Apartment building burns killing 12 of family

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A century-old apartment building where 12 members of a Vietnamese family met their deaths in a roaring fire was being remodeled to meet the requirements of a stringent new fire code, the building managers say

The charred remains were found "stacked up on each other" in the family's kitchen after firefighters extinguished a four-alarm blaze that swept through the top two floors of the three-story Avalon Apartments on Thursday

There was this one Vietnamese lady ... screaming 'Fire! Fire!' ... My husband tried to go up the staircase. It was filled with smoke. ... We just couldn't get them out," said the wife of the building's assistant manag-

Iranians demand gold deposit to win freedom for hostages

By The Associated Press

Iran today told Washington that to win release of the hostages the U.S. government must deposit "the gold and confiscated wealth" of Iran with the Algerian central bank and offer good will guarantees about return of the late shah's fortune, a top Iranian official was quoted as saying.

The Algerian intermediaries in the hostage crisis left Tehran today with the "final reply" from Iran. Delegation leader Rehda Malek, the Algerian ambassador to the United States, told à reporter in Tehran that the Iranian response already has been transmitted to officials in Washing-

The comments by Behzad Nabavi, Cabinet-level adviser to Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, addressed the Iranian demands that are seen as most difficult for the United States to meet: return of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's wealth and release of the estimated $8 billion in Iranian assets frozen in the United States.

There was no immediate comment from U.S. officials, or formal statement from Malek or the other two Algerian diplomats as they boarded a flight to Algiers.

Nabavi was quoted as saying his government interpreted U.S. letters as "possible acceptance" of Iran's conditions for the hostage release and that the "signature of the American president is not enough for the (Iranian) government.

In what he called Iran's "final reply," Nabavi said "the U.S. government has been informed that it should not only sign the letters and hand them to the Algerian government before the hostages are released but fiscated wealth of the Iranian government to the Algerian central bank.' Tehran radio said.

"As for other properties and assets . and the riches plundered by the deposed shah and his relatives ... acceptable guarantees as good will for a proper implementation should be given to the Algerian government," he was quoted as saying.

The state-run radio said Nabavi made his remarks in an interview with the official news agency Pars and that the government would impose a partial news blackout on the

Mothers of burned tots indicted

Grand jury charges sisters with neglect

Kathy Williams and Brenda Williams, mothers of four children critically burned Dec. 12 when their tworoom shack caught fire, have been indicted by the Midland County grand jury for injury to a child.

Kathy Williams is in custody in the Oklahoma City jail, and is expected to be brought back to Midland Monday. Her sister, Brenda Williams is currently at Oklahoma City Children's Hospital donating her skin for grafts on the children. She is in unofficial custody and will be arrested when she is released, said a spokesman at the district attorney's office today.

The grand jury indictment alleged that the four children, aged 1 through 4, were injured through neglect. Injury to a child is a second-degree felony, "unless the conduct is engaged in recklessley or negligently, in which event it shall be a felony of the third degree," states the Texas Penal Code.

Second-degree felonies are punishable by a sentence of two to 20 years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

A fine of not more than $10,000 may also be levied. Third-degree felonies are punishable by a sentence of two to 10 years and a possible fine not to exceed $5,000.

Hobbert Williams, 4; Karen Williams, 3; and Tyrone Williams, 1, are the children of Kathy Williams. Three-year-old Lakephine Williams is the daughter of Brenda Williams.

Hobbert, Tyrone and Lakephine were listed in serious condition in Children's Hospital in Oklahoma City this morning. Karen was in good con-

All four children were originally listed as critical, after an extension cord shorted out about 12: 45 a.m. Dec. 12, setting fire to the shack where the four children were asleep. The owner of the house, which was rented to the Williams, told police neither of the mothers was home at the time of the fire.

The four were rescued from the fire by a neighbor, Joe O'Neal, who just happened to be driving by and saw the

Alexei Kosygin dies

MOSCOW (AP) - Alexei N. Kosygin, who resigned from the Soviet premiership in October after 16 years as head of the government, died Thursday night of a heart attack, Soviet and diplomatic sources reported.

There was no public announcement of the death, but Western diplomats said they had been informed of it by Soviet officials. Other Soviet sources also confirmed the death to reporters, and said the 76-year-old Kosygin died of a heart attack.

Kosygin had been reported in critical condition for the past several months at a clinic near Moscow. He suffered from heart and circulatory problems, sources said, and hadn't been seen in public since the closing of the Moscow

Sources said the ex-premier, whose resignation Oct. 23 was officially attributed to health reasons, would be given a state funeral, possibly on Red Square.

The last Red Square funeral was that of Fyodor Kulakov, a member of the Communist Party's ruling Politburo, in 1978.

Kosygin succeeded Khrushchev as premier in 1964, and was replaced himself as premier by Nikolai A. Tikhonov,

The Foreign Ministry made no announcement about Kosygin today. After the ousted and disgraced Khrushchev died in 1971, no official announcement was made for three days

In Peking, the official news agency Xinhua reported Kosygin's death in a two-paragraph dispatch without comment. It quoted foreign news agencies from Mo-

Today was the 74th birthday of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, who had announced Kosygin's retirement at a national parliament session. At the time, Western analysts were uncertain whether Kosygin had left his post in good political favor.

Brezhnev did not praise Kosygin at the parliament session, but later issued a statement of "warm gratitude" for his services

Kosygin was not presented with any awards when he stepped down, but analysts said this may have been due to his poor health. He did not attend the parliament ses-

Patty McPeters gets 50 years

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Patty McPeters finally cried. But it wasn't when the jury found her guilty of murdering her hus-

It wasn't when the jury said she ought to spend 50 years in prison and be fined $8,000 for the killing, which the prosecutor said was a "coldblooded," and "calculated" slaying - a murder she allegedly set up by luring her husband into an ambush last July 28 by her "drunk" and "vicious" companion and his friend.

The otherwise stoic and seemingly impassive defendant - Patricia Louise "Patty" McPeters - cried when her mother, who has been guardian of her 31/2-year-old son, D.J. McPeters, since her arrest almost five months ago, testified that her grandson would "become a ward of the state" should the mother be sent to prison and not granted probation.

A juror cried, too. Silently. The woman juror was visibly moved by Mrs. Stovall's plea for her daughter and grandson.

Only minutes earlier, the five-man, seven-woman jury, which had heard seven days of often tedious and belaboring testimony by a score of witnesses and comments by the opposing lawyers, had spent a brief 20 minutes in deliberation before returning the guilty verdict to Judge Perry D. Pickett.

The defendant could have received a life sentence, or, conceivably, she could have been awarded a five-year probated sentence.

We were 100 percent against probation," Larry Simmers, foreman of the petit jury, said after the judge had released the jury.

"She almost got life," said the woman juror who had wept in the courtroom. "But that's her first offense, and she deserves a second chance.

A 50-year penitentiary term converts to about 12 or 15 years of actual time served behind bars. The defendant would be about 40 when she's released. "I feel so sorry for that boy!" the woman juror again cried, but this time in the hallway. But the jury foreman said he didn't.

He said the child deserved not to be with his mother and should be brought up by loving, caring and responsible adoptive parents of good will. That, too, is how the jurors said they perceived Mrs. Stovall, the defendant's adoptive mother and a Crane school teacher. The jurors said they beheld D.J. as an innately optimistic and intelligent person.

MRS. MCPETERS CRIED for the second time when her defense attorney, Leonard Howell, asked her the probable fate of her son should the jury send her off to prison.

The day after Thanksgiving, a Santa Barbara shopping mall - La Cumbre Plaza - launched 7,000 red and white helium party balloons to herald the arrival of Santa Claus. They filled the skies over Santa Barbara and then disappeared on a warm west wind.

Two days later, 1,500 miles away near Rankin, Tex., Jim and Almina Braden were deer hunting when they noticed a bright red object blithely dancing along the ground ahead of them. "They were about ready to shoot it," said La Cumbre spokeswoman DanaFox, "but decided to ake a closer lock."

It was a fully inflated balloon with the following message printed across it: "Season's Greetings from La Cumbre Plaza, La Cumbre Road and State Street, Santa Barbara."

The Braden's weren't exactly sure where Santa Barbara was but took a chance on California and wrote the city's Chamber of Commerce to inquire about their find, said Ms. Fox. They had heard of the town from recent press reports about President-elect Reagan's hilltop ranch, which is nearby. We thought it might be interesting to know how long it took the balloon to reach Texas from the date it was released," wrote Mrs. Braden, a 51-year-old hospital nurse. "Thank you for any information you might be able to send us.' La Cumbre officials were so excited about the whole thing that they called the couple back instead. and with a Christmas gift they won't soon forget

- a free vacation in sunny Santa Barbara.

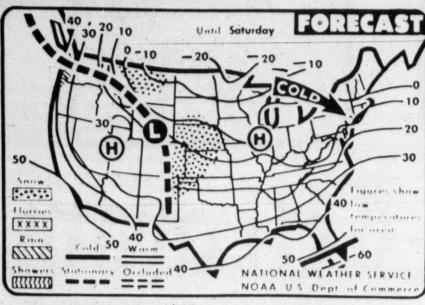

'When I called to tell her," said Ms. Fox, "she was so excited, just as tickled as can be. They have never been out of Texas before.

Ms. Fox said the 57-year-old truck driver and his wife will spend about four days in Santa Barbara between Christmas and New Years. In addition to the proverbial key to the city, the Bradens - who have four children and live in Midkiff, Tex., population 500 — will stay at one of the city's finest hotels. see all the tourist attractions, dine at the best restaurants and of course shop for lots of free gifts at La Cumbre Plaza.

Ms. Fox said putting a message on the balloons was actually just a last-minute idea on her part, and one that prompted a few questions, at that

Brooks was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital emergency room, where he was treated and released.

Hospital directors change name

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Directors of the Midland County Hospital District changed its name, adopted a new way to handle bad debt write-offs and accepted a $20,000 memorial donation Thursday at their regular monthly meeting at Midland Memorial Hospital.

The five-member board accepted a resolution from Administrator Ray Branson to eliminate the confusion over names for the hospital by adopting Midland Memorial Hospital as the official name except in legal transactions for the district itself.

The hospital and its officials have come to be known over the years by various references: Midland Memorial Foundation, Midland Memorial Hospital and Midland County Hospital District.

Directors' president Ed Magruder said there is 'considerable confusion as to which group we really belong.

call ourselves Midland Memorial Hospital in all our the exception being anything to do with the taxing authority of the district," Magruder finished his sentence New hospital letterheads will reflect the change, Branson said

In addition, the board decided to give directors a month to peruse and call attention to accounts they wished to be stricken from the monthly bad debt

Hospital adminstrator to commend officers

Midland Memorial Hospital administrator Ray Branson was to issue personal commendations this afternoon to three police officers who aided the hospital last week with the care of four children who were victims of a fire on Midland's south side.

Branson and hospital officials will honor Det. Sgt. Roy Harrison, Det. Sgt. Bob "Tuti" Miller, and Det. Sgt. Tommy Wilkins, with proclamations of their "displays of compassion" on the night the four Williams children were critically burned and rushed to a burn trauma center in Oklahoma City, Okla.

All three men were off duty when they arrived at the hospital and remained with the children in the emergency room, helping doctors and nurses and consoling the children until the ambulance came to take the children to the airport shortly before 5 a.m.

The ceremonies were to take place in the hospi tal board room where administrative officers will be hosting Christmas festivities for hospital offi-write-offs. Previously board members received the lists the day of the meeting or a few days before and spent a great deal of meeting time removing individ ual names from the list, according to board presiden Magruder.

The new policy would allow members to contact the finance department with deletions after having more time to review the cases of the ensuing month's

Magruder said the board would ultimately like to come up with a plan with the finance department to take minimal action accounts and "transfer them to an account that would foster further study of them." Previously, these accounts would automatically be sent to a collection agency. Magruder said taking them from the larger accounting rolls and tranferring them to a special accounting section would allow for smaller payments to be recorded and people to continue paying directly to the hospital, which would eliminate middle-man costs and decreased revenues

The hospital's attorney, Ted Kerr, suggested "we However, Magruder said "the relationship remains the same" between the board and the finance department, as directors will not be specifically involved with the accounts or their collection.

And the hospital directors accepted a check for $20,000 for the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center from Commercial Bank & Trust president Robert Southerland in memory of the late Robert L. Pendleton, former bank president and original member of the board of directors.

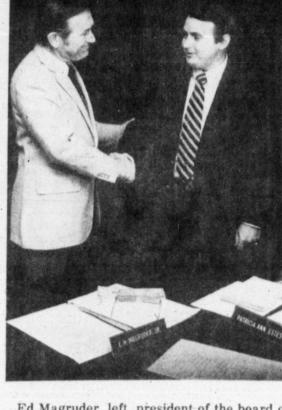

Pendleton, who died a year ago of cancer, had been a Midland resident since July 1959. He served two terms as a trustee of Midland Memorial Hospital before the hospital district was created, and later was one of the original directors of the district serving as secretary and later vice president of the board.

He was president of Commercial Bank & Trust at the time of his death.

"He was certainly instrumental in an awful lot of things around this hospital," Magruder said of Pendleton Thursday as he accepted the check on behalf of the district. Since Pendleton was a cancer victim, Magruder said, it was "uppermost in his mind in the last few months of his life...to work further in this cause.

In other hospital news, the board gave its unofficial approval of the Patients Support Services program outlined to trustees Wednesday. The new program calls for the addition of a full-time social worker, patient representative and chaplain for the hospital within the new two years, in addition to the development of a special volunteers group.

Magruder told the board members he thought the new program could be subsidized with money saved by prior staffing shortages. "I really think that there probably will not be (a need for the district to subsidize the program)," he said, "because we're operated for two months with short staffing." He said personnel savings could be transferred to the new program for the additional personnel required. The board also adopted a new sick leave policy for employees, as reviewed in its November meeting, allowing for one sick-day a month and immediate payment from the first day of sickness. In addition, the policy allows for accumulation of sick days up to 60 days, when the hospital will "buy back" the days at reduced rates.

The board also heard members of the Women's Auxilary sing Christmas carols at one point in the "No." Mrs. McPeter murmured, looked away from the jurors and silently cried.

This time, the jurydeliberated an hour before settling on a 50-year punishment. The jury said the $8,000 fine was imposed to cover court costs. Early in their deliberation, the 12 jurors cast six votes for a life sentence for Mrs. McPeters, five votes against a life term, and one vote was undecided.

Eventually, said the woman who weeped, the jury worked up to a 10-2 vote for a life sentence, and then settled on the 50-year term.

"This is the most difficult thing I have ever done in my life - taking the responsibility of someone's life," the visibly compassionate juror said.

Though the trial is over, the case isn't. Mrs. McPeters is to be sentenced at 8:30 a.m. on Dec. 29, and "There more than likely will be an appeal," said Howell, who is seeking a reversal of the jury's verdict and Mrs. McPeters' freedom.

Mrs. McPeters likely will be in prisonnext year when her alleged cohorts in the stabbing death of her husband will be tried.

Principals in the murder of her 46-year-old husband, James David $50,000 bonds.

McPeters, are being held in the Midland County Jail in lieu of posting The defendants are: -Rex Bradley Shanks, 27, of Abilene, a former high school mate of Mrs. Peters. Shanks is charged with stabbing McPeters with a butcher knife on the night of July 20 off a service road between Midland and Odessa. The defense attorney had characterized Shanks as a "cruel and vicious man." Prosecutor Jim Rex described Shanks as "a man who is less than a man...He is vicious." A juror simply described him as "a drunk." The state is claiming that Shanks agreed to kill McPeters in order to get a chunk of McPeters' life insurance money, would have amounted to $39,000.

-Willie Wayne Jennings, 19, of Wichita Falls, a friend of Shanks. The state is alleging that he agreed to help Shanks murder McPeters in exchange for $7,000 in cash and Ford Mustang sports car. "I feel that he (Jennings) was young, vulnerable, and easily led" by Shanks, said a juror. Another said Jennings was mature enough to know the consequences of the contemplated deed even if he thought Shanks' alleged talk about killing McPeters was a "bunch of bull crap" and was just a "joke."

NOT INDICTED WAS Jennings wife, Tammy Karlie Jennings, 22, who was an eyewitness to the killing and who suffered a miscarriage on the night of the stabbing. The Midland County grand jury last August granted her immunity in exchange for her testimony and held her blameless for McPeters' death. "She was not in her element," said a juror, who viewed the attractive college-educated woman as above the crime.

Testimony indicated that Mrs. McPeters linked up with Shanks in Abilene on July 19 after she and her husband had a marital quarrel. She took the family car and their son and began a 10-day fling with Shanks.

The fling allegedly involved heavy drinking by Shanks and Jennings, hot-check writing by Mrs. Peters and breaking into McPeters' Odessa house on July 27 to get a checkbook to finance the fling and to get a butcher knife and steak knife to kill McPeters

Capt. Robert Settles of the Midland County Sheriff's Department described the murder as "the ideal case as far as investigation is concerned." He noted the cooperation between lawmen, including the sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers ."In any case, there was a lot of luck. This was an ideal case for investigators.

THROUGHOUT HER testimony. Mrs. McPeters denied plotting her husband's death and denied promising anyone anything, including proceeds from her husband's life insurance, in exchange for his death. The widow did say that she wanted a divorce, was "unhappy" with her husband who, she said, had abused her and her child, and who drank heavily

McPeters was plant superintendent for Delta Solvents & Chemicals Co. in Odessa

Testimony indicated that McPeters, who previously had been married for 24 years, had divorced his wife and married the defendant, then a divorcee and his "common law" wife, after D.J. was born.

In their closing arguments in the trial, prosecutors David Joers and Jim Rex alleged that Mrs. McPeters plotted her husband's death.

'We think she was an actual moving party in this case," said Joers and that she was guilty of far more than just "bad judgment" in aligning with an allegedly sleazy character such as Shanks, who had been described was the real culprit and hapless leader of plot to kill McPeters. Shanks, though subpoenaed by the defense, declined to testify. He said he would not waive his Fifth Amendment rights and would not incriminate himself. Jennings, however, testified against the defendant and admitted his part in the crime.

SHE SEEMINGLY acceptedly life pretty stoicly and was obviously mistreated (by her biological parents) when she was young," Howell said of Mrs. McPeters. Testimony indicated that Patty McPeters' parents were a Japanese woman and an American airman and was adopted at age 4.

Guerrillas end 53-day hunger strike

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Seven Irish guerrillas ended a 53-day hunger strike after British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher made it clear she would not give in to their demand for political prisoner status, even if they started dying.

A solidarity fast started this month by 30 other men in the Maze Prison and three women in Armagh Prison was expected to be called off today

"We are delighted that the hunger strike is over," a government source in London said after the seven guerrillas ended their fast Thursday.

The British secretary for Northern Ireland, Humphrey Atkins, announced the end of the hunger strike by the seven and reiterated the British stand that political status will not be accorded to people convicted of violence.

But he promised a review of prison conditions, and the hunger strikers cited the pledge in a statement issued through their supporters.

Informed sources said the Catholic hierarchy, opposed to suicide as a political weapon and fearing worse violence if a hunger striker died, was responsible for ending the fast.

They said emissaries of Cardinal Tomas O Fiaich, the primate of all Ireland who got a letter from Mrs. Thatcher on Wednesday reiterating there would be no concessions, had emissaries in contact with the hunger strikers and their families.

The cardinal greeted the end of the action by saying, "Thank God. The decision will be welcomed with great relief by all sections of the community."

three children.

In the Irish Republic, Prime Minister Charles Haughey said, "I now look forward to a period of reconciliation in Ireland."

The seven took salt water only and in the last days some of them could not hold even that down and were vomiting bile. The weakest of them, 26-year-old Sean McKenna, was like a "yellow skeleton," a relative said after visiting him.

A Belfast doctor who asked not to be named said the men will first be drip-fed intravenously as they would be incapable of eating.

"The trouble is that if you give them too much fluid it could cause heart damage. But if, you give too little it will not revive them," he said. "McKenna, whose eyes reportedly are damaged by the fasting, could need a corneal graft to recover his eyesight.

John Yudkin, emeritus professor of nutrition at London University, said it will be several weeks before the hunger strikers are back to full

"Many people have come through eight weeks of fasting with absolutely no problems at all," he

Yudkin said McKenna's condition was serious, but his poor eyesight was almost certainly not due to vitamin deficiency during the fast, as earlier reported, but to a general condition accentuated by the lack

"Humans have enough vitamins to keep them going for months," he added.

McKenna was given three days to live before the hunger strike was called off. He is serving 25 years for attempting to kill a policeman, bombings, kidnapping and other crimes. His six comrades are serving terms ranging from 14 years to life for murder, armed robberies and other violence.

Haig's trial by fire

Ronald Reagan's choice for Secretary of State - retired Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. - already has caused a clamor from those who see the "ghost of administrations past" arising from the pile of It's true. It can't be denied that Haig at least was "brushed" by Watergate while serving as Richard Nixon's final chief of staff in the days immediately preceding the fall. It's also true that he verbally defended Nixon.

And there are those who will be suspicious of Haig because of the old guilt-by-association syndrome. That isn't necessarily a bad quality, but it can be carried to the extreme.

Ever since Watergate the public and the media have been scrutinizing public officials, appointees and others in positions in which power could be abused. Perhaps that more than anything else is the beneficial byproduct of the Watergate era. We must stay ever attuned to excesses of power in order to assure the continuation of this republic and our cherished freedoms.

But have we gone too far in our zeal to prevent repetition of Watergate? Or are we just arbitrarily branding all those individuals who served in Richard Nixon's administration as misfits and undesirables?

Al Haig has some unique qualities that make him an outstanding choice for Secretary of State at this particular point in time. He's a retired career military man who apparently posesses the political know-how and the diplomacy to walk equally well the varied roads required of a Secretary of State. In fact, we feel that it was Haig who kept the government intact during the final days of the Nixon administration and who helped smooth the transition to Gerald Ford's presidency in the delicate and difficult period following Nixon's resignation.

There can be no mistake that Haig's appointment was intended to be a clear signal to the Soviet Union that the Reagan administration means business when it comes to dealing in the interna-

Yet do we throw all this away because at one point in time Alexander Haig served in the administration of a discredited president? That would be foolish.

While it remains important that we continue to question the motives of all those like Haig who would have the potential to abuse power, we must not slip into the habit of pre-judging them lest we sacrifice talent and wisdom in the name of ultimate safety.

Because of that Al Haig will have to undergo his trial by fire. If he passes, he'll be an even more valuable public servant.

Economists' 'mind games' haven't made things better

One reason economists are so often wrong is that many of them fall in love with statistics. Economics is really more related to psychology than to math, but since no one has figured out how to program a computer with wisdom, observation and intuition, much of what passes for economics is really a batch of math games which may or may not have any relationship to reality.

For example, the august Wall Street Journal recently published an article headlined, "Living-Standard Guage Shows Big Rise Since Carter Became President." The living standard-guage is per capita personal income. Sure enough, measured in 1972 dollars, it rose nearly six percent during the administration of James Earle Carter.

Ye gads, does this mean that we actually were better off in 1980 than 1976? Well, no.

Per capita personal income is derived by dividing the population into arbitrarily selected categories of income. To use an extreme illustration, a nation of two people, one with an income of $1 million and the other with an income of zero dollars, has a per capita personal income of $500,-

The per capita personal income statistics gathered by economists provides just as much of a distortion as my simple illustration. As the Wall Street Journal pointed out, hourly wages, including fringes, adjusted for inflation, declined by several percentage points during the Carter administration.

The forms of income which went up were interest, dividends and transfer payments like welfare, Social Security and unemployment insurance. Most of the enormous amount of interest paid on the public debt is computed into the income figures as well as the inflationary increase in interest rates on private loans.

The income counted in the transfer payments was income withdrawn from those people whose hourly wages were decreasing because of increasing taxation and inflation. Thus, the people's landslide answer of 'no" to the question, "Are you better off in 1980 than in 1976," was right.

Relatively few of the "capita" in per capita derive their income from interest payments. Most of that flows into the hands of the extremely rich. It's hardly indicative of a general rise in the standard of living when the already rich get richer. It is actually no increase at all in the standard of living when income from transfer payments rises.

Transfer payments are exactly what the name says. Income transferred from an individual or corporation which earned it to an individual who didn't. The method of transfer is taxation. It results in no net gain in the economy

If you take a dollar out of a worker's paycheck on one side of town and give it to a welfare recipient on the other, statisticians would count it as $2 of income to the city's residents but in reality, there is only $1 being spent.

I suppose if I had an education, I wouldn't be able to see the simple truth of this, but I'll be hornswaggled if I can see any way to refute the fact that you are not making more pie by slicing the pieces smaller.

We ought to pass a law forbidding all economists from using any tools other than a goose quill pen and a little India ink. Perhaps if they were not so distracted by often meaningless numbers derived from arbitrary definitions they would have a little time to think.

You don't have to be a genius to understand that if you can increase the gross national product by paying for the repairs to your car or increase the nation's per capita personal income by giving your ex-wife alimony, that these statistics have a limited value in shedding light on reality.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Reducing bureaucracy tougher than it looks

WASHINGTON - For the second time in a row, the American voters have elected an "outsider" as president. And for the second time in a row, the voters are probably going to be disappointed.

In 1976, Jimmy Carter was elected, not despite the fact that he had been only a one-term governor of Georgia, but apparently because of it. He handshook his way around the small towns at caucus and primary time, persuading the voters that he was 'just plain folks," and could be counted on as a softspoken but determined Hercules who would sweep the Augean stables of Washington clean of the bureaucrats who had been squandering their hard-earned tax

Ronald Reagan, with his - or his simplistic one-liners, re-phrased Carter's 1976 pitch and promised us he would "get the government off our backs."

It was a beautiful concept, and may have put Reagan in the White House with the votes of those who are fed up with high taxes and other governmental interference in their lives - without necessarily recognizing the protection they get from the layers of bureaucracy they have come to ridicule and resent.

What the American public - and possibly Ronald Reagan - may not have realized is that no American president, however determined, has the chance of a snowball in Hades of cutting back the federal bureaucracy, however useless or extravagant a particular agency may be. If Reagan doubts this, just let him ask Jimmy

Carter. Back in 1976, Carter promised the

Jack Anderson

American people he would reduce the number of federal agencies from their then-staggering total of 1,900 to 'no more than 200." The way he said it, the task sounded no more than reasonable. 1,900 agencies? Whee-

However sincere - or naive - the new president may have been in his vow to slash Washington paper-pushers from the taxpayers' payroll, it didn't take him long to learn the folly of his promise. Practically within minutes of his arrival in the Oval Office, Carter discovered the political clout of the 1,700 supposedly extraneous federal agencies - and the devotion they inspired among the interest groups they serve.

Here are just a few examples dug up by my reporters Peter Grant and Eric Yoder of the political facts of life that Carter learned when he moved into the White House:

Of the 1,900 agencies that made up the incoming administration's overall target area, 1,159 were "advisory committees." Carter ordered the Office of Management and Budget to wipe out as many of them as possi-

When the dust settled, however, the OMB had managed to budget only 339 of the committees out of existence, leaving 820 still around. What the president's hatchetmen discovered was that most of the advisory committees were, if not necessarily valuable to the governing of the country, indisputably valuable to the political fortunes of the administration.

For example, one of the likeliest targets for extinction, the OMB hit teams decided, was the Committee for the Preservation of the White House. This august body was formed in 1964 to recommend design changes, furnishings and landscaping for the Executive Mansion. "The committee rather obviously does little, and membership on it seems only to reaffirm the prestige of those prestigious people who are named to it," an internal OMB memo noted drily. "There is no doubt that this committee does not meet the requirements for continua-

As it happens, however, one of the 'prestigious people" on the Committee for the Preservation of the White House is none other than the incumbent first lady, an ex officio co-chairman. And who knows when, on a slow news day, the committee might be able to get a little media coverage for the acquisition of a historic desk for the Blue Room, or the pruning of a tree on the White House lawn? The committee survived.

The Carter agency ax-wielders also discovered, quite quickly, that advisory groups, with their newsworthy membership, could serve as influential lobbyists for administration positions. Thus, the Carter people actually formed a new group, the Advisory Committee for Women, which acted as a thinly veiled lobbying front for the Equal Rights Amendment.

The committee was supposed to "advise the president on initiatives to promote equality for women," and its members claim they don't actively lobby for ERA on committee time. But there are indirect ways to do it: Two of the committee's three field hearings were held in North Carolina and Florida, where the ERA ratification fight was being fought.

Aside from its own interests, the Carter administration learned that some advisory groups serve the political interests of Congress - which also authorizes them, and of course appropriates the money to keep them in business. The OMB staff, for example, recommended that 21 advisory councils be merged into five - an obvious saving in administrative costs. But Congress, after understandably heavy pressure from the advisory groups threatened with extinction, decided that only five of the 21 could be eliminated.

What it all boils down to is that Ronald Reagan - unless he is a nonpolitical saint or a master manipulator of Congress - has a very slim chance of getting some of the most frivolous agencies of government off our backs.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan's Cabinet selections cause some head scratching

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - "A really terrific appointment!" gushed a senior aide to President Carter upon hearing that Merrill Lynch's Donald T. Regan would be Ronald Reagan's secretary of the Treasury. Small wonder. Don Regan not only personally contributed the maximum $1,000 to Jimmy Carter's campaign, but supported his administration's economic ventures. In contrast, he played no part in

Ronald Reagan's campaign and did not back his daring tax-reduction program until being named to the Cabinet. Even then, the prospective Treasury chief stumbled; Regan seemed to make tax cuts conditional on budget cuts, which never has been the president-elect's policy. So peculiar an appointment to the Treasury is no aberration but flows naturally from Reagan Cabinet-making. Instead of seeking men of ideas or just ideological compatibility with Reagan, the president-elects' inner circle stressed managerial skills and status in the establishment

This results in a Cabinet illequipped for the radical reform of economic, social and national security policy intended by Reagan - save for Rep. David Stockman as budget director and, presumably, Gen. Alexander Haig as secretary of state. Consequently the president-elect now may be forced to impose subcabinet officers on his Cabinet members to carry out those reforms.

Reagan himself is responsible for some peculiar choices. Casper Weinberger, the secretary of defense-designate who during the campaign resisted Reagan's formula of rebuilding the sation's defense no matter what the cost, is intensely admired by the president-elect. William French Smith, the attorney general-designate who as a University of California regent supported racial quotas found abhorrent by Reagan, is the president-elect's personal lawyer.

But the president-elect did not even know near namesake Regan two weeks ago. His name was surfaced by that artfully bubbling backroom maneuverer, William Casey (campaign chairman and now CIA director-designate.) Casey is Don Regan's friend and, what's more, his New York law firm receives fat fees from Merrill Lynch. Republican politicians who did not take Regan seriously as a contender for the Treasury underestimated Casev

For Don Regan to become a senior Cabinet member in a Republican administration amuses Wall Street insiders who always figured the self-described "lifelong Republican" was angling to give the bipartisan touch to a Democratic Cabinet. The $1,000 personal contribution to Carter's campaign and the extra $1,700 from Regan's Merrill-Lynch PAC (political action committee) was not the end of his 1980 Democratic dalliances. He personally contributed to Sens. Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York, Recipients of Merrill-Lynch PAC funds are a liberal Democratic Who's Who: Sen. Alan Cranston (Calif.), Sen. elect Chris Dodd (Conn.), Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton (Mo.), Sen. Pat Leahy (Vt.), Sen. Gaylord Nelson (Wis.), Rep. Thomas Downey (N.Y.), Rep. Robert Eckhardt (Texas), Rep. Wyche Fowler (Ga.), Rep. Henry Reuss (Wis.) and many others. Since Regan and the Merrill Lynch

PAC also contributed to many Republicans, this can be dismissed as big business cynicism playing both sides of the street. More troubling is the esteem for Regan at the Carter White House for supporting the Carter economic policy (including wage-price guidelines) and not supporting Kemp-Roth tax reduction, embraced by Ronald Reagan.

Even after Ronald Reagan's nomination for president, lifelong Republican Don Regan could not endorse the party's tax position in a statement submitted July 25 to the House Ways and Means Committee. That statement and comments following his Cabinet nomination betrayed the need for a cram course in supply-side economics.

Interviewed on the CBS Morning News the day after his unveiling, Regan was asked whether he would still push tax cuts if Congress resisted budget cuts. His reply: "I think the thing has to be done as a package." That-confirmed the absolutely unfounded suspicions of the Wall Street smart boys that the president-elect was abandoning tax cuts.

Why was Don Regan preferable to New York City businessman Lewis Lehrman, who is a loyal Republican, a devoted Reaganite and a brilliant student of supply-side economics? Lehrman is too young (42), too unknown, say Reagan insiders. But why not, then, 67-year-old shipping tycoon Peter Grace, who also is loyally Republican, Reaganite and supply-side? Probably because Bill Casey did not back him.

Apprehension about Treasury policy would be eased if Lehrman (who knows, likes and admires Don Regan) were named deputy secretary. Similarly, a defense expert would help Weinberger as deputy at the Pentagon. But Weinberger stunned the defense community when he advised that his tentative choice is Frank Carlucci, a non-ideological civil servant who is now President Carter's deputy CIA director.

The president-elect has promised visitors he will make sure subcabinet officials fit his policies. Since he set no such requirement for Cabinet members, picking the subcabinet could determine what happens to his radical plans for transforming national

Some Republicans don't want VOLFE NURSERY CIA deputy in Defense post

By ROBERT PARRY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Conservative Republicans, upset with the CIA's performance under President Carter, are trying to block Ronald Reagan's expected appointment of CIA deputy director Frank C. Carlucci to the second-ranking job at the Defense Department, GOP sources say. Carlucci, 50, who also served in the Nixon and Ford administration, is reportedly the choice of Defense Secretary-designate Caspar W. Weinberger to be his

But some conservative Republicans have launched a behind-the-scenes campaign to deny Carlucci the influential job, charging that he contributed to the Presser, who has been identified by both an FBI figures, was named a "senior" economic adviser to the transition team earlier this week.

"It's one of those things, a matter of judgment." said Meese. "It was felt his advice (on labor matters) would be valuable to the transition team.

Meese said Presser's background was looked into and "our people were satisfied that information that was valid and verified would not preclude him from serving on the transition team.

Last week, New Jersey State Police Sgt. Robert Buccino, in testimony before a state commission investigating mob links to pension funds, alleged that Presser was a contact for New Jersey and Boston organized crime figures seeking loans from union pension funds.

Last March, James "Jimmy the Weasel" Fratianno, an admitted mob hitman turned FBI informant, testified in an embezzlement trial of a Teamster organizer that Presser was under the control of Cleveland's organized crime boss.

The aides said Van Cleave will request that the Pentagon receive an additional $10 billion to $20 billion in fiscal 1981 that would, in part, be used to develop a new version of the Air Force's B-1 bomber and to construct a mobile basing system for

The money could be spent after receiving approval from the Congress, which approved an operating

President Carter canceled the B-1 bomber program in 1977 saying it was unnecessary and rejected proposals in 1979 for constructing a mobile version of the Minuteman missile. In its place, however, he approved the development of the new MX mobile

The newspaper said both the amount and timing of the budget proposal have been criticized by certain Republicans because although Reagan and his top advisers have called for increases in military spendweakening of U.S. intelligence and aided Carter's campaign to win ratification of the SALT II treaty,

The Republican sources, who asked not to be identified, also said Carlucci is coming under attack for his lack of defense experience, particularly in light of Weinberger's limited background in military

"A lot of people think he doesn't know nothing about defense," said one source.

In addition, the source said right-wing Republicans felt Carlucci "didn't do enough to stop the prostitution of the intelligence data" that the Carter administration cited to back its relatively optimistic assessment of U.S.-Soviet military balance.

'Many people feel he participated in a grand deception, that he underestimated Soviet capabilities and intentionally allowed misassessments to mislead the Congress in the national intelligence estimate," said another source.

The source claimed that if Congress had been correctly advised of Soviet strength, they would have voted more money to beef up U.S. military forces.

Another source complained that Carlucci presided over the "decimation of the (covert) operations section of the CIA" as deputy to CIA director Stansfield Turner, who critics contend has relied too much on electronic intelligence gathering-while downplaying the use of agents.

Carlucci was not available for comment Thurs

Although Weinberger's close relationship with Reagan would normally seem to guarantee approval informant in court testimony and law enforcement of his hand-picked deputy, opponents of Carlucci officials as having contacts with organized crime contend that the appointment would carry a high political cost.

> Sources said that Carlucci's critics include conservative Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an important early backer of Reagan's 1976 presidential bid and a senator with strong ties to the GOP's influential right

Also, under Reagan's personnel structure, top aides to the president-elect will prepare lists Meese told a news conference here that Presser "is acceptable choices for sub-Cabinet jobs, such as

> If Carlucci were excluded from that list, Weinberger would have to appeal to Reagan to appoint the deputy CIA director. One source said the decision on Carlucci's appointment will probably not be made for several weeks.

Chad's win gives Khadafy new base in heart of Africa

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The triumph of Libyan-backed forces in Chad's civil war has boosted the long-frustrated African ambitions of Moslem radical Col. Moammar Khadafy, and raised concern among African moderates of a new campaign by Libyan forces against the pro-Western regimes in Africa.

French military analysts said the Chad victory gave Khadafy a new base in the heart of Africa for infiltrating, subverting and destabilizing moderate African countries.

The French newspaper Le Monde called it a grave defeat for France's African policies and said it brought Khadafy's dream of an anti-Western Islamic Federation under Libyan control an important step

In Washington, State Department spokesman John H. Trattner said Wednesday the United States was "pleased to the extent that the fighting has stopped." But he expressed grave concern about the Libyan intervention, calling it "very displeasing and dispiriting from our point of view." U.S. officials said the Libvans showed no signs of leaving. The latest nine-month-old rebellion led by Chad's former Defense Minister, Hissene Habre, collapsed with unexpected suddenness when interim President Goukouni Oueddei's government forces — backed by Libyan armor, heavy artillery, mechanized infantry and MiG-23 jet fighters - mounted a new offensive against Habre's guerrillas. The battered survivors of Habre's forces hurriedly pulled out of N'Djamena on Monday and headed for An AP News Special the main rebel base at Abeche, 400 miles to the east, which was itself reported surrounded by Oueddei's troops and his Libyan allies.

French officials said the civil war virtually came to a halt following Habre's defeat.

The war was an offshoot of the rivalry between the impoverished Central African nation's Sudanese Moslem population in the north and the Christians and blacks who follow tribal religions in the south. The Moslems have been fighting for years to end domination by the Christian and tribal southerners. Oueddei and Habre, both Moslems, gained control in 1978, but Habre and his supporters tried to take over in a coup in early 1979 and continued the fight until the Libyans stepped in.

It was the first-ever victory for Libya's 40,000strong Soviet-equipped armed forces which have tried to intervene in Egypt, Sudan, Chad, Niger, Uganda, Tunisia, Malta, the Central African Republic and the Western Sahara since Khadafy seized power in Libya 11 years ago.

Wherever Khadafy's army went into action in the past, notably in Egypt, Uganda and the Central African Republic, it suffered ignominious defeat.

Khadafy's efforts to merge his oil-rich but sparsely populated desert nation with neighboring African countries such as Egypt, Tunisia and Algeria also ended in failure. But last September, the Libyan leader persuaded Syria, which has no common border with Libya, to join in a merger.

Khadafy recently called on all the countries in the 5-million-square-mile Sahara region, from the Atlantic Ocean to the Red Sea, to unite and drive out

Many of the countries in that region - including Senegal, Mali, Niger and Chad - are former French colonies which maintain close ties with Paris.

The French analysts said Khadafy committed a total of 5,000 men — one-eighth his entire armed forces — to the victorious battle for the Chad capital, N'Djamena. Other Libyan forces are deployed in the northern part of the country, including the mineral rich 100,000-square-mile Aouzou strip of Chad terri-tory which Libya has annexed outright with Oued-del's blessing.

Oueddei said he accepted Libyan aid because only

Khadafy was willing to support him actively against Habre. French experts say they believe Khadafy "imposed!" his help on Goukouni.

Last week, with Habre on the verge of defeat, the French government of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing told its African friends French paratroopers were ready to fly into Chad to help end the civil war and ease out the Libyans — if the Africans requested it. Sources said the offer tempted many moderate African governments, but it came too

Habre, who was backed by Egypt and other pro-Western African governments, fled to the neighboring West African nation of Cameroon, where he belatedly signed a cease-fire agreement drafted last October by the Organization of African Unity.

Nigeria's civilian government - one of the moderate African regimes deeply concerned over Libyan infiltration south of the Sahara - convened a "peace conference" of the rival Chad factions in the Nigerian capital, Lagos, for Dec. 23. But French officials said it was difficult to see what Oueddei and his Libyan allies might offer following the collapse of Habre's rebellion.

FRIDAY DECEMBER 19, 1980

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, December 20, 1980 YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Actress Irene Dunne share this birthday with you. Material success means little to those born on this date, yet the development of your creative abilities is likely to win you both a large number of admirers and a very comfortable lifestyle. In the year ahead, an unexpected opportunity to travel could complicate romance. Be sure you know what is truly essential to your future happiness. Loved one who feels taken for granted may look elsewhere for companionship. ARIES (March 21-April 19): Make a special effort to be on time to all appointments. Close associate could show unexpected stubbornness over a simple matter. Creative endeavors should go brilliantly, boosting profits and self-esteem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A good day for signing contracts, legal papers. Update your ideas and image to keep in step with the times. Family problems will be easier to handle if you tackle them one at a time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Mutual trust is essential if a love relationship is to last. Make amends to someone who feels slighted. You find Pass Opening lead: King of O.

There is a saying in the Old Country: "If you drink the water you die, and if you don't drink the water you die!" Declarer presented the defenders with a choice of ways to meet their doom on this hand. Despite his minimum and the fact that his hand was balanced. North felt that his excellent trump support merited a free raise. South needed no more encouragement to go to game.

West led the king of diamonds, and it seemed that declarer must lose a spade trick, two diamonds and a club. But at the helm was an old friend of ours, Jean-Michel Boulenger, a manytime French internationalist and currently a partner in a French casino with one of the writers of this column.

Boulenger allowed the king of diamonds to win the first trick. Since continuing a diamond would give declarer a second trick in the suit, West found the best shiftto a club. Declarer won the ace of clubs, drew trumps in three rounds and led a club. West's nine won, and he avoided the end play for the new allies, friends where you least expect them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You could benefit from telling a close friend about your holiday plans. A parttime job may be the answer to a temporary cash short-age. Follow through on hunch regarding a career opportunity LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Work brings greater financial rewards now, but an impulsive statement could cause embarrassment. Teamwork is favored. Let current romantic partner know exactly where you stand. Anything less than the entire truth is insufficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Savings, shopping and luxury purchases all seem to come together. Your personal magnetism is very much in evidence today, and you gain new admirers wherever you go. Remember to do a special

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The unpredictable can both surprise and upset you now. Be willing to adjust your social schedule to accommodate friend's vacation plans. A trip to a recreational site provides a needed change of scenery people for a commor purpose stands you in good stead. Others express admiration for your organizational skills. A romance may be more serious than you realize. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The day begins with your receiving expressions of support, encouragement from loved one. A small windfall could be part of the picture. Do not let misguided friend talk you into accepting a losing proposition.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your ability to unite

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your taking an active interest in the financial aspects of a business will be rewarded in the near future. Older individual is impressed by your insights. Welcome the opportunity to end a troubling alliance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Opt to follow a restrained, conservative course in money matters. Travel brings a welcome change in routine. Romantic partner may ask to be included in special outing. Do your best to fulfill loved one's request.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Several pieces of good luck put you in an optimistic mood. A trim-a-tree party can provide casual, fun entertainment for friends, neighbors. Mate offers suggestion on how to resolve a difficult domestic situation.

moment by exiting with his club. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace and king of spades to see if the queen dropped, then led a spade to the jack. West won the queen, but was faced with a choice of unpleasant options. Either he could lead a diamond, letting declarer score two diamond tricks, or exit with a spade, giving declarer a ruffand-sluff. In either case, the contract was secure.

"Ah," you say, "what if East wins the second club and returns a diamond?" Then declarer wins the ace, ruffs a club and exits with his last diamond. Now the same end play exists, only with spades as the key suit rather than diamonds.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) Bank, savings and loan and utility issues paced a broad advance in the stock market Thursday amid hopes that interest rates might be peaking out.

But oil issues, the market's strongest group in the past two sessions, turneddownward in a late wave of Largely because of weakness in the oils, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials managed only a 1.70 gain to 930.20. The average had been up more than 14 points at mid-session.

Dow Jones' average of 15 utilities posted a much stronger showing, climbing 3.36 to 115.01. On a percentage basis, that was equivalent to about a 28-point rise for the industrial average. Three electric utilities ways sensitive to changes in interest-rate expectations, because of the large amounts of capital they must raise and because they are bought primarily by yield-conscious investors.

And expectations about the future direction of rates appeared to be improving Thursday, thanks to a rally that began on Wednesday in the bond and money markets.

The catalyst for that upswing was word that President-elect Reagan was considering taking an "emer-gency" approach to the problems of the economy after he is inaugurated on Jan. 20.

Another notable gainer among the "interest-ratesensitive" issues was American Telephone & Telegraph, up 21/4 at 481/4 on turnover of more than 1.24 million shares. AT&T is the nation's most widely owned company, with some 3 mil lion shareholders.

Among bank stocks, Bankamerica gained 11/4 to 281/8; Chase Manhattan 2% to 47%; J.P. Morgan 1% to 48%; Wells Fargo 21/4 to 27%, and Citicorp 3/4 to 231/2.

In the savings and loan sector, Great Western Financial rose 1 to 18%; H.F. Ahmanson 1 to 1934, and Fidelity Financial 11/4 to 111/8. The oils presented a sharply contrasting picture. Texaco fell 2¾ to 49; Superior Oil 81/4 to 2111/2; Mobil 2 to 821/2; Standard Oil of California 11/2 to 105, and Exxon 1 to 83%. Texaco, Socal and Exxon are all components of the Dow Jones industrial av-

BUSINESS MIRROR Record deficit forecast for '82

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - For the fiscal year 1980, which ended Sept. 30, President Carter reported a budget deficit of $59 billion, second only to the $66.4 billion deficit under President Ford in fiscal 1976.

Deficits of this sort that had a lot to do with the defeat of both men, because government red ink is known to be an important cause of inflation and other economic ailments that have scourged the consum-

Now comes Ronald Reagan, equally opposed to red ink and all the problems that accompany it but nevertheless destined to swim in it.

One important forecaster estimated today that in fiscal 1982, to begin next Oct. 1, the new president will set the record: A deficit of $80.5 billion. It will follow a somewhat smaller deficit in fiscal 1981.

That estimate comes from Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates, one of the most respected economic services, founded and led by Professor Lawrence R. Klein, recently honored with the Nobel Prize in Economics

It gives an idea of how large an economic mess is being inherited by the new president, who in the opinion of some scholars is in somewhat the same position as President Roosevelt was nearly five decades ago.

In other words, no matter what long-range plans he has, Reagan is likely to be forced into dealing with emergencies first. It means more of the detested red before the dream comes through in black and

The Wharton forecasters say that because of rising interest rates, tight money, and economic slowdowns in major countries, U.S. economic growth will virtually halt in the first two quarters of 1981.

Their assumptions are based on the belief that nterest rates will begin to decline early next year and that Congress will enact a $45 billion personal and corporate tax cut to be effective in May 1981.

What the scenario adds up to is an economy that will produce less revenue than needed - because of the tax cut and depressed production - but with any spending cuts being of less magnitude. Thus, red

Later on, stimulus from the tax cuts may be felt and revenues might rise, and thus start the Reagan administration on the road to budget balance. But the Wharton seers still see the deficit, though declining, as being at an annual rate of nearly $72 billion

Why have budget deficits plagued every president ince Lyndon Johnson? Big expectations. Consumersm. The desire to have cake and eat cake too. Oil prices. Environmental demands. Worn out produc-

Whatever the reasons, it seems to be no coincidence that the current siege of inflation dates to 1968, and the last time the budget was balanced was fiscal 1969, when a $3.3 billion surplus was recorded.

No president endorses deficits, except as a way out f recessions. Richard M. Nixon was philosophically opposed to them. Ford too. And, though he never managed to, Carter promised repeatedly to balance

Now the chalenge is up to Ronald Reagan. Will he balance the budget? You can bet he hopes to.

But hopes don't mean a thing, and you need go back only to last March for evidence. It was then that Jimmy Carter promised Americans for the final time that the fiscal 1981 budget would be balanced.

He didn't get another chance, and that poses the question: How long will voters wait for Ronald Reagan and his programs to show some impact on prices, production, jobs, takehome pay, interest rates...

.. and, of course, that matter of balancing the budget?

Reagan said ready to endorse Richards

By MARTIN SCHRAM The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - President-elect Ronald Reagan has decided to endorse Utah conservative Richard Richards for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, according to sources.

Such an endorsement would virtually assure the election of Richards, the three-time state chairman of the Utah Republican Party, who has emerged in the last few days as the overwhelming favorite of the Reagan high command.

-RNC Chairman Bill Brock, whose more moderate politics have earned him little support within the Reagan inner circle despite Brock's leadership of the nationwide Republican sweep in November's elections, had hoped to be named to a top Reagan administration post - either secretary of commerce or undersecretary of state. But according to sources, Reagan so far has offered only less appealing jobs: the ambassadorship to the Organization of American States or a deputy ambassador's post at the United

The selection of Richards as national chairman must be formally decided by a vote of the Republican National Committee when that group meets sometime before Reagan's inauguration Jan. 20. But party sources said that Reagan's choice is sure to be honored by the national committee. The selection of Richards, who had served as Western coordinator for Reagan's campaign this year, was the culmination of a power struggle of sorts within the Reagan inner cirle.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., Reagan's campaign chairman and one of his close advisers, had favored the chairman of his home-state Republican Party, Frank Fahrenkopf, for the post. Fahrenkopf's list of credits included his serving as attorney for singer Wayne Newton, but apparently neither that nor Laxalt's backing was enough to convince other members of the Reagan inner circle.

Instead, Reagan's campaign pollster, Richard Wirthlin, his White House counselor-designate, Edwin Meese, his former press secretary and future political adviser, Lyn Nofziger, and his long-time close adviser Michael Deaver all were said to have come down firmly in support of the 48-year-old

Republican Party sources said these members of the Reagan camp were concerned that Laxalt would have a dominant influence within the Republican Party if Fahrenkopf got the job, and they apparentlypersuaded the president-elect to support Richards. Laxalt informed Fahrenkopf Monday that Richards was Reagan's choice for the job, Republican sources said.

"When the weight came down, Paul decided that Richards would be okay," said one source who has talked with Laxalt about the affair.

In 1977 Richards was Reagan's choice for the Republican national chairmanship. But Reagan then was a former California governor; his decision were not held in the party-wide esteem they are now. and Brock got the job.

Richards' political colleague in Utah, William A. Stevenson, the current state GOP chairman, described him as a loyal party conservative.
