

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"THE POWER OF EXAMPLE" LAST SUNDAY'S THEME.

Golden Text: "And Abimelech Took an Axe in His Hand and Cut Down a Branch from the Tree and Laid It on His Shoulder"—Jud. 16, 18.

BIMELECH is a name malodorous in Bible history, and yet full of profitable suggestion.

From the piazza of my summer home, night by night, I saw a lighthouse fifteen miles away, not placed there for adornment, but to tell mariners to stand off from that dangerous point.

As I look over the city, I can find only one building standing, and that is the temple of the god Berith.

It is the temple of the god Berith. Some soldiers outside of the city in a tower, finding that he can no longer defend Shechem, now begin to look out for their own personal safety.

Now I learn first from this subject, the folly of depending upon any one form of tactics in anything we have to do for this world or for God.

BEAUTY AND TALENT.

STAGE WOMEN CONSPICUOUS FOR BOTH CHARMS.

Bertha Creighton Foremost Among Them —Maxime Elliot Has Charmed London and Boston and New York —Poor Rose Norreys and Her Sad Affliction.

Bertha Creighton is one of the most beautiful women that has appeared in America since she arrived in this fall, and she was a thing especially, and that is, that while more beautiful than she was a year ago she is more the beauty of the theater.

Evolution takes place in every pretty woman who adopts the theater as a profession. It is as unavoidable as that her face should grow in mobility, her figure in flexibility.

Two American actresses have tried "Denise," both hampered by poor versions. There was the production at Daly's theater, New York, ten years ago, when Clara Morris played "Denise," supported by Joseph Haworth.

There has not been for many a day so sad a case in the annals of things theatrical, as that of Rose Norreys, whose pretty face is the last of the list.

There has been for many a day so sad a case in the annals of things theatrical, as that of Rose Norreys, whose pretty face is the last of the list.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

SOME INSTRUCTIVE ETCHINGS FOR OUR JUNIOR READERS.

"My Little Girl"—Two Young Journalists Shifted the Blame—Where He Drew the Line Wanted to Borrow Him Awhille—A Bird's Act.

"My little girl is nestled within her tiny bed, with amber ringlets around her dainty head; she lies so calm and still, she breathes so soft and low, she calls to mind a lily.

A weary little mortal has gone to slumberland; the Pixies at the portal have caught her by the hand; she dreams her broken day; will soon be mended there, that looks so melancholy upon the rocking-chair.

I kiss your wayward tresses, my drowsy little queen; from floating forms unseen; O, angels let me keep his eyes; to kiss away my cares, this darling little sleeper.

Who has my love and prayers. —Samuel Maynard Peck.

Two young journalists in the United States are two young lads known as the Snow brothers.

Both junior editors are very bright, and it did not take them long to learn the art of typesetting and printing.

The Star News is patronized by the leading merchants of the town, where the paper is published.

A general Philadelphian, who for obvious reasons does not care to have his name printed on this occasion.

He is a charming little fellow of four, pretty in his ways, good to look at, and as naughty as they are made.

He is a charming little fellow of four, pretty in his ways, good to look at, and as naughty as they are made.

He is a charming little fellow of four, pretty in his ways, good to look at, and as naughty as they are made.

He is a charming little fellow of four, pretty in his ways, good to look at, and as naughty as they are made.

He is a charming little fellow of four, pretty in his ways, good to look at, and as naughty as they are made.

He is a charming little fellow of four, pretty in his ways, good to look at, and as naughty as they are made.

FOUNTS ON THE YUKON.

England Preparing to Hold District Territory in the Pacific Northwest.

A party of miners from the headwaters of the Yukon have arrived on the steamer Mary Hulme from Gonaiah.

A bird poisons her young. It has been claimed by observers of birds that some of the feathered tribe will feed their young if they are asked, and if they fall after a certain time to release them will bring them a poisoned morsel to eat.

In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to a military exercise.

A double suicide, which shocked Paris the other day, brought to the attention of the public the financial straits in which it is said the majority of the physicians of that city live.

A French savant has discovered that many perfumes aid health by destroying disease microbes.

Luigi Arditi, the famous Italian opera conductor, has written his reminiscences.

The United States consul general at Berlin, Charles De Kay, has organized a fencing club in that city.

Mrs. Orr, an inmate of Kingston, Ont., house of industry, is now 110 years old. She has just been baptized.

George Moore, a working miner of Grand Ronde, Wash., has just celebrated his one hundred and second birthday.

Governor Boutwell owns one of the largest and best farms in Middlesex county, Massachusetts, the "Chestnut Hills farm," in the town of Grotton.

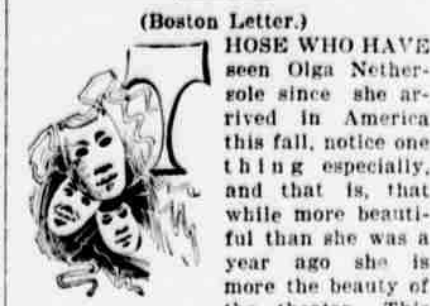

Rev. Eugene A. Hoffman, dean of the General Theological seminary, New York, has given $20,000 to St. Luke's hospital for a room for the treatment of Protestant clergymen.

Miss Balfour, sister of the leader of the House of Commons, reads all the principal newspapers, and a week of it marks whatever she thinks worthy of use to her brother and his colleagues.

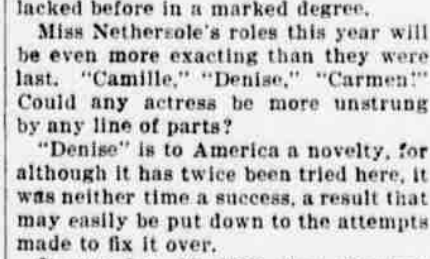

Lord Francis Hope, brother of the Duke of Newcastle and heir presumptive to the dukedom, was granted a discharge in bankruptcy in the London bankruptcy court Thursday, subject to his payment of 10 shillings in the pound of his liabilities, which amount to £257,542, or about $3,250,000.

Rev. Peter Mackenzie, who died lately in London, was once stopped by a highwayman who demanded money. The minister offered him a half crown and that not being accepted doffed his coat and gave him what the man now describes as a "dashed good looking." The highwayman subsequently became one of Dr. Mackenzie's converts.

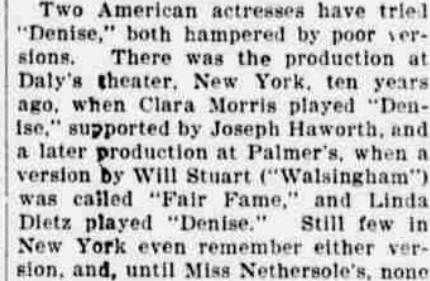

The air is clear at Annapolis, Perm from the observatory at that place, 5054 feet above the sea, a black spot one inch in diameter, placed on a white disc, had been seen on Mount Churchard, a distance of eleven miles, through a telescope.

Bertha Creighton Foremost Among Them

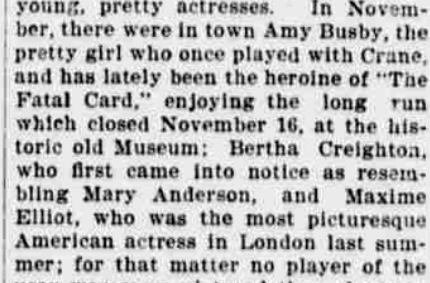

Maxime Elliot Has Charmed London and Boston and New York

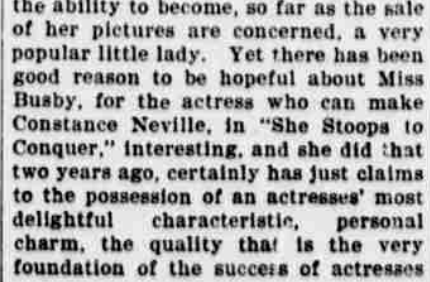

Rose Norreys and Her Sad Affliction

Bertha Creighton

Maxime Elliot

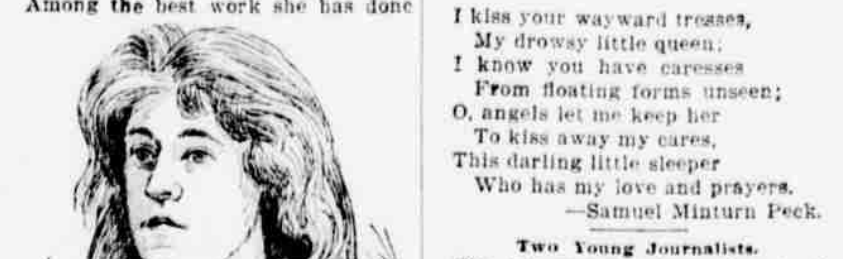

Rose Norreys

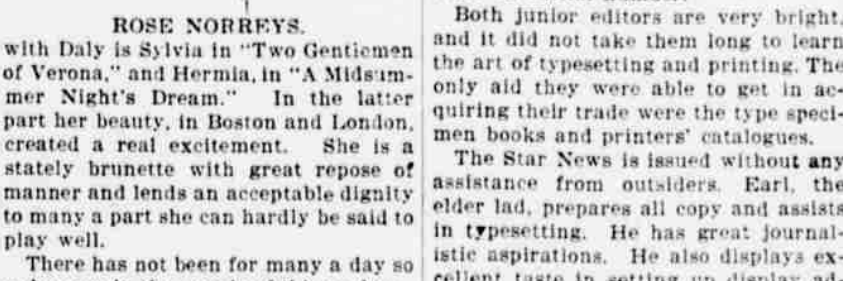

Bertha Creighton

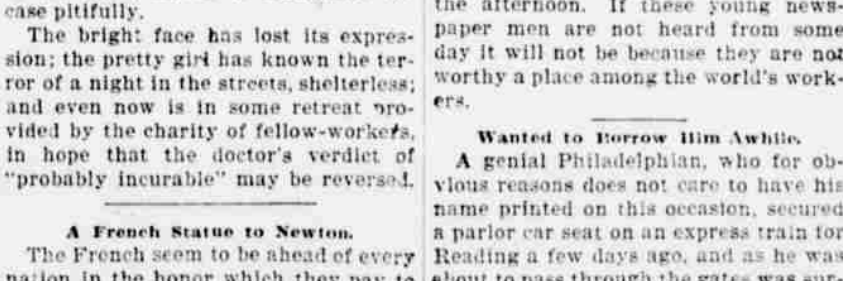

Bertha Creighton

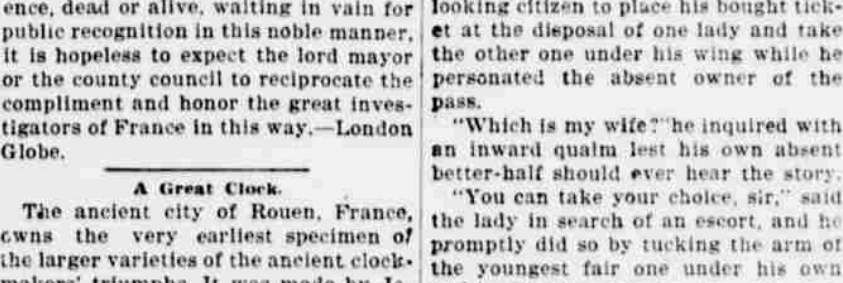

Maxime Elliot

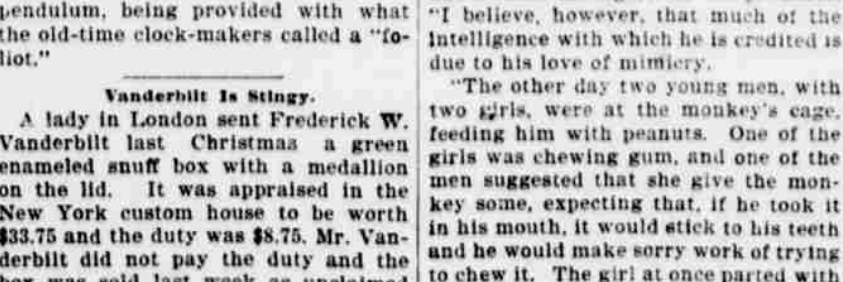

Rose Norreys

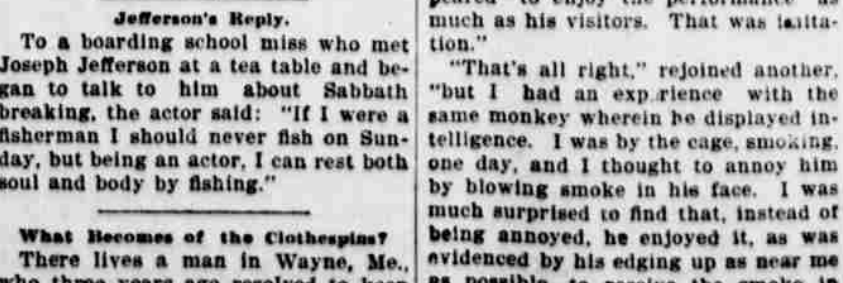

Bertha Creighton

Maxime Elliot

Rose Norreys

Bertha Creighton

