High-rise condo rejected

Possible 'invasion of privacy' cited

Plans for a high-rise condominium in an undeveloped part of north Midland were shot down Tuesday by Midland City Council on the basis of its proximity to residences and a possi-ble "invasion of privacy."

K&C Industrial was asking the council for a zone change on a 12.05 acre tract of land north of Saddle Club North on the corner of what will be North A Street and Mockingbird Lane to allow an 18-story condominium to go up. Tom King, a representative of the firm, explained a survey of nu-merous residents showed there was a desire for such a project.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) -Four workers at the Columbus Zoo who had just followed directions have shelled out $300 to replace an Australian goose they fed to cheetahs.

The unscheduled feeding came after workers asked a supervisor what they should do to keep the goose from pecking people, according to zoo director Jack Hanna.

"He said 'Feed it to the cheetahs," Hannah said Tuesday. "It wasn't meant to be malicious. He didn't mean it, but they took him literally. He tried to stop them, but it was too

The goose was loaned to the Columbus Zoo by the Cincinnati Zoo for breeding.

The feeding occurred last month, but was reported for the first time Tuesday. Hanna said he believes an anonymous letter reporting the incident to a newspaper may have been written by a disgruntled former zoo em-

Halcyon Place, as it would have been called, was planned to be a 'high security, high quality construction of condominiums," he said. The 181-foot structure would have parking in a concealed first level, 15 stories with two to five apartments on each floor and two floors of penthouses. In addition, there would be eight onestory dwellings encircling the building. Planned were tennis courts, swimming pool and racquetball

THE TWO entrances would have been covered by television surveillance and the parking garage allowed for 263 vehicles, according to King. The brick and glass building would

From the south corner of the highrise, which would be the closest point to Saddle Club North, King said the distances to houses in the exclusive development would have been 1,190 feet, 940 feet, 960 feet and 1,140 feet. Also separating the two developments would be a 100 foot wide Mockingbird Lane and a fence.

But the residents in Saddle Club North weren't happy with the high-rise, even though it would have been a 'quality" project.

As much as 4 inches of rain soaks Basin

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

After several months of extremely dry conditions, the sky over the Permian Basin opened Tuesday and Tuesday night and the rains came and came and came.

Midland had recorded unofficial rainfall totals of as much as 4 inches as of early this morning and it was still raining at mid-morning. The National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport recorded an official 1.77 inches up to 7 a.m. today, boosting the month's total to 1.78 and the total for 1980 to 7.79 so far.

Prior to Tuesday night's rains, the Tall City's rainfall total for the year was only 6.02 inches, less than half of the city's average annual rainfall of 13.5 inches.

BUT THIS morning was a different matter altogether. Instead of too little water, Midlanders could have gotten away with complaining about too much water. Streets were flooded and several intersections experienced extremely high water.

The 400 block of Louisiana Avenue was closed by police this morning when a portion of the street caved in about 10:30 a.m. due to the heavy rains. Shortly after 11 a.m. the storm disrupted power in the Courthouse, knocking out the air conditioning and elevator.

A Street and Scharbauer Drive and Wadley Avenue's intersections by Midland College and Hillander School were impassable during rush hour traffic this morning. In fact, motor-ists on both Wadley Avenue and Andrews Highway were hampered by high water.

A woman reportedly was struck by a vehicle at the intersection of Wall Avenue and Big Spring Street about 8:15 a.m. today. Her condition was not immediately available.

A multitude of cars stalled in the high water as motorists made their way to work in the driving rain and early morning blackness.

According to the weather bureau, the rain was the result of the rem nants of Tropical Depression Danielle, which blew ashore on the Texas Gulf Coast earlier this week, colliding with a cold front moving into the AREA FARMERS, at least, likely will not complain about that collision. The rains, most everyone contacted this morning agreed, will be only beneficial to farmers and ranchers.

Midland County Agent Charlie Green noted that "we're always glad to see rain" even though this rainfall comes a little too late to help area

'If we had got it six weeks earlier it would have helped the crops this year more," Green said. "It may give us an opportunity now to plant some winter cover crops for soil erosion. As far as the cotton, it probably won't help it a lot." Some fields may benefit from the moisture if the area experiences a long, warm fall with a delayed frost date, he said. And the rain may not hurt "open cotton" in the area if the area doesn't experience high winds or more rain for a long period.

'We are pleased we have got a dent in the drought," Green said. "At this point, I'm sure the benefits far outweigh the disadvantages."

GREENWOOD AREA farmer Roy Graham noted that the 2.6-plus inches of rain recorded there Tuesday night will give a good boost to fall crops, although the rain came too late to help this year's cotton crop.

And a man at the Midland County Farmers Co-op, where 3.5 inches of rain was recorded Tuesday night, said the rain will help put moisture in the ground to benefit crops planted later on.

An apartment complex in far north Midland received an unofficial 4 inches of rain as did a residence at 703 N. Midkiff Road. Midland College on the city's north side reported receiving 2.7 inches, the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, along the city's southern side, got about 2 inches and the Warfield community, located just south of Midland Regional Airport, received about 3 inches of rain as of early today with rain still falling.

The rains reportedly caused some street flooding in area communities, too. Crane reportedly had "water, water, water all over the place" and up to the tops of the wheels of vehicles on some streets.

BIG SPRING received 3 inches, each and Lamesa about an inch. Rankin received rain, although a mea-surement was unavailable, and Big Lake had 10 Tuesday and no rain Tuesday night. Odessa reported re-ceiving "a bunch" of rain Tuesday

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service forecast for Midland was calling for thunderstorms throughout the day today and a slight chance of thunderstorms tonight. A flash flood watch was in effect today. It should become partly cloudy and warmer Thursday.

There was a 60 percent chance of rain today. A 20 percent probability for more rain exists tonight.

Low tonight is expected to drop into the middle 60s and the high on Thurs-day should be in the middle 80s. Winds tonight will be southerly at 10-15

Tuesday's high temperature in Midland was 76, not even nearing the record high of 98 for that date, set in 1977. Low this morning was 66, well above the record low 51-degree reading established in 1935.

More rain seen in flooded areas

SAN ANGELO (AP) - Floodweary residents, mopping up after rain from a tropical storm sent rivers and creeks surging out of their banks, might face more of the same, says the National Weather Service.

"It certainly looks as if the rain is a long way from being over," a NWS spokesman in Fort Worth said Tues-day night, adding that it was "almost a certainty" that more rain would fall in Southwest Turner over the said to in Southwest Texas soon.

Forecasters say rain from a storm system moving east should reach the already-soaked Hill Country within the next 24 to 48 hours.

Meanwhile, the last gasp of Tropical Storm Da amounts of rain Tuesday on San Angelo and forced officials to open floodgates on swollen lakes for the second day in a row. NWS officials said San Angelo had received 6.10 inches by 7 p.m. Tues-day, a new 24-hour record.

Red Cross and Salvation Army officials have opened two shelters in San Angelo to house flood victims. No estimates were available of how many persons had taken refuge Tuesday night.

Officials said Concho and Runnels counties received as much as nine inches of rain Tuesday — closing roads, drowning livestock and forcing the evacuation of a trailer camp and several homes.

The Colorado River near Ballinger in Runnels County crested at 21 feet

Tuesday, three feet above flood level and at 39 feet near San Saba, nine feet above its flood stage.

The San Saba River and Elm Creek, also near Ballinger, crested Tuesday at three to seven feet above flood level. Officials said floodwaters began receding late Tuesday. Water from a 6-inch rainfall in Sweetwater swept across Interstate 20, closing the east-west highway for several hours Tuesday.

In Junction, the North LLano River rose to 28 feet and swept through a campground after officials had moved 11 trailers from the water's path. At least three houses near the officials said.

The heavy flooding ruptured a water line in the community of Robert Lee, emptying a 150,000 gallon water tower and cutting off the city's water supply.

Residents were being asked to conserve water.

In Llano County, where most of the rain fell Monday, Sheriff Gale Ligon said he had seen several head of cattle floating down the Llano River and knew of several ranchers who had reported losing livestock.

"The losses will be mostly to boats, docks, fencing and livestock," he

Randolph Leifeste, Castell rancher, said the river was nearly as high as in 1935, when an all-time high was

Clements may propose gasoline tax increase

PLANO (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements predicts higher tuition for state universities will be signed into law next session and indicated he may propose an increase in the state's 5-cent gasoline tax.

For years, he said, the Legislature has run a deficit in its highway fund while the public believed highways were being built and maintained from the gasoline "user" tax.

The tax has not been increased in 30 years, he added, and the "deficit in that account is running $300 million a

"It's absolutely stupid that we in Texas have aborted the purpose of the gasoline tax. No other state has so low a gasoline tax," Clements said, adding it's "fundamentally wrong that we're taking out of general revenues $300 million a year" for highways. He said part of the solution would include cuts elsewhere to offset the gasoline tax increase.

The governor also said he supports a tuition increase at state-supported colleges, which have not had a tuition increase in 17 years.
A special legislative committee has proposed doubling the present $4 per semester hour to $8 per hour and increasing tuition for medical students from $400 to $3,600 per semes-

School enrollment here goes over 15,000 mark

School trustees learned Tuesday that enrollment at Midland public schools has increased by 326 stu-

As of last Friday, school administrators noted that 15,314 pupils have been admitted to Midland public schools. Last year at that time, 14,988 students were registered.

Dr. James Mailey, school superintendent, noted an enrollment of 700plus students for kindergarten through sixth grade. However, secondary schools recorded a drop of 374

Bowie Elementary which services Midland's growing north side is over-crowded the report noted. Enrollment at Bowie was recorded at 595 students. Last year the school reported 531 students.

"We are going to need that elementary school north of town," said

Trustee Edward Runyan. West Elementary and Bunche Early Childhood Center were reported as being filled. The 4-year-old migrant program which the Bunche Center houses will be moved to DeZavala Elementary, Mailey said. The school superintendent explained that most of the increased growth in Midland's elementary schools were a result of young families moving into the city.

Increased enrollments in the district could mean more state funds flowing into the district's coffers. A report from the state property tax board revealed a $675 million discrep-ancy between state and local 1979 market values. The report noted that 1979 market values for MISD were $2,304,205,358, whereas the local tax assessor-collector's office reported market values in the city as being $1,629,149,520. If the state's figures are correct, the district may be required to con-tribute more to the state minimum foundation program.

By the next school board meeting, a report by Virgil Jones' office concerning the state and local figures will be made to explain the $675 million discrepancy.

The school district has until Oct. 1 to file an appeal with the state property tax board. Trustees designated the week of

Oct. 6-10 as Midland Public Schools week. During this time, the public is invited to visit the schools and learn more about the local school system. The Human Relations Council's contract with the school was renewed at last year's cost of $21,010 despite Trustee Ron Britton's objections with the program. Kimberly Modisett, executive director of the HRC, explained to trustees the organization's purpose is

Airport improvements requested

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Midland Regional Airport set an-other record in August for boardings with 45,989 persons flying out of the central Permian Basin airport. And that increased business means expansion of the parking lot and need for another access road to the airport, reasoned Col. Wilson Banks, director of aviation for the city.

Midland City Council on Tuesday listened to his explanations and approved a contract with Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc. to do an engineering study on methods of expanding the parking lots and come up with some cost estimates of the total

Banks said he believes the project "is one of our highest priority items at the regional airport."

WITH INCREASED BOARDINGS. it also means more vehicles parked at the airport, according to Banks. There were 12 times in August when the new 650 car lot was filled. And during the Labor Day weekend the newer lots were completely filled. The

He then mentioned the possibility of loss of privacy with a high-rise situated close to his house. Dick Rosebery, No. 14 Saddle Club Drive, pointed out density in the Saddle Club area is about one housing unit per acre whereas the high-rise would be about 10 units per acre.

"This will turn the low density area into a goldfish bowl," he said.

While he had no objection to the proposed development, Rosebery said he just didn't like where it was located. Approval of the project could bring more high-rises into the area. he claimed.

But city staff pointed out that a townhouse development south of Saddle Club has a similar density as the high-rise

In rebuttal, King said the Federal Aviation Administration ruled the high-rise wasn't tall enough to interfere with airplanes at Air Park and traffic congestion would be resolved with development of Mockingbird

WHEN COL. Wilson Banks, director of aviation for the city, was asked by the council his opinion of the project, Banks replied that he was opposed to it. Nor, he added, would he like to see "Saddle Club North, Saddle Club South or those apartments

No one on the council was opposed to the high-rise concept and Gordon G. Marcum II said he feels it fits into Midland somewhere "but is this the place you want to see it?"

Mayor G. Thane Akins said he saw no problem with airplanes and car traffic cited by the residents. The question, he said, is "is it compatible and reasonable zoning for the long range?

Another problem, said Councilman Tom Sloan, is the ability of a few people to tell a developer what to do with his land. "I feel a person should be able to buy a piece of property and do as he pleases. But the invasion of people's privacy bothers

He proposed denying the application and the rest of the council backed

In accepting a $291,000 grant from the FAA to resurface runways at Air Park, the council vented a little steam over a Chamber of Commerce task force doing a feasibility study to move the small airport.

BEFORE ACCEPTING the money, Councilman Carroll Thomas asked the rest of the council if they were aware of the study. "I sense that they are seriously looking at the situation. But they're having the same old problem with locations. It's a hurdle. It would be five to 10 years before it (a move) could be accomplished."

Marcum pointed out the City Council signed an agreement less than two years ago that the city would keep Air Park at its present location for the next 20 years.

'I have problems with this study,' said Councilman Doris Howbert. The study is a result of the Objectives for Midland program in which one of the tasks was to study the feasibility of moving it. Mrs. Howbert said she had problems with the objective when it was adopted.

What surprises her is the speed with which the chamber is undertaking the study. "They're about 10 years premature in talking about it. I know we can't wait until the 21st year. But we signed that agreement two years ago so we could make some long

The Objectives task force knows the city is committed. We're on a collision course," she said.

The mayor p should be receptive to ideas, but in the meantime the council needs to "take care of our business.

spillover has been resorting to an "old" lot west of the newer one.

He pointed out a need by the rental car agencies for 150 to 200 spaces while they currently have about 50. "The income from these rental car people is considerable." Banks said.

While passenger boardings around the country have been declining this past year by 8 percent, Banks said Midland's is growing at 2 to 4 per-

As a result, he recommended a plan which would give the airport about 1,500 parking spaces. A new road off FM 1788 would give better access to the airport and its parking lots, Banks explained.

"The longer we postpone it, the more it will cost us," said Banks of the $5-6 million project.

The council was hesitant to expand the parking lot as much as Banks proposed, but the aviation director said those spaces probably will be used in the next five years.

The engineering firm will study what we need to do, how many parking spaces will be needed and if we should have ground level or two-level parking. The study should bring us up to date with a plan for future construction, and should take three to six months to complete," Banks said.

The new access road would give more frontage at the terminal building, spread out the traffic better and allow more room for large trucks making deliveries to the terminal, he

PROBLEMS WITH the traffic flow at the intersection of Garfield, Front and Industrial streets prompted the council to accept a proposal from Fred Baker, director of public works, for rerouting some of the traffic to side streets. That action will have to be approved later in an ordinance.

Improvements to the Northwest Drainage Channel to handle rainfall amounts up to a 100-year flood level were approved by the council and a contract for the work will be awarded at the Sept. 23 meeting.

In light of a proposed rate increase by Tall City Cable TV, the council looked at the service being provided by the firm. Two residents opposed the firm taking off C-Span and replacing it with a 24-hour sports line.

Tom Mixon, manager, said the company - which is part of Times-Mirror, Inc. - is looking at making some more changes in the future and to adding a "super channel" by satel-

MIXON SAID he had received numerous compliments about adding the sports network and asked the council for their opinion of C-Span, which airs the U.S. House of Representatives. The council was unanimous: They preferred C-Span because it is "more entertaining and has live comedy." In other action, the council approved removing parking from the 600, 700 and 800 blocks of South Big Spring Street, rejected a bid for a sprinkler system at a new fire station, passed a specific use permit for beer and wine at 3328 W. Illinois Ave., and approved a zone change for an office at the southwest corner of Cotton Flat Road and County Road 110-West.

Boys back with parents following 8-hour ride on 'lost' school bus

GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP) - Two day afternoon. hyperactive boys were back with their parents in Lowell this morning after their school bus driver got lost on the tangle of interstate highways outside Boston on her first day on the job and and took the youths on an eight-hour ride.

They wound up 70 miles past their destination, on the opposite end of the state, with the bus out of gas, police said.

A police search had been under way for several hours in eastern Massachusetts when Jeffery Mason, 10, Ronald McGaunn, 11, and their bus driver, Shirley Allard, were discovered out of gas on Interstate 91 near Greenfield, about 70 miles west of their intended destination, late TuesThe two boys, described by their

New York primary yields surprise

By MIKE SILVERMAN Associated Press Writer

In the major surprise among 13 state primaries, Alfonse D'Amato, a little-known Long Island politician; wrested New York's Republican senatorial nomination from Jacob Javits, forcing the 76-year-old incumbent to seek his fifth term under the banner of a third party.

Tuesday's results also saw incumbent Sen. Richard Stone of Florida forced into a Democratic runoff. The only other incumbent senators to face challenges easily won renomination - Democrat John Durkin in New Hampshire and Republican Paul Laxalt in Nevada.

D'Amato, presiding supervisor in the town of Hempstead, who had hit hard at Javits' liberalism, age and declining health, will face Democratic congresswoman Elizabeth Holtzman in November. She defeated three challengers, including Bess Meyerson, a former Miss America and consumer advocate, and ex-New York City mayor John Lindsay.

We stood up under great pressure and ridicule," D'Amato told exultant supporters. "A lot of people throughout the state said, 'Al who? Supervisor of what?"

Javits, who suffers from a progressive nerve disease that affects his walking, will appear on the ballot as nominee of the Liberal Party, and he said after his defeat: "I expect to win re-election in November." In 1970, James Buckley was elected to the Senate as New York's Conservative Party candidate. Two congressmen indicted on charges stemming from the Abscam scandal met contrasting fates. Richard Kelly, a Florida Republican, was badly beaten by two challengers in his bid for the renomination, while

John Murphy, a Democrat from New York, won his party's contest. Lindsay's comeback bid fizzled, but some other former officeholders

Howard "Bo" Callaway, former Georgia congressman and Army secretary, fell short in his bid for Colorado's Republican senatorial nomination and today conceded to Secretary of State Mary Estill Buchanan. The margin was narrow and recount was possible. The winner faces incumbent Gary Hart, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

In Florida, Stone, who alienated some conservative supporters who accused him of falsely leading them to think he would vote against the Panama Canal Treaties, finished on top but without a majority among six candidates for the Democratic nomination. He will compete Oct. 7 against second-place finisher Bill Gunter, the state insurance commissioner whom Stone beat in a 1974 runoff. In other races:

ARIZONA: Bill Schulz, a millionaire businessmen, defeated two other Democrats for the senatorial nomination and the right to oppose Barry Goldwater, who was unchallenged on the Republican side.

MINNESOTA: The only real battle for a congressional nomination was in the 8th District where Democratic Rep. James Oberstar defeated Thomas Dougherty, a member of the Duluth City Council.

NEVADA: Democratic Rep. Jim Santini won renomination and will meet the Republican nominee, Las Vegas businessman Vince Saunders. in November

NEW HAMPSHIRE: In a race that was still very close, former state Attorney General Warren Rudman defeated 10 other candidates seeking the Republican senatorial nomination and the right to oppose Durkin. RHODE ISLAND: The best-known candidate, Rep. Edward P. Beard defeated two opponents in his bid for the Democratic nomination from the 2nd District. UTAH: In a very close race, attorney Dan Berman was the apparent winner over Ogden Mayor A. Stephen Dirks for the Democratic senatorial nomination to oppose incumbent Republican Jake Garn, who had no primary opposition.

VERMONT: Stewart Ledletter,

former state Banking and Insurance Commissioner, defeated five other candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination and will run in November against Democratic incumbent Patrick Leahy, a target of national conservative groups. Attorney General M. Jerome Diamond won a close race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and will oppose incumbent Republican Richard Snell-

WISCONSIN: Former congressman Robert W. Kasten Jr. defeated three other Republicans for that party's senatorial nomination and will face incumbent Gaylord Nelson,

Woman gets $30,000 for care of husband

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A wife's nursing care of her husband, severely injured in a Midland County drilling rig explosion, was worth $30,000 for two years, the Texas Supreme Court ruled today.

The court did not write an opinion but upheld lower court decisions that United States Fidelity & Guaranty owes $30,000 to Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Roberts of Midland for Mrs. Roberts' services.

United States Fidelity was the workers compensation insurer for Roberts' employer. It acknowledged Mrs. Roberts was entitled to something for her services but said the $30,000 award was at least $10,000

Roberts was permanently and totally disabled in the explosion. He was blinded, badly burned, received a skull fracture, suffered loss of hearing and was always dizzy.

Also, "literally thousands of pieces of fine steel or hairlike wires" were embedded in his arms and upper body, according to the opinion of the Eastland court of civil appeals.

Mrs. Roberts had to bathe her husband, cut up his food, help him to the bathroom and remove thousands of the hairlike wires as they constantly came to the surface of his skin.

United said the jury verdict for Mrs. Roberts' services came to $1,250 a month while it would have cost no more than about $800 a month to hire a

"Admittedly, the amount is high, but we decline to hold it is excessive under the evidence discussed," said the Eastland court's decision, which the Supreme Court upheld.

Mae West is hospitalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hollywood sex queen Mae West, who three weeks ago suffered a mild stroke that impaired her speech, is in satisfactory condition in Good Samaritan Hospital, sources said.

Hospital officials have refused to confirm that the 88-year-old blonde actress, perhaps best known for such films as "My Little Chickadee" and "She Done Him Wrong," is at the

However, one hospital source who asked not to be identified told The Associated Press on Tuesday that Miss West will remain in the hospital indefinitely.

The report was confirmed by a source close to the actress, who called the stroke "fairly minor" and described Miss West as "restless and bored" with her hospital stay.

Although she sharply limited her appearances in recent years, Miss West in 1978 starred in the film comedy "Sextette" as a movie star on her sixth honeymoon.

Iran says we must 'confess and repent

By The Associated Press

Iran's prime minister has told Secretary of State Edmund Muskie he will talk with the United States if it "confesses and repents," demands President Carter has already rejected. He also demanded unfreezing of Iranian assets, return of the shah's wealth and an end to "barbaric tortures" of Iranian students in the United States and "puppet countries."

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and the speaker of the Iranian Parliament, Hashemi Rafsanjani, in other speeches also attacked President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr for his refusal to endorse seven of Rajai's 21 nominees to his cabinet.

Rajai spelled out his terms for talks with the United States in a speech in Qom Monday that was broadcast Tuesday by Tehran Radio. He was responding to a letter from Muskie, delivered last week by the Swiss Embassy, urging the release of the 52 American hostages who today were spending their 312th day in captivity. In Washington, State Department officials had no immediate comment on Rajai's remarks.

Rajai said Muskie wrote him that his "earnest hope is that we could, together with the foreign minister you will appoint, work towards construc-tive solutions to the problems between our nations ... You will agree with me that the time has come to bring an honorable end to (the hostages') suffering."

The prime minister said Iran would enter into discussions with the United States if it was sure the Carter administration repented, confessed and decided not to repeat "past crimes" in Iran. He said, however, "We do not compromise or make deals. Islam will not be engaged in wheeling and dealing .

"As long as the usurping U.S. government is subjecting our brother and sister students within its own and its puppet countries to the most barbaric tortures it cannot speak of a fair judgment and appreciation of our revolution. As long as the U.S. government continues to freeze our assets and as long as it keeps them frozen and does not pay compensation for losses incurred it cannot have fair judgment in its relations with us. "Yes, the criminal shah's vile life ended in the worst psychological state. But our issue with America was not limited to the shah alone. In addition to the cultural, social and religious injustices he has done to our people, this criminal shah has also taken to your countries colossal amounts of the wealth of this country's poor people. So long as these riches are not returned you cannot speak about fair judgment and about appreciation of Iran's Islamic revolu-

On Tuesday, Rajai answered questions in Parliament on Bani-Sadr's speech Monday which criticized the rejected Cabinet ministers as representatives of a "despotic" minority.
"If the president says anything at any time about the ministers of my cabinet, we will never sit at the same table together," Rajai said, adding that Bani-Sadr's move weakened Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's leadership "and I regard it as a sin. I will fight against anyone who is intending Rafsanjani said Bani-Sadr's speech was "unjustifiable" and that the president had "reduced himself to the status of an opposition group leader." He accused the president of insulting the Parliament, the Cabinet and opposing Khomeini. Meanwhile, Tehran Radio reported firing squads executed 11 more officers and enlisted men convicted of plotting to overthrow the revolutionary regime, and said Iranian artillery knocked down another Iraqi MiG and helicopter in continuing fighting along the border some 340 miles west of Tehran, bringing the reported toll to four Iraqi and one Iranian aircraft

Anything but fair

Texans have enjoyed good highways for quite a number of years primarily because of a somewhat unique state highway system.

Now, unfortunately, the federal government wants to get involved in the state's bidding system on highway construction. It's easy to see that the result will be what the result always is when Uncle Sam decides to get involved in an efficient program - a sheer disas-

Historically, Texas' highways have been paid for with public funds but built by private industry. The state has awarded contracts for highway construction to the lowest bidder and has paid for the construction as it was done. No debt has ever been incurred by the state for highway construction and the competitive bid system has been remarkably free of corruption and abuse.

It's been a good system. State law, in fact, requires that the contracts be awarded solely on the basis of competitive bids. Contractors must satisfy the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation that they have the capacity to do the work and they're required to post a bond. Outside of those requirements the contract is awarded to the contractor submitting the lowest bid.

But now the federal government, specifically the Department of Transportation, has decided the competitive bid system is not fair enough to minority contractors. So the DOT designed a system of quotas called the Minority. Business Enterprise which reserves a certain percentage of each highway construction contract for minority contractors.

Under the DOT scheme, highway construction contracts will not be awarded to the lowest competitive bidder, but to the one who promises to subcontract the most work to minority subcontractors. Further, the state is expected to negotiate with contractors after they bid to decide who will get the contract.

What will happen, in effect, is that the amount bid for construction work will become secondary to the exercise of meeting minority subcontracting quotas. The competitive bid system that has worked so well so long will die.

Putting it bluntly, the DOT's minority quota system is an exercise in stupidity. Certainly fair treatment should be given to minority businessmen. But where do we draw the line? Can the DOT not recognize a scrupulously fair system when it sees one? Apparently not.

And that's sad. Because all Texans - minorities included will be the big losers in this bureaucratic boondoggle. Any system contrived by man that requires the awarding of contracts on any basis other than competitive bidding is ridiculous.

Fair is fair. The DOT's withhunt definitely is not fair - to anyone.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Carter 'stealth' plane disclosure questioned

WASHINGTON - Jimmy Carter was accused by the Republicans of jeopardizing national security for political gain when he disclosed the "invisible plane" program.

That may be overstating it a bit but not by much. Despite protestations of innocence by Carter's people in the Pentagon, both the timing and the content of the "stealth technolo gy" disclosure suggest political motiit was necessary to destroy its secre-

Military officials closely associated with the stealth technology - which could eventually thwart enemy radar detection of American planes - are furious at the Carter administration for confirming the press leaks and adding details and credibility to the

The absurdity of the position this puts the program's leadership in was illustrated by retired Air Force Gen. Tom Stafford, who ran the project until last year. "I still will not even acknowledge that the project exists," he told my associate Peter Grant. But if it does, the president has blown the lid off some of the finest technology that exists.

Everyone agrees that the development of stealth technology is a major breakthrough in strategic weaponry. And no one seriously denies that the announcement, at a highly unusual press conference with full publicity fanfare, helped Carter counter claims by Ronald Reagan that the president has been weak on defense policy. It particularly weakens the Republican charge that Carter's cancellation of the B-1 bomber damaged our nuclear

Until last month, knowledge of the program was limited to a few dozen key government officials. But after several news reports revealed bits and pieces of the project, Pentagon officials explained, it was decided to declassify certain portions "to keep the onion from peeling all the way.

As a matter of fact, the biggest pre-announcement leak of all came from the Carter administration itself earlier this year. When Congress was considering funds for a new manned bomber - which Carter opposed the Pentagon dispatched its top scientist, William Perry, to Capitol Hill. He let key senators in on the stealth secret, and persuaded them to put off the manned-bomber decision.

'Weren't you guys there?"

"You were talking about Tuscum-

I guess so. I heard somebody say it

"I didn't, darn it. Carter did. He's

What other kind of issue would he

'Well, I don't see why I can't ad-lib

"Ronnie, every time you ad-lib you

Incidentally, Perry also led some senators to believe that the invisible planes could be deployed by 1987 - a hopelessly optimistic forecast.

NOT READY FOR NUKES: After the near-disaster at Three Mile Island almost a year and a half ago, President Carter ordered the Federal Emergency Management Agency to assess the evacuation preparations of communities and states with nuclear power plants. The experts have completed their report, and what they found is no cause for complacence.

For a number of reasons, local authorities are simply not ready to cope with mass evacuation, or the treatment of those exposed to radioactive emissions, in the event of a nuclear plant disaster.

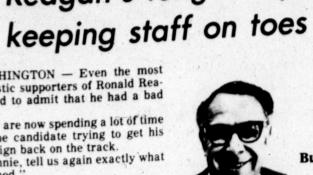

The lack of preparation can be traced to the overblown claims of nuclear power advocates, who for years pooh-poohed the idea that the plants might be unsafe. Accidents could not happen, the public was told. Until two occurred within four years (the other was a serious fire at the Brown's Ferry plant in Alabama), public officials tended to believe

Local alerting and notification systems are deficient, the federal experts found, and the firemen, police and other emergency personnel who would be first on the scene have not been adequately trained.

On the other hand, the federal government has not moved to fill the vacuum created by local and state inaction, the report states. As one example, the experts cite the question of potassium iodide, a chemical that protects individuals from ingestion of certain radioactive materials after a nuclear accident. The emergency agency recommends that the federal government stockpile the substance for distribution in an emergency.

Yet the feds have no policy or plans for the purchase, storage, distribution or use of potassium iodide. And when the chemical was sent up to Three Mile Island, it had been improperly packaged and could not be used.

WATCH ON WASTE: The resurgence of coal in the energy crisis has raised the conciousness of officials at the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grant-making agency has given an art gallery in Huntington, W.Va., $120,000 for a three-year study and exhibit of the artistic and historical significance of coal. The money will be used, a gallery official explained, to show that "coal is not a dirty old industry." Part of the task of cleaning up King Coal's grimy image will be collecting an exhibit of art works featuring coal.

NICK THIMMESCH

GOP's Brock predicting a Republican turnaround this year

WASHINGTON - Republican worry-warts, groaning over Ronald Reagan's string of "mis-statements." are warning darkly that their standard-bearer has only seven toes left to

They really shouldn't fret that much. At Republican National Headquarters, Chairman Bill Brock, 49, an amiable low-key fellow, has no difficulty expressing confidence that the G.O.P. will do very well in November because important factors are on the Republican's side.

"The flap over his K.K.K. remark," Brock says, "is a three-day story, already behind us. Reagan is too decent a person to derogate a community or region. He regretted that remark. It takes a big man to apologize. To my knowledge, Carter has never apologized in his entire life.

"Inflation is the issue. National defense and national prestige are issues. High taxes, unemployment, the ability of a family to survive are the compelling pocketbook issues. We're going to beat Carter like a drum on them.

There is some justification for Brock's thumping. For 30 years, surveys showed that people believed that Democrats could better handle economic issues than Republicans. Democrats won this test partly because they outnumber Republicans nearly two to one, a fact that puts Republi-cans behind in any contest.

But now, surveys show people be-lieve that Republicans can handle pocketbook issues better than Demo-

Nick Thimmesch

This shift in sentiment began last November, and was increased, Brock thinks, by the $4.5 million TV ad campaign the G.O.P. ran earlier this year on economic themes. The thrust of the commercials was to show workaday folks talking about pocketbook issues, and making the big point that Democrats had been running the country during all those years that our economic problems developed. The ad campaign was Brock's idea, and so were many efforts to broaden the appeal of the Repblican Party and give it a positive quality. "Several years back, there was even talk of changing the name of our party," Brock says, "because it carried negative aspects. Changing the name wasn't the answer, living up to it was. Republican candidates, even in the South, are using the name more and more. Today, there is even a slight disadvantage in carrying the Democratic label. Brock says that holding the convention in Detroit was another way of showing ethnics and blacks in urban America that the Republicans considered them important. "We went into the quintessential Democratic city, and got an absolutely magnificent reception," Brock says. "It was good for the city and good for us. It was beautiful when (Mayor) Coleman Young invited us to come eat chitlins with him. It was humanizing.

Brock, the booster, says that in all his years in politics, he has never seen the Republicans more united, a condition, he says, "contrasts starkly with the Democrats." He claims the Franklin Delano Roosevelt coalition 'blew up in 1980," and that the Democrats are stuck with single-issue poli-

"It's the first time I have seen a party pass a rule saying it won't back candidates if they won't support a single issue, in this case, ERA. The issue is irrelevant, it is the principle of exclusionary politics which is

So the way Brock sees it, and he better as national chairman, the important elements in the election are with the GOP, including money. In 1974, in the shadow of Watergate, the GOP could only raise $4.2 million. It took in $12.7 million in 1976, but this year, will top $24 million. Neither party had more than 400,000 givers until this year, when the Republicans recorded over a million. Moreover, donations to the GOP average $29, where 80 percent of the money raised by the Democratic Finance Committee in 1978 (latest available figure) came from contributions of $500 or more - thus in the "fat cat" catego-

Moreover, Republicans are sending money ($4 million) down to local elections for the first time. And Brock says another $3.5 million in those successful "Vote Republican for a Change" TV commercials will run before the election.

The GOP could have withered away in the near future. When Brock took over the R.N.C. in 1977, the GOP was a feeble presence in a vast majority of state governments. That meant gerrymandering, by Democrats, based on the 1980 census, to the benefit of Democrats. "After this election," Brock says, "we expect to have an effective working majority in 30 states, and in 40 states, be strong enough to protect ourselves."

For years, Republican candidates got 45 percent of the national vote. and 35 percent of the seats in Congress - due to Democratic gerrymandering. "If this continued, Brock says, "we could have been heading for the end of the Republican Party. good in all the other races.'

Brock sees no such dismal future now. "The presidential election will be reasonably close," he says. "We have a decent lead, but it will be a dead-heat in October. But we're good on the electoral vote side, and we're

Mondale on campaign trail in Ohio, New York

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) - Vice president Walter F. Mondale, preachng "peace and tranquillity" among Democrats, is campaigning in Ohio where the state ticket looks like a boon to President Carter and in New York — where it could be a drag.

Mondale gave his party harmony sermon in Chicago on Tuesday night after Mayor Jane Byrne, an old adversary of the Carter ticket, said she's for the president now and is prepared to do whatever she's asked to help in November.

Mondale said that after their primary elections fights, Democrats almost always "join together in a united party to win."
"That's exactly what's happening in Illinois," he said. "It's happening all over the nation. We are very, very optimistic about Illinois.

Politicians of both parties have rated Republican Ronald Reagan the current leader over Carter in Illinois, and Mayor Byrne said there is no doubt that Carter's in an uphill bat-

The mayor, an ardent supporter of Democratic nomination, greeted Mondale at Midway Airport, then introduced him to the Democratic state

"I have never had a problem with Mondale," she said. Mondale campaigned for the Carter ticket and also for Richard Daley, son of the late mayor, now the Democratic nominee for Cook County state's attorney. To get that nomination, Daley beat the Bryne-backed candidate in the primary. First Lady Rosalynn Carter is due in Chicago next week for a fund-rais-ing dinner on Daley's behalf. Byrne is not going. "If he had invited me, I would have gone," said the mayor.

Mondale, asked about the friction between those two Chicago Democrats, told a news conference, "I once modestly described myself as the Pope John of the Democratic Party. I always believe in peace and tranquility wherever I go.

Mondale said at the state party convention that the Carter ticket is going to win Illinois. The state went Republican four years ago when the late mayor Richard J. Daley led a solid Democratic organization.

The vice president campaigned today with a factory tour and a Democratic reception in Columbus. Carter strategists are counting heavily on the coattails of Democratic Sen. John Glenn, up for re-election, to bolster the national ticket in Ohio.

Then Mondale moves on to Buffalo, N.Y., which looms as a troublesome state, with its 41 electoral votes that are a virtual must for Carter. The president's task there may have become more difficult on Tuesday when Sen. Jacob Javits was defeated in his bid for Republican renomination. Al-Hempstead, on Long Island, won the Republican nomination.

That left Javits to run on the Liberal Party ticket in New York. The Liberal Party is on the verge of backing John B. Anderson, the independent candidate. That means that Anderson and Javits, defeated but still popular, would be the Liberal ticket, probably drawing votes that other-wise would go to the Democrats.

Mondale said in defending Carter's refusal to agree to a three-way campaign debate including Anderson, that Reagan is trying to boost the independent to hurt the Democrats.

Reagan denies U.S. fuel shortage

CLEVELAND (AP) - Ronald Reagan, denying there is an energy shortage in the United States, said today the country has enough resources to last until "the fuels of the future" are developed.

"The truth is, America has an abundance of energy," the Republi-can presidential nominee said. "But the policies of this administration consistently discourage its discovery and production."

In a speech prepared for a down-town rally, Reagan — who has pro-posed abolishing the Department of Energy - said one of his first acts as president would be to "implement a balanced energy policy of both production and conservation, including a strong domestic energy production program that utilizes all of our nation's energy resources to the fullest extent possible."

By contrast, he said, the Carter plan is to "lock up resources, hold down production and stifle fuel use with unnecessary regulations. Then threaten Americans with the specter of gasoline rationing and four-day work-weeks until they slash their energy consumption.'

Reagan did not disclose any specific details of his program, but said it would use coal, oil, natural gas, shale oil, solar, geothermal and nuclear power: "Every available resource we have must be used to free us from OPEC oil domination.'

He said figures prepared by the Energy Department and the U.S. Geological Survey show the United States has a "proven and potential" 47-year supply of oil; including oil shale, a 27-year supply of natural gas and at least a 321-year supply of

"We have more than enough energy resources to meet our needs until the fuels of the future - such as solar power, fusion, hydrogen, tar sands and ocean thermal energy conversion - are developed," he said.

Reagan, shown in polls to be leading Carter in Ohio, opened his daylong visit to Cleveland by telling black leaders that as president, he would name a special assistant to serve as a link between the White House and minority groups. He said he made a similar appointment as governor of California and that as president, "I would expand on this effort."

Reagan also said that during his eight years in Sacramento, "I appointed more blacks to policy-making positions in state government than any other governor in the nation, and more than all the previous governors of California combined."

Reagan chided Carter on Tuesday for refusing to take part in a threeman debate including independent John Anderson. Carter insisted on debating Reagan alone before including Anderson.

'He's got to take the full responsibility if there are no debates," Reagan said in Chicago before flying here. "I have said that I am not going to freeze someone out and debate without that third candidate - Anderson - in the race.'

At one point, Reagan appeared to rule out any head-to-head debate with Carter even after a three-way debate. Later, however, he indicated that a two-way debate was still a matter of discussion.

Reagan has not made more than a passing reference to the hostage crisis since he won the Republican nomination nearly two months ago. It came up again in a question shouted from the audience at a street corner rally in a Polish neighborhood of Mil-

Anderson says Carter denying Americans' 'right to know'

LOS ANGELES (AP) - John B. Anderson says that in refusing to take part in a three-way presidential debate, President Carter is confusing his own political welfare with the "right of the American people to know and understand" the candidates running for president in 1980.

"I think he is mistaking his own political future for what the American people have a right to believe is their future," the independent presidential candidate said in an interview.

Anderson and Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan on Tuesday accepted an invitation from the League of Women Voters to participate in the league's first presidential debate, set for Baltimore on Sept. 21.

Carter declined the invitation, saying through a spokesman that he was still insisting the first debate must be a one-to-one encounter between the president and Reagan.

In an interview shortly after Carter's decison was announced, Anderson said the president is "fixed on

The candidate said that he believes that Carter thinks if he "tells himself long enough and often enough that I am not really there, then I won't be there.'

Anderson said. He added, "It's a strange facet of his personality ... He's being stubborn

3rd Abscam trial to begin today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Jurors in the nation's third Abscam trial were going to court today to hear opening arguments in the bribery-conspiracy case against two Democratic city councilmen accused of taking $40,000 from undercover FBI agents.

Selection of the six women and six men jurors was completed Tuesday in U.S. District Court. Judge John Ful-lam said testimony would begin after selection of two alternate jurors.

Councilmen George X. Schwartz and Harry P. Jannotti are charged with racketeering and conspiring to commit extortion in their alleged dealings with undercover FBI agents posing as representatives of a fictional Arab sheik.

Schwartz, who gave up his post as president but kept his council seat after his indictment in May, allegedly received $30,000 for his help in the construction of a multi-million-dollar hotel here reportedly planned by the fictitious Middle East businessman.

FBI agents find no motive for bombing of United flight

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - FBI agents exploded the locks off one suspicious suitcase, questioned the 40 passengers on Flight 291 and went through their luggage but still couldn't suggest a motive behind a small bomb that exploded five minutes after the plane landed.

The bomb went off at 9:48 a.m. Tuesday in the baggage compartment of the United Airlines 727. But there were no threats, demands for money or other obvious motives, the FBI nearby hospital. Allan Wright, 45, of Citrus Heights suffered first- and second-degree burns and lacerations, and Robert Daye, 41, of Sacramento was burned on one arm, according to officials at the University Medical Center. Neither man was available for comment after his release.

No other injuries were reported among the passengers or four crew members. The plane was not visibly damaged, and it was flown, without passengers, later in the day to the United regional maintenance shops in San Francisco.

The FBI questioned the passengers, asking, among other things, how much insurance they carried. FBI spokesman Richard Kohler said he believed none of the passengers was being detained.

FCC proposal would allow specialized TV stations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just as radio stations tailor music to their listeners — from classical to country — hundreds of new, low-powered television channels could aim programs at particular audiences under a Federal Communications Commission proposal.

The FCC proposed on Tuesday authorizing creation of new stations in the UHF band, channels 14 to 83. The mini-stations could go on the air virtually anywhere because most areas have vacant UHF, or ultra-high frequency,

With a radius of perhaps 15 miles, the new stations could direct their programs at a specific audience, such as a minority population in one portion of a large city or farmers in rural areas that can't support a regular station.

"For smaller communities, it means first local TV outlets or additional UHF outlets that might someday become full-service stations," FCC Chairman

Charles D. Ferris said. "For the larger cities, it means additional choices from the TV fare they now get."

The new type of station, FCC officials said, could ultimately push television toward the competition that now marks the radio industry.

That would mean a sharp change for American television, which has been built around the concept of a limited number of full-service stations, each expected to address the needs of the entire population in its city of license.

The rule change, which has attracted the ire of established television broadcasters, must undergo public comment and another FCC vote before becoming final. It will be several weeks before the commission even announces how long it will accept public comments.

Ferris actually had hoped to go even further Tuesday by gaining approval of a proposal to license new VHF, or very-high frequency, stations throughout the country. A vote on the proposal, however, was delayed after more than three hours of debate focusing on the potential harm that could result to existing

VHF stations operate on channels 2 to 13 and are generally less expensive and more attractive than UHF stations.

Top FCC officials said privately the VHF proposal could have an even bigger impact than mini-stations because it could spur creation of a new national Both the mini-station and VHF proposals have the same premise: a TV station that cannot reach a large area can still provide a valuable service.

Because the mini-stations could reach no more than 15 miles in one direction, the FCC said they should be spared the expense of required local news and public service programming and should not have to worry about applying for permission to offer pay programming.

The commission also said it might give preference to minority and educational groups in licensing the new stations.

All mini-stations would be classified as secondary. Any application to establish a full-service station on the same channel would take precedence. Groups such as the National Association of Broadcasters condemned both proposals, with one official suggesting it was a "cruel hoax" to let people believe a mini-station could attract a large enough audience to survive.

While the VHF proposal was deferred, the commission did approve, on a 4-3 vote, new VHF stations to Knoxville, Tenn.; Johnstown, Pa.; Salt Lake City, and Charleston, W.Va. Those requests were separate and had been under

Jurors see tape of alleged Jenrette payoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — An FBI videotape shows John R. Stowe, the alleged bagman for Rep. John W. Jenrette, take $50,000 from an undercover agent and put it in a paper bag. "I'm just a delivery boy," Stowe tells the agent. Ninety minutes later, the FBI says, Jenrette phoned the agent to say he had the money.

"You got the package?" the agent asked.

"Everything," Jenrette replied.

"From John?" the agent asked.

"Everything's fine," Jenrette said.

Both the videotape and the tape of the telephone conversation were played Tuesday at the trial of Jenrette, a three-term South Carolina Democrat charged with taking the money as a bribe in Carolina Democrat charged with taking the money as a bribe in exchange for promising to introduce a bill granting citizenship to wealthy Arabs. Jenrette contends Stowe, a Richmond, Va., businessman, was really taking the money for himself, not for Jenrette. All he saw of the $50,000, the congressman maintains, was $10,000 as a loan from Stowe, a longtime friend. But the government alleges Stowe's share was $10,000 to $15,000 and the rest was passed on to Jenrette.

Jurors were also shown a videotape the FBI made Jan. 7, a month after the alleged payoff, in which the undercover agent asked Jenrette if he was "satisfied with the way the 50 ($50,000) was split up between you and him (Stowe)?"

On the tape, Jenrette shook his head affirmatively. At the defense table, Jenrette, chin in hand, watched the television monitor, marking a transcript of the tape.

In another tape of a telephone call, made the day after the bribe allegedly was offered but a day before Stowe picked up the $50,000, Jenrette asked the undercover agent: "And all the documents that you have are clean as far as numbers and all?"

'Oh, yeah," the agent replied. Jenrette said, "Okay," and the agent added: "Yeah, yeah, there's no problem about that whatsoever. No numbers will ever

On the same day, Dec. 5, Jenrette repeatedly refused the agent's bid to pick up the money himself. "We've got these ethic rules about the amounts of money that we can make," he said.

Anthony Amoroso, the undercover agent who posed as "Tony DeVito," the representative of the wealthy Arabs, was taking the stand today for cross-examination by Jenrette's attorney, Ken-

The wealthy Arabs were creations of the FBI's 14-month Abscam operation, which has led to the indictment of six congressman. One, Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., has been convicted of bribery and conspiracy.

In all Tuesday, the jury listened to tapes of eight phone conversations and watched two videotapes, both recorded in a Georgetown house the FBI rented for its dealings on behalf of the mythical Arabs.

Uncle admits nephew's slaying was climax of long-time feud

A 23-year-old uncle testified in court today that he stabbed and killed his bullying 19-year-old nephew in the wake of a beer-drinking Sunday afternoon cruise in Midland's Hogan Park.

The uncle, Macario Belles "Max" Ortiz is charged with murder in the death of his nephew, Julian Ortiz Marroquin, on the night of Sunday, July 6, at the city park in far northeast Midland.

He is being tried by a six-man, six-woman jury in Judge Vann Culp's 238th State District Court.

Ortiz said he had stabbed his nephew, who was sitting in a car with his (Marroquin's) brother at Hogan Park but only after Julian Marroquin had made an apparent move for his pocketknife. He said that he and his nephew, an ex-convict who had made advances toward his wife and had threatened him, had been fueding for some time

Ortiz, who was standing outside the car then, said he lunged at his nephew when he leaned back as if to

"Oh, my God!" Ortiz said after he saw blood. "I must have stabbed him."

Ortiz, testifying in his own defense today after the state had presented its case on Tuesday, said he went directly to his mother's house, found his mother, kissed her on the forehead, and told her what he had

New volcano eruption forecast drinking. He appeared very excited, shallow breathing, wringing his hands, shifting his weight

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - Though Mount St. Helens has been quiet for weeks, clues point to another eruption of the Washington volcano, perhaps within days, observers say.

Teachers continue to walk picket lines

By The Associated Press School administrators in San Jose, Calif., today were asking a judge to order 1,600 teachers to end a walkout that has caused the public school district to spend $150,000 a day on substitute instructors.

In Columbus, Ohio, school officials were preparing to pay parents 55 cents per child to deliver students to schools struck by non-teaching personnel, includ-ing nearly all of the 439 bus drivers.

And the teachers union in Rochester, N.Y., faced another $5,000 fine today as the city's first public school strike entered its seventh day with no settlement in sight. California, Ohio and New York are three of nine states hit by teacher strikes affecting classes for more than 585,000 students. Some 33,000 teachers nationwide are staying home or manning picket lines. Strikes also were reported in Arizona, Rhode Island, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Washington state. The struck San Jose Unified School District has hired 1,500 substitutes at $100 a day, but administrators said about 8,000 of the district's 33,000 pupils failed to show Tuesday up at the system's 51

Administrators, claiming the teachers violated their contract, said they would ask Superior Court Judge Bruce Allen for a temporary restraining order to halt the walkout over wages to be paid in the second year of a two-year agreement

"We'll fight it (a restraining order) in the event they do get one," said Brian McKenna, executive director of the San Jose Teachers Association.

In New York, State Supreme Court Justice John A. Mastrella found the 2,300-member Rochester Teachers Association and its president in contempt for ignoring an injunction. President Elmer Henretta was fined $40,000 for directing the strike, and the union assessed $5,000 for each day the walkout over a new contract continues.

Negotiators for the union and the school administration declined comment after a Tuesday night meeting called in an attempt to schedule further talks. The strike affects 34,600 students.

Meanwhile, Columbus, Ohio, school spokeswoman

Katherine Anthony said the state Education Department had approved a plan to pay parents to bring children to schools, where attendance is off about 10 percent in the 68,000-pupil system.

The 2,600-member Ohio Association of Public School Employees entered its fifth day on strike today, with no new contract talks scheduled.

Teachers in 17 school districts remained on strike in Pennsylvania, affecting 293,356 students. Two hundred teachers walked out Tuesday in the Whitehall-Coplay School District in suburban Allentown, forcing cancellation of classes fr 3,700 pupils.

Marroquin's brother, Danny, 18, testified that he and his late brother and two girls were "cruising" around Hogan Park on the afternoon of that Fourth of July weekend and were drinking from a case of beer when they encountered Ortiz in another car. He said his uncle had asked them if they wanted "to go to Odessa?"

"My brother said, 'no,' " Danny Marroquin re-

"Max (Ortiz) said, 'Do you want to go over to the corner (of the park)?"

Danny Marroquin said Ortiz and his brother got out of their cars, pulled out and opened their pocketknives as if to fight, but folded their weapons and put them back into their pockets.

Later, around dusk, Ortiz and the Marroquin brothers met again. And Danny Marroquin said his uncle walked over to their parked car and stabbed his brother just above his center chestline.

"He didn't move nothing," Danny Marroquin said of his brother. "He didn't say nothing." "I got mad," said the brother, who was driving the

Meanwhile, Ortiz drove over to his mother's house, testified Mary Yharte, sister of Danny and Julian Marroquin. "I have killed Julian at the park," Ms.

Yhate quoted Ortiz, "and I am going to turn myself Later that night, Ortiz walked into the Midland police station and turned himself and the pocketknife over to Police Desk Officer Donnie Dove

"He laid the knife on the booking desk," Dove testified. "He advised me that he had just cut a man at Hogan Park. He didn't appear to have been from one side to the other."

In a hearing before the judge and outside the presence of the jury, prosecutors David Joers and Jim Rex sought the court's permission to introduce into evidence the bloodied, black shirt which Julian Marroquin was wearing when he was fatally

McFall objected. "It (the shirt) doesn't do anything but try to get this nice, middle-class jury upset," he said. The evidence was allowed anyway.

Earlier, in another instance when the jury was out, defense attorney McFall turned to Police Detective Sgt. Larry Bledsoe.

'He's a braver man than me (being) at Hogan Park on a Sunday afternoon.

Jordan returning to Urban League

Vernon Jordan, hospitalized for three months after a sniper put a bullet in his back, says he is taking security precautions but won't let the threat of violence keep him from working "as forcefully as in the past" as president of the National Urban League.

Jordan said Tuesday that he would resume some of his duties as head of the civil rights group this week and added that "in all modesty, I believe my absence was a missing link in black leadership.

Jordan's remarks came in his first news conference since he was shot May 29 in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Jordan, who lost 40 pounds in his hospital stay that ended last Thursday, said he would speak out "as clearly and as forcefully as in the past." "I refuse to let the possibility of renewed violence stand in the way of my beliefs and duties, he said. But he added that he had taken extra security precautions and cut out a daily walk along Manhattan's East Jordan's assailant has not been found. Jordan said he has to accept FBI Director William Webster's evaluation that the shooting was a politically motivated assassination attempt.

"In the dark, I could not know and I do not know who was behind the trigger," he said.

Moving stiffly but appearing healthy, Jordan expressed confidence that the FBI has been doing its utmost to find the sniper but noted he was not privy to the FBI's investigation. He added that he did not think he should be.

Jordan was courted by every major candidate during his hospital stay this summer. He said Tuesday that President Carter shouldn't count on the high percentage of minority votes he won in

Peace activists held without bail

KING OF PRUSSIA, Pa. (AP) - Brothers Daniel and Philip Berrigan were held without bail after eight self-proclaimed peace activists forced their way into a defense plant, threatened employees and dumped a blood-like substance on classified documents, officials said.

The activists on Tuesday poured what they said was 21/2 pints of their own blood on classified plans at the plant, according to officials.

The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, a Roman Catholic priest, and Philip Berrigan, a former priest, both known for their anti-war protests in the 1960s, allegedly forced their way past two unarmed guards at the General Electric Operational Manufacturing Center, which builds re-entry systems for the U.S. Air Force Minuteman mis-

The Rev. Carl Kabat and Sister Anne Montgomery, also Roman Catholics, held Robert Cox, a GE employee, while the others went into the building where classifed materials are held, according to testimony at the arraignment.

Cox was knocked against a wall and threatened with a hammer, as was another employee, Robert Hartman, authorities said.

Bruce Eckel, an assistant Montgomery County district attorney, said the group caused between $10,000 and $40,000 damage. GE spokesman Tim Wright refused to confirm the estimate or give other details.

Charged were Daniel Berrigan, 59, New York City; Philip Berrigan, 57, Baltimore; Dean Hammer, 26, New Haven, Conn.; Kabat, 45, New York City; John Schuchardt, 37, Baltimore; Elmer Maas, New York City; Sister Montgom-ery, New York City; and Molly Rush, Pitts-

The demonstrators told reporters the break-in was meant as a demonstration against U.S. "first-strike nuclear capability."

The Berrigans were held without bail after FBI agent Martin Bilder testified that both previously had been fugitives. The others re-mained in jail late Tuesday in lieu of $125,000

Charges included burglary, criminal trespass, criminal conspiracy, disorderly conduct, criminal mischief, simple assault, aggravated assault, terroristic threats, recklessly endangering another person, criminal harassment, false imprisonment, criminal coercion and unlawful restraint.

Charles Glackin, a lawyer for the Berrigans, argued unsuccessfully that Daniel should not be imprisoned because of poor health. He was paroled from federal prison in February 1972 for health reasons after serving 18 months for burning draft records in Catonsville, Md. Philip also was jailed for destroying draft records and was tried in 1972 along with seven others who were accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger. The trial ended in a hung jury.

After the trial, Philip married co-defendant Sister Elizabeth McAlister. He paints houses and repairs roofs for a living.

His committee is conducting hearings on the dumping of toxic wastes at Love Canal.

"Residues and waste products associated with these...were apparently disposed of by dumping in the Love Canal area," Hinchey said. "How the Army can say there's no evidence of military dumping in the Love Canal area — that statement...now

Political opportunism charged in 'Stealth' project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges of political opportunism are ricocheting through the Capitol in the wake of Pentagon disclosure of the "Stealth" project, aimed at making aircraft 20-10 against a GOP ca virtually invisible to radar detection. Congressional Republicans - obviously hoping the controversy will blossom into a profitable campaign issue for GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan — kept up a drum beat of news conferences, press releases and committee statements Tuesday and planned more of the same today.

Reagan's top defense advisers scheduled a news conference on the issue at the National Press Club; Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., slated another in his Senate office.

And President Carter joined the fray personally Tuesday. "It's obvious that the Republicans have taken what is a major benefit to our country and tried to play cheap politics with it by alleging we have violated our nation's security," Carter said in his first public comment on the

The rejected resolution would have directed Carter to produce all documents relating to the Aug. 22 news conference at which Defense Secretary Harold Brown confirmed news leaks about the project.

House Republican leaders said they were "shocked" by the vote, and said it means the proposal likely will never reach the House floor.

"This is a coverup, pure and simple," said Rep. James Courter, R-N.J., author of the proposal.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., chairman of the investigations subcommittee, said the Courter resolution would only produce a prolonged battle over executive privilege and "It is my guess that when the matter is pursued they will find the origin of the (Brown) press conference was not in the Pentagon but in the White House," Baker said.

Carter called the controversy the work of "a carefully orchestrated group of Republicans." "Nothing has been revealed about the 'Stealth' project except that it exists. No details about it, no technological elements of it, have been revealed," he said.

Controller says FAA 'union-busting' WOLFE NURSERY

EULESS, Texas (AP) — A former air traffic controller fired for allegedly directing a Braniff Airways jet into a Florida thunderstorm says the Federal Aviation Administration purposely miscon-strued the incident as part of its "union-busting"

Former Miami controller Ronald Palmer, speaking at a news conference sponsored by the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO), said he did not intentionally direct the jet toward the storm, but admitted tapes of his conversation with the pilot could be interpeted that way.

"I admit that the the tapes sound damaging. Without additional information, it would appear something was amiss between me and Braniff Flight 343," Palmer said.

Palmer was fired by the FAA after he was accused to your vice president Brown. You know what I of directing the plane, carrying 105 passengers on a mean?" flight from Dallas-Fort Worth to Miami, in the When tion for the airlines decision to limit free rides for controllers in the cockpit "jump seats."

Palmer has appealed the firing. The taped transcript of the conversation between Palmer and the pilot showed that Palmer ordered the plane to change its course to a bearing of 170 degrees, which turned the plane in the direction of the th inderstorm.

The pilot replied, "Oh great, that's right in the stuff, 1-7-0.

Palmer then said, according to the tape, "Well, I want you to make sure you get this information back

When the pilot replied that he did not know what direction of a thunderstorm in an apparent retalia- Palmer meant, Palmer replied, "Well most of the pilots don't. You taking anybody in your jump seat today?" After the pilot answered that he did not have anyone in the jump seat, Palmer said, "Now you understand what I mean.

Palmer said he thought the pilot meant that he was on an approach for a preferred runway when he said, "Oh great, that's right in the stuff."

The former controller said his remarks after that meant that since he had done a favor for the pilot by putting him on the favored runway that he should tell Braniff's vice president to reinstate the policy of allowing controllers to ride in the cockpit "jump

Braniff had limited the number of cockpit seats available to controllers before the incident because the airline said it was using the seats to train new

Although the cockpit seats were used to give controllers a firsthand look at cockpit operations, some airline officials had complained that controlers took advantage of them to obtain free travel.

Palmer said he was urging Braniff to change the policy because it improves the performance of controllers, but he said the attempt failed because he misinterpeted the pilot's reply.
"Once the breakdown in communications occurred, it just seemed to perpetuate itself," Palmer Palmer said the FAA is using the incident as one of many "trumped up" charges against PATCO members in an attempt to kill the union. Saying Palmer's charges are not true, Roger Myer, a public affairs officer at the FAA's regional office in Atlanta, said, "Had he not even been a member of the union and made the inappropriate remarks he made, the FAA would have taken the same action.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas public schools are pre-pared to open their doors to children of illegal aliens "within an hour" if ordered to do so by a federal judge, Superintendent Linus Wright said Tuesday. Wright, addressing about 150 Mexican aliens, their children and supporters at a school board meeting, said Dallas Independent School District officials expect a ruling Monday by U.S. District Judge Robert M. Hill "that the children be admitted. The staff will be ready to move after that decision." Hill told the school district Monday it could not continue to deny an education to the illegal aliens unless it could prove admitting them would cause extraordinary harm. Wright said he did not believe the district could meet that test. School board president Kathlyn Gilliam said at the meeting that officials "are ready to put them in school. We've appropriated the money to do that. We do not oppose the children being educated." Those in attendance, some of whom earlier picket-ed the school administration building, applauded loudly and chanted, "Gracias, gracias, gracias" after Wright's announcement.

The school board previously set aside a $2.7 million contingency fund to handle the educaton of children of illegal aliens.

School officials predict 5,000 alien children will be enrolled by the end of the school year.

Abernathy earlier said he planned to shorten the suspensions, contingent on the completition of a report that a garbage worker reportedly sought half of this sprawling city.

The walkout began Monday in the middle and Grumbling garbage workers, who are paid by the job rather than by the hour, have complained recently about the poor maintenance of the city's upper class section of Southwest Houston, and by Tuesday morning had spread to the northside and much of the inner city.

City council members received a barrage of complaints from citizens angered by mounting trash

However, the suspensions of Charles Adams and Roy Caldwell prompted hundreds of garbage work-ers to walkoff the job Monday. along city streets. Garbage collection here has been erratic in recent weeks. Abernathy said service had slipped because 120 of the city garbage trucks were inoperable. He predicted it would be Saturday before garbage crews resumed normal operations.

The suspensions of Caldwell and Adams prompted several city council members to criticize Abernathy, a registered pharmacist, for his lack of experience in managing the department. Abernathy said he suspended the pair because they failed to report a fist fight that occured at a collection depot July 14. Caldwell said he was told to file the report by the close of the working day Thursday. But, he said, he did not get off work until 9 p.m. and filed the report

Friday morning. Abernathy said he did not get the full report equested and suspended the two supervisors.

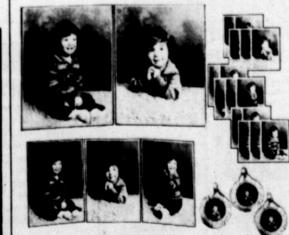

City Coulcilman Lance Lalor argued Abernathy was "coming out with a lot of phony excuses. He's just trying to find scapegoats.

However, McConn recently said he supported Abernathy's actions.

"The whole change parallels the increase in the women's lib movement," said Fries, president of Austria's Society of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery

Excessive smoking, drinking and sun exposure, he said, "previously were indulgences which were the province of males. With the feminist movement afoot internationally, however, more women than ever before are exposing themselves to the sun in their quest for health and beauty."

The researcher said smoking irritates the mouth while drinking is dangerous because it irritates the delicate mucous linings of the mouth and lowers the ability of the liver to produce substances that normally protect

Thirty years ago, he said, "four males were getting oral cancer to each women. Now we have three men to each woman, and some publications have four-to-two."

Fries said his findings will soon appear in "Cancer," a publication of the American Cancer Society. He defined oral cancer as malignant lesions and tumors that strike the oral cavity including the lips, tongue and mucous

The statistics were gathered during the past 16 years throughout West Germany, Austria and Switzerland, in 46 clinics and six study groups involving 2,500 patients, said Fries.

Energy efficiency answer in design

By BARBARA MAYER AP Newsfeatures

Get a group of interior designers together and ask them a provocative question about the future and maybe the answers will add up to a prescription for survival - decoratively

The chance to do that came up recently at the annual meeting of the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) in New York. An extravaganza of an affair with thousands of designers packing the town, the meeting also provided an opportunity to honor designers for achievements in product design, building restoration and the creation of interiors of pair of trousers. There are enough variations on the one-piece in junior departments that size-3-to-13 customers can jump from style to style until they find the best fit. There are sleekwaisted versions, full blousey ones, even strapless or strapped styles.

There are not only jumpsuits to fit almost every body, but every season and go back-to-school to work, to play, even crepe to heavy fatigue cloth, to seersucker, polished cotton, satin or wool - most are in weights that can be worn all year round. So the jump you jump into today will keep jumping this winter — just add a sweater underneath and a jacket or bulky cardigan on top.

Los Angeles designer Van-Martin
Rowe took his signature jumpsuit to the ultimate: He dressed an entire wedding party in the same one-piece design (the pattern will be in the December-dated McCall catalog) including the mother of the bride. The method behind such madness?

Explains Rowe, "When you take the jump, why not do it in a jumpsuit?"

AHEAD-OF-TIME SANDWICHES

If you hate to make sandwiches and pack lunches every morning, take heart. Here are a few suggestions for making sandwiches ahead of time.

Most sandwich fillings will freeze when properly packaged. The old standby of peanut butter is an excellent choice for the freezer. Also, cheese, sliced meat and fish are good choices for sandwiches you prepare ahead of time.

In addition, when you have leftover meat such as roast, and everyone in the family is tired of it, slice it and make a few sandwiches out of it.

For freezing, be sure to wrap the sandwiches in a moisture-proof material. Labeling and dating also are recommended if you plan to make a large supply. Sandwiches can be safely stored for three to four weeks in the freezer. They defrost overnight in the refrigerator or in approximately three hours at room temperature.

Here are some special sugges-Vegetables lose crispness in the freezer, so avoid using them as a sandwich filling. If a slice of lettuce is desired, add it to the sandwich on the day it is defrosted for use. Cooked eggs become rubbery or undesirable upon freezing.

Sandwich fillings that contain a lot of mayonnaise or salad dressing may cause the bread to become soggy. Next time you are preparing sand-wiches for all the members of your family who carry brown bags, why not prepare a few extra? Then when you are in a hurry one morning, you will have a handy supply of readymade lunches

Here are the recipes: BATHROOM FIXTURES - Start with a recipe for soap jelly and add whiting. To make soap jelly, mix one cup shaved bar soap or soap flaked with quart of boiling water. Dissolve the soap in the boiling water. Once it's entirely melted or dissolved, pour in into a wide mouth jer. Let it stand in into a wide-mouth jar. Let it stand in a cool place until it jells. To make a rust remover for lavatories or tubs, combine one part of the soap jelly with four parts of whiting. This makes a mild scouring agent which won't injure most surfaces.

WINDOWS-MIRRORS

For this job there are four ideas: For heavy greasy soil, add four tablespoons of household ammonia to one quart of warm water. For water-spot removal, add two

This can be a breeze without spending a fortune. Clean furniture with "dustless" cloths made at home. Here's how

Mix one tablespoon of kerosene with one quart of hot water. Dip squares of clean lintless cloths into the solution, wring them out, dry and store them. Store in covered containers, such as glass jars or coffee cans. Keep them clean by washing and re-treating.

MARBLE, TILE Remove acid stains with household ammonia, baking soda or borax. If acid has roughened surfaces, rub the spots with pumice stone and water. Polish with a soft cloth.

For grease spots, make a thin paste of Fuller's Earth, spread it on the spot and let it stand 24 hours. Wash with soap and water. Repeat the process, if necessary. Scrub very soiled spots with pumice stone.

ALUMINUM

This metal can produce surprisingly bright results when soap jelly and whiting are part of the cleaning plan. Scour badly abused aluminum vessels with whiting and soap jelly. Use very fine steel wool on alumi-

The difference between thee and you

PARIS (AP) - O Romeo, Romeo! Wherefore art thou Romeo?

When Juliet called her lover thou, she was using a grammatical form that has become extinct in modern English, but still makes a world of difference to Europeans.

To know the difference between thee and you is to understand how Europeans, by a flick of the pronoun, can express contempt or respect, friendship or indifference.

From Iberia to Siberia, the distinction is still carefully observed, even when so many other quaint relics of the Old World are crumbling under the leveling onslaught of television, hamburger stands and the welfare

As many an American or English visitor to the Continent has discovered, shifting from you to thou is about as smooth and easy as sailing around Cape Horn on a stormy day.

A premature "tu," "du," "ty" or "jij" can sour a budding friendship like using a person's first name too soon. Employed intentionally, it is a deadly insult. On the other hand, failure to shift gears away from a formal "vous," "sie," "vy" or "u" at the right moment can be read as indifference and stuffiness.

The rule of thumb is to "thee" only your friends, relatives, pets and peo-ple you have decided to be rude to. The problem lies in deciding when friendship is ripe for a switch to

Until recently there were fears that "tu" might be following thee into semantic obscurity. Thus it was with some relief that the newsweekly L'Express recently reported: "Just as the country seemed ripe for the all-embracing neutrality of the English you, it's suddenly coming back to us, that funny little pronoun that says everything 'vous' doesn't." But Marie-Louise Audiberti, writing in the respected daily Le Monde, believes Le Nouveau Tu "has nothing to do with the 'tu' of familiarity, or the 'tu' of contempt. It symbolizes a solidarity of class - the class of youth.

When a cover cannot be used in a practical way, hose down the concrete or otherwise

Geriatric revolution is now underway

NEW YORK (AP) - Lawrence Frankel is a mild-mannered man, but he can become militant when he discusses his "mission." "I am trying to lead a geriatric revolution," firmly declares Frankel, whose rallying cry is "Exercise!"

"I want to alter the lifestyles of older Americans by convincing them that by committing themselves to the nobility of mobility they would be inhibiting the aging process, contributing to their happiness, reducing pain and suffering and saving the nation billions of dollars in reduced health costs.'

His battle plan was conceived 10 years ago when he began to develop a program for physical fitness for the elderly, which was endorsed by the Select Committee on Aging of the U.S. House of Representatives. Started in his home state of West Virginia, where there are now more than 200 groups with 3,000 participants, it has spread to other states.

"The program is called 'Preventicare,' stressing that what you prevent needs no cure,'' the gray-haired Frankel said in an interview, his trim, youthful appearance at age 75 serving as a plug for the regimen aimed at the 60-and-up group.

He has recently expanded his fight for fitness by writing, with associate Betty Byrd Richard, "Be Alive as Long as You Live: The Older Person's Complete Guide to Exercise for Joyful Living." It outlines and illustrates more than 50 low-level exercise sequences, designed to be performed standing, sitting or even lying down.

The exercises can be done by an individual at home but, Frankel points out, when people get together it encourages conversation and socialization. He suggests forming a group in senior centers, churches, apartment houses or locating one through the state's commissioner of the aging.

As to equipment, "All you need is the body and a place to move it," he says, adding that an old piece of carpet or towel to lie on is useful, as well as a 22-inch piece of broomstick and a 6-pound medicine ball. He encourages exercising to music, which "enhances both mood and toler-

"Exercise should be prescribed, planned and supervised," he says.

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE

New, more neutral terminology helping to solve mental problems

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP.

In the field of mental health care, we have only recently begun to acknowledge that our attitudes about people and their problems are of equal or perhaps greater importance than any of our specific treatment techniques. Since attitudes about events and issues are influenced by the language and terminology used to describe them, there has been a great deal of effort in recent years to develop a more neutral mental health terminology to replace other negatively-biased terms

The term "mental health problem" was orginally coined in an effort to avoid the stigma which is often attached to the words "mental illness" or "psychological disorder." The new term also represented an effort to convey the idea that people who are experiencing some degree of psychological stress, as all of us do from time to time, are not necessarily mentally ill or psychologically disordered.

A wide range of human problems is included in the field of mental health problems. Marital problems, behavior problems of children, difficulties in adjusting to changing life circumstances, grief reactions and mild anxiety states are only a few examples.

It is much easier for a person to seek help for a problem in his life if he believes that he is not going to be thought of as "mentally ill." Unfortunately, there is still a great deal of hesitancy on the part of many to seek professional help for this very rea-

More severe kinds of distress are also included in the field of mental health problems. Persistent anxiety, depressive states, personality disorders, psychotic disorders and organic conditions resulting in psychological problems are some applicable examples. Even with more serious problems, to say that a person has a mental health problem creates a more accepting and hopeful attitude than to say that a person is "insane" or "crazy." Both the profes-

Education leader Hufstedler lauds landmark decision

With BOB TIEUEL

"Twenty-six years ago last June, Chief Justice Earl Warren presided over a Supreme Court that had been divided in 82 percent of its opinions in the year before his appointment. Yet in Brown v. Board of Education, as momentous a decision as any ever handed down by that body, there was not a single dissent among the nine justices who represented every region of the country and as many shades of political opinion.

"We think of Brown as a great moral landmark, and certainly it is that. But Brown is more than a testament to our national commitment to human rights. In that historic opinion of 1954, Chief Justice Warren wrote:

"Education is perhaps the most important function of state and local governments. Compulsory school attendance laws and the great expenditures for education both demonstrate our recognition of the importance of education to our democratic society. It is required in the performance of our most basic public responsibilities. It is the foundation of good citizenship.

"I was surprised when the president (Carter) asked me to take charge of this new cabinet-level Department of Education. I accepted readily because I believe every word Earl Warren wrote about the ultimate dependance of our democratic society upon our public schools.

'We Americans have always been proud of our past, but we have never wanted to live there. In education, as in all things, we have been a nation that values progress, that strains for a glimpse of the future. A Greek philosopher Horaclitus once said: You cannot step twice into the same river, for other waters are continually flowing on.' The people of this country understand those words perfectly. Those who aspire to lead us would do well to ponder their meaning." - U.S. Secretary of Education Shirley M. Hufstedler

THE UNITED NEGRO College Fund represents 41 historical black colleges throughout the country with a combined enrollment of some 50,000 students. The gunf-raising efforts of UNCF help these schools maintain their high academic standards and to award scholarships and financial aid to qualified students.

America's predominately black colleges (there are some 105 nationwide) and universities have provided undergraduate education for 85 percent of all the black physicians, 75 percent of black Ph.D.s, more than half of the black elected officals and most of the black diplomate, judges, mayors and college presidents.

Some of the best known alumni include the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., U.S. Treasurer Azie Taylor Morton, U.S. Solicitor General Wade McCree Jr. and the mayors of Atlanta, Richmond, Birmingham, New Orleans and Washington, D.D.

A BLACK COLLEGE Awareness Day is being planned for mid-November in the Permian Basin in Odessa or Midland, it is reported. Full details will be released here as soon as the exact details are known. It is also reported that co-publisher T.J. Patterson of Lubbock will be the scheduled invited speaker for the gala day. Patterson is co-publisher of the Lubbock Digest, the only black-owned and operated newspaper in West Texas and Southern New Mexico.

According to the Black Monitor, the black church in America, in its various forms, has been the vehicle through which black Americans have demonstrated an incessant and sometimes seemingly ironic trust in God. This demonstration of faith has been there for all the world to see as "the substance of things hoped for, and the evidence of things unseen.

sional community and the general public are negatively influenced by such words. One current school of thought in the helping professions is that many of the diagnostic categories which have been used to describe people with problems actually make treatment more difficult because these categories tend to inflict a hopeless attitude on everyone - the person, his family, his friends and the professional community. As a result, this particular school of treatment generally attempts to avoid the usual diagnostic labels. Increasingly, persons with mental health problems are being referred to as clients, rather than as patients. This choice of words also is quite important in determining how others react to the person with the problem. The term "patient" implies that there is a well-defined illness which is then treated by an expert with little active participation by the patient, other than to follow orders. The term client" suggests more participation by the person having the problem in his own therapy. Patients also tend to be thought of as sicker than clients. In the field of mental health problems, to be regarded as sick is often enough of a disadvantage, so as to make treatment much more difficult.

A family approach is often taken in the treatment of many mental health problems. Having used the term "mental health problem," it is easier to enlist the family's active participation in solving that problem since families are used to dealing with problems of all kinds on a daily basis. Since families are not seen as trained to treat illnesses, they are more likely to turn the ill "patient" over to experts, thereby removing themselves as perhaps the most important factors in the person's treatment.

The newer mental health terminology is not without some of its own problems, such as a lack of precision and it unfamiliarity to many. However, it does appear to offer hope for an improed approach to mental health care.

Galileo missed one, says astronomer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The famous astronomer Galileo apparently did not recognize a major planet when he saw it and thus missed out on adding the discovery to his list of

The 17th century genius, using one of his early telescopes, saw the planet Neptune without knowing what it was. This left actual discovery to scientists hundreds of years later, an astronomer said Monday

Charles T. Kowal of the California Institute of Technology said he reexamined records of Galileo's observations and calculated that the Italian physicist saw the planet at least two times while working in Florence.

Galileo saw Neptune on Dec. 28, 1612, and Jan. 28, 1613, but erroneously thought it was a "fixed star" even though he noted that it moved in relation to another star, Kowal reported to the National Science Foundation, which finances part of his work. This is 234 years before the distant planet formally was Galileo, the first to put the telescope to practical use, discovered that the moon was marked by valleys and mountains, and reflected light instead of generating its own. In also discovered the four major moons of Jupiter and noted the peculiar form of Saturn, which was later recognized as being caused by its rings.

"When he saw Neptune, he actually was looking for satellites of Jupiter," Kowal said in a telephone interview. "It's also somewhat surprising that there are only two observations. Neptune should have been seen for the entire month of January.

Neptune, second only to Pluto as the solar system's most outer planet, is 15 times more massive than the Earth. Very little is known about this cold, gaseous planet because of its distance from the sun -2.8 billion miles - and the fact that no spacecraft has ever visited it.

Few solar homes being constructed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Relatively few sun-powered homes are being built because solar homes aren't popular with buyers and home-builders don't like to experiment, Congress has been told.

There's little demand for the houses even though the federal government wants to offer various tax advantages for the homes as part of a national effort to reduce oil consumption, construction and government officials testified Monday to the House Ways and Means Committee.

The House panel is considering tax breaks for buildings or homes that use "passive" solar devices, such as south-facing windows that collect solar heat, dense wall materials such as adobe or masonry that retain the heat, and tanks of water or other liquids that store solar heat. Home-buyers are eligible for federal tax subsidies of up to $5,000 for installing solar equipment under existing law. But the panel is considering providing $2,000-per-unit tax credits to builders for installing the equipment in the first place.

President Carter proposed such a tax credit in April 1979 and "continues to support this approach," Assistant Energy Secretary Thomas E. Stelson told the committee.

Currently, Stelson said, builders haven't put up homes with passive solar systems "in any significant quantity" because they aren't familiar with the technolgy and "are unsure of the market for residences with passive solar systems."

Industry groups agreed. "Only 15 percent of builders are building passive solar homes because it is an additional and somewhat unknown risk," said Robert Peterson, a spokesman for the National Association of Home Builders.

The bill has already passed the Senate and has more than 100 cosponsors in the House.

S. David Freeman, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, told the panel that despite "efforts which show that passive solar homes are cost-effective over their life, the builders have little incentive to spend the extra money for them. Unfortunately, passive solar is not well known to the general public."

imports show big drop American oil

WASHINGTON (AP) - American oil imports dropped a record 37 percent last month from August 1979 levels, according to Energy Secretary Charles Duncan.

Duncan says the nation's imports last month averaged 5.2 million barrels a day, compared with an 8.3 million-barrel average during the same period last year, the Washington Star reported in a recent edition.

The American Petroleum Institute - whose figures differ slightly from those compiled by the Energy Department due to difference in the way imports are determined - reported earlier that last July's imports of crude oil and petroleum products were 25.3 percent lower than those for July 1979 and at the lowest level since tributed the continued decline in imports to the state of the economy, higher prices and conservation efforts, the Star reported.

And he predicted the decline would continue even after the recession ends as Americans buy ever more energyefficient cars, as utilities convert to fuels other than oil and as businesses and homeowners improve the energy efficiency of their factories and homes, the newspaper reported.

The Star also quoted Duncan as saying that net oil imports - total imports minus a small amount of exports - were down 19.3 percent.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Those born on this date are imaginative, loving and fond of change. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not let the chance remark of a young person cause needless worry. Leisure time may prove to be elusive right CANCER (June 21-July 22): Something special could arrive in today's mail. Be generous towards a deserving friend. Old ties may be more rewarding than new ones right now.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may be pondering a new course of action but having trouble in concentrating. Things should start going your way after a sudden schedule change. A meeting can provide essential answers to old questions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Those in charge may be keeping a close eye on productivity at place of employment. New methods may be time-consuming at first, but eventually they are shown to

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An interesting offer may be part of the day's plan. You could feel exhilarated by something that happens during lunch. Money affairs come to the fore, and chances for financial gain are excellent. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid becoming involved in a prolonged conversation with someone who will only upset you. A wonderful time can be had at a now, but work projects desmall party tonight. A newserve top priority. comer expresses admiration for your wit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take steps to correct a personal habit which annoys mate, partner, and accept a present without questioning the giver's motives. Someone who has been difficult in the past may try to make amends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Slow down, and review your priorities. Associate may be trying to put the cart before the horse where a business deal is concerned. A candid chat about objectives may be necessary

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Others are calling the shots today, and you would be wise to adopt a low profile for the moment. Remain calm, and refuse to be drawn into a direct confrontation. Others are only too eager to choose sides!

The Principle of Restricted Choice is much like an innkeeper who has two choices on his menu. If he keeps trying to push one, it is usually right to assume that he is almost out of the other. North-South reached a reasonable slam in fine style. After South showed a good hand with long hearts. North cue-bid in clubs to show a maximum no trump with good heart support. South and North traded two additional cue bids before South elected to try for the small

Declarer won the diamond opening lead in his hand and drew trumps in three rounds. Next came the ace of diamonds and three rounds of clubs, ending on the table. With the minor suits stripped, the scene was set for an end play, which was South's chief hope to avoid losing two spade tricks.

Declarer led a low spade from demmy and insegted

the jack. West won the king of spades and, since a minor suit return would surrender the contract via a ruff-andsluff, he continued with a low spade. Which spade should declarer call from dummy?

If you apply the Principle of Restricted Choice, you should play the eight. The theory is that if West held both the king and queen, he could equally well have won the first spade trick with the queen. Thus, the fact that he did not means that he is unlikely to hold the lady.

In fact, it is almost 2-to-1 in favor of playing East for the queen. There are twice as many combinations for West to hold either K-9-x (-x) or

Q-9-x-(-x) than specifically K-Q-x(-x).

If you play the percentages, the eight will fetch the queen from East. It is a simple matter to behead the lady with the ace and claim a wellplayed and well-bid slam.

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The disputes between Republicans and Democrats, big as they seem to be at election time, may not have a small percentage of the emotional content of issues that separate landlords and tenants.

And the biggest of these issues growing bigger by the day because of inflation, oil prices, politics, a housing shortage and a changing concept of who has rights to what - is rent control.

Militant tenants, claiming their rights to homes supersede the rights of owners to raise rents, have formed resistance groups throughout the country, and earlier this year a National Tenants Union was formed. Owners, claiming they no longer especially where heating bills are highest, have sought huge rent increases and, when stymied, have hurried to convert to cooperatives. The two groups, already scrapping in a thousand and one skirmishes, can operate buildings profitably, seem headed for a massive showdown that could, say representatives of both sides, result in a redefinition of private property rights.

Hopes of averting the showdown are limited by the hard realities, one of which is the growing shortage of housing units. Frustrated by tight money, small builders have almost ceased activities in some areas. And apartment house builders claim mortgage rates prohibit construc-

Even if housing starts rose sharply, various housing officials say, millions of potential homebuyers, making a median income of close to $20,000, would be unable to afford the $60,000 to $70,000 price tags.

Demographics add to the problem. Close to 40 million Americans will reach age 30, a typical homebuying age, in the decade of the 1980s. A shortage is likely even if housing starts double to 2 million a year.

As the situation becomes critical, the issues have become politicized, especially in regard to rent control. Aware of a large and growing constituency, candidates and officeholders have stirred up activity.

Once restricted to urban areas, rent control legislation now has invaded even small communities, and it seems destined to spread from multifamily apartment houses to buildings of only a few rental units.

Ironically, because of these fears, some large investors now list the political climate as the No. 1 investment issue, more important even than the availability or the price of construc-

In San Mateo, Calif., for example, the Robert E. McNeil Corp., one of the nation's most active real estate syndicators, controlling about $800 million of property, has detailed political files of major cities.

The files contain not only information on whether rent control exists, but whether it is likely to spread in the future. Just the threat, says Allen Cymrot, president, is enough to cancel a potential purchase. And in New York, where "temporary" or "emergency" rent controls have existed since 1943, some large builders avoid the city as a disease, and landlords have abandoned thousands of buildings. The result of abandonment and minimal construction, of course, is to exacerbate an already serious shortage of housing.

Worse, the situation seems to have hardened the opposite viewpoints of tenants and landlord, and set them on a confrontation course.

Forced to rent when they would prefer to own, if they could afford to and if units were available, many young Americans feel they have been denied a birthright. Perhaps as a result, they seem inclined to call an apartment "mine," despite the landlord's legal ownership.

Outraged, landlords in many areas have sought to sell, and when unable to do so have hurried to convert buildings to coops and condominiums — just a step ahead of laws that would prevent them from doing so.

Noting the growth of tenant groups and the advocacy of rent controls even in small communities, they formed the Rental Housing Industry Coalition in 1979 to demonstrate that controls are a "non-solution."

For one thing, they would like to prove that a major reason for the housing shortage is the very presence of rent controls.

But, with millions of young Americans frustrated by their inability to find suitable housing at what they consider an affordable price, the constituency for rent controls seems to be

And so does the notion that while a person is a renter rather than an owner, he has more claim on his apartment than the limited rights that are detailed in his lease.

The three new top executives all took their present jobs in December 1974 when Murphy and Estes took over the leadership.

Smith and McDonald had long been the leading contenders for the two top jobs, with Kehrl given only a darkhorse chance to succeed Estes.

Smith, slightly younger than recent GM chairmen when they were selected, spent his entire career before 1974 in finance positions. All recent GM chairmen have been finance special-

Fort Chaffee prepares for other refugees

By STEVE BREWER Associated Press Writer

FORT CHAFFEE, Ark. (AP) - Raul Garcia Moreno hates the fence that wraps around his home.

Moreno and other refugees at the Fort Chaffee relocation center blame the new fence on the refugees that soon will arrive from three other centers. "It was like I was in prison for 21 years when I was in Cuba," Moreno said through an interpreter. "Now I am here in another prison. It's like a concentration

The 10-foot chain link fence, topped with three feet of concertina wire, is part of a security plan formulated to deal with the refugees coming to Chaffee from bases in Florida, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania

- as many as 8,000 new Cubans. "I don't want them to come here because they are troublemakers," said Moreno, 25. "They will slow down the process.

"There is fear among the people," said barracks chief Jose Gonzalez. "They want the priority for the people already here. It is a big problem for the people here."

Despite the new precautions, some officials believe there may well be problems within the fence-ringed compound

'Any trouble that we might have will be because we don't put enough emphasis on recreation, teaching, communication and being among the refugees, said Glen Wyman, program administrator for the State Department. "Unless we get more priority put on those things, we're going to have a problem.

"These people are tired of being pushed around," Wyman said. "We're not dealing with cattle or sacks of flour here, we're dealing with people."

The first group of refugees — more than 700 — will arrive from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., within 48 hours after Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton approves a security plan drawn up by base officials. Wyman said the base is ready for those refugees, but preparations for others to come later this month and in October are shakier. He said a group of officials from Eglin will accompany the refugees to Chaffee so that "familiar faces" will be on the scene.

He said the refugees will be assigned their barracks as quickly as possible and allowed to mix with the 3,000 refugees alreay at Chaffee. "We're going to try to get them to get together," he said.

Sections of the camp are also being fenced off to separate families, single men, minors and troublemakers. That action is aimed at preventing the kind of bullying that has occurred at other camps.

'We're trying to set this camp up to make it as welcome and ready for the new people as possible," But he admits the arrival of the refugees from Fort

McCoy, Wis., and Fort Indiantown Gap, Pa., could be tumultuous if proper precautions aren't taken. 'They're supposed to remove the youths, remove the people that are mentally unbalanced and remove the troublemakers before they get to Chaffee," he Despite the plan, Wyman said he is sure a number of refugees who should have been separated from the general population will arrive at Chaffee. All the refugees arriving at Chaffee will get new identification badges, color-coded for the areas to which they will be confined. Known troublemakers assigned to the stockade area, for example, will be given brown badges; single males will have blue The refugees at Chaffee were issued the new badges last week. The preparations for the arrival of the new refugees has slowed the already beleaguered process of matching Cubans with sponsors. "We're gearing up again," said Tevera Triplet of World Church Services, a volunteer agency that is helping relocate the refugees.

"Sponsorship is starting to build up again," she said, "but these refugees are harder to relocate because most of them are single males. About 16,000 of the original 19,000 refugees at Chaffee have been relocated, but she said most of those had relatives in the United States Dave Herman, assistant director of the United States Catholic Conference's refugee program at Chaffee, described the processing as "slow, but steady

Herman said his agency has prepared a new form for the refugees because they are harder to place. On the form, the refugees list their skills and education and give a self-analysis of sorts.

He said the forms should help the agency battle bad publicity, which he said has hurt the drive for sponsorship.

'It's not fair to say these guys are hard-core criminals," Herman said. "For some of these guys, their only problem is that they have no family in the

Syria, Libya merge, pledge to fight against Israel

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - Syria and Libya today proclaimed the merger of their two countries into an 11 million strong Arab state pledged to renewing the fight against Israel and "liberating" all of Palestine

There was no immediate reaction from Israel, whose 3.5 million Jews were preparing for the holiest season in the Jewish calendar, beginning tonight with Rosh Hashana, the New Year's holiday, and ending Sept. 20 with Yom Kippur, the solemn Day of

Damascus Radio broadcast a joint communique saying Syrian President Hafez Assad and Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy agreed to form a unified government for the merged nations

A "Revolutionary Congress" will assume legislative powers in the unified state which will have a single international entity, according to the communique came only hours after Assad returned to Damascus from a two-day visit to Tripoli for talks with "The two leaderships have agreed to proclaim the two countries a unified state and to bring about a total economic, political and military merger," the communique said.

"The unified state will have the democratic institutions that will ensure that power will be in the hands of the people," it added The statement said Syrian and Libyan leaders will meet again within a month to complete the physical structure of the new

It did not say who will be the president of the new nation, nor what it will be called. Informed sources said there will probably be a joint presiding council that will be headed by Assad and Khadafy on a rotating basis. The communique listed 13 points it said comprised the "historic manifesto" of the fledgling state.

One point pledged the new nation to be the "tool of confrontation with the Zionist presence (Israel) and of the liberation of Palestine." A second pledged opp sition to the U.S. sponsored Camp David peace process that led to the signing of an historic peace treaty between Israel and Egypt in 1979.

The merger is expected to utilize Libya's estimated $35 billion a year oil income to finance a massive upgrading of Syria's military machine.

The new state would have a combined military force totalling 242,000 men supported by 4,600 Soviet-made tanks and 590 combat aircraft, including some of the most sophisticated aircraft produced by the Soviet Union and France.

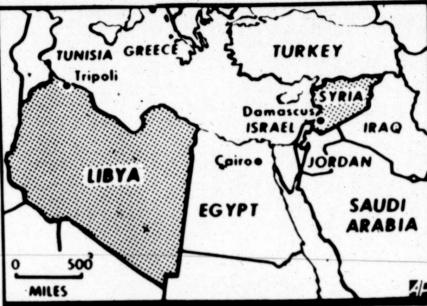

Israel fields an army of 400,000 in time of war supported by 3,050 American-made tanks and 576 combat aircraft, including the F-15, one of the top warplanes in the U.S. arsenal.

Khadafy proposed merging his oil-rich North African nation with Syria last week to build a united front for a new offensive against Israel. Syria presumably would be the base for such an offensive since it shares a border with the Jewish state.

Assad arrived in Tripoli Monday to a welcome by thousands of Libyans shouting "unity, unity." He and Assad held extensive discussions on the merger plan, the official Syrian news agency

The agency also reported that Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam left for the Saudi Arabian capital of Riyadh, the first stop on a tour of six Arab capitals where he will explain the

Some observers have expressed skepticism about the chances for success of the merger, noting that the two nations are 800 miles apart, Libya has never supplied troops to fight Israel, and earlier plans by Khadafy to merge with Syria, Egypt and Tunisia ended in

Tuesday and pledged to renew the fight against Israel. (AP Laserphoto Map)

Iraqi sues Khomeini for rent, utilities

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - An Iraqi landlord has sued Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for about $3,500, claiming the Shiite moslem patriarch failed to pay rent and utility bills for the home he used during his 15-year exile in Iraq, the Baghdad Observer reported today. The English-language Iraqi government newspaper said the suit was filed by Mohammed Ghazi Sharba of Iraq's Najaf province against "the Persian ruler Khomeini, a current resident of Qom, Iran."

The paper said the landlord was claiming rent, unpaid water, electricity and telephone bills and compensation for the house's depreciation during Khomeini's stay. It said a warrant containing the claims is being Khomeini lived in Najaf from 1963 to 1978, when he went to Paris to step up his successful campaign to topple the Shah of Iran. The founder of the Shiite branch of Islam, Imam Ali, is buried in Najaf.

Iraq and Iran, neighboring Persian Gulf nations, have been enemies since Khomeini called on Iraq's Shiites last year to overthrow the Socialist government of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Their border war has been escalating, with Iran claiming four Iraqi and one Iranian aircraft were shot down since Sunday.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - The two feuding military members of El Salvador's civilianmilitary junta have patched up their differences, the government said. Meanwhile, 23 more political killings were reported The agreement reported between President Carlos Humberto Romero 11 months ago and after adding three civilians to their junta launched a program of social reforms to try to war off a leftist uprising against the rightists who have controlled the little Central American country for years.

The colonels' coup made little difference in the military command structure, and the other military leaders decided Majano was too liberal for them. Two months ago they voted to transfer control of the military from him to Gutierrez.

Gutierrez on Sept. 1 ordered the reassignment of officers loyal to Majano. Majano countermanded the order, but Gutierrez won the backing of the junta's three civilian members, and on Tuesday a government spokesman said Majano accepted the

Neither colonel was available for comment

Meanwhile, a military spokesman reported guerrillas of the leftist Popular Liberation Front (FPL) took 18 policemen from their homes in the town of San Pedro Perulapan, 24 miles southeast of San Salvador, Monday night and murdered them.

The bodies of five young women were found San Salvador Tuesday. All had the letters "FPL" painted on them, and police speculated they were killed by ultra-rightists.

The FPL and other leftist organizations are waging a campaign of terrorism and guerrilla attacks to try to oust the junta because they want a leftist revolutionary government. The army, the police and ultra-right-wing terrorists are fighting back. Human rights organizations estimate more than 6,000 persons have been killed in the political violence this year.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - W. Maxey Jarman, former chairman of Genesco Inc., who turned his father's Jarman Shoe Co., into one of the world's largest apparel conglomerates, has died of heart failure at the Jarman, who died Tuesday, had been in Nashville's Baptist Hospital since mid-July.

Trained as an electrical engineer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Jarman went to work as a freight-receiving clerk in 1924 for Jar-man Shoe, founded seven years earlier by his father, James Franklin

After his father died in 1938, Jarman moved from president to chairman of the board, making arrangements for Jarman Shoe to become General Shoe Corp., with its stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange

By the mid 1950s, General Shoe branched into men's, women's and children's apparel, was renamed Genesco Inc. and acquired such New York retail fashion outlets as Tif-fany's and Bonwit Teller. At its peak in 1968, Genesco recorded more than $1 billion in sales.

But by the 1970s, sales plummeted and the company sold off its unprofitable operations.

Survivors include his wife, Sarah; a son, Franklin of Nashville; two daughters, Anne Taylor of Falls Church, Va., and Eugenia Elliott of Nashville and seven grandchildren

Unlikely cities heat up AL East race

By The Associated Press

The race in the American League East that seemed so cool only a few days ago, heated up again Tuesday night in the unlikely cities of Detroit

Scott McGregor, continuing his mastery over the Tigers, fired a three-hitter as the Baltimore Orioles beat Detroit 2-0 and moved within three games of the division-leading New York Yankees, who were in the process of dropping a 6-4 decision to the Blue Jays at Toronto.

Doug DeCinces belted a home run and doubled and scored the other run on Lee May's pinch sacrifice fly, while McGregor, 17-7, flirted with a no-hitter until Dave Stegman and Jim Lentine both singled in the sixth. The only other hit was a two-out single by John Wockenfuss in the ninth.

"I guess I'm not a no-hit type of pitcher, McGregor said with a shrug. "I depend on my defense a lot. I've got guys diving all over the Angels 4, Royals 3 Dan Ford slammed his seventh homer of the year and Frank Tanana gained the victory with one inning of relief help from Mark Clear. Tanana, 8-10, beat the Royals for only the fifth time in 17 career decisions, while Clear picked up his ninth save.

Despite the loss, however, the Royals saw their magic number in the American League West reduced to seven over the second-place Rangers. Kansas City played without George Brett for the third consecutive game and now is 19-19 in games without the .396 hitter in the lineup.

A's 6, Rangers 3 Mitchell Page slugged a pair of homers and Matt Keough, 2-17 a year ago, raised his current record to 15-12. Keough beat the Rangers for the first time after losing seven straight to them. However, he left in the eighth with a sore back, and Jeff Jones, the A's second reliever, earned his fifth Page keyed a four-run fourth with a solo homer, his 13th, and added a two-run shot in the seventh to give the A's a 6-0 lead. Al Oliver hit his 17th homer in the eighth for the first Texas run and Jim Sundberg added a tworun double for the Rangers.

Mickey Rivers, with two hits, extended his hitting streak to 24 games for the Rangers, while Oliver has hit in 21 in a row.

Twins 15, Brewers 2 Minnesota exploded for 22 hits and scored six runs in both the fourth and sixth innings to give pitcher Al Williams, 3-2, an easy victory. Roy Smalley led the attack with four singles and two runs batted in and Ron Jackson knocked in three runs with a pinch

Williams held the Brewers hitless until Ben Oglivie tripled in the fifth. Oglivie eventually scored on a groundout, but Williams finished with a six-hitter. Mariners 4, White Sox 1 Rick Honeycutt and Byron McLaughlin combined on a seven-hitter for the Mariners. Honeycutt, 9-15, worked 51/3 innings, giving up the Chicago run on Chet Lemon's ninth homer before giving way to McLaughlin.

The Mariners scored single runs in the second, third, fourth and sixth off White Sox starter Ross Baumgarten, 2-10. Larry Milbourne moved the first run into scoring position with a single and walked and scored twice.

Astros cut lead as LA falls apart

By The Associated Press

You really have to hand it to the Houston Astros - the Los Angeles Dodgers did Tuesday night.

That's a bit unusual for us," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda after watching his error-plagued team fumble away a 5-4 decision to the

The Dodgers made six errors — one shy of the team record — in the nationally-televised game at the Astrodome. The shoddy performance cut the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to one game over the

"They have played so well for so long, I think it finally caught up with them," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon about the Dodgers. "It was almost a necessity that we win at least one of these games. Now they can't leave here with more than a two-game lead."

Joaquin Andujar, who often complains of being in Virdon's doghouse, pitched 62-3 outstanding innings for the Astros.

"I just don't worry about it," Andujar said of his relationship with Virdon. "I don't argue with anybody. I just do my job and try to be ready to

Art Howe was the hitting star for Houston, driving in two runs, including a game-winning sacrifice fly in the seventh inning. Howe's sacrifice fly came after the Astros had loaded the bases off Steve Howe on a walk to

Joe Morgan, an error by first baseman Steve Garvey that put men at second and third and an intentional walk to Cesar Cedeno Howe then flied to Jay Johnstone in shallow right, but Morgan tagged up and slid home safely for a 4-3 Houston lead. The Astros scored another run in the seventh on Gary Woods' RBI-single. Los Angeles had tied the game 3-3 in the top of the seventh on an RBI-dou-ble by Derrel Thomas and a two-run single by pinch hitter Gary Thomas-

Phillies 5, Pirates 4 Bob Boone's 14th-inning squeeze bunt scored Gary Maddox from third base to lift Philadelphia over Pittsburgh. Maddox opened the 14th with his second double of the game and advanced to third on a groundout by

The Pirates elected to pitch to Boone, who dropped a bunt in front of relief pitcher Mark Lee and Maddox scored easily as Lee picked up the ball and threw it past catcher Ed Ott.

The winner in the 3-hour, 24-minute game was Warren Brusstar, 2-0, the fourth Phillies pitcher. Lee, the seventh pitcher to work for the Pirates, lost his first and only decision. Reds 7, Braves 1 Ken Griffey broke a tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning and right-hander Mario Soto scattered seven hits and struck out a career-high 15 batters as Cincinnati defeated Atlanta. Soto improved his record to 9-5, as the Reds beat the Braves for the 13th time in 14 games this season.

The score was tied 1-1 when Ron Oester led off the Cincinnati sixth with a single against Atlanta starter Tommy Boggs, 9-9. After Soto sacrificed Oester to second and Dave Collins drew the game's first walk, Griffey sent a drive over the center field fence for his 10th homer.

"From the first inning to the fifth, I was throwing my fastball almost all the time," said Soto. "Then I started throwing my changeup."

Warren Cromartie hit a leadoff home run and Ron LeFlore added a two-run triple in a seven-inning rally that carried Montreal over New York in the rain-delayed first game of a doubleheader.

The second game could not be closed.

The second game could not be played because of the Mets' travel plans. The teams had agreed to a 12:30 a.m. curfew after a steady rain delayed the start of the doubleheader for 3 hours and 42 minutes.

Steve Rogers, 14-10, scattered five hits to notch his 100th career victory, becoming the first Expos hurler to do so, and his recorded fourth shutout of Tony Scott singled home the tie-breaking run during a four-run rally in the fifth inning and Ted Simmons drove in two runs, powering St. Louis over Chicago.

St. Louis right-hander Silvio Martinez, 5-9, posted his first victory in six decisions, scattering six Chicago hits through the first six innings. Veteran Jim Kaat, John Urrea and Kim Seaman pitched the final three innings in relief of Martinez. Padres 12, Giants 5

Gene Tenace stroked two homers and newcomer Randy Bass also homered, powering San Diego over San Francisco.

Scott Laidlaw throws parting shots at Dallas

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Western-style snakeskin boots are about as close as fullback Scott Laidlaw comes to being a Cowboy these days, and that leaves his six-shooting barbs smoking. Far from his 240-acre farm in the Lone Star State, Laidlaw was signed by the New York Giants on Monday after he was cut by the Dallas Cow-boys, with whom he spent five National Football League seasons.

Whereas some players accept getting waived as an occupational hazard, Laidlaw's anger this week was as sweeping as the Texas landscape.

"I don't think I was ever given a shot in Dallas. I think it was pretty much predetermined," he said. "I was phased out." "I was told I played very well in the Green Bay game and that I excelled in training camp," he complained.

It's obvious Laidlaw hasn't forgotten about the Cowboys, and he's hinted he might even like a taste of sweet revenge when his former team host the Giants on Oct. 5. "I'm already looking forward to it.

Dallas has given the Giants a bit of fuel emotionally," Laidlaw said, sit-ting near those knee-high boots and faded black jeans in his almost empty

Laidlaw, who played college ball at Stanford, will be joining the Giants special teams until a space is found for him in the backfield, said Giants Coach Ray Perkins.

At Dallas, Laidlaw rushed for 997 yards and caught 72 passes in five seasons. Laidlaw frequently was hampered by injuries at Dallas, and he underwent two knee operations, missed action with bruised ribs and suffered hamstring pulls.

Midland High gives Andrews Mustangs reason to care After having seen Midland High's awesome 27-7 win over Amarillo Tascosa last Friday, I was left with the opinion that the Bulldogs need only major improvement in two areas. First, but maybe not foremost, is that the Purple Pack must learn to make an entrance onto the playing TERRY field in an upright position. Second, and probably foremost, quotes like, "We are going to kick their tails," should be used only in past tense from this point on. Isn't that supposed to be a great football

So first, I guess we had better deal with the second. By now, everyone in Midland is aware of coach Pat Culpepper's statement of, "We are going to kick their tails," in a preseason pep rally at Memorial Stadium while referring to Midland High's first two games with Tascosa and this week's home debut with the Andrews Mustangs.

Well, the statement didn't cause a stir in Amarillo because Big Brother's ears couldn't hear from that far away. After all, if Amarillo was to the east of Midland, you would have to travel across a couple of time

But Andrews is only 40 or so miles away and you can bet that the old pin board in the Mustang lockerroom is filled with reminders of that state"Kick whose tail?" was the comment of one upset Andrews fan who called this week. He went on to say, "Midland High better look at who they are playing before they start talking like a bunch of babbling idiots over there. Andrews isn't going to lay down and die for anybody. They must think they are something special because they are in that big district, but how many championships have they won recently?"

At the very best, Culpepper's choice of words was unfortunate, but it is not hard to see how it all came about. First, Culpepper made the statement at a pep rally for local fan consumption. It probably never entered his mind that it would see the light of print. Second, he said it for the benefit of his team. From the beginning, Culpepper has been disturbed by the fact that Midland High has not been able to win with regularity. Many local fans have told him that MHS couldn't win in the past because the athletes never believed before that they could win. His foremost concern when he took on the MHS job this winter has been to change that attitude

Culpepper recently said, "The kids here need to know that they can win. That's why these first few games are so important to us. I'm excited about this year, but if I'm not, then the kids won't be either. They need some positive things to happen to them."

Anyway, the pressure is on the Bulldogs Friday against Andrews. MHS has put some of the pressure on themselves. After all, Andrews is a team that scored five times against Midland Lee in a scrimmage two weeks ago. And AHS is a team favored to win a very tough AAAA district this year.

The Bulldogs, however, could very well back up their statement. They didn't skip a beat against Tascosa. Jerry Zachery has potential to become one of the best MHS runners in a long while and fullback Scott Yocham was amazing, rushing for 99 yards on his first two carries of the season. Quarterback Michael Feldt is supposed to be the star of this crew, but against Tascosa all he had to do was hand the ball off. He hasn't even shown his stuff yet, and some opponent is going to have to catch his explosion sooner or later.

And that offensive line - Hank McClung, David Vinson, Joe Goebel, Wade Johnson, Scott Ballew and Richard Barton - is one of the best I've seen in a long while. MHS hasn't had holes to run through like that in

But now we have come back to problem No. 1. No less than 10 Bulldogs fell down while running down the northern slope of Dick Bivins Stadium Friday as they entered the playing field. No one for Tascosa fell down, and that might have been Tascosa's only real victory of the

I've never seen such fire in the eyes of a Midland High team before a game as I did in Amarillo. They were so fired up prior to kickoff that they probably couldn't see where they were going in the first place. That in itself seems to be a marked change for MHS. They were not nervous, but they just couldn't wait to play a game.

But 'Dogs, it looks bad when 10 guys fall on their faces before the opening whistle. Maybe you had better save the excitement for the kickoff this week because Andrews is coming to town and they aren't too happy with you guys right now.

Yeoman shudders as opener nears

HOUSTON (AP) - Thumbing through his memory to past season openers, Houston Coach Bill Yeoman remembers some pleasant moments but returning to Tempe, Ariz. for Saturday's 1980 opener against Arizona State brings only a shudder. The Cougars opened the 1974 season with an unimpressive 30-9 loss en route to an eventual 8-3-1 record. Yeoman recalls that trip today with a smile but it wasn't amusing at the

Yeoman wouldn't call the team lackadaisical prior to the game, just sleepy.

"There was a two-hour time difference and I guess that bothered some of them," Yeoman said. "I actually had to wake a couple of players up on the bus ride to the stadium. I told them to at least wait until the game

After the game, however, Yeoman became more impressed with the bus ride, he said.

"Heck, the bus ride to the stadium was the best drive we had all night,' Yeoman quipped.

Yeoman has more reason to be light-hearted prior to this year's sea-

Distance races set

The West Texas Running Club will hold its September race Saturday at Odessa's Floyd Gwin Park, W 10th and County Road. Six and three mile runs are scheduled for age groups ranging from 15-and-under to 50-and-

Entry fee for club members is $1 and non-club members is $2. Contact Tom Bowser, 815 W. Murphy, Odes-

The Cougars return to the state where Yeoman grew up with three Southwest Conference championships in four years under their belts and a favorite to make it four out of five. Houston holds the No. 9 rank in The Associated Press college football

The Cougars must replace key secondary losses but the defense is expected to be improved and will certainly be anchored by monster defensive tackles Hosea Taylor and Leonard Mitchell.

The offense will be led by a new starting quarterback, Terry Elston, but it was Elston who came off the bench to engineer four comeback victories last year. Running back Terald Clark, a 1,000-yard rusher as a junior, also returns.

"I think the kids really want to do well in the opener," Yeoman said. "People here talk about the quality of football in the Southwest Conference so when they go outside the conference they want to prove them-

But Yeoman can't forget that September day in 1974 when he thought the Cougars also wanted to win. They got two quick scores on us and it was all over," Yeoman said. Houston was held scoreless in the first half and didn't scored until Donnie McGraw ran four yards in the third period. By that time, the Sun Devils had scored on a 69 yard run, a 17-yard interception return and a 25 yard fumble return. The most pleasant opener in Yeoman's memory was the 1976 game against the Baylor Bears in Waco, Houston's first game as a full fledged thrashed 41-20. Ferragamo didn't see action until the last minute of the game, after Haden broke a finger.

The backup signal-caller missed practice Monday even though the Rams must go against Tampa Bay on Thursday night, meeting the same team they beat in the National Football Conference championship game

Ferragamo says he makes less than $75,000, which is well below the standard for a fourth-year National Football League quarterback. But the Rams have made no concessions, although he is in the option year of his contract and could become a free agent after this season.

"I didn't feel like I was a prima donna," said Ferragamo, "and I think the players respected my stand. I'm back to play and I'm going to be staying."

Ferragamo said Malavasi told him, "Ok, you're going to be the guy now and if you do well, it would be difficult to make a change.

This, said Ferragamo, is different from a year ago, when it was apparent Haden was No. 1,.

Ferragamo's attorney, Paul Caruso, said conversations would continue with the Rams in an effort to better his client's situation.

The Rams, who signed veteran Bob Lee last year when Haden was hurt, have him in camp again. He hasn't been officially signed and can't play against Tampa Bay. But it appears the club will add him to the roster, since behind Ferragamo they have only second-year pro Jeff Rutledge, who threw only 32 passes last year.

Haden is out for at least four weeks, which gives Ferragamo his playing and negotiating chance.

"The coaching staff has a lot of confidence in him," Malavasi said of his quarterback. "I think Ferragamo got bad advice to hold out. I think his teammates are glad that he is

After the one-sided loss to Detroit, Malavasi observed, "We were not a well-coordinated team. We used the holdouts (with less than a week's practice) because we thought that they could do the job.'

MLPA files grievance for Ferguson Jenkins

NEW YORK (AP) — The Major League Players Association filed a grievance on behalf of suspended Texas Rangers pitcher Ferguson Jenkins Tuesday, but it's uncertain whether the move will pave the way for the Cy Young award winner to return to action this year.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ordered Jenkins to sit out the remainder of the season Monday for failing to cooperate with baseball's investigation of the pitcher's arrest on drug charges.

Less than 24 hours later, Players Association counsel Don Fehr filed the grievance, adding the union would seek a hearing on the matter by next

But that's where the matter comes to a halt.

Bob Wirz, a spokesman for Kuhn, said the commissioner did not receive a copy of the grievance Tuesday. He added that a statement might be issued Wednesday by the commissioner or by Ray Grebey, the director of the Player Relations office.

Raymond Goetz, the University of Kansas law professor who serves as baseball's impartial arbitrator, said it was up to the parties involved to determine how quickly the grievance will be heard. "I really don't know when it will be heard," Goetz said in a telephone interview. "It's up to the parties involved to determine that. They are in control.

Jenkins was not available to comment on the grievance action.

With less than a month left in the regular season, the Players Association will seek a speedy resolution of the problem

Marvin Miller, the executive director of the association, said the union would request "immediate processing of the grievance." He also accused Kuhn of violating Jenkins' constitutional rights.

Jenkins was arrested by Canadian authorities Aug. 25 when small amounts of cocaine, marijuana and hashish were found in his luggage as he was traveling with the Rangers for a series in Toronto. He was released pending a Dec. 18 trial.

Taveras gets suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets shortstop Frank Taveras was suspended for two games and fined $300 by National League President Chub Feeney Tuesday as the result of a pushing incident during a game in Los Angeles last week involving umpire Dutch Rennert, the league said. Taveras has appealed the suspension to Feeney and was in the Mets' lineup for the first game of their twinight doubleheader at Montreal Tuesday. The pushing incident was in last Wednesday's Mets-Dodgers game. It arose when Taveras attempted to steal third and he was called out by Rennert after apparently oversliding the base. Angered by the call, Taveras leaped off the ground and brushed Rennert, who immediately threw him out of "I don't think I deserve the suspension, not even the fine," Taveras said. "I jumped up and didn't mean to touch him. Besides Ron Cey (the Dodgers third baseman) pushed me off the bag." Feeney, who announced the suspension after viewing films of the incident, will probably hear Taveras appeal next week.

Tigers will have enough coaches

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

In the 1980 Clemson football brochure, on the page with staff telephone numbers, right between Fred Hoover, Head Trainer, and I.M. Ibrahim, Head Soccer Coach, you can find the listing for "Frank Howard, Leg-

Howard, who guided the Clemson Tigers to a 165-118-12 mark in 30 years as head coach from 1940-69, became a legend by doing things like seconding his own nomination to succeed Jess Neely in 1940.

Howard, who is now something-orother emeritus at Clemson, will be on hand Saturday for the Tigers' opener against Rice. So will Neely, Bob Jones and Joe Davis. Those four formed the Clemson coaching staff in 1931, Neely's first season at the helm, and they will be honored Saturday.

As close as anyone can figure, they have 162 years of coaching to their credit. And that doesn't count the 13 since Neely, now 81, retired from Rice and turned to coaching the golf team at Vanderbilt.

Davis is 77, Howard and Jones 72. Adding Neely's 81, that's 302 years. The quartet stayed together at Clemson from 1931 through 1939 when Neely took the head job at Rice and Davis went with him. Jones remained at Clemson with Howard.

Neely had four years as head coach at Southwestern in Memphis, was an assistant at Alabama for three and head man for nine at Clemson and 27 at Rice. That, plus 13 as Vanderbilt's golf coach, gives him 56 years of coaching.

Howard spent nine years as an assistant under Neely and 30 years as head coach. Jones was an aide under Josh Cody at Clemson in 1930, nine years under Neely and 30 under Howard. After he retired, Jones coached the Clemson golf team for four years. He also coached the boxing and golf teams under Neely and Howard.

While at Clemson, Neely also coached the baseball team. Howard was track coach under Neely and Davis coached the basketball team. Davis also coached the Rice basketball team during World War II.

Neely and Davis, who played for him at Southwestern, were together for 36 years, Howard and Jones 39 years. Jones and Davis live in Clemson and Houston, respectively. You'll never see a walk-on on any of Muddy Waters' teams. It's not that Michigan State's new coach doesn't believe in them, he just calls nonscholarship athletes who try out by a different name.

"We refer to the youngsters who come out for the team without aid as 'run-ons,' not 'walk-ons,'" says Waters. "A cardinal rule of my team is that you never walk anywhere on the field. You always run. North Carolina State freshman linebacker Sam Grooms of Richmond, Va., would delight any coach's

The Big Sky Conference includes some of the most beautiful scenery in the United States. Here's information director Arnie Sgalio describing the league's recent Skywriters' tour:

'The first stop is Ogden, Utah, the home of Weber State College, at the foot of the Wasatch Range and in the heart of the Golden Spike Empire. Next stop is Pocatello, Idaho, and Idaho State University, located where the majestic Grand Teton Mountains and Yellowstone National Park are

'The Bridger Mountains form a colorful backdrop for Bozeman, Mont., and Montana State University, which is also located just miles from Yellowstone Park. Missoula, Mont., home of the University of Montana, features another beautiful setting among the Mission Mountain Range and the gateway to Glacier National

"The tour continues to Moscow, Idaho, in the heart of the Palouse Country and the agriculturally rich rolling hills of northern Idaho, where we'll visit the University of Idaho. Boise, the Gem State's capital city, is our next stop where the tour will view Boise State University. From Boise, the Skywriters move on to Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff. which is just 80 miles from the Grand Canyon's scenic beauty. The tour's final stop is the University of Nevada in Reno, which is sometimes called 'The Biggest Little City in the

Alabama's 22-game winning streak is the longest in the nation and Southern Cal's 20-game unbeaten string is second in that category. Do you know which school is third? You're right if you said Central Michigan, which hasn't lost in its last 19 outings and got under way with a 17-14 triumph over

The Chippewas have the fourth-best winning percentage in major college football over the last five seasons. Alabama is No. 1 with 54-6-0-.900. Then comes Oklahoma, 52-7-1-.875, and Southern Cal, 50-10-1-.828. Central Michigan is 44-9-2-.818.

CMU also ranks third in total defense among Division I-A schools over the past five years. The Chippewas' yield of 237.3 yards per game is bettered only by Yale (229.8) and Alabama (235.8).

The Georgia Bulldogs will change from red to silver britches for home

Lee MacPhail thinks owners will nix sale of White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) - American League President Lee MacPhail says it is his "considered opinion" that league club owners will not approve sale of the Chicago White Sox to multimillionaire Edward J. DeBartolo

MacPhail says he thinks it unlikely the Youngstown, Ohio, shopping-center magnate will be able to sway the thinking of five AL club owners who oppose the sale.

"I told the White Sox on many occasions I did not think he (DeBartolo) would be approved," MacPhail also said in a telephone interview from his New York office with the Chicago Sun-Times.

"I wouldn't have told them what I did if there wasn't serious opposition," he said.

MacPhail was referring to a private meeting in Pittsburgh last Friday called by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and attended by Kuhn, MacPhail, DeBartolo and Andrew McKenna, acting chairman of the White Sox board of directors.

According to a weekend story in the Chicago Tribune, MacPhail and Kuhn advised McKenna at the meeting that the Sox should not sell the club to DeBartolo because they said the sale would not be approved by the required 10 of the league's 14 teams.

But at an emergency meeting Sun-day night, the 12 White Sox directors voted unanimously, as they had Aug. 22, to sell the club to DeBartolo for $20

Bears find losing tough

CHICAGO (AP) — "I have no explanation that I can live with," Coach Neill Armstrong said Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' weekly news conference. "The first game of the year is the toughest."

Armstrong was discussing the 12-6 overtime loss to Green Bay Sunday when tackle Alan Page blocked a field goal attempt which kicker Chester Marcol recovered and returned 25 yards for a touchdown and a sudden-death victory.

"I said it was a game we should have won and I'll say it again," said Armstrong. "But I'm not an expert at picking games. People sit down and figure which teams should win which games and by how many points.

"But it doesn't work that way," lamented Armstrong. "There's not that much difference in the teams in this league unless one team has a lot of injuries. Some teams match up well against other teams and we've had trouble scoring against Green

Even if we didn't score, I still feel we have a good team," said Armstrong. "We played a team with everything to gain and nothing to lose. A lot of times when you have turmoil on a team that's when you play your best."

Armstrong agreed "They beat us on a fluke play but we were beaten before that play because we should have won the game earlier. We have to remember the dumb penalties we made but not be overcautious to the point of not being aggressive.'

Armstrong insisted the Bears were not conservative when they kept the ball on the ground in the closing moments of regulation play instead of trying to pass themselves within field goal range.

We were not conservative, it just happened that way," said Armstrong, indicating the Bears might have been wary of throwing the ball since Mike Phipps had been intercepted three times.

We can't dwell on Green Bay," said Armstrong. We have to get ready for New Orleans. They have a fine offensive team and in Archie Manning they have quarterback who can pass for 300 y..rds.

"They have a lot of big play people, we are going to have to put points on the board," said Armstrong. "It will not be easy keeping New Orleans off the board. Not with runners like Chuck Muncie and Tony Galbreath and tight end Henry Childs.

'I'm disgusted and disappointed over the Green Bay loss but we cannot live in the past," said Armstrong.

If you don't have a Survival Kit you're paying too much tax.

Taxes do more than just hurt. They cripple the growth of your savings. They make it impossible to plan your financial future or your retirement with any degree of certainty. The Survival Kit defers state and federal income taxes on your savings interest. So your interest remains in place to earn more interest. Savings growth increases dramatically. Depending on your tax bracket, your savings can grow twice as fast. Or even faster. With your own Survival Kit, you can defer taxes on the interest earned by all your long-term savings. Even if those savings are held in other institutions. Look at the chart to see how much more effectively you can plan your financial future or your retirement years, with a Survival Kit

The Survival Kit can offer you this lifesaving advantage in growth because it is a group annuity plan underwritten by American Life and Casualty Insurance Company. But it is nothing like the traditional annuity which holds funds at a low, fixed rate of return.

Instead, the Survival Kit combines the advantages of a modern, high-return certificate savings account with the advantages made possible by this group annuity plan. In addition to the allimportant deferral of taxes, you gain surprising withdrawal privileges, a variety of estate-planning benefits, and the option of choosing between lifetime retirement income payments or any other form of withdrawal that meets your needs. You are the one who decides how to withdraw your funds, and when. Call us today for full information on all the ways the Survival Kit can rescue your financial future.

Compare the growth of $25,000 in a Survival Kit* versus conventional 8% certificate savings. $122,373 in / $120,000 Survival Kit 50% TAXPAYER

$61,037 greater increase in savings over an ordinary savings plan for a person in a 50% tax bracket; 30% TAXPAYER $35,420 greater increase even at a 30% tax bracket.

That's what would happen for a saver, age 43, who deposits $25,000 at 8% and saves to age 65 in the example above. Come in today for the Survival Kit that can dramatically increase your savings

Coach throws fine at Marshall

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Henry Marshall, Kansas City wide receiver who criticized the club's strategy after the opening-day loss to Oakland, has been fined $500, and an attorney for the National Football League Players Association says a grievance will be filed.

Marshall questioned what he termed the Chiefs' conservative offense following the 27-14 loss to Oakland Sunday. At hms weekly news conference Tues-day, Coach Marv Levy said "one player" whom he refused to identify would be fined for publicly criticizing the club.

"He said we've got to take it to people, and that's exactly right," said Levy. "Including him — quote

It was later learned that Marshall was the player fined, and the amount was $500. Levy said the action was within the bounds of the NFL's bargaining agreement, which calls for fines for criticizing "team decisions, strategy or game approach. Marshall said he has notified the NFLPA of the fine and Rich Schaeffer, a union lawyer, would seek to have the fine set aside. In an interview published Monday, Marshall said in part: "We've got the ability to pass. There's no reason to stop throwing like we did in the middle of the game. If you throw the ball more, then the draw, the screen and the running plays become more effective.

"Most of them who lay it on the line, don't (criticize)," Levy said. "I think it's an injustice to the guys who come to play for somebody to give the impression it's a total team attitude. Any player that has a gripe on any matter is welcome to talk to me face to face. And that can be as heated as he wants it to be, and then there will be no carryover.

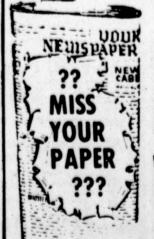

Marshall told the Kansas City Times later that Levy had also threatened him with dismissal. "All I did was give my opinion and he said I was being critical," said Marshall. "I guess it could be a critical opinion. I don't think I deserved it and I don't think he convinced me I deserved it." Marshall said the events would probably force him to keep his peace in the future. "The fine wouldn't - but what he said following that will - the threat of suspension," said Marshall. 'I love to play football. That's very serious. "In my opinion, he doesn't have the right to levy such a fine," said Schaeffer. "My understanding is that the fine theoretically is being assessed under the heading of conduct detrimental to the club." Levy said he viewed Marshall's criticism as "ex-

Six years ago, in the jungles of Colombia, Benji

Garcia was born without arms or legs. Today, in Shreveport, La., Benji is going to school, learning to swim and trying to get used to his artificial limbs.

Benji was sent to the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children in Shreveport when he was 2 years old. One of his nurses was Sanda Torkelson.

Benji was ready to leave the hospital after a two-year stay and officials were preparing to send him back to his parents, but Ms. Torkelson took matters into her own hands, taking steps to become Benji's legal guardian.

"I knew it would work out and it did," said Ms. Torkelson, who is single.

Benji, who is a Cub Scout and attends Caddo School for Exceptional Children, spends 30 minutes a day on physical therapy, working with his artifical limbs. Even without them, he can walk, run, dive, feed himself, draw and write. "I often forget he's got anything wrong," said Ms. Torkelson.

Benji sometimes resists using his artificial limbs. "He is like two different people with them on or off. There's such a dilemna because there's so much he can do without them ... He's a perfectionist. When he goofs up, he gets angry."

Common chant may change from: 'Who shot J.R.?' to 'Who is J.R.?'

LOS ANGELES (AP) - If the actors' strike keeps up much longer the chant may change from "Who shot J.R.?" to "Who's J.R.?"

Last May it seemed like a brilliant piece of promotion to have J.R. Ewing shot and wounded on the last episode of CBS' "Dallas" before going into the summer reruns. The suspense would be carefully orchestrated until the culprit was unmasked on the third show of the fall

The mystery instantly captured the public's imagination around the world, and it looked a cinch to sustain the suspense and build up anticpation toward the reve-But the actors' strike

Once the strike is settled, CBS and Lorimar Productions will attempt to reheat the "Who killed J.R.?" fever. The four shows leading up to the shooting of J.R. will be telecast in the weeks prior to the new epi-

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Vitamin C controversy still far from resolved

Dear Dr. Solomon: A number of recipes specify the use of brown sugar. Just what is brown sugar? -Mrs. N.R.

Dear Mrs. R.: Brown sugar consists of sugar crystals in molasses syrup with natural flavor and color. In some cases, however, brown sugar is made by adding syrup to refined white sugar.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been reading about the controversy surrounding Dr. Linus Pauling and his claim that high doses of vitamin C can prevent the common cold. Wouldn't it be advisable to play it safe and take the large doses Dr. Pauling recommends? - Mr. T.T.F.

Dear Mr. F.: When a person of Dr. Pauling's stature in the scientific community speaks, he should be listened to very carefully. Without passing on the merits of his recommendations, I would simply note that some scientists suggest that large doses of vitamin C may pose a threat to health, including the possibility of kidney and bladder stones.

In studies involving animals, it was found that when pregnant guinea pigs were given large amounts of vitamin C, they produced offspring with unusually high requirements for it. Whether these findings would hold true for humans is not known. On the other hand, large doses of vitamin C taken for days, weeks or even months are not likely to cause

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have two questions, which really are two sides of the same coin: Is there any proof that the consumption of fatty meats, cheese and eggs leads to heart attacks? And would cutting down on the consumption of these foods prevent heart attacks? - Jim.

Dear Jim: Some of the evidence linking saturated fats to heart attacks is circumstantial in nature. In general, in countries where the people have a low serum cholesterol level, coronary artery disease is

For example, it is well established that when the consumption of staurated fats by the people in Holland and Norway was reduced during World War IK, the number of heart attacks in those countries also decreased. Similarly, the Japanese, who have a much lower death rate from coronary artery disease than do Americans, consume only about a third as much saturated fat as we do in the United States. Whether or not the incidence of heart attacks in this country would be reduced if Americans adopted a diet that would significantly lower their cholesterol levels is not known. It is evident, however, that change in diet would have to be severe; halfway measures would be inadequate. Such a diet would have to consist largely of grain and wheat products, legumes, nuts and fruit, with the intake of animal fats and stturated fats generallly reduced to a considerable extent. The main dairy products in such a diet would be skim milk and cheese made from skim milk, with eggs eliminated entirely. It seems clear that such a diet would not be acceptable to most Americans.

Six Army divisions reported 'not ready'

NEW YORK (AP) - Six of the U.S. Army's 10 combat divisions in the continental United States were rated "not combat-ready" last December in a confidential U.S. Army report, the New York Times said Tuesday.

According to ratings based on manning, training and logistics, the report revealed that three divisions were ready for combat, but had major deficiencies and a third division, the elite 82nd Airborne, was found to be ready for combat but with minor deficiencies, the Times said. None of the 10 divisions were rated fully ready for combat, the newspaper

A spokesman for the Army told the Times that he could neither confirm or deny the figures in the report or the statements on readiness because of the nature of the confidential document.

The Times said the low ratings in readiness applied to two of the three divisions that have been designated as potential components of the new Rapid Deployment Force, whose responsibility it is to protect U.S. interests in remote regions, primarily the Middle East. The divisions were identified as the 101st Airborne, whose speciality is assault by helicopter, and the 24th Infantry Division, which is the armored part of the force. The 82nd Airborne is the third division in the force.

A division has anywhere from 16,500 to 18,000 soldiers in it and is the Army's largest integrated maneuver, support and logistics unit.

The Times said the report underscored the description given by Chief of Staff Gen. Edward C. Meyer to Congress which spoke of a "hollow army" with shortages in personnel, training, weapons, and equipment and maintenance problems.

Although the Army has shortages in weapons and equipment, the Times said the primary reasons for the low ratings are shortages of people and a lack of funds for sufficient training or for adequate maintenance.

PEKING (AP) — China's Congress elected Zhao Ziyang premier and three new vice premiers today, ratifying Deng Xiaoping's government re-organization plan designed to carry the People's Republic firmly along the road to modernization.

The Congress also abolished the constitutional right to put up big character wall posters — the voice of China's tiny democracy movement. Chinese leaders said wall posters were used by dissidents to undermine stability and unity and to make trou-

The voting by more than 3,000 deputies at the closing session of the fifth National People's Congress put the final official seal on Deng's blueprint calling for a collective leadership instead of worship of the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung and production ahead of politics.

The blueprint, the resignations of party Chairman Hua Guofeng and Deng from their government posts and the selection of Zhao, an economic specialist and protege of Deng, were revealed earlier this summer and were submitted to Congress by the central committee of the Chinese Communist Party.

Hua, Mao's handpicked successor who was the nominal head of the government for almost four years, and Deng, who as senior vice premier was the dominant force, retained their more important posts of chair-man and senior vice chairman of the Congressional approval was a formality that was never in doubt, and the chief news of the session was the identity of the three new vice premiers. They are Foreign Minister Huang Hua, Minister of Nationality Affairs Yang Jingren and Gen. Zhang Aiping, the deputy army chief of Chinese sources said Zhang, who is 70, will be named defense minister. It was not learned immediately whether Huang and Yang will retain their ministerial posts.

Before the voting, the deputies accepted the resignations of Hua as premier, Deng as senior vice pre-mier, six of the 17 other vice premiers, including Defense Minister Xu Xianqian, and five vice chairmen of Congress who ranged in aged from 79 to 88. The total number of vice premiers was reduced from 18 to 14.

In his resignation speech Sunday, Hua admitted the failure of many Maoist economic policies. The emphasis on ideological zeal which had colored those policies has been replaced with increasing pragmatism in recent years as Deng emerged as China's most influential figure. Parties get record donations

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's political parties used loopholes in the law to collect a record $443 million in donations last year, the Home Affairs Ministry said today.

The ministry said political contributions were up $85 million from 1978, and well above the record $362 million spent in 1974, when former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's "money politics" caused a national uproar. The ministry noted that 40 percent of all revenues were channeled through "political study groups" set up to circumvent the 1976 political funds control law.

The law, prompted by the large scale 1974 campaign spending, limits direct contributions from business and lobby groups to less than $459,000 annually. However, loopholes in the law allow contributors to make anonymous donations through the "study groups."

Observers added that only donations to parties and affiliated political groups are recorded. The figures would be much higher, they say, if contributions to individual politicians were included.

U.S. computers licensed for export to China

PEKING (AP) - The United States has given export licenses to more than 400 American companies to supply China with products for military and civilian use, including highly sophisticated computers, Undersecre-tary of Defense William J. Perry said

He said the Chinese have shown willingness to sell the United States rare metals, such as titanium, valadium and tantalum, which are used in airplane construction.

Perry said that among advanced computers cleared for export were the Landsat D, which is used for environmental studies, and the Western Geophysical, used in locating oil and gas fields.

Perry said other products cleared included electronics, test instruments, semi-conductors, radios, radar and transport helicopters. He emphasized that none could be used directly to kill or destroy, and added that the Chinese have applied no pressure on his mission for lethal weapons or hardware.

Perry said the companies involved in seeking contracts have not discussed financing, but that the metals sales could be a means of payment by

Some 10 or 20 contracts for military support equipment, mostly transport vehicles uch as trucks, have been approved, he said.

Perry is on a 13-day visit to assess Chinese defense capabilities and Peking's interest in materiel of a non-lethal nature.

He said the Chinese have given no sign that a $1.9 billion defense budget deficit this year has dampened their desire for sophisticated American technology which can, in some cases, have military applications. He added that the Chinese have said they hope Washington will extend the basis of projected sales to include military hardware, such as that being sold to the Nationalist island of Tai-

Perry said his talks so far represented "another significant step in our efforts to add substance" to the U.S. policy of transferring dual-use technology and military support equipment such as trucks to China.

He said improvement of China's technology "will be an essential first step in the modernization of both civil and defense industry," and the United states could make its greatest contribution in that field.

King Ranch official charges Castro shipped seized exas-bred Santa Gertrudis cattle to Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breeding cattle developed on Texas' King Ranch were shipped to the Soviet Union after the Cuban government nationalized American property, a ranch official has told Congress.

John Cypher of Kingsville, Texas, said it was difficult to verify the accounts of what happened to the cattle after Cuban President Fidel Castro's government took over the property but it 'has been detailed to us from so many sources that we accept it as substantially correct.' ccept it as substantially correct."

Cypher, assistant to the president of King Ranch Inc., told a louse subcommittee that South Americans visiting Soviet Georgia identified the cattle by their Texan and Cuban brands.

He said the King Ranch had 1,500 head of purebred Santa Gertrudis breeding cattle in Cuba, multiplied from 834 animals sent from Texas starting in 1952. The takeover of the ranch's Cuban property started in 1959.

"The Castro government has been instrumental in placing an efficient protein producer, the first breed of beef cattle to be developed in the United States, in the hands of the world's most powerful Communist state," Cypher said in a recently pub-lished report.

He spoke at a House Inter-American affairs subcommittee hearing on claims outstanding against Cuba.

King Ranch Inc., which Cypher said held a half interest in a 40,000-acre ranch on Cuba, is one of 58 companies belonging to a Joint Committee on Cuban Claims.

Cypher said the agrarian reform program established after Castro came to power set up a production center for Santa Gertrudis cattle on the island of Turiguano.

"Our 1,500 head of purebreds were loaded at the ranch and the locals were told they were bound for the center; they never reached their destination," the ranch official said. "Instead they were diverted to a nearby port where they ere loaded and transported to southern Russia

Cypher said the total value of King Ranch property confiscated in Cuba was certified as $3.2 million.

He said the Cuban operation that started in 1952 was one of the ranch's first foreign ventures. The ranch now operates in six foreign countries, either in joint ventures or as sole propertyholder, he said.

"The right to just compensations for private property seized is a tenet as ancient as the foundation of our western law," Cypher said. "It is not only the right but the duty of every American citizen, speaking through his elected government, to urge redress when U.S. property is confiscated anywhere, for any

critic Norma Gabler of Longview has formally protested what she claims was "antagonistic and unfair" treat-ment during August's textbook hear-

She also lost a round Monday when the State Textbook Committee reject-ed her call for a pure phonics approach to teaching reading in the Phonics involves the teaching of letter sounds before children start deciphering words.

The committee recommended five series of readers for grades 1-8 but Mrs. Gabler's favorite, the Economy Co.'s "Keys to Reading," made only second alternate.
Final adoption of texts, up to five per subject, will be made by the State Board of Education on Nov. 8. School districts must choose from the state

Mrs. Gabler complained in a letter to Education Commissioner Alton Bowen that she was mistreated at the Textbook Committee's hearings in August.

She asserted that Deputy Commissioner Grace Grimes should not be permitted to serve as a hearing offibers to ask antagonistic and unfair questions and made no attempt to curb committee members who snickered and laughed at petitioners who voiced genuine concern about the content of textbooks," Mrs. Gabler

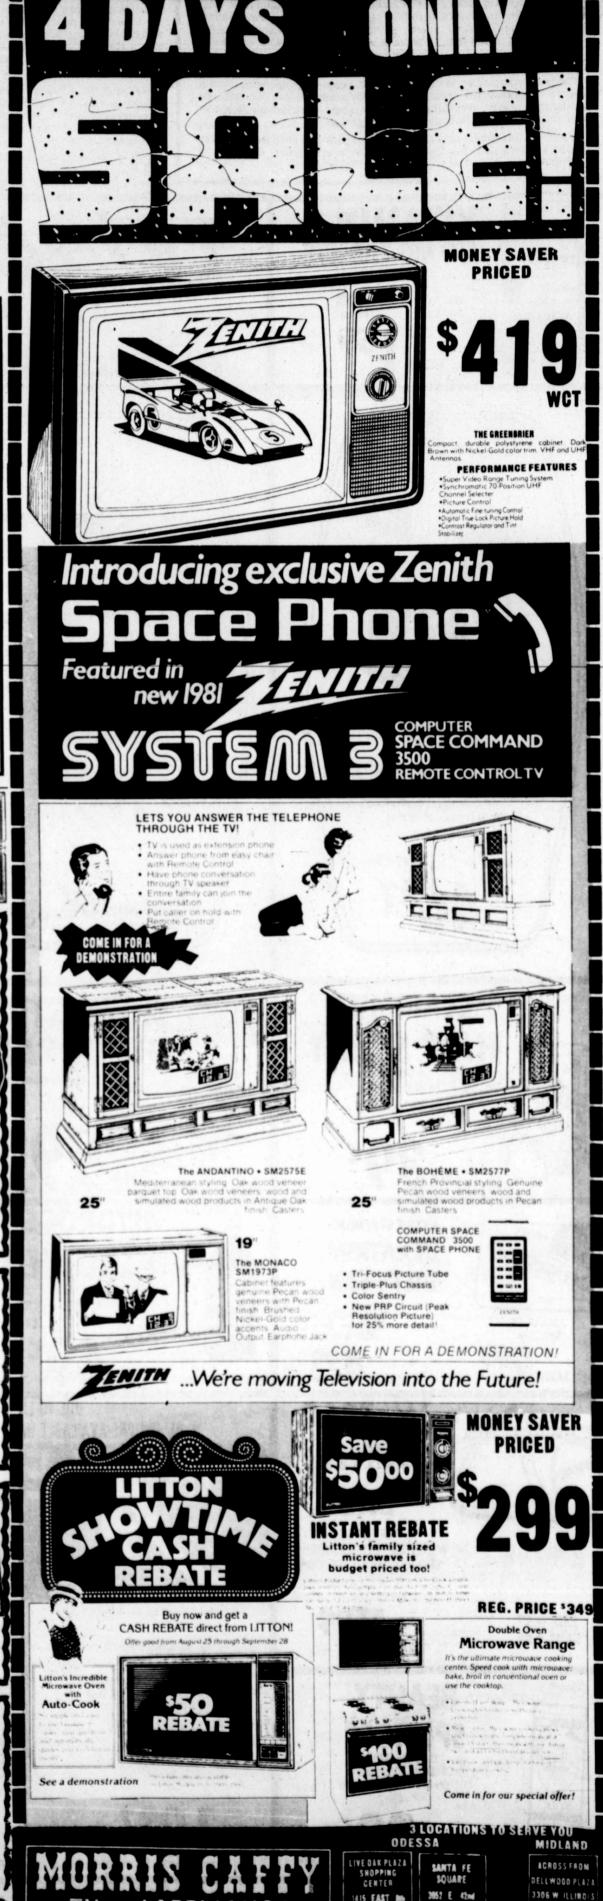

Specifically, she objected because Dr. Grimes rephrased a committee member's question and asked Mrs. Gabler whether her protests arose from "your great concern or is this the way you make your living?"

The committee recommended reading series published by Houghton, Macmillan, American, Harcourt and Scott Foresman, with a Holt series as first alternate.

Readers account for about $20 million of the $30 million adoption, and a dozen publishers competed to get on the five-book list from which school districts may choose

Successful publishers' representatives - with millions of dollars at stake - embraced, while losers moaned, "Oh, no," when committee votes were projected on a screen. About 200 people crammed into a room that seats 100
