Curfew discussed at RL town meeting

A town meeting was held last Thursday night, February 10, by the city of Robert Lee for an open discussion of the proposed curfew ordinance involving juveniles. Approximately fifty people were present for the meeting held in the county courtroom.

Much research, work, and thought had gone into the tentative draft of the ordinance which basically called for those young people under 17 years of age to be home by 11:00 on weekdays and 12 midnight on weekends. Warnings to juveniles and parents would be issued twice but three or more offenses could result in a fine. A number of exceptions for the time limit would also be in place for school events, dances, trips, and other special late night events.

Mayor Jackie Walker emphasized that the proposed ordinance was an outline draft at this time and community input was needed. Discussion of a curfew has been on the minds of city council members for some time, in an attempt to reduce rising juvenile crime rates. According to Mayor Walker, the clauses in the ordinance draft "are not written in stone" and could be revised before any installation of the measure.

Speaking in favor of the curfew were Deputy Jeff Barnes and Sheriff Marshall Millican. Barnes cited the rise in juvenile arrests since 1989 as the basis for the consideration. According to his records, only one juvenile arrest was made in 1989, five in 1991, 19 in 92, and now has doubled that.

Sheriff Poke Brown of Sterling County spoke to the group in support of the curfew. He stated that Sterling City installed a curfew in October 1993 after talking to Ballinger and McCamey officials who both have curfews which are working well. No citations have been issued to date in Sterling City and the general public, along with students, seems to accept the ordinance.

County Attorney Chris Wyatt verified the legality of the curfew which has already been tested by the city of Dallas in higher courts. The initial ordinance, if passed, could be put on a 6-month trial basis.

A number of parents and interested parties voiced opposition to the curfew for various reasons; others were there to listen to the proposals as written.

Sheriff Millican explained to those present that a curfew is not for those young people who are required to be home by parents but those who are out at all hours and may be easily influenced by others. The curfew would be a law enforcement tool to allow officers to lawfully question juveniles and send them home or call their parents or guardians.

Another meeting is planned in the near future for more discussion on the issue. Notice of the date will be made public beforehand.

Tessie McMullan, a fifth grade student at Bronte, was a poster contest winner in the recent Coke County Soil and Water Conservation District's promotion. Her award was presented by Nick Arrott.

McMullan, Simpson Win Poster Contest

Tessie McMullan of Mrs. Pat Lee's Bronte 5th grade is the winner of the poster contest for students in the 5th and 6th grade sponsored by the Coke County Soil and Water Conservation District. In addition to a ribbon and certificate, Tessie received a $100 U. S. savings bond and will be honored and presented a plaque at the area awards banquet in San Angelo on March 24, 1994. Tessie is the daughter of David and Mary McMullan of Bronte.

Dixie Simpson of Mrs. Suzie Wilson's Robert Lee 5th grade was the district runner-up and the recipient of a $50 savings bond. Dixie is the daughter of Bill and Dianne Simpson of Robert Lee.

Bill Allen congratulates Dixie Simpson, Robert Lee 5th grader, on her district runner-up award in the Coke County Soil and Water Conservation contest.

McCown; 4th. Griselda Rocha. Every student who submitted a poster received a certificate from the Soil Conservation Service in appreciation for the thought, effort and publicity on the need and worth of soil and water conservation that the posters depicted.

Three posters done by Tessie McMullan, Dixie Simpson, and Beau Boxell will be entered in the Texas Regional Contest which includes 52 counties.

Pupils could choose any phase of resource conservation that is part of the work of the local soil and water conservation district. Included in this work are: soil use and treatment; erosion control practices; crop, range, and pastureland management; drainage problems; watershed protection; flood prevention; fish and wildlife management; and promoting the involvement of all citizens in conserving water and renewable resources.

Response from teachers and students was excellent and posters submitted were outstanding, both in art work and content. Trying to pick only four winners per class and two overall was a difficult task for the board of directors.

Sponsors for the poster contest included the First National Bank of Bronte, Robert Lee State Bank and Kickapoo Creek Water Control and Improvement District.

'64 Study Club

The '64 Study Club of Robert Lee met in the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church on February 8, with Olene Sims, Sue Millican, Leta Caston, and Winnie Pitcock acting as hostesses.

A very timely program was presented by representatives from the Juvenile Probation System of San Angelo. Mr. Ed Jennings, Assistant Regional Probation Officer, spoke first explaining what the duties of the probation services are for San Angelo, Tom Green County, and the other counties in the region. They shared some problems and experiences with juveniles, including some from Coke County, without disclosing names of offenders.

Mr. Edward Sanchez, Intensive Supervision Officer, spoke concerning his special field - gangs. He disclosed some alarming statistics and warned his audience against becoming lax about locking doors and windows in homes and cars. He explained that citizens MUST report to officers any unusual or suspicious activities AT THE TIME they are happening so the lawmen might investigate before the suspicious ones escape. (Local officers have begged for that kind of support in both Coke County towns.)

Many questions were asked by the club members, and answers were clear and frank. The speakers do their duty even if threats have been made against their lives and families. Both men said they like their jobs, and they are respected by gang members and other criminals because they respect the rights of the criminals, but they deal justly with the offenders.

The usual '64 Study Club business meeting was held after the program. It was agreed that the evening had been very well spent. The public must be willing to do its part if crime is to be brought under control.

Brewer honored by First United Methodist Church

Mrs. Jack Brewer (Nina) was honored by First United Methodist Church of Robert Lee last Sunday, Feb. 13, for "Outstanding contribution to her church and community" during the past year. This honor has been bestowed upon other Methodists for two previous years. Those recipients were Laura Herford and Mary Bessent.

San Angelo District Superintendents, who have suggested that United Methodist Churches in that district nominate one such person annually, entertain both the nominee and pastors with a district-wide dinner. It is stressed that nominees are not considered "better" than other members, but that the congregation recognizes and truly appreciates his or her unselfish dedication to service.

The "Outstanding Lay Person of Robert Lee United Methodist Church" for 1993 was elected by the members of the congregation who turned in their nominee's names. Lay Leader David Naizer, who presented Nina's award gave the following biography:

Nina is a retired coach, Physical Education and Special Education teacher. She and her husband, Jack, moved to Robert Lee from Odessa in 1986. Jack, who was Athletic Director of the Ector County Public Schools for many years, teases her about "just quitting" after 36 years before she had time to decide if she liked teaching or be any good at it.

As a member of the Coke County Retired Teachers Association, she has received the "Award of Distinction", Volunteer Service Award, and Appreciation Award for unusual service to TRTA and outstanding contributions in time and service on volunteer basis.

Nina and Jack are avid fisherpersons. Nina holds the record for the largest crappie caught in Lake Ivie. This crappie was caught in March of 1993.

In the Robert Lee UMW unit, Nina has held many offices. She is presently serving as president and coordinates the bereavement meals for the church. She was the recipient of the Special Mission Recognition award and pin in 1992.

Nina's favorite role is the church "bag lady". She prepares an envelope of "quiet toys, stickers, games and candy for every child who attends Sunday Morning Worship service. As soon as she is seated in the sanctuary, the children come to choose an envelope from the bag she carries. Those hugs are very special.

Nina is serving on the Administrative Board, the Pastor-Parish Relations Committee and has served as chairperson of the Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns Committee. She has served as a member of many other committees for her church.

They will be the guests of honor at the church's regular Third Sunday Potluck Luncheon in the church building annex following the morning worship assembly. Then, at 6:00 p.m., guest speaker, Edwin Myers, pulpit minister for the Sherwood Church of Christ in Odessa, will present a "show-n-tell" presentation of his work in Siberia. He will tell about some of the significant happenings and opportunities in the former Soviet Union since the drastic political changes there, especially the openness to religious discussion and requests for Bibles from a large segment of the people. Everyone in the community is urged to attend all or part of these events. John Driggers, minister for the Bronte Church of Christ, assures you a warm welcome.

CAT Meeting

The first meeting to organize a CAT (Concerned Citizens Action Team) was held with 25 Bronte residents in attendance. No persons attended from Robert Lee. It was decided that the State MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) would sponsor a Coke County Chapter due to the need of a voice in this area.

There was good discussion about needs in this county. It was decided that our priority should be to (1) communicate with law enforcement officials to report persons attempting to provide minors with alcohol and drugs and (2) to communicate with the Texas Alcohol Control Board and involve them in local public sale and consumption of drugs and alcohol. MADD and Coke County CAT is a voice to improve our communities and make them a safer place for all persons, especially teenagers.

The next meeting will be held in late February or early March and will be announced. For more information contact Brenda Beck at 282-2901.

Counselor's Comments

by Vicky McCutchen

Success in school is one of the main topics parents, students, and the public are interested in today. What do our students need to do to succeed in school? One of the most important skills needed to succeed are study skills. There are many important, critical skills needed for success in school. These are reading skills, math skills, language arts skills, behavior skills, test-taking skills and time management. These skills can and should be implemented into classrooms, beginning in elementary and carried on through high school.

Parents can play an important role at home with their child by being aware of study skills and what they include. Below is a list of ideas for helping a student study for a test.

1. Identify the information to be covered on the test.
2. Identify and collect all materials needed (notes, text, etc.)
3. Identify major topics
4. Under each topic identify major headings
5. Under each heading identify: who, what, when, where, how and why
6. Underline, highlight, or write the information in an outline form.
7. Make study aids such as flash cards, index cards, etc.
8. Memorize information using your outline or other devices.
9. Study with classmates
10. Write practice questions using your outline.
11. Answer any study questions provided.
12. Make sure all information is understood completely.

Other skills such as test-taking skills are extremely important also. If a student fails a test, the first question that comes to mind is, "Did they study?" Sometimes they do study but the problem is in taking the actual test. An example would be when a student did not read and understand the directions. Knowing certain skills can lead to success when preparing for a test or in actually taking the test.

Bronte School News UIL Academic Activities

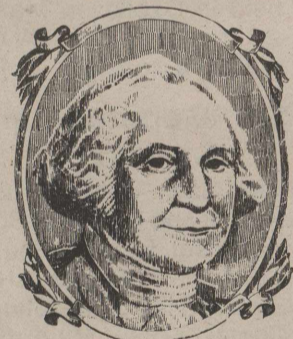

The University Interscholastic League academic activities are in full swing now. Students participated in the annual Robert Lee practice meet on Saturday, February 12. Even though this date happened to be during our four-day weekend, we had some high students attend the meet to begin working toward the district contest on March 26.

Students attending the Robert Lee contest were: Wendy Huckabee - Number Sense, Laura Thomas - Ready Writing, Casey Thorn - Number Sense, Ben Huckabee - Science, Walter King - Ready Writing, Science, and Mathematics, and Edwin Thomas - Number Sense, Calculator, and Mathematics. Walter King placed 8th with a tie in Mathematics and also tied for 9th place in high school Science. Walter won 1st place in Ready Writing.

The next contest for Mathematics and Science will be at Lakeview in San Angelo on Saturday, February 19. Sponsors attending and helping with the contests were Scott Turner and Jerita Taylor.

Women and heart disease

(Editor's Note: February is Heart Month)

Older women with heart disease may find hope in hormone replacement therapy when results are known from a study at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Researchers from Baylor's DeBakey Heart Center and Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology are studying whether hormones will improve health and prevent premature death for postmenopausal women with heart disease.

The Heart and Estrogen/progestin Replacement Study (HERS) is the first to look at the effect of combined hormones on the cardiovascular system of women with known heart disease, said Dr. J. Alan Herd, Baylor professor of medicine and leader of the Heart Center research team.

"While we know healthy, postmenopausal women have less heart disease when they take hormones, this study gives us an opportunity to see if women with existing disease can be helped as well," Herd said.

The study will also look at whether estrogen plus progestin works as well as estrogen alone in reducing risks for cardiovascular disease and osteoporosis, but with less risk for endometrial cancer, said Dr. Michael C. Snabes, Baylor assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology and HERS co-principal investigator.

"Not only would we have a hormonal treatment to give to women with heart disease history, we would also have a much stronger argument for prescribing hormones as a heart disease preventive for all postmenopausal women," Snabes said.

HERS is a national study involving 2,340 women in 18 research centers. The study will follow the women, half taking hormones and half taking placebos (non-active pills) through June 1998, checking their cardiovascular and gynecologic health every four months.

Postmenopausal women participating in the study must not have had a hysterectomy, must have had a heart attack, balloon angioplasty or heart bypass surgery and must be less than 80 years old. Women interested in participating at Baylor can call (713) 798-8800. For information about one of the other 17 centers, call 1-800-284-HERS.

RL Methodists meet

The administrative board of Robert Lee's First United Methodist Church met Sunday, February 6, 5:30 pm at Bryan's Barn. Sixteen people enjoyed a sandwich potluck supper before a regular business meeting was held with Administrative Chairman Jimmy Bickley in charge.

Rev. Bill Frisbie, pastor, then led the group in 'VISION QUEST PART II'. He introduced the session by discussing Proverbs 19:18 which reads: "Where there is no vision, the people die." People die? "More literally," Bill explained, "the people 'let go', 'cast off restraint', or 'perish'. When a church lacks a guiding vision, we aren't sure where we should go from here."

The chairpersons of seven committees were appointed an area in the room to meet with other members interested in envisioning methods of improving 1) spiritual growth, 2) worship, 3) fellowship, 4) stewardship, 5) evangelism, 6) mission, and 7) visitation. After a time of quiet and prayerful seeking ideas, each group listed their dreams, then the groups reunited to share.

It was not surprising that the total blended into several exciting visions, some of which demand immediate attention. Others can be developed later.

The group met at Bryan's Barn last October for "Vision Quest, Part I", and most of the ideas envisioned at that time have been accomplished.

"Where there is no vision, the people die."

We met at the school at 6:00 pm and loaded on the bus for a trip to the Nursing Home. We had great visits with the residents. We handed out Valentine cards that the first, second, and third grade made. We also handed out homemade cookies from the Home Ec. Food Science class. After visiting with the people, we came back to the school to eat sandwiches, chips, dips, and cookies. We also felt what it was like to be in elementary again by handing out Valentine cards to everybody's little Valentine holder.

Lady Bird Johnson visited West Texas area in 1964

by Margaret Martin
 England's former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's, recent visit to Angelo State University reminded many Coke County residents of another dignitary who made a visit to the then San Angelo College campus on October 26, 1964. The first appearance of a president's wife to West Texas, First Lady "Lady Bird" Johnson, was on that date. Mrs. Johnson was accompanied to the campus by three members of the cabinet, including Mrs. Orville Freeman, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. Robert S. McNamara, wife of the Secretary of Defense, and Mrs. Willard Wirtz, wife of the Secretary of Labor. She was also accompanied by Mrs. Preston Smith, wife of the Lieutenant Governor of Texas, along with many White House and Texas Press members.

Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by the Secret Service, was one hour and 45 minutes late arriving at Mathis Field and to the Student Center at the college.

The area had previously been checked thoroughly by Secret Service agents and police before her arrival. Agents were all around and on the roof of the building with guns during her visit.

It was a great occasion for the Bronte Longhorn Band. Its members had been invited to play for the First Lady. They were seated almost directly in front of the platform outside the center from which Mrs. Johnson spoke.

The band, under the direction of Director R.H. Hornbeck, and San Angelo College Band entertained during the delay of the First Lady's arrival. They played many numbers including, "The Eyes of Texas", "Happy Days are Here Again", and "The Yellow Rose of Texas".

Marla Rees was Drum Major and the twirlers were Pat Robinson and Dorothy Ruth Martin. The three were allowed by the police to perform in the street in front of the band. They performed many routines during the long period waiting for Mrs. Johnson's arrival.

The Longhorn Band made a big hit with the restless crowd of 10,000 persons awaiting the arrival of dignitaries, and many cheers and compliments were received for their musical ability, appearance, good behavior, and performance of its members.

The 1964 Bronte School Superintendent, C.B. Barbee, issued the following statements concerning the band's participation in the event. "I consider it a distinct privilege for our high school band to have been selected as one of the two area bands (San Angelo College Band was the other) to greet the arrival of our First Lady."

"I think it was an experience our participating students shall never forget. The band's conduct and good behavior added to the dignity of the occasion. Mr. Hornbeck is to be commended for his ability and willingness to adjust to the last minute changes."

"The many compliments on the appearance and performance of the band made us feel that the little loss of instructional time was a small price to pay for this experience."

Perhaps the very most thrilling event of the day was experienced by two Bronte young ladies, two Robert Lee young ladies and two from San Angelo, who presented bouquets to Mrs. Johnson and her entourage upon their arrival at the college.

"The Little Ladies for Lyndon" were Melissa Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Lee and Sallie Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conda O. Richards, all of Bronte; the little ladies from Robert Lee were Patti Lynn Ivey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cumbie Ivey, Jr., who presented her bouquet to First Lady Johnson, and Kathy McCutchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCutchen. The young ladies from San Angelo were Melody Theriot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Theriot and Lee Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rose.

Patti Lynn received a note from Mrs. Johnson thanking her and her friends for the nosegays they presented.

This part of the day's program was under the direction of Mrs. Cumbie Ivey, Jr. of Robert Lee. They had a fantastic presentation.

After the First Lady's speech and other presentations, a reception was held for the dignitaries inside the Student Center for the enormous crowd.

A large delegation of Coke County residents attended all the ceremonies that afternoon of October 26, 1964.

Buffalo soldier stamps available in April

Courageous African American soldiers of the U.S. Army's 9th and 10th Cavalry and the 24th and 25th Infantry Regiments helped patrol the West after the Civil War. The U.S. Postal Service will honor the Buffalo Soldiers this year with the issuance of a 29 cent commemorative stamp.

First day of issue for the Buffalo Soldiers stamp will be in Dallas on April 22. The first day ceremony will begin at 1:30 pm outside Dallas' Hyatt Regency Hotel. Charles Stenholm

For over 14 years, Congressman Charles Stenholm has served the 17th District of Texas in the U. S. House of Representatives. This 28,000 square mile area, making up 11 percent of the total land mass in Texas, is larger than the areas of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware, New Jersey, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia combined. Life in the 17th revolves around cattle, cotton, oil, gas and

TPWD

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) fisheries management crew from San Angelo completed electrofishing surveys on E. V. Spence as well as on other area reservoirs. TPWD electrofishes in the fall to sample the largemouth bass, sunfish, and shad populations in the lakes to determine how well they are doing.

The electrofisher uses electricity to stun fish in the water. The fish are then captured by net, counted measured, weighed, and returned to the lake. A few fish are retained to determine their ages and for genetic analysis. Many people think that electrofishing (or shocking) fish hurts the fish. This is not true. In fact, the hatcheries collect their brood fish with electrofishing boats.

The electrofisher works by generating a field of pulsed direct current (DC) in the water. The DC actually attracts the fish and the pulsing stuns them. The field only reaches about 6 feet down, so only shallow water can be sampled. Because of this, not many large fish are collected because the larger fish tend to stay in deep water. Electrofishing is done at night to prevent the fish from fleeing to deeper water as the electrofishing boat approaches.

Ninety four largemouth bass were collected on Lake E. V. Spence in two hours of electrofishing. Most of the bass collected were between 7 and 12 inches long. Those fish were probably born in the spring of 1993 and will be legal sized (14 inches) this spring. Twenty percent of the bass were 14 inches or longer. This is the most little fish TPWD fisheries biologists have seen in several years and they attribute the increase to the rise in water last year.

Stenholm has been an Agriculture Committee member since being sworn into Congress in January 1979. He serves as Chairman of the Department Operations and Nutrition Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee. Most recently, he has been successful in addressing problems in the areas of farm credit, disaster relief and animal product safety. Although in his eighth congressional term, Stenholm continues to be actively involved in his family cotton farming operation in Jones County, Texas.

Stenholm became a member of the House Budget Committee in January, 1991. This has given him an even greater opportunity to actively pursue goals of fiscal responsibility through his efforts to reduce federal spending and achieve a balanced federal budget.

As the founder and coordinator of the Conservative Democratic Forum (CDF), Stenholm has been referred to as the voice of reason in addressing some of the leading issues of the day. Founded in 1980, the 50-plus member CDF is dedicated to an affordable, common sense, democratic legislative process.

Beware of phone order chemicals

Producers and homeowners should beware of chemicals that someone tries to sell over the phone. The last couple of years there has been less than honest salesmen peddling "miracle chemicals" over the phone stating unbelievable results when they are used.

Even though some legitimate companies do sell their products direct by phone orders, a lot of the time, the less scrupulous ones rely heavily on phone orders. They will usually try to lure you into a false sense of security either by stating some fantastic results when their product is used or another selling point often used is that there is a short supply and you need to order now at their reduced price before the chemical is gone.

Usually the product they are selling actually has the specified chemical in the formulation, but what they don't tell you is how much is in there. A lot of the phone order bargain chemicals have the actual ingredient is a very small amount along with the largest portion being diesel or other inert ingredients. This type of sales is not illegal, but the product you get is not what you thought it was.

When someone tries to sell chemicals over the phone, ask them to send you a sample label of the product so you can see what percentage of chemical is actually in it. Most of the time this will discourage them. If you have any questions concerning these mail order chemicals, you can call the County Extension office at 453-2461 and I can assist you in determining the validity of the product.

HEALTH NOTES

Mental/Addictive Disorders

Mental and/or addictive disorders affect an estimated twenty-eight percent of American adults, based on a one-year study period of more than twenty thousand adults by the National Institute of Mental Health and five universities in various parts of the country. The study, originally recommended by the President's Commission on Mental Health, was published in Archives of General Psychiatry (2-93). It also shows that only about a quarter of those with mental or substance abuse disorders sought help or their problems from agencies staffed by either professional or volunteer counselors.

Dr. Darrel Regier and his colleagues say it's clear that large numbers of people with these disorders relied on friends, relatives and self-help groups for care and support. While it's important to involve family members and concerned friends in appropriate treatment goals, the researchers suggest use of professional care sources may allow an even better resolution of problems facing mental or addictive disorders.

Easements may help FmHA Farm Borrowers Restructure Debts

"Farmers with loans from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) may be able to put flood-damaged land under conservation easements in exchange for a reduction in their debt," George Ellis, FmHA State Director, said today.

Use of the easements is not limited to flood areas, but it may be particularly helpful in such areas.

"Eligible lands may include wetlands, marginal farmland, highly erodible land, woodland, wildlife areas, and several others," Ellis said. "In certain areas there may be instances where farmland was damaged so severely by the recent flooding that restoring it may cost more than its agricultural value." "In those cases, a conservation easement may be a solution. Under this program, a voluntary easement can be placed on a portion of the land in return for a reduction in the amount owed to FmHA." Ellis said the easements are for 50 years or more and can help rebuild soil conditions as well as encourage development of wildlife habitat.

"Not only can FmHA farm borrowers take marginal acreage out of production in this way, they also can materially reduce their farm operating costs," Ellis said.

Farmers who think they may be eligible should contact their local FmHA County Office for further information.

Farmers Home Administration, as an Equal Opportunity Lender, makes loans or grants to individuals or groups and guarantees to approved lenders without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, familial status, and handicap. Complaints of discrimination should be sent to: Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

SA workshop for minority businesses

Area minority - and women owned companies will have the opportunity to position themselves for a share of $5 million in business at a free workshop later this month.

Working with the Angelo State University Small Business Development Center, the Texas Department of Transportation will sponsor "Texas Department of Transportation Business Opportunities Workshop," a workshop aimed at qualifying area businesses as disadvantaged business enterprises.

The workshop is scheduled for 5 to 7 pm February 24 in Room 105 of the Rassman Business-Computer Science Building on the ASU campus. To make reservations contact the SBDC at 942-2098.

"We're required to do 10 percent of our business through DBEs - disadvantaged business enterprises," explained Alan Ford, Director of Administration for the Texas Department of Transportation. "Just in our district, we're probably looking somewhere in the neighborhood of $5 million (in business designated for DBE preference)," he said. That includes contracting for work and purchasing of materials, Ford said.

To qualify as a DBE, a business must be at least 51 percent owned by minorities or females, Ford explained.

At the workshop, state employees will explain what types of business the department is looking for and a representative from Texas A&M University's TEEX (Texas Engineering Extension Service) program will be on hand to qualify businesses on the spot as DBEs.

"If attendance is such that (the TEEX representative) can't do it all that night, he will be available the next day and will even come to the business to assist the business owner being qualified," Ford said.

He added the TEEX also assists, free of charge, with safety programs, project management, bookkeeping, filling out payroll forms and computers.

One reason for conducting a workshop here is that the department has difficulty identifying eligible businesses, he added.

"We would hope to identify DBEs we weren't aware of that we will be able to do business with."

The process is not as simple as getting a chamber of commerce list of minority businesses because not all of them provide services or goods the department can buy, Ford said. For example, beauticians and restaurants would not attract department business.

In addition, other state agencies also must seek qualified DBEs for at least 10 percent of their contracts and purchases, though their contracting budgets are not as large as the Texas Department of Transportation. "Some of the other agencies don't get into the large amount of contracting we do," Ford said.

Statewide, the department does about $2 million in contracts and purchases, he added. "We're a fairly large customer, and in my estimation we would be good for anybody's business to sell product's," he said.

Heart attack or heartburn?

Knowing the difference between a heart attack and heartburn could prevent a trip to the hospital, says a gastroenterologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Many people mistake the burning feeling in the pit of the stomach for a heart attack," said Dr. Fred Sutton, a Baylor associate professor of medicine. "About 20 percent of emergency room patients who thought they were having a heart attack actually suffer from heartburn."

However, Sutton says it is better to be safe than sorry. "If you have any doubts, seek medical attention immediately," he said. "A physician can better determine the cause of your pain and possibly save your life."

Heartburn, or acid indigestion, is caused by a backflow of stomach acids into the esophagus, the long tube connecting the throat and stomach. As food travels through the esophagus, the muscle at the bottom of the esophagus weakens, allowing acid to flow back into the stomach.

Nearly half of all adults will have at least one monthly episode of heartburn, most of them preventable, according to Sutton.

"If you smoke or eat a big meal before going to bed, the chances increase for heartburn," he said.

Heart attack and heartburn both cause nausea, a burning sensation behind the breastbone and intense chest pain. But heart attack symptoms include shortness of breath, sweating, numbness in the limb, chest pain lasting less than 30 minutes and chest pain radiating into the left hand.

Over-the-counter antacids usually relieve heartburn symptoms, but taking too many can cause diarrhea and constipation.

If heartburn recurs two or three times weekly, consult a physician. It could mark the development of an ulcer or gallstones.

"Prevention is the best way to control heartburn," Sutton said. "Stay away from foods or products that give you acid indigestion."

Sutton also recommends:
*Avoiding smoking and overindulging in food or alcohol.

*Eating in moderation, particularly when consuming rich or spicy food, coffee and tea.

*Waiting at least two hours after eating before exercising or lying down. If pain persists, elevate your head with extra pillows.

*Avoiding bending over immediately after eating.

*Avoiding tight belts and other constrictive clothing.
