Confusion reigns in 'debate on debates'

WASHINGTON (AP) — As League of Women Voters officials meet today to decide whether to invite John Anderson to take part in the league's presidential debates, they find themselves mired in the arcane intricacies of national political polls.

At the same time, there seems to be confusion on independent candidate Anderson's part as to whether the White House has shifted position on its insistence that only President Carter and Ronald Reagan participate in the first presidential debate. Word from the White House was "no change."

Carter has said all along he would debate Anderson along with Reagan, but only if he faces Reagan alone first. Anderson wants in on the first match, which is regarded as having the most influence on voters.

The league, in an effort to avoid legal hassles, set what seemed like a simple standard for invitations to third-party candidates: the candidate had to reach the 15-percent level in national polls.

But the fact that the league officials meeting today have invited along a corps of polling experts and academics suggests that the formula may be a good deal more complicated than imagined — and only partly because polls taken over the last three weeks put Anderson's national standing at anywhere from 13 percent to 17 percent.

While the debate question is debated, both Anderson and Carter were stumping in New Jersey today, and Reagan was in Chicago.

The president was taking part in the dedication of a new steel plant in Perth Amboy, N.J., giving him an opportunity to defend his own economic policies and attack those of Reagan.

Carter said at the ceremony that his economic recovery plan would create a million jobs over two years while Republican promises of tax cuts would only bring "massive tax breaks for the wealthy and massive increases in inflation to working people."

In Chicago, Reagan said in a major economic speech he could trim $195 billion or more in federal spending in the next five years by eliminating "waste, extravagance, abuse and outright fraud" in federal agencies.

His advisers said the GOP nominee's goal could be achieved without junking any major federal programs.

Reagan called Carter's economic record "an American tragedy," and pledged to revitalize the economy as president through substantial cuts in income taxes and removal of burdensome government regulations.

Reagan, speaking in Kokomo, Ind., on Monday before heading for Chicago, called Carter's plan "cynical" and "political."

Former President Gerald R. Ford met with Reagan in Chicago, renewed his promise to campaign hard for the GOP ticket, and hit Carter's administration for revealing a program to develop a radar-evading aircraft. He said the disclosure of the "Stealth" program was "unwise and potentially dangerous to our national security."

Anderson, harping on the debate question, said Monday that a Carter refusal to meet him in the first debate could become "one of the major issues of the 1980 campaign."

Later, after hearing apparently incomplete news reports of a statement by Carter spokesman Jody Powell, Anderson said he understood that "the presidential press secretary has now allowed that perhaps the president would deign to see a third person seated on the platform" for the first debate.

Powell did say, "We're perfectly willing to participate in multi-candidate debates, but we feel there's got to be an assurance there will also be one-on-one debates" — suggesting the two-man debates could come later.

But he went on to say of the two-man contest, "There's a feeling that debate ought to be first, a feeling strengthened by the growing conclusion here that if we agreed to a multi-candidate debate there would be no one-on-one."

The question of whether Anderson will be invited to the first debate, tentatively scheduled Sept. 21 in Baltimore, likely will be decided today after a meeting of the executive committee of the league's education fund, the actual sponsor of the debates.

The committee's members will consult with the league board, then possibly inform the candidates later today. The decision will be made public Wednesday.

Exhumation fight a tedious process

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The tedious legal struggle to unearth the body in Lee Harvey Oswald's grave continues here amid confusion over ownership of the cemetery plot and allegations that the accused presidential assassin may actually have been a Russian spy.

State District Judge James E. Wright indicated at the conclusion of a civil hearing Monday he will decide next week on a request to temporarily halt exhumation of the body. Oswald's brother, Robert, has filed suit to keep the grave closed, claiming an exhumation would cause him great "mental anguish."

Wright also extended a temporary restraining order, preventing any exhumation until he decides on the lawsuit. If he grants the temporary injunction, another hearing would be required to make the action permanent.

Michael Eddowes, a British author, says he has received permission to exhume the body from Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter. Eddowes, author of "The Oswald File," claims a Russian spy was substituted for Oswald and the imposter — not Oswald — assassinated President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas.

Eddowes has tried for more than two years to unearth the body to prove his claims that a shorter, slighter Soviet spy named Alek James Hidell "became" Oswald after the "real" Oswald visited the Soviet Union in 1959.

The portly, white-haired author sat on the front row of the courtroom Monday, a few feet from Oswald, a silver-haired Wichita Falls businessman who bears a strong resemblance to his infamous brother.

At issue in this hearing is ownership of a grave bearing a simple marker that reads "Oswald" at Rose Hill Burial Park.

Robert Oswald says he paid for the plot, and Eddowes has no legal right to attempt to dig up the body there.

Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, said she granted permission to exhume the body to prove once and for all that her husband was buried in the plot.

But in a surprising twist last week, Mrs. Porter told Wright she had heard rumors that led her to believe the grave may already be empty.

Cemetery manager Neil Wretberg provided copies of burial records he said bore handwritten notations showing the Oswald plot was deeded to the Oswalds' mother, Marguerite, on Aug. 14, 1961.

Oswald's attorneys challenged the validity of the records, intimating the deed transfer could have been backdated.

The records showed Marguerite Oswald was the purchaser of the plot, Wretberg said.

Decision due on housing bonds

County residents should know on Wednesday if the Midland County Housing Finance Corp. can continue with its bond program for low-interest loans on houses.

Harry Clark, chairman of that corporation, said Monday the bonds should be priced today. The underwriters with Howard, Weil, Labouisse and Friedrichs, Inc., of New Orleans should have enough time by Wednesday to test the market and see if the bonds can be sold, Clark explained.

"Frankly, we may not be able to do it at all," Clark said of the program's future. He explained that under state law the bonds can't be sold for more than 10 percent. "And right now, it looks like we're crowding that."

If the pricing comes in lower than estimated, Clark said persons wanting the loans may line up at 8 a.m. Oct. 9 at Chaparral Center to apply for the money.

The county is trying to sell $40 million in bonds. Maximum income of an applicant will be $45,000 in 1979 with a maximum mortgage allowed of $90,000.

To give low and moderate income families a break, the chairman said 25 percent of the money spent in the first 90 days of the program will go to applicants making $20,000 or less in 1979 and an annualized income this year of no more than $20,000.

"We're on track, but not on schedule," Clark said.

The bond program was started under the auspices of the county commissioners who formed the county finance corporation to proceed with the program. This bond program follows the same lines as one sponsored by the city in late 1979 when $35 million in bonds was sold for home mortgages. Interest paid by those recipients was 9 1/4 percent.

Top limits on that program were $30,000 on income and $75,000 on a mortgage.

The money was soon handed out to qualified applicants, and a demand for another program prompted the county to initiate procedures. And while the money last time was confined to Midland's city limits, this time the bonds can be used to buy or construct homes anywhere in the county, including within the city limits.

Mideast normalization efforts to continue

By The Associated Press

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said today that President Anwar Sadat of Egypt had promised to continue normalizing relations between the two countries, a process Israel has claimed Egypt was hindering, Israel Radio reported.

Begin's speech to political correspondents of Israeli newspapers coincided with the departure of his foreign minister, Yitzhak Shamir, for Cairo. Shamir, the first government minister to visit Egypt in four months, was welcomed warmly by Egyptian State Minister for Foreign Affairs Butros Ghali.

According to the Israeli state radio, Begin said Sadat invited Shamir to meet with him as a gesture aimed at easing the chilly atmosphere that had developed after Sadat broke off talks on Palestinian autonomy in May.

Shamir told reporters at Ben Gurion airport that above all, negotiations for autonomy for the 1.2 Million Palestinians of the occupied West Bank and Gaza strip had to be resumed and that normalization is essential for the maintenance of peace.

"Normalization is the real expression of peaceful relations between Israel and Egypt," he said, adding, however, that Israel does not accept any linkage of the two processes.

Shamir also said that during the resumed talks, plans for a three-way Camp David style summit meeting after the American presidential elections would be made.

U.S. Special Ambassador Sol Linowitz shuttled from Israel to Egypt last week on a successful mission to get the stalled autonomy talks moving again. Sadat agreed to resume the talks at an unspecified date and part of the package that changed his mind was American approval of his call for another summit.

At that time, Linowitz also received Sadat's guarantee on normalization.

President Carter's Mideast envoy apparently succeeded in getting Begin to postpone his controversial plan to move his office to disputed East Jerusalem. Israeli government sources said Monday Begin bowed to heavy American pressure.

Khadafy launches economic change program

EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert McCartney, a member of the Associated Press staff in Rome, has just returned from a reporting visit to Libya.

By ROBERT MCCARTNEY

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The Libyan government is confiscating small shops and requiring people to show "urgent need" before they can withdraw money from their bank accounts under a sweeping program of radical change launched by the nation's revolutionary leader, Col. Moammar Khadafy.

"His goal is nothing less than the destruction of all forms of government and economics known to the Western world," says a top foreign diplomat in this North African capital on the edge of the Sahara Desert.

The government has shut down small shops in the name of modernization and replaced them with gleaming five-story, steel-and-glass supermarkets. The shutters that board up the closed stores are painted green, the ever-present color of Islam and the color that gives the title to Khadafy's three-pamphlet "Green Book" outlining his "Third Universal" plan as an alternative to capitalism and communism.

In theory, Khadafy is trying to set up a kind of town-meeting democracy to run each community, factory and office. Unlike Adam Smith and Karl Marx, however, he has an army, police and "Revolutionary Committees" to help put his ideas in effect.

"Khadafy is imposing his brand of democracy on the people," said a high-ranking Libyan government official. "He's trying to force them to take power into their own hands."

Here are some of the measures Khadafy has imposed on his oil-rich nation of 3 million people over the past two years:

— Last May, the state seized control of all citizens' money beyond a maximum of $3,380 in cash each family was allowed to keep. It can be difficult to get money for a new car and impossible for a second house, although banks issue cash to newlyweds setting up their first household. Khadafy described the measure as egalitarian and said state control would keep people from wasting their savings.

— The campaign to isolate Libya from Western influences and safeguard its Islamic "purity" has intensified. Airport customs police routinely confiscate Western newspapers when travelers arrive from abroad. Militant youths have broken into homes and smashed grape presses and other equipment used to make wine.

— Teen-agers and older men are being instructed in the use of sub-machine guns and rocket launchers, part of Khadafy's plan to replace regular military forces with a fully armed population.

— New "People's Congresses." (See DIRECTIONAL, Page 2A)

Restless refugee hijacks airliner back to homeland

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A 40-year-old Cuban house painter with a shattered American dream is back on his native island — in custody — after using a pint bottle that he said was filled with gasoline to hijack a jetliner for the ride home.

The other 88 people aboard the Eastern Airlines jet that was diverted to Havana on Monday returned safely to the United States.

It was the eighth hijacking of a U.S. plane in the past month. Most of the incidents have been blamed on disillusioned Cubans who arrived here via the "Freedom Flotilla" which has brought 122,000 refugees to the United States since April.

Witnesses said the homesick sky-jacker, identified by authorities as Juan Pedrosa, blessed himself, then barricaded himself in the lavatory of Flight 161 with the bottle on the floor beside him and a cigarette lighter in his hand. He threatened to blow up the aircraft unless he was taken to Cuba, the FBI said.

Only a handful of passengers knew what was happening as the drama unfolded quietly in the rear of the 727, en route from Albany, N.Y., to Tampa and Sarasota via New York's Kennedy International Airport.

Pedrosa said he came to America four months ago, lured by tales of riches, but wound up instead jobless, broke, lonely and desperate, according to witnesses.

"I would rather die in Cuba than die here like a pig," a distraught Pedrosa told Julie Lynch of Sarasota, a Spanish-speaking passenger who acted as interpreter during the ordeal.

The plane with 82 passengers and a crew of six plus one non-uniformed airline employee was diverted over Charleston, S.C., and flown to Havana's Jose Marti Airport where waiting Cuban soldiers took Pedrosa into custody.

The 107-seat jetliner arrived in Tampa four hours late. No one was injured during the incident. Some passengers realized something was wrong when the flight was overdue in Tampa and nothing was said.

"I was relieved to find out it was only a hijacking," said John Floyd, a Bedford, N.Y., attorney.

Sloveig Thorhallsdottir of Iceland was traveling to Florida with her husband and their nine-month-old daughter Dora. They were sitting near Pedrosa.

"Right after breakfast he blessed himself, then got up. I saw him go to the bathroom and leave it open," she said. "He had something under his handkerchief. Later they said it was a lighter. I felt like a cold sweat and I got cold hands."

Mrs. Lynch, 60, was going home to Sarasota with her husband, Julian, after visiting relatives in Forest Hills, N.Y. Pedrosa got out of his seat, tapped her husband on the shoulder and asked if he spoke Spanish, Mrs. Lynch said.

Flood advisories are in effect in central Texas Hill Country

LLANO, Texas (AP) — Flood advisories were in effect today for the central Texas Hill Country after surging waters roared into a docking area near Lake Lyndon B. Johnson, washed into homes and businesses near Menard and covered highways near Junction and Uvalde.

Rushing water from the Llano River destroyed docks and heavily damaged at least 20 pleasure boats near Kingsland late Monday night, a Llano County sheriff's spokesman said.

No injuries were reported when high waters, spawned by rainfall from the remnants of tropical storm Danielle, roared through the popular fishing resort area. One Junction area rancher reported 25 inches of rain between Sunday morning and Monday night.

Earlier Monday, occupants of several mobile homes west of Llano were forced to run for safety after the river rose 30 feet above normal, said sheriff's spokesman Rod Decker.

Authorities expected another surge of high water along the river today. But Llano's 2,600 residents were not immediately endangered by the rising river, which cuts through the middle of town, Decker said.

However, some residents of Menard, about 75 miles west of here, saw their homes and businesses flooded when the San Saba River became a raging torrent a half-mile wide Monday.

Electricity was out in Menard on Monday afternoon, and the resulting loss of pumping power and water pressure forced officials to ask the town's 2,000 residents to cut back on water usage.

"The flood in '38 was the only one worse than this one," said Jack Walston, vice president of Menard State Bank. "But there was more water then and it stayed longer."

The Walter Pfluger ranch north of Junction reported 25 inches of rain during the period from 6 a.m. Sunday to 9 a.m. Monday.

State troopers closed several roads in the Junction and Uvalde areas after rising streams flooded low water crossings, the Department of Public Safety said.

But authorities reopened the highways after waters receded late Monday, a Kimble County Sheriff's Department dispatcher said.

The river crested at 36 feet near Junction, about 80 miles west of Llano, said dispatcher Edwina Dargatzis, and damage was reported to several mobile homes hit by high water.

Police have no clues to cause of inmate's death

There is still no lead as to what might have caused the death of a 28-year-old City Jail inmate Sunday night or Monday morning.

Charles Lee Hickey, 28, was found dead when a jailer went to awaken the man Monday. Peace Justice Robert Pine was called, and the death was ruled due to natural causes.

Police officials say there were no marks on the body or signs indicating a violent death.

Hickey had been arrested Sunday morning on charges of "failure to make time pay," or failure to make a time payment on a fine levied on a previous charge.

Police are investigating a residential burglary in which the "getaway" vehicle was a bicycle.

Mrs. David Bernal, 1603 N. Weatherford St., reported the burglary to police Monday. Taken were two watches, a cigar box containing $8.50 in dimes and a pickle jar with $45 in change. Total value of the stolen items was about $213.50.

Officers determined that someone rode a bicycle to the north side of the residence, climbed a fence and jumped off into the victim's back yard. The burglar then tore a rubber spacer off the west side of the air conditioner and crawled through the eight-inch-by-12-inch hole into the den.

The person apparently searched the house, but stole only the watches and change.

Exit from the house was through a rear den door. A motorcycle-car accident and a bicycle-car accident sent two people to Midland Memorial Hospital Monday.

At 4:59 p.m., Diane Elizabeth Sager, 1600 W. Dengar Ave., was westbound on the Midland College exit, Edward Alvarado Jr., 2439 Whitmore Boulevard, was northbound on Garfield Street, riding his motorcycle. The two vehicles collided at the intersection of Garfield and Maxwell Drive.

Alvarado was taken, by ambulance, to Midland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Sidney Ciarre Swinehart, 2821 Auburn, was injured when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Gwyndolyn Spark, 2407 Dartmouth Drive.

According to reports, Ms. Spark was eastbound on Culpepper Drive about 8:03 p.m. Monday. Swinehart was riding his bicycle on the left side of the road, in the southbound traffic lane of Garfield. The two vehicles collided at the intersection of the two streets.

Swinehart was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital emergency room.

Midland firemen were kept running Monday. At 2:06 p.m., a trash fire was reported at 603 N. Maxwell Drive. Another trash fire, in the 2600 block of Wydeewood, called firefighters back out at 8:29 p.m.

Four people were transported by CFD ambulance.

Ambulance contract renewed

A suggestion by the Federal Aviation Administration which recommends restricting all persons not having an airplane ticket from going into the concourse area has been put into effect at Midland Regional Airport.

Col. Wilson Banks, director of aviation for the city, said the new policy began over the Labor Day holiday.

The recent rash of hijackings to Cuba has prompted the FAA to issue the order, which is directed primarily to smaller airports. The ruling sent to each airline recommended that only people with airline tickets be allowed on the concourse.

Banks said the airlines had no alternative but to enact it since they operate the security screening point at Midland Regional Airport. And they also have instituted more extensive screening of all carry-on articles.

At the Midland airport, the new policy means family and friends taking persons to the airport must wait in the lobby. And the same applies to persons waiting for arriving passengers.

"I feel everyone in the country is being punished (for the Cuban hijackings)," said Banks. "The ruling goes against my grain."

The concourse at Midland Regional Airport was designed to allow persons other than passengers into that section of the airport, he explained.

However, Banks said he was hopeful the rule is not a permanent one and could be lifted when the hijackings stop.

Order issued by FAA now in effect at Midland airport

The Midland County Commissioners' Court renewed its emergency ambulance service contract with the city of Midland on Monday by authorizing $15,000 to help subsidize the service.

The ambulance service is operated by paramedics and emergency medical technicians (EMTs) in the Midland Fire Department.

Ambulances as well as fire engines make runs into rural Midland County.

The commissioners, in an unusually brief meeting, authorized Henry T. Young Enterprises to clean the courthouse windows, permitted District Attorney Vern Martin or a staff member to attend the Media Law Conference on Thursday in Austin, approved bills and reports, accepted road easements, agreement and deeds, and then tarried a bit before going into an executive session.

County Judge Bill Ahders presided over the meeting, which was attended by Commissioners Durward Wright, Charlie Welch and Win Brown. Commissioner Jack Leonard was absent.

embassy called a "free-market paradise."

The first sign of change was a decree in May 1978 nationalizing any house not occupied by its owner. Renters became owners overnight and hundreds of investors lost wealth they had built up during an eight-year real estate boom.

In December 1978, the government took over all import industries, and businessmen lost companies they had spent their lives building. Since then, for the first time, there are periodic shortages of meat, canned soups and other imported foods.

Khadafy hinted in a recent speech that the farmers may be next. He said people should not be able to buy land to increase the size of their farms.

He also said people with higher-than-average salaries in medicine, engineering and other professions have nothing to fear if they work hard and do not "exploit" other people.

"If you exert yourself, you can have a higher standard of living," Khadafy said.

The Libyan leader recently renewed his campaign for Islamic puritanism, but religious critics have protested his move to put women in the military and the confiscation of homes, which violates Islamic property safeguards.

The People's Congresses, which are the key to Khadafy's campaign to establish "direct democracy," appear to have had mixed results.

The state is unable to stop people in some cases from violating its own laws. Libyans exerting what they call the "people's will" have taken over between 100 and 200 foreign residents' homes in the past two years despite government disapproval.

Panel to quiz Turner today for information about Billy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Senate subcommittee, trying to determine whether Billy Carter learned of classified reports about his Libyan ties, wants to quiz CIA Director Stansfield Turner about his knowledge of the case and why key intelligence information was withheld from investigators.

Turner was the only witness called for a closed hearing today.

The panel, which is scheduled to make a preliminary report by Oct. 4, will hear from White House Counsel Lloyd M. Cutler in open session Wednesday.

The nine-member panel is investigating whether President Carter's younger brother received favored treatment in connection with his registration as a foreign agent.

Cooler weather in forecast

Midlanders awoke this morning to partly cloudy skies and the weatherman predicting scattered thunderstorms through Wednesday.

The prediction came true about 11:15 a.m. today, as rain began falling at Midland Regional Airport and across Midland. Chance of rain continuing this afternoon and tonight is 60 percent. The forecast calls for locally heavy rains with some flash flooding a possibility.

Flash flood watches are in effect through tonight for Midland, Ector, Glasscock, Howard, Dawson, Martin, Crane, Reagan and Upton counties.

A slow cooling trend will accompany the rainfall probability, according to the forecast issued this morning by the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. After a predicted high in the middle 80s today, tonight's low temperature is expected to drop into the middle 60s. Wednesday's high reading should be only in the upper 70s.

Most Chinese under 30 years old

By JOHN RODERICK

PEKING (AP) — Communist Party chief Hua Gofeng revealed in a speech to the National People's Congress this week that 65 percent of China's population — 630 million people — is under 30 years old.

It is as if the entire population of the United States, the Soviet Union and much of Western Europe had not reached its 31st birthday.

Hua failed to add that a majority of the population, or about 500 million, is around the 18-to-20 age group.

What to do with these young men and women is an appalling problem made worse by a rigid, unbending bureaucracy, a party cadre system with lifetime tenure and unemployment which reached 20 million last year.

Several million are members of a "lost generation" thrown up by the excesses of the 1966-76 period of turmoil which began with the Cultural Revolution. They were the wild-eyed teen-agers of the Red Guards given a free hand by Mao Tse-tung and his wife, Jiang Qing, to criticize, pillage and destroy on a nationwide scale.

By 1969 their excesses had become so great that even the radical leaders of the Cultural Revolution were appalled. Mao's solution was to pack off 10 million of them to the countryside to learn from the peasants. The more moderate regime that came to power after Mao's death brought many of them back last year to the cities from which they came, and these form the hard core of the unemployment problem.

They have returned to a society which has begun to emphasize commodity production. Items unheard of before — television sets, tape recorders, sun glasses and better clothing — have appeared on the market. But few of the unemployed or underemployed young have the money to acquire them.

Many have turned to petty crime and worse. The Communist Party's solution is to round up troublemakers and without the formality of a trial bundle them off to labor camps to be reformed.

Two other sizable segments of the population under 30 are waiting to see what the future holds. Millions of these are the young members of the Communist Party, many of them enlisted by the radicals during the Cultural Revolution, when membership ballooned from 18 million to 38 million.

Many of them have been stalled in mid-career because of their association with the radical Maoists. The new regime dominated by two-time Maoist victim Deng Xiaoping decided to re-educate them instead of rooting them out. Meanwhile, they mark time until they are accepted by the new crowd. They will have to wait while the politically pure young make their climb. But even the latter are stalled by the system of lifetime tenure for the country's 18 million party cadres.

the men and women who carry out the party's policies. "Once a person becomes a cadre," said Hua, "he has a lifelong job, an iron ricebowl."

Party congress needed, says new Polish chief

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's new Communist Party chief called for a party congress to apply the lessons learned in the strike crisis. Meanwhile, Warsaw Radio reported more scattered local walkouts for higher pay.

"There must be an in-depth and fair analysis of the reasons for the nationwide conflicts," and a party congress should be convened, Stanislaw Kania told a party meeting Monday in the Baltic port of Gdansk, flashpoint for the mass walkouts last month that won the promise of free trade unions and the right to strike from a Soviet Bloc government for the first time.

Kania said the party would promote "an authentic renewal of trade unions to ensure their authority and the confidence of the working class," but "solid and honest work was the best guarantee for implementing demands and plans."

It was Kania's first trip to the Baltic strike zone since he replaced Edward Gierek as party chief Saturday. He also toured a naval station and shipyard in neighboring Gdynia, where he thanked sailors for helping unload cargo during the strikes. Well-placed sources said Kania would fly today to Katowice, Gierek's hometown in Upper Silesia, where some 250,000 coal miners and workers in related industries stayed on strike for nearly a week after the strikers in northern Poland were settled.

The strikes began early in July after a rise in meat prices, exploded into a mass protest Aug. 14 in Gdansk, spread to more than 800,000 workers and ended last week with the promise of wage increases and major social and political reforms, including the rights to form free, independent trade unions and to strike.

Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jajlowski, who negotiated the master agreement that ended the strike in Gdansk, accompanied Kania on his tour there and told the party meeting "The party and state support full observance of the agreements reached." But he warned that "the country faces colossal economic problems which require many structural changes."

CRMWD water deliveries up 38 percent over 1979

BIG SPRING — The 1980 summer season produced a 38.4 percent increase over that of 1979 for deliveries to cities by the Colorado River Municipal River Water District. The long range implication of this, however, was that the demand stepped up the rate of increase over the past half dozen years.

During the June, July and August period this summer, the district delivered 5,507 billion gallons to its municipal customers, an increase of 1.138 billion gallons over the same time in 1979.

Admittedly, the past summer was unusually hot and dry, but the record demand for water also reflected an accelerated growth by cities served by the district, according to O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD.

For the five years prior to this summer, there has been an average annual growth of 5 percent in municipal demands. This summer's all-time peak accelerated this to a rate of 6 percent over the past six years. Even if the 5 percent rate were maintained over the next five years, the district in 1985 will be facing a normal summer demand of 5,872,000,000 gallons as compared with the average of 4,600,000,000 gallons for the past six years.

"Regardless of how much of this year's 38.4 percent summer gain over the same period in 1979 is due to drought and heat," said Ivie, "it is clear that the water needs of cities are rising steadily, and some areas dramatically. We must look to expanded supplies if we are to deliver water as our cities expect."

"The Stacy reservoir, now hung up on an appeal in the courts, becomes all the more imperative. But even when Stacy is built, water pumped 1,500 feet uphill over a distance of 150 miles is expensive and limited to pipeline capacity. Therefore, from the point of protecting the western part of the system during periods of peak summer demand and at the same time modifying overall costs with cheaper pumping costs nearer to point of delivery, we need to develop additional ground water resources."

LCRA files brief opposing reservoir

BIG SPRING — The Lower Colorado River Authority has filed its brief with the appellate court opposing the permit granted the Colorado River Municipal Water District to build the Stacy reservoir.

Lake Travis Improvement Association, Garwood Irrigation and Lake-side Irrigation companies joined in the appeal. The City of Austin and Pierce Ranch Company dropped out, however.

The CRMWD has until Oct. 15, 1980, to perfect its brief, and then the appeals court will hear oral arguments in the case Nov. 19 in Austin. The Texas Water Commission in 1979 granted a permit to CRMWD to impound a 554,000-acre foot lake near Stacy on the Concho-McCulloch county lines.

LCRA, the chief opponent, contested the permit in district court but there the verdict upheld the CRMWD's permit.

Application for the permit was filed originally in October 1977.

Crisis of confidence

It could turn into one of those "can't see the forest for the trees" situations. From all indications it will, but then . . .

The Congress commissioned a study to determine what shape the government is in. The commission reported the situation is all fouled up.

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations began its task some four years ago. It just published the first portion of its findings in a volume pointedly called "A Crisis of Confidence and Competence."

What the report alleges — or confirms, as the case may be — is that the federal government is so overloaded with programs and issues that it cannot cope with the need for simple reform.

Witness the Congress. That austere body is so embroiled in details it literally cannot function. Either house of Congress is quick to take on minor issues and will grind out measure after measure. Those bills may deal with pot-holes, libraries or rat control, or any number of sundry items with which few individuals are really concerned.

And both houses are quick to enact tax measures designed to bring in to the government more tax dollars, most of which are wasted away on foolish new programs seemingly designed only to favor those politicians who are up for re-election.

Of course, we cannot talk about tax cuts except in election years. And at those times it's nearly comical watching both parties attempting to claim credit for the tax cut.

But bring up the topic of meaningful legislation like an overhaul of the nation's welfare system, foreign affairs or the economy and watch the representatives and senators scurry for cover.

Interestingly enough the commission found that while all levels of government have contributed to the failures of the last two decades, Congress has done the most to bring about the "crisis of confidence."

This is one report that the members of Congress need to hear. And they need to listen when the report is given. But will they?

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 9, the 253rd day of 1980. There are 113 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Sept. 9, 1776, the term "United States" became official in a ruling of the Second Continental Congress.

On this date: In 1830, Charles Durant made early aviation history when he flew his balloon from New York City across the Hudson River to Perth Amboy, N.J.

In 1850, California was admitted to the union as the 31st state.

In 1971, more than a thousand prisoners revolted at Attica state prison in upstate New York, setting fires and taking 32 guards hostage.

In 1976, Mao Tse-tung, the leader of the Chinese Communist revolution, died in Peking at age 82.

Ten years ago, "Hello Dolly" became the longest-running musical in Broadway history, eclipsing the record set by "My Fair Lady."

Five years ago, New York City's school system was crippled by a teachers' strike.

Last year, American envoy Robert Strauss met with Egypt's President Sadat and said afterward he was "absolutely confident" that Israeli-Egyptian talks on Palestinian autonomy would be successful.

Today's birthday: Former Kansas Gov. Alf Landon is 93.

Thought for today: When a man assumes a public trust, he should consider himself as public property. — Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826).

1. According to some English teachers, our language is slipping from the elegant and expressive to the common lingo of the masses. ## INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan's 'flippy' tongue undermining his early lead

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WALTHAM, Mass. — Self-inflicted wounds have undermined Ronald Reagan's towering lead over Jimmy Carter in the last 30 days in this blue-collar Democratic stronghold, with signs of further deterioration.

A 38-year-old nurse at Waltham Hospital summed it up. "Reagan keeps opening his mouth and putting his foot in it. He's said things the past few weeks that have hurt not only the U.S. but the whole world. He hasn't thought things through." What makes that criticism especially damaging to Reagan is that this same voter, a registered independent, told us on our visit here just before the Democratic National Convention that she wanted "to get rid of Carter," whom she backed in 1976. She had decided to vote for Reagan. "I've changed," she told us without noticeable enthusiasm.

Armed with a questionnaire prepared by Patrick Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, and aided by Mary Cappello and three ace Caddell interviewers, we questioned 73 registered voters and found Reagan far down from our earlier visit to Precinct 7-1. Our totals in actual votes, not percentages: Reagan 28 (down from 37); Carter 24 (up from 12); John Anderson 12 (down from 22); don't know 5 (same) and "won't vote" 4 (up from 2.) In 1976, these voters went for Carter by just over 60 percent, only slightly less than Precinct 7-1.

Evans

Novak

Interviewed at their front doors in this pleasant community (average mean income $19,500), our voters included many we talked to a month ago. Although Reagan retains a lead, defections were dramatic, raising new questions about Reagan's ability to hold inflation-plagued, blue-collar Democrats and independents essential to victory on Nov. 4. More attrition lies ahead unless Reagan abruptly stops saying foolish things. A middle-aged housewife who still plans to vote for Reagan made that clear when she told us that Reagan "is flippy with his mouth and he changes his mind too much." A registered Democrat, she is wavering.

At least 10 of our 28 Reagan voters expressed some alarm over Reagan's hip-shooting statements about China, Vietnam and the Ku Klux Klan. But their criticisms were pallid compared to the glee of Carter and Anderson voters.

"He is too confused to know what direction he's going in and he's always rescinding," said a 59-year-old

A CHANGING WORLD:

'Mother' Sawada enriched lives of many

"Mother" Sawada is dead. Not very many Americans have the good fortune to have known this remarkable woman, Mrs. Miki Sawada, who died recently while vacationing in Spain at 78. If they had known her they would have been many times blessed.

Mrs. Sawada raised 2,000 homeless children, nearly 1,000 of them abandoned U.S. GI-Japanese babies. The fact that American military authorities gave her no official assistance is of no credit to the post-World War II administration of Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

Neither is it to the credit of U.S. authorities in Washington that they made it almost impossible for Mrs. Sawada to settle some of those youngsters in America (quite a different situation from the legalizing of Mexican aliens, the refuge granted 114,000 Cubans, plus Vietnamese, Cambodians and unfortunates from other nations).

Such difficulties and hundreds of others, however, never deterred this lady of one-time Mitsubishi riches, whose late husband, Renzo Sawada, was a Japanese diplomat whose last formal posting was as ambassador to the United Nations.

She was determined, her determination starting when, while riding in a Japanese train from Tokyo to her home in Oiso, a "package" dropped into her lap from an overhead rack. The newspaper-wrapped bundle contained the body of a Japanese baby of mixed blood.

Mrs. Sawada was shocked but then there pledged herself to do something about such a tragedy. When she found that U.S. authorities would do nothing about soldiers having fathered mixed-blood infants who had no standing under Japanese law and tradition, she decided to open her Oiso home to such unfortunates.

John Pinkerman

This was in 1947 and she first took in two such babies. Postwar Japan was in dire straits and there was not nearly enough food for the "normal" population, let alone the discarded who touched Mrs. Sawada's heart.

Such problems did not deter her. As a Christian with long-standing ties to America (and one not trusted by Japanese authorities during World War II), she obtained help from individual Americans in Japan, from Episcopal church sources in the United States — and she sold much of her Mitsubishi riches, properties that had not been seized by the U.S. occupation armies.

I had the privilege in 1948 of visiting Mrs. Sawada's Elizabeth Saunders Home, named for an American who had befriended the Sawada family in prewar days.

There were 30 children there then — some blond, some with dominant Japanese features, some obviously fathered by U.S. Negroes. They obviously were properly fed, they had on-the-premises nurse care, doctor's care once a week or in emergencies and most of all, they had the loving care of Mother Sawada.

Mrs. Sawada shrugged off the good work she was doing at that time, saying, "I have a bigger problem — getting these children placed when they get a little older. They will not be accepted in Japanese society, and your country doesn't want them. I'm

CHARLEY REESE

President is only one of many woven threads

We have now reached the stage of the presidential campaign in which the pundit corps engages in a running commentary, with appropriate outbursts in case they're wrong, on who is winning and why.

I shall not participate. My crystal ball went murky a long time ago. I have said plainly I hope Ronald Reagan wins. I would say that if he were 99 years old and had the slobbering fits because even a comatose president would be less of a threat to peace and prosperity than that idiot from Georgia.

But I shall not belabor that and I certainly do not know if Reagan is going to win. With John Anderson out splitting the anti-Carter vote, I would say if Reagan wins at all, it will be by a narrow margin.

I will say that no American should sit this one out. I have heard some people grumble about the choice, but we are in the same position as passengers on a plane who must choose a pilot — after they are in the air! We may not like the choice but we are going to land or crash with it anyway.

Another excuse I've heard is that the presidency is not all that important. Unfortunately that is not true. A president conducts foreign policy and in this nuclear age makes the war or peace decision. The Congress has not declared war since 1941, but since 1945 we have lost 100,000 people in two wars and various other military excursions.

Furthermore, if the dogs in the Kremlin launch a first strike, the Congress won't have time to declare war.

Another important aspect of the presidency is that a president has what Teddy Roosevelt called a bully pulpit from which to preach and exhort. He can use it to set national priorities and to build a national consensus. For those two reasons, a president is an exceptionally important politician. What a president is not is a messiah.

The best are only human beings. My favorite Frenchy, Montaigne, said "On the most exalted throne in the world, nothing but our arse."

The best of presidents will do some things he's proud of, some things he will regret, and some things, he won't be able to do at all. It is true, if scary, that there is no correlation between the immense power of an office and the ability of the man who may occupy it.

Now if it bothers you that the fate of mankind rests in the hands of a bunch of senile revolutionaries and a peanut farmer, then try meditation. It has always been so. Many millions of god-human beings have been led by stupid, vain or crazy leaders into the abyss. Sometimes one's luck is just bad.

Just lately I've come to realize that the Japanese samurai was a much smarter psychologist than today's libertarian. The samurai attached himself or was attached by birth to a lord. From that point on, his only concern was perfect service. His commitment was total, unquestioning and to the death. This uncomplicated the samurai's life and allowed him the inner peace to enjoy it while it lasted.

Today's libertarian plays God. He will decide the right and the wrong of all the issues facing mankind. He will personally judge the parties to every dispute. But he has a problem. He is not God. After he has gone to all of this trouble, in 99.9 percent of the cases there is not a cotton-picking thing he can do about it. Consequently he rattles his tea cup and gets ulcers.

It is better to choose a side and commit yourself to the struggle but be prepared to accept the outcome with tranquility. We will choose a president. The choice may well play a role in deciding the fate of mankind. But in all honesty, nobody including the pundits can know in advance what that fate will be no matter which candidate wins.

The fate of man is woven from many threads and a president is only one of them.

proposals could threaten nuclear war. Asked whether they agreed or disagreed that electing Reagan president would "increase the chance of nuclear war," 26 voters (including four Reagan voters) said they agreed. By appearing confused and contradictory in some of the things he has been saying, Reagan has been unable to get out from under Carter's wholly unprovable charge. It is still early in the campaign, but voter perceptions that held such high promise for Reagan here just one month ago appear to be moving toward Carter — not because of any new confidence in the president, for we found none, but because Reagan has been acting the fool.

I THINK IT'S A REPUBLICAN POLL, DEAR. THEY WANT TO KNOW IF WE'RE HAPPY WITH INFLATION, WELFARE, UNEMPLOYMENT AND BILLY —

Jenrette sees FBI's videotape

By LARRY MARGASAK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John W. Jenrette, sitting at the defense table in his bribery trial, stared at Rep. John W. Jenrette, the unwitting star of an FBI videotape.

"I've got larceny in my blood," the on-screen Jenrette tells an FBI agent posing as a representative of an Arab sheik offering $50,000 in $100 bills for legislative favors. Earlier, the congressman says: "There's nothing I'd rather do than walk out with it."

But Jenrette, repeatedly offered the money, repeatedly balked at taking it right away. He said he would "feel more comfortable" with extra time to consider the deal.

"If I take the money from you," Jenrette said at one point in the hour-long tape, "I'll have a lawyer — probably my law partner — take it for me. That's why I want a few hours — to cover my ass so it looks like he's picking up legal fees."

The tape was made Dec. 4 in the library of a Georgetown home rigged with a hidden camera as part of the FBI's 14-month Abscam investigation, in which undercover agents said they represented wealthy Arabs needing immigration bills.

The Jenrette tape was played in a hushed U.S. District courtroom Monday in the bribery and conspiracy trial of the three-term South Carolina Democrat and Richmond, Va., businessman John R. Stowe.

Jenrette is charged with conspiracy and bribery and Stowe with conspiracy and aiding and abetting bribery.

The prosecution scheduled a second videotape today, this one showing Stowe being given the $50,000 by Anthony Amoroso, the FBI agent who posed as a man named Tony DeVito.

Jenrette claims Stowe took the money for himself. Stowe says it was for Jenrette. The government charges the two men split it.

Monday's tape showed Amoroso sitting behind a desk, calmly smoking a cigar, while Jenrette — after Stowe and FBI informant Melvin Weinberg left the room — moved to a chair next to the FBI agent and spoke in hushed terms.

At one point, Jenrette discussed a cover story suggesting that the Arab represented by Amoroso should invest in a plant in Jenrette's district.

"That would give me a helluva argument" should anyone inquire about the reason he introduced an immigration bill, Jenrette said.

Later on the tape, Jenrette said he wouldn't take the money until he knew whether he would be indicted in an unrelated federal investigation.

"I might in two days be totally ineffective to you," Jenrette told Amoroso. If he were to be indicted in the other case, Jenrette said, any bill he might sponsor as his part of the deal would be useless, "almost...toilet paper."

Pressing, Amoroso replied: "Let me say this. You put your cards on the table with me.... I'll give you the money. You get ahold of me tomorrow and let me know if you can be effective or not."

Seven more jurors to be chosen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Attorneys in the nation's third Abscam trial were picking seven more jurors today to decide the guilt or innocence of two Democratic city councilmen accused of receiving bribes during the undercover FBI investigation.

Five jurors were chosen Monday after U.S. District Judge John P. Fullam severed the trials of Councilman Louis C. Johanson and lawyer Howard Criden from those of the two councilmen.

Trying Criden and Johanson with George X. Schwartz and Harry P. Jannotti could prejudice the jury because Johanson and Criden were convicted in the first Abscam trial in New York last month, the judge said. No date has been set for their trial.

Schwartz stepped down as president of City Council after a May indictment alleging he received $30,000. Jannotti, who resigned as majority leader of the 17-member council, is accused of accepting $10,000.

Fullam told a jury panel of 75 that "the government alleges (Schwartz and Jannotti) received payments in the nature of bribes" to further an alleged conspiracy in which they were to use their official positions to help a phony Arab sheik build a new hotel in downtown Philadelphia.

They are charged in two counts with racketeering and conspiring to commit extortion.

The Associated Press erroneously reported Monday that all six counts of the original indictment were still in the case, and that the defendants were charged with extortion. However, the judge had dismissed three counts of attempted extortion.

Johanson and his former law partner, Criden, were also linked to the alleged scheme — Johanson allegedly receiving $25,000 and Criden $5,000 from the agents masquerading as the sheik's representatives.

The judge also said that trying the four men together raised legal issues of due process and double jeopardy because of the other convictions in a New York case involving bribes paid U.S. Rep. Michael "Ozzie" Myers, a Philadelphia Democrat, and Mayor Angelo Errichetti of Camden, N.J.

Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., and his wife Rita enter U.S. District Court in Washington Monday, where the second trial in an FBI Abscam investigation is taking place. Jenrette is charged with taking bribery money to do favors for fictitious Arab businessmen. (AP Laserphoto)

Texas Brilab trial delayed for appeal of witness ruling

HOUSTON (AP)— U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor, in an effort to give defense attorneys time to appeal a ruling involving a key witness, has delayed until Thursday the start of the Texas Brilab trial.

Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton and Austin lawyers Donald W. Ray and Randall B. Wood are charged with racketeering, extortion, fraud and conspiracy in an alleged insurance kickback scheme.

The federal grand jury indictments were the result of the 10-month FBI undercover investigation of labor leaders and governmental officials.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed an order from O'Connor granting immunity to L.G. Moore, regional director for the International Union of Operating Engineers. Moore also was charged in the Brilab — for Bribery-Labor — investigation.

The judge said any testimony from Moore could not be used against him during his own trial at a later date.

O'Connor then postponed the trial, scheduled to begin today, so defense attorneys could appeal the denial of immunity to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The federal judge said the selection of a jury from a panel of 100 would begin Thursday afternoon with testimony scheduled for next Monday.

The core of the prosecution's case is a tape recording of a Nov. 8, 1979, meeting among Clayton, Moore and FBI informant Joseph Hauser.

The U.S. Attorney's office claims Clayton, a 20-year legislative veteran with a desire to run for governor, accepted a $5,000 payment from Moore to reopen a $76 million-a-year state employee insurance contract.

And, the prosecution says Clayton was promised another $500,000 once new bids could be made for the rich state policy.

Clayton acknowledged he received the money but thought it was a campaign contribution and planned to return the stack of $100 bills to Moore at a later date.

Defense attorneys have hooped Moore could explain away some potential harmful statements made of Brilab meetings.

Mike Ramsey, Moore's attorney, said he was uncertain if his client would testify in the Clayton-Ray-Wood trial without immunity.

Federal prosecutors have declined comment on the latest developments.

Judge O'Connor said, "I don't think it will really affect the case. I don't guess L.G. Moore will testify."

The U.S. Attorney's office has indicated more indictments are forthcoming from the grand jury.

Culver, Bunton to be among law conference panelists

AUSTIN — Judge Barbara Culver of the 318th State Judicial District Court in Midland and U.S. District Judge Lucius D. Bunton of the federal court system's Midland-Odessa Division will be among panelists Thursday at the first Media Law Conference here.

The conference will deal with First Amendment rights and questions, such as privacy and newsroom search, and is being sponsored by the State Bar of Texas; Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalistic society; Texas Association of Broadcasters; Texas Daily Newspaper Association; and the Texas Press Association.

The conference is designed to enlighten members of the media and the bar on current First Amendment legal issues.

In addition to judges Culver and Bunton, the panel will consist of media representatives from radio, television and newspapers, media attorneys, law professors and other judges and officials.

The keynote address will be made by Fred Graham, longtime U.S. Supreme Court correspondent for CBS.

The "Media Law Handbook," which features articles on First Amendment rights, open meetings, open records, privacy, defamation and other aspects of media law used to newsmen and lawyers, will be introduced at the conference.

The conference will serve as an opportunity for the media and legal profession to share ideas and to learn from each other, according to Culver.

The conference will be held at the Marriott Hotel in Austin.

Food program decision blamed on Clements payroll pledges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas child care workers blamed Gov. Bill Clements on Monday for a decision by the State Board of Human Resources to turn over two children's food programs to a federal agency.

The June 11 decision to shift the Child Care Food Program and Summer Feeding Program to the U.S. Department of Agriculture would reduce the state payroll by 17 persons.

Payroll reduction was one of the key pledges in the governor's 1978 campaign.

Even H.H. Pullium of the USDA testified the state could handle the food programs better than his agency.

"I have learned that the first tenet of Texas government is that Texans look after themselves. They look after each other," said Pullium.

Landmark sterilization case clears chemical company

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Two federal judges have vacated citations against the American Cyanamid Co. in a landmark case involving five women workers who felt they were coerced into having themselves sterilized to keep high-paying jobs.

The decisions absolved Cyanamid of several citations and fines issued by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration after a March 1979 inspection of the company's Willow Island plant.

Two federal administrative law judges ruled last month, but the decisions were not released by the company or the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, which had requested the inspection. The rulings came to light last week.

Only one major OSHA citation remains against the company. It alleged Cyanamid failed to make sure employees used respirators as often as they should and resulted in a $1,000 fine.

One citation which carried a $10,000 fine, thrown out by Judge William Brennan of Hyattsville, Md., challenged company policy requiring fertile women working in the plant's lead pigments department to accept transfers.

Lead is a mutagen, a substance that causes basic genetic changes in male or female reproductive cells.

The women said they felt compelled either to become sterilized or face loss of their high-paying jobs by being transferred.

Starting salary in pigment jobs was $225 a week plus substantial overtime. The company offered to keep the women at their old pay rate for 90 days and transfer them to utility work jobs, which pay $175 with no extras, or jobs in other departments where they could gain seniority to reach their former wage level. It denied any coercion.

The lead pigments department has since been closed for what the company said were economic reasons.

The women had a "draconian choice," said the union's health and safety director, Anthony Mazzocchi.

LIFESTYLE

He called the judges' rulings "outrageous. The concept of 'alter the worker, don't alter the workplace' seems to be becoming institutionalized. It's a bad precedent. I think that was a pretty clear-cut case."

Jack E. White, plant manager, said, "We feel pretty happy about it (the ruling), rather gratified. I think we won about 97 percent of it."

OSHA's Review Commission was studying Brennan's decision.

A decision by Judge Cecil Cutler of Atlanta dealt with what the government said were unsafe lead levels in the pigment department.

Government hearings in March took testimony on employee medical records, and one government doctor said more than half the 32 workers had abnormal liver functions. But there was no way to prove the problems stemmed from lead exposure, he said.

And now a book on Rosalynn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter finds it almost impossible to forgive people who wrong her family, hoped against hope that son Chip's marriage would not end in divorce and so dislikes telling people what she's reading that she sometimes turns a book jacket wrong-side out.

So says the first lady's best friend, Edna Langford, in a glowing new biography: "Rosalynn — Friend and First Lady."

Mrs. Langford was Mrs. Carter's sole traveling companion during the early stages of Jimmy Carter's first presidential campaign and is still a frequent White House visitor.

While memories and anecdotes were provided by Mrs. Langford, the slim book was actually written by another longtime friend of the Carters, Linda Maddox, wife of the president's special assistant for religion, Robert L. Maddox.

Mrs. Carter was attending a party today to celebrate the book's publication. The first lady's press secretary, Mary Finch Hoyt, said Mrs. Langford interviewed Mrs. Carter twice for the book, although it is not an official biography.

Of Mrs. Carter's protective attitude toward her family, Mrs. Langford says that although the first lady has a deep religious faith, her "fierce loyalty and her protective instincts make it almost impossible to forget and very difficult to forgive violators when her family is involved. Sometimes, she's like the mama tiger with her cubs!"

Mrs. Langford describes Chip Carter's separation from his wife, Caron, in November 1978, as being "like a death in the family. For a long time, Rosalynn hoped against hope the marriage could be saved. But, as in other times when her children had problems, she did not interfere.

"The day Caron and little James left the White House, no one wanted to be around... A waiter who had grown quite close to James became so emotional Rosalynn sympathetically suggested that he go home."

The couple later divorced and Caron Carter has since remarried.

To relax, the first lady reads novels, mysteries and other best-sellers, Mrs. Langford says. But Mrs. Carter sometimes "turns the jacket of the book wrong-side out to protect her reading privacy."

Besides reading, the first lady enjoys altering her own clothes and cooking, which her husband taught her. "Where he learned to cook I don't know," she is quoted as saying. "He probably got hungry."

AT WIT'S END

What really goes on at school

By ERMA BOMBECK

One of my children once was instructed in art class to draw a picture of his mother.

I saw the picture displayed at an Open House...hair like an unmade bed, floppy bedroom slippers, a money-changer around my bathrobe, a checkbook in one hand and a charge card in the other.

It occurred to me he had never seen me any other way.

To him, I was the Bank of America...the first drive-in window that served breakfast...the only money institution that dealt exclusively in withdrawals. There are a lot of naive mothers out there who think that clean underwear and a hot lunch is what public education is all about. The rest of it is free. Allow me to enlighten you.

There's money for milk and money for lunch.

Insurance premiums, pens by the bunch.

Get better grades with a calculator-recorder.

Sign Mom and Dad up as athletic supporters.

Money for breakage fees, money for locks.

Sewing kits, notebooks, name tapes for socks.

Support your school paper, support your team.

Contribute to your environment. Plant a tree.

Dictionary, typewriter, a lock for your bike.

Season basketball tickets...fight, fight, fight!

Peanut brittle, snow cones, popcorn, taffy.

Keep the band, the debaters and cheerleaders happy.

Money for replacing a stolen I.D.

Money to send a speller to Washington, D.C.

T-shirts, class pictures, adopt a family in need.

I'll postdate a check! Is the family me?

Bumper stickers, yearbooks, fees for S.A.T.

A gift for Miss Weems in her first pregnancy.

Lost books, ring deposits, write a check.

"Tell me you didn't carve your name in a desk!"

Physicals, calling cards, a book on little-known facts, A field trip to see "The Empire Strikes Back."

Actually, I don't feel that poetic about my material vs. maternal image. It was just a slick way of lumping it all together. Europeans are constantly being amazed at our mass free education. They wonder how we can educate so many for so little.

I don't know about the kids, but I've learned a lot!

Job relocation can jeopardize marriage

NEW YORK (AP) — "To relocate or not to relocate. That is the question." That's not exactly what William Shakespeare wrote, but if he and Anne Hathaway were alive today — she with a career of her own — this might well have come straight from the playwright's pen.

Anne's career could have hindered William's future as a writer. Or jeopardized their marriage, if a promotion for her meant she would have to relocate away from Stratford-upon-Avon.

Today, as more couples have two careers, the question of relocation can become agonizing, says an official of a worldwide executive recruiting firm.

Paul and Linda Thompson (not their real names), both with jobs in San Francisco, faced this problem. And like many two-career couples they needed guidance, says John Bricker, executive vice president of MSL International Consultants Ltd.

"In their case they were luckier than most," he says. "They had not yet started a family, and Paul's skills as a technical engineer were in demand.

What was Bricker's advice to Paul and Linda?

"Not to discount relocation if they wanted to advance rapidly in their careers. Also, of equal importance, to realize that very often employers think ahead when they relocate people for jobs. Relocations can lead to excellent career opportunities.

"Paul finally came around. Although his skills were in great demand, he took his time to search out the right job. Within six months, he secured a good position with a promising future in nearby New Jersey. There was, however, one small setback — the lengthy commutation. But he didn't have to compromise his career," said Bricker.

What would Paul have done if he couldn't find a job to his satisfaction? "Paul was sure they would have had to adjust to a different lifestyle, by resorting to a 'commuter marriage,'" said Bricker.

"WHEN PAUL AND Linda decided to marry, they discussed the importance of their careers. It was understood that if an exceptional position presented itself through a relocation, the other partner would cooperate. It's crucial for couples to discuss this issue at the onset."

Bricker offers the following checklist when relocation is imminent for the dual-career couple:

—Are you sure you're not missing a worthwhile opportunity within your present position by relocating?

—Have you investigated job possibilities within your company for you spouse? If the firm cannot find a position for your spouse, they may have contacts in other companies. If this isn't feasible, ask for an extension so that your partner can research job opportunities in the new locale.

—Has your potential or present employer mentioned drawing up an employment contract? Today, an employment contract is vital, especially in a job relocation. Negotiate all your benefits. Be sure that relocation costs, length of job contract, opportunity for advancing, perks, and anything else that you deem essential to the continued advancement of your career, is in the contract.

—Can you afford a new home in the relocation city? With today's soaring housing costs, a trend within many companies has been to subsidize mortgage interest rate payments on new homes. Investigate possibilities of your firm's subsidizing your mortgage, and be sure this is included in your employment contract.

—If you do decide to relocate for a job, investigate the long-range opportunities in your career. You've got to have a good idea of the route your career path is going to take.

—Finally, you may decide on a 'commuter marriage.' Many couples have found that to be a better solution. If you do, negotiate a deal with your new firm, they may pick up all or part of the commutation cost.

DEAR ABBY

Cross-dressing could cause indecent exposure

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About the letter from the married couple who were very self-conscious because she was about six inches taller than her husband, so they started going to restaurants together—she dressed as the man, and he the woman: They asked you if it was against the law, and you wisely suggested that they check their local laws.

Abby, they clearly have a legal right to dress as they wish as a part of their constitutional right to privacy.

However, should they use the public restrooms, they might run into trouble. A man caught in a women's restroom, even if he's dressed as a woman, risks being charged with violating laws against peeping toms and indecent exposure. Similarly, a woman caught dressed as a man in a women's restroom, or a man caught dressed as a woman in a men's room, may be detained to prove correct sexual identity. Also, a man who is jailed dressed as a woman may have to fight off indecent assaults from other inmates.

So perhaps they should consider risks when weighing whether to do something they have a legal right to do.—ARLINGTON, VA., ATTORNEY

DEAR ATTORNEY: You make several good points. Even though cross-dressing in restaurants may be legal, it's not advisable.

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been tempted to write a Dear Abby letter, and now I must! Nothing provoked me as much as your answer to the girl whose mother insisted on washing the dishes when staying in a motel.

Your answer just blew my socks off! (You said, "Leave 'em; the motel owner doesn't expect the guests to wash the dishes.")

Abby, I own and operate a small motel on the Oregon coast, and I EXPECT my guests to leave my rooms clean—and that includes doing their own dirty dishes! Those who don't receive a very polite letter asking them not to return.

You'd be surprised at the number of letters I get from people who apologize, and ask if they may return to prove that they are not really messy slobs.

Payment of room rent does NOT give motel guests the right to leave anything dirty, as you suggest.—JACKIE

DEAR JACKIE: Sorry I blew your socks off. Buy some garters and send me the bill. A motel that has customers begging to stay there must be great!

DEAR ABBY: The letter you published about people who are hard of hearing but too vain to wear a hearing aid struck an audible chord with me.

Now, please say something about people who can't see very well but are too vain to wear glasses! On television talk shows, for example, it's so distracting to see some old vain movie star putting on and taking off glasses every time he has to read something. Glasses are much more attractive than squinting and wrinkles.

People who drive without glasses are a hazard on the road. And we all have friends who are so blind that they pass you on the street without recognizing you. Not to mention women who apply makeup with such a heavy hand they end up looking like they're ready for the stage lights.

And there ought to be a law against those mirrored glasses. When I talk to a person, I want to see his eyes. Thanks for listening.—J. IN FT. MYERS BEACH, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: About your survey concerning sex: Men use affection and romance to get sex. Women use sex to get affection and romance. Count me as a 35-year-old woman who is glad she no longer needs a man for any of the above. Sign me...TOO SOON OLD, TOO LATE

Read the dictionary for rewards

NEW YORK (AP) — "Want to add something meaningful to your life? Read the dictionary," says bookseller Tom Paynter, "and you will be rewarded in your business, school and professional life."

"With businesses crying for communicators," adds Paynter, Waldenbooks' Director of Reader Services, "it's a wonder people aren't reading the dictionary as if it were a best-selling novel. Name a career, and I'll bet my bottom dollar one of the ways to get recognition is by being able to communicate."

There are approximately 600,000 words in the English language, Paynter says, yet the average American adult's speaking vocabulary is only 10,000 oft-repeated words.

To choose a dictionary, he recommends visiting the nearest bookstore and checking several on specific words. He says to compare the number of entries, the depth and clarity of definitions, usage notes, pronunciation symbols and etymology — the origin and historical development of a word.

A readable typeface, sturdy binding and thumb indexing are also important for long and satisfactory use, says Paynter.

"Many people don't realize that dictionaries are mini-encyclopedias," says Paynter. "Most desk dictionaries include sections on punctuation, italicization, capitalization, forms of address and salutation, measures and weights and metric equivalents, geographical place names and locations, biographical names, rhymes and proper pronunciation of foreign words."

"In addition to a dictionary," says Paynter, "a thesaurus is a handy book to have around. Thesaurus means 'storehouse of words' in Greek, and it is a book of synonyms, much loved by anyone who needs to communicate in writing, and seeks alternative words with the same or similar meanings."

Dr. Peter Roget was the man who put together the first thesaurus in 1805, and his name is most often connected with the book, as in Roget's Thesaurus.

Iran, Iraq forces continue fierce air and land battles

By The Associated Press

Iranian warplanes destroyed dozens of Iraqi tanks in the Qasr-e-Shirin border area, and Iranian artillery shot down an Iraqi MiG fighter and an Iraqi helicopter, Tehran Radio said today.

The broadcast said an Iranian warplane also was downed by Iraqi artillery fire, and that one of the pilots bailed out during fierce air and land battles that continued today.

The radio said Iranian troops inflicted heavy casualties on "agents" of the Iraqi regime in the fighting 120 miles northeast of Baghdad, Iraq, and 340 miles west of Tehran.

No figures were given for Iraqi losses, but the broadcast said two Iranian soldiers were killed and 20 wounded and that water and power were cut off in Qasr-e-Shirin due to Iraqi shelling.

Iran's official Pars news agency reported medical teams, ambulances and a ton of medical supplies have been airlifted to Kermanshah province to help treat the wounded.

Iranian and Iraqi forces have been skirmishing along their common border since Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's fundamentalist Islamic revolution ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in January 1979. Iraq is predominantly Sunni Moslem and socialist, and Iran is mainly Shiite Moslem and theocratic.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said Monday the reason he rejected seven of the 21 Cabinet ministers proposed by Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai was that they represented a "minority group which has extended its control over everything and wishes to control the government by despotism."

He also accused the seven of using "destructive methods" and seeking power through "false propaganda, accusation and slander," and that he wasn't too keen on the 14 he accepted but decided to approve them anyway to "create the maximum of understanding."

A government must be formed before the Iranian Parliament, or Majlis, can discuss the fate of the 52 American hostages, who spent their 311th day in captivity today.

Bani-Sadr said a campaign of "accusations," "lies" and "provocative, seditious articles" had falsely questioned his loyalty to the Majlis and Khomeini.

"This is aimed at gagging the president," he told a crowd at a Tehran square. "Those who constantly create fictitious monsters; those who constantly create fear of this or that group in order to frighten people, in reality wish to dominate the people. They wish to impose themselves upon society. Such a government is not a government which is Islamic or which is in the Imam's (Khomeini's) line."

Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr raises his hands as he delivers a speech at Martyrs' Square in Tehran Monday. He spoke on the second anniversary of "Black Friday," when army troops loyal to the shah killed hundreds of anti-government demonstrators on Sept. 8, 1978. (AP Laserphoto)

Troops in West Germany for mock battle with allies

BONN, West Germany (AP) — U.S. Army units headed for maneuvers with the NATO allies in northern West Germany today, while Warsaw Pact forces began war games near Hannover.

The American forces included 275 members of the 2-34 Armored Battalion of the 4th Infantry Division from Ft. Carson, Colo. They arrived today at Ramstein Air Force Base, near Kaiserslautern, in a surprise callup, an Army spokesman said.

The Army has said it is flying a total of 17,000 troops to West Germany for a series of mock battles, river crossings and support operations intended to train its troops and to show that the United States could quickly reinforce its allies and U.S. forces here in case of attack. The U.S. effort is called "Autumn Forge."

Most of them are already in West Germany, according to Army spokesmen.

The latest arrivals from Ft. Carson followed an advance party of 230 who got their orders Saturday. They flew in Monday, picked up tanks, trucks and field equipment and set up a tent city near Gernersheim, a Rhine River city about 20 miles south of Mannheim, an Army spokesman said.

The U.S. troops were preparing to move out in a few days to join British-run war games near Hannover.

British spokesmen say about 63,000 soldiers — not counting observers, referees and control personnel — will take part in the mock tank and artillery battle called "Spearpoint," beginning Sept. 15.

"Spearpoint" is the main part of Britain's "Crusader 80" maneuvers, the largest British exercise of its kind since the formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, according to official spokesmen. More than 100,000 troops are involved in "Crusader 80," the British say.

In East Germany, meanwhile, Czechoslovak and East German land and air forces practiced battle tactics under the leadership of Soviet Marshal Viktor Kulikov, supreme commander of Warsaw Pact forces, as dignitaries from several Communist countries looked on, the official East German news agency ADN said.

East German Communist Party Chief Erich Honecker, Cuban Gen. Raul Castro and Hoang Van Thai, deputy Vietnamese defense minister, were among the observers, ADN said.

U.S., China agree on three details, working on fourth

PEKING (AP) — The United States and China have initiated agreements on civil aviation, maritime affairs and consular offices but are still working on details of a textile trade pact, the American Embassy reported today.

The package of four agreements is expected to be formally signed later this month in Washington, an embassy spokesman said. Details of the accords were not expected to be released until after review by both sides.

parties had reached preliminary agreement on a pact that will increase Chinese exports to the United States.

China is anxious to sell textiles abroad to earn foreign exchange for its modernization drive. Peking has sought high U.S. quotas on Chinese cloth while Washington wants to ensure that imports would not flood the U.S. market.

The airline accord provides for the first direct commercial service between the two countries in 30 years. Boyd Hight, the State Department official who initiated the agreement, said bureaucratic procedures would delay the first flight's takeoff for several months.

Sources said the accord provides for one U.S. carrier and the Chinese airline to operate a route covering Peking, Shanghai, Tokyo, Honolulu, San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York for the first two years. Hight said the agreement allows multiple American carriers after that.

Stage set for review of Helsinki agreement

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Representatives from 35 nations opened a conference today to set the stage for a formal review of the five-year-old Helsinki agreement on human rights and detente. Spain, the conference host, urged the delegates to seek peace despite international tensions.

Foreign Minister Jose Pedro Perez Llorca said the conference was more necessary than ever because of "the uncertainty of the international situation."

The Madrid meeting is expected to face a sharp controversy over U.S. criticism of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan and the Kremlin crackdown on Soviet dissidents.

Sworn in as foreign minister only minutes before by King Juan Carlos, Perez Llorca quoted the words of an earlier Spanish king, Emperor Carlos V, saying the conference theme should be: "I want peace."

Perez Llorca got the post in a Cabinet shakeup announced Monday. Spanish authorities clamped tight security on Madrid today to shield delegates from the political violence that has claimed more than 80 lives in Spain this year.

More than 500 police officers were mobilized to guard the delegates and the Convention Palace where preliminary discussions opened today. The formal European Security Conference convenes here Nov. 11 and is expected to take several months to review compliance with the accords reached in Helsinki, Finland, in 1975.

Authorities brought in metal detectors, scanners, and closed circuit television to protect the more than 600 delegates. They have also trained dogs to sniff out the type of explosives favored by Basque separatist guerrillas, the most militant of the underground movements fighting the Spanish government.

Basque guerrillas, who have claimed responsibility for nearly 60 of this year's political assassinations, are fighting for independence for the predominantly Basque provinces of northern Spain.

While authorities seek to prevent terrorism outside the conference, there's a good chance for fireworks at the bargaining table in November.

The U.S. chief delegate, Max Kampelman, told reporters Monday that the United States plans to accuse the Soviet Union of violating provisions of the Helsinki pact by its military intervention in Afghanistan and its crackdown on dissidents at home.

"The invasion of Afghanistan is totally in conflict with the idea of detente," he said, adding: "Repression in the Soviet Union violates the Helsinki agreements and the spirit of detente."

One section of the Helsinki agreement pledges signatories to "refrain from any intervention, direct or indirect, in the internal or external affairs" of another country.

Afghans smash four rebel camps

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet-backed Afghan government troops smashed four major Moslem rebel camps in recent fighting in western Afghanistan, according to a rare war bulletin issued by the official Tass news agency. Other sources said one of the heaviest battles of the war was under way in eastern Afghanistan.

Troops of the Kremlin's 17th division and Afghan security forces "crushed two big centers of mercenaries" in western Afghanistan's Herat Province and overran "two huge camps of mercenaries" in neighboring Ghor Province, Tass said.

The Kremlin often refers to the anti-government Afghan guerrillas as mercenaries, claiming they are supported by foreign governments including the United States, China and Pakistan. All three countries have denied they are backing the rebels.

Strike leader invited to see Pope

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish strike leader Lech Walesa said today he had been invited to see Pope John Paul II but that union organizing duties would keep him at home for the time being.

Walesa, who led the widespread strikes along Poland's Baltic coast last month, told The Associated Press that he would like to make the trip to see the Polish-born pontiff in "two, three weeks."

The strike Walesa led brought promises from Poland's Communist regime of unprecedented political and economic reforms in a Soviet bloc nation, including free trade unions and the right to strike.

The aviation and consular agreements were inked Monday in Peking. The maritime agreement was initiated in Peking last week.

Cowboys sparkle in 17-3 victory over 'Skins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Danny White, by his own admission, was a near basket-case before making his debut as the replacement for retired superstar Roger Staubach as the Dallas Cowboys quarterback.

"After that first drive, I was excited to get back into the game," he said with a smile.

Much of the Cowboys fortunes rest on White who is taking over from Staubach, working in a television broadcast booth this season.

"I have a lot to prove, not only to myself, but to everybody," admitted White, who completed 10 of 18 passes for 107 yards, but threw two interceptions.

THE COWBOYS had a relative easy time in handling Washington, shutting the Redskins out until Mark Moseley hit a 45-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

Tony Dorsett scored on a 6-yard touchdown run and Ron Springs bulled over from the 4, to culminate two long drives by the Cowboys.

Cowboys defensive end Harvey Martin, a leader of the gang that held the Redskins to 58 yards rushing, said, "I'm not taking anything away from the Redskins. We just wanted it more than they did. We just stuck it in their face."

Both White and Martin said a key play was the goal line interception by veteran Charlie Waters midway through the third quarter on the first play after the Redskins had intercepted White.

"That play was vital to us," said White. "They had good field position

Martin: "Charlie was the leader. He was talking to all the young guys. He was teaching in every huddle."

Waters merely joked: "If I had two good knees, I might have gone all the way."

WHITE SAID he was unaware that Staubach was shown on national television, watching the contest from his home.

"That's interesting," he said with a smile. "I would have liked to have heard what he said."

White had Staubach — and the rest of the nation — looking over his shoulder Monday night. The way he performed, you'd have thought he was the "Great Man" himself instead of just a relatively untested quarterback.

"I had butterflies all day," White admitted. "I was very nervous, but then, everybody was a little jittery."

UNTIL THE game got started, that is. Then White discovered he had an awful lot of friends out there on the field. And with the subtle confidence of Staubach, he guided the Dallas Cowboys on two long, time-consuming touchdown drives for a 17-3 victory over the Washington Redskins.

Even the Dallas defense, which repeatedly throttled the Redskins attack to hand them their first loss in nine Monday night home games, and the offensive line, which blew Washington out of the way all night, took second billing to the 28-year-old White.

HIS COUNTERPART on the Redskins, Joe Theismann, said Washington's loss was due to "thinking too much."

"We were more concerned about not making mistakes rather than just winging it and trying to get something going. It was a cautious night for us — and we paid for it."

"I learned a lot," White said. "The nervousness went away somewhat during the warmups. Then, during the first drive, I could see the holes opening up. From then on, I was excited to get back in."

ABC made a big deal of showing Staubach viewing the game self-consciously at home.

George Brett is on hold with injury

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — George Brett's pursuit of a .400 batting average is on hold.

The Kansas City Royals' third baseman missed his second game in a row Monday night and the California Angels took advantage of his absence with a 7-4 victory.

"It's a day-to-day thing," said Brett, who injured his right hand swinging the bat on Saturday when his average dropped to .396. "I don't think the layoff will affect my chances of hitting .400 either way."

Brett's hand was X-rayed Monday and the results were negative. The injury has been diagnosed as similar to tendinitis and is being treated the same way.

"I missed 26 games in June with torn ligaments in my ankle and came back just as hot as I was before the injury," said Brett, who still needs more than 50 plate appearances to qualify for the batting title.

"Fortunately, there's no pressure on me to play every day with our club so far out in front in the pennant race."

Rival third baseman Carney Lansford of California seized the opportunity to enter the spotlight with three hits, including his 15th home run and a double while driving in three runs and scoring three more.

Templeton back today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Shortstop Garry Templeton, idle since Aug. 23, may get a shot at his first National League batting title after all.

The switch-hitting infielder of the St. Louis Cardinals was to be reinstated today from the 15-day disabled list, meaning he has 26 games in which to compile 26 appearances at home plate.

Templeton's .323 batting mark includes 449 official trips plus 17 walks and two sacrifices. In order to qualify for the title, he must appear 502 times in all.

A broken left thumb sidelined Templeton for 18 games in late July and August. He returned for nine games, then suffered a non-displaced fracture of the right index finger during practice.

Templeton is expected to be restricted to a role as a pinch-runner for a week, the club said. Further examination of his injured finger will be made next week.

Valenzuela to Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers announced Monday that they have purchased the contract of left-handed pitcher Fernando Valenzuela from their San Antonio farm club of the Texas League.

Valenzuela, 19, was signed by the Dodgers from the Mexican League in July, 1979.

A spokesman for the Dodgers said Valenzuela will join the team following his next start with San Antonio. Valenzuela was scheduled to pitch Monday night at San Antonio faced Little Rock in the final round of the Texas League playoffs.

Valenzuela was 13-9 with a 3.10 earned run average for San Antonio prior to Monday night.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sidelined Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson, who took the first snap Monday when the team trotted out to the practice field, says he's feeling better all the time.

Tech-Tar Heel game switched

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The intersectional football game between Texas Tech and North Carolina Saturday has been moved from 7:30 p.m. to 12:50 p.m. at Jones Stadium so it can be televised by ABC nationally, a Southwest Conference spokesman said Monday.

The Tech Red Raiders of the Southwest Conference and the Tarheels of the Atlantic Coast Conference each won their openers last weekend.

Wildcats regain top in AP poll

By The Associated Press Temple, which won 15 straight games en route to the state Class 5A football championship last season, continues to thrive off of Lewisville's misfortune.

Lewisville was bounced from the playoffs last season in a 3-0 loss to Temple and when Lewisville was tied by Duncanville 21-21 in its season opener last week, Temple was ready for a return to the No. 1 position in The Associated Press Schoolboy football poll.

Temple, ranked No. 3 in The AP's pre-season poll of Texas sports writers and sports casters, leap-frogged over runnerup Port Arthur Jefferson into first place this week receiving 10 of the 19 first place votes.

Port Arthur Jefferson, which blasted LaPorte 41-14, remained in second place and Lewisville dropped to No. 6 on this week's Class 5A list.

Meanwhile, Bay City in 4A, Breckenridge in 3A and Pilot Point in 2A held onto their top ranks.

Houston Yates, ranked No. 6 in the pre-season, was the only other 5A casualty, suffering a 6-6 tie with Houston Washington to drop out of the poll.

Lubbock Estacado, a state semifinalist in Class 4A last season, dropped from No. 2 to eighth this week after a 21-12 loss to 5A Plainview.

Brownwood, a No. 5 preseason choice, also dropped to seventh after losing to 5A Abilene Cooper 13-12.

San Augustine, the 3A runner-up in preseason balloting, lost its opener to Groveton, rated sixth in Class 2A, and dropped into a 10th place tie with newcomer Littlefield.

Port Isabel replaced Wylie as the No. 10 team following Wylie's 15-14 loss to Lancaster.

Brackettville was shut out by Charlotte 23-0 and dropped out of the 2A top 10 after being ranked sixth last week. Shiner moved in as the No. 10 team.

Georgia Bulldogs prep for invasion of Aggies

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Looking forward to the Bulldogs' home game against Texas A&M, University of Georgia head football coach Vince Dooley says his team faces a tougher opposition than last week's.

Now 1-0, the Bulldogs managed to get past the University of Tennessee Vols with a score of 16-15.

"I'd like to get real excited, but we were fortunate to get out of there with a win," Dooley said Monday of the team's Saturday victory over Tennessee. "But we really don't know how good Tennessee is. I have serious doubts they're as good as Texas A&M."

Texas A&M is Tennessee but with a faster quarterback and a much, much better tailback," Dooley said.

The quarterback, senior Mike Moseley, raced for a pair of touchdowns on Saturday's 23-20 win over Ole Miss, in which sophomore tailback Johnny Hector rambled for 77 yards on only eight carries, a 9.6 yard-per-carry average.

Oilers working on catching the football

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have an extra day of practice this week to prepare for a Monday night game against the Cleveland Browns and Coach Bum Phillips already has that workout planned.

"We're going to spend it catching passes," Phillips said Monday in reviewing Sunday's disheartening 31-17 loss to Pittsburgh in a game that was supposed to prove the Oilers had caught up with the defending Super Bowl champions.

Houston's entire receiving corps suffered a severe case of iron hands in the first half when they dropped five catchable passes and the Steelers took a 17-0 lead.

"I don't know how to explain it," Phillips said. "We dropped some passes and we tipped some that they intercepted."

The epidemic started with

Earl Campbell, who dropped one of Ken Stabler's first passes, and quickly spread to the rest of the Oiler receivers.

"I was about the last guy to drop one," wide receiver Mike Renfro said. "Then I dropped two. I couldn't figure out what was wrong. I couldn't understand why my teammates were dropping them, and then it happened to me."

The loss did not deter Phillips from his contention that the Oilers have closed the gap against the Steelers.

"After playing the ball game, I still feel that we are as good as they are and we're capable of beating them," Phillips said.

"We are better than we were last year on offense and defense and they aren't any better than they were last year."

"Yesterday we didn't do the things that we are capable of doing and yet we still were in the game," Phillips said. "We were down 17-0 and came back and tied the game and had a chance to win it. It's a tribute to our team that we were able to come back."

The Oilers, unable to run against the Steelers in three meetings last season, attempted 44 passes Sunday compared to only 15 running plays, 13 by Earl Campbell.

Houston's pass-oriented attack doesn't mean Phillips has junked the Oilers' running game and Campbell, the NFL rushing champion the past two seasons.

The best news Phillips could muster about the game was the Oilers escaped with no injuries.

"That's the first time we ever played them and didn't have to go to the hospital," he said.

Phillies down Pirates

By The Associated Press Tug McGraw, never a shrinking violet, has decided to take his first victory in nearly a year as an omen that the Philadelphia Phillies are going to be the next champions of baseball.

McGraw, who also has 17 saves, earned his first win in five decisions this season — and his first triumph since last Sept. 18 in St. Louis — Monday night with 22-3 innings of scoreless, two-hit relief as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

The victory moved the Phillies within one-half game of the idle Montreal Expos in the National League East Division race.

In other NL games Monday night, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Atlanta Braves 6-1 and the Chicago Cubs topped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2.

McGraw recalled that in 1973, when his outstanding relief pitching helped the New York Mets win the National League pennant, he didn't get his first triumph until August.

"This year I didn't get it until September," McGraw said. "In '73 we lost the World Series. Maybe there's an omen there somewhere, even if I have to make it up. It means we'll win the pennant and the World Series."

The win also dropped the third-place Pirates two games behind the Phillies and Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green said, "Pittsburgh has dominated us this year, so it was an especially good victory. We want to beat the teams we have to beat, and they're one of them."

Greg Luzinski's run-scoring single broke a 2-2 tie and ignited a four-run victorious rally against Enrique Romo, 5-5, and Kent Tekulve. That outburst also featured a two-run double by Larry Bowa and a successful squeeze bunt by McGraw.

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner didn't blame his bullpen for the loss, noting that Bowa's double off Tekulve was simply a high bouncer over a drawn-in infield.

"The bullpen will come back," Tanner said.

Reds 6, Braves 1

Frank Pastore, 11-6, allowed only six hits before leaving with a finger blister in the eighth inning and drove in two runs with a single in Cincinnati's five-run first inning.

The Reds moved within 4½ games of the idle Los Angeles Dodgers in the NL West race and ended Atlanta's

Kenyan fighter wins gold medal without having to throw a punch

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Kenyan heavyweight won the first gold medal of the inaugural Golden Cup International Boxing Tournament without throwing a punch.

James Omondo of Kenya, registered one of the most painless boxing triumphs ever Monday night, when the only two fighters entered in the class with Omondo could not continue.

Tchoula Luc of Gabon, who fought Virailico Firas of the Dominican Republic in the opening round, was disqualified after being knocked out Monday night. The bout had been awarded to Luc because Firas hit his opponent when told to break. Luc gets the silver medal and Firas no award.

The tournament, organized by the Kenya Amateur Boxing Association, is being attended by more than 100 boxers from 25 nations, including the U.S., Britain, West Germany, Canada, Australia, Israel and Zaire.

PRIORITY ON THE COURSE: In the absence of special rules, two-ball matches should have precedence and be entitled to pass any three of four-ball match.

kind. Any match playing a whole round is entitled to pass a match playing a shorter round.

If a match fails to keep its place on the course and loses more than one clear hole on the players in front, it should allow the match following to pass.

CARE OF THE COURSE: Holes in the bunkers: Before leaving a bunker, a player should carefully fill up and smooth over all holes and footprints made by him.

Restore divots, repair ball marks and damage by spikes. Through the green, a player should ensure that any turf cut or displaced by him is replaced at once and pressed down, and that any damage to the putting green caused by golf shoe spikes should be repaired on completion of the hole.

Florida State has balanced attack in 1980

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The days of Florida State throwing 30 times a game appear to be gone. Coach Bobby Bowden says he'd like to see a 50-50 split between passing and running this year.

Bowden, whose pass-happy 1979 Seminoles saw the effectiveness of a strong ground game in last year's Orange Bowl, unveiled their own rushing power in an impressive opening victory.

Oklahoma and the running of Billy Sims devastated previously unbeaten Florida State in a 24-7 Sooner victory in the Miami classic. And now, with star quarterbacks Jimmy Jordan and Wally Woodham gone, Bowden is seeking a more balanced offense.

"Oklahoma taught us something," Bowden said. "They were going with five backs and we couldn't run the ball against three linemen. Now against LSU we knew we could run the ball."

During FSU's 16-0 victory over Louisiana State, the Seminoles ground out 187 yards in 57 attempts while passing only 11 times for 35 yards.

In Baton Rouge Saturday, conditions weren't conducive for passing with uncertain footing on a soggy field. But FSU starter Rick Stockstill is a different kind quarterback than Jordan or Woodham.

New Orleans Saints seeking accurate field goal kicker

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints, although publicly supporting all-purpose kicker Russell Erxleben, reportedly began shopping today for a more accurate medium-range field goal kicker.

WVLT-TV said Coach Dick Nolan would like a kick today at Benny Ricardo, who walked out of the Detroit Lions' training camp after losing his job to Tulane rookie Ed Murray.

Among Ricardo's other achievements, the station said, was a record 24 consecutive field goals from within the 40-yard-line. He was 8-for-8 within the 40 last season.

Got a bad snap on an extra point try after New Orleans' second touchdown and never got a chance to kick the ball.

—Dropped the snap from center on a punt later in that third quarter.

—Never got a kickoff into the end zone.

—Missed a 34-yard field goal in the final four seconds that would have put the game into overtime.

He lay beating his fists on the Superdome turf as the scoreboard showed the game over with San Francisco winning 26-23.

After the game, Erxleben courteously declined interviews and broke down in sobs.

"He's better today, a lot better," Nolan said Monday. "He is a good kicker. He can be."

Almost a half-minute ticked off the clock when the Saints lined up wrong at San Francisco's 16 yard line in the waning seconds of the game.

Quarterback Archie Manning finally got the clock stopped with a pass out of bounds, but only four seconds remained.

Nolan said the game shouldn't have had to be decided in the last four seconds.

New Orleans controlled the ball for 13 minutes of the first quarter, but couldn't score.

"We attacked them just the way we wanted to, but we just started too late," Nolan said.

Vermeil cautious

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia's 27-6 season-opening victory over the Denver Broncos gave some fans visions of a Super Bowl berth, but coach Dick Vermeil says their elation is premature, and he has issued a stern warning to players "who didn't play very well."

"We're only 1-0 and we have 15 more games to play," Vermeil said Monday. "When we left this stadium yesterday, the fans out there (were so elated), you might think we were going to the Super Bowl."

"There's a lot of teams that won one game yesterday that aren't going to the Super Bowl, and it may be very well be the Eagles."

Vermeil said the team's performance was "not what we needed" and that the players must be "more consistent" in their play.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, Sept. 10, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Actor Edmund Brien, who sponsors leadership seminars for high school students, shares his birthday with you. In the months ahead, you also can benefit from helping young people to find their way. A desire to aid the underdog could lead to both a change in lifestyle and greater happiness in romance. Just be sure to choose a partner who shares your high ideals and love for humanity! Naturally cautious in money matters, you find new ways to increase both income and savings this year.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The emphasis is on pleasing those who mean the most to you. An impressive plan for improving efficiency at work could be developed. Higher-up may want to make the finishing touches.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You now see results from past efforts and are determined to become better organized. There could be a surprising twist where financial matters are involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be on the lookout for new information that can be useful to business interests. Find less expensive ways to say "thank you" to associates. An old friend could be the best company tonight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An uninhibited individual's observations may both startle and amuse. Try not to be overly sensitive if someone mentions your personal foibles. A business meeting should turn out quite well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check to see that mechanical equipment is functioning properly. Be friendly to a young person who lacks experience and you could learn something very valuable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If shopping, pay careful attention to the quality of the merchandise offered for sale. Some good financial news is due. When asking romantic partner for a favor, full disclosure is an absolute must!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Travel is not favored today. So try to stay close to home base. You may suddenly feel strongly attracted to an old friend. Do nothing to jeopardize an important love relationship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A telephone call or hand-delivered message could cause schedule to be altered. Someone special may be trying to arouse your jealousy. Think deeply about where a romantic relationship seems to be headed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Imagination and positive thinking can get you past a roadblock this morning. Higher-ups are impressed by an ability to make quick decisions when under pressure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Do not be stingy when it comes to buying new clothes for work. A mid-week shopping trip is an excellent idea. Take along mate, romantic partner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It may be difficult to arrange a particular appointment today. Keep trying! The wait will be more than worth it in terms of results. At work, you would be wise to let others set the pace.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Show understanding towards an older person with a bothersome health problem. Business negotiations may appear to be moving at a snail's pace, but this could be an advantage. Time favors a secret wish.

The bridge expert can accomplish the seemingly impossible in two shakes of a lamb's tail: miracles take a bit longer! Can you see how South fulfilled his contract of four spades?

Even at this vulnerability, we would hesitate about opening the West hand with three clubs. There is too much chance that we might be missing a game, or even slam, in hearts. East's three no trump bid was an attempt to throw dust in the eyes of his opponents, but nothing could blind South to his powerhouse. Indeed, there are those who would consider his bid to be ultraconservative.

Against four spades, West led the king of clubs and continued with the ace. Declarer made his first fine play when he ruffed with the seven, preserving the three in his hand. He laid down the ace of spades and received the bad news about the trump break. It seemed that declarer would have to concede down one, but South was not yet ready to lower the flag.

He cashed his high diamonds, and was delighted when East had to follow.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Exercise benefits angina patients

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have a medical problem that is causing my wife a great deal of anxiety. I am subject to attacks of angina when I exert myself, however, I have always been athletically inclined, and my physician has not limited me by physical activities. In spite of this, my wife is extremely concerned about my condition and would practically make me an invalid. Would you comment on the importance of exercise for patients with angina pectoris? I know she would believe what you had to say on the subject. — Mr. J.J.O.

Dear Mr. O.: Moderate exercise tailored to the needs of the individual is beneficial for patients with angina pectoris. The rationale is simple: Physical activity leads to an increase in the exercise capacity of these patients, while the cessation of physical activity results in a reduction of exercise capacity. Therefore, a person who curtails his activities because of concern about an anginal attack guarantees a reduction in his exercise capacity and, eventually, an even greater limitation on his activities. This vicious circle helps neither the patient nor his family.

Physical condition will permit a patient to participate in activities to a greater extent before an anginal attack is precipitated. There are a variety of opinions on the best kind of conditioning program for these patients. The best approach may be through a structured physical training course in a community center or YMCA. In the absence of such facilities, some patients take up jogging, while others use a stationary bicycle. Use of the bicycle eliminates many of the potential orthopedic complications of jogging and, of course, is not dependent on the weather.

Many people who undertake a program of physical conditioning report a feeling of general well-being. This, in turn, tends to lower anxiety levels and, as a consequence, reduces the frequency of anginal attacks.

Patients with angina pectoris who plan to undertake a conditioning program should first seek the advice of a physician. Persons who have never exercised and find the idea distasteful should not be forced into such a program. For those who dislike it, exercise may do more harm than good.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it possible that reducing the number of cigarettes a person smokes will interfere with sleep? Since cutting down from two packs to one a day, I have had trouble falling asleep. — Ken

Dear Ken: While you may be the exception that proves the rule, researchers at Pennsylvania State University maintain that smoking cigarettes makes it more difficult to sleep. They believe that sleeplessness may be related to the stimulant effects of the nicotine.

How about giving up your remaining pack-a-day hit to see if your sleep doesn't improve? With more rest, maybe you won't even feel a need for cigarettes.

Dagwood, Blondie celebrate 50 years in newspaper comic strip

By JERRY SCHWARTZ

NEW YORK (AP) — She was a flapper and he was a playboy, but like most other Americans after 50 years, Dagwood and Blondie Bumstead have long since settled down.

Now they have a couple of kids and a dog and they fight over the bathroom. Their antics in the comic strip "Blondie," which first appeared on Sept. 8, 1930, now are read in 1,800 newspapers around the world.

Blondie was nowhere in sight on Monday, the day of the strip's 50th anniversary, but Dagwood observed the day by getting a cigar butt planted in his ear by his irascible boss, Mr. Dithers.

The strip, syndicated by King Features, is written by Dean Young, who inherited it from his father, Chic, creator of the strip and its writer until his death in 1973.

The strip, which centers on Dagwood's home and office life, was far different when it first appeared.

"Blondie was a flapper — her maiden name was Blondie Boopadoop," said Young, 42. "She dated several fellows, one of whom was Dagwood. Dagwood drifted in and out for a while, but then he came to stay."

Dagwood was a playboy, son of railroad tycoon J.

Bolling Bumstead. Right away, Bumstead's parents pegged Blondie as a gold-digger and threatened to disinherit their son if he married her.

Dagwood staged a hunger strike. After 28 days, 7 hours, 8 minutes and 22 seconds, on Feb. 13, 1933, the wedding took place and J. Bolling Bumstead wrote Dagwood out of his will.

The Depression came, and Dagwood went to work as office manager for J.C. Dithers Co. Dagwood and Blondie had their first child, Alexander, in 1934. Cookie, their daughter, was born in 1941, and Dagwood got a World War II draft deferment.

The familiar Bumstead lifestyle evolved over the years. Dagwood would oversleep and run to his bus, bowing over Mr. Beasley, the mailman, on the way. He's berated by his boss, outwitted by his wife and door-to-door salesmen and interrupted while taking baths. His greatest joy is in his towering sandwiches, which have come to be called "Dagwoods."

On Sunday, the strip marked its anniversary by letting Dagwood have a good day at work and a winning poker hand. In an aside to readers, Blondie remarked that he deserved it after all the years.

When Chic Young died, his son remembers trying to write the script the way his father did, and failing — 500 papers canceled the strip.

"Then, I decided to write it for myself," said Dean Young. "Anything that's 50 years old, if you don't work on it, is going to be an anachronism."

The strip has regained its previous circulation and then some. These days, Young sits in his home in Clearwater, Fla., and writes scripts for the artist, Jim Raymond of in Harbor Springs, Mich., to follow.

"Blondie" revolves around four concepts: eating, sleeping, raising children and making money," said Young. "I really think 'Blondie' has left the realm of the comic strip. It's an institution."

Casinos in New Jersey take record $76.9 million

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Atlantic City's four legal casinos won more money from gamblers in August than ever before, taking in a record $76.9 million for an average of $2.5 million a day.

For the first time, Resorts International Hotel Casino's gross casino revenues were surpassed by a Boardwalk rival, Caesars Boardwalk Regency. The casino hotels also set new monthly records for table game and slot machine wins.

The New Jersey Casino Control Commission announced Monday that Caesars Boardwalk Regency won $24.8 million, or an average of $801,140 a day, during the month, 10 percent better than July and 26 percent better than August 1979.

Resorts International won $24.2 million, or an average of $782,905 a day, 8 percent better than July and 2 percent better than August 1979, the commission said.

Park Place won $22.9 million, or $738,444 a day, 12 percent better than July. The casino opened Dec. 29.

The Brighton Hotel & Casino won $4.9 million, or an average of $257,975 a day, for its 19 days of operation in August. The Brighton opened Aug. 13.

Atlantic City's casinos have now won more than $878 million since Resorts International opened in May 1978.

August's win marked the seventh time in eight months the figures have set records.

Win is not profit, but can be compared to a business' gross revenues. It does not include taxes, salaries, complementaries, debt repayment and other operating expenses.

New Jersey taxed 12 percent of a casino's gross revenues until the Brighton opened on Aug. 13, when the tax dropped to 10 percent.

Borowsky said the state took in about $8 million in taxes in August, increasing its casino revenue fund to $93.1 million.

Prostitute organizer fights to close nude-model theater

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prostitute organizer Margo St. James says she doesn't object to sex for sale — so long as it's not in her own neighborhood.

She's conducting a petition drive to try to lift the license of a nude-model theater near her home. The theater's attorney said her attempt would be resisted.

"To walk by there and see this, it's just disgusting to see," said Ms. St. James, organizer of the pro-hooker group COYOTE, or Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics, which promotes the legalization of prostitution.

The object of Ms. St. James' ire is the Erotic Theater on Columbus Avenue, in the heart of the city's North Beach neighborhood. The theater features looks at nude models: "25 cents, Live Nude Girl," proclaims its sign.

One street in the neighborhood, Broadway, boasts a strip of topless, bottomless and sex-show clubs, but Columbus has largely been spared. "They're sleazing around the corner," Ms. St. James said of the sex shows.

Ms. St. James, who said she hasn't been a prostitute for a number of years and is now a licensed private detective, said Monday she gathered 400 signatures in three days to support her request to the city permit appeal board to repeal the Erotic's license.

"This is third-party pimping in the worst sense," said Ms. St. James, adding that she wasn't contending that prostitution was going on in the theater. "If these girls were to walk up to men on the street and say, 'Come up to my room and you can look at my nude body,' they would be arrested in a minute."

She argued that women who walk by the theater are subjected to verbal abuse by customers "denied sex after the come-on of the signs."

The Erotic has been an adult theater for some years, said attorney Richard Chesney. He represents Patricia Frank, who holds the license for the Erotic. Under the city's adult-theater licensing ordinance, it was required to seek a permit to operate, and the permit was issued by the chief of police recently under the ordinance's grandfather clause.

Chesney said the issue is one of law, not whether neighbors like or dislike the business. "As a matter of law, it (the permit) had to be granted," he said.

Ms. Frank could not be reached for comment. Ms. St. James said she had no problems with promoting legal prostitution but opposing the theater. "It's not contradictory. I would fight long and hard to keep a real sex parlor open somewhere else," she said. "I don't want it on that block."

The permit appeal board meets Wednesday, but Ms. St. James said she would seek a delay in the hearing because she understood not all members would be there.

Reagan, Ford express difference of opinion on tax-cut strategy

CHICAGO (AP) — Ronald Reagan and the man he once courted as his running mate, former President Gerald Ford, have a difference of opinion about Republican tax-cut strategy.

Ford came away from a private dinner with Reagan on Monday night saying he was not willing to advocate a 30 percent reduction in income tax rates over the next three years, as Reagan proposes.

"I don't think at this stage we can see down the road what the economic situation will be in 36 months," Ford told reporters.

It was Ford's first meeting with Reagan, who makes a major economic address today, since the Republican National Convention nearly two months ago at which a Reagan-Ford ticket was discussed. Reagan shares the GOP ticket with running mate George Bush.

Ford joined in Reagan's criticism of the Carter administration for leaking information about the so-called "stealth" program — a breakthrough in technology to hide U.S. bombers from detection by Soviet radar.

"It was unwise and potentially dangerous to our national security for the disclosure of the most highly-classified weapons system I know of for purely political purposes," said Ford, under whose administration the program was started.

Ford, saying the system would not be ready until the 1990s, also rejected

Defense Secretary Harold Brown's contention that the program "alters the military balance significantly" between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"For anyone to allege that that so-called weapons system is altering today the military balance between the United States and the Soviet Union is not telling the truth," said Ford.

The former president met with Reagan as the GOP presidential nominee concluded a day-long campaign swing from Philadelphia to a shopping-center rally in Kokomo, Ind., to a Lithuanian neighborhood in Chicago. Reagan also met with Polish-American leaders here.

In what he said would be "my last hurrah," Ford said he would spend 53 of the next 60 days campaigning for Republicans.

"I'll go to 30 states, fly 60,000 miles, campaign 10 days in conjunction with Gov. Reagan and George Bush, and I'll campaign in 29 congressional districts, 14 senatorial campaigns, four gubernatorial elections," he said.

On the question of taxes, Ford said he was not aware that Reagan had committed himself to a 30 percent tax cut over three years, saying instead that he thought Reagan only was advocating a 10 percent reduction for fiscal 1981, which begins Oct. 1.

"I wouldn't commit at this point a categorical 10 percent tax reduction for each year of the next three years," the former president said.

Carter to focus on economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's visit to New Jersey today gives him a chance to highlight his administration's economic program — and attack the proposals of Ronald Reagan — while using a new, job-creating steel plant as a backdrop.

Carter is visiting Perth Amboy, N.J., an aging industrial city in Middlesex County, which is crucial to his hopes of winning the state's 17 electoral votes in November. The trip to New Jersey, where Gov. Brendan Byrne says the president faces an uphill battle, is Carter's only political trip this week.

The Raritan River Steel Co. plant, whose opening Carter was attending, offered a perfect setting for the president to focus on his administration's efforts to help a major industry suffering from foreign competition.

The $140 million project, which will produce 600,000 tons of steel a year, was built with money from the steel company and, reflecting the federal government's role, with loans guaranteed through the Economic Development Administration's programs.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the plant was "one of the most modern in the world" and would be able to compete with foreign producers of steel rods. They have been one of the key elements in the downward trend in the domestic steel industry, as overseas companies' share of the U.S. market increased.

The construction project provided 500 jobs and the plant itself offers 450 jobs, a figure that is expected to increase to 800 within five years, a White House official said.

Perth Amboy, founded at the confluence of the Raritan River and Raritan Bay, colonial-era transit routes, is typical of the old industrial areas Carter must carry despite efforts by his Republican presidential opponent to win blue-collar votes.

Carter has never won a statewide contest in New Jersey. Gerald R. Ford carried the state in 1976 by 65,000 votes — or 2.2 percent — out of nearly 3 million cast; Sen. Edward M. Kennedy defeated Carter in last June's Democratic primary election, and the president was defeated in the 1976 primary election, too.

"If Carter loses Middlesex County, you can forget the whole ballgame" in the state, said one long-time observer of Democratic Party politics in the state.

This source, not unbiased, predicted that "Carter's going to surprise everybody and take New Jersey."

He compared the president's political position in the state with that of Gov. Byrne, re-elected in 1977 despite widespread predictions of defeat and the nickname "one-term Byrne." Byrne has been a long-time supporter of the president.

New Jersey is shaping up as an important battleground — as are other states in the path from the Northeast to Illinois.

Anderson finds 'debate about debates' rather confusing

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — What Rep. John Anderson calls "the debate about the debates" has taken a confusing turn.

With an elation that may have been misplaced or premature, Anderson told a student audience Monday night that "I got the word just before I came to the platform" that perhaps President Carter might allow him into the first debate with Ronald Reagan.

That got loud whistles and cheers from the crowd at Rutgers University.

"Of course, there was a small condition," said Anderson, the independent presidential candidate. The condition, he said, was that he would be allowed in only if there were "some two-man debates" to follow.

As the audience whooped, the Illinois congressman said: "I'd like to tell President Carter right now I'd be very happy to participate in the two-man debates as well."

It seemed at that point as if a major stumbling block to Anderson's participation in the debates sponsored by the League of Women Voters had been removed.

But had it really? Anderson was relying on apparently incomplete reports of what presidential press secretary Jody Powell had said.

"We're perfectly willing to participate in multi-candidate debates, but we feel there's got to be an assurance there also will be one-on-one debates," Powell told reporters.

On the surface that appeared to be a change from the previous insistence by Carter that he face Reagan alone in the first debate before engaging in a three-way debate with Anderson included.

But the rest of Powell's statement cast doubt that there was any change at all.

"Neither the League of Women Voters or the Reagan campaign is willing to discuss such a (one-on-one) debate," Powell added. "There's a feeling that debate ought to be first, a feeling strengthened by the growing conclusion here that if we agreed to a multi-candidate debate, there would be no one-on-one."

Provinces given more control over resources

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Elliott Trudeau has offered Canada's provinces greater control over their natural resources in an effort to get their agreement to the transfer this year of control over the Canadian constitution from the British Parliament to Canada.

little to dispel the belief that a week of bitter wrangling lay ahead.

Trudeau's offer Monday came at the beginning of a potentially historic conference with the 10 provincial premiers to try to reach agreement on the repeal of the British North America Act of 1867, Canada's present constitution, and its replacement by a Canadian charter.

The 60-year-old, four-term prime minister wants to cap his political career by "patriating" the constitution this fall so that he can go ahead with retirement plans he shelved last year when a Progressive Conservative government lasted only seven months and his Liberal Party had no one else to lead it in the election campaign.

School must prove admission of aliens will create hardship

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas school officials must prove the admission of illegal aliens will create a hardship or be prepared to admit them, a federal judge says.

The provincial premiers want agreement on disputed issues before the British Parliament is asked to end the present constitution, fearing that otherwise they will wind up with a charter in which the federal governments powers will be maintained or enlarged.

Although Trudeau appeared willing to make limited concessions, he renewed his threat to use the Liberal majority in the House of Commons to ask London to relinquish jurisdiction over the Canadian constitution. He told the premiers he would seek patriation of the constitution by the end of the year if basic accords are not reached at the conference.
