Stanley C. Moore named Midland's 'outstanding'

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Politics is changing before our very eyes, in the way we elect our presidents and who we elect," said NBC News political correspondent Douglas Kiker.

The newsman took a look at the evolving political process as featured speaker Monday night for the annual Midland Chamber of Commerce membership dinner. The event, held in Midland Center, drew a crowd of more than 500 persons.

Stanley C. Moore received the highest honor of the evening in being named Outstanding Citizen in Midland. Outgoing president, Joe Kloesel, described Moore as one who "personifies all to be said and done in a community."

KLOESSEL WAS recognized for his work as 1979 president with Ray Moody taking over the gavel for 1980. Also noted for their work were members of the executive board, chamber officers, chamber staff, retiring directors, ex officio board members and chairmen of various committees.

In stepping down from office, Kloesel said the thing he remembers most about Midland is the people joining hands with great leaders and talented workers who give time to make Midland a dynamic, growing, wonderful place to live.

In kicking off his term, Moody encouraged Midland's momentum to build. "I would like to look back and say the '80s resulted in better things than we had expected," he said.

Kiker warmed up his audience by claiming news reporters "are perfect. We don't make mistakes," and then emerged with strength over the past few years, and his number has surpassed the Republicans. "And I suspect they equal the Democrats."

In big swing states, no president emerged with strength over the past few years, and his number has surpassed the Republicans. "And I suspect they equal the Democrats."

On the serious side, Kiker looked at the presidential selection process, how it has changed since Watergate in 1972 and the situation of the United States today on the domestic and foreign scenes.

BACK IN 1976, it took Jimmy Carter a year to run for President. Now, said Kiker, it is taking 1½ years to run for the office. "The campaign has been on since last summer, and we still have eight months to go."

National nominating conventions are changing their scope. "There are no more compromise choices of candidates," said Kiker. "The Democratic convention in 1976 was nothing more than a ratification of voting done in primaries."

Admirers of reform say it puts the selection of a president back to the people, instead of a few party leaders. But that was questioned by Kiker, who cited the examples of Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy as candidates selected under the old process.

Now, we have Richard Nixon and George McGovern, Jimmy Carter or Gerald Ford. I sense this isn't the way we really want it to be handled."

Changes, he agreed, are needed, but political history proves you can't change just one thing.

He criticized the "sorry state of the Republican Party" which still gives the Democrats such a lopsided margin in elections that people are claiming the country doesn't have a two-party system, but a 1½ party system.

Hollums runs for mayor

School zone speeding concerns him

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a three part series taking an in-depth look at each candidate for mayor.

Carl Hollums Sr. does like most citizens. "I sit back and watch things not get done that should be done."

This year, he decided to stand up, speak out and run for mayor. Hollums, 26, is a native Midlander who works at Wallace Grocery and feels his best qualification is in working with the general public.

The other candidates (G) Thane Akins and Martin Allday are tied up downtown in offices," he said. "I can talk to these people (the public) about a problem. I can't be influenced by a business deal."

His main concern and the one which prompted him to jump into the mayoral race, Hollums said, is speeding in school zones.

Iran statement called 'positive' by Carter; No sanctions planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today that Iranian statements concerning the transfer of American hostages to government custody are a "positive development," and he deferred imposing new sanctions against Tehran.

But Carter sidestepped a question as to whether he would comply with Iranian preconditions for the hostage transfer.

Earlier, at a rally in Tehran, Iranian President Abolhassan Bani Sadr said the government would take custody of the hostages only after the United States issues an official statement agreeing to initiate no hostilities or propaganda against Iran.

Speaking at an unusual early morning press briefing in the Oval Office, Carter said he did not know when the transfer would take place. However, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told him later this morning that U.S. officials believe that control of the hostages will be transferred "immediately."

And although he had no assurances that the transfer actually would be carried out, Carter said he was taking Bani Sadr at his word.

"The president of Iran has made a positive step by announcing that control of the hostages and their protection and care will be shifted to the government," Carter said.

"We would like to see this positive development continued and our foremost consideration will be devoted to the earliest possible release of the hostages."

But when asked whether he would agree to Bani Sadr's conditions, Carter's answer was ambiguous.

"We will maintain the present restraints on trade that have already been imposed against Iran, including the holding of their assets in our country and the prohibition of any trade with Iran," the president said.

He said he did not consider it "appropriate at this time" to impose additional sanctions because of Bani Sadr's pledge to transfer control of the hostages to the government from the Iranian militants who have been holding the American embassy since last Nov. 4.

Carter thus shelved for the time being the planned imposition of formal economic sanctions against Iran as well as the expulsion of additional Iranian diplomats from the United States.

He had warned Iran of possible retaliatory measures in a message sent to authorities in Tehran over the weekend.

The president and his advisers huddled in a rather dark and chilly Oval Office shortly after 5 a.m., gathering on sofas in front of a log fire.

GOP solons offer $32 billion tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders today proposed what they termed a "people's budget" that would cut more deeply into government spending than Democrats have urged and provide a $32 billion tax cut.

The GOP leaders also attacked President Carter's revised budget proposals, submitted Monday, accusing Carter of balancing the 1981 budget by increasing government tax revenues by $100 billion.

"Our economy is in trouble and individual families are in trouble," said House Minority Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., who characterized the Democrats' spending proposals as a "big bureaucracy budget."

Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., House Republican Policy Committee chairman, termed the president's package of $15 billion in spending cuts "peanuts from the peanut farmer," considering the $220 billion increase in spending under the Carter administration.

The Republican budget proposal proposed $597.8 billion in spending compared to $611.5 billion in Carter's revised budget and $611.8 billion proposed by the House Budget Committee for fiscal 1981, which starts this Oct. 1.

The GOP leaders called for deeper cuts in domestic spending, higher defense outlays and a $32 billion tax cut that would be divided between deferral of Social Security payroll tax increases and tax incentives for business investment.

The House and Senate budget committees have voted in favor of more modest tax cuts, while Carter has said a tax cut should be delayed until the budget is brought into balance.

The Republican budget plan will be debated on the House floor after the Easter recess ends in mid-April, but it is given little chance of passage.

Meanwhile, Carter's belated plan to cut spending and balance the 1981 budget stirred little interest elsewhere in Congress, which already is moving on its own to balance the budget.

Within hours of the formal release of Carter's package Monday, the Senate Budget Committee tentatively approved its own spending and revenue figures for a balanced 1981 budget. Scarcely a word was spoken about the president's plan.

The House Budget Committee had finished work on its version of a balanced budget well in advance of Carter's long-delayed list of cuts.

every street corner," he said. His suggestion is to assign two patrolmen a week to watch school zones, rotating them to various schools.

His next concern is for the people living on the south side of Midland. "I see people having to walk through the mud to get to the store," Hollums said. "There's no reason we shouldn't keep up this side of town, also. The south side has been allowed to run down."

To upgrade that section of Midland, Hollums favors applying for Community Development funds with a rental subsidy program attached.

In talking with a woman in the Dallas office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Hollums said he was told "it is possible for Midland to build, own and operate low income housing. This can be done with funds supplied by HUD, and the city could monitor the people in it (housing)."

Hollums opposes limiting those funds to elderly and handicapped persons. "I see people who don't have the education to get a good job with," he said.

In keeping with the other mayoral candidates, Hollums feels the city should attract diversified industries. "Any industry we can get in here to help people get jobs and help Midland grow, I'm all for it."

However, to get more businesses into Midland, Hollums said he feels the city should re-zone more areas for retail if the neighbors wouldn't object.

Street paving and improvements are not up to par, said the candidate. The city's reasoning behind its paving program puzzles him and he cited the case of Travis Street where one block is paved on the north side next to a church, but not on the south side.

Today's primaries

By The Associated Press

Here, at a glance, are the facts and figures regarding today's primary elections in Wisconsin and in Kansas:

WISCONSIN

CANDIDATES: On the Democratic ballot are President Carter; Sen. Edward Kennedy; Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.; former Mississippi Gov. Charles Finch and Lyndon LaRouche.

The GOP ballot lists former California Gov. Ronald Reagan; George Bush; Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois; Rep. Phillip Crane, Benjamin Fernandez and Harold E. Stassen, along with campaign drop-out John Connally.

In both party primaries, voters can also designate "none of the names shown."

POLLS: Open at 8 a.m. EST and close at 9 p.m.

VOTERS: It is an open primary. There is no registration by party; thus, Republicans can vote a Democratic ballot and vice versa, and independents can vote in either primary.

An estimated 1,350,000 of Wisconsin's 3,375,000 eligible voters are expected to vote.

DELEGATES: At stake are 75 delegates to the Democratic convention and 34 delegates to the GOP convention, all to be awarded according to primary results within each congressional district.

KANSAS

Today's election is Kansas' first presidential primary.

CANDIDATES: Democratic candidates are Carter, Kennedy, Brown, Finch, Frank Ahern, New Orleans; Robert E. Maddox, Hollywood, Fla., and Ray Rollinson, Columbia, N.J.

Republican candidates are Reagan, Bush, Anderson, Crane, Fernandez and Stassen, along with campaign drop-outs Connally and Sen. Howard Baker. Also listed on the ballot are Donald Badgley, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; William E. Carlson, Sebring, Fla.; Alvin Glen Carris, Pawnee Rock, Kan.; and R.W. Yeager, Norton, Kan.

Both the Democratic and Republican ballots permit voters to check "none of the names shown."

POLLS: Open from 7 a.m. EST to 8 p.m.

VOTERS: Voter registration is estimated at 387,000 Republicans, 300,000 Democrats and 455,000 independents. No cross-over voting is allowed. Independents may obtain the ballot of either party at the polls by signing a declaration of party affiliation.

DELEGATES: At stake are the state's 37 Democratic and 32 Republican delegate slots, to be apportioned according to the popular vote.

Parity poses problem, especially for Reagan

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)

The hot farm issue of full parity tripped up one White House hopeful and sent the rest scrambling to take a stand as they campaigned for today's first-ever presidential primary in Kansas.

None of the major contenders who visited Kansas came out in unqualified support of parity, but all tried to court the farm vote by promising to administer some effective medicine for low farm prices.

Full parity means the price levels necessary to give farmers the same relative purchasing power — as compared to other American workers — that they enjoyed prior to World War I.

A former Agriculture Department economist explained it this way: "If a bushel of wheat bought a pair of overalls in 1914, then 100 percent of parity means that a bushel of wheat buys a pair of overalls today."

Parity has become a key political issue in the Midwest, where inflation-squeezed farmers triggered the American Agriculture Movement two years ago to vent their dissatisfaction with Carter administration policies.

In 1976, AAM supporters say, candidate Jimmy Carter promised to raise farm prices to full parity. But prices have remained low in the face of ever-higher energy costs; and many farmers blame what they call the administration's "cheap food policies."

Republican front-runner Ronald Reagan stumbled over the parity issue in Kansas last week by confessing he was "not as familiar with some things as that." In later appearances, however, Reagan said he would support full parity if it could be achieved through free enterprise.

"The 100 percent of parity is a figure that could create an enormous government subsidy, and my whole philosophy is I want to see farming out in the free market as much as it possibly can be," Reagan said.

One of Reagan's challengers, George Bush, said he was "astounded" with Reagan's remark that he wasn't very familiar with parity.

Iran moves figure to benefit Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Through happenstance or good timing, President Carter figures to be the political beneficiary today of the latest flurry of Iran-related activities.

On the eve of his Wisconsin primary contest with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his rejuvenated rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Carter found himself in a position where, later today, he could either:

—Welcome a move by the Iranian government to wrest control of American hostages from student militants.

—Decry the absence of such a move and announce new retaliatory actions by the United States.

Whatever the developments in Tehran, White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter would "make an appropriate statement to the American people" sometime today.

Reagan called 'extreme'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — George Bush says that while Republican front-runner Ronald Reagan enjoys strong popular appeal by making unrealistic promises to cut government spending, "you don't need an extreme" in the White House.

The former U.N. ambassador, winding up his campaign for today's Wisconsin primary, also told supporters Monday night that President Carter's uncertain response to Iran's embassy takeover has made it difficult for America's allies to join an international protest.

Dole may be No. 2

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Sen. Robert Dole, who threw his support to Ronald Reagan this week for the Republican presidential nomination, says he wouldn't rule out the possibility of a Reagan-Dole ticket in November.

"These are possibilities," Dole told a news conference in Wichita Monday. "It seems to me Gov. Reagan might need someone from the Senate, with Washington experience and a farm background."

Dole said he would "think over" any such offer, but added Reagan hadn't mentioned giving him a second shot at the vice presidency.

Mondale promises help

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale says the Carter administration is committed to bolstering sagging grain prices and "will continue to buy grain until we can get those prices firmed up."

Mondale hopped into Kansas on the eve of the state's first presidential primary, trying to rebut challengers from both parties who have assailed Carter's farm policy in the past week.

Kennedy has high hopes

WASHINGTON (AP) — After an hasty round of campaigning in which he declared himself the "alternative to Reagan," Democratic challenger Edward M. Kennedy awaited the verdict of the Wisconsin and Kansas primaries today in hopes they will demonstrate further erosion of President Carter's support.

Aides said there were no expectations of victory in the Kennedy camp, despite their elation over the large and enthusiastic crowds which greeted the Massachusetts senator during his short-notice swing through Wisconsin.

But Kennedy did look for a respectable runner-up finish in states he had virtually written off prior to his stunning victories a week ago in New York and Connecticut. "I'm hopeful that the voters will send a clear message to Washington and to the American people that they're just fed up," with Carter, Kennedy said in Wisconsin before returning home late Monday night.

He told a Milwaukee television interviewer that he was campaigning as the alternative to Republican front-runner Ronald Reagan, especially since the Carter administration's program of budget cuts are something "we would expect from a Republican administration, not a Democratic administration."

Where are our allies?

The United States is keeping a fleet of 27 ships, including two aircraft carriers, in the Persian Gulf. In order to do so, it has stripped both the 6th Fleet (Mediterranean) and the 7th Fleet (West Pacific) down to one carrier each. This is only an indication of the strain put upon U.S. military forces by the collapse of Iran as a pro-Western military power and by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

When President Carter expressed determination to defend the Western world's oil lifeline in the Persian Gulf against Russian encroachment, he also said that the United States cannot do it alone and must look to its friends for help.

Japan obtains three-quarters of its oil from the Persian Gulf, Western Europe, two-thirds. A cutoff of Middle Eastern oil would harm both far more than it would the United States, which fills only 17 percent of its petroleum needs from this region.

Where, then, are the allies who should help defend the oil wells more vital to them than to America?

Japan, with the world's second-richest economy, is spending less than 1.5 percent of its gross na-

INSIDE REPORT:

Carter and his advisers trapped in the Rose Garden

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

WASHINGTON — The wise, partially self-constructed, that President Carter suddenly finds squeezing him into political paralysis was recognized in this Wednesday morning after concern by his advisers: what to do with Rose Garden tactics that no longer work.

Carter is inflexibly bound to his commitment, once so politically beneficial, not to hit the campaign trail until the hostages in Iran are released. "We've just got to find some way to campaign more effectively, without breaking the president's promise," one senior White House aide told us. But how? "You'll be the first to know when we figure it out," was the sarcastic but mirthless reply.

The president's heaviest political thinkers are not close to "figuring out" that solution or pushing leftward toward traditional Democratic positions following the New York and Connecticut repudiations. There is, then, the specter of successive big-state primary election defeats that would not deprive the president of renomination but could cripple him for the fall campaign.

The rigid system now used to select presidential nominees adds to the inflexibility. It is all but impossible for a new candidate to emerge or for anybody to pry committed delegates away from Carter. The final frozen aspect of a potential Democratic nightmare is that the president and his tough young subalterns surely will never quit the race, no matter how

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Cambodians suffering under hostile regime

WASHINGTON — The suffering of the Cambodian population that survived Pol Pot's murderous rule is continuing under the hostile regime kept in power by the Vietnamese military, according to confidential cables received by the State Department.

The messages from U.S. Ambassador Morton Abramowitz in Thailand tell of murder, rape and theft of international food supplies by the occupying Vietnamese troops. Their harsh treatment has so alienated the native Khmer population that the puppet Heng Samrin government can keep its tenuous hold on the country only by the naked military force of its Vietnamese masters.

From reports of interviewers dispatched to refugee camps on the Thai-Cambodian border, Abramowitz has advised Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that "rape and robbery by PAVN (Vietnamese) soldiers are uniformly reported... from all parts of Kampuchea (Cambodia)."

Even officials of the Quisling government have been fleeing their homeland in droves, Abramowitz reports. "Their decision to escape (for) eventual resettlement in (other) countries is based on the common perception that life under the Vietnamese is intolerable," states one cable. It cites the twin motivating factors as "dread of a repressive Communist regime" and the "ubiquitous threat of starvation."

As historic ethnic enemies of the Cambodians, the Vietnamese have no qualms about stealing food from the starving natives. One man in blood-stained trousers described to an interviewer how the Vietnamese had ambushed him and his friends. "He still had some rice only because the Vietnamese already had stolen more than they could carry from his murdered companions," one cable relates.

According to the refugees, the Vietnamese distribute relief supplies of rice by day "in the presence of international workers, then confiscate (it) after the workers depart the scene," or replace it with corn. Some Soviet-supplied corn "is still clogging one warehouse... but is so unappealing that only the most hungry will eat it," the cable reports.

Abramowitz has also provided evidence to support continued claims that the Vietnamese are actually shipping foreign rice supplies intended for Cambodia back to their own country.

A militiaman was quoted in one cable: "He saw two cargo barges arrive from Vietnam with corn. After unloading, one of the barges was filled with rice, which he claimed headed for Vietnam."

Other witnesses included a woman who "said she had twice seen Vietnamese load rice on barges at night, then head for Vietnam," and "a former history professor (who) claimed that he saw two trucks loaded with rice head... toward Vietnam."

An American scholar, Stephen Heder, was quoted at length by the

CHARLEY REESE

Socialists will sling mud at Big Business

Ralph Nader and his little band of socialist helpers have designated April 17 as Big Business Day. Don't think they are going to celebrate IBM's success or send a get-well card to Chrysler. No, the purpose of Big Business Day is to sling mud at it.

These guys are what they used to call Fabian socialists. I call them sneak socialists. They won't get out on the campaign trail and say, "Okay, let's debate socialism versus capitalism." They know they can't win that way.

So Ralph Nader says, "As a consumer advocate, I say this is bad and that is wrong." Barry Commoner says, "As a biologist, I say all of this is wrong." Michael Harrington says, "As a social democrat, this is wrong and this is wrong." John Kenneth Galbraith says, "As an economist, I say this is wrong and this is wrong."

The gameplan is this: you are supposed to think, "Well, gee, if all of these objective people in so many different fields all agree that our system is not good, it must be no good." In that way, they hope to sell you socialism one plank at a time.

It's intellectually dishonest, and their arguments reflect it. They distort, exaggerate and employ the cheap shot. They claim big business causes cancer, but they don't mention that incidents of stomach cancers are declining. They claim capitalism causes war but they don't mention socialist Germany attacking socialist Russia or socialist Vietnam versus socialist Cambodia. They claim big business "makes" us buy products with advertising but they don't mention the hundreds of products, backed by big advertising budgets, which fall flat and fail. They claim big oil is raping us but they don't mention 75 years of plentiful and cheap energy which big oil gave us.

When you study what these guys are saying, you see the pattern. What's the answer to consumer problems? Socialism. The energy crisis? Socialism. The problem of pollution? Socialism. Alienation, broken marriages, juvenile delinquents, barking dogs — you name a problem and they have the answer: socialism.

One big problem, though; it's just untrue. There is no evidence at all to back up their claims and there is abundant evidence to refute their claims. Socialism doesn't work and it was never intended to, for it is nothing more than a new disguise for a very old form of tyranny: oligarchy, the rule of the many by the few.

The motivating force in a socialist is lust for power. You don't need protection from General Motors. All GM wants to do is persuade you to swap some of your money for one of its cars. It's Ralph Nader you should fear. Nader wants the police power of the state to force you to live the way he thinks you ought to live. There's a big difference between selling and forcing; it's the difference between a television commercial and a policeman's nightstick.

I'm a working guy and always have been. Big businessmen aren't perfect. Most of them are stupid when it comes to dealing with the Soviet Union. Some of them are so money-hungry they'll skin you if you give them a chance. But big business isn't responsible for foreign policy and we have plenty of redress in a free society when we think we've been skinned.

What big business does best is what it's supposed to do: make goods and services or, to put it another way, create wealth — so much wealth that there's plenty left over to fund both government and charity. Don't let the Naderites trick you. Our golden goose is business, motivated by a desire for profit, and left free to pursue it in the way it sees fit.

What generates jobs? Business. What generates the incredible array of products and services? Business. What generates the wealth which funds government at every level? Business. What generates the wealth that goes into churches and secular charities? Business.

What system ended centuries of unbelievable poverty for great masses of people? Capitalism. Capitalism is the only economic system which requires freedom. The American working man and woman are better off than any other people on earth and the reason is capitalism.

On April 17, tell Ralph Nader to go visit the countries that practice what he's preaching — and stay there.

Pennsylvanian puts 'used up' crude to work taking cold chill off garage

By EARL BOHN

FOMBELL, Pa. (AP) — Rudy Kelosky believes the oil in America's cars and trucks isn't done working when it's emptied — thick, black and grimy — from the crankcase.

While the glop can't lubricate gears and crankshafts any longer, he says it still burns well enough in his Hooter Heater to take the chill off the garage. And as a fuel, it's dirt cheap, selling through brokers at three cents to a dime per gallon, compared to nearly $1 for home heating oil.

If the sales of Kelosky's waste oil heater are any indication, his thinking is sound.

"Business has picked up tremendously since the Iran problem," said Kelosky, 30, whose company, Hooter Ltd., sold 2,400 heaters in the last two years, 1,800 of them in the last nine months.

In 1978, Kelosky sold his insurance business, borrowed $11,000 and, using an idea pioneered in Europe nearly 20 years ago, developed the Hooter Heater with his brothers. Gross sales climbed steadily to $800,000 last year.

"This year we should do at least $1.5 million, and we feel we'll do a minimum of $3.5 million for the 1980-81 heating season," Kelosky said. "This whole thing is going to bust wide open."

Iran hikes crude price

MOSCOW (AP) — Iran's oil minister today announced a price increase in Iranian crude to $33.50 a barrel, the Soviet news agency Tass reported from Tehran. The previous price was $31.

The increase is effective today, the dispatch said.

The smallest Hooter is rated at 110,000 British thermal units per hour. A Btu is a measure of heat.

Hooter Ltd. has competition from at least a half dozen companies, including Pittsburgh's Dravo-Hastings Corp., which makes waste oil furnaces capable of warming entire factories.

But apparently there's plenty of room in the market, considering the United States generates over 1.1 billion gallons of waste oil a year, enough to fill 15 supertankers, according to the U.S. Energy Department.

About 770 million gallons are reprocessed for lubricants, sprayed on dusty roads or used in making asphalt. Still, a whopping 345 million gallons of waste oil are lost to the environment annually, the department says.

Kelosky says waste oil produces odorless heat and more of it than regular oil because impurities add heat value.

Protesters still at plant

VERNON, Vt. (AP) — Anti-nuclear demonstrators have taken up residence at the Vermont Yankee nuclear power plant, chaperoned by a police force determined to avoid confrontation.

Police allowed the few dozen protesters, a remnant of the more than 1,000 who descended on the plant Sunday, to stay on Monday despite pleas from utility officials that they be removed.

Protest organizers, who agreed more arrests should have been made, say the demonstration will continue for at least five more days.

"We stand by our request that the demonstrators be removed," said Vermont Yankee spokesman Steve Stoil. He said the policy of avoiding arrests whenever possible could set a precedent of allowing protesters to "camp out" on Vermont Yankee property.

The police ploy surprised protesters who had hoped for mass arrests demonstrating the strength of their movement.

They accused police of using "sleazy tactics" by waiting to make arrests until darkness and cold had reduced their numbers and numbed their spirits.

The arrests Sunday night were stopped once a path to the plant gate had been cleared. About 75 people were cited before the arrests ceased.

R. Paul Wickes, representing Gov. Richard Snelling, defended the state's decision to defuse the protest with a waiting game.

"There were 1,000 people out there and the police had to make a judgment about how to move them," Wickes said. "The judgment was the most effective way was not to move them — not to have a confrontation."

The gas-oil ratio is 3,182-1. The project was drilled to 8,994 feet as a wildcat. Operator set 5.5-inch casing on bottom and plugged back to 7,360 feet.

Wellsite is 1,083 feet from north and 1,586 feet from east lines of section 14, block H, TCRR survey.

CRANE COUNTY

American Quasar Petroleum Co. No. 12-A Munn, which was drilled as a deeper pay wildcat in the Wynne multiphase field of Crane County, has been completed as a San Andres-Clear Fork producer as a field well.

The well finished for a daily pumping potential of 16 barrels of oil and 25 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 1,246-1.

Completion was through Perforations from 2,090 to 2,201 feet which were acidized with 3,500 gallons, and perforations from 3,081 to 3,098 feet and from 3,530 to 3,628 feet. Each set was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

One dead in mishap

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — A Wichita Falls, Texas, youth was killed early Sunday in an oil rig accident near here.

Authorities said George Slather, 18, was killed when some chain used to lift drills out of the rig caught on the rotating drill shaft and crushed him. Slather was dead on arrival at an Altus hospital.

The accident occurred about 3 a.m. Sunday at a well site located about nine miles south of Altus.

The rig is owned by Don Spruell, Iowa Park, Texas.

Wednesday, April 2, 1980
YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Buddy Ebsen-TV's "Barnaby Jones" shares your birthday, and both of you are home-loving individuals who derive great joy from working, as well as relaxing, with family members. Forming partnership with relative can be excellent idea now. You enjoy continued success in career, business in coming months. Work in areas where you are most likely to find inner satisfaction and financial progress will follow! Extra money is likely to be available after October. Romantic affairs flourish in year ahead, if you honor all obligations and promises. If you must end a love relationship, do so as gently as possible. Total honesty in this case would not be kind!
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Make effort to do those small things that mean so much to others. Negligence could be costly. One you adore prefers to think you hard-to-get. A real challenge!
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Make sure you attend to routine assignments early in day. Seek company of new friend at lunch. Things should shape up nicely for you this evening where romance is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Hard work tackled in usual environment is more productive than a business trip right now. Use evening hours to improve home surroundings. Tend to personal chores.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be considerate of the feelings of others but, if regular contacts are unrewarding, look for new relationships. In romance, you are only trapped if you want to be!
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take care of routine tasks early in year ahead, if you honor all obligations and promises. If you must end a love relationship, do so as gently as possible. Total honesty in this case would not be kind!
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Seek cooperation of family members in keeping down expenses. Postpone any travel. Devote some time to hobbies, recreational pursuits this evening.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): New course of study or research gives great satisfaction. Domestic activities most rewarding tonight. Enjoy the companionship of small children.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Efforts should be made to secure a better position or more income. Check into pension plans and insurance coverage. Show affection for loved one in deeds as well as words.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Others are impressed by your ability to produce under pressure. Home life is source of contentment. Much can be learned now from your favorite people.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Meet your deadlines. Impressive influential individual with whom you can accomplish in limited amount of time. Spend evening with romantic partner.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Perseverance and tact help you achieve goals. Be independent, but not arrogant. Cash flow could be temporarily impeded. Some one can help by pulling strings on your behalf.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can be victim of wishful thinking where business, money are concerned. A platonic relationship turns romantic—much to your pleasure! Personal appearance is particularly important now.

opening bid. We could not disagree more. It cannot be right to suppress a reasonable six-card major suit when partner has opened one of a minor. After all, reverse South's major suit holdings and game would not be impossible.
Also, we are in agreement with South's decision to rebid one no trump despite his singleton spade. He did not have the strength to rebid two diamonds, which would have been a reverse, and rebidding his weakish five-card club suit was not appealing. North passed in the hope that his side could get out of the auction.
East, whose initial pass had been good strategy, now emerged from the woodwork with a double that his partner was happy to pass.
North, not surprisingly, was unwilling to play one no trump doubled, so he took out to two spades—a contract that would have produced at least six tricks. South should have resigned himself to his fate then and there. His rescue to two no trump bordered on the absurd, and there are no words to describe his decision to bid again over three spades.

Allday biggest spender in mayoral race

In one of the biggest spending races for mayor in the history of Midland, candidate Martin Allday has reported taking in more than $25,000 to date and spending slightly more than $19,000.

This is more than double his closest opponent, G. Thane Akins, according to campaign expenditures reports filed Monday in the city secretary's office.

Allday reported taking out no loans. He recorded $25,670.70 in contributions while spending $19,068.95.

Although his report shows a list of more than 190 contributors, it includes few big amounts, mostly $100 and $50 donations. His biggest money came from Michael W. senbaker, $500; Gordon Knox, $500; Mr. and Mrs. O.H. Berry, $400; John Cox, $500; and Herbert E. Ware Jr., $400.

Akins fell far below that amount with 28 contributors. Including a $2,000 personal loan, Akins' coffers hold $9,494.19. His expenditures to date show he has spent $6,186.45.

The biggest supporter of Akins' campaign is Robert Monaghan who has given $1,250 in three amounts. Other big contributors are Clem Barnes, $1,000; John Findley, $500; Deane Stoltz, $500; and Felix Weltmaker, $500.

Carl Hollums Sr., the third candidate for mayor, has received $255.57 to date and spent $137.71.

City Secretary James McCullough said it appears more money is being spent this year "than for any previous mayoral race." The last race which saw this much competition dates back to 1972 when Pat Baskin and Ernest Angelo Jr. were fighting for the open seat. By comparison, candidates for Midland City Council are taking in far less and spending less.

In Place 4, Steve Davidson has taken in $1,250 and spent $1,797.11; Ronnie D. Lynch has taken in $346 and spent $197.77; Woodrow Bailey Jr. has received $260 in contributions and paid out $325.

The Place 5 seat could be termed the council seat that cost nothing. Incumbent Tom Sloan reported he hasn't received any contributions, nor has he spent any money. His challenger, Raul Salazar, failed to turn in an expenditures report.

LEE YOUTH CENTER CHATTER

It's TWIRP week at Lee High School

It's TWIRP Week, and The Woman Is Requested to Pay! So men sit back, relax and be especially nice to the women, because one of them may even be asked out to the TWIRP dance Thursday night at the Youth Center.

This is gonna be a busy week, cause you have to do everything in just four days. Don't come to school Friday or Monday — and — do have a Happy Eastertime, and we hope Peter Cottontail finds your house and leaves you lotza goodies.

Last week our rip-roarin' Rebs put it on the Coogs from Abilene, 3-4, in 10 innings, but lost a tough one to Monterey, and got the "shaft" in Big Spring on Saturday. That's all right, that's O.K. we're gonna win anyway!

Do remember to go to Odessa and watch our mighty Rebs "fool" those Pansy Panthers from Permian. Then Saturday we "Egg the Eagles" at Abilene. Our JV Batmen play Big Spring on Thursday at 4 p.m. on our diamond.

REBELETES: You don't have much longer, so hightail it to school Wednesday morning by 7:45 for squad meetings. BC says: to those who "skipped" Friday morning's meeting — I am disappointed in you — cause I thought you wanted to have a Youth Center next year! Guess I was wrong and you really don't care — but you will miss it. There is hope, however, but you must make your intentions known by contacting one of the following to sell tickets to the "Up With People" concert.

If you ignore this plea the future of your Youth Center is in serious doubt. See Stacy Lewis, Claudia Calvert, Pam Taylor, Julie Gallagher, Yvonna Wurster or Kim Hooper for ticket selling details. "Up With People" will be here on April 28 thru May 2, doing civic projects, assemblies, etc., and will put on a big show on May 1 at Chap Center. This is the only fund raising your Youth Centers put on each year, and everyone in high school (Midland or Lee) needs to get involved in selling tickets to make it a BIG success.

To culminate the activities of TWIRP Week, there will be a dance on Thursday night from 8:30 to 12:30 at the Youth Center. So guys, do something different — be nice — so you will be asked to the dance. Admission is $1 per person, and a date do not have to have a date to get in.

And I need help Thursday after school and Friday AM to set-up and clean up. Be There!

Till next week — when it will once again be, (we hope)

Karen, Gina and Leigh Anne

PS: Leigh Anne was playing "cowboy," Karen was at church(?), and Gina was at work, so you drew a guest writer this week. So you can see girls (next year's Seniors) I need some people to apply for Chatter writer for next year.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Don't base treatment on other's condition

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've been taking aspirin daily because I have arthritis in my hands, and I find it very helpful. My sister is being treated for a peptic ulcer, and her doctor told her never to take any aspirin because it causes internal bleeding. Is there any danger in my continuing to take this much aspirin? — Mrs. T.H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Your question points up the fact that a person should never base his or her own treatment on someone else's condition.

One of the drawbacks of aspirin is its tendency to irritate the stomach lining and to cause the loss of small amounts of blood. It can also prolong bleeding time by interfering with the ability of the blood to clot. This is why anyone with a peptic ulcer (an open sore on the lining of the stomach or intestine), such as your sister's, should stay away from aspirin.

On the other hand, for those who have no such problem, aspirin provides safe and effective treatment for many conditions. Your own experience with it obviously is positive, and there is no reason for you not to continue its use, as recommended by your physician. Aspirin acts against arthritis by countering the painful inflammation, and many arthritides have benefited from daily doses for years without suffering any ill effects.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been told by the school nurse that my seven-year-old son is hyperactive. She was not very clear in her explanation, and I am not certain what she means. It seems to me that all 7-year-old boys are active. Will you please explain what is meant by a "hyperactive child" and what causes the condition? — Mrs. H.D.

Dear Mrs. D.: First let me suggest that you discuss the nurse's statement with your pediatrician. The term "hyperactive child" is used loosely, and it could do harm if applied indiscriminately to a normally active child. If the pediatrician agrees that your son does display some degree of hyperactivity, you and he can then decide what further measures to take.

In general, a hyperactive child is irritable and easily provoked to anger. He has a short attention span, cannot sit still for any length of time, and performs poorly in school. He gives the impression of being constantly in motion, cannot remain at the table for meals, and is unable to follow instructions. Although such children are emotionally immature, their intelligence is not necessarily impaired.

While some of these children have been found to have minimal brain damage, the majority do not have any brain damage at all. In my own practice I find that after careful testing, some of these children have allergies to certain foods. Neutralization against these foods can be of great help. Most hyperactive children who receive appropriate treatment no longer have the problem by the time that they reach adolescence.

Sisters die in double hit-and-run

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When her sister was struck and killed by a car as they walked down a dark rural street seeking help, Christina Ankney said she wanted to die too and stepped into the path of oncoming traffic, authorities say.

"The woman was not in control of her emotions. But somebody should have slowed down," Palm Beach County sheriff's Sgt. Jerry Arbour said of the incident Saturday night in which Ms. Ankney, 24, and her sister, Jacqueline Stevens, 20, both died.

Two men have been charged in the case. Authorities said the sisters, both from Davison, Mich., had been driving from Fort Lauderdale on the Florida Turnpike when their car started oozing oil.

Life's dusty drawbacks

GREENWOOD — Country living has got city life beat all to heck...if you don't mind blowing sand, rambling tumbleweeds, barking dogs and loose rabbits.

Daron Hauptrief, 10, and his sister, Leann, 12, occasionally do get mildly beset by the sights and sounds of the rural life. But they no longer have to put up with the maze of asphalt, rumbling cars, fume-scented air and brackish taste of Midland's lake water.

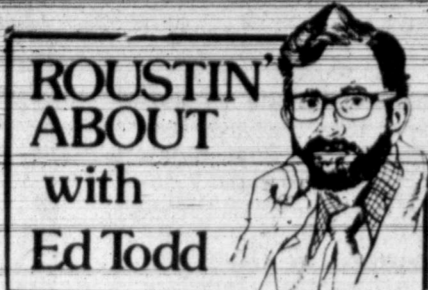

Simply, they live with the dusty drawbacks of rural living, which ironically, is not what it used to be. The sprawling Greenwood community is taking on the mixed blessings of a suburb, as houses get closer and closer together on land which previously was farmed or ranched.

"I like it (country living) unless the dust blows," which is about every other day come springtime, said Leann. "And when the dust blows, the tumbleweeds blow, and I don't like tumbleweeds."

The sky was gray with a sea of hovering dust. And Leann, who resembles a young Hayley Mills, was on the brink of tears, which would wash the sand from her eyes.

She and her brother were "messing around" in their boarded-up rabbit shack, which for a while became a refuge for Cheta, their aging but gentle quarter horse mare, and Rex, their collie, who tried to play with the horse when she wasn't in the mood.

While the sand was still blowing, grandfather Sid Brown, sauntered a month or two ago and butchered them...They taste like fried chicken."

But there's always more rabbits in the makings, while others become the entree at supper-time.

Daron reach toward a caged rabbit.

"That one's pregnant, and the two that are running around are pregnant," noted the young rabbit-keeper.

Presently, Granddaddy Brown, and his grandchildren walked through the winds and sand to the Hauptrief brick house. The children's parents, Jesse and Elaine, weren't yet in from town. But inside the house was a pot of fresh coffee. And sitting around in a cozy sunroom were Brown's wife, Velma, and their daughter, Sharron, and grandson, Jacob, 3.

Weather was a likely subject to hash around.

"We have the wind," Mrs. Brown said, "but we don't have all this sand (at Lake Leon)."

"I couldn't live here," her daughter allowed.

Talk drifted from the blowing dust to the troubled world scene.

"This old country is in terrible shape," Grandfather Brown speculated. "There's nobody getting along; they fight one another and no one understands anybody. It's in terrible condition."

"It's getting worst," said Sharron.

But for Daron and Leann, the worst thing about their little world seemed to be the wind, blowing sand and loose rabbits.

West Texas' blowing sand puts a temporary blight into country living for Daron Hauptrief, 10, and his sister, Leann, 12. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Lamesan indicted for fraud

LAMESA — Mark Clark of Lamesa has been indicted on two counts of securities fraud involving at least $10,000, according to Dawson County District Attorney Ricky Smith.

Clark was indicted Monday by the Dawson County Grand Jury.

Smith said his office had been working on the investigation for about six months and that the state Securities Board had been investigating it for "a long time."

"Kenneth Hooper with the State Securities Board did all of the work on it," Smith said.

The indictments against Clark alleged that he violated provisions of the Texas Securities act by defrauding area citizens in the sale of commodities issued by Comm-Tex Limited.

"About three years ago, Clark organized a company known as Comm-Tex Limited, with limited partnerships costing $1,000 a share. Those buying shares had to buy a minimum of five shares.

"Quite a few people in this area bought into it," said Smith.

The Dawson County investigation began when two people tried to get their money out of the deal, and checks Clark issued to them came back from the bank marked insufficient funds.

Smith said that testimony showed that some Lamesa people put about $50,000 into the company, and approximately $250,000 had been invested by people in the region.

The indictments charge Clark with misrepresenting that funds invested in Comm-Tex would not be commingled with the funds of any other persons, that Clark failed to tell investors that he would pay funds to himself and that the limited partners would be furnished unaudited financial statements reflecting the net asset value of their units and that such statements would be provided within 10 days following each monthly valuation date.

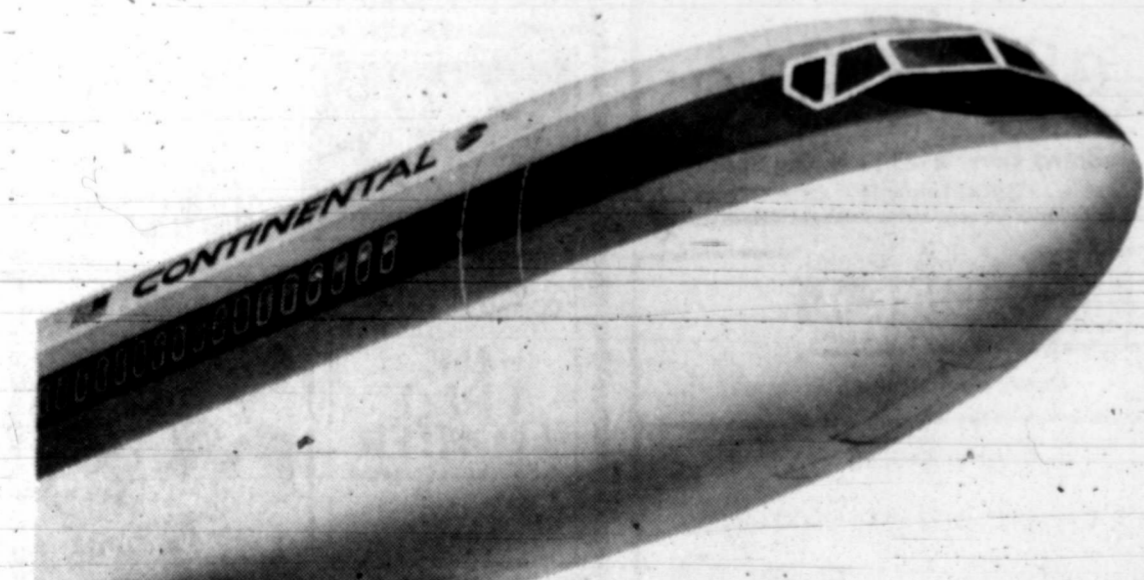

The fraudulent sale of securities is a third-degree felony punishable by a fine of up to $5,000, imprisonment in the state penitentiary for up to 10 years, or both.

Primary voting decision made

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans who signed petitions to put candidates' names on the Republican presidential primary ballot have the right to vote in the Democratic primary, Secretary of State George Strake says.

He issued his interpretation of election law to all county clerks and political party county chairmen "so that no qualified Texas voter will be disenfranchised in the upcoming primary."

The Uptown Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club is offering a $250 scholarship to an older woman who would like to attend college.

The only requirement is that she must attend a minimum of six hours of college, said a chapter spokesman. "It is not even necessary that she have a high school diploma—a Graduate Equivalency Diploma is acceptable," she said.

Applicants for the scholarship will be evaluated on basis of financial need, ambition and abilities.

"So many scholarships are available to the young high school graduate," said the spokesman. "But many older women just haven't had that resource available to them. We want to provide them with a chance."

Persons interested should contact Lola Igou, chairman of the scholarship committee, at 683-2832.

DEAR ABBY

'For children's sake' works both ways

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am married to the kind of man who can never be faithful to just one woman. I have left him several times because of this, but I always took him back because of the children. Tell me, Abby, is a woman a fool to stay married to a man for the sake of her children?—WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: A man's faithfulness (or the absence of it) is only part of his total behavior. What kind of man is he otherwise? What kind of husband is he? What kind of father has he been? Has he been discreet? Do your children love and respect him? How much have his extracurricular affairs affected your family life?

Many a woman has stayed married to a man for the sake of their children when she should have left him for the same reason.

DEAR ABBY: I was a secretary to a professional man for several years and enjoyed my work very much; however, he started getting very affectionate and putting his hands all over me, so I quit my job.

I feel that sexual harassment leaves a woman with feelings similar to rape.

What causes a well-thought-of family man to behave this way? I did absolutely nothing to provoke it. So here I am, looking for work and wondering what to put on my applications as to why I left my job. Any suggestions?—SECRETARY

DEAR SECRETARY: I am informed that when applying for a job, you are no longer required to state why you left your last job. Get in touch with your local Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Council on Economic Status of Women, or a civil rights organization. Also, if there is a National Organization for women (N.O.W.) chapter in your city, they can help you.

As for why a "well-thought-of family man" would behave that way, he's obviously looking for some carnal fringe benefits from those over whom he has an unfair advantage.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went to a lovely wedding that was perfect — with one exception. The bride and groom did not open their wedding gifts at the reception. They said they plan to open them after they return from their honeymoon. Well, what good will that do the guests who wanted to see their gifts opened as well as all the other gifts?

This was a big disappointment to us, and we know others felt the same way: What is proper?—DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: While some couples do open their gifts at the reception, those who don't shouldn't be criticized. After an already long and exhausting day, opening each gift, reading every card and thanking the giver could make an already long and exhausting day longer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. W. IN LITTLE FALLS, N.Y.: Yes, it would be in poor taste to specify "Money Gifts" on your wedding invitations.

(Address comments and questions to Abby in care of this newspaper. For a personal reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Italian beauty expert advises Midland ladies

By PATSY GORDON
Lifestyle Writer

Face lifting calls for much more than the skill of the plastic surgeon. A woman must be prepared to update her outlook, to seek new makeup, hair styling and frequently hair color, clothes, accessories, even new frames for her glasses, said Pablo Manzoni. Pablo, former creative director for Elizabeth Arden, was speaking Friday to the Midland Country Club Ladies Association.

The handsome, dapper Italian is a one-man post plastic surgery beauty service and has some of the nation's finest surgeons sending their patients directly from the hospital to Pablo for advice on makeup.

He talked to the association about beauty techniques before, after or in lieu of a lift.

The trend setter's philosophy is concerned with the individual woman.

Pablo, whose titled name is Count Paolo-Michelangelo Zappi-Manzoni, told his audience to accept flaws, be optimistic, play up what you like, be positive and have a refined look, with nothing exaggerated. "I don't think one should change, just improve. Instead of wondering how to correct flaws, learn self-acceptance, forget less interesting features. Try to look into the mirror with more optimism. There is very little hope for improvement unless you are your friend first."

Pablo believes that every woman can be more attractive if she learns to play up her best features. He even says women should leave big noses alone, that such strong features make her more interesting an individual.

"To have a big nose is charming. It makes a woman have lots of character."

But one fixation the 1965 winner of the coveted Coty Fashion Award has is the brows. "Eyebrows cannot make an expression on the face. They should be out of the way as much as possible."

But the Italian has always been fascinated with eyes. Eyes that look deep-set have more interest, a bit of mystery, Pablo believes. For this depth, he explained that the crease in the eyelid should be emphasized with brown eyeshadow. From the crease up to just below the brow, he suggests the same brown shadow.

He especially likes eyeliner to give contour and dimension to the eye. Eyeliner went out of fashion for a while because it was abused, said Pablo, but now it is back and "I am happy about that."

Pablo believes in applying a lot of rouge. "A woman is better looking healthy than pale."

He indicated generous rouging from the cheekbones, up the sides of the face, onto the forehead and all the way up to the temples. Even down the bridge of the nose.

Prior to the rouge, the makeup expert prefers to apply foundation with a sponge because of its "marvelous blending powers."

He also believes in a lot of mascara to achieve "long and thick flirty eyes." As for lipstick, "follow the natural shape of the lip and use lip gloss for shine."

The shade of lipstick is individual, but "my one hate is pink lipstick. This, I think, is for the tourists," Pablo pointed out. "I like eyes to be the focal point. My tendency is emphasizing eyes first, lips secondly."

Pablo, who has written a book "Instant Beauty," available at the Book Worm in Midland, says no to soap and water cleansing of the face. "Soap and water is okay on young, oily, greasy complexions, but a cream cleanser" is best on other types of skin. He believes that all beauty products sold are good.

For best results, he explains, makeup should whisper — it should never shout.

The association's April program will feature Ruth Rutchik of Dallas, who is part of a national network of consultants called Color I Associates. She will help members in determining which colors look best on a person and which fabrics, prints, makeup and accessories an individual should wear.

BIG SPRING — Services for E.J. Thomas, 66, of Big Spring were to be at 3 p.m. today in the Nalley-Pickle 77-year-old man accused of three 'revenge' shootings.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — One day after he was mugged in the neighborhood where he had lived for 66 years, Theodore Jodoin confronted three men outside a liquor store. Then, screaming, "Do you recognize me?" the 77-year-old man opened fire, police say.

Stephen F. Harris, 30, was killed and two men were wounded, one critically, in the shooting Monday that police say apparently was prompted by a desire for revenge.

Police declined to say whether they believed Jodoin's claim that he had been mugged or that the shooting victims were somehow involved.

Shirts, wigs missing

Approximately $2,370 worth of shirts and wigs were stolen sometime Monday night from a Midland business.

While on patrol, Officer Ben Conley was checking the doors of businesses in the 1100 block of East Scharbauer Drive when he noticed the glass and iron bar broken on the front door of My Thing, 1109 E. Scharbauer Drive.

Bobby Jackson, an employee of My Thing, told police that 35 wigs and 60 shirts were missing. Seven to 10 blue jean suits, of an undetermined value, also were taken, according to reports.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES FINAL AMENDMENTS TO THE TITLE 20 SOCIAL SERVICES PLAN

Title 20 of the Social Security Act provides funds for social services such as day care and protective services for children, family planning, alternate care for aged, blind, or disabled persons, and employment services. Each year the Texas Department of Human Resources publishes the Title 20 Comprehensive Annual Services Program Plan (CASPP), which describes how funds will be used to provide the services.

Proposed amendments to the 1980 CASPP were published January 25, 1980. The following are the final amendments.

REVISED ELIGIBILITY SYSTEMS IN THE ALTERNATE CARE FOR AGED, BLIND, OR DISABLED (ACABD) PROGRAM

As of April 1, 1980, the ACABD eligibility/priority system is revised to expand eligibility according to each region's capability to purchase services. Comments were in favor of the expansion.

DELETION OF HEALTH ASSESSMENTS IN THE ACABD PROGRAM

As proposed, this service will be deleted statewide as of April 1, 1980, because it was identified as serving clients with low levels of need. No comments were received.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN PROPOSED AND FINAL AMENDMENTS

The proposed amendment expanded eligibility for ACABD services to more clients than had been projected in the original CASPP. Comment and information from regional offices indicated that eligibility could be expanded to serve more clients in every region of the state. The final amendment, therefore, provides for the additional expansion of eligibility criteria.

Congregate and Home Delivered Meals will not be changed as proposed. Comments favored continuing the congregated component.

The proposal to delete MHMR Community Services has been withdrawn because comments favored continuation of services.

Persons certified as eligible for ACABD services on September 30, 1979, will continue to be eligible. The proposed amendment solicited public comment on whether to continue this CASPP policy, and most comments favored continuation.

OBTAINING COPIES OF THE AMENDMENT

The final amendment may be read or reviewed in the DHR offices listed below or obtained at no cost by writing to the Title 20 Information Center, P. O. Box 2960, Austin, Texas 78769.

Addresses are for DHR offices. Where there are no offices, the address of the county judge is given.

A Man of Vision Who Has Worked Hard For and Believes in Midland's Future

New York commuters stalled by transit strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest bus and subway system came to a dead stop in a strike today for the first time in 14 years, forcing millions of New York City commuters to scramble to work the best way they could.

"The unthinkable has happened and now we have to figure out how to live with the unthinkable, and we will," said Mayor Edward Koch. "Life will go on and we will do whatever has to be done."

More than 6,400 subway cars and 4,550 buses ground to a halt when 35,000 union transit workers went on strike shortly after 2 a.m.

A few hours later, a second blow was dealt commuters when the Long Island Rail Road serving suburban areas announced a strike over pay.

While thousands formed car pools and walked or rode bikes to work, police reported traffic in the metropolitan area was moderate or even lighter than usual during the morning rush hour. It was a Jewish holiday and schools were closed.

But the southern tip of Manhattan swarmed with activity as fishing and tour boats, seaplanes and helicopters discharged businessmen and women at the Wall Street heliport and a nearby pier.

"It looks like Dunkirk," said Thomas B. Ashwell, a Wall Street advertising director.

By 9 a.m. boats such as the Bronx Queen from City Island were lined up in the harbor, awaiting their turn at the pier to unload. Hundreds of passengers crowded around the dock while helicopters and planes buzzed above.

Conrail trains serving suburban regions to the north were packed, many with three times the usual number of passengers.

While few serious problems were reported during the morning, Transportation Commissioner Anthony Ameruso advised commuters to start out a little earlier Wednesday, warning "the crunch will be coming."

The strike was called in violation of a court order and the state's Taylor Law, which bans public employee strikes. Gov. Hugh Carey said the law would be enforced but he had no immediate plans to bring in the National Guard.

"The last thing in the world we wanted was a strike," said Richard Ravitch, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, which faces a $250 million deficit next year and could not meet the union's wage demands.

Hikers and bikers streamed in droves across the Brooklyn Bridge, where Koch greeted many with his favorite question, "How am I doing?" Some of the responses were unflattering.

Police reported that a plan to encourage car-pooling appeared to be working in most areas. Cars carrying less than three persons were turned away at the major arteries into Manhattan. Areas in parks were set aside as collection points for hitchhikers.

More confusion was avoided when a tentative agreement was reached with toll takers at bridges linking Manhattan and New Jersey who had threatened a slowdown by strict enforcement of the rules. Details were not announced in the agreement between the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority and the Bridge and Tunnel Officers Benevolent Association, which represents 675 employees.

Although it was far from the chaos that some had feared, there were a few incidents and some tempers flared.

A car hit one of two women found walking in traffic lanes on FDR drive in Manhattan. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

David Griffin of Manhattan, at Penn Station trying to get to his job as a dog groomer in Long Beach, was bitter.

"I feel the entire country and the economy is being tyrannized by the unions and I will walk until my legs drop off."

Contract talks broke down shortly after 2 a.m. when the Transport Workers Union and Amalgamated Transit Union rejected management's offer of a 12 percent pay increase over two years. Transit workers now average $18,000 per year.

"If we can get a decent contract that our members can live with, we'll be happy to go back tomorrow," said Transport Workers Union President John Lawe.

At a garage on Manhattan's West Side, bus driver William Kirby, 33, said he was "all for" the strike, pointing out that the union four years ago settled for no pay raises.

"We didn't squawk about it because the city was broke," he said. "Then two years ago we accepted 6 1/2 percent because the city was just coming out of the crisis."

"The lesson is, nice guys finish last."

The unions initially demanded 30 percent over 21 months, but reduced their demand late Monday to increases of 15 percent and 10 percent — plus cost-of-living protection.

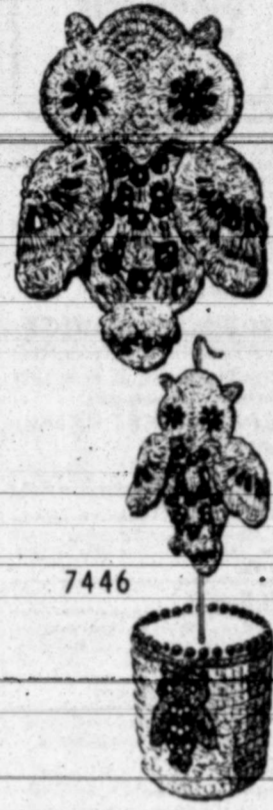

The city's subway stations began to close about 2:30 a.m. — about 25 minutes after the walkout began — as city agencies readied emergency plans to deal with traffic jams, health emergencies, and the adverse economic effects of the strike.

John Mahoney, who called the Long Island Rail Road strike as secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 808, the trackmen's union, said the MTA had rejected his union's contract proposal as too expensive.

He said the proposed three-year pact, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1979, called for raises of 7 percent, 8 percent and 6 percent over the three years with a cost of living adjustment in the final year.

Local United Way directors approve allocations process

The United Way of Midland, Inc. Board of Directors have approved a new allocations process during their regular monthly meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.

The allocations division of the United Way is the volunteer body which reviews, reports findings and makes recommendations to the Board of Directors regarding agency operations, programs, services and financial support.

The allocations division also interprets United Way policies to the participating agencies. Changes made in the allocations process include dissolving the visitation committee, redesigning the former allocations division and replacing the functions they performed with a cabinet and five panels.

In determining what type of changes were needed to improve the allocations process, the United Way Board of Directors appointed a study committee and secured the services of Richard Lewin, a regional consultant from the United Way of America.

In his report, Lewin stated that the United Way of Midland has grown too large in terms of amount of money involved and the number of agencies funded to do its allocations work as it has in the past.

Lewin also stated, "The agencies have become larger and more complex, requiring more in-depth study, which would allow recommendations that are tailored to the individual needs and circumstances of each organization."

In the past, one large visitation committee visited the agencies and reported on the programs and services of each agency to the United Way Board. The former allocations division then reviewed the financial needs of each agency and made recommendations to the board.

In the new cabinet/panel allocations process, each of the panels will visit and work directly with four to five participating agencies, becoming knowledgeable of the services, programs and financial needs of these agencies. The panels will report this information to the cabinet, which will in turn report to the Board of Directors.

Bill Orloff, president of the United Way of Midland, said "Our new allocations process is designed to increase the flow of information between each agency and the United Way Board."

"This exchange of information will allow the board to make funding decisions based on the specific needs of each agency. By developing a more effective allocations process, we have also increased the accountability of the United Way to the community at large."

Currently the United Way funds 19 member agencies in the Midland area.

Staubach leaves sliver of daylight

DALLAS (AP) — Quarterback Roger Staubach left just a tiny sliver of daylight open in his retirement announcement Monday and Coach Tom Landry ran to it like he was Tony Dorsett.

Asked if he would return to the Dallas Cowboys if something happened to (backup quarterbacks) Danny White and Glenn Carano, Staubach said, "That would be a real problem. I'm not adverse to helping. It would depend on the circumstances. That's all speculation and I don't want to get into that now."

Landry said he felt Staubach could be called in an emergency.

"If we called him back and the team needed him, he would play," said Landry.

Staubach ended 11 years with the Cowboys Monday, turning his fulltime attention to his family and a blossoming real estate career. Also, Staubach opened the door to television.

"There is a possibility I could get into television some as a sport commentator. That might help with the withdrawal pains," he said.

"Today, everything is sort of blank for me," said Staubach. "This retirement thing is tough. My 5-year-old son, Jeff, doesn't even understand. He came up to me and said: 'Dad, does this mean we're not going to work out any more?'"

Staubach said deciding to retire had made him a "nervous wreck." It finally got the best of him at his press conference that was televised live by three stations and broadcast in a telephone hookup to Washington and St. Louis.

"I wasn't going to do this," said Staubach, dabbing at big tears.

The 38-year-old Staubach, rated the No. 1 career passer in National Football League history, said he did not retire because of five concussions he had received last year.

"I've never worried about injuries and the examinations I underwent showed no brain damage," said Staubach. "One doctor was concerned that the concussions might be an accumulative thing."

Staubach then twitched his head twice, breaking up his audience.

Wife Marianne later told The Associated Press that Staubach's head injuries "did worry me. After the third one last year I asked him to see a neurologist and he did so about mid-season. I was concerned. I just wanted him to see somebody."

Staubach said he retired because "it was a gut feeling ... I wanted to spend more time with my family ... of course, my concussions were sort of historical ... I've had more than my share."

"He was a great two-minute quarterback, sort of like Bobby Layne," said Landry, who has been in the NFL 30 years as a coach and player.

Staubach accounted for 23 fourth-quarter comeback victories in the regular season and playoffs, including 14 in the final two minutes.

White said, "I don't expect to go in and in one year accomplish the things Roger has ... You don't become an outstanding pro quarterback in one year. There'll be some bumpy times ... some adjustments to make."

Holmes, Leonard retain ring crowns

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The heavyweight championship picture developed on this April Fool's Day as Larry Holmes, Mike Weaver and Muhammad Ali, with a touch of Scott LeDoux.

When the action ended at Caesars Palace here and at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, Holmes still was the World Boxing Council champion, Mike Weaver was the new World Boxing Association champion and Ali was making large noises about coming out of retirement to try to become a four-time champion.

Holmes looked every bit the 12-1 favorite he was by battering 6-foot-5, 254½-pound Leroy Jones into submission in the eighth round here. Weaver spent most of the fight at Knoxville looking like a loser headed for oblivion when he knocked out previously unbeaten John Tate at 2:15 of the 15th round with a thunderous left hook. It was the only chance Weaver had for victory.

"I felt the weight of that punch all the way down to his toes," said Weaver. "I knew he wasn't going to get up."

Weaver, who had Tate in trouble in the 12th round but still was too far behind after 14 to win a decision, crashed the hook against the jaw of Tate.

As a partisan crowd in Tate's home town was stunned into disbelief, Big John stiffened and pitched forward as Weaver threw a mercurial, chopping right. Tate landed face down and never moved as he was counted out.

Weaver was too high on his suddenly-found glory to talk about his future, one that includes possible fights with Ali and/or Holmes.

Tate wasn't talking. He was removed to a hospital for observation.

But Holmes was talking after his sixth knockout in seven title defenses. The great Joe Louis holds the record of seven consecutive knockouts in heavyweight title defenses.

"I don't need Ali," said the 30-year-old, unbeaten WBC champion. "Ali needs me. Ali ducked me for years."

"If I fight him, I don't want to be criticized for beating up an old man. It's not my fault if he wants to come back."

If the 39-year-old Ali does come back, he could well find a fight against Holmes more economically and artistically satisfying — if he should win — than a bout with Weaver.

DON KING, who has promoted all of Holmes' title fights, said he has the money needed to stage a Holmes-Ali fight. But King also said LeDoux is No. 1 in line as Holmes' next opponent. An Ali agreement to fight Holmes could change that quickly.

Meanwhile in Knoxville, Bill Curl — a spokesman for Hyatt Management Corp., the operator of the New Orleans Superdome — said, "We're still alive. In brief discussions we had with (promoter) Bob Arum, he was prepared to go to Weaver if he won and negotiate — the same as he would have gone to Tate."

"It's entirely possible we're looking at an Ali-Weaver fight."

The two heavyweight fights were part of a four-championship-bout series televised live by ABC.

At Landover, Md., Sugar Ray Leonard, 147, ran his record to 27-0 by knocking out Englishman Dave "Boy" Green, also 147, at 2:27 of the fourth round. A right-left hurt Green, then a right and a smashing left hook put Green down for the count.

The WBC has said Leonard now must sign by May to defend against No. 1-ranked Roberto Duran. But Leonard and his people are talking about a fight with WBA champion Pipino Cuevas.

Leonard's victory was marred when his manager, Angelo Dundee, was knocked unconscious by a fan after the fight and reportedly suffered a concussion.

THE TV PROGRAM opened at Knoxville with Eddie Gregory providing a hint of what was to come.

Gregory, who had failed in a bid for the WBA light heavyweight championship in 1977, knocked down Marvin Johnson with a left hook to the body and a right to the head in the third round and then stopped him with a series of head punches that had him helpless in the 11th round. The time was 2:43.

Gregory, of New York, won for the 36th time against four losses and a draw. It was the fourth loss for Johnson, of Indianapolis. Two of those losses have been in first defenses. Johnson also was beaten by current WBA champ Matthew Saad Muhammad in his first defense of that title in 1979.

Tate, 232, who had a 20-0 record, also failed in his first title defense. He built a solid lead over the first 11 rounds, shaking Weaver, 207½ of Los Angeles, on several occasions with short punches to the head.

Then Weaver hurt Tate badly with left hooks on three occasions in the 12. But still it looked as if Tate would make through to a successful defense. Then the anvil in the form of that smashing hook fell ... and so did Big John.

It was a sensational triumph for Weaver, who went into the fight with a 20-9 record. He had been outpointed by Jones in 12 rounds in 1978 and has been stopped in the 12th round by Holmes last June 23. He earned another title shot with two victories, one of them a 12-round decision over LeDoux, and this time he grabbed the brass ring.

Holmes, 6-3, 211, dominated Jones. He peppered him with jabs in the early rounds, hurt him with three rights and a left hook to the head in the sixth.

JONES WAS in trouble again in the seventh. He did get in a good right to the head after Holmes lost his temper briefly when butted early in the round, but he was reeling from a series of head shots from Holmes at the bell.

Jones came out for the eighth with both eyes puffed like bubbles and Holmes was all over him. After about 20 punches — most of them to the head — had Jones helpless in his corner, the fight was stopped at 2:56 of the round.

Jones, losing for the first time after 24 wins and a draw, claimed Holmes was dirty fighter and that he had bronchitis and had to be talked by King into going through with the fight.

But it appeared to be a case of just too much hand speed and skill by the defending champion, who ran his record to 34-0.

Tewell's victory causes major schedule problem

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — A year ago, Doug Tewell was considering quitting the pro golf tour when he came to this resort island.

He left today as a brand new winner, and his most serious problems were rearranging his playing schedule to accommodate a trip to the Masters at Augusta, Ga., and the Tournament of Champions the following week at Carlsbad, Calif.

Both trips were set up with his sudden-death playoff victory — the first of his five-year tour career — over Jerry Pate for the title and a $54,000 first place check in the Heritage Classic.

"I was considering chucking it when we came here last year," the 30-year-old Tewell said Monday after Pate's bogey from the water on No. 15 set up Doug's winning par on the first playoff hole.

"I didn't have the nerves. I had the swing and the temperament and the talent. But I just wasn't making any money. I didn't have the nerves."

"I'd get myself in position and then, bang, along would come a 79. The same thing happened here last year. I played pretty good, then shot 78 in the last round."

"I just kept fighting it. And then those putts that used to lip out started falling in."

He proved his nerves are beyond question with a minor miracle of a bogey on the 17th hole of regulation play on the rain-soaked, wind-scoured Harbour Town Golf Links.

Tewell was leading Pate, a U.S. Open champion, by one stroke when he stepped to tee on the par-3 17th. He hooked it into the water and was facing double bogey.

"Everyone said, 'Well, he's hit it in water. He's through. He's dead.' But they didn't consult me."

He reloaded, punched a 7-iron to the green and made a 15-foot putt for the 4 he had to have to stay alive. Both he and Pate made scrambling pars on the 18th, which has the looming tower of a red-and-white striped lighthouse behind it and marshes of Callibogue Sound on the left.

That finished off a round of 72 for Pate and 73 for Tewell and gave them matching 72-hole totals of 280, 4-under-par.

John Mahaffey, who shared the third-round lead with Tewell, was among the pacesetters most of the day but dropped back with a bogey-bogey finish when his putter refused to cooperate.

Miller says owners ready for strike

DALLAS (AP) — The specter of what could be a $1 million a day after the first two weeks of a strike, long, costly strike greeted the executive board of the Major League Players Association as they gathered here today.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, believes management has sought a strike from the beginning of negotiations. He cited as evidence a multimillion dollar fund assembled from last season's gate receipts and an insurance policy that would pay struck owners $1 million per day.

"The owners taxed themselves 2 percent of last year's gate for a strike fund," Miller said. "That's about $3.5 million plus interest. We also know they have an insurance policy that pays the 26 clubs There's an override on top of that by Lloyds of London for $40 million."

For those reasons, Miller said, management has engaged in strictly surface negotiations. "Their intent has been to provoke a strike," Miller said.

"They see this as a time to take the players on, to dismantle the players association."

The players have voted overwhelmingly to authorize the strike action with a final count of 967-1. The lone dissenting ballot was cast by Jerry Terrell.

Miller representative of the Kansas City Royals, who cited religious reasons for his position.

The only question that remained seemed to be the timing of strike action.

"The principle subject of conversation (today) will be a date," Miller said. "I've counseled the players on the pros and cons of different dates. I didn't make any recommendation because they didn't ask."

And if they do? Miller smiled.

"I'll sleep on that," he said at first but later he amended his position, saying, "The players have to ask themselves when it would have the maximum impact economically. I think that time would be near the end of May. If you look at April, school is still in session, there's bad weather, there are a lot of open dates, television coverage is not as heavy as it is later on."

Midland, Wichita combine bat forces

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — Midland and Wichita combined forces to beat the Chicago Cubs' B Team, 8-7, Monday morning and then, without even a lunch break, went their separate ways to split games with San Francisco Giant farm teams in the afternoon.

Phoenix and Shreveport were impatiently waiting for action as Midland-Wichita came up with two runs in the last inning to edge Chicago, 8-7, at Fitch Park. Randy Martz and lefthander George Riley, a couple of former Midland Cubs, pitched for Chicago with Riley being tagged with the loss.

Bob Madden and Dudley Lowe from the Midland roster and Lee Smith of Wichita pitched for the minor leaguers. Madden, a right hander from Costa Mesa, Calif., was 8-6 at Quad Cities last year and throws so hard wise heads nod sagely and say if it weren't for a control problem, he would be with Chicago.

Monday he was uncatchable, by anybody anywhere, in the first inning walking four, hitting two batters and unleashing four wild pitches ... and despite all that gave up only three runs.

One out singles by Joe Hicks, 299 at Quad Cities last year, and Jim Tracey, last year's TL bat champ, ignited a game tying three-run rally in the Midland-Wichita fourth against Martz. Karl Pagel singled home a run in Chicago's three-run fourth while Scott Fletcher's single and Dave Stockstill's triple sparked the farm clubs to two runs in the fifth.

Dan Rohn went 5-for-5 as Wichita beat Phoenix, 6-4, on one diamond while Shreveport nipped Midland, 2-1, on a home run by Indiana State's Greg Baker in the seventh inning. Since Madden and Lowe pitched the morning game, Midland used pitchers from the Class A rosters in the afternoon games. The loss gives Midland a 5-3 Cactus League record, including an 8-7 loss to Shreveport at Casa Grande Sunday. At Casa Grande Sunday, Dave Owen, the switch hitting spray hitter, whiffed ingloriously on three futile swings against the Giants fast ball pitcher, whose speed awed the entire dugout, but as Owen trudged to the dugout, he informed the next batter, "This guy is meat. Next time up, I'm going to line a hit off his face."

As proof that it doesn't pay to boast, the next time up the shortstop from Cleburne, Tex., lined the ball off the pitcher's leg and not the face as promised. He then had to dive head-long back to first six times on pickoff throws. He still got up and stole second, only to have the batter nullify it by fouling off a pitch. Undaunted, Owens simply stole second again on the next pitch.

John Tate loses more than fight

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John Tate, now the former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, lost twice Monday night.

When Tate and manager Ace Miller returned home after Mike Weaver took the boxing title away, they found burglars had stolen thousands of dollars worth of jewelry from Miller's home.

At least $20,000 worth of jewelry belonging to Tate and the Miller family were taken from Miller's home between 9:30 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. EST, according to Metro burglary detective Allen Hale.

A pistol and a shotgun also were taken.

5-4A resumes baseball war

The District 5-4A baseball race in wide open once again.

Midland Lee, Abilene and Abilene Cooper all stand 3-1 in the first half of the race going into today's action.

Right behind are Midland, Odessa Permian and San Angelo with 2-2 records, but that will change after the sun sets today with Midland entertaining Odessa High and Midland Lee traveling to Odessa to take on Permian. In other action, Abilene tries San Angelo and Cooper battles dangerous Big Spring.

Lee found out Saturday just how dangerous Big Spring can be in dropping a surprising 13-10 decision to the Steers on the Rebels' home diamond and MHS lost to the Central Bobcats, 5-3, in San Angelo.

Alan Koonce gets the nod today to take the mound against Permian while MHS will go with either Paul Cox or Mark Hewitt against the Bronchos at the Memorial Stadium diamond. All games start at 4 p.m.

Lee takes a 6-9 season mark against Mojo's 9-6 reading. Midland is 5-7 on the year while OHS also sports the same 5-7 mark. Cooper is 9-4, Abilene 7-4, San Angelo 5-11 and Big Spring 4-10.

Although 5-4A may not be as strong as in the past in recent seasons, it certainly is balanced. OHS pounded out 17 hits last week in losing to Cooper 13-10 and in that loss, the Bronchos hit four homers. Billy Rumbaugh most likely will throw for OHS today against Coach Tim Whalen's Bulldogs.

Permian will call upon Kevin Williams or Jay Doelling, although Doelling was the loser Saturday against Cooper's Cougars, 10-6 and the senior went all the way on the mound for Coach Lonnie Hobbs' Panthers.

Lee Coach Ernie Johnson also has Wade Cartwright ready to throw in relief if needed behind Koonce. Cartwright was roughed up by the surprising Steers who pounded out 18 hits. Fourteen of those were off Cartwright.

Wind gusts, long walk mar arrival

MESA, Ariz. — So it was a hot sunny 77 degrees here Sunday afternoon, but what they don't tell the outside world is that the wind gusts up to three miles per hour.

And Phoenix Sky Harbor is living proof that big is not necessarily better. In the old days, before the new terminal was completed, the walk from the plane to the airport exit was maybe 50 yards. Even if you rented a car, the traveler could pick up his luggage, walk across the street and be on his way in 15 to 20 minutes.

Now, it's a half-mile walk from the main terminal and the rental desk, and instead of walking across a street for your car, now it's up an elevator and a lengthy search in a parking dungeon for the vehicle. Then it's back to the lobby to pick up the luggage and if you are lucky, you might get out of the airport in an hour. Since our plane was an hour late, we didn't get out to Fitch Park until 3 p.m. The rush was for naught. The Midland Cubs were off in Casa Grande playing the Giants while the Class A Geneva and Quad Cities clubs played a game here.

Former major leaguer Gene Oliver, who arrived here for the final 10 days of spring training to assist Jim Napier with the Quad Cities club, predicted Midland would have a good club this year with strong pitching. "A lot of the pitchers we had a Quad Cities last year could have pitched at Midland, but they didn't want to rush them."

Oliver called shortstop Dave Owen, out of Cleburne, Tex., a potential Don Kessinger. "Like Don, he's having trouble with his hitting at this stage of his career, but he gets on base. He looks like a stork, but he fields like a vacuum."

According to Napier, Joe Hicks, a .299 regular season hitter, "carried us in the playoffs by hitting .700."

Chicago farm director C. V. Davis also predicted Midland would have a strong team, but didn't climb as far out on the limb as Oliver on the pitching. "It should be able," said C. V., knowing what a few West Texas wind gusts can do to the confidence of even a pitcher of promise.

Davis also said Carlos Lezcano, Midland's center-fielder last year, is doing so well in spring training, he may stick with Chicago. Regular Jerry Martin left the door open with a bad leg and bad attitude and Lezcano's enthusiasm as well as ability are a refreshing change.

The Midland and Wichita clubs joined forces to play the Chicago Cubs "B Team" at Fitch Park Monday, an operation primarily designed to give Chicago pitchers some needed innings.

Feds could bar some from silver market

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal commission says it is investigating last week's silver market crash and could "conceivably bar an individual or firm from participating in the market."

James M. Stone told the House monetary affairs subcommittee Monday that the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, which he heads, is investigating "the financing of the silver market."

He said the investigation could lead to any number of actions. Harold M. Williams, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, said the SEC also is investigating. He declined to elaborate.

Stone told the subcommittee the market plunged so rapidly last week because speculators had hoarded silver off the market to force the price up.

"As often happens in hoarding situations where the price is forced up in anticipation that it will continue to rise, when the break occurs that break can be very rapid," Stone said.

He said speculators had accumulated "tremendous amounts" of silver over the past five years. Although he said he was prohibited by law from discussing specific traders, Stone clearly was referring, among others, to Nelson Bunker Hunt and his brother, William Herbert Hunt, whose silver holdings have been estimated to be more than $4 billion.

As silver prices plunged to $10.80 an ounce last week from a high of $50.35 in January, The Bache Group, Inc., announced the Hunt family had been unable to meet margin calls totaling more than $100 million.

Nelson Hunt owns 5.6 percent of Bache, his major silver broker, and Stone said he believes that is a conflict of interest.

"I believe it is a conflict of interest when a very large customer of a firm is also a very large shareholder in that firm," Stone said.

The chairman said his commission has been watching silver trading with "deep concern" since last September when the price began moving up.

He said the commission took "jawboning actions" but had no power to prevent the crash and could not prevent another one.

He said Congress "should take a serious look" at giving the commission power to regulate margin buying, which permits speculators to buy large amounts of a commodity by paying only a small amount of cash down.

In a related matter, the Carter administration testified a bill introduced by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to restrict the government's right to sell gold would take away flexibility to stabilize the dollar.

Assistant Treasury Secretary Fred Bergsten told a Senate banking subcommittee that U.S. gold sales since May 1968 "strengthened the U.S. trade and current account positions by an estimated $4.1 billion and thus have been a significant factor contributing to dollar strength and stability."

Supermarket prices are stable

By the Associated Press

Supermarket bills rose less than 2 percent during the first quarter of 1980 and were unchanged last month, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The AP found that increases in the price of sugar and eggs during March were offset by drops in the cost of frankfurters and pork chops.

The AP drew up a random list of 14 commonly purchased food and non-food items and priced them at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Several of the stores checked by the AP imposed limited price freezes or ceilings last month after an appeal by Esther Peterson, President Carter's special adviser for consumer affairs. None of the survey items was affected by the freezes, however.

The latest AP survey showed that the average marketbasket bill at the start of April was 1.8 percent higher than it was at the beginning of the year. The increase during the same period of 1979 was more than twice as big — 4.1 percent.

The marketbasket bill went up at the checklist store in five cities last month, rising an average of 2.3 percent, and went down in eight cities, dropping an average of 1.4 percent.

On an overall basis, the bill at the start of April was the same as it was a month earlier.

The price of sugar rose at the checklist store in nine cities last month, with increases ranging from 5 percent to 25 percent. The retail price boosts reflect higher prices being paid for raw sugar on world markets because of smaller supplies. Production of sugar has been declining for several years and recent reports indicate that the current crop may be even smaller than anticipated.

Eggs are in abundant supply, but pre-Easter demand helped boost the price of eggs at the checklist store in nine of the cities surveyed. The Department of Agriculture says egg production during the first half of this year is expected to be 1 percent to 2 percent higher than 1979 levels.

On the bright side, there were declines at the meat counter. Center-cut pork chops dropped in price at the checklist store in eight cities and frankfurters decreased in six cities. Pork in particular is expected to be plentiful through the first half of this year at least and consumers should continue to find lower prices.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed slightly fewer increases during March than during February. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

Up	Feb. Mar.
Down	27.5 26.4
Unchanged	23.6 20.3
Unavailable	45.6 50.0
	3.3 3.3

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check is made varies depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes or comparable substitutes are used and items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared are not included in the overall total. The survey does not compare actual prices from city to city — saying, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. Comparisons are made only in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

The items checked are: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked are: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Officials await further information on possible supermarket poisoning

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Authorities awaited word today from an extortionist who wants 50 diamonds from the nation's largest supermarket chain in exchange for revealing what foods on store shelves may have been laced with deadly cyanide.

A bottle of tainted teriyaki sauce was found Sunday at a Safeway store in Pacific Beach, four miles from a La Jolla store where a jar of poisoned pickles was found with a note attached Saturday, authorities said.

The note signed by "The Poison Gang" threatened to "poison food in every Safeway store in the area" unless the demand for diamonds was met.

Police Lt. Ron Seden would say only that "negotiations" with the extortionists were underway. The note attached to the pickle jar told Safeway, which operates 45 stores in San Diego County and some 2,000 nationwide, "It is up to you what will happen next."

"You have until 6 p.m. today to obtain fifty (50) loose diamonds one (1) carat or larger of good quality. You will be contacted!" the note read.

Police said Monday a man with "an older voice" called the Pacific Beach store Sunday night, warning that a bottle of teriyaki sauce had been poisoned.

County Department of Health spokeswoman Dr. Georgia Reaser said the sauce was spiked with a lethal dose of poison. She said the 46-ounce jar of Vlasic dill pickles contained 1,400 milligrams of cyanide — more than five times the amount needed to kill a human being.

The La Jolla store was closed Sunday while employees scoured the market for other items that might have been contaminated.

"With some things it's easy to see if it's been messed with," said one Safeway employee. "But a jar of pickles? You can screw the top back on real tight and who is going to know?"

Safeway management and county health officials were urging customers who shopped between 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday to return any non-canned foods. No cases of poisoning have been reported, but one doctor complained of nausea after eating pickles bought at the La Jolla store, San Diego Regional Poison Center director Betts Wallace said.

Business will continue as usual in all stores, spokesmen said.

Hunts liquidate oil properties to cover huge silver losses

NEW YORK (AP) — The Hunt brothers, scions of Texas oilman H.L. Hunt and guardians of much of the family's vast fortune, have turned over valuable oil holdings near Alaska's petroleum-rich Prudhoe Bay to cover their dramatic losses in the silver market.

Nelson Bunker and W. Herbert Hunt agreed to give up the Canadian oil property to make good on a contract for 19 million ounces of silver that came due on Monday.

The Hunts had agreed to pay $35 an ounce, but after the market's collapse last week silver closed at $14.20 on Monday. The difference — about $400 million — will be covered by the oil interests and 8.5 million ounces of silver, it was announced.

Engelhard Minerals & Chemicals Corp. announced the Hunts agreement to transfer "significant interests in major Canadian oil and gas properties in the Beaufort Sea" in order to cancel a $665 million obligation to the company. The area adjacent to Prudhoe Bay is the target of intense oil exploration.

Engelhard said the transfer was subject to execution of a definitive agreement and approval from government agencies.

The announcement came as the government began investigating last week's price collapse, and as a major brokerage firm said it might lose as much as $33 million as a result of its dealings with the Hunts.

The price of silver, which rose to more than $50 an ounce in January amid reports that the Hunts and others were trying to capture the market, tumbled to $10.80 last week.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

He actually walked on water!

Jesus saw that they were ready to take Him by force and make Him their king, so He went higher into the mountains alone.

That evening His disciples went down to the shore to wait for Him.

But as darkness fell and Jesus still hadn't come back, they got into the boat and headed out across the lake toward Capernaum.

But soon a gale swept down upon them as they rowed, and the sea grew very rough. They were three or four miles out when suddenly they saw Jesus walking toward the boat! They were terrified.

But He called out to them and told them not to be afraid.

Then they were willing to let Him in, and immediately the boat was where they were going!

Lava eruption could occur on St. Helens

COUGAR, Wash. (AP) — Molten rock may have risen to within 3,300 feet of the summit of Mount St. Helens, and a lava eruption is still possible from the smoldering volcano, experts say.

Dan Miller of the U.S. Geological Survey's Volcano Hazards Project in Golden, Colo., on Monday discussed the possibility of a lava eruption after residents of the Portland, Ore., area were warned of the dangers of volcanic ash.

Miller said in a telephone interview from Vancouver, Wash., across the Columbia River from Portland, that geologists still had found no evidence of lava in the eruptions of steam, gas and ash that began March 27.

But he said there were three signs that magma — molten rock — may have risen to within one kilometer or 3,270 feet of the summit:

— "The progression upward" of seismic activity. Increasingly frequent small earthquakes were centered about five kilometers below the base of the volcano a week before the eruptions and moved to within three kilometers of the base by March 24. Since the eruptions began, "many (quake) epicenters" have been recorded within the volcanic cone, Miller said.
