Carter to reveal get-tough' plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is getting set to announce a package of get-tough measures toward the Soviet Union, but some of the key items are being held back until U.S. allies give their support.

Specifically, sources here said, the administration is continuing to consider trying to organize a boycott of the overthrow it. Olympic Games this summer in Moscow and to slow down shipments of grain and technology.

After Carter had breakfast this morning with foreign policy advisers, White House press secretary Jody Powell said no decision had been made on when or how to make public the course the president would follow.

Powell also said that no decision had been made on whether to embargo U.S. grain shipments to the Soviet Union. He said Carter also had yet to speak with U.S. Ambassador Thomas Watson, who was recalled from

To be effective, the measures under consideration must be coordinated with other western countries. The sources, who asked not to be identified, said the United States also is urging its friends to take a flinty view of credits for Soviet purchases from the West. On the other hand, some of the options aimed at punishing the Soviet Union for taking military action in Afghanistan have been considered within the administration and rejected. These, officials said, included a break in relations with Afghanistan's pro-Soviet government and supplying U.S. weapons directly to insurgents fighting to Still not ruled out, however, is funneling American arms through other countries, such as Pakistan. Several key congressional leaders have said they will support legislation authorizing renewed arms sales to Pakistan if the president requests it.

There were indications official word on actions to be taken could come by the weekend.

A boycott of the Olympics would be a heavy blow to Soviet prestige. The Moscow games in August will be the center of world attention and the Russians intend to make them a glittering showcase.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher discussed the Olympic possibilities with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies in Brussels earlier this week. He went over other measures earlier in London with British, French, West German, Italian and Canadian Laingen, the U.S. charge d'affaires in Tehran, is one of three U.S. diplomats who have been held at the Foreign Ministry since the Moslem militants overran the embassy Nov. 4.

Earlier today, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim ended a threeday peace mission to Iran and left for New York after Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who holds the key to freedom for the American hostages, refused to see him.

The 50 American hostages at the embassy today began their third

In the same broadcast, the students claimed one of the hostages - identified as David M. Roeder — had flown combat missions for the United States in Vietnam.

The militants, who say they will try the hostages as spies unless the de-posed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is returned to Iran to face charges of mass murder and corruption, invited Vietnamese representatives to attend Roeder's trial.

"This man is a criminal.... This is the type of man the United States sends to Iran and yet (President) Carter claims to be a protector of human rights," the statement said.

A State Department spokesman in . Washington said later today the department had been in contact with Laingen after the militants' statement was broadcast and that he was still at the Foreign Ministry.

He left Iran almost a full day ahead of schedule. Shortly after the secretary-general departed, a spokesman said he was needed in New York to attend the Security Council debate today or Saturday on the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Waldheim arrived in Iran Tuesday on orders from the Security Council to seek release of the hostages, who entered their third month in captivity today. His personal spokesman, Francois Giuliani, said the secretary-general would report the extent of his ogress to the council, which meets Monday to consider limited economic sanctions against Iran unless the hos-

Despite the rebuff Thursday from Khomeini, the leader of Iran's revolutionary regime, and Waldheim's failure to secure the release of the hos-tages, both U.N. and Iranian spokesman claimed he had made progress in talks with other Iranian leaders.

He spent two hours Thursday in what he said was an "important and constructive" meeting with the ruling Revolutionary Council. But he re-fused to give details of his talks.

Waldheim appeared to open one avenue of possible conciliation, promising that the United Nations would investigate charges of human rights violations by the deposed shah's re-

AUSTIN (AP) — Some Texans are questioning whether they saved any money as a result of all the legislative noise about tax relief in 1978 and 1979.

Gov. Bill Clements said Thursday he has heard the talk - including concerns expressed by Speaker Bill Clayton - and already has a confidential report from his budget director on the subject. He said budget director Paul Wrotenbery had "studied carefully" various tax relief options and submitted a report to Clements. The governor, who still mentions tax relief as a possible special session topic, said Wrotenbery listed 19 options. "I am trying to evolve answers as to what would be the best course of action," Clements said at his weekly news conference. House Speaker Bill Clayton said Wednesday he was getting letters from taxpayers who complain the Tax Relief Amendment of 1978 and its implementing legislation have not cut their school taxes. The Tax Relief Amendment exempted $5,000 of the value of owner-occupied homes from school taxes. Implementing legislation added a $10,000 exemption for the elderly and the disabled and also provided a means for taxing farm land on its productive value. "Apparently rates have been raised to bring in about the same amount of tax," Clayton said.

The State Property Tax Board issued a statement Wednesday saying the Tax Relief Amendment and implementing legislation saved taxpayers $114.3 million on their 1979 tax bills.

Clements also commented on recent congressional action eliminating state-imposed ceilings on home mortgage interest rates until March 31, with a possibility the limits will come off permanently. He said the action was an infringement on state rights but in economic terms probably was justified because the money market is nationwide and is affected by federal fiscal and monetary policy. Clements called high interest rates a "disgrace" and predicted they would rise past the point where Texas consumers could afford to borrow money for homes or major appliances. But he said a free market, where interest rates would respond to competition, supply and demand was "the only way we are going to get those interest rates down." The governor announced he as appointed Donn D.

Midland sets record in 1979 building permits

Midland marked another record year in building during 1979, according to figures released by the city's Building Inspections Department. By the close of business on Monday, valuation of building permits issued last year hit $94,353,133. This is $7.4 million above last year's total of $86,935,762, and $32 million above the 1977 figure of $62,408,629. Doug Henson with First National Bank's Economic Research Department noted that building in Midland has "gone better in 1979 than most people had anticipated" He attributed the increase this year primarily to commercial construc-

Another boom area last year was in apartments and this came about, he said, "because mortgage money on single family homes was tight to get. It became easier to get money for apartments" to meet the housing

The outlook for 1980 is even brighter, Henson speculated. Permits for the Allison Cancer Center, additional stores at Midland Park Mall and a new First Savings & Loan Association building should be taken out in the first 60 days of this year, he said.

And he suggested that two more high-rise office buildings in the downtown area may be forthcoming in 1980.

The Michelin and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Inc., plants should begin construction this year. Henson pointed out that while both are outside the city limits and no building permits will have to be issued, the labor and material markets in Midland will benefit.

Permits issued in December gave the yearly total its final push over last year's record-setting mark. The final month in 1979 saw 110 permits valued at $9,105,798 issued.

This is almost three times the amount issued in December 1978, which was 94 permits valued at $3,259,660.

New commercial ventures largely is the reason for the jump in permits last month. Permits were issued for a three-building office complex valued at $1,200,000; a two-building office-warehouse-manufacturing complex, $1,680,000; a two-building office-warehouse-manufacturing complex, $800,000; a shop, $110,000, and three new signs, $36,035. Permits for 42 new single family houses were issued at a valuated $2,- 269,980. Seven new duplexes are going up at a cost of $336,000. And a new apartment complex valued at $2,100,000 will be added to the growing list of apartment dwellings. To under take alterations and repairs, 13 businesses were issued permits totaling $253,062 while residences will under go $307,721 in

Despite the higher value, fewer permits were issued last year compared to 1978. The department reported 1,510 permits went out in 1979, 79 less than the 1,589 issued in 1978. Revenues from these permits also dropped in 1979. The city received $178,805 last year as compared to $187,119 in 1978.

Canadian union won't help bail out Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) - The United Auto concessions would cost each worker Workers union says it is negotiating concessions to help bail out Chrysler Corp., despite the refusal of its Canadian locals to make any more sacrifices for the ailing automaker.

The UAW bargaining committee reacted angrily Thursday to the Canadians' decision, and adopted a resolution asking for assurances from Chrysler that "not one penny" of the concessions made by U.S. workers be spent on Canadian operations.

UAW president Douglas A. Fraser, vice president Mark Stepp and Joe. Zappa, president of Local 212 in Detroit, had met with Canadian leaders earlier Thursday in Windsor, Ontar-

Christer had no comment on the union dispute.

As a condition of $1.5 billion in loan guarantees, Congress required union concessions of $462.5 million. The UAW's October contract covering about 124,000 workers in both countries already had incorporated $203 million - about $1,600 per worker.

The new legislation would require another $259.5 million from UAW workers plus about 3,000 represented by seven other unions. The additional about $2,040 if the 14,000 Canadian UAW members shared the burden. Without them, it means about $2,300 per U.S. worker.

The Canadian action complicated the already touchy ratification issue in the United States. The current UAW-Chrysler contract was approved by 69 percent of the workers voting in both countries.

Asked if the "not a penny" resolution was needed to sell a new contract to the members, Zappa said, "I don't know what we need but the logic is just too profound."

He said he believed ratification might be difficult, but he thought the membership was more sympathetic to the company's plight now.

"Doug's put it very nicely. They're not going to be voting on the merits of the agreement; they're going to be voting on whether they have a job,"

Zappa said. Bob White, the UAW's Canadian director, told reporters after the Windsor meeting that the refusal was the result of the belief that Congress could not dictate to Canadian work

Fraser said the Canadians' action meant the end of their 9-year participation in a single contract with Chrysler, although they might remain formal parties to the agreement until it expires in September 1982. Canadian UAW members at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. have separate contracts.

The single contract, Fraser said. had "given Canadian workers an effective voice in drawing up agreements from the start, instead of just passing them along as we do at GM and Ford.

Asked if the refusal would sour relations with the six Canadian Chrysler locals, Fraser said: "Absolutely not. I still love the Canadi-

Acker will not seek re-election

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, FRI., JAN. 4, 1980

Midland County Attorney Leslie Acker announced Thursday that he will not seek re-election this year and one of his assistants, Robert Rendall, said he plans to file for the position.

Acker, 36, said his decision not to seek another term was based largely on his desire to pursue something different. He added that it is beneficial in his opinion to let new people bring fresh ideas to the county attorney's office.

Asked about his future plans, Acker said, "I don't have any immediate plans.

He said he will formulate plans for his future during his final year in office.

Acker was elected to the county attorney's position in November 1976, and will have served one complete term at the end of this year. Prior to his election, Acker served four years as an assistant county attorney here. He came to Midland in 1970 and was employed for two years as an assistant city attorney prior to moving into the position of assistant county attorney.

Acker said he has no future political plans at this time.

Rendall, an assistant county attorney since September 1979, said he will file for the position with Republican County Chairman Bill Shaner after filing opens.

Filing begins Saturday and continues through 6 p.m. Feb. 4.

The 26-year-old assistant county attorney attended public schools in Midland. He attended undergraduate school at the University of Texas at Austin and received his law degree in 1978 from Texas Tech University Law School at Lubbock.

Before returning to Midland in 1979, Rendall lived in Houston. Rendall said he hasn't held pub-

Dear Ben: We know that smoking levels are increasing among the people of developing nations, but whether this is due to the stresses accompanying their efforts at modernization is $5.1 million. Firefighters now earn $12,132 to $17,not clear.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Why is it that people sometimes ask me if I am not feeling well when I feel perfectly fine? They say I look pale or un-healthy.—Ms. J.L.

Track break main cause of derail

BENNETT, Texas (AP) - A derailment that started a fire, forced evacuation of the surrounding countryside and caused an estimated $500,000 damage was caused by a "freak' fracture in a track connecting rod, according to railroad officials.

"It is kind of a freak situation," said Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. spokesman Willard Schultz. "You don't know why or how it happens but it does.

More than 30 cars and four engines of a Missouri Pacific freight train left the tracks near this western Parker County town Dec. 23., spilling toxic chemicals and starting a boxcar fire.

Residents within a mile of the wreck were evacuated as a precaution, but there were no injuries

Schultz said a molded angle bar between two rails broke, "causing the rails not to be tied togeth-

The company makes weekly inspections of its tracks, but the break developed from a hairline fracture, "and of course you can't see that with the naked eye," said

He said the tracks at the derailment site have been repaired, and work crews expect to have the remaining 15 cars cleared from the site

The great pantyhose battle

By ERMA BOMBECK

What have your pantyhose done for you

Mine have provided me with cool comfort, up-front confidence and natural air flow. They have controlled my tummy, supported my thighs, firmed my hips, reinforced my toe, massaged my legs, and allowed me to be me.

Then how come I feel like if I inhale, my knees will be caught in a vise? Pantyhose are going into their third decade on the American scene and they are still shrouded in mystery. Has anyone ever figured out whether or not pantyhose are coming or going by holding them up? The feet give you no clue. They look like a toothless pout. All the while you are slipping them over your feet, you look for a telltale heel or toe or dart, but there is nothing. It's only after you have them on for a few hours that they take form - usually with a heel over your ankle and a flap of toe just under your heel.

After 20 years women of America still don't know what letter of the alphabet they are. I have seen some of them be come quite light-headed at the pantyhose carousel as it spins around, trying to figure out if they are slight built, average, or a moose.

Some of the best fiction being written today is in the instruction pamphlet that accompanies each pair of pantyhose on how to put them on.

Listen to this, and I'm quoting: "Leave 13 inches excess of tip of oes when slipping on

Police department, MC offering class

A special one-evening learning session dealing with home security measures will be offered by the Midland College department of community services in cooperation with the Midland Police Department's crime prevention unit. The program, which meets from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Jan. 5, will be conducted by Officer Steve Otto of the department of community services. "Residents will have an excellent opportunity to earn what measures they can take to secure their homes and property against theft," Bramlett said.

MPD crime prevention unit. The meeting is open to the public at no charge, according to James Bramlett, director of the MC

"They also will receive a complete explanation of the MPD's 'Operation ID' program as well as recommendations pertaining to fire prevention."

Those interested in attending should meet in the MC Roadrunner Room, located in the north wing of the Administration Building, 10 minutes before the start of the program.

Nuclear plants at two California sites may be given temporary exemptions

By BILL STALL The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The two nuclear power plants operating in California may get temporary exemptions from e federal order to shut down on Jan. 31 to complete safety modifications prompted by the Three Mile Island nuclear plant accident last March.

The plants are Rancho Seco. operated by Sacramento Municipal Utility District, and San Onofre, run by Southern California Edison and San Diego Gas and Electric.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission announced the Jan. 31 deadline on Wednesday, noting that 30 reactors have already been modified or shut down with the understanding that they would not reopen until work was completed. An official for the commission said the deadline amounted to a one-month extension of the original deadline of Jan. 1.

Both Rancho Seco and San Onofre were listed in special categories that allowed exemptions beyond the Jan. said the utility was prepared to shut 31 deadline. Rancho Seco could qualify because of difficulty in obtaining the necessary equipment for the safety modifications, an official of the utility district said.

San Onofre was expected to get a deadline extension if utility officials could determine that the plant's power was needed to meet demands throughout the West Coast, including the Pacific Northwest. It would take about three weeks to make the modifications, an Edison spokesman said in a telephone interview from Los An-
