Domestic oil prices reduced

Slump in demand prompts cut

NEW YORK (AP) - A slump in petroleum demand following nearly two years of spiraling prices has prompted several major U.S. oil companies to reduce for the second time this summer the prices they post on domestic oil output. Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), the nation's sixth-largest oil company, said it cut the price it pays independent producers or sets on its own output to $36 a barrel, from $38, for low-sulfur crude and to $34 a barrel, from $35, for poorer-quality high-sulfur oil.

No. 19 Cities Service Co., said it made similar reductions. The trade publication Petroleum Intelligence Weekly said No. 3 Texaco Inc. and No. 5 Gulf Oil Corp. also cut prices as much as $2 per 42-gallon barrel.

The reductions took effect Monday and were applicable to oil produced in the lower 48 states. Oil companies earlier in the summer had reduced prices as much as $1.50

The price cuts, the first set of general reductions since the 1960s, came as oil inventories in the United States and in other industrial countries swelled to record levels following a 132 percent jump in world crude oil prices since January 1979. Oil production by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, meanwhile, has fallen to a 41/2-year low of 27 million barrels a day. OPEC provides 27 percent

The oil-price spiral has been termed a major cause of a 7 percent cutback in U.S. gasoline use in the first seven months of the year.

The cutback has prompted a series of wholesale gasoline price reductions by most refiners and appears to have triggered a small reduction last month in the U.S. average retail gasoline price.

According to a survey by the Lundberg Letter, another industry publication, the average price fell to $1.231 a gallon in August from $1.237 in July.

On Wednesday, Gulf Chairman Jerry McAfee said in Pittsburgh he believes the price of gasoline "should hold" around current levels "for the next 12 months."

But industry analysts say the weak demand is not likely to result in sharply lower retail prices because the 60 percent of U.S. crude oil production still under federal price controls is gradually rising toward world levels under a government program.

Price controls will be lifted from U.S. oil production in October 1981. According to the latest government figures available, the U.S. average crude oil price in April was $15.46 a barrel, about half the world price. The world price of oil is around $32 a barrel today.

Prices charged by OPEC members have not risen since

In a related item, the weekly publication Saudi Report said Wednesday that Saudi Arabia has completed begotiations for 100 percent acquisition of Arabian American Oil Co., the U.S.-owned consortium that handles nearly all Saudi oil production.

The publication cited Abdul Hadi Taher, governor of the Saudi Arabian state-owned petroleum and minerals company Petromin, as saying his government bought out the remaining 40 percent share held by the consortium of Exxon Corp., Texaco Inc., Standard Oil Co. of California and Mobil Corp. for about $1.5 billion.

Reagan raps Carter on his Mideast policy

By LEE BYRD Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan says the Mideast is "approaching a flashpoint" because of weak and confused leadership by Jimmy Carter — a charge leveled only hours after the President's announcement that Israel and Egypt will resume their stalled peace talks under his mantle.

In an address Wednesday night to B'nai B'rith, the Jewish service organization, the Republican presidential nominee said Carter has sacrificed America's reputation as a trustworthy ally and that his conduct of foreign policy "has been marked by inconsistency and incompetence.

Reagan headed to Florida and Louisiana today in the wake of his now-famous Labor Day gaffe over the Ku Klux Klan, a remark which drew severe criticism throughout the

The Republican nominee stuck word-for-word with his prepared text Wednesday night, even to the point of ignoring the disclosure by Carter that another three-way summit is in the works with Egypt and Israel.

But when a reporter asked him about it outside a Washington hotel, Reagan declared: "I think it's Nonetheless, Reagan charged in his address that the president merely 'stands by and watches" while Israel is isolated by international terrorism and U.N. resolutions designed to undercut its position. Carter gets his chance to reply in a speech to B'nai B'rith tonight.

Reagan said that the Soviet Union has made new inroads in the Mideast, and "because of the weak and confused leadership of Jimmy Carter, we are approaching a flashpoint in this tragic process." Carter said that his Mideast negotiator, Sol Linowitz, had informed him after his arrival in Cairo from Tel Aviv that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin had agreed to resume bi-lateral talks within weeks and "they both approved a reconvening of the summit conference later this year at an appropriate time that will be convenient for all of us."

Administration officials said the new summit would occur after the

Nov. 4 election. The president spent the day Wednesday courting ethnic and black voters in Philadelphia, after collecting the endorsements of the millionmember American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the 250,000 member United Transportation Union.

Today, the president was virtually certain to be handed the biggest labor prize of all - the formal nod of the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO.

Reagan told the B'nai B'rith that ambiguities in the 1978 Camp David peace accords were responsible for bringing negotiations to a dangerous

'Now it (Jerusalem) exists as a shared trust," said Reagan. "The holy places of all faiths are protected and open to all . . . each is under the care and control of representatives of the respective faiths.

And then he declared: "Unlike the days prior to 1967, Jerusalem is now and will continue to be one city, undivided, with continuing free access for all. That is why I disagree with the cynical actions of the Carter Administration in pledging to preserve the status of Jerusalem in its party platform - and its undercutting Israel and Jerusalem by abstaining on a key U.N. vote.

Reagan said that as a United States ally, Israel must remain strong.

"The interests of all the world are served by peace and stability in the Middle East," he said. "To weaken Israel is to destabilize the Middle East and risk the peace of the world.

The former California governor's speech re-affirmed his longstanding commitment to a strong Israel. "In defending Israel's right to exist," he said, "we defend the very values upon which our nation is built." Meanwhile, John Anderson, the independent candidate, tried to dispel dering financially. "The money is coming in, fear not," he told reporters in Detroit as he completed a five-day campaign swing through Wisconsin, Illinois and Michidestitute.' And he added: "Retired Americans have not volunteered for that kind of suffering, and we are not going to ask them oo do it.' With the League of Women Voters set to decide by Sept. 10 whether to include Anderson in its first presidential debate, Anderson said he would appear alone with Reagan should Carter refuse to participate.

Some miners still on strike in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — About 15,000 miners at three coal pits in Upper Silesia remained on strike today in local disputes after accepting a basic pact on unions and wages with Polish government negotiators, local sources said.

This communist country announced that the Soviet Union had granted it further financial credit so that it can buy from the West badly needed raw materials for industry and pose price controls to check the rising cost of living.

In Washington, the AFL-CIO today established a special assistance fund to help Polish workers enlarge their newly won independent union movement. Reportedly, the Carter administration objected to such action, saying the Soviet Union might view the fund as interference from the West.

Earlier today, the official news agency PAP said coal miners throughout Silesia were back at work following the settlement Wednesday granting them the right to form an independent trade union and allowing other job concessions. But the sources said the holdouts in Bytom, a city of about 100,000, were remaining off the job to underline their demand for changes in management. Mining Minister Wlodzimierz workers commission that replaced the local strike committee, the sources said.

The government tackled the economic roots of the crisis it hoped was ending with an announcement Wednesday that the State Price Committee would fix prices for meat and 46 other basic foods, 55 consumer items, rents and public transport fares. Heretofore, prices have been prises and service industries.

The announcement gave no indication what levels of prices would be set or how the panel would go about determining them. The biggest unanswered question appeared to be whether the government would revive the subsidies which had kept the price of meat down and which it cancelled on July 1 in an attempt to improve its grave financial position.

The hike in meat prices that followed touched off strikes that built up to the communist regime's crisis worst crisis in 10 years and forced the Communist Party to promise social and political reforms never before conceded in a Soviet Bloc country. These included the right to organize free, independent trade unions, the right to strike and a relaxation of censorship.

Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Ja-gielski said Poland faces "very difficult problems" in obtaining raw materials for industry and "the Soviet Union has given us an additional financial credit for purchases of raw materials in the West.'

Jagielski said the loan would be used to buy materials for the chemical and steel industries as well as food supplies, but he did not specify the amount of the credit.

The Polish military paper Zolnierz Wolnosci said in a commentary the army could not remain indifferent to those who sought to weaken the unity of the nation. "The morale and political unity of the community is one of the basic sources of strength of our military," the paper said. "Therefore, whoever weakens that unity attacks the defensive part of the country and soldiers cannot remain indifferent.

"If the present situation in parts of our country brings anxiety, it is because a moment can come when it will bring profit to those political circles in the world which have been and are hostile to Poland."

Teachers' strikes plague 10 states

By The Associated Press

School officials in Rochester, N.Y., pledged to open public school classes today despite picketing by teachers in one of the 60 strikes plaguing 10 states. More than 500,000 youngsters are affected by the walkouts, the National Education Association says.

More than half of Rochester's 58 schools were closed Wednesday, the start of the school year, after most of the 2,300 teachers defied a court injunction forbidding the walkout. About 20,000 of the city's 34,000 students showed up for class, officials

The NEA reported teachers also were on strike in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Arizona, Washington, Rhode Island and

Officials in Newark, N.J., said they would open schools today as scheduled for 60,691 students in the state's largest school district, where 4,321 members of the Newark Teachers Union voted Wednesday to strike:

The teachers, following a no-contract, no-work policy, were seeking a 10 percent across-the-board salary increase. The school board had not offered any increase

Closed-door talks continued in Philadelphia between striking teachers and school officials. Classes resume Friday for some 220,000 students. The contract for 23,000 teachers and other school employees expired Monday.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, 12,500 teachers in 12 school districts were on strike, disrupting classes for 45,800 students

In Columbus, Ohio, public schools opened today for 73,000 students with teachers on the job but bus drivers, maintenance and food service employees staying away. The Columbus Education Association voted Wednesday not to honor picketing by the Ohio Association of Public School Employ-

The school board was considering seeking court orders to force the strikers back to their jobs. The OAPSE wants a 14-month contract with a 95-cent-an-hour pay raise, while the board offered a two-year pact with the same raise.

Strikes in three other Ohio school districts continued.

In other teacher activity: -More than 86,000 Michigan students and 4,700 teachers have been idled in 20 strikes. The Michigan Education Association said 122 school districts had no contracts, but classes were held while bargaining contin-

-Some 1,760 Illinois teachers were on strike in 12 school districts with 30,296 students affected.

-A strike by teachers in Sierra Vista, Ariz., entered its second day. About two-thirds of the 300 teachers stayed away from class on Wednesday, and about half the 5,700 students did not attend. Teachers are seeking binding arbitration for disputed contract items.

-More than 1,500 teachers remained on strike in four Washington state school districts. There were classes for the 1,500 students in Castle Rock, but nearly 29,000 others yongster were idled.

-In Rhode Island, some 15,700 students were at home because of teacher strikes in Woonsocket and Cumberland, and a walkout by janitors in North Providence that was honored by teachers.

-A one-day strike by janitors at the New Haven, Conn., public schools ended Wednesday, and in Iowa, theologians at the University of Dubuque ended a strike early Thursday after reaching a tentative agreement for a 10 percent increase in salary and

Free pneumonia vaccine for elderly being urged

BOSTON (AP) - Dispensing free pneumonia vaccine to all Americans over 65 would make financial as well as medical sense because the cost to Medicare would largely be offset by lower doctor bills, a federal study has concluded.

A vaccine that prevents several kinds of pneumonia, the nation's fifth largest killer, has been available for three years, but federal laws prevent Medicare from covering its distribu-

Medicare could provide the vaccine at a net cost of $5 per person, according to a federal study in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medi-

The study, prepared for Congress by the Office of Technology Assessment, urged lawmakers to give "serious consideration" to providing the vaccine to the elderly as a Medicare benefit

The vaccine prevents pneumonia caused by 14 different varieties of pneumococcal bacteria. Those germs are responsible for 10 percent to 35 percent of all cases of pneumonia, or 5,000 to 17,000 deaths a year, experts estimate.

It would cost $26 million, or $5 a person, to vaccinate all those currently 65 or older who would want the vaccine, according to the study, directed by Dr. Jane Sisk Willems. The cost was calculated by subtracting the amount Medicare would otherwise pay to treat elderly people who get sick with pneumonia.

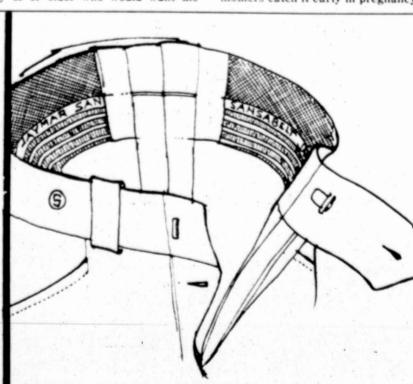

The Social Security Act now forbids Medicare payments for vaccinations, physical exams and checkups for glasses and hearing aids. But a bill due for consideration in the House late this week or next week would allow Medicare to pay for pneumonia vaccine, said Rita McGrath, a Medicare official.

The Food and Drug Administration allows the pneumonia vaccine to be used for people especially threatened by the disease. Besides the elderly, that includes people recovering from severe illnesses and those suffering from lung, heart and kidney disor-

In a separate study in the journal, doctors from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta found the vaccine is far less effective for sick people than it is for the healthy.

In other studies reported by the journal:

-Doctors say hospitals should consider requiring their staffs to be immunized against German measles, a disease that can cause birth defects if mothers catch it early in pregnancy.

The AFL-CIO, which sat out the 1972 election, endorsed Carter for election in 1976 by a unanimous vote of the executive council.

This year, at least two major unions represented on the executive council are refusing to endorse Carter. The 900,000-member Machinists union voted Wednesday at its convention in Cincinnati to stay netural. The American Federation of Government Employees, which represents 300,000 federal workers, decided last weekend to remain neutral.

Leaders of the Machinists, who had backed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination, are bitter over Carter's decision to allow price controls to come off of domestic oil. "The Reagan thing really scares our people," said an official of the one million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which endorsed Carter on

"But under Reagan we would really die," said the official, who did not want to be named, "so we had no alternative but to endorse Carter."

Other labor officials agreed that their campaigns will take on more of an anti-Reagan than pro-Carter flavor because of the difficulty of defending Carter's economic policies to their members.

Carter has sought as his top economic priority to control inflation by holding down federal spending. Labor has argued that such a policy does not work. Instead, it wants him to increase spending for jobs programs to combat rising unemployment.

Commission to rule on Anderson funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission is close to making a decision critical to John B. Anderson's ability to compete with the two major-party nominees during the late stages of the 1980 presidential election campaign. The commission was expected to rule today on whether the independent presidential candidate would be eligible for retroactive public funding for his campaign. Unlike President Carter and Ronald Reagan, the Democratic and Republican presidential nominees, Anderson will receive no taxpayer funds

Under existing campaign finance laws, Reagan and Carter will both receive $29.4 million as the nominees of their parties. As an independent, Anderson has raised $5.9 million since last April from private solicitations, mainly direct mail appeals. Federal election laws provide public funding for third-party candidates if they receive five percent of the vote on Nov. 4. After a preliminary court fight, the FEC has been directed by a federal judge to examine whether Anderson should be considered a third-party candidate for purposes of the election law even though he is running as an independent with no intention of establishing a new political organiza-

Campaigning in Detroit on Wednesday, Anderson said he badly need a favorable FEC ruling to counter a "media blitz" expected in the closing days of the campaign by the Carter and Reagan campaign organiza-

Such a ruling, Anderson said, would permit him to borrow against the promise of federal funds to be delivered after the election.

Retroactive funds would enable us in the closing weeks of the campaign, or perhaps the closing days of the campaign, to have a large media budget," said Anderson, whose campaign is directed by New York political advertising whiz David Garth.

The law provides no specific amount that the Republican congressman from Illinois would receive, but under a complicated formula which includes the votes Reagan and Carter get in the election, Anderson could pick up more than $20 million, depending on the outcome of the vot-

At a news conference, Anderson also said that following a very poor month of fundraising in August, September began with a rain of direct-mail contributions totaling $174,840 on Tuesday. It was by no means clear that he would continue to pull in contributions at that rate during a period when he is still at a relatively low standing in the polls.

Reagan searching for votes in several southern states

WASHINGTON (AP) — After assailing President Carter's Middle East policies, Ronald Reagan is searching for votes in southern states that Carter swept in 1976 but is worried about carrying this year.

The Republican presidential nominee headed today to Florida and Louisiana, two states that together carry one-tenth of the 270 electoral votes he needs to bump Carter out of the White House. Reagan was scheduled to speak to a businessmen's group in Jacksonville before flying to New Orleans for a rally with Gov. David

He returns to Washington late to-

It is Reagan's first trip south since the controversy earlier this week over his statement that Carter had opened his campaign in the city "that gave birth to and is the parent body of the Ku Klux Klan." Seven Democratic governors in the South, including Florida, demanded an apology and Reagan responded by saying he meant no slur against Carter or the region.

Reagan strategists are confident he can carry Louisiana and have put Florida high on their list of "probable" states. In 1976 the South was Carter's political base and he carried every state in the region except Vir-

Reagan sets out on the trip fresh from telling a Jewish audience that "Carter stands by and watches" as Israel is "increasingly isolated by international terrorism and by United Nations resolutions designed to undermine Israel's position in the world.

In a speech to the B'nai B'brith, the Jewish service organization, Reagan said Carter has proven he is not a reliable friend of Israel. He made a point of noting that Carter had authorized the sale of sophisticated weapons to some of Israel's longtime enemies - such as the sale of F-15 fighters to Saudi Arabia, tanks to Jordan and turbine engines for Iraqi warships but made no reference to U.S. aid and weapon sales to the Jewish state..

"Today we have fewer allies and, among those, we speak with diminished authority," Reagan charged. "Our relations with Israel are marked by doubt and distrust. Israel today is in grave danger, and so is freedom itself.'

He said the cornerstone of U.S.-Israeli relations should be that "a secure, strong Israel is in America's self-interest. Israel is a major strategic asset to America. Israel is not a client but a very reliable friend, which is not something that can always be said of the United States today under the Carter administra-

Reagan expressed reservations about the Camp David accords and made no mention in his speech of Carter's announcement hours earlier that Egypt and Israel soon will resume peace negotiations.

Too much government

Is there too much government in the United States nowadays? Has our federal bureaucracy become too cumbersome, too unwieldy, too unconcerned with human needs and desires?

In a recent newsletter, U.S. Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas addressed that particular question and offered some examples of government over-regulation that should shock some Americans back to reality.

The congressman noted that it is estimated that it takes private industry 130 million manhours to fill out 9,800 individual forms for the government. Additionally, IRS reporting and recording requirements result in 613 million hours of burden each year on businesses and individuals.

The regulatory industry, Congressman Collins says, includes 11 cabinet departments, 59 independent agencies and over 1,200 advisory boards, committees, councils and commissions. Based on the 1979 federal budget, $4.8 billion was authorized just to support the federal regulatory agencies. That figure represents a 115% increase over the 1974 level.

The federal reporting burden for business is estimated to be $100 billion per year and the Federal Register, the code of federal regulations, is estimated to be 100,000 pages long for 1980.

Cost of federal regulation on private industry, especially small business, is staggering. Small business constitutes 97% of this nation's free enterprise system, produces 43% of the gross nationat product, generates 76% of the nation's total dollar volume in construction and 73% of the total dollar volume in retailing. Small business also employs 58% of the nation's private, non-agricultural work force.

Yet it costs small business $11.3 billion to complete paperwork for the IRS, $1.6 billion for the Department of Labor, $626 million for the Small Business Administration, $369 million for the Bureau of the Census and $1.1 billion for various other agencies.

And what's the effect of all this government regulation? Well, according to Congressman Collins:

- A gas station owner spent 600 hours filling out just his federal reporting forms.

- An Idaho businessman paid a $500 fine rather than fill out a federal form which was 63 feet

Environmental protection costs to business will rise an estimated 41% to $13.5 billion this year from $9.6 billion in 1978.

- A dairy plant licensed by 250 local governments, three states and 20 agencies underwent 47 inspections in one month alone.

- A company was forced out of the toy business because one of its main products was inadvertently placed on a federal ban list.

- A butcher had a federal agency tell him to put a grated floor in his shop one month. The next month another federal agency told him he could not have a grated floor.

- An Oregon company with three small shops received federal forms weighing 45 pounds.

On top of all that, government regulation also hits the consumer by needlessly raising the cost of production and eventually the prices of the products we all buy.

Does the United States suffer from too much government? You be the judge.

New hijacking policy keeps Havana close by

WASHINGTON - There seems to be a rash of airplane hijackings to Cuba lately. One can only gather that the hijackers are disappointed refugees who are homesick for the old country and want to get back there as fast as possible.

This is understandable but very inconvenient for people who are on the same plane and have no interest in seeing Havana.

The U.S. government is doing everything to beef up security and weed out the would-be hijackers but with little success. It seems to me that they are overlooking the easiest and cheapest solution to the problem.

Instead of trying to stop hijacking, we should provide free air transportation back to any Cuban refugee who doesn't want to stay.

Major fields in Florida would have planes on a 24-hour standby basis, and all the disaffected Cuban would have to do is call a toll-free number and make a reservation.

The planes would be provided by the airlines, who would save thousands of dollars by giving this kind of service rather than deal with the rerouting of a hijacked plane and the irate passengers that are on board. This is how the "Hijacker Money-

Saving Plan" would work: As each refugee disembarks in Key

Murphy's trial later this month. On Jan. 10, 1980, Murphy, his longtime associate Laurence Buser, and the FBI's unwitting recruiter of possibly bribe-susceptible congressmen, Howard Criden, met with FBI operatives Anthony Amoroso and Mel Weinberg in a Washington townhouse. A lucrative deal involving Puerto Rican shipping was to be nailed down - while the FBI's hidden cameras

Murphy sat silently, sipping a scotch and water, while Buser discussed the financing of the arrangement by the Arab sheik whom Amoroso and Weinberg supposedly represented. The Abscam agents repeatedly tried to focus the conversation on the congressman, but Buser didn't bite.

Buser (referring to Murphy): 'He's not in this.'

Weinberg: "He's not?" Amoroso: "Well, wait a minute. I sold this thing on the basis that he's gonna help, and he's gonna be a prime mover ... and he is gonna be there." Buser: "And he is ... He'll do that, anyway.' At one point, while Murphy was not present, the FBI agent gave Criden an envelope containing money, and got Criden's assurance that Murphy was in on the deal. It is possible, of course, that Criden was simply trying to keep the money spigot turned on. Later, Amoroso called Murphy

Realization of Marxism is painful for Latin Americans

More and more Latin Americans are coming to realize that Marxists really are running Nicaragua But the realization comes painfully. Even yet, some of the now-disenchanted former backers of the Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN) cannot find it in their hearts to admit that they deceived them-The vigorously democratic newspaper, La Nacion, published in San Jose, capital of the neighboring republic of Costa Rica, for example, proclaimed recently that "Nicaragua s one step away from being convert ed into a Marxist-Leninist state." La Nacion, like virtually all other democratic newspapers in Costa Rica, applauded the years-long strug-gle that the Sandinistas led against the Somoza dynasty, without ever paying much attention to the totali-

Nicaraguan revolutionaries. Now, though, the Costa Ricans complain that "the (Sandinistas) commandants deceived the whole world, all international forums, all tarian ideology and tactics of the friendly governments. ... That is not the case. Commandant Tomas Borge, the only founding member of the Sandinista organization still alive, has never made any secret of his Marxist-Len-inist ideology. Nor have the other Marxists in the Sandinista directorate. And they run Nicaragua, and they are at least morally supporting the Marxist revolutionary movements elsewhere in Central America, particularly in El Salvador and Guatemala, if not also in Costa Rica.

As La Nacion views Nicaragua today, "The days of a precarious pluralism, of a mixed economy, of a fragile and unstable freedom of the press are counted. That last, press freedom, is a big concern of the famed Nicaraguan newspaper, La Prensa. It was the murder of La Prensa's editor, Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, Jan. 10, 1978, that triggered the popular uprising of which the Sandinistas took advantage to launch the bloody struggle that toppled the government of Gen. Anastasio Somoza in July 1979. Blaming Somoza for the killing, Chamorro's brother, Xavier, and his widow, Violet, played a leading role in mobilizing public opinion against the Somoza government. For nine months after the triumph of the Sandinista revolution, Mrs. Chamorro held a post on the fivemember governing junta.

After she resigned, for reasons of health in April, labor troubles forced closure of the newspaper for more than a month. Her brother-in-law split with the rest of the Chamorro family and opened a competing daily, taking with him most of the employees of La Prensa.

Since then, the Sandinistas have been waging a campaign of harassment against the Chamorro family daily, alleging that it is "counterrevolutionary" and has become a tool of the oligarchy. La Prensa clearly is worried over

Castro and those being applied in Nicaragua by the Sandinistas. First, perhaps, is the refusal of the Sandinistas to hold prompt elections. Why? is the standard Marxist retort. The people would vote overwhelmingly for us and that would be the end the parallels between the political strategies perfected by Cuba's Fidel of "political pluralism." Worrisome, too, is the fact that the Sandinistas have established absolute control over Nicaragua's armed forces and police. Those members of the National Guard, which served as both army and police during the Somoza years, who did not manage to fly the country when Somoza gave up and went into exile, have been held in iail since July 1979 That is to say that there is no chance of a repetition of what happened in Chile in September 1973 when the armed forces and national police (carabineros) ousted the Marxist government of President Salvador Allende. What is more the Sandinistas are in the process of disarming those private individuals who have their own firearms With police and army at the service of the Marxist-dominated government. La Prensa necessarily must be circumspect in its political commentaries. It would have no defense against attack by government-inspired mobs. In neighboring Costa Rica, though, La Nacion can indulge in the luxury of recalling "the absolute surrender of Costa Rica to Sandinista insurrection, to the point of turning our land into their very own sanctuary" and wondering "if it was wise and prudent for Costa Rica ... to serve as a bridge for the designs of Fidel Castro." the small society

Six executed for theater fire

By The Associated Press

An Iranian firing squad executed six people at dawn today for a motion picture theater fire that reportedly claimed 422 lives, Tehran Radio said. At the time of the fire in August 1978, before the downfall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi,, authorities claimed it was caused by firebombs.

The broadcast said a special Islamic revolution court found the six responsible for the fire at the Rex Cinema in Abadan. Among the six identified in the broadcast were two theater executives and two former police officials in Abadan.

Tehran radio said seven other people were sentenced to death in absen-tia and 17 were given jail sentences ranging from two to six months. Five more were acquitted, the broadcast

At the time, the government blamed the fire on anti-shah Islamic extremists, but the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini which seized power in February 1979 has alleged that the blaze was set by agents of the shah's government.

One of the six executed and four of the seven sentenced in absentia were identified by Tehran Radio as a "torturers" from the shah's now-defunct secret police, Savak.

In Geneva, Switzerland, half the experts on a U.N. human rights panel have signed an appeal for the release of 52 Americans taken hostage in Iran 10 months ago today.

The document, circulated by John Carey, an international law specialist and American member of the U.N. Subcommission on the Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, has 13 co-sponsors.

tion, which notes the International Court of Justice decision in May calling for the hostages' freedom, will be voted on Friday.

The subcommission has 26 members. Three of them, including one Iranian, have been absent since proceedings began last month, Carey

The resolution, which would not be binding if accepted, urges that the hostages be freed "so that they may return to their homes and families and resume a normal life, in accordance with humanitarian princi-

It also calls for "mercy and compassion ... for the hostages, who have been allowed little or no outside communication for over 300 days."

The Iranian official news agency Pars reported that Baathist forces from Iraq attacked the border city of Qasr-e-shirin, in western Iran, on Wednesday. The report indicated Iran's revolutionary military forces retaliated and destroyed a base for Baathist groups in Iraqi territory.

The Khomeini regime announced Wednesday that religious missionaries who want to travel to Iran to conduct religious, teaching, medical or charitable activities must register at least two months in advance with the National Guidance Ministry, according to Tehran Radio.

It added that missionaries "may not take part in any kind of political, let alone unlawful, activities.'

The regime has alleged that some religious missionaries in Iran are spies for the United States, Britain and Israel. Last week, Iran's exiled Anglican bishop, the Rt. Rev. Hassan Dahqani-Tafti, called such allegations "baseless, malicious lies."

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) -Shutters covered the fronts of usually bustling women crowded fish and fowl markets as Egyptians came to grips with a government ban on the sale of beef and lamb during September.

President Anwar Sadat announced the ban Tuesday and it took effect Wednesday. He said he hoped to drive down inflated retail prices by keeping meat off the market for 30 days, building up a stockpile and then flooding the market.

Court dismisses arrest warrants

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The state Supreme Court has thrown out arrest warrants against 48 Iranians who left the Monroe courthouse grounds after a City Court judge decided to try them individually and ordered them to stay outside until he called for them.

However, the justices ruled Wednesday the Iranians may still be prosecuted on charges of trespass and resisting arrest.

Those charges stemmed from a noisy demonstration at which a former Iranian diplomat was hooted down. Attorneys for the Iranians contended the arrests violated the students' right to free speech.

Government rounds up wild horses

MARSING, Idaho (AP) - Wide-eyed with fear and driven by a siren-blaring helicopter, the wild stallion plunged through sagebrush an into a makeshift corral.

In minutes, the horse had been transformed from an animal with a 135,000-acre home into a ward of the federal government. His band of mares and colts quickly joined him.

The animals Wednesday became the first rounded up by the Bu-reau of Land Management in an effort to trim the number of wild horses roaming a tract of Owyhee County in west-

Under the BLM' "Adopt a Horse Pro-'the horses will be gram, given them without charge to anyone willing to take care of them.

During the roundup, Dan Kettle of Marsing piloted a helicopter over the barren range until he spotted a band of horses. He then swooped down, stampeding them.

When the animals ran the wrong way, Kettle herded them in the right direction.

Kettle guided the horses into a draw where the federal agency had built a corral, using sagebrush to conceal it. As the horses entered the enclosure, wranglers closed the gates behind

Cwboys opened a load-ing chute to a stock truck and, with shouts, channeled the horses into the truck.

In less than a half hour, the horses had been driven off the range and were on their way to the county's fairgrounds about 20 miles away.

By noon, the roundup had collected 34 horses in three sorties.. In five days, the bureau said, it hopes to capture 250 horses. The BLM will put some up for adoption and some will be sent back to the range.

Michelle Good, a bureau spokeswoman, said the agency has 827 applications for the horses. But most will be disappointed, she said, because they want a horse under three years of age and fewer than half those captured would be that young.

The bureau says about 410 horses roam the rangeland, which can sup-t no more than 115.

Rumors that Abbie Hoffman, known to neighbors as free-lance writer Barry Freed, occupied this summer houme in Fineview, on the St. Lawrence River's Wellesley Island in northern New York, surfaced several years ago. Few were surprised to hear the tales were true — and that Hoffman plans to surrender to authorities after six years as a fugitive. (AP Laserphoto)

He's not 'going to run anymore'

NEW YORK (AP) - Abbie Hoffman, the former Yippie leader and anti-war activist who had disappeared more than six years ago when he jumped bail on a cocaine charge, surrendered at the Manhattan district attorney's office today, a spokeswo-

He eluded about 40 reporters waiting for him in front of the New York State Office Building, where the state special narcotics prosecutor has his office, by going in a side entrance.

Hoffman had been living for several years under the name Barry Freed as a free-lance writer and ecology activist on a tiny island in the St. Lawrence river. His surrender was announced by Mary de Bourbon, spokeswoman for Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau.

Prior to the surrender, an associate had said Hoffman would be at his publisher's office for a news conference at 12:30 p.m., less than four hours later.

Without a special deal, normal processing of a bail jumper takes 24 to 36 hours, with steps that include processing through central booking, fingerprinting and photographing, checking the print record through the centralized computer in Albany, and drafting and filing a bail-jump charge before the suspect appears before a judge for possible setting of bail.

In an interview broadcast on ABC TV Wednesday, Hoffman had told Barbara Walters: "I wasn't going to run any more.

His lawyer Gerald Lefcourt, had said, "He will be coming out soon because he feels now is a good time. When people learn his story, they will be impressed."

Hoffman went underground in 1974

after skipping $50,000 bail on a charge of trying to sell cocaine to an undercover officer. At the time, a conviction could have meant 15 years to life imprisonment.

Reports had been circulating that Hoffman, whose autobiography, 'Soon to be a Major Motion Picture,' was published Monday, would surface this week if he could make a deal avoiding a long prison term for selling

Miss Walters said he had been living under the name of Barry Freed in the tiny upstate New York community of Fineview. A portion of the interview was shown Wednesday on ABC News, and a longer version was to be broadast tonight on the network's "20-20" program.

Miss Walters said Hoffman had been living in the community along the St. Lawrence River with former model Johanna Lawrenson. His appearance altered by plastic surgery on his nose, Hoffman zealously adopted environmental causes and helped form the Save the River Committee. His testimony at a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing about the St. Lawrence River won him a letter of commendation from Gov. Hugh Carey. Miss Walters reported he also won an appointment to a federal Commission on Water Re-

Brother and sister ready for reunion

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) - Jack Hoffman and his sister, Phyllis Ramos, were heading for a reunion in New York today with their brother, Abbie Hoffman, the radical anti-war Yippie leader who reportedly was to surrender after six years as a fugi-

"We're ecstatic," Hoffman said. "We feel it's all over. We're sort of celebrating. For us this is a joyous occasion.

His brother, who went underground in 1974 when he faced charges of selling cocaine to an undercover agent, reportedly will turn himself in to New York authorities today.

The former radical leader, 43, has been living under an alias, Barry Freed, in Fineview, N.Y., an island in the St. Lawrence River, according to an ABC-TV interview. Parts of the interview were broadcast Wednesday, with a full version to appear in ABC's "20-20" program tonight

Hoffman's sister, married to a Mexican government economist, came here from Mexico City with her two young children for the reunion. 'We're excited," she said. "We've been in touch with Abbie over the years. He even came to Mexi-

"We were all down when Abbie disappeared," Hoffman said. "The last time the three of us were together was six years ago in a San Antonio, Texas, motel. At that time we didn't know whether or when we'd all get together again. About five months ago, my wife, Joan, and I met Abbie and his wife in a Spanish restaurant in New York, and he started talking about surrendering."

Many Fineview residents not surprised Hoffman rumors true

By MIKE HENDRICKS

FINEVIEW, N.Y. - Barry Freed's white wood frame house is boarded up today, its blue shutters closed. Gone is the man who showed off his tomatoes and once testified on the St. Lawrence River before a U.S. Senate subcommittee

Neighbors said they never paid much attention to rumors that the bearded, curly-haired Freed was mop-haired 1960s activist Abbie Hoffman, a fugitive from justice.

But many residents of this tiny, riverside resort community said they were not surprised Freed might be the man who became national news as a central figure in the Chicago Seven trial.

Rumors had circulated among the residents of Wellesley Island two years ago that Freed was Hoffman, who under the name of just "Free' wrote a book called "Revolution for the Hell of It.

Mike Sheldon said the woman who lived with Freed "vehemently denied" the rumors.

'The rumor came up years ago, but no one ever followed up on it. I don't think anyone cared," he said, adding that according to the old rumor, Freed and Hoffman were one and the same because both had a penchant for corduroy pants.

The talk began spreading again this week when Barbara Walters showed up to interview Freed. Freed had told his neighbors she was going to interview him about his efforts to stop the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority from opening up the river to year-round shipping.

But my husband was watching the interview and he asked me; 'Are they doing the story on the river or Barry? said Judy Spottek, who lived next door. "They kept their cameras on Barry and followed him around his garden, showing his tomatoes. They didn't show the river at all."

After the interviews, Freed disappeared. The house was closed for the winter, two months earlier than usual. On Wednesday, ABC said Hoffman would discuss his life as Freed in a taped interview tonight on the "20-20" program. Excerpts were shown Wednesday night.

Hoffman had been missing since 1974, when he failed to show up for a court appearance in New York City on charges of attempting to sell three pounds of cocaine to an undercover police officer.

Freed lived in a 19th Century house with his young son, Allen, and Johanna Lawrenson, a former fashion model whose grandmother owns the house, his neighbors said.

He was an active spokesman for the 'Save The River Committee," which is fighting to preserve the ecology of the St. Lawrence River.

In that role, Freed was frequently interviewed by newspaper and broadcast reporters and once testified before a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

'He was very congenial, very friendly, very quiet. They kept to themselves mostly," said Mrs. Spot-tek. "We all have boats and we all have gardens here, and so did he."

"He's been living a normal lifestyle here. If he's a fugitive, the police around here must not be pretty good because he hasn't been hiding," said

Pageant's rules simple and strict

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) -Want a date with a Miss America contestant? You'd have better luck trying to knock off Fort Knox.

The rules are simple and strict: No smoking, no drinking, no gambling

Every minute of pageant week, officials know where the 50 contestants are, who they're with and what they're doing.

And what they were doing Wednesday was competing in preliminary rounds. Miss New York won the talent competition and Miss Minnesota captured the swimsuit honors in the first night of the preliminaries.

Cheryl Flanagan of Rochester, N.Y. won a $2,500 talent scholarship with a tap dance to the "Overture" from "That's Entertainment, Part II." At 18, Miss Flanagan is the youngest constestant.

Debra Kay Goodwin, 20, of Austin, Minn., won a $1,500 scholarship in the swimsuit competition. The blonde, green-eyed Miss Minnesota displayed a 36-24-36 figure and an aqua swim-

According to the rules, each contestant must have a pageant hostess with her at all times — during press interviews, rehearsals, breaks and meals. Hostesses are just steps away during competition, photo sessions and even changes of clothes. The pageant's 109 hostesses are volunteers who generally come from Atlantic City's suburban social elite.

When it's time to sleep, pageant representatives from the contestants' home states stay in the hotel rooms with them.

"We do protect the girls. We're very proud of our image," says Ellen Plum, chairwoman of the Hostess Committee. "1 . nd the girls are very wholesome and nice and we don't want any kind of publicity that would embarrass them or the pageant."

In an 11-point "Precepts of Conduct for Contestants," the pageant lays down the law.

Contestants may not smoke in public. They may not drink at all. They may not go into a casino. They may not have a man in their rooms any time for any reason - and that includes their fathers.

"For one week, it's a whole new way of life for some of these girls," says Mrs. Plum. "All of a sudden, they're treated like celebrities. They need someone to keep them on track with all their activities. Contestants, their hostesses by their side, say they like the idea. Casino bomber believed to be highly egocentric

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) - The bomb which ripped through a Lake Tahoe casino last week was more elaborate than necessary, indicating its builder hoped some show business 'schmalz would make people think he's really something," according to

"I think the person that made it is highly egocentric," Joseph Yablonsky, FBI agent in charge, said Wednesday

He said that description was supported by a psycholinguistic study of a letter left with the bomb demanding $3 million and by the FBI'snown profile of the extortionist.

Yablonsky said he remained confident that the FBI would solve the crime. "I feel it in my bones," he said, conceding his assessment was unscientific but based on 28 years of experi-

The bomb, which tore a hole in Harvey's Resort Hotel-Casino on Aug. 27, had been planted the day before by two men posing as computer techni-cians. The steel box holding the explosives had been shaped to make it look like office equipment, and the device was topped with a box studded with 28 switches of undetermined function. 'As one of the bomb experts said, this bomb could have been put in a 55-gallon drum," Yablonsky said. Yablonsky said the FBI still was not sure of the number of people involved in the bombing, and there was no information "that anyone in this was involved in any political movement or had any motivation except one thing bucks.

As Yablonsky spoke, FBI bomb experts were continuing the slow, painstaking job of sifting rubble from the bombed casino, looking for minute clues in the wreckage of a once-glittering resort.

Construction crews removed wheelbarrows of debris, dumping the loads in clouds of dust before agents who examined each piece, discarding most and putting a few aside in plastic bags. Yablonsky said some of the items were being sent to FBI laboratories for further examination.

He said he hoped the examination would produce a better idea of what kind of explosive was used in the bomb and possibly uncover pieces of the bomb itself. The search is expected to last two weeks.

The bomb was wheeled into Harvey's Aug. 26, along with a note demanding $3 million in exchange for information on how to defuse the bomb. Negotiations with the extortionists fell through and the device tried to defuse it by remote control.

The blast, channeled toward an outside wall by hundreds of sandbags, caused damage estimated at $3 million. Nobody was injured.

Mayor's son charged

HOUSTON (AP) The son of the Houston mayor, arrested and later released as a "professional courtesy," has been charged with failing to move from the scene of the accident.

The complaint, filed Wednesday by accident investigator S.E. Carr, carries a maximum fine of $203.50.

The charge is the latest development in the saga that began Aug. 3 and involved Mayor Jim McConn, Chief of Police B.K. Johnson, the news media and Carr.

Terry McConn was arrested Aug. 3 after he refused to leave the scene of an accident. Carr said he had asked McConn, who was watching the rescue efforts of the Life Flight Helicopter, four times within 30 seconds to leave and then arrested him when he didn't.

McConn, 22, was one of about 100 people gathered to watch the rescue effort.

After McConn was taken to a police station, Johnson requested his release as a "professional courtesy."

Mayor McConn said, "I don't think the mayor's son or any other public official's son should receive special treatment in a situation like that. I am disappointed that he did not follow police instructions. I don't condone that and he'll have to suffer the consequences." However, the mayor said he is "offended by the media treatment of this, because the charge was failure to move on. It wasn't rape, murder, incest or such things.

He insisted the incident had been overplayed by the media.

State housing costs explored

By SOLL SUSSMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal housing official says the rising prices of houses in Texas are an indication that construction costs in the state have caught up with the rest of the nation.

"Texas — the Houston area particularly — used to be one of the most inexpensive areas in the country to build in, but during the past 10 years we've seen it catch up with the other areas," he said.

The official, who asked not to be identified by name, was discussing the dramatic jumps demonstrated in some categories of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's new list of typical housing costs.

In Houston, the high range house sold for $112,600 almost double the $66,700 figure on last year's for Wichita Falls, Abilene, Brownwood and San Increases in other categories for the Houston area were less severe. The price for a medium range home rose from $53,500 last year to $67,900 on the newly published list while the price of a low range home increased by $500 to $41,000.

In Dallas, the price of a high range home soared to $113,600 from $76,600 last year while a medium range home increased to $66,600 from $56,500

There was no change, however, in the low range where the HUD field office reported the typical selling price was still $36,000.

A HUD spokesman has said the list of "prototype housing costs," published for the first time last year, is similar in intent to the Environmental Protection Agency's regular publication of estimated gasoline mileage for each kind of automobile. "It's just supposed to be a guide to people," spokesman Andy Gasparich said

In San Antonio, the price for a high range home increased from $50,000 to $67,500 and the medium range from $38,400 to $54,500. The low range home rose to $32,900 from $27,500.

In Fort Worth, the high range home rose to $80,600 from $69,500; the medium range to $66,500 from $52,400; and the low range to $56,000 from $44,600. In Lubbock, the price of a high range home jumped

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police were hunting for a sixth suspect today in connection with the theft of golfer Ben Hogan's trophies and medals from a country club here.

Two people believed to be "fences" for the stolen items were taken into custody Wednesday, and three were arrested Tuesday night while trying to sell the trophies and medals to two undercover officers for $35,000, police said.

Police said they recovered about 95 percent of the items Tuesday night, including the prestigious 1953 Hickock Athlete of the Year belt buckle, which contains three pounds of gold and dozens of precious stones.

Sgt. Sam Hill, assistant to the police chief, said the only items not recovered were one medal and some small diamonds apparently pried from the Hickock belt buckle.

Court overturns ruling; girl may attend school

IRVING, Texas (AP) - An attorney for a family whose 5-year-old daughter requires daily catheterization says he will try to get a court hearing scheduled soon so the girl can attend school this year.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans overturned Tuesday a Dallas' judge's ruling that the Irving Independent School District was not required to perform the procedure while she was at school.

Amber Tatro suffers from a birth defect that makes it impossible for her to empty her bladder voluntarily, and the procedure must be done every three to four hours.

Her parents, Henri and Mary Tatro of Irving, a Dallas suburb, sued after the school district refused to perform the catheterizations.

'We are happy for our daughter," Mrs. Tatro said after the ruling. "Our daughter has missed a whole year of school already and we want to get her back in school as soon as possible. It will be a relief for us if she can go to school.

The Tatros' attorney, Craig Enoch, said he would move ahead with the case as soon as he read the decision. "We have a child who is not being educated...for the second year," he

The court returned the case to State District Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham, saying it was similar to the case in which a deaf graduate student demanded that the University of Texas furnish him with a sign language interpreter.

The 5th Circuit upheld an order commanding Texas to provide the interpreter because failure to do so 'amounted to the exclusion of plaintiff from the university's pro-"Analogously, Amber has been ex-

Lena Mae's Chili Sauce is one recipe worth

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Cooks keep asking me for a recipe for chili sauce that has pure flavor, exact measurements and accurate directions. "Recipes Grandma used to use," they say, "are too vague."

I'm happy to say I've tracked down a chili sauce recipe that's truly worthwhile. It comes from Mrs. Lena Mae Barton of Granbury, Texas, who is known to her friends as a fine hostess.

Mrs. Barton's daughter, Sue Huffman, is food editor of Ladies' Home Journal and used a version of the chili sauce recipe in the Journal some time back. Word spread that this formula for chili sauce was terrifically good. Lena Mae's two grandchildren, 11year-old Charley and 13-year-old Sarah Huffman (Sue's children) gob-ble up her chili sauce with burgers and buns. I love it with meat, fish and Western sandwiches.

Recently Lena Mae visited her family in New York City and I had a chance to meet her. When I asked her how she acquired her culinary skill, she said: "From my mother. She was a born cook. She could make anything she turned her hand to taste good. I was also lucky enough to have grown up on a farm in Oklahoma: We had wonderful fresh vegetables and fruit and I've used fresh produce ever

Mrs. Barton was born in Enid, Okla., and graduated in home economics from the Oklahoma College for Women in Chickasha, Okla. After graduation she taught school for two years, then married and brought up two daughters. She's a vivacious, outgoing woman who instantly makes you feel at home. A three-bean relish salad to 'put-up'

These days, Lena Mae and her hus-band Harold, who is semi-retired, often share the work when they give parties. Harold helps out by barbecuing. He may roast a small turkey over charcoal and hickory chips. As a goalong, Lena Mae whips up a German salad - potatoes with a bacon, sugar and vinegar dressing. She also serves a platter of lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers and onion rings.

And there's always a dessert guests exclaim over. For instance, old-fashioned lemon pie with a super me-ringue. "How high it is," says Lena Mae, "depends on how many egg yolks I happen to put in the filling.' Her banana cream pie is equally admired. I hope I can borrow both those pie recipes to pass along to you. Meanwhile here's her recipe for chili

Time was when most bachelors would rather skip dinner than attempt to cook it. But today many food books and at least one association devoted to good living are supplying culinary hints and recipes geared to the needs of single men and women.

Singles, especially men, are learning that cooking is not the ordeal they thought it was, even if they have a full-time job.

Leftovers have many uses. You can put vegetable scraps in a salad or soup or chop them up for a dip before dinner. Scrambled eggs left from breakfast can be used as a stuffing for tomatoes, and stale bread of course is a natural for stuffing.

I have received some helpful single and double recipes from an organization known as the V.O. Good Living Center. It also supplies a free party-planner booklet with tips for drinks, food and decorations. Here's a recipe for Cornish Hens Marsala from the

1 cup fresh bread crumbs 1/3 cup chopped cooked ham

2 tbsps. chopped green onion 34 cup chicken broth

2 Cornish hens, about ¾ pound each 3 tbsps. cornstarch

2 tablespoons butter or margarine 1/2 cup Marsala wine

¼ teaspoon crushed sage

In bowl combine bread crumbs, ham, onion and 1/4 cup chicken broth. Stuff into cavities of birds and truss. Coat hens with cornstarch. In skillet brown birds in butter and add remaining half cup broth, wine and sage. Cover and simmer 30 minutes till hens are tender. Stir occasionally. Serves 2. Good with chilled rose wine.

Maybe, having seen "Jaws," it's because we want to get even. Maybe it's because we are becoming more sophisticated, even adventuresome, in our dining. Or maybe it's simply because it's cheap compared to other fish. For whatever reason, we are beginning to see shark on the menu of many fine restaurants and alongside sole and salmon in the meat case of many markets. The predator of the deep is on its way to becoming a fish of the future in this country.

By MERLE ELLIS

Shark is already a common staple in many parts of the world. It ranks third among the food fish consumed in Australia. The Chinese and Japanese make extensive use of it, particularly its fins. And in many — if not most — of the pubs of England, the fish in

"fish and chips" is, in fact, shark. Until recently, in this country shark was considered a trash fish, but not anymore. Preston Battiestella of New Orleans is one of the people responsible for hanging our attitude. A few years ago, Preston cooked up one of the many sharks that Gulf shrimp trawlers commonly catch and dis-card. He liked it, and began processing some. This year his company, Battistella's Sea Food, Inc., will market over 100,000 pounds of shark meat.

The meat has a firm texture similar to that of swordfish, and a mild flavor very like that of the popular redfish. My wife (she's from Hawaii) says she likes it better than mahi mahi (dolphin), and that's a real testimonial. We visited New Orleans not long ago and talked with Harlon Pearce, general manager of Battistella's Sea Food, about shark.

There ae dozens of different kinds of shark, among them the Atlantic sharpnose, the bonnetnose, the blacktip, the tiger, hammerhead and, of course, the Great White.

But according to Harlon, the best and the one that accounts for about 95 percent of the shark processed at Battistella's - is the small (about 40-pounds) bull shark. Harlon calls it the "veal-of-the-sea." One of the big advantages of shark, says Harlon, is that it's boneless. "The shark has a cartilaginous skeletal system; as a result, about 42 percent of the weight is recovered as fillets or steaks, compared to about 20 percent of most boney fish. That's one reason why shark fillets can be sold for considerably less than other fish fillets.

From the nutritional standpoint, according to Harlon, shark offers a number of plus factors. "It is low in calories and sodium and high in protein, minerals and vitamins A and B. Compared to salmon, which contains 16.2 percent protein and 11.5 percent fat. And as an added plus, 80 percent of its fat is polyunsaturated.'

So shark is very likely to be a fish of the future here. It's delicious, there is an abundance of it in all of our coastal waters and it is - even by modern standards - fairly cheap. Try it! You will, I'm sure, be pleasantly surprised.

Wine industry getting more aggressive

Copley News Service

SAN FRANCISCO -California's traditionoriented wine industry, struck recently by an ingredient labeling rule it finds odious, is becoming more aggressive and outspoken, and that was never more evident than at Wine Media Day here a few weeks ago

In an era when demand for white wine has grown in this country, the Wine Institute staged a tasting of 123 wineries, only 11 of which served

Group fights fat in prison

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Frances Kracker is fat.

What's worse, she's an inmate at the women's prison in east Phoenix where living isn't easy, let alone diet-

What's even worse, she manages the kitchen and handles meal preparation for 150 fellow inmates - half of whom also are overweight, according to the health staff at the Arizona Center for Women. But Ms. Kracker, who weighed 250 prison - where pride is hard to maintain - was a dilemma that Ms. Kracker and Mary Ploski, a correctional officer, took on in June when they organized Fight Against Fat.

If being fat wasn't a preoccupation with inmates before, Ms. Kracker and Ms. Ploski are making sure it is now. Posters featuring fat women alongside lithe, bikini-clad beauties hang on walls all over.

Ms. Kracker, 34, prepares a weekly, mimeographed menu for inmates and correctional staff.

On one side of the menu is a food list - on the other, calories. And she underlines the day's most fattening offerings, such as pie, rolls, gravy. Since FAT was organized, more than 60 inmates and several prison staff members have joined. They meet once a week to talk about their battles against obesity. 'Fat is a real problem here because it's hard to care about yourself," Ms.

Ploski explained. She's lost 20 pounds since June and hopes to lose 10 more to get to her ideal weight of 120. 'The women here don't have men to look nice for," she said. "They don't dress up to go out. They don't go shopping. They don't have pretty clothes. They don't do any of the things that call forth the vanity that women have outside. 'If they (the inmates) aren't strong-willed and full of self-esteem to begin with - and that's rare or they wouldn't be here in the first place - there's no way they can lose or maintain a good weight in here," she added.

Kat Benscoter, 58, weighed 140 when she entered Durango last year to await sentencing for forgery. She gained 30 pounds in the county jail, where, she said, most women pick up weight before they are transferred to the state prison.

ABC wins prime-time weekly race

ZALES JEWELERS GRAND OPENING

Don't Miss it!

NEW YORK (AP) — "M-A-S-H" and "Dallas," both from CBS, finished in a dead heat for first place in the networks' weekly race for prime-time supremacy, but ABC had six of the 10 highest-rated programs and won the competition for the second straight week.

Of the 20 highest-rated programs ranked by the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the week ending Aug. 25, only three had not been shown before — the network newsmagazines, "20-20" on ABC and "60 Minutes" on CBS, and "Games People Play," a new show from Both "M-A-S-H" and "Dallas" recorded ratings of 22. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 22 percent saw at least part of each of the programs.

ABC, with help from "Three's Company" in third place, "Taxi" in fourth and "Charlie's Angels" fifth, compiled a rating for the week of 15.4, to 14.4 for CBS and 12.6 for NBC.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 15.4 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to concluding three chapters in the miniseries were only moderately successful in the ratings. Part II was No. 28 for the week, with the third installment tied for 29th and the conclusion 21st.

CBS and ABC each scheduled movies not previously broadcast, and "The Seduction of Miss Leona" on CBS finished 33rd, while "Showdown" on ABC was 42nd.

A "CBS Reports" special on the recent outbreak of racial violence in Miami was No. 52 for the week. NBC had three of the week's five lewest-rated programs, including "Here's Boomer" No. 61, "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century" 63rd and "Good Time Harry" 64th. "The Tim Conway Show" on CBS was No. 62, and "Fantasy Island Sunday Special" on ABC finished 65th, last.

Here are the week's Top 10 programs:

'M-A-S-H" and "Dallas," both with ratings of 22 representing 17.1 million homes, both CBS; "Three's Company," 21.6 or 16.8 million, and "Taxi," 20.4 or 15.9 million, both ABC; "One Day at a Time," Monday broadcast, 20.4 or 15.9 million, CBS; "Charlie's Angels," 19.2 or 14.9 million, ABC; "Hart to Hart," ABC, and "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS, both 18.8 or 14.6 million, "20-20," 18.6 or 14.5 million, and "Vega$," 18.5 or 14.4 million, both ABC.

Archbishop Trifa loses citizenship

DETROIT (AP) - The federal government says it will try to deport Romanian Orthodox Archbishop Valerian Trifa now that the man accused of lying about his activities during World War II has been stripped of his U.S. citizenship.

U.S. District Judge Horace Gilmore signed an order Wednesday making formal Trifa's Aug. 25 agreement to surrender voluntarily his citizenship. The 66-year-old Trifa, who lives in Grass Lake, is head of the Romanian Orthodox Episcopate of America.

Eugene Thirolf, an attorney with the U.S. Justice Department, said the government expected to file a deportation resolution with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service within 60 days. He said the proceedings "may well take years" if Trifa chooses to exhaust all appeals open to him. The government contended Trifa lied about his participation in the Iron Guard, an anti-Semitic, fascist paramilitary group in Romania during World War II, when he applied for citizenship in the 1950s. He became a Trifa has denied he actively participated in the Guard.

"He should be permitted to stay" in the U.S., said George Woods, an attorney for Trifa. "He has been a better citizen in the last 30 years than any of us standing here.

If Trifa were deported, it would have to be to a country that would accept him without persecution, Thirolf said.

Afghans have stopped issuing new passports

NEW DELHI, India (AP) -- The Soviet-backed government of Afghanistan has stopped issuing passports and restricted the sale of real estate in an effort to keep professionals from leaving the war-torn Central Asian nation, a Western diplomatic source reported Wednesday in New Delhi.

The source, who arrived recently in the Indian capital, said some wouldbe emigrants with passports issued earlier have been stopped at Kabul airport and sent home.

The Afghan regime is alarmed over a "brain drain" that has seen thousands of educated Afghans, including doctors, technicians and merchants, leave their homeland since the Marxist takeover in April 1978. The exodus quickened after the arrival of Soviet troops last December to combat anti-Marxist Moslem guerrillas.

Unlike the nearly one million rural poor who trekked across the border to refugee camps in Pakistan, the wellto-do Afghans reportedly were charged more than $200 for their passports. Some raised the money by selling real estate. The diplomat reports that such sales now require police

Egypt says Israel must retreat

Otherwise, only preliminary talks will be held

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) - The United States says Egypt and Israel are resuming negotiations on Palestinian autonomy in a few weeks. But one of President Anwar Sadat's chief advisers says only preliminary talks will be held unless Israel makes concessions on the issues of Jerusalem and Jewish settlements in occupied

U.S. Mideast envoy Sol Linowitz announced the breakthrough in the Egyptian-Israeli deadlock Wednesday after a meeting here with President Anwar Sadat and earlier talks in Israel with Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Linowitz said the two governments, who had been feuding for more than a month over a new Israeli law claiming eternal control over unified Jerusalem, "agree to resume the autonomy negotiations at a mutually agreed dated, and to consult regarding preparations, timing and venue of a summit meeting" to be chaired by

Carter told labor leaders in Washington the deadlocked negotiations on a plan for autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip will resume "within the next few weeks." Other U.S. officials in Washington said Carter, Sadat and Begin would meet after the Nov. 4 presidential election, as Sadat proposed last

A few hours later, Butros Ghali, Egypt's minister of state for foreign affairs, said "contacts will start soon" but they "will be preparatory talks and cannot be considered a resumption of negotiations.'

These talks, he continued, will focus on an agenda and a time and place for substantive negotiations. But such negotiations cannot begin until Israel modifies its stand that East Jerusalem, the predominantly Arab part of the Holy City, is part of Israel and not subject to negotiation and that Israel has the right to establish Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, which it captured in the 1967 war.

Linowitz, however, said the talks would deal with issues of Palestinian autonomy and would not just be bargaining sessions for the summit meeting. He was to meet with Ghali today before he returns to Washing-

Speaking at a news conference, Linowitz did not explain what prompted Sadat to change his mind and agree to resume the deadlocked autonony talks. Sadat broke off the talks on Aug. 3 to protest the Israeli Parliament's approval of a law declaring unified Jerusalem, including predominantly Arab East Jerusalem, the eternal capital of the Jewish

Earlier Wednesday, Sadat had said he would not resume negotiations unless Israel agreed to negotiate the future of East Jerusalem - with its 100,000 Arab inhabitants and holy places revered by Moslems, Christians and Jews — and halt expansion of Jewish settlements in the West Bank. And Begin told Israel Television concessions were "simply out of the question."

Linowitz said he "did not deliver assurances as such" to Sadat. "I gave him my impressions. ," the envoy said. "I meant 'impressions' rather

Pair gives up triple channel crossing bid

DOVER, England (AP) — Strong winds forced America's Jon Erikson and Canada's Cindy Nicholas to give up their race to be first to complete a non-stop three-way crossing of the English Channel, the Channel Swimming Association reported.

The Dover-based association said both had completed the first leg of the swim, from England to France, and were on their way back when they were forced to give up Wednesday night.

Erikson, a 26-year-old teacher from Madison Park, Ill., and Nicholas, a 23-year-old law student from Middlesbrough, Toronto, set off from Dover Wednesday morning, and finished the first 21-mile leg in about 10

A spokesman for the association said the wind blew up unexpectedly during the night and was forcing the swimmers off course.

They were taken aboard their pilot boats, which headed for the English Channel port of Folkestone.

The weather also forced Britain's Mike Read, 39, to give up his bid to capture the association's title King of the Channel. The title goes to the most recent swimmer to have made the greatest number of crossings.

Read was going for his 20th. A number of other swimmers had hoped to set out from Dover this morning for one-way crossings, but were forced by the wind to postpone their attempts.

NBC extends contract

NEW YORK (AP) -Fred Silverman spent three years at ABC creating the No. 1 network in prime-time television, and a new extension on his contract as president of NBC assures he'll have that long and longer to do the same job

NBC's directors said Wednesday that Silverman's contract, due to expire next June 8, had been extended through the end of 1982. With that, Silverman was given at least two more seasons to lift NBC from the ratings

The announcement, in addition to extending Silverman's tenure, ended speculation that the most prominent programmer in television would leave NBC with the expiration of his contract or be-

NBC did not disclose terms of the extension and Silverman was not available for comment. Published reports at the time Silverman went to work at NBC, in June 1978, indicated he would receive at least $1 million a year. NBC's standing in prime-time has not significantly improved since Silverman took the job, though the president assured affiliates several months ago that the net-work would be No. 1 by Christmas.

Silverman had counted on NBC's coverage of the Olympic Games in Moscow this summer to boost ratings and provide a strong lead-in to the 1980-81 season. Those plans were sidetracked by President Carter's decision to boycott the Games.

The current strike by actors, meanwhile, has delayed the start of the season indefinitely.

Silverman's job appeared in jeopardy as recently as two months ago, when the president fired Jane Cahill Pfeiffer as NBC board chairman. Ms. Pfeiffer said at the time that Silverman had told her "he would probably follow me out the door in six months."

She said Silverman indicated to her that executives of RCA, NBC's parent company, had ordered her dismissal. Edgar H. Griffiths, RCA's chief executive, endorsed the extension of Silverman's contract.

Silverman began his career in television at the age of 25 as director of daytime programs at

While at CBS, and later at ABC, he was credited with developing and scheduling of some of the most successful primetime programs in the history of the medium -"All in the Family," "M-A-S-H," "The Waltons" and "Kojak" at CBS, "Laverne and Shirley," "Happy Days" and "Charlie's Angels" at ABC.

But attempts to score similarly for NBC gen-erally have fallen flat. The most notable failure came in his first full season at NBC with the multi-million dollar flop,

'Supertrain.' Despite the delay in the start of the 1980-81 season, NBC has announced it will broadcast its much-publicized, 12part miniseries, "Shogun," beginning Sept

Loans for cars made in U.S. reported up

DALLAS (AP) - The Zale Employees Federal Credit Union, which offered lower interest rates for borrowers buying American cars, report that such loans increased 50 percent since the program start-

Loans for American-made auto led loans for new foreign vehicles by a three-to-one margin since the credit union announced its reduced interest rates July 5, said Jerry Gray, president of the 7,000-mem-

This compares with an almost one-to-one ratio in the six months prior to July, Gray said.

The interest rate policy is to charge 11 percent for American car loans and 13 percent on all other new vehicles. The average interest savings on four-yearloans on new cars costing from $7,000 to $9,000 is about $380 over the life of the loan.

Between Jan. 1 and June 30, the credit union processed loans for 73 new American-made cars and 70 imported ones. In the two months since the reduction, loans were made from 59 American cars and 21 foreign cars, Gray said.

School cuts taxes while hiking salaries

HOUSTON (AP) - It may be hard to believe, but the Huffman Independent School District in northeast Harris County has cut taxes and at the same time given teachers a pay raise.

Once that was done, the school board took another look at the budget, decided they hadn't done enough, and called an emergency session for the next day. This time they cut the tax rate even more and gave teachers an additional $300-a-year salary increase.

The final tax rate now is $1.24 per $100 assessed valuation, down 15 cents from a year ago. And teachers will get a $700 annual pay raise School officials said the action was possible be-

Dallas tax ceiling sought

DALLAS (AP) - The Tax Equality Association, better known as the TEA Party, has submitted petitions signed by more than 26,000 Dallas voters in its effort to force a special referendum to reduce the proposed municipal tax rate by at least 25 percent.

The petitions call for a city charter amendment referendum that would place the maximum city tax rate at 40 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation. It also seeks a 5 percent ceiling on the amount taxes can be increased.

The City Council is debating a record $485.8 million municipal budget that would require a tax rate of at

Off-peak rates planned

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Power & Light Co. plans an experimental rate structure called time-of-use rates for 50 residential volunteers.

The rates would give the customers a financial break on their electricity bills if most of their electricity use is during off-peak hours.

The only catch, DP&L officials say, is that the customers will pay about triple the amount of customers billed on the regular rate schedule if they leave their air conditoners on during the day.

Cost-sharing proposed

FORT WORTH (AP) — A Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Board member has suggested airlines share the cost of operating the financially troubled Surtran bus system.

Henry Meadows outlined a plan Tuesday that would place Surtran under the board's supervision. A subsidy could come from landing fees paid by airlines and from income from parking and rental fees paid by businesses at the airport, he said.

The Surtran system, which provides transportation to the airport and terminals and hotels in Dallas and Fort Worth, now is owned and operated by the two city governments. Fort Worth has threatened to withdraw from the system rather than pay its share of the subsidy to cover rising losses.

GOP chairman predicts Reagan victory in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Texas is a key political battlefield in Ronald Reagan's drive for the White House and Republicans plan to launch an unprecedented effort to carry the state in November, said the state GOP chairman.

Chet Upham of Mineral Wells said the party plans to spend $2 million and put forth an unprecedented organizational effort to win the presidency for Rea-

He said Texas Republicans were bouyed by the 1978 election of the state's first GOP governor since Reconstruction, Gov. Bill Clements, and that they were ready to carry on the fight for Reagan.

"We feel, and the Democrats feel, that traditionally and historically, the president has been elected the way that Texas goes. There's never been a Democrat or a Republican elected (president) this century that has not carried Texas."

The state party chairman's remarks came as Republicans prepared for their state convention here Friday and Saturday. A 20-member temporary resolutions and platform committee is working on the state platform to be submitted Saturday. And the state executive committee is scheduled to convene considerably by November.

The state chairman also said he hoped Reagan would receive at least the 25 percent of the Hispanic vote that Clements and Tower garnered in 1978.

"The election of Gov. Clements in 1978 brought a psychological boost to us that a Republican can be elected to any office. I'm confident we're going to carry it," Upham said. "I'll make that prediction.

I think it'll be within 2 percentage points."

He said he did not expect Reagan's Labor Day statement about the Ku Klux Klan to hurt the GOP nominee's chances in Texas. "I don't think it'll be much of a backlash. I think these incidents come and go. This was the first. Carter will be making his, too," said Upham. "When we get down to the main issues they'll be jobs, the economy, national defense, energy & Carter promises that have been broken the past four years."

South Africans apply for extended visas

HOUSTON (AP) - Nineteen members of a South African troupe have applied for extensions on their expired visas in order to remain in the United States rather than return immediately to their homeland, the Immigration and Naturalization Service said.

Visas for the 23-member, all-black cast expired Saturday, one day before the final performance of a six-week run at Houston's Tower Theatre.

The troupe said it refused to perform Sunday night because the show's producer had failed to provide plane tickets to return to Johannesburg. The show was cancelled, and $12,000 in refunds were made. Members of the musical "Ipi-Tombi" originally signed contracts to be paid $240 per week each, plus room, board and airfare home.

However, cast members renegotiated their contracts three weeks ago and received a substantial increase — $500 per week plus $120 for room and board — in lieu of plane fare.

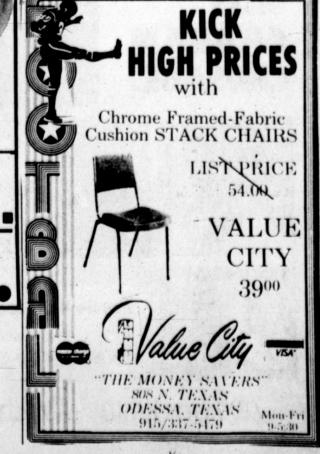

INS Assistant Director Bob Strauss said as long as they worked, the 19 people who applied for extensions probably would be allowed to stay in the country indefinitely.

Strauss said two other cast members, both married to U.S. citizens, would apply for permanent Earlier, officials had said the company might be deported because of invalid visas.

South African Vice Consul Theo Scholtz said Wednesday the remaining two cast members had asked to return to Johannesburg but did not have $2,000 to pay for the plane tickets.

"If someone (from South Africa) should want to go home and has a problem with funds, we will refer it to the Department of the Interior. A decision will be made then to help the citizen," Scholtz said.

Winter is the greatest time of life to plant a new garden

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - My neighbor Clara Coman died while I was off covering the conventions. She

I wish I had known her better. Right up to her last day, she mowed her own grass with an old-fashioned push roller mower. A bright, tiny lady, towered over by her gorgeous holly-hocks, she had the loveliest garden anywhere around. And she could give you the Latin name for every flower.

Miss Coman — we never called her anything else — had taught school for four decades in New York City, then she moved up here to Connecticut 33 years ago to live, not to retire. Every kid, every cat in the neighborhood was her friend. She lived alone, but was seldom lonely.

THE LOCALS SAY the only time she ever lost her smile is when one of those officious bright young Ivy Leaguers from the tax assessment firm hired by the town to revalue properties tried to double the levy on her neatly kept little house.

"Young man," she cut him down like a noxious weed among her marigolds, "I live on a small pension, a fixed income. I do not intend to support the town at this late stage any more than I will surrender this house to have the town support me. Nothing among my resources has doubled in the past decade except the pains of growing old."

But like Verdi, Titian, Thomas Hardy, Tennyson, W. Somserset Maugham and so many others who reaped a rewarding harvest in the winter of their years, she never let old age defeat her.

THANKS TO SCIENCE, a better diet, improved living and working conditions, our allotted span on this planet for the first time in history exceeds the biblical three score years and 10. In many places, the old already outnumber the young. A new social condition is coming about that puts a noble, blessed responsibility on the aging to learn how to handle the unexpected future, so they can face the advancing years with joy, even hope, rather than brooding like Iras, in Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleo-

"The bright day is done, and we are for the dark. One of the pleasures, but also one of the duties of growing old is to stir some fire from the ashes and light up the dark, or as British social historian Ronald Blythe puts it in his fascinating "The View in Winter," the full utilization "of one's frailty and slightness: the knowing that one need not do more because it is impossible to do more. Ever again."

BLYTHE CITES the secret of growing old as divulged by Unitarian minister James Martineau at age 92: What one must never do is stop - until one is stopped, that is."

At the hoary age of 64, William Somerset Maugham sat down to write his autobiography, "The Summing Up." His life had hardly begun. The next quarter of a century saw him turn out 16 more books, among them four collections of essays, two volumes of short stories, nine novels, including the sensational best seller "The Razor's Edge," published when he was 70, and at 88, at last, a catchup book of reminiscences, although he still had three years to go.

Titian, the great Venetian master, never stopped until the Great Plague claimed him. Cato the Elder set out to learn Greek at 80. Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. (he insisted on the junior to distinguish himself from his octogenarianpoet father) was 61 when Teddy Roosevelt appointed him to the U.S. Supreme Court. "The Great Dissenter' served for nearly 30 years. Thomas Hardy grew tired of writing novels at 60, so he turned to poetry. He was 88 when he published "Winter Words."

LORD TENNYSON, who spent 50 years recycling the Arthurian legend for his magnificent "Idylls of the King," wrote almost steadily until his death at 93. Sophocles, who lived to 90, maintained the intellectual vigor that kept him popular with the young writers of the day. There is a warning here as well as a message of hope to the increasingly large aging segment of our society. The clock is running: run with it all the way. To sink into a sulk of arteriosclerosis is both immoral and anti-social. Ronald Blythe puts it even more forcefully:

"Perhaps, with full-span lives the norm, people may need to learn how to be aged as they once had to learn to be adult. It may soon be necessary and legitimate to criticize the long years of vapidity in which a healthy elderly person does little more than eat and play bingo, or who consumes excessive amounts of drugs, or who expects a self-indulgent stupidity to go unchecked. Just as the old should be convinced that, whatever happens during senescence, they will never suffer exclusion, so they should understand that age does not exempt them from being despicable. To fall into purposelessness is to fall out of real consideration."

Often shot down by the critics, Giuseppe Verdi never fell into purpose-lessness. An opening night audience in Venice laughed his "La Traviata" out of town. His "Aida" was hailed as his real masterpiece, but he was not yet 60. He withdrew to the country to become a dairy farmer, an agrono-mist and master the art of orchestration. At 73, he unveiled his magnifi-cent "Otello." At 80, although he could compose but two hours a day, he wrote his first comedy in half a century, the incomparable "Falstaff." That tremendous choral fugue at the end gives him the last laugh: "Tutto nel mondo e burla" - everything on earth is a joke.

WRITING ABOUT old age brings to mind the story of a Life magazine crew who went to one of those Georgian villages up in the Caucasus Mountains of the Soviet Union where everyone reputedly lives beyond 100. A 117-year-old farmer attributed his long life to hard work, clean living, a vegetarian diet, no smoking or drinking and consuming a couple of quarts of yogurt a day. He said he rarely had a cold, rheumatic pain or shortness of breath. His only problem was, he didn't sleep too well. The research team asked why. "It's my shiftless older brother upstairs," he snorted. "Every night, those wild vodka parties with pot and loose women and all kinds of carous-

Hostages get break on taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill providing tax breaks and medical benefits for the U.S. hostages in Iran has been approved by a House subcommittee and is expected to eventually win approval of the full

The measure was approved in 10 minutes Wednesday by a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee. It applies to the 52 Americans who have been held in Iran since last Nov. 4; to Richard Queen, the hostage released earlier this year for medical reasons, and to the six Americans who escaped from Tehran with the aid of the Canadian government.

It also would apply to two Peace Corps workers released from captivity in South America this year; to Diego Asencio, the U.S. ambassador held captive for 61 days at the Dominican Republic's embassy in Colombia, and to any Americans who might be taken hostage in the future.

The bill would:

-Exempt the hostages from paying federal income tax on salaries earned while in captivity.

—Grant extended education and training benefits for spouses and children to help them get along without family breadwinners.

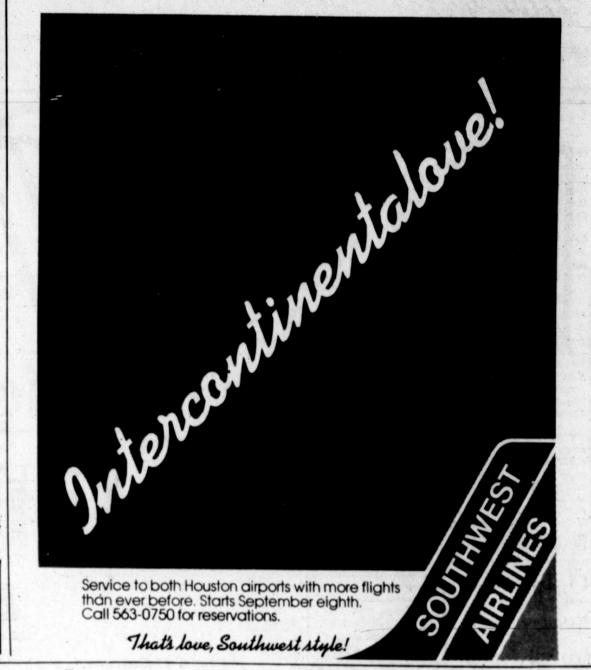

-Have the government pay medical expenses for a hostage or his family, except those already covered by insurance. -Put the hostages' salaries in interest-bearing federal accounts, with their families allowed access to the money under conditions to be specified by President Carter.

Area teachers to participate in free-enterprise workshop

Teachers from Midland, Odessa, Big Spring and other communities will have an opportunity Sept. 16 to participate in a free enterprise in-service workshop entitled "Money, Banking and the Economy,"

The one-day workshop, which will feature a banking simulation game for teachers, is co-sponsored by area school depository banks, Region 18 Education Service Center, the Texas Bankers' Association and Baylor University's Hankamer School of Business.

'You're the Banker" is a simulation activity which allows the student to assume the role of a community

It teaches the mechanics of the money supply, conditions under which credit is granted, and what happens during expansions and contractions of the

'The principles of money, banking and business cycles become more than abstractions as students deal with the same problems and decisions faced by commercial bankers," said Fred Middleton, vice president of the First National Bank of Midland.

Middleton is a member of the Education Committee of the TBA, and is co-chairing the Region 18 work-

Teachers will gain experience in using the simulation materials guided by Dr. Calvin Dent, director of Baylor University's Center for Private Enterprise and Entrepreneurship.

Teaching objectives include why some borrowers are eredit worthy; the importance of establishing a credit rating; how banks create and destroy money as they make loans; and the consequences of bank policy for growth and development in the community

The workshop will be held at the Midland Convention Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 16. Participating banks will pay all of the expenses of the program and teachers will receive in-service credit from their school

Music still hath charms

By MAUREEN SANTINI

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter surprised nearly everyone when he stepped off his Jetstar in Tuscumbia, Ala., this week with country-western musician Charlie Daniels

To begin with, Daniels drew louder applause than the president as Carter got off the plane in his casual Western Later, at a Labor Day picnic, Carter told the crowd of about 20,000 that he had recently reminded Daniels that when he gave three Carter fund-raisers in 1976 "not many people knew who you were and now you're world-famous.

Daniels wasn't about to let that pass. He replied: "Mr. President, when I gave those three fund-raisers

VICE PRESIDENT Walter F. Mondale says that when the president finishes speaking, the lights go out. Mondale made the joking reference during President Carter's meeting with members of the United Auto Workers last week. Lighting technicians for television camera crews brightly illuminated the Cabinet Room at the beginning of the meeting to record the president's remarks. When Carter concluded, the cameramen stopped filming, as if they were not interested in anything anyone else had to say.

"Did you notice how the lights go off when the president stops speaking?" Mondale asked. The union leaders chuckled.

FOUR YEARS AGO, when he was running for president the first time, Carter told his staff that he had the choice of sleeping a couple of extra hours in the morning or getting up before everyone else and winning the

Perhaps White House press secretary Jody Powell had that in mind when he told reporters this week about his new neighbor: George Bush, the Republican vice-presiden-

Powell said that when he left his home to travel to Alabama with Carter, Bush's motorcade was still outside his home.

The press secretary observed wryly that if Bush planned to make a habit of beginning his campaign days later than Powell, there was no hope for the Republican ticket.

Clements warns against GOP platform clashes

By MACK SISK

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The Texas Republican platform should not contain any planks that would be divisive or embarrass presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, Gov. Bill Clements has advised.

The governor sent Jim Kaster Clements' legislative liaison, to the opening meeting of the party's Temporary Platform and Resolutions Committee Tuesday to make it clear Clements does not want the convention Friday and Saturday to consider any planks on the Equal Rights Amendment or the so-called pro-life

The committee today began hearing testimony with a noon Thursday deadline for formulating the plat-

"He (Clements) is concerned that we don't get divisive things in the state platform. He (Clements) feels that we have the national platform and that that addressed the meaningful issues," Kaster said as the committee began three days of meetings to put together a state platform for the next four years.

"We know there are strong feelings held on both sides of some of the issues. He (Clements) would hope this would not be in the platform, particularly if it is counter to the national platform. Governor Reagan is coming to the state Sept. 16 and it would be very embarrassing to the governor to have to explain we in Texas did away with or voiced opposition to things that are in the national platform. That would be very difficlt and very embarrassing.'

Richard Sanchez, a San Antonio member of the 20-member committee, pinned Kaster down to exactly which issues Clements felt would be divisive by objecting that he did not want the committee to become a "rubber stamp" for a Clements plat-

"Actually what the governor has told you to tell us is don't do anything - don't think anything counter to what is already in the national platform,' right?" Sanchez objected. "I just wanted to be sure because if I'm just going to sit here and rubber stamp everything the governor wants done, I'm on a parking meter and I can just go ahead and leave and save myself a few dollars." Committee chairman Ray Barnhart of Pasadena and State GOP cochairman Chet Upham of Mineral Wells assured Sanchez that Clements had no intention of imposing his will on the committee and was only making recommendations as the titular head of the state party. Earlier Sanchez won approval of a resolution to open the Tuesday meeting, originally planned as an executive session, and all other business of the committee to the news media when one reporter showed up. Kaster told the nine members of the committee present Tuesday that

Clements wanted approval of resolutions supporting initiative and referendum, electronic surveillance, budget execution power for the governor and a method whereby governors can remove appointees on a two thirds vote of the state senate. In the informal session Tuesday, the femporary committee decided on Barnhart's suggestion to confine the platform to state-oriented issues on which Texas candidates would seek office. In an interview, Upham said Republicans hope to double the number of state representatives and senators and pick up three congressional seats on the November general election. He said Clements, who has begun campaigning in 25 rural areas, was putting together a strong organization on behalf of Reagan. 'If we're successful, we're going to win but it's not going to be by a great number," the Republican leader said. "I think you're going to be lookin at 2 to 3 percentage points at the very most, and a fraction at the least."

Betty Ford on California health care advisory panel

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) -Betty Ford's battle against drinking and drug use has given her useful insight for her new position as a member of a state health care advisory committee, according to California's health director. The former first lady, who was on hospital care for people with similar problems, Health Director Beverlee Myers said Tuesday. Mrs. Ford's secretary, Ann Cullen, said the appointment stemmed from Mrs. Ford's interest 'in getting some

Jury selection in second day in Jenrette's Abscam trial

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal judge and law- Jenrette in return for the congressman's agreement yers are spending their second day trying to pick jurors who will determine, in the second Abscam trial, whether Rep. John W. Jenrette is guilty of

The number of prospective jurors was whittled from 110 to 70 Wednesday.

Both Jenrette and Richmond, Va., businessman John R. Stowe are charged with conspiracy. Jenrette, a three-term South Carolina Democrat. also is charged with two counts of bribery and Stowe with aiding and abetting the bribery.

The major part of the government's case will be FBI videotapes of Abscam transactions.

Jenrette is one of six members of Congress indicted as a result of the FBI's 14-month Abscam investigation, in which undercover agents posed as representatives of fictitious Arab businessmen willing to pay for favors from public officials.

The first Abscam trial ended Saturday with the conviction by a Brooklyn jury of Rep. Michael O. Myers, D-Pa., and three other men of bribery and

In the Jenrette case, a federal grand jury charged that Stowe picked up a $50,000 bribe for himself and to introduce an immigration bill.

The indictment says Jenrette also offered, in return for $125,000, to have Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., introduce an immigration bill in the Sen-

Thurmond never was contacted, the indictment

Jenrette's attorneys have contended the indictment was the culmination of a federal effort to "get" the congressman, partly because previous investigations had failed to produce charges against him. Meanwhile, the House ethics committee voted Wednesday to investigate Myers, using the testimony that helped convict him of trading his influence for $50,000 in bribes. Attorney E. Barrett Prettyman, special counsel to the committee, said the panel will "review the relevant evidence relating to the conviction" in its probe of Myers' conduct. The first hearings will be next Wednesday, he said.

A finding that Myers violated House rules could lead to disciplinary action, possibly including expulsion from Congress.

Myers, 37, faces up to 15 years in prison if his appeal of the conviction fails.

Networks seek Abscam tapes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The three major television networks asked a federal judge Wednesday for permission to copy and broadcast video and audio tapes from an Abscam trial, set to begin here next

The tapes are expected to be introduced as evidence when the trial gets under way Monday.

'The public should be permitted to see and hear the actions of their representatives and their law enforcement officials and to understand fully the reality of the events involved in Abscam," the networks said in a U.S. District Court motion. ABC, CBS and NBC were joined in their request by

Westinghouse Broadcasting Company Inc. It was the second bid by the networks to win the right to air tapes involved in Abscam prosecutions. During the first Abscam trial, in New York City, the networks petitioned U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt for the right to copy the tapes.

Pratt granted the request in an oral opinion on Aug. 15, but stayed his order to allow defense attorneys to appeal to the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of-Appeals. The appeal is still pending.

In the first trial, Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa.; Camden, N.J., Mayor and State Sen. Angelo Errichetti; Philadelphia City Councilman Louis Johanson and Philadelphia lawyer Howard Criden were convicted of bribery and conspiracy charges.

Abscam is the code name for the FBI "sting" operation in which undercover agents posing as representatives of an Arab sheik sought help from public officials for various enterprises.

A network spokesman said if Wednesday's request is granted by U.S. District Judge John P. Fullam, the tapes could be broadcast the same day they are played in the courtroom.

The motion said the tapes are expected to show meetings between FBI undercover agents and Philadelphia City Councilmen George X. Schwartz, Harry Jannotti and Johanson.

Synanon founder sentenced

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Synanon founder Charles Dederich, placed on probation for conspiring to kill a lawyer with a rattlesnake, is under orders today to end his connections with the drug rehabilitation center he established or risk a prison term.

The ailing Dederich, 67, was placed on five years probation Wednesday after medical tests showed he has suffered two strokes and is beset by multiple ailments including diabetes, hypertension and heart

Dederich was also fined $10,000 for the rattlesnake plot and another incident and was ordered to pay hospital and medical costs of attorney Paul Morantz, who was bitten by the snake when he reached into his mailbox in October 1978. Morantz, who had just won a suit against Synanon at the time, recovered.

Polovchak case dismissal denied

CHICAGO (AP) - A turned to the Soviet judge has refused to de- Union. Miss Polovchak clare unconstitutional arrived on a separate the law under which a visa so she would not 12-year-old Soviet boy have to return with her was placed in custody of the state of Illinois.

Circuit Court Judge Joseph C. Mooney on Wednesday denied a motion by the American Civil Liberties Union to dismiss the case of Walter Polovchak. The boy, who ran away from home when he heard his parents planned to return to the Ukraine, was granted asylum in the United States and placed in state custody.

Mooney rejected arguments by ACLU attorneys that the Illinois Juvenile Court Act, invoked by the state in the case, was unconstitutionally vague. The ACLU, which is representing Walter's parents, Michael and Anna Polovchak, also argued that the law did not apply to the case and that the state's action violated parental rights.

"The United States has never held a parent has the right to treat his child as he wishes," Mooney said in rejecting the mo-

He said a disposition hearing in the case of Walter and his 17-yearold sister, Natalie, will proceed as scheduled Sept. 9.

Mooney ruled in early August that the children were "minors in need of supervision," but after the ACLU objected to their initial placement with relatives, Mooney ordered them placed elsewhere and they have been in the home of another Ukrainian-speaking couple for the last two weeks. The children have said they don't want to go along with their parents' plan to return to the Ukraine. The family came to the United States several months

Federal officials have said the grant of asylum to the boy would allow him to stay in the United States, if he chose, in the event his parents re-

Superior Court Judge William Hogoboom said Dederich's failing health was "the sole reason for not imposing a substantial prison term." "Specifically, the court orders that the defendant is not to be active as a board member, director, officer or consultant to Synanon or anyone involved with Synanon or subsidiary organizations,' Hogoboom said.

However, he granted a request for Dederich to live at a Synanon residence where he could be attended by a doctor and psychiatrist.

The judge, noting Dederich's past good works with Synanon, described the rattlesnake incident as "an aberration" on Dederich's part.

He said Dederich "directed the innermost thoughts of individuals." And, he said, the Synanon program deteriorated.

Two of Dederich's followers, codefendants Lance Kenton, 22-year-old son of the late bandleader Stan Kenton, and Joseph Musico, 30, had their sentences postponed until Nov. 3 pending a 90-day diagnostic analysis at the men's prison at Chino. Kenton and Musico pleaded no contest to charges of conspiracy to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon. Dederich had pleaded no contest to a charge of conspiracy to commit murder and, in an unrelated incident, to solicitation to commit kidnapping and assault. His fine was $5,000 on each count.

added to the court case The second count stems from Dederich's response to someone who criticized him in 1977. According to the prosecution, Dederich was heard telling follower James O'Donnell to kidnap and assault the critic, children attended who has never been identified or located.

'Pack's This Year is Here

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

AMARILLO - The Midland High Bulldogs will be rolling into Dick Bevins Stadium here Friday dressed in T-shirts with letters "THIS YEAR" printed on the front and ready to ring in the debut of new head MHS coach Pat Culpepper to the Texas high school football

And meanwhile, Jocko Harris, coach of the Tascosa Rebels who the Bulldogs will be meeting Friday in the season opener for both teams at 7:30 p.m., is screaming, "Foul Play," louder than Goldie Hawn or Chevy Chase. Harris would just as soon be somewhere else Friday night.

"I don't think I've ever entered a game knowing as little about the team we're playing as in this one," Harris screams. "I've known Culpepper for a long time, but he isn't using the same offense he used at Northern Illionis and he isn't using the same defense. If he came out of the high school ranks, we could have some film to work with. But we didn't know anything about Midland High until we saw them scrimmage Brownwood and they didn't show us anything. We're totally in the dark for this

"I hate to think what they are going to do to us. Monday was the first day we were able to start preparing for them, and they know everything about uw because we haven't changed a thing from last year. And that team is huge. We knew about Joe Goebel from$last year. He weighs around 250 and our scouts couldn't pick him out in the scrimmage because they had so many big kids. A kid like that ought to stand out, but not on that team."

Culpepper, on the other hand, feels his Bulldogs will be ready for the contest, and they better be. After all, it was Culpepper who predicted at a recent rally that the Bulldogs "will kick their tails" when talking about his first two games with Tascosa and Andrews.

But realistically and not in a rally atmosphere, Culpepper knows his Bulldogs face some problems Friday. 'We didn't get to work on our kicking game in the Brownwood scrimmage, so I expect some bugs there,' Culpepper said. "We must cut down on the turnovers (six) that we had in the scrimmage. We can't fumble the ball away all the time. And Tascosa has a fine backfield. Our scouts were really impressed with their fullback (Wade Hunt). But I think our kids will be ready to play Friday.

The Tascosa Rebels really shouldn't be taken lightly They are picked to make a run at their district title and their backfield returns in tact. Hunt is a greatly improved ball player and he had over 800 yards rushing last year. Ricky Hunt is back at wingback as is tailback Mitch Johnson and quarterback Kevin Luetkahans, who is also one of the top punters in the state.

The Bulldogs do have a decided weight advantage in the contest. Only defensive tackle Kerry Cobb tips the scales above 200 pounds for Tascosa, and he is only 10 pounds over that mark. Meanwhile, the Bulldogs have four at 200 pounds or better on offense and three on

The offensive line may be the strong point in the Bulldogs' attack this season with 190-pound Hank McClung the recognized leader of the group. Guard David Vinson, 200, and Goebel, 250, have impressed Culpepper with their blocking.

The Bulldogs also have the talent in the skill positions with Michael Feldt leading the charge at quarterback where he returns for his third season. Feldt has had injury problems in the past two years, but is playing both offense and defense. Culpepper says Feldt is as good at safety as at quarterback and can deliver NFL-type Tailback Jerry Zachery also has the makings of a top-notch runner. He fumbled three times against Brownwood, but should improve with experience.

Fullback Scott Yocham has been an impressive blocker and sophomore Byron Campbell has cracked the (See MHS, Page 2D)

WT opens prep grid season with new UIL look Borg survives threat by Tanner West Texas' 1980 prep football season is still more than 24 hours away and the University Interescholastic League already has administered a thorough drubbing to tradition. By BARRY WILNER

NEW YORK (AP) - "This was a great match, right up to the last

With that statement, Bjorn Borg summed up his suspenseful quarterfinal slugfest with Roscoe Tanner at the U.S. Open Wednesday. The top seed from Sweden displayed all the skills that mark him as the best player in the world in his 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3 victory over the gallant, cannonball-serving 11th seed.

"I'm very relieved to survive this match," added Borg, whose dreams of a tennis Grand Slam were smashed by Tanner in a night match in the same round here last year. Once again this year, Forg has a shot at the slam - Wimbledon, the French, U.S. and Australian Opens - and, once more, Tanner took him to limit. "He aced me many times (19 in all, plus 26 service winners), but I won all the big points. When he's putting in his first serve in, there's nothing you

TRYING to join Borg in the semifinals today were No.2 seed John McEnroe, the defender, who took on No.10 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia under the lights, and No.3 Jimmy Connors, who faced Eliot Teltscher in the afternoon. Striving for the women's semis were No.8 Andrea Jaeger, who had a night match with No.14 Ivanna Madruga of Argentina, and No.9 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia, who took on unseeded Barbara Hallquist in the daytime.

Tanner led Borg 4-2 in the fourth set and the Swede's chances for his first U.S. Open title looked slim.

"I thought at 4-2, he'd really be pumped up and it would be very difficult," said Borg. "I knew I needed to stay one break behind, that he might make errors if I put more pressure on him."

Borg held for 3-4, then broke Tanner's serve to tie it 4-4.

"At 4-4, I'm in the match again," noted Borg. "I started playing bet-Did he ever! Suddenly, it was Borg who was in charge, passing with authority, serving more dynamically and hitting winner after winner. He held twice more while Tanner struggled, winning on serve in the 10th game at deuce, but then being broken at love in the 12th game for the

"He makes shots that you don't expect from him," said Tanner. "Especially some of those winners down the line."

the steady Fibak. As expected, top-seeded Tracy Austin and No.3 Chris Evert Lloyd advanced to a semifinal meeting, to be held Friday. Austin continued her mastery of Pam Shriver with a 6-2, 6-3 victory while Lloyd struggled a bit before subduing unseeded Mima Jau-sovec of Yugoslavia 7-6, 6-2. "I feel comfortable playing her," Austin, 17, said of her 18-year-old contemporary, whom she's beaten nine times in juniors and twice in the pros without a loss. Contemporaries won't miss 'em

By JOE GERGEN Newsday

With exquisite timing, Bill Veeck and Charles O. Finley announced their imminent departures from baseball within the space of 24 hours.

There will be no testimonials from their peers in the executive suites of the major leagues - they never belonged to the establishment.

Each man set his own course. Not infrequently, it ran counter to the direction suggested by those empowered to make policy.

The word used so often to describe both was maverick, after Samuel Maverick, a 19th-century Texas rancher who declined to brand his cattle. Similarly, Veeck and Finley dismissed conventional business methods. But the only quality they shared was a spirit of independence.

For all his outrageous promotions, Veeck was a baseball romantic. He outfitted his last team, the Chicago White Sox, in uniforms reminiscent of a bygone era, proving that everything old is new

He made it his job to see that his customers had fun.

Finley, who fancied himself an innovator, broke the color line in uniforms when he dressed his Oakland A's in green-and-old tops and went to his farewell press conference the other day still arguing the cause of orange baseballs.

PROVIDING the White Sox' 47 stockholders agree to terms of the sale, which is considered a formality, and other American League owners accept Ed De-Bartolo (Chicago) and executives of Levi Strauss and Co. (Oakland) into the fraternity, the 1980 season will be the last for Veeck and Finley. The man who sent Eddie Gaedel up to bat and the man who sent in Herb Washington as a pinch-runner are leaving the American League to more orthodox strategists. Financially, they have been knocked out of the box.

Veeck's personal assets always have exceeded his holdings. His energy and his ability to enlist people to a cause served him well with several organizations. He made it his job to see that customers had fun. But there was not enough capital to compete in the free agent hera and his health has not been good for some time. For the fourth time, once with the St. Louis Browns, once with the Cleveland Indians and now twice with the White Sox, Veeck is stepping down and Finley blamed the A's demise on the free agents. but it was clear in recent seasons that he had lost interest in the team. A costly divorce settlement limited his dealings and illness confined him for a time in Chicago while the club languished in Oakland. He was an absentee owner, running a shoestring operation by telephone, and he appeared to tire of the endless controversies into which he had plunged in better days.

They came from divergent backgrounds. Veeck was the son of a baseball man who preceded Phil Wrigley as president of the Cubs. He grew up around ballparks, major-league and bush-league, and baseball was the major source of his income.

(See BASEBALL'S, 4D)

As a result of upgrading and reshuffling of districts, even a road map won't help a native in determining which league his team is playing in

Most drastic change took place in Class AAA, now AAAA, where two leagues were combined to form a nine-team super league instead of two tiny circuits. Odessa Ector, defending champion of 2-3A, leads Andrews, Monahans, Fort Stockton, and Pecos into a strange union with old 3-3A, where San Angelo Lake View, which won its league title last year. Also joining the new 2-4A circuit will be Lamesa, Sweetwater and Snyder. Outside of an elevation from Class A, 5-2A remains unchanged with Seagraves, once a state finalist and three times a semifinalist in the last five years, expected to dominate with Stanton's Buffaloes again spoiler. Other members include Forsan, Morton,

O'Donnell, Plains and Ropes. REAGAN County's Owls compete in 9-2A, which will include favored Mason, Junction, Ozona, Wall, Eldorado, and Menard.

McCamey looks like the team to beat in 6-2A, a four-team far west circuit that includes Clint, Marfa

Greenwood's Rangers become eligible for district competition this year after two years of tuning up, it must compete in 6-A where Rankin is favore rule the roost. Still, the Rangers are expected to finish in the first division. Also in the league are Iraan, Wink, Buena Vista, Grandfalls, Sanderson and Balmorhea.

Crane moves to a new circle of rivals this year as a member of the four-team 6-3A in which Seminole is favored to rule supreme. Also in contention will be Denver City and Coahoma.

NATURALLY, non-conference action will dominate the season's first night of play with Seminole and Andrews, who once competed in the same division, opening the season at Andrews. Coach Bill Shipman's Mustangs loom as one of the 2-4A favorites after posting a 7-3 record last year. In fact, the Ponies stampeded through non-district with a 6-0 record, but lost three out of four in league play. That's something Shipman would like to change and with quarterback Keith Brooks and tailback Van Pearcy back, Andrews has the weapons to do it.

Seminole should offer a stern challenge before next week's date with Midland. The Indians have six starters back from last year's 8-2 team that barely lost to Andrews, 29-21.

Lamesa comes off a 1-9 season with 22 starters back and Coach Jim Warren hopes experience makes a difference. He'll find out when the Tors host

Second year coach Mike Patterson has 14 lettermen back from last year's 4-6 team headed by fullback Brian Cunningham, tailback Ken Thompson and linebacker Gabriel Rodriquez. First year coach Richard Davis has inherited a 7-3 team at Reagan County, but the pickings are lean with only three starters back.

Coach Steve Park's Stanton Buffaloes opened last season with a 28-14 victory over Tahoka on the way to a 6-2-2 season and the thundering Herd hopes to do it again. Park returns 14 starters headed by quarterback Craig Eiland and 175-pound Lewis Henry, a running back who is expected to break open some

With five offensive and six defensive starters back, Coach Bobby Harrison will send an experienced team into its UIL debut season at Sterling City.

Last year McCamey won the 6-A title with an 8-2-1 record. Iraan, in the same league, 1-9. Now the old rivals compete in new districts. Steve Maurer, winner of three district titles in six years at Leander, replaces John Godfrey as the Braves' coach, but Coach Larry Nabors' Badgers is expected to pack too much punch with six offensive and five defensive starters back.

Ilman named newCOM coach

Gary Ilman, a winner of two Olympic gold medals in 1964, has been hired as the head coach of the City of Midland Swim Team by the COM Board of Directors and will guide the COM future for at least the next five years. His experience in the swimming field ranges over the past 13 years and he has coached Age Group champions, national swim champions and U.S. record holders.

Ilman has served as national swimming coach and technical advisor for the Greek Amateur Swimming Federation. He was the age group and aquatic supervisor of the Athletic Club in Quebec, Canada.

Other positions held by Ilman were women's intercollegiate coach and men's assistant at the University of Alabama, and head coach of the men's and women's programs at Colorado State

The native Californian graduated from Long Beach State College in 1967 and earned his masters at Alabama. In 1963, he was a member of the United States Pan American Team, competing in Sao Paulo, Brazil, and was on the U.S. national team, competing in Japan. In 1964, Ilman was a member of the United States Olympic Team to Toyko where he was a winner of two gold medals on the 400 and 800 freestyle relay teams. He was fourth in the 100-meter freestyle. In 1965, Ilman was the U.S. national champion in the 200 freestyle and again a member of the U.S. team in the World Student Games in Buda-In addition naming Ilman as head coach, COM has also appointed Gary's wife, Christine, as associate coach and new director of the Learn to Swim program.

Christine was born in England and graduated from Milton Keynes College of Buckinghamshire with a degree in music and physical education. In 1975, she earned a degree from Alabama and also attended Colorado State. She has coached high school girl's teams. From 1970 through 1974, Mrs. Ilman was a member of the British National Team and was elected its captain in 1973-74. In 1976-77, she was a member of the Alabama women's swim team palced first in the collegiate championships in the 50, 100 and 200 yard breaststroke events. She was also first in the AAU championships in the 100-meter breaststroke.

Dodgers take over first in NL West

AP Sports Writer Dave Parker's got it going, but now he has to take it on the road with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates, who ended an eightgame losing streak Monday, finished up a nine-game homestand with two straight wins, including a 10-4 victory over the Houston Astros Wednesday night, fueled by Parker's two home

The defending world champion Pirates, in a three-way battle for first in the National League East with Montreal and Philadelphia, now begin a 10-game road trip that could be pivotal in the division.

'It's going to be a tough road trip, but I think we're up for it," Parker said. "The important thing right now is the team thing, the overall thing, the Pirate family going to another World Series."

The trip includes three games in Atlanta, two in Philadelphia, two in St. Louis and three in Montreal.

Philadelphia maintained a half game lead over Pittsburgh wth a 4-3 victory over San Francisco, while Montreal dropped a game off the pace, losing 4-3 to San Diego. The Los Angeles Dodgers, meanwhile, took advantage of Houston's loss with a 2-0 shutout over the New York Mets to take a one-game lead over the Astros in the NL West.

PARKER, who went into the game with only one homer since July 25, hit two-run homers in the third and fifth. Parker also singled home a run in the first off Joaquin Andujar, 2-5, and Mike Easler followed with a homer to help lefty John Candelaria to his 10th

Parker, still hobbled by a knee inury, got two standing ovations from a hometown crowd that had made him the target of flying debris less than two months ago.

"Fans are fans," Parker said when asked his reaction to the ovations. "Basically, the majority of fans are front-runners. I'm not saying that for all fans, but I say the majority jump on the bandwagon when you're going good and are the first to criticize when you're going bad."

Parker has hit .400 in his last 21 games, and Manager Chuck Tanner said the man finally was getting his

"I was thrilled to death to see Pittsburgh fans letting Dave know what they really think of him," Tanner said. "He plays hurt. He gives his best every day. He's the best player in the

Although surprised by the crowd reaction, Parker had to admit: "It's a good feeling to know you had a good day and the fans acknowledged it. I almost scratched myself from the lineup before the game, but from what happened I'm glad I didn't." Phillies 4, Giants 3

Philadelphia wound up a threegame sweep of San Francisco behind the pitching and hitting of Dick Ruthven, who won his fourth straight game. Ruthven picked up the Phils only extra-base hit with an RBI-double in a three-run second innning.

Ruthven went 81-3 innings, leaving after rookie Chris Bourjos rapped a two-run homer in the ninth. Lefty reliever Tug McGraw got the final two outs and earned his 16th save. Padres 4, Expos 3

San Diego right-hander Steve Mura ended a personal four-game losing streak and combined with two relievers on a five-hitter to beat Montreal. Mura, 5-7, went 71-3 innings before getting relief help from Gary Lucas and Rollie Fingers, who got his 19th

Gene Tenace and Luis Salazar each scored once and drove in a run to account, in one way or another, for all of San Diego's scoring. Dodgers 2, Mets 0

Burt Hooton went 8 1-3 innnings and pitched the Dodgers to their seventh straight victory. Hooton gave up four hits before Steve Howe relieved with one out in the ninth.

Steve Garvey homered for the Dodgers in the sixth, and Bill Russell got the other Los Angeles RBI with a squeeze bunt in the second off Pat Zachry, 6-9.

Cardinals 4, Reds 3 Ken Reitz homered twice, and Tony Scott drove in the winning run with a single in the bottom of the 10th for St. Louis, dropping Cincinnati four games back in the NL West. Jim Kaat, 6-7, pitched the 10th inning and got the victory.

Terry Kennedy led off the 10th with a pinch single, and pitcher Don Hood came in to run for him. Hood was sacrificed to second by Ken Oberkfell, and Scott then lined his winning hit to left center off reliever Tom Hume,

Braves 4, Cubs 3

Dale Murphy slammed a three-run homer in the seventh inning, and Gary Matthews added a solo homer in the eighth to give Atlanta its fourth straight victory.

Cubs starter Lynn McGlothen had a no-hitter going through six until Bob Horner led off the seventh inning with a single. Chris Chambliss followed with another single before Murphy hit McGlothen's first pitch for his 26th homer of the year.

Former Midland Cub Jim Tracy went 4-for-4 for the Cubs with a double and triple while another ex-Midland player, Carlos Lezcano, belted his third homer and knocked in two

By CHARLES RICHARDS

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Toronto catcher Ernie Whitt trembled when Texas outfielder John Grubb came to bat in the seventh inning Monday night with runners on first and third.

"He kills us every game. He owns us. I don't know what it is. He scares me every time he comes up. I thought he hit it good enough to go out that last time up," Whitt said. But left fielder Bob Bailor, his back against the fence, hauled in Grubb's high fly and the Blue Jays held on for a 4-2 victory over Texas. Lloyd Moseby's three-run homer in the top of the inning had wiped out a 2-1 Texas lead that was built on solo homers by Grubb and Pat Putnam. Whitt went 3-for-3, including a fifthinning homer.

Grubb had driven in five runs Monday night with a home run and a double in the first game of the threegame series.

Moseby's blast offset three earlier at-bats when the 20-year-old Toronto outfielder had failed to deliver when the Blue Jays had men in scoring

"I'm happy I hit the home run, but I had left four or five runners on base before that. Something good had to happen, and I'm glad it finally did," Moseby said.

Dave Stieb, 12-10, got the victory for Toronto. He struck out seven walked three and gave up six hits, including singles by Al Oliver and Richie Zisk in the first inning and singles by Dave Roberts and Mickey Rivers in the

Ed Figueroa, 3-9, gave up 10 hits in 6 1-3 innings in losing his sixth game in as many decisions since coming to Texas July 28 from the Yankees.

Rivers sat out his third straight game for Texas with a sore leg but came in to pinch hit in the seventh, his 18-game hitting streak on the line. He sent a hard grounder into right field to move Roberts to third and keep Texas' hopes alive.

Billy, George friends again

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin said
Wednesday that he had made his peace with George Steinbrenner and even had agreed to deletion of certain sections in his newly published autobiography termed offensive to the New York Yankee owner. He denied that Steinbrenner had threatened a law suit of the so-called damaging matter.

"George is the greatest person in the world so long as you don't work for him," said the feisty rookie manager of the Oakland A's whose offthe-field pyrotechnics caused him twice to lose his job with the Yankees after blowing managerial posts at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas.

There were some things I said about George in the book which I later found, upon rechecking, that were not true. So I agreed to have them taken out of the book in the next edition."

THE BOOK, entitled "No. 1" and ghosted by Peter Golenbock, has already hit five best-seller lists although it is a month away from the publication date. Orders in Oakland alone, according to the publisher, has reached the tens of thousands.

"This is a book dedicated to truth," Martin told a press conference in New York, where the A's complete a three-game series Wednesday night. "Society needs a little bit of truth, but the truth hurts.'

Among the so-called truths that Billy listed in the book were charges that Steinbrenner, during Martin's turbulent four-year tenure as Yankee manager, was that his bosy monitored phone calls and kept a file of his indiscretions as a possible weapon to use with the commissioner's

There were reports that Steinbrenner lad threatened a suit which could jeopardize Billy's career in baseball.

'That's not true," insisted Eddie Sapir, a New Orleans judge and Martin's advisor. "Billy made these changes of his own accord. He sent a note that that portion of the manuscript should be deleted or clarified."

MARTIN was dapper in a gray business suit and red tie, his eyes hidden by dark glasses, when he appeared before the press at a swank midtown restaurant.

He described himself as relaxed and happy although "not as happy as I'd be if we were

"It's a different kind of happiness," he added. "I get great satisfaction working with young players. I feel like a school teacher waiting to see my students graduate." He said he wouldn't swap Oakland's outfield

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Gene Dotson scored two runs Wednesday night to lead the Arkansas Travelers to a 5-3 victory over Jackson and the championship in the Eastern Division of the Texas League.

The Mets took an early 1-0 lead when Bill Hasselerig walked and then scored on a double by Archie Amer-son. Dotson helped the Travs jump to a 2-0 lead in the second inning when he slammed a home run into the center field fence, scoring Jim Riggleman, who had gotten on base on a walk.

In the fourth, Dotson walked and then scored as Frank Hunsaker made it all the way to third because of an error. Hunsaker scored on a bunt by Peachy Guiterrez.

Another error in the fifth inning enabled John Delmonte to get on base. Delmonte stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a sacrifice fly by Dotson.

In the sixth, Hasselerig came back for the Mets when he singled, went to third on a single by Amerson and scored on a single by Keno Perry. The Mets' Randy Rogers scored the final run in the ninth inning.

Angels' rookie spreads grief in American League

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

Fred Martinez, called up to the majors when the California Angels had pitching problems, is causing problems for American League bat-

"He's doing a good job, getting a little more confidence," Angels Man-ager Jim Fregosi said of Martinez. 'Right now he is getting his feet wet on the big league level. If we didn't have our problems with our pitching staff, he would not be here.'

If he gets any more confidence, no one will be able to touch him. Six days ago, Martinez stopped the Baltiimore Orioles 5-0 with a six-hitter. Wednesday, he hurled a four-hitter to beat the Boston Red Sox 7-2.

"It would have been nice to have two shutouts back-to-back, but I'll take the win anyway," Martinez said.
"Before I had the attitude I couldn't win. I don't now. I didn't expect to make the club. I was lucky to have the chance to pitch."

The victory snapped the Angels' three-game losing streak and halted the Red Sox winning streak at nine. Martinez got hitting support from Rod Carew, who drove in three runs with a home run and a single, and Jason Thompson, who added a solo

Bama-Wreck rivalry heats up

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) - The Alabama-Georgia Tech series used to be one of the best and bitterest in the South and Bear Bryant thinks it could become a classic rivalry once more ... perhaps as early as Satur-

"Georgia Tech may not be the best team on our schedule, but they'll probably be the hardest team for us to beat, Bryant said Wednesday as he held his final news conference prior to defending national champion Alabama's opener Saturday against the Yellow Jackets.

"Mike Kelley, their quarterback, has some impressive credentials. And, like any opening game, we'll have to prepare for most anything in the world. I expect they'll go back to playing us like Tech did when (Coach Bill) Curry was playing there (1962-63-64). I expect playing Tech to be just like playing Tennessee or Au-

ALABAMA holds a slim 25-19-3 lead in the series with Georgia Tech, which dates back to 1902. The rivalry became so heated back in the 1960s - Bryant once walked onto Tech's Grant Field wearing a suit and a football helmet that the schools stopped playing each other for more than a decade.

So Haden, the fair-haired boy in other Los Angeles quarterback controversies, entered 1980 as the second choice of Rams' fans.

Rams' Coach Ray Malavasi has made clear his policy on injured starters - when they return to action, they get their jobs back. He has repeatedly stated that Haden is his team's No. 1 quarterback, but also said prior to the preseason that Ferragamo would get a chance to win the job during the four exhibition games.

When asked if he was getting fed up with the whole situation, Haden gave a simple answer: "Yeah."

"I never thought I'd play the heavy," he said at the Rams' Cal-State Fullerton training camp. "The situation will not be resolved when the decision is made. The controversy will live on.

'When I came into camp, I expected the fans to be enthusiastic about Vince. It's going to be difficult here the rest of my career.'

Finley was a onetime semipro player who made a fortune in insurance and decided that owning a baseball team would be wonderful for his ego. In

Remarkably, Finley enjoyed the greater success on the field. Starting almost from scratch, making almost every important decision (including who would bat fourth, according to testimony from several of the legion he employed as manager), he built a team that won five consecutive division titles and world championships in 1972-73-74. The A's were a sight with their long hair, mustaches and gunslinger swagger. They knew more ways to win a game than any other team, and they delighted in their or-

THAT team should have been a great draw. It was, except in Oakland. For all his bravura, Finley did little to promote his product. There was no community affairs department to spread the word, to book speaking engagements. On more than one occasion he neglected to contract for a radio station to broadcast games until after the season had started. There weren't even printed schedules for local merchants to pass out. The players, it seemed, were there only to gain attention for Charlie and at the first opportunity, they went elsewhere.

What Finley lacked was a sense of humor and an ability to deal with people as equals. Veeck had both in abundance. What the latter realized better than anyone was that a baseball team does not belong to its owners, but to its fans. Without loyalty, it cannot last. Veeck was a fans' owner. He circulated among them in an open-necked shirt (the only kind he wore) and he understood them. To him the ritziest of watering holes was a saloon and that breezy informality permeated every organization he ran.

He gave the fans a scoreboard with fireworks and he installed a shower in the bleachers for hot summer days. He was the first owner to hold a night not for a player, but for a customer. Some of his promotions backfired. Some were just plain silly.

But Veeck made a visit to the ballpark enjoyable. The home team can't win every game, he reasoned, so you have to sell people a total experience. Nobody did it with greater passion or exuberance than "Second-Hand Bill," as he whimsically called himself in the parody he wrote to "Second-Hand

IMAGINE what a field day Veeck could have had with the team Finley, who served as his own general manager, built. With his finest team, the 1948 Cleveland Indians, Veeck drew 2,620,627, still an American League record. The White Sox franchise has been revitalized under Veeck in the last five years even if the team has not become a serious contender. He never did get a chance for what he considered the supreme challenge, making baseball the hottest ticket in Washington.

SO DOES he wanted to be traded?

However, he admits that a trade is a definite possibility in the future. "I think it would be good for both Vince and me and the organization for one of us to leave at some point," Haden said. "I just don't think it's healthy for a team to go through this year in and year out. "I've been through this four times and I'm very tired of it," he continued, referring to earlier battles with James Harris, Ron Jaworski and Joe Namath, all of which he eventually won. "You have a backup quarterback to relieve, but you can't have a controversy every time someone relieves and throws for a touchdown.

"I think a quarterback controversy is bad for two reasons - the quarterbacks are trying to outdo each other at the detriment of the team and I just think you need stability. We're certainly trying to outdo each other in the preseason.'

Haden and Ferragamo are splitting the quarterbacking duties equally. At this stage, there is no clear-cut win-

Haden has completed 53.3 percent of his passes for 474 yards, two touchdowns with no interceptions while Ferragamo has hit on 57.8 percent of his throws for 435 yards and five touchdowns with one interception.

"I've been pleased with the way I've played," Haden said. "I think Ray has been very fair, and I'm going to live with his decision. I suspect both of us will be around this year, but most likely next year one of us will be

FERRAGAMO is in the option year of his contract, and has said that he and the Rams are far apart, so a trade might not be necessary. Has the controversy affected the relationship of Haden and Ferragamo, roommates during training

"Vince and I have a remarkably good relationship," Haden said. "At this point, we find the situation fairly comical. Haden admits he had mixed emo-tions as far as the Rams' 1979 success was concerned after he was injured.

"Selfishly, I was sad to miss the Super Bowl but at the same time I was very pleased for members of the organization," he said. "It was a difficult time for me but a good learning experience. I learned how much I missed football." While Haden figures as the favorite right now to retain his No. 1 job; even if he wins, he could wind up the loser. In other words, he faces a doubleedged sword.

Retrievers big help to bird hunter

Most gun dogs will retrieve game naturally. Some must be trained. But none can match dogs that are bred to find and fetch shot birds, the Retriev-

In future Fin and Feather columns, we'll get around to other breeds of bird dogs, but let's take a look at the retriever family in this column, since the retriever is important for mourning dove season and early teal season.

Pointers, setters and spaniels fill their niche in hunting, but we'll start with retriever

The act of finding and retrieving shot game is the most important job of any dog bred to work birds. The same applies to us. We aren't obliged to go afield and shoot at birds, but when we exercise that privilege, we must accept two obligations: to shoot as well and cleanly and sensibly as possible and make every reasonable effort to find shot birds. The best way to meet the second obligation is with a dog.

CONSERVATION implies wise use. Hunters who wantonly waste game are neither sportsmen nor conservationists. They are needlessly squandering precious game supplies and antagonizing landowners and nonhunters as well. Our wildlife resource base can no longer afford such people.

Suppose, for example, the pheasant bag limit is three cock can be hard to find without a dog, especially if you're shooting over such stuff as unharvested soybeans, milor or sunflowers. A trained retriever not only saves the birds, but adds a special flavor to the hunt. Watching that dog find and retrieve is like putting salt on meat. For some, such dogwork is the reason for hunting. Sure, we know that drum has been banged so often that you hardly hear it any more, but believe

THE VALUE of dogs has been proven countless times. In Illinois, an area where hunters without dogs shot 88 pheasants. 19 were crippled birds that escaped. At the same time, hunters with dogs shot 81 birds and only eight were lost.

The comparisons extend to other species, too. It's estimated that one of every five ducks shot is not recovered and it is contended that this could be reduced by half with the use of retrievers.

No class can do a better job of finding and retrieving shot birds than retrievers. In America today, the Labrador Retriever, Golden Retriever and Chesapeake Bay Retriever dominate. The Lab is the most popular of the Big Three. Smart, tractable, strong, Labs are great hunting dogs in either uplands or wetlands. They have a warm, even disposition and make excellent pets, which doesn't mar their hunting abilities in the slight-

LABS ARE super waterfowl retrievers, web-footed, bullnecked, otter-tailed, stevedores of dogs, bred for plowing through marsh mud and breaking shelf ice as well as wonderful upland flushers-finders and fetchers. They are bred, born and dedicated to retrieve. All in all, the Labrador is quite possi-bly the most versatile hunting dog afield today.

The Golden Retriever is named for its long golden coat and is the most handsome of the Three. An excellent all-around dog, it tends to be a bit softer than the others and many hunters and pro trainers do not feel it responds as well to stern training and discipline. It's a splendid field companion and excellent retriever of upland game, but is not rated as high for water work as the Lab or Chesa-

For

Our

College courses by cable TV a thing of future?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Could it be that someday folks will earn college degrees simply by plugging in to courses offered on television?

The immediate response from educators generally is negative, but the possibility has at least been raised with the advent of televised classes on a "college cable" channel here.

"I can forsee a time when that will happen," says Keith Lucas, Louis-ville-area vice president for CPI Inc., a cable television franchise that will help launch an ambitious college program here this fall.

'The most obvious appeal is to the handicapped person who is bedridden or confined to a house who can't get to a college campus. And there are housewives and shift workers, too," Lucas says.

With the cooperation of CPI and Kentuckiana Metroversity, a consortium of six colleges in Louisville and southern Indiana, cable subscribers can earn college credit simply by watching classes on television.

The Louisville experiment offers four introductory courses, each worth three credit hours -- business, humanities, composition and a survey of Japanese history. Cable subscribers who meet college entrance requirements have only to pay a $105 semester fee, pick up the course materials,

Using a CPI channel, Metroversity will broadcast the twice-weekly classes at least 10 times a week at all hours, to allow students to "attend" classes any time they can.

At the end of each semester, final examinations will be administered in the traditional manner, with students meeting on campus to take the tests.
Other arrangements will be made for students who are unable to come on campus for the fivel examinations.
The TV-for-credit approach still is in its infancy, but the possibilities are intriguing. Several colleges - Maryland, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Purdue universities, for example — have made or are contemplating use of television for degree purposes, Lucas says, adding, however, "I don't think the idea has been embraced by the cable companies.

One reason, of course, is money. Fees paid by students for the classes go to Metroversity, not the cable company. "It's not a revenue-producing agent," Lucas says. "Plus, it takes a lot of cooperation by the cable agent. In essence, you're giving away a channel.

But Lucas sees some positive reasons for a cable operator taking part in a "cable college.

"First of all, it's a good public relations tool because of the public service," he says. "And you have to look into whether people who currently aren't on cable will subscribe simply to get the college courses. That could be a big factor if this thing snowballs.

Colleges might be cool to the idea of someone earning a degree on television. Traditionalists, for example, could decry the absence of a classroom atmosphere.

"If I were looking at it from the point of view of the colleges, I wouldn't care where students take a class, as long as they pay me for the class," says Lucas. "It seems to me that, with cable, they would reach people they might not otherwise

The Louisville-area experiment, which will be evaluated after a twoyear test, features a half-hour film on a subject with additional lectures by a local professor at the open and close of the filmed segments.

The plan calls for periodic seminars, which would allow for in-person ddiscussion

Susan Griffin, associate director of Metroversity, says she doesn't think the day will come when TV can take the place of the college campus, but she is nonetheless excited about the approach to learning.

The key to the whole thing, she says, is that the colleges are directly involved in the televised offerings.

'Cable has the individual approach, and the college departments have control over the courses," she says. "It's not just leasing a software

"The deans (of member colleges) nominate faculty members to teach the courses. In turn, the faculty member decides everything about the class - they select the class, the course materials and so on."

"It reminds me of when colleges first started offering night classes," Lucas says. "At first, you could only get a couple of things. Now you can get any kind of degree you can imag-

'Why in the World' is dream come true for Walter Cronkite

LOS ANGELES (AP) - When the average parent is unhappy with the education his child is getting, he writes a note to the school board. And then there's Walter Cronkite.

Cronkite's method of protest is to bring in new teachers - say, Henry Kissinger for history, or Leonard Bernstein for music. Really.

Through a new television service called Satellite Education Services, Cronkite and his associates hope to bring the likes of Kissinger and Bernstein into high school classrooms across the country - "superteachers" whose lectures would be delivered by satellite.

Cronkite calls it one of his fondest dreams, stymied until now because it was technologically impractical. His idea has come to fruition too late to influence the education of his own kids, now grown; but after all, Cronkite is everybody's Daddy, sort of.

Satellite Education Services (of which Cronkite is the Chairman of the Board) will present a series called "Why in the World," which will daily beam to participating classrooms a major news story, followed by a lecture from one of the superteachers.

Say, for example, that Jerusalem declares itself a free state on Monday afternoon. Tuesday's edition of "Why in the World" would run a tape of the story and then a lecture from Kissinger (who has agreed to participate in the project), putting the development in historical per-The lectures will originate from five studios in cities with a large

The festival project was initiated to help preserve and protect the traditional forms of Delta blues music and to showcase the blues mas ters from the Mississippi Delta.

"We want to focus on those who are closer to the heart of the blues,' said Ms. Jefferson, assistant director of MACE's Delta Arts Project. She said the MACE festival is the only blues gathering which focuses on the traditional masters without including the more commercial forms of the music.

G-rated movies are better money-makers

LAWRENCEVILLE, N.J. (AP) - Although R-rated movies may raise some eyebrows, Grated films are better money-makers, a recent study maintains.

'The categories that were most popular with audiences were not the categories that were most popular with producers," the researchers

One of every seven R-rated movies fulfilled the study's definition of box office success, while one in four with G or PG ratings were successful, said the study, completed recently by three college professors from the Northeast.

"The most surprising find was the high success ratio of G films, suitable for all ages," said Dr. Thomas Simonet, associate professor of communications at Rider College in New Jersey. Simonet, Bruce A. Austin, assistant professor of communications at Rochester Institute of Technology, and Dr. Mark J. Nicholich, staff statistician at the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, compared the films on the basis of North American rentals of at least $1 million, based on the dollar's 1969 exchange rate. "Family films have been so maligned as 'box office poison' that relatively few are made anymore," Simonet said. Yet 24.2 percent of them have been successful. They're right up there with PG, the parental guidance films, which had a 26.7 percent success ratio. The success ratio for movies rated R, to which persons under 17 years old are not admitted without adult permission, was only 13.7 percent, while just 5 percent of the X-rated movies, where no one under 18 is admitted, had reached the study's success level, the researchers said.

'People have been speculating about the possible effects of ratings on the box office ever since the system began," Simonet said. "This is the first comprehensive test - and strongest statistical indication to date that the public's tastes are more conservative than Holly-

"If producers went solely by the findings of this study, they would produce more G films, fewer R films and virtually no X films," the report said.

The report, covering an 11-year period, explained that the same number of R-rated films

The bidding: South West North East 1 NT Pass 4 Pass Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Queen of 4

Reigning world team champion Mike Passell executed an old but grand swindle in a match from the Spingold Team Championship at the recent Summer North American Championships in Chicago. His ruse was good enough to fool a national champion, who shall remain anonymous.

North's bid of four hearts was a Texas transfer, requesting his partner to bid four spades. The rationale behind this convention is that the stronger hand will be concealed, making the defense more difficult, and the lead will come up to the strong hand rather than through it. West led the queen of clubs, and declarer won in his hand so that he could run the eight of trumps. Prospects. for the defense did not look good. Since declarer had to have the three top hearts and king of diamonds for his opening bid, it did not look as if the defenders could score more than two trump tricks the ace diamondis-declarer could not guess ong in diamonds even if he tried. Yet, declarer that we probably would have suffered the same fate.

Passell won the ace of spades at trick two! Then he cashed the ace of diamonds and continued with a low diamond.

Put yourself in declarer's shoes. He could not afford to play low on the second round of diamonds, for East might ruff the third round. And against some distributions it wasn't safe to win king of diamonds and immediately try to dispose of dummy's last diamond on the hearts. However, since West was "known" to hold the spade queen, it seemed completely safe to repeat the spade finesse before worrying about dummy's third dia mond. Imagine declarer's surprise when East won the spade trick with the queen he "could not" have, and then took the queen of diamonds to complete declarer's himiliation.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Was there a real credit explosion?

NEW YORK (AP) — Do Americans use credit irresponsibly? Have they been overextending themselves? Or did the alleged unbridled growth of credit during the 1970s contain myth as well as fact?

The answers no longer are as clearcut as they had appeared to be when we casually spoke of the credit explosion and wondered aloud when our neighbors would be declared financially dead by the bankrucpty court.
On re-examination, some of the figures don't add up in quite the way we

On re-examination, some of the figures don't add up in quite the way we thought they did. And because they do not, some questions now arise about whether the country has always followed correct credit policies.

On March 14, for example, a worried Federal Reserve suddenly clamped down on consumer borrowing, and in so doing perhaps pulled the rug from beneath an economy that already was tripping and falling over itself.

The Fed move, which helped produce one of the most abrupt economic declines ever experienced, was well fortified with statistics. During the 1970s, for example, consumer instalment credit rose 207 percent, from $101.2 billion early in 1970 to $311.3 billion in late in 1979.

early in 1970 to $311.3 billion in late in 1979. But after dissecting the figures for the AP, Professor William Dunkelberg, associate director of Purdue University's Credit Research Center, found somewhat different picture," which is to say a deflated picture.

In real (not inflated) dollars, he points out, consumer instalment credit rose 58 percent in 10 years. In the same period, disposable income increased 20 percent, and population rose 19 percent. Considering this, and assuming a constant debt-to-income ratio during the period, credit growth comes to 2 percent a year, "a modest figure in light of the attention policymakers have given to consumer credit.' Besides, says Dunkelberg, we rely on statistical concepts that change. And we sometimes include as credit what really are more like cash purchases, even if credit cards are used. For example: In 1970, outstanding bank credit card debt was $3.7 billion. By the end of 1979 it was $29.2 billion and rising. Over the same period, retail credit rose to $27.9

billion from $13.1 billion. Big figures.

But, says Dunkelberg, "over $20 billion of this credit was probably repaid within the 30-day grace period permitted by credit card issuers." In other words, the credit cards were used as cash.

Dunkelberg also observes that the credit burden sometimes was assumed to be heavier than it was. But the length of loans has grown, meaning repayment terms do not represent the monthly drain of 10 years ago.

In addition, he comments, the population has become younger, and a younger population means heavier credit use because of the need to buy furniture and other items. They add to the credit statistics, but they do not furniture and other items. They add to the credit statistics, but they do not necessarily represent any change whatever in credit habits.

Dunkelberg finds another peculiarity in the figures for the 1970s: Most of the credit growth appears to have been among the top 20 percent of the income distribution. The lowest 20 percent showed little change. "All these factors generated debt statistics that overstated the increase in credit use when compared to figures based on data for consumers 10 years ago," the professor declares. "Thus, the notion of a 'credit explosion' may have, in retrospect, overstated the case." Said the professor in conclusion: "As has been true in the past, consumers continue to show that they are quite responsible managers of their own "One wonders if the same statement can be made about government borrowing, especially once all the off-budget borowing activities are exa-

Machinists Union refuses to endorse Jimmy Carter

By TERRY KINNEY

CINCINNATI (AP) - The 800,000member International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers refused Wednesday to endorse President Carter for re-election, choosing to remain neutral instead.

Delegates to the union's 30th convention voted to support the Democratic Party's pl presidential candidate

The vote followed a triumphal appearance by Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massacusetts, whom the union had supported for the Democratic nomi-

"We're entitled to better," Machinists President William Winpisinger said of Carter's candidacy. He called the Democratic Party "the party of Ted Kennedy," and said he was comfortable with the feeling that in November, union members would "vote their conscience and self-interest." Winpisinger urged the 2,700 delegates to ratify the recommendation of the union's executive council to be neutral on the presidency, but to fully support the party's platform "as the best way to ensure re-election of a Democratic Congress.'

Kennedy strode to the podium as the auditorium's sound system blared the theme from the movie "Rocky." He was greeted by a long ovation and many "Kennedy '84" signs.

Kennedy delivered a rousing denunciation of Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, but gave Carter only tepid support, mentioning him by name just three times. "President Carter has accepted the spirit and the goals of the Democratic nedy said. A few minutes later he told the delegates: "Our duty in this election, as President Carter has said, is to show the Republican future for what it really is; for when the people see that future clearly, we can be confi-dent that they will reject it overwhelmingly. Kennedy did not ask the delegates to endorse Carter, but said he would campaign "to the best of my ability to defeat the forces of negativism, to defeat Ronald Reagan, for the election of President Carter and a Democratic Congress.'

Nigerian flooding kills 240

IBADAN, Nigeria surged through this provincial capital last weekend have killed at least 240 persons and police were continuing their search for bodies, the Nigerian News Agency re-ported Wednesday.

Police initially reported 33 persons dead in flooding caused by a 12hour rainstorm Sunday.

The news agency, quoting newspaper reports here, said the mortuary was "packed" in this city, the capital of Oyo province in southwestern Nigeria. State Gov. Bola Ige has ordered the demolition of buildings along the River Ogunpa, which flooded during the storm, the agency said. Officials hoped this would help reduce the torrential flow of the river.

The victims reportedly included 29 persons killed when the house in which they all lived was swept away. The federal government in the capital city of Lagos has ordered members of a special Committee on Natural Disasters to make an onthe-spot damage assess-

Today's Clarence Darrow has fighting spirit, too will try to stop.

He said so, just the other day. "Sure I would. That was the trial of the century," said Clarence Darrow, descendant and namesake of the celebrated Chicago lawyer who more than a half-century ago made history by defending a teacher's right to teach evolution in Tennessee.

Trials of the century come around infrequently, so the younger Darrow has not yet had his chance. He has had his moments, however.

Earlier this year, some fundamentalist preachers had a bill introduced in the Illinois General Assembly to require public schools to teach the biblical story of creation along with evolution. Darrow, a member of the House, prepared to lead the opposi-

"Actually, I didn't object to the teaching of the biblical story of creation if they'd offer all the others, too," he said.

The preachers had only Genesis in mind and the bill died in committee. Still, the thought of a modern-day Clarence Darrow facing the foes of evolution in 1980 had folks buzzing during this year's Clarence Darrow birthday party in Chicago, an annual celebration that survives 123 years after the fact.

Young Clarence was this year's keynote speaker. And he was there in Hyde Park in March to mark the anniversary of the scattering of Darrow's ashes according to his last Darrow the younger never met Darrow the elder, who died in 1938. His link is through his grandfather, a cousin of the famed lawyer.

Carrying the name likely has helped in politics, young Clarence is quick to admit, but it has had its drawbacks. Secretaries at Chicago law firms inevitably are flustered when Clarence Darrow calls. Some don't believe him. John Marshall Law School didn't even respond a few years ago when he requested an application. "I later learned they thought it was a joke," he said. Darrow went to Kent College instead, turning from social work to law in 1971 and to politics three years later. He has made a name for himself, battling the utilities unmercifully, championing labor, defending the poor and elderly.

Darrow stretched out his lanky frame and looked about his law office. He is a big-boned man with a firm chin, blue eyes and a thatch of dark hair curling around the ears.

As he grows older, he sees more similarities with his namesake.

'He was a lawyer and a Democrat, and he was in politics, a member of the Illinois General Assembly, in

'Sometimes somebody will say I even look like him," he said. "But we are different men and this is a different time. In no way do I have his speaking abilities or his wit." But each has made his way to Dayton, Tenn., the older Darrow in 1925 for the trial, the younger last Christmas as a kind of pilgrimage "It hasn't changed a bit from the old pictures of the trial," he said. "The old courthouse is still there, the benches and chairs, all still looking the same. It was exciting just being

Darrow stood in the courtroom with its worn flooring and vaulted ceiling that once echoed with the oratory of the artful Darrow and the silver tongue of William Jennings Bryan.
