Stenholm to speak at graduation

Commencement exercises for the twenty-two members of the 1984 Robert Lee High School Senior Class will be held in the school auditorium Friday (tonight), May 18, beginning at 8 p.m.

Sheri Ebenstein, class salutatorian, will give the welcome address. The valedictory address will be given by Carrath Metcalf.

Congressman Charles Stenholm, U.S. Representative of the 17th Congressional District, will deliver the commencement address for the seniors.

Stenholm was reared on a family cotton and stockfarm near Stamford, Texas. He graduated from Tarleton State Junior College in 1959 and received his B.S. in agricultural education from Texas Tech and his masters' from that university the following year. He was elected to Congress in November, 1978.

Nationwide attention was drawn to Stenholm late in his first term when he was chiefly instrumental in drawing together fellow fiscal conservatives in the

CHARLES STENHOLM

House to organize a group formerly called the Conservative Democratic Forum, but later to be more widely known as the "Boll Weevils". Stenholm has used his leadership in the group as a springboard to draw attention from both the media and political groups across the country to the problems facing the agricultural industry and small businessmen.

Ushers for the commencement are Tina Bower, Tracy Pearson, Greg Grim and Jason Scott. Sponsors of the class are Susan Blassingame and Wayne Alexander.

Class colors are pastels and the class flowers are Sonja Roses.

Fire damages Sparks home

The Robert Lee Volunteer Fire Department was called to the Calvin Sparks home on the Sterling City highway on Tuesday afternoon. On their arrival the firemen found a blaze in progress in the large family room on the rear portion of the home.

Sparks, who was at home and discovered the fire, attempted to extinguish the fire, but summoned the department for help.

A spokesman for the fire department stated that the major damage appeared to be smoke and water damage, with heavy smoke throughout the house. However, the home suffered some fire loss at the initial point of the fire, he said.

Cause of the fire has not been determined but firemen thought possibly an electrical short might have caused the blaze.

Malnutrition hinders effectiveness of tuberculosis vaccine

COLLEGE STATION — Malnutrition apparently hinders the effectiveness of the world's only vaccine against tuberculosis and may decrease protection among the poor and underfed who need it most, say Texas A&M University medical researchers.

Tuberculosis, though not spreading rapidly, remains a persistent public health problem. It infects another 20 million people worldwide each year and causes up to 5 million deaths annually, many of them young children. In the United States, said McMurray, about 30,000 new cases of TB are reported a year, with 7 to 10 percent of them in Texas.

Recent tests at Texas A&M indicate malnutrition — especially lack of zinc and protein from red meat in the diet — significantly impairs the ability of the vaccine BCG to give protection.

MICROWAVE BASICS

Browning Microwaved Foods

Foods prepared in the microwave, because of shorter cooking times, often do not have the browned appearance of conventionally cooked foods. If you find this to be a disadvantage, there are several things you can do to enhance their appearance. Baked goods, such as cakes and quick breads, can be sprinkled before baking with nuts, toasted coconut or raisins. Meats and poultry can be brushed with bottled browning sauce, catsup or worcestershire sauce.

An alternative method to the above suggestions is to use frozen prepared convenience products in the microwave that only need reheating.

Try the recipe below created by the Banquet Foods Test Kitchens with both eye and appetite appeal in mind.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

One of the basic foundations of the U.S. Constitution is providing due process of law for people accused of crimes. But in our enthusiasm to provide such fair treatment, we too often have forgotten the victims of crime.

Our criminal justice system has evolved into one that grants all rights and privileges to the defendant while providing little or no assistance to the victims. That is why I have joined in sponsoring a bill designed to correct this uneven application of justice.

The Victims of Crime Assistance Act of 1984 would create a fund in the U.S. Department of Treasury to compensate victims of crime. It also would involve victims in the criminal justice process by giving them privileges such as addressing parole boards on how they were affected by crimes against them.

Compensation provided through this bill would be funded through criminal fines paid to the government and through certain profits from literary, visual and audio productions relating to particular crimes. In other words, law breakers, not taxpayers, would pay for the fund. This fund would be administered by state governments.

I believe these measures are necessary because justice involves more than just ensuring that the defendant receives a fair trial. Justice also is honoring the rights of the victims and, when possible, providing just compensation.

Many victims suffer severe financial problems as a result of crimes inflicted upon them. These losses can come in the form of lost or damaged property as well as medical expenses. Neither federal nor state governments are presently able to adequately protect the victims of crime for its devastating physical, financial, emotional and psychological consequences. The federal government spends far more resources on rehabilitation and education of prisoners than it does on assisting victims.

This trend is frustrating for law-abiding Americans. The public's respect for the law has become seriously diminished as it perceives that only the perpetrators of violent crime, and not the victims, are entitled to justice and protection from their government.

In addition to creating a compensation fund for crime victims, the act also would encourage states to provide direct financial assistance to victims of crimes within their borders, regardless of the victim's residence or jurisdiction of the crime; assist local governments and agencies in providing services to crime victims and promote such services across the nation, and establish a safe, welcome environment for victims to participate in the criminal justice process.

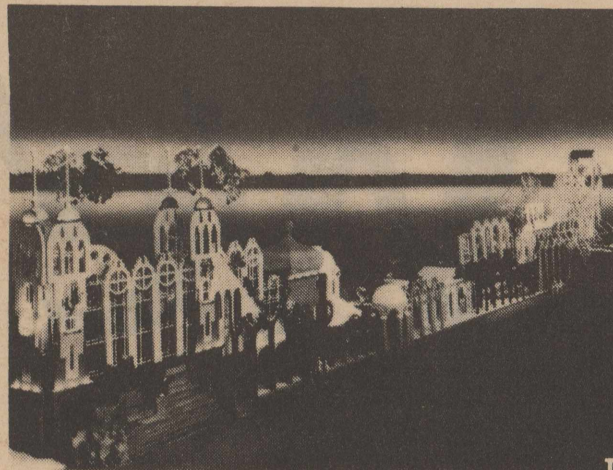

These measures place most of the power and responsibility in the hands of the states. This is appropriate since criminal justice is largely the responsibility of the states. However, the act also would improve the federal government's assistance to victims of federal crime.

The concepts encompassed in the Victims of Crime Assistance Act of 1984 are a long time coming. I hope Congress acts favorably on this bill designed to serve the law-abiding people of this country.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

THE 1984 WORLD'S FAIR

The Space Shuttle... and an architectural fantasy... are just two of the views families visiting the 1984 World's Fair can enjoy.

the Fair gates.

Food for body, soul or thought will abound in the Italian Village; Reunion Hall; Vatican Pavilion; Artworks '84; German Beer Hall; Water Gardens; Bayou Plaza; Centennial Plaza; Fulton Street Mall; Cajun Walk; Louisiana Exhibition and Convention Center; Chrysler Pavilion; U.S. Pavilion; Petroleum Industries Pavilions.

Add to all of these the charm, history and hospitality of New Orleans itself, one of the world's most colorful cities and the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition appears to have just about everything going for it to make life more fun for families that go to it.

Free Brochure

For free leaflets about the Fair and information on tickets, attractions and accommodations, you can call the Information Center at (504) 525-FAIR.

A fantasyland complete with a monorail, a network of lagoons, a 20-story Ferris Wheel, a wall of playful architecture, and a playbill filled with celebrity entertainment. That's what the 1984 Louisiana Exposition has been called.

This World's Fair will run from May 12 to November 11, 1984. It occupies 84 acres of New Orleans along the Mississippi River.

Within its boundaries are a vast array of attractions and experiences. Among them:

Wonderwall is a new kind of architecture conceived for the Fair. Alive with fanciful beasts, magicians, exotic birds, lights, fountains and curious twists and turns, it will arc for a half-mile through the fairgrounds. It has been described as a stationary Mardi Gras Parade.

The first full-scale Aquacade since the 1939 World's Fair will feature twin 95-foot diving towers. It will be replete with beautiful precision swimmers and water ballet with synchronized music, fire and fountains.

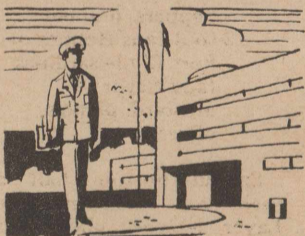

Overhead, a ten-car monorail train will silently glide over exhibits and right through buildings. Riding it, like enjoying any of the Aquacade's daily shows, is included in the price of getting into the Fair. In the riverfront International Pavilion, 23 nations will put up exhibits that educate and invite wonder — such as ancient water marvels the Chinese plan to show. Nearby will be the Space Shuttle Enterprise flown from the West Coast.

The International Amphitheatre, overlooking the river, will present daily events and nightly star-studded shows. Some 350 feet above, a rapid transit aerial gondola system will offer a majestic panorama as it transports people across the Mississippi to

INCREDIBLE BUT TRUE!

The U.S. Army Reserve, when organized as America's first federal reserve force in 1908, consisted of only 364 medical officers. These individuals could be called to active duty by the Secretary of War in emergencies.

In the past 75 years, the Army Reserve has increased nearly 850 times its original number. It now includes more than 450,000 soldiers...nearly 240,000 of them in Army Reserve units. And it has grown more significantly in importance. Today's Army Reserve gives the Total Army the strength it needs to defend our freedom in an emergency, while allowing us to avoid the cost of maintaining those 450,000 soldiers in the full-time Army.

Lunches Can Be Fun

Remember those lunches we used to carry to school and work? They consisted of a sandwich, usually of the "peanut butter and jelly on white bread" variety, an apple or orange and a piece of cake or pie for dessert. Add a container of milk or coffee and that was that.

Although there was nothing basically wrong with these lunches, they did not elicit any loud cheers. They could best be described as boring.

But times have changed. A great deal of thought and effort goes into the preparation of lunches now. Ordinary sandwiches are transformed into extraordinary with a bit of imagination and flair.

There's no limit to the number of tempting combinations which can be created from the many interesting selections of breads and rolls available in markets today.

Fillings are "whatever you like" whether meat, cheese or vegetables or a mixture of all three. Be original and make them fun.

That special treat in the lunch box is apt to have changed, too. According to recent industry research, the snacking trend is shifting to the less sweet finger foods. As we become more health conscious, we become concerned with what is in the food we eat.

Granola snacks are the ideal special treat, as most contain no additives or preservatives. They've graduated to a wide variety of types and flavors since the first 100 percent natural granola bar was introduced by Nature Valley in 1975.

Conveniently packaged for easy portability, they're fast growing in popularity. Consumers who demand value will be pleased with the high quality and great taste that granola snacks provide.

TEXAS GARDENER TIPS

Common Problems With Squash and Vine Crops

Although squash and vine crops are relatively easy to grow, gardeners often run into the same problems with them year after year. The following are a few of the common problems encountered when growing these crops, and how to prevent or correct them.

Seedling death soon after emergence—This is a common occurrence with squash and vining crops as well as beans, peas, and sweet corn. It is usually due to soilborne fungi in conjunction with planting seed in cold, wet soils. Seedlings emerge, though slowly, and develop "weak knees," which causes them to fall over.

The seedlings have succumbed to what is known as "damping off." Damping off can be prevented by making certain that you don't rush planting time and by purchasing seeds that have been treated with a fungicide to prevent disease development.

Poor fruit set of vine crops—Many Texans find their squash plants bloom and bloom, but seldom produce any squash. This is usually due to lack of pollination. Squash and other vine crops produce both male and female flowers.

Pollen must be carried from the male to the female flower by pollinating insects, usually bees.

If you must spray or dust your vine crops for damaging pests, apply the pesticides during late afternoon to avoid harm to bees, which are most active during the early morning hours. You can also transfer the pollen from the male to female flower by hand.

Squash plants suddenly dying—Many Texas gardeners have been puzzled by squash plants suddenly wilting and dying. The cause is most often the ever-present squash vine borer.

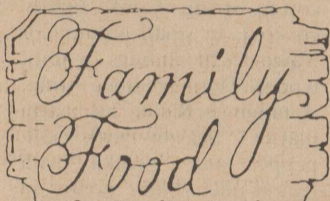

The adult is a wasp-like moth that lays its eggs on the leaves or stems of the plants. The moth is attracted to the plant by the squash's blooms. The eggs hatch and the small larvae enter the stems near the plant crown to feed and develop, causing the plant to wilt and rapidly die.

The secret to controlling the vine borer is to begin applications of Sevin or Thiodan as soon as the first squash blooms appear, when the moth is attracted to the plant. Direct the insecticides toward the crown of the plant for maximum effectiveness. Once the larvae hatch and enter the plant stems, insecticides are useless.

Lot of nutrition found inside pecan

AUSTIN--Pecans are a rich, oily nut that are high in calories--more than 3,000 per pound--and nutritional value. Their protein, 41.7 grams per pound of kernels, is about half that found in a pound of lean ground beef. Low in sodium, pecans contain vitamins A and C, and B vitamins riboflavin, thiamine and niacin, and the minerals potassium, calcium and iron. They are a healthful snack for most people and a good source of protein for vegetarians and others cutting back on meat consumption.

A 300-million-pound harvest in the country's pecan-growing states, which include Texas and other parts of the South and Southwest, is expected to give consumers lower prices this year. Now is a good time to stock up on the nuts, which will store a year when frozen and have a variety of uses.

Texas Department of Agriculture home economists offer these suggestions for buying, storing and chopping this Texas native.

When selecting whole pecans look for shells that are clean and free of cracks and scars. The kernel should not rattle when the nut is shaken. Shelled pecans should be plump and crisp.

The high polyunsaturated fat content of pecans, that provides their rich taste also causes them to dry out, shrink or turn rancid if not properly stored. Though whole nuts retain their quality longer than shelled, all pecans store best under refrigeration.

Freezing pecans, whole or shelled, is the best way to ensure their flavor and crispness. Frozen pecans do not have to be thawed before they are added to a recipe. They can be refrozen several times without loss of quality.

To chop pecan meats place the kernels on a wooden board. Using a long, straight knife, anchor the tip with one hand and move the blade in a brisk, chopping motion. Nut meats can also be chopped in an electric blender, a cup at a time. Blend 3-5 seconds for a coarse texture, 7-10 for a fine one. Be sure not to blend too long, or the nuts will turn to powder. Use the metal blade to chop pecans in a food processor, chopping up to 2 cups at a time.

A pound of in-shell pecans will yield approximately 2 1/4 cups of kernels. Twelve pecan halves equal 3 tablespoons of chopped nutmeats. About 4 ounces of shelled pecans equal a cup.

A Low-Caloried Answer To Our Taste For Sweets

The experts tell us that man's well-developed sweet tooth has been with us as far back as the prehistoric cave dwellers. Those people drew pictures on their walls of such sweet treats as honey, figs and dates. Egyptian hieroglyphics dating back some 4,000 years tell of candies probably made with honey, flour, almonds, dates and figs.

Since the Middle Ages, man has developed thousands of confections, drinks and foods that owe their popularity to being sweet. Somewhere along the line, someone felt that coffee and tea were just too bitter without a touch of sweetening. Modern breakfast cereals took on a new dimension when sprinkled with sugar or honey.

However, the cave man's modern day descendant's concern with fitness—two out of every three Americans are on a diet—has driven him to great lengths to combine sweet taste and low calories in his daily diet.

Now there's a happy answer to this yearning for sweets—powdered soft drink mixes in a variety of refreshing flavors that quench the thirst and contain only four calories for an eight-ounce serving.

Powdered soft drink mixes are one of America's favorite beverages. (We spent more than $700 million on them last year, alone!) The new drinks

There's a new low-caloried answer to mankind's old yearning for sweets. are sweetened with aspartame, the first sweetener to win approval from the Food and Drug Administration in 25 years. Known as NutraSweet™, it's about 200 times sweeter than sugar, which means only a tiny amount is needed to sweeten beverages and food, thereby lowering their calorie content. That's great news for sweet cravers who have to watch the waistline.

Sugar-Free Kool-Aid, which is America's #3 soft drink, will be available nationwide, while new Sugar-Free Crystal Light, geared to adult tastes, is being introduced in 40 percent of the country now, but will soon be available nationwide also.

NutraSweet is a nutritive sweetener, made from two amino acids, which are protein components found in everyday foods such as milk, meat, eggs and fish. It is metabolized naturally by the body, unlike artificial sweeteners.

It's a low-calorie, good tasting answer for the cave man's descendants, whose sweet tooth still demands satisfaction.

A&M economist urges rapid deregulation of natural gas industry

COLLEGE STATION — The Reagan administration could save consumers money if it deregulated natural gas before summer instead of gradual deregulation over the next three years, says a Texas A&M University economist.

"Although the long-term deregulation plan will ultimately mean lower gas bills for consumers, deregulating natural gas before summer would have a more immediate effect," said Dr. S. Charles Maurice.

Maurice pointed out that present regulations are forcing pipeline and utility companies into buying higher-cost gas when lower-cost supplies are readily available. He said the long-term deregulation plan only provides incentives for companies to keep cheaper natural gas supplies off the market until price ceilings are lifted.

Deregulation will insure extra supplies of natural gas, which will only cause prices to come down, he said. The problem for proponents of decontrol, Maurice added, is to convince people that increases in price would be temporary.

WARMER WEATHER BRINGS TICKS

Tick populations increase dramatically with warmer weather, causing inconvenience and health hazards for homeowners and pets.

Ticks are biting, blood-sucking parasites, and their bites may become inflamed and infected due to toxic secretions. Tick paralysis, tularemia and Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever may be transmitted through tick bites.

Brown dog, American dog and Lone Star ticks are the most common in Texas home landscapes. Brown dog ticks are reddish-brown while American dog ticks are yellowish-brown when unfed and slate gray when engorged. The brown dog tick rarely occurs in rural areas; instead, it hides in crevices around buildings. American dog ticks are most often found along roads and trails. The Lone Star tick has a characteristic white spot on its back and commonly referred to as a spot backed tick.

A female tick may lay several thousand eggs, beginning a two-to four-month life cycle. Remaining stages--six legged larva (seed tick) and eight legged nymph and adult--generally develop on separate host animals. After each feeding the tick drops off the host and temporarily hides until the next developmental stage.

Regardless of the species, control is basically the same for all ticks. Heavy infestations in the home may require treatment by professionals. Spot treatments with household sprays containing diazinon, Dursban, Baygon, resmethrin or Vapona will provide excellent control of light infestations.

Outside the home where vegetation is thin, use 5 percent carbaryl (Sevin) dust at 20-25 pounds per acre. Increase the rate as vegetation thickens. If using a spray, mix five table-spoons of 25 percent diazinon emulsifiable concentrate (EC) in one gallon of water. Apply one gallon of spray per 1,000 square feet.

Chlorpyrifos (Dursban) is also suggested for tick control. Apply 1.5 oz. of material per 1,000 square feet of treated area. When spraying, pay particular attention to roadsides, animal trails, paths and pet resting areas. Re-treatment may be required if tick populations continue to be observed. Always read the label on the insecticide container for application instructions. Properly store any unused portion of the insecticide under lock and key to prevent accidental child poisoning.

Most species of ticks can't survive in cleared areas where they are exposed to excessive sunlight and predators. Keeping areas clear of debris is important in tick control.

It is advised for pet owners to examine their animals frequently. Light infestations can be controlled by rubbing carbaryl dust into the pet's hair. Also, treat the animal's sleeping quarters every week.

If a tick becomes attached to the skin, remove it with a slow, steady pull. Be careful not to break off its mouthparts. A drop of chloroform, isopropyl alcohol, ether, acetone or fingernail polish rubbed over the tick may help remove it. It can be removed a half-hour later with less damage to the skin because its oxygen supply is reduced.

Always apply an antiseptic to tick bites. If your hands touched the tick, wash them thoroughly with soap and water to reduce the risk of spreading disease.

Brownie-dad overnighter set

The West Texas Girl Scout Council has announced that Girl Scout Council has announced that Girl Scout Brownies and their Dads will be spending some overnighters at Camp Boothe Oaks. The Brownie/Dad overnighters are annual camping events held for first and second grade Brownies who sell seven or more cases of Girl Scout cookies during the West Texas Girl Scout Council Cookie Sale.

This year, there will be four Brownie/Dad weekends: May 18-19, June 1-2, June 16-17, and June 22-23. Brownies may bring their dads or another male guest if their Dad is unable to attend.

During each of the events, Brownies and their "buddies" will participate in a variety of activities staffed by Camp Boothe Oaks counselors, Camp Committee members and West Texas Council Staff.

Brownies from Area III who have been awarded Brownie/Dad Overnighters are: Kim Carver, Samantha Doss, Kris Hall, Wendy McPeck, Brandy Padgett, Cybill Abbott and Connie Sawyer.

The shoestring was invented in England in 1790. Prior to this time, all shoes were fastened with buckles.

COKE COUNTY CHILDREN ride from Bronte to Robert Lee during the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon last Saturday.

The children took pledges before the event and are now collecting for the worthy cause.

Bike-A-Thon raises $812

The recent annual Bike-A-Thon brought in $812.00 in Coke County for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital benefit campaign.

The hospital operates primarily on monies gained from fundraisers and focuses on cancer, as well as other dread diseases, in children.

Mrs. Tommy Bryant, county chairman for the event, announced the proceeds and the top three riders on Tuesday. Chris Ross earned the $25.00 top prize for the $313.00 in pledges collected. Second place went to Jack Wayland Bryant with a $221.00 total and the $15.00 cash prize. Stephanie Poehls won the $10.00 third place with $133.00 in donations.

Mrs. Bryant, speaking in behalf of St. Jude Hospital, expressed gratitude to all who had a part in the benefit-- the children who rode in the Bike-A-Thon, the donors, and the volunteers. She praised the Coke County law officers in particular. She said, "They were on hand throughout the ride and served as bike mechanics as well as guarding the safety of the children. They were great!"

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

On Tuesday of last week, the directors of the Coke County Soil and Water Conservation District directors held their regular monthly meeting in the Coke County courthouse.

TSTI signup begins May 23

Registration for the summer quarter at TSTI is May 22. Classes in ten program areas begin May 23.

Summer courses in autobody repair, air conditioning and refrigeration, automotive mechanics, computer science technology, diesel mechanics, livestock and ranch operations, machine shop operations, technical office training, drafting and welding will be offered.

Programs last from six to eighteen months and earn the student a certificate of completion or an associate of applied science degree.

Tuition and fees for a fulltime student are $90.50 per quarter. On-campus housing is available for both single and married students. The married student housing is limited, and no children or pets are permitted. Single student housing is $390 per quarter and married students housing is $260 a month plus electricity.

Tuition and fees for parttime students are prorated according to the number of credit hours taken.

For further information, contact the Public Information Office at (915) 235-8441, ext. 278.

A conservation plan for Royce Scott was reviewed and approved. Eph Cummins presented his regular monthly report on activities of the SCS in the district since the last board meeting to the directors. Adequate time was spent on the review and needs to complete a salinity report for this district.

This report, which concerns saline seeps and salt-water damage to agricultural lands and waters will be completed and sent to the State Soil and Water Conservation Board. Four applications for assistance under the Great Plains Conservation Program were received.

Indications are that the funds are going to be very short for the next six months on contracting for GPCP funds.

Joe Rawlings, Royce Fancher, Horace Scott, Finnell Smith, and Wilbern Millican attended the meeting.

Martin Lee, of Bronte, has applied to have the land he owns in Runnels County transferred for service to the Coke SWCD. He also plans to develop a conservation plan on his place on Mule Creek. All of these plans will be revised to include his current plans for improvements.

Most plans relate to improve efficiency and production. Practices such as cross-fencing, range seeding, and brush management are some of the practices that will be coordinated into a comprehensive conservation plan with the district.

Technical assistance will be furnished to Lee by the technicians in the SCS office in Robert Lee.

MUSTARD ADDS ZEST, FEW CALORIES

Two major consumer trends are increasing mustard's usage and popularity: a preference for more flavorful foods, and the desire to shape up and stay slim and fit. Naturally low in calories, mustard gives even the simplest of foods an interesting touch of spice and individuality.

The R. T. French Company, maker of America's most popular yellow mustard, now has created a spicy brown mustard to give foods new zest while adding few calories. French's new Bold 'n Spicy Deli mustard has a hearty, more robust taste than traditional yellow mustard.

Here are three ways to start shaping up your body and your favorite foods with mustard:

BAKED FISH MEDITERRANEAN

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1-1/2 pounds fillet of sole or flounder
- Salt and French's Pepper
- 1/4 cup Chablis or other dry white wine
- 1 tomato, chopped
- 2 tablespoons French's Bold 'n Spicy Deli Mustard
- French's Parsley Flakes

Melt butter in large skillet. Season fish with salt and pepper. Roll up, pinwheel style, and arrange, seam-side down, in large skillet. Combine wine, tomato, and mustard; spoon over fish. Cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes, until fish flakes easily when pierced with a fork. Garnish with parsley flakes. 4 to 5 servings. 280 calories in each of 5 servings.

CHOW MEIN CHICKEN SALAD

- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup oil
- 1/4 cup wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons French's Bold 'n Spicy Deli Mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon French's Onion Salt
- 5 cups diced, cooked chicken or turkey
- 1-1/2 cups chopped celery
- 1 cup bean sprouts
- 1/4 cup sliced water chestnuts

Combine orange juice, oil, vinegar, sugar, mustard, and onion salt in large bowl; stir briskly to blend. Add chicken, celery, bean sprouts, and water chestnuts; toss lightly. Chill. Six servings, approximately 350 calories in each serving.

CREAMY LOW-CALORIE DRESSING

- 1/2 cup buttermilk
- 1 tablespoon French's Bold 'n Spicy Deli Mustard
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1/2 teaspoon French's Parslied Garlic Salt

Combine all ingredients, stirring until well blended. Serve as dressing with lettuce. Makes 3/4 cup dressing. 15 calories per tablespoon.

For other ideas on how you can use French's new spicy deli-style mustard write to: Bold 'n Spicy Secrets, The R.T. French Company, One Mustard Street, Rochester, N.Y. 14692. You'll receive, free, their new mustard recipe booklet, "Bold 'n Spicy Secrets" containing cooking hints and more quick and easy mustard recipes.

Scientists manipulate crop plants to produce own nitrogen

COLLEGE STATION — Soil and crop scientists at Texas A&M University are investigating methods of stimulating bacteria living among plant roots to supply extra nitrogen in soil and ultimately reduce the farmer's need for costly fertilizers.

Dr. David Zuberer of Texas A&M's College of Agriculture and other researchers here are exploring a biological process that may eventually allow food crops such as corn and wheat to produce more of their own nitrogen. Such research could one day save the natural gas needed to produce fertilizer, Zuberer said.

"Nitrogen is the plant nutrient required in greatest quantity and it is lacking in the soil of many Third World nations that can't afford fertilizer," he explained. "Developing a system in which soil bacteria could supply more nitrogen would be tremendous because nutrients could be supplied at lower costs."

CANINE "BITS" PLAYER

Like so many before him, Mugsy came to Hollywood stardom from humble beginnings, a cast-off, jobless, looking for a break.

He was just a whisker away from missing his chance. But talent scout Cindy James saw something she liked in Mugsy, the way he looked, the way his eyes spoke of class and style.

Maybe more than anything, she liked the way he walked. Perfect, just what the producers needed. Mugsy jumped at the chance. After all, he had nothing to lose.

A pure-bred bulldog, Mugsy was in the dog pound, a stray soon to be put to sleep.

Talent scout Cindy James, president of Frank Inn, Inc., an animal training and rental firm, was at the pound that day looking for additions to her menagerie.

Cindy saw that Mugsy had "star quality," that rare combination of physical appearance, gutsy, outgoing personality, willingness to please and trainability.

Once back at the kennel, Mugsy went through basic training—a standard obedience course of learning to sit, stand, heel, turn and come.

Next came the harder part: learning to be comfortable in a working studio, with hot lights, a dozen technicians, and apparatus confusion all around.

After all this training, Mugsy was ready for the right role.

For Mugsy, the big break came when Ken-L Ration was casting actors for its new Kibbles 'n Bits 'n Bits 'n Bits commercial.

The script called for a determined dog to go through the difficult obstacle course to get home for dinner.

The original script didn't call specifically for a bulldog. But with a little coaxing, Cindy convinced the producers to give Mugsy a chance.

You've no doubt seen the result. Mugsy, all serious looking and calmly unconcerned about the swaying streets, falling flower pots and tempting cat, marches toward dinner, beat-for-beat along with the Kibbles 'n Bits 'n Bits 'n Bits jingle.

Mugsy's story is typical of many "top dogs" who come from obscure, often troubled, backgrounds to become distinguished canine stars.

As a puppy, Lassie chased cars, chewed everything and barked constantly when left alone at home. Exasperated, Lassie's owner sent the wayward pup off to obedience school. Two years and lots of training later, Lassie debuted opposite Roddy McDowell in "Lassie Come Home." Following this, Lassie and Elizabeth Taylor starred in "Courage of Lassie" in 1946.

Spike, a 115-pound mutt rescued from a California dog pound, went on to become "Old Yeller" in Walt Disney's classic film.

Sandy, Annie's sidekick in the Broadway show, was ransomed from the Connecticut Humane Society in 1976 for eight dollars. Sandy rose from this lowly start to perform in 2,377 shows over six years, more than any actor in the show.

Does your dog have what it takes to make it in films or commercials? The best advice Cindy James can give you is to keep your dog for your own enjoyment. Her company does not audition animals.

However, if you think your dog has star quality, there are some firms which may be able to help you. Check with your vet for names and addresses of such training schools.

For tips on how to have a healthy, happy but not necessarily world-famous dog, Ken-L Ration has a free booklet on how to care for, train, and feed your dog. Write to Ken-L Ration, P.O. Box 3585, Dept. A, Libertyville, IL 60198.

OLYMPIC NEWS & NOTES

Top Track and Field Performers in the Spotlight

The athletes you'll be seeing at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles will, it's expected, include these three top track and field performers. They're considered the premier athletes in their respective events:

Alberto Salazar: Salazar is the world's top marathon runner. He won his first marathon in New York City in 1980 and set a course record of 2:09:41 for the 26.2 mile race—the fastest marathon debut in history. He won the New York Marathon for three consecutive years—1980, 1981 and 1982—and set a world record in the race at 2:08:13 in 1981. He also won the Boston Marathon in 1982 with a time of 2:08:51, a course record. In road racing, he has run five miles in 22:03 for a world record and 10,000 meters in 28:03.5 for an American record. He was born August 7, 1958 in Havana, Cuba, moving to the U.S. when he was two years old.

Mary Decker: Mary Decker is the world's dominant female distance runner. She holds American records in the 1500-meter and 5000-meter events, and the world record in the mile and the 3000-meter and 10,000-meter race. Decker won the Sullivan Award as the top U.S. amateur athlete of 1982 and also was named amateur sportswoman of the year by the Woman's Sports Foundation.

Edwin Moses: Edwin

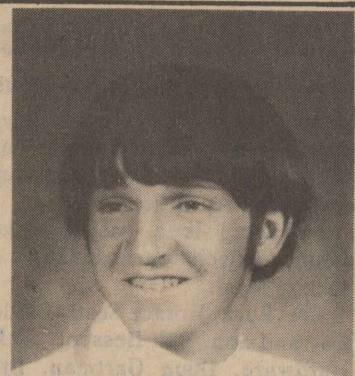

Moses is the world's top ranked intermediate hurdler. He won a gold medal at the Montreal Olympics in 1976 for the 400-meter hurdles. Since the Olympics he has lost only once. He has the ten fastest times ever in the 400-meter hurdles and 30 of the 50 best times. ## TIPS ON EYE CARE by

Mitchell Shapiro, M.D.

DEAR DOCTOR:

I am 63 years old and have arthritis. Lately my eyes have been troubling me. They are severely dry and it feels as if I have something in them, especially when I wake up in the morning. Can you advise?

"Dry eyes," as your condition is called, is a normal and quite natural problem among people your age and older. The condition is often associated with rheumatoid arthritis.

It is possible that your condition is a result of decreased tear production. Consult your ophthalmologist. If this is the problem, he will probably recommend one of a number of over-the-counter medications known as "artificial tears."

Artificial tears are viscous solutions which are easy to apply and provide immediate comfort. Unfortunately, they are sometimes annoying and time-consuming.

A relatively new product known as Lacriserts® is available that may make your life a little easier. The solution comes in solid form, much like an ocular suppository about the size and shape of a grain of rice. Inserting it may be slightly uncomfortable at first. However, many patients prefer it to hourly administration of drops. The key advantage to the suppositories is that they are administered less frequently (once or twice each day).

In severe cases, the problem may be serious enough to warrant surgical correction. A small probe is inserted into the tear duct, and tears which your eye produces do not drain as quickly. A common side effect of this procedure is that you lose your ability to control or limit your tearing.

Your best bet is to consult your ophthalmologist. Perhaps he can recommend a specific artificial tear product that will satisfy you.

If you have a question about your vision, write us at Florida Eye Clinic, P.O. Box 19446, Orlando, FL 32814.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

This letter is in regard to the article on the Elementary Track Meet.

I believe the writer of the article missed the entire point. The track meet is the highlight of the school year for the elementary students. The events are as important to them as a high school student participating in a district track meet. To mention only the winners--and not very well written at that--is leaving out a great many other students' names and accomplishments. Even the coverage of a high school or junior high meet mentions other place winners--not just the first place winners. Also, new records should be mentioned. If more room was needed, I believe the pictures could have been omitted.

The Robert Lee Observer is a small town newspaper that should report the local news. People take the Observer to read about what the local people are doing. The school news is the only reason many people subscribe to the paper.

Thank you.

Winnie McPeck

Editors Note: With 562 total names on nine typed pages a cutoff had to be found somewhere. There were eighty events with 240 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners in these events. Thirty-five of these winners were teams consisting of four to ten children.

We ran the first-place winners as a compromise. That amounted to 56 names. It took eight inches of space for them and would have taken an entire page of type to put in all the names.

It would be almost impossible to wade through all of them.
