Another false alert warns of 'attack'

WASHINGTON (AP) - For the second time in a matter of days, a computer malfunction gave a "false signal" that the United States was under attack by Soviet missiles, the Pentagon acknowledged Saturday.

The incident occurred Friday and as a result "the engines of some planes of the Strategic Air Command were turned on, since SAC responds automatically to any warning signal," said Pentagon spokesman Thomas B. Ross in a statement.

Another Defense Department spokesman, John Becher, said that the "readiness posture of other strategic and tactical forces was not increased.'

The computer malfunction was similar to one that occurred Tuesday and again last November:

'The same computer which gave off false signals on June 3rd had another malfunction and gave off another false signal," Ross said.

He added that the computer involved has been taken out of use "until the problem can be deter-

"The computer readout indicated an ICBM (intercontinental ballistic missile) and SLBM (submarine-launched ballistic missile) attack, but of a smaller nature than the June 3 event," Ross said. "None of the indicators of actual missile attack registered any sign that ICBMs or SLBMs were headed toward the United States. Within three minutes, it was positively determined that it was a computer malfunction.

Ross said "no planes of any kind were moved and none were sent into the air" and that "all systems returned to normal" after the error was discovered.

Becher said the computer that malfunctioned Tuesday was "deliberately left on line with special equipment applied to it in an effort to determine the cause of the (Tuesday) malfunction." He said that "when the second malfunction occurred Friday, we be-lieve we detected the cause," which one Pentagon official described as technical in nature.

It was the third time in seven months that the computer has falsely warned of a Soviet attack. As in the previous two incidents, "all systems returned to normal" as soon as the malfunction was discovered, the Pentagon said.

Loop construction begun

Rights of way nearly all purchased

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Two years and $3.5 million later, the city of Midland is coming to the end of a long road on buying its share of rights of way for construction of Loop 250 on the north edge of Midland.

The road the city has traveled to see this project to completion hasn't been anywhere near like whizzing down a smooth, multi-lane highway, although that's what the city is hoping it sees as an end result.

With 101 parcels of land to purchase, the city has completed about 90 percent of the task, according to City Attorney Joe Nuessle. The final 10 items will have to be settled in condemnation proceedings, he ex-

In getting the land, however, the city overshot its first estimate on costs by about $3 million. And if it hadn't been for last minute aid from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, the Loop Road project looked like it might be dead-ended.

But today, the State Highway Department already has started to work on the first leg of what they term a 15-year construction project - that of a service road being laid down next to Holiday Hill Road between Highway 80 West and Andrews Highway.

THE IDEA FOR A loop road around the north half of Midland began developing in 1964 and it wasn't until 1977 that the highway department approved the project. But the approval came on one condition - that all four governmental bodies involved pay all the costs of purchasing rights of way for the road.

The four - city and county of Midland, Ector County and Odessa computed what they felt would be fair prices for the land. Midland's city staff figured that it wouldn't cost much more than $500,000 to buy the land. The land needed would amount to $900,000; but the city thought it could get about $400,000 worth through donations from landowners and subdivision plats. Time passed while the State Highway Department worked on property descriptions and maps of the project. Land costs along the proposed route escalated rapidly.

When the city finally received word from the state department to begin purchasing rights of way, costs had

RANKIN - A 27-year-old Odessa man, wanted in the shotgun slaying of his mother-in-law Friday in the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, was shot and killed late Saturday night approximately one mile east of here, follow-ing a multi-county pursuit.

At 11 p.m., a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety in Midland said it was unknown whether Mark Edward Powell, 27, was shot by DPS officers or Upton County Sheriff's deputies. Two hostages Powell had taken were not injured.

The search for Powell began Friday after a man entered the Chamber of Commerce offices in Odessa and shot Loice Chapman, 46, twice in the chest with a shotgun. He also reportedly shot at Ms. Chapman's daughter's mobile home before abandoning Ms. Chapman's car on Yukon Road. Powell also was suspected of kidnapping three 16-year-old girls who disappeared three blocks from where Powell had abandoned the vehicle. Warrants were issued for his ar-

At 10:30 p.m. Friday, Powell was seen in Houston where he allegedly tried to kill Ms. Chapman's ex-husband, witnesses told police. Odessa police, Ector County deputies and the Texas Rangers were looking for Late Saturday night, the search intensified when Powell was reported near Rankin around 10:30 p.m. and headed toward Odessa.

He reportedly had two hostages, a boy and a 17-year-old girl. He was armed with a shotgun and threatened to kill the hostages. DPS units and deputies from Upton and Crane counties set up roadblocks at possible junctions.

Near Rankin, Powell ran out of gas and stole a yellow Pontiac. It was at this time he apparently took the boy hostage. Officers were not releasing the boy's name late Saturday, but said he lived approximately 15 miles out of Rankin toward Midkiff.

Poweii aiso had a 17-year-old girl in the car with him, but law enforcement agencies late Saturday could not confirm where the girl had been taken hostage. Department of Public Safety broadcasts said she was from Rankin, but a spokesman in the Upton County Sheriff's Office said only the boy had been taken hostage there.

The next 30 minutes were tensionfilled, with the DPS dispatcher advising all units to clear the channel being used, unless they had emergency information pertaining to the pursuit.

After leaving Rankin, Powell was next spotted in Crane, where he stole a mustard-colored pickup. Shortly thereafter, he was reported in McCamey, where he reportedly shot out a tire on another vehicle.

Around 10:44 p.m., Powell was spotted on U.S. Highway 67 by Upton County Sheriff's deputies. The deputy reported that Powell still had the hostages and was holding a shotgun out the pickup window. The deputy trailed Powell as he headed out of McCamey toward Rankin, turned back toward McCamey and then back toward Rankin.

He passed through Rankin, now with two cars in pursuit and others, including several units from the Midland County Sheriff's Department, setting up roadblocks at possible turn-offs. At one point, Powell fired at one of the Upton County units. Around 11 p.m., Powell had turned back toward Rankin and was a mile east of that city when the pickup he was driving rolled over.

Officers were immediately ordered to his assistance, and then units were told to stand by as shots had been fired. Officers did not know whether the hostages had been shot.

Only seconds later, the DPS dispatcher, with obvious relief in his voice, notified all units that Powell was in custody.

"Subject is in custody and is de-ceased," came the announcement. "Hostages are OK. Repeat - hos-

Wild River Canyon: One answer to Midland's sizzling summer heat

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

With temperatures reported around 105 degrees Saturday afternoon, some Midlanders may have been wondering what they were going to do when summer arrives" and it "really gets

Well, T.J. Melton and Associates may have an answer to the heat. They call it "Wild River Canyon."

Scheduled to officially open Tuesday. Wild River Canyon, located in West Midland on the corner of Princeton Avenue and Holiday Hill Road, is Midland's answer to Arlington's Six Flags. Although not really an amusement park with carnival rides, the park will feature water attractions: the Swimming Lake, featuring T-bar slides; the Spillway Slide for "shoot-ing-the-rapids" on rubber innertubes; and the Mine Mountain River Ride, which is a flume to ride down on rubber mats. All the water attractions are open to bathing-suited patrons, who can change in a special locker room. Some 23 lifeguards will be on duty (12 per shift) at all three of the attrac-

Besides the "get-wet" water attractions, Wild River features a paddleboat exhibit that travels throughout the park (including a "paddle-through" ice cream stand); bumper boats with Suzuki two horse-power engines surrounded by rubber innertubes; and a fishing hole with live catfish and perch to be caught (and paid for) and taken home. For those interested in a more daring style of life, Wild River has a Baja Speedway featuring gas-powered CanAmerican race cars. In Baja, there's a cantina, too, specializing in homemade Mexican food. Pizza will be offered in the Arcade Pavilion, which features coin-slotted pinball machines and electronic

In a third "eaterie," one can find "American delicacies" like hamburgs and french fries.

A Birthday Pavilion will provide a shaded picnic area for small parties. Beside the Birthday Pavilon is a kiddie park. For the younger chil-dren, there is a Ball Crawl — a cage filled with mult-colored plastic balls to jump in. Later there will be a blown-up Air Bounce for the little ones, too. Right now, there is also Skipper's Clipper, which is in the shape of a boat and provides slides, ropes to climb on and various "playground" equipment. A minature train encompasses the park, travelling over real spike-driven railroad ties. There is also a miniature golf course for more "leisurely" entertainment.

An amphitheater complete with a grassy, sloping hill, will be the site for feature-length family films from 9 to 11 p.m. Later a stage will be built for groups to perform there. Already the Young Country singing group is scheduled to appear for July 4.

Some 106 employees have been working all hours these past few weeks to ready the park by Tuesday.

When it does open, there will be two admission options: the Super Pass and the Mini Pass. The Super Pass ($7.75 for adults; $6.50 for children under 12) will entitle the bearer to free admission to all attractions, for the entire day. The Mini Pass ($4.50 for adults; $3.50 for children under 12) will include general admission as well as admission to the Swimming Lake and T-bar, the Spillway Slide, the kiddie park and the outside movies.

Park hours will be 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays and noon to 11 p.m. on returned Saturday to Iowa — scene of his stunning upset defeat at the hands of George Bush five months ago - to claim a majority of the state's delegates to the Republican National Convention.

"I want to tell you how much the success of my campaign this spring has been due to the results of the Iowa caucuses last January," the former California governor deadpanned.

You've reminded me that no man can stay above the battle if he expects to win the war," Reagan told 2,500 delegates and guests at the Iowa Republican state convention in Cedar Rapids. Reagan appeared at the weekend convention — the final step in Iowa's caucus system of electing presidential convention delegates - a day after Bush urged his Iowa supporters to unite behind Reagan.

At the convention, Reagan won 21 of the 37 delegates Iowa will send to the national convention. Sixteen others remained committed either to Bush or Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn.

But state party chairman Stephen Roberts said that when it comes time for Iowa to cast its ballot in Detroit, "all will vote for Reagan."

Bush had beaten Reagan by a nearly 2-1 in the Jan.

The former United Nations ambassador had visited the convention site on Friday night, but left Cedar Rapids Saturday before Reagan arrived. "It's his show. It's his day," Bush said of Reagan. Bush said, "After I get a little rest, I will do everything in my power to get Governor Reagan elected."

In his convention speech, Reagan expanded on his theme of reaching out for broader support of Democrats and independents, saying they are disenchanted as much as Republicans are with President Carter's economic policies.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) -Richard Allen, a foreign affairs adviser to Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, said Saturday he may meet with Palestinian leaders during his factfinding mission in the Middle East.

He has met with a number of Egyptian officials, including Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butros B. Ghali, and will leave for Tel Aviv Sunday for talks with Israeli leaders.

In a telephone interview, he said a meeting with Palestinians "is not inconceivable," but he declined to say if his trip to Israel would include visits to the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River or Gaza

Blistered and sweaty skin was the common factor Saturday as temperatures hit a searing 105 degrees.

But hot as it was, it wasn't a record. The record high for Saturday is 106 degrees set in 1964.

Cooler weather is on the way, though, with high temperatures today and Monday only expected to hit the upper 80s. And there's a chance of rain tonight and Monday.

According to the forecast, the over-

Tornado sightings were reported in band stretching from western Pennsylvania across Ohio into Indiana and southern Michigan.

In Vigo County, Ind., just south of Terre Haute, Keith S. Reed, 35, was in his metal garage when a severe thunderstorm passed, sheriff's deputies said. Police theorize that as Reed reached up to a fuse box to turn off the electricity, lightning struck the building, traveling through the fuse box and killing Reed.

Residents still keeping distance from volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - Animals are returning to the asher treeless terrain of Mount St. Helens, but humans should keep their distance from the still-volatile volcano, a geologist said Saturday.

The currently calm peak could cough up an ash cloud larger than the one that darkened skies over three states May 18, scientists warn.

Meanwhile, the volcano continued to tilt slightly to the south-southwest, mystifying scientists who are trying to predict when it may erupt again. A geologist working five miles north of the mountain spotted cougar tracks, and deer tracks also have been seen in the fluffy ash around the mountain, according to Tim Hait of the U.S. Geological Survey.

Hait also said an "asparagus type" plant is poking up through some of the lighter ash.

But the geologist emphasized the appearance of wildlife and plants should not full the unwary into thinking the mountain has gone back to sleep.

It's a very risky place. I don't think anybody should feel secure. Our people feel very uncomfortable working north of that crates," he just about doubled.

Looking back at those early days, Mayor G. Thane Akins, who has worked on the project for a number of years, said there was no way the City Council could have predicted land values would accelerate at the rate it was obvious that the overall growth of the city was going in that direction, "but no one told us land values would go that high," he said.

THE CITY HIRED an appraiser to valuate the property on a fair market level, and the city began offering landowners what the appraiser recommended. It wasn't long, though, before the city realized it didn't have enough money to cover the skyrocketing prices in that area.

The State Highway Department rejected one request from the four governmental bodies for aid in purchasing rights of way. But after a little pressure from local and state politicians - along with a shove from Gov. Bill Clements - the agency changed its mind. The state came through with $3.5 million to be divided among the four governments. The city of Midland received the biggest share: $1.7 million.

Pat Kinneson, legal assistant for the city, explained the state money helped in one way, but delayed the project in another. With the state's direct involvement, all appraisals now had to be approved by the highway department's appraiser.

Those approvals came "sometimes quick, sometimes after several months," said Ms. Kinneson

As the deals were approved and the city ran out of state money, it has turned to digging into its own coffers to the tune of $1.8 million. And with 10 cases going into condemnation, the price for this loop could go higher, remarked the legal assistant.

TEN CASES FOR condemnation isn't much, said Nuesslet "One thing holding it low (the cases) is we've tried to negotiate those cases before going into condemnation, if we thought they had a bona fide reaThe condemnation cases probably will see the city paying more for the land than had been planned, said In most of the condemnation suits, Nuessle said the landowners are claiming the loop road is killing their property and some are wanting as much as 1,000 percent more than what the city offered. In these situations, "we owe it to the taxpayer to go to condemnation," the attorney explained. In this type of lawsuit, a governmental entity condemns property and uses the power of eminent domain, or the right to take property to be used for public purposes. "And the law says you have to pay full fair market value," said Nuessle,

Briefly, under condemnation the case goes to the county court at law and Judge William DuBose appoints a three-member commission to study both sides. The commission decides how much should be paid and the city deposits that amount with the court. If the landowner still feels cheated.

he can appeal the case and have a jury trial. Meanwhile, the city can go ahead with the project and the loop can be built, Nuessle explained.

and a house. The landowner, though, wanted $1 million. The commissioners settled on $87,000, the city paid it to the court, and the landowner is appealing to a higher court

"If he is successful," Nuessle remarked of the owner, "he could increase the overall cost of rights of way by a third." In a second case, the city offered $100,000 and the owner $500,000. The commissioners decided on $133,000.

It was cases like these that prompted one city councilman to remark that a few citizens were killing Loop 250 and it would be the taxpayers who wind up paying though the nose.

On the other hand, there were some corporate Indowners who donated the rights of way or accepted a lesser amount for the land, Ms. Kinneson pointed out.

The state has what it needs now, but there may be another problem...that of speeding up construction on the loop road, said the mayor.

"There wasn't a choice about building this road," he recalled, "It is absolutely needed with the shopping centers going in out there. But I really hope we can accelerate the construc-

The highway department follows the procedure of putting in the two service roads first, and then going ahead with the major multi-lane thoroughfare after traffic counts warrant the need.

INCREASED TRAFFIC at the Midkiff-FM 868 intersection already show a need for a quicker construction time schedule than the highway depart-IN ONE SUCH CASE, the city of ment is planning, said Akins.

"By the time the traffic count warrants the rest of the Loop, you have the problem of closing off part of the road for construction. I would rather they (the highway department) anticipate their traffic count and build to meet the need," he explained.

'I'm glad this part (buying rights of way) is almost over; it has been a trying experience," Akins. "But I'm anxious to get the Loop started."

ately winning cause for them, they have added durability as well as drama to the two-party system. George Bush conducted himself with honor and distinction. Even in losing he won victories for high standards of campaigning. So did Senators Howard Baker and Robert Dole, who pleased some of us by adding good natured humor to what is too often a homorless enterprise. John Connally's vigor and decisiveness also should be included in tomorrow's political primers.

Now that the primary season is over, the stage is set for the "world series" of the national conventions. After all the above-mentioned ifs, ands and buts are taken into consideration, Americans have reason for considerable satisfaction in our political system

For instance, elections were held in 37 states, a political marathon that has set a record. The fact that 22 million people participated in the sifting and sorting of candidates for the two major parties should not go unnoticed by those who deride the system as a tedious succession of circuses.

Some say that inasmuch as Messrs. Carter and Reagan got favorable nods from early-bird voters in New Hampshire, that should have ended it. Why waste more time and money confirming a known trend? That, of course, misses the point. The point is that in subsequent primaries voters of all the United Stares had an unprecedented opportunity to judge candidates, unhurriedly and wisely, and the candidates had an unprecedented opportunity to influence the course of America's political destiny.

That is the true meaning, and the true strength, of our presidential pri-

Gov. Reagan apparently has an easier task. Yet, it seems to me, he must find an attractive choice for vice president to make his run for the presidency more appealing to a broader spectrum of the electorate.

Almost everywhere I go these days friends ask who I think will be Gov. Reagan's running mate. It's a good question, but I don't have any special insight into the Californian's thinking. Obviously, it is up to Gov. Reagan to make his own choice with or without the help of the convention - but like all of you I have some favorites. Chief among those is former President Jerry Ford whose experience in the presidency itself had a healing effect upon the country. Don't forget that he also almost won the presidency on his own despite the albatross of Watergate around his neck. There have been many reports that President Ford rejects any consideration of the No. 2 spot, particularly because his charming wife, Betty, doesn't want him to undergo another exhausting campaign. Yet, Mr. Ford recently endorsed Gov. Reagan following his earlier assessment that Reagan could not win. Many public opinion polls fortified by primary results have obviously made the former president change his mind. The Ford-Reagan meeting can be seen as stressing Republican Party unity, particularly as the Democrats seem to be so divided. High on my list also is a very special lady, Mrs. Anne Armstrong of

A Phi Beta Kappa from Vassar, she has held responsible government positions, including a key post as a presidential counsellor and as our ambassador in London with great distinction. She is the mother of five children and married to a prominent rancher, Tobin Armstrong. Her husband was with her in England which he knew well from the war when he was a fighter pilot.

Mrs. Armstrong captivated the normally reserved British public by her intelligence and style. She displayed a rare grasp and understanding of complex international situations, an asset which Gov. Reagan should find most useful. For many years she has been active in the upper levels of Republican policy strategy.

As Gov. Reagan's vice president, Mrs. Armstrong would undoubtedly attract a sizeable number of Democratic women voters in the manner of . her good friend Mrs. Margaret Thatcher. Without traditional Labor Party supporters, mostly women, she would not have won herself.

strong options are worth thinking about most seriously. But, as I said above, it's up to Gov. Reagan.

Few Midlanders cast state runoff ballots

The only time Midland could possibly have had a lower turnout for an election, said Democratic Party Chairman Darrell Smith, is when cavemen wandered the land — and didn't know where the polls were. Only 157 votes were cast in Midland County in Saturday's state runoff elections. There were no local runoffs. On the ballot were John C. Phillips, receiving 72 votes, and James P.

Wallace, 76 votes, for Supreme Court Justice Place 1; Mike McCormick, 97, and W.T. Phillips, 56, for Court of Criminal Appeals Place 2; and Tom Davis, 105, and Edith Roberts, 44; for Court of Criminal Appeals Place

"Put this right in the middle of the front page," said Smith sarcastically, "because it really seemed to have people excited.

"Maybe the people who talk a lot about desiring law and order were really admitting they don't care that much about the Court of Criminal Appeals. That's a puzzle to me; it's a very important court position," he said. "Perhaps Bill Shaner (Midland County GOP chairman) and the Republicans have been right all along.'

The Republican party has been pushing the idea of appointed judges, with only recall elections being held.

"And you have to take into consideration that the election workers were bound to have voted today because that's all they had to do. I really appreciate these people. They don't even get paid minimum wage and yet they put in 12 hours just to see the free election idea kept open. And then no one votes," Smith added.

"We may get races in November in which more people are interested and I'm sure we'll get a bigger turnout, but I don't know that you will get a more critical election.

Smith felt the rules by the Texas secretary of state and the Departs ment of Justice requiring a polling place for each commissioner's district may have hurt Midland's turnout.

"We would have had better turnout with one polling place here at the courthouse because that is centrally located and everyone would have known where to go. I'm not so sure people in Washington and Austin making a bunch of arbitrary rules always serve the best interests of Midland County," Smith said.

The Dawson County tax assessor-collector is resigning, leaving Diane Hogg and Wistelle Whitaker to face off in a runoff . for that position. Ms. Hogg won with 1,186 to Ms. Whitaker's 954.

Patman catches up, beats Barnes' try for congressional nomination

By TERRY LEONARD Associated Press Writer

State Sen. Bill Patman came from behind Saturday to defeat Nueces County Judge Robert Barnes in their hotly contested race for the Democratic nomination in the 14th congressional district. Although Barnes had conceded the election late Saturday night, Patman would say only that "it looks very optimistic.'

"He got more votes in his home county than I did in mine, that's what went wrong," said Barnes. In late returns, Patman collected 25,439 votes or 51 percent to 23,969 or 49 percent for Barnes. Patman had been considered a slight favorite in the race because of his strong showing in the rural precincts during the May 3 Democratic primary.

Political newcomer Michael A. Andrews defeated perennial comeback candidate Bob Gammage in the Democratic runoff for Houston's 22nd congressional Andrews lead late Saturday night by a margin of 58 percent to 42 percent.

Andrews said voters were "tired of seeing" Gammage on the ballot. He said the district was ready for a change and predicted he would provide that change by beating GOP incumbent Ron Paul in November. Gammage was unavailable for comment Saturday

Austin attorney Mike McCormick defeated incumbent Judge W. T. Phillips in the race for Place 2 on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The race was one of three statewide judicial runoffs to determined in the Democratic primary. McCormick, who grabbed the lead early, led by a 53 percent to 47 percent margin late Saturday, Incumbent Judge Tom Davis defeated Austin Attorney Edith Roberts in the Place 2 Texas Court of Criminal Appeals race Saturday. Davis collected 62 percent of the vote to 38 percent for Ms. Roberts.

Houston Court of Civil Appeals Judge Jim Wallace defeated Austin Court of Criminal Appeals Judge John D. Phillips for the Place 1 spot on the Texas Supreme Court. :

Bower by a 72 percent to 28 percent margin. Barnes and Patman battled for the right to meet Republican C.L. Conklin of Corpus Christi and a chance to succeed Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, who resigned

Patman carried all but two rural counties in the 14th district - which stretches from Corpus Christi into Central Texas - and led Barnes in the May 3 balloting by 35 percent to 31 percent.

Gammage won Houston's 22nd district nomination in a special election in 1976, but then lost to Republican Ron Paul. He defeated Paul in the regular 1976 election and then lost to Paul again in 1978.

Gammage drew 46 percent of the vote in the May election, to 39 percent for Andrews. Former state Rep. Joe Pentony forced the runoff by collecting almost 16 percent of the vote.

In the Republican primary May 3, Bigger led Bower 48 percent to 42 percent.

High court races were overshadowed by the presidential preference hoopla that attracted almost 2 million voters to the Democratic and Republican primaries May 3. But the judicial contests were the only statewide elections Saturday.

Wallace led Phillips 45.68 percent to 32.28 percent in the May election for the Supreme Courty. St. Mary's law professor Wayne Scott got 21.04 percent to force a runoff.

McCormick led Phillips 40.59 percent to 32.82 percent for Place 2 on the highest criminal court. Dallas Lawyer John E. Humphreys, 55, finished third with 27.50 percent.

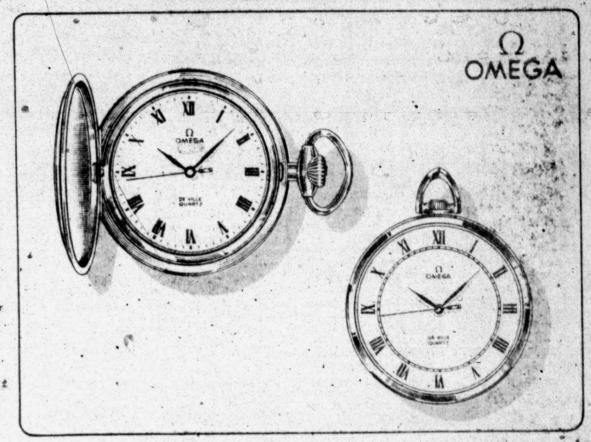

Davis polled 41.33 percent of the Place 3 vote in May, to 31.16 percent for Ms. Roberts. Houston attorney Walter Boyd missed the runoff with 27.50

Three incumbent legislators lose runoffs

Associated Press Writer

State Reps. Don Cartwright of San Antonio, Herman Lauhoff of Houston and Emmett Whitehead of Rusk were defeated Saturday in Democratic run-off primaries.

Of four incumbent representatives in the run-offs, only Smith Gilley of Greenville pulled off a victory, defeating conservative. challenger Lowell Cable of Sulphur Springs. Another four incumbents lost in the first primary, May 3.

Run-off results are expected to have some impact on the 1981 House speaker's race, and Speaker Bill Clayton watched the returns closely Saturday night.

Clayton says he will quit his campaign for an unprecedented. fourth term as speaker only if his Brilab problems continue past

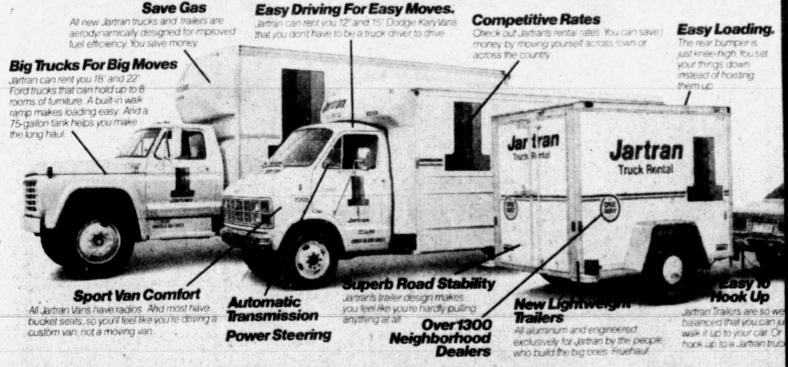

"The House will probably have a majority of conservatives but probably not the overwhelming majority we could have had I don't have any complaints, but you hate to see incumbents lose,'

He said the run-offs did not change his vote count significantly. He told reporters he could not tell whether other candidates gained or lost votes for speaker.

Lauhoff was viewed as a moderate while Cartwright and Whitehead were business-backed conservatives. Cartwright, 40, an advertising and public relations man, was defeated almost 2-to-1 by his former legislative aide, Southwest

OPEC expected to increase prices

Industry sources from the Persian Gulf countries said Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, was willing to increase its price by $3-to $4 per 42-gallon barrel if the 12 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries accept the Saudi price formula.

The Saudi Arabian oil minister, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, underscored the deepening split Saturday when he said he was "not optimis-

Yamani, who has been trying to sell the idea of single-tier pricing to OPEC, told reporters on his arrival that it was unlikely the other ministers would agree.

Sources close to the Saudi delegation said Yamani was attempting to persuade the cartel to take steps to end the current pricing confusion, and scene in an attempt to they predicted he was in for a hot save the structure, session with the hard-line members.

"Yamani is likely to go ahead and offer an increase in his country's crude prices and reduce his production rates well below the current 9.5 million barrels a day, only if he can get a guarantee from the group that no further hikes would be introduced for the rest of 1980," one source said. OPEC's prices have been split since 1979 when some members unilaterally

At the end of 1979, the average official price was $25.50 per barrel, but recent increases by individual members have pushed that figure to .almost $31.

Experts estimate that gasoline and heating oil prices in the United States go up about 1½ cents per gallon for every $1 per barrel increase in the average OPEC price.

Yamani reportedly will push hard for a price freeze for the rest of 1980. Afterwards, automatic quarterly price increases would be be pegged to a complex formula based on the inflation index of the Paris-based Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the rate of "real economic growth" of industrialized countries.

Last month at a special meeting in Taif, Saudi Arabia, all member nations except Iran, Algeria and Libya accepted the new price formula. The three "hawks" expressed reservations about the plan.

The proposed program also calls for OPEC oil prices to be fixed in terms of a group of Western currencies rather than the dollar, thus protecting OPEC against a fall in value of the dollar. The dollar would still be the princpal currency used to pay for oil.

Saudi sources contended the proposed formula offers a "definite schedule" for oil price hikes instead of the unpredictable leaps in prices that disrupt economic planning.

The same sources said the proposed long-range pricing strategy implies annual increases in oil prices of 10 percent to 15 percent. This would mean a price of at least $60 a barrel within the next six years.

OECD officials have said the West and Japan will lose about $150 billion this year because of oil price increases, and about $250 billion more because of anticipated economic slowdowns because of the increases. "The trouble is that OPEC countries and the industrialized nations are trying to solve the same problem separately," an Arab economist com-plained. "The only way to surmount the infernal race between oil prices and inflation is for the two sides to get together and offer practicable solutions for joint consideration."

Sources said if no decision is reached here, the conference is expected to avoid admitting failure by deferring action on the price formula until November, when the OPEC heads of state assemble in Iraq.

The OPEC report issued at Taif estimated the combined capacity of OPEC countries at about 35 million barrels a day by 1980, with about one-third of that coming from Saudi

My friend who is an insurance agent tells me that the price of life insurance is one of the few family expense items that has not gone up in recent years.

This seems incredible to me, considering that everything from food to gasoline costs much more than it did just a few months ago. Is my friend right? - Mrs. G.L.

ANSWER: According to the American Council of Life Insurance, your friend is right.

. One reason the price of life insurance has not gone up the way other items have, the council says, is that people are living longer, so the rateof paying policy benefits is less.

Another thing that has helped reduce the price of life insurance is an improvement in the earnings of life insurance investments, an improvement that has been applied to the price of .

And, finally, life insurance companies have worked to keep down the cost of doing business, says the council.

Because of all these factors, the price of life insurance is actually less than it was 20 years

Florida contestant wins shortened balloon race

HELEN, Ga. (AP) - After adverse winds forced most of the contestants to drop out, a Florida man was declared winner of the seventh annual Helen-to-the-Atlantic hot-air balloon race Saturday — without getting even close to the ocean.

"Homecrafter II," piloted by Raymond J. "Bucky" Brown of Jackson-ville, was declared the winner by race officials after traveling some 55 miles in two days. The balloon landed Friday near Elberton, Ga., according to race organizer Dan Davis.

Martin Countians set record

STANTON - Martin County cotton farms turned out 170,415 bales of cotton in the 1979 season to set a county cotton production rec-

Cash value of the crop is estimated at $42.6 million, according to George Glynn, who heads up the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for Martin County. He placed a $250 value on each bale.

Optimum underground moisture and timely seasonal rains contributed to the bumper crop. Martin County farmers planted 164,000 acres in cotton last year and harvested 155,784 acres.

Prospects appear favorable for a 1980 bumper crop, according to Alvin Riddle of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Stanton and to Tarzan farmer Newell Tate, who is president of the Mustang Soil and Water Conservation District.

An estimated 164,000 acres in Martin County will be planted in cotton this year, Glynn figured.

Midland police dogs win statewide honors

HOUSTON - One of Midland's three police dogs won third place against seven other dogs in a sta-tewide competition held here Thursday.

Handlers and dogs returned late Friday night. The dogs competed in five events against one dog from San Antonio and six from Houston. Winner was eligible for national competition in New York City.

Yo and trainer Ed Nicks placed third. The other Midland dogs and officers competing were Ebauer with Officer Damon Shupp and Casper with Officer Terry Lowe.

The first event was obedience, followed by jumps. In jumping, the dogs were required to leap through a hole cut in a board, jump a four- to four-and-a-half foot cyclone fence, go through a tunnel approximately 36 inches high and 20 feet long with a large curve and then jump through a 55-gallon barrel suspended four feet off the ground.

The third event is called "boxes." Someone is hidden in one of five large boxes. The dog's task is to find that one box and alert his trainer.

The last two events center around attack procedures. In the first, a man exits a building and shoots a gun. The dog is ordered to attack and stop the "burglar." After the man is stopped, the dog is ordered off and stands on guard while the handler removes the man's weapon. The second event could be the more nerve-wracking of the two. A man steps from behind a barricade with a gun. The dog is ordered to attack and the officer yells for the man to "freeze." The man comes to a complete stop, and the dog must be called off before he attacks.

Growers protest high discounts

LUBBOCK - Arguments filed by Plains Cotton Growers Inc. of Lubbock against excessive discounts assigned to lower quality cotton in the 1980 Commodity Credit Corp. cotton loan sched ule are logical, well documented and clearly in the best interest of cotton farmers.

"But that is not to say that those arguments will achieve desirable results," said PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson.

"There is growing evidence that pressure politics were behind the original loan program announcements," he said, "and obviously the sources of that pressure aren't going to disap-

Pecan shedding explained

COLLEGE STATION - Pecans often start shedding prematurely during the spring and summer due to a number of factors, including moisture stress, lack of cross pollenation, poor pollenation, infestation of casebearers and lack of sufficient nitrogen and zinc.

Disease and insect problems during the criti-cal water-stage of pecan development in mid-July and August can also lead to shedding, says Dr. George Ray McEachern, a horticulturalist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This is the time when the kernel begins to develop, and any stress caused by hickory shuckworms, pecan weevils, black pecan aphids and stinkbugs, scab, stem-end blight and shuck disease can cause widespread shedding. Pecan producers must keep a constant vigil for insect and disease problems and take control measures whenever the situation warrants.

U.S. may stage ag, food show

AUSTIN - A giant United States food and agriculture trade show with international focus may be in the works following discussions in St. Louis, Mo., by Texas Agriculture Commission Reagan V. Brown, U.S. Department of Agriculture's foreign service personnel and other commissioners of agriculture.

"The meeting was an effort to begin work on a national agriculture and food trade show, much like the ones currently being held in France, Germany and other countries," said Brown, who is a member of the Southern United States Trade Association (SUSTA). "These shows have been extremely successful in attracting interested buyers from around the world," said Brown. Such a show in this country would attract international attention and help increase ex-port sales of U.S. food and fiber products." Regional U.S. agricultural trade shows, such as the 1979 SUSTA exhibit in New Orelans, La., was successful, Brown said.

Texas melon crop short

COLLEGE STATION - Some South Texas watermelons are showing up at markets, but the crop is short due to adverse weather conditions, says Tom Longbrake, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

'This year's crop of melons from South Texas is of good-quality, but the volume will be down,'

The watermelon acreage will be only 25 to 30 percent of last year's planting due to drought, iate spring freezes and high winds and heavy "Many South Texas growers cut their acreage early this spring due to dry conditions," says Longbrake. "Then freezing temperatures in April further reduced the acreage. Finally, high winds and heavy rains in some locations also took their toll of the crop."

Watermelons started moving out of Falfurrias in Southeast Texas about two weeks ago, but crops will be late in the Hempstead-Navasota area. The hold-up there was late spring freezes. Growers are still planting in North Central and in East Texas.

USDA rules called 'slipshod'

WASHINGTON, D.C. - New regulations are being put into effect to curb what some insiders call a slipshod handling of a massive rural "business and industrial" loan program in the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Part of the crackdown is aimed at eliminating or at least pinpointing the use of political clout by some applicants in order to get their loans approved.

The program, handled by USDA's Farmers Home Administration, was authorized by Congress as part of arural development package in

Since then, the agency has issued more than $3.9 billion in 5,729 loans to help businesses and industries develop in rural areas, including hotels, mining operations, hundreds of other projects aimed at preserving or increasing employment in the countryside, and at least one steel mill. The program's general financial status apparently is not under fire, but USDA Secretary Bob Bergland says he has not been happy with some of the procedures used. Nearly all of the $3.9 billion has been lent under arrangements in which FHA, as the agency calls itself, underwrites or guarantees repayment. The money actually is borrowed from banks and other private lenders.

According to agency officials, only $52.3 million of the total of $3.9 billion was lent directly by the FHA.

More food stamp funds OK'd

DALLAS - New food stamp legislation signed by President Carter authorizes increased food stamp funding to respond to unemployment and inflation. At the same time, some 800,000 people were removed from the program and food-stamp costs were cut by three-quarters of a billion dol-

The program-tightening measures approved by Congress and signed into law by Carter will cause 650,000 people with near-poverty-line income to lose their eligibility for food stamps in fiscal year 1981, said USDA Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman. Some 150,000 students will be removed from the program.

"The law will allow USDA to make needed management improvements in this vital program," Ms. Foreman said. "It includes all of the proposals made by the President in March to help balance the federal budget. These include authorization of substantially increased appropriations over the next year to help meet needs caused by increased unemployment and infla-

Dear Dr. Solomon: Why would a doctor prescribe an anticoagulant . drug? I recently visited my father, who lives in another city, and learned that he has been taking one for the past several months. - Charles.

Dear Charles: Anticoagulant drugs prolong the time it takes for blood to coagulate (clot). This lessens the possibility of a clot forming inside an artery or vein, so even in the heart itself, thus blocking the flow of blood.

Occasionally a clot will break loose from the inner wall of the artery or heart and become wedged in one of the smaller blood vessels. Either condition may reduce the supply of blood needed by the part of the body involved.

Anyone on anticoagulant therapy should be certain to follow the doctor's instructions. Since the effectiveness of these drugs differs from patient to patient, and even occasionally from time to time with the same patient, periodic labora-

Lebanese prime minister resigns

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese Prime Minister Salim el Hoss resigned Saturday, clearing the way for formation of a national union government in the half-Moslem, half-Christian nation.

Hoss, a onetime banker, said his 12-man Cabinet of parliamentarians and technocrats quit so that a government of "political activists" could try to restore domestic tranquility.

Hoss, 54 and a Moslem, served as prime minister since the end of the Lebanese civil war in December 1976. He told reporters he submitted his resignation to President Elias Sarkis during a Cabinet meeting in the presidential palace.

Sarkis recently conferred with Moslem leftist and Christian rightist leaders about ways to reach a national reconciliation, and the two sides agreed that national union government was needed, Hoss

Plans made for weekend 'Juneteenth' celebration

Juneteenth, which is recognized each June 19 by Texas blacks as Emancipation Day, will be celebrated June 19-22 by blacks in Midland, according to Juneteenth organizer Roosevelt Campbell.

The event recognizes that celebrated day — June 19, 1865 — when Union Gen. Gordon Granger, as commander of Texas following the downfall of the South in the Civil War, announced the President's proclamation that "all Negroes are free." That announcement came 2½ years after President Abraham Lincoln had issued the Emancipation Proclamation, which led to the end of slavery in the United States, on Jan. 1, 1863.

"Still, we're not free," jested Campbell, "because we can't get off (of work) on the 19th of June. As a matter of fact, they don't even teach about it in the schools." Juneteenth is not recognized as an official Texas holiday.

Nevertheless, the four-day event will be spotlighted by a parade June 21, by gospel-choir singing and religious services the afternoon of June 21, by a bathing suit contest and a dance that night, by a jazz concert June 22, and by Bingo games over the weekend.

the weekend.

With the exception of the bathing beauty contest and the parade, the Juneteenth events will be held in or about the Tall City Lions Club Den at 305 S. Stonewall Ave., Campbell said.

The bathing-beauty contest will be begin at 7 p.m. June 21 at the near-by Booker T. Washington Park in southeast Midland.

Booths featuring barbecue meats and the trimmings and beer and soft drinks will be set up outside the Lions' Den. Bingo will be played in the den.

The parade will begin at 9:30 a.m., June 21 at Northgate Shopping Center at Lamesa Road and Nobles Avenue, will proceed south on Lamesa Road, then east on Front Avenue, south on Lee Street, and east on Indiana Avenue to the Lion's Dean at Stonewall and Indiana avenues.

A Black Cultural Exhibit, detailing black history before and after slavery, will be on display at the den, Campbell said.

And Midlanders 'fill 'em up' with ingenuity

By SUSAN BAKER Staff Writer

If nothing else, the world oil shortage has taught a number of enterprising Midlanders that a lot can be done with an empty service stationg

The gasoline squeeze and resulting closing of many service stations has probably been a source of great anxiety to oil producers. But the ample parking and prime locations of the abandoned buildings have not gone unnoticed by several Midland businesses

A drive up Big Spring Street shows that there are almost as many old service stations that have been converted to other businesses as there are operating gas stations. And Pauline Simmons can testify to the fact that such a location is an ideal ingredient for a prosperous business.

Mrs. Simmons and her husband, shop owner L.G. Simmons, have operated Midland Lock and Safe for about 16 years, she says. In that time, they have occupied a downtown location and two service stations, having moved into the latest at 1408 N. Big & Spring St. only last Monday.

"We moved into our first gas station six years ago at 611 N. Big Spring," said Mrs. Simmons. She noted that business picked up considerably after the move from the downtown location.

"In this business, parking is a must and we just didn't have it downtown. Most service stations have plenty of parking space," she said, noting that

Albuquerque, Sandia at work on sludge plan

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) The city of Albuquerque is collaborating with Sandia Laboratories on a plan to use nuclear waste to disinfect sludge from the city's sewage treatment plants,

The proposed nuclear waste radiation plant could totally disinfect up to 30 tons of sludge a day, Ashok Khera, sanitary engineer for the city Water Resources Department, said last week. Although the radiation would be used to kill harmful organisms in the sludge, "It does not make the sludge radioactive," said Jack Sivinski, a Sandia scientist who runs the pilot program. Sandia has used radiation from nuclear waste to disinfect sludge on an experimental basis since late 1978, but the process has never been used widely in the United States, Sivinski said. The program would be part of a massive, $40 million plan to overhaul the city's sewage treatment system over the next five years. The radiation material used to decontaminate the sludge is known as cesium 137. It is kept within an irradiation facility, Sivinski said.

He said that Phillips Oil Co. frowned on the idea at first, but he proved that the addition of a gardening shop would make the station prosperous.

About 300 demonstrate in Wrightsville

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga. (AP) - Chanting "We're fired up, can't take no more," about 300 demonstrators marched peacefully through Wrightsville on Saturday in the latest protest of alleged discrimination against blacks in this small community.

The demonstrators, about 75 percent of them black, carried banners and signs as they marched four abreast through black neighborhoods from the Neeler Chapel A.M.E Church to the Johnson County Courthouse a mile away.

They were greeted at the courthouse by about 60 state troopers, who cordoned off the parking lot for their rally. About 100 bystanders watched quietly from behind the police lines.

State Public Safety Director Hugh Hardison said that 90 state troopers were on duty in Wrightsville and 60 others could be mustered from nearby counties.

Fighting erupts near Kabul

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fighting between Moslem guerrillas and Soviet and government forces has broken out in the mountains and valleys near the Afghanistan capital of Kabul, according to reports received Saturday from Afghanistan.

Air passengers arriving from Kabul said they could not confirm the report and described the capital as quiet. However, one traveler, who asked not to be identified, said: "Nobody can leave Kabul, it is not considered safe. It is safe in the city but there is tension and a feeling that anything may happen.'

A separate report from Afghanistan, from a source who has proved accurate in the past, told of brushfire battles and of Soviet armored and air. strikes in Kohdaman, a rolling valley of vineyards stretching 45 miles north of Kabul. Fighting also was reported in the wooded Paghman mountains and near Kargah Dam, west of Kabul, in the Lalandar Valley to the southwest and east of the capital.

Kabul is defended by four divisions of Soviet troops with as many as 2,500 tanks and armored vehicles, the source said.

The reports of fighting around Kabul could not be confirmed independently. Western reporters were barred from the country a short time after the Soviets sent an estimated 85,000 troops into Afghanistan in late December in an effort to crush the Moslem rebellion against the Marxist

Radio Afghanistan acknowledged trouble in the countryside, saying that in the past two months, "traitors and thieves" had killed 124 civilians and burned down 30 schools, a hospital in Loghar province southeast of Kabul, and a number of shops.

Lock-picking profession 'a good one'

amabad oof that bul stu-

> By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

With a crime wave ever increasing in America, citizens have started their own wave of security measures.

Today's families lock up nearly every belonging. Thirty years ago, for instance, who would have believed Americans would have locks on their gas tanks?

Unfortunately, the problem with locks is they frequently keep the wrong people out — namely the owners. On a key ring that used to hold a car key and a house key, Americans have added boat keys, office keys, desk keys, gas cap keys, mailbox keys, luggage keys, storage room keys — even keys to bowling ball bags.

So, what do most people do when they lock themselves out of their own things? Call someone to pick the lock, of course.

HAROLD MORGAN has been in the "lock-picking business" for 25 years. A self-proclaimed professional in a booming trade, Morgan has had his own business in Midland since 1970. And, he says lock-smithing is almost a dying art. Although the need for locksmiths is increasing rapidly, the interest in learning the trade is waning.

"Young people don't want to learn how to locksmith when there are some higher paying jobs they can get," Morgan says. But, he quickly adds, "Don't get me wrong, the money is there. It's done me real good."

Starting at the bottom to learn a skill, though, takes a lot of time, he says.

"I wouldn't take money for what I know," Morgan says. What he knows is just about everything there is to know about locks and keys.

"I haven't seen a lock yet that I couldn't pick," he grins. And, he says, he can have a key made for almost any lock in about 30-35 minutes.

UNLIKE PETER LUPUS on "Mission: Impossible," Morgan doesn't use wax or olay impressions to make a key for a lock — in fact, he says, that's "impossible." Morgan doesn't use ink or pencil markings, either. He uses the "feel" of the lock.

"I take a blank key, smooth off the side and stick it in the lock," he says. Then, he jiggles it around until he gets "the feel of it," or "you work it until you see a shiny spot." He takes it out, files it some, and puts it back in for more jiggling. This continues until he can open the lock with it.

Morgan says there aren't many smiths that make keys like he does any more. He learned in 1955 from a Wichita Falls locksmith he worked for while in high school.

Although he knew nothing about locksmithing, Morgan says he really needed a job while he was in school. "He asked me what I could do," he recalls. "I told him I could do anything — anything he told me to if I could get on," he grins. "He said, 'Well, get back here and we'll see what you can do."

So, Morgan says, "I was kinda self-taught."

WHAT MORGAN LIKES most about his job is not getting into things, although he admits opening locks "always gave me a thrill." What he likes is helping people. People locked in buildings, people locked out of their cars, even people stuck on a lake without keys to their boat.

A few weeks ago, Morgan even rescued a baby who had been locked in an automobile. Things like saving that baby, Morgan says, "that's what really thrills mo."

Since locksmiths have to be bonded, Morgan says some of the best locksmiths are "automatically disqualified."

"Some of the best locksmiths are in Folsom Prison," he says. "There are probably more locksmiths in prison than are out here — but that is no reflection on professional locksmiths.

"It's a highly-skilled profession to get into," Morgan continues. "But if you ever get into it and know that it is a profession you want to follow, you gotta be honest."

Morgan says "it never enters my mind" to steal anything. "I don't have a criminal mind," he says seriously. "My mind don't work that way. Knowing that I'm respected at work is more important than that. I'm proud of what I am."

BESIDES MAKING KEYS, Morgan also changes and repairs locks. With so many businesses distributing keys to employees, and so many employees changing jobs, Morgan says he's kept busy changing locks. The same is true of apartment complexes, he says. "It's just good business practice to change the Morgan says he's kept most busy, however, making keys for locks people have lost their own keys to. He says too few people ever have duplicate keys made to their vehicles, homes, boats, etc. Then, they lose the original and have to call a locksmith to have one made.

"People are normal," he says. "People make mistakes and if people didn't make mistakes, I'd be out of business."

LAND LEASE CAUTION

If you are moving to a new city you may find the home you are interested in to purchase to be on leased ground. These days it is becoming quite common for developers to use a master land lease in order to obtain land to subdivide and build on. If you are looking at a home that is on leased land, you should be sure to have anattorney read over the lease and advise you about the provisions it contains.

The home may be impossible to refinance at a later date due to the way the lease is written. It may not be possible to renew or extend the lease when it expires. If this should happen, you or your heirs would have to move out and the land owner would then own the home.

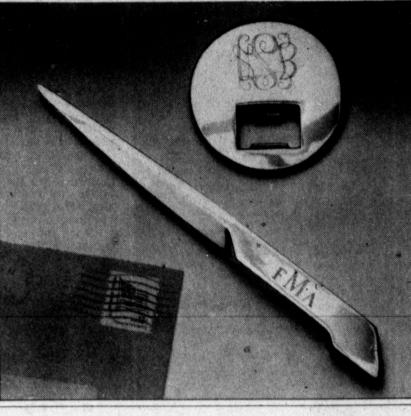

This can be so seriously that you should not take the advice of anyone except a competent real estate attorney. I only want to caution you. I do not wish to scare you off-the land lease may be an excellent deal for you.

If you have any questions on this subject or any other aspect of real estate, feel free to phone or drop in at DON HARVEY Realtors 702 Andrews Hwy. Phone 683-5333. We're here to help! Come in for your free copy of "Home for Living" magazine.

Jiggling a blank key to "get the feel" of the lock, right, is one way Midland locksmith Harold Morgan makes keys. On July 14, we'll be celebrating 90 years of great banking...

Do you know someone in the Permian Basin who'll be 90 years old on July 14th?

...if you do, we'd like to know about it so that we can share our birthday with them.

We know that it's special when someone celebrates their 90th birthday...and we would like to recognize everyone who has a birthday this year, but especially anyone who can show us proof that their birthdate is the same as the date that First National opened for business - July 14, 1890.

If you know of this person, or your birthday was July 14, 1890, just give us a call, or come by the bank and see Guy McCrary, in the Community Relations Department.

Also First National will be paying special recognition to any child born in Midland County on July 14, 1980. So to expectant mothers and fathers... remember that date - July 14 - and let us know if your baby arrives on our birthday.

DA's Office names assistant prosecutor

Rob Sutphen, 25, a May 1980 graduate of The University of Texas at Austin School of Law, has been named one of three assistant prosecutors to Midland County District Attorney Vern Martin.

Already on the DA's staff, which still is shy by one assistant DA to be at full strength, are prosecutors David Joers and Richard Moore.

"I've already been told I'll be in charge of the grand jury," Sutphen said last week, when he assumed his duties. "Eventually, I'll be doing everything that everybody else does — talking to people, taking complaints and deciding if they're felonious, and whether to file on them (actors) or not."

Later, Sutphen will appear in the district courtrooms with other trial lawyers, whom he terms as "a kind of special breed." Meanwhile, Martin has assigned him to preparing briefs in getting accustomed to office procedures on the fourth floor of the Midland County Courthouse. "This is the best job you're going to have as far as experience right after law school," Sutphen said. "This is the only job I know where you'll be in trial court within six months after you're out of law

Sutphen joined the staff shortly after Charles "Bro". Seltzer, Martin's first assistant, resigned from the staff. Joers moved up to that slot.

Annual pay for an assistant prosecutor starts at $14,436 and tops out at $20,712.

Sutphen's wife, Ellen, 24, is a clarinetist whose forte is directing bands.

Both are 1977 graduates of Abilene Christian University.

Sutphen grew up in Orange and was graduated from high school in Baton Rouge, La., in 1973.
His wife came to Texas from Tennessee.

President Marcos orders investigation of attack

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos on Saturday ordered an investigation of charges that provincial government officials planned an attack that left nine persons dead and more than a dozen wounded in a town north of Manila, the presidential palace said.

Cabanatuan City Mayor Honorato Perez claimed on Friday that Gov. Eduardo Joson of Nueva Ecija Province and Col. Miguel Fontanilla, Philippine constabulary provincial commander, were among 27 persons responsible for the commando raid and assassination attempt on the mayor last Wednesday.

Police said Perez escaped death by jumping through a window in his second-floor office when about 15 hooded men in military uniforms attacked the town hall in Cabanatuan, 58 miles north of-Manila.

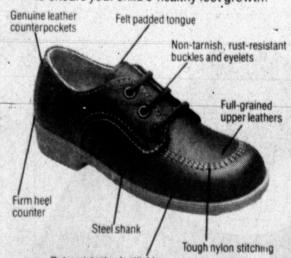

The raiders, armed with grenades and automatic weapons, also burned down the town hall and nearby buildings and houses.

Military officials, who initially blamed the raid on communist insurgents, said later a captured member of the raiding team admitted being a former army draftee and said he had been promised $1,300 for his participation.

Sadat offers to meet with Saudis

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat said Saturday he would be willing to meet with King Khaled of Saudi Arabia if only Saudi leaders could agree on how to deal with Israel

"I am ready to go to Riyadh tomorrow if in Saudi Arabia there was one decision, one will," Sadat was quoted as saying by the weekly October magazine. "I went to the Israeli Knesset (parliament) but is it not emotionally easier and more logical for me to go to Saudi Arabia?"

published Saturday, confirmed the statement and said: "... I am ready to make the trip provided they do not change their position within two or three days.".

The story, by the magazine's editor, Anis Mansour, focused on Arab disagreement over how to regain Arab territories occupied by Israel and how to get the Jewish state to grant self-determination to the Palestinians living in those territories,

The president, asked to comment on the article, which was including the Arab sector of Jerusalem.

Mansour, a close friend of Sadat, pointed out that the differences among Arabs were making it difficult for Western mediators, especially the United States, to find a workable plan for a comprehensive Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

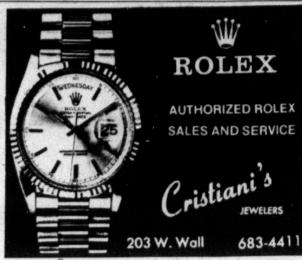

He said President Carter had written to Khaled and Sadat complaining that their differences were "creating problems" for him and had urged them to try to reconcile their points of view. Carter's message is believed to have been sent in late February in an attempt to forge some unity among Arabs over peace with Israel in the wake of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

But there are still sharp differences between Egypt — which has signed a peace accord with Israel — and Saudi Arabia, the influential financial backer of several Arab states.

Egypt has been shunned by most of the Arab world since the signing of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

Sadat's reference to a Saudi change of position was an apparent reference to recent statements by Saudi Crown Prince Fahd.

Last week, Fahd was quoted by the Washington Post as saying he was ready to do his "utmost" to get the Arabs to talk peace if Israel declared it would withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

Two hours before he was wheeled out of Cedars-Sinai Medical Center at 10: 15 a.m., Carson tested his leg in a stroll around the hospital and told a reporter: "I walked 10 to 15 blocks yesterday and felt no pain. the telephone A few days ago I couldn't walk 100 yards." Asked when he might be returning to his late-night

Who shot J.R.?' has become the most important question

DALLAS (AP) - Although he's one of the richest, best-known and nastiest characters in town, the Dallas Police Department does not care who shot J.R. But the rest of the city sure

In case you've been on Mars the past year, "J.R." is J.R. Ewing, one of the rottenest television characters ever created and central figure of the tremendously popular TV series, "Dallas." During the two seasons the program has been on the air, J.R. has found a way to alienate, swindle, back-stab or insult almost every other character who has appeared in the script, and some who haven't.

On May 2, in the last new episode of the 1979-80 TV season, J.R. - played by native Texan Larry Hagman was leaving his downtown office when someone off-screen - someone he snew - shot him down in cold blood. Unfortunately, it was not fatal.

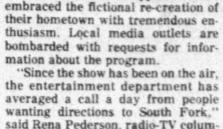

Since then, "Who shot J.R.?" has become a more important question to dedicated "Dallas" fans than the state of the economy, the presidential campaigns or the price of gold.

On May 31, the night that episode aired in London, a nurse at Daltas' Parkland Hospital emergency room said she received an overseas telephone call from a viewer in England who wanted to know if J.R. was going to live.

Dallas police information officer Bob Shaw said he was called down from making repairs on the roof of his home one Sunday afternoon to be interviewed by the London Daily Mail on the shooting of J.R.

the entertainment department has averaged a call a day from people wanting directions to South Fork," said Rena Pederson, radio-TV columnist for the Dallas Morning News, referring to the ranch north of Dallas which is "home" for the fictional Ewing family.

"I bet I've taken 10 or 15 calls wanting directions today," said Grace Vaughn, a broadcast columnist for the Dallas Times-Herald. "The ranch has become as popular a tourist stop as the Texas School Book Depository (the building from which President Kennedy was shot in 1963)."

In fact, the family across the road from the ranch filed suit to restrict the parade of over-eager sightseers who, they claim, are tearing up their property and generally being a nui-

The program's Dallas-area ratings were mediocre its first season, but for reasons no local experts fully understand it took hold of local imaginations its second year.

During the season just ended, "Dallas" parties were a common occurrence in Dallas, Fort Worth and several suburbs, with several families gathering in one home on Friday nights just to watch the show.

The producers have promised to reveal the identity of J.R.'s assailant on the first show of the fall season. Jack Harrison, program director for KDFW-TV, the local station which airs "Dallas," can hardly wait. "I wish we had two or three more like 'Dallas' on the schedule. The last (ratings) book we got shows Dailas with a ... 47 share. That's phenome-

Zone changes for additions and subdivisions dominate the agenda for Midland City Council which will start its session at 10 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall Council Chambers.

There's one request for a tract of land bordered by Lee, Adams, Industrial and Illinois streets to be changed to local retail and commercial. Another developer wants the north-south alley between Big Spring and Marienfeld streets and extending from Louisiana Avenue to Michigan Avenue abandoned.

Also to be considered are preliminary plats for Bent Tree Addition, Ranchero Park Subdivision and 715 * Estates.

The spring school crossing study will be reviewed by the council as well as the possibility of lowering the speed limits on North A Street and removing parking from the 700 block of West Pine Street. The council will reconsider eliminating parking along the east side of Big Spring Street north from Florida Avenue.

The council will look at approving a bidder on the downtown park next to Midland Center, delegating authority to approve a temporary beer and alcohol permit for Midland Center and authorize installation of a water system for the Magnatex drainage basin in Midkiff Plaza.

A final item is consideration of an amendment to the City Code to prohibit the operation of motorcycles upon property within the city limits unless the operator's vehicle is properly licensed, registered and inspected. This code would prohibit parents and guardians of minor children from permitting the youths to drive motorcycles in violation of the law.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A federal appeals court ruled Saturday that confining two inmates to a cell at an Ohio state prison violated constitutional protections against "cruel and unusual punishment."

The decision by the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a 1978 ruling by federal court in Cincinnati, which said the practice of "doublecelling" at state correctional facility at Lucasville violated the Eighth Amendment.

Jean P. Kamp of Colombus, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, called the appeals court ruling "a major victory for prisoners' rights."

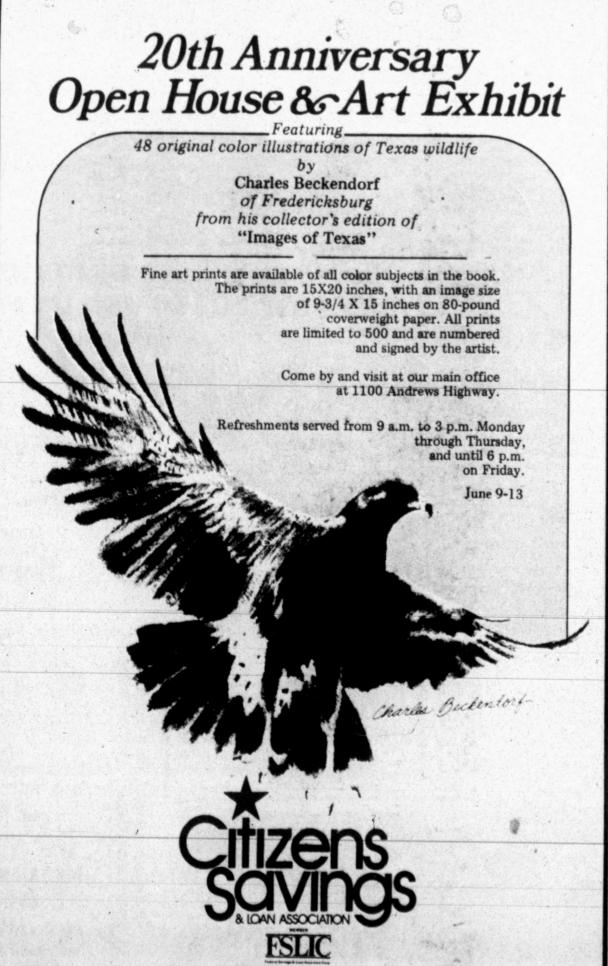

Conditions at the state prison were challenged by the ACLU and other organizations in a suit filed in 1975, according to Benson Wolman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio.

An official of the Ohio Department of Rehabiliation and Correction said the ruling might be appealed, possibly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Israelis pursue guerrillas into Jordan, kill two

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops on Saturday intercepted a band of Palestinian guerrillas attempting to infiltrate from Jordan, pursued the band into Jordanian territory and killed two of the guerrillas, the Israeli army said.

No Israelis were hurt, the army "

The Israeli army announcement said the guerrilla band was intercepted near Neot Hakikar in the Arava Valley, about 10 miles south of the Dead Sea. The army did not say how far the Israelis penetrated into Jor-dan or how long the operation lasted.

The communique said the Israelis apparently wounded one or two guerrillas, in addition to the two reported killed. It did not say how big the guerrilla band was.

It was the first reported instance in recent memory of an Israeli force crossing into Jordan. Guerrilla infiltrations from Jordan have been rare since 1970, when Jordanian troops drove Palestinian guerrillas out of Jordan and forced them to operate from Lebanon.

The Israeli announcement said the squad carried automatic rifles, hand grenades and medical equipment.

There was no indication what the guerrilla target was.

Many observers had feared an attempt by guerrillas to attack Israel in an escalating cycle of Israeli-Arab Fatah, the military arm of the Palestine Liberation Organization, vowed revenge after last Monday's bombings which maimed two Arab mayors in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River. Khalil Al-Wazir, the top military commander of Fatah, told a Beirut newspaper "revolutionary operations" would be staged soon to avenge the bombings. No arrests have been made in the West Bank bombings, which also critically wounded an Israeli policeman. But suspicion focused on Jewish extremists who vowed revenge for a terrorist attack that killed six Israeli settlers in the West Bank city of Hebron on May 2.

On May 14, Israeli troops killed three guerrillas attempting to penetrate Israel's northern border. Last April 7, five Palestinians seized a nursery at Kibbutz Misgav Am on the Lebanese border, killing one child and two adults. Troops recaptured the building and killed all five terrorists.

New coalition government is expected for Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Prime Minister Salim el-Hoss announced Saturday that he was resigning to pave the way for a new coalition government composed of rival Moslem and Christian groups.

Hoss, a 54-year-old onetime banker and a Moslem, said the 12-man Cabinet of parliamentarians and technocrats appointed last July 17 was quitting to give "political activists" a chance to restore peace in the small Middle Eastern nation.

President Elias Sarkis last March proposed a broad, 14-point plan to ensure domestic peace and has been meeting with rival militia leaders

The 14-point plan pledged Lebanon to a "special" relationship with Syria, established the country's "Arab identity" and rejected the Americansponsored Camp David peace accords and any form of collaboration with Israel, which borders Lebanon to the

The plan has won limited approval from Moslems and Christians, and a presidential spokesman said Saturday that Sarkis, a Christian, will begin a new round of consultations with parliament bloc leaders next week to choose a successor to Hoss. Many parliamentary leaders have already said they want Hoss to head the new government.

Hoss' government concentrated on restoring security and repairing the heavy damage suffered by public services during the civil war. But the me minister had little success in efforts to bring together Lebanon's warring factions, which maintain their own well-equipped private armies.

The government's weakness became apparent last February when Syrian President Hafez Assad ans nounced his "irrevocable" decision to withdraw his approximately 10,000 peacekeeping troops from Beirut, which is divided into two sections one Moslem and on Christian.

Carter orders Cuban criminals returned to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter ordered the Justice Department on Saturday to try to return to Cuba any refugees known to have serious criminal backgrounds or who have violated U.S. laws since their arrival.

What concerns most Americans is the prospect that some of the people who have commit-ted crimes might be relocated in American communities," said White House press secretary Jody Powell. "That will not happen."

Powell said the administration has evidence that Cuban President Fidel Castro dispatched "this undesireable element to the United States in a calculated effort to disguise the fact" that most of the more than 110,000 refugees who have flooded into Florida in recent weeks are lawabiding persons seeking freedom and reunification with their families.

Abbe Lowell, an assistant to Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, estimated that no more than 700 Cubans had been detained as a result of criminal backgrounds in Cuba, and that another 160 were detained as a result of crimes committed here, primarily stemming from last week-end's riot at Fort Chaffee, Ark.

"This action by the Cuban government, in addition to its cynical and inhumane characteristics, is a direct and serious violation of international law," Powell said in a statement he read to reporters. He said Cuba would be committing "an equally serious violation" if it refuses to accept any refugees the United States tries to return.

Powell said the administration would attempt the return through such international organizations as the United Nations and the Organization of American States, but would not predict the likelihood of success.

"The president has directed the secretary of state to press this issue urgently through diplomatic channels and in the appropriate international forum," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, at the Capitol, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd offered a simpler approach for dealing with troublemakers among the refugees: "We ought to just send them down to (the U.S. Naval base at) Guantanamo, open those gates and push 'em out, just push 'em out." Because the refugees have not been formally admitted to the country, they cannot be deported. Their departure would take place under

"exclusion" proceedings.
"Those responsible for the disturbances at Fort Chaffee are confined and will be confined until fair decisions can be made on criminal prosecution or exclusion from this country or both." Powell said. "Similar measures will be taken in the event of any future disturbances."

RINGING THE BELL

Violence of the 60s now on its way back?

With BOB TIEUEL

In a recent flight to several cities in the Southwest, we found black youth in some areas mad and boiling for some reason. For example, in downtown Dallas there were hordes of black youths standing in the streets in broad daylight drinking wine and beer and talking loud and long. People passed them, and seemingly they were unconcerned. Often the police looked the other way and kept on driving.

VERNON E. JORDAN, executive director of the National Urban League, as well as other national black leaders like Benjamin Hooks of the NAACP, have been preaching about the tragic plight of black youth in our cities and larger towns for some time, and it seems that no one seriously cares, states one of our bellringer sources. As we go to press, Jordan is still seriously ill in an Indiana hospital, a victim of a sniper's bullet, perhaps because Jordan continues to send out an SOS to those who ought to care about our fellow Ameri-

Rotary rejects bid to add women members

CHICAGO (AP) - A panel of the 1980 Rotary International convention rejected a proposal Saturday to allow women to become members of the organization, according to Rotary officials.

The convention delegates turned down the proposal after three hours of discussion, according to Charles C. Keller, chairman of the convention's Council on Legislation.

Of 350 delegates voting, 60 percent voted against the proposal and 40 percent voted for it, Keller said.

The proposal was sponsored by the Rotary International board of directors and by Rotary groups from the United States, India, Sweden

After the vote, Rotary International president James L. Bomar said the delegates "spoke sincerely and expressed their views on what they felt is best for the organization. At this time, the majority feels Rotary should continue as a service club for men." Bomar said American members should not "try to impose their standards upon people of other lands whose history and traditions are different." He added that delegations from several countries were split

The proposal to include women drew support from representatives of Rotary clubs in Argentina, Australia, Great Britain, France, India,

Mexico and the U.S. Representatives of Argentina, Australia, the Dominican Republic, Egypt, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Sweden and the United States spoke out against the proposal. Rotary International is an international service organization with 18,700 clubs in 154 countries.

Kermit's crater stops growing

KERMIT (AP) - Authorities said Saturday that the growth of a huge sinkhole in this West Texas community had stopped at least temporarily, after swallowing oil field equipment and threatening several storage tanks. "There have been no ground movements since Friday. We're all holding our

Sheriff's Department. "Hopefully, the whole ordeal is over." The chasm - now larger than three football fields and about 85 feet deep first was detected Tuesday morning in one of the state's leading petroleum-pro-

It grew dramatically within hours, from a crack three yards wide to a gap than 100 yards wide, swallowing oil field equipment with each gulp.

Oil storage tanks perched on the Shell Oil Co, tank farm near the huge crater were drained late Friday, and about 100,000 gallons of crude was transported to

Jal, N.M., 19 miles away. Several scientists have speculated that the sinkhole was caused by the collapse of an underground salt cavern. There has also been speculation that repeated oil drilling has made the area prone to cave-ins. With the crater's appearance, business in this community of 8,000 has boomed. Residents swap sinkhole jokes and wager on the likelihood of Kermit toppling into the yawning pit. But oil company executives and law enforcement officials have been less amused with the geological oddity. Two roads leading to the cavity were closed, and local law enforcement officers worked 12- and 18-hour shifts to fend off curious spectators swarming to the area despite warnings and 100-plus degree heat. Atlantic-Richfield Co., which owns mineral rights in the area, said "no trespassing" signs have been posted on its land and said violators would be prosecuted.

Elva C. Marble, 74, of Irving, Texas, one of 13 survivors, was released from the Boone County Hospital in Harrison, two days after her tour of the Ozarks abruptly ended with the crash near Jasper. Relatives met her to accompany her on the flight home

Frank Wise, hospital administrator, said Mrs. Marble had suffered afractured collarbone and shoulder bone in the accident

Tom Calderwood, investigator in charge, had said the team would be especially interested in the condition of the vehicle's brakes, steering and lights because the accident happened at night on a "serpentine highway."

The state medical examiner's office performed an autopsy Friday on the driver, James Jefferson Thigpen, 60, of Lancaster, Texas, and found no traces of alcohol in his system.

American soldier may have defected

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) - A 19-yearold soldier from Indianapolis being sought for questioning in the alleged rape of a 23-year-old German woman may have defected to Czechoslovakia, West German police said Saturday.

A police spokesman said the soldier, Anthony Allen, sent his officer a recorded message announcing his defection.

Police discovered an abandoned car near West, Germany's heavily fortified border with Czechoslovakia but said they had no proof Allen had gone into the communist nation.

Allen was assigned to the U.S. Army's 3rd Squadron in Amberg, some 40 miles East of Nuernberg. The Army had no immediate comment on the West German police report.

Scores stunning upset over rest of classy entry field

NEW YORK (AP) — Temperence Hill, whose trainer had considered not running him beCause of an off track, scored a stunning upset Saturday in the $293,700 Belmont Stakes, beating the filly Genuine Risk, who made thoroughbred racing history by becoming the first of her sex to run in all three Triple Crown races.

At the top of the stretch, it looked as though Genuine Risk, first in the Kentucky Derby and a controversial second in the Preakness, might add the Belmont to her laurels. The crowd of 58,090 cheered her on, but Temperence Hill charged up on the outside to

THE RACE was run on a track made muddy by several hours of hard rain during the morning, and Joe Cantey, trainer of Temperence Hill, said before the race: "This sure doesn't help his chances. He really doesn't run well on an off track. I'll talk with the owners later and make a decision (as whether to scratch

TEMPERENCE HILL ran like the wind in the Belmont mud Saturday, making Cantey and owner John Ed Anthony look good in their decision to run him. Anthony had put up $20,000 to start the Kentucky-bred colt because he had not been nominated for the race. The investment paid off with

It-also paid off handsomely for those who wagered on Temperence Hill: He returned $108.80, $32.80 and $15.20. The highest winning return in the 112-year history of the Belmont is $132.10 on Sherluck in 1961.

Temperence Hill, ridden by Eddie Maple, completed the 11/2 miles in 2:294-5 as he beat Genuine Risk by two lengths. Rockhill Native, the beaten favorite in the Derby and the pace-setter Saturday, was another 1½ lengths back and two lengths in front of the lightly raced Comptrol-

Genuine Risk, owned by Mrs. Bert Firestone and ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, paid $7.80 and $5.20. Harry A. Oak's Rockhill Native, ridden by John Oldham, was $10.40 to show.

Temperence Hill, who had won the Arkansas Derby back in April, made his debut into Triple Crown competition off a three-race losing streak which included a badly beaten fifth as the favorite in the Pennsylvania Derby at Keystone May 26. People surely won't remember that dismal performance now.

Codex, starting in the No.2 post upon the outside of Genuine Risk, broke on top but Pikotazo, an invader from Mexico, quickly took the lead. Comptroller, racing for only the sixth time, was on top entering the backstretch and then Rockhill Native, who missed the Preakness because of a wrenched knee, took over.

Rockhill Native had a head lead over Codex with a half mile remaining, with Genuine Risk another half length back and a half length in front of Temperence Hill. But when the race came down to the stretch run, it involved the filly, Rockhill Native, who is a gelding, and the colt almost everybody had forgotten. At the wire, the colt made sure he would be re-

Completing the order of finish were: Rumbo in fifth, Super Moment, Codex, Joanie's Chief, Bing and Pikotazo. The filly carried 121 pounds and the others 126 each.

After dismounting, Cordero said of Codex, who had failed to handle off tracks in two previous tries: "He just didn't handle the track at all. he was running on his class for most of the race." The loss snapped a fourrace winning streak for Codex.

Another disappointment was Rumbo, who was supposed to be able to handle an off track, having won a stakes in the slop in California. But his jockey, Bill Shoemaker, seeking a record-tying sixth Belmont victory. said: "He just didn't run his race. The track was not really a problem. he just didn't fire." Game time is 6: 30 p.m. as the Cubs and Gold Sox play the third game of the six-game series.

The Amarillo Gold Sox pounded the Midland Cubs, 11-6, at Cubs Stadium Saturday night, and they may get some added help for tonight's 6:30 p.m. contest when the San Diego Chicken shows up.

The Cubs are hoping for a packed house to see the yellow bird strut his stuff, but chances are he will be for Amarillo, After all, the Gold Sox are part of the San Diego Padres' farm chain, so the Chicken may prove to be the foulest fowl around.

However, Saturday Amarillo didn't need the Chicken are anything else as they lashed out 15 hits and received nine walks from four Cub pitchers.

The Sox opened quick with five runs off starter Henry Mack in the first inning with five soft line singles, two wild pitches and three walks. Tom Vessey's two-run single did most of the damage. The Cubs fought back to make an interesting game for a while. A line drive homer to left by Joe Hicks and an RBI single by Scott Fletcher brought home two runs to cut the margin to 5-2 and then the Cubs got it down to a respectable 5-4 margin in the fifth a double by Tom Grant and a Troy Dixon, 5-6, pitched 71/2 innings to get the win while Mack, 1-6, got the loss without lasting a full inning.

Now the Chicken comes to town to pack the house and do what he can to help the Gold Sox win. The Cubs may be paying his check to thrill an expected throng of 3,000 or more, but there is no way he is going to show his mercy for the struggling Cubs, who have just had their one game winning streak snapped.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas El Paso's deep, talented "Foreign Legion" won the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships for the second straight year Saturday, while Jeff Woodard of Alabama equaled the American high jump record of 7-feet,

The Miners, led by Suleiman Nyambui's victories in the 5,000-and 10,000-meter races, rolled up 69 points in continuing their dominance of the national collegiate competition. UCLA finished a distant second in the team competition with 46 points, Florida State was third with 42 and Southern California fourth with 36.

While Nyambui, the 26-year-old sophomore from Tanzania, was completing his long-distance double Saturday by taking the 5,000, the last event of the program, it was the unheralded Woodard who delighted a Memorial Stadium crowd estimated at 8,500 with his brilliant high jump-After matching the American and

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) - Jim Watt of Scotland retained his WBC lightweight title by outpointing American challenger Howard Davis in 15 rounds Saturday.

It was the third successful defense for the 31-year-old champion, who built up a conspicuous lead over the New Yorker in the early rounds before winning a unanimous verdict from the three judges.

Scottish crowd. Southpaw Watt completely dominated the opening half of the bout and although the challenger produced some telling late blows, the result was slow to settle in front of the shouting

It was Watt's 37th victory in a 44fight 12-year professional career. He is unbeaten since 1976.

Huskers, Cougs make money

DALLAS (AP) - The Universities of Houston and Nebraska did more than play football in the 1980 Cotton Bowl game Jan. 1 - they also made a lot of money.

Cotton Bowl officials announced Saturday that Nebraska and Houston will receive a record payment of $1,724,133 each from the New Year's Day classic.

That's approximately $200,000 more per team than the 1979 payoff.

Padres defeat Reds, 6-1

Gene Richards and Ozzie Smith highlighted a three-run San Diego seventh inning and gave the Padres a 6-1 victory Saturday over the Cincinnati Reds.

San Diego rookie Gary and scored on Bake Lucas, 3-2, pitched the first six innings and gave up just one hit - a solo home run by Dan Driessen in the fifth. Rollie Fingers provided relief help for the Padres while Cincinnati's Mike La-Coss, 4-5, took the loss.

Olympic cagers can appreciate Olympic effort

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - Olympians Mark Aguirre and Buck Williams can appreciate an Olympic effort, because that's what it took to get them into their shorts for their most recent exhibition basket-

Both Aguirre and Williams arrived at Friday's game at the Hartford Civic Center Coliseum without their red, white and blue uniforms, and a manager had to be sent to fetch them. Under normal circumstances that would have been an easy chore, but the auto the manager was driving broke down. The details of what ensued are unclear, but the valiant manager persisted and finally delivered the goods by Aguirre, the college player of the year, should have taken his mental lanse as an omen.

Admitting that he "didn't have it," the DePaul All-American saw limited action and scored only four points as the Olympians struggled to an 81-76 victory over a group of former college players called the New England All-Stars. The rest of the U.S. Olympic team remembered their uniforms and played a strong first half. But in the second half, the team played like it had left its collective wits in the locker room and barely survived a second-half All-Star rally.

Led by former Boston Celtic Kevin Stacom, the All-Stars whittled a 10-point halftime deficit down to two points, 78-76 with 14 seconds left in the game.
Indiana's Isiah Thomas, however, completed a three-point play with six seconds left to stave off what could have been an embarrassing defeat for the Olympians. Olympic head coach Dave Gavitt blamed his team's 29 turnovers and 29 personal fouls and poor play on his numerous substitutions as he played all 12

The Olympic team used its inside muscle in the first half to build its big lead. La Salle's 6-foot-7 Michael Brooks, Kentucky's 7-foot-1 Sam Bowie and Utah's 6-foot-7 Danny Vranes were too much for the All-Stars. They led the Olympic team to 50-39 rebounding edge in the game, with 35 coming in the

Brooks and North Caolina's Al Wood paced the U.S. team with 13 points apiece, while Vranes added 11. Bowie had a game-high nine rebounds and six

Ray Hart had an eagle this week at Hogan Park Golf Course on the 475yard par 5, No. 2 hole on the new nine. Congratulations, Ray.

We had what you might call a birdie this week. Joel Jackson hit his drive on No. 3 toward the dogleg on the left-side of the hole, when he saw it bounce one time and go into a Mulberry tree. When he got to the ball, he found it in a bird's nest in the tree.

The Insurance Youth Classic, sponsored by Independent Insurance Agents of America, is the country's largest tournament. Some 33,000 junior golfers, ages 10 through 17, played last year in hopes of being able to play alongside top touring pros, which is the format for the last two rounds of the national event.

Local qualifying for the event will be an 18-hole round June 12 at Sunset Country Club in Odessa, starting at 8:30 a.m. For information, call Tom Tilley, 367-3425.

NASCAR field ready for 400

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) - The field was completed Saturday for today's NASCAR Winston Cup Series Warner W. Hodgdon 400 stock car race at Riverside International Race-

Also Saturday, Joe Ruttman of Upland, Calif., younger brother of former Indianapolis 500 winner Troy Ruttman, won the pole position and set a qualifying record for the Sharon Hodgdon 200 NASCAR Grand American stock car companion event.

Thirty-five drivers will start in each event over the 2.62-mile Riverside road course.

Fastest qualifier for the 400 Saturday was Don Whittington of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the 1979 Le Mans 24our enduro winner. Whittington, driving a 1979 Chevrolet, was clocked in 112.054 miles per hour and will start The first 20 slots were filled Friday.

Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., won the pole position, his fifth straight pole-winning performance, with a track record speed of 113.792

Whittington's speed was the eighth fastest in the field, but since he didn't qualify until the second day he falls in line behind the top 20.

Ruttman, driving a 1978 Pontiac Trans-Am, was clocked at 117.438 mph to set a record for qualifying for the 200. He barely missed establishing a new course record. Starting on the outside of the front row of the same race will be Ruttman's teammate, Ray Elder of Caruthers, Calif., in an identical Trans-Am. Elder was clocked at 116.593 mph.

Starting on the second row will be Ron Esau of San Diego and Jim Thirkettle of Sylmar, Calif.

NASCAR announced three driver changes after qualifications for the

Johncock steals Mets rally for 6-5 victory spotlight from John Rutherford

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) - Gordon Johncock stole the spotlight from Johnny Rutherford and his mean yellow machine Saturday, roaring to the pole position for the Rex Mays 150-mile championship race in a car that had never before been on a track. Johncock watched Rutherford, the winner of this year's Indy 500, apparently nail down his third pole of the season with a one-lap clocking of 130.862 mph on the Wisconsin State Fair Park's one-mile oval.

Rutherford had been interviewed by the media, the 22-car grid for the race was full, the bumping of slower cars was taking place and the time trials were nearly over when Johncock rolled his Englishmade Phoenix racer onto the track. His first lap was .06 seconds faster than Rutherford and his second lap was even better as he captured the top starting position with a speed of

Al Unser was third fastest at 130.672, followed by Rick Mears at 130.482 and Bobby Unser at 129.964. Each of the top five qualifiers has won at least one previous race at Milwaukee

"We had some problems getting it up to speed during the practice, so we had to change it over completely before we qualified," Johncock explained. "It's the first time this car has seen a race track and there were a lot of adjustments to

Part of the adjustment was to make the cockpit comfortable for the diminutive Johncock, whose left leg still is in a cast. He chipped a bone in the ankle in a crash during practice at Indianapolis last month

"The ankle doesn't bother me at all when I'm sitting in the car," said Johncock, who still limps. "I'm going to get the cast taken off Monday, but my doctor felt the ankie wouldn't be strong enough to run the race.

Asked how it felt to break the domination of Rutherford and his intimidating Chaparral, Johncock shrugged and said, "I hadn't even thought about it. But, really, this doesn't mean a thing. I just wish'it was the end of the race (Sunday).

Rutherford's performance was noteworthy as well, since he chose to qualify his backup car rather than the one in which he won the season-opener at Ontario and the rich Indy classic.

"The car we ran at the (Indianapolis Motor) Speedway just wasn't running properly," Rutherford explained. "But, actually, other than the number, this one is identical."

There were two accidents during the qualifying session, one of them costly.

Tim Richmond, the Indy rookie of the year, spun and hit the wall on the second of his two qualifying laps. His first lap, 126.227 mph, was good enough for 10th place on the starting grid, but the accident bent the car frame and the young driver, celebrating his 25th birthday Saturday, appeared to be out of the Heavy early morning rains delayed the day's practice and qualifying sessions and there still was a small stream of water running across the fourth turn late in the day. Veteran Gary Bettenhausen spun going through the wet area and slid sideways into the entrance to the pit road. However, he managed to bring the car to a halt without hitting anything.

Officials ruled Bettenhausen had not officially begun his qualifying attempt and allowed him to go back out. He made it into the ninth row of the field with a 122.241.

Fin & Feather

For those of you who don't like fishing, but would rather be hunting, observing or photographing wildlife, I've found an outdoor sport that can be pursued at this time of year. Ever try predator calling?

Several years ago, varmint calling was almost unheard of. Only a handfull of outdoorsmen would take the time to practice the art.

So, while everyone else is fishing, boating, camping or water skiing, go afield and blow on a varmint call.

There's no need to kill varmints this time of year. A varmint pelt is worth absolutely nothing in the spring and summer months, and more enjoyment can come from just observing or snapping photographs. But this time of year is by far the best to lure in a curious fox or coyote.

Now that the early spring pups are about half grown, they are hunting just about anything that crawls, runs or flies. They are now leaving their parents and hunting on their own. And these curious pups will readily come to a predator call.

Coyotes and foxes inhabit just about every region of Texas. Finding suitable areas where varmints roam are relatively easy to find. You need areas with plenty of brush, sloughs, canyons, draws or river bottoms. Any place that looks good for a coyote to feed, breed or hide is a good place. There are two surefire methods of luring in coyotes and other predators into camera range.

One method is by the use of a recorded tape. By using any cassette tape player and purchasing one of many brands of taped predator calls, a person can get into predator calling quite cheap.

Place and conceal your cassette recorder in a likely looking place. Turn it on then find a good place upwind to hide yourself. You need to be about 10 or 12 feet away from the recorder.

Within the first minute or so of calling, the varmint should begin moving in the noise's direction. The best call is the signal of a distressed rabbit. Young pups may at times run right up to the recorder and try to tear it apart, which places you in a perfect position for observing or getting pic-

The other method is the blowing of a hand held wooden or plastic call. It's wise to listen to a recording over and over again before trying the mouth call for yourself. The same method as the recorder is used, except you are the noise the predator may be after.

This type of varmint calling makes for some interesting situations. Young pups are so curious that they may jump right in your hiding place with you.

You must conceal yourself well for coyotes. Always call downwind. Coyotes depend a great deal on their nose to locate danger, and humans are the coyotes worst enemy. Sometimes a cagey old canine will circle you four or five times before moving in for the kill. When this happens, do not move a muscle. Many times, even the leary coyote will come in. The slightest movement will send them scurrying

If you have called in one spot for more than five minutes and nothing shows, move on. Predator calling is sort of like bass fishing. If there is nothing to be caught in one certain spot, you had better move to better grounds.

For fox, it shouldn't take more than 30 seconds before he makes his move. If the fox is interested at all in the noise coming from the predator call, he will come immediately. A fox uses a slow approach as they near an injured rabbit noise. It might take a fox 10 minutes to reach the noise.

There's never a perfect method to calling. It just takes time, patience and practice. And there's no telling what might come your way. It could be a raccoon, skunk, hawk, eagle, roadrunner, moutain lion, dog, cat or

Early morning or late afternoon are prime times to lure in some sort of predator. Try it - that is if you can outlast the charge of five or six young

Twins hand Blue Jays fifth straight defeat

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - Mike Cubbage singled home Rob Wilfong with the winning run in the seventh inning Saturday as the Minnesota Twins handed the fifth straight loss with a 3-2 victory.

The Twins, who have won three straight, started the seventh with two bunt singles by Wilfong and Hosken Powell. Wilfong moved to third on a double play and scored when Cubbage banged a hard grounder off Blue Jays second baseman Damaso Garcia. Left-hander Darrell Jackson, 2-3, went the first 71-3 innings for the Twins, allowing six hits and striking out two. Doug Corbett relieved Jackson to pick up his

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Living right and loving it

DON'T you understand yet, dear Jewish brothers-in Christ, that when a person dies the law no longer holds him in its power?

Let me illustrate: when a woman marries, the law binds her to her husband as long as he is alive. But if he dies, she is no longer bound to him; the laws of marriage no longer apply to her

Then she can marry someone else if she wants to. That would be wrong while he was alive, but it is perfectly all right

Your "husband," your master, used to be the Jewish law; but you "died," as it were, with Christ on the cross; and since you are "dead," you are no longer "married to the law," and it has no more control over you. Then you came back to life again when Christ did, and are a new person. And now you are "married," so to speak, to the one who rose from the dead, so that you can produce good fruit, that is, good deeds for God.

When your old nature was still active, sinful desires were at work within you, making you want to do whatever God said not to, and producing sinful deeds, the rotting fruit of death.

But now you need no longer worry about the Jewish laws and customs because you "died" while in their captivity, and now you can really serve God; not in the old way, mechanically obeying a set of rules, but in the new way, [with all of your hearts and minds ].

16. Romans 7:1-6

Auto body shop proprietor fixes food as well as fenders

By DAN HALL

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - If all the bodies that made it to Chick's Body Shop were in need of repair, Chick would be a millionaire.

The fact is, most bodies walk in to sample the food.

They aren't put off by the dingy brick building, the mangled cars awaiting major surgery or the faint smell of spray paint.

Their goal is the narrow front room that Chick has turned into an office-cum-kitchen, with emphasis on the latter.

Auto repair takes a back seat to the main attraction. On a given day it could be an omeier of any kind, "pasta favenison stew. chicken cacciatore, wild mushrooms, veal and peas, ham pie, pigs' knuckles and endives, eggplant Parmesan

This highly unusual, if not unique, mixture of food and fenders was born about 35 years ago when Chick - Armand D'Urso - was in the 25th Infantry Division, helping hold the recaptured Philippines.

"I started out cooking Air Force rations on hot tank manifolds - beans, bacon," he said.

Back in the States after the war, the recently married D'Urso expanded the family service station he had run since the age of 12 and took on help.

Son of immigrant Italian parents, he and his 10 brothers and sisters were born with a love for good food. That love, in Chick's case, grew into a compulsion to cook for others. Occasional experiments at home were all right. But when the pudgy, carefree epicure began preparing entire meals at home for the shop crew, his wife drew own kitchen. She says I'm the sloppiest cook she's ever met," D'Urso acknowledged with a smile. "I'll admit I'm pretty messy.

Like the great chefs who must have existed among his ancestors, D'Urso took over the family carport and built his own kitchen. In 1972, he tired of carrying food to the shop, so he made over his office.

A handmade sheet-iron firebox sits in the middle of a 12-foot-long, tiled work counter that looks onto the front parking lot through dirty windows taped with X's A cupboard and a re-with vegetables that D'Urso grows and cans himself, leftovers from the previous day's menu and other ingredients. Imback, near the trash cans, are another larger refrigerator and an upright freezer.

The kitchen otherwise

"I got kicked out of my placards reminding the customer who's boss, offcolor vignettes, the everpresent clutter. Two pair of dusty, well-used shoes sit on a shelf under the small table where D'Urso entertains his friends and business neighbors.

> The father of three married daughters is at his stove at about 7 each morning, preparing breakfast. He's also there evenings and on weekends, earning extra money by selling parking space to people headed for the Veterans Memorial Coliseum, which looms over the one-story body shop.

The genial body man frigerator under the kept track of his costs year and found he was spending an average of $4 a working day, or $100 a month, on food.

D'Urso estimates an average of eight guests stop by for breakfast or lunch, including his helper, Earl Gordon - "he's quite a glutton for my food" - and Joe Peters, is decorated in "early "who drops by regularly auto body," with greasy oto play cards and eat.

Survivor describes bus crash horror

By STEVE BREWER

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) - Jessie Morgan, 67, of Irving, Texas, said passengers prayed and cried as the bus they were on sailed out of control and plunged down a ravine in the Arkansas Ozarks Thursday.

The predawn crash killed 20 persons and injured 13 others, including three who were hospitalized in serious

Just before the accident, "the bus was making a grinding noise. Then it ran out of control," said Mrs. Morgan, who told of her ordeal from her hospital bed here. 'The bus started swinging all around. We were going all around on that two-lane. Thank God there were

"We were all praying, and some of us must have been crying, because we were so scared. It started hitting things. It threw me up in the air. I must have passed out for a little while and when I came to, I could still move my legs, but I was in pain," Mrs.

Morgan said. She suffered broken ribs and cuts on her arms and legs and was listed in satisfactory condition at the Boone County Hosipital.

"I could see that some were lying out on the ground," she said. She said she ended up in the seat directly behind the driver, but before the crash she had been riding three seats behind him.

"I started praying, hoping somebody would come because it was so dark. I was begging for help. Then a man came up with a flashlight and told us he had called the state police.

"I was stuck in between the seats. I caught a hand that was just swinging there. The lady was in the seat behind me, and I felt her hand. It was just hanging there. Oh, it was so dark.

"I told them that I'm okay, that I was just sort of stuck in there. Another lady was begging for help and they were helping the ones that were hurt worse first.

"Finally, one of those men said, 'Is there anybody else up here?' I said, 'Oh, please, good man, don't leave me

She said some men put her on a board and carried her up a steep hill where she was placed in an ambu-

Some hours before the accident, Mrs. Morgan said the bus broke down at Queen Wilhelmina State Park Lodge because of mechanical problems. She said a fuel pump needed replacing.

After the bus was under way again, some travelers went to sleep. But Mrs. Morgan said she stayed awake.

The "tug-of-war" between sexes is starting at an early age and who knows if Amanda Connally or Coy Rhoden will win. Actually, the youngsters are playing a version of "king-of-the-mountain" on

Sunshine on their shoulders

By SANDI BREEDEN

Lifestyle Writer No more slowing down for. school zones. The playgrounds are empty and halls at Midland's institutions of learning echo with emptiness. It may be officially spring, but as far as kids are concerned, it's summer and "they're glad." The last day of school is almost as exciting as the first day of school with clean clothes, shiny hair and smiling faces prominent throughout all of the schools. Seniors are guidily happy yet sad because they know they can never go back. For most school age children. summer is a time to be happy a time to be free.

NOTHING EVER RE-PLACES the memory of each summer's first slicing dive into what feels like icy water at the good ole swimming pool. Anxious kids run to get in the diving board line only to hear the soonto-be-familiar lifeguard's whistle blowing letting them know not to run so they won't fall. When a kid finally gets on the diving board, he doesn't want to hurry off, rather he wants to feel the spring of the board and remain in the center of attention for as long as possible. Finally, he cannot stand it any longer. He starts two-thirds back from the end of the board and runs and dives, stretching his body as much as possible. The feel of finally getting back to surface to get a breathe of air after such exhiliration soon becomes old habit and loses its uniquenes's until the beginning of next summer. Midland has five pools for kids to spend the summer in. They are Alamo Pool, 900 Midland Dr.; Halss Pool, 100 New Jersey; Hogan Pool, Hogan Park, Lamesa and Wadley; Ulmer · Pool, 2800 Kentucky; and Washington Pool, 1601 E. Indiana.

Although swimming is probably the most popular sport in the . summer, it certainly is not the only activity available to "kids" of all ages. "Wild River Canyon", this areas' first amusement park, will open at 11 a.m.

THE AMUSEMENT PARK, located on Princeton off Holiday Hill Road, will feature a miniature golf course, bumper boats, a kiddie park, Can-Am raceway, a fishing lake, swimming lake, canal waterway for paddle boats, a river-ride, amphithe, ater, game arcade, souvenir shop and food places. Patrons should bring bathing suits, according to Nance Dinsmore with Studio II, who is handling advertising for the park, since they will be needed for many of the activities." e Ms. Dinsmore added that complete locker facilities will be availabe and lifeguards will be on duty. he park will be open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday-Friday; 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and noon to 11 p.m. Sunday. All day admission for all activities is $7.75 for adults, and $6.50 for children. A mini-pass, general admission, which includes swimming, kiddie park and amphitheater, is $4.50 for adults and $3.50 for children. To take up any spare time kids may have, the city Parks and Recreation Department has a summer schedule full of activities planned.

TENNIS COURTS IN city parks will be open for public use through the summer and the city gymnasium, 300 Baldwin St., will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. daily for free play. It will be available for rental after 7 p.m. weekdays and anytime on weekends.

Hogan Park Activity Building is available for rental at $1 per hour with a two-hour mini-

Recreation centers will be open 8 am. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at Lee Freshman High School, 1400 E. Oak Ave., Carver High School, 1500 E. Wall St., and Alamo Junior High School 3620 W. Storey Ave. Each center has a director and a qualified staff who plan and supervise various activities. Some of the major, developed , city parks in Midland for kids to romp in are Dennis-the-Menace Park, Garfield and W. Indiana; Hogan Park, Lamesa and Wadley; Wadley Barren Park, N. A and Cuthbert and Garret Brown

Park, Holly Dr. and Delano. And of course, there's always baseball in the Tall City. In between little league, sophomore league and high junior league games, the Midland Cubs provide good family entertainment for the kids, also. Tonight the Cubs meet Amarillo at Cub Sadium starting at 6:30 with the "San Diego Chicken" the featured attraction.

Swaying with the wind while whizzing down a slide is a good way to cool off in the hot summer. Michael Taylor is discovering that plus just plain having fun at Dennis-the-Menace Park, one of the many parks throughout the city available to kids. (Staff Photo by

"Hold on tight and don't swallow any water" seems to be the prominent thing on Allison Tidwell's mind before she hits the water after jumping off the diving board at a local swimming

Miniature golf is a favorite among young people as a way to pass the summer evenings. Enjoying the game at a local course

Nader group asks recall of blood test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Ralph Nader-affiliated health group charged that new blood test kits designed to detect gonorrhea in women should be taken off the market because they give too many false re-

The Public Citizen Health Research Group said the manufacturers' own studies show that while a blood test may indicate 20 percent to 30 percent of the women screened could have gonorrhea, only 2 percent actually would have the disease

The group petitioned the secretary of Health and Human Services, Patricia Roberts Harris, on Wednesday to take the blood tests off the market.

It charged the Food and Drug Administration violated its own procedures and ignored the advice of its scientific advisers when it allowed three companies to market the test kits July 18.

Spokesmen for one manufacturer and for the FDA said, however, that the test is designed only as a preliminary screening procedure and is not intended to indicate definitely whether the disease is present.

Dr. Sidney M. Wolfe, director of the consumer health group, said the blood test also would miss some women who actually have gonorrhea, a bacterial, sexually transmitted disease that can cause sterility. It strikes more than 1 million American men and women each year.

Wolfe said doctors who want to test for gonorrhea should take a culture during a pelvic examination.

An official of Organon Inc., a West-Orange, N.J., firm that sells one of the blood tests called Gonosticon Dri-Dot, acknowledged the high rate of false results. But he said the blood test is meant only for screening, not

The labeling instructs doctors to take a culture on any weman who has a positive reading from the blood test, said Charles Harrison, Organon's market development manager.

The FDA said it had not had time to read Wolfe's complaint, but spokesman Bill Rados said, "The test kit was approved as a preliminary procedure with instructions that if results indicate the presence of gonorrhea, further testing is needed. FDA believes that with this labeling, the product is useful.

Wolfe said some doctors will mistakenly treat women with antibiotics on the basis of false positive readings from the test.

He also charged that "the use of these tests will inflict on large numbers of women the undeserved stigma of being suspected of carrying a vene-

DEAR ABBY

Trampoline protection needs bounce

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We recently bought a trampoline for our children. Soon all the neighborhood youngsters started coming over to jump on it. We talked to our lawyer about the possibility of our being sued should a child get hurt on our trampoline. We own rental property and other assets that could be lost in a lawsuit, and wewanted to be sure we were protected. He suggested we ask the parents of the children to sign the following

NAME OF CHILD: I hereby give my consent for my above named child to play on the transpline located at ( ). Houston, Texas, and will not hold the owners of said trampoline responsible for any injuries sustained by this named child while playing on said trampoline. Mother ()

Some of our neighbors refused to sign it. Others said it was insulting and unnecessary, as they were "not the type" to sue.

We don't want to make enemies of our neighbors. What do you (and your readers) think of asking our neighbors to sign such a form?-HOUSTON

DEAR PARENTS: I think you were wise. But what about those children who come into your yard and use your trampoline without their parents' knowledge or consent? A trampoline is an attractive nuisance, you know, so in order to be fully covered, you should talk to your insurance agent. Leaving nothing to chance is a good

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have had a group of wonderful friends over the years. We were so close that their children called us uncle and

A few years ago we moved to another city, but we kept in close touch (writing, phoning and visiting each Recently our daughter, 25, decided to follow in the ways of the times. She took to living with her boyfriend and now they have a child. They say that marriage may-or may not-come God knows how upset and heartbroken we have been, but we thought it best to tell our friends that we were new grandparents. Abby, not one of them has written or kept in touch since. How it would have helped to ease our heartache if they had responded. Do they think we condone our, daughter's lifestyle? (We do not, but are making the best of it.) DEAR PARENTS: "Wonderful friends" are supportive, loving and non-judgmental: I would say your friends were not so wonderful after

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a pair of twin boys, age 10, and two little girls, 7 and 6. She also has a beachfront summer cottage. Sis lets her boys swim in the nude when it's very hot, but she insists that the girls wear swimsuits at all times.

I have two children, a boy, 9, and a girl, 8, who would enjoy a vacation at the lake, but I don't like this nude boy

When I discussed it with my sister, she said it was healthier for little girls to be brought up with no secrets about what little boys look like.

I half-jokingly asked her if she thought Dear Abby would agree with her, and she said she was sure you would because you were very broadminded. I told her I'd write and ask you. So, what to you say?-WON-DERING

DEAR WONDERING: I may not be as broad-minded as your sister thinks I am. Ask her, if it's healthy for little girls to be brought up with no secrets about what little boys look like, why isn't it equally as healthy to bring up boys with no secrets about what little

lce is popular in air conditioning

Ice, the oldest cooling ingredient known to man, is making a comeback in air conditioning due to the energy crisis, reports an energy industry jour-

Several utilities are demonstrating systems now that make and store ice during off-peak hours for use in cooling during peak times, according to Energy User News.

An ice storage system manufactures ice during the hours of a utility's off-peak rate and stores it. Then during peak hours a pump - which draws less energy than an ice maker - circulates water over the ice and sends the cooled water into a coil within the supply air duct, providing air conditioning.

The heat produced when the ice is made can be ducted into the building for domestic hot water or ducted to the outside, the publication reports.

Among the utilities demonstrating the systems, which officials believe may be in widespread use in a few

A book- of-the-month club addict

By ERMA BOMBECK

In the beginning I joined the Bookof-the-Month club.

I read a few pages each day at my leisure, usually finishing the book in a week. During the rest of the month and on Sundays, I rested.

Then one day I noticed a book I wanted was in the Literary Guild, so I began getting two books a month which I finished in 10 or 12 days. During the remaining two-and-a-half weeks and on Sundays I rested.

As a contributor to Good Housekeeping, I could do no less than subscribe to it. Naturally to keep abreast, I also subscribed to McCall's, Ladies Home Journal and Redbook. It took me a couple of weeks to read them from cover to cover, but the rest of the month and on Sundays I rested. With two weeks of leisure, I made plans to redo the house, which necessitated subscribing to House Beautiful and Better Homes and Gardens.

My husband said what I really needed was something to spark up my meals, so I duly signed up for Gourmet and Bon Appetit. I was now reading five days a week, but I rested on Sun-

A friend noticed all the reading material and was appalled to note I did not subscribe to local publications. Sunset magazine and Arizona Highways found their way to my coffee table with the three local newspa-

Another friend noted a "shallow, one-dimensional" look to my reading, so I added Time, Newsweek, the Saturday Review, Forbes, and the New York Times to my library. I read late and got up early, but on Sundays I

My reading schedule was becoming as complicated as a railroad schedule. One day in the checkout line at the supermarket, I saw a headline in The National Enquirer, "Jackie Finds Cure for Excessive Spending grabbed it, camouflaging it between the covers of Woman's Day and Family Circle.

I was on the point of exhaustion. My eyes watered and I was too stimulated by what I read to sleep. I watched only what TV Guide recommended.

The tables and desks groaned under the load of books and magazines. They filled the closets and drawers. To save time I subscribed to Reader's Digest and Condensed Books.

Last week, my husband said, "You have a Sunday visitor." I signed up for 36 issues for $52.

(Editors Note: The following report on 1979 Permian Basin exploration activity in the Permian Basin of West Texas and southeast New Mexico was presented by Harry A. Craig Jr. Corp., and Miller, an independent geologist. The report was prepared in the Geomap Co. office and the Midland Map Co. provided the maps for the report.)

"The 55-county Permian Basin of West Texas and southeast New Mexico is now in a period of intense-to-frantic activity in all phases of petroleum exploration, searching for a depleting commodity which is becoming more and more valuable every day.
"This activity should persist indefinitely because of demand factors.

"In the early 1970s, demand was satisfied by inexpensive foreign crude, and the Permian Basin was in recession. Cost inflation had reduced profits to "Major oil companies were moving out of Midland and Roswell, N.M., and geologists were being fired. The price of oil was $2.50 a barrel which had not changed since 1950. Gas was 16 cents; exploration was at an alltime low.

"However, in late 1971, Intratex, an intrastate gas company, circumvented federal price controls by developing an intrastate market and prices increased dramatically.

"In 1973, the OPEC embargo created a great demand for domestic oil and gas, and the petroleum industry of the Permian Basin responded with

China's oil, gas yield behind industrial growth

TULSA - China's oil and gas production, while again setting records last year, is lagging far behind the nation's overall growth in industrial output, Oil & Gas Journal reports in its June 2 issue An official State Statistical Bureau communique puts revised 1979 crude production at 2,123 million barrels per day, up only 2 percent from 1978 production and not enough to permit higher exports, the Journal

Production from China's largest oil fields leveled off in 1979, the Journal

Output from Shengli and Takang fields near the southwestern coast of Po Hai (Gulf of Chihli) in northeastern China appears to have peaked. Together the two fields accounted for about 30 percent of Chinese crude flow during the late 1970s.

Annnouncent of those selected was made by Richard P. Sevier, Exxon Co., U.S.A., in Midland. He is area Institute Chairman for the OIC of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Asso-

The Petroleum Institute, designed particularly for science, mathematics and social studies teachers, is being coordinated by Dr. Jack M. Sheridan, professor of Education, University of Houston.

Lectures, presented by experts from the oil industry, will include transportation, exploration, production, manufacturing, marketing and

Three hours of graduate credit in the field of education are granted upon successful completion of assign-

The Petroleum Institure, Sevier said, is to provide a broadened understanding of oil and gas as important energy sources, and to develop an awareness of the industrial importance of the petroleum industry in

ARCO names officials

LOS ANGELES - Board of directors of The Atlantic Richfield Co. has elected Edward M. Benson Jr. and Joseph P. Downer to newly-created positions of vice chairm, and Lodwrick M. Cook and Robert E. Wycoff to executive vice president.

Four new senior vice presidents also were elected. Benson has been an executive vice president since 1973. Downer was an executive vice president, serving in that position since 1969. Cook has been a senior vice president since 1977, and Wycoff was senior vice president in charge of planning and finance. He had held that post since 1977. The newly elected senior vice presidents are Claude O. Goldsmith, Ronald J. Arnault, Willard T. Chamberlain and Richard R. Van Honre.

Goldsmith previously was vice president of the financing and tax division. He held that post since 1975. He also was designated chief financial officer.

Arnault, a corporate vice president since 1977, has been president of ARCO Ventures Co. since the beginning of this year. He will retain that responsibility.

Chamberlain, president of Anaconda Brass Co., will become president of Anaconda Industries.

Van Horne, president of Anaconda Aluminum Co., will continue in that responsibility.

ent day that several significant plays developed in the Permian Basin. These plays added substantial amounts of oil and gas to dwindling domestic supplies and prevented an energy catastrophe

These plays in various provinces of the Basin are still active. "When the intrastate gas market became well established by 1973 and gas prices rose from 16 cents to $1, independent operators began a major drilling campaign in the known Cisco Canyon gas area of Crockett and Sutton counties in the southern part of the Midland Basin.

"This area produces from Cisco Canyon of the Pennsylvanian from stratigraphic sandstone reservoirs at depths of 5,000 to 8,000 feet.

"It is an area of tight sands, low deliverability, long life, and fair re-

"In 1973, development started moving south into Edwards County. At the same time, 60 miles to the north in Sterling County, similar type Cisco Canyon production was discovered and, from that time, a gas play has existed between the two areas and has developed into an extremely large gas area — a gas Spraberry field.

'Originally drilled on 320-acre spacing, reserves were estimated at 1 billion cubic feet of gas per well. Later, large productive areas in Sutton County were infill drilled on 160-acre spacing, and reserve estimated remained at 1 billion cubic feet per well. There now are proposals to infill

"One hundred miles long and 15 to 30 miles wide, the Cisco Canyon gas area is a giant with reserves as high as 30 trillion cubic feet of gas.

'We note that what appears to be a major 1979 discovery is the Natomas North America No. 1 Higgins in south Coke County which opened the Higgins Ranch (Canyon) field in a shelf edge carbonate buildup. Several development wells have been drilled, and substantial reserves can be ex-

"At the same time, the Cisco Canyon was developing in West Texas, the Strawn Morrow gas play in southeast New Mexico was developing for the same reason - economics. "In the search for deeper pre-Pennsylvanian reservoirs, the Strawn Morrow gas traps were recognized and, with the advent of higher prices, exploited. "Production is from structurally enhanced stratigraphic carbonate traps of Strawn age and fluvial deltaic sandstones of Morrow. Production is found at depths from 7,000 feet in west Eddy County to 15,000 feet in Lea. The Indian Basin gas field is one of the most important Morrow fields discovered to date. "The play now is moving southeast into the deeper part of the Basin. Drilling for deeper Morrow pay has resulted in the discovery of shallower Wolfcamp sands and carbonates and Atoka channel sands. These are lucrative bonuses to the variable Morrow sands. "Reserves in the large fields average 5 billion cubic feet of gas per

"Four Morrow wells are noted in this play as important discoveries in 1979. They are Union Oil of California No. 1 Maduro-Federal which opened the Gem field, and Union No. 1 Laguna Deep which opened the Gem, East field, both in Lea County; and Mesa Petroleum No. 1 Gardner State in the Runyan Ranch field and Maddox Energy No. 1-26 Pardue Farms, an Atoka discovery in the Loving, East field, both in Eddy County

"They are important in that they are extensions of the Morrow sand play in the deeper Delaware and are also extensions of a high condensate gas area.

Methane could be answer

NEW YORK - Methane gas, an energy source that can loosen OPEC's grip on America's economic throat already exists in abundance and by 1985 could be all answer to the nation's energy problems.

"It is more plentiful than oil," Science Digest reports in the June issue. "It produces less pollution than coal. It creates energy more safely than nuclear power. Its promise is more immediate than solar power's.

"The substance is methane, an oddorless, colorless, flammable gas that is the major constituent of natural gas. It already is established as a source of energy. A network of more than one million miles of gas pipelines criss-cross the country below ground level to deliver natural gas to more than 45 million homes, offices and factories.

"Like oil and coal, methane is a byproduct of decayed vegetation. The process that yields methane worked yesterday, works today and will work tomorrow.

Why, then, is it not the answer today? It is expensive to obtain. But by 1985, the year the gas and oil industries will be deregulated, methane is expected to equal oil in price. Also, much of the technology for extracting and synthesizing methane has yet to be developed. But the scientists and developers are working on it, and are making steady progress.

"Perhaps more important," says Science Digest, "methane suffers from an image problem. Oil men have long regarded it as the weak sister of their glamorous black gold - a gas that happens to coexist with oil but isn't worth the trouble to extract for its own sake. "Eugene Luntey, chairman of the Gas Research Institute, explains: 'Companies ignore it, and Department of Energy officials ignore it in favor of other forms of energy. "Does methane have a future in this nation's energy policy? No one knows at present. But the growing magnitude of the energy crisis undoubtedly will give planners second thoughts about prospects for a form of energy that, if not limitless, could be a basic building block of energy policy for the entire nation for several centuries.

Texaco head announces capital expenditure hike

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. - John K. McKinley, president and chief operating officer of Texaco inc., announced a second major increase in the company's plans for 1980 capital and exploratory expenditures to a record high level.

These two increases will raise planned capital and exploratory expenditures for Texaco Inc. and subsidiary companies to nearly $2.6 billion, an increase of approximately $500 million over the expenditures originally anticipatied at the beginning of the year. "This additional money will be used to intensify Texaco's drive to find and develop new supplies of oil and natural gas," the Texaco president said.

This new capital and exploratory budget covers expenditures of Texaco Inc. and consolidated subsidiaries on a worldwide basis. In addition, Texa-'co has an equity of $500 million in projected 1980 investments by nonsubsidiary companies in which Texaco's ownership interest is 50 percent or less. Including this equity in nonsubsidiaries, capital and exploratory expenditures planned for 1980 are now expected to total about $3.1

Refinery to expand

HOUSTON - Texaco Inc. announced plans for an additional expansion at its Convent, La., refinery in St. James Parish.

"Detail engineering design is currently underway and environmental studies have been completed for the construction of new facilities to process an additional 35,000 barrels a day of high-sulfur sour crude oils, which are becoming more predomi-nant in the available world crude supply, and thereby to reduce the dependency on low-sulfur sweet crudes," Texaco said.

The initial phase of the project is estimated to cost approximately $60 million. Construction is planned to begin in late 1981, and to be completed in 1984. Construction forces are expected to peak at approximately 800 workers during the building of the new facilities.

'This and other large investments in refining facilities are being made in order to position the company for the inevitable changes that will occur in the 1980s and 1990s," Texaco said. "They will enable Texaco both to provide the changing mix of petroleum products required by market demand and to process the changing varieties of crude oil in the most economical and energy-efficient man-

"Texaco's budget increases have been made possible by the Company's strong earnings performance for the first quarter of 1980 and by present indications that a continuation of favorable results is anticipated for the remaining three quarters of this year," the Texaco president commented. Approximately $1.8 billion or more than two-thirds of the new capital and exploratory budget for Texaco Inc. and subsidiary companies will be ear? marked for exploration and producing activities worldwide. The balance will be invested primarily to improve efficiencies and capacities in manufacturing, petrochemicals, transportation, and marketing.

On a geographical basis, more than $1.5 billion or about 60 percent of the new total is budgeted for investment in the United States and the balance for other areas. Special emphasis is being given to Canada, the United Kingdom, West Germany, and other countries which have a favorable economic climate.

Major investments are also being made through nonsubsidiary companies in producing or related activities in Saudi Arabia and Indonesia, in refinery construction elsewhere in the Far East and in Western Europe, in the LOOP project for the Louisiana offshore oil port, and in pipelines in the United States.

Sabine takes lease interest

DALLAS - Sabine Corporation announced it has acquired from Natomas North America, Inc. an 11.25 percent interest in a lease block in the Sheridan Area of Washington Parish, Louisiana.

The acquisition brings Sabine's total interest in the area of approximately 70,000 acres to 18.75 percent.

In late 1979, the operator of the exploratory venture announced completion of a potentially significant gas discovery in the Cotton Valley formation at approximately 20,000 feet. This first test well, the No. 1 Crown Zellerbach, was subsequently abandoned because of mechanical problems.

As consideration for the additional 11.25 percent interest, Sabine reimbursed Natomas for all costs it had incurred in the Sheridan Area to date and agreed to pay all costs attributable to Natomas' remaining 11.25 percent interest in the No. 2 and No. 3 Crown Zellerbach wells currently being drilled in the Sheridan Area.

McGhee joined in sigh of relief as rate dropped

By MAX B. SKELTON AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Ed McGhee says oilmen and drilling contractors heartily joined in the national sigh of relief that followed recent cutbacks in interest rates. "Every 1 percent increase in interest rates switches some number of new-well prospects into the 'uneconomic' category," said McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contrac-

"This is particularly true for the ventures financed by independent operators.

McGhee said delayss caused by drilling problems, bureaucratic red tape, or obtaining a pipeline connection can be made intolerable by the time cost of money Writing in the June edition of the trade group's monthly publication, "The Drilling Contractor," McGhee said a Denver contractor who also is an operator reports having to abandon plans for a multi-million dollar development deal.

"Moreover, he says contracts for his rigs have been cancelled by other operators who found money too expensive," McGhee said.

He said contractors, like all other groups, felt the impact of greater expense for operating capital.

"In addition, many of the new rigs now working are financed with borrowed money," he said.

"The loans often are tied to a level of 2 percent above prime rate.' McGhee said that by March one medium size land contractor suddenly found himself scrambling to find $160,000 per month just to meet interest payments. "And rumor has it at least two other small new companies found no alternative but to sell out in order to get relief from burdensome interest payments," he said. McGhee said one contracting firm has hit upon a limited partnership arrangement to raise funds for two new offshore jack-up rigs. "Some $20 million is being amassed through sale of limited partnerships, with $50,000 the minimum unit offered," he said. "A further $40 million or so will be obtained from loans."

For his money, McGhee said, the limited partner gets three payoffs. "First, the investment tax credit is passed through to him," he said. Second, he receives whatever dividends are paid later. And third, he should get a capital gains benefit when after seven years he sells his share to the general partner at a price to be determed by outside apprais-

McGhee said most of the limited partners will be investors not previously associated with the drilling industry.

'That pattern holds for many of the deals currently being floated to finance drilling equipment," he said. One securities analyst, he added, claims his easiest task is finding outside money wanting to get in on the "glamour" attached to drilling and to petroleum generally. "One long time contractor responded with the observation, 'We may have trouble someday paying it all back, but right now we can get all the money we need -- from a half dozen or more sources'," McGhee said.

McGhee said recent drilling trends have been somewhat puzzling.

"In 1978, virtually no one foresaw the downturn that came for U.S. do-mestic drilling in 1979," he said. "In 1979, virtually no one foresaw the strength of the resurgence that has come in 1980. Now in 1980, virtually no one foresees anything but good to come of 1981."

Most contractors, he said, are betting no grief will come soon.

"Collectively, they're building rigs as if there were no tomorrow;'

"New orders for offshore rigs are being placed at a pace that makes the construction boom of the early 1970s look like a recession. New orders for land and inland water rigs are exceeding even the break-neck pace of the past four years."

Moran buys lèase interest

HOUSTON - Moran Bros., Inc., announced it has acquired a 50 percent working interest in 7,480 acres of oil and gas leases near El Reno in the central part of Canadian County,

As operator, Moran plans to invest $15 million to drill approximately 50 wells within the next two years to evaluate and develop the leases. The first well will be started immediately, and well test the Hunton formation at

Most of the acreage is offsetting, or in the immediate vicinity of existing production in the Richland-Piedmont-Yukon trend. Moran drilled eight wells in the area last year, and has a number of producing wells there.

Culberson

An increase of 10 rigs was recorded last week on the weekly survey of Permian Basin rotary rig activity conducted by the Reed Rock Bit Co. The firm recorded 333 active rigs compared to the week-earlier count of 323. One year ago there were 218 rigs working the Permian Basin. Lea County, N.M., continued to be the Basin leader with 45 units. On the previous count, the area had 48 rigs making hole.

Eddy County, another New Mexico area, reported 34 rigs, an increase of two over the previous tally. In West Texas, the leader continues to be Pecos County. That area gained two rigs for a total of 28. Andrews picked up two units for a total count of 15.

Other areas with 10 or more rotary rigs drilling included Ward, Winkler,

Hopes for slowing inflation on Wall Street are apparently being fulfilled as recession deepens

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Wall Street's hopes for a slowing in the inflation rate are apparently being fulfilled as the recession rapidly deepens.

But doubts persist in the financial community over the prospects for any lasting progress in the battle against Figures issued by the government on Friday showed producer prices of. finished goods up only 0.3 percent during May - the smallest increase in that measure of inflationary pressures in more than 21/2 years.

The consumer price index, which rose 0.9 percent in April, down from 1.4 per month in the first quarter, is expected to show further progress when its May reading is announced in a couple of weeks.

"Inflation is abating, even if just temporarily," the brokerage firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. concluded.

This development hasn't been lost on the stock market, which closed out the past week at its highest level in more than three months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 10.67 to 861.52, its highest level since it finished at 863.14 on

The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 1.23 to 64.67, and the American Stock Exchange market value index gained 14.34 to Big Board volume averaged 39.27 million shares a day, against 39.05 million the week before.

Many Wall Streeters have long argued that a recession, however painful it might be in the short term, was needed to curb an inflation rate that had begun to run at dangerously high levels of close to 20 percent.

For the moment, their case looks pretty good. As recently as February, economists at New York's Citibank noted, "businessmen seemed convinced that there would be no - or, at worst, a small - dip in activity. Their confident expectations encouraged them to borrow more; add to inventories and hire more workers.

"Virtually overnight, however, they began worrying about how deep the recession would be. Now their efforts emphasize cutting costs by paring inventories, reining in employment growth and building liquidity - all implicit signs of lowered expectations about future inflation

"Thus, the administration's economic policy and the Federal Reserve's monetary policy have succeeded in lowering inflationary expectations. The challenge will be to consolidate the gains over the longer

Some skepticism about how well this challenge will be met is evident in the recent behavior of the gold mar-

for many investors who fear continuing inflation problems, stood not long ago in the low $500s. On Friday it crossed the $600 level at the Commodity Exchange in New York.

This summer, thanks to declines in such things as mortgage rates, there may be a month of two when the consumer price index doesn't rise at

But, said the Value Line Investment Survey in an economic review out Friday, "this apparent total respite from inflation will be as misleading as the close to 20 percent readings of the first quarter. "Nevertheless, the decline in inflation to single digits will not be a statistical quirk, as the recent drops in sensitive commodities prices and nterest rates attest." The advisory service noted that the underlying, or "core," inflation rate, has climbed in recent years to something around 9 or 10 percent.

'The severity of the current recession raises the hope that the next 18 months may see some improvement - albeit modest - in this regard,"

Housing turnabout still months away

By KRISTIN GOFF AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Housing economists say it may be months before the steep drop in housing construction starts and sales begin to turn

Interest rates on mortgages are finally retreating from record levels of as much as 17 percent reached in late March to a range of about 12 to 14

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board this past week reported that the average commitment rate, or mortgage interest rate agreed to apply on a real estate deal to be closed in the future, fell from a record 16.59 percent in April to 15.72 percent last month. It was the first decline in that statistic in 21/2 years.

But housing starts - at an annual rate of about 1 million in April - were 41 percent below those of a year earlier. And economists at the National Association of Home Builders, an industry group, say it will take at least several more months before they hit bottom and begin to show signs of recovery

"While the recent decline in interest rates will help people qualify in the housing market, the big question being raised among our builders is that of buyer confidence," 'said a recent industry bulletin published by the NAHB.

"THE NEWSPAPERS and newscasts are filled with bad economic news. And in areas where a recession means job insecurity, people are not likely to take the big step and purchase a home.

Sanford C. Bernstein & Co., an investment research company, recently estimated that housing starts will tumble to an annual rate of 500,000 to 700,000 this month or next, from April's rate just over 1 million, before the recovery begins. But even when it does, drastic changes in the housing market in the past few years raise some questions about the long-range prospects of what was once considered the 'American dream' of home owner-

The U.S. League of Savings Associations, in a study released this past week, found that inflationary forces had made substantial changes in home-buying patterns in 1979, compared with the findings of a 1977

"Inflation has a particularly damaging impact on the housing market, mounting a dual attack on homebuying activity

"In an inflationary environment, not only are housing costs pushed upward, but also household savings flows, the primary source of mortgage credit, are reduced," the association report said.

AMONG ITS specific findings, the report said higher costs made two-income households the rule, rather than the exception among home buyers.

In 1979, 54 percent of homebuyers were two-earner families compared with 47 percent in 1977.

"Even so, nearly half of all American home buyers are stretching beyond the once-traditional rules of thumb which held that housing expenses should not total more than 25 percent of monthly gross income, said the report released by the Chicago-based industry group.

During the 1977 to 1979 period, the median price of a home rose about 32 percent from $44,000 to $58,000.

But monthly payments went up even more - about 37.5 percent. The median monthly house payment including mortgage interest and utility, tax and insurance costs - was $550 last year, up from $400 two years

The report also found that inflation struck hardest at the first-time home buyers, who couldn't draw on existing home equity as repurchasers could.

Only 18 percent of home buyers last year were buying their first home, compared with 36 percent two years

THE LEAGUE, in releasing the study, recommended that the government approve special tax-free savings accounts for first-time home buyers to use in saving for a home. They also said greater acceptance of 'alternative mortgage instruments," which involve variable payments rather than a flat rate for the life of the loan, may help potential buyers and lenders.

In other business developments this past week:

-A recession was officially declared to have begun. The National Bureau of Economic Research in Cambridge, Mass., which tracks the country's economic cycles, said economic activity peaked in January and has been declining ever since. The group of private economists who make up the Business Cycle Dating Committee were unanimous in declaring that a recession was under

-Congress overwhelmingly rejected President Carter's proposed 10 cent a gallon oil import fee. The 10 cent a gallon fee was proposed as a conservation measure as well as a revenue raising step and is important to administration efforts to bring in a balanced budget this year.

Pecan growers meeting scheduled Wednesday night

By CHARLES W. GREEN Midland County Extension Agent — Agriculture

Planting is essentially complete in Midland County and over most of the area, and a large percentage of the cotton is up to a good stand. Temperatures have been warm and the humidity has been high, which has favored the growth of the young crop. Pasturelands are green and growing and furnishing livestock feed. Conditions are good, agriculturally speaking, in the West Texas area, and with some more rainfall soon we will be off to another good

MEMBERS OF MIDLAND Pecan Growers Association will hold their regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Midland Room, Midland National Bank. Members who received cards with a meeting date of June 10 are advised that this was in error and Wednesday, June II, is the

The meeting will be devoted to planning the County Pecan Show, Queen Pageant and Food Show scheduled this fall. There will be some time for questions and answers concerning pecan culture. Marge Shaw, secretary-treasurer, reminds members and other interested persons to submit recipes for the Pecan Cookbook which will be printed in connection with the food show. Recipes (all using pecans) will be divided into categories of appetizers, main dishes, salads, vegetables, desserts, cakes and cookies, jellies, jams and candies, breads and rolls, and

THE MAY RAINFALL resulted in standing water in lakes in some areas of the county. Such standing water makes an excellent place for raising mosquitoes, and a number of persons to the east and south of the city have complained of sieges of the little blood

Mosquitoes lay eggs wherever water will collect and stand for a week or longer. They will not breed in damp grass or other areas as some folks mistakenly believe. Young mosquitoes develop only in water and prefer polluted or stagnant water for breeding. This will include water trapped in cans, bottles, old tires,

If standing water on your premises cannot be eliminated, check it weekly for mosquito larvae. If any are found, apply an insecticide spray. A spray containing 0.5 percent lindane or 0.2 percent malathion may be used as well as kerosene or fuel oil.

To pewpare your own spray, mix three and onehalf teaspoons of a 50 to 57 percent malathion emulsifiable concentrate to enough water, kerosene or fuel oil to make one pint of spray. Or mix two and one-fourth teaspoons of 20 percent lindane emulsifiable concentrate to make one pint of spray.

Spray one ounce (2 tablespoons) of these mixtures to each 100 square feet of water surface.

For kerosene or fuel oil at full strength, use two to four ounces to each 100 square feet of surface. Do not use kerosene or fuel oil on water containing emergent vegetation.

To keep annoyances from mosquitoes at a minimum this summer, take measures now to destroy breeding places.

JUST HOW HAZARDOUS is 2,4,5-T, a useful herbicide that has been banned from the market? "Agri-Chemical Age" magazine reports that Dr. Richard Wilson of Harvard University has calculated that if a person were to apply 2,4,5-T with a backpack sprayer 5 days a week, 4 months a year for 30 years, his chances for developing a tumor from exposure to the material would be about 0.4 out of a million! And if he drank one can of beer per day, his chances would be 20 per million, or 50 times more hazardous than spraying 2,4,5-T for 30 years. If he smoked cigarettes regularly, his chances would be 1,200 per million — or 3,000 times greater than spraying 2,4,5-T for 30 years. In short, one needs judgment in evaluating present-day risks from chemicals. Makes you think, doesn't it?

VARIOUS SOLUTIONS of different soaps and detergents (Ivory, Tide, etc.) were copared with organic insecticides for effectivemess in controlling aphids, mites, psyllids and thrips. In all of the experiments, soap and detergent sprays produced high mortality of all the arthropods tested and compared favorably with insecticides such as diasinon and Kelthane. However, there was no residual control and in many cases, plant phytotoxicity was

These results indicate that some soaps have direct insecticidal activity and may provide an alternative to so-called pesticides. However, the only soap solution legally registered with EPA in ACCO Highway Plant Spray Soap (Acme Chemical Co.).

Truman signs, then vetoes same bill

By CARL C. CRAFT

WASHINGTON (AP) - Yes, Harry Truman first signed a bill and later vetoed it. In the history of vetoes, it might be termed Truman's turnabout However, something important happened between those two events: Franklin D. Roosevelt died.

As vice president and presiding officer of the Senate, Truman had routinely signed bills that came across his desk, including one providing financial relief to a New Jersey man embroiled in a bail

Roosevelt, Truman's boss, had vetoed 635 bills over 12 years - still a record. And when he slapped a veto on a bill, it stuck; Congress overrode him only

After Roosevelt died April 12, 1945, Truman waited just a week to use the veto for the first time, striking down the same private legislation, which he consid-

Congress didn't challenge him that time. But Truman, in frequent battles with Congress, went on to veto more important bills covering such issues as big tax cuts and labor-management relations. In June 1948, an election year, when Congress overrode three Truman vetoes in four days, legislative leaders warned that, if any more came from the president, they too would be overridden.

That prompted Truman, heading home from a western swing, to say that he was going to the White House to "veto some more bills." But the congressional triple play made history - never before had three measures been voted into law in a week's time over the president's protests.

Still, Truman, attacking Republicans in Congress, won the 1948 election and went right on rejecting legislation, pushing his veto total to 250, topped only by Roosevelt and by Grover Cleveland's 584.

By the time he left the presidency in 1953, Truman had had a dozen of his vetoes overridden - second only to Andrew Johnson's 15.

Replacement speaker would prefer to listen

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Helene Plotka, an Atlantic City High School senior, has been chosen to speak at next Thursday's graduation instead of Tina Bahadori, an Iranian. But Miss Plotka says she would rather be listening. "I'll be thinking it should be Tina up there, not me," says Miss Plotka, 18. "I don't feel I represent the class any better than she does." Miss Bahadori, 18, an Iranian who attended the high school for 18 months on a student visa, recently won a competition to make one of two valedictory addresses at graduation. Then American history teacher Theodore Manos started a petition among faculty members objecting to the selection of Miss Bahadori because she is Eighty of the school's 140 teachers signed the petition and Miss Bahadori quietly withdrew. Manos contends an Iranian should not be allowed to address the school's 550 graduating seniors while 53 Americans are being held hostage in Iran.

Miss Plotka, runner-up to her friend in the competition, said she originally refused to speak, but Miss Bahadori urged her to reconsider.

"Tina said if anyone was going to make it, she'd rather have it be me," Miss Plotka said. "She's really a good friend." Miss Bahadori, who lives with an aunt and uncle in the Atlantic City area, is a straight-A student. School officials said she was not active politically and never spoke about the situation in her homeland.

She will attend the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this fall.

She has refused to be interviewed or photographed since the controversy surfaced earlier this week.

As required by school officials, the speeches of both women were on the subject of dreams.

Miss Bahadori's speech dealt with the dreams of youth and how they can change the world, according to Miss Plotka. It was completely void of political overtones, she said.

Ramsey Clark's blunder

The actions of former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark in Iran may not be treasonous, but they certainly do not appear to be in the best interests of the United States or the 53 American hos-

That isn't to say that Clark's motives are ill-conceived. Obviously he wants to gain release of the hostages by convincing the Iranians he and others understand the Khomeini revolution and the militants' case against the United States.

One would think that a former attorney general, schooled in the field of international politics, would be wiser than that. Clark violated a presidential order restricting travel of American citizens to Iran in order to attend the "American Crimes Against Iran" conference, the name of which implies pre-determined guilt.

Of course this isn't the first time Clark has opposed his government's wishes to satisfy his own desire for self-glorification or whatever. In 1972, in the face of government opposition he went to Hanoi to speak to the North Vietnamese about American prisoners of war.

Those who believe Clark's actions don't impact the overall situation adversely aren't thinking too clearly. By making the trip in direct violation of a presidential ban, Clark and his cohorts appear to be telegraphing a message to the Iranians that the American public is divided over the hostage issue. He also seems to be saying there no longer is respect for the office of the presidency.

Neither of those assumptions by the Iranians would be correct. Some, including this newspaper, have not agreed with the complete handling of the hostage situation. But to say that we all are willing to sign an admission of guilt to all sorts of unnamed atrocities just to gain the hostages' freedom is a bit presumptuous.

By giving the Iranians incorrect information about the American position in regard to the hostages, Clark and the other individuals probably are inadvertently prolonging the captivity of the hos-

Further, they are playing into the hands of those who seek to destroy the credibility, integrity and self-respect of this nation.

To put it bluntly, the actions of Clark and the others are an insult to us and tarnish the image of the nation to which they are supposed to hold allegiance.

A former attorney general, like an incumbent attorney general, cannot consider himself nor be considered above the law. Clark and the other participants of the charade in Iran will be subject to fine and imprisonment when they return to the United States.

They have blatantly violated the law. They should be prosecuted.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Carter's oil stockpile delay proving costly

WASHINGTON - Three years ago, President Carter called for the creation of a strategic oil reserve as a hedge against a possible cutoff of Middle East supplies. Millions of barrels of oil were supposed to be pumped into abandoned salt mines in Louisiana - there to be ready for any future Arab embargo or other disrup-

But unhappily, the program encountered the indecision and inefficiency that have hampered so many of Carter's good intentions. Instead of the six months' supply that had been envisioned, the United States now has scarcely two weeks' supply of oil in its. strategic reserves.

Now the president is talking about renewing the flow of oil into the waiting salt mines, an action that is considered essential to protect the U.S. economy from political and financial blackmail by the Arab oil sheiks. But the years of delay in building up our oil reserves will cost the taxpayers billions of dollars.

What makes the situation so galling is that enormous sums not only could have been saved but a reservoir of oil could have been accumulated if Carter had gone ahead with his original plan. But he was unnerved by the Saudi Arabians who vowed to cut back production if the United States tried to build up its oil reserves. This not only puts the United States at the mercy of the Saudis, which is bad enough, but it also forces Carter into military brinksmanship with the Soviet Union to protect the Persian Gulf oil supply. The alternative is to risk a Soviet takeover of the region and the Kremlin's strategic blackmail of the Western alliance. My sources tell me that this might action on the president's part. If Carter had called the Saudis' bluff and had begun building a billion-barrel oil stockpile when he said he was going to, they would have backed down from their threat to cut production. This is the opinion of congressional experts on Saudi Arabian af-

The importance of a strategic petroleum reserve was recognized by Carter when he first took office. It. was to make sure the American economy would never again be held hostage by the Arab oil producers, as it had been during the embargo of 1973-

The Saudis have been our most reliable supplier, but they understandably opposed the creation of such a sizable petroleum cushion beyond their control. If the United States could get along for several months without Arab oil, we could thumb our noses at their demands for concessions on such foreign policy matters as the Palestinian question. An oil stockpile in the United States would also lessen the Arab oil cartel's control of prices.

So the Saudis brought enormous tion, threatening to reduce exports if the oil they sold us was pumped into the Louisiana salt domes for future use. But knowledgeable sources who have dealt with the Saudis are convinced they could have been won over by playing on their fears of Soviet encirclement. The argument would be that a U.S. oil reserve was necessary for a strong America that could protect the Saudis from the Soviet retirement papers are processed.

Instead of countering the Saudi threats with this kind of pragmatic reasoning, and then going ahead with the strategic oil stockpile, the Carter administration was the one that blinked and folded its hand in this high-stakes poker game.

Congressional sources told my associate Vickie Warren that the president is belatedly planning to buy oil for the strategic reserve. The target date is now understood to be after the Algiers meeting this month of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The cost of the three years of delay will be staggering. At the present time, there are only about 92 million barrels of oil in the Louisiana salt domes. Stockpiling stopped between November 1978 and March 1979, although construction of the facilities has continued since then.

While Carter was appeasing the Saudis, the price of petroleum has more than doubled - from about $14 a barrel to more than $30. To fill the projected billion-barrel stockpile will now cost the taxpayers in the neighborhood of $15 billion more than it would have earlier - depending on how much the OPEC cartel decides to jack up its prices this time.

The administration is shopping around for domestic oil to put in the strategic reserve. This would not offend the Saudis, but it would have the effect of withdrawing supplies from the U.S. market and thus pushing up prices for American consumers.

Yet the cost of not stockpiling an oil supply could be even more staggering, according to an unpublished Energy Department report. Without a strategic reserve as a bargaining chip, the experts estimate that in a "worst-case" scenario - a Soviet-U.S. confrontation in the Persian Gulf that cuts off the region's oil supplies to this country - it would cost the United States as much as $700 billion to keep the economy going. If our allies were caught equally unprepared - as they are at this time - it could cost them three times as much, the analysts warn. Monetary considerations aside, the report concludes grimly that "the great concern about Soviet control of the Persian Gulf stems from their ability to extract economic, military and foreign policy concessions from the U.S. and its allies by threatening to disrupt our oil supplies.

Such are the possible consequences of our continuing vacillation about our nation's energy independence.

Alaska Permanent Fund restores faith in common sense

WASHINGTON - Every once in a while, I encounter some government action that makes me feel good, and restores my faith in common sense. Such an event will soon take place in Alaska where a share of the state's huge oil revenues will be distributed to every last man, woman and child at a rate of $50 for each year the citizen lived in that frontier state. The windfall comes from the Alaska Permanent Fund which holds 25 percent of the state's oil revenues in trust for the citizenry. The fund now holds $391 million, but might grow by $900 million more this year, if the legislature okays the measure.

The 1980 payout to 270,000 eligible Alaskans will average $475 each, with a maximum payment of $1,050. Children's shares are held in trust until they are 18. Governor Jay S. Hammond, a bearded Republican, was largely responsible for creation of the fund in 1976. In an interview with The Socioeconomic Newsletter, Hammond said he was determined for years "to rope off" some of the oil funds for the public so the money wouldn't "simply go into funding more government operations.'

The state reaped this bonanza because 245,000 of the millions of acres it acquired from the Statehood Act of 1959 is on the North Slope where the great Prudhoe Bay oil strike was

The first oil revenues (from leases) went for highways and ports, but when the oil began flowing through the pipeline in 1977, so did the royalties into the state treasury. In pushing hard for the fund, Hammond argued that by committing all the oil revenue to state government programs, the state was also committing itself to enormous future funding to sustain them. Since oil is a non-renewable resource, and the Prudhoe fields are figured to begin declining in 1988, Hammond decided that the money would be put to better use by being put into the Alaskan economy. Moreover, he wanted all Alaskans to feel "some discernible benefit" they could use for whatever needs they felt appropriate, "rather than having Big Brother do it for them."

He couldn't have been more correct. Alaska has suffered an economic downturn since the pipeline was completed in 1977. Unemployment is at 11.4 percent. The $128 million that Alaskans will get from the fund in 1980 will stimulate the lagging economy, and perhaps make new enterprises possible. "Thousands of Alaskans have made an exodus from the state," Hammond says, "simply because of the lack of employment. The bankruptcy rate is escalating. In short, there is an urgent need to inject some monies into the economy.

"I believe there is no better way to achieve that infusion than spreading our oil revenues around so that all Alaskans have the wherewithal for such things as increased energy costs and housing. Our plan is the ultimate in grassroots revenue sharing."

Hammond also argues that since there is a federal tax bite on the payments, Alaska will return about four times the amount it gets through revenue sharing. The payout is expected to be of special help to Eskimos and Aleutians, because they have been in the state the longest, and will get most of the maximum payments. Thus, these native Alaskans won't feel they are getting welfare from Uncle Sam, rather that they are being paid because of their tenure - a sign of respect.

The Alaska Permanent Fund also was used in 1979 and this year for some $136 million in income tax relief. Full refunds went to taxpayers who filed for three years or more. Others got partial refunds. The refunds were voted to head off an initiative to abolish Alaska's income tax, sponsored by State Senator Richard Randolph, the only member of the Libertarian Party to sit in any state legislature. Hammond opposed killing the income tax.

Now the story of how Alaska is distributing its bonanza money irritates those who haven't been lucky enough to come to such riches. The Socioeconomic Newsletter reports: 'Grumblings about the wealth of the oil-producing states have been heard increasingly in the East and Midwest. New York City investment hanker at the character at the contract of the contra

Felix G. Rohatyn said that growing oil revenues 'threaten our economic and social stability."

And presidential candidate John B. Anderson, perhaps with an eye on big population states, argues that, We're going to have some redistribution of revenues in this country, or we're going to have real sectional

That assessment might get Anderson votes in big states - where he'll need them. The counterview by Gov. Hammond certainly doesn't hurt him with the sparser, though benefited, population in Alaska.

Hammond, a former bush pilot, guide, trapper, and commercial fisherman, seems to be the essence of Alaska. He believes that real money in your fist is better than the promise of money from Washington. I salute him for his judgment and for the follow-through in getting this remarkable fund established.

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, SUN., JUNE 8, 1980

their non-binding straw poll.

In 1979, Houston Sen. Jack Ogg tried to set up a separate presidential preference primary, with a March date; that led to the famous "Killer Bees" episode, and resulted in no primary legislation being passed.

The 1981 legislature does have the opportunity to approve legislation next year, but the odds on that look fairly long at present.

In 1977, the legislature discarded presidential primary legislation with many members arguing the matter should be studied some more, and that there was no rush, since there would not be another presidential election for three years.

Democratic Party officials weren't convinced that presidential primaries are the best way to select delegates to the national convention - that doubt

Garry Mauro, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, notes the State Democratic Executive Committee voted four times in 12 months on the question of having a primary vote.

On that fourth vote, to the surprise of nearly everyone, the SDEC did decide to have a presidential preference contest (although the Republicans continued to sneer that the vote was completely meaningless.)

Long-time Democratic Party activist and National Committeewoman Carrin Patman says she thinks the SDEC really didn't want to have such a vote even then - but did because "the public perceived that we had made a commitment to do so" if there appeared to be a genuine contest for

Mrs. Patman isn't a great admirer of the primary process - feeling it weakens party participation, and allows people who really have no commitment to a candidate to take part in the selection process.

And, she says, party officials and voters "have been disenchanted with the only kind of bills our legislature has been interested in passing, that would stack the deck for one side or the other."

"It's hopeless," she adds, "to expect a self-interested legislative body to come up with something that would serve the need."

State Republican Party officials think the GOP will continue to go with a presidential preference ballot partly due to the theory that it helps bring more people into the GOP voting booths.

Chairman Chet Upham, Jr., Mineral Wells, says, "we were pleased with the participation" in the May 3 process - and he notes that it's somewhat curious that the GOP has been shifting to a primary, while the Democrats have been using the caucus system to select delegates. House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby both favored the separate-day primary plan in 1979 but Clayton has been promoting the idea of a regional primary, with up to 14 southern and southwestern states participating.

The southern speakers have pretty well agreed among ourselves that an early regional primary would be best." Clayton reports. "I favor that, or a national primary.

While the general opinion is that early primary states have the greater impact, Clayton notes that may not always be true.

"I think, certainly, the earlier states are having an impact, and that's a disadvantage to the middle

"But if it's neck and neck, late states can have an impact," Clayton

"Who can say what a good date is?" Mrs. Patman comments.

"In one presidential year, you can argue that New Hampshire had the

"In other years, you can say that it was California or Oregon that turned the tide — it depends on the situation in a given year."

It's the principle

On Friday (5-23-80) we, the PTA of Lamar Elementary School, were informed that the school board is transferring many of the principals in the 19 elementary schools for the coming year. No reasons were given. No need has been shown. Lamar principal, Mr. Leroy Shannon, has been with us only one year and has done a superior job, considering the short time they have allowed him. As concerned parents we feel the constant shuffling of principals is unnecessary and that now is the time to stop playing musical chairs with our children's education. We are on the agenda for the school board meeting (6-10-80, at 1:30.) We invite you as PTA, concerned parents, teachers and citizens to join with us at this meeting. We feel that our children are losing in this shuffle.

The lulling lie

To The Editor:

We just can't wait to develop nations like Red China so they, in time, will become a threat to our freedoms in America.

I'm sure some read the article in The Reporter-Telegram on the sale of U.S. defense equipment on May 31. The U.S. is going to allow China to buy some of our defense equipment as part of normalizing relations. It will permit the Chinese to negotiate with American manufacturers for military equipment. Sales, we are told, could run into hundreds of millions of dol-

Some of our officials are thinking in reverse if they think such sales will make friends of Red China. It so happens that the Soviet Union as well as Red China have the same objective, to take the U.S. over. Red China is still following Mao's plan, "to complete the liquidation of all potential enemies and the extension of Communism throughout the entire earth."

Mao also emphasized: "The United States must be isolated by all possible means." Another comment he made was: Nations must be convinced that there is a possibility of settling the major issues between the east and the west and that peace can be attained between Communists and capitalist countries.

This is of course the lie of peaceful coexistence which has lulled the free world into a false sense of security.

Urge your congressmen to cease trading with Red China, to cease giving them our technical know-how. Your freedom and your children's are at stake!

Such power!

To The Editor:

Man has long believed that there are unseen forces in the universe that work for or against us as we please or displease them. But I am astonished at the power that has lately been attributed to the public school teach-

When I was in public school, my parents were responsible for about forty percent of my education. The whole family gathered around the dining room table five evenings a week with books, pen and paper. We did not have our own car and private telephone or television set. We did not work five hours every night sacking groceries. But the new methods came into fashion. The parents did not want to re-learn them, so homework and family study went out of style. Parents offered to sue if their child was punished or not promoted. And the whole social order was changed because of the teacher. Such power! And, too, we heard that school was boring. Couldn't the teachers play games or show films to lighten the burden of learning? Learning - serious thinking - has always been hard work. And I predict that the academic scores will rise again only when the teacher directs the fundamentals and the student has an example at home to emulate.

And I don't look forward to paying more taxes to keep those people in jail that do not infringe upon my rights in

I would also like to know why there is always so much time being spent busting kids for marijuana (an herb that has actually proven to be healthy - not harmful) when there are people here in Midland that have had items stolen from their homes and can't even get help from the police only because they have long hair and smell

It is a mysterious quality, and yet it is as simple as "I will." Beyond that is the reason for saying "I will overcome trial and tribulation" or "I will grow in character" or "I will accomplish" or "I will abstain" or "I

'Go for the gold'

To The Editor: I still wonder why no one else has raised the question of our participation in the Olympic Games this summer in Moscow. Our fine young athletes should not be punished for President Carter's blunders in our foreign policy. They have trained so long and arguously in order to participate. I'll say one thing for our president. He is consistent! And he is always wrong! Ce la vie!

I think it might restore my sagging faith in humanity if some of you redblooded American men would get up on your own two feet and demand that the American atheltes "go for the gold!" in Olympic competition this summer.
