GOP urged to oppose programs for women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican platform writers were urged today to pledge the party to oppose affirmative action programs for minorities and women, by legislation if neces-

"Affirmative action is a direct attack upon Middle America," Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, told the GOP platform committee.

"It is discrimination against white male junior executives and blue collar workers by race and sex," Hatch

Affirmative action programs are intended to make it easier for women and members of minorities to obtain jobs or education, in an effort to compensate for past discrimination.

Hatch called such programs "a betrayal of the civil rights movement," arguing that affirmative action

"means the imposition of quotas, sexual and racial, through government coercion.

'The Republican Party must make it clear that it will act to end affirmative action when it controls the executive branch, and that it will if necessary legislate to reassert the supremacy of the idea of equal protection,'

Hatch spoke at the eighth in a series of 10 hearings the commission is holding. The remaining two will be in Chicago May 23 and New York June 6. The 108-member panel will meet July 7 in Detroit to write a platform for submission to the GOP National Convention the following week.

The leadoff witness was Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, the assistant Republican leader in the Senate, who urged the party to repudiate the poli-

Writer says hostage may have killed self

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the American hostages in Iran has tried to commit suicide three times and may be dead, according to Italian journalist Oriana Fallaci.

Miss Fallaci, writing in the May 10 issue of the New Republic, said an unidentified source told her the hostage who attempted suicide was one of a group of several who had been held in the basement of the U.S. Embassy.

She said those in the basement were "considered unmistakably spies, and some of them are or have been recently tied up because they attacked the students.'

Miss Fallaci said three American clergymen who held Easter services for the hostages saw them in small groups, and the last group of nine or 10 "looked rather depressed."

"I'm sure that the nine or 10 are the ones who have been kept for five months tied up in the embassy basement." she wrote.

The hostages were taken Nov. 4 when Iranian militants stormed the embassy. After the aborted U.S. rescue attempt on April 25, the militants said they had removed the Americans from the embassy and scattered them around the country to make further rescue tries more difficult.

cies of the Carter administration on issues affecting Westerns states in particular.

Stevens predicted the party will do as well in the West as it did in 1976, when former President Gerald R. Ford carried every Western state but Texas and Ha waii.

He added, however, that it is "imperative" for the platform to contain a pledge that "basic rights of citizens of the West will be preserved."

"The party should make clear its commitment to solving Western problems with Western solutions to ensure that its broad support in the West continues unabated," Stevens said.

On Friday, the committee will hear from Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, who will outline suggestions on intellige ncy policy. Chafee has been pushing for legislation making it a crime to disclos e the names of U.S. intelligence operatives working

Stevens, who has endorsed former California Gov. Ronald Reagan for the GOP p residential nomination, sharply attacked the policies of President Carter toward the western

"In less than four years, this administration has done more damage to the W est and its residents than all the past administrations," he said.

He said the platform should "guarantee the continuation of traditional uses on federal lands; ensure that evaluation and utilization of federal lands for r esource activity will be permitted; reflect the needs and concerns of residents of the West; and respect the authority of states to exercise their sovereign res ponsibilities in the area of public lands."

Yugoslavians, world leaders bid farewell to Josip Broz Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - Packed onto sidewalks and blanketing hillsides, Yugoslavians by the hundreds of thousands bade farewell today to President Josip Broz Tito in a funeral marked by military pageantry and vows to protect his legacy of independent commu-

At the end of a three-mile procession, cannons fired and sirens blared throughout Yugoslavia as an honor guard of eight generals lowered the oak casket into a marble vault in the garden of Tito's estate overlooking Belgrade.

The vault bore the simple inscription: "Josip Broz Tito,

"In parting with you, our country and all our working people and citizens thank you for their most precious possession - that of being sovereign masters of their fate,' Lazar Kolisevski, president of the collective leadership that takes over Tito's role as head of state, said in the

'You have traversed this whole, long painful road, leaving in your wake one of the deepest traces that a man can imprint on history

Earlier, the flag-draped coffin had been borne by a guard of generals and workers from the rotunda of the Parliament to a gun carriage for the funeral procession. It rode down Belgrade's tree-lined streets past kings, presidents and throngs of Tito's countrymen to his

Before the procession began, Stevan Doronjski, head of the new collective Communist Party leadership, described Yugoslavia's break with the Soviet bloc in 1948 as "one of the turning points in the history of our move-

It was "alien to the spirit of socialist Yugoslavia to tie itself to any power bloc," Doronjski said. "Tito saw this quite clearly and he deeply believed that the very existence of the blocs increased threats to the world.'

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev was there to hear the speech, at the front of a gathering of scores of foreign leaders across the broad avenue from the Parliament building. Visibly tired by the long wait, the 73-year-old Brezhnev three times sat down to rest on a chair placed there for him. Tito's widow, Jovanka, who had been out of public view for three years, stood weeping between Tito's sons by other marriages, Zharko and Misha.

Tito, who led his Partisan guerrillas to victory over the Nazis in World War II, turned Yugoslavia into a communist nation and successfully defled Soviet dictator Josef Stalin, died Sunday after a long illness. His funeral came the day after the 88th anniversary of his birth.

The man who led Yugoslavia for 35 years bequeathed his one-man presidency to the presidents of the six Yugoslav republics and two autonomous regions, and his party leadership to a 24-man collective.

After Doronjski's eulogy, a Belgrade choir sang Tito's favorite revolutionary and folk songs.

Then the procession began — Tito's bier, followed by members of his family, members of the government and collective leadership, and survivors of his World War II guerrilla army. Military units followed with 20 funeral wreaths and 365 colorful battle flags, fluttering in a warm

As the procession moved down the wide Knez Milosa Avenue on the three-mile procession, huge crowds of Yugoslavs, including both aging wartime veterans and young people who knew no other national leader, stood by silently. Many wept as the carriage rolled by, pulled by a small military car.

On nearby hills, thousands more jammed into the streets to catch a distant glimpse of the procession.

Some had been waiting since before dawn.
Yugoslav MiG-21 and Hawk jets swooped past in salute to the commander-in-chief.

The same street was used for the procession of assassinated King Alexander in 1934, the last big state funeral in the Balkan capital.

The foreign mourners included four kings, 34 prime ministers, 31 heads of state and scores of ministers, diplomats and political leaders.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale headed the American delegation, sharing the timelight with Brezhnev and Chinese Chairman Hua Guofeng. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt were present, but French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, like President Carter, stayed home.

He will be principal adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edmund S. Muskie's Senate colleagues are signaling President Carter that they want Muskie's to be the unchallenged voice of American foreign policy once he is sworn in tonight as secretary of

Before voting 94-2 to confirm Muskie's nomination Wednesday, many senators said U.S. foreign policy has been severely damaged by the open, highly publicized conflict between former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security ad-

Muskie said he will approach his new duties positively, asserting his office's once traditional primacy in foreign affairs rather than challenging Brzezinski to battle. Muskie told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that as he enters his new office his first and most important priority is to establish the fact that "the secretary of state is the principal adviser to the president on foreign policy issues.

"He must have the primary responsibility for recommending our foreign policy course and seeing that the president's decisions are implemented," he said. "President Carter has made clear he expects me to play this role and I intend to do so.

Muskie told reporters later that his determination to be the principal foreign policy architect "has not been challenged" by Brzezinski or anyone else on the White House staff and that there "seems to be agreement" on his

At the confirmation hearings, senators made clear that they believe the Vance-Brzezinski conflict damaged American interests and that a Muskie-Brzezinski struggle would equally destructive.

During the first three years of the Carter administration, Brzezinski often took positions that were peceived as "hard line," especially regarding the Soviet Union. Vance was deemed to be more moderate and conciliatory and resigned after his opposition to the attempt to rescue the hostages in Iran by military force was

"I think we have developed a mischievous system that often leads to two secretaries of state," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee chairman.

"I think we sound a very uncertain trumpet when foreign countries see public disputes between the secretary of state and the president's national security adviser in the White House. I just hope we can change our procedures. It is damaging our foreign policy and spreading confusion

Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., saying he wanted to "send a signal" to Carter, told Muskie that Brzezinski should be compelled to lower his profile and be restrained from giving interviews and appearing on televi-

There is a need, Sarbanese said, "for a more anonymous staff person" advising the president.

He said an untenable situation arises when Brzezinski permits himself to be questioned about his foreign policy views on television and then cites executive privilege to justify his refusal to be questioned by the Foreign Relations Committee.

Muskie bade farewell to his life as a senator in a short and emotion filled speech immediately before the vote.

He said that the Senate has shaped his life and added: "I want to say to you that I can't think of anything that could more surely generate a drive for excellence on my part than the awareness that I must now meet your test of my final performance.'

The Senate responded with a stand-forms?

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Forms, forms and more forms was the conclusion of a management review of the city of Midland Housing Authority by the Dallas area office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Fred Kester, secretary for the authority, discussed changes recommended by the review officer when the Housing Authority board met Wednesday in City Hall Council Chambers.

In looking over the list of changes suggested by the reviewer, Kester cited using a new application form for Hillcrest Manor, making residents complete a new form each year for continued occupancy and stopping the practice of making copies of residents' Social Security checks to verify

Kester said he was told it is against the law to make copies of a federal check, which applies to Social Securi-

After listening to the suggestions, board member Gene Abbott quipped, "Did they recommend you get another file cabinet for all these

Kester later commented that "it's not as bad as it sounds."

He added that the review officer chastised him for not submitting to HUD a quarterly report on civil rights complaints lodged against Hillcrest Manor. "But we haven't had any complaints, so I haven't filed a form," he explained.

Hillcrest Manor, an apartment complex constructed with HUD funds, offers rental subsidies to lowincome elderly and handicapped per-

A proposed budget for fiscal year 1981 was approved by the board. That budget calls for $78,400 in receipts and $89,250 in expenditures. In the expenditure category, however, is included $15,000 for a sprinkler system to be installed, said Kester.

The deficit will be paid from a (See FEDS SUGGEST, Page 2A) reserve fund, explained chairman Harry Clark. And the budgeted revenue doesn't include rent increases that will come in August as Social Security payments hike.

Rent in Hillcrest Manor is paid on a basis of 22.5 percent of the resident's income. As that income rises, so must the rent, explained Kester.

This year to date the Housing Authority has taken in $54,000 in revenues, only $6,000 under the budgeted figure of $60,000, Kester said. That budgeted figure should be surpassed as there is still three months left in this fiscal year.

Clark reported $19,391,126 has been paid out for 417 loans under the Single Family Mortgage Finance Program. Average home loan is $46,-502. The remaining $10 million in the bond program is committed while the applications are being processed. This should go for another 200 units, he said. U.S. Rep. Al Uhlman's (D-Ore.) bill in Congress could hit a stalemate, Clark reported, as Sen. Russell Long said he had no intention of backing that bill. Uhlman's legislation would allow one bond program per city. This would diminish Midland's chances of another such program. Midland County, meanwhile, has set itself up for a similar low interest home loan program if the legislation can be approved.

However, Clark said, if no legislation is passed by the time Congress adjourns in December, a bonding counsel could rule there is no pending litigation under way and housing corporations could move ahead with their bond programs.

In looking at the other side, Clark mentioned the possibility that Congress could pass a resolution before it adjourns that would prohibit any programs from being carried out between sessions

Ruth Wenck reported all money in the locally-funded housing rehabilitation program has been spent. Last month, $492.50 remained in the fund. That amount was used for walls and ceilings of a four-room house, she noted. This money was the holdover from $100,000 raised in 1978 after Midland City Council rejected HUD's demand to include a rental subsidy program in its Community Development fund application. The previous year, Midland had used $160,000 of CD funds for housing rehabilitation.

Higher unemployment hurts the federal budget by reducing tax revenues and by raising spending for social programs, such as unemployment benefits and food stamps.

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - Democratic officials today began the process that could throw the 9th Congressional District primary into a runoff between veteran Congressman Jack Brooks and political rookie W.L. 'Bubba" Pate.

Brooks, a 14-term veteran, won a apparent primary victory but only with a 50.25 percent majority - a difference of slightly more than 400 votes in the three-man race.

Pate, a bus company manager who had never run for political office before, asked for the recount hoping to Also Wednesday, the Senate handi- force Brooks into a runoff. The 9th-

Patty's probation ended by judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Patricia Hearst Shaw will be taken off state probation two years early, despite a prosecutor's argument that she already enjoyed leniency from the judge who sentenced her. In a court brief, Deputy District Attorney Mike Carroll argued "it is not too onerous a burden that she merely complete probation. Her release from the remainder of her five years' probation is effective Friday, the third anniversary of her sentencing. She entered no contest pleas to charges of firing an automatic weapon at an Inglewood sporting goods store and robbing a man whose car was commandeered in the 1974 incident. She served no time on the counts. The 25-year-old newspaper heiress was pardoned from prison last year by President Carter after serving almost two years of a 7-year sentence on a federal bank robbery conviction. The incidents occurred after she was kidnapped in early 1974 by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army. She later announced she had joined her captors, and was arrested by the FBI in the summer of 1975. Carroll argued in court documents that the late Superior Court Judge

E. Talbot Callister was swayed by the case's "extraordinary background and circumstances" in sentencing. When Callister set probation on May 9, 1977, he said he had considered

"the ways of horrible torture by her abductors" in deciding against a second prison sentence. "I don't think there is a heart in America that isn't full of compassion for her parents," he said at the time.

Married to her former body guard, San Francisco policeman Bernard

Shaw, the former Patricia Hearst now lives in Redwood City. Her SLA companions, William and Emily Harris, were sentenced to 11 years in prison for their roles in the May 1974 crime spree.

Mobil Oil urges PBS not to telecast controversial film on Saudi deaths

NEW YORK (AP) - The Mobil Corp., one of public television's major underwriters, suggested today that the Public Broadcasting Service "review its decision" to air "Death of a Princess," a film that has enraged the Saudi Arabian government.

Mobil, a co-owner of Arabian-American Oil Co., which produces about 75 percent of Saudi Arabia's oil, said in an advertisement in The New York Times that "the proposed showing of this film on public television in

Among other things, the ad questioned "the implications of the fact that congressional appropriations to public television supported, at least indirectly, the production of the film and, if shown, the facilities for dis-

PBS has insisted all along that it will air "Death of a Princess" May 12, despite a protest by the Saudi government to the U.S. State Department that called the film offensive and inaccurate. It repeated that statement today after the Mobil ad appeared.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Exxon Corp. said today that the corporation had heard from the Saudis about the film. "They expressed their concerns to us and we passed them on to the State Department," said James Morakis. He would not elaborate on the content of the Saudi messae

But he said "absolutely not" when asked if Exxon had linked further support of public broadcasting to the showing of the film. Exxon contributes about $5 million annually to public broadcasting.

Reagan starts coasting

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Ronald Reagan plans to resume campaigning Friday in Oakland and San Francisco, after taking a couple days off and canceling weekend appearances in Nebraska and Maryland.

With three-quarters of the delegates needed for the GOP nomination already in hand, the former California governor said his caution over securing the nomination has turned to optimism. Reagan also said he would

Anderson reasserting church-state separation

NEW YORK (AP) - When electing a president, John Anderson says, American voters should not "choose a national rabbi, a national priest, or a national minister."

Those are the views of the independent presidential candidate today on the issue of separation of Church and

But in the early days of Anderson's campaign, questions have arisen on how recently he changed his views on the relationship between religion and government in the United States.

In an interview with the New York Times Wednesday, Robert Strauss, President Carter's re-election campaign chief, said that in the 1970s, Anderson "introduced a vote for prayer in the public schools."

In a speech before Jewish leaders in New York on Wednesday, Anderson said, "The record will demonstrate that in 1968 I voted against the proposed amendment to the Constitution to permit voluntary prayers in

In fact, Anderson, as late as February of 1971, was a co-sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment which would have overturned a Supreme Court decision and permitted prayers in public schools.

It was not until November, 1971 that he changed his mind and voted against a similar amendment on the House floor, according to aides who sought to correct formal remarks before the conference of presidents of major American Jewish organiza-

The episode marks the second time in Anderson's campaign that the church-state issue has arisen.

He has conceded that three times in 1961, 1963, and in 1965, he introduced another constitutional amendment which suggested that Christianity could become the national religion.

He has since renounced that effort and said that as long ago as 15 years, he realized it was a mistake made by an inexperienced, politically conservative House member from Rockford,

But the school-prayer issue served to demonstrate that as recently as nine years ago, he still supported efforts to restore prayers in public schools, an effort defeated in both the House and the Senate.

Aides said that despite the reference to 1968 in his speech to the Jewish leaders, there was no House vote on the issue in that year.

They said that in 1971, Anderson became persuaded that the consitutional requirement for separating religion from public affairs made school prayers unnecessary.

Anderson is today scheduled to fly to North Carolina for a half-dozen campaign stops where he will seek support toward getting his name on the November general election bal-

His landslide victories in three presidential primaries earlier this week gave him 744 of the 998 delegates needed for nomination. Former U.N. Ambassador George Bush, Reagan's only surviving rival, remains far behind with 170 delegates.

Aides said Reagan probably would reschedule the trips to Nebraska and Maryland, although the two states hold their primaries Tuesday.

Reagan is strongly favored to win many of the eight primaries scheduled before June 3, with 210 more Republican delegates at stake.

Reagan is the odds-on favorite in both the California and Ohio primaries on June 3.

In California, 168 delegates will be awarded in a winner-take-all prima-ry. And in Ohio, where 77 GOP delegates will be elected, Gov. James A. Rhodes already is cranking up the party machinery for a Reagan vic-

Although Reagan has not mentioned anyone as a running mate, it is generally thought that Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee is a possible choice.

Baker, a former Reagan rival, has said he would accept second place on the GOP ticket if asked and has prodded Bush to drop out of the race.

And another former Reagan rival, Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, has joined Baker in a plea that it is time to declare the GOP presidential race over and Reagan the winner.

Josip Tito's communism

Josip Broz Tito's death marks the start of what likely will be a dangerous period for Yugoslavia.

Tito, undisputed head of Yugoslavia's government for more than 30 years, forged his own brand of communism; it was freer and more palatable to the

Under the Tito regime, farmers were allowed to own their own land, a sharp contrast to the Soviet Union where the state owns all land. Tito, who established the communist government in Yugoslavia following World War II, was the first communist leader to allow his people some measure of economic and social freedom. Where some freedom exists, hope burns brightly.

The result of Tito's brand of communism is clearly apparent in Yugoslavia. While most goods are plentiful there, in the Soviet Union it's reported that almost everything is in short supply.

It was through the efforts of Tito that the Soviet Union was unable to bring Yugoslavia under the umbrella of the bear's influence as it had Hungary in 1956 and Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Even now the USSR is attempting to spread its sphere of influence to Afghanistan. Can an attempt at controlling Yugoslavia be far behind?

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's highlight in history:

This is not to say that Tito was free of fault; he was not. He was first and foremost a communist leader. But in judging the evil of governments by degree, Tito's brand of communism far exceeds that of the Soviet Union in terms of personal liberty.

Some might think that the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan would keep the Russians from trying to tighten their hold on Yugoslavia. Possibly.

But it's far more likely that the Soviets will be working behindthe-scenes, as it were, in coming months as they strive for the foothold Tito would never allow Tito did leave behind a solid political, social and military structure the Soviets will surely find difficult undermining. Whether that structure can withstand the test of time rests solely with the Yugoslavians.

Tito was a strength unafraid to send the Soviet bear scurrying. Yet, in his own special way, he embraced communism. The Soviets could have learned much from him. Unfortunately, now it is the Yugoslavians who must stand at the ready - remaining always wary of Soviet communist intentions.

A little liberty is better than none at all.

Rosie Ruiz brouhaha made Jimmy run again

WASHINGTON — There is a great deal of speculation in Washington, D.C., this week as to why President Carter has decided to leave the Rose Garden and go out on the campaign

While everyone seems to be giving a different reason I can reveal the true one today. An unusually reliable source at the White House told me, "We decided to switch political strategy because of Rosie Ruiz, the lady marathon run-

"And Carter decided to leave the Rose Garden because of that?"

We received information that Teddy Kennedy was going to go to the Democratic Convention in August and claim Carter had never run for reelection, and therefore was not entitled to be nominated."

"But Carter was running in the Rose Garden," I said.

'It wasn't enough. No one had seen him run in the states that had primaries. They saw Rosalynn running, and Chip running and Miz Lillian running and Vice-President Mondale running for him. But there isn't one piece of film that shows Carter himself. Of course the President planned to cross the finishing line himself, but we were afraid that Teddy's protest might hold up, and Carter could have been disqualified."

"Could the party do that to an in-cumbent President?"

"Nobody knows. The rules are unclear on how far a candidate has to run to qualify for the nomination. The fact that Carter hasn't done any of the running himself hasn't hurt him so far. But this Rosie Ruiz brouhaha has changed everything. Americans are starting to ask if it's enough to have surrogates do all the running for the candidate and then give him the gold medal. We felt that as long as Carter ran around the White House he would be qualified for the marathon. Obviously they don't feel that way in Boston and it would be just like Kennedy, if he lost, to protest a Carter

"But your Rose Garden strategy worked so well. We saw more of Carter running in the White House than we did if he had been out on the road. Suppose Carter falters when he joins the other runners?"

"He only has to beat Kennedy, and he has such a commanding lead, that we don't see any danger of him slipping now.

'You mean he can join the race where it is now and not begin at the starting line?"

Of course. The President only has a few more miles to go, and even if he jogs, we don't see it as a problem. The important thing for Carter is just to show people he was willing to get into the race. As long as we have film of him running, the Kennedy protest won't mean a thing."

"How does the President feel about

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U.S. Air Force, Navy feuding with dollars

WASHINGTON - As the risk of military confrontation with the Soviet Union grows almost hourly, the last thing the United States needs is "business-as-usual" inter-service jealousy at the Pentagon.

But the Air Force appears to be putting its prestige - and its share of the military budget - ahead of objective considerations of national security. In the eyes of some Air Force brass, the U.S. Navy is the enemy, not the Kremlin.

Faced with increasing congressional doubts about the $50 billion "race. track shuttle" proposed to keep our M-X missiles safe from a Soviet first strike, the Air Force has resorted to outright misrepresentation in its attacks on a comparable alternative which would give the Navy primary responsibility for strategic defense of the U.S. mainland. The Pentagon's answer to the danger of a surprise Soviet attack on our land-based missiles is to construct 4,600 silos connected by tracks across thousands of square miles of Nevada and Utah desert. The 200 M-X missiles aimed at targets in the Soviet Union would be shuttled back and forth to confuse the Russians, much like a carnival shell game. Aside from the staggering cost of the mobile shuttle system, and opposition from residents of the areas affected, critics have pointed out that without an effective SALT II treaty, the Soviets could theoretically target a missile on each one of the 4,600 silos. They could find the "pea" by picking all the walnut shells. With these drawbacks to discount, the Air Force has panicked at the suggestion of an alternative missile umbrella that could cost less, doesn't upset anyone's environment, and could be much harder for the Soviets

Jack Anderson

The alternative is the Shallow Underwater Missile System (SUM), developed by two leading scientists, Dr. Sidney Drell and Dr. Richard Garwin. It proposes hiding our missiles on mini-submarines that would cruise up and down the coastal waters of the United States, instead of on platforms that would move on tracks through the desert. Although SUM has yet to be proven better than the land-based M-X system, it deserves careful and objective scrutiny. But in both secret briefings and public hearings, the Air Force has repeatedly tried to blow SUM out of the water by raising a fear it knows is unfounded.

Tidal waves caused by nuclear explosions could destroy the missilebearing submarines, the Air Force

What the Air Force neglects to say is that the destructive effect of a tidal wave on submerged subs is limited to those caught cruising on the continental shelf. But as Dr. Garwin has noted, "Our proposal calls for deploying this force in coastal strips 200 miles wide in order to distribute the mini-subs over a broad enough ocean area so that the force cannot be barraged at any depth."

Nevertheless, Air Force brass hats

HEMISPHERE REPORT

Costa Rica remains a peaceful Central American nation

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica - It's easy to find most of the newer U.S. embassies in Latin America. They look like fortresses and are set back away from the street, behind high steel or chain-link fences. But, here in Costa Rica, one could walk right by the corner of Calle 1 and Avenida 3 in downtown San Jose and perhaps not even notice the Sure, there is an American flag waving on high, but the sidewalks are narrow and vehicular traffic moves. quickly and, if you are anxious to avoid becoming an accident statistic and are watching where you are going, you might not see it.

The U.S. Embassy here looks pretty much like any of the other aging buildings in the center of this capital city of almost 600,000 population.

Doubtlessly, there are plans in washington to build a new, up-to-date structure to house the U.S. diplomatic mission and offices and agencies in Costa Rica.

But it is doubtful there is any of the sense of urgency in San Jose that was felt when the mammoth fortlike edifices were built in Mexico City, Guatemala, San Salvador and elsewhere. Costa Rica is something of an oasis in Latin America, a democratic oasis. There have been only two interruptions in constitutional government here since 1889. One was the two and a half-year dictatorship of Federico Tinoco in 1917 and the other was the revolution of 1948.

William Giandoni

But in the last three decades there have been seven presidential elections and in all, except one, the opposition candidate triumphed. No other hemisphere republic can come within 10 years of Costa Rica's

Because Costa Rica's 2 million people are enthusiastic, not violent, about their politics and Costa Rica's diplomatic and personal relations with the United States have been 'warm and cordial," as the State Department puts it, Americans, and the U.S. Embassy, are safe. So the embassy continues at the same old downtown location it has occupied for years. This is not to say that Costa Rica does not have problems. Inflation is one. The Consumer Price Index jumped 13 percent in 1979 and the Wholesale Price Index soared by 24 percent. Floods and labor problems cut into production of bananas, meat, sugar, and cacao which, along with coffee, are important export items. Higher prices for oil, all of which is imported, kicked Costa Rica's fuel bill up 50 percent to $190 million. Costa Rica has political problems, too, although they are nowhere nearly as grave as those of the other Central American republics. Recently, for example, four former Costa Rican presidents issued a manifesto to the nation calling for a reshuffling of President Rodrigo Carazo's Cabinet and reorganization of his government Some political observers, sympathetic to Carazo, suggested that three of the four would like to see the law changed to permit re-election of a president, which is now forbidden. The fourth, Jose Figueres, already cosmetic than substantive. Many Hispanic leaders view his expressed concern for their constituents as little more than a cynical play for support in the key states of Texas, California and New York, with their total of 112 electoral votes. Carter's appointment of special assistants and so-called "ambassadors" to the Hispanic community is regarded as tokenism in its crudest form by many Hispanic leaders. Even Paul Sandoval, a Colorado state senator who was for Carter in 1976 and is helping coordinate his 1980 campaign there, told my reporter Carol O'Connor he is "very, very disappointed and unhappy with Carter's gimmicks and blatant attempts to get Hispanic votes. Like other leaders in the West and Southwest, Sandoval pinpointed education - and particularly bilingualbicultural classes — as the key issue for Hispanics. They were disappointed earlier this year when, despite what they regarded as a promise to name a Spanish-speaking secretary of the new Department of Education. Carter appointed Shirley Hufstedler instead. 'We had to move heaven and earth just to get a meeting with the new secretary," said Gil Cisneros of the Chicano Education Project. The issue of bilingual education is of overriding importance to the Hispanic population. And even though Vice President Mondale helped to improve the Federal Bilingual Education Act - which would give local school districts the authority to initiate such classes - efforts to turn the act into law have run into a bureaucratic stone wall. Insiders tell me the reason is that

Carter doesn't want to risk offending the powerful ranchers and other business interests in the Southwest who oppose anything that would lift Chicanos from their dependence on the most menial jobs. So while Jimmy Carter proclaims his deep concern for Hispanic chil-

Commandos practiced on scale-model of embassy

EDITOR'S NOTE — Explosions and gunfire shattered an idyllic spring evening in an exclusive resi-dential street just off London's Hyde Park as British commandos and police stormed the Iranian Embassy to free hostages from the hands of Arab-Iranian terrorists. Here is a reconstruction of the assault based on eyewitness accounts.

By MICHAEL WEST Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) - A sudden explosion ripped the classic white facade of the five-story town house at 16 Prince's Gate, blowing out a secondfloor window and sending thick gray smoke into the evening sky.

Reporters keeping watch 200 yards away thought the Arab-Iranian terrorists who seized the Iranian Embassy five days before and were still holding 19 hostages had carried out their threat to blow up the building. "My God, they've done it," Pra-kash Mirchandani of the British Broadcasting Corp. yelled. But the explosion at 7:23 p.m. Monday signaled the start of a daring

31-minute raid by about 20 commandos of the elite Special Air Service Regiment and police. The lightning strike, given the code name Nimrod, freed the 19 surviving hostages. Five terrorists were killed and a sixth captured. Two hostages were reported killed by the gunmen before the commandos moved in. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher summed up the national mood, saying the operation made one "proud to be The traditionally secretive commando group and the police gave few details of the raid. Lacking an official account, this reconstruction is based on statements by witnesses, observations by Associated Press reporters and comments from officials speaking on and off the record. An eerie calm replaced the din of traffic on April 30 when the six gunmen invaded the embassy and police blocked off busy Kensington Road, a block away on the south side of Hyde Park.

The terrorists said they were members of Iran's autonomy-seeking Arab minority from the southern oil province of Khuzestan. They demanded freedom for 91 Arab-Iranians imprisoned by the Persians of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary government and a flight to sanc-

The Iranian government refused to negotiate, but by Monday morning, the siege appeared headed for a peaceful solution. The terrorists had abandoned their demand for the release of the prisoners in Iran and were asking only for a plane to take them to some haven outside Britain. The British government was still refusing, but Then something went wrong.

As some of the terrorists on the second floor were talking with the police on a field telephone, shots were heard at 12:55 p.m. from the third floor where several of the the gunmen were believed to be holding most of the hostages.

"We weren't sure if they involved the shooting of any hostages or wheth-er it was bluff," Deputy Assistant Commissioner John Dellow, the Scotland Yard officer in charge of the siege, said afterward.

At 1:30 the gunmen told police they had shot one of the male hostages, and that another one would be killed every half hour until their demands were met. Apparently this was Iranian diplomat Ali Akbar Samadzadeh, whose body was removed from the rubble of the burned-out embassy on Wednesday At 4:39 the police heard three more shots inside the embassy. Just before 5, the terrorists shoved the body of a hostage out the front door. It was the embassy's press attache, Abbas La-Four minutes later two policemen,

Harris had gone to the em-bassy on April 30 to request a visa and was trapped there when the terrorists Just after 5 p.m. Dellow decided there was a good chance the gunmen would carry out their threat to kill the hostages one by one. In addition to their regular hostagefreeing exercises, the commandos had been practicing on a scale model of the embassy. Photographs and electronic bugging devices planted after the takeover helped pinpoint the gunmen and hostages inside. The raiders also studied photographs of the hostages so as not to confuse them with the gunmen, and reports from

Led by a colonel and split into fourman teams, the commandos carried West German assault rifles that fire 100 rounds a minute. They were impressed by the gun when they assisted German commandos in the rescue of 87 hostages in a Lufthansa jet at Mogadishu, Somalia, in 1977. The raiders also carried British "stun" grenades, whose noise, flash and smoke are designed to produce 10 seconds of disorientation. The idea was to stop both terrorists and hostages where they were, so the commandos could get the jump on the terrorists and so the wouldn't panic and rush into the line of fire. CS-9 nerve gas and plastic explosives completed the raiders' armament.

The raiders wore special ceramic armor, all-black battledress and black hoods and breathing masks that concealed their identity.

Morley Smith, a Canadian banker living nearby, saw some of them slip on to the roof at the back of the Meanwhile, the gunmen got nervous about noises in the building. "Don't worry, they won't attack in broad daylight," Harris reassured

At 7: 23 the commandos struck. One group climbed down ropes from the embassy roof at the rear and let off two charges to create a diversion. Two raiders moved on to the secondfloor balcony at the front from the connecting one next door, kicked in a front window and flung in a stun

The commandos rushed in from front and back. Some of the terrorists were drawn downstairs by an explosion in the basement, where they were ambushed. Flames poured from the building, kindled when the grenades set fire to furniture. Tear gas and smoke billowed from the rear.

In the street, police marksmen and firemen rushed forward, crouching low, using walls, parked cars and other vehicles as cover. Bystanders out strolling at the end of the long May Day holiday weekend screamed and dived for cover.

At 7:30, seven minutes after the first assault, a white flag was waved from a front window.

Harris said his first indication of the raid was a crash of glass as commandos smashed in a window just before the first explosion. At 7:35, he climbed through a shuttered window. A commando on the balcony yelled to him, "Get down!" then kicked in a window and threw in grenades. Harris yelled out that he was afraid he'd burn to death where he was, and another commando told him to jump out and to another bal-

Meanwhile, Constable Trevor Lock, another of the hostages, grabbed a terrorist about to shoot a commando tangled in one of the climbing ropes. The raider freed himself and killed the terrorist. Armed police move into the building at 7:43 as firemen protected by marksmen battled flames leaping from the second and third floors of the Commandos began moving the bulk of the hostages to safety by 7:54.

"We were thrown forcibly from one to the next to the next to the next to the next," Harris said.

Outside they were thrown on the rear lawn and their hands strapped behind them by the commandos, who feared some of the terrorists might be trying to mix with the hostages and escape in the confusion.

Harris said one - the only one who survived — was doing just that.

"One or two of the older female hostages were saying things like, "He's a nice boy and he had been quite pleasant to us." They wouldn't positively identify him as a terrorist. I shouted out "There is no doubt He is shouted out, 'There is no doubt. He is a terrorist.'

The economy: New signs of worsening recession

Interest rates and borrowing down; Trade deficit up; New woes for Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) - Interest rates are posting fresh skids amid new signs of a worsening recession, including a marked slowdown in consumer borrowing, a record trade deficit and additional woes for the beleaguered Chrysler Corp.

The government reported Wednesday that consumers borrowed 36 percent less in March than in February as the Carter administration's credit controls took hold. Installment debt rose $1.4 billion in March, compared with $2.3 billion the month before.

Those credit controls were imposed March 14 to dampen business and consumer borrowing, which was feeding a spending spree that kept the economy from falling into a recession - a step considered necessary by Carter to halt rampant inflation. Now, that recession appears to have taken root, signalled in part by sliding interest rates.

On Wednesday, the nation's third largest bank, Chase Manhattan, lowered its prime lending rate a full percentage point to 17 percent, the lowest level for this key index since February. Many other banks, including the top-ranked Bank of America, cut their rate to 17.5 percent.

And the nation's largest thrift institution, California's Home Savings & Loan Association, slashed its prime mortgage rate 4.75 percent to 12.75

Despite this dramatic one-of-a-kind reduction, most housing experts anticipate a gradual decline in mortgage rates to somewhere between 12 percent and 14 percent by year's

The government on Wednesday also reported a record $12.2 billion merchandise trade deficit for the first quarter - the result primarily of higher-priced petroleum and metals

That deficit compares with a $8.6 billion trade gap in the last quarter of 1979 and exceeds the previous record of $11.9 billion for any quarter, registered from January through March

U.S. exports in 1980's first quarter

Petroleum imports during the first quarter rose 15 percent to $21.6 billion, the Commerce Department said, as the price per barrel of imported crude zoomed up 18 percent in one quarter from $23.68 to $28.06.

A widening trade deficit can adversely affect the value of the U.S.

Petroleum imports rose 15 percent to $21.6 billion as the price per barrel zoomed up 18 percent in one quarter.

increased 6.8 percent, from $50.5 billion in the final three months of 1979 to $53.9 billion, the Commerce Department said.

This improvement was offset, however, by an 11.9 percent increase in the value of imports, from $59.1 billion in 1979's last quarter to $66.2

dollar. The dollar on Wednesday did slide against most foreign currencies, but analysts attributed this primarily to declining interest rates.

Very high interest rates in March were reflected in the slowdown of consumer borrowing, particularly

The Federal Reserve Board reported that the total of such loans rose only $395 million in March, compared with $881 million in February.

In other economic news Wednes-

-Chrysler Corp. reported that from January through March it lost $449 million, as its revenue fell nearly 30 percent to $2.33 billion because of slumping sales.

Chrysler lost $1.097 billion in 1979, including $376 million in the last quarter. The year's loss was a record for an American company and intensified pressures for a federal bailout.

That bailout, which involves $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees to Chrysler, will be taken up again Friday afternoon by the Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board, which oversees issuance of the loan.

-The Carter administration declined to increase the voluntary price standard provided for in its anti-inflation program. But the administration said industry-by-industry exceptions will be considered.

An overall increase in voluntary price lids was recommended by Carter's Price Advisory Committee after the administration boosted the 7 percent wage ceiling to a range of 7.5 percent to 9.5 percent.

But Alfred Kahn, the director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said the council will be "very receptive" to requests by individial firms for adjustments based on rising costs, including salaries and wages.

-The Labor Department estimated that 545,000 Americans filed first-time unemployment claims in the week ending April 25, second only to the previous week's 607,000 filings as the highest since such statistics were first kept in 1967.

Balloonist attempting to make history—again

FORT BAKER, Calif. (AP) — Trans-Atlantic balloonist Maxie Anderson, hoping to make history by flying a balloon across the continental United States, soared into the air today on the first leg of a 2,500-mile air journey from the Golden Gate bridge to Kitty Hawk, N.C.

Anderson — who with two other men guided a helium balloon across the Atlantic Ocean to France two years ago — and his son Kris lifted off in the Kitty Hawk at 12:40 a.m. today from a parade ground at Fort Baker, an old Army base at the mouth of San Francisco Bay:

'When you're up there and there's no sound around you, if a dog barks on the ground, you hear him," Anderson said before they took off. "You hear a car door slam, and you can hear the sound of the wind passing over the peaks. It's a humbling experience."

Despite his "butterflies," Anderson said, "The closer it gets, the calmer you become. I'm ready. Nearly 200,000 cubic feet of helium was loaded into the 75-foot, translucent balloon shortly before launch

Anderson, 45, and his 23-year-old son will ride in a covered, 11-by-5-foot gondola carrying radios, navigational gear, oxygen and supplies for what could be a four-day to six-day jour-

"This is going to be harder than the Atlantic crossing," the elder Anderson said Wednesday as the countdown to lift off got underway with the arrival of a brisk westerly wind.

"The problem is the terrain over the continent," he said, adding that thunderstorms could also threaten the flight.

The most recent attempt to cross the country in a balloon was staged from Tillamook, Ore., last September. That effort failed when the Da Vinci was forced down by a thunderstorm over Ohio

The flight plan called for the Andersons to sail east at 25 mph to 30 mph and at altitudes ranging from 14,000 to Anderson says the first major obstacle should be the snow-capped Sierra Nevada, where winds could take the balloon into wilderness. The Rocky Mountains offer a similar challenge, while the Plains could serve up violent thunderstorms.

Anderson said the $80,000 venture had a 75 percent chance of success. From the Mississippi River on east, our prospects of making it are going to be good."

Anderson, the president of a mining company in Albuqerque, N.M., has been a private pilot for 30 years and a balloonist since 1971.

With his two companions, Anderson gained international renown with the 3,107-mile, 137-hour flight of the Double Eagle II from Presque Isle, Maine, to Miserey, France, in 1978.

A twin-engine airplane, with a support crew, was to follow the flight of the Kitty Hawk.

Radical Islamic nation won't play by rules

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is facing yet another confrontation with a radical Islamic nation that refuses to play by the established rules of diplomacy. This time the drama is being played out in downtown Washington.

On the surface, the differences are clear and simple: -The administration wants to expel four Libyans for conduct unbecoming diplomats.

The Libyans say they aren't diplomats because Libya no longer has diplomats and embassies; it has "people's bureaus" staffed by "people's

-The four refuse to go.

Despite its comic overtones, the situation could have serious repercus-

Libya is the third largest supplier of oil to the United States, and its government issued a warning that relations with the United States will be affected unless the State Department backs down.

State Department officials, who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday they do not know what will happen next. "We have a waiting

Meanwhile, FBI agents were keeping an eye on the Libyan building. The State Department officials say they cannot authorize the FBI to enter the building and seize the men because the premises of diplomatic missions are inviolate under international law.

So they have surrounded the building and are hoping the four Libyans will come out. Once off the premises, the FBI could detain them, escort them to an airport, and put them on the first plane out of the country. The Libyans say they will stay put indefinitely.

The State Department ordered the four men to leave the country May 2, accusing them of being involved in a campaign to harass and intimidate dissident Libyan students in the United States.

In London, sources said Great Britain is considering breaking diplomatic relations with Libya because of the threats against dissident Libyans abroad. The consideration comes in wake of information which British officials have that specially trained gunmen have recently been sent to London under diplomatic cover.

Diplomats can be expelled arbitrarily. But the Libyans here say that since they are not diplomats, they must be afforded due process. At a news conference held inside their building Wednesday, they challenged the administration to arrest them, put them on trial and prove its charges.

The frustration of the diplomats at the State Department was obvious. "It's unheard of!" fumed one senior official at a briefing for reporters. Although there appears to be no direct relationship, the impasse with the Libyans comes while 53 American hostages are still being held by the Iranian government and in the wake of generally touchy relationships with several other Islamic nations.

Burned woman receives $1.1 million settlement

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) -Carole Ann Roscoe says her $1.1 million settlement of a liability suit won't heal her scars or allow her to play the piano again.

The former pianist and teacher reached an out-of-court settlement this week in court action over extensive burns she suffered when the pilot light of a gas water heater apparently ignited gasoline vapors in a basement

Ms. Roscoe, 33, sustained burns over 85 percent of her body Nov. 22, 1975 while cleaning engine parts from her sports car, attorney Richard Weiner said Wednesday.

The woman spent 51/2 months in the burn unit at Hackensack Hospital and plastic surgery operations.

"I think anyone who is scarred receives severe hardships. I walk with difficulty, I can't run, engage in sports or dance. My left hand has lost some of its function, and I certainly can't play the piano like I used to.'

Public Service Electric & Gas Co. agreed to pay Ms. Roscoe $450,000, while Rheem Co., manufacturer of the water heater, contributed $275,-000, Weiner said.

Peerless Furnace Co., made a third-party defendant by Rheem, agreed to pay Ms. Roscoe $25,000. Jacob and Hilda Vargish, owners of the home, contributed $17,500; and the Huffman Manufacturing Co., Delphus, Ohio, maker of the can in which Ms. Roscoe stored the gasoline, agreed to pay $232,000, the attorney noted.

Marone's Gulf Station of River and the Gulf Oil Co., made defendants by Huffman, each contributed $2,500. The State Farm Insurance Co. paid off Ms. Roscoe's $100.-000 auto insurance policy, he said.

Things looking up for Turner's network

WASHINGTON (AP) - Things are looking up for Atlanta sportsman Ted Turner and his Cable News Network.

Most of his staff is in place and a month of dress rehearsals began this week. He has secured the use of the satellite he needs, at least through December.

And the FCC last week cleared the way for Turner to sell his TV station in Charlotte, N.C., for $20 million, which will help bankroll his 24-hour-aday news service for cable system operators.

Major TV network officials are still expressing reservations about the Cable News Network's chance of success, pointing out that Turner is spending about $24 million a year compared to the roughly $100 million spent by each network on its news operation. And ABC, CBS and NBC do

Another moon found for Jupiter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Photos snapped by the Voyager 1 spacecraft have disclosed a 15th satellite orbiting about 94,000 miles above the cloud

It is the second new Jovian moon discovered by the pair of Voyagers that swept past the planet last year. The other was detected in photos

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported Tuesday that the new satellite, temporarily identified as 1979 J2, was identified by Dr. Stephen P. Synnott of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif.

Synnott was examining Voyager 1 photos relayed March 5, 1979, just before the spacecraft made its closest approach to Jupiter, when he noticed "a shadow stepping across the face of Jupiter where no shadow should have been," NASA said.

By studying other transmitted images, Synnott found evidence of the satellite in seven other photos and was able to calculate its size and orbital path. He reported it is 43 to 50 miles in diameter and that it circles Jupiter once every 16 hours 16 minutes on a path between the orbits of the satellites Amalthea and Io.

Synnott said he first noticed the shadow while searching the photos to confirm the orbit of the satellite found in images transmitted by Voyager 2 last July 8. That moon, temporarily labeled 1979 J1, first showed up as a star-like object in an area where there were no known stars. It is 19 to 25 miles in diamater and orbits about 36,000 miles above the Jovian clouds.

The finding of the 14th and 15th moons add to an impressive list of Jovian scientific observations made by the twin Voyagers. Among the discoveries are a ring of particles around the planet, considerable volcanic activity on Io and tremendous bolts of lightning in the planet's

The two Voyagers are now enroute to Saturn, with Voyager 1 slated to fly by that planet next November and Voyager 2 to follow in August 1981. Voyager 2 then is to continue on to an encounter with distant Uranus in

Shuttle won't break even until 1985, officials say

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - It will be 1985 before the space agency breaks even on the space shuttle, officials say.

The orbiter's first 40 flights will cost the National Aeronautics and Space Administration millions of dollars.

The shuttle will make money in its fourth year, when rates escalate for commercial and foreign customers, said Chester Lee, head of Space Transportation System Utilization for NASA.

Customers rent the shuttle's cargo bay for $30 million, a price officials said won't cover the cost of early missions. Lee said inflation and a series of delays have driven up the costs.

"We're morally obligated to hold the prices we set," Lee said. "We don't want to scare away future customers or use our advantage as a monopoly.

NASA officials announced earlier this year that the shuttle's first launch from Cape Canaveral won't be before November and possibly not until 1981. The major problem has been the thousands of heat-resistant tiles that form the shuttle's thermal protection system.

The craft is scheduled to fly 478 flights by 1994, averaging about 50 flights a year with a fleet of four shuttles. The first full payload is scheduled now for early 1982 after a year of test flights.

During its first operational run, the reusable spacecraft will ferry a 47,000-pound data and tracking relay satellite into orbit. And Lee said the shuttle was "saturated" with satellite traffic through 1985, with foreign and U.S. customers accounting for 33 percent of the early missions:

So far, shuttle customers already have paid $70 million to reserve space

The European Space Agency's Spacelab will ride piggyback aboard the shuttle in September 1982. Other spacelab missions are scheduled for March

On some missions, the shuttle's cargo bay will be shared by four different users, ranging from RCA and Japan to ARABSAT, a communications satellite planned by a consortium of Arab countries.

Space for 316 small payloads, each weighing less than 200 pounds, has been sold by NASA. Corporate and educational researchers are lining up to reserve space for small scientific packages, paying anywhere from $3,000 to $10,000.

An average customer will save $17 million by launching a satellite aboard the

Quarantine off

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department announced Wednesday the lifting of a federal quarantine imposed on a commercial bird shop in Virginia after an outbreak of exotic Newcastle disease.

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) -Saudi Arabia and five other nations have asked oil ministers from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to link OPEC price hikes to inflation and economic growth rates of consuming nations.

The ministers considering a longterm crude oil pricing strategy for the 13 OPEC countries resumed their meeting today.

The official Saudi press agency SAI reported after a seven-hour morning session that Saudi oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said the discussions were "extremely successful," and that agreements during the talks would be announced following the final session later today.

The federal government today announced. rules requiring affirmative action plans to offer work to minority and female-owned businesses and to prevent discrimi-nation in hiring in con-struction of the huge Alaska natural gas pipeline system.

The system, to carry natural gas from Alaska's North Slope to the West Coast and upper Midwest, will span some 4,800 miles and cost an estimated $20 billion to $25 billion.

Non-discrimination rules for this vast project were announced jointly by the Interior Depart-ment and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and take effect upon formal publication, expected May 12.

They are to be enforced by the federal inspector overseeing the Alaska Natural Gas Transportation System. The federal agencees

They said the non-discrimination rules were patterned on those applied to construction of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline several years ago, but have been expanded to assure contracting opportunities for businesses headed by women and members of minority groups.

Cuban exodus?

EDITOR'S NOTE - The great flight of Cubans from their homeland is a phenomenon that has caught many Americans by surprise. In the following report some of those who best understand Cuba — Cubans themselves and other Latin Americans - discuss the reasons for the exodus.

By The Associated Press

The desperate refugees streaming out of Cuba are driven from their communist island by irritants as petty as worn-out shoes and late buses, by miseries as grim as hunger and by a sense that hard times will soon get harder, say Cuban and other knowledgeable sources in Latin

The catalyst that produced this reaction, the observers agree, was the visits by tens of thousands of Cuban-Americans over the past two years exiles returning from Miami and elsewhere to see the relatives they left

These American visitors arrived "fat and happy," one refugee re-

"You could almost trace each refugee to a specific encounter with a relative or friend who came back," said one Brazilian official who maintains contact with Cuba. "Nobody likes to see his dumb cousin doing better than him."

The sources, including pro-government Cuban informants, spoke with The Associated Press on condition that they not be named. Although some represent Latin American governments that are staunchly anticommunist, most of these nations maintain diplomatic relations with Cuba, and the sources are in close touch with the situation there.

The exodus of Cubans — more than 24,000 have made their way by boat to Florida in the past month — is not the only one in the Caribbean. Some 25,000 Haitian "boat people" have landed in Florida in the past 12 months. Like the Cubans, they are fleeing poverty and are lured by tales of the good life in the United States.

Cuban President Fidel Castro dismisses those abandoning his nation as "anti-socials and delinquents." He has swollen the exodus with convicts

- common criminals as well as political offenders — pulled from his jails and put aboard the boats headed for Key West.

The sources in various Latin American capitals offer an explanation less simplistic than Castro's. They say his past successes have combined with present failures and future problems in a volatile mix.

"What were the major achievements in health, sanitation and education in the 1960s are matter of fact in the 1980s," said the Brazilian source. "After 21 years, there is boredom, there is frustration."

The younger generation now takes for granted the accomplishments of the Castro revolution and thirsts instead for such "frivolities" as American-style jeans and flashy cars, said Argentine Foreign Ministry sources.

Castro's major miscalculation, Peruvian sources said, was opening the door to the visitors from the United States, who came bearing "nylons, tape cassettes and soft sports shoes, as one said.

"For years, the government told us that Cubans in the United States were living in poverty. ... We could see the government was lying," said one ref-

Even as the Cuban-Americans were stepping off their jetliners, Cuba's economic problems were worsening.

One Cuban source well-connected with the Castro government noted the economy has been shaken by falling productivity, declines in the sugar and tobacco crops, deteriorating transportation systems and general poor management.

"Cuba cannot support any more a situation where you have lots of revolutionary talk but little work," said this Cuban, who is based in a Latin American capital.

Newly arrived refugees say individual problems of everyday life are often minor. The ration for shoes is too limited. The buses in Havana run from 10 minutes to two hours late, and people invariably arrive at work in a sour mood.

But cumulatively the nuisances are maddening, and the refugees say there is a more serious problem. Shortages on the rationed-food market force many to risk punishment by buying on the more expensive black market.

The Cuban source said enactment of a tough new labor law also may have been a significant spur to the rising discontent.

Under the old law, a factory administrator reported a lax or troublesome worker to the plant's council for discipline. But the councils are made up of workers and rarely punished an of-fender if he showed sufficient "revo-lutionary fervor," the source said.

Last Feb. 16 a new law took effect empowering the supervisors to mete out penalties on their own.

"What Castro is doing now is giving the island decent administration," said another source linked to the Cuban government.

Refugee situation offers few answers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Over the past month, more than 20,000 Cubans have fled their homeland and come to the United States. The following answers some questions about the attitudes of the Cuban and American governments on this issue and on the motivations of the refugees.

Q. Why has the Cuban government suddenly agreed to this mass exodus?

A. It apparently sees emigration to the United States as an appropriate way of ridding itself of what it regards as it superfluous population - common criminals, political outcasts and others whom the revolution has been unable to assimilate.

Q. Who decides which Cubans should be allowed to

A. That is entirely in the hands of the Cuban government. Florida-based boat owners arriving at the Cuban port of Mariel generally are allowed to pick up the relatives they are seeking on the condition that they take out a number of "undesirables" as well. For each relative picked up, three or four others must be allowed to join the trip, U.S. officials

Q. Isn't it illegal to transport undocumented aliens to the United States?

A. Yes. Boat owners are being served with notices of fines. But, for humanitarian reasons, the Carter administration has decided to receive all incoming Cubans, at least on a provisional basis.

Q. What will the United States do about common criminals who arrive aboard the sealift?

A. As of Tuesday, 168 arriving Cubans were being detained by U.S. authorities for offenses committed in Cuba. The names of those found ineligible to remain in the United States are being turned over to the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees. U.S. officials say it is conceivable that some Cubans will be deported back to Cuba although among the 800,000 Cubans who have immigrated to the United States since 1959, none has ever been deported.

Q. Are the incoming Cubans political or economic

A. In most cases, it's probably a combination. Most Cubans have, at best, a mediocre living standard. Shortages of even the most basic necessities, such as food and clothing, are chronic. The economy also has been set back by plant diseases that have affected the tobacco and sugar crops, Cuba's two major exports.

Q. How long will the exodus be allowed to contin-

A. President Carter has indicated that tens of thousands will be allowed to enter the United States. But the administration is pressuring Cuba to adopt a procedure which is more orderly and less dangerous than immigration by boat.

Q. Have other nations expressed a willingness to receive Cuban refugees?

A. The response thus far has been disappointing to the Carter administration. Almost 11,000 Cubans fled to the Peruvian Embassy compound in Havana last month. Only Costa Rica, Peru, Ecuador and Spain volunteered to receive any of these refugees. About 800 Cubans were flown to Costa Rica from the Peruvian Embassy compound before the Cuban government suspended the flights after three days.

Q. What is the current status of the 380 Cubans, mostly former political prisoners, who sought refuge in the U.S. Interests Section in Havana after they were attacked by Cuban security agents last week.

A. Cuba wants to take custody of all the men who have been granted refuge and has promised to allow them to emigrate quickly.

Alternate MX schemes proposed on Hill again

WASHINGTON (AP) - As Pentagon experts press Congress to approve building the controversial MX mobile missile system in western desert valleys, supporters of radically different missile schemes are stating their cases anew on Capitol Hill.

Several retired high-ranking military officers and scientists specializing in defense issues are still promoting such ideas as putting the MX in small submarines that would lay off the American coast.

Their testimony before a Senate subcommittee Wednesday came only a day after the Pentagon's top research official said the MX design has already been thrashed out, with only a little further "fine tuning" likely.

That basic design puts the MX on a mobile launcher, shuttling between reinforced missile shelters in desert valleys, probably in Utah and Ne-The idea is to keep Soviet spy satel-

Moorer and others concentrated on the potential of small, quiet submarines carrying two to four missiles each that would stay relatively close to the U.S. coastline.

"The only significant difference from the MX missiles on land will be that the mini-submarine missiles cannot be located and are thus not targetable, so their potential vulnerability is much less," said Herbert Scoville Jr., president of the Arms Control Association.

Dr. Sidney Drell of Stanford University dismissed arguments that such a system could be vulnerable to artificial "tidal waves" created by Soviet nuclear blasts in the water. He said that would be a hazard only in waters less than 400 feet deep, while the subs would be based in deeper

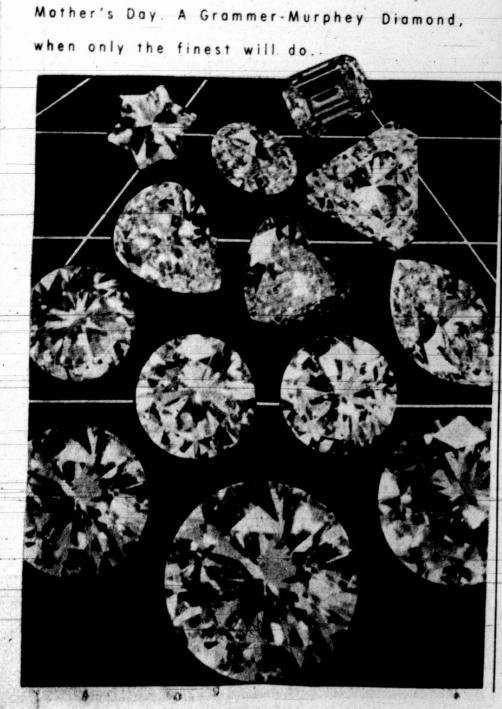

The submarines were not the only idea presented, however. Retired Navy Capt. John E. Draim argued for a system studied in the 1960s but never implemented - floating missiles that could be fired while bobbing

Israelis pull raid on Lebanon

Three guerrillas dead, six wounded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Seaborne Israeli troops supported by hel-icopters struck more than 20 miles inside southern Lebanon during the night, killing three Palestinian guer-rillas and wounding six. The raid came less than a week after PLO terrorists killed six Jewish settlers on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan

Lebanese provincial authorities said the Israelis moved up the coast by sea and ambushed two Palestinian jeeps, killing three guerrillas. Six other guerrillas were wounded in Israeli grenade and machinegun at-tacks at two or three points along Lebanon's coastal highway.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv. said only that "a number of terrorists suffered casualties and vehicles in their possession were destroyed," and that all its troops returned safely.

A spokesman for the governor's office in Sidon, the provincial capital of southern Lebanon 25 miles south of Beirut, said Israeli gunboats landed about 150 troops who set up roadblocks near the Palestinian-run town of Damour, 12 miles south of Sidon, the adjacent village of Sadiyyat and the fishing village of Saksakieh, six miles south of Sidon.

One jeep was ambushed between Damour and Sadiyyat and its two guerrilla occupants killed in a hail of machine gun fire, the spokesman said. A third guerrilla was killed in a jeep that was attacked near Saksa-kieh, he said.

The guerrillas belonged to Al Fatah, Yasser Arafat's fighting arm of the Palestine Liberation Organization, the spokesman said.

Surviving guerrillas reached the fishing village and pleaded with pro-Iranian Shitte Moslem Lebanese militiamen for help, the spokesman said. Militiamen from Amal organization rushed to the scene and battled the Israelis on the beach for 15-minutes, he added.

A PLO spokesman said guerrillas in the two areas fought "fierce clashes with the raiding Israeli units and forced them to withdraw.

Israeli chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Rafael Eytan, was quoted as telling Army Radio the raid was part of "the general war against terrorism," and not a direct reprisal for last week's Palestinian ambush in the occupied West Bank city of Hebron that killed six Israelis and injured 16.

Israeli commanders claimed local guerrillas staged the Hebron ambush, but the PLO said it was responsible. Immediately after the ambush, Israel deported to Lebanon the mayor and the chief Moslem religious leader of Hebron and the mayor of the neigh-boring West Bank town of Halhoul.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, Israeli forces today used bulldozers and dynamite charges to destroy the homes of two Arab families whose sons were charged with throwing grenades at Israeli military vehicles earlier this year, the military command said.

The last major Israeli military operation in Lebanon occurred a month ago when troops took up positions along a 10-mile arc in southeastern Lebanon after a guerrilla attack on the border kibbutz of Misgav Am in which three Israelis were killed. They withdrew after five days and pressure from the United States.

The Israelis apparently delayed the new strike into southern Lebanon until the latest round of talks on Palestinian autonomy in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip were adjourned. The Egyptian negotiators returned home Wednesday afternooon after spending the past week making little progress in talks with Israeli and American delegates in a Tel Aviv suburb.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman flew to Egypt today to conclude talks on normalization of ties between the two countries, Israel Radio reported. Weizman also is expected to discuss the impasse in the Palestinian autonomy talks. He and Egyptian Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Aly are in charge of negotiating security arrangements for the proposed autony. mous Palestinian government in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Sol Linowitz, the U.S. mediator of the autonomy talks, flew to Cairo after discussing the negotiations with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. No details were released. After talks in Cairo with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, Linowitz will return to Washington to brief President SHAFTER, Calif. (AP) - Paul Bender, a senior at Shafter High School, threw the discus 200 feet, 7 inches Wednesday, more than a foot farther than any interscholastic competitor this year.

The 200-7 mark ranks as the fourth best throw in California high school history and was shy of the national record set in 1978 by Dave Porath of Atwater (Calif.) High School, who logged a 209-6 toss.

Simmons, Harper seek track crowns in state meet By TERRY WILLIAMSON

Sports Writer

Midland High's David Simmons and Midland Lee's Keevin Harper will end their storybook senior seasons in Austin this weekend as the state track meet deals out its annual trail of tears and glory at Memorial

Simmons will be in both the discus and shot put events, and is listed as one of the favorites in the discus competition although the talent seems to be on a very even keel. Harper will be in the 800 meter run, and he will have to turn in the time of his life for an upset in a very talented field

Simmons, who couldn't even get out of district competition a year ago, owns the state's best toss this year in the discus with a 187-8. He qualified for the state meet by winning the Region I meet with a toss of 172-4. That was not the best qualifying time.

FOUR OTHER STATE qualifiers had better qualifying tosses. Ron Faurot of Hurst-Bell, who is also in the shot put, owns a 181-5 while Joe Joyner of Duncanville has a 181-4. Greg Porter of Humble owns a 179-5 and Texas City's Kevin Hancock has a 177-7. Others include Mac Tatum of Lubbock Monterey, 165-9; Tim Conrad of Corpus Christi Moody, 162-3; and Aaron Cantu of San Antonio Lee, 151-5%.

The discus competition will be held at 3:30 p.m. Friday. In the shot put, scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, Simmons ranks as the fourth best heading into the competition. Simmons owns a 60-4 this season, but qualified with a 59-11/4. El Paso Andress' Jerry Bullitt, who defeated Simmons at the region meet and is headed for Texas A&M on a football scholarship, has a 63-0 to lead the way while Faurot has a 62-5.

John Tyler's Roderic Arterberry has a 61-61/2. All the others appear to be out of the chase with Humble's G. F. Watkins, 58-21/4; Spring's Greg Bomkamp, 57-81/2; Austin Crockett, 54-11/4; and McAllen's Arnold Kent, 53-111/4.

Simmons warmed up for the state meet last weekend with a 168 in the discus and 54-0 in the shot put in Hobbs, N.M., in a meet that featured a driving rain. Teammate James Lary placed second in both events to Simmons, including a 163-0 in the discus. Lary was fourth in the region discus competition.

HARPER WILL BE among one of the fastest 800 meter fields ever assembled when he takes to the track Saturday afternoon. Harper posted a career best and Lee school record 1:55.4 to qualify for the state meet two weeks ago. He will probably have to do better than that to stay in the

Harper finished second at the regionals with his best time, losing to Daniel Rojas of El Paso Irvin, who posted a flashy 1:53.5., but that isn't the fastest time in Saturday's field. Houston Dobie's Gwain Guy has a 1: 53.0 while Houston Smiley's Ky Guiton has a 1: 53.59. Harper's qualifying time is better than the rest of the field, but there is a lot of strength with Austin Crockett's George Collins, 1:56.8; Ricky Perez of Edinburg, 1:57.0; Richardson Pearce's John Sexton, : 56.05; and Pearce's Rick

This is also Harper's first time out of die competition. Last year, the best he could do was 2:01, and a fine he district meet. He has become the biggest surprise of the year in District 5-4A. Other 5-4A performers in the state meet include Permian's Mike Van Zandt in the pole vault with the second best qualifying height of 15-0, Big Spring's Joe Willie Jones in the 400 with the third best qualifying time, and San Angelo's Dennis Nolder in the 110 hurdles with the fastest qualifying time of 13.7.

IN THE AAA division, Andrews' Van Pearcy will be in two events. His 23-7 is the best qualifying jump in the long jump and his 48.27 is the best qualifying time in the 400 meters.

Odessa Ector will also be well represented as James Ricks goes both in the 300 hurdles and the 100 meters, where his times give him a chance at a double victory. Danny Gamble will be in the 800 meters and Tony Gamble will be in the 1600 meters.

In the AA competition, Kermit's Bobby Williams is a big favorite with a 15-0 by far the best qualifying height.

McCamey's Billy Ray Terry will try to become a two-event winner in the Class A competition in the long jump and 200 meters while Stanton's Lewis Henry will also be in the long jump. Staton also has a sprint relay

Cowboys won't lose Hegman for this season

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys' defense, riddled by retirements, injuries and a midseason dismissal, apparently will not lose indicted linebacker Mike Hegman for the 1980 season, according to a televised re-

Hegman was indicted March 17 on charges he forged his roommate's name to more than $10,000 worth of checks while the roommate was out of the countrry, and his case was set for trial this week.

But Hegman's attorney, Spencer Kopf, Wednesday told WFAA-TV reporter Bill Macatee the trial had been reset to Dec. 8, just two weeks before the end of the National Football League regular season.

"We found one of the state's witnesses wasn't going to be available for several months," said Kopf, "so we came down and looked at the calendar and tried to find a date. The only date we could find that was acceptable to both parties was in December.' Kopf said it was a coincidence that the new trial date comes at the end of the football season. The Cowboys had been depending heavily on Hegman, who became a starter after Coach Tom Landry released Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson in the middle of the 1979 season. In addition, safety Cliff Harris announced his retirement after last season, safety Charlie Waters is recovering from knee surgery and cornerback Aaron Kyle is to undergo knee surgery this month and could miss much of the team's preseason train-

The Atlanta-Philadelphia game was rained out.

Parker's homer was the Pirates' fourth of the night. Shots by Willie Stargell, Bill Madlock and Ed Ott had staked Perez to a 6-0 lead through five innings. Los Angeles trimmed the margin to 6-2 with a pair of sixth-inning runs. Perez was relieved after he yielded

Blue Jays win fifth straight

By The Associated Press

No, it's not April Fool's Day, but if the American League season ended right now you could see the Oakland A's and the Toronto Blue Jays in the

Oh, the Blue Jays would first have to win a one-game East Division shootout with the New York Yankees, but why quibble when two last-place teams that combined for a 107-217 record a year ago (Oakland 54-108, Toronto 53-109) are enjoying the rarefied atmosphere of first place.

Dave Stieb scattered 10 hits - he was backed by five double plays and Al Woods and Otto Velez hit two-run homers as the Blue Jays whipped the California Angels 7-3 Wednesday night. That gave the Jays a club record-tying fifth consecutive victory and they remained dead-locked for first place in the AL East with the Yankees, who beat the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1.

The 4-year-old Blue Jays' only other five-game winning streak was Aug. 20-23, 1978.

The A's dropped a 2-1 squeaker to the Cleveland Indians but still hold a one-game lead in the West over the Chicago White Sox, who were routed by the Kansas City Royals 12-5.

Elsewhere, the Baltimore Orioles downed the Minnesota Twins 8-6, the Boston Red Sox beat the Texas Rangers 7-4 in 11 innings and the Seattle Mariners nipped the Detroit Tigers

Woods' homer off Chris Knapp after Rick Bosetti doubled gave Toronto a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Bosetti walked and scored ahead of Velez's eighth home run in the third, tying him for the major league lead with Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies. Damaso Garcia had a tworun single in the sixth and Velez added a sacrifice fly in the seventh. 'The whole team has a better attitude and better atmosphere. Every body is picking each other up," said

"When you get pitching, defense and power, that's all it's going to take," added Bobby Mattick, Toronto's 64-year-old rookie manager. "I think we have a pretty solid club right now. We're beginning to feel compe-tent and confident. The main thing is we are beginning to execute well.

Yankees 4, Brewers 1 So are the Yankees, who turned four double plays in support of unbeaten Tommy John's seven-hit pitching for their fifth consecutive victory and John's fifth. Eric Soderholm homered for New York while Graig Nettles had an RBI single and shortstop Bucky Dent contributed two sacrifice flies along with, a fielding gem that kept the Brewers from tying the score in the eighth inning. "He (John) doesn't bother coming in on you," Milwaukee's Paul Molitor said of the 36-year-old left-hander, who recorded 19 outs on ground balls. "He just stays on the outside corner all night. It's almost psychological. You know he's going to make you hit the ball on the ground. It's very, very frustrating. You're in and out of there before you know it." Indians 2, A's 1

Cleveland's Mike Hargrove extended his hitting streak to 18 games with a two-run single in the sixth inning and Rick Waits pitched a four-hitter, allowing only an unearned run on first baseman Hargrove's throwing error in the third.

Royals 12, White Sox 5

Rookie Bobby Detherage smashed his first major league home run, a three-run shot in the fifth inning, and Willie Wilson and Hal McRae delivered two-run doubles in an eight-run fourth to power Kansas City.
Orioles 8, Twins 6

Al Bumbry raced home with the tie-breaking run on Ken Singleton's infield tapper in the eighth inning and Terry Crowley, who homered earlier, added a sacrifice fly after Baltimore blew a 6-1 lead. Red Sox 7, Rangers 4

Boston scored three unearned runs in the 11th inning with the help of two Texas errors, one by newly acquired glove man Bud Harrelson. Jack Brohamer started things when Texas pitcher Adrian Devine slippped on the soggy infield while trying to field a slow roller. Carl Yastrzemski grounded to second but shortstop Harrelson, making his first American League appearance after being signed for infield insurance, missed the bag after taking second baseman Bump Wills' throw.

In the confusion, Brohamer went to third. He was trapped on Rick Burleson's grounder back to the mound but scored the go-ahead run when catcher Jim Sundberg's throw hit him as he scampered back to third.

Mariners 7, Tigers 6 Joe Simpson's two-out single delivered the winning run. Loser Pat Underwood walked Tom Paciorek leading off the 10th and pinch runner Rodney Craig was sacrificed to second. Larry Milbourne was walked intentionally and Bill Stein flied out before Simpson's game-winner.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Los Angeles reserve forward Spencer Haywood, at odds with Coach Paul Westhead recently over a lack of playing time, was su-spended indefinitely by the Lakers following Wednesday night's 107-104 playoff loss to the

76ers even NBA playoffs with 107-104 victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Bobby Jones' pressure jump shot with seven seconds to play enabled the Philadelphia 76ers to hold off a Los Angeles comeback and beat the Lakers 107-104 Wednesday night to even the National Basketball Association championship series at one victory apiece.

The 76ers had led by as many as 23 points in the third quarter, but saw the Lakers close within one before Jones finally clinched the victory.

"I knew there wasn't much time left and I had to take the shot," said Jones, whose shot was in the air when the 24-second clock's buzzer sound"Michael Cooper was coming at me and I had to arch it high," said Jones, the soft-spoken sixth man of the 76ers. "I didn't see anything until it hit the bottom of the net." Lakers Coach Paul Westhead said he thought his team was going to pull out the victory despite a weak first

"We were slow coming out," he said. "We weren't sharp enough defensively and everything regressed from there. But I still thought we were going to get it. We were right there, but Jones made a great play. "It was a great pressure basket by a great player."

Darryl Dawkins, who was not a factor in the series opener, led the 76ers with 25 points.

"Darryl was a completely different ball player tonight," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "He wants to win, he is willing to work for it, and he showed it tonight."

Jamaal Wilkes added 18 points for Los Angeles, Jim Chones scored 14 and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 13. Nixon, who had 23 points in the opener, managed just eight.

Cheeks and Hollins had two baskets apiece as the 76ers ran off 11 straight points to lead 11-4 with 8: 11 remaining in the first quarter. The Lakers closed to 13-11 before Erving scored nine of Philadelphia's next 11 points as the 76ers pulled away to a 31-21 lead after the opening period.

Erving, who scored just nine points in the first three quarters of the series opener, had 12 points in the first period of Game Two to help Philadelphia to its fast start. In that quarter, the 76ers made 13 of 18 shots from the

After a driving basket by Lakers rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the 76ers outscored Los Angeles 10-4 in the final three minutes of the half. Philadelphia hit 26 of 39 field goal attempts in the half, a .667 mark, compared to 20-of-42 for .476 for the North Stars face must win tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers can reach their first Stanley Cup playoff finals in five years tonight when they host the Minnesota North Stars in the fifth game of their series.

The Flyers, who lost the opener here, lead the best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff set 3-1, thanks largely to their ability to kill off the power play.

The young North Stars were unable to capitalize on 12 power plays in Tuesday night's fourth game, which the Flyers won 3-2. In the last two games, Minnesota is one for 27 on the power play. "We're getting lots of good chances. That's not the problem," said Minne-sota Coach Glen Sonmor. "You've got to give (goalie) Phil Myre and their penalty killers a lot of credit, but we also need a little luck and some help from above." The Stars ended Montreal's threeyear stranglehold on the Stanley Cup by polishing off the Canadiens in seven games. They insist they aren't worried about playing at the Spectrum here.

"The 3-1 advantage means something; the home-ice advantage doesn't," insisted Sonmor. "We've just got to win three in a row now."

Philadelphia Coach Pat Quinn said veteran Myre would start again. He is 4-0 in the playoffs with a 1.59 goals against average.

"I don't take anything for granted," said Bobby Clarke, the Flyers' assistant coach and former captain. "But it is nice to go home with a two-game lead.

Two North Stars were added to the Minnesota injury list Tuesday. Rookie Steve Christoff, their leading goalscorer in the playoffs, is listed as questionable with bruised ribs and defenseman Curt Giles is the same because of a badly bruised shoulder.

end of Tuesday's game, their ninth in 20 days. "I'm sure that's a reflection of the fact that we had 26 minutes of shorthanded play to overcome," Quinn said of the high (nine of 14) number of clutching penalties.

"I've always believed that, at this stage of the season, more games are won with your head than with your body," the coach suggested. "And fatigue is something that the mine can overcome.

"But, just as I never expected to win this thing with one goalie, I never expected to do it with one set of defensemen, or one center. We will need them all if we're going to win the Cup," Quinn concluded.

Visas refused U.S. lifters

YORK, Pa. (AP) - The U.S. government has refused to issue visas for members of the U.S. weightlifting team to go to Cuba for the Pan-American Championships, according to the team's coach.

Smith said he was advised Monday by Jim Fox, a liason officer from the Amateur Athletic Union in Indianapolis, that the government would not issue visas for the weightlifters' trip.

Like Ben Hogan used to ravage Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth, Tom Watson is the player you have to beat each year in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

Hogan won five Colonial Invitation tournaments. Watson has won three Nelsons in five years, including the last two.

The $300,000 Nelson tournament, which began today over the 6,993-yard, par-70 Preston Trail Golf Club, was supposed to place, even though the glamor-ous field included Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and the latest PGA-tour winner, Curtis Strange, who beat Trevino in a playoff in Houston.

"Sure, you have to pick Watson," said tour veteran Al Geiberger. "He putts these greens like a bandit. And he's hitting it good ... real good."

Watson, a dues-paying member of Preston Trail, comes to the Nelson fresh from a week off after winning the Tournament of Champions and the New Orleans open back-to-back.

He is close to a dead-even pick spite the fact there were 144 players in the field.

Drillers topple Rowdies

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) - Jan Goossens' third goal of the season in the 60th minute sent the Edmonton Drillers on to a 2-0 victory over the Tampa Bay Rowdies in North American Soccer League play Wednesday.

The young Dutch striker took passes from midfielder Klaus Heinlein and Edi Kirschner and dribbled a weak shot past Rowdies goalkeeper Winston DuBose — the third time in Edmonton's four games that Goossens has scored the opening goal.

Kirschner headed in a corner kick by Heinlein with seven minutes remaining to seal the victory before 8.107 fans.

Drillers, 3-1, had 15 shots to 10 by the Rowdies, who played without last year's NASL scoring champion, Oscar Fabbiani. Rookie John Baretta saved six Tampa Bay shots in recording his first ever shutout, while Du-Bose made four saves.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Despite the discouragement of a boycott of the Moscow Olympics, more than 100 competitors were expected today for tryouts for the U.S. Olympic wrestling team.

The five-day schedule includes freestyle wrestling through Saturday, then Greco-Roman competition Monday and Tuesday. Officials said as many as 150 competitors might show up from throughout the nation. Among them were three freestyle veterans from Wisconsin: Ben Peterson, who won a silver medal in the 1972 Olympics and a gold in 1976 at who won a gold in 1972 and a silver four years later, and Russ Hellickson, winner of a silver at Montreal. Also expected was former University of Wisconsin star Lee Kemp, fourtime Big Ten champion and three-

Sandoval rallied in the final two rounds to decision Curtis in their 112-pound quarterfinal bout.

In other action, young heavyweight Marvis Fra-zier of Philadelphia, son of former world heavyweight champ, easily advanced to the semifinals as he stopped Charles Hostetter of Odessa, Texas, by technical knockout in the second round.

The 199-pound Frazier, the top-ranked heavyweight competing in the tournament, hammered Hostetter in the first round wath combinations and counterpunches to the head and with devastating body shots. The referee gave Hostetter a standing eight-count after Frazier landed two straight lefts and then a left hook to the head in the second round of the scheduled three-round fight. The referee let the fight continue, but it didn't last long because Frazier landed a right to the jaw that dropped his opponent and

Hall not planning to use backup car

By MIKE HARRIS AP Motorsports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Carbuilder Jim Hall insists he isn't going to run his backup car in the Indianapolis 500, but there are more than a few drivers drooling over the prospect of getting a ride in the sleek Chaparral.

Two-time Indy winner Johnny Rutherford, the driver of Hall's No.1 car and the runaway winner of the only champion car race run so far this year, was the envy of many Wednesday as he took out the backup car for its first ride on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The low-slung yellow machine responded with several laps clocked at more than 190 mph. including the day's fastest circuit of 191.489.

It was the third straight day that the 42-year-old Texan has led the speed parade in practice for time trials that begin Saturday. It was, however, the "ground effects" machine that he plans to run in the May 25 race that drew the headlines the first two days.

Talk began early Wednesday that the backup car was available for the right driver, and unattached pilots were ready to fight for the honor. But Hall quickly squelched the rumor. "We don't plan to run this car in the race," the innovative owner said. "It's our backup car and right now that's all we plan to use it for." Thirty-nine cars made it onto the 21/2-mile oval Wednesday, but other than a 190.034 by two-time Indy winner Bobby Unser

in a Roger Penske-prepared

PC9, Rutherford had the day's spotlight. The heaviest track activity of the week also was accompanied by a rash of accidents.

The most serious of the crashes was the first, involving rookie Frank Weiss, 36, of Canada. He suffered a fractured right ankle and left kneecap when his McLaren-Offenhauser went out of control coming out of the fourth turn, struck the outside wall twice, slid across the track and stopped against the inside

It took the Speedway's safety crew about 15 minutes to cut Weiss out of the car. The driver, who had just turned a lap clocked at 176.5 mph, remained conscious and was reported in good condition at nearby Methodist Hospital.

Less than half an hour later, veteran Sheldon Kinser, 37, of Bloomington, Ind., spun coming out of turn one, slid backward 540 feet into the outside wall and wound up in the center of the track. Kinser was not injured. Another rookie, Dennis Firestone of Los Angeles, also escaped injury minutes later when his Penske machine went out of control and brushed the wall coming out of turn two. The car suffered extensive damage, but the Firestone, 35, walked away unscathed.

The only other accident since the track was opened for practice Saturday was a crash Monday involving rookie Tony Bettenhausen, who was not in-

Even NBA playoffs on CBS not good for ratings

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writers In some cities, the NBA on CBS isn't on CBS. The game might be dribbled over to an independent station but, then again, it may not be seen at all. About 15 of CBS' 200 affiliates aren't showing the National Basketball Association's championship series between Los Angeles and Philadelphia. WSPA in Spartanburg, S.C., one of the key dissenters, hasn't had anybody storm its station in protest, either.

"We have an obligation to show programs that people want to see," said David Handy, station-program manager of WSPA. "All the evidence that we have is that not too many people want to watch it."

The NBA's final round is akin to baseball's World Series and football's

Super Bowl in capping a season and crowning a champion but certainly not in television appeal.

While the last Super Bowl game and five of the seven 1979 World Series games were in prime time, no NBA playoff game will get the high-visibility time slots normally reserved for "M.A.S.H." and "The Dukes of Haz-

THE REASON is simple. The NBA just doesn't attract enough viewers to warrant prime time exposure. Although CBS Sports would love to air one of its prize products when more people are watching TV, the network's affiliates and entertainment division rejected the idea.

So Wednesday night's second game was seen live in the east at 11:30 p.m., but on tape on all of CBS' West Coast affiliates, except Los Angeles. If the series goes to a sixth game Friday, May 16, in Philadelphia, starting at 8:05 p.m. EDT, it would be seen on tape-delay almost everywhere. The sixth game could be a championshipclinching game, and it would be a sorry thing for sports fans to learn the result on their late news stations.

But that's what happens when the NBA's ratings become little league compared to some of the other major sports shows on the weekend and, of course, any entertainment programming at night — even though the league's regular-season ratings were up 12 percent and its playoffs are up 16 percent.

We carried the NBA for four seasons. Each year the audience level dropped," said Handy. "During those four years, the CBS stations in Atlanta and Charlotte (N.C.) both stopped carrying the NBA. We thought if the two markets east and west of us stopped covering the NBA, we would get some fallout. But we didn't have any growth.

"The audience was so low we couldn't find people interested in buy-ing local sales. The ratings for golf and tennis are also low, but at least there is some sponsor interest.

"The other two networks were trouncing us from January to May. They were beating us with movies."

SO WSPA decided to switch and not fight anymore. On Sundays, the station's viewers can see "Virgil Ward's Championship Fishing Show," movies, "Fishing with Roland Mar-tin" and "Sports Afield." "They all do better than the NBA did," Handy said.
WTEV in Providence, R.I., plans to show four of the possible seven championship games and expects to be hurt financially by all the games being in May, one of the crucial rating evaluation months. The numbers achieved in May fix a station's advertising rates until November.

"My feeling is that it's a major event, it's the championship of the NBA, so we go with it," said Charlotte Hall, program manager of WTEV. "Last May, we carried four NBA games. The two on Sunday averaged a 2 rating (percent of sets) with an 11 share (percent of sets in use). For four Sunday (Boston) Red Sox games, we averaged a 12 rating.

"There are only so many hours in prime time. A couple of NBA games can pull you down a lot," added Hall, who estimated the NBA games in May 1979 cost the station $8,000-$10,-000 for the six-month period.

Besides lowering future ad rates, many local stations don't make as much money by showing the NBA. CBS, which pays a nominal fee to affiliates for taking network programming, allows five minutes of local ads during an NBA game. If WTEV shows a movie, it can plug in about 25 minutes of commercials over a 21/2-hour period.

WBTV in Charlotte, N.C. conducted a February 1978 survey, which showed that fewer adult viewers watched the NBA than the games' lead-in — Fred Kirby, a local singing cowboy. The movie following the games had double the audience ... WBTV cancelled out on the NBA.

"We program for maximum viewer impact," said John Hutchinson, WBTV's program director. "We'd. love for the audience to be there, but it hasn't been. Actually, it's an operational inconvenience not to show the NBA. If the game runs long and the golf (on the CBS network) is delayed, we have to fill with country music. "We re-evaluate this situation every year. If the audience figures turn around, we'll be with it."

WBTV, however, offered to carry the championship series, but CBS said no, preferring to sell the whole playoff package across the street to WCCB, a UHF station in Charlotte.

"It wouldn't be my choice if my network programs my competition, but I understand why they must,' Hutchinson said.

In contrast, the smaller WCCB is happy to bring you the NBA on "Our ratings are up, but our decision was not based solely on ratings," said Beverley Poston, WCCB's program director. "We have a major commitment to sports.

"We would definitely do better with our own programming, but we like to think of it as a public service. We got quite a few 'thank yous' from people

Baker had no more than let his bait out to 20 feet and wham, a four-pound striped battled him til the finish. For more than one and a half hours, we fished and caught more than 50 stripers from two to 10 pounds. Never in my life have I witnessed more excitement at striper fishing than that memorable day on Lake Mead.

The lake is literally loaded with stripers. The current record from Mead is 47 pounds. But that may not hold up long, according to several lake biologists I talked with while visiting Mead. Although we used anchovies, Tangen said fishing is great with artificial lures, too. When the weather and water warm up, he normally fishes for stripers the same way West Texans do. They school by the hundreds. The large schools of stripers drive baitfish, mainly threadfin shad. into the back ends of coves and creeks, creating a feeding frenzy among stripers. He said, "If you can locate this school of feeding stripers, most any topwater lure will do the trick and the fishing is fabulous."

Next time you plan visiting Las Vegas for gambling, show-watching or whatever, don't overlook several hours on Mead. You can take your own fishing equipment or rent rods and reels at Callville Bay. You may also use a guide service or rent boats and motors. For information, contact Bob and Fran Daily, Box 100-Star Route, Las Vegas, Nev., 89101.

Completing five of his first six starts, Keough has posted a 4-2 record and a 1.61 earned run average.

The problem, said Keough, is that he is playing on the lowestpaid team in the major leagues, "and I'm not even making the average salary on the team."

Keough has played without a contract since 1978. Like several other A's, he has filed a grievance with the players association against owner Charlie Finley.

"You shouldn't say that it's just a money thing," Keough told a local reporter. "If you play this game for money alone, you'll never become a superior player."

Several factors have contributed to the metamorphosis of Matt Keough. On a purely technical level, he got rid of his slider, which he said "was getting me in trouble. I wasn't throwing it for strikes."

He is also stronger this year, having put on about 15 pounds by working out in a gym.

Espionage spices Ludlum's thrillers

By DEBORAH MESCE

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — It seems apt that Robert Ludlum, author of best-selling spy thrillers, refuses to disclose the location of his Connecticut shoreline home.

But it's not that he's trying to live the intrigue he wrotes about - "I don't have any deep-seated desire to be a spy." It's just that "sometimes the nonsense I write brings out the crazies."

Woven through his stories of international espionage are threads of truth. References are made to real people, places and events and the operations of his secret agents are accurate, "to give a ring of reality," he said.

But his stories are in the ratio of "an ounce of truth to a pound of fiction."

He has combined a fascination with intelligence services — "an area of work that strikes me as terribly necessary but terribly subject to abuse" — with a knowledge of entertainment he acquired in

The result is a string of best sellers that includes "The Matarese Circle," "The Chancellor Manuscript," and "The Holcroft Covenant." His most recent work is "The Bourne Identity." Beginning with "The Scarlatti Inheritance" in 1970, Ludlum's name has appeared on nine novels, all involving international intrigue.

"I'm fascinated by it, but that doesn't mean I'm restricted to it," he said, referring to three books he wrote in the early 1970s under another name. He said his current contract prevented him from identifying his assumed name or the books, which he said were not about international espionage.

Ludlum acknowledges that he has gotten some information from sources within the intelligence services, but only in "minor" areas.

For the most part, the stories come from the imagination Ludlum was developing even before his early acting career, which began at Wesleyan University in Middletown.

Ludlum, 52, was born in New York City, but spent most of his early life in Connecticut. After a tour with the Marine Corps, Ludum enrolled at Wesleyan as a theater major. It was there he met his wife, Mary, who had been asked to participate in the university's productions because at the time Wesleyan did not accept female students.

"She got much better reviews than I did on the stage, so I figured the easiest thing to do was to marry her," Ludlum said.

They were married in 1951, moved to New York City and for the next six years were actors in stage and television productions.

His wife continued to get better reviews than he did, he said.

'In 1957 I got the message. So many people kept saying to me, 'Gee, you'd make a terrific producer.' So I became a producer.

Over the next 12 years, he produced more than 300 plays, including about a half dozen Broadway During those 12 years, he also became a well-known voice, promoting a variety of products in more than 100 television commercials. By 1969 he was bored with the theater.

"In the late 1960s in the theater, it was kind of like one great big hodgepodge of mediocrity," he said. "If what the public wants is nothing but a diet of salami, I just wasn't ready to do it anymore."

He took a steb at writing a povel semathic.

He took a stab at writing a novel, something he had always wanted to do. His first shot landed him on the best-seller list. "The theater is a great training ground for a novelist, not only for mounting stories and the architecutre of the scene," he said, "but it also teaches discipline.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Take care about sun

Dear Dr. Solomon:: I believe one reason people tend to disregard medical advice is that everything these days seems to be actually or potentially harmful — a case of not paying attention when someone cries "Wolf!" When I was younger, sunshine was considered healthful; now we are being warned that it can cause cancer. Is this a warning we should heed, or can I continue to enjoy sunbathing at the beach? — Ann

Dear Ann: As I've said on other occasions, moderation is the key -- in food, in exercise, and in exposure to the sun. When the incidence of melanomas, a type of skin cancer, shows almost a 50 percent increase from 1969 to 1976 among white men and women, those who warn against excessive exposure to the sun can't very well be accused of crying "Wolf."

Dr. Marvin Schneiderman, associate director of the National Cancer Institute, says that the increase is largely attributable to sun-worshippers who value a bronzed skin.

The problem is not unique to the United States.

People in other countries also show an increasing incidence of skin cancer. Light-skinned people, such as Scandinavians, are most susceptible to the harmful rays of the sun; darker-skinned people, such as those from the Mediterranean area, are relatively safe; and blacks don't have to worry at all.

Changing fashions and mores play a part in the problem. Until the 1920s a pale skin was fashionable. Women barely exposed themselves to the sun, even at the beach, and carried parasols when out walking. Since then, however, exposure has increased as the amount of material used in the manufacture of swimsuits has shrunk.

Some melanomas may be associated with industrial products, such as arsenic, various oils, and tars.

X-rays and radium may also play a role.

The way to acquire a tan without risking serious consequences is by gradual exposure to the sun in small doses. To escape the sun's potentially serious effects, avoid it between 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., when the penetrating ultraviolet rays are strongest. In addition, try to keep covered at the beach, and use sunscreens containing para-aminobenzoic acid (PABA) or benzophenone. A healthful tan can be acquired in two weeks of careful sunbathing.

Fortunately, melanomas are treatable if detected early. According to Dr. Schneiderman, the median survival for white patients from the time a melanoma is diagnosed is 9.2 years. (That is, half the patients are alive after 9.2 years.) For those under 55 years of age, the median survival exceeds 10 years. Melanomas generally develop in patients in their 50s

Prevention of disease is always the best and safest policy. But if in spite of warnings melanomas do develop, early diagnosis and treatment become im-

NEW YORK (AP) — Filmmakers Allan Francovich and Howard Dratch spent nearly five years making "On Company Business," determined to produce a thoughtful, fully documented history of the Central Intelligence

"We were not trying to be another Seymour Hersh," Dratch says, referring to the former New York Times reporter who broke a number of stories on the CIA in the mid-1970s. 'Our objective was a 30-year overview that would have a cumulative power unlike the immediate impact of a newspaper expose.

"Our approach was, let's sit back and look at the CIA in a careful, intelligent way. Their product is a three-hour, three-part documentary to be aired by many stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network beginning Friday evening at 9 EDT. Subsequent installments follow on May 16 and

The two filmmakers conducted about 50 interviews with persons with first-hand knowledge of the agency and its business, and spent months looking at film in this country and abroad that would support and illustrate what they had learned. "We were dealing with an opaque kind of subject," Dratch says, "and that compelled us to cross-reference anything one interviewee said that what another told us."

We felt a demand," says Francovich, "for being extraordinarily careful with the film. A lot of what we did not use in the final version is there to document what we did use."

The documentary traces a history of U.S. foreign policy, with the CIA as the common thread, from the end of World War II, through the Marshall Plan and the Truman Doctricne, the Korean War, the Cold War, the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, Vietnam, the coup in Chile and the revolution in

Among those interviewed on film are former CIA officers Philip Agee, Victor Marchetti, David Atlee Phillips and John Stockwell.

The two filmmakers say they encountered no official resistance to their work. "But generally speaking," Francovich says, "when some-one gives an interview, they give it for "The reason a lot of people were going public at the time," he says, referring to the period during and immediately after the congressional invesigation, "was to protect them-selves as these revelations about CIA activities were made. And, of course, there were those with axes to grind.

"We were trying to get beyond all these ax-grinders," he says, "and look at the history of this institution. One of the shocking revelations was that the CIA was not running out of control, was not a rogue elephant, and that some of the things it had done with the knowledge of the president and in the name of the American people were pretty horrible."

"The leadership of the CIA," Dratch says, "came across as well-trained, well-mannered people with the best intentions, but with a definition of national interest that seems to be turning the world against the United States."

The first installment reviews the creation and early operation of the CIA, including the agency's involvement with the labor movement in Europe in the late 1940s and early Part II examines the agency's methods of manipulating public opinion, using CIA activities in Latin America in illustration. The concluding chapter considers the CIA's role in events that led up to the 1973 coup in Chile, and explores CIA accountability to the American public.

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS listed the four highestrated programs, but ABC won the network's prime-time ratings race for the second week in a row.

The 1979-80 season ended April 20 with CBS on top by one-tenth of a ratings point. ABC has won both weeks' competition since then.

CBS' "Dukes of Hazzard" was the top-rated show for the period ending May 4, according to the survey by the A.C. Nielsen Co. It was followed by "M-A-S-H," "60 Minutes" and "Flo," with ABC's "That's

The rating for "Dukes of Hazzard" was 24.8. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the with television, just under a quarter saw at least part of the program.

ABC had seven shows in the second 10 in the ratings, and compiled a score for the week of 16.7 to CBS' 16.3. NBC was third at 14.5.

A couple of specials provided a bright note for NBC. The Country Music Association awards show was No. 6 in the ratings and the John Denver-George Burns motion picture, "Oh, God!" was 11th. CBS scored with "Gideon's Trumpet," a "Hall-mark Hall of Fame" presentation starring Henry Fonda. It was No. 16 for the week while ABC picked up points with "Battle of the Network Stars," 21st, and "Ann-Margret's Hollywood Movie Girls," 25th. NBC suffered at the bottom of the ratings, with four of the five least-watched programs. CBS' "Tim Conway" show was 59th, followed by NBC's "BJ and

The week's Top 10 shows: "Dukes of Hazzard," with a rating of 24.8 representing 18.9 million homes, "M-A-S-H," 24.5 or 18.7 million, "60 Minutes," 24.2 or 18.5 million, and "Flo," 23.3 or 17.8 million, all CBS; "That's Incredible!"

The next 10 programs: Movie-"Oh, God!" NBC; "Eight is Enough" and "Love Boat," both ABC; "Charlie's Angels" and "Benson," both ABC, tie; "Hallmark Hall of Fame-Gideon's Trumpet," CBS; "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," both ABC, tie; "20-20," ABC, and "Diff'rent Strokes," NBC.

'Baltimore Bullet' upbeat version of 'The Hustler'

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS THE BALTIMORE BULLET is a moderately entertaining, upbeat version of "The Hustler." The world of the pool shark is portrayed, mostly on the light side, by James Coburn and Bruce Boxleitner as hustling partners and Omar Sharif as the reigning champion. Between matches director Robert Ellis Moore throws in chases, brawls, poker games and a song or two by Ronee Blakley. The believability factor is zero, but the actors are likable and the action is fast. Besides "The Hustler," the film owes a debt to the buddy movies ("Butch Cassidy," etc.) and to Orson Welles' "The Lady from Shanghai" for a hall-of-mirrors sequence. Rated PG, because of some mild swearing.

Texas' senators expect long wait for hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) - The senators from Texas are settling in for a long wait before American hostages are released from Iran.

In separate interviews after the half-year anniversary of the American Embassy's takeover in Tehran, Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen saw few signs that any change can be expected in the 6-month dead-

Bentsen, the state's Democratic senator, said there can be no solution until the Iranian government resolves its internal difficulties.

"Politically, each faction is afraid to release the hostages," he said.

Tower, a Republican quick to blast the Democratic administration of President Carter, characterized the handling of the crisis as inept from the outset last November.

"By making the hostage situation the top priority of American foreign policy, they vastly enhanced the value of the hostages to their captors, therefore insuring further delay in their release," Tower said.

Bentsen said the support other nations have provided during the Iranian crisis indicates that the U.S. no longer dominates the world as its allies have grown increasingly strong.

"They don't have to be as dependent," he said.

Tower said the allies had to consider the domestic political implications of supporting the U.S. as the events in Iran unfolded.

He said that the support was better than could be expected -"under the circumstances, absent firm and decisive leadership on the part of the Bentsen predicted that a year from now the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan will appear more significant than the holding of American hostages in Iran, because it represented a turning point in the administration's foreign policy.

"I think it made us again very aware of the expansionist policies of Russia. It also gave us a feel of who our real friends are," the senator said. "It taught us once more we have to remain strong; we have to build our strength.

Tower said American foreign policy under the Carter administration has spurred the international perception that the Soviet Union is emerging as the preeminent superpower.

"I think it's a perception that's unavoidable under the circumstances," he said.

Tower said it was created by "the incoherence, the naivete, the vacillation of U.S. foreign policy, coupled with the diminished (U.S.) military capability vis a vis that of the Soviet Union."

The senator said there is no limit to Soviet intentions and objectives in increasing global influence

'The only questions with the Soviets are ones of timing and opportunity," Tower said.

Differences in opinion between the administration's top foreign policy officials have strengthened the impression of vacillation, according to

He said Carter should require national security adviser Zbigniew Brzenzinski to keep a low profile when the next secretary of state takes "I do think it's terribly important that our foreign policy not be stated by the security adviser as one thing and by the secretary of state as something else," Bentsen said. Both senators planned to support Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, for secretary of state. The Senate confirmed his nomination Wednesday by Tower is reluctant, however, to make predictions about any changes to be expected after Muskie replaces resigned Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. "I'm not aware of any sharp policy differences between Muskie and Vance," he said. "There may be some, but there's not enough of a Muskie record on foreign policy for me to make much of a judgment." Bentsen said he doubts there will be much difference between Vance Both senators say there are bright spots for the U.S. on the international scene despite recent setbacks, although Tower maintained there are very few. Bentsen said parts of the Middle East appear more receptive to western influence than previously, and he described the Far East as solidly Tower pointed to recent reports that Mozambique in Africa is opening to the West as an example of a bright spot.

Another announces for speaker's job

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, chairman of the House redistricting committee, has anounced as a speaker candidate, joining a crowd of legislators who want to succeed Bill Clayton in the powerful job.

Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, said he wants Clayton's job only if Clayton drops his quest for an unprecedented fourth term

But he also left open the possibility of opposing Clayton when the House votes on its presiding officer at the beginning of the 1981 Legislature in

"There is a chance I will still be there as a speaker candidate. ... We live in uncertain times. ... I can't take myself out as a candidate when I don't know what is going to happen and have no control over events," said Von Dohlen, 36.

Clayton made Von Dohlen, a close friend, speaker pro tem - No. 2 man - and chairman of the redistricting committee in 1979, setting him up to command the 1981 effort to draw new House districts reflecting population shifts shown in this year's census.

The speaker has said he would let others fight over the speakership if he is indicted in the FBI's Brilab investigation and not cleared by January.

Von Dohlen indicated he doubted Clayton would seek re-election as speaker if he became thoroughly tainted by Brilab.

support in case Clayton drops out. Von Dohlen declined to say how many pledges, if any, he has collected from other House members.

The possibility Clayton will win reelection and keep Von Dohlen as redistricting chief gives Von Dohlen potential leverage among House members but he said he wouldn't use it to win votes for speaker.

"I would hope that my personal integrity with the individual members is such that I don't deal that way," he said.

Clayton says he'll resign if he isn't vindicated

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton has vowed to relinquish his 1981 bid for an unprecedented fourth term if he is not legally vindicated in a bribery-labor scandal by "early fall," the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

"In the fall if we're not in good shape, we'll have some announce-ments," Clayton told the newspaper.

The speaker's remarks came as his No. 2 man, Rep. Tim Von Dohlen,

However, he left open the possibility of challenging Clayton when for the job when the 1981 Legislature convenes in January.

A Houston federal grand jury is expected to conclude its investigation of allegations against the speaker, Texas labor leaders and Houston city officials next month.

TOKYO (AP) - Most Japanese, the folk saying goes, are born Shintoist, marry Christian and die Buddhist. And for the latter, they pay dearly.

While about 90 percent of Japan's 115 million people are nominally Buddhist, few give more than lip service to the religion most of their lives. Most newborn babies are taken to a Shinto shrine for a blessing. Christian church weddings, complete with tuxedos, white gown and veil, are the latest fashion.

Families are willing to pay $10,000 or more for ornate ceremony more, for a "proper" funeral.

The whole nation seems obsessed with money, and is more interested in putting up a good show at a funeral than in making sure the departing soul goes in comfort, complains the elderly head priest of Tokyo's Myoen-Ji Buddhist temple.

Saying he does not believe in money, the priest claims he never asks for more than $1,000 to bestow a proper Buddhist name on those who die — an essential part of Japanese to a heavy financial burden for bereaved families. Funeral services are available from $640 to $450,000. Cremation, the custom in Japan even for non-Buddhists, costs up to $430 (the top price means a body is burned quickly and "beautifully" using high-grade oil, an industry source says). A small cemetery lot starts at $1,900 but usually costs much more. A tombstone can be as much as $25,000. Even the urn for the ashes is sometimes the

West Virginia inmates to compete in 'Prison Olympics

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Inmates at West Virginia Penitentiary are stretching their muscles with weights and their brains with table games in an effort to be crowned "King of the Mountain" - in a prison Olympics.

A five-month series of skill tests, including checkers, chess, weightlifting, boxing, basketball shooting and track events will culminate next fall in a free-for-all wrestling match in a mud pit, Warden Donald Bordenkircher said Tuesday.

"It's to find out who's the toughest S.O.B. in the whole pen," he added.

Last November, the maximum-security facility, located in the panhandle community of Moundsville near Wheeling, was the site of a break-out by 15 inmates. One state trooper and one escapee died in a shootout at the prison gates. Thirteen were recaptured and one is still at large.

The games are expected to start May 17 and will continue through Oct. Contestants will earn points according to how they do in each event. "We'll have the brain games, like chess and checkers, and the necessary brawn games - boxing, wrestling, track events, obstacle courses, things like that," Bordenkircher said.

"Then in the fall, we'll take the top 10 winners in each weight class, put them in a mud pit, and let them go at it.

"It's going to be a no-holds-barred wrestling match - everybody jumps in the pit and when the referee blows the whistle the last guy still in there is the King of the Mountain."

Bordenkircher said money from the Inmates Fund will be used for trophies and cash prizes.

Similar programs have been used in other states with a great deal of success, he said. "It's a program that enables virtually every inmate to become involved.

"We've had athletic teams before, but the 15 guys on the prison football team were the same 15 guys who were on the basketball team and the same 15 guys who were on the baseball team.

"This way, you can be the best boxer — and we've got quite a few good boxers up there — but a boxing match only counts for 10 points."

The winner of each contest will receive 10 points, with second place worth five points and third place three points. Consequently, the warden said, inmates are stretching their brains as

"We've got teams of inmates up there now teaching a lot of the guys how to play chess."

Most teen-agers think their parents boring

By ERMA BOMBECK

It astounds me that one out of every two teenagers in this country finds his parents' lifestyle unappealing and has no intention of following in their

Fifty-four percent of America's teenagers, according to a recent Gallup Poll, said their parents are boring. They don't go out and do things. They don't see people or go on vacations. They don't pursue another career or pick up and move. If they could make a change in their own lives they'd have more free time, fewer children, stay single longer and Parents! Aren't you sick you didn't think of those things first?

If you kids could indulge me a bit, I'd like to tell you a story. Once upon a time, there were two young people who were bored to death with their parents' lifestyle. Their parents stayed home all the time, didn't see people, never seemed to have a lot of money, go on vacations, or show much imagination. The young people made a vow to be different. They were going to get a boat, but you came along. They were going to go to Kauai and surf, but your sister arrived. They were going to take up golf, but the price of a sitter was too high.

Next thing you know you were teenagers. Not ordinary teenagers, but teenagers with crooked teeth, virgin feet, and a baton-twirling wish.

You needed allowances, your own phone, 400 friendship cards at graduation and an herbal connection for your hair every three days.

Your parents thought of going out, but their clothes were already at a party - and so was their car. The vacation went for the tennis camps and the entertaining took second place to the slumber party which hosted a third world. Their careers, wishes and dreams were listed way down on the priority list . . . under college for the children, loans for cars and weddings.

The thought of showing some imagination and moving elsewhere was built around you . . finishing school, leaving friends and being able to adjust to a move. They settled for what their parents settled for.

As for riches . . . you've got me there. They never made it to the big cruiser, the white shag carpet in the bathroom and surfing in Kauai.

But . . . don't tell your parents. They had you and they think they're rich!

Child abuse agency hit by government office

By BETTY ANN WILLIAMS AP Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government has not fulfilled its responsibility to deal with child abuse and neglect, the General Accounting Office is asserting.

After reviewing the work of the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect, the GAO concluded Wednesday that the center's performance was not all it should be. The main problems, it said, were too little money and failure of the center to properly coordinate and evaluate programs.

Richard B. Lowe III, acting inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services, responded that the GAO study failed to give the center due credit for increas-ing public and professional awareness of the problem of child abuse and

He contended the agency had used "its demonstration and service grant programs as catalysts to broaden the base of community efforts to prevent and treat child abuse and neglect."

The American Humane Association received 512,000 reports of child abuse and neglect in 1977. But the national center estimated that about 1 million children are abused and neglected annually and about 2,000 die as a

The center defines child abuse and neglect as the physical or mental injury, sexual abuse or exploitation, negligent treatment or maltreat-

It estimates that between 100,000 and 200,000 children are physically abused each year while 60,000 to 100,-000 are sexually abused and as many as 700,000 are neglected.

The national center was established in 1974 to assist state, local and private non-profit agencies in dealing with child abuse and neglect, to collect research data, to fund demonstration projects, to conduct its own research and to serve as a clearing house for information.

Child abuse has been found in all types of families, regardless of race, income, nationality or religious affiliation. But it is found more often among people with a low socio-economic status.

One of the problems contributing to the ineffectiveness of existing programs is the reluctance of professionals to report suspected cases of child abuse and neglect.

Even where they are required to make reports, some fail to do so because they are unaware of the requirement, they fear lawsuits or reprisals, they are reluctant to get involved, or they believe reporting might aggravate the situation, GAO said.

Although the congressional authorization level for spending by the center was raised to $34 million, the actual amount appropriated has remained steady at $18.9 million since fiscal year 1976.

GAO is the auditing and investigative agency for Congress. Its conclusions were based on reviews at six federal regional offices and observation of child protective service agencies in Alameda and Sacramento counties, Calif.; New York City; Durham and Mecklenburg counties, N.C.; Dallas County, Texas, and Nor-

Mail floods Korea! How about Okinawa?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: According to a recent article in the Pacific Stars and Stripes, an American serviceman stationed in Korea wrote a Dear Abby letter telling you how sad it was to see those guys run to mail call every day hoping to get a letter, and walk away each time empty-handed and downhearted.

You published his letter and asked your readers to write to these lonely servicemen. The response was overwhelming! More than 10,000 letters came puring in from school classes, church groups and concerned citizens. (One kid sent his entire allowance - $1 to make sure "his" soldier had enough money to return a letter.) Many sent postage stamps and promises of cookies and goodies to come. It was a super show of support for the American serviceman.

What a break for those guys stationed in Korea. How about doing the same for us non-commissioned servicemen stationed in Okinawa? We're also far from home, lonesome, and would love to get mail. I promise you, you'll make a lot of guys happy. — IN THE SERVICE IN OKINAWA

DEAR IN: You're on! Anyone out there who wants to correspond with a serviceperson in Okinawa — and don't forget WOMEN are stationed there, too — address your letters to: CONCERNED NCOWS; USACC-J, SB (PROV) BOX 244; APO SF 96331. DEAR ABBY: This for the widow who says older women are turned off by men who suggest that they'd sure like a home-cooked meal. I happen to be an older man who has dated a lot of older women, so may I respond?

There are a lot more older women around than older men, so since they're lonely, let them make the overtures by saying they were "forced to buy tickets" to something and need an escort, etc.

Most men who live alone are tired of restaurant food. So why not admit they'd appreciate a good homecooked meal?

Nearly every widow I've dated is loaded from what her husband left her, and if I try to get romantic I find out that she may have contributed to her husband's death by denying him love, so the poor guy killed himself making money to forget his sexual boredom.

Personally, I'd rather eat alone at the Elks Club than take out some over-the-hill broad and plunk down $12 or $15 for her dinner. Plus, most of them can drink me under the table, and at today's prices, I can't afford it.

Midland woman joins counselors at MAPLE House

Kay Yell of Midland recently joined the counseling staff of the Southwest Maternity Center (Methodist Mission Home of Texas) and will be working in the Midland-Odessa area.

The Mission Home has a satellite home in Odessa, MAPLE House, with the main office in San Anto-

Mrs. Yell will be working primarily with young women who find themselves faced with an untimely pregnancy, and are seeking alternative counseling and-or adoptive planning.

Mrs. Yell, a native of Houston, holds a B.S. degree in psychology from the University of Houston and an M.A. degree in public service from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

She has been a social worker for the Howard County Welfare Department in Kokomo, Ind., and for the Department of Human Resources in Houston. She also has worked for the Edna Gladney Home in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Yell has lived in Midland with her husband and son, Michael, for the past two years. They attend First United Methodist Church.

The Methodist Mission Home is owned and operated by the United Methodist Churches in Texas and New Mexico.

Maple House offers a new dimension in maternity care for young pregnant women who seek adoptive planning.

In the past, a girl desiring adoptive planning had little choice but to travel miles away to a maternity home - hours away from family and friends. With changing trends, girls began to work with the Southwest Maternity Center on a non-resident basis. In most instances, by staying in their own communities, the girls received the necessary family and peer group emotional support as well as good medical care. Still, some girls had to leave their local area due to various conflicts and pressures. In the West Texas area, many girls expressed an interest and need for the services of the center; however, San Antonio was too far from home. With this in mind, the concept of Maple House began to

The satellite has a houseparent in permanent residence, and the girls are urged to continue their education at Odessa College and UTPB. Junior and senior high school students benefit from the special programs for pregnant girls offered by the Ector County Independent School District.

The girls receive professional cousneling and guidance regarding adoptive planning for their babies and future personal life plans of their own. They have medical care before and after the baby's birth. Residents share responsibilities for housekeeping, meal planning and cooking, while the houseparent oversees the general operation of the MAPLE stands for Maternity and Placement Local Environment.

The five-year-olds were such a hit, they gave an encore number. And all of the 30-minute program was carried off without a cue from the teacher.

The event was a performance by about 50 kindergarten students at the final meeting of the Fannin Elemen-tary School PTA. The teacher responsible for such a hit performance was Rhonda Lacy, who wrote the program consisting of favorite songs for different special occasions during this school year.

"I write a lot of my own songs. I did some traveling with some Christian singing groups in New Zealand and Hawaii, and I have some publishers waiting for my songs which range from folk songs to classical." said the teacher-songwriter-playwright.

Ms. Lacy explained that "I used to get all my cousins together and we give musicals for other rela tives. Since I was in junior high school, I have been working with four and five-year-olds. It's something that comes natural."

She pointed out that children at 4, 5 and 6 years of age are capable of "doing so much more than we think

The truth about senility

NEW YORK, NY — The fear of growing old and becoming senile has replaced the fear of early death, according to science writer, Lawrence Galton, in his new book, "The Truth About Senility and How to Avoid It."

Senility is not a natural accomplishment of old age, writes Galton, and what is called senility may be a "pseudosenility" which can be avoided or, if present, erased.

He describes the changes that do and do not normally occur with aging, and conditions that contribute to senility. He gives specific information on what he terms are "correctables, also describing help that is available to treat physical and emotional problems in the elderly. A chapter on "The Frontiers" discusses new research and offers new hope.

Women barred from foreign study by prince

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia has barred women from traveling abroad to study, a Saudi newspaper reports.

The desert kingdom, wary of "unfavorable" influences in the West, is also taking steps to keep its young men at home, according to reports reaching here.

Even women accompanied by their husbands are forbidden to leave Saudi Arabia for study, Fahd was quoted as saying by the newspaper Al Jazira, in editions appearing here today.

Informed sources here said the orders were prompted by the tragic love affair between Princess Misha and a suitor. The two were executed in 1977 in accordance with the Islamic penalty for adultery.

A television documentary about the affair entitled "Death of a Princess" drew strong protests from the oil-producing desert kingdom when it was shown recently in Britain. The princess had first met her Saudi lover at the American University of Beirut. Saudi State Radio, monitored here, quoted Defense Minister Nayef Bin Abdel Aziz as saying Tuesday that the number of Saudi males studying abroad will be kept to a minimum. Saudi students abroad are "subjected to unfavorable social influences of the Western societies," the radio quoted Nayef as complaining. Nayef said Saudi universities and high schools will considerably expand courses in order to do without the need to send students abroad, according to the radio. In addition, the Saudi government "will introduce compulsory conscription" in the near future, he was quoted as saying. The crown prince's reported orders preceded royal ratification of an ambitious $300-billion five-year develop-

There's one cancer treatment working

NEW YORK (AP) - A multi-drug treatment for Hodgkin's disease - once almost always a killer has proved successful and 70 percent of those stricken can be cured, scientists now say.

'This illustrates the long time required between the observation of a potential new lead and the actual confirmation that it is useful," Dr. Vincent DeVita, a leader in the treatment, said Tuesday. DeVita, John Moxley and seven co-workers at the.

National Cancer Institute reported in the Annals of Internal Medicine on the treatment of Hodgkin's disease with a multi-drug therapy called MOPP. Hodgkin's disease is a tumor of the lymph system. It strikes 7,100 people a year in the United States, half of them young adults.

MOPP, a combination of the drugs mechlorethamine, vincristine, procarbazine and prednisone, induced complete remission - or apparent absence of disease - in 80 percent of 198 patients treated since 1964. Sixty-eight percent remained free of Hodgkin's disease 10 years later. The Cancer Institute study was limited to patients in the late stages of Hodgkin's disease. In recent years, MOPP has become standard therapy for these patients, while radiation is used to treat early stages when the disease has not spread through the body. DeVita, acting director of the Cancer Institute. said that successes with drugs and radiation now mean about 70 percent of all Hodgkin's disease can

No set rules apply for cooking roasts, says butcher

By MERLE ELLIS

Butchers don't do it often - then again, we probably do it as often as doctors these days. Make house calls, that is. I made one last Sunday.

A friend called, in almost panicky desperation. She had 15 people coming for dinner and a 22-pound prime rib to roast. "What do I do with it?" she pleaded. "Everybody I talk to tells me something different. The butcher told me to roast it for 20 minutes per pound at 350 degrees. That'll take all day. He said I could cut the time in half if I cut the roast in half, but that doesn't sound right. Is "Somebody else told me to put an inch of water in the bottom of the pan and roast it at 375 degrees till the thermometer reads 110 degrees. My thermometer doesn't even show 110 degrees - it starts at 130 degrees. What'll I do? I don't want to ruin this thing. It cost me too much money!"

'Make two Bloody Marys and relax," I told her. "I'll be there in a minute." I grabbed my trusty Bi-Therm and headed out for my house

IT WOULD BE wonderful if there were one simple formula for successfully roasting a roast, but, unfortunately, that is not the case. Roasting times and temperatures vary, depending upon the kind of meat, its size, its shape, its fat content, whether or not it contains any bone, the heat of the oven. There just ARE no abso-

There are, however, a few basic principles that can help guide you when you put that expensive piece of beef in the oven. There are also a few erroneous theories that persist in confusing cooks and lousing up good

The greatest fallacy in roasting a roast is accepting the so-many-minutes-per-pound premise. If my friend were to roast her 22-pound prime rib at 20 minutes per pound, it would take nearly eight hours. Any piece of meat that will fit in your oven can be roasted in half that time.

The theory simply doesn't work. It ignores one of the basic principles of roasting. Heat strikes and penetrates meat uniformly. Of most importance is the distance from the outside of the roast to its center. Cutting a large, thick roast in half will not shorten that distance and will, therefore, not shorten the cooking time. So much for her butcher's ad-

Putting water in the bottom of a roasting pan, in effect, turns your entire oven into a steam cabinet and the end result is more that of a pot roast, rather than a nicely browned and juicy oven roast. DO NOT add

HERE ARE A few things to keep in mind whenever you're roasting a Large roasts require lower heat for a longer period of time. Small roasts need higher heat for a shorter period of time. A large roast cooked at 400 degrees will shrink and burn on the outside before the heat has penetrated to the center. A small roast cooked at 325 degrees is apt to be done in the center long before the outside has achieved the desired browning. A rib roast weighing from ten to 25 pounds can be cooked to any desired degree of doneness in between 2-1/2 and 3-1/2 hours at 350 degrees. A small roast, such as a 4- to 5-pound sirloin tip or strip loin, needs only an hour to an hour-and-a-half at 400 degrees.

The only sure way to tell when any roast is done to perfection is with a good meat thermometer. I don't leave home on a house call without one.

If your meat thermometer, like that of my friend, doesn't register below 130 degrees, dump it and get one that does. In using a meat thermometer, you have to keep in mind the carryover action of heat after a roast comes out of the oven. If a roast is removed from the oven when the thermometer registers rare (140 degrees), it will be well past medium by the time it gets to the table. A roast needs to rest for a while after it is removed from the oven to allow the juices to recirculate.

A roast cooked to medium rare and then cut in half without setting will be dry and overcooked on the outside edge but still rare in the center.

Pork sausage it isn't

Most of us think of sausage as being prepared from pork. Not so plentiful are the sausages that owe their origin to the cuisine of the other countries and which are prepared from other meats.

A delightful example is the seasoned rolls of ground lamb which originated in the kitchens of

KEUFTES (Turkish Lamb

Sausage) five slices white bread ½ tsp. black pepper

1/8 tsp. garlic, finely

1½ lbs. lamb, ground

1/4 tsp. ground cinna-

1½ tsps. salt 2 tbsps. olive oil

1. Trim the crusts from the bread. Break the slices into pieces and place in a mixing bowl. Add enough water to saturate. Let it soak.

2. Drain off the water and squeeze the bread dry. Return it to the bowl. Fluff with a fork.

3. Add the ground lamb to the bread, a little at a time, and mix the lamb and bread together.

4. Beat the egg lightly and stir them in. Mix in the salt, black pepper, ground cinnamon nd minced garlic. The amount of the flavoring ingredient may be varied to suit your taste.

5. This should make about 18 sausages. Roll them out on waxed paper into little rolls about one inch in diameter.

6. Heat the olive oil in a heavy skillet. Fry slowly until browned on all sides. Serves 6.

> Rioja wines are among the best By TOM HOGE AP Wine and Food Writer

Among the best wines on the market today are those of Spain's Rioja region, which are not only pleasant to drink but are also easy on the pocket-

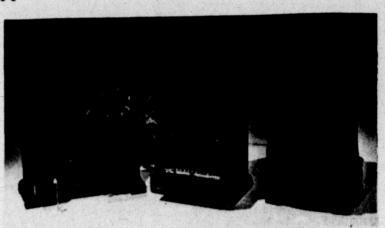

Wine buffs have been attracted to the Riojas by the fact that they bear a marked resemblance to the classic Bordeaux of France.

This is no coincidence. During the latter part of the 19th century, when a vine blight all but wiped out the vineyards of Bordeaux, the vines of Spain continued to thrive. Desperate French growers began moving to the Ebro Valley of the Rioja and using the methods of their homeland to prod-uce wines there.

The blight finally reached Spain, but by that time the imprint of Bordeaux wine had been made on Rioja. To this day, the oak casks used to age Rioja wines are identical to those used for Bordeaux.

Many show traces of paint or have carved channels, a characteristic suggesting to some scientists they were co-lorfully decorated with feathers or trinkets.

Much of the menhirs' real significance remains undiscovered. The granite used for their construction is an easyto-find kind of rock in the high Andean valleys of Argentina, a sculpture material the Indians were familiar with.

The military government's decision to group the menhirs on top of a hill was regarded by some as controversial. Scientists said it might have removed the last possibility of conducting research on how these monuments were originally patterned and of learning if a definite ritual scheme was followed.

Others argue this would be impossible to menhirs have been subject to erosion and to man's predatory removals in the past 2,000

Farm financial crunch worse than experts said

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers are being financially crunched more severely than government experts have been saying until now, according to new figures compiled by the Agriculture Department.

The figures, issued Wednesday, showed net farm income in the second quarter of this year at an annual rate of $20.8 billion, meaning that would be the net income of farmers in 1980 if the rate held steady over 12

At $20.8 billion, the new estimate for the second quarter was down 8.4 percent from the $22.7 billion projected only a month ago in a similar report. Previous to that, in early March, the projection for the April-June period was an annual rate of $26 billion.

Department officials have predicted since last fall that 1980 net income of farmers — the amount left after paying production costs — would decline by around 20 percent from last year's near-record of $33 billion.

That would put 1980 net farm income at around $26 billion. But Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told the House Agriculture Committee a week ago that this year's slide "could be" about 25 percent, meaning a net of about $24.8 billion for the year. Although the brief text of the report treated the outlook for farm income superficially and did not mention numbers, a chart on the back of the sheet included the latest projected figures. Those backed up what Bergland told the House panel.

No projections for farm income were made beyond midyear. The figures showed the crunch on farm income has been most severe this spring. For example, the annual rate in the first quarter was $27.4 billion, compared to the $20.8 billion in the second.

"Commodity prices are expected to strengthen in coming months in response to expanding crop markets, movement of grain into reserve stocks and a slowing in the expansion of meat production," the report said. "However, production expenses will continue to advance rapidly, reducing net farm income.'

Retail food prices were estimated to rise 7 percent to 11 percent this year, unchanged from earlier forecasts, probably "in the middle" of that

Exotic poultry disease curbed before hitting U.S. flocks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Apparently the latest outbreak of Exotic Newcastle disease has been curbed without its spreading into any of the nation's commercial poultry flocks.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday it has lifted a federal quarantine from a commercial bird shop in Alexandria, Va., following an outbreak of the disease last month.

The quarantine was imposed on the aviary, operated by Kevin Smith of Alexandria, after the disease was

Onion production down 2 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Production of spring onions is estimated at about 5.85 million hundredweight, 2 percent less than produced a year ago, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Wednesday the decline is due mainly to a reduced acreage of onions this spring in the major production areas of Arizona, California and Texas.

Investigations showed many birds had been exposed to the disease. In all, nearly 2,100 birds at 120 locations in 13 states and the District of Columbia were destroyed under federal orders to curb the outbreak.

Officials said federal indeminities totalling $87,000 were paid to owners of the destroyed birds.

Exotic Newcastle is "a highly contagious and destructive foreign disease of poultry and other birds," said Richard Rissler, who headed the de-partment's special task force set up to curb the outbreak.

The disease is not a hazard to humans who eat eggs or poultry products, but if introduced into commercial poultry operations it could mean losses of more than $230 million annually, he said.

A major outbreak in California in 1971-73 led to the destruction of 12 million birds, mostly egg-laying hens, and cost taxpayers $56 million in indeminities and other costs before it was eradicated, Rissler said.

After President Carter ordered a partial embargo on U.S. grain sales to the Soviet Union Jan. 4, the Agriculture Department assumed contracts for the undelivered grain from private exporters.

Under sales procedures announced a week ago, the department is selling its rights to the contracts to exporters who then will be able to ship the grain to foreign buyers other than the Soviet Union.

Thus, the 250,000 bushels of corn in the contracts just sold represent more than 9.8 million bushels.

The contract sales announced Tuesday by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland were the first. However, the sales, including wheat contracts, are expected to continue regularly in the

The groups point to an accident last summer in Billings, Mont., in which 200 gallons of PCB-laden fluid leaked from a ruptured transformer at an animal feed company. Traces of the chemical eventually showed up in human foods in 19 states.

Responding to that accident, the Agriculture Department, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Food and Drug Administration drew up the proposed rules, which will require the replacement of electrical equipment with fluids containing more than 50 parts per million of Officials estimated the cost to businesses at $186 million plus $189 million utilities will have to spend to replace their own transformers. But officials said the utilities will probably recoup much of their costs by using the transformers at non-food businesses.

Affected businesses will have 90 days to comment on the proposed rules with the agencies issuing final regulations after that time. The agencies it will be six months to a year before the final rules are issued.

DUNCANVILLE, Texas (AP) - First-grade students at Alexander Elementary School have given new meanings to some old sayings.

As a writing exercise, the first grade teachers gave their stu-dents the first half of some cliches, and asked the students to complete the sentences.

"The kids didn't even know what a cliche is," said teacher Myrna Dobbins. "We gave them part of a cliche and let them finish it in their own way. They were very serious about it."

So you want him to go fly a kite? That may be exactly what he did

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some people are eternally ready to suggest that President Carter, or any president, go fly a kite.

Well, it seems possible that Carter did exactly that during a three-day stay at Camp David, Md., last weekend. And he conceivably did so with the help of his prospective secretary of state, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, a weekend guest.

Although Carter is more celebrated for fly-fishing and, in season, cross-country skiing at Camp David, the gear unloaded from his helicopter when it returned him to the White House on Monday morning included a 45-foot dragon kite.

Since 12-year-old daughter Amy was not at Camp David during the weekend, it is assumed that some older child-at-heart made use of the kite.

MUSKIE WAS ACCOMPANIED to the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains by his wife, Jane, who presumably will be boning up on such subjects as world geography and other topics with which a Madame First Diplomat should be Minutes after the Muskies were welcomed to Camp David by the Carters, Mrs. Muskie inquired, "Is

Most home owners said not informed about dangers of urea formaldehyde

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most home owners who buy urea formaldehyde insulation are not told about health problems it sometimes causes, federal safety

The staff of the Consumer Product Safety Commision recommended Tuesday that manufacturers be required to use labels telling consumers, "This product may release formaldehyde gas into your home over a long period of time." The five commissioners will vote later on the recommendation.

The label also would say that the gas "may cause eye, nose and throat irritation, coughing, shortness of breath, skin irritation, nausea, headaches and dizziness. People with respiratory problems or allergies may suffer more serious reactions, especially persons allergic to formaldehyde." Urea formaldehyde foam is mixed outside the house, pumped in through a hose and allowed to dry in places that will limit escape of heated air.

The National Association of Urea Formaldehyde Foam Insulation Manufacturers says the product is safe when properly installed and urges consumers to use qualified contractors. An estimated 500,000

The commission staff, in a report to the five 682-6222 commissioners who will vote on the recommendation, summarized hearings held in four cities last

"Many consumers testifying at the hearings stated that they were not aware of the potential adverse health effects associated with U.F. foam insulation," the staff said. "The salesmen did not inform the consumers of these potential problems.'

The staff report said reports on investigations of consumer complaints showed only 18 percent had known of possible problems when they had the product installed.

The commission has on file more than 1,000 complaints about gas from the insulation, the staff said. Some families vacated all or parts of their homes or were unable to move in because of the effects of the product, it said.

The staff predicted that the warning labels would lead to a drop in installation of the product. This already has happened in Connecticut after labels began being used there, it said.

Science Fair entries star lowly

By KARREN MILLS

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - The lowly onion skin, which flakes off, messes up the crisper bins in the refrigerator and sticks to the linoleum, usually winds up in the trash.

That skin, however, can be used to make paper, handcrafted dishes, insulation, durable boxes and even wallpaper, according to two exhibitors at the 31st International Science and Engineering Fair. 'The average citizen can develop useful, money-saving products from unused portions of onions, easily and inexpensively," David C. Maier, 14, West Helena, Ark., says in explaining his exhibit. Maier, a freshman at DeSoto Academy, noted that despite the abundant supply of onions grown in the United States, approximately 95 percent of the onion skins are destroyed.

"This is another form of waste that could be put to inexpensive and practical use," Maler said.

To make a basic "onion cardboard," Maier combines ½ cup finely chopped onion skins, 2 teaspoons water, 2 teaspoons flour and 2 teaspoons salt. The mixture is shaped, baked 20 minutes at 200 degrees, then cooled 12 hours.

'The crude product can be sandpapered, varnished or painted," he said. "It also can be shaped into cups and bowls. It is an excellent source of insulation comparable to asbestos and fiberglass, and is fire resistant.

The bursting strength is incredible. Thus if properly manufactured it can be formed into excellent and durable boxes.

Tamara Hebert, 15, Rockdale, Texas, a sophomore at Rockdale High School, said she became interested in using onion skins to make paper after hearing newscasts about inflation and shortages. The two students did not collaborate on their projects.

"I noticed the texture of onion skins and compared them to paper," she said. "Using the procedure for papier-mache, I made onion paper. Miss Hebert's recipe calls for 1 cup of finely chopped onion skins, 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon water, with amounts of flour and water adjusted to make finer or coarser paper. Put the mixture in aluminum foil, then iron or roll out with a rolling pin until the mixture is as thin as desired. The sheets are baked in a 200-degree oven for 20 minutes, then left in the oven to dry overnight.

'You can sandpaper it. It's hard to cut or tear. You can write on it, but if you get oil or grease on it, it won't stain. It's much stronger than paper," Miss

Man 'rescued' from charges he commandeered ambulance

In an out-of-court settlement negotiated this week, officials of Lower Township Rescue Squad dropped their charges and Robert Wernik and his wife, Bernadette, agreed in writing "they now understand the serious implications of the civilian operation of an ambu-

Squad officials also acknowledged, however, that "the Werniks acted in good faith and solely out of concern for their son" on April 12 when Wernik commandeered the ambulance for a 10-mile run to a Cape May Court House hospital.

"Your decision is fair and justice has been done," Municipal Judge John Corvino said after the 10-paragraph agreement was read during a special five-minute court session here.

Wernik, a security guard, was charged with stealing the ambulance and careless driving after he was summoned to the home of relatives to find his 4-year-old son, Kevin, in convulsions. An ambulance was already

Slide rules register final results

'Dinosaur of mathematics' makes way for computer age

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — As the closed-door competition ended, one of the coaches peered in through a slit in the curtains.

"This time," he said to no one in particular, "there is no next year."

The slide rule was buried Satur-

For 46 years, high school math wizards have gathered here for the University Interscholastic League slide rules competition. This year's meet was the final one.

The slide rule — the hand-powered dinosaur of mathematics — gives way next year to state competition using the microchip marvels of the handheld calculator. Several coaches and officials agreed the slide rule is doomed to antique stores.

"Once you go to a calculator, you never go back to a slide rule," said Dr. John Cogdell, a University of Texas professor of electrical engineering who ran the contest. Cogdell is designing next year's initial statewide calculator contest.

"It's more fun, it's quicker and it's more accurate," he said. "If you want to go to London, would you rather swim or fly?" But Ford Roberson of the pro-slide rule forces also was ready to play analogies. Roberson, 1968 state slide rule champ, now coaches the Andrews team.

'What's the point in throwing the javelin? Does anyone throw the spear anymore?" he said.

Apparently, however, javelins are easier to find than slide rules. "You can hardly buy them anymore, except for the cheap little plastic jobs," said Jack Sell, coach of the Port Arthur Jefferson team

At one time, slide rules wer so popular in Texas that one of the largest manufacturers made a model designed especially for the state contest. The Texas Speed Rule was a scaled down, quicker-to-use model, the Ferrari of slide rules.

"They quit making them," said Cogdell. "They shipped the dies to Mexico and they were inadvertently destroyed. That's the end of it." Sixty-one regional winners came here for the last state meet. It's a 30-minute race with 75 problems. The last winners: Frances Robinson, Longview, Class 4A; Laurie Stephenson, Edcouch, 3A; Scott Sayre, Hayes Consolidated, 2A; Trang Pham, Tatum, A; and Lendi Living- Four-year-old son, Lefors, B.

Students juggling new course

DOVER, Del. (AP) -The law of gravity poses a real problem for 10 Delaware State College students. They're enrolled in a clown course - one section of which involves learning to jug-

And the old physics rule of "what goes up, must come down" was quickly illustrated.

'I think I was born with two left hands," said Robert Schicker, class and has never mastered the feat of throwing one ball and catching it with the other hand.

So Schicker, whose clown name is "Professor Auguste," invited the Sikorsky Brothers of Baltimore to teach his students to juggle.
The brothers stage a juggling and circus act that travels the country performing for school children, conventions, fairs and fund-raisers.

They warmed up for the class by tossing three plastic pins under their legs and behind their backs. "You can juggle in your sleep if you prac-tice," said Thomas A. Si-

But when it came time for the students to try, less damaging rubber balls were distributed and soon were bouncing about the room.

The first lesson, called the "Juggler's Test," involved throwing a ball underhand and catching it with the other hand.

"This is the hard part. You may be stuck here for about 31/2 minutes,' Sikorsky told the class.

"I think it's easier to sit down and watch somebody else," said Patricia Johnson of Lincoln as she chased a ball across the room.

Once the students caught on to the figureeight pattern of juggling, they were given two balls, then three.

"Make your catch part of your throw," Sikorsky told the class. Amateur magician Richard J. Slihse had already caught on, and had three balls going at the same Slihse finally admitted that he was not a beginner, however. "I started with bean bags. I stood there until I got the hang of it," he said.

Slihse enrolled in the clown class to enhance his magic act. He eventually plans to enroll in a school of magic in California.

One Wilmington woman never did get the hang of things, though.

"If you think about it, vou can't do it," Helen I. Green sighed.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices put together a broad gain today, still responding to the recent slide in interest

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.62 to 822.87 in the first two hours. Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 5-2 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market has benefited in recent days from a chainreaction series of interest rate declines. The bank prime lending rate has gone as low as 17 percent, down three percentage points from its peak earlier in the spring.

On Wednesday, the nation's largest thrift institution cut its mortgage rate from 17½ to 12¾ percent. Retailing issues were strong, despite generally weak April sales figures from the industry. Federat-ed Department Stores rose 1% to 27%; Sears Roebuck ½ to 17½, and K mart % to Analysts noted that the group has been depressed for many months. They said some investors evidently were hunting for "bargains" in the group, encouraged by declining interest rates.

The NYSE's composite index gained .17 to 61.19. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .62 at 254.94. Volume on the Big Board totaled 17.35 million shares at noontime, against 18.05 million at the same point Wednesday.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Weekly livestock review. Estimated receipts 700, compared with 800 last week, 1500 last year. Compared with close of last week, slaughter cows 2.00-4.00 fower. Limited sales slaughter buils steady. Feeder steers and helfers steady on short supply, however quality and weighing condition not very attractive. Producers in trade area reluctant to sell at this price level; however buyers seem more aggresive for the numbers but very selective. Do we really want to reduce inflation? By JOHN CUNNIFF

BUSINESS MIRROR

NEW YORK (AP) — Undergoing a recession without correcting the causes is akin to having the surgeon decide, after he had cut you up, that he'd take a chance and not remove the tumor after all.

That, or its equivalent, is the warning now broad-cast by economists who fear that if we fail to correct some obvious and serious ailments during the recession we will condemn ourselves to a repeat perfor-Mance.

Among the first to be listed is the pscyhology of inflation. If people continue to expect prices to rise, the economists declare, prices will rise. They'll rise because people's actions will make them rise.

While consumers often are victimized by the poor decisions of those higher up, they do exert tremendous influences themselves. The past few years provide examples of how inflation fears induce more inflation.

-People buy in advance of their needs in order to beat price increases. This puts added pressure on the marketplace and the availability of goods. Prices react upward.

—They borrow more heavily, knowing that the dollars with which they repay will be cheaper dollars. The borrowed money may be channeled into purchases that otherwise might not be made. Again, pressure on prices.

—They cut their rate of saving, reasoning that money left unspent declines in value. This leaves less money available for lending on inflation-reducing, efficiency producing capital spending projects.

—Management and labor demand higher wages in anticipation of higher costs, feeding the upward spiral until it becomes a tornado.

None of these decisions is made in isolation from others, because the economy is a linkage of causes and effects as complex as the interacting cells in a living organism. They constantly act and react.

A vital ingredient of the process is confidence, or the lack of it. It doesn't take an economist or psychologist to determine that Americans have lost confidence in economic leadership. They've become

The reasons aren't obscure. Continued huge budget deficits, and insincere promises by government to do something about them, have left ordinary people aware of government's role in inflation. Even if the consumer is affoat with confidence, however, he and she can't do much about prices if productivity doesn't grow. If the efficiency of production falls, inflation ensues. Simplified, increased productivity means a bigger pie. If more can be produced for less, then everyone can have a bigger piece without taking from the other. There is more to share. Demand pressure is relieved. While the United States is still said by some economists to be the most productive nation (the contention is contested), the growth of productivity has almost ceased. But demand hasn't. And so prices

This lagging productivity is said by some to be the greatest challenge in U.S. history. Many observers also say it the most ignored challenge. Factories are outdated by technological or environmental change.

They must be updated. Where's the money to do it?
Tied directly to the productivity deficiency, and to the psychology of inflation, and the lack of confidence in economic leadership, is the value of the dollar. It's low. We need to export more. It's hard to

In too many respects, partly because of current inflation, American industry is not competitive in the world marketplace. Since 1975, when the last trade surplus was recorded, more than $85 billion in deficits have been run up. The country has had four straight years of red ink.

Country music star Johnny Cash celebrates his silver anniversary in the entertainment business on the 90-minute musical special, "Johnny Cash: The First 25 Years," Thursday, May 8, on CBS.

Kris Kristofferson says Cash helped him start his career. Kristofferson was on his way to a teaching job at West Point when he decided to try songwriting and headed for Nashville instead. As a member of the National Guard, he landed a helicopter on Cash's lawn, and just 'happened to have a tape of 'Sunday Mornin' Comin' Down' with me." Cash heard it, recorded it and made it a hit.

ace East held? Yes, but a slight one. If East did not have dummy's long suit stopped, he would not have discouraged a heart continuation. Since, in fact, he did, it seemed reasonable to assume that he held the ace of diamonds, so West shifted to the four of diamonds.

Now it was East's turn to star. If West held a singleton, diamond, it was right to win the ace and give him a ruff; if the diamond lead was a doubleton, it was vital to hold up the ace. Which was more likely?

There was no sure way to tell, but East decided that if his partner held a singleton diamond, he would have cashed a second heart before shifting to a diamond. Therefore, East elected to let dummy's king of diamonds win the second trick.

Declarer was rendered helpless. If he drew trumps, the defenders would collect two more heart tricks and the ace of diamonds. If he did not, West would score a diamond ruff.

Rebels inflicted Soviet casualties

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Soviet troops west of Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, have suffered numerous casualties in recent rebel encounters, a reliable source said today quoting persons who reported seeing Soviet helicopters carrying litters strapped with bodies.

According to two Kabul residents, helicopters arriving from a westerly direction flew into the airport Monday with dead Russian soldiers, said the source, who declined to be identified. The number of bodies was not given.

However, the pro-Moscow regime's official media announced in Kabul that military exercises had been taking place east and west of the capital for the past three days, according to information received here today.

The broadcasts by the state-run radio triggered speculation of rebel fighting outside Kabul.

Meanwhile, student-led protests against the Soviet occupation troops in the capital erupted into new violence this week and Afghan security forces have launched a series of midnight sweeps to round up young men for military conscription and check for rebel arms, informed sources said.

Several Kabul residents said they saw police on Monday "disperse and arrest" 300 students of Habibia High School, the city's largest and one of the first to organize anti-Soviet street demonstrations, which began April 21.

The Monday march was organized to protest the death April 29 of a teen-age student shot by Russian troops and run over by a Soviet-manned armored vehicle, the source reported. The incident began when snipers shot two Soviet soldiers passing the schoolgrounds on a military truck earlier in the day, the informant said.

Clean water, sanitation goals for health group

NEW YORK (AP) - Officially declaring smallpox a thing of the past, the World Health Organization today turned its attention to immunization programs, battling tropical diseases and providing clean water and adequate sanitation.

The objective is "health for all by the year 2000." Smallpox, the first disease man has eliminated, is one of the five most deadly diseases in world history. As recently as 1966, it accounted for 500,000 to 1 million deaths a year worldwide.

But it was to be declared eradicated at a ceremony during a meeting of the World Health Assembly, WHO's governing body, in Geneva, Switzerland, today. It has been two years since the last recorded case of smallpox - the most recent suspected case, two weeks ago, turned out to be chicken pox.

The Roman Catholic pontiff thanked President Daniel Arap Moi for "the kindness, the openness and the joy of the people of Kenya."

"More than ever, I feel I belong to you," he told the officials, bihops, tribal dancers, ululating women and others in the crowd that bade him farewell after his two-day visit. The Standard, Kenya's leading newspaper, said

The Standard also reported that more than 70 babies were born in Nairobi during the pontiff's visit, and that most of the mothers planned to name their children Pope.

Rachel Njoroge, who gave birth to her eighth son, told the newspaper: "It is the greatest gift one could receive in remembrance of the pope's visit."

Speaking to Kenya's 15 Catholic bishops on Wednesday, the pope forcefully restated their church's ban on contraception, abortion, divorce and sterilization and praised them for their "faithful upholding of the church's teaching" and their "profound attachment to the integral values of the human person.'

"The great African tradition is faithful to so many family values, and to life itself, which takes its origins in the family," he said.

His remarks disappointed local workers of population control who had hoped he would say nothing about contraception because of Kenya's population growth rate, at 4 percent one of the highest in the

The pope was made an honorary tribal elder after an outdoor mass earlier Wednesday and delighted the crowd of 250,000 by donning a monkey-skin cape and hat and beating on a tribal drum.

Saudi Arabia orders cease of entry visas

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) - In a move against those "waging war" on Islam, oil-rich Saudi Arabia has ordered its embassies to cease issuing entry visas to non-Moslem foreigners seeking jobs in the kingdom, official sources said today.

The order followed a call Tuesday night by Prince Nayef Bin Abdel Aziz, the Saudi interior minister, to cut the number of foreign workers in Saudi Arabia. Nayef was quoted by the official Saudi news agency as warning Saudis of the dangers of mingling with non-Moslem societies.

He reportedly told a seminar here that the number of Saudis traveling abroad to study will "kept down to a minimum." The agency quoted him as saying those studying abroad were endangered by unfavorable influences in foreign societies.

Last week, Crown Prince Fahd barred Saudi women from traveling abroad to study, even if they were accompanied by their husbands.

The new dictates apparently were fueled by Saudi anger over the broadcast in the West of a film portraying the execution of a Saudi princess and her lover convicted of adultery. The Saudis sharply protested the film, an Anglo-American production. After it was aired in England last month, Saudi Arabia ordered the British ambassador out of the Without mentioning names, Nayef was quoted as ed by elements of other religions who reject and try to undermine the precepts of Islam.

'They are waging war on our faith. They have tried to uphold the virtues of their own faith but failed. And now they are trying to project the negative aspects and ignore the positive aspects of our (Islamic) faith," he was quoted as saying.

Tank car explodes, hurts seven in West Germany

NUREMBERG, West Germany (AP) — A railway tank car filled with vinyl chloride gas from the Soviet Union exploded in flames during a switching mishap today, injuring seven persons and releasing a cloud of poison fumes, police said.

Seven railway workers were hospitalized with burns or gas inhalation following the midmorning explosion at a switching yard in south suburban. Nuremberg, police said.

A gas alarm was sounded and residents of nearby homes were warned over radio and mobile loudspeakers to remain indoors with their windows closed until the fumes dissipated.

In Ghana, the pope was expected to have his first summit meeting with the new Archbishop of Canter-bury, the Most Rev. Robert Runcie, who is on his first visit to Africa since becoming primate of the Church of England and the spiritual leader of the rest of the world's Anglican churches.

The pontiff will also visit Upper Volta and Ivory Coast before returning to Rome on Monday.

Iranian terrorist John Paul has proved to be "a great friend of emergent Africa" who was leaving "memories that appears in court

LONDON (AP) — A 23-year-old Iranian dock worker, heavily guarded and handcuffed to a policeman, appeared in court today charged with murdering two hostages at the end of London's six-day

Iranian Embassy siege.
Police said the defendant, Fowzi Badavi Nejad, was the sole survivor of six terrorists after a commando assault freed 19 hostages in the embassy

In a three-minute court appearance Nejad was ordered held without bail for one week after Commander Peter Duffy, head of Scotland Yard"s Anti-Perrorist Squad, testified that "numerous threats have been made against him."

Duffy asked for an adjournment and Nejad was not required in today's appearance to plead to the charges of murder and other offenses under British law connected with the takeover.

Nejad, wearing a green and red-checked sport coat and a white open-necked shirt, stood erect as Duffy told the court the defendant could not understand English. An interpreter was sworn in.

The other five terrorists, including their leader and his deputy, were killed by British commandos of the elite Special Air Services Regiment when they stormed the embassy Monday.
