Militants want hostages under council's control

By The Associated Press

The Moslem militants who have held some 50 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for 124 days today asked the ruling Revolutionary Council to take over responsibility for the captives.

The dramatic development seemed to signal a major breakthrough toward ending the crisis. But Iranian authorities, who have said a final decision on the hostages will not be made until April or May, had no immediate comment to indicate whether they now might be freed sooner.

Just when and how the Americans will be handed over to the authorities "will be decided tonight or tomorrow," said an embassy militant reached by telephone by The Associated Press from Bonn, West Germany.

A Revolutionary Council meeting was scheduled for tonight to discuss the situation.

The militants' decision to surrender the hostages, first reported by Tehran Radio, appeared to clear the way for a U.N. investigating commission to meet with them as planned.

The commission had been preparing to leave Tehran, but with the news from the embassy they decided to stay on at least until Friday.

Tehran Radio quoted the militants' spokesman as saying:

"We ask the Revolutionary Council to take over the hostages, that is, American spies, from us and deal with them in any way it seems appropriate. Our responsibility is over for the hostages and we are sure that the Iranian nation will rectify whatever deviation that might arise in the pursuance of (the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's) line."

The militants' turnout was confirmed in another telephone interview with The AP in Bonn, in which a spokesman for the captors said they had agreed to give up responsibility for the Americans because the Iranian government was "pushing" them to do so.

Tehran Radio also quoted the spokesman for the militants as saying the decision was made because of the dispute with government authorities over whether the U.N. investigating commission should be allowed to meet with all of the hostages, seized Nov. 4.

The militants said they disagreed with the government stand approving the visit but that they did not want to be accused of weakening the revolutionary regime.

"As we have announced in our earlier statements, we believe that our dealing with America should be from a position of strength. And since the proposal for a meeting between the U.N. commission and the hostages had come from America, the grand satan, and not from the Iranian people, we rejected it," the militants said.

"But since the officials and those overseeing the matters regard our position as an infringement on the authority of the government, we therefore invite the Revolutionary Council to take over the hostages from us, because we do not want to be embroiled in a cause which is in the interest of our enemy and which will lead to no benefit for our people."

Khomeini said two weeks ago the fate of the captives would be decided by the new Iranian Parliament, to be elected next month. And Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti, the Revolutionary Council's secretary, said the Parliament would be unable to reach a decision until May.

Moreover, Bani-Sadr has set down his own three conditions for ending the crisis — the United States must admit guilt in past interference in Iranian affairs, it must pledge not to interfere in the future, and it must block Iranian efforts to have the deposed shah and his "stolen wealth" extradited back to Iran.

Whether the revolutionary government will still adhere to this timetable and these conditions is unclear.

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadeq Ghotbzadeh said earlier today that the meeting between the U.N. commission and the hostages had to take place, and that he hoped to announce today when it would take place.

"This meeting one way or the other has to be effectuated, it has got to take place, and this is a decision of the Revolutionary Council, and it's not going to be reversed," Ghotbzadeh said after meeting with the five U.N.

representatives at their Tehran hotel.

The visit was refused Tuesday and Wednesday by the militants because they had not gotten direct orders from Khomeini, the only man they say they will obey unquestionably.

Bani-Sadr said Tuesday night the Revolutionary Council, acting with Khomeini's authorization, had decided that the meeting should take place.

The militants had offered to allow the commissioners to meet with only five of the hostages to question them as alleged spies. The panel could see all the hostages only after it issued its report and convinced the United Nations the U.S. government and Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi behaved as criminals in Iran.

Both the U.N. investigators and the Revolutionary Council rejected these conditions.

The U.N. commission arrived in Tehran Feb. 23 with a mandate to investigate the regime's charges against the shah and the United States and to do what it could to resolve the U.S.-Iranian crisis.

The Carter Administration said it was given to understand that the commission's work would lead to the speedy release of the hostages, but the Iranians said the commission's only purpose was to hear their evidence against the shah and the United States.

Documents show shah gave money to Kissinger, Ford

By The Associated Press

The U.N. investigating commission in Tehran has been given documents from Iran's central bank alleging Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi gave bribes to Henry Kissinger, money to former President Gerald Ford, and gifts to Pierre S. du Pont IV and other prominent Americans. The Kissinger dossier was 14 pages long.

Ford said the allegation the shah sent him money was a "categorical lie." Du Pont's spokesman, responding to the charge the Delaware governor and former congressman got a gift from the monarch, said he "never received anything of value" from the shah. None of the others could be reached for comment.

Reporters in Tehran were not allowed to see the documents released to the commission by central bank Governor Ali Reza Nobari, but they were given photocopies of an index of the papers and written confirmation of receipt by the panel, which is investigating the regime's charges against the shah.

"Document No. 9" was labeled "bribes to Henry Kissinger," the former secretary of state who, with Chase Manhattan Bank Chairman David Rockefeller, helped get the shah's medical records to the State Department last fall but denied influence-wielding to get the monarch admitted for medical treatment.

Other documents listed were: "Deals with (former Vice President) Spiro T. Agnew; gifts to congressmen such as du Pont; a fishy carpet deal with David Rockefeller; sending money to Gerald Ford; a gift to Rockefeller; CIA activities in Iran; John Lindsay (former) mayor of New York, begs the deposed shah for favors to a private company; hiring American club-wielders" (presumably to beat up anti-shah demonstrators in the United States).

Still other documents are alleged to support the revolutionary regime's claims that the shah took government money for his own use and moved an unspecified amount out of the country.

Nobari said in a letter to the U.N. commission that the documents revealed only a fraction of the monarch's alleged crimes, "yet, if viewed and considered favorably, they appear sufficient for the extradition of the ex-shah and the return of the wealth he took out of the country and which belongs to this nation." The shah has been living in Panama since Dec. 15.

GOP candidates fade

Who else will follow Baker?

By The Associated Press

Howard H. Baker Jr., an also-ran in every Republican primary and at least $700,000 in debt, has settled for his job as Senate minority leader while former president Gerald R. Ford feels an ever-greater itch to try the perils of the White House course once again.

After finishing fourth in both the Vermont and Massachusetts primaries, Baker, of Tennessee, pulled out of the GOP race Wednesday, saying in Washington that "It's pretty clear the campaign isn't going anywhere."

Another Republican, Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, all but folded up his tent the same day, canceling television advertising in three key states and trimming his paid staff. "We're more or less winding things down," said Crane's campaign manager, Jerry Harkins.

In New York, Democratic challenger Edward M. Kenney accused President Carter of turning the U.S. foreign policy into "the laughing-stock of nations throughout the world" as a consequence of the wrong-way vote on a United Nations resolution opposing Israeli settlements.

Kennedy, who has hammered time and again upon Carter's economic policy, said the president's handling of foreign affairs is "prone to constant fits and starts... We must demand more than a president who is surprised not only by the Soviets, but even by his own State Department."

Kennedy also privately courted Jewish leaders in Manhattan before returning to Washington.

John Anderson of Illinois, meanwhile, said he was "nothing short of astonished" at his strong second-place showings in New England Tuesday and talked of stepping up his own efforts.

Several contested races in April 5 local elections

The annual run for positions on the City Council, school board, hospital board and Midland College board turned into more of a race than just a walk-a-thon in two places after Wednesday's filing deadline.

Last-minute filings and switching for positions for the Midland City Council, mayor's office and Midland Independent School District Board of Trustees have thrust the candidates into contested races in the April 5 election.

The mayor's race has become a three-man run with the Tuesday filing by Carl Hollums Sr. for the position. Attorney Martin Allday first announced in late November he would seek that spot, and City Councilman G. Thane Akins made his move in January.

Ernest Angelo Jr., who has held the position as mayor for the past eight years, announced last November he would step down.

With Akins in the mayor's race and his Place 4 up for election, this position has drawn more applicants than any other.

Until Tuesday there were four seeking that spot on the City Council, but Raul Salazar switched to the less-crowded Place 5.

On the ballot for Place 4 are Woodrow Bailey Jr., Steve Davidson and Ronnie D. Lynch.

Incumbent Tom Sloan, who is completing his first two-year term, announced he would seek re-election to Place 5. He faces Salazar for that position.

A last-minute filing for the school board puts two candidates in the race for both positions in that election.

Worthy G. Gilbert Jr. filed shortly before 5 p.m. Wednesday for Place 2 on the school board. He will oppose Bill Jackson, a Midland Realtor and former school principal. The incumbent, Joe Dominey, decided not to seek re-election.

Place 1 will pit incumbent James Ramsoure against Ron Britton. Britton, president of Britton Management Corporation, filed Wednesday a few hours before the 5 p.m. deadline.

Candidates for Midland County Hospital District board of directors apparently will be able to take a slow walk into their positions on the board.

Two positions are open for the at-large election, and only two persons have filed. Incumbent Pat Estes is looking to take her seat back while Martin Neill, president of a Midland mechanical contracting firm, is eyeing the chair held by Frank Cowden Jr. Cowden did not file for re-election.

Three positions are open on the Midland Junior College District board of trustees, but they will be filled by the ones who now sit there. Incumbents Reagan Legg, John W. Cooper and Frank Wright Jr. have filed for re-election. They have no opponents.

Absentee balloting for the elections will be March 17 through April 1 in one location — the business office of the school district's Administration Building, 702 N. N St.

Mortgage funds totally committed

The $29 million in bond money for the Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program has been reserved since Feb. 1, according to Harry Clark who serves as chairman of the Housing Authority of the City of Midland and the Midland Housing Finance Corporation.

Reservations from applicants were taken beginning Dec. 13. Requests for the 9 1/2 percent loan money totaled $29 million by Feb. 1. And the six participating financial institutions have a backlog of names of persons who want to apply if someone's loan falls to be approved, Clark said.

Average cost of a house purchased with this money is $45,000, described by Clark as being lower than the normal average cost of a house in Midland. This means about 500 applicants will be getting the loans, he said.

Of the commitments, 65 percent of the money went to applicants making $20,000 a year or less on their 1978 tax return. Clark explained many of these are young people who were in college last year, but have graduated and are working now.

Because of the response by the public, Clark said he was in Washington, D.C., the previous two days to see if there is a possible legal means of having another bond sale to obtain money for a second loan program. His findings will be presented at 2 p.m. March 12 in City Hall Council Chambers before the finance corporation.

"The (home) builders have indicated a strong desire in the program and the backlog of names also indicates it," he said.

Funds for a home rehabilitation program remain at $492.50. The money is being used for minor repairs on homes that underwent major rehabilitation with this fund, reported Mrs. August Wenck.

In looking at the Housing Authority's financial condition, Secretary Fred Kester noted more revenues had come in than what had been budgeted. The authority operates Hillcrest Manor, an apartment complex for low income elderly and handicapped persons.

The Housing Authority is allowed to keep a certain amount of those revenues. Kester said he was advised by officials with the Department of Housing and Urban Development the money could be used to purchase items approved by HUD. Maintenance equipment or a sprinkler system were suggested by the board.

Resolutions concerning the Housing Authority board were passed, including one in which the executive director is allowed to purchase items less than $1,000 without obtaining three bids.

Midland County to discuss its own low-interest mortgage bond plan

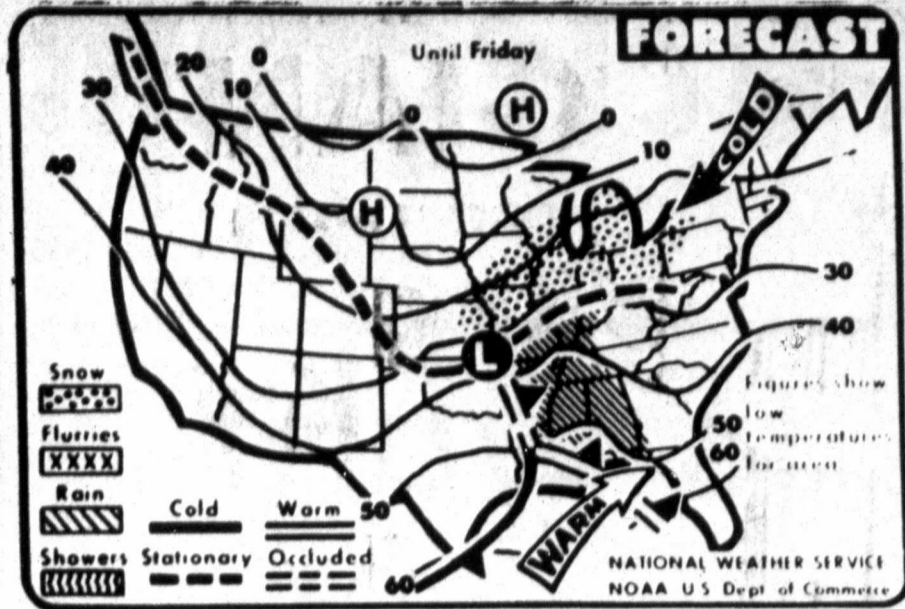

Midland County Commissioners are scheduled to discuss county participation in a low-interest mortgage bond program in a special meeting called for 10 a.m. Friday.

The commissioners are scheduled to hear a proposal from a Lubbock-based financing consulting firm at the meeting.

The court recently asked the Midland Housing Association to explore the possibility of county participation in a bond program similar to the apparently successful one sponsored by the city of Midland.

Members of the Midland Housing Finance Corp., administrators of the city's program, and the Midland Housing Association will attend the meeting Friday.

Boy hurt in hit-run accident

After being struck by a car in a hit and run incident Wednesday morning, 9-year-old Kelly Moraz was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital by a passerby who stopped to see what was wrong.

Moraz was treated and released. Moraz, of 1602 W. Louisiana Ave., was walking across the crosswalk in the 2000 block of West Michigan Avenue at about 9:15 a.m., police said. A car, southbound on North N Street turned onto Michigan, striking the boy, according to reports. Moraz was reportedly thrown across the street into a yard. He later told officers that he got up and walked to the alley of Kent and Ohio streets, where Mark Miller of 1305 Delmar Drive stopped, asked Moraz what was wrong and took him to the hospital.

Lt. H.M. Wicker with the Midland Police Department said there was probably no damage to the car and that the chances of finding the person driving was slim unless someone witnessed the accident.

"We are requesting assistance from anyone who might have seen anything," he said.

Mugabe, Nkomo form coalition

SALISBURY, RHODESIA (AP) — Joshua Nkomo accepted Prime Minister-designate Robert Mugabe's offer to join him in a coalition government, giving Mugabe a majority of more than 3-to-1 in the new Parliament.

Mugabe and Nkomo had agreed to "a principle" that Nkomo will serve as the country's non-executive president, Mugabe spokesman Justin Jyoka said today. Although he does not need white support in Parliament, to further the cause of national unity Mugabe scheduled a meeting today with former Prime Minister Ian Smith to try to bring representatives of the white minority into his regime.

Smith, who declared Rhodesia independent of Britain in 1965 to avoid black rule, appealed to the whites on Tuesday to remain calm after it became clear the Marxist Mugabe, the man the whites least wanted to succeed, had won the election last week.

About 93 percent of the nearly 3 million black voters cast ballots, and Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union won 57 of the 100 seats in the Executive National Assembly of what will become the independent country of Zimbabwe.

Nkomo's Patriotic Front won 20 seats, which added to Mugabe's 57 gives their coalition a majority of 54 over the three other black seats won by Bishop Abel Muzorewa's party and the 20 white seats won earlier by Smith's Rhodesian Front.

Mugabe and Nkomo were co-leaders of the guerrilla Patriotic Front during their seven-year war against white rule. Mugabe broke away after the London agreement last year on a new constitution and a cease-fire and campaigns independently. But just before the election, he said he would ask Nkomo to join him in a coalition government, and he renewed the invitation after his landslide victory.

Military officials said the two days following announcement of Mugabe's victory were one of the most peaceful periods since the war began more than seven years ago. "There were no serious incidents in 48 hours," said one official, noting that before the Jan. 4 cease-fire there were some 40 deaths a day and during the election campaign about five daily.

Maj. Gen. John Acland, head of the 1,300-man Commonwealth force that monitored the guerrillas during the political campaign, said British troops might remain here for up to two years to help integrate the guerrillas into the Rhodesian armed forces.

About 600 of Mugabe's 16,000 guerrillas were inducted Wednesday into the government forces at a training camp 90 miles east of Salisbury. Six hundred of Nkomo's 6,000 guerrillas were integrated last week in southwest Rhodesia and began training.

Armed mental patient escapee eludes police

NEVADA, Texas (AP) — Law officers hunted today for a heavily armed 36-year-old mental hospital escapee who eluded police in a rural area north of Dallas after a 5½-hour confrontation.

The man, identified as James Edward Jones, was believed armed with a .45-caliber machine gun and a hand grenade.

Roadblocks were set up on several highways in southeastern Collin County. Police from the Dallas suburb of Garland joined in the search.

Authorities said Jones was committed to the Terrell State Hospital by his wife, who lives in a farmhouse in the southeastern part of Collin County, two miles south of this small town. He escaped from Terrell two months ago.

Collin County Sheriff Jerry Burton said the confrontation occurred Wednesday at the farmhouse after he talked with Jones by phone while Jones was at the house.

Pakistan rejects American aid offer

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan rejected an offer of $400 million in U.S. aid to strengthen its defenses against the Russians in neighboring Afghanistan. It said it would depend on its own "unity and strength" and the "time-tested friendship" of China.

Agha Shahi, President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq's foreign affairs adviser, told a meeting of municipal leaders Wednesday "Pakistan has specifically dissociated itself from any U.S. initiative to introduce the relevant (aid) legislation in the American Congress."

He said President Carter's offer of $300 million in military aid and $200 million in economic aid over a two-year period was too small to improve Pakistan's defense capability. Zia called the offer "peanuts" when Carter first made it in January.

"It is our considered view that for its security, Pakistan must depend primarily on its national unity and strength... as well as the time-tested friendship of China," said Shahi. "It will not be prudent on our part to be dependent for our security on any single power."

He also said Pakistan "could not ignore the fact that U.S. sensitivity to the Indian reaction appeared to determine the size and nature of the aid package, denuding it of relevance to our defensive capacity."

Pakistan reportedly sought about $1 billion worth of U.S. weapons for its armed forces, ravaged by three lost wars with India over the past three decades. India had protested any major U.S. rearmament of its traditional enemy, fearing the weapons might be used against it.

In Washington, the State Department declined to comment on Shahi's statement, saying it had received "no formal notification" of the Pakistani position.

In a related development, Zia reportedly told the Soviet Union he would agree to the stationing of international troops "both inside and along the borders of Afghanistan to guarantee against any interference from the Pakistan side."

The Soviet government has repeatedly charged that the anti-communist Moslem rebels fighting the Afghan communist regime are being armed and trained in Pakistan by the United States, China, Pakistan and Egypt.

Meanwhile, a foreign observer reported that 130,000 more Afghan refugees were fleeing to northwest Pakistan to escape Soviet bombing and poison gas attacks in eastern Afghanistan.

"Women and children have been slaughtered and poison gas has been used" in Konar Province, in eastern Afghanistan, said a report by the International League for the Rights of Man in Paris. It said its information came from one of its observers in Peshawar, the chief Pakistani city on the northwest frontier.

The Soviet air force and the Afghan army opened an offensive last weekend to clear the rebels out of Konar and neighboring Nangarhar Province, and the civilian population was reported in flight.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said the U.S. government expressed its concern to Soviet authorities over repeated reports that the Russians are using poison gas in the offensive. Carter said a number of reports of gas attacks from Afghan refugees seemed credible, but he said the United States was unable to verify them.

"If these reports are true, we would regard such use (of poison gas) as an outrageous and inhumane act," he said.

Some 500,000 Afghans have already taken refuge in Pakistan since the communists seized control of their government 23 months ago and numerous organizations of anti-communist Moslems launched the guerrilla war that finally provoked the Soviet military intervention last December.

Six more killed as fire strike continues

CHICAGO (AP) — As six more people died in fires, Chicago's firefighters voted to continue their 21-day strike, rejecting a letter of agreement which Mayor Jane Byrne said called for a return to work in exchange for limited amnesty.

Some 3,000 members of the Chicago Fire Fighters Union turned down the agreement Wednesday at the urging of their jailed president, Frank Muscare.

Muscare, sentenced Feb. 21 to five months in jail for defying a back-to-work order, spoke to the membership by telephone from the Cook County Jail. "I don't care if I sit in here for five months," he told them.

Also urging the membership to reject the agreement were the local union's executive board and Frank Palumbo, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Fire Fighters.

Palumbo met with Mrs. Byrne earlier Wednesday to get clarification of the city's position on amnesty. Palumbo then briefed the union's executive board, which in turn took the question to the membership.

Mrs. Byrne said the discussions with Palumbo centered around questions the union raised over a letter of agreement drafted Feb. 22. William Lee, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, had said the Feb. 22 letter included total amnesty for firefighters who left their jobs Feb. 14.

Since the strike began, 17 persons have died, including six Wednesday. The offer rejected Wednesday was less favorable to strikers. Mrs. Byrne said before the offer went to the union membership that it provided total amnesty for the rank and file. But officers would be subject to loss of one, two or three days' pay for going on strike.

Jay 'Tonto' Silverheels dies, aged 62

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Jay Silverheels, the full-blooded Mohawk known to millions of television viewers as the Lone Ranger's faithful Indian companion Tonto, has died at the age of 62.

A Canadian-born athlete and actor, Silverheels died Wednesday at the Motion Picture and Television Country House of complications from a bout with pneumonia. He had been hospitalized there since Jan. 25, suffering from the effects of a stroke he suffered 5 1/2 years ago.

"I am deeply saddened," said Clayton Moore, who starred as the masked Lone Ranger in the long-running television series.

"He was a great man. He was a perfect gentleman and a true fighter for the Indian cause. I'm going to miss him very much. Jay had a great sense of humor and, believe me, I know all the world will miss Jay Silverheels as Tonto," Moore said.

Born Harold J. Smith on the Six Nations Indian Reservation in Ontario, Canada, he was given the name Silverheels by a Mohawk tribal elder. He used it as his stage name, legally changing his name to Silverheels nine years ago.

Arriving in Hollywood in 1933 as a professional lacrosse player and semi-professional hockey player, Silverheels by 1938 had turned to films as an extra at the urging of sports-minded actor Joe E. Brown.

came to Lamesa in 1940. He operated a small retail store.

Survivors include three daughters, Nora Herrera of Dallas, Anna Leal of Phoenix, Ariz., and Dora Cortez of Lamesa; three sons, Robert Trevino and Richard Trevino, both of Lamesa, and Roy Trevino of Phoenix, Ariz.; a sister, Manuella Ruiz of Edinburg; a brother, Phillippe Trevino of Edinburg; 28 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Among his other movie credits were "Key Largo," "True Grit," "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," and "The Will Rogers Story."

Last August, Silverheels became the first American Indian to have his star set in Hollywood's Walk of Fame. He founded the Indian Actors Workshop in Hollywood in the late 1960s. Lois Red Elk, who studied with Silverheels and acted with him in two movies, said he created the workshop "as a vehicle to get Indian people on the screen, also to try and change the image of Indian people."

"He had a genuine love of horses," said family spokesman Tom Shelley.

District 8 counties get 44 field tests, 14 wildcat projects

Fifty-eight new oil and gas projects were scheduled last week in Railroad Commission District 8 counties as operators announced locations for 165 new projects in the West Texas-New Mexico Permian Basin.

The District 8 headquarters office in Midland processed applications for 14 wildcats and 44 field projects. Mitchell County gained three of the prospectors and Pecos County gained two. Andrews, Brewster, Culberson, Ector, Glasscock, Howard, Loving, Martin and Reeves each gained one.

Forty-three wildcats were announced in the West Texas-New Mexico area, with six of them scheduled in District 7-C's Renville County.

Twenty-five field projects and four wildcats were staked in New Mexico counties, with Lea getting 11 field projects and two wildcats. Eddy gained eight field tests and two wildcats, and Chaves County the site for six new field operations.
