He points to Reagan's tax record

HOUSTON (AP) - Vice President Walter Mondale said today Americans will reject Ronald Reagan's proposed trillion-dollar tax cut when they learn about his tax record as governor of California.

Mondale told a cheering labor group that Reagan increased taxes by the largest amount of any California

"And the state's budget grew by 120 percent," he said. "We want to know where he is going to make those tax cuts," Mondale told the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union.

He told the retail clerks and meat cutters Reagan offers little relief for them because higher income brackets would benefit most from the Republican proposal.

'This Ronald Reagan bill is a classic trickle down," he said. "American people want tax relief but they want it for the low income and middle class."

Bill Wynn, president of the 1.3 million-member labor group that is the largest affiliate of the AFL-CIO, introduceed Mondale by saying "there has never been a team in the White House so solidly behind labor as Carter-Mon-

During his 15-minute news conference, the vice president also discussed the importance of the Texas vote, the hostage situation in Iran and the Iran-Iraq dispute: Mondale said the presidential debates were "the best possible way for the American people to see the candi-

But Mr. Anderson has accepted. So that indicates Mr. Reagan is left with one answer, that he refuses to do what the American people want him to do," he said.

Mondale told reporters he believed the race in Texas would be tight but predicted the Democrats again would come out on top. "Texas is very important," he said. "It is going to be

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - Iraqi and Iranian troops were reported locked in savage hand-to-hand combat today for Iran's oil port of Khorramshahr, and an Iraqi air attack was said to have heavily damaged a $3 billion Persian Gulf petrochemical complex under construction to the east.

Meanwhile, Iran's Parliament unanimously rejected any direct or indirect negotiations with the United States on the 52 U.S. hostages captured 334 days ago. And in an offshoot of the 11-day-old war, the Iranian and Iraqi embassies in Beirut, Lebanon, were rocketed and seriously da-

The diplomats said they believed the Iraqis also were seeking a period of quiet so their troops could consolidate their gains inside Iran. # Bank deposits here hit another record

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Midland's bank deposits for the July through September period hit an all-time high of more than $1.22 billion, and all six city banks' individual deposits increased as well.

The total figure, $1,228,407,048, represented a 7 percent increase since the end of the last quarter June 30, when the total was $1,139,965,027. The figure was some 31 percent above the total for the same time period last year of $850,605,751.

The banks must record total deposits and total loans and discounts each quarter. This quarter ended Sept. 30.

Loans and discounts for the city were up 12 percent over last quarter, coming to a total of $879,465,632. Last quarter's total was $772,838,322. The loan total this quarter was at least 32 percent higher than that of a year ago at $597,483,987.

Local bankers said they had expected an increase for this quarter, as money situations are usually better at this time of year. "The next quarter should be even better," Eddie Thomas, president of Metro Bank said. "It's seasonally the best." Thomas said people and com-panies begin saving for their income tax payments and other due bills.

As individual bank totals go, First National Bank of Midland again lead the six. With $815,899,176 in deposits, the bank's income rose 8.7 percent over that of last quarter, which was $744,513,569. The new figure represents a 34 percent climb over last year's third-quarter figure of $542,-

Loans and discounts at First National also carried a large increase of 16 percent over last quarter's figure to total $641,916,342. Last quarter's figure was $549,788,453. This quarter's total loans at the bank was 38 percent above last year's figure of Midland National once again rankedsecond with it's figures. Total deposits at the bank came to $279,801,-000, which represents a 3.5 percent increase over last quarter's total of $269,678,782. The new figure, however, is 25 percent over the deposits a year ago of $208,393,159.

Midland National's loans and discount figure rose 3 percent over last quarter's $154,301,161 to a new total of $159,421,000. The new total is 15.6 percent above the third-quarter 1979 fig-

The Senate recessed early today and the House was to do the same later in the day, having broken a deadlock Wednesday on a stopgap government-wide financing bill.

The controversy, over financing abortions for poor women, had brought the government into the new fiscal year Wednesday without the legal authority to do business, meet payrolls or pay bills. But agreement on the spending bill came in time to avert any noticeable slowdown in government activities.

The measure that kept Senators on Capitol Hill until the early morning hours was a proposed 10-week extension of jobless benefits - one of the elements in President Carter's economic revitalization program. The bill was passed, but not until five hours of negotiations between Democratic and Republican leaders had added language tightening eligibility requirements for unemployment compensation.

That sent the measure back to the House, which passed the benefits extension alone

When lawmakers come back on Nov. 12, it will be to the first lameduck session in a presidential election year since 1948.

The major chores will be completion of the federal budget for fiscal 1981 and approval of the necessary approprations bills to allow government agencies to operate beyond the Dec. 15 cutoff in the stopgap bill passed Wednesday.

The outgoing 96th Congress seems certain to complete work on these "must" economic items before the 97th Congress convenes Jan. 3, 1981. But many other major bills were left hanging as members closed up shop until after the election.

Midland Democrat achieves goal

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Harris Kerr decided one day a few months ago he would "go for it." And after some light campaigning and nudging of people, he got what he wanted last Saturday — the Senatorial 25th District Seat on the state Democratic Executive Committee.

Kerr, a Midland attorney, knocked out his opponent, Tom Conner of Alpine, by a vote of 51.8 to 44.09. He replaces Ben Bock of New Braunfels who decided to give up his seat on the state panel.

The district Kerr represents is a 35-county area with Midland as the northernmost point, and is the single largest senatorial district in the U.S. "It's bigger than half the states," he added. "But it's sparsely populated in some areas, like Loving, Ward and Brewster counties."

Despite his recent increased activity in the Democratic Party, Kerr confessed it took some campaigning to get the job. And the more populated the area was, the more campaigning it required.

HIS FIRST PRIORITY as the new committeeman is "to let everyone in the district know what happens at the state meetings." To accomplish this he will be taking people as his guests to the sessions.

In addition, he and the 25th District Committeewoman Pat Ivey of Robert Lee are planning to send out a newsletter to all Democrats in the district, outlining what happened at the meetings and how decisions affect them.

Another focus of his position will be on the county chairmen, said Kerr. Explaining the county leaders "have a difficult job to do," he plans to provide more of a service to them. "I hope to push the executive committee to help out the county chairmen a lot"

Woven through all his plans is the theme to rebuild the Democratic Party. And the reconstruction must start on the ground level with county chairmen.

DESPITE WHAT GOP leaders claim, voters throughout this western district aren't turning away from the Democratic Party to the Republican. 'They're just saying 'a pox on both your houses' and forgetting both parties," said Kerr. And he feels the Democrats will retain their majority in both houses of Congress after the November elections. It's not the Democrats who are in trouble this time, Kerr said, but incumbents of both parties.

In rebuilding his party, Kerr said the Democrats will need to take some lessons from the Republicans.

We are at the point today where the Republicans were 10 years ago.

They found they could work yearround and put together a strong party. They have done a remarkable he admitted.

While the Republicans were out soliciting help from any and all voters, Democrats apparently were relying on their voter base from many years ago. Now, said Kerr, the Democrats are adopting the Republicans' technique - computer mailing lists.

These lists will identify who's Republican, Democrat or in-between. Lists of Democrats and of non-registered residents can be sent to the local county chairmen who can start the political process on the ground roots

Increasing the number of representatives from West Texas on the state committee also is on Kerr's list of goals. He pointed out that Houston has 10 representatives while West

BUT ONE OF HIS immediate top priorities is to work for the local Democratic candidates and for President Carter. Kerr leads the county Carter campaign drive and in Republican-dominated Midland County, that's not an easy job.

As state committeeman, Kerr will travel to other counties in the district, speaking on behalf of Carter. In the Tall City, Kerr and about 30 other professed Democrats are doing their party's legwork: making telephone calls, knocking on doors and signing up unregistered voters.

"I'm finding, unexpectedly, a lot of support for Carter," Kerr said. "I've had several people walk up to me and say, 'I'm glad to see someone else out here supporting Carter.' "

According to a statement released by TAC, Permian Airways violated a Texas Air Carrier Certificate of Operating Authority regulation stating the airlines must give the commission 60 days notice before it can discontinue service.

Because of the violation, TAC ordered the airlines to resume service to its cities immediately and continue servicing those cities until the 60 days from the original suspension date elapses.

Permian Airways president Chuck Ceppi had said earlier the Sept. 16 shutdown of the commuter service was temporary until finances could be found to expand the airline's service. Since then, however, the airline's business office has been closed,

The commuter airlines, which is based at Midland Regional Airport, had been one of the only airlines servicing West Texas cities. Since the shutdown, customers from cities, such as San Angelo, have had to fly through Dallas for connecting flights to other Texas cities.

TAC further asked that any objections from the airlines be filed within 15 days, or by Oct. 13.

In its notice to TAC on Sept. 19, Permian said it intended "to close down our operation in an orderly and legal manner." It further stated, according to the TAC release, "We regret that we were unable to comply with the 60-day notice required by regulation prior to deletion of our services," but its financial condition made it impossible to do so.

TAC went on to say, "It is the Commission's duty, not the carrier's, to determine whether service may be suspended on less than 60-days notice. In this case, there is no justification for depriving the communities of the opportunity to seek alternate air service, inconveniencing those depending on the use of the Official Airline Guide, which lists Permian's service through Nov. 1."

In addition, TAC accused the airlines of not implementing all the service points it was authorized and expected to service.

When it suspended service Sept. 19, the Commission said, "Permian had already suspended or never initiated service at five points on its certifi-cate, all within the last 5½ months."

Congressman exposes fake medical treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every year, America's elderly spend millions of dollars on bogus medical treatments that claim to cure everything from failing eyesight to cancer.

Some of these remedies are ridiculous and cause no harm," said Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., at a hearing Wednesday. "Others are downright dangerous and may result in injury or death.

Flood threatens water supply for Oakland, vast farm lands

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) - Floodwaters are seeping through a railroad embankment in more than 25 spots and there is a 50 percent chance it could give way, threatening 45,000 acres of delta farm land as well as Oakland's drinking water supply, officials

More than 260 conservation crew workers were sandbagging the flooded side of the railbed in the lower San Joaquin River Delta as rail cars dumped tons of crushed rock to shore up the earthen struc-

Floodwaters on Friday breached a nearby earthand-stone levee, inundating the 5,000-acre Lower Jones 'I'ract and a ready-to-harvest vegetables.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. issued a state disaster proclamation Wednesday and asked President Carter to declare the area a disaster, making federal aid available for repairs.

If the railbed fails to hold back the waters, aqueducts serving 1.1 million Oakland area residents would be flooded and could be washed out, officials said. Reserve water supplies, however, would last five to six months, and pumping has been increased to further build up the reserve, they said.

Chances of holding the flood at the Santa Fe Railway bed "are about 50-50," Walter Anton, chief engineer for the water district, said Wednesday.

"There's quite a bit of seepage" in two to three dozen places, said David Vossbrink, a spokesman for the East Bay Municipal Utility District. "Having the water come through is not in itself a bad thing. But having mud come with it is another

Mud would indicate the embankment was erod-

"A situation like this can change very fast,"

A petroleum pipeline operated by Southern Pacific Railroad which runs alongside the aqueducts also could be in danger, officials said.

It will cost some $5 million and take four or five months to repair the levee and pump floodwaters out of Lower Jones Tract, officials estimated.

Workers also were raising levees along Highway 4 to safeguard unflooded areas and filling the initial 300-foot breach in the levee on the north side of Lower Jones Tract.

Work on the railbed was proceeding quickly as high winds subsided.

'High wind churning up the water could destroy all the work we have done in under 24 hours," said Judy Devlin, a California Conservation Corps super-

Midland businessmen can send their documents, computer parts and other small packages anywhere in the United States and expect them to get there by noon the next day.

Federal Express has arrived in Midland.

During the news conference this morning in the Midland Chamber of Commerce building, Federal Express representatives announced they are openinga. business office here.

Jim Wheeler, district director for Federal Express in Texas, noted the door-to-door service would guarantee that each package 70 pounds or less sent by 5 p. m. would be delivered to its distination by noon the

Although the Midland-Odessa service is primarily operated by vans, Wheeler did not rule out the possibility of landing Federal Express planes at Midland Regional Airport sometime in the near future should there be enough demand for the ser-

Mail carried by Federal Express from Midland is transported and flown from Lubbock, Wheeler explained.

Cost for a document one pound or less is $21, he said.

The service can deliver most small business items as long as they remain under 70 pounds. However, Federal Express will not carry live animals or human remains, Wheeler explained. But, he added it is capable of flying human organs or tissues for transplants for many hosptials.

All Federal Express planes fly their materials to Memphis, Tenn., which is the collecting and sorting point for the business, said Armand Schneider, media relations manager for Federal Express.

After the items are sorted, the planes, ranging from the small Falcon-class jets to the large 737's, fly to various destination points at night.

opened for business Monday. However, last week's rains knocked out some of the telephone lines. But, Wheeler predicted the service to be in full operation sometime this week

Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Judy Bond, city manager for the Midland office. noted that the local service employs three radioequipped vans which would pick up deliveries at the business' door.

She said that for the first $100 declared value, there would be no cost for insurance. After that, for each $100 declared value by the businessman, insurance cost would be 30 cents. They will insure for up to $5,000 declared value.

The likelihood of a business letter or package being lost or damaged by Federal Express is 4,500 to 1, Schneider said, in noting the service's reliability. So far, the service operates a network of 142 stations to more than 224 major markets which services 13,000 communities, he said. Besides the United States, Federal Express also flies deliveries to Canada and Puerto Rico. Sometime next year, the company might provide delivery service to Europe, Schneider said.

The service operates on a closed loop system, explained Wheeler. "We do our pick-up, flying, sorting and delivery," he said noting the absence of a middle man to handle their operations.

Five years ago, Federal Express talked with chamber officials regarding the start of their service in the Midland-Odessa area. Wheeler noted that the chamber took an active and afgressive part in helping locate necessary facilities for the service. Federal Express handles about 85,000 parcels a night nationwide. Last Monday night, the business collected, sorted and delivered its record load of 91,000 parcels, said Schneider. Last business year, the company recorded gross

The "liberation" comes too late for the summer tourist trade, but Cougar's few residents are delighted to see some faces from the outside world.

"We're liberated! You don't know how good it feels not to have that hassle about going through the roadblock," said Dot Elmire, owner of the Cougar

"At least we don't feel like we're locked up in a little part of the world," said Marilyn Platt, partowner of the Lone Fir Resort here.

The "flurry" consisted of about nine people, and that's an important number in Cougar these days. The town, 12 miles southwest of the southwestern Washington volcano, had 150 to 200 residents before the eruption, Mrs. Elmire says. Energy producers in the United States are doing exactly what they said they'd do if the government would remove some of the controls on oil and gas produc-

There were those in the government who didn't believe it would happen, but, finally, we got limited and phased decontrol of oil and gas profits. And what's happening now? "American oil output will increase this year for only the third time in this decade," according to U.S. Sen. John Tower of Texas. Furthermore, last year "we recorded the largest jump in natural gas reserves in more than a decade."

The result of this loosening of the shackles on the oil and gas industry has been a tremendous increase in the amount of activity in the nation's oil and gas fields. Sen. Tower notes that "after 25 years of steady decline in the number of wells drilled, producers this year are expected to complete a record number of new wells."

An oil "glut" has even developed in the United States. Things look better - from an energy standpoint - than they have in awhile. But it would be a mistake to rest on our laurels and to ignore the energy problem this nation faces. If we do, that energy problem will return to haunt us.

Sure our demand for imported oil has decreased. But the nation has been suffering from the ill effects of a recession. Sen. Tower appropriately notes, "When the economy begins to recover, use of oil and gas almost certainly will increase. Without an equivalent increase in domestic production, our import bills will increase also."

And we must not forget OPEC's role in the energy picture today.

Undoubtedly the Oil Producing and Exporting Countries' response to all this will be to cut back production to keep the price of oil from falling. Furthermore, we are assured of paying more for the oil we import in the future.

How do we further lessen our dependence on imported oil and buffer ourselves against the higher prices OPEC will be charging? By freeing the oil and gas industry to increase domestic production. That would mean the United States would have to import less oil and, consequently, would be less vulnerable to the whims and fancy of other na-

One way to further increase domestic production would be to get rid of the so-called windfall profits tax and to open up federally protected lands to energy production. Sen. Tower has recommended both of these steps. The wisdom of that plan of action goes without saying.

According to the senator, the windfall profits tax is costing the United States up to two million barrels of oil per day in domestic production. That's two million barrels per day we now have to import. That very fact virtually negates the positive effects of decontrol, the senator says.

It's foolish to keep millions of acres of federal land tied up, refusing even to allow testing for oil reserves. We simply can't afford that luxuary at this point in time.

It's time to get serious about the energy situation before we are forced into action again. The federal government has taken a good first step. Now it should g forward by encouraging, not discouraging, energy production.

That's the only way to realistically approach energy self-sufficiency.

Titan missile incident caused a lot of 'wrenching'

WASHINGTON - We almost lost Arkansas a few weeks ago. Some smart aleck threw a wrench into a Titan missile silo. It hit the fuel tank and set it off.

The only thing that saved the state was that the nuclear warhead, which was sitting on the top of it, didn't blow

The incident raised a lot of questions in the minds of the American

Q - Why Arkansas? - When the first Titan missiles were built, the experts in charge of selecting sites for them chose Arkansas because they were quite sure the Soviets didn't know where it was.

Many people in the Pentagon didn't know where it was either, and that was the reason for the delay by the Air Force in doing anything about it when the accident occurred. Q - Now that the Soviets know where Arkansas is, will we have to move the Titan silos to another A - No. They are too fragile to move, and because of the adverse publicity it's doubtful that any other state would take them - What effect will this have on the University of Arkansas football team, which is usually in the top 10 at the end of each season? A - It will be very difficult now to recruit out-of-state high school football stars, and the school may have to give up its entire athletic program.

- What are we to make of the

accident in terms of all the fail-safe systems that were built into the Titan?

A-It depends on which side you're on. If you're on the military's side, you can claim that the system worked because the nuclear warhead didn't go off. If you live in the area, you may find it hard to sell your house.

Q - What is the Soviet reaction to seeing one of our Titans come flying out of the ground without prior warn-

A - They are probably frightened silly. They always thought that we needed tremendous amounts of sophisticated electronic gear and computers to launch a Titan. But now they know we can set one off by just throwing a monkey wrench down into the hole, and they have no answer for this. If the SALT II talks ever start up again, the first order of business may be the banning of wrenches any where near a missile silo.

Q - Do the Soviets have anything comparable to the Titan II?

A - As far as we know they don't. We do know they've been dropping wrenches on their MIRV missiles for 20 years, but they've never been able to breach their fuel tanks with them. When it comes to wrench pene tration capability, we're at least 10 years ahead of them.

Q - Then most American people can take pride in the fact that the Titan II missile is our greatest deterrent against the Soviets'

A - You could say that. But don't, if you live in Arkansas.

Q - Did the accident breach a ny security secrets that might impair our defense posture?

A - Only one. As many people know, there is a man with a black box who follows the president everywhere he goes. The black box is at the president's disposal in case of a nuclear attack. Up until now no one but the president and his national security adviser knew what was in the box. Now the secret is out of the bag.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Aaron slip may have compromised 'Trigon really compromised because he

WASHINGTON - President Carter has rushed to clear his deputy national security adviser, David L. Aaron, of the charge that he inadvertently compromised a top U.S. spy in the Soviet Union. The White House has called the accusation "completely unfounded" and "unsubstantiated rumor." Both the FBI and the CIA have dutifully confirmed that there's no substance to the allegation. Certainly Aaron is a sterling fellow, high on the White House totem pole, who would never intentionally unmask an American agent. Indeed, he may be as innocent as the White House insists he is. But my own investigation indicates otherwise.

In the subterranean world of halflight where espionage is practiced, the truth is always difficult to discern. Yet my associate, Dale Van Atta, has questioned four intelligence sources who are familiar with the case. They have been scrupulously accurate in the past. They claim that Aaron let slip some ultra-secret information at a party, that an intercepted diplomatic dispatch proved he had talked out of turn and that the White House is more anxious to cover up the embarrassment than to uncover the truth.

Aaron's slip allegedly exposed the identity of Anatoly N. Filatov, a Soviet intelligence officer, who worked undercover as an American agent known to the CIA by the code name Trigon. The unfortunate spy disappeared into the Soviet prison system after a secret military trial in 1978.

The Soviet press reported he had been executed. Some CIA officials believe he committed suicide. His Moscow lawyer claims he is still alive, serving out a 15-year sentence.

statement on international affairs in The information that Aaron spilled an address to the United Nations Genat the party, sources say, came from "blue line" documents so secret that Today's birthdays: film critic Rex only a trusted few insiders are al-Reed is 40 years old. Editor Clay lowed to see them. There are several levels of secrecy above top-secret. Some papers are stamped with code words, which themselves are classified. Even more guarded than these are documents with blue lines running down the pages.

Only the most sensitive information appears in blue-line documents. Aaron allegedly mentioned to an East European diplomat some facts that had come from a blue-line document dealing with Warsaw Pact nuclear Apparently, a third-world diplomat happened to overhear Aaron's careless conversation with the East European. The eavesdropper reported theconversation in a cable to his own foreign office.

The cable was intercepted and decoded by America's ultra-secret National Security Agency. The message was such an embarrassment to the White House that, under an executive order for the protection of private individuals, it was supposed to be destroyed. Yet I understand a copy was kept and might be ferreted out if the FBI looked hard enough.

Shortly thereafter, the CIA canceled all blue-line clearances. This was done, sources say, because Aaron had compromised the documents and had "rolled up one of our agents."

The nuclear weapons information that Aaron revealed, so the story goes, pointed a finger at Trigon. But other sources, who confirm Aaron's blue-line slip, believe Trigon was

"lived too high" on the money the CIA paid him. Footnote: Shortly after I first wrote about the Trigon case, two members of the Senate Intelligence Committee, Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., asked the staff to investigate. This could be awkward, since Aaron was a staff colleague before he moved to the White SECRET WARNING: Long before the Iraqi-Iranian outbreak, the Joint Chiefs laid before President Carter a top-secret warning that a crisis in the Persian Gulf area could erupt "at any time" and that it "could curtail access to the oil required by the United States and its allies. The military chiefs warned that the

"dramatic worsening of the military balance in the Middle East-Persian Gulf region" exposed the "oil-producing states in that area to much greater potential security threats.' They foresaw the danger of Soviet intervention - not "a bolt-from-theblue nuclear attack on the United States" but limited military action, Afghanistan-style — in the early "The Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the first major Soviet-American incident of the 1980s, may well be a harbinger of the greater risks of military confrontation which can be foreseen in the decade to come, wrote the Joint Chiefs. They warned that Soviet forces

'could intervene in regional political conflicts and become a threat to U.S. and allied access to oil supplies." And the United States doesn't have the military power to stop them, short of nuclear retaliation.

WATCH ON WASTE: Election-year promises of economy in government never seem to affect the money Congress is willing to spend on itself. Recently, for example, the House voted to lay out $3.5 million of the hardpressed taxpayers' money to buy a whole city block on Capitol Hill for future office space. An official of the Capitol Architect's office explained that it was really a bargain - because it would cost a lot more if it were bought 50 or 75 years from now, when it will actually be needed.

it deprives you of something more urgent to do when the leaves need raking."

Foreigners must know Chilean history to understand vote

To understand Chile, foreigners should try to remember that the South American nation lived and suffered under Marxist rule for nearly three

Only if you keep that in mind does the Sept. 11 plebiscite make sense. Otherwise, it might seem incredible that one of the more sophisticated of Latin American nations would have voted to "institutionalize dictatorship," as Marxist propagandists put

For Chileans voted, better than 2-to-1, in favor of a new constitution that provides for eight more years of authoritarian government under the presidency of Gen. Augusto Pino-

Of course, the 4,203,615 voters, 67.06 percent of the electorate, who balloted for the new constitution, did not do o to institutionalize dictatorship. Rather they were registering general approval of the seven years of government that Pinochet and the military unta have given Chile.

Another 1,891,332 voters, 30.17 perent of the total, opposed the constituon and the continuation of Pinonet's rule. They were presumed to clude Christian Democrats and the farxists — the communists, Sociasts and others who carried President alvador Allende to power in 1970, in a hree-man race, with 36.3 percent of

Because most Chilean Marxist eaders are in exile, the waged their campaign against the plebiscite from abroad - from Moscow, Paris, Mexico City and Caracas.

The Christian Democrats, though, led the opposition in Chile. Former President Eduardo Frei, who governed Chile through the 1976 elections, and other Christian Democrat leaders called publicly for a "no" vote in the plebisicite.

Frei made one major speech against the Pinochet government, against the proposed constitution and against the plebisicite. Only the newspaper El Mercurio printed the full text of his speech. The consensus seemed to be that Frei did not come to grips with what two out of every three Chileans regard as the No. 1 threat to their peace and well-being - the possibility of another Marxist takeover. Chileans are painfully experienced in ideological matters. That is why the majority could accept a constitution that provides that political organizations, movements and parties that encourage

"violence or a concept of society, the state or the judicial order of totalitarian character or (which is) founded on class struggle" are unconstitutional.

Clearly, Chileans want to avoid falling into the error of, say, the United States, where immigration laws used to ban Communists, but permitted the entry of Socialists or other Marxists who were not members of the Communist Party.

For the last decade, at least in Chile, and more recently in other Latin American countries, the "socialists" have come to be recognized as far more prone to violence than the Communists.

Chile has had long experience with Marxists. Marxists dominated the principal labor federation for decades. Communists, Socialists and others were elected to the Chilean Congress under their own party names, not as in the United States where an occasional Marxist slips in to Congress, under some other party label, and dares not disclose his ideological bent until after giving up or losing his seat.

That many Chileans are Marxist in sympathy is a secret only to those who ignored Chile's existence prior to 1970, when Allende, then a Socialist senator, became the first Marxist head of state in the world to win by democratic election. His congressional career started 23 years earlier, in 1937. It was his fourth consecutive try at the presidency

While Chileans are proud of their tradition of political and ideological tolerance, what they most remember from the period of Allende's government are the food shortages, the political violence, the influence Cuban and other foreign Marxists gained in Chile, government-instigated labor problems, Marxist efforts to subvert the armed forces and the national police, and the economic and social

They do not want to repeat those unhappy experiences and so they voted in favor of a constitution that calls for continued military rule.

Far from being a paradox, Chile makes sense, from the Chilean point of view

There was no immediate indication what prompted the Iranian announcement. But there was speculation it might be in reprisal for a Carter administration decision to send sophisticated radar picket planes to Saudi Arabia to help protect that nation's oilfields in the face of Iranian threats to attack them because of Saudi Arabia's reported offer of aid to Iraq in its war with Iran.

"Anti-Jewish Attacks" proclaims one in the mass circulation France-Soir. "Neo-Nazis Rounded Up" says the Socialist newspaper Le Matin. 'Massive Demonstration Against Fascism" banners the Communist daily L'Humanite.

Anti-Semitism became a topic for headlines before dawn last Friday when unidentified gunmen sped around Paris, firing automatic weapon fire at Jewish targets, including a day care center, a school for older children, a synagogue and a memori-al to the 125,000 Jews deported from France to the Nazi death camps. A second synagogue was hit by gunfire

NO ONE WAS hurt, and there have been no arrests. The police said Wednesday night they have questioned dozens of right-wing extremists and believe the attacks may be the work of isolated extremists attached to no group.

In a recent rash of other anti-Semitic incidents, Jewish graves have been defaced, and swastikas and fires have been set at kosher restaurants, Jewish-owned stores and the homes of prominent Jews. In several cases,

Nazi armbands were left at the Alarmed by the incidents, Jewish organizations in Paris sponsored a rally Tuesday night around the memorial that was strafed with gunfire. An estimated 8,000 persons showed up to protest the attacks and demand a government crackdown on fascist groups. Some of the demonstrators carried signs reading "End the Nostalgia for Nazi Terror."

'It was with such attacks against the Jewish community that the Nazis started in Germany," the chief rabbi of France, Jacob Kaplan, said

Politicians from President Valery Giscard d'Estaing down denounced the attacks. On Wednesday night the Parliamentary Assembly of the 21-nation Council of Europe in Strasbourg adopted a resolution urging its member governments to take measures to fight neo-Nazi propaganda.

The French police banned an auction of Nazi paraphernalia that had been scheduled for today. Last month, the government ordered the disbanding of a six-year-old paramilitary neo-Nazi group that had an esti-mated 260 members in France.

ORGANIZATIONS representing the 600,000 French Jews are quick to point out they believe the attacks come from a tiny minority of France's 53 million people.

sensitive to the past."

During World War II, France's proNazi Vichy government passed racial laws as stringent as Hitler's. Most of the 125,000 Jewish men, women and children deported to concentration camps by the war-time French regime never returned.

French police surprised even the Gestapo with their gusto for arresting Jews. As Marcel Ophuls pointed out in his epic documentary "The Sorrow and the Pity," French police in July 1942 rounded up 4,051 Parisian Jewish children the Germans had not asked Ophuls' film was commissioned for the French state television in the late 1960s but was never broadcast because of its harsh view of French collaboration with the Nazis.

THE ISSUE OF French cooperation with the Nazis surfaced again two years ago when an unrepentant French collaborator claimed in an interview that "only lice were gassed at Auschwitz," the Nazi concentrapublicity. The most notorious single case of French anti-Semitism came at the turn of the century when an obscure Jewish army captain named Alfred Dreyfus was falsely accused of passing military secrets to the Germans and was condemned to solitary confinement at Devil's Island.

Dreyfus spent 13 years in prison before he was vindicated after a bitter national debate that sparked a wave of anti-Semitism. Appalled by the wave of French anti-Semitism, a Hungarian-born Jewish journalist, Theodor Herzl, drafted the doctrine of Zionism, the return of Jews to their homeland, and launched the movement that resulted in the creation of the Jewish state of Israel.

Frisbees show free spirits of college

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The Frisbees that soar in the fall — tra la, go Illini, go — have much to do with the thing called higher education in America,

They show the free spirits of academe are now floating on a higher spiritual plane. No one this early in the semester is locking the president in his office or burning down the Air Force recruiting headquarters. Here at lovely, spacious University of Illinois campus, the Navy ROTC students move peacefully about, unwarred on by the pacifists.

The only belligerent sign I saw during a week-end sojourn in this rarified intellectual air was in a window above a campus dining hall: "NUKE THE SALAD BAR.'

One of the fraternity houses was festooned with streamers suspiciously akin to toilet tissue, but

I was told this was not a manifestation of ridicule by a rival organization but some hymeneal rite having to do with wooing co-eds, who are no longer called that, to an autumnal disco hop.

There were certainly some splendid prospects about for that sort of recruitment.

One of the nicest things about the advances made by the women's movement in providing equal recreational facilities for all sexes is how much their efforts have improved the girl watch-

Golden prairie daughters playing touch foot-ball or chasing a Frisbee on the greensward of old alma mater cut a more pleasing figure in those slit leg track shorts than in the dreary faded denims of yesteryear.

It's a delight to walk across the playing fields of a modern university and watch these healthy specimens glowingly exercising their equal rights. Beats a suffragette parade any day.

A modern university, of course, is a place where the legislature and the administration go to the limit of their resources in providing computerized labs and lecture halls with all the latest audio and visual aids so the trendy, with-it modern instructor can lead his students out of doors and hold his seminar on a large rock, provided free by nature or included in the original land grant that began the college.

That's called a diversified tutorial psychometric experience, and it works best when the mosquitos aren't around

Other things had changed besides scholastic feminine attire since last I wandered at large in the groves of academe in the seething 60s and surly

Bicycles now outnumbered sports cars, motorcycles and pickup trucks, and maybe even book bags. Guitars were still in abundance, but I didn't see anyone humping a sitar or leaning into a flageolet or a four finger fipple flute. A number of students had brought their horses to school, which may be traditional on a campus like this where the cornfields back up to the tennis courts, or may be another ramification of the energy crisis. Anyhow, a well rounded equestrienne presents a more pulchritudinous rearward prospect when viewed from the dock, croup and gaskin of some elegant steed than when gripping the midriff of some helmeted handle-bar freak from the buddy seat of a Honda. Several members of the journalism faculty told me that student concentration this year was at an all time high in their experience. I guess it would have to be, judging from the brain-damaging amplified uring forth in a cataclysm of concussive fury from almost every dorm window. I saw a number of scholars go by wearing earphones, but I couldn't determine whether they were tuning in or tuning out. The earlaps resembled those noise atten-uators we correspondents in Vietnam had to wear on the decks of aircraft carriers when they were launching flight operations and the jets went screaming off the exploding catafalque.

I had a chance to witness student concentration first hand on Saturday night, when my research took me to something called the Zodiac Club, an off campus laboratory for anatomy majors and life class art students that also draws some patronage from the architecture and engineering schools.

The pneumatic star turn, as a matter of fact, did seem to contradict some basic principles of stress and cantilever design when she reduced her wardrobe to the legal limits. Clinically speaking, her pectoral profile was much wondered at and admired by the undergraduate seekers after mammatocumulus datum, although a dissident ele-ment in the lecture hall kept calling out for someone called "Sunshine Granola," who never did show up.

Steel plan Carter ploy, says Reagan

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Ronald Reagan said today President Carter's policies have crippled American steel companies and that the administration's new plan to revive the ailing industry is an election year ploy to win votes.

Campaigning for blue-collar support in one of the nation's steel centers, Reagan said the recovery program announced by Carter Tuesday is "a complete turnabout, a move I suspect is designed more to provide political recovery for the Carter campaign than economic recovery for the steel industry."

In a speech prepared for workers at the Cyclops Steel Mill, the Republican presidential candidate noted that on Sept. 16 he had proposed several of the main elements in Carter's plan.

"I don't mind his borrowing my proposal if it will help the steel industry," Reagan said. "But I have an uneasy feeling he might not have done anything if I hadn't raised the issue. Well, all right. Let's see if we can get him to do more.

Reagan and Carter are calling for faster tax write-offs for the steel industry, an easing of pollution regulations and reinstatement of the trigger price mechanism to block steel imports from the domestic market.

The trigger price mechanism sets a floor price for steel imports from all countries, and any imports below this level would be investigated to see if they are priced unfairly low.

Reagan noted that Carter suspended the trigger mechanism last April, has opposed immediate tax reductions and said that Carter's administration "has ignored the problems overly strict (pollution) compliance schedules have caused the steel inCalling Carter's proposal "a com-plete turnabout," Reagan said, 'America's labor union members especially steelworkers - should ask themselves: Can you really believe

"This administration's policies have, for 31/2 years, crippled the steel industry," Reagan charged. "Now, with the election nearing, they've had a change of heart. But if Mr. Carter is re-elected, will steelworkers find the promises of September forgotten in December?"

After a private fundraising event and a tour of the steel mill, Reagan planned to fly to Green Bay, Wis., for a speech at an Elks Lodge, and then to Chicago for more campaigning.

"Parents have the right to decide the kind of education they want, and (do) not have to take what the new Department of Education in Washington says they should have," Reagan said. Carter has opposed tuition tax credits and has threatened to veto legislation that contains them.

At another stop, before a crowd outside the city hall in Paterson, N.J., Reagan added a caveat to his call for tuition tax credits. He said he would 'wholeheartedly support" such a program "as soon as it is fiscally

A crowd of hecklers who identified themselves as members of the Revolutionary Communist Party chanted, "Reagan go home" and "Down with Reagan" as he spoke.

Reagan stopped his speech and, in an even voice, said, "I think they've cheered enough. I wish they'd shut up." They continued.

On another subject, Reagan issued a statement saying the United States nould exercise a veto in the United Nations Security Council against any attempt to deny Israel membership credentials. He said the U.N. General Assembly could not vote to deny Israel its credentials without a recommendation from the security council.

"We should work vigorously with Israel and our friends to preserve the right of Israel to be present and vote in the general assembly," Reagan declared. "If unsuccessful in this effort, we should suspend our financial contribution to the United Nations and urge our friends to do the same until the rights of Israel are fully respected.

Incumbency big help to president

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the center of the nation's auto industry to the poisonous Love Canal, it wasn't always easy to tell where candidate Carter picked up and President Carter left off.

It looked presidential when a military jet flew emergency funding leg-islation for the federal government to Flint, Mich., on Wednesday so Carter could sign it, five hours before returning home

And it looked presidential when he sat at a polished table in Niagara Falls, N.Y., and used green-and-silver pens with "Jimmy Carter" inscriptions to sign a second bill, as well as an agreement providing $15 million in grants and loans to homeowners in the Love Canal part of the city.

But it was partly the incumbent and partly the candidate who played cheerleader earlier in the day for new American automobiles, driving a car off a Ford assembly line and promis-ing, "I will not rest" until laid-off autoworkers get their jobs back.

And it was purely a politician who capped his 12-hour campaign day by telling a union audience that his opponent offers "an uncertain future based on improbable promises and ill-considered proposals at home and abroad." It was Carter's 56th birthday, and he heard the strains of "Happy Birthday" almost as often as "Hail to the Chief' before returning to Washington Wednesday night. The president headed today for

Dayton, Ohio, and Philadelphia, a journey that will mean visits to four states with 114 of the 270 electoral votes needed for victory on election day.
The Dayton Journal Herald, meanwhile, endorsed Ronald Reagan in this morning's editions. "It's time for Americans to throw the script away. It is time to seek new leadership," the newspaper said.

With the exception of his speech Wednesday before the Civil Service Employees Union of New York, Carter seemed to go out of his way not to be too critical of Reagan.

Asked to comment on the Republican's statement that he would withdraw the pending SALT II arms limitation treaty from Senate consideration without a vote and call for new negotiations with the Soviet Union instead, Carter told a Detroit Free Press interviewer he was "deeply concerned." But he added he was reluctant to respond in detail until he had a chance to study precisely what

Reagan had said. But his union address contained sharp language when it came to Reagan's economic policy and position on matters dear to the hearts of union

Carter said that Reagan opposes the minimum wage, supports "right to work" legislation, opposes the socalled "full employment" Humphrey-Hawkins bill and favors "drastically weakening" the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

"Despite this record he is campaigning as the friend of working people and a man with simple answers," Carter said, omitting mention of Reagan's name, as is his cus-

The president also said that contrary to Reagan's claim, his advocacy of a massive federal income tax cut "would bring on massive new budget deficits - over $100 billion in 1985 alone - higher than any deficit in our history."

In addition, Carter said the Reagan-favored tax cuts would "pump hundreds of billions of consumer dollars into an already inflationary economy - build up the price of every consumer item on the shelf - without investing first in the productive capacity which we obviously need.

Jones new chief appraiser

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Virgil Jones, the city of Midland's tax assessor-collector since February 1970, Wednesday was named the chief appraiser of the Midland County Tax Appraisal District in a 4-2 vote that following "considerable debate."

Jones, 50, will take over the $40,-000-a-year job of organizing and setting up the chief appraiser's office next year, but his jurisdiction will not take effect until Jan. 1, 1982.

The district will be doing the prop-erty appraisal work for the six taxing entities in the county: the city of Midland, Midland Independent School District, Midland College, Midland Memorial Hospital District, Greenwood Independent School District and Midland County.

Currently, Jones and his City Hall staffers carry out the appraisal work for the city, MISD, the college and hospital.

Casting dissenting votes in protesting Jones' appointment were Charles Welch, who represents the Midland County Commissioners' Court, and Bud Lea, who represents the Greenwood ISD.

Welch, who is concerned about giving ranchers and farmers just and fair appraisals, moved that Frances Shuffield, the chief deputy in the county's tax office since 1967 and the unopposed candidate for county tax assessor-collector, be named to the slot. Lea seconded the motion, but it went no further.

In another vote, Jones got the nod in a marginal 4-2 vote.

Kelloggs * It's gonna be a great day."

"I feel like it would be better the other way," Lea said of the motion to appoint Mrs. Shuffield. "We just got Lea said many "people in my (Greenwood) community" have voiced opposition to Jones. He said they had dealt with Jones and didn't appreciate his way of doing business. "I was representing them," Lea said.

"It's done," he said. "He's hired. and there's nothing we can do about it. There are four of them and two of us....We couldn't convince them that they were wrong, and they couldn't convince us that we were wrong. I can live with it."

Voting for Jones's appointment were Fred Wright, the Midland College representative who initiated the motion for Jones's appointment; Walt Holton, the hospital's spokesman who seconded the measure; Joe Nuessle, city attorney who represents Midland, and Gil Tompson, board chairman who represents MISD.

Tompson said he was pleased with Jones selection.

.. The majority of us felt that after considerable debate and talking with people in Midland, outside the city and over the state, that Virgil had all the qualifications for chief apprais-Tompson said.

"He has a reputation of being a first-class tax assessor-collector not only among the local folks but sta-

"If we had brought in somebody, a new man would have to get familiar with the property and all of its values," Tompson said. Jones, who was named the city tax assessor-collector on Feb. 25, 1970, has been working for the city since 1966. His present salary is $32,080.

He is to report to the board at 9 a.m. Oct. 28, in the Midland County Commissioners' Courtroom to suggest the space requirements needed for the chief appraiser's office, staff strength, and requirements for assistant appraisers. Tompson said he hopes that eventually the appraiser's office and the assessment and collections functions of the six taxing bodies will be in the same building.

The functions will not be in separate locations "if we can help it," he

Some county officials who are displeased with the new appraisal system have indicated that the county may eject itself from the one-for-all appraisal district if Amendment No. 3 on the Nov. 4 general election ballot fails to pass. Otherwise, that amendment, which delegates to the Texas Legislature the general powers to prescribe methods, times and processes for taxation and appraisals, would preclude the county tax offices from separating from the board.

Earlier, Mrs. Shuffield voiced op-position to the Midland County Appraisal Board, which appointed the chief appraiser and thereby denies voting taxpayers the privilege of electing a chief appraiser.

"I honestly feel that the board has denied the taxpayers of Midland County an individual vote and voice in the matter of taxes."

Iran-Iraq conflict is Persian Gulf's biggest blowup

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The Middle East has seen many wars over boundaries and ideologies in the 20th century, but the conflict between Iran and Iraq is the biggest blowup between two Persian Gulf nations.

The four Arab-Israeli wars triggered the heaviest fighting among the most clearly defined foes, but the Arabs have also warred among themselves between and even during their common offensives against Israel.

Sometimes the inter-Arab fighting grew out of personal and political animosities between leaders, such as the four-day border skirmish in July 1977 between Col. Moammar Khadafy's Libyan troops and the forces of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

IN OTHER CASES, civil wars such as the 1960s conflict in Yemen and the 1975-76 war in Lebanon became proxy battlegrounds for other Mideast na-

But never in this century has there been such full-scale warfare between two Persian Gulf nations as the war now being waged by the Iranian and Iraqi oil giants. Nor has the Western world's access to critical Persian Gulf oil been so directly threatened.

During the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, the Arab oil producers temporarily cut supplies to the United States and other nations seen as Israel's allies, but the oil fields themselves were not battlefields.

Here, listed by region, is a sum-mary of recent Middle East wars and other military actions:

THE PERSIAN GULF:

The Iranian-Iraqi frontier has been a trouble spot for decades, with periodic skirmishes erupting over Iraqi efforts to control the Shatt-al-Arab waterway at the head of the Persian Gulf, the key oil gateway to both

In addition, both Iran and Iraq have frequently sent troops against their Kurdish minorities who have waged almost continual battles for autonomy or independence.

Iraq has also had border disputes with its southern neighbor Kuwait, primarily over oil exploration rights in the northern tip of the Persian Gulf. In 1967, Iraq occupied the easternmost tip of Kuwait for four days before withdrawing, and in 1973 Kuwait claimed Iraq was firing artil-lery across the border. Arab mediators tried to patch up the dispute between the two Moslem neighbors, but sporadic fighting simmered through the late 1970s.

Further south, the handful of tiny Persian Gulf sheikhdoms between Qatar and Oman ended their sporadic feuds and raids and joined forces as the United Arab Emirates after oil replaced trade and piracy as their coin of the realm.

OMAN, AT THE GATEWAY to the gulf, was the scene of numerous clashes between the government troops and tribesmen from the interior until the mid-1970s when the Shah of Iran helped the Omani government crush an uprising in Dhufar Province by rebels receiving aid from South

Yemen and China. The Yemens: Egypt, whose late President Gamal Abdel Nasser was the secular leader of the Arab world, and Saudi Arabia, the spiritual leader of the Moslem world, fought a proxy power struggle by backing opposing sides in North Yemen's 1962-67 civil war. The war started when Yemeni army officers revolted against a new imam, or Mos-poured as many as 70,000 men into North Yemen to fight on the republican side, while Saudi Arabia sent cash and arms to the royalists. Egypt and Saudi Arabia agreed to pull out in 1967, but the Yemenis fought on until-1970 when the Saudis recognized the republican government. Meanwhile, starting in 1967, pro-Western North Yemen and South Yemen's pro-Soviet regime began a guerrilla warfare across their mountainous border. The fighting was interspersed with negotiations to unite the countries under one government. The last major flareup was in February 1979 after the North Yemeni president was assassinated by a bomb brought into his office by a South Yemeni envoy.

In 1948, when Britain withdrew

The next major explosion came in

In 1967, after Egypt closed Israel's southern lifeline through the Gulf of Agaba and massed its armies in the Sinai, the Jewish state attacked again and in a lightning six-day war wrest-ed the Sinai and Gaza Strip from Egypt, Arab East Jerusalem and the West Bank of the Jordan River from Jordan, and the Golan Heights from

In 1969 and 1970 Israel and Egypt waged an undecisive 1,000-day War of Attrition across the Suez Canal. In October 1973, Egypt and Syria surprised the Israelis with a twopronged invasion launched on Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement. While Syria attacked across the Golan Heights, Egyptian troops slammed across the Suez Canal and regained a foothold in Sinai. Six years later Egypt and Israel signed a peace treaty and Israel began a phased withdrawal from Sinai.

LEBANON:

After centuries of Ottoman rule and 21/2 decades under a French mandate, Lebanon emerged as an independent nation during World War II. Its delicate balance of Christians and Moslems came unglued in the 1975-76 civil war. Syrian peacekeeping troops quelled the conflict, but their continued presence in Lebanon represents one of the flashpoints in a nation wracked by continued fighting between three dozen private militias.

Israel, Libya, Iraq and Syria are among the foreign powers tacitly backing or openly supporting one or more of the militias, while Palestinian guerrillas, evicted from their main anti-Israeli staging base in Jordan in 1970, set up bases along the Israeli border in southern Lebanon. Israel periodically mounts air, sea and land attacks across the border which it claims are aimed at heading off Palestinian raids on Israel.

The court on Wednesday approved independent union charters for lots and staff of the Polish national airline, LOT, transport workers in Warsaw, forestry workers in Wichorwo, tire plant employees in Olsztyn, a Warsaw regional group and Polish physicians, the official PAP news agency said.

The court action stemmed from demands by tens of thousands of workers who paralyzed Poland with strikes in August. The government agreed as part of the strike settlement to allow unions independent of Communist Party control, a move unprecedented in the Soviet

The Warsaw court has yet to decide on 15 pending independent union charters, including one for Solidarity, a labor confederation representing 5.5 million workers headed by Lech Walesa, who spearheaded the strikes in the Baltic port of Gdansk.

Meanwhile, Poland's c Communist government announced that higher wages had been put into effect for 8 million workers. Officials said the government was honoring the labor agreements but charged union leaders with reneging on their side of the bargain by calling a nationwide one-hour strike Friday. The strike is to press wage demands and obtain better access to the news media by labor

Deputy Premier Kazimierz Barcikowski said the agreements stipulated that the workers could only strike as a last resort, and said some workers' wage demands "exceeded greatly" the sums outlined in the strike settlement.

Questions linger as Billy probe ends

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate investigators are releasing their report on Billy Carter's Libyan ties amid lingering questions about White House involvement and whether the president's brother "merits condem-

The special Senate subcommittee, which began its probe of the Billy Carter-Libyan affair two months ago, was debating the report's conclusions today. It is under Senate mandate to release at least a tentative report by Oct. 4, a month to the day before the November election.

At least six of the nine senators on the panel have written separate views to add to the report, and one of them, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said, "I still have grave reservations and doubts about President Carter's role in this

Several senators were trying to restore language deleted from a draft report saying Billy Carter's conduct "merits condemnation" because it "was contrary to the interests of the president and the United States."

The draft also criticized the president and several top aides for poor judgment and mishandling of the af-fair but said Billy Carter received no special treatment as the president's

The Atlanta Constitution reported today that Dole's minority report charges the White House with "footdragging" during the Senate probe and argues that the extent of the president's involvement remains un-

Today's report was not being labed as final. That would permit a full report later, if warranted.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said he also would file separate views criticizing the Senate investigation for not pursuing charges that fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco was involved in Billy Carter dealings with

But Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said he believes some of the criticism in the report of the president and his

Oswald ruling to be appealed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - An attorney for a British author says he will ask the Fort Worth Court of Civil Appeals to set aside an order blocking the exhumation of the body in Lee Harvey Oswald's grave.

State District Judge James E. Wright ruled last month that the grave of the accused presidential assassin should remain undisturbed although Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, had given author Michael Eddowes permission to arrange an autopsy.

Wright, in granting the restraining order, said the permission alone was an insufficent reason to open the Attorney Cue Lipscomb said Wednesday that Eddowes will urge the appeals court to set aside the restraining order, but that the appeal could be complicated by a jurisdictional question.

"The appeals court might take the position that it lacked jurisdiction since Wright had not ruled on pleas filed by Rose Hill Cemetery and Dr. Charles Petty, who is the Dallas County Medical examiner," said Lipscomb Eddowes contends in his book, "The Oswald File," that a Soviet imposter, not Oswald, assassinated President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

He says there are discrepancies between the autopsy report and Oswald's military records and that a second autopsy could prove the body is not that of Oswald.

The author got permission for an autopsy from Mrs. Perter, who later testified she feared that the grave may be empty. Petty said he would examine the body.

New party may be in the wings

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - John Anderson's national campaign chairwoman says Anderson's followers probably will start a new political party, regardless of whether he is elected president.

Mary Dent Crisp, chairwoman of the National Unity Campaign for John Anderson, made the statement Wednesday at a news conference in the state

Win or lose, one of the most exciting things that has happened is the great grassroots movement that put him (Anderson) on the ballot. ... These people don't want to go back to the Republican or Demo-cratic Party. I think they are very likely to be forming a new party. It might be a realignment, it might be a party that takes the place of an existing party," Ms. Crisp said.

She said she expects Anderson to win and rejected the notion he might drop out and swing his support to Ronald Reagan or Jimmy Carter.

"He is committed all the way to the end," Ms. Crisp said of Anderson, who ranks as low as 9 percent in some polls.

Ms. Crisp was national co-chairwoman of the Republican Party before bolting to Anderson after the Equal Rights Amendment.

"I don't see how the Republican Party can survive as a viable party," she said.

Ms. Crisp said the GOP was "reducing itself to a right-wing group ... controlled by special interest groups," including "right-to-lifers and elecronic evangelicals.'

Single-interest political groups, such as those opposing abortion and the Equal Rights Amendment drafted the GOP platform, she said, and "you can't win elections with people running on that plat-

Corporate world abuzz after 'Bendix Blunder' church fire

NEW YORK (AP) — The corporate world is abuzz with the aftermath of "The Bendix Blunder," an incident that has focused attention on promotional practices in the executive suite.

At issue to many is the way some executives view women when they rise rapidly through corporate ranks. It is quite a different standard than that applied to men. It is The Rumor.

Last week Bendix Corp. chairman William Agee felt he had to dispel the rumor swirling around his office, that Mary Cunningham was promoted from vice president for public affairs to the infinitely more important post of vice president for strategic planning because she was romantically involved with Agee, 42 and recently divorced, took the extraordinary step of publicly announcing he had promoted Ms. Cunningham because she was qualified and not because she was his friend.

Ms. Cunningham, 29 and recently separated, then issued her own statement, requesting a leave of absence until the rumor mill ran out of grist.

Her request generated a slew of criticism from other executive types who thought she was running away from the issue.

The board of Bendix, the nation's largest independent auto supplier and 88th largest industrial company, denied Ms. Cunningham's request. It told her she would have to stay on the job and fight it out.
"I have a lot of respect for the directors of that corporation for not taking her request," said Muriel Siebert, superintendent of the New York State Banking Department and the first woman admitted to the New York Stock Exchange, in 1967. "It said that we're not going to let the rumors determine what will happen to good employees."

How many of us know the sons of someone with a very familiar sounding name who enters a company as the bright promising star and suddenly has a meteoric rise?" asked a senior vice president at a Wall Street firm who asked that his name not be

"Usually, these men aren't even qualified," he said. "But we somehow swallow this and don't say anything. Just because Mary Cunningham is a woman, we say she only got the job beccause she's sleeping around. That's nonsense

Ms. Cunningham, a Harvard Business School graduate who worked in the loan department at Chase Manhattan Bank before joining Bendix last year, is said to be a bright, talented executive with Bill Welsh, a Boston consultant who was at Harvard with Ms. Cunningham, said she had an excellent reputation on campus.

'She was a second-year student and gave the marketing training course," he said. "It was very good. Everyone's reaction was that she knew what she was talking about and was very talented.'

Most executives said they thought the Bendix caper would have little effect on how women are promoted within corporations.

But Edwin Locke, president of the Economic Club. an organization of top management executives with few female members, thinks it will have a definite influence on future promotional practices.

"It's not good for the cause of promoting talented women," he said. "It's bound to make men a little more cautious about putting women in key spots."

The corporate ascent for women is far more difficult than it is for men, most executives acknowledge. But many say the climb is becoming easier. According to the latest figures from the federal

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 601,-514 female managers and officials worked in firms that employed over 100 people in 1978. The total number of such executives was 3.5 million.

Few female executives are willing to discuss publicly either the Bendix story or the more farreaching problem that accompanies many corporate ascents by women - The Rumor.

"I rapidly moved up from second vice president to vice president and there were rumors - 'Is she really that good or is something being given on the side?" said a female executive at a New York bank, who did not want her name used.

Schmidt appears sure of victory in Sunday's national election

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt appears sure of victory in Sunday's national election after a campaign marked by tit-for-tat insults and an unsuccessful last-minute attempt by opponent Franz Josef Strauss to make the Oktoberfest bombing a campaign issue.

As the race to control Parliament entered its final week, the news magazine Der Spiegel summed up the campaign: "Instead of solid argument, they have offered the voter a rough and shabby mudslinging match. The voter has turned away in dis-

Despite Der spiegel's view, most of West Germany's polling institutes project the Social Democrats and their liberal partners, the Free Democrats, will hold a commanding lead over the Christian Democrats and their Bavarian affiliate, Strauss' Christian Social Union, when the votes are

A final poll published in last Thursday's edition of Stern magazine showed that Strauss' conservative group remained the single largest party with 44.5 percent but had dropped half a percentage point since mid-September. The Free Democrats gained two points to rise to 9.2, leaving their Socialist coalition partners with 43.5 for a combined 52.7

In the last Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, there were 214 Social Democrats, 39 Free Democrats, 189 Christian Democrats, 53 Christian Socials and one independent, plus 22 deputies from West Berlin with limited voting rights. This gave Schmidt a majority of at least 10

In its final weeks, the campaign has seen two of West Germany's most experienced, respected and intelligent politicians become embroiled in a namecalling contest that has overshadowed the issues.

Their differences over foreign policy and detente, internal security, the economy and the national debt have been submerged in the personality duel between the 65-year-old minister-president of Bavaria and the 61-year-old chancellor.

Strauss accused Schmidt of "intellectual neutralism" and charged that he was both a "peacenik" and "war chancellor," a "counterfeiter," "pension swindler" and "the chief executive of a Marxist leader-

Schmidt labeled Strauss "a power plant without a fuse" who makes wavering statements and "a man of affairs and scandal."

Despite his many years at various ministerial posts with responsibilities for atomic energy, finance and defense, Strauss has not been able to shake his image as a hustler, tainted by scandals. He was forced to resign as defense minister in 1962 when it was shown that he lied to Parliament about the arrest of four journalists. Since he was chosen to lead the conservative forces in the election, he has become the target of a vociferous "Stop Strauss" attack from the radical left, which published pamphlets portraying him as a purveyor of "reaction, fascism and war. He has been caricatured as a vampire, a bloody butcher, a hatchet-carrying Nazi storm trooper, King Kong, and Adolf Hitler. Riots have broken out during some of his campaign stops. At others he handles hecklers with flippant, good-humored retorts.

Whether he is drinking beer among his beloved Bavarians or addressing a well-dressed gathering of Christian Democrats in Cologne, Strauss pounds out his message: Schmidt flirts with the Communists in the Soviet bloc, steering West Germany on a neutralist course that strains ties with its most important ally, the United States; the strength of the West German mark is threatened by the nation's $250 billion debt; West Germany must use nuclear power to survive; it must support a powerful military

Reagan's farm speech attacked

'Sounds like spokesman for USSR,' says Bergland

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob chamber of commerce and industry." Bergland, who says he wants to debate agricultural issues with someone from Ronald Reagan's campaign, has responded strongly to Reagan's attack on Carter administration farm policies.

The Republican presidential nominee told Iowa farmers Tuesday that President Carter's farm policies amounted to "a record of indifference, incompetence and inflation. It is a national disgrace.'

Bergland responded Wednesday during a news conference at Carter-Mondale headquarters in He said farmers "deserved more from Mr. Reagan than double-talk wrapped in platitudes." Reagan criticzed Carter's partial embargo of U.S. grain shipments to the Soviet Union, ordered in response to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, as "costly to American farmers and ineffective in our foreign policy.' That brought a response from Bergland that "Gov. Reagan sounds like a spokesman for the USSR

In conjunction with Bergland's appearance, the Carter campaign noted several past comments by Reagan opposing grain shipments to the Russians, including a Reagan radio commentary six years ago in which the former California governor questioned whether such shipments "are ... not helping the godless tyranny to maintain its hold on millions of helpless people."

Reagan offered little elaboration on farm programs he would preserve or eliminate, nor did he spell out exactly how he would "make farming profitable again.

But he charged that the administration "has hamstrung agricultural productivity with a multitude of government regulations which have added immeasurably to costs of producing food and fiber."

However, Bergland also gave few details as he defended the administration's farm policies, saying that in no other four-year period have farm income, assets, production and consumption of farm products increased as much as they have under Carter. Bergland had challenged Sen. Roger W. Jepsen, R-Iowa, Reagan's senior adviser on farm policy, to a debate. Jepsen rejected the challenge, saying he couldn't speak for Reagan. But even at a time when the possibility of a debate between Carter and Reagan seems remote, Bergland used the news conference Wednesday to renew his challenge to debate anyone "Reagan designates as his farm spokesman. After declaring that "platitudes are patronizing to American farmers," Bergland declared, "agriculture is a critical issue in this campaign and it ought to be thoroughly and responsibly discussed."

Figures released Tuesday showed a 1.9 percent gain from August to September, or 8.8 percent increase more than a year earlier.

Higher prices for feed, seed, feeder livestock and farm equipment accounted for most of the increase, the department said.

Department figures show prices farmers received for oil-bearing crops, such as soybeans and cottonseed, were up 6.2 percent overall from the previous month, and up 10 percent compared from a year

Feed grains and hay were up 3.5 percent for the month and 20 percent above last year. Meat animals were up only slightly, 0.7 percent,

I'm just thankful I'm able to be that ribbon. You readers are my life, and if I can help to pass along a way to make your day, and mine, just a little easier, then I feel it's all worthwhile.

So keep sending in those shortcuts and energy savers, even if you think "everyone knows that!" Luvs, even "Heloise" learns something new everyday, and I find myself asking, "Now why didn't I think of that!"

DEAR HELOISE: For owners of lovely birds like canaries or parakeets (I have one of each), there are always feathers or bird seed on the floor because the seed guards that you purchase from the store are not high enough.

I have found if I take a large size panty hose, cut the legs off and stitch the leg openings closed, I've got a neat seed guard for any shape cage.

Just pull it up over the bottom of the cage to the height needed to keep the seed in the cage. No more mess and the open weave material doesn't interfere with air circulation.

I'm enjoying my little birds a lot more now that they are easier to care for. - Kathleen Hill

Suicide attempt may be repeated

By ABIGAIL

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago our 18-year-old daughter (I'll call her Nancy) tried to commit suicide. She took a handful of sleeping pills, but thank God we found her in time to save her. Now that she is back to normal, she says she realizes how foolish she was, and she has promised that she will never try anything like that again.

Nancy has always been a rather shy and quiet girl who never dated much until she met a young man who gave her a big rush. They were seeing each other every night until he suddenly broke it off, saying he thought they were getting too serious. That's when Nancy took the pills

Abby, how can we be sure she won't try it again? Is there something we can do to help her? She is putting on a brave show, but we can tell that she is brokenhearted.-LOS ANGELES

DEAR MOTHER: According to Dr. Katherina Marmor of the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center, one who has attempted suicide is 10 times more likely to try it again.

Nancy should phone the L.A. Suicide Prevention Center (213-473-1217). The center welcomes anyone who has attempted suicide (or even considered it) to come in for individual or group counseling. The caring, competent staff will adjust the fee to one's ability to pay.

Most cities have 24-hour suicide hotlines offering help in a crisis. (Ask your operator for the number.) Counseling for the depressed or sui-cidal person is available at all mental health centers.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. My problem is my roommate. She's a swell kid, but she doesn't go out much because she's so quiet.

The guys say it's like pulling teeth to get a word out of her.

Any suggestions?—LYNDA DEAR LYNDA: Yes. Fix her up with a dental student. DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to a columnist, but I find myself with a problem I cannot fathom

I am an antique dealer (semi-re-tired). When I first started my antique business I met a very affable young American couple while traveling in Europe. Since we lived in the same city in the U.S., we became close friends. I taught them as much as I could about antiques and advised them on their purchases, many of which came from my store. Now, 27 years later, they have met another antique dealer, also in this city, who is duping them constantly. He is selling them brand-new Oriental furniture and objects of art, and passing them off as centuries old.

I am appalled at this situation and don't know how to handle it. They are very happy with their purchases from him.

My question is this: Should I tell them the truth about their new purveyor, or keep my mouth shut and let them go on being cheated by this chicanery? I don't want to lose their friendship.—KNOWS ANTIQUES

DEAR KNOWS: Since your friendship goes back 27 years, you'd be less than a good friend to sit in silence while some crook rips them off. Tell them how to distinguish authentic Oriental antiques from new reproductions, and let them draw their own conclusions.

(If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 plus a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to ABBY, Letters Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.)

New sugar substitute thwarted

WASHINGTON (AP) - A manufacturer's plans for marketing a new low calorie sweetener 180 times as strong as sugar are being thwarted, at least temporarily, by a scientific panel that says the product may cause tumors in animals.

A public board of inquiry assembled by the Food and Drug Administration recommended Wednesday that the agency deny G.D. Searle & Co.'s request to market Aspartame, the sweetener.

the vine, apple trees dates laden with shiny red 2 ta fruits, and golden leaves raisins rustling in the breeze all indicate that fall has arrived. This is the time to make hearty, homey desserts with the fruits of the season's harvest.

Spirited Baked Apples are a unique variation on one of America's most popular cold weather desserts. The baked apples are first bathed in a syrup flavored with CocoRibe, the clear coconut rum liqueur from the Caribbean. Then, a delightful mixture of cream cheese, raisins and dates, moistened with the liquer, is stuffed into the apples' hollows. These tender rosy red apples make a fine dessert for a crisp, cool eve-

If you limit your enjoyment of pumpkin pie to Thanksgiving, try this version—you'll find it's definitely a more than once-a-year dessert. Easily prepared for the family, yet elegant enough for guests, Gold-en Pumpkin Chiffon Pie has a light, creamy texture and an attractive golden color. The addition of coconut rum liqueur gives this traditional pie a very special flavor. Note that any extra heavy cream can be whipped and used to "gild the lily" on this lusciously rich pie.

Vary your protein sources

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY Registered Dietitian Copley News Service

Dear Shirley:

I am confused about the amount of protein I should take in my diet. A while ago everybody was talking about a high-protein diet with eight glasses of water each day. Now I have been reading that people should not eat too much meat and very few eggs. I am interested in building up my health, but I am not sure what kinds of foods are the best.

My wife is also interested in keeping herself healthy, but she is confused, too. Will you please tell us how much protein we need? I am 37 years old, and I weigh 172 lbs. My wife is 34 and she weighs about 132 lbs. - P.J.

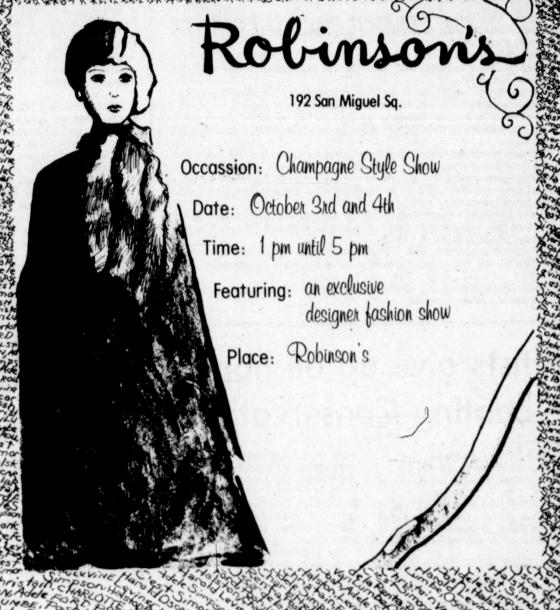

Dear P.J.:

Excessive protein is unnecessary and too much is very hard on the kidneys, which is why the eight glasses of water was suggested. It is also very expensive. The recommended protein allowance for a man of your weight is 60 grams per day. Your wife should have about 48 grams daily.

These quantities are very easy to get and I suggest that you get your protein from different sources, so that all the other nutrients yo also need are included. One-half small broiler chicken will give you about 44 grams of protein. A glass of skim milk will give you about nine grams of protein and you will get small amounts from fruits and vegetables, usually between two to five grams.

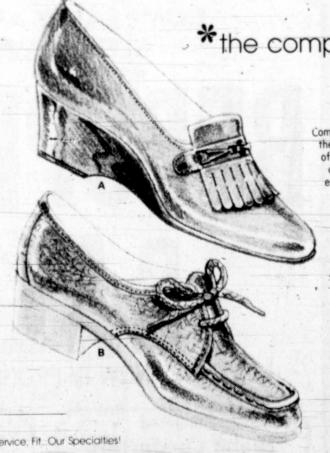

Peas and beans are much higher in protein and will give up to 20 grams. These are all based on about one-half cup servings. Cereals, breads and pastas also contribute protein. One egg supplies about seven grams of protein. If you take a mixed diet of six to eight ounces of mostly fish and fowl with occasional meats, plus many different kinds of fruits. vegetables, cereals and breads and skim milk, you will easily meet your protein requirements, and so will your wife. The average American now takes too much protein, somewhere around 100 or more grams per day.

Frozen is the only form in which all kinds of foods are consistently available at the peak of freshness.

That's quite a statement for any industry to be able to make. But that's not all. Read on for more positives about the industry and its quality

Frozen foods have never been involved in any case of food poisoning, according to the National Frozen Food Association Inc.

Frozen foods make an instant cook out of all those "wife and kids are on vacation" husbands.

Frozen foods are a boon to one and two person households, many of whom are elderly people. With the high price of food thee days, a portion-controlled meal, with no waste because of cutting away of product due to spoilage and unedible food parts, give 100 per cent nutritious food for the price.

Frozen foods give Mom time to dash home from work, serve her family a nourishing meal and still make her evening exercise class.

THE RESERVE AND A STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 2½ years that California auto dealer Louis E. Peters spent attempting to infiltrate the family of reputed mob boss Joseph Bonnano may prove to be last years of his life.

Peters, 48, collapsed earlier this year shortly before Bonnano was convicted in U.S. District Court on charges of obstructing justice - the first felony conviction for the man law enforcement authorities say rose from a gun runner for Al Capone to the head of one of New York's five organized crime families. The conviction was based largely on evidence obtained by Peters.

Doctors now say Peters has brain cancer, and they give him less than a

The 6-foot-3, 240-pound millionaire Cadillac dealer described how he parlayed a suspicious offer to buy his Lodi, Calif., dealership into an extraordinary personal relationship with Bonnano. The 75-year-old Bonnano allowed Peters to stay at his Tucson home while other friends and lawyers were put up at nearby hotels. Bonnano's driver once said to Peters, "Don't you realize, you're part of the Peters' involvement began in June 1977, when a local contractor offered to buy his auto dealership for $2 million. Peters says it was only worth $1.2 million. The contractor told him the buyer would actually be Bonnano, who wanted to own a business that he could use to launder money from his criminal activities. Peters immediately went to the FBI with his story. He agreed to return to Bonnano to find out more about the crime figure's plans.

According to Peters, Bonnano wanted to buy a dozen dealerships. Peters said Bonnano didn't flinch when he was told that it would cost $40

The deal never developed. But Peters said he was able to keep the plan going long enough to obtain recordings of Bonnano and his nephew, Jack DiFilippi, demanding that records of the enterprise be destroyed before a grand jury got them. Those recordings were largely responsible for Bonnano's conviction.

It was DiFilippi's suggestion to Peters' daughter Leslie that they go out on a date that made Peters decide to leave his wife and family. "He just blew up," recalls Marilyn Peters.

To protect his loved ones, Peters arranged a legal separation from Marilyn - one that ended Saturday in Lodi with a remarriage cere-

Leftists give up all hope of beating Conservatives

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) -Left-wing victories at the Labor Party's annual convention deepened the split in party ranks, and moderates said the strife eclipsed all hope of regaining power from Margaret Thatcher's Conservatives in the next national election, scheduled for early

"This party has just thrown away any chance of defeating Mrs. Thatcher in the next election," said former Education Minister Shirley Williams, the leader of the opposition party's right wing, after leftists led by former Energy Minister Tony Benn won two key votes Wednesday.

"It is a day of total anarchy and assures 13 years of Tory rule," La borite defense spokesman William Rogers told reporters, referring to the party's longest period out of office since World War II, from 1951 to

The leftists pushed through resolutions Wednesday promising to take Britain out of the Common Market if the Labor Party ever gets control of the government again and stripping the Laborite caucus in the House of Commons, made up mostly of moderates, of the sole right to choose the party leader.

It was the first time Labor delegates voted by an overwhelming majority to take Britain out of the ninenation European Economic Community, which Britain joined in 1972 under a Conservative government with strong Laborite support. Membership has long been unpopular with the leftists, who regard the community as a capitalist body. They charged Wednesday that membership constituted the "rape of the British people" and cost Britain most of its North Sea oil revenues.

The convention adjourned in turmoil Wednesday night when the approximately 1,200 delegates failed to agree on a new alternative grassroots method of choosing a new party lead-er to succeed 68-year-old James Cal-

The triumphant left-wingers rejected Callaghan's pleas to shelve the issue for another year. The party's left-dominated national executive committee said it was determined to secure adoption of a new procedure for selecting the party leader before the convention adjourns Friday.

This will jeopardize the chances of a moderate being named to succeed Callaghan, and he is expected to abandon his plans to retire this fall.

Callaghan won one important victory Wednesday, however. On a narrow vote swung by moderate trade union bosses, he fought off Binn's bid to give the national executive sole control over drawing up the party electoral platform. The party leader and his senior aides retained a veto over the platform, a power Callaghan has used in the past to expunge such radical left-wing proposals as wide-spread nationalization and abolition of the House of Lords.

Ex-Odessa arsonist held in Kansas fires

COFFEYVILLE, Kan. (AP) - A 29-year-old janitor who had pleaded guilty to an arson charge in Odessa seven years ago has been charged with setting fires that damaged Coffeyville's city auditorium and an elementary school in Caney, Kan. during the summer. Robert Carty was charged with arson and aggra vated arson in connection with the two fires, which occurred less than a month apart in the two southeast Kansas towns. He was being held in the Montgomery County Jail on $50,000. Coffeyville's Memorial Hall, a downtown landmark for more than 50 years, burned July 18, causing

$1.2 million damage. Authorities at first thought the fire was accidental. Then on Sept. 10, a fire broke out at Caney's Lincoln Memorial Elementary School. Some 500 children, teachers and staff members were evacuated safely, and the school's gymnasium was heavily Authorities later learned that Carty had been working in both buildings as a janitor when the fires broke out. Both fires started in areas where janitorial materials were stored. A check with Texas authorities revealed that Carty was wanted there on a parole violation. He had been paroled in 1977 on a sentence for a 1975 Dallas burglary conviction. Local authorities arrested Carty Sept. 19 on the parole violation and held him

Texas records also showed he had pleaded guilty in 1973 to arson in connection with a fire at an Odessa, Texas, warehouse. A preliminary hearing on the two latest arson charges has been set for Oct. 6.

Effects of torture linger on

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Physical torture leaves its mark on the mind and body of the victim long after the torture ends, according to the results of an Amnesty International study released today.

Danish physicians who conducted the study said their findings could lead to a system of treatment for torture victims.

The study was done on 14 former political prisoners from Argentina, aged 22-54, living in exile in Italy. Most had spent many months in Argentine prisons but had been released months before the doctors gave them complete physical examinations in May 1979.

The doctors said the results of the examinations confirmed the exiles' stories of severe torture and for the first time documented torture's residual effects.

NEXT is your question about eating food that has been sacrificed to idols. On this question everyone feels that only his answer is the right one! But although being a "know-itall" makes us feel important, what is really needed to build the

If anyone thinks he knows all the answers, he is just showing his ignorance

But the person who truly loves God is the one who is open to God's knowledge.

So now, what about it? Should we eat meat that has been sacrificed to idols? Well, we all know that an idol is not really a god, and that there is only one God, and no other.

According to some people, there are a great many gods, both in heaven and on earth. But we know that there is only one God, the Father, who created all things and made us to be His own; and one Lord Jesus Christ, who made everything and gives us life. However, some Christians don't realize this. All their lives they have been used to thinking of idols as alive, and have believed that food offered to the idols is really being offered to actual gods. So when they eat such food it bothers them and hurts their tender consciences. Just remember that God doesn't care whether we eat it or not. We are no worse off if we don't eat it, and no better off if we do. But be careful not to use your freedom to eat it, lest you cause some Christian brother to sin whose conscience is weaker than yours.

You see, this is what may happen: Someone who thinks it is wrong to eat this food will see you eating at a temple restaurant, for you know there is no harm in it. Then he will become bold enough to do it too, although all the time he still feels it is wrong.

So because you "know it is all right to do it," you will be responsible for causing great spiritual damage to a brother with a tender conscience for whom Christ died.

And it is a sin against Christ to sin against your brother by encouraging him to do something he thinks is wrong.

So if eating meat offered to idols is going to make my brother sin, I'll not eat any of it as long as I live, because I don't want to do this to him.

Fast-food king moving to

WASHINGTON - Austrian-born Friedrich Jahn, fast-food, sit-down restaurant king of Europe, reached into his vest pocket and proudly pulled out a Swiss pass-

Perhaps the U.S. government someday might ture of recognition: Although the story of Freidrich Jahn's astounding success took place largely in post-war West Germany and western Europe, it is one that sounds typically American.

JAHN IS disturbed about the future of Europe. What he views as creeping socialism, the surge in terrorism and '300 Russian divisions from Murmansk to Persia" have convinced him to bring part of the old world over to the new. So for the past two years, Jahn has been bringing to the United States vast investments in the food service and restaurant industry.

'This is the best country and you have everything in your country," Jahn said in an in interview. "And it's going to get better."

Despite his optimistic view of this country. Jahn is concerned about the future. If there is no resurgence of Western strength and determination, Jahn feels that Europe - and his nearly 1.000 Wienerwald restaurants and three score hotels around that continent - are destined to become Soviet property.

IN 1978, with an eye to finding a way to protect at least a portion of his investments, Jahn BY 1960 the chain had bought the string of 273 50 outlets - twice the Lums restaurants owned number it had in 1959. As the USTA/Penn National Circuit moves into its third round of play today at the Midland High courts, young Bob Blaze and mature Tim Garcia represent the extremes of the satellite tennis social structure.

Blaze, a state high school champion in Michigan a couple of years ago, passed up college to seek his fortune

Garcia, who finished at the University of New Mexico in 1978 and received his degree last Christmas, was accepted into law school this fall, but passed it up, "It will have to wait. I committed myself to play here and then this winter I'll play in sunny Australia.'

What they have in common is that both won Wednesday, Garcia defeating Mark Darby, 6-2, 6-3 while Blaze defeated Rob Hunt 6-4, 6-2. What they don't have in common is that Blaze is playing to realize a dream and Garcia has realized that dream and wants to experience it again, and he'd like to do it with no strings attached.

A FORMER NCAA singles semifinalist, a 1976 All-American at UNM and Southwestern Sectional Singles champion in 1976 and 1979, the only two years he has played in the event, Garcia toured the American Indoor circuit last winter, Europe this spring and in the U.S. this summer on the Grand Prix Tour, but now is back on

"It was fun and a great experience. A better learning experience than was playing and losing to Vilas, McEnroe, Nastase and Mottram and my Grand Prix ranking slipped." Garcia plans to play the Grand Prix again this year, American Winter Indoor, Europe in the spring and the U.S. summer circuit, but his ATP point total slipped to 30, which means he'll have to qualify for tournament play. "At one time I had a point total of 60, but that lasts only one year...and if you don't win, it slips."

So the Albuquerque, N.M., native is back on the satellite tour for the sixth segment of the year, hoping to pick up some points for his ATP ranking. He confesses, "My game isn't as sharp as it should be, but last week in El Paso I got to the semifinals before losing to Ron Hightower." This week he obviously hopes to do better.

BATTLING BOB Blaze out of Battle Creek, Mich., on the other hand has never experienced the tennis Dulce Vita. "I had a 3.5 average in high school, but I just wasn't ready to go to college. I wanted to try ten-

Bob admits it's a rough life. "Some-times you are lucky, like in Midland, where people put you up for a week. Sometimes you sleep four to 10 in a motel room to make ends meet. On the average, it will cost you $200 a week in expenses. You can get by for less by scrimping, but then you aren't going to do well so there's no point in

Garcia doesn't have that worry. "I have a pretty good income, in fact, I make more money on investments on money I've made from tennis than I do on tennis, so I'm not hurting."

Tim's incentive is to return to the Grand Prix where he has sampled the good life and traveled in Europe and playing the final segment of the 1980 USTA/Penn Circuit is his ticket

Along with the fourth-seeded Garcia and the unseeded Blaze, top seeded Randy Crawford and second-seeded Freddy McNair advanced while
No. 8 seeded Andy McCurry lost to tournament is the second leg of the season's final five-city segment. The top 32 players in the first four segments qualify for the Masters tournament at Wichita Falls. After Midland the tour hits Abilene and Beaumont. Rick Meyers of Abilene and TCU won last week in El Paso and advanced to the third round by defeating John Johnson Wednesday.

Singles play resumes today with two featured matches scheduled in singles at noon with No. 1 seed Randy Crawford, an All-American from TCU, going against Mike Estep, a pro-circuit veteran from Houston, and UC-Berkley All-American Marty Davis facing Bermuda's No. 1 player Steve Alger.

A featured doubles match is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. between McNair-Estep and Ampon-Evernden.

Ali reaches out for boxing history LAS VEGAS, Nev. AP) - Muhammad Ali, a boxing immortal in the autumn of his career, reaches back for one more springtime tonight when he attempts to win the heavyweight championship for a record fourth

The man standing between Ali and this latest piece of boxing history is Larry Holmes, a former sparring World Boxing Council champion. And Holmes promises that he will write the last chapter to Ali's remarkable

'He's an old man and I will beat him," the champion said of Ali, who is 38 and has not fought in two years.

Ali ballooned to 254 pounds during his retirement but trained for six months and came in at a trim 2171/2 for tonight's b/ut, the lightest he's been since beating George Foreman for the crown in 1974.

"You will see a miracle, a real miracle," he said at the weigh-in Wednesday. "I'm turning the clock back 15 years. My timing and my speed are back. Don't be late. I might do this in one round. Don't be out buying popcorn and hot dogs."

Ali will carry a six-pound advantage over Holmes, who weighed in at 2111/2. Traditionally, champion and challenger weigh in together but Holmes' camp, wary of exposing the champion to any of Ali's prefight antics, insisted on separate weigh-

But Ali's entourage was on hand for Holmes' appearance and when the champion held his belt high over his head, Lloyd Wells, who counted situps for the ex-champ, shouted at him. "Does the winner get that belt?"

"The winner gets this belt," Holmes said of the broad red band with a bejewled gold insigna that he said was worth $38,000, "and it's gonna stay with the one who's got it now."

Holmes earned the belt June 9, 1978 when he outpointed Ken Norton for the crown. That was three months before Ali beat Leon Spinks to regain the World Boxing Association version of the crown - making him the first to hold the most glamorous title in boxing three times.

Ali then retired, apparently ending a remarkable career which had begun in the 1960 Olympic Games at light-heavyweight champion. Holmes, meanwhile, defended the WBCcrown seven times, winning each fight by a knockout and extending his career record to 35-0. Winning seven title defenses by knockout tied umber of consecutive KO victories of Joe Louis and a knockout victory over Ali would tie Holmes with Tommy Burns

For two years, Ali stayed away from the ring, touring the world as a presidential envoy, making movies and speaking appearances, and eating exceedingly well. "Pancakes and gallons of milk," he said.

Then came the decision to go for the championship again. Many of Ali's closest advisors tried to talk him out of it but he was determined. Angelo Dundee, Ali's longtime trainer, said "A gremlin climbed on his shoulder and whispered in his ear, 'four times, world champion.' That's all it took.'

That and a record purse of $8 million in this Don King-Caesars Palace promotion. Holmes, even though he is champion, will get about half what Ali is getting - about $4 million.

The soldout fight will be staged in a temporary 25,000-seat stadium which has been erected in the hotel parking lot. The gate will be a record $6 million with closed circuit television and ancilliary rights adding handsomely to the overall pot. ABC-TV reportedly has paid better than $2 milion for delayed telecasting rights.

Also on the card tonight will be a 12-round heavyweight elimination bout between ex-champ Leon Spinks, ranked No.4 by the WBC, and Bernardo Mercado, ranked No. 1. King has promised the winner of that bout a shot at the crown against the winner of the Holmes-Ali fight.

In another fight, Saoul Mamby defends his super-lightweight crown against Maurice "Termite" Watkins. But Holmes and Ali own the spotlight, primarily because of the almost mystical hold the former champion exerts on the public.

Ali has been in the eye of the boxing hurricane since knocking out Sonny Liston for the championship in 1964 in a stunning upset. The day after that fight, the new champ announced that he was adopting the Black Muslim faith and changing his name from

way Park last year. Sullivan said he hoped to name the Andrews' Pearcy honored

Minnesota Twins.

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

The tall, lean-looking fellow playing first violin in the Andrews High School orchestra is Van Pearcy. He's a straight-A student, an artist and helps the band director instruct the string section.

Pearcy also likes to orchestrate the Andrews football team and has led them to three straight victories this season and the No. 7 ranking in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football

Pearcy was in perfect tune last week when he rushed 206 yards on 22 carries to lead the Mustangs to a 27-7 victory over Lamesa. Pearcy's punting was a bit off however. He punted five times for ONLY a 44-yard average, which slightly lowered his season

Despite his off-punting night, possibly caused by being out of school all week with a virus, Pearcy earns mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

"He uses his speed so well but he also has good moves," Andrews Coach Bill Shipman said. "And he's a hard runner. He doesn't mind running over people. I can't really compare him to anyone. He kind of has a style all his own.

Although Pearcy's offensive stats attract most of the attention, Shipman says some of his most amazing feats have been as a backup safety and linebacker on defense. "He's had a lot of long runs but the most outstanding things I've seen him do are on defense," Shipman said. "He just runs people down from behind. He does something every week. You can't pick out any one thing.

Pearcy recorded a 67-yard punt inthe season opener. "Most of it was in the air too," Shipman said.

In other outstanding performances last week:

-Quarterback-defensive back Cedric Brown led Rockwall to a 7-6 victory over Lancaster with 72 yards rushing, 37 passing on offense and 16 unassisted tackles on defense. Brown also returned to kickoffs 68 yards and ran a boot-leg play 57 yards to set up the winning touchdown

-Fullback Glenn Langford rushed 233 yards on 38 carries and scored on runs of 41, 2 and 2 yards in leading Channelview to a 20-14 victory over Liberty. Langford has gained 637 yards on 103 carries through four

-Commerce tailback Van Hargis romped through Prairiland for 236 yards on 20 carries en route to a 26-14 victory. Hargis, who has 681 yards on 78 carries for the season, scored on a 64-yard run and set up another score with a 73-yard run.

Seagraves, Stanton square off in key area matchup

There isn't much doubt as to this week's No. 1 game in the Permian Basin area. Seagraves invades Stanton in a game that most suspect will decide the District 5-2A title on the very first weekend of play: Both the Eagles and Buffaloes carry 4-0 records into the fray, the only unbeaten records in the league, and both carry state Top 15 creden-

Seagraves, ranked No. 7, hasn't lost to Stanton since 1969, but Coach

Steve Park hopes to change all that this year. Stanton will rely on a stubborn defense that has shutout opponents in the last two games and has surrendered no yardage offensively in those two tilts. Offensively, the Buffs aren't as impressive as Seagraves, but are averaging 19 points per game. Stanton's toughest test to date came from Coahoma when they were forced to rally from an 18-0 deficit for a

Seagraves is averaging 42 points a game offensively and has surrendered just over seven per outing. However, 24 of the 30 points they gave up were in last week's game with McCamey when the Badgers gave hope to the Eagles future foes by exposing them as possible mortals

It took a 50-yard run by Daniel Suniga in the fourth quarter to pull out a 31-24 win over the Badgers. District 6-A also embarks upon its league schedule this week with Ran-kin at Iraan heading the schedule. The Red Devils are 3-0 while Iraan is 1-2. Both have played one common foe, McCamey, and the results would indicate a close game. Iraan lost to McCamey 21-19 when a last gasp field goal attempt failed while Rankin beat the Badgers 17-13.

Greenwood, 2-1, tests its district wings at Sanderson, 0-3. The Eagles lost a 14-6 game to Van Horn and a 15-14 decision to Fort Davis. Greenwood's lone loss came by a 20-14 margin against Klondike. Buena Vista is at Wink and Balmorhea at Grandfalls in other games.

District 2-4A moves into its third week and Andrews, 4-0, faces a formidable challenge from Pecos, a thorny defensive club that has yielded only two touchdowns while registering four victories. Andrews last week beat Lamesa, 27-7, while Pecos eased by Fort Stockton, 10-0. Pecos' other league win was 7-6 against Monahans, but this week the Eagles will be faced with the chore of corraling the deadly duo of Van Pearcy and Keith

In other 2-4A action, Lake View, 1-3, is at Snyder, 0-4; Odessa Ector is at Fort Stockton, and a couple of surprise teams, Lamesa and Sweetwater tangle at Sweetwater. Lamesa is 2-2 after a 1-9 season while Sweetwater has won 3-of-4 including two in district. The Tors and Mustangs are both under new coaches, Jim Warren at Lamesa and W.T. Stapler at Sweetwater.

In 6-3A, Crane, 0-3, hosts Kermit in a Homecoming outing while Denver City is at Lubbock Cooper and Seminole at Slaton. McCamey, now 2-2, tries to get back on the winning track at Eldorado

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The president of the Texas Rangers says he is irritated and embarrassed that umpires have had to call off play at Arlington Stadium for two days in a row because of wet grounds.

Rains began falling Friday, while the team was on the road, and fell for four straight days, but the field was never covered with a tarp. By Tuesday, 5½ inches of rain had soaked the

A "beep ball" state championship involving blind teams used the outfield of Arlington Stadium over the weekend and played in the rain. The groundskeeper said he didn't cover the infield because the blind players might have tripped over the tarp and hurt themselves or might have damaged the tarp with their rubber cleats.

"He did what he thought was proper, but I intend to have a nice long talk with him. It won't happen again," said Robinson.

McAdoo is sidelined

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit forward Bob McAdoo, hobbled by a groin muscle ailment, will be sidelined when the Pistons open the National Basketball Association season Oct. 10 against Washington.

White to play with bum finger

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas quarterback Danny White said Wednesday he doesn't anticipate any problems with a fractured finger on his left hand.

"Every week is a different challenge and this is a new one," said White, who is right-handed and suffered the injury recovering a fumble Sunday against Green Bay. "It's the first time I've had to play with an injury.

"This is something that every good quarterback has to do. You have to play hurt. Things like this have never bothered me."

The Cowboys host the New York Giants Sunday in Texas Stadium.

White will wear a splint on the shattered digit for some six weeks.

Four WBL teams fold during reorganization

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Four teams were dropped from the women's Professional Basketball League during a financial reorganization Wednesday, a league spokesman said.

The league said New York, Iowa, Houston and Milwaukee have elected not to participate in the 1980-81 season. The Milwaukee Express will consider alternative markets for the 1981-82 season, said the league in a prepared statement.

The nine operating teams will be aligned in two divisions. Dallas, New Orleans, San Francisco, Tampa Bay and New Jersey will make up the coastal division, while Chicago, St. Louis, Minnesota and Nebraska will make up the central division.

Sherwin Fischer of Chicago has been named interim commissioner of the league, succeeding league founder Bill Byrne, who will own and operate the Tampa Bay Sun. League headquarters will be in Chicago.

Dogs provide companionship

Now that we've been over three basic breeds of hunting dogs in a previous column, let's look at what the dog stands for as a hunter and companion.

There are four parts to hunting. First, is the getting ready, the anticipation. Then comes the hunt itself, with things going as they should in prime country with good companionship and some chances at game.

There'll be game bagged on the best hunts. Maybe not the limit, but any game brought to bag will be earned with careful hunting and good shoot-

The fourth part is most enduring: the stories by fireside, the warm memories a hunter can summon up to ward off the chill of everyday worries and troubles.

If there's one thread running through all this, it's good companion-ship—and if there's one kind of companion that adds special richness to hunting, it's a dog. The two of you will share all four parts of the best hunting. You'll be out there together when summer begins turns to autumn, the hunting fever building in both of you. Then the season comes and you'll never find a better field companion or one that does more credit to prime countrysides, or shows you more game.

Your chances of bagging that game are not only better with a trained dog, but when it's over, a main part of your warmest memories will be the dogs that helped make them. Long after a man forgets his best shot of the day, he'll remember the point of a setter pop on his maiden covey. The retriever breaking shelf ice for a late-season mallard, the little spaniel catching a crippled pheasant almost as big as he is, and the December music of beagles working a cottontail rabbit.

Yet, many hunters settle for second best. They never share the outdoors with a good dog, and their hunting is poorer and lonelier for it. Sure, you can hunt without a dog and get some birds, but the real action comes when you flush those birds. A good dog gives you action to watch all day.

KENNY REDIN'S

Fin & Feather

That dog will give you more shooting, and if you do your part and knock down a bird, the dog can find it and keep it from being lost and wasted.

Men and dogs have been hunting together for a long time, and it's not hard to swee why. We team up pretty well, we hunters and our dogs, and we need each other. There's been close association between men and dogs for at least 50,000 years and there's no doubt that the dog was the first animal domesticated by man.

No one is sure of the dog's origin. Some scholars contend dogs are direct descendants of the wolf. Others think the jackal was Fido's ancestor. Maybe both are right. But it's doubtful that Stone Age man struck up an alliance with some wolflike creature just because he was lonely for a pet. Man and dog go together because it's to their mutual benefit. It was definitely a partnership, for it was formed long before man became a farmer or herder. And even back in pre-history, people had a special relationship with dogs and accorded "man's best friend" a special role in rituals and art.

Yet, the beginning of it all was the hunt when men and dogs became partners in a quest for meat, and it's in the hunt today that men and dogs can renew their ancient bond and recapture the old times. The dog shares our most ancient legends, our oldest dreams, and our brightest hopes for next Saturday.

Minoso to play in 5 clecades

CHICAGO (AP) — Orestes "Minnie" Minoso, 57-year-old veteran of 31 years in major league baseball, will be given a shot at becoming the only player in the modern era to play in five decades.

The Chicago White Sox announced Wednesday they will activate Minoso, a Sox coach since 1976, for the final series of the 1980 season.

Minoso, who broke into the majors with Cleveland in 1949, first came to the White Sox in 1951. In his last appearance as an active player at age 53, he got a hit in a Sept. 12, 1976, game against California. He batted eight times as a designated hitter that season and carries a .298 lifetime batting average.

The Sox wind up the season with three games against California starting Friday night.

Minoso was traded back to Cleveland after seven seasons with Chicago. He returned to the White Sox in 1960 but was traded to the St. Louis. Cardinals in 1962. He came back to Chicago for a third time in 1964, played one season and then went to Mexico where he played and managed until 1976.

In 1951, he hit .326 and drove in 112 runs to be voted American League's rookie of the year.

The Cuban-born Minoso was selected to the American League All-Star team seven times. In his playing career, he was struck by 189 pitches, the most of any American League batter.

Local magnitude is a measure of ground shaking near the earthquake fault and "that's particularly important when you're designing structures so they won't be damaged," Jennings

The differences can be substantial, since each increase of one number of the magnitude scales - for example, an increase of 4.0 in the Richter scale as compared to 5.0 - represents a tenfold increase in

The San Francisco quake, which kibled 600 people and left $499 million in damage, occurred before magnitude scales existed. But it was the first major American quake to be recorded on scientific instruments the predecessors of mod-

Long arm of law now pushes broom

HOWARD, Kan. (AP) - Judge J.L. Roberts was the law in this tiny Kansas town for seven years.

Then he fined the mayor for letting his dog run loose. And a City Councilman's relative was slapped with a bill for disorderly conduct. Today, old Jess Roberts is the City Hall janitor. And frankly, the resilient 85-year-old prefers holding a broom to holding a gavel. The hours are better; so is the pay.

"I've got everything paid for, a nice house, two cars and a regular Social Security check," he said recently. "I don't have to do this. But I

"And besides, I'm not going to give them (City Council members) the satisfaction of saying they got rid of ol' Jess."

Roberts has nipped at the heels of the community's leadership for years. Born on a farm nearby, he landed his first job washing dishes at Howard's Metropolitan Hotel. Later, he owned restaurants, dance halls and theaters, worked in carpentry, auto salvage and tire repair.

He eventually settled on the furniture business his father owned. When he retired in 1972, at 77, he was elected justice of the peace.

But two days after he started, the state abolished the position. So Roberts was appointed municipal judge for the town of 900.

Armed only with a voracious appetite for books, Roberts deftly interpreted the city and state codes, dishing out fines for everything from drunkenness to speeding.

At first the city let him pocket the $9 in court costs he assessed violators. But the state stepped in and abolished court costs in the mid-1970s. The city put Roberts on a $50-a-month salary.

The wayward were taken to Roberts' home at all hours. A man picked up for drinking in public appeared before Roberts and was fined before he could drain the evidence.

A tough judge, some said. But a fair one.

That was before city officials and their relatives began making appearances in court. Roberts fined the mayor $20 for violating a leash law the mayor helped enact.

"I didn't make the laws, I just enforced them," Roberts explained. "Those dummies up at City Hall thought I should turn them loose 'cause they were big guys.' Soon the council appointed a new judge. But Roberts wasn't through at City Hall. He took the job as janitor — at $10 a month more.

The only reason I'm here is because they can't get anyone else to work this cheap," says Roberts, who looks more like judge than janitor with his slicked-back silver hair and proper bow tie.

But from his new position, Roberts again can offer his unsolicited commentary on the affairs of this farming community. "It's kinda nice to sit back and tell 'em all where to go - and I don't mind doin' it.

The latest alert involves toxic shock syndrome, a rare, but sometimes fatal disease associated with the use of tampons. The Food and Drug Administration has asked manufacturers to label tampons with a warning of possible dangers.

A more familiar label is the sign on cigarette packages, prompted by a 1964 report: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to your Health."

This is another test of your skill at handling the dummy. But let's warn you, things might not be what they seem.

The auction is quite straightforward. South's decision to continue on to game is a little aggressive, but his cards rate to work well because they are behind the overcaller. West leads a low club to his partner's ace. How would you plan the play? Don't say we didn't warn you. We've slipped in a sneaky question. You cannot decide how you intend to play the hand until you know what East leads to the second trick. If he's a cooperative fellow, he will return a club and force out the ace of trumps. Draw the last trumps and take a losing spade finesse. A diamond will go away on the high spade and you have made your contract.

But what if East is unsporting enough to return a diamond at trick two? Now you cannot afford to ruff a club and start on trumps. East will win and play another diamond, forcing out your last stopper. When you finish drawing trumps and lose the spade finesse, the defenders will cash a diamond to defeat you one trick.

The winning solution is to take the spade finesse before you touch trumps. When East wins and returns another diamond, you must hope for a 3-3 spade division. Take two high spades, sluffing your diamond loser. Now ruff a club and begin your attack on trumps, and the contract rolls home.

Congratulations if you spotted our little trap.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Supermobility in industry creates interesting ills

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The shooting star of industry, the person who rises early and swiftly to a position of high responsibility, often flames out or is shot down by the flak of events, enemies and competitors.

'There is no problem trickier and filled with perversity than that of the supermobile man or woman," said Professor Eugene Jennings, an adviser to top executives on personal, corporate and personnel matters.

"It is amazing to me how many corporate officials sponsor a very rapid rising man or woman and don't fully realize the safeguards that must be taken to protect that person," said the professor.

Jenning's comments followed news reports of the predicament faced by Mary Cunningham, 29, vice president of strategic planning for the Bendix Corp., a Southfield, Mich. manufacturer of industrial equipment. Amid controversy about her rapid promotions and association with William M. Agee, chairman and president, Miss Cunningham had sought a leave of absence but was convinced to remain by the Bendix board. 'The best way to to burn out a talented individual is to let him or her go as high as possible as fast as possible," Jennings commented, adding that bosses who allow it to happen share much of the blame. Shooting stars, or young, upwardly mobile executives, were common in the economic expansion of the 1960s, he said. Rarer now, and more often women, Jennings feels they are less tolerated and more criticized.

Most often, he said, they are found in planning, public relations, consumer and government relations, and sometimes in personnel, all areas in which it is difficult to apply tangible performance criteria. The same lack of success measures, however, make it equally difficult for the individual, no matter how talented, to prove he or she belongs in the position. "The record is not demon-strable," he said. If criticized, Jennings suggested, neither the sponsor (the person mainly responsible for the promotions) or the star can offer a strong defense.

And if they do, he said, they only make matters worse.

"In most cases the sponsor and star should remain quiet and let the controversy die down," he said. If the star has the competency, he suggested, it will in time begin to manifest

How, he was asked, can a sponsor protect a young but highly competent person who, because of youth, cannot prove his or her right to a job in the conventional manner, i.e., by demonstrating a string of successes?

"When you see an exceptional talent you must view it as a perishable asset," said Jennings, graduate professor of management at Michigan State University, who has helped executives handle many shooting stars.

Typically, he said, you patiently expose the star to a broad base of people who will gradually begin to acknowledge the star's competency and finally support him or her. "You build a constituency," he said.

The star must be afforded the chance to build a foundation. "There is no substitute for experience, and the judgment and maturity that comes with experience. You season the person," he said.

Finally, he said, "when the person does move to the top he or she has had the last weakness removed that typifies most shooting stars, the lack of judgment with regard to people prob-

Criticism of the star has to be expected, and sponsors should be aware of it when they put the star into an exposed situation, Jennings said. The fall to earth is too easy, he said.

To slow a star doesn't mean to diminish it. In fact, said Jennings, it might polish it up. Most people who reach the very top begin slowly, seldom moving fast until they are well into their 30s, he said. "Most of the great movers and shakers of the world never went up fast," he said. "Late bloomers are much more common than early arrivals, and they are much better accepted at the top. On the other hand, "those who moved up fast before their 30s to a reporting relationship with the chief executive often fail to sustain the pace," he said. "They will tell you, 'I wasn't ready for it.'

The commission rejected RKO's suggestion that the stations' status be resolved now by allowing RKO to create a new company with independent management to take control of them.

Officials of the General Tire & Rubber Co., RKO's parent firm, had no comment on the FCC decision. The immediate effect

United Sioux Tribes Director Clarence Skye, tribal councilmen and chairmen to vote on whether to recommend acceptance of the award, said he was pleased with the outcome of the meet-

"The purpose of this meeting is the issues," Skye said. "The issues were brought up, they were explained, people had a better understanding. We thought the meeting was highly successful in that the people were able to get understanding and speak their peace.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled June 30 that eight Sioux tribes must be paid $105 million for the loss of 7.3 million acres of the Black Hills region of western South Dakota in 1877. The high court said Congress took the area from the Sioux, who consider it sacred, without just compensa-

Inhalants cause health problems

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine orks as a recreation supervisor in an institution for delinquent children. The boys like him personally and enjoy the activities he arranges for them. In addition, since he is not looked upon as an authority, they confide in him, realizing that whatever they tell him will be kept in confidence. He recently learned that several of the boys have a habit of getting themselves hight by putting paint thinner in a plastic bag and inhaling the fumes. The practice seems very dangerous to me, and the whole idea of kids having to get an artificial high is very questionable; but before I offer advice, I'd like to get some from ou. What would you suggest I tell him, if anything? — Ben

Dear Ben: If your friend is concerned about the youngsters he supervises, he will find some way to let those in charge know what is going on. In 1978 more than 150 people died from inhaling a variety of volatile substances, and about 1,800 wound up n emergency rooms. The practice may not only make a person high; in may make him dead

Inhaling a volatile substance is equivalent to having it injected into the body. It can result in immediate oss of consciousness, heart irregularities and death. In addition, individuals who inhale these substances are at risk of brain damage and, as a result, loss of muscular coordination, confusion, lethargy, irritability and disorientation. Other possible adverse effests include liver and kidney disease and, from a long-range standpoint, cancer and genetic damage. This is quite a price to pay for a temporary feeling of euphoria.

Adolescents appear to comprise the group that is most inclined to use inhalants. According to the National Institute of Drug Abuse, about seven million people over 12 years of age have used inhalants at least once. This compares with the approximately 42 million people who have used marijuana. The Food and Drug Administration notes that these figure may be misleading since individuals who use inhalants generally are not likely to be covered in school surveys of drug abuse, nor are they likely to seek medical attention in emergency rooms. Moreover, surveys seeking information about the incidence of drug abuse often do not include questions about the use of inhalants.

At one time it was commonly believed that inhalant users lost interest in the habit as they grew older. However, more recent studies indicate that while they may begin using other drugs, they only partially reduce their use of inhalants. Incidentally, the use of inhalants is not restricted to any one socioeconomic group.

I can understand why your friend does not want to betray the confidence of the youngsters at the institution, but he should find a way of bringing the matter to the attention of those in authority. A conference with the medical or social work personnel of the facility may be a good first

Loan sharking: Big, bad business in Japan TOKYO (AP) — One thing stood between Yasuaki finance ministry official. "All one has to do to set up years," says Shunsuke Funase, of the Consumers Tanoue and his dreams of a better life - $13,000 - so he borrowed the money. He didn't know what he was Unable to get a bank loan because of a poor credit rating, Tanoue approached a neighborhood loan company that was only too willing to provide funds for him to put his children through school and buy a few luxuries. By year's end, Tanoue's dreams had turned to nightmares: interest payments had soared to several hundred percent annually and his earnings from his construction job, equivalent to $200 a week, left him far behind in payments. Then, in what is known in Japan's loan sharking business as "giving the run around," the company forced Tanoue to take out four more loans to cover his original debt. Finally, after months of being hounded for payment, the family disappeared without a trace — owing $27,000, more than twice the original amount borrowed.

Two months later, police found the remains of Tanoue, 35, and his wife Haruko, 29, hanging from a tree in a remote forest. The couple's son, Yoshiyuki, 6, and daughter, Miho, 5, were found nearby, dead from an overdose of sleeping pills.

The only money found with the family was a one yen coin - less than half a cent.

Last year, police say, 180 people killed themselves in Japan because they owed money to a "sarakin," a breed of money lenders who are legal but who can be as intimidating in retrieving money as they are gracious in handing it out.

An additional 2,203 persons disappeared, police say, all apparent victims of a tight credit squeeze by Japan's loan sharks who operate without fear of the shop is to first notify the prefectural (state) governor. That's all there is to do.'

The loan business in Japan didn't really get going until the early 1960s, when the country was experiencing an economic boom and people's expectations rose with new-found affluence, officials say.

Since then, the sarakin - short for "salaryman loan" because they generally lend money to salaried workers — have continued to prey on low-income people with poor credit ratings who are pinched for money

There are now 184,202 money lenders registered in Japan, up from just 89,742 just 10 years ago. But their true numbers are impossible to verify because of almost non-existent government licensing regula-

Sarakin offices abound in the neon-lit streets and byways of Japanese cities. Garishly-painted signs offer "cheap, convenient, safe loans — quickly!" But there's always the catch - cash for a price.

The lending agencies often ask few or noquestions, and demand exorbitant interest rates that have been known to rise as much as 520 percent a year.

Japan's money lenders can legally charge a dizzying 109.5 percent interest. Most small neighborhood loan companies keep within the legal ceiling, but even larger, more reputable companies charge rates of around 72 percent, enough to put an indiscreet borrower on the road to ruin.

In November 1978, the last year for which figures are available, police arrested 814 loan sharks for usury, extortion and violence, 688 of whom were charged with demanding illegal rates on loans.

There have also been well-publicized cases of loan companies forcing housewives into prostitution to pay back debts. 'They will literally force some women to work for

'We've had a lot of complaints, but there's not much we can do about it," Funase said, explaining that many have links with the Yakuza, Japan's gangster underworld. Methods used by some less reputable loan com-panies make headlines almost daily. "It usually starts with a midnight call at home," Funase said. "Then, over the next few weeks they will harass the person at work until he is thoroughly humiliated. iterally they devour their debtors.

Loan companies have also found a bonanza in student loans. A student's identification card usually is all that is required to borrow thousands of dollars pay off gambling debts, and the loan companies know most fathers will bail their children out if they get into trouble. In one case, officials say, a parent paid $460,000 to square a son's debts.

W. Darrel Zang, 48, and Louis Porter, 52, top officers in Dalco Petroleum Inc., were convicted Wednesday of violating federal guidelines by selling old crude oil as though it were higher-priced new oil.

U.S. District Judge James Ellison scheduled sentencing for Oct. 31 and allowed both men to remain free on personal recognizance bonds.

Defense lawyers said they would ask that the verdict be set aside. Dalco Petroleum was founded by Porter, and Zang joined the firm in 1976 after leaving a vice president's job at Western Crude Oil Inc. of Den-

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court ruled today that the market value of natural gas is determined when the gas is sold, which is the same as when the gas is deli-

This ruling could represent an extreme financial blow to oil and gas companies.

Before 1972, the court said, most natural gas was marketed under long-term contracts at fixed prices. Exxon Corp. contended market value of gas should be based on the effective date of its purchase contracts. The Supreme Court said, however, Exxon is liable for paying the royalty owners one-eighth of the market value of the gas at the time it is delivered, perhaps many years after a contract date. 'When Exxon negotiated the gas contracts, it took the risk that the revenue therefrom would be sufficient to satisfy its royalty obligations," the court said. The question arose in a suit filed by royalty owners in Chambers County against Exxon and Sun Oil Co., alleging they had not received enoug royalties for the years 1973, 1974 and

'We're offering tracts more in line with what industry wants," said Harold Sieverding, assistant manager of the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Managment, after Tuesday's sale.

It will be two weeks or so before the department completes its analysis and decides which bids to accept. All the 192 tracts offered were off the coast of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

A combine headed by Superior Oil Co. was high bidder on the most popular tract, offering $164.8 million for a square mile that lies under 600 feet of water near Grand Isle. That comes to $52,457.81 an acre.

Mobil Oil Exploration headed a combine that offered $161.5 million on a tract 60 miles off the coast, southwest of Lafayette.

Leases are for the life of production, but the holder must take steps to develop the tract within five years. About 850 oil men, representing

New gasoline due for market

HOUSTON (AP) - A new super, lead-free octane motor gasoline will be placed on the market this month, Texaco USA has announced.

The Super Lead-Free Sky Chief grade will have a posted octane rating of 91, compared with 89 and 87, respectively, for leaded and lead-free grades, President Annon M. Card said Tuesday.

Card said the new product should reduce pinging or engine knock in vehicles not satisfied with lower octane grades.

Marketing of the new product will begin this month in portions of Florida, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Texas, Card said. The marketing area will be expanded later to additional states along the Gulf Coast the the Eastern seaboard.

By LEE JONES AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The president of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency says solutions to a rising crime rates are being bogged down by "law and order" political rhetoric

Prison reformers have a "great opportunity" for passing new laws in Texas, but prison and police officials are withholding information that citizens could use in making those decisions, Milton Rector said at a recent news conference.

"Your people of Texas are as humane and concerned about other people as people anywhere in the United States," he said. Reducing the amount of crime and dealing intelligently with criminals are issues that do not lend themselves to political solutions, Rector said.

"We've got to stop the political rhetoric and stop looking at the issue as conservative or liberal. It is rational or irrational," Rector said. In some states, he said, businessmen, industrialists and political conservatives are taking the lead by providing such alternatives to prison as probation, work-release and job training. The alternatives are in use, he said, because those people have

Rector criticized the Texas Department of Corrections' plan to build a 3,000-bed prison farm, saying it would offer little of the job training that inmates from urban areas need.

still more crime.

Texas has more than 28,000 prison inmates, some whom sleep on floors. "You are the last state in the United States to pretend you have a self-supporting prison system, ne said of the TDC's agricultural orientation.

Meanwhile, he said, "the more cells that are available, the more people who are incarcerated." A non-violent criminal "could be on probation, paying restitution to his victims instead of running up $40 to $50-a-day board bills in prison," Rector Many Texas inmates don't have enough to do with their time, he said, and this was part of the problem

Rector also said Texas cities need high-ranked officials with authority to find ways to make police more efficient and the power to put those methods In Seattle, he said, a deputy mayor was able to reduce the jail population by 50 percent by imple-

Optimists honor New York mayor

NEW YORK (AP) - Mayor Edward I. Koch's 'practical optimism'' earned him an award Wednesday from the Optimist Club of New York, a group whose aim is "to look at the sunny side of everything.' "I am an optimist...but I do not look at life through rose-colored glasses," Koch declared in accepting the award. "The optimist has more fun. I look at life as an adventure. Your practical optimism is larely responsible for the rebirth of New York, New York," read a plaque presented to Koch by club president Jules B. Singer, Midge Donovan is shown with some clown props in her Montclair, N.J. home. Three years ago Mrs. Donovan's husband became totally disabled with emphysema and after trying to make it business she decided at the age of 48 to become a clown.

Midge always fantasized about being a clown

UPPER MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) - From the time she was a girl, Midge Donovan had a fantasy that she shared with no one because no one else would

In her secret heart, she always wanted to be a clown.

"It was a defense mechanism, I guess," she said. "When things get heavy, you smile to hide the hurt."

Midge's mother died when she was 12. The family was not well off. She went to work at 17, married at 19. Heavy.

"When things were tough I smiled a lot on the outside," she said, "and I always had my clown fantasy to cling to. I never even told my husband about it. I never told my best friend. I never told a soul. But just thinking about clowns made me all tingly."

The hardest times were yet to come. Three years ago, Midge's husband, Bill, became totally disabled with emphysema.

"Well, I was 45 years old and I had to go to work. With a friend, who was a recent widow, I opened a dress shop. It was a success, but it was a struggle,

'With the shop taking up all my time, and the situation at home needing my time, my life was a real mess, all downhill. I became a compulsive eater, gained about 40 pounds. "As always, I hid my grief behind a laugh. Good old happy Midge, ever the cut-up. But I had never gone through worse times. Then, last year, I saw this ad in the paper that changed my life." The ad said: Clown School.

"I didn't hesitate. I sent an application. I didn't know what would come of it. I expected to be told that you had to be 20 and had to go off with a circus or something. Here I was, 48 years old, applying for clown school. Absurd.

"From the first day, it was just wonderful.

"There were 10 in the class. The youngest was 12 and the oldest was over 60.

Most were in their 20s. I went for two hours every Friday night for 13 weeks. All week long, I looked forward to Friday night.

"Then came the test, sort of the final exam - go out to the shopping mall and "I took as a character a woman all dolled up in satin who was really funny looking but thought of herself as gorgeous. "Well, it didn't work. I went out in the shopping mall and nearly suffocated. I couldn't do it. Here I was, a lifelong extrovert trying to portray an introvert. 'I was crushed. As a clown, I was an absolute failure. So much for the dream

A few weeks later, I was at home listening to country-western music and suddenly it hit me. I would be a clown cowgirl, an outlandish extrovert myself, but someone different. 'In 24 hours I had my costume made. As soon as I started putting on my makeup I knew it would work. By the time I put on my purple wig I was no longer Midge Donovan. I was Maggie D. Clown. I went to the shopping mall and had a ball. Everybody laughed, including me. "Now I clown every chance I get. It feels so great. I've knocked off 25 pounds.

The world is not threatening. I've never been happier. "I don't know where it will lead, but it's the biggest thing in my life. Maybe I could be a full-time clown, you know, like Ronald MacDonald or something. We'll just have to wait and see.

'The worst thing that can happen is that nothing will come of it, but I'll still have a great time doing it. "Think of it. A clown saved my life, and the clown is me."

Jury finds three guilty in drug smuggling case

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Three men were convicted and a fourth found innocent by a federal court jury Wednesday in what prosecutors said was a major drug smuggling conspiracy. Nine others charged in a feeral grand jury indictment had previously pleaded guilty. A final man named in the 12-count indictment is still at large. "We've got 12 out of 14, I'm very satisfied," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Kevin O'Malley. "We've broken up a major drug ring. When was the last time you heard of a drug smuggling ring in St. Louis?"

Convicted in U.S. District Court were I.N. Burchinal Jr. of Paris, Texas and John Gerard and Russell Jack Kern, both of Tucson, Ariz. Joseph S. Olivastro of Olivette, Mo. was acquit-

Gerard's wife wept openly while members of Olivastro's family, who had sat through the six-day trial, cheered the verdict. "God bless you," Olivastro said to each juror. The men were convicted of conspiring to buy an airplane to be used to smuggle marijuana, hashish and methaquaalone pills from Colombia, South America to the Arizona desert in a 1978-80 conspira-Pleading guilty Sept. 22 were Anthony Olivastro and Joseph M. Olivastro, sons of Joseph S. Olivastro; Curtis H. Kopman of Chesterfield, Mo.; Thomas Cabrera of Affton, Mo., and Steven P. Nuelle, Ronald D. Giancola and Steven H. Meoli, all of St. Louis.

Gerald G. Folsom of Kansas City, Mo., and Gerald B. Natelson of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. pleaded guilty after the trial was underway. Authorities are searching for Oscar Ansourian of

Ft. Lauderdale. Prosecutors said Kopman had developed a connection through Natelson to purchase drugs in Colombia. Anthony Olivastro and his brother Joseph were to provide funding for the smuggling opera-

Kern and Burchinal both attempted to procure airplanes for the smuggling operation. Gerard introduced the Olivastros to Kern after Burchinal failed to make equipment adjustments on one plane in a satisfactory time period. Joseph S. Olivastro was charged with providing money and advice to his sons during the course of the The government's case relied heavily on the testimony of Richard Boumis, a confessed cocaine dealer, who was to fly the plane. Boumis agreed to testify after pleading guilty to cocaine charges in an unrelated incident.

When you buy a used car, what else do you get besides the car?

In a good restaurant, when you buy a dinner, you get more than just food. You get service, a pleasant atmosphere, and a feeling that the owners would like you to come back.

It's the very same way that we like to sell used cars. Since our reputation is more "on the line" when we sell a used car, you can be sure we'll do everything we can to make our used car customer a satisfied customer.
