Pageant dedicated to memory of Reese

You should have seen those Rabbit Twisters do their thing last weekend in Ole Coke County! If you didn't, they will repeat their performances Friday and Saturday evenings, July 31, and August 1, at 8:30 pm. Taking advantage of enjoying a fine musical pageant, based on historical events were 513 folks - 237 on Friday and 276 on Saturday evening. A fine cast, some experienced and some rookies, do a great job and have fun in the process. Those who see the pageant for the first time are always surprised that so many talented individuals play their roles to the hilt, dressed in period costumes.

The 1992 Ole Coke County pageant is dedicated this year to the late Mildred "Bo" Reese, a longtime member of the cast, who died last year. She was always totally committed to the production. She portrayed "Emma", one of the 3 gossips on a favorite segment of the show, The Gossips, a trio of inebriated frontier women, for a number of years.

The "Ole Coke County" pageant premiered in 1972. Based on a book by Mrs. Jessie Yarbrough, it is written and directed by Lucile Bryan. With 100+ Coke County people acting and working backstage, the production features Indians, Cowboys, Ranchers, Wire Cutters, and Settlers from the many phases of local folklore and legends in the colorful past of Coke County. It is presented on a outdoor stage, with a natural backdrop. A pageant choir adds music, both traditional and original, to make an entertaining, enjoyable event for the entire family.

Several items of interest indicate the down-home atmosphere that pervades the entire production. THEY COME TO STAY, regarding three families who migrated to this area, is cast with three generations of Greens: Donna Green as Lucinda, her daughter, Lynn, as Samantha, and her granddaughter, Krista, as Susan.

THE GREAT CHICKEN HEIST, written and directed by Lynn Green, is a new comedy related to the jail built in 1906, complete with the "hangin' noose".

The true story of Delbert Walling's being shot through the mouth appears on stage for the first time. "It really happened," Delbert's niece, Polly Holland, told Lucile Bryan, "while he was eating a bowl of chili in a cafe downtown. Some cowboys in a store on

Unit roads on Nov. ballot

In Monday's Coke County Commissioners' Court meeting, the panel received voter petitions calling for the placement of a proposal for a unit road system on the next election ballot. Mike Ross, representative for the petition proponents, presented them to the group.

According to law, the petitions were required to have 127 qualified voter signatures. They contained 378 names and were turned over to Tax Assessor/Collector, Kristie Roe for certification. Eight signatures were disqualified with 370 voter signatures certified as being qualified.

A decision for or against the adoption of a county unit road system will be made when the proposal appears on the ballot in the General Election on November 3, 1992.

Several other items on the agenda were passed until the next meeting.

"When you have a business, you try to hold it together by keeping things simple. Those taxpayers who cannot attend the free seminar can call the Comptroller's toll-free tax hotline for additional assistance at 1-800-252-5555.

Joan Davis attends Justice Conference

Justice of the Peace Joan Davis of Robert Lee attended a Conference on "Multi-Death Inquest/Disaster Planning" held in San Antonio, on July 23-24, 1992. The seminar was sponsored by the Texas Justice Court Training Center, headquartered at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. The conference covered the following topics: Multi-Death Incident Case Studies, The Inquest Law and the Disaster Planning Act of 1975, Managing the Multi-Death Scene - The Medical Examiner's Perspective, The Investigative Role of the Federal Government at Multi-Death Scenes, Leadership and Incident Management and a Disaster Planning Strategy Session.

Speaking to the group of judges was Arnoldo Corpus of Mission, Justice of the Peace of Hidalgo County, who worked the 1989 school bus accident in South Texas where 21 died. Judge Mary Lou Szymanski of Eagle Lake was also on the program. She worked a 1992 commercial plane crash where all aboard, 14, were killed.

Killeen Judge, Doyle Hardin, who was in charge of the fatalities following the mass shooting there, was also on the program, but was taken ill. In his place was Bob Mathis, who is now in business as a Disaster Planning Consultant. He was on duty during the 1981 Kansas City Hyatt Regency walkway collapse in which 108 people were killed; five died later. Mathis was at that time a captain with the Kansas City Police Department.

Highlight of the conference was the program brought to the large group by Dr. Vincent DiMaio, Bexar County Medical Examiner, who performs most of the autopsies in this area of the state.

All of the speakers and professionals at the conference urged the group of judges to return to their home counties and work with local Emergency Management which prepares the community for disasters.

The conference was held in downtown San Antonio at the Marriott Rivercenter.

Support loans available

Wheat growers who participate in the 1993 wheat program will be eligible for price support loans at $2.45 per bushel, a 24 cent increase over the 1992 program. County ASCS official Dwayne Vincent says target price protection remains at $4.00 per bushel.

The 1993 wheat program has a zero percent acreage reduction provision, and there is no requirement to place cropland into an acreage conservation reserve. Vincent says the zero acreage reduction level was chosen to ensure sufficient domestic and export wheat supplies.

The 1993 program will not offer a paid land diversion. Additional wheat program provisions will be announced later in the year.

Outdoor barbecue safety

Traditional summer barbecues can be fun and easy, until you get burned or injured. Keep in mind, safety is just as important as hamburgers and soda pop.

"Preparation can prevent injury," says Dr. Robert Fromm Jr., medical director of the Emergency Room at The Methodist Hospital in Houston. "Just a few simple steps can help ensure a safe family celebration."

If you are going to fire up the barbecue pit, use only tools with wooden handles. Metal cooking tools should not be used on a grill since metal will conduct heat between a hot grill and your hands. Additionally, plastic tools shouldn't be used because they can melt and stick to your skin.

"Never add lighter fluid to fire," says Fromm. "And, never toss or throw matches onto the charcoal - - you may miss your mark."

If you are using lighter fluid to start a fire, soak the charcoal and wait a few minutes before lighting. When lighting a grill use longer fireplace matches or a lighter wand.

"Barbecue equipment should never be left unattended, and children and pets should be kept away from the cooking area," adds Fromm.

Once an injury occurs, it's important to know how to administer immediate aid to a burn.

The first step is to eliminate contact with the burning substance, such as a barbecue tool, charcoal, or hot plastic.

Next, immerse the affected area in cold water or apply a cold compress to the burn. "Early use of cold water or a compress decreases inflammation and minimizes pain," says Fromm.

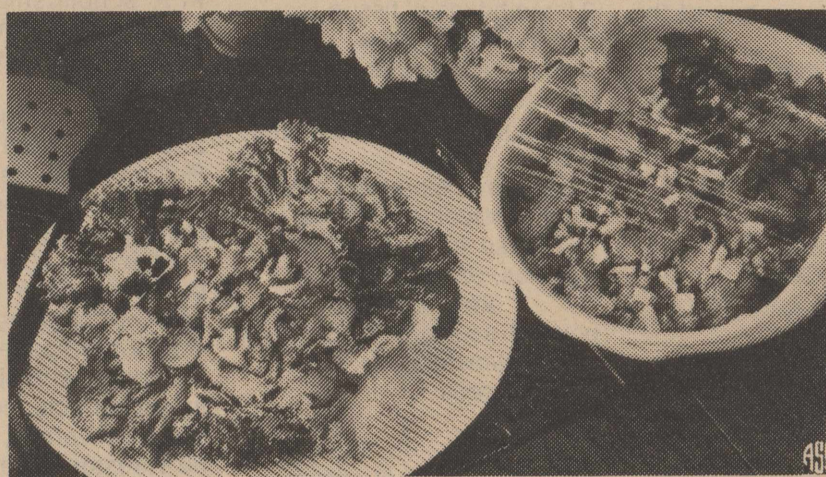

However, ice should not be applied directly to a burn since it may actually freeze the tissue and make it difficult to treat the affected area. A combination of ice and water is appropriate treatment and is helpful if the burn was caused by plastic melted onto the skin. Ice cold water can help cool and solidify the plastic, making it easier to remove.

There are three degrees of burns: first, second, and third. First degree burns usually produce redness on the skin and do not require seeing a doctor unless there is pain or discomfort or the burn is on a joint area, such as the hand or foot.

Second-degree burns are more serious and will usually cause redness or blistering. This type of burn should be examined by a doctor and may require treatment.

Third-degree burns are the most severe type of burns. These burns are deeper, and break and char the skin. Anyone with a third-degree burn should be taken to a hospital emergency room for treatment.

Steak Salad Supreme Makes Summer Picnics Sizzle

Picnics have been around for as long as anyone can remember. A "picnic" originally meant a meal with each guest contributing a different course. By the late eighteenth century, picnics had moved outdoors and featured both cold and hot dishes. In the nineteenth century, picnics became a playground for respectable Victorian ladies and gentlemen to mingle with one another.

Today, picnics are an opportunity for friends and family to gather and enjoy good food and good company with plenty of time for fun and relaxation. Whether it's on the sun deck of a high-rise building, in the middle of your living room or in a beautiful green meadow, a picnic is what you make it. And, with endless options for the places to have a picnic and the food that is served, today's picnics inspire creativity and imagination.

Summertime offers the perfect opportunity for picnicking. July is National Picnic Month, August brings Labor Day and there is a wealth of excuses for picnics in between. Whatever the occasion, instead of packing the same picnic fare this year, add a little pizzazz to your picnic basket with the grand prize winner from the Handi-Wrap® Hand-Me-Down Picnic Recipe Contest.

Steak Salad Supreme is a tantalizing combination of grilled, marinated steak, tomatoes, hard-boiled eggs and capers. Served warm or cold, it's so versatile it can be made with slices of steak still sizzling from the grill or with the leftovers from last night's barbecue. This summer salad entree is easy to make and transport and will be a welcome addition to your next picnic.

Farm loans being accepted by FmHA

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by adverse weather conditions are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in San Angelo, TX, FmHA County Supervisor, Paul Cline, said today.

Sterling And Coke are two of the counties in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from freeze and rain between October 28, 1991, and December 31, 1991.

Paul Cline said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until March 1, 1993, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in San Angelo is open from 8:00 am to 12 noon and 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm Monday through Friday.

Payne receives Houston LS scholarship

Christie Payne was awarded a $10,000, four-year Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo FFA scholarship in special ceremonies at the FFA State Convention in Amarillo, TX. on July 15, 1992.

Christie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Payne of Robert Lee, is a recent graduate of Robert Lee High School where she ranked third in her class. She was president of her FFA chapter and was the editor of her school newspaper.

Christie, who plans to major in animal science at Angelo State University, was one of 50 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo FFA scholarship winners honored.

Members of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service choose the FFA scholarship recipients. The selected students all demonstrated academic excellence and strong leadership skills throughout their high school careers.

All FFA recipients must pursue a degree in agriculture or life science at a Texas college or university.

In remarks to the attendees of the FFA state convention, James R. "Dick" Graves, president of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, said, "As many of you know, we had the most successful show of our 60-year history just a few months ago. General attendance at our event was recorded at 1.5 million spectators, with the rodeo alone attracting more than 928,000 spectators."

He also commented on the results of caps placed on the amount of money junior show exhibitors could receive for their animals at auction. Money paid in excess of these caps (first implemented in 1992), $808,900, was added to the show's scholarship fund.

The highlight of the presentation was Graves' announcement that all FFA scholarships were increased from $8,000 to $10,000 each. These four-year scholarship increases are all retroactive, meaning that every student in school on a Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo FFA scholarship will receive an additional $500 per year of their scholarships. Including the retroactive funds, the total scholarship amount presented by the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo to the Texas FFA for the 1992-1993 school year was $650,000.

Scholarship funding is provided by revenues earned at the annual Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. The Show has committed more than $3 million in educational funds for the upcoming school year.

Buying herbicides over the phone

Several inquiries have been received concerning the effectiveness of herbicides that are being sold by telephone. These herbicides have a variety of tradenames that are not readily recognizable.

A salesperson will contact farmers and ranchers by telephone. The product is promoted as a highly effective, broad spectrum herbicide for control of weeds and brush. The salesperson promises a quick and longlasting kill of the unwanted plants.

The herbicide or herbicides in the product vary. However, it often contains 2,4-D and may contain bromacil, mecoprop (MCP), dichlorprop (2,4-DP) and petroleum distillates. The percentages of the herbicides in the mixture vary. Often the petroleum distillates may make up more than 96 percent of the mixture. The cost per gallon of the herbicide mixture is high ($50 to $90 per gallon). In some cases, equivalent results may be obtained by using diesel fuel oil without herbicide. These herbicides have an EPA-approved label. Thus, farmers and ranchers should be encouraged to ask the salesperson to send a copy of the label that lists the active ingredients before they agree to purchase the herbicide. The telephone salespeople are persistent.

Farmers and ranchers should be in a position to make informed decisions about purchasing herbicides.

Thus, they should be strongly encouraged to ask for a label to examine before they agree to buy the herbicide.

Compost grass clippings

Mowing the lawn generates grass clippings that are excellent for a compost pile.

Compost is a good source of organic matter for gardens and flower beds. Furthermore, composting is an excellent way to dispose of garden debris, leaves and similar plant material.

Make the compost pile 4 to 6 feet wide and any length, depending on material and space available.

The simplest composting method is to alternate 4 to 6 inch layers of plant matter, such as leaves or grass, with 2 to 4 inches of good garden soil. Add manure to the soil layer if it's available, and sprinkle commercial fertilizer on each layer of plant matter to hasten decomposition. Use a cupful of fertilizer with a 1-1-1 ratio per 10 square feet.

The top layer of the compost pile should be soil and should form a basin to hold water. Water each layer of organic matter before adding the soil layer.

Water the pile thoroughly when completed; then add water as needed to keep the material moist but not soggy. Leaves decompose slowly if too dry.

Turn compost every three to four months to aerate the material and speed decomposition. Within six months to a year, it will be ready to use, and you'll be glad you saved those grass clippings.

Protect the skin from summer hazards

Sunburns are not the only hazard your skin may face this summer. Take the time to protect your skin from bugs and poisonous plants, too, says a dermatologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Picnics, campouts and other outdoor activities do have their dangers," said Dr. John Wolf, chairman of dermatology at Baylor. "During the summer months, more people suffer from severe skin damage than any other time of the year."

Insect bites and stings are the leading cause of animal-related deaths in America. Certain insects are potentially dangerous because they can transmit diseases such as St. Louis encephalitis spread by the Culex mosquito, and the tick-caused Lyme disease.

Some allergy sufferers are particularly susceptible to stinging insects. Wolf recommends that people with allergies to bee or wasp stings carry a first-aid kit containing injectable forms of antihistamines, adrenaline and cortisone.

"Some people are hypersensitive to insect stings, which can cause an itchy, painful rash and even anaphylactic shock," he said. "It is important to treat the sting immediately. For some, it could be fatal."

Approximately one million Americans are allergic to venomous bees, yellow jackets, hornets and fire ants. An estimated 50 people die from a sting each year. Wolf says extreme caution should be taken when going outdoors.

However, if a bee stings, gently remove the stinger with tweezers and place an ice pack on the infected skin to reduce swelling. Scratching should be avoided.

At the beach, the Portuguese man-of-war, a type of stinging jellyfish, can produce welts, blisters, discoloration and scarring. In rare cases, its venom can cause brain and heart damage and even death. Other less venomous jellyfish can still cause discomfort.

Wolf suggests sprinkling the skin with meat tenderizer which contains papain, an enzyme that deactivates the jellyfish's venom. Rinse the tentacles with salt water and carefully remove them, and take an antihistamine to minimize any allergic reaction.

Campers and hikers should watch for poison ivy which can disguise itself in shrubbery. Wolf says remember the phrase, "leaves of three, leave them be," while enjoying the great outdoors.

When first-aid treatment does not rid the pain, swelling and redness, consult a physician. Antibiotics or corticosteroid drugs may be more effective.

Wolf reminds beach-goers not to forget about sunburns, the most common skin problem for vacationers. He recommends "rescuing" the skin with a cool, wet towel, followed by a moisturizing lotion and a pain reliever.

Wolf suggests the following summer-related prevention tips:

- * Wear insect repellent. People who are allergic to bee and fire ant venom should avoid wearing perfumes or scented soaps which may attract insects.
- * Campers and hikers should wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants or knee-high socks and shorts to guard against ticks and mosquitoes.
- * Do not panic and duck or swat at the flying insect when approached, but instead, walk slowly away from it.
- * Wear sunscreen with a sun protection factor (SPF) of 15 or higher to prevent sunburn.
- * Carry a first-aid kit containing cotton balls, alcohol, aspirin or other pain medications, calamine lotion or corticosteroid cream, and bandages.
- * Discard garbage immediately to prevent unwellcome insects.
- * Check if there are any animal- or insect-borne diseases such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever or viral encephalitis in the area you plan to visit.

"Whether you go to the beach, or picnic in the park or at home, always be prepared," Wolf said. "By taking a few common sense precautions, you can have an enjoyable and safe holiday."

Tomes is band director

Bronte school's new band director is George H. Tomes, Jr.

Mr. Tomes has come to the school from the US Army Band where he served the past two years in Berlin, Germany.

He served in the Army Band in Ft. Benning, Georgia after entering the Army in 1986, where he attended basic training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, and the Army School of Music at Norfolk, Virginia.

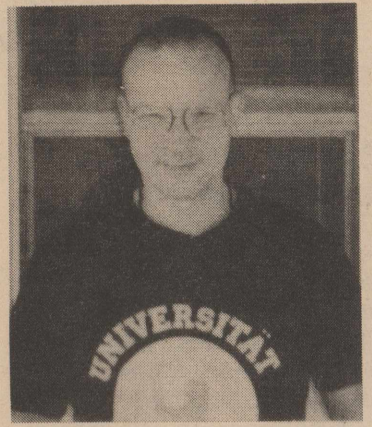

He has previously served as a high school band director at Berrien County High School in Nashville, Georgia from 1986-1988 where he provided the county school with an instrumental music curriculum. He also taught instrumental music for grades 5 through 12.

His work experience includes: high school marching band, high school music theory (college prep), high school concert band, jazz band, beginning band and middle school beginning band.

He entered his bands in over thirty music festivals and competitions and they have been awarded over eighty trophies and plaques for excellent and superior performance in an eight year period.

Mr. Tomes was selected for the 1983 edition of "Young Men of America", which was endorsed by US Jaycees.

As a soldier in the US Army, he was stationed in Berlin, Germany during the fall of communism and the fall of the Berlin Wall. He has received many military awards and dec-

Plan exercise in routine

For a healthy mind and body, why not consider incorporating some type of physical activity into your weekly routine? Walking, running, swimming, cycling, and dancing are all excellent forms of exercise that can be easily adapted into even the busiest schedule.

According to Cyndi Rohrer, director of Methodist Hospital's LifeStyle Centre, exercising at your target heart rate for just 20 to 30 minutes, three times a week substantially reduces the risk of a heart attack. "Regular exercise helps increase the level of HDL, or 'good' cholesterol in the body, which in turn lowers the risk of heart disease," said Rohrer.

And preventing heart disease is just one of the advantages of exercise. If you're having trouble starting an exercise program, consider the following additional benefits of regular physical activity. Exercise helps:

*Increase energy levels and decrease your appetite;

*Reduce weight and inches by burning fat stores and improving muscle tone;

*Slow down the aging process and prevent osteoporosis;

*Improve cardiopulmonary condition;

*Improve your mood -- endorphins released during physical activity actually help relieve stress and put you in a good mood; and

*Guard against insomnia.

If exercise seems dull, try some of the following to help occupy your mind during your workout:

*Make vacation plans;
*Make a "to do" or shopping list;

*Daydream;

*Analyze a recent hassle and think of a way to cope better next time; or

*Think of a way to eliminate one of the stressors in your life.

(NOTE: Before starting any exercise program, consult with your physician.)

SHANNON HEALTH NOTES

Aging and Exercise

Will you live longer if you adopt a program of intense and regular exercise? Researchers at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio say tests with laboratory animals show the maximum lifespan of those on an exercise program was no better than that of another group that had no exercise.

Before you head for the couch, you might consider that Dr. Roger McCarter and his colleagues did find that more of the exercising animals lived to old age than the non-exercising animals, suggesting, as previous studies have, that exercise may help fight disease that could otherwise shorten the animal's life.

Dr. McCarter says animals that consumed less than a normal amount of calories were the ones that voluntarily exercised the most. The research, funded by the National Institute on Aging, showed animals that exercised the most tended to live nearer their maximum expected lifespan.

Personal

Martin and Pat Lee and Tiffany Coulter recently took a trip to Florida and Tennessee.

In Florida, the highlight of the trip was visiting Walt Disney World (which they stayed for five days). Visiting St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States, and seeing the oldest house and the oldest schoolhouse in the United States was very interesting. The group also enjoyed going to Skopelos Restaurant in Pensacola where President and Mrs. Bush had visited March 16, 1992.

The group then traveled to Gatlinburg, Tennessee where they met Sheila and Jerry Boshears and Chase Coulter. They had been visiting Jerry's parents, David and Janet Boshears, in Rose Hill, Virginia. The group spent several days there. The highlight was touring Dollywood. However, in Gatlinburg, the group did witness a terrible fire that burned a block of businesses in the downtown area.

After being gone for eleven days and traveling through nine states, the group returned and reported they had a very enjoyable time.

Social Security

Many people may think that if they disagree with a decision made by a large government bureaucracy such as Social Security, the bureaucracy would just as soon have them keep their opinions to themselves.

It isn't true. One of the good things about Social Security is that the system stresses fairness. And, the "appeals process" is designed to make sure that every claimant gets every opportunity to present all the evidence in his or her case.

Here's how the system works.

Suppose that you are one of the 3 million people who apply for disability benefits under the Social Security or Supplemental Security Income programs each year. And, suppose that your claim is denied. You would first learn the denial through a letter that explains why we had to say no. If you disagree with the denial you can appeal the decision.

There are three separate levels of appeal:

1) Reconsideration-- This involves a complete review of your claim by someone who was not involved in the first decision. Your request for a reconsideration must be made in writing, and must be sent to Social Security within 60 days of the date you received the denial notice. During reconsideration of your claim, you can present new evidence.

2) Hearing-- If your claim is denied on reconsideration, then you have 60 days to request a hearing before an Administrative Law Judge.

The judge will look at all previous evidence in your case, and also allow you to present new evidence and call any witnesses to testify in your behalf. If for any reason you or your representative can't attend a hearing, then you must notify the judge in writing, and you may have your hearing rescheduled.

3) Appeals Council Review-- If your claim is denied at the hearing, you have 60 days from the date you receive the Administrative Law Judge's decision to request in writing a review by Social Security's Appeals Council.

If you go through all these appeals and are still not satisfied that your case was fairly and correctly adjudicated, then you can file a lawsuit in a Federal district court.

Any Social Security office can help you prepare your appeal before the Social Security Administration or you may choose someone to represent you during the appeal-- a relative, friend or lawyer. This representative cannot charge you a fee without first getting written approval from Social Security. Also, Social Security has guidelines on who can and cannot represent you.

If you have any questions about your appeal rights, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, any business day from 7:00 am to 7:00 pm. Or call our office at 915-949-4608.

FmHA to accept EIDLs from businesses

Walter Fronstin, district director of the U.S. Small Business Administration in Lubbock announced that SBA is accepting applications for Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs) from eligible small business concerns and small agricultural cooperatives without credit available elsewhere. Applicants must have sustained substantial economic injury because of their dependence upon farmers and ranchers who suffered the agricultural damages. "Farmers and ranchers are not eligible to apply for these SBA loans," Fronstin said. "However, nurseries that are victims of drought can apply."

Fronstin said that businesses seeking loan information and loan applications may call SBA's Area 3 Disaster Office in Fort Worth since all disaster loans are processed through that office. The toll-free number is 1-800-473-0477 or TDD 817-267-4688 for the hearing impaired.

Businesses located in the following counties in the Lubbock District and were affected by freeze and rain between October 28, 1991 and December 31, 1991 have until March 1, 1992 to file an EIDL application: Borden, Coke, Fisher, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Sterling.

The EIDL loan program is intended to assist agriculture-dependent business and small agricultural cooperatives who sustained a substantial decrease in sales (or other forms of economic injury) directly due to losses incurred by the farmers and ranchers to whom the business usually sells. In some cases, this may include non-agriculture-related businesses which sustain a substantial economic loss directly due to the inability of the farmer affected by the disaster to purchase goods and services at their normal levels. Small businesses claiming to have been physically injured by the specified adverse weather are not eligible for the EIDL loans.

Fronstin said the program is available only to those businesses that are considered small by SBA's size standards and do not have credit available from other sources.

The interest rate for loans processed under this designation is 4 percent. The loans are limited to the financial needs of the applicant based on the actual economic injury and may be made for up to $500,000. A loan may extend to 30 years, depending on repayment ability.

1992 Property Tax Rates in Coke Co General & FM&FC, Coke Co Underground Water Dist., West Coke Co. Hospital Dist., and Kickapoo Water District

This notice concerns 1992 property tax rates for the taxing units listed above. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.
