Rusk Reveals Hanoi's Rebuff To Peace Bid

UNIVERSAL DRAFT URGED High Republican Calls For Wartime Controls On Nation's Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's resumption of the bombing of North Vietnamese targets today brought a Republican call for universal draft, higher taxes and wartime controls over the economy. Unless the danger is far less than it now appears, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) told his colleagues, there is no sense in the President "waiting until after the election to recommend the inevitable."

Ho Slams Door On Any Deal No Ultimatum Given By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk disclosed today the United States offered to extend the bombing pause over North Viet Nam if the Communist leaders would make a peace gesture in response to the U. S. Peace offensive.

WHE' BABIES DIE IN CRIBS

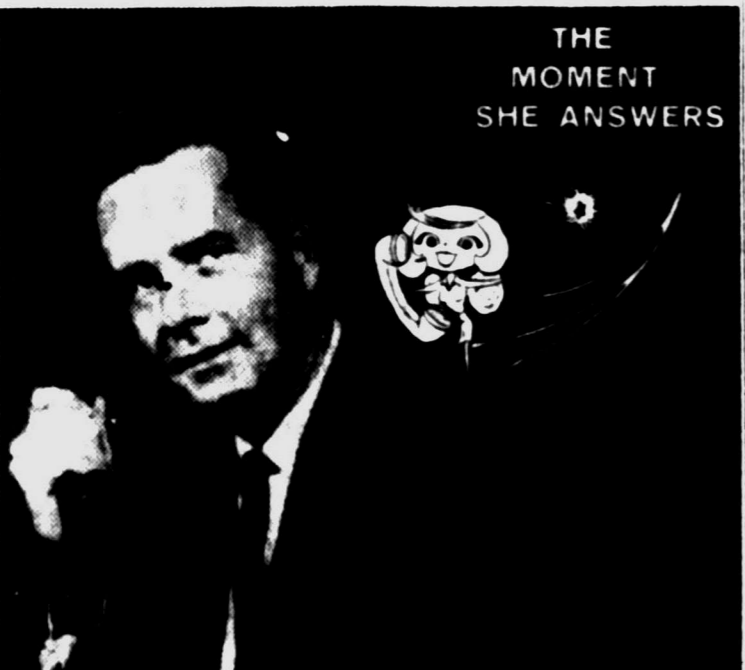

Doctors Trying To Unravel 'Sudden Death' Mystery

By MARTIN HEERWALD SEATTLE (UPI) — A doctor can assure the grieving parents that no one was to blame for their baby's death. The shock soon passes, and grief diminishes with time. But a research team headed by Dr. J. Bruce Beckwith, pathologist at Children's Orthopedic Hospital here, is trying to unravel the SDS mystery. And leads that may make it possible to reduce markedly the number of sudden infant deaths.

Institute of Health. Beckwith said research thus far indicates SDS may be caused by a virus in the upper respiratory tract, perhaps the kind of virus that causes the common cold in adults. "Everything about an infant is tiny, he explained, and infections in the breathing passage pose a more serious problem in infants than in adults. "We believe we are getting untraced SDS cases," he said. "But on the basis of information now available there is no way to detect or prevent these deaths."

'Suppression' Is Charged In Try To Block Book

NEW YORK (AP) — An attempt by the widow of Ernest Hemingway to block publication of a book about the Nobel and Pulitzer prize winning author has been termed an action "to suppress or distort the truth" about his mental breakdown and his subsequent "suicide."

Hemingway's body was found in his Ketchum, Idaho, hunting lodge July 2, 1961. He had been killed by blasts from both barrels of a shotgun. The official ruling was "death from self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head."

No Ruling Made
No ruling was ever made on whether the death was an accident or suicide.

The author's widow, Mary, is seeking to block publication of a book entitled "Papa Hemingway" on several grounds, including invasion of privacy.

A. E. Hotchner, author of the unpublished book submitted Friday to State Supreme Court on an affidavit that "apparently the plaintiff (Mrs. Hemingway) would like to suppress or distort the truth about Ernest Hemingway's suicide and the condition which led up to it."

Hotchner described his book as "my memoir of our very close relationship," which he said spanned the years from 1948 to 1961.

Injunction Sought
Mrs. Hemingway has asked the court to enjoin publication and distribution of the book, scheduled to go on sale April 11. The suit also named Random House, Inc., which Mrs. Hemingway said plans to publish the book.

Mrs. Hemingway says the book consisted mainly of words and literary matter conceived, composed and written by her husband and set forth in letters, tape recordings and writings. She contends that such publication would be an illegal commercial use of the literary properties which belong to Hemingway's estate.

Justice Harry B. Frank rejected an injunction on whether to issue an injunction banning the book. He indicated he would read the book before making a decision.

Student Works To Make Books

AUSTIN (AP) — Three books may result from articles prepared by a group of students in C. Richard King's feature writing class at the University of Texas.

Two-week assignments of research features are part of King's final examination. The four-hour stack of articles on three general subjects are available to the public now and King hopes they will be used as research for book manuscripts.

The subjects: A history of inaugural events for Texas governors, a history of the Texas Press Association since 1880, and a historical guidebook to Austin.

Farmer Gets $300 In Coon Dog's Death

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Georgia farmer has been awarded $300 by a legislative committee because his coon dog was killed by an employee of the State Game and Fish Department. The dog owner, Willard York of Santee, Ga., had asked $1,200.

He said his 4-year-old hunting dog was killed by a state biologist two years ago on a state game reserve. York said his dog was trained to run only raccoons and the biologist had shot the dog because he thought the dog was chasing deer, which is illegal. The biologist was fined $200.

New Discovery Now Makes It Possible to Shrink And Heal Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch — Relieves Pain In Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so — even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H^o. In addition to actually shrinking piles — Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.

Loudspeakers On U.S. Planes Urge Viet Cong Soldiers To Defect To Allies

By THOMAS A. REEDY
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Allied soldiers on the ground often fail to find the Viet Cong these days, but perhaps the noises are reaching them.

The noises are coming from a squadron of C-47s and about a score of U-10s. The latter are light planes able to slow down to only about 35 to 50 miles an hour.

They are flying day and night over Communist territory in Viet Nam with loudspeakers spreading the word. Other planes have been brought into the fight to spread the word by leaflet.

Use Propaganda

The word is: Quit the insurgency, join the Saigon government, stop being dupes of Hanoi and foreign Communist masters. Then the Americans can go home.

The program, involving Americans and Vietnamese, is called Psychological Operations. From top to bottom, the allied and Saigon government camp agrees that the people have to be won, not just the war.

Those airplanes and loudspeakers are spinning out the word of the West clothed in Oriental tongue. Sometimes the recordings are Buddhist funeral music. If one is a Viet Cong guerrilla living in the jungle, tired, hungry, hunted like a rabbit, and it is just before dawn when man is at his lowest ebb—well, Buddhist funeral music is like a sock in the jaw.

Campaign Launched

The allied effort is going through stepped-up stages. A new "open arms" campaign was launched early this month, to reach its height during the Jan. 20-23 lunar new year Tet holiday.

Almost 150 million leaflets were dropped in both South and North Viet Nam. Millions of "safe conduct" passes have floated out of planes. They are written in Vietnamese, English and Korean—there are South Koreans in the allied forces.

Some Bring Weapons

There's some reason to think that the new drive in the hands of the Americans, though carried out in many places by the Viet Nam government, is paying dividends.

In the week Jan. 10-17, 499 Viet Cong defected and many brought weapons with them. One platoon of 22 men surrendered to an American unit. Maj. James Prescott of El Paso, Tex., said they were influenced by the loudspeaker planes.

"We've had very good results," he said. "One rallier (defector) told us of an ambush the Viet Cong planned for a government battalion in the Delta. They were not only able to avoid it but to counter ambush. Those 22 came in and pointed up to the sky and with signs told us it was our planes sending out those sounds that convinced them."

Strategy Revealed

In the week that ended Jan. 22, a Vietnamese army spokesman said, 388 Viet Cong quit, bringing with them 34 weapons and 33 grenades. American sources said 894 quit in the first 17 days of 1966. The average monthly turn-in until now has been about 500, so something may be happening.

The government of south Viet Nam will win in the end. Join it. Stop being dupes of the Communists who subject you to a life of sheer hell.

The word to the Saigon government is: Treat these people well. Develop an understanding of them like the Viet Minh had when they were fighting for independence from the French. In other words, be kind to your fellow man.

The airplane propagandists sometimes come under fire but Lt. Col. Clyde Angley of Lenoir, N.C., says his outfit doesn't mind. They've not lost anyone so far.

"We started up in November," said Angley, "and in our first month 1,472 Viet Cong came back. At the 4-1 ratio of kill, I figure this saves 370 American lives. It's worth it." Lt. Joe Farley of Staten Island, N.Y., echoed the sentiment and commented: "We tell them the BSAs are going to raid. Urge them to get out of there and come to our lines. Then the BSAs actually do raid. And we say, 'What'd I tell you? You may believe us!'"

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning star is Venus.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Mars.

In 1865, Robert E. Lee was appointed commander-in-chief of all Confederate armies by Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy.

In 1950, President Harry S. Truman announced he had ordered the Atomic Energy Commission to develop a hydrogen bomb.

In 1953, more than 2,000 persons were killed as one of the worst floods in Holland's history crumbled dikes and flooded 330,000 acres of land.

In 1958, the U.S. launched its first satellite, Explorer 1, into orbit.

Signup For Medicare Is Up Sharply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Social Security officials today reported a sharp rise in the number of old people signing up for Medicare insurance against doctors' bills.

The weekly enrollment rate for the optional insurance, known as "Part B" of the Medicare Program, has quadrupled since late December.

And time is running out. Eligible oldsters have exactly two more months, until March 31, to sign up for coverage. After the deadline passes, they'll have to wait two years to get in.

Regardless of whether a person is unsure if he wants "Part B" insurance, he should sign up now. Any enrollee may withdraw from the program, without charge, until the time the benefits begin next July 1.

Free To All

Medicare's basic hospitalization insurance, known as "Part A," is available free to all Americans over 65. There is no deadline for enrollment.

But "Part B" is a voluntary program, and those who want to participate in it must pay a premium charge of $3 a month. This plan provides coverage of house or office visits by physicians; surgeons' fees; hospital services of anesthesiologists and other specialists; X-rays; lab tests; radiation therapy; artificial limbs and eyes; home visits by nurses and therapists. The patient pays the first $50 of all such expenses which he incurs in any calendar year. Thereafter, the insurance covers 80 percent of the "reasonable cost" of such services.

Space Is Big Problem On Carrier

By MARTIN STUART FOX
ABOARD THE USS TICONDEROGA (UPI) — An aircraft carrier must have one of the highest population densities on earth and the USS Ticonderoga has one of the highest among them.

Commissioned during World War II, the Ticonderoga originally was designed to hold a full crew of just over 3,000 men to run the ship and its 60 odd planes. Now, the requirements of modern war have upped the complement of officers and men by more than 500 and the problem is where to put them.

Numerous Changes

The original designers and builders would hardly recognize the ship they constructed more than 20 years ago, so many changes have been made.

Some of the re-designing and conversions that were found to be necessary to cope with the new requirements were carried out in dockyards back in the United States. But much of the work was done on board by the ship's own engineers.

The result has been the use of every available space from top deck to keel, from bow to stern, to accommodate men, arms and equipment.

Half of the enlisted men's mess space was taken over as a bomb assembly area where the tail fin section is attached to explosive warheads. The post exchange and the barber shop lead off this part of the mess hall so that now bombs are stacked around the automatic Coca-Cola machines and to get a haircut you have to thread your way between heaps of 500- and 1,000-pound bombs.

18 Hours A Day

The other half of the mess, seating 200 men at a time, now has to provide for more than 3,000 places at every meal. This means that the kitchen must serve food for 18 hours a day to feed everybody.

The biggest problem was to find enough room for the extra bunk beds required for 500 men. In some places it has been necessary to put three on top of each other, and every available corner of space has been used.

But the cramped quarters do not seem to have done anything to impair the efficiency of the crew. They act swiftly and smoothly as planes come in from one station to be re-armed and fueled up for the next.

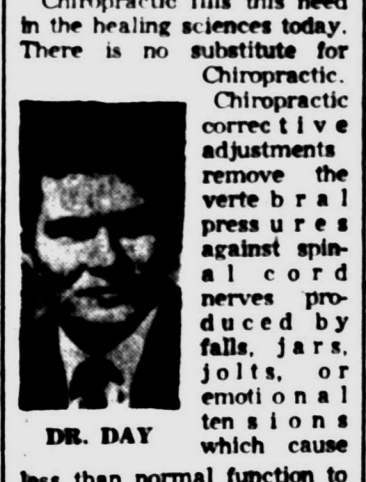

Health Won't Wait!

JOHN H. DAY, D.C.

How much longer do you intend to put up with hurting or being sick?

We are advised to take action to get results. This is particularly true in matters of health. Nature often needs assistance in removing the interference that prevents healing.

Chiropractic fills this need in the healing sciences today. There is no substitute for Chiropractic.

Chiropractic corrective adjustments remove the vertebral pressure against spinal cord nerves produced by falls, jars, jolts, or emotional tensions which cause less than normal function to the body.

Don't continue to suffer with headaches, backaches, stomach trouble, menstrual disorders, respiratory ailments, nervous conditions, allergies, etc., whose cause can be corrected through Chiropractic care.

A lady patient suffering from the effects of a whip-lash injury in a car accident which resulted in extreme symptoms of pseudostroke, high blood pressure, and violent headaches has received such amazing results from her adjustments, she keeps saying, "Oh, how I wish I'd started sooner—I feel like a new woman!"

If you are planning to return to Chiropractic care, or to begin Chiropractic treatment through your own intelligent deduction, or the insistence of friends or relatives, DO IT NOW!

Delay can be dangerous. Sickness is no joke. Good health is the greatest possession you can have.

The right action gets results. The choice is yours; the despair and discomfort of remaining in pain or the opportunity to get well with Chiropractic!

A message of health from the Day Chiropractic Clinic, 2226 34th, SW-1507, Lubbock.

PENETRATION OF ANTI-MISSILE DEFENSES NOTED

U. S. May Be Near ICBM Break-Through

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today the United States may be close to significant breakthroughs in enhancing the powers of American nuclear-tipped intercontinental missiles to penetrate an enemy's anti-missile defenses.

It did so in a report saying also that:

- Leads In Defense
1. America already leads the world in the "nuclear defense" field;
 2. Improved nuclear weapons of various types including "demolition munitions" such as atomic land mines were added last year to the stockpile; and
 3. The nation's nuclear weapons are even now working toward developing even more advanced types.

The AEC's annual report to Congress did not specifically describe the latter. But apparently they entail still further progress toward assuring that American missiles — launched after an attack on the United States — would at least partially be able to foil, decoy and penetrate enemy countermeasures — including their own missiles, and ground-based electronic detection devices.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The doctor advised me to lose some weight so I can fasten my seat belt."

"A major weapons development objective has been the improvement of the penetration capability of strategic missile warheads by further decreasing warhead vulnerability to advance enemy antiballistic missile counter measures.

"Laboratory computations and experiments have identified several possible designs toward achieving these improvements. The designs are under further study, with the purpose of producing — within any given set of limitations in size, weight and (explosive) yield — a system of hardness balanced against all possible threats."

"Hardness" does not refer to the mere metallic hardness of a warhead. And, while the AEC defines it only in general terms, it presumably refers to such things as the ability of a warhead to prevent its own premature detonation in flight by the nuclear "rays" or blast and heat effects of a nuclear missile detonated by the defender.

Partially Tested
The AEC made plain the latest concepts already have been at least partially tested in underground nuclear weapons tests at the Nevada proving grounds, for its report said: "Field tests to demonstrate the durability of hardened devices have been made and further tests are in preparation." The clear hint here was that new, experimental versions of hydrogen or atomic warheads were placed underground and tested for their ability to remain intact despite the explosion of a nuclear device elsewhere in the area. Referring to underground weapons tests in general, the AEC said the past year marked a continuation of "an aggressive" program of that nature undertaken when the limited test ban treaty — outlawing all but underground tests — went into effect in 1963.

And the commission said that, as a result of the development of "more sophisticated test devices," it has been able to carry on, beneath the ground, weapons tests which previously had been thought possible only in the atmosphere. The report also said that late this year the United States would launch two additional satellites — "with further improvements and augmented capabilities" — in the program designed to detect any sneak nuclear explosion tests conducted in space. This would bring to eight the number of satellites engaged in the mission, all of them in "tandem"

The AEC also reported that the nation has further improved its "readiness capability to resume atmospheric testing in the event of abrogation of the limited nuclear test ban treaty by another nation and a subsequent decision by the United States to resume testing in the atmosphere."

LUBBOCK GROUP RETURNS Mexico Trade, Investment Possibilities Held Excellent

Twelve Lubbock men, members of Lubbock's first organized trade mission to Mexico, returned to Lubbock Sunday after a nine-day tour of the Latin American country. Sponsored by the U. S. Commerce Department, the tour explored mutual trade possibilities between Texas and Mexico. Members of the trade mission, the first from West Texas to visit any foreign country, represented the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and their respective business firms.

Head of the delegation was Robert L. Reinhardt, executive vice president of Hancock Manufacturing Co., which makes heavy earth-moving equipment. Reinhardt commented Sunday that the Lubbock group had discovered increased governmental stability and "very favorable trade possibilities" in Mexico.

Eye Economic Growth
"We found relations between the two countries were better than we had expected," he said, "and I think we accomplished a great deal."

Dr. John R. Hilderbrand, economics professor at Texas Tech, said, "There is a high rate of economic growth in Mexico which makes investment and trade possibilities in the country excellent." Hilderbrand also explored the possibility of adding more Mexican scholarships to the Texas Tech program, which now has only one Mexican student on such a basis.

Plan Annual Visits
Other members of the group, which visited Monterrey and Torreon while in Mexico, included Elmer Adams, manager of the A and B tractor and Equipment Co.; J. Collier Adams, and attorney; Peter B. Duram, contractor; Sterling Emens, banker; Francisco Gonzales of Texas Commodities; M. C. Lacey, engineer with R. C. Young Seed and Grain Co.; Randolph T. Mills of Gear Clutch and Joint Inc.; Dell Wells of Red-Rain of Texas; B. R. Wienke, rancher; and Donn Lewis, of the Department of Commerce, who helped organize the tour.

Reinhardt described this as the first of what are planned as annual Lubbock trade missions to Mexico.

Launch Set Of Weather Satellites

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — U.S. weathermen, forecasting the day when storms like the east's weekend blizzard will be forecast two weeks ahead, plan to orbit a Tiroc satellite Wednesday to open a full-time system of space-borne weather observers.

The 306-pound weather eye will blast off on a sleek Delta rocket, will be followed three weeks later by the launch of another camera-carrying Tiroc.

The launch was scheduled for 2:32 a.m. EST.

Form Core
The two weather watchers will form the core of the world's first operational satellite system designed to keep forecasters supplied with pictures of earth's cloud cover on a routine, daily basis.

While scientists prepare Tiroc for the opener of the 1966 space launching schedule at the Cape, workers on another job will be readying America's first unmanned Apollo spaceship and its new Saturn IB rocket for an important countdown test Thursday.

If the countdown rehearsal is passed, engineers are expected to declare the 223-foot vehicle free of the minor, but delaying bugs that have been plaguing it recently. The federal space agency has not announced a launch date for the Apollo, but sources report Feb. 18 is the current target.

Cattlemen Formed Group 89 Years Ago

FORT WORTH (AP) — There have been cattlemen as long as there have been cows, but the men have been fully organized in Texas only 89 years.

The association originally was formed to help catch rustlers, and still has that function, although it performs many other services.

Rambler American shows its new muscle! Outruns Corvair, Dart, Falcon at Daytona.

Rambler wins big! Comes in 1, 2 in Class VI Acceleration Test — one of 3 events in 1966 Pure Oil Performance Trials.

This is the car...with the newest, biggest, most powerful standard engine in its class—and it shows—outrunning Corvair 500, Dodge Dart, Ford Falcon.

This is the car...that even with all this performance is still the lowest-priced car made in the U.S.A.!

This is the car...that, with automatic transmission, got a tremendous 24.483 miles-per-gallon in the Economy Test. (The only car that could do better, by a scant 0.5 mpg, had such a small engine that it took nearly 4 seconds longer than the American to accelerate from 25 to 70 mph.)

This is the car...with more flair, more style, more downright road sense than any other car in its class... the car you have to try—and soon. Rambler American by American Motors... where quality is built in, not added on.

The famous Pure Oil Performance Trials held at the Daytona International Speedway are run under strict supervision of NASCAR officials. Cars are selected by surprise visits to dealers. No special parts or preparation permitted. The result is the most realistic and reliable comparison of car performance ever devised.

Based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices for lowest-priced models.

Russians Rap Peking

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has taken the first step toward a possible showdown with Peking over alleged delays of Russian aid to North Viet Nam moving across Communist China, informed sources said today.

This seemed to be the intent, the sources said, of a secret memorandum being circulated among the Soviet Union's 12 million rank and file party members accusing the Red Chinese of sabotaging its Hanoi aid efforts.

The document marks the first time the Kremlin has officially acknowledged reports widely circulated in the West that Peking was obstructing the flow of war materials and Soviet specialists to the North Vietnamese regime.

Denial Accusations
Red China has denied the Russian accusations and countercharged that the Kremlin was conspiring with Americans to "peddle the Johnson Administration peace talks hoax."

The Kremlin memorandum also charges the Chinese with refusing to participate in a worldwide Communist movement to aid North Viet Nam and with rejecting appeals to put aside their differences in the face of escalating "American imperialism" in Viet Nam.

Western observers said that if China and Russia had resolved their bitter dispute a year ago during the escalation of the Viet Nam war, the U.S. effort there would have met tougher opposition.

CAR GOES INTO SKID

Lubbock Man Killed, Six Hurt In Two-Way Wreck

A 56-year-old Lubbock man was killed and six others injured Sunday afternoon in a two-car collision a mile east of Lubbock on FM 853.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Melvin Boone Tudor, route 1, Lubbock, a public relations man for Pinkie's Liquor Stores.

In Good Condition
The injured remained hospitalized today in Lubbock Osteopathic Hospital. Listed in good condition today were Samuel Homer Rodriguez, 31 5216 Colgate, and two of his children, Eddie, 7, and Elizabeth Lynn, 8.

Reported in fair condition were Rodriguez's wife, Florentina, 26, and two other Rodriguez children, Sammie Jr., 3, and Rod, five months.

Highway patrolman Ted Court, who investigated the mishap, said Tudor apparently was traveling west on the Buffalo Lakes Road and had attempted to pass a car, then decided against passing and pulled his station wagon back into his lane.

But Court said when Tudor's vehicle pulled back into the lane, it ran off the right side of the road. When he pulled back on the road, it skidded broadside into the path of the oncoming Rodriguez car, which was headed east.

Tudor was pronounced dead at the scene by Mrs. Frank Lee Ward, justice of the peace.

A stack of poll tax receipts were found at the scene, scattered along the highway.

Lubbock County tax assessor-collector Russell S. Hardin said Sunday night that a men's group in Slaton had been issuing poll taxes at a grocery store and that Tudor had apparently collected the receipts for delivery to the tax office today.

Tudor's survivors include his mother, Mrs. A. L. Tudor, Slaton, and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Schmidt Jr., Dallas.

Second LCC Lecture Set At Church

The second of five evening lectures in the ninth annual Lubbock Christian College Lecture-ship will be presented by Ray Chester, Washington, D.C., at 7:30 p.m. today at Broadway Church of Christ, Broadway and Ave. T.

Chester, who has been minister of 16th and Decatur Church of Christ in Washington, will go to Searcy, Ark., as minister of a congregation.

In addition to the evening lectures, the lectureship includes numerous daytime lectures by local and visiting speakers.

Ex-College President
E. J. Jags, Memphis, Tenn., former president of David Lipscomb College in Nashville, began a series of "Talks to Teachers" at 11 a.m. today and was to speak on "Power to Live and Surpass" at 3:20 p.m.

Daily lectures for ministers on "Preaching with Power to Change Lives" were started today by E. W. McMillan, Santa Ana, Calif. He will speak at 1:30 p.m. and 2:25 p.m. daily through Thursday.

Daily lectures for church leadership are being given at 1:30 p.m. and 2:25 p.m. by John White, Lubbock, and John Young, Dallas. Lectures on "Making the Bible School Evangelistic" are being given at the same hours by Jim Bevis, Lubbock.

Campus, Church Sites
Daytime activities are being conducted on the campus and evening lectures at Broadway Church of Christ.

Dr. William S. Banowsky, minister of Broadway Church of Christ, opened the evening lectures Sunday. "If Christianity is true, and it is, then Christian education is mandatory," he said.

The A Cappella Chorus of Lubbock Christian College sang before Sunday's lecture. At 2 p.m. today, a vocal ensemble from LCC will sing.

Dr. S. P. Austin
To Speak At Church Dinner
Dr. Spencer P. Austin, Indianapolis, will speak at the annual dinner of the Joint Board of Christian Churches at 6:30 p.m. today at First Christian Church, Broadway and Ave. X.

The dinner will be attended by official boards of Bethany, Lubbock, First and Westmont Christian churches, and their wives or husbands. Floyd Read, chairman of the board, will preside.

Dr. Austin met with District 2 Christian churches in a seminar this morning at First Christian Church.

He gave the devotional at the men's prayer breakfast at First Christian Church this morning. Clyde Mathus and George Dearthoff directed the prayer service. Byron Hinkle was song leader and Mrs. Elois Elliott, pianist. Dr. Lewis B. Cooper, Nav. Hale and Gilbert Whitehead charge of breakfast preparations. Melvin Lisman, president of the Christian Men's Fellowship, presided.

1,000 Attend Session
More than 1,000 persons attended a District 2 Christian churches rally at night in Austin spoke Sunday night in Mustang High School auditorium.

Dr. Austin, who is secretary of Unified Promotion for the United Christian Missionary Society, will close the series of engagements in Lubbock Tuesday with a meeting at 10 a.m. with officers and group leaders of the Christian Women's Fellowship and lunch with members of the executive committee and stewardship and world outreach departments at First Christian Church.

Bonds Set After 7 Enter Innocent Pleas
Seven defendants pleaded innocent this morning in misdemeanor cases and were placed under bond by Judge Edwin H. Roedeker, County Court-at-Law No. 1.

They were W. H. Grimsley, 40, 2124 8th St., Carlton Fuqua, 47, 1024 Ave. O, Doc McIntire, 51, 1914 Ave. O, and M. C. Williams, 60, 2405 5th St., all charged with check law violation; Roy Lee Smith, 27, Levelland, liquor law violation; James R. House Burglaries Investigated By Lubbock Police
Three house burglaries were reported to city police this morning, adding to several other reported offenses under investigation.

Reported taken from the residence of Mary May, 3209 Duke St., Sunday evening were a record player, clock-radio, 10 knit shirts, and three razors, all valued at $100.

Harold Burry, 4314 42nd St., said a record player and records valued at about $190 were missing from his residence.

Cash, Cigarettes Taken
Carmel Morrison, 1307 52nd St., complained that $12 and some cigarettes were taken from her home Sunday.

A cash box containing $26 was reported taken during a break-in at American Equipment and Trailer Inc., 3707 Quirt Saturday night. Officers said nothing else was bothered.

Burglars also knocked a hole in a wall of the Blue Moon Cafe, 212-B 18th St. Saturday night and took $3-54 from a juke box. Police said they entered through the wall between the cafe and 212-A 18th St.

Truck tires valued at $325 were reported stolen from a truck belonging to Kelly Jones, 2603 29th St. parked at a Shamrock Service Station at 9th St. and Ave. A Saturday night.

Danilo Molinar, 214 Ave. M, reported a television and two guitars were stolen from his home while he was out of town. Molinar told officers the theft had occurred since Jan. 24. The stolen items were valued at $175.

About $20 in women's underwear was reported taken in a break-in at the home of Dora Melvin, 2906 Fordham, Saturday night.

Watts Work Set At $22 Million
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cost of implementing the McCone Commission recommendations to alleviate conditions that sparked last August's Watts riots is estimated at $22 million by city officials.

Mayor Samuel W. Yorty says city administrator Erwin Piper estimated most of the amount could be footed with federal funds for the war on poverty. He said, however, city taxpayers might have to spend $14 million yearly if the recommendations are followed.

The two most expensive suggestions, Yorty said Saturday, were the hiring of 2,000 jobless persons after individual training, and hiring another 1,500 persons without training. Estimated yearly cost of the first project: $117 million; of the second, $8.5 million.

AFRAID AMERICANS WILL EVENTUALLY RUN OUT OF PATIENCE

Peking Still Believes U. S. Aiming At War With China

CARNIVAL

By Dick Turner

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
Red China's professed fear of war with America is beginning to sound more genuine, as if reflecting fear that Peking will provoke a U.S. attack — and perhaps a nuclear attack.

All the evidence indicates China expects that the United States sooner or later must get out of Viet Nam, and that in the long run the Communists will dominate all Indochina. It does not want to pay a heavy price for the Peking leadership seems afraid the United States eventually will run out of patience.

Texas College Plans Annual Snowball Fight

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — Despite weekend temperatures in the high 60s, Southwest Texas State College, President Johnson's alma mater, will hold its annual snowball fight Tuesday. The ammunition for the annual battle will be supplied by students at Michigan Technological University in northern Michigan. Some 200 pounds of snowballs will be flown to San Marcos, Tex., as part of a promotional stunt for Tech's winter carnival. One change from last year's battle is that the snow won't be packed as hard this time. One student suffered a broken nose in the 1965 fracas.

This apprehension may account for notes of anger and frustration in pronouncements from Peking which suggest the Chinese leadership feels isolated and in danger. Indeed, there are hints that some elements of the Chinese armed forces sought a measure of insurance by means of an approach to Moscow toward reconciliation, so that Moscow's nuclear power might serve as a protection.

Move Falls
If there was such a move, it failed. The Chinese Communist party again has slammed the door, blowing the whistle on any among the Red army brass who might have been thinking that way.

Peking has been paying strict attention to the debates going on in Washington between the "hawks" and "doves." It expects the "hawks" to prevail and to see the war in Viet Nam extended to Laos and perhaps all of Indochina. It seemingly would consider any U.S. movement in that direction to be an immediate threat to China's own security.

Even if the Chinese leaders feel alone and in danger, they will have none of the Russians. A statement read to a Chinese armed forces conference on political work warned against the "erosion of revisionism and bourgeois ideology of all descriptions" and reasserted the "absolute leadership of the party over the army."

How To Run Army
The statement, delivered by Hsiao Hua, director of the army's general political department, laid down by Defense Minister Lin Piao on how the armed forces should be run. Lin, while primarily a military man, is the Communist party's top representative in the armed forces. He has thus passed the word that the party will not stand for any attempt by any military element to make policy or to hold out a tentative hand to the Russians. Lin succeeded Peng Teh Hui as defense minister in 1959, after Peng had advocated making up with Moscow and reliance on Soviet military-technical help.

Revisionism is the Chinese epithet for a Soviet policy which Peking now says aggravates the chances of a Chinese-American war because the Soviet leaders, in its view, are busily engaged in helping "the U.S. imperialists."

Moscow Accused
Peking accuses Moscow of collaborating with other countries in "a new anti-China campaign."

So far as the Chinese leaders are concerned, the Russians are guilty of what Peking calls "the three shams." Those are sham opposition to imperialism, sham support for world revolution, and sham unity.

Peking contends the Soviet leaders forget that "war is the highest form of class struggle and a continuation of politics."

Instead, the Chinese imply, the Russians are leaving them all alone with whatever risks are involved in pursuing the highest form of class struggle, in which China is opposed by the United States.

"Armed with the thinking of Mao Tze-tung, closely linked with the people throughout the country and throughout the world, we shall be more than a match for such a thing as U.S. imperialism, and final victory certainly will be ours."

This sort of wolf-at-the-door talk could have several purposes. One might be to provide an excuse to get more production with less complaint out of the Chinese people. Another might be to bolster Peking's own morale and confidence in the face of the nightmare it has conjured up for itself.

Freight Train Cars Derailed

DUSTIN, Okla. (AP) — Nearly half of an 8-car Kansas, Oklahoma and Gulf freight train derailed Sunday about three miles north of this East Central Oklahoma community.

There were no injuries and the engine and about 14 cars were able to proceed to Muskogee after the accident. The K. O. & G. Railway now is operated by the Midland Valley Railroad Co.

The train was en route from Fort Worth, Tex., to Kansas City, Mo. Ten of the derailed cars contained aluminum ore, one carried sulphur and the remaining cars were empty.

Midland Yardmaster E. E. Little of Muskogee said the cause of the derailment had not been determined, but a 12-inch piece of broken rail was found at the wreck site.

Wrecker crews were called in from Fort Worth and Coffeyville, Kan. A railroad official estimated that it would be sometime this afternoon before the rails could be cleared.

Blind Graduates Of Iowa Center Are Able To Perform Complicated Tasks

TAGS TO GO ON SALE—Mrs. Denese Wren of 4914 W. 19th St., a duty tax assessor-collector for Lubbock County, shows off new license plates which will go on sale at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. At right is one of the regular tags, white lettering on a black background, and left is one of the personalized or prestige plates awaiting a Lubbock resident who placed an order for a tag with a southern flavor. DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Suppose you were blind and wanted a job as a newspaper reporter, an electrical engineer, a computer programmer. Impossible, you might say. And most people, including many of the blind themselves, would agree.

But, says Kenneth Jernigan, director of the Iowa Commission for the blind, it is anything but impossible.

In fact, in the last six months, a blind person has gone to work as a reporter, another as an electrical engineer, and a third as a computer programmer.

They are graduates of the commission's Orientation and Rehabilitation Center.

Placing them in these jobs, Jernigan says, represents an important breakthrough in opportunities for the blind who too often are regarded as limited in the jobs they can hold.

Jernigan, sightless from birth, holds a different philosophy. He says: "With proper training and opportunity, the average blind person can do the average job in the average place of business, and do it as well as his sighted neighbor."

He says the Iowa program is paying off in job placements and in a breakdown of what he calls historic public attitudes and misconceptions about blindness.

Remodeling now under way will give the Iowa commission the largest library for the blind in the world, Jernigan said.

Jernigan says the commission's training program is aimed at giving the blind:

Alternative techniques of doing things in which sighted people use sight — independent mobility, reading, communication and the activities of daily living.

Confidence in the blind person's ability to perform, with these alternative techniques, in a job or daily living.

The understanding to cope with public misconception that the word "blind" carries with it connotations of inferiority and helplessness.

Techniques to develop coordination and confidence include physical training, woodworking for men, using power saws, lathes, reamers and the like, and use of power sewing machines by the women.

REMOTE AREA Tech Senior Will Leave On Bowhunt

Richard Montgomery, 22-year-old Texas Tech senior, will leave Saturday for a trip to a remote region of Mexico to participate in the Grand International Bowhunt.

Twenty-four other bowhunters from throughout the U.S. will make the trip, led by hunter Ben Pearson.

Variety Of Game
 The hunters will seek a variety of game: deer, turkey, javelina, coyotes and bobcats.

Pearson has promised that hunters will be organized for jaguar and jagundi if any are sighted in the area. Bow-fishing expeditions also will be made.

Headquarters will be the Hotel Tanimum, located 10 miles east of Valles in the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

Montgomery will join other hunters in Dallas Saturday and then the hunters will travel to Mexico Sunday. He will return to Dallas the following Friday.

Chosen For Hunt
 The trip is being made possible by Ben Pearson, Inc., manufacturers of bows and arrows of Pine Bluff, Ark.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman may decide this week whether he will try to hold the line on producer price supports this year on such items as dairy goods, soybeans, flaxseed, cotton seed, peanuts and dry beans.

The secretary already has taken steps to limit price advances on wheat, feed grains and some other products. He has sought to prevent undue advances in food prices that might trigger new wage demands by labor and encourage inflation.

Some producer groups are demanding that Freeman boost price guarantees for soybeans and dairy goods. The soybean crop is the fourth largest income maker for farmers.

Increase Sought
 The support for soybeans was $2.25 a bushel last year, but the National Farmers Union has called for a rate of $2.50 this year. The American Soybean Association, a trade organization, wants a support of $2.35.

An increase in the soybean support would make necessary advances in supports for cotton seed, flaxseed and peanuts. These four crops are sources of food fats and high protein livestock feed. Products processed from them are largely interchangeable and any change in support prices would disturb the present price balance.

Cold, Bad Roads Cut Texas Traffic Deaths

Rotten roads and dangerous driving conditions over the weekend helped cut Texas traffic fatalities to less than half the toll of an average last winter weekend.

Many persons stayed off icy, slicked streets except for emergency vehicles. Others drove with caution inspired by sight of dozens of fender-bender wrecks, many of them involving school buses.

Between 8 a.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, 10 persons were killed in traffic accidents, compared to as high as 25 on many previous weekends.

FORMER SPY, SUCCESSFUL SINGER

Housewife And Mother To Exhibit Paintings

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Her professional name is Sirena, derived from a Greek word.
In her stranger-than-fiction life spanning several continents, the beautiful brunette has been a spy for the allies, and a successful singer in supper and nightclubs.
Now, she's housewife and mother turned artist, whose paintings using the unusual technique of mixing gold leaf with oils sell for $1,000 each and on up. And, she's about to have her first formal exhibit of them abroad in the land she calls second home, Italy.
In private life, Sirena is Mrs. Jack Fanara, wife of a real estate and building executive in East Meadow, N.Y., a Long Island suburb. The couple has a daughter, Margherita, nine.
Sixty-seven of Sirena's paintings will be exhibited from Feb. 15 to the exclusive Galleria d'Urso in Rome. Before she left for Italy, she told the story of a childhood that began in White Plains, N.Y., took her to her family's ancestral home in Bari, into deprivation and death of most of her family, and of survival as the allies advanced north through Italy in World War II.
Depression Came
Sirena was born Mastro Cristiano, one of nine children of a successful businessman. While her mother and the children returned to Bari for a visit with relatives, the 1929 crash came, wiping out her father's business, broken in spirit as well, he died soon after. Sirena was two at the time.
The family stayed on at Bari. The crash had hit in the United States, but it left us to starve in Italy," she said. One by one her kin died. Only her mother and one ailing sister survived, and the pre-war lack of food left Sirena with anemia for a lifetime, she said.
At 13, she decided to strike out for Naples to see if there was some work. Sirena walked in and arrived as the allied bombardment of the city was at its height. She tore up her U.S. passport to escape detection. The life of a street waif ended when in a bomb shelter she was befriended by an Italian woman, a singer who was helping to entertain the axis troops.
"Can you sing?" she asked Sirena. Today, Mrs. Fanara recalled, "I did the only thing I could think of. 'Sorrento.'" Her good samaritan spotted talent and found Sirena, work as a show-girl singer. "I was only 15 but I looked 20," while singing, she also studied voice with one of Italy's best teachers. Her big break came, just like in the movies, when the lead singer in the show became ill and Sirena stepped in. "An angel watched over me," she said.
Cast In Spy Role
After liberation of Naples, Sirena disclosed to U.S. officials her American citizenship and army intelligence cast her in the spy role. She returned to the United States in 1947 and launched a singing career which began with small jobs like weddings and ended with her breaking engagement records in clubs all over South America, Europe, the United States, Canada and Mexico.
She met Fanara, president of Express Realty and Expressive Builders, when she was putting on the market a house she'd bought in East Meadow.
While planning a family, Sirena took up painting and developed a "unique" method, "marbling" with layer on layer of oils, then gold leaf pressed into the wet surface, and finally finished with another layer of oils. Each painting takes about one year, each layer has to dry before another is applied, and Sirena works on as many as 10 at a time in her basement studio.
Her works now are owned by a number of private collectors and museums and hang at her East Meadow gallery, where she also gives other artists a chance to exhibit.
The formal exhibit in Rome resulted from a visit and informal showing last year at the Galleria d'Urso, arranged by Prof. Emnio Maffei, critic and art patron who saw her work first in her Long Island gallery.
Talent for painting was always there, Sirena feels. "That's why I have pushed through such circumstances."

"MY HAIR is still blonde but faded at 45. What color should I select for color rinsing?" Sara.
First, have your hair reconditioned by a good hairdresser and then select the proper rinse. But, remember that lighter tones look more natural.
"I AM A grandmother of 83 and have just had a breast operation. Should I allow my fashion-conscious children to put a hair piece of puffs on my head? They bought one to match my white hair." G. M.
Of course you can use the hair piece, it will look very attractive. I think it was nice of your children to want you to look so smart.
"I PLAN a trip to Europe. I am 56, and would not be going with a group. Do you think I would be too lonely? I plan to visit Italy and Germany. I have no connections over there. I plan to stay six weeks." H. M.
Good for you! "He who travels alone..." and all that. Of course you will have a wonderful time, meet people wherever you go. Join some sightseeing trips and you will fall in with congenial people.
"I HAVE some business in New York City in the spring. I have never been there. I wish to see the shows and interesting places. What clothes would be suitable?" Mrs. R.
Simple clothes, such as a soft tweed coat, and some wool dresses. Attractive but comfortable shoes, because you will have to walk to enjoy the sights of New York. An attractive type black dress and coat, small dressy hat, small bag and black pumps will do for any hotel or show.

"Belted" In

DEAR ABBY: My father is the most stubborn man in the world. Nobody can tell him anything. He had seat belts put in his car as soon as they came out, and he gave us kids a big long lecture on how we should always use them, but he never uses them himself. When I tell him he forgot to fasten his seat belt, he says he is going only a short distance and it doesn't pay to bother. I have tried to tell him that it takes only a few seconds to fasten a seat belt and it might save his life, but he gets mad at me for speaking up to him. He has a very high temper, and I have to be careful what I say to him or I'll end up with a fat lip. How can a 14-year-old boy tell his father to practice what he preaches?
Fourteen

DEAR FOURTEEN: Tell him that the National Safety Council estimates that most automobile accidents occur within 25 miles of the victims' homes. But don't tell him to practice what he preaches or you're apt to get a "belt" in the chops.
Dear Abby: My in-laws religion is against smoking, drinking and playing cards. Ours is not. In the evening we will have a cigarette, and perhaps a drink. And if we have company, we will play cards. His parents never call they just drop in unannounced, which puts us in an embarrassing spot. My husband expects me and our guests to help the drinks and cards. I think this is wrong. Do you think I should do as my husband asks and live this false hood?
Wondering

DEAR WONDERING: Your in-laws surely must know that your religion does not prohibit smoking, drinking and card-playing. And if they don't, it's time they get "Haling," the evidence as your husband asks is degrading and doubtful. And he's probably not getting away with it anyway. Tell him to grow up and act like a big boy.
DEAR ABBY: We have been married since last August and we are still living with my mother-in-law. I have painted two apartments and my wife would move into either one.

AAUW Gives Annual Tea

The American Association of University Women sponsored its annual Silver Tea Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Glenn Keyton, 4504 21st St. Approximately 75 persons attended the tea.
Guests were greeted by Mrs. R. W. Strandtmann and Mrs. Benge Daniel, who presented them to Miss Glenda Keyton and officers of AAUW.
Past fellowships chairmen presided at the serving table. Other committee chairmen were in the house party.
An exhibit of posters described the various fellowships offered by AAUW and brochures were available explaining how the fellowships may be obtained.
Proceeds from the tea will be used for the fellowship fund. The fellowships committee, composed of Mrs. R. T. Groves, Mrs. Dale Grimes and Mrs. Mitchell Smith, was in charge of the program.
Mrs. B. T. Rucker is president of the Lubbock Branch of AAUW. Other officers are Mrs. Mimes, Duane Jordan, first vice president; R. D. Holmes, second vice president; Roy Davis, recording secretary; Samuel T. Pendleton, corresponding secretary; and Ernest E. Pope, treasurer.
The AAUW fellowships are available for women with advanced degrees to use for graduate study, on a project considered of benefit to society.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jean Nee is Fashion Editor of Chicago's American and recently interviewed many Hollywood executives and agents on the "star system," which has all but faded out.

By JEAN NEE
HOLLYWOOD (WNS) — "Baby, Lean make you a star." Used to be the words every movie-going American girl wanted to hear.

The story of the beautiful little working girl being lifted from her lowly means of life, run through the glamor chute of a giant movie studio, taught how to laugh, sing, dance, cry, tell jokes and hold a fork was the dream of every star-struck girl. And it did happen that way in the days when stars were "made" or "born" as press agents liked to call it.

But today, when everyone can have glamor on their dressing table, when false eyelashes, chauffeur-driven cars, and swimming pools are just as synonymous with Evanson or Scarsdale as Hollywood, stardom and stars just don't happen that way.

No longer are there studio-hired press agents, maids, beauticians, and cosmeticians to make certain the "star" is glamorous every minute of the day. No longer are there palatial Hollywood palaces rented by studios as the setting for their "jewel" who needs the "opulent surroundings befitting a star."

No More 'Untouchables'
In their place has come the dialogue coach, the press agent hired by the star herself, and an attitude that the glamorous star is not the untouchable, unattainable, gilded dolly but a young ambitious woman who can act, is naturally beautiful, and knows how to behave instinctively. Sort of a girl-next-door-type with false eyelashes.

The first sign of change in the starmaker system is in the "discovery" itself. In the days of Cecil B. DeMille and Louis B. Mayer, a girl never knew when she might be "discovered." Lana Turner was found in a sweater in a drugstore. Arlene Whalen was discovered as a manicurist in a barber shop. Jeanne Crain and Eleanor Parker were discovered sitting watching a show, in a theater. Even in Europe the "discovery" was responsible for some of the top European stars. Errol Flynn was filming "William Tell" in Europe when the wardrobe tester, a pretty young girl hired to try-out costumes before the cameras, caught his eye. "Release the other actress," he ordered. "This girl is going to be my leading lady."

Sophia
According to Nino Novarese, wardrobe designer who had hired the girl for the film, the fact that the film was never made was inconsequential. It was the beginning of a film career for Sophia Loren.

In the days of the drugstore "discovery" acting talent was incidental. A beautiful face, glamor from a tube, a few diction lessons, a portfolio of leggy photos, and determination to stick out the glamorizing overhaul, were all a girl needed to become a glamorous lady of the screen. If the face or figure was pretty enough, other things could be changed.

Today, if you're looking to be discovered, you'll have to come out from behind the soda fountain. The shop rooms and drugstores have been replaced by the community theater, television, and collegiate stages. "The casting directors make a point to go to community theater and to watch for potential stars," says James Denton, an executive of 20th Century Fox.

"Today's training ground for acting is TV," explained director George Cukor. "But it has drawbacks for women, says Mr. Cukor who directed 'My Fair Lady' and is known as a "woman's director" for his expert handling of female stars. "It has worked out better for men because there's lots of action and a man falls into that much more easily than a woman. For women, it falls into romance or comedy or drama and women's parts are harder and, not so good as those for men."

All Experienced
Ann-Margret, Shelby Grant, Stefanie Powers, Gila Golan, and Raquel Welch, young stars who are considered to be well on their way to the title of "glamorous movie stars," all had previous community theater and-or television experience.

Shelby Grant was seen by Richard Zannuck in a part in "Burke's Law" series. Gila Golan was a representative and model for an Israeli fashion show touring the United States. Stefanie Powers was doing a bit part in a movie when she literally bumped into a director who remembered her and signed her to a part in his movie.

By the time these girls were "discovered" they had learned how to apply makeup, had their teeth whitened, and knew what natural glamor looked like and how to achieve it. But in the old days, studios had to run their potential film stars through the "beauty mill," changing their makeup, hairstyle and color, and type.

One of the most frequent changes the studios made in their embryo stars was the cupping of teeth. Many times the director, but perhaps protruded a bit too much in a broad grin and they would be sacrificed for the sake of the camera.

Jaw 'Adjustment'
One Paramount studio representative remembers an actress the studio brought in from Broadway. The girl was lovely on stage, beautiful in the flesh, but her face was too broad on camera. She was taken to a doctor who broke her jaw and reset it to lengthen her face.

Plastic surgery was performed to correct crooked noses, birthmarks, and scars. Strict diets put stars into Venus shapes or bodybuilding menus put voluptuous pounds on—all decreed by the studios.

Rita Hayworth, famous for her strawberry blonde mane of hair, started as a raven-haired dancer. When she was discovered, dancing in a movie called "Dante's Inferno," her hairline was almost to her eyebrows. Studio representatives at Twentieth Century Fox can still remember the three-times-a-week electrolysis sessions Miss Hayworth went through to raise her hairline and the tremendous impact she made after the studio ordered her hair dyed.

After the new star that was to be "born" got the beauty treatment, she went to school. Arlene Whalen, the beautiful manicurist, was found by director Bruce Humberstone. He spent nine months grooming her, teaching her to walk, talk, move, speak but somewhere along the line he neglected to teach his Pygmalion to act and in her first part, a big role in "Kidnaped," the critics turned thumbs down.

'H.' 'Oomph.' 'M-M-M'
To further glamorize the new stars, wardrobes were designed, press agents were assigned to always have the skirt above the knee, special scripts were written as showcases, and stars were given "tags" for the public to remember.

Jean Harlow was the Platinum Blonde and the Blonde Bombshell, Ann Sheridan, the Oomph Girl, Clara Bow, the "It" Girl, Barbara La Marr, a silent star, the Too Beautiful Girl; Marilyn Monroe, the M-M-M Girl, Blonde Bombshell, Blonde All Over Girl, and Blonde Sexpot; Marlene Dietrich was "Legs" Deltrich. Later, Betty Grable was called "Legs" Grable and this year Raquel Welch, a newcomer, has the tag.

Bing Crosby, the Groaner; Rudy Valentino, the Latin Lover; Clark Gable, the King, and on and on. The only time studio representatives can remember a "tag" hurting a career was Lew Cody, a silent film star, who was called the Butterfly Man because he flitted from girl to girl.

Change Coming
But things are changing. Universal studios are starting a modified "star system" program, contracting a few players exclusively and giving them publicity. Twentieth Century-Fox has contracted 14 players on full-time exclusive contract and Pamela Danova, head of the Fox New Talent School, is working with most of them on poise, public speaking, carriage, dress, and speech.

Publicity departments are busy with photos and press releases, on the contracted stars, seeing to it that their names get in the press. Dates are being arranged for male and female stars to appear together as couples at premieres and parties. So columnists will become familiar with their names. Personal appearance tours are being planned so the public can meet the "stars." And picture programs are being planned for experience and exposure.

Studio executive James Denton feels that "starmaking" is going to be more and more important in the next few years as studios contract more stars exclusively. But unlike the star system of the past, new stars are going to have to know how to act, to have some talent other than just looking beautiful.

"We can surround them with attractive, glamorous, dramatic things to give the glamor star aura," says Denton. "But you can take an uninterested duckling and put her in this setting the way they used to and not a thing will happen. She has got to have some talent and be willing to put in some hard work."

Who's slated for star building and billing in the near future? Shelby Grant, in "Fantastic Voyage" and "Our Man Flint," both yet to be released, is scheduled for full stardom in the next year. Gila Golan, the Israeli beauty, could be a real glamor gal soon. Stefanie Powers in "Stagecoach" is getting the star treatment per se, as she is not under any exclusive contract.

But the biggest build-up in the past year and the star all Hollywood is talking about is Ann-Margret. They're saying she has the glamor and ambition, the individuality and talent to become one of our most glamorous ladies of the silver screen. And to think, she was just a lovely little girl from Wilmette.

Where studios once kept a stable of contract players numbering 65 to as many as 100 including stars, they changed to "option" stars who signed for one picture or two pictures with options to work at other studios too.

If an actress wanted dancing, singing, speaking, walking or acting lessons, she paid for them herself. If she wanted to be promoted, she paid a press agent to handle pictures, gossip column quotes, and personal appearances. If she wanted make-up and beauty help, she could go to the studio and get advice and lessons, but no one was going to break her jaw or completely reform her looks. And no one was going to worry whether "tag" hurting a career was Lew Cody, a silent film star, who was called the Butterfly Man because he flitted from girl to girl.

Revolt
As pictures became bigger and better, costs of production rose, costs of going on location mounted to unbelievable heights, stars began demanding bigger and bigger salaries, land and real estate became more and more expensive and a coterie of actresses revolted against being "manipulated." And the old-time star system disappeared.

Stars demanded freedom from binding contracts, freedom to jump from studio to studio, freedom to choose their own scripts and parts ("and most of them really good when they chose," said Cukor). Studios could not afford to groom a star for the big time if she was going to go

Polly's Pointers
Snap Together Coats, Caps

DEAR POLLY—If the children's hats and caps seem hard to find or fall on the floor in the hall or closet, place half of a large dress snap on the strap or tie and the other half on the child's coat, perhaps on the inside by the top button. Snap the cap to the coat and it is always at hand.—Mafalda

DEAR POLLY—When knitting children's sweaters, use double yarn in the elbow section for added strength. This gives double wear where it is needed most.—Hildegard

DEAR POLLY—I wonder how many of the readers who saw have discovered the many practical uses of ordinary bandage gauze. I use it to repair or reinforce sheer materials such as curtains and blouses. It is wider than seam binding and therefore easier to use. This gauze is easily dyed any color, stretched to a bias or folded to reinforce the material on which a button is to be sewn. There is nothing like it to hem lace. One note of caution: it should be preshrunk if the article on which it is to be used will be washed.—Mrs. W. M.

DEAR POLLY—The model airplanes on display in my son's room are hung from the ceiling and the edge of a shelf with monofilament fishing line. This strong nylon line is transparent and good to use whenever you wish to hang something so that it seems suspended in air with no visible support. I also use this line for restringing broken beads.—Joanne

DEAR POLLY—When I use spray starch on my clothes before ironing, I spray all the starch on the wrong side of the garment and then I turn it right side out to iron. I get the benefit of the starch with no sticking. This makes ironing a breeze.—Ida

DEAR POLLY—When I glue felt to the bottom of a flower pot, or anything else, I let it dry on my cake rack. Seems to dry faster. I make insoles out of discarded felt hats to go in my children's ice skating shoes to keep their feet warmer. I keep a stiff brush and an old knife in my milk chute and when the children have muddy shoes I just open the chute and have the cleaning equipment handy.

Don't laugh, but I have dried homemade noodles on a clean outside clothesline when I have been in a hurry.—Mrs. V. T.

Hero

Sure it is. The telephone helps save lives, catch criminals, put out fires, bring help and guard homes. It's had a hand in spreading the alert on tornadoes, floods and hurricanes. It can bring the doctor, the fireman or the policeman—in a hurry. And being a modest hero, it can also do less dramatic things. Like letting you talk with friends and loved ones around town or around the world, quickly and easily. Or letting you shop from your easy chair, call ahead for reservations and do a thousand other things that make life richer, more rewarding, more fun. Isn't it nice to have a hero around the house?

Business & Industrial Review OF LUBBOCK

A BIT OF LOGIC

Concerning Upholstery

Now for a bit of logic. Would there be more happiness in the home where the upholstered furniture is torn and tattered or would a warm feeling of happiness more likely be found through spring coverings that bring out the upholstered furnishings as the highlight of the home?

Anyone with any bit of logic would contribute more to happiness in the home.

And it is this happiness that can be found through keeping your furniture covered properly. For the spring coverings with the right shades and designs, make an appointment with Fine Arts Upholstery, 2249 34th St. Mrs. Inez Allan, owner of the business, will personally take care of your needs, even down to minor repairs.

Adds Personal Touch
It is you she strives to please, and please she does as her quality work has kept her in business here for 20 years.

She says, "I want to give the customer the best fabric, fitting and buy for what they can afford to spend." Prices at Fine Arts Upholstery start at $3 a yard and up.

Mrs. Allan adds the personal touch to her work as she takes out samples to the home and personally cuts and fits all the pieces herself.

She also pleases her customer when there is a need for the chair or sofa to be returned in a hurry. For instance, a chair used by an invalid needed reupholstering. Seeing a definite need the chair was returned, finished, late the next day. If the furnishing is taken on a regular basis, Mrs. Allan says, "It will take between five days and a week for it to be returned."

No 'Card Burners'

Found At Seminars

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Many Lutheran seminarians, although draft-exempt to study theology, are eager to learn the role they may have in combining allegiance to church and nation by becoming military chaplains.

The Rev. E. O. Middle, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Division of Service to Military Personnel, said after a plotting annual visit to 12 Latin-ran theological campuses, he met very few conscientious objectors and found no "draft and burners."

AT SALON L'LEE

Jack Shirley Has Artistic Qualities For Hairstyling

There is a true art in hairstyling and perfection of the art naturally lies in the hands of the stylist.

Jack Shirley, at Jessie Lee's Salon L'Lee, is one of the best stylists in the business. Like the artist, who works quietly in his studio, seeking the right color combinations and the proper strokes to produce a masterpiece, Jack works for his masterpiece in creating each and every hairstyle.

Jessie Lee says that because of his quiet personality and the quiet little salon in which he works that he is virtually undiscovered by the public. However the talent and training behind his ability as a hair stylist has made him the one you want to create the beautiful hairstyle that will give you your weekly lift.

Artist With Waves
Jack is a perfectionist about detail, and this is most valuable to the customer, because it means his services are technically perfect.

When Jack gives your permanent wave you know the best blocking of the wave, the conditioning of the hair, before and after, and the styling of the new permanent wave are the very best.

Jack is a naturally talented artist and does the sketches for Jessie Lee's Style Pamphlet each month. This means that he has a special feeling for design which goes into every style. You'll find his hairstyles are not just the "same ole 7 & 6."

Top Wig Stylist
This stylist is just as thorough with color for your hair. He never cuts corners in color, which means his color services are superb every time. There are no short-cuts to good hair coloring, whether it is correcting a color problem or just your first adventure into changing the color of your hair. Jack's skills with your color formula and application will make your advertisement.

Lower Prices
One of the tricks that Stinson cuts out is pickup and delivery.

Cuts Frills
For instance, take men's suits at Stinson's. To have them cleaned and pressed it costs you only 69 cents. Cleaning and pressing of men's trousers is only 44 cents, which also is the price on the cleaning and pressing of ladies skirts. Ladies dresses are only 89 cents. To have your hat cleaned and blocked, Stinson's price is a low $1.19.

Years ago Stinson Cleaners learned to cut out the frills and stick to the business of cleaning clothes, gives the customers an extra savings and cleaner clothes.

FOR STUDENTS, PUBLIC

Savings On Cleaning Is Found At Stinson's

"A penny saved is a penny earned." It's well enough said, but sometimes hard to accomplish.

For most college students that phrase is not merely words, but a necessity.

Stinson's Cleaners, 1708 Broadway, turns that statement into reality hundreds of times daily for its customers, not just the students, but all its customers.

Don't forget, you get top notch laundry service at Stinson's. It's a complete family laundry service.

One of Stinson's laundry specialties is men's shirts. They're like new when you pick them up, and they smell sweet and fresh.

Stinson's Cleaners has been in operation in Lubbock almost 36 years, and all of those years at the same location. The firm is open from 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. six days per week.

Ample free parking is available in front of the store.

Also, if you want to save money on your laundry, a dry cleaning service should be in Lubbock. This is just what you will find with the Stinson's Cleaners, 1708 Broadway.

That Girl on Broadway says nothing does quite so much to make a person well-adjusted as a big wad of money.

In climbing the ladder of success, a good many men don't mind tromping on the fingers of friends.

IF YOU'VE BEEN wondering what happened to the guy who used to name the Pullman cars, he's probably the one who now is naming those great "scientific wonders" recently added to patent medicines, etc. You know, like "thermaldumogunk," in the toothpaste, "gopylottabunk" in the medicine you're assured is "good for your stumick," "cardofilomlam" in the shaving cream and "vermohocuspocus" in deodorants!

Adam had his problems, all right, but he never left the house late to work only to find he couldn't get his car started.

A TOURIST cutting across the country on Highway 66 stopped for the night in Amarillo. As he registered at a hotel, he asked the clerk:

"Do you have anything of unusual interest in your city?"

The clerk thought it over for awhile, then brightened up and said:

"Oh, yes! We have one of the very few helium plants in the world."

"Is that so?" marveled the visitor. "And is it in bloom now?"

That Man on Avenue Q says it seldom you see a fellow go very far out of his way to avoid temptation.

Revised: Think before you speak and you won't have to retract many statements.

WAY BACK in 1923, a small but determined group of Lubbock citizens decided that, come what may, they'd get that new college the State of Texas planned to build, get it for their home town.

They passed the hat for money, not easy to come by, in order to buy a site to be offered by the State "for free," an inducement a score of other ambitious cities were offering. After 2,100 acres was decided upon and purchased, created West of what then was a straggling town of some 5,000 to 6,000 souls.

At that time, most of Lubbock was on the "original townsite," roughly bounded by Fourth and 19th Streets, and by Avenues A and Q. As a matter of fact, while there was a little population West of Q, there still were quite a few vacant lots all over the "original townsite."

Nobody then visualized Lubbock as ever growing West of College or North of Fourth, or South of 19th, let alone in other directions. So the selection of the college site, the same one Texas Tech now holds, then was a dandy. For it was a "natural," or would have been if Lubbock hadn't gone into orbit to become for several following decades one of the fastest growing cities in the country.

THIS IS by way of noting that our traffic problems, growing bigger and wussier by the day, mostly have their roots in 1923.

At that time, there simply wasn't any way of anybody's knowing what the growth in people and motor vehicles, locally, around here and all over the country, would be.

So when Texas Tech also growing ever larger by the year, was first plumped down where it is, the future inherited a Chinese puzzle. It covers, as we all know, the matter of how people can get around from one end of Lubbock to another, without spending too much time in the process, or running too many risks of getting knocked into Kingdom Come.

The College's location delivered to us today's bottlenecks at 19th and College, the Brownfield-Loveland "bottleneck," the Fourth and College jam-up and a situation which too frequently calls for circumnavigating the big campus as people move painfully about, by thousands every day, on wheels.

BUT, AND this "but" is important, just because we inherited a bad traffic problem from 1923 is no reason why all concerned, especially those who have responsibility in the matter, should just sit around thumb-widdling and say, "well, we got a problem and what's to be done about it." Instead, the whole town ought to be thinking and talking about solving it NOW. Again, it's the people who asked for the jobs of running the City who ought to be leading the charge.

The City Council is back from its mass migration to New York where, apparently, a whole army now must go annually to look into the municipal bond situation. So now's a good time for the wheels to begin turning.

After all, the traffic problems slowly holding a vast segment of the population daily didn't come up just yesterday. They've been clearly visible for several years, certainly throughout the past half-dozen years and, more specifically, getting worse and worse over the past two years.

SOME SLIGHT increase in the problem came a few years back from opening up the extension of Flint through the Campus to Sixth and Fourth Streets, but that almost took an act of Congress before stubborn Campus objections finally were overcome.

It is well known that there are those at Tech who are aching for the time to get here when they conceivably can get away with closing that Flint extension thus making the situation that much more intolerable.

Everybody with eyes knows Indiana must be cut through and ready for travel before Flint can be closed, yet up to now all there's been done in the matter is talk, talk, talk. Well, the time for yakyak has run out. What's needed now is action, albeit the present City Administration's record for action outside of tax hassles and contradictory rulings on high rise apartments — is none too glittering.

If just cutting Indiana through the Campus would solve the whole problem, there'd be "no sweat," as the boys say. But, unfortunately, that would alleviate only a small part of the overall problem. The traffic flow has got to be dispersed long before it gets to 19th, or Indiana, or Fourth, or College. And that's got to be done by making more fast routes from the heavily populated areas South of 19th and West of College—which, incidentally, would be good, too, for those living South of 19th and West of Q.

The job's crying to be done. It would be refreshing if there were indications that those in authority might be thinking of getting on it.

ALLEN & SCOTT:

Hanoi's Air Defense Up

WASHINGTON—The most massive anti-aircraft defenses in the world have been built up by the Communists in the Hanoi-Haiphong area during the five-week-long bombing lull.

This tremendous concentration of anti-aircraft guns and missiles was revealed by reconnaissance flights over the North Viet Nam capital and principal seaport.

Defense Secretary McNamara made this starkly grim disclosure under intensive questioning at a closed-door meeting of the Senate and House Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

LATER, a memorandum from McNamara's office to the legislators estimated that more than 500 "additional" anti-aircraft weapons have been installed in this crucial region during the bombing suspension. There was no indication of the extent of these defenses prior to the lull, but they had been reported as numerous.

An Air Force report to these committees estimated there are now more than 20,000 anti-aircraft guns and missiles in Viet Nam.

The new surface-to-air missiles are improved Soviet Sam-2s. They replace older-type missiles that scored only nine hits out of more than 150 firings. The anti-aircraft guns are radar-controlled.

RUSSIAN AND Czech technicians installed the new weapons and are manning them. The number of these crews is estimated at "several" thousand.

Despite these startling admissions, McNamara steadfastly defended President Johnson's decision to halt the bombing. Similarly, he justified not attacking Hanoi and Haiphong on the ground "Hanoi and Saigon are mutual hostages."

"That must be kept constantly in mind in escalating the war," contended McNamara. "Bombing Hanoi could precipitate massive enemy terror in Saigon, as well as attempts to bottle up the harbor of Saigon through sabotage."

A COMMITTEEMAN asked why the airfields, power plants, industrial plants and communications centers around Hanoi were not bombed. McNamara tersely replied the Communists would probably react the same way.

"In other words," retorted the legislator, "you are letting the Moscow-Peking-Hanoi axis dictate your military moves."

MORE THAN 13,000 U.S. troops are now stationed in Thailand, and the number could increase to "upwards of 25,000 within the next six to eight months."

Secretary McNamara revealed this unannounced development in the course of discussing plans to boost U.S. combat forces in South Viet Nam. He told the Senate and House committees that the considerable number of U.S. troops were sent to Thailand to safeguard five air bases being used for attacks against the Communists, singly or in conjunction with the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos from North Viet Nam.

F-101s, F-105s and F-4s are operating from these Thailand bases.

SEN. STROM Thurmond (R-S.C.) grilled McNamara on the failure to impose a naval blockade on North Viet Nam. A major gripe in the Air Force reserves, Thurmond pointed out that the bulk of the Communist weapons are arriving by ship.

"A naval blockade is an act of war," said on retaliation from Moscow and Peking."

Thurmond pointed out President Kennedy had proclaimed a "naval quarantine" on Cuba during the missile crisis, and that Russia had backed down.

"That was an entirely different situation," contended McNamara.

INTELLIGENCE has informed the legislators that most of Russia's war supplies to North Viet Nam are being shipped from Odessa, on the Black Sea, Tallin and Leningrad, on the Baltic, and Yonino and Portanovsk on the Pacific coast. Significantly revealing the nature of these cargoes is an aerial photo that was put on President Johnson's desk just before Christmas.

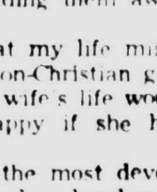

Taken by a Navy plane patrolling the Gulf of Tonkin, it shows the Russian ship Bakurium with its decks covered with cargo identified as what is believed to be military vehicles headed for North Viet Nam to carry arms into South Viet Nam.

This would indicate a new trend in the hauling of combat supplies from North Viet Nam to South Viet Nam. Up to now, few motor vehicles have been used in this traffic.

UNDER SHARP questioning, Secretary McNamara conceded that "minor shortages" exist in South Viet Nam. But he contended "this is true of all wars."

Part of the blame, according to McNamara, is the unloading bottleneck at Saigon and other South Viet Nam ports. He attributed this to the increase of U.S. forces from 60,000 to more than 100,000 in less than a year.

BILLY GRAHAM: My Answer

QUESTION: Should I break up with my non-Christian boy friend, and wait until a Christian comes along, or should I pray that God will save him, and let our love grow? M.L.

ANSWER: If your boy friend seems totally indifferent to becoming a Christian, run from this affair as you would from a burning building or a poisonous snake!

Of the scores of girls who have married non-Christian boys, I can think of only one or two who were able to lead their husbands to Christ. I know dozens who have failed, and worse still, their husbands succeeded in leading them away from the church and Christ.

I would hate to think of what my life might have been if I had married a non-Christian girl, and I am equally sure that my wife's life would not have been as fruitfully happy if she had married a non-Christian.

Marry a Christian boy, and the most devout one you can find. Even if he is less handsome, somewhat lacking in gifts and personality, and not as worldly wise as the one you are now courting. And if you can't find one, you would be better off giving your entire life to the service of God, and go through life unmarried.

This judgment may at the moment seem harsh, but I am sure if you take the other course, that in years to come, you will thank me. The Bible says, "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers," and this statement is about as clear as could be.

Mantrap, Beware!

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Heart Losses Hurting U.S.

AMERICANS WHO keep up with medical statistics know that heart disease is the Number 1 killer in this country. They also know that its victims include an amazing number of men in the middle-age bracket. These are men who for the most part, bear a heavy load of responsibility and live at a strenuous pace. Most business executives fall within this bracket.

There was little new, therefore, in the findings of a study conducted by a team of doctors in San Francisco, but the facts should serve as a warning to men who are inclined to "burn the candle at both ends" in their efforts to get ahead.

The five-year study showed that men who work under high pressure are more likely to have heart attacks than those who don't.

When the project began in 1960, the doctors examined 3,524 healthy men between the ages of 39 and 59 for such things as high blood pressure and fat, and then classified them according to income, job and emotional makeup.

Those found to have "excessive drive, aggressiveness and ambition," preoccupation with competitive activity, vocational dead lines, and similar pressures, were catalogued as "Type A."

Those described as "relatively free of urgency in their outlook and jobs" went into "Type B."

In the five years of the study 70 of the men suffered heart attacks. Fifty-four of them were of the "go getter" type.

More than that, the aggressive type accounted for 85 per cent of the heart victims in the 39-49 age group, for 72 per cent in the 49-59 bracket, and for eight of the nine men who died of heart attacks.

While there is some disagreement among medical authorities as to the role tension plays in bringing on heart attacks, the findings in this, and other similar studies, certainly indicate that it is, at least, a contributing factor.

Apparently, what is needed is for someone to find a way to persuade men who are in the most active period of their lives—and are aggressive and ambitious by nature—to "slow down and live."

Americans are a race of activists. The average American wants to be "up and doing" during every waking hour. What he does may not be too important in the long run, but he likes to feel that it is. And the ambitious American resents being idle, or, as he is wont to say, "tiddling his thumbs." Therefore, it is difficult for the typical American to reconcile himself to any type of life except that of activity. That is why the idea of retirement is so hard to sell to the average American business or professional man.

There is much to be said in defense of the idea of hard work and activity. America has been largely built by men who followed this principle. But surely some way should be found to persuade our "go getters" to slow down a bit. Our country can't afford to keep on losing them at the rate that it is today.

WILLIAM S. WHITE:

Democratic Liberals Expected To Damage Johnson Most

WASHINGTON—A group of Republican insiders has decided that for now at least the triumphal march of President Johnson down before the 1964 elections should be left to Democratic liberal extremists and not those consciously opposed to the war in Viet Nam.

It is a method of dealing with an adversary that might be called a Chinese death by a thousand tiny cuts, in this case, a method of allowing distinctly non-Republican types to do the cutting.

THE REPUBLICANS who have prepared this strategy in private conferences are understandably not keen for publicity and one could not identify them here without breaking confidence. At all events, they are men of importance in the GOP and of muscle within the non-fund-raising wing of the party. They are fund-raisers, senior advisers and otherwise important backstage figures.

For purely objective reasons they are convinced that blows at President Johnson from within his own party's left wing would in present circumstances be more fruitful for the GOP than the traditional assault from across the political street.

THIS CONCLUSION is based upon a secret new nationwide poll, commissioned and paid for by Republicans. It showed the Johnson Administration in general to be rated as "excellent" or "good" by 58 per cent, taking the country as a whole, as against 31 per cent in July, 1964, in an identical survey.

Regionally, the breakdown was this: East, 65 per cent approval in 1964 and 65 per cent now; Midwest, 55 in 1964 and 61 now; Far West, 63 in 1964 and 51 now; South, 35 in 1964 and 51 now. Thus, the President has stayed level in the East, has dropped in the Far West and has sharply gained in both the South and Middle West.

ACCEPTING THESE soundings, this Republican group assumes that while nobody enjoys it, this government's resistance to Communist aggression in Viet Nam is seen by the people as a hard necessity and that the President's conduct of the war is identifying him as a strong national leader. No other explanation would seem logical in the returns from South and Midwest, since both sections are more conservative than the others and presumably less keen about the President's liberal domestic activities.

A second assumption is that since the Republicans could not in any event go after the policy of Vietnamese resistance—unless indeed they went after it as not tough enough rather than too tough they would be foolish not to let non-Republican critics have the honor, so to speak.

"IT IS QUITE simple," says a GOP informant of both high party position and a sense of irony. "There are plenty of left-wing Democratic politicians and their boys in part of TV and the press to take little bites at the President. Maybe it is whiping that the White House menu is too

SYLVIA PORTER:

Better Tax Rates Set

FOR MILLIONS of us April 15, 1966, will mark the last date we'll have to make lump-sum income tax payments to the Internal Revenue Service—because too little was regularly withheld from our paychecks during 1965.

For other millions of us, this April 15 will mark the last date we'll have to file to get back the interest-free loans we advanced to the Treasury last year—because too much was withheld from our paychecks during 1965.

UNDER THE NEW system of withholding tax rates graduated to rise with our income levels and scheduled to go into effect May 1, the amounts withheld from our paychecks will be brought more realistically into line with what most of us actually owe in income taxes.

To be abolished is the flat 14 per cent withholding rate which has been taking far too much from low income families and far too little from many higher income families. To be substituted is a six-rate withholding schedule ranging from 14 to a top 30 per cent.

THE ADMINISTRATION is proposing this now because the new system would bring in an estimated extra $95 million in revenues this 1966 fiscal year and an extra $400 million the next 1967 fiscal year.

But even had the Viet Nam war not dictated income tax adjustments to help cover the Federal Government's spending and to combat inflation, graduated withholding tax rates would be sound and tax experts have long been urging them.

AS ALWAYS, when the Administration proposes and Congress debates changes in income taxes, confusion mounts with each day's dispatches out of Washington. Here, therefore, is a table prepared by the Research Institute of America, which translates the graduated withholding tax story into terms of your weekly paycheck. It shows the approximate amounts to the nearest half-dollar to be withheld weekly from the pay of a married breadwinner with two dependents.

Table with 4 columns: Weekly pay, Yearly pay, Present Withholding, Proposed Withholding. Rows show pay levels from $58 to $481.

NOW, HERE'S how the new rate schedule would affect the 63 million of us who have taxes withheld.

The number of employees whose withheld taxes come within $10 of their final tax due, the break-even group, would soar from 12 million to 29 million.

The number of employees whose taxes are underwithheld and who have to pay more than $10 with their final return to make up the difference would fall from 14 million to around 10 million. Most of the 4 million no longer underwithheld would be employees with incomes of more than $10,000.

THE NUMBER of employees whose taxes are overwithheld by more than $10 and who must file for refunds when they send in their income tax returns would plunge from 37 million to 22 million.

Those 15 million who would no longer be overwithheld would be employees with incomes of $10,000 or less—families least in position to make involuntary interest-free loans to the U.S. Treasury. More than half of the 37 million employees overwithheld in 1965 had incomes below $5,000.

There will be new inequities. For instance, the number of employees with incomes of over $10,000 who would be overwithheld under the graduated system would climb from 3 million to 5 million.

But the vital point is that a graduated withholding rate structure makes sense, theoretically and practically. After debating it a while, Congress will vote the change.

RUTH MILLETT:

We—The Women

THERE IS such a thing as a talent for living. Some people have it, some don't.

Those who have it never let their lives settle into so many dull routines that they face each day with little anticipation or pleasure.

Instead, they manage somehow, no matter how busy they are, to crowd something into almost every day that is done for pure enjoyment.

And they are always planning something to look forward to with eager anticipation, a trip, a visit from friends who live in another place, some special event, some kind of challenging project.

HOW DO THOSE who have a talent for making life interesting and varied find time for all that they do?

They use the time they have to better advantage. They meet a friend or several friends for lunch instead of eating alone. They turn a business trip into a pleasant break, by being curious enough about everywhere they go to want to be a sight-seer. They don't waste evening after evening watching television while complaining about how poor the programs are.

THEY ARE willing to take a chance that a new acquaintance won't prove to be a bore, that a hurried-up, spur-of-the-moment party will be fun, that a project can be carried out successfully, that lessons in art, or music appreciation, or a foreign language will be stimulating and well worth the time and effort spent on them.

And they don't wait around for the day when they'll have more time or more money or a bigger house or the children are older. At every period in life they use what they have to give themselves the most enjoyment. And they are willing to share whatever they can with others, their time, their hospitality, their interest.

If you don't feel you now have a talent for living, why not make this the year for learning how to live with enthusiasm and imagination?

NEW TRIAL SCHEDULED AFTER EVIDENCE UNCOVERED

Three Men Work 6 Years To Prove Airman's Innocence

By BEN PUNK
 MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — For six awful years, Joseph Shea has lived in a nightmare, caught in a spider's web he helped to spin. Shea, 26-year-old product of a devout Catholic family, has spent some of the best years of his life in a Florida prison, for a murder he confessed and possibly did not commit.

Freedom Predicted
 Now his attorney, Harry W. Prebish, predicts that Shea will walk out of a courtroom next month a free man.

"Of this," says Prebish, "I am more sure than I have ever been of anything in 20 years of criminal law practice."

If the slender, good-looking New Yorker regains his freedom, he will do so because three men refused to believe he was guilty and fought to correct what they considered a miscarriage of justice.

All three a newspaper reporter, a detective and a lie detector expert are certain that Shea will be quickly cleared in a new trial, scheduled to begin Valentine's Day, Feb. 14.

Dug Up Evidence
 Gene Miller, a Miami Herald crime reporter who tracked down evidence for six months and, with the influence of his newspaper, forced an official investigation and the new trial of Warren D. Holmes, owner of a lie detector service, and James Miller, president of the Academy for Scientific Interrogation. At the time of the murder, Holmes was chief examiner for the Miami police department. His tests indicated Shea was innocent.

Philip Thibedeau, a detective who directed the original investigation of the Mesliener murder.

On Feb. 23, 1959, Mrs. Mesliener punched a timecard at the Miami International Airport office of National Airlines at 7:36 p.m., marking the end of her eight-hour stint as a reservations clerk, and walked into the night.

Two days later, the body of the 23-year-old blonde was found, concealed by bushes, on a canal bank three miles northwest of the airport. She had been shot in the head. Her blood-stained car was located April 3, abandoned 250 miles away in Tampa.

Bleeding Shirt
 More than a month had gone by when, on May 7, Airman 1st class Joseph Shea went to his sergeant at West Palm Beach Base and handed him a bloody yellow shirt. He stuttered that he must have done something terrible, but couldn't remember it.

The sergeant was skeptical. For four months, Shea had complained of headaches and blackouts. But psychiatrists had found him fully competent, and had accused him of trying to fake his way to a medical discharge. Shea had admitted it.

Once again psychiatrists concluded that he was faking, but the Dade County Homicide Bureau at Miami sent Thibedeau to question Shea about the Mesliener killing. Thibedeau found nothing to connect him with it.

Tests established that the blood on the shirt was human and Sgt. Pat Gallagher, another Dade County detective, began a second investigation of Shea on May 18. Two days later, Shea signed a statement admitting he killed Mrs. Mesliener.

Vague Statement
 It was a vague, rambling statement, so county authorities took Shea to Holmes, the Miami police expert, for tests.

"He knew nothing of the intimate details of the crime," Holmes said. "I told Shea he was making it all up. He shrugged and said, 'I didn't think you would believe it. They broke me down.'"

That afternoon, at a news conference, Shea repudiated the confession and claimed he hadn't been in Miami the night of the crime. He said he had concocted the story so he would be "put away" to end his troubles.

"But now, everything is a whole lot worse," he said, clenching and unclenching his hands stained by the nicotine of four packs of cigarettes a day.

That night, after another two-hour interrogation, Shea again confessed to Dade County detectives.

Shea was indicted for first degree murder and psychiatrists at Miami's Jackson Memorial Hospital found him competent to stand trial.

Errors Cited
 At the trial, Mike Zarowny, court-appointed defense attorney, argued that Shea's confessions were full of erroneous details, and were not corroborated by any physical evidence, as required by law.

Zarowny lost a plea for access to the state's evidence and, as the Shea fidgeted silently, the bloody shirt was placed before the court.

"It was an article of morbid fascination to him," a symbol of his "confession," testified an Air Force psychiatrist, Lt. Col. Arthur W. Brown.

Edward T. Whittaker, a county crime laboratory man, testified that blood on the shirt was all Shea's B-type, except for "a little spot" of Mrs. Mesliener's O-type.

Shea did not take the stand. "I couldn't put him on," Zarowny said. "He was trying to destroy himself."

On Nov. 4, Shea was convicted. The jury recommended mercy, which meant an automatic sentence to life in prison, instead of the electric chair.

On Nov. 17, Circuit-court Judge Ray Pearson sentenced Shea and the youth became a number at Rufford Penitentiary. He was discharged dishonorably from the Air Force.

When Thibedeau heard of the verdict, he was astounded. His efforts to establish Shea's innocence had led to friction in his department, he said, and he had resigned to become an investigator for the state, a job he still holds.

Big Handicap
 "There were so many points that didn't fit," Thibedeau said, "that after the conviction I kept nagging at it. But the confession was a big handicap."

Holmes, too, was surprised by the jury's finding. The second confession "bothered the hell out of me," he said.

Thibedeau and Holmes continued to ask questions, but failed to turn up enough evidence to demand a reopening of Shea's case. Then, last spring, Holmes said, "Phil busted into my office."

"If I had known then what I know now," Thibedeau shouted, "I would have gone into court with a shotgun to keep them from sending that kid to prison."

During the initial investigation, Thibedeau had led Shea through a re-enactment of the crime. Now, six years later, he had stumbled across information that other officers took Shea to the scene twice before. Miller tipped Thibedeau and Holmes decided they needed a newspaper to support their efforts to free Shea. Thibedeau went back to Miller. The Herald promptly joined the campaign.

Miller began his investigation with a lengthy interview of Shea. Next he wangled permission to see the state files on the case.

Then, in person and by telephone, Miller questioned every person he could find who had any connection with the case.

File Of New Data
 The result was a file of new evidence indicating Shea never saw Mary Mesliener, plus other evidence that wasn't presented at the first trial.

Now the trio needed an attorney.

"They came to me," Prebish recalls, "and said they had two problems. The first was that they had no money. The second was that this fight might reflect on some prosecuting authorities. I had no hesitancy. My only concern was whether there had been a fair trial."

In his new trial motion, Prebish charged that Shea's confession was obtained by fraud and duress; and that the state withheld evidence favorable to Shea.

Strongest of the evidence
 Prebish said, will be a noted expert that none of Mrs. Mesliener's blood was on the shirt, and there would have been a lot of it if he held her in his arms when he shot her, as he said.

2. An Air Force logbook backed up by testimony showing that Shea was on duty at the West Palm Beach Base until 6:30 p.m. the night of the murder, and could not have reached the Miami Airport in time to intercept Mrs. Mesliener shortly after 7:30.

Second Confession
 In the second confession, Shea said he hitchhiked from the base to Miami, getting two rides on the 75-mile trip; had drinks in several downtown bars; rode a bus to the airport to steal a car, and was caught by Mrs. Mesliener.

Shea said Mrs. Mesliener screamed and he knocked her unconscious with a pistol he had stolen from another car. When she recovered and screamed again, he shot her in the head as he cradled her in his arms. He dumped the body, drove to Tampa to abandon the car, and returned to his base.

Two months after Prebish went to court, and six years to the day after Shea's conviction, county attorney Richard Gerstein joined in the motion for a new trial.

Judge Pearson then set aside Shea's conviction "in the interests of justice."

Gerstein has declined comment on the case pending the new trial. He was county attorney when Shea was convicted, but the prosecution was handled by an assistant.

In a jail cell interview, Shea said: "I want to testify now. It's an awful thing to go to prison for something you didn't do. I guess this whole thing is my own fault."

Tells Of Reports
 "They said they didn't really need a confession, because they had enough to send me to the chair. They said my only hope of escaping the chair was to confess."

"They said a witness had seen me buying a bottle of whisky at the airport the night of the murder. They said they found my fingerprint in her car and her blood and her blonde hair on my shirt. They said the lie detector tests proved me completely guilty."

Shea said he reached a point where he didn't care whether he

FIGHT TO FREE CONFESSION SLAYER—These three men, Philip Thibedeau, an investigator; Warren Holmes, lie detector service owner, and Gene Miller, Miami Herald crime reporter, left to right, wouldn't believe Joseph Shea, 26, guilty of killing Mary Mesliener a crime to which he confessed. They have compiled a record of evidence that Shea could not possibly have committed the crime, and are certain he'll be quickly cleared at a new trial starting Feb. 14 in Miami. (AP Wirephoto)

IS HE GUILTY?—Joseph Shea, 26, has spent six years in jail for slaying Mary Mesliener, right, a crime he confessed and possibly did not commit. lived or died, "and I was glad in a way to get the whole thing over with."

"But I was so confused I kept going both ways," he said. "First, I would think, 'let them convict me. I don't care! Then I would remember my family and how it would hurt, and I would retract the confession and tell the truth.'"

Informed of Shea's story, Capt. Gallagher said: "I have no comment."

Shea said he cut himself and smeared his blood on the shirt. He had intended, he said, to give a discharge by feigning amnesia.

Mental Depression
 At the time, he related, he was suffering severe mental depression. It started when he had an affair with a girl during a duty tour in the Philippines. He wanted to marry her, but she took their illegitimate child and ran away.

Because of his strict Catholic training, one-time altar boy Shea was mentally tortured by the affair. Later, another love affair went sour. It was then Shea said, that he "began pulling little things" — forgetting assignments — in the hope of obtaining a discharge.

In the new trial, Prebish says he will contend that Shea's fingerprint was not in the death car, that he was not seen at the airport the night of the murder, and that lie detector tests did not indicate he was guilty.

The new trial motion also outlines these points:

1. Reports by Alexander S. Wiener, a Brooklyn blood expert, and by a Dade County crime lab man, Paul Serene, said Mrs. Mesliener's blood was not on the shirt. These reports were not presented at the trial.
2. The state had the Air Force logbook showing Shea's duty assignment the day of the murder, but did not bring them to court.
3. Dr. Raymond A. Just, an assistant medical examiner, found no medical evidence that Mrs. Mesliener received a blow from a pistol butt, but he was not asked to testify.

Other Points
 4. The state did not bring out that a palmprint found on the steering wheel of the murder car did not belong to Shea or to Mrs. Mesliener or her husband, Frank.

- 5. The state did not disclose that a wallet stolen from Mrs. Mesliener was found in a locker at a military installation at the Miami Airport with which Shea had no connection.

Disturbed by the effort to free Shea, Frank Mesliener came to Miami from New York, where he now works as a refrigeration engineer. He suggested to Gerstein that Shea be given a truth serum test.

In the presence of Mesliener, Shea was given sodium amytal injections. Deep in narcosis, he was asked:

"Did you kill Mary Mesliener?"

"No, sir," he said. "I didn't kill anyone."

"Why did you confess?"

"I didn't want to live."

"Why did you want to die?"

Warren Holmes, lie detector service owner, and Gene Miller, Miami Herald crime reporter, left to right, wouldn't believe Joseph Shea, 26, guilty of killing Mary Mesliener a crime to which he confessed. They have compiled a record of evidence that Shea could not possibly have committed the crime, and are certain he'll be quickly cleared at a new trial starting Feb. 14 in Miami. (AP Wirephoto)

"I made a girl pregnant in the Philippines. In the Air Force, my family, they would have been terribly ashamed."

Eight of the jurors who convicted Shea told reporter Miller they favored a new trial.

"It is a very fortunate thing," said one of them, Raymond C. Maxwell of Miami, "that we recommended mercy."

Of the remaining four jurors, two declined comment and two could not be found.

"If I get out," Shea said, "I'll probably go to Boston where my mother, Mrs. Cornelius Shea, lives now, or wherever. I can make it in a civilian life. First, I want to find a way to repay the men who helped me."

These three men, Miller, Holmes and Thibedeau, now hope to bring the case to a perfect conclusion by obtaining an indictment of the real killer.

A man believed to have hidden Mrs. Mesliener's wallet in the locker at the airport was the prime suspect at first, until Shea's confession took down his trail, Holmes said.

A woman gave this man an alibi for the night of the murder, but detectives were suspicious about it. They issued a subpoena for her, but when they went back they found she had fled into Cuba. We learned recently that she is trying to get back on the air.

"We believe she will change her story."

'Goldilocks' Had Too Many Drinks
 AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas student Mickey Maxfield returned to his apartment one recent night to find a collegiate version of the goldilocks story.

A glass window pane was broken and the door ajar. And in Maxfield's bed was a strange 19-year-old youth who later said he was a Fort Worth college student who had taken too many drinks and sought a place to rest.

At the jail, the youth was asked if he knew where he was.

"Sure, I'm in the Fort Worth jail," he answered promptly.

AIR FILLED WITH STEEL

15 Frantic Minutes

By TOM TIEDE
 COURTENAY, Viet Nam (NEA) — It was nearly dark when the enemy opened fire and for 15 frightening minutes a group of GIs wondered if they'd ever see another day.

Eleven men were there, their mission: to find the Viet Cong.

They found them at the edge of the jungle, waiting, loaded to the eyebrows and spilling to fight dozens of skinny little men wrapping in silk shorts and ammunition bandoleers, spitting fire and fragmentation.

"Mayday! Mayday!"

"Ed Young grabbed his radiophone and screamed.

"Mayday! Come and get us. We're in trouble!"

He knew the distress call was heard, but he did not know if aid could come. Minutes earlier, his reconnaissance patrol had tumbled out of a helicopter with full knowledge that if trouble came at night help probably would not.

Choppers rarely land in the dark. Young had, therefore, planned to stay the evening in the tangled thicket, find the enemy, avoid him and leave quietly the following morning.

But the VC had other plans.

"Hey," a sergeant whispered, "I thought I saw something."

"Where?"

"Over there. Looked like four people."

"You sure?"

"No, maybe it wasn't anything."

But it was. Four Cong guerrillas, then four more, sneaking silently around the flanks of the GI patrol. Finally, four more. A dozen spotted now, apparently trying to surround the group.

"Why don't they fire?" a man wondered.

"They may be waiting for dark."

"Yeah, they know the copters can't get us then."

At that moment, at the last light of dusk the shooting started. The VC opened with automatic weapons and caught the Yanks in a crossfire. The patrol answered with 750 rounds-a-minute from M-16 rifles and grunting grenades from M-79 launchers.

"Mayday! Mayday!" the lieutenant chanted.

"Damn 'em to hell."

"Watch the flanks."

"Keep down, keep down."

"Where are the helicopters?"

"Mayday! Mayday! We're not kidding!"

Fifteen minutes of fighting. It seemed like 15 days to Young, a 173rd Brigade officer from Monterey, Calif. Another man lost his sense of time he kept waiting for the sun to rise.

They did have one break, though. On their guts and with foliage and dirt mounds separating them and the enemy, they presented miniature targets.

But the air was full of steel.

And nothing could escape it for very long.

The men were quaking but no one panicked — perhaps because they were too busy firing. They saw fleeing shadows darting about and filled the woodland with shot to cut down at least a few.

But the advantage was the enemy's. And if they charged the patrol would stand no chance.

Then, just as it seemed that a charge was imminent, the chop of giant motors cut into the confusion. Young turned. So did his men. They could barely see, it was so dark. But there was no mistake.

The rescue copter had somehow landed. Frantically all eleven GIs bellyflopped inside.

And 15 minutes of fighting was over.

European, U.S. Trade Talks Due

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — European Common Market officials, relieved of France's crippling seven-month boycott of the economic community, today began work on draft proposals for speeding up important trade talks with the United States.

The foreign ministers of the six-nation economic bloc were expected to meet in Brussels Feb. 21 to discuss the proposals and issues raised by the so-called "Kennedy Round" of tariff negotiations.

"Grand Design"

The talks would center on proposals made by the late John F. Kennedy in 1962 for massive tariff reductions between the United States and the Market countries as part of a "grand design" for Atlantic partnership.

The market ministers Sunday bowed to French demands for permanent veto power in the market and also agreed to curb the supranational powers of the bloc's executive authority.

France's partners, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, West Germany and the Netherlands, further consented to a French move that could lead to the retirement of Market Executive President Walter Hallstein.

French President Charles de Gaulle criticized Hallstein's actions as market chief executive and accused him of making political pronouncements, mainly aimed at France's boycott of the trade group.

Villagers Fearful, Irked Over Missing Nuclear Bomb

CUEVAS DE ALMANZORA, Spain (AP)—The shattering collision of two U.S. warplanes has plunged the simple people of this Andalusian region into the nuclear age—and left them astonished, perplexed, and fearful.

The crash Jan. 17 of a B-52 bomber carrying nuclear bombs and the jet tanker refueling it likely to become one of the most expensive accidents in U.S. Air Force history exploded with international repercussions. But it was the quiet little people of the Mediterranean coast, the truck farmers and the fishermen, who were affected most intimately.

Failed To Quiet Fears

The massive land and sea search for a nuclear bomb still missing has failed to quiet their feared. Whether it has succeeded in other arms remains to be seen.

The U.S. government presumably is anxious to prevent the bomb from falling into Communist hands and to reassure allied governments who may develop fears about U.S. bombers flying over their territory with nuclear bombs aboard.

Although the search sector

College Testing Officials Due In City Tonight

Three American College Testing officials are due to arrive in Lubbock from Austin tonight. They are: Dr. James K. South of Iowa City, Iowa, vice president for educational services of the ACT; Dr. O. W. Hassall of Boulder, Colo., ACT regional director; and Dr. James R. Tarter of Grand Prairie, East Texas district director.

Dr. Vernon L. Odum, director of the local ACT office at 1626 50th St., was in Austin with the group today.

The visitors will view the operation of the local office. They will meet Tuesday with officials from Texas Tech, Lubbock Christian College and Lubbock public schools.

Dr. Odum said Dr. South will assess ACT services here and explore what additional services are needed.

Tuesday morning, the group will have breakfast at the Plainsman Hotel with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Morris representing Lubbock public schools, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Boze of Texas Tech and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Higgins of Lubbock Christian College.

near this area of 13,000 persons is heavily guarded, it is conceivable that someone might stumble over to a Red agent—wittingly or unwittingly.

It is also conceivable that Soviet military men might discover the weapon or its parts.

The missing bomb is believed to be 1,000 feet deep in the Mediterranean off Almeria. The Soviet Union operates subs and surface ships in the Mediterranean.

The search seems to have quieted down for the moment, while the searchers wait for the arrival from the United States of two midget submarines which can dive to that depth.

As long as the bomb is missing, it is feared that other countries might follow Spain's lead and ban U.S. nuclear-armed planes from flying over their territories. Once it is found, it is believed other governments will be reassured.

Spaniards living in the area complain they were told too little and too late what the crash could mean.

"We wanted to help those poor armens," said one grizzled farmer. "We all rushed to the wreckage. We weren't told until much later that it could be radioactive. I think if it happened again most of us would stay away from the scene."

The big warplanes were no strangers to the village along this bit of Spanish coast. But never had they come into the very heart of the area.

"Good Show"

"We used to see them every morning," a farm woman said, as she watched U.S. and Spanish airmen checking through battered wreckage of the big planes. "They were a familiar sight—something new for us. It was a good show watching them refuel, so high we had to strain to see them."

But on Jan. 17 there was no entertainment for the villagers or the fishermen. Just before 8:25 a.m. children en route to a consolidated school near this village heard the crashing of metal in the sky, saw a quick spread of smoke, then four parachutes blossom out in bright white against the brilliant blue sky.

Then the rain of wreckage fell, most of it along the shore and across the truck gardens and farms. It missed the school, in which nearly 500 children from the entire area were gathered, by about a mile and a half. No Spaniard was injured.

by the falling debris nor was there material damage except to tomato and other truck crops for which this rolling, sandy area is famous.

Wave Of Fear

"But when the word spread that the bomber carried nuclear arms—something of which we know little here—there was a quick wave of fear," said the mayor of one village.

"Doctors came from Madrid, and they told us to wash frequently and to wash all our clothes to prevent contamination by something we can't see and can't feel. A month's supply of soap and detergent was bought up and used in two days."

Four survivors of the crash were rescued by fishermen and whisked away to a U. S. Air Force hospital near Madrid. Squads of U. S. and Spanish military descended from helicopters and recovered the burned remains of seven other crewmen who died.

"Then came new crews—we learned later they were nuclear bomb experts, stern-faced men who went about their work with an air of not wanting to be bothered by our questions," a squat fisherman said. "Even our own officials were too busy to tell us anything. We tried to help with the wreckage—and learned two days later that we should have kept away."

Quieted Fears

More U. S. airmen came, clearing the wreckage, searching the area and making friends. "They may disagree with our theories," Jernican said, "but with the quiet people of the region they can't disagree with our results."

fine tomatoes from the local gardens—U. S. damage estimators had already promised reimbursement for this year's crop and maybe the next.

The searchers brought with them strange instruments and the word spread that one of the dreaded bombs was missing.

The villagers and the fishermen endured another flurry of fear, until word came that instruments had located it in the sea and a recovery force of U. S. and Spanish warships was assembled to recover it.

Garrucha, a nearby fishing village of 4,500 persons, is most affected by the sea search. Fishermen are unable to go to sea, and they sit idly in the sun, watching frogmen and diving bells in action off the coast.

Other Repercussions

They, too, were promised prompt reimbursement for fish lost due to the nuclear search. There were other major repercussions elsewhere.

There was heavy pressure from the Spanish government to suspend further refueling flights of the big bombers over Spanish territory and waters. The U. S. government announced that orders had been issued limiting such refueling to areas over international waters.

Spain went even further and ordered that no more planes flown over Spanish territory.

"This accident gives Spain a lot of bargaining power over future agreements with the United States," said one observer. "The sooner it's over and all signs erased, the lower the cost of new understandings should be."

The little people of Cuevas de Almanzora, Garrucha, Vera and Palomares Beach are also anxious for all the excitement to end so they can get back to their normal quiet life.

"But in a way we will be sorry," said one youngster, wistfully, as he watched a group of young U. S. airmen at their tasks. "We are beginning to be old friends already."

News About Area Men In Service

Jack William Stockton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stockton, Guava Road, was selected for Navy Officer Candidate School and sworn into the Navy at Houston Jan. 25.

A 1962 graduate of Sam Houston State College, Huntsville, Tex., with a degree in business administration, Stockton will enter Officer Candidate School at Newport, R. I., the week of Feb. 14. Upon completion of four months' training there, he will be commissioned an ensign in the Navy.

His time at OCS will be occupied studying courses such as naval history and customs, military justice, navigation, engineering and communications. After graduation, he probably will be assigned to a Navy ship.

Stockton has worked four years as an auditor for the Texas Education Agency.

Four young men who were recently reenlisted in the Navy here have reported for new duty assignments. Enlistments were at the recruiting main station, Albuquerque, from the Lubbock substation.

They are Anthony Don Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Hill, Floydada, reenlisted Jan. 19; Paul Ray Lisenby, husband of Mrs. Lula Clyde Lisenby, 4917 Elgin St., reenlisted Jan. 14; Jimmy Eugene Archer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Archer, Rt. 1, Happy, reenlisted Jan. 12; and Melvin Wayne Kyskendall, 420-A N. Ave. U, reenlisted Jan. 6.

Traffic FROM PAGE ONE

Hill, who had previously served four years in the Navy, was assigned to the 20-week advanced Navy welding school at Naval Training Center, San Diego. Kyskendall, who also had previously served in the Navy, was sent to the electronics school at Treasure Island, San Francisco. Lisenby and Archer, whose prior service was in the National Guard, were sent to the Naval Training Center, San Diego, for recruit training.

Two young men who recently were enlisted in the Air Force have been assigned to Lackland AFB for basic military training. Enlistments were at the Armed Forces Examination Station, Amarillo, from the Lubbock recruiting station.

They are Miguel E. Delgado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Delgado, 519 Ave. C, and Ohelvo Yaine Sturgeon Jr., whose parents live at 5205 17th St., who went on active duty Jan. 25 after enlisting Dec. 2 under the delayed-date-of-departure program.

As a result of aptitude tests taken here prior to enlistment, their advanced training assignments after basic will be in the general field.

Twenty-four young men, all recent enlistees in the Navy, are at the Navy Training Center, San Diego, for recruit training. Enlistments were at the recruiting main station, Albuquerque, from the Lubbock substation.

They are with their enlistment dates: Danny Alfred Johnson, 2711 49th St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Johnson, Rt. 1, Farwell; and Melvin Roger Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin M. Hayes, 7011 46th St., both Jan. 20; Glaze Morrison Sacra, husband of Mrs. Cecelia Sacra, 2909-B 45th St., Jan. 17; Don Richard Cheairs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alpha G. Cheairs, "E" Tulane St., Jan. 14; Jack Truman Fuquay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd F. Fuquay, Floydada, Jan. 13; Kenneth E. Fonder, son of Mrs. Mildred Harris, Plainview, Jan. 11; William Monte Shannon, husband of Mrs. Tommie A. Shannon, Plainview, Jan. 10.

Also, Clifford Norman Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Mayfield; Ronald Gene Burfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Burfield; Bennie Lee Kolls, son of Mrs. C. G. Kolls, all of Aspermont, all Jan. 6; William Michael Archer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Archer, Happy; Zachary Allan Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Andrew Greer, Rt. 1, Aspermont; Timothy John Mild, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Mild, 4924 12th St.; Kenneth Wayne Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Spencer, Lorenzo; Teddy Joe Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davis, Plainview; George Benjamin Reed, husband of Mrs. Nancy Sue Reed, 2812 3rd St.; Odla Neal Bradshaw, husband of Mrs. Donnie Mae Bradshaw, 4005 24th St.; Charlie Ray Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Hawkins, Post; and Larry Lee Hawkins, Lubbock, all enlisted Jan. 4.

Bowhunt FROM PAGE ONE

The hunt Jan. 10.

His entry was accompanied by validation of the bow-hunting kill of a deer last August in Colorado during a special archery season. Rules of the contest specified that evidence of any kill ranging in size from an elephant to a cottontail during 1965 must be submitted.

Montgomery, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Montgomery of 4519 13th St., has been bowhunting seven years.

He and his brother, David, 18, are members of the Lubbock Field Archery Club and last year won the two trophies awarded by the club. David took a trophy for the kill of a mule deer in Colorado, and Richard won for the kill of a white-tail deer, also in Colorado.

Reward Offered By Lubbock Firm

Reward of $1,000 has been posted by a North College Avenue carpet firm for information leading to conviction of persons destroying a sign on the firm's property.

Clude Myers, owner of Myers Carpet, 1116 N. College, said the sign had been mutilated on two occasions in the past 10 days, with damage Sunday night including removal of several feet of plastic covering, valued at about $18 each.

Funeral Today For L. D. (Dow) Bruce

Funeral services for L. D. (Dow) Bruce, 61, 4918 19th St., were to be at 2:30 p.m. today in Cooper Methodist Church at Woodrow.

The Rev. Johnny Williams, pastor of Lubbock, and the Rev. Clarence Stephens of Post were to officiate. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park Cemetery with Masonic graveside rites. Franklin Bartley Funeral Home was in charge.

Bruce died at 12:15 p.m. Friday at the home of a son, J. R. Bruce, 4316 28th St. A longtime Lubbock County resident, Bruce moved to the Cooper community in 1939, where he resided until about three years ago.

Survivors include the wife, a daughter, two sons, three sisters, seven brothers and six grandchildren.

Pallbearers were to be Herbert Jackson, H. B. Lovelock, Joe Feltz, Jimmy Lester, Buddy Barron, Delwin Jones, Pat Beauchamp and Paul H. White.

Car Mishap Injures Two Tech Students

Two Texas Tech students were injured in a one-car turn-over Sunday morning on Park Road 18 here.

Treated and released at Methodist Hospital were Danny Broadbeck, 20, 141 Gordon Hall, and Clyde Lynn Harruff, 19, 261 Gordon Hall.

Police said Harruff was driver of the car that swerved in an attempt to miss an oncoming car, skidded on the icy road and overturned.

Bert Hurlbut Rites Set In Brownwood

Funeral services for Bert E. Hurlbut of Brownfield, brother of Claude B. Hurlbut, 1907 32nd St., Lubbock, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Brownwood Presbyterian Church.

Burial will be in the Brownwood Cemetery under the direction of Davis-Morris Funeral Home.

Hurlbut, a lifelong resident of Brownwood, died Sunday of an apparent heart attack.

Wilson, Lemm Fil Posts In American Grid League

St. Louis Job Open

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
George Wilson and Wally Lemm, who lost their head coaching jobs in the National Football League under controversial circumstances, have jumped over to the rival American League and left the St. Louis Cardinals as the lone pro football team without a coach.

Wilson, who won the NFL championship with the 1957 Detroit Lions, severed a 29-year connection with the National League as a player and coach when he signed a three-year contract with the new Miami Dolphins of the AFL Saturday.

UP TO SOMETHING—The indoor track season has begun and long jump specialist Norman Tate, left, of the North Carolina Track Club and pole vaulter John Pennell are moving unafraid.

Had Good Record
Wilson compiled a 54-45-2 record at Detroit, including winning the NFL title in 1957, but became involved in an unusual sort of contract more after the 1964 season when owner William Clay Ford fired all of his assistants although offering Wilson a new contract.

Wilson however, decided he would have trouble continuing his staff because of the situation and resigned. Last year he was with Washington as an assistant under Bill McPeak and supposedly had been in line for the Redskins.

Wilson plans to have a six-man staff in Miami, which would give the Dolphins one of the three largest coaching staffs in pro football. Only Cleveland and Chicago in the NFL currently have that many. Wilson is particularly interested in getting a linemen coach.

Lemm is slated to be put just in the shuffle in most places, he said. "We don't want that to happen here."

Leaves Controversy
Lemm compiled a 27-26-1 record at St. Louis after joining the club in 1963 when he gave in the Houston Oilers while Frank (Lefty) Stoen had been with the Cardinals, went to the Oilers in an unofficial inter-league swap.

TEAM STRONGEST SINCE CRASH American Hopes For Title In Figure Skating Mount

By RON BERGMAN
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Not since 1960 when the United States last won a title in the World Figure Skating Championships have hopes been so high as now.

Hopes also were high in 1961 when the U.S. team took off for the World Championships at Prague.

But all 18 members of that team were killed in a crash of the plane that was trying to land at Los Angeles before going on to Czechoslovakia. The event was held in the U.S.
