Fewer choices to make on area Republican ballots

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

When voters go to the polls Saturday, Republicans in the area will have an easy time - the ballot includes only state and presidential races. There are a few exceptions, however, as a Republican here and there in the Permian Basin area has come out of the closet to challenge the Democrats. Democrats, on the other hand, have a wide slate of candidates for the

Iranians scatter hostages

Bodies will be returned with 'no strings'

By The Associated Press

The American hostages have been moved to various places in Tehran and will be dispersed to cities around the country to foil any further U.S. rescue attempts, their militant captors said Saturday. Iran's president said the bodies of eight commandos who perished in the aborted U.S. mission will be returned to the United States "with no conditions at-

Tehran radio reported that Iranian troops found six burned bodies in the 'wreckage of two giant U.S. aircraft" and said "these bodies are possibly those of the pilots and co-pilots of the burned aircraft."

A photographer who visited the desert site told reporters the burned bodies were being taken to Yazd, some 125 miles to the south. The Tehran broadcast, monitored in London, said that when two patrols entered one of the U.S. helicopters and brought out a box, the box exploded, killing one guard, and wounding two others.

Three of the five helicopters left behind by U.S. military personnel in Robat Khan were destroyed by Iranian army" planes, the radio reported. "The other two were left intact."

The broadcast added, "In one of these helicopters, which were closely inspected, there were maps and communications equipment. The operation commander said the U.S. troops had placed explosive devices in the equipment they left behind and there is a possibility that they may have mined the area.

It also said that "a tanker lorry, heading for Tabas from under fire" during the U.S. effort and blew up Iranian officials have said some of the Americans in the rescue mission were left behind, but Tehran radio said "careful air reconnaisance" of the area had failed to find any.

In other developments:

- The Pentagon raised from four to five the number of commandos it said were injured in the attempt and said all of them were going to be treated at military hospitals in Texas.

Barbara Timm of Oak Creek, Wis., in Tehran to visit her hostage son, told Iranians she deeply regretted the U.S. rescue effort.

- A usually reliable Egyptian magazine called October reported that 40 Iranian troops trained in the United States were involved in Friday's aborted mission. There was no comment from U.S. officials

President Carter said the attempt, launched early Friday, was canceled helicopters considered crucial to the miles southeast of Tehran, U.S. officials said. Eight commandos were killed and five injured when a helicopter and a C-130 transport plane collided during takeoff under cover of night, but more than 100 survivors were flown out, officials said.

The militants were quoted as saying the hostages had been moved from the embassy "To deprive the criminal Carter of his pretext for such aggression, in order to enable the intrepid nation of Iran as a whole to participate directly in safeguarding the hostages and in order to let the U.S.A. know that such foul methods will not only fail to secure the release of the hostages, but will also force us to revise our position towards

They did not say how many hostages were moved and there was no independent confirmation that any transfers had actually been made. Fifty hostages have been held at the embassy. The militants' did not say whether three other Americans being held separately at the Foreign Ministry were included in the transfers. In their statement broadcast on Tehran radio, the militants contin-

"We have decided to keep the hostages in custody in various cities throughout the country... At present, as a political act, the spy hostages are being kept in various places. Details of this decision will subsequently be disclosed to the nation." The militants were quoted as saying they had information the American mission had a greater purpose than simply to rescue the hostages, and urged that the house of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and radio and television stations be soundly protected.

Iran's interior minister, Ayatollah Mahdavi Kani, was quoted as telling the newspaper Kayhan the real aim of the mission was to take Iranian leadcustomarily in Washington. The primary purpose of the meeting is not merely to renew acquaintances in our trade — though that is a pleasant adjunct of the sessions — it is to discuss our problems. Some we solve; some loom larger as the years pass.

For instance, we deliver our papers pretty much as we have done for a hundred years. True, our trucks, once horse drawn, are now motor driven though frankly in downtown big city traffic the delivery time to your home is about the same - a matter of several hours. However, we are on the verge of delivering your paper, in perhaps a smaller size version, within minutes of the arrival of a story in our editorial offices This relative miracle will be accomplished by using CATV or cable' television.

I am frequently reminded of a conversation I had with the late General David Sarnoff, founder and chairrman of RCA, Radio Corporation of America, around 1950. I was even then beefing about the lengthy distribution time and the many difficulties of our antiquated system. There was then a machine, sort of a copying machine, called facsimile, which reproduced a letter-size piece of paper at the other end. If you put it on your machine, it could reproduce in the same size on a similar machine at the other end, a copy of the message you wanted to send. He assured me that even then RCA was prepared to deliver into our homes a sheet bigger than letter size but they hadn't worked out yet how to service the machines or how the finished products were going to be paid for. These he said were our headaches, not his, and he was perfectly right.

There are still problems ahead. It would seem that we are on the verge of delivering a paper to you when you want it at five or six in the afternoon

Then all costs, as they have a way of doing when inventions become popular, would come down. We would not however be affected by weather conditions and transmission would be so immediate that we might well go back to putting out "extras" as we once did. What my friend was predicting may be nearer at hand than any of us realize. David Sarnoff was a genius and a prophet in the field of electronics.

torney added, collection of bad checks "essentially the only problem this office has at this point. I feel like we have an effective office. Most attorneys in town feel this office is being run efficiently and fairly.

Moore disagreed. "I am running because I think I can do a lot to improve the office. There are things that need to be handled differently, he said.

The major thing, and one of Moore's major campaign issues, is changing the collection process for bad checks.

'The county attorney's office must be more aggressive in pursuing people who write bad checks," he said. 'The merchants aren't going to and should not be expected to absorb all that loss - they have to pass that on to the residents of Midland County."

Moore suggested those whose bad checks reached the county attorney's office should be prosecuted and required to make restitution to the merchant while on probation. "If they're caught and plead guilty," Moore said, "there is no reason they shouldn't pay the money back."

He also suggested fines levied against offenders could prove a source of extra income to the county attorney's office which "could help defray some of the attorney's office expenses."

BOTH MEN EXPRESSED an interest in the handling of juvenile offenders, another major aspect of the county attorney's job.

"I feel we have our juvenile situation under control," Rendall said. "The juvenile probation office has done an excellent job with the manpower they have, and the new juvenile probation officer just added will help a great deal."

He noted the optimum alternative in dealing with young offenders is to "rehabilitate the child in the community." However, he said, last year 13 young people were committed to the Texas Youth Council all year, and nearly that many have been sent already in 1980.

"That's not necessarily a crackdown," Rendall said. "We just have had some kids we didn't feel were being rehabilitated at home. *His opponent had a different view.

"Working up here," the assistant DA said, "I see young people who are now adults with extensive juvenile rec-

"We need to try to reach those young people some way," he said, and leadership methods tried elsewhere - including the "Scared Straight" program - could be adapted for use here.

Moore also suggested more extensive use of the adult misdemeanor probation code which would allow a judge to suspend probation and require an offender to spent a certain number of hours a week on a community service project or working for a service organization.

CIA house painter's reward worth more than working for paycheck

"Good morning," Willie Mae Mack said politely but boldly, as she walked up to the house painter. "Are you getting with it?"

The slick-haired, smiling painter, Gordon Marcum, a Midland lawyer, oilman and city councilman, was one of a dozen or so volunteer workers, including the mayor-elect, fire chief, police chief, city manager, aviation director, other city officials and the out-going mayor's wife, fixing up Lillie Mae Jones' 1950-ish brick house at 1108 E. Councilman Carroll Thomas carefully was painting about the threshold. Police Chief Wayne Gideon was fiddling with the bathroom plumbing. City Manager Jim Brown was scrubbing the wood floor in the den. Fire Chief Raymond Lewis was scampering around. Battered Blackthorn retired

TAMPA, Fla: (AP) - Four survivors of the Coast Guard's worst peacetime accident returned to the battered cutter Blackthorn for a brief decommissioning ceremony, their last official duty on what was once their ship.

They saluted as they went aboard Friday, then took down the flags and prayed for the 23 men who died when the Blackthorn collided with the tanker Capricorn and sank at the mouth of Tampa Bay on Jan. 28.

Returning for the ceremony were Lt. David Crawford, the executive officer, bound for shore duty in Galveston, Tex.; Guardsman Michael Rhodes, off to a service school: Guardsman Charles Bartell, who will run civilian supply boats to offshore oil rigs; and Rogert Niesel, who will join the Coast Guard's marine safety office in Tampa.

The ship was raised Feb. 19 and Coast Guard officials decided three weeks ago to scrap it. A decision had not been made whether to tow the cutter to Baltimore to be mothballed or to sell it for conversion to a civilian work boat.

The former crewmen took down the American flag and folded it carefully and rolled up the red and white emblem of the Coast Guard that had flown from atop the bridge of the

65 of 100 executions may be unnecessary: Dickerson

By KAY HORD-CRITES Staff Writer

"For every 100 people we convict, we stand a good chance of executing about 65 of them unnecessarily on a statistical basis, said Dr. Windell Dickerson of Huntsville

Dickerson, who was in Midland Thursday and Friday to address lawyers at the Criminal Defense Skills Course, is a psychologist. For four years he served as director of psychological services at the Texas Department of Corrections. Recently, he has been involved with several death penalty cases in assisting the defense.

His topic at the seminar was "The Use and Misuse of Psychological Testimony in Capital Murder Trials.

The capital punishment statute in the state of Texas provides for doublehearings in capital trials, one for determining guilt and the second for punishment.

'The second part of that statute recognizes that the jury must determine whether or not the defendant will be a continuing threat to others and whether or not there is any hope for the nature of his characteristics or behavior of improving,

'And in capital cases, one of the sources that the law has looked to has been expert opinion from psychologists and psychiatrists on those issues.

"The points I'm trying to make are No. 1: On a naturalistic level, we are not even capable of predicting with complete accuracy our own behavior; and No. 2, that the contfolled systematic study of the prediction of violence has universally shown that our level of accuracy does not exceed about 35 to 37 percent. "What this means, if we apply this error rate for every 100 people we convict, we stand a good chance of executing about 65 of them unnecessarily."

Dickerson supports the use of expert psychological testimony in a trial, but only as a tool to help the jury b tter understand the defendant. To use the "expert" to say whet er or not a person can change is a "dicey recommendation."

'Since there is substantial room for change in people in 20 to 30 years, I think it's presumptious of any of us to say that this individual absolutely will kill again.' In Dickerson's opinion, expert testimony is used "to shift the responsibility for someone's death to an expert opinion.

"If we want to kill people under the the capital statute, then let's stand up and say let's do it because we think it's right. If social morality demands the death penalty, the implementation of that death penalty should be primarily based upon that authority rather than the pragmatic approach, which really cannot be implemented."

administered as it presently stands.

we can make those kinds of predictions with a high degree of He added it "gets a bit strident" when he is called to testify and refuses to predict what a person will do in 30 years. "Often they have heard contrary testimony from other folks who feel they can predict with a high degree of certainty what someone will do 30 years from now. But the professional literature on the topic is quite clear."

'pretty unsavory.

'You don't usually get a capital charge unless it's pretty bad. I think there are some facts of violence that, when we read the facts of the case, we feel pretty bad about. I know I do. But that's as a human being, and it's important to keep our feelings as a human being separate from whatever we know scientifically and professionally.

FIXING UP MAKES DOLLAR SENSE

Fixing up your home for sale makes a lot of sense. It should include painting walls and ceilings that do not clean up well, repairing broken cabinets and doors if needed. Fences should be repaired and painted if needed. Have the driveway resurfaced if it is asphalt or has pot holes or large cracks. If resurfacing is not needed, have the driveway sealed. Make sure all light fixtures are working and it might help to increase the wattage of the light bulbs. Plant new flowers that are currently blooming and plant some grass seed on the lawn if

Health Department happy to be in new home

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Back in September, the future of Midland City-County Health Department looked bleak.

Voters had turned down a bond issue to construct a new facility for the department, and Midland Memorial Hospital, where the department was located, was hinting that it needed the space. The Health Department literally was being kicked out in the

Today, the department is housed in a building that seems to have been designed just for that purpose. The irony of the situation is that it seemed to fall into the Health Department's lap just when things looked the darkest and at a lower price than a new building would have cost.

What happened is that Western Clinic at 501 Andrews Highway was put up for sale shortly after voters said they didn't want to pay $750,000 to build a facility for the Health De-

Chief Sanitarian Jewel Smith said the timing couldn't have been better. The city bought the clinic for $426. 000, far below the amount estimated for a new building. The city has made one payment of $123,000 and will pay off the building in three more yearly payments of $101,000 each.

To get the clinic in shape has taken only about $6,000, according to

"This is one of the smartest things the city has ever done," the chief sanitarian remarked. Drawings for a new facility show the building to be about 50 percent bigger than the clinic, he said. But after moving into the new headquarters, Smith said he discovered the department didn't need the extra

"This place is so well-designed it works great for us," he added.

In listing advantages of the clinic, Smith cited its location, increased parking for employees and patients, a large waiting room with stereo music. some furniture left behind by the clinic's doctors, and numerous examining and laboratory rooms.

In the basement of the hospital's east wing, there was a cramped waiting area, few examining rooms, and even fewer consulting rooms. This put a social worker in the same room as a medical records technician, destroying the state's concept of a "private" interview with patients, Smith explained.

Now, everyone has his or her own office. There are numerous examining rooms, one area set aside for the well-baby clinic, and a room for patients with venereal disease.

Another wing of the clinic that was designed for laboratory work is converted to hold additional laboratory equipment for the Health Department. What once was an X-ray room has become the first dust-free milk laboratory in West Texas, said Smith.

And there's a couple of additional benefits the Health Department hadn't counted on: the employees' own lounge and a storage room. "It amazes me how enthusiastic the people are in this environment.' Smith commented. "Everyone worked hard for a couple of weeks to get this in shape. And there's a noticeable difference in the attitude of patients, he pointed

"The waiting room at the hospital used to be utter chaos. We don't have it here," he said. "People get treated like they are in a regular doctor's

If the Health Department finds it needs expanding sometime in the future, the city has a way out. The clinic was designed to add a second floor, said Smith.

By being out of the hospital's eye, Smith said the Health Department finally can control the clinic: "We can control the heating and air conditioning, we have parking and we have a cleaning service that comes in every

After worrying about the clinic's future before the answer plopped in his lap, Smith apparently is proud of the new accommodations. While walking through the quiet wide halls, stopping occasionally in offices where people were working, the chief sanitarian kept saying, "This is just fan-

Colombian hostages expected to be released in days

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) - The Colombian government said Saturday "a satisfactory balance" has been reached in negotiations with guerrillas holding 16 diplomats hostage in the Dominican Republic Embassy

Often the ONLY way in! WANT ADS reach prospects. Dial 682-6222

Expectations rose that most of the diplomats would be freed within two or three days and that five, including U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, would be flown with their 20-30 guerrilla captors to Cuba and then Vienna, where the diplomats would be released.

Members of the Organization of American States' Human Rights Commission met with government officials Saturday afternoon and a government communique said another round of talks with the guerrillas would be held Sunday.

Security police removed a half dozen cars from streets beside the embassy, apparently to clear the way for a caravan to take the guerrillas and diplomats to the aiport. Most of the cars belong to the diplomats, who were attending a reception in the embassy when the guerrillas shot their way in on Feb. 27 - two months ago,

Earlier Saturday, government sources had expressed concern that the guerrillas had hardened their demands, jeopardizing a settlement. But the communique issued Saturday afternoon said negotiators, who met for 80 minutes Saturday, "constructed a satisfactory balance" to end the dispute. It was the most optimistic assessment by the government yet.

Under the reported release plan, sources said, a plane would take the guerrillas and five diplomats to Cuba, where it is likely to refuel and fly to officials are thought to be contemplating a departure time when traffic Vienna. There the leftists would decide their final destination and the diplomats would be freed.

Reports from persons with direct access to the bargaining indicated that the flight from Bogota would occur before Tuesday and possibly as early as Sunday.

The hostages include the American ambassador, the papal nuncio, 10 other ambassadors and four consuls. Also in the embassy are two Colombian journalists who have said they are remaining there voluntarily to collect material for a book.

One source said all that remains to be done to end the standoff to coordinate the arrival of a Cuban airliner that would transport the guerrillas and the others from Bogota. Red Cross officials were also expected to accompany the plane from Bogota.

Still to be worked out are details of transporting the guerrillas from the embassy to the airport, the site where the majority of the hostages would be released once the guerrillas leave the embassy, and whether the Colombian army would provide security for the guerrillas and hostages as they head for the airport. Bogota traffic, particularly on the route between the embassy and the airport on the western outskirts of the city, is usually snarled. Government would be light.

The guerrillas, who originally demanded the release of jailed leftist guerrillas, apparently have agreed to a plan to release the diplomats and two Colombians in exchange for international inspection of guerrilla trials and ! other safeguards of their rights.

Private negotiators, acting behind the scenes but apparently with the consent of the governments involved, also appeared close to arranging a $2.5 million ransom that guerrillas say would go to Colombia's poor. Earlier Saturday, there were conflicting reports about the status of the

A high Colombian government official said an agreement was "within

But later government sources confirmed a newspaper report that the guerrillas were demanding three of their jailed comrades be released before the diplomatic hostages be freed. The government has steadfastly insisted it will not free any jailed guerrilla leaders, and that demand apparently was dropped again.

Physical conditions at the embassy were described by one visitor as "deteriorating.

Egypt wants Israel out of west bank

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) -Egyptian negotiators, preparing for non-stop Palestinian autonomy talks with Israel, on Saturday issued a four-point policy statement calling for a freeze on Jewish settlements in territories captured by Israel during the 1967 Middle East war.

The Egyptians also called for the withdrawal of the Israeli governor's office from the occupied territories and for creation of an elected Palestinian council with administrative, legislative and judicial authority there. In Tel Aviv, a Foreign Ministry spokesman reiterated Israel's position that it would not freeze. settlements in the disputed territories and would not accept an autonomous Palestinian government with either legislative or judicial authority. However, the Israeli' spokesman expressed agreement with other less substantive points proposed by Egypt. Egypt, Israel and the United States have agreed to make a final push for agreement on the nature of autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip, the Israeli-occupied territories, before the May 26 target date.

The marathon negotia tions, which grew out of separate summits President Carter held with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, begin in the Israeli resort of Herzliya on Wednesday. They shift later to Cairo.

Foreigners assured to resume work MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) - Liberia's new military leader, Master Sgt. Samuel K. Doe, said Saturday all American and other foreign businessmen could resume work "without fear of house arrest." Justice Minister Chea Cheapoo had warned that all managers, directors and chief accountants of governmentowned corporations, including foreigners. would be placed under house arrest while revolutionary authorities checked for evidence of corruption, Some 20 American, British, French and Dutch executives could have been affected by the order that might have led to the shutdown of the country's oil refinery and agencies responsible for housing, electricity, construction and agricultural planning.

Radio Monrovia also announced Saturday that approximately 60 persons released from military detention were ordered to report back to the detention center where they had been held. No reason was given, but an Information Ministry spokesman said the military regime "has had second thoughts" about the innocence of some of those released Friday.

ELECT

Dear Fellow-Midlanders:

It is a time for a change. A Justice of the Peace functions on a twenty-four hour day and is often called out at all hours of the night to perform the duties of this office. Such hours require the energy and vigor of a younger man. For this reason I am asking for your vote in the May 3rd Republican

The demands of this office are readily apparent when you recall that the Justice of the Peace must receive all felony charges and some misdemeanor charges from arresting officers, issue felony warrants, read constitutional rights to anyone charged with a felony, set bonds on felony charges, perform inquests perform marriages, and sit as judge in small claims court, among other duties. Many of these duties occur at odd hours of the night as well as during the day. Law Enforcement Officers have reported that the incumbent, an older man, has on recent occasions been unavailable when he was needed and this required putting an unnecessary load on the other Justice of the Peace. When elected to this office I will provide a much-needed infusion of energy and will also bring a broad background in Law Enforcement with me.

My work in Law Enforcement began twenty-four years ago, the last eighteen years being spent in Midland. I hold an associate degree in Police Science from Midland College, have completed college courses in Criminology, Sociology, and Psychology, have attend a number of seminars sponsored by the F.B.I., and have completed schools oriented to Crime Prevention and Law Enforcement.

My spare time has gone to a number of community activities which include ten years with Midland Junior Baseball Association, a program for teenagers, and active participation in the East Side Lions Club. I hold memberships in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, National Rifle Association, Bass Anglers Sportsman Society, A.S.A. Softball Association, West Texas Communication Officers Association, and Southwest Officials Association (basketball and football).

A native of Sebastian, Texas I attend school there and graduated from nearby Lyford High School prior to a stint in the United States Army and Army Reserve. In 1960, I, my wife, Chris, and our two sons, Travis and Donald moved to Midland and Law Enforcement became my chosen profession. Our sons graduated from Midland schools. We love Midland and want to make a contribution to the betterment of Midland County. I feel that my greatest contribution can be made by bringing to the office of Justice of the Peace a new level of energy and a full knowledge of Law Enforcement. Among the Republican candidates for this office I feel that I am best qualified to defeat the incumbent. With this as my goal I sincerely ask for your vote in the Republican Primary on Saturday, May 3rd.

Don Rose, a political strategist who guided Mrs Byrne's mayoral campaign, says the mayor and McMullen "both have the same weaknesses." Both, he says, are volatile and tend to place loyalty and friendship above competence.

"What a good administrator does is put herself ... in a position where her advisers strengthen rather than exacerbate her weaknesses," Rose said. Mrs. Byrne, he said, has not done that.

Rose says he believes, however, that the "revolving door" atmosphere does not have much immediate impact, because positions in which there are vacancies "are not necessary to the day-to-day operation of the administration.

Pan Am office bombed

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) - A group of unidentified persons threw three Molotov cocktails through the windows of the Pan American World Airways office here Saturday in an apparent attempt to demonfate against U.S. policy towards Iran, police reported Saturday.

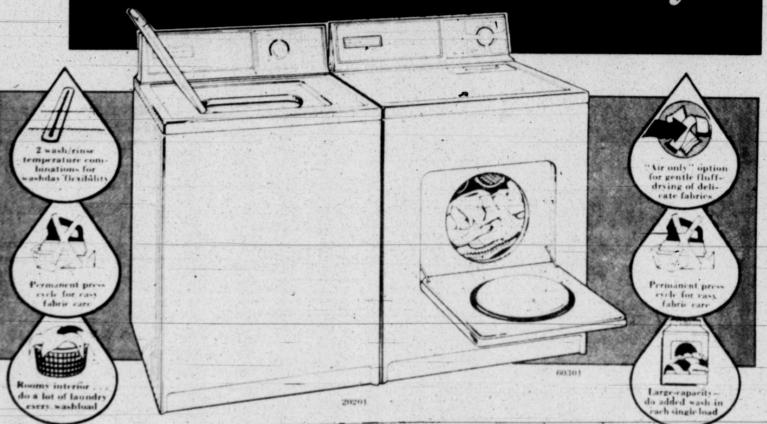

The police, who reported no one was injured, said several persons, described as leftists, broke the office windows with stones and then threw the homemade bombs inside

Police and firefighters were able to extinguish the fire quickly with foam and prevent extensive damage to the office, officials said.

The police did not know the identities of the demonstrators, but said they were "anarchists" believed to be demonstrating against the recent attempt to free the U.S. hostages in Tehran, and West German cooperation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

No suspects have been arrested, police said.

Inmate hopes to become warden

By JERRY GRAY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Some day, George Rutherford hopes to have his boss' job. Rutherford's boss is Ben Poindexter, warden of the Memphis Correctional Center, and Rutherford is inmate 78967 at the 405-man minimum security facility.

Come December, Rutherford hopes to win a master's degree, his second. After that, he plans to begin work on a law or doctorate degree.

Nearly every weekday morning for the past two years, Rutherford, 28, has walked through the gates of the regional prison and waited for a bus to take him across town to the Memphis State University campus.

He's working on a master's degree in public administration in criminal justice to go with the master's in guidance and personnel, with an emphasis in corrections, he got last De-

Rutherford, a bachelor, is the youngest of seven children and a lifelong resident of Memphis. In 1974, he earned a bachelor of arts degree in sociology and social welfare from Le-Moyne-Owen College and went to work for Big Brothers of Memphis, Somewhere along the line, he ran afoul of the law. He does not like to talk about the circumstances which led to his imprisonment.

"I was faced with a situation that I made a poor decision. If I had made the right decision, I probably wouldn't have been here today," he said. "I've learned to accept my shortcomings of that situation. I don't have any remorse feelings about the system...I made the decision that brought me here.

"It gave me a lot of insight I never had," he said. "It takes concerned people and you've got to be responsible...You don't blame anybody else for your shortcomings.

Rutherford has a parole hearing in August and he thinks chances are good he will win his freedom. If so, he will finish work on his second master's, then pursue a doctorate degree in guidance and personnel or attend in guidance and personnel or attend law school.

Rutherford said several states, including California, allowed convicted felons to practice law.

He said he seriously wanted to become a warden some day.

'A warden can bring about a lot of changes," he said. "Taxpayers put a lot of money into the correctional system. They need to know where that money's going

Origin of American road maps traced to George Washington

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) -Some experts trace the origin of the road map to the first caveman who scratched a pattern in dirt to guide his fellows to a new hunting

And in 1789 - the year the Constitution was ratified and Washington was elected president - the first road atlas appeared, according to researchers at Rand McNally & Co., publishers of road maps and atlases, the latest of which is the "1980 Road

97-year-old man cries, son angered by hospital haircut

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Tom Dickerson says he can't recall his father's hair ever being much shorter than shoulder length, but it's close-cropped now - a hospital barber gave the 97-year-old man an unwanted haircut.

'I walked into the room and he had tears running down his face," said Dickerson, 44. "He asked me why I let them cut his hair.'

'Now my father won't eat anything," he said. "He's dispirited. He always said he wanted to live to be 100 but I'm worried now. He's aged 10 years since this happened. Dickerson accepts the explanation from administrators of Osteopathic Hospital for the haircut. Apparently, he said, a barber who donates his time to the hospital went to his father's room while his son was not there and asked if the old man wanted a haircut.

Dickerson said his father, Martin, gave in after being told his son had authorized the cut. He said his father's poor hearing and the barber's thick accent probably contributed to the mistake.

The elder Dickerson was hospitalized last week for congestive heart failure.

A spokeswoman for the hospital would say only that the barber asked the elderly man if he wanted a haircut and was told yes.

"I have an electric comb and an electric brush and I took care of his hair every day. Just the day before I had shampooed his hair. It had a beautiful shine," the son said, his voice cracking. "There was no reason for anybody to touch his hair.'

The last time his father let anyone touch his silver locks - his "pride and joy" - was six months ago,

"At the time my father kept saying 'don't cut my hair off, just a shape up," Dickerson said.

The affair flared up Friday, a day after the haircut, when Dickerson tried to usher a photographer to his father's room to take a picture of the old man, he said. The hospital refused to allow the photographer to take pictures.

'So I went downstairs to walk the photographer back out," the son said. "When I went back upstairs there was a security guard. He asked me where I was going and I told him. He said 'I'm sorry, visiting hours are over.

"I said, 'I know why you're mad. It's okay. Just let me go get my hat and coat.' He said, 'I told you visiting hours are over.' When I tried to step around him he pushed me against the wall and at that point I must admit I tried to defend myself. Then he hit me over the eye-with his walkie-talkie and that's when I knocked him down," Dickerson

"I knocked him down three times."

Tito's heart weakening; Digestive problems arise

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - President Josip Broz Tito's heart is getting feebler and the Yugoslav leader is also having substantial digestive problems for the first time in almost three months, his doctors

"In the past few days, there have been serious disturbances in the functioning of the digestive organs. The general state of health of the president remains exceptionally grave." said the daily medical advisory on the health of Tito, whose 88th birthday is May 7.

Saturday's bulletin indicated that almost all of Tito's organs are failing to function properly. He is in a coma, has severe damage to the liver, his kidneys have failed completely, and his stomach and intes tines are bleeding, according to his doctors

Source of screwworm studied

MISSION - Dr. Steve Smith, a U.S. Department of Agriculture epidemiologist, and two fly trappers are attempting to track down the source of a screwworm, which earlier this month was found by Coleman County rancher Harold Bragg.

The parasitic Screwworms invades open wounds of warm-blooded animals and causes serious injury or death.

The case was the first confirmed screwworm sample in 205 days within the Texas livestock industry Smith and the fly trappers are working the Glen Cove area of Coleman County to determine how many wild screwworms are in the area and to try to determine their origin.

The nearest known screwworm case to the Central Texas location was in the Villa Union community, about 40 miles south of Eagle pass and 200 miles from Bragg's ranch, in the Mexican state of Coahuila.

Seed of cotton more valuable

LUBBOCK - Farmers, who have long viewed income from cottonseed as a means of paying ginning charges, increasingly are becoming aware that the seed represents a revenue source distinct from cotton.

More and more, cotton producers are expressing concern over the "farmers' share" of revenue from the seed's four major products - oil, meal, linters and hulls.

And speculation on what could be the farmers' share of cottonseed revenue is Dr. Dean Ethridge, a specialist in agricultural economics at Texas A&M University.

Wheat, feedgrains exported

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A new analysis of U.S. grain supplies and use shows a continued heavy flow of wheat and feedgrains into export channels this spring.

However, the U.S. Department of Agriculture report, issued Friday, said the overall supply of grain as of April 1 was "about in line with previous expectations" and that the government's reserve program is having some effect on the corn price outlook.

Perot didn't know of rescue attempt

DALLAS (AP) - Computer magnate Ross Perot, who freed two of his employees from a Tehran prison in 1979, did not know of the government's plan to rescue the American hostages from Iran, a spokesman

Bill Wright, communications director for Electronic Data Systems, Inc., Perot's company, said Perot was out of town. But he said he talked with him after the unsuccessful attempt to rescue the hostages was

Wright said Perot told him he had not been contacted about the possibility of a commando-type rescue.

"He had no advance knowledge of it at all, and we were all as surprised as everyone else," Wright said:

Party	Name	Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office. (50-word limit)	What should be the role of the Texas Railroad Commission with respect to the national energy problem? (100-word limit)	What are the three most urgent issues facing the Railroad Commission and ho will you address them? (100-word limit)
Democrat	John H. Poerner	Private business; 6 years in Texas House of Representatives; Admin. Assistant to Gov. Briscoe; Chairman — Texas Railroad Commission.	Commission should continue taking a leading role in seeing that problems as sociated with national energy are solved at the State level, whenever possible. The Railroad Commission believes in the expansion of exploration for new resources, and the largest possible production that is economically and ecologically sound.	(1) Increasing production of oil and gas through encouraging investment in risi of exploration and development of petroleum resources; (2) Transportation improvements that will improve intrastate service lines to traveling public, both by rail and bus; (3) Development of alternate fuel sources for use in Texas homes and by employers in business/industry.

Buddy Temple's business experience has equipped him with the management tools so needed in government today.	new direction for national energy policy. With a staff of 600, the commission has the expertise to be in the forefront of the solution to our national energy	spokesman in Washington for the consumers and producers in Texas, influencing the direction of our future energy policy. 2. Cutting energy costs. I pledge to make gas utilities justify every penny of the rates they charge. 3. Representing all the people. For too long, the commission has been a private
Republican	Hank Grover	No response.	No response	No-response.
	John Thomas Henderson	A successful businessman interested in the Consumers of Texas and under no obligation to any individual, group or company.	The Texas Railroad Commission should deal with all energy problems right on top of the table for all citizens to know the truth about, an end to lies and deceptions.	(1) Lending support to individuals and small companies who are attempting to develop our abundant natural resources. (2) The Commissioners disassociating themselves from industries they are supposed to regulate. (3) Refusing campaign contributions from those industries, and seeing to it that the Consumers of Texas receive a fair deal.
	E.W. 'Billy' Kidd	For the last ten years I have operated my business very successfully through two recessions and under heavy Federal and State control. As a person capable of making sound business decisions, I have the experience necessary to also make sound decisions regarding our economic security as well as protective measures for individuals.		Avoidance of uneconomic patterns of production — keep in mind that the objective is to prevent waste rather than loss. Serve as a balancing and adjusting mechanism for elements in the State economy — improve the economy as a whole and devise protective measures for individuals. Intrastate regulation — although Federal authority and the Interstate Commerce Commission has reduced the need for state regulation in transportation, intrastate regulation is still applicable to many of our important traffics.
Two years (Unexpired term) Democrat	Jim Hightower	Fifteen years as an economic analyst and investigative reporter have enabled me to marshal facts and to present them clearly to consumers. Also, as a reporter, I know how to get behind the official statements and statistics of the companies that seek rate increases and permits which affect our pocketbooks.	The Railroad Commission should fight against ever-increasing utility rates and show more concern for individual consumer's budgets than for excessive utility and oil company profits. The Commission should also become the pioneering agency that opens up the renewable energy frontier in Texas (especially gasohol, solar and wind power) so that a new, competitive energy industry can be established to offer Texas consumers long-term energy security and lower prices. In addition, the Commission should take a leadership role in providing Texans with a reliable high-speed system of passenger transportation.	(a) I would restore public faith in the Railroad Commission as the watchdog of the energy and transportation industry. I will bring the decision-making out of the backrooms and insist on consumer notification and participation. (b) The Railroad Commission must combat constantly rising utility bills. I would vote against excessive and retroactive rate increases, and would not allow utility companies to pass along their cost of advertising to consumers. (c) The Commission must accept responsibility for developing a meaningful energy plan. I would look to renewable energy, and encourage and provide incentives for the development of these energy sources.
	James E. 'Jim' Nugent	My qualifications include 18 years in the state legislature, where I successfully sponsored Texas' first ethics law for public officials, a complete revision of criminal statutes and major funding bills for highways and education. I have degrees in law and engineering and a record as a successful attorney and businessman.	possible. The Railroad Commission will continue as an aggressive leader in each phase of this program by efficient management of our oil and gas reserves, promotion of lignite-coal, solar, gasohol, geothermal and in situ mining technolo-	Texas consumers are unwitting victims of national policies designed to provide cheap energy to the Northeast. The railroads, coal-exporting states and others have used Texas for their own benefit. I will continue to oppose these out-of-state forays into Texas consumers' pocketbooks. I will hold gas utility profits rate proceedings with utility companies. I will continue my initiative to keep overweight trucks off our highways, saving millions in highway maintenance and automobile repairs.

Sole parent of three young children — and I am a worksholds		The structure of the Texas Civil Court system, and particularly the Texas Supreme Court, is sound. The method of selecting judges should be re-examined, although I am not particularly in favor of a purely appointive system. Most important of all, the courts must remain responsive to the people despite population growth, the judges must continue to use common sense in applying the law, and resistance to technicalism must be continued.
	James P. 'Jim' Wallace	I have practiced general civil law for 18 years; served two terms in the Texas Senate, gaining invaluable experience in law making; served as a District Judge and an Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, interpreting and applying the law.	The changes most needed are ones which will decrease the costs and delay inherent in our judicial process while at the same time making it more accessible to all citizens. The establishment of neighborhood justice centers, where citizens may submit their disputes to trained, volunteer arbitrators without incurring expenses, would accomplish all three of these goals. Second, the transcription of testimony should be converted from the current system employing typrewriters to

No member of the Court is so certified even though almost 50 percent of all civil cases in Texas are family law related.	I would have the court hear a significantly larger number of cases each year in order to provide guidance to the District courts throughout Texas. Office	Candidate	Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office. (50-word limit)	What structural or administrative changes, if any, do you recommend for the Texas Judio system? (100-word limit)
Place 1 Democrat	Leon Douglas	Graduate of University of Texas at Austin, BA and Doctor of Jurisprudence degrees; General Practice of Law, 7 yrs.; District Attorney, 4 yrs.; State's 'Attorney, 14 yrs.; Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, 11 yrs.; Visiting lecturer at St. Mary's College of Law; on faculty for Texas College of the Judiciary.	We should have intermediate courts handling cases on appeal before they reach the Court Criminal Appeals. Last year the Court wrote opinions in 2767 cases. It is impossible to thorough study, pass upon and write good opinions in that many cases by one Court. In November there will an opportunity to vote upon a constitutional amendment providing for such courts. If adopted, the will provide a system comparable to the one now used in civil cases going to the Court of Civil Appeal Many cases become final in the Courts of Civil Appeals. We need a better court administration.
	Marvin O. Teague	Practicing attorney for more than 15 years handling criminal trial and appeal cases. Lecturer at State Criminal Law Institutes and Author of Significant Decisions Reports and Editorial Consultant to Matthew Bender Law Book Company. Member of Board of Directors, Criminal Lawyers Associations. Former Senior Administrative Assistant, Court of Criminal Appeals.	In the Court of Criminal Appeals, it is imperative that the system be speeded up to eliminate ti time it now takes to dispose of a criminal appeal. This can be done by: 1) Increasing the number paralegal assistants, briefing attorneys and research attorneys; 2) Amend the Code to provide that a appeal will be docketed directly with the Court rather than as it is presently done; 3) Elimina oral argument unless at least 4 judges rule otherwise; 4) Amend the code to eliminate the requirement that a written opinion must occur in every case appealed; 5) Better news coverage why the Court ruled.
Place 2 Democrat	John E. Humphreys	At 54, I have a broad base of professional and life experience. I have practiced law 13 years, heavily in criminal defense. Formerly, I was engaged in small business for 20 years, following service in World War II. I love the law and have a deep empathy for human endeavors.	My first recommendation is to implement an intermediate division between the trial courts and the Court of Criminal Appeals. The great number of cases in this one court is burdensome and de structive to the system of justice itself. Secondly, I would seek ways to make our streets homes and businesses safer by employing swift an orderly processes of law for the appeal process but with strict adherence to the Constitution to protect the rights of every citizen. Many believe we must live in a jungle of crime. I cannot and will not accept that premise; we must improve the system.
	Mike McCormick	Briefing attorney, Texas Court of Criminal Appeals; Assistant District Attorney, Travis County; chief felony trial attorney; chief, appellate division; Executive Director, Texas District and County Attorneys Association; Criminal Justice Instructor, Southwest Texas State University; author, Branch's Penal Statutes; lecturer, author and editor of numerous criminal law articles and reference materials.	The most pressing issue facing the Texas judicial system is the two year backlog of cases in the Court of Criminal Appeals. The 1977 Amendment which allows the Court to sit in panels will designed to alleviate the backlog. It is not working as anticipated. Conflicting decisions between panels has caused an increase in the number of motions for rehearing that are being filed, and man cases, after being decided by a panel are being handled a second time by an en bancCourt. The panel system is adding to the delay and should be abandoned.
	W.T. Phillips	B.A., L.L.B., Baylor; 39 years as practicing attorney, civil and criminal; graduate, New York University Law School's Institute of Judicial Administration, Sam Houston State University's Institute of Corrections and Behaviorial Science, and Appellate Judges School of San Francisco; Judge, Texas Court of Criminal Appeals since 1976, delivering 900 written opinions.	I recommend a constitutional amendment providing for appeal of all misdemeanors, bail forfeiture and bail reduction cases to the Courts of Civil Appeals with their decisions final except when conflict with a decision of another Court of Civil Appeals or the Court of Criminal Appeals. I recommend that District Judges, instead of the Court of Criminal Appeals, be vested with authority to grant extensions for filing the record and briefs because the District Court is more known edgeable as to the true needs for an extension and such will remove an unnecessary burden from the Court of Criminal Appeals.
Place 3 Democrat	Walter Boyd	Trial and appellate attorney; 20 years legal experience; Board certified, criminal law, Texas Board of Legal Specialization; active Democrat, civic affairs. Would overrule outrageous expansion of "fundamental error" doctrine, which has resulted in countless decisions based on procedural technicalities having no foundation in any constitutional provision, law, or common sense.	1. Responsible, strong and credible outside, voluntary institution such as the League could caus basic reforms by engaging in long-term study of the judicial system. 2. Judicial elections probably should be non-party affiliated. Too many opportunists switched to file as Republicans in some counties resulting in unhealthy situation for both parties. 3. Public should make basic corrections through electoral process when a court gets so bizarre in it opinions over extended period of time as has occurred with present majority of Court of Criminal Appeals. 4. Expanded Code of Ethics is needed for prosecutors and defense attorneys.
	Tom Davis	Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, two years; Commissioner, Court of Criminal Appeals, seven years; Judge, 46th Judicial District Court, twelve years; practicing lawyer and County Attorney, Wilbarger County, twelve years; graduate University of Texas School of Law.	Of immediate and critical importance is the passage of the amendment to Article Five of the Texa Constitution in November giving Courts of Civil Appeals intermediate appellate jurisdiction is criminal as well as civil cases. The devising of a system whereby the records on appeal from the trial court may be prepared in shorter period of time in order that the length of time for appeal may be lessened. This may require the employment of additional court reporters or may necessitate providing the existing number of reporters with better technical equipment.
	Edith Roberts	Undergraduate and Law School Baylor University. 15 years experience as a trial attorney both civil and criminal. Former speech teacher. First woman assistant district attorney in Travis County. Graduate work University of Texas.	Would try to move cases faster. The court has expanded and still defendants wait sometimes as lor as two years to have their cases heard. I think it would be good for the Court to travel, if give the authority, to hear cases if it would speed up the calendar. Work for a more unified Court.

Former President, Midland County Bar Association. Former Midland City Councilman and Mayor Pro Tem.	Without strong, competent judges, we cannot have either a workable system of justice or an orderly community. I believe qualified judges contribute greatly to the peace and stability of any society by firmly and impartially applying the law. Sure and swift punishment, before judges who are determined to uphold the law, reduces crime. Civil cases also require skilled judges, especially in such complex areas as oil and gas iaw. The quality of justice in any county is never higher than the qualifications and ability of the judges the people elect.	Hard work is always the order of the day in improving the efficiency and efectiveness of our courts. We must continue the efforts initiated by presejudges to reduce the backlog of civil and criminal cases by increasing the numb of jury trials and by application of modern proven judicial methods and tecniques. Every person is entitled to a speedy trial, and our judges must never let up in their determination to make such trials available.

From 1973 to 1976, I gained four valuable years business experience while employed by a fine company named M.G.F. Oil Corporation. For the past three years I have served as Sheriff of Midland County.	The Sheriff's Office is important to Midland County, more so than ever, due to our rapid growth in both the business and residential segments. Since 1976, Sheriff's Office activity has increased proportionately with this growth. Due to the success and prosperity of our area, Midland has had a large influx of new people. This activity is noticed by the criminal element also. I want to keep Midland a place where new people, and those people already here, will continue to be attracted to. I want to keep Midland County unattractive to the criminal element.	My term of office as Sheriff began January 1, 1977. I initiated those method and programs that were promised during my campaign for office. Several of a more important ones were to modernize investigative and identification techniques, substitute non-sworn personnel for the performance of clerical duties a thus put more trained officers in the field, put patrol officers in uniforms a marked cars, and institute an on-going training program to make Midland Shiff's force a professional crime fighting contingent. County Commissioner, Precinct 3	Jack Leonard (D)	I attended High school at Courtney, Texas, graduated from a four-year agricultural school. I served 4 years in WWII. I am self-employed as a stock farmer. I ave worked with people all my life, and have been a foster parent for Midland County. I have worked with the Salvation Army, Red Cross, and MH-MR. I have been a Veterans Service Officer for 6 years, V.A.V.S. Representative for 3 years. I believe in God	Without County Government we would have a lot of Rural people without representation. Midland County Government services all Rural people along with people who live in the city. Midland County has a Road and Bridge Department to maintain Rural Roads. County facilities are provided for our youth groups such as 4-H and FFA. I believe this is improtant in the educational system.	I'would like for the State of Texas to change some laws so we would have better budget to maintain our Rural Roads. For instance, a law passed in 192 gives Midland Couty $175,000 out of Automobile Registration to aid the Road Bridge Dept. for building and mainting Rural Roads. We have hundreds mor automobiles and many more miles of roads than in 1929. On such a tight budget, we cannot build new roads and maintain old ones properly. I would lik for Midland County and City of Midland to work toghether to solve our trash an garbage

As a policy-making body for county governemtn, it would be my intent and purpose to become informed and knowledgeable about the functions of this particular level of state government. Every effort would be made to cooperate with all political subdivisions within the county and to seek and obtain equity for all citizens. In the field of taxation, valuations and equity in the vote, every effort would be made to seek any and all information from interested citizens; to seek input from special advisory groups and others in assuring fairness and equality in all decisions made by the Commissioners' court.	To become informed; to listen to all constituents who are interested in better government; to make as much direct contact with citizens as time will permit; to assure equity in voting; and to be sure everyone's vote weighs and counts the same in any political decision. Availability and full-time service to the needs of this office would be a must. I consider a public office a "trust" and not a "possession."
	Gordon W. Casbeer (R)	30-year resident of Midland Co. — Retired Postal Employee. Business for myself 6 years, station operator, G&D Freight Service, and Midland & Odessa Limousine Service. I have worked with the Midland Jr. Baseball in different offices, and coached teenage boys. I was a Deputy Sheriff 2½ years under Ed Darnell.	Represent the people of Midland and listen to what they say and want a commissioner to do for them. Be friendly with all the people of Midland, and remember the people are who elect you to this office and work for them to the best of your ability.	I think the city and county could work better together than they have in the past. For instance. I would like to see a new jail for both city and county to save the moving of prisoners from one to the other. This would cut down on personell and auto which cost money.
	J.R. Harris (R)	I was born and raised in Midland, graduating from high school here and completing 2 years of college. I have lived in precinct 3 for over 30 years. 15 of those years I have been in City or County Law Enforcement, working as a City Patrolman, Deputy Sheriff and Deputy Constable. I am familiar with the people working for the County, the Commissioners who are to complete their temrs, and the duties of these Commissioners.	The area most voters are familiar with, that is approved by the County Commissioners, is County Road Improvements. The voters I have talked to think in the last several years only County Commissioners and their relatives have had road improvements, and Commissioners say only a small amount can be done each year. Well, if the taxpayers are willing to have their tax money used for this, why couldn't more be done? This area, as in most other levels of government, is doing what politicians want with tax funds, and not what the taxpayers want.	There is only one Republican Commissioner holding office. He has to be very persuasive to convince 3 Democrats to vote for anything he feels the County needs. It must be very frustrating to feel your vote makes no difference. Another Republican commissioner would even the vote and the Democrats would have to be more selective in choosing which areas to improve. I would also like the public to be made aware of what the Court is voting on. How can they let their representative know how they feel if they are not informed until after the voting is done?
	Alexandra Morris (R)	Living in Midland County 24 years, I have been actively involved in non-elective public service in the following areas: Problems of the aged, youth, family planning and health services. Through my experience with Midland Community Action Agency, I have the judgement, tempered by experience, to recognize that a dollar spent in a government program must purchase the same amount of services as a dollar spent in the private sector.	The Midland County Commissioner's Court should take the initiative in coordination/cooperation with the local governing and taxing units, especially the city, in contributing to the planning and improvement of Midland County. Midland's projected growth for the 1980s must be planned for cooperatively, so that competition, duplication and unneeded taxation is avoided, and there must be careful study and utilization of natural resources such as water.	I will work for improvement in the following areas so as to increase the effectiveness/efficiency of the Commissioner's Court: (1) Move the County Law Library to space in the proposed renovation of the County Library. (2) Effectively use county road and street equipment. (3) Meet regularly with the City Council in open meetings. (4) Advocate citizen input in the county budget (5) Be accessible to all people. (6) Increased representation to the Museum of the Southwest.
Midland County Attorney	Richard Moore (R)	BBA The University of Texas, 1973; 3 years practical work experience with City of Dallas — land management and acquisition; experience with City of Dallas — land management and acquisition; JD Texas Tech school of Law, 1979; Assistant District attorney, June, 1979 to present — responsibilities include screening and filing felony complaints, presentation of felony cases to Grand Jury for Indictment, State's Attorney at arraignments, involved in investigation and trial of numerous felony cases in Midland County Courts; Law instructor — Midland College, experience also extends to civil law.	In addition to being chief misdemeanor prosecutor, the County attorney has wide responsibilities in County Government which include representing the county in various civil matters, acting as the State's Attorney in child support matters, condemnation proceedings, taxation and evaluation matters, juvenile proceedings and prosecuting speeding violations. Also being available to offer legal advice to each County Office holder, and should the occasion arise, defend them in civil suits. As such there is a great deal that the County Attorney can do to improve county government by being an inovative administrator, strong prosecutor and rendering accurate and understandable legal advice.	I hope to institute a new program for the prosecution and collection of hot checks to aid the local merchants and also intend to establish tougher handling of shoplifting and employee theft from merchants. I hope to use the new alternative service provision of the misdemeanor probation law to a greater degree including civil improvement projects. I hope to work more closely with juvenile officers in trying to rehabilitate juvenile offenders before they can become adult felons.
	Robert Rendall (R)	I graduated from Lee High, U.T. Austin and received my law degree form Texas Tech. I am the only person available with actual working experience in County Attorney's Office. This makes me the most experienced candidate in misdemeanor prosecution, juvenile proceedings, child welfare cases, and current Commissioner Court issues. Having been raised in Midland, I understand the desire of the community to continue the high quality of life we experienced in the last decade.	The effective handling of problems associated with Midland County's explosive growth must be the emphasis of the County Attorney's Office. The aggressive prosecution of an increasing number of misdemeanor cases and juvenile of lenses will have a significant influence as to whether those offenders continue to violate the rights of other citizens. To accomplish this task, it will take continued diligence by those in office to keep the dockets current. Being the legal advisor to the Commissioner's Court, sound legal advice on tasks they face will play an important role in maintaining orderly growth within the County.	A good working relationship exists between the County Attorney's Office and the other law enforcement agencies. I will continue to work for closer cooperation with those agencies as this can only be beneficial in the prosecution of crimivice agencies such as the Palmer Drug Abuse Program, Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Alcoholics Anonymous, and Family Services will be an asset as we continue to emphasize measures for effective crime prevention. I additionally plan to stress a program of continuing education for the attorneys and staff.
Justice of the Peace, Place 1, Precinct 1	John H. Biggs (D)	Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 1 for 19 years; West Texas Justice of the Peace Meritious Service Award; Permian Basin Criminal Justice Advisory Committee Director; Justice of the Peace and Constable Association; Midland Optimist Clubs Award for Distinguished and dedicated Service; 150 hours of advanced certification as a Judge from Texas A & M; Lamar University, Southwest Texas State Unviersity; 36 year Midland resident; 16 years business experience in Midland, Texas.	Often the first contact Midland citizens have with our Court System is through the Justice Courts. With over 3000 criminal and divil cases handled yearly through the Justice Courts, I feel it is important that the people served by these courts are treated fairly, with dignity and that the Judges of these courts are competent, experienced and qualified professionally to make the decisions which they are daily called upon to render. The Justice Courts handle civil and criminal litigation, administrative hearings and serve as coroners. Professional, dignified handling of these important matters improve the quality of justice within Midland County.	I believe it should be mandatory for Judges to maintain a high level of proficiency through advanced training in accredited institutions, which I have received. Citizen awareness of justice court functions should be stressed to asure willingness of citizens to serve on juries impanied to hear matters which come before these courts. Continued efforts should be maintained for cooperation between city, county, and district officials with whom the Justice of the Peace Court Judges deal on a daily basis.
	Leroy Stewart (D)	Resident of Midland since 1947. Three years on City Police Dept. from 1949 thru 1951, then Circulation Dept. — Midland Reporter-Telegram 1951 thru May, 1978. Entering Real Estate business at that time, presently a salesman at Deed Real Estate. Graduated from Corsicana High and attended Midland College. I feel my many years working and dealing directly with the public qualifies me for this job. I will always be available to handle the needs of the	The wide-ranging duties and services of this office, as prescribed by law, are vital to the welfare of the county and its citizens. Its proper performance constitutes an important link in the Judicial-law enforcement process of the county and state.	Continuing study of modern methods of operation, putting into practice those which are realistic, economical and time-saving; round the clock availability; prompt, fair and courteous treatment of one and all; full cooperation with other agencies and branches of government.
	Luis B. Salinas (R)	Education: Associate Degree, Police Science; courses in Criminology, Sociology and Psychology; F.B.I. Seminars, Law Enforcement; Schools in Crime Prevention, Civil Aviation Security, Telecommunication, First Aid and C.P.R. Basic Life Support. Business and Professional; Twenty-four years Law Enforcement Officer, eighteen years in Midland. Community Service: Commissioner, Teenage Baseball—(MJBA); Committee Chairman, East Side Lions Club; Member, V.F.W.; Southwest Officials Assn. football and basketball; President, W. Tex. Communication Officers Assn.	The office calls for cooperation with city and county law officers at the time of arrest in both misdemeanors and felonies. It is important that this office perform its duties in a smooth and efficient manner so as to not the up the arresting officer in time consuming delays at added expense to Midland County tax-payers. The Justice of the Peace must be available to the many duties of the office to assure that justice is served and that citizens charged with criminal conduct receive expeditious processing of their charges.	There is a need for improving the availability of the Justice of the Peace to law enforcement officers, to attorneys, and to the citizens of Midland County. This would require the Justice of the Peace be readily available on a 24-hour basis. Such hours require the stamina of a younger man in order to effectively serve, this office. As Midland continues to grow in population, a need for additional Justices will develop. Studies should be made to efficiently create these offices as the need arises.
	A.L. Sisk (R)	The following serves to qualify me for the office of Justice of the Peace: A diverse and continuing educational background, both academic and vocational. Eleven years military service with progressively higher level assignments and promotions in personnel management, staffing, cost accounting, liaison and finance operations fields. Business experiece and self discipline gained as a local independent business man requiring a knowledge of business, criminal and civil law. Community service with youth and fraternal groups.	The duties of the Justice of the Peace are broad, diversified and necessary to the operation of local, county and state law enforcement agencies and Midland county citizens and businesses. The duties of the Justice of the Peace include, but are not limited to conducting inquiries, setting bonds, levying fines, and presiding over civil and criminal proceedings within his jurisdiction. The office of Justice of the Peace is but one link in the judiciary chain charged with the responsibility to assure due process of law, protecting the rights of citizens, victims and those accused.	The following recommendations for improvement are set forth: Improve response time to after hours calls to alleviate, as much as practical, delay to involved personnel. Case by case determination of felony bonds to more adequately protect the rights of the accused and the rights of the citizens of Midland county. A reassessment of fines being levied so as to assure deterrent effect intended by statute. Expedite as much as possible the civil and criminal docket of the JP Court to minimize delay.
	Charles Sprayberry (R)	Qualifications include: A Business Administration degree from The University of Texas, management courses and programs provided by Burroughs Corporation, Scott and Fetzes and Farmers Insurance Group. Through education, leadership roles and activities with youth and church groups and successful business experience in sales and management, insurance and real estate, I have knowledge of the needs of Midland and its justice system, as well as demonstrated human relations skills and a positive attitude toward public service.	The judiciary department of government is of primary importance to citizens seeking fair, impartial judgement, either civil or criminal. Convenience and ready access to a competent court must be guaranteed to each citizen. Unfortunately the weakest elements in our judicial system are the Justice Courts. These courts handle major portions of the county's legal cases and provide a vast untapped potential for crime control. 80 percent of major crimes are committed by persons with previous misdemeanor convictions. The Peace Justice has the opportunity to intervene and help prevent the development of repetitive of fenders.	My recommendations include: the study improvement and continuous monitoring of caseflow, calendaring and time standards for the Court's business; improvements in the management of space, equipment and facilities; the development of informational and statistical records and reports concerning the Court; initiating a program to improve Court-community relations; establishing liason with other governmental and civic agencies; increased representation for the Court in business, administrative and public relations matters locally and regionally; taking actions to educate and inform the public of the activities, functions and processes of the Court; and reviews to insure reponse to the needs of Midland County citizens.
ounty Constable, recinct 1	Charlie Jones (D)	23 years experience in law enforcement — Midland Police Department, Midland County Sheriff's Office, and the last 3½ years as Deputy Constable. A law enforcement certificate awarded in 1976. State School in duties of law enforcement officer in civil matters, and many other schools.	The purpose of the Constable's Office is to serve the citizens of Midland County, both in the service of civil process and in the handling of criminal matters. I think the office can be of benefit by being efficient, firm and understanding in carrying out these duties. The Constable is in daily contact with people and should be firm and fair in order to gain a respect for law enforcement.	As a member of the Constable's staff, I think the office now operates in a manner which serves the need of Midland citizens. Daily experience teaches me we can always improve on efficiency by being alert to peculiar needs of situations. I think wholesale expansion of criminal investigation services would be duplicating those services which are already provided by the Sheriff's Office and Police Department. I am able to cooperate fully with them as the need arises. I think that requesting funds for such items would be not only fruitless but needless expense to Midland County citizens.
	Odell Smith (D)	I have had 20 years experience in police work which includes 1 year as Deputy Constable in Midland. My educational background includes 2 years at Midland College, Midland Police Department Rookie School, several criminology in-service schools and 18-week basic training course for the Department of Public Safety. I feel my practical experience in dealing with and getting along with the people living in Midland County help to qualify me for this position.	The Constable's Office basically handles civil matters, but in the past has served the people of Midland County by serving misdemeanor check warrants. This office is maintained to assist the people of Midland County regardless whether the matter is criminal or civil. As in the basic principle of our government, this office is "of the people and for the people." If I have the opportunity to serve this office, it will continue to be a first contact with law enforcement for the people of Midland County.	First of all, I do not believe that this office is an 8 hour a day job. I believe that this office should serve the people and should be in reach of the people as the need arises whether it be day or night. Good rapport should be maintained with the other policing agencies of the Permian Basin and the State of Texas. I feel that with my experience in City, County and State levels, I can help make this possible.
	Tom McGinnis (R)	EXPERIENCE: 21 years employed as a law enforcement officer. City of Phila., Pa. — Patrolman. U.S. Department of Justice — Patrol Agent. Midland County Sheriff's Office — Criminal Investigator, Chief deputy patrol and warrant division. Midland Constable's Office — Deputy. EDUCATION: Graduation from academies for respective positions above. Advanced certificate — Texas Commission on Law enforcement officers standards and education. Associate of Applied Science — Law Enforcement, Midland College. 1,800 hours additional classroom and field studies in law enforcement.	The Constable's Office is a county law enforcement agency and is primarily concerned with the service and execution of civil and criminal papers and ware rants of arrest originating in the Justice of the Peace Office. Additional duties include patrol operations in rural Midland county, prevention and detection of law violators, working in conjunction with the county attorney's office to locate and prosecute violators of the "hot check" laws, and attempt to reover the losses of the victims of "hot check" violators. To work with and assist all other law enforcement agencies in the state.	I. would recommend an increase in rural patrol operation to meet the needs of a steadily growing community. The office also can be used more in the service of an increasing number of civil papers originating in the county and district attorney's offices. To revise the procedure of locating and prosecuting violators of "hot check" laws to enhance the prospect of recovery of losses by the victims. This can be done by more efficient use of the staff and budget now available and no increase is needed at this time.
unty Tax sessor-Collector	Frances M. Shuffield (R)	I am a High School Graduate. Hold Certification as "Certified Texas Assessor" with the Texas Association of Assessing Officers: Hold Certification as "Class IV — Registered Professional Assessor" with the State Property Tax Board. My work record includes 10 years service with the Travis County Tax Office, 8 months with the City of Midland Tax Office and 13 years as Chief Deputy of the Midland County Tax Office.	The County Tax Office serves as the major revenue source for the operation of our County Government. We process over $9,000,000 in cash receipts each year. We process approximately 27,000 applications for Texas Titles, register an estimated, 82,000 vehicles and maintain all records on approximately 34,000 registered voters each year. Appraisal cards are maintained on approximately 40,000 parcels or lots within the County — listing ownership, legal description and plots plans of improvements located thereon. The revenues received by the Tax office for services rendered for the State contributes to overall programs within the County System.	The No. 1 priority is space. We need adequate space so that personnel can be deployed in positions that will better serve the public. This is critical in the Motor Vehicle and Voter Registration Departments. The No. 2 priority is salaries — We are at a disadvantage in keeping our trained personnel due to the higher salaries paid in the private sector. More competitive salaries would result in our attracting and keeping a qualified staff to serve the public.

"I like it here... no yard work, painting. or plumbing. Now my time is my own for what I really like to "Buying a condominium makes good sense to me... and Chandelle is in a great location. With appreciation I'll realize out of owning a Chandelle condominium, it's a value that can't be beat.

When I first learned of Chandelle, I thought it would be just like living in an apartment...But it's just like living in a house without the yardwork and repairs.

Simmons, Harper earn trip to state meet

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

LUBBOCK - It wasn't the bag of goodies that you would ask of Santa Claus, but at least, Midland High's David Simmons and Midland Lee's Keevin Harper aren't complaining.

Simmons and Harper were the only two Tall City athletes who were able to find the city key to Austin as the Region I AAAA-AA frack meet came to a close here at the Texas Tech University oval. Some dared to think there would be more, but it didn't happen

Simmons, who was making up for lost time, won the discus on Friday with a wind punched 172-4 and then turned around Saturday to win a state berth in the shot put with a second place 59-11/4, despite having to do it on his last throw of the day and with a swollen hand to

Harper, who didn't earn a point for the Lee varsity a year ago, broke an 800 meter school record for the second time this season with a second place 1:55.4 to earn the other state berth.

Simmons, an underdog in the shot put event, was trailing El Paso Burges' Jim Jordan heading into the last throw of the day. Simmons hand was swollen and only the middle finger of his right hand didn't hurt after a strain in the warmup tosses. "I threw that last one with one finger. I didn't think it would get out there far enough, but it did," he said after the event.

Simmons felt he was making up for lost time since he didn't qualify in either the shot or discus a year ago after finishing third in both events at district. He may go into the state discus event as the favorite, but El Paso Andress' Jerry Bullitt, who won the shot put here with a 63-0, is one of the state's best.

In the 800 meters, El Paso Irvin's Daniel Rojas was in a race all by himself as he won going away with a 1:53.5. But as we have seen all year; the battle for second came down to the wire between Harper and San Angelo's Frank Rodriquez. Harper didn't beat Rodriquez until the district meet two weeks ago and he turned the trick again Saturday with a lunge at the tape. Both finished with the same time. "When we came off the backstretch, I could here Rodriquez breathing. I knew we would both be together to the end. I don't think I ever hurt so much after a race.

But after those two events Saturday, things just fell apart for the locals. Midland High's Jerry Zachery finished fourth in the 110 meter hurdles, Lee's David Piccolo was seventh in the 300 meter hurdles, Midland High's Jeff Robnett was fourth in the 100 meters, Lee's Robert Schooler was fifth in the 1600 meter run and Lee's 1600 meter relay team was a disappointing sixth. Lee's sprint relay team dropped the baton on Friday and didn't qualify for the finals. Midland High's James Lary was fourth in the discus on Friday with a 154-9.

Still, it was nothing to be ashamed of as fast times abounded. For instance, Zachery posted a school record 13.9 in his hurdle event, his first time under 14 seconds and was still fourth as San Angelo's Dennis Nolder set the pace with a torrid 13.7. Robnett had a 10.7, his usual, in the 100, but El Paso Bel Air's Dwight Freddie turned in a 10.4. Favorite John Walker of Killeen jumped the gun in the 100 and wasn't allowed to run.

The 300 hurdles was also a tough event as Killeen's Harris Mouton posted a 37.9 while Piccolo's seventh place time was 39.8. Schooler posted one of his best times of the year in the 1600 meters with a 4:26.3 for fifth, but Bel Air's Sergio Oaxaca set an unbelieveable pace, winning with a 4: 12.5.

Lee's relay team posted a 3:23.3, one of their worst times of the year, for sixth. They never got into the race and was dead last after the first two legs by Steve Waldron and Gary Butler. Harper and Phil Carleton could move up only two places and they were beaten by Big Spring, who finished fourth.

Other District 5-4A runners to earn state berths were Big Spring's Joe Willie Jones with a second place 49.1 in the 400 meters and Permian's Mike Van Zandt in the pole vault with a second place 15-0. No Abilene runners earned a state berth and Simmons was the only district competitor to earn two state entries.

Awesome Killeen easily won the team title with 107 points, but the surprise was that Midland High tied for second place with El Paso Eastwood for second with 30 points each. Lee was 16th with 12 points.

Slaton won the AA title with 58 points while Frenship was second with 56.

Van Pearcy puts on show for fans

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

ODESSA — The 500 or so spectators at sun-drenched W. T. Barrett Stadium Saturday afternoon got their money's worth as the Golden Boy from Andrews - Van Pearcy - had a field day in the Class AAA-A Region track meet.

Pearcy, a.k.a. wunderkind or The Franchise, retained the AAA Region long jump crown he won last year and added the 440 title to an already bulging trophy case.

In two weeks, Pearcy will take his remarkable act to Austin for his sec-(Summary on 2D)

ond state meet. He might've been entered in three events there had he not fizzled to a third place in the 220, an event in which he finished second a

That, however, seemed to be the only thing the gentlemanly junior was totally displeased with.

"I thought I did fair," he said modestly, adding that highlights were, "Oh, the winnin' the long-jump and winnin' the 440. But time-wise I was kinda disappointed.

Disappointed was the word Pearcy used to describe the 220, where he clocked 22.23, nearly a full second slower than his season's best. "I didn't warm down, and I didn't warm up," he said dejectedly.

His 48.27 in the quarter was no where near his earlier 47.8, but Pearcy wasn't threatened in the race. In the long jump, he hit 23-feet-7, five inches short of his best leap this

Along with Pearcy, several other area athletes made the grade for a trip to state

McCamey's Billy Ray Terry, a speedy senior, will be making his first junket to the A meet. He qualified by inning the long jump (21-61/2) Friday and finishing second in the 220 (22.6) Saturday

But there was also a smidgen of disappointment for Terry. You see, Billy Ray had the second best qualifying time in the 100 meters. In the back of his mind, he was thinking Austin.

"Well, I knew it was going to be hard," he said, speaking in barely audible terms. "I thought I'd get at least second." He was third in 10.82.

Yet, Terry believed his best shot at state would be in the long jump. "I think I have a pretty good chance...if I can jump my best," he said. His best is 23-feet-51/2, a far cry from his Region effort. "I scratched too many times," he explained. "I was just too overconfident I guess.'

For Stanton's Lewis Henry, there also seemed equal amounts of frustration and pleasure. The jitterbug junior will go to the A state meet in the long jump and with the Buffs' 440 relay team

But he might've also been going in the 220, except that Billy Ray Terry was in another lane.

After his 22.88 third-place showing, Henry said, "Guess I wasn't loose

He was plenty loose Friday, though, when he finished second in the long jump (21-feet-1/2) to Terry, and Saturday when he anchored teammates Ernie Byrd, Curtis Sivle and Curtis Williams to second in the sprint relay

Helped by Henry's performances, Stanton placed third in the A meet with 38 points. Crosbyton, whose Paul Williams won the 880 and 440, captured the team championship with 65 points while Knox City was second

The junior first baseman hit a single, double and triple, to pace the Midland Lee Rebels to an easy 8-1 victory over the Odessa Permian Panthers at the Lee diamond.

Junior righthander Alan Koonce, also did well both on the mound at the at plate. He set the Panthers down on seven hits while going three-for-fourwhich included two runs-batted-in.

Three more runs crossed the plate for Lee in the fourth inning. Barry Corley singled into left where Ricky Reynolds bobbled the ball with Corley racing into second safely. Lee played superb defense in committing no errors. Corrales, Scott Collins and Koonce made some fielding gems for the Rebels who entertain the Abilene High Eagles at the Lee diamond on Tuesday at 4 p.m.

The Rebels are now 14-10 on the year while Mojo drops to 12-10 and 2-3 going into it's game with San Angelo-Central Tuesday.

Birds' Flanagan blanks Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) - After facing Mike Flanagan twice this year and losing 2-1 and 4-0, the Kansas City Royals think the Baltimore hurler may be the best left-hander in the American League.

Aided by a run-scoring triple by Al Bumbey and a two-run home run by Doug DeCinces, Flanagan was in complete control of the Royals all day. "He threw me some awfully good fastballs inside," Hal McRae said. "Between him and Ron Guidry (of the New York Yankees) it might be a toss-up. Flanagan has more finesse than Guidry.'

With two out in the Orioles eighth, John Lowenstein walked and DeCinces slammed a 1-2 pitch from loser Rich Gale, 0-3, into the left field bleachers, his third homer of the year.

Baltimore scored its first two runs in the fifth. Kiko Garcia singled to center field, and Al Bumbry followed with an RBI triple into the left field corner. One out later, Pat Kelly hit a sacrifice fly to deep center field scoring Bumbry.

The Red Sox got one in the first and tied it 3-3 in the third on Hobson's second homer of the season with Jim Rice aboard. A few summers ago, the American public was terrorized by a fictional shark. Meanwhile, in the world of the scientist, concern has deepened about the destructive potential of increasing numbers of foreign fish in U.S.

Like "Jaws", the spectre of razortoothed piranha stripping flesh from bone in red-tinged waters captures the public imagination. But the nation's water systems are facing a greater threat-biological pollution by lesser known species, released by accident, ignorance or well-meant efforts to solve environmental problems and develop new game fish.

Some 84 exotic species have been found in U.S. waters. Thirty-nine have established breeding populations with eight showing rapid expansion in the past six years.

The stakes are high. Once the undesirable species are released and prosper, eradicating them is difficult.

That isn't new to Floridians who have 18 exotic species in a state where interwoven waterways give fish great mobility. The ornamental fish industry is based in Florida, with over 450 fish farms and importers supplying about 80 percent of hobbyists' demands from 1,000 species.

THE accidental release of the walking catfish from outdoor holding ponds is now considered one of the most harmful introductions in North America. The air-breathing fish 'walks" overland on its pectoral fins to invade new river systems, sometimes stopping traffic as hordes wriggle across highways. It has a voracious appetite and competes with largemouth bass and bluegill in freshwater communities. And now the walking catfish is moving west and has invaded East Texas.

The grass carp, introduced to several states from the Orient by federal, state and private agencies in an experiment for aquatic vegetation control, is present in 34 states. This forager could could have a severe impact on the central Mississippi migratory waterfowl and river's commercial fisheries that rely on land vegetation. It measures up to three feet in length and 65 pounds and is used in the midwest to clear ponds for sport fishing...Lake Conroe, for instance.

Among immigrants that have increased dramatically are four tilapia species, colorfully patterned African natives. Six years after the release of blue tilapia in a Florida lake, it makes up 93 per cent of the fish population. While being studied for food and sport value, the gray-blue fish was helped into the open waters by over-zealous fishermen, who even broke into research facilities for specimens. Now, it is outcompeting bass and sunfish where it is well established.

WHILE the impact of exotics may not be known for years, some have proven ill-suited to an alien habitat

BOSTON (AP) - The Philadelphia 76ers, throwing up an awesome defense in a National Basketball Association "war" with the Boston Celtics, seek to wrap up the Eastern Conference championship Sunday in Game

No. 5 of their best-of-seven series. "We have to play doubly hard even though we're up 3-1," Philadelphia's Caldwell Jones warned after the 76ers made it two in a row on their home court with a 102-90 victory Friday

"We're going to Boston with the intention of winning the series there," Jones added. "We don't want to have to come back here for Game Six Wednesday night because anything can happen."

The music was up-beat country and the crowd was hot. Most of those who weren't dancing were in front sitting at the back bar could feel the vibrations because the very walls seemed to be wired with

Gary Stewart's recent concert at the Midland Stardust was considered a success by the 550-plus crowd of ornately-buckled, western-jean-clad, cowboy-hatted kickers. During his one break, he spent most of his time signing anything from napkins to belts, along with kissing all the young cowgirls who almost stampeded themselves trying to be first.

If some of the cowboys felt a twinge of jealousy, they kept it to themselves while they passed their belts to their dates to get them signed. Besides, it was obvious that everyone was having a good time. And perhaps the best time of all was had by Stewart

"I don't play that much (he only does approximately 75 concerts yearly) by choice. That way, every time I hit the stage, I'm looking forward to

Stewart, who is from Florida, started performing professionally there when he was still a minor.

"I started playing in honky-tonks when I was 15 and I was called into the sheriff's residence. I convinced him that I wasn't drinking and I wasn't. There was someone there with me that was of age and when I'd get off I'd just go sit down. So he was nice enough to let me do it.

From there, Gary went to Nashville where he wrote songs for other singers to perform. Then he started to record some of his own

"I wasn't really trying to be a record star," he explained in his relaxed, slow drawl. "I always did what I wanted to do at the time. It just happened that I was recording and writing at the same time. And nothing happened for about five years.

"I had four songs in the charts by other singers, but I had come to the point that it was like assemblyline writing and I felt that I wasn't creating anything. I was just putting together a bunch of words. 'So I went back to Florida and started playing in honky-tonks for $90 a week.

It was at that time that a representative from RCA of the stage swaying to the beat. But even those contacted Gary. He had heard Gary's voice and he apparently liked what he heard.

> Although Stewart signed with RCA, he knew what he wanted.

> 'I was doing what I wanted, which was playing and having fun. You don't have to make big money and be a star to have fun.

> "I wouldn't want to be like a bunch of artists that have to work their hind ends off 300 days out of the year. They don't get no time to enjoy that," Gary said smiling, but it was obvious he was serious.

"I do (in his time-off which is approximately four months a year) what anybody as derelictable as myself does. I party, I roar and I relax," he said,

"I listen to music just about constantly. Old music from the '50s and the '40s, rock-a-billy, blues, like from the '30s - real obscure music. I like to listen to the albums that I couldn't afford when I was

'We were poor. I don't mean we were poor-poor, but I didn't have no money to buy no records or albums. So one time I took my guitar and I traded it in for about 10 albums and a little old record player. I kept it for about two weeks and I missed my guitar so bad that I took it back down there and he traded back with me

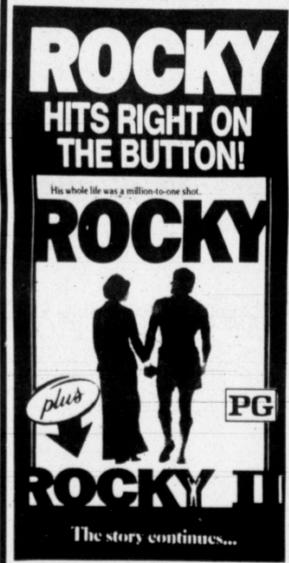

He was very impressed with the kindness of this elderly man. Who knows? Perhaps he saw the potential. At the least, he must have recognized a true music lover.

Gary can't remember when he didn't love music. "As soon as I can remember I was making guitars out of cardboard and sticks. I used to dream that I could sing and I'd wake up and it was the radio.' Today he seems to have fulfilled that dream.

Height, looks add to personality of opera bass singer

By GEORGIA TEMPLE Staff Writer

He used to apologize for his height, but not any more. Six-foot-five, piercing blue-eyed Rodney Miller would have difficulty hiding in the largest of crowds, much less on an opera

Miller, who is currently living in Midland, has been a professional opera singer for six years. He explained that when he was young his height used to bother him.

But, "when you're a bass and you're in opera, every role is powerful in some way. Whether you're portraying a king, a prophet or a villain, you must be larger than life. I have never come across a bass role where the character was tenative or shy in any way

In June, Miller leaves for Germany where he has a contract to perform with the Stadtsoper (opera company) of Regensburg.

"I would be less than honest if I didn't say that height was a very big advantage in Europe. There they go by what you look like as much as what

Miller, who was born in Odessa and grew up in Big Lake, received his degree in voice from West Texas

State University in Canyon. From

ENTERTAINMENT there he went to Indiana University where he received his masters and taught voice for three years. He next taught at Taylor University, before winding up in Philadelphia.

One such opportunity was his recent portrayal of Frank in the Midland College production of the comic

Presidential preference to highlight Texas voting

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas voters say next Saturday who should be the Democratic and Republican nominees for president, with the startling news of the aborted hostage rescue fresh in their minds. Democratic leaders hope the development will have little effect on the 2 million persons expected to Republicans say the effect in Texas should be "positive," attracting more Democrats to the Republcian primary than expected.

Although the presidential preference polls are the main attraction, Texans also will be balloting on two hotly, contested races for the Texas Railroad Commission, three seats on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, two seats on the Texas Supreme Court and a host of legislative and local campaigns.

By any analysis, President Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan are the expected winners in the Texas presidential primary, with Sen. Edward Kennedy and Goerge Bush getting their share of the

The GOP presidential primary, expected to attract about 500,000 voters, will dictate how Texas' 80 delegates to the national Republican convention in Detroit will be divided between Reagan and Bush.

Reagan swept the 1976 election but Bush hopes to block that effort this year, maybe winning three or. four congressional districts which would be 9 to 12 convention delegates.

Kennedy, who possibly could be helped by Carter's part in the unsuccessful hostage rescue attempt, hopes to make a good showing in the "beauty contest" poll on election day. Then the Kennedy campaign, which has a sizeable number of supporters within the party machinery, hopes to keep Carter from getting more than 60 percent of the 152 Texas delegates to the New York national convention when the state convention meets June 20-21 in San

State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg estimates about 1.5 million voters, "maybe a few less," will appear at Democratic polls May 3.

"In the long run I would guess the hostage rescue attempt will not affect our primary, " Goldberg

"It probably will have a postive effect on our primary," said Chester Upham, Mineral Wells, chairman of the Texas Republican Party

"I think it would help Reagan and Bush equally by decreasing the Democratic support and increasing the Republican support."

Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., will not be on the Texas ballot May 3 but he may be on the Nov. 4 general election ballot as an independent. Anderson, who announced as an independent presidential candidate Superior Court Judge Michael R. Imbriani, who is presiding at the trial of four men accused of charges ranging from bookmaking to murder, had directed Ms. Goldstein to give the letters to him so he could read them privately and determine whether they should be turned over to defense lawyers.

"I am just delighted," Ms. Goldstein said of the court's decision. "I felt" that we had a very good case and I'm happy and relieved to see the Supreme Court agreed."

Anderson would share windfall tax billions

By MIKE SHANAHAN

NEW YORK (AP) -Rep. John B. Anderson, making his first campaign appearance as an independent presidential candidate, called Saturday for a redistribution of billions of dollars in tax revenues from oilproducing states to help out the declining cities of the Northeast and Mid-

Anderson said because of the skyrocketing price of decontrolled crude oil, eight states will enjoy additional tax and other kinds of revenue of between $112 billion and $128 billion over the next decade

He said the next president will have to "find ways of making sure that we don't end up a nation that is divided between rich and poor along sectional lines, where we do not have a permanently impoverished underclass in the great cities of the Northeast and upper Midwest.

While those big cities run out of tax revenues, Anderson said the oilproducing sections of the country, mainly in the Southwest, would share in "increasing and burgeoning wealth.

We are going to have to tackle the problems of a redistribution of resources," Anderson told the first national NAACP Women's Conference in New York.

Anderson, a 10-term Republican congressman from Illinois, dropped out as a competitor for the GOP presidential nomination on Thursday and became an independent candidate. In his initial speech in School closed by disturbance

CLEVELAND (AP) - A junior high school will re-open Monday under the watch of extra security officers following the worst disturbance since Cleveland's junior highs were desegregated last month, school officials say.

Principal Mary Mazzei said Charles A. Mooney Jounior High was closed early Friday when police were called in to help restore order. There were no serious injuries in the incident, which Mrs. Mazzei said was race-related.

Mooney, located in a predominantly white south Cleveland neighborhood, was one of the junior high. schools to undergo court-ordered racial integration March 19. It has 685 black students and 395 white students

"The kids are scared of each other," she said. Mrs. Mazzei said she summoned school security officials "as students were unruly and running through the halls of the school." School system security guards and police were sent to restore

She said the trouble apparently started on a bus bringing black students to the school. She said the students were "quite riled" as they came into the building.

About 25 students were involved, according to the principal.

Four students later went to Deaconess Hospital, saying they had been assaulted. They were treated and released, according to Pat Martin, a school board spokeswoman.

Dr. Margaret Fleming, deputy superintendent for desegregation, said the school was closed to prevent Jack Reynolds, 420

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

From the grave to the banquet table!

SIX days before the Passover ceremonies began. Jesus arrived in Bethany where Lazarus was—the man He had brought back to life.

A banquet was prepared in Jesus' honor. Martha served, and Lazarus sat at the table with Him.

Then Mary took a jar of costly perfume made from essence of nard, and anointed Jesus' feet with it and wiped them with her hair. And the house was filled with fragrance.

But Judas Iscariot, one of His disciples-the one who would betray Him-said,

"That perfume was worth a fortune. It should have been sold and the money given to the poor."

Not that he cared for the poor, but he was in charge of the disciples' funds and often dipped into them for his own use! Jesus replied, "Let her alone She did it in preparation for My burial.

You can always help the poor, but I won't be with you very long.

When the ordinary people of Jerusalem heard of His arrival, they flocked to see Him and also to see Lazarus-the man who had come back to life again.

. Then the chief priests decided to kill Lazarus too. For it was because of him that many of the Jewish leaders had deserted and believed in Jesus as their Messiah.

'Booze works' now thrives in Texas

By SUSAN STOLER

BAYSIDE, Texas (AP) - Bill Demaree says he's counting on Texas chauvinism to benefit his Bay River Co. - the holder of a state distillery

"If you don't drink, don't start. If you do drink, keep your money at home," says Demaree, general manager of the "booze works," as it is sometimes called locally.

Located along the scenic Mission River in Refugio County, the plant has been bottling bourbon, scotch and vodka since June.

One can saunter up to the liquor store counter in Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Austin and buy a bottle of the Texas Spirit brand liquor. Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth markets are next on the list of sales out-

The $1 million project was begun by Lawrence and Richard Wood, members of a pioneer Refugio family who wanted alternative markets for their grain crop.

The Wood family owns thousands of acres in ranching, agriculture and oil-producing lands and also controls three banks.

Texas liquor laws written after Prohibition prevent out-of-state firms, retailers or wholesalers from operating a distillery. The regulations had discouraged anyone from applying for a distiller's permit for more than 50 years.

When Demaree went to Austin to apply, the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission gave him a form printed in the 1930s

"It was the blind leading the blind," he said of trying to interpret the old an Iowa plant supplies material for

After a year and a half, the company got its permit in April, 1978. Demaree, an East Coast-educated native of San Antonio, traveled to Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio and other

He landscaped a 135-acre tract of land owned by the Wood brothers that had been chosen for the site. Mesquite was cleared, man-made ponds dug and a 19th century schoolhouse moved to the location. The plant itself was built in the style of 19th century cotton gins because the old buildings held up remarkably in all kinds of weather, Demaree said. He likes it so much he lives here in a renovated farm house.

Five fulltime employees and 12 parttime workers operate the plant. Demaree expects to bottle 80,000 cases in the company's first year. Local grain is not yet distilled

'We're taking raw material, processing and bottling it," he said. Since all scotch must be distilled in Scotland, the plant imports 30 percent malt whiskey . The raw material is processed and blended with purified rainwater collected in the ponds. Raw sour mash bourbon comes from a small Kentucky distillery and bottle of Texas booze for a souvenir. Scotch, vodka and bourbon account for 60 percent of all liquor sales in Texas, thus the decision to bottle those spirits and not others.

A quart bottle of Homestead bourbon costs $6.25. State law prohibits samples at a distillery so the curious will have to buy a bottle to judge its Problems in production and marketing also have confronted the relatively small booze company. The Wood family has ample experience in the business world but none in consumer products.

'Everybody told us were absolute idiots for getting into the liquor business. It's closed, controlled and very competitive," Demaree said.

The risky adventure is possible largely because of the Woods' tax position. Demaree estimates the whole operation could be liquidated at a cost of only 10 cents per investment dollar due to investment tax credits, tax writeoffs, land and equipment depreciation and capital improve-pursuing," Demaree said.

Aviation enthusiast sees romance in obsolete airplanes

By STEVE GRAHAM

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Some people collect stamps, some like old guns or swords and others opt for coins. But for Bill Shea, aviation director of the Port of Portland, there's nothing quite like an old air-

And when it comes to his 1935 Stinson Reliant and others of that era, he nearly bursts with enthusiasm.

"It's where aviation began," he exclaims. He doesn't discount the feats of the brothers Wright, but says modern aviation stems from the time when airplanes changed from biplanes to monoplanes and became transportation instead of thrill rides. "I really believe in that. That's the era that gave some persons their love of aviation," he says. Shea's Stinson harks back to the days when most airplanes' wings were braced with wood, their bodies covered with linen instead of aluminum, and third wheels were on tails instead of noses.

Except among antique enthusiasts like Shea, you don't hear much about Stinson airplanes anymore.

The company was a division of the Cord automobile company when Shea's airplane rolled out the door in Wayne, Mich., with a price tag of

The first owner was actor Wallace Beery who, so the story goes, used the craft to fly underprivileged children to summer camp.

It went through the hands of many owners, including the federal government, which used it for transportation in World War II. Shea got it last year from a former Marine fighter pilot in Chehalis, Wash., who coveted a restored Army Bird Dog observation plane that Shea had.

Shea had a handful of old airplanes and about 6,000 hours in the air, since he learned to fly in 1945. Before he came to Portland, he headed California's Division of Aeronautics and a transportation system in Binghamp-

Shea's Stinson is one of but 50 turned out and, as far as he knows, it's the only one still flying. A more common model is like Shea's but has a different wing - one that arches where it joins the fuselage and is referred to, reverently, as a gull-wing

The welded-steel skeleton of Shea's plane has been re-covered with fiberglass fabric and it has a newer engine and propeller, but the big nine-cylinder radial engine still starts with a belch of smoke, just like in the old days. The wood-braced wings still carry the original Sitka spruce

The 300-horsepower Lycoming pulls the craft along at 120-140 miles an hour while drinking as much as 18 gallons of gas an hour.

'Look at that! Isn't that something!" Shea chants in his Boston-Irish brogue as the big propeller swings through.

something," he beams as the odor of aviation gas wafts through the cock-

If nothing else, the Stinson is big;

"Just smell that. Isn't that smell bigger than any single-engine civilian craft turned out today although it carries only four, maybe five, persons. Shea has to keep it in a hangar designed for a twin:

With the tail on the ground it is impossible to see straight ahead past the mammoth nose. To taxi, Shea swings the tail back and forth so he can look out the side.

Shea is one of a large group of antique airplane lovers who gather each year at Vancouver, Wash., and Merced and Watsonville in California to share tales and experiences.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Diet for elderly persons often presents problems

Dear Dr. Solomon: My father-in-law has lived with when preparing food. Some elderly people enjoy us for the past eight years, and is one of the sweetest persons I know. He was always very vigorous (he worked as a longshoreman before retiring), but lately has not been feeling well. To make matters worse, his appetite has fallen off considerably. The doctor tells us we should try to get him to eat nutritious foods and to make sure his caloric intake does not fall too low, but I'm faced with a Catch-22 situation: when he doesn't feel well, he doesn't eat; and if he doesn't eat, he feels worse. Do you have any suggestions for appealing to the appetite of an older person and still remain within a limited budget? — Mrs. I.H.

Dear Mrs. H.: The problem you are experiencing with your father-in-law is not uncommon to elderly persons. While there is no easy solution, dieticians at the Duke University Medical Center offer a number of suggestions that you might find useful. First of all, I would recommend that if your father-in-law wears dentures, make certain they fit properly. Poorly fitting dentures can irritate gums and cause chewing to be uncomfortable.

If chewing remains a problem, it will probably be necessary to prepare soft foods. Cottage or cream cheese; soft-cooked scrambled or poached eggs; bananas, berries and canned or cooked fruits; puddings and ice cream, and soft-cooked vegetables that can be diced, chopped or mashed are all easy to

Similarly, certain meats can be shredded or chopped. Tender cuts of meats, poultry, flaked fish and finely diced meats in sauces may be easier for an older person to chew than steaks or chops. You may want to experiment with seasonings strong spices, while others find them overwhelming. But minced onion, paprika, oregano, ginger, all spice, cinnamon, vinegar and lemon usually are easily digested by older people and make foods more palatable for them.

Calorie intake, of course, is an important consideration in planning a sound diet. Older persons who are not physically active should avoid excessive intake of sweets until after they have consumed the essential foods. Avoid serving rich cakes, pastries and puddings so that your father-in-law can avoid putting on excess weight.

Those required to feed a family on a limited budget should consider using powdered milk instead of fresh milk. Powdered milk can be used in a variety of recipes and is easily stored. You may also be able to economize by meeting your family's protein needs by serving fish, eggs and cheese rather than more expensive meat products.

Aside from the specific foods served older individuals, a change in eating habits may prove helpful. Four or five light meals a day may be easier to digest than three heavier meals. The evening meal, in particular, should be relatively light since a large meal might interfere with sleep.

Finally, you might want to explore the availability of community programs. They supply well-balanced meals at little cost and provide the older person with social relationships as well.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his col-

Animal trainer completes circus act after being clawed by 550-pound tiger

WILMINGTON, Mass. (AP) - A trainer performing a circus act with 15 tigers was clawed by one of the animals but finished the show with blood dripping from his wounds, a circus spokesman says. Wade Burck of Hillsboro, N.D., was treated Friday at Wilmington Regional Health Center for "six to eight deep lacerations," according to James Hamid, vice president of the Hamid-Morton Circus.

The trainer was injured during the climax of the act when 550-pound tiger knocked him to the ground and began clawing him. The trainer was able to push him away and order the animal back to his posi-

The 24-year-old trainer then finished the act before the audience of about 2,000, according to Arthur James, a spokesman for the Aleppo Temple Shrine, which sponsored the circus' visit.

Hamid said the incident occurred during the part of Burck's act when he commands all 15 tigers to lie on the ground in a single row. One tiger named Sultan is trained to leap at Burck at that point and 'sort of scare the audience," said Hamid.

"He did what he was supposed to do, then like all wild animals, he did something different. He went back and laid down on Burck and began clawing him," Hamid said.

Hamid said Burck had beer injured by the tigers before, but he described this incident as the most

"It was more dangerous because for one or two seconds he was knocked to the ground," said

With the big day almost at hand, you've been more than busy — dashing off to fittings, rehearsals and parties, ordering invitations and planning your honeymoon itinerary. In the midst of all the happy turmoil and excitement, you are planning on fur-nishing your first home together.

More than just a roof over your head, this shared living space will be a place where you will work and grow together. It will also be one of the first major investments you will make as a couple.

Often, newlyweds feel pressured to buy everything at once, rushing into decisions without a definite plan. To make furnishing your first home a trouble-free and happy experience, these guidelines are offered by the Century Furniture Co., Hickory,

Special moments such as these can be recorded by the amateur photographer with an instant camera. The most memorable photos are often candid scenes or spontaneous action.

Record those important occasions with the camera

You can never take too many pictures of a beautiful bride on her wedding day.

And with an instant camera you can record the bride at the ceremony or reception and see the finished prints minutes later. Here is some advice for the amateur photogra-

Before the bridal party enters the house of worship, select a seat near the aisle. From this vantage point you can picture the procession as it passes.

To properly expose flash pictures, place a small marker on the floor about six or seven feet away from your seat and, as each member of the wedding party reaches that point squeeze the shutter release. The burst of light evenly illuminates the subjects and the prints are more flattering.

Throughout the day, watch for candid scenes or spontaneous action. For more natural-looking snapshots, picture subjects who are busy doing something — the bride talking with her grandmother, father or the maid of honor.

A considerate photographer always treats other guests politey so be sure to avoid blocking someone's view when you look for the best angle.

An instant camera is easy to operate. Almost any guest can take good, clear pictures. The factory-set lens is focused for clear pictures of subjects four or more feet from the camera. The picture-taker simply checks the camera-to-subject distance, composes the image in the viewfinder, activates the flash and squeezes the shutter to snap a picture. The camera automatically ejects a self-developing print.

Within 30 seconds, a picture starts to appear on the print. All the guests will enjoy watching it develop, so pass it around — a protective finish on the print keeps the image clear and bright. After the reception ends, gather the prints together, arrange them in an album and present this instant memento to the bride's mother as a keepsake.

The Eastman Kodak Company offers these picture-taking tips to help you record important occasions on film:

1. Check the camera carefully. Make sure the lens is clean, the batteries are fully charged, and you have a good supply of instant film.

2. Keep it simple. Pictures that pack a lot of punch usually have a single idea, uncomplicated by extra details.

3. Move in close. Pictures of people should be close enough to show a subject's facial expressions.

4. Watch the background. Make it a habit to scan the view finder carefully before releasing the shutter. Remove unwanted objects in the foreground or backdrop by changing your camera angle slightly.

5. Include vanity and color. Good pictures reach all around you so keep your eyes open for action, color, and humorous situations that add spice to your photos.

The bride can register her choices

Next to the chairman of the board, a bride is just about the busiest person around. Never again will so many things be "new" at one time. Aside from planning the wedding, there's a new husband to consider, a new homeand probably one that is in a new location, which means new markets,

Experts have written volumes on planning the wedding, showers, events leading up to the wedding and the honeymoon that follows. Department stores offer bridal clinics and registries, but the newest, most convenient aid for the bride's home planning is a department-store-in-print, a catalog which has a large selection of merchandise, good values and offers the convenience of shopping at home or in the office.

To further help her, the Spiegel catalog coordinates merchandise into room settings with guidance on styling and complete size, color and price information for consideration and evaluation.

Shopping in a well-organized catalog is like browsing through your favorite magazine, except that the whole "look" can be ordered by phone or mail or mail.

In addition, you can create your own phone-mail-order bridal registry, by making a list for your family and friends of items from the catalog that you'd like to receive.

The following tips should be followed when shopping in a "non-store" situation. Remember that a carefully thought-out plan saves energy, time and money and enables you to get your room together quickly.

First, consider the function of the room — master bedroom, cozy guest room, or den-guest room. Then, make a list of good furniture choices and accessories for the room. Choose the style and color scheme for the room — rustic country, frilly feminine, contemporary or eclectic.

Every room should have a center of interest, a focal point. Usually it's the largest mass in a room that the eye is automatically drawn to. In the bedroom, the bed is the focal point and the place to start. It should be treated with an interesting headboard and decorative pillows.

Window treatments should be inspired by the bed ensemble — either matching in fabric, color or mood any guides for accurately measuring your windows for draperies, window shades or venetian blinds are provided in the catalog.

Now it's time to make a list, noting catalog pages and numbers, colors, sizes and prices. If you order the bedspread or sheet ensemble for the "open bed" look, be sure to include all the pieces — bedspread or comforter, dust ruffles, shams, draperies, number of sheet (flat and fitted), and be sure to know your bed size — full, queen or king.

A pretty headboard, color coordinated blankets, an end table, lamps, an area rug, a trunk for table and storage and some seating should be selected. Shutters and drapery rods are available through catalogs, as are clocks, radios, television sets and a tempting variety of chairs, wicker, or wooden accessories that would take hours of shopping to find.

Catalogs provide dimensions of all pieces and — before ordering — you should measure the room and make a floor plan, placing drawings of all the items in position on the floor plan. Be sure to read all guarantees and shopping instructions.

Getting organized is a "must" for the bride and part of her new responsibility is learning to take advantage of all the time and money-saving devices available to her. Shopping by catalog, a department store where you turn the page to get to the next floor, is one of the modern conveniences tailored for the bride's busy new life.

Wine trousseau: Start your collection with white wines

As the wedding day approaches, the job of setting up a household is thrust upon the bride-to-be. There are dozens of things she has to do: buy furniture, pots, pans, and other kitchen items, learn how to buy food for two and, more likely, learn to entertain a larger circle of friends and relatives than before.

And when it comes to entertaining, a wine trousseau can go a long way in making your initial ventures as a hostess a lot smoother. You can begin by gathering your wine trousseau before the wedding.

A practical wine collection need not be costly. You can buy red or white wines from Italy, France, Spain or the United States. You can pay as little as $2 a bottle or as much as $10, $15 or more. What you choose depends upon your lifestyle and your particular use of wine.

Increasingly, for young people, wine has replaced spirits and has become "the" beverage for cocktails, at formal dinners, picnics, and other relaxed get-togethers.

For this reason, start your collection with a majority of white wines that can complement most meals and social situations. The wines should range between $3.50 and $5 a bottle. They are all popular and easy to find.

Setting up a wine cellar of one or two dozen bottles used on a rotating basis (replacing each bottle as it is consumed) makes good sense. For one thing, you will always have a bottle on hand for dinner or when unexpected company drops in. And you won't have to rush out and buy a bottle at the nearest liquor store at a possibly higher price.

Also, keeping a basic stock of wine at home will allow you to learn about the wines and determine your tastes and those of your friends.

Approximately two-thirds of your choices should be white wine, including Chenin Blanc from California, Soave from Italy and another imported wine, such as Liebfraumilch, which goes well with all foods.

The Chenin Blanc is a good everyday wine, costing about $3.55 a bottle.
Save the Soave, at about $4.39, and Liebfraumilch, at about $4.99, for more special occasions. Both Liebfraumilch and Chenin Blanc have a small degree of sweetness, and are not too acidic and can be enjoyed with or without food.

The great advantage of the white wines is that you can keep a couple of bottles in the refrigerator so they'll always be on hand. When kept well-chilled, they can last from six weeks to a month without deterioration.

to a month without deterioration.

The remaining bottles should be divided among the red wines including Cabernet Sauvignon from California and Zinfandels. These can be found in the marketplace from $4 to $5. The more expensive the wines are, the better they are likely to be.

There is no set recipe of what you and your friends will like because there are different degrees of wine sophistication, taste and knowledge. As you begin to sample your wine trousseau, you'll be able to determine which are the most popular and which you should replace.

Most of the wines in your trousseau are easy to store. Keep in mind however, that you should store wine in the coolest, quietest place in your apartmentor home.

Contemporary romantics collection: Gowns for the bride of today

'Repeat' brides given diamonds

As the song says, love's more comfortable the second time around, and — according to research more money-wise — especially with regard to the diamond engagement ring.

to the diamond engagement ring.

The National Family Opinion Poll (NFO), undertaken by DeBeers Consolidated Mines' Ltd., the world's largest marketer of rough stones, has indicated that a little more than half of repeat brides receive a diamond engagement ring, and usually it's a large stone.

It's a diamond the bride wants, since it goes with marriage, symbolizing love, and for the repeat bride, the choice of diamond is a matter of investment sense.

Surprising as it may sound, in these changing times, there are more weddings than ever before. Although the majority of women have traditional weddings and wear classical gowns with sweeping trains, there's a new brand of bride, who wants a special gown that is uniquely reflective of her personal individuality and lifestyle.

She is the bride who is more sophisticated and fashion conscious, ranging in age from 26 to 35 years old, and plans to have a small semi-formal or informal wedding to celebrate this special event. Her guest list is about 100 or less and she plans to marry in a charming small church, chapel or in the warm intimacy of her home.

It is for this sophisticated, modern bride that Priscilla has created an exclusive collection called the Contemporary Romantics. This collection is designed to fulfill the romantic fantasy, practicality and need of this growing class of customer whether it is her first marriage or not.

All the gowns are designed to be worn again.

The fashion silhouettes are many and varied. They range from a floor-length gown named "Creme de Peche" to the graceful "Sunday Afternoon Dress" of white eyelet in the new ankle length, to the newest short length in an Alencon lace gown reminiscent of the 1940s with knee-revealing curved hemline.

Diaphanous voiles, textured linens, gentle crepe de chines and floating chiffons are some of the vibrant fabrics used in this collection. All are touched with delicate traceries of lace — from the Victorian collars down to the swirling hemlines.

To frame the face, sensuous necklines plunge in lace-carved V's and eye-appealing open shapes, and there are also high-cuffed necklines bordered with lace. Waistlines appear more defined above free-flowing pleated or gently gathered skirts.

The focus is from head to toe. Head accessories for these looks include lacy picture hats, floral wreaths, tiny caps and simple flowers in the hair. The dramatic new hem lengths place the accent on the foot which is dressed with high-heeled strap sandals and lacy or dotted stockings.

Pretty jewelry — a cameo at the neck, a pin caught at the shoulder or

Pretty jewelry — a cameo at the neck, a pin caught at the shoulder or waist — lends a personal touch and completes the contemporary look of today.

Silver thrives bestwith its daily use

The wedding is over, and the young couple are busy setting up housekeeping. Each beautiful piece of silverware the bride received from her friends and family through her jeweler's Bridal Registry is ready to become a part of the new family's tradition.

For every special event an festive occasion, the bride will proudly set her table with her sterling silver. This precious metal is truly a lifetime gift, and can, with simple care, become a treasured heirloom the bride might well pass on to her daughter in years to come.

might well pass on to her daughter in years to come.

Silverware thrives best through continuous use, and should be used daily as well as for special holidays and family celebrations.

Here are some simple guidelines from the Jewelry Industry Council intended for the bride in caring for her silver service:

1. Don't wait for special occasions to use your silver — use it daily to perfect that lustrous pating that is really many tiny surface scratches that give the metal a rich appearance. Rotate your set, so that each piece attains an even patina.

2. Wash your silver in hot sudsy water, rinse it thoroughly and dry it with a soft cloth. Remove any acidy food stains with a reputable commercial cleaner to prevent pitting and corroding. (Mayonnaise and eggs are prime offenders.)

3. About every six months, give all of your silver a thorough cleaning with polish. Remember when polishing or washing your silver not to crowd too many pieces together to avoid needless scratching.

4. When polishing flatware, use lengthwise strokes, and with hol-loware, follow the contour of each individual piece.

5. If you do not plan to use any silver pieces for a length of time, store them in tarnish-free cloths or in a tightly closed silver chest.

Making your own bridal gown is possible with today's patterns

Imagine a wedding gown with antique lace, a custom fit, the finest silk, intricate stitching and the look of luxury. Sound like something only a bridal salon can do?

Not anymore. Today, with the technical advances in sewing machines, and the variety of perfectly cut patterns, the bride-to-be can be her own couturier, and find it an easy and highly fulfilling experience.

Brenda Bishop, owner of The Golden Needle Fabric Store in River Falls, Wis., specializes in creating bridal gowns to suit the individual taste of the bride. Bishop says she often. makes a gown using a combination of different pattern styles.

3. Use a border print eyelet fabric and embroider heavily on the bottom with the same border on the bodice and short cap sleeve — perfect for that summer country bride.

4. Combine a bridesmaid dress with attached sheer capelet (Vogue No. 9731) and a bridal gown pattern (Vogue No. 1488) for a very formal gown with cathedral train.

The headpiece designed for pattern No. 2192 depends on the shape of the girl's face and the style of the wedding. For example: 1. The formal headpiece consists of a long, floor-length train with fingertip veil and blusher veil with lace edges to match gown. The entire tulle headpiece is attached to a comb, with the long veil made detachable.

2. For the country bride, a headpiece with short veil and flat band can be used, covered with eyelet material accented with silk lily-of-the-valleys.

3. The Juliet cap can be simply made with fauric from the dress with lace over the cap. The veil can be stitched around the edges with the

Brides keeping maiden names

While many brides still traditionally take their husband's name when they marry, a significant number of young brides are preserving their dentities by retaining their maiden

Many reasons have been cited for this new trend, among them being the practicality of keeping an established name for professional purposes and the need of the wife to be her own

Diamond most important part of ring

Today's skyrocketing prices of gold and other precious metals, combined with the increasing rarity of larger diamonds, are making the diamond the most important part of an engage-

So say the experts such as Leo Kaplan, president of Lazare Kaplan and Sons, one of the world's foremost cutters and polishers of fine diamonds, who advises not to concentrate on an expensive setting while forgetting the value of a quality dia-

"A setting's like a pretty dress," Kaplan said. "It can do no more than enhance a woman's beauty, it can't do the whole job."

To extend Kaplan's analogy, a diamond's beauty, like a woman, depends on inherent characteristics no matter how beautifully packaged, the inherent quality must be there, or the ring will not be as valuable or as beautiful as it could be.

The characteristics of a diamond are called the four C's: carat, cut, clarity and color. Which is most important? It depends on what you are

If a buyer is looking for a diamond that will hold its value, a one or more carat stone is the answer. "The increasing rarity of diamonds weighing one carat and over is apparently a fact," Kaplan said.

More than 250 tons of ore must be processed to produce one carat of gemstones, and more often than not that will be many stones weighing one carat, rather than a one carat stone.

The weight of a diamond is measured in carats, with 100 points to a carat, like the cents in a dollar. Other characteristics of a diamond, such as cut, clarity and color are equally important, Kaplan pointed out. "Size alone is not beautiful, a proper cut is also valuable, as is good color,"he

Carat Size

More than half of the brides receive a diamond engagement ring and it is usually a large stone. A large diamond appreciates greatly over time due to its rarity and value of quality.

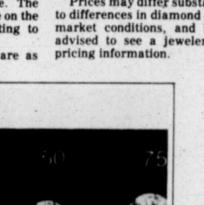

Clarity, or the freedom from inclusions - minuscule birthmarks naturally found in diamonds - is also a factor to consider. Whether the buyer wants a large stone, or a blue-white (top color) stone, or a perfectly cut stone, is a matter of choice. The sensible buyer will concentrate on the diamond and choose the setting to enhance that quality choice.

Recent pricing guidelines are as elaborate. There are as many variations on this theme as there are brides-to-be.

IF YOU DO what seems natural and right, you're sure to create a beautiful and memorable occasion.

It's a good idea to keep a check list. You'll want to start planning several weeks in advance, and it's a wonderful feeling to be able to cross off each task as accomplished.

Probably your most pressing concern is the menu. You may wish to serve a sit-down brunch, lunch or supper, although, unless you have help, this can be extremely demanding — not to mention expensive. For that reason, many hostesses decide on an attractive buffet including cold meats and salads, open-faced "finger" sandwiches, nuts, cheese and

You can make hot hors d'oeuvres such as Swedish meat balls, shrimp or crab puffs in chafing dishes: you'll want to provide small plates as well as forks and napkins to avoid spills. Set up coffee and tea service at either end of your table and, if you wish, use a sideboard for the bar.

Needless to say, the crowning glory will be your wedding cake. The following cake recipe is one guaranteed to generate "oohs and ahs:" it's a three-tiered heart-shaped cake with delicate looking mocha-colored icing and, inside, it's chocolate. It's rich, moist, fudgy chocolate, almost everyone's favorite flavor. This is one wedding cake that will have the guests in line for seconds.

THE WEDDING CAKE is easy to put together with these step-by-step directions

You start with a base of unsweetened cocoa, which requires no melting (that saves time, steps and mess). Cocoa is ready to measure and mix in, right from the can. Most important, since cocoa is chocolate in very concentrated form - with most of the fat removed - results will have a deeper, more intensely "chocolate" taste. Cooking with cocoa is even economical, because six ounces goes as far as eight squares of baking chocolate. (Remember that for everyday baking and candy-making, too.)

year, documented proposals include one young man who hired a small plane to fly circles over a packed football stadium. Behind the plane trailed a banner with his proposal. As his lover read the message he fell to his knees, receiving a tumultuous ovation as she accepted.

The effort to make one's proposal a suitable symbol of love is not limited to those striving to be in the public spotlight. Famous personalities can also be included among the ranks of those who have found unique ways to pose that simple question.

Though many are striving to make their proposal unique, it must be stated that the majority of males still tend to present a traditional ring to their loved one.

According to an article in Bride's magazine, giving a diamond engagement ring dates back to 1477, when dashing young Archduke Maximillian of Austria slipped a diamond on the finger of Mary of Burgundy. Max and Mary, similar to Jesse and Dotty, fell in love through the mail (however, the former couple didn't even speak the same language!). After a post office courtship, Max presented Mary with a token of his love. They married and lived happily ever after.

And to this day, the diamond ring remains a symbol of true love - not soon to be replaced by the ice cream

If you can write with a pen, you can monogram and decorate table linens, bath towels, shower curtains and many other home furnishings and accessory items. It's easy and nonmessy with Vogart ball-point paint

The paints are permanent and will not fade when dry-cleaned or machine washed. They can be applied to fabric, metal, wood, leather, vinyl, glass and plastic surfaces.

To monogram most fabrics with ball-point paints, here are some helpful hints to achieve the best possible

Before painting, it is best to wash all fabrics once to avoid shrinkage of the design later

Next sketch the initials to be monogrammed on the fabric free-hand or use iron-on transfer patterns available in Vogart's alphabet transfer pattern book Be sure to protect the surface beneath which you are working - the paints often bleed through the fabric. If painting on a fabric lighter in weight than felt, such as cotton or polyester, stretch it taut before you begin painting by inserting the fabric into a pant hoop or taping the edges tightly over a piece of stiff cardboard To begin painting, hold the ballpoint tube vertically and bear down

For materials that might continue to shrink after the first washing, seal the design by ironing on the reverse side, always placing a blotter underneath the fabric to absorb the -paint. To paint a terrycloth or velour twoel. place a piece of nylon over the fabric before inserting it into the paint hoop. This will prevent the lint fibers from interfering with the paint's flow. When painting on nylon, place a piece of sandpaper beneath the fabric to keep the fabric in place.

The paints come in a range of 29 decorator colors.

After monogramming your towels, shower curtains, tablecloths and napkins, you can decorate other rooms in your home.

Copy the wallpaper pattern in your bathroom onto the window shade and Lucite accessories such as soap dish, drinking cup or tissue box. Coordinate your bedroom sheets and pillow cases with dreamy patterns. Turn a drab lampshade into a work of art or dress up a set of plain white glass dishes.

There is no limit to your creativity and use your imagination to color your world to suit your mood and decorating tastes.

The ball-point paints can be purchased at most variety, department and craft stores. A one-ounce tube of paint retails for $1.25 and can be stored for long-term repeated use.

The well-dressed man whose desire for quality is uppermost looks for the Oxxford label. Gathered from the mills of Italy and Great Britain, the fabrics are most luxurious of cashmeres, worsteds, flannels and Mohairs plus silks. The honeymoon spot you choose should be as special as your love: its sun should sparkle like the happiness in your eyes. The Bahama Islands are

Island resorts perfect for honeymoon ...

Webster's dictionary defines "honeymoon" as a trip or vacation taken by a newly married couple, a period of harmony immediately following a marriage, and-or a period of unusual harmony ... in a new relationship.

If such a trip is synonymous with marital harmony, what better way could there be to start off a mar-

If you're planning to marry and currently addressing the honeymoon question, what follows are some thoughts that may help you in making a honeymoon decision

For starters: your marriage ceremony and reception - and the various compromises and negotiations they will involve - should put you in the proper frame of mind to work out your honeymoon plans. Important points to consider will be the cost of trips vs. your budget, your individual vacation preferences and the time you'll have available

Many couples find it best to select a honeymoon destination that's new to both prospective spouses - with the exception of those who met at a resort and want to return to the "magic

Choosing an "unknown" destination can eliminate the fear that the other's favored place was shared in the past with another person. A new destination also starts you off in a good direction, since you'll both be sharing new experiences as you will throughout your marriage. Once you've selected a destination that caters to your mutual preferences - be that secluded beaches, excellent sailing water, the general outdoors, tennis, golf, snowcapped mountains or the surf - you can begin to determine just what geographic location will accommodate your favored honeymoon activities.

For couples with varied preferences, your best bets will probably be resort facilities that offer a variety of pleasures. For those with a single passion, special-interest resorts and hotels abound - from those offering charter yachting to those where you can combine a honeymoon with instruction in your favorite sport or cided your destination. Many vacation packages offer special honeymoon rates, and there are a number of places that seem designed just for romance.

One such place is Captiva Island, just west of Fort Myers, Fla., where a four-day "Island Honeymoon" (including a half-day offshore cruise) is rated from $286 at the South Seas Plantation Resort in season (in Florida, that means mid-December through April).

Captiva and neighboring Sanibel Islands have two special claims to fame - spectacular sunsets on the Gulf of Mexico, and shelling beaches considered some of the finest in the world. History buffs may want to search the island beaches for buried treasure, since Sanibel and Captiva were the 1500's haunt of notorious pirates.

Wherever you go on your honeymoon, however, remember the most important factor isn't the location, but the company you're with. Consider each other's preferences as carefully as your budget, and you're certain to have a good time, not to men-tion a period of "unusual harmony" that can set the stage for a future of mutual pleasure.

... but mainland has beautiful attractions too

It started almost by accident. Dur-ing the early years of World War II, newlyweds over the past three and the finest cuisine served anywhere half decades, the charm and allure of One of the reasons for the popula servicemen stationed at nearby Eastern bases took their R and R in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania where they were often joined by girlfriends and families, often seeing each other for the final time before the boys went overseas.

But the beauty of the Pocono area - the rolling hills and woodlands, the breathtaking views, the waterfalls and all the splendor of nature's handiwork - remained in the boys' memories. When the war ended or their part in it was done, many returned home, married and came back to the Peconos and the fond memories they held of the area.

In 1945, the first strictly honeymoon resort opened in the Poconos, bearing no resemblance to the glamorous and spectacular industry it launched. Couples honeymooned in log cabins, took turns waiting on tables in the dining hall and kept house for themselves.

Couples had to send in pictures before being accepted and Catholics were usually not accepted since the management didn't want the extra burden of taking them to church on

Though honeymooon resorts have risen and fallen in popularity with the Poconos has consistently claimed a major share of the national honeymoon market every year.

It was actually not until the early 1960s when the Poconos came into their own as a honeymoon destination. In 1960, Life Magazine ran photos and a story on the now wellpublicized heart-shaped bathtub, whose inventor owned a Pocono honeymoon resort that helped convert sex into a marketable commodity for honeymooners

Around that time, one of the nation's, leading bridal magazines dubbed the Poconos as the "Hon-eymoon Capital of the World," and couples began flocking to the mountains in search of a fantasy world of love and romance. They were not disappointed.

Today's honeymoon resorts boast some of the most elegant and luxurious and sensual accommodations available in the world today.

Guests are pampered from arrival to departure with anything they desire, including champagne breakfasts, champagne brunches, champagne and candle-lit dinners for two, swimming pools in their own rooms, heart-shaped baths and Jacuzzis, canopied, round and king-sized beds and

One of the reasons for the popularity of the Pocono honeymoon seems to lie in the fact that even though honeymooners like to be alone, they like the idea of being with their contemporaries (other honeymooners) with whom they feel at ease, when and if they so choose. Realizing this early in the game, the honeymoon resort owners provided a couples-only atmosphere that was much to the liking of their guests.

Resorts offer numerous tours of the Pocono area to their guests and arrange golfing and skiing and other recreations upon request. The couple may, however, find it just as advantageous to spend the duration of their stay right on the resort with the wide spectrum of activities and sports offered right on premise.

Offerings include tennis, sindoor and out, gymnasiums, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, archery, platform tennis, canoeing and boating, sledding and tobogganing, ski-bobbing, hiking, various social activities, luaus and parties, horseshoes, badminton and innumerable other

All in all, the Poconos today has 10 full-fledged honeymoon-couples resorts. Each creates a fantasy world of its own, each with its own decor and. custom, atmosphere and theme.

For information on the Pocono honeymoon resorts, prospective honeymooners may write the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, Box K, 1004 Main Street, Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360. In addition to the information they will receive directly from the bureau, their names will be passed along to each of the 10 resorts so that they will also receive individual brochures and rates from every resort.

Couples are encouraged to plan their honeymoon well ahead of time to avoid being disappointed by lack of availability during peak periods. The popularity of the resorts as made honeymooning in the Poconos a fourseason pastime.

Bridal veil custom follows Oriental ways

The bridal veil evolved from the Oriental practice of women wearing veils all the time. It was once believed in the Far East that wicked spirits were particularly attracted to women. Women wore veils to protect themselves from these evil spirits. Eventually the veil came to mean obedience and chastity.

Some honeymooners just don't want to be alone

The theory that honeymooners want to go off and be alone by themselves for extended periods is being disputed by authorities in the marrying business. 'It's a myth that honeymooners always want to be alone," said Dr. Roger Cantril, an official of the Counseig Institte of Kansas City. A member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors, Cantril counsels with many couples prior to their marriages. "Many honeymooners would be greatly relieved at having some sort of organized program offered them," Cantril continued

Offering such an organized program is a service discovered years ago by officials at Merriott's Tan-Tar-A, the Midwest's largest honeymoon resort.

"We find that honeymooners enjoy meeting new friends an participating in planned activities with other couples." Nancy Weaver, Tan-Tar-A's social director, said.

"Our honeymoon packages offer a reception and Monday night dinner where couples can meet other honeymooners and plan boating and golfing activities together.

Weaver helps plan activities for approximately 200 honeymooning couples a month during peak sea-

"We don't push. Couples can join not join - whatever they want to do," Weaver said. "Invariably, they want to join."

These days many couples getting married know each other better than they did 30 or 40 years ago, asserted Dr. Arthur L. Foster, administrative director of the Counseling Center for Human Development in Kansas City.

'They take time off to enjoy each other, but they may also say, 'yeah, it's also fun to be with others. Some others may admit they don't want to be together all of the time because they aren't used to it.

"A number of newlyweds experience shock and reality at finding themselves alone together,' Foster

Tan-Tar-A offers a variety of activities honeymooners can articipate in either with other couples or as a twosome. These include moonlight excursions on the Lake of the Ozarks. tickets to a local country music show and to the renowned Bridal Cave, and numerous other resort activities including bowling, tennis, golfing, horseback riding, boating and swim-

The fun aboard a cruise ship has begun as guests wave goodbye to friends and family. Cruises offer the right blend of privacy, travel and romance for the honeymoon couple.

Either the institution of marriage is no longer in jeopardy or all newlyweds make cruises. Since neither conclusion is quite correct, let's leave the analysis of present-day matrimonial patterns to anthropologists and sociologists and find out why so many couples consider a cruise an ideal honeymoon vacation.

Actually the answer is simple. Cruises offer the right blend of privacy, travel and romance and operators cater to the special needs of newly married, regardless of age.

A special need is frequently voiced — a request for a double bed. Some lines, such as Sitmar Cruises, have them — about 10 each on both luxurious vessels, the T.S.S. Fairwind and the T.S.S. Fairsea.

Practicality is also important to many honeymooners and cruises definitely insure elegant living at an affordable price. Cost comparisons prove cruises to be less expensive than comparable land travel for the same length of time. The exact price depends on the time of year one travels and the size and location of the cabin

Cruise rates are lowest during the spring and fall. Rates are highest in December through March — especially during the peak holiday seasons — followed by midsummer depar-

Making reservations as far ahead as possible is wise. The cruise industry is in the midst of a boom and most trips must be booked at least six Another advantage of a honeymoon aboard ship is the freedom from constant packing and unpacking. Most ships provide roomy closets and ample drawer space.

Cruise personnel habitually pamper newly married couples,

Well-trained stewards help honeymooners enjoy their cherished privacy. Breakfast in bed can be served each morning and if the couple requests it, they can dine on gourmet food, eat caviar and drink champagne alone in their cabin. The maitre d' will also arrange a table for two in the dining salon.

Some lines also offer special treats to help couples celebrate. If the travel agent knows the wedding date, he can alert the cruise personnel who join in a dining room celebration of the first week's anniversary with singing and a special cake.

According to Leonard Jick, president of Allan World Travel in Beverly Hills, Calif., "A cruise makes a superb trip for the newly married because the staff is so accommodating and the ships sail to unusual destinations including Alaska's Inside Passage, the Panama Canál, and the Yucatan Peninsula."

Catering to more active lifestyles, cruise operators have expanded their shipboard activities to include more sports, exercise and yoga classes and disco dancing. These innovations reflect the demand of most Americans for a more casual and healthful environment. There is no doubt that traveling by sea is conducive to fun, romance and love, just the right reciprofor a honeymoon trip.

Traditional sterling silver

A gift of silver to the newlyweds is traditional. Beautiful silverware is not only attractive, it's practical, for one of its greatest attributes is that it grows lovelier with use, taking on a rich patina through wear.

Not only will the thoughtful gifts of silver flatware and holloware give the family its "tradition," as it will be used on festive occasions, but it will set the theme for gracious entertaining occasions, but it will set the theme for gracious entertaining.

Relatives and friends of the soon-to-be-weds should check with the bride's jeweler where she has registered her choice of silver patterns. The bride-to-be records the silver flatware and holloware patterns with what is called a bridal registry, so that gift-givers won't duplicate se-

Because more and more men today are sharing household duties with their mates, and often like to take over cooking and hosting chores, couples should go to their jeweler together to choose silverware and holloware patterns they both like.

According to the Jewelry Industry Council, some things to look for in selecting patterns include: Do the serving pieces feel comfortable in the hand?

Does the pattern reflect your personal tastes? If you plan to entertain formally and like ornate and fancy designs, look at traditional patterns. If you like stately simplicity and pure sculptured lines, you may favor contemporary patterns. For the modern sophisticates who are up to the minute on fashion, look at the modern patterns available.

Gold bands used for four centuries

Have you ever wondered how the tradition of the gold wedding ring began? It has become such an integral part of our American culture that some 98 percent of the more than two million weddings each year involve one or more wedding rings, usually in 14 or 18-karat gold, according to the Gold Information Center.

The use of the wedding ring was first recorded in ancient Egypt. The early Greeks and Romans also favored this custom and often gave inscribed betrothal rings of gold as pledges to their loved ones. The wedding ring was not adopted for the Christian ritual until about 860 A.D. Prior to that time, it was considered to be a pagan idea by most Chris-

Before Christ, the Hebrews gave a purely ceremonial, symbolic gold ring in marriage, which was usually much too large to be worn.

Because the ring was traditionally seal by which orders were signed (signet rings bore emblems whose impressions were stamped on important documents), it was regarded a mark of the highest friendship and trust by those who received it. For that reason, the ring was adopted for the marriage ceremony to signify that the wife was admitted as a sharer in her husband's council and a joint partner in his honor and estate.

During the late Roman Empire, the engagement or betrothal ring became the first article of gold ever worn by the Romanien, replacing the earlier ring of iron. It was believed that the gold ring symbolized everlasting love that would never tarnish, just as the metal of which it was made.

Ancient Egyptian writings by Applanus reveal that the wedding ring was worn on the third finger of the left hand because this finger was believed to be connected by an artery to the heart, and this notion persisted for centries. A writer in the late 17th century referred to this artery as "a vein of blood, called vena amoris, which passeth from the finger to the

The gold wedding ring is probably the single most sold item of jewelry in the Unted States. This is a selection of current top-selling rings for the new bride, all in 14-karat gold.

Curiously, in some cultures the wedding ring was worn on the third finger of the right hand. This was the custom in England until the end of the 16th century, except for a brief period during the reign of Henry VIII when it was fashionable to wear the wedding ring upon the thumb.

It is said that the marriage of Queen Mary to Philip of Spain in 1554 did much to establish the prestige of the plain gold wedding band. After much discussion as to the proper ring for the royal marriage, Mary declared that she preferred to be married with "a plain hoop of gold like other maidens."

And this preference for the gold wedding ring continues today, more than four centuries later.

Follow suggestions to keep away from tight waistbands

According to an old saw, people gain weight after they get married. Contentment, home-cooked meals and a less hectic lifestyle are supposed to show up in added pounds on the scale.

The truth may be that all the food plus rich wedding cake at the marriage festivities, follwed by honeymoon festing, are what starts newlyweds on the road to tight waistbands. Whatever the case, you can make sure you don't outgrow your trousseau by heeding these simple tips:

1. Get some exercise every day. Instead of settling down on your watch TV, take a bracing walk (or jog) together.

2. Control your cooking sprees. It's natural to want to display creativity in the kitchen, but you can be even more original by finding low-calorie ways to concoct delicious dishes.

3. Avoid sweet beverages - all they do is fill you up with empty calories. Instead, serve good-tasting bottled water with meals. It's guaranteed free of contaminants and calories, and has a clean, fresh taste that enhances the enjoyment of good

Newly married couples need furniture

The first reaction to the news that a favorite couple is about to be married is usually one of delight. Then comes the sobering thought of what to get for a weddding gift.

Selecting a present that the happy twosome will not only love, but also find useful can be simultaneously a pleasant project and a big problem. One thing for sure is that the couple will soon be faced with an empty home or apartment which will need to be filled. A novel idea is to present them with a box full of furniture. And for many of the girls who have left, High Sky Girls Ranch will always be home.

Established in 1963 for the purpose of serving the needs of young girls and their families, High Sky has seen many students pass through. "But we've long wanted to provide a continuing relationship for our residents to prepare them for the time when they leave the ranch," said David Maley, executive director of the non-profit residential child-caring agency.

Located three miles northwest of Midland, the ranch has a capacity for 31 girls ages 6 through 18 years. Referrals to the Ranch are accepted from the Department of Human Resources, Juvenile Probation and private sources, such as parents and families. Acceptance is based upon individual need and the girl's desire to become part of the Ranch pro-

"Most of the girls come here on a long-term basis—they may come as early as age 6 and end up living here and graduating from high school" Maley explained.

"One of the things we try to do is help them plan for their life after school." Into a month of operation is a new program designed just for this purpose.

"Until now, each of the girls was staying until they were 18 or had graduated from high school," said Maley. Then they left. But they had no where to go because the Ranch had been their home for years."

'Like all teenagers, our girls all are eager to get out on their own. But most crash and burn because they haven't had the responsibility of being on their own. That's what we want to avoid."

As a result, six senior girls who have met certain qualifications are chosen to live in the Senior House, a separate cottage from the other three housing units which make up the Ranch.

Interior designs achieve

By BARBARA MAYER AP Newsfeatures

Fashion has its Coty Awards. There are Oscars, Emmys, Tonys and Gold Records for achievement in film, television, theater and music. But what about interior design? How does talent reveal itself to the design world?

One way to achieve becognition is bi ginning design contests. And one of the more meaningful contests is the S.M. Hexter Co.'s annual "Interiors of the Year" awards. Hexter award winners have found this recognition a helpful step on the way to a national

The fabric and wall-coverings showroom has been choosing the best designs in residential and business interiors among entries sent in from all over the country for 22 years. And a review of the winning entries is a mirror that reflects decorating fads and fancies of each era.

Judging from an exhibition of entries in the 1980 contest - whose winners were announced recently in New York - today's designers are high on charcoal-gray carpeting and built-in banquettes. They prefer their lighting functional and inconspicuous, preferably recessed under the seating or beds. And the furniture should be unobtrusive, too, by preference built to fit the particular space. Industrial shelving, vertical blinds at the windows and room arrangements that favor the diagonal are also evidently. desirable

Saving space is what the two winning entries for residential design are all about. The first prize for a residence went to Scott Kurland and James R. Silvester of New York for the design of Kurland's own city

Starting with only 500 square feet of space, the designers made room for a separate bedroom, a guest bedroom, a dining and work area and a living room. The devices used included installation of a diagonal wall, mirrors and clear glass panels to break up the space and fool the eye into seeing more space than is actually there. Built-in furniture and severe, darkgray carpeting also create a feeling of spaciousness.

Although the Kurland apartment is strictly modern in design, the two young partners said the key to the success of the design was in its function, not in the decor. "Using this scheme, you could substitute another style of furnishing with equal success," said Kurland.

Good design comes from good planning. The personal touches come last. added Silvester. "We think of ourselves as problem solvers. And the biggest problem our residential clients face is usually tight space and the need to crowd a lot of living. storage and function in without the appearance of being crowded," he added

The second residential award winner, Juan Montoya of New York, created entertaining, dining, working and sleeping accommodations in only 220 square feet of apartment living

He satisfied the requirements for sleeping, entertaining and storage with a platform bed with a seating ledge for guests and storage beneath. Dining and work take place on two specially-made table surfaces. One of them can be raised to the ceiling on pulleys when not in use. The other is hinged to the wall and folds down for dining and work space. Mirrors expand the space visually,

A. In case of no ash pit, one way to accomplish this is to run a metal duct work from a basement window -- if you have a basement -- up to a floor vent mounted near the fireplace. If you have no basement or crawl space, there is another way if the fireplace is on the exterior wall. Remove two fire bricks from the back of the wall of the fireplace for access to the outside air. Wire mesh should be installed over the opening to discourage animals and birds.

The father of the bride is exuberant. He could never really understand what a "relationship" was . . . let alone explain it to Grandma.

The atmosphere at a wedding, especially a large, formal one, is lousy with optimism. And well it should be. It means adults have succeeded in introducing to the couple the big three: responsibility, commitment and guilt. There are few young people who can walk away from it and feel nothing. I don't know if people who are wed in a big ceremony stay married longer or if it just seems longer, but the incentive is there.

Would you tell your mother you're splitting BEFORE she makes the last payment on the liver pate?

Do you want to tell your father it was all a mistake when he's stuck with a mayonnaise-stained cummerbund that he had to buy and will never be able to wear again?

Who among you would be cruel enough to separate before the wedding proofs fade? What kind of a thoughtless daughter would sweat in a $300 wedding dress and not stay married long enough to see it cleaned and stored in a moth-proof, seethrough, hermetically-sealed bag?

SILVER COINS BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) - Hanging on a wall at Chet O'Kelley's cocktail lounge is a 3- by 41/2-foot photograph of O'Kelley as a boxer. The picture's background is filled with glued-on coins, mostly silver.

In view of rising silver prices, O'Kelley decided to replace the coins - $375.50 in face value - with non-silver, half-dollars. He decided to do so when his insurance agent said he couldn't insure the picture and the coins because the picture was on display over a bar.

Very frankly, there was a time' right after we were married that we were both ready to hang it up, but we had 13 days left on a two-week honeymoon and we knew they'd never have refunded his Dad's deposit.

I know of another couple who would have split, but hung on until the local paper printed their wedding picture. (By that time it was too late. She was expecting.)

I've been to weddings so shaky the bride caught her own bouquet and ceremonies where the bride wore something old/something new/something borrowed/something blue and it was the same thing -

But nothing makes for a long marriage like a large reception filled with both families, swilling punch, throwing wedding cake, gossiping and appraising the wedding gifts to make the newlyweds stop and think, "If we divorce, who gets custody of these relatives?"

Prepare asparagus in a variety of ways

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

When springtime comes, cooks' fancies turn to asparagus and their favorite ways of serving it.

Good cooks I know agree that unless asparagus is extremely thin, the outer covering of the spears (up to the tips) should be stripped away. To do this you can use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler or a small sharp knife.

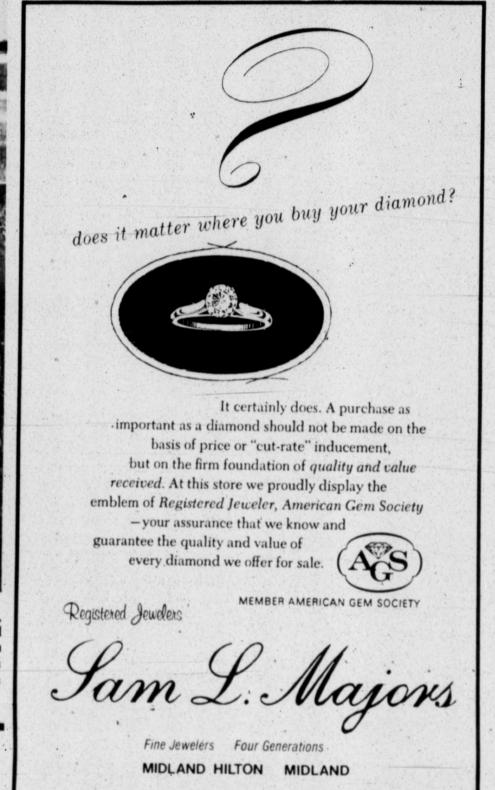

Cooking is simple. A skillet and boiling water works beautifully. Cooking time should be brief so the asparagus is tender-crisp and keeps its lovely green color. The spears should be well-drained.

And the good cooks I know enjoy offering asparagus with simple accompaniments. This aristocrat of vegetables needs no trumpery.

Maurice Moore-Betty, author and cooking-school teacher, says "melted butter seasoned with lemon juice is my favorite accompaniment for hot asparagus.' Lydie Pinoy Marshall, who has a French cooking school, loves asparagus with Sauce Maltaise - hollandaise flavored with orange juice and grated orange rind.

Visiting the 'cookbook hall of fame'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) - Dione Lucas, credited with bringing the omelet to America and one of the country's most popular chefs of her time, has had her work immortalized nine years after her death. "The Cordon Bleu Cookbook" written by Mrs. Lucas has been inducted into the Cookbook Hall of Fame, where it will be regarded as a classic with a significant influence on American cooking.

Mrs. Lucas was the first of America's television gourmets with her weekly show, "The Gourmet Club," that began in the late 1940s and ran for 12 years, eventually airing in 60 cities.

Her cookbook was the fourth to be inducted into the Hall of Fame at Syracuse University, joining "The Joy of Cooking," "The Fannie Farmer Cookbook" and "The Settlement Cookbook.

"This was the book that introduced French cooking, and the whole idea of gourmet cooking, to America," said Marion Gorman, who co-authorred subsequent cookbooks with the late Mrs. Lucas.

When she came to this country, she couldn't find a suitable omelet pan," said Mrs. Gorman, who remembered that Mrs. Lucas' favorite omelet pan was one she had fashioned out of an old torpedo shell.

'Dione also contributed a sense of order and precision to American cooking ... Craig Claiborne called her the high priestess of high cooking,' Mrs. Gorman said. Claiborne's "New York Times Cookbook" is scheduled to be inducted into the Hall of Fame

next year. "She was also as responsible as anyone for adding more flour, cream and eggs to our cooking. Of course, now we're concerned that we're using too much, but later she turned more toward the more healthful, nutritional ways. She was at least five years ahead of everyone else," said Mrs. Gorman.

Mrs. Gorman came up from New York City to attend the ceremonies honoring Mrs. Lucas' book. Mrs. Lucas, who was British and received her cooking training in France, operated the Cordon Bleu Cooking School and the Petit Cordon Blue restaurant in New York City.

SILSBEE, Texas (AP) - Gordon Baxter - some name is Gordon Baxter.' That would be the final say he's the father of disc jockeys - can do radio goody." with his hands tied behind his back. In fact, "Bax" fights boredom by working barefoot, operating the turntable, microphone switch and control board with his toes.

His book - "Village Creek" - was published this year, with a possible movie in the offing, but he still rises before dawn Sunday to entertain and irritate listeners in southeast Texas and southwest Louisiradio control rooms, starting in 1945 at KPAC in his hometown of Port Arthur. He now has a once-a-week program on KLVI in

"I was playing records before 'disc jockey' was coined. I've never found anyone who did it earlier. I might have been the father of disc jockeys, said Baxter, but he shuns that label: "It is a term of contempt.

The "ad lib" commercial was born, he claims, when country piano player "Moon" Mulligan tore up a soft drink commercial Baxter was reading at KPAC and said, "You can do it better, Baxter."

Thus began a radio style that emphasizes "the only rule is no rule." At times he talks for three hours. Other times he just plays music, which he grades by the "goose-bump" test. "If the hair on my arms stands up, I grade it a 10."

Baxter said his familiar voice has changed over the years only a bit. "I can't do falsetto or my rebel

His favorite music is hillbilly - "real songs by real people trying to tell real stories - not Nashville products. Only one or two people are singing real songs lately, and one is Willie Nelson. His 'Red-Headed Stranger' is an American opera.'

Baxter wanted to be mayor of Port Arthur. "I would stand on the seawall behind the junior high school, with that salt air hitting me in the face, and dream of being a risen leader, the Port Arthur Messiah," he recalled.

However, he added, "in my hometown I was always thought of as the village jackass." He went to work for KTRM in Beaumont in 1959, when he was 36. Baxter has worked for six radio stations and KBMT-TV in Beaumont, and one ex-boss said, in firing him, "Baxter, you are incorrigible, incompatible and unpredictable" - then hired him back. In 1971, he captured a boyhood dream by building his own house on a 13-acre peninsula on Village

He published a book on Vietnam in 1968, followed by one on his experiences as a "pasture pilot," which, he said, won a 1978 award from aviation

He sees "Village Creek" as a possible entree to the big time, and has appeared on as many as six shows a day in Texas to promote the book.

"I love it," he said of the excitement surrounding the book. "It's my Fourth of July fireworks. It's going to be bright and brief. July Fifth is coming soon, and all the burnt-out rockets will be in the wet

"There's nothing I'd rather do than write a good book and be famous ... Someday at a really good university, in the year 2050, I'd like an English literature professor to assign his students to read an obscure essayist from the late 20th Century. His

Desegregation, teen sex topics at PTA conference

ODESSA - Integration and busing. Are they working?

Don Hood of Austin, consultant with Educational Testing Services, told his audience of parents, educators and teachers at a meeting of PTA District 17 there is no evidence to support they are working as the courts intended.

The meeting was held in Crescent Park Baptist Church here.

Another workshop session was led by Dr. Charles Stephens of Odessa and Maxine Hudson from the School of Pregnant Girls in that city. It concerned the sexually active youth in Ector County.

The idea behind integration was the providing of the same quality education to the minorities that the whites were getting. This was started by the blacks, said Hood, who didn't want to leave their neighborhood schools anymore than the Whites, but were only interested in quality edu-

According to Hood, this is not being accomplished in some school districts because it is "impossible to obtain and retain good teachers" who will work in the schools of the low socio-economic

"We have not learned how to teach low socio-economic students. Integration was meant to help these students catch up by association and other factors of environment. I haven't seen any evidence of this," said Hood. He pointed out that $3.1 billion has been spent on Title I and "we still haven't found an effective way to teach the minority students.' Hood said teachers will not accept verbal abuse from minority bused

Odessa public schools will have to desegregate at some point in time, but plans have not been developed that involve anything academic.

"This might be decided this sum-

In answer to a question by Patti De-

"It it were organized like labor, we could fight the oil companies. But the PTA alone would not have enough impact.'

Another Odessa voice echoed the sentiment of a majority of the group that spoke out in the segregation workshop when she said that segregation has taken away her rights to send her child where she wants to, while trying to satisfy the minority's

Hood pointed out that segregation, brought about to stop some prejudices, has caused others.

"I would like to wave a magic wand and all your problems would be over, but I can't. There is no single answer," Hood said.

Mrs. Hudson brought out some shocking statistics in her presentation to the PTA'ers. She said, "One-half of American teenagers ages 15-19 are sexually active.

She said that once a teen-ager begins an active sex life, they usually stay active. "Every night 2,740 teenage girls become pregnant.' One-third of all pregnancies in

Ector County are teen-agers, Mrs. Hudson revealed. In 1978, there were 481 live births in the county, she added, compared to 435 in 1976 and 451

Mrs. Hudson said that "eight out of every 10 teen-age mothers under the age of 17 will never complete high school education. They will have to take low-paying jobs.

Another fact reveals that "one-half of her students are married, but the divorce rate is two to three times higher than the regular divorce rate in Ector County.

The girl also has to change to different lifestyles and goals, said Mrs. Hudson. "Her self esteem, high before pregnancy, is lowered.

The School for Pregnant Girls helps build up this self-esteem, she said.

Teen-age mothers have more medical problems because their bodies are not physically developed, and their babies have more medical problems, Mrs. Hudson told the group. Mrs. Hudson also announced that in Ector County new strains of venereal diseases have been found, with increased cases of VD occurring among Ector teen-agers. "This could be due to the fact that young men do not usually receive counseling and education on human sexuality. Gonorrhea is rampant in the Midland-Odessa area, revealed Mrs. Hudson. Herpes II, a virus infection, can cause brain damage and physical impairments if mother has this disease," she explained. She is concerned about the gonorrhea that has been found to be penicillin-resistant in the Odessa area. Another concern of Mrs. Hudson is the amount of abortions being done. She said the number is growing each year in Ector County. "Sixty abortions a month are being done in Odes-

Mrs. Hudson believes that sex education must begin in the home. "This is where we've fallen down.

If the parents can't talk about it to their children, they should seek out some books on the subject and let them read about it, she said.

Mrs. Hudson announced that Ector County schools are adding the seventh grade to their sex education classes to go along with the eight and tenth grades. In the lowest grade, she said, "understanding human sexuality is taught, while in the eighth grade more indepth study is undertaken. The tenth grade tells it like it

She added that she hopes it won't be needed younger than this

She advised parents to get communication open. "They do not know what you think they do" about sex.

"How can you expect the kids to have different attitudes if they are reared in a situation where mom and dad are sleeping around. It's up to the family to provide moral structure and let the schools provide educational data," said Mrs. Hudson.

"TV and magazines make sexual activity acceptable. Parents should help kids to understand this is not the real world.

"Many say let churches do morality counseling. Perhaps the churches should have this responsiblity, but it has been my experience that parents would not attend and parents need to be present

"Parents don't want to believe boys and girls will stay sexually active once they have started."

At her school, there have been 90 girls participating this year.

Other workshop speakers included Julia Johnson, regional PTA vice president; Keith Dial and Danny Vandenberg, both of Odessa, who hosted a tour of the Ector County Youth Center, and Bob Savage, who discussed the Midland Palmer Drug Abuse Program.

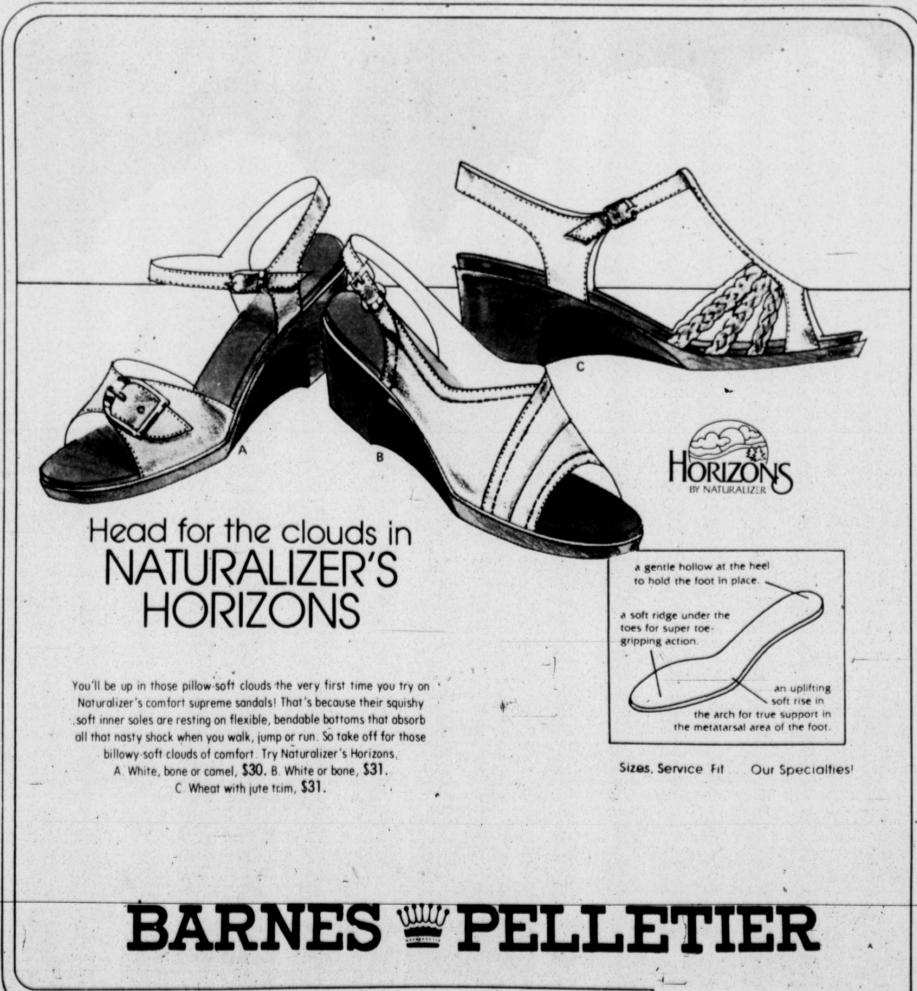

District 17 comprises Forsan, Fort Stockton, Grandfalls, Marathon, McCamey, Monahans, Pecos, Wick ett, Big Spring, Midland and Odessa.

Knorr takes a China trip

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

It was a trip of discoveries for Charles Knorr Jr. who recently returned to Midland from mainland China

He, along wih six associates, took a two-week trip on business, primarily on a search for porcelain pieces, antiques and other Chinese works of art.

"I didn't realize how lucky I was to be able to visit China," he said. "There are some tours available, but because China is still so underdeveloped and primitive, transportation and accommodation is lim-

He had the opportunity to visit only three cities in a two-week period-Shanghai, Peking (the capital) and Tieng Sing, a large industrial city.

But he had a unique experience along the way. Through a Canadian contact who was traveling with him, he discovered a form of art being produced in China known as "peasant art."

"It really is peasant art," explained Knorr. "The paintings, produced by poor villagers, are so primitive that they look almost sophisticated.

The artists, about 30 of them, are nearly all women whose technical knowledge of art is limited, said Knorr. "They start as young girls making embroideries in preparation for marriage. Their works are all household items and items of necessity, but to us here in the States they are beautiful-pillowcases, coats, etc., all embroidered on silk.

From the embroidery, the women go on to paintings and drawings. "They do their work on a special kind of paper and use a powder substance somewhat like tempera for the paint. It's mixed wih water" he explained.

Knorr's group was able to visit the artists who live in a small village in Chekiang Province.

Getting to the town was quite a feat, he said. "Any trip outside the cities for a foreigner requires a police pass, a ticket for the train or bus and a visa; all of which must be shown on demand to the police.

His group was lucky, however, because the Chinese Arts and Crafts Corporation, who oversaw their trip, provided the group with cabs and helped smooth out some of the red tape.

Their arrival at the village received quite a reception. And Knorr soon found out why.

"We were the first Americans ever to visit the village," he said. "Everyone ran out to see the cabs and us. After our two and a half hour drive through an area of rice paddies, agriculturual areas, few buildings and no other buses or cabs, the welcome in the village was really warming."

After business discussions, the group left the village to applause by the people. "It made us all feel like movie stars," he said. "I was especially impressed because I had just found out that they only applaud when they are deeply moved."

The Chinese were also happy that the foreigners' purchases would help to keep the artists of the village employed. "Peasant art is not in great demand in China, which made our business very desirable," said "But we're happy, foo, knowing that we are getting quality, hand done work. The Chinese government is particularly interested in encouraging employment for its huge population, explained Knorr. They, therefore, discourage labor-saving devices and are most receptive to busin men visiting their country instead of tourists. While there, Knorr had little chance to visit or any sightseeing, but visited several art museums where he saw Chinese antiques, mostly in the way of porcelain jars; embroideries and some new items in

Positivism stressed and miracle healing told by Miss America at luncheon

Entertaining a few fans before a luncheon at the Inn of the Golden West in Odessa is Cheryl Prewitt, the reigning Miss America. Ms. Prewitt travels some 30,000 miles a month, working seven days a week, as Miss America. She is best known for her testimony of the healing of her left leg which she says grew two inches in "five to 10 seconds." (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot) By SANDI BREEDEN Lifestyle Writer

ODESSA — Giving God the complete glory, Cheryl Prewitt, the reigning Miss America, told some 500 people during a luncheon at the Inn of the Golden West ballroom here her Christian testimony and how her injured leg was healed in "five to 10 seconds"

"When I was 11 years old, I was in a car accident" said the petite brunette, beginning her testimony. "The doctors told my parents I would not

"My left leg was crushed, and when I lived, the doctors said I would never walk. I was in a wheel chair and then crutches, so I had no one to turn to but Jesus," she said with green eyes shining.

"My right leg grew and my left one didn't, so by the time I was 17 my left leg was two inches shorter than the right," she said. "Of course at that same time in my life, my nose grew and the rest of my face didn't and I'm not sure it ever did," she added with a laugh

"I DID EVERYTHING to hide the fact about my leg. Instead of being a cheerleader and doing other things people do in junior high school and high school, I put everything into music," she said.

At the age of 17, however, things began to change for Ms. Prewitt, who is originally from Ackerman, Miss. When I was 17 I was told I would have problems because my hips were so out of line. So I began to talk to God and let His word talk to me. The scripture I kept saying over and over again was "For verily I say unto you, that whosoever shall say unto this mountain, be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith

"Therefore I say unto you, what things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Mark 11: 23,24.

"I made the word become my attitude," she said softly. "I decided accepting sickness is like signing for a box of rattlesnakes sent by Satan— I decided I wouldn't sign for them.

"So, I thanked God in advance (for the healing of the leg) and never said a negative word," she said. "He will not do it if we don't release positive thoughts through word of mouth," she added.

"IT GOT TO the point where I knew He had been ready all the time — then I got ready. And in five to 10 seconds, I watched my left leg grow out two inches," she said.

"God wants to do this," she stressed to the reverent audience.

stressed to the reverent audience.

The reigning Miss America stressed positivism throughout her testimony. "Negativism works and so will positivism," said Ms. Prewitt who was wearing two necklaces with cross pendents. "Give the Lord one week of your mouth;" she asked of the audience. "Listen to yourself and if you are negative, stop it. Don't let Satan in the door (through negativism)," she added.

Evidently inspired during her testimony, Ms. Prewitt sang a gospel song, which was not part of the luncheon program. The song had an obvious personal message for the woman who was not expected to live nor walk, in this line, "... what He has done for me just because I ask."

'Ms. Prewitt has had 14 years of piano training and nine years of voice training. She received her degree in 1979 from Mississippi State University in piano and voice also. At the end of the luncheon, Ms. Prewitt again surprised the audience by singing "Don't Cry Outloud," the song she sang during the talent part of the Miss America Pageant.

Ms. Prewitt, the last Miss America to be crowned by Bert Parks, former Miss America Pageant emcee, said she chose that particular song because, "During the entire pageant I was only in front of the judges for 12 minutes and I wanted to convey positivism to them so I tried by using that song"."

Somewhere in the back of my mind lingers the fear that in the wedding vows we exchanged over 25 years ago there was a clause that read: "Thou shalt sew on buttons."

spills, solvent-soluble dyes and the peeling of coated fabrics, reports the International Fabricare Institute (IFI).

IFI is the worldwide association of launderers, drycleaners and other professionals concerned with textiles and their care. Its garment analysis department, now headed by Norman Oehlke, chief analyst, has been tracking the behavior patterns of popular fabrics since 1966 to determine the causes of poor drycleaning performance and to assign blame to consumers, manufacturers or drycleaners.

Heading the list of consumer-caused damage was mineral acid and bleach damage, evident in 1,144 cases out of some 20,000 garments

The problem occurs when the consumer spills a strong concentration of bleach or a mineral acid (for instance, car battery acid) on a garment. "The strong chemical weakens the fabric," explained Oehlke. "These chemically damaged areas disintegrate during cleaning, causing holes to appear in the garment. And since the fabric weaknesses often are not apparent before drycleaning, the consumer may feel that the holes are the cleaner's fault. However, no chemicals used in the cleaning process can cause this type of damage." The IFI's garment analysis departments in Silver Spring and Glendale, Calif., examined 19,986 damaged garments and household fabrics last year. According to the figures compiled:

-7,595 were the result of consumer-related incidents.

We are engaged now, and nothing has changed. She still answers every question with "I don't care."

What is the matter with a girl like that?—A GUY, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

DEAR GUY: She sounds like a girl who can't say no, but whose mother told her never to say yes.

DEAR ABBY: My foreign-born daughter-in-law opened a business and borrowed money in order to bring some of her relatives here. I am entirely sympathetic to this, but what is making me sick with worry is the way my grandchildren are forced to live. They are beautiful and bright. Last summer they went with their mother to the business in the morning and came home with her at night. They did adult work at least eight hours a day. There wasn't time for play or friendships. Since school started, they work after school three or four hours every night and all weekend. These children are now 8 and 9 years old.

I share your concern, but it seems that your grandchildren are exempt from the child labor laws. Sorry.

Now I have discussed this with my doctor, and he says that as a man grows older his sex drive just naturally diminishes. But with people like you insisting that a man should be able to perform as well at 60 as he did when he was 25, it makes my husband feel inadequate.

Why not just admit that all men slow down, so they won't feel guilty when they do?—WIFE AND REAL-IST

DEAR REALIST: I have also discussed it with doctors, as well as with gerontologists, and the consensus is that a normal, healthy man can continue to be sexually active as long as he wants to—regardless of age. In other words, if you don't use it—you lose it.

Mary Ward: a first

EDITOR'S NOTE: How does a woman get to the top? There are many ways, but early planning is usually the key. Many women, however, earn job success after switching careers and some begin a profession after marriage. Most say support from family and husbands is important to success if they are married. The following is the first in a series on how Midland women are climbing the job ladder to success.

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

Traditionally, most landmen are just that—men. And to be put in charge of a division or office is a definite step up for anyone, much less a woman. But Mary Ward did just that.

She has headed the office as district landman at Belco Petroleum Corp. for some months now. "As far as we have been able to find out, this is the first time a woman has landed this position in Midland," she said.

Mrs. Ward has been with Belco since 1972. She started out as the land secretary when the department was formed.

She has lived in Midland nearly all of her life. After graduating from Midland High School as class salutatorian, she went to Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth where she earned a degree in business administration.

SHE DECIDED EARLY that the oil career was for her while being raised in the Yates Oilfield in Iraan.

"I knew then that oil was in my blood and that I wanted to get in the business," she said. She is enthusiastic about her ca-

"And I love working with people—

Mrs. Ward considers her promotion a stroke of luck, but it's obviously more than that.

men, but they just haven't been in the right place at the right time," she said.

She went from secretary to landman in 1975 and says she was one of the first women here to do the actual field work of a landman while a secretary. "I would go to the courthouse, find out who had mineral rights, the types of leases, etc."

A LOT OF LAND SECRETARIES in town don't actually do this field work, she claims. "Most are office personnel and do lease records, title work—that sort of thing. I think I was fortunate to be able to do this field work, but that's because I believe it's the most fun."

She explained that most companies hire lease brokers to do that type of work. "But all that hustling I did on my own saved the company lots of money."

She didn't mind the field work—in fact, loved it.

"I remember the first time I went out in the field in a new company car. I was so proud of it. I had to go way back in the country through a cow pasture. Those cows were very friendly that day, licking and slobberig all over my car. That brought me back down to ground level."

Her work as a landman took her all over the area, from city to country. "One day I may talk to a millionaire in town and the next day a storeowner who lives in the oilfield," she said.

She cherishes certain memories. "I remember those days like spending an afternoon in the country, sitting at a table, eating red beans, cornbread and pecan cake, playing a game of cards and waiting for this housewife's husband to come home so we could talk leasing business," she said.

HER FRIENDLINESS no doubt helps her in making the many necessary contacts in her job.

"I believe Belco realized a long time ago that a woman is really an asset in leasing," she said.

"I think that makes sense, really," she says. We can often communicate better. A big majority of mineral owners are women. Also, when I make a contact at the house, the woman is usually the one at home. Being a woman, I can visit with her. Mrs. Ward believes that Belco is a

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) - P.W.J. Wood says he is confident the world is not about to exhaust its natural supplies of oil and gas.

Marvin A. Gibson announces the opening of his office as geophysical consultant at 352 Mid-America Building in Midland.

He has 29 years experience in the geophysical field, the last 16 years with Texas Pacific Oil Co

The executive vice president of Cities Service Co. adds, however, he is convinced that solutions to problems of public policy must be resolved if the expected energy demands of the future are to be met.

Wood said the industry not only has the technical capability to locate and produce the resources but is successfully reducing the lead time needed to locate and evaluate petroleum depos-

'The ability of the industry, and the ability of American industry in particular, to find and produce oil and gas is continually improving through research and field experience," he

Wood used the seismograph as an example, saying it is still a most effective surface instrument for detailed mapping of underground struc-With the development of the so-called 'bright spot' analysis, moreover, we can sometimes use the seismograph to identify gas deposits before a well is even drilled," he said. 'Variations in the amplitude of our signal show up as brightly colored markings. This method has been successfully used to delineate gas fields in the Gulf of Mexico.' Improvements in data acquisition and computer technology, he added, have made three-dimensional seismic surveys economically viable. "And, thanks to routine use of computerized data handling systems, we have been able to greatly reduce the time needed for analysis of exploration data," he said. "Data on the land, geology or geophysics of an area can be digitized and combined to produce a large variety of computer-generated displays, including plots, maps, and cross sec-

Wood said the industry also is im proving its ability to operate in difficult and hostile environments.

have been drilled to date in the North American Arctic, mostlyi in Canadian waters. More than 20 drilling operations have also been carried out in what is called 'Iceberg Alley' in the Labrador Sea between Greenland and Canada.

The industry's ability, Wood said, to explore beneath the deeper ocean floors also has been improved dramatically in the past decade, adding that the real breakthrough in deepwater technology occurred in 1968 with drilling of an exploratory test in 303 meters of water off the west

"Last year, a test well was drilled off Newfoundland in 1500 meters of water, the greatest depth in which anyone has actually worked so far," Wood said. "But we presently have the technology to drill in 2400 meters of water, under a variety of severe ocean conditions.

And, he said, a cooperative government and industry program si being planned to allow drilling in water depths to 4000 meters in the 1980s.

The industry is gaining the technological ability to operate in the most remote and hostile environments with minimal risk to either people or the environment," he said. 'So we have the technology to locate and produce additional oil and gas, and the rsources we need are out there. So why do we have an energy problem? Why do we suffer the economic and political dangers of a chronic energy shortage. Because, as Aristotle advised us, politics is the master science.

In the United States, he said. a number of governmental policies severely affect industry's ability to maintain domestic production and deny industry the capital necessary for resource development. "Outside the United States, the situation is also discouraging," Wood

"In many countries, government policies of one sort or another have discouraged the investment of industry know-how and capital in exploration and production.

Confrontation may come Tuesday on imports fee

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's imposition of a fee on imported oil as a way to cut gas consumption could provoke his first battle with Congress over executive priv-

A confrontation could come as early as Tuesday, when Energy Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr. has been ordered to appear before the House Government Operations energy subcommittee and hand over all documents that led to Carter's decision last month to impose the fee.

The subpoena was issued by the subcommittee on a 9-0 vote Thurs-

Responding Thursday to an earlier subpoena, Duncan made some of the documents available. But he wrote that to turn over papers containing policy and legal advice from aides would deprive "the president and me of a robust exchange of ideas in derogation of the public interest."

Thomas C. Newkirk, deputy general counsel for the Energy Department, told the subcommittee that the position stated by Duncan in response to the earlier subpoena has not changed.

"If we had those documents," asked Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., "wouldn't they help Congress decide" whether to let the import fee stand?

"I don't think those documents will assist you one whit," replied New-

Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., asked how the decision was made on which documents to turn over to the committee and which to withhold. "The line was drawn between facts and advice," Newkirk said.

The doctrine of executive privilege holds that a president has a right to keep secret those conversations and communications between himself and his advisers. The doctrine was cited often during the Nixon administration but, according to Larry Hammond of the Justice Department, has never been invoked by Carter.

Carter announced last month that he was imposing a $4.62-per-barrel fee on all imported oil in an effort to cut consumption. At the same time, he said he wanted the full impact of the fee to be felt on gas prices, which would rise by 10 cents a gallon on or after May 15. The action is aimed at forcing gas conservation, which in turn would reduce the necessity of buying imported oil.

The president estimates the fee will save 100,000 barrels of oil per day over the next year and 200,000 barrels daily by 1982. The Congressional Budget Office has made somewhat lower pre-

The fee is unpopular in Congress, and already a move is under way to attack & by denying the Energy Department the power to administer the fee in a way that would insure its effect is limited to gasoline.

But Carter has already said he would veto any such legislation, putting opponents in the position of having to muster a two-thirds majority to

And even if the opponents could get a two-thirds vote in both houses to keep the fee from being applied directly to gas, the administration would have the option of leaving it in place and allowing the oil companies to allocate it to a range of products, such as home heating oil. Whatever the odds in the administration's favor, Duncan found out just how unpopular the fee is when he testified Thursday before the House Ways and Means trade subcommit-

Energy deal announced

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Texas International Co. announced the closing Friday of the $62.5 million sale of a majority of its energy equipment manufacturing division to Amcon Group Inc., a subsidiary of Consolidated Gold Fields Ltd., London.

TI officials have reported the proceeds from this sale are being used to reduce the company's debt. The subsidiaries sold were Skytop Brewster, which manufactures drilling and well servicing rigs; King Oil Tools Inc., Mechanical Seal and Service Inc. and Summary Forty-Two Ltd.

The Oklahoma City-based oil and gas company commenced a program to divest substantially all of its non-oil and gas related assets in December 1978, and since that date has divested assets with sales proceeds aggregating about $188 million.

TI senior vice president Walter Bankston, who is also president of Skytop Brewster, will remain president of Skytop under Amcon's ownership and thus resigned as an officer of TI. However, he will remain a member of TI's board of directors.

TI also announced that its board has elected Robert C. Gist president and chief operating officer. As president Gist succeeds George Platt. Gist has been with TI for the past nine years and since 1975 has been

C.C. Ingram blamed the dire predictions on competing industries and uneducated government officials who since have changed their tune. Sales last year rose 6.1 percent nationwide - and more than 13 percent in industry, he said, adding natural gas was a major factor in reduced foreign oil imports. "I think there's an entirely different belief now and a more optimistic belief by the officials in Washington," said Ingram, in Dallas for the South-

The industry's newest, most up-to-date full-service tubular complex isn't green. And it isn't orange.

It's C-E Vetco Services red. And it's right here in Odessa.

When C-E Vetco Services became a member of the Combustion Engineering family, we made a commitment to provide the best services in the world for oil country tubular goods. As part of honoring that commitment in the Permian Basin, we're building a $7-million expansion

We've acquired the brand new facilities of Royal Tubular Services, Inc., and right next door we're building a 27,000-square foot coating plant. When construction is completed in November, the 50-acre complex will be the most up-to-date facility in the country providing full service of tubular goods - reclamation, inspection, classification and coating.

Of course, our commitment in Odessa is just part of our larger commitment: To do everything we can to continue to help drilling contractors, producers and operators extend the life of their tubular products. All of our sales, technical and support people are committed to that goal. In the Permian Basin. And throughout the world.

When you think tubular inspection and coating, we want you to see red. C-E Vetco Services red.

"In current dollars, the level of after-tax earnings was at a new record, the gain over the previous year was unusually large. ... Yet this was more a tribute to the strength of inflation than to the growth and earning power of the American economy," said the Citibank report.

One reason is that rapidly rising inflation, such as occurred last year and early this year, tends to distort profits in a variety of ways.

One is to produce temporary increases in inventory profits. That may happen when higher production costs lead to higher prices for the products and a company applies that higher price to inventories it already had accumulated at a lower cost. That produces a temporary profit, until the inventory has been replaced by the higher-cost goods. But the Citibank report also notes that while manufacturing profits were up 27 percent, "appearances are deceiving. Nearly two-thirds of the $17 billion increase in manufacturing profits came from just one industry petroleum producing and refining."

Labor believes conditions favor union organization

By BILL KIDD

Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Organized labor in Texas sees current economic conditions as encouraging unionization, but also feels those conditions are offsetting any gains.

Midland County Extension Agent — Agriculture

The events of the week, as far as agriculturists are concerned, were the showers that fell over much of Midland County at midweek. Most areas reported amounts in the half-inch range. The windy conditions following negated some of the benefits, but hopefully, more moisture will come to boost pasture and crop prospects.

THE LONG RUN of curly top virus as the most serious of all the tomato diseases in the Western United States may be finally coming to a close. Complete resistance to the disease has been found in wild tomato species, and the transfer of this resistance to domestic varieties is well under way.

Curly top virus is spread to tomatoes by a tiny leafhopper and is serious in the Midland area. Last year I lost about one-half of the tomato plants in my own garden to curly top. Once plants become infected with the virus there is no treatment, and death results. Plants infected with te virus appear healthy one day in a matter of days cease growth, turn pale with leaves that curl upward with blue or purple

For 50 years breeders have been trying to produce curly top-resistant tomatoes, but progress has been slow. A partial type resistance painstakingly incorporated into a few domestic cultivars permits toma-to production where it was previously impossible. However, the resistance is too complex to be incorporated into other varieties and sill succumb under severe disease exposure.

SEARCHING FOR BETTER and less genetically complex resistances, SEA plant pathologist Peter E. Thomas, Prosser, Wash., tested thousands of wild tomato plants from South America. He found a few plants which, although infected with the virus, remained totally unaffected by the disease.

Initially this achievement seemed a dead end. These wild tomatoes are not really true tomatoes but are related to domestic tomatoes like donkeys are related to horses. Obtaining a fertile offspring from a cross between a wild tomato species and a domestic species is like trying to get a reproductive mule.

Over a three-year period, Thomas made thousands of attempts to cross the resistant wild tomatoes with leading domestic cultivars. Finally, a single cross with a Bonnie Best produced 16 fertile seed plants. The reason for this unique success among so many failures is still not fully understood.

Next, Thomas intercrossed these hybrid plants, and on the third generation of hybrids he found a few plants with the complete resistance to curly top of the wild parent. Almost as important, the resistance is one of simple inheritance and will be easily transferred to other varieties. Work is now under way to fully incorporate the curly top resistance into domestic tomato germplasm. Once this is achieved, tomato breeders can then readily place the resistance into the various tomato types desired by growers and consumers.

I HAVE OBTAINED SEED of four lines of curly top-resistant tomatoes developed at Prosser. They were received too late last summer to make a good evaluation, but I did get some transplanted in late June 1979 and at least one of them appears to have some potential. By the time they were set out last year, curly top had eased up, so no true check on disease resistance was achieved.

These lines are named Roza, Rowpac, Saladmaster and Columbia. The Roza and Columbia are medium sized, averaging about three per pound, while the Rowpac and Saladmaster are smaller fruited. I had about 400 seed of each type which a local nurseryman has plated so there should be enough plants to give a better test and evaluation this season. If everything goes as planned there should be some limited number of plants that we can share with gardeners who have a curly top problem and who would be willing to keep data and report back to us. If you are interested in making a trial planting, contact me at the County Extension Of-

ROOT KNOT NEMATODES are a problem on sandy soils in Midland County utilized for the production of irrigated cotton. It is estimated that 20 percent of the irrigated cotton is planted on nematode-infested soil. Demonstrations conducted on such sites the past two years using aldicarb (Temik) granules in the furrow at planting time have given increased yield and profit, This past year, aldicarb at the rate of 1.5 pounds per acre increased yields 134 and 104 pounds lint per acre. The incresed profit per acre was $61.07 and $45.07 respectively.

What to do now?

If the almost unbelievable string of events which led to cancellation of the U.S. effort to rescue American hostages in Tehran could be undone, then armchair guarterbacking at this point might be in order. But it can't and, consequently, little good will be accomplished by picking the commando attempt to pieces.

Even so, at this early point several facts seem obvious.

On the positive side, President Carter finally, although belatedly, has shown strength and resolve. and the United States has indicated to Iran, the Soviet Union and the rest of the world community that American patience, exhibited to the fullest, has now worn thin and that even a president committed to peace at almost any price has his limits.

Negatively, one cannot but question why broader backup measures were not included in the plan and whether the decision to abort the mission was justified on the basis of one helicopter too few. considering that failure of the original mission could only lessen future chances of success, a fact surely known at the time.

But even those observations must be balanced by the fact that (1) any commando operation, by its very nature, has only the slimmest chances for success and (2) all aspects of the plan cannot and probably will not be made public for obvious reasons, those including the possible use of unconventional means once U.S. troops were in the compound and the probability of assistance from non-Americans in Tehran.

What is important is that great courage has been shown by President Carter and certainly by those who participated in, and for eight men, gave their lives in the effort. All deserve America's respect. If there ever was a time when a subject should not become the object of political and partisan debate, this is one.

As former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger pointed out, failure of the mission makes it even more crucial that American intentions now be marshalled and that we follow through with a firm resolve to free the hostages.

It is now time to set a deadline a firm one and an early one - for freeing the hostages. And with that a decision to follow through with force if the deadline is not

Such a decision likely will be the most difficult one since the Russian missiles-to-Cuba episode but it is one that must be made.

But now it probably is obvious to most Americans that, like it or not, there is more at stake for this country and its future than the lives of 50 hostages in Iran. The recognition of that is painful but is a fact of life from which we cannot

Poerner and Nugent

When Texas voters go to the polls Saturday, they'll be selecting two Railroad Commission nominees for the November general election along with others on state, district and local levels.

After carefully reviewing the qualifications of candidates for the two positions, talking with several of them personally and meeting with local oil industry leaders, The Reporter-Telegram recommends that voters cast their ballots for the two Democratic incumbents seeking re-nomination to the commission, John H. Poerner and James E. "Jim" Nugent.

Poerner, who is facing opposition from former legislator Buddy Temple, was appointed to the commission about three years ago and won election to an unexpired term in 1978, defeating Jerry Sadler.

Poerner, a former state legislator, has experience now and, from all indications, is a competent and qualified commissioner. Most of those who know him describe Poerner as honest and hardwork-

In the race for the Democratic nomination to the two-year unexpired term on the commission, Nugent is drawing good reviews from knowledgeable sources.

He was appointed to the commission a year ago and, according to some is now the strongest and most able member of the com-

Prior to his appointment, Nugent served in the state legislature 18 years where he gained the respect of colleagues from both parties.

Both Poerner and Nugent will face opposition from Republican candidates in November. Three Republicans - Hank Grover, John Thomas Henderson and E.W. "Billy" Kidd - are vying for the nomination to the full term being sought by Poerner and Many Texans will remember Hank Grover for his 1972 gubernatorial race against Dolph Briscoe. Unfortunately, we lack sufficient information about the qualifications of any of the three as they would pertain to the Railroad Commission and therefore make no recommendation.

Checking the post marks reveals Post Office plot

WASHINGTON - As a child of the Sixties I am willing to buy any conspiracy theory about our government. The latest one going around has to do with how the Post Office is handling the mail, now that it is facing its ,987th financial crunch.

The theory is being pushed by Herman Talcott, whose book, "Today's Post Office Could Never Find Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," has been on the best-seller list for months.

Talcott told me, "Have you ever wondered why you can get a catalogue from Hammacher & Schlemmer the day after it's posted, but it takes two weeks to receive a check mailed to you from the same city?" I admitted I had.

"Well," he told me: "the Post Office has installed new computers that sort out the junk mail from the letters you are really waiting for. The junk mail gets first priority and first-class mail goes out only when there is space available in the mail pouch. "I can't believe it," I said.

"It's true," he said. "Friday I got a catalogue from Neiman Marcus in Dallas, Texas, which was mailed on Thursday and a letter from my Aunt in Bethesda which said, 'Grandpa died this morning. His last wish was to be buried in Arlington Cemetery. LOUGRANT if he could arrange it?' Could you ask President Eisenhower

That's strong evidence to back your theory," I admitted. "But I need more than that to make me believe the Post Office is not doing a good

"All right," Talcott said. He took out two envelopes. "I got both of these on the same day." One was from Gun and Rod Magazine offering a 50 percent discount if I subscribed by April 30, 1980. The other was a 'Dear John' letter from a college coed I was going to marry after the Korean war was

"Do you need further proof?" Talcott said. "My American Express bill arrived at the house the same day it was sent out. A letter from my agent asking me if I was interested in writing the screen version of 'Casablanca' came in two days later.

"How does the computer distinguish between mail you don't want to get and mail you're waiting for?

'It has a scanner which reads the addresses. All mail addressed to 'Resident' gets sorted first. Then any letters that have a cellaphane window are neatly placed in the same pile. Those that say 'IF YOU OPEN THIS ENVELOPE NOW YOU COULD WIN A MILLION DOLLARS' get special handling. Then the scanner picks out all the electric, gas and oil bills to make sure they're delivered on

"Even if they did," Talcott said, 'they have a fail-safe system to make sure your first-class letters don't arrive before your bills and junk

"I'm certain of it. The Post Office has developed a new conveyer belt to through the system. Any hand-addressed envelope with a 15-cent stamp will automatically self-destruct once it hits the belt.

Is this turkey some fowl omen, and, sensing that perhaps next Thanksgiving could be their last in the White House, the Carters are squeezing in an extra one?

At least the turkey had the decency to wait until now before turning the White House grounds into barnyard instead of during the first days of the Administration when disrespectful cartoonists were irreverently portraying the Executive Mansion as a rural filling station in Georgia.

Just so much gobbledygook, you say? Maybe so -. but better a turkey walking around the White House grounds than as buzzard hovering overhead.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Despite finesse, Mafia men still hoods

WASHINGTON - In the best American bootstrap tradition, the Mafia in recent years has been trying to rise above its seamy past and achieve an image of respectability. Its factotums are infiltrating legitimate businesses, settling in swanky suburbs, sending the kids to the best prep schools and colleges.

But behind the facade of social gentility, the Mob still depends on the strong-arm tactics that have characterized its operations since the days of Al Capone. The basis for every Godfather's elegant estate in Grosse Pointe or Westchester County is still vio-

As grim reminders of this inescapable feature of Mafia depredations, two underworld bosses have been exuted recently in gangland style They were Angelo Bruno in Philadelphia and Carmine Galante in New Concerned by this latest outbreak of Mob violence, the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations will begin public hearings on the subject this week. The subcommittee staff has been quietly gathering material for months.

My own investigation of Mob violence has turned up some fascinating examples of the problem that the subcommittee will be examining at its hearings. They illustrate the fact that mobsters of today are not too far removed from the stereotypes portrayed in the Hollywood epics of the Sample the following conversation between the reputed crime boss of Kansas City, Mo., Nick Civella, and his brother Carl. No movie script, it was taped in late 1978 by the FBI, and the subject was how best to rub out a troublesome rival named Carl Spero.

Carl Civella suggested they heed the apparently homicidal instincts of William "Willy the Rat" Cammisano, saying: "I agree with Willy. I been discussing it. What Willy says, we take the limbs first, before you 'cause you can't get to the trunk. And you isolate the trunk by itself."

In this metaphorical dismember ment, Spero was the trunk, and his bodyguards were the limbs. Carl Civella then suggests a method of assassination that brother Nick finds impractical.

Jack Anderson

I'm just scared anymore of dealing on impulse, ah, out of my heart,' confesses Nick. "I want to start dealing with my head. We just got to use our heads a little.

"Using our heads," it transpires, means not using "peckerwoods" (the Mafia term for non-Italians) to eliminate Spero. Nor did Nick like the idea of nailing the victim at his home

'That house is exposed for a mile.' Nick observes, adding: "He'd be moving. He's a moving target ... just a 1-in-50 shot. Suppose he misses-the "What's wrong with a motel?" asks brother Carl. "He's too cautious," replies Nick. 'He's afraid he might get tailed and he could get trapped. Then Nick, who is obviously the brains of the organization, runs an idea up the flagpole, like any business executive. "You know what we need," he tells his brother. "We need disguises, for one thing. We need wigs and we need a mustache ... and a Every suggested method for wiping out Spero has some snag or other, but Nick Civella ends the conversation on a gung-ho note of pride worthy of any organization man. "Let me tell you something," he says to his brother. We got the best (expletive) bloodhounds in the United States and al-

This all might be laughed off as the amusing antics of a couple of comicstrip cretins - except for the fact that t was real blood, not movieland ketchup, they were thinking of shedding. Whether Civella's superlative blood hounds ever tracked Spero down is not known, but it's a fact that he was wounded in an assassination attempt two years ago.

Spero was no helpless clay pigeon. according to federal agents. He plotted against the Civella mob with equal enthusiasm. In May 1979, Gmen found a remote-control bomb they said was "believed to have been designed to kill Carl 'Tuffy' Deluna, a high-ranking member of the Civella mob." The feds figured Spero's brother, Joseph, was behind this attempted And there was nothing farcical about the execution of David Bonadonna, a member of Willy "The Rat" Cammisano's branch of the Civella operation. The unfortunate Bonadonna was riddled with bullets and stuffed into the trunk of his car in July As federal investigators pieced it together, Cammisano had tried to get Bonadonna's son, who was not a Mob nember, to help with a liquor license in Kansas City's River Quay redevelopment project. The younger Bonadonna refused, and his father eventually paid the price. Cammisano is now in prison; the younger Bonadonna is enrolled in the Federal Witness Protection Program. How many Mob-related killings have occurred in recent years? An internal report by the Justice Department's Intelligence and Special Services unit puts the total at 208 mobsters and hangers-on during a sevenyear period. "But that's not even half of them," one insider told my associate Tony Capaccio.

Third-party candidacy will almost certainly doom John Anderson WASHINGTON - A third-party candidacy by John Anderson means that the Democratic and Republican nominees will be thrown off stride, and that we wretches in the press will have more to write about this lively political year. Beyond that, it means that John Bayard Anderson, the intelligent man with black-rimmed glasses and a shock of white hair, will, after his certain defeat, fade like all thirdparty candidates in our time before Third-party candidates usually provide legitimate dissent by expressing a viewpoint that neither major party will tolerate. Thus Henry A. Wallace vehemently disagreed with the foreign policy positions of the Democratic and Republican parties in 1948, and in 1968 George C. Wallace vehemently disagreed with the approaches of the major parties to crime, school integration and other social issues. Norman Thomas, a great and honorable socialist, objected to the major parties for a generation as a third-party dent Eisenhower. George Wallace's blue-collar populism had considerable impact on the Democratic Party. As for Norman Thomas, well, today we revere him for his courage and

But where would John B. Anderson differ in a substantial way from the major parties? What issue has he raised that the Democrats and Republicans refuse to face? So far, Anderson has carped plenty about his opponents not taking tough stands on energy, foreign policy and the need to make "real sacrifices."

For all his rhetoric, however, An derson hasn't offered many alternatives, save the 50-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax, establishing another international agency to counter OPEC, and tying federal spending to the GNP.

The gas tax and anti-OPEC proposals only create more government and will never see daylight. His idea on federal spending is hardly heresy So I suspect there would be more barking dog than authentic dissenter on issues in an Anderson third-party candidacy. He had an honest chance in the Republican primaries and failed. Anderson didn't win even one of the dozen or so state contests he was in. His second-place finish in his home state Illinois is noteworthy. It was easier for him to finish second in Massachusetts.

Anderson is too timid to become a Democrat. Besides, it serves his third-party ambitions to straddle both parties as he has, getting enormous attention from the press in the process. Indeed, Anderson obviously understands media power and how to exploit it. He was scheduled to be on Time's cover, and the big audience TV programs have hardly avoided

In presidential campaign autumns, most voters usually turn away from third-party candidates and return to their "home" party candidate. Once, it was estimated Henry A. Wallace would get 10 million votes and thus destroy Truman. Wallace got 1.1 million, fewer than Dixiecrat J. Strom Thurmond. George Wallace was quite high in the early Democratic polls. But he faded after Hubert Humphrey was nominated and wound up with 14 percent of the vote Third-party candidates, in desperation, often become shrill and thus only hold True Believers. Anderson has already demonstrated he can be shrill. His denunciation of anti-abortion groups was in language reserved for tyrants and totalitarians. His characterization of politicians as those who "believe presidential candidates are selected by fools, by citizens who believe in lies ... and soft soap," is a cheap shot at the calling he followed for 20 years.

In the upcoming issue of Playboy, Anderson talks of his "compassionate instincts," of being "an old-fashioned patriot" with "humility," and then dumps big on Reagan, Bush, Baker and Gerald Ford.

Anderson declared he would "be more comfortable" with Kennedy as President than Reagan, who he says exemplifies the stereotype of the Republican catering to the rich and well-born. George Bush, by Anderson's most charitable estimate, is a merchandised, packaged candidate. running on his resume, and a "smug" man "with no vision of the future." Poor Howard Baker, Anderson laments, "shies from confrontation" and couldn't face tough issues. Gerald Ford, he proclaims, doesn't have the imagination to face new problems and would only continue "the old alliance between Big Business and the Republican Party. So there, John B. Anderson is the good guy, and the rest a lame, even conniving bunch. For good measure, Anderson says he is perhaps "trying to atone for my past" in voting for Goldwater in 1964. He pointedly remarks that he did not vote for Richard M. Nixon in 1972, having judged him as "morally unfit to continue in that office."

My, oh my, such holiness. There's too much holiness in this town already, from Chuck Colson to Jeb Magruder to Jimmy Carter. It's enough to make a person long for the smokefilled room, the cigar butts and beer

I have a neighbor who dislikes small dogs so much, particularly loud, terriers, that he unkindly calls them "barking rats." Egads, I hope that a third-party candidate named John B. Anderson never takes on the proportions of a noisy terrier.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

New State Pension Review Board oversees spending of millions annually

AUSTIN - Without much fanfare, a new, small but potentially influential state agency has begun its work which involves overseeing the spending of hundreds of millions of dollars annually

Thus far, the State Pension Review Board has held only three meetings including one to organize - and has a fourth set for Monday (April 28).

But it has hired an executive director, Rita Horwitz, and it is moving forward with its charge to review state and local retirement pension plans, to determine how sound they are, and to recommend changes if they're not sound.

Horwitz, former administrative assistant to Houston Rep. Bill Blythe, says the board will concentrate its efforts on "the big cities," such as Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, where retirement programs may be having difficulties

Part of those efforts involve gathering information and data to prepare recommendations for the 1981 Legislature, she says, adding that it's "too early to comment" on what recommendations might be made.

Part of that, obviously, will depend upon what problems may be found at the local levels.

Officials with the state retirement systems report that, apart from the worries over inflation which affect everyone, their systems are in good shape. Horwitz agrees.

"But there are some large local systems that aren't in as good shape," she adds.

'We want to make sure, they have adequate benefits, are actuarially sound...and everyone is getting their money's worth.

Some actuarial consultants are expected to be hired to evaluate plans in use, perhaps before June (although specific plans to be examined are yet to be determined.)

Soundness of the plans is the board's primary concern at the moment, Horwitz says: "When you're using public money, you've got to have a sound system.

Other major public systems include the Texas County and District Retirement System, with workers paying four to seven percent (depending upon the county or district involved), with local matching. That system was set up in 1967. •

The heads of those systems all report their systems are "actuarially sound," and should have no problems in meeting payments - although inflation is a worrisome problem.

However, state and local funds could be pinched by demands for increases to meet cost of living changes, and by increased benefit demands, officials say.

Pensions and retirements have been sources of controversy and concern in past legislative sessions - in 1979 there were 72 bills introduced dealing with various aspects of public retirement systems, with an estimated total cost of $300 million.

Undoubtedly, 1981 will see additional proposals for retirement systems - and hopefully the State Pension Review Board will be able to make some recommendations on ways of improving existing systems.

Texas isn't alone in taking a closer look at public retirement systems; the review board has been asked to give an overview of the Texas situation in June at a meeting of the President's Committee on Pension Policies when that panel meets in

I am asking others to join in proposing the birthday of Benjamin Franklin be designated a national observance. A look at the record shows that the war for independence could not have been won without the unwavering loyalty, the love of his country and the patient diplomacy of Dr. Frank-

At age 72 he was appointed U.S. Commissioner to France and set out to seek military support. Had it not been for the diplomacy of Franklin in obtaining the Treaty of Alliance with France which sent soldiers, 'ships, material and money the Colonial Army could not have been victori-

Franklin remained at his vital post in France acting as naval director, banker, merchant, Prisoner of War intermediary, and became a spokesman and negotiator for the United States in the Treaty of Peace with Britain.

Unstoppable in his determination to serve his country and despite suffering the excruciating pain of gout, gall stones and the infirmities of old age he returned to America to be the behind-the-scenes influence which reconciled the violently differing opinions during the sweltering 16 weeks of hostile debate behind closed doors in Philadelphia. His occupation at age 81 was "public servant" as he signed the Constitution of the United States.

If ever an individual had it figured out in his own mind what life on earth was all about it certainly was Benjamin Franklin. He, otherwise, could not have accomplished all the good works he did for mankind, of which all Americans are beneficiaries.

The good Doctor observing that "time is money" would no doubt frown on the entire nation taking a day off to commemorate his birthday. So, it is proposed that just a quarter hour be taken annually on January 17 for individual reflection on his good works, his undying devotion to America, and particularly to ask of one's self, as Franklin did every morning upon arising, "What good shall I do this day?"

Milk prices

To The Editor:

It has been suggested that controls be imposed on milk prices, to implement these controls, the government would, of course, have to set up a council. The council would in all probability establish the following price control rules:

(1) Old Milk - any milk produced from a cow born on or before January . 1973. The milk can be sold at the May 1973 price adjusted for infla-

(2) New Milk - any milk produced from a cow born on or after January 1, 1973. This milk can sell for the September 1975 price adjusted for

(3) Stripper Milk - any milk produced from a cow that makes less than 10 pints a day or alternately any milk produced by a group of cows that graze at a density of less than 10 per acre. This milk can sell at the 1979 uncontrolled price.

(4) New Milk - any milk produced by a cow born after May 31, 1979, that grazes 21/2 miles from another cow or in a ravine a thousand feet deeper that the nearest cow. This milk can sell at the June 1, 1979 uncontrolled price adjusted for inflation.

Two years after the implementation of the above price control rules, a study of all milk producers shall be conducted (cost to government not to exceed 740 million) to determine if milk producers are showing profits in excess of 3 percent. If 10 percent or more are exceeding the 3 percent maximum, a windfall profit tax shall be imposed immediately to grab 60 percent of the gross income or 30 percent if the herd is comprised of 49... head or less. The proceeds of this tax shall be dispursed where ever it will buy the most votes for the incumbent politicians.

To The Editor: The GOP Primary is 'OPEN TO

ALL.' You don't have to be a life-long Republican to vote in the May 3 Republican Primary. Voters who have always voted Democrat in the past, and who intend to vote for some Democrats in November, are nevertheless eligible to cast a ballown the Republican Primary.

There are several good reasons for doing so, including the fact that the Republican Primary offers the voter an opportunity to influence the choice of the presidential nominee. The Republican presidential preference primary will be binding - the delegates to the Republican National Convention will be chosen based on the votes received by the candidates in the

The Republican Primary will also give the voters of Midland County an opportunity to express their opinion als, the use of wiretapping to help stop massive distribution of illegal drugs in our state and the question of Texans having the use of Initiative and Referendum, a method by which the voters of the state could make laws in the general elections.

In Texas, registration only means that you may vote, NOT that you are affiliated to ANY political party. Past party activity or future voting plans have no bearing on a voter's choice of primary in the 1980 elections. Even a voter who signed a nominating petition for a Democrat can vote in the Republican Primary. According to Secretary of State George Strake, any election official who tries to prevent a voter from casting a ballot in the primary of his choice would risk committing a federal offense.

To The Editor:

I am appalled and disgusted each time I open the newspaper and read another letter in the continuing controversy surrounding our medical community. These letters doubtlesss have a negative affect on the decisions of any badly needed new physic-

I for one would like to give them my vote of confidence. I think we should quit airing our grievances in the newspaper and recognize and be grateful for what we have.

My husband and I made a choice in recent years to stay in Midland rather than go elsewhere for medical care. We could not have received better care anywhere than we received here at Midland Memorial Hospital. I say this with pride in our hospital, our physicians, and our whole medical community.

POSITIVE THINKING

Readers' letters stirring, instructive

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE Some weeks ago in this column I said I would be pleased to hear from readers who would like to share experiences of answered prayer. A large number of men and women have responded to that invitation and I have found their letters both stirring and instructive. The experiences related are of great variety. A few of them I propose to publish here for the benefit of other readers. I begin with the story of a woman in South Carolina. She had a really hard time of it, but God saw her through.

"Over 20 years ago," this lady writes, "my husband ran off with a 16-year-old girl, leaving me with four children and expecting another one in five more months

"But then one day I remembered the Lord of His word in Matthew begin with right attitudes. Accepting without bitterness whatever God ordains for us - that would be part of Non-resentment toward persons who have hurt us would surely be another part. And another - the will to be undismayed when things look black, trusting in God's providence.

"I prayed about this on Tuesday." the lady's letter continues, "and I knew God heard my prayer." She then assumed that God would somehow cause her husband to give her more than the usual $17 the following Saturday. But her prayer was answered in a different and speedier

"That very evening a man came to my home saying that if I would agree to sell the lot my husband had paid a few dollars on, I could have half the money. I agreed and got just enough money to buy two pillows, have my washing machine fixed and have the electricity turned on. God answered that prayer even before I expected

ATASCADERO, Calif. (AP) - In rolling hills near ty-supervised outpatient care. the California coast, Atascadero State Hospital lies at a midpoint - 215 miles north of Los Angeles and 215 miles south of San Francisco.

But it is the end of the line for some 430 men, their last chance to show society they can control impulses to rape and molest. The 430, nearly half of Atascadero's patients, have been labeled mentally disordered sex offenders - or MDSOs - by California

Atascadero's MDSO treatment plan includes a sex orientation project called Program IX, which aims to transform patients into men who can be trusted

The treatment method is "to manipulate them to look at themselves and their past behavior, and work on changing their attitudes," said Judy Gaca, the project training coordinator. Patients attend counseling sessions and watch sex therapy films that stress sharing and concern for others.

Patients who convince hospital personnel and the courts they have profited from the program get out faster than they would if they had they done their time in prison.

A nearly complete federally financed study conducted at Atascadero shows that the facility's patients - traced for five years after release apparently had lower rates of recidivism than those usually associated with sex crimes.

But recently, the effectiveness of Atascadero's program has been questioned by legislators, prosecutors and others because of crimes committed by Atascadero "graduates," who used their freedom to molest or rape again. Among them:

- Theodore Frank, who admitted to Atascadero personnel he had molested 100 to 150 children, was convicted in December of killing a 21/2-year-old girl six weeks after his 1978 release.

- Warren Clewell was sentenced to 20 years for the rape and savage beating of a 13-year-old girl committed two months after his release from

- Robert MacFarland, convicted on felony lewd and lascivious conduct charges in Fresno and San Diego, was convicted again in 1977 for murdering a 6-year-old San Diego boy a short time after release from Atascadero.

- Richard Thomas, who served five years in state custody for rape, including a period of treatment at Atascadero, was convicted for the slaying of a 14-year-old San Diego girl six months after his

On Jan. 1, two weeks after Frank's conviction, new California laws designed to be tougher on molesters went into effect.

The biggest change gives judges the option to extend prison terms by up to 10 years for molesters on their second offense, by 20 years for third-time

The Legislature also approved stiffer sentences for particularly brutal sex crimes and made it easier for courts to extend hospital treatment of sex offend-

California's MDSO laws were written in the 1930s and amended in the '40s and '60s. Legislators and prosecutors wanted to keep MDSOs away from society by hospitalizing them until they were "cured," usually a period longer than what they would spend in prison.

At that time, sex offenders, and almost all other criminals, could be imprisoned for indeterminate, open-ended sentences. For convicts sent to mental hospitals; the length of sentence depended on doc-

Then, in 1975 and 1976, two state Supreme Court rulings said prisoners could not be held longer in hospitals than other sex offenders are held in

One ruling was based on the case of a man who sent 19 years in Atascadero and other state facili-ties; investigators found his only offense had been to stroke the hair of two 8-year-old girls. The Legislature followed this lead and as of Jan. 1, 1977, provided specific sentences for particular crimes. This also provided specific release times for

Since then, convicted molesters and rapists imprisoned for terms of three or five years have been released in an average of 32 months. By comparison, the average time at Atascadero for MDSOs released with "favorable" reports in 1979 was 25

This result is the opposite of what was originally intended in the MDSO laws. The sex offenders being released from hospital include some still considered dangerous, but because of current law and recent court decisions they cannot be held any longer.

This month, for example, the state Supreme Court let stand a lower court ruling that said only people whose mental conditions are treatable may be kept beyond the terms of their original sentences.

Lyricist Lerner said eyeing 'Fair Lady' No. 8

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Jay Lerner, the lyricist of "My Fair Lady," "Camelot," and "Gigi" fame, is being sued for divorce by his seventh fair lady.

And reports from London say the 25-year-old leading lady in a revival of "My Fair Lady" may be auditioning for the part of Mrs. Lerner No. 8.

Nina Bushkin is suing the 61-year-old Lerner for divorce, the New York Post reported last week.

'I loved him when I married him three years ago " said the 29-year-old daughter of jazz pianist Joey Bushkin. But she says the age difference was a problem.

"I didn't notice it at all when we were alone together. Alan is very young at heart. But when we were with friends it became very obvious - some of his friends are 80 years old.'

In London, Lerner said he was "very happy" with Liz Robertson, who is Eliza in the revival. "Liz is a wonderful girl, and I'm lucky to have her."

DEAR HELOISE

Here is a hint for all us gals and guys who have trouble getting the family car in an almost too short garage, or one where you have to avoid bumping bicycles, lawn mower, etc., etc. The car has to be positioned just right so that the garage door can be closed.

My son in law placed his car in exactly the right place. Then he fied a ping pong ball (large cork, etc., would do) on the end of a string, and suspended it from the ceiling or garage roof so that the ball touches the windshield directly in front of the driver's face.

All our daughter has to do is buzz in until the ball hits the

RACK 'EM UP DEAR HELOISE

For those who need an extra towel rack in the kitchen use two magnetic hooks and a round curtain rod of the smallest size. Place on the side of the refrigerator

I've used my 'spare' rack for 15 years.

PATCH WORK DEAR HELOISE:

The telephone company replaced my wall telephone. The new one is smaller than the old one, which left holes in the wall that I couldn't patch with putty.

So, after repainting the wall, I used colorful bathtub ap pliques to cover the holes and put some on the other side of the phone to make a balanced pattern.

It looks very pretty.
