Young was only one of the many involved in concert

By GEORGIA TEMPLE
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — The original idea was simple enough — plan a benefit concert — but, once the idea was born and action initiated, simplicity vanished and Murphy's Law took over.

Willie Nelson's Sunday 8 p.m. Jaycees-sponsored Big Spring concert is the result of people working together toward a goal — in this case the Texas Jaycees Campus for the Handicapped, and not the idea and pet project of one individual. This point was agreed upon in an exclusive interview Thursday at the Big Spring Prison Camp by John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp; J.D. Gregory, sponsor of the Camp Jaycees; Tommy LaRoux, Snyder Jaycees project chairman; Lynn Smith, president of the Texas Jaycees; and John Young, Athens physician and inmate friend of Willie Nelson whose involvement with the concert has aroused such controversy.

"It seems like all the newspapers and publicity have centered in on John Young, and obviously John Young is a friend of Mr. Nelson's," Allman said. "However, there will be possibly 50 Big Spring Camp Jaycees working on this particular project. And John (Young) is not the only inmate who has worked on preparation for this program. I can't give their names because of the privacy act, but they have definitely worked on this program."

THE ORIGINAL IDEA was not Young's, explained LaRoux, but rather his.

"We (he, John Young and others) were returning from a Jaycees meeting one night," said LaRoux. "And I said maybe we could get Willie to put on a benefit show for the Texas Campus for the Handicapped. We discussed it for a while and John said he would check and see. That's where it originated from."

Young, who met Nelson at a golf tournament in Arlington 10 years ago, explained that "Willie sends me his itinerary. Willie's wife Connie and I correspond almost weekly by letter and I noticed that Willie was playing Norman, Okla. Saturday and then was off the rest of the fall."

Young explained that he then approached Gregory with the idea. Gregory talked with Allman who took the idea to the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. After all the proper channels had been cleared, Young contacted Nelson.

Due to a previous movie commitment, the only night which Nelson could perform was the Sunday after his Oklahoma concert.

"THIS WAS DISCUSSED in the initial planning session with the police department, the city manager and the Texas Jaycees," Allman explained. "At that particular time it was agreed that there would be minor objections to it being held on Sunday, but we didn't feel that it would be a big problem."

When asked if they had actually heard any objections to the Sunday concert, Allman replied, "It is my understanding that some of the churches here in town are concerned that there is a concert on Sunday night. This is the only objection that I've heard."

They still don't feel that this is a major drawback because, as Gregory explained, "Everything in Big Spring is going to benefit businesswise."

Young was quick to respond to certain allegations that have been leveled at his activities lately.

"I'm not getting compensated. No one is being compensated. These

U.S. hostages reported 'well' on 300th day in captivity

By The Associated Press

The U.S. hostages in Iran are well but their situation has not changed, one of their captors said today as the 52 Americans spent their 300th day in captivity. President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr reiterated his opposition to spy trials for the hostages.

Seven more people were executed in Iran, meanwhile, despite Amnesty International's appeal to stop the firing squads that have killed as many as 1,200 in the last 18 months. Two Pakistanis were among the latest executed, and they were believed the first foreigners put to death for drug offenses.

"This is just another day for us, there is nothing special about it," a militant student told Associated Press correspondent Alex Efty, who phoned the U.S. Embassy in Tehran from Nicosia, Cyprus, to inquire about the hostages.

"Nothing has changed, the situation is the same," the militant said. The student, who spoke halting English, laughed when asked if it was possible to speak to any of the hostages.

"They are well," he replied when asked about the health of the Americans, but declined further information.

He said there were some Iranians outside the gate of the embassy compound, but that they were not shouting and it was "not a big demonstration. Today is Friday and people are off work, they go to mosques for prayers and some pass past here."

Bani-Sadr, who outlined his position on the hostages in an interview with the Tehran correspondent of the French socialist newspaper Le Matin, said he opposed trials because it would provide the United States with a pretext for intervening in Iran.

"To try to sentence the hostages, what would that serve?" Bani-Sadr asked. "It would serve simply as a pretext for an American intervention."

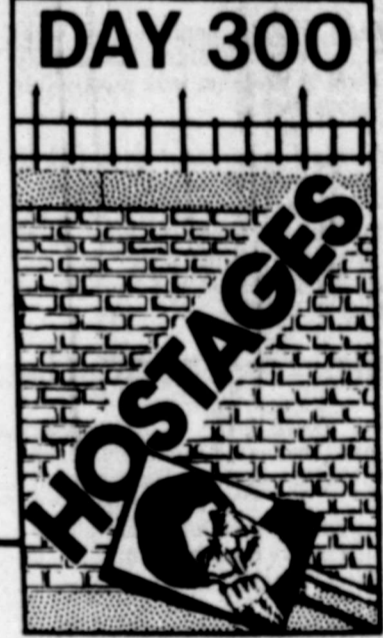

"Under those conditions, could such a move (trials) be understood as a struggle against the United States? The fight against the United States is to free Iran of its dependence with regard to the United States."

"In our eyes, as in those of numerous intellectuals in the West and elsewhere, it is now the United States that doesn't want the hostages freed and Washington is ready to sacrifice (them) if that would save the system."

"It is the United States that has created the hostage problem and which is still preventing a solution."

Iranian demonstrators burn an American flag last year shortly after the 53 Americans were taken hostage. Today marks the 300th day the 52 hostages remaining have been in captivity. An Iranian spokesman said the hostages are well but there is no change in their situation. (AP Laserphoto)

Family should care for elderly: Akins

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

"To bring low cost housing to this community," the aging resident prayed in opening the Thursday session of the Midland County Advisory Committee on Aging.

Apparently, only God knows the answer to that prayer.

The committee, comprised of representatives from various agencies and senior citizens groups, meet on a regular basis to talk about ideas concerning the older residents. This time, however, it was the mayor that was the center of attention.

Mayor G. Thane Akins sat at the front of the room in the First Christian Church and explained his views on who should care for the elderly.

The responsibility lies not with the city, he said, but with the family and church. And he continued to reiterate the long-time stance of Midland City Council not to take federal monies to build housing for low-income residents. If the family can't or won't support its elderly, the job then lies with the church, he said. If that fails, it possibly might go to government for help, but what he called only minimal assistance.

"I'M REALLY old-fashioned," Akins said by way of starting his explanation. "And I will stay that way until someone shows me a better way. It may not conform with what the government does or your thinking."

The group of about 15 persons listened silently to his talk.

First, Akins blamed the federal government for inflation, which he said is causing many problems for people on fixed incomes, such as the elderly.

Second, he said the city is limited by state law what it can do for an individual. The law prohibits the city from giving anything of value to

Grid program irks minorities

Some may be left out in the cold

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Anger among minorities in Midland over a new recreation program splintering off from the YMCA surfaced Thursday during a special meeting of the Mexican-American Advisory Group on Education.

An estimated 40 persons from the east and south side neighborhoods and school district administrative staff showed up at Crockett Elementary School to look at the situation for 2½ hours. But the one person who could have answered many of questions posed by the school district and citizens wasn't there — Gil Kinney.

The crux of the problem is the new football program being organized under the name of Midland Youth Sports, Inc., by parents who worked with the YMCA program last year. As a result of the new organization, the YMCA might not have enough youths to sponsor its flag football programs, thus leaving the minorities out in the cold.

Looking past this problem lies the real reason for the anger — regeneration of a segregated sports program after numerous citizens had worked for years to eliminate racial tension, a point that was emphasized numerous times by Oralia Corrales, president of the advisory group.

Mrs. Corrales turned first to the school officials for an explanation of why the board approved allowing the new group to use four school fields — all on the west side of Midland.

BOARD MEMBER Bill Jackson said the school district isn't giving money, people or anything else to the new program. Later questioning of Athletic Director Gil Bartosh revealed coaches had volunteered their time to train parents in teaching the youths football strategy.

However, Bartosh pointed out that when the parents telephoned him for assistance he was under the impression they were with the YMCA. "No one mentioned to me it was a new program being started."

From the way they talked, Bartosh said, the parents implied they were trying to expand the type of plays the YMCA football teams used.

Two high school football coaches — Spike Dykes and Pat Culpepper — drew up some strategy and had a session with the parents.

"Three days later, we got a call from the YMCA that I was working with a new group. I wasn't aware it was separate," Bartosh said.

COMMENTS FROM YMCA representatives and parents in the audience revealed that organizers of the new group obtained last year's mailing list of Y football participants and mailed letters, asking them to join the new group.

So far, about 250 youths have signed up for the new program while the YMCA reported only 88. If the YMCA number doesn't increase, the representatives said, there might not be any football program this year.

One reason cited for the breakdown, said YMCA personnel and parents, is that several west side parents wanted their children to play competitive football. Presently, the YMCA philosophy is to teach youths to learn the game and give everyone a chance to play.

According to Bartosh, Dr. James Malley, school superintendent, has recommended the situation be mediated by the city Parks and Recreation Department which has authority to use school fields after 5:30 p.m.

BECAUSE THE school fields approved for the new group are all on the west side — Fannin, Henderson, Rusk and Alamo schools — the parents and advisory group charged the school district with allowing segregated sports.

One young parent pointed out that even if children from the east and south sides want to join the new group there is the matter of transportation. "If both parents work how can they get their kids over there (west side) after school?"

She added that in the past years a lot of youths from south and east Midland went out for flag football and a lot of parents supported it. Now, if the YMCA can't sponsor the program, "what will it do psychologically to the teams left here?"

Despite Jackson's objections, Mrs. Corrales stuck with the theory that "the school administration is perpetuating the situation of segregation. It (the new program) doesn't involve the whole community. It emphasizes a certain segment of the community is going to be separate from the rest of it."

Bartosh said Kinney informed him the new group would try to form a people are putting in long, hard hours. Willie's a friend of mine. I would have done the same for Willie. Willie's family are friends of mine. Willie's wife is as close to me as any sister could be," said Young, adding that those familiar with the Texas Jaycees Campus for the Handicapped knew "why we agreed to do this."

THE TEXAS JAYCEES Campus for the Handicapped, located near Gonzales, explained Lynn Smith, "has two requirements that have to be met in order to be able to attend. You must be of sound mind and you must be physically handicapped. At the present time we have 44 students on our campus which is the maximum we can handle."

Smith went on to explain that this campus "is totally funded and supported by the Texas Jaycees. It's a campus where these people can go and not only get their academic studies, they also live on campus and get all their therapy there. It's a unique situation and one of a kind in the world."

The proceeds from the Sunday concert will go to the expansion fund for the college, which has a long waiting list, and to the day-to-day operation of the school, Smith said.

In answer to certain implied allegations that Young had enjoyed certain freedoms that were unusual to prison camp policy, Allman replied, "The federal prison system does not allow a work community program where inmates draw salaries and work in private industry. When we talk about work from this institution, we're talking about charitable organizations."

INMATES ARE allowed to leave the prison facility if they are properly escorted, Allman explained, to which Young stated that during the "short periods of time that I spent at the chamber of commerce I was always escorted."

The actual controversy over the concert seems to stem from Young's friendships with various celebrities. "I pled guilty to writing an illegal prescription to Christy Athens and to ADDING FUEL to the fire is the fact that the cost of the new program almost entirely excludes youth from low-income families. After the meeting, YMCA personnel explained the youths pay for their program on a sliding scale, including renting the uniform.

APPARENTLY, AN east side team was to play a west side team in Memorial Stadium on a Saturday morning, she recalled. The story at that time is that parents of the west side team objected to their children playing the east side team, saying they were too rough and undisciplined, Mrs. Madrid said.

Dr. Viola Coleman emphasized that "it is difficult for a white parent to understand where we're coming from."

She and another parent agreed that "something is surfacing in our society. We see something that's happening all over the United States and it needs to be headed off."

"I THANK GOD for the last six months. I feel like I've traded whatever in short years here that my sentence is for eternity because there's no question that if I'd died a year ago I'd been damned to hell. I've had time to see the truth. I feel that God put me in here to get my attention."

YOUNG SAID HE wished his name had "never surfaced on this (concert). This concert was for one purpose and that is to raise money for the Texas Jaycees Campus for the Handicapped."

Judge denies injunction against accused roofers

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The four men accused of deceptive business practices in carrying out a roofing-and-paving business scheme may continue their operation but only if it conforms with the law, Assistant Texas Attorney General John Steven Dwyre said here Thursday in a hearing for a temporary injunction before 238th State District Court Judge Vann Culp.

The men, including a Midlander, are suspected of doing substandard sealing work on roofs and parking lots and of misrepresenting the quality of their work.

"If they can conform with the law, they can continue their work," said Dwyre. "We're not trying to deprive anyone of their livelihood."

The injunction would preclude the foursome from engaging in deceptive trade practices. If violated, defendants would face contempt-of-court charges and further action by Texas Attorney General Mark White.

The defendants may be ordered to make restitution and may be fined up to $10,000 each in the scheme that stretches to South Texas, Dwyre said.

Defendants in the case are John Costello, 53, and Daniel "Danny" Mesker, 27, both of Pharr in South Texas; John "Nikki" Marks, 29, of Midland; and Thomas Payne, 44, who was described as a "stocky, red-faced fellow."

Only Payne, whose whereabouts were not determined, was not represented in court an attorney. Counsel for Costello, Mesker and Marks lodged no objections against imposition of the injunction.

The temporary restraining order was effected Aug. 20 by Judge Culp in the wake of an investigation by Midland County Sheriff's criminal investigators Sgt. Tommy Jones and Sgt. Les Hunter.

Several Midlanders had complained earlier in August of shoddy work in sealing roofs and parking pavements.

"I'm not a professional roofer in any manner," said Hunter, "but it looked like black spray paint was sprayed on the roofs" rather than tar, asphalt, or other sealants.

Complaints were lodged by Bill Conner, who indicated that the sealing work on the parking area at Conner's Grocery & Delicatessen was inadequate; by Pauline Grace, who testified that repair to her roof at 2909 Franklin Ave. was misrepresented, and by Raymond Nance, who said that similar work was done on his roof at 3101 Mariana Ave.

Mrs. Grace said that a man, later identified as Costello, solicited roof-repair work after he had knocked on her door on Aug. 5.

"Been noticing that your roof needs work," Mrs. Grace said the man, who said he representing Longwear Roofing Co. of Big Spring, told her.

"I said, 'Yes, it does need work done on it.'" Her house roof is covered with tar and gravel.

The man, she said, told her that the repair work would be "reasonably priced," would make for a warmer house, carried an eight-year guarantee, would waterproof the roof, and that the plastic-like sealant used would be "better than tar."

She agreed to have the work done, but was dissatisfied with it.

"It (the coating) was just in spots," she said. Mrs. Grace also said that the over-spray covered parts of shrubs.

Nance testified that a similar experience happened to him on Aug. 4.

He said Costello came to his house, "said 'my roof looked like it was in pretty bad shape.'"

The roofer, Nance said, told him the high-pressure coating would add 15 years to the life of the roof.

Nance said he was somewhat apprehensive that that type of work could be done for $325, "but he (Costello) looked like a roofer, and he had good equipment."

The roofer had claimed that the sealant would waterproof the roof.

"But it rained that night, and it leaked like nothing had happened," Nance said.

Cubans storm Braniff jet

DALLAS (AP) — A Braniff International jetliner bound from Rio de Janeiro to Los Angeles was stormed early today by 150 apparently unarmed Cuban refugees during a stop-over in Lima, Peru, an airline spokesman said.

The "attempted hijacking" occurred as people were boarding the plane, and there were 16 passengers and one flight attendant on the jet, said Jere Cox, public relations director for Braniff International Airways in Dallas.

Another Braniff spokesman, Mike Kaeser, said that "at last report, there were no weapons on the aircraft."

Cox said Peruvian government officials were "meeting on board the aircraft with a group reported to be Cubans to discuss demands." He said U.S. officials also were negotiating with the Cubans.

"The group did break through Peruvian security at the airport to board the aircraft," he said.

Flight 920, which originated in Rio, was making a fueling stop-over in Lima and had been scheduled to depart for Los Angeles at 12:20 a.m. CDT, Cox said.

In April, 10,000 Cubans jammed the Peruvian Embassy compound in Havana after the Cuban government withdrew its security force.

Jury deliberating in Abscam trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosecutors say Rep. Michael Myers was "caught red handed." Defense lawyers say he was "play acting."

Today, the jury in the nation's first Abscam trial was to begin deliberating the fate of Myers and three other men accused of sharing a bribe from undercover FBI agents.

The nine-woman, three-man panel was to begin deliberating after receiving instructions from U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt.

Myers' bribery-conspiracy trial, which began in Brooklyn on Aug. 11, is the first for six congressmen indicted on charges stemming from the FBI's investigation, code-named Abscam. The others will stand trial later this year.

The Pennsylvania Democrat, Camden, N.J., Mayor Angelo Errichetti, Philadelphia City Councilman Louis J. Johnson and Philadelphia attorney Howard Criden were accused of sharing $50,000 from undercover FBI agents posing as representatives of an Arab sheik in return for Myers' promise to help the sheik in immigration matters.

They were charged with bribery, conspiracy and traveling in interstate commerce to commit bribery. The bribery count included two subsections, one carrying a possible 15-year prison term and a lesser "criminal gratuity" offense carrying a possible two-year term. The conspiracy count carried a possible five-year term.

Pratt ruled earlier that the jury must find Myers guilty of either subsection of the bribery statute in order to convict on the conspiracy and interstate travel counts.

He also ruled that if the jury acquitted Myers it had to clear the other defendants. "If it was play acting for everyone," Pratt said.

Begin dismisses relocation of embassies in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin says he regrets the decision recently taken by 10 of 13 countries with embassies here to move out of Jerusalem but that it "doesn't change anything" about the city's status as capital of the Jewish state.

"There is no force in the world that can change this fact: that Jerusalem is one capital, one city, and so it will be forever," Begin said Thursday during a meeting with a visiting delegation from the United Jewish Appeal.

The prime minister implicitly criticized President Carter for refusing to stand by the Democratic Party plat-

Dissident gets four years hard labor

MOSCOW (AP) — Tatyana Velikanova, a leading Soviet dissident, was sentenced today to four years at hard labor, to be followed by five years in exile in a remote part of the country for "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda." She was the second dissident sentenced to hard labor and exile in two days.

Relatives emerging from the courtroom in east Moscow said spectators at the trial shouted, "Not Enough!" as the sentence was read out.

Most of Mrs. Velikanova's own supporters were barred from the three-day trial.

Shortly after Mrs. Velikanova was sentenced, a van believed to be carrying her roared away from the courthouse, located in a run-down area next to a railway yard. About 20 of her supporters called out her name as the van departed.

On Thursday, a Moscow court condemned another active member of the dissident movement, Russian Orthodox priest Gleb Yakunin, to five years at hard labor and five of internal exile.

The cases were the first major dissident trials since the Moscow Olympics.

Moscow Radio said Mrs. Velikanova, 47, had distributed materials defaming the Soviet system and "had them transferred to the west for the subsequent use by imperialist propaganda centers."

"The inquest and depositions of witnesses have proven the degree of her implication," the radio said in its international service.

Relatives reported from her trial that prosecutors appeared to have built their case largely around Mrs. Velikanova's alleged involvement with the "Chronicle of Current Events," an underground dissident publication.

They said witnesses who were presented Wednesday and Thursday included labor camp officials and inmates, who rebutted claims in the chronicle of poor conditions at labor camps.

Mrs. Velikanova, who has been active in dissident circles for more than a decade, was a founding member of the "Initiative Group for Human Rights." The group was a forerunner of several current dissident organizations.

The courthouse where she was tried was the same where physicist Yuri Orlov was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment in a highly publicized dissident trial in 1978. The cases of Mrs. Velikanova and Yakunin are among the most major dissident cases in the past two years.

Dissident sources said Mrs. Velikanova took little part in her trial and refused to sign statements during pre-trial detention.

Funeral arrangements are pending for Fred "Tex" Avery, 72, who died Tuesday after a long illness. Avery was the co-creator of Bugs Bunny, Porky Pig, and Droopy the Dog cartoons. He is survived by his wife, Pat, and a daughter, Nancy. (AP Laserphoto)

Guard fires shots to sink casket during sea burial

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — An honor guard fired shots in the coffin of a veteran after the casket did not sink during a burial at sea.

The incident occurred aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Farragut, 66 miles off the coast near here, Lt. Cmdr. Mike Cherry said Thursday.

Cherry said it was "very unusual" for a coffin to remain afloat during a burial at sea.

"It was a wooden casket with holes and weights," Cherry said.

"When the casket hit the water, it flipped-flopped and did not sink. At that point, the commanding officer was faced with the situation of not going off and leaving the casket floating and had the honor guard with M-14s shoot holes at or below the water line.

"The casket began sinking and the ship departed the area," Cherry said.

Cherry said relatives of deceased veterans frequently request burial at sea.

"We've handled some 89 of them in the past 18 months," he said. The July 14 incident was the only time a casket did not sink, he added.

He said the majority of the services are cremations.

Cherry said the Navy decided it was "inappropriate to release the name of the deceased" in the July 14 incident.

Polsih strike unprecedented within Communist bloc

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
EDITOR'S NOTE — Stephen H. Miller covers Eastern Europe for The Associated Press.

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — If Poland's Communist Party has agreed to demands for trade unions independent of the government, as reported by strike leaders, the move would amount to a loss of power unprecedented in the Soviet bloc.
Domestically, the strikes have shaken the rule of Polish party leader Edward Gierk and prompted warnings from the government and an unusual ally, Poland's Roman Catholic Church, of "events that could lead to a national catastrophe" — a veiled reference to possible intervention from the Soviet Union.

Beyond Poland's own borders, the strikes are being viewed as already having gone beyond anything ever seen by its communist neighbors.
The 300,000 strikers' key demand for free trade unions appears to amount to an attempt to scrap of Leninist-style unions set up under state control throughout the Soviet bloc.

Workers have rejected as insufficient

An AP News Analysis

cient a government offer of free elections in existing unions. An offer of a government-supported right to strike is also not enough, they say.
The real target appears to be an attempt to break Poland's trade unions away from Communist Party control and their traditional role as instruments of the party in a centrally-controlled political system.

The strikes which began over meat prices have also grown to include demands for an end to censorship and dismantling of privileges allowed to security forces.

"I don't think there's any question that what's going to likely come out of this certainly will amount to a weakening of the party," said one Western diplomatic veteran of Polish politics.

"The strikers are asking the party to agree to conditions which remove the conditions which provide central control of labor unions."

Poland's trade unions, like the unions in all other Soviet bloc countries, are headed by an official who is also a member of the party's ruling Politburo and obedient to party policy.

Communism in theory removed the threat of exploitation of workers, so Polish and other communist trade unions were not designed for the adversary-style striking and bargaining relationships of unions in the West.

One Polish slogan, not frequently seen in recent years, described trade unions as a "transmission belt of party ideas and thoughts to the working people."

The workers at the Lenin shipyard in Gdansk, where the strike began Aug. 14, and strikers in some 480 other Baltic enterprises and others outside the region want to reverse the process — giving the unions power which flows upward.

YMCA hosts fall classes

The Alamo YMCA is offering a wide range of recreation and fitness classes for youth and adults this fall.

Adults can register for such classes as fitness fantasia on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. or Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10 to 11 a.m. Evening classes will include fitness fantasia on Monday and Wednesday 6 to 7 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday from 7:45 to 8:45 p.m. Fees will be $5 for Alamo Y members and $20 per month.

A new program offered at the Alamo Y this fall will be the fitness testing. A trained fitness specialist will conduct a fitness evaluation of the student which will measure cardio-respiratory endurance, percentage of body fat, flexibility, muscular strength and endurance. With the results of these tests, the Y specialist will help the student design a personal fitness program.

Members may take the test for a $15 fee. Members and non-members should take two fitness tests — one at the beginning of the program and one at the end of the program — and an eight week progressive conditioning starter fitness program. Cost for members will be $35. Non-members cost will be $50.

For the youth, Alamo Y is offering gymnastic classes for beginner and intermediate students. Classes will be at the following times: beginners (3- and 4-year-olds), 2:45-3:15 p.m.

Tuesday and Thursday; beginners (5- and 6-year-olds), 3:30-4:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday; beginners (6 and over), 3:30-4:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday; advanced beginners and intermediates (6 years old and up), 4:30-5:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday; advanced (6 and over), 4:30-6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

All gymnastic classes will run on a monthly basis with new registrations taken at the beginning of each month. Fee is $6 for members and $17 for non-members each month.

Registration for this session of fitness fantasia and gymnastics classes will be Sept. 2-8. Interested persons may contact Guy Fish at 694-2528, or come by Alamo Y at 901 N. Midland Drive.

CPR course offered

Midland Central YMCA is offering a Cardio-pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) certification course beginning Sept. 15. The course will continue Sept. 17 and conclude Sept. 22.

Films, lectures, demonstrations and practice on training mannequins will be included in the instructional format. Class time will be 6:45-10 p.m. at 800 N. Big Spring St.

Registration is now being taken for the course at Central YMCA. A building use fee of $5 for members and $10 for non-members is being charged.

For further information, call the Central YMCA at 682-2551.

Gas-saving gadget endorsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gadget that cuts off a car's air conditioner when the vehicle accelerates has become the first product aimed at cutting gasoline consumption to win government endorsement.

The device, marketed under the name "Pass Master," can provide a "small but real fuel economy benefit," the Environmental Protection Agency said Wednesday.

Motorists could realize up to 4 percent fuel reduction while using their air conditioners on cars equipped with the device, the agency said. That would translate into a .8-mile-per-gallon improvement for a car that normally gets 20 miles to the gallon with the air conditioner on.

The agency cautioned that the 4 percent figure was a maximum amount and could be less depending on a motorist's driving habits, the type of car and the type of air conditioner.

But still the Pass Master, which sells for less than $15, is the first of 40 products to pass the EPA's tests as making any "statistically significant" improvement in a car's mileage.

Some of the devices that have flunked include various gasoline and oil additives, devices designed to put additional air or water into the fuel mixture and gadgets to improve the carburetor's fuel-mixing ability, the EPA said.

The Pass Master, which is connected to an engine's intake manifold, cuts off the air conditioning compressor during heavy acceleration, allowing a car to speed up without the extra power demand from the compressor.

Dutch discover they also have Love Canals

LEKKERKERK, Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch are discovering that their nation, carved out of the sea and famous for its canals, may now be laced with poisoned landfills, in situations similar to Love Canal in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The nation woke up to the dangers of chemical dumping in April when the government ordered the evacuation of all 871 residents from the six-year-old Lekkerkerk West housing development here.

Drums of toxic chemicals, buried in rubble used to fill in four canals under the site, had leaked and contaminated the drinking water.

Since then, towns across the Netherlands have reported their own suspect dumping sites almost daily — a problem aggravated by crash development that devours any sort of landfill to make use of below-sea-level terrain.

On Aug. 20, authorities in Utrecht in the nation's center closed a 29-acre city park after discovering toxic chemicals in landfill used to build the park. City officials are trying to decide whether the fouled ground should be hauled away.

The central government in The Hague has responded to the discoveries by launching a nationwide search for hazardous dumping sites and is working to toughen controls on waste disposal and soil protection.

Lekkerkerk West, on the outskirts of a 700-year-old farming village 10 miles east of Rotterdam, has become a ghost town behind a chainlink fence.

Workers in white suits, some wearing gas masks, are dragging 100,000 tons of dirt and muck from under the foundations of the 268 row houses. Some homes may have to be demolished to rid the place of toluene and xylene, toxic byproducts of paint. The same two chemicals were found in the Utrecht park.

After the evacuation at Lekkerkerk, the government promptly bought the homes from those who owned them for the equivalent in Dutch guilders of $82,500 to $108,500 and gave tenants the equivalent of two years' rent.

Many of the displaced families live in a nearby trailer park set up by the government. Some have bought new homes. Few want to return.

"I don't know yet whether people will have faith in these houses when this is cleaned up," says Mayor Hans Ouwerkerk. "Mostly it's an emotional problem."

He stresses that the health danger is far less serious than that suspected at Love Canal in upstate New York.

Just a couple of dozen casks were buried here under the foundations, and no sickness has been linked directly to the leaking wastes. At Love Canal, a company acknowledged dumping 21,000 tons of chemicals, mostly chlorides, into a canal for 10 years, and residents have complained of headaches, miscarriages and other ailments.

Researchers say the chemicals found in Lekkerkerk West can cause headaches, coughing, nausea and dizziness when inhaled or swallowed. The wastes at Love Canal could cause birth defects and other serious genetic problems, U.S. studies found.

But the waste problem still alarms the Dutch. Their nation was built by pushing back the sea and is famous for its dikes, lowland canals and windmills that once drained them. About 60 percent of the 14 million residents live below sea level. Land reclamation is a way of life and landfill is precious.

Lekkerkerk is typical, a town nestling below a dike that holds back the River Lek and now a bedroom suburb for the industrial Rotterdam metropolis.

"The farmers had open ditches, and the industries had a lot of waste, so what was easier than filling in the canals with the waste?" said Jan de Koning of the Heideijl engineering firm, a consultant in the Lekkerkerk excavation.

"From the late 1950s to the early '70s, there was a boom in Holland. But there wasn't enough knowledge of the hazards of waste disposal."

New Mexico operators announce discoveries in Chaves, Eddy, Lea

Discoveries have been announced in Chaves, Eddy, and Lea counties in Southeast New Mexico, in addition to regular field completions.

Rapid Co., Inc. has recompleted No. 1 Copelan-State as a Queen oil discovery, in Chaves County, 16 miles north of Dexter.

Operator has suggested the field designation of Rabbit Flats.

On 24-hour potential test, the well flowed 53 barrels of 29-gravity oil and no water, on a 2-inch choke, through perforations from 637 to 1,215 feet, which had been acidized with 500 gallons.

The gas-oil ratio is 1,320-1. Originally drilled to 1,262 feet as Land Oil Co. No. 1 State, the well was abandoned in January, 1977. The old 4½-inch casing was set at total depth.

Wellsite is 330 feet from north and 1,650 feet from west lines of section 31-10s-27e.

The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 3,743 feet: Yates, 152 feet; Queen, 637 feet.

Yates Petroleum Corp., Artesia, N.M., has finaled an undesignated Abc well in Chaves County, 18 miles northwest of Elkins.

No. 2 Teckla-Federal "MD," originally drilled as a wildcat, flowed gas at the rate of 3,768,000 cubic feet per day, on a 1/2-inch choke, with gravity and gas-oil ratio not reported.

Production was through perforations from 3,961 to 3,978 feet, which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons, and fractured with 35,000 gallons.

The well drilled to 5,250 feet in the Pennsylvanian, was plugged back to 5,200 feet, and 5½-inch casing was set at 5,214 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 13-6s-25e.

The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 3,796 feet: San Andres, 784 feet; Glorieta, 1,570 feet; Abo, 3,676 feet; Wolfcamp, 4,340 feet, and Pennsylvanian, 4,722 feet.

Southland Royalty Co., Midland, will drill a 7,600-foot wildcat in Chaves County, five miles southeast of Hagerman.

No. 1-29 Hagerman-Federal Communized is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 29-14s-27e. It is 2.5 miles northwest of 7,970-foot Pennsylvanian gas production in the Buffalo Valley field.

A 2,350-foot wildcat has been staked by Coronado Exploration Corp., Albuquerque, N.M., 20 miles northeast of Dexter, in Chaves County.

Congress may rewrite Carter's economic plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats, while defending President Carter's new economic revival plan from partisan Republican attacks, already are debating how to rewrite the package once it reaches Capitol Hill.

Carter, pressured from all sides to develop a tax-cut plan before the Nov. 4 election, Thursday unveiled a proposal for $27.6 billion in tax reductions for individuals and business, effective in 1981.

The president said his proposal would lead to "a more productive, more competitive and more prosperous American economy," while not rekindling the fires of inflation. He claimed it would create 1 million new jobs over two years.

But he said Congress should wait until next year to enact the program to avoid election-year pressures that might result in economically unwise tax cuts.

"I will not accept a pre-election bill to cut taxes," he declared. Key features of Carter's plan would reduce 1981 income taxes to offset the increase in Social Security taxes that will take effect Jan. 1, and provide new incentives for business to invest in modern equipment.

At the same time, however, it would push the 1981 budget deficit to more than $35 billion, a major break from the president's March proposal to balance the budget to fight inflation.

The plan was promptly denounced by Republicans, who charged it was an ill-conceived economic ploy intended to buy votes. A GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan called the program a "short-term political quick fix."

"If you analyze it carefully, it is the first step into trying to help bail out Social Security with general tax funds," Reagan said in Middleburg, Va. He said simply returning in one tax what people pay in another "just doesn't make sense. That just is not a tax cut."

Reagan has proposed an immediate $37 billion tax cut, including a 10 percent across-the-board reduction for individuals.

Democrats, while praising the plan as a step in the right direction, also said it needed improvement.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who was Carter's chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the president's proposal "offers real hope to American workers and significant prospects for economic renewal."

But Kennedy was clearly not fully satisfied. "I will work to strengthen and enact this program," he said.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee and leading advocate of tax cuts to spur business investment, was even more obvious in his intention to revise Carter's recommendations.

While praising them as "positive proposals," Bentsen said: "Frankly, I think he could have done more."

Bentsen played a major role in developing the Senate Finance Committee's bill, approved last week, for a $39 billion tax cut for business and individuals.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said he agreed "in principle" with the Carter plan but differed on how to structure changes in business depreciation and in individual tax reductions.

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland and Du Pont Co. chairman Irving Shapiro, co-chairmen of the Economic Revitalization Board created by the Carter program, also tempered their support.

Carter's package proposes:

—A $12.6 billion tax credit to offset the 1981 increase in Social Security taxes.

—A tax deduction to reduce the "marriage penalty," a quirk in the tax law that requires some working couples to pay more taxes when married than when single.

—$13 billion in business tax incentives to promote investment, including $6.3 billion from an increase in the depreciation allowance for the cost of plants and equipment.

—A 13-week extension of unemployment benefits, from 39 weeks to a full year.

—A $1 billion program in anti-recession assistance to cities and counties.

—Expanded job training.

—Establishment of the Economic Revitalization Board with members from business, labor and the public, to develop plans for an industrial development authority to "help revitalize American industry."

Philly policeman may face trial

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 17-year police veteran will be dismissed in connection with the death of a black teen-ager, officials say, and the police department has recommended his prosecution on homicide charges in a shooting which triggered two nights of violence in a predominantly black neighborhood.

The arrest of Patrolman John Ziegler, 34, could come today, Mayor William Green said. The announcement Thursday followed a meeting between the police department and district attorney to decide the precise charge.

Ziegler has been suspended for 30 days, as required under civil service regulations, with the intention of dismissal, said the mayor and Police Commissioner Morton Solomon.

The shooting Sunday of 17-year-old William Green, no relation to the mayor, sparked two nights of violence in the neighborhood near Temple University.

But after his burial Thursday, the area was quiet as 100 young men and women patrolled their neighborhood to head off violence.

"It seems pretty quiet. There are no roving bands," said city Assistant Managing Director Edward Robinson at the community patrol's headquarters in a neighborhood church.

On Monday, there was a rock-and-bottle attack on the police station where Ziegler had been assigned. And on Tuesday, three news photographers were attacked at the community patrol headquarters.

Angry youths on Wednesday again headed for the police station after Green's funeral, but were turned back when black leaders linked arms to separate them from riot-equipped police.

Police have said Ziegler's service revolver fired accidentally Sunday while he was using it to strike Green after the youth crashed a stolen car. Several witnesses said the officer intentionally shot the teen-ager after pistol-whipping him.

An autopsy showed the youth sustained two skull fractures, according to Dr. Kenneth Carpenter, the assistant medical examiner who performed the autopsy.

Medical Examiner Marvin Aronson said the head injuries were not severe enough to cause death, but would not comment further on the autopsy report.

Green was buried Thursday in suburban Collingdale. His mother, Alberta Johnson, led to the edge of the grave by a nurse, put a red carnation on the bronze casket before it was lowered into the earth.

Anthony Civella was in federal prison at Texarkana, Texas, serving a three-year prison on a gambling conviction.

Attorneys for the elder Civella said Thursday they will appeal the bribe conviction.
