Viet Cong's 'Truce' In Last Hours

Violations Numerous Despite Red Pledge

SAIGON (Sunday) — The tattered truce of the Lunar New Year entered its final hours today and allied forces braced against the possibility of fresh combat operations before Monday's dawn.

FRYING POTATOES

$50,000 Blaze Caused By Boy

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Police say a 15-year-old boy told them he got locked inside a distillate and was cooking fried potatoes when they caught fire, setting off a $50,000 blaze.

Officers said he couldn't get out of the store and became hungry. He told them he turned on the burners for the grill and began frying two hamburgers, then decided on a side order of potatoes. The potatoes, caught fire on the grill and when he sloshed the blaze with water it flared out of control.

Police said he told them he found a stick, knocked out a plate glass window, walked across the street and pulled a fire alarm box. Then he headed home but decided later to tell authorities about the escape.

More Than $35 Million For Texas Projects In Budget Plan

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The budget President Johnson sends to Congress Monday contains more than $35 million for starting or planning construction projects in Texas. Sen. R. A. L. Yarbrough, D-Tex., said Saturday.

Some requests are for funds to complete a project, in many cases money to get work under way, and in a few instances funds for planning.

Among requests is $200,000 for Army engineers to initiate a re-evaluation study of the navigation feature of the proposed $911 million Trinity River basin development program.

When Congress authorized the project last year, it included in the bill the proposed $500 million Gulf Coast to Dallas and Fort Worth barge canal. But it provided that a re-evaluation of the cost to benefit ratio of the navigation feature be made before any money was appropriated for construction of the canal.

Witnesses before a House committee, which studied the Trinity project, said a new study would show the barge canal feature to be even more economically justifiable now than when Army Engineers previously reported on it. They found then that the benefits exceeded costs when figured on a 100-year basis, but not quite equal when figured on a 50-year basis.

The other projects which Yarbrough said are included in the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, include:

U.S. Forest Service, $375,000 for planning public use, management and access facilities estimated to cost $9.6 million, at the Toledo Bend Reservoir project near the Texas-Louisiana border.

Army Engineer projects: Caddo Dam and Reservoir, $100,000 for planning work estimated to cost $2,010,000.

Houston Ship Channel, Green's Bayou channel dredging $485,000.

Dallas Water Supply Lavon Reservoir and East Fork Channel, $800,000 for starting work on improvements for enlarging water supply for Dallas and provide flood-control protection to agricultural lands, estimated total cost $27.3 million.

El Paso, $150,000, for planning dams and diversion works and protection to growing urban area, total estimated cost $14 million.

The Air Force construction plans in the budget propose new shops at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, at a cost of $2,182,000.

A request of $2,204,000 for improvements, including two tactical equipment shops, is proposed for Ft. Bliss at El Paso, and $1,517,000 is asked for improvements to the water system at Ft. Hood near Killdeer.

The Public Health Service asks $412,000 for planning and modernization of its hospital at Galveston, work estimated to cost $5,269,000.

The Coast Guard asks $1,394,000 to build a transmitter power facility and storage shops at Galveston.

Justice Department requests include $236,000 to build shops at the Seagoville Federal Prison.

The Customs Service asks $100,000 to build five residences at Falcon Village on the Rio Grande and $40,000 for an inspection facility at Marathon in the Big Bend.

Construction of a lunar sample-receiving flight laboratory and engineering building and support facility at the Manned Space Center in Houston is contemplated under a $13.8 million request by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

This would raise to $192 million the value of structures at the NASA space center in Houston.

The Veterans Administration would receive $600,000 for the first phase of a modernization of its facilities in Dallas, the work estimated to cost $8.3 million when completed.

The General Services Administration items in the budget include projects for these cities in Texas:

Big Spring, $95,000, to start a post office and federal office building, estimated to cost $1,360,000.

Denton, $1,116,000, construction of a post office and federal office building.

Laredo, $543,000, to start on a Border Patrol headquarters costing $643,000.

San Antonio, $6,522,000 to start work on a courthouse and federal office building estimated to cost $7,074,000; $2,547,000, for the site and designing of a post office building to cost $10,111,360,000.

KILLED IN COUP

Death Of Nigerian Leader Disclosed

By ZOE STEPHENS
LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa was killed in the military coup that overthrew his government a week ago, Nigeria's new government announced officially Saturday.

Balewa, considered one of the outstanding leaders of emerging Africa, became the fourth Nigerian politician known to have been killed in the rebellion by dissident army officers.

Radio Announcement
The announcement made over the state-run voice of Nigeria radio ended week-long speculation on the fate of the 53-year-old government leader. He was seized by rebels at the start of the military coup d'etat Jan. 15.

The broadcast gave no details of how and when Sir Abubakar met his death. It said his body was found Friday and was buried at Bauchi, near his native village Saturday morning.

Observers in Lagos had little doubt Balewa was murdered in the early stages of the revolt by the dissident army officers who led it.

Three Others Killed
Western Region Prime Minister, Chief Samuel Akintola, Northern Region Prime Minister, Sir Ahmadu Bello and Finance Minister Chief Festus Okotie Ebo, who was seized along with the federal premier, also were murdered in the coup.

The military regime headed by Maj. Gen. John Aguiyi Ironsi said it was announcing Balewa's death with "profound respect." It ordered government offices closed in mourning for three days and flags were flown at half staff throughout Africa's biggest and most populous nation.

Ironsi and his immediate supporters did not take part in the original army revolt responsible for the murder of the political leaders. The 44-year-old army chief took over at the behest of the remaining civil government leaders. He quickly won a pledge of support from the dissident army elements.

A Moderate Leader
Balewa was regarded as one of the most responsible and moderate of the leaders of the new African nations. (In London Saturday, Commonwealth Relations Secretary Arthur Bottomley said the world and the Commonwealth had lost "a powerful advocate for good.")

Balewa's last major action was to call and preside over a Commonwealth conference in Lagos which forestalled the threat of a serious split over the handling of Britain's rebel white-ruled Rhodesian colony.

Ironsi completed the military takeover Friday by announcing the formation of a supreme military council and a federal executive council with himself at the end of both.

City Man Gets Fellowship In Biochemistry
A 30-year-old Lubbock native who plans a career in academic medicine has been awarded a fellowship to work toward the doctor of philosophy degree in biochemistry at Rockefeller Institute in New York City.

LHS Graduate
He was graduated from Lubbock High School in 1953 and Texas Tech in 1957 where he was on the dean's list for academic achievement.

In 1961 he took the doctor of medicine degree from Baylor University Medical School in Houston at Jefferson Davis Hospital and Texas Children's Hospital. He went to Johns Hopkins in 1962 and did residence work before undertaking the biochemistry research project with Dr. Donald Cook, an Australian physician on the Johns Hopkins faculty.

They are: Bill Dicker, Alton Turner, F. O. Rhodes, W. W. Atchison, Sammy Houston, Ed Hall, Claude Nowlin and Gerald Hanson.

WILL VISIT RATING HOUSES

Mayor, Councilmen Go To NY To Promote Bond Sale

Members of the Lubbock City Council were to leave for New York City early today on a trip designed to help get the best bids possible on a $3 million bond sale scheduled Feb. 24.

The trip, which has become traditional in advance of municipal bond sales here, will include visits to bond rating houses. A Tuesday luncheon also has been arranged with several dozen representatives of financial houses which actually bid on bonds.

Rating houses study a city's financial structure and issue reports which have a bearing on the amount of interest the city pays on its bonded indebtedness. City Mgr. Bill Pitstick pointed out that no city in Texas has a better rating than Lubbock's, which is "A".

"Before each bond sale, the rating houses re-rate a city," Pitstick added. "The purpose of the trip is to maintain our present rating or improve on it. We have appointments with all three — Dun and Bradstreet, Moody's and Standard and Poor's — and will spend several hours with each presenting facts and answering questions."

The Lubbock group will return home Wednesday night. Those making the trip include Mayor Max Tidmore, Councilmen Rolan Simpson, Jack Kastman, W. E. Medlock and Gene Alderson. Pitstick, Director of Finance Sterling Miller and Joe Smith of First Southwest Co., financial advisor for the city.

The mayor and councilmen also are taking their wives on the trip but are paying the women's expenses themselves.

Commission Is To Open Bids

Lubbock County Commissioners will open six sets of sealed bids and consider a proposal for the addition of a judge's bench to the non-jury courtroom now under construction at a meeting of the County Commissioners Court at 10 a.m. Monday.

The bids to be opened are: (1) the annual contract for prescription service for the City-County Welfare Department; (2) the annual contract for typewriter repair service at the courthouse; (3) a file cabinet for the district clerk; (4) roller shelf units, also for the district clerk; (5) file dockets for the district clerk; and (6) a rotary compaction press for the Commissioner Precinct.

H. Kirby of Haynes and Kirby, architects for the courthouse, will present the proposal for the judge's bench for the non-jury courtroom which is being constructed in one of two former jury dormitories on the fourth floor of the new courthouse. The other dormitory is being converted into quarters for the new central jury pool.

The judge's bench was not included in specifications when bids for the remodeling and construction project were let in December.

Other items on the agenda include soil conservation applications, right-of-way matters and other routine business.

Group Studies Chamber Need

IDAHO (Special) — More steps toward organization of a chamber of commerce or similar group will be taken at a meeting scheduled here at 7 p.m. Tuesday in a city hall.

Thirteen Idaho businessmen recently met and launched plans for such an organization. Backers of the idea have stressed that the organization does not necessarily have to be a chamber of commerce, as such.

Time For "Action"
We have determined the need for some type of organization, an Idaho merchant said at the first meeting. "And we all are agreed on one thing: it's time to do something," he added.

Some of the ideas advanced for development of a better business climate here and for better relations between businessmen and customers, include organization of an official welcoming committee for new residents; exchange of promotional ideas and methods; improved communications between Idaho and residents of rural areas surrounding it.

Houston Reception Set By Tech Exes

HOUSTON (Special) — Houston Chapter of Texas Tech Exes will host a pre-game reception and luncheon from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday, in the American Legion Hall, 5505 Kelvin, in the Village west of the Rice University Campus.

Reservations for the event may be made by calling W. L. "Bill" Adair, chapter president, at MO8-9711 or CA4-9715.

Representatives from Tech will be on hand and a film about homecoming activities at the Lubbock college will be presented, Adair said.

A special section has been reserved for Tech Exes at the Texas Tech-Rice game scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. on Altly Court in the Rice gymnasium.

MEETING ENDS
WHITHAR R. A. L. (Special) — Services at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. today will conclude a three-day special meeting at the Northside Church of Christ here. Jack Hutton, Littlefield minister, conducted services Friday and Saturday nights and will be in charge of today's services.

REVIVAL BEGINS
LOCKNEY (Special) — The Rev. John Bryant, Elk City, Okla. evangelist, will begin a revival today at the Lockney Assembly of God Church. The meeting is to continue one week. Services are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. daily, according to the Rev. J. M. Ashley, pastor.

NEW YORK (AP) - Following is a complete record of the stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Table with columns: Symbol, Name, High, Low, Last, Net Change. Includes stocks like ABC, ABC, ABC.

The Dow Jones average of 30 Industrials closed at 988.14 after reaching a record 994.20 on Tuesday.

General Motors led the list to impressive gains early in the week, but then interest shifted to favorites.

Profit-taking and weakness aerospace defense issues and electronics stocks pressured prices.

The Associated Press 60-stock average declined for the first time in eight weeks, from 268.2 to 267.0.

Growing reports of rising personal income and record industrial production for December helped buoy prices early in the week.

Volume totaled 47,965,481 shares, compared with 43,221,298 the previous week.

The market pushed sharply higher Monday and Tuesday. Wall Street looked for a possible push through the 1,000 level for the Dow Jones industrial but stocks fell Wednesday on a turnover of 10.25 million shares.

Of 1,586 issues traded, 721 advanced, 714 declined, and 151 were unchanged.

Brokers attributed a firm undertone to the market in the face of the late-week decline to indications of stepped-up military outlays in Viet Nam.

Bond prices were mixed to a bit higher in the Treasury, corporate and municipal markets during the past week.

The biggest bond development of the week was President Johnson's order to Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler to boost U.S. savings bond interest rates.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week averaged a total par value of $66.99 million from $59.54 million the previous week.

BRITAIN WARNS

Defiance Of Queen's Mercy Would Be Crime

LONDON (AP) - Britain warned Rhodesia's rebellious white regime Saturday it will be committing murder if it executes two Africans whose sentences have been commuted by Queen Elizabeth II.

The state-chartered British Broadcasting Corp. issued the obvious, officially insured warning in its service broadcast to Central Africa.

The two Africans, Lazarus and Runyowa, were sentenced to die under the Rhodesian Law and Order Maintenance Act of 1965.

The prisoners were reported by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith as "allegedly" even though he had previously made plain that his white supremacy government still felt it owed allegiance to the Queen.

Said the BBC warning: "Mr. Smith and his subordinates must realize that if they should disregard the exercise of the royal prerogative by which the Queen has reprieved Lazarus and Runyowa, they will be guilty of murder according to English common law. The fact that they are present beyond the reach of the process of English law will not save them if they should be so unwise as to forget that they remain British subjects."

A Commonwealth Relations Office spokesman said if the men should hang, the hangman and the governor of the jail also will be technically guilty of murder.

Two Die, Eight Hurt In Mishap

DEL RIO (AP) - Two members of a San Angelo family were killed Saturday and eight others seriously injured when their automobile overturned.

The 6 a. m. accident occurred on U. S. 277 about 17 1/2 miles north of this Texas-Mexico border city.

Killed were Mrs. Guadalupe Ramirez Martinez, 42, and her daughter, Margarita Ramirez Martinez, 2.

Paulo G. Martinez of San Angelo, not otherwise identified, was driver of the car, state police said.

All the injured were taken to a Del Rio hospital suffering from injuries and exposure.

PLANS CUBAN TRIP TO DIG

Exact Locale Of Guevara's Grave Cited By American

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) - An African descent and a Dominican American architect who spent mother in Santo Domingo, four years in a Cuban prison.

He said he was living in New York Saturday he planned to go to the Dominican Republic in an attempt to assassinate the remains of Ernesto Guevara, once Cuban jillo. The plot failed and Premier Fidel Castro's right was arrested, but released a hand man.

Ralph Algiers Rivera said proof, he said, that Guevara was killed and buried in the Dominican Republic last year. He said he knew the exact location of the grave.

The architect said Guevara's grave is on a farm near the Dominican city of La Vega.

Rivera claims first came to light during a Spanish language television broadcast here Friday night.

Paper Fronts Bill

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) - Stanley Ross, editor of El Tiempo, the New York City Spanish language newspaper, said the paper would pay for Rivera's search for Guevara's body.

Rivera said he learned of Guevara's fate from a fellow political prisoner in a Havana jail.

He spent more than four years in prison for being a member of an anti-Castro was released earlier this month.

Guevara, former economic czar of Cuba, disappeared last March after he reportedly helped in the successful overthrow of the Dominican government of Donald Reid Cabral.

Rivera, 42, is the son of an American father of Puerto Rican descent.

Prisoners Send Roses To Jailer

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) - They missed Richard Aiello and said so with flowers.

Racine County jailer Richard Aiello said he missed the prisoners of the Dominican Republic.

Said a spokesman for the prisoners: "We think he's a good guy and we like him."

GIVEN DIPLOMATIC POSTS

Purge Of Dominican Officers Effected

By ROBERT BERELLE. Less than 900 members of the rebel leaders swung the crisis spotlight toward the regular army of the Dominican Republic. An important step toward the pacification of this gravely troubled island was taken Saturday when the high command and senior figures in the Dominican army abroad were purged.

Commodore Rivera Caminero reiterated that the Superior Military Council would consider the presidential order next week. The council consists of the Air, Army and Navy chiefs of staff. It appeared almost certain any prolonged delay by the regular army in complying with the president's order would arouse adverse reaction from leftwing nationalists and the extreme left, who have been threatening widespread strikes and violence if the military chiefs fail to leave.

TO TEACH 700 STUDENTS

Oklahoma's New $1 Million Learning Center 'Ready'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma Christian College puts to work this week a new million-dollar learning center which its chancellor predicts will improve and speed learning as well as ease a growing shortage of qualified instructors. The 700-plus students will begin receiving much of their instruction through an electronic dial-a-lecture system. Each will be assigned a private study booth, available at any hour from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m. There the student can don a headset and dial any of 138 different tape-recorded instructional programs. The recordings will supplement live lectures and discussions with instructors. Provides "Best Teachers" Dr. George Benson, chancellor of the 15-year-old private college, said the Datagram system not only will permit instructors to reach more students, but will "make available the best teachers in the world" to Christian College students. Benson predicted that as the system grows, it will increase an instructor's capacity as much as 25 per cent, and boost the learning speed of students by a like amount. While taped lessons have been in use for several years, Oklahoma Christian College is the first to install a complete, centrally located study area with individually assigned student booths or carrels. First At Ohio The Datagram system was developed by the North Electric Co. of Galion, Ohio. The first such system was installed at Ohio State University in September. At Ohio State, however, only about half the 289 student positions are centrally located, with the others in eight different campus sites. Each is shared by many students. In other recorded teaching systems, students usually must check out tapes from the library and listen through an individual player or use equipment connected to a master program by a manually controlled switch operated by the instructor. The OCU system is fully automatic. Tapes are started by dialing from one of the student booths, then are rewound in readiness for the next listener. A third Datagram system now is being prepared for the Oral Roberts University in Tulsa. In addition to the audio facilities of the Ohio State and Oklahoma Christian systems, it will provide dial-access video programs.

The department broke with precedent to list 38 major settlements last year, primarily affecting West Coast construction, that pushed up union wage-benefit levels from 5.1 to 8.3 per cent. It was the toughest step taken by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz against the powerful craft unions since the wage-price guideposts were adopted in 1962. He also called on union leaders to urge their cooperation in this year's round of bargaining.

In the administration's view, the average wage increases should be limited to the yearly increase in output per man-hour, now estimated at 3.2 per cent. The list included settlements that added 5.1 per cent a year to payroll costs for carpenters in Chicago and 8.3 per cent for the same trade in northern California.

AFL-CIO unions have rejected the guidepost policy in the past on grounds the United States is too big and its economy too complex to be governed by a national wage formula. Hence, strong reaction to the department's announcement was certain.

The department said information from smaller cities was not available but presumably settlements there were smaller and would tend to bring down the average increase.

- Philadelphia carpenters 5.8
- Southern California laborers 5.8
- San Francisco area carpenters 6.8
- Oregon and southwestern Washington carpenters 6.9
- Northern California laborers 7.8
- Oregon Laborers 8.0
- Northern California carpenters 8.3
- Chicago workers, for steel price increases without any offsetting measures against labor. Average hourly rates for building trades workers in the cities listed ranged from $4.20 for paperhangers to $4.91 for plumbers. The top figure was $6.32 an hour for pipefitters and the lowest negotiated rate was $2.05 for roofers. Helpers and laborers averaged $3.54 an hour.
- The department said information from smaller cities was not available but presumably settlements there were smaller and would tend to bring down the average increase.

WATER RESOURCES

Tech Professor To Participate In Conference

Dr. Keith R. Marrison, head of the civil engineering department at Tech, will participate in the first national conference of directors of water resources research centers in Washington, D.C., Monday and Tuesday. Dr. Marrison is director of water resources research at Tech.

To Make Reports

Dr. Marrison will report on his visits last summer to all colleges in the southwestern quarter of the United States where course offerings and research in water resources are featured. These visits were made under a grant to the University Council on Water Resources for the purpose of standardizing and improving work in the field by sharing experiences and publicizing effective programs.

Extensive Studies

Since its organization last year, Tech's Water Resources Research Center has co-operated with the Texas Water Development Board and the West Texas Water Institute in studies on effluent re-use, on utilization of plays lakes, and on the economics of water supplies in the High Plains. Publications of some Tech research in these fields is due for release by the Water Development Board next month, and reports on this research will be featured on the program of the fourth annual water conference sponsored by the West Texas Water Institute on the campus Feb. 4.

"The High Plains," Dr. Marrison said, "have unique ground water problems whose solution is of vital importance to the national economy. With adequate financial assistance, Tech can make valuable contributions to their solution. We have high hopes that the needed funds will be forthcoming."

The final treaty of independence with Great Britain was made by Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and John Jay in 1783.

Davenport Takes Win In NAIA Track Meet

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Olympian Willie Davenport of St. Louis (La.) won the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.1 seconds and his teammate, AAU champ George Anderson, took the 60-yard dash in six seconds flat in the first NAIA Indoor Track and Field Championships Saturday night in Municipal Auditorium. Davenport broke the auditorium record of 7.2, set by Olympian Keith Gardner of Nebraska in 1958, and tied by Colorado's Jim Miller in 1964. Davenport also ran a 7.1 in the trials.

Hogs' Mentor Discusses Pro Salaries

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Saturday that professional football teams are not paying enough money to lure successful college coaches to their clubs.

Broyles made the statement in an interview with St. Louis Post-Dispatch sports writer Dave Lipman.

"I don't believe the pros can get a man who is established in college ball because they won't pay enough money," Lipman quoted the Razorback coach.

Broyles qualified the statement by saying "In my estimation, the pros would have to pay a minimum of $75,000 to get a college coach because of the uncertain future they (the pros) offer. Guys who direct pro teams don't last very long."

Track Fans Watch Keino

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Track and field fans by the thousands turned out Saturday night for the first indoor meet of the season in Los Angeles and the chief magnet was Kipchoge Keino, the newest distance running sensation on the world horizon.

Keino, the 26-year-old African from Kenya who holds the 3,000 and 5,000 meter records outdoors, was ready to make not only his first appearance in the United States but also on the boards in an indoor meet.

He was entered in both the mile and two mile runs. Keino's opposition in the mile included Kim Grelle of Portland, Ore., and in the two mile, Belgium's Gaston Roelant.

The event, the Los Angeles Invitational, was staged in the Sports Arena, with a capacity of about 13,000 for track meets.

John Pennell was favored in one of the early events, the pole vault, while the 60-yard dash included two outstanding speedsters, Charlie Green, of the University of Nebraska and Darel Newman, formerly of Fresno (Calif.) State.

Temple Defeats Manhattan Five

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Temple's Owls flew fast and jumped high in the final 10 minutes to defeat Manhattan 76-66 Saturday night and racked up their 14th victory against two losses in the first game of a Palestra basketball doubleheader.

Third-ranked St. Joseph's played Penn, one of the Ivy League leaders, in the second game.

Jim Williams, a 6-foot-8 senior combined with sophomore Clarence Brookins for 10 straight points after the game was tied by Manhattan at 52-all with 9:34 left. That rush, with Brookins dropping in three field goals in 75 seconds, put the game out of reach of the Jaspers, now 6-4 for the season.

Ken Morgan was high for the Owls with 19 points, followed by Brookins with 17. Williams had nine, all of them in the second half and his point total made him the seventh highest scorer in Temple history.

George Bruns was high man for Manhattan with 20 while teammate Bill Goodfellow contributed 19 in the losing cause.

Lazzeri's Bat In Law Battle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The bat used by Tony Lazzeri in hitting 400 for the New York Yankees in the 1937 World Series is involved in an $11,000 court suit.

Mrs. Maye Lazzeri, widow of "pooh em up" Tony, filed the suit in Superior Court here Friday against Macy's Van & Storage Co., Burlingame.

The suit placed the value of the bat at more than $1,000. It sought $5,000 for three Persian rugs destroyed in a warehouse fire and $5,000 punitive damage.

Mrs. Lazzeri said the bat which helped beat the New York Giants, was among valuables the had stored. She said the company advised her the bat had been lost.

Lazzeri died in 1946. His teammates on the 1937 Yankee team included such greats as Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig, Red Ruffing and Bill Dickey.

Mantle Confident Surgery Will Aid Arm

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Mickey Mantle said Saturday an operation on his right shoulder should help him and, he added, "At least, things can't be any worse than they are now."

The New York Yankees' ailing outfielder, 34, will undergo surgery Tuesday for removal of a bone chip from a shoulder joint. It will be Mantle's fifth operation since 1951.

Mantle came to Rochester Monday, and Mayo Clinic doctors finished their diagnostic studies of his shoulder Friday. When he hasn't been in the clinic, Mantle has remained in his hotel room much of the time. He said he has been watching television and visiting with friends. He has shunned contact with the press but consented Saturday to a brief telephone chat with a Rochester newsmen.

Did he think the operation would help him? "It should," the Yankee star said. "We'll have to wait and see."

What did he think about probably making a switch to first base, where his arms and legs would have to work less? "It would be easier on me," Mantle agreed.

He added, though, that he had never played first base in his life. Mantle said he was at shortstop some when he was in the minor leagues but has been strictly an outfielder in the majors.

He said he had talked to the Yankees' general manager, Ralph Houk, about the possibility of moving to first base but year ago while playing touch football with his children. He said it bothered him all last season, and he could scarcely throw at times.

Mantle's batting average dropped to .255 in 122 games compared with his lifetime .309. He hit 19 homers but drove in only 46 runs.

Mantle explained earlier that he hurt his shoulder about a year ago while playing touch football with his children. He Tuesday.

Opponents Confident They Can 'Talk To Death' 14B Repeal Measure In Senate

By JACK BELL. WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic leadership has chosen to bring up the 1966 controversy Monday with opponents confident they can talk to death a House-passed bill which enables 19 states to ban union shop contracts.

Because the Senate voted 47 to 45 last year against limiting debate on a similar motion, proponents of the measure are not going to be in any hurry to try to get it out of the Senate.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a supporter of the bill conceded on a taped television-radio program that the New York transit strike "has not helped the chances" for repealing 14B.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who opposes the repealer, said in a taped radio report to constituents he believes sentiment is running against the measure.

unfortunate the Democratic leadership has chosen to bring up the union shop issue. "Most of us had expected that the Senate would deal first this year with the Viet Nam needs, spending all the time and effort necessary to see that this priority national effort is fully discussed and adequately provided for," he said.

By BERT NEELLEY

CLAIMS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT insurance in Texas declined in December from 217,000 to 153,000 in comparison with the previous December. Job applications with the Texas Employment Commission also declined from nearly 42,000 in December 1964 to 40,675 last December.

General Tire & Rubber Co. has announced a gift-matching program that is no doubt well received by educational institutions. To encourage their employees to increase their financial support of educational institutions, the firm will match dollar for dollar each gift of $50 or more made by an employee to an accredited college, university, junior college or secondary school. Maximum individual total under the matching plan is $1,000 during one year. All full-time employees are eligible without qualification as to previous college or university attendance. Only stipulation is the gift must be in cash or equivalent.

MACHINES "TALKING" to other machines in computer "conversations" will expand through telephone networks in the coming years, according to Peter Nenzel, president of the United States Independent Telephone Association.

Data transmission already is about 20 times faster than human conversation, and a principle of circuit time-sharing is employed to transmit both voice and data.

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics released during the week are added proof that the business boom continues to barrel along.

Industrial output, personal income, factory orders and housing starts posted gains.

For 1965 as a whole, personal income was $530.7 billion, up 7 per cent from 1964. Wages and salaries alone rose $24 billion last year to a total of $357.4 billion. The Commerce Department said this was a reflection of the huge growth in December to a record 148.3 per employment, together with increase in hourly and weekly wages.

Factory orders for durable goods in December totaled a record $22.5 billion, slightly higher than November's $22,406,000,000 and more narrowly exceeded the previous record of $22,425,000,000 set in October.

Housing starts in December leaped to the highest rate since early 1964. The Commerce Department estimated that starts of private housing units climbed 14 per cent to an annual rate of 1,746,000 from 1,537,000 in November. The preliminary total of 1,503,000 starts for all of 1965 was 3 per cent below the 1,557,400 units on which work was started in 1964.

A sampling of opinion among automobile dealers attending their annual convention in Miami Beach, Fla., showed that they expect car sales this year to set another record, topping the 1965 total of 9.3 million. The sales gain from 1965 predicted by the dealers averaged 12 per cent.

Automakers turned out an estimated 197,900 cars during the week, compared with 194,712 the previous week and 209,417 a year ago. The showing was helped by the return to production of American Motors after a shutdown of 11 working days.

A survey of 180 manufacturers, representing 28 industries by the National Industrial Conference Board indicated a building boom in 1966.

Personal income climbed by $4.4 billion in December to an annual rate of $550.5 billion. The December rise was about $1 billion above the average monthly increase last year.

Industrial production rose 1.46 per cent from 1964. Wages and salaries alone rose $24 billion last year to a total of $357.4 billion. NORDIC DISCOVERY
 QUEBEC (AP) — Louis Edmond Hamelin, director of Lav-University's Nordic Studies Center, announced discovery of a possibly pre-Columbian Norse settlement in the Ungava Penin-

TWO BEDROOM
 Windowless Wall Affords Home Privacy

By HIAWATHA ESTES
 This column recently featured a three bedroom contemporary home with a floor plan very similar to this design. The exterior is the same for both homes. The original design proved very popular and many letters were received requesting a similar plan for a two bedroom home. Here is such a plan. The utmost in privacy has been achieved by eliminating all windows in the wall facing the street and by building the home around the interior court. The atrium is the heart of the house. It is not roofed so that outdoor living can be enjoyed throughout the year.

Vertical "V-joint" siding is specified on the two front walls of the house. These walls have try Homes—$1; Ranch and Modern Homes—$2. All books, a $7 value only $5. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404, the planting area next to the J. Northridge, California.

Double doors open to the wide entry. From the entry, one has a wide view of the atrium through sliding glass doors. Similar doors open to the atrium from the family room and the master bedroom. If preferred, some of these doors could be replaced with windows.

The large living room has been made to appear even larger with the addition of a wide dining ell.

The kitchen is conveniently located between the dining-living room and the family room. There is an abundant amount of kitchen storage and work space.

The big family room, complete with fireplace, is where the family can work and play together. Another fireplace could be located in the living room.

One bath is accessible from both the spacious master bedroom dressing area and a hall from the family room. Both this bath and the family bath feature pullman lavatories.

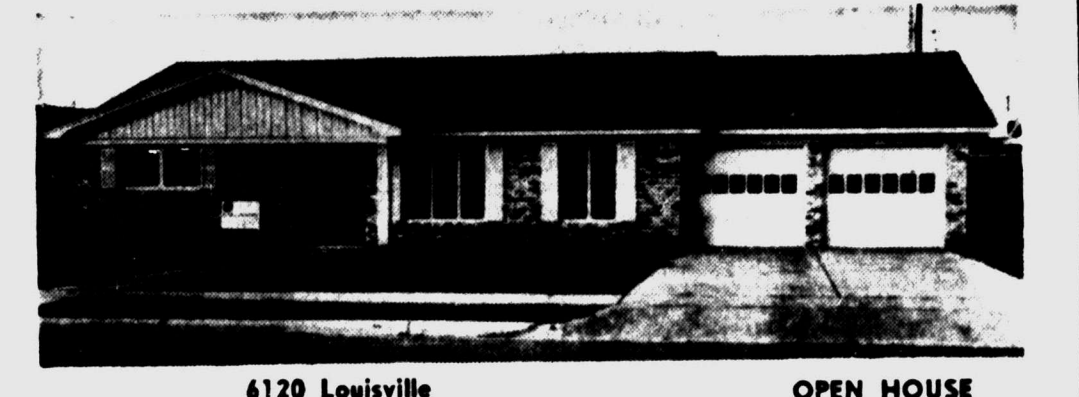

In addition to the numerous amounts of other storage space throughout this home, there are two wide linen closets, plus a guest closet.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $8.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until May 23, 1966. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. The following home plans books are also available: Prize Homes, Volume 2, $1; Homes by Hiawatha, $1; Hallmark Homes, $1; Distinctive Homes, $1; Town & Coun-

The
 World
 Make-Believe...

Children in every Lubbock school will be introduced to the fascinating world of puppetry when the Puppet Committee of the Junior League of Lubbock presents its original script, "The Wonderful World of Make-Believe," in the months of February and March. The unique project was begun three years ago when members studied the history and art of puppetry, began writing the script and making the puppets. This first year was spent in preparation, while the first performance was presented last year to hundreds of members of the committee. The play will be presented to the League and to the three Lubbock Day Nurseries. Two League workshops on puppetry were open to the public, the first in fall, 1964 and the second, in September, 1965. During February and March the play will be presented night after night at Guadalupe, Martin, Ella lies and Jackson elementary schools. The script will be presented to the first through third grade students in two performances at each school.

A play would not be complete without a King and especially appealing is the colorful one conceived by the League. Mrs. Jack Worley, left, top right photo, 3422 62nd St., Mrs. J. R. Blumrosen, 3417 57th St., and Mrs. Orville Alderson, 3307 57th St., three of eight members of the puppet committee, rehearse the play in preparation for the first performance in February.

Where there's a castle, there's always a princess and in this play, there are two. Mrs. Charles Key, 2516 56th St., center, right photo, holds one of the charming characters, while Mrs. Cecil Kuhne, 3304 56th St., left, and Mrs. Nolan Swain, 2517 56th St., rehearse several of the lines from the play. The play will be presented complete with stage and scenery. Another member of the committee not pictured is Mrs. John Cobb, 4510 14th St.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of smoothing and beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of moist tropical oil. The skin takes on a radiant peach-and-cream bloom as roughness and tiny lines are gently smoothed out. This beautifying treatment with the tropical oil of Ol'ay is recommended by skin care consultants to give the complexion day-long beauty, and the natural glow of a healthy skin, even in winter. Use daily before making-up. Ol'ay promotes a pretty youthful complexion bloom.

DEAR ABBY
Gambling Too Risky

DEAR ABBY: I know you claim his mother washed it for me, but I've nothing to lose but home. We have gotten into several fights over this, I don't need anybody to wash my back and I don't see why he needs somebody to wash his. He's just lazy. He claims he has an old back injury and that's why he can't do it himself, but I've seen him put more strain on his back than it takes to wash it. Any other suggestion?

Dear No: Give him "the Short Marriage Dear Short: You need legal brush" the kind with a nice advice. Trust a lawyer to help you. There is even a possibility that an annulment is in order instead of a divorce.

HELSINKI—Finnish business leaders predict a boom.

DEAR ABBY: "X" and I were secretly married by a justice of the peace in a neighboring state during our freshman year at college. That was in 1964. We never really lived together except for one week - end and a night now and then. It was very unsatisfactory, and we both soon realized it was a mistake, so we met someone else, and I am serious about him, but "X" doesn't want to give me a divorce because he's afraid his parents will find out that he was married and there will be trouble. He needs their financial help to finish college and doesn't want to anger them. How can I help him without publicizing it himself, but I've seen him more than I want to wash it. Any other suggestion?

Today is Sunday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1966 with 342 to follow.

The moon is between the new and first quarter. No morning star.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Mars. Those born today are under the sign of Aquarius. American patriot John Hancock was born on this day in 1737.

In 1937, 17 Russian Communists confessed they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine the regime of Josef Stalin.

In 1941, the "Lone Eagle," Charles Lindbergh, testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in opposition to the proposed lend-lease bill of World War II.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower claimed he would not accept the nomination for president from either party. Two years later agreed to run on the Republican ticket.

In 1965, former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill died.

Quicksand is as common as ever today and is found along shores and in river beds. It is ordinary sand supersaturated with water under pressure from beneath, as from a spring. Woman Is More Interested In Home's Interior

Even if a woman thinks "shingles" and "shakes" are medical problems, she is no one's straightman in and about the interiors of new homes. According to the Tile Council of America, women—and wives in particular—see new homes differently than men do. The feminine eye sees a home as a possible place for comfortable and companionable living while her husband concentrates his attention on crete slab levels, plaster coatings and joints.

It is the woman who is most interested in, and influential for their dream homes include about, floor plans, kitchen size attractive foyers with closets, quarry tile floors, rich-looking wall surfaces and good lighting; plentiful closets, with the "walk-in" type in bedrooms; the separate dining room and a full bath for the master bedroom (the bath-and-a-half house is now passe).

Perhaps the hardest job in shopping for a new home is visualizing the expensively furnished model without its trimmings. And this difficult task is apparently best left to the woman.

COOKING IDEAS

Hearty meals that warm the innards are in big demand these crisp winter evenings and casseroles fill the bill admirably. Here are interesting casserole suggestions from a sauce company's home economists, which combat the cold and delight the palate simultaneously.

CHICKEN BANANA CASSEROLE
4 chicken breasts (boned)
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 tsp. steak sauce
2 tsp. butter
1 tsp. ginger

Place chicken breasts in roasting pan. Mix other ingredients together and pour over chicken. Roast at 325° for 1 1/2 hours or until tender. About 20 minutes before chicken is done, slice four bananas lengthwise and place in same pan. Baste with sauce. Remove both chicken and bananas to serving platter. Serve on bed of white rice. Pour sauce from roasting pan over rice. Serves 4.

CUCUMBER GROUND BEEF CASSEROLE
1 lb. ground beef
2 large cucumbers, cut in slices
2 medium red onions, sliced
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. steak sauce
dash of pepper
2 tsp. butter or margarine

Mix together all ingredients and cook in melted shortening in frying pan for 10 minutes. Pour mixture into greased shallow dish, bake in preheated oven (350°) for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Family Survey Shows Interest In Bathrooms

COLLEGE STATION (Special) — An ordinary functional bathroom will no longer satisfy everyone according to a study made at Cornell University.

The current trend indicated in the study is toward more than one bathroom and toward more luxurious bathrooms, says Mrs. Jane Berry, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University. Families surveyed in the study were asked whether they preferred a "simple, practical bathroom that accommodates the necessities" or a "more luxurious bathroom, satisfying personal tastes and needs."

Nearly half preferred the luxury bathroom. Families in the study expressed an interest in compartmented bathrooms, and in colored fixtures. Almost none of the study families thought of a single bathroom as desirable. Over half thought houses should have two bathrooms, and 25 per cent of the families had a standard of two or more bathrooms.

Families that had two bathrooms wanted more. From the study it appears that the desire for more bathrooms is far from being satisfied.

Ninety per cent of the people questioned preferred the bathroom located near the bedroom. The second choice was near the back door. Location in the work area was a choice only for half bathrooms. Nearly all families indicated the desire for both a tub and a shower.

Lack of space and lack of storage were the complaints voiced most frequently toward present bathroom facilities.

DEAR LOUELLA:

One of the two most dreaded weeks of the year for both professors and students was finished Friday. The week of final examinations for the fall term began Jan. 14 after a day of no classes to prepare for the first tests.

The fall semester officially ended yesterday, and students who do not have dorm reservations for the spring must move out by 10 a. m. today. The halls are open to the new residents at 10 a. m. Monday.

Registration will begin at 1:30 p. m. Monday with academic counseling for entering freshmen and class scheduling for freshmen that were at Tech during the fall term. Upperclassmen will begin registering Tuesday morning at 8 a. m. This will continue through Wednesday and until noon Thursday. Spring classes will then begin at 8 a. m. Friday.

Many Tech students and faculty members left town this week, especially if they finished taking or giving finals before Friday. Susie Mitchell and Melinda Mitchell went to Waco to visit some hometown friends who are students at Baylor.

Susie, Chi Omega freshman pledge from Houston, was visiting with Ronnie Garner, a freshman at Baylor from Houston. Melinda went to see Pinky Palmer, also a freshman at Baylor. Melinda is a freshman Theta pledge here at Tech, and both she and Pinky are from Olney. The girls left by bus Thursday night and plan to return today. They were guests of some girls in the dorms at Baylor.

Tech Students Take Trips

J. W. Prince, a senior pre-law major at the University of Houston, drove to Lubbock to see Ann Lee, a freshman elementary education major from Houston, and Ann rode home to Houston with J. W. Tuesday. She will return to school Thursday to register and begin classes.

Bill Snyder and John Turquette, freshmen from Lubbock, left Friday for a trip to Ruidoso. The boys planned to spend Saturday and part of Sunday skiing and return to Lubbock today. They went in John's car.

Pam Kallas, Lubbock sophomore, left Thursday afternoon by plane for a trip to Phoenix. She is visiting with Bill and Nancy Davis. Bill graduated from Tech in June and Pam and her parents know him and Nancy when they lived here in Lubbock. Pam will fly home Monday afternoon.

Two Kappa Alpha Thetas have been entered in the Mademoiselle Contest. They are Carol Brown and Tina Hathaway. Carol and Tina were chosen Battalion Sweethearts earlier this fall and the battalion of the Army ROTC which they represent has entered them in the contest.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
We needed a chair to "boost" our two-year-old up to the table but had no room for another high chair or stool.
My husband took a plastic wastebasket of medium size (one that stands flush with the floor) and put a toss pillow snugly into the bottom of it. Then with tin snips he cut away part of the front and sides, making a very attractive "bucket seat".
Be sure the pillow is a tight fit. It can be covered with plastic for easy cleaning.
This bucket seat sits on a regular kitchen chair, and we also use it in the car, fastening the seat belt around it and the child, so that she can see out the window while sitting as we are riding.
The children also use it several of them (for tea parties) and stack them when not in use or you want them out of the way.

They would also be wonderful for small fry watching TV.
You can buy plastic wastebaskets in all sizes and colors which can be made into bucket seats to fit a very, very small child and larger ones to fit a child who is several years old.
If you run hot water over the wastebasket before cutting it, you can cut it with a pair of scissors or a sharp knife and wouldn't need tin snips.
Just cut away enough of the plastic to make the seat the proper height and a comfortable shape on the sides.
We think this is one of the most terrific ideas that has come our way in many a month.
I'm blowing this mother a kiss right now!
HELOISE

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
I wonder if women take a few seconds to turn up the collars and open out French cuffs on shirts before they put them in the washing machine?
It takes so little time, and the collars and cuffs come out much cleaner.
Marlene

DEAR HELOISE:
The dealer who sold us our washing machine told me that any time I change from using soap to detergent, I should rinse out my machine with a water softener. Not only should it be rinsed out, but the machine should go through the entire cycle.
Soap and detergent are not compatible, and a film might be left on clothes.
Mrs. Edward Smith

DEAR HELOISE:
When re-making a personal telephone book, it is wise to use a pencil for the numbers so they can be erased easily. Then, when the ever-increasing new and longer numbers are put into use the changes can be made in your own little book. Saves the cost of buying a new one.
Maurine Gilchrist

DEAR HELOISE:
We have several tots. They all wear corduroy, and I have discovered an easy way to "iron" it.
After the corduroy clothing is completely dry, I sprinkle it slightly and place it in the dryer for about five minutes, or just long enough to fluff up the nap.
The scant moisture left in the corduroy makes it soft and fluffy again. I then remove the garments from the dryer while they are still warm, and smooth them with my hands... then hang them to dry.
D.W.

DEAR HELOISE:
Recently I started to re-decorate my bedroom, and I found that my room was messy with hair bows strewn everywhere.
With my parents' help, here is how I solved the problem:
1. We took a piece of wood 12" long and 4" wide, and covered it with pink and white gingham to match my bedspread.
2. I took a strip of black ribbon 1" wide and put it down the middle.
3. Then I put a piece of 1/4" elastic down the center of the ribbon and use this to clip all my hair bows on. It's very pretty.
Marguerite Ferry

DEAR HELOISE:
I moved into an apartment, and the people who lived here before must have had at least fifty pictures on the walls. There were holes here, there and everywhere. I had not had a chance to go out and buy plaster, so I took a little flour and water and made a thick paste with it.
I "plastered" over all the holes in the white walls and now I don't even need real plaster. As the flour paste began to dry, I just rubbed off the excess. The holes do not show.

What a time, trouble, and money saver this has been.
Ramona Herod

CUT-OUT FOR A PAD
I have found an easy way to make a container for prolonging the life of my soap-filled pads.
I use a large plastic dish-washing detergent bottle. Be sure it's the round type.
I cut off the top part (about one and one-half inches), and the bottom part (about three inches), and fitted the top over the bottom.
The cap makes a handle for the top. It works beautifully and looks attractive on the drainboard.
Hope your column goes on and on...

Changes Are Suggested In City's Housing Standards

By DICK McALPIN

 About 16,000 Lubbock residents live in 4,000 substandard houses, most of which are not connected to the city's water and sewer systems, according to Lester O. White, city housing standards coordinator.

White will present a housing study and recommendations for remedial measures to the Housing Standards Commission on Jan. 31. The measures consist of a four-point addendum to the present housing standards ordinance which will give the ordinance more teeth.

Small Pieces Popular
In modern living, the collector often prefers small pieces that will fit in with other items and add a tasteful touch to the home," states Dorra West, exhibits director for the Association.

Small showings have become very popular in many areas. Numerous persons have been collecting with a small work of art of trained at nominal cost and have found deep pleasure in the intimate presence of an original art object in their lives.

Collecting work of our own time and area is desirable since we have the opportunity to select items close to our own lives and understanding. Mrs. West adds.

The exhibition-sales will continue at the Center until Feb. 12.

New Biography Of Theater Represents Top Effort

NEW YORK (AP)—The big production since 1959, histories and biographies of Broadway's off-Broadway and major regional theater...

That missing opera in the Metropolitan Opera Company's lineup for the Dallas season May 12-15, the Saturday night May 14 date, has now been announced. It will be Verdi's "Il Trovatore" with Robert Merrill in one of the leading roles.

Monday night Fort Worth adds another jewel in its Carter complex when it has the formal opening of the new $12 million William Edington Scott Theater, the details of which are reported elsewhere on these pages.

It will be a gala 90-minute program which will include the Fort Worth Symphony, Fort Worth Opera Association, Great-Fort Worth Community Theater, Texas Boys Choir and the Fort Worth Ballet Association, all on stage for 15-minute segments, followed by a buffet dinner-dance featuring the music of Peter Duchin (the late, great Eddy Duchin's son).

Among the glitterables to be present are none other than Zsa Zsa Gabor, who gets the Will Rogers Suite at the Hotel Texas, singer Gordon MacRae, singer-actress Elaine O'Strich and composer Gian Carlo Menotti, along with a host of Texas luminaries.

The new theater joins the complex which already features the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art, the in-the-round Casa Manana, Will Rogers Auditorium and the Coliseum and Children's Museum, along with the museum wing of the Fort Worth Art Association. Yet to come is the Kimbell Museum, housing the collection of the late Kay Kimbell.

'CONFIDENTIAL CLERK'

Tech Will Present Comedy On Friday

Set for the first of four performances at 8:15 p.m. Friday, the University Theater at Texas Tech will present the speech department production of T. S. Eliot's "The Confidential Clerk," first major production in Lubbock of a play by Eliot who created a tempest in the literary world when his "Waste Land" appeared in 1922.

Osa Johnson's Last Adventure Makes Its Bow

Any person now in gentle mid-dodge cannot help but remember the motion picture world in the 1920s and the 1930s when one of the perennial events on the screens across the nation were the superb adventure motion pictures, documentaries, filmed in Africa and in the South Seas by the explorers, Martin Johnson and his wife, Osa.

They were utterly absorbing as the Johnsons recorded by camera and sound the life in the unexplored and out-of-the-way places, the sights and sounds of jungle life and its denizens, lions, tigers, panthers, leopards, snakes and a thousand and one other things, along with such eye-popping adventures as dealing with pygmies, head hunters and what-have-you.

Now comes from the backlog of memorabilia left by Mrs. Johnson following her death in 1935, a stored-away manuscript which carries with it the same absorbing quality as she tells of Martin and her and their trip into the untouched island of Borneo.

'Teahouse'

Al Hirt

Definitely not pure Dixieland but better in many ways. Definitely not jazz, but precisely swinging because being is a thing of the past and Hirt is not."

TECH TO GIVE ELIOT COMEDY—"The Confidential Clerk" by Nobel Prize winner T. S. Eliot will be presented for four performances in the University Theater by the Texas Tech speech department starting at 8:15 p.m. Friday. Repeats will be given at 8:15 p.m. Saturday and Monday, Jan. 31, and a matinee at 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 30. Two scenes are shown. At left, Linda White as Lucasta Angel and Truman Dunahoo as Colby Simpkins toast their newfound friendship, and, at right, Simpkins listens as Sir Claude, played by Perry Langenstein, tells him about his unrealized ambitions to be a potter. KISSING SENATORS—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith gets kissed, left, by her Republican leader, Sen. Everett Dirksen, who was the social star of the opening week of Congress. Right, Richard Nixon, who does not deny, when asked, that he is running for president, tells Mrs. Leslie Ahrens of Illinois that his daughter Julie will join her daughter at Smith College.

the lighter side of WASHINGTON

by BETTY BEALE

Sen. Dirksen Was Social Star Of Opening Week Of Congress

CONGRESS OPENED on a wave of wit. The session may end up with brickbats flying but it started off with both comical and kissable connotations.

Politically, the opening week was Lyndon Johnson's since everything hinged on his State of the Union message. But socially it was Everett Dirksen's, the molasses-voiced, basso-profundo of the Senate, the Republican leader from Illinois. The droll politician and elder humorist had them practically rolling in the aisles at the VIP-studded Women's National Press Club dinner for the Congress, which tried to star Hubert Humphrey but Hubert didn't make it. And he tackled guests with his low-pitched saloony of the seven-ages-of-man at the annual party given for him by the Ben Rogers of New York and Illinois.

The press club dinner drew all the famous names in the Congress from both Kennedy brothers to new Senator Harry Byrd, Jr. of Virginia. All were wondering somewhat apprehensively what kind of a dull program might have been cooked up at the last minute when it was learned that the main speaker, witty Humphrey, would not get back from India and his meeting with Soviet leaders in time to perform.

But Ev had them chuckling at the first sound of his incredible voice. After giving them the Johnson greeting, "Welcome to the 91st Congress," which is also the title of the most hysterical presidential record yet produced, the Republican leader observed that he had been intrigued by the State of the Union message. "Marjorie," he said in slow comic tones, "Hubert doesn't know what he missed." Then he added, "It was the shortest tax cut in history."

HE QUICKLY PROFESSED his affection for the missing vice president. "I love Hubert. I really do—ADA and all," said the conservative Illinoisan.

In reply to the title of the speech he was supposed to make, "Whatever happened to Hubert Humphrey?" Dirksen drawled, "Well there was a conjunction of forces that finally brought him to where I always hoped he would be, in a seat of dignity where he can't see a word."

Approx of all the so-called best dressed lists that have been appearing, the Senator said that he had been listed as the worst dressed man in the country in every comparison or contest and had even been described as looking like "an unmade bed." He didn't know what could be done about the beautification of Congress unless, he said, "We can set up some beauty shops. I have been trying for the past two years to get a blue rinse but I haven't yet. If I don't get a blue rinse soon there's going to be no appropriation for the Senate barber shop."

Hubert Humphrey related a story, the thousands of miles between Asia and Washington to send a message that was read at the dinner party and began:

"Friends and arm-chair Vice Presidents, greetings from Prime Minister Kowysim."

In his message he said that the subject "Whatever Happened to Hubert Humphrey?" never worried him. He had been doing a lot of things, he said, including reading one of his favorite fables:

"Lives of statesmen all remind us
As their pages o'er we turn
That we shouldn't leave behind us
Memoirs someone ought to burn."

But said the vice presidential message, "Whatever happened to the press?" Here he was, he said, working longer hours on space on civil rights, on the President's legislative program but "Where are you?" he asked. He predicted that if the press keeps coming falling away at its current rate there won't be any radio, TV or newspapers by 1972.

ALL EYES TURNED toward the Kennedy brothers when the next part of the Humphrey message was read. He would definitely not, said the Minnesota, seek the Senate seat of Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

"Although I feel sincerely I could do more for Massachusetts, and despite my long association with that State, I feel it should be left open there for the young people of the Democratic party who have worked their way up to this opportunity." The Kennedys smiled.

There was a stunned silence in the Stalter ballroom when sophisticated Harvard wit and math professor Tom Lehrer took to the piano and sang one of his favorite recorded pieces, "National Brotherhood Week."

Before the political audience that doesn't dare offer anything but sweetness and light to every minority group in the country, Tom sang "All the white folks hate the black folks. And the black folks hate the white folks. To hate all but the right folks is an old established rule." But all that had to cease, he said, during National Brotherhood Week which, happily, only lasted seven days.

He also wowed his audience with his song on "Pollution" which is a take-off on Americans traveling abroad and not being able to drink the water. To the people coming to America, he said, "There are just two things of which you must beware—don't drink the water and don't breathe the air."

Later, says the song, "The city streets are really quite a thrill if the hoods don't get you the monoxide will." He couldn't have picked a better time to sing that number. If men in Congress can't do something about pollution, who can?

At the Regan party for Dirksen Ev revealed that he had received a telephone message from President Johnson on his 70th birthday which fell on January 4th, inviting him down to the ranch to celebrate.

Said Ev, "He called me on Sunday night. He knew I was coming to Texas. 'What are you going to do here?' he asked. Well, I said, 'I have to brush you off a little and brush off the Great Society.'"

"I thought you were my friend," replied the President. "You have no better friend in the United States," said Dirksen, "because my mission in life is to save you from yourself."

WHEN THE CHUCKLES subsided Dirksen continued quoting Johnson: "You come and I will give you a bull calf." Years ago you promised me a bull calf," the senator reminded him, suggesting that he have it butchered and cut up and sent to him instead.

Then he likened his life to the seven ages of men as quoted from Shakespeare's "As You Like It." When he got to the last stage which the bard described as "sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything," he said "Here's where poor old Shakespeare goes off the deep end." He had all his teeth and his eyesight, said the Senator and as for his taste, "Old Shakespeare didn't know what a connoisseur of bourbon I am. In fact," said the GOP Senate leader, "I've got everything."

Dirksen came to the Regan party for Dirksen and you could tell he had that inner excitement of a man running for high office, coupled with the unbridled look of a man who is doing very well out of office. Asked if he was running for president, he replied with a smile:

"For what organization?"

He kidded Rep. Mel Laird of Wisconsin on the rumor of throwing his support to George Romney in the next presidential election as reported by a columnist. Laird told Nixon that the whole thing was simply based on the fact that he thought Romney in getting re-elected as governor of Michigan would swing in two or three new Republican Congressmen.

The former vice president and obvious presidential candidate for 1968 said that his youngest daughter Julie has been accepted in advance for Smith College. He had wanted her to go to a coeducational school, but Illinois Rep. Les Ahrens convinced him that he had felt the same way until his daughter went to Smith and now he was all for the girl's college.

TELEVISION, especially color television, is missing a good bet when it televises such special occasions as the President's State of the Union message. Except for the President himself and the First Lady (and Luci, too, the other night) sitting in the front row of the Executive Gallery, the cameras rarely take in anyone else. Yet the galleries are full of famous names in government, wives of the men who have the power.

The other night when Johnson addressed the Congress and the nation, viewers could have had the fun of watching the expressions of the faces of Mrs. Edward Kennedy, who was in a sleeveless yellow wool dress highlighted by a handsome diamond pin, seated by the wife of Sen. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island. Nuala in a sleeveless white dinner dress, also highlighted with jewelry.

They could also have seen all of Mrs. Johnson's guests. Mrs. Averell Harriman in an aquamarine dinner suit, Mrs. Albert Lasker in light blue, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Taylor (he's Lady Bird's brother), Mrs. Arthur Goldberg with a chic new hairdo and in a slim gun metal coat dress, looking much more fashionable since her stay in New York; and Marjorie Humphrey in a sapphire blue silk dinner suit, sitting alone in the seat reserved for the Vice President's wife.

There were all the others too that people read about. Mrs. Nicholas Katzenbach in white with her high hairdo; Mrs. Jack Vincent in white seated on the stairs with another presidential assistant's wife, Mrs. Marvin Watson; etc. In the diplomatic gallery, talking like mad among themselves, the cameras could have identified the Marquessa de Merry del Val in a blue and silver dinner suit, chatting with the Kuwait Ambassador, Mrs. Al-Ghoussein, while in back of them glamorous-looking Pepita Tejera-Paris in a blue and silver brocade suit (blue and silver must be in the mode), wife of the Venezuelan Ambassador, was sitting between Lady Dean of Great Britain and Sen. Birch Bayh's wife Marvella.

Not all those women were in the same gallery. The Executive gallery, which is relegated to the President's family and wives of the executive heads, was jammed to the teeth. It only has 26 seats in it and when you add up the 6 allocated to the President's wife and friends, one to the Vice President's wife, 10 to cabinet wives and 9 to the Supreme Court, the only room left is the stairs, and that's where some of the First Lady's guests, including Luci's fiancé Pat Nugent, had to sit.

With the creation of the new Department of Housing and Urban Development another seat has to be provided, even if it means moving the trunk that separate the section reserved for the executive branch from those reserved for the Congress.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON may not know it, but according to a few observers, at least, he vastly improved his image when he wore his glasses during his State of the Union address. Said one woman who brought up the subject, "His face looked less gaunt and his eyes softer. Contact lenses somehow are not so flattering to him."

Said another woman, "Glasses gave him a wise, fatherly image." This may not only improve the presidential image, but think what it can do for the spectacle business.

Lyndon Johnson may have to start worrying more and more about his image. Anybody who has studied the impact of Johnson, must recognize the immeasurable importance of the presidential image.

Americans, as well as people everywhere, want their leaders to give as elegant an impression before the public as possible. The only time Harry Truman was criticized for his own conduct was when he stepped down from his otherwise proper presidential hearing to "give 'em hell" or to blow up over the music critic who wrote unfavorably of Margaret's voice.

The idea that Americans want royalty is for the birds. Americans simply want royal bearing in the top positions. It's impressive. It adds dignity to the office, to every word pronounced, every gesture made, every deed done.

Johnson being a long, lanky man has a habit of curling up in a chair and holding onto his ankle. When he does this on a podium or in a box where he can be seen, it detracts from his presidential posture.

Is it important when it comes to running the country? No. But it is such little things as this that can detract from the picture people want to perpetuate in office.

AROUND THE TOWN: Mrs. Lyndon Johnson is on the cover of the new issue of Coronet and a story inside says what we women of the press think of her. She needn't be afraid to read it. Hedda Hopper came to town the other day for a dinner party given by Marjorie Post and for a visit to the Zoo to see the white tiger Mohini. One of Mohini's expected cubs is going to the L.A. Zoo. The Zoo's police was so pleased at seeing the much-hatted Hedda, who was wearing a handsome black velvet, broad-brimmed chapeau that day, that her car and chauffeur were permitted to drive up to the tiger house to pick her up, a permission not usually accorded a Zoo visitor.

TULIA ENGINEER SAYS: War Delays Rural Electric Lines Progress In Viet Nam

By MARIE HARRIS Avalanche-Journal Correspondent

TULIA—"Progress of the rural electric program in South Viet Nam is slow due to the war," states Vesta Orr, engineer of the Swisher Electric Cooperative here, who recently spent 90 days supervising field engineering for the establishment of the first rural electric cooperatives in the spotlighted Asian country. "Logistic problems are tremendous," continued Orr, who returned to the States in October. He explained that the military services will get their supplies before the electric projects do, thus causing delay. The development of the entire program depends on the war effort. "You just can't go out and build lines where they are fighting, beside you," commented the engineer.

As most of the Vietnamese who are physically and mentally fit are now fighting, few are left to man the projects, Orr said. Local labor is to be used as much as possible to construct, operate, and maintain the cooperatives. A two-year training program is being set up for the projects' personnel. John A. Symons of the Midwest Electric Cooperative, Roby, Tex., has been in Viet Nam the past two months working with the management level.

But when Orr stated that it is a foregone conclusion that three cooperatives will be constructed, but that it is difficult to pin down the exact time. They are located in the three most secure areas in Viet Nam, a country where no perfect security exists anywhere. "No one has been willing to replace Orr in the engineering aspect."

Electrification is an effort that the rural people can visibly see will be of benefit to them. "They are excited and enthused," continued Orr. The Vietnamese are hard working, industrious, and this will give them more opportunities to develop their country which is very rich in natural resources. Orr's location in the A S I A N country reminded him of Colorado. The temperature was never lower than 45 or higher than 80 degrees. He was there during the rainy season, he said.

Not In Danger—Vesta Orr did not consider himself in any particular danger while in Viet Nam, he never felt secure, but about 10 days after arrival was more relaxed. While in Saigon, he could hear the bombing at least four nights a week.

Transportation provided one of the greatest problems for the visitors, as air travel is the only safe form, and a limited number of planes are available. Time was another element as a round trip to the 700 miles out of Saigon often takes two to three days. Engineers in Viet Nam cannot travel by road with any degree of safety, except right in around a four or five mile radius of Saigon. Trucks, buses, or auto travelers are stopped by the Viet Cong and held, taxed, and sometimes killed. Since Orr left home he had about 10 blocks from where he had been staying.

The Vietnamese people with which Orr talked and assisted had no doubt they confided, but what they would win the battle against the communists and maintain their independence. Too pre-occupied with trying to ease out a meager existence, and accustomed to living in danger, many of the people are not inclined to worry about the situation. There is only safety, for the one man very far from danger, Orr said. The mountain people, who are less educated and less prosperous than those of the lowlands, especially hate the Viet Cong.

"In high spirits, the U. S. troops also believe that they are going to win the conflict," said Orr.

Fleeting Moments Of Courage, Hours Of Boredom Fill Paratrooper's Day

By CAPT. RICHARD D. CHEGAR
Written for The Associated Press

BIEN HOA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Behind the terse reports of "American paratroopers" and their operations, there are countless stories and incidents.

Each day is filled with fleeting moments of courage, and hours of boredom and routine that push men through the good, the bad, the pleasures, the hardships, the moments of truth that are found only in war.

Life is intense and real for the American "sky soldiers" who came to Viet Nam after being weaned on the jungles of the Philippines, the rice paddies of Taiwan and the cold mountains of Korea.

Beneath the uniformity of the drab jungle fatigues is a cross-section of our nation.

Heaviest Load
The heaviest load is upon the young enlisted man, his experience in life not yet really begun. Still in his teens or barely out of them, he has become old in many ways in Viet Nam.

You only have to glance at the little fellow and you automatically wonder how he ever got to be a paratrooper. There he stands, clutching a mortar base plate — the heaviest piece of equipment around — waiting for the column to push on again.

No complaints from him, only a laugh and a retort to a buddy who is razzing him about his size.

He has to dig the deep holes that offer him protection, only to fill them up when he moves on. He has no idle time, with weapons to be cleaned and oiled over and over again under the relentless humidity and rain.

Night offers only hours of mental alertness, listening and watching for an enemy who claims the night as his own.

Someone said that the thing that makes a man jump from an airplane also makes him wear a neater uniform, try a little harder and carry a heavier load.

C-Ration Diet
Part of his load are "C" rations, surely the most constant aspect of his day. There are only 12 different meals, and no one likes them all. The question inevitably arises as to why someone can't add at least 12 new meals. There is no doubt that those C rations keep you going, it's just that sometimes you think there must be a better way to go.

Then there is the heat. At times it feels the sun is going to burn the shirt off your back. It probably would if it wasn't for the sweat that pours out of your body. Relentless it is, the strength-sapping heat is part of every day. Southeast Asian sun literally beats a man to his knees.

The rain brings water to the streams, life-giving water. It also brings the leeches, fattening themselves on your blood. A lighted cigarette end, or a dab of insect repellent will get their bloated bodies off you. Even in the dry season wet feet are a way of life. Is everyone going to go home with web feet?

It isn't enough to tell a young soldier what he must do. He must be shown. That is the sergeant's job. Responses other than instant too often result in the one commodity an NCO cannot afford — casualties. Success is also measured in that simple word.

As the day grew late in the hot, frustrating patrol, and spirits were sagging, the experienced sergeant came into his own. He knew his men, which one to chew out, which one to give a brief word of encouragement, a reminder to a man who had lost a careless buddy, a mention of food to another. Up and down his squad he went, his strength reaching out to each man until they looked like a fresh patrol just starting out.

The tell-tale radio antennae of command and control appear, and with them is always an officer, sending orders or waiting for them. He is the brain behind the tactics — young lieutenants who have trained, trained and trained again for this guerrilla warfare, tough company commanders who knew what to do with 180 men deep in Viet Cong territory, and the "colonel," the man behind it all, the man who directs his columns to find and kill the enemy.

These are the men who lead their paratroopers. It makes no difference whether they come from the officer candidate schools, from the colleges, or from West Point, they are all professional soldiers and this environment is the test of their profession.

Bristling With Enemy
There was the battle. A hill bristling with the enemy and the lean, bearded company commander said to flank the position.

One squad moved across the stream, and then another. The fire danced around the big Georgia-bred platoon commander as he zig-zagged. Paratroopers, his paratroopers, were hit and went down. But they went on in the exploding steel and flying shrapnel.

One by one the platoon reached the enemy trenches. Some awfully good paratroopers died on that hill, but those who did, did so assaulting an enemy they were determined to destroy. Paratroopers die, but they are never beaten.

The colonel later walked among the wounded, thanking them. One paratrooper, wounded in the face, was unable to talk. The colonel spoke to him and told him not to reply. And yet, as the colonel got up to leave, the trooper made a great effort and mouthed the word "airborne." For their colonel they will walk into the face of death.

Briefly Forgotten
Back at base, the sounds of war, the sun, the leeches, are forgotten briefly. The stories are told, but detached somehow, about the battles. But soon they must go out again.

Why are they paratroopers? Why do they volunteer? Deep within each man are the restless urgings that prompt him to step forward when the sounds of guns are heard. To some, the patriot's cry is a reason for scorn. But to us, there has never been a more noble sound.

It is answered by men from every walk of life, from every corner of our land, but the cry has always been answered and always will.

We risk our lives not for medals, praise or glory. We risk life for life itself.

VISITED DR. SCHWEITZER

For Susan Hampshire, Life Is A Series Of Adventures

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Susan Hampshire, of the Yorkshire Hampshires, couldn't get into the Polo Lounge of the Beverly Hills hotel because she was wearing slacks. The slacks were part of a Dior outfit—slacks and jacket of pony skin—and about as stunning as sports clothes can be.

"I was wearing this same outfit in New York," she said. "And I wanted to go into '21.' They said no, no slacks allowed. I said, 'But these are my Dior.' So the matron said, 'Well, in that case, go right in.'"

Life is just a series of adventures for Susan Hampshire. Maybe it's because she's so beautiful—tall, blonde, brown eyes set at a provocative tilt. Maybe it's because she's a talented actress—she was the witch in Walt Disney's "Thomasina" and you'll see her soon in Disney's "The Fighting Prince of Donegal" and opposite Charles Aznavour in "Paris in August." But most likely it's because she's a girl with an admitted emotional, rather than intellectual, approach to life. She was never very good in school, she says, and one teacher told her that, if she wanted to be loved, she'd have to do something about it.

Decided On Career
She did. She decided in her childish years, that movie stars are generally loved, so she would become a movie star.

And eventually that is exactly what she became. But there have been times when she wasn't sure if that was what she really ought to be doing. "There was the nagging thought," she says, "that actors are kind of tacky, always thinking about themselves and about how much money they are making and things like that."

The last time that worry assailed her was last spring. At the time, she was on a plane en route to Argentina, and she picked up a magazine and read an article about Dr. Albert Schweitzer. On the spur of the thought, she decided to go to Lambarene, in Africa, and ask Dr. Schweitzer what he thought she should do.

And so she went to Africa. She says the good doctor was very hospitable. "We ate our meals together for two weeks," she says, "but she won't say what they talked about."

At his compound, she met a man, half-Greek and half-Negro, who helped her make her decision. Because of his color, he was very unhappy, feeling that he fit into neither world.

He said the greatest pleasure he got in life, she says, "came from movies. And I realized actors, in helping people escape from their unhappiness, even momentarily, are contributing something."

She wants to contribute something more, however. On another plane, she sat next to a woman who was connected with a school in Ikwowa, Nigeria. There, she says, children get no education, unless the money comes from outside the country.

So much of her income goes to the school in Ikwowa, she can pay for a child's education for a year for two pounds, 12 shillings (about $7) and for another 14 shillings (about $1.50) for his school clothes and books. As for herself, her ambitions are limited. "To live in Hollywood with the man I love and have five children and be the best actress in the world and make some smashing picture every year."

Five, though, there are more adventures to have. This coming spring, if she can get a month between pictures, she has an adventure planned, she's going to ride the Trans-Siberian railroad.

Young Comic Talent Very Hard To Find
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—The men who put together Art Linkletter's new Talent Scouts show have this to say about the talent they audition.

There are plenty of talented young singers and dancers around, but very few young comic talents. Almost any hopeful comedian will get a shot on the show.

Wife Steals Act Under Hypnosis

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cine-columbia's Bob Newhart recently took his wife to Gimmie and to see Fat Collins, the top hypnotist. Miss Collins tried to get Newhart to hypnotize her, but she refused. But his wife went on.

The hypnotist put Mrs. Newhart under and then told her she was Bob Newhart in front of an audience.

"I sat there stunned," says Newhart. "My wife did my retirement party, sat in her perfume, even to my gestures that I always do."

"She was so sure of it that I was glad I married her. I shudder to think what would happen if she would hypnotize some young guy. A fellow could lose his act in a hurry."

Sinatra Says There's Nothing Like Publicity

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There's nothing like publicity. Ask Frank Sinatra. December was the month of Frank's 50th birthday. Television, newspapers, magazines, radio and all media gave him a big sendoff.

Result: $9 millions worth of record sales for the month. Trade sources reported it is the largest single such sale of its kind in history.

"Even some of the stuff I recorded with Tommy Dorsey back before the war started selling all of a sudden. It's incredible," says Frank.

UNFORSEEN PROBLEM HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—There are always unforeseen problems in making a movie. A scene in "The Swinger" called for an overflowing bathtub. They used water from the city system—but it was so dirty it couldn't be photographed. They had to install a filtering system just for that one shot.

Result: $9 millions worth of record sales for the month. Trade sources reported it is the largest single such sale of its kind in history.

Phone Company To Merge Area Offices

BROWNFIELD (Special)—Jim Fowler, district manager for General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, has announced that headquarters for Lamesa, Levelland and Post offices will be centralized here.

The changeover is effective Jan. 31, he said. The move by the telephone company is expected to result in a $20,000 annual boost to the economy of Brownfield, it was said.

POSTAL SERVICE WOBBLING THROUGH REVOLUTION

Mail Service, Or Lack Of It, Whips Up Controversy

By ARTHUR EDSON
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Few other issues in this time of flaming controversies — Viet Nam, the war on poverty, civil rights — whip up as many conflicting opinions as these simple questions:
 Do you think the mail service is getting better? Worse? Or do you believe it is plain lousy?
 Why?
 Pass As Experts
 There are a few people still around who don't fancy themselves military experts or well-forged economists or human relations counselors. But since all they receive or send mail, here they are, experts, with a research laboratory no farther away than their own mail boxes.
 This is an apt time to examine the Post Office Department.
 It's struggling, or wobbling, through the biggest revolution in its history. It has turned to new sectional centers for separating mail, to new-fangled ideas like ZIP codes, to dizzying advances in mechanization, including machines to scan and sort these ZIP codes, to new philosophies on how the mail should be handled.
 Every announcement and interview, from the new postmaster general, Lawrence F. O'Brien, down, bubbles with excitement over goodies to come.
 Most people aren't so much concerned with what service will be like two, three, 10 years from now as they are with what happened to last month's check.
 And why did Aunt Mildred's package arrive looking as if it had been mauled by a wrecking crew?
 Also Puzzled
 The former postmaster general John A. Gronouski, now ambassador to Poland, once admitted to Congress that he was puzzled by this sort of thing.
 "I was particularly impressed one day," Gronouski said, "when the chief inspector brought a package of documents that were well-packaged but were pretty well-damaged."
 Judging from complaints flooding in, some congressional men say their mail gripes run as deep as the post office's mail service.
 "I know it's feeling better than the House," said one.
 "We can send our way to the moon and meet that schedule precisely, we should be able to move our mail 50 miles overnight."
 Bitter Critics
 Listen to the bitter critics: Jerome Keating, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers when asked about mail service said, "It's the worst I've ever seen and I've been associated with the Letter Carriers for 42 years."
 James A. Farley, insists service has skidded downhill since he was postmaster general under Franklin D. Roosevelt, and also insists he knows why.
 "Times have changed and the employees today are not as dedicated as they were then."
 Patrick J. Nilan, legislative director of the United Federation of Postal Clerks, hotly denies Farley's contentions. Employees are not demoralized as ever he claims, it's just that the Post Office, whether run by Democrats or Republicans, has forgotten about "service."
 "We feel the deterioration has been going on more than 10 years," Nilan said.
 Any list of mail delays, airtight or not, can be endless.
 Failed To Arrive
 An Illinois bank mailed out its monthly statements, most of them within the city, on Aug. 25. It is still failed to arrive. Slightly all the missing statements were delivered on Aug. 28.
 An affidavit of an Atlanta publisher has said:
 "One thing we've found out is that sending any mail special delivery slips at up regular mail is simply quicker."
 An Omaha man complained it took several days for a letter to come from Lincoln, Neb., a 40-minute drive.
 "There was it kept," he asked, "And why?"

 Yet postmasters in large cities maintain things are going smoothly.
 And a top postal official here contends that any amount of mail irregularities is inevitably a distortion.
 "The guy who gets what he wants," he says, "isn't going to thank you for it, particularly if it's the government."
 The problem, of course, is this: What is good service?
 One Measure
 It won't please everyone, but postal officials have one measure of good service. They figure that air and first-class mail sent within a state should be delivered by the next day, no small item, since two-thirds of all mail never leaves the state in which it originates.
 Recent tests in states where criticism has been strongest show that in South Dakota 99.19 per cent of the mail got there the next day. With North Dakota at 99.12 per cent, Iowa 98.42 and Minnesota 98.25.
 Impressive? certainly.
 But as William J. Hartigan, assistant postmaster general who supplied these figures, points out: "It doesn't dazzle you if you happen to be in the two per cent that didn't get there."
 If you assume the Post Office is 98 per cent pure in meeting a reasonable schedule for its mail, whatever the class, you still come up with a staggering statistic.
 With 72 billion pieces of mail sent each year, this would mean that 144 million letters, packages or junk mail were tardy or lost.

NEEDS CHANGE OF PACE Mitzi Gaynor Looking For Roles As Villain

By JAMES BACON
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mitzi Gaynor, star of many comedies and musicals, is looking now for roles with a little bit of villainy in them.
 "Like Sandy Koufax," says Mitzi, "an actress needs a change of pace."
 She and her husband Jack Bean, have optioned some properties that may give moviegoers a new Mitzi Gaynor.
 "I can get mean and nasty," she says. "Ask my husband."
 Mitzi and Bean have been married 11 years in what the fan magazines like to call an ideal Hollywood marriage.
 "We have lots of fights but they never last," she adds.
 "Whenever I get mad my husband just laughs at me. The more he laughs the madder I get, and then I start laughing. Then we kiss and make up."
 Mitzi, one of the highest-paid night club performers, is now producing a new act which she may introduce in some club in the hinterlands before taking it to Las Vegas.
 Her last act, which played The Flamingo in the Nevada resort, was so successful that the hotel gave her two points. In Las Vegas parlance, that means she gets two per cent of the hotel and casino gross. Only other stars to rate that treatment are Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin at The Sands.
Gary Lewis
 Lauds Parents
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gary Lewis, Jerry's rock 'n' roll son, says his parents have been a big help to his booming career. His mother, Patry, is his manager. Patry's secretary handles all of Jerry's correspondence. "I got a check," Gary says, "a big hand comes down and grabs it—my mom's."
 As for Jerry, he has helped with encouragement, advice and an assist at the start in getting Gary a spot on Ed Sullivan's show.
 "But says Gary, 'I put his foot down when I said that I might like to let my hair grow long.'"
NO BARGAIN
 DALLAS (UPI)—A woman complained to the Better Business Bureau that the 108 pairs of hose she bought from a bargain-offering door-to-door salesman all had holes in the heels, runs and were not matched for size.

1966 Labor Battle He Has Low Opinion Likely In Hollywood Of Way Star Dresses

ON CBS, KFYO: TABERNACLE CHOIR PRESENTED

Texas Politics Will Be Discussed By Senator During Tuesday Interview

AN OLD TEXAS saying goes: "There ain't no horse that can't be rode and there ain't no rider that can't be thrown." It's a saying that can't be thrown, and it's a saying that is being put to the test today by the CBS Radio-Avalanche network and its Lubbock affiliate, KFYO.

Yarborough will be interviewed by hard-hitting news correspondent Mike Wallace Tuesday on "Personal Close Up," the program broadcast at 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

Labor Democrat Yarborough will discuss the volatile political picture that is Texas, when he is interviewed by Wallace.

Guests on the Wallace program this week include actor Mickey Rooney on Monday, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey on Tuesday, physical expert Debbie Drake on Wednesday, Governor John Connally on Thursday, and opera star Robert Merrill on Friday.

Tabernacle Choir Performance
Beginning Tuesday, the 150-member choir will perform at 7:30 p.m. on the CBS Radio-Avalanche network and its Lubbock affiliate, KFYO.

While Abigail Van Buren has been busy with the "Dear Abby" column, she has also been busy with her radio show.

be treated to another edition of "Opera News on the Air" with four Mozart authorities participating in a roundtable discussion about Mozart, answering questions submitted by the radio audience.

In "Don Giovanni" Mozart composed some of the finest operatic music ever written. Its melodic two acts contain such favorites as the duet between the Don and Zerlina, "La cenerentola," "Or sai chi l'onore," Zerlina's ingratiating "Batti, batti o bel Masetto," the Don's tumbel "Serenata," "Don Ottavio's aria, "Il mio tesoro intanto," and many more.

The original production of "Don Giovanni" in Prague in 1787 bore the impressive title, "Il Dissoluto punito, ossia il Don Giovanni." (The Debauchee Punished, or Don Juan) to distinguish it from earlier treatments of the Don Juan legend.

This one by Mozart was an instant success. The story was originally treated by Gabriel Tellez in a dramatic play dating from 1690. This is the main source for the libretto that Lorenzo Da Ponte fashioned for Mozart's masterpiece.

It is a German novelist and playwright, did retain his faith and he did endure. And now he tells his story in the National Educational Television's "New Eye Tag," Only One Day at 9 p.m. Monday on KTXB-TV, Channel 5.

Schuman Featured
William Schuman, one of America's foremost composers and winner of the first Pulitzer Prize ever given in music, is featured in this week's "Creative Person" at 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Besides being a prolific composer, his output includes operas, concertos, ballets, chamber music, a baseball opera titled "The Mighty Casey," and eight symphonies. He is also a distinguished educator and administrator. He served for 17 years as president of the Juilliard School of Music and in 1962 became president of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, a position he still fills.

A PROVOCATIVE examination of why some underdeveloped nations walk a political tightrope of non-alignment in the East-West cold war is documented by NET at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

"Changing World: Tanzania. The Quiet Revolution" is an up-to-date report on this African nation which refuses to become a satellite for either the United States or Red China. The program focuses on the millions of dollars being poured into this developing nation not only by America and its allies, but by the Russians, Red Chinese, and East Germans.

Takes Himself Apart
Albert Finney, already a star of both British stage and screen by the age of 25, takes himself apart in an interview with the BBC's Finney on "Conversations," 8 p.m. Thursday.

Finney was born in Salford, Lancashire, in 1936 and studied for the stage at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. Some of his main stage performances in his varied acting career have been the titles "Billy Liar" and "Father." In film, he is best known for his performance in "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning" and "Tom Jones."

National Educational Television in association with the Finnish Broadcasting Company, to celebrate the centennial of the birth of the great Finnish composer Jean Sibelius, is presenting a 90-minute special, "Sibelius: A Symphony for Finland" at 9 p.m. Friday.

This unique documentary on Sibelius the man, the composer, and the spirit of Finland, can be described as a "symphony" of his life. It is in a four-part symphonic form — "Prologue," "Fulfillment," "Reflections on the Seventh Symphony" and "Epilogue" — each part a separate entity, with a separate theme, and in a different style.

All the parts together form a composite, penetrating study of the life and career of the great man, at the same time telling the story of an exciting period in Finnish history — from the "Hunger Years" under Russian rule to independent nationhood and which Sibelius' personal and musical life was inextricably bound.

Imprisoned Man's Faith Recounted

THOUGH GUNTHER R. Lys spent 4 1/2 years in a German concentration camp, he now remembers his ordeal as something that had to be lived one day at a time.

"I had to be sure in your heart that all this must end some day," he said. "You had to be around to see an end to the Nazi regime, to see a new world. If you lost this belief, you became pessimistic, then you were lost."

Lys, a German novelist and playwright, did retain his faith and he did endure. And now he tells his story in the National Educational Television's "New Eye Tag," Only One Day at 9 p.m. Monday on KTXB-TV, Channel 5.

Letters to the Editor

OFF BEATEN TRAILS: The Crash At 'Crush'

By ED BYERS
ALONGSIDE OUR granddaddies, we nowadays aficionados of automobile-careening-flipping-wrecking "Hell Drivers" actually get our thrills watered down. Texas' all time wreck-spectacular is claimed by the Katy Railroad, near Waco and century's turn.

Tyler writer Arthur Bishop recalls his piece some years ago on what happened a fall afternoon, 1896, on an M.K.&T. siding near West, between Waco and Hillsboro: a specially-staged locomotive head-on.

"The 'Great Train Wreck' was widely advertised," Bishop recalls from his story. "The railroad advised that excursion trains would be run to the scene from Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco and other points north and south.

"There was no town where it happened. Just a siding called 'Crush' in honor of William Crush, M.K.&T. passenger agent (with whom the idea repeatedly originated).

"Come the big day. Excursion trains were packed. Arriving at the point of impending collision, people were unloaded on either side of the place and taken about a mile back to avoid being injured by flying metal.

"AT THE APPOINTED hour, the selected engines (ready for junking by the road) with an engineer at the throttle of each, slowly puffed toward one another. Then as they gained speed, the engines opened the throttles wide and jumped to the ground.

"By the time the two engines crashed, they had gained a speed of 60 miles an hour. Like two giant monsters bent on combat, the engines at last crashed with a roar like a great explosion. Rearing up momentarily then falling to the ground, they were enveloped in flame and smoke and turned into a shambles.

FOR THE 1964 Texas Cattleman, Laura Smalley Davis described the two 5-ton, polyethylene-stacked locomotives: 1001's bright red train and 991's green, each with six box cars. Some 40,000 covered the valley's low hillsides as, for 10 minutes, the trains crawled, gathered speed and finally hurled toward collision.

Despite precaution, there were injuries in the terrific explosion. Flying fragments shrapnelled the area, far as a half-mile distant "Crush" with its refreshment-restaurant tent, its sidewalks, lemonade stands, temporary wooden jail and 200 special constables, was a one-day town.

BUT PUBLICITY headlines raced over the nation. "The word 'Katy,'" says Laura Davis, "begon't be mentioned more than the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad."

And alert chronicler Bishop notes that OBT, hunting the story, mis-hit a 99 instead of '96. Aylsworth for adding 27 years to some who held your breath with the Crash crash.

GUEST EDITORIALS:
Robots Of The Soil
A PRESS release hitting our editorial desks refers to farmers as "robots of the soil." It was not intended to be uncomplimentary. The point was being made that farmers nowadays... that is, what is left of them... have an easier time than their grandfathers did because of cotton pickers, combine harvesters, milking machines, combines and of course plows with umbrellas. They neglected to mention extinction of the mule.

But the farmer has other troubles. Government planners won't leave him alone. He must spend half his time filling out forms. Labor regulators are trying to make him pay a cotton chopper as much as an airplane mechanic gets.

When it rains, it rains too much, when the sun shines in August, it shines too hot. When the bugs come for a visit, they eat everything in sight and stay longer than their invitations specified. The hail that inflicts only minor damage to a restaurant in town for some unknown reason becomes as big as hen eggs as it pelts the farmer's row crops. When a freeze comes it manages to hit just as the fruit trees are budding.

It is no wonder that so many "robots" of the soil give up the ghost and go to town. It is true that mechanization has helped and that the eccentricities of the mule are history. But in their place are the government bureaucrat, higher taxes and the same Old Man Weather, who is always doing what he's not supposed to do. (Dallas Morning News)

TRASH PURVEYORS AT WORK

Litter Threatens Minds Of Us All

IN EVERY CITY there are signs challenging the careless who litter the highways and scatter trash. It is a worthy campaign.

It calls for a parallel campaign—one to eliminate as much as possible the "trash" with which its purveyors attempt to litter the minds of us all.

A recent comment by an ardent underscores the dilemma. "In the objects soon to be mass produced for our country's swelling masses, it all collapses into fatality and superficial sensuousness, the triumphal progress of trash begins."

Just now, there is widespread awareness of the threat posed to the landscape by the accumulating wastes of our industrial civilization. An effort is underway to remove the trash and clean up the countryside, restoring it to its natural beauty. There is hope that the effort will succeed.

But is physical litter the only type of trash which is threatening our nation's beauty?

One would have to be naive, indeed, to say that it is.

Our literature, our art, our entertainment, all are afflicted by a type of litter which partially destroys their usefulness.

Much of our literature has become a torrent of incoherence. There are "popular" fiction writers who seem to vie with one another to see who can best succeed at shock.

It's The Present
SOMEONE HAS pointed out that when people talk about "the good old days," they usually have in mind a period so far back in the past that they can't remember too much about it.

Likewise, when old-fashioned opera talk about "the wonderful future," they usually set the dates far ahead that they can't possibly be expected to be called on the carpet if what they predict doesn't happen.

A retreat into the past, which is gone, or a venture into the future, which hasn't arrived, can give a lot of satisfaction to the person who does it. It is a way to do about the present, which is very much with us.

RAY CROMLEY:
Asian Reds Finding Atheism Hard To Sell As Way Of Life

WASHINGTON. A formal declaration of atheism in the Soviet Union has been passed by the Supreme Soviet.

Yet it was announced that 140,000 Soviet Central Asian Communist party leaders and 100,000 party members had signed the declaration.

Information coming out of the conference shows that Russian Communist atheism is a success, with only a few religious believers remaining in the vast reaches of Soviet Central Asia despite the best efforts of the government's atheist propagandists.

THE SEMINAR was held in a room in the central hall of the city.

The conference delegates considered the work of the atheist propagandists, the results of their work in the field of atheism, the conference was a success, leading to a winning over the religious to atheism.

The delegates were very satisfied with the results of the atheist propaganda work, the atheist propagandists were very satisfied with the results of their work, the atheist propagandists were very satisfied with the results of their work.

THEY DID SEE a few bright spots, they said. As an example of how things should be done, the delegates mentioned Yangiul in Uzbekistan where, at least, the work was being done in a clean, simple, and at several agitation centers.

These energetic atheist propaganda squads of the ing their readers by the use of obscenity. Modern art, like modern poetry, has become largely a playground of faddists. They appear to be more interested in hiding the meanings of their creations in obscurity than in making them intelligible to those with whom they claim to be seeking to communicate.

As for our entertainment, much of it is pure trash—the essence of mediocrity. It has been claimed that the planners of entertainment programs aim them at the intellect of the twelve-year-old—and it is not hard for one who follows these programs to believe the statement.

With the trend toward mediocrity so much in evidence, it is not surprising that moral standards have declined and thinking has taken on such a pattern of confusion that many of our people do not know what they believe nor why.

We may clean up our countryside and restore it to its former beauty. But can America ever achieve the heights of greatness of which it is capable unless we also sweep away the trash which so litters our minds today?

Golda Meir's Step

IN THIS youth-worshipping age, it isn't often that we read of a political officeholder in any country who will admit that he or she is growing old and is willing to step down and let someone else take over.

But Mrs. Golda Meir, who has resigned as Israel's Foreign Minister after serving in that post for nine years, is such a person. Mrs. Meir says she expects to remain active in politics, but in less demanding positions.

Asked why she is leaving the Cabinet, Mrs. Meir said, "One should step down before other people say, 'It's time to step down.' It's a truth we should all face: one doesn't become younger with age."

It's something officeholders who try to hold on longer than they should, and other persons who seek to preserve the illusion that they still are young, even when aging should think about.

SEAGRAVES MAN SUPPORTS Unions, Transit Strike
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: In regard to the article about the New York transit strike, I would like to give you some of my ideas.

As far as the New York Herald Tribune is concerned, all they wanted to do was to make the strike look bad toward the unions by printing the criticism from far and wide that the union had no right to strike. They did not mention how many letters they had starting the same day, but they did not print them.

Personally, I don't know whether they had a right or not to do this. I don't know how their working conditions are. I don't know how their pay is. I don't know how their retirement is. I don't know how their health is.

You make it sound as if one of two union leaders called this strike. The membership votes on whether to call a strike. You also make it sound as if the union leaders had the money. A union is run by the membership. Nothing can be done without a majority vote.

As far as I'm concerned, it seems to me it would be a fair thing that could happen to the working man. Mike Quill stated that IHB would be a fair deal for the workers. He would be a fair deal for the workers. He would be a fair deal for the workers.

As far as the working state's freedom is concerned with a drunk you'll find out one day how the unions move into Lubbock. Lubbock is now the most underpaid city in Texas because there are no unions there yet.

Record On NCC Offered By Brounfield Reader
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: The Federal Council of Churches was organized in 1908. By the middle thirties, it was so heavily infiltrated by Communists that the office of New York Intellectuals founded it a subversive group. (Long Beach Herald, March 1, 1961, p. 1).

In 1960, the Communist infiltration in the world was so apparent that the organization was disbanded and changed its name to the National Council of Churches with the announcement that all the work of the Federal Council would continue under the new name. (Congress Record, March 1, 1961, p. 1).

In the formal constitution of the NCC in Cleveland of the 29 signers of the official book representing the 29 affiliated Protestant denominations. It possessed public records of affiliation with pro-Communist organizations. Of the 28 voting delegates to the convention, 12 of the clergymen, or 43%, had affiliations with Communist anti-Christ groups, from files of J. B. Matthews, Chief investigator for the Dies and McCarthy Committees. J. B. Matthews has records to prove that over 8,000 Protestant clergymen have been affiliated with the American Communist apparatus. Today, the NCC represents the hierarchy of 31 cooperating Western and Eastern Orthodox denominations whose total lay membership is estimated at 40 million. (The Tribunal Report, 1960 of the NCC).

A few quotes from a pamphlet written by William Graham Cole and published by the Office of Publication and Distribution of the NCC, 47 Riverside Drive, New York 27, N. Y. and published in 1961 as recommended reading for Christian youth.

"We are asking you to take a look at what the Bible has to say about this whole problem (sex). You may be surprised to discover how much sense this dusty old book makes. For instance, I am sure you think the Bible takes a dim view of sex in general all that jazz about 'Thou shalt not' and anybody who even thinks about sex is already guilty. The fact is, however, that the Bible as a whole is not only strongly in favor of sex, but also surprisingly frank about it. There is no suggestion anywhere that anyone should be celibate."

Herbert Aptheker, director of the American Institute of Marxist Studies, and father of Bettina Aptheker, self-admitted Communist and leader in the University at Berkeley demonstrations, is author of books on the NCC's list which is recommended reading material for church people. (Congress Record April 20, 1960 pp. 7942-6). Herbert Aptheker visited Hanoi only a few days ago against U. S. regulations.

Other leading American Communists who have books that have been approved as good reading for church people by the NCC are: Victor Perlo, the late W. E. B. DuBois, Shirley Graham, Gene Wolfish, Franklin Frazier, and Langston Hughes (Congress Record April 20, 1960 pp. 7842-6). Mrs. Patsy Eakin, 1611 E. Cardwell, Brounfield.

Local Pastor Supports Editor's NCC Position
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: It is to be expected that those who support the National Council of Churches, such as the Rev. Mr. Donald Tiller of Paducah, should seek to defend it. However, there is no defense against the charges which you have made against the political activities of this organization, namely, that the NCC seeks recognition of Red China, abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee, repeal of Section 14-B, supports the disarmament policy and "peaceful co-existence" with Communist aggressors, supports the civil-disobedience demonstrations, lobbies for Federal aid to education and other policies which promote Federal Government control.

The NCC makes itself clear on these issues, therefore your point is well taken in criticizing it for encouraging racial and labor disorders, and using its title to imply falsely that most Christians think as does the NCC.

Whatever good they may take credit for and whatever their claim in the realm of "rights" and "freedom," the NCC comes out on almost every issue in support of the very same things supported by the "Worker", the official paper of the Communist Party in the U.S.A.

But as bad as its political aspirations may be, the greatest sin of the National Council of Churches lies not in this direction, but in its outright blasphemy against God, perjury of the Bible as a revealed message from God, and the attempt to deceive millions of Christians with its new religion.

It is well known that the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, while president of the NCC in 1957, denied the resurrection of Christ as a historic fact. In the International Journal of Religious Education, published by the Division of Christian Education of the NCC, we read "it should be no surprise to discover that the writers of the various parts of the Bible were not always in complete accord in their views about a particular subject." "A statement like the Bible says... is really too imprecise to have much meaning."

Anyone who reads is aware of the so-called "new morality" readily the old immorality, and the rejection of Bible truths by modern religious leaders. These leaders find refuge and fellowship within the bosom of the National Council of Churches. To read a list of leading spokesmen in the NCC is to read leading Whos Who in Atheism.

My objection to the NCC is not only that it falsely claims to speak for 40,000,000 Protestants in support of Communist goals, but that it is training the youth of this country on the basis of an atheistic, Christ-denying, materialistic, and still call it Christianity.

O'Donnell High Student Raps Sports Verbiage
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: I have always enjoyed reading The Avalanche-Journal and have benefited immensely from it. But in your morning edition of Jan. 18, there was a statement in the sports pages I didn't like.

The statement read, "Stanton, the 5-A leader, takes on O'Donnell tonight, while this is a big night for the other four members."

I repeat that I enjoy The Avalanche-Journal, but please from now on use a better choice of words.

I know this has not been exactly a great season for us, but why run us into the ground?

Petersburg Man Replies To Hank Brown's Views
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: I noted in your paper where still another radical element of your so-called Democratic party, more readily recognized by some people as a conglomerate mess of Socialistic pressure groups, had met in San Antonio and had delivered their ultimatum to candidates for the State Senate and House of Representatives, to either support the so-called Safety bill, or suffer the dire effects of not obtaining any support from organized labor.

Hank Brown said that he was going to scream and holler and he did until he accomplished his aim. He said that they intended to end mayhem with their Safety bill.

I wonder if there have been as many laborers injured due to occupational hazards as there have been in the case of the senseless strikes called by these so-called protectors of the rights of the laboring man, not to mention the property damage inflicted by mob action.

I do not believe that the majority of the American people who are against any such pressures as wielded by organized labor and the civil rights groups can continue to refuse to become involved and retain any semblance of freedom as they have known it for controls once employed call for more controls.

Partnership Of War And Politics Is Discussed
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: It seems that every so often our country has had to go to war, or let's put it this way, they send our young men to do it. I can remember some 40 odd years ago as a small boy I watched my two oldest brothers go off to war. Then some 20 years later my youngest brother and myself had the honor of joining the multitude of young men who were going off to fight for our country in World War II.

And it seems like during each war we produce a clan of power hungry politicians which serve a mutually-beneficial relationship.

In the 1920's our country watched them play politics with the Post-World War I boom and the stock market. In the 1930's we watched them play politics with the depression. They played with such things as the Farm program, the WPA, the Old Age Pension, and the slaughtering of livestock. Then comes the 1940's and World War II, during which we watched them play politics with government price controls, rationing, and cost plus contracts on military projects. The new regime in the 1950's didn't seem to mean much of a change, even after Korea, and the demand for a change, even after Korea, and the demand for a change, even after Korea.

Now we inherit the Great Society and the President of All the People. What were all those other Presidents of World War II doing or so? We have Men. I have never seen the War on Poverty, the Job Corps, Medicare, and any other assorted projects that might give them power.

And now we parents of this country are having to watch a few power-hungry politicians play politics with the lives of our sons in a cruel, needless, unmanly, unendured war that has been chosen by this Administration from the beginning as a long haul war.

I am writing this letter because, although I personally don't know of any other solution, I believe that it is the first obligation of the responsible citizens in Washington to find one.

He Defends Fred Bassett Against His Detractor
EDITOR, The Avalanche-Journal: It is not too often that I get worked up enough to write a letter of protest, but there comes a time in everyone's life when they must state their convictions, to speak out for what they feel is right and just.

The proponents of the Birch Society—and their adherents as well—are well represented in this column. Frankly, I just never could get that work going over a top. I like Oaks better anyway.

I note a good number of letters and articles about the birds in your fine paper. Here too, some of the writers are for the birds and some are against. Birds do a lot for the beauty of the country, and if this Lady Bird or Lyndon Bird can help them who am I to complain? Oh well, here too, I find and I am alike are well represented. I will not interfere.

However, to the point I feel it my duty to take up the cause of that poor dog, Fred Bassett. I think of Fred as a delightful addition to your comic section. In my opinion, the writer who suggested old Fred be replaced by a cat and a mouse just plain don't like dogs (Offisa Pup excluded). Got to leave some pertinent fact out to get my point across, you know how these protest letters are got to make the blacks blacker and the whites whiter?

Sir, I nominate Joe Arwine's letter as the most refreshing to appear on these pages in many a moon.

Political oddsmakers predict the sum will rise next Nov. 9 on dates at least one Republican state senator, maybe a Negro woman

Other incumbents without current opposition include: Dist. 1, senator and possibly a senator; the 1st title for Gov. John Connally's brother.

Bitterest battling will center around the four races where

Brooks Has Announced

In Dist. 7, a new district of southeast Harris County, Rep. Chet Brooks, has announced and Rep. John Ray Harrison is considered a possible candidate.

In new Dist. 11 of eastern Harris County, Rep. J. C. Whitfield and Miss Barbara Jordan, a department by replacing a Negro attorney, are considered candidates in the district which books has about 40 per cent Negro population. Former Rep. Clyde Miller is a possible candidate.

In Harris county's third new senatorial district, No. 15 of the west part of the county, Reps. W. H. Miller and Don Garrison are Democratic candidates with Glen Purcell a possible GOP candidate. Another possible Democratic candidate is former state Sen. Bob Baker.

Two Hot Races Seen

Two hot Senate races are building up in Bexar County due to redistricting and the announcement of Sen. Franklin Spears for the attorney general's race. In Dist. 19, the new

When a deputy sheriff Don Rogers resigned recently, Sheriff Heath employed extra office personnel. Hired were Mrs. Juanita Moore, of Denver City, and Mrs. Charlotte Kennedy, of Plains.
