Open House date set for museum

Coke County Historical committee met Monday of last week to inspect the Museum. Much work has been done, and the committee announces that it will hold Open House there on Sunday, April 20, from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Members of the Historical Committee will act as hosts and hostesses. There will be no admission charge, but donations will be appreciated.

Plans are to open the museum each Wednesday and Sunday (after the Open House April 20) from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. except on holidays such as Easter and Christmas.

Several groups, clubs, and individuals have expressed willingness to assist in hosting and directing guests.

Mrs. Bobby (Jeffie) Roberts will chair the committee to set up work schedules. She will appreciate calls from volunteers concerning choice of days to serve. Volunteers from Bronte may contact Pat Martindale, who will coordinate schedules with Mrs. Roberts. Volunteers are needed to make the Coke County Museum an on-going success.

Out-of-town visitors, school groups, or tourists may set up visits by special appointment. That might be accomplished through County Judge Aubrey Denman's office (915/453-2641), or through some available Historical Committee member.

The public is invited to lend or donate items for display. It is hoped that families might be willing to bring family heirlooms to be displayed for one or several weeks, with some family member on duty to explain the items. Such special displays would be advertised so friends may not miss the special treat.

The Historical Committee welcomes memorial gifts in honor of loved ones to benefit the Museum. Joan Davis will be glad to accept and acknowledge these tributes. Write Box 396, Robert Lee, Tx., 76945 or call 453-2433 or 453-2301.

The last day to register to vote in the May primaries is April 3, 1986. There are eligible Texans who are not yet registered to vote or who have moved within the last two years and may have their registrations canceled.

Everyone is urged to become involved by registering to vote and encouraging those who are not registered to do so. Registration is free; it is also easy.

During January of each even-numbered year, the registrar mails renewal certificates to all registered voters at the address on record. This year voter registration certificates are colored yellow. If you are registered and did not receive your yellow renewal certificate by the end of February, contact your local voter registrar in order to insure that you maintain a valid registration.

Eligible voters may register with the county tax collector's office in the courthouse in Robert Lee.

Coke Comment:

by Hal Spain, Publisher

From time to time the need arises for us to discuss our policies regarding news and advertising. This is seldom printed, mainly because it takes up valuable space which could be used for a county or community news item.

To illustrate this point, this week we received a letter to the editor, typed double-spaced and obviously an important community concern, but with no signature by the author. Because the letter did not contain a signature, we had no choice but to omit it from publication. Due to a host of legal reasons, we must have a signature at the bottom of your letters to the editor, even though we can publish your letter and withhold your name, if requested.

The community's support of the local paper is something at which I continue to be amazed and thankful for. Although we never say it enough, we very much appreciate your turning in your happenings and coming events. In some cases we are forced to edit news articles for length, and we apologize should this happen to your article. However, we will continue to do our best to publish everything that is turned in.

At times there is some question as to just what is a news article and what is advertising. If a local business changes its name, location, or changes ownership, we feel this is of general interest to the community, and will publish a news story concerning this item of interest. However, listing the types and brand names of merchandise of the business is considered advertising, and the owner will be charged for this service. Additionally, if the owner wants to thank the community for their patronage over the years, or would like to invite area residents to drop by and visit or shop, this will also require some form of advertising, to be published.

In the case of individuals who want to thank or express their appreciation to individuals or groups, the card of thanks or a display ad containing your message is the vehicle which should be used to express these thoughts.

Exemptions offer tax relief

For homeowners, tax relief is usually in the form of exemptions. An exemption lowers tax payments by deducting part of a property's value from taxation. Homestead exemptions are available for all qualified homeowners, and additional exemptions are available for disabled people and for those aged 65 or older. Elderly homeowners who apply for the over-65 homestead exemption also get a cap, or ceiling, on taxes they pay to the school district. All taxing units offer exemptions to disabled veterans and survivors of those who died on active duty.

Farmers and ranchers who qualify may have their land taxed on its productive value instead of its market value, which also results in a lower tax bill.

Application forms for all types of tax relief are available at the Coke County Appraisal District office, 710 Austin Street in Robert Lee and must be in the Appraisal Office before May 1, 1986.

Property owners who last year received homestead exemptions, disabled veteran's exemptions and agricultural-use valuation on land need not reapply in 1986, unless the Chief Appraiser requires a new application to confirm the owner's current qualification.

Taxpayers pay for traffic fatalities

"Texas taxpayers pay a price for each traffic fatality or injury on the state's roads and highways." That was the message delivered by consumer economics specialist Bonnie Piernot to more than 500 county officials gathered for the 28th annual County Judges and Commissioners' Conference, held in College Station, Feb. 25-27. Piernot explained that a traffic fatality costs taxpayers an average of $12,000 for emergency medical services, police, highway patrol, highway and road repair and other direct costs. She added that each non-fatal injury costs an average of $7,000. During the first three months after the Texas mandatory safety belt law took effect in Sept. 1985, traffic fatalities decreased 18.2% over the same three month period in 1984, saving 8 million in tax dollars. But the specialist said that studies in other states with similar laws show that safety belt use can decrease over time without continued public education and reinforcement. Piernot, who is a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX), urged the officials to set an example by wearing safety belts and encourage their employees to wear them in county vehicles as well as their personal cars.

-- Oak Creek Fishin' News --

News from Oak Creek:

There are some nice fish being caught out of Oak Creek at the present time and we expect it to do nothing but get better the next three to four weeks. Even with all the wind, the water is clear except in shallow areas. The temperature is up to 58 degrees and this is warm enough to get the spawning under way. Some hefty strings of crappie are being caught and it looks like about 20 percent of the fish have already spawned. The good fishing is being found in many areas of the lake, around brush, rocky bluffs and rip-rap along the oil well ramps.

We lack the first names of some of the folks that caught a lot of fish while they were visiting Oak Creek this past week, but their neighbors in their hometowns will know who we are talking about. The Osborns and the Steven-sons from Eunice, N.M. dressed well over a hundred and spent a couple of extra days just because the fish were biting so well. The Fullers from Dunn, TX. dressed over 80 and many of these went over a pound.

Want to go after the channel cat? It will be worth the effort. Here I can give you some first-hand information. Last week I set a trotline in deep water, but not where I wanted the line to be. Started in the right place but the wind got so high it was dragging my anchor rock. Ended up more than 200 feet away from where I wanted the line to be. Only put on and baited about half the hooks because of the wind and didn't get to go and check the line for two days. When the wind let up enough to run the line there were six channelcat ranging from 2 to 4 1/4 pounds each. Baited the line again and caught four more going over three pounds each.

The High Sky Bass Club of Midland were here over the weekend for a tournament and caught a lot of bass, but not any in the lunker class. The largest bass were just under four pounds but most caught fish that would qualify to weigh.

If you plan to wet a hook--Oak Creek would be a good place to be.

GARDEN TIPS

With spring gardening about to get into full swing, there are several important tips that will insure a productive garden all summer.

Fertilization is an important key to a healthy productive garden. Soil type, previous fertilization and crops grown effect fertilization rates. A general rule of thumb to follow in absence of a soil test, is to apply one to two pounds of a complete fertilizer like 5-10-10 or 6-12-12 per 100 sq. foot on sandy soils. Tighter clay soils need 2-3 pounds of 10-20-10 or 12-24-12 per 100 sq. foot. Either of these should be applied preplant and tilled into the soil. Additional fertilizer should be applied as a furrow or sidedress application using 1/2-3/4 pound of 21-0-0 per 100 linear feet of row and watered in. Optimum time for this application is at first fruit set for tomatoes, peppers, squash and for leafy crops such as cabbage and lettuce, when they develop several sets of character leaves.

Watering is also very important in gardening. For best production, deep soak the soil to a depth of 6 inches. Wetting the soil to this depth once or twice a week is much better than light watering or sprinkling every day. Check need for watering by observing the soil and not the plants. Scratch the soil at a one inch depth. If moisture is present here, wait a day or two to water. Light frequent watering to keep soil surface moist will cause shallow root development concentrating them in the top inch or two of soil. Under heavy fruit production or hot dry summer days these shallow roots cannot sufficiently supply the plant with needed nutrients, greatly reducing quality of production.

A long handled hoe is the best method of weed control. Chemical controls should not be used as their selectivity to certain crops could damage various garden plants. Cultivate and hoe shallowly to avoid injury to vegetable roots.

BEEF HERD EFFICIENCY IMPORTANT

Because of poor market prices, profit-minded cow-calf producers must give high priority to increasing herd efficiency. Increased efficiency can be accomplished by improving herd management so as to reduce overall costs and thereby reduce the production cost per pound of beef.

One of the foremost management practices in improving herd efficiency is to eliminate unproductive cows -- nonbreeders and those that calve late. The goal should be for every cow in the herd to produce a calf each year.

The best way to increase the percentage of cows calving every 12 months is to have a single breeding season so that cows calve when forage conditions are generally good. The availability of good quality forage is important to lactation and the rebreeding process.

Calves born in late winter and early spring generally are the heaviest at weaning because they are old enough to use their mothers' peak milk production. These cows have the most efficient breed-back performance because they are breeding on lush spring grass.

With close culling of the cow herd and a short, well-planned breeding season, producers can improve their potential for profit.

EMS requirements told

Volunteers for the ambulance service must meet training standards set by the Texas Dept. of Health. As of Jan. 1, 1986, there must be at least two state certified people on board for each ambulance run. One of these must be trained to the Emergency Care Attendant level and one must be at least an Emergency Medical Technician. The West Coke County E.M.S. tries to staff each ambulance call with at least three volunteers. The initial training offered for the volunteers for the Robert Lee-based ambulance service is an EMT class. It requires 100 hours of classroom training, five ambulance runs and 20 in-hospital hours. Once the student completes the course, he takes the state certification exam and if he passes it (70% or better score), he is certified by the State of Texas as an EMT for the next four (4) years. To re-certify, he must then take a total of 80 continuing education hours over the next four years and re-take the state exam.

The local volunteer takes the approved course, passes the state exam and is then asked to volunteer to work on the ambulance. Twelve-hour shifts are scheduled and the volunteer is "on-call". No one stays at the hospital but each on-call volunteer obligates himself to be readily available for that twelve-hour period. He may receive the ambulance calls by telephone or by a two-way mobile radio (hand-held) that frees him to go about his routine activities. Once each month, a continuing education class is offered (3 hours in length) to keep skills and knowledge fresh and to meet the state requirement to provide for recertification each four years. The group also mans the monthly blood pressure clinic at the Post Office. In addition, the ambulance is provided on a stand-by basis for all local football games and for other community activities as needed.

There are no dues to pay to belong to the volunteer group and the amount of time needed each month is minimal IF there are enough volunteers.

If YOU volunteer, the group works with you to help you with the necessary training and once you are certified, the group's scheduling committee takes into account your personal schedule (job, vacation, other community activities) and tries to make being on-call as painless as possible. The more volunteers, the easier it is to be a volunteer. The time you commit to this worthwhile program is a service to your community, your neighbors, friends and family that only YOU can give.

The ambulance service volunteers are a proud group, dedicated to provide emergency medical care to the citizens and visitors of our area. The group received the prestigious Basic Life Support System of the Year award in 1984. This award is given by the Texas Association of EMTs to the outstanding service in the State of Texas. All ambulance services providing basic life support care (paid, volunteer or a combination of both) compete for this honor. Size of the group, its annual payroll or case load doesn't count. What counts is the quality of care given. Help us continue this proud tradition.

To recap, if you volunteer you will be committing yourself to the following:

1. Time to take the basic emergency medical technician class (100 classroom hours, time to make five emergency ambulance runs and 20 in-hospital hours) at a cost of $25 for tuition and books. This amount is refunded by the West Coke County EMS to persons completing the class, becoming certified by the State and agreeing to serve at least one year as an active volunteer.

2. Three hours per month for the continuing education class held in Robert Lee. No volunteer is required to attend ALL of these classes but participation is encouraged.

3. Several 12-hour shifts "on-call" for ambulance duty. This time is worked to accommodate your work schedule, vacation plans and other personal schedule needs. The more volunteers available, the fewer shifts per month are needed from each person.

3. A willing attitude to care for your family, neighbors and friends.

The volunteer does NOT have to be medically trained before the EMT class nor does he or she have to "like" that kind of "stuff". Physical strength is NOT a requirement although the volunteer should be in reasonably good health and able to move with some agility. Age is NOT a factor with the exception that the volunteer must be at least 18 in order to take the state certifying examination. The most important attribute the volunteer can bring to the group is the ability to care -- to care about and for the patients and to care that an ambulance is available when the need occurs.

For more information, call 453-2241 or 453-2589 after 5:00 p.m.
