.

Civic club to sponsor drawing

A special drawing will be held by the Ten Eight Civic and Business Club of the Permian Basin at midnight in the Koko Club, 1811 E. Front St. Proceeds from the drawing will go to the club's college scholarship fund.

Donations of $5 will be accepted at the following Midland locations: Ju-Baby's Auto Sales, Disco Sounds Record Shop and Koko Club.

In Odessa, locations are R and R Record Shop, Zodiac Club, C and C Cafe, Leroy's Bar-B-Que and Super Disco.

Prizes include a 1978 Lincoln town car, $400 worth of gasoline or cash or $200 worth of gasoline or cash.

Bride-elect feted

Janet Gieb hosted a brunch for Missie Mitchell and Bill Rogers. The couple will be married at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Luke's Methodist Church.

The miscellaneous shower was held at Midland Country Club.

Mrs. Henry C. Jones and Mrs. Joseph Jones, aunts of the bride, also held a luncheon at Midland Country Club for the bridesmaids and out-of-town guests included in the wedding party.

The families of the Ms. Mitchell and Rogers and out-of-town guests were honored with a poolside fiesta at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wisenbater.

THE BUTCHER

Ringing the bell can mean considerable savings

By MERLE ELLIS

Service with a smile was a standard part of what the butcher provided back in the days before customers became "consumers" and before service became "self-service." In those days, if you wanted a steak cut thicker or thinner than the ones on display you thought nothing of asking that one but cut the way you liked. If the cut of meat called for in a new recipe was not in the case, it was a standard part of the butcher's business to cut it for you, just the way you wanted it — with a smile. Times have changed. These days most meat is sold from "self-service" meat cases. You, as the name

Canning nectarines without sugar

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

For some years a number of cooks have been interested in canning fruit without sugar and have queried me on the subject.

Recently, the number of cooks who want to know about this procedure has greatly increased, due no doubt to one of the latest edicts on good nutrition — cut down on sweets.

This, then, is the time to offer a recipe for canning fresh nectarines in unsweetened pineapple juice, widely available in canned and frozen form.

PINEAPPLE NECTARINES

- 1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon distilled white vinegar
10 pounds firm ripe nectarines (3 or 4 per pound)
4 cups unsweetened pineapple juice (canned or reconstituted frozen)

In a large bowl stir together the salt, vinegar and 8 cups tap water; reserve.

Prepare 4 quart-size home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's directions.

Wash and drain the nectarines; using a wire basket or cheesecloth, dip them in boiling water long enough to loosen skin — 1/2 to 1 minute; dip in cold water; drain.

Cut each nectarine in half, pit and peel; as each is prepared drop it into reserved water-salt-vinegar solution to prevent darkening; rinse and drain. Into a 6- to 8- quart saucepot, turn half the nectarines and all the pineapple juice. Gently heat, covered, until nectarines are hot through — about 5 minutes. Reserving juice, remove nectarines to a large bowl rinsed with hot water to keep fruit warm. Heat remaining nectarines in reserved juice until hot through — another 5 minutes. Pack nectarines into the prepared jars, filling one at a time and leaving 1/2 inch head space. Carefully pour enough hot pineapple juice over nectarines to cover fruit and still leave the 1/2 inch head space. With a flexible spatula remove air bubbles. Wipe the jar rims clean; place the lids on and screw the bands down evenly and firmly. Place jars in canner, process in a boiling water bath for 25 minutes. Makes about 4 quarts.

Note: An ample amount of pineapple juice is called for in order to make sure the nectarines are completely covered when heating through. There will be some leftover juice to use as desired.

In some markets these are called "minute steaks" or "sandwich steaks." They can be almost any cut of meat, but in most cases they are from some part of the round, usually the eye or the bottom round. Both of these cuts are tough, but a couple of passes through the tenderizing machine solves that problem and makes a steak tender enough to pan fry. It will also cost more than the same cut of meat that has not been tenderized.

I have seen "cube steaks" selling for $2.39 in markets where in the same meat case bottom round was selling at $1.79 and full-cut round was going for even less. It would be such a simpler matter, and mean considerable savings, to pick out a package of bottom round steak or a full-cut round, ring the bell and ask the butcher to run it through the tenderizer a couple of times. The butcher may not smile, but I have never encountered one that wouldn't oblige; and if you can save nearly a dollar a pound on "cube steaks," you may find it worth forfeiting the friendly smile. In many markets, you may still find that thrown in free of charge.

Another saving that often is there for the asking is on chuck steaks. With the high cost of beef these days, nearly every market I have ever been in is offering not only T-bones, Porterhouse and club steaks in their display, but also the much less expensive chuck steak. These are 3/4 to 1 inch thick slices from the beef chuck, a cut usually thought of as a pot roast, but which, with a little tender loving care — and perhaps a bit of meat tenderizer — makes a pretty good steak.

In any market where you find steaks in the steak section of the meat case, you will also find chuck pot roast in the roast section, cut twice as thick and usually selling for considerably less per pound. If you're willing to run the risk of a "dirty look" to save a dollar, ring the bell and ask the butcher to split a chuck roast into two steaks for you.

Most markets are willing to provide a little old-fashioned service for any customer willing to ask for it, so don't hesitate. Ring the bell when you want something that isn't in the meat case.

You can save some money and, as an added bonus, you may get to know the butcher. In no time at all, you might even be getting service with a smile.

One of the things in home decor that young people take to enthusiastically, but their older brothers and sisters (or parents) resist, is the lively mixing of patterns. The trend is a sharp break from one of the older "rules" that you shouldn't have a room too "busy" with color and pattern. Today's emphasis is often quite different. Ours is a more visual age (partly because of television) and the eye is able to take in much more without confusion. A variety of color and pattern in the same room is entertaining to the eye trained by quick changes on color TV. You will find appealing rooms today that show a colorful floral pattern on a sofa, with various cushions scattered here and there with different patterns. Draperies or wall hangings may add other patterns, floors or throw rugs still more. And the effect can be harmonious and pleasing (though the grandparents may still shudder a little). Color and pattern make a lively show in many of our line upholstered pieces, sofas, love-seats and chairs, to be mixed or matched as you please. Come in... where new ideas in home interiors go hand-in-hand with such old virtues as quality, craftsmanship and service.

Lines from life's dead letter office

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Life's last lines and death's coldly chiseled first ones have always intrigued me.

My fascination with such grave concerns probably dates back to Boy Scout camp, when around a campfire one moonless night our counselor chilled our very marrow with a ghostly tale of man encountering a stone cutter on a steaming August day in a weed-grown country cemetery.

He is shocked to see the workman is carving his name on a tombstone, and the date, of course, is that very day.

James Cagney's exit lines in his classic gangster movies — "Top of the world, Ma" — further whetted my appetite for eschatology, which is the study of final matters.

If all the world's a stage, as Shakespeare tells us, people who leave it with a memorable curtain speech, like Marc Antony, steal life's show away from death at the climactic moment. Antony's farewell lines to Cleopatra are more moving than anything in his funeral oration for the stabbed Caesar.

"I am dying, Egypt, dying: only I here importune death awhile, until of many thousand kisses the poor last I lay upon thy lips."

O'HENRY'S REAL life, or what was left of it, last words are as haunting as any of the fictional passages in his short stories: "Turn up the lights; I don't want to go home in the dark."

Dying, Henry James is reported to have said, "So there it is at last — the distinguished thing." If he didn't, a ghost writer was writing some fine ghostly stuff for him.

Captured while leading the 7th Crusade, St. Louis, king of France, died in Tunis murmuring his goal, "Jerusalem, Jerusalem."

Shot by his own men by mistake at Chancellorsville, Stonewall Jackson uttered a memorable last line for Ernest Hemingway to rip off later as a book title:

"LET US CROSS the river and rest in the shade of the trees."

Some authorities end his death sentence at the word "shade," leaving out the trees, but there are always kill-joy rewrite men even in the realm of deathly prose.

Strangely, Gen. George Meade, who commanded the Union forces at Gettysburg, uttered almost similar words at his death, as if perceiving Paradise: "I am crossing a beautiful wide river, and the opposite shore is coming nearer and nearer."

Journalist Henry Stanley, famous for his African conversation opener, "Dr. Livingston, I presume," ended life's last adventure with: "How strange! So that is time."

Arizona archer Todd Kluth expert hunter in real life

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — With his curly hair, his beard and his piercing gaze, Mesa's Todd Kluth could be an Elizabethan bowman.

Elizabethan he's not, of course, but bowman he is — and has been since he entered his teens.

Kluth is considered one of Arizona's premier bow hunters.

"My first big animal I shot with a bow was an Arizona whitetail buck in the remote wilderness area," the 28-year-old archer recalls. "I'll never forget that. It was one of the most exciting moments I've ever had in my entire hunting career."

That career, which began while he was still a youth in Illinois, has taken him through much of New Mexico, Utah and Catalina Island as well as Arizona.

Being "basically right-handed," he started with a right-handed bow. "When I got familiar with the technicalities of hunting, though, I learned that I should be shooting left-handed," he says. "So I had to stop and start all over again."

"I guess people figure since I have actually hunted just about every animal you can in Arizona, I'm an expert," he adds. "I haven't taken every one of them, though. And none of the animals I've shot has ever made the record books."

Kluth is also accustomed to shooting down complaints from those who think his hobby is inhumane and barbaric.

Managing a hunting store in Phoenix for about five years, he says, "I came in contact with a lot of people who didn't like the idea of bow hunting or hunting at all."

"But I just started talking to them about hunting, and now I see an increasing number of people starting," he says.

"You see most of them have the wrong information about the sport. They don't realize what's involved with the sport itself."

TOMBSTONE, ARIZ., fittingly is purported to possess a gem of an epitaph on the tombstone of a slain Wells Fargo agent:

Here lies
Lester Moore
Four slugs
From a .44
No les
No More.

In the same vein, William Makepeace Thackeray quotes an epitaph to Frederick, Prince of Wales, father of King George III:

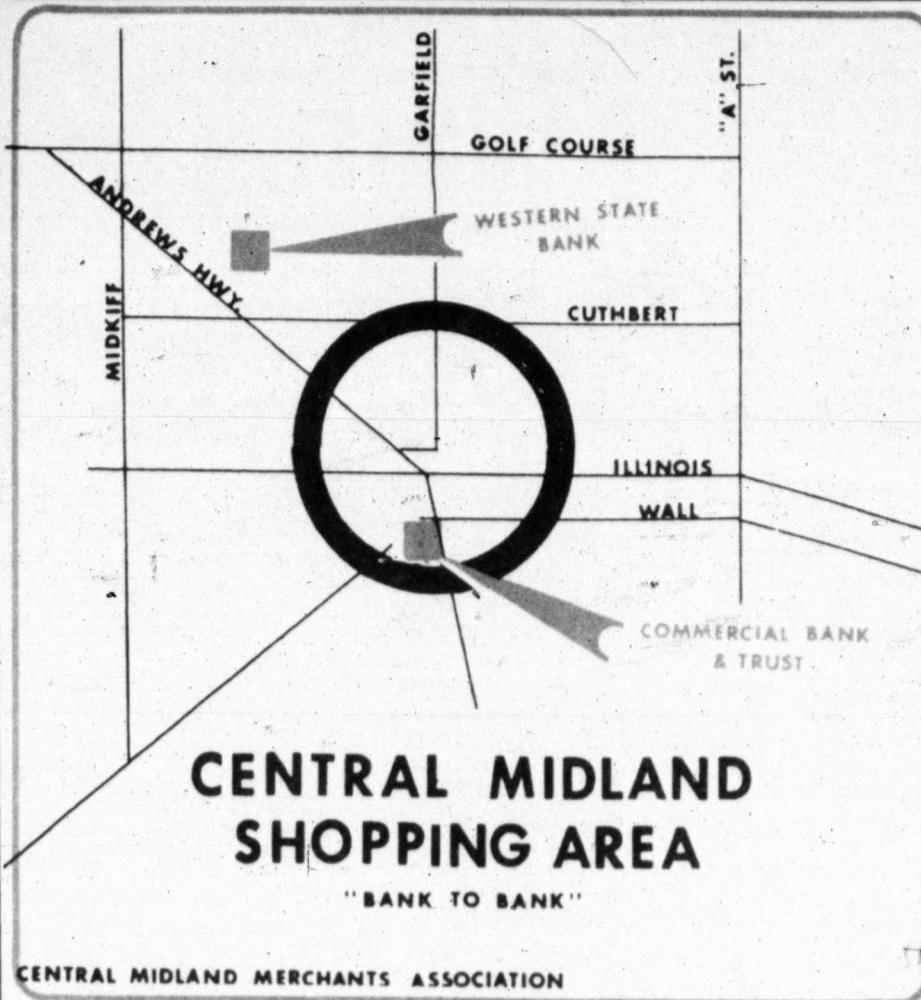

Here lies Fred,
Who was alive and is dead.
Had it been his father,
I had much rather,
Had it been his brother,
Still better than another,
Had it been his sister,
No one would have missed her.
Had it been the whole generation,
Still better for the nation.
But since 'tis only Fred,
Who was alive, and is dead
There's no more to be said."

THE EPITAPH I remember best is written over the charnel house at St. Katherine's monastery on the slopes of Mount Sinai, where hundreds of skulls and skeletons of monks and abbots from bygone centuries are displayed on shelves for the living to view and contemplate.

It is from the Bible, Chapter 12 in the book of Ecclesiastes, Verse 8:

"Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher: all is vanity."

RINGING THE BELL

With BOB TIEUEL

A bellringer writes: There are many excuses for racism in our time — most of the people cover up their own prejudices by the excuse of not "being around" a particular group — whether they be different because of race, religion or creed. There are a few who because of integration have come to know that mankind, no matter what race or belief he or she may be, use the potentiality for both good and evil.

who choose to be aloof and hidden in their feelings. And then, bordering from this stance to the extremity of fear itself, is the Klan, which really has no power whatsoever. It is an insecure regiment of the past, bonded to keep others down because it is afraid of what might happen if its intelligence were challenged. "It is a sad recompense for America today which is supposed to be the 'land of the free' when we still harbor groups who, so fearful, would rather demolish anyone who is not of their origin. It was in one spirit that all of us, whether Jew or Greek, slave of free, were baptized into one body. Herein is the power, and it is a power far greater than any dissident group who chooses to destroy, rather than build up, any member of Christ's body." — Sister Veronica Higgins, CST.

RECENT great quotes: "We must live in the noble spirit of the great men who have passed on. Our fathers have died. We must do more than die — we must live. We must live in the most exciting period of American history, with conviction that love and faith will win. We must live in hope of brighter days. We must live to cooperate — knowing that man cannot live by bread alone." — The late Joseph Johnson of C.M.E. Church.

DEAR BOB: We are once again enclosing copy of your biographical information as appeared in the second edition of "Who's Who Among Black Americans." We are currently revising all appropriate data for publication in the third edition of Who's Who, scheduled for compilation in February 1981. O'Neill says Birchers control Republican Party

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. predicted Wednesday that Democrats won't lose control of Congress in the November elections because "the John Birchers are in control of the Republican Party."

O'Neill's reference to the ultraright-wing John Birch Society drew immediate fire from two congressional Republicans he singled out by name. They called it an irresponsible attack.

O'Neill told a news conference that "Birchers" are apparent among Republican leaders on the floor. He singled out Reps. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., and John H. Rousselot, R-Calif., as examples.

Bauman said: "I'm not a member of the John Birch Society and never have been. I've been critical of it for quite some time. I think this shows the speaker has lost touch."

"It's a measure of the speaker's desperation," Bauman said. "It's totally irresponsible. He'll have a hard time winning as even minority leader if he keeps talking like that."

The subject came up when O'Neill was asked by reporters if he was afraid the Republicans might gain control of the House in November and elect a Republican speaker.

O'Neill acknowledged "this is a hard year" and that Democrats probably would lose between 15 and 18 seats to Republicans. The Democrats now hold a 275-159 majority with one vacancy in the 435-member House.

"Do I think we're going to lose the House? I say no. The obvious reason is that the John Birchers are now in control of the Republican Party," O'Neill said.

Asked how he described "John Birchers," O'Neill replied, "Those without concern for the other person ... extremely greedy ... with concern only for themselves."

Folk Life Festival Sopapillas

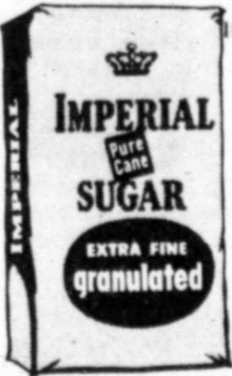

These delicate puffs may be used as a bread or served with honey as a dessert.

- 1 cup all-purpose flour, sifted
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 tablespoon Imperial Granulated Sugar
1/2 tablespoon shortening
5 tablespoons milk
Oil for frying

Sift flour with salt, baking powder and Imperial Granulated Sugar. Cut in shortening and add milk to make a dough just firm enough to roll. Cover bowl and let dough stand 30 to 60 minutes. Roll dough 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured board (cut in diamond shapes). Heat 1 inch of oil to 375°F. (electric skillet works best). Add a few pieces at a time, turning at once so they will puff evenly, then turn again to brown on both sides. Drain on paper towels and keep hot in warm oven. Serve with butter and honey thinned with a little water. Makes about one dozen.

The same system that big business uses to save millions on its long distance bills is now available in your home.

30% to 60% off on your long distance calls.

LONG DISTANCE CALLS	MINUTES	BELL	MCI
Terminal to Boston	17	$4.30	$2.42
Odessa to Dallas	40	10.80	4.40
Midland to Denver	15	3.62	1.89
Odessa to Houston	21	5.67	2.31
Terminal to Minneapolis	19	4.80	2.57
Odessa to New York City	25	6.28	3.52
Midland to San Antonio	60	16.20	6.60
Midland to San Francisco	2	.60	.27
Odessa to Washington, D.C.	10	2.58	1.39

Rates show comparative pricing between Bell's evening rate and MCI's evening/weekend rate. Final rates and surcharges on all tariffed services are MCI Tariff FCC 1 and AT&T Tariff 263 for interstate rates, and MCI's and Southern Bell's current schedule of charges for calls within Texas.

Nothing to install. All you need is a push-button phone and a desire to cut your long distance bills.

The way it works: You just have to punch a few extra numbers on your push-button phone.

Everything else is the same. Except for the fact that you save a lot of money.

If you don't already have a push-button phone, your local phone company can put one in for a small monthly charge. (A cost that can be more than made up the first time you place a long distance call on MCI.)

Special events like free calls all day on Christmas and Mother's Day. On top of the large savings, last year MCI gave its customers long distance calls absolutely free on Christmas. This year, we gave free calls on Mother's Day. This year, subject to FCC approval, we'll be doing it again on Christmas.

What's the catch?

A logical question. The truth is, there isn't any catch. The Federal Communications Commission licenses MCI's system and allows us to compete with Bell for long distance telephone calls.

Each month, there is a $10 fee. It's similar to Bell's monthly service charge, except ours allows you to get big savings on your long distance calls.

You can make your calls on MCI anytime. Week-days, savings average 30%. Evenings, savings average 50%. And on Sunday evenings, MCI also saves you 50% over Bell's highly publicized rate cut.

Who should use MCI?

Look over your last few months' long distance bills. If they're running $25 or more, you can greatly benefit from the savings MCI gives you.

If you're only a light user, you probably would not be interested.

MCI, the nation's long distance phone company. Any questions?

Barry Blackwell of Midland's MWL Tool & Supply Cowboys, scores one of 10 runs Wednesday in the finals of the District Hi-Junior Baseball Tournament at Simon Field. Blackwell had a single and triple as the Cowboys took an easy 10-1 victory over the Monahans Lions. The victory assures the Tall City team a berth in the state tourney in Denton starting Tuesday. (Staff Photo by Brian Hender-shot).

Cowboys win Hi-Junior crown MWL Tool goes to state tourney

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

The MWL Tool & Supply Cowboys of Midland stormed to an easy 10-1 victory over the Monahans Lions Wednesday night in the finals of the Texas Teen-Age Hi-Junior District Baseball Tournament at Simon Field.

Righthander Jay Motter scattered seven hits to pick up the victory which enables the Tall City outfit a spot in the State Hi-Junior Tournament which starts in Denton on Tuesday.

While Motter was setting the Lions down, his teammates were pounding out 12 base hits including doubles by Bart Bryan, Scott Page and Chris Parker along with a triple by Barry Blackwell. The only run Motter gave up came in the first inning and that one was unearned.

The Cowboys scored all the runs they needed in the first inning off starter Tommy Aguirre by scoring twice. Blackwell started things off with a base hit and scored on Parker's double. Parker also scored when shortstop Randy Pepper singled for a 2-0 lead.

Monahans scored its lone run off Motter in the bottom of the first when outfielder Troy Scurlock tripled into right-center and scored on an error by Pepper.

One more run crossed the plate for the Cowboys in the top of the second inning when after one was out, Page doubled and scored on Ryan's two-bagger.

With a 3-1 lead, the Cowboys went to work on Aguirre with a six-run outburst which was highlighted by base hits off the bats of Joe Williamson, Page and Tim Davis. One walk, a passed ball and error also kept the rally going for Phil and Jeff Ryan's team.

Jessie McGuire, who had thrown a three-hitter at El Paso Products of Odessa on Tuesday along with a 12-strikeout performance, came in to face the Cowboys in the fourth and gave up just one run and two hits the rest of the way. That run off the lefthander came in the top of the fifth when Ryan singled and scored on Blackwell's three-bagger.

O'Berry big hero in Midland win

BY TED BATTLES

Baseball decisions are traditionally the domain of the pitchers. He either gets the win or loss, but Midland's 11-10 win over Jackson at Cubs Stadium Wednesday night presented a good argument for junking tradition...occasionally.

If ever a victory belonged to a catcher, Wednesday's belonged to Cubs' catcher Mike O'Berry.

Sure, Big Foot stole home with the winning run, but that was the least of his accomplishments. He twice nailed runners trying for third on attempted sacrifices and his plate blocking play for the final out aborted an attempt to score the tying run from second base on an infield out.

Convinced? No? Well, his sharp eyes spotted a hole in the top of Bill Haslerig's bat after he swatted a two-run homer over the center field fence in the first inning. He pointed it out to plate umpire Jim Johnston, who ruled the bat "illegal," nullified the Homer and ejected Haslerig from the game. Mets' Manager Bob Wellman, naturally, protested but Johnston intimidated the manager of the Mississippi team was just whistling Dixie.

THE WIN wound up a 12-game home stand for the Cubs and narrowed Jackson's winning edge in the series to 4-3. Today is an off day before the Cubs open a five-game series Friday in San Antonio against the Dodgers, who won the first half West Division Texas League race, but are currently wallowing in last place in the second half.

Next Wednesday the first place Cubs return home for a five-game series against their persistent pursuers, the Amarillo Gold Sox, who are just a game back as the league resumes intra-divisional combat.

With Jon Perlman, 10-6, starting for the Cubs and Brent Gaff, 8-8, winner of his last six in a row, going for the Mets, it figured to be a fast well-pitched game. It was neither fast nor well-pitched and after three hours and 44 minutes, the teams looked like a couple of NFL teams who had just scrimmaged...without pads.

The Mets lost catcher Stan Hough, victim of a destructive foul tip off the bat of Scott Fletcher, in the second inning. Replacement Jerry Lane later hurt his hand as a result of a foul, but stayed in the game.

AFTER starter Perlman was forced to retire at the start of the sixth by a stiff elbow, O'Berry was shaken up in a stand up collision at home plate in the sixth, but held the ball for the out. Moments later, Manager Randy Hundley decided to enjoy the luxury of an able-bodied and rested pitcher when he brought in Norm Churchill, who had just reported from Wichita, to relieve Randy Clark in the sixth. Lane lined a blue darter, as Diz would say, off Churchill's ankle. Norm started to run after the ball but wound up crawling after it.

As first aid was administered to Churchill, later forced to limp off, on the field, coach Bill Evers was hit in the leg by a pitch as Herman Segelke warmed up in the bullpen.

Then in the seventh, second baseman Scott Fletcher hobbled away from plate collision with catcher Lane as he tried unsuccessfully to score from second on Gary Krug's third hit of the night.

ON THE controversial bat, Johnston ruled the bat used by Haslerig was homemade. "Wellman protested on two counts," Johnston explained after the game. "First, in order to claim a bat is illegal, it must be made before he bats. He's wrong on that. Second, Wellman claimed it was not an illegal bat. It was just a cupped bat. It is not cupped." Johnston said displaying the drilled hole in the top. "You can look at it and tell it was not done at the factory and even if it had been, it would be illegal."

In any case, Haslerig has been having a lot of fun. He had hit seven homers on his current road trip and 10 in his last 24 games.

O'Berry, from Helena, Ala., who stands at attention with hat over heart when organist Jack Tweeling plays Dixie, bailed Midland's fourth pitcher Bob Blyth out of dire difficulties in the ninth after Ed Cuervo singled to left and Mike Howard dropped a pop up single to short right to put runners on first and second with none out in the ninth.

Lane dropped a bunt in front of the plate, but O'Berry pounced on it and fired to J.W. Mitchell at third for the force out. Then when Perry rapped to short, Dave Owen shuttled the ball to Fletcher for the force, but the throw to first pulled Joe Hicks off the bag. In the confusion, Howard stormed to the plate.

Howard's slide had the throw beat, but O'Berry forced the runner to slide outside the plate and he missed it going by. It was just enough of a delay for Mike to make the catch and plant the game saving tag on Howard.

The stolen base came in the seventh after Midland blew an early 10-4 lead and found itself in a 10-10 tie and on the verge of blowing another one. O'Berry and Fletcher were on first and third with two out when Fletcher's dash to second drew the throw, late, as O'Berry exploited the failure to trot home with what proved to be the decisive run, thanks to his defensive heroics.

Houston's Richard has neck surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard was listed in good condition early today after emergency surgery to remove a blood clot from his neck.

Richard, whose fast ball is among the fastest in the major leagues, collapsed during a workout Wednesday at the Astrodome and was rushed to Houston's Methodist Hospital.

"Richard was found to have a blocked artery in his neck. The surgery was successfully accomplished to remove the blockage and he was moved to the intensive care unit," a hospital spokesman said late Wednesday night.

The operation could have been a "life or death situation" for the Astros' million dollar pitcher, said a hospital spokesman who asked not to be identified.

Dr. George Noon and Dr. Charles McCollum III finished operating about 11 p.m., CDT, Wednesday. Neither could be reached for comment after the operation.

The clot formed behind the right collarbone in the subclavian artery, the main artery for circulation to the upper arms.

Richard had complained several weeks ago of fatigue in his right arm and was hospitalized last week while a team of physicians ran tests to identify the problem.

Dr. Harold Brelford, the team physician, said recently that doctors diagnosed the ailment as a blockage of an artery in his right shoulder area. But he said the All-Star pitcher would "be able to resume throwing as tolerated."

Richard was throwing to former Astro catcher Wilbur Howard when he collapsed Wednesday. Richard never lost consciousness, a team official said.

Tal Smith, president and general manager of the Astros, was contacted in Philadelphia, where the Astros played the Phillies Wednesday. He said hospital officials told him Richard was "awake, alert and cooperative" before the operation began.

Family members, including Richard's wife Carmyn, huddled during the surgery with Dr. Michael J. Feltoch, one of a team of doctors who examined Richard last week.

Richard, 30, was placed on the 21-day disabled list on July 16, just eight days after he pitched the first two innings for the National League in the All-Star game in Los Angeles.

Before going to Los Angeles, Richard had complained of various problems affecting his right arm.

Brelford said last Saturday that the circulatory impairment doctors discovered in the pitcher's shoulder could have accounted for Richard's arm fatigue and his inability in recent weeks to pitch for any length of time.

Richard has a 10-4 record and a 1.89 earned run average this season with 119 strikeouts, but he had left early in 10 of his 17 starts with various ailments.

Nattress signs hockey contract

MONTREAL (AP) — Ric Nattress, the second choice of the Montreal Canadiens in the entry draft last June, has signed a multi-year contract, the National Hockey League club announced Wednesday.

The 18-year-old Nattress had three goals and 21 assists in his rookie season as a defenseman with the Brantford Alexanders of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Pole vault record broken in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Wladyslaw Kozakiewicz of Poland overcame the distractions of unruly Soviet fans in the stands to break the world record in the pole vault and almost become history's first 19-foot vertical jumper.

Kozakiewicz soared 18 feet, 11½ inches Wednesday to elevate the world mark of France's Philippe Houvion by one-quarter of an inch. Then, with the rest of the field eliminated, he took off after pole vaulting's latest psychological barrier — 19 feet.

He lost badly to the bar on his first try at 19-1¼, then vaulted over the bar, only to graze it with his arm coming down. On the third try, he brushed the bar on the way up.

The 26-year-old Pole, whose sore ankle kept him from training until a month ago, admitted the hometown crowd's attempts to unnerve any non-Soviet vaulter had affected the tense competition, in which the first six finishers all smashed the Olympic record of 18-0½.

"I tried not to pay attention, but it hampered everybody's performances," Kozakiewicz said of the Soviet fans' tactics of whistling, screaming and coughing while any vaulter, except their own Konstantin Volkov, was on the runway.

"I have trained myself to concentrate in such a way that I have no idea what the other athletes are doing, or what is happening in the stadium. But the whistling hampered us. We all wanted to win, but not at any price."

Helping the Soviet judges measure the vaults was Adriaan Paulen of the Netherlands, one of the international track officials who came down to the track for the first time Wednesday to oversee the competition. Their appearance was prompted by charges of irregularities leveled against the all-Soviet judges who had been measuring and marking the athletes' heights and distances.

The "Red Jackets," so-labeled for the color of their windbreakers, were officials of the International Track and Field Federation (IAAF). They overruled their president, Paulen, and voted to come down on the field to look over the Soviets' shoulders and serve as an on-site appeals board.

IAAF sources, including Francis Amadeo, the executive board member from Puerto Rico, said there had been widespread criticism of the work of Soviet judging teams, particularly in the javelin, discus and triple jump — events all won by Soviets.

Paulen had lobbied for keeping the "Red Jackets" at the request of the Russian Olympic officials who were concerned about humiliating the Soviets judges, but he was voted down Tuesday by a near-unanimous executive board vote.

"Finally, we were fed up and we told him about it," Amadeo said.

Competitors in several other Olympic competitions have lodged various complaints about the officiating, which is not unusual for major international meets. Except for track and field, the judging here has been done by international panels.

After he won the gold medal over co-silver medalists, Volkov and defending Olympic champion Tadeusz Slusarski of Poland, Kozakiewicz made an obscene gesture directed at the crowd, slapping the palm of one hand over the raised forearm of the other.

The Soviet fans' behavior at other venues was also noteworthy.

—While the twice-beaten Soviet basketball team was playing for the bronze medal, a relatively small crowd hooted and whistled (the European form of booing) at its team, which had been favored to take the gold in the absence of the boycotting Americans.

The Soviet basketball team was also jeered by a crowd of about 10,000 at the medals ceremony, in which the Soviets picked up the bronze for trouncing Spain 117-94 and Yugoslavia via won the gold for beating second-place Italy 86-77.

—Vasily Alexeev, the gold medal weightlifter from the Montreal Olympics and, for years, one of the Soviets' most treasured athletes, lost his super heavyweight crown to teammate Sultan Rakhmanov.

After failing the third time to lift 395 pounds, Alexeev, the world record holder, left the podium with a stunned crowd totally silent. He later asked team officials to announce his retirement.

The Soviet athletes, however, have shown their competitive class, adding to their record-breaking total of gold medals and overall medals in a single Olympics. With only three full days of competition left in the Games, the Soviet Union had 61 golds and 150 total medals. East Germany had 37 golds and 99 medals in all.

Viktor Markin of the Soviet Union won the men's 400-meter dash in 44.60 — this year's fastest time — and dethroned Cuba's Alberto Juantorena, double gold medalist in the 400 and 800 at Montreal. Juantorena had not raced all year, until the Olympics, because of an Achilles heel operation. He finished fourth.

Vladimir Kiselyov of the Soviet Union won the men's shot put with a toss of 70 feet, one-half inch, an Olympic record.

Fleckenstein first double winner

KINGSTON, Ontario (AP) — Steve Fleckenstein of Saint John, New Brunswick, became the first double-race winner Wednesday at the third day of racing at the world laser championships.

Fleckenstein, 20, won for the second day in a row and is in fourth place among sailors who have completed three races.

Fleckenstein has 15.50 penalty points in the Olympic low-scoring standings.

Ed Baird of St. Petersburg, Fla., leads the unofficial standings with seven points. Baird, who hasn't won a race, has never finished lower than third.

Baird leads Walter Rothlauf of Munich, West Germany, by 75 points and has a seven-point bulge over Fleckenstein, Peter Meo of New Zealand and Craig Helly of Point Richmond, Calif.

Sailors will resume preliminary competition Friday. After six preliminary races, the top 120 racers will advance into a four-day final round Aug. 6-9.

Zachry baffles Atlanta Braves with shutout

By The Associated Press Last year, Pat Zachry's right elbow was shot. Last month, so was John Fulgham's right shoulder. On Wednesday they were shooting blanks. Zachry, completely healed from surgery last August, tossed his second successive shutout, baffling Atlanta on four hits as the New York Mets blanked the Braves 3-0.

And Fulgham, who spent some time in the minors last June and altered his pitching motion to adjust for a sore shoulder, stiffed San Francisco on five hits as the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Giants 4-0. Elsewhere Wednesday in the National League, Los Angeles silenced Pittsburgh 3-0 on Jerry Reuss's four-hit, Philadelphia beat Houston 6-4, Montreal edged Cincinnati 2-1 and San Diego dined Chicago 5-2.

Phillies 6, Astros 4 Rookie Keith Moreland knew exactly what to look for from Houston fireballer Nolan Ryan. And he got it. "In that situation, with the bases loaded, he doesn't want to walk me," Moreland said, "so I've got to look for the ball over the plate."

Cardinals 4, Giants 0 "I just wish we'd had him all season," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said of Fulgham. Then he thought for a moment and added, "but if we did, I guess I might not be here now."

Oakland downs Toronto on Langford's two-hitter The 10th game of the Twins triumph behind Jerry Koosman's three-hit pitching, Ken Landreaux singled with two out and Castino's smash hopped over first baseman Bob Watson's glove and down the right field line as Landreaux scored all the way from first base. Koosman did not allow a hit over the last seven innings.

White Sox 6, Brewers 5 Rookie Randy Johnson's pinch sacrifice fly following Wayne Nordhagen's run-scoring double capped a two-run Chicago rally in the eighth inning. The Brewers had taken a 5-4 lead in the top of the eighth on Ben Ogilvie's 26th home run. Milwaukee scored three times in the sixth for a 4-1 lead but Chicago came right back in the bottom of the inning on Jim Morrison's three-run homer.

Angels 6, Tigers 5 Pinch hitter Larry Harlow laced a double to snap a 3-3 tie in a four-run eighth-inning rally and Don Baylor contributed a two-run homer for the deciding runs. Fred Patek started the comeback with a triple and pinch-hitter Rod Carew singled to tie the score 3-3 before the key hits by Harlow and Baylor.

Indians 5, Mariners 2 Ross Grimsley scattered five hits and retired the last 15 batters in his first AL complete game in almost three years and Rick Manning doubled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as Cleveland won its eighth game in a row.

KENNY REDIN'S Fin & Feather logo with a bird illustration.

White-tailed deer are dying in significant numbers in portions of five South Texas counties as an unrelenting drought and heat wave continue to tear Texas. Deer loss reports in Dimmit, Kinney, LaSalle, Maverick and Zavala counties are concerning landowners and game biologists to the point of wondering just exactly what to do.

Deer, however, are not the only wildlife species hurt by the drought. "Normally during July we see plenty of quail with chicks," said Cooke. "This month the birds already have gathered into coveys, and we're not seeing many quail yet."

BOWLING BEAT

Graham rolls 300

By RANDY ISENBERG

Ross Graham, a Midlander who has been scorching the lanes, cranked out a 300 game last Tuesday in the Peterson Classic League. It was the fourth perfect in Midland since Sonny Poole turned the trick in May 1979.

Graham's 300 also was part of a 722 series and 903 four-game set.

Just one night ago, Charlie Ley recorded a 1,043 four-game set (237-278-269). Roy Barrett stroked a 280 and Clint Benefield notched a 279.

Midland teams made a solid showing in final standings released by Texas State Bowling Association from its annual tournament. Tames Welding finished a mere 11 pins out of first place and West Texas Reproduction was third in Class C.

At the Bowler's Journal tournament, held in Louisville in conjunction with the ABC championships, area bowlers did a fine job. Stan Greene of Ft. Stockton and a member of Air Park Scratch League, placed 116th in the 189-under division of the singles event. Odessans Ken Hostetter and Joe Tidwell, members of Midland Bowling Association leagues, placed 107th in the doubles. Benefield and Lacy teamed for 256th, Dick Baker

Shreveport downs El Paso 4-1 in Texas League action

A home run that wasn't really a home run helped the Midland Cubs take an 11-10 Texas League baseball victory over the Jackson Mets Wednesday night.

In other Texas League action, Shreveport beat El Paso, 4-1, Tulsa defeated Amarillo, 10-7, and San Antonio beat Arkansas 8-4.

Jerry Rowson's two-run double in the seventh inning powered the Shreveport Captains to a 4-1 victory over the El Paso Diablos.

Pat Alexander, 2-1, allowed the hard-hitting Diablos only 6 hits and Phil Henichs got the save. Lonnie Dugger, 0-6, was the losing Diablos hurler.

El Paso's only run came in the ninth on 2 singles, a walk and a sacrifice fly.

Mike Zouras had a grand slam homer to lead the San Antonio Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Arkansas Travelers.

Ubaldo Heredia, 8-3, got the pitching victory. Bill Thomas, 2-3, was tagged for the loss.

Mel Barrow drove in 4 runs with two homers, and Bobby Johnson had a two-run homer as the Tulsa Drillers beat the Amarillo Gold Sox, 10-7.

Curt Reed had a homer for Amarillo.

Tony Hudson, 3-2, was the winning Tulsa hurler. The loss went to Mark Thurmond, 6-8.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The 1980 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II football championship game will be held Dec. 13 at the University of New Mexico, NCAA spokesman Dennis Pope said Wednesday.

Parsons top contender today for Talladega pole position

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., could be a top contender for the Talladega 500 pole position today following a practice run Wednesday of 196.766 mph in his Oldsmobile around the Alabama International Motor Speedway here.

This major stop on NAS-CAR's circuit has $249,000 in prize money up for grabs Sunday.

Buddy Baker, the winner of the Winston 500 here in May, is also a top contender after a practice run in his Olds that was just a tick of the stopwatch behind Parsons.

The all-time Talladega 500 qualifying speed is 199.466 mph set by Charlie Glotzbach at the first race 11 years ago. Eleven different drivers have won the race over the 2.66-mile trioval, pegged as the world's fastest speedway.

The overall track record for qualifying is just a shade faster set by the late Bobby Isaac during time trials for the 1970 Winston 500, 199.658 mph.

"My crew told me if I turned a 48.9 (seconds), we could take the rest of the day off," said Parsons, who hinted things might get even faster today. "I ran a 48.6, which translates to more than 196 1/2 miles an hour, and we covered it (the car) up. I'd really like to win the pole, but I know Buddy (Baker) will be strong."

Baker was being very, noncommittal about his chances and rightfully so. "I was the fastest car here earlier this year when we practiced the first day," said Baker, "and you remember what happened."

Baker lost the pole to David Pearson but won the race.

"I don't want to say too much about qualifying except I'd like to win the pole. Of course I wouldn't mind things turning out the same way they did in May," Baker said.

Defending Talladega 500 champ Darrell Waltrip was another driver to post an impressive practice run Wednesday, as did Cale Yarborough, Tighe Scott and Terry Labonte.

Performers pair up for first time

By GEORGIA TEMPLE
Staff Writer

Both performers are well-known to country and western music fans in the Midland area.

Pepper Martin has been performing here for over a decade, spending much of that time at the Midland and Odessa Stardusts. For more than nine years, Lyn Childress has been singing and playing in a variety of area clubs.

"They have never performed together until now. It's unusual for performers to stay in one area for a long period of time," Pepper said, explaining, "Musicians are kind of like gypsies, they come and they go."

But these two came and stayed. "I arrived in this area with a six-month-old baby, $75 and a '61 Chevy," explained Lyn. "I went to Midland College for one semester and worked at the Dixie Quick Stop. At the end of the semester I was working at the Granada."

Lyn, who has been singing gospel music with her family since childhood, had reached a time in her life when she said she felt she needed to be independent. Her choice of Midland was, in her words, "a lucky thing."

"I got out a map, closed my eyes and my finger landed on Midland and that's where I headed. I've been here nine-and-one-half years and I've never had to have help finding a job. Midland-Odessa's been awfully good to me."

Pepper, who is originally from Abilene, came back to Midland and Odessa when he got out of the service in 1968.

"I've got a pretty good deal here. This area's been good to me. I'm not having to get out and travel around."

He and Lyn both write songs. Although Pepper recorded several songs in Nashville last year, he said, "Nothing has really developed out of it. It's hard to get on a major label."

The record business involves a lot of politics, Pepper said. He got tired of the problems, just as he had become tired of being on the road earlier in his career.

clubs for years, this is the first time they have teamed up. The Stardust opens nightly, except Mondays, at 8 p.m. (Staff Photo by Edward McCain)

"How can you measure success? Success is happiness and being content. To me, that's success."

Lyn said she would "like to put all my songs on an album just for me and my friends. I'm not into being a star. I'm really happy with the way I am right now."

"The grass always looks greener. It's not, but it looks that way."

"I'm learning all the time because I'm with some good musicians. It's more fulfilling than working alone."

"When I was working by myself or with one other, it was a lot of work and pressure. Now that I'm with a band, it's more fun and a lot of enjoyment. I'm freer to experiment because I'm not carrying the whole load with my music and also with my voice."

As far as Pepper is concerned, "I'm as happy with this group as any I've ever had."

The main problem a house band has is performing almost every night, often times to virtually the same audience. Such is the case for Pepper and Lyn, who are currently on stage at the Midland Stardust.

"It's hard playing every night like we do. You can't go 95 miles an hour on every song and play five sets. That's why I'm slipping on this brandy right now."

Burns goes country?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian George Burns will join country stars Loretta Lynn and Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers in his first country music special. The country-variety show, called "George Burns in Nashville?" will be taped in September at the Grand Ole Opry and telecast on NBC next year. It will feature songs from Burns' new album, "I Wish I Was 18 Again."

A band, by any other name...

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — In the good old days, musical groups usually had simple names. The Benny Goodman Orchestra, The Count Basie Orchestra, The Orrin Tucker Orchestra. Stuff like that.

Not now, according to the who's-playing ads in the Village Voice, the local weekly that chronicles events in Greenwich Village, the city, the state, the nation, the world and even San Francisco.

The ads say that on a given night, one can hear Skafisk and Bush Tetras. If that doesn't light your candle, there are the B-Girls, Strange Party or Karnival (formerly The Anthems).

Oh, sure, a jazz outfit, the Sun Ra Arkestra, is around. But it was called Sun Ra's Intergalactic Arkestra in the old days and most everyone liked that better.

Among the rock groups loose here, we've got The Ex-Husbands, who may be an off-shoot of a new group just in from England, Secret Affair.

There's also a crew called The Others which, the ad notes, contains "former members of David Johansen Band." It is not known if these performers ever played in The Members.

The Members gigged last Friday at Hurrh's, where this Saturday a group called 8 Eyed Spy is on the boards. If you want to hear the latter, best hurry; the ad says Saturday is "Lydia Lunch's Last Date in 8 Eyed Spy."

Sad to say, the band called Thor is not about this week. I once met the lead singer, a huge, gentle guy named Thor. He said he bent pipes over his chest while singing, so as to get attention.

He also said getting attention sometimes was difficult in punk-rock parlors like the Mudd Club, on account of many patrons there have purple hair.

Be that as it may, I'd like to run the Mudd Club because in addition to featuring the Gaelic Space Patrol, a marching band from San Francisco, we could have such great double bills.

One week it would be The Schoolboys and Responsible Teenagers, the next week Alcoholics Anonymous and The Confessionals.

Later on, Soldier would share the stage with Shrapnel, and Razor's Edge could serenade us after Gina Harlow & The Cutthroats. For a change of pace, we could couple The Mundanes with The Stiffs, and the Neurockers with Bad Brains.

The possibilities are endless. It'd be magic time. All I'd have to do is read the who's-playing advertisements in the Village Voice and start calling.

It is for real sure I would book Joseph You've Only Been Here From France Four Months And Your Fabulously Fat Female Wants To Hear From You.

Aw, nuts. I just looked again and that's no rock band. It's just a personal ad.

'Countdown' imaginative
By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

THE FINAL COUNTDOWN is a bold exercise of the imagination that succeeds most of the time. The premise: a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier is engulfed by an unexplainable storm that thrusts men and machines back 40 years in time to the eve of the Pearl Harbor attack. Should the commander counterattack the Japanese and rewrite history? The plot is a leaky boat, but the major role is played magnificently by the USS Nimitz. Solid support from Kirk Douglas, Martin Sheen, Katherine Ross, James Farentino, Ron O'Neal and Charles Durning make this whopper almost believable. The rating is PG with a sprinkling of sailor language.

Ballet workshop offered

The Permian Civic Ballet Association is offering area dancers a 10-day workshop conducted by Tanju Tuzer. Since 1965, Tuzer has been dancing throughout Europe, Canada and the United States as a soloist and then a principal dancer. In 1977, he opened a ballet school in Richardson, where he now teaches along with making guest appearances. The workshop will begin Aug. 4 and run through Aug. 13 and will be held at the Audrey Walker School of Dance, 3320 N. Big Spring St. The three classes, which run $50 each, are senior, intermediate and junior. For more information call Mary Liscomb at 694-1260.

Networks' share of viewers down, newest statistics say

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Something is making scary noises outside the networks' door. ABC, CBS and NBC are telling themselves it's not the dreaded boogeyman, pay-TV. Not yet, anyway. For some reason, not yet ascertained by the networks' research departments, the share of television viewers garnered by the three networks dropped in the last television season.

In the second week of June, the three networks' combined share of the TV audience was down 5 percent from the same period last year. The networks' combined rating for the whole season was down 1 percent, a figure that translates into hundreds of thousands of viewers.

The obvious implication is that people are watching pay-TV; subscription and cable television operators continue to do big business, and it would seem safe to assume that viewers use what they are paying for.

Yet, Al Ordovery, a research executive at NBC, says he's not so sure. "My personal opinion is that it's not pay-TV. Everything is a factor, all the little pieces in the puzzle are factors — independents, baseball, a number of things."

(Indeed, baseball seems to be a big attraction on the independent stations this summer: a Yankees-Red Sox game last month drew one-fourth of New York's television audience.)

"The share the three networks are getting does look off from prior years," says CBS' research executive, Arnold Becker. "People are saying it's pay cable that's doing it. I just don't think it's happened yet... my hunch is we're going to find that it's the independent stations that are doing it."

Still, more than one-in-five U.S. households are hooked up to cable TV, and more than a third of those subscribe to some pay-TV entertainment service, such as Home Box Office.

Last February, when HBO premiered "Saturday Night Fever," network usage among HBO households was down 44 percent from the national average.

"But there aren't that many pay cable subscribers to start with," says Becker, "and there's not much pay cable programming to watch even for an ardent pay cable watcher. If a whole lot of people watch some spectacular movie on pay television, but it is only on for two hours, it doesn't make a lot of difference to this mass audience we are talking about."

If it is the independents that are draining off the networks' share, as the networks seemed inclined to believe, the loss is more easily shrugged off as a quirk. Independents are a known challenge.

July, August never seemed quite this hot

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are two big revivals in New York this summer: Camelot and the Democratic National Convention. Both have ailing leading men.

In the case of the musical with nostalgic links to John F. Kennedy's White House years, star Richard Burton is appearing despite a painful shoulder that forced him to miss one performance. Burton is drawing favorable reviews for his portrayal of the beleaguered King Arthur.

In Jimmy Carter's case, the reviews are, at best, mixed as the Democrats prepare for their revival. His fight to retain his starring role is threatened by far more than a pain in the shoulder.

How different life is for Carter this year than it was in 1976, when he went to New York to claim the Democratic presidential nomination.

Four years ago, Carter was the outsider who had capitalized brilliantly on a post-Vietnam, post-Watergate yearning for a fresh face, as well as on changes in Democratic Party rules pushed through in the name of reform.

What a happy show that was. A smash hit the night Carter, grinning and triumphant, stood on the podium in Madison Square Garden with his former rivals and proclaimed a new era of party and national unity. Public opinion polls said he was running nearly 30 points ahead of the Republican incumbent, Gerald R. Ford.

"There is a new mood in America," Carter proclaimed in his speech accepting the Democratic nomination.

There's an uneasy feeling among many Democratic politicians that, once again, there's a new mood in America and that this time it might sweep Carter, and a lot of them, out of office. This time, it's the Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan, who has a big lead in the opinion polls.

That uneasiness is behind the lobbying by Democratic members of Congress to overturn the party rule binding delegates to the winners of state primaries and caucuses. That rule gives Carter a lock on far more than the 1,666 delegate votes he needs for nomination to a second term.

Those members of Congress were silent on the rule when it was adopted by the Democratic National Committee and when Carter was winning most of the primaries.

It was one of the rules that the one-time outsider Carter wanted to minimize the chances a new outsider would come along and copy his 1976 performance.

It's behind the renewed hope in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's campaign organization.

But while even Carter's political aides concede that the president has political problems, few of his opponents are ready to put him down as a sure loser in November.

Certainly, Kennedy has not forgotten that a year ago many of his colleagues in Congress were pleading with him to enter the presidential race. The polls said he was a sure winner, that he'd brush Carter aside with little effort and sweep to the Democratic nomination.

Kennedy wasn't giving much thought to an open convention back then.

There are a lot of theories about why it didn't work out that way. Many Kennedy supporters claim the hostage crisis in Iran and the Soviet move into Afghanistan prompted people to rally around the president and distracted voters from the nation's economic problems.

However, many other observers feel that Kennedy suffered more from what pollsters called his high "negatives," a reference to the number of people who said they wouldn't vote for him under any circumstances because of Chappaquiddick and other aspects of his personal life.

Whatever the reason, Carter is returning to New York with a majority of the delegates but with declining ratings in the polls.

Which leaves those delegates with a tough judgment call. They must decide within two weeks whether the man who confounded the polls of a year ago and whipped Kennedy can do the same thing to Reagan.

Old granary used as family's home

By MARCIA DUNN

CADIZ, Ohio (AP) — Though there's no running water and the wind seeps through half-inch gaps between its weathered boards, the granary is home for the summer for John and Ardele Herbold.

Since moving to their eastern Ohio farm nine years ago, the couple has swept bird droppings and decayed spiders and flies from the century-old granary each spring. And after lugging wheelbarrows full of clothes and blankets from their huge white farmhouse just a few hundred feet away, they've moved into the two-story bin.

"The closer I get to the earth, the more I like it," said Mrs. Herbold, 29, while cooking on a wood stove. "You can even hear the chickens crawling under the (granary's) floor."

The couple chose to live in the tin-roofed granary — primarily on Mrs. Herbold's urging — after moving to the 188-acre farm from California in 1971 as newlyweds. The land, in Herbold's family for seven generations, had been purchased by his ancestors under the Homestead Act.

"Life's slow here, nobody is ever around. To me, that's the way to live," said Herbold, 32, an environmental specialist for a coal company. He plans to keep the job until he saves enough money to depend solely on his farm.

"That's when we'll be able to just hitch up our (horse-drawn) buggy and take off," his wife added. "Even when the chores are stacked up and the corn needs to be ground."

Her insistence on simplicity prompted the couple and their children, 7-year-old Noah and 2-year-old Polly, to spend even the severe winters of 1976 and 1977 in the bin. They depended on a wood stove and electric blankets — plugged into a single light socket — as their only heat.

"We kept the vegetables under the quilt at the end of the bed to keep them from freezing," she said. "We even had to keep some food in the ice box (for insulation) to keep it from freezing, too."

Since their first days in the bin, the couple has relented a bit from their aversion to conveniences — primarily because of the children, Mrs. Herbold said.

Although slipping toward a less austere lifestyle, the couple still plans to maintain its summer home until a log cabin is completed. Herbold hopes to start building the cabin this year.

"Once you get a taste of it, you get hungrier and hungrier," Mrs. Herbold said quietly as her husband opened a side door onto the unlit night, interrupted only by the croaking frogs.

Marshall brands GOP anti-labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's labor secretary, Ray Marshall, is branding Ronald Reagan as an anti-labor Republican whose election would be "disastrous" for working Americans.

In an attempt to undercut Reagan's appeal for blue-collar voters frustrated with high inflation and rising unemployment, Marshall painted the presidential candidate as a representative of the nation's economic elite with little regard for lower- and middle-income groups.

"The people around Ronald Reagan are some of the staunchest anti-union, anti-labor people in the country," Marshall told reporters Wednesday at a news conference he called to promote the re-election campaign of the president.

"Underneath the rhetorical appeals for blue-collar support lies a fundamental philosophy that government has no role to play in correcting injustice, forming effective partnerships with labor and management ... providing opportunity or protecting the rights of average Americans," Marshall said.

"Instead, the Reagan Republican platform advocates greater freedom for the economically powerful, public charity to deal with the problems of the disadvantaged, and a repeal of the most basic rights and fundamental protections for working people."

Marshall said Carter, by contrast, has a very strong pro-labor record. "Once we lay it out for the people, they will have the sharpest choice between two presidential candidates in my memory," he said.

The labor secretary acknowledged that union members and other workers appear disaffected with Carter now, but said that once they examine Reagan's record, they will abandon him.

Reagan cannot be elected without a strong share of the labor voter, but he will not get it, Marshall predicted.

Noting that Carter received a large majority of union members' votes in 1976, Marshall said the president will do as well or even better among union members this fall.

Earlier in the week, two other Carter Cabinet officials, Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt and Defense Secretary Harold Brown, attacked the Republican platform on matters dealing with their departments.

Pigeons 1, Feds 0

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Persistent pigeons are winning a big-budget battle with the federal government, and two Tennessee lawmakers want to know why.

Disease-bearing pigeon droppings have delayed the $7.1 million renovation of Union Station for nearly a year, and Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., said Wednesday the droppings could cause another three-month delay. Completion of the General Services Administration project was scheduled for 1982.

Sasser and Rep. Bill Borer, D-Tenn., say they plan to initiate Senate and House investigations if GSA doesn't explain why it hasn't been able to whip the squatters and turn the 80-year-old limestone and marble train station into a modern federal office building.

GSA spokesman Bob Barling in Atlanta declined comment. The station was padlocked in 1975 and left for the pigeons, which roosted in the stained glass rotunda and on the finely carved wood.

Congress approved the Union Station project June 22, 1978, as the first of several train station conversions. Officials said the pigeons had to go to prevent workmen from getting cryptococcosis respiratory disease from bacteria in the droppings.

GSA paid a New York firm $474,000 to seal the building to prevent entry and had it sprayed in October 1979. The spraying failed, but couldn't be repeated immediately because the chemicals work only in hot weather.

Last May, the droppings were sprayed again and initial test results show it worked, said Dr. Donald Millar, assistant surgeon general with the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

But CDC biologist Robert Weeks said GSA ignored his warning to close a trap door in the building. The pigeons, it seems, are back.

"Many of the pigeons that have entered the station since May came in through a trap door in the roof, which I asked GSA to close in October of 1979," Weeks said. "All they had to do was nail it shut, and I asked them to close it the day before the spraying was to begin in May."

Millar says the pigeon droppings should be retested and, if the bacteria are back, they should be resprayed.

In a letter Wednesday to GSA Director Roland Freeman, Sasser said he is concerned about allegations that some lower-level GSA officials want to sabotage the project because of animosity they have for former Director Jay Solomon of Chattanooga. Solomon was director when Congress approved the renovation.

Zoo train crash hurts 28

HUNTINGTON WOODS, Mich. (AP) — More than two dozen people were injured, one of them seriously, when a Detroit Zoo sightseeing train smashed into a gravel truck that was backing across the tracks, police said.

Many of the 35 occupants of the 12-car train were hurled from the open coaches after the collision Wednesday, according to police in suburban Huntington Woods.

Seventeen people were taken to three area hospitals and another 11 were treated at the scene for minor injuries.

An Indiana woman, 70-year-old Cora Decht of New Albany, was in serious condition, Huntington Woods Police Chief James Stewart said. A spokesman at Royal Oak's William Beaumont Hospital said Ms. Decht suffered "multiple injuries."

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, August 1, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Friendly and conscientious, those born on this date have many friends and admirers. If employed in the fields of energy, medicine or food service, look forward to an exceptionally happy fall and winter. Your thoroughness makes competitors seem lazy! Those in the arts could have a few lean months and should avoid investing their funds in dubious schemes. Keep your feet firmly anchored to the ground, and beware of deception in a love relationship. The "best" romantic partner is the one who would be loyal in times of trouble!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Keep informed about employer/employee relationships. Scrutinize fine print if signing new contract. Family member's part-time employment could aid efforts to balance household budget.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Work should be fruitful, satisfying. Conserve enthusiasm, energies for issues of great importance. Family affairs require delicate handling. Exercise more tact when dealing with romantic partner's friends, relatives.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friend can play key role in improving your financial status. Have a well-thought out plan in hand before approaching influential associate. A modest request is unlikely to be denied if presented at right time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Complete one task before starting another. Teamwork accomplishes more than you can imagine. Personal finances may show sudden improvement. Get ready to assume new responsibilities. Someone at the top has been watching you!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Use any free time to catch up on paperwork. Mail brings important news. Make determined effort to obtain specialized knowledge or skills which could help you earn extra money.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take plenty of time to complete a difficult project. Thoroughness can help you avoid careless mistakes. An ally behind the scenes is prepared to support you openly now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Rise above petty jealousies, minor worries. Someone who has your best interests at heart is working to get you an exciting new opportunity. Be patient with co-worker or neighbor who likes to gossip.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.

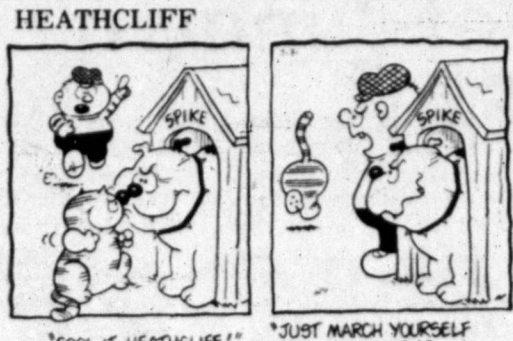

21): You heave a huge sigh of relief concerning a personal relationship. Partnership or marriage could be involved. Stick to orthodox methods in business and a conservative higher-up will be most appreciative.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Work done in seclusion is quickly completed. Deal with people at first hand to achieve best results. News from abroad may hold financial promise. Follow up on any "hot" leads!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be more tactful, considerate than usual around coworkers. Jealousy could be the underlying cause of current irritability. Pay extra attention to details, directions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Parents need to show more understanding when dealing with tiny tots. Make friendly overture to someone who appears to be down in the dumps. Lunch in a new locale can boost morale.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The financial advice of well-intentioned friend may be based on a faulty perception. Study up on nutrition and look for new ways to improve diet. Act more flexible when dealing with loved ones.

"Oh, the usual...they're trying to decide who's the master!"

"I'M JUST SINGIN' COMMERCIALS 'TIL I GET SLEEPY DAD DON'T PAY NO ATTENTION."

"Nothing cools off a guy like an ice cone—unless it's the chilly reception your mother always gives me."

siderable safety, for his wealth of controls would mesh quite nicely with any stray values he might find in partner's hand.

West made his normal opening lead of the queen of clubs. Since there was no good reason to hold up, declarer won the king. To come in nine tricks, he obviously had to develop the diamond suit, so at trick two he banged down the king of diamonds.

There was a great temptation on West's part to win the ace—after all, that way he would—certainly have assured himself of two tricks in the suit. Fortunately, West was thinking in terms of the whole hand, rather than just one trick. He was unsporting enough to try to defeat the contract!

He realized that, if he won the first diamond trick, declarer would be able to duck the second diamond and thus be able to score, in all, three diamond tricks. So West sacrificed a trick by ducking the first diamond, holding up the ace until the third round of the suit. Now dummy was dead and the sacrificed trick returned with interest when declarer was held to eight tricks.

Miss Universe, Shawn Weatherly, welcomed home

Nothing better than coming home

SUMTER, S.C. (AP) — The new MISS UNIVERSE, SHAWN WEATHERLY, says there's nothing better than coming home — not even becoming Miss Universe.

"I thought there couldn't be any more satisfying feeling than winning Miss Universe. Now I know that's not true. Coming home to Sumter is the best thing yet," Miss Weatherly, 21, said Wednesday on her arrival for a homecoming celebration.

More than 3,000 people turned out for the festivities for the Clemson University student, who won the title July 7 in Seoul, South Korea. Miss Weatherly was presented with a birthday cake honoring her 21st birthday last Thursday.

Miss Weatherly arrived from Washington, where earlier in the day she met President Carter. She refused to openly endorse Carter's re-election bid, but said, "I'll support the president in office."

NEW YORK (AP) — JAMES CAGNEY, 81, has donned the costume of a turn-of-the-century police commissioner to begin work on his first movie in 20 years.

Cagney, famed as a tough guy in movies of the 1930s and 1940s, was playing the commissioner for the film version of "Ragtime," E.L. Doctorow's novel set in the early 1900s.

Milos Forman directed the action, filmed Wednesday at an old army in Brooklyn as grandparents and children alike looked on.

The star was given the general's office to relax in and was startled when the telephone in the command headquarters rang. "Don't start World War III," he said as a friend lifted the receiver.

The striking Screen Actors Guild gave permission for the movie work to go on. Cagney is a former president of the Guild.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The infant son of GOV. JOHN Y. BROWN JR. and the former PHYLLIS GEORGE has been released from the University of Kentucky Medical Center, where he underwent abdominal surgery.

Lincoln George-Tyler Brown, 6 weeks old, was admitted Monday with pyloric stenosis, a condition in which an enlarged muscle blocks passage of food from the stomach to the small intestine. The condition occurs in one of every 600 infants, doctors say.

Lincoln underwent a 40-minute operation Monday evening to correct the problem.

Dr. Robert Belin said the condition isn't expected to recur. Lincoln was released from the hospital Wednesday.

Soviet runaway claims parents don't like him

CHICAGO (AP) — Walter Polovchak says he ran away from home because "my parents don't like me" and his father threatened to have police "tie me up and put me on the airplane" back to the Ukraine. But his mother says someone promised him "golden mountains" if he stayed in the United States.

The 12-year-old Soviet boy, who has been granted asylum, testified Wednesday at a hearing to decide whether he and his 17-year-old sister Natalie should be placed under court-ordered supervision.

His parents, puzzled and distraught because the boy is in temporary custody of the state, are trying to get him back.

Brother and sister say they left their parents' Chicago home on July 13 when they learned their family wanted to return to the Ukraine. Running away was their own idea, both testified, not the suggestion of relatives.

Lawyers are trying to establish whether the children were coerced by their 24-year-old cousin, also named Walter.

Ann Polovchak told Judge Joseph C. Mooney she thought her son had been influenced to run away by someone else.

"My son was promised golden mountains and he was brought closer to them and now he wants to conduct the lives of his parents," she said through an interpreter.

"I would like to know who tells whom what to do — the parents the children or the children the parents?" she asked. "Do we lose our rights as parents because we have been here six months in the United States?"

"My parents don't like me, they don't talk to me and I was afraid they would take me back to the Ukraine" forcibly, the boy said.

He related this conversation with his father, Michael Polovchak. "He said, 'I have to go back,' and I said, 'I don't want to.' My father said if I (wouldn't) go he would call the police and give them $100 and they would tie me up and put me on the airplane."

Assistant State's Attorney Rick Michael argued the children should be designated minors in need of supervision because they ran away from home.

But Richard Mandel, a lawyer with the American Civil Liberties Union, representing the Polovchaks, contended state law on supervision doesn't apply in this case and violates the parents' right to decide where the family should live.

Mandel also argued the children's cousin may have influenced the runaways because he is "prejudiced against the Soviet Union."

But the cousin testified he neither gave nor promised the two anything, and that they left home of their own free will.

In Moscow, the weekly newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta wanted to know how the United States could separate a 12-year-old from his parents and criticize the Soviet Union for human rights violations.

Prisoners in 'tent city'

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — More than 200 prisoners will stay outside in a makeshift "tent city" on the ballfield of riot-torn Idaho State Penitentiary until their behavior improves, prison officials say.

"They've got to learn to cooperate," said Corrections Director C.W. "Bill" Crowl. "Until they do, we're going to have to continue to treat them like a bunch of kids."

About 235 inmates were being held outside because most of the prison's cellblocks were damaged in last week's riots.

As guards on Wednesday planned to take small groups of inmates into the prison dining hall for their first hot meal in a week, the prisoners became "unruly," Crowl said.

They were shouting at guards and making demands, he said. Reinforcements moved in, and nine inmates were identified as "agitators and leaders."

Those inmates were moved to a county jail, joining 160 other inmates already taken to other state and federal prisons, Crowl said.

It will be about two weeks before repairs can be made so inmates can return to the cellblocks, officials said. Meanwhile, the prisoners must stay in Army tents where they are sweltering in 95-degree temperatures with almost nothing to do.

Many inmates are fed up with the situation, Crowl said. "Right now, I'd describe it as tense but calm."

BIGGS, Calif. (AP) — Flocks of herons are showering rooftops in this northern California town with dung, but angry residents can't do much about it — the birds are on the protected species list.

Several dozen black crowned night herons, which were nearly extinct 25 years ago, moved into the stately elms of two neighborhoods here three or four years ago when their favorite eucalyptus groves died in a frost.

Residents, who call the herons squawkers or squawks because they're so noisy, have been trying to scare them off. Harming them would be a federal offense.

To frighten them, police have been using a firecracker gun that lofts a sort of cherry bomb 50 feet into the crown of the trees, where it explodes, said police Lt. John Mimms.

The birds, jettisoning dung, take flight but come back soon, officials say. Besides leaving a fly-covered, lice-infested carpet of dung on rooftops, the herons also bring fish, reptiles and rodents to their nests, residents say.

Rosalin Hastain said she spent $800 to have her trees pruned to deprive the birds of their roosts. But "after we got all the branches cleared away, we had to use a rake to get all the mess off the roof."

The Animal Damage Control Division of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has said permits to kill the nocturnal herons can be issued only after non-lethal means of getting rid of them failed. In addition, the Butte County health department would have to certify that the birds were causing a health hazard.

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices dropped sharply today, stalling a rally that had moved prices to their highest levels in three years.

Chrysler Corp. reported it lost $536.1 million in the second quarter.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 7.85 to 928.33 in the first two hours of trading, as declines outnumbered advances by a 3-1 margin in New York Stock Exchange trading.

Chrysler's loss, which was larger than its first quarter loss, was in line with predictions and the stock was unchanged at 7 1/2.

But many other stocks were sharply lower, including oil stocks that had been among the strongest in the rally.

Gulf fell 1 to 40 despite President Carter's decision to approve a company plan for a plant to turn coal into oil.

Mobil was down 1 1/2 to 73 1/2, Exxon lost 1 1/2 to 69 1/2 and Phillips Petroleum dropped 1 1/2 to 40 1/2.

The drop came despite more tentative signs the recession may be nearing an end.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Pessimism said mainly for output drop

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—There is no shortage of research and development funds, nor of ideas, inventions and ingenuity in the United States, said E.E. David Jr., president of Exxon Research and Engineering Corp.

"Overall, industrial research and development in the United States is thriving," said David. "There is a spirit of vitality."

Why, then, has the U.S. growth rate shrunk? Why can other nations, West Germany, Japan and, in isolated instances, even less developed nations, so effectively challenge U.S. industrial leadership?

David, former president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, laid it on the line recently in a talk to engineers at the University of California.

While recognizing the truth of some of the usual explanations, and agreeing that they contribute to the problem, he dismissed them as the fundamental cause.

Inadequate spending for research and development is often the first to be mentioned.

Nonsense, said David. Real spending for industrial research and development turned up in 1972 and since then has been rising at 5 percent a year in deflated dollars.

Intelligence officer is slain by leftists

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Terrorists fatally shot a retired non-commissioned officer working for the country's intelligence network, police reported today. Officers said they also found the bodies of two other victims of Turkish political violence, which has claimed an estimated 2,000 lives this year.

Wednesday night's killing of Sabri Sariel in an Istanbul suburb was the latest in a coordinated terrorist campaign carried out by leftists against the military.

The revolutionary group Dev-Sol claimed responsibility for the assassination in telephone calls to local newspapers. The faction also is blamed for the slaying of former Prime Minister Nihat Erim on July 19 near his summer house in suburban Kartal.

Police sources said Sariel was a member of the National Intelligence Organization and an adviser to the right-wing MISK labor confederation.

Police officials also said a police chief in Dordyol, in the southern province of Hakkari, was killed Wednesday by unidentified gunmen.

Security forces Wednesday also found the body of the abducted driver of the mayor of Mardin in southeastern Turkey. Police said the mayor was kidnapped by unknown extremists Tuesday.

In Istanbul a public prosecutor filed suit calling for the closing of Turkey's second largest labor confederation, the Confederation of Revolutionary Labor Unions.

The lawsuit accused the labor organization of indulging "in Marxist propaganda and striving to establish a class domination" in Turkey.

The group has an estimated 600,000 members, employed mainly in the private sector. Its former leader Kemal Turkler was assassinated in an ambush near his offices on July 22.

Meanwhile, a parliamentary commission made up of bipartisan legislators approved two of the five anti-terrorism bills agreed upon by the country's two leading politicians, conservative Premier Suleyman Demirel and former Premier Bulent Ecevit.

In a related announcement, a spokesman for acting President Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil denied published reports that Turkey's military leaders delivered "a letter of recommendations" to Demirel and Ecevit when they met at a dinner hosted by Caglayangil a week ago.

Leaders of the powerful, 500,000-strong armed forces repeatedly have urged in private conversations and public statements that the two politicians unite against increasing terrorist attacks across the country.

Rival Moslems fight in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rival Moslem militiamen loyal to Iraq and Iran exchanged fire with mortars, rockets and machine guns in mostly Moslem west Beirut today. Police said six people were injured.

Each side accused the other of starting the shooting in the Jenah neighborhood on the southwestern edge of the Lebanese capital, between the airport and the Mediterranean.

The antagonists have clashed frequently in Lebanon, the fighting mirroring the Iraqi-Iranian border war.

U.N. vote, move on Jerusalem hurt peace prospects says Muskie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie says both the U.N. endorsement of a Palestinian state and Israel's move to make Jerusalem its capital are "diversionary" to Mideast peace efforts.

Muskie denounced the U.N. Palestinian resolution Wednesday as part of "diversionary tactics ... by those who seek to undermine" the Camp David format for peace negotiations.

"They will solve nothing," Muskie told the House Foreign Affairs Committee. "It is just mischief, diversionary tactics."

The resolution, approved 112-7 by the U.N. General Assembly on Tuesday, endorses an independent sovereign state for Palestinians and calls on Israel to begin withdrawing from all occupied Arab territory before Nov. 15.

Muskie said such one-sided declarations "will not bring us any closer to peace."

And while using milder language, Muskie also said Wednesday's vote by the Israeli Parliament to declare Jerusalem, including occupied portions, its capital is "diversionary" to peace for the same reason. "Unilateral actions that appear to foreclose negotiations are diversionary," he said. "The fact is, if Camp David lasts that long, the issue of Jerusalem will be negotiated in the future."

Egyptian officials said they will consider suspending negotiations with Israel on autonomy for Palestinians in the wake of the Jerusalem vote.

Muskie said no decision has been made on whether U.S. diplomats in Israel would visit Prime Minister Menachem Begin if his office is moved to Jerusalem.

On another subject, Muskie said the Carter administration has expressed concern to South Korea that its new military rule might destabilize that country.

"Their objective is stability," Muskie said. "We believe they may reap the reverse."

The Foreign Affairs Committee has said in a report the danger is that continued military rule in South Korea will lead to clashes with civilians that could weaken the country's security.

Muskie also repeated President Carter's offer to "explore transitional arrangements" for Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan.

"But we see no indication that the Soviet Union is interested in anything other than imposing its military grip upon that country," he said.

U.S. is deep into recession, while rest of world booming

Mexico, Canada, Australia, South Africa, most South American and Middle East countries, as well as most European nations, are booming industrially while the United States is saddled with deepening recession, members of the Downtown Lions Club were told Wednesday noon at their meeting in the Midland Center.

The speaker was Joe Kloesel, president of the Midland-based Drilco Industrial Division of Smith International Inc., which markets its Midland-manufactured industrial products worldwide.

Kloesel, who was introduced by Lion Keith Somerville, is District VI vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, vice president of the Texas State Chamber of Commerce, and past president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, the Midland Industrial Foundation and Junior Achievement of Midland, Inc.

Kloesel, who returned recently from sales trips to Australia and England, spoke briefly concerning economic conditions worldwide, terming London as the most expensive city in the world today. He also told of inflation and labor problems which are prevalent in many nations today.

"Despite boom conditions evident in many foreign countries, there definitely is a very real recession in most of the United States," the speaker said.

He pointed out that this is difficult for Midland and West Texas residents to realize, sheltered as they are by the energy exploration and production boom. He cited figures to prove his point.

Kloesel said that although Drilco Industrial, which does not manufacture oil field drilling products, has very few customers in the immediate area, the firm's headquarters plant is located in Midland due to the city's excellent air transportation, good business-manufacturing climate, and good people. The firm manufactures water well drilling and mining equipment and other industrial products.

He said Drilco has 144,000 square feet under roof in its Midland operation, had 400 employees and a $6 million payroll.

A film presentation on Drilco Industrial's Midland operations, products, facilities and machinery also was shown, with Gene Drummond operating the projector.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — For the second time in three months, Israel raised fuel prices by an average of 25 percent today. Under the new prices, a gallon of gasoline is $3.21, one of the highest rates in the world.

The Energy Ministry said there were four reasons for the increases: continued devaluation of the Israeli pound; inflation running at over 100 percent; increased world oil prices and depletion of stocks of oil bought last year at bargain prices.

Before prices rose at midnight, a liter of 94-octane gasoline cost 34.5 Israeli pounds, equivalent to $2.58 a gallon. The new price is 43 pounds, 88 cents a liter, or $3.21 per gallon.

pound cylinder of cooking gas was raised from 425 pounds, $8.17, to 532 pounds, $10.23.

"The government has decided that the consumer should pay the real cost of fuel," said Yitzhak Shomron, spokesman for the Energy Ministry.

"It's not yet the real price, but we're very close to it now," he said.

Introducing the world's most comfortable business flight to London.

Our new SKYLOUNGER™ lets you sleep lying down.

British Caledonian Airways is committed to a demanding, yet highly rewarding concept. To provide you, the long-distance business traveler, with more comfort than any other international airline.

Through the years, we believe our luxurious First Class service has done just that. But even the best can get better.

That's why our First Class service now includes the Skylounger™ seat. Made to British Caledonian's specifications, it can recline to a horizontal position. So you can actually sleep lying down.

Fully reclined, it still leaves you plenty of room between rows. And upright, there's even more room. It lets the window passenger move easily to the aisle. Even if trays are in use.

So next time business takes you to London, ask for our Skylounger™ Service. We're sure you'll agree our First Class is the most comfortable way to fly.

The EXECUTIVE SUITE™ now gives you even more legroom.

The Executive Suite™ is another class of comfort. Tailored exclusively to the business traveler. Offering a collection of extras you have specifically requested.

Such as choice of wine, entree and dinner time. Complimentary cocktails. And newspapers from both sides of the Atlantic.

What's more, now you get even more legroom. We've increased seating space in this section by actually removing an entire row of seats. And we're still the only airline that guarantees you'll never be more than one seat away from the aisle.

But perhaps the most pleasing thing about us, all things considered, is the British experience you get on board. We never forget you have a choice.

For reservations aboard one of our nonstop wide-bodied flights from Houston, call your travel agent or British Caledonian Airways.

British Caledonian Airways

We never forget you have a choice.

Aircraft featuring First Class Skylounger™ seats and extended Executive Suite™ legroom operate on most of our flights across the North Atlantic from Houston beginning August 1, 1980. Call your travel agent or British Caledonian Airways for specific flight schedule.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Questions about Billy dim Jody's good humor

By MAUREEN SANTINI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Not surprisingly, Jody Powell's daily briefings for reporters lately have been dominated by Billy Carter's ties with Libya and the White House involvement in the situation.

The episode is causing great problems for President Carter at the worst possible time, so there has been little humor from the president's chief spokesman during these drawn-out sessions.

Last week, after the White House released its first statement on White House involvement with the president's brother and his relationship to Libya, the briefing droned on so long that it drew close to the evening deadlines of television network correspondents.

"Can we have a 15-minute filing break because we have 'The World Tonight'?" one correspondent asked anxiously, referring to the ABC-TV evening news show.

Powell replied dryly, "The world tonight? The whole damned thing in one evening? Fifteen minutes."

THEN THERE are the "ghosts." Since the White House has begun answering questions about its involvement in the Billy Carter-Libyan affair, there have been many press reports about how it is or is not like the Watergate scandals that drove Richard M. Nixon from office.

But in the White House briefings, through several discussions between Powell and reporters about how the White House handling of the episode compares with that of Watergate, that word has almost never been used.

At one point a reporter reminded Powell that some of the words he was using, such as "full disclosure," were the same as those used during Nixon's era.

Powell replied: "God knows, if I could think of a way to say it that didn't raise those ghosts I would. But I don't know. I don't know of any other way to say it. That is the way folks talk, I guess."

THERE HAVE been persistent reports that the president plans to return to Georgia for a week or so immediately after the Democratic National Convention Aug. 11-14.

After the Billy Carter affair sprouted, Powell, himself a Georgian, committed what must have been akin to a sacrilege when he suddenly declared he hoped the president would change his mind and go North to rest.

"I never thought I'd hear myself say that," he added, in mock amazement.

THERE WAS A time when agents would rush into the Oval Office when the alarm sounded. But, after several false alarms due to defects, things seem to have become a bit less rigid.

The alarm went off repeatedly one day this week, and even though the president had been in and out of his large office that morning, there was no immediate rush of agents, according to a source close to the situation.

While a uniformed guard turned the alarm off each time it sounded, one agent rather casually inquired of the president's secretary what was going on.

Repairmen were summoned to correct what apparently was a mechanical malfunction, and the alarm now is said to be in good working order.

Ham maker knows best

PARIS, Tenn. (AP) — After one round in the battle over who knows more about making country hams, a Tennessee ham producer leads the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1-0.

A federal judge says the USDA must produce better reasons for requiring Tennessee Valley Ham Co. to discard its 25-year-old process to use traditional North Carolina curing techniques. The argument is over how long to cure the ham — and whether it is smoked.

The firm filed suit in 1978 asking a federal court to invalidate USDA regulations detailing what puts the country in ham. U.S. District Judge Harry Wellford in Jackson, Tenn., ruled last week that the regulations were arbitrary. He said the rules would be invalidated unless the government comes up with better reasons to explain them.

Dogs sniff out drugs at busy airport

By DAVID MINTHORN

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — A 2-year-old Labrador retriever named Cliff is making life miserable for drug smugglers at Frankfurt's busy Rhein-Main International airport.

On successive days recently, Cliff sniffed out a 4-kilogram load of heroin and a 3-kilogram cache of cocaine hidden in baggage of drug couriers arriving at the terminal, West German customs officials said.

Both smugglers were arrested and drugs worth "several million dollars" on the illicit market were confiscated, the officials said.

"A dog has to be born with a nose for this job, and Cliff has one of the best," a customs officer said.

"Some dogs bark when they smell narcotics. Others bite the suitcase or scratch with their forepaws. Cliff just stands there and wags his tail."

Cliff is one of five drug-detection dogs working full time at Frankfurt airport, the continent's busiest with 17 million passengers a year and a major conduit for drugs from Asia, the Mideast and Latin America.

Conny, another Labrador, and three German shepherds — Ben, Besie and Cito — are the other noses for the custom's 15-member drug detection squad at the airport.

"We couldn't get along without the dogs," a customs official said. "But with 30,000 bags coming through the airport every day, we have to assume that a lot of illicit drugs get through."

Last year, the dogs were instrumental in the discovery of 1,000 kilograms of hashish, 35 kilos of heroin and 12 kilos of cocaine in arriving baggage.

"There was a time when planes from certain countries were more likely to include smugglers. But these days, the couriers can arrive from anywhere," said one customs official.

Countrywide there are 238 Labradors, shepherds and cocker spaniels working at border crossings, harbors and airports, helping customs officials trying to choke off hard drugs flowing to at least 40,000 addicts in West Germany.

At Frankfurt airport, the dogs make spot checks of transit baggage moving along conveyor belts from one plane to another. They are trained to leap atop bags and sniff the air pressed out of the bag's interior.

After 10 minutes of patrolling, the dogs are given a break to replenish their sense of smell.

"It's crucial for the dogs to experience success every time they work," a handler said. "If they don't sniff any drugs in baggage, we throw a prepared bag of narcotics in among the luggage so they don't become frustrated."

"The dogs don't expect extra rewards for finding drugs, but Cliff got an extra-big slice of sausage for dinner after he made those two big finds."

The canine corps can be beefed up with extra drug-detection dogs from U.S. military police stationed with the large American garrison in Frankfurt, officials said.

Narcotics are often smuggled in false-bottom suitcases, wrapped in plastic bags to minimize the odor. Yet the dogs are rarely fooled if they come upon a baggage cache in the spot checks.

Still, vast quantities of illicit drugs get into the country, authorities said.

Wells complete, new tests staked

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., No. 1-KG North Crooked Creek-Federal "KG," staked as a wildcat in Eddy County, nine miles northwest of White City, has been completed as a Morrow gas well.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 310,000 cubic feet of gas through perforations from 9,733 to 9,816 feet. The flow was gauged through a 1/2-inch choke.

Total depth is 10,400 feet in the Mississippi, 4.5-inch casing is cemented at 9,898 feet and hole is plugged back to 9,868 feet.

The Morrow classic was topped at 9,549 feet on ground elevation of 3,860 feet. The lower Morrow was topped at 9,839 feet.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 27-23s-24e.

The well is 1 1/4 miles southeast of the Rock Tank (Morrow gas) pool.

BASS PRODUCER

Perry R. Bass, operating from Midland, has completed No. 80 Big Eddy Unit as the second well in the Sand Point (Morrow gas) field of Eddy County, N.M., 11 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

It completed for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,256,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 11,834 to 11,989 feet.

The field was opened by Bass No. 72 Big Eddy Unit.

No. 80 Big Eddy is 3/4 mile northeast of No. 72 and 1,878 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 3-21s-28e.

LUSK EXTENDER

Petroleum Development Corp. of Albuquerque No. 2 Llano-McKay-Federal was completed in Eddy County to extend the Lusk (Morrow gas) field two miles northwest.

It completed for a daily flow of 2,949,000 cubic feet of gas, through perforations from 12,526 to 12,548 feet. The flow was gauged through a choke of unreported size. Flowing tubing pressure was 2,475 pounds.

Well site is 750 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 13-19s-31e and 13 miles southeast of Loco Hills.

BOYD (MORROW) POOL

Yates Petroleum Corp., Artesia, N.M., No. 5 Allison-Federal "CQ" has been completed in the Boyd (Morrow) field of Eddy County, 10 miles northwest of Lakewood.

It completed for a daily flow of 625,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 1/2-inch choke and perforations from 8,904 to 8,960 feet. The pay was fractured with 16,000 gallons and acidized with 2,500 gallons.

Total depth is 9,320 feet in the Mississippi, 5.5-inch pipe is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 9,290 feet.

The Morrow classic was topped at 8,802 feet on ground elevation of 2,613 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 13-19s-24e.

WINCHESTER AREA

Hillin Production Co. of Odessa potentiated its No. 4 DWU as a dual well in the Winchester (Morrow gas and Wolfcamp gas) pool of Eddy County, 18 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

It completed from the Wolfcamp for a daily flow of 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The potential is based on a six-hour flow through a 3/4-inch choke.

Completion was through perforations from 8,998 to 9,046 feet.

From the Morrow, through perforations from 11,006 to 11,026 feet, the well finalized for a daily flow of 2,200,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 3/4-inch choke.

Total depth is 11,220 feet, 5.5-inch pipe is set at total depth, and hole is plugged back to 11,185 feet.

Well site is 800 feet from south and 2,000 feet from east lines of section 34-19s-28e.

TURKEY TRACK WELL

Threshold Development Co. of Fort Worth No. 1-7 Conoco-State is a new well in the Turkey Track, North (Morrow) field of Eddy County, 12 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

It finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 7,575,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 11,036 to 11,050 feet.

Hole is bottomed at 11,610 feet, 5.5-inch pipe is set at 11,264 feet and plugged back depth is 11,223 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 7-19s-29e and 1 1/4 miles southwest of other Morrow production.

AMOCO PRODUCER

Amoco Production Co. No. 1 State Communitized "IE" is a new well in an undesignated Morrow area of Eddy County, four miles southwest of Carlsbad. It completed for a daily flowing potential of 3,105,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 11,378 to 11,492 feet.

The Morrow was topped at 11,376 feet on ground level elevation of 3,546 feet.

CHAVES ACTIVITY

C. E. Larue and B. N. Muncy Jr. have completed their No. 2 Eddie as the second well and 5/8-mile southeast extension in an undesignated San Andres oil pool of Chaves County, five miles southwest of Boaz.

It completed for a daily pumping potential of 5 barrels of 28-gravity oil and three barrels of water, through perforations from 2,720 to 2,732 feet. The gas-oil ratio is too small to measure, and the pay was acidized with 10,000 gallons.

Total depth is 2,950 feet in the San Andres and 4.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Location is 330 feet from south and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 29-7s-29e.

Mesa Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 White-State is a new well in an undesignated Atoka-Morrow area of Chaves County, 13 miles southeast of Hagerman. Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 272,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 8,909 to 8,988 feet.

Total depth is 9,131 feet in the Mississippi, 4.5-inch pipe is set at 9,130 feet and hole is plugged back to 9,034 feet.

The Morrow was topped at 8,906 feet on ground elevation of 3,580 feet. The Atoka was topped at 8,685 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 35-15s-27e.

The Siete (San Andres) pool of Chaves County gained a new project with the staking of Petroleum Exploration Co. Inc., Roswell, No. 1 Siete-Federal. The 3,850-foot project is 19 miles south of Kenna and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 17-8s-31e.

LEA PROJECT

Marathon Oil Co., operating from Midland, spotted a 6,750-foot project in an undesignated area eight miles southwest of Eunice.

The new test is No. 34 McDonald-Sate A/2. The drillsite is 660 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 13-22s-36e.

Two WT counties gain wildcat tests

Wildcat projects have been staked in Andrews and Runtels counties, and a new location has been spotted in Terrell County for a junked and abandoned project.

The Andrews wildcat is Discovery Operating Inc. of Midland No. 1 University "C."

It will attempt to open a new pay into the Three-Bar (Yates gas) area 18 miles west of Andrews.

It is near a gas producer and 624 feet from south and 721 feet from east lines of section 35, block 12, University lands survey.

Contract depth is 8,200 feet.

RUNTELS PROJECT

D/FW Oil & Gas Inc. of Dallas No. 1 Kettler is to be dug as a 4,800-foot wildcat in Runtels County, three miles northeast of Winters.

It is 467 feet from south and 2,033 feet from east lines of H. Heavenhill survey No. 324, abstract 1259.

The drillsite is 5/8 mile southeast of the three-well Kendrick (Gardner oil) pool which produces at 4,295 feet.

TERRELL CHANGE

The junked and abandoned project in Terrell County is William Perlmans of Houston No. 1-6 Marjorie Cannon.

The new location is 1,123 feet from south and 1,052 feet from east lines of section 6, block 1, TCRU survey. It now will be operated as No. 1X-6 Marjorie Cannon.

Contract depth is 8,000 feet.

The drillsite is 1/5 miles north of the Brown-Bassett (Ellenburger) field and 2 1/4 miles north of the pool's Wolfcamp pay.

PECOS PROJECT

C&K Petroleum Inc., operating from Midland, spotted location for a 23,000-foot project in the Gomez (Ellenburger gas) field of Pecos County, nine miles northwest of Fort Stockton.

It is No. 1-7 Spectrum-Greenwood, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 81, block OW, CCSD&RGNG survey.

It is one mile west of Ellenburger gas production.

GAINES RE-ENTRY

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. of Midland will re-enter its No. 2 Norman, producer in the Norman (Canyon) field of Gaines County and test for production in the Wolfcamp.

If successful, the project will re-open the Wolfcamp pay. That zone will be commingled with the Canyon. Total depth is 12,330 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 7, block C-45, psi survey and 13 miles south of Seminole.

GAINES OILER

Union Texas also reported potential test on a field well in Gaines County.

The producer, No. 3 Sara Bullard, is in the Dominion (Silurian) field.

It finalized for a daily pumping potential of 229 barrels of oil, gravity and gas-oil ratio not reported, and 10 barrels of water.

Completion was through Silurian perforations from 13,258 to 13,352 feet.

Total depth is 13,356 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 13,355 feet.

It is one-half mile northwest of the field's discovery well and 2,173 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 81, block DD, John H. Gibson survey.

BORDEN DRILLSITE

Par Producing Co. of Snyder No. 1 Frank Miller is to be drilled as a project in the one-well Rafter Cross (Ellenburger) field of Borden County, five miles northeast of Gall.

Operator staked location 2,173 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 1, block 30, T-5-N, T&P survey.

Contract depth is 8,500 feet.

Drillsite is 900 feet south and slightly east of the pool's only Strawn well, and 2,200 feet south of the Ellenburger producer.

DAWSON LOCATION

MGF Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 Kibler is to be drilled 1/2 mile west of the discovery well of the two-well Wells, South (Spraberry) field of Dawson County, nine miles west of Lamesa.

The 8,400-foot project is 660 feet from south and east lines of labor 31, league 277, Glasscock County School Land survey.

Ground elevation is 2,981 feet.

HOCKLEY AMENDMENT

Texland-Rector & Schumacher of Fort Worth has amended its No. 5 L. G. Wilson, project in the Slaughter field, to make it a project in the Levelland (Abo) pool.

The project, 3.5 miles southwest of Levelland, is 1,198 feet from south and 949 feet from east lines of section 13, block 41, Maverick County School Land survey.

Contract depth is 7,500 feet.

NOLAN ACTIVITY

Frank W. Burger No. 2 W. Holladay is to be drilled one location northwest of the Noodle Creek opener in the Mistake multipay field of Nolan County, four miles southwest of Trend.

Location is 2,183 feet from south and 2,170 feet from east lines of section 44, block 19, T&P survey.

Contact depth is 2,990 feet. The discovery is the only Noodle Creek producer in the field.

Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., operating from Midland, will spud No. 3 Gertrude Withers one location north of one of the three wells in the Withers (Ellenburger) field three miles south of Sweetwater in Nolan County.

The 6,000-foot test is 2,240 feet from south and 2,015 feet from east lines of section 172, block 22, T&P survey.

Big firms cut prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Falling U.S. petroleum demand has spurred several of the nation's largest oil companies to reduce prices on crude oil.

Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) cut the price of 250,000 barrels of Alaskan crude oil it sells in the lower 48 states each day by $4 to $29 per 42-gallon barrel. The reduction by the producer of nearly half the Alaskan North Slope's 1.6 million barrels-a-day oil output was retroactive to May 1.

Sohio, Gulf Oil Corp., Atlantic Richfield Co. and Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), meanwhile, announced reductions of $1 to $1.50 a barrel on crude oil they produce or buy in states other than Alaska.

Spokesmen for other major producers, including Exxon Corp., Mobil Corp. and Texaco Inc., said Wednesday no price cuts had been posted.

The reductions applied only to oil that is exempt from federal price controls and were not expected to result in retail price cuts for gasoline and other products.

Four discoveries reported; pair of oil pools reopened

Operators have reported potential tests on discoveries in Ward, Schleicher and Runtels counties, and fields have been reopened in Borden and Stonewall counties.

WARD DISCOVERY

American Quasar Petroleum Co. No. 1 Marsten, a wildcat seven miles southeast of Monahans in Ward County, has been completed as a pumping Clear Fork discovery.

On 24-hour potential test, the well made 40 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 187 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,508 to 4,560 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 1,500-1.

The pay section was acidized with 3,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

Total depth is 7,525 feet, 7-inch pipe is set on bottom, and hole is plugged back to 6,730 feet.

The Clear Fork was topped at 4,508 feet on ground elevation of 2,561 feet. The Devonian was entered at 6,792 feet.

Well site is 467 feet from south and east lines of section 7, block B-19, psi survey.

BORDEN REOPENER

Woods Petroleum Corp. of Oklahoma City No. 1 Murphy has been completed to reopen the Von Roeder (Canyon reef) field of Borden County, 19 miles northeast of Vealmore.

The well finalized for a daily pumping potential of 30 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 370 barrels of water, natural, through perforations from 6,808 to 6,812 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 833-1.

Total depth is 7,465 feet, 5.5-inch casing is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 6,812 feet.

The Canyon reef was topped at 6,804 feet on ground elevation of 2,777 feet. Other tops include the Wolfcamp at 5,812 feet and the lower Wolfcamp at 6,222 feet.

Well site is 700 feet from north and 200 feet from east lines of section 81, block 25, H&TC survey. It is 900 feet southwest of a 6,836-foot dry hole and 1/4 mile east and slightly south of a 6,859-foot failure.

SCHLEICHER DISCOVERY

An unidentified discovery has been completed in Schleicher County, two miles west of Eldorado, by HNG Oil Co. of Midland.

The strike, No. 2-107 McAngus, was finalized for a daily pumping potential of 22 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 35 barrels of water, through perforations from 2,548 to 2,617 feet after 500 gallons of mud acid and 1,000 gallons of regular acid.

Hole was drilled to 5,509 feet and 4.5-inch casing was set 2,716 feet.

The Leonard was topped at 1,850 feet and the Wolfcamp at 3,441 feet on ground elevation of 2,444 feet.

Well site is 2 1/2 miles southwest of one of the two wells in the Mozelle (Queen) field and 1,136 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 107, block A, HE&WT survey.

RUNTELS STRIKES

Two discoveries have been reported in Runtels County.

D&J Operating Inc. of Abilene No. 1 Alton Jansa was completed as a Gardner sand gas discovery 11 miles southwest of Winters.

It completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,828,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with a gas-liquid ratio of 2,221-1. Gravity was not reported.

Completion was through perforations from 4,950 to 4,954 feet after a 250-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 4,977 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

The Gardner sand was topped at 4,944 feet on ground elevation of 1,917 feet. Other tops include the Coleman Junction, 2,078 feet; Palo Pinto, 4,150 feet; upper Capps, 4,418 feet; lower Capps, 4,550 feet, and Gardner lime, 4,842 feet.

Location is 2,371 feet from north and 7,112 feet from west lines of Burnett County School Land survey No. 271.

South Ranch Oil Co. Inc., of Tulsa, Okla., No. 1 Henkhaus was finalized as an unidentified gas discovery three miles northeast of Rowena in Runtels County.

The project was staked as Texlark Exploration Co. of Dallas No. 1 Henkhaus.

South Ranch reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 6 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 4,084 to 4,086 feet after a 250-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 4,186 feet and 2 3/8-inch pipe was set at 4,085 feet.

Location is 467 feet from north and 1,633 feet from east lines of W. R. Jackson survey No. 2, abstract 801.

STONEWALL REOPENER

Conoco Inc., operating from Midland, has reported the reopening of Caddo oil production in the Frankrick, East multipay field of Stonewall County, nine miles south of Aspermont.

The reopener is No. 3 W. Z. Rutherford "C," a re-entry project. Conoco reported a daily pumping potential of five barrels of 38.9-gravity oil and 168 barrels of water. Completion was through perforations from 4,416 to 5,437 feet after a 2,000-gallon acid treatment.

Original completion was through Ellenburger perforations from 6,066 to 6,080 feet. The hole is bottomed at 6,150 feet.

Location is 1,300 feet from north and 1,852 feet from west lines of section 144, block 1, H&TC survey.

PECOS GASSER

John H. Hendrix Corp. of Midland No. 1 Roxie Neal has been added as a producer to the Gomez (Ellenburger gas) pool of Pecos County, 11 miles northwest of Fort Stockton.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,232,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day.

Completion was from perforations at 21,730-22,170 feet after a 20,000-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 22,172 feet, 5.5-inch liner is set at 21,730 feet and 3.5-inch pipe was set at 22,170 feet, the plugged back depth.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 4, block 142, T&SL survey.

MARTIN WELL

John L. Cox of Midland No. 1-B Mabee Ranch has been completed in the Lacaff (Dean) field of Martin County, 24 miles north of Midland.

It finalized for a 24-hour pumping potential of 47 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 17 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 765-1.

Completion was through perforations from 8,944 to 9,862 feet after a 90,000-gallon fracture job.

Total depth is 9,920 feet, and 4.5-inch pipe is set at total depth.

Location is 933 feet from north and west lines of tract 13, block 318, Farmer County School Land survey and 1/2 mile east and slightly south of other Dean production.

BORDEN OILER

Laguna Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 2 W. D. Everett has been completed as the sixth well in the Aplark (lower Spraberry) pool of Borden County, four miles southwest of Gall.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 52 barrels of 41-gravity oil and 101 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 1,176-1.

The pay was acidized with 3,000 gallons and fractured with 60,000 gallons.

The fluid is from pay behind casing perforations from 6,604 to 6,466 feet.

Total depth is 6,689 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom.

Well site is 660 feet from north and 1,620 feet from west lines of section 17, block 31, T-4-N, T&P survey.

Wallace said Alaskan land bill could cost nation's poor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Moving congressional debate on the Alaskan Land Bill to the "deepest slums" might illustrate how much the bill could cost the nation's poor in possible jobs, says Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace.

Wallace urged the Texas congressional delegation to support a Senate committee version of the bill rather than the "highly restrictive" version that passed the House last year. "There is no more far-reaching" energy legislation pending before Congress, Wallace said in a Tuesday letter.

He said the bill drafted by the Senate Energy Committee would create 102 million acres of wildlife lands in Alaska. The House measure would establish 120 million acres of wilderness and park lands. Also, the House bill includes tough restrictions on the development of 68 million acres in national parks, wildlife refuges and other conservation areas. The Senate bill would protect 38 million acres.

The legislation would put off-limits much of the prime oil and gas land in Alaska, which ranks No. 1 in oil reserves among the states, Wallace said.

He quoted Alaska Gov. Jay Hammond as saying as of June 16 only seven oil rigs were operating in Alaska. By comparison, 436 rigs were operating in Louisiana and 956 in Texas. Wallace also quoted Hammond as saying development of Alaska's mineral potential could create 32,000 jobs in Alaska and the "lower 48" states.

"Never in my lifetime did I expect to see this great nation of ours — clearly in a crisis situation — locked in such a tormenting, self-destructive debate that pits 'needs' against 'wants.' The debate is symbolic of the schizophrenia that has gripped Washington," said Wallace.

Architect Marcel Raymaekers stands in front of a home he recently designed in Hasselt, Belgium, from materials recycled from castles. Raymaekers says, "For me, the historical value of the places we tear down is the least important." (AP Laserphoto)

He appeals to 'lord of the castle'

Belgian architect recycles regal remains

By ROBERT WIELAARD

REMOUCHAMPS, Belgium (AP) — Marcel Raymaekers tours Europe with a sledgehammer and a wrecking ball.

Raymaekers, a balding Belgian with bushy, Dickensian sideburns, is an architect with 10 "business associates," demolition experts who periodically summon him to watch them knock down an old castle.

"On the average we tear down five castles a year," Raymaekers, 47, said the other day as he watched a wrecker's ball blast through the wall of an 18th century chateau that had become a casualty of 20th century taxes and upkeep costs.

Just before the walls tumble on these jobs, Raymaekers bids on the building's innards and other artifacts that tickle his architectural fancy.

He may buy anything from hand-carved ceilings and ornamental stone cherubs to gothic window frames and arches, from baroque marble busts to entire tiled floors. At times, even, all the bricks and the old-fashioned kitchen sink.

Raymaekers has recycled many of the salvaged items in the 40-odd house plans he has drawn up. In one home, he used gothic arches and doorways from an old church as window frames.

He is currently building a house near his hometown of Genk, in eastern Belgium, in the shape of a castle from material from former chateaus. Most of the bricks will come from old chateaus.

"Everyone wants to be the lord of a castle," he said of the design. The house, a frivolous hodgepodge of styles inside and out, will cost about $250,000.

"For me the historical value of the places we tear down is the least important," Raymaekers said. He freely admits not being able to tell the difference between a Louis XIII chair and an Empire one. And, he said, he couldn't care less.

"People look at things like heavily ornamented 19th century stone window frames or doorways or marble pillars and wonder what purpose they served. They don't stop to think what purpose they can fulfill," he said.

"By recycling these items and finding a new purpose for them, I reevaluate them."

But doesn't it break a property owner's heart to see a bulldozer crash through his chateau?

"They are not exactly crying. Often they are laughing," he replied. "Consider the money they get for their property. Most places we tear down are often overgrown with weeds because maintenance costs are too high. Neglect set in years ago."

Raymaekers pays hefty sums for the contents of an old castle. He estimates the Remouchamps property, a modest two-story chateau in the Ardennes hills straddling the French-Belgian border, was carved up for "at least 10 million francs (about $333,000)," but possibly as much as half a million dollars.

Among his purchases was a massive stone family crest that adorned a wall next to the chateau's front door. It is 9 feet high and 5 feet wide and is chiseled 2 feet deep in relief. He paid $8,500.

If he can't use the crest in any of his architectural designs, Raymaekers said he will sell it in the lot of the "Queen of the South," his restaurant near Genk. The restaurant is named after a Mississippi riverboat whose ornate wooden name plate covers much of an outside wall, clashing with neo-classical window frames of old castles and churches.

The grounds around the restaurant are packed with evidence of Raymaekers' decade-old search for faded grandeur.

There were, at last count, 1,500 heavy wooden doors which he hopes to sell for about $6,000 each. As he walked past the cob-webbed collection, he recalled paying $100,000 for hundreds of doors, bought in one lot when an old Parisian library was torn down.

An ornate stone window frame, crowned with garlands, will sell for as much as $1,500. Raymaekers has tons of these and other articles like stone pillars and gargoyles.

"I've got to sort through these one day," he said, pointing to stacks of pillar segments.

He doesn't restrict himself to old chateaus and churches.

Also for sale — for $100,000 — are the huge steel gates (total length, 400 meters; total weight, 120 metric tons) that once surrounded Les Halles, the famed market complex in Paris.

Walking through his collection of architectural tidbits of centuries past, Raymaekers says: "This is a time of harvesting. These are the fat years that will have to carry me through the lean ones that are coming."

So far he has focused on Belgian and French castles. But France "is only good for another five more years or so," he said, and the market for Belgian chateaus is already very limited.

"That means after about five years we'll have to start looking to England. There are a fair number of places left there," he said.

Fleet Street: A fleeting notion?

By MAUREEN JOHNSON

LONDON (AP) — The owners' threat to close Britain's oldest Sunday newspaper, The Observer, is the latest evidence that things are getting worse along Fleet Street, London's famed newspaper row.

As a result of what The Times of London calls Fleet Street's "death wish," Britain's newspapers are being squeezed between the restrictive practices of the powerful unions and the nervous, uncoordinated responses of owners with a history of ducking showdowns.

"On the tombstones of Fleet Street write one word, 'suicide,'" The Times declared in a recent editorial. The Times and its weekly stable-mate, The Sunday Times, were shut down by a labor dispute for nearly a year, costing Lord Thomson of Fleet, the owner, more than $70 million. Publication resumed last November with the key issue — the refusal of the unions to allow journalists and advertising clerks to use computer terminals — unresolved.

No other national British newspaper has dared try to introduce the new technologies that are widely used in the United States.

Of the 18 newspapers with offices on or near Fleet Street, 10 are estimated to be losing money.

Express Newspapers, whose four publications lead the popular press with sales of 25 million copies a week, announced sweeping economy mea-

Many military recruits believed of lower mentality, report says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it has vastly underestimated the percentage of lower-mentality recruits accepted into military service.

The Pentagon, in a report to Congress, said it now believes that 30 percent of 1979 recruits belong in the lowest of four mental categories — not 5 percent as previously stated officially.

Defense officials blamed technical errors for the inflating of entrance test scores.

While the Pentagon studies focused on 1979 recruits, officials indicated such problems probably have existed over at least four years.

"We've been inflating the scores of youths coming into the military at least back to 1976 because of technical errors," said one specialist who asked to remain anonymous.

It was in 1976 that the Pentagon put into effect a standard qualification test for all the armed services, which previously had used separate examinations.

The defense manpower official denied that the 1976 tests were designed to "make the all-volunteer force look better than it is."

They said that technical work was flawed in introducing those tests, and that it dawned on them earlier this year that there might be something wrong with the way the results have been evaluated. The Pentagon reported this to Congress last winter.

After the problem surfaced, three separate studies were conducted by analytical and research groups. Their work was reviewed by what the Pentagon called "wise men" from several universities.

"They indicated that the norms in use were inaccurate and had inflated the Armed Forces Qualification Test scores of individuals in the lower end of the test score range," the Pentagon report said in describing conclusions submitted by the "wise men" last month.

Pentagon officials are particularly sensitive about the new findings because congressional critics have contended the all-volunteer force is suffering from poor quality in the ranks.

Noting this, the Pentagon report to Congress said that "millions of low-scoring soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines served their nation well in the past, both in war and in peace, and they continue to do so today."

Nonetheless, the Pentagon said it is analyzing the relationship between entrance test scores and job performance of Army enlistees with inflated scores.

"The first findings from this analysis suggest that most of the low-scoring people are performing adequately," the Pentagon said. Final results were promised when they are ready.

Statistics in the report show that the most dramatic over-scoring occurred in the Army among 1979 recruits. The percentage of lower-mental-category recruits was revised from 9 percent to 46 percent of the year's total.

The Marine Corps' went from 4 percent to 26 percent, the Navy from 4 percent to 18 percent and the Air Force from zero to 9 percent.

A new battery of tests is being prepared for introduction in October and officials say care is being taken to prevent repetition of errors that have skewed past test results.

At the same time, officials said, they are increasing the number of variations in the entrance tests to reduce possible cheating. In the past, recruits were given one of two versions of the tests.

Queen was treated by Iranian 'quack'

LINCOLNVILLE, Maine (AP) — Richard Queen says that even though he first felt the symptoms of multiple sclerosis last December while being held hostage in Tehran, he was seen only by a "quack" until his condition worsened in June.

At a news conference Wednesday at his parents' home, Queen said he first noticed numbness in his left arm less than six weeks after he and his co-workers at the American embassy in Iran were taken hostage.

"I asked for a doctor," he said. "They had a pharmacist there, and he called in a doctor. I called him a quack. He said, 'Everybody gets this. It'll get better.' He said, 'Take these vitamins. In a couple of weeks, you'll be perfect.'"

The doctor told him he had a twisted spine, and he saw the physician only once more during a visit by the Red Cross.

Queen said that by May, he was having trouble with his right arm. But it was only in late June, when he suffered dizziness, nausea and loss of hearing, that the militants sent him to a hospital. Within days, he was released.

Detroit may build new GM plant, mayor says

DETROIT (AP) — The city may build a new 500-acre assembly plant for General Motors Corp. if it can obtain a federal loan to finance the project, Mayor Coleman Young says.

Emmett Moten, Detroit's top development official, was meeting federal officials in Washington today to discuss financial arrangements for the plant, which would have an estimated price tag of at least $500 million.

Site acquisition and preparation would cost another $120 million to $150 million, city officials estimate.

Under the plan, the city would build the plant and lease it to GM to recover construction costs.

But federal officials are pessimistic about the city's chances of obtaining such a large loan.

GM wants to build its new plant on the site of the old Dodge Main plant in Hamtramck, a city within Detroit, to replace its aging Cadillac and Fleetwood Fisher Body facilities.

Young said the city would seek most of the money from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development under a program that lends cities money at low interest rates.

The KZ1000 is an unquestionably fast motorcycle. With its legendary 1015cc engine, the KZ1000 has been Superbike Production Champion two years running.

It comes with an automatic chain tensioner, transistorized ignition and three all-weather drilled disc brakes.

The handling is superb and so's the comfort. It's a winner on the track and a winner on the street.

New FHA "Mini-Payments"
Now Ramcon has it in Midland

Nothing Down V.A. $2,450 Down F.H.A., I
$678 Total Monthly $631 Total Monthly

Midland schools, with the Elementary just blocks away, have greatly contributed to the success of the already popular Wilshire Park neighborhood. Because of the recent passage of important federal housing legislation, RAMCON can now offer the new FHA "MINI-PAYMENTS" which lowers dramatically the monthly payment. Scores of homeowners are buying the RAMCON FHA "MINI-PAYMENT" way right now. Our record-breaking sales in the past year are dramatic proof that TOP QUALITY at an affordable monthly payment is what informed buyers demand.
