ATLANTA (AP) - A self-proclaimed clairvoyant who is trying to help solve the murders and disappearances of 14 black children said today she had found numerous clues on a tour of the slaying sites and "hopes to have some answers by this evening."

Dorothy Allison, a New Jersey woman who made the remarks in an interview on NBC's "Today" show, had told reporters on Wednesday that she sensed more than one persons might be involved in the deaths.

"I'm going to visit with a few more mothers this morning," Mrs. Allison said today, "and I hope to have some answers by this evening."

She said she was being purposely vague to keep the killer or killers off balance. On Wednesday, she had toured the spots where two children were found slain and visited the parents of one victim.

Police, meanwhile, were continuing a door-to-door hunt for clues and turned to a computer for help in analyzing

Bringing in the clairvoyant was one of several unorthodox steps police have taken to solve the series of crimes in which a black child has disappeared every 31/2 weeks since July 1979. Ten have been found dead and four still are

After the verdict, the defendants charged they were manipulated and trapped by informants and prosecu-

Brilab was an acronym for "Bribery-Labor." Prosecutors contended Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe and the promise of $500,000 more a year from labor leader L.G. Moore to reopen bidding on a multimillion-dollar state employees health insurance

Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, also was indicted on the charges and was to be tried later.

Ray and Wood were accused of agreeing to accept payments to wield influence at the state capital, where both worked before entering private practice, to get the contract for the insurance company an FBI informant claimed to represent.

Clayton acknowledged receiving $5,-000, but said he considered it a campaign contribution that he intended to

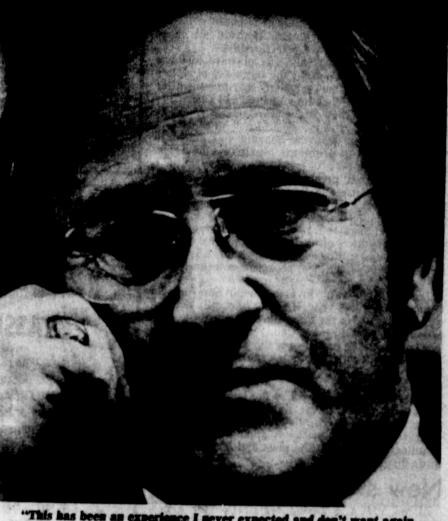

The secretly recorded tapes were the crux of the prosecution's Brilab case, as in Abscam cases tried so far. The tapes convinced some jurors of the defendants' innocence, jury forei ye Holman said.

"There were some who were proconviction. We would ask them 'what is bothering you about it?' After we listened to the tapes the second time, it started to clear up," he said.

The audio tapes revealed contributions were mentioned during the conversations. For juror Jimmy Haynes, it was a question of Clayton's word or that of FBI informant Joseph Hauser, now jailed for insurance fraud.

'It was like two worlds fighting, with Clayton in the honest world,' Haynes said. "And I think Joseph Hauser is one of the finest crooks in the business.'

Hauser, 48, has been twice convicted on insurance-kickback and bribery charges. He currently is serving a 30-month term on an insurance fraud conviction, and pleaded guilty to an-other bribery charge in exchange for a promise to work for the FBI.

Hauser was on the stand for 10 days as prosecutors played dozens of taped conversatons between him, Moore and the defendants. Defense lawyers dismissed Hauser without asking a single question.

As he left the courtroom, Clayton said: "This has been an experience I never expected and don't want again. But the verdict supports my belief in the court system.

However, the three-term speaker had some harsh words for the prosecutor, U.S. Attorney Tony Canales. After the verdict, Clayton handed Canales a wooden stake with two inscribed plates on it.

One bore a Canales remark from August: "I want to drive a stake into the heart of Billy Clayton." The other read, "Oh Lord, make my words tender and sweet today, for tomorrow I may have to eat them."

Ray, 39, said he would "ask for a U.S. Senate investigation of the FBI activities in the Brilab case."

And Wood said the case would have unfortunate repercussions for the FBI. "The tragedy was that a jury had to put a stamp of disapproval on what our federal government did. There will be from now on some concern about anything done by the FBI and that is a shame."

The veteran legislator, who was seeking an unprecedented fourth term as speaker, declined to say whether he still is a candidate. But executive assistant Rusty Kelley said: "He is going to run for speaker again. I don't think there is any doubt

Iran may add conditions to free hostages

anon (AP) -New conditions for the release of the American hostages in Iran may be added to those outlined by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, a hardline member of Iran's Parliament said

He said a spe-cial committee of the Parliament has finished a report on the 52 U.S. hostages, and the proposed conditions for their release will be presented to the full assembly on Sunday. But Ali Akbar Nateq Noori, a member of the Islamic Republican Party who sits on the seven-member committee, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press "some more conditions may be added" to the four basic terms outlined by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Last month Khomeini said the conditions were the return of the late's shah's fortune, a U.S. pledge not to meddle in Iranian affairs, dropping of law suits against Iran, and release of $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets.

Noori said the conditions proposed by the panel would remain "secret" until they were unveiled to the 228member assembly on Sunday, the hostages' 358th day in captivity. Asked if the United States was likely to accept the conditions, he said, "Maybe not now that some more will be added, for the conditions may not be limited to the four conditions" of Khomeini.

Despite some optimistic predictions that the issue could be solved in a matter of days, Noori suggested the whole process may be time-consum-

"It is unpredictable because opinions vary in the Majlis," or Parliament, he said.

He added it "wont take more than one week" for the first round of debate but that more rounds may be necessary if the full assembly refers the report back to committee for further study or changes.

Noori, who headed the special courts that tried suspected members of the underground anti-clerical group known as Forghan, said more time might be consumed while the U.S. government considers the condi-

"It is not enough to just say, 'we accept,' because our conditions are put in a special way that will be known later," he said. "If the (United States) acts in one minute then we will free them the next moment."

"What I mean by acting is to remove barriers, for example, the transfer of the shah's wealth to some other place so that we can deliver," said Noori, who was reached through the Iranian Parliament's switchboard in Tehran.

Asked what would happen to the hostages if the U.S. government found the conditions unacceptable, Noori said, "Our first decision will be put in force, the question of trial."

Ali Akbar Parvaresh, another member of the committee, told The Associated Press Wednesday the hostages would not be put on trial if the Parliament approved the committee plan. Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai told The AP earlier this week trial was a "remote" possibility.

Noori also suggested the hostages, who reportedly have been held at scattered locations throughout Iran since an aborted U.S. rescue attempt last April, might be released one at a time or in small groups rather than

"This is part of our conditions which as I said may take time," Noori said. Asked if he meant the hostages might be released a few at a time he said, "maybe, yes."

Noori, who said "our report on the case is ready" for presentation, said that if the conditions were approved by Parliament and accepted by Washington the details of the transfer would be handled by the govern-

"The government has to be in touch with officials or even other nations for carrying out the plan, " said Noori.

Asked how the transfer might be handled, Noori said, "a plane can come and take them if it is decided and they (United States) take action to meet our demands..."

He suggested the hostage transfer might be handled in a similar fashion to the return of the eight U.S. servicemen killed in the abortive rescue mis-

Texas Demos unite, Carter cries

TEXARKANA (AP) — President Carter climaxed a whirlwind, threecity campaign tour by straddling the Texas-Arkansas border and encouraging Democratic backers to unite and "stomp the Republicans."

With Texas' 26 crucial electoral votes still hanging in the balance, Carter spoke at this two-state city of 52,000 Wednesday after bragging in Beaumont about his energy program and taking credit at a Waco rally for the state's declining unemployment

Standing on a podium under clear, blue skies at the Texarkana post office, which sits across the state line. Carter flailed Republican opponent Ronald Reagan for "wanting to dismantle" Democratic-sponsored social legislation such as the minimum wage, Social Security and Medicaid.

The president said Republicans have tried for years to label Demo-cratic programs designed "to alleviate human suffering" as "socialist"

and "communist."

Carter drew applause when he pointed out that former presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson also had spoken from the same border site.

Local Democrats predicted the president would win support from the agricultural-based area of Northeastern Texas and Southwestern Arkansas simply because he is a Demo-

"This area has lots of dyed-in-thewool Democrats," said Miller County, Ark., Democratic chairwoman Louann Dean. "That's the way they were born and raised."

Carter was joined in Texarkana by a entourage of top Democrats from Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Lou-

The chief executive, who carried Texas over Gerald Ford by only 129,-000 out of more than four million votes cast in 1976, was introduced by U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

With a broad grin on his face, Bent-sen reminded the crowd of his early endorsement of Carter's re-election bid "when he was at the bottom of the polls.

In Beaumont, Carter told an enthusiastic crowd of shipyard workers his energy policies have fueled Texas' economic boom. Carter said the "long, hard but successful battle" for a comprehensive energy program has led to a record number of drilling rigs, more wells in the planning stage and more coal being mined than ever before. As a result of these increases.

Carter said, more than 900,000 jobs have been made available to Texans, the average per capita income in Texas has increased 40 percent, and unemployment has been slashed dramatically during his term. The president's remarks drew favorable response from many of the vard workers "Mr. Carter has shown he has the leadership and the capability that this country needs," said Mark Jackson, a 27-year-old welder. "He doesn't claim to be perfect, he admits when he has made a mistake, and he is trying, and I think that is a lot more than you can say for his opponent."

Later in Waco, a crowd estimated at 5,000 gathered on the airport concourse to hear Carter's assertion that his administration is responsible for a 30 percent drop in the state's unemployment rate over the past 21/2

He also said he was wearing his 'stomping boots" which are "designed to stomp Republicans on Nov.

Carter added that high-top boots

"Republicans have a habit of spreading a lot of horse manure around right before elections ... and as you know it's getting pretty deep all over the country."

Texas elections said riddled with fraud

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas elections are riddied with vote finagling and plots to steal elections, according to witnesses at a hearing convened by several Mexican-American organizations.

I am fully aware that abuses, irregularities and illegalities have existed and I have every reason to suspect that they continue to exist," Secretary of State George Strake said Wednesday.

George Korbel, a San Antonio attorney who serves on a Federal Election Commission panel, offered a list of how-to's for election thievery. Korbel and Strake said the lack of state and federal prosecution of vote fraud has contributed to

"Little if anything has been done to deal with even blatant election fraud, and this includes both the state and federal authorities with jurisdiction to handle the matters," Korbel said. Officials from the secretary of state's office agreed with the Hispanic leaders that Attorney General Mark White has a poor record on election fraud matters.

'The record speaks for itself," said Doug Caddy, director of the elections division for the secretary of state. "There just was nothing being done to pursue these violations. From the attorney general on down you have a record of failure to prosecute.

White denied the allegation. He said all cases referred to his office have been pursued.

"It appears that the only one unaware of these efforts is the spokesman for the secretary of state's office who has been in Texas only four months after coming here from Washington, D.C, and who wrote the book "How They Rig Our Elections'," White

Panel members said the hearing was called to bring attention to problems Mexican-Americans face at the polls.

Vilma Martinez, president of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, said, "I have often said that Texas is for Chicanos what Mississippi is for blacks."

Caddy and Shad Jefferies, staff attorney, said the secretary of state's office has found several obvious vote fraud cases. However, Caddy said, it is sometimes difficult to get local prosecutors interested in Caddy recounted his investigation in San Patricio County earlier this year. He said "virtually nothing was done right" in the absentee portions of the May primary and June runoff. Caddy was upset with the local prosecutor's handling of the case. "We're not ready yet to ask the federal prosecutors to move in yet ... but we are reserving that option," said Caddy.

Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said White has shown a "total disregard of citizens' voting rights."

Strake told the panel he is appointing about 150 volunteers to "prowl" the polls and be available to settle disputes and problems.

New swimming class

Alamo YMCA is taking registration for a new swimming class for 3, 4 and 5 year olds. The tadpole class, which begins Nov. 4, will meet on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 2:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Parents are encouraged to enroll their preschoolers in the fall and winter sessions as the pool is kept at a warm 85-90 degrees. Blow dryers are available in the locker rooms for hair-drying after Participants need not be Y members to take swimming lessons at Alamo Y. The nursery is open during all swimming classes.

How to steal an election

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - You say your candidate is a vote or two short of getting that important seat on the school board or the city

That can easily be corrected if you can get your hands on some absentee ballots, according to a member of the Federal Election Commission Panel on Multilingual Elections. "In some areas up to 50 percent of the ballots will be absentee," said attorney George Korbel of San Antonio. "This means for as many as 20 days before the election ballots are available to be spoiled, removed or replaced.' Korbel, speaking before a panel of leaders of Hispanic organizations Wednesday, gave a virtual primer on stealing close elections.

Korbel has been an attorney in several voting rights suits in federal court.

'In large part because of the failure of governmental intervention, election fraud will be uncovered or dealt with only in the extreme or unusual situation," he said.

The biggest problem you'll face is getting into the absentee box, Korbel said, because state law requires two locks on the box, with one key going to the sheriff and one to the county clerk.

"The possibility of their cooperation in an endeavor to maintain the status quo would not be an unreasonable assumption. The political lore of South and West Texas is filled with much to support it," he said.

Once you're in the box, he said, the rest is easy. Here's all you do:

- Check for ballots on which voters chose not to vote in every race. If the voter didn't vote in your candidate's race, just mark the vote for your man or woman. "This fraud would have almost no possibility of detection," said Korbel.

- When you find a ballot that went the wrong way, simply ruin it. A couple of extra holes on a punch card ballot, or a few errant marks on a paper ballot will do the trick, Korbel said.

Candidates getting nastier

By The Associated Press

With the race seemingly getting closer as the Nov. 4 election draws nearer, President Carter and Ronald Reagan are more and more doing away with political niceties. Reagan is calling Carter 'incompetent," and the president says the Republicans are spreading around "horse manure."

The comments came Monday as a New York Times-CBS poll was released showing the president 1 percentage point ahead of Reagan. CBS said the race was still to close to call, but it was the first major poll putting Carter ahead.

Carter made his "horse manure" remark to a crowd in Waco, Texas, as he displayed a pair of cowboy boots he said had been given him by Democratic Rep. Jack Brooks of Texas.

'I grew up on a farm and I know you need boots for things besides stomping Republicans," Carter said. "Republicans have a habit of spreading a lot of horse manure around right before an election, and lately, as you also know, it's been getting pretty deep all over this country.

Reagan, speaking at Centenary College in Louisiana, said of Carter: "The man who is asking four more years is incompetent to

Carter and Reagan also traded more jabs over the hostage issue, while independent candidate John Anderson said in Washington he hopes the hostages can be released "immediately" and

"To whose political advantage that innurs is of little consequence as far as I'm concerned.'

Anderson also said in an interview with The Associated Press that he may run for president again in 1984 as head of a third

"Well, here it is 12 years later, and we still don't know what Mr. Nixon's secret plan was to win the Vietnam War. Now, how many of you Texans with sound judgment familiar with history believe that Ronald Reagan has a secret plan to get the hostages back?"

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A recently fortified railroad embankment holding back water from a broken levee in the San Joaquin Valley gave way early today, flooding farmland, routing residents and threatening an aqueduct system that supplies water to more than a million people.

The Sante Fe Railway embankment gave way about 2: 15 a.m. as a freight train crossed, leaving a 100-foot breach, according to Lt. Fred Wilson of the San Joaquin County Sheriff's Department.

Two of the train engines slipped off the tracks into the water, but there were no injuries, he said. An evacuation of about 75 farm families living in the sparsely-populated Lower Jones Tract was ordered, authorities said. Helicopters from the California Highway Patrol and the San Joaquin County Sheriff's Depaytment airlifted residents from their homes. But authorities allowed some farmers to remain in the threatened area so that valuable farm equipment could be moved to higher ground. For weeks, the man-made embankment located near Stockton about 40 miles east of San Francisco has been the primary barrier keeping delta floodwaters from the San Joaquin Valley from inundating additional fertile farmland and drinking water pipe Below the embankment is a network of open aqueducts and pipelines that supply about 1.1 million people in Oakland, Berkeley and other east San Francisco Bay area communities with fresh water. East Bay Municipal Water District workers immediately shut down pumps that boost the water from the aqueduct system pipelines to the East Bay area. That would reduce the flow of water from the system from the 300-million gallons a day to about 200 million gallons, said Dave Vossbrink, a district official.

Officials were considering closing down the aqueduct system, but Vossbrink emphasized that the district has a six-month supply of water in resevoirs and a closure would have no immediate impact on water supplies

'We are keeping our fingers crossed," he said."There is an absolute threat" to the water supply system.

The water system was not immediately harmed by the break in the embankment, according to officials

But district officials had warned as recently as Tuesday that the aqueduct system was in danger unless large-scale improvements were carried out on the levee system.

On Sept. 26, a levee holding back water from the San Joaquin Delta burst, sending floodwaters over the Lower Jones Tract. More than 5,700 acres of rich farmland, with crops nearly ready to harvest, were inundated there, causing more than $5 million in

Since that 200-foot breach, more than $2.5 million has been spent fortifying the rail embankment and sealing the broken levee.

The levee, which was sealed Friday, is part of a sometimes-fragile network that protects a patchwork of more than 250,000 acres of farmland in the San Joaquin-Sacramento River delta.

President Carter declared the area a major disaster, freeing federal funds for recovery efforts.

Ships collide in San Francisco Bay

loomed out of the fog just 50 feet away.

The skipper and sole crewman aboard the Seattle fishing boat Martin Higgins escaped serious injury Wednesday when their vessel collided with the container ship President Grant.

The 78-foot fishing boat, believed sinking, was later lost in the fog. The collision occurred about two miles outside the Golden Gate. The 17,342-ton President Grant was inbound with containers from the Far East. The fishing boat was outbound after selling a catch of albacore at Fisherman's Wharf.

The 820-foot President Grant had already picked up its local pilot offshore, but the captain, James Colivas, retained ultimate command, a spokesman for American President Lines said.

"I thought I was going to die," said Michael

'I was hanging on so hard they would have had to pull my arm out of the joint," said Matthews, describing the moment after the impact. An instant later, he and Blocker were in the water with the Martin Higgins taking water fast.

Blocker had the President Grant on radar when it was six miles away but didn't see the ship until it appeared out of the fog about 50 feet away.

"The President Grant hit us broadside," he said. He estimated the speed of the freighter at about 25 miles an hour.

Richard L. Tavrow, senior vice president for the San Francisco-based American President Lines, declined comment pending a company investigation. Another company source, Steve Potash, said the Cost is primary reason solar power not feasible

Cost is the primary reason why solar and wind power are not feasible for the near future, Dale Scarth told members of the Downtown Lions Club

Scarth, vice president of operations for Texas Electric Service Company in Fort Worth, spoke on "Texas Electric and the Permian Basin -Who Needs It?"

"Energy affects all of us," he said. "And it's a fairly new arrival on being a major concern for everybody. It's something the nation is still wrestling with because of its newness.

"Since gas, oil and electricity are our main sources of energy today, the question keeps coming up: what will we do tomorrow? The sun puts out more energy every six seconds than the United States consumers in a year, and there are some areas where solar energy is useful. But it's marginal to poor in most areas, including Scarth examined the various uses of solar energy, for direct heating and cooling - the cost is prohibitive and for generation of electricity. "There is some experimenting beingdone, using solar power to generate electricity directly, but that would take a breakthrough. don't think enough energy will come out of solar power as a source to have much of an impact on the needs of the Permian Basin."

Wind power is another source of energy being examined. But, said Scarth, "how do you have the blades designed to give you enough power at a low generating speed and keep it from self-destructing when you have a high wind?

'There are some places where wind power might be applicable, but the only application would be as a way to get power out of the wind and depend on the power company to back it up. The problem then is that the wind generator isn't worth very much because we still have to charge the same amount for service. You only save on the amount of fuel used. "That," said Scarth, "leaves us looking into the future to get energy out of the mundane things we have been getting it out of - oil and gas and nuclear and coal."

He pointed out that TESCO is almost to the point where 50 percent of the energy it supplies comes from lignite coal and 20 percent from its nuclear plant. "I can sum it up by saying this county needs the oil and gas industry, the electric industry, and we will need it for as far in the future as any of us

Police burned by scalding water

Two Midland police officers received burns Wednesday when a federal prisoner threw hot water on them, police said.

Officer Joe Strange was acting as jailer about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday when he reported that federal prisoners were beating on the jail walls, complaining of not getting their cigarettes for the day. Officer Ed Longoria, who was working at the booking desk, came up to ask about the noise. While he was in the jail, Strange said he went around the corridor to turn off the prisoners' television set.

While he was gone, Longoria said one prisoner threw hot water on him, burning him on the head and back. When Strange returned to the front of the cells, the same prisoner also threw hot water on him. The prisoner then jammed the cell door with a mop handle.

The two officers advised the prisoners to unjam the door, at which time another prisoner jammed another door with a walking cane. The federal prisoners were ordered to return to their cells. Additional officers came to the jail as back-up, and the prisoners were eventually locked in their cells for the remainder of the eve-

Neither officer required medical attention as a result of their burns.

MIDLAND COUNTY Sheriff's deputies arrested two men, ages 44 and 57, Wednesday evening about 5:30.

Sgt. David Garcia said on Oct. 15 he received a call from a woman who had bought a coupon, entitling her to have her picture taken. She went to the motel room being used as a studio, had her photo taken and was told the prints would arrive in the mail within 10 days. However, the photographs never came, so she notified the Sheriff's Department.

Garcia said he kept hearing about these men, and Wednesday heard

they were in Midland at the Holidome on West Wall Avenue. He went to room 150, and got one of the coupons the men were reportedly selling.

The coupon was for Royalty Frontier Studios out of California with a regional office in Denton. Garcia said when he contacted the studios' offices, he was told the two men worked for the company about a month ago but did not now. Garcia and other deputies returned to the room and arrested the two men for violating the deceptive business law.

HE SAID THEY are also investigating whether the two men are tied to a similar incident in San Angelo.

Bond this morning was set at $20,-000 by Peace Justice Robert H. Pine on a charge of rape filed against Don Alfred Egloff, 37, of San Angelo.

Deputies are investigating the rape which reportedly occurred about 3 a.m. today east of Midland.

It was reported to police about 4:50 a.m. Reports said a 19-year-old San Angelo woman was hitchhiking east of town when she was picked up by a man in a brown truck. On the service road to Interstate Highway 20, she said she was assaulted. She said she then saw a truck parked on the side of the service road.

According to reports, the woman jumped out of the brown truck and ran to the parked truck, beating on the doors to get attention. The driver of the parked truck opened his door, and the woman jumped inside.

A short time later, police stopped a truck matching the description given by the woman. She identified the man as her attacker, reports said. He remained in County Jail this morning.

A 21-YEAR-OLD man was in City Jail this morning on charges of misdemeanor possession of marijuana. Officers stopped the vehicle on south Big Spring Street for running a red light, and arrested the driver for being intoxicated. While searching the vehicle, officers found a clear plastic bag containing what they believed to be marijuana.

Accidents kept everyone busy Wednesday.

Odessa Highway Patrol officers were called to cover an accident on West Highway 80, two miles west of Terminal, because all Midland DPS officers were busy.

According to Trooper Jimmy Cardenas, Richard Bufford of Odessa was westbound on U.S. 80 when two concrete objects fell off the back of his truck and landed on the highway about 4:51 p.m. As Ruben Galindo of McCamey approached the objects. the two cars in front of him swerved, but he was unable to see the objects until it was too late. Galindo's vehicle struck the objects, and Galindo received minor injuries. He was treated and released at Midland Memorial emergency room. Charles Howard Foster Sr., of 3914 Tanner Drive, was treated and released after his car struck a fence in the 3300 block of West Golf Course Road. The accident occurred at 7:02

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT had plenty of calls to keep them busy Wednesday, too.

It started with a house fire at 3:27 p.m. at 1008 S. Fort Worth Street. The house was occupied by Jack Lee Jones and owned by William Curry. Cause of the fire has not been determined. The house received heavy damage in the blaze.

Firemen also handled a dumpster fire at 10:16 p.m. in the rear of 1405 S. Terrell St

Absentee voting in Midland continues to mount, as 1,427 people have voted in person here since absentee voting began Oct. 15 in the County Clerk's Office in the Midland County Courthouse, County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry said after the polls closed Wednesday on the sixth day of balloting.

Voting will continue from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays through Oct. 31. On Wednesday, 284 voted absentee, and 52 absentee ballots were mailed out to bring the mail-out ballots stateside and overseas to 1,239. "It has been steady," Ms. Cherry said of the balloting.

The heaviest balloting came on Tuesday, when 301 voted in person, and the low count was 151 on the first day of absentee voting. In 1976's presidential election year, 4,418 absentee ballots were cast. All told, 27,369 voted that year in Midland County. The turnout reflected about two-thirds of the total voter registration of 37,393. This year, 44,102 are registered to vote in Midland County in the Nov. 4 general election, according to Janeice Builta, the county's deputy voter

The last day to register to vote in the election was Oct. 5 - 30 days prior

'Scared Straight' inmate held for armed robbery

RIDGEFIELD, N.J. (AP) - Cullen Darby, a paroled convict who spent nine years in the "Scared Straight" project trying to persuade juveniles not to be criminals, is back in jail on new charges of armed robbery and attempted murder, officials say.

Darby, paroled in January 1978 and president of the Lifers Foundation Inc., a private group that works with juveniles, was being held Wednesday in Bergen County Jail.

Darby, 38, of Jersey City, was arrested Sunday while sitting in a parked car. He was charged with robbing a supermarket of an undetermined amount of cash on Saturday and with firing a shot at a pursuing policeman. No one was hurt in that

Man accused in murder of couple turns self in

He reportedly burst into tears when told he could receive the death penalty if convicted. He went quietly to jail and was held on $100,000 bond, Ms. Matter said.

to jury with baseball bat

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) - Accused ax murderess Candace Montgomery sobbed openly as her attorney swung a baseball bat over his head in a dramatic recreation he says demonstrates his client acted in self defense when she hacked her exlover's wife to death.

Don Crowder substituted the bat for a three-foot ax believed to be the murder weapon as he told jurors Mrs. Montgomery was fighting for her own life when she killed Betty Gore, a fellow church choir member.

"You don't know who attacked whom with the ax, do you?" he asked several law enforcement officers called as witnesses during Wednesday's testimony.

Raising the bat over his head, Crowder said Mrs. Montgomery could have wrested the weapon from an attacker while the weapon was raised in an unwieldly position.

The 30-year-old defendant, a mother of two, was visibly shaken by the demonstration and wept during much of the testimony

As prosecutors paraded four lawmen across the stand, Crowder repeatedly intimated that the killing was sloppy because it was unplanned and because his client was fighting for her own life.

Police photographs introduced Wednesday show Mrs. Gore, 30, was struck squarely in the face with the

The 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston gave the go-ahead for the transfers Wednesday in overturning two district court rulings supporting Puerto Rico's efforts to keep the refugees out.

The first refugees are to be sent to Puerto Rico from two camps in Dade County, Fla., on Monday or Tuesday, according to Paul Lane, a State Department official in Puerto Rico who is coordinating the refugee transfer.

Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo of Puerto Rico said he had ordered commonwealth attorneys in Washington, D.C., to take whatever steps were necessary to overturn the decision, possibly including an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Several states consider lotteries

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer
Several states will decide whether to hold 'em or fold 'em in referendum voting on legalized gambling next month.

Voters in Colorado and Arizona will cast ballots Nov. 4 on whether to allow state lotteries, and Texas, West Virginia and Missouri will consider joining the 38 other states where nonprofit charitable and service organizations may run raffles and bingo

Washington, D.C. voters will consider both bingo and a city-run lottery and numbers game.

The New Jersey ballot includes two gambling measures. One would expand pari-mutuel horseracing from six to seven days a week, and the other would make it easier for penny arcade operators to raise prize values.

The lottery balloting would allow Colorado, Arizona and Washington, D.C. to cash in on the more than $1 billion in revenue earned by the 14 other tates with government-run lotteries.

Colorado's constitutional amendment would clear the way for a state sweepstakes approved by voters four years ago but then declared unconstitutional by the courts. The plan calls for $26 million in expected revenue to be used to purchase and develop public parks and open spaces.

Arizonans for Tax Reduction, a group of businessmen leading the campaign for a lottery in that state, claim it would ease taxpayers' burden by $25 million

But the formidable opposition in Arizona, which in 1970 voted 3-1 against a lottery, is led by Gov. Bruce Babbitt, who calls the lottery "a shabby method of raising money for the state by preying on its weakest members.

Another powerful opponent, Republican House Majority Leader Burton Barr of Phoenix, frequently cites the recent multimillion-dollar fixing scandal in the Pennsylvania state lottery: "Disclosures of a public ripoff in Pennsylvania are a good example of what could happen. The District of Columbia, where voters only last May defeated a more wide-open proposal including pari-mutuel betting, also has strong opposition to its revised measure for a lottery and legalized bingo.

While proponents argue that gambling could raise $40 million annually, the district's traditionally influential clergy warn that it would prey upon the poor in Washington's predominantly black commun-

West Virginia's constitutional amendment to allow bingo and raffles has drawn little campaign attention thus far, but attention is hardly lacking for similar measures in Texas and Misssouri.

In Texas, supporters call bingo "the game of God, grandmothers and good works," and say it is already played in some areas while local authorities look the

"It's $4.5 billion and it's unregulated, untaxed and out of control," one leader, R. Lee Hayes of Houston,

A Texas House study group concedes that bingo has earned more money for charity than any other type of fund raising, but adds:

"It victimizes low-income people, especially middle-aged and elderly women. Lonely people or poor people trying to increase their incomes by a few pitiful dollars are lured into the addiction of throwing away their money, even from welfare checks, sometimes against overwhelmingly negative odds, in

Missouri, Democratic Rep. Francis Markwell o St. Louis County says bingo is a good form of recreation for the elderly while providing revenue

But St. Louis' Christian Civic Foundation in St. ouis, representing 13 religious denominations, also condemns the Missouri bingo proposal as a form of

"It's a moral issue," says the Rev. Cleve Horne, a spokesman for the foundation. "Gambling encourages us to try to get something for nothing. Our state doesn't need to put a stamp of approval on this."

Long, hard road back

One would think that any nation of people which perceives a scourge in its midst would rise up to the occasion, if it were possible, and cure the ill.

And, yet, such has not been the case with inflation. The United States now is suffering through its second year of 13% inflation. In fact throughout the decade of the 1970s, the rate of inflation gradually worsened.

It hasn't always been that way. Although it seems hard to remember, for almost 20 years after World War II inflation averaged only 2.5% annually. At that time, even that inflation rate was a source of genuine concern.

Why, you might ask, did the inflation balloon start to rise, change into a speeding locomotive and, eventually, metamorphosize into an ever-growing, all-consuming monster? What can we Americans do to fight inflation?

As for the cause of inflation, some thoughts were offered the other day by David Rockefeller, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank. He said, "Overspending by government has created nightmarish deficits for 19 of the past 20 years, with a total deficit exceeding $400 billion."

That's a significant assessment coming from Mr. Rockefeller,

Have we just been careless? Or were we brought here by design? Is it too late to change and to salvage the country?

Inflation is manmade. That's good because that means that it can be controlled by man although to effect that control does take a great deal of discipline.

First, in the game plan to control inflation, we must stop expecting and demanding so much of our government. We must acknowledge the fact that some of the things we want we simply may not be able to afford.

Secondly, we must stop believing the politicians who tell us they'll give us whatever it is we need and want. There is no such thing as a free lunch; if we want something, we'll end up footing the bill for it.

Third, we must elect only those politicians who embrace our economic philosophy because others will not represent our best inter-

And, last but not least, we've got to be strong and willing to sacrifice some because the way back to economic stability in this country will be long and difficult.

hay with this story, but I would like to tell you exactly what happened. I was drunk at the time. The pressures of this job can drive anyone to take a nip once in a while. I took my first one when I got up in the morning. By eleven o'clock I was smashed. I didn't even remember putting the bill before Congress until some rotten reporter smeared it all over the front pages of the newspaper. This country is getting fed up with an irresponsible media that keeps prying into the private lives of its citizens.

"Congressman, can we talk about the hit-and-run charges pending against you after an accident on Route 95?

"I've discussed the accident in detail and never hid it from my constituents. I had been to a rally, and stopped off at a bar to relax with some good friends. We had 10 or 11 vodkas apiece for the road. I don't know if I've mentioned this tonight or not, but I am an alcoholic, and as soon as the stuff touches my lips I'm a goner. But let me say this. I can be a better congressman now than I've ever been before because I'm aware of my problem and I'm willing to face up to it. Wouldn't you rather have someone represent you who knows he can't handle booze than someone who doesn't?

"Congressman Marbitt, is it true that you took kickbacks from your staff and have been pinching your secretaries for the past four years.'

"A Congressional Ethics Committee is investigating those charges now. But I do not see what that has to do with my holding political office. I have served this district well. I stand for the American Flag, the family, and abolishing waste in government. It's obvious that if you hadn't been doing a good job in Washington the Justice Department would not have tried to get you. We're honored that with all your problems you would still choose to run. partment's stalling, shifting and stonewalling in the investigation of a $30 million Libyan bribery plot gives off the familiar whiff of a Watergate.

The plot was cooked up by fugitive financier Robert Vesco, who conspired with henchmen of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi. Stripped to its essentials, the scheme involved paying off Democratic Party bigshots with Libyan petrodollars to obtain the release of U.S.-made transport planes that had been embargoed by the State

Only two planes were delivered. But details of the conspiracy, fed to the U.S. attorney's office in New York by an undercover informant and Vesco associate, provided evidence that cried out for a thorough investigation. My associate Indy Badhwar has reviewed this evidence, including transcripts of taped telephone conversations and investigators' notes. It is shocking.

There were clear indications that the investigation could have borne bitter fruit for the Carter administration and it was allowed to die on the

The Justice Department's handling of the case raises some disturbing questions:

- Why was the investigation called off by higher-ups in Washington? The $35,000 requested by the New York investigators to keep digging was a mere pittance compared, for example, to the hundreds of thousands the Justice Department was willing to invest in the Abscam caper. Did the direction of the Vesco probe - pointing to the White House instead of Capitol Hill - have anything to do with the decision? Why has Philip Heymann, head of Justice's criminal division, suppressed documents relating to the investigation? In response to inquiries from the Senate Judiciary

Anderson

Committee, he has stonewalled in the classic Watergate manner. Heymann's explanation for keeping the lid on is that he must protect the grand jury investigation. This is preposterous; the U.S. attorney's investigation was virtually extinguished by the refusal of funding. Is it possible that Heymann is using the grand jury secrecy requirement as a shield to conceal, rather than reveal, the scan-proved unable to obtain a single indictment in the genuine, unsolicited case? Yet the Libscam case has been under investigation since February

- Why did Justice Department bigmatters himself and should not be

wigs reject the advice of their Public Integrity Section that a Watergatestyle special prosecutor be named to get to the bottom of the affair? When Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., repeatedly pressed for an answer to this question, Heymann responded with phrases worthy of a Nixon-era apparatchik stonewalling Watergate queries: "Because I think it's a matter of executive privilege," he said. He added that the attorney general "ought to enjoy the lonely splendor and pain of calling special prosecutor

Small colleges across the nation, clear in the fact that he recently gave up 14 years of security as dean of the fine arts department of Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo to take on the tough job as director of the University of Southern California's Idyllwild remote mountain campus, a facility that has endured 20 years of ups and downs, with considerable "Yes," Massachusetts native and

Boston University graduate Holmes said in an interview, "There are lots of problems for small colleges, and they may get worse. There are economic problems and there are problems associated with demograph-

Holmes said that only in the Southwest and in Florida is there some concurrent growth. "Most states," he said, "are experiencing population shifts out, particularly in the North-

"Even those states not losing families are having a tough time staying even in supporting their colleges, and some will be closing by 1990.

There are figures that support Holmes' contention. In the brief period of one year, from 1979 to 1980, the number of high school seniors across the nation decreased by 32 percent. The trend toward lower birthrates will further reduce the college age population during the next decade.

John Pinkerman

"The state of Michigan," Holmes said, "is fairly representative of the nation. In 1979 there were 156,000 high school seniors (potential college students.) In 1980 there were 106,000. Michigan supports 37 state institutions — 14 universities and 23 community colleges, plus all the private colleges. Some of those face tough days ahead. The same holds for New England, where the economics and the demographics pose similar problems.

In the face of all these depressing statistics and projections, what is there for Holmes to be optimistic

"Plenty," he said. "This job on a campus of 200 acres of pines, oaks and cedars, in the middle of one of the most beautiful environments in America, offers a challenge second to none. It involves broadening our base and our thrust, and I venture that similar challenges and opportunities are available to many other small institutions across the nation.

Holmes pointed particularly to what USC-Idyllwild calls its relderhostel" program as one means of making a fascinating educational opportunity available to more people. 'Our programs in the arts," he said, "have been concentrated in the summer months, and participating ages have been mostly in the 6 to 18 age bracket. When September comes and these young people go back to other schools, everything seems to stop

"There is no reason for this. The sky is just as beautiful here in October as it is in July, and what we need to do is expand our fall-winter-spring programs." The same opportunity, with a slightly different thrust, is available to other colleges, he said.

It has to do with something along the line of "Life Begins at 55." Holmes insists there is a great and enthusiastic audience available in older persons' appreciation of the educational experience. "These people of later years," he said, "have more money than the younger students. They have more power, more clout, and we intend to get them up here in the elderhostel program, in fall-winter-spring seminars, symposiums and in 'think tank' projects." (The USC elderhostel program in Idyllwild has provided for elderly groups spending a few days, a week or longer on the campus, sometimes conducting their own programs, sometimes calling on USC for lecturers.)

Holmes aims eventually at a program in which his staff prepares full programs for all kinds of groups that might gain from a seminar or other activity in the exciting surroundings of the San Jacinto Mountains, 110 miles east of Los Angeles. "What we intend to do," he said, "is extend our thrust from the arts to broad humanistic disciplines. Arts really relate directly to the aesthetics and conditions of life and if an organization addresses itself to the conditions of life an association with humanism in its broadest sense naturally follows.

"We will initiate our own programs - conferences, serious study in a retreat-type atmosphere, and we will use our elderhostels as a model in some cases.

"I am optimistic that movement in such a direction will be successful and it can be successful for many other small colleges that face serious difficulties in the coming decade and

EARTH, Texas (AP) - News of House Speaker Billy Clayton's acquittal in the Texas Brilab trial swept across this small rural community faster than a West Texas dust storm as townspeople jammed telephone lines to rejoice about the victory of their favorite hometown boy.

"We're pretty jubilant about it," said Ray Freedman, publisher of the Earth News-Sun. "I don't think there was ever much thought around here he was guilty. Just about anybody you'd talk to around here is a friend of

"He had the whole community behind him, the whole area, really," Freedman said, after receiving word of the verdict Wednesday afternoon. A Houston federal jury deliberated eight hours before finding Clayton and Austin attorneys Randall Wood and Donald Ray innocent of extortion, racketeering, fraud and conspiricy. The charges spelled out a scheme to buy Clayton's influence in reopening a multi-million dollar state employees' health insurance contract and grew out of a 10-month FBI undercover operation. Word of the trial's outcome spread quickly, and by early evening townsfolk had started to plan a big homecoming party for Clayton when he returns to his farm.

'We never had any doubt what kind of a person Billy Clayton is," said neighbor and longtime friend Dorothy Parish. "We've just known him too long ... and knew he'd never do anything like what they said he did."

Clayton's family had anxiously awaited the jury's conclusion, but speaker's younger brother said their good faith was never shaken.

Eighteen members of Begin's 64member ruling coalition in Parliament have sponsored a bill to make the Golan Heights a part of Israel. The measure is to be sent to Begin's Cabinet for consideration. Dovish members of the Cabinet are expected to oppose the measure, fearing it will hurt the peace process with Egypt.

Opponents say the Golan Heights bill will compound the diplomatic damage Israel suffered as a result of its controversial Jerusalem Bill. The bill, passed by the Parliament last July, wrote the annexation of Arab East Jerusalem into Israeli law and prompted all 13 foreign nations with embassies in Jerusalem to move their offices to Tel Aviv.

Supporters of Golan Heights annexation say that since Syria refuses to enter into peace talks with Israel, and recently signed a friendship treaty with the Soviet Union, there is no hope for a negotiated agreement on the future of the 400-square-mile plateau, which now supports about two dozen

Toll at 64 in grammar school blast

BILBAO, Spain (AP) - A powerful explosion ripped through a grammar school in Spain's northern iron-mining region today, killing at least 64 children, officials said. More than 100 others were reported injured, many of them seriously.

Rescue workers dug frantically through the debris and some grief-stricken parents carried home the bodies of their sons and daughters after the blast, blamed on gas, partially demolished the "Marcelino Ugalde" school in Ortuella, eight miles northwest of

Officwals said many children were still trapped and cries could be heard.

There were about 700 children aged 6 to 10 in the state-run school, comprised of three buildings. The explosion almost completely destroyed one of them,

The tragedy, police said, was apparently due to the explosion of a propane gas tank outside the demo-lished building. That blast caused the explosion of a boiler in the building's basement, police said.

The explosion's full impact hit a classroom where there were more than 40 children, officials said. All of them were believed killed, as well as their woman teacher. All rescue services in Vizcaya Province, one of

Spain's Basque provinces, were mobilized. More than 5,000 persons were working in the rescue opera-King Juan Carlos and Premier Adolfo Suarez were immediately informed of the tragedy. Officials said more than 100 children were injured and taken to hospitals in Bilbao and nearby Basque city of Vitoria. Other injured were taken to homes in Ortuella, where they received treatment by doc-

Court temporarily halts deportation of W. Bank mayors

JERUSALEM (AP) - The Israeli Supreme Court issued a temporary injunction today against the deportation of two Palestinian mayors from the occupied West Bank until their case is reviewed by the court.

Judge Miriam Ben Porath issued the injunction, which was seen primarily as a technical measure allowing the mayors to stay close at hand until their appeal is ruled upon, probably next week. Israeli military authorities had already promised not to deport the mayors until their case was dealt with by

Mayors Fahd Qawasmeh of Hebron and Mohammed Milhem of Halhoul appealed to the court to overrule the deportation order issued by Israeli occupation authorities six months ago. The two were exiled from the West Bank in the wake of the May 3 Palestinian attack in Hebron that killed six Jewish women shouted the names of children who remained unaccounted for. Eyewitnesses said many parents fainted and others carried the bodies of their children home.

Rescue officials said many of the bodies were mutilated. Cars parked by the school were damaged by flying debris, and the blast smashed window panes in nearby apartment buildings. Some passers-by were also injured. Today's tragedy recalled that of December 1978, when a school bus and a train collided at a railroad crossing near Salamanca, killing 27 children and an adult, and injuring 36 others. The July, 1978 crash and explosion of a tanker truck carrying propylene gas at a seaside campsite near Tarrangona, Spain killed 215 people.

Nigeria looks to Brasilia

Associated Press Writer

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Nigeria has turned to Brasilia as a model for a new inland capital it plans to build in the West African plains. Nigerian officials here say the new capital of Abuja, planned on a central Nigerian site about 400 miles northeast of the coastal capital of Lagos, will be an attempt to create new incentives for industrial and agricultural growth as well as an accessible administrative center for the nation of 77

The capital study project is one result of Brazil's strong effort to increase economic ties with black Africa. The government of President Joao Figueiredo says it considers increased friendship and coopera-tion with Africa a logical byproduct of similar experience as former European colonies. Brazil is similar to Ni-

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

BIG SPRING - Coach Spike Dykes returns to Memorial Stadium here Friday night, but this time with the Midland Lee Rebels as they take on the Big Spring Steers in a District 5-5A football game.

Dykes coached here in 1968 and 1969 as the Steer head man and he brings a powerful ground attack, led by Calvin Riggs, the league's leading rusher with 586 yards in 101 carries. The 190-pound junior rushed for 115 yards last week against a good Abilene Coo-per defense. The Rebels and Cougars battled to a 21-21 tie in that one.

JOINING RIGGS in the Rebel backfield is the No. 5 rusher in tailback Rodney Hemphill. Hemphill, a 165pound senior, has 427 yards in 74 rushes. The rest of the backfield will include Barry Corley, 170-pound senior at quarterback and Kevin Sparks, a 150-pound junior at the lack of passing. The Rebels only have 172 yards through the airways in six games this season. The only pass thrown last week against Cooper was intercepted.

Big Spring, too, has a good infantry attack and very little striking power through the airways.

The Rebels have ground out 1,411 yards rushing on the year with Riggs and Hemphill paving the way. Lee brings a 3-2-1 season record into the game while Big Spring is 2-4. The Rebs have a 1-1-1 5-5A mark while the Steers are 0-3 and are on a 40-game losing streak in league play. Their last win was against Abilene Cooper

Conally and Brown also man the tackle slots on the rugged defensive unit while Riggs plays a defensive end as Dykes uses four players both ways. "We like to get the best athletes we have in the game," said Dykes.

DYKES AND HIS coaching staff have some ties with Big Spring since two of his assistants have coached or played at Big Spring. "They (Big Spring) will have plenty of incentive to play well against us, " said

Big Spring has two fine runningbacks in Bobby Earl Williams, an 185-pound junior and Richard Evans a 150-pound senior. Williams is the No. 2 rusher in 5-5A with 538 yards in 70 carries. Evans has rushed for 355 vards in 64 cracks into the line.

Greg Jones, 250-pound senior, heads the Steer offensive line along with tackle Mike Schooler, a 205-pounder. Lupe Ontiveros, a 190-pound, adds some more size to the Steer line.

"Big Spring has little depth and late in the games, it has hurt them, " said Dykes. In two of the three district games they lost, the Steers were leading going into the fourth quarter."

Both clubs enter the fray unbeaten in district action. Stanton is 3-0 in district while the Cowboys are 2-0, 4-2 overall.

Defense should play a big role in the contest. In six games this year Plains has surrendered just 48 points. On the other side of the pigskin, Stanton, in seven contests, has allowed 59 points. Offensively the squads appear to be evenly matched. So far this season both squads are scoring just a little over 21 points a game. Last week Plains broke lose to score 41 points against O'Donnell.

PHILADELPHIA — The sun shone brighter here Wednesday than it ever has before. All 105,000 people gathered in JFK Stadium Wednesday afternoon would have agreed: First prize, at least in baseball, is now two weeks in Philadelphia. "Ben Franklin must be rollin' over for this one," said the glowing relief pitcher who now has had a merchant marine tugboat named after him: Tug McGraw. The Philadelphia Phillies are the champions of baseball for the first time since their birth in 1883, and, by a delicious irony that only cynical, often-burned Philadelphians might understand, they have the Phillies all to themselves. Nobody else seems to Other underdog champions who have won their World Series rings in far less valiant fashion than these Phillies have been appropriated by the nation.

The 1969 Miracle Mets, the last crew to win a title with so many visible holes in their hull and so much desperately needed good fortune, were adopted by the entire country, as fiercely as New York tried to hug them to death.

But, it now appears, nobody much, except Philadelphians, really has a feel for the Phillies.

MOSTLY, it has to do with suffering. The real kind.

Few teams in baseball history have accomplished more with less, or done it more dramatically than these Phillies. And few have been more worth examining and appreciating. But, they are a team that fits few existing tastes. They are as hard to pet and chuck under the chin as the bare fanged attack dogs that ringed the Veterans Stadium field as the Phillies wrestled and pounded each other while barreling to their clubhouse after their sixth game triumph over Kansas City here late Tuesday night.

In the cheerful, youthful world of athletics, the Phillies are frequently neurotic, often ingrown, always complex and as psychologically kinky as the old grandfather who keeps complaining, to anybody who still will listen, about some insult he suffered years and years ago$and can't for-

When the Phillies clinched their division title, they held one of the most disturbing victory celebrations ever seen. They smashed champagne bottles into garbage cans so violently that players were ducking flying glass. The team split into three parts. Some, like Larry Bowa and Ron Reed, were filled with vindicated anger, screaming and cursing amid the spraying wine. Some, like Mike knew well but would have been just as glad had it stayed hidden. And some, like Steve Carlton and Nino Espinosa, sequestered themselves in a small room and had nothing to do with

ROOKIE Lonnie Smith climbed atop the lockers and led an obscene chant directed against the fans and press. Then, most of the players started to chant their version of the country's standard preseason predictions: "One, Pittsburgh. Two, Montreal. Three, St. Louis. Four, Philadelphia"9 Observers who have been from high school and college athletics through every major American professional sport on to the Olympics, had never seen so much unfocused, intense anger where, presumably, only delight ought to be expected.

It is not a joke, you see, that the Phillies went 97 years without winning a world title. To outsiders, it was grist for humor. But to the Phillies it was a professional and personal insult that kept redoubling.

No sporting press examines in more depth, or picks at scabs by force of habit, more diligently than Philadelphia's The charnel atmosphere around this team has been unique for years. The Boston Red Sox are happy folk by comparison. The Red Sox are romantic, bittersweet quasitragedy. So, Wednesday, Philadelphia embraced the Phillies. It was the kind of loving reconciliation that comes after years of marital friction. The Phillies can be forgiven if they returned the kisses with mixed emotions. Less than a month ago, Bowa said, "These are the worst fans in the world." And Schmidt said, "I wouldn't give these fans credit for anything, not even if they deserved it.'

Their accomplishments are twice as stirring because, as Bowa says, "We're a good team, not a great team," or in Rose's phrase, "We ain't the '61 Yankees or the '76 Reds, but we been gettin' it done.'

Royals Manager Jim Frey was asked what the key was to the Phils'

"I have no idea," he replied. Before the sixth game, Royals leader Hal McRae was asked for general comments.

'We're better than they are, I don't have any doubt of that," he said. "But, down three games to two I wouldn't tell a friend to go out and bet

Hawkeyes' Fry regrets souvenir business venture

By MARGY McCAY

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) - Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry says if he had it to do over, he would not have gone into the souvenir business. Fry and two associates earlier this year formed the Hawkeye Marketing Group, a corporation to sell caps, T-shirts, mugs and other items with university-related emblems and slo-

Recently, with the Hawkeyes struggling on the field, Fry has been criticized for his involvement in the venture. He says the criticism is taking a

"It's really hurt. It's hurt my family and my children deeply," Fry said. "I could care less about the money. The $250 (I invested) is nothing as opposed to all the flak and criticism we've taken.

"I wish I'd never done it." The Iowa coach made those comments in a wide-ranging interview with The Associated Press on his feelings at the mid-point of his second season with the Hawkeyes. A full text of the interview will be made available for release later."

Many items sold by Hawkeye Marketing have a caricature of Fry and a photograph of the coach dominates Iowa's schedule poster. That has prompted critics to charge that Fry is promoting himself rather than the football program.

Fry said that's not so. "I have nothing to do with my caricature on the bear mugs, coffee mugs or the T-shirts. I had nothing to do with my photo on the schedule," he

"This is all from an advertising firm that are professional people that feel like they know what they're doing and I gave them permission to do so. "It wasn't an ego trip for Hayden

Fry said he entered the venture with the idea of contributing a share of the income to the University of Iowa Foundation. However, the foundation decided not to accept the money, fearing an appearance of a conflict of interest.

"I was all motivated by providing the people with goods and giving the foundation 25 percent," Fry said. "If it wasn't good, I can't understand why one of the most respected national firms in the country, the J.C. Penney Co., would put Hawk shops in every one of their stores across the state of

Fry said some fans may have resented his souvenir venture because they aren't used to seeing someone mix coaching and business.

"They somehow think it's unethical for me to be affiliated with something on the outside," he said. "Gee whiz, if I'd had that in my contract I never would have come to Iowa because frankly, I make enough money on the outside and have for some eight or 10 years that I don't have to coach foot-

Football's loneliest bench

Coach, assistant, managers ...that's all

By ALAN ROBINSON

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Hannan (W.Va.) High School probably has the loneliest bench of any high school football team in the United

Oh, there are a couple of managers there, coach Paul Maynard and his assistant coach. But there are no players. None. Not one. That's because Hannan doesn't have any substitutes.

Hannan fields - just barely — an 11-man team. And that's all. Hannan has 11 players who go both ways on offense and defense the entire 48 minutes of every game.

'We've had some injuries, and some kids would start, then quit," said Maynard, a Marshall University graduate. "We've had six injuries — concussions. broken arms, and even one case of appendicitis. If it can happen, it's happened to us.

Maynard met last week with parents and school supporters to discuss whether the team's final three games should be cancelled. The decision was made to play the remaining games with the 11 players still on hand.

Hannan lost to North Gallia (Ohio) High School by 37-0 on Oct. 17 and will play another Ohio school, Ironton St. Joseph's, on Friday at home. The Wildcats will close out their season next week by playing Ceredo-Kenova's junior

Hornung thinks Bart should have passed GB

Former teammate Paul Hornung says Bart Starr says "I think Bart made a mistake taking the Green Bay job. He could have had five other coaching jobs with teams that had a lot more talent than the Packers. But he passed all of them up because he had spent half of his life in Green Bay and loved the team. If anyone is owed a little patience, it's Starr. I think Bart pulled off a power play when he stood his ground and wouldn't resign when the heat was on a few weeks ago...

Hornung also decried a lack of discipline in sports today. "I'm alarmed that an athlete can be caught with dope today and suspended with pay. It makes me believe there are not too many commissioners who have the guts to make a tough decision. They are so afraid of lawsuits that they don't know what stand to take. In our day, we'd have a couple martinis, raise a little hell - and that was considered all wrong. The only thing that made me stop betting on football games was the suspension." ..

San Diego's Padres are letting Dave Winfield talk with the trade with the Yankees. "If Dave goes into the re-entry draft, all we would get would be a June draft choice from the team that signs him," said Ballard Smith, Padres' president. This way, we would get a player with major league experience."...

Paul McNamee ended 46-year-old Ken Rosewall's title hopes, 6-0, 6-3 at Melbourne advancing to the quarterfinals with Ferdi Taygan, Kim Warwick and Peter McNamara...Top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd defeated fellow Stacy Margolin 6-1, 6-3 to move into the second round of the $125,000 Daihatsu Challenge tennis tourna-

An estimated million-plus Phillies fans, operating on a few winks after an all night victory celebration, turned out in mass Wednesday to toast their World Series champs as a noisy parade snaked through the city to JFK Stadium for a victory celebration. "This is the greatest baseball team in the world," Philadelphia Mayor Bill Green told the crowd. "You are the greatest fans in the world. And this is the greatest city in the world. And nobody does it better."... The Kansas City Royals returned home today to the cheering of a small crowd of enthusiastic fans, their manner subdued but not disappointed. 'I'm relieved," said catcher Darrell Porter said the Phillies were an extremely tough opponent. "They kind of shocked us ... It was a good ball game both ways - they just got the breaks, that's all,"...

Ilie Nastase beat Sherwood Stewart in the men's singles final 6-2, 6-3 Wednesday in the Nestle Tennis Classic at the national indoor sta-

SMU coach Ron Meyer will announce after Thursday's practice who will start at quarterback Saturday against the No. 2-ranked Texas in a SWC, but junior Mike Ford says it won't be him. Ford, victimized by eight interceptions in SMU's losses to Baylor and Houston, said he's been told by Meyer the No. 1 quarterback job belongs to either sophomore Mike Fisher or freshman Lance McIlhenny. "Life will go on. I did the best I could my first two years and I've done the best I can for these first six games, but apparently it wasn't good enough.

'Mike has been the starter since he was a 10th grader at Mesquite High School," said Meyer. 'But he also understands that he's not playing

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The day's low round of 74 gave three-time champion Ceil Maclaurin of Savannah, Ga., a three-stroke lead going into the final round of the 23rd North and South Senior Women's Amateur Golf Invitational.

Mrs. Maclaurin was 1 over par Wednesday on Pinehurst Country Club's No. 5 course to give her a 2-round total of 150, 3 ahead of Alice Dye of Delray Beach, Fla., who had a 75 for 153.

ABC's TV gambles — OSU-UM fans howling

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

When ABC decided to move the Texas-Arkansas game from Oct. 18 to Sept. 1 in prime time, the college football schedule left the network with a weak week. The people at ABC circled Alabama-Tennessee and prayed for the Volunteers to make it to last Saturday with at

After opening season losses to Georgia and Southern California, Tennessee has won three straight. That gamble worked well, but the network may not be as lucky Nov.22 when several major college football games are shaping up and ABC may only be able to show one probably Oklahoma-Nebraska.

Two weeks ago, the ABC switchboard lit up when the network televised Ohio State-UCLA. The complaining callers didn't object to that game; it was what that telecast meant down the road — Ohio State-Michigan probably would not be shown for the first time since

This great college football rivalry, which annually decides the Big Ten Conference team in the Rose Bowl, likely would be grounded from the airwaves. That would be reason enough for Woody Hayes to punch out a camera or a cameraman, as the former Ohio State coach has done.

Ohio State and Michigan fans aren't the only ones upset. Chances are that these other Nov. 22 games won't make ABC: No.3 Texas and No.13 Baylor (possibly for the automatic Cotton Bowl berth) and Florida and No.7

ABC IS limited by the NCAA's TV restrictions, which were written into the contract to prevent the network from showing Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Ohio State every week. The NCAA wants to spread the TV wealth around. For a national TV exposure, the teams split $600,000. For a regional TV appearance, they split $423,-

Except for a couple of exceptions, no school can be on more than twice a year and four times over a two-year period. A third appearance in one year - and fifth overall - is only allowed if a game is moved to a special exception date when no games are normally scheduled or it is ABC's one wild card game each

Ohio State has been on ABC twice this year -- against Minnesota and UCLA - so the only way the Buckeyes could meet Michigan on TV would be if the game were designated the wild card. But, unless Oklahoma or Nebraska gets derailed, this annual Big Eight brawl probably will be ABC's wild card game Nov. 22.

These are the kinds of decisions that make ABC's college football package one of the chanciest contracts in TV sports. When ABC began its consecutive college football streak in 1966, appearances were restricted to three for a two-year period with no excep-

IN 14 years, the basic appearance rule for one team has gone up only one game and now ABC has nearly twice as many dates to air games, meaning an actual drop in high quality contests. Meanwhile, ABC's rights payment has gone through the roof. In the third year of a four-year contract, ABC pays $120 million for the entire

The drop in high quality games is reflected in the declining ratings for 1978 and 1979.

"We wish we could put our best foot forward every week, but we can't do that," said Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC Sports. "In future dealings, hopefully there will be a realization on both parts that 23 exposures is too many based on the appearance limita-

This season's team, only 17 players, has come close to victory on several occasions. In the season opener, the Comets led Freeland 7-6 only to lose after a blocked punt produced a game-winning touchdown. Coleman pass receivers dropped four potential touchdown passes in a 14-8 defeat to Sanford-

One of Bindi's major problems at Coleman, a 400-student school, is the small turnout and the resulting necessity for players to play both offense and defense.

"It's hard to have to tell a center that he's got to learn three other positions," says Bindi, who has coached the team for two years.

UH's Bradham named SWC defensive player

HOUSTON (AP) -University of Houston linebacker Steve Bradham says the defending Southwest Conference champions did a lot of standing around in the early season.

"I think we listened too much to what was being said about our key people," Bradham said. "We kept waiting for them to do it all and we just stood around. We finally realized that wasn't going to work. We're not standing around anymore." Although he claims to have little natural athletic ability and says he is slow, Bradham somehow mustered enough ability to make 14 tackles two weeks ago in Houston's 17-13 victory over Texas A&M

The senior starter managed 12 more tackles, six unassisted, and intercepted two passes last week in a 13-11 victory over Southern Meth-

NEW YORK (AP) -Dave Winfield, who could reap the most lucrative contract in major league baseball history before next season begins, declared himself a free agent Wednesday, it was reported by the New York Times.

The slugging outfielder of the San Diego Padres was one of 17 players to opt for free agency in the first day of eligibility. More than 60 players are eligible for free agency and ultimately the reentry draft. Among those also reported by the Times to have declared Wednesday were pitchers Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Bill Travers of the Milwaukee Brewers and Ed Figueroa of the Texas Rangers. Infielder John Milner of the Pittsburgh Pirates also went the free-agent route.

Winfield's declaration came on the heels of reports that the Padres had reached an agreement to trade Winfield to the New York Yankees and would allow the Yankees to discuss a possible contract with him.

CHUCK DAVIS OUTDOORS Vote for Reagan is ro-gun rights vote

For freedom-loving gun owners, now is the time to vote for a man who is totally committed to the principles and the absolute meaning of the Second Amendment to the U.S. Consitu-

The second amendment is that the Right to Keep and Bear Arms applies to the individual citizen, and it is a right inviolate, which cannot be abridged.

Governor Ronald Reagan, a longtime member of the National Rifle Association, is a pro-gun rights, prohunting administration, and promises to put an end to the abusive practices of the Federal gun police-The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

For the first time in its 109 year history the National Rifle Association has formally endorsed a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. The NRA's candidate is my candidate, Governor Ronald Reagan.

In the eyes of pro-gunners President James Carter has been and is a threat to our right to keep and bear

Just before Carter took the oath of office one of his closest political associates issued a threat to Freedom Advocates.

Hamilton Jordan, later Carter's Chief of Staff, told members of the Press: Carter will really go on gun control and really be tough. We're going to get those b

AS PRESIDENT of the United States, James Earl Carter, is where the buck stops. He is ultimately responsible for the anti-gun, anti-hunting assaults that come from his agen-

According to the National Rifle Association the Carter White House drafted new anti-gun legislation which would have created a system of national registration; banned over 75 percent of all handgun models; and would have given the U.S. Attorney General broad powers to snuff out gun ownership by edict.

Carter's office of Management and Budget told Congress that the Department of Civilian Marksmanship should be abolished. At the same time, the Administration ordered destruction of virtually all M1 rifles rifles which historically have been sold to qualified, law-abiding citizens through the DCM program.

In opposition to this move by

Carter, the NRA rallied member support and swamped the White House with individual letters. This letterwriting campaign coupled with the efforts of the NRA's Civil Rights Legal Defense Fund stopped the abolishment move.

TWO OF the nation's more notorious gun control advocates àre Sen. Ted Kennedy and Illinois Rep. Abner Mikva. Both have been active leaders in the move to abolish the meaning of the Second Amendment.

Jimmy Carter, with the full knowledge of Mikva's activities against private ownership of guns, has appointed Rep. Ebner Mikva to the United States Court of Appels for the District of Columbia. Now that Carter's antigun man has a seat on the second most powerful court in the land, he is being touted as a nominee for the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Carter Administration attempted, with a backdoor move by the Occupational Health and Safety Administration, to ban hunting on privately owned timberland. Had Congress not acted to kill the OSHA hunting ban, again at the urging of NRA, hunting in American, on both public and private lands, may have become a truely endangered activity. Most recently, as pointed out in an article in the October 1980 issue of the American Rifleman magazine, the Interior Department pressed Congress to end huntng in vast areas of prime wildlife habitat in Alaska. Unfortunately for hunters and others concerned with States Rights, hunting was banned and the Federal Government will now manage resident fish and game populations.

FOUR YEARS ago in the October American Rifleman magazine, NRA spokesman Harlon Carter predicted what a Jimmy Carter Administration meant for the NRA and gun and hunting enthusiasts: "An anti-gun or antihunting cabinet directing the Federal bureaucracy is a distinct possiblity and a direct threat to tens of millions of sportsmen and firearms owners. The specter of questions raised about Jimmy Carter himself and about the people around him must loom foremost in the minds of millions of our citizens, 40-million American men and women whose only 'transgression' is to own a firearm.

KENNY REDIN'S

Fin & Feather

He's not your run of the mill athlete. He doesn't enjoy the required rest and sleep a pro footballer or baseballer must obtain to-perform his occupation in a profession. Still, he does perform his professionalism the proper way. And he's more versatile than the ballsport athlete. He must perform many duties before his game plan will begin to work. He's the professional bass fisherman!

Yes, you may be thinking, "How can you rank a bass angler in the same category with a football or bas-ketball pro?" You can't! The professional angler must, to be successful, have the ability to execute a dozen or more skills in order for him to be dubbed as a true professional.

Knowing the proper thing to do at the correct time is important. And, when game plans don't conform to liking, outside help is sometimes essential.

A weatherman, the professional angler must be. He must know at all times of incoming weather fronts, wind directions, barometric pressure settings, water clarity and tempertures, chances of rain, snow, hail, sleet or high skies. All type weather conditions affect his chances of catching the winning bass.

An athlete he must also be. He's got to have enough stamina to fish for eight to 10-hours a day, sometimes without food or drink. He must adjust his sleeping schedule to early morning hours and remain alert late at night. He must respond to long, jarring boat rides at high speeds, which do punish the body.

His legs must be strong. The real professional, those casting for "big bucks" hardly ever sit down to fish. About the only time they can rest their legs is when they are moving from one locale to another. Casting a lure eight hours, every hour on the hour requires physical conditioning. When you cast about 1500 times per tournament, that's a lot of wear and tear on the arm, hands and fingers.

Eyesight plays a very important role for the pro. While casting, his focus beams on the point of lure impact. As the bait gently enters the water, his eyes focus on his next targert. While scouting out his next place to throw, he's also geared to observe his watery surroundings. He's constantly looking for surfacefeeding gamefish, baitfish schools, fish-eating birds walking the shores in search of a meal and high-flying birds chasing schools of forage fish. Nothing's ever boring while watching for fish feeding activity. He's more like a hawk; his survival within bass fishing ranks depends a great deat on his acute eyesight. The professional angler must be a scientist or biologist. He's got to know what activates a bass into feeding. He must also know what the bass are feeding on in any given reservoir or lake. Learning when fish feed most actively is very important, along with why they feed. Studying the terrain around the water is vital. He must acknowledge that bass don't always feed when they are suppose to. Being part biologist, part scientist, he can add a few ingredients together at given opportunities and discover the bass-catching solution. What do bass do in 50-degree water? How do they adjust to a cold front as it enters the region? Do bass congregate in certain areas at various times of the year? A mechanic he must be! Knowing how to work on outboard motors, electric trolling motors, electrical systems that operate accessories on the fish rig and harboring the common knowledge of tightening up a loose screw are important ingredients to the angler's fishing success. Playing two roles is important. Half the time while fishing, the pro must be thinking like a fisherman. The other half he must bring his I.Q. down to that of bass. He may be thinking he knows everything there is to know about the bass life cycle and 30 minutes later he's beginning to think a bass is smarter than he is.

A bass isn't that much different from a human. They prefer comfort. Weather conditions do affect bass just as they do humans. Diets vary from day to day. Physical activity varies from hour to hour.

Probably the most important thing a pro basser must do is be compatible and be able to tell a few little stories before being successful.

And last, but certainly not least, he must appreciate nature, his sport and his accomplishments. Without applying strict conservation measures throughout the many years of his outdoor ventures, he will not continue to reap the benefits from big money bass tournaments. He's not to litter, pollute or destroy! He's programmed to enjoy nature just as it may be, whether it means his stardom or not.

How can one writer come to all these conclusions? Simple, I attended the 1980 BASS Masters Classic in New York State recently and observed, first hand, that the pros are truly these kind of men!

Erck takes 1st in Bass tourney

Midland's High Sky Bass Club held its October Tournament at Lake Leon over the weekend and Charles Erck took first place with a three pound. five ouncer. Jackie Wilkes and Bill Oglesby tied for second at 2-14 and Jim Crownover and Ed Tucker tied for third with 2-4.

Heavy stringer went to Erck with seven pounds, one ounce. In the women's division, Lois Roush had a one pound, nine ouncer; Lynn Anderson, one pound, Martha Crownover, 13

A live release was in effect Sunday with 100 per cent of the bass turned back into Lake Leon.

Big 8 drops probe of Stanley

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Big Eight Conference agreed Wednesday to drop its investigation of former Oklahoma State Pack travels football Coach Jim Stanley but said it would continue its inquiry Midland High and Midinto alleged irregularities at the university. land Lee's girls volley-ball teams, both out of

The decision was included in a consent degree approved Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Russell G. Clark.

Stanley, currently an assistant coach for the National Football League Atlanta Falcons, was fired as the OSU football coach in November 1978 while the conference was investigating an alleged football slush fund at the school.

The court decree said conference officials agreed not to 'undertake any investigation involving the activities of Jim L. Stanley during his tenure as head football coach at OSU, except that the defendant (Big Eight) reserves the right to proceed

The Big Eight's investigation of the alleged slush fund and recruiting violations at Oklahoma State was stalled Nov. 30, 1978, when Judge Clark issued an injunction sought against the conference. The injunction was in response to a suit filed by Stanley on the day the conference was expected to announce sanctions against Oklahoma State.

Stanley contended that a hearing on the allegations involving his role at Oklahoma State violated his constitutional rights because he did not have the opportunity to confront witnesses against him personally. He said he was not permitted to elicit sworn testimony or call witnesses on his behalf. The conference later agreed to Clark's suggestion that its procedures involving such inquiries in the future should be changed regarding hearsay

Stanley testified that publicizing the hearsay allegations regarding an alleged slush fund could damage his reputation to the extent that he might not be able to get another job.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Those born on this date are talented in many different areas, but their idealistic and tender hearted natures make them very vulnerable where love is concerned. A tendency to be overly-possessive could interfere with romance, so show more confidence in mate's loyalty! At work, you will soon get a rare opportunity to lead and would be well-advised to make the most of it. Your flexibility and wide-ranging capabilities mark you as executive material.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Reach out to those with experience and expertise, and profits will show a marked increase. Seeking something new may not be as rewarding as relying on that which is old and comfortable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get in touch with close friends this evening. You need to be with happy, upbeat people who really care for you. Refuse to get involved in associates' personal squabbles.

The sampan carried 19 illegal immigrants and sank this morning near Saikun on the Kowloon peninsula, police said. The government said six are Chinese and nearly people were plucked from the sea and four from the Chinewe comswam ashore but that the others were missing and mitted Chinese who evaded border guards and made it into urban areas to stay in this British colony In explaining the new law, Sir Murray said a massive influx of illegal

Chinese, especially during the last two years, threatened the future prosperity of Hong Kong and had already put a severe strain on housing, education facilities and social services. The governor said the former policy "has become a tragic charade in which the(illegal immigrant has little to lose and everything to gain by attempting to run the gauntlet of Chinese and Hong Kong forces, and even if caught has every incentive to try again.

"The Chinese accuse us, with some justification, of applying a policy which positively welcomes immigrants," he said. He said the new law was approved by the Peking government.

The law, which does not apply to the 150 Chinese who legally immigrate here daily, provides a three-day amnesty for illegal immigrants already in Hong Kong to apply for identification cards...

After the amnesty period, it gives Hong Kong authorities power to arrest and repatriate all illegal immigrants no matter where they are found and makes it a crime punishable by a maximum $10,000 fine or one year imprisonment to employ illegal immigrants.

OTTAWA (AP) — off debate on an oil pipe-Prime Minister Pierre line proposal in 1956, on Elliott Trudeau's Liberal government has an- an flag in 1964 and on nounced plans to invoke a controversial and seldom-used measure that would temporarily choke off the two-week-old constitutional debate in the House of Commons.

The House is to vote on the closure measure at 1 a.m. EDT on Friday, with the Liberal Party's majority virtually guaranteeing passage. The move would halt the House debate on a constitutional resolution at that time and send the measure to a joint Senate-House committee. It would be returned to the House for further debate on Dec. 9

Liberal House leader Yvon Pinard, who made the closure announcement Wednesday, said the government wanted to clear the decks in time for next week's scheduled budget debate. Closure was used to cut

Four discoveries potential in two New Mexico counties

Operators have reported discoveries in Eddy and Chaves counties in New Mexico.

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-G Rustler Bluffs was finaled as a small Delaware oil discovery five miles southeast of Malaga in Eddy County.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 21 barrels of 36.5-gravity oil and 65 barrels of water.

Completion was through perforations from 4,680 to 4,694 feet. The wildcat was drilled to 13,800 feet and plugged back to 6,400 feet.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Five-inch liner is set at 13,799 feet. The strike is four miles southwest of Delaware oil production in the Cedar Canyon field and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 6-25s-29e.

Gulf No. 1 Eddy State "C" was completed as a Bone Spring discovery in the Indian Flats (Atoka-Morrow) field of Eddy County, 10 miles east of Carlsbad.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 64 barrels of oil, gravity and gas-oil ratio not reported, through perforations at 8,804-8,814 feet. The flow was through a 12/64inch choke.

The pay was acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Total depth is 12,690 feet, 51/2-inch casing is set at 9,130 feet and hole is plugged back to 9,090 feet.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 2-22s-28e.

Amoco Production Co. No. 1 State

Communitized "HK" has been potentialed as a Morrow gas discovery in Eddy County, six miles northwest of White City. Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 1,097,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 1.5-inch opening. Flowing tubing pressure was 1,509 pounds. Completion was through perforations from 10,640 to 10,655 feet.

Total depth is 10,826 feet and 51/2inch casing is cemented on bottom. Wellsite is two miles northeast of the Crooked Creek (Morrow gas) field and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of seciton 6-24s-25e.

CHAVES OPENER

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia filed potential test on No. 1 Coffman-Federal "NY." an Abo gas discovery in Chaves County. It is the 20th Abo gas opener completed so far this year in Chaves County.

The strike completed for a daily flowing potential of 3,212,000 cubic s per day, through a choke and perforations from 4,048 to

Flowing tubing pressure was 500 pounds on the potential test, Hole is bottomed at 4,425 feet and

51/2-inch casing is set at 4,140 feet. The discovery is three miles southast of Yates No. 1 Godfrey "MP." another Abo discovery which was completed from 4,012 to 4,022 feet for a daily flow of 1,200,000 cubic feet of Wellsite for No. 1 Coffman-Federal "NY" is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 25-7s-25e and 18 miles west of Elkins.

CHAVES FIELD WELL

Petroleum Exploration Co., Inc., of Roswell, N.M., No. 1 Siete-Federal has been completed in the Sieta (San Andres) field of Chaves County, 19 miles south of Kenna On 24-hour potential test it pumped 19 barrels of oil, with a trace of water. The gravity was not reported. The gas-oil ratio is 1,578-1. Completion was through perforations from 3,707 to 3,748 feet.

Total depth is 3,840 feet in the San Andres, 4½-inch pipe is set at 3,836 feet and plugged back depth is 3,811 Wellsite is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 17-8s-31e.

EDDY PRODUCERS

Coquina Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 Carlsbad-Pecos is a new well in the Dublin Ranch (Morrow) pool of Eddy County, nine miles southeast of Carlsbad.

It finaled for a calculated absolute open flow of 1,033,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 12,436 to 12,490 feet The pay was acidized with 3,000 gallons Hole is bottomed at 12,550 feet in the Barnett and 5-inch liner is set at 12,549 feet. The plugged back depth is 12,500

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 29-22s-28e. General American Oil Co. of Texas

No. 1-=B Green is a new well in the Empire, South (Morrow) field of Eddy County, eight miles northwest of Loco Hills.

Prices of the most popular grades of gasoline have declined for the fourth month in a row and availability has improved on Saturdays and Sundays. A survey of 409 service stations by the American Automobile Association reveals that the average price of regular gasoline at self-service pumps has fallen by 1.3 cents per gallon since September and now sells for 111.5 cents. The prices of most other grades of gasoline have decreased by less than 1 cent per gallon at both self-service and full-service

The only exceptions are full-service premium unleaded which has increased sharply in price by two cents per gallon, and leaded premium, which also has risen by nealy one cent per gallon. Availability has improved on weekends with 73 percent of the stations pumping gas on Saturday night, compared to 69 percent in September. Also, 62 percent of the stations are staying open on Sunday, compared to 59 percent last month. Availability has remained stable during the week, with 51 pecent

In Midland and Odessa average gas prices are regular, 119.6 full-service and 110.2 self-service; no-lead, 123.6 full-service and 114.8 self-service; and diesel, 100.9. Of the 13 stations surveyed in Midland and Odessa, 31 percent closed at 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Eight percent closed at 6 p.m. Saturday and of the stations pumping gas after 8 p.m.

38 percent were closed on Sunday.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

We know what sport interests Carter

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) - If there was any doubt that President Carter is a baseball fan, he proved it Sunday night during the World Series. He was scheduled to leave the White House at 7:15 p.m. to address a fund-raising dinner at a Washington hotel. But at 7: 15, the game between the Kansas City Royals and the Philadelphia Phillies was in the ninth

The president's motorcade waited in the driveway. Five minutes passed. Ten minutes passed. Still no sign of the president. Finally, the last out was made. Within a minute, Secret Service agents trotted out of the White House, accompanied by several Carter aides who were traveling with the president to the dinner. One minute later, Carter came out and the motorcade sped off.

The dinner was a routine black tie gala. But the early segment - at which Carter spoke — was held in a basement exhibition hall. Shimmering silver foil was set up to mask the supporting pillars, but no effort was made to patch up tape holding insulation to pipes on the ceiling.

The chief beneficiary was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, whom Carter was helping to pay off debts piled up when the two opposed each other in the Democratic primary campaign. That was Carter's present to Kennedy. But the senator also gave Carter a gift.

When the two men met last August at the Democratic National Convention, no matter how much Carter seemed to chase Kennedy around the podium, he couldn't get the senator to join hands with him, arms aloft, in a victory salute

But Sunday night, Kennedy obliged and the president could not hide his pleasure. An open microphone picked up his laughter and broadcast it

The next day, the president again latched onto Kennedy's coattails, so to speak, when they appeared together at a campaign stop at the Concord Baptist Church in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, N.Y.

In almost every campaign stop in New York City, the president has been accompanied by Mayor Edward Koch. But Koch was nowhere to be seen at the church, in a neighborhood where the mayor is not well-

His disappearing act raised some eyebrows.

The mayor made waves last week when he was a friendly host to Ronald Reagan. Asked on Monday why the mayor was not at Carter's side at the church, Rep. Charles Rangel, a Carter supporter in New York said: "Is Reagan still in town? Maybe that's why he's not here."

Carter denied support

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) - Gov. Fob James, calling himself a "conservative Democrat," has refused to endorse President Carter's reelection bid.

James said Tuesday night that he does not agree with the National Democratic Party plat-

He remains the only Democratic governor who has not endorsed the president's bid for a second term, according to Jack Watson, the presi-dent's chief of staff.

The governor said he is not endorsing any candidate because neither President Carter nor Republican Ronald Reagan have addressed the 'great issues of this day." James said those issues are "war and peace on one hand and economics and personal freedom on the other."

Sutherland back on stage

one of the busiest actors around. In less than two he makes his Broadway debut in the stage production of "Lolita."

Playwright Edward Albee translated Vladimir Nabokov's classic novel to the stage, and Frank Dunlap has been hired to direct the production. At last word, the play was to open in December.
"The script is wonderful," Sutherland said. "It's a very delicate adaptation of the novel. Nabokov is in it as kind of a Thurberesque stage manager character. I read they're trying to find an 11-year-old for Lolita. It would seem to me that a little bit of maturity in a stage play would help.'

Sutherland hinted that he's looking forward to doing a play, more so he can be with his family than for the pleasure of performing on stage.

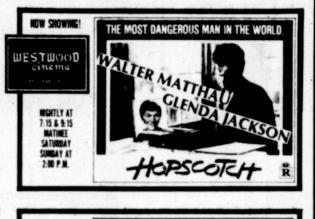

"I'm away from my family for ages," said Sutherland, here for the opening of "Ordinary People," directed by Robert Redford and co-starring Mary Tyler Moore. "I've seen my son once in the last six

Since finishing "Ordinary People," the 46-year-old actor has completed two other films, "The Eye of the Needle," in which he plays an assassin, and "Passages," the story of noted heart surgeon Denton An avid baseball fan, Sutherland said the outcome of a Montreal Expos game last year played a role in his decision to do "Ordinary People." He had read the script and liked it well enough. But he had just finished a film with Suzanne Somers called "Nothing Personal," and needed a rest.

Watching baseball is one of his favorite forms of relaxation, he said, so it was not unusual for him to be sitting in Olympic Stadium in Montreal when a message flashed across the scoreboard that Donald Sutherland had a phone call. It was his agent.

"The game was at the end of the season and

BIG SPRING - A doll show and sale will be held at Heritage Museum in Big Spring Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Allene Rollins and Virde Boardman, owners of Allene's Doll House in Austin, are bringing their collection of over 1,000 antique and modern dolls which will be shown to the public for the first time. The dolls, all of which are name brands, are made of bisque and porcelain china. Also included in the collection are more than 200 Madame Alexander dolls.

GM settles crash suit

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — The General Motors Corp. has agreed to pay more than $2 million to three Red Bank residents and a Colombian woman in connection with the fiery crash of a Buick Opel in 1977 on the Garden State Parkway.

The agreement settled a lawsuit filed on behelf of four people who were injured, one fatally, when their car caught fire after it was struck from behind, officials said.

Assignment Judge Thomas F. Shebell approved the settlement Tues-

Cecilia Illarazza, 39, of Red Bank, received $1.2 million in the settlement. Burned over 25 percent of her body in the crash, she has undergone 24 operations to repair scars.

Her husband George Illarazza, 39, received $150,000 for the loss of her services while she was recovering.

Jaime Lopez, 38, of Red Bank, received $225,000 as compensation for his injuries, and Dulcelina Cano of Colombia was awarded $500,000. Mrs. Cano's husband, Carlos, died of burns 20 days after the accident.

Cano, 37, was in New Jersey trying to earn enough money to bring his wife and three children to the United States.

The Illarazzas, Lopez and Cano were on their way home when the Opel became disabled. It was then struck from behind and caught fire. The plaintiffs argued that the victims were burned because the gasoline tank of the Opel was designed improperly, causing it to burst when struck. Opel autos were manufactured in Germany by a GM

In agreeing to the settlement, GM lawyers made no admission that the Opel's gasoline tank was faulty.

A $125,000 contribution toward the settlement was made by the Allstate Insurance Co., which insured both Illarazza and Theodore S. Eskildsen of Middletown, who drove the car that struck the Opel.

Soviets were playing for 'high stakes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Large payments allegedly made by the KGB to a former CIA agent indicate the Soviet Union was playing for "very high stakes" and U.S. intelligence watchdog committees, retired U.S. intelligence officials say.

Law enforcement officials say the agent, David Barnett, has been under investigation by the FBI and Justice Department for more than a year for a wide range of activities allegedly inspired by the Soviet intelligence agency in an effort to obtain U.S. se-

It was understood that the government has worked out an agreement with Barnett's lawyer under which he would plead guilty or no contest to charges expected to be brought Friday by a federal grand jury in Baltimore.

Several sources, who declined to be identified, said Barnett, reportedly in his eagly 40s, had received a substantial sum of money from the Soviets. One source put the figure at $120,000, but the New York Times said Barnett was paid $100,000 and columnist Jack Anderson said he was paid $80,000.

"Obviously, the Soviets were playing very high stakes if those dollar figures are correct. That is an indicator of their great expectations," said one senior retired intelligence officer.

Government officials and law enforcement sources said Barnett had been an undercover agent under which those in other congressional committees for the CIA overseas most of the years between 1958 operate." and 1970 and had worked part time for them on a contract thereafter, particularly in 1979.

that beginning in late 1976 Barnett had tried unsuccessfully to obtain staff positions on the Senate expected big returns from its attempt to infiltrate Intzlligence Committee, the House intelligence committee and the three-member Intelligence Oversight Board, an executive branch panel set up during the Ford administration to hear allegations of wrongdoing by U.S. intelligence agencies. Cord Meyer, Jr., who served as the CIA's chief of station in London from 1973 to 1977 and held high positions at CIA headquarters at Langley, Va., said of the reports about Barnett, "those are very high sums of money to pay up front."

Meyer, who has retired from the agency and is now Washigton columnist and author, said the money might have been paid for information about Barnett's pre-1976 activities. But because a field operative would have limited overall information, Meyer said he suspected such a large sum would be tied to what the Soviets thought they might get if Barnett Kampiles. obtained employment on one of the watchdog com-

All three committees were formed in the wake of a scandal which emerged in the mid-1970s over the The sources said Barnett's part-time contract CIA's participation in spying on domestic dissidents and assassination schemes abroad. As part of their work in overseeing those agencies, the three com-

A combination of officials and sources disclosed mittees have access to what one former U.S. intelligence official called "a high concentration of secret information.' Another former intelligence officer, who asked not to be named, said Soviet targeting of the congressional intelligence committees was a predictable outgrowth of the increased access to secret information those panels obtained as a result of the scandals. "Access to those committees would be the dream of any hostile foreign intelligence service," the former officer said.

The retired officers hailed the passage of legislation last month reducing the number of committees to which the CIA must report from eight to two. Such legislation had been actively sought by the intelligence community for some time.

Intelligence sources say Barnett was a higherranking officer than the most recent CIA employee convicted of working for the Soviets, William P.

The public auction Wednesday was intended to help satisfy a $274,732 tax lien against Lewis and his estranged wife, Jaren. Auctioneers collected $91,382, and the remaining $183,350 was to continue as a lien against Lewis, according to IRS spokeswoman Eve Miller.

Claiming the couple owed taxes for the years 1975-78, IRS agents seized more than 60 items in a Feb. 27, 1979, raid at the entertainer's ranch near suburban Nesbit, Miss.

Some 350 people were at the auction, but nei-ther Lewis nor his wife

PLAN YOUR RETIREMENT BEFORE YOU RETIRE.

The time to realize that Social Security is not going to be enough to live on is not when you are 65 and about ready to retire!

Now is the time to begin preparing for your retirement with an IRA or KEOGH. Either account is as easy to open as a simple savings account ... and if you are not participating in a company-sponsored plan where you work, then IRA and KEOGH may be the best plan for you.

With the First Savings IRA, a typical 35 year old employee regularly saving the maximum $1500 each year may retire after 30 years as a quarter-millionaire!

Setting aside $7500 each year in a KEOGH plan for 30 years allows a 35 year old self-employed businessperson to retire as a self-made millionaire! With either program, our 35 year olds will save thousands of tax dollars throughout the years because of the tax shelter both programs enjoy.

... 'Tis the season for spooks and goblins. And for PTA carnivals and fall festivals.

Many of Midland's schools are preparing events that will involve entire families and show a financial return that will provide schools with those necessary "extras" for the remainder of the school year.

The carnivals also provide a fun and safe Halloween atmosphere for children and their families. Food, games, arts and crafts are but a few of the items offered at the various schools.

A few of the carnivals will open this weekend. We'll give you more information about next week's carnivals at a later

Those schools who will open carnivals this weekend include De Zavala on Friday. It will open at 6:30 p.m. and close at 9: 30 p.m.

RANDY ISENBURG, owner of Air Park and Dellwood Bowling Lanes, has been awarded a National Handicapped Awareness Week award by Texas Easter Seal Society Representative Katherine Morris.

The award was made for Isenburg's service to handicapped county residents. Both bowling lanes are completely designed for easy access for wheelchairs. Handicapped persons can bowl with comfort and without concern for architectural barriers.

A National Handicapped Awareness Week award also went to the manager of the new Midland Park Mall. The design of the mall permits a handicapped person to shop with convenient ramps and other important barrier-free features.

Ms. Morris has also presented a communications award certificate to KCRS Radio and The Midland Reporter-Telegram for their efforts in increasing community awareness for National Handicapped Awareness Week.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: About two years ago I began to notice a change in my husband. He became increasingly forgetful and easily confused even though he was only 50. He had a physical checkup and was found to be in excellent health, but his memory got so bad it wasn't safe to let him drive anymore. Then he had to quit

We saw several doctors before one finally seemed familiar with my husband's condition. He told us he had Alzheimer's disease, for which there is no known cure. Alzheimer's disease occurs in people as young as 40 and 50 as well as in some older people.

Abby, my husband is too young for a nursing home, and besides, he is completely healthy otherwise only his mind is affected.

I fear for his safety and have to watch him every minute. For a while he seems perfectly normal, then he becomes dependent and forgetful-Have you ever heard of Alzheimer's disease? I feel so helpless. How do others cope with this affliction?—DESPERATE IN N.Y.

DEAR DESPERATE: You are not alone. Approximately one million people in U.S. suffer from Alzheimer's disease. There are now groups of concerned friends and relatives who have banded together to provide support, develop and disseminate helpful information, and encourage much needed research on Alzheimer's disease.

Memory disease not easily forgotten

DEAR ABBY: My fiance and I are getting married after the first of the year. We recently announced our engagement and are making our plans. We foolishly told our friends about these plans, and now three other couples have suddenly decided to get married, too!

My gripe: Our friends are stealing all our ideas. We found a hall that we thought was very original. One couple has now booked it for their wedding. Another couple is using the same colors we picked for our ceremony. One of the brides even ordered the same wedding dress I had selected. What really makes me mad is that they are all getting married before we are, and it is going to look as though we got all our ideas from them, when actually it's the other way around.

Maybe I'm being childish, but I wanted our wedding to be different from every other wedding we've seen. We can't move the date up. What do I do now?—FRANTIC FIANCEE

DEAR FRANTIC: If you don't want your wedding to look like a rerun, change your plans. And this time don't broadcast them!

DEAR ABBY: I am an 8-yearold girl who has had a bed-wetting problem all my life. I'm smart in school and have tried to stop wetting, but nothing helped.

My mother saw a letter in your column concerning a "Wee Alert Buzzer" and she showed it to me. Then she bought one and it has helped me tremendously. Thank you very much. Don't use my real name, but it's OK to say I live in San Rafael, Calif.—DRY BED

BOONSBORO, Md. ceived $300 worth of free (AP) - Kim Smith thinks nothing of spending hours each day thumbing through stacks of magazines and newspapers. But instead of reading them, she's searching for moneyback, money-off and free merchandise coupons.

Although the pastime is a time-consuming one, Mrs. Smith said it was also profitable and helped fight inflation.

'When you're able to save a dollar here and a dollar there, it really adds up," she said, adding that since her husband was furloughed from his job last summer she has learned the importance of cutting costs

Mrs. Smith is not alone in her coupon search. She and 11 other women recently formed a club which meets once a month. During the meetings, held in different homes in turn, the members clip, trade and talk

"At one time, people laughed at folks who used coupons," said Mrs. Smith. "They would never think of doing such a thing. But times have changed and, with prices high, those same people are standing in grocery lines holding on to their coupons.'

There are some grocery stores in the area where the use of coupons is frowned upon, according to Mrs. Smith.

'Some of the manag ers and clerks can be difficult," she said. "But the majority are nice. They understand that people have to save every way they can."

And the savings from coupon use cannot be overlooked. One club member noted that by her calculations, she saved $980 last year by using coupons. "That paid for my win-

What's cooking?

With Thanksgiving just around the corner, Ann Atchison's Turkey Enchilada recipe is one you might want to have handy to make use of all that

Mrs. Atchison's recipe is included in "Baron Von Leftover", a cookbook written by her cousin, Kathi Chapman of Honolulu, Hawaii. All of the recipes in the cookbook utilize leftover turkey. Ms. Chapman will be a guest on "International Chef" on channel 13 Thanksgiving Day. The cookbook is available for purchase at the Book Worm in Dellwood

Mrs. Atchison and her husband, Clay, have lived in Midland for 25 years. The couple have two sons, Clay III, who is married and lives in Houston, and Craig, a senior at Texas A&M.

Mrs. Atchison teaches kindergarten and first grade at Rusk Elementary. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta alumnae and St. Luke's Methodist Church. Her hobbies include cooking and water skiing.

TURKEY ENCHILADAS

2 cups cut up turkey 1 can green chilies, chopped

3 cans cream of chicken soup, undiluted 2 small or 1 large package of tostados (tortilla chips)

1 onion chopped

1 cup grated cheese

Mix soup, green chilies and onion. Simmer. Grease a 9x12 dish. Make a layer of tostados, layer of turkey, pour over ½ of the soup mixture and a layer of cheese. Repeat layers. Bake 30 minutes at 350.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Crispy, crackly salad-making cue

DEAR HELOISE:

Most people enjoy a good tossed salad at their evening meal, and many also eat salads for lunch. Since I dislike making a salad from scratch each and every night, a few years ago I began making a basic tossed salad (lettuce, green onions, celery, carrots) and placing it in a large, plastic bag.

I place a paper towel or paper napkin in with the vegetables, seal the bag with a twist tie and place it in the crisper of my refrigerator. I might add I always make up enough salad to last a week. For lunch and evening meals, I sometimes add other ingredients such as tomatoes, croutons, tuna, etc.

We enjoy having a crisp salad with meals and I enjoy not having to drag out all the vegetables each time. Nancy Pluid

U-m-m-m, great! An added bonus is that if you get an attack of the munchies, perhaps you will reach for the salad bag rather than the cookie jar. To help prevent the lettuce from turning brown, change the napkin when it gets too water-logged. Also, use a straw (placed inside the bag) and suck the air out of the bag before closing it.

Your salad will be ready at all times (if it lasts that long) with no fuss and no muss at the last minute. -

had to think of something to do with all of my husband's wide ties.

As he really needed them, I just narrowed them. Here's what I did:

Ripped out the seam on the wider end of the tie, then cut the inner lining to the size wanted for the tie. Pressed out the old folds.

Folded the tie to the width of the inner lining, then whipped the edges together by hand. Pressed tie lightly using a press cloth.

My husband loves his new-style old ties and the savings were substantial. - Mrs. M. Broussard

Bring the fun of Halloween inside with party

By the time Oct. 31 rolls around, most youngsters have spent days, if not weeks, planning scary costumes, and anticipating the goodies to come. This year, bring the fun of the season inside, and stage a special Halloween party for all the witches and warlocks of the neighborhood. Your own children can help with the easy-to-make, decorative treats that add to the festive atmosphere.

Start your planning with a trip to the supermarket, because the ingredients for these fun party ideas come right off the shelf. Following are some exciting Halloween treats that are surprisingly simple to make. A dramatic Pumpkin Cake, covered with bright orange sugared marshmallow slices, doubles as both centerpiece and dessert. Your partygoers will have a pleasant surprise when you cut into it and expose the rich chocolate cake inside.

The secret behind the round shape is to prepare a chocolate cake mix according to package directions, then bake it in two oven proof mixing bowls, creating two rounded cake layers. Put the layers together with Angel Mallow Frosting, and easy-to-spread topping made with marshmallow creme, and you'll have a cake as round as a pumpkin! Then, cover the frosted cake with overlapping marshmallow slices that have been dipped in orange colored sugar, and top with a marshmallow "stem". The marshmallow slices adhere easily to the frosting. To slice the marshmallows, dip your scissor blades in warm water before cutting. If you like, bake the cake layers the day before your party, then frost and decorate the cake the next morning.

Another fun Halloween party treat is S'mores Cookies, an easy "from scratch" cookie recipe which the older kids will love to prepare. These peanut butter and chocolate flavored cookies are made extra special with four or five miniature marshmallows, arranged as smiling faces on the cookies, and toasted in the oven. Caramel apples are a tradition at this time of year, but for Halloween, wave your magic wand and transform them into witches with construction paper hats and faces made with miniature marshmallos and candies. To eat, simply remove the hat to expose the stick handle.

With these edible Halloween treats on the table, who needs expensive store-bought decorations? To complete your party table, serve apple juice, hot or chilled apple cider and hot chocolate with miniature marshmallows.

Felt OK'd FBI break-ins

Patrick Gray III, was gone so frequently he was ins known as "Three-Day Gray."

W. Mark Felt, on trial for authorizing FBI breakins, testified that Gray issued a general authorization to resume the break-ins in 1972, after they had been banned more than five years earlier by the agency's former director, J. Edgar Hoover.

Felt, who spent the entire day on the witness stand Wednesday, said Gray was constantly visiting FBI ernments. offices around the country because the agency's former acting director said he wanted to "woo the

Because of that, Felt said, he had to make many types of decisions that had been made by Hoover during his 48-year reign as director. Felt was testifying again today in U.S. District Court, where he and Edward S. Miller, former head of the FBI's intelligence division, are accused of violating individual civil rights.

The charge stems from their approval of break-ins and searches at five residences of friends and relatives of fugitives from the radical Weather Underground. The break-ins occurred in New York City and New Jersey in 1972 and 1973.

Felt and Miller admit approving the break-ins but contend they were given the authorization by Gray, who originally was indicted along with Felt and Miller. Gray, who was the FBI's acting director after Hoover's death, had his case separated and has yet to come to trial.

Felt said he spoke out when it appeared that other FBI men would be punished for carrying out the break-ins he authorized, but he added that friends told him if he had kept silent, "I wouldn't be sitting

He admitted under cross-examination that he approved the break-ins after a 1972 Supreme Court ruling prohibited warrantless wiretaps against do-

When Nields pressed him further, Felt admitted that the court decision forced the FBI to abandon warrantless wiretaps against some of the same persons who later were targets of the break-ins.

'I have never regarded surreptitious entry for intelligence purposes as illegal," Felt testified.
"This is the way all people in the FBI felt."

Felt said Hoover ended a longstanding FBI use of warrantless break-ins in 1966 and re-inforced his order with a new one in 1967. At the time, Felt testified, Hoover wanted to end break-ins that the FBI was conducting for another agency, which Felt did not name. According to Felt, Hoover decided to end the break-ins for all types of operations. But in 1972, Felt said, Gray decided to restart the break-in program for the same agency, which the witness said could not be identified because of a court order that the agency and its program be kept

Felt said Gray never described the new break-in authorization as "limited or unlimited."

Felt said the reversed policy became a broad one, however, after Israeli athletes were slain during the Munich Olympics in September 1972. "That completely turned things around," Felt said. "It provided an impetus that would not have been there without

Harry's boat may return

WASHINGTON (AP) - The retired USS Williamsburg, once Harry Truman's presidential yacht, may return to the nation's capital as a floating restaurant.

Two restaurateurs who bought the 243-foot, 50year-old decommissioned vessel for an undisclosed sum last week say they'll bring the boat here from Philadelphia. They expect to spend more than $1 million and at least a year restoring

When it's refurbished, the Williamsburg will house two 150-seat restaurants and private dining quarters. The new owners hope to dock the boat in the Potomac River despite opposition from citizens' groups.

Prince tests new car

LONDON (AP) — PRINCE CHARLES warned labor and management in the auto industry to settle their differences as he took a test drive in a new compact car from British Leyland, the Mini Metro.

Foreign automakers are not "going to sit around waiting for us to sort ourselves out," the prince said Wednesday. "They are going to laugh themselves all the way to the bank whether we like it or not.

He praised the Mini Metro as the product of cooperation between management and workers, and said, "Things cannot go smoothly at BL or anywhere else unless there is genuine cooperation and a common sense of purpose.

"We live in this country ... by our ability to trade and to trade well," the prince said. "Lose that ability and we sink into obscurity such as we have not experienced as a nation for hundreds of years."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Mexican doctor who is treating STEVE MCQUEEN for cancer has refused to predict the actor's chances for recovery, but says the growth of tumors has been halted.

McQueen, 50, has been staying at the Plaza Santa Maria General Hospital in Baja California, Mexico, where he is being treated with the controversial drug Laetrile and a nutrition-based therapy

"Right now I could say that his condition is stable and that hopefully we can progress toward his improvement, which is going to be from now on much slower than what we tried in the beginning," Dr. Rodrigo Rodriguez said Wednesday at a news conference.

McQueen, the star of such films as "The Great Escape" and "The Cincinnati Kid," is suffering from mesothelioma, a rare and generally incurable form of cancer that attacks the lungs. The use of Laetrile is generally illegal in the United States and the American Cancer Society says the nutrition therapy McQueen is getting has not been found to be of any help in fighting cancer.

The decision returned Wednesday by the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, upheld a lower court decision that directed manager Maxim Gershunoff to pay $236,673 plus interest to the Panovs, who went to Israel and the United States.

The lower court ruling said the Panovs were "a hot property" when they left the Soviet Union. The decision also said the Panovs were "untaught babes in a world where freedom exists as well for blandishers and trimmers as for others.

LONDON (AP) - LORD SNOWDON, photographer and ex-husband of Britain's PRINCESS MARGARET, has told friends that he is broke, the Daily Mirror has reported.

The tabloid said Thursday that although the report "must be an exaggeration there are several reasons why his position has become less rosy." The news of the proposed sale of the Sunday Times, a main source of his income, may increase his worries, it added

U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela extended a temporary ban on the admission of undocumented children to this border district on Wednesday following a 31/2 hour hearing.

Brownsville School Superintendent Raul Besteiro testified the school system lacked the money, classrooms and teachers needed to educate the additional students a Houston federal judge says must be

"I think the evidence is unquestionable that they have problems in Brownsville," Vela said. "But the problems in the Brownsville school district are not only undocumented students but in other categories. For me to give a permanent injunction would be discriminatory and illegal."

The judge said he wanted to take the extra time to read all the evidence before writing an opinion due to "the impact this case may have in the entire state of

Judge extends ban on alien enrollment

Vela issued a temporary ban on enrolling the undocumented children on Oct. 11. School officials estimated between 30 and 40 children have been turned away since then.

Linda Yanez, an attorney representing a family whose children were denied admission under Vela's earlier order, termed his ruling a "victory" and said other school districts probably would think twice before trying to seek an exemption from a statewide order to educate all children.

Brownsville school officials presented figures showing it has enrolled 557 undocumented children since U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals ordered Texas schools to admit illegal aliens.

But Ms. Yanez said that figure was misleading. "There are really only 170 of that number in which the parent and child are illegal aliens," she said. School attendance officer Alonzo Perez confirmed under cross, examination that some of the "undocumented" children actually were U.S. citizens whose parents were illegal aliens. Children born in this country are legal citizens, whether their parents are here legally or not. Ms. Yanez said there were other instances of children being considered undocumented when they simply lacked proper papers to prove they were citzens or lawful resident aliens. Besteiro said the district would seek federal funds to help cushion the system's strained budget. "We'll have to consider half-day sessions, but I don't want to get into that," he said. "Even if I had 50 classrooms, where would I get 50 teachers?"

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.-A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 52931, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

The government's esti- the Agriculture Departmate that it will cost parents $65,000 to support a child until age 18 is ridiculously low and the figure is more likely to reach $254,000 - not counting college — says Parents Magazine.

The magazine said the government failed to include inflation as a factor. An estimate of $85,-000, which included four years of college, released earlier this month by the private Population Reference Bureau also was underestimated, the magazine contended in its issue released Mon-

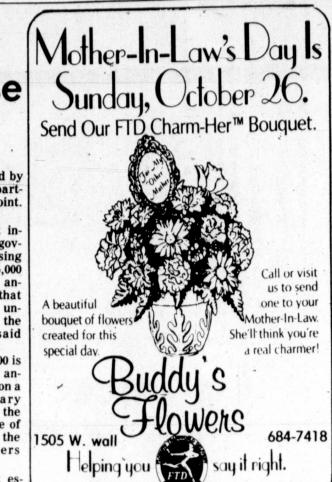

Thomas Tilling, a contributing editor of the magazine, said the magazine arrived at the $250,-000-plus figure by using

NEW YORK (AP) - federal figures issued by ment as a starting point.

> Adding 10 percent inflation yearly, the government's cost of raising a child goes from $65,000 to $175,000. Figuring another 10 percent to that total to make up for underestimates boosts the figure to $193,000, said the magazine.

Then another $61,000 is added in by figuring annual earnings, based on a $10,000-a-year salary plus inflation, lost to the mother from the time of the child's birth to the time the child enters

Other government estimates considered low were estimates that it costs only $22 a week to feed a teen-age boy and $115 a year to clothe a newborn baby during its

the Nobel Peace Prize to an Argentine fighter for left-wing terrorist groups that abducted businesshuman rights has intensified a bitter debate over the men and assassinated police and soldiers here in the military government's refusal to give any informa- 1970s. tion about thousands of missing dissidents.

Until last week, relatives of the "desaparecidos," who form most of the country's tiny human rights movement, had no powerful spokesman to press their inquiries, little clout even to get their petitions into newspapers and less hope of answers from the

Now, the awarding of the Nobel to Adolfo Perez Esquivel, a former prisoner of the regime, has lifted the spirits and prestige of the rights organizations, just as the same prize to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. aided the U.S. civil rights cause 16 years

"For four years I have been trying to find out who arrested my son, where they took him and, if he is dead, who killed him and where they put his body," a woman from one of the rights organizations said last week at a reception for the Nobel laureate.

"FOR ALL THIS, I have been insulted and called a terrorist and a communist, but now I feel I have won share of this prize," she said.

Perez Esquivel told reporters, "The problems are September 1979. being hushed up in an effort to win time concerning something which will invevitably see the light. The great wave of violence, of strong repression, has passed, but there remain many deep wounds. They must be properly healed so they never open

Such remarks of his are now being published in newspapers and magazines here and heard by businessmen, professional and labor groups that were once indifferent to human rights but now are eager to have Perez Esquivel as a speaker. Teachers say the awarding of the prize to Perez Esquivel prompted unprecedented discussion on human rights in public high school classrooms.

However, the award has angered the military and its supporters, who consider the choice of the littleknown Argentine pacifist a deliberate insult by

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The award of Norway's Nobel Committee for the benefit of exiled

THE MILITARY, WHICH seized power in 1976 and embarked on its own terror campaign to restore order, now refuses to clarify the fate of an estimated 7,000 missing guerrillas and legitimate dissidents, who were presumably executed by the security

To do so, in the government view, would admit responsibility for their deaths and invite recriminations. Officials argue that the no-holds-barred methods chosen by the guerrillas in their "dirty war" justified excessive official repression, for which only the guerrillas can be held accountable.

A growing number of politicians and prominent Argentines are telling the military that its stonewall silence on the missing dissidents is inconsistent with its own plans to resotore democratic rule.

BUT PUBLIC DISCUSSION of the issue is limited by a self-censoring press. The government also has stopped issuing weeky lists of acknowledged prisoners and banned circulation of the Inter-American Human Rights Commission report of its visit here in

In a follow-up report, the Center of Legal and Social Studies, which is backed by five Argentine rights groups, said this month that a lack of public attention to human rights had enabled the military to continue its abuses

Thirty-eight prisoners have disappeared in the past year - the latest in August - it reported, and five have committed suicide under "cruel, inhuman and degrading" jail conditions shared by at least 1,200 suspected or convicted subversives.

Carter gains over Reagan in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon's undecided vote appears to be swinging toward President Carter, giving him a new two point lead over GOP nominee Ronald Reagan in a statewide

The survey released Tuesday was conducted Oct. 10-16 by Bardsley & Haslacher for The Oregonian. It showed the Carter-Mondale ticket preferred by 35 percent, compared with 33 percent for Reagan and 18 percent for independent candidate John Ander-

Reagan's total has re-mained fairly constant. Of the 23 percent surveyed who were undecided in early August, more than half have now made up their minds, according to the poll.

As a volunteer with the Council on Alcoholism, a United Way agency, Wanna Bickerstaff helps educate young people and adults about alcoholism.

IRS, several other federal agencies have decided it's time to pay up

MADISON, Wis.(AP) - The Internal Revenue Service and other federal agencies have decided to pay up.

Bea Erickson, manager of a building which houses the federal offices in Madison, said the General Services Administration has paid $31,500 in

She had warned the GSA that the space occupied by the IRS, Small Business Administration and other federal agencies would be locked if "I did that on the advice of my attorney," she said. "I wanted to settle the matter peacefully, but he said we had waited long enough." Problems began last July when the Small Business Administration rented extra space and the rent increased $3,600 a month. Ms. Erickson said the government first failed to pay the extra rent, then stopped paying rent altogether. Repeated calls to federal offices in Milwaukee and Chicago had been unsuccessful, she said.

Volunteer helps fight alcoholism

Wanna Bickerstaff is no ordinary woman. She is a dedicated volunteer, and has been for the last 18 years. Wanna devotes her time and vitality to a.

cause, controlling alcoholism. As a volunteer with the Council on Alcoholism, a United Way agency, Wanna helps educate young people and adults about alcoholism, is a moderator of the weekly radio show called "Ask an Alcoholic" and serves on the agency's Board of Directors and Speakers Bureau.

She has served as president of the agency twice in the last seven years.

'Alcoholism is an incurable disease, but it can be arrested by not drinking. It is our responsibility to let people know what can be done about it and how to get help," Wanna says about her volunteer work.

The Midland Council on Alcoholism provides three basic services in the community - information, education about alcoholism, and referral for counseling to individuals who are alcoholics or have an alcoholic in the family.

In providing services to problem drinkers and their families, the Council works with Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-Anon and the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center.

'People in our community are eager to learn more about alcoholism," Wanna says. "In 1964 when I first started making presentations to school children, these young people would take all the literature I brought with me...there wouldn't be a piece left and after a presentation the phones in the Council office would ring off the wall.

The Council maintains a 24-hour telephone line for people seeking information and help for drinking

Alcoholism is an illness which affects the mental. physical and spiritual well being of an individual. The disease affects a wide range of individuals, regardless of age, color, race, sex or community

According to the National Institute on Alcohol and Alcohol Abuse, 11 million people in this country have a drinking problem and this figure is on the rise.

Radio personality sets out to collect sounds

By JERRY SCHWARTZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It galls Larry

Josephson to watch transistors, tapes and Taiwanese circuitry try to talk to human beings. Yet the bearded, rotund, 41-year-old local radio personality is also fascinated, and he has set out to collect the sounds of the '70s and 80s — the mouthings of machines that answer telephones, play games, teach and tutor.

"It was sort of a perception of mine that we were spending more and more time talking to, or with, or at, or being talked to by machines of one kind or another," he said. "I found more and more of my friends were getting those machines, and I couldn't talk to them - I could hear their messages.'

His project, "Vox Inhumana," is being funded with $25,000 in grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the New York State Council on the Arts. The idea, Josephson said, is to chronicle the times the way Works Progress Administration photographers did in the 1930s.

"I think we're entering an age where we're going to be using machines of all sorts to communicate with us - satellites, computers that you work on in your home. I don't like to think that, but it seems to be the way we're going," he said.

Part of "Vox Inhumana" consists of what Josephson calls "didactic records" - recordings like "How to Pachanga," "How to Plan the Perfect Dinner Party" and "English for Greek-Speaking People:"

In "Train Your Bird in Stereo," a deep voice, accompanied by Hawaiian steel-guitar music, tells budgie owners: "It is true that many birds will learn to talk, even though they were not properly trained, but this is a terrible waste of pet potential." Josephson - who has a weekly talk show on New York's WBAI and submits commentaries to "All Things Considered," National Public Radio's daily news program - is also collecting tapes of talking toys, like computer chess, a spelling machine ("Spell calf. K-A-T. Wrong. Try again") and the Executive Teddy Bear ("You're a born leader! You're a winner! Teddy knows!").

Vox Inhumana also includes "Dial-A's." There's "Dial-An-Atheist," "Mount St. Helens Hotline" and "Egg Basket," a project of a St. Louis woman who has rigged a machine so it can collect callers' answers to a list of off-the-wall questions.

'Do Sunday drivers walk Monday through Saturday? If someone invented a new disease, would someone catch it? Who told you your first secret? Does everyone see the same color when they see red?" she asks.

The heart of the collection, though, is the answering machine recordings. The use of these machines, Josephson suggests, is a measure of "technology and alienation, people living alone. There's nobody in anybody's house to answer the phone."

Some of the tapes are rather elaborate. A Brooklyn man, Henry Sepoznik, changes his tape each week with a new edition of "Answering Machine Theater," complete with sound effects.

On one, a normal, mundane tape is interrupted by the whine of a caller, who says, "Oh God, I hate these machines. They're so impersonal and intimidating. ... All right, I've already wasted my dime, I'll leave my name, number and message at the beep."

Others include music. One man croons that he's "Ethel's telephone." Another sings along with a 30-second version of the "Minute Waltz." Another tape consists of a wordless piano fanfare leading to the beep.

Josephson has collected 210 items, in addition to about 150 "How-to" records. He hopes to produce a radio series from the material next spring, but he expects Vox Inhumana to be an ongoing project.

"I pretty well have a lot of New Yorky kind of stuff," he says. "I'm looking for stuff from the South, Midwest, foreign countries, subcultures like hookers, Nazis, anything that's unusual, different." Anyone interested in adding to Josephson's collection can write him at the Radio Foundation, Box 884, Ansonia Station, New York, N.Y.,

Josephson thinks the reliance on talking machines is a trend that will continue. Already, he says, it has affected the way people behave.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

'Ask for the best'

I suppose that there are hundreds of different languages in the world, and all are excellent for those who understand

But to me they mean nothing. A person talking to me in one of these languages will be a stranger to me and I will be a stranger to him.

Since you are so anxious to have special gifts from the Holy Spirit, ask Him for the very best, for those that will be of real help to the whole church.

If someone is given the gift of speaking in unknown tongues, he should pray also for the gift of knowing what he has said, so that he can tell people afterwards, plainly.

For if I pray in a language I don't understand, my spirit is praying but I don't know what I am saying.

Well, then, what shall I do? I will do both. I will pray in unknown tongues and also in ordinary language that everyone understands. I will sing in unknown tongues and also in ordinary language, so that I can understand the praise I am giving;

For if you praise and thank God with the spirit alone, speaking in another language, how can those who don't understand you be praising God along with you? How can they join you in giving thanks when they don't know what you are saying?

You will be giving thanks very nicely, no doubt, but the other people present won't be helped.

I thank God that I "speak in tongues" privately more than any of the rest of you

But in public worship I would much rather speak five words that people can understand and be helped by, than ten thousand words while "speaking in tongues" in an unknown language.

Dear brothers, don't be childish in your understanding of these things. Be innocent babies when it comes to planning evil, but be men of intelligence in understanding matters of this

We are told in the ancient Scriptures that God would send men from other lands to speak in foreign languages to His people, but even then they would not listen.

Committee to determine Houston home

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Antiquities Committee has decided to set itself up as the judge of whether Sam Houston lived in a humble log cabin or a scaled-down southern plantation house.

The committee said Tuesday the Sam Houston Home in Huntsville will be the first building considered for designation as a State Archeological Landmark. Under that designation any renovation plans would have to be approved by the committee.

Sam Houston State University officials have hired an architect to complete a $289,000 restoration of the home across the street from the school. However, the Walker County Historical Commission says the renovated house would not be historically correct.

George Russell, researcher for the county historical commission said the university wants to turn the home into something he said it never was when Houston lived there from 1848 to 1858.

"It is now a Greek Revival home typical of homes in East Texas built in the 1840s. The plans envision its conversion into a rustic log cabin with a skin of rough cut lumber," Russell said.

The commission took the case to court, but lost on appeal. The university is now free to continue the halted renovation.

Russell also said a 1911 deed makes the home the property of the state, not of the university. The committee members said they want to see that

It will take about 60 days for the Antiquties Committee's new rules on archeological landmarks to go into effect.

Committee Chairman Fred Wendorf said there is little doubt the Houston house deserves such protection. He said "surely if we have any buildings that ought to be (an archeological landmark) this is one

The home now carries national and state historical landmark placards.

There were no representatives of SHSU at the Russell said the historical commission in Huntsville also opposes plans to remove a portico and replace wooden handrails with metal pipes. Work has not resumed although the appeals court threw out the lower court's injunction.

Hearing of newborn babies now being computer tested

Copley News Service

NATIONAL CITY, Calif. - For a newborn baby, hearing and reacting to sound at an early age are two of the keys to a normal life.

Until recently, however, children were not tested at birth, diminishing the chance of improving their hearing later in life once a problem was detected.

Now a computer, conceived by a San Francisco doctor and built by volunteers, tests sleeping infants at more than a dozen hospitals throughout the Western United States to ensure they won't spend a life isolated by deafness.

Eighteen months ago, Paradise Valley Hospital in National City, a suburb of San Diego, became the fourth hospital in the nation to join the Infant Hearing Assessment Pro-

The hospital did it with an assist from the Telephone Pioneers of America and Dr. Philip Peltzman, a researcher at University of California at San Francisco.

The "minicomputer" used in the program proposed by Peltzman, was designed by a Pacific Telephone engineer, refined by Bell Laboratories' volunteers and built by the Telephone Pioneers, a group of longtime telephone company workers. The test provides an early diagnosis of deafness which is important since an infant's auditory system is almost fully developed at birth, according to Claude Moss, a Telephone Pioneer who coordinates the 30 volunteers providing the testing service at Paradise Valley.

"Deafness is the most devastating of all handicaps," said Moss, a Pacific Telephone employee: "Children must be able to hear at a young age so they can speak and develop normally in other areas."

There are 15 million hearing-impaired persons in the United States. It is estimated that 120,000 hearing-impaired infantsare born each year.

Using medical charts and a parental questionnaire, Pioneer volunteers compile a "risk" profile at birth. The volunteers search for clues that indicate the infant has a high risk of having impaired hearing.

Conditions that may be present include among others oxygen deficiency at birth and premature birth.

Market index

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices turned lower today as General Motors reported that its sales are still runnig below last year's pace.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues fell 5.21 to 949.91 in the first two hours of trading as declines outnumbered advances by a 7-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange issues.

Auto sales were up from last year in the first 10 days of October, but that appears to have been caused by different dates for the introduction of the same and the control of the same and the sam tion of new models. General Motors today reported its sales were down for the second 10-day period. GM stock was off % to 49%.

The Dow Jones average of 20 transportation issues, which had been at a record high, slipped 1.92 to 379.16. Both airline and rail stocks have benefited from reports of higher earnings, and rails have also been helped by hopes for increased grain exports, which would boost revenues for some lines.

With speculation rampant that the American hostages in Iran might be released within a few days, gold prices slipped and the weak-ness was reflected in precious metals stocks. Hecla Mining was off 11/4 to 421/2, Campbell Red Lake lost 11/4 to 681/2 and ASA dropped 21/2 to 811/4.

Big Board volume totaled 22.62 million shares in the first two hours of trading compared to 17.92 million at the same point in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index fell .43 to 75.63.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 3.01 at 360.31.

BUSINESS MIRROR Some consider it no difference

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The life expectancy at birth of a U.S. female is just over 77 years. For a man it is just over 69 years. That's eight years by most calculations, but some see it as no difference at all. They assert that to claim a difference is to discriminate unfairly. Male and female are equally human, they say, and human life expectancy at birth in the United States is 73 years. They are the unisexers.

As you might expect, the unisex concept is producing considerable confusion in the insurance industry, in which insurance costs and benefits, and annuities too, are based on precise actuarial tables. You might even say actuarial tables, the mathematical odds, are the foundation of the business, and that the business of insurance is merely that of spreading the known risks, in the manner of a

That neat, ostensibly objective arrangement is now threatened with disarray because, as some actuaries say, the unisexers refuse to believe in differences, including mathematic and genetic. The unisexers won't buy that. Individuals are individuals, not actuarial contrivances, they say.

William M. Mercer Inc., the nation's largest em-ployee benefit consulting firm, puts it this way: "A particular woman may not live longer than a particular man, and our discrimination laws have focused on individuals, not groups. Therefore, it is argued that sex differentiated mortality tables can no longer be used to establish different benefit amounts. Mercer, which must advise companies on their benefits programs, is justifiably worried. It can search through legislative, judicial and regulatory decisions, but it will find more confusion than guid-

"The differences in life expectancy have not changed," it states ruefully. "Social attitudes have changed.'

Reflecting those changes, a major retirement fund the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association-College Retirement Equities Fund — is considering a unisex mortality table to determine monthly bene-

She's 'ripping mad' and ripple-skinned

By ANN BLACKMAN

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP) — When Nancy Reagan is angry, she takes long baths where she carries on imaginary conversations with her husband's critics.

"I'm always terrific in the tub," she said. "I always say just the right words in just the right way, and they never talk back."

With Election Day less than two weeks away, the wife of Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan presumably has reason for many baths. She is ripping mad, she says, because President Carter has been attacking her husband on a "very vicious level."

"I think campaigns are character revealing," Mrs. Reagan said, deliberately measuring each word. "You reveal yourself in how you choose to fight your battles. And I have to say I deeply, deeply resent Mr. Carter's attempts to paint my husband as someone he is not."

The attacks, she said in an Associated Press interview, are "on a very unkind, very vicious level."

Mrs. Reagan was sitting in a salmon-colored den at Wexford, the country house the Reagans have rented that Jacqueline Kennedy designed as a family retreat when John Kennedy was president. A picture window offered a dazzling autumn panorama of the Blue Ridge Mountains. A fire snapped in the fireplace. Mrs. Reagan's manner was controlled. Yet her words spilled out with great emotion, reflecting the drama unfolding at the end of her husband's run for the presidency

Mrs. Reagan described the president's remark this week that Reagan is advocating measures that could move the nation closer to nuclear war as "a terrible thing for anyone to say."

She paused, regaining control of her shaky voice: "In this day or age, what a war would mean is so devastating and so frightening that it's a terrible, terrible thing to say...I have no respect for anyone who does

At the Reagans' campaign retreat in Virginia's exclusive foxhunt country, Mrs. Reagan said she wishes the campaign were over, that if they lose "it won't be the end of our lives" and that she has mixed feelings about wanting her husband to be president.

'On one hand, you think of the life you had before and the life you could have with your husband and children," she said. "Certainly it would be calmer and more peaceful. But on the other hand, I feel more strongly about this election than I have about any of the others...Ronnie has all the qualities of leading that we need now.'

Carter needs Texas, Strauss says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Robert Strauss, chairman of President Carter's re-election campaign, says a Democratic victory will be "awfully tough" without Florida and Texas.

He predicted Teesday, however, that the southern base that helped Carter win four years ago would hold.

The Dallas Democrat rated Texas as a tossup state where the margin of victory will be less than 100,000 votes for whoever comes out on top.

Carter defeated former President Gerald Ford four years ago in Texas by 129,000 votes of more than 4 million cast.

Strauss said the president currently is trailing Republican candidate Ronald Reagan in Florida.

He said the election overall is "up for grabs" at this point. At a briefing for reporters on Texas, Strauss said he has seen polls in the last few days that show Carter ranging from a couple of points ahead to a couple of points behind Reagan in the state.

The campaign chairman said the visits of the president and of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to Texas this week hopefully will give a boost to the Carter-Mondale ticket.

Strauss said he planned to visit Houston, Dallas and Austin later this week before returning to Washington for an appearance Sunday on "Meet the Press.' "I suspect we're doing better than we had hoped to do in some of the metropolitan areas (of Texas)," he said. "On balance, we're better off than anyone dreamed at this stage of the game." Strauss said farmers' dislike of the partial grain embargo is the main reason for Carter's problems in the rural areas. The biggest problem in Texas will be getting out the Democratic vote in light of the money Republicans have available to spend in the state, Strauss said.

He called the Republican phone bank system that helped Texas Gov. Bill Clements win his 1978 race "a vicious thing" to combat.

"I'm well aware of the wealth and power that Clements and his phone banks have done to us," Strauss said. "We've got to remind people in Texas what the Democratic party has stood for."

Among other key states, he rated Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey and Ohio as tossups.

Voters to decide on spending

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - Minnesota voters decide next month whether state political candidates running with public funds will continue to be required to abide by campaign spend-

But the proposed constitutional amendment has become controversial amid accusations that lawmakers rigged the wording of the ballot question so that no one can vote to keep things the way they are.

Since 1974 the state has given public funds to candidates for legislative and statehouse offices, provided they abide by spending limits.

About one-third of the candidates are ignoring the offer this year, preferring to raise private funds and spend as much as they want.

The proposal, Amendment No. 2 on the ballot, has a sort of apple pie wording: it seems to ask only whether voters want candidates to abide by spending limits, but actually does

Legislators have worded the amendment so that some state laws will be changed whether voters say "yes," "no" or don't vote at all. Some experts think the package may be illegal because voters have the option to choose between no spending limits or higher spending limits, but not the same spending limits.

The voters also have no opportunity to vote against public funding of cam-

As placed on the ballot by the Legislature, the question simply reads: "Shall the Minnesota constitution be amended to require campaign spending limits for candidates for executive and legislative offices and public disclosure of campaign spending for all state candidates?

But the fine-print explanations of the measure placed in newspaper advertisements by the secretary of state's office indicate that lawmakers have tied defeat of the amendment to automatic repeal of the existing campaign spending limits at the end of 1981.

If the measure is approved, public funding will still be available, but spending limits will be indexed to the 1974 cost of living and will roughly double the present ceilings of $7,500 in House races, $15,000 in Senate races and $600,000 in the gubernatorial

If voters say "no," all spending limits come off, but candidates can still get public funds.

Common Cause, the League of Women Voters, the Minnesota AFL-CIO and the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party support No. 2. The Republican Party, including Gov. Al Quie, opposes it.

A voter who skips No. 2 will in effect cast a "no" vote because the Minnesota Constitution requires that amendments get a majority of all voters, not merely a plurality of those voting on a question.

Dialysis patients have favorable prognosis

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband has been on kidney dialysis for several months, and everything appears to be going along as well as we could hope. He is a good patient and doesn't complain about any of the discomforts which I know he must experience at times. What I'm wondering about is what the future holds. Can he look forward to a normal life span as long as he follows his doctor's instructions? - Mrs. A.H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Dialysis patients today have a much more favorable prognosis that those 20 years ago when the procedure first was introduced. Similarly, as time goes on and we learn more about kidney disease, the care of these patients and their prognosis will continue to improve.

The main threats to the lives of dialysis patients today is hypertension. An article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association reviews the experiences of 24 patients who started to receive dialysis between 1964 and 1968. The article notes that during a follow-up period of 14 years, one-third of the patients had died of complications stemming from hypertension.

However, there also were encouraging signs. Patients with normal blood pressure who did not smoke did not show any additional damage to their vascular (blood vessel) system. For dialysis patients, smoking almost literally is the equivalent of taking poison.

There is no reason to doubt that the next 20 years will be a period of additionally progress in understanding kidney disease, and of refine-ments in the treatment of these pa-

Dr. Dr. Solomon: A neighbor of mine who is pregnant tells me she plans to have her child delivered by a nurse-midwife. Since I am past the childbearing years, I have no personal interest in the subject; however, I told her that my own inclination would be to use a physician. She replied that midwives are used all over the world and know as much as some doctors. Do you have any information about the extent to which midwives are used in other countries? - Mrs.

Dear Mrs. K.: Among the developing, non-industrialized nations of the world, midwives deliver about twothirds of all babies born there. Whatever skills they possess are obtained through experience — a form of on-the-job-training — rather than through formal education. However, in the developed countries, many midwives do have formal training in delivering babies.

The shoplifting 'nightmare'

It's frightening for innocent, victims

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

A $16 billion-a-year problem turned into a 25-minute nightmare for Joan Fletcher last week.

The problem is shoplifting. The nightmare came when Joan Fletcher was accused of stealing.

She was innocent. "They let me go with the words, 'It was an honest mistake," " she said.

Joan Fletcher is not the shopper's real name. She asked that her identity be concealed. But her experience was real, and it highlights the crime of shoplifting, and the difficulty of prosecuting people who are guilty and protecting people who are

Mrs. Fletcher was shopping at a New Jersey department store when a young woman stopped her and flashed a badge.

"I'm from security," the woman said. "Will you come with me? We think you've stolen something."

Mrs. Fletcher started to protest. 'Come along with me anyway," the woman said. "We'll

The determination was that Mrs. Fletcher was innocent, but the incident brought "overwhelming fear" to her. State laws on the problem vary widely and often are vaguely worded. Where do the retailer's rights begin and the customer's end? How can you catch the guilty and protect the innocent? The National Coalition to Prevent Shoplifting in Atlanta, Ga., estimates that retailers lose a nickel of every dollar in sales as a result of thefts like the one of which Mrs. Fletcher was accused. Judi Rogers, director of the federally-funded coalition, said retailers actually may be over-cautious. "The retailer is put on the defensive," she said, reluctant to prosecute for fear of harming the store's image or of lawsuits for false arrest. Mrs. Fletcher is consulting a lawyer about filing just such a suit.

Mrs. Rogers said it is "impossible to know how many people are apprehended" for shoplifting, but she estimated that less than half are turned over to police for further action. There is no way of knowing, she said, how many of those who go free are victims of "honest mistakes" and how many are guilty.

Mrs. Fletcher, 40, was one of the victims. Chance took her into the department store where she was accused of stealing an eyeshadow stick. She was taking a short cut to another store, spotted a cosmetic display and bought some makeup, paying for it with a personal check for $28.76. Mrs. Fletcher had left the store and was already in another shop when the security officer stopped her. She returned to the first store, where her bag and packages were searched.

When she asked if she could phone her office, she said, store personnel told her: "If we let you go, you can call from a pay

Mrs. Fletcher said she was "shaking from head to toe." But the worst part of her experience, she said, was that "I did not know my rights and that's a terribly fearful situation.'

If Mrs. Fletcher had been arrested by a police officer and accused of a crime, she would have had the right to call a lawyer, the right to remain silent. Did she have the same rights when she was stopped by a store security officer?

Maybe and maybe not. Less than half the 50 states have laws covering an offense specifically called shoplifting, said Luis Granados, one of two Washington, D.C., attorneys trying to develop a model law on the subject.

Some laws permit no telephone calls, Granados said. Most permit a retailer to hold someone for "a reasonable time and in a reasonable manner." But the laws usually do not define reason-

Granados said he and his colleague, Sheldon London, are working on a model law which will include "a clear statement to merchants of what you can do and you can't do.'

It will specify penalties for repeat offenders, list the rights of people accused of shoplifting and define the crime more clearly,

One of the most common misconceptions about shoplifting is that the suspect must leave the store before he or she can be stopped. That's only true in some states, said Granados.

As a general rule, Mrs. Rogers said, a retailer must prove intent; the customer must have passed the point where the item could reasonably be purchased. That point may be the front door or a cash register in the appliance department.

Mrs. Fletcher said she believes she may have been stopped because she fit somebody's idea of a shoplifter - middle-aged, well-dressed, "hanging around a store in the middle of the

Mrs. Rogers noted that shoplifters are more likely to be women than men, partly because more shoppers are women.

She said, however, that a recent study done for the coalition indicated teen-age boys are just as apt to steal as teen-age girls. "But the girls are being watched more closely and that's who they're apprehending more," she added.

Mrs. Rogers said the public does not understand the seriousness of the problem. Many people, she said, mistakenly believe shoplifting is only a "nickel and dime" affair.

"We've got a real educational process to go through," she

CITY OF MIDLAND

That "one little thing" is the Three Mile Island Ronald Reagan. nuclear power plant. Ever since the March 28, 1979, accident, radioactive water and other contaminated waste, including the reactor core, have been festering at the site.

But this middle-class, conservative community considers itself "back to normal." The throngs of reporters and rented cars have disappeared. A single elderly volunteer directs rush-hour traffic on Union Street, the main avenue lined with elaborate Victorian houses.

PEOPLE QUIETLY PURSUE their jobs at government installations and private firms: Hershey Foods, Bethlehem Steel, the Mechanicsburg Navy Depot, the New Cumberland and Letterkenny army depots and the state capitol in nearby Harrisburg.

The accident's primary legacy seems to be what Reid gently labels "mixed feelings" toward nuclear power and the plant operator, the Metropolitan Edison Co. The crisis spawned a band of fervent anti-nuclear activists who participate religiously in hearings on utility rates, cleanup activities and the future of an undamaged reactor at the plant site. It also prompted formation of "Friends and Family of TMI." And outside town, on the river road to the nucléar plant, occasional billboards proclaim "More Nukes, Less Kooks" and "Before You Say No Nukes, Know Nukes. Associated Press interviews with downtown shoppers found that, even in Three Mile Island's back-

using a nuclear yardstick to measure the candidates. As she folded clothes at a local laundromat, Alice Duncan, a 32-year-old Penn State student, said the accident and its continuing aftermath had added stress to her life. But when she decides for whom she will vote, she said, "Nuclear power will be part of it — but not the whole package."

ONE MAN, A 25-YEAR government employee who works with local emergency planners, said the accident has made people more aware of nuclear energy's potential dangers, "but I don't believe that will have anything to do with the presidential elec-

"It's been 19 months and we haven't had any help yet from Carter. I'm not saying Reagan would come through but we've got to take that chance," Reid

"I know people who are anti-nuclear, and they have told me they are going to vote for Reagan, who is more or less pro-nuclear," he added. "The economy is uppermost in their minds. First of all they want to be sure they have jobs and can support their families."

DOMINIC DELCUORE CONSIDERS nuclear power necessary "unless they come up with something better." Meanwhile, his thoughts are fixed on economic matters — business at his two pizza restaurants has dropped lately because Met Ed laid off hundreds of cleanup workers at the plant.

"I don't want to lose the business. If I lose the business, I'll have to go back to Italy," said Delcuore, who left Europe a dozen years ago. Bill McNeil, a real estate agent, said the accident hasn't affected his business and won't affect his

"You read about all these people moving out of town — I don't know who they are. I've sold as much real estate now as before the accident. I just finished selling a place right across from the main gate of TMI," McNeil said as he stepped into a men's clothing store. 'Most of our local candidates - I dop't know of any who are really against this TMI thing. They talk out of both sides of their mouths." Of the presidential race, he said, "I'm a Reagan man myself." Karen Judy, pushing her 8-month-old daughter down the block in a stroller, said she was pregnant during the accident and left town because the governor advised it. "This whole thing didn't faze me. I'm for nuclear power. We need it," she said.

And the election? "To tell you the truth, I haven't really been following it too closely.

One elderly woman rushing down the street stopped just long enough to say, "TMI? We've sort of month for federal aid to decontaminate the plant. forgotten it. And my comments on the election

Anderson says he may run again in '84 on third party

WASHINGTON (AP) - John B. Anderson says no matter what the outcome of the Nov. 4 election, he will remain politically active over the next four years and could run for president again as head of a third political party in 1984. "There are a great many political activists across the country that have become interested in this effort," the independent presidential candidate said Wednesday in an interview with reported and editors of The Associated Press. Anderson added his activist supporters may not want to see the movement "dissolve and disband and totally disappear after the Fourth of November." While the Illinois congressman continued to insist

he could still win the election, he answered several questions based on the premise he will not and at one point he suggested the two-party system may have too strong a grip on voters for them to accept his unity" concept.

Speaking of his own chances, Anderson said, "The support for both President Carter and Gov. Reagan I think is exceptionally soft.

"There is in addition to that," he said, "a very, very high, unprecedently high percentage of undecided voters in the country.

ANDERSON WAS ASKED IF it is possible that American voters, in declining to consider him a serious challenger, were rejecting his ideas and campaign proposals, such as a 50-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline and a period of energy and economic self-sacrifice "I really think that it's the system that has a stronger grip on people's minds than the ideas themselves being the cause for my rejection, if indeed such be the case,"he said. While he said he believes the polls will be proven wrong on election day, Anderson added, "I believe it will be more the system itself and the hold it has upon people's loyalties, and the idea that this whole concept of going from a partisan approach to this unity approach of a bipartisan government is one that the average voter is simply not familia: with

On the potential of a third party movement, Anderson cautioned that any decision to form a third party would be be made only after lengthy talks with supporters of his independent effort.

'I'm going to talk to a lot of people and see how enduring they feel what we have accomplished can be, and I imagine this would be a process that would extend over some period of time," he said.

Anderson pledged to remain politically active, but said, "that doesn't imply running for office. I would hasten to add that I am not getting ready for another run on the presidency if I should not succeed" this "Politically active means speaking out on public issues," he said. "There are many vehicles of expression other than a political campaign.' For example?

"WELL, SPEAKING, WRITING, offering opinions whether soliticited or not.

On other points in the interview in his congressional office, Anderson said that as president, he would attempt to renegotiate parts of the SALT II agreement with the Soviet Union to meet the doubts of some members of the Senate concerned with the ability of the United States to verify that the treaty's terms were being honored by the Russians. Anderson said he would also reopen talks with the Soviets on a separate protocol to the treaty covering cruise missiles. "Obviously whoever is president is going to have to renegotiate SALT," he said.

The candidate was asked to assess prospects for success or failure of a Carter and Reagan administration and predicted both men would have difficulty with Congress. Carter, Anderson said, would have the same difficulties during his second term that he did in his first four years, especially in attempting to persuade the Senate to ratify SALT. "I don't see that President Carter is going to go through some miraculous change and be reborn on Nov. 4 into an effective political leader," Anderson said. "I think the skills are absent." Reagan, Anderson said, will have equally difficult problems on Capitol Hill, especially since Congress will almost certainly remain in Democratic con-"He's going to leave the voters just as frustrated when they see his total inability to carry out the kind

'I never ridiculed Reagan as being dumb ... I don't think he's dumb and I don't think Carter's dumb. I think they are both reasonably intelligent people."
