MC to train employees for planned tire plant

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Midland College officials announced the development of a pre-employment training program for the Midland Michelin Tire Plant during a press conference Thursday at the college.

Dr. Marshall Box, MC occupational vice president, reported the college received approval from the state to start the pre-employment training program.

About $44,000 would be furnished by the state to establish the program, said Dr. Charles Wakefield, soon-tobe occupational vice president. The funds would be sufficient until August when the college would have to reapply, he noted.

Equipment used in the program would cost about $30,000 with the balance going to salaries and miscellaneous items, Wakefield explained.

Three classrooms in the Occupational-Technical Building would house the instructional phase of the training program, he added.

The tuition-free program would stress training in three areas — mechanics, pipe fitting and electrical work, according to Wakefield. Books, supplies and manuals will be available to students free of charge, he said.

The first class starting about July 28 will involve 18 students in mechanics and 14 students in electrical study, noted Ed Miller of the Texas Employment Commission.

Students in the program would study 10 hours a week at night for 22 weeks. Afterward, they would be interviewed by Michelin for further training.

Once accepted by Michelin, trainees would be involved in a six-month training program conducted by the

To be accepted into the Midland College instructional phase of the program, applicants must go by the Texas Employment Commission and take a series of tests, said Miller.

The exams are specially designed to determine certain abilities which would be used to train students in

So far, 56 applicants have taken the test and 46 individuals have tested high, he said. Screening of applicants will continue for the July 28 starting phase of the program, Miller said.

"Midland and Odessa have shared the same labor market for years," he said, noting the area's low unemployment rate and where the labor force would come from for the Midland plant.

Classes would be continuous for about two to three years, Miller said.

While visiting plants in South Carolina, Wakefield said he noticed the people-oriented and "environmentally clean" attitude of the company.

Midland officials looking for suspect in kidnapping

ODESSA - Midland police, Midland County Sheriff's deputies and Department of Public Safety troopers were on the lookout this morning for a Midland man who had reportedly kidnapped an Odessa woman.

The bulletin was issued by Odessa police, who said the man was armed and dangerous. The kidnapping occurred between 7:50 and 8:05 a.m. today in the 1800 block of West 26th Street here, and Odessa police warned the man had threatened to kill

The pair were last seen on U.S. Highway 80 heading for Midland. The woman was driving a Buick Regal, which belonged to her and her husband.

The man was supposed to be armed with a pistol and, according to authorities, was on probation from the state penitentiary on charges of armed robbery and narcotics violations.

Volcano's missing presumed dead

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - As the search at Mount St. Helens nears an end, the Cowlitz County coroner will begin issuing "presumptive" death certificates for the 55 persons still missing after the mid-May erup-

Coroner D.F. Winebrenner said Thursday the death certificates will be for those persons proved to be near the volcano when it exploded May 18. Under state law, a coroner can issue a certificate if a body is not recovered and if the official is convinced the missing person has died.

Emergency officials called off the air search Thursday and said an airsupported ground search would continue only for a few days. Chances of finding any of the missing persons alive were "nil," officials

"They (helicopters) have re-crossed, regridded and reflown for literally thousands and thousands of miles," said Lewis County Sheriff

William Wiester.

"We're not writing off any of the 60-odd people that are still missing," said Wiester, but the chances of finding anyone else alive are nil.

'It is senseless to jeopardize the lives of the military search and rescue personel," said Wiester.

The death toll rose to 22 after a Mount Angel, Ore., man died in a Portland hospital from burns he suffered in the mountain's eru,otion. He was identified as Leonty Skorohodoff, a Russian immigrant who was part of a tree-thinning crew working near the mountain.

The mountain itself has been outwardly calm since an ash eruption Sunday. But inside the mile-deep crater, the volcano may have started pushing up a "dome" that could rebuild the summit, scientists said.

The appearance of the dome could signal a "new phase" in the volca no's eruption and an end to the heavy ash falls that have affected parts of eastern Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana

gests that a small edifice is being built on the crater floor," said Don Finley, a spokesman for the U.S. Geological Survey. 'The radar can't tell what it is - but it's very suggestive that it might be a lava dome," said USGS scientist Tim Hait. A volcanic dome is a thick plug of magma pushed up from below. Mount St. Helens was dotted with domes from earlier eruptions before its eruption May 18.

Scientists wearing infrared goggles and flying in a U.S. Forest Service plane over the volcano early Thursday saw two "bright spots" in the crater, which Hait said also could signal the beginning of a dome.

Now, action on the request year has been tied up by Congress' wrangling over the next fiscal year's Congress is expected to approve the money request without a fight, mainly because the increased spending is required under laws passed by Congress. But the nation's complex legislative process can be slow in handling even routine matters, and Labor De-partment officials believe benefit payments will be interrupted for at least two to three weeks.

"Theoretically, if Congress wants to work as hard as possible, it could get the job done next week or very early the following week," said one department official, who asked not to be identified. "Chances are, however, that it will take somewhat longer, maybe another week. And, even after the bill is signed, it will take another 5 to 12 days to resume the checks."

Those receiving the unemployment benefits include 334,000 workers mostly in the auto industry - who have lost their jobs because of foreign competition, 190,000 former federal and postal employees and ex-servicemen who are ineligible for regular state unemployment insurance, 73,000 former CETA public service job holders, and 3,000 loggers in California who lost their jobs when the Redwoods National Park was expanded in Payments average nearly $100 a week and are distributed either weekly or every other week by state unemployment offices out of a special Federal Employment Benefit Account known bureaucratically as "FUBA".

The payments may be the only source of income for the unemployed federal workers, ex-servicemen and former CETA workers.

They will join 62 other American astronauts waiting for assignments on the reflyable shuttle. Thirty or 40 shuttle flights a year are planned by the mid-1980s, with as many as seven astronauts on a mission.

Burglar gets five years

Johnny Royce Franks, 20, charged with the nighttime burglary of a Midland coin-operated laundry last March 11, Wednesday was assessed punishment of five years in the state penitentiary by the jury which also found him guilty of the burglary.

Franks, who also has another burglary conviction, was found guilty of breaking into the Berry's Nice & Clean Laundry, 4309 W. Illinois Ave., about 3: 30 a.m. on March 11.

He was arrested by Midland police minutes after the break-in. A police patrolman, who was just down the street from the laundry when the business' silent alarm was triggered at police headquarters, arrested

Franks. Police found $14.05 in nickels in a coffee can in Franks' car. The jury deliberated 45 minutes late Wednesday before returning with the guilty verdict. Punishment for the offense, a second-degree felony, ranges from two to 20 years.

The case was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Richard Moore. Franks' defense counsel was Vernon Reichle.

payments supplement regular unemployment benefits. In addition, as members of the United Auto Workers union, the workers are protected by company-paid jobless benefits that guarantee 95 percent of their takehome pay for up to a year, providing company funds do not go broke because of heavy industry layoffs.

The benefits to the auto workers are paid under the Trade Adjustment Assistance Act of 1974, which aids people who lose their jobs because of creased sales of imports in this country. Under the law, workers are entitled to payments that, together with regular unemployment checks, provide up to 70 percent of their regular weekly pay for as long as 52 weeks.

The Labor Department initially sought, and received from Congress, $450 million in FUBA funds for 1980. However, a worse-than-anticipated slump in the auto industry has raised the estimated bill to over $1.5 billion, with about 300,000 auto workers having been ruled eligible for benefits since last December. The Carter administration also has underestimated the money it will need for the program in 1981, and has asked Congress to increase next year's appropriation from $450 million to $850 million.

Labor Department officials said payments in Michigan, where 193,000 auto workers are receiving benefits, would have halted today, but officials transferred funds there from other states with larger surpluses so every state would run out at the same

The department's money request is part of a $14.4 billion supplemental spending bill pending before Congress. The package includes more money for defense programs, black lung benefits to coal miners, disaster relief, refugee aid and a variety of other government services.

Suspect jailed in reported rape

ODESSA - Odessa police have a man in custody in connection with a rape investigation.

Early this morning, an Odessa woman returned to her north Odessa apartment and went to sleep on the couch, as her roommates were in the bedroom, reports said. She awoke around 1:50 a.m. and reportedly found a man on top of her. She managed to throw him off and yelled for her roommates, an Odessa police spokesman said.

When the roommates entered the room, the man was reportedly in the process of getting dressed. The three managed to get the man out of the apartment and called police.

Officers arrested a man in the apartment complex shortly after the rape reportedly occurred.

Voting on defense contradictory

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, sending contradictory signals on higher military spending, has rejected a $613.3 billion, defense-oriented 1981 budget while endorsing a record peacetime increase for the Pentagon.

The House action Thursday night instructs House-Senate negotiators to prepare a second budget compromise, but tells them to keep the controversial defense figure that President Carter and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. opposed.

"I've got two mandates and one headache," complained Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., House Budget Committee chairman, as he prepared to take the proposed balanced budget back to conference with the Senate

Earlier Thursday, Carter and O'Neill appeared to have prevailed in their opposition to the budget's $153.7 billion defense figure as the compromise spending plan was voted down,

But as the night wore on and many Democrats headed for home, Republicans succeeded in forcing approval of instructions to the negotiators to stick by the $153.7 billion defense amount for fiscal 1981, which starts

The non-binding instructions were approved on voice vote after the Democratic leadership failed, 165-123, to table — or kill — the GOP motion and then lost, 145-141, on an effort to adjourn the House before a final vote.

The Republican instructions denied Carter and O'Neill a clear-cut victory in the defeat of the budget package they opposed because of its proposed cuts in domestic spending to pay for higher defense.

The instructions, proposed by Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, also should strengthen the hand of Senate negotiators who have vowed to fight to keep the $153.7 billion defense figure, which is $3.2 billion more than Carter requested.

Giaimo said rejection of the budget raised doubt about the future of the 6-year-old congressional budget process and its attempt to bring federal spending under control.

"If the liberals are upset with the budget for one reason and the conservatives for another, then God help the American people," he declared.

After rejection of the budget, Sen.
Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., Senate
Budget Committee chairman, blamed
Carter for its defeat and said a revised compromise could "shortchange our critical defense needs."

The House vote on the budget sharply divided the Democratic leadership, with O'Neill and Carter at odds with nearly every other top House Democrat, including Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, and Giaimo

A total of 146 Democrats and 96 Republicans joined with O'Neill and Carter in opposing the budget, while 97 Democrats and 44 Republicans favored it.

Brothers, sisters forced to steal for survival

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old Felicity man has been charged with allegedly making his five younger brothers and sisters steal food for their survival.

George Hale Jr. was charged in Clermont County Juvenile Court with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was released on $1,000 recognizance bond.

Deputy Sheriff Barry Creighton, who filed the charge, alleged Hale regularly forced his brothers and sisters, aged 10 to 16, to steal the family's food from a Felicity supermarket.

Creighton said he learned from interviews with family members that the children were forced to walk three miles to the store to take food if they wanted to eat.

Creighton said the children lived in a converted trailer that lacked plumbing or electrity in a remote area of Franklin Township.

Business outlook bright for Texas

Texans must work together in order to maintain Texas' good business climate, which is recognized now as the best in the nation, Bill Gray of Houston, president of the Texas Association of Business, told Midland Rotarians Thursday noon at their meeting in the Midland Hilton.

"Let's don't let someone come along and destroy what we have in Texas in this regard," he urged. The speaker, introduced by Rotarian Ron Schwisow, discussed briefly the outlook for business in Texas in the 1980s.

"Texas leads all other states in attracting new industries," he said, "due largely to our excellent business climate."

He added that Texas is one of 20 states having a right-to-work law, and it does not have a corporate income tax, both factors having an attraction for plants seeking new locations.

Gray went on to say, however, that Texas does have problems and challenges facing it in the 1980s, problems which should concern every citizen of the Lone Star State.

One of the problems faced in bringing new industry to Texas, he explained, is a highly competitive situation which has developed among the Sunbelt states. Uncertainties as to future tax bases in Texas often cause industries seeking new plant locations to look to other states, he added. The answer to this particular problem must be determined in the legislature, the members of which are the decision makers, Gray said.

He mentioned three specific issues of utmost importance to business interests which will be before the Texas Legislature in its next session. They are: (1) Continuing effort to unionize the public sector work force; (2) eroding natural resources tax base; and (3) redistricting, in accordance with the 1980 census figures.

Gray predicted that redistricting undoubtedly will cause a further shift toward the left in the legislature, because of additional seats gained by urban areas. He is of the opinion that radical changes will occur in the Senate.

He praised the more conservative views and voting records of Midland and area legislators.

Gray listed three ways in which interested citizens can help solve the existing problems: (1) Get actively involved in politics; (2) exercise their constitutional right to lobby; and (3) work through the Texas Association of Business, local chambers of commerce, industrial development organizations and other groups in speaking out through a concerted voice.

"Crucial days are ahead," Gray concluded, "but I am confident that Texans can and will solve the problems in traditional Texas style, and keep Texas No. 1."

Plan closes Texas waters to shrimpers

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A plan for closing Texas waters to shrimping in early summer was approved Thursday by the Commerce Department. Shrimpers said the plan could ruin the industry in Louisiana.

However, a spokesman for the Commerce Department who announced the decision said the effective date of the plan was postponed until 1981, and Rep. John Breaux said the plan could be reconsidered.

'How can they do that?" asked Tee John Mialjevich, president of the Louisiana Fisheries Association. "This is very confusing. I should say ridiculous. They've either got to approve it or kick it back. They can't kick it back ap-

Mialievich, who led the fight against the plan, said, "I guess we'll have to get in touch with Congressman Breaux and the governor and see what we're going to do next."

Officials said the plan, developed by the Gulf Fisheries Management Council, goes into effect in 1981 if it is not changed by the council before

Under the plan, Texas waters will be closed from June 1 to July 15 so that the young shrimp

The action closes waters 200 miles from shore and coincides with a Texas state plan which shut state waters up to nine miles out.

Mialjevich and other Louisiana shrimpers said the closing would divert all the Texas fishermen to Louisiana waters, depleting the state's crop and straining the on-shore services.

"I have always felt the so-called Texas option would only flood the coastal waters off Louisiana with Texas shrimpers during their closure period," said Breaux. "We already have fuel, dock and processing shortages, and this only aggravates the problem."

Breaux said, "At least, the Department of Commerce's decision asking for the Gulf Council to reconsider the Texas option portion of the plan recognized some real concerns about the soundness of the proposal in light of the serious problems facing the shrimp industry.

"I will strongly urge the Gulf council at its next meeting to reject this proposal and to try to draft a plan which addresses some of the serious problems in the industry more equitably."

He said the purpose of the plan was economic aimed at more money for Texas shrimpers and was not a management decision.

Officials of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Department were unavailable for com-

Rep. Whitehead defends letters

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Emmett Whitehead says there was nothing "illegal or immoral" about writing special interest groups in his district on House stationery and with state postage to brag about his legislative record.

Whitehead, D-Rusk, said if there was a problem, he cured it by reimbursing the state out of his campaign treasury.

"As far as my doing anything illegal or immoral, I didn't," Whitehead said Thursday in a telephone interview.

ents of the state's money was used for the benefit of Emmett Whitehead, I don't know it. ... On those letters, I know I'm clean," he said.

Whitehead is in a hotly contested run-off June 7 with Jim Turner, whom Whitehead's advertising labels the candidate of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, Texas Monthly magazine, Texas AFL-CIO and Texas Civil Liberties Union.

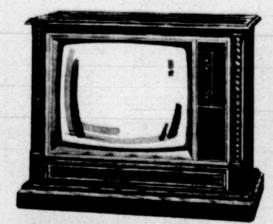

Whitehead received letters from a number of lobbyists praising his efforts on behalf of their causes in the 1979 Legislature. In December, January and early February, he mailed copies to per-sons in his district associated with those interest groups, including real estate men, savings and loan executives, city and school district officials and members of the Texas Association of Business.

He wrote cover letters on House stationery, describing his support for each group's legislative

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market's spring rally suffered a sharp setback Thursday in an afternoon selloff blamed on increasing concern over the recession.

Analysts said traders were bracing for some unsettling news when the government issues its monthly report Friday on the index of leading economic indicators.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which closed Wednesday at a three-month high, tumbled 14.07 to 846.25

New York Stock Exchange volume reached 42 million shares, up from 38.58 million Wednesday.

Estimates making the rounds of Wall Street Thursday were that the April reading of the leading-indicators index, which is designed to detect future economic trends, would show its biggest decline since World War II.

The index fell 2.6 percent in March, for its largest drop in 5½ years. For April, the brokerage firm of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields estimated that a 3.5 percent decline will be posted. The index is made up of 12 components which are regarded as barometers of future economic activity, including such things as layoffs, building permits, and prices of key raw materi-The daily tally on the NYSE showed about two losers for every stock that gained ground, and the exchange's composite index dropped .91 to 62.97. Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials was down 2.11 at 123.92, and S&P's 500-stock composite index gave up 1.79 to 110.27. The Amex market value ndex fell 5.89 to 268.07. In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 150.09, off

Economic signs are expected to show decline

government's Composite Index of Leading Indica-tors may have declined last month, providing further evidence that recessionary conditions have spread through the economy.

The April index, being released later today, was expected to show its third decline in as many months and its sixth drop in the last seven months.

Three consecutive monthly declines in this government barometer of future economic activity traditionally have signaled that a recession was imminent.

On another front, the Labor Department reported Thursday that the average earnings of American families rose 8 percent in the 12 months ending in March — from $365 a week in March 1979 to $395 a week this March.

The increase, however, was more than offset by a 14 percent rise in inflation, the report said.

The Commerce Department index is made up of 10 measures of economic health, ranging from the layoff rate in industry to stock prices and building permits.

Preliminary data had suggested that all of the components dropped last month, a government analyst confirmed. Another analyst, who also asked for anonymity, said he could not remember any time in recent years when all 10 components had declined in a single month.

He cautioned, however, that the index was greatly revised in May 1975 — after the last recession — and that data before that time probably was not compa-

A recession occurs when the nation's output declines. Weakness has been evident since February, when industrial production, factory utilization and retail sales began dropping.

Many economists believe a recession is already under way and that it will not be "mild and short," as the Carter administration has predicted. These economists predict unemployment will rise from its current 7 percent to more than 8 percent by year's end, meaning the loss of an additional 1 million jobs.

The Labor Department's report showed that incomes rose more for some than others.

For individuals, median weekly earnings rose 9 percent during the year — from $238 a week to $260 a week. But because of inflation, their real earnings declined 4 percent, the department said. Families headed by women came closest to keeping up with inflation, with their earnings rising by 12 percent. But their median income of $220 a week remained very low compared with $428 for husbandwife families and $350 for families headed by men. The median figure is the one is the middle of a list of numbers. In this case it means that half the nation's 40.5 million working families earn above the median and half below. The department also reported that the number of families with two or more members working rose by 249,000 during the year to 21.1 million, while the number of single-worker families declined by 143,000 to 19.4 million.

The buying power of families with two members working fell 4 percent during the last year, while the purchasing power of families with only one earner dropped 7 percent, the department said

In a separate report based on a different survey, he department said wages for workers in the private, non-farm economy only rose 9.1 percent during the 12 months ending in March, the largest annual increase since the government initiated the survey five years ago. The previous record increase of 8.7 percent came during the 12 months ending in Decem-

The report, called the Employment Cost Index, said base wage and salary rates rose by an average of 2.4 percent during the first three months of this year, compared with a 2 percent rise during the same period in 1979.

FCC approves hike of telephone rates

WASHINGTON (AP) - By the narrowest of margins, the Federal Communications Commission authorized the Bell System Thursday to raise its long-distance telephone rates an estimated 5 percent.

The increase, which will likely take effect next week, will be applied across-the-board to all interstate and overseas services and is expected to generate $500 million in additional annual reve-

The overall effect of the increase on the individual bills of consumers will vary, depending on the number and type of long-distance phone calls placed.

The narrow 4-to-3 vote to cut by more than half the rate hike that Bell had requested stemmed largely from procedural concerns, and not from a clear sentiment that Bell was asking for too much.

DEAR ABBY Mental barriers make 'invalids' of us all

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This letter is written in response to the woman whose son was planning to marry a paraplegic. I am an rehabilitation counselor, working solely with spinal cord injured persons. I was distressed, but not surprised, that the woman referred to her future daughter-in-law as an "in-

Her ignorance concerning the limitations of persons with spinal cord injuries is all too common. This lack of understanding can be a far greater hardship to a person with such an impairment than the impairment it-

There is no way to undo generations of misinformation in one letter, but I will try: The easiest way is simply to list some of the things a paraplegic (one with lower body paralysis) can do, with proper equipment and-or assistance:

Work, play, marry, divorce, love, be loved, have sex, become a parent, raise children, keep house, drive a vehicle, shop, attend school, church and engage in sports. I could fill your column with more, but I think you get the general idea.

Of course, each situation is different, depending on the extent of injury, motivation, environmental barriers, attitudinal barriers and other factors. But then we're all different, aren't we? Some of us able-bodied people do very little with our lives while others accomplish a great deal. The same applies to persons with physical disa-

What we can all do is make sure that we never prevent another human being from living as full and rewarding a life as he is capable of. Let's not be barriers ourselves. — JOE BUT-LER, BATESVILLE, ARK. DEAR JOE: Right on!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl. I know lots of boys as friends but have never had a real boyfriend. To be perfectly truthful about, I have liked several boys a lot, and one in particular was on my mind night and day. He never paid any attention to me so I just went on dreaming about him, but nothing ever came of it. Now for my problem. There is a rumor going around school that I got pregnant and had an abortion last summer. Abby, it is a lie. I never even had the chance to get pregnant, so I don't know where this rumor got started. How can I prove this is not true? I need your help. — LIED

DEAR LIED ABOUT: Trying to prove that a rumor is not true is like trying to put toothpaste back into the tube. Just behave in a manner that will make those who spread thos rumors look like liars.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I attended a wedding reception a month ago. The bride is the daughter of friends.

The affair was elegant. They had 200 guests for a sit-down dinner and dance at the finest hotel.

My question: Is a wedding considered a social obligation — or a thing

We entertained the parents of the bride at a dinner party two months before the wedding, but we aren't sure if we now owe them, or if they should make the next move, socially. Please advise. — NOT SURE DEAR NOT: Since the parents of the bride were your guests last at a dinner party, they now owe you a similar invitation. Even though their daughter's wedding was elegant, it cannot be considered repayment for your dinner party.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.B.: To those who would give advice, the best advice I know is, if you can't be kind be quiet.

Test-tube baby clinic not producing

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Attempts to help a group of infertile women become pregnant have been unsuccessful so far at the nation's first test-tube baby clinic.

None of the clinic's first nine patients became pregnant during fertilization efforts in late February, March and April, Dr. Jack Rary said

Only two in-vitro fertilizations (where an egg cell removed from a oman is exposed in a glass dish to sperm from her husband) and a small number of similar procedures called in-vivo fertilizations (presumably by artificial insemination) were performed in April because of unforeseen medical complications, clinic doctors

Rary said a "small number" of procedures have been performed on a second group of patients at the clinic at Norfolk General Hospital since then, "but I don't know of any pregnancies yet."

The Eastern Virginia Medical School operates the clinic here. It received permission in January from the Virginia Health Department to open an in-vitro laboratory at the

Bulgari in glittery business

By PADDY CALISTRO The Los Angeles Times

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. - Nicola Bulgari's suite at the Beverly Hills Hotel is filled with $8 million worth of diamonds, rubies, emeralds, sapphires and sundry other sparklers. It's the kind of glitter that shows up on the necks and hands of such notables as Princess Grace of Monaco and her daughter, Caroline That glitter is Bulgari's business. While his crisp white shirt, chalkstriped suit and banker's attitude make him seem somewhat immune to the glamour of it all, his face still lights up when he sees a woman wearing his newest pearl necklace. "She's beautiful," he sighs. "See how the light reflects on her face. Look at her neck - how delicate it is ... " He doesn't talk about the $95,000 Bulgari necklace the model wears, except to say the pearls are all natural, not cultured. ("The black ones are not matched," he tells you later, pointing to six dark pearls that drop from a mass of twisted strands of tiny seed pearls. "It is impossible to match natural pearls," he explains.

'A woman should never buy a piece of jewelry without first trying it on," Bulgari says, noting that he is amazed at the number of women who spend thousands on fine jewels without even looking in a mirror while wearing them.

'They are too rare.")

He advises women to shop carefully. "Jewelry should be subtle. It should not be splashy in a gauche way. There are many jewelry designers who make flashy pieces merely to justify a price. The more it glitters, the higher they put the price. But badly designed jewelry is worthless.

Even if it is extremely valuable, jewelry should not show exactly how valuable it is." In fact, he insists, "Jewelry should be non-expensive in its look." As if to contradict himself, he picks up a Burmese ruby choker studded with 26 brilliant-cut rubies that weigh 55.67 carats and 538 diamonds that total 31.27 carats. It is priced at $1.65 million. It does not look "non-expensive." It's downright regal.

"I am a maniac about quality," he says, turning over the neckpiece. 'See how perfect the back is. Of course the design is beautiful - people expect that from us. But the quality, the attention to detail - without the quality we would be nothing. Design, no matter how futuristic it is, becomes dated. In fine jewelry, the quality must outlast the design."

He notes that he and his two brothers, Gianni and Paolo, check each piece of Bulgari jewelry. "That is the emerald is very subjective. only way we can stand behind our "Like an emerald, a sapphire is name. We know our jewelry is pefect.

We would buy back any old pieces of Bulgari, but our clients won't sell." But he and his brothers do buy a lot of stones. "Diamonds are easy. They are graded and certified by the Gemological Institute of America; there's usually no problem shopping for them. The colored stones are not

When Bulgari looks at an emerald he says he looks for depth of color. "An emerald can be nominally flawless, but never completely flawless. Its natural composition is with visible flaws. For me, the basic tests are color and size. Color is extremely complicated. An emerald can be a deep green but have an icy quality that I don't like so I wouldn't touch it Bulgari says a sapphire is the best investment on today's gem market. The demand is still not as high as for diamonds or emeralds. For $15,000-$20,000 you can get a nice little investment sapphire of two to four carats."

This man of jewelry wears no jewelry. On his left hand is a gold wedding band; on his wrist is a 3-year-old Bulgari watch (not the new status style that has recently appeared on jet-set wrists.). "Why should a man wear jewelry?" he asks. "It is pre-

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government checks, possibly including some Social Security benefits due next week, could be held hostage to a congressional effort to repeal President Carter's controversial dime-agallon gasoline fee.

Foes of the gas fee succeeded late Thursday in linking the energy issue to debt-ceiling legislation needed to extend the government's borrowing authority.

An effort to put the borrowing bill back on the track was expected to be made by House leaders today - first before the Rules Committee and then on the floor.

And Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., was keeping the Senate in session — despite an earlier plan not to meet today - to vote on the debt-ceiling bill should it be approved by the House

Without the crucial measure, the government's power to pay some of its bills will expire at midnight Satur-

However, such deadlines have been missed before and there are a number of stop-gap measures officials can take to keep the money flowing - at least for a week or so.

Congressional leaders were redoubling their efforts to win approval of the bill increasing the debt ceiling minus the gasoline-fee-repeal measure - but major difficulties loomed.

Even if the House separates the two issues, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., has indicated he will try to rejoin them in the Senate.

And both chambers have now indicated in test votes their overwhelming opposition to the gasoline fee already blocked from taking effect by

The government of the great state of California may not be inept, indifferent, indentured and overwhelmed, but it thinks it is.

The government at the Torch Club is no fun-loving, raucous government celebrating a day's triumphs over poverty and ignorance and disease. It is a subdued government in group therapy explaining a day's failures. It is a government whose whole is somehow much smaller and more timid than the sum of its generally bright and busy parts

Some people say this government is dead and useless and does not give a damn, but that is not the case. It has simply lost its bearings because the world is changing so fast in so many ways that the old landmarks of con-

You can tell it is hibernating because this government will fall out of its chair and onto the office floor, wide awake, if it is spoken to sharply by farmers who want to want to hang onto freight

Part of the government's despair stems from the fact that it cannot do anything about most of the big problems, no matter how hard it tries.

It cannot cut the price of gasoline or stop inflation or make unemployment disappear or sign mortgages at 5 percent interests, so it works around the fringes.

Except for the governor. He spends most of his time brooding about those very problems about which state government can do nothing, which makes him seem indifferent. He is not. He just thinks the legislature is like a petulent traveler: It spends too much time complaining to the stewardess about the cold steak and not enough time worrying about whether the wings are on tight.

This is a government whose leadership grew up comfortable, missed the depression of the 1930s but very few meals,

Ex-police speaks on today's cops

The average police officer just entering law enforcement is an undertrained, undereducated, lower class, suicidal "lad" with ulcers and a divorce, according to statistics quoted by Ray LeGrande, former police officer and professor of criminal justice management at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin. LeGrande spoke Wednesday at the noon Lions Club meeting. His topic was police in America. He began by stressing not every force or every agency would fit the stereotypes.

There are approximately 20,000 local police agencies with some 600,000 police employees. Cost of running these 20,000 organizations is $12 billion a year.

"Who are these people we call police?" LeGrande asked

ACCORDING TO studies conducted between 1965 and 1980, police officers are chosen by an exclusionary and passive process. "We run an ad in the newspaper, and we take what comes in. The process of dealing with individuals becomes an exclusionary process.'

LeGrande objected to the fact that the community did not actively seek out those who could best do the job but handed a job of immense responsibility and pressure to those who pass a "pencil and paper test," - to those who "can basically read and

He also pointed out that the typical officer is male. Only two percent of police officers are female, "almost in defiance of a 1975 study which said there was no difference in the performance level of men and women in the police field. In fact there were some indicators that women were able to handle and defuse situations involving violence better than males," LeGrande

He went on to say that the average officer was 22 years old and white.

He cited Miami as an example, where 80 percent of the population is black or Cuban and 85 percent of the police force is "EDUCATIONALLY, AT the time an individual becomes a police officer, he is a high school graduate. He is a provincial individual; he has not traveled outside the area where he lives. And he has limited experience outside his home environment. Only 9 percent of officers in Texas have college de-

Midland County and Midland both rank considerably higher with 17.7 percent of Midland County officers and 25 percent of city officers having college degrees.

And a survey of every police chief in the nation, with a 100 percent return, showed that 82 percent of chiefs had only high school diplomas.

LeGrande went on to say the average officer is from a working, lower or lower middle class environment and has the value structures of that class.

'(They) are almost incapable of understanding value structures of other classes," he said.

FROM THERE, LeGrande went on to criticize the training given new officers. It ranges anywhere from 240 hours (six "Cosmetology takes more time and effort and yet we entrust this individual to enforce constitutional rights and we give him a forcible power which he can almost use indiscriminately.

LeGrange used Detroit as an example, when the city cut the training period to eight weeks in order to put more men on the street, in accordance with the mayor's promise.

Quoting from a newspaper article that ran at the time, LeGrande said, "Rookies killed one person, shot ano ther and shot themselves four times.

The police organization, he said, is a quasi-military structure, where people are taken in only at the bottom or top 'levels and progress is through a locked-step fashion up a very militarized chain of command.

"This situation is in conflict with every basic management principle that exists in industry today. We are not biased or prejudiced. We ignore all the theorists and we go on our

Twenty percent of the Dallas force has an alcohol problem, said an official there, and an Occupational Safety and He alth Administration study showed police officers were first in stress-related illnesses. A San Francisco study indicated that one-third of the officers there were psychotic and should not be on LeGrande said there was hope for change, but only if the public stopped giving officers a Starsky and Hutch image. "The only way something might - and I say might - change is to get the truth out."

The Lions Club expects to have Police Chief Wayne Gideon or Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith at the next meeting for

Rabies in Texas highest since '53

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Animal rabies - at its highest point in 27 years — will threaten the lives of Texans until local governments get tough about controlling animals, state health officials

Not since 1953, when local mass immunization clinics had to be established along the Mexican border to cope with rabies carried by dogs, has the situation been so bad.

Dr. Jerome Greenberg of the State Health Department told a House subcommittee Thursday 1,195 cases of animal rabies were confirmed. in Texas last year, twice as many as in 1978 and 25 percent of the total number of cases in the United States.

Health department figures submitted to the subcommittee on rabies showed that of the 1,195 animal rabies cases, 857 - or 72 percent involved skunks.

William Brownlee, a wildlife management expert with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, suggested the upsurge in rabies among skunks may be linked to an increase in the price of coonskins.

He said trappers killed 500,000 raccoons last year as the price of a single pelt went as high as $45 in late December and January. He said skunks and raccoons have similar diets, and when trapping reduces the population of raccoons, skunks "tend to fill the vacuum."

Brownlee said the price of raccoon pelts has now dropped by one-half, "and in the next year or so will not approach what it was."

Dr. Foy McCasland, chief of the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, suggested the Legislature set up a $100,000 fund to lend money to small communities to build animal shelters.

Fire Department gets new 911 switchboard

By KAY CRITES

A few odd quirks lurk in the Midland Fire Department's new 911 switchboard.

Primarily, anyone in the 915 area-code region who has a number beginning with 56 will reach Midland emergency service when they dial 911, even if they live in El Paso. And Odessa emergency calls into the Midland station are quite com-mon, since the telephone boundaries don't always match governmental boundaries. The telephone area includes part of Ector County and all of land dispatcher to identify himself with "Midland emergency service." "Ninety-five percent of the calls in the state," said Southwestern Bell Communications Consultant Michael O'Donnell, "come through that Ter-minal office," with 56- numbers.

Midland County, causing the Mid-

The new switchboard is designed to handle a 911-call system and was custom designed for the city of Midland. It has been in the works for about a year, when the telephone company first showed it and an interim system to City Council.

O'Donnell said the company proposed the interim system because the new switchboard would not be ready by the fire department's proposed moving date. However, the city decided to save a little money and stay with a system they knew worked, leaving the dispatcher as the only man at the old building, until the new system arrived. It was scheduled to arrive in March and didn't. O'Donnell explained that there were problems and delays in ordering the system from St. Louis. The switchboard, called the 8-A Key System, is the first in Texas although several West Texas cities are now sidering similar systems. "It's a very compact system that is very easy for the attendant to operate cause eye contact is now constantly the causele," said Penny Young of Southwestern Bell. The system includes two 30-button call directors and allows for two attendants, one of the fire department's chief concerns. It also has eight incoming 911 lines, as well as lines to the Department of Public Safety, County Sheriff's office, Midland Memorial Hospital and three lines to the Midland Police Department. Features include forced disconnect, where the operator can disconnect the line if the calling party won't; ring back, where the operator can push a button and automatically ring back the number that just hung up; and call-party-hold, where the operator is in charge of disconnecting the line and can keep the line open for tracing if the calling party hangs up.

It also has a series of buttons, which when pushed will dial pre-recorded numbers for emergency messages. 'With the 608 board (old system), we chopped minutes off. Now we are to the point where we are chopping seconds off, and those are what are important," O'Donnell said.

The new system is more compact and modular and can handle two attendants. If necessary, at a later date additional equipment can be added that will enable as many as eight attendants to work the 911 calls and will increase the number of 911 lines to 10.

Midland adopted the 911 emergency call system in 1976, to provide a central receiving switchboard for emergency calls. And fire department officials stress that 911 is for emergency calls only — for reporting such things as traffic accidents, burglars, injuries or fires. It is not for weather information on emergency calls are tied up by nonemergency calls. "If you need help, call 911," said Assistant Fire Chief James Roberts. 'That's what it's for. After all, it's kind of hard when your house is on fire to find phone numbers."

Pope tour to get young back in church

PARIS (AP) - Pope John Paul II begins a historic visit to France today, a pastoral journey he sees as the opening phase of a global campaign to attract young people back to the Roman Catholic Church.

The pontiff left Rome for Paris an hour and 15 minutes later than scheduled because a flat tire on the papal plane had to be changed. The problem was discovered when the aircraft was taxiing slowly on the runway, Vatican officials said, and the pope and his party stayed aboard while workmen replaced the tire.

He spoke briefly before boarding the plane and confirmed that he would attend a religious conference in Lourdes, France, in 1981. He also said that on this trip to Paris he would address UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization headquartered in the French capital.

The visit will be the first by a pope to France since 1804 when Pius VII went against his will for Napoleon's coronation in Notre Dame Cathedral. It will be in the same cathedral that John Paul celebrates Mass today.

Tens of thousands of security personnel have been mobilized to handle the crowds not only at the cathedral, but in the Champs-de-Mars at the foot of the Eiffel Tower where the Polish pope will meet 15,000 members of France's Polish community Saturday, and at Le Bourget Airport where the pope will celebrate Mass before some 1 million French of all backgrounds Sunday. John Paul is to meet Saturday with non-Catholic Christian leaders and with one of the leading Moslem clerics of Europe - the rector of the Paris Mosque, Si Hamza Boubakeur - and senior leaders of the French Moslem community. On Sunday he is to meet with the Grand Rabbi of France, Jacob Kaplan.

"The Holy Father wants to convey a message, that the Roman Catholic Church is an exciting and rewarding place to be for today's youths," said a Vatican-based U.S. prelate who asked

"He believes the church must redouble its effort to attract the young people, and France is a good place to start the campaign."

Vatican figures show more than 80 percent of France's 53 million people are Catholics, but only 35 percent of the children from Catholic families go to Mass regularly - a typical phenomenon the church faces in industrialized Western nations.

Despite a slight increase in recent years, only 100 priests are ordained in France every year, compared with 1,000 in 1951. The archbishop of Paris, Cardinal Francois Marty, is over the Vatican retirement age of 75 and nearly 10 other key bishops are over

In 22 speeches and homilies in three days, the pope is expected to appeal directly to French youth, "to try the church for problem-solving and peace of mind," while calling on bishops and priests to make themselves more responsive to the needs of the young.

John Paul has made clear that dur-ing his visit he will also try to deal with the "special situation" the church and French Catholics find themselves in.

He said the French church was undergoing "growing pains" — an apparent reference to problems related to the progressive and traditionalist groups that have sprung up since the reforms of the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65. But he quickly added that he did not "dare to make any judgment."

U.S.-China equipment sale approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chinese Vice Premier Geng Biao heads across the United States today after laying a concrete foundation for his country's first purchases from the United States of military-related equipment and technology.

With Geng at his side, Defense Secretary Harold Brown announced approval late Thursday of exports of a variety of military support items, such as air defense radar, transport helicopters and planes, trailer trucks, and communications gear:

Brown also granted licenses to export some technology with both civilian and military applications. This calls for building facilities in China, with the help of U.S. industry technicians, to make commercial helicopters that would be able to carry troops, and to assemble computer circuits for civilian use.

In addition, the U.S. defense chief said the American government has approved the sale of computers and > to new AM stations WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Communications Commission, although unprepared as yet for a flood of applications, has lifted the starting gate for applications from thousands of would-be radio > broadcasters. By a 7-0 vote, the commission Thursday set aside space on the AM radio dial for an estimated 125 new full-time stations. And it sent an urgent request to Congress for additional staff.

The space for new stations was created by limiting the nightime interference protection provided America's most powerful AM stations.

That change should not greatly affect the listening habits of most people who can now regularly pick up signals after sundown from clear-chanel stations up to a few hundred miles away. It will, however, lessen the likelihood of a listener picking up the signal of more distant stations, those 1,000 miles or more

The provincial capital of Kwangju, blanketed by thousands of troops since it was recaptured from dissidents in a bloody tettle Tuesday, was reported quiet Thursday as occupa-tion forces maintained tight controls on civilian movements. Traffic was returning to normal in most parts of the city and stores were reopening.

Last week, Kwangju became a battle ground in which nearly 300 persons died in a rebellion touched off when government troops tried to crush a series of student-led demonstrations against the virtual military takeover of the national government.

The bloodshed angered thousands of Kwangju residents, who drove out government forces and held the city for nine days. The troops returned Tuesday, backed by tanks and armored personnel carriers, and recap-
