Embassy guard in Iran wounded

By The Associated Press

Militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran said a revolutionary guard was wounded overnight in an attack on the embassy by "U.S. agents," and counter revolutionary elements placed several bombs in parts of Tehran today during International Labor Day observances, Tehran Radio said

All the bombs were defused, according to the radio

Another broadcast said more of the American hostages had been transferred out of Tehran, this time to southern Iran, as part of the militants' continuing effort to foil another U.S. rescue attempt.

Some 40,000 Iranians gathered outside the embassy for a May Day rally. The Islamic Council of Workers said in a statement to the rally that it condemned the recent U.S. commando effort to rescue the hostages and urged workers everywhere, especially in the United States, to resist what it called the "crazy acts" of President Carter

One broadcast said pro-American elements carried out an "armed attack" on the embassy, but the nature of the attack was not disclosed. In the past two weeks, the militants have reported several incidents of gunmen in cars shooting at the embassy.

Tehran Radio said some of the 53 hostages, who began their 180th day in captivity today, were transferred to Shiraz, 400 miles south of Tenran, while others were moved to Jahrom, 100 miles southeast of Shiraz.

Other hostages were reported transferred earlier this week to Tabriz, 330 miles northwest of Tehran, Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran, Isfahan, 210 miles south of Tehran, Yazd, 160 miles southeast of Isfahan, and Nasjafabad, 50 miles west of Isfahan

The bodies of the eight were to be shipped this week to Zurich, Switzerland, and handed over to the International Red Cross for return to the commandos' families in the United States, and Red Cross for return to the commandos' families in the United States, and Red Cross for orders.

Hilarion Capudji, the Greek Catholic archbishop who backs the Palestinians and Iran's revolutionary regime, was to accompany the bodies. He and the papal representative in Iran, Monsignor Annibale Bugnini, said prayers and sprinkled holy water over the bodies at a Tehran morgue

But even as they made preparations to ship the bodies, Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, secretary of the ruling Revolutionary Council and Iran's justice minister, said the issue of what to do with the bodies must be decided by the council or Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary leader tionary leader.

He did not elaborate but said Iran did not want money for the bodies. A Tehran newspaper backed by Behesthi's political party wants the bodies held until Carter releases the $8 billion in Iranian assets he froze in November in retaliation for the hosters recipied.

tage seizure.

In New Delhi, India, scores of Iranian militant students squatted outside the American Center to protest the aborted hostage rescue mission. A spokesman for the demonstrators said some planned to go on a 48-hour hunger strike.

Carter's European allies have pledged to end exports to Iran May 17 unless there is "decisive progress" toward freeing the hostages and reduced their diplomatic staffs in Tehran in the interim Japan sided with the Common Market governments today by ordering home three of its 16 diplomats in Tehran.

Iran has suspended shipment of the 530,000 barrels of oil it sent to Japan daily because the Japanese refused to go along with a price increase, and there are reports the Iranians may now turn to the Soviet bloc to finish work on a $3 billion petrochemical project the Japanese were building in Iran

However, a top Japanese executive involved in the project plans to hold talks with Iranian officials in Tehran in ah attempt to persuade them to allow the Japanese to resume work on the project, suspended 18 months ago because of Iran's political turmoil.

Reagan campaigns in Basin He calls for fewer controls on oil

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Ronald Reagan came to Midland Wednesday evening and told Permian Basin residents what they wanted to hear—that he will do his best to cancel the windfall profits tax if he wins the Republican nomination for president and, subsequently, the office of president

Midland — a Republican stronghold in an otherwise Democratic area played host to the front runner in the Republican race for about four hours while Reagan talked with his staff, local and national media and 1,200 supporters

During a 30 minute talk in a public rally, held in the Holidome on West Highway 80, Reagan concentrated on the need for lessening government controls on the oil and gas industry

The audience responded with cheers and a loud round of applause after Reagan commented that government is not the answer to the energy problems. "We should get government out of the energy business."

and turn the industry loose

And Reagan sang the familiar tune hummed by area oilmen that the windfall profits tax is no more than an excise tax on the dollar

DURING A SCANT 10 minute news availability session with the media he stopped short of criticizing the president's announcement Wednesday that he would be getting out of the Rose Garden to start campaigning. Carter, said Reagan, said he wouldn't leave until the hostages are free. I wonder if he thinks the hostages feel free now."

He laughed at President Carter's controls last year on regulating the thermostat ("keep it where it's the most uncomfortable"), and claimed the country has plenty of energy regions.

He listed additional supplies of oil and gas, lignite coal and nuclear power plants "if the government will get, out of the way and let them build the nuclear plants"

His support of nuclear power plants didn't entirely please the crowd

Some cheered and others — such as a young man with a "No to Nuclear" T shirt — booed the former California governor

But one more issue drew dissent among the supporters—the volatile question of abortion. Questioned by one man—clutching an "Odessans for Life for Reagan" sign—about abortion, before Reagan could an swer, a female voice in the audience velled. Freedom of choice" and an other female voice echoed "Amen"

Reagan who signed into law while governor of California a liberal abortion law for that state — said he opposes abortion and asked "What about the life of the unborn child" before moving quickly to another question from the audience

ENTERING THE HOLIDOME to the loud strains of "Dixic" played by the Lee High School band, Reagan and his wife Nancy paused to shake the hands of area residents straining against the ropes separating them from the candidate, his wife and the secret Service. Taking a quick jab at the Democratic presidential candidates, Reagan quipped, "Jerry Brown (who has withdrawn from the race) was on both sides of every issue. Ted Kennedy is on the wrong side of every issue, and President Carter doesn't know what the issues are."

John Anderson's move out of the Republican Party to run for president as an independent also brought a comment from Reagan "He's welcome to go over there I think he gave up his GOP passport a long time

Carter's idea to balance the budget is fine, said Reagan, who disagreed over how to accomplish that goal. Inflation is at the highest level it's ever been, money is worth less than it's ever been," said Reagan. "Carter has now come out with his fourth plan for fighting inflation and it's worse than the other three."

The president, charged Reagan, is using inflation to balance the budget, instead of balancing the budget to get

Arabs continue to hold embassy

LONDON (AP) — Arab gunmen holding the Iranian Embassy in London freed one of their British hostages today and let two death deadlines pass for their dozen or more Iranian captives. They gave no immediate indication of their next step in the tense showdown with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime.

The three Arab-Iranians had threatened to blow up the embassy, themselves and the Iranian hostages unless Iran freed 91 Arabs imprisoned in Khuzestan, Iran's oil province on the Iraqi border, by noon today — 7 a.m. EDT.

The gunmen have promised not to harm non-Iranian hostages. At least three non-Iranians were reported among the total of 19 hostages.

Before the first deadline passed, Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told the gunmen by telephone that Iran would not meet their demands and that if embassy hostages were harmed an equal number among the 91 Arabs would be executed, the official Iranian news agency Pars reported.

The noon deadline passed without incident, and 45 minutes later the gunmen issued another ultimatum for 2 p.m. — 9 a.m. EDT — demanding that Iran acknowledge by then that it had begun negotiating with the British govern-

"This is not a sign of weakness but of humanitarian duty," the trio said in the statement, which was telephoned to police who then read it to reporters.

A Foreign Office spokesman told reporters after the second deadline was set,

We are in close touch with the Iranian authorities about the handling of the situation in London."

By 2 p.m. there was no new public word from Iran. But as the deadline passed there also was no indication the death threats had been carried out.

Earlier today, the gunmen freed one non-Iranian, Chris Cramer, 32, a British Broadcasting Corp. producer who was applying for a visa when the embassy was taken over. Police said he was freed because of a stomach ailment, which the BBC said he contracted on a recent foreign assignment. Hunched over as though in pain, he was taken off to a hospital.

In addition to Cramer, the non-Iranian captives in the embassy included at least two other Britons and a Lebanese, and possibly a Pakistani-born British citizen. The gunmen telephoned out a statement that the "British hostages, as well as all other non-Iranian hostages, would not be harmed."

The three Arabs slipped in a back door and took over the mansion on a fashionable residential street a block from Hyde Park just before noon

Cramer said Wednesday that in addition to the prisoner release, the Arabs demanded autonomy for oil-rich Khuzestan, where Arabs are the majority ethnic community; that the 91 prisoners be flown to London, and that the prisoners, the embassy hostages and themselves be flown out of Britain to an unannounced destination.

Patrick Cormack, a member of Parliament from Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative Party, said the government should demand that the American hostages in Iran be freed along with the 91 Arabs.

She said the aborted rescue mission has prompted a nationwide outpouring of support for her husband. "I think people thought it was the right thing to do," she added.

Mrs. Carter was in San Antonio only two days after her husband made a rare foray away from the White House and flew here to visit the five hospitalized American commandos. Kennedy campaigned here Monday night and Tuesday.

'Just a bunch of friendly folks'

By SUSAN TOTH

"It was just a bunch of friendly folks smiling and whistling and waving at somebody they liked who was saying what they wanted to hear."

That's the way one Midland Republican official characterized Thursday night's Ronald Reagan rally in the Midland Holidome, and he wasn't far off the mark

California's ex-governor drew almost 1,200 cheering folks representing a wide spectrum of Midland resi-

The crowd was a mixture of three parts hard working middle class citizens, one part clean-shaven, short haired Young Republican types, a light sprinkling of about 100 from the $500 a head fund raiser just before the public rally and a very small pinch of less formal, long haired young people.

Most of the area Republican hierarchy, including officeholders, candidates and powers-behind-the-thrones, were there

The crowd, which was estimated at 500 when the rally began and up to 1,500 by the time it ended, was var-

One woman, for instance, attended dressed in a red white-and-blue top over navy pants, adorned with a red white and blue GOP elephant on a chain and sparkly red-white-and-blue earrings. Not far from her, a young man stood dressed in blue jeans and a "no nukes" T shirt.

Most heard what they came to Reagan was interrupted by applause 13 times in his prepared address to the crowd. When he began taking questions from the audience, each answer and many familiar phrases received rousing approval from the standing gathering.

Entering and exiting to strains of "Dixie" played by the Lee High School band, the candidate was escorted by an assortment of grim secret service men wired with earpieces and elated local Republican officials. Dressed in a dark navy suit, Reagan looked only slightly more tired and more wrinkled than the photo on campaign posters around the effort.

*Bush's son, contacted after the rally, doubted that conclusion.

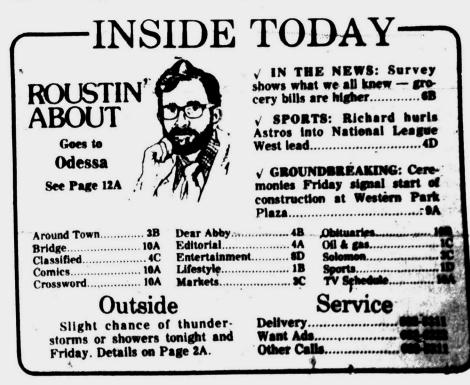

The appearance "probably solidified the Reagan supporters, but I don't think any Bush supporters were swayed," he said.

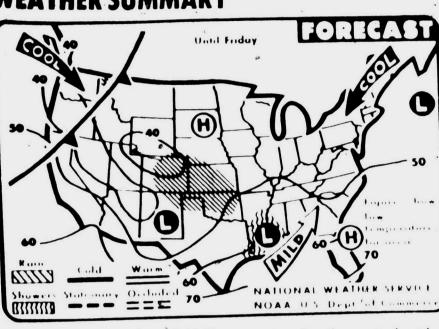

Not everyone in the Holidome was overwhelmed by the visit either. Dallas resident Lonnie Callihan, a paying guest at the motel was "surprised" by all the excitement.

"I was expecting a last night of peace and quiet" before returning to Dallas, he said. Although he had a bird eve view of the proceedings from his room, Callihan, who said he might vote for Reagan "if I were a Republican," chose instead to stay in and watch television.

He planned to return to Dallas this morning, "if I can get any sleep to-rid of inflation

If he makes it past the hurdles of the national convention and the November general election. Reagan, 69, promised that in the first 24 hours he is in office "I would put a freeze on the hiring of federal employees.

THIS ACTION would be his first step in fighting inflation. "We must must be reduced down in proportion to our economy.

Slashing waste and extravagance in the form of useless programs is a second step suggested by Reagan. Many federal programs belong back under the umbrella of state government, he said.

And the biggest burden on federal government that should be shuffled recognize the federal government off to the states is welfare, said Reagan to the crowd's applause. The country's defenses need to be strengthened, he admitted, but then criticized Congress' action to institute draft registration now. That, he said of the registration process, is a federal bureautracy. He also advocated upping the military personnel's salary to have a "professional army."

He supported Carter's attempt to rescue the hostages, but felt it should have been done 51/2 months sooner.

Winding up a 40-minute rally, Reagan commented that the next president "must deliver the world. There must be no more Taiwans. There must be no more betrayal of friends by the U.S.

Reagan's Midland stop was one of the last campaign junkets before the Saturday primary. In that race, he faces former Midlander George H.W.

Congressional committees wanting testimony from commando leader

WASHINGTON (AP) - Committees in both the House and Senate are trying to get testimony from the commando leader of last week's Iran hostage rescue raid to find out why it was called off.

Meanwhile, Defense Department officials are trying to determine whether U.S. military secrets were compromised in the hasty retreat from the Iranian desert.

Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., said today that the House Armed Services Committee has asked for testimony from both the commando leader, Col. Charles Beckwith, and Maj. Gen. James Vaught, the mission's overall commander.

Montgomery said there is a rumor that some of the commandos wanted to continue the mission even though three helicopters were out of commission and they were one short of the six they needed. "But so far we haven't been able to talk to anybody who knows the answers," Montgomery said. President Carter and Defense Sec-

Marilyn look-alike, cover girl no big deal

FORT CARSON, Colo. (AP) — The soldiers at Fort Carson appeared indifferent, despite the presence of a "Oui" magazine cover girl, a squad of Denver models sent to recruit soldiers and the chance to see Marilyn

ABC-TV crews had hoped to get thousands of soldiers out on a chilly weekend for the filming of a scene for "Marilyn," a three-hour television movie adapted from Norman Mailer's book of the same name. Only 500

But never mind, said ABC-TV's "MM" look-a-like, Catherine Hicks the film editors will make it look like a much bigger crowd

The scene shot at the Army base near Colorado Springs was part of a sequence revolving around the blonde screen siren's honeymoon with Joe DiMaggio She decided to do USO shows while he was in Tokyo scouting baseball teams in the early 1950s

Miss Hicks - dressed in a tight brown sequined dress with hair dyed Marilyn Monroe's platinum blonde — undulated, blew kisses and sang Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend.

The soldiers who did show up didn't seem to have to act very much. Dressed in uniforms like those worn during the Korean war, they cheered, waved, whistled and stomped their feet with satisfying vigor, said production coordinator Randee Smith.

To lure out the extras in droves — producer Lawrence Schiller wanted 10,000 - producers sent Kim Patton, cover girl for "Oui" magazine, to autograph 50 copies of an issue bearing her picture. Door prizes also were offered - motorcycles, television sets, cassette recorders and the magazines Models from Denver were dispatched to recruit soldiers in barracks and mess halls. But the turnout still was low.

The guys spend too much time in the cold all week to go out there on a Saturday," said Fort Carson information officer Joe Sullivan.

Nugent gets in some pot shots

James E. "Jim" Nugent

Railroad Commission candidate James E. "Jim" Nugent worked in a series of pot shots against his opponent in Saturday's Democratic primary race during a short airport press conference here Wednesday.

Characterizing his opponent Jim Hightower as a pawn of the "New England power bloc," Nugent claimed Hightower received "over 40 percent of his total campaign contributions from out-of-state contribu-

He noted Hightower had raised some $130,000.

Nugent defended his own $400,000plus campaign chest, adding 70 percent of the total had come in donations of $100 or less and 45 percent from gifts of $50 or less.

"We in Texas are entitled to be represented by Texans and support Texas institutions," he said.

Nugent summed up the race as "a moderate conservative with a 20-year record of public service being opposed by a radical, left-wing liberal financed by known liberals from the northeastern states. He also defended his record on the Railroad Commission, a post he was appointed to in January 1979. Almost every rate-setting decision rendered by the commission has been appealed to the courts, he said, and 90 percent have been upheld. I think that's a pretty good record."

Nugent also had some harsh words for the windfall profits tax, calling it a bad situation.

A staff report showed "between $60 and $90 billion will be taken out of the Texas energy field" by the tax by 1990. About 8 percent of that money, he said, might be returned to the state in federally sponsored programs.

I have a small child's chair with McBride Furniture Co., Midland, Texas, stamped on the bottom. Can you please tell me what years this store was in business? — Virginia Ezell ANSWER: S. A. McBride, who was owner of the two McBride Furniture Stores located in the Village and East Florida Street, says that the stores were in operation in Midland from 1945 to 1957.

I have been a resident of Midland for over 20 years and I would like to know who to talk to about paving the street which I live on, because when it rains you should see how messy it gets.

And I would also like to let you know that I have a daughter at DeZavala school, and when I go to pick her up when school is out, I have seen small children going inside some old houses that are just across the street from school.

Couldn't something be done about these old houses, because its not safe for children to go inside of these houses? Something bad could happen

Maybe the city does not care, because its on the Spanish part of town, but we pay taxes, too.

These old houses that I am talking about are at the corner of North Lee and Orchard Lane. I sure hope something can be done about these old houses. -

ANSWER: Answer Line contacted the city of Midland. That number is 683-4281.

The Operations Department was informed about the paving situation. This is the department you need

The building official of the Inspections Department should be contacted concerning the houses.

'Replant' unit sews back four fingers

By WOODY BAIRD

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Oilfield worker Tommy Lee Dotson could only stand and watch in fascinated horror as his hand was drawn slowly into a pulley that ripped off all four fingers.

"I tried to pull the cable back to get some slack. Then I tried to pull my little finger off — you know, to

"I wasn't strong enough to pull a finger off, though, and it just kept feeding the others in," he said.

It happened as Dotson, working on an oil exploration boat in the Gulf of Mexico on April 5, slipped and grabbed a cable to keep from falling. The cable pulley seized his little finger instantly. Offshore oil work is notoriously tough, and it's not uncommon to see seasoned workers with a missing

But Dotson was lucky. He was rushed to a team of doctors who specialize in mending mangled tendons and nerves and re-attaching crushed appendages. After 15 hours of meticulous micro-surgery, Dot-son's fingers, which were severed flush with his left hand, were re-attached. Doctors say he could recover 50 percent to 60 percent of the use of the fingers. This kind of injury is common in the offshore industry, and most are crushed off, not cleanly cut,' said team leader Dr. Elliott B. Black III, a plastic Other team members are Dr. James Dudley Day and Dr. James B. Johnson. Their Replantation Coordination Center uses the emergency phone number

In the past three months, they have performed about a dozen such operations, including a job to re-attach a severed hand and one to sew back the scalp of a little girl attacked by a dog. In performing the surgery, Black and his assistants use a large microscope mounted over the operating table. They can sew together blood vessels the size of a human hair. Day said Dotson's chance for recovery came when a co-worker had the presence of mind to collect the severed fingers, pack them in salt water and send them to the hospital. We always tell people, 'Don't throw away any of the parts," " he said. Dotson, who's working on a Ph.D. in history at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, said he was overjoyed at the operation's success.

Make your voice heard

Midlanders will have the opportunity Saturday to go to the polls and cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice in races ranging from county precinct offices to the nomination for president of the United States.

For the convenience of individual voters, the polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The residents of Midland and Midland County will be nominating prospective leaders from both the Democratic and Republican parties. The offices being sought by those candidates are important positions which involve law enforcement, criminal prosecution, and the general operation of the county government.

On another level of government, Midlanders will be nominating individuals who will take an active role in the government of the State of Texas. Those positions encompass rulemaking and policy-making decisions that affect not only the lives of Midlanders, but also of other Texans throughout the Lone Star State.

And, of course, all Texans will be able to cast ballots for the presidential candidate of their choice.

is an important one. It is important not only because of the candidates voters will be nominating to represent their respective parties in the November general election, but also because of the cherished right if affords all the citizens of this state.

We all like to complain about government at virtually all levels. We complain about that government's lack of vision, about our high taxes, about the social problems it should be addressing.

Saturday we will have the opportunity to initiate some changes in our county, state and national governments. But to make those changes come about, we must do more than merely complain. We must make our voices heard.

Much information has been published by The Reporter-Telegram about the different candidates in the various races at the local level. Other news services have provided information which this newspaper has published concerning the other candidates seeking nomination to offices in other levels of government.

Now it's time to go to the polls and to vote our convictions. It is our duty and our right to vote, and we should each exercise that right Saturday.

ART BUCHWALD Television commercials don't tell all the story

WASHINGTON - As someone who finds TV commercials far more interesting than the programs wedged between them, I have noticed more and more advertisements are aimed at "successful woman." If you believe the ads, which I do, the successful woman has many more things to do before she can achieve the upward mobility we are all striving for.

In bygone years a woman's success depended on what kind of wax she put on her kitchen floor or brand of detergent she used to wash her husband's shirts. She was judged on the soup she served her kids for lunch, and how many cavities her child had when he came home from school.

But a more and more women entered the business world, the people charged with selling products had to switch gears and aim their commercials at the female population, which was trying to reach the top of the ladder in the executive suite.

The new message was that in order to be a successful woman your hair had to be fresh and neat at all times You had to use the right facial cleanser before you retired to bed at night, and the seams of your stockings always had to be straight.

The successful woman is not only udged on her performance as a businesswoman, but whether she is using the correct pain reliever when the pressure gets too much.

Buchwald

She'll never make it in a man's world unless she buys a certain bath oil or rubs her hands with a reliable hand lotion. And, of course, she must watch her figure at all times. This means taking plenty of vitamins and minerals and wearing the right girdle to keep the bulges from showing up in the wrong places.

According to the TV commercials, the ultimate in success for a businesswoman is her ability to choose the correct wine to serve for a romantic evening after a grueling day. How do I know this?

My favorite commercial, which is getting a big play on television these days, shows a man and a woman in a luxurious suite at the Waldorf Astoria. He's in a tuxedo, and she's in a very chic black evening gown with long pearls, talking to her London office telling them she will fly over in the morning and straighten out the problem, whatever it is. As she's talking on the phone, the man takes a bottle of wine out of a bucket, and pours her a glass, which she acknowledges with a nod, and continues her business on the phone. The message is that this is the wine all successful women prefer, even if they have to speak to London late at night.

Unfortunately, since TV commercials are so expensive, we never see what occurs after the woman gets off the phone.

Since you get the feeling from the setting that the couple isn't married, you wonder what will happen next.

I can only believe it ends like this: You look beautiful in that evening dress," the man says as he kisses her earlobe "Darling, pour me another glass of wine while I call Tokyo."

"Forget about Tokyo. The night is young and we're in this beautiful $300 suite, which only successful women like you can afford." He kisses her on the neck

Stop that. I have to call Carstairs in Tokyo before the market closes to tell him that Winthrop is going to pull Goldfarb in Hong Kong first.

"But what about us, and the wonderful things we planned to do after dinner? What about the delicious wine you ordered?

"Put it in my briefcase. I'll drink it on the way to the airport tonight."

Women hostages in Pakistan mistreated

Jack

WASHINGTON - Some frightening outrages were aimed at American women trapped in the embassy compound when Pakistani mobs sacked the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, last November. The mobs were responding to a false Iranian charge that the CIA had engineered the terrorist attack on the sacred mosque at Mecca

But the Cafter administration, truckling to Pakistani dictator Mohammed Zia - whose police stood by without interfering, and whose army troops were hours late coming to the rescue - has virtually ignored the victims and clamped a shameful lid of silence on their accounts of their nightmare.

The women were spat and urinated on, punched, roughed up, threatened and molested, according to signed depositions I have obtained from the victims. Yet the State Department has not even debriefed all of the women to get their accounts.

Instead, the department's genteel. spokesman, Hodding Carter III, extended public thanks to Gen. Zia for his belated help in saving the Americans from the hysterical mob. The victims, meanwhile, were advised not to talk about their ordeal, lest the Pakistani president's feathers be ruf-

One focal point of the Islamabad mob's attack was the American Club, where 16 Americans, including eight women and a 5-year-old girl, were gathered for a fashion show. They were trapped inside when the mob overran the embassy compound, and the building was set afire. The Americans fled out a back door and took refuge in a depression in the ground. There they remained, terrorized by thousands of screaming, hostile Pakistanis for the next two hours, sources told my reporters Indy Anderson

Badhwar and Lucette Lagnado. Sharon Jones, wife of the embassy air attache, described an attack by a Pakistani woman who pounced on her. "She grabbed me, insulted me, spit in my face and tore my clothes,"

The wife of another diplomat said it was "a terrifying experience" adding: "All of us felt really scared. The mob would pinch us, they would punch us, but there was little one could do."

Arlene Erickson, an embassy secretary who remained in Islamabad after the evacuation, said she had been "bruised enough to last me the rest of my life."

"Needless to say, I was scared to death," said the deposition of Mrs. Audrey Williamson, wife of an American banker in Islamabad. "They verbally abused us and shouted anti-American slogans. Occasionally, they spat at us...Some of the mob actually urinated on us, which was most dis-

Siraj Patel, the Pakistani manager of the club, stayed with the Americans throughout the ordeal and did his best to protect them from the raging mob. In a signed statement, he said the police not only failed to help the group, but actually joined in harassing the women.

In his account, Patel states that Mrs. Williamson had to hit one of the policemen who was "continually mauling her." Mrs. Jones also claimed that on several occasions the policemen molested her.

When the Americans were finally rescued and taken to the airport for evacuation home, State Department officials told them they should not talk about the incident. "We were told to please keep in mind that there were still people in Islamabad," said Mrs. Jones, who added that U.S. officials later impressed on them the importance of U.S.-Pakistani relations.

Thomas Putcher, an employee of the Agency for International Development, was badly beaten, robbed of all his possessions, and held hoseven met by a State Department official when he arrived in the United States. His wife and parents had to spend all day at the State Department just to find out what flight he was

More than six months have passed, but the State Department has yet to release a report on the embassy attack. Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., will hold hearings on the matter, to determine whether there was a cover-up.

Footnote: A State Department spokesman confirmed that a report on the Islamabad outrage has not been completed. He acknowledged that not all the victims had been debriefed; but said there would "probably" be more interviews sometime in the future.

THANK-YOU NOTES: When he was governor of Louisiana, the late Huey Long once said he'd "rather have thieves and gangsters than chain stores in Louisiana." The Kingfish must be turning in his grave. Last September, Huey's son, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., met with a group of grocery industry representatives, including a vice president of Winn-Dixie, a huge food retailer with many stores in Louisiana. They were pushing legislation that would give retailers a price break when they picked up their merchandise at a manufacturer's loading dock.

The bill, according to the Federal Trade Commission, would "immunize anti-competitive discriminatory pricing practices that are presently condemned by the Robinson-Patman Act," a key anti-trust law.

Shortly after the meeting, Long introduced the legislation the chain stores wanted. On March 11, it was tacked onto trucking legislation.

One week later, according to Federal Election Commission records, Winn-Dixie's Sunbelt Good Government Action Committee reported a $3,000 campaign contribution to Russell Long. It was the second-biggest donation made by the committee to any senator since 1977.

What's more, during the same period, FEC records show, Winn-Dixie's president, chairman of the board, vice-chairman and a vice-president all made $1,000 contributions to Long. as did the wives of two of the offi-

Japanese editorial writer offers advice to Americans

By EDWARD NEILAN Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - The lack of leadership in the White House is becoming apparent to observers abroad as well as to journalists and other presidentwatchers in the United States.

Yukio Matsuyama is an editorial writer for Japan's most influential daily, Asahi Shimbun. As a correspondent for several years in New York and Washington he gained some close-at-hand impressions of the American scene.

Here is Matsuyama's report as provided by the Translation Service Center of San Francisco:

"The United States has many friends abroad, not only the sycophants and seekers of benefits, but those who appreciate and respect what the country has done and can

"Today, those who care most are in the awkward position of wanting to give advice to an America that appears to be a staggering, uncertain giant.

"It is an awkward situation because Americans have undoubtedly heard enough of nagging complaints. Even more, it is embarrassing because most of us would hesitate to counsel a friend with such enormous endowments. Still, the concern is real, and it is not completely altruis-

"America's friends are concerned that the nation which has done more than any other to provide the inspiration and security for the free world is losing ground so quickly. The peril of American weakness touches the entire world community, and Americans seem to have lost the will to do anything about it.

"Why is it that men of brilliance, strong leadership and clear judgment steer clear of Washington? Why, instead of the Fulbrights, Mansfields and Humphreys do only mediocre men win elections? American perspectives seem less lofty these days, and the issues which dominate the news often seem-trivial. One congressman is reported to have said, in a discussion of Japanese-American trade relations, that Japan should buy more from his election district. Such petty statements display a lack of confidence and an inability to conceive of the larger issues.

"An American president once commanded the highest respect from national leaders around the globe, but today his influence in international summit meetings is almost pathetically small. In a bygone era, Pax Americana shaped the world, but now we see the opposite extreme, the reduction of American politics to the level of the ludicrous. The leader of the free world is slipping, and is threatening its friends in the pro-

"American policy, both foreign and domestic, seems to have gone awry since the Vietnam War. Human rights diplomacy reflects a noble sentiment, but its unreality screams out at us when the issue of Jewish immigration from the Soviet Union is allowed to impinge upon SALT II deliberations in the Congress.

"The resignations of the Cabinet and White House staff in July were followed by appointments which defy logic. Instead of frying to strengthen cooperation with Congress and the private sector at the peak of an oil panic, Jimmy Carter appointed Hamilton Jordan as White House chief of staff. To foreign observers, this was akin to putting a ballet dancer in charge of a construction crew, simply because the dancer thought the project was a good idea.

'Is Carter so preoccupied with re-election that he can only concern himself with loyalty and factionalism? Did he learn nothing from Nixon or Johnson? If not, his organization is on the road to disaster.

"If it is true that a government is neither better nor worse than the citizens who elect it, it is also true that political atrophy is porportional to cultural decline. The American love of freedom has exceeded all reasonable bounds, and threatens to degenerate into self-centeredness. The discipline and willingness to sacrifice that are the corollaries of freedom have been forgotten!

'The United States is the richest country on earth, but the benefits of material affluence are limited indeed. We watch apprehensively as American society becomes more and more saturated with drugs and crime. It is unsafe to walk in the cities at night. Residents of Tokyo value their freedom to walk safely in the city at night more than they do owning dishwashers and cars. "Americans need to focus their thinking and set their priorities, but they cannot do that without self-confidence. What will it require to get Americans united, sure of themselves, and willing to make sacrifices for their goals? The time is short and requires decisive leadership.

'Americans need the courage and determination to use every bit of their enormous power to maintain the values which they — and we — believe in. They might be surprised at the support they would receive if they would rally to the ideals their nation was built upon.

That assessment of the United States today by correspondent Matsuyama is astute indeed, and we should applaud his candor and insight. Few Americans could provide as keen perceptions of Japan as Matsuyama has provided of the United States

U.S. casts Security Council veto on statehood resolution

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The United States cast its 22nd Security Council veto to kill an Arab resolution calling for Palestinian statehood, contending that it offered "no prospect for making practical progress" toward peace in the Middle East.

The council session Wednesday was delayed by two photographers for an ultra-leftist American newspaper who splashed red paint on Deputy U.S. Delegate William vanden Heuvel's neck and most of Soviet Ambassador Oleg A. Troyanovsky's face, shouting "May Day!" and "Our flag is red - not red, white and blue! Down with Soviet-American war moves!"

"It's just one of those exercises in diplomacy," said vanden Heuvel. But both he and Troyanovsky retired from the council meeting to clean up, leaving others to speak for them.

The two demonstrators, identified as Keith Kojimoto and Stephen Yip, were turned over to the FBI. The Tunisian resolution got 10 favorable votes, one more than the twothirds majority required for its adoption. But because the one negative vote was cast by one of the five permanent council members, it counted as a veto and killed the resolution. The council's four West European members - Britain, France, Norway and Portugal - abstained, while the affirmative votes were cast by the Soviet Union, China, East Germany, Tunisia, Niger, Zambia, Mexico, Jamaica, Bangladesh and the Philippines.

Soviet delegate Mikhail A. Kharlamov, condemned the veto, saying: "The anti-Arab essence of American policy in the Middle East is becoming

"Sweet are the uses of adversity." An abundance of bonor cards and solid trump suits tend to soften the possessor, and he becomes careless in his handling of card combinations. But when trump suits are shaky, with high honors in the hands of the enemy, and there are barely enough tricks to make both ends meet, economy of management becomes a sine qua non for survival. That is one sure way to develop your playing technique. South became declarer at a precarious four spade contract holding a scant majority of trumps. We do not endorse the auction, especially as five clubs cannot be lost and even six clubs will make because declarer can maneuver to squeeze West between the fourth diamond and the queen of spades.

After East's overcall, South felt that he did not have the values for a free bid. However, when North reopened with a double, South jumped to show that he was not bidding under pressure. North had a rebid problem with no easy solution, and selected two no trump despite his singleton ace of spades. We would have preferred a three club bid from South in preference to his leap to the spade game, but the auction might have been simpler had North reopened with two diamonds originally.

West led his low heart, against four spades, and declarer won in dummy. Declarer cashed the ace of spades, crossed to his hand with the ace of diamonds and led the jack of spadesthereby blowing the hand. East won the king, and West still had two trump tricks coming for down one:

Proper technique is to lead a low trump, not the jack, when the second round of the suit is led. That play has everything to gain and nothing to lose. If trumps break 3-3, declarer will lose two trump_tricks no matter what he does, since the next lead will clear the suit. And if the trumps are 4-2, declarer must lose three trump tricks if either defender started with four trumps headed by both missing honors. However, if either defender started with a doubleton trump honor, that card will fall on the low trump. Now declarer can drive out the remaining honor with the jack, and draw the last trump with his carefully preserved ten.

POW amazed, scared during captivity years

Col. Jim Lamar, a retired U.S. Air Force fighterbomber pilot, was amazed in some instances and was terrified in far more others in the six years and nine months he was held a prisoner of war in the Vietnam War of the 1960s and early 1970s.

"I was amazed at this little humanistic touch (medical attention), particularly the doctors and nurses," Lamar said of that day, May 6, 1966, when he was captured by the North Vietnamese after anti-aircraft flak struck down his F-105 fighterbomber in a raid over an enemy railroad marshalling yard at Yen Bai along the Red River.

"I certainly do not believe that they are lacking in compassion," the retired colonel told about 130 members of the Downtown Lions Club on Wednesday noon in the Midland Center.

Later, after those humanistic touches, Lamar underwent "terrifying" experiences that "broke" him and every other American POW, he recounted but bypassed much of the detail.

LAMAR, WHOSE POST-WAR "business is selling Americans on America," was in Midland Wednes-day campaigning for Republican Party presidential aspirant Ronald Reagan. Lamar was brought to the Lions Club by Lion Larry Hunnicutt, chairman of Midland County's GOP Reagan-for-President campaign, but said he wouldn't have mentioned his reason for being in Midland had someone not asked him why he was in the Tall City in the first place.' Lamar termed himself a "Reagan surrogate."

The 28-year Air Force veteran, who hails from Little Rock, Ark., said before his experiences as a POW that "I didn't feel like I had a whole lot to be thankful for." But his Vietnam ordeal altered his outlook and perspective.

"I LEARNED A LOT about my enemy. I learned a lot about myself," Lamar said. "I learned a lot about God; I know that there is a God. Every one of my prayers were answered - not always in the ways I would have wanted."

The colonel said he was "broken" mainly through rope-pressure torture. "I don't know of anybody who would not (break) if the Vietnamese sincerely

Lamar said his reasoning for yielding to the torture was that he would be better able to resist the enemy's will and resist turning against his fellow Americans and other allies if he maintained his senses and rationale than if he were totally broken and crazed by prolonged punishment.

Among the more frightful experiences he underwent was being blindfolded. "That was a particularly terrifying experience - not painful, but terrify-

He recalled an effort by Vietnamese soldiers to get him to radio for rescue. And Lamar said he did talk to rescue pilots, but told them to "get out of here." for he knew the enemy's aim was to destroy the rescue aircrast and crews.

"I couldn't have done what they wanted," Lamar said. "There's not an American here who could do

THE ENEMY TRIED to persuade him to seek and games" - the POWs' lingo for torture.

The first North Vietnamese officer, a young, polite man, tried to cajole Lamar into bringing in rescue teams, but failed. That was the day following his capture. But in a subsequent try, an older, more experienced and "mean" North Vietnamese officer threatened to kill Lamar if he didn't radio for help. Soldiers were pointing rifles at him all the while.

His captor, speaking in "pigeon English," told him to crawl into a trench, which would be his grave. He

Col. Jim Lamar, a fighter-bomber pilot and prisoner of war in Vietnam, freely admits he was "broken" by his captors. "I was 'broken.' ## Levelland doctor finds healing in plane's wings

ODESSA - Some people have a fixation. Bill McCollough has two: nedicine and flying.

He practices both And last weekend at the annual air show at Schlemeyer Field in Odessa, he had forgotten one and was talking about the other, which, it became obvious, he wished he were praticing. But he was grounded. So, he just enthusiastically talked about and rambled on and on about flying; nothing else seemed to matter. He's a physician, and he practices medicine to fly.

McCollough is a "stunt" pilot, but shuns the word; he prefers "precision" flier. He figures that precise flying entails far more than just taking off, flying around without bumping into obstacles and other objects airborne or not and landing without bending a propeller or denting a wing who has been flying since World War II, were giving the loop-and-roll commentary at the fourth annual Roy Schlemeyer Memorial Air Show. On the flightline and, from time to time, in the air were airplanes some people, particularly those of the jet-age class, might consider antiquated and fit for a museum. Most were; they were in "mint" condition. And most of the aircraft were either restored to brand-new shape or had been taken care of as if they were precious gems. Most were:

McCollough, who is the 1975 national sportsman's class aerobatic pilot but who has been waylaid for awhile due to a bad back, and Morgan, who was flying Curtiss P-40N Warhawks and Republic P-47 Thunderbolts in WWII, had plenty to talk about. They were perched on a podium like birds of prey and watched the aerial feats: skydivers from Crane; a Marine helicopter flying, tipping and bowing like an olive drab Jolly Green Giant devoid of wings; aerobatic monoplanes and biplanes, such as Gene Beggs' homespun work of art, the Pitts Special; the Feiseler Storch, a STOL Nazi observation aircraft that flies and hovers like a dirigible; the Canadian Chipmunk and the Me. 108, the forerunner of Messerschmitt's famed Me. 109 fighter that was challenged by the British Spitifire; the American P-40 Warhawk; the P-51 Mustang and others. There were the P-38 Lightning; the Gurmman Wildcat that could fly loops withinn the Pl40s tightest turn but which couldn't out-do that aerodynamic beauty; the Japanese Zero, and other planes.

The count is not documented, but air show "crew chief" Bill Wicks figures that 4,000 airplane buffs turned out for the two-day show, which was jointly sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association's Chapter 123 of Midland-Odessa, and the West Texas Wing of the Confederate Air Force.

The show's highlights, and there were many, included maneuvers by Beggs, the nation's foremost advanced aerobatic pilot; skydiving feats by Jim Fowler's parachutists; fly-bys by the likes of Howard Pardue in the Corsair and by Dallas Smith and Robb Satterfield in the Mustang, Harley Wilke in the Grumman Hellcat; George Goebel in the Harvard Mark IV and far, far

Laurels handed out at the show include these: Best performing warbird: Grumann F2M Wildcat, flown by Harley

-Best warbird: a Curtiss P-40N Warhawk, flown by Joe Mabee.

-Best antique: a 1939 Rose Parakeet, flown by Dave Conley. -Best classic: a J3 Club, flown by Richard Adams.

UTPB alumni to host party

The University of Texas of the Permian Basin Alumni Association will act as host for the "Night of Celebration" honoring upcoming graduates and former graduates of the university.

The reception and dinner begins at 7:30 p.m. May 9 in the student lounge. t is free to alumni members and $3.50 for non-members.

Woody Kupper, director of student life and coordinator of the event, said the dinner will be followed by a brief history of the university through videotapes. A short movie of the UTPB rugby team and a roast of faculty members will highlight the entertainment.

The Alumnus of the Year, selected by the Alumni Association from nominations throughout the Permain Basin, also will be named and a scholarship will be given in his honor.

"The selection of the Alumnus of the Year is based on professional evelopment, community service and continuous UTPB support," Kupper

"The alumni association is making a special effort this year to get more UTPB's alumni involved. We'd like all the members of the class of '80 and their friends, the faculty and all the alumni throughout the area to join the

Anniversary reception to fete city couple

The children of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jordan of Midland will honor their parents with a reception in observance of weir 50th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Jim Jordan of Midland and Layeta Tiffin of Wichita, Kan., are hosting the reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Jordan's home, Route 4.

The former Edith Irene Brewer, born in 1912 at Red Bay, Ala., and Jordan, born in 1910 at St. Louis-Okla., were married May 3, 1930, in Konawa, Okla. Following their marriage, the couple lived in Maud, Okla., until 1946. At that time they moved to Shawnee, Okla., and in 1950 moved to Kermit. They moved to Bartlesville, Okla., in 1959 and in 1961 moved to Midland.

Jordan's various positions in the oil industry moved the couple throughout Oklahoma and Texas and he retired from Reda Pump Co. in 1972.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan are members of Cotton Flat Baptist Church.

"My Dish Towel Flies at Half Mast" by Mary Kuczkir will be reviewed by Ruth Lutrick at this year's final meeting of the Book Review Unit of Midland Woman's Club.

The meeting will be Monday at Midland Woman's Club with the social hour beginning at 11:30 a.m. and lunch following at noon.

The book to be reviewed is one of humor written about the author's life in a suburban New Jersey town with her husband and four children. Throughout the book, Mrs. Kucskir admits life is far from perfect, but, like most houswives, cherishes the imperfections.

Altrusans observe Founders Fund Vocational Aid month

National Founders Fund Vocational Aid month trainees, set two women up in business in beauty and was observed by the Altrusans at a luncheon meeting in the Midland Hilton.

Roberta Wornell, vocational services chairman, presented the program and announced that the Midland club had donated over $1,000 toward FFVA, one of the two international projects of Altrusa.

Organized by the national club in 1952, Founders Fund vocatinal Aid gives from $50 to $750 to ward training women of any age, color or creed for employment; re-entering the business world; pur-chasing needed equipment for starting small busin-esses; and for purchase of rehabilitative services (dental, glasses, etc.)

In 1978-79, over $67,000 was awarded in grants to 198 women. Mrs. Wornell added tht anyone knowing a person needing help with the above should contact an Alrusan for more information.

The Midland club has sponsored over a dozen LVN Midland Hilton laundry and purchased numerous eye glasses and helped with dental work for Midland women. It has also given a number of scholarships to Midland College.

This committee also involves the club in Christmas in April by preparing and delivering fifty sack lunches for workers and making a cash donation of over $200 to CIA.

Survey shows grocery bills up percentage point

AP's April figures show increases in most areas of store

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Grocery bills went up by a full percentage point during April, according to an Associated Press survey that shows the increases spread across almost all the shelves in the supermarket.

More than half of the items checked rose last month in at least four of the 13 cities surveyed by the AP. Less than a third of the items declined in

The AP drew up a random list of commonly purchased food and nonfood products and checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket total went up during April at the checklist store in eight cities. The average increase was 2.7 percent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in five cities, dropping an average of 1.8 percent. Overall, the marketbasket totals were an average of 1 percent higher at the start of May than they were a month earlier.

In March, in contrast, the marketbasket declined at the checklist store in eight cities and rose in five, leaving the average bill unchanged, according to the AP survey.

Although the April increases were widespread, they hit hardest at nonfood items. The non-foods represented 23 percent of the items checked, but they accounted for 30 percent of the increases. Fabric softener went up at the checklist store in nine cities — more than any other item. One industry source who asked not to be identified by name noted that non-food prices have remained fairly stable in recent months, despite increases in the cost of petroleum that is used in manufacturing many of the products themselves, as well as their containers. "They were about due for a boost," the source said.

Other items besides fabric softener that increased last month in four cities or more were: pork chops, paper towels, butter, eggs, detergent,

The good news last month came at the meat counter. The price of a pound of chopped chuck went down at the AP checklist store in eight cities. The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports red meat prices in general have declined recently because of increased supplies of pork and poultry, and because the economic downturn has lessened demand. Beef production is still lower than it was a year ago, but output during the rest of 1980 is expected to be close to 1979 levels.

Prices for pork chops and eggs - two alternatives to beef as a source of protein — have gone down over the past year because of abundant supplies, but the April picture was mixed. The AP survey showed pork chops went up in six cities and down in four; eggs went up in six cities and down in six. The only item besides chopped chuck, pork chops and eggs to decline in at least four cities was frankfurters, down last month at the checklist store in five cities.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed more increases during April than during March. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

26.4 31.3 20.3 17.6 Unchanged

Unavailable The AP did not try to weight the survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. The day of the week on which the-check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes or comparable substitutes were used. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were subtracted from the marketbasket totals. The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city - to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease - saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another. The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics and is used to keep track of changes in the proportion of the food dollar received by the farmer, wholesaler and retailer. It does not correspond to actual family spending.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center-cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. A 15th item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list after the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Lance celebrates 'exoneration

ATLANTA (AP) - Former U.S. budget director Bert Lance, acquitted on nine bank fraud charges, savored his victory with a call from friend Jimmy Carter and said of the prosecutor who dogged him for years: "We just plain licked 'em."

Despite a hung jury's inability to reach a decision on three other counts, forcing a mistrial on those counts, the president's former adviser said: "I have been totally and .. completely exonerated.'

Lance spoke with Carter after the verdict was handed down Wednesday following a 16-week trial — the longest in Georgia history — and a 2-year federal investigation.

He said Carter reminded him of an occasion nearly three years ago when Carter was taken to task for saying "Bert, I'm proud of you," while Lance was under investigation. Carter told him on Wednesday, "I'm still proud of you," Lance said.

A blue-collar jury of six men and six women deliberated for nine days before handing down its decision. Lance tried to call them individually to thank them for the verdict.

The jurors were unable to reach verdicts on sixf the 19 counts against Lance and thre associates, all north Georgia busiessmen who were friends for year

U.S. Districtudge Charles A. Moye Jr. declars a mistrial on the remaining counts and said he would consider entering (rected verdicts of acquittal after reging briefs from both sides.

In a taped interviewtoday on ABC-TV's Good Morning merica, Lance said he was "not ming any apologies about my baning style. The bottom line of the Late case is that my communities hae been well served by my activities the bank.

"I fail the 'perfect te' like every-body. But I dont think made any mistakes." Asked if government dicials were subject to too much scruny, Lance said, "That's a real risk, bu've seen that happen. I think we sould quit trying to make past action subject to today's conduct. I think this a real problem. I think people to have been successful in the privæ sector are not going to take the riskto come into the public sector." Lance also said that in prescoverage of him "overall there was an effort to embarrass the president through me.'

Prosecutor Edwin Tomko said he did not know whether the Justice Department would seek a new trial.

The mistrial on the remaining counts, that doesn't concern me at all," the tall, portly former banker said. "If the government wants to try them again - ring the bell."

All nine counts on which Lance was found innocent charged him with misapplication of funds from the Calhoun First National Bank and the National Bank of Georgia in loans to his family and friends. The jury deadlocked on a 10th misapplication charge and two counts alleging that Lance falsified his financial statements.

Several jurors said the vote was sometimes 10-2 and at other times 8-4 in favor of conviction on the false statement counts.

"I feel and the others feel like financial statements have to be filled out correctly," said Anthony Tigner.

But William M. Savage Jr., a 36year-old carpenter, said he did not think there was enough evidence for any convictions.

"I didn't know if they were guilty or not," said Savage "I wasn't sure about it because I didn't have enough evidence. Bert Lance's testimony persuaded me. Everything we had in the room - all the evidence - makes me think we did the right thing."

Of the defendants, only Thomas Mitchell was found innocent on all charges. He was accused of making a false statement to a bank in connection with his duties as trustee while all Lance's holdings were in a blind

Richard Carr, a former bank president, was acquitted on three counts and a mistrial was declared on three others, including one in which he and Lance were charged jointly. Jack Mullins, a former druggist, was acquitted on three of four charges.

During the trial, the defense charged prosecutors were using tactics so unethical that the indictment should be thrown out. Prosecutors denied the charge, but a lawsuit filed by Lance asking the prosecutors be held in contempt for alleged leaks of grand jury secrets is pending.

Charles K. Osborn, a Lee High School senior, has been awarded a four-year scholarship from Baylor University as a winner in the college-sponsored merit scholarship program.

A theology student, Osborn is a member of the National Honor Society and National Forensic League. He is a recipient of University Interscholastic League literary awards in district, regional and state competition, PTA certificate of merit for academic acheivement, "L" award for outstanding effort and acheivement, awards in oratory and outstanding first-year foreign language student.

Pope visiting in African nation with Church-State friction

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Sunday evening Mass at Kinshasa's Notre Dame cathedral is a toe-tapping blend of tribal drums, throbbing African rhythms and Roman Catholic ritual brought to the Congo by European colonizers a century ago.

But profession of a "colonial" faith by nearly half the people of a country in search of its African roots has been a cause of friction between church and state which Pope John Paul II hopes to ease with his visit to the former Belgian Congo this week.

Arriving Friday for the first stop on his six-nation African tour, the Polish-born pontiff will be welcomed by President Mobutu Sese Seko. A Catholic who was baptized Joseph Desire Mobutu, he is also Zaire's autocratic, self-styled guide, founder-president and author of an Africanization program which in the 1970s tried to curtail sharply the power of the church.

Programs this week on Tele Zaire, the government TV network, depicted the pope as the "defender of the poor and a friend of the weak." The deputy minister of information organizing the papal visit, Bolela Wa Boende, called it "not only an affair of the church or of the government but a national affair."

Though church-state relations have improved in recent years, many among Zaire's 11.7 million Catholics about 45 percent of the population of 26.5 million — hope the papal visit will help to improve the lot of the church in the long term.

A Belgian Catholic missionary who has lived in Zaire for 25 years said he hopes the visit will also have some moral impact on the Zairean authorities.

In a country larger than the United States east of the Mississippi, the mass of the population lives barely above subsistence level while Mobutu is described as living in luxury. Allegations are frequently made of widespread official corruption.

"If the pope can manage to make the Zaireans more Christian, and live that Christianity," said the priest, who declined use of his name, "there will be change. The authorities will be there, too, and hear what the pope says.

It was in 1971 that Mobutu, 49, a former army colonel who seized power in 1965, ordered a return "to truly African authenticity of life so that Zaire may discover its true personality.

The Congo Republic became Zaire, a Kikongo word meaning "river." Leopoldville, the capital, and Stan-leyville and Elisabethville, the other two big cities, became Kinshasa, Kisangani and Lubumbashi. And Joseph Desire Mobutu became Sese Seko Kuku Ngbendu Waza Banga — meaning "the all-powerful warrior who, because of his endurance and inflexible will to win, will go from conquest to conquest, leaving fire in his wake.' The "authenticity" campaign left some grumbling and confusion in its wake. Baptismal names were banned, but people continued to use them. Christmas was made an ordinary working day, but more people went to church.

Teaching of religion as abolished in all schools and portuits of Mobutu replaced the crucifixn classrooms. Catholic bishops we denied the right to hold ecclesistical meetings or to move about th country. There were special TV spe showing Mobutu as an angel waing on clouds.

But the restricties proved unpopular and unworkabl and over the past few years they ere lifted. Church and state began reconciliation. Car-dinal Joseph Malla, who lived brief-ly in exile at th Vatican during the repression, wille with Mobutu at the airport to welche John Paul II.

Governmen officials organizing the visit stree the pope will spend five days of $ 10 days in Africa in Zaire becauset has the largest number of Catholics in Africa and the most bishops — 56. Four of them will be consecrated by the pope at an open-air Mass on Sunday.

On Monday, the pope takes a boat across the muddy Congo River to Brazzaville, capital of the Marxistgoverned People's Republic of the Congo, which has 650,000 Catholics. He then flies to Kisangani, northern Zaire's chief city. He goes to Kenya on May 6 and then on to Ghana, Upper Volta and the Ivory Coast.

Cubans profiting from boatlift

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Karl Marx probably wouldn't approve, but "Freedom Flotilla" boat captains returning from the crowded Cuban port of Mariel describe communist authorities overseeing the boatlift as profiteering masters of capitalism.

They have all those boats over there that have been there for a week, and they're making as much money as they can off of it," said Glenz Abend, who returned here Wednesday night with a dozen refugees aboard his small yacht.

They know the American way over there," said George Block, a crewman on the Viking Starship, a giant commercial boat that brought 500 Cuban refugees ashore early today.

There are more than 1,000 boats crowding Mariel, and Cuban government boats patrol the port offering food and other supplies, the seamen reported. Boat captains also were permitted ashore to purchase supplies from a government store.

The boats, many hired for thousands of dollars by exiles hoping to bring their relatives to the United States, often must wait several days in port while the government slowly releases refugees.

A storm trapped the boats in port Sunday and Monday. Abend said a 5-pound ham was selling for $45 while a bottle of soda pop commanded $1.50 on the Cuban Block said prices had climbed steadily in the eight days he was there waiting for his passengers to come "It started out that the water was free. Then they started charging $5 for 10 gallons. People now are paying $90 for 10 gallons of water," he said.

Holding up a grocery bag, he said, "This bag of bread and cheese went for $200."

Some exiles have returned to the United States in disgust — and without any refugees — because they refused to pay the Cuban prices.

"They will take all the money you have," said Jose Levein of New York. "I'm not going to give Fidel Castro the money I work hard to earn.'

Several boat captains reported that when a severe wind storm blew one large boat ashore Sunday, it was relaunched only after its captain had collected $1,000 in donations from other boats.

A light to shine in this dark world

But despite all the miracles He had done, most of the people would not believe He was the Messiah.

This is exactly what Isaiah the prophet had predicted: "Lord, who will believe us? Who will accept God's mighty miracles as proof?"

But they couldn't believe, for as Isaiah also said: "God has blinded their eyes and hardened their hearts so that they can neither see nor understand nor turn to Me to heal them.

Isaiah was referring to Jesus when he made this prediction, for he had seen a vision of the Messiah's glory.

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) Republican voters in. 15 Texas counties who want to register a choice between Ronald Reagan and George Bush will find there is no place for them to vote Saturday.

And Democrats in Johnson, Willacy and Maverick counties, who voted absentee, have already found they did not have a say in recommending President Jimmy Carter or Sen. Edward Kennedy as the nominee.

According to state Republican headquarters, thee will be maybe 15 Texas counties where GOP primaries are not being held because of the difficulty in find election workers.

"It's all a matter of people," says Wayne Thorburn, executive director of state GOP headquarters, "You just can't find the people to work on elections.

The mixup on Democratic absentee ballots in the three counties was caused when the State Democratic Executive Committee waited until the last minute, March 10, to order the "beauty contest" for Democratic presidential candidates.

School officials dispute results of writing test

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Results of a writing test given to 500,000 Texas fifth and ninth-graders are being questioned by school officials here. Officials at El Paso and Ysleta school districts, who received the scores Wednesday, contended more students should have made higher scores on the tests. The test was part of the Texas

Assessment of Basic Skills, given at all Texas schools earlier this year. Some test scorers have contended that a change in scoring methods altered the results of the writing test, The El Paso Times reported Thursday.

The testing of reading, writing and mathematics was required recently by the Texas legislature. The test was designed to assess student skills and needed improvements in curriculum

Millions marched in May Day parades around the world today calling for a bigger share of economic and political power. Moscow's salute to labor was

The written part of the test was graded by 200 scorers from the University of Iowa. Some scorers said grading rules were changed after some tests had been scored, the newspaper reported.

The allegations were denied by Westinghouse DataScore Systems in Iowa City, Iowa, the newspaper said.

poor and the elderly. They now will try to stop the Republicans from cutting even more deeply into social programs. The liberals were beaten four times

Wednesday in efforts to restore social spending cut by the House Budget Committee in its proposed $611.8 billion balanced budget for fiscal 1981.

The four defeats - three times by embarrassingly large margins — sig-naled the end of liberal amendments that can be offered to the budget under special ground rules approved for the debate.

Starting today, the House was to begin considering Republican proposals that would cut more deeply into domestic programs, boost defense

Liberals fail to rewrite '81

The GOP alternative given the best chance of passage would shift $5.1 billion from domestic programs to the military, pushing defense spending $2.5 billion higher than the $150.5 billion President Carter wants.

Another major Republican plan would slash overall spending to $597.8 billion — $14 billion below the House committee's target - and provide a $30 billion business tax cut.

The liberals' strongest showing Wednesday came on an amendment by Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., which benefitted from the backing of Carter

FTC is out of money; Office closing down

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission is fresh out of money because Congress, at least temporarily, has failed to enact new legislation to pay the bills.

Similar things have happened in the past, but this time there's a new wrinkle: The attorney general says , the agency has no choice but to shut

The FTC's 1,700 employees were told to report for work today, but only "for the purpose of closing down the 'Asked what this meant, one official said: "We can secure our files. Things like that. But we can't do our regular work."

The money stopped flowing despite a House-Senate conference committee's approval Wednesday of a compromise bill funding the agency for three more years.

Before that action can be converted into dollars and cents, however, the conference committee report must be written and submitted to both the House and Senate for final approval before being sent to President Carter for signature into law

As a stop-gap solution, the House Appropriations Committee was expected to take action today on an emergency bill that would supply $55 million to the FTC until the permanent measure is enacted

Federal agencies, including the FTC, have been left without funds for short periods on similar occasions in the past. In most cases they continued some activities on the assumption the legislation would be approved quick-

However, a recent opinion by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti said that business-as-usual approach inthe absence of official funding violates a 110-year-old law. He indicated the law allows no spending beyond what is required to shut down agency 'No statute permits federal agencies to incur obligations to pay employees without an appropriation for that purpose," Civiletti said in an April 25 letter to President Carter.

The measure approved by the conference committee Wednesday contains permanent reductions in authority for the commission, whose proconsumer regulations have angered many business groups. Business lob-byists flocked to Capitol Hill to urge the FTC be restrained.

and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., but still lost 213-201.

The Obey amendment would have added $1.2 billion for domestic programs and raised taxes on the oil industry by $800 million.

The president apparently supported the amendment because it contained a Carter proposal for $500 million in "transitional" relief for cities hurt by the expected loss of state revenue sharing.

RUNNELS WILDCATS

A trio of new Runnels County tests have been filed as wildcats with the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Hamco Exploration & Development Co. of Dallas spotted No. 1 Poe Estate as a 4,850-foot operation 4.5 miles west of Winters.

It is 2,700 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 14, John L. Lynch survey No. 442, Location is 3/4 mile southwest of the Wilmeth, Southeast (Gardner lime, Jennings and Canyon sand oil) pool and separated from it by a 4,770-foot dry hole.

Tex-Star Petroleum of Abilene No. 1 Aldridge "T" is to be dug as a 4,700foot Runnels County wildcat 2 1/4 miles northwest of Content.

Locaton is 2,319 feet from north and 947 feet from west lines of section 467, George Hancock survey, abstract 262. Ground elevation is 1,917.27 feet.

The site is 1 5/8 miles northwest of the Burney (Gray oil) pool.

Delray Oil Inc. of San Antonio No. 7 Raymond B. Rush was staked as a 3,900-foot explorer 2.5 miles southwest of Talpa and 7/8 mile northeast of depleted Gardner gas production in the Hollow Creek area.

Drillsite is 2,743 feet from north and 1,492 feet from west lines of section 111, ETRR survey.

NOLAN RE-ENTRIES

Two re-entry wildcats have been reported in Nolan County.

W. H. Price of Granbury will reenter his No. 1-C Elmer Jordan, originally completed as an undesignated Canyon reef oil strike four miles northwest of Blackwell.

Price will plug back to 3,870 feet for tests as a wildcat. It is 1/2 mile southeast of the Group, South (Ellenburger, Canyon reef and Saddle Creek) field. It is separated by Saddle Creek failures.

Bottomed at 4,011 feet and plugged back to 3,944 feet for original completion, it is 990 feet from north and 2,285 feet from east lines of secton 34, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

Kaiser-Francis Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla, will re-enter No. 5 Sears, former Ellenburger and Odom producer in the Sears multipay field seven miles east of Sweetwater. It will be tested as a wildcat at 5,904

Originally drilled to 5,949 feet by the Cayman Corp., it is 2,582 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of Presley & Gossett survey No. 292.

NOLAN FIELD TEST

Texas Pacific Oil Co. Inc. No. 1 J. P. Turner will be dug as a 5/8-mile southwest stepout to one of the threewells in the Withers (Ellenburger) field of Noaln County, 2.5 miles south of Sweetwater.

Drillsite is 2,140 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 74, block 22, T&P survey. Contract depth is 6,600 feet.

WARD SITE

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 2 Greer-McGinley Gas Unit is to be dug as a 19,600foot operation in the four-well Soda Lake (Fusselman) pool of Ward County, 10 miles north of Barstow.

Drillsite is 5/8 mile southwest of production and 1,320 feet from northeast and 1,320 feet from northwest lines of secton 19, block 1, W&NW

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back a bit today, hesitating after its sharp rally in late April. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 2.04 to 815.02 by noontime. Losers held a slight lead over gainers in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The Dow Jones industrials had risen almost 58 points in the last seven trading days. Analysts said traders evidently decided to do some selling today, on the belief that the rally could not go much further in the face of continuing evidence of an economic slowdown. The government reported

Wednesday that the index of leading economic indicators took its sharpest drop in 51/2 Eastman Kodak slipped 1/2 to 52 1/8 in active trading after climbing 2 1/8 points Wednesday, when the company reported better-than-expected first quarter earnings. The NYSE's composite index lost .11 to 60.25. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.07 at 254.44. Volume on the Big Board totaled 14.37 million shares at noontime, down from 15.53 million at the same

Dear Dr. Solomon: After 40 years of hard work, my father retired; one year later he was dead of a heart attack. Although his work was physically hard, he enjoyed it more than the year of retirement, which he seemed unable to cope with. I'm beginning to think that if he had continued to work, he would still be alive today. Does this make any sense from a medical standpoint? — Gloria.

Dear Gloria: Although it is premature to come to a firm conclusion, there is some preliminary, tentative evidence that retirement may, in fact, predispose one to fatal heart attack. The apparent link between the two was revealed by Dr. Charles H. Hennekens and his associates at the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Hennekens, himself, stresses the preliminary nature of the study findings and emphasizes various possible sources of bias. For example, it may be that individuals with coronary heart disease tend to retire, rather than that retirement leads to coronary

Additional studies planned by Dr. Hennekens and his colleagues, as well as one currently under way at Duke University, may shed more light on the sub-

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am scheduled to undergo a mastectomy and am debating the advisability of having my breast reconstructed with the aid of a prosthesis. Are there any medical contraindications to such a procedure? - Mrs. F.D.

Dear Mrs. D.: It is not possible to give a definitive answer to your question. Although most women are good candidates for such surgery, there are differences of opinion within the medical community about the relative risks and benefits associated with the procedure. Some physicians maintain that reconstructive surgery may hide a recurrence of cancer, and that even the prosthesis itself may be carcinogenic. On the other hand, Dr. Martin C. Robinson, chief of recon-structive and plastic surgery at the University of Chicago, says the question as to whether such surgery should be done is based more on emotions than on science. He points out that similar questions were raised when head and neck reconstruction was a new procedure, but that today it is universally accept-Dr. Robinson warns, however, that patients should not be led to have unrealistic expectations of what breast reconstruction can accomplish. Although reconstructive surgery can provide the patient with a normal appearance when clothed, it will not remove the scars caused by the mastectomy.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A recent item appeared in your column identifying Doctor Charles Figley as being at the University of Cincinnati. Since Doctor Figley is in fact a faculty member at Purdue University, I wondered if it were possible to print this in a forthcoming column. Of course, this item is important to Doctor Figley as well as to us. He is one of the leading authorities on veterans and stress and we would like to see him connected with the proper institution. - Douglas W. Spangler, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana.

Ticketed bus driver deserts passengers

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A busload of passengers was left stranded for more than an hour when their driver became angry over a speeding ticket and deserted them, authorities said.

California Highway Patrolman Robert Christiansen stopped the southbound Greyhound bus Sunday night along U.S. Highway 101 after clocking it at speeds of between 65 mph and 72 mph, police said. The driver, George Mayse, told Christiansen the citation would probably cost him his job and said he was walking.

After signing the citation, the driver told Christiansen: "Well, you've got another problem now. You just bought yourself a busload of people. I'm walking on the freeway. You can tell them (the passengers) anything you want."

Christiansen notified the 42 passengers and waited with them for an hour until a replacement driver arrived more than an hour later, police said.

Prenatal clinic planned

be released by the Labor Department Friday, and most economists expect them to show another rise in unemployment.

An 8 percent jobless rate translates into about 8 million Americans out of work. The last time unemployment was at the 8 percent level was in December 1975, when it was 8.2 percent as the nation was coming out of the deep 1974-75 recession.

The official administration forecast is for unemployment rates to average 7.2 percent in the fourth quarter of 1980 and 7.3 percent in the final three months of 1981.

The spokeswoman, who did not want to be identified, said an 8 percent unemployment rate is about the worst that could be envisioned if the recession is much more serious than the administration is forecasting.

Hearing set on exhumation of Oswald

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A three-judge appeals court panel has called a hearing for today on a lawsuit seeking the exhumation of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

The court case was brought by British author Michael Eddowes, who suspects the corpse in Oswald's grave is that of a Soviet imposter. He is seeking a court order requiring Tarrant County officials to open the grave in Rose Hill Cemetery. Eddowes filed suit last year, after District Attorney Tim Curry refused to open the grave, saying that to do so would make county officials liable for lawsuits filed by Oswald's family members.

Whatever became of all those promising Diablos

In 1978, lefthander Daniel Be ne was one of the more reli-able relief pitchers in the Texas League, compiling a 3-2 won-lost record with 10 saves. It earned him a promotion to Salt Lake City, Pacific Coast League, where his statistics were even more impressive...9-2 and eight saves. It earned him his re-

So when the Amarillo Gold Sox came to Midland this week, Boone's appearance as a relief pitcher in the first game of the Texas League series raised some eyebrows. What was he doing back in AA ball?

Apparently, the California Angels didn't feel his fastball was of major league caliber or his screwball didn't have enough snake, although both were good enough for the PCL.

Most players with comparable statistics would be screaming "Play me in the majors or free me from my chains." Boone, instead, found himself looking for a job and feels fortunate to have hooked on with the Gold

HIS PLIGHT piqued the curi-osity. The Angels have paraded a long list of talented performers through the Texas League during the decade of the seventies and yet a quick check of the Angels' roster shows the only visible graduates are relief pitcher Mark Clear, lefthander Frank Tanana, plagued in recent seasons by disabling miseries on the threshold of a brilliant major league career, and third baseman Carney Lansford, the 23-year-old who while with El Paso was advised regularly by one fog-horned voiced Midland fan that he was "a bum and would never make it." Poor Carney. So where did everybody else

A scan of other major league rosters proves most revealing. For example, Jerry Remy, who thought he won the Texas League batting title in 1974 with a .338 average, a feat so recorded in the next year's Baseball Guide, is the regular second baseman for the Boston Red Sox. They guy he lost the TL bat title to some six months later, teammate Dave Collins, is one of the mainstays of the Cincinnati

For the curious, Dave was called up to AAA ball in midseason, leaving behind a .352 average for 82 games. It wasn't until the following spring that slig-ure filbert discovered that despite his premature departure, Collins logged enough plate appearances Ito qualify for the batting title.

BUT THAT'S just a beginning Sid Monge is on the Cleveland staff while Mark Brouhard, who led the Texas League in rbis, homers and batted .350 last year, was drafted by Milwaukee when left unprotected and is currently with the Brewers. Pitcher Balor Moor, who underwent rehabilitation at El Paso after his exit from the majors leagues with a dead arm, is with Toronto.

American League West contender Kansas City has first baseman Willie Aikens, a promising young slugger, former University of Texas infielder Dave Chalk and shortstop Rance Mulliniks, all of whom toiled at El Paso. In fact, Chalk made his pro debut in Midland with three

Minnesota wound up with once-prized prospects like Danny Goodwin and Ken Landreaux, first round draft choices, and infielder Ron Jack-

Infielders Jim Anderson and Bruce Bochte found homes in Seattle while Paul Dade, frustrated after productive years in the minors, went the free agent route, signing with Cleveland and making a strong bid for rookie of the year honors before winding up at San Diego.

THAT's NOT a bad list of players, who, for one reason or another, got away, but it doesn't end with players. Dave Garcia and Bob Rodgers, both of whom managed at El Paso, are doing the same thing this year in the majors. Rodgers is filling in as interim manager at Milwaukee while George Bamberger recuperates from heart surgery. Garcia, who did get his chance to manage the Angels, but was released as "too nice a guy" is getting another shot with the Cleveland Indians.

Of course, the Angels aren't unique. Check any major league roster and you'll find players who played in the Texas League with different organizations, but wound up elsewhere.

As for Boone, who never got a chance at the bigs while with the Angels, it isn't thesend of the world. He feels if he ever does make it, his chances might be better in the San Diego organi-

If you weren't there, and most of Midland wasn't, you missed it. It wasn't billed as Steve Viskas Night, but that's what it turned out to be at Cubs Stadium Wednesday night as the Midland Cubs made it two-in-a-row over the Amarillo Gold Sox, 6-2, on a three-hitter by the 20-year-old righth-

Viskas made sure it would be a night to be remembered when he started a triple play in the second inning, but as the swift one hour, 57-minute game wore on the Texas League rookie from El Cajon, Calif., flirted with even greater fame.

Through six innings he had faced a minimum 18 batters and was working on a no-hit, no-run game. Enter, Joe Hicks, Amarillo version, the scowling villan from centerfield.

Hicks spoiled it all by walloping a 1-2 pitch over the scoreboard in leftcenter, in one fell swoop wiping out the no-hitter and the shutout. Amarillo added another run in the eighth on a triple to right by Jerry Johnson and a single to left by Doug Gwosdz, but it was still quite a night Viskas treated the sparse turnout of 327 fans to.

"I WAS aware of the no-hitter in the first inning," Viskas said, "because

Los Angeles eliminates SuperSonics by 111-105

Seattle fought from the brink of elimination in its Western Conference semifinal series with Milwaukee, coming from a 3-2 deficit to beat the Bucks and earn a shot at Los Angeles in the conference finals. The Sonics fell behind again, but the Lakers wouldn't let them off the hook.

WITH ABDUL-JABBAR performing brilliantly, even for him, the Lakers finished strong, as has been their pattern recently, to end Seattle's season 111-105 Wednesday night and earn a berth in the NBA championship series against Eastern Conference titlest Philadelphia.

So the Sonics were eliminated, meaning that for the 11th straight year there won't be an NBA champion successfully defending its title. That hasn't happened since the Boston Celtics won in 1967-68 and again the Abdul-Jabbar had game-high totals of 38 points, 11 rebounds and seven blocked shots Wednesday night. He scored 12 points in the fourth quarter, including a skyhook with 3:13 to go that gave the Lakers a lead they would hold the rest of the way.

"Seattle beat us in the playoffs last year, so it was nice to return the favor," said Abdul-Jabbar, who is playing these days with the exuberance of a fuzzy-cheeked rookie and the brilliance of the perennial all-pro that he is. "We wanted to win tonight and not have to go back to Seattle. This was not the time for us to have a bad game."

IT LOOKED for a while that there might be a Game Six. Seattle led 59-46 in the second quarter, 62-54 at halftime and through most of the second half. But the Lakers scored 14 of the game's final 21 points to win

Twenty-year-old rookie Earvin

"Magic" Johnson, playing with the coolness of a 10-year veteran, had 20 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists for the Lakers. Norm Nixon and Jamaal Wilkes added 19 and 15 points, respectively, for Los Angeles. Wilkes received a blow above the right eye early in the second half and missed most of the third quarter. But he returned with 36 seconds left in the period and scored eight points down the stretch. Dennis Johnson led the Sonics with 29 points, including a 40-foot three-point field goal as the third quarter ended which gave his team an 84-82 advantage heading into the final 12 minutes. John Johnson and Gus Williams added 19 and 18 points, respectively, for Seattle. Fred Brown, who scored 34 points in Game One, had only 10 this time, just two of them in the second half.

this year's Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic, led by one stroke over defending champion Isao Aoki and Namio Takasu of Japan.

Starting from the 10th hole, Miller rolled in three birdies against one bogey on his first nine and played par on his second nine on the windy par-70 Wago Country Club course. Aoki, who won the Chunichi Crowns title in 1973, 1975, 1978 and 1979, came in at 69 along with Takasu. Tied at 70 were Hsieh Yung-yo and Chen Chien Chung of Taiwan and

Japan's Norifumi Mizuno and Shinsaku Maeda Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki, who won an international tournament last Hubert Green was 3 over par at 73.

Jack Butterfield named Hockey Hall of Famer

• TORONTO (AP) - Jack Butter-field, president of the American Hockey League since 1966, has been elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame.

Butterfield, 60, becomes the 61st member of the builder category in the Hall of Fame and will be inducted Sept.8. Candidates for induction in the player category will be considered at selection committee meetings June 9-10 in Montreal.

A native of Regina, Butterfield had his hockey playing career cut short by a back injury suffered while he was a member of the armed forces during World War II.

FLETCHER ALSO came up with one of the fielding gems that saved Viskas' string, making a diving catch of Jerry DeSimone's liner in the fourth. Doug Alvarez spun third baseman Mitchell around with a shot in the fifth, but J.W. recovered to throw out the runner.

However, Viskas himself turned in the play of the night after walking Frank George to open the second. Gary Ashby was safe when shortstop Fierro snagged his short hopper behind the mound and went for the force at second, too late.

Alvarez then popped up a bunt between the mound and third base line and Viskas came off the mound, it looked like with little hope of catching it, but if he were lucky, he might get the bounce and throw the runner out

Instead, he caught the ball. "I was throwing a slider and fell off the mound in that direction. I knew I had it all the way," he said. Still, when he whirled to throw to

Craig Bradshaw goes to Houston in player draft

NEW YORK (AP) - Tatum and Bradshaw. The names, linked together before, are entwined again. But one of the faces is different.

It doesn't belong to Terry Bradshaw, the quarterback of the Pittsburgh Steelers, whose 1972 playoff pass became Franco Harris' "immaculate reception" when Oakland's Jack Tatum deflected the ball.

Instead, it is Craig Bradshaw, Terry's kid brother, a reserve quarterback at Utah State in 1979 and, on Wednesday, a seventh-round pick by the Houston Oilers in the National Football League draft.

Tatum, once an All-Pro defensive back, once one of the most feared safeties in the business, was part of the three-for-one deal which enabled the Oilers to pick the younger Bradshaw — which shows just how much Tatum's market value has plummet-In exchange for Tatum and Oakland's seventh-round pick this year (Bradshaw) and next, all the Raiders got in return was running back Kenny King. As a rookie last year, King, a third-round pick out of Oklahoma. carried the ball three times for nine yards. Tatum and Bradshaw were the only ing Wednesday's conclusion of the opposing players. two-day, 12-round, 17-hour, 333-player draft. Among the other veterans changing teams — each in exchange for a low-round pick this year or next - were running back Don Hardeman from Baltimore to Denver, tight end Pael Seal, from San Francisco to Tampa Bay, and defensive end Willie Fry, from Pittsburgh to San Francis-

This year as last, the last of the draftees was picked by Pittsburgh. This time it was Tyrone McGriff, a guard from Florida A&M.

In all, the 28 teams drafted 165 offensive players (45 running backs, 39 wide receivers, 19 tackles, 18 guards, 18 quarterbacks, 16 centers and 10 tight ends), 159 defensive players (58 defensive backs, 50 linebackers, 30 ends and 21 tackles) and nine specialists (four kickers, four punters and a kick returner).

Nebraska and Southern California contributed 10 players apiece to share the lead among colleges (Baylor and Oklahoma were next with nine apiece), while the Pacific 10 was the top conference with 41 draftees to the Southwest Conference's 38.

Tatum's fall from grace shows what can happen when a player is enveloped by controversy.

A few years ago he was an integral part of an unsuccessful lawsuit filed by then-teammate George Atkinson, who took umbrage at Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll's pointed suggestions that a "criminal element" existed in pro football.

In a 1978 exhibition game, Tatum and New England's Darryl Stingley collided in midair on a pass play. The Patriots' young wide receiver was paralyzed from the neck down. Although Tatum was absolved of any guilt, it clearly affected him. His intensity and effectiveness seemed to dissolve.

And because he never contacted Stingley during his lengthy hospitalization (Tatum said he was told not to), the Patriots characterized him as callous, a label which further blackened his reputation.

Then, in 1979, he helped to smudge it some more. He wrote "They Call Me Assassin," a provocative book in which he admitted he and Atkinson had conducted their own little game of "knockout" wherein each tried to real "name" players mentioned dur- outdo the other in injuring or kayoing

"I haven't read the book, but I think it was written to sell," said Oilers Coach Bum Phillips, insisting it had no bearing on the trade. "I've never seen him do anything I wouldn't want one of my players to do."

Tatum, too, said he thought the book was only incidental. "Al Davis just wants to rebuild the team and give the younger guys a chance to play. I really don't think the book had anything to do with it."

And Oakland Coach Tom Flores noted: "We had no problem with Jack But we felt we had to make a move to let our younger players play."

What cleared the way for the trade was the Raiders' acquisition on Tuesday of Burgess Owens, a starting safety for the New York Jets. "When they traded for Owens, I knew some kind of deal was up," Tatum said. "It didn't surprise me at all. It's not a bad move for me at this time in my career. I'll be playing for a contender with a shot to get to another Super

drafted by NFL

DENVER (AP) - All-conference defensive back Terrell Ward and six other Western Athletic Conference college football players were snapped up by professional football teams in the second day of the National Football League draft.

A total of 14 WAC standouts were drafted into the NFL, including record-setting quarterback Marc Wilson of Brigham Young University.

Ward, of San Diego St., was drafted by Philadelphia as the No. 23 pick in the seventh round of the draft Wednesday.

Dupree Branch, a defensive back from Colorado State, was snapped up early in the eighth round by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hawaii defensive tackle Tom Tuinei, another All-WAC player in his senior year, and teammate De Wayne Jett, a wide receiver were drafted as the first and second picks of the ninth round. Both were picked by the Detroit Lions.

Two more WAC players went in the 10th round. Kevin Fidel, a center with San Diego State, was drafted as an offensive tackle by the Cleveland Browns; and All-WAC running back Lewis Walker of Utah was taken by the Washington Redskins. Walker, who carried 93 times for 714 yards in his senior year, led the WAC in 1979-80 with a 7.7-yard In round No. 11, the 26th pick was John Singleton, a defensive end from Texas-El Paso, who was drafted

On Tuesday, Wilson became the first-round choice of the Oakland Raiders. He was considered by many to be the best quarterback up for grabs and was the first pass caller snapped up. Another All-WAC BYU player, Mat Mendenhall, was compensated for an injury-shortened senior year when he was picked by the Washington Redskins in the second round. Two other All-Conference players were drafted on Tuesday. Charles Baker, a defensive end for New Mexico, was drafted as a linebacker by the St. Louis Cardinals in the third round.

Robnett will run track, play football at Princeton

Midland High senior Jeff Robnett said Wednesday that he has signed a national letter of intent to play football and run track at Princeton University next fall, ending speculation that he might attend Brown University, another Ivy League school.

Robnett made the last minute decision Tuesday after reports that he may attend Brown.

Robnett has had a storied career at Midland High in both football and track. Last fall, he was the District 5-4A rushing leader as a fullback for former Midland High coach Dennie Hays. In track, under Ed Nixon as a junior and Johnny Williams this year, Robnett earned two regional berths in the 100 meters, placing third as a junior and fourth as a senior. He missed most of the 1980 track season with a severe foot injury. He finished second in the 100 in two district meets and once recorded a 9.5 in the 100yard dash. His best time this year in the 100 meters was 10.6.

Young Allen lettered in football, basketball and track as a ninth-grader last year and was doing the same this year.

'He is an excellent athlete," said Coach Ed Jackson, "He has the will power and he plays very hard."

His mother, Marilyn, said Allen was accepting the loss of his leg realistically. "He's a super boy. His faith has given him the courage to take all this," she said.

Riverview Hospital at Idaho Falls listed the youth in fair condition after the operation.

The coach said Allen bruised his left knee in practice when he hit a hurdle: When he took off in the long jump event April 19, the knee stiffened.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Min-

war to the first water was a second of the s nesota North Stars have delivered a no-nonsense message to the Philadelphia Flyers.

"We had to let the Flyers know that we're going to make as many authoritative takeouts as they will," Minnesota Coach Glen Sonmor said of his team's aggressive play.

"We want them to know we're going to stand up to them, that if they want some hassles, we'll be in the front row waiting."

The North Stars didn't wait for the Flyers Tuesday night, however, when Minnesota dominated Philadelphia for a 6-5 victory in the first game of their best-of-seven National Hockey League semifinal playoff series. Minnesota, in Stanley Cup competition for only the second time in the North Stars flying high in playoffs last seven seasons, is enjoying the experience.

'We beat the world champions (the Montreal Canadiens), and they know how to play in the Stanley Cup. Now we've come to Philadelphia and won. That's given us confidence," said left wing Steve Christoff, who had two goals and an assist Tuesday night.

Christoff, part of the United States team that won the Winter Olympics gold medal, has set a playoff record of eight goals by a rookie. "It's like a dream," he said. "But with the excitement, and all the scoring chances I'm getting, it's not tough to get up for the games.'

That seemed to be one of the Flyers' problems Tuesday night, their first game in a week since they won their quarterfinal series against the New York Rangers: Goalie Pete Peeters did not seem to have his usual concentration and the Flyers displayed only flurries of the play that won the regular-season championship. "The layoff hurt, I guess, but the layoff should not be an excuse," said Philadelphia Coach Pat Quinn. "It was my job to have them prepared and I didn't do it."

Quinn was not pleased with his team's performance.

"For two periods, we certainly weren't a very good hockey team," he said. "For two periods, we stood around and watched them play hockey. Our whole team looked shaky."

'Minnesota controlled mid-ice, both with and without the puck, Quinn said. "That's where we wanted to establish our forechecking and they kept us from doing it.

"Our defensemen were turning around and going back (for the puck) all night," Quinn said. "That's what we wanted to do to them. They definitely controlled us. We established nothing for two periods and were forced to play catch-up. They even outhit us.'

Perhaps the best words for the Flyers came from North Stars goaltender Gary Edwards, who turned in a superb clutch performance after a dazed Gilles Meloche had surrendered four goals on only 11 Flyers shots in the first period.

"One win doesn't prove a whole heck of a lot," Edwards cautioned.

Pacific 10 probe to bring action

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Action may be taken soon concerning a Pacific 10 Conference investigation into alleged athletic improprieties at several member schools, according to the league's executive director.

"We hope to be able to make a recommendation to our compliance committee and in turn get some resolution of as many of these matters as possible at the May meetings in Seattle." Wiles Hallock said Wednesday. Those sessions - the league's annual spring meetings - will be held the last weekend in May.

Late last fall, evidence was made public of possible irregularities involving an extension course that players from some schools never attend-

'Of course we're quite aware of the statement by the Arizona Regents in March asking for equity and equal treatment," said Hallock. "But we also know that we don't want to be rushed in our process. We feel it's more important to be thorough and be certain than it is to have everything wrapped up into a neat little package by the spring meetings."

Hallock said the conference asked member schools to take a close look at their programs when the New Mexico basketball scandal broke in Decem-

"Rumors began circulating relative to these other schools - Oregon, ly," said Hallock.

Altman trying move back into life mainstream

CHICAGO (AP) - When it came time to hang up his baseball spikes, George Altman says he was really no different than any other athlete who realizes that, at age 43, his playing days are over.

He sought to move back into the mainstream of life and find an occupation in which he could use his talents, earn money, achieve self-satisfaction and live happily ever after.

He found his niche as a commodities trader at the Chicago Board of Trade. "It's really a tragedy that so many athletes don't plan ahead for retirement. He has a certain advantage because he has contacts and can develop them while he's playing, because after you're finished, they forget you very quickly," said Altman, who played eight seasons in the major leagues - most of them with the Chicago Cubs — before winding up his career in 1976 after eight years in Japan. ALTMAN'S major league career hit it's pinnacle in the mid-1960s and his preparation for retirement began at about the same time. The Cubs and Manager Leo Durocher decided "to go with youth, which relegated me to a fringe player. But I thought I could still play and help secure my future."

So he asked for his release and packed his bags for Japan where many aging American players prolong their careers. "The money was better because I was playing everyday instead of sitting over here on the bench," Altman recalled.

The Goldsboro, N.C., native's eyes were on retirement, though. He said he didn't hang on to baseball because he "couldn't give up the glory/... I had a plan. I didn't have a long-term, million-dollar contract making payments over 10 or 15 years," he said. "So I had to save more and look for a way to make the money I was making work for

With that in mind, he enrolled in a correspondence course offered by a New York school of finance, obtained a stock broker's license and worked as a broker during the off-seasons. He did well and felt he was set for retirment until his curiosity was aroused at a social gathering in 1975.

"I happened to remark at a party that I wanted to get into the investment business but ... I'd rather trade for myself because the way the market had been acting the last four or five years a lot of outside people had lost money.'

AN ACQUAINTANCE "told me I could do that use my money to make money for myself and suggested I look into the Board of Trade. I said, 'No I don't want to do that. I said that's gambling. That's shooting craps over there.' He said, 'No it's not like that at all, it's a business. Why don't you come down and take a look?"

'Well ... I came down and stood around for three or four days and it looked interesting. Some of the more successful traders told me about the advantages and exactly what was going on and I was hooked. I saw that it had potential."

Houston swings trade for Tatum

HOUSTON (AP) - They call Jack Tatum "The Assassin," the coach is "Bum" and although Angelo Field's nickname is "Grizzly," just call him Big."

And today, after a round of trades and draft selections, they can all be called Houston Oilers, seemingly bent on one objective - beat the Pittsburgh Steelers and make it to the Super Bowl.

The two players and Coach Bum Phillips were key figures around the Oiler offices Wednesday as Phillips dealt with Oakland for the second time this year.

Phillips, who earlier exchanged starting quarterbacks sending Don Pastorini to Oakland for Ken Stabler. Wednesday gave Kenny King to the Raiders and got Tatum, along with his controversial reputation, and Oakland's seventh round picks this year and next year.

To add an extra ingredient, Phillips used the draft choice to take quarterback Craig Bradshaw, the younger brother of Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, the Oilers' nemesis in the past two American Football Conference title games.

Tatum wrote a book entitled "The Call Me Assassin," in which he described his penchant for getting "knockouts" and "limp-offs" with his ferocious tackling.

The book created a furor and Tatum's reputation was not helped by the fact that his tackle in a 1978 exhibition game left New England receiver Darryl Stingley paralyzed.

PLhillips said he was acquiring a football player and not an author. "I haven't read the book but I think it was written to sell," Phillips said. "I have watched Jack Tatum play football for years. He's a tough, aggressive football player. I've never seen him do anything I wouldn't want one of my players to do." Oiler running back Earl Campbell likely has the most respect for Tatum's fierce tackling habits. Campbell and Tatum collided at the goalline last year and although Campbell scored on the play, there was noo winner in the hitting con-

Milburn, Nehemiah in Houston meet

HOUSTON (AP) - Rod Milburn, former world record holder and Olympic champion, says Renaldo Nehemiah, the current 110-meter hurdle record holder, has passed every test except one-running against Milburn. "Renaldo is fast, like I am," said Milburn. "The question comes to mind-how will he perform with me running alongside him?" Milburn will find out Saturday when he challenges Nehemelah in a featured race of the Houston Invitational track meet at the University of Houston's Robertson Stadium. Four world record holders, including Nehemiah.

Edwin Moses, 400 meter hurdles, Dave Roberts, pole vault and Sara Simeoni, women's high jump, are entered in the world class field.

Milburn, making a hurdling comeback at the age of 30, is looking forward to facing Nehemiah, who holds the world record of 13 seconds flat.

"It's a momentous oceasion," Milburn said, "Nehemiah is the No. 1 hurdler in the world at this time. but I've never had a chance to run against him. People all across the country have been waiting to see us run against each other.

Milburn, who won the 1972 Olympie gold medal with a 13.24 clocking, had been out of competition five years before he resumed this year. Saturday's duel with Nehemiah will be Milburn's seventh race of the year.

Shirley accepts Boerne cage job

By TERRY WILLIAMSON. Sports Writer

Midland High junior varsity basketball coach Eddie Shirley has been vaiting in the wings for a head coachng job, and with the record he has posted in Midland since 1970, you just knew it be coming sooner or later.

It came Wednesday when Shirley accepted the head basketball post at Class AAA Boerne.

Boerne seems to be on a Midland raid. Earlier this year, Boerne hired assistant Midland Lee football coach arry Peel as athletic director and head football coach. So, Shirley will not be without friends when he takes on his new job.

Shirley told The Reporter-Telegram Wednesday that he plans to remain through Midland High's spring football training and will move his family to Boerne sometime in

"I just felt it was time to get a head coaching job and the people of Boerne really seem to want a good basketball program. I'm thrilled to death with the opportunity," Shirley said. "I'm from Midland and that makes it tough to leave, but there comes a time when you have to do what is best for your career. If I'm going to stay in coaching, I need to have a head job."

Shirley, 35, is a former basketball player and track standout at Midland High and a graduate of the University of Texas at El Paso.

He started his basketball coaching career in Midland in 1970 at Goddard Junior High. At Goddard, he posted a 96-30 record before being promoted to Midland High as the JV coach in 1976. His record at Midland High is an awesome 114-27. His overall coaching record is 210-57.

This past season, Shirley's Bullpups posted a 32-8 record while the sophomore team was 14-1.

As a Midland High athlete, Shirley was the District 2-AAAA scoring champion in 1962-63 with a 25.6 scoring average, including 38 points against San Angelo. He was also allstate that year. Running for Ed Nixon's track team, he was the district's 880-yard champion and placed third in the state meet with a 1:54.7.

He participated in both basketball and track as a college freshman at Baylor University in 1963-64 before transfering to UTEP, where he concentrated on track. He was a tri-captain of the UTEP track team in 1967 with the likes of Bob Beamon and Larry Gura seems to have American League hitters in the palm of his hand this season. And one of the main reasons is his wrist.

In other AL games, California defeated Oakland 2-1; the Chicago White Sox nipped Boston 2-1; Minne-sota walloped Seattle 10-3; Baltimore defeated the New York Yankees 7-4, and Detroit trimmed Texas 5-4 in 10 innings. The Milwaukee-Cleveland contest was canceled by a heavy fog.

Austin set

GRENELEFE, Fla. (AP) - Martina Navratilova, heading toward a possible confrontation with Tracy Austin for the top ranking among women tennis players, will play Pam Shriver in the quarterfinals of a $200,000 tournament here. The top-seeded Navratilova recently overcame Austin for the lead in the Women's Tennis Association's computer rankings after Austin held it for several weeks.

On Wednesday, the Czech defector breezed to a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Jeanne DuVall to gain the Friday night quarterfinal match.

"It really doesn't matter who's No. ' now,' Navratilova said of the rankings. "What matters is who is the No. 1 player at the end of the year."

No. 6 seed Andrea Jaeger beat Sherry Acker 6-4, 6-4 in Wednesday night's other match. Shriver defeated Mary Carillo 6-4, 6-4.

Barker hadn't competed in nearly six weeks, but she took all of 58 minutes earlier Wednesday to post a 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Laura DuPont in an earlier second-round

Also advancing to the quarterfinals was eighth-seed Ivanna Madruga of Argentina, who held on to beat Kay McDaniel 3-6, 6-0, 6-3.

In a final first-round match Wednesday, Caro-line Stoll upended Pat Medrado 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The tournament is sponsored by United Airlines.

MHS YOUTH CENTER CHATTER Bulldogs just keep winning

By ANGELA TOMPKINS, AMY DAVENPORT TRACY BEEBE and BECKY WILSON

School has been like a three-ring circus this week — and will probably get worse as we go along. "Up With People" is in our main ring, though, and tonight is the Big Event. After a rousing assembly that shook the halls of MHS Tuesday, Midland is rarin' and waitin' for tonight's show. What you have been reading about in every week's Chatter you can be seeing tonight at 7:30 in the Chaparral Center. All of the 100 cast members will be singing their hearts out and smiling their cheeks sore just for you. It's an evening you'll never forget!

"THE PRIVATE LIFE of the Master Race" has made headlines for consecutive wins at Districe, Area and Region. And guess what's next — State. Our Bulldog stars are taking their winning baby all the way down to Austin to show the entire state of Texas what West Texas and, of course, the Mighty Bulldogs can do. They left early this morning and will return victorious Sunday. So all you fans out there be pulling for the cast and crew Saturday

Congratulations to Lance Armstrong and Ricky Houdek, who placed first and second in the Regional Tennis Tournament in Lubbock and will represent MHS in the State Tournament in Austin. Our Racqueteers look like they intend to show the state what they can do with a little yellow ball and a holey paddle. Best of luck, gang.

It seems like this is the week for Midland's getting on the map. The A Capella Choir is traveling in a giant convoy down to Corpus Christi for a fantastic four days in the sun and surf, while the entire MHS Marching Band is traveling all the way to Scottsdale, Ariz. Both organizations have slaved all year to raise the money for their trips, and don't you know they are gonna love it! You'll know who they are upon arrival because you can't miss 100 redhots walking slowly down the halls.

GRADUATION is speedily making its way to the Super Seniors of 1980, and they are itching to break loose. But all you guys just keep scratching long enough to make out your Senior wills. Leave all of your "treasured" possessions to all the little Juniors and Sophs who will try unsuccessfully to fill your shoes. They must be typed (don't come to us) double spaced and be turned in by May 7. The cost is a measly $1 per four typed lines.

Senior Packbackers, unless you are planning to use your uniform next year, turn it in as soon as possible and get a little profit from it. See? It is good

That's about it for this week. Don't forget "Up With People" tonight at 7:30. See ya there! Your sassy Seniors,

Angela, Amy, Tracy and Becky

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE Rest improves airborne meals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several frequent patrons of Air Force One were delighted to discover a marked improvement in the quality of food served aboard the big craft this week when President Carter broke a six-month hiatus in travel away from Washington.

For some years, the fare on Air Force One has been a totally unpredictable mixture of good and bad, with the bad getting the most attention. Reporters who fly on the plane have assumed the haphazard cuisine was a reflection of Carter's own scant interest in food.

But when the president made a quick trip to Texas Monday, two excellent meals were served: a luncheon of beef tenderion and a breast of chicken

Inquiries revealed that the Air Force stewards who provision the plane, and do the cooking, decided during the Iran-prompted embargo on presidential travel that a conscious effort would be made to make meals more inviting.

THE LONG TRAVEL layoff has left the disused press center at nearby Andrews Air Force Base looking like a corner of a ghost town.

Grass actually is growing several inches high on the sill to the entrance. Two floor-to-ceiling windows are cracked.

The center bustles with activity during busy periods of presidential travel.

THE TEXAS TRIP marked Carter's first flight with his new personal pilot, Air Force Lt. Col. Robert

Some passengers decided Ruddick's two landings during the day were fully as soft as those that were a hallmark of his retired predecessor, Col. Lester

McClellan. Another point noted by some: Ruddick's flights to and from Texas were smooth. In McClellan's case, it sometimes appeared that if turbulence lurked be-tween points A and B, he would find it.

DURING A RECENT lunch hour, passers-by on Pennsylvania Avenue stopped to watch as a motorcade rounded the corner and pulled up outside the White House.

Four bodyguards riding the running boards of a limousine flying the American and presidential flags jumped off and stood around on the curb. A rear door opened and a woman stepped out.

"Not very presidential," sniffed a Secret Service man watching from inside the White House fence.

"They ought to know he never uses this entrance." The motorcade, it turns out, was rehearsing for yet another filmed on location Washington movie.

FOR THOSE FEW at the White House who rate having the final edition of the Washington Post placed on their desks each morning, the banner headline read: "8 U.S. Dead as Rescue Try Fails in

A more specialized publication, the White House produced presidential news summary that is read by Carter and top aides, carried nary a line about the aborted hostage rescue mission.

The lead item, in fact, dealt with a potential naval blockade of Iran and whether the president's powers to mount such an operation would be limited by the War Powers Act.

'The Tin Drum' portrays child who refuses to grow up

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer

THE TIN DRUM is a magnificent study of human folly, seen through the eyes of a 3-year-old who refuses to grow up. The boy is born into the chaos of pre-Nazi Danzig and declines admission to the adult world, preferring to observe its venality while beating a toy drum. Novels of the absurd often defy conversion to the screen (witness "Catch 22"), but

WALLACE

Gunter Grass's modern classic has found a superb interpreter in Volker Schlondorff. He achieves a brilliant balance between absurdity and realism, with harrowng results. The cast perfect, especially 12-year-old David Bennent as the too-wise boy. A superlative selection for this year's Oscar as best foreign film. Fairly explicit sex scenes and the heavy theme make it unlikely fare for children. Rated R. In German with English subtitles.

And it looks like everyone will live happily ever after, just the way Sir James M. Barrie wanted it when he willed Peter Pan's copyright and royalties to the hospital after his death in 1937. Alas, Barrie forgot to give his hero immortality.

In 1987, just seven years from now, the terms of Barrie's will run out, and that threatened to leave the 350-bed hospital bereft of a sizeable amount of income generated by Peter Pan's famous name. Now the future looks as bright as Tinklebell's

After a four-year court battle with Walt Disney Productions, U.S. film director Mel Ferrer announced he has acquired the movie and television rights to "Peter Pan," starring actress Mia Farrow as the magical little boy who pledged, "I won't grow up."

Peter Pan turned 75 last Christmas, the anniversary of his first flight into Wendy's house at London's Duke of York Theater.

While "Peter Pan" is a perennial stage favorite, there hasn't been a movie version since Walt Disney acquired the film rights in 193 and made the animated feature that was loved round the world.

Ferrer made the announcement at the Great Ormond Street Hospital, signing a contract for the film

Now there will be enough income generated by the film's expected box office receipts to give the hospital a new lease on life. "All I can say is that it's wonderful," Michen said after Ferrer's announcement. Entrusted with protecting Peter Pan's unspoiled image, Michen said the hospital took great care to ensure that Ferrer's new film will stick closely to the original Barrie play, written in 1904. But the new version plans spectacular flying and fighting scenes, Ferrer said, in a sort of Peter Pan-turned-Superman manner.

It was Barrie's foresight that helped prevent the lad from the kind of commercial exploitation that plagues box office stars these days. And Disney, too, jealously protected his sole right to use "Peter

When the play was first performed, Londoners were stunned. For Barrie had written a lighthearted play about good, evil and innocence at a time when theaters were presenting more gloomy fare about social criticism and political change.
