McCown to compete in National Championship

The first eight entries to the 1995 Dan O'Brien/VISA National Invitational High School Decathlon Championships have been named.

Included in the initial eight participants in the second annual decathlon competition to determine the national high school champion will be five individuals who competed in the 1994 competition.

That group included Gabe Garrett of Olympia, WA, and Bobby Williams of Great Bend, KS.

Garrett set the national high school decathlon 400 meter record (47.92 seconds) during last year's meet at Mazama High School, in Klamath Falls, OR, the site of this year's meet.

Garrett also won the 100 in 11.05.

He is now the two time Washington state decathlon champion.

Williams, meanwhile, tied the national high school decathlon high jump record of 6-11, a mark that he now shares with another Kansas product, Steve Henson.

Henson now plays for the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association.

Williams has cleared 7 feet in the high jump in the past. He was third in both the long and 110 meter hurdles in last year's championships, his first ever decathlon.

Also returning to compete in this year's decathlon championships will be Hyrum Prince of Bloomfield, NM; Jason Wilson of Theodore, AL, and Vicky Tutt of Garrison, TX.

Among the first three newcomers will be Eric Boyd of Chelan, WA. Boyd's brother, Jason was second in last year's national championship meet that was won by James Cook of Kennebunk, ME.

The other two newcomers are Wally Laws of Bristol, NH and Lee McCown of Robert Lee, Texas.

The final 6 to 8 entries in this year's meet will be named on, or before, June 18.

Prince appears to be the early favorite to win the 1995 national high school decathlon championship after he scored 7,014 points to win the Great Southwest Decathlon championship in Tempe, AZ in late May.

Wilson returns to Klamath Falls as the Alabama state champion.

Tutt is the defending Texas state decathlon champion, but is expected to be pushed hard by McCown in this year's championships later in June.

Cook won the initial national high school decathlon championship with 7,037 points.

Ear Infections

Middle-ear infections account for thirty percent of children's visits to pediatricians each year. New research shows many middle-ear infections, known as otitis media, originate in nasal passages. Scientists at the State University of New York at Buffalo say that the frequency of middle-ear infections in young children is related to the presence of Haemophilus influenzae bacteria in their nasal passages.

This finding, reported in the Journal of Infectious Diseases (10-94), may also pave the way for development of a vaccine against one of the organisms to prevent initial infections, since the bacteria is present in about three-fourths of children by age two.

The team of researchers previously found that young children who consume breast milk with high levels of an antibody to the bacteria had fewer episodes in which the bacteria collected in the nasal passages and they had fewer middle-ear infections.

Locals take cruise

Three Robert Lee friends were idly discussing a vacation when they impulsively signed up for a 4-day, 3-night cruise. Ten days later they were driving to Dallas to catch a flight to Miami, Florida. For the trio, Thelma Jo Hinnard, Kelly Nichols, and Joan Davis, the DFW and Miami airports were mind-boggling, then it was boarding time!

The ship, part of the well-known Carnival line, was enormous - three football fields long with its own entertainment theatre, full service casino, a shopping mall, 17 bars, 5 swimming pools, with 8-9 decks. Almost an island on its own. The staff numbered over 900, with 2600 passengers on board, when the ship left late in the afternoon for the Bahamian capitol city of Nassau where the passengers would spend one full day.

The Bahama Islands are under Britain's flag with English the national language. Tourism is the main source of income; they do export conch shell meat and varieties of fresh fish.

The local travelers shopped the marketplaces including the island's famous Straw Market and toured Paradise Island with a guide who gave much of the history. Christopher Columbus may have discovered the Bahamas before coming to America in the 1400's. On the tour was a new unique aquarium in which visitors passed through the waters in a tunnel of stone and glass surrounded by fish, ocean creatures, and coral. The vacationers were especially taken by the beauty of the islands, the flowering trees and shrubs, the sugar sand beaches, and the clear, blue water.

Back on board the ship it was food, food, food, and entertainment. Musical extravaganzas, stand-up comedians, and magicians were in the theatre evenings, with Bingo, games and other entertainment during the day.

The ship was beautifully decorated, mostly in elaborate neon lights and theme patterns. Seven course meals were served in the formal dining room with attentive waiters and servers. No casual vacation wear was allowed in the dining room in the evenings but anything went for day wear!

Not only were the vacationers on their first cruise, they were threatened on the last day by almost experiencing their first hurricane. Fortunately Allison passed north of Miami, where they docked, across the narrow neck of Florida. It did require them to keep their seat belts on, during stormy weather, almost to Dallas.

As one of the travelers said, "Now it's back to reality after seeing how the other half lives."

Locals board Carnival's Ecstasy for a cruise to the Bahamas.
