4 Bandits Captured

CHICAGO (UPI) — Four gun-toting youths entered a subway train today, hindered 18 passengers into the rear car, robbed them and left the train at its next stop about 3 minutes later. Police called to the site just minutes after the holdup, picked up the four bandits hiding in a service station.

Then bandits used the barrels of their pistols to prod drooping riders and to herd all to the last car of the train, police said. After taking valuables from the victims they waved goodbye and left the train at an elevated station.

HEAVY LOSSES WORRY GOVERNMENT

Clamor For Halt To Legalized Gambling In Britain Growing

By ROBERT MUSLE
LONDON (UPI) — Las Vegas and Reno get more gamblers. The French Riviera has more glamor. But the capital of the high-stake gambling of the world is London.

It has been that way since a peer of the realm dropped $272,000 in a chemin-de-fer game only a few weeks after a bill legalizing gambling became law three years ago.

Nowhere in the west is there such consistent play at roulette or chemin-de-fer with 100 sterling ($260), 500 sterling ($1,400) or 1,000 sterling ($2,800) chips.

Night after night, for the British were always the high-stake bettors of Europe. Now that there is no reason to go abroad to indulge their gaming instincts they have been thronging the local casinos.

Criticism Mounts
And thereby they may have planted the seeds of the end of the great gambling spree. Distances made glamorous the tables that used to drift back about big-betting Britons from the gaming casinos of Monte Carlo, Cannes, Beauve.

With the action on its own doorstep the British government is beginning to worry about "the no-limit gaming clubs which revive the lurid vices of the 18th century and proliferate in every city and resort."

The quotation is from an angry editorial in the Sunday Times which urged a tax on gambling (there isn't one now) and the closing of most of the casinos in favor of a limited number of public-owned establishments.

The bell began to toll in earnest for wide-open gambling when George Thomas, joint parliamentary secretary at the Home Office, told a meeting "the time has come when we need to revise the betting and gaming act."

Problems Aired
He said it was being frankly admitted in government circles that the backers of the original bill had not anticipated the excesses now taking place.

"There are families," he said, "whose lives are being made a hell because of gambling. The time has come to strike a note of warning to the nation. Unless a halt is called we will be on the way to decadence from which it will be very difficult to recover."

This was especially worrying to the operators of the big London casinos, several of them housed in great mansions at great expense. Some of the time they have always advocated a tax on their earnings. They felt such a tax would forestall a public outcry and at the same time force passage of a law permitting them to sue for bad debts.

Many Bad Checks
Since gambling in Britain is on the honor system, the casinos are holding a total of millions of dollars in bad checks from players who decided to cut their losses by stopping payment.

The big casinos now fear they may suffer in a campaign more properly aimed at the smaller, badly-managed, occasionally crooked places. They say they are willing to abide by any home office restriction—even

JUNGLE SPECIALISTS

Swirling Dust Is U.S. Brigade's Major Problem After Viet Nam Arrival

By ROBIN MANNOCK
PLEIKUK, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. 25th Infantry Division has been kicking up quite a dust since its 3rd Brigade came to Viet Nam.

Swirling clouds of powdery, chocolate-colored dust are the brigade's major problem. Dust lies ankle-deep on the dirt roads, ready to be churned up and stred by trucks and marching men.

Little Surprised
"I wanted to come over here," said Pfc Benjamin Lee, a career soldier from Oak Ridge, Tenn. "but I'm a little surprised at what I found."

He was peering through two holes in the coating of dust that covered his Jeep's windshield.

Goggles and even surgical masks are used by drivers like Sgt. Roger Ellis of Riverside, R.I. and Spec. 6 Raymond Han of Cincinnati, Ohio.

"The doctor handed out masks from the medical stores," explained Capt. Donald Celata. "He figured it was good business. It should mean fewer cases of sinus trouble."

Celata is in charge of the trucks and Jeeps of the 1st Battalion.

Reluctant To Fight
So far, the Viet Cong have been reluctant to tangle with the hardened jungle warfare specialists of the 25th Division.

Usually the Viet Cong send infiltrators to probe the defenses of a U.S. unit fresh to Viet Nam. They reason that newly arrived men will be nervous and may fire at each other during the confusion of a firefight at night.

A few shots have been fired around the base perimeter, and one sentry reported he drove off an intruder seeking to crawl through the barbed wire. "Most of the time our men have just been shooting at shadows," said S. Sgt. Willie Brammer, awaiting news of the child his wife is expecting at a hospital in Columbus, Ga.

Brammer, an intelligence sergeant at brigade headquarters, thought the presence at Pleiku of the tough U.S. 1st Cavalry Airborne Division was keeping the Viet Cong away. The new base first was secured by the 1st Cav, which has its own operations center at An Khe, 60 miles east of here.

Meets Old Friends
For Brammer, arrival in Viet Nam meant reunion with old friends. He helped train them at St. Benning, Ga. One of his first calls was on Sgt. Maj. Lawrence Kennedy of Amory, Miss. Kennedy is in the 1st Squadron of the Cavalry bivouacked just north of Pleiku.

The brigade is hard at work building its base camp on a barren hilltop. The brigade is about 100 miles from the sea, one of the U.S. units farthest inland in Viet Nam.

The 25th Division's training concentrated on jungle war, but ironically it has been sent to a spot in Viet Nam where there is no jungle in sight. The camp, surrounded by sparse grassland and stunted underbrush, is 2,500 feet above the steaming rice paddies along the coastal plain.

The brigade finds the nights much cooler than the balmy climate at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii.

Just out of sight of the brigade's camp there is jungle aplenty. Within easy striking distance is one of the main Communist supply routes. The Ho Chi Minh trail from North Viet Nam empties men and war material into the region from eastern Laos.

Lawmaker Plans Long Distance Telephone Chats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. George Grider, D-Tenn., will set aside two hours each week for long distance telephone talks with constituents.

In announcing this today, Grider said anyone who has anything to discuss with him can do so from his Memphis federal building office on a first-come, first-served basis.

No Charge
There won't be any charge for the calls, he said, since he maintains telephone contact with the Memphis office through Federal Telecommunications Service lines.

"While I was home between sessions, I discovered there were dozens of people who wanted to talk with me personally about any number of things," Grider said.

"Therefore, I am setting aside every Monday from 3 to 5 p.m. for anybody who wants to call. A telephone chat will be the next best thing to a personal visit."

SHELTERS FOR HOMELESS

NEW DELHI (AP) — The municipal government said it had completed "night shelters" which would accommodate 4,500 persons who otherwise would have to sleep in the streets.

This is a small percentage of the number of homeless in the Indian capital.

MANY OF THEIR HARD-LINE WORDS FIND WAY INTO RESOLUTIONS

Chinese Emerge With Slight Edge At Havana Meet

By ISAAC M. FLORES
 HAVANA (AP) — Observers believe the Soviet-Chinese sparring at the recent Havana conference of revolutionaries from Asia, Africa and Latin America had little immediate effect on the Peking-Moscow struggle for leadership of world communism.

But they feel the Chinese emerged with a slight edge after many of the Chinese delegate's hard-line words found their way into conference resolutions.

Peking representative Wu Hsueh-tien called for more "people's wars against U.S. imperialism and its lackeys" and accused the Soviet Union of taking a less belligerent approach because it fears a nuclear war.

He also charged the Soviets were cooperating with the United States in its "peace talk" intrigues on the Viet Nam question.

Tremendous Difficulties
 Among the Chinese statements that wound up in the conference's pronouncements was Wu's assertion that "U.S. imperialism is beset with tremendous difficulties both at home and abroad and is facing an imminent and deep crisis in all spheres."

Wu and the resolution said the United States "finds itself in an inextricable predicament and is being beaten everywhere, with total defeat awaiting it."

Another of Wu's statements, adopted as a general conference sentiment, was that the U.S. peace offensive for Viet Nam is a smokescreen.

Observers felt that the more than 500 delegates from 82 countries were successful in two things: they created an organization to promote revolution and obtained an enormous amount of propaganda for them.

These experts believe that Cuba was the principal beneficiary in the propaganda field. Throughout the meeting it was referred to as "the scene of the first defeat of American imperialism in Latin America."

Strongly Pro-Soviet
 A reliable source described Cuba's position during the conference as strongly pro-Soviet but not antagonistically anti-Chinese.

Chief Soviet delegate Shariat Rashdov brought thunderous applause from the delegates when he declared the Soviet Union had long supported people's wars, that it did not want to "enter into polemics" and that the conference should be one of unity and not dissent.

Largely ignoring Wu's remarks, Rashdov hit hard at the United States and outlined Soviet support of North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam. He called for an international aid fund for the Viet Cong, but the conference apparently did not take up his suggestion.

Seeking Peace
 While Wu spoke only of war, Rashdov emphasized that the in Southeast Asia by urging Soviet Union was seeking peace "governments of all countries to undertake the necessary efforts to make the United States discontinue its aggression in Viet Nam."

The Latin-American delegation created an organization of solidarity to promote revolution in the hemisphere, with headquarters in Havana.

A committee was named to get things going in the "struggle against North American imperialism." It is composed of Socialist, Communist or other leftist representatives from Brazil, Cuba, Colombia, British Guiana, Guatemala, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

ANTIPOVERTY PROGRAM DEVELOPING SNARLS

End Of Shriver's Dual Role Praised By Congressmen

By JOE HALL
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's decision to have Sargent Shriver devote full time to the antipoverty program won bipartisan congressional praise today.
 Johnson told a news conference Monday that Jack Hood Vaughn, now assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, would succeed Shriver as head of the Peace Corps.
 Vaughn previously spent three years as regional director for the Peace Corps' Latin-American program.
Causes Concern
 Shriver's dual role as director of both the Peace Corps and the Office of Economic Opportunity had caused increasing concern at the Capitol for the past year. Many members of Congress serving on committees which oversee the antipoverty program had been saying that it was developing administrative snarls and should have the supervision of a fulltime head.

 Johnson, in making his announcement, declared again that the fight against poverty would be expanded.
 "We are going to prosecute it with all the vigor and determination at our command," he said.
 Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., senior Republican on the Labor Committee which handles anti-poverty legislation, said he considered Johnson's decision in the public interest.
Programs To Benefit
 "As I have said many times in the past, Mr. Shriver is a most able public servant," Javits commented, "but both the Peace Corps and the antipoverty program will benefit from the end of the two-hat regime."

 Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., also a member of the Labor Committee, said the poverty program "is obviously in administrative difficulties" and that he was happy Shriver "is going now to devote all his conspicuous abilities to its problems."
 Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., another committee member, said he felt Johnson's action was fully justified because the cases at least, needs a great deal more supervision."
Senate Democratic Leader
 Mike Mansfield of Montana said Shriver "has had too much in the way of responsibility."
 Mansfield said he considered Vaughn an excellent choice to head the Peace Corps. He said he was confident the nomination would be approved overwhelmingly.

 Vaughn left the Peace Corps in 1964 to become ambassador to Panama. He was named assistant secretary of state last year.
 Shriver, a brother-in-law of President John F. Kennedy, was selected by Kennedy to inaugurate the Peace Corps in 1961. In 1964, the year the first antipoverty legislation was passed, Johnson assigned him to run that program.

RAW MATERIALS COSTING MORE

Pressure For Price Hikes Growing With Businessmen

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Pressure for price increases is growing with businessmen paying the most attention to industrial raw material prices.

Two-price system. Producers can get a higher price in world markets than they can at home. In a few instances, such as copper, some American users have been up against shortages that hamper their production lines.

It's just another phase of the battle that will be waged in coming months to protect an expanding American economy from inflation of the sort that a year ago was plaguing some overheated European economies.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

News Release Written On "Surprise Party" 3 Days Before Occasion Is Held

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—During a recent trip to the Far East, Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., attended a committee meeting in the Japanese Diet (parliament).

GOP Report FROM PAGE ONE

Reviewing the world situation, Dirksen said that despite $120 billion spent on foreign aid, "our prestige on the world thermometer of good will has dropped fast and far."

McClory and I must have something in common. Not understanding what was going on would have made me feel right at home, too.

Other commodity prices on the bureau's wholesale index have also risen in the last year. In January 1965, wholesale farm product prices stood at 93 per cent of the 1957-59 base.

These increases in themselves aren't alarming. But what the business community is watching is the turmoil in the prices of basic raw materials.

And the reason is that in the industrial raw material area the price increases have been only partly because of rising production costs. The big factor has been the overtaking of supply by swelling demand.

Reasons For Rise
In most instances this faster rise in use of raw materials than in the production of them has been on a worldwide basis, rather than peculiar to the United States.

It took me several hours to figure out what Bennett's attendance record has to do with the bill. But finally the connection became clear.

Trial Starts In Indecent Exposure Case

A trial was underway today in 140th District Court on an indictment alleging indecent exposure to a minor.

Defendant is Ira Ray Sullivan, 19, of 2319 10th St. Police were notified of the alleged incident, in 2800-block 56th Street, about 12:20 p. m. Sept. 21 and reportedly involving a 9-year-old girl.

Following a docket call Monday, guilty pleas were heard. A Plains man will be allowed to serve 10 days' jail time on weekends.

The sentence, accompanied by a $250 fine after Thomas Edward Cox, 34, pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, subsequent offense, was the first of its kind handed down here.

Ban Sought On Feed Lot Operations

WASHINGTON (AP)—A ban on large scale feeding of livestock by meat packing firms was urged today by Rep. Bert Bandstra, D-Iowa.

"If packer feeding expands in future years and firms engaged in buying livestock and retailing meat obtain control over a significant part of our livestock supply," he said, "the average farmer may find it difficult to get a fair price for the livestock he brings to market."

Bandstra, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said he was introducing a bill which would:

Prohibit packer feeding by retail chain stores with meat packing operations.

Prohibit meat packing firms covered by the proposal from buying livestock for slaughter through contracts with individual farmers that could give packers direct control over the flow of livestock to market.

One Man--3 Purple Hearts!

By TOM TIEDE

LAIKHE, Viet Nam—(NEA)—The Purple Heart is an inch-and-a-half of ribbon and an engraved George Washington on a hunk of heart-shaped metal, which is given the soldier who spills his blood in battle.

Nearly 7,000 have been presented in this conflict, three of them to a single young man.

This is that man's incredible story.

Pfc. Orval Gene Adkins, a 23-year-old West Virginian, was along when elements of the 1st Infantry Division moved into a rubber plantation which everyone figured was under Viet Cong influence.

They figured right. Halfway in, the GIs were ambushed. Machine guns spat from either side of the troop trail. Snipers tied to the tops of the trees let loose with a shower of steel. When the victims tumbled for cover, they were stunned and murdered by booby traps and planted grenades.

Adkins, a radio-telephone operator, was slowed by some 50 pounds of equipment lashed to his back. He managed to dodge the enemy shot but was cut down by fragments from an explosion. The upper portion of his left arm was torn open.

Moments later he was evacuated. The soldier's wound proved not serious. He was cleaned, bandaged, given medication and the following morning sent to rest up in his own tent.

"Take it easy," the medics told him. He would follow the advice, but the VC wouldn't. Adkins said little to his companions in the platoon area, but he sat with the others and listened. He kicked at the dirt and rubbed his hands. On one side of him was a sandbag bunker. On the other an oddly contrasting group of colorful lounge chairs.

The sun was bright. Adkins began to feel at ease. Then, almost lacking reality, a shot echoed from the edge of the nearby jungle. A sniper. The men dove behind the bags of sand, each reaching for helmet and rifle.

No one spoke, no one moved. "Hey," a voice said suddenly, "I think something got me."

It was Adkins. Twisted around in his prone position, he was poking his right hip when the blood began to seep through his fatigues. He shook his head in disbelief. So did his fellows.

Moments after, he made his second trip to the medics. Again the wound was superficial. Aid men, not knowing whether to grin or groan at the fantastic misfortune, patched him up once more and returned him to his unit area. Again they told him to take it easy.

Again he followed the suggestion—and again the enemy didn't.

One hour later, the sniper struck. The second shot came with more realism than the first. The men were edgy by now. It sounded like a blown tire and the crack rumbled throughout the dense forest.

"Ouch!" somebody cried. It was, of course, Orval Adkins. This bullet pierced the same bandage that covered the first wound he had sustained 48 hours and many coincidences before.

More angry than injured, the soldier jumped up, emptied four magazines into the sniper's area. Then, silent and solemn, turned away and began to walk again to the aid station. There to get his third bandage. And still another Purple Heart.

State Citation Art Exhibition Entries Sought

Entries in the third annual State Citation Art Exhibition will be received from students and older artists in District 28 until 4 p.m. Monday by Mrs. Howard Hurd of Brownfield, member of the state Democratic executive committee.

The competition has two divisions. The purchase scholarship division is open to Texas artists in the 9th, 10th, 11th or 12th grades in public, private and parochial schools. The merit division is open to any artist of any age who does not derive more than half of his annual income from sale of art work.

The contest areas correspond to senatorial districts. The district in which entries are being received by Mrs. Hurd is composed of Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Gaines, Dawson, Andrews and Martin counties.

To participate in state finals, an artist must first be judged a winner in a district contest.

The state awards are: "Purchase scholarship division, $500 first purchase-prize, $300 second purchase-prize; $200 third purchase-prize; merit division, $100 to be presented by Gov. John Connally to the artist whose work is judged to be outstanding in that division.

All entries in District 28 will be on display next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hurd, 1008 E. Tate, Brownfield. They will be judged by a district committee. The winners will be placed in state finals in Austin in February.

Entries may be in one or a combination of the following: Oils, pastels, tempera, water-colors, casein, plastics (plymar, etc.) and pen and ink drawings.

Pilot In Viet Nam Plans Vegetable Plot

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—An Army helicopter pilot from Alabama wants to grow his own vegetables in Viet Nam.

Norris M. Woodruff of Clayton County recently sent a soil sample to the Auburn University soil testing laboratory.

The lab tagged the half-pint of black soil "special" and processed it without the usual dollar fee.

It turned out that Woodruff has good garden soil, comparable to lowland soil in Alabama. Woodruff hopes to harvest two rows of Vietnamese peas, one row each of tomatoes, okra and lettuce, and a couple of hills of cucumbers.

City Architects Get Federal Design Bid

A Lubbock architectural firm has been awarded a $167,000 contract to prepare preliminary design for a new government building here, the General Services Administration announced Monday.

The contract was awarded to Atcheson, Atkinson & Cartwright, whose offices are at 1009 Texas Ave. The construction cost of the Lubbock government building is estimated at slightly under $4.5 million.

Connally Gives Fish Catch To Crewmen

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Governor John Connally went fishing Monday and gave away his catch to the crew of the yacht he used.

He went in the yacht of former Mexican President Miguel Aleman, head of the Mexican Tourism Advisory Council.

Later, after taking a swim, he told a Mexican newsmagazine: "It's wonderful here. I hadn't imagined that the sea would be so blue and so beautiful and the climate so marvelous. I'll come as often as possible."

Connally and his wife arrived Sunday aboard the inaugural flight of American Airlines' direct service to Acapulco from Chicago and Dallas.

AS SLATON HOLDS ANNUAL FETE

Doctor, Housewife, VFW Auxiliary Honored By C-C

By TANNER LAINE
Avalanche-Journal Staff
SLATON—A physician "with love and compassion for his fellow townpeople," a housewife "with time to work for her church, school and in service groups," and an organization "with an imposing list of public service projects"—were honored at the 40th annual Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development banquet here Monday night.

The physician is Dr. Glenn B. Payne, who received the "Outstanding Citizen" award with the presentation made by Don Kendrick.

VFW Auxiliary Honored
The housewife is Mrs. Earl Reasoner, who received the "Woman of the Year" award. The presentation was made by Mrs. M. H. Lanzer, last year's honoree.

And the organization cited was the VFW Auxiliary. Mrs. Frances Clements accepted the "Distinguished Organization" plaque for the group. The presentation was by H. M. (Bud) Englund.

Attendance was 225 persons at the event held in the junior high cafeteria. Speaker was Lee D. Herring, Grand Prairie banker.

Herring spilled humor and philosophy in an address that complimented Slaton for being "on the right track" for community progress. It was a good description of a "model town," he lauded.

"It's not the name of a community, it's the right attitude of the people and town, that succeed," the speaker said. "Everything is not monetary. Service is more valuable. You are making life blossom as you make your town grow."

Musical entertainment was by the Llanos "Blumtown Symphony" orchestra. Decorations were in a "Cotton Is King" theme and all women attendants wore cotton corsages presented by Brown's Troop 68 and Jun-

Why take a plain plane to Washington?

Most airplane trips are colorless, rather boring affairs. They don't have to be. Braniff International has introduced a new kind of excitement to air travel. Gone are the plain planes of yesteryear. Instead, a variety of 7 exterior colors, 7 interior color schemes, and hostesses who change uniform as often as 4 times on a single flight (to mention a few of the thousands of innovations we've made) will cheer the heart of the travel-weary passenger. Our new 7:06 am flight is the only direct service to Washington. It lands at convenient National Airport. We also have service via connections at Dallas. Call a travel agent, or Braniff International at PO 2-8773. Once you've flown with us, you may never want to fly on a plain plane again. Braniff International United States Mexico South America

GOVERNMENT FEEDS VAST INFLATIONARY SPIRAL

Economic Collapse Threatens Indonesian President

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
In Jakarta, President Sukarno passed out tapoca cookies, continued to speak as if he were the undisputed ruler of 100 million Indonesians, which he is not, and discussed the nation's economy which could scarcely be worse. Speaking to newsmen, he offered the job of ministers of economic affairs to anyone who would volunteer. "But," he said, "if he fails to bring about an improvement in the present situation within three months, I will have him put in jail for five years."

It was the echo of the voice of the old Sukarno, president of Indonesia for life, but in reality it was a Sukarno whose ministers must confer at every step with the army which, since the unsuccessful Communist coup of Sept. 30, is the real ruler of Indonesia. And even if some financial wizard could turn the plummeting Indonesian economy around within three months, it might not be soon enough.

New Signs
The lurid billboards attacking the United States and the ugly caricatures of Uncle Sam have disappeared from Jakarta streets but others have taken their place. On one of Jakarta's main thoroughfares, a slogan demands in big black letters: "Hang the ministers." "Remember the people's suffering," says another. For the first time since Indonesian independence, a sincere attempt is being made to place the economy on a sound basis. But the results so far only have heaped disaster upon disaster. Student demonstrators who all through October, November and December had directed their anger against the Communists, now were demanding action by the government to halt inflation. Last month the government devalued the rupiah by 1,000 to 1 in order to bring it closer to reality. Another government order raised all wages by 500 per cent. Merchants were warned that death could be the penalty for anyone raising prices.

Government Hikes Prices
But in the battle to halt inflation the government itself was one of the greatest offenders. In two months, government-controlled gasoline prices jumped from four rupiahs a liter (about one quart) to 1,000. Sweeping increases were ordered in other government-controlled enterprises—post and telecommunications, rail and air fares and other public services. Commodity prices kept pace. The price of rice jumped from 2,800 rupiahs per liter to 5,000 in six days. Beef went from 2,000 rupiahs per pound to 15,000 in three days. The black market also reacted quickly. A profiteering merchant, hoarder whose pay had jumped to 150,000 rupiahs monthly from 30,000 found that his actual monthly earnings still came to less than $5. Blame for this sad state of affairs falls on many quarters—corrupt government officials, profiteering merchants, hoarders. But the real blame falls upon Sukarno, so busy with "guided democracy" he failed to look after his people.

Government Courses Urged In High School

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — The Southern Conference of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has called for courses in comparative government in public high schools. Sea Shrinking For Shrimp Fleet

Big Hazard Is Politics

By DON NORTH
 TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Caribbean grows ever smaller for America's shrimp fleet, caught in the web of U.S. relations with Latin America.

The detention of nine Tampa-based shrimp fishermen in Santa Lucia, Cuba, Sunday after one of their vessels grounded was another in a long series of troublesome incidents based more on politics than the ample natural hazards of shrimping.

The captain of one of the detained vessels told his owners by radiotelephone Monday they had been released.

American shrimpers have been conducted ashore in so many Latin-American ports in the last 15 years that the U.S. government routinely handles their claims for reimbursement of fines and confiscated catches.

Check From Treasury Under the federal Fishermen's Protective Act, "we lay out all the circumstances, substantiate it with receipts and what not, and a check comes down from the Treasury Department," said Oscar Longnecker of Brownsville, Tex., executive secretary of the Shrimp Association of the Americas.

Cuba under Fidel Castro, has become the newest obstacle to movement of the U.S. shrimp fleet in the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico.

Some shrimp can be taken near Cuba's Isle of Pines, but the political risks all but eliminate the temptation to go there, says Bobby Canaday of Tampa, a Singleton Shrimp Co. official. This is not so in the rich shrimp fields of Caratassa Key, Honduras; Nicaragua and Campeche, off the western coast of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, Canaday says.

Varying Limits Here the trouble lies in the varying limits of territorial waters — nine miles in Mexico, 12 in Honduras, three in the United States and the continental shelf — up to 35 miles — in Nicaragua.

It also comes from competition, among U.S.-based shrimp firms and firms in Honduras and Nicaragua owned by Americans who use political influence to keep American boats out of the shrimp grounds, a Tampa shrimp operator said.

In March 1965, Nicaragua seized 16 Tampa-based trawlers

HALF-HOUR ADDED TO LUNCH BREAK

Men Get Time Off To Watch Strippers

DONCASTER, England (AP)—One of Britain's biggest construction firms is giving some of its men time off without pay to watch stripteasers.

The firm, George Wimpey & Co. has about 200 men building a fuel plant at Doncaster. It discovered that on Sundays they were taking more than their usual half-hour lunch break to watch strippers in a nearby miners' club.

A company spokesman said: "It was no good closing our eyes to the situation or sacking good workers who return late. So we arranged that they could have an extra half-hour added to their lunch break—without pay."

Those who want to watch the strippers lose $1.25 from their pay. "Sunday strip sessions are extremely popular," said an official at the Miners' club. "We get an audience of about 200."

LITTLE KNOWN ABOUT PHENOMENON

Rocket Will Probe Awesome Fireworks In Sky Known As The Northern Lights

By GEORGE BOWEN
 BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) —

The aurora borealis, or northern lights, nature's awesome fireworks in the skies, always has intrigued man. He hopes to find out what sets them off during this age of rockets.

Scientists at Johns Hopkins University have assembled their fourth and most inquisitive load of instruments for probing the electrical display over Canada. The seven-foot nose cone section of gadgetry was sent today to the Goddard Space Center at Greenbelt, Md., for a final check. An Aerobee rocket is scheduled to boost it 100 miles high over Fort Churchill Feb. 15 or within the next 30 days.

"The aurora borealis is one of the most striking and most studied phenomenon, yet the least we know about," said William C. Fastie of the Johns Hopkins physics department. "I think that with rocket work we are going to solve it."

He described the endeavor to measure and analyze what causes the sky sparklers "a small part in the long-range goal" of finding out all there is to know about the magnetic field surrounding the earth and the effects on it of electrons.

Present Theory The theory is that the northern lights are caused by a stream of high energy electrons from the sun striking the earth's magnetic field, "but the process isn't exactly known," said Fastie.

The instruments will send back information "on the distribution and energy of electrons — there are fast and slow — and how they create the aurora," he said.

"In the aurora, you can look at conditions way beyond laboratory capabilities." At times the resulting magnetic storms from the aurora play havoc with radio and telegraph communications. The lights also appear almost simultaneously in the southern atmosphere where they are known as aurora australis.

CENTER PROPOSED

Festival, Diocese At Odds

By WALLACE I. ROBERTS of the Providence Journal
 NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The Newport Jazz and Folk Festivals, seeking a permanent home in neighboring Middletown, are locked in a struggle with the Roman Catholic Church and some homeowners.

The controversy centers on whether producer George T. Wein should be granted a zoning amendment to allow construction of a $500,000 permanent festival complex to stage up to six music and drama festivals each summer. Located in a fast-growing town of 19,000 people, the 104-acre farmland site is in a residential zone.

Powerful Opponent The most powerful opponent to the impresario's proposal is the Catholic diocese which owns the Mother of Hope Novitiate, separated from the proposed site by a 113-foot strip of land. The novitiate, or convent, prepares young women for the religious life.

Wein was forced to move the festivals from Newport, where he started the jazz festivals 12 years ago, because there was no available land for permanent buildings.

A public hearing will be held by the five-man Town Council on the zoning amendment Wednesday night. Former Gov. Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island will represent the diocese. The Most Rev. Bernard M. Kelly, auxiliary bishop of the diocese, also is expected to appear.

Roberts said, "The diocese has invested $1,250,000 in the novitiate and is concerned about the effect the festivals would have on its investment."

Bishop Kelly has said that if

DEDUCTION GUIDES

State Sales, Gasoline Tax Lists Carried In IRS Instruction Manual

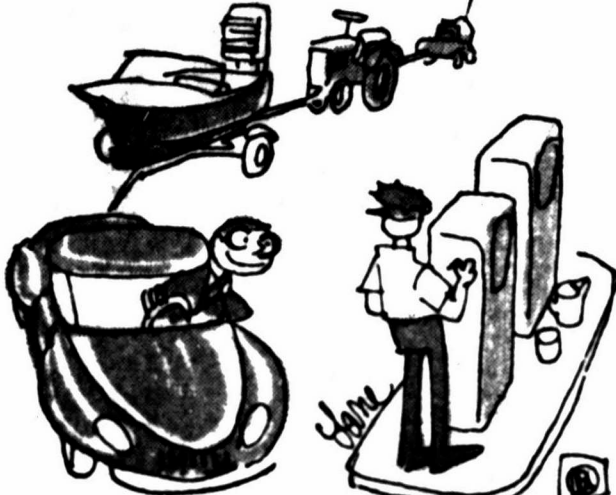

By RAY DE CRANE
 NEA Special Writer

Internal Revenue Service scored a major breakthrough this year in simplifying one aspect of the 1940 Form. The instruction manual mailed out with the tax forms to every person who filed a tax return last year prints the sales tax allowance chart for his state and a list of the gasoline taxes in the states.

The sales tax chart for your state is based upon adjusted gross income. That is the figure you will enter on Line 9, Page 1 of Form 1040. Your total income and the number in your family will determine your allowance.

Again this year IRS will permit taxpayers to add to the allowance on their state chart the exact amount of deductible sales tax paid on the purchase of an automobile in 1965.

What if you can prove you paid more sales taxes than the chart provides for you? By all means take the full deduction you can support. But the burden of proof is on you if you elect not to use the chart allowance.

Perhaps the major tax deduction available to homeowners is the tax on their real estate. Real estate taxes are deductible in the year paid.

If your monthly mortgage payment includes a portion of your real estate taxes in addition to principal and interest payments, the amount of your real estate tax deduction is not necessarily the total of the withheld tax amounts from January through December, 1965.

This tax payment went into a reserve account at your bank to insure the funds would be available when the taxes become due.

Most banks and savings and loan associations send you a receipt when your tax are paid or show a notation on your monthly slip. These actual payments are the amount you will deduct for taxes on your Form 1040.

The personal property tax levied by many states on your investments is also fully deductible on your return if you are itemizing deductions.

These are among the taxes NOT DEDUCTIBLE: Auto license, driver's license, cigarette tax, liquor tax, federal income tax, Social Security, federal estate and gift taxes, dog tags, hunting license and marriage license. (NEXT: Interest Deductions.)

CASELOAD RISES

Federal Aid For Child Support Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A record 44 million mothers and children are receiving federal-state aid designed to help fatherless families, welfare figures showed today.

The caseload of the controversial Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program has been rising steadily since World War II, partly because of population growth. And, officials said, at least some of the increase stems from a 1961 law extending coverage to children of unemployed fathers.

Reflects Plight Although reluctant to interpret the climbing ADC caseload, one official said it reflected the growing "plight of the under-educated."

A special Labor Department study last year said it was an indication of the breakdown in the family structure of Negroes living in the urban North.

The November ADC recipients included 4,393,000 persons in 1,056,000 families, a welfare administration spokesman said. The total included 3,311,000 children, who alone exceed the 3,118,000 persons in 815,000 families who received such payments five years ago.

Payments To Vary ADC payments normally go to mothers and children who are deprived of support because of the death, desertion or disability of the father.

Each state has its own yardstick of eligibility for payments, which range from $9.20 a person per month in Mississippi to $51 in Minnesota. The federal government usually pays more than half the cost of the program, first started in 1935 to help widows and orphans.

Some critics charge that ADC encourage illegitimacy because payments are made for children born out of wedlock if the mother meets other qualifications. Its defenders contend it would be poor policy to punish children by cutting off aid because of their mother's actions.

DEAR ABBY

"Dignity" Lacking?

DEAR ABBY: My husband just got cash, conservative and I raised three fine children. Two sons are now happily married, and both had beautiful weddings to remember. Our youngest, a girl 23, has fallen in love with an assistant professor who doesn't have enough money even to buy her an engagement ring. They have known each other only five months and now they want to get married, but with "no muss, no fuss" (her words). They want just his parents, us and the preacher at the wedding. Should we allow our daughter, a fourth-generation American, to get married without dignity—like a hillbilly?

Unhappy Parents

Dear Unhappy: Every bride is entitled to the kind of wedding she wants. Just be glad she wants you there. It sounds "dignified" enough to me.

DEAR ABBY: We live in one of the best neighborhoods in town. There is not one house on our block that is worth less than $75,000. Some new neighbors moved in next door to us and I understand they bought the house for the asking price and paid cash.

They seem very nice, but they are strange. They have only one automobile (and a taxicab garage) and the father drives the car to work every day and the children and mother all use the bus. They rarely go anywhere, except to church. The wife doesn't have any fancy clothes or jewelry or furs. The children do not have any toys, dealing with war or violence. Could they belong to some off-beat religious cult? What do you make of them?

Beauty After Forty

WHEN I HEARD that Lynnell Rave Bass of Virginia Beach, Va., had won the title of Miss American Teen-Ager, I wanted to know something about the Mother behind the girl. This contest is conducted in excellent fashion, and the girls who enter are all well taken care of, and naturally this brings out delightful teenagers. I have a great deal of credit to the Mothers of the girls who enter the contest, and another contest is in preparation now for September 1966. LYNNELL'S MOTHER, Mrs. Bass, has hobbies. She likes to sketch, does pastel drawing, and loves to bowl, when she finds the time. Mrs. Bass tells me that she and her daughter have always been very close, and she has always taken the time to listen to things that were important to her daughter. The advice of Mrs. Bass to Mothers is: "When raising children, give them a lot of your time, understanding and love." "WE ALWAYS" shun for clothes, together and most of the time our tastes agree. We try to keep up with most of the styles, but whenever I have had to select things for Lynnell by myself she has always been happy with them. "I think," says Mrs. Bass, "that every girl should take a charm course. Lynnell did, and I think this was greatly to her advantage in beauty care, grooming and poise." At age 11, my daughter was interested in modeling, so I let her take a course in this profession. She decided to pursue her career along this line, and now that she has won the Miss American Teen-Ager contest, she is, I think, equipped to cope with all that this honor means. PRETTY, BLUE-EYED blonde Lynnell left for Hollywood with her parents the week before Christmas for a dream visit to the film capital. I am sure that Lynnell will do well, and that she will always remember how much of her success she owes to the woman behind the victory—her mother. Tomorrow—"Dear Edyth Thornton McLeod" bikeways hasn't gotten beyond the pip-squeak stage—despite the fact that the country's 57 million bike riders need them. Dr. Paul Dudley White, the world famous cardiologist from Boston, has been in the forefront of those campaigning for bikeways.

Health Aid "If bicycling can be fully restored to the daily life of all Americans, it can become a vital step toward rebuilding health and vigor in all of us," he said. Suggestions for a coast to coast turnpike for bikes, however, can't seem to get off the ground. The handful of bike trails fully developed are in and around certain cities. "In practice," says Walter L. Cook, "bikeways represent a system of secondary routes, usually parallel to main streets, leading from commercial and residential areas to schools, shopping centers, parks, playgrounds, and recreational and cultural centers. "They are safest because fewer vehicles use them and motorists drive more slowly and more cautiously on such streets. They are easily and inexpensively created and maintained."

LIJ Endorsement President Johnson endorsed the trail idea when he said: "The forgotten outdoorsmen of today are those who like to walk, hike or ride bicycles. For them we must have trails as well as highways."

Cook says the idea for bikeways originated in Homestead, Pa. It was the brainchild of the George Fichtler, a Homestead couple long sold on the benefits of safer cycling. The bike trail there is called "bicycle safety route." Cook said the same system is adaptable in any village, town or suburb. "It requires only a little initiative to win support and endorsement for bikeways in your community," he said. The 150-mile Chesapeake and Ohio Canal tow path has been favorite of bike riders for years. At the south end of the path, the national capital region of the National Park Service has granted a bicycle rental concession. Bikeways also exist in various forms in Abington, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; Cleveland, Ohio; Milwaukee, Wis.; Palm Beach, Fla.; Silver Spring, Md.; St. Louis, Mo.; New York City; and several other cities. Many are in parks.

Concord, Mass., perhaps, has thought ahead to the greatest extent. In that city an ordinance requires the building of safe bike paths on one side of every new road built or reconstructed in the city.

North, in today's hand, was confronted with a classic situation that haunts the seasoned bridge player. He was obliged to give his partner a preference at the six level with a void in both of South's suits.

South's holding qualifies as a game in hand according to anyone's methods and the proper opening bid is two spades. North responded in his longest suit, clubs. South showed his second suit by bidding three diamonds heart.

When South rebid diamonds at the four level, North continued with four hearts. The obvious misfit now revealed should perhaps have slowed down the tempo, but South was determined to reach a slam and he proceeded without further ado to six diamonds. North had no true preference for either of his partner's suits and he passed, not without misgivings.

West was fully aware that South was extremely short in hearts and clubs. Fearing that his trick might get away from him if not taken while the opportunity presented itself, West attempted to cash the ace of hearts. This proved to be a most unfortunate choice.

South ruffed in his hand and proceeded to draw trumps in four rounds, discarding hearts and clubs from the dummy. West followed to the first three diamonds, but then he was obliged to make a bluff. He selected the nine of clubs.

Declarer tested the spades next by cashing the ace and king. When East's queen fell on the second round, South realized that he had a chance to end play. West provided he could determine the latter's exact distribution. A club was led to the ace and West followed with the queen. Next came the king of hearts on which South discarded a spade and West played the jack of hearts. Declarer now decided to come off the dummy with a heart ruffing with his last trump. When West followed suit, the stage was set.

South was down to the J-3-3 of spades, while West held the 10-8-7. Declarer exited with the three putting West on lead; however, the latter was now obliged to remember the last two tricks to his opponent. South's only loser on the deal was the seven of spades.

COLLEGE CHEATING

Results On Dishonesty Study Given

AUSTIN (AP)—What is the best system to curb college cheating—the honor system or closely supervised examinations?

Two sociologists, writing in the Southwestern Social Science Quarterly, say a study of two universities shows "major violations" are about equal under both systems.

Dr. Charles Bonjean of the University of Texas and Dr. Reece McGee, formerly of the university and now a teacher at MacAlester College in St. Paul, Minn., made the study. They surveyed two large state-supported universities, one using the proctor system of close supervision over examinations and the other with a "well-institutionalized" honor system.

Questionnaire responses indicate that while scholastic dishonesty was widespread under both systems, it "occurred with greater frequency in the proctor system" university, the sociologists said.

Minor Violations
 Bonjean and McGee said that the honor system apparently deterred "minor violations," such as lying about an absence, seeking information from students who have already taken an examination and collusion on a take-home assignment.

But the percentage of student dishonesty was about equal between proctor and honor system schools in "major violations," such as copying from another's paper during a quiz, purchasing a final examination, and using "crib sheets" during examinations.

The sociologists said 29.1 per cent of the honor system students would seek data about an examination from someone who had already taken it, while 54.2 per cent of those under a proctor system reported they would do so. They said 14.6 per cent of those under the honor system said they had bought a final examination, while 12 per cent of the proctor system students reported they had done so.

DAR Will Meet At Women's Club

Nancy Anderson Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Lubbock Women's Club for an annual business meeting.

Officers will be elected and committee reports will be presented. Also delegates to the state and national convention will be elected.

Mrs. Roy B. Davis, regent, will preside. Hostesses will be Mrs. Harold Gober, Fredrick Beck, A. H. King and Hugh Fisher. A devotional will be presented.

ENCHANTED WORLD—Sugarplum colors weave an enchanted world in a nursery designed to grow in. A screen of light-filtering panels makes a newborn's corner at one end of a shared bedroom, rolls aside on casters whenever the need is for play, not privacy. A new basketry-like checkerboard pattern teams with a rosy solid for a look of lightness at the screen. The same pattern reappears on the feather-light sliding doors of the chest; real baskets above hold baby's small clothes. Included in the plan for growth: a Swedish crib whose teak frame expands by stages till it makes a full-scale youth bed.

CAUSES DIZZINESS

Device To Test Space Heart Being Developed

By JERRY CURRY
 ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Dr. Joseph J. Combs Jr. is developing a thumb-nail-sized instrument which may help find out exactly what space heart is.

Commonly known as "lazy heart," the condition is experienced by astronauts on prolonged space rides. A common symptom is a feeling of light-headedness when the spacemen return to the earth's gravitational field.

"So far, there have been no untoward effects in space flight," Combs said in an interview. "This is not to say there won't be any. We must find out what causes space heart, then we can determine what to do about it."

Directs Labs
 Combs, a native of Raleigh, N.C., directs the Aerospace Medicine Laboratory at the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. McDonnell built the Mercury spacecraft, which gave Americans their first space rides, and also manufacturers the Gemini spacecraft.

"Anyone who stands after spending two weeks or more in bed and gets dizzy experiences a condition similar to space heart," Combs says.

"This is caused because the circulatory system has stopped pumping blood to the brain against gravity and the pulse rate drops," he says. "This would be the same as an astronaut whose body is free, during spaceflight, from the earth's gravity."

Combs' sensor may have a more important use in clinical medicine. The sensor weighs two grams, less than an ounce. It is being tested at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis and at McDonnell's space chamber.

Chest Vibrations
 "It measures the mechanical output of the heart," says Combs. "The sensor records chest vibrations which originate from the blood ejected from the heart."

The cardiologist says all heart output measuring techniques used now require radioactive tracers, dyes or needles to be placed in the veins and arteries. Combs' instrument can be placed on the outside of the chest and is sensitive even through an undershirt. After heart surgery, the sternalized instrument can be placed under the bandage.

He said that an electrocardiogram can only determine heart rate and other electrical phenomena. Scientists can use information from both instruments to determine the cardiac output, the velocity of the blood pumped by the heart into the aorta.

Combs says he is certain his instrument is the first of its kind.

"We have not yet tested it on the astronauts," says the scientist. "But, I am confident it will do the job it was designed to do under almost any conditions."

In 1935 the balloon Explorer II reached an altitude of nearly 14 miles — 72,395 feet — higher above the earth than man had ever before.

By GAY PAULEY
 UPI Women's Editor
 NEW YORK (UPI)—It's all over now but the buying. The major U.S. fashion firms have shown their collections of feminine apparel for spring, with the closing acts performed by the New York Couture Group at its "National Press Week" for visiting reporters and James Galanos, California's master designer who always premieres his collection in New York.

Now that the last costume is back on the rack and the buyers place orders, what kind of shape have the designers left the American women in? Answer: A pretty one, with clothes more feminine and with softer lines than last spring, and less of the stiff, architectural construction, the block color contrasts of previous seasons.

They've also left us to put on a leg show come warmer weather, with some skirts shorter than they were in the 1920s.

Head to Toe
 From head to toe, here is how the leading designers and manufacturers of ready to wear, the accessories people, the hair stylists and make-up artists see us in the new season.

Head—Looking small, with hair cropped and sometimes almost shingled at the back. Exception for day, the new "dickie bird" hair style forecast by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association at its spring hair style show last weekend in Honolulu. The style is not a buftant, but is a series of waves with layered cut, slipping over to a crest on one side. Watch also for the Vidal Sassoon style to continue—this a side parted "do" with an unwaved, triangular lock falling over the forehead and one eye. Watch also for some revival of the page boy, with use of hair pieces at the back, as promulgated by Michel Kazan of New York.

Hats—Lots of face on display as most silhouettes, even the eternal sailor shapes, are moved to the back of the head. Roller brims are wide. The coolie shape is liked by some designers, and others like Norman Norell and James Moore have revived the picture hat or cartwheel.

Makeup—The whitened face to go with the whitened look of stockings and the numerous whites in ready-to-wear for spring. White and pearly tones brush onto the eye just below the brow, and the heavy eye makeup with phony lashes will continue right into spring.

Necklines—Simple, often collarless for daytime dresses, coats and suits. No huge collars. Plenty of the no-collars cut wider to call for a fill-in at the throat with scarves or jewelry. Tiny notched or self-fabric scarf collars on suits and coats. For evening, plunge and the modest circular banding at the throat compete. Many designers like deep V or U-shaped plunges to the waist in the back. Some plunge fore and aft. And back full-blown is the strapless evening dress. Back too, the halter neckline for cocktail and evening.

Shoulders—No padding in coats or suits, but many sleeves cut to set in high for a stretchy look instead of the sloped, rounded shoulder. Most sleeves, wrist length, or a couple of inches above.

Bustline—Still the soft, natural look, with a lot of bias cut of fabric. Some fronts cut so deeply under the arms, though, a girl needs more than a no-bra bra, she needs a body stocking.

Waistline—Wandering, as it has for many seasons, and more often than not, undefined. The favorite day silhouette is the skimmer, a tube of fabric sliding over the body and moving with it. Half belts on coats, or all-around belts tied high or slung low around the hips. In the continuing popularity of the little girl dresses, sashes ride high under the bustline.

Hipline—Lots of hipbone length jackets on suits and costumes, plus the tunic look to long-torso silhouettes.

Hemline—Some are two, three and four inches above the knees for daytime, remaining even above the knee for dressy cocktail-hour numbers. More conservative designers settle for about mid-knee, or 19 inches from the floor. Lots of interest in pleats, flounces, feather and petal borders, and tiers.

Legs—The whitened stocking coming on strong, with hosiery also in shimmering pastel tones.

Feet—If you're a spike heel wearer, then you're old-fashioned. Low, two inchers and one and one-half show on both daytime and late day pumps. The rounded toe takes over from the sharp, and cutouts for a naked look is the rule.

Silhouette in General—Coats for spring remain skinny, but many coat houses show fuller arm holes for an "easy over everything" comfort. Some show back swing to otherwise straight single or double-breasted coats. In dresses, much of the influence of the 1920s is around, in long torso tops above pleated skirts, the tank top overblouse look with Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAR GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

What to do about jealousy in an older child when a new baby arrives? You have probably come up with any number of ingenious ideas. But here are a couple of green-eyed antidotes that may not have occurred to you:

• Why not ask the older child's advice from time to time. Like: "What color sweater shall we put on baby today? What toy do you think he would like?"

• Suggest that grandmothers and others focus attention on the older child. Being the prime target of attention will give a feeling of self-importance to a toddler.

Refreshing story, with nutritious overtones: Gerber's Brained Fruit Juices are ideal for giving that new baby his daily measure of vitamin C. (As you probably know, that's the vitamin needed for sound gums and other body tissues.) Gerber's Orange Juice and Apple Juice are excellent sources of this important vitamin for the young babies. Miley thinks, never late, they're wellcepted by wee ones. As baby gets a bit older, he will enjoy the other seven combination juices—all equally rich in vitamin C.

A doll of an idea. If you've a girl toddler who resents the new baby, why not encourage her to dress, bathe and feed her favorite doll while you perform these tasks for the little one. It will occupy her while you're busy with baby and give her a feeling of participation.

Fine context for your baby. Gerber Cereal Sizes are great for starting your sweetheart off on cereal. This handy, six-in-one package contains small-size boxes of Rice Cereal, Barley, Mixed Cereal, High Protein Cereal and two Oatmeal—perfect for introducing your baby to the delights of different cereal flavors.

Don Gerber footnote: "Gerber Baby Cereals were developed by nutrition experts wise in the ways of your baby's needs. They were formulated to supply essential nutrients needed throughout babyhood." Gerber's Baby Foods, Box 72, Fremont, Michigan.

HEMORRHOIDS?

Make this 3-day test!

New M.P.O. must relieve pain faster and longer than the preparation you are now using or we will gladly refund your purchase price in full.

If you seek more relief than you may now be getting, join the thousands of hemorrhoid (pile) sufferers now turning to new M.P.O. Developed by famous Mentholatum Laboratories, M.P.O. works in these five ways:

1. Helps ease pain faster. M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the preparation you may now be using... to help reduce pain and discomfort.
2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M.P.O. quickly releases the proven vasoconstrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate.
3. Helps relieve embarrassing itch. M.P.O.'s medication is homogenized for faster absorption, faster action.
4. Helps make relief last longer. M.P.O.'s more temperature-stable base holds medication in place for prolonged action.
5. Helps fight danger of infection. Proven germ-killer, Hexachlorophene, combats bacteria.

Test it yourself for the next three days. If not satisfied that M.P.O. helps you more than the preparation you're now using, return unused portion to the Mentholatum Co., Buffalo, N.Y., for refund. Available in stainless-ointment or suppositories at drug counters.

WORKING WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Folk Singer Plans To Make "Bundle" And Retire Rich

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Glenn Yarbrough is working his way through college — not to get a lot of knowledge, but to retire a rich man.

That time may come soon. Unlike most performers who believe the show must go on and on and on, Yarbrough is willing to quit when he gets ahead. He did it once before.

He is a moon-faced man of 35, more reminiscent in his horn-rimmed glasses of a bookkeeper than a folk singer. But sing he does, in a manner that has captured a large segment of the young population. He sings not of protest, but of the joys and sorrows of the wanderer's life.

First Album
"Time to Move On" was his first album, and the title is apt. Come February and Yarbrough will be moving on a colleges all over the nation, singing as many as eight concerts a week. He'll be on the road until July.

"That will be my last long tour," said the folk singer. "I'm tired of just singing. I want to start acting, and I'm doing a 'Branded' soon. Can I act? I think anybody can do it. I've never had any acting lessons, but then, nobody taught me to sing, either."

Things seem to come naturally to Yarbrough. He folk-sang his way across the country in his 20's. A husband and father, he sought a more stable life by buying the Limelight Club in Aspen, Colo. Then he and two other singers formed the Limelighters, and the success of the team put him on the move again. It also helped end his marriage.

"When something starts to level off, I like to leave it," he said. "Otherwise it becomes a meaningless repetition."

So Yarbrough cut out from the Limelighters, even though the team was grossing over a half-million dollars annually.

The sea was luring him, and he bought a boat to sail the South Pacific. He did sail as far as Hawaii. Meanwhile, he had made a single album for RCA Victor. It sold 30,000 copies in the San Francisco area alone, so Yarbrough decided to try his luck nationally.

"The luck was good, especially with the college crowd."

"I'm surprised more artists don't work the college circuit," he remarked. "You can make a lot of money there, and the audiences are fine. If anything, they are too responsive; a performer could get lazy because of it."

There is little chance of that happening to Yarbrough. He is too restless, too eager for new challenges. He is aiming at an early retirement; with earnings of $300,000 a year and upward, it is entirely possible Yarbrough's present goal is a school for gifted orphans which he would like to establish on a plantation he recently bought in Jamaica.

and their crews and held them eight days. They were released after paying $200 fines per boat and losing a catch worth an estimated $50,000. The charge was fishing in Nicaraguan waters.

In July 1964, Honduran charged nine Tampa shrimpers with fishing in its territorial waters. They were fined $1,500 per boat and released three weeks later. The arrests were made 40 miles offshore.

Complain Vigorously
The fishermen complain vigorously about what they say is a lack of action by the State Department.

"They (U.S. diplomats) have got to stop smiling at them (Latin-American authorities) and drinking martinis with them," said Sam Vona, operator of four trawlers seized last year.

Clashes with the Mexican government have been occurring since 1950, when five trawlers from Brownsville, Tex., were held 90 days and fined before release.

Longnecker says shrimp associations maintain agents in Mexican ports to arrange for the emergency needs of U.S. shrimpers when arrested.

Shrimp has become the nation's top money harvest from the sea.

Girl Scouts Urged To Lead

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr Monday night urged South Texas Girl Scout leaders to provide proper guidance for the nation's increasing number of young people.

Speaking at the annual banquet of the Tip of Texas Girl Scout Council, the attorney general said the birth rate in the United States has risen "so rapidly that no group seems to have the time to provide adequate guidance to our children, and this is destined to be calamitous."

AROUND THE WORLD:

Names And Faces In Today's News

NEW YORK (AP)—The scene was the Metropolitan Opera, the performance was "The Girl of the Golden West."

Dorothy Kirsten, scheduled to sing the role of Minnie, was kept off the stage by illness. Eleanor Steber was pressed into the soprano role Monday night.

Tenor Franco Corelli bravely carried on through rehearsal, although he was suffering from bronchitis. He went on for the first act, but when the curtain came down his doctor said it was too dangerous for him to continue.

Gaetano Bardini, the standby tenor, was drafted. He had never sung at the Met before. He was supposed to have made his debut last Thursday in "Madam Butterfly," but at the time he was ill.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Are the girls taking over Harvard? The Radcliffe girls already attend classes at Harvard and now they want a voice in policy decisions.

A referendum is scheduled next week on a proposal by the Harvard Undergraduate Council to give the Cliffliff permanent representation on the Harvard Policy Committee.

Nora Howenlowe, student president of the Radcliffe Government Association, called the proposal "only fair."

Michael E. Abram, chairman of the policy committee, said he thought "Harvard students will feel that their rights and traditions will not be affected."

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Marriage bans were published today for Greek actress Melina Mercouri and American movie director Jules Dassin, her constant companion for years.

Dassin was divorced from concert violinist Beatrice Launer in 1961 and said at the time he and Miss Mercouri planned to marry.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Henry J. MacLaughlin, a high school senior, applied a year ago to become a midshipman at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Less than three weeks ago his older brother, Donald, an academy graduate, was shot down in a Navy jet in Viet Nam.

"My parents thought that after Donald was killed I might not want to go, but I do," MacLaughlin said Monday.

Like his brother, MacLaughlin is a top scholar-athlete at suburban Catonsville High School.

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Walter Abel, who has played many an executive role, has been elected president of the American National Theater and Academy, succeeding actress Peggy Wood.

Lillian Gish was named fourth vice president.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 18, the 18th day of 1966 with 347 to follow.

The moon is between last quarter and new phase.

No morning star.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars. Those born today are under the sign of Capricorn.

American orator Daniel Webster was born on this day in 1782.

On this day in history:
In 1788, the first English settlement was made in Australia.

In 1919, the Versailles peace conference was formally opened.

In 1943, Moscow announced that the German siege of Leningrad had been lifted. It had lasted since the fall of 1941.

In 1965, movie star and singer Jeanette MacDonald was buried in Hollywood.

A thought for the day—Daniel Webster: "God grants liberty only to those who live it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

Dispute

The festival petition is granted it would "upset the delicate function of the novitiate. A jazz festival is equated with noise and the novitiate is equated with silence."

Opponents feel that thousands of festival fans would ruin the privacy and property value of their homes and public beaches.

Wein says, "We feel we will hurt no one by coming to this location. With the possible exception of traffic, all of the complaints have been completely unfounded."

A major part of the economic base of Newport and Middletown depends on tourism. The local Chamber of Commerce supports the proposed site and estimates conservatively that tourists spend $1 million during the festivals. Wein said he feels that if he was permitted to build a permanent site, $3 million would be pumped into the local economy.

Cotton Harvest Reaches 97 Per Cent Complete

AUSTIN (AP)—Snow and ice in West Texas made spring seem far away, but watermelon planting already has started in South Texas and the Coastal Bend, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says.

The department, in its weekly crop-weather report Monday, said farmers in many parts of the state are preparing land for spring vegetable crops.

Cotton Harvest
Harvest of the 1965 cotton crop reached 97 per cent completion last week, the department said.

High Plains irrigated wheat growth was limited by cold nights, but wheat in other areas of the state is making normal progress, the report said.

Citrus harvest was active in the Rio Grande Valley until showers hit the area Thursday night. Valley vegetable harvest progressed steadily during the early part of last week, with cabbage moving in good volume and carrots active.

Money Sought For Asian Bank

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asks Congress today to authorize $200 million for the newly organized $1 billion Asian Development Bank.

The funds would be in addition to the $1 billion the White House has promised for speeding the economic development of Southeast Asia.

Presidential adviser Eugene R. Black represented Johnson at Manila last month when 27 nations signed the charter of the new bank. It is being organized to make hard currency loans to nations ranging in an arc from Japan to Iran.

Nineteen Asian countries agreed to subscribe $650 million toward the bank. The United States and seven other non-Asian countries agreed to supply the remaining $350 million.

EARL WILSON:

Wife Loves A Bargain

WILSON

MEXICO—My wife keeps claiming it's funny that I was able to get vaccinated free twice in the last four months.

I hope the humor of this will seep through to me one of these days. My wife is always overjoyed when she can get something at bargain rates. Getting a nerve killed, if offered her at half price, she would find hard to turn down, even if she didn't need it. And I don't want to be around when some funeral promoter suggests they'll put me away free, but the offer is only good for three months.

Four months ago, in London, en route back to New York, we spoke to a nice gentleman at TWA about our health cards having expired. We would probably have to be vaccinated for smallpox at Kennedy Airport.

GIVEN A QUICK NEEDLE

"We've got a few minutes," he said. "Why not right here?"

And he led us to a doctor who gave us the needle immediately and wouldn't take any fee.

"British socialized medicine, you know," he said. My wife's delight at that free treatment was boundless.

Some weeks ago after making a speech at Las Cruces, N.M., we went back to El Paso, crossed over the bridge of the Rio Grande at Juarez at midnight, to investigate the margarita situation, and were not required to present papers, or identification of any kind—but we did have to pay two cents a person.

So, in coming to Acapulco the other day for "the season," we knew we required no papers.

BUT, AT MIAMI, we learned different parts of the border seem to have different rules. We must have proof of U.S. citizenship or we couldn't get on that airplane going to Acapulco.

I presented all my cards—none proved my citizenship.

"We can let you fill out an affidavit," a man at the airline said. Well, that was $2 to the notary public, and we got our tourist's cards and we got on the big bird and they served tequilas and life was sweet.

"You do have your health cards, of course?" asked two girls from the Tourist Commission, who met us.

HE DIDN'T HAVE THE PROOF

"N-n-no," I said. "We always keep them in our passports, and you know we don't have to have our passports."

"But I'm afraid you'll have to get vaccinated again then," one girl said.

"This is silly!" I said. "I just got vaccinated in October."

"But you don't have proof, don't you see?"

"Here's my proof right here . . . look at my arm!" I said.

My wife was, for some reason that wasn't at first apparent to me, siding with the opposition.

"Oh, come on, it'll be fun," she said with a glint in her eye that I suddenly sensed was economic.

THE MEXICAN DOCTOR

was happy, too, and so was his nurse. I guess they got lonely around there at midnight.

"It won't hurt," the wife cried, "since you just had one in October."

"It'll hurt ME," I promised, "carrying a typewriter, camera, tape recorder, overcoat and a bottle of bouillon for you with that punctured arm!"

I went through it, of course . . . and then when I offered the nice doctor some American pesos, and he waved them away, with a grand gesture, I realized what it meant to my wife. We had another vaccination free, even though we didn't need it.

How many of her friends could say they'd wangled two foreign governments out of free vaccinations?

By the way, I wonder how are things down in El Paso where you don't need health cards. But let's don't go bringing that up! My wife might want me to get a free vaccination down there.

MILLIE PERKINS IN HOSPITAL

Millie Perkins has checked into Mount Sinai for tests after holidaying at Lenox Hill Hospital. When released, she hopes to film Tyrone Guthrie's first movie, "The Labor Leader," written by her award winning husband Robert Thom.

Yippee! Our "Fearless Forecasts For '66" are already being confirmed. Liz Taylor and Richard Burton have had a serious interruption of their plans. They couldn't leave for Oxford last week to rehearse for "Dr. Faustus" because they were being pre-trial cross-examined in 20th's $25,000,000 suit and it may take several weeks. Also—the Met Opera confirmed our other forecast that Liz'll make an August appearance at Lewisohn Stadium (with Richard in "Joan at the Stake"). And you thought Jeanne Dixon was good.

ED WYNN

who had great success for several years with "The Harwyn," is taking over the Pompeii Room at Park & 57 from Frank Marr, and, with "Gregory" who was long at the Star Club, is thinking of converting it into "Ed Wynn's Harwyn". There'll be dancing in the back just like in the old days at the other Harwyn when Grace Kelly was single and used to mamba with Oleg Cassini.

Millie Hines again missed a "Funny Girl" matinee (saryng-les), with Linda Gerard subbing capably, but was back for the evening show . . . Gayety Burlesque stripper Bieze Starr will fly to Miami to wed rock 'n' roll singer Tony Farrar . . . NEGROES STILL UNHAPPY

Surveys Indicate Big Northern Cities Are In For Racial Trouble

By LYLE WILSON

The word on big northern cities is that some of them are primed for an explosion on the order of last year's riots in the Watts area of Los Angeles. Surveys have indicated the trouble potential in the north is large. It is large also on the West coast. In Oakland, Calif., for example.

Another hot spot is Chicago. Washington, D.C., has been mentioned among others. Root causes vary. But unhappy Negroes sum it up in one word: discrimination.

A specific complaint is against racial imbalance in the public schools. Racial imbalance is a source of potential trouble in three hot spots: New York City, Boston and Chicago.

Washington Problem

The most difficult and least soluble problem of racial imbalance probably is in Washington, D.C. About 90 per cent of public school pupils in Washington are Negroes. There are no white children available to be fed into Negro schools to obtain a racial mix.

Some of the potential trouble may involve a misunderstanding of the Supreme Court's 1954 order holding it to be unconstitutional to segregate public schools by race. Did the court require racial integration of public schools or did the court merely forbid racial segregation in the public schools?

An off-hand yes or no answer is not easily come by because the Supreme Court wrote a lot of psychological and sociological theory into its 1954 opinion. If the theory has the force of law, it would appear that the court ordered the integration of all public schools, at whatever cost.

It is appropriate to quote from an analysis prepared by the legislative reference service of the Library of Congress in 1964. This is a volume of almost 1,700 pages. In a discussion of equal protection of the laws, there is a paragraph on education as follows:

"On the basis of the construction thereafter accorded to it, the ruling in 1954 amounted virtually to a definite rejection of the separate but equal facilities doctrine. Relying almost entirely on findings set forth in psychological and sociological treatises, the court therein unanimously concluded that in the field of education the doctrine (separate but equal) has no place and that separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

The opinion also held that separation of pupils based on race not only generates a feeling of inferiority as to the Negro status in the community, but also adversely affects the educational and mental development of Negro children.

The court's prohibition, however, seems to have been limited to forbidding segregation based on race. But Negro parents in New York, Boston and Chicago now are demanding that white kids be bused around town to Negro elementary schools to correct racial imbalance in which the little Negro kids cannot get a decent education.

Neighborhood Complaints

Negro parents complain against neighborhood schools in which housing and job opportunity patterns tend toward all-white or all-Negro neighborhood school districts. If district boundaries are drawn to separate the races among public schools, there is an obvious violation of the Supreme Court's 1954 order.

But what about segregation caused by wholly housing and job conditions? Do white parents have a right to keep their kids in white schools in their own neighborhoods or does the law require that white kids be bused around town to establish racial balance?

Politicians shrink from facing up to that question because they cannot avoid enraging either the Negro parents or the white parents. That, of course, would cost the politicians votes.

DR. MCFARLAND IS SPEAKER

Conservation Award Given At Muleshoe C-C Banquet

MULESHOE (Special) — An overflow crowd, numbering more than 600 filled the Muleshoe High School cafeteria here Monday night for the annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce banquet. Speaker for the event was Dr. Kenneth McFarland, recognized by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as one of the country's top after dinner speakers.

New officers and directors were installed, and the outstanding conservation farmer's award was presented.

Sherman Inman, an official of the Black Water Valley Soil conservation District presented Jimmy White with the outstanding farmer award. White, who has been farming only two years, lives west of Muleshoe with his wife and daughter. He was reared at Friona.

Officers Installed

Dr. Charles Lewis was installed for his second term as the president of the chamber, while Horace Hutton took over the vice president's duties and Jimmy Crawford became the new treasurer.

Installed as directors for 1966 were Boone Allison, Jacques Baker, Stan Barrett, Vie Benedict, M. D. Gunstream, Jimmy Crawford, Thurman White, Robert Hooton, Horace Hutton, B. Lancaster, Franklin Mann, Earl Richards and Wayne Williams.

Retiring directors included Dr. W. F. Birdsong, Truman Lindsey and M. E. (Red) Simon.

Dr. McFarland based his talk on Americanism, saying "We cannot assume that because people are born in America that they understand Americanism. They must be told about it and then must be sold on it." He added, "If you have enough of the right kind of people in your community, you can meet that problem and all other problems."

He went on to explain that "old-fashioned patriotism" is what the people of America need today.

Dr. McFarland called on the citizens of Muleshoe to push Americanism through the news media. He asked the group, "Why do these folks on the far out left and the far out right make the news? Then explaining, "It's because they are saying something and because they are doing something and it's the duty of the news media to report it."

Things must be done in a legal manner, the speaker said, and, "We must find a legal way to inform our children about Christ." He added, "It was silly to have two weeks vacation for Christmas for our schools. If we can't tell them (our children) why, and when we observe Thanksgiving in our schools, who are we going to tell them we are giving thanks too. Will we eventually eliminate saying the pledge of allegiance because it mentions God or stop accepting the children's lunch money because it says, In God We Trust."

People from many area towns including Brownfield, Amarillo, Childress, Clovis, Lubbock, Littlefield, Levelland, Morton, Seminole, Hereford, Floydada, Friona, Sudan, Tulia, Vernon, Dimmitt, Earth and Farwell attended the event.

Dinner music was provided by the Blue Mules, the high school stage band, accompanied by Ray Martin on the organ.

Neal Dillman, local school official, was the master of ceremonies. Theme of the banquet was "Muleshoe on the Move," and it was carried out by a mural painted by local artist Rheata White.

'Copters To Aid Building Industry

NEW YORK (AP)—The construction industry predicts that future will revolutionize the building of dams, bridges and other vast projects in hard-to-reach areas.

Even now the steel industry is using helicopters to move such materials as roofing and pipes within its own facilities because the helicopters save time and money and enable the plant to get into production faster.

Steelways, publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, said that modified versions of the giant-size "flying crane" helicopters which are being used by the U. S. Army, are capable of moving trucks, bridge sections and even bulldozers over roadless terrain.

The publication said a commercial version of the Army's "flying crane" is several years off, although one manufacturer believes that once quantity production is achieved for the military, the price of the machine will be lowered. As a result, it will then fall within the financial reach of the building contractors or helicopter operators.

ARMY, MARINES TO GET MORE MEN

Ground Forces To Be Bolstered

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The vast bulk of the 113,000 additional fighting men sought by the Johnson Administration will be used to strengthen Army and Marine ground forces, it was learned today.

combat load in the Viet Nam war. The Navy and Air Force each will get only a few thousand more men in the new build-up, which will push total U. S. armed strength over the 3 million mark for the first time in a dozen years.

McNamara told newsmen at the White House Monday that the Administration will ask Congress to vote another $12.346 billion to underwrite the soaring costs of the U. S. involvement in Viet Nam. The White House said $415 million will also be asked for economic purposes, bringing the supplemental total to $12.761 billion.

This is the second major supplementary money request and military manpower increase for this year stemming directly from the deeper U. S. commitment in Viet Nam. Last August, when the basic decision was made to put large American ground forces into the battle, Congress granted the administration another $1.7 billion and authorized an increase of 340,000 men, mostly for the Army.

Together with the $1.7 billion Viet Nam supplement voted last summer, this will increase defense spending this year to $54.2 billion, about $6 billion more than had been anticipated.

WOULDN'T YOU REALLY RATHER HAVE A BUICK?

The new supplemental money request for Viet Nam will be followed next Monday by the main defense budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1. This will total $58.3 billion, according to the White House, with a significant portion of that to be spent for supporting the war in Viet Nam.

Nearly a year ago, when President Johnson sent his regular fiscal 1966 budget to Congress he said "the build-up of our forces which started in 1961 is nearly complete."

A Net Decrease
That budget, contemplating spending of about $48 billion this year, called for a net decrease in the armed forces of 16,640 men. The deterioration of the Viet Nam situation in the spring and summer forced a dramatic change in direction.

The demands of the Viet Nam war have taxed the resources of all the services to meet commitments around the world, to maintain a strategic "fire brigade" reserve in the United States and to keep a pipeline of trained replacements moving to the Southeast Asian war theater.

In addition to manpower, the new supplemental money requests will cover heavy buying of bombs and ammunition, helicopters and other war gear and supplies. It also is expected to help finance construction of major port and supply bases and airfields in Viet Nam.

The service manpower increases authorized by Congress last August were planned to bring total U. S. armed strength to 2,980,000.

The additional 113,000 troops would raise that total to 3,093,000.

The last time U. S. armed manpower totaled more than 3 million was in June 1954 when the figure stood at 3,302,104.

Cuban Refugee Number Passes 5,000 Mark

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The number of refugees airlifted from Cuba to the United States since Dec. 1 has passed 5,000.

With 160 arriving Monday, the total reached 1,257 men, 2,265 women and 1,562 children.

Under a rotating system with other airlines, Mackey Airlines began flying in refugees from Varadero Beach, the Cuban departure point. The flights, paid for by the U. S. government, are made twice a day on weekdays.

Six Men Flew
Meanwhile, six men, including some of military age ineligible for the airlift, fled Cuba in a 23-foot boat. They reached Key Sal, north of Cuba, and were brought here by the U. S. Coast Guard.

The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, an anti-Castro organization, says an underground radio station is being constructed near Havana.

The committee said Cuban Communications Ministry employees believe the secret plant will be used to direct Communist guerrilla operations in Latin America. Soviet military officers are supervising the construction, the report says.

Your child can teach you a lot about taste!

Children have more taste buds than grown-ups do. That's why we don't stop testing Borden's Milk when it's good enough to suit you. Or even when its quality exceeds government standards. Every bottle of Borden's you buy has been tested 23 times, till it's good enough to pass milk's toughest test — the sensitive taste of a child.

Mama says Borden's is the milk for children!

Milwaukee Judge Ponders Jurisdiction Over Braves

Injunction Is Sought

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A Milwaukee judge has been called upon to decide himself whether Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball's vagabond Braves can be heard in his court.

Attorneys for the Atlanta-bound Braves and the National League wound up their arguments asking dismissal of the suit Monday before Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller. They contended state courts have no jurisdiction over what is considered a national sport.

"Local Wrong," Willard Stafford, special attorney for Wisconsin, answered that the Braves' departure from Milwaukee involved a "local wrong with local impact and we are asking for a local judgment."

Roller took the Braves' request to throw out the suit under study and gave no hint when he might rule. He indicated he might want to call back the attorneys for another questioning session in a week to 10 days.

The state's antitrust suit, asking the Braves be ordered to remain in Milwaukee until the National League grants a replacement franchise, is now in its second major stage. The state came out ahead in the first inning last fall when the federal courts spurned the Braves' argument that Wisconsin had no jurisdiction and sent the suit back to Roller's court.

Federal Matter
Attorneys for the Braves and the National League repeated Monday their contention that the national nature of baseball, spread from coast to coast, made its regulation a federal matter, rather than the prerogative of any one state.

Steven E. Keane, special counsel for Milwaukee County, said the state could act where Congress had not chosen to do so.

Pending before Roller, and awaiting a decision first on the Braves' motion to throw out the suit, is the state's request for a temporary injunction forcing baseball to remain in Milwaukee until the case is decided.

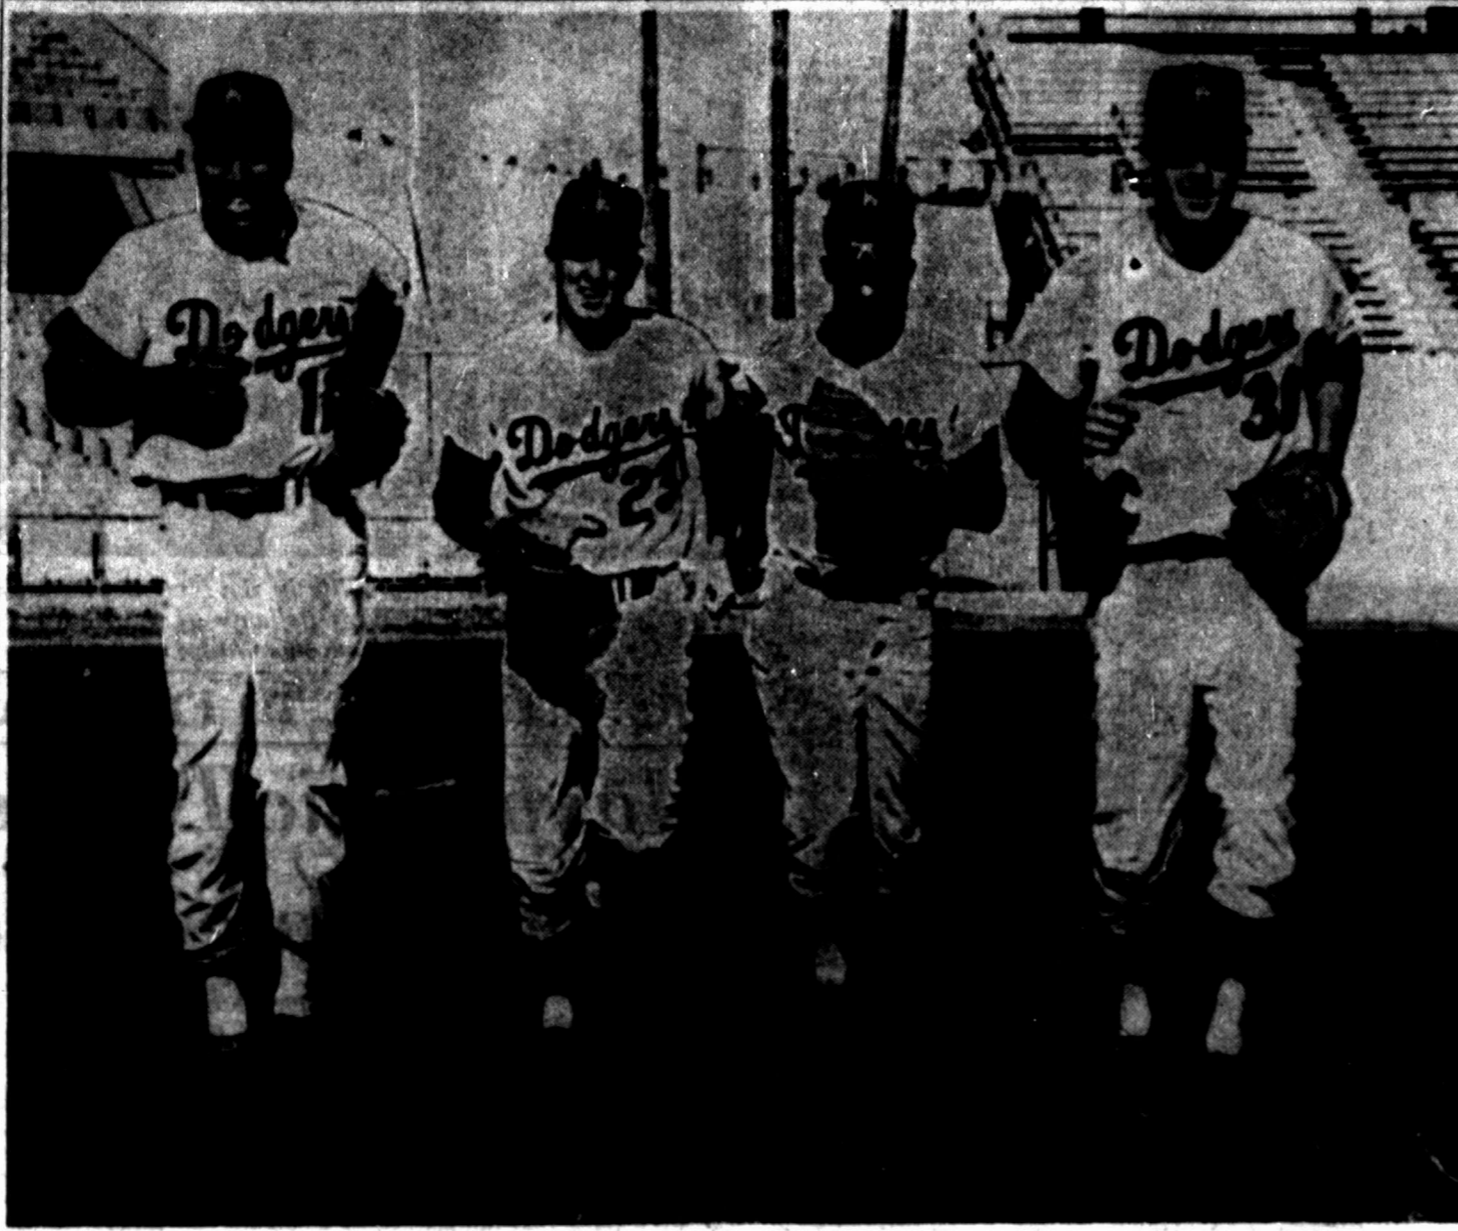

If the Braves' lose their dismissal fight, the suit is expected to go to trial before the beginning of the baseball season, but a final decision may not come until after months and years of appeals.

The Boston-born Braves, who began a 13-year stopover here amid wild adoration and ended it amid unrestrained acrimony, have already moved all their physical properties to Atlanta. The start of the 1966 season is just three months away.

In Atlanta, city officials also have gone into Georgia courts to obtain an injunction to require the Braves to honor their 1966 contract to play there.

TRIES OUT MENED ANKLE—Outfielder Tommy Davis, left, of the Los Angeles Dodgers, trots around Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles with three teammates to see how his right ankle, broken sliding into second base early last season, is getting along. It's still giving him trouble, but he hopes to be ready for the start of the season. With him, left to right, are pitcher Claude Osteen, infielder Nate Oliver and pitcher Joe Moeller. A half-dozen Dodgers are working out thrice weekly until it's time to report to the spring training camp at Vero Beach. (AP Wirephoto)

DETROIT, SALT LAKE CITY VIE Cities Seek Olympic Games

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The International Olympic Committee announced today it has received the application of two American cities to stage the 1972 Olympic Games. The IOC said it received a cable from Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh applying for the Summer Games, while American IOC member Douglas F. Roby personally submitted the application of Salt Lake City, Utah, for the Winter Games.

On the other hand, the committee received a cable from the national Olympic body of the Netherlands withdrawing the provisional application of Amsterdam for the 1972 Summer Games. The cable said the withdrawal was caused by the Dutch government's refusal to provide the necessary funds.

No word has been received so far from Vienna, which also applied for the Summer Games provisionally but has so far failed to obtain the financial backing from the Austrian government.

AT TECH Ducats On Sale For SMU Game

Tickets — you know the rare cardboard devices that allow a limited number of Lubbock citizens to see Red Raider basketball each year — have been placed on sale for the Tech-SMU contest here Saturday afternoon.

"We will sell a limited number here at the athletic office," Mrs. Mildred Wright, Tech ticket manager announced Monday. "We aren't certain how long we will be able to do so, but we will sell at least a limited number."

The game is not anticipated as a sellout, mainly because of the semester break taking many students off campus and partially due to the fact it will be on regional television.

Although no definite plans have been announced, it is not expected that the closed circuit video will be used in the auditorium.

The ticket office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Hawks Defeat Knick Quint

(By The Associated Press)
The St. Louis Hawks, seemingly carried away with Southern hospitality in previous appearances at Memphis this season, have finally won in that Tennessee city.

St. Louis, which made opponents feel more than welcome by losing its three previous games at the Hawks' home-away-from-home, came back from a 52-47 halftime deficit and beat the New York Knicks 115-106 in the only National Basketball Association action Monday night.

For a time it looked like the Hawks, who still have four games to play in Memphis, once again were going to disappoint their Tennessee fans, but they caught fire in the third quarter and then beat back a New York rally in the fourth for the victory.

The committee members will also advise on corps training for "sports-community development programs" of the Peace Corps.

Westerners Try To End Three-Game Loss Skein

The Monterey High School Plainsmen, hoping to add fuel to their mounting momentum, and Lubbock High's Westerners, trying to snap a three-game losing skein, hit the road again tonight to battle District 3-AAAA foes Palo Duro and Pampa respectively.

Both contests tip-off at 8 p.m. Tonight's action will mark the second trip out for both Hub City schools and Palo Duro in Round Two of league play while Pampa, last year's loop titlist, will be making its initial action after a non-district win over Phillips last Friday.

The Plainsmen, who finished second to Amarillo High in the first round with an impressive 7-1 record, roared past Borger, 80-50, last week and will be trying to make it two in a row against the offensive-minded Dons. Palo Duro, which managed a 3-5 ledger in the first half, fell to the Sandies in the second round opener last week.

Coach Max O'Banion's Westerners are looking for their first win of the second half after losing to upstart Tascosa, 46-43, last week. The LHS crew, which posted a 6-2 first round record, has now lost three straight games — to Amarillo, Monterey, and Tascosa — and is faced with a major test tonight against the potent Harvesters.

Pampa finished the first round with a 5-3 record and boasts an impressive 16-4 season mark. One of those losses came at the hands of the Westerners in the first round as O'Banion's troops scored what was considered an upset 48-35, victory.

Lubbock High, 14-5 for the year, will likely open with big Bill Green (6-5, 9.4), Wesley Verner (6-1, 10.6), Jimmy Poe (5-9, 5.0) Ronnie Shuffield (6-1, 3.9) and Freddy Dickson (6-0, 4.9). Don Burrell (6-3, 10.3) and Nello Armstrong (6-6, 2.1) are also slated to see a good deal of action.

Harvester mentor Terry Culey will retaliate with the likes of David Cain (6-5, 9.5), Mike Wise (6-3, 6.1), Kenneth McWilliams (6-3, 4.9), Gary Crossland (5-9, 5.6), and Steve Williams (6-0, 6.2).

Coach Gerald Myers' Plainsmen, who soared to a season scoring high against Borger, will reign as favorites against Terry Culey's Dons.

Starting for Monterey will be Steve Hardin (6-5½, 9.5) Craig Wright (6-4½, 10.1), David Reed (6-3, 11.2), Chuck Lewis (6-2, 5.3) and Kenny Coleman (6-3, 11.3). Others who will probably see action are Danny Sledge (6-6, 4.3), Steve Hurt (6-2, 3.0), and Randy Andrews (6-3½, 1.8).

Gilley's Dons will be led by high scoring Harold Mason (6-5, 14.9) and Bailey Thompson (5-7, 11.2). Rounding out the lineup will likely be Sandy Burkhart (6-0, 7.9), Mike McKean (6-3, 6.9), and either David May (6-0, 5.2) or Larry Kiser (6-1, 4.1).

The Palo Duro contingent is currently 8-8 for the year. Monterey triumphed in the first meeting of the two clubs, taking a 69-55, win in Municipal Coliseum.

Lubbock High's 'B' team Cowhands will test the Pampa 'B' squad in a 6:30 p.m. affair in Pampa and Monterey's Lancers try Palo Duro 'B' at the same time in Amarillo.

Stan Musial once hit five home runs in a doubleheader during his playing days with the St. Louis Cardinals.

FACTS AND FICTION:

News Notes In A Reporter's Mail

By HAL BOYLE.
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:
 West Germans now drink far more champagne than the French—119 million bottles to 62 million. In the last 18 months they put down more bubbly than the entire German nation consumed between World War I and World War II.
 Been checked for diabetes lately? Some four million Americans are estimated to have this disease—but only half of them know it.
 You're safer in the sky than on the highway. Considering number of miles traveled, automobiles are involved in more accidents than commercial airplanes.
 Rough measurements are usually called "rule of thumb" because that is how they once were made. The first joint of the male thumb is about an inch long.
 No wonder wives of business executives complain of loneliness. Company presidents make an average of 41 trips a year away from home.
 Dolley Madison, who sometimes acted as hostess for widower President Thomas Jefferson, in 1809 first served ice cream in the White House. But stern George Washington apparently was fond of it, too. His expense ledger records that on May 17, 1784, he purchased a "cream machine for ice."
