Iraq claims capture of Iranian port city

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq said its tanks and troops captured the vital Iranian port of Khorramshahr and overran "every yard" of the city today in their greatest victory of the 33-day-old Persian Gulf war.

"The Iranian flag was lowered from over the government house in Mohammara (Arabic name of Khorramshahr) and the Iraqi flag was hoisted over the building to declare the return of the city to Arab rule forever," said an Iraqi military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio.

The battle for Khorramshahr has been one of the toughest of the war between the Arab nation of Iraq and its foe, Persian Iran.

There was no immediate confirmation from Iran that the city had fallen, but according to earlier reports the governor of Abadan said Iraqi forces were trying to penetrate Khorramshahr from the east to help hard-driving troops in control of the city's northern sector overrun the entire port.

Iraq made frequent claims in the past that Khorramshahr, Iran's main commercial port on the embattled Shatt el-Arab waterway, had fallen and each time Iran denied the claim.

The Iraqi communique said Iraq's Defense Minister Gen. Adnan Khairalla telephoned the news of Khorramshahr's capture at midday to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein at the operation's room of the Iraqi army, according to the broadcast.

"Our troops and tanks have captured the city's main bridge on the Karun river and all the residential buildings overlooking it," the communique said.

The Iranian command said earlier that at daybreak hand-to-hand combat flared into a seventh straight day in the streets of Khorramshahr, which Iran's Supreme Defense Council recently renamed Khuninshahr, or City of Blood, in tribute to its "self-sacrificing Moslem defenders."

Hundreds of diehard Islamic revolutionary guards of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime have been killed in the seven days of house-to-house fighting that preceded the city's final fall, according to the Iraqi communique.

"Their bodies are left in the streets and in the houses where the fighting flared," said a telegram to Hussein from the Iraqi commanding general of the invasion.

Nearly all of Khorramshahr's estimated 150,000 inhabitants were reported to have deserted the city before the Iraqis captured its harbor and northern sector at the end of the first week of the war. The northern sector is the smaller part of the city, separated from the rest by the Karun River.

It was then that Iraq made the first, premature, declaration of Khorramshahr's fall on Sept. 25. The Iraqis then bogged down on the main river bridge that connects the northern with the rest of Khorramshahr.

Resignation raises new questions

By THOMAS KENT

MOSCOW (AP) — The resignation of ailing Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is expected to have little immediate impact on Soviet policy, but observers here believe it offers important hints about future personnel changes in the aging Kremlin hierarchy.

Western analysts say the appointment of Deputy Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov as successor to the 76-year-old Kosygin strengthens the hand of President Leonid I. Brezhnev, Tikhonov's long-time close friend and associate. But they say the new premier's advanced age, 75, indicates he may only be an interim replacement.

Brezhnev, 73, announced the shake-up Wednesday in a speech to the Supreme Soviet, the national Parliament.

His speech included no praise for Kosygin, but Western analysts said Kosygin apparently left the No. 2 Kremlin post while in good political standing. If so, he joined former President Anastas Mikoyan as one of the few top Soviet leaders to resign of his own will.

The official reason given for Kosygin's resignation was ill health — he reportedly suffered at least two heart attacks in recent years. Reports of failing health have often been used by Soviet leaders to disguise forced ousters, but Soviet and Western analysts here believe Kosygin's desire to step down was genuine.

"He has been trying to resign for some time," said a Soviet source who knows Kosygin's family. "He just wanted to rest, to fish. But other Soviet leaders have been reluctant. Perhaps they've been wondering how to replace him."

Western experts believe the resignation of Kosygin — who handled economic affairs and the day-to-day running of the government — may have set an important precedent for other members of the aging national leadership to step down eventually, rather than die in office.

Many past Soviet leaders have clung to their jobs as long as their lives or their political support lasted.

But despite a comment in 1976 by one member of the ruling Politburo that 70 is only "middle age," Soviet leaders are suffering increasingly from health problems and others may also seek an honorable way out of office.

Brezhnev himself has frequently been ill in recent years but lately he has appeared in better health.

Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov, 71; KGB Security police chief Yuri V. Andropov, 66; ideologist Mikhail A. Suslov 77 and other members of the ruling 15-member Politburo have all disappeared from public view for long periods and missed major events.

Kosygin's departure was handled with dignity and downplayed in the official news media, a sign of how similar departures might be handled in the future.

The coverage reflected the official view that Communist Party policy takes precedence over the men who execute it.

The departure of Kosygin came just two days after the election of 49-year-old Mikhail Gorbachev to full membership in the Politburo, and some analysts believe the two events could be closely linked.

Gorbachev is one of the youngest people inducted into the ruling hierarchy since the days of Stalin, and some Kremlin watchers see his election as the spearhead of an effort to bring younger men to top leadership positions. The current average age of Politburo members is 69.

However, Western analysts note that Gorbachev appears to have been given responsibility for the agricultural sector, traditionally a political hot potato because of its history of poor production.

GOP leaders host Reagan rally in Midland

By SUE FAHLGREN
Staff Writer

Sen. Bill Armstrong of Colorado and State Republican Party Chairman Chester Upham of Mineral Wells hosted a Republican rally in Midland Thursday as part of the final two-week swing through Texas to gain support for the Reagan-Bush ticket.

"We're looking for support on all parts of the ticket," Upham said.

Upham, co-owner of Upham Oil and Gas Co. and managing co-owner of Upham Development Co. in Mineral Wells, said a current Republican party poll "shows the Reagan-Bush ticket has a solid eight-point lead."

Upham said 47 percent of those polled support the Reagan-Bush ticket, while 39 percent are for Carter-Mondale and 6 percent are for Anderson-Lucey.

In addition, Upham said, some phone bank volunteers in Texas had "already located two times as many registered voters as during the Clements campaign" two years ago when Bill Clements ran for governor. The volunteers are phoning residents from two sets of phone banks in Texas to get them to support the Republican candidates.

"We're finding that people are becoming more comfortable with the Republican Party," Upham said, mentioning switch-party voters, "while they are becoming very, very uncomfortable with the Democratic Party."

Armstrong, a junior senator from Colorado, said one reason for the stop in Midland is that the city represents "what America stands for."

"I'm more glad to be back in Midland than you know," Armstrong told media representatives during a news conference Thursday. "There's a sense of tremendous dedication to the free enterprise system here. The values in Midland are the values of most Americans."

Armstrong continued, "Seeing what you're doing here gives me more encouragement to fight for the American people," and get Ronald Reagan elected.

Armstrong said he feels that as the campaign nears election day, issues would turn away from the current rhetoric and lean more toward "the state of the economy."

"Jimmy Carter himself made the economy an issue in the 1976 election," Armstrong said as he pointed out taxes and inflation have increased since Carter took office.

"No where else in the world is this more evident than in Midland, Texas, which has had so much to do with the

After 356 days: Iran, why now?

An AP News Analysis
By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 356 days, why now?

Iran's desperate scramble for arms to fight its month-long war with Iraq and a desire for a more sympathetic hearing in the international community may be major factors behind the decision in Tehran to take up the plight of the American hostages this weekend.

But is the timing, in the waning days of the U.S. presidential campaign, merely a coincidence?

If their 356-day ordeal is indeed nearing an end, it might well help President Carter win re-election, although the Iranians deny that intention.

Quoting Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai that the decision had "nothing to do with November or the American election," State Department spokesman John H. Trotter said Thursday "that's the most eloquent statement I can give you at this time."

And, he added, "I believe it."

Why, then, are the Iranians finally moving on the hostages after almost a year of repeated delays?

According to one U.S. analyst, military forces in Iran may have persuaded the radicals that Iran's need for equipment in the conflict with Iraq should take priority over other considerations.

Whatever value holding the hostages had as an anti-American gesture, reopening trade with the United States is now more vital, this theory goes.

And, according to the official, who asked not to be identified, Iran might feel it can strike a better bargain with the administration before the election than afterward — no matter who wins.

Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Thursday he expects the hostages to be released "in the relatively near future" because they have served the purposes which their captors had in mind.

In a meeting here with reporters, Kissinger would not predict whether the hostages would be freed before the election.

But he emphasized his belief that the release, if it occurs, will be due to Iran's internal needs rather than Carter administration diplomacy.

He said two of the initial objectives in seizing the U.S. Embassy at Tehran had been achieved — enhancing the position of the radical captors and demonstrating the weakness of the United States within Iran.

According to Kissinger, who has been advising and appearing with Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, these objectives were met months ago but there was no consensus among Iranian forces to release the Americans until recently.

Inflation back in 'double digits'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation jumped back into double digits in September as consumer prices, led by rising food costs, rose a full 1 percent, the government said today in its last inflation report before Election Day.

Last month's rise translates into a 12.7 percent compound annual inflation rate, compared with the 13.3 percent rise in 1979. From January through September, consumer prices have risen 12.1 percent at an annual rate.

The inflation issue has become a central theme of the presidential campaign, with Republican nominee Ronald Reagan sharply attacking President Carter's handling of the economy. At one point, he accused the administration of manipulating economic statistics for political purposes, a charge officials strongly denied.

September's consumer price figures proved worse than August's 0.7 percent increase and the zero movement registered in July. Inflation was at an even 1 percent in June.

The report showed retail food prices once again rising sharply, while housing costs began to accelerate following this summer's decline. Gasoline prices, however, fell for the fifth consecutive month.

September's inflation performance as measured by the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index was far more favorable than the pace last winter when consumer prices were racing at more than an 18 percent annual rate.

However, the 1 percent increase was worse than many economists predicted. Moreover, food prices are expected to accelerate in coming months, say economists, including Carter's chief inflation adviser, Alfred Kahn.

Asked if the president accepts "no responsibility for the failure of his anti-inflation efforts," White House press secretary Jody Powell said: "You cannot honestly call this a failure, one month's CPI an indication of failure of the anti-inflation effort."

Powell tried to use the inflation report to bolster a key Carter campaign claim that Reagan's tax-cut plan would spur inflation.

He said the report "confirms the wisdom of the president's policy of holding down government spending and opposing the massive election-year tax cut proposed by the Republicans." And the spokesman asserted that the president's own, more modest tax-cut plan would actually be anti-inflationary.

There was no immediate on the inflation report from Reagan or his aides.

The Labor Department also reported that average weekly earnings after deductions for Social Security and federal income taxes decreased 0.4 percent from August after seasonal adjustments. Over the year, spendable earnings declined 6.7 percent after inflation was taken into account.

Patrick Jackman, a Labor Department economist, said the difference between September's 1 percent jump and August's 0.7 percent rise was due largely to a slowing in the decline of mortgage interest costs.

He said sharply higher costs of pork and beef also played a significant role in last month's price acceleration.

"September's 1 percent increase is representative of the true, current inflation rate," said Otto Eckstein, head of Data Resources Inc., a private economic forecasting firm. "Indeed, inflation is in the double-digit range."

Eckstein said "special factors" have affected recent, past consumer price reports, but "we cannot blame (last month's) increase" on quirks.

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — Candace Montgomery, charged with murder in the death of her former lover's wife, told a hushed courtroom in a wavering voice that she wrestled a 3-foot ax from Betty Gore and then "I hit her and I hit her and I hit her and I hit her."

Bright, viewing photographs of Mrs. Gore's hacked body, said most of the ax wounds appeared to have been inflicted after death.

The 30-year-old housewife and mother of two said Thursday she hacked her friend to death June 13 only in self defense.

The trial in State District Court is in its fifth day today. On Thursday, the prosecution rested its case, and the defense opened with Mrs. Montgomery's testimony.

According to her testimony: Mrs. Gore left the room and returned with an ax, saying "I don't want you to ever see him again. You can't have him."

Klan paramilitary units pose threat, says ADL

DALLAS (AP) — Guerrilla warfare training by paramilitary units associated with the Ku Klux Klan could lead to an outbreak of terrorism if ignored by the federal government, according to a report by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The ADL contended, in a study commissioned by the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, that the paramilitary units were training at clandestine camps in five states.

The "Texas Emergency Reserve," an arm of the Klan, conducts tactical exercises two weekends of each month in rural East Texas, the ADL said in its report.

Inquiry ordered in defense leak

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher today ordered an inquiry into how sensitive documents proposing up to $1.2 billion in cuts in Britain's defense budget to curb inflation leaked to the British domestic Press Association news agency.

"The departments concerned are interested to find out how these documents got out," said a spokesman for the prime minister's office.

"They will be making inquiries," he added without elaboration.

The investigation began hours after the news agency reported the government was ready to slash deeper into expenditures. The apparent intention, it said, is to double the original $2.4 billion cuts already planned by cutting budgets for defense as well as law and order, pensions and the state-run National Health Service.

The agency said the intention emerged in a secret letter to Defense Secretary Francis Pym from his Cabinet colleague John Biffen, treasury chief secretary.

In addition, it reported that a leaked memorandum to Pym from his own staff said heads of the armed forces are "naturally seriously concerned" over proposed military spending cuts that could run up to $1.2 billion a year.

The agency did not say how it obtained the documents. Pym said in a statement that the quotations "appear to have been taken from genuine documents." He stressed no decision on the cuts has been taken.

Of war and peace

The so-called war or peace issue in the presidential race has intensified in recent weeks with President Jimmy Carter attempting to paint Republican nominee Ronald Reagan as a war-monger.

Reagan, meanwhile, has countered that charge by contending that President Carter's lack of resolve in dealing with adversaries represents even more of a threat to peace.

The voters of this country are intelligent enough to see through Carter's insinuations. But Reagan has spoken out again about his beliefs and he hit the nail directly on the head. It bears repeating, in fact, lest voters forget and begin to heed Carter's warnings.

Earlier this week, Reagan said, "The greatest risk of war is the kind of foreign policy we have today. Our adversaries don't respect us anymore, we've lost the margin of safety..."

The governor continued, "I believe this country has got to take the leadership for preserving the peace. Right now we're adrift. We will go wherever the waves will take us."

Reagan is right on the first count. An ineffective foreign policy — one that is not based on respect and trust — tempts aggression. Respect, defined as "a high or special regard," is earned by the qualities of honesty, truthfulness and loyalty.

Respect can be undermined by an administration that does not do what it says it will do; one that knowingly allows an enemy to expand its arsenal; one that allows its own military to decline in strength and prestige.

The governor also scored points when he noted that the United States needs to resume a leadership role in the preservation of peace. How, you might ask, does one go about preserving peace?

There are two ways to view an arsenal. One way is to assume you'll need it. So you keep it on hand with the belief that it will deter aggression. The other is the belief that by dismantling your arsenal you have removed the need for it because your enemy will see you want to live in peace.

Unfortunately, if the latter is not true a country likely will not get a chance to prove the former was correct.

No one wants war. Few actually like military service. But until human nature changes significantly both likely will be around where peace is found.

Reagan apparently understands that fact of life. He also apparently understands that the scales are not now in the United States' favor although they should be.

Perhaps that's an understanding Jimmy Carter never will possess.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Friday, Oct. 24, the 298th day of 1980. There are 68 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Oct. 24, 1945, the United Nations charter came into force as the Soviet Union became the 29th nation to ratify it.

On this date: In 1648, the Peace of Westphalia ended the 30 Years War; and, European nations recognized the Netherlands' independence.

In 1795, Poland was partitioned by Prussia, Austria and Russia.

In 1962, the United States began its naval blockade of Cuba.

In 1964, Northern Rhodesia became the independent republic of Zambia.

Ten years ago: The election of Marxist Salvador Allende as president of Chile was confirmed.

Five years ago: Turkey's ambassador to France was fatally shot by assassins in Paris.

One year ago, Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev appeared in Moscow after a 16-day absence that prompted rumors he had died.

Today's birthday: Former pro foot-

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Libya-Vesco bribe case judge tough, fair

WASHINGTON — The $30 million Libyan bribery attempt, detailed in past columns, has many elements of Watergate: stonewalling by an administration in the midst of a re-election campaign, claims of executive privilege, allegations of White House involvement, even a mysterious 30-minute gap in a crucial tape-recorded conversation.

The most significant parallel of all, though, may be the presence of a tough federal judge who will brook no nonsense from anyone, however high and mighty. He is the chief U.S. district court judge in Denver, the Hon. Fred Winner, who is taking a stern view of the case.

Secret Justice Department files reveal that Libya agreed to make available $30 million in bribe money to gain the release of some U.S. transport planes that dictator Muammar Qaddafi was eager to acquire. The desert dictator was willing to spend the baksheesh to get White House insiders to lift the State Department's embargo on the planes.

Fugitive financier Robert Vesco, who had close connections with the Libyans, masterminded the scam. While the plot was in progress, the Justice Department penetrated Vesco's coterie of con men, accumulated a file cabinet full of startling evidence, and then unaccountably began obstructing its own investigation.

But thanks to an honest judge, the details of a possible Justice Department coverup may explode onto the front pages. Here are the details:

One of Vesco's associates, James Feeney, fed investigators in the New York U.S. attorney's office information on the scheme. In return, he expected to get a break on his sentence in a business fraud conviction.

He wound up before Winner in a pre-sentencing hearing where Feeney tried to introduce evidence — including secret telephone tapes of his cooperation in the Vesco-Libya caper. Justice Department officials refused to release the evidence and threatened Feeney with a 77-count indictment if he persisted.

This reluctance by the Carter administration to lift the lid on the Libyan bribery case smelled fishy to Judge Winner. And as sources close to him told my associate Indy Badhwar, the judge is not a man to be taken lightly.

At 68, Winner is a graying but vigorous jurist who is impressive, even magnetic in his black robes, of small physical proportions and wiry build, he seems through some knack of carriage to be larger and more powerful than he is. He has been likened to a feisty mustang. When he bucks, say his friends, watch out. He's a Denver Bronco fan who jogs four miles a day.

Not since Judge John Sirica blew open Richard Nixon's Watergate coverup has a federal judge been in a similar position to take on an incumbent administration. And like Sirica, Winner has earned a reputation for being both tough and fair. In the words of Dick Schmidt, general counsel for the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Winner is "a man who doesn't suffer fools gladly."

Even less gladly, apparently, does

CHARLEY REESE

Carter trying to make Jews, blacks fear Reagan

Almost everybody has been criticizing President Carter for trying to paint Ronald Reagan as a racist, anti-semitic and war-monger so I will tell you the technical reasons behind it.

Jimmy Carter is not hysterical or acting out of panic. He is very cold and calculating and he is trying to accomplish some specific objectives no doubt outlined for him by Bob Strauss, his campaign manager, and Pat Caddell, his pollster.

Carter keeps calling Reagan a racist, not because he thinks he is one or that any educated person will believe him. His clearly defined objective is to mobilize as large a black vote as he possibly can.

Black Americans generally don't vote Republican. Carter knows that, but he also knows they are not all that enthralled with his record which has consisted of rhetoric, a few appointments, and massive unemployment for most blacks. What he is afraid of is apathy among black voters and a light turnout. If he can pin a KKK hat on Reagan in their minds then he will get a large turnout of blacks.

The anti-semitism bit is aimed, of course, at Jewish voters and is tied, not to their nervousness about Reagan personally, but to their nervousness about the Christian fundamentalists who are backing Reagan.

If American Jews voted on the basis of what's good for Israel, Reagan would get 100 percent of the Jewish vote. Carter has stabbed Israel in the back — pressuring her to make concessions, flirting with the PLO, and reneging on his promise to supply oil. If he is reelected, he will recognize the PLO and push for a Palestinian state on the West Bank.

But the vast majority of American Jews don't vote for or against Israel. A small minority of them do, but most of them don't. Most of them vote traditionally liberal and they are sensitive as a raw sore to any hint of intolerance. Many of them are nervous about the firm convictions of the Moral Majority and this edginess is what the Carterites are trying to exploit by raising the spectre of anti-semitism.

The war-mongering is aimed at exploiting what the public opinion polls show is Reagan's greatest political weakness among non-conservative voters — fear that he might rashly plunge us into a war.

If the Carterites could govern as well as they campaign, he wouldn't be in such sad shape. They are as good as anybody ever was at political campaigning. They know they have a lousy record so they are trying to bribe labor and city and state polls while they frighten blacks and Jews.

Carter's new gambit of being "positive" is only a ploy. Even if he can restrain his own tongue which has an urge to lie as well as be nasty, you can be sure his surrogates will continue to hit on the three themes of racism, anti-semitism and war.

I have not commented on the truth or falsity of the charges. Political campaigns have nothing to do with truth. People vote, not on the basis of the truth, but on the basis of their perception of the truth and a lie repeated often enough serves the purpose as well as the truth.

The Carter strategy may work, but it has a weakness. Given the present lack of enthusiasm for Carter, Reagan does not have to win black and Jewish votes. All he has to do is convince them they will be no worse off under a Reagan administration than they are under a Carter administration and given Carter's record, that's not all that difficult.

In other words, voter apathy will work to Reagan's advantage since his more committed supporters will turn out. Negative voters — people who vote against the other guy rather than for the person for whom they actually cast a ballot — generally only turn out against an incumbent. If they don't like either candidate, they have a tendency to stay home.

Since Carter cannot generate enthusiasm for himself, his task is to panic the people into voting against Reagan. Whether Carter succeeds in scaring them or Reagan succeeds in reassuring them will determine the outcome.

At the moment, Reagan is slightly ahead, but it's much too early to call and I still rate it as a toss-up.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

1. In Jesus' time, Palestine was divided into Samaria, Galilee and Judaea. Galilee was considered the most fertile and beautiful. Which two apostles did Jesus find by the Sea of Galilee? Matthew 4: 18.

2. Where did the prophetic phrase, "the writing on the wall" originate? Daniel 5: 24.

3. In what way did hornets aid the advancing Israelites when they entered Canaan? Exodus 23: 28.

4. What type of tree did Jesus use in demonstrating the "sign of the times"? Mark 13: 28.

5. Church people should learn Psalm 133. What does it advocate? 133: 1.

Four correct ... excellent, three ... good.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan's 'ninth inning' performance rapidly intensifying

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — Campaigning for her husband in Brooklyn last Thursday, Nancy Reagan confided to a friend that, yes indeed, Ronald Reagan should debate President Carter head-to-head, a confrontation, she added, that Reagan would win hands down.

With such patronage, debate-prone activists in the Reagan campaign plowed ahead with a three-pronged strategy to exorcise Reaganemia and sharpen a campaign that, as one told us, has "plateaued out at a level too low for comfort." Reagan, in short, has given voters sufficient reasons for not supporting Carter but he has not yet convinced them to take the plunge and vote for him. The decision to debate was the essential first step. It followed a comparatively fruitful day of campaigning in crucial Michigan. That netted old-time civil rights leader Ralph Abernathy and two other black leaders as a hedge against the Carter administration's "you're a racist" attack, but fell short on inspirational content needed to convert large numbers of Carter-shunning Democrats from indecision to active support of Reagan.

Debate-pushers in the Reagan camp found an unexpected asset in the glittering Al Smith dinner in the Waldorf Thursday night. Ignoring the unwritten rule against serious politics and speaking after Reagan's gentle self-ridicule, Carter typically tried to take advantage of his opponent with such gracelessness that the overwhelmingly Democratic audience gave him a Bronx cheer. "If that's the real Carter," one Manhattan Democrat said after the dinner, "why doesn't Reagan take him on in a TV debate? Carter makes him look positively genial."

Evans

Reagan operatives believe, not without reason, that the sharp contrast in personality — "genial" Ron versus uptight Jimmy — gives Reagan a headstart in their momentous confrontation.

The second prong of Reagan's ninth inning effort to shake undecided voters into his basket are up to three half-hour nationally televised talks, the first of which was last Sunday. The second is planned for late October, the last (to be broadcast over two networks if money and schedules permit) on election eve.

The third prong of Reagan's last ditch offensive is a series of 5-minute paid TV commercials done on the road with Carter's economic miseries the main target. Reagan's traveling aides were bubbling at the first of these, done in Lima, Ohio last week, not by Peter Dailey, Reagan's regular producer of TV ads, but by independent Los Angeles producer Bill Carruthers under the direction of Jim Baker, the Reagan camp's debate maestro.

The Lima road-show commercial, while still hitting at Carter with only medium boiled hardness, was clearly superior to the fluff of the past months. Those to come will increase in intensity.

The case for both the debate and a sharper Reagan cutting edge in the last two weeks of a presidential campaign that threatens to set new boredom records is strengthened by Carter's maneuvers on the hostage front. Taxing to LaGuardia airport Friday morning to catch the Washington shuttle, top Reagan aides William Casey and Edwin Meese discussed what, if any, advantage Carter would gain from pre-election hostage release. Reaching for pie in the sky, they figured that voter cynicism born of Carter's crude use of the hostage issue during the primaries might limit the political impact of what otherwise should be a tour de force.

But on second thought, Meese and Casey undermine their own case by agreeing that release of the hostages would be a "wild card" — the highest card in the deck.

With Reagan's strength in the critical industrial states at a level well under 50 percent and the true extent of his Southern pick-up still questionable, Carter's "wild card" could be played with devastating impact just before the polls open.

That is one reason underlying the debate decision: A win over Carter would give Reagan a cushion to absorb the impact of a possible break for the president on the hostages. But the more important reason is Reagan's plateau. It is clearly too low for comfort at a time when the challenger should be riding high.

Kosygin mystical survivor of politics

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexei N. Kosygin, an almost mystical survivor in the often turbulent world of Soviet politics, has quit after 16 years as premier because of ill health. His first deputy, 75-year-old Nikolai Tikhonov, succeeded him as the No. 2 man in the Kremlin leadership.

President Leonid I. Brezhnev announced the shakeup Thursday in a speech to the Supreme Soviet, the national Parliament.

BREZHNEV offered no praise for the outgoing premier, but nonetheless Soviet and Western analysts believe the 76-year-old Kosygin, who reportedly has suffered circulatory problems and at least two heart attacks in recent years, resigned voluntarily, leaving in good political standing.

"He has been trying to resign for some time," said a Soviet source who knows the Kosygin family. "He just wanted to rest, to fish. But other Soviet leaders have been reluctant. Perhaps they've been wondering how to replace him."

The choice of Tikhonov, who became Kosygin's top deputy four years ago, appeared to strengthen Brezhnev's control of the Kremlin leadership. The two men have been close friends and associates since they worked together on development projects in the Ukraine in the 1930s.

TIKHONOV was not expected to implement any major changes and because of his age, most observers believe he is likely to be only an interim replacement as premier. Kosygin came to power in 1964 following the ouster of Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He joined a leadership "troika" with Brezhnev and Nikolai Podgorny.

In recent years, he controlled the Soviet economy and supervised the day-to-day running of the government. His leaving is not expected to have any major impact on Soviet policy.

Before his health failed, Kosygin handled numerous assignments as a diplomatic trouble-shooter. In 1965 he went to Peking to try to reverse the growing ideological split between the two communist giants. In 1967, he met with then-President Lyndon B. Johnson at Glassboro, N.J. for the first U.S.-Soviet summit since the stormy meeting between then-President John F. Kennedy and Khrushchev in Vienna, Austria

Alexei Kosygin in 1961.

MORE RECENTLY Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko took complete charge of foreign affairs and Kosygin's public image faded.

He was absent Thursday when Brezhnev told the Parliament:

"Alexei Kosygin points out that he needs rest and release from vigorous activities because his health has worsened recently. He therefore requests to be relieved of his duties."

Kosygin had not been seen in public since Aug. 3, the closing day of the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow, and is believed to be hospitalized.

If, as generally believed, he left of his own will, he would join former President Anastas Mikoyan as one of the few top Kremlin leaders to resign voluntarily. Mikoyan resigned in 1965, paving the way for Podgorny to take over the presidency. Podgorny was ousted 12 years later and Brezhnev took over his job.

Kosygin, an economics expert and former Leningrad mayor, was 13 years old when the Bolsheviks swept to power in 1917. Twenty-three years later he became deputy premier under Josef Stalin and took over as premier in 1964.

IN HIS memoirs, Khrushchev, Stalin's successor, said he "simply can't explain" how Kosygin survived the brutal Stalinist purges in Leningrad in the late 1940s.

Observers attributed his ability to survive to intellect and hard work, but they also cited his luck and political savvy. Kosygin joined the Red Army at 15 in the heady days two years after the revolution.

He got his early experience and education in plant management and engineering. In 1938 he was working in a textile mill when he was suddenly given the Leningrad mayorship after many of the city's top leaders perished in Stalin's purges.

By 1943 he was a full member of the ruling national Politburo. In 1952 his career suffered a mysterious setback and he lost his Politburo membership. It took him eight years to make a comeback and Khrushchev restored him to full membership in 1960.

Kosygin's wife Klavdia died of cancer in 1967 and in a rare public show of emotion he bent to kiss her in her coffin at the graveside.

KOSYGIN'S son-in-law, Dzhermen Gvishiani, holds a senior government post as deputy chief of the Soviet state science and technology committee.

New premier has close ties to Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP) — New Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov is a white-haired, 75-year-old economics specialist and close ally of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev long expected to move up to the Soviet government's administrative ladder.

Tikhonov, who has served as first deputy premier since September 1976, was named premier Thursday at a session of the Supreme Soviet national Parliament, where Brezhnev announced that Alexei N. Kosygin, 76, had resigned for reasons of health after 16 years as the No. 2 official in the Communist hierarchy.

BREZHNEV, himself

73, and the 75-year-old Tikhonov have been close friends since working together in Ukrainian industrial projects in the 1930s.

The new premier was expected to move up to the highest government administrative post because of the longstanding association and Kosygin's deteriorating health following two heart attacks in recent years.

But observers here noted the new economic chief's move upward was relatively slow, indicating there may have been opposition to him within the ruling 15-member Politburo.

Because of his advanced age, Tikhonov appears to be an interim replacement in the key position, which carries overall responsibility for the Soviet economy.

Tikhonov has held a wide variety of administrative posts in the centralized, state-run economy over the last 30 years, and will need to make good use of his experience if he is to help solve the Soviet Union's growing economic problems, including food and other consumer shortages.

WESTERN analysts here said Tikhonov would be unlikely to initiate major changes in the country's economic program but he could seek to encourage more initiative among administrators below the top level of power to improve production efficiency.

He is expected to have little impact on Soviet foreign policy decisions, an area in which Brezhnev and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are said to have control.

Tikhonov is known as a tough-minded, hard-talking negotiator in dealings with Western governments.

In recent years, he has showed these skills while in charge of the Soviet Union's crucial economic ties with West and East Germany.

IN HIS MOST recent trip abroad last May, Tikhonov went to West Germany to negotiate details of a 25-year economic agreement in which German technology will be used to exploit Siberia's vast natural resources in return for deliveries of Soviet raw materials.

Before reaching the

top echelon, Tikhonov made several official trips to the West, visiting Switzerland in 1955 and Canada in 1956. He accompanied then-President Nikita Khrushchev on his trips to the United States in 1958 and 1959.

Tikhonov was born May 1, 1905 in Kharkov into a Ukrainian professional family.

His career mirrors those of many Soviet leaders — heavy on work experience; short on formal academic training.

At the age of 18, he began working as a locomotive fireman and factory mechanic. In 1930, he graduated from the Dnepropetrovsk Metallurgical Institute in the Ukraine. Brezhnev graduated from the same school in 1935.

TIKHONOV began his climb into the top echelons of the Communist bureaucracy by proving himself an able factory manager in the war years and late 1940s, working as the chief engineer at factories in the Dnepropetrovsk and Pervouralski regions. Brezhnev became head of the Dnepropetrovsk regional Communist Party committee in 1939.

Tikhonov moved on to the post of director at the southern tube mill at Nikopol and in the 1950s worked in the National Ferrous Metallurgy ministry, rising to deputy minister. He took over the Dnepropetrovsk economic region from 1957 to 1960.

In the 1960s he became deputy chairman of the state science and economic council and then deputy chairman of Gosplan, the state economic planning organization.

He was named vice chairman of the Soviet Council of Ministers in 1965 and was promoted to first deputy prime minister four years ago.

IN 1978, Tikhonov became an alternate member of the Kremlin's policy-making body. He was named a full voting member of the Politburo just under a year ago — on Nov. 27, 1979.

Illinois intersection closed

Anyone whose been downtown on Illinois Avenue recently has probably noticed a maze of barricades around an area of Marienfeld Street where workers have been digging a giant hole.

The traffic in that area will be re-routed Saturday and Sunday as Texas Electric Service Company workers continue the construction of putting service lines into the new Midland Bank Tower building.

Midland Public Works Director Fred Baker said Illinois Avenue will be closed to all traffic between Pecos Street and Marienfeld Street during the day and night on Saturday and Sunday.

He said TESCO will be "running ducts northward and into the alley" along those streets to provide the additional service.

Baker said he expects traffic to resume on Illinois Avenue by Monday morning.

Dealer cleared snow to move drugs

CHICAGO — Chicago's biggest heroin-cocaine operation, which sold an estimated $3.6 million in narcotics in four years, was so sophisticated that its leader cleared snow from city streets to be sure drive-up customers could make their illicit purchases, police say.

Police said Wednesday they had broken up the ring, which also spruced up the run-down city neighborhood where it was based to attract suburban, teen-aged customers. Neighbors complained autos were sometimes backed up four and five deep while drivers waited to purchase drugs in front of a fortress-like apartment building on the West Side, police said.

"They had the neighbors scared to death," said Chicago Police Sgt. Philip Cline. "They were afraid if they cooperated with police they would be killed." Charles W. Wilson, 33, the alleged kingpin of the ring, was being sought Wednesday on charges of conspiracy to distribute drugs. A federal indictment returned Tuesday charged that Wilson and 10 other people participated in a ring that sold $3.6 million in narcotics since 1976. Twelve people were named in separate state warrants.

Police said customers of the ring included suburban teen-agers as well as inner city residents, and the gang took pains to make the area attractive to buyers.

Police said they first noticed the apartment because of the presence of many suburban white teen-agers who would drive into the predominantly black neighborhood looking for heroin. Cline called the ring the "largest, most lucrative and sophisticated heroin ring" in the city. He said undercover investigators purchased $10,000 worth of heroin from the gang over a three-year period.

"During the blizzard of '79, Wilson purchased a very expensive snow blower and used it to clean his block every day so customers would have no trouble getting in and out," said Cline.

As of Wednesday, eight of the 23 people charged had been apprehended and three others were already serving sentences for narcotics convictions. Among those still at large, police said, were Wilson, who lives in suburban Broadview, and Harry Cannon, 38, of Chicago, described as the "financial secretary."

Wilson's lawyer had indicated his client would surrender Wednesday but Wilson did not appear in court.

Federal authorities filed a civil suit to recover the wealth accumulated by the group, including two buildings and 59 automobiles, including 35 Cadillacs. The arrests and seizure of the property capped a three-year undercover investigation by the Police Department working with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and the Internal Revenue Service.

Americans feel U.N. job poor

By O.C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — An increasing number of Americans, dismayed by unresolved crises in Iran and Afghanistan, feel the United Nations is doing a poor job in solving world problems, according to a Roper opinion poll.

However, the poll, released Thursday, indicated that despite their disappointment in the United Nations those questioned favored increased U.S. participation in the world body by a 2-1 margin.

Former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, who recently resigned as President Carter's special envoy at the U.N.-sponsored Law of the Sea Conference, said the United States shares the blame for poor problem solving with the United Nations by too often adopting a go-it-alone approach to world crises.

The United States would be better advised to seek ways of bolstering "multilateral peace-keeping mechanisms," Richardson said in releasing the results of the Roper poll, commissioned by the United Nations Association of the United States of America. Richardson is chairman of the non-partisan association.

Burns Roper, whose organization polled a representative sampling of 2,000 Americans nationwide in late August, said the poor rating given to the United Nations reflected its inability to get "the hostages out of Iran and the Russians out of Afghanistan."

But he noted that other public opinion samplings indicated that "support for our own government has shown a greater decline than for the United Nations."

The poll was released just eight days before the 154-nation world body marks its 35th anniversary, an event that has prompted searching reappraisals of its effectiveness.

In his anniversary year report, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim complained of an "erosion of the authority and reputation of the United Nations as a responsible international body" because its resolutions frequently go unheeded.

Waldheim makes the point shared by American diplomats here that the world body can only be as effective as its members permit it to be.

Waldheim concluded that the present imperfect system for maintaining the peace "is probably all the current political conditions will allow."

Richardson, giving examples of what he considered insufficient U.S. stress on existing international machinery, claimed the Carter Administration had "grossly underplayed the value of the World Court ruling" calling on Iran to release the 52 American hostages.

California delta floodwaters now threatening aqueduct

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Delta floodwaters which coursed through a collapsed railway embankment, toppling two locomotives and a flatcar and swamping 6,300 acres of farmland, today were threatening to rupture an aqueduct serving more than a million people.

Wary officials were making round-the-clock checks on the supply lines carrying water to cities on the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay.

"I think the water supply is definitely in danger," Jim Lattie, spokesman for the East Bay Municipal Utility District, said Thursday.

About 100 feet of the Santa Fe Railway bed collapsed at 2:15 a.m. Thursday as three 262,900-pound diesels hauling 44 freight cars east from Antioch to Stockton chugged over the embankment, authorities said.

Two unmanned locomotives and a flatcar tumbled over the embankment as a wall of water roared into Upper Jones Tract.

By dusk Thursday, the breach had widened to 300 feet, and the "lake" stood at about seven feet deep.

The supports for the above-ground, three-pipe Mokelumne Aqueduct were inundated and the four-foot diameter pipes bringing Sierra Nevada water to the coast were half under water.

No one was hurt in the train accident, the evacuation or the flooding. But "we're out of the farming business," said one dispossessed farmer.

Billions of gallons of water chased 25 people in four families from their ruined homes in the Upper Jones Tract and blanketed row upon row of asparagus and corn, forming an unwelcome lake over some of the richest farmland in California.

A nearby underground jet fuel pipeline running from Stockton to Travis Air Force Base was closed after the flooding began. Some 300 million gallons of water a day had been pumped over the aqueduct to such cities as Oakland and Berkeley before the embankment collapsed. After it gave way, the pumps temporarily were shut down but were restored to one-third capacity before nightfall.

The water district says it has about six months of water in East Bay reservoirs. But if the aqueduct goes, voluntary water rationing might be required, district officials said.

The embankment had been the sole barrier between flooding in the Lower Jones Tract and farmland in the Upper Jones Tract. The Lower Jones Tract flood occurred Sept. 26 when San Joaquin River Delta waters burst through a levee, ruining houses, farm equipment and ready-to-harvest crops.

The incident came less than a month after floodwaters breached a levee and blanketed 5,300 acres. The area, 10 miles west of Stockton and 50 miles east of San Francisco, had been declared a disaster area by President Carter and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The breached levee was repaired last week, and the embankment was shored up with 50,000 tons of rock at a cost of $2 million. But the floodwaters in Lower Jones Tract had not been pumped out and railroad officials repeatedly said the embankment was designed to support trains, not hold back a flood.

Many farmers chased from their lands were bitter at the Santa Fe for continuing to run its trains over the embankment.

"They should have known it was safe before they let trains go across it," said grower Al Arlaneaus.

Water shortages possible

By JOHN DANISZEWSKI Associated Press Writer

From the parched farmlands of central Pennsylvania to the depleted reservoirs of northern New Jersey, the specter of water shortages has risen again in the heavily populated Northeast.

A dry summer and fall, combined with steady heat that drove up water consumption, have destroyed crops valued at more than $100 million and forced mandatory water conservation in some areas, officials say.

IN NORTHERN New Jersey, residents have been told to cut water use. Pennsylvania's governor has called for voluntary conservation and threatened sterner steps. New York City issued a "drought watch."

Spokesmen for the National Weather Service and for New York City's water department said the situation is the worst since a prolonged drought in the Northeast in 1964 and 1965.

In most areas, the taps are still running. But water supplies for an estimated 7.5 million New Yorkers, 2.5 million New Jerseyites and 200,000 Pennsylvanians are low, officials said.

"In the state of New York it's basically the southeastern corner," said Weather Service hydrologist Walt Nickelsberg. "In Pennsylvania it's probably half the state and in New Jersey it's the whole state."

IN PENNSYLVANIA, the dryness is most critical in rural areas, said Kirk Wilson of the governor's office. Some spots are short 10 inches of rain from what they normally would expect this time of year.

Water supplies are lowest in northeastern New Jersey, dependent primarily on reservoirs rather than groundwater, Nickelsberg said.

New York City on Wednesday began selling up to 2 million gallons a day to parched northern New Jersey. But the city said it will shut off the faucet Nov. 1 because New Yorkers may need the water for themselves.

"We've had years where it's been this bad, in the early 1960s for example," said Nickelsberg. "If it ends this year, we'll be OK." "When you talk about water supply, you have to think the worst," he said, because when supplies run out, it's too late to conserve.

A NEW JERSEY water company official says rationing there may be needed for years if the drought, imitates the one 15 years ago.

"The last drought we had, during the 1960s, lasted 2 1/2 years," said John F. Devlin of Hackensack Water Co. If current rainfall patterns continue, he said, the area will receive about 29 inches for 1980, compared with 43 inches the previous year.

The Weather Service predicted rain for the weekend, but the long range forecast foresaw less than average rainfall for 10 days. The shortage is due to a freak weather pattern, Nickelsberg said.

"Right now, it's just that everything has been moving either north or south of the area," he said.

New Jersey Gov. Brendan Byrne has ordered residents of 114 northern New Jersey communities to cut water use to 50 gallons a day each.

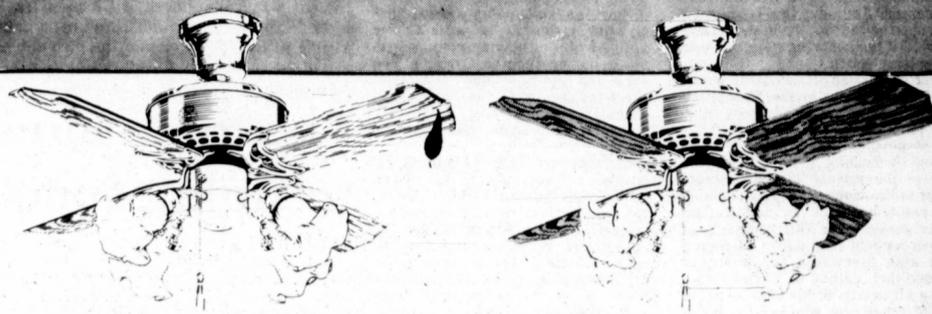

MEANWHILE, the federal government has agreed to help build a $6 million pipeline from Lake Hopatcong that will provide 25 million gallons daily for dried-up Bontoon Reservoir. Construction will take 45 days.

New York's drought watch was issued after low rainfall and a forecast calling for little precipitation, said John Cunningham of the municipal Department of Environmental Protection.

By Thursday, New York City's water supply was down to 46 percent of its 550 billion-gallon capacity, and the city already is looking for water main leaks to prevent waste.

The watch is likely to be upgraded to a warning in November, one step shy of a "drought emergency," Cunningham said.

Reservoirs "normally would be low going into October because the summertime is our peak use period," he said.

GOP perplexed by hostage issue

By The Associated Press
There's more than Ronald Reagan's concern for the 52 American hostages to stop him from talking about the question of the captives in Iran. Sources in the Republican's campaign say they are simply perplexed over how to deal with the sensitive issue.

The Reagan camp knows — or at least believes — the release of the Americans before the Nov. 4 election would help President Carter and hurt the Republican nominee. But GOP campaign officials can hardly make that a campaign issue.

The answer, thus, is silence. But the Republicans have not succeeded in keeping everyone in their camp quiet.

One Reagan adviser, Benjamin Fernandez, said at an Atlanta news conference Thursday that he thinks it would be better "for the Republic as a whole" if the hostages were released after the election.

Fernandez, an unsuccessful presidential candidate in the Republican primaries and now an adviser to Reagan on minorities, also said: "Somewhat belatedly, Carter is doing everything possible today to secure the release of the hostages prior to November 4, hoping to create an emotional high leading to four more years in the White House."

Independent candidate John Anderson also discussed the hostages Wednesday, calling on Carter to disclose all details of his efforts to free the 52 Americans who — incidentally — will have been in captivity exactly one year on Election Day.

As for Reagan, he attacked Carter mostly on the economy Thursday and planned to do the same tonight in a paid television speech, spending the rest of the day readying for his debate with Carter next Tuesday.

Carter was campaigning today in New Jersey and Michigan, and Anderson was touring a steel plant in Buffalo, N.Y., before campaign stops in Massachusetts.

The independent candidate, cut out of the debate by the sponsoring League of Women Voters, has in effect been put back in it, at least for some television viewers, by the Cable News Network.

The fledgling cable network plans to use a tape-delay technique to allow Anderson to answer questions along with Carter and Reagan, and broadcast the results to the 3½ million homes it serves. It also said it would offer its two-hour program to local stations who want to carry it.

On Thursday, Anderson said in Detroit that Carter has pulled a "veil of presidential secrecy" over the hostage issue.

The Republican congressman challenged the president to immediately disclose all that he has done or plans to do to free the hostages. "It is incumbent upon the president to tell us what his plan is," Anderson said.

"I don't think that we want to feel that we have decided this election on the basis of some sleight of hand that has gone on, where moves have been made and decisions taken and concessions made that we don't know about when we go into the polling booths on the fourth of November," he said.

Anderson had earlier handled the hostage issue gently, saying he would not criticize Carter for fear of jeopardizing any negotiations.

Now Reagan is being quiet — that is, after earlier in the week Carter accused him of playing politics with the issue, he accused Carter of the same and said he wouldn't talk about the hostages with the lives of 52 human beings at stake.

Privately, Reagan's aides say the hostages are simply a no-win topic.

One aide, speaking of the hostages' possible release, said, "I don't know exactly how it would cut, but I know in my gut it wouldn't be good for us."

Reagan has said that he, like all Americans, would welcome the hostages' release as soon as possible, and the aide said the best the Republicans could do if they were freed is to applaud — then change the subject.

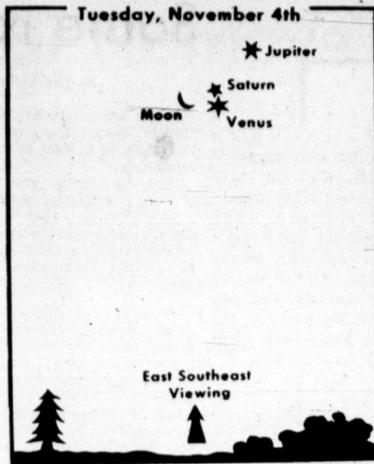

The Republican hit at Carter's record on the economy in Florida, South Carolina and Tennessee on Thursday. He told a crowd at a Greenville, S.C., shopping center that Carter "has given us an economic record of misery and despair unparalleled in recent history."

Reagan said the centerpiece of the economic program he will discuss tonight will be a 30 percent tax cut for Americans over a three-year period, combined with an inflation-adjusted decrease in federal spending of at least 7 percent by 1985.

Both Reagan and Carter also got new endorsements on Thursday.

Reagan was supported by former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who sought the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968 under a peace banner. McCarthy admitted his endorsement was not too enthusiastic, then added, "I haven't been enthusiastic about any candidate for the president since Adlai Stevenson ... even myself."

The president received the endorsement of the Rev. Joseph Lowery.

Clayton returns to state capitol

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House Speaker Bill Clayton came back to the state capitol talking as if he was more interested in getting out the vote Nov. 4 than in running hard for an unprecedented fourth term as speaker.

He received an enthusiastic welcome from the House staff and obviously enjoyed the adulation. But he remained coy about his political plans.

Newly acquitted of Brilab corruption charges, Clayton and his wife, Delma, drove up to the Capitol Thursday and were met with hugs, kisses, balloons and crepe paper streamers.

He met reporters in the Speaker's Committee Room, where he issued his first reaction to news he was a target of the FBI's Brilab "sting" investigation on Feb. 8.

"After more than eight months, I am happy to return ... and tell you our system of justice works. I told you I was innocent, that the system would prove me so, and it has," Clayton said.

He talked a lot about hitting the road to urge Texans to vote in the Nov. 4 general election but remained coy about reviving his speaker's campaign, which was interrupted by Brilab.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, who campaigned for speaker on the condition that Clayton no longer would be a candidate, also has been less than emphatic about dropping out.

Rare sight due on election day

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — While voters line up at the election booth Nov. 4, three planets and the moon will be lined up in the early-morning sky — and a Detroit astrologer says they will put President Carter "at the top of his power cycle."

Other Michigan astrologers, aware of the rare conjunction of Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and the moon, say the heavenly bodies augur confusion on Election Day and predict results of the balloting might not be known for several days.

An astronomer at Michigan State University says the planets' coming together is "just a beautiful thing to look at, that's all."

Astronomer Robert Victor of Michigan State's Abrams Planetarium says Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and the moon may be viewed in a cluster in the east-southeast sky about an hour before sunrise Nov. 4.

The planets should be visible all over the nation.

A similar conjunction will occur in late August 1981. That will be the last until the year 2000, when the conjunction will be blocked by the sun and not visible from Earth, he said.

Some Lansing and Detroit astrologers said the revolutions of the heavenly spheres bode well for Carter. Others predicted that the final choice between Carter, Republican Ronald Reagan and independent presidential candidate John Anderson may not be known as quickly as such results usually are.

"The planets are planning on confusing us," said Jeannette Ridenour-

Snyder of Lansing, who has drawn star charts for 45 years.

There seems to be a consensus among local astrologers that the election will not be decided by the popular vote, and the final results may not be known for several days, Mrs. Ridenour-Snyder said.

"If I were running the government, I'd put off the election until the following Tuesday," she said.

Her review of Carter's and Reagan's star charts shows Carter more likely to prevail. Mrs. Ridenour-Snyder, a Republican, added she has not read Anderson's chart.

The stars shine on Carter, agreed Douglas H. Miller of Detroit, a professional astrologer for 18 years.

Clements wants to get tough on Iran

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bringing the hostages home from Iran could cost President Jimmy Carter political points if he deals with the Ayatollah Khomeini and his "bandits," says Gov. Bill Clements.

The governor said Thursday that Carter should adopt a tough policy towards the Iranians, holding off negotiations until the hostages are returned safely to the United States.

Clements, Ronald Reagan's campaign director in Texas, also told a news conference that Carter is losing support in the state. He said the GOP's latest poll shows 47 percent support for Reagan, 34 percent for Carter, 6 percent for John Anderson, and 12 percent undecided.

The Reagan support was the same as shown in a poll announced last week. However, Carter dropped from 39 percent the previous week, with many of his supporters apparently moving into the undecided column.

"At least they're moving away from Carter. That's the first step. The next step is on election day they vote for Mr. Reagan," Clements said.

The governor was the guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Austin chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the Society of Professional Journalists.

Clements predicted Reagan would get 52 percent of the vote in Texas on Nov. 4.

He said Secretary of State George Shultz had estimated there are 6.3 million registered voters in Texas and 4.25 million would vote in the general election.

The 1976 figures were 6.28 million registered voters and just over 4 million votes.

Clements said there are eight other "crucial" states where the race looks close — Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana. The difference is 2 points or less in all those states, he said. Experts say polls are usually correct within 2 percentage points. Clements said the Reagan campaign asked his opinion on a Carter-Reagan debate. Clements said he likes the debates, but added that they probably would not have much impact on the election.

Reacting to House Speaker Billy Clayton's acquittal of Brilab charges Wednesday in Houston, Clements said the state needs a code of ethics for public officials. However, the governor said his legislative program is full and he will not recommend such legislation.

Clements also said he does not object to foreign purchases of Texas land.

"I just hope they charge enough," he said.

The governor said he met earlier Thursday with Dr. Peter Hermes, West Germany's ambassador to the United States. Hermes asked if Texas likes German investment.

"We certainly do. We like those German marks," Clements said.

LOCKNEY — Services for John Burriss Bilbrey, 78, of Lockney, father of Wilma Robertson of Midland, will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in First Baptist Church in Lockney with the Rev. John Jenkins, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Lockney Cemetery directed by Moore-Rose Funeral Home.

Bilbrey died Thursday morning in a Floydada hospital following a lengthy illness.

He was a native of White County, Tenn. Bilbrey married Lena Leota Kyle in 1923 in Victory, Okla. They came to Floyd County 34 years ago from Hollis, Okla. He was a retired car salesman.

Other survivors include a son, three brothers, a sister, six grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Morris Bolton

Services for Morris Bolton, 67, 600 S. Adams St. will be at 4 p.m. Saturday in Ideal Baptist Church with the Rev. Rase Gowans, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery directed by Jackson Funeral Home.

He died Wednesday night in a Midland hospital following a short illness.

Bolton was born Sept. 12, 1913, in Pittsburg. He moved to Lamesa in 1942. He had lived in Midland 26 years. He was a construction worker and a member of the Baptist church. He was married to Helen Armstrong on Sept. 15, 1979.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Vertis B. Bolton of Dallas, Billy Ray Bolton of Houston and Leo Johnson Jr. of Midland; seven daughters, Mattie Vation, Beulah Mae Vallua and Dorothy Chester, all of Dallas, Donnie Jo Bolton of Tulsa, Okla., Lois Ann Bolton of Houston, Cleo Bryant of Oakland, Calif., and Opal J. Anders of Midland; three brothers, Howard Bolton of San Diego, Calif., and Dock Bolton and Willie K. Bolton, both of Lamesa; three sisters, Selester Butts and Mattie Ruth Webber, both of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mae Reane Crosby of Dallas; and 40 grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Nolan Hurd, James Carter, Homer Griffin, Deward Schrock, James Swearingin and Morris Mayberry.

Geneva Keith

Services for Geneva Keith, 50, of Midland will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Antioch Baptist Church with the Rev. Johnny Mitchell officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery directed by Thomas Funeral Home.

She died Monday in a Stanton hospital.

Mrs. Keith was born Oct. 14, 1930, in Stafford and had lived in Midland the past 20 years. She worked as an LVN at Martin County Hospital.

She was a member of Antioch Baptist Church and served as president of the Nurses Board at that church.

Survivors include her husband, Zellar of Midland; six sons, Eddie Keith, John Keith, Arthur Keith and Melton Keith, all of Midland, Zellar Keith Jr. of Ft. Sill, Okla., and Alvin Keith of Los Angeles, Calif.; three daughters, Lavern Brewer of Midland, Carolyn Johnson of Dallas and Thirley Dicken of Los Angeles, Calif.; five sisters, Ella Smith, Elvira Sparks, Thirley Mills and Ollie Davis, all of Houston, and Zola Oliver of Stafford; three brothers, Leon Fields and Oscar Fields Jr. of Houston, and Melvin Fields of Stafford; and 12 grandchildren.

Freeman Hemphill

Services for Freeman Hemphill, 61, 102 S. Madison St. will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Thomas Funeral Home chapel with burial in Fairview Cemetery.

He died Wednesday on the McDowell Ranch at Big Spring.

Hemphill was born Dec. 15, 1918, in Mitchell County. He had lived in Midland since 1951.

Survivors include five sons, Woodrow Bailey, Richard Hemphill, Fred Lewis and Alfred Lee Hemphill, all of Midland, and John Lee of Atlanta, Ga.; five daughters, Lois Hemphill, Thelma Williams and Della Hemphill Collins, all of Midland, Irma Jean Harmon of Chicago, Ill., and Hattie McPherson of Pittsburgh, Calif.; two sisters, Sadie Johnson and Madene Woodberry, both of Midland; two brothers, Floyd Hemphill of Colorado City and Jessie Hemphill of Paducah; and 22 grandchildren.

Frances Shroyer

Services for Frances Shroyer, 69, 700 Scharbauer Drive, will be at 11 a.m. Monday in Newline W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Bob Porterfield, pastor of West Kentucky Baptist Church, officiating. She will be entombed in Forest Park Mausoleum at Houston.

She died Thursday in a Midland nursing home after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Shroyer was born Dec. 27, 1910, in Winfield, Kan. She was married and shortly thereafter moved to Houston in 1927. She moved to Midland six years ago from Houston. She was a member of United Brethren Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. W.R. Kendall of Midland; three sisters, Mrs. C.M. Shroyer of Lipan, Mrs. Carl Allard of San Angelo and Mrs. V.E. King of Winfield, Kan.; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials be directed to the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center, in care of Midland Memorial Hospital.

Funeral set for victims of explosion

ORTUELLA, Spain (AP) — This poverty-stricken Spanish mining town was draped in mourning black under a driving rain today for the funeral of 49 of its children, killed when a powerful gas explosion leveled their grammar school.

The governor of Vizcaya Province issued what he said was the final toll: 49 children aged between 6 and 8, and two adults. Initial reports said as many as 64 people were killed, but officials said some were counted twice.

One of the adults was a teacher and the other a plumber, who investigators said could have unwittingly caused the explosion. They said there were indications that a soldering iron the plumber was using near the school's gas-fired heating boiler may have set off the gas explosion.

Because of the rain officials said the coffins will be laid out in a factory instead of the town square, where the ceremony originally was scheduled to be held. Officials predicted a crowd of about 40,000 will attend the burial in the town's only cemetery this afternoon.

About 30 children remained hospitalized, at least six of them in critical condition, following the explosion Thursday.

"We were studying or drawing when a terrific blast shook the building," said eight-year-old Javier Abad, one of the survivors. "Walls opened and fell on us and the floor caved in around me. I saw some of my best friends disappear."

Witnesses said some of the children were hurled through windows in the four-story building by the powerful explosion.

"I saw some children falling down to the ground from the high floors," said one witness. "It was so terrible I really lack words to explain what my eyes saw."

The devastating blast, heard as far as 10 miles away, brought parents running to the "Marcelino Ugalde" school. Witnesses said some relatives jumped onto the mound of smoking rubble in a frantic effort to find their children and had to be restrained by rescue workers.

Some parents were reported to have lost up to three children in the explosion.

"I never suffered so much in my life," said one rescue worker. "Two of my children were in the school at the time but luckily they were in one of the units not affected by the explosion," he said.

Some parents managed to save injured children but others saw their children die in their arms as they rushed through the town of 9,500 shouting for help, witnesses said.

The pre-noon blast shattered the elementary school, one of three school buildings in the complex. The other two units of the state-run school suffered minor damage, but the estimated 300 students in them escaped unhurt, officials said.

The grammar school looked like it "had been swallowed by an earthquake," one woman said.

Driver hurt in bus shooting

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas Transit System bus driver was slightly injured this morning when a bullet shattered the right front passenger door of the bus he was driving, police said.

The shooting, the second this month involving the strike-plagued system, occurred about a mile from the place where 8-year-old Alisa Williams was shot in the head while riding a bus.

Police said driver Marvin Ray Johnson, 24, was cut by flying glass when a bullet from a weapon officers said was "larger than a .38 caliber" struck the door of the bus shortly before 5 a.m. today.

Johnson was not hospitalized and told police he did not see who fired the shot. Officers said they had not found any witnesses to the incident.

No passengers were in the bus at the time the shooting occurred in the residential neighborhood.

The Williams girl was shot Oct. 14 as she rode a bus to school. Two other passengers were injured by flying glass.

Ray Goff, a fired DTS driver, was charged Monday with three counts of attempted murder in connection with that shooting.

Calls flood task force

ATLANTA (AP) — Mayor Maynard Jackson's prediction last week that a $100,000 reward would "shake the tree" apparently proved true as police fielded a flood of calls offering help in solving the killings of 10 black children since July 1979.

"It's been a madhouse around here today," said Roger Harris, one of several police public affairs officers helping handle calls Thursday for the special task force investigating the killings.

Harris said, however, there were "no new developments" in the investigation, which has left police baffled. Four other children are missing.

Meanwhile, police accompanied self-professed psychic Dorothy Allison of Nutley, N.J., until late into the night on visits to crime sites and to victims' families.

She had said on a television program she hoped "to have some answers" by Thursday evening, but she could not be reached for comment during the night.

Meanwhile, in Washington, President Carter told a group of black ministers he had asked U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to investigate the Atlanta killings and the slayings of six black men in Buffalo, N.Y.

Plane crash kills four

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A twin-engine private airplane enroute from Atlanta to Savannah smashed into a field in west Baldwin County, killing all four people aboard, authorities say.

Baldwin County Chief Deputy Gene Ellis said the victims were believed to be from the Atlanta area, but they had not been identified late Thursday.

A reporter at the scene said he saw the bodies of two women, a man and a child.

The Cessna 310 left Peachtree-DeKalb Airport at 6:15 p.m. Thursday and disappeared from Macon radar screens at about 6:54 p.m.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Smoking causes most lung cancer

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've been an on-again, off-again smoker for the past few years. With all the publicity I've read and heard about the dangers of smoking, I don't recall seeing any statistics about what would be accomplished if a person stopped. Cigarettes aren't the only cause of lung cancer, are they? — Len

Dear Len: More than 80 percent of all lung cancer, as well as 50 percent of all bladder cancer, could be prevented if people simply stopped smoking. The importance of these statistics is underlined by the fact that four percent of all deaths in the United States, and 25 percent of all deaths from cancer in 1977, were attributable to lung cancer. That means that 80 percent of 72,000 men and 23,000 women died because they smoked cigarettes. Keep that in mind next time you're debating whether to go on-again or off-again.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband is a diabetic. Some time ago he had trouble with an infection on his foot, but fortunately it has since cleared up. However, I'm always a little concerned that the condition may recur. Can you tell me what to look for so that we can be aware of possible trouble at an early stage? — Sylvia

Dear Sylvia: According to Dr. Max Weisfeld, a Baltimore podiatrist, early signs of foot trouble in diabetic patients include changes in skin color, swelling or pain; skin blisters, cracking or rashes; corns, calluses, ingrown nails or slow-healing sores; and cramping, "pins and needles" and numbness. In addition to being alert to these signs of impending trouble, your husband should make it a point to see a physician or podiatrist for regular foot examinations.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I saw a television program dealing with the use of radiation treatments about 30 years ago. Apparently, these treatments were used for a variety of conditions, and may have had a harmful effect on the thyroid. I had X-ray treatments for acne as an adolescent, and I'm wondering what, if anything, I could do. I feel well and can't remember the last time I was sick. Should I just forget about it. — Meg

Dear Meg: Although you probably have no need to be concerned, I would not simply "forget about it." Some people who had radiation treatments to the head and neck back in the 40s and 50s have developed nodules in the thyroid, and some of these may be malignant. The lump ordinarily is not noticeable, and can be detected only by physical examination or a thyroid scan.

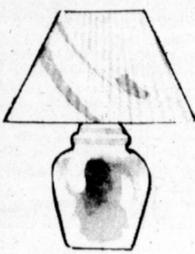

Persons between 20 and 45 years of age who had X-ray treatments during their childhood should arrange for an examination by their physician. Medical treatment or surgical removal of the nodules, if any are found, may be indicated. Although few people die as a result of this condition, they do have an increased risk of developing thyroid cancer.

The peace of mind you will achieve by seeing a doctor will be well worth the time and cost.

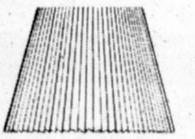

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Vehicle sales tax down

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday said the automobile industry's woes brought about by sagging sales in the past year are reflected in the state's income from the motor vehicle sales tax.

billable homes amounted to $439.4 million.

He said this was $3.7 million less than was collected in the previous one-year period.

Shroud report due in January

ESPAÑOLA, N.M. (AP) — A scientific study of the authenticity of the Shroud of Turin should be complete within three months, according to Raymond Rogers, a spokesman for the researchers.

Harris County was the number one contributor of motor vehicle sales tax during fiscal year 1980, collecting more than $93.6 million, a slight increase from the $93.1 million collected in fiscal 1979.

Dallas County collected $59.3 million in 1980, down from $61.5 million in 1979.

Polecats hope to skunk candidates

CHICAGO (AP) — Three years ago, Bill Stanton and the state got into a stink over a skunk. Now the father of seven is taking a pro-polecat campaign to the state's schoolchildren.

As head of the "Polecat Party," Stanton is conducting a write-in campaign for the election of the skunk as Illinois' state animal. The voters are the state's 2.4 million schoolchildren and the election is to be held Nov. 4, the same day the general election for adults. A good turnout is assured.

Those on the ballot can't hold a candle to the skunk," Stanton said Wednesday. He is rigging up a "skunkmobile" — an old station wagon with a public address system — to promote that view.

"Our platform stresses that a skunk's fur is used for coats, its oil is used in the production of perfume and skunks eat insects harmful to crops," he said.

The animals listed on the ballot are the red fox, opossum, whitetailed deer, fox squirrel, raccoon and ground squirrel.

The state has an official bird, the cardinal, and an official flower, the violet. It even has an official insect, the monarch butterfly. But no official animal.

To remedy that, and provide a chance for schoolchildren to get a civics lesson, the state Legislature passed a bill authorizing the animal vote and listing animals it thought would make good candidates.

The state boards of education and elections aren't putting up much of a stink about the skunk.

"We appreciate Mr. Stanton's interest in the skunk and there is a place on the ballot for a write-in candidate," said Ann Pictor, educational consultant for the state office of education. "But we are more interested in our school children learning the electoral process."

Stanton, 48, who works in construction, is a long-time champion of the skunk.

Three years ago, one of the critters wandered into his garage on the far South Side of Chicago and refused to leave. The skunk was adopted by Stanton's seven children as a pet, and eventually moved into the house, where he lived for seven weeks.

They named him "Wishbone" because he enjoyed a piece of the family's Thanksgiving Day turkey. Wishbone — who was so gentle he never had to be deodorized — attracted wide attention as Stanton battled to keep it. A state conservation regulation bars skunks as household pets.

Stanton lost that campaign, but he saw to it that Wishbone found a good home in Prairie Park, a state wildlife sanctuary near Peoria.

Stanton, who has been beaten in two attempts to gain election as a city alderman, is working hard on his new drive.

DEAR ABBY

These wedding bells will toll, not ring

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged married woman with children. I participated in an organization that provides fellowship and fun.

I mistook one gentleman's friendliness for affection and became more than a little fond of him. By the way, he's married, has children and grandchildren. I never had or have any intention of becoming close to him, but for some stupid reason, which I am unable to explain, I wrote him a letter telling him about my feelings for him. As soon as I realized what a foolish thing I had done, I began to feel ashamed, embarrassed and terribly sick about the whole thing. There is no way I can avoid seeing this man. I will have to face him again—and soon.

How should I act? Please help me, Abby. I am desperate.—SIGN ME STUPID.

DEAR STUPID: Try to act as natural as possible. Make no reference to the letter. If he mentions it, be honest and tell him that you regret having written it, feel stupid and embarrassed, and to please forget it. Then YOU forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I used to be one of those married men whose wives would write to you complaining that their husbands would stop at bars after work and come home anywhere from one to three hours late for dinner.

No more. Here's how I was cured: I recently phoned my wife (from a bar) to tell her I was "detained at the office" and would be home in 20 minutes. (I was already 2 hours late.)

Before I could say a word, I heard my wife's voice in a calm and perfectly modulated tone say, "When and if you decide to come home, you will find your dinner in the oven. I have left. Please do not try to find me because I have had it. And by the way, George, go to hell. This is a recording."

I rushed home, frantic. The house was dark and my wife's car was nowhere to be seen. When I went into our bedroom, I found my wife in bed! "That was no recording. It was 'live.'" The missing car? She had parked it around the corner on a side street to prolong my agony. "But next time," she warned, "it might be for real."—GEORGE

Researchers say bran causes loss of nutrients

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foods loaded with bran interfere with the use of zinc and increase the body's loss of this vital nutrient, say researchers at Georgetown University Medical Center.

Researchers said recently that preliminary results of studies with volunteers eating high-fiber diets indicate that bran-enriched foods alter the body's zinc metabolism.

Dr. Robert I. Henkin, the principal investigator, said all dietary fiber is not the same and similar zinc losses were not found in volunteers eating food high in other types of fiber.

"None of the people in the bran group developed zinc-deficiency symptoms," Henkin said in an interview. "But if bran is consumed at the levels that we gave it, there is a risk that one could develop a deficiency."

Bran is a fibrous substance derived from the skin or husks of rye, wheat, oats and other grains.

Zinc, an important metal to the human body, contributes to growth, liver and muscle function, and protein synthesis.

Researchers caution doctors

CHICAGO (AP) — Physicians should be more cautious about telling patients that severe menstrual cramps are "all in your head," researchers say.

Doctors at a recent symposium on painful menstruation, or dysmenorrhea, say it often is based on definite physiological changes — and arthritis drugs may be useful in blocking the process which gives rise to the pain.

Doctors have traditionally prescribed tranquilizers or analgesics that merely mask the pain. But those who attended the symposium at the University of Illinois described a number of drugs helpful in preventing the chemical interactions which give rise to menstrual pain.

Research by Dr. M. Yusoff Dawood of the University of Illinois indicates that dysmenorrheic women often have abnormally high levels of hormone-like proteins called prostaglandins.

These substances, synthesized in the muscular layer of the uterine wall, are thought to be a major factor in the menstrual cramps which afflict millions of women.

Doctors are now experimenting with drugs known to block the production of prostaglandins by inhibiting the enzymes needed to make them. One such drug, called ibuprofen, has traditionally been used to treat the inflammation from arthritis.

A Cornell University pharmacologist, W.Y. Chan, reported he gave eight patients ibuprofen alternated with a placebo. He found that the levels of prostaglandins markedly decreased when they were treated with the drug. Most importantly, the patients reported significant relief from menstrual pain compared to when they took the placebo.

Chan also observed that taking oral contraceptives appear to have a direct effect in lowering levels of the pain-causing prostaglandins.

Those levels in two patients were quite low while they were taking the contraceptives, but increased considerably when they ceased.

Chan estimated that prostaglandin inhibitors are effective for relieving the pain of dysmenorrhea in 65 to 100 percent of patients.

A pair of pliers is not enough

Ever try working in hard-to-get-to areas found on electronic gadgets with slip joint pliers when you wish you had a pair of long nose pliers? If you have, then you are a firm believer that one pair of pliers is not enough.

The Hand Tools Institute (HTI), a national association for manufacturers of hand tools, points out that there are many types, sizes and shapes of pliers, each designed and manufactured for a specific use. Some pliers are used for gripping, others for turning and bending and still others for cutting, each to be used within the intended manufactured limitations. Selecting the correct plier and knowing how to use it properly and safely is what counts for you. Some important points to remember are:

- Slip joint pliers are for gripping, turning and bending.
- Flat nose pliers — ideal for gripping in close space areas such as electronic gadgets, typewriters, telephones and others.
- Utility pliers — pliers commonly widely used by plumbers, electricians, auto mechanics to grip round, square, flat and hexagonal objects.
- End cutting pliers — designed for cutting wire, nails, rivets, etc. close to work.
- Diagonal Cutting Pliers — designed for electrical, electronic, telephone, automotive and general work of cutting and skinning wire. Can be used to remove cotter pins.

HINTS FROM HELOISE
Do dairy products freeze?

DEAR HELOISE: Is it safe to freeze dairy products and things made with dairy products? If so, how long can they be kept? — Jeanne Frech

I've always done it with good results but, just to be positively positive, I checked with my local Extension Service, and there are a few guidelines to follow.

Butter that's made from pasteurized cream can be stored for four to six months, but butter made from cream that's unpasteurized turns rancid or tastes "off" in two or three months. Margarine can be frozen too. Just make sure the butter or margarine is packaged in a moisture-vaporproof wrapping.

Cheeses should be frozen in small portions or even grated for quicker thawing. Portions of one pound or less are best. Don't leave cheese in the freezer longer than six months, and thaw it out in the fridge.

Uncreamed cottage cheese may be frozen in its own container for one or two weeks, again thawing it in the container in the refrigerator.

Cream cheese can be frozen for up to four months if put in a moisture- and vapor-resistant paper or plastic bag. Thaw in the refrigerator.

For best results in freezing whipped or unwhipped cream, add one third cup sugar to each quart of cream. If you're going to freeze it whipped, put little dollops of the whipped cream on a cookie sheet and freeze, then remove them and put into a carton or plastic bag. If it's unwhipped, package it in a rigid container leaving 1/2 inch headspace in the container. However, when it thaws, you won't be able to whip it up as stiff as fresh cream.

Keep ice cream no longer than three weeks — if you can keep the family out of it that long...

Milk can be safely frozen without losing any of its nutritional value. Just be sure to defrost it in the refrigerator or set the carton in ice water. Never defrost it at room temperature. Sometimes the milk tends to separate, so a shake or two may be necessary before using.

While I'm at it, let me put a little bee in your bonnet. Every county across these United States has a County Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Agency (they're listed in your phone book under the name of your county).

They're just waiting to answer any questions you might have concerning nutrition, food preparation, canning, health, sewing — the list goes on. Give them a call the next time you have a household problem that needs a quick answer. They'd love to hear from you. — Hugs, Heloise.

LETTER OF WARNING
DEAR HELOISE: After seeing so many small children sitting on the bottom rack of a supermarket shopping cart, I feel a warning should be issued.

My young son was sitting in just such a position when he stuck his finger between the wheels and cart. It turned out to be a pretty painful experience as he lost his fingernail.

The manager of the store advised me this was a regular occurrence. So, moms, put that child in the safety seat provided for him. — Ruth Williams.

DEAR HELOISE: I want to tell you what a dear lady in our apartment building does with her discarded magazines. She places them in the laundry room for all of us to read.

She even clips out coupons and places them in a small box labeled, "Help yourself."

These thoughtful acts prompted me to think it was a good hint for all apartment dwellers, and deserves to be in your column. — Jean Quine

Panel convenes on pap smear

BETHESDA, Md. — A panel convened recently by the National Institutes of Health recommended that after two consecutive annual Pap smears with negative findings, screenings should be "repeated at regular intervals of one to three years." As reported in "Medical Tribune," the panel did not agree on how often women of different ages or those considered high risk should be screened.

Prior to the NIH conference, the American Cancer Society had adopted the Canadian approach to screening: Once every three years rather than annually. In the U.S. it had been annually.

Illegal waste disposal charged filed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Three men have been charged in the first indictments handed up under the state's 2-year-old Hazardous Waste Management Act.

The indictments, returned Thursday by a Providence County grand jury, related to the allegedly illegal transfer to garages of hazardous wastes that had been left in a backyard waste dump.

William M. Davis, 44, of Smithfield, who in the mid-1970s operated a then-legal hazardous waste dump in his back yard, was charged with illegally removing chemically contaminated soil from the site in October and December of last year.

The soil allegedly was sold to a contractor who used it in the construction of a residential septic system. The homeowner smelled chemicals and contacted authorities, said Dea Antonelli, spokeswoman for the attorney general's office.

Wiley Taylor, 43, a Providence garbage hauler, was charged with illegally hauling and storing drums of toxic wastes in garages in South Providence between June 1979 and this month.

The indictment charged that Albert E. Kishfy illegally transported hazardous wastes sometime between Oct. 15, 1979 and Dec. 15, 1979.

Kishfy denied the charge against him, saying he unwittingly rented his garage to Taylor for toxic waste storage.

Davis and Taylor could not be reached for comment. The three face possible sentences of up to five years in jail and $25,000 in fines if convicted.

On Wednesday, Douglas M. Costle, head of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, joined Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy and other state officials in touring one of the garages where the wastes were alleged to have been stored.

Costle said the site, which contained several hundred drums, some leaking, was one of about 400 discovered each month across the nation.

The estimated 800 to 1,000 barrels of wastes in the garages are being cleaned up by Peabody Coastal Services at a cost to taxpayers of $100,000, said Thomas Wright, chief of the state Department of Environmental Management's office of hazardous waste control.

Navy debating submarine disposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it is studying the possibility of disposing of old submarines by sinking them in deep ocean water after removing nuclear fuel from their reactor plants.

Another disposal alternative under study calls for removing entire reactor compartments from obsolete submarines after "defueling" the power plants, and then burying the compartments on land at a federally owned site. It is uncertain what the Navy would do with the submarine hulls.

"Either of these alternatives would be carried so as to provide containment and isolation of the radioactive material in the reactor plant from human activities," the Navy said when asked about reports of such studies.

Navy officials indicated the first candidates for such disposal are the old Polaris missile-firing submarines Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln, currently being de-activated at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard, Wash., before being taken out of commission next year. The two Polaris subs are being retired to make way for the new and bigger Trident boats in the Navy's nuclear striking force.

As the Navy explained it, when a vessel is decommissioned, the nuclear fuel is removed from the power plants and shipped to Energy Department facilities.

"However, after the fuel has been removed, portions of the reactor plant are still radioactive as a result of the operation of the nuclear reactor and, therefore, must be disposed of in a manner which will have a negligible impact on the environment," the Navy said.

In discussing the two approaches now under study, the Navy said one alternative is to "place the entire submarine at a site in the deep part of the ocean where there is virtually no likelihood of its being disturbed by human activities, seismic action or ocean movement."

The Navy declined to indicate what ocean areas it may have in mind for such disposal.

"Preliminary information indicates that the submarine would be intact after landing on the bottom and that the reactor plant...would remain intact," the Navy said.

"Corrosion of the metal of the hull and the reactor plant would then be the only way that the radioactivity would be released."

But the Navy said such corrosion "is a very slow process because of the low temperature at great ocean depths and the use of corrosion-resistant metals in key parts of the reactor plant."

Moreover, the Navy said, during the many years that corrosion would develop, "a significant reduction in the radioactivity would result because of normal radioactive decay."

As for the land disposal concept, the Navy said this option "would take advantage of the containment provided by the submarine's reactor compartment, which would form an outer...container of high strength and durability."

"The potential effect on the environment from the land disposal alternative is expected to be extremely low," the Navy said.

The Navy now has three attack submarines in what is described as "protective storage." They are the Triton, retired in 1967; the Halibut, taken out of service in 1976, and the Nautilus, decommissioned last year.

The Triton is in the James River near Norfolk, Va., the Halibut at Bremerton, Wash., and the Nautilus, the nation's first nuclear-powered submarine, at Mare Island, Calif.

Submarines examined for USS Groton defect

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — All 688-Class fast attack submarines are being examined for defects following an equipment problem that disabled the USS Groton briefly on its most recent patrol, the Navy says.

The Groton returned to its home port at the Navy submarine base here Oct. 8 after six months at sea.

The Hartford Courant quoted sources as saying the Groton was en route at top speed when its reduction gear gave way. The problem rendered the sub's propulsion system nearly useless and left the ship in the position of having to go to the nearest port, asking for a tow, or repairing the broken gear, the newspaper said.

While the Groton navigated on auxiliary power, crewmen worked two days installing 18 new bolts to repair the reduction gear, the Courant said. All 688s carry at least two non-nuclear backpower systems.

The Navy confirmed a problem aboard the Groton led to the decision to examine reduction gears on all 688-Class submarines but would not detail the problem.

Officials probing leak at Indian Point reactor

BUCHANAN, N.Y. (AP) — Federal officials are investigating a 100,000-gallon leak that left 5 inches of water in the nuclear reactor building of Indian Point 2, operated by Consolidated Edison.

Water from the cooling system may have leaked for as long as 10 days before being discovered Oct. 17, officials said. The Nuclear Regulatory Commission was not informed for three days and the public was not informed for four days, officials said.

Several days after the incident, the utility said three workers had been slightly contaminated and 50 exposed to low levels of radiation.

The plant, 24 miles north of New York City, has been ordered shut by the NRC until Con Ed can demonstrate what happened, how it happened, why meters designed to show any accumulation of water did not work, why two sump pumps failed and what corrective measures have been taken to prevent a recurrence.

Federal officials said Thursday that the plant's emergency system automatically shut the unit at 4:15 a.m. on Oct. 17 when instruments for a steam generator component failed. The leak was discovered by accident when workers went to investigate the machine malfunction, they said.

Con Ed, however, in its first public announcement Tuesday, said the unit "went out of service late last Friday after a leak in a joint of a pipe carrying non-radioactive water deposited about 100,000 gallons of the water within the unit's containment building."

The water is now slightly tainted, Con Ed said.

While the utility's announcement referred to "a leak," Con Ed's Laurence V. Kleinman said Thursday there were five leaks, all known to the utility before any information was given the NRC or public.

Two leaks were discovered last Friday, two more on Saturday and the fifth on Sunday, he said.

The news release was not intended to give anyone a wrong impression, Kleinman said. Part of the problem was that Con Ed's technical staff had been "discussing the situation as 'the leak' in a generic sense" and the public relations staff was not informed of the additional leaks until Thursday, he added.

A second statement from Con Ed on Thursday made no mention of the equipment failure the NRC had cited.

Seven NRC inspectors and technical specialists sent to the plant also are evaluating the possibility that important reactor components may have been exposed to river water, causing corrosion in some pipes, officials said. The water used in the cooling system comes from the Hudson River, which borders the site.

If the cool water touched the heated reactor vessel, the NRC said in a statement Thursday, "that could have caused a thermal stress...on the vessel."

The plant could remain shut for months if major repairs are needed, an NRC spokesman said.

The NRC said the area where the leak occurred was last checked Oct. 7, 10 days before the discovery.

Volcano's lull 'temporary; Major blasts could be past

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — The current lull in volcanic activity at Mount St. Helens is most likely temporary, but the time of major eruptions could be past, says the head of the U.S. Geological Survey.

Robert Tilling, interviewed Thursday by telephone from Washington, D.C., said cycles of volcanic activity since the cataclysmic May 18 blast indicate Mount St. Helens will be active off and on for the next several years.

"We would anticipate periodic small eruptions in the near future...for the next couple years or even decades," Tilling said.

Only a little low-level seismic activity was recorded at the volcano Thursday, said Christina Boyko, spokeswoman for the University of Washington geophysics center. USGS helicopters were unable to land on the summit of the 8,400-foot peak in southwest Washington because high winds whipped up clouds of volcanic ash.

The lava dome in the volcano's crater caved in somewhat Thursday, causing the hot, sticky formation to spread a little on the sides, said survey geologist Susan Russell-Robinson.

Although the dome caps the throat of the crater, gases are venting from the sides, which should prevent any build-up of pressure, she said.

The volcano's May 18 eruption left 34 people dead and 28 others missing and presumed dead. The latest blast was Oct. 16 and lasted three days, sending five spurts of ash and steam up to eight miles high.

Mildred R. Milovich, 36, lost custody of her two children, Jason, 6, left, and Nicole, 12, in a Circuit Court decision that awarded custody to her husband, Peter. The judge ruled that "a stable environment" for children is more important than a woman's career. (AP Laserphoto)

Working mom denied child custody

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — A woman denied custody of her two children contends she lost the dispute because she has a job, but the judge who placed the youngsters with their father says the woman's allegation is untrue.

Circuit Court Judge Charles J. Grupp said Thursday he made his decision after considering "all the relevant factors," not because he believes working women aren't entitled to custody.

Earlier this week, Grupp granted custody of 6-year-old Jason and 11-year-old Nicole to Peter Milovich, 49, rather than Milovich's wife, Mildred, 36. The parents are separated.

In making his ruling, Grupp said Mrs. Milovich "is entitled to pursue a career of her own," but added, "what is more important is that the children are entitled to a stable environment."

"I'm not saying that a woman who's pursuing a career is not entitled to custody of her children. I don't say that," he said. "I considered all of the relevant factors, including the wishes of the parents and the children, the interaction of the children with their parents, their wishes in respect to their siblings, their adjustment to home, school and community."

The judge said he made his decision Monday after lengthy interviews with each parent and each child, although he added he did not ask the youngsters with which parent they wanted to be placed.

"I felt that the father, under the circumstances, would be the better person, all things considered and all things being equal," said the judge.

Milovich is a civil engineer for the Chicago Housing Authority. Mrs. Milovich is a sales representative for a welding products company.

Mrs. Milovich said Wednesday she is convinced she lost the custody dispute because she has a job, adding the decision set women back "three generations."

"I am incensed," said Mrs. Milovich, who intends to appeal the ruling. "There are all those working women out there. What are they supposed to do? Just because I work doesn't make me a bad mother."

Mrs. Milovich contended she tailored her schedule to the activities of her children. "I think I've been a super mother," she said. "I take the children on field trips, to the doctor, the dentist. I go to school plays."

Her husband was not available for comment.

Men who set up Billy's visit, expected reward

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Atlanta men say they arranged for Billy Carter's first visit to Libya in expectation of reaping large financial rewards, but instead got nothing for their successful efforts.

In fact, one of the men says his "partner" paid Billy Carter and two other people $98,000 of his own money in anticipation of the payments they both thought would be forthcoming from Libya.

Their testimony was released Thursday by the special Senate subcommittee that investigated Billy Carter's visit to Libya.

The subcommittee released some 3,000 pages of sworn depositions from 34 witnesses. They revealed new details but no major disclosures because highlights were included in the subcommittee's report released last month.

That report concluded that Billy Carter's Libya dealing "merits severe criticism" but that there is no evidence the president's brother ever tried to influence U.S. policy for Libya.

The two men, Thomas Jordan and Mario Leanza, both real estate agents, agreed in their depositions that they believed Libya would pay them to put Libyan officials in touch with Billy Carter in 1978 so they could invite him to Libya.

Leanza, a native of Sicily, testified that he was contacted a Sicilian lawyer, Michele Papa, who was a leader of a Sicilian separatist movement supported by Libya.

Leanza said that Papa "said to me, 'if you take Billy Carter to Libya, you know these people got lots of money, so you got a lot of money.'"

Leanza, who didn't even know Billy Carter, said he went to aides of former budget director Bert Lance but they told him, "he no going to touch Billy Carter with 1,000 yardstick. He don't want no part of Billy Carter."

Then Leanza turned to Jordan, who claimed to know Billy Carter. Jordan arranged for Libya's former ambassador to Italy, Gibril Shalouf, to go to Plains, Ga., in 1978 and invite Billy to Libya.

Jordan said he had understood from Leanza that Libya's "fortunes were at my fingertips" for arranging the initial meeting.

The president's brother accepted the invitation, and so began a relationship that led to Billy's getting $220,000 from Libya early this year.

Billy Carter said it was a loan, but the Justice Department forced him to register as a Libyan agent.

Jordan testified that Libya paid him nothing for his efforts, and rejected even his and Leanza's request for $50,000 in expense money to accompany Billy Carter to Libya in October 1978.

But Jordan denied testimony by Leanza that Jordan had already paid Billy and other people out of his own pocket to put Billy in touch with the Libyans.

Leanza said Jordan told him he had used up $98,000 from his bank.

"I said 'what do you do with the money, you got so much money, now you don't have no money?'" Leanza testified. "He said 'because I got to pay Senator Hudgins, I got to pay Billy, I got to pay Coleman.'"

Jordan denied making the payments to Billy, his associate Randy Coleman, and Georgia State Sen. Floyd Hudgins, who also traveled to Libya in Billy's party.

Leanza and Jordan agreed that Libya refused to pay the $50,000 expense money. But journalists Arnaud de Borchgrave and Michael Ledeen, in an article in The New Republic magazine, said Libya did pay the $50,000 to Billy Carter and his party.

The two journalists also wrote in the British newsweekly Now that Billy Carter "became a pawn in an ambitious influence-peddling scheme" masterminded by East German intelligence when he went to Libya last year. They said Billy Carter met in Libya with Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat and George Babash, leader of the extreme wing of the Palestinian movement, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

But the New York Times said that Billy Carter, in a telephone interview, said he met briefly with Babash under "purely social" circumstances. The Times said Carter denied meeting with Arafat.

Casino may be allowed to remain in operation

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Caesars World Inc. can obtain a state license to keep operating its Atlantic City casino if two company founders alleged to have ties with organized crime step aside by midnight Sunday, a state commission has ruled.

If Clifford and Stuart Perlman refuse to leave Caesars World and all subsidiaries, including those in Nevada, the state Casino Control Commission said their company would be denied a license and the 527-room Caesars Boardwalk Regency would be put under control of a state-appointed conservator.

The brothers were not ordered to resign immediately but take an unpaid "leave of absence" by midnight Sunday, when a temporary permit for the Atlantic City casino hotel expires.

"Stated bluntly, we are concerned as to whether we can trust Clifford Perlman to control a company which seeks licensure to operate a casino in this jurisdiction," Commission Chairman Joseph P. Lordi said Thursday.

Attorneys for the Los Angeles-based company, which also owns Caesars Palace in Las Vegas and Caesars Tahoe in Stateline, Nev., said they would reply to the commission's decision today.

School pays Jaworski law firm $87,919 for year's legal fees

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A South San Antonio School Board trustee says the law firm of former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has charged "shocking" legal fees to one of this city's poorest school districts.

John Saldana said he questioned use of the high-powered Houston law firm by the impoverished district, which paid Jaworski's firm $87,919 in legal fees last year.

The district's operating budget for last year was $17.1 million, Saldana said, while the North East School District, with a 1979-80 operating budget of $57 million, paid a local law firm only $42,142 for legal work.

And another more affluent district, the Northside School District, paid a San Antonio law firm $19,918 and it has a budget of $47.75 million, the trustee said.

"Too much money is going to the lawyers that should be going to educating the kids," Saldana said.

He also criticized the Jaworski firm for not providing more detailed breakdowns of the fees.

When the district received a legal bill of $28,209 last April, Saldana sent a letter to Superintendent Herbert Harper asking for a "comprehensive description of legal services."

"I asked for hourly rates, the number of hours spent on each case, travel expenses and other breakdowns," Saldana said. "What I got back was a half-done effort. It puzzles me why they can't give detailed statements like any other law firm will."

Harper said the Jaworski firm was chosen in 1968 because trustees felt it would be "unbiased" and not manipulated by local politics.

Company flooded with bogus deliveries

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Workers at the Aetna Life and Casualty Co. office here don't have much use for motor oil in their line of work, but 2,000 cases of it were delivered recently.

Florists have been delivering unordered bouquets, pizza stores have sent unrequested pies and countless exterminators have rushed to the scene to kill non-existent bugs.

Janitors, carpet cleaners, air conditioning repairmen, caterers and tow-truck operators have all knocked on the office door, only to be told politely that their services weren't needed.

Police say the phony deliveries are apparently the work of one man, but they're not sure who he is or how to stop him if they find him.

Pete Lovelace, manager of the claims office, said Thursday he believes it's all the result of a spat between a woman who works with him and her estranged husband.

"Apparently, he is doing this in hopes we will fire his wife, and we aren't going to do that," Lovelace said.

The deliveries are so frequent and the delivery people so angry that the company has hired a guard to handle the complaints, he said.

Lovelace said the deliveries began Oct. 14, a day after he refused to allow a man who identified himself as Frank Gazzo to talk to his wife, Mary, an Aetna trainee.

"The guy had been driving us nuts for a week demanding to talk to Mary, and our service representatives kept telling him she did not want to talk to him.

"Then he called our personnel director and demanded she put Mary on the phone. It was then that I talked to him," Lovelace said.

"He told me if I wouldn't let him talk to her he would show me something I had never seen before," he added.

Then came the flood of bogus deliveries.

"The first day wasn't so bad," Lovelace said. "All we got were deliveries from three different pizza places, a case of beer and five different florists, who delivered three bouquets each.

"It really got bad on the 20th, though. On that day, seven carpet-cleaning companies, one office-supply firm, two-pest control companies, two caterers, two janitorial outfits and a dry-cleaning company came."

On Tuesday, 20 concerns arrived to make deliveries, and on Wednesday, the number jumped to 30.

"I really feel sorry for the vendors," Lovelace said. "It would be nice to get rid of the guard we had to rent because he is costing us $80 a day."

Attempts to reach Gazzo were unsuccessful.

Police Sgt. Dale Lauck said that when calls started coming from vendors, he and other officers checked criminal statutes and could find no law that was being violated.

Carter aide's testimony sought on Vesco's reported bribe offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Judiciary subcommittee wants to question a White House aide who was approached in an alleged bribery scheme in behalf of fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco.

The subcommittee said it would subpoena Richard Harden, the White House aide, if he refused to appear voluntarily today to tell what he knows about the alleged plan to bribe Carter administration officials in 1977 to quash extradition proceedings against Vesco.

Vesco is living in the Bahamas, having fled the country under indictment on stock fraud charges that are not connected to the current allegations.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., the panel's chairman and Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said they wanted to question Harden publicly but the administration wants him to testify privately.

Harden has said he cut short any efforts on behalf of Vesco when a friend, Spencer Lee, a lawyer from Albany, Ga., spoke to Harden about Vesco in February 1977.

A federal grand jury that investigated the charges for 19 months did not return indictments. But the grand jury foreman said the Justice Department tried to cover up the case.

At a hearing Thursday, the subcommittee examined another Vesco matter involving an alleged multimillion-dollar scheme on behalf of the Libyan government.

DeConcini charged that James Day, a lawyer from Brookshire, Texas, was a middleman in the alleged plot. Day appeared before the panel for more than two hours but invoked his constitutional rights against self-incrimination and refused to answer any questions or even state his name.

DeConcini said the scheme involved an attempt to bribe Democratic National Chairman John C. White to use his influence to convince the Carter administration to release military transport planes to Libya.

The administration has refused to provide the planes because of Libyan support of terrorism.

White has denied all wrongdoing and has said he has no knowledge of any bribery plot.

Another witness, James Feeney of New York, who has been a government informant, also refused to answer questions unless he is granted immunity from prosecution.

But Feeney's lawyer, Daniel J. Sears of Denver, accused the Justice Department of bad faith in dealing with his client.

Sears said department officials reportedly decided by early 1979 that Feeney could no longer be believed.

But, Sears said, if that is the case "the government should justify why it continued to permit him to expend his own money and put his personal security in jeopardy" believing he was still acting for the government.

A Justice Department spokesman refused to comment.

Sears said Feeney became a government informant in hopes of lenient treatment in connection with unrelated stock fraud and other charges.

Arms smuggling trial beginning

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Defense lawyers requested a mistrial in an arms smuggling case on grounds prosecutors implied the munitions were destined for snipers or terrorists, but a federal judge turned down the motion.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Marianne Murphy said Thursday that many of the 79,000 rounds of ammunition that five defendants allegedly tried to export to Lebanon were jacketed hollowpoint bullets that expand on impact with a live target.

Defense lawyers, saying the descriptions of the bullets and of 10 firearms made it appear their clients were trying to supply snipers or terrorists, called for a mistrial.

U.S. District Judge H. Lee Sarokin denied the request, but agreed to clarify for the jury that the defendants did not have criminal records.

On trial are three brothers, Hany Badaan, 33, of Nutley, and Marwan Badaan, 35, and Amir Badaan, 36, both of Wayne, charged with conspiring to ship munitions without a license. Lawyers in the case said the brothers are Lebanese Christians.

The other defendants are Mohammed Ismail, 23, of Belleville, who worked for Hany Badaan as a shoe store clerk, and Mary Ann Sedusky, 25, of Clifton, described by her lawyer as a friend of Hany Badaan.

Federal authorities charged the weapons were bought from gun shops in Wayne and Jersey City and destined for shipment from Weehawken to Beirut, Lebanon. Lebanon has been torn by civil war between Christian and Moslem groups.

Ismail's lawyer said the weapons were to go to a "Christian area" of Lebanon and said his client played no part in the alleged conspiracy, except to loan his employer a driver's license.

Defense lawyers described Hany Badaan and Marwan Badaan as honest businessmen who truthfully signed papers at the gun shops to buy the weapons and openly inquired whether it was permissible to export them.

They urged the jury to listen closely to covertly recorded government tapes for indications that their clients did not try to hide their purchases.

The lawyer for Amir Badaan said his client had no actual involvement and that he was charged only because his brothers were.

Consumer attitudes show improvement

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Third quarter consumer attitudes show significant improvement for the first time in three years, but consumer evaluations of the economy generally remain unfavorable, says a University of Michigan survey.

Richard Curtin, director of the Institute of Social Research's quarterly Survey of Consumer Attitudes, said Thursday that the level of attitudes and expectations "is still rather low."

Curtin said consumer attitudes must improve further before there will be sustained growth in consumer sales.

The index of consumer sentiment, which attempts to quantify consumer attitudes and expectations toward the economy, registered 67.8 in the July-September 1980 survey. That was a 13.4 point increase over the record low of 54.4 set in the previous quarter, and up 3.9 points from the third quarter of 1979.

The index is calculated on a scale of 100, using February 1966 as a base.

The recovery in consumer sentiment "is not yet firmly established," Curtin said in a statement. He said consumer evaluations of the economy remain "on the balance unfavorable."

"The rapid improvement ... was based on more favorable expectations for future improvement, rather than on more favorable assessments of the current situation," Curtin said. "Evaluations of consumers' current financial situation and buying conditions were, on balance, still less favorable than year-earlier readings."

The report found that attitudes toward purchasing cars, homes and durable goods improved significantly in the third quarter.

Some 48 percent of all families were favorably inclined toward buying large household durables such as refrigerators and other appliances, up from 39 percent in the third quarter. The report found 40 percent of the 2,000 people questioned nationwide were also favorably inclined toward automobile purchases, an increase of 6 percent from the previous quarter.

Attitudes toward home buying showed the largest jump at 39 percent, up 22 percent from the second quarter.

The report said lower interest rates and loosened credit lay behind the improved attitudes.

The report said 30 percent of all families expected to be better off financially in a year, the highest level in two years and a 4 percent improvement from the second quarter.

Only 46 percent of those questioned expected increased unemployment, compared with 66 percent in the second quarter, and expectations toward inflation were also improved, the report said.

Girl will be allowed to try boys' basketball

CHICAGO (AP) — An 11-year-old girl will be allowed to try out for the boys' basketball team at her suburban junior high school even though the school has a girls' team.

U.S. District Judge Prentice H. Marshall ruled Thursday that Karen O'Connor has a fundamental right to develop her athletic skills by playing on the boys' team.

Lawyers for the girl wanted to force administrators at MacArthur Junior High School in suburban Mount Prospect to let her to play on the boys' team.

According to the suit, school principal Philip Arenstein denied her request because she is eligible for the girls' team.

The suit said the 4-foot-11, 103-pound girl has played against boys in organized basketball leagues since she was seven and consistently ranked among the top scorers on her teams.

Her father Joseph O'Connor said she would try out for the team Monday. "She's ready," he said. "There's no question about that."

Her lawyer Rosemarie Guadolo had argued that the separate but equal doctrine upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court means that the girl should be given educational opportunities equal to her abilities.

Automaker layoffs drop

DETROIT (AP) — Long-term layoffs among U.S. automakers dropped below 200,000 this week for the first time since April, according to company reports.

Temporary layoffs designed to hold down inventories also will fall next week as the industry settles into a week-on, week-off pattern at some plants, the companies reported Thursday.

Workers idle without a recall date totaled 192,250 this week, down from 202,758 last week. Next week's short-term furloughs were put at 3,750 against 11,700 this week.

Meanwhile, the trade publication Ward's Automotive Reports said car production this week was scheduled to rise 3.6 percent to 153,776 from last week's 148,399.

One car and two truck assembly lines were closed this week with two car lines scheduled for downtime next week.

General Motors Corp., with no workers on or scheduled for temporary layoff, said its indefinite furloughs were unchanged from last week at 102,000 and would stay there next week.

Ford Motor Co. reported indefinite layoffs down from 55,500 to 54,000, with 7,000 workers returning from a week off at Lorain, Ohio, and 950 going off for a week at the San Jose, Calif., car line.

Chrysler Corp. said open-ended furloughs had fallen to 33,600 from 34,500. The No. 3 producer will bring back 4,000 workers to the Warren, Mich., truck plant. Another 700 workers were temporarily home from component plants this week and probably an equal number will be out next week, Chrysler said.

American Motors Corp. said it would close one car line at Kenosha, Wis., next week, idling 2,100. AMC's indefinite layoffs fell from 2,750 to 2,650. Volkswagen of America had no layoffs.

Crockett area gains new pay; Runnels gets Ellenburger strike

A new pay, the Spraberry "A," has been opened in the American multipay field of Crockett County, 33.5 miles southwest of Ozona.

The strike, Dameron Petroleum Corp. of Midland No. 2-12 B. E. Dunlap Section 12, Block 1, also was completed from the Canyon gas zone as a dual well.

Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 3,351 to 3,389 feet after a 2,000-gallon acid treatment.

The Spraberry "A" is the eighth pay for the field. Other productive horizons are the Canyon, Strawn, Clear Fork, upper Clear Fork gas and Spraberry "D" and "B" oil zone.

The project finished from the Canyon, through perforations from 6,342 to 6,048 feet for a calculated absolute open flow of 1,700,000 cubic feet of gas per day, after a 2,000-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 7,335 feet. The Canyon sand was topped at 5,937 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 1,965 feet.

Wellsite is 330 feet from north and 3,340 feet from east lines of section 12, block 1, I&GN survey.

RUNNELS OPENER

An Ellenburger discovery has been reported in Runnels County by Avips Petroleum Inc. of Abilene.

The strike, No. 1 Walter Jacob, completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 103 barrels of 44-gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 900-1.

Completion was natural through a 14/64-inch choke and perforations at 4,440-4,454 feet.

The well is 2,250 feet south of production in the Henson (Jennings and Cross Cut) field.

The Ellenburger was topped at 4,410 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 1,918 feet. Other tops include the Palo Pinto, 3,190 feet; lower Capps, 3,586 feet, and Mississippian, 4,367 feet.

Wellsite is 840 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of H. E. Hooten survey No. 94 and one mile southeast of Crews.

COKE DISCOVERY

Texaco Inc., operating from Midland, has completed its No. 13 March Rancy as an Ellenburger discovery in Coke County, 7 1/2 miles southwest of Robert Lee.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 28 barrels of 42-gravity oil and 61 barrels of water, through perforations from 7,172 to 7,220 feet after 6,000 gallons of acid.

Total depth is 7,500 feet, 5 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 7,264 feet.

The Ellenburger was topped at 7,172 feet on derrick floor elevation of 2,443 feet.

Location is 3,877 feet from south and 743 feet from west lines of section 35, block Z, D&SE survey and 3 1/2 miles southeast of the depleted Robert Lee, South (Cross Cut) field.

PECOS OILER

Exxon Corp. No. 613 Fort Stockton Unit has been completed as the sixth well in the Fort Stockton (lower Yates) field of Pecos County, 7 1/2 miles northwest of Fort Stockton.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 86 barrels of 35.7-gravity oil and 57 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 3260-1.

The flow was gauged through a 20.64-inch choke and was through perforations from 3,110 to 3,324 feet. The pay was acidized with 2,560 gallons and fractured with 34,000 gallons.

Total depth is 3,480 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 3,475 feet. The pay was topped at 3,110 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,824 feet.

Wellsite is 1,320 feet from north and 1,450 feet from west lines of section 17, block 119, GC&SF survey.

UPTON PRODUCER

William Moss Properties, Inc., of Midland No. 1-24 Powell failed to find production as a wildcat to 8,720 feet and was plugged back and completed in the Spraberry Trend Area field of Upton County.

The well is 30 miles northwest of Rankin and one location west of other Spraberry production.

The well finished for a 24-hour pumping potential of 41 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 60 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 1,646-1.

Completion was through perforations from 7,742 to 8,583 feet.

Four and one-half-inch casing is set at total depth and hole is plugged back to 8,667 feet.

Wellsite is 1,320 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 24, block 41, T-5-S, T&P survey.

IRION OIL WELL

Moran Exploration, Inc., of Midland No. 1-20 A. A. Sugg is a new well in the Andrew A. (Canyon oil) pool of Irion County, 15 miles northwest of Mertzon.

It finished for a daily flowing potential of 36 barrels of 46.3-gravity oil and 48 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 8,333-1.

Completion was through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations at 6,560-6,799 feet after 3,500 gallons of acid and 60,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 290, block 6, H&TC survey and one mile northeast of other Canyon oil production.

It is the sixth well from that pay in the field.

GAINES COUNTY

Baruch-Foster Corp. of Dallas No. 2 Flanagan, a re-entry project in Gaines County, has been completed in the Harris & Flanagan (Clear Fork) field.

On 24-hour potential test, the well pumped 113 barrels of 36-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 88-1.

Completion was through perforations from 7,214 to 7,223 feet after a 2,500-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 7,298 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 7,252 feet and hole is plugged back to 7,230 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 10, block A-23, psi survey and 10 miles southwest of Seminole.

REEVES AREA

C&K Petroleum, Inc., operating from Midland, completed No. 2 Cattail in the Marsh, South (Delaware) field of Reeves County, 13.5 miles southwest of Orla.

It finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 420,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations opposite the Delaware from 2,716 to 2,796 feet.

Total depth is 2,905 feet, 5 1/2-inch pipe is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 2,870 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 933 feet from east lines of section 33, block 45, psi survey.

LYNN PRODUCER

Alan B. Leeper of Midland No. 1 Harold Ray Cook has been completed in the Sunland (San Andres) pool of Lynn County, six miles east of Wilson.

Operator reported a daily pumping potential of 30 barrels of 34-gravity oil and 300 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure.

Completion was through perforations from 4,045 to 4,048 feet, 4,166 to 4,168 feet, and from 4,180 to 4,182 feet. Each zone was acidized with 250 gallons.

A re-entry project, it is bottomed at 4,265 feet in the lower San Andres.

Wellsite is 1,650 feet from north and 2,200 feet from east lines of section 15, block J, EL&RR survey.

Midland operator reports site for Howard exploration

An 8,500-foot wildcat has been staked 16 miles northwest of Coahoma in Howard County.

It is Foy Bud Management Corp. of Midland No. 1 Smith, 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 45, block 31, T-3-N, T&P survey.

The drillsite is 1,300 feet north of the depleted Vealmoor Central (Canyon reef) field which produced at 7,773 feet.

TOM GREEN TESTS

Brushy Creek Drilling Co. of San Angelo announced locations for six 1,000-foot oil wildcats in the depleted elevation is 1,972 feet.

PECOS PROJECT

Don R. Ormand of Midland No. 1 Ferris-State is to be drilled as a 4,000-foot project in the Abell multipay gas and oil area of Pecos County, eight miles east of Imperial.

Operator will test for production in the upper Clear Fork gas zone and the Permian General oil zone.

Location is 1,787 feet from north-west and 2,173 feet from southwest lines of section 16, block 2, H&TC survey.

YOAKUM STEPUOT

Threshold-Blocker Venture of Fort Worth staked location for a 9,300-foot Wolfcamp project 5/8 miles south of production in the three-well Nannie May (Wolfcamp oil) pool of Yoakum County, eight miles west of Plains.

It is No. 1 Cal-Mon Pike, 1,980 feet from south and 1,700 feet from east lines of section 341, block D, J. H. Gibson survey.

GAINES COUNTY

V-F Petroleum Inc. of Midland No. 1 Ellis is to be drilled as a 12,850-foot Strawn and Devonian project in the Champton (Strawn and Devonian) field of Gaines County, 13 miles east of Seminole.

The project is 880 feet from south and 725 feet from west lines of labor 11, league 301, Terry County School Land survey, abstract 985.

It is 3/8 mile east and slightly south of Strawn production and a southeast offset to Devonian production.

IRION PROJECT

Simpson-Mann Oil Producers of San Angelo spotted No. 6-24 Reva McCilla as a southwest stepout to one of the three wells in the MIM, North-west (San Angelo oil) pool of Irion County, three miles southeast of Mertzon.

It is 1,000 feet southwest of production and 1,687.86 feet from south and 632.18 feet from the middle west lines of GC&SF survey No. 24.

Contract depth is 1,600 feet and ground elevation is 2,341 feet.

EDDY PROJECT

Hondo Oil & Gas Co., Hobbs, N.M., spotted location for a 10,850-foot project in the Illinois Camp, North (Morrow) field of Eddy County, N.M., 13 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

Scheduled as No. 1 Exxon-Site "A," it is 2,310 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 16-18s-28e. Ground elevation is 3,590 feet.

Oil agreement reported

TOKYO (AP) — Oman, a Persian Gulf neighbor of Saudi Arabia, reportedly signed a long-term agreement to supply two Japanese trading companies with crude oil after the Royal Dutch-Shell Group of Companies balked at paying an increased price on some of its purchases, the Kyodo news service said today.

Kyodo said Mitsui and Co. and Nishio Iwai Corp., agreed to buy 10,000 barrels of crude a day from Oman at $36.50 a barrel. Oman's official oil price for a 42-gallon barrel of crude has been $33.46.

Quoting trade sources, Kyodo said Oman had offered to sell the two Japanese firms part of a 50,000-barrel-a-day surplus that it has so far provided to the worldwide Royal Dutch-Shell Group.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Oil's profit growth slowing

NEW YORK (AP) — The oil industry's profit growth is slowing sharply from the torrid pace it set in 1979 and early 1980 as petroleum use continues to fall following more than 1 1/2 years of world oil-price increases.

"Energy conservation, particularly at the consumer level, coupled with a weak economy has substantially reduced sales volumes (of petroleum products) and cut into profit margins," Jerry McAfee, chairman of Gulf Oil Corp., said Thursday after Gulf reported its first quarterly earnings decline in two years.

"Last year's strong (oil) demand and tight supplies have given way to a buildup in inventories and price reductions at the gasoline pump," causing a 41 percent drop in Gulf profits, the chairman of the nation's fifth-largest oil company said.

A sharp rise in oil prices triggered by the Iranian revolution resulted in quarterly profit gains of about 100 percent or more last year and early in 1980 for many large oil companies.

But the nearly 150 percent jump in world oil prices since the end of 1978 has forced consumers to cut their use of gasoline and other products and has resulted in a buildup of world oil inventories to a record 5.5 billion barrels — or 231 billion gallons.

That supply is 500 million barrels above normal and is enough to supply the non-communist world's oil needs for 10 days.

With ample oil supplies on the market and consumption down, there has been "an overall softening of product prices," said John McKinley, president and chief operating officer of Texaco Inc., the nation's third largest oil company, which reported a 9 percent increase in third-quarter profits.

Texaco also said that its third-quarter petroleum-product sales were down 19 percent in the United States and 13 percent worldwide from 1979 levels.

But rising crude oil and natural gas prices in the United States helped spur a 21 percent gain in domestic earnings despite a 10 percent drop in oil production and a 15 percent decline in gas sales, the company said.

Among earnings reports: —Texaco said third-quarter earnings totaled $636.4 million, or $2.37 a share, on sales of $12.6 billion. A year earlier, earnings were $583.7 million, or $2.15 a share, on sales of $10.2 billion.

In the first nine months, Texaco said operating earnings were $1.7 billion, or $6.45 a share, on sales of $38.4

billion. The total excluded a $402.3 million profit on a sale of Beldridge Oil Co. stock to Shell Oil Co. Texaco earned $1.2 billion, or $4.51 a share, in the first nine months of 1979 on sales of $27.1 billion.

—Gulf said quarterly earnings fell to $244 million, or $1.25 a share, from $146 million, or $2.13 a share, a year ago. Earnings for the first nine months rose to $1.1 billion, or $5.65 a share, from $956 million, or $4.90 a share. Sales fell to $6.6 billion from $6.7 billion in the quarter, but rose to $21.2 billion from $18.4 billion in the first nine months.

—Texaco said its annualized return on shareholders' equity in the first nine months of the year was 20.7 percent; Gulf said its return on equity was 16.4 percent in the year ended Sept. 30.

Business Week magazine says U.S. oil and coal companies recorded a 25.7 percent return on equity, while all industries tallied a 15.9 percent return, in the year ended June 30.

Return on equity comprises the ratio of net income to the book value of the common stock holders' investment in a company, plus capital surplus and retained earnings. The ratio allows comparison of one corporation's results with those of others.

Noble well opens field

ARDMORE, Okla. — Noble Affiliates, Inc., has announced an oil discovery in the Cretaceous Muddy formation, Campbell County, Wyo.

The No. 1 Annie Hines was drilled to 9,385 feet. The Muddy sand was perforated from 9,268 to 9,276 feet and produced from 9,288 to 9,308 feet.

The well flowed 623 barrels of oil per day with 780,000 cubic feet of gas per day on a 16/64-inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 400 pounds. The oil is 39.2 degree sweet crude.

Samedan Oil Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Noble Affiliates, Inc., owns a 12.5 percent working interest in the discovery well located in section 22-30n-73w. Samedan also owns a 12.5 percent working interest in 600 acres on the prospect and a like interest in two farmout options covering an additional 320 acres. Two additional wells have been staked on the prospect.

Editor criticizes health care

BOSTON (AP) — Over the last decade, private hospitals, clinics, and labs have burgeoned into a $40 billion-a-year enterprise that threatens "gross commercial exploitation" of the American health care system, a prominent medical journal editor warns.

Dr. Arnold S. Relman, writing in this month's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, said the "medical-industrial complex" has become so big and powerful it could unduly drive up medical costs and influence government health policy.

"The medical-industrial complex is an unprecedented phenomenon with broad and potentially troubling implications for the future of our medical care system," he wrote.

While private enterprise may be able to provide health care more efficiently than government or nonprofit institutions, "the fact remains that they are in business to increase their total sales," Relman said. And that is likely to lead to ever-higher medical bills, he added.

Relman urged doctors to give up their financial interest in such businesses to avoid a conflict of interest.

The businesses — private hospitals, nursing homes, companies that give at-home nursing care, diagnostic laboratories and kidney dialysis clinics — accounted for about a quarter of the money spent on personal health care in the United States last year, he said.

Among other services being offered are industrial health screening, weight-control clinics, drug-abuse programs and cardiopulmonary-testing.

Their development "has attracted remarkably little attention so far (except on Wall Street)," Relman wrote, "but in my opinion it is the most important recent development in American health care, and it is in urgent need of study."

The new health care industry is highly profitable, he said. The income of private hospitals is growing at 15 to 20 percent a year, while lab business is growing 15 percent annually.

Much of the field is dominated by large corporations.

Can Pack find easy path past 0-6 Bobcats?

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

One couldn't really blame the Midland High Bulldogs if they kept one ear tuned to the West tonight when they host the winless San Angelo Bobcats at 8 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

loop loss on the record however, would dearly love to see Cooper take the Panthers down a notch. The Bulldogs would then still be in the title picture since they still get to meet Cooper in two weeks.

The Pack has been behind in the fourth quarter in four of the six games they have played this year and five of seven if you count the scrimmage against Brownwood. Both of Midland High's district wins came in fourth quarter uprisings against Big Spring and Abilene High.

"We have been a notoriously slow starting team this year," Culpepper surveys. "It's a carnival every week as far as we are concerned. Our kids seem to buckle down and get the job done in the fourth quarter and I really don't know why that is. I can't venture to say if that trend will change now or not. But it does seem to be a fact that our kids play well after they see what the other team is doing."

It has been a long road for the Bobcats this season, but Keeling has moved Mike Flores into the quarterback slot and Kel Crain, a starter for the second year at quarterback, to fullback. That's just two of the major changes, but the Bobcats did give OHS a run for their money last week.

"I don't know if the changes helped or not," Keeling says, "but our kids did perform a little better. But we know we are in for a big test Friday. Midland High may just be better than Lee and the Rebels really banged us around. I'm glad this is our last trip to Midland this year."

Even though the Bulldogs have been finding the winning key in late comeback efforts, Culpepper is extremely pleased with the way the defense has been coming along, especially in the defensive secondary where three juniors have been carrying a big load.

"We know that our secondary has come under attack at times this year, but it has really come to the front in our last two games. When you think of the type of quarterback that Abilene High has in Loyal Proffitt and the type of passer he is, then I think our performance against them last week is something to talk about. The secondary is now coming up with some big plays."

Safety Brandt Moffitt and cornerbacks Scott Louderback and Jim Sutherland are the juniors who now seem to have the hang of playing in the secondary. Moffitt is starting for the second week and has impressed Culpepper. Moffitt is replacing quarterback Michael Feldt at safety so the offensive threat can rest more in a game. Sutherland has drawn rave reviews from Culpepper for his play the last three games. Strong safety Doug McLean is the only senior in the secondary.

Defensive tackles Jerry Dedrick and Joe Goebel have also been asserting themselves recently. Goebel is now rested offensively as Craig Bostwick has taken over. Guard Randy Bush and tackle Dan Silas have also moved into the offensive picture, which gives the Bulldogs added depth.

Another big plus for the Pack is the return of David Bledsoe to the split receiver spot. He broke a wrist in practice before the Permian game and he may not start tonight, but he will see action. He has been working out for two weeks and prior to his injury he had caught eight passes for 200 yards and three touchdowns. His loss really hurt Midland High because the game plan against Permian had been to throw the ball to spread out the Permian defense. Feldt and Bledsoe had become a real team and Bledsoe's loss in mid-week prior to the game in Odessa was a real blow.

Midland High fullback Scott Yocham is the seventh leading rusher in the loop with 406 yards this year and has been a real workhorse. Feldt is 10th with 305 yards and fourth in passing with 538 yards. New tailback Johnny Garza has 178 yards rushing in his two starts this year.

Offensively, the Bobcats have failed to generate much of an attack this season. The leading rushers is tailback Steve Yarbrough with only 190 yards, ranking 17th in the league. Kenny Love has 141 and Crain 96. Flores has passed for 133 yards and Crain for 125 for a low total of 258 this year.

"If we want to stay in the district race, then we are going to have to beat San Angelo," Culpepper said. And that seems to be the bottom line right now.

Fans view 'Fighting Back'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steeler fans, undaunted by an hour-long projection failure, cheered their approval at Thursday night's screening of the movie "Fighting Back," the comeback story of Rocky Bleier.

Britton wins crown again

Susan Britton claimed another Midland City Golf Championship Thursday with a 2 and 1 win over Nina Colter at Hogan Park Golf Course. The victory was Mrs. Britton's ninth city golf title, including seven in a row. After shooting a 79 to win her first match, Mrs. Britton dumped Helen Brant 8 and 7 Wednesday to move into the finals. Mrs. Colter got to the finals by tripping Charlotte Marburger 8 and 7 in the semifinals. Jennie Gooch claimed first place in the first flight by scoring a 1-up victory after 20 holes over Naomi Colson. In the second flight title scramble, Ova Smith took home top honors with a 2 and 1 triumph over Dot Haden. Marge Tope and Jeanne Allen battled it out in the third flight. Mrs. Tope went home the champ. Fourth flight first place winner was Dorothy Campbell, who defeated Shirley Mays. Maureen Phillips and Phyllis Maxwell played for the fifth flight title with Mrs. Maxwell taking home top honors. In consolation action, Mary Robinson dined Jane Thomas to claim the top spot in the championship flight. Other winners in the consolation championships bracket were: First flight, Jane Wyant over DeDe Plank; second flight, Florence Maley topped Edie Stahl; third flight, Betty Cobb emerged winner over Rene Beique; fourth flight, Mame Calloway nipped Ginny Piette; and fifth flight, Jean Diffebaugh slipped by Charlotte Neiberger for the top spot. Linda Ballard won the medalist honors with an 82 Thursday while Helen Brandt won the closest to the pin competition.

Staying ahead of surprises

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Surprise! Every week, the National Football League comes up with its share of outrageous results. Teams who couldn't lose somehow manage to do just that. And teams who were certain winners somehow come up short. All of that aggravates the Pro Picker, but this week he has a solution. Instead of waiting for the surprises, he's tabbing them ahead of time, like Cleveland over Pittsburgh, San Diego over Dallas and Seattle over Oakland.

Last week's 7-7, (8-6 with the points), made the season's record 54-42-1, (42-55 with the points). The picks:
Browns 24, Steelers 17 Only injuries — and Pittsburgh has plenty of them — could cause the Steelers to drop three straight games.
Chargers 17, Cowboys 14 Dallas seems to be settling into its annual midseason slump and playing deadeye Dan Fouts won't help it any.
Seahawks 24, Raiders 20 Seattle loves the road and could catch Oakland peeking back over its shoulder, admiring last Monday night's handiwork against the Steelers.

Rams 30, Falcons 17 When Pat Haden gets well, will Vince Ferragamo have to fight for the LA first-string quarterback job again?
Eagles 21, Bears 13 At last, Ron Jaworski and Harold Carmichael can reclaim baseball-crazy Philadelphia from the world champion Phillies.
Patriots 27, Bills 24 Look for a shootout between Steve Grogan and Joe Ferguson. But New England's secondary is healthy and Buffalo's isn't.
Redskins 24, Saints 10 Winless New Orleans is on a treadmill going nowhere and Washington should keep it spinning.
Oilers 23, Bengals 17 After thanking Cincinnati for beating up on Pittsburgh twice, Houston must make sure the Bengals don't pull that stuff again.
Bucs 17, 49ers 14 Both teams were well and then hit the doldrums. Playing each other will straighten one of them out, hopefully.
Broncos 27, Giants 6 The return of Craig Morton to the New Jersey Meadowlands. The way things have gone for the Giants the last few years, maybe he should never have left.
Chiefs 17, Lions 14 Steve Fuller will help Kansas City fans forget the World Series disappointment.
Colts 31, Cardinals 20 Bert Jones is a dominating force in any game and against a defense like St. Louis' he should coast.
Vikings 14, Packers 3 Even when Green Bay had champions, Minnesota always seemed to be able to handle the Pack.
Dolphins 23, Jets 14 Between them New York's two pro teams have two victories in 14 games. Has any town ever gone 2-30?

Yankees haven't been able to work trade for Winfield

By The Associated Press

Amid reports that Dave Winfield will not remove his name from the baseball free agent list, the slugging San Diego outfielder admitted Thursday that he had dinner last week with New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner. "Yeah, we met," Winfield said. He confirmed that they got together last Friday in a Minneapolis restaurant "because he (Steinbrenner) wanted to meet me as a person." And while that report was circulating on the East Coast, baseball's most coveted free agent was quoted on the West Coast as saying he would not change his free agency status. "It's not a matter of killing the deal (a proposed New York-San Diego trade), it's just that there are a lot of persuasive people (club owners) out there, and I want to hear what they have to offer," Winfield was reported as saying in San Diego. The New York Yankees apparently have encountered some difficulty in their attempt to make a trade for Winfield, and their failure to do so could result in his being included in the talent pool for the Nov. 13 re-entry draft. If the Yankees are unable to reach an agreement with San Diego, the slugging Padre outfielder would remain as one of 27 players who have opted for free agency. This could eliminate the Yankees from contention for Winfield's services because a player in the pool can be drafted by only 13 teams. The Yankees, with the best regular-season record in baseball, would be the last of 26 teams to get a crack at him. Under the free agent rules, teams are permitted to talk to players, but not to discuss salary terms. Winfield refused to divulge specifics of his meeting with Steinbrenner, but said the Padres had not talked to him about the trade. But Jack McKeon, director of baseball operations for the Padres, said he "would not rule out the possibility of us signing him and then trading him."

Brigade is back on track

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade got back on the winning track Thursday night by blanking the Big Spring junior varsity, 29-0, in Memorial Stadium. The Brigade did all of its scoring in the first half with a big 21-point explosion in the second period, paving the way to its third victory of the season in five outings. For the Steers, it gives them a 0-5-1 record with the loss.

The second half was scoreless as the Brigade defense dug in to keep the Steers from scoring on two separate drives, one of them ending on the Rebel five where Mike Barton recovered a fumble.

Local girls capture wins

The Tall City's girls volleyball teams of Midland High and Midland Lee were victorious in District 5-5A clashes Thursday night.

Lee hosted the Panthers of Odessa Permian and came away with 15-10, 15-9 victories. The JV wasn't as fortunate, dropping a 15-0, 15-5 decision to the visitors. With the win, Lee upped its varsity record to 2-3 in second half action. It was the second district victory of the year for Lee.

Lee head coach Linda Weikel said, "It was a real good team effort." Weikel praised the play of setters Lori Breeding and Debra Quintela and blockers Meg Brennan and Suzanne McGaha. Rozena McCabe had a good night serving the ball according to Weikel.

Quarterback Dondi Dominguez got the scoring under way in the first period by banging over from the one with 4:57 left. Dominguez also tacked on the two points by running over for the conversion, making it 8-0.

Then came the big second period explosion when Johnson's crew rang up 21 points on the scoreboard. Flanker Joe Williamson caught a 14-yard pass from Dominguez and then Lorin (B.C.) Blake caught a pass from Dominguez for the two-point conversion and a 16-0 lead with 6:02 left in the first half.

Williamson was on the end of another scoring strike from Dominguez, his time from 29 yards out. The kick for the extra point, failed, however to make it 22-0 with 3:50 left on the clock.

Lee then cashed in one more time with only one second remaining in the first half when Lane Marks latched on to another TD pass from Dominguez, good for 18 yards and the TD. Marks booted the PAT for a 29-0 lead at intermission.

Marks has a superb game, both on offense and defense as the 140-pounder intercepted a pair of passes and recovered a Big Spring fumble.

Taking away some of the luster of the victory was the loss of tackle Tim Murray who suffered a possible broken leg in the second period. Tim Woodlee and Felix Hall also suffered injuries in the second half for the Brigade who plays Odessa Permian in Odessa next Thursday.

Besides Marks, Barton, Woodlee, David Nix, Troy Barber and Joe Carrasco, all stood out on defense while on offense, Kevin Taylor and Kyle Cox ran well for Lee at the fullback and tailback slots.

Score by periods:
Big Spring 0-0-0
Midland Lee 21-0-0
LEE — Dondi Dominguez, 1-yard run. (Dominguez ran for the two-point conversion).
LEE — Joe Williamson, 14-yard pass from Dominguez. (Lorin Blake, pass from Dominguez for two-point conversion).
LEE — Williamson, 29-yard pass from Dominguez. (Kick failed).
LEE — Lane Marks, 18-yard pass from Dominguez. (Marks kick).

Cooney faces Lyle today

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Earlier this year, Gil Clancy, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, said, "I think Gerry Cooney has an excellent chance to be heavyweight champion." Co-manager Dennis Rappaport thinks it could happen next spring.

when his victims included Dino Dennis in three and Jimmy Young in four.

Cooney's last fight was against Young at Atlantic City on May 25, 1980. He was supposed to fight Earnie Shavers in August but was sidelined by a back injury.

Lyle's last fight was Aug. 23 against George O'Meara in Los Angeles. The 6-3 slugger from Denver went into the 10th round needing a knock-out to win and he got it.

"The Lyle who fought that shrimp in LA wasn't the Lyle who is going to fight Cooney," said Lyle.

Bullpups keep slate clean

SAN ANGELO — The Midland High junior varsity football team raised their season record to 6-0 here Thursday night, but it took a 75-yard punt return in the third quarter to pull out a 7-6 victory over San Angelo.

The Bobcats took a 6-0 lead in the second period when Eddie Sharp scored a three-yard touchdown, and the Bullpups didn't pull it out until the third period when they came up with the long punt return by the ever-present Wesley Williams. Victor Salas added the point after for the victory. San Angelo dropped to 4-3 on the year with the loss.

In sophomore action, Midland High dropped a convincing 47-0 verdict to San Angelo. The MHS sophs are now 4-2 while San Angelo climbed to 5-2. San Angelo quarterback Jeff Schkade scored twice and tossed a touchdown pass in the victory.

Jim McMahon injured
PROVO, Utah (AP) — Brigham Young University quarterback Jim McMahon — the nation's leader in passing efficiency and total offense — has injured his shoulder and might not start in Saturday's Western Athletic Conference football game with Hawaii, BYU officials say.

BYU sports information director Dave Schulthess said Thursday that McMahon injured a shoulder muscle in last Saturday's BYU-Utah State game and is undergoing treatment by team physician Dr. Brent Pratley. Schulthess said he did not know what specific treatment was involved.

Cooney's last fight was against Young at Atlantic City on May 25, 1980. He was supposed to fight Earnie Shavers in August but was sidelined by a back injury.

Lyle's last fight was Aug. 23 against George O'Meara in Los Angeles. The 6-3 slugger from Denver went into the 10th round needing a knock-out to win and he got it.

"The Lyle who fought that shrimp in LA wasn't the Lyle who is going to fight Cooney," said Lyle.

Bo Derek hair knocked by UIL

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Bo Derek hair-do, complete with tight, beaded braids, may score social points in school, but the University Interscholastic League says the "10" look is barred from the volleyball court.

The UIL's October issue of The Leaguer says, "This type of hair apparently is decoration."

'Rout of week' goes to Nebraska

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The writer who turns out the weekly Bottom Ten poll calls Saturday's Nebraska-Colorado game the "rout of the week," and there aren't a lot of people in Boulder who would dispute the tag.

Colorado, at 0-6 and with no relief in sight, ranks No. 1 on that dubious poll. Nebraska, meanwhile, has one of its traditional powerhouses. The Cornhuskers are ranked No. 9 on this week's Associated Press poll and lead the nation in both offense and defense. Is Georgia Tech's long-standing 222-0 landmark victory over Cumberland College about to be eclipsed this week?

That is, of course, an exaggeration. But when you compare Nebraska's scoring average — 41.5 points per game, tops in the nation — with Colorado's defense — which has surrendered an average of 49.2 points a game, worst in the nation — it's pretty clear what's in store at Folsom Field this weekend. Besides being able to score, the Cornhuskers have yielded points grudgingly. They're No. 3 nationally in that category, giving up a per-game average of only 6.8 points.

"In the one film I've seen of their offense, I don't see any apparent weaknesses. They're an excellent football team."

How do you prepare for such a team? "The same as we do for any team," responded Fairbanks.

Stanton's Buffs face stern test

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

Stanton's march to the District 5-AA title and an undefeated season gets a stern test tonight when the Buffs tangle with Plains at Plains. The Cowboys, coming off a 41-0 win over O'Donnell, are the only other unbeaten team in the district.

Another squad looking to extend their unbeaten skein is Andrews. The Mustangs will be looking for their eighth straight win in Fort Stockton. In a key District 2-AAAA game this week, Sweetwater, 4-0 in district and apparently heading for a Nov. 7 showdown with Andrews, journeys to Monahans to face the always dangerous Lobos. Lamesa reeling from five straight setbacks has the weekend off.

Rankin plans to make it seven in a row when the Red Devils entertain Sanderson while Greenwood tries to bounce back from last week's loss with a win over Balmorhea on the home field.

Reagan County, still searching for some offensive punch, will try to pick up its second win of the season at the expense of Wall in Wall.

McCamey, coming off its 32-12 win over Crane, will take the weekend off.

Still looking for their first win of the season, Crane's Golden Cranes will host Alpine in a non-district encounter.

Andrews, Rankin, Owls picked for wins tonight

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

The results of football action this weekend could go along way in determining district champions. Victories by Odessa Permian and Stanton will put them in the driver's seat in their respective districts. It won't be an easy task for either club.

Last week was a good one for this corner with only the Abilene Cooper-Lee tie and Reagan County's loss to Junction to mar a perfect slate. For the season, the standing is at 53-18-1. This week appears to be a little tougher, but here goes.

Andrews, getting ready for Sweetwater, should pick up its eighth straight win with a 24-14 win at the expense of Fort Stockton. In other 2-AAAA encounters Sweetwater will subdue tough Monahans 17-14. Snyder will pick up its second win of the season, 18-7, over punchless Ector. Pecos-Lake View squabble finds Lake View going home the victor, 21-7.

Rankin the class of 6-A will handle Sanderson by a comfortable margin...say 49-7. And Greenwood, loser to Iraan last week, finds a softie in helpless Balmorhea...about 30-0. Stanton's unbeaten string almost fell last week, it should really feel the heat this week. But the Buffs have the scent of an unbeaten season and should slip by Plains, 18-17. Seagraves, still looking for a shot at the district crown, to belt Foran 38-0.

The Reagan County Owls, attempting to gain its second win of the year, should edge by Wall 14-8. In a battle for the top spot in District 5-AA Abilene Cooper journeys to Odessa to tangle with the Panthers of Odessa Permian. Cooper has only the tie with Lee to mar a perfect season while Mojo has yet to fall. With a tougher defense, the nod goes to Permian to hand the Cougars a loss to go along with their tie...17-7.

Elsewhere in District 5-AA: Big Spring has lost 40 district games in a row, look for Midland Lee to extend that string with a 28-10 win.

Midland High, still celebrating its victory over Abilene, should enjoy this weekend also. The Purple Pack tangle with a San Angelo team that is suffering through a bad year. It won't get any better...Pack 25, San Angelo 6.

Cross Country set Saturday

The Midland Lee and Midland High cross country runners will be at home for the only time this season when the Midland Invitational Cross Country Meet unfolds Saturday morning at the Hogan Park golf course.

A giant field, possibly as many as 30 teams, will gather at the starting point at Hogan's new nine holes at 11 a.m. for three divisions of competition. The girls will run a two-mile course to start the meet and the boys junior varsity teams will run at 11:30 a.m. The boys varsity units have a noon starting time.

LEE'S ROBERT Schooler will try to run his winning streak to six in the noon race over a three-mile course. Schooler has not lost an outing this year and is one of the state's best cross country entries.

Among the favorites in the meet are teams from San Angelo, Odessa Permian, Lubbock Coronado, Carlsbad N.M., and Hobbs N.M., if the team decides to come.

Midland High will make its team effort in the junior varsity division with James Beverly expected to lead the way.

Other teams entered in the biggest field ever assembled for the event are Amarillo High, Abilene High, Andrews, Brownfield, Big Spring, Amarillo Caprock, Crosbyton, Abilene Cooper, Lubbock Cooper, Clyde (a strong girls entry), Lubbock Dunbar, Lubbock Estacado and Lubbock High.

Others are Levelland, Lubbock Roosevelt, Lubbock Monterey, Odessa High, Ozona, Amarillo Palo Duro, Robert Lee, Sweetwater, Amarillo Tascosa and Tulla.

"Cross country is now booming all across Texas and the competition is getting better all the time," said MHS cross country coach John Ford. "You can tell by the number of teams entered that the sport has taken off."

Upsets mar picking game

Wouldn't you know it, after having a perfect week picking Class AAAAA games two weeks ago, this corner did stumble, missing seven while hitting 20 correctly for a .741 percentage.

Two of those misses were in 5-5A with Lee and Cooper battling to a 21-21 tie and Midland beating Abilene. Lewisville and Plano also were upset, so now on the season it stands 99 right and 20 wrong for an .832 percentage.

There are lots of tough games again this week so we may as well get on with the picks and hope for the best.

MIDLAND HIGH, still very much in the 5-5A race after its big 7-3 victory over Abilene last week, takes on winless San Angelo Central's Bobcats tonight in Memorial Stadium. The Concho Cats gave Odessa High fits before bowing, 21-13 last week. Coach Pat Culpepper's Purple Pack should be able to dispose of the Bobcats. Midland is just too big for the Bobcats and is now playing great defense. The Bulldogs to post a 28-7 victory.

MIDLAND LEE comes off a great 21-21 tie with Abilene Cooper in Abilene last Friday and meets the pesky Big Spring Steers on the road tonight. Lee has too much infantry for the Steers and will come back to the Tall City with a 28-0 victory which will be Big Spring's 41st straight loss in 5-5A play.

ODESSA PERMIAN and Abilene Cooper tangle in the headliner in W.T. Barrett Stadium tonight and it could be the best Class AAAAA game in the state. Mojo is tough at home and a win will put the Panthers in the driver's seat. Lanny Dycus can throw the ball very well for the Cougars, but the Panther defense will be the difference, say 21-16 in a dandy.

ODESSA HIGH has a tough task in facing the Abilene Eagles in P.E. Shotwell Stadium tonight. The Bronchos, like Midland and Lee, are still in the race, but the Warbirds play well at home. Going with Abilene to take a 24-20 victory over the Red Hoses.

OTHER GAMES: Fort Worth Dunbar over Trimble Tech, 20-8; Arlington Heights 14, Paschal 10; O.D. Knicks bring back memories

By The AP

The glory years of the New York Knicks are well documented in the annals of the National Basketball Association, and if those championship teams of 1969-70 and 1972-73 are to be remembered for nothing else it will be for their ability to make the big play.

The stars of that era — Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere, Walt Frazier et al — have departed, but the young Knicks ripped a page from the book of their predecessors in a 109-107 overtime victory Thursday night against Boston. And their reward was undisputed possession of first place in the NBA's Atlantic Division.

First the Knicks, 4-1, got a 3-point goal from guard Ray Williams with 11 seconds remaining to force the overtime. Then forward Campy Russell tossed in the winning basket with 18 seconds remaining in overtime.

But it took still one more clutch effort, center Bill Cartwright's rejection of a layup by Boston's Chris Ford with three seconds remaining in the game played at Hartford, Conn.

Spurs 128, Warriors 109
"The Spurs are now a big team and play a big man's type of game," said Golden State Coach Al Attles after his Warriors became San Antonio's fifth straight victim.

Attles said the San Antonio defense played a key role in the game, and the statistics were illustrative of that. The Spurs forced the Warriors into some poor shots in the second period, and rolled up a 34-21 advantage to break the game open. George Gervin led the way for the Spurs, now 6-1, with a game-high 25 points. James Silas chipped in with 16 points and Reggie Johnson had 15 for San Antonio. Bernard King paced the Warriors, who cannot just 39 percent of their shots from the floor, with 23 points and Joe Barry Carroll had 18.

Kings 105, Rockets 96
Kansas City had too much offense for Houston, which couldn't cope with Otis Birdsong, who pumped in a game-high 37 points.

Golden Eagles ride high

By The Associated Press

Southern Mississippi has made the Associated Press Top Twenty for the first time in history... just in time to take on top-rated Alabama.

Saturday's clash will send two of only eight undefeated and untied teams against each other. Alabama, which has won 27 straight, is 6-0, the same as the Southern Mississippi Golden Eagles.

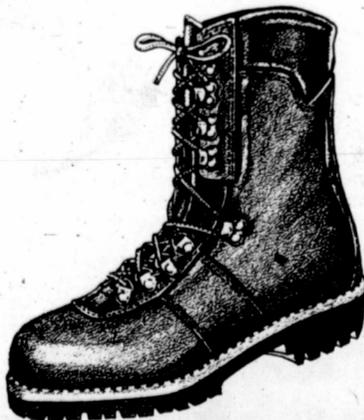

Southern Miss is rolling along behind the running of Sammy Winder, a junior who is averaging 100.8 yards rushing per game and leads the nation in scoring with 78 points. The Golden Eagles' problem, however, is that Alabama is 10th in the country in rushing defense, allowing only 104.3 yards per game, and in seventh in total defense. But Southern Miss isn't riding into the Top Twenty behind just Winder.

The Golden Eagles are fifth in the nation in total defense and third in pass defense. Hopefully that will be enough to slow down, if not halt, the potent Alabama offense, which is third nationally, averaging 368 yards per game, and scoring at a 35.8-points-per-game clip.

The other six major college undefeated-untied teams are fourth-ranked Georgia, No. 5 Notre Dame, No. 7 North Carolina, No. 11 Baylor, second-ranked Texas and No. 3 UCLA.

Like Alabama and Southern Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina and Baylor have posted 6-0 records while Notre Dame, Texas and UCLA have won five times.

Riddled New Mexico suffers disappointing losses

EL PASO, Texas (AP)—A season that began with considerable promise has turned into an injury-riddled, disappointing football campaign for the University of New Mexico Lobos.

With another Western Athletic Conference title headed elsewhere, New Mexico will try to salvage some pride and keep alive its bid for a winning season Saturday when it travels to meet the University of Texas at El Paso Miners.

The Lobos could not find a better setting to try for a late season surge.

Since 1975, Texas-El Paso has won only seven games, including one this season. What's more, the Miners have not beaten New Mexico since 1969, with the Lobos winning 10 straight since then.

But New Mexico is no longer the same team that handed defending league champion Brigham Young its only defeat so far this season in the first game of the year.

The Lobos have lost starting quarterback Brad Wright, a former Midland Lee star, with a broken collarbone and numerous other starters have gone down in recent weeks. New Mexico, which just three weeks ago was leading the WAC, now is struggling to finish above .500 and goes into El Paso with a 2-2 league mark and 3-4 overall record.

"We're down to 64 healthy players," said Coach Joe Morrison earlier this week. "We've got more players on the sidelines than on the practice field."

And, despite the fact New Mexico has given up 62 points in back-to-back losses to Colorado State and Hawaii, it has not been the defense which has been the culprit.

In last week's 31-14 loss to Hawaii, the Rainbows scored four touchdowns off mistakes by the Lobo offense. Statistically, the defense held Hawaii to two first downs and 68 yards in the second half, when Hawaii's defensive unit broke the game open.

Either sophomore David Osborn or junior Robin Gabriel will start at quarterback in place of Wright. Osborn was among the players injured last week but could be ready by Saturday night.

Lawless signs with Detroit

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—The Detroit Lions strengthened their injury-depleted offensive line Thursday by signing free agent and former Dallas Cowboys starter Burton Lawless to a multi-year contract, a club spokesman said.

The 6-foot-4, 255-pound offensive guard is in his sixth National Football League season. He will be in uniform Sunday when the Lions meet the Chiefs in Kansas City.

Lawless was the Cowboys' second-round draft choice in 1975 and became the first rookie since 1965 to start on Dallas' offensive line.

He retired from the Cowboys during training camp and was traded to the Miami Dolphins, who released him. Defensive back Luther Bradley, who has missed the last three games with a knee injury, was placed on the injury reserve list to make room for Lawless.

Terms of Lawless' contract were not disclosed.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, October 25, 1980
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: The late great Pablo Picasso was born on this date, as were singer Helen Reddy and model Cheryl Tiegs. Your generosity may cut into savings at times but it is a major component of your warm-hearted personality. A tendency to be too self-critical could slow down business progress. In the months just ahead, seize new leadership opportunities and concentrate on long-range career goals. Only time will reveal the truth about an on-going romance!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Romance may be moving in a more positive direction now. Trust your instincts when deciding whether or not to reveal a secret.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Those in your immediate vicinity should be cooperative today. Be careful not to take advantage of mate's mellow mood. Resolve to make fewer luxury purchases.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You could find that you made the right decision for all the wrong reasons! The emphasis is on forgetting past mistakes and looking ahead to the future.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Working on Saturday could be the answer to inflation woes. Refuse to hire others to perform chores that you can do yourself. Loved ones make a surprising revelation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your relations with others show decided improvement, particularly if a trip or visit is part of day's plan. Give greater attention to projects that promise future comfort, security.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The spotlight is on new beginnings in business or community affairs. Air those original ideas and personal prestige will get a big boost. Romance is dazzling, but take things one at a time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A new friendship provides helpful financial advice. A social gathering could reunite you with an old friend. Be willing to forgive what might have been a deliberate slight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Plan social activities that include both the young and the old. Others are in the mood to confide secrets, but you would be wise to forget what you hear!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): First impressions are apt to be right on target. A pleasing personal appearance and positive attitude count big with a potential romantic partner. Spruce up wardrobe!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Spend morning on errands and chores, but save the afternoon for that special person! A leisurely lunch provides an oasis of calm in a busy weekend. Call a friend who has been out of touch.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money, romance and success are all part of today's plan. Trust intuition. Outdoor pleasures are invigorating and give you a more optimistic outlook.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A change of scenery is very welcome. Friends see a new you when you are in the company of someone special.

GOREN BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

dummy's two low diamonds will be discarded when declarer draws trumps. And if East discards a diamond, dummy's diamonds are all good.

So you happily plop yourself down in the South chair, but wait a moment—it is too early to decide that you would rather declare six spades. Have you considered what happens if, on the club ruff in dummy, East "discards" a low trump, a card for which he has absolutely no use?

Now East is in the happy position of discarding after dummy when declarer cashes his two remaining trumps. If dummy sheds two diamonds, East can afford to spare a diamond. If dummy parts with a heart, East has no need for his fourth heart. Naturally, you chose to defend, didn't you?

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Learn to find the winning attack with Charles Goren's "Opening Leads." For your copy, send $1.85 to "Goren-Leads," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Would you like to become a bridge columnist? Certain analytical powers are a prerequisite, so study the diagram above, then decide whether you would rather play or defend six spades with a trump lead.

The bidding is typical of what happens when someone preempts—but neither North nor South can be faulted! Nevertheless, North-South could consider themselves lucky; left to their own devices, they would have realized that they had only a 4-3 spade fit and would undoubtedly have ended up in six no trump, a contract which, as the cards lie, stands no chance at all.

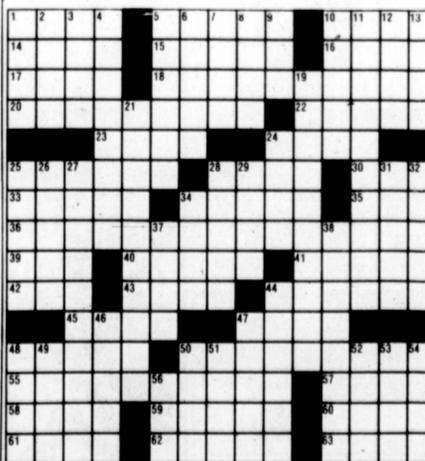

Not that all six spades is a bargain. You choose to defend, naturally. Declarer wins the trump in dummy and leads a club to the jack and West's queen. West continues with a second trump. This time declarer wins in hand and ruffs a club with dummy's king of trumps. What does East discard?

If East lets go a heart, dummy's fourth heart will become the twelfth trick—

Longest actor's strike now officially over

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The longest actors' strike in Hollywood history is officially over following the Screen Actors Guild's overwhelming ratification of a three-year contract.

The total vote in the union's mail-in balloting showed 18,577 in favor of the contract and 3,697 against, SAG spokeswoman Kim Fellner announced Thursday.

She said the number of returns set a new record in balloting by the 45,000-member union.

SAG's sister union, the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, whose members appear in videotaped productions, approved the contract last week.

Although the vote put the official stamp of approval on the back-to-work process, most actors — particularly those in TV shows — had already returned to their jobs under an interim authorization that took effect Oct. 5.

The voting was preceded by considerable rank-and-file debate over controversial home video provisions of the contract, which was hammered out Sept. 25 after months of talks with representatives of the Motion Picture Industry Negotiating Committee.

The strike began July 21 and stretched through 11 weeks of traditional peak production time for the fall TV season. Many of the new fall shows had to be delayed, including Lorimar Productions' long-awaited "Who shot J.R.," episodes of CBS-TV's "Dallas."

Tens of thousands of people — not only crew members but workers dependent on the Hollywood trade, from caterers to gardeners to animal wranglers — were thrown out of work as the $40-million-a-week film and TV industry shut down.

The new contract gives the actors a 32.25 percent increase in minimum pay — previously $225 a day and $785 a week — after three years and for the first time allows actors a share in revenues from programming made for the fledgling home video market.

The actors will receive 4.5 percent of the gross sales for pay TV programs after the shows are broadcast 10 days in a year's time, and the same percentage of the producers' gross from the sale of videocassettes and videodiscs after a sale of 100,000 units combined.

'One-Trick Pony' keeps trend going

By the Associated Press

ONE-TRICK PONY continues the pop-fame-is-rotten trend already explored by "The Rose," "Honey-suckle Rose," "Coal Miner's Daughter," "Stardust Memories." This time the ego journey is taken by Paul Simon, who wrote the script and songs and plays a 1960s protest singer trying to make a comeback in 1980. While Simon's laid-back style fits his wryly intelligent songs, it is too colorless to carry a feature movie. Director Robert M. Young captures the mind-numbing rock scene, but Simon's script fails to generate any drama. Like the singer's estranged wife (Blair Brown), viewers can feel no sympathy for his dogged self-indulgence. Rated R, with rough language and ample female nudity.

Did you hear the one about the good family that went to see God's new movie... and the bad family that didn't?

Eddie Rabbit to perform Saturday

By GEORGIA TEMPLE
Staff Writer

Bill Rehrig, fiddle player and road manager for Eddie Rabbit, asked if the interview could be short and to the point.

Unfortunately as he explained on the phone, "Eddie has bronchitis, laryngitis and a sore throat. He's under doctor's orders to talk as little as possible."

The answer was, of course, yes. A short interview is certainly better than no interview. Besides, no one would want to be responsible for straining the voice of the fastest rising country performer today — especially when he is scheduled to perform at Chaparral Center Saturday with Mickey Gilley, Johnny Lee and The Urban Cowboy Band. Tickets at $7.50 for the 8 p.m. concert may be purchased at Chaparral Center. Availability is limited.

Rabbit, who writes as well as he sings, has established himself as a major force in the country-western music field with 12 consecutive number one hits including "Rocky Mountain Music," "You Don't Love Me Anymore," "Suspicious," "Gone Too Far" and "Driving My Life Away."

For Elvis Presley fans, Eddie is best known as the writer of "Kentucky Rain," which was Elvis' 50th-million selling song. And Clint Eastwood followers remember he wrote and recorded the theme song for the movie "Every Which Way But Loose."

Those in the industry are predicting that this is the year of the Rabbit. And from the way things are going, they may be right.

Although the road hasn't been easy, Eddie said, "I can't imagine myself doing anything else. I feel awfully lucky. I might be scooping ice cream at a Howard Johnson's like I did before."

He traveled to Nashville in 1968 with only "a wing and a prayer."

He knew what he wanted for the future, but "making it happen was the hard part." In Nashville he watched many talented people come and go.

"I stayed," he explained, softly, "because I didn't have anything else to go back to."

At that time he was associating with other then-unknowns, such as Kris Kristofferson and Larry Gatlin. And his first paid writing job was with Hill and Range Music Publishing where he was earning $37.50 a week. It's apparent in talking with Rabbitt that he not only loves his work, he's dedicated to doing it right.

When he taped the Eddie Rabbit TV Special in July, he stayed with the audio engineers until 3 a.m. even though he had to be working again at 8 a.m.

"I wouldn't let a bunch of strangers mix my music, so I stuck to them like a wart," he said, laughing. "I just had to. You can do everything right, but when you put it in somebody else's hands, it may turn out wrong."

This same attitude carries over to his concert dates. Eddie spent the six days prior to this tour working in Los Angeles under difficult conditions. Most of the time he was performing under television lights and he was staying where there was no air conditioning. Thus, Eddie, who "feels great most of the time," attributes his sore throat to "hard work and smog."

But it hasn't slowed him down. He has performed daily on this tour and said, very softly just before he hung up, "I'm looking forward to Midland on Saturday."

Head East to play Saturday night at Ector Coliseum

By GEORGIA TEMPLE Staff Writer

ODESSA — Those who have heard the rock group Head East perform in the past may be in for a surprise Saturday night at Ector County Coliseum.

The band has undergone major changes, with its founder and keyboard player Roger Boyd and drummer Steven Huston being the only original members left. New members include lead singer Dan Odum, who was with the band before, bass player Mark Boatman and guitarist Tony Gross.

As Gross explained in a recent telephone interview, "It was time for a change. Overall the new band is very exciting as compared to the last."

Gross said his being hired by Boyd was an example of "having the right product in the right place at the right time."

Although Gross "wanted to do original music," he was having difficulty doing that "playing the local club scene in Rochester, N.Y.," because people wanted to hear Top 40. Then Head East came to town and Gross said, "I weasled my way into the party after the show."

He was talking with 39 students chosen for all region choir

Students from the two Midland senior high schools and freshman schools competed in the Texas Music Educators Association all region choral tryouts held in Midland last Saturday.

The competition include students from Region 6 4A and 5A high schools in Odessa, Big Spring and surrounding towns.

Chosen for the all-region choir were 17 students from LHS and 17 from MHS, one from Lee Freshman and two from Midland Freshman. These students will participate in a clinic and public concert to be held at Lee High School Dec. 5 and 6.

In December, five students from LHS and 10 from MHS who were named top voices in soprano, alto, tenor and bass sections will try out for all area choir.

Midland High School students competing for all-area choir are Shella Pruitt, Ronnie Finley, Gary Lyons, R.L. Perille, Jim Martin, Matt Carr, Todd Weiler, Frank Garramore, Tom Boswell and Carol Blashke.

Students competing for the all-area choir from Lee High School are Stacy Lewis, Suzanne Pare, Kim Willis, Lane Marks, and Mark Metz.

Former Lee High School choral director Doug Brown will be this year's all-region clinician.

Other participants in the all-region choir will be Teresa King, Lisa Col-dawey, Shelly Heiser, Tammy Madison, Jana Blaschke, Cheryl Cofer and Jimmy Jeffcoat from Midland High.

John Porterfield and Johnny Kirkpatrick from Midland Freshman and Tracy Sherman from Lee Freshman were also named to the all-region choir.

Disney shows are canceled

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — A number of prominent entertainers are refusing to cross picket lines at Walt Disney World and have canceled performances, according to a Disney spokesman.

The pickets were set up by 107 striking park musicians.

Boyd when Boyd asked, "How come you're so much into the music business?" Gross explained, "I'm a musician."

"I just happened to have a demo tape with me," Gross added, laughing.

His efforts were rewarded. The band flew him to Davenport, Iowa, to see how he got along with the other members, Gross said.

"It's a rags to riches, Cinderella story," said Gross, who, at 19 when his break came, had been playing for 11 years.

For Odum, "It was a dream come true." Although he had played with Head East in 1971 and 1972, he had been drafted into the Army.

Boyd found Odum, who is now 28, playing in a bar in Danville, Ill. A call was all it took to secure his services once again with the group.

Boyd also knew Boatman who was working in one of Boyd's publishing companies.

As Boyd explained, "Mark's an excellent bass player and I'd already worked with him as a writer. Fortunately, all the new players can sing lead and Mark is outstanding as a balladeer."

The group's seventh album "U.S. 1," which is also the first one for this combination of musicians, is supposed to be as good, if not better, than its gold-plated debut album, "Flat As A Pancake." It was just released Monday.

Those attending Saturday night's concert will have the opportunity to decide because Head East will perform selections from all of their albums.
