Firemen 'lawbreakers'

Chicago mayor takes hard line

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane Byrne and the firefighters union have taken hard-line positions in a strike that has left a makeshift corps of officers, trainees and suburban companies guarding more than three million persons against mid-winter

'They're lawbreakers, and I won't have anyone sitting down with them,' Mrs. Byrne said Thursday, refusing to consider the resumption of contract talks until the firefighters return to

"There is a little macho, ... you know, male chauvinism in this," she said. "They do it hoping that a woman will get hysterical and strike out and do certain things. It won't work with

Chicago Fire Fighters Union leaders defied Judge John Hechinger's temporary back-to-work order and said they would continue to do so.

The city put pressure on the strikers in other ways, canceling medical insurance payments, threatening to begin disciplinary proceedings today that could lead to firings, demotions or transfers and stepping up plans to hire 250 firefighters by March 1.

The strike, the first by firefighters in the nation's second-largest city, began before dawn Thursday.

There were no major fires Thursday, although a non-striking lieutenant was credited with saving the life of an elderly man whose heart stopped because of smoke inhala-

Non-striking firefighters joined su-pervisors, Chicago Fire Academy cadets, other city workers and, at times, suburban departments in providing protection. Mrs. Byrne said she would not hesitate to call on the National Guard or suburban departments, but had no immediate plans to

There are about 4,350 uniformed firefighters and 1,000 supervisory personnel. The union claims 97 percent of the firefighters walked off the job, but Mrs. Byrne said up to 1,500 had reported for duty. The firefighters, who always worked under a handshake agreement, are negotiating their first contract.

The key issue is a no-strike clause. The city insists that contract disputes go to binding arbitration. The firefighters want the right to strike after contract expires.

The union wants six firefighters on all trucks, and the city has offered five-man crews. The union also wants to represent all supervisors except the commissioner and a top aide, but the city wants to exclude supervisory personnel from the union. The union wants an additional 4 percent in raises, on top of the 6 percent provided in the city's 1980 budget. Pay, however, was not considered a major stumbling block.

The strike was the city's third public employees walkout this winter. It came three days after school teachers ended a two-week walkout to protest layoffs and delayed paychecks.

Bani-Sadr says Iran could free hostages in 48 hours, if...

By The Associated Press

Iranian President Abdolhassan Bani-Sadr said the American hostages could be freed "in a matter of 48 hours" if President Carter accepts his conditions. But Carter said he doesn't expect the issue to be resolved before the New Hampshire primary Feb.

Meanwhile, Edmund Louis Petitti, a Paris lawyer involved in the hostage negotiations, told the French news agency, Agence France Presse, that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was about to announce the makeup of a commission to investigate charges against the shah. Waldheim had no immediate comment.

But Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh also expressed optimism on the formation of the commission. He said he expected it to be set up this week to investigate the regime's charges against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi as a step toward freeing the approximately 50 hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, who began their 104th day in captivity today.

I would say as soon as the process place that the problem of the hostages would be resolved," Ghotbzadeh

Bani-Sadr, asked if the U.N. panel would convene in Iran, told reporters in Tehran Thursday, 'They are waiting for me to make that announcement but I am waiting to see if the U.S. will accept our conditions.

He reiterated his three demands on the United States for release of the hostages: acknowledgement of alleged U.S. crimes against the Iranian people during the shah's reign; a pledge not to meddle in Iranian af-

Dismissing speculation the hos-tages could be freed by the weekend, Carter said he did not expect their release before the New Hampshire the Boston Herald American, Carter

"I don't have any indication at all that we will have a resolution of the hostage issue that soon."

He called the hostage-holding a "burning issue," and said, "...it is impossible for me to revert to business as usual as an active campaigner as long as the hostages are being held." Carter's chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, accused administration offi-cials of misusing their offices in the campaign.

White House spokesman Jody Powell chided the news media for "running a little rapidly" on the evolving compromise over the hostages. "Everbody is considerably ahead of this process."

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter told a news briefing, "We are going to have to see some more definiton" of Iranian demands. But administration officials refused to reveal details of negotiations over the U.S.-Iran dispute.

Tito not expected to survive illness

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) Yugoslav officials are giving public signals they do not expect 87-year-old President Josip Broz Tito to survive the heart and kidney problems that cropped up following the amputation of his left leg last month, even though his condition was reported somewhat

"A certain improvement in the overall health condition of the president..., which came about in the morning hours on the 14th of this month, continues to hold," the latest medical bulletin said. "Intensive medical measures are being taken toward maintaining and stabilizing the tendency."

Tito was reported in critical condition Wednesday and no improvement was reported on Thursday. Usually reliable sources insisted Tito remained conscious and aware of his surroundings. But unconfirmed reports claimed he had lapsed into a coma and could die shortly.

Subdued music is being played on Belgrade Radio and diplomats said tree plantings had begun on a street over which foreign dignitaries presumably would drive in the event of Tito's death.

They also said there had been increased activity recently around the Defense Ministry building in Bel-Belgrade's influential newspaper Politika gave front-page display today to President Carter's promise to consider "any kind of aid" Yugoslavia requested.

The pledge was made in a White House news conference Wednesday. Reporters raised the issue of sending American troops to defend Yugoslavia from the Warsaw pact, but Carter avoided a direct answer.

Tito, who has run Yugoslavia since the end of World War II, pioneered his own maverick brand of communist rule after breaking with the Stalinist Kremlin in 1948.

There has often been speculation that the Soviets might try to reasser control over Yugoslavia after Tito's death, but both Yugoslav officials and Western experts have been discount? ing prospects of any Soviet-bloc military move against the eastern European nation.

Yugoslav officials have, however, returned to the military rhetoric which marked the earlier days of Tito's hospitalization, before the relapse late last week that ended what appeared to be a swift recovery from the amputation.

A weekly publication of the Yugoslav army noted that the country's armed forces had always won out against "outside pressures or against opponents of Yugoslavia's development."

In a military system largely designed to repel invasion by the Sovietbloc Warsaw Pact, the military weekly said every Yugoslav soldier "is convinced that defense of the country against any aggressor would be successful."

Because of Tito's worsening condition, Premier Veselin Djuranovic cut short a visit to East Germany and returned Thursday to Belgrade, while Foreign Minister Josip Vrhovec put off a trip to India and three other countries.

A movie about Tito's World War Communist partisans replaced ar evening variety show on Belgrade television, and a regularly scheduled cartoon show was scratched from its spot just before an evening news

Marine's top NCO says military needs quicker response capability

Staff Writer

America's military forces need more money, better pay, more ships and quicker response capability, according to Sgt. Major Leland Crawford, the highest ranking enlisted man in the Marine Corps.

Crawford, in Midland Thursday to address the Midland Chapter of the Marine Corps League, added in a press conference that the military does not need women in combat roles.

While he acknowledged women could play a significant role in support duties, he said he did not support drafting women or using them in combat situations. However, he added "as a sergeant major in the marine corps, I don't make a lot of rules. I enforce them. President Carter is the commander in chief of the armed forces. I am a member of the armed forces. If he says we draft women, then we draft women. More money for better weapons and better salaries is the major need Crawford saw for the military now. It is difficult to entice young men into the military when they can make higher salaries in the private sector, Crawford said. 'Recruiting today is a very hard job in all four branches of the service," he said.

While the Marine Corps has been an all-volunteer service for most of its history, he said, recruiting for Marines is particularly difficult, "because we have not lowered our standards

"We're 185,000, and I'd rather keep our load 185,000 than lower our standards and raise our numbers to 200,-000," Crawford noted The recent turmoil in the Middle East, however, has helped recruiting efforts for the military. According to local Marine recruiter Sgt. D. Hernandez, the last 30 days has been the best month in the past year for bringing young men into the corps.

"Wake this sleeping giant up," Crawford said, and the world will see a return of the patriotic, pro-military spirit prevalent during World War II. "Don't cut this younger generation short," he noted. 'Since I've been a sergeant major, the esprit de corps and pride I've seen in the young marine is just as strong as in World War II and Korea. They're anxious to go.' To get those young marines into areas where they're needed quickly, however, a system of rapid deployment must be developed and implemented, he said. More ships to get the amphibious forces deployed must be used, he said. "Whoever controls the seas, controls the world."

To be effective in a war, he noted, "we have to be able to get in there fast. But with the types of ships and aircraft we have today, we can't get in there fast."

Forecast cloudy, colder

The pleasant temperatures and fair skies of recent days in Midland will vanish tonight, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

What will greet Midlanders Saturday, the weatherman said, will be cloudy skies and colder tempera-

There is no mention of rain in the forecast issued this morning by the weather service, however.

The forecast calls for the temperature tonight to drop to near 40 and for the mercury to climb to only near 50 Saturday Winds tonight should blow out of the west at 5 to 15 mph.

Thursday's high temperature in Midland was 72 degrees, but that failed to match the record high of 86 for that date set last year.

Low this morning was 43 degrees. Record low for this date is 11 chilly degrees, set in 1951.

Monday is postal holiday

The U.S. Postal Service will operate on a holiday schedule Monday in observance of George Washington's birthday, according to Midland Postmaster D.E. Holster.

There will be no residential, business or rural delivery provided that day, he said. First class and preferential mail will be boxed for the convenience of lockbox customers, howev-

Special delivery and express mail service, including the delivery of perishables, and holiday collections will be provided as usual.

Four killed in Houston plane crash

. HOUSTON (AP) — A twin-engine private plane crashed just short of the runway as it was landing at Houston's Intercontinental Airport, killing the pilot and three members of a Corpus Christi family.

A fourth member of the family, Nan Cunningham, 26, was hospitalized in stable condition at Houston's Hermann Hospital with a concussion, broken elbow and back injuries.

"The craft was on what appeared to

The plane was on an instrument approach Thursday night, and rain and fog had cut visibility to two miles, osses of rich to boost insurance

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - People of average means will pay more for homeowners insurance because of silverware thefts from the rich unless the State Insurance Board does something, the board was told Thursday.

"Silver is at $37 an ounce. When gold was $32 an ounce it was buried at Fort Knox," said John F. Knight of Republic Insurance Co. in Dallas. Because of this, he said, burglaries of silverware are on the increase, with insurance companies paying for huge losses covered by homeowners

Leftists take bank, 500 hostages

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftists seeking control of this Central American nation have seized a bank in downtown San Salvador and local radio stations said they snared at least 500 hostages.

The militants who took over the Agricultural Development Bank late Thursday afternoon identified themselves as members of the Popular Revoluntionary Bloc, El Salvador's largest leftist alliance. They said they were demanding better loan rates for small farmers.

Witnesses said the occupation was peaceful. Reporters, often invited into occupied buildings in the past, were barred from the bank and there was no official confirmation of the hostage count. Nor was there any indication how many leftists were involved in the takeover or if they were armed.

Members of the bloc also have occupied the offices of the water and sewer administration in the capital since Wednesday, demanding better services for

A second major leftist group, the Popular Leagues of Feb. 28, or LP-28, ended its two-day occupation of the Panamanian Embassy on Thursday, but continued its 11-day-old takeover of the Spanish Embassy

Panamanian Ambassador David Perez Ramos and two other hostages were freed unharmed after the government released 23 persons in response to the group's demands. At a news conference after his release, the ambassador said the takeover was more "a form of dialogue" than an occupation.

While the leftist power struggle in the cities remained generally peaceful, there was violence in the countryside Thursday. A government spokesman said leftist guerrillas ambushed a national guard convoy near Zacatecoluca, about 42 miles west of the San Salvador. Four guerrillas died in the clash but there were no government casualties, the spokesman said.

Both the Popular Revolutionary Bloc and LP-28, which takes its name from the date of a bloody 1977 clash in the capital between government troops and leftists, are trying to install a communist government to replace the centrist civilian-military junta that seized power four months ago from a right-wing military ruler, President Carlos Humberto Romero.

Leftists said several groups would get together for a demonstration in the capital today. The centrist Christian Democratic Party, whose members fill two of the three civilian seats on the five-member ruling junta, said they hoped bring out 100,000 supporters today at a rally designed to offset the leftist rebellion. However, few observers believed the Christian Democrats could organize anywhere near that number of supporters.

In Washington, the Carter administration announced a plan Thursday to prop up the junta in El Salvador in a bid to block a communist takeover. U.S. officials said the administration was considering a $49.8 million aid package, including $5 million in military credits. Also under study was a plan to send small U.S. military training teams to held the government cope with spreading violence, the officials said

Midland County grand jury indicts four men for robbing local grocery, restaurant

The Midland County grand jury returned indictments for four counts of aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon against two men charged with the robbery of a local grocery store and a drive in restaurant.

Michael Charles Burton, 26, 1903 Nash Ave., and Julius Watson, 18, 307 E. Hickory Ave., were indicted on two counts each in connection with the Jan. 28 robberies of the J.L. & Sons Grocery and the King Bee Drive-In. In the grocery store robbery, a man wearing a blue and white ski mask entered the store, pointed a pistol at the clerk's head and told her to open the register. When she did, he removed all the cash, police said. Two masked men, one armed with a small-caliber pistol, robbed the King Bee Drive-In.

Police said the man with the pistol forced the cook to lie on the floor. The other man went behind the counter and made the cashier empty the register and safe contents into a plastic trash bag.

The grand jury also returned an indictment of indecency with a child - sexual contact against James Lloyd Farmer, 19, of the 1500 block of Colorado Avenue.

Farmer was arrested Feb. 2 in Dennis the Menace Park. According to police, they received a call to investigate a suspicious person in the park. When the officer arrived, he saw a man breathing into a plastic bag. As the officer approached, the man grabbed a child and attempted to use him as a shield and fondled him at the same time, according to police reports at the time.

Benny Earl Taylor, 23, 2700 1/2 S. Carol Ave., was indicted for burlgary of a habitation with intent to commit theft and John Bruce Mellish, 28, of Enterprise, Utah, was indicted for theft of services over $200. The grand jury also returned four sealed indictments.

American Agriculture Movement protesting again — for gasohol

WASHINGTON (AP) - The American Agriculture Movement, which angrily descended on the nation's capital last year to protest farm policy, is returning in a quieter mood to preach the gospel of gasohol.

Marvin Meek, the group's president, says farmers do not plan as raucous an event as last year when tractors snarled traffic for days and several farmers were arrested

Meek said five "small" motorcades of alcohol-fueled vehicles left their home states Monday for Washington, giving demonstrations along the way of how gasohol distilleries work. "Don't really have any idea," Meek replied when asked how many farmers were expected in Washington this year.

The motorcades are expected to start arriving Saturday and if permits are obtained, stills to demonstrate alcohol production will be built on the Capitol mall and in Lafayette Park across from the White House. Meek said most of the farmers are not expected until Sunday.

Meek, of Plainview, Texas, said that just because farmers plan to refrain from disruptive demonstrations this year does not mean they are any more satisified by the Carter administration's farm policy.

FBI to halt search for Cooper loot

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Anyone who wants to take a chance on finding some of the loot from the nation's only unsolved skyjacking should look somwhere other than the banks of the Columbia River, FBI agents say.

Jack Pringle, assistant agent in charge of the Seattle FBI office, said agents expected to halt today the search for more of the ransom that had until this week been missing since D.B. Cooper parachuted from a jet with $200,000 strapped to his waist nine years ago.

"Not a thing" was found Thursday as agents finished sifting the sands on the northern bank of the river, said Pringle.

He said any decision on extending or moving the search to other areas would not be made until early next week.

Ken Moore, the Seattle agent in charge of the digging, said the money probably was washed downstream into the Columbia, most likely from the Washougal River or from one of several smaller streams in the area in which Cooper probably landed.

"Tourists who want to look for more Cooper money probably should look on the Washougal River," Moore said.

The FBI said a geologist had concluded that several thousand dollars found Sunday by a young boy had been deposited on the Columbia River beach after comparison of serial numbers confirmed the boy's find was part of the Cooper ransom. Additional scraps of money were found on Wednesday. No trace of Cooper, the first person to hijack an airliner for money, has been

FBI agents had believed he parachuted from the plane about 20 miles northeast of where the crumbled and weathered bills were found.

Pringle said. "Because of strong wind currents and other variables, we could have been a little off in our original estimates."

The search began Tuesday three miles southwest of Vancouver after a

"There is nothing infallible about our original estimate of where he landed,"

However, Moore said it was unlikely that the bills had washed down the Lewis River and then been pushed up the Columbia by tidal action.

He said geologist Leonard Palmer of Portland State University concluded that the money hadn't reached the beach during a dredging operation in 1974 because the bills were found above clay deposits from the dredge.

The FBI plans to return the money to its owner when it determines whether the owner is the airline or Royal Globe Insurance Co. of New York, which

moderate-speed, rear-end collisions. "I was amazed that they did that based on the data," said Toms, who now heads an Indiana recreational vehicle company that does substan-

However, he said, rear-grash safety was a "high priority" during his ten-ure as NHTSA administrator. He acknowledged he had only a passing fa-miliarity with the 1973 Pinto, but he said the car's fuel tank conformed to safety standards that his agency considered but never adopted because of concerns over testing accuracy. The standard would have required auto fuel systems to withstand a 20 mph rear-end collision by a moving vehicle without fire risk. Toms said that during his tenure with the agency, no automaker in the world designed a car specifically to withstand

Reagan will talk about hostages after release

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) - Ronald Reagan says that once the American hostages are home safe from Iran, the Carter administration's handling of the situation, including the events leading to the takeover of the U.S. Embassy, should become part of the presidential campaign debate. "I think the American people, once they're back and safe, have a right to know what steps were attempted and know the whole story," Reagan said

Thursday at a news conference. The former California governor, returning to New England to resume his New Hampshire campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, detoured briefly into Vermont to speak at a testimonial dinner for former Vermont Gov. Deane Davis. Arriving in Burlington, he was asked whether he felt the United States had anything to apologize for its past relations with Iran and the regime of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. "No," he replied. Reagan then added that he believes the Carter administration "is responsible for it taking one hundred and some days to get them (the hostages)

When pressed to elaborate on that statement, Reagan said, "There were virtually daily warnings" before the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in was unconscious and had severe head injuries, officers said. Gilbert A. Garcia died on Wednes-

"We could have closed the embassy and taken our people out or we could have beefed up the security force," he said. "We could have done any one of a number of things and we could have prevented this situation.

Discussing the questions he thinks should be part of the public debate upon release of the hostages, Reagan said, "It might be interesting to know in that case how much warning our government had, how much it ignored." Earlier Thursday, Reagan expressed concern that the administration might "give too much away in its honor" to win release of the hos-

Later, he said he was referring particularly to Iranian demands that the United States "apologize and accept guilt for all kinds of crimes."

Asked if he thought creation of an international commission to investigate allegations against the deposed shah was too high a price to pay for release of the hostages, Reagan replied that if the Americans were released before such a commission met, "that sounds like a pretty good

Asked how he would feel about a commission if the hostages were not released before it began its deliberations, Reagan replied, "I don't know if we should be interested if it isn't going to bring the hostages back."
He also said, "Frankly, I don't think the commission is of any great

Pot glaucoma benefits unsure

Dear Dr. Solomon: As a victim of glaucoma, I would like to know the status of marijuana as a form of treatment for the condition. - Mr. J.E.

Dear Mr. E.: Any conclusion about the benefits of using marijuana for the treatment of glaucoma would be premature, since definitive clinical studies have not yet been done. What research has demonstrated so far is that marijuana and its derivatives can lower intraocular pressure in laboratory animals and normal human subjects, as well as in some glaucoma patients; whether visual function can be preserved, however, has not been established. Furthermore, although the use of marijuana for this purpose is being studied, it has yet to be determined whether it is in any way superior to existing medica-

Marijuana is classified as a substance with a high potential for abuse, and no currently accepted medical use. As a new investigational drug, it requires evidence of safety and effectiveness for its intended use before it can be approved by the Food and Drug Administration for clinical research on glaucoma patients.

The National Eye Institute, one of the National Institutes of Health, is supporting research projects on the ocular effect of marijuana. It is also encouraging more extensive research on its use as a potential glaucoma medication.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A colleague of mine extolls the virtues of cocaine in enhancing his pleasures. When I ask him if he isn't concerned about the harm he does his body, he tells me that cocaine comes from the cocoa plant, which is used for food, so obviously it must be harmless. Is there any truth to what he says, or have the drugs affected his brain? - Frank.

Dear Frank: Your colleague is making a tragic mistake. Cocaine is manufactured from the leaves of the coca plant — not the cocoa plant, from whose seeds chocolate is made. It is true that natives of the Central Andes in South America apparently have been in the habit of chewing on coca leaves for some time - estimates say since as long ago as 500 B.C. — but the use of cocaine as now pracitced in the United States is by no means a harmless pastime.

You may be interested to know that Sigmund Freud, the father of psychoanalysis, was the first person to study the physiological effects of cocaine. Although initially enthusiastic about using the drug to treat morphine and alcohol addiction, he later withdrew his support when a friend he treated became addicted to cocaine.

I am afraid your friend will find that he will have to pay a high price for the exhilarating effect he experiences from cocaine.

East then led the queen of spades, and the defenders got three spade tricks, defeating the game.
Those East players had the

It's created much more of a pessimistic attitude.

"On the other hand, it's probably created other things more positive. Students realize they're going to have to be 200 percent better now because of the added barriers.

Bakke, a white engineer, entered the medical school 15 miles east of Sacramento in September 1978, under a Supreme Court ruling outlawing a Davis program that reserved 16 of the 100 places in each class for low-income minorities.

The court also ruled, however, that a school could use an admissions program that gave preference to race as one of several factors to promote diversity

Such a program has since been adopted by Davis, and was already in effect in varying degrees at the other four UC medical schools: UCLA, Irvine, San Diego and San Francisco.

In fact, according to John Steward, dean of student affairs at Stanford University medical school, a nationwide study last summer of the 120 medical schools with white majorities showed that UC Irvine had the highest proportion of black, Hispanic and American Indian minorities, 22.5 percent. UC San Francisco was also among the top 10 with 16.5

Stanford, which at the time ranked fourth with 19.5 percent, dropped its separate admissions committee for minorities after the Bakke decision.

Instead, it adopted a program in which minorities get no express preference but the admissions committee includes members of minorities who are sensitive to differences in students' backgrounds,

The first class to be admitted under Stanford's new ystem, last fall, had 22 percent blacks, Hispanics and Mexican-Americans.

Bakke's first-year class of 100 at Davis included four blacks, two Mexican-Americans, no American Indians and 14 Asians. The year before had included four blacks, eight Mexican-Americans and 15

At all five UC medical schools, first-year minority enrollment in 1977 and 1978 dropped from 28 percent to 27 percent of the total. Discounting Asians, minority enrollment dipped from 16 to 14.5 percent.

But last fall, system-wide minority enrollment in the first-year class was 29 percent of the total. Not counting Asians it was 16 percent.

At Davis, while only one black enrolled out of six who were accepted, nine of 16 Mexican-Americans entered, compared to two of 18 the year before. There were also one American Indian student and 14 Asians, for a total of 25 minority students, compared Another sign that the impact of the Bakke case may be easing, Ms. Saito said, is the number of applications for admission at Davis.

Applications from blacks, which fell from 163 in 1977 to 131 in 1978, numbered 174 last year, she said. Applications from Mexican-Americans fell from 147 to 135, but she said that was offset by some energetic

Chrysler may not need federal help

NEW YORK (AP) - Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca says his company may not need any of the $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees approved by Congress because the automaker may be getting needed help from its bankers, The New York Times reported Thursday.

"We may be set," Iacocca said Wednesday in a telephone interview from Washington, noting that the banks are "showing some movement" toward providing financing concessions.

Iacocca qualified the optimistic assessment by saying sales of Chrysler autos would have to hold at January's levels, when the company sold 10,000 mere units than the conservative target it set while seeking the loan guarantees

Mobilization without registration possible, but long, slow process

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service officials say they could develop a plan to mobilize draft-age anti-draft and registration organizations, is working youths without advance registration, but that it with David Landau, staff attorney of the American would take at least 11/2 years to put in oper-Civil Liberties Union, in seeking the Selective Ser-

Such a plan was one of several options Selective Service sent to President Carter in advance of his decision to call for registeration of young men and women, an agency spokesman said Thursday.

"You can develop several types of plans that might work," said Frank Harris. However, he said speculation about various proposals was irrelevant because Carter decided he wanted "an operational ongoing system" instead of a contingency plan. Selective Service officials have not disclosed the march on Washington. various options they proposed to Carter. Harris called their report an internal working paper. 'Selective Service developed a range of options for use under different conditions," he said. He quoted the agency's director, Bernard Rotsker, as saying that under the best of conditions it would take 11/2 years to develop and implement a mobilization plan that would not require advance registration. Harris acknowledged the existence of a no-registration option after opponents of registration filed a Freedom of Information request to obtain the report prepared by Selective Service. Harris did not go into any detail about the plan. Last year, Robert Shuck, then-acting director of Selective Service, told Congress it was not necessary to renew registration to come up with a system to meet military manpower needs in an emergency.

He said that by using state election machinery and improved computer procedures, Selective Service could start delivering recruits to boot camp within 30 days of a mobilization order.

The plan called for all young men to register in a massive one-day signup, 10 days after the president issued an emergency proclamation.

Indeed, 9.6 million men registered on a single day in 1917 after the outbreak of World War I. The same kind of system with similar results was used again in 1918 and 1940.

However, Shuck's plan was greeted with skepticism in the Pentagon and the Senate Armed Services Committee, and Selective Service began redrafting

Barry Lynn, an official of the Committee Against Registration and the Draft, said Thursday he was told by Rotsker in January that he was working on a mobilization plan that was "more credible and more saleable" than the one Shuck proposed last year.

Smoke in drains sets off alarm

Smoke pouring from drainage pipes by the Courthouse Thursday afternoon may have caught the eyes of a few passersby.

Firemen received the call at 1:34 p.m.

The smoke was first noticed and reported by a police officer. He said smoke was coming out in four places: one at the intersection of Wall and Colorado near the First National Bank, one near the same intersection by Gibraltar Savings and one on Wall Avenue near the intersection of Loraine and Wall and one at the intersection of Loraine and Wall by the Courthouse.

Cause of the fire, according to Fire Department reports, was burning trash.

Ted likes hotter campaign

(AP) - The campaign accusations between Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and President Carter are getting hotter all the time, and Kennedy and his aides couldn't be happier.

Campaigning in New Hampshire, Kennedy lashed out in harsh terms against the president Thursday, accusing him of misusing his office for political purposes and of pursuing policies that 'have disserved the national interest."

The Massachusetts enator, who returns to his New Hampshire campaign today after spending the night at his Cape Cod home, also lectured the president about telling the truth.

"Those who so relentlessly use the word truth should at least respect the truth in their own campaigns," he declared

Kennedy's attack was a response to criticism Carter leveled the night before. Speaking at a nationally televised news conference Wednesday night, Carter said some of Kennedy's recent comments on the Iranian crisis "have not been true, they have not been accurate, and they have not helped our country.'

Early Thursday morning, Kennedy's press sec retary, Tom Southwick, At a briefing, they said Carter is delaying initiation denounced Carter for of registration until this summer out of concern that taking a "low-road" approach to the campaign and for being "strident." tion hopes it will be more difficult for student groups But at the same time he and other Kennedy aides made it clear they were delighted Carter posed to registration announced plans for a March 22 had attacked his prinic-

Kennedy has been trying to goad Carter out of no-campaign posture, and Southwick said Carter's statements showed he "blew his cover" as a president who said he would remain above the political fray while dealing with crises in Iran and Afghanistan. Southwick added that Kennedy's aides were "ecstatic" when they watched Carter at his news conference, and Kennedy said, "I'm glad we're finally getting him engaged in the course of agreed to make $29 million in refunds to large customers of diesel and heating oil and turn an additional $71 million over to the Energy-Department to be used to

The company, popularly known as Amoco, also agreed to forego $180 million in future price increases on gasoline and propane, the two fuels still under government price controls.

Amoco did not admit any wrongdoing in the consent order, which the company said it was signing to avoid the "continuing expense of protracted, complex litiga-

In addition to the $280 million in payments and abandoned price increases, the company also committed $410 million to stepped-up investment in oil exploration and refinery modernization over the next three years.

DOE originally had accused Amoco of $143 million in pricing violations, but Paul Bloom, the department's special counsel, said Thursday that a further investigation put the total of alleged violations "in excess of $400 million." He refused to be more specific.

Bloom said his investigation into civil violations of government pricing regulations by Amoco had uncovered no evidence of criminal wrongdoing.

Bloom said the $71 million Amoco will turn over to the Energy Department will bring the fund from such settlements up to $105 million. No money has been given out because Bloom said officials were still working out details of how to disburse the money.
