Primitive weapons wreak havoc

Reporters see destruction in New Mexico prison

By S.J. GUFFEY Associated Press Writer

SANTA FE (AP) - Inmates who seized the New Mexico State Penitentiary over the weekend didn't have firearms. But the destruction reporters saw after the holdout left no doubt that human rage can wreak havoc with primitive weapons.

About 75 reporters and photographers toured the riot-torn prison Monday with Warden Jerry Griffin. I was

Inside the door, the magnitude of the 36-hour seige became apparent. It was was worse than anyone had thought possible. Although the inmates didn't have guns, they did have blowtorches. baseball bats, billyclubs seized from guards, flammable liquids from the cleaning supplies, knives and axehan-

Inmates used all of them to raze the buildings and to kill and mutilate fellow prisoners. Cell 23 was spattered with blood along one wall, although the mattress remained intact. Most of the mattresses in the prison had been burned. Next door, nothing was out of place, but we were told the occupant died on the blackened mattress. Inmates had locked themselves in Cell 24 and several others in an attempt to escape the carnage. It didn't do any good. Other inmates sprayed them through the bars with flammable liquid and set them on fire.

In No. 69, there was a pool of thickening blood on the floor. You could see that someone had been attacked there, dragged from the toilet through the door and apparently pushed over the railing, to land two stories down. Parts of cellblocks were undamaged. The bunk in cell 10, cellblock 4, was properly made, the blanket tucked around the mattress. It looked as if it didn't belong in the building. That cell attracted as much attention as the devastation that surround"I wonder whose this was," one cleanup reporter said. The library also was untouched aside from broken glass on the top of the library. the door and some trickles of water coming through the walls. Row after row of books were stacked neatly on shelves. In the study carrels, chairs were on still on top of desks where they had been placed Friday night for

Some inmates will be moved to Texas facility

. BASTROP, Texas (AP) — Some of the 1,100 New Mexico state prison inmates displaced by a weekend riot are coming to Texas, federal officials

Monday, the federal prison system ordered the Federal Correctional Institution here and the U.S. Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., to receive 400 of the New Mexico state prisoners for "temporary care and custody," said information officer Beeler Gausz at Bastrop.

The Bastrop facility is a medium-security prison for young male offenders, age 18 to 25, and is currently less than half-full. "Bastrop ... was selected because of ... the availability of space," Gausz said. The facility was built to house 472 inmates, and currently holds 228, Gausz said the prisoners are to arrive late today, but did not say how many of the inmates would be sent here. Meanwhile at the prison, fires still burning in the prison gymnasium oday blocked searchers hunting for more bodies in the ravaged New Mexico State Penitentiary where at least 35 inmates died, many the victims of inhuman atrocities.

Prosecutors, in the meantime, said they will seek the stiffest possible penalties for up to 100 inmates believed responsible for the weekend riot, the most savage in modern history in this country.

State Police Maj. Charlie Anaya said portions of the roof collapsed in the still-burning gym and added "it's doubtful" authorities would be able to get inside today. Officials expect to find at least three more bodies in the gym which reportedly was used as a torture chamber during the 36 hours of carnage Saturday and Sunday.

Meanwhile, other states and the federal government opened the doors of their security facilities to house some of the more than 1,000 inmates left without shelter as the 23-year-old state prison was reduced to near-ruin by flames and violence. Federal officials said prisons in Texas and Kansas could be ready to house New Mexico inmates today, and Arizona, Colorado, Oklahoma and Nevada offered help. Space for 570 was offered, but Gov. Bruce King said there may be room for as many as 900 within the state.

Joanne Brown, administrative assistant to the director of corrections, said only about 300 inmates will be able to remain in what is left of New Mexico's only maximum-security facility.

sure the damage couldn't be re-

It looked like the prisoners' hatred was directed at certain areas. The warden pointed out the gutted offices of the deputy wardens of operations and programs.

"They didn't like them very much, did they?" a reporter asked. Griffin replied, "You should see what they did to my office." Later, we did. It looked like a bomb had gone off inside.

The office had been set afire. Furnishings and records were completely destroyed.

The door was one large piece of charcoal with the doorknob still in place. In spots along the corridors, the mesh-reinforced concrete walls had been pounded and bent in. The heavy iron-barred door at the visitors' room was still shut, but a large section of the thick wall next to it had been torn away

Inmates had ripped out plumbing fixtures, covering the floor with murky water that was ankle deep in some places. Thick plate glass lay in shards everywhere in the main reception area. The vending machines were damaged and empty. The smell of smoke still lingered, but it was not as stong as we had expected. The air inside was fairly clear because smoke had escaped through the broken doors and win-

I just kept wondering what it was like to be a prisoner who didn't want to participate and to be here when this was happening.

One of the two prison instructors serving as escorts for the reporters asked the other as we were all walking out, "Did you ever read 'The Human Zoo?' by Desmond Morris? It talks about overcrowding like this and what it does to people.

And as we all left, we hardly heard the comments of prisoners who were shouting at us from along the fence. We just wanted out of there.

in Afghanistan launched a stepped-up series of attacks coinciding with the visit of U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski to neighboring Pakistan, Tass reported

In a dispatch from Kabul, the Soviet news agency said the round of rebel attacks occurred in Afghanistan's Nangarhar, Badakhshan and Paktia provinces.

Throughout a number of areas of Nangarhar Province, bordering on Pakistan, "bandits cruelly slew peaceful people, burned down several schools, blew up bridges and roads,'

It said units of the Afghan army have started liquidating the gangs.

Also, Tass said, "units of the Afghan army routed a well-armed gang that was operating in Badakhshan. Another gang is now being liquidated

The report quoted an Afghan Interior Ministry spokesman as noting that the timing of the attacks coincided with Brzezinski's trip to Pakistan.

Brzezinski left Pakistan Monday for two days of talks in Saudi Ara-Reports from Tokyo say a Soviet

About 30 Soviet vessels, 10 of them cruisers, destroyers or submarines, already are stationed in the Indian Ocean, the agency said. The United States has roughly the same number of ships in the region.

based in Vladivostok. Refugees from Afghanistan report Afghan troops led by Soviet advisers massacred more than 1,000 men last year in a village accused of collaborating with the Moslem guerrillas.

The refugees' reports were relayed by Edward Girardet of the Christian Science Monitor and Nicholas Profitt of Newsweek, writing from the border between Afghanistan and Pakistan. They gave this account:

Last April 20, 30 Soviet-made tanks encircled Kerala, a town of 5,000 in eastern Afghanistan about 40 miles from the Pakistani border, and 200 Afghan troops and police with 20 Soviet advisers entered the town. The Afghan commander ordered all of the men to assemble in a field for a jirga, or powwow.

"The people went to the jirga unarmed to talk," said Abdul Latif, the deputy superintendent of the local police. "One does not take arms to a jirga. It would be an insult.

Ali patches up tiff with the president

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Presidential env. Muhammad Ali patched up his differences with President Carter today, then went off to Nairobi National Park to square off against wild animals.

The former heavyweight champion, who on Monday accused Carter of having put him "on the spot" by sending him to Africa to drum up support for a boycott of the Moscow Olympic Games, today blamed State Department advisers for the misunderstanding and said: "Now we have straightened the whole thing out."

"I am in 100 percent agreement with President Carter. President Carter's purpose is right," Ali told reporters after meeting Kenyan sports officials. "President Carter did not put me on the spot.'

He said the "people who came (with me) from Washington" did not tell him about African complaints about U.S. policy toward South Africa and got me in a position where I had to defend myself."

That done, Ali drove off to the 44square-mile wild animal preserve on the edge of Nairobi. "I want to challenge a gorilla today or a iion," Ali told reporters who drove behind him along the park's dusty trails. "If I hit it hard with a right hand, I'll knock it out. "I defeated all the men on the planet. Now I'm out to conquer all the animals and monsters. I'll be the universal champion.

"I am looking for baboons and bears. I can't find any competition in the ring.' There are no baboons in the park and bears are not native to tropical Africa, but Ali saw a rhinoceros, lots of antelopes, giraffes and zebras during a 45-minute drive.

Despite rules against tourists leaving their cars in the park, Ali's vehicle stopped twice, and the retired champ charged out onto the African plain, chasing antelope and zebra on

"They got away," Ali said as the frightened animals ran off. "If I could only have hit them with a right

Ali's mission to drum up black African support for the boycott because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan got off to a shaky start Sunday when reporters in Tanzania pressed him about U.S. dealings with white minority-ruled South Africa.

Ali said Monday that he would not have accepted Carter's African assignment if he had known more about U.S.-South African relations, and he accused Carter of sending him on a tour to "take the whipping" over U.S. He said then he was continuing his five-nation tour only because he opposed Soviet actions in Afghanistan and because he feared nuclear war if someone didn't stand up to the Soviet Ali called the United States and

Soviet Union the "baddest two white men in history" and said, "If these two white men start fighting, all us little black folks are going to be caught in the middle."

Carter administration officials admitted in Washington Monday that Ali's outspokenness had given them "a little heartburn," and none offered to take personal responsibility for the idea of dispatching the ex-champ on

A rash of last-day filings Monday filled out the ballots on nine Midland County races going before voters in the May 3 party primaries. Republican Party Chairman Bill Shaner, noting this might be the largest Republican slate ever offered in Midland County, said he was pleased with the candidate turnout in both parties. "We have a respectable number of people who've decided to offer themselves for public service in both parties," he added. "And that's the way it's supposed to work in a two-good year for both parties."

Retired teacher announces he'll seek Precinct 3 post

C. DeWayne Davis, 60, longtime Midland County resident and retired government teacher at Midland High School, has announced his intention to seek the position of County Commissioner, Precinct 3, in the Midland County Democratic Primary. He will face incumbent Jack Leonard for the Democratic nomination. Davis said he had no "beef" against anyone. "I have nothing to offer but full time to this job, my constituents and the county in the interest of the county as a whole," he said. He also said he was concerned about redistricting of voting precincts so as to be contiguous, insuring a "one man-one vote" growth pattern. Davis said, as county commissioner, he would hope to be able to compromise, to be a good listener, to be understanding and to be cooperative with all political subdivisions.

Prior to entering the teaching profession, Davis served as manager of chambers of commerce in Tulia, Lamesa, Sherman and Grand Prairie. He also served as manager of the Agriculture and Livestock Division of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Abilene. He received his start in the chamber of commerce field in Midland as assistant manager of the Midland Chamber of Com-

Davis is a member of the First Baptist Church, is a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the Woods W. Lynch No. 19 American Legion. He served four years in the South Pacific with the Navy during World War II. He is married to the former Dorothy Hamilton and has a daughter, Mrs. Gary N. Selby of Midland, and a son, C. DeWayne Davis Jr., who is presently serving in the Marine Corps and stationed at Norfolk, Va.

Cities add charges of robbery

The cities of Dallas and Friendswood, near Houston, have added charges of aggravated robbery to those of attempted capital murder on a peace officer filed against three men who led Midland police and sheriff's deputies on a shooting spree and high speed chase Saturday.

Following the chase, a search of the men's car revealed numerous watches, rings, loose diamonds, gold and silver coins and at least two pistols. One of the pistols was identified Saturday as having been stolen from Friendswood, and was believed to have been involved in an armed robbery there.

Monday afternoon, a group from Dallas, including a jeweler, flew into Midland and identified the jewelry as having been taken from a Dallas store during a daylight armed robbery.

During that robbery, three armed men wearing ski masks reportedly entered the store, forced the store employees to lie down on the floor and then stole a quantity of jewelry. One of the stolen watches, which was recovered by Midland police, was val-

They also identified a ski mask and jumpsuit found in the car as having been worn during the robbery

Midland police became involved Saturday morning during an attempt to stop a car which had been reported stolen. Officer Ron Gray spotted the car and stopped it at Big Spring and Oak streets. As he approached the vehicle, the occupants began shooting at him and then fled. The chase, during which shots were fired, ran "all through the east side of Midland," according to officers. At the Pecan Grove Trailer Park, 41/2 miles east of Midland, the men switched cars. As they were leaving the trailer park, deputies overtook them.

The men fired at the deputies. One of the deputies shot back with a shotgun, at which time the vehicle pulled over and stopped.

Johnny Darwin Eads, 38, of Irving; Reese Bernard Ray, 43, of Houston; and Ray Edward Hines, 50, of Woodlands, a suburb of Houston, are in Midland County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bond each on the attempted murder charges. The city is expected to file similar charges Wednesday.

Gas dealer claims high price 'logical'

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

BOSTON (AP) - As other dealers cheered, a service station operator the first in the nation to be prosecuted for price gouging - said it was "logical, rational and absolutely ethical" to charge $1.57 a gallon during last summer's gasoline shortage. Glenn Heller, operator of Beacon

Hill Gulf, was sentenced Monday in U.S. District Court to one month behind bars. In an impassioned speech to the judge, Heller said small-time operators are being squeezed out of business by federal regulators and greedy oil companies. While about 50 fellow service station operators cheered, Heller decried "the existence of draconian dealer price controls allied with a Byzantine Department of Energy walking arm in arm with the seven largest industrial corporations that this earth has ever seen.

Heller, convicted last month on 27 counts of overcharging, was ordered by Judge Rya Zobel to pay a $9,450 fine and spend 30 days in prison followed by an 11-month suspended sentence. He was released on bail pending appeal.

The judge said Heller, 30, was the first service station operator to be prosecuted for price gouging. Heller was indicted Aug. 1, 1979, for charging in June up to $1.57 for a gallon of unleaded gas - 66 cents above the nationwide average.

Heller argued he needed to charge more than the legal maximum to pay his $1,200-a-month rent on his one-island service station. He said he raised prices to dampen demand so he could keep his station open around the

"Using price as a valve to control flow of product during times of panic buying is a logical, rational and absolutely ethical response to the unchallengeable laws of economics," Heller

"The retail gasoline dealer, the little guy at the corner filling station, is surprisingly the only businessman in the United States today who has a federally regulated margin of profit that is destined to put him into bankruptcy," Heller said.

He maintained that big oil companies are squeezing out operators of company-owned stations by increasing their rents as much as 500 percent. The purpose, he said, is to replace them with a few big, profitable stations operated by the companies.

"In 10 years, you look to see how many of your friendly neighborhood service stations are left," he said. You won't see any. They will have all been replaced by big companyoperated pumpers.

At swearing in, Iran's president pledges an end to corruption

By The Associated Press

Abolhassan Bani Sadr, sworn in as Iran's first president by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, pledged to do away with corruption but made no mention of the U.S. hostages who began their 94th day of captivity

However, the militants holding the captives repeated their demand that the shah be returned before the hostages can be released. They also said a 50-member U.S. group arriving Wednesday on a private, one-week visit agreed not to discuss the hostages but to concentrate on learning about the Iranian revolution.

Bani Sadr took the oath of office Monday in a televised ceremony at the Tehran hospital where the 79-year-old Khomeini is recuperating from a heart attack

He said he would work to rid Iran of hundreds of years of corruption resulting from successive monarchial regimes. The last one, headed by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, was ousted by Khomeini's revolution a year ago.

"We are facing great difficulties. but I am sure that we will overcome them thanks to the powerful will of our nation," the 46-year-old president said.

Bani Sadr officially became president when Khomeini handed him the presidential decree. He is expected to choose a cabinet after parliamentary elections in about a month.

Bani Sadr's opponents in the ruling Revolutionary Council did not want him sworn in until after the elections, but his installation by Khomeini showed he had more clout than they

"I ask Mr. Bani Sadr to remain humble and his morality not be changed by serving as president," said Khomeini, Iran's Shiite Moslem patriarch. "I pray to God to protect all of us from tending towards the East or the West.'

Khomeini said he would endorse and support Bani Sadr as long as he follows the sacred principles of Islam, abides by the constitution and helps the poor and the oppressed.

The presidential term is four years, but the new Islamic constitution confers supreme power for life on Khomeini, and he can dismiss the president any time he wants to. Bani Sadr was ousted as foreign minister two months ago for taking too moderate an approach to the hostage crisis.

Over the weekend he indicated that the U.S. government must help Iran get the shah back for trial before the approximately 50 hostages, seized at the U.S. Embassy Nov. 4, are freed.

Cafeteria employees join teachers in strike against Chicago schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Principals and non-striking employees were left to cook today for poor children as cafeteria workers joined a teacher's strike that teacher's union officials said would continue despite a judge's back-to-work order.

"I don't think anyone can possibly feel children should be prevented from entering school to get lunch." acting Schools Superintendent Angeline Caruso said. "We have children in this city that would be hungry unless they get a meal in school."

Meanwhile, the head of the Chicago Fire Fighters Union accused city negotiators of "dragging their feet" and renewed a strike threat that had eased over the weekend.

Teachers, unhappy with a decision to eliminate 1,600 jobs, struck Monday after a week-long boycott that began when administrators, caught in a financial bind, failed to send out paychecks on time.

Within hours of the walkout, Circuit Judge Richard L. Curry issued a temporary restraining order in response to a suit filed by the Board of Education. Municipal employees are prohibited from striking under Illinois

But Robert Healey, Chicago Teachers Union president, said he was "ordering all members to honor (Sun-day's strike) vote." He urged teachers to defy the court order. Lunchroom employees worked Monday, but John O'Gara, president of Local 126 of the School Luncheon Employees Union, told the CTU he would urge his 4,000 members to honor teachers' picket lines today, the teachers union said Meanwhile, the CTU filed its own suit Monday to prevent the Chicago School Finance Authority from making budget-cutting decisions without consulting the union. Curry set a Feb. 13 hearing on that suit.

More than 473,000 students were forced to stay home as teachers walked picket lines at more than half the 579 public school buildings and at the school board's downtown head-

'Black Tuna' sentences expected

By RICK SPRATLING

MIAMI (AP) - Eight men who once counted cash in millions and sported gold "Black Tuna" medallions as badges of honor face terms ranging up to life in prison for their roles in a drug smuggling operation that investigators said accounted for 8 percent of the nation's marijuana All were found guilty by a federal court jury Monday, ending a 4½-month trial surrounded by intrigue: The judge finished the case under a reported death threat, two defendants skipped town, one juror had a heart attack and another was accused of selling an acquittal vote for $3,000. Under the cold stare of a stuffed swordfish hung as a government exhibit, jurors announced convictions on a total of 55 counts, including three under federal rackets statutes that could mean life terms.

U.S. District Judge James Lawrence King, who shrugged off an earlier death threat as "part of a trial judge's life these days," is expected to begin the sentencing process late this month.

Robert Jay Meinster, 38, and Robert Elliot Platshorn, 37, the business-men accused of masterminding the smuggling of 1 million pounds of marijuana, were convicted of a "continuing criminal enterprise." The offense carries a term of 10 years to life.

The two, from both Philadelphia and Miami Beach, could be fined a total of nearly $600,000. They also were convicted of racketeering, conspiracy and a variety of counts ranging from marijuana possession to illegal use of the telephone. Meinster was found innocent of two counts of marijuana possession and distribution, and Platshorn was acquitted of a charge of kidnap conspiracy. He also was found innocent of a charge he tried to help an attempt to import cocaine. Eugene Arter Myers, 40, a Tampa seafood importer, also was convicted under the criminal enterprise statute and could be sentenced to life and fined up to $240,000.

The case began in 1974, when Meinster and Platshorn linked up on a deal in Milwaukee, a grand jury said. Investigators said the pair moved to Florida and built such a successful organization that they were awash in money. The FBI first detected the ring through a special task force set up to monitor huge amounts of cash being laundered through Miami

On the other end of the chain, a grand jury said, was the "Black Tuna," the radio code name for Raul Davila-Jimeno, a 32-year-old Colombian accused of being the main supplier. "Black Tuna" also was symbolized on medallions minted from gold for gang members who brought home a load of marijuana, prosecutors said.

Davila-Jimeno has never been arrested. Also missing Monday were Carl Jerry London, 38, a former mayor of Clarkesville, Ga., and Mark Stephen Phillips, 31, a former Fort Lauderdale yacht executive. Both fled during the trial but were convicted anyway - London of conspiracy and perjury, Phillips of conspiracy, racketeering, attempt to import and other counts.

Four others named in the original indictment have bargained pleas and await sentencing. A fifth is to be tried

Odessa police arrest three, recover much stolen property

ODESSA - Odessa police say they've recovered $20,000 to $60,000 in valuables allegedly stolen from residences here since Christmas and arrested three Odessa men in connection with the alleged burglaries. The police department, acting on information provided by an informant and the department's patrol division, launched the recovery effort early Sunday morning and continued Monday and today. According to detective Dave King, officers have recovered jewelry, coins, televisions, stereos and "just about anything you'd find in a person's house." The items are believed to have been taken from 11 Odessa residences burglarized since Christmas and in at least one Ector County burglary. Three men were arrested Sunday morning at Odessa residences and charged in connection with the burglaries, King said. They are James Bell, Wade Randall Reynolds and Shannon James Lewis, all in their early 20s and residents of Odessa, King said.

The men were charged with one count each of burglary of a habitation before Peace Justice Virgil Lumpee, who set bond at $20,000 each. The men remained in Odessa City Jail early today in lieu of bond.

The men were arrested when police served search warrants at residences in Odessa Sunday morning, King

Chevron energy report:

ln 1979, Chevron made a nickel on a sales dollar.

most people think we made ten times that much.

A recent independent nationwide survey found that people believe, on the average, that oil company profits are about 57¢ on each sales dollar. That just isn't the case.

Actually, Chevron's 1979 profit on each dollar of U.S. petroleum sales was 5.1¢-about a nickel. Worldwide it was 5.3¢. (This compares to a 9-month average of 5.6¢ for all other major U.S. industries.)

Part of Chevron's profit, of course, went back to our shareholders. The remaining profit and other cash from operations provided the funds for Chevron's expenditures in such areas as exploration and development of oil and gas fields, refineries, and transportation facilities.

In the U.S., these Chevron expenditures were equivalent to 10.7¢ per dollar of U.S. petroleum sales, more than double our U.S. profit.

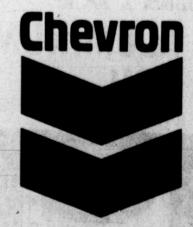

Thank you for listening.

GM says earnings fell 18 percent during 1979

DETROIT (AP) - The nation's biggest automaker says it earned 18 percent less last year than it did the Profits at General Motors Corp. totaled $2.89 billion, or $10.04 per share, for 1979, against $3.51 billion, or $12.24 per share, in 1978, the company said Monday. For the fourth quarter, profits fell 58 percent, from $1 billion, or $3.51 per share, to $426 million or, $1.46

Directors declared a dividend of $1.15 per share on common stock, the same amount paid in the three previous quarters, payable March 10 to shareholders on the books Feb. 14

Though revenues for the year rose 4.9 percent from $63.2 billion to $66.3 billion, fourth-quarter revenues fell 9.2 percent from $17.7 billion to $16.1 billion. It was GM's fourth-best year for profits and third-best for sales. GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy and President Elliott M. Estes said in the earnings statement that 'lower unit volume and a less favorable product mix" accounted for $1.90 of the $2.20 decline in per-share profits — in other words, fewer and less profitable cars and trucks. They attributed the rest of the decline to higher costs that could not be recovered in prices, the costs of plant shutdowns to hold down inventories and the dealer incentives necessary to move inventories.

The two executives said they refused to be discouraged by the current sales slump, inflation and energy problems, because the 11970s began "with similar concerns. It became nonetheless a decade of significant achievement."

Worldwide vehicle sales at wholesale fell 5 percent for the year to 8.99 million from 9.48 million. The decline was 6.3 percent in the United States and 2.2 percent elsewhere.

GM said 79 percent of last year's profits came from the U.S. compared with 87 percent the year before. That indicates U.S. profits fell 25 percent from $3.1 billion to $2.29 billion, while profits overseas, including Canada, rose 33 percent from about $456 million to about $608 million.

A similar breakdown was not given for the fourth

The higher profits on smaller sales overseas indicated to Arvid Jouppi, head of research for the brokerage firm of John Muir & Co., that "GM is really going after Ford overseas and basically conducting a high-level holding operation here."

GM said its profit margin on sales fell from 5.5 percent to 4.4 percent, which Jouppi called "unsatisfactory. When it falls below 5 percent, GM gets mean and nasty. We can look for them to be trying to get the prices of their small cars up.'

GM was the second U.S. automaker to report fourth-quarter results. Earlier, American Motors Corp. said its profits fell 32 percent to $12.8 million for the quarter.
Ford Motor Co. probably will lose money for the quarter and Chrysler Corp. will report a massive The report put GM squarely in second place in the nation's rank of large companies. Exxon earlier reported sales of $84 billion. GM said its return on stockholders' investment was 15.1 percent for the year, the first time it has fallen below 20 percent since a 9.6 percent return was earned in the recession year of 1975.

Floating like the proverbial butterfly and stinging like a bee with his remarks, Muhammad Ali continued his suddenly controversial tour of Africa today.

U.S. State Department officials say, in fact, that Ali's recent acerbic statements "are giving us a little heartburn."

The well-known boxer, on a five-nation tour of Africa theoretically to drum up support for President Carter's stand against the Moscow Olympics this summer, was anything but diplomatic Monday in Nairobi, Kenya, when he called the United States and Russia "the baddest two white men in history.'

Saudi Arabia may cut oil price

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) - Saudi Arabia, producer of nearly one-third of OPEC's oil, reportedly may cut prices or increase its output to slow a price spiral it started with a $2-a-barrel increase last week

The report in the Middle East Economic Survey came Monday as Nigeria, Algeria and Indonesia, suppliers of 11 percent of U.S. oil needs, raised crude oil prices by up to $4.21 per 42-gallon barrel.

The moves brought to nine the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries members following last week's Saudi increase, which was billed as a move to stabilize conditions in the 13-nation cartel.

A barrel of Algerian crude oil, now OPEC's most expensive grade, went to $37.21 from $33 in early January and $26.27 in November. Nigerian oil rose from $30 to $34.21 a barrel, and Indonesian oil climbed

Other nations' oil rose by $2 to $2.50 a barrel, to $28 to

The economic survey said in Nicosia, Cyprus, that Saudi Arabia was "extremely disturbed and disappointed" by the increases, which when added to the Saudis' action could add 2.5 to 3 cents a gallon to U.S. retail gasoline and heating oil prices.

The influential newsletter, quoting an unidentified Saudi source, said some OPEC members "have shown that their only target is to push the price of oil upwards regardless of any harmful consequences."

The source also was quoted as saying, "Saudi Arabia might either reduce its price," which at $26 a barrel is the lowest in the cartel, "or considerably increase the level of production over and above the current level" of 9.5 million barrels a day.

'Politics would dictate (the Saudis) not starving the world at a time when Russian tanks are threatening the Middle East oilfields," said Theodore R. Eck, chief economist of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

"If Saudi Arabia continues above 9 million barrels a day, my guess is that it will be very difficult for OPEC to effect additional increases," Eck said.

The Saudis have been price-increase "doves" at OPEC meetings, trying to hold the line to prevent severe economic shocks that could plunge the industrialized world into a deep recession. Much of the Saudi's oil wealth has been reinvested in U.S. and Western European industry, real estate and securities.

An industry source in New York, who asked to be quoted anonymously, said some observers believe the Saudis could boost their output to 10.3 million or 10.4 million barrels a day "for three or four months" if they

But a U.S. government source, who also asked not to be identified, said Washington officials believe the Saudis "probably wouldn't be able to sustain any production increase.

At the Saudi Arabian embassy in Washington, spokesman Hassan Yassin said, "I personally don't know" of any production or price changes. Saudi Arabia supplies 7.4 percent of U.S. oil needs. The United States imports half its oil.

The Jan. 28 Saudi boost followed a $6 increase in Dectmber and left the price of Saudi oil 95 percent above the $13.34 price of January 1979.

The latest move had been seen as an attempt to bring Saudi Arabian prices closer to those of other cartel members and to restore a unified price system in the Many OPEC members for several months have been asking whatever they can get for their oil, rather than adhering to the traditional cartel price list that in the past was based on Saudi charges.

sharp increase in supplies of diesel fuel, heating oil and jet turbine fuel, and a moderate increase in gasoline supplies have been reported by Phillips Petroleum Co.

Phillips' fuel supplies were cut sharply after a series of explosions and fires knocked out the company's second-largest refinery at Borger, Texas, on Jan. 20.

The company, one of the largest fuel suppliers in Missouri and Kansas, cut gasoline allocations from 70 percent to 50 percent, and reduced from 95 percent to 70 percent its allocations of middle distillates, which include diesel fuel, jet fuel, heating oil and related products.

Phillips also halted sales of aviation gasoline, the fuel used by small, piston-driven aircraft.

The company said Saturday that it will increase gasoline allocations from 50 percent to 60 percent through February. The firm also announced -allocations of all middle distillates except jet fuel will be hiked from 70 percent to 95 percent. Mass transit systems will continue to receive a 100 percent allocation because they're considered priority customers under federal regulations

-jet fuel allocations will rise from 70 percent to 90 percent.

State Department reports on worldwide human rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department, analyzing human rights around the globe, reported today that Cambodia, Vietnam and North Korea were among the most violently repressive countries in the world.

The 154-nation study said conditions generally have improved in Africa and Latin America. But it was sharply critical of the Soviet Union, estimating the number of poltical prisoners at between 2,000 and 10,000 and stating that the regime "recognizes no right to any opinion or behavior it chooses to regard as

Although torture in the Soviet Union is "less prevalent" than before, the report said Soviet prosecutors have not failed to convict prisoners accused of political crimes in the 62-year history of the revolution.

In summary, the report said, "impressive strides" were taken in 1979 in the building of international institutions for protecting human rights.

The study cited as one example a call by African nations for a permanent Pan-Afrian human rights body as well as the new American Convention on human rights, which sets forth standards for members of the Organization of Among non-communist countries, the report was perhaps most critical of South Africa where, it said, the non-white majority "suffers pervasive discrimination in all areas of life; their basic human rights are systematically The annual report previously was limited to analyses of recipients of U.S. military and economic aid but this year was broadened to include all countries.

The report is mandated each year under a provision of the Foreign Assistance China, the report said, has a mixed record. There has been "movement in the direction of greater freedoms" in the years since the death of Mao Tse-tung, including a livelier press, a formal legal system and some tolerance of

"But reforms have not yet broken the entrenched patterns of harassment, arbitrary arrest and harsh punishment for political dissent," the department

In Eastern Europe, the report said East Germans are "tightly controlled" in all aspects of their lives while in Czechoslovakia, "overt opposition in any field is punished." On the other hand, the regimes in Hungary and Poland were said to be more tolerant of dissent than some of their communist neighbors.

Outside the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact group, communist Albania was found to be "marked by xenophobia, a harsh brand of Marxism, militant atheism and a singular and abiding respect for Joseph Stalin.'

Many of the country-by-country reports refrain from passing judgment. For the most part, objective accounts provided by human rights groups and other sources are outlined without comment. Occasionally, however, the State Department draws its own subjective

As an example, the report stated flatly that "nowhere in the world are human rights more beleaguered than in Cambodia." In the areas of Cambodia under the control of Vietnamese occupation troops, the report said, "the conditions of life regressed to a level of suffering" reminiscent of the Khmer

Smith County police mystified in 64-year-old woman's death

OWENTOWN, Texas (AP) - Smith County Sheriff's deputies today were trying to determine why a 64-year-old woman was shot to death as she stood back of her rural home here.

Annette Elizabeth Warren was hanging out clothes to dry when a single .22-caliber rifle shot struck her in the chest Monday, investigators said. Mrs. Warren staggered to the porch of her home where her husband, B.J. Warren, helped her inside and ran for help. Mrs. Warren was dead when authorities arrived

According to police, they received a call to investigate a "suspicious person" in the park. On the officer's arrival, he said he saw a man in a corner of the park breathing into a plastic bag. As he approached, the man grabbed a child and attempted to use him as a shield and fondling him at the same time, police reports said.
