Commissioners' Court actions detailed

Commissioners' Court was held Monday, January 27. Present were Judge Walker, Commissioners Burns, Lee, Percifull, and Tidwell, Ettie Hubbard, clerk, Lane Arthur, attorney, Sheriff Mike Harris, Kristi Roe, tax collector, Craig Demere, and Sid Eubanks.

The meeting was opened with a pledge to the flag and prayer by James Tidwell.

Minutes for January 6 and 13 approved.

Bids for a pickup were reviewed: Ivey Motor Company bid $22,543.17 and Bessent Chevrolet bid $20,995.50. Bessent's was awarded the bid, being the low bid. The pickup will be used by the Sheriff's department for enforcement of illegal dumping. Texas Natural Resource Conservation funded the grant of $17,000.00 to apply to the purchase.

The 1996 audit was reviewed and approved.

A letter to Wackenhut regarding escrow agreement was reviewed and approved to be mailed.

Texas Department of Transportation reported the Paint Creek Bridge would not be included on the historical bridge list. This will result in quite a savings to the county in replacing the bridge.

Liability insurance on constable's vehicles was discussed and postponed until budget time.

A vote was taken on abolishing the Contable's position in Coke County requiring approval by state and by county. This would require the vote of the local people to abolish the office. Court was previously told that it had to be by state vote only. This was an error. The vote to send the resolution to Rep. Junell was four for and one abstaining. Resolution was sent to Rep. Junell.

No actions on seal coating.

No actions on Walnut Road closure. Mr. Arthur and Mr. Demere to meet with Mike Varnadore this week to discuss the land owners in-involved. Public hearing will be held February 25 at 1:00 pm.

Trapper's report reviewed and approved.

John Conley approached the court requesting the use of the Robert Lee Recreation Hall for the Robert Lee Volunteer Fire Department to have Bingo. They requested the use of the hall each third Thursday of the month. License would be in John Conley's and Robert Wink's names as the representatives of the Fire Department. There would be no smoking, no alcohol, and children under 18 years of age would not be allowed to play. Charge would be 50 cents a card with 25 cents to the Fire Department and 25 cents to the winners. The Auxiliary would have a concession stand. The board voted to table until February 10 to allow the public to respond. They appreciate the need of the Fire Department, but would like for the public to let them know their feelings. The county has already voted to allow Bingo for charity.

Commissioners were requested to report any new homes being built in their areas to assist in keeping the 911 addressing complete.

The need for 911 maps was reviewed and orders placed.

Purchase for sign maker was tabled to see if cities would like to enter into an inter-local agreement on purchase.

Appointment of Debbie Harris as Court Reporter was approved. Her salary was approved with it remaining the same as last year.

Joe Harmon's request for private road work was approved.

Bills were paid and meeting adjourned.

Please contact a Commissioner or the County Judge and let them know your feelings on Bingo. We need to know how you feel.

Correction on Br. visit date

by Judge Jackie Walker
 I'm sorry for the error on the date of the visit to Bronte. It was stated that a visit would be February 22, when it was actually January 22. I apologize and will try to proof a little better. This was not an error of the paper.

On my visit last Wednesday several people were in and out of the bank. I really enjoyed visiting with the ones that were in. With all the duties and meetings it is hard to get out in the public and visit like I would like to. You must be my ears and let me know if we need to be more attentive in certain areas. As I've said before, we are here to do what you desire. This isn't always possible due to money, rules, etc., but we do try. Coke County is our home and we want everyone to be proud to be from Coke County.

Two things have been on the Commissioners' Court Agenda for months. One is the seal coating of the streets. This will continue until we get an Attorney General's opinion and know what we can do. The other one was the abolishing of the Constable's position. This was caused by the declining valuations. There has been a lot of public concern regarding this. The Court was first told to change the Constitution would require it be voted on by the entire state. This really caused some concern, as people (including the court), felt like the people of Coke County should be the ones to say if we have a Constable or not. The first resolution sent to Rep. Rob Junell to abolish the Constable's position by state vote was rescinded by the court. Information was obtained that we could require it to also pass the county. What this means is we will vote on it only once, but it will be counted state wide and if it passes state wide, the votes in Coke County must also favor abolishing the office. The courts feels much better about this, as it allows you to decide. Resolution was passed. Four voted for and one abstained. Resolution was sent to Rep. Junell.

John Conley visited the court Monday, the 27th, with a request for the Recreation Hall for Bingo. The proceeds would be used for the Robert Lee Volunteer Fire Department. Further details are available in the Commissioners' Court actions. We need your ideas on this. Legalized Bingo was voted on by Coke County during a General Election, November, 1983 and passed. This will be voted on February 10 at 9:00 am at Commssioners' Court. Mr. Conley needs to know about the use of the building to proceed with the application. The Judge's phone and office are open for you, and the Commissioners would be more than glad to visit with you. Please do not hesitate to state your feelings.

Homemaking still a full-time job

The homemaker still has an eight hour workday. Studies show that the amount of time homemakers use for household work has changed little over the past 40 years.

It is the nature of homemaking which has changed. Mental activity has replaced much of the physical work of homemaking. As a result the type of skills and abilities which are needed to run the home are different. Homemakers today are decision makers who need knowledge about a large number of goods and services available on the market. Homemaking work today depends heavily on skills in buying, using, and caring for goods and services. Homemakers now use more time for marketing, record keeping, and management than they did 40 years ago.

In the work of today, homemakers experience more indecision and frustration than was true of days past. This means mental strain!

It is important to realize that fatigue results from both mental and emotional strain as well as from actual physical labor. Today's homemaker may feel just as tired after experiencing indecision as yesterday's homemaker felt after hard physical labor. The informed homemaker who is able to make decisions is less likely to experience fatigue than the homemaker who lacks knowledge and is not able to make decisions. Anyone who questions the need for knowledge has only to study the supermarket shelves and see the wide variety of household cleaning and laundry products from which the homemaker must choose.

Let us think more about the amount of time required for homemaking work. A recent study of the amount of time spent in homemaking work by 1,296 urban families was conducted by Cornell University. It was reported that full time homemakers spent an average of eight hours per day in homemaking work.

Homemakers with very small children and those with many children have the heaviest work load in the home. Homemakers who are employed in the labor force also have a heavy work load. In the Cornell study, homemakers who were employed 15 or more hours in the labor force reported a 10 hour work day, combining their employment and homemaking tasks.

Kimberly Burrow (above) and O/E and Lone Star Roper owner/publisher Hal Spain were married on Saturday, January 25, 1997, at Las Vegas, Nevada. The double ring ceremony was held in the Silver Bells Chapel, with the groom's brother and sister-in-law, Phillip and Helen Spain, serving as best man and matron of honor. After the Super Bowl weekend in Vegas, the couple is at home in Robert Lee.

Let us think about this a little more. Most of the employed women with the 10 hour workday did not have very small children; nor did they have several young children at home. However, when they do work they are likely to have a 12 or 13 hour workday. These are really quite busy women!

Today we hear quite a lot about changing roles of males and females in the home. How much time would you think that husbands spend each day in taking care of the home? In the Cornell study husbands spent about an hour and half. This amount did not appear to increase even when the wife had an outside job. However the men were still doing traditionally male types of activities. Most of their time was spent in yard care, house maintenance, and socializing types of activities with children. However, men were doing more shopping. This is a change from traditional men's work; but you might expect it in our consumer society.

We hear a lot about increased leisure time these days. It is certainly true that we have more vacation days and we have more years of retirement and better health in which to enjoy it. However, we still live long work weeks. If you included all work, in the Cornell study women had an average work week of 63 hours. For men, it was 64 hours. This does not leave a great deal of time for leisure.

Wednesday, January 22, was a great day to be in the park if you were a member of the 125 pt. club at Bronte Elementary. Mr. Howell took 23 students ranging from 2nd grade through 6th to the park to eat lunch and then just have an afternoon of fun. These students had all earned at least 125 points on Electronic Bookshelf at the end of the third six weeks. They included Philip Rawlings, Nick Flores, Jesse Herold, Kanah Coalson, Jessica Compton, Tanner Corder, Ashley Denton, Melissa Flores, Roy Lee Flores, B.J. Hall, Kailey Howell, Joseph Isreal, Britney McCutchen, Casey McKee, Justin Moore, Ashley Torres, Chase Williams, Diane Womack, Cody Blaylock, Kayla Hilliard, Michael Johnson, Lindsey Williams, and Lillian McMullan.

Students raise money for St. Jude

Did you know that cancer is the leading disease killer of American children and that St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is the leading center for the conquest of these killers? By viewing a video tape, the students at Bronte Elementary were made aware of these facts and agreed to participate in a Bike-A-Thon to raise money to help fund cancer research. Students asked their friends and families to sponsor them by pledging a certain amount of money for each mile they rode during the contest.

The following students did an outstanding job and have shown their compassion and caring for children who are so desperately ill with cancer. The prizes they were awarded were based on the amount of donations they brought in.

Philip Rawlings, Rebecca Rawlings, Raena Shephard, and Zachary Shephard each received a certificate.

A certificate and a t-shirt were presented to Blaine Dyess, Jamie Vivian, Anthony Vivian, Mason Jackson, Juston Taylor, James Graves, Casey Harris, Ashley Turner, Haydan White, and Matthew Compton. Receiving a certificate, t-shirt, and a sports bag were Gus Saunders, Garrett Jackson, Meagan Rosenquist, Jeffrey Jones, Shane Jones, and Zachary White.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Bronte exchange has petitioned the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) to expand its local calling area to the Abilene and Robert Lee exchanges. To learn more about this petition, you may contact the petition coordinator, Pat Martindale at 915-473-3501. Expanded Toll-Free Local Calling (ELC) Service will allow you to call and be called by the requested exchange(s) on a local call basis (no toll charges). Since Bronte customers already pay a monthly per line charge of $3.50 for residence and $7.00 for business for ELC service to Ballinger and San Angelo, no additional charges would be assessed if two additional exchanges pass the ballot. The fees associated with ELC are mandatory.

Within the next 15 days GTE will mail ballots to all customers in the Bronte exchange to determine whether support exists for expansion of the local calling area. After marking the ballot, customers should sign their name and return the ballot to the PUC. A stamped self-addressed envelope will be provided with the ballot. At least 70% of the subscribers who return their ballots must vote in favor of expanded local calling on a per exchange basis for it to be provided. If the ballot fails to all exchanges, your service will not change. Only exchanges that pass the ballot will be added to your local calling area.

The PUC has assigned this matter Project No. 16775. Interested persons should direct any comments that they may have about the petition to the PUC, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326, or they may call the PUC Information Office at (512) 936-7140 or (512) 936-7136, teletypewriter for the deaf.

AVISO PUBLICO

El intercambio de Bronte ha solicitado a la Comisión de Servicio Público de Texas ("Public Utility Commission of Texas-PUC") la expansión de la área de sus llamadas locales, a los intercambios de Abilene y Robert Lee. Para aprender más respecto a esta solicitud, sírvase contactar con el/la coordinador/a de la solicitud, Pat Martindale al 915-473-3501. Este servicio conocido como llamadas expandidas localmente (Expanded Local Calling-ELC), le permitirá llamar a estos intercambios y ser llamado/a como una llamada local (sin cargos adicionales). Puesto que los clientes de Bronte pagan una tarifa mensual de $3.50 por cada línea residencial y $7.00 por cada línea comercial por llamadas expandidas locales a Ballinger y San Angelo, no habrá cambio en la tarifa mensual por dos intercambios adicionales. Las tarifas asociadas con ELC son mandatorias.

Dentro de los próximos quince (15) días GTE despachará por correo boletas a todos los clientes en el intercambio de Bronte con el fin de determinar si existe justificación y respaldo para la expansión de la área de llamadas locales. Luego de marcar la boleta, los clientes deberán firmar su nombre y remitir la boleta a la PUC. Un sobre con estampilla y dirección de retorno será incluido con la misma boleta. Por lo menos 70% de los suscriptores que retornen esta boleta deben dar su voto a favor del Servicio Expandido de Llamadas en base a cada intercambio para que este servicio sea provisto. En caso de que la boleta no satisfaga a todos los intercambios, su servicio no cambiará. Sólomente los intercambios que reciban suficientes votos a favor serán añadidos a su área de llamadas locales.

La PUC ha asignado a este Proyecto el Número 16775. Aquellas personas interesadas deberán dirigir cualquier comentario al respecto a la PUC, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326, o llamar a la PUC-Oficina de Información al (512) 936-7140 o (512) 936-7136, teletipo de escribir para las personas que están privadas del sentido del oído.

DEAR CONCERNED TAXPAYERS OF EAST COKE COUNTY,

Living in Bronte, Texas is the height of the American dream. Bronte is a city with the finest nursing home, school, churches and private home-owned businesses, not to mention all the great, friendly people, that will surpass any city, anywhere in the world.

I am a cowboy who likes to saddle a good horse and ride across the range and let the world's problems go by, but when those problems involve our senior citizens who have spent their lifetime trying to make things better for us, I have to take it more seriously.

We, the taxpayers, voted a bond issue to expand our local nursing home and it is very nice, but it has not yet brought in the needed income. The First National Bank of Bronte very kindly stepped in and kept the nursing home going as long as it needed help. Now, we, the taxpayers, vote a tax rollback so that we cannot pay back our, the taxpayer's indebtedness. I doubt there is one taxpayer in East Coke County that has not been aided by our local bank either directly or indirectly. Shall we let them bite the bullet? No, I certainly hope not.

We have had numerous directors of the Bronte Nursing Home who were all good, honest, caring people and gave of their time and energy to help our elderly who were in need of loving care. These directors keep a staff of kind, loving, caring employees for our clients. Shall we now say to these directors that we are sorry that they wasted their time and energy? No, I certainly hope not. After much thought on the subject, I believe the present board of directors would be a great asset to any corporation or firm in America if they were sitting on their board. We, the taxpayers, are getting their services free. I believe they have the knowledge, wisdom and spiritual insight to do what is correct and make it work. Let us support them whole heartedly.

Our Lord said, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." This is spoken many times in the New Testament as a commandment. The members of the Bronte Nursing Home are my neighbors. The members of the First National Bank are my neighbors. I shall love them and try to help them.

If such things as the tax rollback for the East Coke County Hospital District are allowed, next someone will be complaining that we are paying too much school tax so we should cut back on that tax and by doing so compromise our children's educations. Then, we could sell the bank to a large holding company and each of us could become just a number instead of a friend.

Taxpayers, wake up! Those that voted for the tax rollback pay a very small percent of the tax. Some of them pay none. However, nearly each one campaigning for the tax rollback has had a close family member in the Bronte Nursing Home who received excellent care.

No one from the Bronte Nursing Home or the First National Bank of Bronte asked me to write this or even are aware of me writing it. It is my personal belief and feeling that we should take our rollback checks and maybe add a little to them and apply it to our debt. I Timothy 6:10 says, "For the love of money is the root of all evil." Shall we ask our pocketbooks what to do or ask our hearts what is right?

I sincerely thank you for taking the time to read this. Please let your hearts guide you in this matter.

Your servant in Christ,
Clarence Noble Webb, Jr.

Easy management of calves for profit

With today's cattle industry, each dollar received for weaned calves could be the difference between profit and loss. There are several management practices that many producers take for granted that could significantly increase herd production and profits of cow-calf or stocker operations.

One basic management practice often neglected is proper immunization of baby calves against Blackleg, Malignant edema, Sordelli, Black disease, 3-way Leptospirosis, etc. These immunizations are relatively inexpensive per animal and though they don't exactly enhance performance of the calf, prevention of losing a 400 pound calf to one of these deadly diseases can buy lots of vaccine.

Another practice that became popular in recent years is the use of growth stimulating implants in baby calves. Numerous studies have shown that the cost of the implant can be returned many times over through increased growth with very little initial costs. There are several types and brands of implants to fit the age and sex of the calves implanted. Over 35 years of studies have shown that suckling calves growth rate can be stimulated up to 14 percent with the use of implants and weaned calves or stockers can have increased gains of 6-30 percent when implanted.

One of the most overlooked management practices of beef cattle is early conception rate in the cow herd. Calves typically gain 1.8 pounds or more per day from birth to weaning, therefore the quicker that cow breeds back the quicker her calf can generate revenue to offset the cow's production costs. One of the best ways to ensure early conception in cattle is with the use of estrous synchronization.

In a four year study in central Texas, cattle were artificially inseminated following estrous synchronization. Even though only 36 percent of the cows were bred on the first cycle artificially, this resulted in 158 calves from 440 cows and these calves were conceived on the average of 26 days earlier than other calves. With the figure of 1.8 pounds per day gain, these calves were 47 pounds heavier than their herd-mates. At today's cattle prices, that figures to be $15.50 per mating over the herd-mates. With natural breeding following estrous synchronization, early conception should increase even more dramatically. With the relative low cost of synchronization, this increase could mean the difference between profit and loss for your cow herd this coming year. Another more subtle benefit realized by synchronization is the transformation of the entire herd's calving season into a shorter time period. This allows you to watch cows more closely, work calves at one time and have a more uniform calf crop when they are ready to market.

For further information on cattle herd management practices contact the County Extension Office.

Drug improves symptoms of Alzheimer's

Aricept, a new drug approved for Alzheimer's disease, improves the symptoms and daily functioning of many patients.

"In more than 900 mild to moderate Alzheimer's patients studied nationwide, 80 percent showed improvement or didn't get any worse," said Dr. Rachell Doody, clinical director of the Alzheimer's Disease Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Aricept was tested for five years in clinical trials involving more than 30 centers in the United States. Approved by the Food and Drug Administration in late November 1996, it is expected to be available in most pharmacies by mid-January or early February.

Doctors measured Aricept's effectiveness by using standard Alzheimer's memory evaluation tests and by interviewing patients and caregivers to assess changes in daily functioning.

"With the drug, we saw patients who became more attentive to their surroundings or who picked up on old routines they had forgotten," said Doody, who led several clinical trials at Baylor.

The drug contains an enzyme that blocks the breakdown of acetylcholine, a neurotransmitter in the brain.

"Acetylcholine is associated with memory and learning and is deficient in Alzheimer's patients," she said. "Blocking the breakdown helps patients keep more acetylcholine in the brain."

The medication is taken once a day and has few side effects.

"Less than 10 percent of all the patients studied had to stop taking it because of side effects," Doody said. "Mild side effects included nausea, diarrhea and vomiting that often went away on their own."

While it cannot stop the progression or make a patient return to normal, Doody feels the treatment will be beneficial to a great number of patients.

"With the improvement of symptoms or just the slowing of decline, Aricept brings an improved outlook for many patients and their families," she said. "This is not a cure, but it may provide relief while we wait for a definitive treatment for Alzheimer's."

Walker proclaims membership week

County Judge Jackie Walker has signed a proclamation designating February 3-7 as "Farm Bureau Membership Week" in Coke County.

The week is part of a statewide observance during which county Farm Bureaus will make a special effort to enroll new members, according to John Stephens of Robert Lee, president of the Coke County Farm Bureau.

"The Texas Farm Bureau, with more than 300,000 member families, is influential in both state and national affairs on behalf of agricultures," the proclamation reads.

"Farm Bureau is a grassroots organization. Its foundation is the county unit. There are 211 organized county Farm Bureaus in the state including the Coke County Farm Bureau," the proclamation states.

John Stephens said the local county Farm Bureau has 723 member families and is seeking to exceed that number in 1997.

He said that the Farm Bureau is a general farm organization that seeks to improve the income of farm and ranch families. The organization represents the farmer and rancher at the local county courthouse, in Austin, and in Washington, D.C.

Christmas season brighter thanks to Bryan's Barn

Christmas lights at Bryan's Barn, located west of Robert Lee on Messbox Creek were especially bright from December 1 through December 31, 1996.

The Bryans have added to the number and variety of lights annually since they started decorating in 1991, but many visitors said, "They've outdone themselves this year."

Most of the lights were put up on weekends when Wilson's "kids," Thema Jo Hinnard, his daughter; Cookie and Molly Burns, his granddaughter and great-granddaughter, all of Robert Lee; and his son and daughter-in-law, Richard and Tillie Bryan of Ballinger and some of their kids, were free from their jobs.

By early October, a typical work day might start with Thelma Jo cooking breakfast with Richard and Tillie helping. The elder Bryans, Wilson and Lucile, usually brought their coffee already made since T.J. doesn't make "that terrible-tasting beverage!"

After breakfast, everybody would fan out to hang lights except Lucile. It's her job to clean up the kitchen and decorate the inside Christmas tree. After a few hours, and Lucile had seen that food was ready, the workers would come in to a late lunch composed of food prepared at home and brought by any family member with anything good and easy to transport. Sometimes, only sandwiches, dips, etc. would be available. Usually an afternoon session of three hours was all the workers wanted, but they always accomplished a lot!

As the first Sunday in December approached, weekends were not enough. Wilson spent most of his time daily adding lights and other devices that made The Barn unique and colorful. Thelma Jo had retired from her job in late October, and she took almost as many steps as he did.

Thanksgiving was to have been a real bonanza with four days to work but cold weather drove the family inside. However, that was productive because there was need for several workers at a time to handle the big table and to take stored boxes out from under it. (Lucile still was not through with the white Christmas tree!)

Lucile's kids are sorry they live too far away to help, but Kitten Plagens and her sons came after Thanksgiving and admired what was already up, and added a few more things. Tony and Jerry Dean and their family came the day after Christmas and helped register the guests and visit with old friends.

Beginning opening night, December 1, Wilson and Lucile were at The Barn every night of the month. The "Kids" took turns helping them to welcome guests and remind them to register. It was wise to always have family members present to answer questions about the many objects and collections on shelves and walls inside The Barn.

Some of the most asked questions were: "How many lights do you have?" "A bunch!"

"Where do you get all this stuff?" "Here, there, and everywhere."

"Have you been collecting all your life?" "Not yet."

"How do you put lights on those sharp points of the cactus plants?" "Very carefully!"

"It must be a lot of work. Why do you do it?" "It's our way of celebrating The Birthday. And besides, consider this: If you know over 6,000 people were coming to see you, wouldn't you want to make as good a showing as possible?"

Examination of the registration books indicates that only 5,518 names were entered during the month, a few less than in '95. However, no matter how hard the Bryans try, a good number of visitors fail to register; and a large number do not go inside, but walk around outside uncounted. Many others drive through and never stop. Unnumbered carloads do not even drive onto the property, but just drive down the road, cross the creek, turn around and pass back by the entrance gate.

Wilson reached a "guesstimate" in this way: If even as few as one third of the 5,518 who registered drove in with an average of 3 people in each car, then there must have been well over 7,000 people who saw the lights." Friends say that is probably underestimated.

Many visitors were drawn to The Barn through the interesting articles by Rick Smith and Jane Jeschke in The Standard Times early in December. Others learned of the location through KLST-TV in San Angelo and Station KMID in Midland, who gave good coverage. West Texas Utilities, when mailing bills, advised that people might "call 453-2692 in Robert Lee for information concerning Christmas lights." Numerous people did call and visited later. Word-of-mouth was a very productive "visitor-getter," but probably the most far-reaching help came from Texas Highways magazine.

In the December 1996 issue, Texas Highways published a brief story in its 'For The Road' department which gave the "who, what, where, when and how to get there" facts that made The Barn easy to find. That information had been given to Jill Lawless, managing editor, and Lori Moffatt, associate editor, by Jeffie Roberts and Lucile Bryan through letters and telephone conversations. Both editors hoped to visit The Barn, but their schedules were too crowded. However, Lana Robinson of Cranfills Gap was able to make the visit instead.

Lana is a free-lance writer with whom many farm and ranch people in this area are familiar. She is news editor of Texas Agriculture, the periodical of Texas Farm Bureau. Lana writes a column, 'Little Spouse on the Prairie,' that features her husband, Melvin, as an expert bungler, which he certainly is not in real life. Lana's newly published book, The Best of Little Spouse on the Prairie, is available in bookstores and on the internet.

On December 22, Lana, Melvin, and his brother, Roy Lee, and his wife, Johnni, drove to Robert Lee and spent the afternoon and early evening at The Barn with the Bryans. The group explored the six acre premises, marveling at the beauty of the daytime reflections in Messbox Creek and the abundance of lights glittering on trees, fences, and "anything that stands still." Lana asked many questions and took copious notes for an article she will write for Texas Highways.

The Barn lights were turned on at dusk as usual, and as they became brighter with full darkness of evening, the usual conversation subsided. Lana, who is an expert with written and spoken word, stood somewhat speechless. As she gazed at the beauty of so many lights, she shook her head in disbelief and admitted that she was "astonished at the spectacle."

Another added interest at Bryan's Barn related to Christmas '96 was the visit of Weiman Meinzer, famous outdoor photographer from Benjamin, Texas. His reputation as "the best of the best" in his profession had reached the Bryans before he did, and he surely lived up to their expectations. Weiman is author of several books, one of which the Bryans acquired soon after his visit. They, like many readers before them, were surprised to learn of his fascination with roadrunners, of all birds. He answered the question in his preface by writing that they had "the most fascinating personality." His book documents that fact with 115 outstanding photographs with a brief explanation of the situation and setting of each. Those pictures, plus the thirty pages of interesting facts about the bird's lifestyle, make this book, published in 1993, a wonderful introduction to the not-so-handsome roadrunner.

Weiman's photos began to be published in 1979. In 1985, he was highlighted by Sports Afield as one of the five top outdoor photographers of America. His name can be found in many current publications around the world, including Texas Highways, famous for its excellent pictures.

Weiman visited Bryan's Barn January 1, 1997, and spent enough daylight time to be thoroughly acquainted with inside and outside areas. There was ample time to enjoy visiting, hearing about his family, his career, and his two active boys who are as fond of nature and its creatures as their father. After pizza, Dr. Pepper, and T.J.'s good pumpkin pie, Weiman began his work at dusk.

It was a real pleasure to watch the expert in action. With his good equipment, his vitality, and his love of his work, he snapped his camera many times, but never until he was sure his subject, his lighting, and his distance were correct. Jeffie, a fair amateur photographer herself, thoroughly enjoyed helping Weiman by holding a piece of equipment at a correct distance as he directed.

Weiman's last shots were of the Bryans and friends, with the final shot timed so he could snap himself with the Bryans. He smiled, "I want one to show Hunter and Pate when I get home tonight."

Needless to say, the Bryans thoroughly enjoyed both the journalist and her family and the photographer, not just because they are both famous in certain circles, but because they were so down-to-earth, so warm and friendly, and were so eager to do the job Texas Highways asked them to do. That will inevitably further the cause of Bryan's Barn which is so dear to their hearts. The article and picture are expected to appear in the December 1997 issue.

As of this date, last year's lights are down and stored carefully. Even before thoroughly resting from the physical labor, plans are constantly popping into all of the family's heads that will enhance the scene this year. It is already 1997, you know, and, December is on its way!

(DM)—Stuffed bell peppers have been a mainstay of American family dinners for decades. The next time they're on your menu, give them a new, intriguing taste. In Sweetly Spiced Stuffed Bell Peppers, the traditional ground beef mixture gets a flavor lift from the addition of raisins and Kikkoman Teriyaki Baste & Glaze. The great taste of bottled teriyaki baste & glaze provides just the right flavor balance to transform this economical entree into a special treat. Add a side dish of fluffy mashed potatoes and no one will be late for dinner again!

SWEETLY SPICED STUFFED BELL PEPPERS

- | | |
|---|--|
| 3 small green bell peppers | 1/3 cup Kikkoman Teriyaki Baste & Glaze |
| 1 pound lean ground beef | 1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions |
| 1 egg, slightly beaten | 3/4 teaspoon garlic powder |
| 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs (about 1 slice) | 1 tablespoon Kikkoman Teriyaki Baste & Glaze |
| 1/3 cup seedless raisins | |

Cut bell peppers lengthwise in half; discard seeds. Thoroughly combine beef, egg, bread crumbs, raisins, 1/3 cup teriyaki baste & glaze, green onions and garlic powder. Stuff each pepper half with equal amount of beef mixture. Measure 3 Tbsp. water in 13- x 9-inch baking pan. Place stuffed peppers in single layer in pan. Cover pan with foil; bake in 375°F. oven 40 minutes. Discard foil; brush tops of beef mixture with 1 Tbsp. teriyaki baste & glaze. Bake 5 minutes longer, or until peppers are tender. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

One in a series of articles assessing producer-funded marketing efforts that help move beef from farm-to-fork.

Promotion Combines Two Family Favorites

If cheese and burgers didn't go so well together, there wouldn't be a word that combines them so naturally. Now, thanks to a joint summer promotion between the beef industry and Kraft Foods, cheese and ground beef will be even more popular, with new beef and cheese recipes for busy families—as well as money-off coupons for ground beef.

The program includes distribution of ground beef and cheese recipes in 15,000 high-volume targeted grocery stores nationwide. As an additional bonus, 100 million 50-cents-off ground beef coupons are being distributed twice during the summer through newspapers across the country and 4.5 million mail-in offers for $1-off ground beef purchases. In addition, more than 2 million beef and Kraft Cheese recipe brochures are available at grocery store cheese cases.

The "Fast Family Favorites" meat case recipe brochure includes Cheese "Steak" Pizza, Beef and Parmesan Pasta, Bistro Cheeseburgers, Beef Chili 'n' Cheddar-Topped Potatoes and Beef and Cheese Burritos. All of the recipes, developed and tested in the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) Culinary Center, are ready in 30 minutes or less and feature versatile ground beef paired with cheese.

Cents-off coupons are being redeemed by Kraft Foods. Additional funding is being provided by beef producers through the national beef checkoff, a $1-per-head assessment collected on animals at the time of marketing. The program is being coordinated by NCBA, a consumer-driven, producer-directed organization representing all segments of the beef cattle industry.

"These kinds of alliances help extend the beef producer's checkoff marketing capabilities and reach," said Ralph Cellon, a beef producer from Alachua, Fla., and chairman of the NCBA Retail Subcommittee. "In addition, they just help sell more beef."

County kids to show at Houston

Ten FFA members from Coke County will be joining other 4-H and FFA members from throughout Texas for show ring competition at the upcoming Houston Livestock Show, February 14 through March 2, at the Astrodome.

These FFA and 4-H exhibitors showcase their animal projects during the second week of livestock competition—the junior show. The first week of competition, the open show, features professional ranchers and breeders from throughout the country exhibiting their breeding stock.

Entries in both the open and junior shows combine with horse show entries to make the Houston Livestock Show the world's largest.

From Robert Lee, Jessica Key and Whitney Montgomery will be competing. Both girls will show in the market barrows division.

Bronte competitors include Brittany Barrett, Shane Briley, Robb Harrell, Kailey Howell, Wes Howell, Danielle Parker, and Dusty White. Brittany will be showing in the market steers and market broilers divisions. Danielle will be showing in market sheep, lambs, and goats, market barrows, and market broilers. Dusty will be showing in the market steers division. Showing in the market barrow division will also be Shane, Kailey and Wes. Robb will also be showing in the market broilers division.

Representing 930 Texas 4-H clubs and FFA chapters, the junior show is expected to exceed 15,000 entries this year. A variety of animals is shown in the junior and youth divisions of livestock competition: market steers, market barrows, market lambs, market poultry, beef and dairy heifers, breeding sheep, goats, commercial steers and breeding rabbits.

The four market animal categories (steers, lambs, barrows and poultry) represent animals raised by the exhibitors as food sources. Top animals in each of these categories are eligible for their individual market auctions. Last year, junior market auction sales totaled $4,425,050.

"Sure, we're proud of the generosity of our auction buyers, but we're even more proud of the thousands of Texas students who spend significant hours of energy, resolve and persistence in working with animal projects. The Houston community welcomes these 4-H and FFA members to our city and looks forward to their arrival in February," said Don Jobes Jr., Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo assistant general manager.

Barrett makes ATI Dean's List

Joni Sue Barrett, daughter of Jolene Henderson of Bronte and Tony Barrett of Norton, is attending America Technical Institute Career Training Center (ATI) in Ft. Worth. ATI is a technical school with many fields of study.

Joni has completed the second semester of study in Medical Assisting. She has completed Administration Front Office Skills, Physiology, and Anatomy with Dean's List honors and a 4.0 grade average. She is currently in the laboratory semester and will complete the Medical Assistant program on her externship, in which she will apply the skills she has achieved into the work fields of the hospitals and doctor's offices. Joni will complete her training in July.

Alcohol could help heart condition

Timothy Erwin is an athlete and a coach in good physical condition. He was surprised to discover a heart defect left him out of breath after doing simple tasks like climbing stairs.

Not quite as shocked, however, as he was when doctors told him his condition could possibly be cured by a shot of alcohol.

Nothing that would make him intoxicated, mind you - it's a new treatment for an inherited and potentially fatal heart condition that kills hundreds of young people every year. The experimental treatment is being tested at The Methodist Hospital, and Erwin was the first to receive it.

Doctors inject a small amount of pure alcohol into blood vessels near the heart to remedy symptoms caused by an overgrown muscle between the heart's pumping chambers.

Erwin, 38, suffers from hypertrophic obstructive cardiomyopathy. This genetic disorder causes the septum, a muscle dividing the right and left chambers of the heart, to become overgrown. Because of the extra muscle, the heart works harder and pumps blood too fast. The bulging muscle also blocks normal blood flow to the rest of the body.

The new procedure involves a simple injection of 100 percent alcohol (ethanol) to the overgrown tissue, which causes cells in the excess muscle to die and shrink. To do this, doctors must send a catheter into blood vessels that feed the offending tissue. They then inject the ethanol into these selected blood vessels.

Erwin is the first patient in the United States to receive this treatment. It was developed two years ago by Dr. Ulrich Sigwart, chief of Invasive Cardiology at the Royal Brompton Hospital in London. Sigwart flew to Houston to observe Erwin's treatment on November 14.

"We hope this treatment will eventually be used instead of open-heart surgery, or a pacemaker that corrects the heart's rhythm," said Sigwart. "In England, we have successfully performed the treatment in 30 people, ranging in age from 14 years old to 80 years old. It's a nice way to avoid a major heart surgery."

Dr. William Spencer, a cardiologist at Methodist and Baylor College of Medicine, performed the procedure on Erwin. He said that not every patient with this condition will qualify for the new procedure.

"It will work only for people whose extra heart tissue is confined to the septum," he said. "And, of course, the patient must be showing some symptoms."

Although doctors have used the procedure in around 100 patients in Britain and Germany, Methodist is the only center in the United States that can offer it at this time. Patients who receive the treatment in Houston will be monitored for at least two and a half years to measure the effectiveness of the treatment.

People who have hypertrophic obstructive cardiomyopathy often have very few symptoms. They can quickly become breathless with minimal exertion, and could have chest pains or even fainting spells.

Dr. Robert Roberts, chief of Cardiology at Methodist and Baylor College of Medicine, said this condition is most often seen in young athletes. "People with this condition make very good athletes, because their heart works better than normal," Roberts said. "But the condition does not usually become dangerous until they reach puberty. And it's tough to diagnose; often there are no symptoms. Often the first symptom is sudden death."

Hundreds of young athletes die suddenly each year in the United States. Most of them die while playing football, basketball or other physically demanding sports. Occasionally a professional player will die suddenly; Roberts said the cause is almost always obstructive cardiomyopathy.

He added the condition becomes particularly dangerous when an athlete allows him or herself to become dehydrated. "That's why more of these deaths occur in a sport such as football, and in the Southern region of the country," he said. "Taking in a lot of fluids while playing a sport is important for other aspects of health, but for people who do not know they have this condition, it could save their lives."

In London, a sign over a store that sells fireplace fixtures proclaims: "Amazing Grates".

A manual for people who run consignment shops is entitled Too Good to Be Threw.
