Pageant performances conclude this weekend

"Ole Coke County, Home of the Rabbit Twisters," continues its annual production this week on Friday and Saturday nights, July 30 and 31, beginning at 8:00 pm. Last week's shows were well received by responsive audiences.

The customary intermission report by Coke County Pageant Association President Harrell Johnston and Publicity Chairman Jeffie Roberts disclosed that 35 Texas cities and eight states were represented those two nights, and the two winners of RABBIT TWISTER T-shirts for having traveled the greatest distance to Robert Lee were from Alaska and Ireland.

This is the 17th year of annual performances depicting that part of Texas history lived by Coke County pioneers. Scenes portray real and imagined incidents based on information in "History of Coke County, Home of the Rabbit Twisters," by Jessie Newton Yarbrough; "From Top of Old Hayrick," by Jewell Pritchett; "Coke County," published by Ron and Thelma Peters in 1984, (now out of print and unavailable); "Heap Many Texas Chiefs," by Roy Holt; and personal interviews with many Coke County citizens who are descendents of early pioneer families.

Lucile Bryan has been identified as "author, director" for all the years of production, but she asked that that title be omitted from future program books. Indeed, she insists, beside the scenes she wrote, others were written by Johnny Millican and Lynn Green, with two songs arranged into short scenes composed by Doak Snead and Bonita Copeland. Other directors were Debbie Stilley and Rowena Thomas, both of Bronte. Other directors were Debbie Stilley and Rowena Thomas, both of Bronte. Other songs used this year were composed by Pauline Vaughan, Lynn Green, Don Fields, Ulmer and Josephine Bird, Della Dean Plagens, and Bonita Copeland.

Numerous actors who have appeared on stage in the past were unable to participate this year, but many new families and individuals are acting for their first time. New light and sound operators are helping, and the play has every chance to live on for many years.

New writers are urged to become better acquainted with the county's history, and to write new incidents that can be produced in the future.

As quoted from the 1991 program booklet, "Our story is based on history -- Our portrayal is light-hearted reverie."

Weather has been unbearably hot recently, but there is nearly always a breeze in MOUNTAIN CREEK AMPHITHEATRE at night. Bring your family Friday and/or Saturday nights, support the cast and work force of over 100 hard workers, enjoy a good show, and contribute your part in keeping the play alive.

Children to 5 years get in free; 5 to 12, $3.00; 12 and up, $6.00.

Eat at the concession stand; bring your lawn chair or rent a chair, or sit on the newly painted benches.

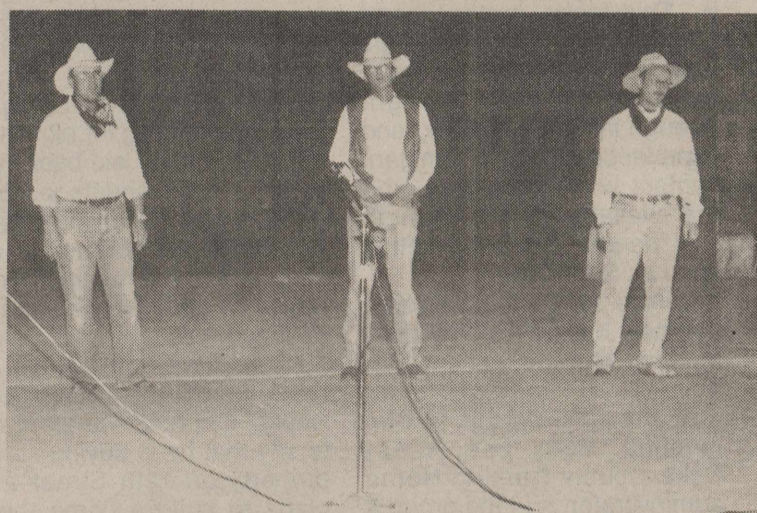

Take home a free fan and use it to cool yourself and to review the words of the theme song whose chorus says:

Old Coke County! Bold Coke County!

Those Rabbit Twisters came to stay!

Hail to the hardy pioneers who came before us;

County of Coke, in Texas, U. S. A.

See the "Wire Cutters", (l-r) Bobby Roberts, Chris Ertresvaag, and Greg Fleming Friday and Saturday nights in the last 1993 performances of "Ole Coke County - Home of the Rabbit Twisters".

Clinic boasts new assistant

The Robert Lee Shamrock Clinic is now staffed by David Dickensheets, a physician assistant. He had been at the local clinic for about six weeks.

The community had been advised months ago by Shannon Medical Center, Robert Lee's "parent" medical facility for the clinic, that chances of obtaining another doctor were slim to none. Representatives, speaking to a meeting of the West Coke County Community Development, raised the possibility of acquiring a physician assistant for the local clinic.

Physician assistants (PA's) are being widely used in the United States, particular in rural settings and smaller cities due to the difficulty of obtaining a doctor. The cost is relatively lower; they are highly skilled; they fit the criteria needed for a nursing home/emergency clinic situation like Robert Lee. Many communities sing the praises of their physician assistant who normally moves to an area and becomes part of it. This forms a close bond between him (or her) and his patients who value the medical skills he has brought through intensive training and experience. He is in constant contact with physicians who are available to him through the "parent" medical facility, such as Shannon.

Clinics surrounding Robert Lee now have PA's, including Mason, Menard, and Coleman.

At the time of the public meeting, Betty Fife, West Coke County Nursing Home administrator, told the group a retired Air Force PA was interested in the Robert Lee Clinic. David Dickensheets is that man.

He was born in Ohio, joined the Air Force after finishing high school, and went in wanting to be in the Air Traffic Control. Because he wore glasses, he was turned down for that field. He got into the medical field by the back door when he was asked if he wanted to be a medic or be a security police officer. He said he chose the medic's assignment over the security job for obvious reasons.

He served eleven years as a medic, including a stint in Vietnam. When the PA field became a reality, he attended school in Wichita Falls and interned in various government facilities. Serving as an Air Force PA, he worked in a number of places - 9 1/2 years in England.

Since his retirement 5 years ago after 28 years of service, he worked in Saudia Arabia during the Gulf War where his family was with him and a Rural Health Clinic in West Virginia. He decided he would like to settle in the western part of the country and began to search for an opportunity to his liking.

David and his wife, Alice, are living in San Angelo at the present time. Their daughter, Kimberly, will be with them until August 21 when she will go to Massachusetts to school. The couple also has a son David, II., of Fairfax, Virginia.

Alice Dickensheets has always occupied her time in working as a business or medical secretary. She is currently working at Goodfellow AFB hospital and would like to work in Robert Lee when the couple gets moved.

David said he would like to have some time later to enjoy the lake, boating or fishing. He moved his daughter's spirited, jumper/hunter horse when they moved but indicated he would be needing a sway-backed nag for himself.

A personable, laid-back kind of guy, Dickensheets is obviously a caring individual who has already established an attachment to the nursing home residents and attends most of their activities.

He and his family have already joined the Robert Lee Baptist Church. He went on to say that he is buying some property on 12th Street and plans to build a home there right away. Because of years of moving, the Dickensheets have never had a home of their own. He declared that "once we've moved in, you're going to have a hard time getting rid of me".

Clinic hours are 8 am - 12 noon, 1-5 pm weekday. David emphasized that on weekends or nights, a patient may call the nursing home and they will contact him.

Stewart, Lee exchange wedding vows

Kimberly Michell Stewart, of San Angelo, and Jeffrey Dean Lee exchanged wedding vows Saturday, July 10, 1993, in the Bronte Church of Christ. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Minister John Driggers, of Bronte.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stewart, Jr., of San Angelo. Mr. and Mrs. Turner Lee of Bronte are the groom's parents.

Maid of Honor was sister of the bride, Shelley Stewart, of San Angelo. Jon Lee, brother of the groom, of Bronte, was the Best Man.

Ushers for the wedding were cousins of the bride, Matthew Thompson, of Bedford, Texas, and Derek McKnight, of Newark, Texas. Other attendants were Rick Gust of San Angelo, and Jeffrey and Shane Jones of Bronte.

The church was decorated with pink flowers, mauve candles, and greenery. Pink satin bows marked the pews. The Maid of Honor carried a silk bouquet of flowers which included pink and white roses and pearls.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a white tea-length gown by Gunne Sax, which was made of satin and an overlay of cut lace. She carried a silk bouquet of hot pink carnations, baby's breath, pink roses, pearls, and greenery. It was accented with pink, mauve, and white satin streamers tied in love knots, and a tulle background. The bride's veil was a crown made of pearls, iridescent beads, and ruffled tulle.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered in a pink and white lace tablecloth. Punch, mints, nuts, and fruit were served. The table was centered with a white three-tiered wedding cake. It was decorated with white pearls, pink flowers, baby's breath, and greenery. The focal point was its pink fountain.

The groom's table was decorated with a blue denim tablecloth. The chocolate groom's cake of a farm scene centered the table. A cowboy boot and spittoon filled with silk greenery accented the table.

After wedding pictures were taken, nephews of the groom, Jeffrey and Shane Jones, passed out bags of bird seed to the guests.

Jeff is a 1988 graduate of Bronte High School and is a farmer and rancher. Kim is a 1988 graduate of San Angelo Central High School and attended Angelo State University. She is employed by the Surgery Department of Shannon Medical Center.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada, the couple is living in Bronte.

Personal

The Lockett Clan in Bronte takes advantage of every opportunity to get together for good food and fun. The latest "excuse" for celebrating included Diane Lockett's 7th birthday, Casey Easterling's visit with his grandmother, Pat Oglesby, and Connie and Tim Bozarth's move back to West Texas.

The gathering site was the Box L Ranch. Dewey Lockett cooked the fried catfish and hushpuppies while others contributed all the trimmings. Pat served her prize Carmel Peach Ice Cream.

Attending were Joy and A.J. McDaniel, San Angelo; Lois and Jim Dunklin, Robert Lee; Connie and Tim Bozarth, San Angelo; Casey Easterling, Mt. Zion, Illinois. From Bronte were Bill, Diane, and Joey Lockett, Helen Mur-tishaw, Dewey Lockett, and Pat Oglesby.

9-1-1 cord cutting held at courthouse

A crowd of Coke County citizens gathered in the shade of a large oak tree on the courthouse lawn Tuesday morning for the official Cut-Over Celebration for the 911 system.

Robert Weaver, representative with the Concho Valley Council of Governments which provided partial funding, introduced those taking part in the ceremony and special guests.

Recognizing those responsible for helping to bring the 911 service to Coke County were Coke County Judge Royce Lee and Helen Sommers, systems analyst with the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications. Framed acknowledgements went to several individuals and groups. Also on the program were Mayor Jackie Walker of Robert Lee and Bronte Mayor Martin Lee.

Bronte Nursing Home Administrator Pam Shaffer and West Coke County Nursing Home Administrator Betty Fife assisted Hilda Arredondo, Emergency Commission Coordinator, with the symbolic cord cutting.

On hand for the celebration were KLST television personnel.

Refreshments were provided by GTE in a reception held in the balloon-decorated commissioners' courtroom following the cut-over ceremony. Cake, decorated with the 911 symbol, along with soft drinks and coffee, was served to a large group.

Correction

In last week's O/E Tommy Williams was mis-identified as "the Oldtimer, or Rabbit Twister" the narrator of the "Ole Coke County" pageant. Although Mr. Williams did portray "the Oldtimer" at one time, the character is now played by Robert Lee Postmaster Harrell Johnston. Our apologies to both of these gentlemen.

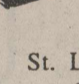

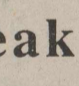

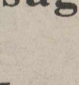

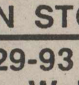

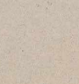

Assisting with the official cord-cutting ceremony for the implementation of 911 on Tuesday morning were (l-r) Betty Fife, Pam Shaffer, Edna Havins, Royce Lee, Martin Lee, and Hilda Arredondo. Ironically Jackie Walker was called away by 911 on an ambulance run during the ceremony.

WHITE COLLAR CHOLESTEROL

Previous studies have suggested white-collar workers might have a lower risk of heart attack than blue-collar workers. However, Dr. Patricia Hebert and her colleagues, at Harvard Medical School and Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, suggest it's not the job but differences in cholesterol levels between white-collar and blue-collar workers. When they took into consideration major risk factors for heart attacks, such as smoking, obesity, calorie consumption, and amount of exercise, white-collar workers had some advantages over blue-collar workers.

The major difference appeared to be in levels of HDL, the good kind of cholesterol. White-collar workers in the study tended to have higher levels of HDL. Dr. Hebert says, in Archives of Internal Medicine, people in any occupation can improve their levels of HDL, and lower their risk of heart disease by quitting smoking, losing weight if obese, and exercising.
