U.S. ponders Iranian reply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Algerian intermediaries met today with State Department officials to deliver a new message from Iran on its terms for freeing the 52 American hostages.

A little more than 12 hours after their arrival in Washington from Algiers, the three emissaries began day-long talks that could determine how far apart the two countries are on negotiating the release of the captives.

They were greeted by Assistant Secretary of State Harold Saunders on arrival at the State Department and went into talks with an American team led by Deputy Secretary Warren Christopher, who had flown to Algiers 16 days ago with the U.S. response to Iran's four conditions for ending the crisis.

Besides Christopher and Saunders, members of the U.S. team were Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carwell, State Department legal adviser Roberts Owen and Arnold Raphael, an assistant to Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie.

Muskie also scheduled a luncheon with the Algerian envoys — Bedha Malek, ambassador to the United States; Abdelharim Gheraib, ambassador to Iran; and Mohammad Seghir Mostefal, chairman of the Central Bank of Algeria.

"We are certainly interested in getting the fullest possible response from Iran," State Department spokesman John Trattner said Tuesday. "I think that's obvious." He said the Algerians probably will remain in Washington several days.

U.S. officials said the United States had received an "informal" idea of the nature of the Iranian message in advance of the arrival of the Algerian mission.

The Nov. 10 American message explained that restrictions on presidential authority prevent the Carter administration from fully meeting two of the demands — cancellation of U.S. financial claims against Iran and confiscation of the scattered wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

In advance of today's meeting, administration officials said they expected "difficult questions" from Iranian authorities about the U.S. note delivered by the Algerians to Tehran in response to the conditions set by the Iranian Parliament on Nov. 2. Iranian officials have indicated the explanations were not persuasive and that further clarification is needed.

"I would imagine we are going to have some difficult questions on financial matters and timing," said one U.S. official, who asked not to be identified. Another official said he did not expect the Iranians to demand a yes-or-no response.

The two other demands — a pledge of non-interference in Iranian affairs and release of more than $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets — are not viewed here as major obstacles.

The signals from Iran, however, have been conflicting.

Various authorities in Tehran have described the U.S. response as conciliatory and cool.

California fires still burning

50,000 acres, 300 homes destroyed

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Fires fanned by swirling "devil winds" of 55 mph raced unchecked across suburban Southern California for a third day today, routing hundreds more people in a region that has seen 50,000 acres and about 300 homes and buildings go up in flames.

A devastating brushfire called the Panorama fire just north of this scarred city of 112,000 residents, one of several still burning out of control, jumped Interstate 15E and swooped into the community of Devore. With four people already known dead in the fires that broke out Monday, authorities warned residents of 500 more homes to flee.

As three structures burned in Devore, firefighters stood watch in the driveways of nearby houses, trying to protect them, said Bill Johnson of the U.S. Forest Service.

One firefighter at Devore suffered second-degree burns, he added. The Panorama fire was the worst of the nine blazes that burned in five counties today, three of them in San Bernardino County.

The weather service had forecast that the Santa Ana winds, the so-called "devil winds" that come down from the mountains, would abate today, offering a ray of hope to thousands of exhausted firefighters trying to head off the outbreak of fires that apparently have destroyed more homes than any other in Southern California in a decade.

But the winds had not died down this morning, and the Panorama fire was threatening the town of Crestline to the north in the San Bernardino Mountains, about 70 miles east of Los Angeles.

Thousands of people have abandoned their homes since the blazes erupted Monday and some 400 were reported injured.

Nearly 2,000 firefighters were battling the fires and 90 National Guardsmen were being sent today to help at the Lakeland fire near Lake Elsinore in Riverside County.

Nearly 300 buildings in San Bernardino either were in ruins or irreparably damaged as the Panorama fire raged. Within city limits alone, damage to 267 buildings — mostly homes worth $80,000 to $100,000 — was estimated at $25 million. Of those, 180 were completely leveled and the rest were charred hulks.

"Most homes seem to have been either totally destroyed or not touched," said U.S. Forest Service spokeswoman Marsha Brown.

About 25 small homes and cabins also were wiped out in the suburbs and foothills, and watershed valued at $4 million went up in smoke.

Not since September 1970, when the Newhall-Malibu fire destroyed 403 homes and left 10 dead, has there been so destructive a fire in Southern California.

There was no word on when any of the major blazes might be controlled.

Citizens offer housing suggestions

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Getting comments out of the audience at a public hearing on Community Development Block Grant funds Tuesday night was like pulling chicken's teeth — until the dozen or so citizens got warmed up a bit. And then the suggestions kept coming.

Midland City Council held a second public hearing in City Hall Council Chambers to gain citizen input on how to spend $1.13 million in federal funds for which the city is applying. The first meeting was held Nov. 4, which was Election Day, and the panel was criticized, with the comments being that residents were more interested in election results.

When boiled down to a few, the suggestions from citizens centered on improving current housing stock and building more housing for low-income people, paving streets in south and east Midland, putting in curbs and gutters and instituting more day care in south and east Midland.

Betty Sheeler with the Midland Housing Association was the first to speak. As director of Midland County's Section 8 rental subsidy program for low-income residents, she said she had come across numerous rental stock that needs rehabilitation. She suggested the council look into a Department of Housing and Urban Development program that would allow the city to rehabilitate rental housing.

Cookie Wetendorf reiterated two stands taken by the Midland League of Women Voters. Those, she said, are to institute a housing assistance plan and to increase housing stock for low to middle income residents.

Then the microphone fell silent while Mayor G. Thane Akins repeatedly asked the audience if anyone wanted to make a comment or ask questions. Councilman Gordon Marcum II threw out an idea from the Parks and Recreation Department to upgrade parks on the south and east side and install more playground equipment.

Annie Wright suggested part of the money be spent for restrooms at these parks.

Jose Robledo chimed in and asked for street paving. "I've lived at that spot (707 N. Dallas St.) for 27 years and I've been trying to get paving" but with no success.

Then Tony Carrillo, 207 E. Cuthbert Ave., added his desire for street paving. "And some streets don't have curbs and gutters. When it rains, the drainage washes out the ground on both sides of the street."

He also suggested the city should use some of the money to purchase new garbage trucks and increase salaries of those who work in the sanitation and street departments.

Akins replied that the $1.13 million won't go for salaries, only "one-shot deals."

Dorothy Nash started off her wish list with a request for paving, but she added improved housing, demolishing vacant houses, housing for senior citizens, need for recreation in the south and east parts of Midland with places for the family to go, tennis courts, barbecue pits, adequate lighting, renovating Washington Park swimming and wading pools and building a community activity center.

Joy Bates doesn't live in south or east Midland, she told the council, but she works in that section for the school district. In her opinion, the council's "highest priority should be housing. I've seen rental properties that are really rough and 12 to 14 people in one place. The need for housing has always been urgent, but it's getting critical."

One reason for such run-down rental housing in south and east Midland is because the owners are no longer capable of repairing it, said Mrs. Sheeler. She pointed out two instances in which the husbands are too ill to do the work.

"One woman said she was ashamed to take the rent, but she couldn't turn down the people," she said.

Mrs. Sheeler suggested the city look into a grant-loan program which would allow some landlords the money to bring the property up to government rental standards.

The need for day care centers was mentioned by Mrs. Wetendorf, and Mrs. Bates suggested a community center also serve as a center for children.

Mrs. Nash and Mrs. Wright commented that transportation is difficult for some people to find, and they acknowledged that few residents know much about MidTran, the public transportation buses.

Before the meeting concluded, Carrillo told the council, "Thanks for considering the funds this time."

A public hearing will be held Jan. 12 in City Hall to review the program put together by the city staff and council from this citizen input.

Retests ordered by school trustees for students who fail skills exam

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Students are required to retake the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills test each year it is presented if they failed it during their freshman year, school trustees decided Tuesday.

The TABS test, which is given to third, fifth and ninth grade students each year, is designed to test a student's mastery of reading, writing and arithmetic skills.

Students must answer a required number of test questions correctly to prove mastery of the three R's. Under present state law, students have the opportunity to retake the test, but the law does not make it a requirement.

However, the option to make it a requirement is left to the local districts.

Most of Tuesday's meeting was allocated to a discussion of student-to-teacher classroom ratio.

An ideal situation is 20 to 23 students per teacher, noted Garland Chapman, assistant superintendent.

Since the district's elementary enrollment, along with the district's budget, is increasing, trustees wanted to increase the pupil-teacher ratio by one pupil.

Should this be accomplished, the district could realize a savings of $550,000, according to Chapman.

Overall, the average classroom size for kindergarten students per teacher is about 15 students. First grader ratios show about 19 students per teacher while the average second grade pupil-teacher ratio is close to 21 students.

The average third grade classroom has about 22 students, whereas in the cluster system which handles the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students, the pupil-teacher ratio is about 1 to 27.

The total secondary ratio shows about 22 students for every secondary teacher, according to the district's report.

Following Chapman's report, trustees agreed that more study by the district would be needed before any policy is established regarding classroom size.

Trustees authorized the district to apply for funds to be used in two bilingual education programs for elementary and secondary students who have limited English language skills.

If approved by the federal government, the elementary bilingual program would be funded to the tune of $200,000 each year for three years.

In the secondary program, the district is asking for about $190,000 for the three-year plan.

Board members agreed to pay the district's share to pave streets adjacent to school property in north Midland. About $23,708 would be taken from the district's reserve funds to finance the project.

The installation of water and sewer lines on the property in the Skyline Terrace West section of the city would be addressed in a bond issue, trustees noted.

Action on bids for three portable buildings to be used at Burnet, South and West Elementary schools was

Brezhnev sending 'positive' signals

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev is sending "very positive" signals to President-elect Ronald Reagan and has offered "certain assurances that give hope for the future, hope in Soviet-American relations and hope for the world," Sen. Charles Percy said after a two-hour and 40-minute meeting with the Soviet leader today.

Percy, pegged as the next chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said his talks were "by all odds the most satisfactory discussion because we had such a full agenda." The meeting in the Kremlin, also attended by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and U.S. Ambassador Thomas J. Watson Jr., lasted at least an hour longer than scheduled.

Percy, the first U.S. government official to hold talks with Brezhnev in 16 months — and since the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan in December 1979 — declined to give details on the talks. But he said it was "difficult to name a subject we did not discuss."

The Illinois Republican also said he scheduled further talks with Defense Minister Dmitry F. Ustinov on Thursday and with Gromyko on Friday.

"It was a very frank, factual discussion of the basic differences that we have," Percy told newsmen. "We laid them right on the table without equivocation."

"We expressed the hope that we have enough in common to work not only for the good of the Soviet and American people, but for the good of the people of the world."

Percy said that he found Brezhnev in "extremely good, vigorous health." He said the Soviet leader looked better than when he last met him about four years ago.

The senator said Brezhnev took a "constructive attitude" towards future relations with President-elect Ronald Reagan. "It's important for both Brezhnev and Reagan to send signals to one another, and they're doing so in a very positive way through me and in other ways," he said.

The length of the talk with Brezhnev and the fact that more meetings had been set with Ustinov and Gromyko indicated the seriousness with which the top Kremlin leaders viewed the contact.

Polish officials talk on labor crisis

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish government rushed a delegation to Gdansk to confer with leaders of the biggest independent trade union as a new labor crisis over the arrest of a worker for the union threatened.

Solicitor General Lucjan Czubinski sent four senior aides to the Baltic port city of Gdansk to talk with Lech Walesa, the leader of the Solidarity union federation, and his legal advisers.

A Solidarity delegation met in Warsaw with Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski and Mayor Jerzy Majewski to discuss the detention of Jan Narozniak, a printer arrested when police raiders found a classified document from the solicitor general's office in Solidarity's Warsaw office. The document reportedly outlines actions to combat anti-socialist forces.

Zbigniew Bujak, president of the union's Warsaw chapter, said workers at the Ursus tractor factory and six other plants in the capital had begun strikes of varying duration in support of Narozniak. Solidarity's presidium drafted seven demands, and Bujak said a "strike readiness alert" would be called at factories in the Warsaw area unless the government agreed to negotiate by noon Thursday.

Other union leaders said textile workers in Lodz were holding a sit-in in support of Narozniak, and scientists in Wroclaw had written an open letter to the government demanding his release.

Another labor dispute that had been causing the government concern was settled early today, but trouble appeared to be developing in the Silesian coal fields.

Transport Minister Mieczyslaw Zajfryd signed an agreement in Wroclaw with representatives of railway workers who for the second day shut down commuter lines for two hours in Warsaw and Gdansk Tuesday. The railwaymen were demanding wage-scale revisions and exclusive bargaining rights for Solidarity. Warsaw Radio's announcement of the agreement gave no details.

Meanwhile, miners at nine coal pits in the Katowice area struck for two hours, demanding extra pay for work underground.

In addition to Narozniak's release, Solidarity's seven demands on the government included the release of Piotr Sopela, a printer for the prosecutor's office who was arrested in connection with the case; publication of the names of the authors of the document in the case, release of all persons charged with anti-socialist activity, formation of a special parliamentary commission to investigate the police, security services and the prosecutor's office, investigations of "crimes against workers" during labor unrest in 1970 and 1976, and reductions in the budgets of the Interior Ministry, which controls the police, and the prosecutor's office.

Bujak told a news conference Solidarity would publish the document, and he asked the government-controlled press to do likewise.

Thanksgiving service set

A service of Thanksgiving will be held at Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan St., Thursday at 10 a.m.

The service will focus on the singing of hymns, with an informal liturgy. The Rev. Gary Haaland will speak on "A Sermon of Songs."

The public is invited to attend. A nursery will be provided.

DEATHS

Ollie Gregory

STEPHENVILLE — Services for Ollie F. Gregory, 81, of Stephenville, stepmother of Paul Gregory of Midland, were Monday in Lacy Funeral Home chapel here with the Rev. Morgan Garrett, pastor of First United Methodist Church here, officiating. Burial was in Cisco Cemetery.

Mrs. Gregory died Saturday in a Stephenville hospital.

She was born Jan. 16, 1899, in Quinlan. She moved to Stephenville 33 years ago after leaving Breckenridge. She was married to Arch Downing, who died in 1967, and then remarried in 1970 to B.B. Gregory in Stephenville. She was a member of First United Methodist Church.

Other survivors include her husband, two daughters, a stepdaughter, a brother, three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be made to the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center in care of Midland Memorial Hospital.

Pat Taylor

Services for Pat Taylor, 53, 3317 Cuthbert Ave., will be at 10 a.m. Friday in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. David Baker of Hope Lutheran Church officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Taylor died Tuesday at her home following a lengthy illness.

She was born Oct. 22, 1927, in Bartlesville, Okla., and was reared there. She attended school in Bartlesville and also attended the University of Oklahoma at Norman. She was married to E.E. "Zeke" Taylor in Bartlesville on Aug. 12, 1948. She moved to Midland in 1962 from Calgary, Canada. She had lived in Kansas for five years.

Survivors include her husband; three sons, Kendal Taylor and David Taylor, both of Midland, and Clinton Taylor of Carlsbad, N.M.; a daughter, Ellen Kunish of Canyon; her mother, Marie Hays of Bartlesville; and a grandchild.

'Bo' Gentry

Services for G.N. "Bo" Gentry, 72, 2603 Cessna, will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Bob Blazek of Midland Christian Church officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Gentry died Tuesday at his home.

He was born Sept. 23, 1908, in Uvalde. He spent his early life in Uvalde, Crystal City, Pecos and Colorado City. He also lived in South Texas and California. He came to Midland in 1948 from San Angelo. He was in electrical work and from 1968 to 1973 served as electrical inspector for the city of Midland.

Survivors include his wife, Evelyn; a son, Jack Gentry of Houston; a daughter, Mrs. M.A. (Jerry) Cappa of Midland; a sister, Velma Wadley of Pecos; six grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

J.T. Morgan

BIG SPRING — Services for J.T. Morgan, 81, father of Harlan Morgan of Midland, are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home here.

He died Tuesday in a Big Spring hospital.

Born Nov. 7, 1899, he was a retired inspector for the Texas Liquor Control Board. He was a member of Wesley United Methodist Church in Big Spring.

Other survivors include a son, a daughter, a sister and nine-grandchildren.

Officers raid Odessa business

ODESSA — Odessa police, working with the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers, raided D & R Engine Service and Supply Co., 2108 N. Jackson St., at 10:32 p.m. Tuesday.

A spokesman with the Odessa Police department said the officers had a search warrant issued by Judge

Otis Moore for running a gambling place. Officers confiscated poker chips, several hand guns, numerous gambling paraphernalia and $4,200, he said.

The raid came as a result of two months of work by several Odessa police officers, the spokesman said. A man has been arrested in connection with the raid, police said.

Second agent dies after attack

PARIS (AP) — A Jewish travel agent who watched his wife killed by an anonymous gunman died today of injuries he suffered in the attack, police said. It was the second fatal assault on a Jewish facility here in two months.

Officials said Edwin Douek, 52, died of bullet wounds in his head. His wife Michelle, 46, was killed Tuesday when an unidentified gunman burst into their travel agency fired at least eight shots, and fled. Police said a woman employee also was injured in the attack. Police said they had recovered the gunman's pistol at the travel agency, which has specialized in tours to Israel and Egypt since the two nations signed the Camp David peace accord last year.

Lab tests begin on MGM debris

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Fire investigators have begun taking samples of water-soaked debris from the ruins of the MGM Grand Hotel in hopes that lab tests would reveal why it took only seconds for deadly flames to roar through the giant hotel-casino.

The speed of the smoky fire which left 84 dead and 706 injured is "the astonishing part of it," Deputy Fire Chief John Pappageorge said Tuesday. Meanwhile, the first lawsuit stemming from Friday's fire was filed in Los Angeles. It sought $250 million in damages on behalf of Mexicans who were staying in the hotel.

And a Nebraska doctor recalled that he completed his will with the words, "Smoke is getting heavier and wet towel on my face," just before a firefighter rescued him and 100 others from 15th-floor rooms.

Dr. Jose V.G. Angel said Tuesday he owed his life to a "brave fireman" and "if he's ever in Council Bluffs, he's got a free physical coming."

A team of county fire specialists on Tuesday began gathering samples "of interior decorations, drapes, any combustible material" for tests to determine flammability and toxicity, Pappageorge said.

"If any material didn't meet the code, we want to know about it. If it did meet the code, then maybe we should look into changing the code," he said.

The focus of the inquiry is on the lavishly furnished casino, where 11 people perished when flames burst into the room and almost instantly enveloped it.

Fire officials found Monday that holes apparently had been cut in fire walls on the casino's catwalk or "Eye in the Sky."

MGM hotel officials declined comment Tuesday on charges leveled by the Clark County fire chief that serious fire code violations were found in the ruins of the casino.

"Our position is that an investigation is currently under way," said hotel spokesman Bill Bray. "We can't address ourselves to the questions until we have the information which will be revealed in the investigation."

The class action lawsuit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, lists as plaintiffs 18 Mexican nationals who represent 375 other Mexicans guests, none whom perished, said lawyer Fred Kuznetz.

"We want to set an example of this hotel so none of these negligent and wanton acts that disregard the safety of the guests take place again," he said.

Angel, a 56-year-old Cuban refugee and a father of eight, recalled waking Friday morning "with a room full of smoke, so I looked out the window and saw the pandemonium — the fire engines, the people screaming for help and the broken glass from windows above me."

After cracking his window for some fresh air, he dampened a towel, covered his nose and peeped through the door's peephole.

"I couldn't see the wall across the hall. Then I prepared for death. I shaved, got dressed, and thought about my family."

San Jacinto Junior High band captain Jack Campbell displays the trophy won by the school's advanced band during the Nov. 15 University Interscholastic League Marching Band Contest in Odessa. The S-J band received the only Class 2-C "First Division" rating, outranking the two other competing schools, Alamo and Goddard. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Jury out on lecithin

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine who is a health nut tells me he read that lecithin tends to decrease the amount of cholesterol in the blood, and he suggests I try it. Is there anything to what he says? — Sam

Dear Sam: Although there have been a number of claims about the value of adding lecithin to the diet, there is no objective evidence that doing so has any beneficial effect. In fact, studies done some time ago indicate that lecithin causes an increase in the rate of absorption of other fats in the gastrointestinal tract. This, in turn, suggests that adding lecithin to the diet would result in a greater absorption of cholesterol, not less.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I'm really very careful about my diet, I drink only in moderation, and I get plenty of exercise. My one vice, if you can call it that, is that I like sugar in my tea or coffee. I've tried artificial sweeteners, but they leave a medicinal taste in my mouth. Yet my wife harps on my use of sugar as if I'm taking risks of all sorts of diseases every time I have a cup of tea or coffee. It's even reached the point that when we visit my mother, she also complains about how much sugar I use. If I'm wrong about the use of sugar in what is an otherwise sound diet, I'd like to be told about it. If my use of sugar does not pose a problem to my health, a word to the wife would be appreciated. — Jerry you mention any other source of sugar, such as cake, cookies or soft drinks. In general, however, I can say there is little to suggest that the use of sugar contributes significantly to cardiovascular diseases, diabetes or, surprisingly, obesity.

Dr. Frank Q. Nuttall, chief of the metabolic-endocrine section of the Veterans Administration in Minneapolis, and a professor at the University of Minnesota Medical School, points out that even though sugar consumption in the United States has either remained the same or increased slightly since 1968, deaths from coronary heart disease have decreased. Similarly, deaths from coronary heart disease are low in Cuba, Venezuela and Colombia, even though sugar consumption in these countries is very high.

As for the development of diabetes, the primary determining factor in the case of adults is obesity, not sugar consumption. In other words, it is the total caloric intake that is important, not the composition of the ingested foods.

While indiscriminate use of sugar should be avoided, and although I counsel my own patients against its excessive consumption, I believe it is misleading to blame sugar for a variety of ills when there is little evidence to support such charges. Probably the most significant adverse effect of sugar consumption is the development of dental caries.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md., 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Season for mail fraud

It is during this holiday season that mail fraud takes its greatest toll.

Each year literally thousands of unsuspecting individuals fall victim to unscrupulous and illegal mail order schemes. They become victims of scurrilous promoters who seek to take advantage of this most joyous holiday period.

The Postal Inspection Service, the Federal Law Enforcement branch of the U.S. Postal Service, says most Americans can avoid becoming victims of mail fraud if they'll simply observe a few fundamental precautions. The tips offered include the following:

- Examine the offer carefully. If it sounds too good to be true, it often is. Beware of exaggerated claims on products or price. If the claims relate to your health or physical appearance, your family doctor may be a good source of advice as to the likely value of the product. Be particularly wary of claims by unknown sellers that they have achieved a "scientific discovery" that somehow eluded the big companies or established professionals. Read advertising claims for what they actually say rather than what you might hope they offer.
- Do not rely solely on a picture of the item. Note the description, size, weight, color and contents. Be sure to completely describe the article or service you are purchasing in the order.
- Give explicit instructions.

- When ordering holiday gifts by mail be sure to do so well in advance to avoid heavy seasonal mail volume. If the company offers such a service, be sure to specify whether or not the gift should be sent directly to the recipient. Clearly indicate recipient's name and address and how the gift card should be signed.
- Look for a company policy on returns. If the policy is not stated, ask for it.
- If a substitute is acceptable, indicate it.
- Be sure to enclose shipping, handling or tax charges with the order.
- Do not send cash with the order. Pay only by check, money order or, if acceptable, credit card.
- Keep a record of the order, including the name and address of the company with which you are dealing.
- If there are any doubts about a company, check it before placing an order.

This holiday season is a wonderful time of the year. Don't spoil your holiday by becoming a victim of mail fraud. Use care in your ordering and know the reputation of the companies with which you are dealing.

Of course, that concern can be eliminated by, instead of shopping via the mail and dealing with firms with which you have no experience, doing so in person with Midland's many reliable merchants.

Capital's 'walking wounded' replaced by Republicans

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — You see them all over Washington these days. Bright young men and women in their best clothes, carrying their resumes in their briefcases, going from one private office to another hoping to land a job.

They are the walking wounded of the Carter defeat, which not only brought down a president but a Democratic Senate. There are thousands of them, hired without the protection of the Civil Service and now bright Republicans are going to get their jobs. Some of the wounded are qualified for the private sector and others, unfortunately, are not.

"Mr. Walcott, I've been reading your resume. But I'm not too clear on exactly what you did for the government."

"I was in planning and statistics and dealt mostly with credibility discrepancies and shortfalls in the oversight department."

"I see. Could you be a little more specific?"

"My department made reports and studies involving budgetary problems that were outside long-term outlay ratios. We would assess the impact of these problems and then make recommendations on whether to pass them up the line to the seventh floor or send them back to the third floor for further clarification."

"Then your office was above the third floor?"

"Yes, sir, I was on the fifth floor with windows overlooking the Washington Monument. The people on the third floor reported to me and I reported to my superior who reported to the people on the seventh floor."

"That's very interesting. Could you tell me exactly what your day was like?"

"The first thing we did in the morning was to have a meeting on the fifth floor to discuss discretionary input policy. Then we broke up, and I went to my office and wrote a memorandum concerning the meeting, which I classified and then submitted to all those concerned, keeping a copy for myself just in case someone called me on it at a later date."

"Could you give me a more specific example of exactly the services you rendered?"

"Of course. Let's say that at the meeting we discussed a restructuring of the infrastructure of the department. My superior wanted to know what grievance response mechanisms had to be built into the program for it to succeed, and how we could move the staff around without endangering the efficiency of his department by adopting the reforms. We didn't want to send a rocket up in the building that would crash down on our heads."

"Correct me if I'm wrong, but it seems to me that one of your many functions was to protect your superior's job."

"I never thought of it that way, but now that you mention it I guess that was what I was doing. You have to understand how the department worked. The seventh floor kept sending down memos that they were getting flak from the eighth floor to cut out the fat in the agency. The seventh floor said they had no fat to cut, and it was up to fifth floor to enact a cost-saving program. We passed on their demands to the third floor for suggestions. But the third floor was very uncooperative and kept sending back memos insisting that any major savings in running the department could only be made on the upper floors. Obviously, we had to protect our own turf."

"How did you do this?"

"By increasing the staff on the fifth floor, so that in case we were forced to cut back we would have the same number of people we started with."

"I seem to be very thick, Mr. Walcott, but I'm perplexed as to how your job served the people."

"I don't understand the question."

"What contribution did you make to the taxpayer to justify your salary?"

"I believe that if you read the reports I've written over the past four years you'll see that I earned every nickel I got."

"What happened to those reports?"

"Twenty-six of them got to the seventh floor, and six, I was told, got to the eighth floor. I don't think that's a bad record."

"One more question. Given your background, why do you want to be a steward on the Eastern Airlines shuttle?"

"I've always been good with people."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Public never told of close Soviet sub patrol

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — U.S. intelligence agencies often keep secrets from the American public that are well known to the men in the Kremlin. Sometimes the secrets leak out in a matter of days — and sometimes not for years.

Here's a shocker that the intelligence experts have sat on for five years: In 1975, a Soviet Y-class missile-carrying submarine came within 300 miles of the Carolina coast. Its 16 nuclear missiles could have hit targets 1,500 miles inland — a range that includes our Strategic Air Command headquarters as well as major population centers throughout the eastern half of the country.

It was an unprecedented "patrol" for a Soviet missile sub, apparently intended to test the U.S. response. As the top-secret National Intelligence Daily pointed out in its June 6, 1975, issue, the Y-class Soviet submarine had come 900 miles closer to the East Coast than such subs normally did.

Although intelligence analysts called the mission "unprecedented," and said it represented a "dramatic change" in Soviet patrol patterns, they made no public announcement of the incident. In a later, lengthy analysis, the experts explained the ominous conclusions to be drawn from the provocative patrol:

"Because the warning time for missiles launched from a submarine at such a close-in location would be very short, some U.S. targets — such as strategic bombers — would become quite vulnerable unless relocated farther inland or maintained at a higher state of readiness."

Here are the facts of the June 1975 incident, according to a still secret report: "A Y-class, nuclear-powered ballistic-missile submarine and a V-class, nuclear-powered attack boat made a coordinated patrol about 350 miles off the East Coast of the U.S. — the closest a modern Soviet ballistic-missile submarine had ever been. Y-class submarines normally patrol about 900 to 1,200 miles farther out to sea." The submarines moved down the coast from the Cape Cod area to within 300 miles of North Carolina before pulling back.

The analysts decided that the probable purpose of the close-in patrol was "to provoke a reaction by U.S. anti-submarine forces." Beyond careful monitoring of the Soviet probe, however, there was no U.S. response.

Evidently emboldened by their June mission, the Soviets later sent a V-class attack sub, which is armed with torpedoes, not missiles, to within 120 miles of Cape Hatteras, N.C., where it patrolled for nearly a week. Previously the sub had come no closer than 300 miles off the coast.

The intelligence experts learned some encouraging things about the Soviet Navy's underwater capability during their monitoring of the 10-day June patrol. The Russian sub had "numerous communications failures (and) problems with passive sonars." The missile-carrying sub "emitted occasional noises" that were easily detected by the U.S. watchers.

"The combination of equipment failures and breaches in operational security would seem to call into question Soviet standards of maintenance and training," the analysts concluded. "Assuming the Soviet Navy would send only first-line submarines and crews on such a patrol, the Soviets' standards appear lower than those of first-line U.S. submarines."

In July 1976, the Air Force began beefing up its B-52 patrols over the Atlantic, to keep track of "widening Soviet naval operations." It was announced at the time.

Soviet missile subs still "kind of come and go," a CIA spokesman informed my reporters Dale Van Atta and Dave Carpenter, "for a (U.S.) missile firing they want to monitor or something."

WHITE WAS WILLING: Democratic National Committee Chairman John White has announced his intention to resign sometime soon. Despite rumors to the contrary, he has assured friends privately that there was no pressure on him to step down.

Right after the election debacle, White called on Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., who reportedly told White he'd support him if he wanted to hang onto his job. White told Kennedy he would have been willing to stay on if party leaders couldn't agree on a successor.

All things considered, though, White told Kennedy, he'd rather be back home in Texas. He also attempted to spike rumors that he was planning to run for governor there.

ANOTHER FINE MESS: Armed services personnel and their families can be forgiven if they feel like second-class citizens sometimes. While the federal government spends $35 a day feeding each Cuban refugee troublemaker held in a detention center, and $9 a day for each peaceable Cuban awaiting resettlement, the Pentagon budgets just $3.21 a day to feed each member of the armed forces.

In addition, military commissaries offer fewer savings than they once did to service families, many of whom must resort to food stamps. Things may improve in the new, defense-minded Reagan administration.

WATCH ON WASTE: The American public hasn't exactly clapped the metric system to its bosom with affection. But this citizen apathy has served only to inspire Department of Education bureaucrats to greater publicly funded educational efforts. Recently the department laid out $1.8 million for 49 grants to state and local governments, colleges and non-profit organizations to spread the metric gospel. One $82,000 grant went to a St. Louis "education laboratory" to bring the blessings of metric enlightenment to residents of rural areas by cruising around in mobile vans.

Infanticide of defective babies said to be increasing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — There is shock and outrage here that black Harvard students have received written and phoned threats of a racial nature. I'm not surprised. When Nazis and Ku Kluxers get off in court, as they did in North Carolina, demented racists become emboldened and unload their venom.

Nor am I surprised that infanticide is increasing in otherwise respectable hospitals on Down's Syndrome babies (Mongoloid). The abortion binge created the atmosphere for this development. So, just as the Harvards are now instructed that values must be reaffirmed and racism put down, so all of us must be reminded that the value of human life must also be reaffirmed. Abortion is a bad idea and so is infanticide.

It is estimated that thousands of defective newborn infants are either left to die, or perish because medical treatment is withheld. Dr. C. Everett Koop, a pediatric surgeon at the University of Pennsylvania, says that the British practice of "selecting" which deformed babies live (roughly 25 percent) is growing in the U.S.

An appalling number of American doctors now believe that parents and physicians should have absolute discretion as to whether a newborn baby should live or die, and that state laws should be changed to make such decisions legal. Current law holds that a physician has a legal duty — whatever the parents want — to intervene when a deformed child is born, and provide whatever treatment or surgery is necessary to protect that child's life.

Every state in the republic imposes on parents a legal duty to provide necessary medical treatment for a the child's life. There are also grisly cases where a defective child was treated, only to be physically abused later by parents. In one case a mother's boyfriend beat such a child to death because, he said, he couldn't take her nagging to pay the child's enormous medical bill.

We live in an increasingly "bottom-line" age. A survey of pediatric surgeons showed that 80 percent answered "no" to the question, "Do you believe that the life of each and every newborn infant should be saved if it is within our ability to do so?" The same survey showed that 76 percent would agree with the parents' decision to refuse consent for simple intestinal surgery needed to keep a Down's Syndrome baby alive.

How ironic that in an age of activism in journalism and public affairs, there is almost total passivity to the strong tendency to rid society of the unwanted — a tendency which emerged in Germany before World War II. We need to be reminded that hundreds of thousands of "good" Germans were put to death in state hospitals because they were regarded as "incurables."

Not long ago, I saw a greatly deformed woman, whose head couldn't have been more than 30 inches from the floor of the subway car, smile and say, "No, thank you," to several people who offered her a seat. She seemed cheerful and self-reliant, despite her cruel affliction. Similarly, while the central, pitiful figure in the film, "The Elephant Man," is grotesque (suffering from neurofibromatosis), his human nature is vividly and dramatically portrayed, and we learn something from it. Who are we to say who is to live and

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

Both martial arts actor Bruce Lee and young Caroline Kennedy were born on this day. You will find it particularly appropriate that your birthday coincides with Thanksgiving this year, because today marks the beginning of a new period of prosperity, romantic happiness. No one loves life more than you do, and 1981 will be a year in which you triumph in many different areas. Your forceful, outspoken ways are part of your powerful personal magnetism, and associates now begin to take greater notice of your abilities. Loved ones tend to be bowled over by your enthusiasm, so do pick an equally strong-minded mate.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You now have an opportunity to regain lost ground with loved ones. Forget foolish pride! Romance deepens when domestic atmosphere is tranquil.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): News regarding a friend or relative brings you a feeling of relief. Spend the holiday relaxing at home. Enjoy yourself without over-indulging. Child needs extra attention now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day for anything that requires teamwork. Mate, romantic partner is on your wave length. Your normal routine changes, you have extra time to relax. You find clues to puzzles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You find this a very rewarding holiday. Share your home, hospitality with friends who are alone at this special time. You get what you want by going after it in a subtle way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Forget diet resolutions for today and enjoy a feast with loved ones. Romance is featured for both the young and the young at heart. Count your blessings!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Enjoy this holiday with family, friends. An old flame can be rekindled—if you are willing to strike the first spark. A missing item turns up in an unexpected place.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Others show their trust in you and your ideas. A chance meeting with a former acquaintance could bring back memories of an old love. An air of vulnerability adds to your charm today.

FISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A gift adds a special glow to your holiday. Words can mean even more than deeds, however, when they come from the heart. Attend to domestic chores then enjoy the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Sharing the day with loved ones make this a memorable holiday. Welcome a newcomer into the family fold. You have a wonderful time with someone you seldom see.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Wear your heart on your sleeve and do whatever you can to show relatives more affection. Cooperation from family members will make it easier for you to make long-range plans.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Unwind with loved ones today. Share cooking chores, entertainment costs during the coming weekend. Short conversation with friend intrigues you!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A telephone call from far away will make this joyous day even brighter. You feel most at peace in the company of old friends. The evening could feature a truly reunion.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A gift adds a special glow to your holiday. Words can mean even more than deeds, however, when they come from the heart. Attend to domestic chores then enjoy the evening.

"Two-fers" is the term used in the trade for two-for-the-price-of-one tickets to Broadway shows. You obtain the same sort of bargain from a loser-on-loser play at the bridge table.

North's club cue-bid promised nothing about the club suit—it just created a forcing-to-game auction. South simply rebid his spades to allow his partner to clarify his holding, then cue-bid twice in an attempt to reach a grand slam should his partner have the right hand. When he could not establish that his partner held second-round club control, South wisely signed off in six spades.

West led the king of clubs, and the sight of three low clubs in dummy was a great disappointment to declarer. It seemed that there was no way to avoid losing two club tricks.

One legitimate line of play was to hope that West held the king of diamonds and four hearts, in which case, he could be squeezed. But that was unlikely in view of the bidding. Since West surely held at least five clubs for his overall, a much sounder plan was to project the play on the basis that West held no more than three hearts.

Declarer won the ace of clubs and drew trumps in two rounds. He cashed the ace of diamonds, crossed to the ace of hearts and ruffed a diamond. The king and queen of hearts were cashed, declarer sluffing a club, and dummy's last heart was led. When East produced a fourth heart, the contract was a certainty.

Instead of ruffing, declarer sluffed a club from his hand. East was down to nothing but diamonds, and his forced return allowed declarer to discard his remaining club while ruffing in dummy. So a heart was the only trick declarer lost.

Declarer's generous act in conceding a trick in a suit where he had no loser came back with interest—because he didn't lose a trick in a suit where he started with two losers!

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!"

The fruitcakes are coming. Midland High drum major Kim Sherman, left, announces the band's annual fruitcake sale to band treasurer Sherry Roberts. The cakes will be on sale until Dec. 21, priced from $8 to $19. If a band member doesn't knock on your door, call 683-7931 Tuesday and Thursday from 3:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. or Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon to order a fruitcake. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Gays request more protection

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prompted by concerns from homosexuals that violence against them is on the climb, Mayor Dianne Feinstein has pledged more police patrols in gay neighborhoods and increased efforts to prosecute violent youths as adults.

The mayor made the pledges Tuesday before the gay San Francisco Tavern Guild, which called for a police war against "packs of young men" who attack homosexuals.

Ms. Feinstein presented a barrage of statistics indicating that street violence was not directed specifically against homosexuals. But she abandoned a prepared text that said "violence is blind" after guild President Wayne Friday decried attacks on homosexuals.

"I am not interested in criticizing the mayor or her police department," Friday said in his introduction of Ms. Feinstein.

"But I will take the liberty of informing her that our community has just about had all that we can take of the continued, increased violence that is being directed against us by homophobic packs of young men who have made 'fag bashing' a nightly sport in this city."

He asked police to "declare war on those who think that it is the thing to do, to kick the hell out of another, gay man."

Ms. Feinstein said violent crime was a problem confronting all citizens, with rapes up 20 percent, assaults up 17 percent and robberies up 16 percent from a year ago.

Aggravated assaults are occurring at last year's rate in the homosexual-dominated Polk Street area, are up 8 percent in the Mission District and are up 10 percent in the Delores Park area, where two men were viciously beaten three weeks ago, Ms. Feinstein said.

She said she met personally with the two men assaulted in Delores Park and both indicated the attacks had nothing to do with their sexual orientation.

She added, however, that patrols along Polk Street, in the Mission District and at the park were being stepped up, and she promised more patrols when the Police Department completes training of new recruits.

An estimated one out of every six San Francisco residents is homosexual.

The meeting came just two days before an anti-violence march planned to commemorate the killings of Supervisor Harvey Milk, an avowed homosexual, and Mayor George Moscone two years ago.

The group sponsoring the march, the Harvey Milk Gay Democratic Club, said Tuesday night the Police Department had denied a permit for the march.

The reason given, said group vice president Gwenn Craig, was that extra police personnel would not be available on Thursday, which is Thanksgiving.

Ms. Craig said the marchers would walk on the sidewalk instead of on the streets, which she said would not violate parade regulations.

Water bubbles, belches in collapsed salt mine

JEFFERSON ISLAND, La. (AP) — Scientists keeping watch on the stability of Jefferson Island are trying to figure out how a flooded salt mine got so muddy — and why the water's bubbling and belching underground.

The Diamond Crystal Salt Co. salt mine filled with barges, oil drilling equipment and the waters of Lake Peigneur last week when an oil rig punctured an abandoned shaft and a yawning crater opened.

The 1½-square-mile lake refilled with seawater that poured into it from the Gulf of Mexico, 12 miles away, through the Delcambre Canal.

Scientists have been monitoring the salt dome that supports this island for any signs of collapse. They got a shock Tuesday when they tried to learn how much saltier the water had become since it began eating away at walls and pillars in the mine's huge tunnels.

"We sent a bucket down the main shaft to pick up some water to check the salinity and came up with mud, astounding everybody," said Frank O'Gorman of the U.S. Mine Safety and Health Administration.

He said a television camera equipped with flood lights was lowered down the shaft for a look around.

"It was the most astonishing thing, this big shaft filled with muddy water, bubbling all over the place," O'Gorman said. "God knows what is causing the turbulence in the water, we don't."

Lake Peigneur poured into the mine after a Texaco Inc. rig punctured a mine shaft at 1,300 feet. The hole rapidly grew into a crater that carried away the $5 million rig, a tugboat, several barges and slabs of lake bank.

No one was hurt. Jefferson Island is the top of an underground mountain of pure salt.

Officials fear water from the lake could eat away at the dome's supporting pillars, causing a collapse of the island. That could cause a drastic change in the salinity of the marsh water and damage it as a nursery for shrimp and other sea creatures.

The mine, considered a total loss, was a four-level maze going down to 1,800 feet. Tunnels were often wider than four-lane highways, with ceilings 80 feet high. Trucks and bulldozers operated in them.

Texaco was granted authority to stretch an anti-pollution boom across part of the lake in case oil should start oozing up the hole. None has so far.

DEAR ABBY

No sweet sorrow at parting

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: About the question, "Who else is coming to the party?" You say it's bad manners to ask. I say, sometimes it's good to know.
I recently broke up with John, the man I had lived with for two years. It was a very unpleasant parting with much bitterness on both sides. All our friends were aware of it.
A couple with whom John and I had been very friendly invited me to a party and told me to bring a date. The man I brought was an old friend of whom John had always been insanely jealous.
When we arrived at the party I was shocked to see John there. I had all I could do to keep John and my date from each other's throats. Everyone there knew what was going on. It was a miserable experience.
Afterward I asked this couple why they had invited John and me to the same party, and they said, "You are both our friends, and we didn't want to have to choose between you."
They should have told me that they had invited John, so I could decline. Now I'm sorry I didn't ask, "Who else is coming?"
Do you still think that would have been rude? — SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR SAN FRANCISCO: No. In your case, it would have been shrewd.
DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the letter from the policeman who resented mothers who threaten their kids by telling them that if they don't behave, a policeman will lock them up in jail.
I'm a nurse, and I resent parents telling kids who are in the hospital, "If you aren't good, I'm going to get the nurse and she'll give you a shot!" Then they wonder why kids are afraid of doctors and nurses.
My sister is a school teacher, and she has told me that parents threaten their children with "the teacher." Then they wonder why kids hate school. — JOY IN TULLAHOMA, TENN.
DEAR JOY: And in some quarters the surest way to scare a kid is to say, "I'm going to tell your mother." (And Mamma says, "Just wait until your father comes home!")
DEAR ABBY: It is appalling to think that people will stoop to sneaky, devious methods to get rid of their company. Whatever happened to honesty? What's wrong with saying,

"Well, folks, I've enjoyed your company and we've had a pleasant evening, but it's getting toward my bedtime and it's time to say good night."
Then see them to the door cheerfully and go to bed without any feeling of guilt. A lie is still a lie. — HATES A LIAR
DEAR HATES: Nothing is "wrong" with simply announcing the party is over and it's time to go home. But no matter how you phrase it, it's still sending the company home, and that takes courage.
DEAR ABBY: This is for SENSITIVE, who was embarrassed and annoyed because someone he called "English Teacher" insisted on correcting his grammar in the presence of others.
To paraphrase Lord Chesterfield's advice to his son: Wear your education like your watch. For use, and not for show.—D.H.R. IN PA.

LIVING TODAY

Avoid holiday food spoilage

By SHARON A. HILLIS
County Extension Agent

Guess who's not coming to Thanksgiving dinner. The "Food Spoilers." You can be sure the "Food Spoilers" won't show up if you plan carefully. Decide how many people you can safely serve, and how much time it will take to prepare the food. Don't try to feed more people than you can handle. Consider the size and quantity of the cooking equipment needed, as well as the supply of eating utensils and dishes. Figure out how much refrigerator space you'll need to store foods. Plan for this large gathering to ensure a safe, fun and appetizing meal for the guests. Then follow the "Battle Plan on How to Fight the Food Spoilers" (it appears below.) That will ensure you a Thanksgiving dinner without the notorious "Food Spoilers."

HOW TO FIGHT THE FOOD SPOILERS

When shopping for food, pick up meat, poultry and dairy items last; get them home and into the refrigerator or freezer promptly.
Never buy food in leaking, bulging, or severely dented cans, cracked jars, or jars with loose or bulging lids.
Maintain refrigerator temperature at 35 to 40 degrees F. (2 to 4 degree C) and freezer at 0 degrees F. (-18 degree C) or lower. Check frequently to be sure.

Thaw meat and poultry in the refrigerator, or for faster results, in a watertight package under cold water.
After handling raw meat or poultry, wash hands before touching other foods or food surfaces.
Wash utensils, containers and work surfaces before and after they come into contact with raw meat or poultry.
Always keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold until served.
Refrigerate leftovers promptly.
Have a safe, "thankful" dinner, with family and friends—in a "Thanksgiving" spirit and atmosphere filled with sharing creative-ness, especially for...living today.

Pecan Queen to be named Dec. 2

Twenty-one women will vie for the title of Midland County Pecan Queen during the final festivities of the fourth annual Midland County Pecan Harvest Festival Tuesday at Midland Center.
This is the first year the festival will include the crowning of a queen. The queen will represent Midland County in the state pecan queen contest in July. Linda Bond of Midland will be emcee for the program, which starts at 8 p.m., and the winner will receive a $500 scholarship.
Entrants, all from Midland County, are Lauri Green, Carol Kilborn, Sara Stone, Janet Stone, Pam Taylor, Charlotte Gatlin, Mabelle Logston, Geri Moore, Shana Briggs, Kelli Badgett, Terri Glover, Risa Reddell, Stephanie Burchett, Katie Sager, Stephanie Ogelsby, Marcia Wohl, Tammy Gardner, Tami Locklar and Gayle Griggs.

Midland County Pecan Growers Association is sponsoring the festival and there will be a food fair and prizes will be given for the best pecan recipes. Last year there were 180 entries and, according to R.B. Henderson, publicity chairman for the group, that many entries are expected this year.

The women will be judged on their beauty, talent and knowledge of pecans. They have been given pecan background information sheets to study prior to the contest.

The association has 133 members and their purpose is to help each other grow better pecans by bringing in knowledgeable people on growing pecans.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Recycling greeting cards

DEAR HELOISE:
Recycle? I love the word!
When I have beautiful, heavy greeting cards, I tear off the fronts which are suitable, trim them up, check to be sure they meet postal requirements (legal size limit, 4 1/4 x 6 inches) and rule the backs for address and message.
With a few 10-cent stamps in the house, I have an assortment of pretty cards for sending short messages to family and friends. — Reader

Works! And think of the savings involved.
Thanks for a nifty, timely tip. — Hugs, Heloise your letter personally but she will share the very best tips with her readers.

SOAP SAVER

Dear Heloise: To save soap, when rolling a bar between your hands when washing them, train yourself to roll it end-over-end instead of side-to-side.
The bar does not become so long and skinny, therefore doesn't break as easily when it becomes small. — Happy Hannah

SEWING TIP

Dear Heloise: I make sure my dressmaker shears are not mistaken for other scissors by fastening them to my sewing machine with a small dog leash.
At least now family members can't use the excuse that they didn't know differently. — Grace Johnson

It may take awhile to change to rolling the soap end-over-end, but I think you can teach an old dog a new roll. — Heloise

TEA FLAVOR

Dear Heloise: I'd like to pass on an idea for sweetening tea, especially herbal, that is quite versatile and less messy to use than sugar.
I put small, round, flavored candies (the ones with holes in the center) in my tea to sweeten it and give it extra zip.
There are many flavors to blend with the different teas, so you can pick and choose to your heart's content. — Helen

JUST FOR MOM

Dear Heloise: After washing your baby's hair, use a blow dryer (on low speed, warm setting) to dry the hair.
After using the dryer for a few times, the baby will get used to it and won't mind.
This is especially good in winter — helps keep the baby from having a cold head. — Rita Pierce

Mom, be a love and send your favorite baby-care hint to Heloise care of this newspaper. She can't answer

Share traditions

Once again it's time to start thinking about the holidays. And we'd like our readers to share their favorite holiday traditions with us.
We're interested in your favorite recipes, customs, family games, home decorating crafts and ideas for publication throughout the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday season.
It means a lot to us each year to see what things mean a lot to you and your family at Hanukkah, Christmas and New Year's. We want to begin a tradition.
So please take time in between your planning for the holidays and send some of the recipes or customs that make the holidays special at your house. Send your traditions on a single piece of paper if possible, typewritten preferably. Include your name and a phone number where you can be reached during the day. Please don't send anything you want back. We cannot return pictures, models or family heirlooms.
Write Holiday Traditions, c/o Lifestyle Department, The Midland Reporter-Telegram, P.O. Box 1650, Midland, TX 79702.

Coffee table clutter tells lot about family's personality

What's on your coffee table? Art books, games, artificial flowers dust?
A recent survey by Lakeside Games shows that Americans have all the above and lots more, on their coffee tables. The average table has three to five objects, with ash trays, candy dishes, plants, magazines and newspaper the most common.
The survey also disclosed the presence of such unusual object as a 45-pound (live) orange-and-white cat named Marmalade, a 19-month-old child, sailing trophies and Chinese acrobat toys. All of the above can tell more about your personality than you might imagine.
Rosalyn S. Eig, a New York City psychologist and consultant, was asked to evaluate the results of the survey, which had been conducted by a national corporation with offices in eight U.S. cities. Those responding included blue-and-white-collar workers and middle- and upper-level management in age from 18 to 64 with salaries from $8,000 to $80,000.
"Your home is an expression of yourself," says Eig. "It reflects your feelings about yourself, your perception of your place in society, a sense of harmony. For example, candy and nut dishes (filled, of course), say 'Welcome to my home. Come and eat.' This offering of food indicates a generous, hospitable nature."
Messy coffee tables, with dust, scratches, cold cream jars and hair clips, may reveal a lack of regard for objects and oneself and possibly for other people as well. When carried to extremes, it may even indicate a desire to gain attention through negative means.

A bare coffee table, on the other hand, doesn't necessarily mean you're extremely neat, Eig concludes. If you have a toddler or a rapidly-growing golden retriever puppy, your table may not be bare out of choice.

There has been a quiet but highly significant revolution taking place in the real estate market in recent years. It will generate a major impact on the market during the 1980s.
It involves women, money and real estate — and a new attitude or approach to gaining financial independence.
Women are buying more homes and investment properties on their own. And, perhaps even more significantly, they are standing on their own credit to arrange needed financing.

The key turnaround point was when the Equal Credit Opportunity Act and the amendment of the Fair Housing Act to prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex was passed five years ago.
This simple and obviously needed legislation sparked a new era of women's involvement in real estate. For the first time, married women were allowed to build a credit history in their own name.
This opened new doors to real estate financing and ownership for women. Since then, they have increasingly been buying condominiums, conventional homes and investment properties — strictly on their own.
Single women are finding a new and viable means of attaining financial independence through carefully selected real estate investments.

What type of women are investing in real estate? A recent survey by "The Real Estate Investment Journal" produced the following profile:
She may be a recent widow or divorced or married with grown-and-gone children or possibly single with a career. She may also be a housewife or an executive or a retiree or just out of college.
Most likely, she has her savings or an inheritance or a property settlement or current income to invest — or a combination of assets.
Another interesting observation: She is often more careful and astute in selecting property investments than men. She usually insists on knowing all factors about an investment before signing on the dotted line.

Many married women are investing the income they personally produce in the job market. And with 51.9 percent of all married women now working outside the home, that adds up to a major impact on real estate sales.
"Until recently, women mortgage loan borrowers were so rare that federal statistics ignored the category altogether," she said. "We would joke that the only way a woman could have property in her name was through widowhood, spinsterhood or di-voiced."

That's an essential ingredient of any successful investment program.

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE

Abuse of prescription drugs is quite difficult to estimate

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

Prescription drugs may be obtained legally from a physician or illegally from "street sources." The abuse of prescription drugs is difficult to estimate because literally millions of psychoactive pills, tablets and capsules are abused, but there is increasing evidence that a large number of them are prescribed for persons who abuse them.

Commonly abused prescription drugs include Valium, Librium, Equanil, Miltown, Serax and Transene, all of which are used to treat milder forms of anxiety. Sleeping medications subject to abuse include the barbiturates and the non-barbiturates of which there are many. There is a very fine line between the therapeutic use of such drugs and their abuse. A busy physician may acquiesce to a demanding patient's complaints and demands for relief from anxiety, sleeplessness or pain. A thorough inquiry into a patient's history and relevant symptoms may not be made. A course of treatment which was entered into as "temporary" to help a patient get through a crisis may become "permanent," as the patient comes more and more to depend on chemicals to cope with life's stress.

These commonly abused prescription drugs are all depressants. This means that they slow down the activity level of the body and the nervous system. The symptoms of abuse or addiction are quite similar to the symptoms of alcohol intoxication or addiction, since alcohol is also a depressant. To multiply the danger, many abusers of alcohol also abuse these prescription drugs and vice versa. When this multiple abuse occurs, each drug taken may multiply the effect of the other drug in the body. The total effect of two abused drugs, such as Valium and alcohol, may exceed the sum of the effects of the drugs. This drug interaction may result in an accidental coma or even death.

The intoxicating effects of these prescription drugs also are similar to those of alcohol. These may include lack of coordination in movement, slurred speech, sluggish performance, impaired judgment, faulty perception and a lessening of a person's normal inhibitions.

There are certain personality characteristics that many abusers of prescription drugs share. Many seem unable to tolerate the ordinary stress of life. When faced with problems, they often tend to blame others or the "situation" rather than take personal responsibility. When searching for solutions to their problems, they tend as well to look to others or the "situation." A quick solution involving little personal effort is often appealing. They are quick to turn to medicine for the solution. They regard tranquilizing or sedative medication as a cure for what troubles them. There is increasing evidence that instead of curing anxiety or sleeplessness, these symptoms rebound with even greater intensity when the medications are withdrawn. This phenomenon, of course, often leads to continued use beyond what was originally planned. With continuing use comes the danger of psychological dependence, tolerance to the drugs and addiction.

Treatment of persons addicted to drugs such as barbiturates or tranquilizers often requires a period of inpatient care. If the withdrawal from such drugs is not medically supervised and if the addiction is severe, sudden withdrawal may lead to convulsions or death. Withdrawal symptoms may also include insomnia, tremor, agitation, hallucinations, delusions and fearfulness.

Following a medically supervised withdrawal, successful treatment involves removing the person's supply of prescribed drugs. This may require that an interested family member call every single physician and pharmacy that the patient has been known to use to alert them to the drug abuse problem.

Successful treatment also involves counseling, psychotherapy, vocational training (when indicated), family support and peer group support. As in other addictions, the patient's sincere desire to remain drug-free is the most important single factor.

'Dallas' highest-rated TV show in history

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The two bullets pumped into J.R. Ewing helped CBS into the lead of the prime-time ratings race — and the unmaking of J.R.'s assailant went down in the record books as the most-watched show in TV history, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co.

Three-quarters of all the television sets in use last Friday night were tuned in to the CBS hit "Dallas" to find out that J.R.'s sister-in-law, Kristin Shepard, was his would-be killer. The latest Nielsen ratings indicated the episode beat the final episode of "Roots," previously the highest-rated show of all time, as well as the denouement of the "Fugitive" and all the Super Bowl games. CBS had six shows in the top 10 for the week ending Nov. 23, according to the Nielsen survey. The ratings survey said that 41,467,400 homes were tuned in to see the long-awaited solution to the shooting. The "Who Shot J.R.?" episode received a rating of 53.3 and a share of 76 in the ratings.

Interest in the show had been building since last spring, when J.R. Ewing, played by Larry Hagman, was shot in the season's final episode. The show set off an international guessing game. The final episode of the ABC mini-series "Roots" previously was the highest-rated show of all time, with a rating of 51.1

and a share of 71. It was telecast Jan. 30, 1977.

The highest-rated episode of any regular series was the last original episode of ABC's "The Fugitive," in which Dr. Richard Kimble finally caught up with the one-armed man who had killed his wife.

Prince criticizes media

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, criticized the news media today for "sensationalism" and dishonest reporting.

"Honesty and integrity are vital factors (in reporting) and often get submerged in the general rush for sensationalism," Charles told about 1,000 students and faculty of the Indian Institute of technology here.

The prince's speech followed a statement by a Buckingham Palace spokesman in London that Britain's Royal Family was "very fed up" about inaccurate reports about Charles and other royal members.

The British press has run scores of speculative reports this month that 32-year-old Charles, often described as the world's most eligible bachelor, plans to marry lady Diana Spencer, 19. Recently the Palace denounced an article in the Sunday Mirror newspaper that the pair had a secret rendezvous on the royal train in a secluded siding in Wiltshire county on Nov. 6-7.

"The media has a large responsibility for the news it presents," Charles declared to an applauding audience. "The important thing is for truth to be actually portrayed."

"Having lived with the press for 32 years, I have a vague idea of what the media is all about... There is not nearly enough good news. What people tend to concentrate on is the bad."

The prince arrived here two days ago for a three-week visit to India and the neighboring kingdom of Nepal.

During his tour of the institute, which receives British aid, he stopped frequently to shake hands with crowds of cheering students.

In one encounter, Charles was offered a yellow rose by a male student.

A truck carrying 8,600 gallons of gasoline erupted in flames after a collision with a freight train in Kenner, La., near New Orleans, setting off a series of fires in the area and leaving seven dead. Six died in a barroom, and an infant died in the car, in top photo, as it stopped at the crossing. (AP Laserphoto)

Seven killed as tank truck, train collide

KENNER, La. (AP) — A gasoline trucker who allegedly tried to beat a freight train to a railroad crossing has been charged with negligent homicide after a collision and blast killed seven people, torched a neighborhood bar and plunged parts of Kenner into darkness.

Flames shot 100 feet into the air after the fiery truck-train collision and hundreds of people were forced to flee their homes Tuesday night in this New Orleans suburb.

The truck driver, identified by police as Glendon R. Russey, 36, of Baton Rouge, a driver for Mobil Corp., was booked on seven counts of negligent homicide.

Kenner's chief administrative officer said the driver passed a stopped car and a barricade at the crossing and drove onto the track, where the tanker, loaded with 8,600 gallons of gasoline, collided with an Illinois Central train.

Administrative Officer Jimmy Warren said interviews with several witnesses indicated the truck "attempted to out-run the train to the crossing."

"There was a collision. The truck exploded and broke in half. Half of the truck fell on a car behind it and half of it on a barroom," Warren said.

Warren said six of the victims were in the bar, Buck's and Chuck's, a popular after-work watering hole. The bar was leveled by a fire sparked by explosions which followed the collision.

"Everyone ran to the door and the fire shot up all around us," said Charles Albrecht, 50, who was playing pool at the bar, which is 20 to 30 yards from the railroad tracks. He escaped out a back door.

The seventh victim was identified as 6-month old Heidi McGill, who was in the car the truck allegedly passed, officials said.

State trooper Wallace Gettys said the child's mother, Alice McGill, was pulled from the wreckage by the truck driver, who jumped from his truck with his clothes aflame.

Neither adult was hurt seriously.

The other victims were not identified immediately.

The blasts and fires knocked out power lines and plunged the area into darkness. Hours later, firemen were still toiling to replace utility poles while electrical lines crackled overhead.

Iran claims largest air attack of war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran claimed today its fighter-bombers launched the biggest air attack of the war, destroying two pumping stations and setting nine storage tanks ablaze in the Iraqi oil center of Kirkuk 150 miles north of Baghdad.

Iraq's military command confirmed that Kirkuk was raided and said three Iranian jets were shot down. Baghdad did not mention damage to oil facilities, however, and reported only that nine Iraqis died and 38 were wounded by Iranian air raids north of Kirkuk.

In Beirut, the speaker of Iran's Parliament said recent air attacks on the Kuwaiti border were an Iranian warning to oil-rich Arab nations against providing supplies to Iraq.

The Iranian communique described the Kirkuk attack as the heaviest air raid mounted by the Iranian air force since the Persian Gulf war began on Sept. 22. Tehran Radio reported the blazing Iraqi oil tanks contained jet aircraft fuel and said the air attack also damaged pipeline facilities and an Iraqi air base south of Kirkuk.

Last week there were reports that Iraq had resumed pumping crude oil from Kirkuk fields to a Mediterranean terminal in neighboring Turkey.

Hanging clothes cause fire

Clothes hanging in the bathroom near a heater caused a Tuesday night house fire that did medium damage to the bathroom.

According to the Fire Department, firemen were sent to 1613 E. Maple Ave. at 7:37 p.m. However, the fire was out when they arrived. Reports said clothes and curtains near the heater had caught fire. The house is owned and occupied by Roy L. Robinson.

About an hour later, firemen were called to another house fire — this one at 3509 W. Wadley Ave. The fire, which was smoldering when firefighters arrived, was caused by an electrical short in the dishwasher controls. The fire caused damage only to the dishwasher. Bill Dougherty is owner and occupant of the house.

Emergency medical technicians were called to three accidents with injuries. In addition, the ambulance made six medical runs. Nine people were transported by CFD ambulance.

Big Spring man found guilty

BIG SPRING — Abe Gonzales, 35, of Big Spring was found guilty of aggravated assault Tuesday evening by a jury here. Punishment was to be decided today.

Gonzales was charged with murder in the Feb. 15 shooting of Ronald Dean Jeter, 36, also of Big Spring. Witnesses reported, a police department official said, that Jeter and Gonzales were involved in an argument at what was then B.J.'s Country Lounge Inn on Highway 350 outside of Big Spring.

The official said witnesses at the scene reported that Gonzales went outside, got a sawed-off shotgun, came back inside and shot Jeter. Gonzales was then hit over the head with several cue sticks and the gun taken away from him.

Leonard regains crown again

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard, an artist in the sometimes brutal business of boxing, is World Boxing Council welterweight champion again, wrestling the crown from Roberto Duran who quit the fight and boxing in the middle of a remarkable rematch.

"I'm tired of fighting," said the man whose fast, powerful style earned him the nickname Hands of Stone and the admiration of his native Panama and of people throughout Latin America.

THE PROUD DURAN walked into retirement a ring legend. Frustrated from chasing Leonard and complaining of stomach cramps and weakness in his arms, he quit unexpectedly with 16 seconds left in the 8th round. He waved Leonard away as the boxing technician advanced on him.

The judges had Duran slightly behind on points when he turned his back on the career so uniquely suited to the man.

"I was surprised," said Leonard. "I don't know why he quit. He just stopped throwing punches and walked away. I took full advantage."

At first, both Leonard and referee Octavio Meyran misunderstood Duran's action. It looked as if the champ was showing contempt for Leonard, saying to his opponent, "No, you can't hurt me."

The referee waved the fight on and Sugar Ray crashed a right to Duran's midsection. Again the champ walked away, shaking his head from side to side and waving Leonard off. It was over and a stunned crowd saw the green title belt taken away from the man who was many things, but never before a quitter.

"At the end of the fifth round, I got cramps in my stomach and it kept getting worse and worse," Duran said later. "I felt weaker and weaker in my body and arms."

THEN CAME the shocker. "I am retiring from boxing right now," he said. "There will be no more fights. I'm tired of fighting."

And so one of the great careers in the ring ended with a suddenness that even his seconds failed to completely comprehend.

"I was shocked," said cut man Freddie Brown. "There was no indication he was in pain or getting weak."

"I've been with him too long not to believe there was some legitimate reason for it," said trainer Ray Arcel.

Leonard was ahead on the cards of all three judges, winning four of the seven rounds. But it was by no means a one-sided fight and that's why its sudden ending raised some eyebrows.

Officials of the Louisiana State Athletic Commission said Duran's $8 million purse would be withheld pending a medical examination of the Panamanian.

"I've never seen anything like that before," said Emile Bruneau, chairman of the commission. "The trainers don't even know what happened."

Jerry White, a member of the commission, said, "We have to give some explanation. Some people paid $1,000 to watch this and they don't know what happened."

WHAT THE SUPERDOME crowd of about 30,000 fans saw was a lesson in ring artistry administered by Leonard straight out of the boxing textbook.

"The name of the game this time was boxing and scientific techniques," said Leonard, whose dancing and darting jabs drove Duran to distraction.

"This time, I boxed," said Sugar Ray, who tried to slug it out with Duran in their first meeting and lost the WBC title to his opponent June 20 in Montreal. "I'm versatile. He couldn't change tactics. I could."

Leonard set the tone for the fight in the first two rounds. He came out jabbing, sticking Duran with lefts and scoring with effective counter punches every time the champion attacked.

Duran, whose swarming style has always made him a crowd favorite, kept stalking Leonard and paying the price as Sugar Ray repeatedly tagged him coming in.

"When I walked in the ring, I knew I had Duran," Leonard said. "I was confident."

IN ROUND THREE, Duran had Leonard cornered on the ropes and loaded up a right. But before he could deliver it, Sugar Ray had danced away. And as he did, Leonard mugged at the champion, taunting him at a moment which must have been terribly frustrating for the champion.

In the fourth and fifth rounds, both men went to the canvas ever so briefly, neither on a knockdown. Duran slipped to his knees as he rushed at Leonard in the fourth. In the fifth, he pushed Leonard down in the challenger's corner. Throughout both rounds, the pattern of the fight continued — Duran stalking and Leonard slipping punches and scoring with counter attacks.

It was about that time that Duran began feeling the stomach cramps. Leonard knew why.

"If someone hit your body as hard as I hit his," Sugar Ray said, "you'd have cramps, too."

Leonard seemed to regain control of the tempo in the sixth round, stinging Duran with a series of lefts. Then, in the seventh, the challenger did the unthinkable. He taunted Duran, mocked the macho champion and dared him to do something about it.

IT STARTED with a swivel of his shoulders. Then his hips followed and soon, Sugar Ray went into a Muhammad Ali shuffle, almost daring Duran to hit him. Duran laughed, but Leonard knew that behind the smile, the champion was in trouble.

Next Leonard mugged at Duran, mocking him. Then he went into an exaggerated windmill windup with his right hand and tagged the champion with a left. It was the kind of trick kids pull in a schoolyard, not in a championship fight. Still, it worked, baffling Duran and frustrating the champion.

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt easy winner

Schmidt named National League MVP winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Schmidt, power-hitting third baseman for the world champion Philadelphia Phillies, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player today in a unanimous vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Schmidt collected all 24 first-place votes from a BBWA committee comprised of two writers from each National League city. Gary Carter of the Montreal Expos and Jose Cruz of the Houston Astros finished second and third, respectively, and were the only other players named on all 24 ballots.

Schmidt joined Orlando Cepeda, the winner in 1967 for the St. Louis Cardinals, as the only unanimous NL MVP in history.

Schmidt is the third Philadelphia Phillies player to win the award, and the first in 30 years. Jim Konstanty won in 1950 and Chuck Klein in 1932.

Unlike George Brett, who won the AL MVP award last week primarily on the strength of his remarkable .390 average, Schmidt slugged his way to the NL award.

His average was only .286, but his 48 homers, 121 runs batted in and .624 slugging percentage each led the league. The No. 2 slugger in the NL, Jack Clark of San Francisco, had a slugging average 107 percentage points lower than Schmidt's.

The 48 homers by Schmidt were a major-league record for a third baseman, breaking the previous mark of 47 by Eddie Mathews.

The 31-year-old slugger also was the MVP of the World Series, in which the Phillies beat Kansas City in six games. The regular-season MVP balloting is done before the playoffs.

Schmidt amassed 336 points with his 24 first-place votes, each of which was worth 14 points. A second-place vote was worth nine, third eight, etc.

Carter got 193 points to finish second and Cruz 166 for third.

Schmidt was at his best in the last weeks of the season, when the Phillies were locked in a do-or-die pennant race with Montreal and Pittsburgh.

Schmidt had 13 homers in September and hit one in each of Philadelphia's last four games, including a dramatic game-winning blast in the 11th inning Oct. 4 against the Expos to clinch the division title. From Sept. 1 on, he hit .304, drove in 27 runs and had a .688 slugging percentage.

"This year, we found a way to win at an important time in the season," Schmidt said. "That's so important, more so than great statistics. That's what every team wants to find — a way to win."

"If he isn't a runaway MVP, I've never seen one," said teammate Tim McCarver, a major-leaguer since 1959, before the playoffs. "This was also the year he emerged as a real leader. He was the guy the players looked up to to carry them offensively. And he kept doing it, which just reinforced their confidence and his."

The Phillies defeated Houston in the NL championship playoff despite a poor performance by Schmidt, as he failed to deliver numerous times in the clutch. But he responded in the World Series with a .381 average, two homers, seven RBI and two game-winning hits.

"I was trying too hard," Schmidt said of his hitting against the Astros. "I was carrying too much on my shoulders."

"I really started having success as a hitter just before the All-Star break last year," Schmidt said after the 1980 season. "I moved back off the plate in a series against the Dodgers and tried to hit everything straightaway. I found I was less vulnerable to the pitches that had been getting me out — especially the inside pitches the Dodgers used to bury me with."

"I stand away from the plate and stride into the ball like George Brett and Rod Carew. It's sort of the Charlie Lau approach. A hitter must adopt a particular style and learn everything he can about himself."

Schmidt, a six-time Gold Glove winner at third, including this year, has been recognized for years as a player who consistently hits the ball hard, even when he makes an out.

"He's the only guy I know who gets no cheapies," said teammate Pete Rose. "Greg Luzinski gets them. George Foster gets them, Steve Garvey gets them, and I get them. But not Mike Schmidt. He gets out in front of the ball, he doesn't top it, you can't jam him and he always hits it hard."

Other Bear back honored by AP

DALLAS (AP) — Dennis Gentry is best known as "that other" Baylor running back.

Walter Abercrombie rushed for over 100 yards in seven games this year behind the crisp blocks of Gentry.

But it was Abercrombie blocking and Gentry running that was too much for the Texas Longhorns to handle Saturday in a 16-0 Bear victory.

Gentry dashed 64 and 16 yards for touchdowns and rushed for 130 yards to earn The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week Award.

Gentry, a junior from Lubbock, broke into the starting lineup in the third game of the 1979 season.

Flames capture 5-4 win over Canadiens

By The Associated Press
"I'm an eternal optimist," noted Calgary Flames Coach Al MacNeil. "I think we can win every game."

Unfortunately, for the Flames, they had lost every game in the Montreal Forum since Feb. 13, 1974. They were 2-12-3 at the historic arena while playing out of Atlanta.

They're 1-0 representing Calgary. The Flames, who moved to the Canadian city following last season, edged the Canadiens 5-4 Tuesday night behind a pair of second-period goals by Bob MacMillan and clutch goaltending by young Pat Riggin.

Rookie Doug Wickenheiser and Steve Shutt each scored twice for Montreal, which had an eight-game unbeaten streak snapped.

Elsewhere, the St. Louis Blues topped the Buffalo Sabres 5-2 and the Colorado Rockies nipped the Edmonton Oilers 4-3.

Blues 5, Sabres 2

The best played the worst in the National Basketball Association, with predictable results.

Julius Erving scored 15 of his 31 points in the third quarter as the Philadelphia 76ers pulled away to a 108-92 victory over the Dallas Mavericks Tuesday night. Philadelphia's 20-3 record is the best in the NBA, while the expansion Mavericks are 3-20.

"No game is a tuneup game," he said. "We came to play this game and win."

And Dallas Coach Dick Motta said he had approached the unenviable task of sending his expansion club against powerful Philadelphia with optimism.

"You can't go into a game just hoping for a 10-point loss," said Motta. "Heck, we're in the NBA. If you don't think you can win, if you don't think you belong, then get out."

In other NBA games, the San Diego

Babych, who was returning to the St. Louis lineup from a series of injuries, scored the game-winner just two seconds before a penalty to Buffalo's Mike Ramsey expired at 15:10 of the final period. Babych grabbed the puck at the Sabres blue line and unleashed a 40-footer off the pads of goalie Bob Sauve and into the net.

"I was just trying to put my shot on goal," Babych said. "I was happy to see it go in because I didn't know where it was going."

"My legs were opened about the size of the puck," said Sauve. "I guess he overpowered me. It was just him against me and he won."

Rockies 4, Oilers 3
Mike Gillis set up Walt McKechnie's breakaway tally, then got the game-winner himself for Colorado. At 6:34 of the third period, Gillis stepped in front of an Edmonton clearing pass and punched in his fourth goal of the season.

Edmonton had taken a 3-1 lead before Rene Robert started the Rockies' comeback.

76ers crush Mavericks, 108-92

Clippers beat the Denver Nuggets 108-94 and the Atlanta Hawks edged the Portland Trail Blazers 112-108.

The victory at Dallas was the 10th straight road win for the Sixers, who lead Boston by five games in the Atlantic Division. "We've gotten out of the chute pretty good," said Cunningham, "but we've still got a long way to go."

A basket by Jim Spanarkel, who led Dallas with 20 points, cut the Sixers' lead to 67-61 with 4:32 left in the third quarter. But the 76ers outscored the Mavs 10-2 over the next 1:58, with Erving getting seven of those points, to break the game open.

Clippers 108, Nuggets 94
Reserve guard Freeman Williams scored 28 points, 19 of them in the second quarter, as San Diego beat Denver.

Hawks 112, Blazers 108
John Drew's 34 points helped Atlanta win its third in a row and handed Portland its 10th straight road loss.

Cowboys seeking NFL playoff spot

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are just a victory away from all but clinching their 14th trip to the National Football League playoffs in 15 years.

But Coach Tom Landry says it isn't going to do much good unless the Cowboys play well in their final four games against Seattle, Oakland, Los Angeles and Philadelphia.

"All four games are against excellent teams," said Landry. "Those games will decide what we can do and where we'll be. I don't care to be in the playoffs unless we can be something."

"If we hold our own then we'll have a chance to go to the Super Bowl."

Dallas meets Seattle Thanksgiving day coming off a poor outing against Washington in which the Cowboys struggled to a 14-10 victory.

The Cowboys are 9-3 and a victory over the Seahawks would virtually assure them of one of the two wildcard National Conference playoff berths.

The worst Dallas would finish would be 10-4.

Los Angeles, unless it catches Atlanta in the NFC Central, has the inside track for the other wildcard berth with a current 8-4 record.

Two teams from the NFC who have the best records other than the division champions meet Dec. 28.

"We have only a slim chance of catching Philadelphia now," said Landry. "The Eagles are just too solid on defense to have a breakthrough."

The Eagles are two games ahead of Dallas with four to play.

"I haven't thought too much about the wildcard," said Landry. "Of course, we went to the Super Bowl one year as a wild card."

Landry said the Cowboys were "just about on schedule" with their 9-3 record.

"If you look back to the summer, we were concerned about replacing four defensive backs and the quarterback," said Landry. "We couldn't expect miracles but things have worked out pretty well."

"I'm still not sure what this team is going to do. I've seen 'em play awfully good in every area and I've seen 'em look bad. I'm really looking forward to see how we play the last four games."

Landry said Seattle would provide another stiff test for the Dallas defense.

"We know what Jim Zorn can do at quarterback," said Landry, referring to the Seahawk quarterback who used to be a Cowboy.

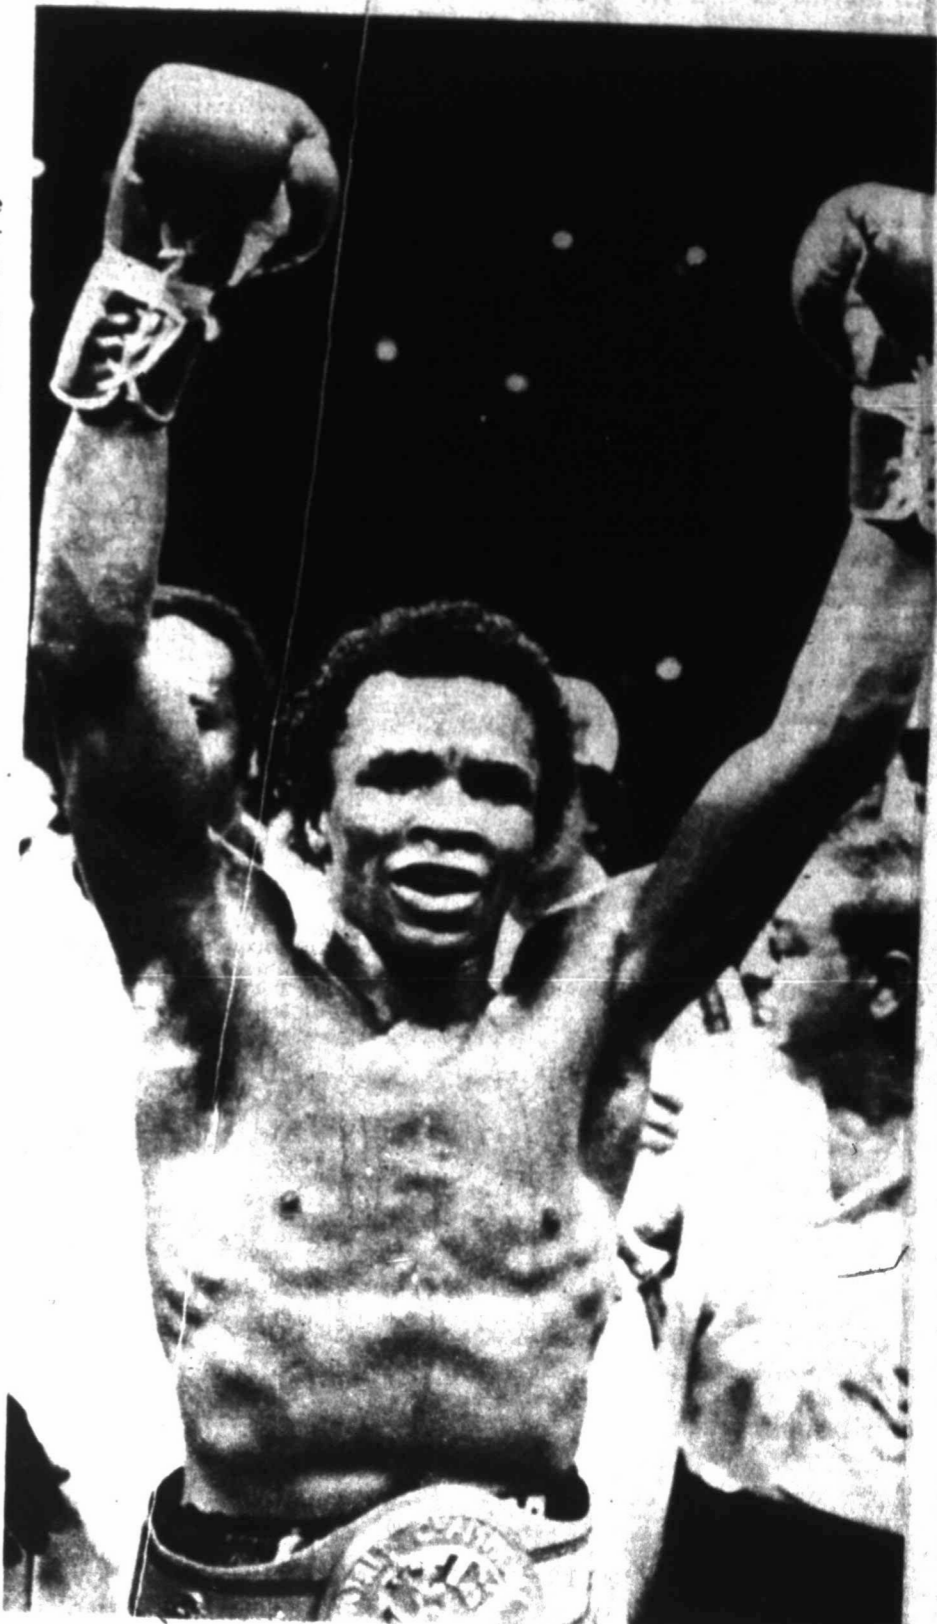

The Seahawks were rated nine-point underdogs for the nationally televised matchup which begins at 3 p.m. CST.

MELBOURNE (AP) — Reigning Wimbledon champion Evonne Goolagong Cawley was upset today by Yugoslavia's Mimi Jausovec, who on Tuesday predicted she would do just that in the third round of the $200,000 Australian Women's Tennis Open.

Jausovec, who said she long has regarded Cawley as an idol, won the match 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

"Being pregnant makes you feel mellow," an expectant Cawley said afterward. "I don't think I'm out

Basketball games snowed out

Basketball games were postponed all over West Texas Tuesday night due to the four-inch snow that fell during the day.

The Midland Bulldogs, with a 3-0 record, saw their game in Fort Stockton called off along with games between Midland Christian and Abilene Christian and the Midland High girls game in Lubbock with Monterey was also called off due to a 10-inch snowfall in the Hub City.

Midland Christian's boys and girls both had games on tap in the Midland Christian School Gym with Abilene Christian in season openers before the snow came.

Basketball play resumes Friday with the Tall City Boys Invitational Tournament at the Chapparral Center on the Midland College campus with Midland and Midland Lee joining El Paso Burges, Irvin, Eastwood, Bel Air, Amarillo Tascosa and Odessa Ector in the two-day meet.

McCormack friends gather to bid last farewell

BOSTON (AP) — John W. McCormack, the powerful House speaker who helped guide the social legislation of the 1960s through Congress, was honored by more than 700 people at a funeral Mass in the neighborhood where he was born.

A generation of Massachusetts politicians owe some part of their success to the blunt Boston Irishman, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., said in a eulogy Tuesday.

"He counseled us, He told us how to speak and how to listen. He even told us how to vote," O'Neill said.

O'Neill and another of McCormack's successors, Carl Albert, were among the politicians at the funeral in St. Monica's Church. Some

Some 700 people heard Cardinal Humberto Medeiros celebrate Mass inside the South Boston church, and hundreds of others stood outside to catch a glimpse of the flag-covered coffin carried by six soldiers.

McCormack, a congressman for 42 years and speaker from 1962 until his retirement in 1970, died Saturday at age 88.

"He was concerned with educating the young, feeding the poor and providing decent housing for the needy," O'Neill said.

McCormack became speaker during President Kennedy's term and served through the administration of President Johnson. He supported civil rights bills, housing laws, labor legislation, federal aid to education and anti-poverty programs.

Among those at the funeral were Vice President-elect George Bush, the entire Massachusetts congressional delegation and dozens of other congressmen.

McCormack was buried next to his wife of 51 years, Harriet, at St. Joseph's Cemetery in Boston's West Roxbury neighborhood.

Former president held after Upper Volta coup

OUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta (AP) — The former president of this impoverished West African nation has been put under house arrest following a coup that ousted him from power, military sources said today.

Sanguole Lamizana, who won one of Africa's few contested presidential elections in 1978, was overthrown Tuesday in a bloodless coup led by Col. Saye Zerbo, a former foreign minister in the sub-Saharan nation. It was the third coup in Upper Volta since its independence from France in 1960.

The sources said Lamizana, 64, was confined to the official residence where he has lived since assuming power in 1966. They said other political leaders and military officials also had been arrested and taken to a military camp near the capital.

The capital city was calm Wednesday. The state-run radio announced the creation Tuesday of a ruling junta, the Military Committee for Re-Establishing National Progress. The committee has imposed a nationwide dusk-to-dawn curfew, dissolved the government and the national assembly and suspended the constitution.

Lamizana himself assumed power in a military coup. Later he brought back civilian rule and encouraged democratic procedures in this nation of 6 million people, whose per capita yearly income is only $160.

Israelis clash with demonstrators

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops clashed with Palestinian demonstrators today during a house-to-house search for gunmen who fired at a busload of Jewish children in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan, Israeli Radio said.

Two demonstrators were slightly injured during the incident, in which Arabs threw rocks at the soldiers, who responded with tear gas and rubber bullets, a military spokesman said.

The military barred reporters from Nablus, where the incident occurred, and stopped Arabs driving nearby at roadblock checkpoints. Four other towns were under curfew, military authorities said.

Police with tracker dogs joined the hunt for the assailants, presumed to be Palestinians.

None of the children was hurt in the ambush Tuesday night, but two adults — the driver and a guard — were slightly wounded, the military said. The bus was carrying the children from their school at the Jewish settlement of Elon Moreh to Kedumim, another Israeli outpost near Nablus when it was attacked as it slowed around a curve.

The ambush climaxed a day of violence in Nablus, Palestinian demonstrators throwing rocks injured an Israeli soldier, and brick chips dislodged by warning shots wounded two demonstrators, Israeli authorities said.

Later, students threw rocks at an Israeli police wagon in Nablus, police said.

After months of quiet in the West Bank, which the Israelis attribute to their get-tough policy against Palestinian activists, violent demonstrations are again a daily occurrence in the occupied zone, which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war.

At least 14 demonstrators have been injured by gunfire, which the army says is used by soldiers only in self-defense against rock-throwers.

The shootings have drawn criticism in the Israeli media and from liberals and leftists.

The daily newspaper Maariv, which usually supports stern measures against troublemakers in the West Bank, urged the Israeli military government "to act with restraint." It warned that shootings would "not only stir passions and inflame tension, but will directly serve the interests of (Palestinian guerrilla leader) Yasser Arafat."

Protestant officer killed in Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen hiding behind a hedge killed an off-duty Ulster Defense Regiment member as he was collecting money for cancer victims, police said.

He said Norman Donaldson, a 59-year-old father of six, was shot at least 12 times as he came out of Derrygonnelly police station, about 10 miles from the border with Ireland.

He was carrying a collection box to raise money to buy a hospital body scanner for surgeons treating cancer, they said.

Union Oil Co. of California announced location for a rank 10,000-foot wildcat in Presidio County, 45 miles southeast of Marfa.

The prospector, No. 1 Lykes-State, is to be dug 1,827 feet from south and 1,448 feet from west lines of section 2, block 315, GC&SF survey.

SCHLEICHER WILDCAT

A 5,000-foot wildcat has been staked in Schleicher by R. L. Burns Corp. of Dallas.

The project, 20 miles northeast of Eldorado, will be drilled as No. 1-48 McAshan. Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 68, block 25, H&TC survey, abstract 1315. Ground elevation is 2,421 feet.

Test site is one mile west of a 6m30-foot dry hole and 1 1/2 miles northeast of the Toe Nail (Strawn and Harkey) field.

IRON EXPLORER

MEG Petroleum Corp. of San Angelo No. 1 Marie Noelke Baker is a new 7,800-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Iron County, nine miles southwest of Mertzon.

Drill site is 9,100 feet from the most southerly south line and 1,850 feet from the most westerly east line of Tom Green County School Land survey.

It is 3/4 mile southwest of the Mertzon (Wolfcamp) oil pool. It is separated from the field by the depleted Wolfcamp discovery well.

TOM GREEN AREA

Trepel Petroleum Exploration & Development Corp. of Moore, Okla., announced location for a 3,300-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, two miles southeast of Christoval.

It is No. 2 J. W. Johnson, 2,500 feet from north and 1,700 feet from the middle west line of Thomas McClure survey No. 1827 1/2. Ground elevation is 2,258 feet.

The drill site is 1,258 feet east of Trepel No. 1 J. W. Johnson, active wildcat, and 3/4 mile southeast of the three-well Mt. Susan (Strawn sand 5350 oil) pool.

NOLAN WILDCATS

A pair of wildcat operations have been staked in Nolan County.

Seagull International Exploration Inc. of Houston will dig No. 1 J. W. Henry as a 7,200-foot wildcat 12 miles south of Sweetwater.

Location was spotted 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 37, block X, T&P survey.

It is 1 1/2 miles northeast of the depleted Featherstone (Strawn) field and separated from it by a 6,835-foot dry hole.

Leger Production Co. of Hamshire announced location for a 7,100-foot Ellenburger wildcat three miles south of Marylene in Nolan County.

Staked as No. 1 Lance Sears, it is 1,787 feet from north and 1,400 feet from east lines of section 116, block J-A, H&TC survey and one mile west of the four-well Group, West (Strawn) field which produces at 6,085 feet.

LEA COUNTY WORK

Three wildcats and projects in two Lea County fields have been staked.

Ike Lovelady, Inc., of Midland spotted two of the Lea explorers.

No. 1 Stinnett is to be drilled to 4,800 feet four miles south of Nadine.

The location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 15-20s-38e and 1 1/2 miles southwest of the House (San Andres) field.

Ground elevation is 3,593 feet.

Lovelady No. 1 Bateman is a 4,200-foot wildcat five miles east of Mofument in Lea County.

Operator staked location 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 30-19s-38e and two miles northeast of the Eumont (San Andres) field.

The third Lea County wildcat is Zinke & Philpy, Inc., of Midland No. 1 Speight nd others.

It is to be drilled 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 60-18s-39e and six miles northeast of Hobbs. Drillsite is 3/4 mile northwest of the Carter (San Andres) field and 1/2 mile south of a 5,301-foot dry hole.

Contract depth is 6,500 feet, and ground elevation is 3,635 feet.

ARCO Oil & Gas Co., operating from Midland, staked its No. 1 Langley-Esmond as a 16,000-foot project in the Langley (Devonian and Ellenburger) field of Lea County, eight miles southwest of Eunice.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 23-22s-36e. Loffland Brothers Co. has the contract.

Getty Oil Co. No. 1-21 Getty-State is to be drilled as a 16,700-foot project in an undesignated Morrow gas area of Lea County.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,680 feet from east lines of section 28-24s-33e and 25 miles west of Jal.

MARTIN STEP-OUT McCormick Operating Co. of Houston announced location for a 7/7-mile southeast stepout to the lone well in the J.L.M. (Mississippian) field of Martin County, 19 miles northeast of Stanton.

The project, No. 1 D. Riley, is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 62, block A, Bauer & Cockrell survey.

Contract depth is 11,500.

CRANE OFFSET Costa Resources, Inc., of Dallas No. 2 Adams is to be drilled as a northeast offset to the discovery well and lone producer in the Costa (Tubb oil) pool of Crane County, four miles northeast of Imperial.

Location for the 4,500-foot test is 660 feet from northeast and 2,270 feet from northwest lines of section 23, block 3, H&TC survey.

ECTOR LOCATION Laguna Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 Parker Estate is to be drilled as a 6,500-foot project in the Lawson (San Andres oil) pool and the Tom Roberts (Clear Fork oil) field of Ector County, 11 miles southwest of Goldsmith.

Location is 550 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 8, block 44, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Five discoveries complete in Permian Basin counties

Operators have announced potential tests on discovery operations in Loving, Gaines, Crockett and Rannels counties, and field operations have been completed in other area townships.

Tenneco Oil Co., operating from Midland, filed potential test with the Railroad Commission of Texas on its No. 1-48 Brunson, project in Loving County 13 miles northeast of Mentone.

The potential was filed as a w-4 cat.

The well finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 49,000.

Paul Page of Eldorado No. 1-137 Armstrong has been completed as the fourth oil well in a southwest extension area of the Rhoda Walker (5900 Canyon) field of Ward County, six miles east of Barstow.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 33 barrels of 39.2-gravity oil and 297 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 2,242-1.

Completion was through an 18/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,067 to 5,072 feet. The pay was acidized with 500 gallons and fractured with 10,000 gallons.

Location is 2,173 feet from south-east and 853 feet from southwest lines of section 137, block 34, H&TC survey.

Hole is bottomed at 3,063 feet. 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 3,062 feet and the plugged back depth is 3,045 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 13, block A-34, ps1 survey. The location was amended from 990 feet from north and east lines of the section.

HMH Operators of Midland No. 2 Gunter has been completed from the Pennsylvania 1/2 mile southeast of the closest comparable production in the Conger (Pennsylvanian oil) pool of Sterling County, nine miles west of Sterling City.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 43.6 barrels of 48-gravity oil and eight barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 4,385-1.

Completion was through an 11/64-inch choke and perforations from 7,223 to 8,010 feet after 3,000 gallons of acid and 50,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Total depth is 8,250 feet, 4 1/2-inch pipe was landed on bottom, and hole is plugged back to 8,136 feet.

Well site is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 22, H&TC survey.

ANDREWS GAS WELL Wood, McShane & Thams No. 1 Hunt is a new Yates gas well in the multiphase Block A-34 field of Andrews County, 15 miles north of Andrews.

It finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,424,183 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 2,970 to 3,017 feet. The pay was acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

Total depth is 17,200 feet, 5 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom, and hole is plugged back to 16,197 feet.

The Atoka was topped at 15,365 feet on ground elevation of 3,133 feet.

The well site is 470 feet from south and 2,170 feet from west lines of section 48, block 76, ps1 survey.

The producer is 3/4 mile northwest of Border Exploration No. 1 Conoco-TXL, which was completed in 1979 as an Atoka gas discovery through perforations from 16,098 to 16,107 feet.

American Star Energy & Minerals Corp. of Amarillo No. 1 Start, reported earlier as a failure at 5,195 feet, has been completed as a Yates gas discovery 18 miles west of Seminole in Gaines County.

The operator reported a daily potential of 137,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 3,097 to 3,302 feet.

Total depth is 5,195 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 5,190 feet.

Location is five miles west of the Riley, North (upper Clear Fork) field and 1,408 feet from north and 1,447 feet from west lines of section 21, block AX, ps1 survey.

Harrison Interests Ltd. of Houston No. 7 John Lee Henderson Jr. was completed as a Strawn gas discovery 11 miles southeast of Ozona.

Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,900,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 8,822 to 9,133 feet after a 7,500-gallon acid treatment.

Harrison has suggested Seawolf (Strawn gas) as the new field designation.

The Strawn was topped at 8,800 feet on ground elevation of 2,252 feet.

Total depth is 9,420 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 9,313.54 feet, and hole is plugged back to 9,255 feet.

Location is 2,764 feet from south and 1,800 feet from west lines of section 20, block G, GC&SF survey.

South Ranch Oil Co., Inc., No. 1 Charles E. Dankworth has been completed as an upper Capps oil discovery in Rannels County, three miles south of Ballinger.

The strike, originally staked as Texlar Exploration Co. of Dallas No. 1 Charles E. Dankworth, was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 28.12 barrels of 38-gravity oil and 126.06 barrels of water.

Completion was through perforations from 3,658 to 3,660 feet after a 1,000-gallon acid treatment and 120 barrels of fracture fluid.

The upper Capps was topped at 3,656 feet on ground elevation of 1,719 feet. Other tops include the Home Creek, 2,974 feet; Palo Pinto, 3,326 feet, and Gardner, 4,040 feet.

Total depth is 4,110 feet and 4 1/2-inch pipe is cemented at plugged back depth of 4,106 feet.

Well site is 600 feet from northwest and 1,500 feet from northeast lines of T. P. Hubbard survey No. 6.

S.R.G. Oil Corp. of Abilene No. 2 Damon Douglas and others is a Gardner sand discovery 10 miles east of Ballinger in Rannels County.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 55 barrels of 47.1-gravity oil, no water, through a 14/64-inch choke and perforations from 3,502 to 3,512 feet after a 1,000-gallon acid treatment.

The gas-oil ratio on the potential test was 1,273-1.

The Gardner sand was topped at 23,500 feet on ground elevation of 1,883 feet.

Total depth is 3,624 feet, 4 1/2-inch pipe is set at 3,610 feet, and hole is plugged back to 3,573 feet.

Location is 2,310 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of GH&H survey N. 41.

Tenneco Oil Co. No. 1 O. P. Anderson has been completed in the Poquito (Delaware) field of Ward County, eight miles west of Pyote.

Scheduled as a wildcat, the project finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 86,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 5,051 to 5,140 feet. The pay was fractured with 60,000 gallons.

Total depth is 6,458 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented four feet off bottom, and hole is plugged back to 5,236 feet. The pay was topped at 5,040 feet on ground elevation of 2,707 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 3,300 feet from east lines of section 37, A. J. Wilson survey.

U.S. petroleum inventories decline

WASHINGTON D.C. — U.S. petroleum inventories (crude oil and products) declined about 15 million barrels during Oct., but at the end of the month they were still roughly 75 million barrels above normal, the American Petroleum Institute reported.

According to the API's Monthly Statistical Report, petroleum inventories at the end of Oct. totaled an estimated 1,315,800,000 barrels, a drop of 1.1 percent from the end of Sept., but a 6.3 percent increase over the total for the end of Oct. a year earlier.

The report noted that crude oil inventories at the end of Oct. were estimated to be 391.8 million barrels, a 12.7 percent increase over a year earlier, and about 55 million barrels above the upper boundary of the Department of Energy's average range of operating inventories.

Motor gasoline inventories at the end of Oct. were estimated at 248.8 million barrels, a 14.0 percent increase over the same date in 1979, and about 17 million barrels above normal.

Exxon reports tanker plan

HOUSTON — Exxon USA's Marine Department announced plans for a $100 million program to modify five of its tankers.

Newport News Shipbuilding in Newport News, Va., will do the work. Modification is expected to be completed by mid 1981.

The five tankers — the Exxon Baltimore, Exxon Boston, Exxon Jamestown, Exxon Lexington and Exxon Washington — range in capacity from 240,000 to 300,000 barrels.

The tankers have been used primarily to carry crude oil and petroleum products along the Gulf and East coasts. After modification, they will be used to move oil from the Hofindo field in the Santa Barbara Channel of California to Exxon's Baytown, Texas, refinery.

The first of the tankers to be refitted, the Exxon Lexington, has arrived at Newport News.

Stocks of distillate fuel (home heating oil and diesel fuel) were estimated at 229.7 million barrels at the end of Oct., a drop of 0.6 percent from a year earlier. The report added: "While this decline is contrary to normal seasonal stock movements, the current level is about normal for this time of year."

The report also gave these estimates for the month of Oct.:

— Deliveries of motor gasoline from primary storage averaged 6,448,000 barrels per day (bpd), a drop of 8.2 percent from last Oct.

— Deliveries of distillate fuel oil from primary storage averaged 2,866,000 bpd, a drop of 7.7 percent from a year ago.

— Total domestic petroleum deliveries from primary storage were 16,795,000 bpd, a drop of 7.6 percent from a year ago.

— Domestic crude oil production averaged 8,614,000 bpd, an increase of 0.5 percent over last Oct.

— Crude oil imports averaged 4,764,000 bpd, a drop of 30.5 percent compared to last Oct.

— Petroleum product imports averaged 1,578,000 bpd, a drop of 11.6 percent compared to last Oct.

Heating oil prices climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of home heating oil is continuing to climb as winter nears.

Standard Oil Co. of California's Chevron USA division said Tuesday it increased wholesale home heating and diesel fuel prices as much as 2 cents a gallon in several sections of the country.

Dealers may pass the wholesale price increases on to consumers. A 2 cents-a-gallon boost would mean an increase of $22 to $24 dollars over the heating season for the average homeowner in the Northeast who uses oil for heating, according to National Oil Jobbers Council consumption statistics.

Jerry Martin, a spokesman for the San Francisco-based Chevron, attributed the company's move to "increasing costs of raw materials, primarily crude (oil)," and to "the higher cost of finished products purchased by Chevron to supplement refinery production" in the East.

The announcement by Chevron, a subsidiary of the nation's fourth-largest oil company, followed increases of as much as 3 cents a gallon by several other major refiners this month.

Heating oil prices have been climbing recently, after remaining virtually steady since early spring, amid rising domestic crude oil prices, nervousness over an extended cutoff of Iranian and Iraqi oil production and colder-than-normal weather in the United States.

Operation gets certification

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission of Texas has certified an ARCO Oil and Gas Co. operation in Crane County as Texas' first qualified tertiary oil recovery project under the federal crude oil "windfall profits" tax act.

The project is located in the Block 31 (Devonian) field and encompasses 7,840 acres of University of Texas land.

Under a three-part RRC-approved expansion of ARCO's existing miscible gas displacement program, ultimate oil recoveries from the unit are projected to increase by 10 million barrels to 43 million.

Production from qualified tertiary projects can be sold at uncontrolled market prices and taxed at a lower rate than oil produced by primary and secondary techniques.

"The proposed expansion of the miscible displacement tertiary recovery process presently being applied at the Block 31 (Devonian) Unit reasonably can be expected to result in more than an insignificant increase in the ultimate oil recovery," the RRC said in its certification order.

The project is expected to recover oil trapped due to poor permeability development and oil in unswept area.
