County receives more moisture

by Hal Spain, Publisher
On Monday and Tuesday, March 15 and 16, the rain and the cold came again to Coke County. Early reports include approximately .75" to .80" on the west side, and from 40" to .80" on the east side of the county. Most of the rainfall from this storm fell very slowly, with the result being that soils are saturated, and fields are muddy.

What is amazing about this winter's moisture is that many locations in Coke County are now boasting over 8 inches of moisture in the new year. Contrast that to almost none at this same time for the previous two winters.

This year is shaping up well for winter wheat pastures and anyone who likes wildflowers, especially bluebonnets. We are expecting quite an array of color on the roadsides, somewhere around April 15, depending on soil temperatures. Hopefully we'll have enough color to bring some visitors back to the county after a pretty slim couple of years.

We are also looking forward to reviving the Bluebonnet Brigade once again this spring; so we can spread some more seed to some different locations. Stay tuned for more information concerning our bluebonnet endeavors.

County citizens attend area meeting

An interested group of Coke County citizens attended a meeting held Tuesday, March 2, in Abilene.

Gary Decker of Rebuilding Stamford presented a program on how individuals working together can make a difference in their community. By joining forces, yards and vacant lots can be cleaned up, illegal dump sites removed and the over-all appearance of the community can be improved dramatically.

Citizens attending were Tammy Thorn, Bobby Blaylock, Marshall Millican, Kay Torres, John Driggers, Pete Percifull, Cynthia Turner, John Jacobs, Pat Martindale, Beth Prather and Joe White.

Youth Leadership Conference entry deadline April 30

The United States has the best economic structure and best form of government in the world. The legacy of the Texas Farm Bureau Youth Leadership Conference is teaching young people how they can become involved in the system.

Farm Bureau is once again looking for young men and women to attend the 2010 Youth Leadership Conference, scheduled for June 14-18 at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

Eligible students, who will be entering the 11th or 12th grade in August 2010, are selected by their county Farm Bureaus. Those students must possess good character and the desire to enhance their leadership skills. They should be in the upper 30 percent of their class scholastically. Students who have attended previous Youth Leadership Conferences are not eligible unless they have been selected as a junior counselor.

The topic of free enterprise, constitutional government, leadership, goal setting, family and self-awareness will be explored during the week-long seminar.

A student does not have to be a Farm Bureau member to attend the conference, but must become a member to compete in the Free Enterprise Speech Contest. The contest begins with giving five local speeches on free enterprise. This enables the entrant to be eligible for the district competition. The Free Enterprise Speech contest scholarships at the state level include $4,000 for the winner, $2,500 for the runner-up, $1,500 each for the four finalists and $1,000 each for the remaining seven district winners.

Deadline for application is April 30. For more information contact the Coke-Sterling County Farm Bureau office at (325)453-4505.

Texas Mesquite Art Festival slated

The Texas Mesquite Art Festival is returning to San Angelo, on April 16-18th and promises to showcase the best mesquite artisans.

Roger Ellison, San Angelo Festival Director, said many juried artists from around the state and beyond will gather at Fort Concho for a 3 day celebration of the exquisite and attractive mesquite. "Besides seeing the absolute best of mesquite, visitors will enjoy one of the largest gatherings of mesquite artisans," Ellison said.

The festival, like mesquite wood itself, has come a long way since the first Fest, which was held in Fredericksburg, Texas in 1992, and is still going strong today.

County Citizens Attend Meeting! These Coke County citizens attended a meeting in Abilene on March 2. The program discussed ways individuals could work together to improve their communities.

Visitors will be treated to collections of sculpted wood from the world's absolute finest mesquite craftsmen. Items range from large furniture items such as beds, dressers and chairs made entirely from mesquite, to unique craft and gift items such as beautifully turned lamps, delicate scroll work, handsome pen and pencil sets, unique Christmas tree ornaments, sturdy gun stocks, sculpted vases, and dimensionalized artwork, all carefully crafted of mesquite.

Once viewed as a nuisance, mesquite has become the darling of architects and retailers. Mesquite's growing appeal comes in part from the high profile offered by the Texas Mesquite Association and have both festivals, according to Ellison. Articles praising mesquite's quality and value have appeared in such magazines as "Texas Highways," "Veranda," and "Fine Woodworking."

Architects now vie to install mesquite accents in upscale homes," Ellison said. Mantles, doors, flooring, art items, dining sets, tables, and other furniture are increasingly requested in mesquite.

Hours are Friday, 4:00 pm-9:00 pm; Saturday, 10:00-6:00 pm and Sunday, 10:00 am-4 pm. Items are available for purchase, with food and drink sold on the grounds. Free parking.

More information on the Texas Mesquite Art Festival and the Association is available by calling the Fest office toll free at 1-866-TEX-FEST (839-3378).

Hope in God for unseen

For we are saved by hope: but hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for? But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it. • Romans 8:24-25

Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life. • Proverbs 13:12

The Lord is my portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in Him. • Lamentations 3:24

Why art thou cast down, o my soul? And why art thou disquieted within me? Hope in God: for I shall yet praise Him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God. • Psalm 42:11

The hope of the righteous shall be gladness: but the expectation of the wicked shall perish. • Proverbs 10:28

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. For by it the elders obtained a good report. Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the Word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear. • Hebrews 11:1-3

Programs to build beef demand

Cattle Conference
The 2010 Cattle Industry Conference and National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) Trade Show came to Texas this year! The conference was held in San Antonio and brought thousands of beef producers from across the country together to make decisions on nationally checkoff-funded programs and appoint producers to leadership roles. The Texas Beef Council (TBC) showcased its mobile marketing unit, The Ultimate Backyard, in the trade show giving producers a glimpse into the consumer promotions and events marketing their checkoff dollars fund. Richard Wortham, TBC executive vice president, was featured on NCBA's Cattlemen to Cattlemen television show airing live on RFD TV. Wortham shared the stage with other Texas beef industry leaders where the discussion focused on the state of Texas beef industry.

Lean Beef Retail Promotion

The Texas beef checkoff recently partnered with HEB grocery stores for a beef promotion to encourage shoppers to choose lean proteins such as lean beef while shopping the meat case. The checkoff-funded "29 Ways to Love Lean Beef" nutritional information was included in the promotion along with meat case displays and on-package labels. The campaign promoted health and wellness for the New Year in 88 HEB stores across Texas. Showcasing lean beef's role in optimal health remains a focus for the Texas Beef Council.

Beef Showcase

The Texas Beef Council (TBC) recently partnered with Texas Farm Bureau to showcase beef at the Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo. During the first two weekends of the show TBC was featured in the Planet Agriculture exhibit conducting five "Kids in the Kitchen" cooking demonstrations. The interactive sessions give children and parents an opportunity to participate in the recipe demonstration and play the beef trivia game for a chance to win "Beef. It's What's for Dinner" prizes. TBC distributed over 1,200 beef samples and nearly 8,000 beef recipes and nutrition information.

Job Well Done, Guys!

Outlook Fair for Spring Turkey Season

Hunters should temper expectations for this spring's turkey season after back-to-back years of dry conditions negatively impacted nesting success across much of Texas, resulting in fewer gobblers on the ground.

The good news is 2007 produced a bumper crop of birds and that carryover of mature toms in South Texas and the Hill Country, combined with excellent nesting habitat conditions this year, could result in above-normal breeding activity.

TPWD estimates about 72,000 hunters take part in Texas' spring turkey season and take about 25,000 gobblers. Most of the state's spring turkey hunting activity occurs in South Texas and in the Hill Country, where Texas Parks and Wildlife Department turkey program leader Jason Hardin noted timely rainfall could give the bird population a boost.

"I expect there will be enough older birds to keep the season interesting," predicts Hardin. "All of the moisture we have had this winter is setting the stage for an early hatch. If the moisture continues I expect the population to boom in these areas and get us back on track."

Rio Grande spring turkey hunting season opens in the North Zone, which includes Coke County, April 3 and runs through May 16. Special youth-only weekends are set for March 27-28 and May 22-23. The South Zone opens March 20 and runs through May 2, with youth-only weekends set for March 13-14 and May 8-9.

A special one-gobbler-only Rio Grande spring season is set for April 1-30 in 8 counties, including: Bastrop, Caldwell, Colorado, Fayette, Jackson, Lavaca, Lee and Milam counties.

TPWD biologist Ralph Suarez in Ballinger is based along a transitional area between the northern Hill Country, southern Rolling Plains and western cross timbers. He says that they have had near record moisture this winter and that he is seeing a lot of green weeds already. Suarez is predicting an early start to the nesting season, however, he expects the overall number of gobblers to be down this season due to the past two years of drought.

Gene T. Miller, TPWD biologist in Canyon, says that production has been better in his area of the Panhandle than farther south in Texas and he expects to have a decent crop of 2, 3, and 4-year old birds in the eastern Panhandle. Miller advises the later you hunt in the season the more productive the hunting should be.

"From what I have seen in the Rolling Plains I tend to agree with Gene," says Hardin. "We have seen a fair number of jakes over the last two years. They have not had a boom year since 2007, but they have had more moisture than the rest of the Rio range. This year is shaping up to be a boom year. We just need this moisture to continue. All this moisture should lead to great productions."

The Trans-Pecos region also looks pretty good, according to Philip Dickerson, TPWD biologist in Alpine, who commented that staff saw quite a few flocks while flying mule deer surveys and that 2008 reproduction was pretty good. "There appeared to have been good numbers of birds in 2009 on many of the ranches I contacted about turkeys," Dickerson says.

"Overall the habitat conditions are very good across the region. With decent production in 2009 and the excellent wet conditions we've had, the hens should have no problem getting into nesting condition this spring."

Hardin notes that those ranches that adapted to the recent droughts by reducing stocking rates and maintaining adequate cover should have the most rapid and positive responses to the recent moisture. However, birds will be well distributed with an early production of forbs. Again, Rio Grande turkeys should be in excellent condition range wide.

East Texas is moving along at a usual pace, according to TPWD district biologist Gary Calkins in Jasper, who predicts a normal year. He is expecting nesting to get somewhat of a late start due to the fact East Texas actually got some winter weather this year. "We did see a fair amount of production in 2009," Calkins notes. "I think hunters will see a fair number of jakes this season."

Statewide regulations allow the use of shotgun, rifle, handgun, legal archery equipment or crossbow to take Rio Grande turkey; however, individual landowners and public hunting areas may further restrict the devices to be used.

The bag limit for Rio Grande turkey is four turkeys per license year. Regulations and bag limits vary by county, so check the county specific rules where you are hunting. Only gobblers are allowed to be harvested during the spring hunting season. Consult the 2009-10 Outdoor Annual for season dates and bag limits in your area.

Need a place to hunt? TPWD's public hunting program offers the opportunity to participate in low cost, family oriented, spontaneous hunts for turkeys. Each year, the department publishes maps of more than 1 million acres of public hunting lands. Access for turkey hunting is provided by the Annual Public Hunting (APH) Permit.

The permit costs $48 and may be purchased wherever hunting licenses are sold, and allows an adult access to designated public hunting lands. Having purchased the appropriate Texas hunting licenses and stamps, holders of an APH Permit may take children under age 17 hunting free of charge on these public hunting lands.
