HSC nurse taken hostage

Woman released after 11-hour standoff

By Laura Hensley and Ginger Pope
Staff Writer

Through the efforts of Texas Tech Health Science Center employees and state and federal officers, an 11-hour hostage standoff ended peacefully with two inmates at the John T. Montford Psychiatric/Medical Unit on Tuesday.

After hours of drawn-out negotiations, an HSC nurse was released Tuesday night after she was taken hostage at the Montford unit.

Cynthia Jobe, 50, was released unharmed around 8:30 p.m. A struggle Tuesday morning between two inmates and four guards at the unit resulted in the standoff.

Joe Fernald, senior warden of the Montford Unit, said the situation ended successfully with the inmates getting their demands met.

"They were interested in having the federal authorities in," Fernald said. "You have to remember they're in here for psychiatric reasons ... they wanted attention," Fernald said.

There will be an internal investigation as to what led up to the incident, but Fernald gave no timetable as to when and if information about the investigation would be released.

Fernald, who has dealt with similar situations before, would not say where the inmates were taken once they left the site.

The incident began around 9:40 a.m. in the E-1 pod of the housing wing of the unit.

Cell mates Julius Gruleky and Curtis Robertson had requested Tylenol, and Jobe came to give them the medicine. As the guards, who were accompanying Jobe, opened the cell door, the inmates attacked them with six-to-eight inch homemade knives, Fernald said.

During the scuffle, two officers were stabbed, and two others suffered minor injuries to a knee and an ankle. The inmates then grabbed the nurse and forced her into a smaller room near the cell where they barricaded themselves inside.

The guards, David Richardson and Jeffery Narbeaz, suffered minor stab wounds and were transported to local hospitals, treated and released. The two other officers were treated at the Montford Unit.

Soon after the incident, a negotiation team consisting of staff from HSC and the Texas Department of Criminal Justice were called in to handle all communications with the inmates. The negotiation team was able to talk with the inmates over the telephone and also were allowed to speak with the hostage throughout the day.

Fernald said although the back-and-forth negotiations were calm in nature, the inmates were posing numerous demands. He said the negotiation team worked hard to satisfy the inmates, but their main concern was getting Jobe out of harms way.

"She's a real trouper," he said. "Our paramount concern is to get nurse Jobe out of there and get her home."

Jobe has worked at the unit since July 1995, when the unit opened. She is one of 278 Tech employees the unit has on staff.

Arena facing new contracts, stress testing

By Ginger Pope
Staff Writer

Texas Tech officials plan to rework contractual agreements by the end of this week and begin testing the stability of the United Spirit Arena next week.

The contract with Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc. expired March 31, and new contracts are expected to be in place at the end of the week, said Theresa Drevell, with Facilities, Planning and Construction.

The contract expired because officials anticipated the arena to be completed by the end of March.

Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc. are concerned with the management of the site. Don Bundock has been site manager, but since the expiration of the contract he has not been on the site.

Drevell, who used to be located in the Facilities, Planning and Construction office in the administration building, has been relocated to the arena site.

Tech Deputy Chancellor Jim Crowson said the contracts will be extended until the arena is finished. The completion date is expected to be Sept. 1, if not before Aug. 18, he said.

While working on contract details, officials also have planned to begin testing steel adjustments in the west area of the arena May 5 through May 11, said Cindy Rugeley, associate vice chancellor for Tech News and Information.

"This is to test the area where problems were pointed out before. Fall tests revealed it might be a problem," Rugeley said.

The concrete handicap structure, along the west area of the arena, had to be reinforced to increase the safety factor.

The area will be loaded with large sandbags to test the strength. This is just one of the final steps in finishing the arena, Rugeley said.

The test will cost about $200,000 and five engineers will be on site to analyze the results.

Crowson said no one expects the tests to fail, and Chancellor John Montford will conduct a press conference after the test to release the testing information and address any rumors that have circulated about the arena's safety.

Funeral services held for Tech student, flags to be lowered

Funeral services for Texas Tech student Kylie Thomas were Tuesday in Lubbock.

Thomas was a senior human sciences major from Lubbock. She died Friday at Harris Methodist Hospital in Fort Worth.

Thomas graduated from Coronado High School and was in her senior year at Tech.

Dean of Students Michael Shonrock said Thomas was enrolled in the College of Human Sciences and had two semesters left.

"She was a very good student, this is just a terrible tragedy," Shonrock said.

Services were held at Lakeridge United Methodist Church in Lubbock. The flags in Memorial Circle will fly at half-staff Monday in recognition and honor of Thomas, Shonrock said.

Coliseum renovations not to interfere with graduation

Chase Perry/The University Daily

New Roof: Renovations to the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum still are in the works. Officials expect the roof to be finished sometime around December.

By Wayne Hodgkin
Managing Editor

Although the replacement of the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum roof began in mid-October, renovations still are being performed and likely will last until December.

Texas Tech officials said the renovations will be going on through May and August commencement exercises.

"We have an agreement arrangement with coliseum maintenance that says no activity can be performed for 24 hours prior to graduation ceremonies," Brink said.

"It won't be attractive to visitors, but there won't be any open holes during the ceremonies."

Vicki Key, manager of the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center and coliseum, said the contract with Austin-based A.D. Willis Company is structured to allow for the renovations of the roof.

"The architects could not tell how much needed to be replaced until they tore it off," Key said.

"There was more damage that what was expected."

Key said although the actual cost of the renovations is $211,108.80, the amount already is figured into the original contract with the roofing company.

The roof has to be replaced because of deterioration in the roof and decking.

The A.D. Willis Company received notice to proceed on the renovations around Oct. 21 or Oct. 22, said Freddy Chavez, assistant manager for the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center and coliseum.

Because of different variables such as rain delays, Chavez said he could not estimate a definite finishing time, but according to the contract, the renovations should be complete within 330 days of the starting date.

Other than Tech graduation ceremonies this summer, the Lubbock hockey team will move into the structure with their first practices beginning in late September or early October.

Trey Medlock, director of corporate sales and marketing for the Lubbock Cotton Kings, said the work on the coliseum will not affect the hockey team.

"It's probably not going to affect our work during the day," Medlock said.

"They'll cover the ice, if they're working, so it won't be damaged."

Medlock said the Cotton Kings had no 24-hour hiatus agreement with the coliseum like the one Tech has, but team officials are meeting with city officials later this week to work out the details.

Medlock said the team has about 12 to 13 games through December.

"We would like for them to be finished," he said.

"But like everyone else, we'll just wait."

Millennium Committee seeking seniors

By Gretchen Verry
Staff Writer

Walking across the Texas Tech campus, one cannot help but notice the victory bells, distinctive light posts and upperclassman Double T bench.

All of these Tech landmarks were donated by graduating classes of the university.

The graduating class of 1999 is working to re-establish this tradition that died 35 years ago.

"I think all of the momentum created here on campus by the chancellor, combined with this unique time period, the time is right to bring this back," said Logan Spence, committee organizer.

The committee, comprised of seniors graduating within the calendar year of 1999, decided to raise money to construct a sun dial and clock tower to commemorate the class.

Spence said the committee is in need of seniors graduating in July, August and December to take over the project.

Applications are available in the Student Government Association Office and are open to all seniors.

The Bill Collins clock tower originated as a part of the Master Plan in 1996. The tower will feature a clock costing $20,000. The money will be raised from donations pledged by the 1999 senior class.

The sun dial will be funded by the sale of bricks to seniors and student organizations. The bricks will be engraved with the name of the purchaser. Bricks cost $50 each and can be purchased through the Development Office by calling 742-1829.

Students and organizations are required to pay 25 percent of their donation in order to reserve a brick, Spence said.

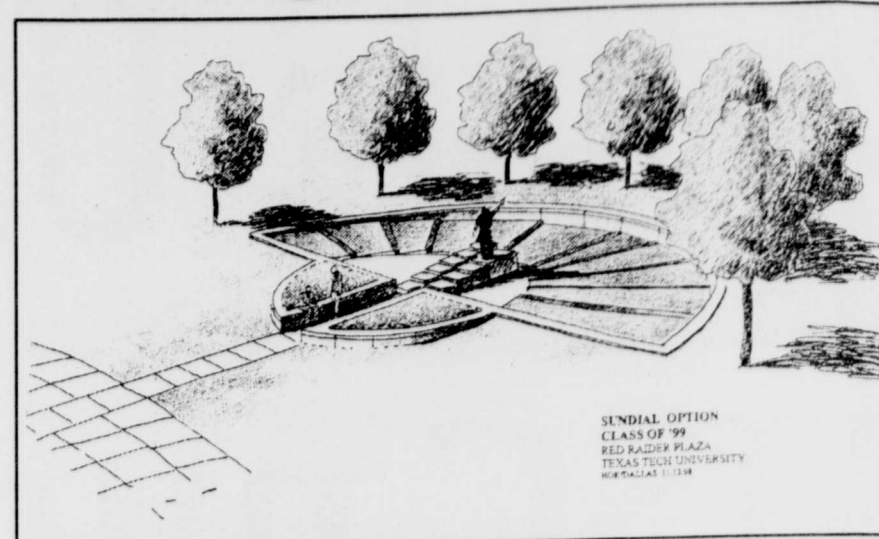

Dean of Students Michael

Shonrock said his office became involved in the project when seniors approached him with the idea.

"Our office was happy to provide whatever help we could," Shonrock said.

"I'm quite excited we are re-establishing a great tradition here at Texas Tech University."

To celebrate individuals and organizations that have donated to the project, as well as the senior class as a whole, the Dean of Students Office will host a reception with Chancellor John Montford at 3 p.m. May 3 in the Matador Room of the University Center.

Ring ceremony kicks off tradition at Merket Alumni Center

By Kelley Shriber
Contributing Writer

A handshake, a photo and an official Texas Tech Ex-Students Association ring, handed over by the president of the university, are what more than 300 Tech students received Tuesday night at the inaugural ring ceremony.

Curt Langford, of Texas Tech Ex-Students Association and organizer of the event, wanted the Merket Alumni Center "packed to the hilt to make it a special event."

Students who purchased rings and had at least 60 credit hours were invited to attend the inaugural ceremony. Tech officials hope this will be a tradition students latch on to and continue long into the future.

"The response to this tradition exceeded our expectations," Langford said.

The ring passing began by bringing back a tradition from the first Tech graduation ceremony. At that time, each graduate's name was placed into a basket, and the person whose name was pulled out became the first "official" Tech graduate.

Tech President Donald Haragan pulled out Kala Strebeck's name.

"I'm just so privileged to have this honor," said Strebeck, an advertising major from Clovis, N.M.

After Strebeck received her ring, the names of each of the remaining students' names were called out. Students received their rings from Haragan. Students waited to place their rings on their fingers until the last person received a ring. Then, while singing the "Matador Song," the students collectively put on their rings.

"Strive for Honor," a line from the Matador Song, was inscribed on each ring.

"When I'm older and I look at my ring, I can say that the president presented it to me, and that is such an honor," said Amy Vogt, a senior restaurant, hotel and institutional management major from Katy.

Brink wins award for freshman program

By Jonathan Biles
Staff Writer

Texas Tech's vice provost received an Outstanding First-Year Student Advocate award for his design and recruitment of a program that became the answer to Tech's student-retention problems.

James Brink received the award after he spent a tremendous amount of time developing a seminar program that helped prepare freshmen for what college life was going to throw at them.

"The program proved to be a success," Brink said. "It prepared students for survival and gave them a higher expectation of themselves."

Brink was one of 13 people who were chosen by a national panel of educators to receive the award.

The award was developed and sponsored by the University of South Carolina-based National Resource Center for the First-Year Experience and Students in Transition.

Brink's development of the program did not come without knowing what goes on at Tech every year.

Since he left a teaching job at the University of Washington in 1976, he came to Tech and taught many forms of history until he was selected as the assistant provost in 1997.

Here, Brink said he could make a difference with the students.

"I am quite happy being vice provost," Brink said. "I like helping people."

Not only did Brink design the program in 1991 to help freshmen, but he also designed a similar program in 1990 to help freshmen in their journey through Tech, he said.

Brink has been the vice provost since January 1998, and he said it has been an enjoyable job.

"It has always been a delight to do what I do," Brink said.

He began his college career and received his bachelor's degree at the University of Kansas and afterward, spent a few years in the Peace Corps in a reforestation program.

Before coming to Tech in 1976, Brink taught at the University of Washington for two years, where he received his doctoral degree.

Even though he graduated from another university, Brink said his future and his devotion is with Tech.

Montford Unit hostage incident results positively

HSC is contracted to provide managed care for the Montford Unit. The managed care includes medical service and psychiatric care for inmates.

The hostage situation also led to the reported resignation of an HSC employee, but Fernald said he is not aware of any other employees' resigning because of the day's events.

Sharen Stanley, a nurse at the unit, said she was horrified about the situation and turned in her resignation Tuesday to get out of what she described as a "highly-stressful job."

"It's unlike anything you have ever seen," Stanley said. "(The inmates) cuss and throw things at us. They perform sexual acts in front of us."

Stanley said she had never felt entirely safe working in the unit, but Tuesday's incident scared her enough to resign.

"They're inmates. They are all dangerous," she said. "Everybody in there has been threatened, but this was the straw that broke the camel's back."

This is the first major assault incident the Montford Unit has dealt with since its opening in 1995. As a result of the situation, the complex was in complete lock-down. No inmate movement was allowed and access was monitored in and out of the unit. Inmates will remain in lock-down until authorities have time to assess the situation, Fernald said.

State, city and federal departments came to offer help and support with security. Several Texas Department of Public Safety officers worked in shifts to secure the perimeter of the unit and control the traffic flow in and out of the unit. The Texas Rangers and several Lubbock city and county police also were present during the day. FBI agents came to the unit as part of the inmates' demand to speak with federal officials.

Fernald said the rest of the unit

Authorities say girlfriend bought guns

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — Exactly a week after the first shots rang out at Columbine High School, a hush fell over the Denver area Tuesday and church bells tolled 15 times — one for each victim and the two gunmen.

Investigators, meanwhile, questioned Dylan Klebold's 18-year-old girlfriend, who is believed to have bought at least two of the weapons used by Klebold and Eric Harris.

Investigators want to know whether she knew how the guns were to be used.

Eric Harris, 18, and Klebold, 17, committed suicide after bursting into Columbine High with guns and bombs on April 20.

Investigators said Robyn K. Anderson bought at least two of the weapons — a rifle and a shotgun — at a Denver-area gun show last fall. Anderson has not been arrested, and authorities stopped short of describing her as a suspect.

She has retained a lawyer and is said to be cooperating.

Generally, it is illegal to give a minor a pistol, and illegal to give anyone a gun with the knowledge that it will be used in a crime.

Columbine teachers returned to work Tuesday — not at the heavily damaged high school, but a few miles away at Chatfield High.

Columbine students will return to classes on Monday — also at Chatfield.

Finals frenzy gears up

Sometimes, especially this time of year, we all get caught up in this whole school overload thing. You've got projects to finish up, last minute tests to cram for, registration to worry about, summer jobs looming in the background, not to mention finals start in just one week from Friday.

And to top it all off (as if you need more stress in your life), last month's bills are overdue, rent needs to be paid by Monday, there is no food in the house, the credit cards are all maxed out, and everyone you know is broke.

It could be worse; you could be on the verge of graduation, then that means there is a whole other list of worries on your mind that I don't even need to go into.

Kevin Preas
Columnist

Some of you are spending your free time thinking about different ways to justify to your parents why those A's that you lied to them about in December, then lied about again in January, have once again turned into C's. "Honest Dad, the teacher didn't speak a word of English," is always a useful excuse.

Others are looking for different ways to avoid the situation.

Have you ever contemplated dropping out of school and moving to a foreign country to become a bartender or something of that sort? Don't worry, you're not the only one.

Point is most of us are stressing out about something and are searching for some way to get out of this funk.

We spend so much time worrying about what is going wrong with our school or in our personal lives to think about some of the great things there are about being a college student.

Maybe this will cheer you up. Feeling down? Think about the first time you came to Tech, the excitement of just being here. Don't think about all the bad things here.

Instead of getting stressed out about graduation, think about how long you have been working for this moment, and everything you have to look forward to.

Getting stressed out about finals? Just think that in two weeks they will be over.

Then you can reward yourself with all the great things to do in Lubbock. Don't laugh.

There is nothing better than afternoon happy hour on any of the great patios in this town.

Or better yet, head to the Strip and then just sit in the backyard and do nothing but drink beer and relax.

If you're broke, well, there is no advice I can offer you, other than it's worth and just to forget about it. Every-thing will work its way out in the long run.

Don't worry, the end is in sight.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hampton lawsuit not about race; colors not treated fairly

To the editor: I am writing to voice my opinion on the Hampton lawsuit, however unwanted that opinion may be. At the present, representatives for minorities everywhere are crying out for racial equality, just as they have been doing so for many years.

We live in a society where we are unable to form organizations solely for the promotion of Caucasians. We have been prohibited from awarding scholarships specified for whites and setting up separate schools or forming groups made up exclusively of whites.

If we do so, we are branded as prejudiced or racist. All of this, when there are countless scholarships solely awarded to minorities every year, universities set up exclusively for minorities, and other organizations for the advancement of Hispanics, Asians and blacks.

I am sick and tired of the common misconception that only white people are racist. I grew up in a school system where I was the minority, and I have seen members of other races commit acts of racism or prejudice.

I readily admit that there are those of my race who are hopelessly prejudiced toward minorities, but others should not let these few bad apples spoil the bunch.

Just exactly what kind of equality are we striving for? There is a bill in Congress on hate crime legislation.

Under this bill, minorities attacked by whites in certain situations would be considered victims of a hate crime. On the other hand, if a minority attacked a white person in the same situation, it would not be considered a hate crime.

It is high time we all stop using our races as stumbling blocks. In this cultural melting pot we live in, members of all races have been persecuted at some time or another.

It is true some races have suffered more than others, but until we can all put the past behind us, we will continue to not make any progress and will not improve the status of any race in this great nation of ours.

Several friends of mine have been harassed by policemen who were just doing their jobs. They did not claim that they were being stereotyped or discriminated against for being teenagers.

I believed the coaches of Hampton University are motivated by greed and are using racial discrimination as an excuse. I wish they would come to the realization that people of all races are falsely accused and arrested every day.

Students should be taught Christian beliefs in schools

To the editor: This letter is in response to Mr. Formby's column. I strongly disagree with him. There is no doubt in my mind that our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ needs to be in schools. My parents never had to be afraid to go to school or worry about when the next school shooting would occur because then, organized prayer and the 10 Commandments were taught to be taught in schools.

Then, children were allowed to be moral and to cherish and respect human life. My parents and church have taught me such important lessons, but many kids and adults now have been deprived of such valuable lessons because of the lack of a Christian influence. For you who cherish your First Amendment so deeply, I ask you what could you or do you have against anything taught in the Bible or the church? The Bible teaches to love everyone and forgive even your most deeply hated enemies.

He died for our sins and so we could live, and the fact that some nonbelievers can take religion out of our schools horrifies me.

Our Lord God created the world we live in and has blessed each of us with family, friends and many other things. Why do we learn about George Washington, James Madison and others, but not the creator of human life?

On CNN, it was said the Amish and other religious communities have not had a murder in more than 350 years. What else can we attribute that to besides religion?

I believe the lack of Christianity around our nation is the reason for much of the senseless violence that has occurred over the past few decades. I am certain that this letter will create some controversy. It is a known fact that killing is wrong. How do we know killing is wrong? Where do all our morals and values come from? Some may say from our parents and teachers, but still, where do they get their values from? The Bible.

If Christian beliefs, which are based on the Bible, are taught in schools, then young people would have more respect for human life and what is morally correct. I am not trying to condemn those of you who do not believe in God, but I do believe you are misled in your beliefs. I pray every night that you do find Jesus in your lives. Our nation has become much more liberal and selfish, and we desperately need to go back to teaching religion in schools. I urge everyone to pray for the people of Littleton and to also pray for a safer nation where our Lord is glorified in schools and workplaces around the world.

TRAFFIC AND PARKING

I work on campus and received a ticket the other day because I had two cars on campus. What's the deal?

Even though more than one permit is issued to faculty and staff with reserved spaces for other vehicles they may need to drive to work, this does not mean that they can all be on campus at the same time. Only one vehicle with that permit is allowed on campus during regular hours (Monday-Friday, 7:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.).

Those whose dependents are students may allow those dependents to register a commonly operated motor vehicle for a student permit in addition to the reserved permit.

If the faculty/staff member has two motor vehicles registered, and if both are parked on campus at the same time, the vehicle with the student permit must be parked in the designated student parking area and not in the reserved space or in the time-limit areas on campus. If you are unsure of this regulation, please be sure to give us a call at 742-3811, and we'll be glad to further explain it to you.

Sale of reserved space permits to resident assistants and teaching assistants for summer:

Sale of reserved space permits to resident assistants and teaching assistants (employed one-half time or more) for the summer will begin at 7:30 a.m. May 17. Any reserved spaces not renewed by regular faculty and staff for the summer months will be available to any RA/TA employed at least 50 percent time. If employment of at least 50 percent time cannot be verified, it will be necessary to recall the space.

Summer school permits:

For those students who will be on campus during the summer, our summer school permits now are available. They are $12 per session or $24 for the entire summer. Avoid long lines — don't wait until the first day of summer classes.

Student permits for next year — commuters and residence halls:

All students are strongly encouraged to register for next year's parking permit before school is dismissed for the summer. Probably, the main benefit to commuters is the elimination of waiting in line at the beginning of the fall. The benefit to those who plan to live on campus is far greater.

Most students know that many of the lots around the residence halls will sell out during the summer. If this happens before you register for your permit, you will be issued a commuter permit and be assigned to the waiting list. In some cases, you may not get into your lot for many months. Be sure that you fill out the proper registration form (white for commuter and yellow for residence halls) as soon as you possibly can and return it to our office.

New registration forms were mailed to students who have a commuter permit. A letter also was sent to those living in the residence halls advising them of the process. At this time, you may pay for the permit ($49 for commuter and $65 for residence halls for the fall and spring) with cash, check, credit card or have it charged to your tuition bill.

You may only charge one permit to your tuition bill — if you need a second permit (commuters only), you will need to pay before it can be mailed to you. If you handle this in advance, we will mail your permit to you on Aug. 1. We strongly urge you to take care of this before you leave this spring so that you don't have to deal with it later.

We hope you've found this column to be informative this semester. We plan to continue during the summer and next year.

Look for new topics, and we'll probably repeat some that are of a recurring nature.

Have a safe and fun summer.

We urge you to share your concerns, questions, suggestions and other input with us. Information gained through this input may be used to correct inefficiencies and promote positive customer relations. We look forward to what we hope will be a positive exchange of ideas. Please contact us:

Family values are here to stay

By Sebastian Kitchen
Staff Writer

Last fall, Korn pulled bands together for an all-out assault on music fans' ears. As one of the biggest tours last year, it worked. The Family Values Tour brought together Korn, Rammstein, Limp Bizkit, Ice Cube and Orgy.

Now, the tour may be over, but the assault continues on the CD, The Family Values Tour '98, featuring live tracks from all of these artists. The artists all have something in common — power and noise.

The CD pulls together some of the more popular tracks by each including Incubus, who played some of the dates. Tracks by Orgy include "Dissention," "Gender" and the hit song "Blue Monday." The New Order remake stormed charts as the Family Values tour came to a close. Many people got their first taste of Orgy on the tour.

Limp Bizkit was popular before the tour but exploded after the tour was over. The remake of the George Michael song "Faith" was all over radio and video charts after the tour ended. Other Limp Bizkit songs on the album include "Cambodia" and a cover of House of Pain's "Jump Around." Limp Bizkit's DJ Lethal was formerly with House of Pain.

Between every artist is an interlude by C-Minus, which keeps the music flowing. During his set on the Family Values Tour, Ice Cube did not hesitate to dip into his classic music. Cube performed some of his old songs and popular N.W.A. material. Live cuts of "Check Yo Self," "Natural Born Killaz" and a medley of "Straight Outta Compton/F**k Tha Police" all are included on the CD.

This music is here to stay ... at least for a while.

The German industrial band Rammstein was at the height of its popularity during the Family Values Tour but have only one song on the album, the hit "Du Hast."

Headliners Korn, who will probably not be on the tour again next year, consumed much of the album space. Korn has four tracks on the album, including a seven-minute medley. The medley includes parts of the songs "Shoots and Ladders," "Justin," "Predictable," "Ball Tongue," "Divine" and "Kill You."

"Twist/Chi" from Life is Peachy is included on the album and so are two songs from the latest release Follow The Leader. The popular songs "Freak on a Leash" and "Got The Life" are both included.

People who liked the music and traveled to see the tour will like the CD. Those who detest the new wave of pop metal should keep on walking. The Family Values CD is definitely not for everyone. The CD, like the tour, is popular because they hit such a specific crowd, most of which is angst-ridden youth.

No matter what the crowd, the music continues to grow in popularity.

Do not be surprised when the Family Values Tour returns next year with an almost complete line-up change. This music is here to stay ... at least for a while.

Fats Domino, ex-partner unite for show

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fats Domino and his former partner, trumpeter Dave Bartholomew, were together again for a show at the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival. Domino played many of his standards Sunday, including "Blueberry Hill" and "Shake, Rattle & Roll." He closed the set with "When the Saints Go Marching In."

TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY

Indoor Soccer finals scheduled for Thursday

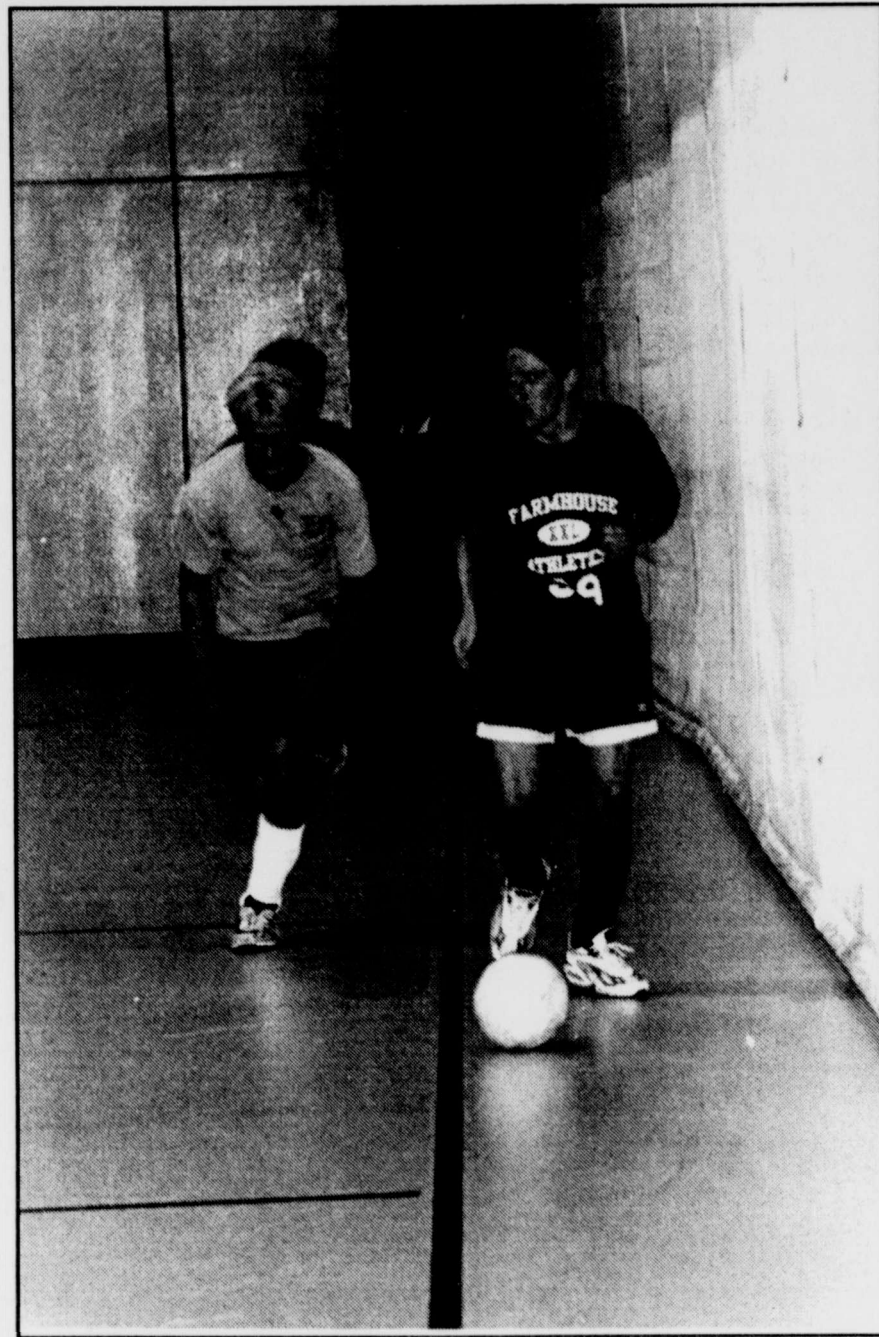

The All-University Indoor Soccer Champions "Star" for women, co-rec and men's "Star" division is scheduled for Sunday beginning at 6:15 p.m. on court five in the Student Recreation Center. Men's "Raider" division finals will be played tomorrow evening.

In the women's finals, the Hunnies will face off against the Regulators to determine who is number one. The Hunnies defeated WSO 3-2 last week to advance to the championship while the Regulators had a forfeit win over the Jellybeans to move to the final game.

As of press time, six teams were still vying for the "Raider" division championship. H4L, 3rd Floor, Marfia, Kappa Kappa Psi, Bone Breakers, Chronic and Dilemma all had to play this week to reach Thursday's final.

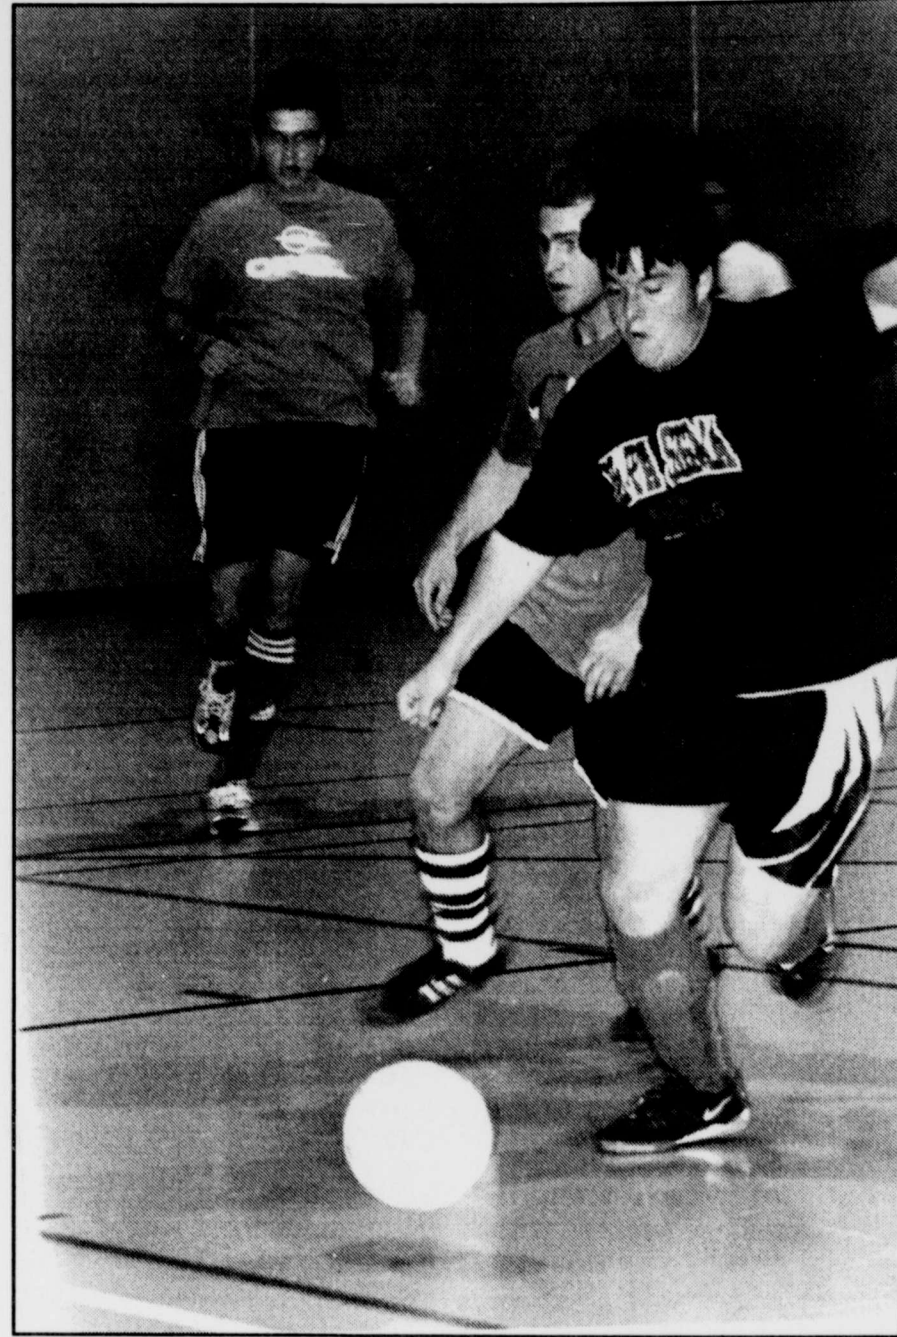

The co-rec championship game will be at 7 p.m. Sunday with four teams still in contention. Arson I played Hometown Heroes late last night with a chance to play the winner of the Spooky Kids and Rejects semifinal match.

As of Monday, 14 teams still had a chance to play for the All-University Men's Championship at 7:45 p.m. Sunday. Six teams in the open division and four each in both the Greek black and red divisions competed against each other this week for an opportunity to compete for the championship. All soccer fans are encouraged to attend the championship games at the Recreational Center this Sunday evening.

TechFest 99 Set for Friday

Live music, food, soccer, free cokes, sand volleyball and kite flying are just some of the highlights planned for Friday's annual TechFest 99 schedule for the amphitheater and Urbanosky Park.

All activities are free and are being sponsored by University Center Programs, Residence Hall Association and Recreational Sports.

UCP and RHA are sponsoring four live bands with Soak headlining. The first band will begin at 4 p.m. at the amphitheater with Soak scheduled to play at 8:30 p.m. Free food and drinks will be available. American State Bank will be providing snow cones.

A five on five soccer tournament and sand volleyball tournament are being conducted by Recreational Sports with entries due by tomorrow in room 202 of the Student Recreation Center. Both tournaments will begin Friday afternoon and conclude in one day.

There is no charge for any activities. For additional information, please call the Recreational Sports office at 742-3351 or UC Activities at 742-3621.

5 On 5 soccer

Be part of the Annual Tech Fest celebration by competing in the five on five outdoor soccer tournament held at the Recreational Fields just east of the Student Recreation Center.

Teams can come to the intramural office to receive an entry form for the tournament. The tournament is open to all students, faculty and staff.

There will be only one division so men, women and co-rec teams will compete together.

Teams will consist of five players on the field with any combination of males and females.

Games will be played on a 50 yard field and will consist of two 15 minute halves. This is a single elimination tournament.

The tournament will start Friday at 3 p.m. Sign up today because spots are limited and remember that it cost zip, zero nada, nothing. It's free. Call or come by the Recreational Sports Office (742-3351.)

3 on 3 sand volleyball

Be part of the second annual Tech Fest celebration by competing in the three on three co-rec sand volleyball tournament on the outdoor courts south of the Student Recreation Center.

The tournament is open to students, faculty and staff and entries are due today at 5 p.m. in SRC Room 202.

Play will begin Friday at 4 p.m. For more information, call 742-3351.

Softball Playoffs Continue - league champions crowned

As Major League Baseball starts its season, Texas Tech students get a chance to live out their "Field of Dreams." Trouble, Milkbone, Pike, Yamas and Jefferson Commons lead the remaining 16 teams left in men's open play.

The Co-Rec division has 14 eager teams striving for supremacy and this year's new league Co-Rec Restricted Flight has eight teams looking forward to being the inaugural champions.

Tonight's action includes two league championships, Greek Black and Residence Hall. The Phi Delta/Kappa Sig winner against the Sigma Chi/Sigma Nu winner will face-off at 8 p.m. The Residence Hall championship is at 7 p.m.

After league champions are decided, those teams compete in an All-University division starting Sunday with the finals being Tuesday. The Recreational Sports Department would like to thank all 250 teams, numerous players and officials who participated in spring softball and to wish everyone a safe summer!

Youth Swim Lessons

The Recreational Aquatic Center will be conducting a youth Learn to Swim Program June 7 through July 23 for children aged six months to 15 years old. This is the 23rd consecutive summer that lessons have been provided for Texas Tech families.

Each swim session lasts two weeks and begins on June 7, June 21 and July 12. Lessons are either 45 minutes or 30 minutes in length depending on the classification. Sign-ups begin in the Recreation Center Mat Room on May 18 and May 19. After that date all registration will occur at the Aquatic Center. The event cost $25 per child.

Class times begin at 9 a.m. and continue each half hour after 12 p.m. The Red Cross courses that are available are as follows:

Parent and Me: For 6 months to 3 years

Level I: Water Exploration for 3-4 years

Level II: Primary Swimming Skills 5-7 years

Level III: Stroke Readiness

Level IV: Stroke Development

Level V: Stroke Refinement

Level VI: Skill Proficiency

For more information, please call the Aquatic Center at 742-3896.

NHL playoffs marred by racial accusation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It is easy to see that the NHL is not a place for the faint of heart. The best players will do anything to get an edge — bite, spit, snort, and yes, unless insults that can be personal and sometimes disgusting.

Bob Clarke heard it all during his Hall of Fame career. Now Sandy McCarthy, one of Clarke's players on the Philadelphia Flyers, is accusing Toronto's Tie Domi of using a racial slur about his black heritage in a playoff game.

The league began investigating the claim Tuesday, forced again to confront the dirty secret that threatens to damage the sport's image right in the middle of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"Unless you're a black player like Sandy McCarthy, none of us can understand what calling a person that name does to you," said Clarke, the Flyers' general manager who was captain of the Stanley Cup championship team.

Tech golfers finish low in tournament

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (Special) — The Texas Tech men's golf team fired a final round of 309 to finish in 11th at the Big 12 Championship at the Prairie Dunes Country Club on Tuesday.

For the tournament, the Red Raiders shot a combined 916 at the 6,637 yard, par 70 course.

Kansas won the team title with a combined 857. Nebraska was second, two strokes behind. Texas finished third with an 862, and Oklahoma State finished fourth with a 868. Colorado was fifth, Baylor was sixth, Texas A&M was seventh and Iowa State came in tied for eighth with Oklahoma State. Kansas State was 10th, six shots ahead of Tech. Missouri finished 12th with a 928.

Individually, sophomore Corey Henegar put in the top finish with a tie for 38th. Senior Philip Tate finished tied for 41st and senior Alex Armstrong finished tied for 47th. Sophomore Blake Smith finished tied for 52nd, and Matt Loving was tied for 56th.

Cotton Kings name May as first coach

The Lubbock Cotton Kings named Alan May as their first coach at a press conference Tuesday. May spent parts of eight seasons in the National Hockey League, including a stint with the Dallas Stars.

Raiders drive by Greyhounds

By Jason Bernstein
Sports Editor

Despite an early deficit, a second home loss in three contests was not in order for the Red Raider baseball squad Tuesday night.

Tech (37-11 overall) put to good use a strong pitching performance from Brad Ralston and a four RBI performance off the bat of Josh Bard to defeat Eastern New Mexico 11-4 at Dan Law Field.

Ralston (9-0) tossed six innings of four-hit baseball to limit the Greyhound offense. He allowed two earned runs, both in the first inning, to pace the Red Raiders to victory.

"Ralston got good after the first inning and got some momentum going," said Tech coach Larry Hays.

"Fortunately, we got enough runs that we were able to use several pitchers. It was a good night for us."

Tech managed to put a four spot on the board in the fourth behind an RBI groundout from Jon Weber, a run-scoring single from Bard and a two-out double from Scott Holzhauser.

Ralston settled down after the first and limited the Greyhounds to two hits through the next five innings.

But it was the Tech offense that put the game away for Ralston in the sixth.

Bard added two more RBIs to help Tech put six runs across, as the Red Raiders took a 10-2 lead after six.

"I'm just trying to contribute," Bard said.

"Our guys get on the bases, and I just try to do my best job to get them in."

"Coach Anderson and I had a long talk today about feeling like, 'I don't have to have the weight of the world on my shoulders every time I go up to the plate.' I've got good guys around me. They've been doing it all year for me and it's time for me to start stepping up and contributing to the team."

Bard contributed Tuesday as he finished 2-for-3 with four RBIs and two runs scored.

Helping out the offensive charge were two RBIs apiece from Holzhauser and Chaz Eiguren.

Every Red Raider starter finished with at least one hit on the evening, proving Tech was relaxed after coming off its third consecutive conference road series.

"We knew we had Ralston coming out for us today, and we knew he could keep them down," said outfielder Ryan Ruiz of the Red Raider effort.

"We have confidence in him, and he came out and shut them down."

With the early two-run Greyhound lead, the Red Raiders, including infielder Jason Huth, said they were not worried about dropping their second home contest of the year.

"We knew we had Ralston coming out for us today, and we knew he could keep them down."

Ryan Ruiz
Tech outfielder

"A lot of these games teams try to come out and score the first runs because they're pumped up and ready to go," Huth said.

"We're pretty confident in our game, and we just come out and do our thing. Usually we come out on top, but these last couple of games have been kind of tough. But today worked out for us."

Tech dropped its only game of the year at Dan Law Field against College of the Southwest on April 26.

But the Red Raiders rebounded against Southwest Texas State the next day and managed to split a doubleheader at Kansas State over the weekend.

Tech added another 14 hits in the win against Eastern New Mexico, leaving Ruiz and company satisfied with the offensive effort as of late.

"Our offensive game has been good," he said. "We put up 30 runs in the last three games. As long as our offense keeps doing that and we get good pitching, we'll be tough to beat."
