Pair kidnapped during robbery

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — Two Temple men were back home today after a harrowing weekend-robbery-kidnapping that started when an armed man forced his way into their restaurant and ended seven hours later when they were freed from the trunk of a car.

Temple police said the gunman still was at large early today. Sgt. Ron Flippo said the two victims were closing up at the Pelican's Wharf restaurant shortly after midnight Saturday when a bearded man brandishing a gun forced his way into the building, taking an undetermined amount of money from the office and the restaurant and bar cash registers.

The two employees, bar manager David Hernandez, 22, and busboy Billy Lynch, 17, told police they were forced into the trunk of Lynch's 1971 Chevrolet and driven to Dallas, where they were discovered by two newspaper delivermen about 7 a.m. Sunday.

Flippo said Lynch's car had been abandoned on the parking lot of a Dallas apartment complex.

Hernandez told police the gunman confronted him as he dumped a load of trash at a large metal bin outside the restaurant. Lynch said Sunday afternoon that the man held a gun to Hernandez's head and ordered the busboy to lie on the kitchen floor.

"If you turn around and look at me, I'll kill you," Lynch said the gunman told him. The men were taken outside and forced into Lynch's trunk, he said in a telephone interview with the Temple Daily Telegram.

"He told us we had best be quiet or he would pull over and kill us," Lynch said. "I didn't really believe him. I figured he was going to take us out somewhere and get rid of us."

He said the bandit stopped in Temple for gasoline, then drove for about 2½ hours before stopping.

"It was really cold, but we got plenty of air through two holes cut in the rear deck for speakers," Lynch said. He and Hernandez remained silent during the drive, he said.

It was shortly before 3 a.m. Sunday, he estimated, when the gunman stopped the car, turned on the radio, left a car door open and abandoned the car.

The two men wrapped themselves in a towel and huddled together to stay warm, he said. Shortly before 5 a.m., they tried to escape, he said.

"About 5 a.m., we started to freeze to death," he said. They tried to pry open the trunk with a tire tool and began shouting for help.

Their cries were heard by two unidentified newspaper delivermen, who called police and firemen when they could not open the trunk.

The two men were freed by fire rescue teams about 7 a.m. and drove back to Dallas in Lynch's car a short time later, Lynch said.

"I'm just glad to be back," said Lynch, a junior at Temple High School.

"They were lucky they weren't killed," Flippo said.

Parts of SALT II OK: Percy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, returning home after three days of highly publicized talks with top Soviet officials, says there are many parts of the SALT II arms control treaty that can be used as a basis for future negotiations with the Russians.

But the Illinois Republican, who is in line to become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee next year, said Sunday-as he did last week in Moscow that there is no chance for Senate ratification of SALT II as it now stands.

"There are many things in it (SALT II) that President-elect (Ronald) Reagan agrees with, and let's start on those things," Percy said upon his arrival at Dulles International Airport outside Washington.

He added that the next round of talks should start as soon as possible, and he believes the Soviets are willing to resume negotiations.

Percy was the first top U.S. political figure to meet with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev since July 1979.

The SALT II treaty was withdrawn from Senate consideration by President Carter after it appeared that it would face almost-certain defeat because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan last December.

Some Reagan cabinet choices made

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he has made some of his Cabinet choices, but the president-elect is keeping up the suspense about who they are. Some of the answers may come late this week.

"I'm not going to report or speculate until we have a crew together and an announcement ready to make," Reagan told reporters Sunday as he returned from an overnight stay for a charity dinner in Palm Springs, Calif. "We're whittling away."

Edwin Meese III, who will become a Cabinet-level counselor to the new president, said Sunday that Reagan "has made definite decisions ... and he is in the process of implementing some of those now."

Asked about that as he returned to Los Angeles, Reagan said: "Yes, that's right...But I'm not ready to say that we are ready to announce names." As he left Palm Springs, Reagan said he would spend the first few months of his presidency concentrating on the economy.

Asked if he believed he could improve the economy soon, Reagan replied: "I don't know how soon. It took a long time to get in this mess, but we are going to start."

The president-elect planned to continue selecting a Cabinet today, and transition chief Meese said all the choices probably will be announced before Christmas.

Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's press secretary who spent his last day on the job Sunday, said some Cabinet selections may be announced as early as Thursday or Friday.

But Reagan, Meese and Nofziger all were careful not to drop any hints about who the appointees might be.

Asked if there would be a woman in his Cabinet, Reagan said only: "Uh, let me say there is quite a broad range of names that are being discussed."

Meese, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," also refused to say if the prospective appointees include Democrats, blacks or women.

Nofziger said he expected there will be no political liberals in the Cabinet.

Meese denied that the speculation has become embarrassing or is making it more difficult for Reagan to choose a Cabinet.

"Remember it has been less than 30 days since Ronald Reagan was elected president, and I don't believe any president in history has announced his Cabinet any earlier," Meese said.

"This is a normal time," he added. "As a matter of fact, probably it is a little ahead of schedule."

Reagan said he was not dismayed that leading Cabinet candidates William Simon, George Shultz and Anne Armstrong had withdrawn their names from contention.

Nofziger, holding his last press briefing on Saturday, denied that Reagan engineered the withdrawals of Simon and Shultz.

"He's not Machiavelli," Nofziger said of the former California governor. "And he has high regard for both Simon and Shultz."

But Nofziger refused to describe Reagan's feelings about the situation, saying he did not wish to make it appear that any of the three actually would have been chosen for Cabinet positions.

Reagan's health termed excellent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's personal physician says the 69-year-old president-elect is in excellent health and "quite able to handle stress."

In an interview published Sunday in U.S. News & World Report, Dr. John Reynolds said Reagan had no medical problems during the recent campaign.

Reynolds, a Los Angeles internist, said the most recent complete physical examination he performed on Reagan took place last year in Santa Monica, Calif.

The physician noted that Reagan has a moderate hearing loss, which might make it difficult for him to hear-questions at a press conference if there were a lot of background noise.

Other long-term medical conditions include hay fever and a painful thumb on the right hand due to degeneration of the cartilage, according to Reynolds. The physician termed the thumb problem a "normal symptom of aging."

Reagan on Jan. 20 will become the oldest man ever inaugurated president.

Lamesa man dies in Sunday crash

LAMESA — A Lamesa man died Sunday and his wife remains in critical condition after the pickup in which they were riding overturned into a cottonfield near here sometime before dawn Sunday, according to Department of Public Safety officials.

Domingo Parraz, 40, of Lamesa was driving his 1974 Chevrolet pick-up north on S.H. 137, when it apparently ran off the road, rolling over into a nearby cottonfield 1½ miles south of Lamesa. Both Parraz and his wife were thrown from the vehicle, according to a DPS spokesman.

The two were not found until daybreak, when Justice of the Peace Fred Vera of Lamesa pronounced Parraz dead at the scene.

Margie Parraz, 44, was transported to Medical Arts Hospital in Lamesa where she was listed in critical condition this morning with massive head injuries.

Trail killer preying on lone hikers

POINT REYES STATION, Calif. (AP) — A killer who ritualistically makes his victims plead for their lives before slaying them may have killed four people whose nude bodies were found this weekend at a seashore park, police said.

Authorities have tied the man to three other killings over the last 15 months and are worried that what they believe is his compulsion to kill may lead him to strike again.

"He commits his acts in an effort to achieve psychological relief, but the murders will not satisfy him and the problem will get worse," Marin County Sheriff Al Howenstein said Sunday. "Without question, this individual is capable of striking again."

Authorities found four bodies on Saturday near a hiking trail at Point Reyes National Seashore, 30 miles north of San Francisco. They had been looking for two women who disappeared Friday during separate hiking trips at Point Reyes, and they also came upon the bodies of two other people a half-mile away who had been dead for up to six months. The corpses were so badly decomposed that their sex could not be determined.

Howenstein said the killings were similar to the unsolved slayings of three women who were killed over the last 15 months on hiking trails on Mount Tamalpais, which is about 20 miles south of Point Reyes.

"I would not be surprised if he has killed elsewhere," Howenstein said. He said the Marin sheriff's department plans an aerial search of the entire area from Point Reyes to Mount Tamalpais in an attempt to find more bodies. An infrared camera will aid in the search, he said.

Authorities have come up with a physical description of the man based on information provided by a witness to one of the Mount Tamalpais slayings. He is depicted as being in his late 20s or early 30s and dressed in hiking clothes with a knapsack on his back.

Authorities have also sketched a detailed psychological portrait of the man based on consultations with a psychologist. Howenstein would not name the psychologist involved, and would give no details on how the profile was constructed.

"The thread of similarity (between the slayings) has to do with what appears to be the ritualistic aspect of the killings," Howenstein said.

"This person is motivated to put his victims through a degree of psychological torture — to put them in very uncomfortable physical positions and make them plead for their lives," he said. All the bodies were found face down, he said, and he said this indicated the victims were being terrorized when killed.

The sheriff said the profile indicated that the killer is "beginning to fall apart psychologically."

"The killer soon will begin to experience physical deterioration due to his lack of success" in getting relief from killing, said Howenstein.

No sexual motive has been established in any of the killings, said Howenstein. He added that it could not be immediately determined if the latest victims had been sexually assaulted.

One of the women found at Point Reyes was identified as Diana O'Connell, 22, who was said to be from the "East Coast." Earlier, she had been identified as a New Yorker.

Trooper involved in deputy's shooting identified by sheriff

ODESSA — The Department of Public Safety this morning released the name of the officer involved in the shooting of Ector County Sheriff's deputy Cliff Davis Thursday night during a high-speed chase of a traffic offender.

DPS trooper Dennis Riley was identified as the officer who shot at the vehicle driven by 18-year-old Keith Lee Wilson and accidentally hit Davis in the chest, buttocks, knee and calf after Davis had slipped into the vehicle unbeknownst to the other officers.

The incident, which occurred shortly before 11:30 p.m. Thursday on U.S. Highway 385, is still under investigation today by the D.P.S., Ector County Sheriff's Department and the Texas Rangers. DPS Maj. Ira Dees said he believed the investigation would be completed Tuesday or Wednesday.

Wilson evaded Sheriff's deputies and DPS troopers as he sped up and down the highway with a female passenger. When officers "nudged" Wilson's car into a median and brought it to a stop, the woman jumped out of the car and Davis jumped in, apparently in an effort to gain control of the vehicle. Wilson took off again, followed by officers who reportedly were trying to shoot out his tires.

Not until the officers drove Wilson's car into a ditch did they learn Riley had accidentally shot Davis.

Police displayed this full-length sketch of the man they are looking for in the deaths of seven women in the past 15 months. (AP Laserphoto)

Court to rule on male-only draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to judge the constitutionality of a male-only military draft. The court will decide whether the government may require young men to register for possible military service and require them to serve when young women face no such requirements.

Military induction has not taken place since 1973. Even if military registration and the draft were upheld, Congress would have to pass a new law to allow for call-ups to resume. Ironically, the legal challenge that led to the three-judge decision was filed in 1971 as a protest to the Vietnam war, and for years lay dormant.

That all changed last December when President Carter reinstated draft registration in the wake of the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan. The Carter administration's plan for a July 21 registration of all 19- and 20-year-old men was jeopardized by the Philadelphia panel's ruling.

Brennan said he believed the government's formal appeal to the Supreme Court would attract the necessary four votes for granting full review. The Carter administration's plan for a July 21 registration of all 19- and 20-year-old men was jeopardized by the Philadelphia panel's ruling.

Firefighters work against last four of 11 blazes

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Homeowners were surveying the wreckage of their burned-out homes, trying to decide whether to rebuild or move away, as firefighters worked against four blazes, the last of 11 fires that scorched Southern California for a week. Firefighters worked feverishly to reseed ground cover, trying to avert the threat of flooding.

The fires followed others the week before and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s office has put the damage toll since Nov. 15 at more than $64 million and more than 100,000 acres. Firefighters contained three fires on Sunday: the 12,000-acre Thunder fire in the Mount Baldy area; 40 miles northeast of Los Angeles; the 6,000-acre Lockwood fire in Ventura County; and the 2,300-acre Proctor fire in San Diego County.

Santa gets boot from Dallas stores

DALLAS (AP) — Many of Santa's helpers may soon be standing in the unemployment line because department stores are tightening their belts and booting St. Nick.

And one shopping center Santa says the businessmen who are cutting the jolly old elf from budget reasons are ruining the spirit of Christmas.

"Without Santa Claus, Christmas is nothing but crass commercialism," lamented Dean Reynolds, a 42-year-old insurance executive who has decked himself in red flannel and white fur for eight Yule seasons.

"Santa is a catalyst to the Christmas spirit," Reynolds said. "When you've got someone like him in your store spreading good cheer, and everyone's laughing and smiling, then it adds to the spirit of the season."

Reynolds, who charges a minimum $10 an hour to "ho, ho, ho," says the rent-a-Santa business in the Dallas area is at the bottom of a four-year slump because department store executives are trying to trim St. Nick out of their budgets.

"Some guy sitting at the top with a pencil and paper is thinking, 'Where can I cut expenses?'" Reynolds said. "He sees Santa as a liability instead of an asset."

Western Temporary Services, Reynolds' employer, suited up about 180 Santas in 1975 and 1976. But this year only 30 orders have come in at "the world's largest supplier of Santas," Reynolds said.

Several department stores, including Joskes, Sears and Dillard's, traditionally hire Santas for every shopping day during the Christmas season. But this year, they are cutting back to weekend-only Santas or cutting St. Nick altogether.

"Many stores are letting the malls take the responsibility of getting a Santa," Reynolds said. "But I remember when the mall and all the large stores had Santas, and the lines of children waiting to see them still were long."

Reynolds' says being one of Santa's helpers has its ups and downs.

"I wasn't too crazy about kids to begin with," he said. "And the suit was hot and uncomfortable. You couldn't see because of the wig and beard. The chair was something out of a torture chamber, and you've got kids crawling all over you."

"They'd kick me in the stomach and other not-so-friendly places," he added.

But the job has its advantages, Reynolds said.

"Dressed in a Santa suit, you can go around kissing all the pretty girls you want."

Syria doubles forces along Jordan's border

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria doubled its forces on Jordan's border to 50,000 troops and 1,100 tanks over the weekend, well informed sources said today. Observers in Damascus said armed conflict could break out any day.

They said a letter from Saudi King Khaled, who is trying to mediate the conflict, to President Hafez Assad contained threats, and appeared to have been counterproductive. The substance of the threats was not known, but Saudi Arabia is a big financial backer of the Damascus government.

Saudi Prince Abdulla Bin Abdul-Aziz, deputy premier and commander of the national guard, delivered the letter to Assad during a three-hour meeting Sunday. Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat also conferred with Assad for more than two hours Sunday, and an aide to Arafat described the border situation as "very serious."

King Hussein of Jordan strengthened his forces on the Syrian border Sunday, saying they would not attack the Syrian troops facing them but would "cut off the arm" of anyone attacking them. Jordan is a U.S. ally, while Syria is the Soviet Union's chief ally in the Middle East.

Syria began massing troops and tanks along its frontier with Jordan 10 days ago, just before the convening of an Arab summit conference in Amman which Assad boycotted because he expected it to back his enemy Iraq in its war with Iran. Hussein in response reinforced Jordan's forces on the border.

Militants still hold hostages

By The Associated Press

The 52 American hostages have not yet been transferred to the custody of the Iranian government by militants who have been holding them since Nov. 4, 1979. Iran's minister of state for executive affairs was quoted as saying today.

The Tehran daily Ettelaat said Behzad Nabavi told it in an interview: "The hostages have not been handed over ... by the students."

Nabavi, appointed by Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai to head a government commission dealing with the hostage issue, did not amplify the remark. His comment followed reports last week that the government had taken custody of the hostages.

Meanwhile, CBS television broadcast an interview Sunday with Rajai who said "the hostages are in excellent health and very good shape." CBS correspondent Mike Wallace reported from Tehran that it is not clear who is in control of the hostages or whether they are in the U.S. Embassy compound.

Nabavi made his comment in response to a question on whether the United States has met Iran's four conditions for release of the hostages, the newspaper said.

The militants received approval Nov. 3 from Khomeini to hand over the hostages to the government, which is now negotiating with the United States for release of the captives.

Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of the Iranian Parliament, said on Saturday that he did not know where the hostages were. "I didn't even know where they were before," he told a news conference.

The location of the Americans has not been confirmed since the unsuccessful U.S. rescue attempt in April. The captors claimed then that they had scattered the hostages throughout the country to foil any attempt to rescue them from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Nabavi said Iran was still awaiting American clarification on whether the United States would meet Iran's four conditions for release of the hostages, the paper said.

"As we have already declared, America's response is not clear and proper," the newspaper quoted him as saying.

The United States is now preparing a second response to Iran's proposed conditions after the Tehran government asked clarification of Washington's first answer.

The Iranian Parliament said on Nov. 2 that the hostages would be released if the United States freed Iranian assets frozen in the United States, ended all pending lawsuits against Iran, confiscated and returned to Iran the wealth of the late shah and his family and pledged not to interfere in Iranian affairs.

Keeping the city clean

The recent citywide clean-up sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce was a great success, dramatically illustrating what a community can do when all its residents pull together on a common project.

Throughout the city, truckload after truckload of unsightly, unsanitary and hazardous litter and clutter was removed. Abandoned refrigerators — would-be death-traps for young children who climb inside them during play — were removed, too.

All-in-all, the Tall City was rendered a much safer community and a more eye-pleasing one for both city residents and out-of-town visitors.

The clean-up campaign truly was a combined effort. Heavy snowfall early that week caused the postponement of the first couple of days of scheduled pickups. But those were rescheduled and completed later. The response to the clean-up week was much better than officials initially had anticipated.

There literally is an entire city of people to thank for making the clean-up a success — chamber and city officials, all those individuals who manned the equipment on the clean-up days, and all the residents who got involved in helping to clean up their city. A big, well-deserved "thank you" goes out to all those people.

Already some chamber officials and others are talking about the possibility of making the clean-up an annual event. We think that's an excellent idea and those plans should be pursued if at all possible.

But on the other hand, we must all keep in mind that the cleanliness of Midland is a responsibility we all share on a continual basis. A once-a-year clean-up is a fine endeavor and much can be accomplished through such a program.

With a little extra effort, though, we can all help reduce the scope of that once-a-year job by taking the time to tidy up our own areas every so often. We should all keep in mind that the appearance of the city has a lot to do with the impression Midland makes on the new people moving here, especially business and industry leaders visiting the city on the prospect of locating or relocating their facilities here.

Let's all help keep Midland clean and we'll be prouder for it.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, Dec. 1, the 336th day of 1980. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Dec. 1, 1918, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes united to form the nation of Yugoslavia.

On this date: In 1824, an American presidential election was turned over to the House of Representatives after a deadlock developed among four candidates — John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William Crawford and Henry Clay.

In 1878, the first telephone was installed in the White House.

In 1944, the World War II battle for the Saar basin in Germany began.

In 1954, the United States signed a mutual security pact with Nationalist China.

Ten years ago: Luis Echeverria Alvarez was sworn in as president of Mexico.

Five years ago: President Gerald Ford met with China's deputy prime minister, Teng Hsiao-ping in Peking.

One year ago: The United Nations Security Council took up the issue of the American hostages in Iran. All delegates called for release of the captives, but no resolution to that effect was introduced.

Today's birthdays: Director-actor Woody Allen is 45. Comedian Richard Pryor is 40. Singer Bette Midler is 35. Singer-actress Mary Martin is 67. Baseball player George Foster is 32.

Thought for today: Love what's lovable and hate what's hateable. It takes brains to see the difference — Robert Frost, American poet (1874-1963).

Cutback of flights hurts Soviet spy work

WASHINGTON — One American response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan which is probably as irritating to the Kremlin as the Olympic Games boycott is the curtailment of U.S. flights by the Russian state airline, Aeroflot.

Since the Afghanistan aggression, Aeroflot has been restricted to two flights a week out of Dulles International Airport, the federally operated facility outside Washington. Aeroflot's flights into New York were halted, not by the U.S. government, but by the Teamsters Union, which has refused to service Soviet planes there.

What bothers the Russians is not the loss of revenue, but the cutback on espionage activities furthered by Aeroflot. The Soviet planes, with their KGB security personnel, are the Russians' preferred means of getting top-secret reports safely back to the Kremlin.

However, a secret CIA report shown recently to my associate Dale Van Atta discloses that Aeroflot is more than merely a secure delivery channel for Russian spy material.

"For a number of years," the report states, "the Soviets have been suspected of using Aeroflot for (electronic) intelligence collection operations." Two examples are cited:

— "The Soviets reportedly rescheduled the flight of an IL-62-Classic in 1974 to permit coverage of a U.S. command post exercise."

— In 1977, a special Aeroflot charter flight over the continental United States "was viewed as having a collection mission, since signal intelligence intercept gear was observed on the aircraft."

These examples, the report says, "indicate a prolonged employment of Aeroflot by the Soviets for both counterintelligence and foreign collection purposes."

All over the world, Aeroflot is regarded with suspicion by local governments. The airline's chief of operations in the Netherlands was arrested some years ago and expelled on suspicion of trying to steal state secrets. And the CIA reports that on another occasion "a high-level Aeroflot official in Madrid was expelled by Spanish authorities as a result of his involvement in military espionage."

Within the Soviet Union, the security police apparently judge foreigners by what the Russians do when they're abroad. "On domestic flights over the USSR, the KGB officer probably acts in a security capacity to inform on the activities of foreigners or to block attempts by them to gather intelligence," the CIA reports. "On overseas flights, the function of the KGB officer would be to maintain control over the flight crew and prevent any possible defections."

TEST FLUNKED: A major component of the new "rapid deployment force" made a miserable showing in a six-day exercise last September, according to the confidential report of an Army team that evaluated its performance.

The 317th Tactical Airlift Wing was being tested on its combat readiness in "Exercise Purple Penny" at Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina. Its mission in wartime is to transport men and equipment from the rear echelon to a forward combat area.

In six out of seven critical areas, the 317th was rated clearly unsatisfactory by the evaluation team. Among the more glaring deficiencies the umpires found:

- Only 26 of 46 aircraft were reliable.
- Mobility of crew and aircraft was

CHARLEY REESE

Special interest groups dilute unity of purpose

Political opportunists are often and justly criticized, but we should pause to remember that many voters are just as opportunistic as the professional politician.

Any reporter who has covered government will tell you that the great majority of public bodies meet in apathy-emptied auditoriums. If people do come, ninety-nine out of a hundred times they're there to grind personal axes.

I've seen many a young politician turn cynical because of exposure to public apathy, public greed, and public selfishness. He goes into office full of ideals and soon finds out people are not interested in "good government," only in themselves.

It always amuses me when someone gets his ox gored for the first time. He is like a pilgrim who blunders into a brothel. You mean the court system works like this? How can the police get away with this? I never knew a school board could be so arbitrary. Et cetera, et cetera and so forth, as the King of Siam used to say.

Of course all of these problems and injustices have been there all along. The pilgrim just never bothered with them. He didn't care how things worked for or against other people until by happenstance the wheel rolled over his own toe.

Suddenly confronted on a personal basis by imperfect government, the pilgrim turns instantly from apathy to outrage. He demands retribution and reform instantly if not sooner, and preferably at someone else's expense.

Well, that attitude won't cut it. I have zip sympathy for such characters. I'm not about to waste time listening to their lectures on evils I and others have been fighting for 25 years, usually unsuccessfully thanks to his blankety-blank apathy.

On the other hand, I don't subscribe to the view that such narrow selfishness is the natural state of all people. On the contrary, I think it is a relatively recent phenomenon in our society and one that needs to be confronted. It is the phenomenon of individualism run amuck.

True, we are a nation founded on the concept of individual freedom, but we are a nation and inherent in the concept of nationhood is the concept of commonality. We share in common certain beliefs, dangers and responsibilities.

If we have a war, for example, the Soviet Union is not going to bomb us by special interest group. They don't have one warhead targeted for senior citizens, another for blacks, and another for the trade unions. A five megaton warhead will not differentiate between pacifist and hawk or between landlord and tenant.

That's why the issue of defense is one of those areas of commonality. Our Constitution directs the Congress to provide for the common defense, meaning the defense of all of us — meaning all of us must share the cost, responsibility and sacrifice.

Freedom is another area of commonality. It is an indivisible asset. It's no good for me to sit snugly in my living room, if the police can kick down your door across town. Either we are all safe from arbitrary exercise of the state's police power, or none of us is.

I think it is time we started the pendulum back in the other direction and began to cultivate a wider vision of ourselves as interdependent parts of one whole. We live in one land and we share one destiny and we ought to care about each other.

Maybe I am just tired. I know I am tired of union leaders who are interested only in union issues, of businessmen interested only in business issues, of elderly people interested only in their issues, of feminists interested only in feminist issues and on and on. The categories into which we divide ourselves seem to be endless. Some days I think that if I hear one more special interest pleading, I'm going to throw up on the pleader.

As a matter of fact, I've decided to quit associating with walking categories so I'll have more time for human beings. They are so much nicer.

INSIDE REPORT:

Silberman departure hints at Reagan's 'transition wars'

WASHINGTON — Turmoil within President-elect Reagan's national security transition, which now begins to threaten his policy goals, erupted Nov. 17 in the sudden resignation of an exasperated Lawrence Silberman as leader of the CIA transition team.

The proximate cause was the exclusion of Silberman, considered a possibility to be Reagan's director of Central Intelligence, from CIA briefings for the president-elect. Silberman denied to us a policy reason for quitting. "I don't have the time to deal with the complications," said Silberman, a San Francisco banker. Whatever the true causes, a shockwave of paranoia was felt through the national security community.

Silberman, who stood up to then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as ambassador to Yugoslavia in 1975-77, is a tough-minded realist whose permanent-loss would be a serious blow for anti-dentist Republicans. His departure deepens fears among like-minded members of Reagan's transition organization that they are losing during the interregnum the vital defense issues that Ronald Reagan promoted during the campaign.

If Silberman is gone, there are fears that William Van Cleave's days are numbered. Van Cleave, a former SALT negotiator and a steadfast critic of Kissinger-style diplomacy, is under intense attack as leader of Reagan's national defense transition team. The reason given by his transition superiors is personal style ("Bill just comes over too hard.") But the overriding cause is Van Cleave's insistence on radically higher spending to restore the depleted U.S. defense posture.

Evans

Novak

Van Cleave's team members see an anti-defense-spending crunch inspired by Nixon-Ford administration retreats and directed through William Timmons, a former Nixon-Ford White House aide who is Reagan's deputy director of transition. Behind Timmons, they see the menacing specter of Henry Kissinger, resurrected in influence though not in person.

Much more pressure has been directed against Van Cleave than Silberman. But tough-talking Larry Silberman does not stand for much nonsense — such as dismissal from the Senate intelligence committee's Republican staff of three aides because they joined Silberman's transition team. Silberman was not pleased when this abrupt action by the committee's senior Republican member, Sen. Barry Goldwater, was backed by his superior in the sprawling Reagan transition bureaucracy: national security group director David Abshire.

Abshire, a former assistant secretary of state, is chairman of Georgetown University's Center of Strategic and International Studies where Kissinger has an office. Silberman was not enchanted by the requirement of constant transition reports to Abshire. Nor did he get much help from above in confronting lame-duck CIA Director Stansfield Turner's non-cooperation. The last straw came when Silberman was barred from the CIA briefing.

Silberman's resignation was a shock to Reagan's senior echelon, which would welcome a similar departure by Van Cleave. While Van Cleave's brusque personality is stressed as the source of his troubles, he never has been forgiven for telling the hard truth during the campaign: defense spending increases exceeding 7 percent a year will be needed to restore the nation's defenses.

In current discussions at the Pentagon, Van Cleave's team members are laying out the tough requirements: strengthening the Minuteman missile, accelerating the MX mobile missile program, reviving the B-1 bomber. That angers Timmons, who contends the transition team has no such mission, and worries Reagan's economizing budget-makers out in California (led by Casper Weinberger.)

Van Cleave's men have found common cause with Pentagon officials who silently endured the last four tragic years of defense decay. But they have outraged lame-duck Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who presided over those years. Brown has complained, through White House channels, about the size and persistence of Van Cleave's team and the presence on it of a congressman — Rep. Robin Beard of Tennessee.

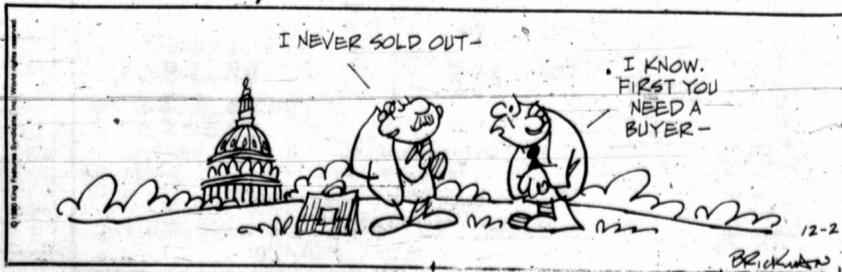

Beard was removed from the team, and the impression was given that Brown's complaints received a sympathetic ear from Reagan transition leaders. Van Cleave and Co., accustoried to defeat in years of struggle for a stronger defense, have felt a Kissingerian cloud rolling over them.

That may explain an ugly exchange between Van Cleave and Abshire's deputy, defense consultant John Lehman. Although Lehman's hard-line defense credentials and courage in fighting SALT concessions equal Van Cleave's, he is a former Kissinger aide and present Kissinger friend. Consequently, Van Cleave rejected four additions to his team proposed by Lehman, stigmatizing them as the invasion of the "Gucci-loafer set."

Instead of battling Lehman, Van Cleave had better join him. Their common enemy is Weinberger and other economizers who resist drastic but necessary jumps in defense spending. The president-elect's critically-important arms program can afford neither turmoil in his own ranks nor the loss of such doctory battlers as Larry Silberman today and Bill Van Cleave maybe tomorrow.

Beware of smooth talker

I HOPE you will be patient with me as I keep on talking like a fool. Do bear with me and let me say what is on my heart.

I am anxious for you with the deep concern of God Himself— anxious that your love should be for Christ alone, just as a pure maiden saves her love for one man only, for the one who will be her husband.

But I am frightened, fearing that in some way you will be led away from your pure and simple devotion to our Lord, just as Eve was deceived by Satan in the Garden of Eden.

You seem so glib: you believe whatever anyone tells you even if he is preaching about another Jesus than the one we preach, or a different spirit, than the Holy Spirit you received, or shows you a different way to be saved. You swallow it all.

Yet I don't feel that these marvelous "messengers from God," as they call themselves, are any better than I am.

If I am a poor speaker, at least I know what I am talking about, as I think you realize by now, for we have proved it again and again.

Toxic waste, spending on final-week calendar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of legislation to create a special fund for cleaning up toxic chemical wastes are gambling this week that the House will accept a scaled-down version of the bill rather than risk having no bill at all.

Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., principal sponsor of the measure, said supporters will try to push a heavily rewritten compromise version through the House under a parliamentary maneuver that would bar congressmen from offering amendments.

Amendments could kill the proposal, Florio said, by sending it to a House-Senate conference committee to resolve differences.

With only five days left in the congressional session, there is little time for a conference committee to find a compromise. Florio is hoping the House will accept the $1.6 billion version passed by the Senate last week rather than jeopardize the entire package.

But the no-amendments strategy carries a high risk. Under House rules, a bill brought to the floor under the procedure requires a two-thirds affirmative vote to pass rather than a simple majority, magnifying the strength of opponents.

"I'm convinced that it can pass by two-thirds," Florio said late last week.

Although the "superfund" legislation may be the most emotional issue as the 96th Congress enters its final week, last-minute money bills also are pending on the congressional calendar. Only a handful of appropriations bills for fiscal 1981, which began Oct. 1, have been passed to keep the government functioning. Most agencies are operating under a "stopgap measure" that expires Dec. 15.

Congressional leaders say appropriations not completed by Wednesday will be lumped in a "continuing resolution" to keep the government running until the new Congress acts next year.

Both Houses also are expected to act on an $8 billion to $10 billion package of federal budget savings aimed at holding down the budget deficit.

Congressional leaders say the bill, which orders congressional committees to cut spending programs and raise new revenue through a variety of tax code changes, is necessary to hold the federal deficit to $27.4 billion.

And in a money proposal vital to local officials, Congress may consider legislation to extend the federal revenue-sharing program, which expired on Sept. 30. The next payments are due in January and local officials say the money is critical to maintaining basic services.

The Senate-passed toxic wastes bill would create a $1.6 billion fund over five years to clean up active and inactive chemical waste dumps and toxic chemical spills. Most of the money — 88 percent — would come from new taxes on the chemical industry.

The bill was drastically scaled down in the Senate to overcome opposition that might have blocked it in the closing days of Congress.

Ex-Mormons to form new church

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A group of former Mormons upset with the church's opposition to the proposed federal Equal Rights Amendment are forming a new religious sect.

Lee Ann Walker, an organizer of Zion's First International Church, said the group will have no formal set of rules or beliefs, but will be a "way station" for Mormons who are leaving their faith.

"The break in lifestyle when you leave the Mormon church is so dramatic, you just don't fit in at another church," she said.

Byron Marchant, an excommunicated Mormon and one of the new church's Quorum of Twelve Apostles, said the organizers will meet today in Liberty Park to proclaim the founding of their group and raise a flag, "inscribed with the words, 'Liberty, Equality, Family.'"

One of the key reasons for their dissatisfaction with the Mormon church, said Ms. Walker, is the opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment voiced by Mormon leaders. The ERA would ban discrimination on the basis of sex.

Ms. Walker, a Salt Lake City lawyer, said the church's lobbying against the ERA has caused many Mormons to re-examine their beliefs and reject their church's teachings.

Mormon President Spencer W. Kimball and his two counselors have issued statements condemning the ERA on grounds it would undermine the family structure in America. Kimball has said the church supports equality for all people, regardless of race or sex, but he has said the church's lobbying — both openly and covertly — against the ERA.

Ms. Johnson maintained that she was excommunicated for being in favor of the ERA, but Mormon officials said she was cut off for vocally criticizing the church's leaders and its policy.

Ms. Walker and Marchant compared themselves to protestants who rebelled against the authority of the Roman Catholic Church. "These Mormon protestants believe the Mormon prophet and priesthood are unnecessary and are exercising unrighteous dominion in their political activities.

Majority of alcoholics not skid-row derelicts

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband has finally admitted that he has a problem with alcohol and has consented to go for treatment. I haven't told any of our friends about this, and they probably wouldn't believe me if I did. My husband is a fairly successful attorney, well liked and active in the community. He is definitely not the typical alcoholic. Has anyone ever determined what traits make a person turn to drink? — Mrs. A.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Your comment about your husband not being a typical alcoholic suggests you assume that alcoholics are skid-row derelicts. If so, your assumption is way off base. Most alcoholics are products of middle and upper socioeconomic families.

Dr. Morris Chafetz, president of the Health Education Foundation, says there is no single personality type among people who abuse alcohol. However, there are certain personality characteristics and patterns of behavior that are commonly found among many, but not all, alcoholics.

The most commonly seen trait in alcoholics is a low frustration tolerance. If an alcoholic does not have a desire or a request immediately gratified, he or she may react with anger or withdrawal, interpreting the lack of response as a rejection.

A second trait, Dr. Chafetz notes, is sociability. Alcoholics often are popular people with a good sense of humor and a gift for story-telling. Despite this characteristic, the alcoholic often is unable to maintain satisfying permanent relationships.

Thirdly, alcoholics combine feelings of inferiority with attitudes of superiority. They frequently act as if they are entitled to preferential treatment, on the other hand, they rarely admit to feelings of inferiority, although they may do so after a drinking bout when they feel sick and remorseful.

A fourth trait that characterizes alcoholics is fearfulness. Since they feel inadequate, many alcoholics are afraid of any task that may pose a challenge to their abilities. This may be as true of a job as of a human relationship.

Finally, most alcoholics are emotionally dependent. In general, these personality traits are similar to those found in children. In a child, however, such behavior is normal and accepted; in an adult, it is not. Often such behavior causes anxiety in others and may be expressed as contempt and moral indignation.

Your husband should be complimented for his decision to seek treatment for his problem. You can best help by trying to understand why he believes as he does, and letting him know of your loving concern and support.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've got to believe that people were healthier when they ate natural foods that did not contain additives. When did we start trying to improve on nature? — Gil

Dear Gil: You'll have to go back a long way to find a time when food additives were not used. Spices and condiments, for example, probably were added to foods as long as 3,000 years ago.

Poll indicates Detroit blacks more mistrustful of whites

DETROIT (AP) — Black residents of Detroit are becoming more mistrustful of whites, according to a poll comparing the current attitudes of city residents with those found in a similar poll taken in 1977.

The poll also indicated that most blacks believe that education, political action and economic development are more productive in obtaining a better life than rioting.

The survey was conducted for the Detroit Free Press by Massoglia & Associates of East Lansing and the results were published Sunday in a copyright story.

The survey and communications firm interviewed 386 black and 340 white Detroit residents in October. The margin of error for results in each racial group was five percent.

The researchers said that 64 percent of the blacks interviewed this year said they could trust some or most whites, compared with 83 percent in 1977.

The latest poll indicated that 43 percent of the blacks feel most whites do not care about helping them.

The 1977 poll said that half as many blacks, 21 percent, thought whites did not care.

Of the whites surveyed, 36 percent said they would like to see blacks progress, 39 percent said they did not care, 10 percent said they wanted to keep blacks down and 14 percent had no opinion.

Pollsters said that 93 percent of the blacks questioned said education would help the black cause, 77 percent mentioned voting for pro-black candidates, 73 percent backed civil rights activism and 75 percent singled out development of black businesses.

Twenty-one percent of the blacks thought rioting and fighting would help blacks, while 28 percent said it would not help and 38 percent said it would hurt. Fourteen percent thought avoiding white people would help blacks.

Polish Communist Party trying to deal with crisis

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A crucial meeting of the Polish Communist party Central Committee was scheduled today to deal with Poland's economic crisis and surge of liberalism following the formation of independent unions in this Soviet-bloc country.

Communist party chief Stanislaw Kania was to deliver a keynote speech at the two-day meeting. The session, according to an official announcement, will discuss "tasks of the party in the fight for the socialist character of the renewal of social life."

Central Committee secretary Zdzislaw Kurkowski predicted over the weekend that the party would "deepen and accelerate" the purge of those who refuse to accept changes in Polish life or who have abandoned party doctrine following the wave of summer strikes that led to formation of the unions free from Communist party control.

A source with contacts on the Central Committee described the situation within the party leadership as "very tense," with various factions seeking power.

Officials have said that over the past three months, 902 people have been purged from the party, which has a membership estimated to be under 3 million in this country of 35 million. In addition to the purges, changes in top party and government posts have been made in nearly half of the 49 Polish provinces.

There was speculation the meeting might produce some high level personnel changes, with party leader Kania placing his own associates in key posts.

The meeting is the first plenary session since early October and the second since the strikes ended in early September. At a session on Sept. 5, days after the strike ended, Kania replaced former Communist party chief Edward Gierek.

Meanwhile, in an article published today, Poland's Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu denounced the idea of loosening party control as was suggested in a recent editorial in another Warsaw newspaper.

"Only a strong monolithic party can steer the process of socialist construction in Poland, protect the nation against perilous tendencies (and) work out a program to lead the country out of the crisis," the official party organ said.

It severely censured Wojciech Lamentowicz, a professor at the Central Committee academy, who wrote in the Warsaw daily Zycie Warszawy that it was about time "to desist from the formula of the leading role of the (Communist) party" in Poland.

Lamentowicz claimed the party leadership "cannot hold the monopoly of the only proper ideas for Poland's progress."

Three inmates escape

QUITMAN, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers, state troopers and officers from 10 counties combed a wide stretch of East Texas underbrush today for two inmates who fled the Wood County Jail after a deputy was wounded.

A third escapee, identified as 17-year-old Edward Morrow, was found hiding in a culvert near the jail late Saturday, a sheriff's spokesman said.

Sunday afternoon near Mineola, about eight miles south of Quitman. But the escapee did not turn up, he said.

The inmates broke a visiting booth window at the jail and walked through an unlocked door, said Wood County Sheriff Bill Edd Jones.

They grabbed a .38-caliber revolver owned by dispatcher Maxine Whitaker, he said, and left on foot after shooting the deputy.

Jones said Morrison and Blaylock were believed to be in the Quitman area, but authorities issued an alert for a wide area of East Texas.

Morrow was scheduled to be tried on a forgery charge, Jones said.

Cooperation gets firms banned, says newspaper

DALLAS (AP) — The only three companies known to have cooperated with a federal investigation into bribery and fraud at the Army Air Force Exchange Service have been banned from doing business with the huge retailing operation at the insistence of a congressman, according to published reports.

iel to AAFES Commander Maj. Gen. Duane H. Stubbs in which Daniel said it was "incumbent upon AAFES to suspect these contractors from doing business with the government," The News said.

"The panel (the House Armed Forces Committee Nonappropriated Fund Panel of the investigation's subcommittee) is of the opinion that for any or all of the reasons the government could immediately cease doing business with the three aforementioned companies," the letter said.

"While the panel understands you have suspended Bazar Inc. Sales Co., serious consideration should be given immediately to suspending the other two." The two other firms were suspended immediately upon receipt of the letter, the newspaper said.

Daniel, contacted at his Washington office Friday, said he does not believe his actions constitute obstruction.

"Our position is that anyone who violates the rules is not going to do business with the military resale system," he said. "Why should we tolerate people who won't live by the rules?"

The congressman would not say who gave him the names of the three companies. "I was just told they had violated the rules and I wanted them out of there," he said.

"The letter from Daniel only clears the way for Gen. Stubbs to suspend these other companies," said AAFES spokesman Col. Dick Henry.

Bazar has filed suit against AAFES seeking reinstatement because the company was susspended without hearing or other due process. An attorney for Churchill Sales said a similar suit would be filed in behalf of his client.

"We had a firm agreement with AAFES that they would give us an opportunity to come down and see them before they did this," said Churchill attorney Plato Cacheris of Washington.

"What is also interesting is that Churchill has been very cooperative with the U.S. attorney's office and this action is going to severely impair that relationship," he said. "AAFES knows it is and is doing it despite the fact that it will impair the investigation."

The task force investigating the bribery scheme includes representatives of the Justice Department's public integrity section, U.S. attorneys in Dallas and San Antonio, the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service, with assistance from the Air Force Office of Special Investigations.

The News quoted unnamed sources as saying pressure to end the investigation comes at a time when the probe should be accelerated.

"This thing has gone a lot deeper than they anticipated," a federal source was quoted as saying. "There are a lot of people getting scared. They have found out they can't get the investigation stopped in Dallas, so now they are turning their attention to Washington."

The three suspended companies have pleaded guilty to charges of bribing AAFES employees, but at least nine other companies accused in the kickback scheme continue to do business with the AAFES, The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story.

The three companies — Bazar Sales Co., Churchill Sales Co. and Martin A. Taylor Co. — are awaiting sentencing on the bribery counts and were banned at the specific direction of U.S. Rep. Dan Daniel, D-Va., the newspaper said in its Sunday editions.

Daniel heads the congressional panel investigating the AAFES, the nation's seventh largest retailing operation.

The newspaper said it obtained the names of at least nine other companies that have been linked to bribes and payoffs and still do business with the AAFES. Five of the companies have either pleaded guilty or have been convicted and four are named in court documents, The News said.

Officials close to the federal investigation were quoted in the newspaper as saying the ban is an attempt to apply political pressure to bring the investigation to a speedy conclusion.

Daniel's actions could jeopardize the government's two-year inquiry and "border on obstruction of justice," one unnamed federal official said.

More than 50 AAFES employees, nine military sales representatives and a dozen companies have been linked to the fraudulent purchasing and procurement scheme that reportedly accounted for hundreds of thousands of dollars in illicit payments, the newspaper said.

Booklet offers information on new products

Consumer food preferences, lifestyle trends, product cost and nutritive value are all important elements in the research conducted by food companies before a new product is considered for development ... and that's only the beginning.

A revised booklet from the Consumer's Right To Know program, "A Food Product... from Concept to Consumer," details the many steps that precede the marketing of a quality food product. From the first idea straight through to consumer responsibility, the booklet outlines the story behind the satisfaction guaranteed label. ("Satisfaction cannot be guaranteed unless the manufacturer has strong support from the carrier, retailer and consumer.")

One of eight in a series of Consumer's Right To Know booklets offering the kind of information today's consumer needs and wants single free copies of "A Food Product... from Concept to Consumer" are available by sending a post card to:

History quiz

Are you ready for a Texas history quiz?

What state elected the first woman governor in the United States and inaugurated the nation's only all-woman Supreme Court — all within the same year?

Texas, of course.

The year was 1925 when Miriam "Ma" Ferguson was sworn in as Texas' and the nation's first female governor, and the Texas Supreme Court was composed of three prominent women attorneys.

"Most Texans know about Ma Ferguson, but few have ever heard about the All Woman Supreme Court," appointed only 5 years after women won the right to vote," says Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards.

Richard said the women were appointed to hear a case involving a fraternal organization whose members included all the male members of the Court, as well as most of the male attorneys of the state who might be charged with a conflict of interest in the case.

Richards said these little-known facts of Texas history are being uncovered by the Texas Women's History Project of the Texas Foundation for Women's Resources, a non-profit organization. Richards is a board member.

The material is being gathered for a major exhibit about Texas women — and the difference they make in the history of the state. The exhibit is tentatively scheduled to open at the Institute of Texas Cultures in San Antonio in 1981. A film, a "traveling" exhibit and several publications are also planned.

More than 4,000 Texas museums, historical organizations, libraries, universities and private individuals have been surveyed to identify artifacts, photographs, documents and other material to include in the exhibit.

"The response has been overwhelming," says Mary Beth Rogers, project director. "We have had calls from all parts of Texas, with offers of information, materials and assistance to the project."

Rogers said that the project will soon publish a "Guide to Sources on Women's History in Texas," compiled from the unprecedented project survey, and a search through libraries and collections all across the state.

"This is a remarkable addition to scholarship about Texas history in general, and specifically to the understanding of the role of women in shaping that history," Rogers said.

Initial funding for the project has been provided by the Texas Committee for the Humanities and more than 100 private donors. Additional funds are currently being solicited to carry out future plans.

For more information about the project, contact the Texas Foundation for Women's Resources, P.O. Box 4806, Austin, Texas, 78765.

DEAR ABBY

Kissin' cousins want to marry

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Bobby and I grew up together on the same block. My mother and his father are brother and sister — that makes us first cousins.

Bobby is four months older than I am. We are both 17 and will be 18 when we graduate from high school next spring. Our closeness over the years grew into a real love affair by the time we were 13. We had discovered early the difference between boys and girls and freely experimented with that discovery until we finally went all the way. Our relationship was a well-guarded secret until about a month ago when my mother came home early and caught us.

Now we are trying to convince our parents that we want to marry after graduation next June. We have been planning it for almost a year. They say cousins shouldn't marry — that any children from such a marriage may not be normal.

Is this true? Bobby and I are sure that this is what we really want. — LOVERS FOR SURE

DEAR LOVERS: Perhaps you are mistaking the excitement of your first sexual awakening for "love." Don't rush into marriage. Date others, and later, when you are more mature and experienced, if you do decide to marry, consult a lawyer to learn in which states first-cousin marriages are permissible. Then see a genetic counselor to determine your chances for having healthy, normal children.

DEAR ABBY: You informed STUPID CITY KID, AGE 55, about the rooster's male organ. Well, I want to tell you that you also enlightened Stupid Grandpa, age 80, about something I had wondered about all my life!

I would sign this, but I'm too ashamed of my ignorance to sign my name, and this town is so small, any reference to it would probably give me away. — TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: Thanks, Grandpa. (P.S. For those who may have missed that column, STUPID CITY KID, AGE 55, said he had never seen a rooster's male organ, and asked if perhaps it was so small it was invisible. I replied, "It's large enough to do the job for which it was intended, but it's nothing to crow about.")

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend (not a close friend — but a talkative one) who telephones me daily, and sometimes two or three times a day.

I am a very busy person and I have no time for chitchat. Her calls are always the same. She talks endlessly about the same people. Borrrrring!

I realize that this woman has nothing to do but talk on the phone, but it is a waste of my time and makes me very nervous.

I have purposely refused to answer my phone at times thinking it was "Mrs. Time-waster," only to learn later that it was an invitation that I would have been delighted to accept.

Please don't tell me to get an unlisted number. She would be the first one to ask for it, and I wouldn't know how to keep from giving it to her without hurting her feelings. — READY FOR A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

DEAR READY: Since you don't want to hurt her feelings, I hope you can afford an answering service or a tape-recording device, because that appears to be your only hope for peace and privacy. It's not cheap, but it's cheaper than a nervous breakdown.

Women pharmacists here to stay

There is still discrimination against women in the world of pharmacy, but women are a growing force in numbers and in positions of authority, and the woman in the white coat behind the counter is here to stay.

"Just look around," says the November issue of American Druggist. "Substantially more women than ever now own independent drug stores, manage drug chain outlets, run hospital pharmacy departments, teach in pharmacy schools, head professional organizations, carry out laboratory research and development on new drugs, act as detailwomen and hold executive positions in the pharmaceutical industry."

"Some discrimination, whether subtle or obvious," continues to exist. Certain regional drug chains resist admitting women into management training programs. Many state organizations freeze out women professionally, politically and economically.

"But with growing confidence and savvy, women are fanning out through all sectors of the profession."

The magazine reports that this year 40 percent of all pharmacy school graduates were women. In 1970, women numbered 22 percent. More than 25,000 women practice pharmacy today, and an estimated 50,000 will be in the profession 20 years from now.

Since women take 65 percent of all prescribed drugs, make 65 percent of all emergency hospital visits linked to drugs, comprise 83 percent of all drug chain customers and hold 43 million jobs, the importance of the female pharmacist is all the greater.

The American Pharmaceutical Association Task Force on Women in Pharmacy has done documented research on men and organizations still not prepared to give women an even break.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Household chore tips for working wives

DEAR HELOISE:

Here are a few ways I, as a working wife, cope with household chores:

Put things away. There's no need to have all sorts of things sitting on tables and counters. Have one or two things out and switch them around every so often. Less to pick up when dusting.

Do two weeks of grocery shopping one evening after work. There's nothing I dread more than facing the grocery store on a Saturday. Fix soup and sandwiches for dinner that night.

Schedule your chores each week. Of course, your schedule won't always work out that way, but you'll know what you have to do in order to leave your weekend more open.

Make a quick run around the house before bedtime and put things away. A place can get cluttered awfully fast.

Take time out for yourself, whether it be for reading, a hobby or watching TV. If you do something you enjoy, it makes facing house-cleaning a lot easier.

It's no fun facing a dirty house when you come home from work, or doing all the work on the weekend.

If you enjoy outings or trips on the weekends, it's a lot easier not having to think about the work you have to do Sunday evening before leaving for work Monday. — C.E.

Good advice, C.E. Better yet, get hubby and the kids in on the action too. Then everyone will have more free time. — Heloise

FABULOUS FIFTIES

Dear Heloise: After wasting half of several bottles of very expensive liquid medicine for my baby daughter by trying to spoon-feed her and then having her spew the medicine all over both of us, I had a brainstorm:

I put the dosage in the tip of an empty nipple. When I held the nipple to her mouth, she automatically sucked and swallowed the medicine. (The nipple easily holds one teaspoonful).

I always have a bottle of juice handy to change the taste. The medicinal nipple saves money and eliminates frustration.

I also outsmarted my baby, and this last is quite an accomplishment! — Kelli F. Matthews

RECIPE FILE

Dear Heloise: When using a recipe card, put the card between the tines of a fork and place the fork in a glass.

The card will be held at just the right angle for easy reading, and will be kept off the cabinet where it might become soiled. — Esther Chesney

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: Reading the letter from N.W. who found reading and crocheting materials for her mother who has cataracts, prompted me to write on a related matter.

I have an elderly neighbor who sometimes calls me in to read her mail to her. She can read some letters, but others are difficult, even for a person with good eyesight.

So, if anyone is writing to a person with impaired vision, please use black ink on white paper. Colored inks on colored paper can be almost invisible.

In addition, write large, with each individual letter distinct and well-formed. Leave more space than usual between words and between lines.

FOR MOM

Dear Heloise: Fix a bottom drawer in your kitchen and put the baby's toys in it.

This keeps him occupied and happy, yet under Mom's watchful eye while she's working in the kitchen. — Susie Poulson

AT WIT'S END

Having first baby is neat

The neat thing about having your first baby is that you have done something that no one has ever done in the history of the world: given birth.

God only knows how all these other people got here... more than Grandma. I observed a new mother at the airport the other day who was going on her first trip away from her baby, leaving Grandma holding the hope of the free world.

And don't forget to burp her after every meal. Those air bubbles are painful. She's not like other babies. She never cries... only when something is bothering her. So check. Of course, she could have leaky plumbing if you catch my drift.

number, diaper service, hospital emergency, all-night druggist and... Grandma: "They're boarding now." "Bye, sweetheart. Oh, and remember. Mother, no soap—use the cotton tips with a little oil for those fat folds in the legs, and no patty-cake at bedtime. She gets too worked up. I'll call you as soon as I get there."

Colleges looking for women professors

By JANET LOWE Copley News Service

It doesn't take much observation — going back to graduate school is probably enough — to notice that most American universities are practicing greater discrimination against women than would be tolerated in most business and industries.

Two leading universities announced this fall that they would take steps to change that pattern in their own faculties, a move which may set a trend to be followed by other institutions of higher learning.

Both Harvard University in the East and Stanford in the West have taken positive steps to include more women and minorities on their faculties in both tenured and other positions.

With support from President Donald Kennedy, Stanford has begun a major national effort to recruit top women to tenured faculty positions.

Stanford made a similar effort in the early 1970s, and though results were impressive, momentum fell off. When fiscal cuts began a few years later, women again lost ground.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦72 ♦K1032 ♦J107 ♦KJ63

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 1 NT Pass

2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—This is a close decision. We would not fault you if you elected to pass, but since the two tens give your hand body and partner might have a very good hand, we would raise to three hearts. But then, we are optimists by nature. We might be more insistent about the rectitude of our course: were we vulnerable, where the rewards for bidding game are much greater.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦82 ♦AQ763 ♦AQ1073 ♦K

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

2 ♣ Pass 3 ♦ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Partner must have a fair hand. Your bid of two diamonds was not forcing, yet partner opted to raise. Actually, he could have quite a good hand but is reluctant to take stronger action for fear of getting overboard. We would raise to four diamonds to give him another chance. He might even have three-card heart support which he can now show without increasing the level.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦A10762 ♦J854 ♦A93 ♦6

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South

1 ♥ Dbie. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Cue-bids are normally forcing to game, but not after partner has made a takeout double. In that case, partner is requested to bid his best suit—the level of the contract is still open to question. Note how well a two club-cue bid works here. Regardless of which major partner shows, you intend to raise to the three-level, inviting partner to continue on to game if he has sound values for his initial action

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South with 40 on score you hold:

♦863 ♦7 ♦Q10873 ♦Q652

The bidding has proceeded: North East South

1 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—When we have a part score, we are prepared to go to great lengths to try to complete the game. However, there is a limit to our courage, and we have reached it with this hand. Call us chicken if you like, but all too often we find that, if we respond one no trump with this rag and the opponents compete, partner will refuse to let go of the bit and the result is an expensive penalty.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦A43 ♦J5 ♦10973 ♦Q65

The bidding has proceeded: North East South

2 ♦ 2 ♦ ?

What action do you take?

A.—The one thing you must not do is double—that conveys a specific message to partner: you have values in the enemy suit and nothing outside. Here you have a very good hand, and you should be thinking in terms of slam. The way to show your interest to partner is to start off with a cue-bid of three spades, followed by a club raise at your next turn.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦KJ76 ♦QJ ♦AJ543 ♦83

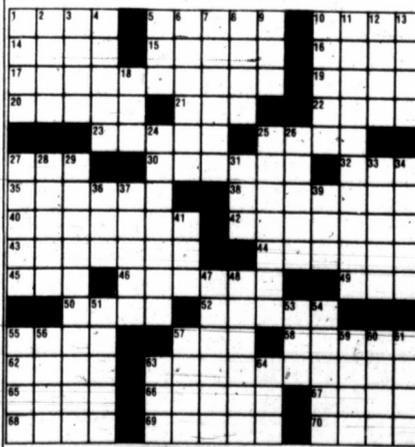

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—You have a hand that is easily good enough for two forward-going bids, so there is no need to distort the auction.

New tremors jolt Italy; Survivors won't leave

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Fresh tremors dealt another blow to the ruins of Pompeii today, forcing the ancient excavated city and popular tourist attraction to close indefinitely. Fourteen tremors jolted southern Italy during the night and early today, but hundreds of earthquake survivors resisted government orders to move. New cracks appeared in hundreds of buildings and monuments, weakened the foundations of others and undid earlier repairs in Pompeii, Fausto Zevi, superintendent of archeology in Naples, said. Pompeii suffered widespread damage when the quake struck eight days ago, killing an estimated 3,000 people in southern Italy. The quake was the first natural disaster to hit Pompeii since excavation began in the 18th century. The bustling ancient Roman city was buried by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 A.D. The Vesuvius Observatory and the National Geodynamics Research Council in Naples recorded the new tremors, but there was no immediate report on whether they caused casualties. One man killed himself rather than leave his dead sons. A deaf woman stayed in her shattered cellar seven days, surviving on biscuits and tomato sauce. Military officials said many of the homeless in tent camps insulted soldiers and government workers as they arrived with buses to transfer them to hotels being requisitioned by the government. "Some sent their children running in all directions just to create confusion and delay our operation," said an official outside Salerno. "Nobody really wants to go, because it would mean leaving their towns, but the weather is ugly and maybe people don't know that it isn't so nice living in a trailer," Giuseppe Zamberletti, the government's special commissioner for the earthquake zone, told The Associated Press. Government sources in Naples said nearly 1,000 of the homeless were bused to tourist hotels along the Naples Bay on Sunday, and that thousands more were expected to follow them today. In Olive Citra near Salerno, workmen rescued a 72-year-old deaf woman trapped under the ruins of her earthquake-demolished home for seven days. Anna Maria De Luca was eating biscuits and tomato sauce in her partially collapsed cellar when firemen reached her Sunday night, officials reported. Mrs. De Luca was reported in good condition at a Salerno hospital. In the Avellino suburb of Caposele, a 49-year-old man who lost his three children in the earthquake committed suicide by firing a shotgun blast into his head, police reported. Police said Antonio Cuzzo helped dig up the bodies of his sons and was about to leave town with his wife. At the last minute, he told his wife he forgot something, returned to his partially destroyed home and shot himself. Two strong aftershocks jolted the quake area Sunday, arousing new fears among the survivors. But the only casualty reported was a 62-year-old man who rushed from his shaking home with two children and died of a heart attack. "Ninety-five percent of the people here still won't sleep in their homes because they have cracks and might fall down in another quake," said Mario Di Feo of Volturara, a village east of Naples. But Dr. Vincenzo Palumbo of Calabritto said the people "look with suspicion on the invitation to move to hotels. They might accept going to live in other Italian and European cities where there are other people from their villages. They would feel less alone. With snow, sleet and sub-freezing temperatures threatening the health of those in tent camps, Zamberletti's office announced that 12,000 beds were available in resort hotels along the coasts. The government said it would pay the hotels their usual rates, pay for the food and other living expenses of the refugees and get them out by April 30, before the start of the tourist season. Interior Ministry officials said temporary housing would be built. The army estimates 265,000 people lost their homes in the quake Nov. 23 and that shelter must be provided for 170,000 of these. About 65,000 are expected to go to relatives or friends in northern Italy or foreign countries.

Iran claims but Iraq denies capture of big oil terminal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran claimed its commandos captured one of Iraq's major oil shipping terminals in the biggest naval battle of the Persian Gulf war, but Iraq said its forces repulsed the attack and sank a frigate and three other warships. Iran said its naval forces occupied the giant Mina al-Bakr oil terminal at the northwestern corner of the gulf and hung the red, white and green flag of the Islamic Republic of Iran "at the highest point" of a derrick. It said Iranian warships sank four Iraqi missile boats and seven other gunboats in the three-day battle. Iraq said the Iranian claims were false, and the political commentator of Paris, the Iraqi news agency, invited "anybody who seeks the truth to visit al-Bakr." An Iraqi communique said in addition to the four Iranian warships sunk, Iraqi forces shot down three of Iran's Phantom jet fighter-bombers and two helicopter gunships. Iran said one of its gunboats was badly damaged but admitted no other losses. Tehran Radio said the battle began Friday with Iranian raids on Mina al-Bakr and the port of Fao, 12 miles to the north. Fao, at the mouth of the Shatt al-Arab estuary, is the site of the pumping stations that send crude oil to Mina al-Bakr and Khor al-Amaya, another offshore loading terminal nearby. The two deepwater terminals had a combined capacity of 2.8 million barrels of crude oil a day, but they have not been in operation since the early days of the war. However, the pro-Syrian Lebanese newspaper As-Safir reported that Syria has agreed to allow Iraq to resume exporting oil through the 550-mile pipeline from the Kirkuk fields in northern Iraq to Mediterranean terminals in Syria and Lebanon. The pipeline has a capacity of 1.2 million barrels a day, but Iraq stopped using it in 1976 to protest the Syrian army's intervention in Lebanon to prevent the defeat of the Christians by the Moslems in the Lebanese civil war. Although Syria backs Iran in the war and Iraq broke off diplomatic relations with Syria in October, the newspaper said the agreement was prompted by "the pressing economic interests" of both Syria and Iraq and would not resolve the decades-old feud between their rival ruling parties. Observers said Iraqi use of the pipeline would contribute more than $125 million a year in transit fees to Syria, which had a $2 billion deficit in its balance of payments last year.

Abscam trial in final phases

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal Abscam bribery-conspiracy trial of Reps. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., and John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., is entering its final phases with lengthy closing arguments expected from both sides. Last-minute testimony was scheduled today from an FBI technician, who was to be questioned about a back-up audio tape of an Oct. 20, 1979, meeting between Murphy and undercover agents. Federal prosecutor Thomas Puccio was then to begin closing arguments to the jury. The two lame-duck representatives, both chairmen of powerful House committees, are accused of sharing portions of $100,000 in bribe payoffs from undercover FBI agents in return for promising to assist bogus Arab sheiks with immigration matters. Last week Puccio told U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt in Brooklyn that his summation could take as long as three hours, including his allotted 30 minutes for rebuttal. Stephen Kaufman, Thompson's main attorney, was granted a three-hour period for summation. Michael Tigar, attorney for Murphy, said he would take no longer than 90 minutes. Much of the evidence presented during the trials was in the form of videotapes secretly recorded by FBI agents as the defendants held meetings. Videotapes showed money-laden briefcases leaving meetings in the hands of Howard Criden, a co-defendant whose case was severed. Criden was convicted with then-Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., in an earlier Abscam trial. The government contended that Murphy, former chairman of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, and Thompson, chairman of the House Administration Committee, both knew there was money in the briefcase and that Criden carried the loot out by prearrangement. Both Thompson and Murphy, with a combined 44 years service in the House, deny they ever received any money. During the trial they attempted to suggest that Criden, a Philadelphia attorney who faces several other Abscam trials, was taking the money in the names of the unsuspecting politicians, but keeping it for himself. When he took the stand, Thompson said he agreed to meet with the agents posing as representatives of the sheiks only because the Arabs were supposedly interested in making huge investments in his Trenton, N.J., congressional district. Thompson said the immigration matters raised at his first Oct. 9, 1979, meeting were a surprise to him. He said that when he met the agents again later in the day he assumed the briefcase Criden left with contained immigration forms. City, county and bank officials will attend the groundbreaking ceremonies, as well as officials from the investment building-development firm of Gerald D. Hines. Coffee and doughnuts will be served upstairs in the Officers Lounge after the ceremonies.

George Rogers named winner of 1980 Heisman

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — George Rogers, who put the University of South Carolina on the college football map while becoming the fourth leading rusher in NCAA history, won the 16th Heisman Trophy today as the nation's outstanding player.

Rogers, a 6-foot-2, 220-pound senior from Duluth, Ga., who leads the nation's rushers this season with 1,781 yards in 11 regular-season games and 6.0 yards per carry, won by a comfortable margin over defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh. Herschel Walker, Georgia's sensational freshman running back, was third, the highest finish ever posted by a first-year player.

Rogers received 216 first-place votes, 179 second-place votes and 122 third-place ballots for a total of 1,128 total points based on a 3-2-1 scoring system.

Green received 179 votes for first place, 125 seconds, and 74 thirds for 861 points. Walker's totals were 107-120-122 for 683 points.

Rogers carried four of the six regions into which the country is divided — the Mid-Atlantic, South, Southwest and Far West. Green captured the Northeast, while Purdue quarterback Mark Herrmann, who finished fourth overall with 405 points, won the Midwest.

Rounding out the top 10 Heisman finishers were: Jim McMahon, Brigham Young quarterback; Art Schlichter, Ohio State quarterback; Neil Lomax, a quarterback from small college Portland State University and college football's all-time passing leader; Jarvis Redwine, Nebraska running back; Kenny Easley, UCLA safety; and a three-way tie for 10th among Anthony Carter, Michigan wide receiver, Mike Singletary, Baylor linebacker, and Dave Wilson, Illinois quarterback.

Rogers became the eighth consecutive running back to win the Heisman and the 31st in the 46 years of the award. Green was only the third lineman to finish as high as second without doubling as a pass-catching end. The others were Alex Karras of Iowa in 1957 and John Hicks of Ohio State in 1973.

Rogers received much publicity this season not only for extending his string of 100-yard games to 21 but also because of his background. He left home and lived in several Georgia towns during his teen-age years and also made headlines when his father was released from jail in October after serving almost eight years for the fatal shooting of a girl friend.

McMahon led the country in total offense and passing. During BYU's 12-game regular season, he was 284 of 445 and set a pair of NCAA marks by passing for 4,571 yards and 47 touchdowns.

Broncos, Raiders on tube tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders will have Monday night working for them and a run-down look on offense to overcome when they take on the Denver Broncos in a game crucial to both teams.

Coach Tom Flores' Raiders lost to the Philadelphia Eagles 10-7 last Sunday, ending a six-game winning streak which included Monday night victories over Pittsburgh and Seattle. Oakland has the best Monday night record in the National Football League, 15-1-1 since the nationally televised series began in 1970.

The Raiders, 8-4, are one-half game behind in the American Conference West with the 9-4 San Diego Chargers, who beat the Eagles Sunday. The Broncos are 7-5 in the AFC West.

The Raiders, who may move to Los Angeles next season, expect their first sellout crowd of the season.

Highland Park savoring chance against Plano

By ALAN SAYRE
Associated Press Writer

Defending state champion Temple lost its scalp there, but Highland Park is savoring its chance to enter Plano's personal stomping ground at Texas Stadium.

Plano grabbed five Temple turnovers and Butch Fifield and Ken Massa rumbled across the Texas Stadium turf for touchdowns as the underdog Wildcats posted a 16-10 regional playoff victory against Temple Friday night.

JUST OVER 24 hours later at the same site, John Bonnett scored from 1 yard out with just over four minutes left as Highland Park posted a 21-14 win over Dallas South Oak Cliff. Bonnett scored three plays after the Scots successfully converted a fourth-and-one situation into a first down.

The Scots will tangle with Plano next Saturday at Texas Stadium — where the Wildcats have never lost a game.

Other 5A quarterfinal matchups include San Antonio Holmes, a 14-13 winner over San Antonio Churchill, against Alice, a 10-3 victor over Stafford Dulles.

Houston Stratford downed Houston Washington, 17-3, to earn a berth against Port Arthur Jefferson, which edged La Marque, 29-24.

BRAD WILLIAMS slipped across from the 7 for a fourth-quarter touchdown to carry Amarillo to a 10-7 win over El Paso Bel Air and a spot against Odessa Permian. Permian trounced Fort Worth Richland, 37-7.

Paris used a deflected pass to upset Gainesville in a Class 4A semifinal, 13-12. On the last play of the first half, quarterback Joel McCray tossed a Hail Mary aerial deep in the Gainesville end zone. Three defenders tipped the ball away from one Paris receiver into the waiting arms of Ricky Dirks.

PARIS WILL make its first semifinal appearance in 38 years next weekend against Lubbock Estacado, a 14-0 winner over Brownwood.

The other 4A matchup will feature Huntsville, who stomped Georgetown, 26-6, and Bay City, a 42-14 victor over Brownsville Pace.

In 3A regional playoffs, Pittsburg knocked defending state champion Van out of the picture with a 24-0 shutout in Tyler.

LITTLEFIELD UPSET Childress, 17-0; West trounced Hamshire-Fannett, 35-12; Waller edged Caldwell, 9-7; Van Vleck rolled to a 28-6 win over San Antonio Randolph; and Port Isabel outplayed Edna, 17-9.

Decatur downed Allen 19-10, while Stamford blasted Canutillo, 36-13.

Quarterfinal matchups in 3A include Littlefield-Stamford, Decatur-Pittsburg, West-Waller and Van Vleck-Port Isabel.

In 2A playoffs, Rotan downed Plains, 18-13; Pilot Point ran over Boyd, 51-7; Forney blitzed Big Sandy, 38-0; Garrison beat Mart, 21-7; Tidehaven won over Mart 14-13; Woodsboro shut out Charlotte, 14-0; and Moody jumped Mason, 14-10.

In Class A quarterfinals, Valley beat Klondike, 6-0; Rankin creamed Meridian, 34-0; Valley View blasted Colmesneil, 29-14; and Falls City blanked La Pryor.

That sets up semifinal matches next weekend between Valley and Rankin and Valley View and Falls City.

Browns dump Houston

Chargers knock off Eagles to help Cowboys

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns can rightly claim control of their own destiny now, but they can't help but benefit from one of the most crucial show-downs of the 1980 National Football League season Thursday night when Houston plays host to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Browns unlocked a tie in the American Conference Central Division Sunday by winning a 17-14 thriller over the Oilers, whose Thursday night confrontation with Pittsburgh should pare the race to two teams.

"It was obviously a very big win for us," Browns quarterback Brian Sipe said. "We are in control of our own destiny."

PITTSBURGH'S 23-10 victory over Miami left the Steelers and Oilers tied for second in the division at 8-5, while Cleveland moved in front by a game at 9-4.

Steelers Coach Chuck Noll said his team still was on the road to recovery from a series of disabling injuries to players like wide receivers Lynn Swann and John Stallworth, running backs Rocky Bleier and Franco Harris, Jacks Ham and Lambert and quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

"We hope we're on the right road," Steelers Coach Noll said.

Steelers safety Don Shell shrugged off Pittsburgh's rugged schedule that sees them play two games in five days.

"I'm ready. I'm psyched. I'm fired up. I'm ready to go," he said. "Ain't got time to worry about how tired you are or how physically ready you are to play... if we had to play tomorrow, I could go out and play."

Fullback Cleo Miller ran for two short-yardage touchdowns to give Cleveland a 14-0 lead in the second period. Don Cockroft's 25-yard field goal in the third quarter provided the Browns with their eventual winning margin.

HOUSTON HAD a chance to tie the game in the fourth quarter, but Toni Fritsch missed a 38-yard field goal attempt when he scuffed his foot.

In the AFC East, New England failed to take advantage of Buffalo's 28-24 loss to Baltimore by losing 21-17 to San Francisco. That left the 8-5 Patriots one game back of the Bills, 9-4.

The San Diego Chargers moved a half game ahead of Oakland in the AFC West with a 22-21 victory over Philadelphia. The Chargers are now 9-4, and the 8-4 Raiders face a must situation when they host Denver tonight.

The loss dropped the Eagles to 11-2 and one game ahead of Dallas, a 51-7 winner over Seattle on Thursday, in the National Conference East. Minnesota took advantage of Detroit's 23-17 overtime loss to Chicago on Thursday to move into a tie for the NFC Central lead with a 23-20 victory over winless New Orleans.

The NFC West race remained much the same with both division-leading Atlanta, 10-3, and Los Angeles, 9-4, on the winning side of the ledger. Atlanta edged Washington 10-6, and the Rams whipped the New York Jets 38-13.

Elsewhere, it was St. Louis 23, the New York Giants 7; Cincinnati 20, Kansas City 6, and Tampa Bay 20, Green Bay 17.

Steelers 23, Dolphins 10

Harris topped off his best game of the season with a 9-yard touchdown run that sealed Pittsburgh's victory. Harris ran for 116 yards in the game on 28 carries.

"It's gratifying," Harris said, "but even more important than that, it's really jelling offensively. We're putting everything together. That's the important thing."

Harris' touchdown capped a 98-yard drive that began as the Dolphins were threatening to take the lead. Steelers cornerback Ron Johnson forced a fumble by Dolphins running back Tony Nathan on the 1, and 15 plays later, Bradshaw had guided Pittsburgh to paydirt.

49ers 21, Patriots 17

Joe Montana threw three touchdown passes, all after the 49ers had intercepted Steve Grogan passes, to lead San Francisco to its second straight victory.

Grogan was intercepted six times as the 49ers set a club record. Two of the interceptions were by Keena Turner that killed a New England drive late in the fourth quarter.

Colts 28, Bills 24

Curtis Dickey ran for two touchdowns, and Baltimore scored each of its four TDs after some sort of Buffalo miscue. Dickey scored twice in the second half after an interception and a recovered fumble.

Colts quarterback Greg Landry, substituting for the injured Bert Jones, threw for a score after a fumbled punt, and he ran for another after Buffalo punter Greg Cater was tackled on his own 8.

Chargers 22, Eagles 21

Dan Fouts threw two scoring passes, and Rolf Bernischke kicked three field goals as San Diego ended Philadelphia's eight-game winning streak.

Fouts had 342 yards passing and went over the 300-yard mark for the sixth time this season, equalling for the second straight year the NFL record set by Joe Namath.

Philadelphia rallied to within a point on an 11-yard scoring pass from Ron Jaworski to Wilbert Montgomery with 2:50 left, but the Chargers picked up on first down and ran out the clock after the kickoff.

Vikings 23, Saints 20

Minnesota jumped to a 23-0 lead on scoring runs by Ted Brown and Doug Paschal, a 17-yard TD pass by Tommy Kramer and Rick Danmeier's 29-yard field goal before having to hold off a furious New Orleans rally.

Archie Manning threw three second-half touchdown passes for New Orleans, but the Saints saw any chance of their first victory erased when Minnesota linebacker Matt Blair blocked a 25-yard field goal attempt by Benny Ricardo.

Falcons 10, Redskins 6

Atlanta won a club-record seventh straight and held the slipping Redskins to Mark Moseley field goals of 61 and 46 yards.

Steve Bartkowski threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Alfred Jenkins early in the third quarter; and Tim Mazzetti kicked a 23-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for the Falcons.

The loss was Washington's fifth straight. Moseley's last field goal came with four minutes left in the game after an apparent Redskins touchdown pass of 24 yards from Mike Kruceck to Ricky Thompson was nullified by penalties against both teams.

Rams 38, Jets 13

Vince Ferragamo threw four touchdown passes, and Elvis Peacock, who replaced the injured Wendell Tyler in the first quarter, gained a personal high 152 yards for the Rams. Tyler left with a dislocated elbow.

Two of Ferragamo's scoring strikes were to Willie Miller. The Rams defense sacked Jets quarterback Richard Todd six times (See BROWNS, Page 2D)

Undefeated Chaparrals open WJCC play here

Midland College opens its Western Junior College Conference season at 8 p.m. today against Clarendon College at the Chaparral Center and the Chaparrals bring a glittering 7-0 record into the game.

What's remarkable is that six of those victories have come on the road. What's more they have come in two major tournaments, the Quarterback Classic at Hutchinson, Kan., and the Amarillo Classic, where the Chaps repeated as champions over the weekend.

One of the victims in the latter was Clarendon, 96-68, in an opening round game, which probably doesn't make Coach Jerry Stone feel any more comfortable going into tonight's game. It's all a matter of a tendency toward over-confidence.

Also on tap at the Center this week is the Chaparral Classic, a six-team invitational in which WJCC members MC, Howard College and Odessa College will mix it with Western Arizona, St. Philip's of San Antonio and Cisco.

Starting Thursday, three games will be played each night, concluding Saturday.

At Amarillo, MC encountered its toughest games of the season, beating Trinidad by six Friday and then rallying down the stretch to hold off Amarillo, 102-100, for the title.

Charles Johnson was named the tournament's MVP while Puntus Wilson made all-tournament and Ernie Tate contributed greatly to the cause. Johnson is a former standout at Midland High School.

Beavers capture Far West meet

By The Associated Press

Steve Johnson knew that the Brigham Young basketball team would remember him. It's hard to forget a player who burned you the year before.

"I knew that they would be coming at me hard," said the Oregon State center, "so I decided to start out slowly. I didn't want to run right into people."

That thinking translated into a poor performance for Johnson in the first half Saturday night. He only scored four points — hardly reminiscent of last year's towering 38-point show against the Cougars in the Far West Classic.

It wasn't until the second half that he let his shots all hang out, scoring 14 points, to help the seventh-ranked Beavers take a 75-68 decision over the No. 17 Cougars in a battle of Top 20 powers.

"I felt it was time for the seniors to take charge," pointed out Johnson, who scored the last five points of a 14-2 burst as the defending Pac-10 champions roared into a 65-54 lead in the late going.

RAY BLUME WAS another senior who helped the Oregon State cause in the second half, scoring 19 points overall.

"They are a truly great team," said BYU Coach Frank Arnold. "I said it before and nothing happened tonight to change my mind. They have great shooters. It's rare for a college team to have that many good shooters."

North Carolina won the Alaskan tournament Sunday night with a 64-58 victory over Arkansas as James Worthy scored 16 points and Al Wood had 14.

In other Shootout action Sunday night, Howard Carter had 19 points to help LSU beat Georgetown 76-67 for third place and Missouri took fifth with a 54-53 decision over Alaska-Anchorage as Steve Stipanovich hit a jump shot at the buzzer.

In other action Saturday night, top-ranked Kentucky squeezed by East Tennessee 62-57; fifth-ranked Indiana trimmed Ball State 75-69; No. 6 UCLA whipped 10th-ranked Notre Dame 94-81; eighth-ranked Virginia walloped Virginia Commonwealth 77-62 in the finals of the Virginia Tip-Off Tournament and No. 9 Ohio State turned back Cleveland State 89-81.

Also, No. 11 Missouri defeated Colgate 73-67 in a consolation game of the Great Alaska Shootout; No. 14 Iowa routed Northern Illinois 61-47; No. 17 St. John's won the Lapchick Tournament with a 68-62 victory over Penn and No. 19 Syracuse overwhelmed Columbia 108-81.

The Oregon State-BYU game was tied at 39 at the half and the Cougars held a 52-51 lead with 11:09 left before Johnson and Blume got the Pac-10 team going.

IN THE HALFTIME dressing room, Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller reminded his players of their performance last year against BYU and suggested, "It might be nice if you went to Johnson once in a while."

"When they did (in the first half)," said Miller, "he just kicked it back out." James Worthy scored 16 points and Al Wood contributed 15 as North Carolina beat Arkansas. Earlier, Howard Carter scored 19 points as LSU defeated Georgetown 76-67 in the third-place game and Missouri won fifth place by beating Alaska-Anchorage 54-53 on Steve Stipanovich's shot at the buzzer.

SAM BOWIE SCORED 15 points and Fred Cowan added 12 to help Kentucky struggle past East Tennessee in a game that figured to be a Wildcat romp. "I've been trying to bring them down to earth the last three weeks," said Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall, referring to the No. 1 ranking. Hall also said that his Wildcats were under intense pressure because of their youth — eight freshman and sophomores on the 12-man roster — and the top ranking.

Ray Tolbert led five players in double figures with 14 points as Indiana beat Ball State. Jim Thomas, starting in place of the injured Isiah Thomas, scored 12 points and grabbed six rebounds for the Hoosiers. Indiana's pressure defense "just took us out of the game," said Ball State (See BEAVERS, Page 4D)

Coach Steve Yoder. "They wore us down ... it was almost impossible for us to run our offense."
 Mike Sanders scored 24 points and Rod Foster added 22 to help UCLA beat Notre Dame. The Bruins' victory stopped a four-game losing streak against the Irish on their home court.
 "We wanted to pay them back," said Foster. "The revenge factor was strong for us. We were very nervous at the start, but we settled down."
 Jeff Lamp scored 24 points and Ralph Sampson added 19 as Virginia beat VCU in the Virginia Tip-Off finals.
 "Our defense was super in the first half," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "It got the lead for us and it gave us a chance to control the tempo."
 CLARK KELLOGG'S 21 points and 14 rebounds led Ohio State past Cleveland State. North Carolina's clutch free-throw shooting and some key plays by freshman Sam Perkins triggered a second-half rally to help the Tar Heels beat Georgetown. Scott Hastings' 25 points powered Arkansas past LSU.
 Vince Brooks, Steve Kraficisin and Kevin Boyle each scored 14 points as Iowa defeated Northern Illinois. David Russell scored 19 points, including two big foul shots in the last three minutes, as St. John's won the Lapchick tourney for the sixth straight year. Tony Bruin came off the bench to score 21 points as Syracuse routed Columbia.
 Clemson won the IPTAY tournament with a 99-71 rout of Fairfield behind Larry Nance's 24 points and Vanderbilt beat Western Kentucky 78-76 in the finals of the Wendy's Classic on Al McKinney's jumper with one second left.

Fitch displeased with Celtic team

By The Associated Press
 Boston Coach Bill Fitch can cope with his team losing to Milwaukee. After all, the Bucks are one of the strongest teams in the National Basketball Association and lead the Central Division with a 20-6 record.
 But losing to the Bucks Sunday night, when they were without three of their regulars ... well, that was too much for Fitch to handle.
 "I can't say anything nice about my basketball team," Fitch said after his Celtics dropped a 107-105 decision to the Bucks even though Milwaukee stars Marques Johnson, Bob Lanier and Brian Winters missed the game because of injuries.
 "They only had eight guys, but they went out there and did the job," Fitch said of the Bucks. "They did what I like to see. They played together better than they might have if they had everyone."
 Sidney Moncrief filled in at Winters' guard spot and scored 23 points. Pat Cummings started for Johnson at forward and scored 10 and defensive standout Harvey Catchings opened at center in place of Lanier. Junior Bridgeman, playing his usual sixth-man role, led Milwaukee with 25 points.
 In other NBA games, the Phoenix Suns edged the Houston Rockets 117-114, the Chicago Bulls beat the Los Angeles Lakers 122-108, the Seattle SuperSonics topped the New Jersey Nets 113-89 and the San Diego Clippers defeated the Golden State Warriors 120-100.
 Milwaukee led 100-91 with three minutes to play, but Boston chipped away and pulled within two points on Chris Ford's 15-foot jumper with 13

Allen out of Notre Dame contest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Cal tailback Marcus Allen, recuperating from an eye injury, will not play Saturday in the game pitting the No. 17 Trojans against second-ranked Notre Dame, Southern Cal Coach John Robinson said Sunday.
 Allen, the nation's second-leading rusher this fall, suffered momentary loss of vision and bleeding after being accidentally poked in the right eye during Southern Cal's 20-17 loss to UCLA on Nov. 22. He was hospitalized following the game.

 Dr. Victor Wechter said that Allen's condition has improved but that the junior tailback should limit his activity for the next two weeks.
 "There's some uncertainty about Marcus' condition, so he isn't going to practice or play against Notre Dame," Robinson said. "Winning all the Notre Dame games in the world wouldn't make up for a serious injury to a player."

Artesia rolling towards another state football title

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The silent weapon in the wishbone offense killed the Socorro Warriors' bid to stop Artesia's seemingly relentless drive to another Class AAA high school football title.
 The wishbone is a ground-oriented offense, but Saturday the Bulldogs took to the air to roll over Socorro 42-10 in a semifinal game.
 Artesia, now 12-1 for the year, will meet Bloomfield, 11-1, next Saturday in Bloomfield for the state championship. Bloomfield advanced to the title game with an impressive 32-18 win over Silver City last Friday. The AAA championship game will start at 1 p.m. Saturday.
 In Class AAAA, top-ranked and unbeaten Albuquerque Eldorado survived a scare from Albuquerque Highland to take a 13-7 semifinal win. Eldorado, 12-0, will meet Clovis, 11-1 for the AAAA championship Saturday at University Stadium in Albuquerque. Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m.
 Clovis overwhelmed defending champion Santa Fe 51-0 Friday night in the other semifinal matchup.
 Socorro tried to stop the Artesia wishbone by stacking the defensive line with a nine and at times 10-man front. The game plan managed to slow down the Bulldogs on the ground, but Artesia sophomore quarterback Scott Runyan simply found another route to the end zone — through the air.
 Runyan passed for three touchdowns and added two more on runs of 24 and 16 yards as the Bulldogs broke the game open in the second half after Socorro got its 10 points in the first quarter on an 18-yard field goal and an 80-yard run by quarterback Bill Ramsey.
 Artesia Coach Mike Phipps said later Runyan could have passed more than he did, but indicated the Bulldogs did not want to show Bloomfield too much of their offensive potential. Bloomfield players and coaches watched the Artesia win while en route home from Silver City Saturday.
 Runyan finished with 133 yards passing and added 87 more on the ground with 18 carries.
 Socorro finished the year with an 8-4 record. At Albuquerque, Eldorado lost the statistics but pulled out the win over Highland on Vince Warren's 26-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter.
 Highland penetrated the Eldorado 20-yard line four times in the first half, but came up with only one touchdown.

Aoki wins golf title by 1 stroke

OGAWA, Japan (AP) — Isao Aoki, Japan's top money winning golfer this year, shot a par 72 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 277 and won the $162,000 Gene Sarazen Classic, beating Spain's Severiano Ballesteros by one stroke.
 The 38-year-old Aoki started the final round seven shots ahead of Ballesteros in the tourney, played over the par-72 Jun Classic Country Club course, north of Tokyo.
 The victory was Aoki's fifth this season and 35th in his pro career. He earned $32,000.
 Ballesteros, the 1981 Masters champion, posted the lowest score of the final round, a sizzling six-under-par 66, and finished at 278.
 Japan's Koichi Inoue was a distant third at 285 after a closing 71.

Lobos down Aggies

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — New Mexico State opened its basketball season with some poor timing — it caught upstate rival New Mexico on the wrong night.
 The first installment in the annual two-part battle between the state's two major universities went to New Mexico Saturday, which handed first-year Coach Gary Colson his first victory with a 97-79 win over the Aggies.
 The Lobo victory came one day after New Mexico had opened its season with a lackluster effort against Colorado, which took a 77-65 win over the Lobos on Friday.
 New Mexico State returns to the court tonight when it faces Southwest Conference member Baylor in the Aggies' home opener at Las Cruces. The game is the first of three this week for NMSU, which also travels to face the University of Texas on Thursday and Colorado on Saturday.

Winter storm hits Plains states

By The Associated Press

A storm hit the Plains states early today, spreading snow from the northern Rockies through South Dakota.

The National Weather Service issued a storm warning for eastern Wyoming and travelers advisories for snow were in effect for parts of Utah and from Wyoming through South Dakota and Nebraska.

Storm watches for tonight were in effect for several midwestern states as far east as Illinois and Michigan.

By early today, most areas had no more than 2 inches of snow, although 4 inches fell on Casper, Wyo.

Parts of the Florida peninsula had some clouds, and clouds were advancing across the upper Mississippi Valley and the central Plains. Scattered light rain fell along the north Pacific Coast.

Snow, fog and bitter winds swept across Montana on Sunday, injuring dozens of people in auto accidents snagging traffic for hours.

The snowfall was generally light, but it came soon after a thaw and the result was a treacherous glaze on roads in the eastern two-thirds of the state. In Reno, Nev., winds of up to 80 mph knocked down power lines and left as many as 5,000 people without power Saturday and early Sunday.

Early-morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 1 below zero in Cutbank, Mont., to 67 in Corpus Christi, Texas.

The forecast for today, as compiled by the National Weather Service, called for snow to stretch from the northern plateau across the northern Rockies and much of the mid- and upper-Missouri Valley into southern Minnesota and northern Iowa.

Rain was forecast to be scattered from the mid-Mississippi Valley into the lower Ohio Valley. Scattered rain and snow was expected to continue over the Pacific Northwest.

Here is the early-morning weather for selected cities as provided by the weather service:

East: Atlanta 47 fair, Boston 38 cloudy, Caribou, Maine not available, Charleston, S.C. 35 fair, Cincinnati 49 fair, Cleveland 49 fair, Detroit 40 partly cloudy, Miami 64 partly cloudy, Nashville, Tenn. 53 fair, New York 45 fair, Philadelphia 43 fair, Pittsburgh 46 fair, Washington 49 fair.

Amtrak blocked by trestle fire

DALLAS (AP) — Amtrak passenger service between Dallas and Fort Worth may be delayed as many as 90 minutes a day because of a weekend fire that badly damaged a 1,200-foot wooden trestle, authorities said Sunday.

A wind-whipped blaze Saturday night virtually destroyed the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. trestle, which stretches across Mountain Creek Lake in southwest Dallas County.

Herman Smith, the railroad's chief special agent, said it could take two weeks to replace the bridge, at a cost of about $1 million.

More than 100 firefighters battled the blaze, which destroyed more than 900 feet of the trestle and shot crackling orange flames into the sky.

No one was injured in the blaze, which was brought under control early Sunday. Dallas County Fire Marshall Jim Badgett was investigating the fire's cause Sunday.

Women should fight rapists, new study indicates

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who try to fend off rapists with kicking, biting and other forms of violence are no more likely to be injured in a sexual attack than those who don't resist or who try to talk their way out of being raped, two new studies indicate.

"There is a myth that resistance would increase a woman's risk of being injured. But that does not appear to be the case at all," said Mary J. Lystad, chief of the National Center for the Prevention and Control of Rape, an agency of the National Institute of Mental Health.

The studies, funded by the institute but conducted by independent researchers, indicated that resistance, such as kicking, screaming, hitting, biting and attempting to flee, increased a woman's chances of escaping an attacker, Ms. Lystad said.

She said women who were passive, or who cried, tried to talk their way out of being raped, played on the attacker's sympathy or made themselves look less appealing were more likely to be raped. Women who were afraid to act unfeminine, arouse attention or act hastily often lost important opportunities to escape, the reports added.

"The thing not to do is act utterly passive," Ms. Lystad said.

"A woman who behaves as if she is weak and defenseless appears to increase her risk of rape."

The women most successful in escaping attacks characteristically were single and were heavier and taller than those who were raped, the studies said.

The studies were conducted by Pauline Bart of the University of Illinois Medical Center and Jennie McIntyre of the Bureau of Social Science Research Inc. in Washington, D.C.

Ms. Bart studied 94 women from the Chicago area who had been approached by attackers. Of those, 51 escaped. Ms. McIntyre studied 320 rape attempts, in which 120 of the women involved were able to flee.

Both researchers said that resistance did not lead to a greater risk of serious injury. In fact, they said, docile women who agreed to go with an assailant to an isolated location ran the greatest risk of bodily harm.

However, fighting back did increase the risk of minor injuries, such as bruises and black eyes, they said.

Whether or not an assailant had a weapon was a relatively unimportant factor in determining how the rape attempt turned out, the studies said.

The location of a rape attempt was significant. The studies reported that women approached in open areas were less likely to be raped than those approached in confined areas, such as an apartment or car.

A study released last year by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration found that resistance often resulted in a rape attempt being thwarted.
