Reagan is visibly shaken after meeting with Carter in the Oval Office

By PATRICK J. SLOYAN Newsday

WASHINGTON - The main topic was the Oval Office desk. Not that it was carved from the oak timbers of a British man-of-war for its first user, President Rutherford B. Hayes. Jimmy Carter explained to Ronald Reagan what was on top of the desk.

For almost an hour of their one-hour-and-25-minute meeting in the White House Thursday, Carter gave Reagan a taste of what will be waiting when he is transformed from president-elect to president. "Some of the issues I have faced as president," Carter told the press. After it was over, Reagan looked like a man with food poisoning.

It was all elation when Reagan arrived with his wife, Nancy, at the awning-covered diplomatic entrance on the South Lawn a minute before the designated 2 p.m. arrival. The Carters were late but friendly. "I think you'll like the place," Carter told the Reagans. The bright sunshine had taken the fall nip out of the air, but Reagan's cheeks were apple bright as he beamed.

After what Reagan called a comprehensive briefing by the president, the color had vanished from his face. He was pale, nervous and plainly uncomfortable as reporters were brought into the Oval Office to witness history. He clenched and unclenched his hands. His gaze wandered. There was no hint of the smile that makes him look boyish. He looked every bit of

Mrs. Reagan, in a camel-color suit with a fox collar, sensed what reporters were viewing. She winked at the press and produced a smile that remain fixed. But it did little to change the stares of the top staff of both men, who had also crowded into the Oval Office to view the ceremonial end of

When the television cameras and lights arrived, Reagan made an effort at small talk. But it was labored and soon faded into silence.

Neither camp would disclose details of the session that was so apparently president-elect. "Many of these things that were political targets of opportunity during the campaign are soon going to be our problems," the veteran said. "It's going to be different for Ron.

As Reagan was leaving the White House grounds, a Marine helicopter swooped onto the South Lawn. Within minutes, Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, boarded for a quick flight to Camp David

Clements tries to cool rumor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says Sen. John Tower is more valuable to Texas and the nation as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee than as secretary of defense. At a hastily called news conference Thursday, Clements tried to erase talk of a Texas double play in which President-elect Ronald Reagan taps Tower as defense secretary, and Clements picks John Connally to fill Tower's senate seat. "I don't know why everybody keeps talking about this. They must have run out of things to talk about," he said. "I don't have any reason to believe that is going to happen anytime soon, if ever. The governor said it's unlikely that former Gov. Connally wants to be a senator.

"If he had any ambition to be a senator he would have done that 20 years ago, 'Clements said no ambition to be a senator from Texas.'

Tower, who is due to become the chairman of the powerful Senate Armed Services Committee, met with Reagan in Washington Wednesday, but declined to comment on his discussion with the president-elect. One source said Tower still was a contender for the defense post, but that choice "was not as solid as some of the others. Because Tower's appointment would require a special election within 90 days to fill the unexpired four years of his senate term, his selection could hinge on Reagan's assessment of Republican chances of retaining the seat. A Democratic victory would erode the slender Republican majority in the Senate. Clements' opinion on Republican chances of retaining

The governor said Tower is "uniquely qualified" to move into the chairman's seat of the armed services committee because of his 16 years on the panel. Clements said Gen. Alexander Haig, also mentioned as culties" because of his military background.

"Anytime you have a four-star general, you have crossed the line of civilian control," he said, citing "a very positive line of authority and tradition" of civilian control of the military.

Clements stressed that Reagan has not made up his mind on cabinet selections, and predicted appointments would be announced next Wednesday at the earliest.

He has not seen the lists of candidates for each post. 'The less I know about this the better position I'm in with you," he told reporters. The governor went to Washington today to meet with defense, State Department and intelligence officials as part of the Reagan interim advisory committee on defense and foreign policy.

Clements will spend one or two days a week in Washington until the Texas Legislature convenes in January, he said. His role after Reagan takes office will be up to the new president, he added. That's entirely up to him. He understands full have a limited amount of time," Clements said, indicating the Legislature will keep him busy. After his debut among the nation's power brokers was completed today, Reagan flew home to California to begin choosing a Cabinet.

Reagan is expected to spend the weekend reviewing a list of Cabinet finalists prepared by a group of old friends and trusted advisers.

A source close to the transition said Reagan will focus first on the top Cabinet posts — State, Defense, Treasury and Justice — along with the Cabinet-level jobs of running the CIA and the Office of Management and Budget.

Even as the weekend approached, the Cabinet competition was still developing. A source said California Supreme Court Justice William P. Clark, a Reagan appointee who served as the former Republican governor's first chief of staff, now is in the running for attorney general. Until Thursday, that slot was thought likely to go to William French Smith, Rea-

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

The Midland County Hospital District's board of directors voted Thursday to absorb a loss of tax revenue created by the error in the tax rolls made public last week.

At the director's regular monthly meeting at the hospital, the officials voted to let part of the lost revenue come out of leftover funds in a bond sinking fund account and the rest to come from deferred equipment purchases or excess funds from the hospital's patient revenue.

Ed Magruder, president of the board, said because the hospital district's tax funds paid for renovation

"I feel that we (the district) can really adequately cover that shortfall by simply not buying some of the equipment we were asked (by the hospital) to buy or defer purchasing those pieces of equipment." Magruder told the board members. "I feel that the hospital is already generating enough revenue that really we (the district) are not going to be called on to purchase those pieces of Magruder went on to say that he will write a letter to city officials "asking for an investigation and a report as to their findings. The board approved a new figure of

$2,140,829,800 to be used for the tax rolls instead of the old $2,229,316,020

Magruder said, "It has also been pointed out to Mr. (Ted) Kerr (the hospital's attorney) and to me that that figure is nearly $6 million too high because it contains exempt property that was entered on this tax roll incorrectly." However, Magruder suggested waiting to approve an exact figure change after City Tax Assessor-Collector Virgil Jones has completed the new calculations. Magruder said, "I think that it is appropriate that the operations of the hospital share in this shortfall (in deferring equipment purchases). Therefore, the money does not have to come out of surplus district funds."

He went on to say the board's approval to absorb the funds meant "we won't have to go through any legal procedures," such as calling public hearings to set a new tax rate for the district. "I think the hospital will be generating enough funds to be able to absorb this," Magruder continued.

"I think that it would be inappropriate for us to discuss this matter further with the city (the mayor and the city council) until we have heard from them in response to my letter,' he told the board.

Ideas for grants include day care center here

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Twenty-five Midlanders showed up at a public meeting Thursday night at Midland Freshman School to discuss ways to use Community Development Block Grants to be sought by Midland County. Given an opportunity to express their views on the necessary areas for improvement, the residents showed particular interest in establishing a day care community center in the southeast area of Midland County.

Residents from the area claim southeast Midlanders have problems with employment because there is no adequate day care center for working parents in that area.

Residents who work on the outskirts of town on the south side said they have to bring their children into the city and then drive back out in the mornings before going to work less than a mile or so from their homes. In many cases, they said, children had to get up at a a.m. to start this drive every morning. Citizens said if there was a day care center on the southeast side, more people could be working. Several of the mothers who would like to be working outside the home cannot because their children are under the 18-month age requirement of most licensed child care agencies, the resi-

Barbara Ellis, community develop-ment coordinator from Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, and County Judge and Urban Development department for Community Development funds.

"HUD says the county has to involve citizens," Mrs. Ellis explained, pointing to the citizen participation plan set up for the program.

After Thursday's public meeting, citizens will have a second meeting on Dec. 3 to further discuss their views with coun)y officials. On Dec. 15, county commissioners will have yet another public hearing in their court before finalizing the pre-application to HUD officials in Dallas by Jan. 5.

After the pre-application, Mrs. Ellis said, there will be two more public hearings and then a final report and application will be submitted to HUD.

Mrs. Ellis said the county's funds must serve 90 to 100 percent of the low-income population of Midland, whereas the city only has to provide its CD funds for 50 percent of the low-incomed residents, according to HID standards.

Because the funds have to service so many people, Mrs. Ellis told the residents their appeal would have more of a chance with HUD if the residents emphasized the added job opportunities and the number of people who could be helped by the day

The residents also discussed the possibility of making the facility available to older children and senior citizens as well. In that way the facilild operate more as a neighbor-enter to help a wider range of

'It's a very flexible program," she

The grants, which are set up to help low-income residents, could go to residents in Midland making up to $16,soo, Mrs. Ellis said the $16,800 figure was currently the low-income standard for Midland, which has a median income of residents of $21,000.

However, Mrs. Ellis said the county had the option to set the standard income level for recipients lower, "so that the people who need it (the financial aid) most will be helped

"The economic opportunity is the major thrust of this program," she said.

Mrs. Ellis told the group one way the county could have a better chance of obtaining the funds from HUD is to find an improvement program that would benefit the most people. "The basic intent of the Community Development Block Grant program," according to a handout given to resi-dents, "is to eliminate slums, blighted housing and deteriorating neighborhoods by providing new streets, parks and community centers, improved utility systems, better drainage and other public facilities."

other public facilities."

The information sheet indicated the funds may be used "for improving employment opportunities, education, crime prevention, health, drug abuse and child care programs."

Mrs. Ellis said the county could apply for the funds as single purpose grants or as comprehensive grants. If funds are applied for individual improvements, or under the single purpose grants, the county could receive $300 per person up to a maximum of $600,000.

If the funds are applied for a group, or under the comprehensive grants, the county could receive $300 per person per year up to a maximum of $850,000 for a one-year program, $1,500,000 for a two-year program, or $2,250,000 for a three-year program. If the county commissioners voted to apply for funds for a day care community center, the county must prove it can find a group to run the facility and it must guarantee operational funds for the facility for at least a year, she said.

JEFFERSON ISLAND, La. (AP) - "The end of the world is coming," yelled a fisherman as a voracious whirlpool drained Lake Peigneur right out from under his boat.

The island is part of a massive outcropping of salt. If the lake waters sucked into the mine during the shaft's collapse Thursday dissolve the subterranean pillars of salt, the salt dome beneath this marshy island could go crashing inward, officials fear.

The island, 10 miles square, was evacuated Thursday after a 1,300foot-deep abandoned salt mine shaft collapsed when it apparently was punctured by oil drilling and seeping lake water caused a cave-in. A growing crater sucked in more lake water, creating a whirlpool that emptied the 20-acre lake and swallowed almost everything on and near "There is the potential for the island to cave in," warned Wayne

DYKSHOORN IS FAIRLY successful now as a professional clairvoyant, speaking to college audiences, advising everyone from President Nixon to county sheriffs and charging individuals $35 for 30 minutes of personal consultations.

But he has paid dearly for what he calls his "gift." As a 5-year-old, Dykshoorn recalls seeing clearly the image of a man hanging himself in a barn. His father punished him for having such grotesque fantasies. Two weeks later, a farmhand in the community committed suicide in just such a manner.

The young Holland native spent his childhood in frustration, unable to separate psychic visions from reality.

For his ability to find any lost object, he was punished by his parents, who accused him of hiding the objects in the first place.

Seated in a classroom, he could see, feel and hear the intimate life details of the other students, knowing ahead of time their families' difficulties and meeting hostility when he revealed the details.

UNTIL HE MET ANOTHER clairvoyant in 1938, Dykshoorn lived in a confused state.

The older psychic encouraged Dykshoorn to become a professional clairvoyant, but it was 10 years before the Dutch seer became confident enough to begin selling his skills.

Since that time, he has collected hundreds of affadavits from persons who attest that he, indeed, foresaw specific events in their lives. On request, he produces a sheaf of recommendations from police departments and two dozen badges and cards given to him by police agencies across

All his police work is done free and under strict secrecy, a method that relieves police departments of the embarrassment of relying on a psychic to solve their cases.

A NEW YORKER for the past 10 years, he has made a profitable living by advising the fashion industry on which designs to market. Working an extensive lecture circuit, Dykshoorn encounters the full range of questioners in his travels.

What happens when he realizes something terrible is going to happen "I change the subject; I move on to something else," he says.

"It is not fair for me to tell someone he is going to die," he says. He does not claim to be infallible, however. "I believe I can make mistakes. Only God is perfect," he says.

But most of the time, Dykshoorn isn't just making a suggestion of what will happen. He knows.

A rescue official said, "It seems the cars were not fully packed. Otherwise we would be talking about deaths of hundreds."

The crash occurred about 3 a.m. just outside the station in this Calabrian town near Catanzaro. Police said the 16car express train "587." bound from Rome to Siracusa, Sicily, hit two empty box cars detached from a freight train, bouncing them onto an adjoining track where they were hit by the 15car Rome-bound "588" express coming from the opposite direction.

Police said the passenger trains were travelling "at full speed" of 160 kilometers an hour — 100 miles an hour — and that at least three of the cars of the Rome-bound train were destroyed.

Iran claims win at north Iraqi front

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iranian and Iraqi troops battled for a strategic chain of heights along the foothills of western Iran's Zagros Mountains

Both warring nations on the northern rim of the Persian Gulf reported rocket-firing helicopter gunships backed raids on the hills overlooking Iran's border towns of Mehran, Gilan Gharb and Sar-Pol-e-Zahab.

The three towns, conquered by invading Iraqi forces in the first week of the 61-day-old war, control the routes from Iran's western border to the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, 90 miles farther westward.

Military communiques from the two sides suggest the battle for the heights might become crucial to Iran's week-long counter-offensive at the northern and southern sectors of Iraq's 300-mile invasion front.

Control of the heights is essential for holding the three towns as well as the major border-crossing Iranian city of Qasr-e-Shirin, which also is in Iraqi hands.

Iran claimed Thursday it recaptured the strategic heights, killed 590 Iraqis and drove the invaders back three miles from their positions. Iraq said it killed 85 Iranians in the same area Wednesday and 90 Iranian troops in helicopter gunship attacks Thursday in Susangerd, 100 miles to the southeast. None of the claims could be confirmed because Western reporters have been barred from traveling to the battlezones on a regular basis

since Iraq invaded Sept. 22. The capture of Susangerd would let the Iraqis drive 35 miles farther southeast to Ahwaz, capital of Iran's oil-rich Khuzistan Province, and the oil wells beyond.

The Iraqis are shelling Ahwaz from the south, having pushed there after taking most of the port of Khorramshahr and surrounding the nearby refinery city of Abadan, 65 miles to the south on the Shatt al-Arab es-tuary, Iraq's only waterway to the Persian Gulf.

Iran's Pars news agency said one Iranian was killed and 25 injured in Iraqi shelling of Abadan and the area was "relatively calm" during the night after Iranian forces attacked

Who shot J.R.? will be disclosed tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Was it Sue Ellen, threatened with confinement in a sanitarium? Was it Cliff Barnes, cut out of a big oil deal? Was it Kristin Shepard, faced with a prostitution bust?

Hang on to your cowboy hat, America — tonight's the night we finally find out who shot J.R. And just about everybody on the hit "Dallas" series looks like a likely suspect. J.R. Ewing, of course, is that scoundrel of an oil tycoon who double-dealt his way into an international frenzy of speculation after someone pumped two slugs into him at the end of the last season. Fans have been waiting to find out whodunnit ever since. The denouement will be broadcast to East Coast and Midwest viewers at 10 p.m. EST. In the Mountain time zone, the show will begin at 11 p.m.

EST and on the West Coast the show be on at 1 a.m. Viewers in the West can find out the secret early by listening to broadcast outlets, some of which plan urgent news reports. Passengers on Air France jets bound for Europe will be told who shot J.R. when the secret breaks. Actors on the show, including Larry Hagman, who plays J.R., will be told the secret at a party tonight. They've also been kept in the dark for security reasons and only about 20 people in Lorimar Productions are said to be privy to the secret. Bookies in Las Vegas, Nev., were setting odds on the shooting until the Nevada Game Control Board told them to stop because the show wasn't a sporting event and "somebody knows the outcome." Oddsmakers at the Castaways Hotel in Las Vegas were offering the best odds, 3-to-1, that Sue Ellen acted in concert with her boyfriend, Dusty Farlow, in the shooting. Farlow, played by Jared Martin, supposedly was killed in a plane crash, but no one knows that for sure.

Diamond brings $4.6 million

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The "Polar Star," a 41.3 carat diamond once owned by French Emperor Napoleon's brother, has been sold at auction here to an unnamed Indian buyer for $4,651,162, the highest price ever paid for a single piece of jewelry.

The cushion-shaped stone was from the estate of Lady Lydia Deterding, widow of the founder of the Royal Dutch Shell company. She died in France this year at the age of 76.

Heike O'Hanlon, a spokeswoman for Christie's, which organized Thursday's sale, said the unnamed Indian buyer probably was a dealer and was "hell-bent on getting it." Christie's experts had estimated the diamond's value at $1.5 million.

Jewelry experts believe the diamond comes from long extinct mines in India. Joseph Bonaparte, Napoleon's eldest brother who was made King of Spain, is said to have paid about $10,000 for it in 1809.

After the fall of Napoleonic rule in Europe, it was bought by Princess Tatiana Youssoupoff, a member of Czarist Russia's wealthiest families. The clan fled to the West after the Bolshevik revolution. In the early 1920s, the stone was sold to Dutch industrialist Sir Henry Deterding, who was looking for a gift for his young wife, Lydia.

Sir Henry died in St. Moritz, Switzerland, in 1939. The death of his only child, Olga, on Jan. 1, 1979 left no direct heir to the Deterding fotune, according to sources here. Distant relatives put the diamond and other jewlry up for auction.

According to documentation confirmed by the leading international auction houses, the previous top price for a single piece of jewelry was $1,352,900 for a 66-carat Sapphire ring at a Sotheby's auction at Zurich last May. It was the second time in eight days that auction world records were broken in Geneva Last week, a pair of diamond earclips were sold for $6,647,059 by Sotheby's, the highest price ever paid for any work of art or jewelry at

having twins? — Clara

Dear Clara: The possibility of having fraternal twins is related to heredity, but this is not a factor in the case of identical twins. One set of identical twins is born for approximately every 250 live births, but this fact appears to be unrelated to race, the mother's age, the number of other children in the family, or the mother's use of fertility drugs prior to conception.

On the other hand, fraternal twins, which account for two-thirds of the sets of twins born, do follow definite patterns. Race is a factor, with more twins born to black families than to white. According to one study, one of every 100 pregnancies among white women results in the birth of fraternal twins; among black women, the corresponding figure is one in every 79 pregnancies. The ratio is lower among Orientals, with one study in Japan showing one set of twins in every 155 births.

According to informa-tion gathered by the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, still another study showed that women who were fraternal twins gave birth to twins at a rate of one set for every Pipeline cleanup continues

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The Dow Jones industrial average closed above the emotionally charged 1,000 level for the first time in almost four years Thursday after a late wave of buying swept through the stock market.

The average, the oldest and best known indicator of market trends, climbed 9.13 to 1,000.17, its highest close since it finished at 1,004.65 on Dec. 31, 1976.

Several other, broader indexes hit all-time highs as the rally following President-elect Reagan's victory in the Nov. 4 election contin-

Trading remained heavy, though a bit off the blistering pace of the past few sessions. New York Stock Exchange volume totaled 60.18 million shares, down from 69.23 million Wednesday. The biggest contributor to the Dow's gain Thursday was Texaco, which jumped 31/4 to 48%, hitting a record high, and led the active list on turnover of close to 2 million shares A day earlier, the company hosted a meeting of securities analysts in White Plains, N.Y., at which executives discussed plans for the 1980s and Texaco's 'strong cash position. Most other oil issues also were strong. Superior Oil climbed 5 to 230 ½; Standard Oil of Indiana 3 % to 89 %; Mobil 11/4 to 811/4; Standard Oil of California 1 1/4 to 103 1/4; Conoco 1 to 72, and Exxon 1/4 to 87 1/2.

Glamor issues, including some long-depressed stocks that were favorites of investing institutions in the early 1970s, also stood out. McDonald's gained 11/2 to 46%: Polaroid 2% to 29%, and Walt Disney Productions 1% to 49%. Teledyne jumped 6% to 211%.

The daily tally on the NYSE showed about five gainers for every four stocks that lost ground, and the exchange's composite index picked up .73 to a record 80.90. Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials rose 1.63 to 160.76, and S&P's 500-stock composite index added 1.34 At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 4.56 to 360.28. The NAS-DAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at a new high of 206.50, up 1.48.

PUC chairman, consumers differ on basic changes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The chairman of the Public Utility Commission says only a few changes are needed to improve the way utility rates are set However, consumer groups told senators Thursday that basic changes are needed, such as electing utility commissioners instead of appointing them. An East Texas mayor said the commissioners should not be elected or appointed - they should be The Senate Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs asked for ideas on how to improve the PUC system, and there was no shortage of suggestions at the "I have some very simple legislation for you," said Nacogdoches Mayor A.L. Mangham. "Abolish it (the commission) and turn it back to the cities.' Mangham, a bank president and the East Texas city's $5-a-year mayor, said he thought PUC was a good idea when it went into operation in 1976. He looked on it as a "big brother" ready to help cities with expert advice. The mayor said the big brother has grown too

"It's out of our hands now. We really don't have any input on holding rates down," said Mangham. PUC Chairman George Cowden agreed cities have lost much of their rate-setting power. The Texas Consumer Association and Electric Consumers of Texas both talked about restructuring the commission. They want six members, elected by districts, rather than the three appointed by the

"The current method of selecting PUC commissioners, by appointment, removes them from any accountability to the general public," said TCA Director Rebecca Lightsey. "Election of the commissioners would force them to be accountable to the public they were created to serve. After the hearing, Cowden said elected commissioners would have trouble maintaining objectivity, because of campaign support from utility companies. He said he would not run for the post he now

Jack Hopper of Electric Consumers of Texas said the current system of appointments is equally fraught with pressures from the companies PUC regulates "I'll take my chances with an election," Hopper said at a news conference.

The consumer groups also complained the ratepayers are not represented at PUC hearings. Hopper said Gov. Bill Clements and Attorney General Mark White killed opportunities to get federal money for a consumer representative at the rate-setting hear-

Cowden had a "laundry list" of changes he wants the 1981 Legislature to consider:

- Authority for PUC to ask a court to appoint a receiver to run a utility having problems. Cut in half the assessment utility companies pay the state. The assessment is now one-sixth of 1 percent of a company's gross receipts. Cowden said the money was meant to fund the commission. Last year it brought in about $14 million, the PUC budget was only $3 million. "That money is paid by the consumers," he said.

- Clarification of the rule barring PUC employees from going to work for a regulated utility within two years after leaving the commission. Cowden said the rule could be interpreted to include utilities regulated by the Railroad Commission

- Elimination of PUC regulation of water companies with less than about 200 customers. In October the commission set rates for a company with three customers, Cowden said. Under the proposal, customers of the small companies could appeal to PUC if they felt an unfair increase has been put into Elimination of PUC regulation of electronic paging systems. Cowden said the field is now highly competitive and no regulation is needed.

Prime rate soars again

NEW YORK (AP) — The prime lending rate rose to 17 percent at one major bank today and inched closer to its 20 percent record of last spring as the Federal Reserve kept up its attempt to fight inflation by limiting the amount of money Americans can

The prime rate is a bank's charge on loans to top-ranked businesses, but the general tightening of credit means banks will be "toughening their terms" for consumer and mortgage lending as well, said David Jones, economist at the brokerage house of Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. Inc. The nation "is on the verge of a (credit) crunch again," raising "the possibility the economy will hit the skids" by early 1981 after passing in and out of a recession this year. Jones said. "Housing and construction activity, auto sales and consumer durable (goods) spending, inventory accumulation, business, plant and equipment outlays, and state and local government spending all are in for a second jolt," said economist Allen Sinai in a report issued this week by Data Resources Inc., the forecasting service. The latest jump ion borrowing costs came as Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. announced in Chicago its prime lending rate was rising threequarters of a percentage point to 17 percent today following "Federal Reserve attempts to combat inflation through a restrictive monetary policy." The increase by the nation's seventh-largest bank was the second three-quarter-point rise in a week and lifted the rate to its highest point since early May. The prime rate jumped to 20 percent last April as the Fed tightened credit, then dropped as low as 10.75 percent at some banks in late July as loan demand fell. Continental Illinoiis' lead Thursday was not immediately followed by other major lenders, but analysts had predicted earlier in the week a widespread 17 percent prime rate was likely because the banks' own borrowing costs have been spiraling. According to economist Jones, a growing "tight-money psychology" as the economy moved out of the recession pushed banks and their customers to "aggressively bid" for money before rates took yet But the Fed last week moved to cool borrowing demand by increasing from 11 to 12 percent the the rate for some large borrowers.

Soviets reject withdrawal demand

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The Soviet Union today rejected a new General Assembly demand that it pull its troops out of Afghanistan, just as it rejected the Assembly's first withdrawal demand 10 months ago. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, accused the assembly of "direct interference" in Afghanistan's internal affairs and said the resolution was 'aimed at turning the United Nations into an instrument for such interfer-

Western, Islamic and other Third World nations cast 111 votes Thursday for a Third World resolution demanding "the immediate withdrawal of foreign forces from Afghanistan.' There were 22 opponents and 12 ab-

The Tass report made no mention of the size of the vote against the Soviet Soviet Ambassador Oleg A Troyanovsky told the assembly the United States and China were responsible for the Kremlin's military intervention in its Central Asian neighbor

because they were waging "an undeclared war' against Afghanistan.

Troyanovsky called the resolution an inadmissible interference in the internal affairs of Afghanistan and a gross violation of the United Nations charter."

An estimated 85,000 Soviet troops have been stationed in afghanistan since the Kremlin first intervened last December to replace pro-Marxist Afghan President Hafizullah Amin with Babrak Karmal, another pro-Soviet leader. Amin was executed in the Christmas week. The Soviets said they moved in to help the communist government put down a rebellion by anti-communist Moslem rebels waging a guerrilla war. The Soviet Union rejected a similar resolution adopted by the Assembly on Jan. 14 by a vote of 104-18 with 18 abstentions. That resolution was passed in an emergency assembly session called after the Soviet Union vetoed Security Council action against the incursion. The Council is the only U.N. body with the power to enforce its resolutions.

The new resolution recommended that Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim appoint a special representative "with a view to promoting a political solution" for Afghanistan including security guarantees for "all neigh-boring states." It called for "preservation" of Afghanistan's non-alignment, reaffirms the right of the Afghan people to choose their own form of government and political system free from outside intervention, "calls upon all parties concerned to work for the urgent achievement of a political solution" and appeals for humanitarian relief for Afghan refugees.

Afghan Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost said "no resolution or special representative" would deter the Afghans from their course, and only direct negotiations among Afghanistan and neighboring Pakistan and Iran could lead to a settlement. At the opening of the four-day debate on Monday, Dost reiterated Afghan and Soviet contentions that "a limited contingent of Soviet troops" were invited into the country to help repel "counter-revolutionary bands" trained by U.S. and Chinese intelligence agents who came mostly from

Meanwhile, the Afghan situation continued to hog the spotlight at the East-West conference in Madrid, where representatives from 35 nations are reviewing the 1975 Helsinki accords on human rights and European Security.

Soviet delegate Yevgeny Medvedev told the meeting Thursday that U.S. economic sanctions imposed against the Soviet Union to protest its Afghan intervention could undermine international confidence in the United States as a trading partner.

He also claimed the sanctions violated the Helsinki agreement and the U.N. Charter.

American delegate Max Kampelman defended the sanctions as a legitimate "response to behavior that violates norms of international con-

Four of 10 defendants admit guilt

PEKING (AP) - Four of the 10 defendants accused of bringing "untold disaster" to China during the Cultural Revolution have admitted their guilt, but Mao Tse-tung's widow still is posturing like the movie actress she once was and striking "a nauseating pose," the Chinese press said today The trial of Mao's widow, Jiang Qing, her three radical associates in the so-called "Gang of Four" and six supporters of the late Defense Minister Lin Piao opened Thursday in Peking with the reading of the 20,000-woyd, 48-count indictment. Chinese sources said no session was scheduled today, and there was no indication when the trial would resume. The two groups and their allies are accused of causing the deaths of more than 34,800 people during the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution, of framing other top leaders in an attempt to take over the government, of plotting to murder Mao and stage an armed coup and of plotting to stage an armed rebellion in Shanghai after Mao's death.

They could be sentenced to death. Television reports of the first trial session showed Jiang Qing looking as seif-assured as she did when she was in power, before her husband's death and her arrest four years ago. She was escorted into the courtroom by two armed women guards, but she showed no ill effects from her long detention. She held her head high, and her appearance was unchanged. Dressed in a dark Mao suit, she wore her usual dark-rimmed glasses, and her hair was still thick and jet black despite her 67

Some of the Chinese reporters who attended the trial said she wept at one point, but in general she "looked pleased with herself," the official Xinhua news agency reported.
