Three men convicted

Former chief reveals pot scheme

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Three Houston-area men, indicted in a marijuana scheme revealed by a former police chief who turned to dealing in marijuana, were convicted in federal court in Midland Tuesday of conspiracy to possess and to distribute 1,143 pounds of the Mexican

Convicted were Terry Wright, 44, the former pilot-mechanic of the nowdefunct Big Bend Airways in Alpine; Ricky J. Kornele and Gary Orsack,

The jury deliberated slightly more than an hour Tuesday before finding the threesome guilty on all counts. The men, free under $10,000 bonds, are to be sentenced by U.S. District Judge Lucius D. Bunton at 5 p.m. Dec. 15 in federal court here. Each could be dealt a five-year penitentiary term and $15,000 in fine on each count charged in the indictment.

The government's case against the three men was largely based on the testimony of D.A. "Ace" Moseley, 44, ex-chief of police at Alpine and a former undercover narcotics detective with the Midland Police Depart-

Moseley, who was indicted last May for conspiracy to possess marijuana and with possession with intent to distribute 1,143 pounds of the controlled substance, was granted immunity after he agreed to become a government witness and to testify against his former cohorts, with whom he admitted having drug deal-

Don Lambright, one of three defense attorneys from Houston, turned against Moseley in his closing arguments in the 1½-day trial, questioned his credibility and said "I'd rather call him 'Deuce' " instead of his long-standing nickname of "Ace."

"His (Moseley's) conscience ate him up," Lambright said. "There should be some people walking around feeling guilty," he said of the ex-lawman, who reportedly now is running a shrimp boat off the Texas Gulf Coast.

Lambright lamblasted Moseley and said that his testimony was "gossip" and should not be taken seriously by the eight-woman, four-man jury.

"I don't think we've ever convicted people on that kind of evidence. They (the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration) are so proud of (Moseley), anyway.

Lambright was referring to Moseley's giving and signing a confession before DEA Special Agent Larry Nichols the day before he was to go on trial in August. In exchange for Moseley's cooperation with the DEA, the government agreed to grant immunity to Moseley and to dismiss the indictments against him.

Later, Moseley, acting as a pseudoundercover agent, pretended he again was dealing in "dope" and surreptitiously recorded drug-related conversations with defendants Wright, Orsack and Kornele in Midland and in Houston.

"In order to convict on these tapes," the defense attorney told the jurors, "you have got to believe 'Ace'

"When you talk about law and order in the same context with 'Ace' Moseley, it's a joke," charged Lambright. "I hope you are offended as I am offended" by Moseley's testimony.

In further trying to discredit Moseley and his credibility, Lambright said that an untrustworthy lawman should be avoided.

"A dishonest police officer has more power to harm you than any criminal that walks through town, he said. "He can hurt you in ways that you are powerless to do anything about," he said. "I would prosecute 'Ace' Moseley for free, without a single penny for fee, if given the opportunity," the defense attorney said.

But, he said Moseley would go free. "'Ace' Moseley will be dealt

Voyager nears climax of journey to Saturn

er 1 swooped beneath the rings of Saturn today as it raced to an afternoon rendezvous with the golden planet after its cameras, aimed point-blank at Titan, failed to penetrate the big moon's smoggy orange

But scientists, though denied a first-ever look at Titan's surface, reported intriguing hints of detail in the cloudy atmosphere and excitedly began processing a wealth of data from Voyager's nine other instruments, which explored the moon from scarely 2,500 miles late Tuesday.

Mission spokesman Al Hibbs said the ship, 947 million miles from earth as its three-year journey of exploration neared its climax today, was just 12 miles from the pre-planned bull'seye as it skimmed past Titan.

During the Titan encounter, Voyager's radio signals were received at a tracking station at Madrid, Spain, where five hours of data was lost Saturday because of foul weather. "There were very heavy rain-storms over the Madrid station last night, Hibbs said. "But in spite of that, all the data that was planned for was received." Voyager was looking up through the rings and reaching speeds of more than 50,000 mph today on its way to Saturn, where its cameras will see the planet's swirling, banded clouds from just 77,000 miles above the planet's surface at 5: 10 p.m. PST.

The ship also was exploring several of Saturn's frozen moons before leaving Saturn's realm to begin an endlessvoyage into the deeper reaches of

A report from the tax assessor-collector's office which showed a $94 million difference in July and Novemeber assessed tax values for the Midland Independent School District caused great concern for school trustees during Tuesday's school board

If the report is found to be accurate following an investigation by MISD, the school district could stand to lose $841,399 in tax revenues. A two-hour closed door emergency executive session started at 2 p.m. when the four-member board discussed the matter with the district's attorney, Charles Tighe of Midland.

Trustee Parker Humes, acting chairman, read a statement to the news media concerning the difference. According to the statement, on July 30, Virgil Jones, tax assessor-collector, reported the district had $2,081,-348,490 in total assessed taxable property for the school district. At that time, the effective tax rate for the school district was set at 75 cents per $100 evaluation. The district then set its tax rate at 89 cents to cover the 1980-81 school budget. The tax office later sent a different set of figures showing the assessed taxable values at $1,986,809,221 — a $94,539,269 difference.

Dr. James Mailey, school superintendent, said the $94 million difference was first discovered two weeks ago by Don Furgeson, district business manager.

The July figures were understood by the district to have been accurate, said Mailey.

This was the first time during Mailey's 13 years as superintendent the tax office has reported such a large discrepancy.

In the past, tax reports on total assessed values were accurate, said

Two more office buildings will be added to the Petroleum Center complex on the northeast corner of North A Street and Wadley Avenue, according to an announcement Tuesday by the I.D.P. Corporation.

The two new buildings will be an addition to One and Two, which are being completed, and Three and Four, which are now under construc-tion. Completion dates on the latter pair of buildings is July 1981 and these are 70 percent leased.

view by Dr. Joseph Baressi, assistant superintendent for instruction, at a Dec. 11 meeting.

The five areas the League group will be examining deal with English, mathematics, social studies, science and foreign language.

Following approval of the League's study, trustees rejected a request by the First Baptist Church to allow Jay Strack, an evangelist, to present a values and morals presentation to secondary students.

Although it was reported by Charlie Dodd, youth director at First Baptist, that other Texas school districts allowed the presentation, trustees said in effect they did not want to set a precedent allowing other religious organizations to make similar presentations. Humes said the district has denied other local religious organizations permission to bring speakers to the schools. However, board members noted efforts would be made to inform the students about the program.

Charlie Elliott, father of three children attending public schools, questioned board members about their decision. He wanted to know if other schools allowed the presentation, why not Midland schools.

Also, he inquired about the district's policy concerning religious speakers and if there was a way to change it.

According to trustees, a past incident involving a minister speaking to students at Alamo Junior High created a stir when the minister went beyond the original intent of the speech and began offering invitations for students to come forward.

Following that incident, the district established a policy forbidding religious speakers to make presentations at the schools.

Garland Chapman, assistant superintendent, expressed the educator's point of view about allowing more general assemblies for students to listen to various speakers.

"Teachers were not given enough time to teach students," he said. The concern of the district was to give students the best academically, Chapman noted

And there has to be time devoted to teaching. "Schools can only do so much," he said.

Board members were pleased with the accreditation report by the Texas Education Agency

The school district would be recommended for accreditation, said Baressi. However, the four-member accreditation team recognized, among other items, the overcrowded situation at the elementary schools.

In the report, the team expressed concern about the combining of first and kindergarten grades at several elementary schools.

Although it said the idea may be good, the combination would become a burden to teachers. The report noted that one kindergarten teacher at West Elementary was assigned 38 kindergarten students.

The team complimented the district for the high degree of coordination in curriculum and instruction, implementation of its five year plan, selection of principals, and its foreign language, biology, fine arts and language arts programs.

Besides the overcrowded elementary schools, the accreditation team expressed concern about the need for improved library and counseling services, over-testing of students, policy changes for safety and staff performance evaluation.

Following the report, board members mentioned the need for calling a bond election to construct a new elementary school.

In other action, the board approved bids for a gasoline storage tank, stage curtains for Midland High School and six elementary schools as well as other routine items.

The revelation Tuesday afternoon of changes in this year's tax base for the school district has brought varied comments from officials in the other taxing bodies.

According to School Board Trustee Parker Humes, the total assessed value of taxable property in the school district has changed by some $94.5 million since the $2 billion base figure was reported on July 30. That valuation change will mean a $841,399 difference in tax revenue for the school district.

City tax assessor-collector Virgil Jones, who reported the figures, said there would be changes in the tax bases of all four taxing bodies under his jurisdiction: the school, college, hospital and city districts.

"Back in June, we gave them (the taxing bodies) an estimate on the total property valuations," Jones "They based their tax rates on those estimates." However, Jones said, the estimates have changed a great deal since June After the Board of Equalization met and some of the new property valuation appraisals were lowered and the tax rolls, Jones said, "all of them (the taxing bodies' tax base estimates) are wrong."

Jones said, "By Sept. 15, we knew we had a problem. The estimated increase that we were to have was where we had the problem." He said the office would have final figures on each of the tax bases by tomorrow.

But, Jones added, he did not know how the changes would affect each of the four taxing bodies' revenue during the current fiscal year. "If any one changes (its tax rate)." Jones said, "it'll be the school district." However, he added, "I can't speak for them." He went on to say that short of changing the tax rates for each district, "I don't know what options they have. Mayor G. Thane Akins said since "I don't really know what changes will be made" as Jones has not released the final figures, he did not know what actions the city would take to make up for lost revenues. If the change was very large, he said of increasing the tax rate: "it's a possibility." A smaller change might be able to come out of surplus revenues, he said.

Akins did say the city's tax base is and so the changes might not affect the city as significantly. However, he said, "I haven't seen anything on paper. This may turn out to be not The city's current tax rate is 45 cents per $100 property valuation. Ted Kerr, attorney for the hospital district, said the hospital officials learned of the changes when they received the ammended tax roll from Jones two weeks ago. "We noticed that the total figure was lower than the figure that was used for planning and setting the tax rate."

After calling the tax office, Kerr said he learned "Virgil was aware of the difference." Kerr said Jones reported the errors were "computational," and that the computer department of the tax office was the group that put out the estimates.

Kerr said if the tax office did not go with the estimates, "it would probably be October before you could get your figures.'

Ed Magruder, president of the hospital's board of directors, said the new tax base for the hospital "is going to cause us a loss of tax revenue. However, our bond fund reserves and our general fund reserves are going to be adequate to see us over this projected loss of revenue over the rate that's been set. Magruder went on to say, "We don't have any plans to hold any new hearings to change the tax rate." Based on the current tax rate of nine cents per $100 valuation, Magruder said the hospital would lose "around $85,-

Bob Phillips, vice president of financial affairs at Midland College, said the college was withholding comment on the situation until its officials had a chance to study the problem.

The college's tax base changed by some $84 million less than the July figure of $2,119,106,000.

The case involving Moseley supposedly gained impetus after Moseley, then Alpine's police chief, report-"checked" out 1,143 pounds of confiscated marijuana from a DEA evidence locker in Alpine and said he was going to destroy — burn — the "grass" in conforming with law.

Instead, he and Wright reportedly sold the marijuana for $55,000 to the Houston men in 1979. On the witness stand, Moseley indicated that the money was to be used to help bail out the financially-troubled Big Bend Air-ways. Moseley, like Wright, had in-vested funds in the airways. DALLAS (AP) - Television evangelist James Robison says he is preparing a list of potential cabinet appointees for President-elect Ronald Reagan.

But he cautioned that administration and implementation of the policy "is another question. It's another problem for another day.'

Woodward delayed ruling on a portion of the suit, filed by the Lubbock Civil Liberties Union, that asked the school's earlier religion policy be declared unconstitutional and sought damages for students who might have participated unwill-ingly in a religious activ-

WASHINGTON (AP) - A conservative research group with ties to the head of Ronald Reagan's transition team is urging the new Republican administration to halt affirmative action to increase hiring and promotion of blacks, women and minorities discriminated against in the past.

A task force put together by the Heritage Foundation is recommending policy reversals and sweeping executive orders to stop the federal government from advocating crossdistrict school busing for integration,

The 20 papers, covering Cabinet and independent federal agencies, were prepared by Heritage task forces drawn from Capitol Hill, academia, past administrations and the business world.

-Abolishing a secret court created by a 1978 law requiring that intelligence agencies get secret warrants before bugging and wiretapping Americans suspected in foreign intelligence cases.

-Rescinding an executive order by President Carter that bans mail opening by the FBI and requires prior approval by the president and attorney general for intrusive investigative techniques such as burglary.

-New Justice Department policies that would make it more difficult for environmental groups to go to court to force the government to take certain anti-pollution actions and more difficult for them to get the government to pay their legal costs in administrative hearings.

Greater control of government legal work by the Justice Department, which is described as more level-headed and conservative than agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency.

—Broader authority to fire "leakers" of national security information and more exemptions to the Freedom of Information Act for law enforcement files.

-Uniformly conservative appointments in the Justice Department rather than using those jobs "for mollifying key interest groups."

The most sweeping changes are advocated for civil rights, which has been a top priority in the Carter administration Justice Department. The Heritage group said the remedy for past discrimination "has gotten so far out of hand that it has become mandatory to discriminate in order to end discrimination."

In the Heritage view, the civil rights policy should recognize "that every person has an inherent right to obtain whatever economic and other rewards he (or she) has earned, by virtue of merit, and that it is inherently wrong to penalize those who have earned their reward by giving preferential treatment and benefits to those who have not."

The group recommends ending employment and education suits, which have multiplied under Carter, in which federal contractors or state and local public agencies have agreed to set numerical goals for hiring and promoting minorities and women.

The group says the new assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division must be "willing to take the heat for policy reversals in this area" and "must understand from the beginning that he may be forced to resign in order to insulate the presidency."

Cleaning up Midland

If cleanliness really is next to Godliness, many Midlanders may be approaching that holy state lext week.

Next Monday through Friday, Midland Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a massive, communitywide cleanup campaign. The program needs and deserves the upport of all of us.

Nearly all Midlanders can claim a small percentage of the blame, at least, for the city remaining in a cluttered, unsanitary, dirty state. Think about it. Is there a junk automobile on the vacant lot next to your home? Are the weeds overgrown on your own lot? What about the scattered papers and cans around your garbage container? And can you remember those limbs you trimmed from the trees in your yard last year and left decomposing in the alleyway?

Well, now there is no excuse. The city of Midland is participating in this cleanup campaign too, and will pick up unwanted items for you at no charge.

Midland is a beautiful city. Its downtown area is known throughout the region for the tall buildings, actually skyscrapers to most West Texans familiar mostly with the wide open ranges.

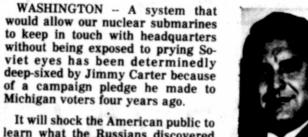

Its residential neighborhoods are beautiful, too. And, of course, city park areas enhance the beauty and aesthetic appeal of the community.

From time to time, our homes collect clutter. That's just a fact of life. Most people find it takes a continual cleaning process just to stay ahead of the collection of clutter.

The same thing happens throughout a city, any city. There, however, the cleanup job takes on a different scope. It becomes a big job requiring many thousands of hands to be effective.

We all have a stake in the Tall City. We all share, as Midlanders, a responsibility to help ensure that our city stays as clean, sanitary and as attractive as possible. Therefore we all share an obligation to take part in this clean-up campaign.

Let's all get involved in the chamber's clean-up campaign next week. We'll all reap the ben-learn what the Russians discovered long ago: Our submarine missile force could not now effectively communicate with the White House in a national emergency from the safety of the ocean's depths. Like Hansel and Gretel leaving a trail of bread crumbs, a sub that needs to send or receive signals from Washington must use a wire antenna towed either on the surface of the ocean or attached to a buoy just below the surface. Either technique makes the sub a sitting duck for enemy ships or aircraft:

The best way a submarine can protect itself is to run silent and deep but at the cost of not knowing what is going on in the world and what the commander-in-chief wants it to do. To keep in touch, it must now bob up to periscope depth.

What makes the situation truly shocking, though, is that the Navy found a way out of this dilemma 11 years ago. It is a system known as ELF - for Extremely Low Frequency. It originally called for 2,400 miles of antenna to be buried underground in northern Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The super-antenna would beam messages to subs deep under water.

Its importance was clear to President Ford, who called ELF "absolutely essential to our national securi-

Carter pledge cut sub's communication

Why wasn't ELF constructed? Fourteen secret and confidential White House, Pentagon and congressional documents, seen by my reporters Dale Van Atta and Gloria Danziger, trace ELF's scuttling to Oct. 25.

On that day, candidate Jimmy Carter, wooing the votes of environmentalists and Michiganders, worried about possible dangers in the underground antenna system, promised that ELF "will not be built in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan against the wishes of its citizens."

As president, Carter was persuaded briefly — by his military experts that ELF was too vital to be put off. He asked Congress for $20 million in research and development funds. Military leaders, including Defense Secretary Harold Brown, were unanimous in their view that the need for ELF was both "real and urgent."

But Carter soon began to waffle. On Feb. 16, 1978, in a letter to Brown, the president said he had reservations about ELF, "primarily because of inconvenience to private landowners as well as its excessive cost." He conceded, however, that his staff could find no alternative to ELF if the nuclear submarine force was to be protected within "a reasonable period of time." He recommended a scaled-Brown kept pushing. Carter kept stalling. One reason appears to have been timely prodding by Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich. On Jan. 10, 1979, he warned Carter that if he broke his promise on ELF it would "test the credibility of your administration."

Even more pointedly, Levin wrote the president on May 12, 1980, that approval of ELF "would focus the attention of the entire state and nation on (the) issue as a test of your credibility just before the general elec-

LOSER'S SOLACE: The voters' rejection of Jimmy Carter last week is going to cost taxpayers a modest bundle. Thanks to the generosity of Congress in providing retirement benefits for ex-presidents, Carter's electoral humiliation will be cushioned by cash

Like Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon, the 56-year-old Carter will draw a yearly presidential pension of about $70,000 - but since it is by law equal to a Cabinet secretary's salary, it may well increase in coming years.

In addition, each ex-president is given some $250,000 a year for office space and expenses. Add to this free postage and the cost of Secret Service protection, and the yearly tab for a former chief executive comes to about half a million dollars.

Another financial repercussion of Carter's defeat is the $3 million Congress has appropriated for the transition expenses involved in turning the Executive Branch over to Ronald Reagan's people.

RECORD SCRATCH: A three-year federal probe of the multibillion-dollar recording industry - whose executives gave generously to Jimmy Carter's 1976 campaign — was killed by Justice Department brass even though the antitrust division's Los Angeles office recommended prosecution. Allegations that the big companies were squeezing out independents by fixing prices had triggered a grand jury investigation. Now a powerful senator wants to know why the promising probe was called off.

In a private letter to Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who will become chairman of the Judiciary Committee when the Republicans organize the Senate in January, has warned the administration he plans to look into the way the Justice Department handled the record industry investiga-

There's even talk of them bringing in big name bands from St. Louis to play for them. I tell you, socially, the Reagans are going to put our town on the map.

"How else do you think Reagan's going to change the town?"

"He's going to get rid of all the bad guys. He's going to swear in a bunch of new deputies and clean out all the fat and waste that's been going on around here. Anyone who rides into town wearing a black hat with a welfare plan will be rode out on a rail. You're going to see some pretty good shootouts in the next four years.'

"So you can see nothing but good coming of the Reagans moving to Washington?"

"You're darn tootin'. In time we might become as important as Tucson, Ariz. They're even thinking about making our town a stage coach stop, and the Union Pacific is talking about building a trunk line that will connect us with Omaha. This sleepy town is going to come alive in the next four years

The demanding question is, why? The answer is that Jay, who was beaten by Moore in 1972, was utterly terrified that he would be defeated again, and thus be washed up in politics. Moore, though tarred by scandal, did get 46 percent of the vote in losing, and spent up to $1 million in that effort. At first, Moore was worried about Jay's splurge, then became glum, but finally found humor for relief. His supporters used bumper stickers reading "Make Him Spend It All,

Part one: The woman who would be first lady

Enigmatic Nancy Reagan 'has been in training all her life'

Nancy Reagan is the enigma behind the man who will be the next president of the United States. Underneath that public armor and beyond that steely gaze is a complex and savvy political animal driven by a maelstrom of private passions. The White House is one of them. And when the Reagans and their royal court make it to Washington, former actress Nancy will finally get to play what to her is the greatest role of them all.

This is the first of a four part series by Los Angeles Herald Examiner staff writer Wanda McDaniel, with reporting assistance from Caroline Cushing, which traces the rise of an extraordinary "his and her" oligarchy. It's about a woman who began life in the depths of tragedy and spiraled to the heights of glory. It's about Hollywood lives and perfect wives. It's about an ingenue who found her calling under the klieg lights of politics. It's about the reign of Nancy Reagan — the woman who would be

By WANDA MCDANIEL

The women are pawns in a game of chess. They are moved from place to place, told what to say, how to look, who to like, when to wave, who to trust. They are political wives. And as brainy as they might be, it's not very often that they are allowed to set the strategy or even ask "why

What was at stake in Campaign '80 was, of course, the highest office in the land. Among the players on the board was one doe-eyed woman with petaled, auburn hair and a penetrating gaze who would flash in contempt at being called a pawn. In fact, in her perfect Oscar de la Renta suits and her glorious Galanos gowns, this political wife looks more like a princess, positioned next to her adoring white knight.

Except for this: Nancy Reagan wants to be queen.

'She is the perfect political wife," insists California Lt. Gov. Mike Curb. "And she'll make an excellent first lady because she wants so much to be there, there's no question about that. She plays a major role in most of his decision-making. He seeks her counsel. She's a woman who says what she believes. They're just a great couple."

Will she exercise the same sort of power as, say, Rosalynn Carter? Curb hesitates for a moment and says, "Yes, yes. There's no question

NANCY REAGAN GETS EXCEEDINGLY UPSET when anyone talks about her power - her power over her husband, her power behind the throne. It's almost as if she draws into herself like a wounded kitten if a reporter asks her "The Question." First comes that little girlish, but throaty laugh. Then the steely look that fogs her eyes as she searches for "The Safe Answer" to the dreadful query that continues to haunt her.

Before the election we interviewed her in the Reagans' American-Oriental, Pacific Palisades home. She sat on a flowered sofa, silently composing the proper way to explain her role in her husband's hard-fought campaign. Finally she speaks.

"There's, uh, no doubt that there is much more curiosity about wives today than yesterday. When Ronnie first ran (for governor) in '66, there wasn't the same curiosity. There was an interest, but maybe more because of the motion picture background. My role? (The nervous laugh erupts again.) Well, I try to be supportive of my husband. I just do whatever they

But the rumors regaling Mrs. Reagan's behind-the-scenes clout persist. At the Republican convention this summer, a Reagan aide explained, 'She's a very strong woman who offers the same sort of counsel as Mrs. Carter. The Reagans are confidants, they keep everything very close to the vest." Congressman Barry Goldwater Jr. added, "Women control politics. They're always in the background, but I've never known a situation where they weren't pulling the strings."

The very thought sends Mrs. Reagan reeling. No, no, no, she says, she does not join in decision-making. And she can get downright testy if you compare her to Rosalynn Carter.

'That doesn't mean that we don't talk politics all the time, because we do," she demurs. "And, um, it doesn't mean that we don't influence each other. After all, if you've been married 28 years, you have got to influence each other. But as far as real, hard decisions go...

HER VOICE TRAILS OFF and she shakes her head. The axing of campaign chief John Sears earlier this year, widely attributed to Nancy after word spread of her displeasure with him, she insists, is "simply not true, not true. You know, if you've been around politics any length of time, you soon discover that political rumors — well, you can hear just about anything you want to hear." And she says all that stuff about how she has just as much muscle as Mrs. Carter is way off base.

"All first ladies are different," she explains in sing-song, as if she's gone through this a hundred times before. "You couldn't ask for two more adverse people than Eleanor Roosevelt and Bess Truman. But I'm sure Eleanor did what was best for Franklin and Bess did what was best for Harry. So, well, I would do what was best for me and Ronnie. My way certainly would not be Rosalynn Carter's way. No, I would not be sitting on a powerbase. No, no way.'

It is a strident, almost frantic denial, as if the mere thought of a woman holding any power conjures up nightmares of the way the world shouldn't be. Nancy Reagan prides herself on being a good wife and unabashedly glories in the fact that she lives her entire existence through her husband. She can talk all day about family, marriage, husbands, home, and seems honestly threatened by anyone brazen enough to bring her Norman Rockwellian picture of life into glaring focus.

She is a strong woman who concedes that her strength comes from her husband - hers is the pre-liberation definition of strength. She joins him in intoning against such contemporary notions as abortion, pre-marital sex and the ERA, while raising a torch to ultraconservative belief in the family unit and the death penalty. She is highly moral, almost puritanical, a self-annointed political evangelist preaching virtue as if virginity were the key to the nation's ills.

IN A NOSTALGIC SENSE, the Reagans are magical. They are totally devoted to each other and are locked in a perpetual state of torrid post-middle-

"They really are best friends," stepdaughter Maureen Reagan claims. "But she is not whispering in his ear and pushing him from behind."

While growing up in Chicago and attending the exclusive Girls' Latin School, Mrs. Reagan met Deedie Wrigley Chauncey, and has remained a close friend. "Her father (Dr. Loyal Davis) was a very stabilizing influence on her life. She had a good upbringing with the old-fashioned, head-of-the-family situation. It was the era of the patriarchal society, recalls Mrs. Chauncey. "Now she defers to Ronnie like she did to her

"They are one of the most blessed couples - and I mean that spiritually," Mrs. Chauncey continues. "They're both reserved. She's not shy or retiring, but self-contained. She's a lady every inch of the way. And I think she's unconsciously been training for (first lady) all her life."

In anticipation of such a move, Glenn said Tuesday he will start accepting speaking engage-ments outside Ohio something he has avoid-ed since being elected to his first Senate term in

He said he will base his final decision on an assessment of how President-elect Ronald Reagan handles the job. In particular, the Ohio Democrat said he will look at what the new Republican administration ices about inflation and nemployment.

NANCY REAGAN'S TRAINING for the role of the nation's reigning female springs from near-tragic beginnings, not the silver-spoon existence that would later follow.

It is with obvious pain and discomfort that Mrs. Reagan remembers her childhood years, a time fraught with loneliness and separation that probably explains her idolatry of the kind of family unit straight out of "Ozzie and Harriet." Not only does she refuse in her autobiography, "Nancy," to mention the name of Jane Wyman, Reagan's first wife with whom he had two children, Maureen and Mike. Not only does she gloss over the fact that her step-father was also divorced, and that Maureen was divorced twice and that her mother was divorced. But her early childhood recollections are recounted in just a few, tormenting pages — as if dwelling on them rattles

"All first ladies are different. You couldn't ask for two more adverse people than Eleanor Roosevelt and Bess Truman. But I'm sure Eleanor did what was best for Franklin and Bess did what was best for Harry. So, well, I would do what was best for me and Ronnie.''

her comforting idealization of life.

She was born on July 6, 1923, in a Manhattan hospital. Her mother was the spirited actress Edith Luckett, her father Kenneth Robbins, a New Jersey car salesman. Her parents immediately separated after baby Nancy arrived; her father (now deceased) never bothered to drop by the hospital.

Her godmother was the famous Alla Nazimova. As a child she glimpsed the

Stewart, Colleen Moore, "Uncle" Walter and Nan Huston, Louise and Spencer

Her mother couldn't justify raising Nancy out of a stage trunk, and at age two, she was sent to live with an aunt and uncle in Bethesda, Md. "It was a terrible wrench for both of us," recalls Mrs. Reagan. "Whenever mother landed in New York for any length of time, my aunt would take me there by train to live with her. She used to live in residential hotels or in brownstone apartments. To this day, I can't pass this type of building without getting a terrible sinking feeling in NANCY'S LAST VISIT with her natural father left comparable scars. During her stay, Robbins said something unflattering about his ex-wife that Nancy didn't like and when the child got angry, Robbins locked her in the bathroom. "I was terrified," Nancy recalls. "The incident brings back a flood of memories I would rather forget.

To this day, Mrs. Reagan feels trapped behind locked doors.

When Nancy was almost seven, her mother arrived one day in Bethesda to tell her daughter she'd fallen in love with a doctor named Loyal Davis, and that if Nancy agreed, Edith would give up the stage and they would all live together, happily ever after, in Chicago. There were rough, jealous times at first — a daughter forced to share the mother she had passionately missed. But soon Nancy relented, and at age 14, became Davis' adopted daughter.

It was a good life, living on chic Lake Shore Drive, attending Girls' Latin School, being sent off to Smith College to major in drama. While at Smith, Nancy and her flance, Frank Birney, planned to meet in New York one weekend. But he was late for the train at Princeton Junction, jumped the gate and ran onto the tracks. The engineer saw him, but not in time. Birney was instantly killed. Nancy was waiting for him in the city when the devastating telephone call came.

Her senior year at Smith, coed Davis suffered the breakup of another engagement. "At Smith I learned that life is not always easy, and romances do not always have romantic endings. I went through difficult changes and emotional experiences, and I learned that you have to take life as it comes, and be prepared for sudden twists of fate. But I have always been a romantic. I almost feel I was fated to meet Ronnie."

And it would happen one day soon, in the most romantically fantasized places of them all, a place prime for princesses — Hollywood.

Estranged wife testifies in man's shooting trial

The estranged wife of Richard Reni Cornett testified in 238th State District Court here Tuesday that her husband broke into her home on June 30, shot and killed her sister with a .38-caliber revolver and then pointed the handgun on her and fired.

"Richard, don't do this. Please don't do this!" the wife, Mildred Jo Cornett, said she pleaded, while holding the couple's baby, Kevin. "And he took the baby from me and shot me,"

The wife, wounded in the arm, chest and shoulder by a single shot, said she fell to the floor, regained her strength, picked up the baby from a couch in the den, and fled the house. Behind her, she left her dying sister and her 5-year-old daughter, Kim Young. Cornett is her stepfather.

Mrs. Cornett testified that her husband, against whom she had filed a divorce suit, earlier had come by their house "to get the baby" and to try to persuade her to help mend their marriage. The house had been awarded to her in a divorce court

"He wanted to come back home," the said. "He wanted to forget about what had happened and no lawyer could help us in our business. We didn't need no lawyer," the wife said her husband, who had "jumped" on her in the past, told her. She said she had no desire again to try to make their marriage work. "I told him I was tired, that I didn't want to reconsider" a reconciliation,

"He hung around and wanted to talk to me - to reconsider and go back together." Again, she rejected

On the afternoon of the shooting, Mrs. Cornett and the children were sleeping on the couch and her sister, Norma Jean Loring, 31, was on the recliner, when the door bell rang, Mrs. Cornett said under questioning by defense attorney Thomas Hirsch of Odessa and by the prosecutors, District Attorney Vern Martin and his first assistant, David Joers.

"I heard a loud 'boom, boom, boom," said the wife, who after seeing that her husband had entered the house at 1715 E. Oak St., rushed into the kitchen to telephone the police.

"He told me if I didn't put the phone down, he'd blow my ----- head off," she said he warned her in a "mad

"I hung up the phone," she said. Mrs. Cornett said her husband of three years asked what her sister

"was doing in his house, his home." He then, she said, pointed the handgun at Mrs. Loring, pulled the trigger and "it just clicked.

"The next time, he pulled the trig-ger, it fired and she fell flat on her stomach. After she fell, he fired at her In the meantime, Mrs. Cornett said

Chicago cabbie defends his actions in Rather incident

CHICAGO (AP) - Chicago cabbie Gene Phillips is fuming that he is "being treated like a maniac" after taking CBS newsman Dan Rather for a ride.

"If Dan Rather says I kidnapped him, he's a fat-faced liar," said Phillips, who allegedly refused to let the TV personality out of his cab Monday afternoon and finally was stopped by an off-duty corrections officer.

"Nobody wants to listen to my side of the story" said Phillips after of the story," said Phillips after spending a night in jail.

Mike Royko, columnist for the Sun-Times listened and told Phillips' side Rather, who will succeed Walter Cronkite as CBS anchorman next year, was in town to interview author tuds Terkel for a segment of the "60 Minutes" news program. He said the cab driver became "verbally abu-sive" and refused to turn off Lake Shore Drive when he gave directions to Terkel's home

Phillips had another version. After picking up Rather at O'Hare International Airport, he said his passenger, who he didn't recognize, gave him an address on Castlewood Terrace, which is only one block long near the lakefront.

Phillips said he couldn't find the street and drove around looking for

Finally, Phillips said he told Rather: "Look, I've got to be in the garage by 1 p.m. I'm not going to be able to drive around all day looking for it." He said Rather told him: "Are you trying to put me out of the cab?"

"I told him I wasn't putting him out.
I just had limited time. And his directions were wrong."

Phillips said Rather, spotting a policeman, said he he might get out and get in the police car. "I said: 'Do what you please, as long as you pay the fare."

"By this time, we weren't shouting at each other, but the exchanges were becoming quite sharp," said Phil-

Finally, Phillips found the address. "Rather went to get his wallet, then he leaned forward and said: 'Driver, where's your license?"

"I had received a ticket and they had my chauffeur's license as bond. That's why it wasn't displayed (in the cab). I'm permitted to drive on the

Phillips continued: "I said, 'Mister, will you give me my money? The fair is $12.55. Will you pay me?' He said: 'I'm not going to give you a thing until you produce a license'."

ou produce a license.

Phillips said things reached a stalenate and Rather finally said: "I'll ell you what — I'm not paying you."

'm getting out right now. Get my Phillips said when Rather put his hand on the door handle, he put his foot on the gas "and away we went And I told him: 'You won't pay me? When we stop a squad car you're gonna pay me.

"You see, that's the only thing a driver can legally do when somebody says they aren't going to pay," Phil-

As he headed downtown, Phillips said Rather "stuck his head and shoulders out of the window and began waving him arms and shouting that he was being kidnapped."

"He's yelling: 'This is kidnapping I'll make sure you never drive a cab

The ride ended when a uniformed woman waved a badge from another car. Phillips said he pulled the cab over to the curb.

Phillips said, "I figured I'd get the police and have this guy arrested for theft of services because he wouldn't pay the fare. But then everybody starts going up to him and shaking his hand and calling him Mr. Rather."

Phillips continued: "The only question the police asked me was: 'Are you the cabdriver?' I said: 'Yes,' and that was the one word I spoke. The next thing, I was frisked, put in the police car and wasn't told what I was charged with or nothing. Every time I opened my mouth, I was told to shut

"They didn't tell me a doggoned thing except 'Hey, that's Dan Rather. You're in big trouble.' So they printed me, mugged me and put me in a cell."

Election lines to be studied

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Secretary of State George Strake says he will contact election officials throughout Texas to see what caused delays in voting and other problems at the Nov. general election.

Strake, the state's chief election officer, said Tuesday his office had had numerous complaints from individuals and groups.

viduals and groups.

"The long, time-consuming lines in certain polling places were, for the most part, unwarranted and unreasonable," he added in a statement.

Strake said questionnaires would be sent to county election officials to identify problems and seek solutions.

He urged Texans to tell his office of any "unreasonably excessive delays, voting irregularities or any other needless problems..." and to suggest remedies.

Chevron energy report:

A giant U.S. gas discovery in a "driller's graveyard"

It took millions of dollars to find it, many millions more to make use of it.

Chevron's profits made it possible.

Chevron has discovered what could prove to be one of the largest natural gas fields in the U.S. The find was near Carter Creek, Wyoming—once considered a "driller's graveyard" because of countless unsuccessful drilling efforts.

But finding the gas was just the beginning because much of it is "sour" gas-unusable without special processing.

So, along with enormous sums for drilling a number of deep costly wells, Chevron will be spending $360 million to build a highly advanced processing plant, capable of converting 'sour" gas into "sweet" gas, usable in hundreds of thousands of homes.

Chevron's profits plus other cash from operations are helping to provide the energy America needs.

Industrials make gains

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the six years through mid-August of this year the Standard & Poor's 500 stock index more than doubled in value. The Value Line indicator, an even broader measurement, tri-More recently, the S&P had gained 34 percent and the Value Line 47 percent from their March lows. Even the Dow Jones industrial index had moved up 27 percent or 200 points since April. Gains by individual stocks have been even more impressive. From spring lows to recent highs, hundreds of issues have risen 50 percent or more. In a year, at least 300 New York Stock Exchange issues doubled.

This is the foreword to Merrill Lynch's most recent compilation of "Unrecognized Values in Today's Market," a report that some investors believe will go far toward correcting any undervaluations.

Despite the big gains, despite the constant risks, despite the state of the economy — all of which the ML analysts dutifully warn about — there are still values to be found, according to the report.

Thirty-two of them, in fact, beginning alphabetically with Albertsons, Arizona Bank, Baldwin-United, Best Products, Cabot Corp., Church's Fried Chicken, Control Data, Crown Cork and Seal and R.R. Don-

Family Dollar continues the list, followed by Golden West Financial, G. Heileman Brewing, Host International, Lear Siegler, Lennar Corp., Litton Industries, Mission Insurance Group and Morrison

Two Washington state companies, Pay N Pak Stores and Pay 'N Save, are added to the compilation, as are Pennzoil Co., Pitney Bowes, Southwest Air, Sperry Corp., Trinity Industries and United Energy Resources.

And completing the list are U.S. Air, U.S. Ban-corp., Valley National Bank, West Company, Whittaker, and Zurn Industries. Thirty-two stocks that Merrill Lynch, the nation's biggest broker, says are undervalued.

And now the rationale. "Individual stocks may be undervalued for any number of reasons," says Anna Merjos, vice president, and she lists some of those reasons:

1. Disappointing earnings could preclude significant market interest, even though the situation is 2. The market may have failed to recognize that certain conditions that previously affected a company's standing in the marketplace have been corrected. A company might have changed management or policies. 3. Prices for individual issues can suffer from sheer neglect or unpopularity among investors.

4. Even though the price of a stock may have moved up sharply, the market may not yet have given full recognition to its underlying value and

To qualify for inclusion in the undervalued list, the ML securities division set down four criteria: -Growth in per-share earnings in the past five years had to exceed 14 per cent a year — the rate at which overall corporate profits have grown since

-Earnings estimated for this year had to approximate or exceed 1979 levels. -The stocks had to be selling at no more than eight times estimated earnings for 1981. By comparison, the 1,200 issues that ML specialists follow were recently selling at nine times 1981 estimated earn-

-The projected rate of growth in per-share earnings for the next five years had to be at least 15 per cent a year. By comparison, the annual growth rate projected for the 1,200 ML companies is 13 per cent.

A final bit of advice:

This list, dated November 1980, is being used by Merrill Lynch brokers and some of their customers too. Merrill Lynch is a huge operation with enormous market power. Its advice can have a decided impact &

Striking chocolate: workers throng non-union plant

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) - The non-union candy plant which makes Reese's Peanut Butter Cups was idle today after a disturbance by 800 strikers from Hershey Chocolate Co.'s main plant that left one police officer injured, officials said.

It was the latest in a series of demonstrations at Hershey's H.B. Reese Co. plant since the main candy plant went on strike Nov. 1. Talks between the company and the local representing 3,000 workers have broken off.

The 1,000 non-union workers at the Reese plant on Chocolate Avenue stayed on the job despite the strike at the facility a mile away.

On Tuesday, demonstrators tried to block workers arriving for the evening shift at the Reese plant, pounded on cars and threw at least one bottle, said Derry Township Police Chief Donald Hack. Detective Tony Leppler was treated for a severe bruise received when he was knocked down by a car as he escorted a worker through the crowd, said Police closed roads to the plant as the disturbance escalated, and company officials shut down the factory as the evening shift was beginning. It was to reopen Thursday. "I was just trying to keep everybody from getting hurt," Hack said. "It just got to be too much for Three cars were damaged by demonstrators who pounded on the hoods of arriving vehicles, he said.

As the plant emptied for the night, police formed a barrier to protect departing workers. Hershey charged that members of Local 464 of the Bakery Workers union ignored orders against vio-lence and mass picketing. "Workers were being intimidated," said company spokesman Ken The strike has halted production at Hershey's main plant, Bowers said. Absenteeism at the Reese plant was high when picketing began Nov. 3, but returned to normal two days later, he said.

Tuesday's two-hour disturbance came a day after picketer was hit and seriously injured by a garbage Gerald Yeagley was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with a skull fracture after being struck outside the Reese plant Monday. A union official who asked not to be identified said Yeagley's injury angered strikers.

Party's internal peace may mean election loss

LONDON (AP) — By electing a committed left-winger as its leader or the first time, Britain's strife-torn Labor Party may have bought inter-nal peace at the price of years out of

Some observers felt that in electing 67-year-old Michael Foot to succeed former Prime Minister James Calformer Prime Minister James Callaghan, the mostly moderate 268 Laborite members of the House of Commons were trying to undercut Tony Benn, the flery 55-year-old leader of the party's left wing.

But it is questionable whether Labor under Foot can capture enough of the floating vote which decides every British election to oust Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and her Conservativesin the 1984 general election.

An Analysis

There were private expressions of delight from some leading Tories.
"Margaret is just so lucky as a politician," said one.

The opposition party has had as many postwar years in power as the Conservatives, but now it is headed by a man pledged to scrap Britain's nuclear arsenal unilaterally and ban U.S. Nuclear weapons from British soil. He also opposes continued membership in the nine-nation European Economic Community and favors greater nationalization of private industry.

The silver-haired former radical socialist has moderated some of his views but not all of them. "I am as strong in my socialist convictions as I have ever been," he declared after his election.

Although Callaghan's resignation had been expected since the party's defeat in the 1979 general election, he submitted it last month in the hope of throwing the post to moderate Denis Healey, 63, before the party adopted a new election procedure favorable to the left wing. But Healey, after lead-ing three leftists in the first round of voting last week, lost by 10 votes to

Up to now the party leader has been chosen by the parliamentary caucus, the Laborite members of the House of Commons. But the annual party conference last month, after an unusually bitter fight between the left and right wings, agreed in principle to set up an electoral college on which the trade unions and the local party orga-nizations would be represented. This will increase the leftist strength.

A special conference will be held Jan. 24 to set up the electoral college, and the prospect that Benn might dominate it apparently cost Healey the election.

Cameras, recorders permitted in court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) - Cameras and recorders will be permitted in Maryland courtrooms for the first time in an 18-month experiment which will get underway Jan. 1.

But the rules approved Monday by the Court of Appeals to govern the experiment are restrictive, and two judges predicted the rules could result in no coverage by radio and television stations or by newspaper photographers.

The section which drew complaints from Judges John C. Eldridge and Rita C. Davidson would allow any party to a suit, except for governmental agencies or officials, to veto use of cameras or recorders at their

Eldridge said he voted to accept the rules only because Judges Robert C. Murphy and J. Dudley Digges agreed they would vote to relax that restriction if it proved necessary to the success of the experiment.

Two of the judges, Harry A. Cole and Lawrence F. Rodowsky, did not sign the order because of their objection to any television or radio coverage or taking of still photographs.

Cole, explaining his refusal to sign the rules change, said he had not "been persuaded...that the adoption of this rule will improve the administration of justice or the understanding of it." Chief Judge Murphy said many states already are allowing electronic coverage on a trial basis and "I think Maryland would be wise to attempt As part of the experiment, people involved in such trials will be questioned about how they were affected by the presence of cameras and recorders in the courtroom. The court intends to use the results of the surveys to decide if electronic coverage should be continued past June 30, 1982. All such coverage will have to be on a pool basis among the newspapers, radio stations and television stations involved, and all expenses will have to be borne by news organizations.

Only one television camera, one audio system and one still photographer with no more than two cameras will be permitted in the court-

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE

Narcotics most common abused class of drugs

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

One of the most commonly abused classes of drugs today is narcotics. Narcotic drugs are used in medical treatment to relieve pain. Such drugs include the derivatives of opium, such as morphine and codeine. There are also synthetic compounds which have chemical properties and action which is similar to morphine. Heroin is a potent derivative of morphine, but it presently has no legitimate medical use in this country.

Heroin is a commonly abused drug. Since it has no legitimate medical use in this country, it must be obtained 'off the street." As such, there is no quality control, nor is there any assurance as to what strength of the drug is being obtained. The pure heroin may be cut (or diluted) many times before the user obtains it. Heroin may be cut with anything from milk sugar to rat poison. The addict can never be sure of what he is get-

Heroin users have some fairly common symptoms which are caused by the drug. These include drowsiness, flushed skin, constipation and constricted pupils. There are also ususually needle marks or "tracks," since the drug is usually injected. The heroin user is at risk for developing hepatitis, blood infections, or even hepatitis, blood infections or even tet-

Heroin is highly addictive. Initially, it produces a feeling of euphoria (a "high") which may last a few hours. As physical dependence develops over time, this "high" lessens. Tolerance to the drug develops as greater amounts are required in order to avoid withdrawal symptoms.

Withdrawal symptoms will occur in addicted persons whenever they are deprived of the drug. They may occur as early as 12 hours after the last injection. These symptoms may include yawning, sweating, vomiting, running eyes and nose, tremors, muscular aches, diarrhea, stomach pain and chills.

Not every person who uses heroin becomes addicted. "Joy poppers" are able to confine their use of the drug to occasional "hits," such as on weekends. Thse individuals will not experience withdrawal symptoms. However, the risk of addiction to heroin is so great that relatively few people are able to control their use of the drug in this manner.

Detoxification of the addict is relatively simple. As in the alcoholic, keeping him off the drug is much more difficult. While detoxification is necessary for any subsequent treatment to be effective, detox does not constitute "the cure." Many addicts are detoxified numerous times only to return to the drug.

Effective treatment also requires counseling, vocational training and other supportive services. For any treatment to work, the addict must have a sincere desire to remain

"clean." Without such a desire, there is a high failure rate to treatment. Such a desire may be encouraged by others such as family or friends, but it cannot be forced upon the addict. Treatment for narcotic addiction is available locally through the MHMR Center. Detoxification, counseling, vocational training, inpatient care and other supportive services are provided or arranged. The MHMR program serves outpatients, although referral to inpatient care is available when indicated. No substitute drugs, such as methadone, are employed in the Center's program. The Midland community has other agencies and resources for drug abuse treatment

Arabs fear Reagan will adopt anti-Arab policy, call for summit

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) - Foreign Minister Mohammad ibn Mubarak Al Khalifa of Bahrain says President-elect Ronald Reagan may adopt an anti-Arab policy and called for an Arab summit conference to deal with the prospect, the newspaper

Akhbar al-Khalij reported today. "It is likely that Reagan will recognize Jerusalem as capital of Israel, Khalifa was quoted as telling the paper. "However, it is not yet definite whether Reagan will honor his preelection promises to Israel. The Arabs, therefore, will have to hold a summit conference to draw a clearcut strategy and prepare themselves for all eventualities.

Swanson gets new trial

AUSTIN — Saying he had been prested by Midland police without probable cause," the Court of Crimials today ordered a new trial Lloyd Wayne Swanson, convicted in Midland County of possession of a criminal instrument with intent to commit aggravated robbery. Swanson had received an 11-year

The court reported Swanson and a impanion were arrested on the eveoing of Jan. 20, 1979, by two city policemen who observed them standing in a vacant parking lot.

According to the court's opinion, he two started to leave when they bserved the police car, but were

The opinion also notes that a pistol was found on the parking lot with

The officers, the court said, concluded that the pair intended to rob a pharmacy in the area, and placed them under arrest.

The appeals court said it was not n whether the materials involved were "criminal instruments," but found that Swanson was arrested "without probable cause," so that evidence taken was "tainted" and should not have been introduced into evidence.

The court said the testimony by the officers themselves "belies any purported belief that probable cause existed to arrest appellant based on the extension cord and/or the sock."

Kuwaiti newspapers said Aziz was seeking more arms, but Iraqi sources in the Soviet capital said his day-long visit produced an exchange of views on ways to end the war and no pledge of fresh Soviet military aid. The war has choked off Iraqi exports of 3.5 million barrels of oil daily, Iranian exports of 500,000 barrels and done extensive damage to the oil industries of both nations.

The military communiques from both governments contained the usual unconfirmable claims of limited local action and no major gains.

Iran said Abadan's defenders pushed the Iragis four miles back from the eastern bank of the Bahmanshir River late Tuesday and set up positions east of the river for the first time since the Iraqis encircled the city more than two weeks ago.

The river runs close to Abadan's northeastern and eastern outskirts. The Iraqis put mobile bridges on the river to move troops and tanks into positions on the west bank in preparation for a big assault. But Iran claimed it destroyed the bridges and all Iraqi positions west of the river.

Iraq said its forces killed 41 Iranian troops south of Abadan early Tuesday, 76 on other sides of the city and downed two Iranian jets near the city and two more that attacked cities in Iraq's oil-rich northeast.

Iran claimed 80 Iraqis killed along the 300-mile invasion front stretching from Abadan north to Qasr e-Shirin, and 120 more in air attacks around Abadan and Khorramshahr.

Hot, mild chili growing in popularity By MATT MYGATT

Associated Press Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - To some, unless it brings tears to the eyes and beads of sweat to the forehead, it's no good. To others, the mild type is just fine, thank you.

But either way, the nationwide popularity of chili - red, green, hot, mild is blossoming.

The trick is to introduce virgin tastebuds to the milder varieties of chili and hook them, says Dr. Donald Cotter, professor of vegetable crops at New Mexico State University in Las

Then, once jaded, graduate the tastebuds to the more pungent pods, he

"I THINK IF you introduce them to Mexican food with the hotter variesies, you've lost them forever,' Cotter "But I think honest chili-eaters still go for the pungent stuff."

Dr. Frank Matta, a horticulturalist and superintendent of New Mexico State's Espanola Valley Branch Experiment Station, also says introduction to mild varieties is a key to enjoying chili.

"Like everything else, people have to get adjusted to it," he says. Dave Wade, a farmer with 42 acres of chili peppers five miles south of Socorro, N.M., says the vegetable 'really doesn't burn that much once you're used to it.

"Folks from the East, they'll eat the hotter chili and it'll burn them up and they'll holler for water and go back the second time. And about the third time, they want more and can't

THE HARVEST SEASON is winding up in New Mexico — ristras hung to dry by seasonal chili vendors splash roadsides with brilliant red.

Wade says his fields were green with red pods hanging off the plants until the first frost hit — "it turned the plants black, and the red pods really show up.

"There are two markets," Cotter says. "The local market is a quite pungent variety — that is the preference. Outside the area is a milder

Chili is a universal spice and high in vitamins C and A, Cotter says. "It really does make a bland food quite attractive - it has quite a flavor-enhancing factor," he says. "The pungency within the chili and the sensation it produces is the thing.

WADE, ALSO A chili-lover, agrees: "You can make 10 different recipes up with a little bit of chili ... 99 percent of the whole thing is flavor."

Holiday festivities call for creative challenges and to help with that creativeness, Christmass Impression II will explore creative ideas designed for a joyful holiday season, according to Sharon Hillis, county extension agent for home economics.

Ms. Hillis and Cindy Mann, assistant county extension agent will present the program.

Christmass Impression II, which will be Thursday at St. Mark's United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, 1701 N. Main, is designed to help people make the most of what they already have. Key phrases for the most successful holiday ever include flexibility, management of resources available, family traditions, new and familiar ideas and expressing individual creativeness. Three sessions are available, including 10-11 a.m.; 2-3 p.m. and 7:30-8:30 p.m. Registration fee is $1 per person and participants will receive the Christmas Impression II Holiday

Chili's growing popularity nation-wide has created an expanded need for milder varieties, Cotter says. "The producers like the mild variety and so do the canners." The national popularity for Mexican foods has increased the demand for chili and chili products, he says. "Mexican food now is the second most popular ethnic food only to Italian

Producers and food manufacturers are promoting chili and chili products more than ever, Cotter says. "There really is a strong effort to play this thing up and get it more popular."

Wade says he likes growing hotter chili for local markets. "People in Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico are looking for hotter chili."

FOR THE PAST five years, consumption of chili has been increasing 15 percent annually, Cotter says.

The popularity has caused a greater need for research to produce chili plants that are milder, resistant to disease, produce higher yields and are adapted to mechanical harvesting, he says.

Wade says chili growing and harvesting is hard work, done mostly by

"It is a lot of work and that's why a lot of guys won't do it," he says. "You've got to get down on your hands and knees and pull out the weeds, because that chili is as fine as a hair on your head when it comes

Start a cost-saving plan for grocery shopping cost of home prepared products. Day old bread and baked products are fine

By SHARON A. HLLIS County Extension Agent Home Economics

A cost-saving plan for grocery shopping? Impossible, you say? It can be done. Start your own plan today. For economy, plan meals around the less expensive foods from each of the four food groups — the milk group, meat group, vegetable-fruit group and cereal-bakery prod-

COST-SAVING TIPS

Some general tips suggested to find good buys and cut an expensive food budget to a cost-saving plan are: Compare prices at the store. Unit pricing, now used by many stores, allows cost comparison of a food in containers of different sizes and of various brands and grades. In unit pricing, the cost of a single unit such as an ounce, pound or quart of a food is shown, usually on the shelf just below the food. From the items that will meet your needs, choose the one with the lowest price per unit.

To find the best buys among types and cuts of meat or among raw, frozen or canned vegetables, compare the cost of an amount needed for a family meal or the cost of the serv-

Another hint for you: Watch for specials in newspaper ads and at the store. Stock up on good buys for the family's likes if storage is available. But don't overbuy - waste "leaks" the budget away fast.

MAIN DISHES

Cut cost when shopping for meat group foods by selecting the cuts, rades and types of meat, poultry and ish that provide the most cooked lean for the money spent. These give best returns in nutrients for the food dol-

According to the findings, 75 percent of the garment workers express a wish to "do almost everything in a different way," compared with about 50 percent of the secretaries, 40 perent to 45 percent of the business executives, teachers and farmers, and only 33 percent of the doctors.

limit for dinner meat or set an average amount as a goal, allowing for some higher and some lower cost

Study the nutrition labeling on commercialy prepared main dishes before replacing them with home-pre-pared dishes. Frequently, commer-cially prepared dishes require less meat than a home recipe for the same

When reading labels, commercial foods labeled primarily meat with gravy, meatballs and sauce and pork and dressing, are required to be only one-half meat, for example. Meat pies must be at least one-fourth meat. Foods labeled spaghetti with meatballs and sauce and lasagne with meat sauce must be at least oneeighth meat. Usually these convenience foods are more expensive than home-prepared ones containing the same amount of meat. Even so, if time is a major concern, they may be

Usually ground beef, liver, chicken, turkey, many types of fish, dry beans, split peas and peanut butter are good meat group food buys.

When shopping for meat, look for USDA grades on beef you buy. USDA prime, choice and good are the grades most often found in retail markets. Compared to choice, similar cuts of good grade beef contain more lean and usually cost less per serving. Prime beef contains less lean and is more expensive than other grades.

FRUITS-VEGETABLES

When shopping for vegetable-fruit group foods, compare the cost of the amount needed to serve the family. Certain fruits and vegetables, such as apples and carrots, are almost always economical whether fresh, frozen or canned. Others, such as avocados and strawberries, are economical only in season or when supplies are bountiful. Look for good quality produce, but limit purchases even at bargain prices to amounts that can be used while they are still good.

Try lower-priced brands because you may like them as well as the more expensive ones. Often chain store and seldom-advertised brands may be similar in quality to widely-known products, but cost less.

Add seasoning, such as sauces to vegetables, in additional home preparation. There is a "consumer-wise" reason for this advice. Frozen and canned vegetables with sauces or seasoning are more expensive. Also, large bags of frozen vegetables may be a good buy for both small and large families. Use just the amount needed and save the rest for later use.

DAIRY PRODUCTS

When buying milk group foods, buy fresh fluid milk at the supermarket or dairy store if possible. Home deli-vered milk and milk bought in special service stores cost more. Gallon or half-gallon containers are economical choices if storage is available.

Another good milk buy, especially for cooking, is non-fat dry milk. It costs less than fresh whole milk and can be reconstituted, chilled and served as a beverage. Mixing equal amounts of fresh whole milk with reconstituted non-fat dry milk will enhance the flavor.

American, cheddar and Swiss cheeses can be economical in place of milk in the diet. Yogurt, ice cream and ice milk can also replace some of the milk, but do add cost. Check dates on the containers on milk and milk products. Ask the grocer how to use the dates on products as an indication of freshness.

NEWSPAPER BIBLE

You too can have complete victory

But this precious treasure—this light and power that now shine within us—is held in a perishable container, that is, in our weak bodies. Everyone can see that the glorious power within must be from God and is not our own.

We are pressed on every side by troubles, but not crushed and broken. We are perplexed because we don't know why things happen as they do, but we don't give up and quit.

We are hunted down, but God never abandons us. We get knocked down, but we get up again and keep going.

These bodies of ours are constantly facing death just as Jesus did; so it is clear to all that it is only the living Christ within [who keeps us safe].

Yes, we live under constant danger to our lives because we serve the Lord, but this gives us constant opportunities to show forth the power of Jesus Christ within our dying bodies.

Because of our preaching we face death, but it has resulted in eternal life for you.

We boldly say what we believe [trusting God to care for us], just as the Psalm writer did when he said, "I believe and therefore I speak."

We know that the same God who brought the Lord Jesus back from death will also bring us back to life again with Jesus, and present us to Him along with you.

These sufferings of ours are for your benefit. And the more of you who are won to Christ, the more there are to thank Him for His great kindness, and the more the Lord is glorified.

That is why we never give up. Though our bodies are dying, our inner strength in the Lord is growing every day.

These troubles and sufferings of ours are, after all, quite small and won't last very long. Yet this short time of distress will result in God's richest blessing upon us forever and ever!

So we do not look at what we can see right now, the troubles all around us, but we look forward to the joys in heaven which we have not yet seen. The troubles will soon be over, but the joys to come will last forever.

Crime compensation program about to run out of funds, director says

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A new fund to help crime victims get back on their feet — physically and financially — will run out of money by the end of the week, says the fund director.

Jerry Belcher said the 14½-monthold Crime Victims Compensation Fund had a balance of $4,000 Friday, and he had five approved applications totaling $18,000 on his desk.

"We're paying out more than we're collecting, and the fund will be depleted by the end of the week," Belcher told the House Committee on Employment Practices on Monday.

The committee recommended that persons convicted of Class C misdemeanors such as assault and battery and driving while intoxicated pay $10 fines, which would be deposited in the fund.

The committee vote was 4-0, one short of a quorum, so another member needs to approve the recommendation to send it to the 1981 Legislature.

"Ten dollars is peanuts," said Rep. Bill Blythe, R-Houston, "and we're talking maybe about some guy who has been beaten with an inch of his life. ... A guy who commits a crime out there and causes an injury ought to be paid what he has done to somebody."

Ten dollar fines are now assessed for Class B and A misdemeanors. Convicted felons can be charged $15.

The report also suggested — but did not recommend — penalizing counties that fail to remit the fines.

"Bexar County is the most glaring example that something is out of kilter — right or wrong," said Blythe.

However, he said, Harris County "is doing an excellent job sending"

Money in."

He said he might ask Speaker Bill
Clayton for a House investigation of the situation.

It was estimated that the fines would generate $3 million a year but as of Aug. 31, only $781,304 had been collected and $140,244 had been spent on operating expenses.

Asked by a reporter if the counties were "coming across" with the fines, Belcher said, "That's the real problem, in my opinion. I seriously doubt it"

Steel town still holds out hope

Some signs of employment, industry progress noted

By JOE McKNIGHT

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The fiery glow of molten steel has not lit the sky at dusk here since Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. pulled up stakes three years ago.

Since October 1977, the city has lost 10,000 steel guara industry jobs. It is still crippled economically, with an unemployment rate almost double the national average, but officials in Youngstown and the Mahoning River Valley that surrounds it say they see some rays of hope.

They cite these signs of progress:

—Unemployment in Mahoning County eased from 15 percent in July to 12.8 percent in August and 12.5 percent inember — still well above the national average of 7.6 percent, but an improvement.

—Commuter Aircraft Corp. bought 94 acres of airport land and plans to put $50 million into a plant that will create 1,500 jobs.

—Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. sold to the fledgling Youngstown Steel Corp. an old open boarth for Youngstown Steel Corp. an old open hearth furnace and surrounding buildings that have been idle since 1977. Youngstown Steel, which began operations last February with 30 workers, eventually hopes to employ 450 persons.

—A 7-week-old cutback in the work week, from 40 hours to 32, for almost all city workers was ended Nov. 1.

Mayor George Vukovich—himself an 18-year steel worker veteran—had instituted the shorter work week to save money in September, when city books were teetering near the red ink because of reduced taxes.

"This is the first year of impact from the steel mill closings of 1977," explained Walter Swierz, the mayor's executive aide. "Instead of growth in taxes, the revenue leveled off — but inflation continued to eat into our purchasing power."

The short weeks saved the city $320,000 — enough, said Swierz, to get the city through the end of the year. But further trouble looms.

City employees struck for one week in May and city employees struck for one week in May and eventually won an 18-month contract giving them a 4 percent wage increase. But the duration of the contract, and an additional 10 percent increase, was made contingent on taxpayer approval of higher city income taxes.

Taxpayers rejected the idea twice, in August and last Tuesday, so the pact now expires on Dec. 31. Some officials fear they will have to weather another strike.

"We have to go back to the drawing board in December with less than we had to offer them last May," Swierz said Friday.

This Ohio valley's economic woes began with the flight of the steel industry, beginning Oct. 19, 1977, when Youngstown Sheet & Tube moved out, eliminating 4,100 jobs. In late 1979, Jones & Laughlin and

U.S. Steel Corp. announced cuts that took 5,000 steel

Soon after the mills began closing, President Carter announced $100 million in federal Economic Development Administration loan guarantees to help the steel industrylater added $125 million in loan guarantees to help other threatened local industries.

The Mahoning Valley Economic Development Corp., which grew out of a business effort to keep old business and seek new industry, functions as a clearing house for EDA loan applications.

In the past 13 months, the agency has awarded $1.2 million from a revolving loan fund to 12 existing or new companies. Those companies have been able to keep or create 550 jobs.

One of the corporation board members, the Rev. Edward Stanton, has made economic progress here his full-time job.

his full-time job.

He was the leader of the first effort to save the steel industry after the initial layoffs in 1977.

That effort — the Ecumenical Coalition of the Mahoning Valley, a community-worker coalition which wanted to buy and reopen the shuttered mills of Youngstown Sheet & Tube — failed.

Stanton said $250 million was needed to put the mills in shape for a profitable operation. "But the U.S. Economic Development Administration stuck to its $100 million ceiling on loan guarantees and this killed our proposal," he said.

Exotic pet ownership ban urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tragedies such as last overpowered him during feeding. week's killing of a 7-month-old infant by a python will continue to occur unless all states pass laws banning private ownership of exotic animals, the Humane Society of the United States says.

'Most wild animals make unsuitable pets under virtually all circumstances, and very few people are properly equipped to maintain a wild animal in the home," the society said Tuesday in a policy state-

Society officials said the need for such laws was tragically pointed out last week when a baby was crushed to death in her crib by an 8-foot-long pet python in Dallas

Humane Society officers have been campaigning for 10 years to get states and communities to enact laws restricting private ownership of exotic animals.

Sue Pressman, director of wildlife protection the society, said most of the incidents reported to the society involve mammals such as lions or tigers but that other deaths involving snakes have occurred. In one instance, a 33-year-old Florence, Ky., man was isn't calling people. He has been looking forward to crushed to death in 1978 when a 12-foot python getting away these few days," Prosperi said.

She said the society is also concerned about the breed, she said

OR nurses getting their day Friday

Gov. Bill Clements proclaimed this week Texas Nurses' Week and Mayor G. Thane Akins has proclaimed Friday as Operating Room Nurses' Day in Midland.

The Permian Basin Chapter of the Association of Operating Room Nurses (AORN), with 25 members locally, will observe the day with celebrations at the individual hospitals in the area.

Both Midland Memorial Hospital and Parkview Hospital will officially recognize the day, as well as the Odessa hospitals.

The Permian Basin chapter of AORN was trying to get the image of the "operating room nurse to come out from behind her mask."

Operating Room Nurse Day is sponsored by the Association of Operating Room Nurses, a professional specialty nursing organization with more than 28,00 members nationwide. "Operating room nurses include

"It's a religious disaster," McIntire said. "We are a religious institution, 100 percent. We cannot tolerate a secular humanistic state appraising our courses.

Gruccio's decision came one year after authorities moved to close the college because it did not have state

The college, which has about 50 students, is located near McIntire's Christian Admiral Hotel. It moved to Cape Canaveral, Fla., in 1971 after New Jersey authorities withdrew its accreditation. McIntire moved the college back to Cape May last fall. In a three-day hearing before Gruccio last summer, Shelton attorneys argued the college should be exempt from state licensing procedures under the doctrine of separation of church and state because it is a religious institution.

Attorneys for the state, however, argued the state had the power to set minimum standards at Shelton since baccalaureate degrees are often considered in hiring. The state contended it was guarding against the establishment of "storefront" colleges in New

Alternative prayer book published

LONDON (AP) — The Church of England has published an alternative prayer book, and some traditionalists are accusing the church of an unforgivable trespass against the poetry of the 318-year-old Book of Common Prayer.

The Alternative Service Book 1980, the use of which is not compulsory, changes "thy" to "your," and shortens "give us this day" to "give us today." "Our trespasses" becomes "our sins," and "For Thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory" becomes "For the kingdom, the power and the glory are yours."

Dr. Ronald Jasper, dean of York and head of the liturgical commission which adopted the new book, defended its modern English and pointed out the Book of Common Prayer can still be used if most of a congregation prefers it.

Many Anglicans have a deep attachment to the old book and its 17th century language, and about 600 people signed a petition protesting introduction of the new book. They included actors Lawrence Olivier and Glenda Jackson, Deputy Prime Minister William Whitelaw and 20 Oxford and Cambridge college heads.

Child slaying still unsolved 31/2 years later

By SUSAN RITCHIE

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — It has been more than 3½ years since the child killer known only as "the Babysitter" struck in the suburbs north of Detroit, but fall is still a time of fear in Oakland County.

When the first snowfall comes, parents worry the killer may try to add to his list of victims — two girls and two boys, ages 10 to 12.

The unsolved slayings also were brought to mind by the killings of 11 black children and the disappearances of four others in Atlanta since

The Oakland County children, all of them white, disappeared and were found slain between February 1976 and March 1977. "The Babysitter" got his name because he took meticulous care of his victims before he killed them. They were well-fed, clean and warmly clothed during their captivity, which lasted up to 19 days, police said.

Three of the victims were smothered and one was shot in the face. All four slayings took place in winter and all the victims were abandoned along lightly traveled roads, their bodies neatly stretched out in the snow. The boys were sexually molested; the girls were not.

Police have linked the slayings because of the careful treatment of the victims and the way the bodies were found.

"The first snowfall always brings back thoughts," said Herbert Baker, director of guidance and pupil personnel services for the Birmingham schools. The last of the four victims, Timothy King, 11, attended elementary school in that district.

"People are still very much concerned about it," said Sheriff's Sgt. Richard Birmingham. "Calls (of suspicious activities) are turned in much more readily now."

Police theorize that the killer approached his victims, somehow going at the concerned about it."

Police theorize that the killer approached his victims, somehow gained their trust and persuaded them to go somewhere with him.

Mark Stebbins, 12, of Ferndale, was last seen alive Feb. 13, 1976. His body was found six days later in a parking lot in Southfield.

Jill Robinson, 12, of Royal Oak, ran away from home Dec. 22, 1976, after an argument with her mother. Her body, with a shotgun wound in the face, was found four days later in Troy.

Some investigators say the biller man and leave to a blue Gremlin.

Some investigators say the killer may no longer be in the area, but for the past two winters there has been a communitywide effort to educate children on safety.

A fast-food chain printed signs on placemats warning children not to talk to strangers. Similar warnings were found on milk cartons sold at local supermarkets. Thousands of T-shirts with special slogans were sold, and social workers and psychologists visited classrooms to instruct children on what to do if they were approached by strangers. But detectives are no closer to solving the killings than they were in 1976, Birmingham said, when 159 investigators from a dozen communities collected more than 16,000 tips and spent more than $2 million in the process. Five are still working today.

Police have pieced together a composite drawing of the killer — a white male, age 25-30. A psychological profile described him as intelligent, middle-class and probably a white-collar worker.

"There really are no new theories to the end results of the killer or his whereas. We're operating on the assumption that he's still available, somewhere," Birmingham said.

Truck driver gets possession of unclaimed money he found

TOKYO (AP) — Hisao Onuki arrived Tuesday — one day late — at police headquarters to receive a check for 100 million yen representing the unclaimed money he found on a Tokyo street six months ago.

Under Japanese law, finders can take possession of lost items if the owner is not located within six months.

The 100 million yen found by Onuki is worth $469,000, but officials said taxes will reduce the amount he finally receives to $320,000.

Onuki, a 42-year-old truck driver who said the found money had brought him pleas, death threats and poison-pen letters, didn't show up Monday, the first day he could have legally claimed the money. He called and said his mother was sick.

Tuesday morning he appeared at the metropolitan police department's lost property office, wearing a jogger's suit and without bodyguards.

He apologized to scores of waiting reporters and photographers for "being late" and then left in a taxi to deposit the check in a nearby bank.

Onuki found the bundle of 10,000-yen notes on a street in the busy Ginza shopping area last April, and it turned his quiet life upside down.

He was besieged by so many letters and telephone calls he quit his job and sent his family away to live with relatives.

He told reporters he had hired five bodyguards and fashioned a bulletproof vest out of steel rods.

There was speculation when he didn't show up Monday that he might shun his new wealth, although he had said earlier he would use it to buy a

His claim to the money ended the police search for the owner. Police sources said it was possible the yen belonged to drug-dealing gangsters who were afraid to claim it.

Government set to clean up site

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — The federal government says it will try to clean up the massive soil and groundwater contamination at the site of a former Story Chemical Co. plant north of Muskegon.

Dozens of contaminating compounds, including known cancercausing agents, must be taken from 1.2 billion gallons of groundwater at the site, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

No date has been set for the start of the project, which was announced Tuesday by Robert Hartian of the EPA's Chicago office.

Officials say there are 2,000 barrels of waste chemicals underground at the site, and some 100 nearby residents have been warned not to drink their water.

Michigan Department of Natural Resources groundwater specialist Andrew Hogarth said the project could cost between $10 million and $20 million, but admitted the estimate was a "wild guess."

The EPA decision follows last month's refusal by Cordova to clean the site. Cordova said former owners Story and Ott Chemical Co. are responsible for the pollution and the state of Michigan relieved Cordova of liability when it bought the plant.

gers on Braniff Airlines Flight 112 say they had been warned to expect high winds in Newark. But they weren't prepared for the gale-force blasts that blew their arriving plane off an airport runway.

Eight passengers were injured Tuesday night as they slid down emergency chutes or jumped from window exits to leave the Boeing 727, said Federal Aviation Administration officials. None had been hurt when the plane left the runway. Most of the injuries were minor, but the incident forced Newark International Airport to close for 30 minutes.

The jet, which was carrying 30 passengers and seven crew members, had landed safely at 10: 30 p.m. after a flight from Washington and was taxiing to the airport terminal when winds of up to 45 mph blew it off the runway, said FAA duty officer Bill

One passenger reported the plane tilted slightly. Emergency fire crews were called because of initial reports that the plane was burning.

"A gear threw dirt in the air, and airport officials thought a fire had occurred," Nantz said. "But there was no fire."

Some passengers said they smelled smoke shortly after landing. Kathy Steiner of Randolph said passengers were told to leave the aircraft on the side of the plane facing the wind and to run into the wind in case of a fire.

"A lot of people didn't know what was going on because everyone was running, thinking the plane might explode," said Mrs. Steiner's husband,

Cross-burning, threats

The Black Student union was ransacked last week, and security for the school's 130 black students was tightened over the weekend after reports of threatening letters and phone calls, Roosenraad said.

An anonymous caller told one black woman, "We know who all you nigger leaders are," according to Roo-

McWhorter, a 21-year-old Cincinnati resident, found three notes tacked to his dormitory door Saturday. "One said, 'If you're not getting better, you're getting worse.' And the other two said, 'Call a spade a spade," he said.

The FBI was called in Saturday after college President John Chandler and the Rev. Muhammed Kenyatta, a black senior and Philadelphia minister, received "very offensive and racist" letters postmarked from Cleve-land and signed "KKK," he said. Chandler canceled classes Tuesday and more than 1,400 of the college's 1,900 students attended a three-hour discussion ranging from criticism of the college's investments in South Africa to threatening phone calls and

"It (the cross-burning) had a silver lining," said Geoff Mamlet, a sopho-more from Santa Barbara, Calif. "I'm sorry it took such a shocking thing as a cross-burning to get this discussion going, but the discussion has been very positive."

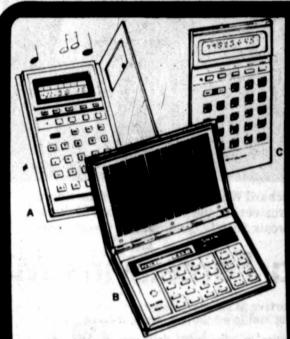

"The discussion may help people realize that blacks have been treated with some insensitivity," said John Coleman, a black student from New York City. "There's been nothing overt before."

Klan trial jury still deliberates

GREEENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - Jurors trying to reach a verdict in the trial of six Klansmen and Nazis charged in the shooting deaths of five people at an anti-Klan rally were to resume deliberations today for a fourth day. Defense attorneys said

Tuesday that they thought a verdict would be reached soon in the 22-week-long trial, and jurors appeared to have completed their review of the evidence.

The Klansmen and Nazis are charged with the deaths of five Communist Workers Party backers at a "Death to the Klan" rally in Greensboro on Nov. 3, 1979. Each faces five counts of first-degree murder and one count of felonious rioting.

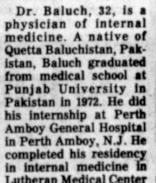

They have pleaded in-nocent to the charges.

The all-white jury of six men and six women spent most of Tuesday reviewing videotapes of the confrontation and hundreds of pieces of evidence introduced during the trial. However, the panel appeared to have completed the re-view of the evidence Tuesday afternoon.

Haitians repel Bahamian rescuers

CAYO LOBOS, Bahamas (AP) - After kneeling among cracked conch shells and discarded military ration cans to pray for rescue, 102 Haitian castaways determined not to return to their homeland reportedly repelled a Bahamian landing party with knives, bottles and sticks.

But officials said the refugees would be removed today, at gunpoint if necessary, by a larger force.

The Haitians, marooned nearly six weeks on this tiny island off the coast of Cuba, eagerly greeted a Haitian-American priest from Miami on Tuesday. They prayed with him, but listened in disbelief when the Rev. Gerard Jean-Juste told them the Bahamian vessel Lady Moore would soon arrive to take them back to Port-Au-Prince.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United States will still be relying on imported oil by 1990 even though the decline in domestic petroleum pro-duction will have been reversed, says one of President-elect Ronald Reagan's energy advisers.

Harold J. Haynes, chairman of Standard Oil Co. of California, said Tuesday that total United States oil self-reliance is a prognostication 'that few people in the petroleum industry have ever made.

"I don't think anyone is suggesting that we're going to go out and find enough oil to start producing 18 mil-lion (barrels a day)" and more than double U.S. oil production by the end of the decade, Haynes said.

But marking the optimistic tone of the American Petroleum Institute annual meeting here, Haynes added that "we do have the potential for reduc-ing the amount of oil that we otherwise might be importing by 1990" by "finding a lot more oil and gas ... by producing more coal, by installing more nuclear (power) capacity and beyond 1990 hopefully getting into a synthetic fuel industry."

In contrast to recent institute meet-ings, the current session is optimistic that the Reagan administration can amend the windfall profits tax on oil companies and thus make more money available for exploration.

money available for exploration.

The United States imports about 40 percent of its oil needs. While domestic oil output has been helped by steadily rising production in Alaska, output in the United States of 8.7 million barrels a day is well behind the analysis and production in the United States of 1973. A the 9.2 million-a-day rate of 1973. A barrel contains 42 gallons of oil.

This year's crude oil production is slightly ahead of 1979's level, however. In addition, an exploration boom sparked by soaring world oil prices and the lifting of federal price controls in the United States is expected to push U.S. drilling activity this year to its highest level since 1956. "I don't buy the fact that our domestic production has to decline,' Haynes said. "I think we can arrest that decline ... and hold it arrested for some time to come, and then really whittle into imports" by using coal and other fuels.

Haynes said he believes the federal government's windfall profits tax - a $227.3 billion levy on extra revenues arising from the lifting of oil price controls - should be modified to encourage expensive exploration efforts in remote areas.

"There's a lot of wells being drilled, but I still don't think there's enough real frontier exploration activity going on to really find and develop sizable new reserves," he said. Earlier, Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., said while "the windfall profits tax will not totally disappear any time soon despite strong justification, I believe that a Reagan administration will seek to phase out taxes" on newly discovered oil and on several grades of petroleum that are difficult or costly to produce.

Wallop, a member of the Senate Energy Committee, also said "you will see both business and personal tax reductions in the next year.'

Ethiopia, Soviets want U.S. bases removed from Somalia

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ethiopia and the Soviet Union have called for the immediate removal of American military bases from Somalia, Ethiopia's neighbor in the Horn of Africa. Addis Ababa Radio said the demand was made in the joint communique issued following the recent two-week visit to Moscow by Ethiopia's head of state, Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam. The communique, made public in the Ethiopian capital Tuesday, said the bases posed "a direct threat to Ethiopia and to the peace and security of states in the region." Following the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, the U.S. government signed an agreement in August with the Somali government for use of the former Soviet naval base at the port of PETROS, Tenn. (AP) - The 300 inmates of Brushy Mountain State Penitentiary were locked in their cells after two guards were hospitalized and four others slightly injured in scuffles with a knife-wielding prisoner, officials said.

Johnny Mack Porter of Memphis, serving 35 years for seconddegree murder and armed robbery, was being led from his cell to an exercise yard Tuesday when he allegedly attacked guards with an eight-inch knife made from a pipe fixture, said state Correction Commissioner Harold Bradley.

'He attacked one group of guards, was subdued and returned to his cell," Bradley said. "When guards unlocked his cell to check and see if he was injured, he attacked them." No other trouble was reported as 15 extra guards were placed on "The situation is tense, as it always is at Brushy," Bradley said.

Amalrik emigrated to the West in July, 1976, and lectured in the United States at Columbia, Yale, Harvard and other universities. He later got a teaching position in a Dutch university.

Educated as an historian, Amalrik was expelled from Moscow University for writing a paper on the influence of Scandinavian kings on the early Russian nation, a theory held by some Scandinavian and German historians but bitterly denied by Russian scholars.

HIS FIRST BRUSH with Soviet law was in 1965 when authorities seized six plays they characterized as pornographic and anti-Soviet. He was sent to Siberia for a year before the charges were annulled.

One of those plays, "East-West," was a satire poking fun at everyday problems in the Soviet Union. Another was a fantasy on human relations called, "The Story of the Little White Bull." His experience in the prison camp provided the basis for his book, "Involuntary Journey to Siberia," which helped earned him a name in the West and contributed to his sentencing to a three-year term that began in 1970. He told the court his trial was a

"If the medieval struggle with heretical ideas can be partially explained by religious fanaticism," he declared in 1970, "then everything happening now (in the Soviet Union) can only be explained by the cowardice of a regime which sees danger in the spreading of any thoughts, any ideas alien to the top bureaucra-

"I understand that such trials are calculated to frighten many, and many will be frightened all the same. (But) I think the process of ideological emancipation which has begun is irreversible."

PERHAPS HIS BEST-KNOWN book was "Will The Soviet Union Survive Until 1984?" which was smuggled to the West by a Dutch correspondent. It predicted a war between the Soviet Union and China that would lead to the collapse of the Soviet regime.

However, during a news conference at the United Nations in December, 1976, Amalrik acknowledged that he underestimated the Soviet leadership's flexibility and overestimated China's ability to build a modern army.

He nonetheless claimed there was opposition to the Soviet government not only among middle-class intellectuals but also among workers and collective farmers and that it was aggravated in the non-Russian republics.

About international relations, he said then: "The Western representative makes a concession expecting that the Soviet representative will make some answering concession. The Soviet Union accepts this concession from the West and eagerly awaits the next concession from the West."

He also said of the 1975 Helsinki agreement on human rights, 'The Soviet Union would more willingly give East Germany to the West than to seriously permit within its borders free dissemination of information and respect for human rights.

Orioles' Stone Young winner

NEW YORK (AP) - Baltimore's Steve Stone, the majors' top winner in 1980, won the American League Cy Young Award today in a close battle with Mike Norris of Oakland.

Each pitcher received 13 first-place votes from the 28-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America, but the Orioles' 25-game winner piled up more second-and third-place votes to emerge the winner by nine points, 100 to 91.

Rich Gossage of the New York Yan-kees was third with 37½ points while teammate Tommy John finished a distant fourth with 14. Dan Quisenberry of Kansas City was fifth with 7½ points, and Kansas City's Larry Gura and Baltimore's Scott McGre-

"Tim (Stoddard) and Tippy (Martinez) did an exceptional job," said Stone. "Without them, there's no way I would have won the award. When I get the trophy, I expect to see all three names engraved on it. I'm not the kind of guy who can go out and complete 25 games."

Despite his mountainous victory total, Stone posted only nine complete games in 1980.

The season was by far the best for Stone in a checkered career. He entered the year with a 78-79 lifetime record with four teams and until 1980, his best season was 15-12 with the Chicago White Sox in 1977.

"I can't deny that wearing a Baltimore uniform has made a big difference," said Stone who was 67-72 lifetime wih three other teams and 36-14 with the Orioles. "I would have liked to play my whole career in Baltimore, but you can't look back."

Norris finished 1980 with a 22-9 record and placed second in the league's ERA race at 2.54.

Gossage, the Yankees' bullpen ace, had a 6-2 record and a major leagueleading 33 saves. He drew the two remaining first-place votes.

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Landry says National Football League coaches are going to have to build a better quarterback trap to aid bomb-weary secondaries. "Pass defense seems passe," said the coach of the Dallas Cowboys after another high-scoring week in the NFL which saw one of his teams as a victim to the lowly New York Giants. "With the rules like they are, it's very difficult to play good pass defense," he said Tuesday, referring to liberal offensive line blocking rules and the receiver no-bump law on the Landry said "there will be a reluc-

Chaps open cage season Thursday

Midland College Chaparral basketball gets underway Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Chaparral Center as the Chaps take on the McMurry College junior varsity.

Coach Jerry Stone hopes his team can build on the strong momentum it had last year in racing to the best season and conference marks ever for the Chaparrals. The 1979-80 Chaparrals won 27 games with just six losses and took second in both the conference race and the regional tournament. The Chaps were 14-4 in conference play.

Eight returning sophomore lettermen give the Chaps a lot of experience to draw on and Stone added five freshmen to his squad. "We'll be about the same size along the front line and possible a little larger in the back court," Stone said. "Our team speed should be a little better and we'll be somewhat stronger on the boards.' THURSDAY NIGHT'S game

Ernest Merritt, who played for Midland Lee, is on the McMurry squad. Also listed is 6-6 Gary Ellison, whose 215 pounds will be noticed under the basket.

ABC adds Gators, Seminoles to slate

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC-TV announced today that Florida State University and the University of Florida have agreed to move their college football game at Tallahassee, Fla., from Nov. 22 to 12: 20 p.m. Dec. 6 to be televised nationally.

Following Thursday's game, the Chaps will play in the Quaterback Club Classic in Hutchinson, Kan., and the Amarillo Classic before returning home. Both tournaments have top-notch junior college entries and should be a good measure of the Chaps' chances for the year.

THEY WILL return home Dec. 1 for their first conference game, going against Clarendon College. Then comes the Chaps' own Chapparral Classic on Dec. 4, 5, and 6. Midland College then hosts New Mexico Junior College on Dec. 8 in another conferenc match-up before going on the road for conference games against New Mexico Military Institute and South Plains College prior to the Christmas break.

The Chaps then get back to action with the rugged ABC Classic in Big Spring: After that they play 14 straight conference games.

One of the questions marks in the conference concerns the four new coaches in the loop. The conference, regional and national champions, Western Texas College, lost their coach to the University of Tulsa. Larry Dunaway has taken that spot Also new to the conference are Ben Ledbetter at New Mexico Military Institute, Jim Yeakel at Odessa College, and Dennis Perryman at South

Odessa Nimitz captures titles in junior high football races

Odessa Nimitz has wrapped up three junior high school football championships in the 7th, 8th and 9th grade races. The Admirals racked up a 32-0-1 record in the three grades. Of course, the 7th grade races in both Odessa and Midland are not against the two cities, but intra-city

Nimitz racked up a 9-0-0 record to win the 9th grade crown and an 8-0-0 in the 8th grade race.

Runnerup to Nimitz in the 9th grade standings was Odessa Crockett with a final 7-2-0 mark, but that second loss was at the hands of Midland Gold, 15-0 last Saturday. Gold, one of two feeder teams for Midland High, finished third with a 6-3-0 mark. Odessa Bonham (5-3-0) has a makeup game with Midland Purple (4-3-1) in Midland at 3: 30 p.m. Thursday. The makeup game between Lee Maroon and Odessa Hood, originally set up for Thursday, will not be played due to too many injuries at Hood so Maroon wins by forfeit, according to Athletic Director Gil Bartosh. Maroon finishes with a 4-5-0 mark and Hood 1-8-0.

Other scores last weekend include Bonham 48, Hood 0; Nimitz 25, Maroon 0; Bowie 23, White and Purple 42, Odessa Ector 8.

In 8th grade games last weekend, Nimitz whipped Midland San Jacinto, 32-3; Crockett 28, Hood 0; Odessa Blackshear 34, Bonham 14 and Midland Alamo was open.

Besides Nimitz' 8-0-0 finish, Alamo wound up in second place with a 6-1-1 record while Midland Goddard had a 5-2-1 windup.

SMU is seeking Holiday Bowl invite Saturday

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the information came from highly placed sources in both Dallas and San Diego, the Star-Telegram reported.

SMU Athletic Director Russ Potts, who decides which post-season game the Mustangs will play in, said he could not confirm the report.

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Lubbock Christian College football Coach Jerry Don Sanders submitted his resignation Tuesday at the request of the school's athletic affairs committee, a college official said

Sanders, 32, had coached the Chaparral football team the past two years. The team finished this year with a 0-8 record, its two-season mark was 1-18, the Chaps had lost 16 in a row and were outscored this year by a total of 393-16.

The committee, in seeking Sanders' resignation, said it "could only take so many of these great lessons in humility.

in the latest top 20 poll by The Associated Press.

The No. 18 Mustangs have been besieged by bowl committees since they upset Texas 20-6 three weeks ago and have been offered bids to no fewer than five bowls, the Star-Telegram reported.

Potts told the newspaper that the list had been narrowed to three - the Holiday, Sun and Tangerine Bowls.

The Star-Telegram quoted a "highly placed source" in the SMU athletic department as saying the El Pasobased Sun Bowl would not meet Potts' desire to award his team with an out-of-state trip.

The source also said the Dec. 19 Holiday Bowl would not interfere with the Christmas holidays, the newspaper reported.

Another factor under consideration by Potts is that the Mustangs want to play a higher-ranked team, the Star-Telegram said. The Western Athletic Conference champion serves as host team at the Holiday Bowl and 13th-ranked Brigham Young is expected to win the bid.

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP) — Tracy Austin, needing a tournament victory to finish the season as the world's top woman tennis player, defeated Jodi Appelbaum 6-2, 6-1 Tuesday night in the second round of the $125,000 Florida Federal Open.

Austin, taking just 47 minutes to dispatch Appelbaum, got the only service break she needed in the fourth game of each set. She was never pressed and fourth game of each set. She was never pressed and gave up just nine points during eight service turns.

Before the tournament, Austin, 17, held a .280 lead over Chris Evert Lloyd in the Women's Tennis Association computer rankings. Lloyd pulled out of this tournament and Austin should be able to maintain her lead and finish the year on top if she wins

No.2 seed Andrea Jaeger needed just another 47 minutes to eliminate Peanut Louie by the same score, 6-2, 6-1.

Fourth-seeded Regina Marsikova of Czechoslova-kia advanced when her opponent, Bonnie Gadusek, arrived 30 minutes late for their match.

No.5 seed Mary Lou Platek breezed to a 6-0, 6-1 decision over Diane Morrison, while eighth-ranked Diane Desfor defeated Michelle Weiss 7-6, 6-3. Jaeger's sister, Susy, also won Tuesday, eliminating Jennifer Goodling 6-4, 6-2. Kathy Horvath beat Gail O'Conner 6-1, 7-6, and Caroline Stoll defeated

McEnroe seeks Wembley win

Donna Ganz 6-1, 6-2.

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — John McEnroe sets out tonight on the route he hopes will carry him to his third straight Wembley tennis title and a first prize

McEnroe, seeded to meet Gene Meyer in next Sunday's final, meets fellow American Trey Waltke in his opening match of the $186,000 Benson and Hedges Grand Prix championship, Britain's richest indoor tennis event.

They did not play in Tuesday's first round, which was highlighted by the defeat of American Eliot Teltscher, No.5 seed and the first seed to go down. Colin Dibley of Australia, who lives in Chatham, N.J., beat him 7-5, 3-6, 10-8 in a match lasting 2%

Teltscher had been regarded as a serious challenger to McEnroe after contesting four Grand Prix finals, winning in Hawaii, and rising to 11th place in the world rankings.

Americans who won their opening games at Wembley were Eddie Dibbs, Vic Amaya, Butch Walts and Rick Meyer.

Dibbs, the No.6 seed, defeated fellow American Robert Van't Hof 6-2, 6-2. Walts also beat an American, Hank Pfister 6-4, 6-0, while Meyer ousted British left-hander Mark Cox 6-2, 6-7, 6-3. Amaya defeated Andrew Pattison, who is from Zimbabwe, but now lives in the United States, 7-6,7-5.

McEnroe was flying to England from Sweden, where he was beaten Monday by Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg 6-3, 6-4 in the final of the Swedish Indoor Championships.

Borg has named three young players whom he considers serious rivals. The Swedish star told London's Daily Mail they are Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, who defeated him in a recent Swiss Open, Johan Kriek of South Africa, and Yannick Noah of

Jose Cruz Astro MVP

HOUSTON (AP) - Left fielder Jose Cruz, who led the Houston Astros in five offensive categories last season, has been named the Astros Most Valuable Player by the local chapter of the Baseball Writer's Association of America.

Cruz hit .302 for the National League Western Division champions and appeared in 160 games. He led the Astros in games played, hits (185), at bats (612), runs scored (79), runs batted in (91) and was second in home runs with 11 and stolen bases (36).

Starting pitcher Joe Niekro, who posted his second straight 20-win season at 20-12, was runner up to Cruz

Niekro, fourth in the recent Cy Young award voting, posted a 3.55 earned run average and led the team in innings pitched (256) and starts (36). Niekro was 9-7 at the All-Star break and had an 11-5 record the rest of the season to lead Houston's surge to their first title.

Marquette star arrested

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A judge who placed Marquette University basketball player Oliver Lee on probation says he saw no reason to disqualify himself despite his ties to the college's sports environ-

Judge Joseph P. Callan is a Marquette graduate, is a member of a university sports booster club, and his son-in-law is the son of former Marquette basketball Coach Al McGuire.

Lee, he said after the verdict Tuesday, "was treated no different than anyone else who comes before this court."

Lee, 21, a senior forward from Deland, Fla., pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to misdemeanor fraudulent use of a credit card which a Milwaukee man told police he had lost.

Hights leads Comanches

By The Associated Press Shiner's Craig Hights is only 5-8, 135 and a backup sophomore running back for the state-ranked Shiner

So why should Hights, who has played in only four games this season, be mentioned in this week's Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll?

In those four games, Hights has rushed over 100 yards three times, including last week when he rushed 318 yards on 24 carries and scored two touchdowns in a 53-8 rout of Weimar.

Hights had to share his running time with two other Comanche runners, halfback L.M. Dillworth and quarterback Rodney Kalich who also rushed over 100 yards in the same game.

Even more amazing is the fact that last week's game marked the fifth time this season that the Comanches had three runners gaining more than 100 yards in the same game. Dillworth rushed 21 times for 162 yards and scored four touchdowns on runs of 6, 27 and 12 and a 35 yard pass interception return. Kalich gained 163 yards on 12 carries and scored on runs of 4 and 81 yards to share the spotlight with Hights, a 5-8, 135-pounder.

"We knew he was a good runner but the kid he replaced wasn't bad either," Shiner Coach Calvin Tucker said. "He's got good speed and he can stick it up inside. He runs in the middle like a 180-

Hights replaced Danny Rohan, who was the district's leading rusher when he was injured in the seventh game of the season.

By The Associated Press New York Knicks and Billy Knight kept on scoring in a wild night of basketball marked by streaks, sprees and blowouts. Tuesday night's best individual performance came from Knight, who scored a career-high 52 points including 35 in the second half and 19 in the finas quarter - to lead the Indiana Pacers to a 119-113 National Basketball Association victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

Although the rules require that all baskets be made of metal and measure 18 inches in diameter, don't tell that to Knight, a 6-foot-6 guard who also plays some forward. "I like the hoops here in San Antonio," he said. "They are big and they are soft. I've always liked shooting here.

While Knight was setting an individual NBA season scoring high, the Knicks set the team mark with a 149-118 rout of the Detroit Pistons. The 149 points were not only the most in the NBA this season, but the most at the new Madison Square Garden since the building opened in 1968.

The Knicks figure to have a tougher time of it tonight, however, when they travel to Philadelphia to take on the 76ers. Philadelphia tied a franchise record by winning its 12th in a row Tuesday night, a 121-80 pasting of the Chicago Bulls. The 76ers are now 13-2, tied with Phoenix for the best mark in their 10th in a row and dropped to 2-15 with a 105-94 loss to the Houston Rockets.

Although Dallas was expected to have it's probclobbered by the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers 126-97 for their eighth straight defeat.

In other NBA games, the Milwaukee Bucks rallied to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-96, the Washington Bullets beat the Denver Nuggets 107-92, the Phoenix Suns defeated the San Dieego Clippers 109-107 and the Kansas City Kings edged the Portland Trail Blazers 102-101.

Pacers 119, Spurs 113 Knight's 52 points surpassed the NBA season high of 50 set by Utah's Adrian Dantley 10 days ago and was just one shy of the record for San Antonio's HemisFair Arena held by the Spurs' George Gervin, who had 38 Tuesday night. San Antonio, getting 18 points from Gervin in the third quarter, pulled even at 83-83 with one minute left in the period before Knight helped the Pacers take command in the fourth quarter.

Knicks 149, Pistons 118 The Knicks shot 61 percent from the field and got double-figure scoring from eight players in the rout of the Pistons. New York broke the game open during an eight-minute streetch of the first half when they outscored Detroit 30-6 to take a 55-30 lead. Campy Russell scored 11 of his season-high 28 points in that surge.

"They got me here to score points, and I'm here to win games," said Russell, who was obtained from Cleveland in the preseason.

76ers 121, Bulls 80

Julius Erving scored 21 points and Darryl Dawkins added 20 - on 10-for-11 shooting - for Philadelphia, which last won 12 in a row back in 1949. The Sixers were in control throughout, leading 64-34 at halftime and 92-52 after three periods.

Afterwards, Erving turned his attention to tonight's game against the Knicks, whom they two games in the Atlantic Division. "That is one game we want to win, becuase New Erving, referring to a 113-93 loss at New York. "In The Philadelphia 76ers kept on winning, the Dallas fact, that was the last time we lost, and if there is one Mavericks and Atlanta Hawks kept on losing and the team we have to beat in our division, it's going to be the Knicks.'

Rockets 105, Mavericks 94

Dallas was ahead 37-29 midway through the second period, but Houston pulled in front in the third quarter and led by as many as 16 points down the Despite the loss, Dallas Coach Dick Motta wasn't angry. "I saw no lack of effort on our part, and lack of effort is what really makes me mad," Motta

Lakers 126, Hawks 96

Atlanta, with Wayne Rollins and Dan Roundfield injured and out of action, fell behind 68-44 at halftime and by as many as 37 points in the closing period. Five Los Angeles players scored 16 or more, led by Jamaal Wilkes with 22.

Bullets 107, Nuggets 92 Kevin Grevey got 14 points in the first quarter to start the Bullets on their way to their fourth straight victory. Washington led 61-41 at halftime and was never threatened.

Bucks 100, Cavaliers 96 The Bucks outscored the Cavaliers 13-4 in the final 3½ minutes to pull out their eighth victory in nine road games this season. Marques Johnson led

Milwaukee with 19 points. Suns 109, Clippers 107 Walter Davis' two free throws with five seconds

Purdue seeking big win

CHICAGO (AP) -There are still two games left in the Big Ten season but as far as coaches Jim Young of Purdue and Bo Schembechler of Michigan are concerned, this Saturday's nationally televised battle is it.

"This is our most crucial game, this is for the championship as we see it," Young told the Chicago Football Writers Tuesday in a telephone interview. Although Michigan has a date with Ohio State a week from Saturday, Schembechler said "This game is the game for us. Purdue has won six in a row, we have six in a row. But there are three top teams in the league and none of them have played each other."

Both Purdue and Michigan have been beaten by Notre Dame. Purdue also lost to UCLA and Michigan lost to South Carolina but Schembechler thinks both teams have improved so much that if they played the teams they lost to again, Purdue and Michigan could emerge victorious this time.

"Purdue is not the same team it was when it played UCLA," said Schembechler. "Purdue now could beat both of the teams it lost to."

Would Michigan beat both teams it lost to? "Purdue's defense now

'Who Shot J.R.?' mystery rewards CBS in ratings race

NEW YORK (AP) - To thousands of "Dallas" fans, "Who Shot J.R.?" may be the most burning question of all prime-time - and CBS is dragging out the answer with ratings points as the big reward.

The network whetted viewers' appetites for the denouement in the week ending Nov. 9 and came out in first place in the prime-time ratings race, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co.

Each of four episodes of the prime-time soap opera finished among the week's 10 highest-rated programs. In fact, CBS listed nine of the Top 10 shows and 12 of the first 13 to win the networks' ratings competition for the second straight week.

CBS' rating for the week was 22.2, to 17.9 for ABC and 14.8 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 22.2 percent of the homes with TV were tuned to CBS.

The "Dallas" series focuses on the wheelings and dealings of the Ewing klan. J.R. Ewing, perhaps the meanest man on TV, was shot and seriously wounded last season, but the culprit has not been fingered. Sunday night's episode, the last of the four broadcast in the week, was the most-watched show in the period, with a rating of 40. Nielsen says that means of all the nation's TV-equipped homes, 40 percent saw at least part of the Sunday night show. Fans of "Dallas" will have to wait until Nov. 21 for the solution to the mystery that has become an international fascination.

NBC maintains its programming for 1980-81 began Sept. 15, with the miniseries "Shogun," and by that standard, NBC leads in the race by more than two points over No. 2 CBS. Both CBS and ABC say the season, delayed by the 10-week actors' strike, began Oct. 27.

ABC's "Love Boat" was the only non-CBS show to crack the Top 10. An espisode from CBS's new series "Ladies' Man," was 11th in the ratings, and a movie, "Love at First Bite," also from CBS, was 12th. Two other new series, "It's a Living" and "I'm a Big Girl Now," both from ABC, fared well — 26th and 27th.

Ten of the week's lowest-rated programs were paid political announcements, broadcast before Tuesday's election. The exception was "NBC Magazine with David Brinkley," No. 58 of 60 shows rated. The networks' evening-long elections coverage, which was not sponsored, was not included in the ratings.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows: "Dallas," Sunday, with a rating of 40 representing 31.1 million homes, "Dallas," 10-11 p.m. EST Friday, 38.2 or 29.7 million, "The Jeffersons," 32.1 or 25 million, "Dallas," 9-10 p.m. EST Friday, 31.8 or 24.7 million, "Alice," 31.2 or 24.3 million, "60 Minutes," 29.7 or 23.1 million, "One Day at a Time," 29.2 or 22.7 million, "Archie Bunker's Place," 27.6 or 21.5 million, and "Dallas," Thursday, 24.7 or 19.2 million, all CBS, and "Love Boat," 24.4 or 19 million, ABC.

The next 10 shows: "Ladies' Man," CBS; Movie-"Love at First Bite," and "Flo," both CBS, tie; "That's Incredible" and "Fantasy Island," both ABC; "Real People," NBC; "M-A-S-H," CBS; "Little House on the Prairie," NBC, and "NFL Monday Night Football," Chicago vs. Cleveland, and Movie-"The Spy Who Loved Me," both ABC.

Conservatives after 20 liberals

By KEVIN M. COSTELLOE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - One week after helping pick off four of the Senate's leading liberals, the National Conservative Political Action Committee is setting its sights on 20 sena-tors up for re-election two years off. At the top of the list: Sen. Edward M.

The conservative organization, one of the richest right-wing political action groups and one of the largest with 250,000 members nationwide, also said Tuesday it may broaden its efforts in 1982 to include the House as well as the Senate.

"Liberals ought to be very intimidated by the mood of the American blic," said NCPAC Chairman John T. Dolan in assessing last week's

The group spent $1.2 million this year, and Dolan said it may spend more than $2 million in the 1982 Senate campaigns. NCPAC, like other independent political action groups, can pour millions of dollars into campaigns as long as it has no contact with the candidates they're backing.

Four of the six Democratic senators targeted by NCPAC in last week's elections were defeated - Frank Church of Idaho, George McGovern of South Dakota, Birch Bayh of Indiana and John Culver of Iowa. Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Thomas Eagleton of Missouri survived.

In 1982, Dolan said, the group probably will pick more than six Senate races from the list of 20 to actually work for an incumbent's defeat. He said the final choice will be based on the candidates' vulnerability and voting records.

NCPAC has dubbed Kennedy "the most extreme liberal" in the Senate. A year ago, when Kennedy was running for the Democratic presidential nomination, the conservative group set up a "Kennedy Truth Squad" and ran newspaper advertisements in Boston and Washington to draw public attention to its criticisms of the Massachusetts senator. Following Kennedy on the list of potential targets in 1982 are Democrats Donald W. Riegle Jr. of Michigan, Howard M. Metzenbaum of Ohio, Paul S. Sarbanes of Maryland, Harrison Williams of New Jersey and Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

The list also includes three Republican senators - Robert T. Stafford of Vermont, John Chafee of Rhode Island and Lowell Weicker of Connecti-

Dolan said his group also may go after such key liberal Democrats in the House as majority leader Jim Wright of Texas, Morris K. Udall of Arizona and Phillip Burton of Califor-

The other potential Senate targets, all Democrats, are Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York, John Melcher of Montana, Spark Matsanuga of Hawaii, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Robert Byrd of West Virginia, James Sasser of Tennessee, Howard Cannon of Nevada, Dennis DeConcini of Arizona, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas and Lawton Chiles of Florida.

Dolan said a lawmaker would "automatically remove most of the opponoticeably to the right.

NCPAC measured its potential targets by several criteria, including support for the Panama Canal treaties and federal aid to New York City and whether they opposed the SALT II treaty and the B-1 bomber.

Leaders expect to have brief lame-duck session

WASHINGTON (AP) - House and Senate leaders are predicting the lame-duck session will be brief and unproductive as lawmakers mark time for a new Congress more inclined to increase defense spending, cut taxes, permit prayer in public schools and ban abortions.

The first item on the Senate's agenda as it reconvened today was a $9.57 billion appropriation bill for several federal departments, but key lawmakers said this and other spending measures may be shelved until the new Congress meets in January.

The House Budget Committee chairman, Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., said Tuesday the plan is for the 96th Congress to adjourn before Thanskgiving.

And Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, the House majority leader, said he expects "very little action" in the lameduck session, the first in a presidential election year since Democratic President Harry Truman called the Republican-controlled Congress back for a fruitless one-day meeting in 1948. The last lame-duck session was in 1974, when Congress met for about a month.

This time President Carter has Democratic majorities in both houses, but the Democrats lose both the White House and control of the Senate in January.

Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee predicted the Senate would pass a tax cut but put off other substantive legislation until President-elect Ronald Reagan takes office.

"It would be our preference to wait until next year to see what the new president's recommendations are," he said.

Baker said he expects Senate approval next year of sharply increased defense spending, lower taxes and constitutional amendments to permit prayer in public schools and to ban most abortions.

He said the chances of restoring the death penalty for some federal crimes "would be good."

Baker also predicted the Senate will approve a lower minimum wage for teen-agers and permit non-union wages for work on federal housing projects. As for the tax cut, Baker said its future was uncertain in the House and he had "certainly no optimism that President Carter would sign it." Carter's spokesman, Jody Powell, said Tuesday as far he knows the outgoing president remains opposed to a tax cut, and Wright added that if the Senate passes one, the House will "just let it ride until next year."

Both Wright and Baker said Congress may skip all or some of the 10 appropriations bill that remain to be considered, choosing instead to pass resolutions to continue spending at

In the meantime, the skirmishing over monitary priorities in the 97th Congress already is beginning. The House Budget Committee, over Republican protests, passed a binding federal budget ceiling Tuesday that would obligate Reagan to cut federal spending by 2 percent.

Giaimo said the Rules Committee will consider the plan Monday and it is expected to reach the House floor the next day. He said the Senate is expected to consider its version of the budget Monday and a House-Senate conference committee is scheduled to meet two days later.

Baker and other Senate Republican leaders, declaring they would "set an example" for trimming spending "by starting at home," pledged them-selves to cut the annual cost of their own operation by 10 percent in 1981.

Carter was staying out of the building budget battle. He directed his staff to make sure the budget he presents before leaving office is 'honest and responsible" and lays "no political traps" for Reagan.

The appropriations bill before the Senate today would cover the State. Justice and Commerce departments, the federal courts and several federal agencies. The measure bogged down earlier over an amendment by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., that would bar the Justice Department from requiring busing to desegregate schools. One of the House-passed appropriations bills awaiting Senate action would provide $1.57 billion for the military.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, in line to become chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said Reagan probably will seek $3 billion extra in military spending early next year to finance a military pay raise, to pay for supply ships in the Indian Ocean and a rapid deployment combat force, and to offset higher fuel costs.

Tower, who said he has been consulting with Reagan's military advisers, predicted Reagan will ask for another $8 billion to $16 billion in military spending later next year.

gave party-line approval Tuesday to a binding federal budget ceiling that would obligate Reagan to cut federal spending - except defense - by 2 percent, or about $17 billion.

It would be left to Reagan to decide how to make the cuts after he takes office in January.

The full House is expected to consider the budget measure next week.

Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., said Reagan's ability to meet the cuts without asking the next Congress to increase the spending ceiling would be a test of "voodoo economics." He was referring to Vice President-elect George Bush's description of Reagan's economic policies when the two men were vying for the Republican presidential nomination last spring.

Solarz said it would be interesting to see whether Reagan is "as good an alchemist as politician" and can turn the "base metal of waste into the gold of government savings."

Committee Republicans boycotted the 14-0 vote approving the cut. The full measure passed on a 14-8

Rep. Delbert L. Latta of Ohio, the ranking committee Republican, said it was "just unfair ... to rush this through." But Democrats said they were giving Reagan what he said he wanted. "Mr. Reagan has said that a 2 percent cut can be made in 1981 solely through the elimination of - and I quote - 'waste, extravagance, abuse and outright fraud," said Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., the committee chairman who offered the plan. 'That will not be simple to do, but it is a challenge that the president-elect has posed for himself," Giaimo added. "We should give him the opportunity to meet that challenge."

Before the vote, Senate Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee said Giaimo "is playing political games with us" in pushing the spending cut before Reagan takes office Jan. 20.

Giaimo responded: "I am not attempting to sandbag the new president." The 2 percent cut was added to a resolution setting a binding federal budget ceiling for fiscal 1981, which Congress, bogged down in election-year politics, failed to approve a binding budget resolution by mid-September, as required by its rules.

A draft of the budget resolution drawn up by the committee staff estimated government spending, based primarily on legislation already passed by the House, would be $648.7 billion, with a deficit of $38.4 billion. The plan approved by the committee would reduce spending to $631.7 billion, leaving a deficit of

The Senate Budget Committee drew up a binding budget resolution before the election calling for spending $633 billion, with a deficit of $17.9 billion.

Giaimo said his committee's estimates are more realisitic than those of the Senate, which he said calculated only an earlier budget resolution plus

The Senate is expected to consider its budget resolution next Monday with House-Senate negotiators meeting Nov. 19 to work out the differences between the two measures.

Closing could cause U.S. woes

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. economy could be plunged into a recession if the critical oil supply route through the Strait of Hormuz is closed by the war etween Iran and Iraq, the Congressional Budget

Alice Rivlin, the office's director, told the Senate Finance subcommittee on taxation Tuesday the economic output of the United States might by fall 10 percent if the strait were closed for a year. By contrast, with the strait open, the yearly rate of decline was 9.6 percent in the second quarter of this year, at the height of the 1980 recession.

Closing the strait, through which most Middle Eastern oil is transported, could cut U.S. oil imports by as much as 5 million barrels a day, Mrs. Rivlin said.

Economists appearing before the subcommittee disagreed on the role government should play in handling the supply of oil, but they agreed current federal price controls on oil have been counterproductive. Henry S. Rowen of Stanford University said Congress should repeal some controls on oil and gas and parts of the new tax on domestic crude oil.

He said an emergency interruption in imported oil might require a tariff on foreign oil, with the higher consumer prices being rebated through the tax sys-

George Eads, a member of President Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, predicted an effort to persuade other countries to impose similar tariffs to reduce oil consumption during an emergency would have little success. He said an emergency oil strategy therefore should be based on more than increased

Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., who conducted the hearing, also questioned whether U.S. allies could be persuaded to impose such tariffs.

"I can just hear the finance ministers in Germany and France saying 'We'll go along when you get your gasoline tax up to $2 a gallon," Bradley said.

William D. Nordhaus of Yale University said the government should encourage stockpiling of oil throughout the economy, perhaps by providing a tax in-

'We must encourage people to buy cheap and sell dear, for such behavior is price-stabilizing and in the economic interests of the nation," said Nordhaus, a former economic adviser to Carter.

rate purposes.

Texans face the appalling prospect of a $5 billion increase in state taxes when the legislature meets in January, Waggoner Carr, president of TEXAS 13, warned in a speech Tues-day night in Midland at the Permian Basin Landmen's Association at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Carr, former attorney general of Texas and speaker of the House of Representatives, heads the nonprofit, statewide organization of citizens and taxpayers concerned with the increasing cost of government.

Carr said TEXAS 13 is dedicated to opposing unwarranted tax hikes at all levels of government, reduction of government spending, elimination of legislative and bureaucratic waste of taxpayers' money and, through ini-tiative and referendum, giving the people a voice in controlling tax in-

In his talk, Carr noted that the state dget has grown 235 percent in the last 10 years, and welfare costs have skyrocketed 370 percent.

"In the same 10-year period, the state's population growth was only 17 percent," Carr pointed out.

The speaker reported that Texas, with present record state budget of $22 billion, now spends $30 million a day to operate the government. "This is an increase of about 50 percent imposed by the last two sessions of the legislature. The legislature has increased its own cost of operation by 156 percent in the last 10 Carr said it was conceded that the next legislature, meeting in January, will be a major tax session. "Already demands for new spending from state agencies and special interest power groups exceed $5 billion."

"The ultimate answer to our spending problems, the speaker said, is setting concerned citizens and taxpayers across the state aroused and involved, and that is what TEXAS 13 is striving to do.

'There is not a person in this room who doesn't think our government is too big, too wasteful, too expensive and our taxes are too high. Most, if not all of you, have experienced the sinking realization that the American Dream is slowly slipping beyond our grasp, Carr said.

'Just how bad is our situation? Well, recently the Federal Department of Commerce revealed that the average American now pays 45 cents out of ever $1 he or she earns to the tax collectors at the federal, state, and local levels of government.

"We tax payers keep only 55 cents at present. If the situation continues to worsen at the same rate as the last 10 years, we taxpayers will keep only 36 cents out of every $1 earned in 1968 - just eight years from now - while the tax collectors will be taking 63 cents. Twenty years from now we will be keeping 20 cents and the tax col-lectors take will be 80 cents," Carr warned.

The speaker said "Let's zero in on our own state government. We can do something about our state situation very quickly if we want to.'

'First, you must realize that big. bureaucratic government responds only to organized groups. The larger the group, the quicker responce. Big modern government pays little attento to the wishes of an individual when the alternative is to say 'no' to an organized group. Those who want something from the government al-ways organize to get it. The taxpayers must learn that lesson," Carr said, "that is why we have created TEXAS

He pointed out that in the 11/2 tyears of the organization's existence it has been able to coordinate and unify the efforts of 28 local tax relief organizations into a starewide unified effort. "We now have in excess of 55,000 members.

At Texaco, scientists found 16 fatalities, compared with an expected 7.5. Ten cases were discovered among Gulf employees, 3.5 more than normal. Seven fatalities were found at Mobil, or four more than anticipated.

The NCI's preliminary findings were presented Oct. 28 at a New York Academy of Sciences meeting in New York.

At that time, Gulf released the results of its in-house study, billed as the "largest study of refinery employees ever reported in North America."

Gulf scientists, however, used a different statistical methodology and reviewed death certificates of 4,766 employees between 1935 and 1979. They found 30 brain tumor deaths, compared with an expected rate

Texaco spokesman Mike McDermott said, "Studies of individual cases conducted to date have failed to confirm any correlation between work performed and cause of death."

In addition, both companies are involved in a comprehensive American Petroleum Institute study of adverse health effects at 100 petroleum refin-

Mobil also has hired the Stanford Research Institute to conduct an in-depth study of the entire mortality rate at the Beaumont refinery.

reply to Iran's terms. He said it was "a profoundly difficult and compli-

He went directly to the White House to report to President Carter.

"I would stay we definitely accomplished what we set out to do," the U.S. diplomat said in a brief statement at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland.

He said he had no idea when Iran might respond to the U.S. position.

Meanwhile, the U.S. reply was delivered to the Iranian government in Tehran today, an aide to Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai re-

The Iranian Parliament, the Majlis, discussed the hostage issue during its session today, Tehran radio reported, but it gave no indication on whether the deputies had been told the response was received.

One deputy, Fakhreddin Hijazi of Tehran, accused the United States of using delaying tactics to put off a solution to the crisis "in order to have an excuse to harm the Islamic republic of Iran," the radio said.

Meanwhile, in an unprecedented interview with an American radio station, Bruce Laingen, the senior U.S. envoy held hostage at the Foreign Ministry in Tehran, said he was fine and "We're anxious to leave, hopeful."

He told radio station KAYO in Seattle, Wash. that the hostages were gratified by U.S. public and government support.

Supreme Court overrules attempt to block lawsuit

AUSTIN (AP) - The Permian Corp. failed today in an attempt to get the Supreme Court to block a class action lawsuit by W.R. Davis and other oil producers who sell to the Houston-based company. Written responses in the pre-trial stage of the lawsuit indicate producers may seek more than $30 million from Permian.

Davis' petititon alleges Permian, a subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum Corp., has been taking substantial volumes of oil from producers and not accounting and paying for it.

The petition also alleges Permian, which buys oil and resells it, has been covering up thefts by methodically destroying records and by filing false statements with governmental agencies such as the Texas Railroad Commission.

District Judge Perry Pickett of Midland certified the case as a class action suit on Jan. 30. On Nov. 30 Pickett refused to decertify the case and said notices of the class action could be mailed to "less than all identifiable" members of the class by third-class mail.

Permian pleaded with the Supreme Court that all members needed to be notified and mail should be

Davis contended Permian's plea disguised its purpose. He said Permian was merely trying to get an appeals court to review Pickett's Jan. 30 order.

Davis, former head of Permian, said recent answers to written questions indicate Permian has received more than one million barrels for which it has not paid. At $30 a barrel, this would total approximately $30 million.

Court records show F.R. Kitzmiller, financial vice president for Permian, responded that a Permian employee had filed false reports with the Railroad Commission.

Asked why the employee had filed such statements, Kitzmiller replied that he understood he would be fired if he did not do so.

Davis said Permian had filed identical pleas with the Supreme Court and the El Paso Court of Civil Ap-Running from court to court, as Permian is doing

The Supreme Court overruled Permian's motion to file a petition for writ of mandamus.
