'Thank God for OPEC!' cries Oklahoma oil exec

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — "Thank God for OPEC!"
Robert Parker, chairman of Parker Drilling Co. of Tulsa told the Oklahoma Petroleum Council annual

He said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries "provided our incentives with their prices. They are doing for us what we can't do for ourselves

"It's the prices of OPEC that make us go after more oil and gas, and our shortages have become surpluses,'

Parker cited a quote from the New York Times, saying the United States only had six years' supply of oil. The article was printed in 1926.

"When they predict that we're running out of oil, what they're saying is that they've found all they know how to find. The North Sea had 51 dry holes before any oil was found. The North Slope had 36 dry holes before the discovery well was drilled.

"Don't lose faith in the magic of incentives and the free enterprise system," Parker told the audience of oil and gas industry executives.

He presented William S. Martin of Bartlesville,
Chairman of the Board of Phillips Petroleum Co., with the Oklahoma Oil Man of the Year award.

Robert C. Moore, vice president, public affairs, for Cities Service Co., Tulsa, was elected president of the council, succeeding Warren L. Jensen, vice president of Conoco, Inc., Ponca City.

Earlier, the council heard from he president of the American Arab Chamber of Commerce.

Why would we be beaten back in trade by nations whom we defeated in war and pulled out of destruction, such as Japan, Germany, Italy and South Korea?' asked Dr. Atef Gamal-Eldin, of Houston.

"There is no doubt that our technology is superior to everyone else; our manufactured goods are the best and our prices are equal, if not lower, because of the depressed exchange price of the dollar," he said.
"What are the problems which plague U.S. contractors bidding on projects in the Arab world and handicap U.S. suppliers in the area?" he asked.

He cited lack of government supports for U.S. businessmen abroad, U.S. tax laws that increase the burden on companies operating overseas and citizens working abroad, and the Foreign Corrupt Practice Act

He said the 1977 statute is "based on the moralistic idealism which we would honestly hope would be the basis of transactions all over the globe," he said.

"In fact, this law has in many cases hindered the abilities of U.S. companies to acquire foreign contracts worth billions of dollars.

He said adverse publicity has driven Arab invest-ment money away. "An example was the story in Texas papers about the Saudi man who wanted to purchase the Alamo. When we researched, we found it a false story, and that name is non-existent in Saudi

OPEC summit meeting delayed

VIENNA, AUSTRIA (AP) - A summit conference of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, scheduled for early next month in Baghdad, Iraq, has been indefinitely postponed, the Iraqi embassy announced here today.

No reason was given for the postponement, but it was presumed to be the result of the continuing war between Iraq and Iran, both OPEC member nations.

The summit, which was to be attended by heads of state and government from the 13 member countries, was scheduled to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the organization's founding. Delegates also intended to endorse OPEC's long-range production policies.

The Iraqi embassy said a new date for the session would be announced "in good time."

Postponement of the Baghdad summit and prior meetings of government ministers from member countries appeared to further delay the group's longstanding effort toward agreement on long-term pricing and production policies.

A meeting of OPEC finance ministers, scheduled for Quito, Ecuador Oct.6-7, was also indefinitely postponed at the request of the warring parties. That session was scheduled to decide on levels of OPEC aid to developing

On Tuesday, Venezuelan Energy Minister Humberto Calderon Berti was quoted as saying a meeting of OPEC oil ministers scheduled for Oct.14 in London was likely to be shelved as well.

Middle East rivalries and a glut on world oil markets last month prevented OPEC from reaching agreement on a long-term pricing plan at a tri-ministerial meeting

Sen. Bentsen says veto would be 'serious' error

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says it would be a "serious injustice" to deny permanent resident status to Mennonites because Americans have always welcomed refugees.

Bentsen sponsored a bill approved by Congress last week granting permanent resident status to 653 Mennonites settled in the West Texas town of Seminole.

The bill now is awaiting President Carter's signature, but a national Hispanic leader wants the bill vetoed until all immigration problems are

"It would be a serious mistake if he (Carter) were to veto the bill," said the Democratic lawmaker.

"They (the Mennonites) had their land expropriated in Mexico, they thought they came to this country properly, their land was foreclosed these are poor, hardworking people," Bentsen told a news conference here

"This country has opened its doors to so many refugees — the Vietnam-ese, the Cubans, the Haitians — it would be a serious injustice to veto that bill."

Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens said Monday the problems of illegal Mexican immigrants should take precedence over the plight of the

"If people support the Mennonites, why don't they support the Mexicans?" Bonilla said in a telephone interview from his Corpus Christi home. "Is it because they (Mexican immigrants) don't speak English?

"What's good enough for the Men-nonites is good enough for the Mexicans. The legislature is premature and favors the economic well-to-do at the expense of the poor and unrepresented," Bonilla said. "If we're going to grant amnesty to the Mennonites, than we should consider a general form of amnesty for the undocumented workers (from Mexico.)"

Hospital wrote off $1.25 million in bad debts

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a five-part series examining Mid-land Memorial Hospital's financial lems. This section deals with specific facts and figures surrounding the history of bad debts at the hospi-

> By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

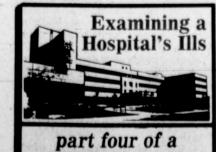

Since October of last year, Midland County Hospital District directors have written off almost $1.25 million in bad debts.

At both the August and September board of directors' meetings, assistant administrator of finance Robert Abernethy told board members about 9 percent of the yearly revenues was being spent on bad debts. He said that figure amounted to approximately $1.1 million yearly. Totaling the monthly bad debt write-offs since October 1979, however, that figure comes to $1,249,386 through Aug. 31, 1980. With one more month's bad debts to come from the hospital before the end of the fiscal year, the "average" seems to be slightly off.

But, at the September board of directors meeting, President Ed Magruder said the average figure was five-part series more valid than the monthly totals.

"THOSE NUMBERS are phantom numbers, really," Magruder ex-plained to board members. "These are the real ones (the 9 percent figure and the $1.1 million average). If you added all those write-offs together, it would not equal this number," he said. "It may be less than this; it may be more than this."

Fact is, it is more. Abernethy was quick to add "part of that ($1.1 million) reflects getting rid of the old accounts.'

The "old accounts" Abernethy referred to were accounts that had no payment action for some five months or more. Some of those accounts were several months or even years old.

The accounts were gathered into two "special write-off" packages. The first, initially $333,421, was later raised to $346,411.

The 1,828 accounts in the first package ranged in outstanding cost from 41 cents to $7,713.28. The date of the patient's dismissal from the hospital ran from a recent Feb. 27, 1980, to a much-delayed Feb. 15, 1978.

Many of the accounts in the special package represented differences in what an insurance company paid on the account and what the patient still owed. An additional amount of the accounts were billing discrepancies with individual accounts, such as left off charges and additional charges.

THE SECOND CHARGE-OFF was a continuation of the first. Expected to be around $200,000, the total package came to only $105,042. During the September meeting when the second package was approved, directors found five accounts they believed could be paid, which they removed.

The total $1.25 million charged off this year does not include the tax-paid indigent accounts. An additional $373,-000 went to the indigent patient accounts through Aug. 31. Originally, when the district was established, the taxing structure was set up to pay the increasing number of indigent patient accounts. The indigent accounts have since increased, yet not as significantly or to the extent that the bad debt accounts have increased. In the newly approved budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, the allocation for bad debts is $1.53 million. The 1979-80 allocation was $1.17 million. The 1978-79 cost for bad debts was about $860,000.

Allocations for indigent care from the tax revenues for the coming year will be only $480,000, compared to a 1979-80 figure of $756,000. The total expenditure for the current year, however, has not been used. In fact, so far — including September — only $400,000 has been allocated for use on indigent patient accounts, with $80,-000 used for other expenses.

However, Abernethy said the $756,-000 was the general fund total, which was used for both indigent payments and equipment. At any rate, next year's allotment is much lower.

WHEN TOLD during the September board meeting about the leftover funds, Magruder said, "Inasmuch as we budgeted $756,000... and only used $480,000 of that money. . . (that) will leave us with $276,000 that we are able to spend for those same (patients and expenses) in the coming year or for unseen expenditures that may arise during the coming year."

The remaining funds, Abernethy said, will be "carried forward in the general fund."

Funds for indigents are kept in the general fund. Each month, if the finance committee feels it is necessary to have additional funds in the operational budget, the committee will seek approval from the trustees and the directors for a transfer of funds. In a private interview, Bash said Jane Hall, supervisor of the admissions department, "knows that there are some people who are abusing the (indigent care) system." But, he said, the time it would take in man hours to find those few who had enough income to pay their own bills would make it non-cost efficient to do so.

In other words, if the hospital spent the time to track down and scout all the specifics of every person applying

Without commenting on the nature of political campaigns, it can be said that Ronald Reagan took the latest bit of oratory slung at him and slung it

On Tuesday, the Republican presidential candidate called President Carter "a badly misinformed and prejudiced man" and said "he's reaching the point of

And, Reagan said, the country deserved an apology from the incumbent Democratic president for his remarks Monday when he talked about the bleak outlook for the nation should Reagan be elected.

'You'll have to determine whether or not America will be unified or if I lose the election — whether America will be separated, black from white, Jew from Christian, North from South, or rural from urban," Carter told Democrats in Chicago, repeating, too, hints that Reagan as president would drag the United States into war.

Independent candidate John Anderson, meanwhile, had words Tuesday for both Carter and Reagan."I am appalled by the low level to which I think both of the traditional party candidates have taken this campaign, Anderson told an audience in Cambridge, Mass.

But Anderson saved his sharpest barb for the president, saying: "I think that Mr. Carter's desperate attempt to reduce the campaign to absurd simplicities is really masking his own fear that he is now not going to

Carter was at the White House and off the campaign trail Tuesday, but his campaign chairman, Robert Strauss, defended the president's comments about Reagan, saying Carter was merely trying to delineate the "distinct differences" between the two men.

Strauss said in a written statement that Reagan, in his reply, was paying attention only to Carter's "language" and not the substance of his com-

"This should be a campaign of issues," he said. "We're trying to see that it becomes one. Reagan's aides, meanwhile, made an apparent attempt to explain their ndidate's latest comments, releasing part of an interview in which Reagan denied he was trying to associate Carter with bigotry Asked what he meant by saying Carter was prejudiced, Reagan told WPVI-TV of Philadelphia that "when I used that word I thought, to me, it was very plain that I was talking about that he's the one that's been talking about me on these lines and maybe he's prejudiced against me because I'm running for president." Reagan, asked if he thought Carter a "dirty fighter," also told reporters: 'Well, I think he's a badly misinformed and prejudiced man.'

And he said of Carter at another point, "Certainly he's reaching a point of hysteria that's hard to understand.'

Beyond the political rhetoric: -The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Anderson's name must appear on the Georgia general election ballot, and Anderson aides said this meant the independent candidate would be on the ballot in all 50

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie denied speeches he has made defending U.S. foreign policy are partisan in nature. "You have an awfully suspicious mind," Muskie said when asked by reporters if his speeches across the country weren't political in nature.

And there was this final note on the nature of political campaigns and their uses. Pickle Packers International proposed a ticket of Reps. Jake Pickle, D-Texas, and Claude Pepper, D-Fla., "for the profusion of people who cannot pick a president from the present pack.'

Bush blames Carter for economic problems

Iraqi war could pose serious problems for the U.S. in the future although he doubted it would. "I don't believe the Soviets want a confrontation right now. The Soviets already have enough problems with Poland and Afghanistan."

This conflict between the two Middle East countries might not have come about if the U.S. had been playing a bigger role in Iran. He explained that the strip of land which Iraq wants was taken by Iran when it was a much stronger country.

"Now Iraq sees a weak Iran. Also, Khomeini is trying to stir up the passions of the Shiite Moslems, and Iraq isn't happy about it.

"The role of the United States to shape policy has diminished," Bush said of the unsettled situation in Iran. "Khomeini has no respect for international law."

ALTHOUGH BUSH accepted Reagan's invitation to be on the Republican ticket back in July, his role as a vice president hasn't been defined yet. Bush said Reagan has talked about it some, but there is nothing

"I know from my experience in Washington that only if I have his confidence will I have plenty to do," Bush said. "I've come to know him pretty well, and he's not afraid of ideas.

When Reagan came out of the GOP convention, he was a strong leader in the polls. Shortly after that, he plummeted. Bush acknowledged there were some mistakes made early in the campaign, such as miscommunication between he and Reagan. However, "Reagan now is doing an excellent job of offering answers to problems. We're pulling up again in the polls and turning away from that downward trend.

"Texas looks very strong for us," he continued. "But no one is complacent in this camp. We've got a lot of work to do. There are only 28 days to

Gold chain snatcher nabbed

EDITOR'S NOTE - John W. Gonzalez is an editor at Associated Press headquarters in New York.

By JOHN W. GONZALEZ Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — I caught a mugger on my dinner break Monday evening. I was too upset to eat for some time afterward, but I'll never forget the cheers of my crime-weary fellow pedestrians.

The thief picked a tall woman who was walking on Madison Avenue during rush hour. In the shadow of the rectory of St. Patrick's Cathedral, on a corner crowded with people who are moving too fast to give you the time of day, the thief ripped the thin, gold chain from the young woman's neck. From 15 feet away I heard her scream and saw her reach for the disappearing arm and body that had snatched her jewelry. She missed, but the thickness of the crowd slowed the thief's flight and a businessman pushed the young man onto the street, where I was able to pounce on him. I had to bear-hug the fellow for 10 or 15 minutes until the police came. Fortunately, the businessman knew an effective arm twist and helped me bring the chain-snatcher to his feet.

I endured a barrage of obscenities from the mugger, who had failed in what has become a trendy crime in New York. In the first eight months of 1980, nearly 2,000 chain snatchings were reported in the city's subways alone. Since April, police said, there have been an average of about 500 such robberies a month.

The woman immediately thanked us and started looking for her chain, which lay by the curb. She couldn't find the medal that had been attached

By then there was a crowd surrounding us, each person asking the other if the police had been called. A scrawny security guard from a nearby construction site came by and suggested we keep holding the felmedal?" said the woman. His reply was in poor taste, but he never denied the woman's accusa-

Several men who came close and asked "Have you got him?" gave the thief a verbal tar-and-feathering. Someone yelled, "We've got to fight back. We've got to stick together, New York. No more of this!"

"Let's give these men a hand! Look at how they got one!" After applauding, some of the passersby moved on and others drew closer, starting new rounds of cheers and staring at the thief.

The woman, impatient during the wait for police, stood nearby and toyed with her broken chain. I don't know whether she ever found the tary school students Wednesday, while secondary students will receive their reports on Friday.

Included with the elementary report card will be a report on the Midland Assessment Program (MAP test), given in September to all students in grades two through six.

The MAP test, which is given each fall and spring, is a test over approximately 30 reading skills and 30 math skills. The test identifies student strengths and weaknesses.

In order to receive a satisfactory score on mastering a skill, students must answer three out of four items on a question correctly. The objective of the Midland Assessment Program is to identify skill weaknesses and then teach complete mastery of a

Manuel Carrasco, director of elementary education for the school district, said parents should contact their student's teacher or principal if they have questions about the test.

Assistant superintendent Joseph Baressi said report cards distributed this week are the first since students returned to school. He said that only grade averages at the end of the semester will be recorded in a student's permanent record file.

The next report card will go out to elementary students on Nov. 19 and to

The EPA and mileage

Back in 1974 the Environmental Protection Agency began rating fuel efficiency on automobiles.

The reason for EPA's rating game was never made clear, but as many federal functions do, it grew in scope.

Unfortunately, neither the consumer nor the automaker has been served particularly well by this system. The rating game grew until a new car model virtually has to receive a favorable EPA mileage rating to remain competitive in the American automotive marketing race.

The system has tended to "cheat" particular automakers and virtually all consumers because the mileage ratings from the agency have been notoriously inaccurate.

In fact, Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin says the mileage figures have been more myth than reality. The figures, generally, have been several percentage points higher than actual mileage figures and the ratings did not take into account certain vehicles with options that can affect mileage, such as automatic transmissions, air-conditioning and so forth. It really seems that the whole issue of consumer protection has gotten out of hand anyway. Certainly the federal government should have a responsibility to look after the interests of consumers in cases involving fraud and such. But where does it end? Whatever happened to the principle of comparative shopping and caveat emptor, "let the buyer beware"?

If a customer wants to know a car's mileage he can surely find out from a person who owns one of the same model. Or the automobile can be tested by a private testing firm, like the Consumers Union, that can determine actual road mileage.

But that would mark something of a return to the "good old days" when every person looked out for himself or herself. Furthermore, it would make consumers somewhat responsible for their own

That, of course, would reduce significantly the inflationary impact of federal rules and regulations. And it would return to all of us a degree of the freedom we profess to desire.

But in reality, American life today isn't that way. If the Environmental Protection Agency is going to insist on taking each of us by the hand and walking us through this world, its figures should at least be more depend-

Navy unprepared for Persian Gulf conflict

LOUGRANT

WASHINGTON - The United States is woefully unprepared for a military showdown in the Persian Gulf region, where turbulence and instability now threaten the free world's oil supply.

Locked in secret Pentagon files is dismaying evidence that the U.S. show-of-strength in the region is more show than strength. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have warned President Carter tersely that the Soviets possess "substantial advantages" in both strategic and conventional forces in the Middle East-Persian Gulf-Indian Ocean area

The Joint Chiefs called this the trouble spot of "greatest vulnerability" for the United States. In an urgent, top-secret report submitted shortly before the Iraqi-Iranian outbreak, they warned that Soviet forces 'could intervene in regional political conflicts" and could threaten "U.S. and allied access to oil supplies."

The gleaming U.S. warships, now arrayed in battle formation in those troubled waters, may look awesome from a distance. But viewed up close, all too many of the individual ships are unfit for service and manned by ing since, I just had to go to Boston Garden for the old champ's last hurrah. I couldn't have been in a better place or with more agreeable company for the occasion, because I happened onto Red Smith, dean of the sports writing trade, and also met Elliot Norton, the Boston Herald-American's theater critic, dispatched to review the celebrated event.

The three of us had not planned to be sitting on the rickety folding chairs at ringside that night. Red, pursuing his trade of 53 years, decided that it was easier to get to the Boston Garden than to Las Vegas. Norton, a Harvard man, 54 years in newspapering, and 45 years a theater critic, came because an editor wanted the well-written color story he could do. I was there out of a last-minute sense of duty, and felt lucky that a press agent let me move down from a loft reserved for cheap seats and pigeons, to the guts and sinew of life. On a long evening, its lobbies and walkways become wet with spilled beer and heavy with smoke. George Raft or Jimmy Cagney could come out of some dark corner at any moment.

Since the Ali-Holmes encounter didn't begin until 45 minutes before midnight, Smith, Norton and Thimmesch sat together for over four hours through a card of live bouts, and the televised preliminaries draped before us on a huge screen lowered over the ring.

Smith, whose entire name is Walter Wellesley Smith and thus contains the names of two women's colleges, covered his first championship fight in 1929 when Jack Sharkey beat Young

Like other great sports writers of his vintage, Red likes the meat and potato sports - boxing, baseball and football. Thank God he won't retire. At 75, his stuff is impeccably written, crisp and vital - as good as ever.

When a fan came over and praised him, Red answered: "Watch your some distant marvelous column, vivid to the fan, Red honestly replied:

"I can't remember it." Red has written at least 10 million words. He is never pretentious. His occasional literary allusions plunk into his copy naturally - nothing

Red sat there this night, scribbling notes during the live bouts between guys like Zouski out of Brockton and Dupre from Jersey City, and Morrell from Lowell and Popeye Quirion of Waterville. We both remarked it seemed like a generation or more ago, because most of the fighters were white, and nowadays white fighters are rare. But the nearby mill towns are abundant with poor whites, and the dream of big-time glory persists.

Red's asides to me about these yeoman bouts were of the same quality as those he made later of the multimillion-dollar big go in Las Vegas. These unknown pugs were struggling in the same arena where "Honey Boy" Finnegan, Willie Pep, Tony De-Marco and Paul Pender had shown their stuff. "I repect anyone who goes in there," Red said, "because there are no cowards in the ring.' By 11 o'clock, the beer had run out, there were brief roughhouse fights in the aisles, and Boston Garden was jammed with 15,000 anxious for Ali's last show. The three of us were now enveloped in clouds of marijuana smoke, supplied free by a brace of happy fans in the row right behind us. We were involuntarily breaking the law by just breathing. Norton, the drama critic, took notes and worried about deadline. Red and I muttered to each other about Ali's empty performance. Betteen rounds, he reminisced about Gene Tunney, Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles, Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore, whom I think is his favorite pug. About Ali in general, all he would say is, "I've been listening to him for 20 years." I stared at Red's ears. He told stories about baseball, and how a Cincinnati Reds manager, Birdie Tebbetts, once thought the word "progeny" meant prognosis so he talked about how he needed left-handed pitchers next sea-

After six rounds, it was clear that Ali wasn't fooling, he was just bad. I told Red that if that wasn't Ali in there, the ref would have stopped it. "You're right," he replied. When it was over, and the legions sat stunned at Ali's pitiful performance, a dismal last hurrah indeed, I tried to be profound, and said: "Red, he conned us again. He had nothing.

Rumors of firings run through hospital

By SUE FAHLGREN

Rumors of firings are running rampant through Midland Memorial Hospital after at least one personnel change early this week. Nursing recruiter Wanda Douglas was dismissed from that position.

Rumors indicate that personnel director Bob Briggs was also fired Monday, but Briggs denied those charges this morning.

Briggs, who has been on medical leave because of a heart opera-tion, said he would return to work Oct. 20. "They have not asked me to leave the hospital," Briggs said.

Mrs. Douglas, who works out of the personnel office, was "relieved of my recruiting responsibilities" on Tuesday. There are other rumors within the hospital that five more department heads are "on the waiting list" to be fired. However, acting administrator Robert Bash denied the rumors.

"I don't know where these rumors start," he said. "The rumor-mill sometimes is unbelievable." Bash continued, saying rumors of firings were "natural with a new administrator coming in." were "natural with a new administrator coming in."

However, Friday, when new administrator Ray Branson was named, Branson told employees present that there would not be any drastic personnel changes when he arrived Nov. 1.

Bash said Briggs was not fired. "He just got back from Houston," Bash said, where Briggs received a pacemaker. Bash added that he didn't expect Briggs to be back to work soon, but that he was "definitely not However, other sources within the hospital who have talked to Briggs said that Bash had asked Briggs to take an indefinite leave of absence. Bash also said Mrs. Douglas was not fired. "We're talking about transferring her to another position," he said. "I'm hoping that the recruiter will take another position — she's a good nurse. Right now she's not sure she wants to take a position on the floor. It's her decision."

Mrs. Douglas, however, said she was let go Tuesday. "In fact, he told me I could not even come back (as nursing recruiter)," she said, but added Bash had asked her to make a decision by today as to whether she wished to take a floor nurse position.

Mrs. Douglas, who has been employed at MMH for four years, said she was reluctant to say anything against the hospital because she thought it was a fine institution.

"I love recruiting," she said. "I love nursing and I love Midland Memorial Hospital. It's the best hospital I've ever worked in. It has the best medical staff I've ever worked around and the equipment - there's

"We have a fine thing going," she continued. She added that after all the administrative changes — the new administration, the Tribrook study recommendations and the wage and salary study recommendations — were implemented, "it'll level-off into a top-notch place."

However, Mrs. Douglas said, "I've been here a long time and I'm very concerned about it. This is something I'm going to live with for years. I've never been told I wasn't doing my job."

Mrs. Douglas, who has been in the personnel department's recruiting position for a year, said she was called into Bash's office Tuesday where she met with him and Helen Hayen, director of nurses.

She said the two told her they "felt like I had not been doing my recruiting job." She said the two told her she was being relieved of her duties because of an incident involving some advertising for new nurses. Because of a mix-up over what Bash wanted in the ad, she said, the deadline for. the advertisement was missed and the ad did not appear in the Sunday

Mrs. Douglas said she could not understand why the two were so upset. "We haven't advertised for nurses in the four years that I've been

"It was a very bad scene," Mrs. Douglas said. Miss Dishman said she had heard of the firings and the rumors of impending firings, but said she did not wish to comment further. Mrs. Hayen declined to comment on the incident, saying Mrs. Douglas did not work under her supervision.

Bash said he felt whatever personnel moves the hospital made were a private matter.

for indigent care, the number of dollars "saved" by weeding out the un-worthy would be less than the money spent analyzing each applicant.

'You shouldn't spend $10,000 of tax money to save $3,000," Bash explained. Besides, he added, "the vast majority are truly indigent people."

WHAT IS A BIGGER, more timeconsuming problem, Mrs. Hall said, is people who apply for indigency who do not qualify. She said a great deal of her time is spent filling out the paperwork for patients who know they do not qualify, "whereas, my time could be spent with those people I suspect may need help."

She said some of the people on the bad debt list either should have applied for the indigent program, or were too proud to do so.

"I have talked to some who would prefer that we take a loss than to ask for help," she said. "That would be a small percentage, but there are

"I have to be very, very careful with some people," Mrs. Hall continued, "to approach them (with) 'Do you need help?" "

Even at a cost of $400,000, though, the indigent patients in Midland cost taxpayers about $33,333 a month. Mrs. Hall said of the indigent cost average, "I don't believe we will change those figures a great deal." Bad debt payments, on the other hand, amount to about $104,115.50

IT COULD BE argued that bad debts come out of the hospital's budget and are not paid by taxpayers. However, the majority of the hospital's revenue comes from those same taxpayers when they are patients at the hospital. And Midland Memorial recently had to increase those room and services rates at an across-theboard average of 12 percent.

"Where it appears to me we are now," Bash said, "is the district seems to be willing to pay for indigent care and capital expenses, but feel hospital users should carry the operational costs.'

But, Mrs. Hall pointed to an additional situation that most people do not consider about bad debts: persons ineligible for indigent care who do not have insurance coverage and are not eligible for other assistance programs. She cited the case of an illegal alien Mexican boy of 11 who was recently severely burned in an accident in Midland. The boy needed intensive care for about 40 days at MMH. However, he had no money and was not eligible for indigent status. His tab was enormous, Mrs. Hall said, but there was no way to collect on it.

Abernethy explained, "Without insurance, 95 percent of the American public is medically indigent." Persons without insurance and who are ineligible for indigent care have it doubly rough.

AS FAR AS BAD debts are concerned, Abernethy and Bash explained that the monthly write-off figures are not actually written off that month. In fact, they explain, they are estimated months prior to that time. "We have booked that write-off really prior to that time saying, 'we anticipate writing off X-amount of dollars," Abernethy said. "When we book a million dollars worth of revenue for that month," Bash clarified the statements, "obviously we have not collected that revenue yet — that's the charges we've made (to patients). At the same time," he continued, "we book $90,000 worth of bad debt. Obviously, we have not experienced that bad debt — that's just what we anticipate from that million dollars. That's an accounting procedure," he said.

Manufacturer donates large amounts to 'running mate'

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the spring of 1979, David Koch, a manufacturer of pollution control equipment, wrote out a check for $1,000 to the campaign of Ed Clark, who was seeking to become the presidential candidate of the fledgling Libertarian Party.

Five months later, Clark won the nomination and chose Koch as his running mate.

Since then, Koch has returned the favor, giving the Clark campaign - and his own - three out of every four dollars it has reported collecting, or over $1

On Oct. 15, 1979, Koch gave the Clark-Koch campaign $20,000. On Nov. 29, he gave $35,000. On Jan. 10, he gave $35,000.

On Jan. 15, he gave $100,000. On April 3, he gave

On May 8, he gave $100,000. On June 9, he gave $100,000. On July 2, he gave $125,000. On Aug. 1, he gave $300,000.

On Aug. 15, he gave $125,000. On Aug. 28, he gave To total it all up, records on file at the Federal Election Commission show that through Aug. 31, Koch has given the ticket $1,165,000.

Under federal law, individuals may give only $1,000 to a candidate for federal office. But candidates may give any amount to their own campaign, as long as they don't accept federal campaign funds.

Ed Crane, communications director of the party, recalls that at the Libertarin Party convention in Los Angeles in September 1979, Koch circulated an open letter saying he was seeking the vice presidential nomination "because he was disturbed the law denies independent parties the opportunity to raise substantial amounts.

But Crane and presidential nominee Clark say Koch was not picked as Clark's running mate because of his pledge in the letter to give a substantial amount - "several hundred thousand dollars," as Clark recalls.

Koch and his brother, Charles, of Wichita, Kan., are heirs to a large oil and industrial fortune. Charles Koch has spent several million dollars underwriting a variety of Libertarian projects, publications and think tanks.

Florida voters pass five amendments

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Voters passed five constitutional amendments that will cut business and homeowner taxes and put the state in the home-loan business, and Gov. Bob Graham hailed the vote as a "victory for the people."

Voters approved four tax break amendments by about 2-to-1 margins Tuesday, but Amendment No. 2 to set up a housing finance agency passed by a narrower margin of 57 percent to 43 percent - 803,353 votes to 595,905 in complete but unofficial

Under the campaign banner "Five For Florida's Future," Graham stumped for the amendments and led a media blitz financed by $400,000 in contributions, mainly from the business community. The package, he said, was crucial to attracting new industry and giving more citizens a chance to become Gunter received congratulations from the White House and Gov. Bob Graham. But Stone did not contact him, and in Miami he told supporters he wouldn't concede until all absentee ballots were counted.

"Six years ago I made a concession speech," Gunter told supporters at an Orlando hotel. "Tonight I make a victory statement ...," but it was

Psychological dependency on alcohol often leads to actual addiction

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

Alcohol is a potentially addicting drug. A person who is addicted to alcohol is an alcoholic. In the early stages of a drinking problem, a per-son may not be addicted to alcohol in the clinical sense. For example, a person may drink in order to maintain a sense of well-being, freedom from anxiety, or psychological comfort. Such a person is psychologically dependent on alcohol, but is not ad-

Later on, he may require more and more alcohol in order to achieve the me feelings of well-being. This the drug, as well as having the psychological dependence. He still is not an addict in the clinical sense.

As the drinking problem worsens, the person may begin to require alcohol in order to help a feeling of physical well-being. When he does not drink, he may experience a variety of minor disturbances, aches or pains. For example, he may complain of stomach problems, headaches, or poor sleep. He still is not addicted in the clinical sense.

The person with the drinking prob-lem is considered to be addicted at the dence, and the presence of a with-drawal reaction when deprived of alcohol. Withdrawal symptoms consist of severe emotional and physical reactions, such as hallucinations, disorientation, insomnia, convulsions and severe tremors.

Treatment for persons with drinking problems may begin at any stage of the problem. Ideally, it would be best to begin treatment early in the process while a person is only psychologically dependent on alcohol for a sense of well-being. However, in practice, many individuals have to ing to accept treatment. Usually this low point occurs only after they are fully addicted to the drug, i.e. psychological dependence, tolerance, tolerance, physical dependence and withdrawal symptoms.

It is true that not all persons with drinking problems become addicted (alcoholics). However, the warning signs for alcoholism begin with the signs of psychological dependence. A person who has even one of the warning signs should be aware that he may potentially become an alcoholic.

Early warning signs include broken

such as irritability, forgetfulness, explosiveness or mental blackouts.

Middle phase signs include denial of drinking the alcohol, increased drinking alone or in the morning, more noticeable signs of drinking on the job, more difficulty in feeling good regardless of how much is consumed, and drinking as a daily necessity to feel good or ward off physical discomfort.

Last stage signs include loneliness, isolation from family and friends, distrust of people wanting to help, strong guilt about drinking, extreme

If treatment is not obtained, the alcoholic may indeed die from a variety of possibilities ranging from an accident to any number of physical diseases asociated with advanced alcoholism. The kind of treatment required is dictated by the state of the person's physical halth and whether or not he is addicted in the clinical

'I've always been proud to say I'm from Miami, but you go to other parts of the country now and tell them you're from Miami and you get a look northwest Miami woman.

The mood in Miami is violent and authorities blame several things: racial tensions worsened by May's riots; the influx of thousands of Cubans from the "Freedom Flotilla"; the bloody "Cocaine Cowboy" drug wars, and the feeling that law and order are breaking down.

"We can expect continued vio-lence," says Dr. Arnold Lieber, a Miami psychiatrist who says Dade County's population is emotionally overburdened. "Last year, the city was depressed. At this point, the general population is no longer merely depressed, it's desperate.

'It's no big mystery that there is a lot of stress in this city. ... There is a great deal of change going on," he said. "People feel helpless and powerless and tend to fly off the handle."

An all too graphic example of such stress was provided recently. Lydia Morales paid with her life for a traffic accident police said "wasn't even a fender bender." She was killed by the furious driver of the second car, who also critically wounded her husband. The man is still at large.

Miami's list of such dangers grows longer every day. Last week, police in Fort Lauderdale, just 20 miles to the north, advised motorists to keep their windows rolled up, responding to several incidents where fleet thieves dashed up to cars at stoplights and ripped jewelry from drivers' necks.

"People are going back to Wild West days," said police Homicide Sgt. Mike Gonzalez.

In 1979, when the national murder rate was 10 deaths per 100,000, Dade County's was 20 per 100,000. This year, the county's rate is running at 31.4 deaths per 100,000 people, already 70 percent higher than last year's, say authorities. So far, more than 400 people have been killed compared to 360 during all of last year.

"Most of the people getting killed are criminals and mostly they've killed each other — that's one of the nice things about criminals," said Dr. Ronald Wright, associate county medical examiner.

But enough innocent people have died to prompt hundreds of Dade residents to flee northward to "safer"

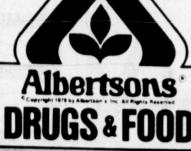

"It's a mess down there," said a woman who moved from Miami to Osceola County in central Florida. "It's too full of tension. I have a little boy I want to raise in a decent atmosphere.

For now, Jenrette 'still in' running despite conviction

By LARRY MARGASAK

WASHINGTON (AP) - A distraught Rep. John W. Jenrette, admittedly shocked at the swiftness of his Abscam conviction, says he's re-evaluating his race for a fourth term. But for now, he's still in.

Jenrette, crying on his wife's shoulder, needed half an hour to regain his composure after a U.S. District Court jury convicted him of bribery and conspiracy Tuesday, then walked out of the courthouse and told reporters, "Yes, I'm going to run."

But the South Carolina Democrat, his eyes still moist and his voice cracking, added that he and the 10 Democratic chairmen in his district planned to meet "to determine the best course.

Later, Jenrette, an acknowledged alcoholic who says he hasn't had a drink in six months, said, "I'm not going to let this destroy me.'

The jury of eight women and four men had deliberated less than five hours before Jenrette and his co-defendant, John R. Stowe, a Richmond, Va., businessman, were convicted of all three counts in the indictment. Jenrette, at the defense table, greeted the verdict by bowing his head and sobbing into his hands. Stowe was impassive, as he had been through much of the five-week trial. Rita Jenrette leveled a stern stare at the jury as foreman Sylvia Parker announced the decision

The indictment said the two men had split a $50,000 bribe from undercover FBI agent Anthony Amoroso, who said he represented two wealthy Arabs needing immigration legislation to live in the United States. Amoroso said that, in return for the money, Jenrette had promised to introduce the legislation for the

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense lawyers for Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton and two other Brilab defendants begin presenting their case today in the federal bribery and extortion trial, now in its fourth

Prosecutors wrapped up their case Tuesday afternoon, and defense lawyers said they planned to ask U.S. District Judge Robert O'Conor to dismiss several of the charges against their clients. Motions for dismissal are a routine defense practice

Prosecutors played reels of secret FBI tapes Tuesday to jurors in the bribery-extortion trial of Clayton and Austin attorneys Donald Ray and Randall

Clayton, Wood, Ray and labor leader L.G. Moore were indicted June 12 by a federal grand jury for extortion, bribery, conspiracy and racketeering. Charges stem from an alleged insurance kickback

Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, will be tried later.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Woods, the chief prosecutor in the case, concluded his case by reading section of the Texas standard of conduct for legislators and officeholders to the five-man, seven-

The speaker acknowledged receiving $5,000 from Moore during a Nov. 8, 1979, meeting, but said he thought it was a campaign contribution and planned to return it later.

Secret FBI tapes made during the meeting revealed that Hauser had counted out the money, given it to Moore, who passed it along to the speaker. Johnson was asked, as a four-term member of the Legislature, if he would have turned down the PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Presidential candidates are calling for lower taxes and a strong national defense. But the 9year-olds in Mrs. Hodges' fourth-grade class say they'd have slightly different priorities if they were elected president.

Python's future studied

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Officials are trying to determine the future of a 10-foot-long Burmese python left at the Kansas City Zoo last week amidst a mouthwatering array of monkeys, rodents and rare birds.

An alert zookeeper discovered the abandoned snake before it had an opportunity to avail itself of the surrounding tropi cal habitat, but officials note it could have made quick work of some rare zoo residents.

"I guess he didn't have time to eat," said an exasperated Ernest Hagler, zoo director.

Snake handlers were alerted to the intruder and the reptile was transferred to a makeshift cage while zoo officials determined its fu-

Hagler said the snake had to have human help in getting into the tropical setting.

"It's really terrible that someone would do that," Hagler said.

clear war, including booby traps and fire bombs, is snarled by inability to reconcile military interests with humanitarian concerns.

The U.N. Conference On Restricting Or Banning Weapons Deemed Inhumane Or Excessively Injurious is scheduled to recess Friday after a month of meetings by military and diplomatic delegates from more than 70 nations.

The delegates have been arguing over restrictions on two types of conventional weapons, landmines and booby traps, and incendiary devices such as napalm and magnesium bombs.

An agreement in principle has been reached on broad regulations on the placement and removal of landmines and booby traps. For example, it would outlaw booby traps on childrens' toys, in food, on

Search continues for grizzly

WEST GLACIER, Mont. (AP) -Preliminary autopsy results on the carcass of a slain 378-pound male grizzly bear didn't "show much of anything," according acting Glacier National Park superintendent Joe Shellenberger.

So, he said Park Service rangers on foot and in a helicopter would continue their search today for a bear that mauled a Texan to death

Shellenberger said that final autopsy results on the bear would take some time, so he decided Tuesday that the upper portion of the Belly River drainage should be searched again for other grizzlies that may have attacked Laurence Gordon, 33,

The body of Gordon was found last Friday near the shore of Elizabeth Lake in the mountainous northeast corner of Glacier about 10 miles south of the Canadian border.

A search for the bear that killed him — possibly the same animal that treed three other hikers last week and broke into ranger facilities nearby was launched on Saturday. The sus-pect bear was killed Sunday morning about six miles from where Gordon's badly mauled and partially eaten body was found. Shellenberger said the preliminary autopsy showed only that the bear "was six to eight years old."

He said the rangers would search from the passes at the top of the drainage down toward where Gordon

Temple still ranked first in prep poll

The top ranked teams in The Associated Press Schoolboy football poll, Temple in Class 5A, Bay City in 4A, Breck-enridge in 3A and Pilot Point in 2A easily retained their top billings in a mild week for upsets.

There were only four losses among the 50 ranked teams in the four classes and all dropped from the list this week to make room for five new faces.

Port Neches-Groves, headed for a district showdown this week against fourth ranked Port Arthur Jefferson, was upset by Vidor 14-7 and dropped out of the Class 5A rankings. Lubbock Coronado, 5-0, replaced PN-G at the No. 10 team. Seventh ranked Marble Falls lost to Brady 29-26 and dropped out of the Class 3A list with Stamford, 5-0, becoming the No.

10 team. Seventh rated Dublin and No. 8 Seagraves were Class 2A upset victims and both disappeared from the top 10.

The double loss made the way for three newcomers including No. 9 Wheeler and Baird and Mart tied for the 10th position. There were other minor changes from a week ago. Temple and Plano remained a strong 1-2 in Class 5A, but Brazoswood, which blanked Victoria Stroman 35-0, edged into third place ahead of Port Arthur Jefferson, which dropped to fourth. Navasota made the big jump in Class 4A, moving from fifth to third ahead of Gainesville and Beaumont Hebert.

Hallettsville, ranked third last week, and Childress switched places in Class 3A with Childress dropping to third. Edna, which meets Hallettsville this week, also jumped from eighth to

There were no changes among the first six teams in Class 2A. Tidehaven, No. 9 last week, and Rotan, No. 10, moved up to seventh and eighth to make room for the newcomers in the ninth and 10th positions.

Phils overtake Astros End 64-year drought with victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The first 64 years are always the toughest. If you don't believe that axiom ask the Philadelphia Phillies. Greg Luzinski's two-run homer in the sixth inning triggered the Phillies' first post-season victory at home since Grover Cleveland Alexander beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1915 World Series.

The Phillies beat the Houston Astros 3-1 Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-five National League Championship series.

The Phillies had lost nine straight post-season games at home, including one in that 1915 Series, two in the 1950 World Series to the New York Yankees and six in divisional playoffs in 1976, 1977 and 1978.

Steve Carlton, the Phillies' 24-game winner, was credited with the victory although he wasn't as overpowering as during the regular season.

Still, Carlton worked seven innings and allowed just one run.

"He wasn't the Steve Carlton we've seen in the past," said Phillies Manager Dallas Green. "But that's why Lefty is such a great pitcher. He wins without his best.

'He lets them hang on the bases," Green said, referring to the seven Astros stranded in the first four in-

Green lifted Carlton for a pinch hitter in the seventh despite a 2-1 lead. The Phillies had a runner on third and "I just felt he (Carlton) was a little sluggish. There was no use wasting him with the 'chief' in the bullpen, The "chief" was reliever Tug

McGraw, who had four wins and three saves in September and one victory and two saves this month in the Phillies' drive to the NL East title. McGraw came in and retired six of seven batters to save the game for Philadelphia. McGraw was asked how much he could pitch, since he's been out there almost every day for a month. "I'm not ready to fall out of the tree," replied the zany left-hander. "I feel fine physically.

McGraw said he had a lot of confidence in himself right now, but not so much that he'd let it eat him up. "I think going out there every day breeds fun and enthusiasm not cocki-

Beal started his first game for the Aggies Saturday and ran for four touchdowns in a 41-21 victory over the Texas Tech Red Raiders. It earned the senior from Russelville, Ark., The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive

ness," McGraw said.

Luzinski's home run came on a 3-2 pitch and landed high in the first tier of seats in left field. It was the only hit of the game for the outfielder who has struggled most of the season.

"I usually slump in September, but for some reason get charged up in the playoffs," said Luzinski, who has had hits in all 12 of the Phillies' playoff

The Astros took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on singles by Jose Cruz, Cesar Cedeno, and a two-out base hit under the glove of second baseman Manny Trillo by rookie Gary Woods.

Astros' pitcher Ken Forsch held onto the slim lead until the sixth when Pete Rose opened with an infield single. Bake McBride struck out and Mike Schmidt flied out.

Forsch then went to 3-2 on Luzinski and boom. The ball flew out of the ball park for a 2-1 Phillies' lead. The Phillies added an insurance run in the seventh on Garry Maddox' single, a sacrifice bunt from Larry Bowa, Maddox' steal of third and a slicing single to left by pinch hitter Greg Gross, who was batting for Carlton.

The disconsolate Forsch went the distance, allowing eight hits, striking out five and walking just one. He said of the pitch to Luzinski, "It was down, lower than I wanted it. He was able to extend his arms. I challenged him with a fastball and he hit it. Houston Manager Bill Virdon refused to use the Astros all-night flight as an excuse. The Astros came from Los Angeles where they beat the Dodgers in a one-game playoff Monday for the West Division title.

"I don't think that had much effect," said Virdon. "We played well. We just got beat.' The Astros will pitch Nolan Ryan, 11-10, in the second game of the series tonight. The Phillies plan to use righthander Dick Ruthven, 17-10. Ryan said tonight's game is important for Houston, since a split would send them home to the Astrodome all even and the Phillies would have to win two of three to capture the NL pennant. The Phillies are 4-2 this year in the Dome, and took the season series from the Astros, 9-3. They're not planning on waiting another 64 years to win a post-season home game.

Greg Luzinski happy that teammates posted win over weary Astros

pions captured their first post-season victory at home in 65 years Tuesday night, and most of the Phillies felt it was about time.

We have had trouble here in the playoffs in the past — this was a big game for that reason," said left fielder Greg Luzinski, whose two-run homer in the sixth inning turned around a 1-0 Philadelphia deficit.

The Phillies added another run in the seventh on Greg Gross' RBI pinch single for a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros in the opener of the National League playoffs. It was the identical score posted by Grover Cleveland Alexander when he beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1915 World Series for the Phillies. The locker room of the East Division champs was quiet - and

'It's nice to have the first one under our belt, but we're taking them one at a time," said catcher Bob Boone, whose pitchout caught Astro pitcher

Luzinski powered a low fastball into the left field stands. 'Almost all my home runs (20 including the one Tuesday night) have been with two strikes - it shows I am quick," said Luzinski, who has now hit in all 12 post-season games the Phillies have played in and has five home runs, second in post season play to the six hit by Los Angeles' Steve

"Sure, it was great to go out there and get a few knocks off a guy like Steve Carlton, but I would trade them for a win any day," said Woods, who was called up for the playoffs after spending the entire season with Tucson of the Pacific Coast League and drove in the Astros' only run in the third inning.

Rookie managers in AL playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Howser of the New York Yankees and Jim Frey of the Kansas City Royals are the first "rookie" managers ever to oppose each other in baseball's championship play.

The Yankees, who won the East Division by three games over Baltimore, and the Royals, who finished 14 games ahead of Oakland in the West, begin the best-of-five American League playoffs today in Kansas

From the turn of the century to 1979, baseball's modern era, only 17 teams had first-year managers when they won league or division titles. The year the AL has two, although each is a veteran of title competition as a coach - Frey under Earl Weaver at Baltimore and Howser with the Yanks for 12 years.

This marks the first time the Royals have won a title with a rookie manager and the third time for the Yankees. They won AL pennants in the pre-division years of 1961 with Ralph Houk and three years later with Yogi Berra.

The last five rookie managers to win titles are still active, although onely one is still with the same team. They are Montreal's Dick Williams (Boston, 1971); Oakland's Billy Martin (Minnesota, 1969); Detroit's Sparky Anderson (Cincinnati, 1970); Houston's Bill Virdon (Pittsburgh, 1972), and Los Angeles' Tom Lasorda

(Los Angeles, 1977). The first one to achieve the feat was Clark Griffith, later the owner of the Washington Senators, who did it with the Chicago White Sox in 1901, the American League's first season.

The Yankees are being questioned by the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs about the club's limited public sale of tickets for the American League Championship Series against the Kansas City Royals.

Commissioner Bruce Ratner said letters questioning the practice were hand-delivered Friday to both the club and Baseball Commit sioner Bowie Kuhn. Ratner said his office was questioning the allocation of 9,500 tickets to such types as "sponsors and sporting goods manufacturers.

Under the plan the public was allowed to purchase 10,000 of the total alotment of 55,500. Season-ticket holders were allowed access to 28,000 tickets, which amounts to two for each season-ticket holder.

The remainder of the tickets go to the clubs, press, and non-participating teams.

A spokesman for the Yankees said decisions on allocations generally come from the commissioner's office and added that there might be a readjustment of the allocation in view of Ratner's letter.

Landry predicts exciting contest with 49ers next

DALLAS (AP) - If you were bor ed watching last Sunday's dull New York Giant-Dallas game, then Cowboys' Coach Toın Landry promises you pleny of thrills this weekend.

"It will be very exciting this Sunday," promised Landry. "I know we'll be excited."

The San Francisco 49ers and their control passing game will be on hand then.

"They use passes to their backs like we use running plays," said Landry. "It will be a big test for us. They'll probabl y throw the ball 40 to 45 times. Our young secondary will get a

Expected to be available for backup duty will be veteran Benny Barnes, making his first a ppearance since he underwent an emergency appendectomy five weeks ago before Dallas' o pener against the Washington Hedskins.

"We will work Benny back into the lineup slow," said I andry. "He will backup (strong safety) Charlie Waters ind (cornerback) Steve Wilson. We also hope to work him on the l cicking team.

'We might get Benny in there on passing downs. He could have a conditioning problem although he is in good shape. We'll just have to see what he does this week in workouts."

Landry also announced that on Springs, who missed a week with a sprained ankle and shared duty in Sunday's 24-3 victory over the New York Giants with Robert Newhouse, would start at fullback.

"We'll have to make three touchdowns or better to win,' Landry predicted of the 49er game. "We've got have about 24 or 28 points to win."

San Francisco has averaged 270 yards per game passing while the porous Cowboys' secondary has yielded 178 overhead yards per game.

Ermal Allen, special assistant to Landry, said "the 49ers throw the ball over 60 per cent of the time and it seems like 80 per cent. They use more formations than we do. It should be a heckuva game.

Dallas is a nine-point favorite over the 49ers.

Muhammad Ali enters hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Muhammad Ali said he had been feeling tired and weak for days before his heavyweight title fight against Larry Holmes in Las Vegas, Nev. last week - and he believes he knows why.

"I jogged three days before (the fight) and I couldn't even pick up my legs," the former champion said at a news conference at UCLA Medical Center at which he revealed he had been taking medication for a thyroid condition.

"When I took one tablet I felt fine," he said, but he said he doubled the dosage against doctor's orders, and that apparently sapped his strength and contributed to his loss to Ali said he had doubled a daily dose of Thyrolar prescribed by his doctor two weeks before the bout, increasing the prescribed amount because a regular dose had increased his vitality and "all of my vitamins, I always take one extra.

Ali's doctor, Dr. Charles Lee Williams Sr., said in Chicago that he prescribed the Thyrolar for what he diagnosed as a thyroid imbalance, but he did not say how he came to that conclusion.

Ali underwent tests at the UCLA center Monday and Tuesday and was given a clean bill of health by doctors,

Metcalf's one-liners steal show during SWC cage coaches' meeting

Winning tends to make all things right and so it was Tuesday with Texas A&M's Shelby Metcalf as he appeared at a gathering with the eight other Southwest Conference basketball coaches.

University of Texas Coach Abe Lemons, known as the king of the one-liners among his peers, managed to make it through a joint news conference without a single one. But Metcalf, usually the quietest of the SWC mentors, had several as he spoke about the Aggies' chances of repeating as champion. Speaking of the competitiveness of forward Rynn Wright, Metcalf said, 'He's got a good heart. If I ever had a heart transplant, I'd want his. When the adrenalin gets to flowing, it's just like he went into a phone booth and Metcalf, lamenting his lack of a guard for the coming season, said he hoped Tyrone Ladson, who has had his ups and downs, might fill the bill because of a changed attitude.

"Tyrone seems to have an improved outlook on life. He's smiling this year. He speaks to me before I speak to him. I guess he's decided this is his fifth year and he's going to do it this year or be classified as a neverwas. I don't know how it's going to be on the court, but he can tell you all his teachers' names, hasn't cut a class and he's been in study hall. It's scary, but it's also encouraging.

Questioned about the prospects of returning as SWC champ, Metcalf replied, "I'd like to come back down here and do something other than work in the concessions. I don't think about things like that, It causes you to lose sleep and to eat too much.'

Metcalf so dominated the news con-

Almost storybook finish

Crippled Dodgers nearly pull it off

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It would have been a storybook comeback ... would have been

The Los Angeles Dodgers, staggered by injury and hanging on the ropes, came back to battle the Houston Astros to the final bell in a 1980 National League West race that turned into a classic. The Dodgers' three nail-bitting victories over the Astros last weekend turned their quest for the West title into a cause celebre in the Los Angeles area. After Monday's 7-1 playoff loss that gave the Astros the division title, a residue of pride remained in the wake of the Dodgers' ultimate

There was the predictable talk of "next year" by both the Dodgers and their fans, but insiders speculated about the possible makeup of the 1981 Dodgers.

Manager Tom Lasorda, who'd like a contract longer than the one-year agreements standard with the Dodgers, was reportedly being sought to manage the Chicago White Sox next year. Lasorda denied, however, that he was going to Chicago.

Outfielder Dusty Baker and pitcher Don Sutton, two Dodger mainstays, may go into the free agent re-entry draft. There's a question whether outfielder Reggie Smith, 36, will be able to come back from surgery on his right shoulder. The Dodgers also need help at some positions, with catcher apparently among the team's weakest positions.

Ron Cey, whose two-run homer in Sunday's game kept the Dodger alive, said he hopes the team remains essentially intact next year.

Texas Aggies SWC choice in basketball

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Texas A&M was an almost unanimous pick to repeat as Southwest Conference basketball champion at a gathering of the league's nine coaches Tuesday. The only holdout was Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf.

All the other coaches picked Texas A&M, returning three starters from a team that barely missed the top four in the NCAA playoffs last season, to lead the pack in a hard-fought SWC race.

Arkansas received the nod as second favorite, but several of the coaches warned it would be a horserace after that as the teams vie for the top five spots and a right to play in the SWC tournament here

Metcalf reminded his colleagues that his team lost both its guards, David Britton, a "big-play man," and Dave Goff, who started all four years at A&M. We lost two guards that were probably the most underrated pair of guards on the league. They didn't make all-conference, but I thought they were the best in the league," Metcalf lamented. "And the chemistry was right on that ball club. I don't know whether the chemistry is going to be right (next "The way they were playing, they season) or not. Our biggest problem is finding a could have beat the 1928 Yankees. # Akers points out error by official

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Coach Fred Akers, whose penalty-plagued Texas Longhorns face Oklahoma in Dallas Saturday, offered fans a humourous glimpse of an officiating error Tuesday.

Texas has won four games without a loss despite averaging 119 yards a game in penalties. The Longhorns have been penalized 44 times for 476 yards, their opponents 19 times for 226 yards. On one series in the Rice game, which Texas won 41-28, penalties pushed the Longhorns so far back they had first-and-46. The play that touched off loud

Cougars, Aggies could get late start Saturday

HOUSTON (AP) - Aggies and Cougars may be running up and down the Astrodome turf early Sunday.

A fourth game Saturday, if needed, in the National Baseball League playoff series between Philadelphia and Houston would delay the scheduled 7:30 p.m. start of the Southwest Conference football game between Texas A&M and the University of Houston until 10:30 p.m. A fourth game in the best-of-five baseball series would not begin until 3:15 p.m. After baseball, more than three hours are required to convert the Astrodome to a football configura-

A fifth baseball game Sunday, if needed, would not start until 7 p.m. giving groundskeepers more time to make the switch.

A&M and Houston officials chose the late start option over suggestions the football game be played Friday night or moved to Rice University Stadium laughter at the Longhorn Club, however, occurred when a Rice runner barely pushed over the Texas 5-yardline in the grasp of several tacklers. An official rushed in and signaled a

"I wasn't sure I wasn't in for a long night," said Akers. "It took two others to convince him he was wrong. Two plays later Texas' William intercepted a pass to stall the Rice drive. In narrating the Texas-Rice game film for the Longhorn Club, Akers noted punter John Goodson, who started poorly this season, had four kicks for a 43-yard average, with a 53-yarder that stayed in the air an incredible 5.7 seconds. The victory over Rice elevated Texas to No. 3 in the nation, and

Akers said, "Anytime you're rated high, you're proud of it, because you've worked hard to be good." He was asked if Colorado had mainly used passes to score on Oklahoma in the Sooners 82-42 rout of Colorado, and Akers replied, "Yes, about all they did was throw the ball and return kickoffs.' Oklahoma scored 12 touchdowns and set an NCAA single-game offense record of 876 yards.

Alabama-Tennessee contest on the tube

NEW YORK (AP) - The South eastern Conference football game pairing Alabama at Tennessee, starting at 2:30 p.m., CDT, will be the principal regional telecast to be shown Oct. 18 by ABC-TV, a network spokesman announced Tuesday.

The Alabama-Tennesse game will be televised to most of the country. The other regional telecasts will be announced next Monday.

Desperate Sooner fans finally get 10 tickets

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The ad in the Dallas newspaper came to the point: "Save my marriage, need two OU-Texas tickets. Need not be together."
With the annual Oklahoma-Texas shootout in Dallas less than a week away, tickets for the football clash are selling for $75 to $200, a check in Oklahoma City and Dallas showed Monday. Melvin and Judy Frick made their annual plea for tickets by placing an eight-word advertisement in the Daily Oklahoman. "OU-Texas, Loyal OU family desperately needs tickets," the ad

"It's the family line that gets them. We needed 10 tickets for us and our children and we got the last of them this weekend," Mrs. Frick said. She said the family bought two at $40 each, four at $30 each and

Mrs. Frick advised fans who still need tickets after arriving in Dallas to meet chartered buses as they arrive at hotels. There are always people who have a few extras to sell at regular price, she said. One Texan is asking alumni at both universities to carry their loyalty a bit far by trading class rings for tickets. The rings, resold for gold content, bring about $75.

Ticket brokers, operating legally in Texas, are asking and apparently getting $75 to $200 per ticket.

Brokers report prices and number of tickets sold have increased following OU's 82-42 record-setting victory over Colorado Saturday.

Tickets sank to a low of $35 following Oklahoma's loss to Stanford a week ago, brokers said. "We're asking $75 for the not-so-good seats and up to $200 for the choice spots. And we can't get enough tickets to sell at those prices,"

Several fans offered to swap OU-Oklahoma State, OU-Nebraska and OU-Missouri tickets for the Texas passes, but they reported few takers.

Switzer rates Texas as No.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - Although the oddsmakers have rated the game as a near tossup, Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer evidently feels his team will be a decided underdog when it faces Texas in the Cotton Bowl Saturday four at the regular price.

Switzer began his weekly press luncheon Tuesday by tagging the Longhorns as the No. 1 team in the country at this point in the season.

"I think Texas is the best football team in the United States today," the Sooner coach said at the risk of disgruntling fans at Alabama and Southern Cal, ranked No. 1 and No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll.

He said the third-ranked Longhorns "are in great position to win them all

if they beat us. Switzer ticked off several reasons for his appraisal of the Longhorns, including improvement at running back with A. J. Jones and Rodney Tate, the maturing of quarterback Donnie Little and improvement in what already was a formidable offensive and defensive line of a year

He pointed to the breakaway threat of receiver Lawrence Sampleton, saying it was "ridiculous" for the smallish players in the Sooner secondary to have to go one-on-one with the 6-foot-6 tight end.

The only area where the Longhorns are not improved, he said, is in the secondary. There are talented young athletes there, Switzer said, but "you can't be as good when you lose Johnnie Johnson and Derrick Hatchett, who are both playing professional football."

Oklahoma is fresh from an 82-42 win at Colorado in an record-shattering offensive show that Switzer said was deceiving

"Our football team was not fooled by that," he said. "I don't know if our fans and the press was fooled by that. "I think if we hold on to the football, we're a good offensive football team," he said. But he added that thus far "we have self-destructed" with 23 fumbles in just three games. He said the Sooners don't have the super athletes it has had overcome mistakes. "We need to play an effort-free game to beat teams like Texas, Nebraska and Missouri...to beat anybody, really.'

Switzer was asked if the Sooners are likely to pass more against Texas than they have in recent years, with fine-throwing senior quarterback J.C. Watts at the wishbone controls.

"I don't think we ever go into a football game saying how much we'll throw," he said. "A lot of things might have to be done differently...to move the football.'

With all of the offensive talent on the field of the Cotton Bowl, Switzer implied that the defense would be the determining factor again.

"Good offenses don't beat good defenses. They never have and they never will," he said.

Longhorns leading SWC stats

DALLAS (AP) - The Texas Longhorns, undefeated going into their Cotton Bowl showdown with Oklahoma this weekend, hold the lead in Southwest Conference individual statistics and are challenging the Baylor monopoly of team categories. The Longhorns are conference leaders in rushing, passing, total offense, tandem offense (yards gained rushing and receiving) and scoring. Texas leads in rushing defense (94.5 yards per game) and passing offense (197), but unbeaten Baylor still leads in total offense (475 yards per game), total defense (222) and rushing offense (291). Baylor and Texas also lead the conference in defensive efficiency, allowing 2.3 and 2.4 yards per carry. Seven teams in the SWC are allowing less than four yards per carry. Texas' A.J. Jones is the big name in individual stats, and also in moving the football as the Rice

Owls found out last week in Texas' 41-28 victory. Jones leads the SWC in rushing at 133.7 yards per game, in tandem offense at 159.2 yards and in scoring at 12 points per outing. Jones is comfortably ahead in all three, with a 43.7-yard advantage over runner-up Calvin Fance of Rice in rushing, a 53.7-yard lead on Craig James of SMU in tandem, and a 12-point jump on Darryl Bowles of Arkansas in scoring. Jones' Donnie Little took over the passing-efficiency lead after the Rice game, in which he set a school record by passing for 306 yards. SMU is the only other team with more than one individual leader. Dick Blaylock leads in kickoff returns at 21.7 a carry. John Simmons is the punt-return leader at 11.9 yards an attempt and is tied for the interception lead with another defensive back who had a hot hand Saturday. Texas A&M's Leandrew Brown intercepted three

The right signal to call

Texas Tech passes and recovered a fumble to set up three touchdowns in the 41-21 Aggie victory. He and Simmons each average an interception per game.

Houston's Lonell Phea caught six passes in the 24-12 loss to Houston to regain the receiving lead he surrendered last week. Phea is now averaging 4.3 per game.

Groups say consumers shortchanged by DOE oil settlements; suit planned

WASHINGTON (AP) - The American public has received less than 10 cents out of every dollar the Energy Department has collected from giant oil companies in settlement of oil overpricing cases, a coalition of consumer and labor groups says.

The coalition, led by the Consumer Energy Council of America, said it planned to file suit against the department today seeking to overturn $1 billion in settlements because they shortchange the public.

"DOE's settlements represent a monstrous consumer fraud. They are heralded with great fanfare but in fact most of the agreements allow the offending refiner to keep the lion's share of the overcharged funds," said Ellen Berman, executive director of the energy council.

In the $1 billion in agreements already reached, she said, only about $100 million has been set aside for consumers in the form of refunds or other benefits.

Among the coalition's accusations: -Most of the settlements fail to capture anywhere near the full amount of the overcharge.

-The department has accepted various "give-aways" which allow oil companies to make investments to improve their refineries or step up drilling in lieu of making restitution to consumers.

-The largest portion of the settlements has been in the form of future price increases the companies have agreed to forgo. The coalition charges, however, that given current market conditions, the companies wouldn't have been able to raise their prices on gasoline and other products before federal price controls expire at the end of September 1981.

-Even where the department has obtained cash payments, it has failed to devise workable plans to disburse the funds to overcharge victims.

The department has accused refiners of overpricing gasoline and other products by $10 billion between 1973 and 1976. So far 30 settlements have been announced.

The coalition petitioned the department last December to revamp its settlement procedures and said it had decided to file suit in federal court after that petition was ignored.

A department official said the agency welcomed public scrutiny of the settlements.

"They represent a meeting point between two parties. Like any litigation, everyone has to give a little, said the official, who asked not to be named.

In the past, Special Counsel Paul Bloom, whose office handles the settlements, has said the settlements represented a fair assessment of what the government could expect to get if the suits went to court. He has defended agreements to upgrade refineries and increase drilling as a legitimate benefit to improve the country's energy independence.

Two plans to implement strip mining tossed out by federal government

WASHINGTON (AP) - The states of Virginia and West Virginia have been told their plan to implement coal strip mining regulations isn't acceptable to the federal government and they should try again.

The two states were told Tuesday by Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus that their original programs would not meet the requirements of the 1977 strip mining law, which sets up tough environmental safeguards to insure that mined land is returned to its original condition.

Andrus said that, although large portions of each state's program were acceptable, deficiencies would require changes before the two states could begin enforcing the regulatory

Andrus did announce approval for the programs proposed by Louisiana the 24 coal-producing states are expected to win sanction for their programs by January, when the regulations will be enforced for the first

Since the law was approved by Congress, the department and several large coal states have been in constant battle over just how tough the environmental regulations must be. Besides West Virginia and Virginia, Andrus reportedly is ready to reject plans submitted by Pennsylvania and Kentucky, two other big coal states.

Virginia successfully argued in court last year that major portions of the law are unconstitutional, but the Interior Department has appealed the ruling to the Supreme Court.

The law isn't faring much better in Congress. The Senate recently passed a bill to abolish the lengthy regulations the Interior Department has drawn up for states to follow and to require instead only that the states meet the broad outlines set down in the law.

But Interior Department officials refuse to concede that the strip mining program is on shaky footing. They say many states have won at least partial approval of their regulatory efforts.

Andrus, in announcing his decision on Virginia and West Virginia, praised them for making "great strides in achieving primacy" and said he was hopeful they could meet federal objections quickly. The two states have 60 days to resubmit their programs. Interior Department officials said the programs did not win approval because of several flaws in the state statutes and regulations drawn up to enforce

NEIL SOLOMON, M.D. Much influences use of vitamins

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have often come across the term "fat-soluble vitamin," but I've never learned what it means. Can you explain? - Mrs.

Dear Mrs. O.: A fat-soluble vitamin is one that requires some dietary fat for its absorption. The fat-soluble vitamins are A, D, E and K.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am on my high school wrestling team. One of the other members of the squad usually has a candy bar before a match; he says it gives him an energy boost. I'd like to do the same, but I'd like you opinion first. Is it worth a try? -

Dear Dennis: Except for the psychological impact - that is, if you believe something makes you stronger you may act that way eating a candy bar before a match serves no useful purpose. The body uses sugar very rapidly. A candy bar will provide a quick lift, but an equally quick letdown.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I read that women who smoke tend to give birth to smaller babies. Does this mean that smoking is in some way related to nutrition? - Mrs. V.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: The fact at smoking affects nutrition has been known for some time. Scientists learned almost 40 years ago that changes in the blood levels of certain nutrients are associated with smoking. More specifically, it has been extablished that smoking affect the way the body handles carbohydrates and proteins. In addition, there is some evidence that smoking increases the amount of cholesterol in the blood.

It also has been suggested that smokers require more vitamin C. vitamin B12 and vitamin B6 than nonsmokers, although why this is so is not clear. Insufficient levels of vitamin C may account for the bone mineral loss that many smokers experience. Studies have show that post-menopausal women who smoke suffer significantly more severe bone mineral loss than post-menopausal women who do not

Dear Dr. Solomon: At my recent annual examination, my doctor asked if I was certain I was getting enough vitamin C. Since I drink orange juice the way some people drink water, I was surprised by the question. Wouldn't having orange juice at both breakfast and dinner guarantee an adequate intake of vitamin C? —

Dear Vicki: If a dietary intake of vitamin C were the sole consideration in ruling out a deficiency, the answer to your question would be "yes"; but there are non-dietary factors that may account for a vitamin C deficien-

For example, it has been found that people who smoke have a much lower level of vitamin C in whole blood than do people who do not smoke. Oral contraceptives may have a similar effect. And some studies suggest that the use of aspirin may contribute to a vitamin C deficiency. Because of this, patients who regularly take aspirin for such conditions as rheumatoid arthritis should take a vitamin C supplement as well.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will anwer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Congressmen 'giving up the ghost

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a $60,662 annual salary, no prior experience required and lots of fringe benefits, the job sounds like good work if you can get it. So why are more than 30 people giving it

"I want to find out if there's life after Congress," said Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, one of the more were defeated in their re-election bids. This year, ansenior members of the 1980 class of congressional dropouts.

are sitting out the 1980 congressional elections - by

They didn't quit to run for higher office as another eight House members are doing. And they haven't been forced to resign by voters, who have already "retired" nine members of Congress in primary

"I found the lifestyle incompatible with the desire to spend more time with my family," said Rep. John Cavanaugh, D-Neb., who is quitting after just four years in Congress.

The 37-year-old father of four is going back to Omaha to practice law. "I want to feel the cool breezes blowing across the plains instead of the hot air that fills the halls of Congress," he said.

The dropouts continue a trend begun around the time of the Watergate scandals - a high, steady turnover of congressional seats, by resignation, by retirement and by voter action.

The result, especially in the House, has been a dramatic change in the chamber's makeup since the 1974 "Watergate election." By January 1981, well over a half of the 435-member House of Representatives will be members who weren't in Congress in

Ten years ago, 53 House members had served twelve terms - 24 years - or longer. But in 1981, paying most of the costs from his own pocket. But in

even if all those seeking re-election win, there would only be 28 with this amount of seniority. The changeover from a House dominated by old timers to one controlled by relatively junior members has taken its toll on committee chairmanships - traditionally the real source of power in the

In 1978, five committee chairmen stepped down or other five House committee chairmen have already announced their retirement. Thus, of the House's 21 Vanik, 25 of his House colleagues and five senators major committees, 10 have seen new chairmen in just four years. "It's clear the House has changed in the past 10 years," said Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., who himself reportedly plans to retire after serving one more term.

Congress has become far more independent, seniority doesn't mean newrly as much as it once did and younger members have mastered new campaigning techniques, including the use of television, far better than the older members, O'Neill said.

Thus, O'Neill said, in this election year, some of the more veteran members of Congress may be in the most serious trouble, while those elected since 1974, as a group, will have less trouble getting re-elected.

"There isn't any more fun around here anymore," O'Neill said. "Those days are gone by."

For Vanik, the decision to quit meant ending a 25-year congressional career that brought him to the chairmanship of the Ways and Means subcommittee

But Vanik said he just couldn't stomach the process members have to go through to get themselves re-elected: "I was distressed. A whole year would have been lost in the course of a campaign.'

Vanik had always run low-budget campaigns, days when House candidates spend hundreds of thousands of dollars and Senate candidates millions, shoe-string campaigns are getting harder and harder to wage. "There isn't a single campaign contribution that isn't a mortgage on the person who receives it," he said. "I didn't want to have to incur the high cost of such political mortgages.'

House Budget Chairman Robert Giaimo is also leaving Congress at what appears to be the apex of his congressional career. But, said the 60-year-old onnecticut Democrat, "for some time I have reflected on the attractions of becoming a private citi-

UT Health Science Center given research support

HOUSTON - The University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston has recently been awarded a $500,-000 gift from the M.D. Anderson Foundation to support development of a Positron Diagnostic and Research Center, which will be the largest and most complex facility of its kind in the nation, according to UT spokes-

The facility, which will use a technique called positron computed tomography to study the body in minute detail without invading it, should be fully operational by 1983. The M.D. Anderson Foundation donation was the first for the center, which is expected to cost $7.4 million by its completion date.

The center is being developed by UTHSCH in association with Hermann Hospital. Dr. K. Lance Gould, who will direct the center, is the director of cardiology at the University of Texas Medical School at Houston and is chief of cardiology at Hermann Hospital. He has an extensive background in cardiovascular research and in the positron-imaging of the heart. Positron computed tomography is considered by some diagnosticians to be a most revolutionary approach to diagnosis of heart and brain diseases and many other life-threatening medical problems, Gould said.

This new technique can identify early coronary atherosclerosis before visible symptoms, heart attack or death occur. Functional mapping of parts of the brain also will be possible with positron computed tomography, Gould said. In cancer patients, posi-tron tracers may enable diagnosticians to measure the rate of cell growth as well as the cellular metabolism of tumors

Specialists from UTHSCH and administrators from Hermann are now in phase I of the development, which consists of the necessary construction at Hermann Hospital and the installation of the cyclotron, radiopharmacy and one positron camera, the three major components of the center.

The cyclotron is an "atom smasher," which creates radioactive elements. The radiopharmacy combines these radioactive elements with compounds normally used by the body to form tracer compounds. The compounds are injected into the patient, who is placed in the positron camera to obtain tomographic crosssectional images. A computer reconstructs the images using signals from the positron camera, and the crosssectional images are used in diagnos-

Phase II of the center's development, research, should begin in 198 The third and final phase, clinical applications, is expected by 1983.

Lee homecoming successful; YC membership drive begins

JANET LANDENBERGER and MARTHA WENTWORTH

Midland Memorial Stadium was packed last Friday as anxious fans showed up to support the Rebel Express as they kicked off their 5-5A district football season. The team played hard but fell to the Odessa Bronchos, 28-21.

This game was not only the beginning of the district games, but was Homecoming 1980 for the Rebels. Homecoming activities took place all week, beginning with a super parade followed by a spirit-raising bonfire.

Girls chosen to be duchesses this year were Pam Taylor, Staci Lewis, Lori Breeding, Laura Walters and Aretha McGruder. The moment everyone had been waiting for came during halftime activities. The 1980-81 Homecoming Queen was announced and congratulations go to Staci Lewis. Congratualtions, also, to football sweetheart Kim Willis and band sweetheart Jennifer Crawford. Saturday night's homecoming dance turned out to be a big success. The Student Council wishes to thank all who helped get it together. Last week, our volleyball girls played some tough teams, losing to Permian and Abilene high schools.

A reminder to every Student Councial representative: Thursday is the covered dish dinner at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria. Be sure that you have invited your teacher. Everyone come out and have some fun. To all Rebel boosters: The Booster

County commissioner candidate 'loser' in civil court

Jurors say Barber 'acted with malice' in pistol-whipping incident

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Jeff Barber, a candidate for county commissioner, emerged the loser Tuesday in a civil case in which he was accused of unduly pistol-whipping 18-year-old musician David Craig McCartney. The youth was among a group playing loud rock 'n' roll music in one of Barber's J Bar Storage units in northwest Midland.

The five-man, one-woman jury deliberated about 21/2 hours in Midland's county court-at-law before returning a verdict which held that Barber 'acted with malice" toward the youth, that Barber was not acting in self-defense when he assaulted the rock musician, and that Barber was not actually protecting his property when he kicked on the door at his storage unit to put a hush to the rock music emerging from the cubi-

THE JURY, after studying the special issues submitted by Judge Willie DuBose, awarded McCartney, a guitarist in the "By Request" rock band, $50 in actual damages and $250 in exemplary damages. He had been seeking "whatever the court allows," which was a maximum of $5,000.

McCartney, son of Midland High School choral director Don McCartney, had charged Barber, 55, with assualting him near midnight on Feb. 5 at the storage unit where the fourpiece band was practicing. Barber maintained that rent on the unit was unpaid, that loud music was disturbing the peace, and that the group had no business in his storage facility.

The jury, however, was concerned with Barber's conduct on his own property and his approach to the

For the McCartney youth, the jury's verdict was a victory.

"WE'RE SO TICKLED," the youth's father said after the 11/2-day trial in DuBose's court. "Our intent was not to get any money out of the man (Barber). We just wanted to see him before a jury and to seek justice. That was the purpose of this. I had to stick with my son.'

Don McCartney said that the case against Barber had no political motiviation "whatsoever" and that he was unaware that Barber was campaigning for the second time in eight years against Durward Wright, the Democratic Precinct 1 commissioner since 1969, when initial charges against Barber were filed.

againt Wright in 1972.

"I always wanted to keep it non-po litical," the father said after the trial. "We had no idea Mr. Barber was a political candidate" when initial charges were filed. "It was a moral charge that we were interested in," he said.

After the verdict was rendered, Barber, on advice of his attorney Jimmie Oglesby, declined to com-ment other than to say that Oglesby had "other things" - presumably an appeal — in mind.

ON THE WITNESS stand Tuesday, Barber said that his intent was to protect his property when he kicked on the door to get the youths' attention amid the sound of the rock music, entered and was dished out some 'yawl-yawling" by the band mem-

"I didn't know that I was going to be 'bucked up' against," Barber said of flak allegedly given him by McCartney and drummer Alvin Carter after he had identified himself as owner of the storage unit.

Barber said the youths "mouthed off" against him.

"Why in the hell are you kicking on this door?" Barber said the McCartney youth had asked him in apparent puzzlement.

"I told him I was the owner of this thing, and I could kick the door off the hinges if I wanted to," Barber said.

Barber freely admitted to be armed with a loaded .38-caliber pistol when he entered the storage unit.

"IT WAS EVIDENT that I did have a pistol in my belt," he said. "It was quite visible, and I wanted it to be Afterward, Barber said McCartney removed his guitar and "shut the mike down.

"I was trying to keep my eye on him (McCartney) and on the black boy (Carter) in the corner. They were both mouthing off quite a bit (and were acting) like I was some sort of villain coming in there rather than the owner."

However, Barber said he figured that "they get the message of who I was when I first went in there."

"...He (McCartney) was going to eat me out and run me out," Barber said. "The intent was just reverse of what it should have been.

Barber said the McCartney youth approached him, and that he (Barber) removed the pistol from his belt with his right hand and placed it

"Don't buck up against me. Don't come up close to me. We'll talk this thing out," Barber testified that he told the youth. "I certainly didn't want him up in my face...he was too busy flapping his lips at me. He didn't want to talk 'business.' He want to yawl-yawl at me.'

"He was waving his arms and shouting at me," the white-haired Barber said of the moderately longhaired youth. Barber said he would 'like to be out of there at that point in time, but I was there to take care of

BARBER SAID the McCartney youth approached him.

"I slapped him with my left hand," Barber said. McCartney then hit Barber on the shoulder, he said. "And instantaneously, I hit him on the top of the head with my gun... I never put my finger on the trigger...I just barely tapped him on the head in getting his attention.

Barber, under questioning by Oglesby, said he could not explain how McCartney's hand was injured.

"I don't know how he hurt his hand," he said. "He could have done that washing dishes."

The next day, Barber said he talked to the father of the McCartney youth, and Barber agreed to apologize to the

"The boys were not hurt," Barber said the father told him over the telephone. "You just scared the hell out of them.'

However, charges of assault on the youth were filed against Barber in county court. But those charges were dismissed, and Barber in turn pleaded nolo contendere — no contest — to charges of disorderly conduct in justice court, was found guilty and fined $200 to the misdemeanor offense.

The McCartney youth testified that Barber harassed him and the group.

"He pointed the gun at us," he

THE YOUTH said he thought that the group was within its legal rights to be in Barber's storage unit.

"I understood our (rental) pay-ments were up 'til that night," he

The youth's attorney, Jim Boldrick, asked the jury to help put "an end to vigilante self-help" in Midland County by finding against Barber and for his client, the McCartney youth.

"Are we going to encourage people, such as Jeff Barber, to take guns with

"Not only was there assault — that's a fact," Boldrick said in his closing arguiments.

"Did he (Barber) act with malice or did he act with love and affection?" Boldrick asked.

In defense of his client, Oglesby said Barber was "on his own property in the middle of the night...and tried to set up a dialogue."

"The last thing anybody wants is to in a scuffle with anybody with a gun, 'cause somebody could get hurt," he

Oglesby said Barber acted as an reasonable person would under the circumstances. 'I think he handled himself well, and I'm proud of him."

Volcano timber

for sale

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - With Mount St. Helens steaming but quiet, Forest Service officials were beginning to sell off damaged and blown-down timber from the volcano's flanks.

The first sale of timber in the restricted "red zone" closest to the volcano's crater was set for today. The sale included about 2 million boardfeet of timber in the biggest of two logjams on the Muddy River, eight miles southeast of the crater, said Gifford Pinchot National Forest offi-

Mount St. Helens, to be featured in a film in which shooting starts this month, let loose a blast of steam before 6 p.m. Tuesday but there was no seismic activity, said Stephen Walter of the University of Washington geophysics cen-

Earlier in the day, observers sighted steam rising to about 9,000 feet and detected "just the usual avalanches" in the crater. The mountain continued its quiet spell into today, another geophysics spokesman said this morning.

The last significant seismic event on the mountain was an earthquake on Sept. 28 which gistered 2.1 on the Richter scale of ground movement.

Sale of another 21.2 million board feet of salvage timber is scheduled for later this month near Ryan Lake, 12 miles northeast of the volcano and in the "blue zone," a less restricted area around the mountain.

Last week, a sale of 5 million board feet of timber in the blue zone, 20 miles northeast of the crater, brought $550,000. Smith said that was a high price, especially considering the slow market for wood.

Unsolved slayings arouse Buffalo's black community

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The unsolved slayings of four blacks last month by a white gunman have aroused Buffalo's black community against what leaders say is indifference by a virtually all-white police department and a social climate that makes blacks an easy target.

Blacks met Tuesday with law enforcement officials to discuss progress in the search for the ".22-caliber killer" — a white gunman who killed four black males during a 36hour period which ended Sept. 24.

"We need to lay the blame where it belongs — on the news media, on the police, on everyone who makes it easier to kill a black and get away with it," said Aris Khan of the Western New York Fund-Raising Associa-

"This is a plot. It's been a plot for the last 400 years since we've been here," he said. He urged economic sanctions - including boycotts - against allwhite businesses. An unidentified man seated near

Khan suggested organization of

"black vigilante groups."

Many in the crowd of more than 100 alleged the slayings were part of a program of racial terrorism by rightwing organizations. The People's Committee of BUILD

Commission on Violence against -Creation of a "task force of Afro-

Klansman says police informant led KKK, Nazis to confrontation scene

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - A Ku Klux Klansman on trial for murder in the shooting deaths of five communist demonstrators last November has testified that a police informant led Klansmen and Nazis to the scene of the deadly street confrontation. Lawrence Gene Morgan, one of six Klansmen and Nazis on trial for murder, said Tuesday that Klansman Eddie Dawson of Greensboro led a caravan of nine vehicles to the site of the Communist Workers Party demonstration.

Previous witnesses have identified

Dawson as an informant for Greensboro police.

Morgan, a 26-year-old Lincoln County textile worker, said he drove several Lincolnton Klansmen to a house south of Greensboro last Nov. 3 to prepare for the trip into the city. They met Dawson and Klan Grand Dragon Virgil Griffin at the house,

Dawson organized the caravan and asked Morgan to drive his van in it and to keep in contact by CB radio,

Anything goes with pants

By PADDY CALISTRO The Los Angeles Times

When women's suffrage advocate Amelia Bloomer put on her full, ankle-length pants in 1851 to lecture on temperance and on dress reform, Horace Greeley of the New York Tribune gave her outfit even wider circulation by featuring it in his newspa-per. Today, Amelia's bloomers — also known as trousers, even back then are part of a pants message that reaches from Paris to Pacoima. The bottom line is this: any length goes. Styles vary from one extreme to the other - from full-blown silk bloomers to the shortest shorts. There is no question of mini, midi or maxi. They're all OK, even in O.K. Corral

For ardent preppies, there are tar-tan plaids, crisp chinos, and classic gabardines in pleat-front trousers, shorts or old-standby culottes. For more adventurous sorts there are stirrups in a Flash Godron mood and punk-studded Western cords that look like a cross between Elvis Presley and Elvis Costello.

Comfort lovers who won't give up their baggies but who want to look like 1980 will like Perry Ellis' idea for fall bottoms. This New York designer's super-loose styles look just like drindl skirts: fabric gathered at the waist and falling into soft folds, obscuring the fact that they are really pants. Another comfortable variation on the baggy is the full leg that's caught tight in a band at the ankle. Other loose styles are dropped from yokes creating a slim line at the tummy and hip.

In their free-the-pant free-for-all, there are pants for every woman from the 60-year-old in designer trousers to the roller skater in hot shorts. The only stlyes that looked dated are bell-bottoms (a la Cher circa 1966) and cigarette legs (a la Cher 1977). Fashion revolutionaries are keeping those stashed in the back of their closets — even fashion independence has its limitations.

DEAR ABBY

Lovers' opening night - mixed reviews

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother of a 17-year-old girl who would rent a motel room for her daughter and the girl's boyfriend so they could have a lovely "first night" experience together?

The boy is my son, also 17. (I will call him John.) John and this girl (I'll call her Jane) are both in high school. They became madly infatuated in just two weeks' time during the summer. Jane told her mother of her desire to go all the way with John, so the mother had a long talk with them, and the three of them planned this allnight session for the two young

When John told me of these plans, I couldn't believe it, so I phoned Jane's mother and she admitted she had made all the arrangements. She said she liked John and wanted her daughter to be comfortable for her first sexual experience. Can you believe this, Abby's

I told John that I was very disappointed that he was allowing Jane's mother to run interference for him. We then discussed the various methods of birth control and the seriousness of his commitment to this girl. He said he was not "in love" with her-it was just a summer romance.

have you heard of this before?-SHOCKED IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SHOCKED: No, this is a first. However, what's done is done, and perpetuating the tenseness for something your son did with your permission makes no sense to me. As I understand it, you approved of his having sex with the girl, but demanded that he come home "at a reason-

It's commendable that your son was open and honest with you and that you were able to discuss methods of birth control with him, but he is a minor and so is the girl, and as a responsible parent you should have urged SELF-control.

Jane's mother deserves high marks for having built an open and honest relationship with her daughter, but as a responsible parent she should not have condoned and arranged for this wedddingless wedding night.

Consumer Education Week

By SHARON A. HILLIS County Extension Agent Home Economics

National Consumer Education Week, being celebrated this week across our land, provides an opportunity for each of us to "take stock" of where we are and where we are going in our individual consumer education program.

Consumer education provides the means to improve our lives - by developing participatory skills in government decision making, by understanding how the market functions and by learning to become skillful shoppers. Each of us needs knowledge and skills to actively and confidently participate in the government and the market place.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has for over 75 years been a major resource and support for and to consumer education in numerous ways special programs, mass media, workshops, newsletters, organized groups free publications and information on a wide variety of consumer topics to name

As a part of your continuing consumer education, plan to include the total resources available to you here from our Midland County Externsion office. We are located in the Court House Annex Building at 200 W. Illinois St. and our phone number is 682-9481, extension 433. Our office is open from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

OTTAWA (AP) - Government and union negotiators announced tentative agreement on a new contract for 40,000 federal clerks whose week-long walkout led to sympathy strikes by airport firefighters and caused Canadian airports to shut down for two

Treasury Board President Don Johnston and Andy Stewart, president of the Public Service Alliance of Canada union, made the announcement Tuesday night following 31 hours of negotiations.

Stewart said details would be made public later today. He said all outstanding issues were covered in the talks, including higher pay, a shorter work week, a cost-of-living clause and the suspension of penalties against illegal strike action by workers other than the clerks.

He said federal employees would be directed to return to work if they had been refusing to cross clerks' picket lines. Token picket lines would probably remain at government facilities for the next three or four days until a vote on the proposed contract was complete, he added.

The clerks, paid an average $12,815 a year, had demanded a 19.9 percent raise over two years, a cost-of-living clause and shortening the present work week of 371/2 hours to 35. The government offered a 20 percent salary increase but rejected the two other demands in the first days of the strike.

Normal operations resumed at all but one Canadian airport Tuesday after firefighters returned to work in anticipation of a court order preventing them from honoring the clerks' picket lines. At the airport at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, firefighters returned to work but then walked off their jobs one hour later without explanation.

The firefighters, who walked off their jobs Monday, were answering an alliance call for non-striking unionists to honor the clerks' strike. The firefighters and clerks have separate bargaining units in the 180,000-strong public employees union.

Only sporadic job actions were reported among other members of the union.

French protest against anti-Semitism

PARIS (AP) - French protests against the upsurge of anti-Semitism in France move out of the streets and into the National Assembly today. Attacks on President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Premier Raymond Barre were expected.

The debate in the lower house of the French Parliament followed a street march in Paris by more than 100,000 people and demonstrations in other cities protesting the bomb explosion last Friday that killed four people outside a Paris synagogue and attacks on other Jewish premises in the French capital.

But along with the widedspread manifestation of public indignation, anti-Semitic incidents were re-ported in a number of provincial cities and towns Tuesday. A fire bomb was thrown at a grocery store owned by Jews in Grenoble. A dynamite bomb was found outside a Marseille bar owned by a Jew. And dozens of Jewish homes and stores were attacled in Montpellier and several smaller towns. No injuries were reported, however.

Organizers of the march in Paris estimated the turnout at 300,000. They took a traditional 21/2-mile route in the eastern part of the city from the Place de la Nation through the Place de la Bastille to the Place de la Republique.

Banners carried by the marchers proclaimed "We are all French Jews," condemned racism and fascism and called for the resignation of Interior Minister Christian Bonnet. Bonnet, whose ministry supervises the police, is under fire not only because of the failure of the police to apprehend those responsible for the attacks but also because two police union officials have charged that 30 policemen are members of a banned neo-Nazi group, the European Nationalist Action Federation.

The marchers included Socialist Party leader Francois Mitterand and Communist Party leader Georges Marchais, but neither Giscard d'Estaing, Barre or any members of the Cabinet were pres-

Barre was scheduled to make the government's first statement on the attacks in the assembly today before facing severe questioning and criticism, particularly from leftist leaders. The police have questioned only about a dozen

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Shehu Shagari of Nigeria, winding up an official visit here, says the time has come for the Soviet Union to reassess its historic refusal to lend assistance to non-communist develop-

At a White House state dinner Tuesday night hosted by President Carter, Shagari noted that the Soviet Union has maintained that these countries are not entitled to assistance from Moscow because it is not responsible for problems created by decades of colonial rule.

Shagari called this an "escapist posture" and said developed countries from both the communist and non-communist world should join together in the struggle to help underdeveloped nations.

Before his arrival here, Shagari also had been sharply critical of the Carter administration for what he regarded as a "half-hearted" U.S. position against white minority rule in South Africa.

He had even suggested that Nigeria may resort to a cutoff in Nigerian oil shipments to the United States, which average 1 million barrels daily, if Washington retreats from its commitment to combat apartheid in South Africa.

But in his comments Tuesday night and in ceremonies earlier in the day, Shagari avoided any criticism of the U.S. position. In his toast at the state dinner, he said the United States and Nigeria must "work more closely and more diligently to eradicate this evil which the whole international community has declared abominable.

For his part, Carter noted that the two countries worked together to bring about black majority rule in Zimbabwe and expressed willingness to do the same in South Africa and in the South African-controlled territory of Namibia.

While sparing criticism of the Carter administration, Shagari did call on American corporations to withdraw their investments from South Africa, estimated at $2 billion.

Speaking with reporters after a two-hour meeting with Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, Shagari said, "A country like South Africa should not be patronized by anyone who loves freedom.

"There shouldn't be more of U.S. business concerns in South Africa until that country changes its nefarious policy of apartheid," he said. Shagari, who came here after attending the U.N. General Assembly session in New York City, was due to fly back to Nigeria this after-

Ninth Soviet on trial in six weeks

MOSCOW (AP) — Vik-tor Kapitanchuk, a 35year-old religious activist, went on trial in Moscow today charged with anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda, Tass reported.

His was the ninth in a spate of dissident trials over the past six weeks. The charge carries a maximum penalty of seven years in labor camps and five years in internal exile.

Kapitanchuk, an icon restorer who was arrest-ed March 12, had been a founding member of the Christian Committee for the Defense of the Rights of Believers, an underground organization that documented alleged re-pression of religious be-livers in the Soviet Union.

Another member, Russian Orthodox priest Gleb Yakunin, was sentenced late last month to five years in camps and five in internal exile.

In his Memphis speech Muskie defended Carter's arms control and defense policies and said it would be costly and impossible to try to gain military superiority over the Soviet Union.

He criticized those who would look back "to a simpler world" and said that striving for superiority would be "a wasteful and wanton effort.".

Muskie made no mention in the speech of Ronald Reagan, even while seeming to criticize policies advanced by the Republican presidential

Returning to a favorite theme, Reagan scoffed at the complexity and severity of federal environmental laws at a Steubenville, Ohio, meeting Tuesday with representatives of employers and employees in the steel and coal industries — insisting that more atmospheric contamination is due to natural processes than to manmade pollution.

As an example, Reagan said that the eruption of the Mount St. Helens volcano earlier this year put more sulfur dioxide in the air than "all automobiles and things of that nature over the past ten years." Reagan also said oil slicks have been occurring naturally off the coast of California for centuries, long before drilling by oil companies. And he defended his earlier claim - made fun of by Sen. Edward Kennedy at the Democratic convention — that trees are responsible for most of the

After arriving in Youngstown Tuesday night, Reagan met privately with a group of local labor leaders and unemployed steelworkers.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices rose today as traders nervously watched conflicting interest rate trends. Volume was relatively light.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues rose 2.47 to 963.40 in the first two hours of trading as advances outnumbered declines by a 7-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange

There are conflicting signs regarding interest rates. No other bank has matched the 14 percent prime lending rate set last week by Citibank, and many analysts think that widely watched rate has peaked.

But interest rates edged up in the bond market Tuesday and some banks continued to post increases in mortgage rates.

Oil stocks, which have been volatile as Mideast fighting affects the petroleum market, rose in early trading Occidental gained % to 30% and Mobil rose % to 75%. But Standard of Cali-fornia slipped % to 86%. International Business Machines rose 11/4 to 69 and Control Data gained 1 to 75%. G.D. Searle was up ½ to 20½ and General Foods rose ½ to 30%.

Bigume totaled 19.62 million shares in the first two hours, down from 24.68 million at the same time Tuesday. The NYSE's composite index rose .29

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.04 at

Court says AMA can't interfere with advertising

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal appeals court has upheld a Federal Trade Commission order barring the American Medical Association from interfering with doctors' advertising, soliciting of patients or contractual

In a split decision Tuesday, two of the three judges on the U.S. Court of Appeals Second Circuit modified the original language of the order before affirming its enforcement.

The dissenter was Judge Walter R. Mansfield who argued that even his colleagues' "somewhat watered down" version of the FTC's year-old order was unjustified and unneces-

"It merely requires the association to do what it is doing anyway and prohibits it from doing what it is not doing," Mansfield said

District Judge Dudley B. Bonsal and appeals Judge William H. Tim-bers, however, ruled in their majority opinion that the FTC's December 1975 complaint against the AMA, the Connecticut State Medical Society and the New Haven County Me ciation was not outdated.

It said the two Connecticut doctors groups were included "on the ground that state societies and local associations follow the lead of AMA.'

They were also included "because the FTC believed that there was a conspiracy between AMA and the state societies and local associations to restrict competition among physicians," the judges wrote.

Curing inflation: Some said it couldn't be done

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - When elected officials and aspirants to office talk about curing inflation through traditional fiscal and monetary discipline a good many people yawn, disbelieve or even get angry.

They say it cannot be done. Included is a vast range of people from those who insist we should prepare for what they feel is the coming collapse into anarchy, to academics who claim to have studied the situation dispassionately. The thinking of the latter can be garnered in popular seminars or in any bookstore, where some of their tomes have reached bestseller proportions. Howard Ruff and Douglas Casey are prominent among them. Courtney Brown, former professor and dean of the Graduate School of Business, Columbia University, offers a somewhat different and less cataclysmic view, but he too feels inflation will be hard to overcome. Brown's view seems likely to be interpreted as anti-labor, especially since he has long held directorships of prominent corporations. But he also points out that labor too has been hurt by inflation and that to some extent through their higher costs. The problem of inflation, he claims, arises from having issued more claims than can be redeemed. "The corporations have merely passed politicians, for years have promised too much; the excess demand is expressed in inflation."

The result of such promises, he maintains, "is a built-in structural generator of continuous inflations that cannot be cured without repair-ing the structure." The structure, he says, is defective.

As evidence of it, Brown refers to the record. From 1947 to 1965, he says, inflation averaged 2.5 percent a year; from 1965 to 1971 it averaged 4.5; and from 1972 to 1978 it reached 7.7 per-

Since then, double-digit inflation has become the norm rather than the exception.

The problem has deep roots, says Brown, and he traces them back to the 1930s and 1940s rather than merely to the Vietnam War, where so many current commentators begin their analyses.

"The human suffering associated with that punishing period focused public policy on measures to assist the disadvantaged: farmers, unemployed youth, the elderly, and others," he states, adding:

"And among the groups identified for additional assistance was, of course, organized labor."

When the Sherman Act was passed in 1890, organized labor was as much subject to its antitrust provisions as were corporations, says Brown in a paper called "Inflation and the Pass-

Slaying suspect arrested day of trooper's funeral

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - The day a slain state trooper was laid to rest here, the suspect who had eluded police throughout Texas was apprehended and arrested in a rural Kan-

Texas and Kansas authorities were negotiating Tuesday night to transport Billy Wayne Alexander Jr. back to Texas after he waived extradition. The suspect, wanted in the shooting death of Jerry Don Davis, offered no resistance and was unarmed when he was arrested early Tuesday evening in Liberal, Kan., Department of Public Safety officials said.

Alexander, 21, had been named in a capital murder warrant issued Monday morning by a justice of the peace in Lubbock.

A couple from Lowell, Kan., was in the car with Alexander at the time of arest, DPS officials said, but said the couple had not been charged. Police withheld all other information.

Davis, 25, was found slumped over the wheel of his squad car in Slaton, near here, Sunday night with a bullet wound in his head. His service revolver was still in his holster.

One of the two ministers delivering the eulogy in the small Lubbock church packed with hundreds of mourners quoted scriptures supporting capital punishment for the trooper's "assassin."

Law enforcement officers from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico attended the service. One-third of the seats were reserved for DPS offi-

Davis' mother was presented with the United States flag that had been draped over her son's coffin. A sevenman honor guard fired a 21-gun salute and a lone trumpeter played taps.

Authorities had combed the state for two days and issued a tri-state bulletin looking for Alexander, whose drivers license was found in Davis' car, DPS officials said.

Davis had notified his dispatcher by radio that he had stopped a vehicle for speeding, and "that was the last contact," Todd said. The trooper had radioed in the license plate of the stopped vehicle, a car with stolen plates later found abandoned by DPS officers. Two witnesses to the shooting were located by other identification found in Davis' car, said a Lubbock County District Attorney's office spokesman. The two men were questioned and released on material witness bond, he DPS Director James Adams traveled here from Austin Monday to coordinate the search.

Friends and relatives of Davis, who had never married, said he had been obsessed with becoming a highway patrolman, even as a 12-year-old

After working in several Texas cities in various facets of police work, Davis' wish came true. He was commissioned a DPS officer in May 1979 and was assigned to Slaton.

The sworn statement from of Norvel Holloway was read Tuesday to jurors hearing a civil suit filed by the family of Randall Webster charging wrongful death and violation of civil rights. Webster, 17, was shot in February 1977 after he climbed out of stolen van following a high-speed chase by police. An investigation later found a gun had been planted next to the victim's body. Holloway, former officers Danny Mays and J.T. Olin confronted the youth. Olin later became a key ernment witness in the trial of Holloway and May, both convicted of perjury and conspiracy in the coverup of Webster's death.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - Cleanup at the crippled Three Mile Island nuclear reactor may not begin until late next year, says the parent company of plant operator Metropolitan Edison Co.

Court action to overturn a ruling barring the use of customer payments to cover the cost of the Three Mile Island cleanup has been postponed indefinitely by Met Ed.

Meanwhile, a congressional task force on the cleanup has met with the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities, and will continue its fact-finding mission today in Pennsylvania, Susan Shanaman, chairman of the state's Public Utilities Commission,

"It's primarily for information-gathering," said Ms. Shanaman. "I don't expect anything to come out as far as a solution."

Some witnesses said they were concerned over a Navy proposal to scuttle old nuclear submarines in the Pacific, possibly off the Mendocino County coast. However, scientists from the conservationist and anti-dumping Oceanic Society said the wastes present no hazard.

R. Jackson Davis of the University of California at Santa Cruz disputed EPA findings, saying radiation from the dumps has contaminated edible fish and the situation is a "cause not for alarm, but for definite

"If we put radiation in the ocean, it's going to return to us in the fish we eat," Davis said.

Hawkins said Davis made "errors in analysis" in reaching his conclusions.

The Oceanic Society panel of scientists said EPA studies of fish caught off the Farallons and Delaware contain no convincing evidence of a serious present or future threat to aquatic or human health.... It seems probably that the peak release of the radioactive material has occurred in the past."

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer On Market Page

Grand jury probes Frito-Lay peanut oil purchase

A federal grand jury is examining whether the Agriculture Department sold millions of pounds of surplus peanut oil in 1977 to Frito-Lay, Inc., at prices below the prevailing market

The Wall Street Journal, citing "sources close to the case," said Tuesday that the jury also may hear evidence indicating that Frito-Lay later resold the oil at a profit rather than following up on its pledge to use the oil to make snack foods. Frito-Lay is a subsidiary of PepsiCo

In a report Sunday on the grand jury investigation, the Dallas Morning News said the panel was trying to determine if Sens. Richard Stone, D-Fla., and Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., Rep. Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., and Atlanta lawyer Charles Kirbo, a political adviser to President Carter and trustee of the Carter family's peanut warehouse, were connected to the

The newspaper did not cite any connections.

But the published reports prompted the Justice Department to issue an unusual announcement Monday clearing Stone in the case on the eve of Tuesday's Democratic runoff primary in Florida. Stone lost the runoff Tuesday to state insurance commissioner Bill Gunter, becoming the fourth incumbent senator defeated in primaries this year.

Philip Heymann, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice De partment's criminal division, said that Stone is "not the target or the subject of the investigation." Heymann said that while the Justice Department normally declines comment in such cases, it felt it was proper and appropriate out of fairness to Stone to make the statement because of the runoff election.

The Miami Herald reported Monday that Stone had to cancel some campaign appearances Sunday to clear up the matter.

"I wouldn't mind this at all if it was three weeks ago," Stone said. "What gives me fits is for it to come out, with no chance of clarification, the day before the election. In a 50-50 election, that could turn it.

Talmadge is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and Stone is member of that panel. Mathis is a member of the House Agriculture Committee

In 1977 Stone sent the Agriculture Department a letter, also signed by Talmadge, that recommended the department's peanut oil surplus be sold

Stone said he felt his 1977 recommendation was a good one, but that the Agriculture Department turned around and sold the oil in domestic markets.

Kirbo and Mathis were unavailable

Talmadge, campaigning for reelection in Georgia on Monday, said, "I haven't assisted anyone in securing peanut oil. I urged the Department of Agriculture to sell off their surplus commodities to any willing buyer. I don't know who bought

The grand jury investigation involves the Nov. 3, 1977, sale of 78.1 million pounds of peanut oil to Frito-Lay by Camilla Cotton Oil Co. of Camilla, Ga., for $16.8 million.

The sale to Frito-Lay came almost immediately after Camilla, an oil processor, purchased the surplus oil for $15.8 million from the Commodity Credit Corp., an agency of the Agriculture Department.

PepsiCo, in a statement released from its Purchase, N.Y., headquarters, said it has cooperated with federal investigators, adding that the investigation resulted "from materials uncovered by Frito-Lay in 1978 in an intensive internal investigation." "Frito-Lay, PepsiCo and their respective employees have been told they are not targets of the grand jury investigation," PepsiCo said.

At the time of the transaction, the same amount of peanut oil would have sold for $18.4 million on the open market, although prices almost doubled within three months.

Frito-Lay spokesman Joe McCann said in Dallas that "while it was a very large deal, and very unusual, it did not appear sinister.'

He said a 1978 internal audit by Frito-Lay "uncovered very suspicious behavior on the part of someone in our commodities department." The employee was fired, and Frito-Lay waged a successful civil lawsuit against him for damages in a case that was sealed by the judge involved, according to McCann. Even before the civil suit was concluded, FritoLay turned over all of its documents to the Justice Department for a possible criminal investigation, he said.

McCann said Frito-Lay used most of the oil and hoped to get an extension on the government's requirement that the company take delivery within 90 days, "but when we found we would not get an extension we traded off the rest domestically." The Agriculture Department requires buyers of commodity stocks to use them commercially and not speculate with them for trading profits.

In December 1977, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said preliminary studies of the deal indicated normal sales procedures were fol-

Uranium prospectors said endangering cattle, water

AUSTIN (AP) - Some uranium prospectors are "thumbing their nose at everybody" and endangering cattle and underground water in South Texas, the Texas Mining Council's attorney says.

The council voted Tuesday to recommend legislation giving a state agency - probably the Railroad Commission - power to regulate the drilling of uranium exploration holes.

David Cullen of Houston, the council's lawyer, said uranium companies drilled 21,000 exploration holes in 1979. He said it was "reasonable to assume" that most holes penetrated the water table and many hit salt water formations. "Obviously, these circumstances can provide a significant threat to fresh groundwater resources," Cullen reported.

In addition, he said, the holes are wide enough for cattle to step into, and "that's part of the problem that brought it to the attention of the Jerry Hill of the Railroad Commission's surface mining division said there had been complaints from South Texas, where uranium activity is Cullen said state law failed to make clear whether the commission or the Department of Water Resources had authority to regulate the drilling of uranium exploration holes.

"Because it has fallen through the cracks, apparently some operators are thumbing their nose at everybody," he said.

The council also urged the 1981 Legislature to instruct state agencies to expedite all regulatory actions involving synthetic fuel projects.

This, Cullen said, could later be used as evidence that Texas was, in fact, committed to giving quick treatment to applications for such Congress has created a "TVA-type" government corporation for synthetic fuels development and authorized $78 billion for development of the necessary technology. Priority will be given to applications from concerns proposing synthetic fuel projects in states that have shown they intend to expedite regulatory activities for the projects.

Texas has large lignite deposits, which Cullen said would be "one of the primary sources of synthetic fuels."

SEIKO Store Name AUTHORIZED DEALER 012345

Because Seiko is the world's best-selling quality watch, by far, there are many people, not Authorized Dealers, who will try to sell you a Seiko. And when you buy your Seiko that way. you may not get what you pay for. Regardless of what you pay.

Look for the Authorized Dealer identification. It's a sure sign that you'll always get the best of Seiko. Or, consider the alternatives:

SEIKO

1. You get the best selection where you

Only the dealer displaying this sign offers the widest, up-to-date selection. He can even order any Seiko watch that's not in stock. Quickly. Easily.

The unauthorized alternative The Seiko you buy could be an obsolete model. Perhaps not even made for C.S. distribution. There's even a chance that the watch you buy is not a real Seiko at all, but an imitation designed to exploit Seiko's popularity in the U.S. market.

SEIKO

2. You get the best warranty where you see this sign.

Seiko offers the most respected warranty in the industry. But you're only certain of getting that kind of automatic security and protection when you buy your Seiko at an Authorized Dealer.

The unauthorized alternative You may be buying a watch purchased from an importer who buys from Hong Kong or Taiwan. It may not be covered by a valid Seiko warranty. So you'll have to pay for any servicing, repairs, or adjustments that Seiko makes. It could be covered by the importer's own personal warranty. If you run into trouble, we hope you find him.

SEIKO Store Name 3. You get the highest quality standards where you see this sign.

When Seiko produces a watch for the U.S. market, certain import indentification must be stamped or engraved on the inside of each case.

Seiko does that before final assembly and before final quality control testing. So the watch you buy is in mint condition, truly representing the best of Seiko technology and craftsmanship.

The unauthorized alternative When you buy a Seiko not made for the U.S. market, the independent importer must open the watch and engrave or stamp the proper identification on the movement and the case to meet U.S. Customs regulations. There goes the protective factory seal. And damage can occur if filings or dust get into the watch itself. In fact, any damage caused by unauthorized tampering with or opening the watch invalidates the Seiko warranty. So you must decide whether you're interested in gambling, or, buying a high quality Seiko watch.

4. You get the best service and parts where you see this sign.

Seiko Authorized Dealers have the most knowledgeable, trained personnel.

They'll make sure you end up with the Seiko that's just right for you. They can show you what it does and how easy it is to operate. And should it ever need servicing, the required Seiko parts are available, plus the most admired and efficient service network in the country

The unauthorized alternative

When the objective is just to make a sale, not necessarily to. make a long-term customer, slick salespeople become more important than knowledgeable ones. And if you need any servicing, they could send you to Seiko. Seiko will give you great service of course, but if the watch is not covered by the valid Seiko warranty, you'll have to pay for it. However, if you buy an obsolete watch, or one that's not meant to be sold in the U.S. at all, don't hold your breath while you're waiting for parts. Because not even Seiko can inventory every part for every watch all the time.

Look for the Authorized Dealer Identification. It's a sure sign that you'll always get the best of Seiko.

Carpenter out of low budget horror movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - New York City, 1997. Manhattan is a walled maximum security prison for the criminal forces who lost the civil war with the U.S. Police Force. Air Force One is rigged to crash-land on the island, and the President becomes a hos-

Such is the grim vision of John Carpenter in "Escape from New York," his new movie for Avco Embassy Pictures. Quite a departure for Carpenter, heretofore the creator of low-budget thrillers like "Halloween" and "The Fog."

One of the few games in town because of the actors' strike (a waiver had been granted by the Screen Actors Guild), the film had been shooting all over town on Carpenter's unaccustomed threemonth schedule. I caught up with him in the catacombs of the Wiltern Theater, a lovely old movie palace now deserted and in danger of the wrecker's

The director finished consulting with the crew in a shattered basement room and responded to the question of the film's cost: "It's more than the entire cost of my other six pictures - $7 million.

Carpenter, a Bowling Green, Ky., native and graduate of USC cinema school, rattled off his credits and their costs: "Dark Star," his first feature in 1974, $60,000; "Assault on Precinct 13," $300,000; a TV movie "Someone's Watching Me," $1 million; "Halloween," a huge, scary hit, $300,000; the three-hour TV movie "Elvis," $2.5 million; "The Fog," $1

"Halloween" and "The Fog" made millions for Avco Embassy, which gave Carpenter the go-ahead for "Escape from New York."

"Actually I wrote it before 'Dark Star." he remarked. "I offered it to every company and was turned down by them all. They were fairly polite those things, but I don't think it's too much. A bit cynical, perhaps.' The producer of "Escape from New York" is about it, but the reasons were pretty much the same:

it was too violent, too wierd, too strange. It's all of Debra Hill, who also produced Capenter's low-budget hits. She is the one who hammered out the tough deal with the Screen Actors Guild to allow filming during the strike.

Ms. Hill explained that Carpenter's success hasn't caused him to run wild on costs, as have other young

"This picture is still below the average feature cost today," she said. "It's a very complicated project, involving special effects and visual tricks. We have shot in St. Louis, which doubles as New York, and in Atlanta, where the new subway was ideal for the Police State headquarters.

"Next we go to New York to shoot at the Statue of Liberty and the World Trade Center. John is making the film more reasonably than other directors would because of the way he works."

"I decide what the picture is going to be like before I do it, making storyboards for some of it," he explained. "That allows me to work fast and economically when I get to the shooting. I'm always able to improvise; if the helicopters don't show up, I'll shoot something else. I don't wait around and play catch-up, which is what a lot of directors do.'

Carpenter and Hill employ the same efficient crew again and again, and "Escape from New York" is literally a family affair. Star Kurt Russell's wife Season Hubley is in the cast and brother-in-law Larry Franco is co-producer. The cast also includes Carpenter's wife Adrienne Barbeau, as well as Lee Van Cleef, Ernest Borgnine, Donald Pleasance, Isaac Hayes and Harry Dean Stanton.

Russell credits "Elvis" for taking him out of the image as a Disney hero and into adult roles in features. The actor has great faith in Carpenter: 'He has a solid basic knowledge of film, a remarkable visual eye, and a keen ability to edit in his head, which is what the great directors did. This picture takes him out of the horror genre and into something that nobody has done before."

Are you eating at the devil's table?

But remember this-the wrong desires that come into your life aren't anything new and different. Many others have faced exactly the same problems before you. And no temptation is irresistible. You can trust God to keep the temptation from becoming so strong that you can't stand up against it, for He has promised this and will do what He says. He will show you how to escape temptation's power so that you can bear up patiently against it.

So, dear friends, carefully avoid idol-worship of every kind.

You are intelligent people. Look now and see for yourselves whether what I am about to say is true.

When we ask the Lord's blessing upon our drinking from the cup of wine at the Lord's Table, this means, doesn't it, that all who drink it are sharing together the blessing of Christ's blood? And when we break off pieces of the bread from the loaf to eat there together, this shows that we are sharing together in the benefits of His body.

No matter how many of us there are, we all cat from the same loaf, showing that we are all parts of the one body of Christ. And the Jewish people, all who eat the sacrifices, are united by that act What am I trying to say? Am I saying that the idols to whom the heathen bring sacrifices are really alive and are real gods, and that these sacrifices are of some value? No, not at all. What I am saying is that those who offer-food to these idols are united together in sacrificing to demons, certainly not to God. And I don't want any of you to be partners with demons when you eat the same food, along with the heathen, that has been offered to these idols.

You cannot drink from the cup at the Lord's Table and at Satan's table, too. You cannot eat bread both at the Lord's Table and at Satan's table.

What? Are you tempting the Lord to be angry with you? Are you stronger than He is?

I Corinthians 10:13-22

Powers updates 'Newscasters'

writing "The Newscasters" — his rather gloomy appraisal of local TV news — "I could feel the bad impulses trickling upward, toward the networks."

Powers says he was concerned at the time that network news executives were about to open the door to the same market researchers who had contributed to "a covert and insidious reversal of the very journalistic process itself" at the local level.

That was nearly four years ago, and Powers says today, "I think now that the network news has a kind of built-in inhibitor against the excesses we see at the

"CBS luckfly absorbed this great coterie of news people after World War II," the Pulitzer Prize-winning TV critic and author says, "and they set a standard of dignity for the others to follow. ... I know now that the guys at the network level have perceived that the news is their signature.

Powers' thesis was, and is, that salespeople for local stations had taken the news from the journalists, "slowly, patiently, gradually, and with such finesse that nobody noticed until it was too late." The think they're waiting for a signal from outside, from result, he maintains, was a nightly local newscast the audience. characterized by "showmanship rampant."

He went to great lengths to support the argument, and has just restated the case in a revised edition of

Network news has changed since the first edition

Powers, interviewed since publication of the updated edition, says, "The three network news programs look very much alike, and it's all the more to their advantage to keep the newscasts alike. Both Roone Arledge and Fred Silverman have recognized you can't tamper too much with the news as such." Powers says some of his concern about the future of network news was based on ABC's decision, in 1977, to turn over the news to Arledge, creator of "ABC's Wide World of Sports" and the network's 'NFL Monday Night Football" series.

At about the same time, NBC hired Silverman, the man credited with engineering ABC's ascent to the top in entertainment, as president of the entire

"Arledge did change the format some with the three anchors instead of one for 'World News Tonight,' but I think to a lot of people's surprise, he did not turn ABC into a Top 40 news operation. ## Wayne Newton vows court fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Wayne Newton says he'll fight a court battle "that could last the rest of my life" to refute allegations in an NBC News repore that organized crime was involved in his purchase of a hotel casino here.

Newton, a former teenage singing prodigy turned nightclub entertainer, said he "would welcome any kind of an investigation" to dispel the news report that organized crime was linked to his recent $85 million purchase of the Aladdin Hotel.

At a news conference Tuesday night in the opulent Middle East-styled hotel, Newton said he will launch a lawsuit today against the network.

The law requires that NBC be given an opportunity to retract the story, Newton said. The suit will be filed - with or without a retraction in New York, Los Angeles and Nevada, he

According to NBC, Newton, 37, faces a federal grand jury investigation into his relationship with reputed organized crime leader Guido Penosi.

Newton said NBC executives asked him three months ago about an interview to discuss Penosi. He declined because he feared an inaccurate story would scuttle negotiations for the hotel,

Newton said. "I do know Guido,"

However, Newton said he knew nothing of Penosi's background, except that he had been in prison. Asked if he knew why Penosi had been in jail, he said, "I don't want to know.

Earlier, Newton was quoted as saying that bidder for the Aladdin.

the NBC story. On Tuesday, however, Newton said, "If I accused him (Carson), I'd be as wrong as NBC was last night. In my opinion, he doesn't have anything Carson's lawyer Henry Bushkin denied his client supplied any information in the report and said "they (NBC) must have seen some facts or they would not have aired the report." But Newton said he'd stand by his statement that a Carson aide may have instigated the story

Newton acknowledged he made three phone calls to Penosi in February after threats were made on the life of his daughter, now 4. He contacted Penosi after police were unable to do threats, he said.

Ludden s condition critical

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) - Television personality Allen Ludden; longtime host of the television game show "Password," suffered a massive stroke and was in a coma today at Community Hospital here, officials said Ludden, 62, was in critical condition. He was brought to the hospital Tuesday morning, and his condition had not changed since then, said spokeswoman Marge Peterson.

Ludden's wife, actress Betty White, was with him Tuesday. The couple had been vacationing in the Monterey area.

The "Password" television series, with Ludden as master of ceremonies, was broadcast on CBS for six years beginning in 1961. It returned to the air in the early 1970s as a syndicated show. Ludden was born in Mineral Point, Wis., and began teaching high school English in Austin, Texas, in 1941, after receiving his bachelor's ceiving his bachelor's and master's degrees in English at the University of Towas.
