"LYNDON," an oral biography

"Through interviews with hundreds, including Lady Bird, Hubert Humphrey, John Connally, Bill Moyers and many more, we get a sharply-drawn portrait of one of the most colorful men to occupy the Presidency...the populist, the womanizer, the genius, the performer...What emerges is the real Lyndon Johnson, warts and all..."

That's only one of the glowing reviews of "LYNDON," an oral biography by Merle Miller, author of the previous best-seller "Plain Speaking," biography of Harry Truman.

The story told includes the rise to power and the fall of Lyndon Baynes Johnson, a man both respected and hated, feared and loved.

Selected excerpts from "LYNDON" will begin Sunday in a seven-part series. Be watching for it.

Controlling air space

Bright dots on the radar screen look more like the underside of lightning bugs, but in the air those dots zoom into view as airplanes. It's the job of air traffic controllers at Midland Regional Airport to watch those bright dots on the screen and subsequently keep the planes out of each other's air space. And when the air gets busy, the challenge heats up. Read how the controllers accomplish this feat in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Apparent trick backfires on pair who are wounded by teen-ager

Two young girls hurt are reported in fair condition by hospital

A 16-year-old Midland youth shot two girls, one of whom was his sister, while they were hiding in a closet trying to play a trick on the youth Thursday afternoon.

The two wounded girls were rushed to Midland Memorial Hospital by private vehicle and emergency medical ambulance.

According to police reports, the boy had returned home from school at about 3:30 p.m. when he heard noises and thought there was a burglar in the house. No one else was supposed to be at home.

The two girls inside the northeast bedroom closet were apparently making noises in an attempt to frighten the boy, police said.

The teen-ager got his 12-gauge shotgun, threw open the closet door and fired one shot inside the closet without checking to see who was inside, according to police.

One of the girls, the boy's sister, was hit in the right hand, causing extensive damage to her right thumb and first two fingers, while the other girl was struck on the front thigh of her right leg, police said.

Leaving a trail of blood, the wounded sister ran across the street to get help but nobody was at home.

She was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital by a neighbor.

The other girl was transported to Midland Memorial hospital by Emergency Medical Service vehicle.

Both girls were reported in fair condition at the hospital this morning, a MMH spokesman said.

Midland juvenile authorities are continuing their investigation into the incident. So far, no charges have been filed.

Libyans seeking aid of Western oil firms

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Seven years after it took over most foreign oil concessions, Col. Moammar Khadafy's radical government has quietly signed agreements with three Western companies to help it find more oil.

Khadafy's revolutionary regime is also twisting the arms of the foreign companies already working here to look for more oil, according to industry sources.

Libya needs oil exploration know-how from abroad because it is rapidly draining its known petroleum reserves, oil experts say. Unless it finds substantial new fields, it won't be able to sustain current production of 1.75 million barrels a day beyond the mid-1980s, the experts say.

That would cut into the oil revenue — estimated at $18 billion or more this year — needed to finance Khadafy's programs to develop heavy industry and social services.

Spokesmen for Coastal States Gas Corp. of Houston, Royal Dutch-Shell of Britain and the Netherlands and state-owned Deminex of West Germany confirmed this week that all three companies have signed new oil exploration agreements with the Libyan government.

Coastal States said it expects to spend $75 million on exploration. Shell and Deminex are each putting up at least $100 million. Libya has also signed pacts for much smaller programs with the Bulgarian and Romanian state oil companies in a bid to diversify its sources of technology, according to industry sources here.

None of the five companies has been operating in Libya.

In the early 1970s, Libya was expelling Western oil companies rather than inviting them in. Khadafy, who seized power in an army coup in 1969, nationalized all of British Petrole-um's operations in December 1972 and all of Bunker Hunt Oil's, owned by the Hunt oil family of Texas, in June 1973.

Two months later, he took over 51 percent of the capital of all of the remaining Libyan subsidiaries of foreign oil companies. Many industry observers believe his success encouraged the Arab oil embargo in the fall of 1973 and the subsequent quadrupling of world oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Oil experts say Coastal States Gas, Shell and Deminex are taking a big chance exploring in Libya because little is known about the areas where they will be drilling.

"These are all high-risk areas but the firms are desperate for crude," said one oilman who asked not to be identified.

Agreement reached in youth football

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

The tension inside the Midland High School cafeteria Thursday night could have been compared to that surrounding football players getting ready for the big game. And the meeting was about football and who would get to play.

Members from the Greater Midland Football League, the Human Relations Council, the Mexican-American Advisory Committee, the YMCA and Concerned Citizens and Parents Committee met in a three-hour session to work out a compromise which would satisfy everyone.

The 23 participants agreed that members from south and east Midland would be included on the Greater Midland Football League board. That compromise apparently broke the tension and satisfied some of the meeting's participants.

The compromise is considered a start, noted Kimberly Modisett, executive director of the Human Relations Council, this morning. At least, the inclusion of new members on the board would increase city-wide participation of parents and children in the new program.

Minority membership on the board was not named in the meeting. However, the new football program will sometime in the near future invite persons from east and south Midland to participate.

"We never intended to overlook anyone in the formation of our football league," noted Gil Kinney, GMFL commissioner.

Thursday night's meeting was prompted by an Aug. 28 meeting when members of the Midland public schools and minority representatives from south and east Midland met at Crockett Elementary School to discuss the school board's action to allow the Greater Midland Football League to use four football fields in west Midland.

Minority representatives felt the board's action and the new football program separated minority groups from participating in the program because of cost and transportation problems.

YMCA Director Durwood Owen noted the compromise reached at Thursday's meeting is a good start. "Any compromise that satisfies students and their parents and allows participation in the program is great."

This year the YMCA football program has 212 students participating in football as of Thursday, he said. Although the teams will be reduced from 11-man teams to 9-man teams, there will be enough students to hold programs for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Last year, the Y program had about 484 students participating in 11-man football, Owen noted. They are predicting that 230-240 students will be enrolled in this year's programs.

Oralia Corrales, representative of the Mexican-American group, noted last night's meeting brought "an awareness of more communication and participation for all."

Fault for the tension belongs to the school board, she said. "The school board made a mistake of how their decision would affect east and south Midland."

"They need to be more sensitive as to how some of their actions would affect persons in south Midland," she contended.

Some members of the Greater Midland Football League have knocked on some doors in the minority community and recruited some players, Mrs. Corrales noted.

Before Aug. 28, only two minority students were enrolled in the program. However, Kinney reported last night that 30 minority students were involved with the program and some of the practice sessions were being held at the Pease Elementary practice field, she said.

There will be two Mexican-Americans and two blacks on the GMFL board. Richard Madrid and Melvin Scott volunteered to serve on the board. However, the new football league should have its recommendations finalized sometime very soon, Mrs. Corrales said.

She also expressed positive feelings about the compromise. "Instead of fighting each other, minority parents and children and white persons will be closer together and more united," Mrs. Corrales said. "And last night's meeting is a reflection of the way people in Midland work together."

Texas Demos stump for Carter

Bullock, Armstrong appear at airport

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

State Democratic party men Bob Bullock and Bob Armstrong came into West Texas on Thursday slugging away for their presidential candidate — Jimmy Carter.

Bullock, state comptroller, and Armstrong, land commissioner, held a news conference in West Texas Education Service Center at Midland Air Terminal on a swing through several Texas cities to get out the vote for the Carter-Mondale ticket.

The pair started the conference by capitalizing on what they called Carter's good points. Armstrong said that the "country is at peace, we have a relatively good economy and the high point of Carter's administration is arranging the meetings between (Menachem) Begin and (Anwar) Sadat." And, he added, Carter has stopped the growth of federal government by cutting the number of federal employees by 20,000.

CARTER WOULD have succeeded in balancing the budget this next fiscal year if it had not been for an increase in defense spending, Armstrong said.

Bullock started his criticism of Republican candidate Ronald Reagan by playing up his age.

"Reagan was born two years before Henry Ford dreamed of the assembly line, two years before Notre Dame introduced the forward pass, 10 years before the first World Series was broadcast on radio and two years before the income tax was enacted."

"This is the most important race since 1964," Bullock continued. "We have a choice between progress and the past," he said, referring to Carter and Reagan, respectively.

In Carter's favor is his 3½ years of federal government experience "under his belt," said the comptroller. "And he's running against a man who was president of the Actors' Guild," he laughed.

Armstrong defended Carter's deregulation and windfall profits tax bills. "He was the first president to come out and say he would let controls off the oil and gas industry. But you're not going to get decontrol out of the Eastern Establishment without paying the price, and that was the windfall profits tax," he said.

The country used 37 percent less foreign oil in August 1980 than in August a year ago, Armstrong pointed out, but the cost was higher for less.

The land commissioner added that he foresees independent producers and royalty owners eventually being eliminated from the tax.

THE PRESIDENT'S three different economic plans — a sore point with his adversaries — is Carter's way of experimenting until he finds the right plan that will work, according to Armstrong.

"Just cutting taxes won't do it," said Armstrong of the country's economic problems. "Carter is trying to tailor this (plan) to the needs and hope something works. Reagan's idea of a broad tax cut and everything's fine won't work."

Bullock charged that Carter's policies haven't hurt, but rather helped Texas. As an example, he said sales tax revenues are up 29 percent since

Carter took office and "sales tax is the best barometer of the economy."

The number of jobs in Texas has increased during the same period and 230,000 people will be moving to the state in the next two years because of jobs, he claimed.

"If Carter was so bad on Texas, they wouldn't come here. And I could go on and on about what Carter has done for Texas," Bullock said.

Taking another jab at the Republican candidate, Bullock charged that Carter didn't create inflation. "The Republican Party has had the copyright on that since 1929."

And Reagan, he said, should wear a banner with a warning printed on it: "Reagan — You're dangerous to our health."

The 27 percent lead Reagan held over Carter immediately after the GOP convention has dwindled to 9 to 11 percent, said Armstrong. The spread will continue to close over the next few weeks and Carter will take

Midlander's dream led to 'stealth'

From Staff and Wire Reports

AUSTIN — It was 1967 when Midlander Dr. Leo J. Windecker nosed his plastic airplane into the West Texas skies. Now, the dentist's dream is the latest in bomber technology and hot political issues.

Windecker's vision gave rise to "stealth technology" and a super-secret bomber that the Austin American-Statesman reported has been tested in Nevada and Alaska for the past two years.

The newspaper reported that the aircraft is the prototype of a plastic, delta-shaped bomber able to slip underneath radar. The newspaper said the stealth design virtually eliminates flat surfaces which produce radar returns and has a body made of plastic that absorbs radar impulses.

WINDECKER, WHO said he reaped no profits from his idea, gave up his dental practice in 1959 to start designing the fiberglass airplanes. With the aid of a Dow Chemical Co. grant, he designed and built a four-place, single-engine plastic airplane in 1967 called "The Eagle." His wife, Dr. Fairfax Windecker, a dentist who specialized in prosthodontics, applied the engineering know-how they picked up in studying dentistry and afterward in the aerodynamic design of the low-wing Eagle. The Eagle was designed to compete with other luxury business and corporate aircraft, such as the Beechcraft Bonanza, Mooney Mark, Bellanca Viking, Rockwell Commander and luxury Piper and Cessna aircraft.

The Midland dentist said a company he formed — Windecker Research — in Midland to produce the "Eagle" had orders for 16 of the aircraft when the company's stock went public "for too little money" in 1971.

Dow owned many of the patents on the process that Windecker used and it wasn't until after his fledgling firm folded in 1971 that the Pentagon became interested in the Eagle for its radar-avoiding capabilities.

"Their entire interest was the Eagle's low radar signature," Windecker told the newspaper in an article published Thursday.

He said with a few design modifications, the plane became "invisible to radar."

FROM THE EAGLE's military descendant, the YE-3, came the idea for the stealth bomber that the newspaper said has been tested secretly for the past two years.

Turkish leadership overthrown

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's military commanders ousted the civilian government early today in a bloodless coup aimed at restoring political stability to this violence-racked, strategic NATO nation bordering on the Soviet Union.

The military chief of staff and coup leader, Gen. Kenan Evren, also announced on television that his ruling five-man National Security Committee would soon begin work drafting a new constitution.

Evren, a political moderate, gave no indication when new elections would be held but he promised a return to civilian rule. He also said Turkey would maintain its pro-Western foreign policy.

The NATO military command announced in Brussels, Belgium, that maneuvers in Turkish Thrace by 3,000 soldiers from six NATO countries would go on as planned.

NATO also depends on Turkey to maintain a strong military presence on the alliance's southern and eastern flanks. Turkey shares a 370-mile border with the Soviet Union.

Violence, which has claimed 4,000 lives in the past five years, is both political and religious. The usually left-leaning Shiite Moslems at times have fought the conservative Sunni sect.

The United States has approximately 4,900 military personnel — mostly members of the Air Force — in Turkey. The State Department in Washington said its embassy in Ankara reported "there was no violence and no danger to Americans."

Helicopters clattered above the capital in the pre-dawn hours and hundreds of troops with armored personnel carriers and tanks cleared the streets. Sources said military buses rounded up deputies of the National Assembly.

The commanders announced that the takeover, after five years of increasing political instability and violence, was aimed at preventing "a possible civil war and widespread fratricide."

The Ankara Martial Law Command said in a communique that Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel, leader of the conservative Justice Party, and the main opposition leader, former Premier Bulent Ecvit, leader of the left-center Republican People's Party, "were interned" in their homes.

Necmettin Erbakan, chief of the Muslim fundamentalist National Salvation Party, was "under the protection and custody" of the military, the communique added.

Submachine-gun toting soldiers block the main roads of Istanbul, Turkey's largest city, today as martial law authorities enforce an indefinite curfew.

about the tests," the paper says the delta-winged bomber was built by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. using a Boeing Co. design and stealth technology.

The aircraft, which resembles the "flying wing" produced by Northrop Aviation Co. in the late 1940s, has been flying from a secret test base in Nevada for the past two years, the newspaper quoted sources as saying.

Spokesmen for Boeing, Lockheed and the Department of Defense have declined comment on the testing and refused to admit that the bomber exists.

The newspaper said its sources said the bomber, scheduled to replace the controversial B-1 that was shelved by Carter as too costly, will be unveiled by March, 1981, in time for a congressional funding deadline.

ARMSTRONG acknowledged the fact that while some people are upset over the hostage situation, he backed Carter's policy in dealing with Iran. "The risk of war is why we didn't attack Iran. The president has more concern and more responsibility than that."

And the two men supported Carter's stand in refusing a three-way debate with himself, Reagan and independent John Anderson.

Carter has accepted invitations to a one-on-one debate with Reagan issued by the National Press Club, CBS-TV and Ladies Home Journal, Armstrong explained. Instead, he criticized Reagan and said that the GOP leader "apparently is afraid to debate Jimmy Carter without Anderson there."

Summing up Carter's administration, Armstrong said that the president "has not dodged, not ducked anything and has faced some of the toughest issues of any recent president."

THE AMERICAN-Statesman said the new bomber reportedly has no fuselage, no tail structure and no vertical control surface.

Testing has been done near Groom Lake on the Nellis Air Force Base test range 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas and at an Air Force base in Alaska, sources say.

Windecker told the newspaper that Air Force officials told him at one point that the YE-5 had been used to "interrogate" Soviet radar and had flown within 25 miles of Soviet radar sites without detection.

Windecker and his wife flung themselves headlong into aircraft design after they had built up a successful dental practice in Houston and were looking for something challenging and worthwhile as an investment.

In 1967, Dr. Windecker formed Windecker Research Inc. in Midland and with the aid of investors, his Eagle got into limited production.

THE PROTOTYPE, the Windecker Eagle X-7, first flew on Oct. 7, 1967, under the power of a 290-hp Lycoming piston engine; it had fixed landing gear.

The second prototype, AC-7, outfitted with a retractable landing gear, was destroyed while in a test spin on April 10, 1969; the test pilot, Bill Robinson, parachuted to safety.

The third prototype flew on Sept. 29, 1969, under strenuous testing by the Federal Aviation Administration and was type certified in December 1969.

Production of the Eagle I, backed by Midland investors, started in 1970. "The attraction of the Eagle," recently reported Air-Britain Digest magazine, "was its high performance, attractive lines and structural integrity."

FIVE PRODUCTION Eagles were produced and sold in the early 1970s.

Due to a national economic slump, the Windecker Research started to stall out. Backers, including Midlander William B. Blakemore, could no longer support the company which already had sunk some $7 million into Eagle research and development.

Eventually, the Eagle design and assets were acquired by Kentucky businessman-engineer Jerry Dietrick, 55.

Currently, Dietrick, a pilot who has flown the Eagle non-stop across the Atlantic Ocean and set records, is drumming up interest in the Eagle and plans to put the Eagle into full production somewhere in the Southwest early in the 1980s.

Hobby voices concern with teachers' salaries

HOUSTON (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said upgrading teachers' salaries should be a top priority when the Texas Legislature convenes next January.

Speaking to the Houston Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, Hobby said recommendations by the State Board of Education to give public school teachers an average 22 percent raise over the next biennium "will prove an adequate basis" for compensating for inflation.

The lieutenant governor predicted the recommendation will fare well in legislative budget meetings.

Hospital lowers tax bill for elderly

In a symbolic gesture to Midland's senior citizens, hospital directors increased property exemptions for the elderly in a special meeting Thursday morning.

Midlanders 65 years of age and older can exempt $12,000 from their property valuations when their hospital tax bill is calculated.

Directors noted the effect on the hospital's tax bill for the elderly would be minimal since the hospital district's tax rate is low.

Although Kathryn Shriver, representative for local senior citizens, was not present at the 11 a.m. meeting, she requested directors to consider a $15,000 exemption.

However, the directors thought her request was excessive and opted for the $12,000 figure.

Dr. Henrie Mast voted for the proposal but noted the district should "stay in step with other taxing bodies (city, school and college)."

The directors agreed their action might set a precedent for other taxing entities to adopt a high exemption for Midland's elderly.

"They (senior citizens) do have a plight," said Director Martin Neill. "Our action today will show moral support for their cause."

"I hope next year," said Edwin Magruder Jr., director president, "all of the taxing bodies would raise their exemptions to the legal limit."

The exemption would take about $10,000 off the hospital's tax rolls. The district expects to receive about $2 million from taxpayers under a 9-cent tax rate per $100 assessed valuation.

Following that action, the directors went into an executive session to interview a candidate for hospital administrator to replace former administrator Wayne Ulrich. Ulrich resigned from the post Aug. 1.

Sometime next week, directors will make a recommendation to Midland Memorial Hospital trustees concerning the administrator's position.

Fair, partly cloudy weather forecast through Saturday

Skies over Midland will be partly cloudy Saturday afternoon. But otherwise it should be fair through Saturday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Low temperature tonight is expected to drop into the low 60s, but the mercury will climb back to about the middle 90s on Saturday.

Winds will blow from the south both tonight and Saturday, 5-10 mph tonight and 10-15 mph Saturday.

Plutonium 'antidote' discovered

By PAUL RAEUBURN

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A substance that removes deadly plutonium from living tissue has been developed by University of California scientists, who call it the first advance in treating radiation contamination in more than 30 years.

It also could prove valuable in removing radioactive elements from nuclear waste, thus defusing the highly controversial problems of storing spent plutonium, as well as low-level wastes from nuclear medicine and research, the scientists say.

"All of the chemistry for reactor-waste storage was developed shortly after the Manhattan Project," the intensive World War II effort to develop the atomic bomb, said Kenneth Raymond, one of the substance's inventors.

"I think this new chemical, or something very close to it, will prove to be a significant part of the answer" for disposal of wastes from nuclear power plants and weapons, he said Thursday.

The substance, called LICAM-C, removed 70 percent of the plutonium injected into laboratory mice. And repeated doses could probably remove more with little or no toxic side effect, researchers said.

Plutonium, one of the deadliest substances known, is both a by-product of and a fuel for nuclear power plants and weapons manufacture. Chemically similar to iron, it is easily absorbed by the body and collects in the lungs, spleen, liver and bone marrow.

The radiation it emits can transform normal cells into cancerous ones. Plutonium-239, a nuclear fission fuel, has a half-life of 25,000 years, which means half the plutonium will decay in that time. That enormous half-life and plutonium's deadly radiation are at the crux of the storage problem.

Developed by Raymond and Fred Weith at the University of California's Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory, LICAM-C grabs individual plutonium ions — electrically charged atoms — and engulfs them in chemical pincers, the researchers said.

For that reason, it is called a "chelate," after the Greek word for crab's claw.

Raymond had been studying iron chelates, which occur naturally, because of the similarity between iron and plutonium. Several plutonium chelates were developed, but they were found to be toxic when tested on mice, he said.

"Finally we came up with a chemical that binds tightly with plutonium, is non-toxic, and of low enough molecular weight to pass through the kidneys so it can be excreted," Raymond said.

Some earlier experimental substances removed plutonium, but also removed essential minerals such as iron, calcium and zinc, he said. LICAM-C is selective for plutonium.

Activism by religions an American tradition

Charley Reese

The new interest in politics by religious fundamentalists makes a lot of people nervous — mostly those people whose policies the fundamentalists oppose.
I think it's the healthiest thing to happen to American politics in several decades.
Nor can I resist pointing out that the same people who are clicking their tongues and wagging their fingers at conservative Christians are the ones who embraced liberal Christians when they got into politics in the 1950s and 1960s.

Hypocrisy, thy name is liberal.
The National and World Council of Churches are as political as a ward healer and leftist to the bone marrow. If there is a Marxist terrorist movement the World Council hasn't supported, it is the victim of an oversight.

At least the conservative Christians are not sending money to murderers nor are they giving aid and comfort to the enemy of their own country. If it is okay for some Christians to advocate unilateral disarmament in the name of their religion, then it is okay for other Christians to advocate a strong defense in the name of their religion. It's the old goose and gander bit.

Actually, activist religion is in the American tradition. Our nation was founded by religious men. When they wrote the prohibition against a state religion into the Constitution, they did so to protect religion, not to banish it as some jaded libertarians contend. You will find references to God not only in our basic documents but in the letters and public papers of our founders.

And there is a need to protect religion, for all religion is viewed with hostility by those pagans who worship at the altar of the state and who would rule men's lives with laws, regulations and court opinions.

What the conservative Christians have finally realized is that they cannot remain neutral. The pagans won't leave them alone. They are going to impose, if they can, their own godless religion on everybody. You see the atheism, usually called humanism, of the collectivist is no accident. If you intend for the state to dominate men's lives, then you cannot afford for those men to believe in authority higher than the state. That's why religion today is under attack in the schools, in the courts and in the bureaucracies.
Fortunately, the most common sin of American Christians is failing to turn the other cheek and I, for one, am delighted to see these people begin to fight back.

The hypocrisy of the anti-religionists is disgusting. They want freedom for pornographers and dope peddlers, but not for businessmen. They proclaim tolerance of perversion, but are intolerant of normalcy. They claim the Constitution gives a girl the right to dance naked in a bar but prohibits her from saying a prayer in school.

They want to kill babies in abortion clinics but they proclaim the right to life for murderers. They don't want the state to legislate morality but they demand that it condone immorality. Exposing a student to communist propaganda is exercising academic freedom; teaching him the virtues of capitalism is using the schools to indoctrinate him.

Well, the American people have had enough of those horse apples.
Without religion, the only morality available is situational ethics which is just a fancy way of saying anything you can get away with is okay.

Well, the American people have had enough of that, too.

This is a religious nation. It is religion which makes morality possible and it is time for those people who believe in God to defend the faith.

They just might save this dear old Republic in the process.

Flashpoint in Poland

Despite the settlement reached recently between striking Polish workers and their government, the situation in Poland is anything but tranquil. It is, in fact, the most dangerous flashpoint in the world today. Therefore, events in Poland should command the closest scrutiny and, meanwhile we trust, some unusual forethought in Washington and other Western capitals.

The agreement granting Polish citizens the right to strike, the right to form independent trade unions, and revision of censorship laws stopped short of openly challenging party supremacy. According to Washington observers, it was just under the threshold of what would be required for Moscow to take over completely with a massive military intervention. Such independence is unheard of behind the Iron Curtain and is absolute poison to the Kremlin.

The removal of Polish party chief Edward Gierek could represent the exercise of an early Soviet option short of force — tighter control through the Moscow-oriented Polish Communist apparatus. But Westerners do not know for certain that the Russians dictated the Gierek removal and elevation of Stanislaw Kania, formerly in charge of internal security, to be the new top man in Warsaw. In any event, the Poles have managed to change their government leaders. As they did in 1956 and in 1970, they have thrown out their rascals in what might be known as "Polish elections" — a pragmatic solution to the unsolved Communist succession problem.

But the Poles are ever mindful that Soviet power is the final arbiter of their affairs. They remember that in 1956 Soviet tanks were rolling toward Poland when Nikita Khrushchev suddenly changed his mind and called off the invasion. This time, the Poles avoided the street violence of previous protests, minimized the danger, and brought the government to its knees by paralyzing the economy in an effective application of Gandhian non-violent resistance.

Scattered strikes are continuing throughout the country, and it is impossible to foretell the course of events. But this much is clear: The Soviet Union is not likely to permit much more loss of control within its most important satellite without undertaking some effective response. The unprecedented concessions granted Polish workers cannot be permitted to stand long without inviting similar demands and similar independence in the six other nations of the Comecon trading bloc of Eastern Europe, where economic conditions are as stagnant as those in Poland. As the world should know by now, communism and independence are mutually exclusive.

Although Pravda advises the Brezhnev Doctrine that justified the brutal suppression of Czechoslovakia's striving for relaxed controls in 1968 can be invoked whenever needed, Soviet intervention need not be military — albeit this should not be ruled out as a last Kremlin resort to keep Poland in the fold. There are other means: The Soviet Union is Poland's major source of raw materials and its major financial partner. With almost all of Poland's $8 billion income from exports needed just to service its $20 billion in hard-currency debt, the Kremlin has enormous economic leverage.

Clearly, then, some long-term, low-cost loans from the West at this point could insulate Poland from harsh Soviet terms.

Events in Poland and their consequences are not without major significance for the United States and the world. For example, the Polish workers may have given the Kremlin some persuasive arguments for diverting more of its strained resources away from armaments and toward consumer goods and for relaxing economic controls. This in turn could encourage Moscow to seek genuine arms controls and inhibit costly foreign adventures.

Whether the Poles, in buying time for themselves will also obtain a better deal for other satellite peoples, or whether they will be tragically crushed, remains to be seen. But, whatever happens, they will have nobly served the cause of freedom. They are buying time for all of us.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Why hasn't Sen. Stewart quashed furor?

WASHINGTON — Three months ago, I reported on the murky financial problems of freshman Sen. Donald Stewart, D-Ala. The FBI launched a full-scale probe of Stewart's questionable 1978 campaign finances, and a federal grand jury reportedly convened in Birmingham last week to look into the long-festering controversy.

When I published my initial report of the FBI investigation, Stewart waived that he hadn't been given a chance to produce evidence that would disprove certain allegations. But he still hasn't produced convincing answers despite reporters' repeated questions.

One fact Stewart hasn't denied, because it's on the public record, is that he accepted $22,000 in illegal campaign contributions from a smooth-talking convicted con artist named James Dennis. The Federal Election Commission slapped Dennis with the biggest fine in its brief history. Though later cut in half, the fine has still not been paid.

Stewart insists that he returned the tainted money as soon as he learned it was illegal, and downplayed his association with Dennis. He was "not a big player in my campaign," the senator said, adding: "I didn't have much contact with him." That's not the story given by Dennis and others familiar with Stewart's 1978 campaign.

My associates Jack Mitchell and Tony Capaccio learned that Dennis, while in prison on a conviction unrelated to Stewart, told the FBI he had cashed Stewart's check returning the $22,000 in contributions and then gave Stewart the money back in cash. That's what triggered the FBI probe.

Stewart has produced an affidavit for Alabama reporters from an Anniston, Ala., banker as evidence that he borrowed $22,000 to replace the money he had to return to Dennis. That might explain the $22,000 deposited in Stewart's campaign account the same day he repaid Dennis. But so far, Stewart has failed to produce an actual loan agreement to substantiate the banker's affidavit.

As for his claim that Dennis didn't figure importantly in his campaign, Dennis told my reporters flatly, "no one was closer to Donald than me." Other former Stewart campaign workers have confirmed this, citing over one hundred personal contacts between Stewart and Dennis during the 1978 campaign.

The election commission, citing a lack of resources, accepted the unworn assurances of Stewart's lawyer that free plane rides Dennis provided were "personal," despite published accounts quoting Dennis' pilot as saying he flew Dennis, Stewart and Stewart's family back from a political campaign rally.

While a few plane rides may be insignificant compared to illegal campaign donations, further probing casts doubt on the senator's insistence that the wheeling-and-dealing Dennis wasn't close to his campaign.

Nor has the FEC done anything about additional, apparently illegal, campaign gifts from Dennis totaling $1,150. Stewart has refused to give the money back because he says the FEC hasn't asked him to return it. An FEC spokesman explained that since no formal complaint has been filed, those donations have not been investigated.

The senator hasn't cut his ties to the con man. Early in June, as the FBI was gearing up its investigation, Stewart went to Talladega, Ala., on a fact-finding mission concerned with Cuban refugee facilities.

While there he visited Dennis at the federal prison in Talladega. Stewart contends that a prison counselor informed him that Dennis had requested a visit. But Dennis, in a taped conversation, said, "I didn't know he was coming down."

Stewart also claimed the meeting was personal and lasted only several minutes. But an FBI source noted the two as meeting alone for about 25 minutes. Dennis has since been paroled.

WORKERS, UNITE! With nothing to lose but their chains, the Capitol Employees Organizing Group sent off a contribution to the Polish workers' movement. The Polish unions have now won recognition from the Communist Party government, but congressional employees have had no such success with the Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Congressional workers — cafeteria help, janitors, groundskeepers, secretaries — are still hired and fired on whim, and receive no Social Security benefits. Nor are they covered by the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Equal Opportunity Act of 1972, the Equal Pay Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the National Labor Relations Act or the Occupational Safety and Health Act. They do not have Civil Service status.

Their only protection is under Rule 50 of the Standing Rules of the Senate, passed in 1979, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion or sex.

Many members are wearing green buttons that read "Human Rights Union Rights." More than 60 percent of the workers have asked for union representation; nearly 80 percent could be expected to vote for a union — if Congress would allow an election.

So far, the union advocates' gesture of solidarity with the Polish workers has elicited no response from behind the Iron Curtain.

ENVIRONMENTAL REPORT: The League of Conservation Voters has just rated members of Congress according to their votes on 27 issues involving energy and the environment.

The league flunked four legislators cold. Scoring zero out of a possible 100 for voting "wrong" or not at all were Reps. Philip Crane, R-Ill., Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., the late Harold Runnels, D-N.M., and since-resigned Dan Flood, D-Pa.

Only one congressman scored 100 on the conservationists' legislative litmus test: Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y. Others who made high scores were Reps. David Bonior, D-Mich., Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., Edward Markey, D-Mass., Parren Mitchell, D-Md.

INSIDE REPORT:

It's candidate vs. staff in Reagan's campaign

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan's clear reaffirmation Tuesday night of Kemp-Roth tax reduction as the heart of his economic growth program only came after yet another effort by his staff to retreat under Democratic fire.

Reagan reflexively objected to a draft of the economic speech that would have stretched the three-year 30 percent tax cut to five years. Like much else foisted on him of late by his advisers, that stretch-out was politically mindless. It would have properly exposed him to charges that he was conceding the anti-tax cut positions of his critics.

The avalanche of economic advisers from the Ford administration had suffocated tax cut talk until Tuesday night's address in Chicago before the International Business Council. Most of his recent stump speeches have not even mentioned tax reduction. His new television spots soft-pedal the issue.

That is another example of the Reagan campaign deteriorating into a struggle between candidate and staff. While aides whisper comments to newsmen about the blundering candidate, the fact is that many of the campaign bloopers since the national conventions are more attributable to his staff than to Reagan.

This was pointed up Sept. 3 when Reagan and five outside economic advisers, he in a sport shirt and they coatless but wearing ties, met in the garden at Wexford, his rented Virginia estate. The draft — prepared by Dr. Martin Anderson, a senior domestic policy adviser, and veteran Republican speechwriter William Gavin — would have stretched Reagan-Kemp-Roth tax cuts over five years.

Evans

That set off alarm bells for the candidate. This must be changed back to three years, Reagan said. Rep. Jack Kemp, discussing issues face-to-face with Reagan for the first time in six months, naturally agreed. Less naturally, he was backed by Dr. Charles Walker, former deputy treasury secretary who once pressed for a stretch-out but has now joined forces with Kemp.

For political justification, Reagan passed around a new Gallup Poll commissioned by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce which shows a 34 percent to 30 percent nationwide margin in support of a 10 percent rate reduction in taxes this year — as proposed in the first year of Kemp-Roth. The same poll shows that only 24 percent of the voters think inflation would be increased by a 10 percent tax cut.

These figures should come as a surprise only to those politicians and journalists who seem to think that hard-pressed taxpayers really do not want relief. When we ask voters in our own door-to-door interviewing whether they favor an immediate tax cut, the response is usually positive — and frequently incredulous that anybody would have to ask.

But the Carter theme that tax reduction is inflationary poison being forced on desperately resisting taxpayers had been making headway within the Reagan camp. Indeed, on the day of the economic meeting at Wexford, an astute Democratic strategist told us the Carter team's attacks had succeeded in stifling Reagan's tax reduction talk.

Besides insisting on the three-year tax reduction span, Reagan also was displeased with the vagueness of the first draft. To make his point, he told his advisers he would rather deliver an accompanying fact sheet than the speech; as a result, figures from the fact sheet detailing massive tax increases under the present system were inserted in his speech.

This is not merely sloppy staff work that is commonplace in the Reagan campaign. One Reagan-for-president leaflet, listing only Ford administration officials as the candidate's economic team, calls for tax reduction providing people "with more money to spend, creating a demand for more goods and services."

Such an argument is pure Keynesian, demand-side economics. It ignores supply-side economic theory behind the tax cuts, as stated by Reagan in Chicago Tuesday night: "More than any single thing, high rates of taxation destroy incentive to earn, to save, to invest. They cripple productivity, lead to deficit financing and inflation and create unemployment."

Here is a doctrine that Ronald Reagan believes strikes a most responsive chord with ordinary Americans in these days of economic stress, even if his staffers and the economists inherited from President Ford do not. But it had been so long since Reagan talked that way that many close listeners, including pleased Democratic politicians, thought he had forgotten his own lessons. In this as in much else, the candidate's sins can be traced to his staff.

What church did Paul join?

But, dear brothers, I beg you in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ to stop arguing among yourselves. Let there be real harmony so that there won't be splits in the church. I plead with you to be of one mind, united in thought and purpose.

For some of those who live at Chloe's house have told me of your arguments and quarrels, dear brothers.

Some of you are saying, "I am a follower of Paul"; and others say that they are for Apollos or for Peter, and some that they alone are the true followers of Christ.

And so, in effect, you have broken Christ into many pieces. But did I, Paul, die for your sins? Were any of you baptized in my name?

I am so thankful now that I didn't baptize any of you except Crispus and Gaius.

For now no one can think that I have been trying to start something new, beginning a "Church of Paul."

Oh, yes, and I baptized the family of Stephanas. I don't remember ever baptizing anyone else.

For Christ didn't send me to baptize, but to preach the Gospel; and even my preaching sounds poor, for I do not fill my sermons with profound words and high sounding ideas, for fear of diluting the mighty power there is in the simple message of the cross of Christ.

Foreign cars most fuel-efficient

WASHINGTON (AP) — American auto-makers, despite offering their most fuel-efficient cars ever this fall, have yet to break the stranglehold held by the imports on fuel economy.

For the third straight year, the 10 cars getting the best mileage in the 1981 model year are all foreign-made, according to statistics released today by the Environmental Protection Agency.

And for the fourth straight year, Volkswagen's diesel-engine Rabbit is ranked No. 1, with a 42-mile-per-gallon estimate in city driving for its 1981 four-speed model.

While the Rabbit is assembled in Pennsylvania, it is listed by the EPA as an import because more than 20 percent of its parts are imported.

A new Toyota model, the Starlet, took second place with 39 mpg, followed by the five-speed version of the diesel VW Rabbit at 38 mpg.

But U.S. automakers, who have suffered through a disastrous year as fuel-efficient imports captured about one-fourth of total sales, are fighting back, introducing new small cars and putting mini-computers on old models to get better fuel mileage.

The best mileage a domestic car got in the EPA ratings in 1980 was 26 mpg by the Chevy Chevette. But nine 1981 models beat that mark.

The Chevrolet Chevette and a new Ford car, the Escort, tied for the top domestic spot with 30 mpg. The Escort also will be sold as the Mercury Lynx. Various versions of Chrysler's Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon scored 28 and 27 mpg.

Chrysler, being propped up by government-guaranteed loans, is pinning hopes for a resurgence on its new front-wheel-drive "K" cars — the Dodge Aries and Plymouth Reliant. They scored better than any of their competitors in the mid-size field, coming in at 25 mpg. The best mileage for GM's front-wheel-drive Citation was 22 mpg.

Chrysler was also the only U.S. automaker to have models among the top 10 mileage makers, although both — the Dodge Colt and Plymouth Champ — are built by Japan's Mitsubishi Co. They tied for fourth at 37 mpg.

Those cars were followed by the five-speed Datsun 210 and Toyota Corolla Tercel, each at 36 mpg.

Rounding out the top 10 were the Honda Civic and the four-speed and five-speed versions of the Mazda GLC, all at 35 mpg.

The EPA cautioned that its figures should be used for comparison purposes only because they are arrived at through "mechanical tests that cannot possibly reflect individual driving habits or road and weather conditions."

The EPA in 1979 abandoned its practice of issuing both a city mileage figure and a highway estimate. After motorist complaints that the figures were widely inflated, the EPA decided to issue only the lower city average as better reflecting the mileage a motorist can expect to achieve. Automakers, however, still may use highway estimates in their advertisements.

Using an average selling price of $1.45 a gallon for diesel, the EPA estimated a motorist driving 15,000 miles a year could expect to pay $518 for fuel in the top-rated VW Rabbit.

Motorists driving the top-rated domestic autos, the gasoline-powered Chevette and Ford's Escort and Lynx, would pay $774 annually with unleaded gasoline selling for $1.55, the EPA said.

Truck strikes, kills mountain lion; End of livestock maulings forecast

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A truck struck and killed a 250-pound mountain lion on Interstate 10 and deputies say sheep maulings around nearby Boerne may end now.

"Well, I think that solves the mystery of what killed all that livestock near Boerne," Bexar County Deputy Sheriff Clarence Dixon said.

A truck struck and killed the cat about 10 p.m. Wednesday while a search was under way for the animal seen earlier near a truck stop at Fredericksburg Road and Interstate

10. Dixon and a traveler from Mason, farmer Clifford Sherwood, 67, who spotted the lion earlier, were at the truck stop when another motorist reported the animal was lying dead farther up the highway.

"I was driving east on Interstate 10 toward San Antonio when this mountain lion just ran right in front of me," Sherwood said. "Yes sir, it was a big cat all right."

Houston-area schools still use drug dogs

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite a recent federal court ruling, about 25 Houston-area school districts continue to use specially-trained dogs to check lockers, hallways and cars for drugs.

Pasadena Assistant Superintendent Lonnie Renfrom insisted the dogs "have been instrumental in helping the district come close to eliminating drugs from our campuses."

Last week, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice issued a preliminary injunction banning use of the dogs in the Latexo School District of Houston County.

Using the dogs was tantamount to conducting a search without probable cause and random searches of a student or his personal property violated the "student's rights under the Fourth Amendment," Justice said.

The Latexo case arose after three high school students were suspended for three days after alleged drug paraphernalia was found in their possession.

A similar case is pending against the Goose Creek Independent School District of Baytown.

James Turner, attorney for the Latexo district, argued the ruling does not prohibit other schools from using the dogs because it was not a class action suit. However, he said, it eventually could have statewide implications.

School superintendents at Spring Branch, Spring and Humble reaffirmed Thursday they would continue to use the dogs.

In the Fort Bend school district, a drug search by the dogs was completed Wednesday at Dulles High School. Nothing was found, officials reported.

Lamar Consolidated Superintendent Edgar Wilhelm said he was upset that the courts are trying to eliminate an "effective method of dealing with the drug problem."

And Assistant Superintendent Leroy Miksch of Needville contended the federal court ruling "will hurt more people than it will help."

In New York, teachers 'back in class'

Strikes continue in seven other states

By The Associated Press

The 34,600 public school students in Rochester, N.Y., will return to their classrooms on Monday following their teachers' acceptance of a contract to end the city's first teacher strike. The instructors return today.

In another upstate New York city, public school teachers in Syracuse announced Thursday night they would report to work today despite pleas for support from striking school bus drivers, custodians, clerical workers and secretaries.

Meanwhile, negotiators in Philadelphia said there was no sign of progress Thursday in the strike against public schools there. Some 11,000 teachers have been on strike since Labor Day. If a settlement over a key job-security question for teachers can be reached over the weekend, classes for the system's 220,000 students will resume on Tuesday, officials said.

Teacher strikes continued in 13 other Pennsylvania school districts.

In Michigan, teachers in Bloomington agreed Thursday to return to work, ending the second teachers' strike there in two years. However, slightly more than 4,600 teachers remained on strike in 20 school districts across the state, keeping 90,000 students from classes.

Strikes also persisted in seven Illinois school districts, affecting 20,000 pupils and 1,200 teachers. School officials in Ohio reported no progress toward a settlement Thursday in six struck districts.

Teacher walkouts also continued in California, Ohio, Arizona and Washington.

Members of the Rochester Teachers' Association voted 1,129 to 413 to accept an agreement that has them returning to schools today to prepare for Monday's resumption of classes.

Besides a comprehensive dental plan, the settlement includes a 7 1/4 percent pay increase in the first year of the pact, retroactive to July 1, and an 8 percent increase in the second.

The teachers originally demanded a 22 percent increase over two years. The district originally offered 14 1/2 percent.

Classes in Rochester's 55 schools were suspended last Friday after teachers walked out Sept. 2, the day before classes were to have resumed.

In Syracuse, about 30 bus drivers, 15 truck drivers and about 200 custodians voted to strike Thursday night. A strike by the clerks and secretaries completed its fourth day Thursday despite a state Supreme Court back-to-work order issued Monday. The 960 students affected by the walkout represent less than 10 percent of the district's enrollment.

In Illinois, the state's longest teacher strike continued at Meridian District 101 near Mounds, in southern Illinois. The district's 65 teachers have been on strike since Aug. 19 and more than 400 students are out of school as talks continued with a federal mediator. Little movement was reported.

Dallas schools ready to comply

DALLAS (AP) — School officials say they are ready to comply with a federal judge's order and will help illegal alien children enroll today as "easily and painlessly as possible."

U.S. District Judge Robert Hill ordered Dallas schools Thursday to drop admission policies that bar the enrollment of illegal alien children.

School officials, who estimated as many as 1,000 illegal alien children may enroll during the next few days, said they were prepared to accept the new students today.

"We are ready," said Superintendent Linus Wright. "The principals have been informed of their responsibilities and we have organized teams with bilingual instructors to go out into the schools."

"The district will help parents enroll their children as easily and painlessly as possible. We have asked the staff to be lenient and considerate."

Hill's order requires Dallas to join other Texas school districts in educating the children while the issue of free education for illegal aliens is determined by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

The judge said in his order that under last week's ruling by Supreme Court Justice Powell, every school district in Texas must admit illegal aliens unless it can show substantial harm by such action.

"The court finds that the defendant will not suffer serious or irreparable injury with the issuance of this order," Hill said.

A federal judge in Houston earlier declared unconstitutional provisions of Texas law that bar illegal alien children from a free public education. A federal appeals court stayed that decision. But Powell's order left the federal judge's decision in tact.

Wright predicted an initial illegal alien enrollment of 500 to 1,000 and estimated the number could go as high as 3,000 by the end of the school year.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate Committee on Human Resources has recommended that the Legislature provide "adequate" state appropriations for the South-West Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

The institute is affiliated with Howard County Junior College in Big Spring.

Committee Director Betty Button said Thursday 50 deaf students are now enrolled in a pilot post-secondary program at the institute, which is using facilities at the old Webb Air Force Base.

Ms. Button said there are only two such programs for deaf persons in the United States, and "there is a critical need" for such programs.

She said the pilot program is being funded by a $1.9 million federal grant administered by the Texas Education Agency.

Blacks, Hispanics outnumber whites in Houston schools

HOUSTON (AP) — For the first time, blacks and Hispanics outnumber white students attending Houston public schools, enrollment figures showed.

"Today, the Anglo race became minority No. 3 in the pecking order," Houston Independent School District Superintendent Billy Reagan said. "That has many connotations for many people."

Figures released Thursday showed 85,789 blacks, or 44.7 percent, were attending Houston schools. That compared with 53,000 Hispanics, or 27.6 percent, and 52,901 white children, or 27.5 percent.

The number of Hispanics has been bolstered by 2,058 students since last Friday, when U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell ordered Texas to provide free education for illegal alien children, district officials said.

But Houston School Board President Tarrant Fendley added, "I don't think that in itself is significant. The number of white children in the district is more than we anticipated this year, and I feel good about it."

The number of Hispanics has grown by about 1 percent annually in recent years, while the number of white students has steadily declined for the past 10 years, figures showed.

School officials have blamed the declining white birth rate for the low Anglo enrollment.

Elementary school, six block area evacuated as gasoline fumes spread

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Authorities cordoned off a six-block section of southeast Yakima and evacuated nearly 100 children from an elementary school after gasoline fumes spread through sewer lines in the area.

The gasoline, which apparently leaked from a nearby service station, contaminated groundwater in the area and leaked into the Yakima sewer system through a cracked manhole.

Between 9,000 and 10,000 gallons of gas were lost in the service station leaks, Haff estimated. The service station leaks, first reported July 26, have been sealed, he said.

A Seattle firm hired by the service station was attempting to expand efforts to lower the groundwater levels and retrieve the gasoline, Haff said.

Large quantities of water were being flushed through the sewer lines in an effort to lower the fume level, said Yakima Deputy Fire Chief Ken Groth.

"The last test shows the situation in the sewer line is still explosive," Louis Haff, assistant director of the Yakima County Public Works Department, said late Thursday.

He said authorities planned to meet today to determine whether "the situation can be reduced or whether we have an emergency evacuation situation."

No residents left their homes Thursday, authorities said.

Nearly 100 children were evacuated Thursday from the Ruth Childs Elementary School and adjacent portable classrooms.

Officials took readings with instruments designed to measure the explosive level of the fumes. A reading taken at a manhole outside the school went "right off the scale," said Yakima fireman Tony Sloan. "The right combination of a car starting or a cigarette butt could set it off."

Khomeini urges Badi-Sadr, foes to end political feuding

By The Associated Press

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini urged President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and his foes to stop the feuding and jockeying for power that is keeping Parliament and the government from coming to grips with Iran's pressing problems, including disposition of the 52 American hostages.

Radio Tehran said Khomeini, the leader of the Iranian revolution, was visited Thursday by Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and 10 of his cabinet ministers and told them: "Avoid the practices of the past. You must abandon dictatorships... selfishness and self-love... How would God take it if you wanted to argue over posts? ... If all of you... reached an understanding to establish friendship among you, imagine how pleasant it would be for the nation."

"I beg of you, all those holding certain positions, be they... the prime minister, the president... I beg all of them to avoid what is contrary to God's will... Do not fight among yourselves."

Bani-Sadr rejected seven of Rajai's 21 Cabinet choices Sunday and reluctantly accepted the others. On Monday he accused them of representing a "despotic" minority, meaning the hardline Islamic Republican Party that dominates the Parliament, or Majlis, and forced him to accept Rajai as prime minister.

On Tuesday and Wednesday Rajai, Majlis Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani and other leaders of the IRP attacked Bani-Sadr for rejecting the nominees and accused him of insulting the Majlis and the religious hierarchy, including Khomeini.

Bani-Sadr joined his rivals Thursday in rejecting Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie's overture for talks about the hostages and Iranian-American relations.

"There's nothing new in it," he said of Muskie's letter to Rajai last week. He added that it would not hasten the release of the Americans, who today were spending their 314th day in captivity.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim told a news conference in New York Thursday that the United Nations has established contacts with Rajai, but that he expects no early breakthrough in the hostage crisis.

Mostafa Dabiri, charge d'affaires at Iran's mission to the United Nations offices in Geneva, Switzerland, told a U.N. subcommittee that the hostage issue cannot be considered

"in isolation" but "must include America's previous interference in Iran's internal affairs."

Dabiri told the U.N. Subcommittee on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities that the hostages were in "good health" and the Majlis will decide their fate in keeping "with the principles of justice and equity."

The subcommittee is to vote today on U.S. resolution urging Iran to free the hostages.

Cuban refugees must register for U.S. draft

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The government expects all 19- and 20-year-old Cuban men to register with the Selective Service within 30 days of their release from Fort Chaffee and other refugee centers, but immigration officials say they are in the dark about the requirement.

Almost none of the refugees have registered, according to Immigration and Naturalization Service officials. They were surprised by the requirement since the status of refugees, even when released, is unsettled.

But Joan Lamb, public information officer for the Selective Service in Washington, said Thursday the relocated Cubans "are taking advantage of the rights of this society, therefore they must take the responsibility."

Despite their unsettled alien status, they nonetheless are residents, she said.

But the Selective Service will be lenient to Cuban refugees who have been relocated but who have not yet registered. "In most cases, they probably weren't told (to register)," Ms. Lamb said. "And, of course, they don't even speak the (English) language."

Men born in 1960 and 1961 have until Dec. 31 to register for the draft without penalty.

Van Rush, spokesman for the State Department, which is operating Fort Chaffee, said Thursday the INS had not been told to inform outgoing Cuban men about registration.

"Technically, they are still aliens," Rush said. "When they leave Chaffee, they are in a sense on parole. Out on their word. They are still obligated to INS to report their whereabouts for six months. All that keeps them in an unofficial status in this country."

In Washington, INS official Janet Graham also said, "I'm surprised the Cubans would have to register. They're not permanent resident aliens yet."

She said they are called "Cuban-Haitian entrants, with status pending."

There were no estimates available on the number of 19- and 20-year-old Cuban men who already have been released from refugee centers in Arkansas, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Florida.

China exhibition to open Saturday in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 1980 Exhibition of the People's Republic of China, the largest display of Chinese goods ever assembled, will open Saturday for a two-week stay in San Francisco, beginning a tour that will take it to Chicago and New York later this fall.

The exhibition of Chinese crafts, industrial goods and $3.5 million in antiquities is the first venture by the Chinese into the world of American advertising and public relations, as they try to create a U.S. market for their consumer goods.

It is expected to draw more than a million visitors during its three-city tour.

"These people are coming to a western market, and they're going to have to sell here," said Philip M. Evans, western regional manager for the exhibition. "There's absolutely no doubt that if the Chinese want to compete — and they do — they're going to have to adapt."

The trade fair is the result of a reciprocal agreement signed last year, which brings the Chinese show here and sends an American exhibition to Peking in November.

Trade between the U.S. and China amounted to $2.3 billion last year, less than one percent of U.S. world trade, but that figure is expected to grow rapidly, following action by the U.S. Congress in February giving China most-favored-nation status.

The exhibition will include performances by acrobats from Mongolia, displays of traditional costumes from all parts of the country, and music, food and films.

A special branch of the Peking post office will allow visitors to mail letters with Chinese stamps and Chinese postmarks.

Killer poultry virus prompts destruction of many exotic birds

MIAMI (AP) — An outbreak of Newcastle disease at an import center here has forced officials to kill more than 8,200 exotic birds feared to have contracted the killer virus.

The birds — tiny finches, large parrots and macaws — were worth up to $5,000 each.

U.S. Department of Agriculture spokeswoman Connie Crunkleton said the birds were killed to try to keep the disease from spreading to domestic poultry flocks. In the early 1970s in Southern California, 12 million laying hens were destroyed at a cost of $56 million to taxpayers. A nationwide hike in retail poultry and egg prices soon followed, she said.

Bern Levine, owner of Pet Farm Inc., told federal officials he first suspected he might have a "hot" disease on Aug. 31 because a number of birds at his center were sick or dying.

Officials said specimens from the dead birds were sent to the National Animal Disease Laboratory in Ames, Iowa, where the Newcastle disease was confirmed. There is no vaccine against it.

Records provided by Levine indicate shipments went to 33 states and also the Virgin Islands, the District of Columbia, Canada and the Bahamas. The firm made 500 such shipments in the past 30 days.

"Every shipment of birds that left Pet Farm from Aug. 1 until Sept. 5, when the state quarantine went into effect has to be traced," said Dr. Dean Philson, director of a 40-member state-federal task force assigned to destroy the birds.

Ms. Crunkleton said the disease is not contagious to other pets, such as dogs or cats, but it has been known to affect humans in the form of a mild virus.

There were 123 species and subspecies, ranging from finches to parakeets to cockatoos to macaws, among the 8,220 birds that were destroyed. Levine will be reimbursed for the loss, Ms. Crunkleton said. She added that the smaller birds were gassed in large groups, but that the larger birds were gassed individually.

Agriculture officials said this is the ninth outbreak of the disease since March. The eight other cases, involving some 3,000 birds, showed up in Massachusetts, California, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Ms. Crunkleton said the USDA has no plans to discontinue issuing import permits to pet importers because of the recent outbreak.

The 33 states where Pet Farm shipped birds are: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

Outlet reopened to fishing after July 22 ship collision

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Nine miles of the Mississippi River Gulf Outlet have been reopened to fishermen, seven weeks after two ships collided in the waterway, spilling 12.5 tons of a highly toxic wood preservative into the water.

It was the last closed area of 400 square miles placed off limits after the July 22 collision to be reopened, authorities said.

The manmade 40-mile channel links industrial eastern New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico and is surrounded by some of Louisiana's most bountiful fishing grounds.

Bayou Yscloskey, which bisects the channel, also was reopened Thursday, said spokesman Dick Cousins of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

The channel and surrounding waterways were closed to all shipping activities following the collision between the container ship Testbank and the ore carrier Sea Daniel.

The collision dumped a container loaded with pentachlorophenol, a toxic wood preservative, into the ship channel but the Coast Guard estimated that more than 90 percent of the PCP was recovered with no visible environmental damage.

Cousins said the decision to reopen the channel to fishing was made after continuous samplings showed zero contamination of mud dredged from a half-mile on either side of the collision site. He said there also was no trace of PCP in oysters and fish taken in the area.

Ambulance attendants suspended in assault on pregnant passenger

NEW YORK (AP) — Two veteran ambulance attendants have been suspended without pay after being charged with sexually abusing and sodomizing a 28-year-old pregnant woman in a city ambulance, Emergency Medical Service officials said.

The woman, who is six-months pregnant, had called an ambulance to her Harlem home on Aug. 24 after she fell down a flight of stairs.

Alleged jewel thieves arrested

$3.4 million in famous gems still missing

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Chicago men — one said to be a master thief, the other a near-genius — were arrested as they stepped off a flight from London some 12 hours after a $3.4 million jewelry heist there that included the pigeon egg-sized, 48-carat Marlborough Diamond. None of the jewels has been recovered.

In London, Laurence Graff, owner of the jewelry store that was robbed Thursday, said the Marlborough Diamond, which belonged to the late Dowager Duchess of Marlborough, was so famous the thieves would never be able to sell it.

Joseph J. Sealise and Arthur Rachel, both 42, were detained at O'Hare International Airport by the FBI at the request of Scotland Yard. British police traced the two men through the license plate of a getaway car.

Graff told reporters that if an underworld fence tried to have the Marlborough Diamond cut and refaced to disguise it, the gem would lose half its value.

"I cannot think of any cutter who would want to touch it," he said. "I think they've got something that is virtually unsaleable."

"The Marlborough diamond is like a famous Renoir, it would be very easily recognized.... That doesn't mean there isn't some mad collector who would want to put it in his cellar and gloat over it," Graff said.

—The jewels were not found in their belongings, the FBI said, but the two Americans were charged with interstate transportation of stolen property and conspiracy, the FBI said.

They were held in the Metropolitan Correctional Center and were to appear before a federal magistrate today. Scotland Yard officials were expected to seek their extradition to Britain, the FBI said.

But in London, a Yard spokesman said "We're not certain yet whether we'll seek extradition orders.... Due to the complexity of these procedures it may be a while before we can get anyone over there to question the men."

The heist began when two men armed with a pistol and a hand grenade buzzed at the locked doors of the shop in London's Knightsbridge section, then strong-armed their way past a uniformed security guard.

As two customers and five employees lay on the floor, the robbers selected 20 pieces of jewelry from the window. They cut the telephone lines, threatened to toss the grenade if they were followed, dashed to a green Fiat parked around the corner and disappeared.

The raid took only a few minutes, said Graff.

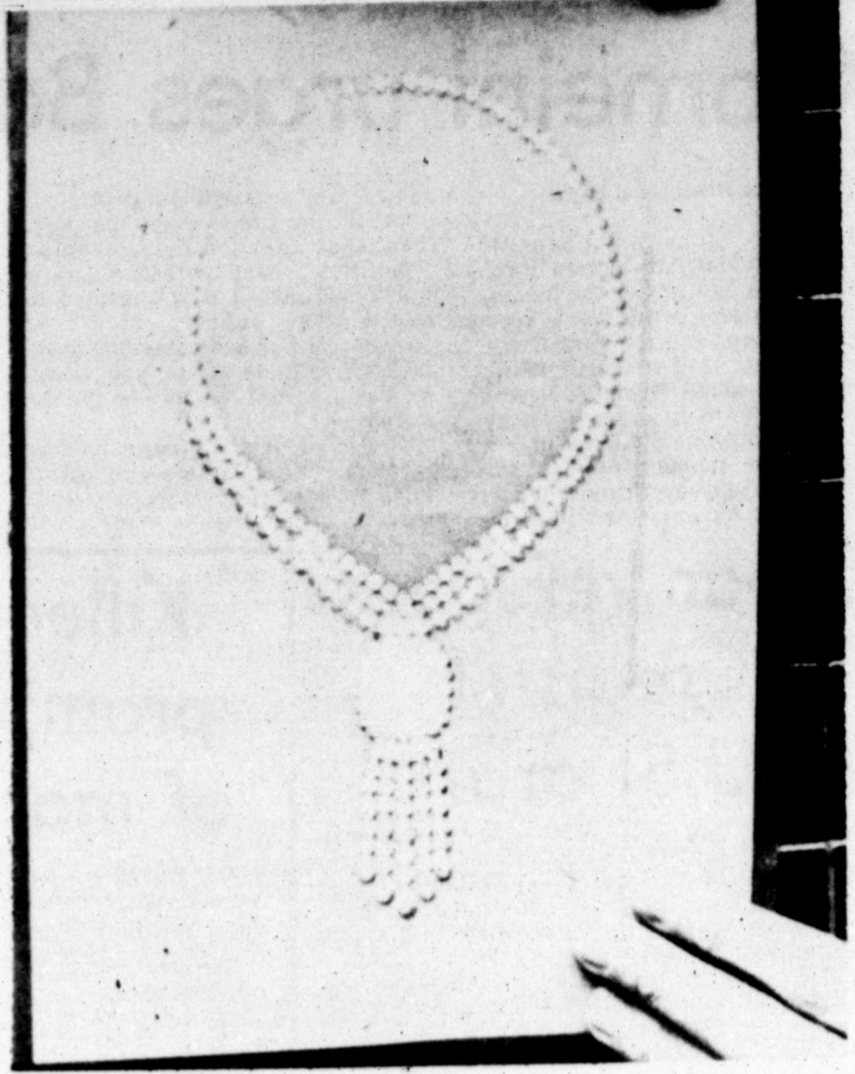

The stolen gems were diamonds, including a ring worth $482,000, and one African ruby worth $72,300. Graff purchased the Marlborough Diamond from Christie's auction house two years ago for $121,200. Then the centerpiece of a brooch pendant, it was recut to make a necklace surrounded by other diamonds. It is now worth about $960,000.

The diamond belonged to Gladys Marie, the Dowager Duchess of Marlborough who died in 1977. A friend of impressionist artists Claude Monet and Edgar Degas, and writer Marcel Proust, she was married to the ninth Duke of Marlborough, Winston Churchill's cousin.

London police traced the suspects from the license plate on the getaway car to a Hertz car rental agency, a hotel and eventually to Heathrow Airport, the FBI reported.

Hertz spokesman Paul Dykes said: "Because of the hiring documents we knew where they were staying. The police got a description of the men from the girl who rented the car to them."

Sealise and Rachel have a long history of arrests and convictions on burglary, robbery, theft and counterfeiting charges, officials said.

A diamond necklace, featuring the 45-carat Marlborough Diamond, was among $3.4 million in gems stolen from Graff Jewellers in London Thursday. Two Chicago men were arrested at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport Thursday evening in connection with the heist. (AP Laserphoto)

Police still know very little about Grand Rapids rapist

By BRIAN TUCKER

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — He's young, black and has a gap between his front teeth. That's about all police think they know about the man who has robbed, raped and murdered a number of elderly women — some in the 90s — in a 10-month campaign of terror.

"It's unbelievable," said Maj. Robert Ensing, head of police investigations. "In my 29 years on this force, I've never seen anything so vicious."

One victim, 75-year-old Fay Nielsen, was so frightened by a break-in that she decided to move from her home. As she packed her belongings, she was attacked, tied with electrical cord and murdered.

Elderly women account for 12 of the 20 violent attacks being investigated by a task force of police detectives, evidence technicians and computer specialists formed after Mrs. Nielsen's murder on Sept. 5. Police believe the attacks were the work of one or possibly two "very disturbed" young men.

The attacks began Thanksgiving Day when two young men who offered to do some yardwork entered the home of an 88-year-old woman and her 60-year-old daughter. The women were raped, beaten and robbed.

"It was really gross, they had them in the bedroom for 15 or 20 minutes. It wasn't just a quick sexual attack," Ensing said.

Police are searching for one or two men, believed to be young, since the victims have described them as slightly built, Ensing said. Only two women have managed a quick glimpse of their attacker. They only could say he has a gap in his front teeth.

Ensing said the method of operation is usually the same. The attacker, thought to be black, chooses white women living alone and enters through an open window or cuts through a screen door. Once inside, he surprises the victim and usually covers her head. He uses a knife from the kitchen to cut a cord from a lamp or appliance to bind the victim. Money, jewelry and the television are stolen after the attack.

In May, 91-year-old Elsi Hill died of injuries suffered in a rape and beating in her home. In July, a 92-year-old woman was beaten, bound, raped and robbed in her apartment. Three weeks later, a 73-year-old widow was tied, raped and beaten in the face and back, possibly with a club. Two weeks later, an 80-year-old woman was raped in her apartment.

"It has to be someone who has a mental problem of some sort," Ensing said. "Someone who derives satisfaction from brutalizing an old woman is very disturbed."

Although the attacks have occurred in a 3-square-mile area adjacent to downtown on the city's east side, police have warned all women in the city to lock their doors at night.

"It's made me quite shook up and I lock the doors most nights," said Ruth Brandon, a 63-year-old widow who lives four houses from the scene of the Nielsen murder.

Jewel theft seems 'well planned'

PARIS, Texas (AP) — A neatly-planned heist involving a Dallas jewelry salesman who paid a call on a bogus client netted thieves about $100,000 in jewelry, according to police.

"It had all the appearances of being a well-planned job," Police Chief Charles Whitley said Thursday after thieves took a car belonging to Dallas jewelry salesman Kenneth Cottrell.

Whitley said the theft occurred about 1 p.m. Thursday after Cottrell had driven to Paris to meet a woman who made an appointment with him after telling him she owned a dress shop.

"He parked his car in front of the dress shop," Whitley said, "and went in and asked if the woman was there." Whitley said employees told Cottrell they had never heard of the woman.

Cottrell told police he turned around and saw his car being driven away by a young, white male. The vehicle was recovered about an hour later in a ravine off a dead-end road in Paris.

Search for kidnapped youngster expanded

DALLAS (AP) — Law officers have expanded their search to Arkansas and Oklahoma for the suspect in the kidnapping of a 7-year-old North Dallas boy, according to police.

David Lee Summerville, 23, was charged with aggravated rape the day before the kidnapping of Matthew Mueller last Friday, police said Thursday.

The victim in the Aug. 30 assault was a 27-year-old Dallas nurse who remains hospitalized with a stab wound to the chest.

Police said Summerville also is being sought by Norman, Okla., authorities for questioning in the theft of an auto at knifepoint from a Norman High School student, and by Little Rock police in connection with a theft case.

Ex-boxer 'knows nothing' of Wood assassination

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Robert Thomas says he told a federal grand jury investigating the assassination of a federal judge he was not in the car used in the killing and knew nothing of the incident.

Thomas, 33, an ex-boxer, told reporters after appearing before the federal panel Thursday that he was questioned about the May 29, 1979, shooting death of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

He said he also was asked whether he knew convicted Las Vegas gambler Jimmy Chagra, who has been the focus of much of the special grand jury's investigation.

Thomas, recovering from a gunshot wound he received July 1, said he told the grand jury he knew nothing about

Father says daughter, friend were thrown from balcony

LONDON (AP) — A former detective charges that his daughter and her boyfriend were thrown to their deaths from a sixth-floor balcony during a cocktail party in Saudi Arabia for which the British hostess was sentenced to be flogged.

The ex-detective claims that his daughter, Helen Smith, was gang-raped by German guests at the party, and that her Dutch boyfriend, tugboat captain Johannes Otten, was murdered with her because he witnessed the rape and the assailants feared he would identify them to police.

British surgeon Richard Arnot, 39, and his 34-year-old wife, Penelope, were convicted by a Saudi court of serving drinks at the party in Jidda on night of May 19, 1979 in defiance of the Moslem nation's ban on alcohol. The court also said Mrs. Arnot made "contradictory" statements about what happened.

Mrs. Arnot escaped the lash and her husband a one-year jail term when they were granted clemency by King Khaled and deported. They returned to Britain on Aug. 8 and are reported vacationing in the country with their two children.

Ms. Smith, a 23-year-old British nurse, and Otten fell 70 feet to their deaths from the Arnots' balcony during the party. Miss Smith worked with Arnot at a privately-owned Saudi hospital.

The British Foreign Office says all evidence indicates Ms. Smith and Otten accidentally fell over a low balcony railing while embracing. But Ronald Smith, the 53-year-old father of the dead nurse, has accused the Foreign Office of mounting a massive coverup to protect the Arnots.

After flying to Saudi Arabia to investigate his daughter's death and claim her body, Smith accused British authorities of obstructing his inquiries because the British vice consul in Jidda, Gordon Kirby, was a close friend of Mrs. Arnot, an army colonel's daughter.

Smith says he is trying to prove his daughter was gang raped during the party by several drunken Germans, who threw her off the balcony and then did the same to Otten because he witnessed the rape.

The Foreign Office has denied there was a coverup and says Kirby and Mrs. Arnot had not met until after the party.

Charles Hickey

Services for Charles Earl Hickey, 27, of 1403 S. Taylor St., will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Greater Ideal Baptist Church with the Rev. Rase Gowans officiating.

Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Jackson Mortuary.

Hickey died Monday morning in Midland City Jail.

He was born Nov. 9, 1952, in Midland. Hickey attended Midland public schools, worked for the Job Corps and was a Marine Corps veteran. He was a construction worker.

Survivors include a son, Jermaine D. Hickey of Midland; his father, Mose Hickey of Waco; two brothers, L.C. Hickey of Midland and J.C. Hickey of Dallas; a half-brother, James Chapel of Albuquerque, N.M.; four sisters, Dorothy West, Ruby Moore, Betty Hickey and Linda Gray, all of Midland; and several nieces and nephews.

Dissidents questioned, released

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Czechoslovak police seized nearly 30 Czechoslovak dissidents, including two former Cabinet ministers, and questioned them about their ties with striking workers in Poland before releasing them, a Czechoslovak emigre said here today.

Thirteen members of the so-called Charter-77 human rights group were seized in Prague on Tuesday and Wednesday, said the source, who declined to be identified. He claimed at least 15 other government critics were detained in the capital and other cities. He did not name any of those seized.

All the dissidents were freed within 48 hours, the maximum period police are allowed to hold suspects without filing formal charges.

"The dissidents were seized mainly for their contacts with striking workers in Poland," the source told The Associated Press.

Nearly three weeks of strikes in Poland won workers a series of government concessions unheard of in the Soviet bloc, including the right to self-government independent trade unions and the right to strike.

Ortiz gets probation in stabbing

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The moment the jury awarded Marcario "Max" Ortiz a two-year probation sentence and effectively set him free for the stabbing death of his 19-year-old nephew, the courtroom was filled with cries of thanksgiving, weeping, sniffing, hand clapping and praises.

"Thank you, Jesus!" cried a cousin, as she knelt on a bench and in view of the "middle-class" jury of six men and six women in Judge Vann Culp's 238th State District Court late Thursday afternoon.

"Oh, wow," said the joyful defendant, as he hugged and kissed his 76-year-old adoptive mother, Lola Ortiz, who was grandmother of the victim, Julian Ortiz Marroquin, and his sisters, aunts, cousins, and a brother-in-law.

"Oh, my God," cried Ortiz. He eyes were reddened with tears. He was obviously relieved over the jury's decision and was smiling with gladness.

The day before, he had cried when he recounted his story of learning that his nephew had died of the stab wound which he had inflicted. He said he still loves him.

The jury filed out one by one as soon the judge read the final verdict.

"Let's go, let's go," impatiently said Ortiz's aging mother.

Ortiz was released this morning from the Midland County Jail cell where he had been held by his own choice since the July 6 death of his nephew in Hogan Park. Reportedly, he was fearful that some brothers of his dead nephew might harm him in anger.

BUT THE VERDICT — aggravated assault — did not please all in or outside the courtroom.

Ortiz could have been convicted for murder and sentenced to life or 99 years in the state penitentiary by the jury or he could have been convicted for voluntary manslaughter and sentenced up to 20 years in prison.

"They gave him (Ortiz) 'aggravated assault' for killing somebody?"

commented a disbelieving lawyer-spectator. "I give up."

Ortiz told the jury in testimony Wednesday that he had intended to stab his "bullying" nephew in the shoulder to show him "that he meant business" and wanted him to leave him alone. Instead, Ortiz's hunting-like folding knife plunged into Marroquin's chest cavity and cut the aorta leading from the heart. He died almost instantly.

Earlier that day, the uncle and the nephew confronted each other in a threatening knife-fight, which ended in a stand-off.

Prosecutors Jim Rex and David Joers had been seeking a murder conviction in order to help "deter" crime in Midland County. Defense attorneys Allen McFall and Andy Kerr were asking for acquittal — a not-guilty verdict — based on self-defense.

The defendant testified that he, the victim's younger brother, "Little Robert" Marroquin, and another friend had been "cruising" in Hogan Park and down city street on that Sunday afternoon in July. Likewise, Julian Marroquin, his brother, Danny, 18, and some girl friends had been "cruising" — a Sunday pastime that seemed to have developed into a tradition among younger Mexican-Americans — in another car.

TESTIMONY indicated that a feud had been developing between the uncle and the nephew, an ex-convict who had a reputation for violently attacking his relatives, especially when he had been drinking beer, for self-mutilation, and for making amorous advances toward a close family friend and his uncle's wife.

The nephew had only been out of prison on a burglary conviction for a month or two when he was killed. The uncle had just returned from California, where, he said, he had fled to avoid his hostile nephew, with whom he was formerly "close" and "tight."

Evidence suggested that Julian had been drinking heavily on July 6 and had also been taking a depressant drug into addition to the alcohol.

"Julian has been drinking. Be careful of him," defense attorney Kerr said in recapping testimony for the jurors in the closing arguments stage of the trial. "He's violent, he's dangerous."

Ortiz had said that he had attempted to befriend his nephew and to get him to go to church with him.

"Julian couldn't be friends," said Kerr. "He had to be the bully."

Fellow defense attorney McFall said he didn't enjoy getting in front of the jury to "label a dead man," but he said Julian Marroquin was a violent, punishing man, especially when drunk.

PROSECUTOR Jim Rex suggested that defense attorneys McFall and Kerr were acting like they were trying to convict the victim, rather than the defendant.

Rex said the defense attorneys gave the impression that "Julian Marroquin was on trial and not Max Ortiz."

Rex alluded to the defense's contention that Ortiz was scared of his nephew and was fearful of injury or even death.

"But his actions kind of contradict that," said Rex, as he displayed Ortiz's hunting-like folding knife and Marroquin's more conventional pocketknife, which, testimony indicated, was in his pocket at the time he was stabbed in his brother's car.

"I think the knives indicate which one was the aggressor," Rex said.

The jury deliberated about 3½ hours before returning the aggravated-assault verdict in the four-day trial and deliberated less than an hour in the punishment phase of the trial.

Character witnesses, including two former employees — furniture dealer J.C. Carter and city of Midland service station supervisor J.R. Bailey — testified that Ortiz was trustworthy, was a dependable worker and was gentle man who possessed a good, law-abiding reputation.

Sniper kills Cuban attache

NEW YORK (AP) — The sniper slaying of an attache to Cuba's mission to the United Nations is part of an effort to make Cuban diplomats "disappear from the face of New York," say anonymous callers claiming to represent the anti-Castro group Omega 7.

Feliz Garcia-Rodriguez was shot Thursday as he drove a red station wagon bearing diplomatic license plates in the borough of Queens. The shots may have come from a passing vehicle or the elevated ground of a nearby cemetery, police said.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie condemned the assassination, and officials promised "a vigorous investigation." Muskie said federal authorities would cooperate.

An anonymous man with a Hispanic accent called news agencies within minutes of the 6:20 p.m. shooting and said Omega 7 was responsible for "the execution."

The caller told The Associated Press: "He's a Communist. The next will be Raul Roa." Cuba's U.N. ambassador.

WCBS-radio also got a call from a man claiming to be from Omega 7 who said: "We eliminated the first one. We will continue until every single one disappears from the face of New York...we are going to make their life highly difficult."

Cuba's U.N. delegation consists of some 40 people, and police added an extra officer to the normal three-man guard detail.

Esther Perez, an administrative aide at the Cuban Mission here, said Garcia, about 38, had been in the United States for two years. Listed as the 20th ranking diplomat at the mission, he was mainly responsible for administrative duties.

Donald McHenry, the United States' U.N. ambassador, said, "I express my sincere regret for this cowardly act resulting in a tragic loss of life."

"From Washington, Muskie said, 'This is a nation of laws. We condemn terrorism in all its forms and are committed to its eradication.'"

Over the years, Omega 7 has claimed responsibility for more than a dozen politically related bombings in the city, including those at the Cuban mission here on Oct. 28 and Dec. 7.

Man held in four armed robberies

ODESSA — A 30-year-old man was in custody today in Odessa's City Jail awaiting charges in connection with four separate armed robberies of a Pizza Hut restaurant.

The restaurant, located at 42nd St. and Grandview Ave., was robbed for the fourth time in little more than a week Thursday night around 11 p.m.

Odessa police reported they set up surveillance of the restaurant Thursday and apprehended a man leaving the scene with what is believed to be money from the fourth robbery. The man was also "armed" with a toy pistol.

Witnesses told police the man in custody is the same one who robbed the restaurant three times last week — on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

It is not known whether the gun used in the previous three robberies was a toy.

With a possibility of four charges of aggravated robbery to be filed against the man, no charges had been filed nor bond been set by Odessa officials by this morning.

The identity of the man is uncertain, as police said he burned his identification; however, police expect his identity to be released pending the formal filing of charges.

Voters approve Pinochet constitution

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's voters gave landslide approval by a vote of more than 2-to-1 to a new constitution continuing President Augusto Pinochet in power until 1989 at least.

The right-wing military government's victory in the plebiscite Thursday was never in doubt, and the 64-year-old strongman claimed it before the first results were announced.

The new constitution consolidates freedom and ratifies the complete rejection of Soviet totalitarianism. Pinochet told more than 15,000 persons who cheered him at the government headquarters.

With about 59 percent of a possible 6.75 million votes counted, official results showed 2.23 million votes or 69 percent in favor of the constitution and 904,000 or 28 percent opposed.

Opponents of the new charter, who vehemently opposed the lengthy extension of power it gives Pinochet, were silent Friday night as horn-blowing motorcades moved through Santpago's streets in celebration.

Police chased a taunting crowd away from the home of former President Eduardo Frei, the Christian Democratic leader who called the plebiscite a farce and urged the government to restore democracy in three years.

Pinochet appeared delighted with the enthusiastic reception he got from the crowd at his headquarters. He smiled, waved and pledged to create an economy that would provide a million jobs, 900,000 new houses, a car and telephone for every seven persons and a TV set for every five.

He also praised Chile's women, calling them "the strongest force" in the country and said he would create a Ministry of the Family.

The plebiscite was held on the seventh anniversary of the late Marxist President Salvador Allende's overthrow by Pinochet, and he told the crowd:

"I remember a phrase from Sept. 10, 1973, when I was giving orders to my generals. I told them, 'Gentlemen, the fatherland is more important than our lives.'"

"For what happened, and for the approval of this new constitution, I thank the Almighty."

He was interrupted by cheers of "Gracias Pinochet" and "Viva Chile." He also said the four-man junta he heads "has never been more united than it is now."

The new constitution replaces the 1926 constitution that Pinochet suspended when he seized power. He said it was "too weak to stand up to international Marxism."

Under the new constitution, an eight-year transition period begins next March with Pinochet continuing as president for an eight-year term. In 1989, the junta is to nominate a president who would be voted on in a plebiscite, and free elections would be held in 1997. If the junta could not agree unanimously on a choice for president in 1989, Pinochet term would remain in office another year while elections were held.

Pinochet's opponents contend he will have himself named again in 1989, but he denied this. He would not be a member of the junta during the transition period although he would have the right to replace the army commander.

A two-house congress would begin functioning in 1989, with 120 members elected to the lower house and at least 35 senators, about a third of them appointed.

The constitution affirms the right to private property, freedom of religion and guarantees basic human rights.

Advice on choosing a good day care center

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the kids back in school many wives may be looking for a job to help balance the family budget, and if there are still little ones at home that means finding day care.

Indeed, there are plenty of Americans looking for day care services, not just wives returning to the labor market. And finding a good service can be a hassle.

The national council of Better Business Bureaus says parents looking for child care should put together a checklist of specific requirements, then visit centers, talk with the staff and inspect the facilities.

When looking for local day care services there are many sources to check. Many employers, for example, keep lists of available services and some even provide day care at a weekly fee.

Local civic and church groups also may offer service, and you can get referrals from departments of social services, child welfare offices, schools, the YMCA or YWCA and other groups.

Carefully check out the range of services available, the bureaus say, including nursery schools, baby sitting services, communal care or informal care by friends and relatives. Here are some things to look for when considering day care service, according to the Better Business Bureaus:

- Is the center licensed? Many states require licenses and set requirements, usually including minimum health and safety requirements.
- The center should be well-lighted, safe and in good repair. There should be adequate fire extinguishers and well-marked exits, as well as smoke alarms.
- If there are windows on upper floors, they should be locked or made secure with screens or bars. Stairways should have handrails. All rooms, including bathrooms, should be clean and free from odors. There should be a variety of playthings in good condition and there should be a well-equipped and well-maintained fenced play area outside.
- Check the kitchen and dining areas for cleanliness and appearance and inquire what type of meals are served.
- Is the staff professionally trained and what is their attitude toward discipline and supervision.
- Is the atmosphere pleasant? Does the staff listen and respond easily to the children? Do the children seem content?
- Are activities constructive and stimulating? A good day care center should give children various learning experiences, helping them to develop physically, emotionally, socially and intellectually.
- And finally, the bottom line, what will it cost.

Get center officials to explain the costs in full, as well as payment methods. Are there special rates for more than one child? Do you have to pay for days the child cannot attend, and will the child be permitted to attend on a trial basis?

Judge rules benefit act unconstitutional

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge says a provision of the Social Security Act that denied benefits to widowers who remarried before age 60 is archaic and unconstitutional.

The provision allowed widows who remarried before age 60 and whose second marriage ended in divorce or death to draw benefits on the record of the first husband. Widowers were given no such option.

U.S. District Judge George P. Kazen criticized the sex-based distinction as part of the "baggage of sexual stereotyping that presumes that all women are dependent housewives who rely on their husbands for support."

His ruling on Wednesday was a victory for a retired U.S. Postal Service worker, Wilbur H. Mertz, 68, of Brownsville, Texas.

Mertz filed for spouse's benefits in 1977 on the Social Security record of his first wife, Mary, to whom he was married from 1944 until her death in 1963. He remarried in 1967 and was divorced in 1975.

The Supreme Court and other courts previously have struck down most major gender-based distinctions in the Social Security law. A handful of minor ones still exist.

Mertz brought his suit as a class action. It technically covers all widowers who were denied benefits in the 60 days before Mertz filed the suit on June 29, 1979.

A clerk for the judge said, however, the ruling will have the impact of changing the law "for all widowers."

Kazen ordered Health and Human Services Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris to identify the eligible widowers and pay them benefits.

In Washington, Jim Brown, a spokesman for Social Security, said the agency had not seen the ruling and had no immediate reaction. It does not know how many widowers would be affected.

The judge ordered Social Security to compute Mertz's benefits and pay him immediately. The amount was not known.

DEAR ABBY
Macho man full of more than hot air

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man who is so macho that he flatly refuses to help his wife with anything connected with housework? He says, "Men do not do women's work."

You are a "slave" by your own definition, right?

Emerson said, "Slavery is an institution for converting men into monkeys." Well, that goes for women, too, right? So stop picking up after the male chauvinist, and tell him to use some of that hot air he's full of to blow-dry his own hair. (P.S. A counselor might be able to save your marriage, but I'm not optimistic about your chances of getting him there.)

DEAR READERS: I'm still getting responses to my survey. Here's one of my Spanish-speaking readers who disagrees with "TIRED."

"ESTIMADA ABBY: Estoy en total desacuerdo con CANSADA. Me apena que nunca haya disfrutado de algo tan maravilloso." —25 ANOS

(DEAR ABBY: I am in total disagreement with TIRED. It saddens me that she has never enjoyed anything so marvelous. —25 YEARS)

We have no children, by choice, and we both work days, but he insists that I get up earlier than I ordinarily would in order to blow-dry his hair every morning. He also thinks it's a wife's duty to pick up after her husband, so he leaves his dirty socks and underwear all over the house. He says his mother was his father's "slave" and he expects me to be his.

DEAR ABBY: There is this snooty women's editor in our office who insists on opening and reading mail addressed to Dear Abby, in care of this newspaper, before she forwards it to your Los Angeles office.

DEAR NAME: My attorney tells me that it is a crime for a person to open mail addressed to another unless authorized to do so. The penalty for doing this is one year in prison or a fine of $500. After this hits print, I doubt that it will be necessary to inform anybody. If I am mistaken, please let me know.

As a working wife, I contribute equally to the household expenses and think I should be treated as an equal, but I'm not. His old-world upbringing has given him the macho, male-supremacy attitude, and it's about to drive me to the divorce court. Any suggestions? —SLAVE

DEAR ABBY: You're working full time, right? You contribute equally toward household expenses, right?

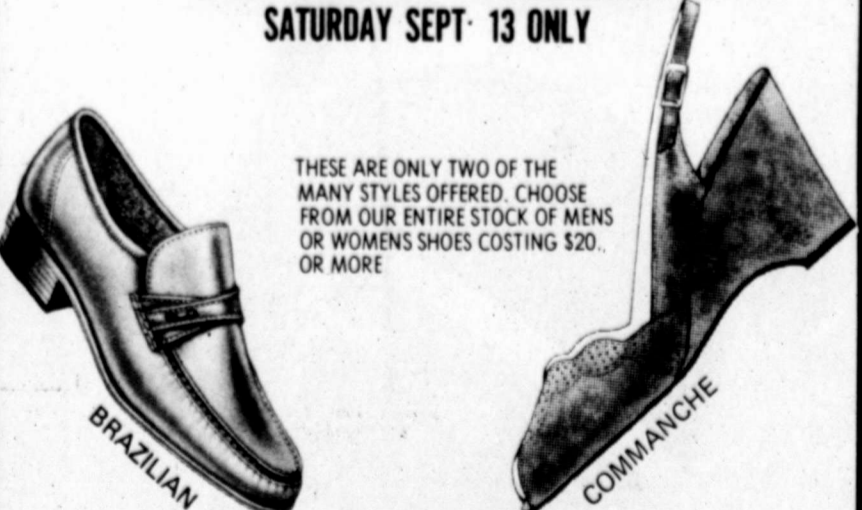

DEAR ABBY: I am a church organist. Frequently I am asked to play for weddings of people I don't know. They pay me and also send me an invitation to the wedding, which includes the dinner.

Am I obligated to send a gift? —WITHHOLD MY NAME

An afternoon with designer Bill Blass

Staff Photos
by Brian Hendershot

By SANDI BREENEN
Lifestyle Writer

Some 650 women filled the Holidome Thursday to see the latest in fashions by Bill Blass. And not one went away disappointed.

The Children's Service League sponsored the show, with benefits going to the Cerebral Palsy Center in Midland. Julian Gold, Inc. presented the show.

Red was the most prominent color with black doing the complimenting. Bright golds, pinks and purples were also seen with a lot of sophisticated brown and subtle green completing the show. And the dramatics of white was not seen too often in the fashions.

The material included velvet, satin, chiffon, organza, cashmere, silk, sequined and metallic materials.

Styles were reminiscent of the early '50s Latin style and the never-quite-out-of-date Victorian look. The metallic material was used in sleek evening dresses, with one styled with a dramatic bare shoulder and long sleeve. Other evening wear included a purple knee-length chiffon with a mass of ruffles completing the look.

Perhaps the most dramatic evening wear was a dress in black velvet with a slanted hemline decorated in large white soft ruffles. But the biggest crowd pleaser seemed to be a black silk Georgette evening dress.

Casual dresses had a just-below-the-knee length and were complimented with big bows, ruffles and some were even styled with the bouffant skirt.

Pants were straight legged and the preppy look was obvious. All pant suits had at least three pieces, and gloves of either the same or a sharp contrasting color complete the popular look.

Jewelry was not obvious on the models, one of whom was Alana Davis of NBC's Today Show fame. Most designers are saying accessories such as jewelry are playing a big role in fall fashions.

Hairstyles were mainly casual ones. A popular hair length seemed to be just below the shoulder with a natural look taking precedence. However, for the evening wear, the hairstyles were those of hair being dramatically combed on top with a casual knot or French twist finishing the look.

Although western wear was not presented in the show, Blass called the latest trend a classic. "I don't see it (western wear) diminishing at all," he said before the show began. "I think it's an American classic."

But this season's popular wine colors are not a classic, he said. "I don't think wine colors will stay in. Bright, chic colors are colors for the future. We've had too many seasons of drab tines," he added.

The economy plays a part in fashion colors according to Blass. "In times of recession, we invariably turn to bright colors. It cheers the women."

And the economy does not hurt Blass either. "There is no problem in selling expensive clothes," Blass said. "They're the easiest to sell."

Government casting eye over Bendectin evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, prodded by alarmed consumers and congressmen, is casting its regulatory eye over the evidence on the drug Bendectin in search of a definitive answer to whether the common medication for morning sickness causes birth defects.

But there is a good chance that when a Food and Drug Administration panel reviews the scientific data on Monday, no simple, final conclusion will emerge.

The controversy is likely to be sustained as a congressional subcommittee examines whether the regulators have properly protected consumers' interests and as dozens of parents consider seeking compensation for the harm they believe has been done their children.

The quality of millions of lives is at stake because Bendectin has been taken by more than 30 million women throughout the world for treatment of nausea and vomiting associated with their pregnancies.

Richardson-Merrell Inc. of Wilton, Conn., Bendectin's manufacturer, insists that the available scientific evidence fails to indict Bendectin.

But that panel's focus is how the FDA handled the regulatory issues and whether it was too lenient in having the manufacturer meet the law's requirements.

The FDA's FERTILITY and Maternal Health Advisory Committee, a panel that makes periodic recommendations to the agency, will review all published and unpublished data on the drug. Then, it will assess whether Bendectin is associated with an increased risk of birth defects and whether further animal or human studies should be conducted on its safety.

The panel also will consider whether Bendectin ought to be restricted to use in cases of severe nausea and vomiting during pregnancy, or be removed from the market.

But Barbara Bolling Manard, a University of California sociologist who reviewed the available scientific data from the company and other sources at Rep. Edwards' request, found "There is strong evidence that Bendectin may cause birth defects."

Ann Wilk evaluated the scientific data to determine whether further animal studies were warranted. She said an FDA review of case reports where pregnant mothers took Bendectin and had children with malformations showed a higher-than-normal rate of limb deformities.

She suggested that tests be conducted to monitor the effects of Bendectin during specific stages of limb development.

She also noted that the FDA did not learn until 1979 of a company-sponsored study of rabbits that led a researcher to recommend further studies. But these studies, which might have shed light earlier on the drug's effects, were never conducted.

But the consumer activists, scientists and congressmen who believe the drug is associated with birth defects are unconvinced. They question the validity of the experiments on the other side, contend that the company suppressed early evidence of the drug's dangers, and promise that new scientific data in the form of three unpublished studies supporting their claims will be produced at the FDA hearing.

The drug's detractors also maintain that since pregnant women should be wary of taking any optional medication because of the potential harm to the fetus, the company is wrong to promote the drug as actively as it has.

Alternate means of coping with morning sickness include eating dry crackers or toast or drinking very hot or very cold liquids in the early morning when the illness is likely to occur.

There has never been any scientific evidence indicating that Bendectin is associated with an increase in the normal incidence of birth defects," company spokesman Robert Irvine maintained.

The FDA takes a similar stand. "Our present evaluation is that the cumulative evidence to date is that Bendectin is not associated with human birth defects," an agency spokesman Wayne Pines said in an interview last week. "We don't have any reason at the present time to take any regulatory action, but we want to keep an open mind."

New Elvis set will not be gold

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Elvis Presley album that's tearing up the record charts will never go gold — not because its $69.95 price tag is scaring off the faithful, but because RCA Records planned it that way.

To commemorate the 25th anniversary of Elvis' signing with RCA, the company decided to put out a deluxe, limited-edition package. And so there are only 250,000 copies of the silver-boxed, eight-record "Elvis Aron Presley" collection in existence worldwide — and that figure includes tape packages.

THE SETS — WHICH ALSO include a 20-page booklet of pictures and commentary — are numbered, much the same way an artist numbers works reproduced in limited quantities. And in a way, that's just what "Elvis Aron Presley" is: a work of art, an audio portrait of "The King," not just through his songs but through interviews, concert patter and studio outtakes.

There are, of course, generous helpings of the big records — "All Shook Up," "Don't Be Cruel," "Heartbreak Hotel," "Hound Dog," to name the four that head the list of Presley's 38 Top 10 singles as recorded by Billboard magazine. (The Beatles had 33.)

BUT ALTHOUGH THE ALBUM includes recordings of 18 of those 38 smashes, it is by no means a "greatest hits" collection.

There's Elvis singing gospel ("How Great Thou Art"), country ("Funny How the Time Slips Away"), patriotic ("America the Beautiful"), and even Beatles ("Yesterday," "Get Back").

There's the young Elvis, sounding a bit nervous as he chats on stage during an early Las Vegas show. There's a 13½-minute monologue, actually Elvis' responses in an interview taped on a film set. There are eight singles that somehow never made it onto any of his albums.

There are a total of 87 performances of 78 different songs, and 65 of those performances have never been released.

ASSEMBLING THE COLLECTION has taken up a year and a half of the life of RCA's resident Elvis authority, Joan Deary, but it probably would have taken anyone else a lot longer.

"I've been working with Elvis Presley, actually, in various capacities, for 25 years. I came to RCA the same year as Elvis did, 1955," says Miss Deary, sitting in a modest office crammed with Elvis memorabilia — posters, paintings, calendars and cardboard cutouts.

Miss Deary is RCA's West Coast director of product development. But she started working with Presley — at least on paper — when she first came to RCA's New York office as secretary to the head of the artist and repertoire department.

By 1964, she had worked her way up to the managerial level — then an unusual accomplishment for a woman — but was still keeping up the paperwork for Presley. And whenever someone wanted an Elvis tape, she was the one who got it from the vaults.

THAT WAS REALLY MY FIRST entree into the music end of it, and that just continued to increase," she says. "Over a period of time, you develop a knowledge that you don't just sit down and actually study, but you develop it by doing and learning what was different about this performance of such and such a song and that performance of such and such a song."

Miss Deary subsequently worked on a series of Elvis records for a low-priced RCA label and put together the album packages for live performances at Madison Square Garden and in Hawaii. Her first "concept" Elvis work was on the Legendary Performer series, which so far consists of three albums. When Presley died three years ago, RCA asked her to start compiling a complete catalog of his tapes — a project she has been working on almost full time since then. She figures she hasn't yet reached the halfway mark.

But she was more than qualified to meet the challenge — hurled by RCA late in 1978 — of putting together the 25th anniversary project.

"I wanted something different, and I wanted something that would span the 25 years," she says. "And that's why I decided to divide my records by the phases of his career. ..."

"MY CRITERIA IN DOING THIS album was to use as much unreleased material as I possibly could, because I did not want to give these fans something that they already had. And I did not pick my performances for technical perfection. I picked them for a specific feel that they add for the over-all, to show the professionalism, to show the warmth, to show the humor. ..."

Blind player relies on memory

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Do you have trouble remembering which cards have fallen during a TENSE poker game?

Do you have trouble reading the facial expressions and mannerisms of the other players? Think of the problems Art Taggart must have. He loves to play poker — and wins his share — but can't see the players, cards or chips.

The 32-year-old Community Action worker is blind, having lost his sight to a blasting cap accident when he was a child.

"Not being able to see is really not that much of a problem during a card game," he said while fingering the stack of blue chips in front of him.

"People with sight do much of their thinking with their eyeballs. I do nearly all my thinking with my memory. Your memory becomes very acute when you know you have to depend on it."

When Taggart and his poker buddies sit down for a long night at the table, they play with marked cards — with Braille markings on two corners diagonally across from one another.

If another person is dealing a stud or hold 'em game, where some of the cards are turned face up, the dealer calls out the up cards and their suits as they fall.

In a seven-card stud game, for example, Taggart remembers the four up cards and their suits deal to the other seven players.

"I mostly concentrate on remembering just the hands which seem to have the potential of beating my hand, but in other cases I remember all the cards."

He keeps his white chips to his right, and his red and blue chips in their proper stacks at left.

When Taggart is dealing, he deals the down cards from the center deck, so his fingers never touch the Braille markings. As he deals the up cards, he handles the corners so he can read the cards and remember where they fell.

"I couldn't cheat if I wanted to, because to read the small Braille I have to hesitate a second or so on each card and press the Braille. I can't read them and deal at normal speed, just brushing a finger across the Braille."

"The people I play with regularly don't give the marked cards a second thought. But occasionally we do get a person in the 50-cent limit game who is a little spooky about the marked cards. But if they keep playing, they get used to me and relax."

Much can be told about another player's hole cards if you have played with him enough to know his "facial quirks" and other mannerisms, which often signal a good hand or a bad one.

"I try to see them by listening. One player tells me something when he bets out of turn. Some signal weakness or strength by how loud they talk. Some have betting patterns which often tell me whether they are bluffing or have it."

"Then there's this one guy. If he has a good hand he never lifts his glass off the table. But if he's weak and trying to run one, he takes a lot of sips — his glass goes up and down like a piston."

Not only do his memory and hearing allow him to win more than he loses, his friends say he also is a tiger on the loose when playing cribbage, pinochle, bridge and gin.

"And I like to head for Reno occasionally," he said. "Craps, roulette and blackjack are my games. When I play blackjack the dealer turns my cards up and calls them out to me."

The man who sees with his memory and ears is quick to add that he doesn't spend all his spare time playing cards.

"I date, and I manage to read three or four novels a week — historical fiction and detective stories are my favorites."

The cards also take a back seat on weekends, when he works on the 40-acre ranch he and his brother own near Clatskanie.

UIL to host conference in Odessa October 11

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The University Interscholastic League will hold a student activities conference in Odessa Oct. 11.

The conference, to be held at Odessa College, is one of nine such conferences being held across the state in September, October and November. The conferences are designed to provide trial runs in several academic and literary contests, as well as furnishing new ideas for competition training.

Sessions in journalism, drama, ready writing, calculator applications, number sense, science and speech events will be offered.

"We find these conferences especially important to the student and contest sponsor alike," said Dr. Bailey Marshall, UIL director.

"Preparation for the spring contest is one of the most important factors in determining the various champions, and these conferences are an excellent means of preparing for the spring meets."

Further information about the student activities conferences may be obtained by contacting the UIL, University of Texas Division of Continuing Education, Box 8028, University Station, Austin, Texas 78712.

Detective not indicted for kneeling

HOUSTON (AP)—A Harris County grand jury did not indict a Houston detective who was filmed last month kneeling a handcuffed prisoner in the groin.

The decision came Wednesday after the prisoner, Jack Donald Curfman, asked the grand jury not to prosecute Detective Bruce Music and said he would not file a formal complaint against the officer.

Music has said he was unaware of the handcuffs and kneed Curfman because he believed the prisoner made a threatening move. Curfman, 24, is charged in the aggravated kidnapping of a six-month-old boy.

Soviets to increase oil exploration

TULSA, Okla. — The U.S.S.R. has scheduled record drilling increases during its next Five Year Plan spanning 1981 — 85, Oil & Gas Journal reports in its Sept. 8 issue.

During 1966 — 70, total capital investment in the Soviet oil industry averaged only about $2.4 billion a year at the then — prevailing exchange rate.

Whereas oil industry capital investment claimed 9.2 percent of all Soviet industrial capital investment during 1966 — 70, it currently is estimated to be about 13 percent.

total Soviet drilling for oil and gas this year, including exploration work conducted by the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Geology, is projected at about 78.7 million feet but probably will fall short of target, the Journal reports.

Mitchell to build gas plant

HOUSTON — Mitchell Energy & Development Corp. reported that it plans to build a $9.5 million natural gas processing plant near Port Arthur, Texas.

Under the terms of a 10 — year agreement, the company will retain the natural gas liquids and pay the state for processing rights.

The 1970s, in turn, saw annual additions to oil reserves fall substantially below those achieved during the late 1960s. Oil drilling and production costs rose to a record pace during the past decade.

During 1966 — 70, total capital investment in the Soviet oil industry averaged only about $2.4 billion a year at the then — prevailing exchange rate.

Whereas oil industry capital investment claimed 9.2 percent of all Soviet industrial capital investment during 1966 — 70, it currently is estimated to be about 13 percent.

estimated at 273 million feet for 1980. Vladimir Filanovsky, head of the U.S.S.R. state planning committee's oil and gas industry section, says it is clear that immediate "forced tempo" expansion of oil exploration in western Siberia is urgently needed to prevent the government — recommended ratio of production to proved reserves from being exceeded.

Average production per new western Siberia oil well slumped from 1,183 barrels a day in 1975 to 661 barrels a day in 1978 and is expected to be only 519 barrels a day in 1980, the Journal reports.

The operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 314.73 barrels of 42.2-gravity oil, no water, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations at 8,912-9,100 feet.

Drilled as a wildcat, the well is bottomed at 9,414 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 9,413 feet.

Operators take finals at Permian Basin wells

ARCO Oil & Gas Co. No. 4 Roy Parks "B", a former Ellenburger producer in the Dora Roberts multipay field of Midland County, has been completed from the Pennsylvania.

The re-entry finalized for a daily pumping potential of 255 barrels of 48.5-gravity oil and five barrels of water, through perforations at 9,846-9,955 feet after a 4,000-gallon acid treatment.

The plugged back depth is 12,880 feet. The well is four miles northwest of Odessa and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 40, block 41, T-2, S, T&P survey.

IRION OILER Moran Exploration Inc. of Midland No. 1-2 A. Sugg has been completed as the sixth well in the Andrew A (Canyon oil) pool of Irion County, 12 miles northwest of Mertzon.

Operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 56 barrels of 45.8-gravity oil and 39 barrels of water, through a 22/64-inch choke and perforations at 6,317-6,342 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 3,536-1, and the pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

Total depth is 7,500 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 6,554 feet and the plugged back depth is 6,506 feet.

The well is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 2, block 6, H&TC survey.

UPTON PRODUCERS

Hunt oil Co. of Dallas No. 2-77 V. Amacker is a new well, the seventh, in the Amacker Tippet, Southwest (Wolfcamp) field of Upton County, 13 miles northwest of Rankin.

The operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 314.73 barrels of 42.2-gravity oil, no water, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations at 8,912-9,100 feet.

Drilled as a wildcat, the well is bottomed at 9,414 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 9,413 feet.

The plugged back depth is 9,350 feet. Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 77, block Y, TCRR survey.

John L. Cox of Midland has recompleted his No. 1 Lynch, former Wolfcamp opener in the Old Upland (Bend) field of Upton County, nine miles northwest of Rankin, as a Bend producer.

The well finalized for that zone for a daily pumping potential of 21 barrels of 49-gravity oil and no water, through perforations from 10,006 to 10,192 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 9,850-1, and the pay was acidized with 1,000 gallons.

The well was completed in February 1979. Location is 990 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 57, block Y, TCRR survey.

Maine Yankee's future in hands of state's voters

By JON HALVORSEN
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The ballot boasts only one question, but the answer Maine voters give on Sept. 23 could rattle the entire U.S. nuclear power industry.

No one, however, is making any confident predictions about the outcome of Maine's controversial referendum — never before has a state considered banning nuclear power and closing its nuclear plant.

No one even knows for certain whether states have such legal authority.

Other states have voted to restrict development of future nuclear plants — a federal judge last year ruled one such California law invalid — but none has voted on closing an existing reactor.

Maine's question is short and straightforward: "Shall an act to prohibit the generation of electric power by means of nuclear fission become law?"

The possible answers are equally to the point: Yes and No.

The proposed law declares in its introduction that nuclear power "presents an inherent and unreasonable risk of economic, physical and mental harm" to the people of Maine.

But those people of Maine are not predicted to overwhelm the polling places, despite almost daily newspaper articles and letters to the editor and weeks of debate between pro- and anti-nuclear forces.

Deputy Secretary of State James Henderson estimates no more than one-third of the 700,000 registered voters will turn out.

A low turnout "usually benefits those who are more intensely committed to their position" — in this case, the anti-nuclear forces pushing for the "yes" vote, Henderson said.

If it passes, the referendum will close the Maine Yankee nuclear plant in Wiscasset, 45 miles up the coast from Portland, which went on line in 1972 and supplies roughly one-third of Maine's electricity.

Or will it? A study by Maine Attorney General Richard Cohen's staff concluded the proposed law "would probably be found to violate the United States Constitution" because the federal government has jurisdiction over the licensing and operation of nuclear plants.

Should the referendum pass, most observers believe it's virtually certain that Central Maine Power Co., the state's largest electric utility and principal owner of Maine Yankee, would challenge the law in court and seek to keep the plant open.

The legal battle would last "a minimum of three to five years," concedes Raymond Shadis, head of the Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee.

Shadis, a 38-year-old North Edgecomb artist and teacher whose century-old farmhouse is two miles from Maine Yankee, coordinated the effort that collected more than 55,000 signatures — only 37,200 were needed — to force the issue to referendum.

Shadis made safety the paramount issue in his campaign, warning of the danger of a sudden meltdown at Maine Yankee or the gradual release of low-level radiation.

Former Portland City Manager John Menario, head of the Save Maine Yankee Committee, disputes Shadis on every point.

The nuclear industry "has been generating electricity for over 20 years without a single loss of life and (with) no serious radiation hazard to any worker in any of the plants," he says.

The accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania — which he claims was widely misinterpreted by the media — was "perhaps the only major serious accident in the history of the nuclear industry and yet resulted in no measurable damage to the public," Menario says.

Television ads from the Save Maine Yankee Committee have focused on the "economic chaos" it says Maine would suffer by closing the plant. Menario contends it would cost $160 million a year to replace the power generated by the plant, and taxes would skyrocket.

Shadis counters that the true replacement cost would be one-third as much — amounting to an added $3 a month for the average ratepayer — and is dwarfed by hidden costs inherent in nuclear power, such as the disposal of nuclear waste. Maine

Yankee's power could be adequately replaced through conservation, new hydroelectric dams and other renewable energy sources, he says.

Save Maine Yankee has far outspent the anti-nuclear forces. By mid-August, it had already raised $501,000 in contributions, much of it from out-of-state, most of it from the nuclear industry, utilities and banks.

By the same date, seven anti-nuclear groups had spent a total of $70,800, about $9,000 more than they had raised. Singers Peter, Paul & Mary, Dan Fogelberg and other entertainers have given benefit concerts to aid the anti-nuclear cause.

Anti-nuclear people are trying to make an issue of the out-of-state money collected by the pro-nuclear forces, but Menario says the contributions come with no strings attached and that Mainers will make the decisions on how the funds are spent.

Tourists take breath-taking ride over vineyards

By FRANCES D'EMILIO
Associated Press Writer
YOUNTVILLE, Calif. (AP) — With a whoosh and a sputter of purplish flame we are rising, 300 feet a minute, on an elevator of air, the lush, emerald vines below looking like nubby carpet.

We travel with the wind. I surprise myself with the ease with which I succumb to the quiet thrill of ballooning, the ease with which I become one with the wafting breeze.

Like hundreds of tourists to the Napa Valley north of San Francisco, I went to America's richest wine country not to sample the wine, but to soar a mile or more above the undulating hills, draped with a green chenille of premature vines.

Visitors pay $75 — $85 on weekends — for a hawk's view of breathtaking beauty — storybook scenery that a swelling corps of pilots views as enthusiasts of hot-air sport ballooning.

For most tourist passengers, the balloon ride is a once-in-a-lifetime splurge.

But for some, that first ride hooks them into a fascinating hobby or a lucrative profession, and they will spend $10,000 or more for their own balloon and often, the start of their own business.

Piloting my flight was one such devotee, 33-year-old Bob Barbarick, an easygoing man long on sideburns and humor. Barbarick guides half of the two-balloon fleet of Napa Valley Balloons, one of a half-dozen such companies in the area.

On his gray tweed driving cap, he sports colorful balloon buttons. One eye-catcher commemorates the first balloon flight — launched by two brothers, the papermakers Joseph and Etienne Montgolfier, in Paris in 1783. The first "passengers" were a duck, a rooster and a sheep.

Except for the species of passengers, ballooning hasn't changed much since. What goes up still must come down, when the pilot runs out of propane or turns down the burner that blasts hot air inside the billowing Dacron or nylon "envelope."

Our envelope — with its purple crown and gold, red, yellow, green and blue-paneled body — could swell with 77,000 cubic feet of heated air. Hot-air balloons rise because the air inside the bag is warmer — thus, lighter — than the air surrounding the craft.

By regulating the burning gas, pilots can raise or lower the craft, but they can't move the balloon horizontally. "You've got to take it the way Mother Nature helps you," Barbarick says.

He slips off his jacket under the warm sun and peers over the side.

Like other pilots who describe the art of ballooning, Barbarick seems to almost see the wind. By catching different breezes at various levels, the pilot can try to pinpoint a landing. A spit over the side or a streamer helps test the wind.

But one never knows what Mother Nature has up her wind-swollen sleeve, and so an integral part of ballooning is the ground crew — in our case a mustard-colored pickup whose driver anxiously scans the skies to follow the capricious balloon.

The driver, Jim Mattison, is a New Yorker who's two hours shy of putting in 10 hours aloft, after which he can take a Federal Aviation Administration test for his private pilot's license. Another 25 hours and he can obtain a commercial license and earn perhaps $100 an hour ferrying tourists, and maybe more by piloting a craft to promote a product or event.

Air time is limited. Most balloonists only go up at dawn — when the air is calm and cool — and can only stay up a few hours before propane runs out.

But I lost track of time in our own little world, bounded by the three sides of the small hand-woven wicker basket. As we quickly dipped, a frightened jackrabbit tries to outrun our fat shadow sailing at eight knots.

People below stare, then smile. Dogs, their sensitive ears tickled by the sound of the burner, howl and run in crazy circles. Above, we hear sounds acutely and can talk with those earth-bound.

There is so much to marvel at, from that rare perspective, that I never had a chance to worry. Height-fearing folks often see their tensions melt and some are brave enough to dangle legs over the side, pilots say.

Besides, experts say hot-air ballooning is one of the safest forms of flight. When two balloons collide while aloft, it's called kissing, so gentle is the meeting.

Ballooning is a casual affair. Winners at the National Championships in Iowa get a can of beer and a trip to the World Championships.

And 383 enthusiasts are expected at Albuquerque, N.M., for the annual festival, a dazzling dawn spectacle of bursting colors as balloons rise together above the desert.

And as always, after the flight there is champagne. The custom may have begun with balloonists mollifying landowners when they touched down in their fields.

On the ground, they are practical. Balloonists save poetry for the air.

Hearing begins in famous 'movie-type' murder trial

By RICHARD DE ATLEY
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The case reads like some preposterous murder thriller: prominent doctor slays elderly woman after she adopts him and makes him sole heir to $3 million fortune.

But the twisted plot is a real-life drama.

Dr. Raymond Louis La Scola — a 65-year-old clinical hypnotist often sought for his expert testimony — has a bail hearing in Santa Monica Municipal Court today on a charge he killed his 88-year-old adoptive mother, Georgia Mahoney Thera, with a fatal dose of insulin on July 18, 1979.

Her death came just 4½ months after she and her husband, a wealthy Buddhist monk, bequeathed La Scola their entire estate, including a Palm Springs home, a large collection of jewelry and a gold-plated statue of Buddha.

La Scola faces a possible death penalty if he is convicted of murder. He is also charged with dissuading a witness, attempting to influence a witness and conspiracy to forge prescriptions and illegally sell drugs.

The case is further complicated by the involvement of Mary Steele Kaye, a former disciple of the monk who became his second wife, and the testimony of William Schenley — portrayed in defense papers as "a known forger, ex-convict and heroin addict" — who alleges La Scola "used drug addiction to control people."

The defendant, jailed without bail since Aug. 25, is a member of the Board of Governors of the American Society of Clinical Hypnotists. His expertise has taken him to a number of trials around the country.

Now, defense attorneys in a case almost as sensational as his own may ask for a retrial. Lawyers for Theodore Bundy, convicted this year in the murder of a 12-year-old Florida girl, said Tuesday they might request a retrial for Bundy because of the shadow cast upon La Scola's integrity. The doctor testified for the prosecution.

La Scola began his career as a Beverly Hills pediatrician who treated the children of celebrities. He switched to clinical hypnosis in the 1940s.

La Scola met Mrs. Thera and Ariya Dhama Thera, an India-born Buddhist monk and founder of the American Institute of Buddhist Studies, in 1975 when he bought an $80,000 home from them.

He became a close friend after using hypnosis to treat Mrs. Thera for high blood pressure. Court documents show La Scola suggested the elderly couple adopt him so he could look after them better.

The Theras adopted La Scola on Feb. 14, 1979, in Riverside County Superior Court. A couple weeks later, Mrs. Thera made a new will.

Five months after that, she was dead. Her death certificate, signed by La Scola, said she died of congestive heart failure. She was cremated a day later. Nothing seemed amiss.

Nothing, that is, until Mrs. Kaye, 58, married Thera and took action to stop La Scola's inheritance. That required lawyers and private detectives; what they found brought in the Los Angeles County district attorney's office.

When Mrs. Kaye lost track of Thera in mid-1979, she hired a private detective to find him. When she saw the 79-year-old Thera in a Santa Monica rest home in May, she was shocked.

"I couldn't believe what I saw," she said. "He was wearing two pairs of pants, two short-sleeved shirts and a ragged sweater. He looked demented."

His wife's will had stipulated that La Scola care for the monk "for the rest of his life in the same manner and conditions as his present living standards."

Mrs. Kaye — identified in court papers as a disciple of Thera since 1963 who had developed "an intimate social relationship" with him — took him out of the rest home and married him five days later.

When La Scola learned of the marriage, he began a court fight to take custody of his adoptive father. La Scola charged that Mrs. Kaye, almost 30 years younger than Thera, was after the monk's money.

It was testimony produced in the custody proceedings that led to the murder charges.

Mrs. Thera's lawyers — father and son Martin and Franklin Radoff — brought forward 31-year-old ex-convict Schenley.

Schenley said he met La Scola in 1977, when he was under arrest for heroin possession. Schenley said that after three years in prison, he went back to see La Scola and lived last summer at the doctor's Malibu home. He said La Scola wrote him drug prescriptions.

"La Scola used drug addiction to control people," Schenley said.

In sworn court affidavits, Schenley said La Scola used hypnosis to persuade the Theras to adopt him. He said the doctor addicted Mrs. Thera to Dilaudid, a synthetic narcotic, then put her through a painful withdrawal to force her to sign the will.

Schenley testified that La Scola had confided to him last May that he had killed Mrs. Thera by injecting her with insulin, difficult to detect in an autopsy.

The Radoffs paid Schenley $2,000 for his story, then took him to the Los Angeles district attorney's office.

La Scola's attorney, Albert Garber, attacked Schenley bitterly in his petition to have La Scola released on bail.

"Stated concisely, Schenley is unemployed, a convicted forger, an ex-convict, parole violator, narcotics addict, thief, highly paid informant and witness for hire," says the petition.

Attached to the petition are 34 letters supporting the doctor, including two from Los Angeles police officers.

One of the officers, Capt. Michael Nielsen, called the doctor "a kind, gentle person who goes out of his way to assist others."

Kremlin promises more food, goods to Poland

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin gave the Polish government a helping hand with its continuing labor crisis, promising increased shipments of food and manufactured goods to help meet the demands of restive workers demanding economic benefits in addition to labor union reforms promised them.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reporting on a meeting Thursday between Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and Polish Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski, said that "in present circumstances" it was increasingly important to raise the efficiency of economic cooperation between the Soviet Union and the communist state on its western border.

Tass did not say what additional products would be delivered or in what quantity. According to Soviet trade figures, exports to Poland last year included grain, tea, sunflower oil, preserved fish and beverages.

The agency also attacked AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, accusing him of aiding "anti-socialist elements in Poland" by starting a fund to send financial contributions to the Polish strikers.

"The trade union bosses of America are exerting every effort to support subversive, anti-social elements in Poland," said Tass.

The strike wave in Poland that turned into a national crisis in the last half of August started with demands for wage increases to offset increases in the government-subsidized price of meat. Strikers in the Gdansk industrial area on the Baltic coast injected political demands and forced Poland's communist leaders to promise a new labor law granting the right to strike and to form independent free trade unions. But a rash of local strikes for higher pay or improvements in working conditions continues.

During the strikes, the Soviet government agreed to give Poland new long-term credits to help pay the interest on the $20 billion it owes the West and to pay for increased foreign imports, including sugar.

Meanwhile, Poland's state-run labor unions began a campaign to counter the independent trade union groundswell by promising workers greater union democracy and autonomy if they remained loyal to the Central Council of Trade Unions controlled by the Communist Party.

"If you do not approve of old union officials, elect new ones you have faith in," said handbills sent to the council's 40,000 affiliated unions. "If you do not think we look after your interests properly, then help us change our policy."

"They are promising even more than the strike committees," complained one independent labor organiza-nizer.

Despite the government promises, interest was growing in the independent unions, unprecedented in any Soviet bloc nation. Workers in Warsaw announced plans for an independent regional union open to all professions and crafts. Pilots, airline stewardesses, academics, actors and others announced plans for unions of their own.

Scattered strikes continued, but government and dissident sources in Warsaw agreed that the number of walkouts had declined to less than two dozen.

Wouldn't You Really Rather Own a Buick?

Why Buick?

The selection is excellent; Sloan-Brothers Buick has the largest inventory of 1980 models they've had all year.

Prices will never be lower, all 1980 units are discounted to sell. The time is right for a Buick because the 1981 models will be higher.

Buick's quality does not have to be sacrificed for cost, you can have a Buick for as low as "the low price 3".

Buick has excellent EPA ratings; Skylark has 24 city and 38 hwy.

Sloan-Brothers has the largest selection of V/6's available on the American Market.

They offer a full service dealership on what they sell, there is no long waiting for service.

Bulldogs, Andrews to decide heads or 'tails'

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Coach Pat Culppepper's plans to unleash his big and burly Midland Bulldogs tonight to see if they can match the speedy Andrews Mustangs in Memorial Stadium in the season home opener.

A big crowd is expected as Culppepper's Pack squares off with Bill Shipman's swift Ponies, led by sprinter Van Pearcey.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

"We hope that all of Andrews comes to the game, because we will need their backing against those big Bulldogs," said Shipman Thursday.

In retrospect, Culppepper is concerned with the overall team speed that Andrews has. "They (Andrews) can fly and break the big play on you if you aren't careful," said Culppepper.

Shipman rates the 1980 Bulldogs as the best ever at MHS. "I wouldn't be surprised if they win their district this year," stated Shipman flatly.

The game pits two of the best schoolboy teams in West Texas.

"Midland, not only is big, but has good speed too, but then I feel like our overall team speed can offset some things a bigger team might try to do," said Shipman.

When asked about the quote from Culppepper that Midland was going to "kick their tail," Shipman replied, "We have a big sign in our fieldhouse that says, 'Whose Tail?'"

Both Midland and Andrews took impressive season opening victories last week. The Bulldogs hammered out a 27-7 victory over Tascosa in Amarillo, and Andrews started slowly, but finished with a bang in beating Seminole, 28-0.

"You might say that we start slowly, but once we get moving, the youngsters can do some mighty exciting things," stated Shipman.

Midland has a fine offensive line that blocks well and Culppepper and his staff has the defense striking some blows this year.

The only Bulldog still out of the lineup is senior slotback Mark Hewitt, a 200-pounder who can block and catch the ball well. He is still troubled with back problems and will not play tonight.

A virus hit the Pony camp this week. In fact, Shipman was forced to go home one day, which is very unusual for him.

Up front, Midland has Joe Goebel, 250-pound junior tackle along with senior tight end Wade Johnson, a 235-pounder. Also helping to anchor down the offensive line are Richard Barton, a 210-pound quick tackle and strong guard David Vincent, a 190-pound senior.

Craig Bostwick, a 230-pound junior, backs up Goebel at the strong tackle slot while Randy Bush, a 210-pound senior, plays behind Vincent. Hank McClung, who also kicks extra points, will be over the ball at center. He is a 180-pound senior while Scott Ballew, 190-pound senior, starts at quick guard.

The wide receiver will be split between David Bledsoe and Kyle Ford. Bledsoe is a 155-pound senior and Ford a 150-pound senior.

In the backfield are Michael Feldt, 185-pound senior along with all-state candidate Jerry Zachery at tailback. Zachery is a 6-foot-2, 208-pounder who has fine speed and also runs with power. He scored three touchdowns last week against Tascosa and rushed for 166 yards.

Joining Feldt and Zachery in the backfield is Scott Yocham, a 197-pounder who runs well and also blocks quite well, thank-you. He scampered 62 yards for a touchdown last week against Tascosa and rushed for 120 yards. The slotback, with Hewitt still sidelined, is Byron Campbell, a gifted 180-pound sophomore and backing up Campbell is Devin Alsop, a sure-handed 168-pound junior. Alsop had two big receptions last week in the opener.

Jerry Dedrick, 215-pound senior, heads the hard-hitting 27 defense at a tackle slot. The linebackers are good ones in Lance Langford, 190-pound senior, 227-pound senior Gary Willis and Yocham.

Defensive ends will include Matt Carr, 180-pound senior and Elston Montgomery, a 170-pound senior. Cornerbacks are a pair of juniors in Jim Southerland and Brandt Moffatt while at strong safety is another junior — Richard Magness and Feldt mans the free safety slot and, according to Culppepper, just may be the best striker on the defensive unit.

Andrews also has some good talent in Pearcey and quarterback Keith Brooks, who can scramble and moves the Wing-T well for Shipman. Wing-back Marty Keeseke can also fly. "We have some quick people in the line, besides having great speed in the backfield," said Shipman.

Jeff Bellue, 215-pound senior tackle and tight end Ricky Jarvis, a 212-pound senior tight end, lead the Mustang offensive unit. Mark Petross, 205-pound senior center, adds to the heft for the Ponies.

Ruben Acosta an 180-pound senior, plays fullback and also defensive end.

Shipman starts no less than five players both ways.

Anyway, a lot of questions will be answered at about 10:15 p.m. tonight, won't they?

Baylor's opener has Teaff worried

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The game Grant Teaff has been dreading for a year is finally here.

When the Baylor head football coach saw Lamar University on the schedule in Beaumont, he said "Psychologically, it will be the toughest opener we've ever had."

Baylor is a two-touchdown pick over the Cardinals of the Southland Conference but you couldn't tell it the way Teaff has been selling Lamar to his players.

"We must have respect for Lamar and all of our work during preseason has been geared towards making our team respect Lamar and they definitely do now," Teaff said.

"To play well against a team, you don't have to fear them but you do have to respect them. Our team knows that they barely won against the Cardinals a year ago, so I think we'll be ready."

Odds-makers are expecting the Southwest Conference to fatten its 2-0 record Saturday against outsiders.

Besides the Baylor-Lamar game, Texas Tech was a 1½-point pick over No. 15 ranked North Carolina in Lubbock; defending SWC champion Houston was a touchdown choice over Arizona State in Tempe and Southern Methodist was a 15-point nod over North Texas State at Texas Stadium.

However, Rice was a 17-point underdog to Clemson on the road; No. 18 ranked Auburn was a seven and one-half point pick over Texas Christian in Fort Worth; and the Texas Aggies were two-point underdogs to Georgia in Athens.

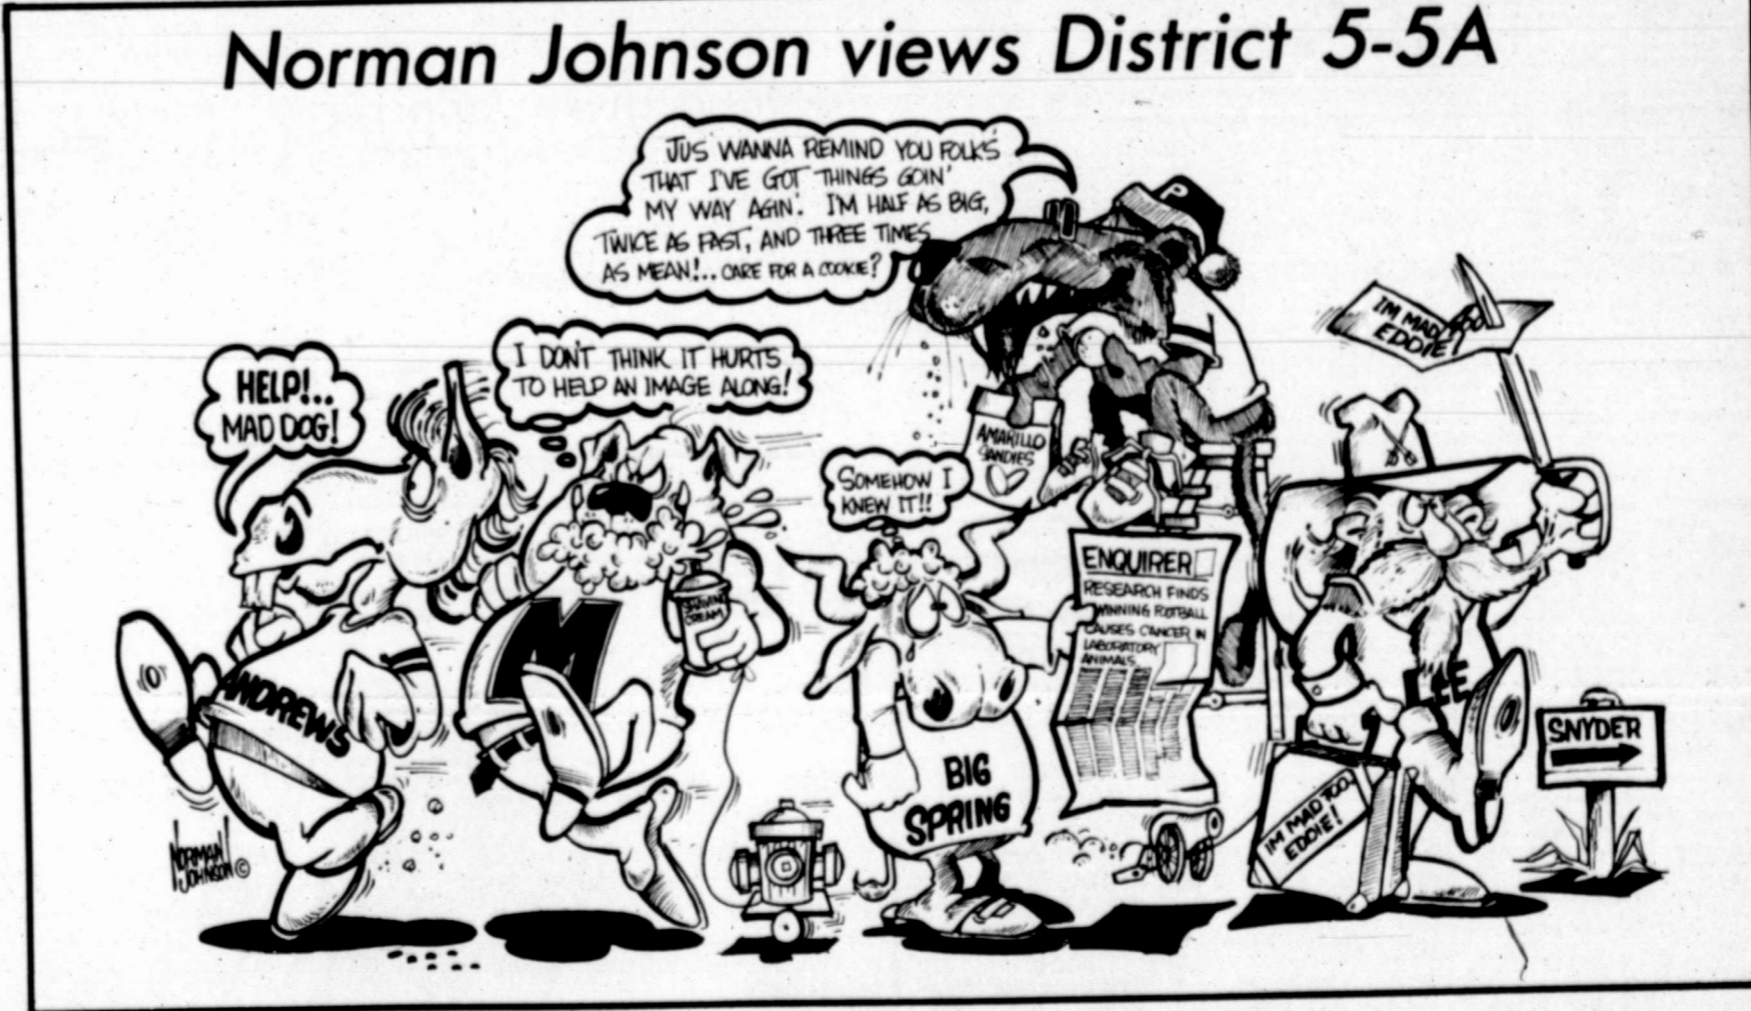

The Texas Tech-North Carolina matchup was selected for national television beginning at 12:50 p.m.

Red Raider Coach Rex Dockery said of the Tarheels: "They are very deserving of their ranking. Pro scouts have told me they have more pro prospects than anybody in the deep south other than Alabama."

The Tech game plan will revolve around stopping "Famous" Amos Lawrence, the top Tarhill go 70 yards f to two yards three straight plays and then he'll go 70 yards for a touchdown. Red Raider Coach Rex Dockery said of the Tarheels: "They are very deserving of their ranking. Pro scouts have told me they have more pro prospects than anybody in the deep south other than Alabama."

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum returns the compliment, saying "It's going to be a dogfight. I think going in there (Lubbock) gives them an advantage."

SMU Coach Ron Meyer has made a decision on which of his bluechip sophomore tailbacks will start against NTSU and it's Craig James, who closed strong with 169 yards rushing against Arkansas in the final game of the 1979 season. E.Eric Dickerson will play an equal amount of time. Meyer said.

'Big Mo' turns against Rams, 10-9

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Momentum in a National Football League game is just about as uncertain as the weather. A team never knows whether it might go for or against them.

"Big Mo" was on the side of the Los Angeles Rams for 38 minutes Thursday night, but it suddenly swung to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the final two minutes of their NFL game and the result was a 10-9 Bucs victory.

"I heard they were laughing at us on the sidelines," said Tampa Bay tight end Jimmie Giles. "But the opera ain't over 'till the fat lady sings. And she's singing now."

The triumph gave the Bucs a 2-0 record, while Los Angeles, off to its worst start since 1963, dropped to 0-2.

The game was billed as a rematch of the defensive struggle the two teams endured in last season's National Football Conference championship game. It turned out to be just that.

Four field goals between them — three by Los Angeles' Frank Corral and one by Tampa Bay's Garo Yepremian — was all the scoring the teams could muster through 59 minutes.

Three seconds into the 60th minute, Bucs quarterback Doug Williams dove into the end zone from 1 yard out to cap a 6-play, 62-yard march. Yepremian then clinched the victory with the conversion.

The key play in the winning drive was a 41-yard pass interference penalty called on Los Angeles safety Terry Sulley, which gave the Bucs a first down at the Rams' 11 with 1:21 remaining. It changed the complexion of the game, and Sulley and Rams head Coach Ray Malavasi both took exception to the call.

"I was going for the ball and he was going for the ball," said Sulley, who was whistled for knocking down intended receiver Kevin House. "In my opinion, that's not interference."

"When the whole team plays well for 59 minutes and then it comes down to this, it's not justice," Sulley continued. "I feel bad for my teammates."

Malavasi said: "A lot of things happened wrong. There were a lot of bad calls. The pass interference call was one."

Two plays after the penalty, Williams scrambled for 10 yards and a first-and-goal situation at the 1-yard line. He scored the touchdown on the following play and Yepremian's conversion kick sealed the victory.

Corral, who kicked three goals when the Rams beat the Bucs 9-0 in the NFC title game, gave Los Angeles a 3-0 lead with 9:16 left in the second quarter with a 43-yard field goal. A 43-yarder which hit the crossbar and bounced through for Yepremian tied the game at 3-3 as time ran out in the first half.

Corral's second field goal, a 32-yarder with 6:59 to go in the third quarter, was the result of good field position the Rams enjoyed the entire period. His 27-yarder with seven minutes left in the game capped a drive quarterback Vince Ferragamo engineered from his own 20-yard line to the Bucs' 9.

Tampa Bay entered the game as the NFL's top-ranked defense after yielding only 128 total yards in a season opening triumph at Cincinnati. But the Rams dominated the game offensively from the start, although the Bucs came up with four timely interceptions that thwarted Los Angeles drives.

"We've played LA three times (in the last two years) and they haven't scored a touchdown yet," said Bucs Coach John McKay. "Holding them to no touchdowns was the key factor."

Ferragamo hit 17 of 29 passes for 191 yards as the Rams rolled up 360 total yards on offense, compared to only 186 for Tampa Bay.

"You got to give and give and give and not let them in the end zone," said Bucs defensive end LeeRoy Selmon. "We let them do a little too much of that, but I'm happy with the victory."

Williams, who was playing with a mild case of strep throat, completed 10 of 23 for 97 yards and was intercepted once. Jerry Eckwood led the Bucs' in rushing with 60 yards in 16 carries.

Los Angeles rookie running back Jewerl Thomas led all rushers with 64 yards on seven carries.

Rebels, Bulldogs picked to win

Well, the first weekend of Class AAAA school football was a successful one as far as picking games for this corner. In hitting 16 of 19 games the percentage for the first weekend was .842.

Got to brag a little by picking the Midland High 27-7 win over Amarillo Tascosa on the button.

If Lee hadn't fumbled three times, the Rebels might have beaten Killeen by the 20-13 score predicted, but Coach Spike Dykes crew is still going to be tough, just you wait and see.

Misses last weekend were in the Lee-Killeen, Abilene-Rider and Lewisville-Duncanville tilts.

So anyway, here goes this week's predictions:

MIDLAND HIGH, under new Coach Pat Culppepper, has its home opener tonight against a mighty good Andrews football team in Memorial Stadium. You can talk about and think about those quotes by both Culppepper and Andrews' Bill Shipman, but it still will be won out on the football field. Going to go with the Purple Pack to take a 26-8 victory over the Mustangs to remain undefeated.

MIDLAND LEE is anxious to make up for that tough 13-7 loss to the rugged Killeen Kangaroos last week. The Rebels travel to Snyder and should get on the winning track against the Class AAAA Tigers, say to the tune of 28-6.

ODESSA PERMIAN, small, but very impressive in last week's 24-0 blanking of El Paso Coronado, has some injury problems with tailback Kent Sager and wingback Mike George doubtful. That won't make that much difference against the Amarillo Golden Sandies. Mojo to win, 21-0.

ABILENE COOPER escaped with a 13-12 decision over Brownwood last week. The Cougars will be playing their home opener in P.E. Shotwell Stadium with quarterback Lanny Dycus showing the way, 27-13.

ABILENE HIGH certainly did surprise me last week, but then the 5-1 loss to Fort Worth O.D. Wyatt in a scrimmage two weeks ago was nothing to judge the Eagles by. Abilene to defeat Weatherford, 26-13 tonight.

SAN ANGELO CENTRAL has improved, but not enough to beat Austin Anderson tonight in San Angelo's Stadium. It will be a close game, but going with Anderson to post a 16-13 victory over the Bobcats.

BIG SPRING knocked off Snyder, 14-13 last week. Last year, the Steers only scored four touchdowns all year long. They face Sweetwater tonight. W.T. Stapler, former Conroe coach, has taken over the reigns at Sweetwater. Have to go with the Mustangs to take a 20-14 win over the Steers.

ODESSA HIGH was also impressive in beating Amarillo High 34-6 last weekend and the Bronchos return to W.T. Barrett Stadium Saturday night to face the El Paso Burges Mustangs. OHS to take a 33-6 victory over the Border City team.

OTHER GAMES: Plano over Lewisville; Highland Park to roll over Sherman; Lubbock Monterey over Wichita Falls Rider Saturday; Arlington Sam Houston over Fort Worth Southwest; Dallas Carter over Arlington Heights Saturday; Longview over Paschal; Arlington High over Eastern Hills; Arlington Bowie over Western Hills; O.D. Wyatt over Poly; Arlington Lamar over Dallas Sunset; Mesquite over Spruce; North Mesquite over Skyline; W.T. White over Tyler Lee; Pinkston over Wilmer-Hutchins; Richardson over John Tyler; Irving over Lake Highlands; McKinney over Greenville; Dumas over Pampa; El Paso Andress over Caprock; Hereford over Palo Duro; Plainview over Tascosa; Lubbock Coronado over Dunbar and Estacado over Lubbock High.

MHS sophs win, 12-7

The Midland High Sophomores drove 70 yards in the final seven minutes Thursday afternoon to capture a hard-fought 12-7 victory over Fort Stockton at the MHS practice field.

Coach Eddie McHugh's crew played outstanding defense led by linebackers Bruce Sears and Teddy Terrazas and David Russell.

Midland scored first by driving 75 yards with Tony Carrasco scoring on a quarterback sweep from eight yards out. The pass from Tony Carrasco to Joe Carrasco for the two-pointer failed, however.

Fort Stockton also drove and with the help of a roughing-the-kicker call on MHS, scored from close in a booted PAT for a 7-6 lead.

Ricky Madrid scored the winning touchdown from the six and once again, the two-point attempt by Ricky Phillips failed.

Blake Liberty picked off a Fort Stockton pass in the second half while Hissom also played well for Midland, according to McHugh.

Midland's next game will be at 4:30 p.m. next Thursday against the Lee Sophomores at the Lee practice field.

The MHS Sophs now stand 2-0 with victories over Pecos and Fort Stockton.

Midland's Bullpup junior varsity was open this week.

Playoff schedule set

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are the only team among the top six contenders that would not be home for one of the possible one-game play-offs in the event of two-way ties in the National League East and West Divisions.

The sites of the tie-breaking games, announced Thursday by NL President Chub Feeney, are Montreal at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Montreal and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh in the East and Houston at Los Angeles, Cincinnati at Houston and Cincinnati at Los Angeles in the West.

The sites were determined by the toss of a coin with all the participating clubs represented via a conference call.

In the event of two-way ties, the games would be played on Monday, Oct. 6 at 1 p.m. local time. If there is a three-way tie, an announcement of game sites and dates will be made later.

Lee Brigade blanks Snyder

Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade opened the 1980 junior varsity football season with a bang Thursday afternoon by shutting out the Snyder JV, 23-0, at the Lee practice field.

The Brigade defense lived up to its nickname in throwing up a stone wall at the Tigers, but on the darker side, Lee lost halfback Tommy Joe DeWitt in the third quarter when he suffered a broken arm. DeWitt had broken for two long touchdowns last week as the Lee sophomores downed the Lake View JV, 13-8, in San Angelo.

Bringing a smile to Johnson's face was the play of his defense which scored eight of the 23 points.

Lee got off to a great start in the first period when the Snyder quarterback was tackled by Lorin 'Top Cat' Blake for a safety in the end zone.

The Brigade then added another touchdown in the second period for a 9-0 halftime lead. Dondi Dominguez picked off a Snyder pass and returned it 27 yards and scored later on a quarterback sneak. Kerry Robertson split the up-rights for a 9-0 lead.

In the third period, Lee added 14 more points with Tim Woodlee blocking a Snyder punt and Blake scored a touchdown when he pounced on a fumble in the Snyder end zone for a 15-0 lead. Robertson again booted the PAT to increase the lead to 16-0.

Kevin Boeck recovered another Tiger fumble at the Snyder 20 and on the next play, Terry Parsons took a quick pitch and raced 20 yards to pay dirt. This time, left-footed kicker Carlton Johnson booted the PAT for the final 23-0 reading.

Lee's next junior varsity game isn't until Oct. 2 when the Brigade plays the OHS JVs in Odessa. The Lee Sophomores play the Midland Sophomores next Thursday at Lee at 4:30 p.m. in their second outing of the year.

The game was moved from Memorial Stadium to the Lee practice field due to the five-inch rain that fell in Midland Wednesday.

Score by periods:
Snyder JV 0-0-0
Lee JV 27-14-0-23
Final score:
LEE - Dondi Dominguez, 1-yard run. (Kerry Robertson kick).
LEE - Lorin Blake recovered Snyder fumble in end zone for TD. (Robertson kick).
LEE - Terry Parsons, 20-yard run. (Carlton Johnson kick).

Badgers face Reagan Owls in area tilt

McCamey's Class AA battle with Reagan County, a battle of unbeaten, tops tonight's area football schedule, a night in which Stanton of AA challenges Coahoma of AAA at Coahoma in another matchup of 1-0 teams.

Greenwood journeys to Whiteface seeking its second straight win before returning home next Friday to meet potent Klondike, which will be going for its second straight against Plains. Last week Klondike whipped Wink, 14-0, while Greenwood, playing its first UIL game, beat Sterling City, 8-0.

AAA Monahans plays at AA Crane, both looking for their first wins after narrow defeats last week, while state-ranked Rankin travels to play Marfa, a 14-2 loser to Alpine last week.

Iraan, which threw a first class scare into McCamey last week, is at Eldorado this week.

NTSU's Jackson is shot to death

DENTON, Texas (AP) — North Texas State running back Bernard Jackson was shot to death early today in a shopping center parking lot near the school's campus, a school spokesman said.

North Texas Sports Information Director Fred Graham confirmed early today that Jackson, 21, of Dallas, was dead.

Graham said police told him Jackson was dead upon arrival at Flow

Memorial Hospital here about 2 a.m. They said he died of gunshot wounds, Graham said.

Denton Police spokesmen refused to confirm that it was Jackson, but confirmed they were investigating a shooting death. The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said he could not release any information.

Jackson, a converted wide receiver who played in the backfield at North Texas State, holds the school's career net yards with 2,202 yards on 421 carries.

In 1978, the 6-0, 178-pound Jackson was ranked sixth nationally with 1,453 yards on 269 carries. He ranked 10th nationally in all-purpose running that year.

His yardage production fell off last year to 749 yards, but he ranked 20th nationally in kickoff returns and 28th in all-purpose running.

J.R. Richard's future still in doubt

HOUSTON (AP) — J.R. Richard, whose deadly fastball sparked pennant fever here, leaves a Houston hospital today but doctors still are unsure the weakened pitcher will ever return to the mound.

Richard, recovering from a stroke that weakened his left side, will be discharged from Methodist Hospital after his daily therapy session, said team physician Dr. Harold Brelsford.

"We've been very pleased with J.R.'s progress and thought he should be allowed to return home. He'll continue his treatment as an outpatient for an indefinite period of time," Brelsford said Thursday night.

Richard, whose fastball is one of the best in the major leagues, collapsed July 30 during a workout at the Astrodome. He was rushed to Methodist, where doctors in a 90-minute operation removed a blood clot from an artery in his neck.

Doctors later acknowledged Richard had suffered a stroke that had weakened his left side.

Brelsford and a team spokesman said the right-hander had made "considerable progress since the surgery," but declined to speculate about Richard's future with the Astros, now tied for first place with Los Angeles in the National League's Western Division.

"... We still don't know about the future. We more concerned with his general well being. He's still got a long way to go in his physical rehabilitation program," the team spokesman said.

On July 8, Richard pitched the first two innings of the All-Star game in Los Angeles but was off the team roster eight days later.

Richard, who led the National League with his 2.71 earned-run average last season and had a 1.89 average this season, was placed on the disabled list July 16 after complaining for several weeks of a "dead arm" and other ailments.

His complaints and his leaving the mound early in 10 of his last 17 starts this season prompted criticism from teammates and fans.

Hospital tests conducted the week before his collapse detected an arterial circulation impairment in the right shoulder area, but doctors indicated surgery was unnecessary and said Richard would "be able to resume throwing as tolerated."

However, he collapsed while throwing to former Astros catcher Wilbur Howard during his first workout.

Further tests after his collapse detected the clot, and the operation began 12 hours after the ambulance rushed him back to the hospital.

Saturday, September 13, 1980
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Beautiful actress Jacqueline Bisset shares this birthday with you. In the coming year, a sensible attitude towards finances will allow you to move ahead while others remain caught in the economic crunch. Guard against a tendency to be overly-critical of associates' foibles. Although you are right in saying that honesty is the best policy, too much candor can sometimes blight the beginning of a promising relationship! Loved ones can find your outspoken criticism very hard to bear.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Mate, partner could be grumpy in the morning—and romantic in the evening. A more serious attitude will make a favorable impression on co-workers, business associates.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): There are unsuspected advantages to accepting a social invitation. Try to organize work assignments so that they do not have to be taken home on the weekends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This is a critical time for personal relationships. Loved ones may express doubts about the future. Do not be deluded by a friend's sad story. Success on a special project is near at hand.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take your time if tackling a do-it-yourself home improvement project. An old friend who has been out of touch may suddenly reappear. Be careful not to ask too many questions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may have an unexpected opportunity to add to personal income. Sending a letter or small gift to an older relative is an excellent idea.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Small groups are apt to be more enjoyable than large ones right now. Be open to suggestions. Relative's plans may turn out to be more fun than your own!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Expect to receive some good news about a family member. Relative may have changed his or her mind at the last minute. Try not to talk too much about a recent triumph!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A temporary setback could be a blessing in disguise. Be careful not to quarrel with someone who is trying to be helpful, this person's motives are truly generous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Meditation can be very beneficial if approached in a positive manner. Give some thought to what you hope to have accomplished by this time next year.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Today may bring several happy surprises. Marital differences are partially resolved through a discussion with a third party. Be honest about a past disappointment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some weekend plans may have to be altered. Romance undergoes change. Do what you can to assist an older person who cannot get out much anymore.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You get valuable assistance in reorganizing domestic affairs. Refuse to be easily swayed by the advice of those who do not know the full story of your finances.

lead-directing, and he got his side off to an excellent start when he chose to lead a club. East rose with the ace and continued with a low club, declarer ruffing.

Declarer crossed to the queen of hearts, noting with joy that West followed with the eight, and then led the nine, intending to run it if East played low. East split his honors and declarer won the king. He crossed to the king of diamonds and ruffed a club, reducing his trump length to that of East. The stage was set for a trump coup.

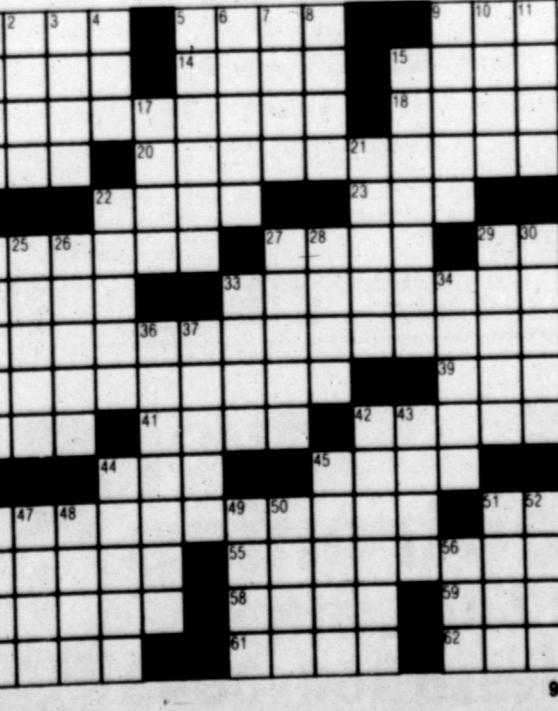

East followed to three rounds of spades, but the fourth spade put him on the spot. Since he would be over-ruffed if he trumped, he discarded a diamond. So did declarer. On the last spade he pitched a club, and declarer parried with his last diamond. Everyone was down to two cards. Declarer simply led a diamond from dummy, and whether East ruffed high or low, declarer would overruff and have the master trump for the last trick.

Anderson rebuilding his 'reputation'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John B. Anderson, with two months left before the presidential election, is trying to restore his reputation as the candidate of candor, the man willing to make politically unpopular statements.

On Thursday the independent presidential candidate told employees at a California plant helping to develop the MX missile that the elaborate missile system would be bad for the country.

And he told a group of university students that as an independent his task was to "shake up the political system."

Anderson, whose candor was partly responsible for his early popularity, has been accused more recently of being just another politician. But his aides are now urging him to return to his original campaign style of speaking out.

He seems to be following that advice.

Midway through a California campaign swing Thursday, Anderson told about 1,500 employees of TRW Systems Inc. that the MX missile "is destabilizing rather than contributing to the ultimate peace and security of the country."

The TRW plant in Redondo Beach, where Anderson spoke to a noontime rally, does $50 million-worth of work annually on the MX for the government.

Plans call for the MX, now in its early stages of development, to be installed in isolated areas in the Southwest. The missiles will be mobile and will be moved around among a number of covered bunkers to avoid detection and targeting by the Soviets, kind of audience I am talking to.

Anderson told the plant workers, "You know, I am very conscious of the kind of audience I am talking to."

Noting that the jobs of about 500 TRW employees at the facility depend on the MX, Anderson said, "I didn't come here in a posture of defiance. I did not come here to tweak your noses in some kind of strategy of confrontation to tell you that I want to take your jobs away."

He said, "I just happen to believe that there are better ways to spend $65 billion" than on the MX.

During the presidential primary season Anderson developed a reputation for candor by telling a gun-owners' organization in New Hampshire that he supported federal controls on handguns and in making strong statements in support of federally funded abortions before conservative audiences.

During the summer, there were fewer and fewer moments of such political risk-taking.

Then, in a brief flirtation with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's own presidential candidacy, Anderson was criticized for seeming to be just another politician willing to make compromises to enhance his own independent candidacy.

Now, however, he seems to be returning to his earlier approach.

Before the same TRW audience, Anderson said, "We're not going to tell every audience what they want to hear."

"You watch our style," he said, pledging that between now and the November election his campaign would become "tough-minded and realistic."

Noting that there is still a considerable gap between him and President Carter and Republican nominee Ronald Reagan in public opinion polls, Anderson said, "We have time to catch up."

From Redondo Beach, Anderson traveled to San Jose State University, where he told about 2,000 students that as an independent president, "the great challenge to me is to shake up the political system as it has never been shaken before."

He told students that as an independent he would force the two major political parties to come up with better nominees in future elections.

"We will be doing something real tangible to reinvigorate the political spirit of the country," the Republican congressman from Illinois said.

Today, Anderson was scheduled to campaign in San Francisco, and after spending the weekend there he will travel to Washington, Oregon and Missouri before returning to Washington next Wednesday to prepare for the presidential debate with Republican Ronald Reagan in Baltimore Sept. 21.

Kennedy combines campaign appearances, plea for funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy intends to combine campaign appearances for President Carter this fall with stumping for other Democratic candidates and efforts to retire the sizeable debt left over from his own bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, aides say.

In general, one top Kennedy assistant said late Thursday, the White House has asked the Massachusetts senator to make appearances for the Carter-Mondale ticket in the big industrial states where he fared well against the president in last spring's primaries.

"They have a Pat Caddell poll that shows that without Kennedy they have real problems in California, New York, New Jersey and Texas," said one aide, who asked not to be identified by name.

Kennedy defeated Carter in primaries in California, New Jersey and New York and had a strong following among Mexican-American voters in Texas.

With the details of Kennedy's effort on behalf of the president still to be worked out, this aide said the Massachusetts senator has received more than 60 requests for assistance from Democrats running for the Senate, the U.S. House of Representatives and local offices.

Two firm commitments on Kennedy's calendar include a stop in South Dakota on Nov. 1, where long-time political ally Sen. George McGovern faces a tough re-election campaign, and a fundraiser on Sept. 24 for Rep. Chris Dodd in Hartford, Conn. Dodd is the Democratic senatorial candidate in that state.

One aide said Kennedy will be attending a series of fundraisers for himself, as well, since he has a debt of about $1.7 million left over from his nine-month challenge to the president.

As far as possible, these events will be scheduled to coincide with campaign appearances for the president or other Democrats, an aide said.

The event to gain money to pay off his debt will be in Los Angeles on Sept. 22, the same day as a Kennedy appearance with Carter at a Democratic National Committee fundraising dinner.

Kennedy, who battled Carter for the nomination all the way to the party convention last month, said afterwards that his enthusiasm for the ticket would depend in part upon the policies Carter fashioned to deal with the recession.

Kennedy's aide said the senator and the president had not discussed either that issue or their campaign schedules for several weeks.

The Los Angeles dinner will be Kennedy's first full-scale appearance with Carter, and another is scheduled at a DNC event in New York on Oct. 8.

The aide said the president's campaign aides have asked the senator to make appearances in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Detroit and Texas.

"They have asked us to do the Northeast," this aide said. Noting "we'll probably do a couple of southern states," the aide said stops in New Orleans and Florida, possibly in Orlando, are under discussion.

In addition, Kennedy intends to make at least one more appearance on Carter's behalf in Boston. The senator met the president at that city's airport when Carter flew in to address the American Legion convention two weeks after the Democratic convention.

Wayne County employees may face yet another payless payday today

DETROIT (AP) — Without some sort of miracle, about 2,300 Wayne County employees can count on a payless payday today, county officials say.

"The situation is dismal," said Leonard Proctor, secretary of the Board of Auditors on Thursday. "We're not performing any brinkmanship. The fact of the situation is that we don't have it."

The Michigan Municipal Finance Commission on Tuesday refused for the third week in a row to approve Wayne County's bid to borrow $20 million against expected taxes.

most-populous county, which includes Detroit, forecasts a $24 million deficit for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30. "I think we're in the area of $800,000 short," said Samuel Turner, chairman of the governing Board of Commissioners. "We'll continue counting right up through 4:30 p.m. Friday."

Reagan stirs up 'debate debate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan is trying to stir the debate debate into an issue against President Carter, claiming that administration policies are so bad Carter doesn't want to defend them face-to-face against Republican and independent challengers.

The GOP presidential nominee said Rep. John B. Anderson, the independent candidate, doesn't scare him.

"He's using Mr. Anderson as the excuse that he won't debate," Reagan said. "Well, I don't find Mr. Anderson too much to be afraid of."

—But then, in the primaries, he found Teddy Kennedy was too much for him to debate, also."

Although Reagan didn't mention it this time, he has said repeatedly in the past that the moderate Anderson is more of a hazard to Carter than to the Republican ticket.

He made the debate remark while assailing Carter energy policies in a rebuttal to Carter, who had accused Reagan of misstating facts in a Wednesday energy speech. Reagan, in Erie, Pa., said it was Carter, not he, who misrepresented the energy record.

"You know, there are some people who look up the figures and some people who make up the figures," Reagan told a crowd that filled the lawn of the Erie County Courthouse and stretched halfway along the tree-shaded block.

It was the last stop in a five-day campaign swing through the tier of vote-rich states along the Great Lakes. He wound it up in Buffalo, N.Y., and Erie on Thursday, and took a day off today at his Middleburg, Va., home.

On Saturday, Reagan's schedule shows him beginning preparation for the Sept. 21 debate he and Anderson have agreed to, and Carter has shunned. The president insists that the first debate should match the major party nominees, without Anderson.

"It's time for him to stop running away from his record and to face reality," Reagan said in Erie. "His energy policies have made the U.S. energy future less secure, and that is why we need a new, balanced energy policy or production and conservation."

Reagan repeated the charge Carter denied on Wednesday, saying that the administration has "discouraged the discovery and production of energy in this country."

The president called those "false allegations," and said oil and coal production have increased.

Reagan replied that the administration's own figures prove his case, and said Carter's rebuttal "consists largely of misleading rhetoric and incomplete facts...."

"You don't suppose that's one of the reasons he's found an excuse for not debating, do you?" Reagan said. "That he wouldn't like a chance to compare these facts face-to-face?"

Reagan scoffed at Democratic charges that he's trying to avoid one-on-one debate with Carter. "Well, I figure he's got to find something to say," Reagan said. "But I'm the one who's going to be there. He's the one who isn't going to be there."

But Reagan wouldn't speculate on the prospects for debate matching the two major party candidates. "I think that will have to depend on circumstances," he said, "and whether Anderson continues to be a viable candidate...."

Then, to laughter, he added: "Or whether I continue to be a viable candidate — or Carter does."

Reagan is to appear Saturday at a Republican fund-raising affair at the home of his neighbors, Sen. John Warner of Virginia and his wife, Elizabeth Taylor, and at an Italian-American dinner in Washington on Saturday night.

He goes on the campaign road again Monday, in San Antonio, Texas.

Bush says Reagan presidency could be 'catalyst' for peace

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Republican vice-presidential nominee George Bush says Ronald Reagan could be a catalyst in the White House for a peaceful political settlement between Taiwan and the People's Republic of China.

Campaigning Thursday in California and Oregon, Bush did not specify what precise role his presidential running-mate might play in such negotiations or the sort of agreement he anticipated, except that it would unequivocally not involve American diplomatic recognition of Taiwan.

Reagan was recently criticized by the Peking government for suggesting the establishment of an "official governmental relationship" between Washington and Taiwan.
